

Leslie Trial Set Again, Nov. 13th

Martin Co. Jury Fails To Reach Verdict, Friday

Reporting to Circuit Judge W. D. Sparks that it was hopelessly disagreed as to the guilt or innocence of Floyd Sheriff Frank Leslie, a Martin county jury empanelled for trial of the case at Inez was dismissed last Friday after it had deliberated about three hours.

Judge Sparks rescheduled the case for trial No. 13. It had been shifted from this county to Martin county on change of venue asked by Leslie. The indictments against him allege nonfeasance and agreeing to receive a bribe.

The Commonwealth, which was represented by Special Prosecutor Dale Bryant, of Jackson, relied heavily on a tape recording which purported to be a conversation between Sheriff Leslie and Roy Branham. The tape had been given to Circuit Judge Hollie Conley by Branham's former wife, Grace Branham. Mrs. Branham denied knowing who made the tape or where it came from, claiming she found it in her car.

The tape, the Commonwealth contended, covered a "kickback" arrangement whereby the sheriff would profit by protecting Branham as the supplier of intoxicants to bootleggers.

Witnesses for the Commonwealth, including Judge Conley and Commonwealth's Attorney Harold Stumbo, identified the voices on the tape as being Leslie's and Branham's.

Branham was not called to testify. Leslie replied "Absolutely not" to the questions as to whether the voice was his and to whether he had ever taken money from anybody to ignore local option liquor laws.

Leslie's attorneys introduced into evidence copies of his federal income tax returns from 1970, when he took office, through 1972, and copies of statements from his joint bank account with his wife from March, 1970 through July, 1973.

Leslie testified that as sheriff he is entitled to $12,600 per year in fees, and that he has no other source of income, not other bank accounts and no safety deposit boxes.

He denied that he had "an arrangement or understanding with Branham or anyone else," whereby he accepted money in return for protection of people engaged in selling or transporting illegal alcoholic beverages.

Leslie testified that he had carried out "more than one" raid on several of the witnesses for the prosecution.

Judge Conley testified that Mrs. Branham told him that Branham and Ted Salisbury were "setting the sheriff up."

Salisbury denied any knowledge of the tape and said he would not be a party to any such activity.

Southern Dollar Store's Opening Set Here Friday

Southern Dollar Stores will open their Prestonsburg store in the former Abigail Theatre building on Court street here Friday morning.

Ernie Lafferty, of Water Gap, will be manager of the new store, one of a chain of Southern Dollar Stores, Super Southern Dollar Discount and S-Mart Stores operated in a five-state area by Southern Dollar Stores, Inc., Richmond, Ky.

All other employees of the new store here will be local residents, it was announced. Seven female clerks will be employed.

The Court street building housing the store is owned by Joe D. Weddington, who has had remodeling work under way several months. The store has 5,000 square feet of floor space.

Southern Dollar Stores began business in 1958 with the opening of one small store in Danville, Ky. and now operated stores in Kentucky, Ohio, Tennessee, Indiana and Virginia. Plans call for opening of from 12 to 15 stores by the end of 1974, mostly in the larger store range.

The company employs approximately 100 people in the Richmond, Ky. area and another 300 to 400 throughout the various stores, depending in some part on seasonal activities.

All phases of operation of the company radiate out from headquarters in Richmond. Goods are channelled into the stores via the company's own trucks on a regular basis, enabling all stores to always have a full supply of goods for sale.

Arrests During Week Include Drug Charge

B. Allen; James Little, drunk driving, by City Policemen Campbell and Lawson.

Bull Creek Man Hurt In Ypsilanti Wreck

Lloyd Robinson, 25, of the Bull Creek road, was critically injured Aug. 5 in a one-car wreck in Ypsilanti, Michigan, and remained unconscious last week in the intensive care unit of University Hospital, Ann Arbor. He is a son of Mrs. Myrtle Robinson.

State police, who were driving in a cruiser behind the Robinson car, were unable to explain the cause of the wreck. They were quoted as saying that the auto suddenly turned turtle on a curve. Mr. Robinson suffered a skull fracture and respiratory injuries.

Judge Orders Mining Halted On Toler Creek

Franklin Circuit Judge Henry Meigs last week issued an injunction restraining the Flatwood Mining Company from stripmining coal at two sites on Toler Creek, this county.

Steve Conn, of Harold, head of the mining company, was quoted as saying that the order amounts to restraining a "deep" mine. "I've never strip-mined in my life," he said.

The order prohibiting operation bars Conn from operating surface mine without a permit from the Kentucky Division of Reclamation. In the suit against Conn the Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Protection seeks a penalty of $1,000 and $1,000 a day from each day of violation.

Conn says his site was inspected recently by reclamation officials and that they told him he was well under the 400-foot-wide face allowed by law for a deep mine.

James Boyd, attorney for the department, told The Times:

"I don't think our inspectors told him that. In fact, we base our conclusions on tonnage recovered from the surface. One hundred tons from the surface constitutes surface mining, and contend the company was in violation."

The suit claims Conn removed 4,000 tons of coal from the two sites.

"Pictures of the operation which I have seen did not look like a deep-mine operation," Boyd added.

"All I ever professed to do was deep mine," Conn said. "I don't even own an end-loader or a bulldozer."

Conn said his small company was continuing its operation. "The first I heard about this was when I read it in the paper," he said last week, adding that he had not received any notification from court officials that the restraining order was issued.

He believes the order stems from problems he experienced from landowners in the area. He said strip miners in the area have been paying higher fees for traversing land, causing landowners to demand an equal amount from his company.

"They never have been happy. I think they got themselves a Vista lawyer or someone to stir up trouble," he said.

Conn said he plans to hire a lawyer. He said he was not represented at the hearing in which Judge Meigs issued the restraining order and had no prior knowledge of the hearing.

Mr. Boyd said the operator's remedy is at law, at which a hearing would be held.

The commission was created by the Legislative Research Commission to inspect state educational facilities, and study their programs. The commission, during this interim, will limit its review to those institutions providing education beyond the high school level but not leading to the baccalaureate degree.

These institutions include state vocational technical schools, community colleges and state colleges and universities.

The commission will be seeking answers to such questions as: Are present facilities appropriate for the programs they house? What are the needs for new programs and facilities?

Squad Recovers Body of Youth From Big Sandy

The body of 16-year-old Barry W. Davis, who drowned in the Big Sandy river late Sunday afternoon, was recovered at 2 a.m. the following day by the Floyd County Emergency & Rescue Squad.

The tragedy occurred near where David Branch flows into the river, approximately a mile upstream from the Paintsville city limits. Young Davis and another youth of the same age were wading the river, fishing, when he stepped into deep water. He was a basic swimming student at the Paintsville pool, and was unable to swim to safety. Attempts of his companion to save him were fruitless.

The victim was a scholastic leader at Paintsville High School and had only recently returned from a tour of Spain. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Davis, survive. Funeral rites were conducted today (Wednesday) from the Jones & Preston Funeral Home, and burial was made in Highland Memorial Park, Stafforsville.

At noon, the day following its rescue work, the Floyd squad figured in a traffic accident near Paintsville in which a truck was destroyed and two of its boats damaged. After the rescue work had been concluded, the squad was en route to Grayson Reservoir for its annual picnic. When an approaching car stopped in the lane opposite that travelled by Rescue Squad Capt. Graham Burchett, another vehicle following the car pulled into Burchett's lane. The auto also was "totaled" in the head-on collision, but neither driver was seriously hurt.

Floyd Company Joins 21 Firms In Test of Law

A Floyd county mining company joined 21 others last week in a U. S. District Court suit filed at Pikeville to challenge the constitutionality of the black lung law's new provisions making them responsible for benefits on claims dating after July 1.

The Turner Elkhorn Mining Company, of Drift, was one of the plaintiffs.

The coal operators are complaining that the law may require them to pay benefits for employee disabilities prior to 1969 to miners who may have never worked for them.

The chairman of the firms' lawyers committee, Margin O. Young of St. Louis, vice president and general counsel for Peabody Coal Co., said the suit will not interfere with benefits now being paid nor with claims filed or processed.

The coal operators want the United States to continue responsibility for claims after Jan. 1, while Congress revises the law so that liability can be apportioned.

