

Refund Due By 3 Towns In County

New Figures Show Wayland, W'Wright And Allen Overpaid

While other Kentucky counties and municipalities are scheduled to share in a $1.7 million windfall of extra revenue sharing funds, three Floyd county towns are among those who will be required to repay a portion of the funds they have received as a result of overpayment of federal funds.

The town of Allen, it was announced in Washington, will be required to repay $7,047. Wheelwright's refund will amount to $5,767, and Wayland's, $2,362.

Floyd county apparently was unaffected by the adjustment of funds, but several counties of the area will benefit by windfalls in excess of $50,000. These and the amounts each is scheduled to receive are:

Pike, $138,420; Johnson, $91,247; Lawrence, $102,653; Letcher, $73,125; Perry, $100,987; Boyd, $103,737.

Biggest loser in this area after the apportionment of funds was refigured is Ashland with a loss of $116,825.

The adjustment in sharing funds will show up in four checks this fiscal year, the first of which will go out in October. In some cases past overpayments will be deducted from future checks, but in the cases of the three Floyd county towns and some others repayment will be required. In some cases, it was said, the money has already been allocated or spent.

The increases and decreased result from a new tabulation recently completed by the Office of Revenue Sharing using updated population and tax data.

The payments are based on an area's population, per capita income and the effort it makes to raise its own taxes. "To make a long story short, much of this information wasn't available last year and we had to use estimates," said Priscilla R. Crane, a revenue-sharing information officer. Data on local tax efforts was particularly incorrect, she said.

Am. Standard Walkout Ends, 13 Suspended

A "wildcat walkout" of some 500 American Standard factory workers, which began last Tuesday, ended Thursday with the three-day suspension of 13 plant employees.

The suspended employees, all members of the United Steel Workers of America Local 7926, were, according to J.K. Wells, Paintsville attorney, representing the striking employees, "hand picked" for allegedly organizing the walkout.

The company has alleged that the walkout violates contract terms and shortly after the strike began Tuesday, company officials were granted a temporary injunction by Johnson County Circuit Court Judge W. D. Sparks. The injunction named 13 employees and restrained them from hindering orderly access to the plant.

Judge Sparks also issued 33 contempt citations Wednesday after some of the employees allegedly blocked the plant entrance.

Wells said he met Wednesday afternoon with those who had left their jobs at 7 a.m. Tuesday and persuaded them to return to work so their grievances could be worked out according to contract terms.

"I told them they could win the battle but lose the war" if they didn't return to work, Mr. Wells said.

After the workers began returning to the plant on the 4:30 p.m. shift, plant manager Jim Hulsman reported the employees' grievances would be worked out "according to the terms of the contract," and if that fails, an impartial arbitrator will conduct hearings. He said meetings between plant management and the union would begin in a few days.

The dissident employees complained of wage and job cutbacks, saying jobs were being consolidated, resulting in employee layoffs. The remaining workers, they stated, were subjected to a 40 cent per hour wage slash.

Hulsman said these points would be discussed during the grievance hearings. He admitted some employees were displaced during the job consolidation move and the employee holding the consolidated job "will earn less."

The workers had complained that the company was an unsafe place to work. Hulsman termed this charge "an after thought" on the part of employees after

Work on Bridge At Emma Begun By Contractor

Work on the bridge to span the Big Sandy at Emma—possibly one of the most widely publicized state highway projects in Eastern Kentucky—began Monday.

Equipment of the Edwards & Webb Construction Co., Danville, Ky., contractors on the project, began arriving at the site last week.

"It looks like we're on our way!" exclaimed Mrs. Flo Weddington Adams, the Emma woman who began the fight for a modern span to replace the ancient and oft-condemned suspension-type bridge that has linked the community with old US 23.

Mrs. Adams said she first began working for the bridge in February, 1971 when she presented a petition to officials, requesting construction, and accompanied this with photos of the old span.

Edwards & Webb contracted to build the bridge for $439,899. They have 130 working days in which to complete the job, but Sundays and holidays are excluded and work may be suspended in the "bad weather season" from Nov. 15 to April 1. Completion is expected next summer.

The ground-breaking ceremony originally planned for the bridge beginning will not be held because of the heavy work schedule of Governor Ford.

That leaves the dedication ceremony the big event toward which those living on the Emma side of the river will be looking.

ROPES Leaders Set Voc Training As No. 1 Priority

Directors of ROPES Region 11 at their meeting here July 19 adopted as their No. 1 priority for the 1973-74 school year the expansion of vocational facilities and the establishing of new programs in vocational and general education.

No. 2 on their priority list is the procuring of more elementary and secondary guidance counselors whose services would be paid for under the state Minimum Foundation Program.

Two new superintendents—Orville Hamilton, of Johnson county, and James T. Dotson, of Pike—became new members of the board of directors. Charles Clark, superintendent of Floyd schools, chairman of the ROPES board, presided at the meeting.

Other priorities adopted urged the importance of (1) making information available to local school superintendents so that they may take advantage of state price contract purchasing; (2) bringing State Department of Education officials to each Region 11 board meeting; (3) providing in-service education programs for guidance counselors, vocational education, music and kindergarten teachers and for others in areas that may be requested by superintendents.

Last on the list of priorities was the one which called for a better system of screening persons who are to become guidance counselors, in order to determine if they are by attitude and personality suited for the work. In all, 24 priorities were listed.

Other actions by the board: Approved a project application filed by Mountain Comprehensive Care Center to construct a regional mental health center central facility.

Enforcement Failure Laid to Slack Funds

A lack of funding which keeps its operating force restricted and a population growth and water usage which "we can't keep up with" were listed by a Division of Water Enforcement official last week as handicaps which prevent an effective enforcement program.

The statement was made by Doug Shoulders, administrator of the division, in a discussion of a recent Times editorial, "The 'Rock and Roll' Continues," July 4, which cites uncontrolled operation of boats at Dewey Lake.

Mr. Shoulders pointed out that his division has 606 lakes of 10 acres under supervision and that it is estimated 2 million persons will soon be using the state's waterways.

Besides additional funds, there is a real need, he said, for legislative action to fix responsibility for boat operators. As the law now stands, Mr. Shoulders pointed out, there is no age limit, no training and no examination required for a boat operator, despite the inherent dangers to himself and others.

Because of the lack of funds, only one ranger, Corneilus Freeman, patrols

Detectives Continue Archer Death Probe

A quiet investigation into the slaying here of Dr. George P. Archer continued this week, but no new developments were forthcoming.

Commonwealth's Attorney Harold J. Stumbo said two state police detectives announced at a conference held here last week that they propose to continue the investigation until every lead is exhausted.

Two Greenhouses Up, Others To Be Built

The two greenhouses pictured above, the first of eight such structures to be erected as part of Mountain Comprehensive Care Center's Greenhouse Training Project, were near completion Monday, across U.S. 23 from the new Highlands Regional Medical Center, near here.

Tom Hummer, project director, said at least three more will be erected at this site, bringing to one-half acre the greenhouse space there. The site is near the proposed location of Mountain Comprehensive Care's planned mental health facility.

The two greenhouses, erected by an Indiana construction crew, are 28 feet wide and 144 long and are covered by two layers of plastic sheeting. They are heated by natural gas.

The six other structures which remain to be built will be

Mr. Shoulders pointed out that boat license fees are paid at the circuit clerk's office of each county and that these collections go into a state fund other than that of the Department of Transportation of which his division is a part.

The Times editorial criticized Division of Water Enforcement personnel, alleging that they were in evidence at boat licensing time but seldom seen at Dewey Lake thereafter.

Join for Action On Stream Work

Floyd county and the city of Martin moved this week toward court action in an effort to save for Martin and vicinity the $1 million stream improvement-flood protection project already partially funded by Congress.

Jarvis Allen, attorney for both the city and the county, has prepared upwards of 50 condemnation suits as an effort was being made to gain rights of entry onto property by September 1.

Joe Wheeler Burchett, Frank Arnett and Ellis Martin were named commissioners to evaluate the damage to property-owners. The cases that come to trial will be heard in the Floyd quarterly court but may be appealed to circuit court.

The proposed work will involve widening, straightening and deepening of the channel of Beaver Creek from near the confluence of Right and Left Beaver Creeks, west of Martin, to a point near the Sammy Clark Branch, between Martin and Allen.

Hospital Strike Moves to Floyd

This Town . . . That World

Cast, troll, fish, hour after hour after interminable hour... That was last week. And now I wish I was casting, trolling, fishing, hour after hour after interminable hour... Sometimes, if I were not convinced I may have been born to be a ne'er-do-well, I might be tempted to consult a psychiatrist.

THE SLIP THAT PASSES

Well, we did it last week. Lest the Reader's Digest beat us to it, we rehash the whole thing.

There was this social item which told of some nice folks from Prestonsburg touring the west and winding up with a visit to Mr. Tushmore in the Black Hills.

The visit, of course, was to Mt. Rushmore.

Val Strahan was the first to crack up over this one, and he scampered from a hospital bed to call us. If that is the best Mr. Strahan can do, I suggest that he get out of that hospital and come on home.

WHEN THE ROOF LEAKED

When I ran into this tin can at the foot of the courthouse stairway catching the rain that was coming through the roof and percolating down to the first floor this morning, I recalled the story told by a former Allen woman of the time there when the town was threatened by flood.

