

Injunction Bans Trial In City Ct.

Defendant Claims Police Judge Not Eligible for Case

The right of Police Judge Earl Blackburn, of Prestonsburg, to preside in the trial of a drunk driving case here last Tuesday was challenged in a circuit court action requesting an order enjoining the judge on the ground that he is not an attorney-at-law and, therefore, is not qualified as a trial judge.

The case is the third of its kind to be filed in Kentucky in recent weeks, and all three pose a challenge to the future effectiveness of the courts under attack.

Last week's action was filed by Carl Edward Allen, of Pyramid, whose trial on a charge of drunk driving was scheduled at 9 a.m. last Tuesday in police court.

It was an aftermath of the Harlan case in which Police Judge Stanley Ditty was permanently enjoined by Circuit Judge Edward G. Hill from trying criminal cases because he is not an attorney. In Graves county, more recently, County Judge Castleman was temporarily enjoined on similar grounds from presiding in the trial of a liquor case but was given temporary authority to hear other criminal cases. An Owsley county woman has asked the Supreme Court to determine if lower-court judges should have a "knowledge of the law."

In the case here Allen pointed out that he had been previously convicted of drunk driving but that the conviction is being appealed. Regardless of that appeal, he claimed a second conviction could send him to jail for six months.

His petition points out that Kentucky law (KRS 26.140 and KRS 26.150, as amended) requires a police judge of a first- or second-class city to be an attorney.

No Charge Lodged Against Melvin Man

No charge was placed against Alvin Caudill, of Melvin, in the hunting death Aug. 23 in Fleming county of Northern Brown, 55, of Virgie, after a coroner's jury last week held the shooting was "negligently accidental."

Caudill, who was hospitalized at Fleming County Hospital, suffering from shock, was taken from the hospital to attend the inquest. Coroner Bob Jones, of Fleming county, said Caudill is also suffering from a heart condition. He complained of chest pains after the death of Brown, who was his cousin and an ordained Regular Baptist minister.

Caudill said he fired when he mistook Brown for a groundhog. The inquest findings will be submitted to the October grand jury at Flemingsburg, the coroner said.

MAN WHO WAS JAILED NOT HAROLD RESIDENT

The Astor Hall who was listed in The Times last week as having been jailed here on a drunk driving charge is not the Astor Hall who lives at Harold and works for Columbia Gas Transmission. The address of the man who was arrested was not given on jail records.

Governor Suspends Permits Of Seven Area Strip-Mines

In a scathing denunciation of strip-mining practices in Eastern Kentucky and official neglect of the enforcement of surface mining regulations, Gov. Wendell H. Ford last Wednesday took the strongest stand of any Kentucky governor on the controversial mining subject and at the same time suspended the permits of seven strip-mining operations in Pike county.

At least three of the suspended operations are in the Johns Creek watershed, on streams feeding into Dewey Lake.

At a joint press conference in Frankfort last Wednesday Governor Ford and Natural Resources Commissioner Thomas Harris issued statements criticizing the work of "irresponsible strip-mine operators and irresponsible public officials."

The governor said reports made to him by Harris after the latter had made a mine-inspection trip into Eastern Kentucky "are the most disgusting and appalling revelations I have ever witnessed in my public life."

"Often," he said, "you have heard the phrase, 'rape of our mountains.' That phrase, in my judgment, isn't strong enough to describe what Commissioner Harris has found."

The three Johns Creek operations closed down are these, according to Reclamation Division records:

Miss Little, UK Junior, Wins "Miss Floyd County" Crown

The dream came true Saturday night for an area young woman when she was crowned Miss Floyd County of 1972. The winner's trophy was presented to Miss Miki Jane Little, 19-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Little, of Melvin. She also captured the silver awards for the evening gown and swimsuit competition.

Miki is a junior at the University of Kentucky, and was sponsored by the Beaver Valley Kiwanis Club. At the conclusion of the evening, which included evening gown and swimsuit competition and talent presentations, she was crowned by Miss Floyd County of 1971 by Miss Rhonda Gale Hall, of Betsy Layne, the 1971 queen.

A record crowd was on hand at Prestonsburg high school Saturday when the Prestonsburg Junior Woman's Club presented its ninth annual Miss Floyd County Scholarship Pageant.

Miss Robin Hope Conn was the winner of the first runnerup trophy. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Darvene Conn, of Betsy Layne, and was sponsored by the Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad.

Other runnerups were: second, Miss Suzanne Keathly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Howard Keathly, of Allen, sponsored by the Allen Woman's Club and winner of the talent competition; third, Miss Denise Lor Ison, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burt Allen, of Martin, sponsored by the Martin Kiwanis Club, and, fourth, Miss Teresa Ann Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Martin, of Drift, sponsored by the Drift Woman's Club. Miss Martin was chose by her fellow-contestants as Miss Congeniality.

The hardest job of the evening was that of the panel of judges. Their assignment was to choose one winner from 11 of the county's loveliest girls. The panel included Mrs. Betty Butler, of Lexington, M. E. "Gene" Deaton, of Morehead, and Dr. Charles Wethington, of Lexington. After each competition, the judges gave their voting cards to the auditors who tallied the votes. These auditors were Phillip Damron, of the law firm of Latta and Damron, of Prestonsburg, and William J. May, an associate of the accounting firm of Lawton Allen, of Prestonsburg.

Master of ceremonies and guest-vocalist for the evening was Steven Hale, a member (See Story 6, Back Page, Sec. 1)

Report Hints Merger For Bonanza School

The Division of Buildings and Grounds, State Department of Education, has for the first time turned down a request for approval of a Floyd county school facility, the Floyd County Board of Education was told at Saturday's meeting by Superintendent of Schools Charles Clark.

The proposed improvement involved indoor toilets and plumbing for water at the Bonanza school. The original construction estimate was approximately $13,000, but Architect George Lee Shannon's later estimate was twice that. When the board received bids on the work last month Tom O. McGuire, Prestonsburg contractor, was low with a bid of $29,000.

The board awaited approval from the state division, and when word came it was to the effect that it could not approve a project of that cost for Bonanza.

In fact, said a spokesman of the Division of Buildings and Grounds, a recommendation has been made following a recent facilities survey that Bonanza be consolidated with Clark or Prestonsburg elementary schools, or both. Consolidation was recommended "at all possible speed." The report pointed out that Bonanza has dropped from a four-teacher to a two-teacher school and that its enrollment is expected to continue to drop.

A delay in awarding a contract on construction of a building to house classrooms, a lunchroom and library at the Betsy Layne elementary school was encountered because of a procedural change in setting a wage scale to meet Title I approval. The board of education extended the time for bidding and for awarding a contract till the October board meeting. The building will replace the structure destroyed there by fire.