In the suit, they seek to invalidate the provision that makes the last operator to employ a miner for a year or more to assume full responsibility for the black lung payment.

Plans for 2nd Span Told As One Begun

The gathering for the groundbreaking ceremony for the Emma bridge last Friday afternoon was not great, but it heard great news—and the news wasn't all about Emma.

Representing Governor Ford at the groundbreaking, and speaking at the specific direction of the governor, Commissioner of Transportation Elijah M. Hogge announced that a bridge which will cost an estimated $1.3 million—three times the cost of the Emma span—is to be constructed across the Big Sandy at Banner, entirely from state funds.

"It is significant to note," Mr. Hogge said in a brief address, "that this (the Emma) project was first authorized in January of 1972, after Governor Ford took office. The governor felt a responsibility to you and the citizens of Floyd county who will use this bridge."

Turning to a discussion of plans for the bridge at Banner, the speaker said:

"Now that the contract for construction has been awarded and the ground broken, this (the Emma) bridge will soon become a reality.

"While we are on the subject of promises, there is another that was made concerning Floyd county, I am sure none of you has forgotten. Neither has Governor Ford. This promise concerns the replacement of another bridge that spans the Big Sandy and serves the people of Floyd county—the Banner bridge.

"Both the Governor and I are aware that much concern has been expressed as to why this project, one that we have given top-priority, has been a mere blueprint so long. Some people thought we were dragging our feet. But, we weren't and in order to place relevant matters in the proper perspective, some facts should be considered.

"Originally, this project was planned to be funded partially with federal funds. Therefore, much more time was needed to meet federal requirements, during the planning and preliminary design phase.

"Because of the urgent need to replace the present obsolete structure, the governor decided to cut through the red tape, and today he has asked me to announce that he has directed the new Banner bridge to be constructed entirely from state funds. Thereby enabling us to establish an earlier construction date."

Rural Highway Commission, Otto Ingram, whose division of highways authorized the Emma construction, joined county officials and citizens at the groundbreaking. Cloudy skies and intermittent rain cut the gathering to an estimated 100 persons.

TV Rights Fight Seen In Courts Floyd Court Asks Bids on Franchises For Cable Systems

A legal battle appears in the offing as the Floyd fiscal court proposes to issue 20-year franchises to operators of community cable television systems in the county.

The contention for cable system rights surfaced when nine individuals who own a dozen cable operations filed applications for franchises. The fiscal court entered an order, August 1, to award franchises to the lowest and best bidder on August 22, reserving the right to be the sole judge as to who is the qualifying bidder.

Everett Akers, of Martin, head of the Akers Cable System, Inc., is studying legal action to head off the move which he views as designed to prevent expansion of his service. Akers supplies televised programs from 12 channels. His service has already been extended to Allen, but, he points out, "I am in Allen because I was asked. I have never solicited any other system's customers."

Akers has erected a 589-foot tower on a mountain-top, near Martin, which has 15 receiving antennae and a 30-foot disc which receives three Lexington stations.

"I began planning a real television service to include Kentucky stations for Kentucky people, four or five years ago, and invited other system owners to join me. But I finally had to make the investment and do the work, myself. Now, it's here, and I am not offering it to hurt any other cable system but simply have the service for anybody who wants it."

The franchisees are offered, as one explains the situation, "to keep the little fellows from being gobbled up."

Applicants for franchises and areas served by each are:

Herman Porter, Allen area; Hubert Bartley, Prater Creek-Banner; Hubert

Junior Shepherd, 30, scoop operator for the Beaver Creek Division, National Mines Corp., was instantly killed last Tuesday when the deck of a tractor which he was pushing slid beneath that of another.

Besides his parents, he is survived by his widow, Mrs. Marcella Kilburn Shepherd, and four sons, Timothy, Bobby, William and David, all of Garrett; three brothers and three sisters, Willy Shepherd, Willard, O., Otis and Charles Shepherd, both of Garrett, Mrs. Lois Jane Lucas, of Ohio, Mrs. Patti Ritchie, Kendallville, Ind., and Mrs. Josephine Prater, Waterloo, Indiana.

Where Is the "White Paper"?

The Committee of Paint Creek exists for one reason, and that is to fight the proposed Paintsville Reservoir. The Times is not involved in that hassle, but this committee has raised some questions which could concern us all.

It now calls on Governor Ford and the Kentucky Congressional delegation to explain why a total of 44 reservoirs have been planned for Eastern Kentucky and why the construction schedule for four of these has been moved up by 12 to 17 years.

What makes the questions thus posed of wide interest is the committee's hint that all this may be a part of a master plan designed for Eastern Kentucky in a so-called "White Paper on Kentucky, the Energy Capital of the United States," which reportedly was prepared by the Bechtel Corporation, California consultants, three years ago for the U. S. Department of Interior and the Kentucky Department of Commerce.

The "White Paper" is not in circulation, these days. A wide search hasn't turned up one copy. But an advance "resume" of its contents was published and is yet extant. That resume, the Committee of Paint Creek and others relate, contains the following:

1. Data showing the coal and water resources of the area, sometimes referring to Eastern Kentucky as "the water bucket" and again as "the coal bucket" of the Eastern United States.

2. The recommendation that all waterways in Eastern Kentucky be dammed and the water thus impounded by used for sale to downriver industry, for hydro-electric plants and other industries coming into the area.

3. The recommendation that all residents of rural parts of Eastern Kentucky could be moved into urban complexes built by the U. S. government, on occasion referring to these complexes as "Neuplexes."

Now, we have questions of our own:

Where is this White Paper? Was it destroyed, or is it in a pigeonhole awaiting the day when the bureaucracy decides to unearth it and give it life by trying to move rural Eastern Kentucky into Neuplexes and not only stripmine the region bare but also cover up the ruins with water?

Acid Mine Drainage Continuing To Poison Many Miles of Water

(An editorial in The Herald-Dispatch, Huntington, W. Va.)

Water pollution is, of course, a national problem. But here in Appalachia we have an added factor which intensifies the dilemma where our rivers and streams are concerned—acid mine drainage.

It's estimated that 5,700 miles of water in West Virginia, Kentucky and the rest of Appalachia are polluted by acid mine drainage.

Sometimes the pollution is easy to see. The water of many an Appalachian creek has a yellowish-red look, given to it by a rust-like substance called "yellowboy" by miners and mountain folk but known as ferric hydroxide to scientists.

But even water which looks fairly clear and pure can be badly contaminated with acid mine drainage. Some 6,000 tons of sulfuric acid are said to enter Appalachia's river and streams every day. This acid kills fish and plants, makes water unfit for swimming or drinking and even eats away at bridges and boats.

The "culprit" responsible for acid mine drainage is iron pyrite—commonly called "fool's gold."

Iron pyrite is found in and around many coal seams. As long as the coal is undisturbed, the pyrite is no problem. But when mining exposes it to air and water, chemical reactions are set in motion which result in the formation of both "yellowboy" and sulfuric acid.

Mining firms in Appalachia have traditionally gone about their business with a classic unconcern about the water pollution frequently produced as a byproduct.

In recent years, however, state and federal governments and the more responsible mining firms have begun to explore various means of dealing with the problem, one complicated by the fact that such pollution can continue for years after production at a mine ceases.

A new report on the subject from West Virginia University notes some of the methods which have been tried or proposed.

To begin with, acid formation can frequently be reduced simply by diverting water from active mines or quickly pumping it out. Sealing abandoned mines and filling them with an inert gas also has been proposed. Indeed, by providing miners with breathing gear of some kind, it could even be possible to introduce the same inert gas into active mines. This removal of oxygen, it's worth nothing, would also prevent fires and explosions.

Another encouraging method being investigated is a complex chemical one similar to that used to desalt sea water. To test this particular idea, the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency has awarded a WVU research team a nearly $350,000 grant to construct a 60,000 gallon-a-day pilot plant to treat water from an abandoned mine in Monongalia County. A final verdict on this particular idea is, however, clearly a long way away.

Meanwhile, the acid and "yellowboy" continue to flow into our rivers and streams daily, slowly poisoning them. Many are already dead. Others are dying. And time for them is running out.

