

Clinic Structure
Under Construction

Construction of the Prestonsburg Clinic in the Porter Addition here where house doctors' offices and other facilities is well under way by Akers & Akers, contractors. The 15,230-square-foot structure, which is being built on a three-acre site, will cost a reported $305,000 and by next June supply offices for 13 doctors. Eight physicians associated with the new Highlands Medical Center are participating in construction of the clinic.

Opinion To Stall Home Rule Action

Runyon Claims Court May Not Hit Old Deeds

The Floyd fiscal court cannot under the new home rule law enact legislation to protest landowners from provisions of the old "broad form" deeds under which most coal and other mineral rights in this and other counties of the region were acquired around 75 years ago.

So said Assistant Attorney General Charles Runyon in a lengthy opinion received here last week. The opinion was given at the request of County Attorney James R. Allen, who had been asked by the fiscal court to consult the Attorney General about the legality of such an action.

A request for fiscal court action was made last year by the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund, which is headquartered here, on behalf of 150 residents of the Bull Creek section and the Floyd County Welfare Rights Organization. The court was asked to require surface mining operators to get written consent of the landowner before augering or stripping coal acquired under the old deed.

The assistant attorney general held that such legislation by the fiscal court would be unconstitutional as "an impairment of contract obligations." Runyon also argued that what the fiscal court had considered doing "does not reach the conservation issue but merely adjusts the economic considerations extending in favor of the private surface owners."

John Rosenberg, head of the office here of the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund, expressed keen disappointment at the opinion.

Commenting on the language of the opinion in which Runyon said, "There is no

This Town . . . That World

This younger generation has me plumb flummoxed. How they can behold my shivering frame and still look prayerfully skyward hoping for another cloud loaded with snow, I'll never understand.

Among the less important events of the week was the call of the fire department, accompanied by the police yet, to the home of Lida Mason and Sharon Joseph in the Porter Addition last Wednesday morning. Without benefit of hook or ladder, the firemen rescued a cat from beneath a hot water tank.

CHAIN REACTION

Insurance people who deal with the darker realities such as death, fire, accident, tornado, etcetera, still run into funny situations. One such is the case of the woman who espied a familiar looking pair of legs extending from beneath the family car. "Lunch is ready," she announced and bent to give hubby an affectionate pat.

The mechanic was not her husband, and he was so startled that he lurched like a hooked bass, slammed his head against the bottom of the car and knocked himself out. When he came around, he was on a stretcher. He managed to rise onto an elbow and begin explaining. That so doubled up the ambulance attendants that they dropped the stretcher and broke the mechanic's arm.

HOW IT HAPPENED

I realize that I am hitting Bill Pettrey and John Warix pretty frequently in this column, these days, but this is news.

The Department of Fish & Wildlife Resources has spoken of the channel catfish population explosion in Dewey Lake, and the increase of the species there has been more or less of a profound mystery.

Mother of 3 Jailed In Husband's Slaying

Thirty-two-year-old Barbara Newsome, of Teaberry, faced a possible murder indictment at the hands of the grand jury this week after she had allegedly shot and killed her husband, Paul Newsome, 33, at their home at Teaberry on Mud Creek last Saturday morning.

Mrs. Newsome, mother of three children whose ages range from 7 to 10, was jailed here last Saturday, shortly after the shooting of her husband was reported, by State Police Detectives Chester D. Potter and Al Hensley. Testimony of witnesses was heard Monday by the grand jury.

Newsome, who was employed on a poverty program project, was shot one time in the region of the heart by a bullet from a .25-caliber automatic pistol. Only the victim and his wife were in the home when the shot was fired, and the woman was quoted as saying the shot was fired accidentally while her husband and she struggled on a couch. Powder burns indicated that the shot was fired at close range.

The children of the couple were at a neighbor's home at the time of the shooting. Commonwealth's Attorney Harold J. Stumbo said the pistol from which the shot was fired was found on a chair, its mechanism jammed. The couple had had previous trouble. Mrs. Newsome herself was shot, reportedly by her own hand, last year and her recovery for a time was doubtful. They later were separated, the wife going to Ohio, neighbors said, but later a reconciliation was effected.

Joining in the investigation at the scene of the shooting were the Commonwealth's Attorney, County Attorney James R. Allen, County Detective Sam Hale, the state detectives and State Troopers Rose and Cantrell.

The victim was a son of the late Dewey and Haley Jones Newsome and was a native of the community where he died. Besides his wife, he leaves a son, Lester, and two daughters, Malinda and Marlene; six brothers and two sisters, James Newsome, Lorain, O., Gary, Burnis and Curt Newsome, all of Craynor, Grady and Eugene Newsome, both of Clyde, Ohio, Mrs. Marlene Howell, of Craynor, and Mrs. Phyllis Tackett, of Harold.

Funeral rites were conducted at 10 a.m. Tuesday from the Newsome residence, and burial was made in the family cemetery under direction of the Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

Annexation Move For New Allen Finds Opposition

The move recently initiated by the City of Allen to annex territory occupied by the area known as New Allen met last week with opposition from 330 residents of the area planned for annexation.

A circuit court action protesting the move was filed by Troy Hall and 229 others who claim they represent more than 75 percent of the property-owners of New Allen.

The protesting action contends there is present or future need of incorporation, that the city of Allen does not offer any service that would be beneficial to the proposed territory, such as sewers, streets, sidewalks, street lights and other conveniences, for which residents of New Allen would be required to pay taxes. Petitioners claim the disadvantages of incorporation would outweigh the advantages.

New Allen is the more populous of the two sections of the community, which are connected by the KY 80 bridge across the Big Sandy river.

NOT THE SAME MAN

In last week's Times, the James Webb mentioned in connection with the suit of Standard Oil Co. vs. James Webb, was not the person of the same name who resides at Dwale.

Grand Jury Nearing End of Busy Session

The grand jury of the Floyd circuit court ended its sixth day of work Tuesday, but the possibility exists that it will ask additional time to complete its investigation of crime. Circuit Judge Hollie Conley told the jury, earlier in the term, that any extension of time it desires will be granted.

No indictments had been reported Tuesday noon, but when they are some will be of a sensational nature, The Times learned.

Trial of Sheriff Frank Leslie on a non-feasance-maleasance charge lodged against him by a previous grand jury, was continued Monday because a special judge and special prosecutor will serve in the trial. This resulted, it was explained, because a tape recording will be used in the trial and both Circuit Judge Hollie Conley and Commonwealth's Attorney Harold J. Stumbo have had it in their possession, thus placing them in the role of witnesses.

Judge Jean L. Auxier, of the Pike circuit court, has been designated to preside in the trial of the case, and Commonwealth's Attorney A. Dale Bryant, of Jackson, will be the prosecutor.

Second trial of Roy Branham, charged with attempting to bribe a public official, and the first trial of Virgil Conn, Floyd deputy sheriff charged with nonfeasance-maleasance, were docketed for Tuesday, but it was not known if the hearings will be undertaken at this time. A third case, that of Martin V. Frazier, accused of striking and wounding with intent to kill, was scheduled for trial the same day.

The first murder trial of the term remains scheduled for Jan. 15. In this case 73-year-old Mont Robinette is accused of the slaying at Prestonsburg of his wife, Laura. Robinette's attorney, David White, of Louisa, recently gained court permission to have the body of Mrs. Robinette exhumed, apparently to determine the type of bullet which killed her, but White told Commonwealth's Attorney Stumbo this week that the Johnson county coroner has refused to exhume the body. Mrs. Robinette was buried in Johnson county.

Lootings Feature New Year Crime

Trooper of the Year

At the end of each year, troopers of the Kentucky State Police vote at Post level to select a trooper from the area to represent them in competition for Trooper of the Year for the State of Kentucky.

Trooper Gary Rose was voted Trooper of the Year 1972 to represent Post 9, Pikeville, by his fellow officers. Trooper Rose works the Floyd county area and resides at Ligon with his wife, Yulanda, and son, Brent. He was in the US Army and served in Vietnam before becoming a state trooper. Rose joined the Kentucky State Police April 15, 1968, and has worked in the Post 9 area since that time. In 1970 he was also voted Trooper of the Year to represent Post 9.

"Trooper Rose is a dedicated officer and very loyal to the Division," said a Post representative. "He is a hard worker, especially in criminal matters. He spends many hours of his own time on criminal

Martin Stores Biggest Losers; None Arrested

A number of burglaries in the county marred the first week of the new year and continued a rash of similar crimes which began over the holidays.

Suffering most heavily from the activity of thieves was Wright's Jewelry at Martin where the store's entire stock of diamonds and watches, valued at $6,500 to $7,000, was heisted. Owner Clifford Wright said the break was discovered Thursday night and that it appeared the front doors of the shop had been forced with a crowbar or similar instrument.

The same night, thieves broke through the glass doors of Reid's Pharmacy, also in Martin, and stole a large quantity of narcotics and amphetamines ("speed"). Location and closeness in time of the two crimes aroused speculation that they may have been perpetrated by the same person or persons.

Earlier in the week, locks on the doors of Rice's Gulf Station at Garrett were pried loose and an estimated $1,400 in tires, tape players and tapes, auto parts and some cash was taken.

In another incident last week, the Calvin Reynolds family, returning to their home on the Henson Branch of Clear Fork, discovered that the house had been entered and various items, including a television set, had been lifted.

State Detective Chester Potter and County Detective Sam Hale have as yet uncovered no definite evidence as to the identity of those responsible for the breaks.

Vandalism committed Christmas week at Allen Central high school and at Clark Elementary as well as an earlier case of breaking, entering, and setting fire to the principal's office at Prestonsburg high school, prompted the Floyd County Board of Education this week to post a reward of $500.00 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of those responsible. Damages incurred in these incidents total $9,500.