One Nabbed Here As a Transporter

Howard Chaffins, of Prestonsburg, was arrested Monday noon by ABC Agent Arvel Nelson at the rear of the VFW Club here, and the officer confiscated 10 cases of beer from his vehicle. Chaffins' hearing on a transporting charge has been set for Aug. 10 in Magistrate Bill Wells' court.

Prestonsburg police were seeking the identity this week of the person or persons who burglarized the Halstead Shoe Shop on Court street Sunday night but had made no arrest as of Tuesday morning. The haul was placed at $58.17 in cash and merchandise.

Others booked at the county jail within the week, charges against each and names of arresting officers follow:

Bobby Wallen, drunk driving, by State Trooper Phillip Tucker; Jackie Garland Conn, drunk driving, by State Trooper E. B. Allen; Senatt Smith, drunk driving, by State Trooper A. Cantrell; Curtis Clemons, drunk driving, by State Trooper Tucker; William B. 40 at M'Dowell Join in Walkout; Pickets Banned

The Appalachian Regional Hospital strike ended Tuesday afternoon on order of the president of the United Steelworkers.

A strike which began Friday at the Appalachian Regional Hospital at South Williamson, Ky., had by Saturday spread to three other ARH facilities, including the ARH hospital at McDowell.

A restraining order issued by the Letcher Circuit Court Monday afternoon banned picketing at any of the four hospitals and ordered striking employees back to work.

Approximately 40 McDowell employees, including housekeepers, nurses' aides and maintenance personnel, staged a walkout Saturday afternoon in conjunction with the South Williamson strike which was apparently triggered by the three-day suspension of a pharmaceutical services department employee.

Hospital Administrator Edward Collins said that the McDowell walkout was, in all probability, a "sympathy strike." Appalachian Regional Hospitals at Beckley, W. Va. and Whitesburg have also joined in support of the South Williamson strike with an estimated total of 500 employees, members of a unit of the United Steelworkers Union, walking off their jobs in the four hospitals involved.

Collins said that five pickets from South Williamson arrived at McDowell at about 1:30 p.m. Saturday and later that afternoon the hospital employees left their jobs.

"There is a no-strike clause and the workers are clearly in violation of their contracts," Mr. Collins pointed out. He added that as yet no kind of negotiations have been carried out and said that "we will not talk with them until they return to work."

The incident which initiated the trouble, according to Chester York, president of United Steel Workers local 14398, occurred when a union man was taken off a union job and put in a non-union job. York explained that the man involved had a job in the pharmacy of wrapping packages, ordering drugs and keeping files. "He was placed in a job which he was not qualified for, that is, filling prescriptions," he said.

The employee was unfairly suspended, it is alleged, when he was unable to perform adequately in the new position. Director of the South Williamson hospital's pharmaceutical service department, Paul Baumgartner, said the man was suspended for three days because he refused to perform normally assigned duties.

Ray Roberts, administrator of the South Williamson facility, said the walkout there has not hindered the

Mrs. Martin Says She Shot Herself

Condition of Mrs. Naomi Martin, wife of Clarence Martin, formerly of McDowell, who suffered an abdominal bullet wound Saturday night at her home in Knott county, was described Tuesday as "satisfactory."

Mrs. Martin was taken to Our Lady of the Way Hospital at Martin, shortly after Saturday midnight. The wound, it was said, was caused by a revolver shot.

State police troopers who interviewed the wounded woman said she told them the wound was self-inflicted. The shooting occurred at the Martin place, near the mouth of Caney Creek in Knott county.

Roads Shouldn't Be Gauntlets

The Department of Highways' resurfacing program in this county is a work which deserves more than passing notice. The heavy volume of traffic, its crushing loads and the steady pounding of roads make necessary this work which looks not only to the comfort of motorists but also to their safety.

In the interest of safety The Times would hope that the Department will initiate a program designed to correct past mistakes. We refer to those roads in this and other counties which are bordered by precipitous walls, from the tops of which hang tons of rock as a continuing threat to every passerby.

U.S. 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville is a case in point. However smooth the surface of that road is made by the resurfacing now being done, the cause of safety is really not being served as long as the threat of rockfalls and slides remains.

In those precipitous, unterraced walls along this highway are alternating strata of sandstone, coal, shale, rock, perhaps more coal—all materials of such a nature that they crumble under heavy weight, the expansion of freezes and the attrition of rain, ice and snow—and on top of all that, almost seeming to totter on a weak pedestal, are huge slabs of rock.

Road crews do a lot of work along this particular route, clearing away rock and earth slides. Other rocks will fall—the biggest haven't fallen yet—and, inevitably, some day or night, a room-size boulder will crash onto a passing car.

The state shouldn't wait till tragedy forces its hand. The job of correcting the mistakes that were made long ago will be costly, but human life, though plentiful, isn't cheap.

Kentucky should look into the possibility of getting federal help toward getting this work done on federal routes. Whatever the financing problem, U.S. 23, KY 80 and other roads should not continue to be numbered gauntlets for the public on wheels to run.

Revenue Sharing Not For 'Nicer Dispensaries'

Editor, The Times:

Revenue sharing money was intended primarily to replace certain programs previously nullified by the vetoing President. It was not destined to be used to promote the ambitious goals of state, county, and city hall officials. It was not intended to be used for the building of capitol annexes, penthouse jails, or palatial municipal buildings. It is not for administrative windfalls.

It is being used so unwisely that some day it maybe used to build illegal bootleggers nicer dispensaries.

A Word for the Defense

Editor, The Times:

In defense of Sarah Helmontoler and Ruth Sippel: They have a right to express their opinion concerning "1776," and I am sure they were justified in condemning cursing and foul language. Profanity second-hand is no less profane. The same goes for foul language. Are we justified in taking God's name in vain because some one else did? We could leave out all the cursing and get our point across very well.

The Christian is understandably hurt and grieved at hearing God's name taken in vain. As for Mr. D. G. Wilson and his suggestion that the ladies walk out at the first "undelicate" word—come now, Mr. Wilson, aren't you being quite crude?

Junior Woman's Club Stresses Search for Pageant Contestants

Every young girl dreams of becoming Miss America. The girl who is selected Miss Floyd County Pageant queen could be the next Miss America.

Now is the time to decide for any young lady in the Floyd county area who qualifies, Mrs. Harold Cooley, president of the Prestonsburg Junior Woman's Club, said in calling for candidates to enter the pageant, which will be held Saturday night, August 25, at the Jenny Wiley Amphitheatre.

She called for civic and social organizations in the area to sponsor candidates and for individual young women to submit their own names as entries.

Information regarding entry can be procured by calling entries chairwoman, Mrs. John D. Sammons, at 886-6688 by Saturday noon.

To qualify, the entrant must be between the ages of 18 and 28 on September 1, 1974, must be a high school graduate and never married.

Talent will be considered in the judging and each contestant should possess some quality of talent, either trained or potential. In discussing the talent qualification, Mrs. Cooley stressed that the range is varied and that no girl must necessarily be trained in any specific field.

Mrs. Cooley pointed out that many entrants in previous pageants did not realize they possessed a quality of talent until they considered entering the contest.

She also pointed out that in almost every national Miss America Pageant conducted at Atlantic City, N. J., there have been state queens who have presented dramatic readings or comedy monologues as their talent presentations before a panel of nationally prominent judges.

"Any potential entrant may also have a talent unrealized," Mrs. Cooley commented, adding that a young woman might be a delightful singer, for example, without ever having exhibited her singing ability before an audience.

In urging civic and social organizations to sponsor candidates, the Junior Woman's Club president said each member of the organization should consider young women whom they know personally, relatives or daughters of friends, and should encourage the girls to enter the pageant.

Judging of the candidates will be based on the same values as considered at the Miss Floyd County Pageant and at the national Miss America Pageant.

Poise, beauty and talent are the three major requirements. Each contestant will be judged in evening gown, in swimsuit and in the presentation of her talent.

The winner of the Miss Floyd County Pageant will be provided a $300 scholarship which will enable her to continue her education at the college of her choice.

Menifee Offers Legend-History

By HELEN PRICE STACY
Indian Creek, Beaver Creek, Broke Leg Falls, Donathan Rock, Tater Knob and Carrington Rock—all of these are names to tease the imagination. All are found in Menifee county.

Beaver Creek has been described as the most unpolluted stream in the Commonwealth.

Indian Creek is a fisherman's paradise.

Broke Leg Falls and the area below the falls are scenic, archeologically interesting and historical. In the falls canyon, a cave (Murder Cave) provided potassium nitrate for use in the Civil War. In another section of the canyon legend connects caves with the popular Swift's silver mines.

Take any one section of the county and an entire history can be unfolded.

Carrington Rock is an example of the color that is paramount in this county which was established in 1869 and named for Owingsville's (Bath county) great orator and lawyer, Richard Menifee.

One incident involved Rebel troops who approached the great rock and, looking up at its height, saw a Union flag being waved. The group of Rebels took off on their horses, jumped a rail fence and dismounted at the foot of the rock. By the time the soldiers had climbed to the top, Miss Fannie Carrington had concealed the flag beneath a top skirt and kept it there until the soldiers left.

Another incident at the rock involved a church service. When it was announced that preaching would take place at the rock, a large crowd would make the trip to be present. Once, just as the preacher and some of his following reached the top of the rock, legend has it the sun went into total eclipse for about 30 minutes. The account indicates that no one left the rock in the darkness, but as soon as the sun reappeared, the preacher lost no time in descending, advising others to do the same.