The board authorized Supt. Clark to negotiate a contract with Alice Lloyd College permitting the college the use of the Wayland gymnasium for practise sessions and some games. The contract will include a provision that ALC's use of the gym will not conflict with Allen Central high school

The mining town of David may have produced its last car of coal, it was said this week as all machinery of the Patsy Development Company was being pulled from the workings.

Closing of the operation idles 90 workers. At the peak of production, when operated by the Princess Elkhorn Division of Princess Coals, Inc., the mines employed 500.

Harmon Tussey, superintendent of Patsy Development's David operations, said all equipment is already out of the mines with the exception of beltlines and miscellaneous items. The work of removing last of the machinery is expected to be completed within a week.

The No. 2 tipple there will continue to be in use, it was said, for the loading of strip-and auger-mined coal from Magoffin county. A firm headed by Fon Johnson, of Pike county, is surface mining in the headwaters section of Licking River, and the coal will be trucked across the mountain to the David tipple.

Mr. Tussey said there are several million tons of coal unmined in the Buckeye section of Middle Creek, near David, but that it is of high sulphur content. He predicted that this coal reserve will not be worked until an effective and economically practicable method of removing the sulphur is developed.

It was high sulphur content of the coal that ran afoul of air pollution regulations and made continued mining at David impracticable. "The coal severance tax didn't help," Tussey added.

Equipment used in the David workings will probably be sold. The Fairchild Equipment Co., Beckley, W. Va., has been appraising it as it was removed from the mines.

One Serious Injury Reported in County

As of Monday afternoon only two traffic accidents had been reported for the county, despite the usual heavy flow of Labor Day week-end traffic.

Bruce Branham was seriously injured Saturday afternoon in the worst of the mishaps, when the automobile in which he was riding left the Abbott Creek road, at the Tom Hill residence, and struck a tree. The driver of the vehicle, Jake Meade, escaped with minor injuries while another passenger, Clarence Greer, suffered facial lacerations. Branham and Greer were taken to the University of Kentucky Medical Center at Lexington, where they remain. Branham's condition is still listed as serious. All three of the men are residents of the Abbott Creek section.

In another week-end mishap, Ricky Reynolds, of Allen, suffered a chipped vertebra when the car he was driving went out of control on the Ball Alley curve, ramming into the hillside. Reynolds was taken to the Prestonsburg General hospital.

Labor Day. Monday. Long weekend. Says who? These Monday holidays are killing us! To print a newspaper no later than Tuesday night, we have to work Mondays, whether they're Labor Day or Guy Fawkes Day, and if you think scraping up a bit of news on a Monday when regular sources are locked up for the holiday and the irregular ones are out skylarking isn't something more than a simple chore, I invite you to come around and try it sometime.

The newspapers have had several items during recent weeks about the hog cholera outbreak in other parts of Kentucky. ## Where To Be, Come October

October's "winegold weather" is more than a month away, but three events scheduled in Eastern Kentucky need mentioning now so that families may plan to attend.

The week-end of Oct. 6-7 is Apple Festival time in Paintsville, the Daniel Boone Festival will be held in Barbourville Oct. 11-14, and the Morgan County Sorghum Festival will be held in West Liberty Oct. 13-14.

Johnson county's homage to apples is an eight-year tradition. Almost everyone who attends Apple Day returns the following year with his friends and relatives. An estimated 50,000 people turned out for last year's event.

The big attraction is apples, and the many things Johnson countians can do with them. They cook apples, fry and dry them, make them into dolls, parade them, sell and give them away.

Elmon Davis, festival chairman, said "At least 40 booths will be open in downtown Paintsville on Apply Day, each selling toothsome apple products."

Church groups, civic clubs, scouts and other Johnson county organizations work year round to ensure the continued success of an event that began with a few apple displays in store windows.

A new Kentucky Apple Queen will be chosen Sept. 9 to reign over this year's festival, succeeding the 1971 queen Miss Rhonda Hall.

Invited celebrities will auction off apples as part of an event that will include an antique car show, flea markets, dog shows, arts and crafts displays, baton twirling and other contests.

No less exciting will be the Daniel Boone Festival, when Barbourville and Knox County again smoke the peace pipe with the Cherokees.

When Daniel Boone came over the Cumberland Mountains to Kentucky, he began a migration that would one day force the red man into reservations to the south.

"It was this retirement of red men across the mountains and the settlement of the land of the great meadow by white men that formed a basis for the festival," said Dr. Karl Bleyl, former biology professor at Union College, who began the event. "Such history needed to be perpetuated. Back then we in Barbourville felt that the festival would help the Cherokees in that they were invited to harvest cane crops free."

This year's festival will include a parade, contests and shooting exhibitions by the governor's Corps of Long Riflemen. Local citizens and others will wear the buckskin replicas of Boone's day, long calico dresses and bonnets—maybe even a few Indian head dresses.

When West Liberty and Morgan county hang out the latchstring for the second annual Sorghum Festival, they will also begin a year-long celebration of the county's 150th birthday.

Plans to form the county were completed in 1822. When it became part of the commonwealth in 1823, commissioners who had fought with Gen. Daniel Morgan in the Revolutionary War honored him by giving the new county his name.

New Penal Code Regarded Unfair On Some Points

Guy A. Bayes, legal researcher for the Kentucky Law Enforcement Council, expressed the opinion at a seminar here last Wednesday that some provisions of the new Kentucky penal code are unfair to peace officers who must make split-second decisions.

He pointed out that, although the code will extend the situations in which a homeowner may use force, or even kill to protect his life or property, it at the same time would limit a police officer to the same defense.

Bayes spoke at a regional seminar held at May Lodge for law-enforcement officials.

Bayes said the code allows a person to use deadly force if he believes it is necessary to protect himself against death, serious injury, kidnapping or sexual assault.

A homeowner also could employ deadly force if he caught someone attempting to burglarize or destroy his property, Bayes said.

Under such circumstances, he said, the action would rest solely on belief and it wouldn't be necessary for an individual to prove he had grounds for such action.

On the other hand, he said, a policeman could use deadly force only to stop a crime that also involved the threat or use of deadly force and in which human life was believed to be in danger.

Presently (prior to adoption of new code), he said, a policeman may use deadly force in any case involving a felony, although some police departments impose limitations on the use of force beyond that stated in the law.

Bayes said he thought the change under the code would encourage and increase certain kinds of criminal activity such as nighttime bank robberies in which the robber was unarmed.

The code, passed by the 1972 Kentucky General Assembly and signed by Gov. Wendell Ford, is subject to further revision during the next legislative session and is not scheduled to take effect until July 1, 1974.