Burglars who at Christmastime broke into Goebel's Discount Store here, getting away with some $23,000 worth of merchandise had not, as of Tuesday, been apprehended.

State and city police have also investigated the firing of revolver shots into the Second Avenue home here of Dr. George P. Archer. Two shots apparently were fired from a passing car, New Year's eve.

New State Law On Compensation Worries Court

Operators of coal mines are not alone in their concern about the effects of the new Kentucky Workmen's Compensation Act.

The Floyd fiscal court is having its worries, too. Although the new rates had not been issued last week, mineowners fear a situation which will make operation impossible, particularly for the smaller mines, and which will place Kentucky coal at a disadvantage competitively with coal from other states.

The fiscal court concern stems from a meeting last week at which Jack I. Branham, head of the Big Sandy Insurance Agency, Martin, pointed out provisions of the new compensation law to the magistrates, County Judge Henry Stumbo and County Attorney James R. Allen.

The Workmen's Compensation Act voted by the 1972 General Assembly and effective Jan. 1, this year, provides, Mr. Branham pointed out, that all county employees, including county officials and their assistants or clerical help, must be insured. If that includes deputy sheriffs, both Judge Stumbo and County Attorney Allen said, the county will find it difficult to cover the bill. Mr. Allen will ask the Attorney General for an opinion.

The number of deputy sheriffs and the risk element involved in their work could make compensation for them a heavy expense to the county, it is held. Branham said the rates on other officials and their assistants would probably be low.

Childers Says Road On Daniels Creek Not Used by Firm

Walter Childers, head of the Colonial Coal Co., said last week that it was not clear why he or his company were mentioned in connection with the recent action of the Floyd fiscal court to restrict truck weights on the Daniels creek road to 10 tons.

Mr. Childers said that his firm has leased coal lands on both sides of Daniels Creek from the Harkins estate but that his company has never hauled coal over the Daniels Creek road and in all probability never will.

County Clerk C. "Ollie" Robinson was directed by the court to notify Mr. Childers

Where It Was Quiet . . . And Nice

The snow wasn't deep last Sunday, back there near the top of the mountain at the head of Corn Fork of Brandy Keg, near Jenny Wiley State Park, but the quiet made it almost as appealing as on sunnier days when it's a favorite of Irvin Harris, of Prestonsburg, owner of the building shown in photo and of a soon to be completed nearby.

University Women Meet Scheduled at Library

The Prestonsburg Branch of the American Association of University Women will welcome a special guest to its January 11 meeting. Miss Judith Smiley, of Prestonsburg, is presently the recipient of one of the AAUW fellowships for her Ph. D. studies of "The Political Career of Thruston B. Morton." She will speak to the group on her work in this area.

The meeting will be held in the Floyd County Library at 7:30 p.m. Members may bring guests. A meeting of the AAUW Board will be held at 7 p.m. at the library, the same evening.

Representative Reynolds, Woman's Club Speaker

The Prestonsburg Woman's Club met January 4 at the Floyd County Library. Mrs. James Adams, president, presided. The devotional was given by Mrs. Frank Layne.

Plans were made for the Sweetheart Ball to be held at the Paintsville Country Club, February 10. Members are to call Mrs. Thelma Wallen or Mrs. Mary Belle Layne and submit names of guests before January 20.

Mrs. Adams announced that the Kentucky Federation of Woman's Club mid-winter meeting will be held in Louisville, January 29-31. She distributed tickets to members to be sold for a mink jacket. Proceeds from this sale will go toward a scholarship for the study of nephritis. Mrs. Paul Combs, chairman of the Community Improvement committee, requested volunteers for the auxiliary at the New Highlands Regional Hospital.

Mrs. James Allen asked all members who have S & H Green Stamps to get them to her. The Kentucky Federation uses them to purchase kidney machines, and she has been notified that there is an urgent need for these books now.

Mrs. Clifford Latta, chairman of the Public Affairs committee, introduced State Representative William J. Reynolds, who gave an informative talk on new laws that have become effective recently.

At the conclusion of the meeting Mrs. Nancy Thomas discussed "Meals on Wheels," a program being undertaken by the Presbyterian Church. This is mainly a non-profit food service for the homebound—elderly, handicapped or convalescing. She explained the need of volunteers in order to carry out the program successfully.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Glen Brickley, Mrs. John F. Brown, Mrs. Clyde Burchett, Mrs. Joe W. Burchett, Mrs. John G. Heinze, Mrs. E. P. Hill Jr., Mrs. E. B. May, Mrs. Lillian Phelprey, Mrs. John K. Pitts and Mrs. Betty Pope.

Entered as second class matter June 18, 1927, at the postoffice at Prestonsburg, Kentucky, under the act of March 3, 1879.

One Faint Hope Remains

The Times takes due recognition of the fact that any inveighing it may do against the "broad form" deed and its injustices is, in effect, not a great deal more than an exercise in English composition or an exercise of free and slightly intemperate speech. In short, what we print will not achieve much, and we know it.

The cards are stacked. Home rule, the Attorney General's office says, does not empower a fiscal court to take a hand in human, if not civil, rights. The sad fact remains that the owner of the land owns it as long as his ownership does not conflict with the ownership of the more valuable mineral rights underlying those acres.

The state's highest court holds that those old deeds conveyed a right which the buyer did not even attempt to acquire—the right to mine coal by a method undreamed of at the time the transaction was consummated.

Then shall we surrender? Not yet.

There is something that can be done. The man who lives on land that he calls his own and who farms the surface and pays the taxes on land that later may be ravaged over all his protests has one glimmer of hope remaining.

And that is that the legislators of this state will take the matter into their hands and enact a law outlawing surface mining.

A Law, Not the Full Answer

When Governor Rockefeller of New York called on the lawmakers of his state, the other day, to enact the most severe anti-narcotics legislation, the applause was thunderous. And we mentally clapped hands.

Recognizing the fact that the drug situation is not improved, but is worsening, he called for a law which would make mandatory a life prison term, without hope of probation, parole or pardon, for all who are convicted as "pushers" of hard drugs.

We think harsh action such as this must be taken across America if even the smallest hamlet is to escape the violent crime engendered by the insatiable demand for money which drug addiction creates, not to mention the misery to be visited upon all who become enslaved to narcotics.

But there is a weakness which even such a law cannot overcome, and that is the weakness of those who sit on trial juries. Still to be overcome will be that weak, timorous thinking which too often besets the men and women who sit in jury boxes. Many of these will squeamishly reason that the penalty is too severe, that the criminal who sold those drugs should have another chance, that he might be rehabilitated, and so on.

Here in this county there has in recent years been an example of such silly thinking and weak citizenship. Kentucky has an excellent law against the carrying of concealed deadly weapons: a pen term for the individual convicted of that offense. It was a law aimed at attack and murder.

When the law first became effective officers cracked down. Men caught with concealed firearms on their persons were arrested, their offenses reported, indictments made. And juries did their duty. Gun-toters went to state prison. The murder rate dropped.

Then came the insidious argument... "It's too hard on the poor fellow." Arrests slowed, indictments became fewer. How long has it been now since a Floyd county man served a prison term for hiding on his person the means of taking the life of another human?

No, a law on the books is not the full answer. But it is a part of it.

"Mud-Trap"

(An editorial in Happy Hunting Ground)

In a recent address before the Audubon Society in Frankfort, author-conservationist Harry M. Caudill questioned the sanity of spending $53.5 million—the federal income taxes of 60,000 families in the $10,000-a-year-bracket—for construction of a lake to "fill with mud and poisonous water."

He referred to four U. S. Corps of Engineers lakes in the Big Sandy River basin (one of them, Fishtrap Reservoir, is in Kentucky; silting in from mining operations and also to the increasing amount of minerals found in Kentucky waters as a result of mining).

Four-year-old Fishtrap Reservoir was projected by the U. S. Corps of Engineers to have a life of 100 years. The Engineers now concede the lake is being silted so rapidly that its life span is more like 11 years. And so we've spent $53.5 million for 11 years of flood-control and low-grade recreation.

What will happen to Dewey Lake which lies in John's Creek watershed, site of recently-increased strip mining.

What about the proposed Martins Fork Reservoir or Carr Fork Reservoir? Will we spend our money and, as Mr. Caudill wonders, "send our people as strangers to distant places" so we can flood their homes to make lakes to fill with mud?

We think not. We should first solve the problem of Fishtrap—practically and legally—before we make further investment of our money, our people and our land.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank all our relatives and friends for the many kindnesses extended to our loved one David Banner Leslie, Jr., during his illness, and to us at his passing. We especially thank those who brought food and sent the lovely flowers. We appreciated the consoling words of the ministers, Rev. Howard Coop, Rev. William Thomas and Rev. W. D. Jagers. We also thank the personnel of the Mountain Manor Nursing Home and the Floyd Funeral Home for its efficient services.

THE FAMILY

Gov. Wendell Ford has signed three executive orders to implement state government reorganization moves announced last month.

VALUABLE TREES FOR WILD LIFE

The AMERICAN BEECH. For its great role in feeding many kinds of wild life, the beech should be protected wherever found. Large landowners sometimes make the sad mistake of having their beeches "deadened;" that is, a man goes to each tree and belts it, cutting a ring around the bark, which eventually kills the tree. They claim they want to eliminate the beeches so that the oaks, yellow poplars and others will have a better chance.

But what tree can take the place of the beech? It fattens up the squirrels and coons in autumn; it feeds the grouse and wild turkeys, the bear and the fox. I can remember when the old settlers of our region, who always raised plenty of hogs to supply the family's needs, would turn out their hogs every fall to fatten on the "beech mast." The hogs roamed far and wide, feasting under the beeches until they got seal-fat. Their flesh was made tender and of good flavor from eating so many beech nuts. As long as the oily and delicious nuts lasted, the hogs would eat nothing else and they ate so many nuts that the fuzz inside the hull often collected in their stomachs, forming a small, round ball, hard as wood. I remember how my grandmother showed me one of these small, hardened balls and had a superstitious fear of it, calling it a "witch's ball." She showed me a small indentation on the leg of the hog, saying, "This is where the devils entered the swine when Christ cast them out of the wild man." But I used the little balls for marbles and never had much fear of them.

