

Cook Tells Fund Share For County Floyd Would Get Total of $332,080 By Revenue Split

A breakdown on what federal revenue-sharing will mean, if finally voted by the Congress, to individual counties and larger communities in Kentucky was announced Monday by Senator Cook's office in Washington.

According to estimates made by Senator Cook on the basis of the federal formula, Floyd county will receive, this first year of revenue-sharing, a total of $312,080. County government would get $162,850; the city of Prestonsburg, $44,413, and the remainder of $149,230 would presumably go to other incorporated communities in the county.

Kentucky as a whole would receive $87.3 million.

Local and county revenue sharing funds supposedly are restricted to "high priority expenditures," but conferees stretched this distinction so far that education is almost the only thing that cities and counties normally spend money on that they wouldn't be able to under the proposal.

Specifically, the funds could be used for public safety, police and fire protection, building code inspection, environmental programs, public transportation, health, recreation, social services, financial administrations and libraries.

Funds could not be used to match other federal funds in grants-in-aid programs and cannot be used in any way that would foster discrimination.

Funds may also be used for any and all construction projects as long as they are classified as "ordinary and necessary."

Stream Rating Hearing Slated In Prestonsburg

Prestonsburg has been selected as the site of one of five meetings which will be held over the state by the Kentucky Water Pollution Control Commission in an effort to clear up widespread misunderstanding of the commission's proposal to exempt about 2,000 miles to Kentucky streams from the most stringent pollution control regulations.

The other meetings will be held in Louisville, Lexington, Covington and Madisonville. Dates of the meetings have not been set.

They were proposed by John Stapleton, the state Commerce Department's representative on the commission. "There's so much misunderstanding about what is being proposed and what possible impact there will be," he said.

The proposal would classify for agricultural use nearly 900 portions of streams totalling about 2,000 miles. The commission staff says that the majority of their flow at some time is treated sewage and that they are unsuitable for fish life.

This Town . . . That World

Haven't heard from several of the angling brotherhood in the last few weeks. The fishing must be poor with them, too.

Since last Friday morning not a soul has assured me he can smell fall in the air. And I was primed to tell any so unwary that indeed the autumn was not only smelling around here but that it had also finally befallen the whole kit and caboodle of us.

NEXT ON DOCKET

A few weeks now and, barring a continuance of this dry weather, every hillside will burst into color again, such color as was never dreamed of in springtime. Gold and pink and crimson and all the spectrum in the dying leaves.

But only a few weeks after those magic days and all this beauty will have passed, and winter will have its inning. It is then that, except for people and their activities and the hope of spring, a sort of deadness enfolds everything.

Yet winter has its compensations. Lights in a window never seem brighter than when it's cold and dark outside, and you're outside. And I never feel more secure and thankful—actually gleeful—than when day's work is ended, the telephone can't be heard, and I meet the pelting rain or swirling snow, and finally gain the sanctuary of home, its warmth and light and security.

My sympathy goes to the fellow, 'way down South, who misses this—the sudden shriek of wind around a corner, a slamming shutter, a dash of sleet against a pane—and, inside, light and warmth, an easy chair waiting and a good book. It's then that this orphan loves the storm.

THE TABLEAU

The man sat hunched forward, his jaw set. An air of tension pervaded the room. His wife seemed to shrink as they faced this together. Their little daughter gasped once, stifled a shriek, and her older brother shifted his feet nervously. This had been going for almost an hour, and none had spoken.

The telephone rang faintly in the adjoining room, but nobody dared answer. The room was mostly in shadow as the dusk grew deeper. These four were transfixed, as if by some nameless terror.

Then, finally, there was a stirring. And the man said, "Switch channels, Junior."

Counterfeit Bills Widespread, Magoffin Man Jailed Here

Treasury Agent Phil Cox and State Trooper A. C. Cantrell last Thursday night jailed Charles Homer Taylor, 28, of the head of Licking River section of Magoffin county, on a charge of passing counterfeit money after several hundred dollars in spurious $20 bills had been found in this county.

The bills, which were printed on an inferior quality paper, were scattered all the way from Prestonsburg to Weeksbury. Authorities said Taylor was identified as the person who passed some of the bills.

Source of the counterfeit currency is being sought and the investigation of the case in this county continues. Taylor maintains that he is innocent.

An interesting angle to the probe involves a used car in which $1300 in counterfeit bills was reportedly found. The auto, it was said, had been traded by Taylor to the Ison Auto Sales, near Martin; and had later been bought by George Hamilton, of Abner Fork, near Melvin.

Hamilton told officers that after he had driven the car home his small son found the bills in it. He said he did not know the money was spurious and that he spent some of it. When telephone calls began coming in, informing him that the bills were counterfeit, he began redeeming those he had spent, he said. Hamilton said that when he

Sheriff Frank Leslie, who assisted in the investigation, said Taylor was first arrested on a John Doe warrant issued for his arrest, earlier this year, after he allegedly had drawn a revolver on an IGA Store employee here when the latter questioned Taylor about an item he had brought outside the store.

Mishap Claims Second Victim

Ronnie Dean Dotson, 21, of West Prestonsburg, became Sunday the second victim of an auto accident which occurred on the Mountain Parkway, near the mouth of Katy Friend, 15 days earlier. Roger Dale Ousley, 25-year-old Risner man, died almost instantly in the September 9 mishap.

Dotson sustained numerous internal injuries and had been in critical condition at Prestonsburg General hospital since the accident. He died en route to the University of Kentucky Medical Center, Lexington.

A son of Greely and Eliza Robinson Dotson, he was born November 2, 1950. Mr. Dotson was employed at American Standard Company.

Survivors, other than the parents, include two brothers, James Douglas and Amos Wade Dotson, both at home; two sisters, Mrs. Graydon Slone of West Prestonsburg, and Mrs. John Crum, Wapakoneta, Ohio; the paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. (SeeStory2,BackPage,Sec.1)

Mine Gloom To Pass, Is View of Operator

Although Eastern Kentucky coal mining is admittedly having its troubles, at least one area operator is optimistic about the future.

George E. Evans, Jr., president of the Beaver Creek Consolidated Coal Co., said Tuesday:

"I believe Eastern Kentucky has a great future and that the future lies in underground mining."

Asked about his plans for expansion, which would include the possibility of mining in a hitherto-untapped area, Mr. Evans said there is nothing definite at this time. His company has not yet completed its huge installation on Caney Creek, Knott county, but has its mines in operation.

Last week The Courier-Journal reported on a heavy backlog of unsold coal, of stockpiles existing at underground mines and of mines closing in the face of competition from surface mining in this and other sections of the country and because of increased production costs resulting from the Health and Safety Act, the state severance tax and other discouraging factors.

Mr. Evans pointed out that surface mining can become acceptable to environmentalists if it is done by responsible operators and in accordance with reclamation laws. He added that when surface mines add to their production costs the expense of truly conforming with the law the competitive edge their product now enjoys over underground mining will be wiped out and that deep mining again will flourish.

Eastern Kentucky producers lost in Chicago alone a market for 1.5 to 2 million tons of coal a year when the sulphur content of coal from this area was held too high to meet air pollution standards. Although Kentuckians have been told of a natural gas shortage, Chicago has been assured this fuel will be available to take the place of the coal formerly burned there.

Grand Jury Back In Murder Probe

80-Year-Old Man Seriously Injured

Jim Henry Hughes, 80-year-old Blue River man, was taken Thursday afternoon to Central Baptist Hospital, Lexington, for treatment of injuries suffered when he was pinned beneath his own truck.

Mr. Hughes' thigh was broken and he suffered chest bruises when his truck rolled onto him. The vehicle started rolling down a slope and when he attempted to enter the cab the door struck him, knocking him beneath the wheels. He lay pinned beneath a front wheel of the truck for an hour before he could be freed.

Driver of Auto Is Jailed Here; Branham Nabbed

Leon Moore, 17-year-old Wheelwright youth who had been sought since Sept. 17 as the driver of an auto which seriously injured Cora Lee Webb, 16, of Auxier, and struck her mother and younger brother, came here last Thursday and surrendered. He was accompanied here by his mother.

Young Moore is charged with leaving the scene of an accident. The injured girl has undergone surgery in a Lexington hospital, and her condition this week was described as favorable.

John Butch Branham, of the Goble-Roberts Addition here, faces charges of selling and possessing intoxicating beverages after his premises were raided Monday by ABC Agent Arvel Nelson and Prestonsburg Policemen Dickie Campbell, Keith Lawson and Virgil Conn. Nelson reported the confiscation of 165 cans of beer, 10 half-pints of whiskey and vodka and seven "fifths" of wine. His hearing in Prestonsburg police court has been set for tomorrow (Thursday).

Other arrests within the week, charges against prisoners and names of arresting officers follow:

Lacy Hall, reckless use of a deadly weapon, by State Troopers Stumbo and Estep; Tramble Adkins, drunk driving, by State Trooper Gary Rose; Johnnie Watson, drunk driving and no operator's license, by State Trooper Leeman Bevins and Deputy Sheriff J. W. Allen; Johnny Perkins, knowingly receiving stolen property, by Wheelwright Policeman Harold Johnson and State Troopers Rose and Estep; Gilbert Boyd, drunk driving, by State Trooper Bevins and Deputy Sheriff Allen; Denton Shepherd, a. w. o. l., by Deputy Sheriffs Sollie Holbrook and Albert Salyers; Chester Green Jarrell and Freddie Stephens, both charged with drunk driving, arrested by Policeman Ray Click and James Lafferty.

Term Extension For Continuing Quiz Is Seen

The grand jury of the Floyd circuit court is scheduled to return here for the third time today (Wednesday) to continue a determined probe into two unsolved Right Beaver Creek murder mysteries.

The jury wound up its routine work in the first three-day session, the first week of the term, then recessed. It returned here Tuesday of last week for a one-day session to resume the murder investigation begun in the initial session, then recessed again.

If the two days remaining in the regular session aren't sufficient, Circuit Judge Hollie Conley is expected to extend the jury term. And, it was predicted, if that doesn't get the evidence sought, a special grand jury session may be called.

The murders under investigation are those of Deputy Sheriff Lawrence Conley, who was killed at Garrett by shotgun blasts fired from an automobile, and James Clayton Conley, whose bullet-riddled body was found on an abandoned road near Wayland, a few weeks after the first slaying.

County Attorney James R. Allen, who is assisting Commonwealth's Attorney Harold J. Stumbo in working with the grand jury, said some "witnesses" have been questioned as many as four times. Most of them will be brought back for more.