17 Million in U. S. Suffer with Arthritis

17 million people in the United States suffer from some kind of arthritis. Arthritis in its many forms claims 250,000 new victims every year. Arthritis strikes one in 11 Americans, one out of four families. No respecter of age, arthritis claims its victims from all ages. Arthritis attacks infants and children. There are at least 250,000 children in the U. S. today who have juvenile rheumatoid arthritis. The most painful and crippling kind of arthritis, rheumatoid arthritis, accounts for more than 5 million victims—most of whom were first struck with the disease between 20 and 45. Three times more women than men suffer from arthritis. Arthritis costs Americans more than $1.7 billion a year in lost wages. More than $400 million is wasted annually on worthless arthritis "cures." Only a fraction of that amount, $15 million a year, is invested in arthritis research and professional training for arthritis specialists.

Good News 'from the Top'

THE TIMES congratulates Governor Wendell Ford and his commissioner of natural resources, Thomas Harris, on the bold stand they have jointly taken to enforce the laws governing strip-mining.

It is heartening to hear "from the top" what most of us nearer "the bottom" have known, all along—that Eastern Kentucky has been gutted and not sewn up after the operation.

It is encouraging to know that Governor Ford is throwing the weight of his office behind Commissioner Harris, who is committed to the enforcement of laws which would have afforded this part of Kentucky at least some protection from the very first, except for the fact that the law has been ignored.

America must have coal. Nobody denies that. The business of getting that coal is a great industry, providing men jobs, making possible the production of electric power, generally contributing to the American way of life (which, others to the contrary, is the best on this sphere which we inhabit).

But coal need not destroy as it contributes. And surface mining in a mountainous area such as this does just that. You can't recap a mountain-top, nor can you rehabilitate a tree. Steep hillsides and gravity, with rainfall for an ally, make a combine too powerful to control.

The governor and commissioner rightly demand that if surface-mine operators cannot, or will not, comply with the regulations under which they are enjoined to operate, they must not operate at all.

This will cost some men jobs. But if deep mines take the place of these surface operations they and many more will find work a-plenty to do. Electric power bills may be higher, as a consequence, but the price will not be too great to pay.

Commissioner Harris was shocked by what he saw on his recent visit to Eastern Kentucky. "Disgusting and appalling" was his comment.

May he and Governor Ford never forget those words and the spectacle that prompted them during the months ahead when they will find the pressure mounting from those who find the prospect of staying within this law appalling.

Goodbye, Please . . .

(An editorial in The Kentucky Labor News)

Angela Davis has flown to Moscow, and she is quoted in the press dispatches as saying it is "wonderful to be on the soil of the Soviet Union." Miss Davis, who has been acquitted of murder, kidnapping and conspiracy charges, said she owed her freedom to an international campaign in her behalf led by RUSSIA!

This comes as considerable relief to those of us who felt she was free because of the cowardice and stupidity of a California jury. Most Americans had not been aware of the fact that Communists, like Angela Davis, could be released in American courts because of Russia, but she says it is so.

At any rate, it is welcome news to most Americans to learn that Angela Davis finds Russia to be "wonderful." With such happy and hospitable treatment, she should make Russia her permanent home. Beyond doubt, the vast lands of Russia in Europe and Asia would well accommodate Angela Davis and all other Communists in the United States who might rejoice in the temporary accolade that welcomes all traitors.

After the flowers of welcome have wilted away, Miss Angela Davis—who does love freedom so—should arrange to hear the pleas from the hundreds of thousands of Jews who desperately wish to leave communist Russia, but who are not allowed to do so. And, while she is praised for her "fight for social justice," she may wish to dabble over into Hungary and Czechoslovakia and see what has been done for "justice" with the unions in these countries. (We had Mr. Mirko Sedlak, a Czech trade union journalist, as our guest several years ago, and the Russian "justice" he saw caused him to seek citizenship in the United States!)

We have heard in Israel of African unionists who attended workers school in Russia. They were given the big ceremony—at first—and then they were discriminated against—by the Russian "freedom lovers" in a manner that they will not soon forget. African unionists prefer the real hospitality they receive in the democracy of Israel to the push-button pomp they get and quickly lose in the new land of Angela Davis. It is to the everlasting credit of the American black community that a very small percentage of black Americans become Communists. Paul Robeson and Angela Davis are representing a very small minority group in the black race. In spite of the injustices suffered by the American Negro, commie organizers have found the overwhelming majority of blacks to be loyal, patriotic citizens who prefer to correct abuses through methods other than defection to Russia.

We DO hope that Angela Davis is sincere enough in her love for Russia to want to stay and encourage her comrades to join her. It would be a great MOVEMENT for us all.

width, and allowing spoil material in stream and over outslope. Incorporated Dec. 15, 1971, by Travis M. Bush, Frankfort.

Island Creek Coal Co., Holden W. Va.; operation near Elkins Branch; charged with stripping on auger permit, excessive bench width, stripping off permitted area, spoil material off permit area, silt structures not built, no culverts in access road, and no permit sign. Ray Branham was listed as the local representative. Island Creek, with offices in Cleveland, qualified to do business in Kentucky in 1968, according to secretary of state's records.

The suspension orders require the operators to remedy the violations and in some cases call for civil penalties of at least $100 a day.

In addition, Harris said he plans to file lawsuits against Barber and Childers Construction Co., Paintsville, for failing to do reclamation work and against three other coal operators, as yet unknown, who are believed to have stripped and abandoned areas without obtaining state permits.

Harris said he has not yet had time to decide on details of the further investigation to be conducted by the state Reclamation Commission, composed of himself, Mines and Minerals Commissioner Harrel Kirkpatrick and Fish and Wildlife Commissioner Arnold Mitchell.

A departmental attorney said later another order suspending a permit is expected to be issued soon against Childers Drilling Co., Pikeville, for an operation on Taylor Fork in Pike county. A notice of noncompliance, charging excessive bench width, lack of silt structures, stripping on an auger permit, and allowing spoil on a power line easement, already has been issued.

To provide stricter enforcement in the future, Harris said he already has hired several inspectors and he expects to hire "10 to 12" more in the near future. However, he reported difficulty hiring inspectors and also badly-needed engineers at state pay scales.

Gov. Ford, at the news conference, said he would provide extra funds from his contingency fund if necessary. He also suggested hiring engineers under contract rather than in regular pay-scale slots, in order to increase their pay.

Commissioner Harris, who made an unannounced trip into Floyd, Pike, Johnson, Martin and other counties of the area, described what he found as "beyond comprehension."

He said he found operators stripping coal without a permit, operators stripping coal without silt basins (although their plans approved by the state called for such basins), operators stripping coal with silt basins filled and no provisions being made to clean out the old basins or build new ones, operators with a 10-acre permit who had already stripped 40 acres, operators stripping in an area not included in their permit, operators violating the width of bench regulations from 30 to 210 feet.

For instance, he said, one operator whose bench is 300 feet wide had a permit calling for only 89 feet. "What happened to that other 211 feet? It went over the outslope."

Harris said he found land stripped and abandoned, some of it a long time ago, and "very honestly I don't know who stripped those mountains because some of these mines have never received permits—but I intend to find out."