Schoolchildren used to walk to school and in the fall they often stopped under the big, sprawling beeches along the road to gather the beechnuts to eat. The boys used them for "pocket money," trading them for pencils and other school supplies. Each large beech often bore several bushels of nuts. The beechnuts are the choice food of wild turkeys and gray squirrels; where the beeches have been destroyed these wild creatures often starve out. The beech is also noted for having large hollows in the trunk, or in the boughs, which nature provides as homes for birds and other wild creatures; even the hollow-sided beeches should be spared for this reason.

The beech is a sleek, handsome tree, with gray bark which fits it snugly and often shows white spots as decoration; these spots are due to fungus being established on the bark. The winter buds are long, slender, golden brown and decorate the winter tree; Thoreau called beech buds the "spearheads of spring." When the slender buds swell and burst open in spring to release the new-born leaves, the bud scales flutter down like the wings of moths; this is called the "spring bud-scale fall." The brown scales are gathered by carpenter ants and carried to their dens, for use as decoration.

THE WILD CHERRY. Visit a large wild cherry in late summer when the fruits have turned purplish-black and ready for eating, and you will no doubt see many different species of birds having a banquet of the ripe cherries. The tree is never without bird visitors as long as the cherries last; in a very few days, the birds strip the tree, but this tree will produce another bounteous crop the next season, to fill its role as one of the best sources of food for birds. When ripe, the cherries lose their sourish taste and are delicious. Oldtimers gathered the ripe fruit to make cherry wine, brandies, cordials and cherry bounce. Many different kinds of useful medicines, such as cough syrup and tonics are made from the bark of wild cherry; it has a pleasant, almond flavor. The berries and bark were once used in the making of rum—hence, the name "rum cherry." The wood is rated in value next to that of mahogany or black walnut; it is mainly used in making veneer for fine furniture.

The wild cherry merits our best care and protection; it transplants well and grows fast, becoming tall and slender in the forest. The wild cherry should be more widely planted in reforestation and reclamation projects. The sheer-white blooms are formed in graceful clusters which hang down on the tree and give it a colorful springtime decoration.

Library Notes

Should I use a long form or a short form? What are the basic rules for medical deductions? Is the price of my air conditioner deductible? What are nondeductible items? What are legitimate business deductions?

These are only a few of the many federal income tax questions answered in the "Federal Tax Guide-1972" located in the Reference Room of the Floyd County Public Library. This guide is a condensed, indexed edition of "Federal Taxes", containing the most authoritative and complete information on federal taxes anywhere available.

Simple to use, the Guide has an explanation volume covering Federal Tax laws as they apply to individuals, partnerships, corporations, etc., as well as a weekly report bulletin containing new or changed laws and regulations. Individuals will find such subjects as deductions for business expenses, interests and losses, depreciation, medical expenses, etc. Businesses may be interested in the sections on withholding, tax accounting inventories, corporation distributions or employee plans.

Whatever your income tax problem, you'll probably find the answer in the "Federal Tax Guide." Stop by the library and see!

CONSUMER COMMENTS

By ED W. HANCOCK
(Attorney General of Kentucky)

An alerted public and responsive government have effectively worked together to combat the con-men, shyster, disreputable businessman and those who utilize false and deceptive acts and practices.

One vital area of vicious perpetration is referral sales. This scheme is used mainly by door-to-door salesmen in the home improvement or appliance line. Here's how it works.

A salesman knocks on your door and asks if he may demonstrate the latest product in vacuum cleaners, for instance. Then, after a usually convincing demonstration, he tries to sell you his product.

You are promised a commission or credit on your purchase price for other sales you help the salesman make or for each prospective customer that you refer to the salesman who observes a demonstration. Often you are convinced that the value of the "referrals" will more than cover your purchase and that you will end up paying nothing.

However, consumers are almost never able to pay for their product by referrals. They usually end up owning the full price for the product or service they thought they were receiving free.

Now, however, there is a new law on referral selling. The new Referral Selling and Sales Law prohibits referral sales techniques by salesmen.

Our new Consumer Protection Laws can protect you to a certain point, but to make our laws work to the fullest extent, you, the consumer, must participate. How? By

Governor Ford Announces Grants From Kentucky Crime Commission

Frankfort, Ky.—Gov. Wendell H. Ford has announced the award of 24 grants from the Kentucky Crime Commission totaling $1.4 million in federal Safe Streets funds.

A $475,000 award to the state Department of Corrections will permit expansion and continuation of correctional services for convicted offenders at the newly-created Blackburn Correctional Complex near Lexington.

A second grant of $40,000 to the Department of Corrections was awarded to renovate and improve sanitation and health facilities at the State Reformatory Hospital.

Corrections also received a $61,770 award to improve and expand services provided to the state's 180 local jailers by the Office of Jail Consultant.

Two awards to the Department of Public Safety, totaling $343,100, will provide for continuation of the computerized Law Enforcement Network of Kentucky and the Uniform Crime Reporting Section of the Kentucky State Police.

The Kentucky Circuit Judges' Association received a $215,000 award to establish model court administrative procedures in five Circuit Courts with high criminal case loads. A regional Court Administrator will direct the pilot programs to demonstrate the effectiveness of improved methods of docketing and calendaring cases, and the use of advanced reporting and recording equipment.

A $21,000 award to the Judicial Conference of Kentucky will continue its services to the Court of Appeals and Circuit Court judges.

The Court of Appeals received a $258 grant to provide scholarship assistance to enable the Aide to the Chief Justice to attend a seminar on prisoners' civil rights and post-conviction relief.

The remaining grants were earmarked for individual cities and counties as follows:

The City of Lexington will receive $34,911 to establish a three-man Crime Prevention Team and $9,654 to purchase and equip a bomb transport trailer for use by the five-man Bomb Disposal Unit of the Lexington Police Department.

The City of Paducah will receive $14,950 to establish a regional communications center providing police from Paducah and surrounding areas with around-the-clock access to the computerized criminal justice information system (LINK) in Frankfort.

The City of Bowling Green was awarded $6,000 to purchase communications equipment needed to consolidate a two-frequency broadcast system for Bowling Green Police and Warren County's Sheriff's departments.

The City of Louisville will receive $11,070 to purchase modern scuba equipment for the Louisville Division of Police's eight-man underwater search unit.

The City of Fort Thomas will receive $2,250 to purchase photographic equipment for crime scene investigation and to improve the quality of the police department's criminal history files.

The City of Hazard will receive $982 to purchase photographic, fingerprinting and filing equipment.

Campbell county was awarded $100,000 to establish an Alternative Residential School Program in the Newport School System for delinquent youths.

Henderson county was granted $19,750 to continue for another year a Group Home for delinquent youths.

Owsley county will receive $1,076 to purchase sound and recording equipment for its courtroom.

Kenton and Campbell counties were awarded $20,700 to expand the Northern Kentucky Information Network, a consolidated police communications system for Kenton and Campbell Counties, Covington, Newport and Fort Thomas.

Jefferson county will receive $11,216 to hire professional consultants to update a 1968 Courts Space Analysis Study to incorporate new courtroom standards and make recommendations for the coordinated construction of a joint correctional-court complex.

The City of Newport was awarded $15,750 to continue the operations of its mobile crime lab project for a second year, and $15,655 to purchase and fully equip a special van and trailer for use by a trained bomb disposal squad of the Newport Police Department.

Livingston county will receive $450 to purchase sound and recording equipment for its courtroom.

The City of Anchorage will receive $655 to purchase audio-visual and training equipment for in-service police training programs.

Federal Safe funds for approved projects are to be matched on a 75 per cent and a 25 per cent state or local ratio.

The Kentucky Crime Commission is a 52-member bi-partisan commission appointed by the governor to plan, fund and administer new crime prevention and control programs in Kentucky.

'What Farm Programs Next?' Commissioner Butler Asks

Termination of the Rural Environmental Assistance Program (REAP) by the Nixon Administration is not only a damaging blow to agriculture, but can well represent the setting of a dangerous precedent for dismantling other programs that benefit all the people.

As is generally known, this program provided partial payments to farmers to carry out conservation and anti-pollution practices on their land. This program, established in 1936 as the Agricultural Conservation Program, has enabled farmers to carry out conservation practices that have not only resulted in greater farm production, but also preserved one of our most basic resources for future generations.

In years past, farmers have led the way in concern for conservation and the fight against pollution. Needless to say, the ACP assistance payments (and latter REAP funds) not only increased the incentive for farmers to carry out land development and conservation practices, but it enabled many projects to be conducted that would not have been otherwise possible.

This action by President Nixon is truly a paradox. First, he took this drastic action toward agriculture and farm programs before he was sworn into office after winning the rural vote of a pledge of his great support for agriculture and rural America. Second, he struck down one of the pioneer programs to protect our land and environment at a time when millions of private and public dollars are being spent to create new programs or agencies to do a similar job.

The cost of this program was small—truly small when evaluated in relationship to the benefits returned to the people and local communities. Furthermore, land, although privately owned, is to a large degree like the "environment"—owned by all the people. So, when tax dollars go to better the land, all the people profit.

Termination of REAP, the Water Bank Program, and disaster aid was defended by the Administration on the basis that farm income is up and farmers can afford to do that which the Government has been cost-sharing. This is true to some degree, but a rise in farm income is long over-due—and can soon be off-set by inflation.

A greater loss than the termination of these programs, however, is the threat of what will follow. Despite the great emphasis and expenditures directed toward improved nutrition, the School Milk Program is being threatened.