The Church

By WILMAY

If you should find the perfect church, Without one fault or smear, For goodness sake, don't join that church.

You'd spoil the atmosphere! If you should find the perfect church, where all anxieties cease, Then pass it by, lest joining it, YOU mar the masterpiece.

If you should find the perfect church, then don't you ever dare To tread upon such holy ground; you'd be a misfit there.

But since no perfect church exists, made of imperfect men, Then let's cease looking for that church, and love the church we're in.

Of course, it's not a perfect church; that's easy to discern; But you and I, and all of us, could cause the tide to turn.

What fools we are, to flee our past, in an unfruitful search, Then find at last where problems loom, God soundly builds his church.

So, let's keep working in our own church, until the resurrection, And then we each will join God's church, without an imperfection!

—Author unknown.

Accustomed as it is to criticism, the church can take it. Before it got out of its cradle in Jerusalem Judaism, the Roman government, and Greek philosophy assailed it. They put its leaders in jail and killed its outstanding deacons. And when it left its cradle, to evangelize the world, its missionaries and converts ran into mockings, scourings, bonds, imprisonment, and death. But on it went. The church was born on the cross of crucifixion. The flames of persecution in Jerusalem became the mother fire at which members of the Jerusalem Church lighted their torches for world conquest. Preachers and Christian leaders should not be disturbed when criticized in the line of duty. Jesus warned against the joys of adulation: "Woe unto you," he said, "when all men speak well of you! for in the same manner did their fathers of the false prophets." Paul as well as every prophet, faced unpopularity, often fleeing for their lives. His enemies jailed, starved, mocked, whipped, and finally killed him. But so long as he had breath, he went right on saying, "Woe unto me if I preach not the gospel." The Christian Index.

Church members are guilty of two classes of sins, some of "commission," and some of "omission." The latter is often the worst of the two. "I don't drink;

I don't gamble; I don't lie; I don't steal; I don't go to the movies, the dances, night clubs, et cetera." They have a bad case of "don'ts!" They simply don't do anything! They don't come to church; they don't support God's cause; they don't read His word; they don't help others; they don't encourage the pastor; they seldom serve their community; they never witness for Christ. They just DON'T! They are guilty of the sin of doing nothing, with a capital "N." Inasmuch as ye did it not," said Jesus, "depart into everlasting fire." Be ye doers of the word and not hearers only. (From an ancient church bulletin.)

Jesus was a militant himself. He opposed the religionists of his day, cleansed the temple and fought evil on every hand. Militancy is essential to victory. Tolerating, compromising cause, indifference, dissension, and corruption. A non-militant church breeds non-resistance to evil, which breeds corruption, and then death (spiritual death.) Every church is a militant force in the world, or a corpse of fear. Winning people to Christ without developing them to accept the responsibility of opposing evil vigorously, relieves no church, or individual, of the assigned task of resisting evil. If Christianity does not make the world a better place in which to live, it is not symbolic of the militant Christ. (From The Baptist Record.)

Letters to the Editor

Say Dwale Neglected

Editor, The Times:

We recently moved to Michigan after living many years in Floyd county, and, to be exact, 20 years in Dwale, Ky. The last time I lived in the county. When we moved the Highway Department, or whoever is responsible for putting road signs up, had erected several new signs on the new road that is being built through Bull Creek and Dwale, but not one of those signs mentioned Dwale. One said so many miles to Lancer; one said, Allen—2 miles, Pikeville—19 miles, but not once was Dwale mentioned. You arrive in the community of Dwale before you even reach Allen, Ky. There was not even a sign pointing to Dwale—at the one and only approach.

Since moving, we have made one trip back home to Dwale, where we still own property, and we find the situation is still the same, so now I'm beginning to think it was not an oversight, or it would have been corrected by now. The four-lane highway goes right through the middle of Dwale, and destroyed homes and land for many people and yet the Highway Department, or the State, doesn't have the courtesy to even show Dwale on a sign. I cannot figure out why, because the railroad bridge is completely in Dwale and half of the bridge that spans Levisa Fork of the Big Sandy is on Dwale soil—yet, when the bridges are spoken of, they are always "The Allen Bridge."

Lancer doesn't even have a post office anymore, and is really considered to be Prestonsburg. Dwale does have a post office, and I must say as nice and modern as you will find in Floyd county, or any place else. For that alone, it should be recognized on a road sign. I think it should be shown as any other town or community where roads go through.

If I hadn't just recently been there, I couldn't find my way, by the markings and signs on the road. If we get confused, what do you think about people who haven't been there in years, but may want to go, now that there is a new road?

I have never been able to figure out why Dwale has always been neglected in everything. It has never got the roads or anything else that other communities have, and it has some of the finest citizens you would ever hope to find, any place.

Alice Lloyd Fall Enrollment 325

Pippa Passes, Ky.—Up to 325 students, of which about 225 will be freshmen, will begin arriving on the Alice Lloyd College campus this week-end, says Bill Johnson, Dean of Students at Alice Lloyd College.

"They will begin arriving Saturday for our Appalachia Day activities, and we will start checking resident students into dormitories Sunday afternoon," said Johnson.

Phil Handshoe, director of admissions at Alice Lloyd, said that this year's class of entering freshmen includes three new foreign students and students from as far away as Florida and Washington, D. C.

Monday and Tuesday all new students will go through an orientation program "to make them aware of the history and philosophy of the college, our curriculum and courses, special services, and campus rules and regulations," said Johnson.

Classes in Alice Lloyd's four-week term begin at 9:00 a.m. Wednesday. Entering freshmen in the four-week term take one class which meets four hours per day. Each semester at Alice Lloyd has three terms—one four week term and two six weeks terms.

"The four week term gives our incoming freshmen an opportunity to have a positive experience at the beginning of their college career. It also gives them time to adjust to the campus atmosphere," Johnson explained.

Teacher Thanks Defender Of Anti-Profanity Stand

Editor, The Times:

May I offer my personal thanks to Mr. Randolph Crisp for his letter in defense of Misses Sarah Helmantoler and Ruth Sippel. Anyone who would have a mean thought about these women, or any of our other missionaries, should hang their heads in shame.

Here in the mountains we pride ourselves on many things, our independence being one of them. Isn't it rather, disgraceful that we have been too independent to learn the Best Seller of all times. An educator whose name has slipped my mind once said, "A man cannot call himself educated without knowing the Bible, Shakespeare and Mythology." Each year I find in my classes that few children know the Lord's Prayer; most of them cannot quote even one of the Ten Commandments, and the word, "Beatitudes," may as well have never been printed. They do know more filth and dirt than I do, and their respect for God, parents and teachers is zero in more cases than any of us are willing to face or admit.

To me it is a sad indictment against us, all that God has had to send people like these two ladies from other states to do for us what we should have been doing for ourselves... that is instructing children, not in denominational doctrines, but in acquiring a desire to know the Bible and what it teaches us. Also, to me, it would be very refreshing to be able to go out for an evening of entertainment, or even to listen to a program without being offended by the foul language that people today seem to have a compulsion to indulge in. Occasionally you run into a public speaker who can get through a short oration without smut, or profanity but they are few and far between.

Again — "1776"

Editor, The Times:

This is an answer to Randolph Crisp, who was so noble to defend Ruth Sippel and Sarah Helmantoler in the August 1 edition of the Floyd County Times.

I did not uphold profanity in "1776." I stated that I was against it, yet the authors of "1776" were trying to portray the situation as it really happened and not a scene from a fairy tale book. I think "1776" was an absolutely wonderful musical and I will continue to defend it.

Randolph Crisp also stated that I "was being quite crude." I think Randolph Crisp was showing some crudeness by assuming that everyone who signs his name with initials is a male. I am not a male. I am,

CHANDLER-ARCHER VOWS READ

In a double-ring ceremony, Miss Vicky Sue Chandler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude V. Chandler, of Paintsville, Ky., became the bride of Mr. George Preston Archer, V. son of Mrs. Margaret Archer of Prestonsburg, Ky., on July 21 at 2:30 p.m.