Harris said he found "even more disturbing reports" dating back to 1968 that said everything in the Pikeville area of operations was "satisfactory."

"It may have been satisfactory to then-Governor (Louie B.) Nunn and the previous administration, but it is not satisfactory to me or to this governor (Ford)," Harris said.

"You cannot tell me nor can you tell any intelligent citizen that this occurrence happened overnight. How did this carnage happen? Irresponsible operators and failure to enforce the law by certain state

New Hall Named For Floyd Man

Construction is scheduled for completion next summer on "Boyd F. Reed Hall" at Morehead State University. The five-story classroom, office and parking structure will house MSU's Appalachian Technical Institute. Being built at a cost of $3.5 million, the facility has been named in honor of BF Reed's more than 15 years of service on the MSU Board of Regents and for his civic and business contributions to Eastern Kentucky. A resident of Drift, he is executive vice-president of the Turner Elkhorn Mining Co. and past chairman of the Eastern Kentucky Regional Development Commission. Reed was awarded the MSU Alumni Association's "Public Service Award" earlier this year.

Turnovers Cost Cats in Loss Friday Night to Clark County

By MARK LAFFERTY

The Prestonsburg Blackcats collected more errors but fewer points in Friday night's contest with Clark County. The 13-7 loss evened the Blackcats' record at one win, one loss.

Throughout the first quarter the Cats had their backs to the wall as a result of a poor kicking game. Clark County could not immediately take advantage of the Cat's poor field position because of the stout Blackcat defense. Clark County eventually broke through on a four-yard plunge to make it, 6-0. The quarter had been marred by four turnovers, two by Clark County and two by Prestonsburg. Prestonsburg had intercepted two passes and Clark County had recovered one fumble and intercepted one pass.

In the second quarter the Cats pulled out of the hole and marched to the 41-yard line where Earl Stephens sprinted around left end for the team's only touchdown. The conversion attempt failed.

The remainder of the game was practically all Clark County as Prestonsburg continued to make errors. When Prestonsburg did threaten in the third quarter, Clark County picked off a stray Prestonsburg pass on the 12-yard line that killed the Cat's last hope of the evening. This was the visitors' third interception. The Blackcats had also collected one other interception.

The district supervisor, headquartered in Paintsville, was, from Jan. 1, 1969 till August 1, Carter P. Combs. Governor Ford last week confirmed the report that a number of Eastern Kentuckians, including some coal operators, had asked him when he entered upon his office to appoint Combs to the post of natural resources commissioner, the position now held by Harris, or to that of director of strip-mining and reclamation, a post now held by Buddy Beach.

Combs has been transferred to the Hazard office and no longer has any supervision of active strip-mine operations, it was said.

When I saw what was going on through personal inspection I began checking the records and it hasn't taken long to initiate a complete investigation which is presently continuing.

"How many more incidents of the past will arise is anyone's guess. But we're going to uncover them and we're going to crack down hard on those who permitted them. Where possible civil and criminal action as well as administrative action will be taken to see that the areas are reclaimed to their best possible states... There is more to come."

Bluegrass Best-Suited For Most Ky. Lawns

What kinds of grasses are best suited for home lawns in Kentucky?

Hayden Watkins, Extension turf specialist at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, says Kentucky bluegrass is the most desirable grass for most of Kentucky. Kentucky bluegrass alone or mixed with creeping red fescue will make a desirable carpet of grass for your lawn. The bluegrass tends to dominate in the sun, and the creeping red fescue in the shady areas.

Both of these grasses are called cool season grasses, because they make most of their growth in the cool periods of fall and spring. They make little growth during the winter and the very hot periods of the summer.

Tall fescue, another cool season grass, is receiving more attention from home owners because of its ability to grow under adverse conditions and its resistance to diseases and insects. Watkins says it is somewhat coarser in texture than bluegrass and red fescue, but when seeded alone at heavy rates, it makes a desirable turf for Kentucky. Tall fescue should never be mixed with other grasses, according to the UK specialist.

Two warm season grasses, bermuda and zoysia, are sometimes used in Kentucky, and zoysia especially has drawn notice because of its excellent quality during the summer. Both grasses turn brown at the first frost and also remain brown late in the spring, which is their chief disadvantage. They do not do well during the cool weather of fall and spring, but make excellent turf during the hot summer months. They are ideal for playgrounds, backyards and summer homes.

Other grasses, such as ryegrasses, timothy, and red top, are not desirable turf grasses for Kentucky, according to Watkins. Bentgrass is an excellent grass, but requires too much maintenance for the average homeowner.

More information on selecting grass varieties for home lawns is available from local county Extension agents.

How To Face Difficult Situations

At some time in his life every person comes face to face with a difficult situation. None of us, regardless of our credentials, are spared life's trying times. Therefore, any man is richer who has some foundation on which to stand when the storm rages high. How can we best face difficult situations?

Well, the first word that is necessary here is "dedication." Every person has some basis from which to view life, from which he faces difficult situations. For many that basis is pure selfishness—what's best for me, what do I want to do? For others the basis is genuine apathy—they don't care how the difficult situation turns out.

But experience shows us that those who best cope with their difficult situations are those who have at the center of their life a genuinely deep and abiding faith in God. Difficult situations aren't nearly as difficult when a person knows that above all and beyond all is One who can and will guide us in our difficult situations. The author of the 23rd and 27th Psalms was only expressing an attitude shared by countless multitudes.

Then, the second word which is necessary here is "decision." Study your situation carefully. Explore all possibilities open to you. Then make the decision which seems best. It may not be the decision you desired—in most cases, that option will not be open to you. But it will be the best decision possible in a difficult situation. And that is what you are searching for.

Most often our choices in difficult situations will not be between easy and hard decisions, but between hard and harder decisions. That is the reason they are difficult situations. The difficulty comes not so much in having a hard task to do, but in deciding the best way to do it. We can sympathize with the man who had to divide the eggs into three categories—small, medium, and large. After two days he quit, crying: "Decisions, decisions, decisions!"

Prayer needs to be a part of our experience prior to making a decision in a difficult situation. Difficult situations are hard enough in themselves, and certainly they are too hard to attempt without the help of Him who has all knowledge.

The final word in facing difficult situations is "determination." Decision should be followed by action, else it only amounts to indecision. Once you make up your mind to act in a difficult situation, then immediately set the wheels in motion to carry out your decision.

Perhaps the most miserable person in the world is the one who continually dwells on indecision. He will make up his mind but will not follow his decision with determination. He bounces to and fro, continually torn and twisted because of inaction from fear of wrong action.

In facing our difficult situations we must always be open to new truth, new light breaking in to make the path clearer. But, likewise, we must be determined to stay with the highest and best route open to us until that new light breaks. We must be determined to do our best in a difficult situation.