What is next? Is our tobacco program

EMPLOYMENT PROGRAM

The Concentrated Employment Program (CEP), funded by the U. S. Department of Labor, provides, in one program, all manpower and related services to the areas and people most in need. At one stop, the worker can receive counseling, basic education, training and other services needed to get and hold a job.

(which pays its own way) next to be axed in the name of budget-mending? Will the family farm die with no more than lip service being paid as the mainstay of American agriculture? Is rural America too costly to save?

These are questions which all Americans, rural and urban alike, should be asking because they involve people programs and services.

The AFL-CIO's Human Resources Development Institute (HRDI) is in the middle of a 1-year effort to obtain 17,500 job openings for enrollees in training programs funded by the Labor Department's Manpower Administration.

Mrs. Roxie C. McGuire

Mrs. Roxie Calhoun McGuire, 74, of Allen, died at her home last Wednesday after a two-year illness. Born March 14, 1898 at Water Gap, she was the daughter of the late John and Minnie Hignite Calhoun. Her husband, John McGuire, preceded her in death in 1945. Surviving are three sons, Leo McGuire, of Elkhorn City, John McGuire, of Kemper, Ky., and Charles McGuire, of Allen; two daughters, Mrs. Martha Burkett, of West Prestonsburg, and Mrs. Fannie Conn, of Allen; two brothers, Tom Calhoun, of Prestonsburg, and Keel Calhoun, of Michigan; four sisters, Mrs. Rainey Barnett, of Martin, Mrs. Janey Collins and Mrs. Bess Porter, both of Prestonsburg, and Mrs. Johnnie Wallen, of Water Gap; 18 grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren. Funeral services were conducted Saturday at 10 a.m. at the home, with Bennie Blankenship and Bob Martin the officiating ministers. Burial was made in the Mayo cemetery at Martin under the direction of Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

Frank Hall

Frank Hall, 54, of Harold, died Thursday at home after an extended illness. A native of this county, he was born March 21, 1929, the son of Mrs. Hattie Tackett Hall, of Harold, and the late Henry Hall. His wife, Phyllis Jean Hall, survives. Surviving, other than his mother and widow, are two sons and two daughters, Tommy, Jerry, Joyce Lea and Carolyn Hall, all of Harold; a stepson and a stepdaughter, Wendell and Peggy Jo Tackett, both of Harold; three brothers, Riley Hall, of Pikeville, Reugen Hall, of Harold, and Archie Hall, of Wisconsin; a sister, Mrs. Ethel Irick, of Harold. W. L. Bentley, former Floyd county man, died Dec. 29 in a Dallas, Texas hospital. He was an employee of the C. & O. Railway Co. for 45 years, and was a member of the Masonic Lodge and Shrine, of Ashland. His wife, Lula H. Bentley, passed away April 5, 1972. He is survived by two sons, Paul Bentley, of Dallas, Texas, Gene Bentley, of Miami, Fla., a daughter, Mrs. Earl M. Allen, of Allen, five grandchildren and one great-grandchild. Burial was made in Eubank cemetery, Dallas, Texas.

Home Rule Act Set for Study At March Meet

County officials are far from convinced that home rule under the law enacted by the 1972 General Assembly means much, but they will attend a March regional workshop to which they have been invited. The seminar for this region is expected to be held at Jenny Wiley State Park, but the exact place and date have not been fixed. Federal funds received by the Kentucky Legislative Research Commission will finance the workshops which will deal with legal and technical problems involved in the implementation of the new law. Invitations to participate in the workshop planned for the Eastern Kentucky region have been sent to members of fiscal courts, county attorneys and representatives of civic groups. Both County Judge Henry Stumbo and County Attorney James R. Allen expressed doubt that the home rule legislation will really mean what its name indicates. "It seems to us only another way of trying to shift responsibility to local government without giving it power to do anything," Judge Stumbo said, and the county attorney agreed with the statement.

P'burg Gets Grant Of $482,250 Toward Improved Facility

The city of Prestonsburg has been awarded $482,250 by the Environmental Protection Agency, Congressman Carl D. Perkins announced last week.

The award will supplement city and state funds for additions and modifications to provide a secondary sewage treatment facility. The project which is expected to cost a total of $643,000, will increase the capacity of the plant and will upgrade its treatment process.

The funds are authorized by the newly enacted amendments to the Federal Water Pollution Control Act.

Additional Courses Offered by Morehead

Additional courses that will be offered by Morehead State University at Prestonsburg Community College are PSY 533, Personality Theory and Art 364, Arts of the United States. This course may be used as graduate or undergraduate credit and will carry residence credit. Classes will meet Friday evenings and Saturday mornings.

These courses, as well as others offered by Morehead State University, will be organized Thursday, January 11, at 6 p.m.

Former Floyd Man To Get Pike Hearing In Old Murder Case

A hearing has been scheduled next month at Pikeville for B. E. (Buck) Moore, former Floyd county man who is charged with the 1963 knife-slating at Pikeville of his wife.

The hearing will be held, Commonwealth's Attorney John Paul Runyon said, to deal with doctors' findings as to Moore's ability to stand trial. The former Pike county magistrate was still confined last week to Eastern State Hospital, Lexington, to which he was committed last October in an effort to determine if he is competent.

Moore was indicted 10 years ago for the slaying of his wife, later was committed to Eastern State and after that was a patient at a Lackey rest home. The move to bring him to trial came when Commonwealth's Attorney Runyon discovered in a search of his files, late last year, that Moore had never been brought to trial.

SHRINERS SCHEDULE DINNER, INSTALLATION OF OFFICERS

The Floyd County Shrine Club will hold its regular stated meeting at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, on Tuesday, January 16. The social hour will begin at 6 p.m. and dinner will follow at 7. The Potentate, Perry Justice, and his Divan will be present to make the installation of officers for 1973.

VOLUNTARY RESIGNATION NO BAR

According to the Office of the Kentucky Attorney General, a person who has resigned from a school board under charges of conflict of interest may later return again and serve if elected, provided the resignation was voluntary; when a person is removed by a court order, he is forever barred from serving on a board of education. "When a person finds himself in a conflict of interest situation," Asst. Attorney General Carl Miller said, "he can thus save himself from embarrassment and also save his eligibility to later serve on the board if he voluntarily resigns."

Wells Comments On Blow to REA, Questions Loan Veto's Legality

"It is my opinion that the recent cancellation of the REA direct loan program for electric distribution systems is both inconsistent with the expressed will of Congress and questionable as to its legality." That was the reaction of Bill Wells, manager of Big Sandy Rural Electric Cooperative, to the announcement by the Administration that low-interest REA loans will be replaced by insured and guaranteed loans at a substantially higher interest rate.

The announcement of the termination of the direct loan program came December 29 at the beginning of the long New Year's holiday week-end and the effective date of the changes was January 1.

Magistrate Wells also pointed out that the cancellation of the REA direct loan program raises several serious questions for the nation as a whole as well as for rural electric. "REA was established by Congress as a direct loan program," he said, "and has been making such loans from Congressionally appropriated loan funds since 1936. To abolish such a program overnight by Executive Order raises a serious question of the President's legal authority to repudiate established Acts of Congress." Mr. Wells added, "Today, it's REA; who knows what it might be tomorrow."

Another aspect of the cancellation that is disturbing to rural electric, according to Mr. Wells, is the possibility of other drastic changes in the rural electric loan program. He says, "If the old program can be changed so quickly, easily and drastically by Executive Order, what assurance do we have that this program won't be turned around again next year, or by the next Administration?" Mr. Wells points out that this present situation makes it impossible to make responsible and reliable plans for financing future growth of the cooperative.

In addition, Mr. Wells says that the higher interest rates for the loan funds under the new program will obviously be reflected in higher electric rates in the future, and this is inconsistent with the Administration's announced intent to curb inflation. As more and more money is borrowed at the higher rate, it will become impossible to hold the line on rates to consumers.

It is estimated that it will take two to six months to be sure of all of the details of the new program or its full effects on the operations of rural electric. Later this month, Big Sandy RECC will send a delegation to Washington, D. C., to meet with REA officials, members of Congress and other rural electric personnel from throughout the nation. The purpose of that meeting will be to determine what the effects of the new program will be and what course of action will be appropriate for the cooperatives to take.

"During the last session of Congress the President asked for authority to limit spending as he saw fit to the $250-billion level and for authority to reorganize government in a manner to be determined by him. Both requests were refused, but indications are that he is doing it anyway," said Wells.

"Agriculture and rural-oriented programs have been the initial target of these administrative actions and this brings to a total of $838-million that will have been removed from these rural programs alone. This action means that the rural electric co-ops will have to pay more than double the interest on borrowed funds, and there is only one place it can come from—the consumer."

Knott Baby, Youngest To Undergo Open-Heart Surgery, 'Doing Fine'

A two-month-old Knott county baby recently became the youngest patient to undergo open-heart surgery, and he is doing fine.

The baby, Jeffery Cox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Cox, of Mousie, was born with a rare heart condition known as an aorta-pulmonary window—a hole between the two principal arteries carrying blood from the heart. Children with this type of heart defect seldom live more than a year.

The youngest child previously known to have undergone such an operation was four months old. And even at that age most of these children have had problems later with high blood pressure in the lungs, a doctor said.

The Cox baby underwent surgery Dec. 21 at the University Medical Center, Lexington.

Mrs. Willie Cox, whose husband is a construction worker in Knott county, suspected something was wrong shortly after Jefferey was born.

"He didn't grow any, his color was bad and when he'd take a bottle he'd perspire a lot," she said.

"We weren't due for a checkup yet, but I took him to my doctor anyway and he found a little heart murmur. He suggested we go to the clinic," she said.

There were 80 children at the clinic that day. Some were pronounced fit, some needed surgery at some future time. Jefferey needed it immediately.