Dr. Harold Dorsey, of Lexington, Ky., solemnized the vows by candlelight in the First United Methodist Church here. Three spiral candelabra entwined with white carnations and greenery and a white kneeling bench decorated with blue and white carnations provided the setting, against which was played "Promenade" from the Moussorsky-Ravel "Pictures from an Exhibition," "Love Me Tender," "If Ever I Would Leave You," "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring," "Love Theme," from "The Godfather," and Psalm 19, by the organist, Mrs. Chalmer Frazier. Mrs. Leo Weddle read selections of poetry which included Seals and Crofts' "Ashes in the Snow" and variations on "Ruby Jean and Billie Lee," as well as "Sonnet 49" by Shakespeare, and a selection from Khalil Gibran "On Marriage."

Given in marriage by her father, Miss Chandler chose for her wedding a floor-length, hand-clipped Chantilly lace gown with a satin-bowed crescent waistline, plastron redingote of angelskin peau du soie, sabrina neckline outlined in orarobalis sequins, long fitted lily pointed sleeves and a bouffant skirt sweeping to a cathedral train over misty satapeau. Vicky's cathedral veil of illusion was fashioned from French imported silk net edged with Chantilly lace. It was held in place with a mid-Victorian lady's torreau. She carried a bouquet of catelya orchids, blue delphiniums, white stephanotis with streamers gracing the floor. She also wore a blue cameo, a gift from the groom.

Mrs. James V. Martin, sister of the bride, was the matron of honor. She wore a flowered colonial gown of voile, floor-length, in colors of yellow, orange, orchid and blue. Her lilac picture hat was banded with streamers to match the white lace bib of her dress. Her colonial bouquet was of miniature carnations.

The bridesmaids, Mrs. Philip Damron, sister of the groom, Mrs. Raleigh Archer, sister-in-law of the groom, Mrs. William Paul Fairchild, of Lexington, and Mrs. Ramona Hall, of Allen, were dressed to resemble that of the matron of honor. Their dresses were in solid colors of yellow, orange, orchid and blue, respectively. They carried colonial bouquets of miniature carnations dyed to match their dresses and corresponding picture hats with streamers.

Mr. Philip Damron, of Prestonsburg, served his brother-in-law as best man, while Dr. Raleigh Archer, brother of the groom, of Lexington, Mr. William Paul Fairchild, of Lexington, Mr. William Frazier and Mr. Thomas Lafferty, both of Prestonsburg, served as groomsmen and candlelighters.

An informal reception was held in the church parlour where the bride's table was laid with a blue cloth and organdy applique overlay. The three-tier blue-and-white wedding cake was topped with white satin wedding bells and doves and encircled with blue and white carnations and greenery.

Mrs. Powell Melvin, of Paintsville, Ky., served punch, and Mrs. James Martin served cake, while Miss Ramona Hall registered guests.

The mother of the bride, dressed in a blue polyester suit with matching accessories and a white orchid corsage, greeted guests.

The mother of the groom was attired in a suit of pink silk shantung with accessories to correspond and a white orchid corsage.

The bride is an honor graduate of Prestonsburg Community College and listed in "Who's Who in American Junior Colleges and Universities." She was also a top debater in Kentucky junior colleges.

An honor graduate of Prestonsburg Community College and listed in "Who's Who in American Junior Colleges and Universities," the groom was also a top debater in Kentucky Junior Colleges.

After a wedding trip to Cincinnati, the young people will live in Morehead, Ky., where they will continue their education.

Pre-nuptial activities included a party given at the George Branham ranch at Flat Gap, hosted by Mr. and Mrs. William Frazier; a personal shower given the bride at the Starfire Motel's Fanfare Room in Paintsville; a miscellaneous shower given in the Fellowship Hall of the First United Methodist Church of Paintsville.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Damron of Prestonsburg were hosts to the rehearsal dinner held the evening before the wedding at the Plantation Motel dining room.

Gene Williams of Frail's Department Store, Paintsville, served as director of the wedding.

Hall-Jupin Wedding Solemnized

Miss Rhonda Gale Hall and Mr. Lawrence Ray Jupin were united in marriage in a candlelight ceremony at 2:30 p.m., August 4, at Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church in Prestonsburg. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hall, of Betsy Layne. The groom is the son of Mr. William Jupin, of Louisville, and the late Mrs. Betty Warford.

The Rev. Cohen Campbell officiated at the double-ring ceremony. The vows were said before an altar of greenery with a cathedral candelabra on either side and a kneeling bench in the center.

Billie Jean Osborne was at the organ to play wedding music and the traditional processional and recessional marches. She accompanied solisit Sherry Lynn Conn, cousin of the bride, who sang "Always," "If Ever I Would Leave You," "Till" and "A Wedding Prayer."

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a traditional floor-length gown of delicate ivory organza in a flared skirt silhouette. The bodice, with short bell sleeves and natural waistline defined by elegant Guipure lace, was created with a scoop neckline rimmed by a sheer ruffle caught with matching medallion lace. A band of Guipure, above a sweeping hemline flounce, encircled the skirt and extended to ornament the flowing chapel train.

Designed and made especially for her, her French puffed veil of gossamer silk illusion drifted the length of her train from a bridel hat of ivory sheer braid crocheted straw overlay with matching Guipure medallions at the brim and crown. She carried a cascade bouquet of white stephanotis and pink sweetheart roses on a white Bible.

Mrs. Nancy Spradlin, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Patti Wrocklage, sister of the groom, Mrs. Susan Wallen and Miss Karen Hall, cousins of the bride, Miss Dianne Martin, of Richmond, and Miss Jan Strickland, of Louisville. A reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church following the ceremony. The bride's table was covered with white lace over a hot pink linen and centered with a four-tiered wedding cake.

Alice Lloyd College Is 50 Years Old THANK YOU FLOYD COUNTY

June Buchanan, president of the Caney Creek Community Center and Will Hayes, president of Alice Lloyd College, together represent over 85 years of service to this region. They treasure friendships with students past and present and with many people throughout eastern Kentucky.

The hillsides surrounding Alice Lloyd College, and the buildings already on campus create a mood and a feeling all their own. Maintaining this feeling presented a challenge well met by the architects who designed our new conference center and dining hall. Construction of the building, which is modern, functional, and compatible with the beauty of the mountains, will begin this month. Construction of a new physical education center will begin later this fall.

Dear Friends:

In a few short weeks Alice Lloyd College begins its 50th year of service to you, the people of Eastern Kentucky. You have been our partners from the beginning. You have shared our hardships and our success. And you have shared the ideals of our basic purpose which remains unchanged—Leadership Education, an unselfish service to others.

From simple beginnings and this strength of purpose, Alice Lloyd College has grown significantly in 50 years. We are recognized nationally as an independent, innovative educational community. We are recognized nationally as leaders in community involvement, benefiting others with the benefits of an education. With your help, thousands of Alice Lloyd College students have received an education that prepared them to be perceptive responsible citizens in your communities. We are determined to continue that record of accomplishment.

We also are determined to continue developing the finest programs and resources to meet today's educational needs. Construction of a new conference center/dining hall and a new physical education center begin this fall. Included is a modern student center and snack bar + lounge, seminar and study rooms for the record number of students who have applied for admission. These facilities will enable us to continue the small classes and personal attention that always characterize education at Alice Lloyd College.

As we begin our second half century, we know that you share our pride in the past and our dedication to the future. We know that it is in the context of family and community that young people best learn who and what they are, and what they can become as valuable human beings. Alice Lloyd College renews its commitment to the families and communities of Eastern Kentucky—to you, our friends and neighbors. Thank you for the first half century. We look forward to the next 50 years.

Sincerely,

Will Hayes

Parents from miles around bring their children to Cushing Hall on the Alice Lloyd campus to see children's theater productions. Alice Lloyd's Appalachian Summer Theater also tours the area with plays for children and plays with Appalachian themes for adults. Over 12,000 people have seen our productions in the last two years.