In the final analysis that is all any of us can do in any difficult situation—our best. When we have done that, it is enough.

dated Sept. 7—almost exactly 80 years ago—which announced that the cholera scare was dying out in New York City. And that wasn't hog cholera. Only eight new cases had been reported on one ship arriving in harbor and two on another.

A fellow who apparently shares my talent for speech-making is quoted as saying the nearest he ever came to having experience in public speaking was the time when he proposed to his wife on a party line.

INGREDIENTS QUESTIONABLE

An eminent medic once observed that trying to prescribe for a hypochondriac was not unlike writing a letter and then tearing it up. One doctor listened for perhaps 30 minutes while his patient reviewed and apparently relished a long list of aches and pains, and finally decided he had a hypochondriac on his hands. Nevertheless, he gave the fellow some pills and enjoined him to take them regularly.

A week later, the patient was back, all smiles. "Those pills, they're wonderful!" he exclaimed. "Feel like a new man."

"But," the doctor confessed, "they're nothing but little balls of bread."

"Good heavens!" yelled the "sufferer," turning pale around the gills. "White or whole wheat?"

THOSE WHO SERVE

While a few were working but most were taking it easy, or running themselves dizzy, on Labor Day a group of men stood long hours on the highway here, enlisting financial aid from passersby. The middle of Labor Day traffic, I would say, isn't the pleasantest spot to be in, and the day was drizzly, and the hours were long. But they stood there—on the job. A few of these men are at the age when this sort of task is more demanding than younger men can understand. But they stood, along with the young bucks.

These are the same fellows who drill and train and plan and work to keep the Floyd County Emergency & Rescue Squad going, and who have kept it going since the day when this county suffered one of the great tragedies recorded in the nation. They are the ones who answer all those calls for help, and never think of financial reward.

I've talked myself right here into deciding I didn't give them enough, Labor Day. I suggest some member of the Squad stop by...

The coal to be mined in Magoffin and loaded over the David tippie is low in sulphur but is not high-grade fuel, Tussey said.

The Patsy Development Company, headed by Ralph Huffman, of Falls Branch, Tenn., had operated the mines since a few months after Princess Coals suspended its operations late in March 1968. Princess Elkhorn began mining in 1941 and in its 27 years there shipped 23 million tons of coal. It quit, because, said David L. Francis, Princess president, "further operation was not economically feasible."

The town of David, once considered a model, is now owned by Woodrow Branham, of the Auxier road.

TRW Inc. said last week that a process being used on a small scale in its laboratories removes nearly all pyritic sulfur and iron from coal. Robert A. Meyers, a TRW researcher, told the American Chemical Society meeting in New York that the process, based on leaching with a reusable water solution, removes 40 to 80 per cent of sulfur from the coal, increases its heat content 1 to 5 per cent and allows recovery of sulfur and iron byproducts. Indicated cost of the treatment is less than $1 per ton of coal, he said.

Mr. Meyers said the process is particularly applicable to coal of the types mined in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Kentucky. TRW will start designing a pilot plant for the process, next January, but will not be ready for operation till mid-1974.

Allen's attorneys, Cassie J. Allen and John Rosenberg, contend that it is a violation of the "due process" clause of the 14th Amendment to the U. S. Constitution and of the Kentucky Constitution for the plaintiff to be prosecuted in a second criminal case, in which he may be subject to loss of his liberty, before the defendant who is not an attorney-at-law and who does not possess the qualifications required of persons authorized to represent defendants in criminal cases in police court.

It also is argued that it is a violation of the "equal protection" clause of both the U. S. and Kentucky Constitutions for Allen to be tried by Judge Blackburn, who is not an attorney, in Prestonsburg, a fourth-class city, inasmuch as Kentucky law provides that citizens of first and second-class cities are, or will be, brought to trial in police court only before persons who are qualified attorneys.

The temporary injunction staying the trial will be in effect until a full hearing of the case in circuit court.

If the plaintiff in the action is successful, the result would make Judge Blackburn's administration of his office almost completely ineffective.

Friends, Teachers, and Fellow Floyd Countians:

I was born and reared in Floyd County and am a graduate of Betsy Layne High School. I am presently employed by the Pikeville Methodist Hospital as an X-ray technician, and my wife is teaching at Betsy Layne High School. We have always been involved in and deeply concerned about higher education.

I was persuaded to become a candidate for board member, because of culminating events which prove that our SCHOOLS, TEACHERS, and CHILDREN do not come first in the thinking of our present administration.

I believe:

1. That Betsy Layne is in desperate need of a new high school building and lunchroom.
2. That each child should be provided the teacher best qualified to teach a particular subject.
3. That our physical education programs in various schools should not be limited to basketball, but should include other sports so that more children can participate.
4. That teacher assignments should be made on basis of merit and qualification.
5. That summer employment should be arranged for returning college students.
6. That there should be no stand-still in the quality of supervisors while the quality of teachers is ever progressing.
7. That the salaries of those on the superintendent's staff should be more in line with the salaries of teachers who put in more time and do more work.

Good friends, we can no longer pretend that our schools are not endangered by politics! Do not let FALSE RUMORS, POLITICAL PROMISES, or WIDE-SCALE CONSTRUCTION in schools blind you from the truth. The truth is that nothing should prevent you from doing what is best for your children.

I am interested in BETTER SCHOOLS for our children in DISTRICT 3. Support me on November 7th for board member to the Floyd County Board of Education, and I will support all that is best for your children.

Breakdowns

Breakdowns are of two kinds: those which are sung and played on some musical instrument, and those that are played only. It is hard to tell which first came into use, but I am inclined to believe, from a study of the popular ballads of many countries, that the sung breakdown is the older, a species of popular ballad. In a few instances I have heard breakdowns that told stories in true ballad fashion and were used for the "words" in a "play-party." Most sung breakdowns do not tell a connected story; if they ever did, the story has become so garbled that it is now impossible for us to follow the plan or plot. Sometimes there are three or four stanzas in succession that relate to similar things and suggest a sort of connected story. In many sections of the state "The Girl I Left Behind Me" has become a play-party song, chiefly devoted to directions for the dance. In other places it is purely an instrumental number.

By far the greatest number of the sung breakdowns are of the disconnected type. Many of them seem to record nearly every reaction of the community, and there will appear in the same ballad, or at least there will be sung to the same tune, stanzas ranging from the most ridiculous to the most serious, from emotions that are cultured to these that are barbaric. The old breakdown recently revived and made a song hit, "Tain't Gwine to Rain No More," illustrates this tendency of breakdown ballads to sing of everything, good and bad, respectable and shabby. As a child I knew it, everybody hearing it adding some new element from an adjoining neighborhood or some improvised stanza. Since the song has been revived, the same thing is true of it: everybody who sings it is tempted to add a stanza or two. Some of these are too obscene or inane to keep, but many are in accord with the original, so far as a popular ballad of any kind can be said to have an original. If one could live for a few centuries, I wonder how many times "Tain't Gwine to Rain," like Sir Roger de Coverley's coat, would be in or out of style.