A key witness is sought in another state. The witness, court officials have learned, was in the county, the night before his scheduled grand jury appearance, but disappeared during the night. Members of a family with whom he stayed while in the county said he was gone from their home around 1:30 a.m. of the day he was to testify before the grand jury.

Although a number of indictments have been voted by the jury, none has been officially reported. Among the indictments are at least two naming defendants on murder charges.

But until these indictments are officially reported to the court, the docket has no murder cases for trial at this court term.

No Last-Minute Candidates File

Industrial Resources Review To Include Visit to This County

An industrial resources review of Northern and Eastern Kentucky, sponsored by the state Department of Commerce and the Kentucky Industrial Development Council, will take place Sept. 26-29 and will include a dinner at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park. Thirty or more representatives of industry have accepted invitations to visit Kentucky and view presentations prepared by 20 communities of the northern and eastern sections of the state. According to Wayland McDowell, president of the Kentucky Industrial Development Council, the community presentations will feature industrial sites and other advantages for location of new industry.

Representatives of industry and their hosts from the Commerce Department and Kentucky Industrial Development Council will visit Northern Kentucky on Sept. 26. The program will start with a dinner hosted by Northern Kentucky businessmen, with the Northern Kentucky Chamber of Commerce making its presentation of industrial resources of that area. The following morning, a slide presentation will be given by the Kentucky Department of Commerce, followed by a tour of the Northern Kentucky Industrial Park.

The group will come to Jenny Wiley State Park for the remainder of the program. Representatives of area communities will be present to talk with the visitors, show slides of local facilities, and conduct tours of sites in Eastern Kentucky which are of interest to the industry officials.

Gov. Wendell H. Ford will be principal speaker at a dinner held at May Lodge, Sept. 27. Mayor George P. Archer, of Prestonsburg, will extend an official welcome to the visitors.

Commerce Commissioner Damron W. Harrison said, "This is an ideal means of getting officials of industry to come here and see what Kentucky has to offer with a minimum of time and travel. This program has been very successful in the past, and a good many of the companies represented have later located plants in the state."

A comprehensive guidebook of industrial sites in the two sections of the state has been prepared for company officials.

The review is an annual fall event, covering a different section of the state each year.

Mrs. Doran noted that the remainder of the $293,554 budget would come principally through citizens giving to United Funds in 12 of the 57 counties and through profits from the annual Girl Scout cookie sale.

In announcing Mrs. Johnson's appointment, Mrs. Doran, wife of the president of Morehead State University and herself an educator, called for citizen support of the drive.

Coal Group Asks Ford To Call Session To Repeal Severance Tax

Pike county's small coal operators have asked Governor Wendell Ford to call a special session of the legislature for immediate removal of the severance tax on coal, "until such a tax is enacted in other coal states."

"This is imperative if you would prevent total economic disaster in Pike and other Eastern Kentucky counties," a telegram to the governor read. "It would ease pressures on the Kentucky coal industry that now faces a soft market for its coal, and at the same time is beset by mounting costs because of the federal Coal Mine Health and Safety Act."

The wire was signed by James E. Hunt, executive secretary of Coal Operators & Associates, Inc.

In a companion move Hunt also sent a telegram to U. S. representative Carl D. Perkins, asking that he submit a bill in Congress immediately "which would place a national severance tax on coal."

The wire to Perkins also said:

"This would enable the Kentucky coal industry to sell its coal once again without being at a competitive disadvantage. Your constituents in Pike and other Eastern Kentucky counties face total economic disaster unless this is done."

Hunt pointed out that through July 31 the Kentucky department of mines and minerals showed that 437 mines had been closed down, leaving 815 operating mines. A year ago, this figure was 1,256.

In Pike county, 126 mines have been closed this year, according to Hunt. Total mines in operation here through July 31 are 282, as compared to 615 two years ago.

Hunt estimated the number of men unemployed in Pike county because of the closings at about 2,300.

"They've got no place to go other than away from here or on welfare," he said. "The people of Eastern Kentucky are entitled to earn a living like other Kentuckians," he asserted, "without having their jobs taken away by the discriminatory coal tax and federal legislation which was proposed and passed by men who had no knowledge of the coal industry, and cared less about the people who depend on it for a living."

Around here sales and service are synonymous

We have a solid appreciation for the salespeople of our community. In a lot of other places, selling is a high-pressure, low-credibility business.

But local salesmen have a little different way of doing things.

A better way, we think. They seem to figure if they treat a customer like a friend, he just might become one.

As you can probably tell, we're sold on the salespeople in our community.

Prestonsburg Principal Commends Computerized Student Scheduling

Computerized student scheduling is a success, say many teachers, principals and administrators involved in and using the computerized program—and the figures back them up.

Computerized student scheduling, one of three Educational Management Programs (EMP) sponsored by the Eastern Kentucky Educational Development Corporation (EKEDC) of Ashland, recently completed its second successful year of operation.

A total of 17,645 students from 20 schools in 18 districts received their computerized schedules in time for the fall term.

This is an increase of 85 per cent or 10,617 students from last year's program, when only 7,028 students from 10 schools in eight districts were involved.

A typical comment is the following from Ronald Hager, principal of Prestonsburg high school: "Computerized student scheduling makes opening day go so much smoother. Not only can a student go through an entire computer schedule on the first day, but it also starts off that first day of school like the way it would be a month later."

Principals and counselors at Rowan County, Boyd County and Johnson Central high schools echoed Hager's statement.

Several educators also noted another advantage of computer scheduling—that it allows the student to be scheduled into more of the courses he elects, rather than just whatever he can be fitted into.

Computerized scheduling provides each participating school with eight services: student and teacher schedules, class lists, homeroom and study hall rosters, room load reports, student scheduling print-outs for counselors and permanent student records and master schedules for principals, counselors and teachers.

In addition, computerized scheduling balances teacher and class loads, reduces course and scheduling conflicts, eliminates clerical duties for principals teachers and counselors, saves time for administrators, teachers and secretaries and yet allows each school to maintain control of its program without providing additional work.

Schools participating in the program this year are Prestonsburg, Boyd County, Bowling Green, Fairview, Jessamine County, Johnson-Central, Lewis County, Mason County, Maysville, Montgomery County, Mt. Sterling, Rowan County, Russell and Wurtland high schools, in Kentucky. Huntington, Huntington East, Barbourville and Milton highs in West Virginia.

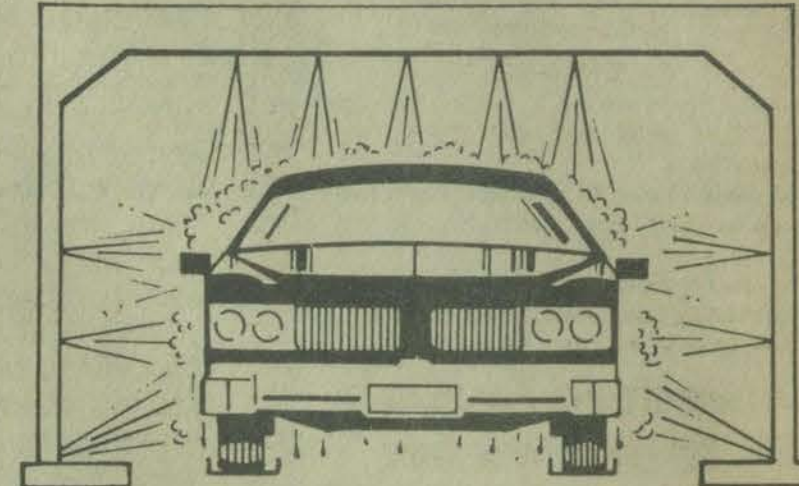

The two other Educational Management Programs (EMP) are computerized grade reporting and payroll.

Further information about any of these EMP programs of EKEDC's Computer Assisted Instruction (CAI) in math may be obtained by writing Mr. Edwin R. Jones, Director, Eastern Kentucky Educational Development Corporation, P. O. Box 1269, 925 Winchester Avenue, Ashland, Kentucky 41101 or phone 606-324-5161.

Needed: Not "Programs" But Jobs

If the Appalachian Regional Commission is ever to attain one of its goals, and that is to slow down or eventually stop the migration of Eastern Kentuckians to other areas, it must change its tactics.

ARC's work in the building of schools and in educational programs have merit. The emphasis on vocational education is particularly good. But until those who are so educated can find work at home these programs serve only to train people for work elsewhere.

ARC's interest in the health of the underprivileged is good. So is its help on the construction of modern hospitals. Besides their long-range benefits, these will provide a limited number of jobs. But this is not enough.

The highways which ARC is helping build are great, but these in themselves are mere avenues of escape if Eastern Kentucky has nothing more to hold its people.

Only jobs, plain jobs, can ever keep at home the able-bodied, the ambitious, those who have a meaningful contribution to make. Here is where they want to be but they cannot, they will not, stay home to become human ingredients in the mess that is known as the Tragedy of Appalachia.

Now, seven years after it began its work, the Appalachian Regional Commission finds some encouraging signs. But in Eastern Kentucky the picture is more bleak than elsewhere. Nothing to cheer about is found in the fact that during the five-year period, 1965 to 1970, "outmigration" from Eastern Kentucky increased over the preceding five years. And these later years were years of a booming coal industry.

It is almost axiomatic that this area must have more than the coal business in order to hold its people. The ARC needs to invest time and money and effort into creating jobs for Eastern Kentuckians. Education and programs won't turn the trick. Welfare will never keep one worker at home, nor will it bring a worker home. Coaling cannot stem the tide; in its best days it hasn't.

Jobs for men as well as women must be found here if men are to remain at home or to return. Three manufacturing plants in this county and one or two others nearby have made a splendid contribution to the economy, but these are not enough.

It occurs to us that ARC might draw nearer the "brass tacks" stage if it would place less emphasis on "programs" and divert some of the millions these are costing to the plain business of creating jobs in areas such as this.

The manufacturing firms here referred to are apparently doing well in Eastern Kentucky. Others could do the same. ARC should encourage a dispersion of giant industrial complexes and the establishing of branch factories in, say, Floyd county and other counties which have lost thousands of their most productive people to other states. We do not know the extent of ARC's powers in such matters, but it is possible that certain inducements—tax credits, low-interest loans, even grants—might be offered mass employers as an inducement to locate in areas such as this.

One thing is certain: Poverty programs do not cure poverty. Welfare programs to help those who cannot help themselves are necessary, but none of these bring men home to work and enjoy life in the environment to which they were born.

"Pockets" of poverty and despair can be eliminated only when men have in their own pockets money happily earned at work...at home.

Mrs. Woods Named ALC Alumni Official

Mrs. Docia B. Woods, formerly of Prestonsburg, and presently a teacher in the Mary Todd School, Lexington, was elected first vice-president of the Alice Lloyd College Alumni Association of Central Kentucky during the group's annual fall picnic-meeting in Lexington recently.