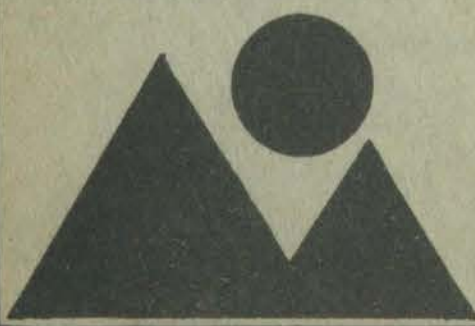

Our choir, the Voices of Appalachia, sang for 7000 people in the Sun Bowl outside Phoenix, Ariz., as part of the choir's month-long tour of California, Arizona and Texas earlier this year. Other annual tours have taken the choir to states such as New York, Massachusetts and Florida.

The teacher of business administration in this classroom is Bob Warner. Bob was loaned to Alice Lloyd College by the IBM company. Bill Jaquess, another IBM executive, will continue the business course this fall. The first fall term begins August 19.

Mary Mann, like most of our students, has a deep feeling for the mountains, the beauty of our area, and the friendliness of the people on our campus.

Group Told Local Prospects For Industry Now Brighter

Prestonsburg civic and business leaders were told at a luncheon meeting at May Lodge Friday that a Boston firm is interested in reopening the now-occupied KAI building in West Prestonsburg, and earlier in the week hopes for highway access to two industrial sites at Cliff were brightened.

Ed Music, chairman of the Prestonsburg Industrial Foundation, said the Kentucky Department of Commerce indicated in a Frankfort conference arranged by State Representative W. J. Reynolds that it will participate with the Foundation in development of the sites.

This development depends upon a satisfactory access by highway to the sites which are on the railroad side of the Big Sandy at Cliff. Either site, Mr. Music said, has an area as large as that of U. S. Shoe Company, across the river from Lancer, and each has water, gas, electricity and rail transportation, with sewer service assured.

It is believed that with Department of Commerce cooperation industrial development there can be made definite enough to justify a department of Highways action toward construction of an access road.

Charles Brauer, of the Brauer Manufacturing Co., Boston, met with the business group city officials and others at the Friday luncheon and told of his firm's interest in the KAI building. He proposes, he said, to use it for the manufacture of rain-wear.

Most of the plant employees would be women. Mr. Brauer said he would expect to employ around 25 at first, raise that number to 60-70 the next year and in two years have a payroll of 125 to 150.

A lease arrangement for the company with Irving Industries, Lexington, owners of the KAI structure, must be made before plans for opening of the plant can be completed. The owners recently indicated they would make the building available for industrial use.

Development of the Cliff property remains of major interest to the Industrial Foundation, which has had prospects of major plants if highway access could be provided. Mr. Music said Representative Reynolds had through his official position and willingness to work been of great service in getting the Department of Commerce and Department of Highways nearer to a solution of the problem, which has been described as a "chicken-and-egg" case:

1. Industry demands highway access before committing itself to locate there;
2. Highways Department must have such a commitment before road construction can be justified.

Coal, Power Firms Named Defendants In $250,000 Action

A damage suit seeking to recover $250,000 was filed in circuit court here last Thursday by Leander Johnson, Jr., of Bevensville, against the Island Creek Coal Company and Kentucky Power Company.

Plaintiff alleges that power lines were improperly and negligently maintained and operated near the premises of Claude Johnson on Jack's Creek and that this resulted in his electrocution. Johnson claims to have been burned over more than 50 percent of his body, and that his earning power has been permanently destroyed.

Council Formed To Co-Ordinate Clubs' Efforts

A new city group which hopes to organize and coordinate club activities for the improvement of Prestonsburg held its fourth meeting last week and is now set to launch its first project.

Roy Ramey, acting chairman of PIC (Prestonsburg Inter-Club Council), said this week that clean-up and beautification of Prestonsburg will be the group's first major activity and he hopes that work will get under way immediately.

PIC came into being earlier this year as the result of an idea sparked by the Special Projects Committee of the Prestonsburg Area Chamber of Commerce, which Ramey heads.

The main focus, Ramey said, is to get all civic and community clubs in Prestonsburg involved in a coordinated effort of city improvement.

Among other possible goals for PIC would be compiling an inventory of city projects that need to be undertaken; preparing a city-wide calendar of events, and serving as an information-gathering and disseminating agent.

The first project—clean-up and beautification—results partly from the city-wide cleanup campaign sponsored by the Jaycees here earlier this year. Ramey said PIC hopes to expand on that operation and make cleanup and beautification a year-round program.

At its latest meeting Aug. 6, PIC representatives adopted a clean-up slogan of "Pitch In."

Representatives of the Prestonsburg Ministerial Association will ask the City Council at its next meeting to purchase litter barrels carrying this slogan, and to place them at appropriate places throughout downtown area.

The PIC members—composed of presidents or representatives of civic groups—also voted to ask local clubs to carry out the following activities:

Chamber of Commerce—publicity program for the clean-up campaign.

Floyd County Emergency & Rescue Squad—erecting bicycle racks in the municipal parking lot.

Prestonsburg Junior Woman's Club—sponsor a yard or lawn contest.

Prestonsburg Woman's Club—place flowers in Archer Park.

Kiwanis Club—undertake beautification of the traffic island and the area around the high school, perhaps including planting of ornamental shrubs.

PTA—undertake an educational program in the schools on clean-up and beautification based on environmental and health needs.

Jaycees—sponsor a dogwood project, including possibly planting of dogwoods along the Mountain Parkway entrance to Prestonsburg and along North Lake Drive.

PIC members also voted to send a letter to the City Council, thanking it for the work previously done this year, including cleaning up vacant lots, repainting parking meters and cleaning parking lots.

The group will meet again Sept. 10 at 7:30 p.m. at the Floyd County Library. Ramey said any other organization which would like to participate is urged to send a representative to the next meeting.

Floyd County Girl Battles for Life

The following newspaper story from Clarksfield, Ohio tells of the battle for life being waged there by a former Floyd county child and of the plight of her family.

Her name is Dorothy and she's a bright little redhead who loves to swim and gets A's and B's in school.

But right now the 14-year-old girl from West Clarksfield is fighting for her life in Elyria Memorial Hospital.

The enemy is cancer. Already it has taken part of her leg, and she has to wear a brace. A few weeks ago, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Bryant, were told the disease had entered her lungs.

Doctors told them she has a better chance of surviving with the 5½ hour operation performed at the Elyria Hospital. Without it, her chances were nil.

The Brynarts have lived in West Clarksfield in Huron County for about four years, having moved from hi Hat, Ky.

It was a year ago in February that an accident at school brought to light Dorothy's illness. A minor leg injury still hurt after six weeks. The doctors discovered cancer, operated in hopes of "scraping" the bone, but discovered the disease so widespread that they had to amputate.

Not long after that, to make matters worse, Dorothy's father suffered a heart attack. He had a job at the Cleveland City Forge Co., in Wellington, but doctors told him he couldn't work. Her mother, Lorraine, is employed by the Fanny Farmer Candy Shops Inc., Norwalk.

Mrs. Bryant's group hospital insurance has paid 80 percent of the hospital expenses, but with the father unable to work, bills are piling up. Some support is coming from a number of Dorothy's aunts and uncles who live in the area, but a neighbor, Mrs. Joan Hoffman, 22, says more help is needed.

"They are hard-working people and they've never bone on welfare. They keep trying, they really need help," says Mrs. Hoffman.

Recycling Requires Caution

One of the most interesting and controversial activities involving the Division of Solid Waste is recycling.

In gathering and studying data on recycling, we found much material on recycling projects—but little about the expense and volume required to make these projects successful. This omission has caused many communities to waste much money on projects that never would have been tried if sufficient information had been available.

For instance, composting (the use of solid waste as a fertilizer) is one area of recycling that has not proved successful, despite federal money being poured into pilot projects.

Generally, recycling requires a nearby market. High freight rates and an unstable market have created a delicate balance between profit and loss and the slightest tip of the scales can send a recycling operation spiraling into the red.

A sufficient volume of recyclable material must be available. Basically, this means that a community of less than 25,000 would find it almost impossible to recycle profitably.

We must ensure that we do not expand more natural resources recycling than we would using raw materials. This is particularly true in the expenditure of gasoline and diesel fuel in these days of fuel shortages.

An area of recycling that seems feasible is the use of solid waste as an auxiliary fuel for the generation of steam of electricity. Although fairly low in fuel value, solid waste is generally low in sulfur and other air pollutants. While it is felt that this system has considerable merit, the solid waste is not totally eliminated, and a secondary disposal system is required for the incineration process residues.