"These traveling clinics are wonderful things," the doctor said. "You've got to remember that a child in a big city can get the proper diagnosis of a defect like this, but in the rural mountains it just isn't usually possible."

Floyd County Basketball

By MARK LAFFERTY

The Allen Central Rebels greeted the return to school with a 67-46 victory over host Knott County, Saturday night. The Rebels held an 11-8 edge at the end of the first quarter which they increased by only four in the next two quarters. In the fourth quarter a stingy defense by Allen Central allowed Knott County only nine points.

Betsy Layne participated in its second tournament in as many weeks. This time the Bobcats didn't fare as well in the Fayette County Invitational as the Governor's Classic. The Bobcats dropped their opener to second-ranked Bryan Station, 90-47. Betsy Layne was completely outmatched, man-for-man, by the Bryan Station five, with the Bryan Station defense doing most of the damage to the Bobcats.

The McDowell Daredevils were the busiest team in the district last week with two games played. McDowell downed Johns Creek, 92-77, on Wednesday and lost to Virgie, 87-85, Friday. After the Johns Creek game, senior forward Eddie Campbell quit the McDowell team for reasons unspecified. In the Johns Creek game the Daredevils turned a one-point deficit at halftime into an overpowering victory, with excellent third and fourth quarter shooting. Friday night, Virgie turned the tables on McDowell, which had previously beaten them by one point. This time, Virgie jumped into a 14-point lead at the end of the first quarter and held off McDowell for a two-point victory.

The Prestonsburg Blackcats claimed their first victory over a county opponent this season by downing Wheelwright, 69-67, last Friday night. The Cats enjoyed a seven-point spread at the end of the first period, but Wheelwright led by four at the half and by one at the end of the third quarter. The Cats rallied with a fine fourth-quarter performance for the victory.

Cincy Reds To Play Breathitt All-Stars

The Cincinnati Reds, 1972 National League baseball champions, will be making a rare Eastern Kentucky appearance, Jan. 12. Members of the Reds' team will appear at the Breathitt high school Coliseum in Jackson to take on the Breathitt county All-Stars in a basketball game.

The Reds will be on hand, before and after the game, to sign autographs, for picture taking and for answering questions.

The project is sponsored by the Breathitt county Jaycees as part of their annual fund-raising for the Clarence Combs Memorial Scholarship to Lees College. The athletic program will begin at 6:30 p.m. when local players will vie in a clash of Breathitt Church League All-Stars. At 8 p.m. the feature attraction between the Reds and the Breathitt county All-Stars will begin.

Apprenticeship Information Centers (AIC's), funded by the Manpower Administration of the U. S. Department of Labor, are located in 36 major cities in areas with high concentrations of minority groups in the work force. It is the job of center staffs to know about skilled jobs, where they are and how to get into an apprenticeship opening. They then interview, test and refer disadvantaged applicants for placement into apprenticeship openings.

Melvin elementary, to be general instructor, supervisor; Buford Huff, to assume her duties at Melvin; Roger Dale Johnson, music teacher at Clark elementary; Mrs. Lynn Dingus, teacher at Osborne elementary.

The resignation of Gene D. Davis as principal of Betsy Layne high school was accepted, and Dr. J. V. Bolin, Harold school principal, was employed to fill the vacancy. Hillard Newman, Stumbo elementary guidance counselor, was transferred to principalship of the Harold school, and Denver Newsome was shifted from the work of Harold-Allen guidance counselor to the same post at Stumbo elementary. Virgil Triplett was transferred from Osborne to Wheelwright high as remedial reading teacher. Leaves of absence were granted Janet Hughes, of Osborne elementary, and Thelma Spears, of Betsy Layne.

Because of fire damage to the principal's office at Prestonsburg high, the board declared that an emergency exists. Work on repair of the office already is well under way.

The board authorized the lease of two rooms of the unused Bosco school to Big Sandy CAP, the rooms to be used by the Board of Health and the Floyd County Health Department for family planning clinics. Advertising for bids for storage cabinets for the Allen Central home economics department and for bids on approximately $12,000 worth of classroom instructional materials was authorized.

The high $4,200 bid of Oscar Sargent for the site of the fire-damaged classroom-lunchroom at Betsy Layne was accepted.

Non-certified personnel employed included Vicie Hamilton as clerk at Stumbo elementary and Georgia Adams and Babe Patrick as substitute janitors at Martin.

Now the secret's out. The aforementioned gentlemen, a few summers back, heard that small catfish minnows were tops in the bait line for trotline fishing. So they up and bought themselves a thousand or so catfish and took off for the lake.

But they ran into trouble there. One of the two began baiting hooks and suddenly found himself hooked—these little cats have barbs, too. Then the other tried, and the blood flowed freely. When they reached the point that neither would attempt to handle one of the minnows, they reached agreement. They dumped the whole lot into the lake.

And how they grew and multiplied!

Now, if somebody would throw some white bass into the lake and if they could keep the stream clear till they spawn, we could have another population explosion in a department where it's badly needed.

I am just now reminded of the fellow who managed to let a rifle off, killing a prize cow which was ambling past. The man who had loaned him the gun apologized: "I should have warned you the gun has a hair-trigger."

The owner of the cow nodded his head. "Would have helped," he admitted. "And wouldn't have hurt if you had warned the cow."

Mrs. Stai To Head Heart Fund Drive

The appointment of Mrs. Richard Stai, of Prestonsburg, to serve as the 1973 Floyd County Heart Fund chairman has been announced by Rodney Ford, Kentucky campaign chairman.

He also announced that Woodrow Allen, Prestonsburg, will continue to serve as year-round Memorial Gifts Chairman for Heart in Floyd County.

The month-long Heart Fund Appeal will begin February 1 with a statewide Coffee Day benefit scheduled for that day. The house-to-house Heart Sunday solicitation will be conducted February 25. Sponsors of the drive in the county include the Prestonsburg Junior Woman's Club.

Ford hailed the recent heart statistics which show that all cardiovascular deaths are down by 20 percent while strokes are down by 35 percent and deaths from heart attacks have been reduced by 2 percent.

Troopers Search Trailer, Nab One

A search warrant issued for the trailer of Berlin Jacobs on KY 7, near Hueysville, resulted in the arrest at the trailer last Friday of Jerry Lee Smith by State Troopers Williamson, Estep and Rose and the confiscation of whiskey, wine and beer. Smith was jailed here but later executed bond.

Taken in the raid were 115 cans of beer, 16 half-pints of whiskey and four pints of wine.

Others arrested within the week included Burley Hall, drunk driving, by State Trooper Dennis Williamson; David J. Crider, charged with violation of the Controlled Substance Act, by County Detective Sam Hale, State Detective Al Hensley and State Trooper Gary Rose; Bennie R. Campbell, escapee from Eastern State Hospital, by Sheriff Frank Leslie; Carlos Hall, drunk driving, by State Trooper Estep.

showing that the public interest and welfare is at stake," Rosenberg said. "The research we have done was such that we felt the fiscal court could resolve that surface mining is contrary to the public welfare."

"What would Mr. Runyon accept as proof that surface mining is not in the public interest?" he asked.

The broad form deed not only conveys coal and other mineral rights but also grants the right to remove such minerals, to come onto the surface-owners' lands without notice and without paying damages except for "arbitrary, wanton or malicious acts."

In view of the opinion it is improbable that the fiscal court will undertake by its own legislation the proposed attack on the old deed.

New Law Requires Use of 'Slow' Tags

Frankfort, Ky.—National traffic safety experts call it the "fanny flag."

But a more conservative Kentucky Department of Public Safety calls it the "slow moving vehicle" sign and warns that, effective Jan. 1, it must be displayed on the rear of all Kentucky-registered vehicles.

The edict applies to all used and new vehicles which are incapable of speeds greater than 25 miles per hour on the highway, and violators will face a fine of $10 to $25.

The emblem already has been in use for two years in Kentucky, but until now the law applied only to newly-purchased vehicles. The change in the law was spelled out in legislation enacted by the 1972 General Assembly.

The sign is a fluorescent yellow-orange triangle with a dark red border.

The term, "slow moving vehicle," includes farm machinery, horse-drawn wagons and highway maintenance equipment.

Pupil Information by Computer Now Serving 30,000 in Area

CIS, the Computerized Information System co-sponsored by the Eastern Kentucky Education Development Corporation, Title III, ESEA, of Ashland, and the State Department of Education Guidance Division, went on-line for full implementation last Thursday.

Announcement of the program's implementation, along with five special orientation workshops to be held next week, was made by EKEDC Director Edwin R. Jones and CIS Coordinator Mrs. Steve Points.

"We are very proud to announce that 30 Eastern Kentucky school districts are moving ahead with a new thrust in education, known as the Computerized Information System," Jones said.

The purpose of this new program, a free service available to approximately 30,000 seventh through twelfth grade students in Region VII (Eastern Kentucky), will be to provide them with reliable and up-to-date vocational and educational information.

Jones added that CIS will also serve community colleges and the Federal Youth Center.

In order that participating school districts fully understand the innovative vocational and vocational guidance program and obtain materials for its use and implementation, five workshops will also be held during the week of January 8-12.

According to Mrs. Points, the workshop dates and places are:

Monday, January 8 at 10:30 a.m. - Morehead, Holiday Inn; January 9 at 11 a.m. - Pikeville, Landmark Restaurant; January 10 at 10:30 a.m. - Maysville, Maysville Community College; January 11 at 10:30 a.m. - Ashland, Holy Family Rectory; January 12 at 1 p.m. - Prestonsburg, Floyd county Superintendent's office.

"At these workshops, we will pass out the necessary catalogues and inquiry forms and answer any last minute questions, and also assist the individual districts in utilizing the correct procedures for processing student requests for information," Mrs. Points said.

CIS was developed as the result of the foresight, planning and work of Superintendents and guidance counselors in Region VII, who saw the need for better guidance services in Eastern Kentucky.