After attending Alice Lloyd College (then Caney Creek Community Center), Mrs. Woods continued her education at the University of Kentucky and George Peabody College. She holds the M. S. and M. A. degrees and has done post-graduate work at Peabody.

At the special request of the late Mrs. Alice Lloyd, founder of the college that now bears her name, she once assisted Mrs. Lloyd in the organization of that school's alumni program.

Mrs. Woods' husband, the late Prof. Carl Woods, also an alumnus of that institution, is listed in the Alice Lloyd College Hall of Fame.

The Floyd County Fair

By MARIE L. HARMON

During the four days of our annual fair this year, I was on the fair grounds for one reason or another each day. The few moments I was listening instead of talking I learned so many things I was unaware of. The main and most pleasing thing for me was that all the youth of today have NOT gone to pot or weed.

I wish everyone could have seen those F. H. A. and Home Economic girls carrying in all the hundreds of articles they had sewn, knitted, crocheted and baked. Their lovely artificial flower arrangements really stole the fair this year. These girls also entered and displayed their articles in their designated area, working as steady and faithfully as beavers from 9 a.m. until after 4:30 p.m., Wednesday. While I was commenting on the good looking cup cakes, one cute, little girl offered me one, knowing it would ruin her display, possibly costing her a blue ribbon. I was tempted.

The F. F. A. boys spent their class periods entering the vegetables and field crops they had raised this past summer. Anyone, in another department, needing and asking their help received it. In fact, the boys seemed happiest when they were asked questions. Getting away from the watchful eye of Lloyd Wells, their teacher, could have accounted for some of their willingness to help out in the 4-H and adult departments. There were a lot of blue ribbons in the F. H. A. and the F. F. A. display centers. There should have been more blues and reds with no whites for all the work and effort these outstanding youths did.

The spaces allotted to the 4-H this year was over-crowded. So much of their fruits and vegetables had to be entered in with the adults. Never have I seen such a wide variety of things from children of this age. My hat is off to the 4-H leaders in this county. There were a lot of disappointed little faces in this department when there were no ribbons on their entries. Due to the all-out work of these little troupers, the ribbons ran out before the end of the line. This could have been prevented, had some of our business men donated just a few more ribbons for them.

The open class (adult) for fruits and vegetables could have been better this year. More people could and should have entered their home-grown items. It is so nice to over hear someone talking about one or more of your entries, when they don't know it is yours, and it has either a blue or red ribbon on it. I heard lots of nice things in the past few days about all the pretty displays that won ribbons of blue, red and white. I don't care to hear some one make the statement, "I have better and prettier than that at home and they got a blue ribbon for that!" Why not bring yours and display it? If yours is so much better, then you will go home with the ribbons and money, that we with the poorer grade, won.

Most of the fruit displays were hastily contrived because at first it looked as if there would be no entries of fruit on display at all. There must have been more people over the county who had better quality fruit that could have been displayed. Though this year's entries were not up to par, we did show the right spirit in participating.

The arts and crafts, antiques and hobbies departments had some beautiful articles displayed this year. Very few colored ribbons—at first. This was the only department that had several justified gripes and complaints. The judges gave all the white ribbons out before they were two-thirds of the way down the table, thus leaving some in this department without even a ribbon to show. If this section is to survive, there will have to be some adult and qualified judges in the future-NEAR future. From all I talked with there are lots who will not be entering anything in this department next year. I'm sorry to hear this, as I really enjoy seeing all those well-made, novel and original items placed on display.

In the flower department this year Mrs. Nora Martin blessed the fair again with her lovely arrangements. This year there were also some new entrants. I understand the blue ribbons were carried off by the "new" contestants this year. One of the steady contributors said she enjoyed the challenge, and had become complacent but "will be on her toes, come next year."

The purpose of the fair is not just for the winning of the ribbons and money. It is to teach us to know what blue ribbon quality is in each department. If all enter in the spirit of friendly competition, we can learn from the judges' decisions, plus the pointers they will give us if we will only ask them.

I would like to offer my suggestion as to how I believe the fair could be made more interesting to the people. Have the judging at a time when the public can observe and ask questions. In this way many could learn why the different judgements are made—the difference between a blue ribbon entry and a red or white.

The booth obtained by the health department, giving free diabetic and anemia screening tests, was the most frequently visited booth at the fair this year. Everyone who entered the fairgrounds at all should have taken advantage of this service, yet so many passed it by without so much as a second look...to their possible sorrow.

The political booths, Bible study (Church of Christ) Baby Center, army Recruiting, Cancer, Mental Health and radio station W. P. R. T. were all nice and staffed with friendly and courteous people. We thank them all for their appearance this year. Among the old standbys that were looked for and missed were the State Police, Gravelly Tractor, the Fish and Game Club, Music-Carter-Hughes—where were you? Will we be seeing you at the fair next year?

The schools outdid themselves this year in their displays. I'm glad I was not one of the judges. Congratulations to every one!

Family Care Homes For Male Patients Sought in County

James Klein, Home Care supervisor of Mountain Mental Health Service's Floyd County Comprehensive Care Center, announced this week that the Center's Family Home Care program is in need of Family Care homes for men.

Klein explained that these are men from this area who have been long-term patients at Eastern State Hospital but have now progressed to the point in their recovery program where a return to a home environment can be more beneficial to their continued recovery than hospitalization. In most instances, Klein said, the families of these patients have either moved away, died or are disinterested. There is also a need, he stated, for homes for younger retarded men.

Klein stressed the point that families interested in accepting a home care patient must be prepared to include the patient in the family structure, offer some physical exercise and recreational opportunities and provide fulfillment of the patient's basic needs.

A number of women are being cared for now in Floyd county homes, but the number of homes willing to accept men has been limited thus far, according to Klein.

The Family Home Care program is one of the basic links in the "Circle of Care" approach to community mental health. It provides an opportunity for mental health patients to return to their home community when hospitalization is no longer necessary. A fully qualified psychiatric nurse supervises the Home Care program in cooperation with Eastern State Hospital and regular visits by the team psychiatrist are an integral part of the continuing comprehensive care.

Families interested in learning more about the Family Home Care program and in opening their homes to male patients are asked to call 886-6758, the Mountain Mental Health Day Treatment Center in Prestonsburg.

PRATER INJURED IN WRECK

Herbert Prater, supervisor of attendance records with the Floyd county board of education, was injured yesterday in a collision with a coal truck at the intersection of Ivy Creek with U. S. 23 at Ivel. The driver of the J. C. Davidson truck, Terry Likens, was not hurt. Prater's injuries are not believed to be serious.

Bounty Is Offered For The Murderers Of Police, Firemen

Col. Gerald S. Arenberg, executive director of the American Federation of Police, has announced that, effective at once, a "cash bounty for the killers of any police officer or fire fighter would be paid by the American Federation of Police". The cash award of no less than $100 will be accompanied by a Sword of Justice Police Heroism Medal that is now being designed for the organization.

"When the Supreme Court outlawed the death penalty" Arenberg stated, "they invited any criminal to kill a law enforcement officer or fire fighter with impunity. One or many, the mass murderer faces only jail. Added to this are cases where such murderers are released after serving a relatively short prison term".

"The bounty is a cash award for the arrest, apprehension, capture or shooting of any person guilty of the murder of a police officer or fire fighter and will be paid from a special Police Hero Reward Fund established by the American Federation of Police.

The American Federation of Police, a national organization of law enforcement officers nation-wide, is trying to obtain one million signatures on petition forms to present to legislators within the next few months.

Any citizen or police officer or fire fighter who would like to have a petition form or any person who might like to aid the reward fund may write for information to: Police Heroism Committee, American Federation of Police, 1100 NE 125th Street, North Miami, Fla. 33161.

Observe Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Tip Collins, of La Grange, O., formerly of Floyd county, were honored by their children on their 50th anniversary at an open house August 20 at Veterans' Hall, LaGrange. There were 150 relatives and friends present. Mr. and Mrs. Collins received many flowers, gifts, and cards.

Mr. Collins and the former Rebecca Elizabeth Terry were married August 18, 1922 Lackey, at the home of Mrs. Collins' mother. The Rev. Greene Allen officiated.

Following 20 years' service, Mr. Collins retired from Timms Springs Company in 1968. He had previously been employed by the New York Central railroad as a section foreman. Mrs. Collins was employed by East Haven Nursing Home for 15 years, retiring in 1968.

The couple moved to their present home in LaGrange in 1954 but have lived in the same area for 35 years. Both belong to the Regular Baptist church in Plymouth.

On August 19 the couple had as dinner guests in their home all five of their children, nine grandchildren and three of their great-grandchildren.

The children are: Commaner Clyde Collins, Arlington Heights, Ill.; Glenn D. Collins, Long Beach, Calif.; Mrs. Milton Obitts, Glessner Collins, and Clayton Collins, all of LaGrange.

There are 15 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Reading Council Begins 2nd Year With Sept. 12 Meet

The Jenny Wiley Council of International Reading Association began its second year in a meeting here at the Regional Library, September 12.

Ray Brackett, Floyd County Title I director, introduced the guest-speaker, Assistant State Title I Director Dorothy Jones. Discussing "Reading Status Now and a Forecast for the Future," Mrs. Jones said, "Studies show that one out of four have significant reading difficulty, and from 1 to 5 percent of these are severely disturbed in reading. Figures such as these led to the Right to Read Programs now in progress."

(The Clark school has recently innovated the Right To Read Program in Floyd county.)

Mrs. Jones encouraged those engaged in the teaching profession. "Some of the most important gains are not measurable," she said. "We cannot measure a change of frown to smile; we cannot measure a change of filthiness to cleanliness; we cannot record feelings about a book; we cannot measure the effectiveness of a teacher in the classroom."

President Bertha Ratliff announced that the Jenny Wiley Council had reached its membership goal set for 1972-'73, but urged members to continue their efforts to interest more parents and classroom teachers in the field of reading.

The first International Reading Association pin given by the Jenny Wiley Council was presented to former president, Dr. Catherine Shrewsbury, by Miss Ratliff.

Plans were made for Mrs. Anna Sue Stumbo and Mrs. Anna Lee Rice to represent the Council at the IRA fall conference to be held at the University of Kentucky, November 3-4, 1972.

Refreshments were served by the Floyd county reading supervisors.

To Lead Revival

The Rev. Earl Waugh, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Allen, will lead the Maytown Baptist Chapel in revival services which will begin at 9:30 a.m. Sunday in the Maytown elementary building. Evening services, which will begin next Monday, will be at 7:30 daily.