One can hardly think of a breakdown ballad without its gags. Demijohns and jugs often figure in them, though in a very conventional way. Mothers-in-law, that great source of jokes, come in for their share of notice. The ballad poet seems to have been quite a gallant in his day, to judge by his frequent references to "purty little girls," twinkling eyes, and similar things. Women are very often the victims of gags in the breakdowns, especially because of their ability to talk and spread news. The sung breakdown is a sort of clearinghouse for the poetry of the people, giving them a chance to take a satiric fling in conventional verse at what seems laughable in our common humanity.

Sung breakdowns are, after all, not the most typical ones. The singing of the words might interfere too much with the calling of the figures of the dance, and, besides, it takes too much breath to dance and sing at the same time, provided one wants to

RHEUMATOID ARTHRITIS CALLED WORST BY RESEARCHERS

Arthritis researchers have established that rheumatoid arthritis, the worst form of the disease, involves a kind of civil war inside the body, in which the body's defense system mistakes friend for foe. Experts in arthritis treatment research have developed care programs that really work to control the disease and prevent crippling. Surgery for joints damaged by arthritis is increasingly successful and more frequently prescribed. Much of the productive new research in the cause and treatment of arthritis is being carried out at Clinical Research Centers and by Research Fellows supported by The Arthritis Foundation.

Floyd Native Heads Program At MSU on Environmental Data

Morehead State University has been awarded a federal grant of $18,000 to continue an environmental dissemination program in 49 Kentucky counties under the direction of Floyd county native, Dr. Jerry Howell.

The grant from the Office of Environmental Education in the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare will be supplemented by $15,769 from MSU to finance the second phase of a project started last year. A federal grant of $25,000 and another $16,000 in university funds were used to assess the environmental knowledge of Eastern Kentuckians.

A test written by Dr. Howell, MSU's director of environmental studies and project director, has been administered to nearly 8,000 high school students and 450 area residents were interviewed.

The test results have not been completely analyzed, Dr. Howell said. When they are finished, he and his staff will distribute information intended to help correct deficiencies in the area's environmental knowledge.

About 50 half-hour television shows will be produced and loaned to schools and civic and service organizations. Steve Young of MSU's instructional media staff has prepared almost 40 video tapes for the series.

A variety of information packets will be sent to public officials, school authorities and private organizations. The material will be tailored to suit the individual needs of the recipients, Dr. Howell said.

To find out more about the U. S. Marine Corps contact Earl J. McCowan, the Marine Corps Recruiter for this area. Call collect at 235-3187; see him on the 2nd floor of the Post Office Building in Williamson, W. Va., or at Selective Service Board 25 in the Post Office Building, Prestonsburg, each Thursday between the hours of 1 p.m. and 3 p.m.

September is Arthritis Month and in this county the campaign for funds begins the week of September 12.

"We need all the helpers we can get," said Miss Gearheart. "Volunteers are what holds our organization together and without their dedicated efforts, we would not have been able to take the first step forward in the battle against America's number one crippling disease."

A volunteer herself, she pointed out that arthritis is everyone's problem, because it threatens everyone. "It's a serious disease, and it affects people in Floyd county. There is nothing minor about the aches and pains of arthritis which strike young people as well as old."

SYMBOL OF BRIDGE PROGRESS

Frank Hoard, Jr., of Don Perkins & Associates, Lexington, presents to Mrs. Flo Weddington Adams a rock-cylinder memento from the recent core-drilling done by his firm at the site of the proposed Emma bridge. Mrs. Adams initiated, and continues to lead, the fight for the new bridge.

Health Department Clinic Set Sept. 7th

The Floyd County Health Department will conduct a glaucoma clinic tomorrow (Thursday) from 9 to 11:30 a.m. and from 1 to 3 p.m.

At the last two clinics a total of 91 persons were screened, and of these five were found to be positive and were referred to their family physician.

"If these five had not been screened, chances are they could have gone blind," a health department spokesman said.

Dr. R. L. Hall, health officer, urges all who are over the age of 35 and have not been screened for glaucoma to come to the Floyd County Health Department September 7, for a glaucoma examination. He also said those who were borderline cases should report back to the Health Department for monthly check-ups.

Sport or Sadistic Pleasure?

By BARRI DUNCAN

It starts off much like a boxing match. There are two contestants, a fighting ring, admission fees, eager spectators, hot dogs and cokes. But in cock fighting it's a little different. It's kill or be killed.

To some it's a bloody, sadistic ritual. But to others it is a sport.

It was 8 p.m. on a hot August night. The barn was shrouded in darkness. Inside, I realized why the barn had appeared so dark. A black tarpaulin draped the walls to keep any light from shining out.

Some spectators were already seated on the bleachers that lined each side of the dirt-filled arena. Others were gathered around the concession stand; some eating hot dogs, some talking to neighbors. Men, women and children were crowded into the barn to see the cocks battle.

An official weighed in a pair of contestants, White Lightning and Kentucky Red, each well over five pounds, on a set of old grocery scales.

The two owners, satisfied of an even match, took their roosters to "ring side," a roped-off arena in which a shallow pit was dug.

Needle-sharp spurs, two inches in length, were tied to the rooster's legs. White Lightning was fed sugar pills for energy and body heat.

The birds were ready.

"Pit 'em," yelled the official.

The two cocks were thrown into the center of the pit, thrust at each other to get them angry. A padded spur, as used in training, can be used in these initial moments to prod the rooster on. But in this bout it was unnecessary.

Kentucky Red immediately jumped high in the air, catching White Lightning's neck between his legs. The spurs ripped through feathers and flesh, slit the throat.

White Lightning, still caught by the spurs, flopped wildly about, trying to spur Red in the breast. He succeeded and was set free.

The two roosters stood back dazed.

Then White Lightning charged. The fight was on—and it wouldn't end until one of the roosters was dead, or ran.

Individual bettors on the side-line elbowed their neighbors in an attempt to increase their wagers. The fight was going to be close.

After 25 minutes, an indication of how closely the two birds were matched, White Lightning again slashed into Red's breast. Weakened from loss of blood, Kentucky Red wobbled backwards, attempted to charge, but fell.

White Lightning was bleeding freely at the throat and breast, his comb was shredded, but he was alive. He would fight again in a week or two.

Kentucky Red was tossed into a trash barrel along with the defeated of the two previous matches.

The smell of blood and wet feathers, and the buzz of flies seemed to bother no one as they cheered when the official again yelled "Pit 'em."

State Police believe the occurrence of cock fighting in Kentucky has "slowed down," despite a rising national interest in the sport.

"The last known cock fight of any size," said Detective Lt. Don Powers, "was in Woodford county during March of 1970." At that event, 110 persons were arrested.