The most unusual story concerning the great rock tells of a time during the Civil War when troops set up camp at its base. Unable to leave the camp, the soldiers were without food and water for three days. The story is that the soldiers' thirst became so intense they prayed for water. Their answer came in a clear, cold stream that began to flow from the rock, allowing the men to collect enough to last them until they were free.

Suiter's Grass (Ky. 31 fescue) was discovered in Menifee county. The county abounds in natural bridges, caves and waterfalls.

This county, in Eastern Kentucky, is rugged beyond belief. Its county seat, Frenchburg, is built long and narrow between towering mountains. Before the coming of Garrett Highway—now U.S. 460—the area was undeveloped in comparison with counties touched by a more modern transportation system. The Old State Road was rough and the wagon roads rougher. But Menifee countians were people of culture, descendants of proud Virginia and other pioneering stock. They persevered.

Today, with Cave Run Reservoir providing a new recreation source in the area, Menifee countians are beginning to see these rugged areas as tourist attractions. This is a rare area with much of the beauty of nature in the county unchanged by man. Years of isolation for the county may be at last turning into an asset rather than a liability.

The WIN II Program, administered jointly by the U. S. Departments of Labor and Health, Education, and Welfare, seeks to reduce dependency by referring persons receiving Aid to Families With Dependent Children to jobs.

Teenager Vols Work at Med Center

The program got under way July 16 with an orientation meeting of the volunteers with Mrs. Margaret Ackerman, R.N. and the sponsoring Prestonsburg Junior Woman's Club members.

Following a detailed outline of the program from Mrs. Ackerman, the volunteers received their uniforms and working assignments to begin July 17. Another meeting for prospective volunteers is planned soon for those who were unable to attend the first meeting.

Floyd Co. Leads In Auto Deaths With 6 Victims

During the first six months of this year, Capt. Billie Lykins, commander of Kentucky State Police Post. No. 9 at Pikeville, said last week, 15 persons were killed and 526 were injured in highway accidents in the five-county area served by the post.

Floyd county with six deaths had the grisliest record for the period, Jan. 1 to June 30. Pike was next with five, Johnson and Martin counties had two, and Magoffin had none. In the five counties state police investigated a total of 910 motor accidents during the period.

Forty-two accidents in Floyd county alone were investigated last month. During June 81 persons were arrested in the area on drunk driving charges. Pike county had 29 of these, Magoffin 25, Floyd 18, Martin 6 and Johnson county 3.

State police conducted 37 criminal investigations in this county during June and made 30 criminal arrests. The score in this department for other counties in the area during the same time: Pike, 54 investigations and 22 arrests; Magoffin, 18 and 24; Johnson, 9 and 2; Martin 6 and 5.

More than two million federal civilian employees are protected by the Federal Employees' Compensation Act, administered by the U. S. Department of Labor.

Man of La Mancha Opens Tonight

From left—Jerry Winsett as Sancho, Lane Davies as Don Quixote and Leilani Cerveris as Aldonza in "Man of La Mancha," now playing at the Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre.

"Man of La Mancha"—the musical entertainment that has everything, including "The Impossible Dream"—will begin a three-week run at Jenny Wiley State Park's amphitheatre this evening (Wednesday) and continue through August 19 nightly, except Mondays and Tuesdays, presented by the Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre. One of the greatest hits of the Broadway stage, "Man of La Mancha" will star Lane Davies in the dual role of Don Quixote, the fantastic knight-errant, and his creator, the beleaguered 17th century Spanish novelist, Cervantes.

When it was first presented in 1965 "Man of La Mancha" was hailed by the N.Y. Daily News critic as "the finest and most original work in our musical theatre." It ranks with "Fiddler on the Roof," "Hello, Dolly," and "My Fair Lady" as one of the thrilling super-attractions of the modern musical theatre, and has been acclaimed in productions all over the world. Its song hits, "Dulcinea" and "The Impossible Dream," have become classics. The show so impressed critics that it won almost every major stage award during its first Broadway season.

The book of "Man of La Mancha" was adapted by Dale Wasserman from Cervantes' immortal classic, "Don Quixote," and it presents the story of the windmill-tilting cavalier as he is evolved by his creator. Cervantes transforms himself into Quixote in full view of the audience as he sings the stirring "I, Don Quixote." The hilarious adventures of the questing knight unfold in a series of lusty scenes accompanied by rousing song numbers, as Quixote, accompanied by his faithful servant Sancho Panza, pursues his deluded dream of chivalry.

Jerry Winsett will be seen as Quixote's forbearing follower, Sancho Panza. Leilani Cerveris will portray the slatternly tavern maid whom the Don mistakes for his fair lady, Dulcinea. Butch Miller is the gruff innkeeper whose squalid tavern the befuddled Quixote imagines to be a lordly castle. Other leading members of the large cast will be Kevin Lane Dearing, Pete Franklin and George Bennett. Howard Enoch has directed "Man of La Mancha" and Rex Lyons designed the scenery that shifts from Cervantes' murky dungeon to the various sites of Quixote's mad and mirthful escapades. Pat Douglas has designed and constructed the costumes of the battered but gallant Don and his disreputable cohorts in a raffish raiment of the period.

Michael Cerveris is the musical conductor and has added musicians and instrumentations to the resident orchestra to give the musical accompaniment the most outstanding quality and impact of any Broadway productions.

"Man of La Mancha" will be the final production of the 1973 company.

Garrett Boy Is Member Of Group Accompanying Upward Bound Players

Garrett, Ky.—"Charlie Brown," the stage production offered by the Alice Lloyd summer players, has been termed a hit by many who saw it. The program for both children and adults has played on campus to large audiences and also at Lee's Junior College, at Jackson, and the players have an invitation to stage their version of Charlie Brown and his friends in Connecticut, sometime this summer, with full orchestration.

Directing the group which supplies the musical accompaniment is Mark Rice, band and music director of Allen Central High and the Garrett and Wayland elementary schools during the school year.

Joe David Harvey, a fifth-year student of Mr. Rice's plays the trombone for the group. He is the 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Harvey and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. George Martin, all of Garrett. He is attending Alice Lloyd's Upward Bound summer program and will be a junior at Allen Central this fall.

The oriental sensation—now gives America the action its been waiting for!

By the time this photo was taken Monday night of last week flames had almost levelled this small frame house occupied by Doc Harris on Lake Road, near the mouth of Corn Fork.

Official Opening Set For Halfway House

Halfway House, the regional intermediate care facility for alcoholics, located at 221 College Street, Pikeville, will observe its opening with open house Friday, August 17.

James Klein, regional alcoholism and drug abuse coordinator, said the Halfway House is the first such intermediate care facility in the Big Sandy region. Several state and local dignitaries have been invited to attend and participate in the official opening of the facility.

The Halfway House was actually opened in June and is operated by the Volunteers of America under an affiliation agreement with Mountain Comprehensive Care Center. Resident managers are Mr. and Mrs. Earl Tucker. While the Tuckers manage the house, all clinical services for the alcoholics in residence there are provided by the Pike county staff of Mountain Comprehensive Care Center.

One of the few but little known rules of admission to Halfway House is that all applicants must be sober and remain sober during their stay at the facility. This and a few other basic rules make the facility a place of support and encouragement toward a fuller life of sobriety for those suffering the illness known as alcoholism.

State Revenues Break Record

Frankfort, Ky.—Kentucky revenue receipts increased and in several areas records were broken during the 1972-'73 fiscal year.

General fund receipts for the year were a record $726,286,082—12.3 percent over last year's figure.

Inheritance and estate tax receipts reached a record of $14,501,170. The major increase in the property taxes was the result of some half million in public service company tax receipts resulting from favorable litigation.

Totalling $395,011,307, road fund receipts for the fiscal year increased 34.7 percent. Road fund tax receipts of $258,337,255 were up 34.4 percent over last year. Non-tax receipts in the road fund increased by 35.1 percent and totaled $136,674,052.

Coal severance tax receipts for its first full fiscal year totaled $37,226,134.

Sales and use tax receipts of $316,491,954 were fractionally below last year because of the exemption of food for home consumption, effective Oct. 1, 1972. Individual income tax receipts of $179,216,109 were up 14.6 percent.

Corporation income tax receipts of $69,338,442 were 28.6 percent over last year. The sharp increase was the result of the change in rate structure and an unprecedented rise in corporate profits.

Cigarette tax receipts of $15,709,958 were up 13.1 percent over last year. Parimutual tax jumped 12.9 percent to $8,150,517. The three alcoholic beverage taxes registered moderate increases (under five percent).

Motor fuels normal tax receipts of $166,641,157 were 44.6 percent above last year. Most of the large increase in these receipts was caused by an increase in rate from 7 to 9 cents a gallon and in a change in reporting date resulting in thirteen monthly payments being received in the fiscal year.

Phenomenal sales of cars and trucks combined with a change in the tax base boosted motor vehicle usage taxes 26.8 percent to $55,743,093.

Moderate increases were registered in motor vehicle registrations and operators' license tax receipts.

Agency funds receipts increased 16 percent to $538,851,732. The principal item was the receipt of $44,989,675 in Federal revenue sharing.

Perkins Says Fund Cuts Would Upset Education In State

Rep. Carl D. Perkins of Kentucky testified before the Senate Appropriations Subcommittee holding hearings on education funds, and told the subcommittee unless each school district is ensured the same amount of Federal money next September as it got from Federal funds last September, education will be thrown into turmoil.