A former resident of Huntington, W. Va., Mr. Waugh attended Clear Creek Bible School, has served as pastor of churches in West Virginia and in Jackson county, Ky., and for almost eight years has been pastor of the Allen church. The church sponsors two missions, one at Daniel's Creek and the other at Maytown. The Allen church is the first in this county to provide a paid minister of visitation. Walter Pritchard, former instructor at Alice Lloyd College, serves the church in this capacity.

The public is invited to attend each service of the revival. The nursery will be open at each service.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our precious mother and wife, Sylvia Sykes, who left us two years ago September 29, 1970:

Death beckoned her with outstretched hand and whispered softly of "An Unknown Land,"

But she was not afraid to go,
For though the path she did not know
She took Death's hand without a fear
For He who safely brought her here;
Had told her He would lead the way
Into Eternity's Bright Day.

And so she did not go alone
Into the "valley that's unknown."
Two sad and lonely years have passed
Since the day you went away.
The shock still lingers in our hearts
For we miss you more each day.
Friends may think we have forgotten,
When at times they see us smile.
But little do they know the heartaches
That we cover all the while,
As we wonder by your graveside
We breathe a silent prayer,
"Dear God, please help us our burdens to bear."

In the stillness of the midnight
Our tears still often flow.
To think of how suddenly you left us,
Two sad and lonely years ago.

Sadly missed by husband, Bruce,
children and grandchildren.

At 60 mph a '73 Ford LTD rode quieter than an airborne glider.

On July 27, 1972, General Radio Co. tested a '73 LTD against an airborne glider. Both at 60 mph and with identical sound level meters. The result: the Ford was quieter. But the new LTD is more than just quiet. It is well made from its power front disc brakes, power steering and automatic transmission, standard equipment, to its luxurious, comfortable, roomy interior. There are 16 new Ford models to choose from and each will convince you that quiet is the sound of a well-made car.

Chances are you won't try to balance yourself on top of your new Torino. But, when you're riding inside, you'll still appreciate Torino's refined suspension—because it helps to cushion bumps, absorb road vibrations and reduce body sway. You feel solidly in control while you ride in comfort and luxury.

Ford, the company that built the first basic, solid, reliable car seventy years ago—has built today's basic, solid reliable car: Pinto. It's become America's top selling economy car for more reasons than economy. Here are some of those reasons: A 1600 cc. engine developed and perfected in over 10 years of actual driving. Rack-and-pinion steering. Solid welded body, electrocoated to fight corrosion. 4-speed transmission—lubed for life. Everything we've learned in seventy years of car making—all the basics—we build into every Pinto Wagon, Runabout and Sedan. When you get back to basics, you get back to Pinto.

And every 1973 Ford, Thunderbird, Torino, Mustang, Maverick and Pinto—comes equipped with new energy-absorbing bumpers and steel guard rails in all side doors. Steel-belted radial ply tires and AM/FM stereo radios are options on all models. Test-drive these new Fords at your Ford Dealer's now.

All 1973 cars must meet Federal Emissions Standards before sale. See your Ford Dealer for details.

Branham Stars In Trojan Loss To Johns Creek

By MARK LAFFERTY

The Wheelwright Trojans were stung again last week in a spectators' affair, 36-34.

There is still one bright spot in the Trojans' line-up in the person of Darrell Branham, senior running back. Branham scored three touchdowns and made two conversions in Friday's loss to Johns Creek. His first score came on a 105-yard interception in the first quarter. Clifford James then added two touchdowns—one on a 25-yard run and the other on a 60-yard return of an interception. Branham added the last two Trojan touchdowns, one in the third quarter on a 40-yard run and the other on a two-yard run with 17 seconds left in the game.

The Trojans led after one quarter, 16-14, but were behind at the half, 20-16. Johns Creek exploited the Trojan secondary for touchdowns all evening. Johns Creek always kept ahead as they continued to lead at the end of the third quarter, 26-20. The Trojans eventually lost on a disputed extra point try in the fourth quarter.

Fishing Tournament Scheduled Oct. 6-8

Next month, fishermen in Kentucky can actually have a week-end of unlimited fishing. The Kentucky Department of Parks is sponsoring another of the popular series of Fishing Unlimited Week-ends, beginning at Rough River Dam State Resort Park, October 6-7-8. The second week-end will be held at Kenlake State Resort Park, October 27-28-29, and the last of the fall series is to be at Lake Cumberland State Resort Park, November 17-18-19.

Trophies will be presented to winners in various categories including Largest Bass, Overall Largest Fish, Longest String, etc.

The first week-end begins at noon on Friday, October 6, and closes at noon Sunday, October 8. Special rates are available at $31.00 plus tax per person (adult or child.) This includes six meals and two nights' lodging.

On Friday night there will be a program conducted by Hope Carleton of the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, who is well known for his sports television show, "Kentucky Afield." He will give a fishing and water temperature report, tips on lures and suggestions on the best places to sink a line. There will also be a demonstration on the proper way to fillet a fish.

Door prizes will be awarded Saturday night, and results of the day's catches will be announced. A movie will be shown as part of the Saturday night program.

Programs for subsequent week-ends will follow much the same formula.

Anglers wanting to bring their families for three days of recreation, while they fish, will be pleased to know that activities have been planned for non-fishing visitors—movies, rook and bridge, and tours of the parks.

Reservations for the week-ends may be made by calling toll-free from any point in Kentucky by dialing 1-800-372-2961. Calls from states surrounding Kentucky can be made, toll-free, by dialing 1-800-626-2911.

'Star-Spangled Girl' Offered at College By Repertory Group

On August 26 the Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre came to the close of another successful summer. Four weeks later, an extension of that theatre opened under the title, The Jenny Wiley Repertory Company. Comprised of a small group of people chosen from the summer theatre, the company opened its first major production, "The Star-Spangled Girl," September 22. The Neil Simon comedy will run Thursday, Friday and Saturday through October 7 at Prestonsburg Community College.

The company will open with the musical, "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown," at May Lodge, November 2. There in a dinner theatre setting will be the permanent home of the Company. Future shows at the Jenny Wiley Dinner Theatre will include "The Owl and the Pussycat" and "On a Clear Day You Can See Forever." Information about the group, shows or tickets may be procured by calling the company office at 866-6647.

Runs by Burke and Heinze, Stout Defense Down Pikeville

By MARK LAFFERTY

The victory yell has sounded often at Prestonsburg, this young football season, but never so loud as last Friday night when the Cats whipped the heavily favored Pikeville Panthers, 12-8.

This was not a AA conference game, but it was a big boost to the Cats as they start a five-game conference schedule that could decide the AA District IV title.

The determination of the Cats was evident as they collected their first touchdown before going on offense. Ronnie Burke, one of Prestonsburg's newest running sensations, hauled in Pikeville's first punt early in the first quarter and rambled 67 yards to open up a 6-0 Prestonsburg lead. The conversion attempt failed. Pikeville took the kickoff and marched 70 yards, then scored on a three-yard pass. Chuch Huffman added the conversion to give Pikeville the lead, 6-6.

In the second quarter John Heinze, the other half of Prestonsburg's sensational running duo, scored the winning touchdown on a 10-yard sweep. The Blackcats went to the dressing room with the winning margin after holding the Panthers late in the half inside the Prestonsburg 30.

The second half was a defensive battle with the teams trading punts until the final minutes of the game when Pikeville hopelessly tried to advance on fourth down, but the Cats held and ran out the remaining time on the clock.

This week, the Blackcats travel to Russell to take on the Red Devils in an important conference game.

Piggy congratulates and apologizes to Prestonsburg after last week's convincing win over Pikeville. (Only 8 points for the panthers?)

MY OPPONENT IS RUNNING SCARED... AND GRABBING FOR A COAT TAIL

My opponent, along with the other two Charles Clark and Wayne Ratliff hand-picked candidates for Board of Education in Floyd County, are so scared they are lashing out with the most ridiculous charges, one being that we are being financed, ACCORDING TO RUMOR, by the Republican Party of Pike County. Of course, the voters recognize the advertisement in last week's Times as just what it is . . . a grabbing for Carl D. Perkins' coat tails.

Neither Carl D. Perkins nor Robert Holcomb are so politically naive as to become involved in a Board of Education race. I have hundreds of Democratic friends and supporters who will vote for Perkins just as I have hundreds of Republican friends and supporters who will vote for Robert Holcomb. The office of board member is a non-partisan office and I'm running on a non-partisan ticket with only my qualifications to recommend me to the voters. AND . . . it is ridiculous to think the Republican Party of Pike County could have any interest in a Floyd County Board of Education race. In my judgment, if Perkins and Holcomb take time to read my opponent's ad, they'll say: "How silly can men get?"

The publicist for the administration candidates, Mr. Orville Hansford, (Whoever he may be), says the school system belongs to the people of Floyd County. Of course it does but my opponent has been in office so long he thinks he owns a huge hunk of it. Now, faced with defeat, he feels his only chance to survive is to grab Congressman's coat tails.

Whatever Things

The Temple

The temple played a significant part in the life of Christ. It was located, of course, in Jerusalem. It was here, and here only, that sacrifices could be offered.

The original temple was conceived in the mind of King David. However, it was his son Solomon who constructed the first temple. Solomon began construction of the temple in 960 B. C. The temple became the religious center of world Jewry.

Actually, in the Bible not one but three temples are mentioned. Solomon's temple was destroyed by Nebuchadnezzar II about 587 B. C. Another temple was constructed by Zerubbabel in 516 B. C. This temple was no comparison to the original structure and was frowned upon by those old enough to remember Solomon's temple.

Zerubbabel's temple was destroyed and later replaced by Herod the Great's magnificent structure. Herod completed the sanctuary area of the temple in 19 B. C. after 18 months of construction. However, the buildings in the temple area took more than half a century to complete.

Construction on Herod's temple was continuing during the life of Jesus. The building was completed only a short time before it was destroyed by Titus in 70 A. D. It was never to be rebuilt.

Jesus visited the temple often. His visits beginning shortly after His birth and continuing until the week of His death. One visit, when He was 12, He became separated from His parents while visiting the temple.

In the temple area He taught. And like an unpopular preacher, He minced no words in His exhortations. In this area also He healed the blind and the lame. His popularity with the people here offended the chief priests and the scribes.

Nothing remains of the temple in Jerusalem today. Only a section of the wall which surrounded the temple area still stands. Today it is known as the "Wailing Wall." The Jews come here to weep over the destruction of their temple. Ancient legend says angels came and sat on this wall when the temple was being destroyed. It is the most holy site in the world to the Jewish people.