(Floyd county has for several years had a cockpit whose existence is an "open secret.")

Cock fighting is illegal in Kentucky. State law provides a fine of not less than $10 and no more than $100 for violators.

However, owning a fighting bird or watching a match is not against the law. Most people arrested at cock fights are charged only with disorderly conduct or gambling and given a minimum fine.

Cock fighting in the United States has a long history. Presidents Lincoln, Jefferson and Washington raised and fought cocks. National derbies are held annually in Florida. Cock fighting is the national sport in the Philippines, as well as a frequent past time in Mexico.

"We like to think that our activity has slowed them (cock fighters and fans) down," Powers said. "But it could be that tighter knitted groups of people are involved."

And so it would seem. The large open fights are gone. But who can tell how many people under the protection of darkness still enjoy the sport of cock fighting?

Football Review

The "Pigskin Picker" got off to a fair start last week with 9 rights and 5 wrong. Some major upsets occurred.

Things are a little tougher this week with six games rated fairly close.

The teams with definite nods are Pikeville, Ashland, and Paintsville. Russell-M. C. Napier, Cumberland-Whitesburg and Johnson Central vs. Fairview could go either way.

Our pick of the week is Prestonsburg over Elkhorn City by a big score!

WHAT ABOUT EGGS?

Today's controlled-feeding programs for hens result in the highest quality eggs ever produced. The washing, candling and packing operations are streamlined to maintain that quality and to maintain a steady supply of product.

Know the egg grades. Eggs are graded for freshness and quality. IGA eggs are packed in cartons which give both grade and size of eggs. Prices vary for eggs of different sizes but of the same grade.

AA Grade—Fancy fresh, top quality. The yolk is centered and well rounded and white is firm. These eggs have the best appearance.

A Grade—Fine fresh, quality eggs. Excellent for table use, cooking or baking. Not well-rounded yolks, white firm in center and thinner at edges.

B & C Grade—Less expensive, less attractive. Excellent for making scrambled eggs, omelets, etc. White firm in center and thinner at edges.

The color of shell is determined by the diet and breed of hen. There's no difference in the quality, cooking, food value or flavor of eggs with brown, white or speckled shells.

Eggs should be kept cold, in a home refrigerator and used within 7 to 10 days after purchase. Eggs are porous so store them large end up, in carton or egg compartment of refrigerator away from strong flavored foods.

Never wash eggs until ready to use them! Washing will remove a protective film from shell that helps to keep eggs fresh.

To store left-over egg yolks, turn them into a small jar, cover with a film of cold water; cover tightly. Refrigerate 1 or 2 days.

To store left over egg whites, pour into small jar; cover tightly. Refrigerate 1 or 2 days.

To freeze eggs—whole raw eggs or egg yolks—pour eggs into small moisture proof freezer jar or container. Add 1/2 teaspoon egg yolk/s; seal; freeze. Label, date and freeze.

There's no substitute for experience

Our senior citizens have mastered a lot of the lessons of life.

They've lived through the depression and two world wars. And they've seen horse-drawn buggies transformed into cars. They've seen a lot of change. And they've changed the scene a lot.

Their graying heads are the ones in which our community was planned. And much of what we have today was built by their hands.

Whoever said the good die young never met our elders here.

Program Themes for New Year Announced for Scout Troops

Familiar Scouting activities will be planned by troops in this area for the 1972-'73 program year, but new program themes will reflect the improved Scouting program to be launched in September.

The traditional hiking, camping, pioneering, other outdoor activities, patrol cooking, and first-aid are included, according to Jack Blankenship, chairman of the Scouting Committee, Lonesome Pine Council, Boy Scouts of America. Mr. Blankenship is personnel director for the Kentucky Power Company in Hazard, Kentucky. A new program feature is team sports, and another suggestion is communications, which has nothing to do with the old skills of signaling by Morse code and semaphore.

As part of the Scouts' decision-making process, which is emphasized in the improved Scouting program, Scouts in the troop make their suggestions, and the troop leaders' council—made up of Scouts who are elected officers—determine the final program. Troops often develop their own program themes, Blankenship explains, or select their own program themes, or select from the suggested themes which include science fair, Scout field meet, historic trails, find your way, team sports, Americanism, skating, swim, backpacking, conservation, communications, fire, patrol cooking, building skills, animals, and jamboree.

Next summer many Scouts will attend the national jamboree with their troops either at Moraine State Park, Pa., or Farragut State Park, Idaho, Blankenship said.

Other major events in the Lonesome Pine Council in which local troops participate include the Fall Roundup, September 1 to December 15; the Order of the Arrow Fall Fellowship, October 13, 14, and 15; Cornerstone Training for Scout Leaders September 30 and October 1, all in 1972.

Activities for troops in 1973 will include Anniversary month in February; Keep America Beautiful Day, April 28; district camporees, May 4, 5, and 16; junior leader training, June 10-16; summer camp at Camp Shawnee beginning on June 17 and ending on July 7.

The major activities are the weekly troop and patrol meetings planned and carried out in each troop throughout the year.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my dear husband, Everett (Red) Oney, who passed away one year ago, Sept. 6:

A precious one from me is gone,
A voice I loved is still;
A place is vacant in my heart
Which can never be filled.
My heart still aches with sadness,
My eyes have shed many a tear;
Home isn't home without you, Everett,
dear.
God alone knows how much I miss you
And wish you were here.

Study of Mental Health Needs Recommends Program Appraisal

A study of state mental health needs, recently released by the Kentucky Association for Mental Health and the Kentucky Psychiatric Association, recommends that the governor appoint a high-level commission to evaluate mental care in the commonwealth. The study recommends a decision be made on trends in treatment: residential care in mental health hospitals or out-patient services in community-care centers. The proposed commission would be directed to decide which trend should dominate.

Over the past few years, Kentucky has been shifting much of its mental health treatment to out-patient care in community centers, although the state still maintains four mental health hospitals.

The study concludes that Kentucky needs to "add adequate and high quality care" in each center. It notes that the state is below the national average in expenditures on patients in mental hospitals.

"A great deal of attention must be paid to the mental hospitals and the upgrading of both the expenditures per patient and the care provided for each patient," the report says.

Other recommendations include: Acquainting general practitioners with available mental health services; closer coordination between private psychiatrists and the state Mental Health Department; cooperative use of private, federal, state and local financing; hiring more psychiatrists, psychologists, social workers and nurses; educating the public about mental health needs.

RIVER DEVELOPMENT COMMISSION GRANTS

Gov. Wendell Ford has announced three Kentucky Port and River Development Commission grants, totalling $1.3 million, for improvements at three state river ports. The Louisville-Jefferson County Riverport Authority received $500,000; the Owensboro Authority received $400,000; and another $400,000 was given to the Paducah-McCracken County Authority. A $2 million appropriation for this special purpose was recommended by Governor Ford and approved by the 1972 legislature.