The current CIS program, known as Phase I, involves the following vocational and educational information:

Occupational: (1) Catalogues with 450 occupational briefs (50 words each) are placed in each school for student use. (2) Student uses catalogue to make request and gets 300-word print-out of detailed occupational information from the computer.

Education: Student can obtain information on three specific colleges and universities; or, the student can set parameters on collegiate needs, and the computer does the choosing from 1,300 colleges and universities to find those schools best suited for the student.

All inquiry requests in Phase I will be returned by mail, and information will be updated constantly.

The following components will also soon be added to Phase I: Local occupational descriptions, community colleges, technical and specialized schools, apprenticeship programs and military information.

Phase II of CIS, scheduled to be operational during 1973-'74, will: (1) Program student data such as test scores, grades, courses completed, present schedule and attendance records for the computer to be able to suggest possible career areas in which the student would be most successful; (2) Begin development of audio-visual presentations on regional vocations and careers.

Phase III of CIS, scheduled for implementation during 1974-'75, will put all this information on-line with cathode ray terminals for student and administrative use. This device displays written messages on a TV-like screen to which the student responds on a typewriter-like keyboard.

First Guaranty Growth Reported To Stockholders

Growth of $3,200,000 last year was reported to stockholders of the First Guaranty Bank at Martin at the recent annual meeting of stockholders and election of officers and directors.

Glenn C. Spradlin, president of the bank, who made the report, later announced that the stockholders authorized First Guaranty to pay a 100 percent stock dividend, increasing capital stock of the bank from $200,000 to $400,000.

Three new directors were elected. They are Julius C. Martin, Nick A. Cooley and Mrs. Digna Mandt. Mrs. Mandt was named to fill the vacancy created by the death of her husband, A. H. Mandt. Re-elected to the board of directors were B. F. Reed, Glenn C. Spradlin, Jake C. Cooley, L. B. Brashear, B. Alvin Reed, Harry O. Zimmerman, George E. Evans, Jr., Harold J. Stumbo and Ben J. Spradlin.

Officers elected: B. F. Reed, chairman of the board; Glenn C. Spradlin, president; L. B. Brashear, vice-president; Ben J. Spradlin, vice-president and cashier; B. Alvin Reed, secretary; Wanda F. Hayes and Charles E. Johnson, assistant cashiers.

That's right, Dad. Start him off right. Remember your famous last words: "No kid of mine's gonna get me up nights." Well, there's always a first time. And there'll likely be more nights.

But there is one way you can start him off right. And that is, to teach him early the value of thrift, and saving. Open an account now, in his name, and add to it a little at a time. Doesn't have to be large amounts. Regular, consistent saving is the key. Then as he gets older and earns his first allowance, it will be natural for him to save.

Kentucky Afield

By Hope Carleton
Dept. of Fish and Wildlife

The weather is ever-changing at this time of year and there are many enthusiastic anglers who would like to apply their fish-harvesting skills but, due to the uncertainty of the skies, feel that going to the major lakes might create a problem.

However, there is a lot of good fishing close-to-home and many modern-day fishermen are not as aware of these areas as were their fathers.

These nearby "hotspots" are smaller streams that abound in the commonwealth. In fact, Kentucky has some 13,000 miles of running water and is second only to Alaska in this rich natural resource.

Depending upon the time, of course, these streams may be high and muddy, but in a few days they will again clear.

In Central Kentucky, for example, there are many fine streams on which to spend a quiet day. Streams such as Elkhorn, Benson, Stoner, Paint Lick, Silver, Hanging Fork and other creeks that run into larger rivers give up good strings of fine fish, as do Dix, Chaplin and Salt Rivers.

Many of these streams will produce strings of black bass, crappie, sunfish, sucker and catfish at this time, especially for those who will use lively minnows, earthworms or nightcrawlers.

For the most part, those fishing these areas are bank fishermen who often build a small fire close to the stream's edge to keep away the cold and then fish in eddy areas or around drift piles.

Those fishing with lively minnows around drift generally harvest crappie as well as black bass, while those who fish on the bottoms of the eddies with worms will take bass, sunfish, catfish and suckers.

The rigging for the minnow drift fishermen may well be a couple of cane poles with corks, hook, line and sinkers while those fishing the eddies could well use any rod and reel combination. For the most part, those fishing on the bottom will not use a cork and only a small sinker.

There are places where a dam or over-flow drain may be running water and those who have knowledge of such places may cast live nightcrawlers and float the tempting morsel just inches off the bottom. This tumbling, natural bait will go down with the current and then drift back up the eddy.

In such a spot on Salt River last winter, a local fisherman caught at least five black bass per trip and over a period of 60 days landed 87 bass, several of which tipped the scales above four pounds.

Lectures Teach Students Appreciation for Nature

FRANKFORT, Ky.—Could it be today's trend toward camping, fishing and hunting has resulted from a generation that has learned in the classroom how to enjoy this type of vacation?

More than 100,000 Kentucky youngsters learn every year how to safely "get away from it all", through the state Department of Fish and Wildlife's school lecture program.

Since the Department of Fish and Wildlife is now offering this knowledge to a second generation, it is possible that those first students who participated in the program in 1945 might well be Kentucky's avid hunters, fishers and campers of today.

The department's monthly classroom sessions offer lecture and slide presentations on camping, hunting, fishing and gun and water safety, as well as providing an opportunity for a week of actual camping experience.

Formerly the program was aimed at students in the sixth, seventh and eighth grades. This formula was discarded in an effort to bring more thorough instruction to those students in their formative years—at the fifth and sixth grade levels. Lesson plans are updated each year to coincide with students' changing interests, such as this year's October topic "Forests—Their Effect on My Local Environment."

Courses are "very different from material found in textbooks," says James Gilpin, director of the Division of Conservation Education in the Fish and Wildlife Department. A conservation-trained instructor can offer such things as respect for a hunting weapon as both friend and foe. His classes are based on actual experience in the field, knowledge not available to the average classroom teacher.

This year, 1254 separate classes are in operation, reaching 107,757 Kentucky students. This is an increase of 128 classes and 18,601 students over last year.

A staff of 19 wildlife conservation education supervisors teach the classes. Each instructor averages 65 classes per month.

Camping sessions are divided into six weeks for boys and four weeks for girls. Cost to the child is $16.50 plus transportation.

Camp sites are in three locations, providing access from every county in Kentucky. They are: Camp Earl Wallace on Cumberland Lake, which accommodates 275 students weekly; Camp Robert Webb on Grayson Reservoir, providing space for 150 per week; and Camp John Currie on Kentucky Lake with a weekly capacity of 190. Only students enrolled in classroom sessions are eligible for camp.

The camping program also offers high school graduates and college students an opportunity for summer employment. The program employs 36 boys from May 22 to August 11 and 20 girls for the four weeks of girls' camping. These students serve as senior counselors at the camps.

According to Gilpin, schools welcome the program as a means of giving students not only a new insight into the abundance of fish and wildlife in Kentucky, but also showing them how they can use and enjoy the natural beauty of the commonwealth while protecting it for future generations.

To Honor Coaches, Players of the Year

Lexington, Ky.—The Commonwealth Athletic Club will honor the college and high school football coaches and players of the year as selected by Inside Kentucky Sports magazine at a special banquet in Louisville, January 22.

The banquet, to be held at the Galt House, will honor Lee Corso, of the University of Louisville, selected as the Kentucky college coach of the year by the statewide sports publication; Howard Stevens, of the University of Louisville, (Kentucky college player of the year); Mike Northington of Louisville Thomas Jefferson high school (high school player of the year); and Roy Walter, of Lexington Tates Creek high school (Kentucky high school coach of the year).

The four were chosen by a select panel of coaches, sports writers and sportscasters for the magazine.

VOTERS DEFEAT TAX

McCracken county voters have defeated a proposal that would extend a 13-cent special tax for 20 years. The tax was to be used to retire a $1.9 million building debt and for construction of new facilities. Last May, extension of the tax and a new levy of 12 cents were voted on and defeated.

Clark School Seeks Volunteers For Right To Read Project

Clark elementary school is now planning the volunteer phase of the new Right to Read project initiated there at the beginning of the current school year.

This phase of the program is considered important because it will give parents other interested adults in the community served by the school the chance to become more involved in the school and its program.

John K. Pitts, school principal, said volunteers can assist at the school, and that they are needed in order to attain some of the reading goals set up in the beginning of the program. Any adult who has time to give the school on a scheduled basis, and who has a skill a child might enjoy learning is welcome to become a volunteer, he added. Supplies and equipment will be furnished by the school.

"Many types of activities can be planned, depending upon what a volunteer might like to do," Pitts said. "For instance, a housewife might teach a child or a group of children how to embroider, sew or cook. Another might listen to a child read, or read to him. Someone might teach how to woodcarve, or do simple electrical repairs. The idea is to involve people and children in order to build communication skills for the children."

Mr. Pitts states that the volunteers wanted are just plain folks who have an interest in making a better school, and who enjoy working and being with children. This program is not to be confused with the Right to Read Teacher Aide Program already begun at the school, he said, but a few of the activities can and will be done by each group.

Those interested in becoming a volunteer, or wanting to find out more about the program, should call Mr. Pitts or Pauline Hicks, the reading coordinator, or visit the school for more details. Both indicate the program is to begin as soon as possible and to involve all adults who want to participate.

Commissioner Views Reorganization Task

Frankfort, Ky.—State Finance Commissioner Donald Bradshaw, soon to be both secretary of the cabinet and commissioner of finance and administration under Gov. Wendell Ford's state government reorganization, sees his new job primarily as a coordinating force.

Phase one of the first major reorganization of state government since 1936 was announced by the governor in late November, naming Bradshaw to the cabinet position and grouping existing state agencies under six main program cabinets.