Rep. Perkins got a provision inserted in the bill protecting Kentucky from losing any Federal funds when the bill was in the House, but because of its rules the House bill could not protect each local school district.

The Senate operates under different rules, and Rep. Perkins urged that the protection be installed in the Senate bill. Then, when both the Senate and House determine what the final bill will say, the provision protecting local school districts can be included.

Rep. Perkins brought Dr. Lyman Ginger, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, with him to the hearing, and Dr. Ginger also testified on the need for equity among all children.

"Unless a local educational agency provision is incorporated in the appropriations bill," Rep. Perkins said, "a distorted distribution of funds will occur within the state. The school districts suffering the greatest hardship will be those least able to cope with it—the poorest school districts in Kentucky and in the country."

The problem is caused by a statistical distortion in the number of children in different school districts who are from lower income families.

This distortion would be used to figure how the Federal funds in the program, which is called Title I, would be used, and the result would not be equitable—all children would not be treated fairly.

"I want to see this Congress correct the distortion," Rep. Perkins said.

$3,555.89 Alloted For Martin Work

Frankfort, Ky.—Governor Wendell H. Ford and Transportation Secretary Elijah M. Hogge announced July 27 the 1973-74 Municipal Aid Program for the City of Martin in Floyd County. The program is based on an allotment of $3,555.89 for the coming fiscal year.

Highway Commissioner James E. Gray explained that the program provides for sidewalks on Beaver Street and Water Street in Martin.

The activities authorized will be accomplished by the city with the Bureau of Highways financing all or a portion of the work in accordance with the Municipal Aid Agreement.

The Municipal Aid Program, which became effective July 1, 1973, is designed to help local officials provide for a variety of community improvement projects.

The appropriation for the fiscal year beginning July 1 is $9,330,000. This sum is distributed among the incorporated and unincorporated areas according to the terms of a formula chosen by the General Assembly in 1972.

The program is selected annually after consultation with the city or urban place. A formal agreement has been signed by officials acting for each party.

Ivan Slone

Ivan Slone, 53 years old, of Corunna, Ind., formerly of Floyd county, died July 23 at McCray Memorial hospital at Corunna.

A retired Kendallville, Ind., foundry worker, Mr. Slone was born Dec. 22, 1919 in Hindman, a son of the late John L. and Suzannah Thomas Slone.

Survivors include his widow, Nannie; a daughter Mrs. Ed Payne, of Avilla, Ind.; a son, Joe Slone, of Garrett, Ind.; two sisters, Opel Slone and Lokie Pratt, both of Hindman, and two brothers, Ralph Slone, of Beaver, Ohio, and Lester Slone, of Hindman. Fourteen grandchildren and one great-grandchild also survive.

Funeral services were conducted at 1 p.m. the following Thursday at the Berhalter-Preston Mortuary in Avilla, with the Rev. Lee Combs officiating. Burial was made in the Avilla Cemetery.

Attend UK Short Course

Mrs. Moseita Soskis (seated) of the University Department of Vocational Education, recently conducted a one-week course for business education teachers from throughout Kentucky to explain how to conduct a year-long model office program to give students experience in all types of office tasks. Two guest speakers were (from left) Mrs. Naomi Kazee and Mrs. Roberta Waggoner of Boyd County High School Ashland; and Mrs. Sandy Blankenship, Winchester, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Tackett, of Wheelwright.

The 1928 Ashland High School basketball team and coach Jimmy Anderson have been elected to the National Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield, Massachusetts. The Ashland Board of Education has approved the transfer of the 1928 national championship trophy to the National Basketball Hall of Fame in honor of Coach Anderson. A replica of the original trophy will be placed in the local high school trophy case.

Gov. Wendell Ford has outlined plans for three major steps to aid Kentucky farmers. The Governor told his Council on Agriculture that he will establish an agency to guarantee loans for purchase of farm lands and buildings; he is creating a Kentucky Farm Advocate's office to keep the Governor and Council informed on developments and problems; and he plans to fund a special addition at Spindletop for improvement of seed production.

Harrison Predicts Tough Times Ahead

Louisville, Ky.—"Tough times are ahead," warned Commerce Commissioner Damon Harrison speaking to the International Association of Governmental Labor Officials.

"The future of Kentucky and all other states will depend on how well we cope with the interactions of the three E's—energy, ecology and economic growth," Harrison predicted.

The Commissioner spoke at a luncheon during the association's 56th annual convention held at Louisville's Galt House. More than 300 Labor executives in state governments and provinces of Canada were in attendance.

He pointed out that although millions of words are being written about energy and environment, the public is confused and uncertain about the issues and how they're to be solved.

According to Harrison, the energy dilemma is rapidly moving into the crisis state "but Americans won't accept it as long as they're able to buy gasoline."

"Fuel oil, propane, and natural gas will almost certainly be in short supply this winter," said Harrison, "and we'd better hope for mild weather."

The result of this shortage will be cutbacks for commercial and industrial users, meaning shutdowns resulting in unemployment, according to Harrison.

"We must take action now to minimize the shock and keep the damage to tolerate limits," he said. "Energy demand must be reduced through conservation to the greatest extent possible."

Environmental standards have aggravated the energy problem, Harrison noted, particularly in regard to air pollution control.

"Every one of us wants clean air and every one of us wants jobs," said Harrison, "Where is the compromise point?"

He concluded by emphasizing that the course of the nation over the next few years can be determined by today's decisions.

The U. S. Supreme Court has let stand a lower court ruling that a teacher could not be fired for refusing to salute the flag, as required in that state's education laws.

Slater Retires After 47 Years With Coal Corp.

Former Betsy Layne residents, John L. Slater, of Canonsburg, Pa., has retired at the age of 65 as chief clerk in the operating department of Pittsburgh-based Consolidation Coal. Mr. Slater joined the company at the Pike-Floyd Mine, Betsy Layne, on Jan. 1, 1926.

His first assignment was at the preparation plant but he also filled in from time to time as a supply handler and as a clerk in the warehouse and at the mine and in the cashier's office of the company-operated store.

When the Pike-Floyd preparation plant burned in 1936, Slater transferred to Pittsburgh Coal's Westland Mine, which still is in operation northwest of Washington, Pa. When he went to Westland as mine clerk, Slater recalls that the operation employed 1,300 men and used 100 mules in producing approximately 6,000 tons of coal a day.

Slater later was clerk at the Solar Mine and at Montour No. 9 and chief clerk at the South Hills, Lindley and Montour 4 Mines. He was chief clerk at Montour 4 near Lawrence, Pa., for 17 years (1942-1959). Since 1959, he had worked at the Pittsburgh Coal division office in Liberty. He was an internal auditor and relief clerk until 1965, when he was promoted to chief clerk in the operating department.

Mr. Slater and his wife, the former Hazel Crum, of Betsy Layne, reside at 234 Taylor Driver, Canonsburg. They have a son, Larry K., who is the principal of Marietta, Ohio, Junior High School. He is married to the former Sharon Lee McGrath and they have a daughter, Julia Ann, 11. Julia Ann is the Slaters' only grandchild.

Hobbies enjoyed by Mr. Slater include raising flowers and vegetables and reading. He also is a basketball fan, especially of the University of Kentucky, whose teams he has watched for many years. His interest in the sport dates back to the 1920's in Betsy Layne, when he played independent basketball throughout eastern Kentucky.

He is an elder in the Canonsburg United Presbyterian church and a Master Mason in Chartres Lodge 297, Free and Accepted Masons.

Mountain Life During Civil War Is Subject of "Wilderness Road"

By BETTY ELLISON

Guitars and banjos twang out Bluegrass tunes as country dancers swing about in colorful costumes at the outdoor drama "Wilderness Road," a main attraction this summer at Berea, Kentucky.

In words and music, "Wilderness Road" tells of the conflicts within one Appalachian community as it, and all of Kentucky, are tragically divided by the Civil War.

First produced in 1955 as a part of Berea College's centennial celebration, "Wilderness Road" is in the second season of its recent revival. The Paul Green drama is staged nightly except Sundays, at 8:30, at Indian Fort Theatre.

Kentucky's mountain heritage shows all through the drama. Instrumentalists, such as the Lamb family from Paint Lick and Lancaster, stroll in and out of scenes playing banjo, guitar and fiddle. One scene uses a bass fiddle made from a washtub. Old English ballads such as "Lady Margaret and Sweet William" and "Froggie Went a-Courtin'" are executed with the same gusto as the rousing "Battle Hymn of the Republic" and "Bonnie Blue Flag." Some 25 musical numbers are interlaced into the drama.

At the theatre entrance and at the end of the forest path each evening, members of the cast sing and play traditional mountain music.

Women quilting and men hacking shingles from wooden blocks are worked into the drama. When these age-old crafts are mentioned, Berea College immediately comes to mind. Established in 1855 as a school for all races, Berea College draws most of its students from the Southern mountains. All students work at the college to pay their tuition and as part of their education, and many work in traditional mountain handicrafts.

The college's Appalachian Museum displays mountain arts and crafts—musical instruments, a loom ready for weaving, farm tools, furniture—all showing the strength and dignity of the mountain people.

A craft shop at Indian Fort Theatre displays and sells wood, cloth and ceramic products of college students and area craftsmen.