Hope

EXPERT MEDICAL CARE and a mother's love can make a world of difference to a little girl. Although 8-month-old Erica Taylor looks healthy, she suffers from a rare metabolic birth defect—Barter's syndrome. A rigidly controlled diet is part of the treatment prescribed at the March of Dimes Birth Defects Program at Jackson Memorial Hospital, Miami.

State Testing New Budget-Making Plan

State officials are experimenting with a new budget-making method under which an agency would fix its goals, estimate the costs and then would be judged on whether the programs succeeded.

Budget Director Jack Blanton said the old method involves measuring "inputs" while the new assesses "outputs."

"In the past we have been budgeting by looking at people, operating expenses and equipment," Blanton said. "What we will be doing now is looking at programs and objectives."

Ten state agencies are involved in the experiment, including the Parks Department.

"Previously, the Commissioner of Parks came in and said 'I need 50 people to take care of Barkley Park,'" Blanton said. "Now we're going to look at how many people we are going to service at Barkley Park, what are they going to pay and what we expect to put into this operation in subsidies."

The commissioner will make quarterly estimates on attendance, expenditures and profits; and the Finance Department will check the outcome and find out why any set standards were not met.

"This is the way we're going to present the budget to the next legislature," Blanton said. "Previously, we've not set the mark except in terms of what goes into the budget. Now we're going to set the mark—make it a known quantity—and then we're going to be able to evaluate performance against the standard we set."

Blanton said the plan would be under way in most of the 10 departments by next July 1, the second year of this biennium.

LEGAL NOTICE

S. 27, Somerset, Kentucky, hold hearings to consider a revision of the prevailing wage rates for laborers, workmen, mechanics, helpers and apprentices engaged in construction under contract with the Kentucky Department of Highways in a locality consisting of the following counties in this State: Adair, Barren, Bell, Breathitt, Casey, Clay, Clinton, Cumberland, Estill, Floyd, Garrard, Green, Harlan, Hart, Jackson, Knott, Knox, Laurel, Lee, Leslie, Letcher, Lincoln, McCreary, Magoffin, Martin, Menifee, Metcalfe, Monroe, Owsley, Perry, Pike, Powell, Pulaski, Rockcastle, Russell, Taylor, Wayne, Whitley and Wolfe. This locality has been determined by the Commissioner of Highways by Official Order 79662. At this time, evidence relating to fringe benefits provided through irrevocable agreements between employers and employees shall be considered in establishing a prevailing rate of contribution for the same. All interested persons desiring to present evidence or offer testimony on these dates are invited to attend the hearings.

Homecoming in 'Boone Country'

By HELEN PRICE STACY
West Liberty, Ky.—In 1784, Daniel Boone visited what would one day become Owsley county to survey a 50,000-acre boundary for Col. John Donelson. He camped beside a spring which still flows on the grounds of the Booneville Presbyterian Church.

When honors are passed out Sept. 17 at Booneville's Southeastern Kentucky Homecoming, who knows but that Boone's spirit will be hovering nearby, enjoying the proceedings.

Outstanding Kentuckians will be honored at the festival and Boone, who cut trails through the forests and opened the frontier, might marvel and decide that making a mark was easier in his day. He never had to direct a fried chicken industry, edit a large newspaper or lead a college through unsettled years.

Lexington financier Garvice D. Kincaid was one of the first Kentuckians to be honored at the festival. Other special guests have included Dr. Charles B. Stacy, Dr. Robert B. Begley, Adolph Rupp, Earl B. Combs and Jesse Stuart.

This year John Y. Brown, Jr., king of the fried chicken industry, and Kentucky wildlife artist Ray Harm will receive distinguished service awards.

Lt. Governor Julian Carroll also will be honored along with Don Mills, editor of The Lexington Herald; James R. Perry, president of the West Liberty Commercial Bank; Dr. Russell I. Todd, Richmond dentist; Dr. Troy Eslinger, president of Lees Junior College; and Stanley Dezarn, president of the O'Tucks.

Others to be honored include Dr. J. C. Ausmus, Middlesboro; Harry M. Caudill, Whitesburg attorney; Barkley Sturgill, Prestonsburg attorney and member of the Kentucky Public Service Commission; N. Mitchell Meade, Lexington, and Louis Hempel, deputy commissioner of the Kentucky Department of Parks.

Also to be honored are Sybil Shaffer of Atlanta, model and film star, and Warren, Ohio Mayor Arthur J. Richards who has provided clothing and food for many needy families in southeast Kentucky.

Special features of homecoming festivities will be the Kentucky Veterans of Foreign Wars Color Guard, country music star Leon Ferris and the Cass Walker Gang.

As a highlight of the afternoon, judges will select Miss Kentucky V. F. W. from a bevy of beautiful girls representing V. F. W. posts throughout the state. Last year's queen, Miss Roberta Winn of Stanford, will reign over the celebration.

"Everything is free," said Col. T. C. Sizemore, president of the homecoming, "and everyone from far and near is invited to attend." Sponsors of the homecoming are "The People's Journal," Owsley County V. F. W. Post and the Kentucky V. F. W.

Columbia Acquires 3-Co. Acreage

(From The Licking Valley Courier)

Columbia Gas Transmission Corporation has acquired a block of 65 leases totaling 6,753 acres in an area roughly at the corner of Lawrence, Johnson and Morgan counties, giving rise to speculation that Columbia is planning to sink a deep test well somewhere in that section.

Columbia acquired the leases from Crate Rice and James S. Trimble of Paintsville, who had leased the land in recent months. The first transfer was made in May when Rice and Trimble transferred 41 leases totaling 4,030 acres. And the second transfer was made last month when Rice and Trimble conveyed their leases on 24 tracts totaling 2,723 acres.

Five of the tracts are in Morgan, totaling 395 acres, as follows: Volney Fyffe 50 acres, Castera McKenzie 65 acres in one tract and 15 acres in another, Tommie C. Hill 145 acres, and Thurman Hamilton 90 acres.

The remainder of the block includes 43 tracts in western Johnson totaling 4,444 acres, and 16 tracts in western Lawrence totaling 1,414 acres.

Recently it became known that five major companies had decided to test the deeper structures in the Appalachian basin by jointly drilling a deep well on Buffalo Creek in Johnson county, possibly below 15,000 feet. The companies are Kentucky-West Virginia Gas, Signal Oil and Gas, Louisiana Land and Exploration Co., Chevron, and Weaver Oil and Gas.

Gas is in very short supply, and experts say that present production of gas in Appalachia is from the shallower sands. They theorize that even bigger supplies of gas may be found in the deeper structure of the Appalachian Basin.

And, apparently, the bigger companies plan to test and see, maybe through joint drilling operations.

The state is seeking a $400,000 federal grant for a vocational school at Eddyville State Penitentiary.