The cabinet areas include a Development Cabinet, Transportation Cabinet, Education and the Arts Cabinet, Human Resources Cabinet, Consumer Protection and Regulation Cabinet, and a Safety and Justice Cabinet.

Bradshaw, who stresses that services to people will be greatly enhanced by the reorganization, points out that area cabinets will have like functions.

"No longer will citizens be sent from agency to agency when they come to Frankfort with a problem. There will be a closer relationship between the public and their state government," Bradshaw said.

"Under the new cabinet structure, the governor will be able to meet with the related groups and more effectively handle their problems, their agency needs."

Emphasizing that this is a functional reorganization with the ultimate goal being more and better services to the people of Kentucky for the same tax dollar, the Mercer County native eyes his role as a "coordinator".

"We are working to develop a continuity between like agencies, to eliminate duplication of services and bring together management functions to better implement agency services," he explained.

During the past weeks, Governor Ford, Bradshaw and the reorganization staff have met with each of the program cabinets to discuss future plans along with the realignment of certain departmental functions.

"Eventually I hope the executive office of finance and administration will serve as a liaison to the general public, that it will be a place where mayors, county judges or anyone else can come to find out where to go in the rest of state government for services," Bradshaw said.

"We will be very strongly oriented toward assistance to the area development districts and county governments. We hope to provide technical assistance in areas of budgeting and accounting along with any other services they might need."

Looking ahead to more cabinet meetings and restructuring, Bradshaw said further reorganization is definitely coming and "I don't think it is going to be too long."

"We should have a good portion of reorganization wound up by late summer or early fall."

Forestry Director To Promote Hardwood

Frankfort, Ky.—Kentucky again claiming fame for its hardwoods is just one of the objectives of Harry Nadler, who became director of the state Division of Forestry last November after serving with the division since 1940.

Nadler hopes to see a professional forester on the staff of each area development district across the state as a result of a pilot project now underway in the Fiveco and Gateway Area Development Districts. Under that program, one forester has been assigned to those districts.

With one-half million acres of timberland in the state, Nadler believes forestry can help promote industrial growth for Kentucky through emphasis on the division's cooperative forest management program.

There are 243,000 forest land owners in Kentucky, 204,000 of which own less than 100 acres of timber. These are the owners Nadler sees as Kentucky's greatest potential.

The cooperative management program's main aim is to help owners determine if they have marketable timber. Division Foresters inspect timberland, check for marketable timber and make recommendations of any action needed to improve the timber. Then, if the owner approves, the division moves in to do the job. Improvement services include thinning, cutting and checking for and removing damaged or diseased trees.

Where reforestation is needed, Nadler hopes to increase hardwood plantings. He plans to increase the nursery stock of these woods with emphasis on black walnut.

Building woods are in great demand as is evidenced by the fact that the Federal Housing Program alone is more than one-half million units per year behind its 1968 schedule. The quota then set by Congress was 2.6 million units per year. Thus far, only 2 million per year have been built and Nadler says the shortage of wood is the problem.

Nadler also noted Kentucky's pulp and paper mills must be supplied by the state's forests.

The new Area Development District program is one means of getting more people interested in the economic potential of forestry, and, although the current staff member is working on a two-year pilot program grant, Nadler hopes results will be sufficient not only to continue the program, but to expand it.

Division Forester Bruce Harris, based at

Health Department Announces Clinic Dates

Dr. R. L. Hall, health officer, announced Monday that the Floyd County Health Department will hold two outpost clinics Monday, Jan. 15. One will be at Honaker, Ky., mouth of Big Branch, at Kidd's Store, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.; the other, at Bypro, in Ethel Osborne's Store, at the same hours. Both nurses will be doing TB skin tests, immunizations, blood pressure tests and diabetes screening.

Wednesday, Jan. 17, a pap smear clinic will be held at the health department here from 9 to 11:30 a.m. and from 1 to 2 p.m. On Thursday, Jan. 18, another pap clinic will be held at Bypro, in Ethel Osborne's Store, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Morehead, is serving the Fiveco and Gateway Area Development Districts to promote forestry in these areas as a means of enhancing and bringing in industry.

The division now is reviewing Fiveco's land-use plan with the hope of implementing more forestry projects and getting small timberland owners to band together for better management assistance on their lands.

There is more to forestry than just planting trees and harvesting them, and Nadler is facing some problems in the area of disease and insect control.

One of the problems is the possible infiltration of the gypsy moth which has destroyed thousands of acres in the Northwest and is known to be moving South. Traps set last spring and summer by the division did not produce any evidence that the insect has yet reached Kentucky, however it is known that the egg can attach itself to any object and it is feared that the moth might be brought to Kentucky on cars and campers. It is especially dangerous to Kentucky since it concentrates on oak—the state's most dominant species.

Commandra Blister Rust, a disease which affects pines, also has begun to filter into West Kentucky after destroying timberlands in Tennessee.

The Human Resources Development Program (HRD), administered by the Manpower Administration of the U. S. Department of Labor, reaches out through state employment services to find and give the disadvantaged person help in getting and keeping a job. Once reached, the worker receives counseling, referral to training, and job placement designed to meet his personal needs.

Harris Says Past Successes Encourage Him in State Role

By JEANNE BECKETT

Frankfort, Ky.—Thomas Harris, commissioner of the newly-created state Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, feels he has good reason to look forward to 1973 since his efforts for better strip-mine reclamation are bearing fruit.

Harris initiated several efforts to improve reclamation last year while heading the now defunct Department of Natural Resources.

Only three shut-downs of stripping operations have been ordered since September, Harris said. That compares with 30 shut-downs between June and September.

Many strip-mine operators purchased hydro-seeders and began in September and October to catch up with grading and seeding work. "I believe more seed was sown during that period than in any two years prior to that time," Harris said.

Harris has personally made field trips to strip-mine areas and is pleased with what he has seen. "I am happy to report we have the cooperation of a great many strip-mine operators in Kentucky in making an honest and concerted effort to do a better job of reclamation."

In order to aid operators, the old Natural Resources Department recently completed a handbook that includes all laws and regulations passed by the General Assembly, as well as regulations filed by the department.

The handbook also provides instructions on ways to prepare land, proper grading, how to figure allowable bench width based on the degree of the slope, step by step guidelines for construction of sediment basins and other pertinent information on mining and reclamation that might be helpful to operators.

"I feel confident this will be a great deal of help to them (the operators) and eliminate a lot of confusion and misunderstanding that may have prevailed," Harris said.

Harris expressed special pride in the reclamation progress because he gave it priority last June after discovering the Natural Resources Department was holding $3.5 million in reclamation guarantee bonds in default. He and Gov. Wendell Ford moved to correct that problem, ordering those operators involved to comply with reclamation requirements or forfeit their bonds.

The commissioner then began a series of field trips to follow up on phone calls and letters expressing fears of floods from strip-mine silt basins.

Harris' field visits resulted in the drafting of a new regulation limiting the height of basin dams to 20 feet, and even lower if the department feels such a height would be hazardous.

"I felt this represented a threat and a continuous worry I did not want on my shoulders, nor did I feel residents living below these dams should have it on their shoulders," Harris said.

The commissioner also promoted a regulation that shortens the time allowed to accomplish seeding. Formerly the time could extend to as much as four years, but now must be completed within four months. This requirement brings about quicker vegetation, thus reducing the threat of erosion.

The new regulation also sets minimum pounds of seed per acre and the time of year in which seeding should be done. Also established are minimum requirements for fertilizer and lime applications, with soil tests to determine the actual amounts needed.

The state has issued approximately 1000 strip-mine permits over the past few years, covering approximately 24,000 acres. The number of permits has decreased in the past 12 months, but the amount of acreage has not varied, indicating that larger operators are expanding as smaller operations shut down, Harris said.

New Law Increases Benefits for Vets

A new law passed by Congress this year will provide some eligible veterans with increased benefits, according to Brady A. Miracle, director of the Governor's Alliance for Jobs for Veterans.

The alliance is composed of government, business, labor and service organizations. Miracle said participants in VA on-the-job and apprenticeship training programs will now receive up to $160 per month as a supplement to their salaries.

Fulltime students with no dependents will receive $220 per month, and those with dependents will receive progressively larger amounts according to the number of dependents they have.