Prior to the destruction of the temple by Titus, Jesus had spoken of its ruin. He had said that "not a stone would be left unturned." When the temple burned, the precious metal melted and ran between the cracks of the structure. Later scavengers, searching for the precious metal, turned over every stone.

Jesus knew the value of the temple. He knew the value of people coming together to worship. There is always the need of people to come together and share in worship. No man, as John Donne said, is an island. While we don't have a temple, we do have a church.

If Jesus felt the need to attend the temple services, surely we need to attend the services of our church.

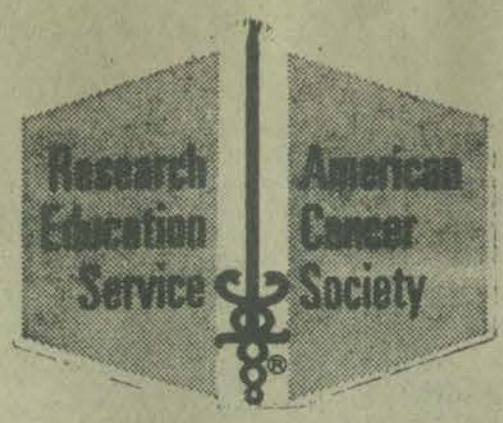

State Reclamation Director Buddy A. Beach says he no longer believes special regulations will be needed to control punch mining, which in the past has been considered a form of surface mining, and, therefore, outside the jurisdiction of the Division of Reclamation. Beach had been planning some new regulations to cover the process, which embodies some characteristics of both surface and deep mining.

Governor Requests Board To Permit Police Pay Hike

Gov. Wendell Ford has requested the federal Pay Board to exempt from its wage ceiling a 15 per cent pay boost for Kentucky policemen passed by the 1972 General Assembly.

The Pay Board previously has ruled that raises of more than 5.5 per cent are prohibited.

As part of Governor Ford's criminal justice legislative package, the legislature passed House Bill 203, establishing a Law Enforcement Foundation Program Fund to increase police salaries by 15 per cent if their city or county decides to participate and impose the required standards.

To be eligible for the pay increase, policemen must meet specified training, educational and operational standards.

The Kentucky Crime Commission, which supported the pay boost, estimates some 2600 state law enforcement officers would qualify for the increase.

In a letter to the Pay Board, Governor Ford pointed out that, "This is a unique state response to the problem of upgrading local law enforcement agencies. It offers a positive impetus for improved police performances that will serve to reduce the incidence of crime experienced in both urban and rural Kentucky."

The program fund was to have begun July 1, but no action could be taken without an exemption from the board. As yet the board has taken no action.

"I hope you will give this exemption request your personal attention," Governor Ford told the board.

Five States Represented At Aug. 26 Reunion

At the invitation of Mrs. Hattie Reedy, of Bevinville, approximately 200 members of the Slone family (known as the Summer Sect) from Kentucky, Ohio, Tennessee, Michigan and Indiana gathered Aug. 26 at the Reedy residence in reunion.

Reviewing the pleasure of the occasion, Mrs. Reedy said, "I asked only a few things. I asked them: Please leave your religious and political discussions at home, and bring along the things you like best to eat. They did just that, and, boy, how it worked!"

The streams would have to be kept free of substances that are unsightly, foul-smelling, or harmful to plant, human and animal life. But they would be exempt from specific water-quality standards that determine whether streams are safe for swimming or are hospitable to fish life.

Stapleton said he hopes the new hearings will stress the cost of protecting for recreation and fish life the streams proposed for the agricultural classification. The more restrictive designations would necessitate expensive sewage treatment facilities or linking newly developed areas to a municipal treatment plant, he said.

WIND Magazine Numbers Published

IT'S NOT "IDLE GOSSIP"

Anybody, it seems can achieve a reputation of sorts. Mine has spread farther afield than I planned, but, unlike many reps, it's based on fact. Even Mrs. Wm. F. Lattery, Jr., who wrote in delightfully friendly fashion from as far away as Anoka, Minn., knows of my "fame." She writes:

"I have heard your desk is stacked high with mail, papers, etc. Somewhere in that stack is my change of address notification. Please disregard that card if you come across it and please give this letter your immediate attention. I love receiving and reading the Times but now by the time I get the paper the news is two weeks old, when normally it is only a few days old. I just received my paper dated August 10, 1972 and the postage is getting expensive.

"P. S. If your desk is not a mess, please accept my apology and excuse some idle gossip."

In addition to his other duties, Dr. Hill last February was given special assignment to Washington, D. C. to compile and edit the annual report of the cooperative wildlife research units in the country, and he was recently named by the Branch of Research, U. S. Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, to coordinate development of the Southeastern portion of a national, research effort studying the effects of stream channelization.

During the busy year he also found time to write his doctoral dissertation and earn from Auburn University the Ph. D. degree in wildlife biology.

The Tonnage Drops

Residents of Prestonsburg who have been maintaining a Weight Watchers' regime since May 12 are 2,165 pounds lighter on their feet.

This was the weight loss reported this week by Mrs. Scottie Franklin, supervisor of the group. She said the group has averaged 70 members while this loss of weight was being recorded.

Big Sandy Area Planning Funds Given Approval

The five-county Big Sandy area has been designated for planning funds for resource conservation and development during the coming year, Congressman Carl D. Perkins announced Monday.

The program involves soil and water conservation districts in Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin, Martin and Pike counties. It is the first in Kentucky to win approval.

Approval of funds for the Big Sandy area project has been sought by Congressman Perkins and local leaders for two years. The Department of Agriculture said county and city governments in the area are also participants in the program.

William Cantrell, of the Soil Conservation Service, said an area planning office will be established soon and a coordinator named. The area work will be under the direction of a steering committee composed of the county judge, a mayor and a representative of the soil conservation district in each of the counties involved.

The program, when developed, will be concerned with community development and conservation work, including land drainage, municipal and industrial water resources and a wide range of other work with federal assistance.

Frances Perkins, the only woman to serve as Secretary of Labor in the 60-year history of the Department of Labor, also served longer in the office than any other Secretary of Labor.

Nero To Launch Concert Series

The Peter Nero Trio will open the East Kentucky Concert Series seventh season at the Prestonsburg high school gymnasium, Wednesday, October 11.

Nero, a best-selling recording artist with Columbia Records, appeals to all age groups with a style which has caused some to label him a great jazz pianist. Others call him a great classical pianist. The truth seems to be that he is a great pianist who combines the best of both musical worlds.

The series is now selling tickets throughout the county and in Paintsville and Salyersville. Six performances will be presented this year. The series is supported by the Kentucky Arts Association and Prestonsburg Community College.

Following the Peter Nero Trio will be the Louisville Youth Orchestra, composed of high school students from Louisville and neighboring Indiana, under the direction of Rubin Shear. These young musicians will appear at the high school here, November 12.

For modern dance devotees, Don Redlich, one of modern dance's most progressive experimental choreographers, will present his company at the Prestonsburg grade school auditorium, January 18, in dance combined with film, sound, light and color. Critic Clive Barnes, in the New York Times, said, "Don Redlich is a remarkable dancer...deftness of style and sharpness of image are characteristic of (his) work."

Then, on February 5, John Chappell will appear at the Prestonsburg Community College auditorium in a special production of Hal Holbrook's "Mark Twain Tonight!" Those who have seen Mr. Holbrook on television will look forward to an evening that, as one critic said, "...left those who saw it with the uncanny feeling that they had seen no John Chappell but Mark Twain!" Those who are not familiar with the production will enjoy Twain's barbed comments delivered by a fine actor who, like Hal Holbrook, gives a complete illusion of reality.

The Harlan Boys Choir, which won the International Boy's Choir competition held in Switzerland last summer, will be at the grade school auditorium, March 27.

Concluding the Concert Series season will be the Turnau Opera Co., which will present "La Traviata" in English. The New York Times says, "Turnau Opera performances are non-stereotyped, spontaneous, completely intelligible, and models of opera in English. This intelligent and intelligible presentation of "La Traviata" will be given at Prestonsburg Community College auditorium, April 17.

'The Melancholy Days'

A total of 16,044 1972 tax bills were mailed Monday from Sheriff Frank Leslie's office to Floyd county taxpayers.

Prestonsburg taxpayers received their city tax bills, a few days earlier.

Raw Meat Scraps Spread Hog Cholera, Veterinarian Warns

Although Eastern Kentucky has apparently escaped the hog cholera outbreak which hit other sections of the state, there is a danger that the disease could spread to hogs in this area, Dr. Tom Maddox, state veterinarian, said recently.

At least one outbreak, he said, has been traced to raw meat scraps and bones procured from a grocery store for dog food. Dr. Maddox said continuation of this practice could spread hog cholera throughout the state and destroy the swine industry. He has requested state and local sanitarians to warn operators of retail grocery stores, meat markets and restaurants against the hazards of supplying meat scraps to customers for pet food.

Cholera in hogs usually approaches the 100 percent mortality rate. There is no safe, effective vaccine.

Dr. Baker, Floyd County Native, Directs Environmental Center

Dr. Edwin Baker, a native of Floyd county, has been named director of the Union College Environmental Education Center. The center is located in Cumberland Gap National Historical Park near Middlesboro.

Dr. Baker was born in Wheelwright and is a graduate of Wheelwright high school. He earned the A. B. degree in biology at Georgetown College, and after teaching several years in Fayette county moved to the University of Tennessee where he earned the M. S. and Ph. D. degrees in zoology-ecology. Before coming to Union, he taught at Chadron State College in Nebraska.

One of Dr. Baker's major responsibilities will be the development of curricula for a two-year degree program in environmental technology, a field which is already opening up many employment opportunities. The college has been offering an undergraduate "area of concentration" in environmental studies in combination with the regular four-year degree program.

"At this point we are thinking primarily on program development and service to the region," Dr. Baker commented. Expressing his philosophy on environmental studies, Dr. Baker added, "We are here to educate—not to shake a finger at people or try to upset them. Our goal is to objectively educate people about environmental problems so they are able to make their own value judgements, understand the new laws, and determine the type of action needed."

The environmental awareness program, which has drawn more than a thousand children from throughout the tri-state area over the past two years, will continue. Two assistants, Gary Ramsey and Cynthia Nicholson, will work with this program.

Special adult education programs will also continue at the center. Currently the college is working on a pilot project with the cities of Middlesboro, Pineville and Barbourville, to work toward solutions of local environmental problems.

Counterclaim By Allen Asks $229,842 Total

Lawton R. Allen, Prestonsburg accountant, said last week that he has filed an amended answer to the $25,000 suit against him by his former partners, Robert F. Linton and George H. Helton, Paintsville accountants, and has lodged against them a countersuit asking a total of $229,842.15.