For years, American industry has been recycling some wastes by creating marketable items, known as by-products, from their primary manufacturing process wastes. Industrialists, looking for more profits and less overhead, developed these products. It seems that if the same ingenuity could be applied to solid waste, useable, profitable items could be produced.

Of particular concern are ways to recycle hazardous wastes, for which we now have no safe economical means of disposal. Both the federal and state solid waste programs have given this phase of solid waste management a high priority because of the danger these hazardous wastes present to our environment. The complexity of our hazardous wastes has necessitated adding highly qualified professionals to our solid waste staff.

For the most part, industries have been as concerned as the department in seeing that these hazardous wastes are safely disposed of or recycled.

We must all remember that recycling requires public cooperation. People must either take recyclables to collection centers or they must physically separate their trash. I urge you to work with us for better recycling of our valuable natural resources.

Golf in Kentucky

By JOHN CLOWES

Kentucky has a venerable golfing tradition. Middlesboro Country is quite possibly the oldest golf club in the United States. Some of the wealthy Englishmen who founded Middlesborough, Ky. (as it was then spelled) were members of the famed St. Andrews Golf Club in Scotland. They created the city of Middlesborough and laid out their golf course in the Yellow Creek Valley in the Kentucky mountains in 1888. The following year they formed a golf club and began play. Five of their original fairways are unchanged to this day.

There are 183 golf courses in Kentucky as of June, 1973. Most of them are open the year round. There are 123 courses available for public play, 15 of them in Kentucky state parks. Many of those 123 are private clubs that welcome the visitor and his greens fee... Middlesboro Country Club is not one of them. More than 125 golf tournaments are played in the Bluegrass State each year.

"Golf Courses in Kentucky," a complete directory of all the links in the state, plus a highway map to help you find them, may be obtained free by writing to Travel, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

"La Mancha"... Theatre at Its Best

(A Review by Jack Wicker)

"Man of La Mancha," the current and final production of the 1973 Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre, is a highly stylized and engrossing production of the musical that stunned Broadway audiences for a total of 2,329 performances following its opening on November 22, 1965.

"La Mancha" packs a powerful punch, and succeeds where many other plays and operas have failed, in bringing to the stage (successfully) the story of Don Quixote.

The opening night audience, including such notables as Dr. Mark Sumner, president of the Institute of Outdoor Drama, Chapel Hill, N. C., recognized the performers with one of the longest standing ovations on record at our amphitheatre, even though no curtain call was staged.

Director Howard Enoch and Set Designer-Technical Director Rex Lyons have combined their talents to provide a show that moves continually toward its conclusion from its opening moments. Mr. Enoch has filled his production with performers who can not only be seen and heard but also enjoyed. Mr. Lyons' set, although basically true to the original production concept, shows great ingenuity in design and construction, and is, in many ways, superior to the original.

From its somber opening to the thought-provoking conclusion on the inhumaneness of reality, "La Mancha" is skillfully manipulated along by Lan Davies in the dual role of Don Quixote and his creator, Miguel de Cervantes. Mr. Davies is such an accomplished singer-actor that he finds no reason to imitate his predecessors in the role, and his is a performance that ranks with the best of the Quixotes. His "Impossible Dream" is sung with such honesty and so little embellishment that it mirrors the idealism of his character's soul.

Lilliani Cerveris is a stunning Aldonza with a fantastic voice, and her "Aldonza" alone is worth the price of admission. Unfortunately, this highly dramatic and well-played number is centered just out of mike range, and tends to lose much of its characterizing bitterness.

Jerry Winsett, as Quixote's patronizing side-kick Sancho, provides most of the evening's laughs, understating the comic lines in his own inimitable way, in what becomes a minor classic performance.

Kevin Dearing lends his melodic voice (and rolling eyes) to the role of the padre, and Butch Miller is quite effective in his dual role of Cut-throat Leader-Innkeeper. The entire production is well cast, displaying virtually none of the glaring characterization and upstaging errors that plague most productions of this powerful vehicle.

The orchestra, under the direction of Dr. Michael Cerveris, is as good as ever, and its rendition of Mitch Leigh's zesty Spanish score is a rare treat.

Again laurels to Howard Enoch and his company for a thoroughly entertaining production, and, in passing, a very special thank-you to the entire Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre cast and crew for a most rewarding summer season.

Burieta Gearhart Is Arthritis Drive Chairman in Floyd

Miss Burieta Gearhart, of Prestonsburg, has been named 1973 Arthritis Campaign chairman for Floyd county. The appointment was made by the Executive committee of the Arthritis Foundation. The state campaign is scheduled for the month of September with a goal of $201,600.

The Arthritis Foundation is the only voluntary agency working in the field of arthritis which affects over 275,000 Kentuckians. Arthritis, the country's Number One crippling disease, actually is a variety of diseases. The cruelest, most severe type is rheumatoid arthritis, which afflicts some 5 million people. Two variations, one sudden and violent in its attack and the other relatively mild, strikes children in the form known as juvenile rheumatoid arthritis, which is now recognized as the fourth major cause for crippling in America.

The campaign in Floyd county will have the active support of Mrs. Barbara Heinz, publicity chairman; Miss Lorena Hall, Maytown-Langley chairman, and Maytown Woman's Club, Mrs. Ruth S. Reynolds, Mrs. Jerry Frost, Allen Woman's Club, Mrs. Patricia Duff, Mrs. Edward B. Leslie, Mrs. Ditty Tackett, Mrs. Virginia Jamerson and Mrs. Ethel Osborne.

Indian Powwow In Greenup County

By HELEN PRICE STACY

Indians from various tribes and nations will gather in Greenup county for a "powwow" August 17-19 under sponsorship of PIPE (Preserve Indian Peoples Environment).

The powwow is to take place at the Greenup County Fairgrounds with all tribal representatives wearing genuine Indian dress as they perform traditional dances and ceremonies.

A Boyd county mother-daughter team initiated the idea. Mrs. Marcella Rye, of Ashland, serves as treasurer of PIPE; her daughter is its president. Both are of Cherokee ancestry and are concerned with the needs of American Indians.

Tickets will be sold for the Greenup county powwow and proceeds will be used to purchase a mobile medical unit for needy Piutes in southern Utah.

"Everything about the powwow will be authentic," said Mrs. Rye. "Many Indians will demonstrate and sell authentic crafts. Contact is being made with one group in Michigan to come to Kentucky that week-end to bake bread and cook typical Indian foods to sell."

Chairman of the powwow is George Appleton, a Potawatomi, of Michigan and parade leader will be Russ Wright of the Oklahoma Cherokees. Head drummer will be Tefilo Lucero, Taos Pueblo from New Mexico.

Already accepting invitations to participate in the festival of redmen are Pawnee dancers from Oklahoma, Woodland dancers from Ottawa, Chipewewa from Michigan and White Mountain Apaches from Arizona. Tribal representatives are also expected from the Blackfoot of Montana, Santee Sioux of Nebraska, Jicrilla Apaches of New Mexico, Seneca Nation of New York, San Dia Pueblo of New Mexico and Cherokee Nation of North Carolina.

Initiating the powwow August 17 will be a parade at 10 a.m. in downtown Ashland. There will also be a parade on Saturday morning in Greenup. The fairgrounds will open each day at noon.

Ashland Mayor James Webb is declaring August 12-19 "Indian Week" in the city.

"Our purpose is to help Indians," Mrs. Rye said. "We do not favor militancy, but prefer to seek out those groups who need food and who are miles from doctors and a hospital. We have learned of the needs of the southern Utah Piutes and are starting at this place."

PIPE in Eastern Kentucky is about a year old. One of its first projects was a truckload of food for needy Piutes. "We still need food donations," Mrs. Rye said. "When we have enough to fill a truck we have a man who has volunteered to drive and a Huntington firm that will provide the truck."

Though Mrs. Rye and her daughter do have Cherokee background, Indian ancestry is not a requirement for membership in PIPE. "Anyone can join. All we ask is that the person be interested in helping Indians," Mrs. Rye said.

What Must I Do To Be Saved?