Kentucky's mountain people are shown in "Wilderness Road" to be devoted to one or the other cause led by the two Kentuckians who opposed each other in the Civil War, Abraham Lincoln and Jefferson Davis. As it really was in the the 1860's, brother is pitted against brother, neighbor against neighbor, in a conflict vividly enacted on the terraced stage.

Tickets, reservations and information can be obtained by writing "Wilderness Road," CPO Box 2355, Berea, Ky. 40403, or by telephoning the box office at (606) 986-9403.

To us, he's already 21

Within 10 years he'll be graduated, looking for a job. If electric power isn't available, his job won't be.

We are a nation built on electric energy. Our entire economy hums to the tune of generators that run all industries.

Within 10 years we must build as much new generating capability as we've built in our entire history. We must have trillions of BTU's of heat available from some fuel to provide the power needed in the 1980's—and use the fuel in a way that causes a minimal impact on the environment.

Obviously such a massive program creates the opportunity for differences of opinions and priorities. Our promise to you is simply this: We recognize the necessity to preserve the environment for future generations (our children will live here, too) and will take every responsible measure to do so. We also must recognize the need for electric power—and will take every responsible action to make sure it's available. In fact, we are obligated by law to do so.

In fulfillment of these two objectives—we'll do our best to strike an acceptable balance between environmental considerations and the need for additional electric power.

Golden Eagle, Most Magnificent Bird of Prey

If you should have the rare chance to view a golden eagle at close range—one that flies high and free in the mountain wilds, not in a zoo—you would see a powerful bird, one that is awesome and magnificent, with a wing-spread of 7½ feet, a length of over three feet, a dark brown body with golden feathers decorating the neck. Most naturalists believe the golden eagle is doomed to go the way of the extinct passenger pigeon—unless more strenuous efforts are put forth to save this great bird. It is a master of the dizzy heights overlooking high canyon walls and mountain gorges. This huge bird of prey has a wild, free spirit, spawned of the rocky mountain heights and towering cliffs, from which he can look down on the wild scene of tumbling waters and huge boulders strewn helter-skelter.

At last count, there were some 14,000 golden eagles in all of the U.S. Their number is gradually diminishing—a sad loss for man. When the balance of nature is broken by a serious loss of a great species like the golden eagle, it is also a grievous loss for mankind. A little of us dies when a fine species of wild life fades away and is no more.

The golden eagles build their nests high on towering cliffs. They love to soar high above the rugged canyons and can spot their prey with eagle eye when thousands of feet high. On seeing a ground squirrel or some other prey, the golden eagle drops like a bombshell and stuns its prey with powerful impact. As Alfred Tenyson wrote:

"The wrinkled sea beneath him crawls,
He watches from his mountain walls,
And like a thunderbolt he falls."

The golden eagle's power dive from a dizzy height is one of the most awe-inspiring spectacles of nature. In March these eagles build their bulky nest of sticks high on some mountain cliff. The female lays two eggs, each four inches long. She first lays a white egg, then one that is white sprinkled with chestnut and purple. The main food given the young consists of western ground squirrels and gophers, and when feeding them, the mother secretes from her nostrils a clear, sweet liquid, which moistens the food and makes it more palatable for the young. This clear fluid also aids in digestion. This makes one marvel at the strange ways of nature.

The average life span of the golden eagle is 30 years but some may live to 40. In captivity the golden eagles long for the freedom of the wilds, and when a big storm strikes, it stirs the bold free spirit and causes them to thrash about, longing to be free and riding high on the strong updrafts of the winds.

Eagles in captivity must have special grooming. They have to be fettered and held fast while a man takes a file and grinds down the inside curve of the upper mandible. He also clips off the tip end of this mandible with a pair of nippers and then clips off about one-eighth inch of each talon. Then he re-sharpens the talons to keep them for splitting. This is a highly painful operation for the eagle but it has to be done at stated intervals. It is said the golden eagle will cry like a child while its bill and talons are being ground down and trimmed. If birds of prey in captivity are neglected, their talons and bills grow too long; they soon get so they cannot preen their feathers and cannot walk without stepping on their own toes. In the wilds, the eagles keep their talons and bill ground down by attacking bones and by lighting on rough sandstone surfaces.

Eagles as well as other birds of prey must bathe regularly, and if they cannot find water to bathe in, they sicken and droop about with dirty, unkempt feathers. Death may result when these birds have no access to water for bathing.

Fanning Becomes Council Executive; Chidester Resigns

O. T. Dorton, of Paintsville, president of Lonesome Pine Council, Boy Scouts of America, has announced the appointment of John W. Fanning to serve as the council Scout executive, replacing F. Marvin Barber, who recently accepted a position with the National Council of the Boy Scouts of America.

Fanning comes to the Council with 18 years' experience as a professional Scouter. His career began in 1955 in the Northwest Suburban Council, near Chicago. In 1960, he moved to West Texas where he served in Kermit and Odessa. He then moved his family to Lawton, Oklahoma, and from there to Tulsa.

In Lawton and Tulsa, Fanning was instrumental in the development and operation of plans through which Scouting reached thousands of low-income boys through cooperation with federal and local governments, housing authorities, model cities agencies, and the Bureau of Indian Affairs.

Fanning is a graduate of the University of Illinois. His wife, Hannah, is a graduate of Brigham Young University and is a registered dietitian. The Fannings have three children, Audrey, 13; David, 11, and Mary, 8. They are active members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints. The family expects to reside in Pikeville, where the Council Service Center is located.

Mr. Dorton also announced that District Scout Executive George P. Chidester has resigned to accept a position with the North Florida Council, Boy Scouts of America.

Mr. Chidester joined the professional staff of the Lonesome Pine Council on September 15, 1968 as district executive serving Jenny Wiley and Kentucky River districts.

"Membership in the two districts has more than doubled since Mr. Chidester became district executive," Mr. Dorton said.

Mr. and Mrs. Chidester have been active in the First United Methodist Church, Prestonsburg, where Mrs. Chidester is at present serving as President of the United Methodist Women. Mr. Chidester is a member of the Prestonsburg Kiwanis club, Zebulon Masonic Lodge and Prestonsburg Chapter, R.A.M.

Wildlife In Your Backyard

Perhaps you do not think of your backyard as a wildlife refuge, but the National Wildlife Federation does. The Federation even hopes you will want to make your yard part of its new nationwide network of registered miniature refuges.

"Invite Wildlife to Your Backyard," an article in the April-May issue of National Wildlife magazine, gives step-by-step directions for converting your yard into a haven for wildlife. The secret lies in putting the needs of birds and other animals first when choosing trees, shrubs, flowers and grasses to beautify your home. Mountain ash, for example, may bring 15 species of birds to your yard while red cedar has been known to attract 68 species.

The results are more pleasing than you might think. Birds like variety and many of their favorite foods, such as bright red, orange or blue berries, grown on some of your favorite lawn trees and bushes. The pines and oaks which squirrels need for cover, acorns and nests also provide windbreaks and beauty for your home.

Installing a birdbath to ensure a year-round water supply for wildlife also adds charm and interest to your yard. A small pool not only creates a home for fish, frogs, turtles and dragonflies, but provides a new focal point in your landscape design as well.

To have your property registered as a National Wildlife Backyard Habitat, you need only provide evidence that your yard is a dependable source of wildlife's four basic needs—food, water, cover and nesting places. Your reward will be a more beautiful and interesting yard, fewer insects, and high property value.

"Under this new program thousands of acres in residential neighborhoods could become a tremendous asset to wildlife—and to people," says Thomas L. Kimball, executive vice-president of the National Wildlife Federation. "Backyards across the country add up to millions of acres. With a little thought, money and effort, we could reverse the flight of wildlife before the bulldozer and restore their beauty to our lives."

For a free copy of "Invite Wildlife to Your Backyard," write to Backyard Wildlife Program, National Wildlife Federation, 1412 16th St., N. W., Washington, D. C. 20036. Additional copies cost 25 cents each.

Nursing Instructor Publishes Article

Miss Madonna Carter, Acting Coordinator of the Associate Degree Nursing Program at Prestonsburg Community College, recently had a paper published in the International Journal of Nursing Studies. The title of the article was "Identification of Behaviours Displayed by Children Experiencing Prolonged Hospitalization." The study indicated that children who are in the hospital for an extended period of time undergo a great deal of emotional stress. Some of the behaviours that they exhibit while they are in the hospital are due to this stress. The study explains that nurses should be aware of the fact that this emotional strain is a cause of the children's behaviour.

Miss Carter completed her Master of Science Degree in Nursing at the University of Kentucky. She also did her undergraduate work at U.K. where she completed her B.S.N. in 1970. After her undergraduate work was completed, she worked in Northern Illinois for a year, where she helped to set up a Regional High Risk Newborn Centre. In the fall of 1972 she came to Prestonsburg Community College as a Nursing Instructor.

Counties Share Over $27 Million

FRANKFORT, Ky.—Charles Pryor, Jr., commissioner of the Executive Department of Finance and Administration, announced that a review of county revenue sharing budgets from the Office for Local Government showed over $27 million appropriated from 1973-'74 by Kentucky's counties. This sum does not include what has already been spent during fiscal year '73, nor does it include all of the monies to be received in fiscal year '74, said Allan D. Spader, executive director of the Office of Local Government.

Many counties are holding portions of their allocations for larger projects to be funded later, Spader said. The Revenue Sharing Act allows local governments to hold the funds received in a given check for 24 months before they must be appropriated.