The original Linton and Helton suit was filed against both Mr. Allen and his wife, Eleanor C. Allen. It claimed $25,000 due from the Allens on their promissory note of $64,695.93. This note carried the provision, however, that Allen would not be required to make installment payments on the note unless in any year his draw from the partnership, including salary, is equal to $15,000 and that if his income from the partnership during the five-year term of the note failed to reach that amount the time for payment of the balance of the purchase price would be extended.

Allen claims his income from the partnership never equalled $15,000 at any time. The partnership was dissolved July 31, 1970.

The dissolution agreement, the Allens claim in their amended answer, provided for a division of clientele, with the understanding that neither of the partners should interfere with the clients given each. Allen claims his former partners later represented to various clients of his that they were much better equipped to handle their accounting business than he.

Allen counterclaims for $29,842.15 on the contention that at the time of dissolution of the partnership plaintiffs supplied him with a list of client whose business was said to have been valued at $66,795.07 but that he actually received from them only $36,952.92.

Of the total amount asked, $100,000 is for damages to the health of Mrs. Allen, who, it is claimed, was known to be suffering from a lung condition at the time plaintiffs allegedly made frequent demands on her for payment of the note.

Compensatory damages of $50,000 and punitive damages in the same amount are asked by Mr. Allen.

An accounting of partnership funds is asked.

Three More Pike Strip-Mines Closed for Alleged Violations

Three more Pike county strip-mine operations have been suspended for alleged reclamation-law violations, it was announced in Frankfort last week. These bring to 10 the number of workings closed down, it was said.

The three operations are: Mary Mounts Coal Co., Freeburn, operation off KY 194 near Stopover; charged with strip-mining on a permit which allows auger mining only, and creating a 115-foot bench width on a 33-degree slope, the maximum slope for augering; $5,000 penalty and additional $6,000 reclamation bond asked. The operator was listed as Luster Mounts.

Green Ridge Coal Co., Pikeville, operation of KY 1055 on Barrenshee Creek; charged with allowing spoil material off the permitted area and into a stream, inadequate siltation structures below operation, putting reject material over out-

Value of Roads To Area Cited

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 27—Better roads do mean a better economy. A look at the history of Eastern Kentucky uncovers a direct relationship between highways and economic growth.

Stymied by natural barriers, Eastern Kentucky's primarily agrarian economy did not grow significantly until adequate transportation facilities attracted business and industry. When the outlets became available to move products of the area's vast natural resources, the economy mushroomed.

With the development of a good system of highways, the economy of not only Eastern Kentucky but of the whole Commonwealth experienced a completely new and unexpected boost from the influx of tourists.

Known throughout America as having one of the nation's finest major highway systems, Kentucky currently attracts tourists to such an extent that the revenue they bring has become one of the major factors in the state's total economic picture. In fact, tourism is so big in Kentucky that expenditures by out-of-state travelers last year amounted to approximately $426 million.

From each tourist dollar in 1971, 35 cents was distributed as personal income in Kentucky, while an additional 11 cents went to the state in taxes. Local taxes amounted to 2 1/2 cents from each tourist dollar.

Over and above this, Kentucky's own in-state travelers spent $159 million, making the total expenditures for all travelers in the state $585 million in 1971.

Kentucky started taking its biggest steps in developing a modern, efficient highway system about eighteen years ago, when construction began on the Kentucky Turnpike. Since that time out-of-state tourists have increased their spending in Kentucky by an astounding 215 percent. Retail business has more than doubled, experiencing an average annual growth rate of 5.2 percent.

Amidst all the furor over taxes today, one of the real beauties of Kentucky's highway economy is that, with the exception of a few federal grants, all funds to support highway design, construction and maintenance come from highway users themselves. Revenue to support the Commonwealth's road programs come from taxes on motor fuel, motor oil, vehicles, vehicle license fees and from tolls.

Taking this into consideration while simultaneously looking at the total number of dollars generated by highway travel in the state, we can see that our highways more than pay for themselves.

It might even be a safe venture to say that, when it comes to highways, the taxpayer is getting his money's worth.

Secretary of State Thelma Stovall has asked Gov. Wendell Ford to allocate emergency funds to finance voter registration which may cost $2 million this year in Kentucky. The mass re-registration was ordered by the General Assembly in an attempt to computerize the state's registration rolls. The revision is to begin following the November election.

slope, and stacking spoil on outer edge of bench; $6,000 penalty and additional $11,000 reclamation bond asked. The company representative was listed as William E. Damron, Pikeville.

Hawkeye Elkhorn Coal Co., Pikeville, operation off KY 194 near Meta; charged with stripping outside the permit area and excessive bench width; $5,000 penalty and additional $3,000 reclamation bond asked; owner listed as J. J. Adkins. The three firms were advised to take remedial measures within two weeks.

Acting Reclamation Director Buddy Beach said that two more of the seven permits suspended last month have been reinstated.

Robinette and Blackburn Coal Co., Pikeville, was allowed to resume two operations near Meta after performing remedial measures and paying $2,000 penalty to the state, Beach said.

Thomas O. Harris, commissions of natural resources, said the three-member state Reclamation Commission still plans formal hearings as a part of the "full investigation" into reclamation violations promised by Gov. Wendell H. Ford last month.

But the hearings await completion of field investigations in the Paintsville district, which includes Pike county, Harris said, and field work has been slowed by lack of inspectors. Harris said he hopes to start a training school for new inspectors next week.

Harris also attributed to lack of manpower the fact none of the four civil lawsuits referred to by Ford Aug. 30 have been filed. The suits involve operators, some of them unknown, who stripped without a permit and abandoned the site without doing reclamation work.

"We have not had the manpower to set out and see who's doing it," Harris said.

To the Voters

Friends, would you really like a change this time? I mean, a man for the PEOPLE, not the Board. The rich have had their day. Now give the poor a chance. Give a man a chance to help the schools and not the Board. If I am elected, every bus driver will have to take a physical examination every six months. He will major on this one job, the safety of the children, and not four other jobs. I am a poor man, not out to buy notes. I believe there are enough good people in District 4 to vote for me, BUCK ROGERS, for a change in the November election Nov. 7, 1972. (Pd. Adv.)

TIDBITS OF KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

By GORDON WILSON, Ph.D

Luck, Manners, and Morals

In going over hundreds of good and bad luck beliefs lately I have been struck with the number of them that seem to have been invented to teach some manners or some morals. Long before organized societies such as the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, there were constant reminders to children to treat animals with kindness. And, to drive home the teaching, there was often some obvious punishment for offenses. It is amazing how many species of animals are supposed to be good-luck creatures if allowed to live and equally bad-luck if destroyed: "Don't kill a robin, or a dove, or a toadfrog, or a daddy-longlegs." In my childhood I heard largely the bold prohibition, with no penalty attached. But I do recall hearing my playmates say that if you killed a toadfrog or a daddy-longlegs, the family cow would give bloody milk. And since the cow died actually sometimes show traced of what looked like blood in her milk, it was easy to attribute the disease to some thoughtless or cruel act on the part of the children of the family. Anyway, it could not be proved that your cruelty didn't cause this unsatisfactory condition.

Many unlucky acts have probably been prevented by such simple beliefs as these: If a girl drops a biscuit, she will marry a poor man. Dropping any kind of food shows carelessness, and this may be a gentle reminder. To bring a sharp instrument into the house—scythe, weedcutter, hoe, axe—was supposed to be a bad-luck sign; some less superstitious people have told me that they kept this up as a belief to keep careless members of the family or the hired hands from scratching the furniture of otherwise injuring things inside the house. Leaving uneaten food was exceedingly bad manners, at least, and some people attached severe punishments, in the future: you would go hungry, you would not get the man or girl you wanted, and on and on. Long before Hooverizing was known, my generation was cautioned against letting the eyes be larger than the stomach. Everywhere it seems to have been unlucky to whistle or sing at the table. Rather oddly, I can recall no punishment that I have ever heard for this; surely some searcher after texts could find one that would apply. Similarly, it is widely believed to be bad luck to sing or whistle after you have gone to bed. I suspect some parent devised this to quiet down the restless brats after they had finally been induced to call it a day. Long before cars it was bad luck to cross a street diagonally; I hope that someone who was a potential policeman devised this superstition.

Hosts of beliefs seem to have grown up to make us more contented with our lot. Some of these are rather fatalistic and suggest that whatever is, is right, and there is nothing you can do about it. Some are gentle reminders to would-be strutters: "Poor folks should have poor ways," "All that goes up comes down," "You can't get blood out of a turnip." Within bounds many of these catty sayings do keep down some showing off, but, I can recall, they often squelch some really valuable original ways of doing things. It takes a tough-skinned person to last out a few thousand of these efforts to reduce all of us to one mould, one dead level.

Probably more than in any other sphere, manners are traditional. For really serious moral points of view most of us fall back on the Bible. But for the every-day contacts with our fellow human beings, we resort to age-old reminders of what to say, how to act, when to speak, when to remain silent. For some strange reason, I have never attempted to set down a list of traditional sayings that bear on good manners. I have collected hundreds of them, but they were mixed with all sorts of other beliefs. Maybe in my old age I should assemble what I know and remember, not to show that my generation actually kept all the rules, but to record what was expected of one who minded his manners.

EDA Approves Grant To Help Create Jobs At Louisa, Kentucky

Approval of a $72,800 grant for Louisa, to help create jobs for the unemployed, was announced last week.

Robert A. Podesta, assistant Secretary of Commerce for Economic Development, said the grant from the Economic Development Administration, will be used to enlarge the community's water system to serve a hospital, a school and a residential area.

The grant is part of President Nixon's program to create immediate jobs in areas of high unemployment.

In their application for the federal grant, Louisa officials said the project will employ four persons from the area.

The City of Louisa will provide $18,200 to complete the $91,000 total cost of the project.

Martin-Fischvogt Vows Said

Wedding vows were exchanged Aug. 12 by Miss Vicki Lynn Martin and Kent Douglas Fischvogt at St. Peter's Lutheran Church in Columbus, Indiana. The Rev. E. L. Brandt solemnized the 2 p.m. ceremony. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Martin, Route 4, Columbus, and Mr. and Mrs. Norval H. Fischvogt, 2595 Franklin St., Columbus.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of silk organza. The Venise lace bodice was designed with a high neckline and short sleeves. Garlands of matching lace trimmed the A-line skirt which was edged with scalloped lace and featured a chapel-length train. A Camelot hat secured a lace bordered chapel-length veil of silk illusion. The bride carried a bouquet of an orchid and white roses.