To be saved involves God and man. It involves God's part and man's part. God's part consists in what He has done and what He will do. God's part may be deep and mysterious, hence the deep parts of the Bible. Man's part must be simple, so all men can understand it. Hence that which man is to do is simple and decidedly plain. This tract is written to answer the question what man is to do to be saved. We only mention some of the things God does. Trust God to do His part.

1. God does what man can not do.
 2. God gave His Son to mark the way and to die for our sins and go into the grave and conquer death for us.
 3. God gives us a plan of salvation suited to us and plainly told in the New Testament.
 4. God forgives our sins if we are willing and obedient.
 5. God adds us to the church when we obey the gospel. (Act. 2:47.)
 6. God bestows the name "Christian" when we accept and obey Christ.
 7. God gives us eternal life and a home in heaven.
- Attend independent Christian churches and Church of Christ. We preach and sing unto Christ.

(To be continued next week)

Water Pollution Funds Short, Harris Says

By MARVA GAY

Environmental Protection Writer
Frankfort, Ky.—Kentucky needs more money for water pollution control than it is likely to receive, according to a recent study.

The "needs" survey completed by the Division of Water in the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection shows that the state needs about $2.2 billion to reach the 1983 federal water pollution requirements. That comes to about $222 million a year until 1983.

"Since our allocation from the federal government for fiscal year 1973 is $13.2 million and for 1974 it's $19.7 million, we aren't likely to meet the deadline," said Thomas O. Harris, commissioner of the environmental department. "In short, all those municipalities, sanitation districts and area development who helped us meet a requirement for completing this study in less than a month get the thanks of finding out there isn't enough money to go around unless more federal monies are appropriated.

"Right now we have about 100 applications for grants and only enough money to partially assist 10 of those communities," Harris continued.

The survey of towns of at least 10,000, sanitation districts and a sample of areas outside those towns and districts accounted for two-thirds of Kentucky's population.

The U. S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), which distributes the sewage treatment grants to the states, required each state to make the "needs" survey of all sewage treatment projects eligible for construction grants. Municipalities and other governmental agencies, but not industries, can apply. Guidelines are being developed to insure that industries discharging into the municipal sewers pay their share.

To insure compatibility with municipal treatment, industries may have to pre-treat their waste before it is discharged into the system, Harris said. "Then, industries have to pay their share of treatment costs," he continued. "For instance, if an industry uses 60 percent of the sewage treatment plant's capacity, over a period of time they'll pay 60 percent of the cost of the plant."

The needed $2.2 billion breaks down into five steps for reaching the 1983 clean water requirements. Obtaining secondary treatment facilities will cost about $200 million. Advance treatment will cost $180 million. An infiltration removal program to dispose of unwanted water, such as that from bad pipes, will cost $193 million. Interceptor and collection lines used to connect the dischargers of liquid waste with the treatment facility will cost $570 million. Separation of storm water and sewage will cost $1.08 billion. In Jefferson county the cost of separating storm water and sewage is estimated at $952 million.

The $13.2 million and $19.7 million appropriations for Kentucky for 1973 and 1974 were based on a partial needs study done by EPA. The present survey was the first comprehensive nationwide survey of what sewage treatment facilities are needed and at what costs.

The formula, adopted for use with the original needs survey, cut Kentucky out of much money, Harris said.

"Back in 1972, Kentucky received $32 million in construction grants for building waste treatment facilities, but that was based on a population-economic formula," Harris said. "Kentucky got 1.6 percent of $2 billion federal funds."

Last October, when the federal government switched to the "needs" formula for dividing up the federal grants, Kentucky slid from 1.6 percent to .66 percent, Harris said. "In fact, the Commonwealth lost money because we had been working on the water pollution problem when some states weren't, said Harris. "There were 33 states, including Kentucky, that had moved ahead and were penalized by fund cuts. The 17 states that hadn't done much were rewarded with more money."

Although Congress authorized $5 billion for sewage treatment grants for 1973, President Nixon has released only $2 billion for 1973 and $3 billion for 1974. This results in Kentucky receiving an amount for 1973 and 1974 that almost equals its allotment for 1972.

District 30, United Mine Workers of America, will hold its first constitutional convention in the Pike county circuit courtroom, beginning at 9 a.m. Friday, August 31, and continuing through Sunday, September 2.

In the past constitutional conventions of the UMWA have been held in other states and in distant cities. The federal court, however, has granted full and complete autonomy to District 30 and has made it possible for the coal miners of the district to adopt their own constitution governing their district.

"We would like to welcome any members of the UMWA who would like to attend the convention as a guest to the extent that we have room to accommodate them in the courtroom," Squire Feltner, District 30 president, said.

Approximately 160 delegates who will adopt the constitution, by-laws and rules and regulations that the district will operate under for the next four years.

Allen Girl Praised For Track Skills

In winning six blue ribbons in her events the past two years at Floyd County's Annual Elementary Track and Field Day, 13-year-old Marquetia Burchett has distinguished herself as the county's first elementary student to achieve this honor.

At this year's meet, held in May, Marquetia, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Graham Burchett, of Allen, won first place in the 50-yard dash, running broad jump and standing broad jump. Her athletic accomplishments also resulted in a commendation from Floyd County School Superintendent Charles Clark. In a letter to Mr. and Mrs. Burchett, Clark said:

"I would like to take this opportunity to commend you as parents of Marquetia for the fine achievements she has made this year at the Floyd County Elementary Track and Field Day."

"In the past two years, Marquetia has won six blue ribbons in her events and she has been the only girl in the history of Floyd County to attain such glory."

"I trust that you are as proud of her as I am and that her accomplishments are as great in her academic subjects at Allen Elementary."

Marquetia will be entering Prestonsburg High School as a freshman this fall.

Our Appalachia Day Set For August 18

Pippa Passes, Ky.—Musicians, singers, dancers, story tellers and craftsmen from all over eastern Kentucky are preparing to come together at Alice Lloyd College Saturday for the Second Annual Our Appalachia Day.

"We are urging people to come to the College to perform, or just enjoy the day," said Bob Hall, director of community services at Alice Lloyd College.

Purpose of the Day is to share the heritage of the Appalachian mountains with the people of the communities surrounding the college, said Hall.

There is no charge for any events scheduled throughout the day, and Hall said the college is planning to serve a free old-fashioned mountain supper to the 500 people expected to attend.

Featured will be old-time mountain music—ballads, hymns, and bluegrass music—performed by people "who have not received a great deal of recognition for their talents," said Hall.

Prizes will be awarded for the best performances by singing groups, story tellers, and folk dancers; and the best players of banjos, guitars, fiddles, dulcimers and harmonicas.

Planned exhibits include displays of dulcimers, quilts, wood craft, coal jewelry, smoke vine jewelry and photography. Some items will be for sale.

Most events are scheduled to take place on the college meadow next to the library building, however, in the event of bad weather, Our Appalachia Day activities will move indoors.

The Our Appalachia Day schedule is as follows:

9:30 a.m.—Church singing groups, story telling and mountain music.

10:00 a.m.—Arts and crafts display opens in the area surrounding the College Meadow.

Noon—"Bring your own" picnic lunch.

1:00 p.m.—Mountain Music.

5:00 p.m.—Mountain supper provided by the College. Arts and crafts display closes.

6:30 p.m.—Presentation of "To the Mountain Dawn," a new play by Mary Mann. The play will be presented by the College's Appalachian Summer Theater in Cushing Hall.

8:30 p.m.—Presentation of prizes.

9:00 p.m.—Folk Dancing.

Jenny Wiley Summer Theatre Begins Final Week of Production

The Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre will be presenting "Man of La Mancha" this week, Wednesday through Sunday night, at the amphitheatre in Jenny Wiley State Resort Park for its final five performances of the 1973 season.

"Our season ends Sunday night of this week," said General Manager Gary Buttrey, "and it will be the last opportunity that people will have to see a production at the amphitheatre this summer." "There are many local people who have not seen a production yet this season," he added. They keep saying they will come at a later date. Well, this week—Wednesday thru Sunday—will be their last chance to get out and see these productions that they have been hearing so much about."