The figures in the attached table show totals for 106 of the 120 counties. "They will change slightly when the remaining 14 budgets are received," Spader said. In addition, budgets can be amended by fiscal courts to add new monies or adjust amounts.

The two basic categories listed in the act are:

- (1) Ordinary and necessary maintenance and operating expenses for:
 - Public safety-law enforcement, fire protection, building code enforcement;
 - Environmental protection-sewage disposal, sanitation and pollution abatement;
 - Public transportation-including transit systems, streets and roads;
 - Health;
 - Recreation;
 - Libraries;
 - Social Services for the poor and aged.

(2) Ordinary and necessary capital expenditures authorized by law.

The table, however, shows a capital outlay portion for each area separate from second basic category in an attempt to display a clearer picture of the direction of the expenditures, Spader explained.

Heavier emphasis is on public safety and environmental areas which have been questions of continuing public interest, Spader said. The public safety figures represent such items as new fire trucks, fire stations, police cruisers and juvenile court funding. Environmental protection allocations include a large portion for solid waste disposal in the development and operation of sanitary landfills. Sanitation for collection system and landfill operations also were included in some of the health allocations.

Public transportation is primarily maintenance and equipment for county road programs including the construction of maintenance garages, road widening and utility relocation. "These are items not always possible within ordinary funding available to a county. In each of these three areas, what constitutes a capital outlay—a once every five, ten or twenty year kind of expense—for one county, may well be an on-going yearly expense for another, particularly in equipment replacement," Spader said.

The capital outlay figure by itself represents mainly renovations and repairs for courthouses and jails around the state.

The act, Spader explained, does not allow welfare expenditures which may account, in part, for social services to be the lowest appropriation.

Named Supervisor With Comp. Care

Tim Atkinson, Floyd County Team Director for Mountain Comprehensive Care Center announced the appointment of Robert W. Wildman as Supervisor of the Team's I-S-R Unit, located in Prestonsburg. Mr. Wildman, a graduate of Culver-Stockton College and the University of Missouri, assumed his new duties with Mountain Comprehensive Care Center on July 15.

I-S-R (Information-Screening-Referral) is the principal patient-client management unit through which most clients and families will have their initial contact with the regional comprehensive care center. Under its supervision, intake procedures including personal and social histories, psychological and psychiatric evaluations are arranged and, following a preliminary diagnosis, referral is made to an appropriate service unit with Mountain Comprehensive Care Center or to another agency.

Wildman is a native of Missouri and holds a Masters in Social Work from the University of Missouri. He and his wife have one daughter.

Eversole-Gerken Vows Said

Miss Gracie Marie Eversole, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Eversole, of McDowell, became the bride of Kenneth Homer Gerken, son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer H. Gerken, R. 2, Lowell, Ohio, in a double ring ceremony July 2 at the Clinton Baptist Church in Clintwood, Virginia with the Rev. Henry B. Garris.

The bride chose a floor length gown of white and aqua blue. Her fitted bodice was fashioned with a high neckline of lace, and full bishop sleeves were detailed with lace on the cuffs. Her bouquet consisted of white daisies with white carnations dipped in aqua blue, with white and aqua streamers.

Miss Eversole is a graduate of McDowell High School and Mayo State Vocational School.

Mr. Gerken is a graduate of Fort Frye High School in Lowell, Ohio and of Mayo State Vocational School.

Serving as maid of honor was Miss Joyce Ann Meade, of Lovely, Kentucky. Acting as best man was Mr. Billy Dean Akers, of Pikeville, Kentucky.

A reception was held July 3 in the social room of St. John's United Church of Christ, Lowell, Ohio. Decorations were pink and white, with a two tiered wedding cake topped by a bride and bridegroom.

Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Charles H. Stengel, Beverly, Ohio; Mrs. Gail Brawley, Stewart, and Mrs. David Gennert, Amesville, Ohio.

Guests came from Newport, Stewart, Amesville, Marietta, Beverly and Lowell, Ohio.

The bride is employed at Celina Group Insurance, Celina, Ohio. Mr. Gerken is employed by Avco New Idea Corp., Coldwater, Ohio.

The couple resides at Frahmpike Road, R.R. 1, Box 6, Celina, Ohio.

Church Group at Youth Week

Attending Youth Week for the Southeastern Jurisdictional Conference of the United Methodist Church at Lake Juanuska, N.C. were the following youths and counselors from the First United Methodist Church in Prestonsburg: (Standing) Mrs. Marshall Davison, Linda Baldrige, Marilyn Rose, Rose Sammons, Deanna Horn, Debbie Davidson, Kathy Harris, Mrs. John W. Sutherland, Jr., Mrs. Chalmer H. Frazier; front row—Marshall Davidson, Willis Draughn, Derek Hicks, Rob Herrick, Harry Lee Burchett, Greg Herrick. While there, the members of the Rhythmic Choir performed before the assembly of more than 500 youths and counselors. Besides the worship and recreational activities of the camp, the group enjoyed a trip to Ghost Town and a performance of "Unto These Hills" at Cherokee, N. C. Other youths attending the conference were from Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Mississippi and Tennessee.

In a recent decision, the Pennsylvania Supreme Court upset the long-standing state doctrine of governmental immunity against damage suits arising out of conduct of employees, including school employees. Justice Roberts, writing for the majority went on to say, "We join the ever increasing number of jurisdictions which have judicially abandoned this antiquated doctrine."
 Research by the State Department of Education shows that 70.2 percent of the freshman class of 1968 graduated in 1972. This reflects a steady yearly increase from the 1959 freshman class, which graduated only 59.9 percent of its members in 1963. Kentucky districts vary from a high holding power of 93 percent to 29.4 percent at the opposite extreme. The national average holding power is near 80 percent, as compared to Kentucky's retention to 70.2 percent.

WHEN IS A HERRING NOT A HERRING? WHEN IT'S A RED HERRING

(The dictionary defines red herring as "something intended to divert attention from the real problem, or matter at hand, a false clue.)

The U.S. Shoe Corporation is not in the business of selling fish. Therefore, when U.S. Shoe spends so much time and money peddling Red Herrings in Prestonsburg the purpose, if it is not to sell herrings, has to be . . . "SOMETHING INTENDED TO DIVERT ATTENTION FROM THE REAL PROBLEM," or the peddling of "MISLEADING CLUES."

Shoeworkers in Prestonsburg have a REAL PROBLEM. Without a union, they are divided . . . have no bargaining power . . . no grievance procedure . . . no voice in their working conditions, piece rates, or wages.

U.S. Shoe uses childish cartoons, costly anti-union campaigns NOT TO ANSWER THE PROBLEM . . . but to divert attention from THE PROBLEM.

This is a red herring.

Shoeworkers in Prestonsburg have a REAL PROBLEM. Without a union, and the bargaining strength a union can provide, Prestonsburg shoeworkers can only hope to make their earnings meet their needs while they watch food prices go out of sight, profits climb for the company, and their wages stay low.

U.S. Shoe gives you phony information about union dues NOT TO HELP YOU SOLVE THE PROBLEM of $1 a dozen eggs and $2 a pound bacon and .79 cent a pound chicken BUT TO DIVERT YOUR ATTENTION from the only way you can hope to solve the PROBLEM . . . by using your own union as a bargaining tool for better pay.

Shoeworkers in Prestonsburg have a REAL PROBLEM. Without a union with which YOU can set up rules for democratic justice in the shop you lay yourselves open to continue the company practice of shop favoritism, job discrimination, and abusive foremen.

U.S. Shoe gives you phony information about union elections NOT TO HELP YOU CHANGE CONDITIONS . . . but to DIVERT YOUR ATTENTION from the fact that your union is YOU, and YOU elect your own union officers. This gives you a voice in shop affairs . . . IT ADDS TO YOUR RIGHTS . . . DOES NOT ROB YOU OF THEM.

This is a red herring.

Shoeworkers in Prestonsburg have a REAL PROBLEM. Without a union your wages are tied down. You can't even keep up with the price of chicken on your earnings. Higher earnings reached by bargaining between you and the company when you have your own union will help you keep in step with prices. And union dues are chicken feed for such an advantage.

U.S. Shoe gives you phony information on the cost of union dues . . . NOT TO PROTECT YOU FROM THE COST OF UNION MEMBERSHIP . . . but to DIVERT YOUR ATTENTION from how your own union can help you in these run-a-way price times by giving you the power to bargain for yourselves on wages and other shop matters.

This is a red herring.

About High Meat Prices — The consumption of meat has risen tremendously over a past few years. The cost of feed has risen. Ranchers' expenses have increased. Transportation and processing expenses have increased. According to the U. S. Department of Agriculture the wholesale price of beef has, in the recent three month period, gone up 18.2 percent while the price increased only 8.4 percent at the retail level or what the customer pays at the checkout counter. At Piggly Wiggly we'll recommend less expensive cuts and then promise YOU that we will give YOU the best quality meat at the lowest possible price. We care!

BOND ISSUES UNPOPULAR

More bond issues were defeated than approved in the U.S. in 1971-72, reports the U. S. Office of Education. As in the previous year, 47 per cent won approval, but the average size of issues approved decreased from $2.7 million to $2.5 million. Thus, the downward trend in bond issued approvals which started in 1963 has not been reversed. However, the total dollar value of all bonds was the second highest on record, $3.4 billion compared with $3.9 billion in 1970-71.