Miss Robin Martin, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Lita Foley, Columbus, Miss Gail Anthony, Columbus, and Miss Shirley Cook, cousin of the bride, Phoenix, Arizona. Miss Denise Hall, cousin of the bride, of Roanoke, Ind., was flower girl.

Attendants wore matching Empire dresses of blue, green and lilac floral pattern on a white organza background designed with bell sleeves. Each attendant wore a picture hat and carried a colonial bouquet of blue and green carnations and white roses.

Jeff Fischvogt, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Groomsmen were Alan Scheidt, of Columbus, Jim Voelz, Columbus, and Steve Armbrust, Richmond, Indiana.

A reception was held at Otter Creek clubhouse, Columbus, following the ceremony. Serving the cake were Mrs. Joan Flanery, cousin of the bride, of Printer, and Mrs. Gayle Applegate, of Columbus. Serving the punch were Miss Connie Hall, Woodburn, Ind., and Mrs. Tonna Theile, cousin of the bride, of Decatur, Indiana.

Following their return from a wedding trip to the South, the newlyweds reside at 1116 Whitcomb, Indianapolis.

Mrs. Fischvogt is employed as a private secretary to the Communications Director of Indiana University—Purdue University campus in Indianapolis. Mr. Fischvogt attends IU-PUI, Indianapolis campus, where he is a freshman dental student. He is a graduate of Indiana University.

Mrs. Fischvogt is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Martin, of Eastern, and Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Hall, R. 1, Roanoke, Ind., former residents of this county. She is the great-granddaughter of the late Mrs. Mary C. Johns, of Eastern.

TB Control Head Recommends Closing of Ashland Hospital

During a seminar session on new developments in the treatment of TB, held during the Kentucky Medical Association meeting in Louisville last week, Dr. H. M. Vandiviere, director of the Division of Tuberculosis Control, State Department of Health, announced that he is asking Governor Ford to close the TB hospital at Ashland.

Vandiviere said that because of new developments in TB treatment, average hospital stays in the past year have been reduced from 240 days to 90 days. Occupancy consequently is down to 30 per cent at the state's facility at Ashland, 40 per cent at London, 60 per cent at Paris and between 70 and 80 per cent at Glasgow and Madisonville, he said. Each of the hospitals have 112 beds, he said.

The reduced occupancy rates sharply increase per patient costs, while a consolidation of facilities would reduce them, Vandiviere said. The move also would permit the state to spend more money on TB prevention measures, he added.

The factors permitting reduced hospital stays, Vandiviere said, are the development of new TB-fighting drugs, the development of clinics around the state that permit care of TB patients in their homes, and the increased willingness of private physicians to help in TB care.

"We still have a tremendously serious problem in Kentucky," Vandiviere said, adding that the state is seventh in the country in the rate of new, active TB cases.

TB has become a disease associated with people of a relatively low socio-economic class. Most serious incidences of the disease in Kentucky are found in inner city areas and in Appalachia, Vandiviere said.

Throughout most of the United States, TB has become an urban problem, but in Kentucky, it has remained both rural and urban, he said.

In the state, there are nearly 12,000 active TB cases and between 1,400 and 1,500 new cases reported annually, Vandiviere said.

During the seminar on TB, Dr. John H. McClement, director of chest service at Bellevue Hospital in New York City, called the development of a new drug, Rifampin, a major step in the treatment of TB.

McClement said the drug has been used extensively for two years and brought "excellent results with urban TB patients." He cited a study made on patients given both Rifampin and Isoniazid (INH) as proof of advances in TB treatment.

After 20 weeks on both drugs, 102 persons were tested, and only two patients still had positive results, McClement said. One of the patients was delinquent in taking the drugs, and the other had a previously undetected resistance to Rifampin. The latter person's treatment was changed, and she, too, had favorable results, he said.

Vandiviere said the state makes the drugs recommended by McClement available to physicians in Kentucky.

Library Notes

By ALICE HACKWORTH
(Floyd County Librarian)

Election year 1972 has been a time of controversial views and happenings. Voters are in the process of deciding who is best qualified to fill the office of President of the United States.

Patrons of the Floyd County Library keep abreast of the issues, controversies, and campaign programs of each of the candidates by reading current periodicals available at the library.

Daily newspapers (Courier Journal and Herald Dispatch) provide the readers with an up-to-the minute report of campaign progress as well as local news. Weekly magazines (Time, Newsweek, U. S. News and World Report) provide additional campaign reports as well as special articles about each of the candidates, their speeches and their supporters.

Library patrons may read such books as "McGovern: a Biography," by Robert Anson; "One Man Alone: Richard Nixon," by Ralph De Toledard; or "Agnew: the Unexamined Man," by Robert Marsh to learn about the candidates.

Readers might also discover behind-the-scenes activities from "The Electric Mirror," by Sig Michelson, a discussion of the effects of television upon campaigns; "Winning Your Campaign," a nut-and-bolts guide to political victory by Hunt Parkinson; or "Dirty Politics," by Bruce Felklow.

Few things in a young lady's life can equal the excitement, the glamour, the suspense of a beauty contest. Every girl dreams of being "Miss America," because it exemplifies the perfect, or ideal young lady, in whom the entire nation can take pride, saying "Our Miss America." Although the term "beauty" is still used, beauty is only a small part of today's judging. The same holds true with any person or business or institution. Beautiful buildings are fine, but true judgment is in the service that institution renders in the community. We at First National always keep that fact foremost as we strive for progress.

New Blasting Law Effective Oct. 6

Kentucky's 1000 or so users of explosives must start making arrangements to obtain licenses under the state's new blasting law which takes effect Oct. 6. Licenses will be required for anyone using explosive charges of greater than five pounds.

The Kentucky Department of Mines and Minerals has added a Division of Explosives and Blasting to enforce the law.

According to D. T. Froedge, director of the new division, "KRS 351.310-40 also will require the keeping of proper records on blasting, special permits for charges greater than 40,000 pounds, and a limit to the "charge per delay period."

Charge per delay period refers to a technique which lessens shock from blasting. Part of the intent of the new law is to minimize damage to structures near blasting sites. The technique employs small charges detonated several thousandths of a second apart, instead of one large charge.

Explosives users must take a written test to qualify for the license, or waive the test by completing an affidavit which says the user has three years of experience in the field. Anyone blasting with greater than a five pound charge after Oct. 6 will be in violation of the law if they do not have a license.

"We're expecting a last minute rush to get these licenses, so blasters shouldn't delay in getting them," said Froedge. "The test is given at all district offices of the department; and a testing center has been established at Western Kentucky University for the convenience of persons in the south-central Kentucky area."

Froedge said his division is compiling a booklet of laws and regulations which apply to blasting in Kentucky. The booklet will be sent to all licensees.

The law will not apply to underground mining or agricultural blasting, but these must still comply with all other regulations.

Penalties for violation of the new law include court injunctions against blasting operations, and fines of $200 to $1000.

The Story of 'Bad' Talt Hall

By LUTHER FRAZIER

This is the story of Talt Hall. To most people he is noted as a famous murderer, clansman and feudist. In talking with many of the older people of Floyd and Knott counties, the mention of outlaws always brings up the name of "Bad Talt Hall". Why was Talt Hall called Bad? Did he really kill as many men as accused of? Did the hanging really take place? In the next few paragraphs I want to answer and relate some of the stories to these questions as told to me and what I've read on them.

Talt Hall was born around 1852 in Letcher county, Kentucky. According to Roy L. Sturgill, author of "Crimes, Criminals, and Characters of the Cumberland and Southwest Virginia," "Hall was familiar with killing because his father, old Dave Hall, had killed several men in private brawls." He says that "Talt Hall started his life as a killer by killing an old man by the name of Henry Maggard. Some say the gang that Hall ran with brought Maggard from his home, made him kneel at a log, and let young Talt shoot him in the back."

According to Henry P. Scalf, he didn't acquire the name Bad Talt Hall from this. Scalf says that "Talt borrowed a gun on election day and at the mouth of Dry Creek precinct shot his first man. 'I've always been that coward Talt Hall,' he said. 'After this I'm going to be called Bad Talt Hall.' After this he walked from the astonished crowd, climbed a rail fence with the smoking gun in his hand, turned and crowed like a rooster."

And still another version is told to us by Thomas "Buddy" Hall, an 87-year-old Indian Creek native, whose father was an "own born" cousin of Talt's. Buddy goes along the same line as Scalf but goes into a little more detail. Buddy says "his first killing comes up over an election. That Bad Talt Hall had an uncle in the election and at the same time, Billy Triplett, his brother-in-law, had a man in the election that he wanted Talt to vote for. Well, Talt went on in and voted for his uncle and when he came back out, Triplett literally kicked his hind end. Bad Talt took off for the woods and was gone for an hour or so. Upon his return he had a pistol and shot and killed Triplett."

I think I would be inclined to go along with Scalf and Buddy Hall on what they say. It sounds almost unbelievable that a bunch of men are going to make an old man kneel at a log and let a young boy shoot him in the back. But I can see how a man could become enraged over an election and be mad enough to kill someone.

It is said by a few people that Bad Talt Hall went on to kill 99 persons. In Sturgill's book it is said: "One of the reporters at the Wise county jail asked Talt how many men had he really killed." Talt goes on to tell of the men he killed, which is five, all told. Other historians go on to say that Talt killed anywhere from eight to ten people. Thomas "Buddy" Hall tells us that Talt killed 22 men. I think I'll go along with the historians that say Bad Talt killed eight to ten, because 99 men sounds a little ridiculous for one man to kill. He may very well have killed 22 men, but I believe eight to ten, because his killings finally caught up with him and led to his capture.

I think now I should mention "Little" Talt Hall—no relation to Bad Talt Hall—who killed several men in Kentucky and these victims were probably accredited to Bad Talt. Little Talt was killed in a shoot-out at the train depot in Martin, Floyd county.

Bad Talt Hall did not meet such a death as this. After Bad Talt killed his last victim, Enos Helton, he fled and went to Canada. Talt didn't care much for this climate and went from there to Memphis, Tennessee. He was captured early one morning by Memphis authorities and later returned to trial in Wise county, Virginia by Doc Taylor, immortalized by John Fox, Jr. as "the Red Fox."

After Bad Talt's trial and conviction, he was sentenced to hang. The date for the hanging was set for September 2, 1892, and now arises the question: Did the hanging really take place? Hall had a perfect record for being acquitted.