Commenting on the 1973 season, Mr. Buttrey said "This year we have presented some of the finest stage shows ever seen at the amphitheatre or even in the Eastern Kentucky area. We are particularly proud of our present production "Man of La Mancha". Many people have told us that it is the best show they have ever seen staged at the amphitheatre in its nine years of operation."

"Man of La Mancha" is the internationally-acclaimed musical play which combines the madly comic eccentricities of the immortal fictional figure, "Don Quixote," with a moving account of the adversities that beset his creator, Miguel de Cervantes. Lane Davies has the dual role of Cervantes—Quixote, transforming himself from soldier of fortune turned novelist into the "knight of the woeful countenance" before the audience's eyes, as he pleads before a kangaroo court of rogues in prison who want to consign his manuscript to the flames.

To prevent the loss of his writings, he regales the ruffians with tales about the adventures of his bumbling hero, Don Quixote de La Mancha. These are acted out and sung and danced in the lusty concoction that author Dale Wasserman has created for the stage from Cervante's masterpiece, with such now-famous lilting song hits as "The Impossible Dream," "Dulcinea" and "Little Bird", composed by Mitch Leigh to lyrics of Joe Darion.

The supporting cast for "Man of La Mancha" will include Jerry Winsett as the doltish servant who becomes his squire and loyal right hand, Sancho Panza. Leilani Cerveris portrays the scullion maid whom Quixote imagines to be the lady Dulcinea, symbol of purity. Butch Miller is the knavish innkeeper who is called upon to administer Quixote's dubbing into knighthood. Kevin Lane Dearing plays the Padre, Pete Franklin is seen as a callous doctor, and George Bennett plays a comic barber. All flesh out the fantasies of the mad knight errant who believes that the long-dead age of chivalry is still going on. In his tarnished armor he still continues to fight for lost causes and to protect damsels in distress. Despite setbacks and beatings, scorn and disillusion, the Don keeps on tilting at real and metaphorical windmills, an invincible idealist.

The show's inspiring point is that, through the deluded Don's insistence that the sluttish Aldonza is his pure Dulcinea, she becomes actually purified. "The Impossible Dream" is never impossible, even in defeat, is the conclusion of the heart-lifting show.

"We always enjoy seeing local people come out on Wednesday and Thursday nights," Mr. Buttrey said. "These are the two nights of the week when our attendance is the smallest. There is never a problem getting seats on those two nights. Also, this show is usually over by 10:15 so if people are worried about being out late on a week night they shouldn't let this bother them."

The doors open nightly at 7:30 and the show begins at 8:30. Tickets may be purchased at the door, and all seats are general admission. For more information about the Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre call 886-6647.

One 'Strip' Permit Issued During July But Two in August

Only one new strip-mine permit was issued for a Floyd county operation last month, but already in August there have been two, the Division of Reclamation officer here said Monday.

The permit issued in July was to Sterling Hamilton to do surface mining on Mud Creek. Those issued for August, to date, to Consumers' Elkhorn Coal Co., on Caney Fork of Middle Creek, and the Paula Coal Co., to mine on Long Branch, below Dewey Dam.

Division personnel said they did not know the acreage involved in any of the three permits.

Kentucky Medicaid Ruling Closes Last Louisa Hospital

Louisa, Ky.—The last remaining hospital in Lawrence County will close Aug. 15, city and hospital officials said last week.

Herbert E. Sullivan, administrator at Louisa General Hospital, said the facility is being forced to close because of termination of state Medicaid benefits to patients. The cutoff will take effect Aug. 12.

The city's other hospital, Riverview, was closed in May because federal Medicare service was halted after officials of the Social Security Administration, which administers Medicare, determined the building had inadequate fire protection.

The Medicare cutoff on May 11 applied to both hospitals, but city officials thought they had succeeded at that time in arranging to keep Louisa General open until the spring of 1974 when a new 90-bed, $3 million hospital is scheduled to open.

The pending cutoff of Medicaid payments as well as the loss of Medicare service is too much financial strain for the hospital to bear, Sullivan said. "They (the Kentucky Department of Health) don't give us any choice but to close down," he said.

Sullivan explained that about 70 percent of the patient load at the two hospitals involved patients on either Medicare or Medicaid, making it financially impossible to keep Louisa General open.

He said current plans call for the clinics at both hospitals to remain open along with the emergency room at Louisa General, but patient admissions will be stopped a few days before the Aug. 15 closing.

Sullivan was critical of the manner in which the state Department of Health notified the hospital of the Medicaid cutoff. He said the letter of notification was dated July 13 but was not post-marked until July 26 and not received until July 27.

"If we had gotten it earlier, we would have had about 30 days to phase out. As it is, we only have two weeks to advise the community and patients (including expectant mothers) of the closing," Sullivan said. The hospital board of directors participated in the decision to close.

"I feel we have been treated unfairly by the federal Department of Health Education and Welfare (regarding Medicare) and the state Department of Medical Assistance (Medicaid)," he said. "They should wait until the new hospital is built."

Labor troubles at the new hospital construction site have halted work for about three weeks.

Sullivan said Louisa General's first floor has already been closed and added that little chance existed in averting the total closure. Arrangements will be made to transfer admitted patients on Aug. 15 to other hospitals in the Huntington-Ashland area, he said.

Louisa Mayor Howard Queen called the impending closing of the hospital a "near catastrophe." He said county residents "have a hard enough time getting here from rural areas. Now they will have to go to Ashland or Huntington."

Sullivan said he decided to continue the hospital's appeal of the Medicare cutoff. A hearing on the appeal was scheduled for Tuesday, this week. A favorable decision in the appeal could have an effect on the state's decision to stop Medicaid payments.

Coal-To-Gas Plant Operation, Success

For the first time anywhere in the world, an Office of Coal Research (OCR) pilot plant has successfully demonstrated large-scale conversion of coal to substitute natural gas, Secretary of the Interior Rogers C. B. Morton announced last week.

Both Secretary Morton and Dr. George R. Hill, OCR director, hailed the accomplishment as a major milestone in OCR's joint program with the American Gas Association (A.G.A.) to advance technology for producing high b.t.u. gas from the nation's vast reserves of high-sulfur coal.

Dr. Hill said his agency's HYGAS pilot plant—operated by the Institute of Gas Technology in Chicago—has been turning more than three tons per hour of Montana lignite coal into pipeline quality gas with a heat content of 900-1,000 b.t.u.'s. All essential parts of the plant were integrated during more than 100 hours of continuous operation beginning with raw lignite and ending with purified gas, thus demonstrating that a much sought after process to convert coal to the equivalent of natural gas is feasible, he added.

Converting coal to gas is expected to be economically attractive by the time the processes reach the commercial stage. The gas should cost at least 20 percent less than imported gas from foreign sources, Dr. Hill said.

The OCR-A.G.A. program will cost $120 million over a four-year period—$80 million in OCR funds and $40 million from industry.

Dr. George P. Archer, better known as Dr. George, was born at Auxier, Floyd County, Kentucky, on September 10, 1915, and died on July 12, 1973, and was buried in the Archer-Spurlock Cemetery at Lancer, Kentucky, on July 15, 1973.

He was one of the two sons of Dr. Ernest E. Archer and Fannie Auxier Archer. He was the husband of Margaret Ray Archer and a grandson of George P. Archer, Sr., who served as President and Cashier of The Bank Josephine for over 50 years.

Dr. George served as a member of the Board of Directors from May, 1957, until his death and performed his duties as such Director with great credit to himself and with great honor to the Bank which he so ably represented.

He attended the regular meetings of the Board, and, in addition thereto, acted as an appraiser for the Bank in regard to any property on which the Bank was contemplating making a loan to be secured by a real estate mortgage.

His judgment in all matters was sound, and the Bank has lost a painstaking Director and a faithful friend.

We mourn his loss and extend to his mother, his widow, his two sons and daughter, and his grandchildren our deepest sympathy in their bereavement.

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED:
FIRST: That a page be set apart upon the records of this Board whereon shall be recorded these resolutions.

SECOND: That no further matters be hereafter entered upon the original record book of this Board subsequent to the minutes of the meeting at which these resolutions are adopted and entered.

THIRD: That a copy of these resolutions be furnished to the family and to the Floyd County Times for publication.

Dated: August 9, 1973.