Consumer Comments

By ED W. HANCOCK
(Attorney General of Kentucky)

Do you think you may have termites or other insect pests—or do you simply want to be sure that you don't have such a problem, without running the danger of being taken? Most pest control firms are reputable, but there are indeed some problems that the consumer can encounter.

Certain unlicensed individuals either cannot or do not render proper treatment. One elderly lady in eastern Kentucky ran into such a problem. A man came "door-to-door" doing "termite inspections." He identified himself as an employee of a licensed pest control firm. He checked her home and said she needed treatment which he proceeded to render. The lady paid $100 for the treatment.

Later, she discovered she still had termites. She contacted the firm whose name he had given, but was told that individual did not work for them and they had no knowledge of her job. The Consumer Protection Division has been unable to locate the individual who took her money, she still has the pest problem and has suffered additional damage to a house she thought was treated.

To avoid this problem, you should first determine that any individual who comes door to door is either a representative of a reputable licensed firm, or is himself licensed. Every firm or business engaged in the control of structural pests in or about home must be licensed to do so by the Kentucky Department of Agriculture.

To obtain such a license, the pest control firm must demonstrate a reasonable knowledge of pests and pest control procedures in homes and other structures. The pest control firm must also establish certain financial responsibility by obtaining liability and property damage insurance in the required amounts. These licensed companies must also issue an approved contract outlining the type of insect being controlled, the complete price for the service, and any guarantee that is to be extended on this work.

The second problem you may run into is having the job "oversold"—that is being told that there are indications that your house needs treatment for structural pests, when in fact it does not. There are horror stories told of salesmen for pest control firms who carry termite-damaged wood and other indications of termite infestations around with them in order to sell jobs when there is no actual indication of such in the home being examined. These practices are not condoned by reputable pest control companies however, some of these companies pay their salesmen on a commission basis where their salary is determined by how many jobs they sell. Under such conditions, the pressure to sell a job may become quite severe.

It is therefore wise to get an evaluation of whether or not you need treatment from several established firms before beginning treatment. Several such evaluations will also enable you to compare prices, warranties and guarantees between firms if you decide that treatment is needed.

If you have any questions, or feel that you have been taken on a pest control job, you may call either the Division of Pest Control, Kentucky Department of Agriculture at 502-564-4386 . . . or the Division of Consumer Protection on the toll free Consumer Hotline at 1-800-372-2960.

Egg prices vary by size and grade, UK Extension foods specialists point out. Sizes most often found in stores are small, medium, large, and extra large. By the dozen, large sizes usually cost more than smaller sizes of the same grade, but this is not always the case if you judge by weight of the eggs. Generally, if there is less than 7 cents per dozen price difference between one size and the next smaller size, you get more egg—by eight—for your money by buying the larger size.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Henry and Lucinda Parsons:

Your gentle faces and patient smiles
 With sadness we recall.

You had a kindly word for each
 And died beloved by all.

Your voices are mute and stilled,
 Also the heart that loved us well and true.

Ah, bitter was the trial to part
 From two that were so good as you.

You are not forgotten, loved ones,
 Nor will you ever be.
 As long as life and memory last
 We will remember thee.

We miss you now, our hearts are sore,
 As time goes by, we miss you more
 Your loving smiles, you gentle faces
 No one can fill your vacant places.

Composed and written by John L. Parson, Precious, W. Va. 11.

Gardening Tips

By NEVYLE SHACKELFORD

One of the most tantalizing and unforgettable of all odors wafting from a country kitchen is that which arises from that form of food preservation known as pickle-making. It is a nostalgic aroma of spice and vinegar fit to conjure up visions of some long lost Kashmir and of happy times that exist only in the dim regions of memory.

But the best thing about pickles is that, when they are correctly made, the taste is as delightful as the aroma, not to speak of the fact that pickles can add zest to just about any kind of a meal.

According to Sue Burrier, UK Extension foods specialist, pickles may be made, not just from cucumbers, but from a variety of fruits and vegetables. She adds, however, that to be good, there are some rules that need to be followed.

First, whether it be fruit or vegetable from which pickles are to be made, this main ingredient should be of good quality, firm in texture, free from bruises, and not over-ripe. Over-ripe vegetables will shrivel up during the pickling process and fruits will not hold their shape.

Also for good success, Mrs. Burrier recommends fresh spices and high grade vinegar. Both white and cider vinegar comes in varying strength of acidity. This is usually shown on the label and may be designated as "grain strength." Vinegar of at least 4 to 6 percent acidity (40 to 60 grain) should be used.

Since the addition of water weakens the vinegar, add only the amount called for in the recipe, she suggests. When the vinegar is too weak, the pickles become soft and will not "crunch in the teeth" which is another of the joys of pickle eating.

Cider vinegar is most commonly used and, because of its mellow flavor, is most usually preferred. White vinegar has a pungent acetic taste and is preferred when light-colored pickles such as onions, cauliflower, and fruits are desired. In pickle making, vinegar serves two purposes. It preserves the product and modifies the taste.

Other hints in successful pickle-making include the use of soft water. Water high in lime may prevent the proper acid formation, thus causing the pickle to be soft or discolored or both. Also, go easy on the alum used to bring a crisp texture to the pickle. Crispness can be assured by using a good grade of vinegar, soft water and a good-quality pickling salt, and by following proper methods of brining and curing.

In most cases, heat is also needed to assure good quality pickles and to prevent spoilage. Heat treatment destroys organisms that might cause the pickles to spoil and deactivates enzymes that might adversely affect flavor, color, and texture.

Most county Extension agents for home economics have a wealth of information and material on pickles and pickle making. Now that pickling time is here, it might be well to contact one of these specialists for some ideas, especially if some pickle problem arises.

Many of the state's ardent sportsmen are well aware of the numerous services and offerings of state and federal offices. However, there are those who do not know who to contact for certain information.

For information regarding hunting and fishing opportunities, seasons and related matter, the local conservation officer is the man to contact. However, for printed matter or information beyond the supply of the officer, contact the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, Capital Plaza, Frankfort, Ky., 40601 (or by calling 502-564-4336).

Lake and topographic maps are available through the Department of Commerce, Map Sales, State National Bank Building, Frankfort, Ky., 40601 or by calling 502-564-4715. This agency has many maps and a complete listing of maps available. The price list is available in their free catalog titled "Maps and Publications."

Those who are interested in information about Kentucky's State parks, Shrines, Campgrounds and general information about the Bluegrass state can write to TRAVEL, Frankfort, Ky., 40601. This information comes through the Department of Public Information, located in the Capital Annex building in Frankfort.

In Eastern Kentucky there are some 600,000 acres of public land known as the Daniel Boone National Forest. This area has many hunting, fishing, camping and hiking opportunities. For detailed information contact the Daniel Boone National Forest Headquarters, Winchester, Ky., 40391.

In Western Kentucky there is the fabulous area known as Land Between the Lakes. Here there are some 100,000 acres for camping, hunting, fishing and other outdoor activities. Write Land Between the Lakes, Golden Pond, Ky., 42331.

For maps of the major lakes created by the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers contact the following offices: U. S. Corps of Engineers, Post Office Box 59, Louisville, Ky., 40201; Post Office Box 1070, Nashville, Tenn., 37202; or Post Office Box 2127, Huntington, West Virginia, 25721.

Maps also may be obtained for the TVA impoundments by contacting the Tennessee Valley Authority, Norris, Tenn., 37828.

With a little advance planning and information gathering, the sportsman or outdoor recreation-seeker can find just what he wants in the Commonwealth's great outdoors.

Dove hunting in Kentucky is as traditional as country ham, bluegrass and even the Kentucky Derby. Many hunters look forward to shoots, which have become annual affairs where friends and family re-unite as much for fellowship as for hunting.

Those who are not a part of these traditional hunts (or those who wish to expand their dove-hunting opportunities) can still find some excellent hunting, particularly since more areas than ever are now supporting feeding places for doves.

To locate fields where these birds have gathered in large numbers to feed on corn, silage or other small grains, check telephone and power lines for resting doves. Generally, their feeding area will be nearby. Or, if the hunter notices that doves seem to be flying in one direction, he can follow them to where they are feeding.

Once the feeding area has been located, ask the landowner for permission to hunt on his land.

Many hunters scout an area before the opening date, so they will have a good idea of where to go during the season (Sept. 1 through Oct. 31 and from Dec. 1 through Dec. 9). Hunting hours are from 12 noon until one-half hour before sunset, prevailing time. Hunters may take 12 doves per day and are allowed to transport up to 24 birds after two or more days of hunting, but remember that only 12 may be possessed at any time in the field.

New-comers to dove hunting should know that shotguns with cylinder or modified barrels and light loads of number 7 1/2 or 8 shot are the most effective during the early part of the season. However, as the doves become more wary, a full choke barrel and high brass shells with 6 1/2 or 7 shot will be needed for the longer shots encountered after the first week or so of the season.

Since early September weather is usually warm, take a water jug and wear cool clothing which blends into the background. If you want any dove to come within shooting range, stay away from white or light tan clothes.

A good retriever can be an aid to any hunter. By finding birds which fall into heavy weed cover, a dog can save the hunter a great deal of time and help recover lost or crippled birds. Dove hunting is also good training for young dogs and good exercise for older ones, but be sure to take a drinking container for them—the heat is bound to make them thirsty.