According to Sturgill, "it was well known that any juror who fought to convict any of the desperados would be marked for their friends, and as a consequence they always escaped. In this way, Hall was acquitted of the murder of Henry Maggard in 1866. He killed Don Pridemore in 1875 and was acquitted; a jury acquitted him of Mat Baker's murder in 1881, and he went free when he murdered his brother-in-law, Henry Houk, in 1883, but no officer tried to arrest him, and in 1885 he killed his cousin, Mark Hall, and laughed at the sheriff who tried to arrest him. Finally on July 14, 1891, he killed Chief of Police Hylton (Helton), of Norton, Virginia."

Now with a record like that, was anyone going to let the time-after-time-acquitted Hall be hanged? Doesn't seem likely, does it? And according to Bobby Slone, security officer at Alice Lloyd College, Bad Talt didn't hang. Says Slone: "That Devil John Wright marched into Norton with 100 men and surrounded the jail. The jailer wouldn't ever come outside, so Devil John had to deal with the henchman. In the enclosed scaffold that Bad Talt was to be hanged from, he had to fall a distance of six feet before the rope took hold. It is said that the rope was cut and the body of the now alive

Talt fell into a coffin. Nailing the lid down inside the enclosed scaffolds and carting the 'corpse' outside through the astonished crowd, Bad Talt was to have left and never be heard of again."

Of the people inside the enclosed scaffolds were Allen Hall, his cousin, and his sister Mrs. Bates. Could they have had anything to do with the cutting of the rope if it was acually cut?

According to the newspapers at the time of the hanging, Devil John Wright had given up all hope of rescuing Bad Talt, and instead sent one of his men to bring the body back to Elkhorn, Letcher county, Kentucky. And according to Floyd Killen, 91, of Pound River Valley, Virginia, he knew personally John Wright, Doc Taylor, and Talt Hall. He "sat up" with Bad Talt Hall's body after it was hauled back by Devil John Wright to Elkhorn from Wise. He remembers vividly the bruised neck of the Beaver Creek badman who died at the end of a Virginia rope.

So, I would say that the legendary Bad Talt Hall did die at the end of a rope.

Hamilton Named In Suit by State

Among the tax suits filed by the state last week was one seeking a restraining order against Sterling Hamilton, of Teaberry, operator of the Sterling Hamilton Coal Co., the Holly Bush Coal Co. and the Ligon Preparation Company.

The state claims that Hamilton owes judgments totaling $5,814.33 in unemployment insurance taxes. Hamilton was sued, earlier this year, by the director of reclamation who alleged that he did strip-mining without a permit.

Vote List Compiled For ASC Elections

A list of eligible voters for Floyd County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) community committee elections to be held later this year is now being compiled at the ASCS office.

Producers may check at the local ASCS office to make sure that they are listed to receive ballots in the mail elections.

Producers and the general public may inspect the list from now until December 1 at the Floyd county ASCS office located above the Western Auto Store in downtown Prestonsburg.

Voter eligibility for ASC committeemen elections is non-discriminatory and is applicable without regard to race, creed, color, sex, or national origin. A farmer who is eligible to participate in any ASCS program is eligible to vote in ASC elections. This includes not only producers of legal voting age who own, rent or sharecrop a farm but also minors who supervise and conduct farming operations on an entire farm. Spouses of eligible voters can participate in ASCS elections if they are joint owners or joint tenants of the farm.

In addition to these voters, any legal partnership, such as associations, estates, trusts, state, or state agencies may also receive a ballot. Each owner in a joint farm ownership also has a vote. But a producer may vote in only one community election in the county, regardless of the number of farming interests he has in different communities.

GOVERNOR'S ROUNDUP KICKOFF—Gov. Wendell Ford shares a laugh with Ray Alimonas of Lexington at a banquet officially launching the 1972 Governor's Roundup, a statewide drive to recruit 6500 new Scouts in Kentucky. ### Kentucky Governor Wendell Ford Opens Scout Membership Drive Frankfort, Ky.—In cooperation with Scoutmasters from across the commonwealth, Gov. Wendell Ford has officially launched the 1972 Governor's Roundup, a statewide campaign to recruit 6,500 new Scouts in Kentucky.

The Roundup, which ends Dec. 15, includes all three phases of Scouting: Cubs, Boy Scouts and Explorers.

Governor Ford, honorary chairman of the membership drive, will help publicize the Roundup.

Kentucky is below the national average for boys involved in the scouting program and officials hope the Roundup will change that situation.

Governor Ford recently hosted a kickoff dinner for the campaign at Lexington's Tates Creek Country Club attended by approximately 300 Scouts and troop leaders of the Thoroughbred District of the Blue Grass Boy Scout Council.

To avoid any possible communication problem adult leaders might have with the younger generation and to encourage greater participation in the drive among individual Scouts, the Governor's Roundup calls for the Scouts themselves to do the actual recruiting.

Each Scout who directly and individually recruits one or more new boys into the scouting program will receive the

West Liberty Sorghum Festival To Kick Off Sesquicentennial

By HELEN PRICE STACY

West Liberty, Ky.—Here and there in Morgan county cane mills already are in operation, boiling green cane juice into thick, golden-amber syrup to be sold at the second annual Morgan County Sorghum Festival in West Liberty, Oct. 13-14.

The festival has added excitement this year. It signals the start of Morgan county's year-long sesquicentennial celebration which will culminate with the 1973 festival.

Highlight of the festival will be a mule-powered cane mill located on Main Street, where everyone will have opportunity to "dip" in a cane stalk and taste the sweet nectar that was known as "long sweetening" to earlier generations. Sorghum will be sold by the gallon, plenty to last all winter even if poured over hot biscuits every day, fried in a skillet or used in cakes, pies and cookies.

In addition to many arts, crafts and other entertainment, including a Saturday parade, the event will see the opening of Town Cinema on Main Street, a section that was burned out in a 1970 fire, and the release of the county's first booksize history.

Edgar Tolson of Campton, popular wood sculptor, plans to exhibit at the festival as do many Central and Eastern Kentucky artists.

All art and crafts booths and food booths will be located on Main Street beneath a 240-foot circus tent, suspended from light pole to light pole.

Under the big top, Morgan countians will demonstrate weaving on both an inkle loom and larger loom, spinning on a flax wheel, rope making, grist mill grinding, whittling, shingle splitting with a mallet and frow, pottery making with a hand-made potter's wheel, jewelry making, chair caning with hickory strips, quilting, basket and broom making and hand tatting.

Products from the demonstrations will be for sale, as will cornshuck dolls and flowers, homemade bonnets, furniture, wood carvings, lye soap, antiques, original art, dulcimers and other traditional crafts of hill people.

One concession stand will offer a country dinner of soup beans, onions and cornbread; another, molasses gingerbread and coffee; another, Bybee souvenir jugs filled with Morgan-Made Molasses. Other booths will sell dried apples, sulphured apples, pickled beans and corn, shuck beans, corncob jelly and old-time preserves.

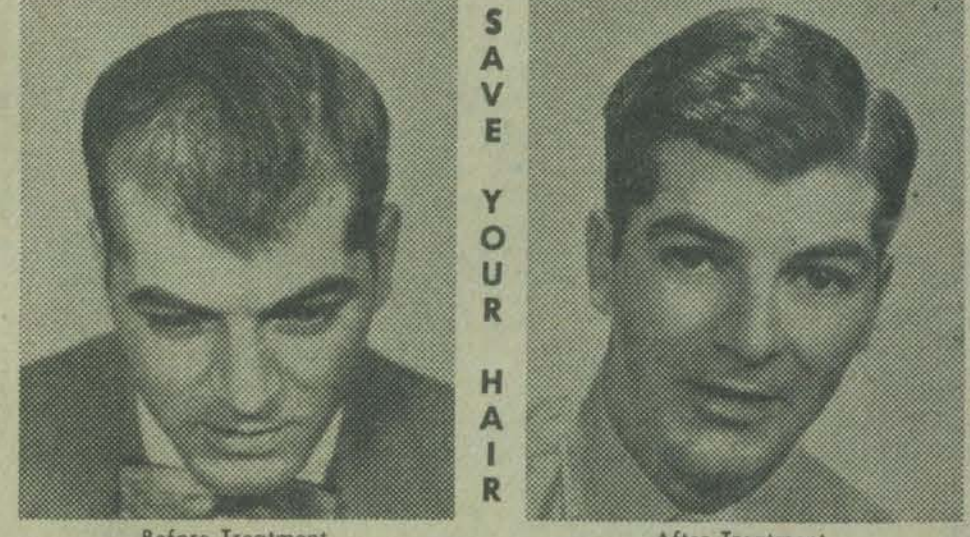

A country store will sell everything from pumpkins and cushaws to plug tobacco and calico. There will be patchwork quilts and crocheted afghans, quilt-piece cushion covers and coverlets.

If you are not already slick bald, how can you be sure what is actually causing your hair loss? Even if baldness seems to "run in the family," this is certainly no proof of the cause of your hair loss.

Many conditions can cause hair loss. No matter which one is causing your hair loss, if you wait until you are slick bald and your hair roots are dead you are beyond help. If you still have hair on the top of your head, don't put it off until it's all off. It doesn't make sense for a man to let himself go bald, certainly not without seeing a National Hair and Scalp Consultant to see if we can help you.

CAN'T HELP
Male pattern baldness is the cause of a great majority of cases of baldness and excessive hair loss, for which no method is effective. National's Hair Consultant cannot help those who are slick bald after years of gradual hair loss.

HEALTH FOR ALL... Power Pollution
(By the Kentucky Tuberculosis & Respiratory Disease Ass'n)

Everybody is for motherhood and apple pie but against air pollution. Or is everybody?

Apple pie is holding its own but even motherhood has its opponents these days. As for air pollution, a study of private power companies across the country concluded they are lagging far behind in the fight to combat pollution.

The year-long, independent study, released by the Council on Economic Priorities—a nonprofit organization financed by foundations—focused on 124 plants that generate one-quarter of the nation's electric power. Among these plants, the report said, nearly half continue to burn high-sulphur oil or coal, pumping huge amounts of sulphur dioxide into the air. Sulphur oxides can dissolve marble and eat away iron and steel. They can limit visibility and cut down the light from the sun. Even low concentrations can injure the delicate tissues in our lungs.

In addition, 81 percent of the plants had no controls at all for emissions of nitrogen oxides, the gases that help form smog. And only a third of the power plants had adequate controls for soot. According to the study, most companies were spending only a fraction of one percent of their combined gross operating revenues on anti-pollution research and development.

Spokesmen for the power plants have strongly criticized the study, predicting that the price of electric power could more than double by 1990 and blaming environmentalists as one cause of actual or threatened power shortages.

Fighting pollution is a complicated and serious business. A business everybody should begin. To find out more about how to do it, contact your state tuberculosis and respiratory disease association. It's a matter of life and breath.