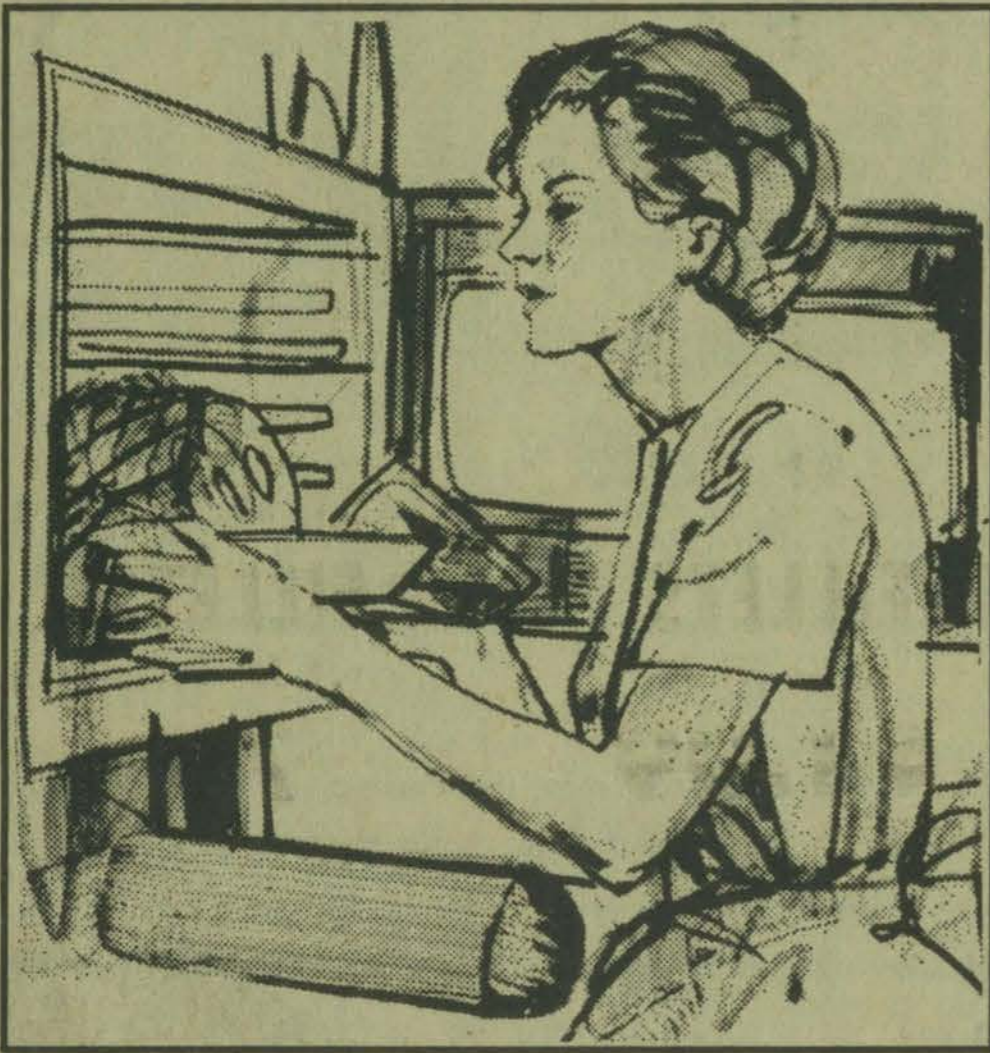

The new benefits will be provided under the Vietnam Era Veteran's Readjustment Assistance Act of 1972. The law authorizes benefit payments at the beginning of each month instead of at the end, a provision expected to be of financial advantage to veterans enrolled in school or training programs, Miracle said.

Veterans taking advantage of the on-the-job training or apprenticeship provisions receive salary supplements from the Veterans Administration while completing training for an occupation, and receive pay from employers as well.

An additional "work study" allowance is available for veterans who perform 100 hours of work at Veterans Administration offices, in conjunction with periods of educational or training enrollment.

Miracle said interested Veterans, or prospective employers, should contact their local VA office for details.

Boy Scout Council Increases 1972 Membership to 3,000

Lonesome Pine Council, Boy Scouts of America achieved a membership of 3,000 boys last year, according to O. T. Dorton, Paintsville, president of the Council. "This represents more than a 40 percent increase in boy membership," Dorton said.

The Breaks district, Buchanan county, Virginia, ended the year with 369 boys—132 Cub scouts, 219 Boy Scouts, and 18 Explorers. There were 284 boys enrolled in scouting at the beginning of the year. Herbert Thompson, of Grundy, served as district chairman for 1972.

Pine Mountain district, made up of Letcher county in Kentucky and Dickinson and Wise counties in Virginia, ended the year with 696 boys enrolled in scouting. There were 345 Cubs, 331 Boy Scouts, and 20 Explorers. The membership at the beginning of 1972 was 650. John Kiser, of Wise, Va., was district chairman.

Jenny Wiley district, composed of Floyd, Martin, Magoffin, and Johnson counties, ended 1972 with 647 boys enrolled, including 226 Cubs, 412 Boy Scouts, and 9 Explorers. The district started the year with 580 boys enrolled. Bill Wells, of Paintsville, is district chairman of the district.

The Kentucky River District, made up of Perry, Knott, Breathitt, and Leslie counties, ended the year with 609 boys enrolled—163 Cubs, 421 Scouts, and 25 Explorers. Curtiss Spicer, of Krypton, served as district chairman.

The Pike district, the western two-thirds of Pike county, ended the year with 679 boys enrolled—286 Cubs, 320 Boy Scouts, and 73 Explorers. H. Thomas Black, of Pikeville, is serving as district chairman.

Mr. Dorton expressed his appreciation to all those leaders who established the fine record. He pointed out that there are still many boys who wish to participate in Scouting, and that every effort will be made to extend Scouting to as many as possible during 1973.

A one-day physical examination has shown Gov. Wendell Ford to be in excellent health, his office announced. The governor was examined in Houston, Tex. by Dr. Michael Debakey as a follow-up on Debakey's surgery on Ford last June to replace a weakened section of aorta.

ENTERTAINS DAUGHTER CLUBS
Amid trimmings of the holiday season, the Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club entertained its daughter clubs with the annual dinner held this year in December at May Lodge.

Special songs and music were furnished by Dick and Leah Bowers and their young son, Dickie, all from Camp Nathaniel near Hindman. Such selections as "Angels We Have Heard on High," "Christmas Time in the City," "Go Tell It on the Mountain," and "What Child is This," were rendered by the trio, and young Dickie sang as solos, "Away in a Manger" and "My Sins are Gone." Later, Mr. and Mrs. Bowers led group singing of Christmas carols.

Those attending the dinner were: Mrs. Fred Salisbury, Mrs. Jessie Jones, Mrs. Doyle Mullins, Mrs. Thomas J. Hogans, Mrs. Alma Souleyrette, Mrs. Jewell Little, Mrs. Lavon Bailey, from the Wheelwright Club; Mrs. Reba T. Martin, Mrs. Nancy Cooley, Mrs. Sue Martin, Mrs. Anna Sue Stumbo, Mrs. Glenna M. Stumbo, Mrs. Irene Rietz, Mrs. Celia Little, Mrs. Anne Showers, Mrs. Sophia Cahill, Mrs. Rebecca Reed, Mrs. Isabel Reed, Mrs. Anna Hoffman, from the Drift Woman's Club; Mrs. S. M. Martin, Mrs. Birchell Duff, Mrs. Donald E. Hughes, Mrs. J. T. Spillman, Mrs. J. Crittenden Wells, Mrs. Earl Castle, Mrs. Floyd Tackett, Mrs. Rudolph Spencer, Mrs. Lula Coburn, Mrs. Marcella Bradley, Mrs. Marie C. Mullins, Mrs. Joyce P. Stevens, Mrs. Mervil Dixon, Mrs. Rex Martin, Mrs. Beatrice Collins, Mrs. Alice M. Hornsby, Mrs. Charles Hughes, Mrs. John Reed, Mrs. Blanche Barner, Mrs. James A. Duff and Mrs. Otto Martin.

FROM COLUMBUS
James Oliver Gunnell, of Columbus, Ohio, spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James W. Gunnell, near here.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Freeman, of Auxier, Ky., announce the engagement of their daughter, Teresa, to Mr. Gale E. Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maynard E. Moore, of Sabina, Ohio.

Both are seniors at Eastern Kentucky University where Miss Freeman is a secondary education major in Spanish, and Mr. Moore is a data processing major in the College of Business Administration.

Miss Freeman is a former member of Kappa Delta Tau sorority and a 1969 graduate of Prestonsburg high school. Mr. Moore is a 1969 graduate of East Clinton high school, Lees Creek, Ohio.

A June wedding is planned.

Winter Art Weekend Slated At May Lodge, Jan. 26, 27

By HELEN PRICE STACY

If you're interested in art, photography or nature study—or all three—Eastern Kentucky is the place to be in January.

Carter Caves State Resort Park, near Olive Hill, has scheduled a "Mammal Weekend" Jan. 19-21 to teach ecology through field trips and personal observation of the area's wildlife and scenic beauty.

A Winter Weekend for Artists and Photographers will be held at Jenny Wiley State Resort Park, Jan. 26-27.

Some of Kentucky's best-known artists will be on hand for the event, hoping to prove a point for ecology through their beautiful paintings and photographs and portray nature's beauty.

Participants may begin registering at Jenny Wiley at 4 p.m. Jan. 26. A get-acquainted social hour will open the weekend's activities at 8 p.m. Friday evening. (High school and college students interested in art and photography, or any other amateur, is invited to exhibit his or her work, Russell May, Prestonsburg artist, said-Ed.)

Saturday's events will open with a demonstration of acrylic painting by Cliff Johnson of Morehead. Arla Alexander, also of Morehead, will demonstrate tissue collage as a creative art, and Russell May, of Prestonsburg, will discuss and demonstrate speed painting with oils.

At noon, a panel of judges will view all art and photographs entered for judging.

Artists will be able to enter works in eight categories: oil landscape and seascape; oil still life; acrylic, any subject; abstract, any medium; water color landscape, seascape, and still life; watercolor animals, flowers, trees and birds; pastel, any subject; ink and pencil, any subject. First, second and third prizes will be awarded in each category and a grand prize also will be awarded.

Each photographer may enter pieces in nine categories in color and the same number in black and white: portraits; character study and human interest; creative or experimental; pictorial or scenic; photo journalism; animals; still life; nature study; or unclassified.

At 2 p.m., following the judging, Jack Coleman, Danville photographer, will discuss protraiture and demonstrate various lighting techniques.

Saturday evening at 7:30 p.m. Joe Discher, owner of Paul Sawyer Galleries in Frankfort, will discuss prints, printing, paper quality, framing and packaging.

Art prints and original paintings will be presented as door prizes.

CARD OF THANKS

We would like to thank our relatives and friends who visited, shared their sympathy, sent flowers and cards, prepared and sent food and helped in any way upon the passing of our mother and Mom-Mom, Anna Akers. We would like to thank the doctors and nursing staff of Our Lady of the Way Hospital for the care of our loved one. We especially thank the Old Beaver Regular Baptist Church ministers and our heartfelt thanks to Rev. Bob Martin, Elders Ivory Sowards, Bert Howard, and Grover Adkins for their consoling words in our hour of need and to the Hall Bros. Funeral Home for its kind and efficient service.