Dove hunting has its own special set of rules and regulations. Make sure that you are familiar with these laws, and if you have any questions contact your local conservation officer, district wildlife director, or the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, Capital Plaza, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

Johnson Dam Wins Funding, Fight Planned

Opponents of the controversial Paintsville reservoir reportedly were turning their eyes toward the courts this week after Senate and House conferees had revived the project by agreeing to provide $1.7 million to begin work this year.

A Louisville attorney has been employed to represent the Committee for Paint Creek in a looming court battle designed to halt the project, despite Congressional approval.

"For us there is no turning back," a committee statement declared. The fund restoration angered a sizeable portion of the population of Morgan county, and some evidence of ire showed up in the Johnson county section of the Paint Creek valley.

The appropriations measure now goes back to both the Senate and the House for approval, which is expected without delay.

The Paint Creek Committee launched a belated drive to stop the dam early this year when it learned the Paintsville reservoir would form a narrow, twisting 20-mile lake that would drive about 250 families from their homes and farms in Morgan and Johnson counties.

They collected about 200 signatures of persons opposed to the dam, contacted national environmental groups, raised some funds and took the case to Congress in May.

They were met by strong opposition from Congressman Carl D. Perkins and business interests in Paintsville. The dam is designed to protect the Johnson county seat from periodic flooding, which officials say has hampered industrial development. The project would cost an estimated $32.9 million when completed in 1977.

The committee and Cook contend that the Army Corps of Engineers has not proven the dam is justifiable. The Corps has said the dam has a 1:1.12 cost-benefit ratio, an extremely low ratio to justify construction. The ratio is used to calculate how many benefits a resident will receive for each dollar the dam cost to build. The 1:1.12 ratio is equal to $1.12 of benefits for each dollar expended.

The committee, however, has challenged the figure. It says a group of Morgan county businessmen and farmers met and "conservatively" calculated that the loss of their crops, land and livestock would total $8 million more than the benefits the Corps said the area would receive from the dam.

The group also says the dam could cause an undetermined amount of physical and emotional hardship by forcing families off their farms and displacing 76 cemeteries with 1,856 graves.

Gov. Wendell Ford, state resource agencies, and the Corps have indicated support for the project.

REUNION HELD

Sunday, July 22, relatives and friends of the families of the late Mr. D. B. Arnett and Mrs. Minerva Fitzpatrick Arnett, and the late John H. Hatcher and Mrs. Nora Arnett Hatcher, gathered at Archer Park to celebrate their usual annual gathering.

Mrs. Minerva F. Arnett, eldest living member of the families, greeted relatives and friends in her usual cordial manner from: Columbus and Hilliard, Ohio, Lexington, Pikeville, East Point, Allen, Banner, Prestonsburg, Brainard, Bonanza, Salyersville, Ashland, West Prestonsburg, Water Gap, and Left Beaver Creek.

The traditional pony rides were arranged by Mr. Charlie Arnett, and were enjoyed by some adult members along with the "young fry." At noon a delicious meal was served by the ladies, after which a devotional service was conducted by Rev. Jack DeRossett and Mr. Bruce Spradlin.

Late in the afternoon several family members visited the Arnett cemetery on Middle Creek.

Adjournment came about six p.m., after supper and the usual words of departure. The Lord willing, we are looking forward to another meeting of the fourth Sunday in July, 1974, at the same place.

In the days when automobiles ventured onto Bull Creek roads at considerable risk Mrs. James and her early group of singers meet up with Sam Lafferty, aboard a surefooted mule. Others in the party are, from left, Albert Hall, Mrs. James, Alex Wallen, Tom James, George Goodman.

Folk Festival Founder Tells Of Old Tunes and Hymn-Singers

Edith Fitzpatrick James, of Prestonsburg, was born into the centuries-old music and dance traditions of the southern mountains. As a small child she recalls being awakened late at night "to fill in at a square dance at the house whenever they needed an extra female partner." Half asleep, she would dress hurriedly and when she joined the dance, she recalls, "I would have to reach way up to hold the hands of the square dancers."

Later educated at the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music, she learned other, more "refined" musical forms and for a time toured with nationally known groups as a concert vocalist. But her appreciation for, and expertise in, classical music never dulled her innate love for the mountain tunes and ballads which she knew from "back home."

It was this love for the music and culture of her native hills that caused Mrs. James to dedicate much of her life to the preservation and perpetuation of the region's musical traditions.

Seven years ago, this dedication gave rise to the founding of the Kentucky Highlands Folk Festival, now an event held each year at the Jenny Wiley State Park amphitheatre. This year, Aug. 31, Sept. 1 and 2, Mrs. James will conduct the eighth annual festival.

As this event draws near, Mrs. James recounted last week some of the earlier experiences in her folk song collecting history and spoke, in particular, of one music form and its survival in the mountains, the Gregorian chant.

While attending the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music, in 1915, Mrs. James for the first time heard a boys' choir singing the chant. "It struck me right away how much the chants sounded like some of the old church songs I'd heard at footwashings at Bonanza and other church services." But it would be 20 years before Mrs. James voiced her observation because, as she said, "I was afraid to say anything about it."

TO ATTEND CONFERENCE

Because the nurses from the Floyd and Martin County Health Departments will be attending a maternal and child care conference in Lexington, August 7-9, nursing services will not be afforded on those days. All other services offered by the departments will be available.

Despite some public demand for seat belts in buses, transportation experts testifying before a legislative hearing in Albany, New York, opposed recommendations for mandatory seat belts in school buses.

The Gregorian chant, or plainsong, is, according to Mrs. James, the earliest known form of religious music. First put into musical notation by Pope Gregory I (born 540 A.D.), the songs lack a well-defined rhythm and are often not accompanied by any musical instrument.

Mrs. James believes, and is supported by most musical authorities, that the strong similarities seen in many Appalachian religious songs with the Gregorian chant are the result of the isolating effect which the mountains had on the culture brought here by people of predominantly Anglo-Saxon stock. "Up the hollows and creeks the old ways of singing were able to survive," said Mrs. James.

It was not until the depression, when she began working for the Works Progress Administration (WPA) folksong project, that the Prestonsburg woman expressed her opinion on the matter.

Her job in the project was to contact as many local people as she could and to take down the mountain songs they knew and transcribe them into musical notation. "When a song would sound very similar to the chants, I would write on the margins of the music that I felt there was a strong relationship."

These songs were sent to the Library of Congress in Washington, D.C. where her extensive collections remain. "Music authorities began to take notice and after much painstaking research, they decided there were close ties between the hymns and the plainsong."

It was around this time that she organized several of her musical informants into a group, the Kentucky Mountain Plainsong Chanters. This group sang strictly the older forms of mountain religious music related to the Gregorian chant and travelled widely, performing in many parts of the country. Some of the original members included Tom and Mitchell Smith, Albert Hall, Tom James (Mrs. James' husband), Sam Lafferty, Jay Salyers, "Uncle" Sy Boyd, Paul Dingus, John Hyden and Theodore Holbrook.

After performing at the National Folk Festival in Washington, D. C. in the late '30's, the group, upon invitation, travelled to the World's Fair in New York City.

Theodore Holbrook, of Middle Creek, is one of the last of this singing group and his recollection of these ages-old songs is especially rich. "He must know hundreds of those old religious songs," says Mrs. James, "and many of the songs have dozens of verses."

Included in this type of song are such hymns as "Oh, Sing to Me of Heaven," "Two Coats," and "When Jesus Christ Was Here Below." The latter tune, according to Mrs. James, is related in several aspects to an old Catholic song, "Liturgy of Holy Thursday."

These songs are performed in the modal, or "mountain minor," and the sounds produced are frequently mournful and haunting.

A good example of ancient survivals in the mountain musical repertoire is the familiar secular tune, "Knoxville Girl." This song evolved from an old British tune, "Wexford Girl." It then became the "Oxford Girl." Later, it was carried to America and was called "Lexington Girl." The version Theodore Holbrook still sings is the "Wexford Girl."

It is Edith James' hope that the people of the Appalachians will continue to sing the songs and dance the dances that have persisted so long in the mountains. She said, "Our aim is to preserve and encourage the continued use of the traditional expressions of our people. We believe that our cultural heritage is too precious to be allowed to pass away through neglect or disinterest."

A statement made by the late John Hyden, one of Mrs. James Chanters, may best sum up the beauty of the old styles of singing. He said simply, "Them old songs work on ye."

Now, for the coming Highlands Folk Festival the Prestonsburg woman is looking for mountain musical talent—and "old songs that work on ye."

To Enter State Contest

Johnny O'Brien is shown with his model engine that he will use in the State 4-H Club small engine demonstration contest, August 3, on the University of Kentucky Campus.

He earned the opportunity to participate in the state contest by winning the Floyd county and the Northeast Area Demonstration Contest.

SCHOOL AID PROGRAMS TO BE EXTENDED

Rep. Carl D. Perkins, D-Ky., chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee, said recent meetings with Congressional leaders indicate that existing Federal school aid programs, will be extended and will be in operation when school opens next fall. These programs provide almost one sixth of the funds needed to operate Kentucky schools annually.

The Sixth Circuit U. S. Court of Appeals has ruled that black children from Detroit must be bused to the suburbs and white suburban children must be bused into Detroit to achieve racial balance in the schools. This decision by the Sixth Circuit is diametrically opposed to the recent decision of the Fourth Circuit that knocked down a similar metropolitan busing plan in Richmond, Virginia. An attorney for the suburban school districts surrounding Detroit announced that the decision will be appealed to the Supreme Court.
