

Black Lung Hearing Set At Eastern Perkins and Dent Say Social Security Fails Many Miners

Congressmen Carl D. Perkins of Kentucky and John H. Dent of Pennsylvania announced that hearings on black lung eligibility problems will be held Saturday (June 23) at Allen Central high school, Eastern.

In a joint statement, the two Congressmen said:

"There are thousands of coal miners presently suffering from pneumoconiosis (black lung) who have been given unfavorable determinations on their applications for benefits. Many of these people have worked in the mines for as long as 40 or 50 years, and are clearly eligible for benefits under the 15-year presumption, which holds that anyone who has worked in the mines for as long as 15 years, and has pulmonary problems, should be presumed to be suffering from black lung. But the Social Security Administration has not construed the law as Congress intended."

Dent is chairman of the General Subcommittee on Labor, of the House Education and Labor Committee. Perkins is chairman of the full House Education and Labor Committee.

The original black lung legislation, and later improvements to it, came from these committees.

The Floyd county hearing will concern itself with eligibility. Later, hearings will be held in Washington to cover other aspects of the legislation which Congress may want to consider.

The June 23 hearing will begin at 9 a.m. Earlier plans had called for two days of hearings, but because Congress will be in session on Friday, June 22, the hearings will be held on June 23 only.

Pigman Victim In Ohio Shooting

Ronald Pigman, 22-year-old Vietnam war veteran and a native of Dema, died last Thursday in a Newark, O. hospital of the effects of a bullet wound suffered May 10 in what was described as a "strong-arm robbery attempt" at a Patalaska, O. carryout grocery.

Gangrene caused Pigman's death, the Licking county (Ohio) coroner said. A sheriff's department spokesman there said Pigman was shot in the left side of his chest with a .22-caliber pistol fired by Mrs. Anna Stewart, owner of the business. The wounded man and a companion, Harold Ferguson, of Johnstown, O., fled the scene, and Pigman was not hospitalized till three days later when he was found by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Pigman, of Johnstown.

Nothing was taken by the two from the store. It was said Mrs. Stewart will not be charged in the shooting.

In addition to his parents, Pigman is survived by two brothers, Donald Pigman, Crowton, O., and John Pigman, of Johnstown. Funeral rites were conducted Sunday from the Regular Baptist Church at Dema, and burial was made in the family cemetery there under direction of the Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

HALL NOT A DEPUTY AT TIME OF ARREST

The Times erred last week in listing as a deputy sheriff the Willie Hall who had been arrested on a drunk driving charge. Hall had been discharged as deputy sheriff by Sheriff Frank Leslie, three days prior to his arrest, Sheriff Leslie said.

Allen Says He Will Request Removal of Party's Chairman

Richard "Dick" Allen, of Wheelwright, who served his brother, James "Jitter" Allen, as campaign manager in the primary race for the Democratic nomination for Representative from this county, announced last week that he will call for the removal of J. R. Miller as chairman of the Democratic party in Kentucky.

Allen wrote the State Democratic Central Executive Committee last Wednesday, asking permission to appear before it at its next regular meeting.

His brother lost the campaign for Representative by 268 votes to the incumbent, W. J. "Bill" Reynolds, of Allen. Allen produced during the primary a copy of a letter which had purportedly been written by Miller urging the renomination of Reynolds. It was claimed the letter went to all Democratic precinct chairmen in this county.

Mayor Archer's order to owners of vacant lots to clean 'em up, or the city will do the job for them and add the cost to the owner's tax bill, is a splendid idea. I say that after having had my own piece of property given a Marine haircut.

MORE THAN FATHER'S DAY
Father's Day is when most of us come in out of the doghouse, but Z. S. (Uncle Dick) Dickerson did better than that. The Day also marked the observance of his and Mrs. Dickerson's 67th wedding anniversary. The Dickersons were married June 17, 1906 at Coalwood, W. Va., and their long, good life together should say something to these fly-by-nights who get married one month and the next begin negotiating with a divorce lawyer. Uncle Dick will be 92, July 20.

This one is so old, I suspect, that it relates to two Irishmen. The two were suffering hangers jointly contracted the preceding evening, and as they passed a distillery the wind bore to them an aroma which drew them as the magnet pulls the steel. Inside, they

ROPES Starts Worker Survey In Five Counties

Six hundred employers will be contacted by some 30 interviewers in a survey begun this week to determine manpower needs in a five-county area and whether they are being met by local vocational training facilities.

This study, the second of its kind in two years, will be conducted in Floyd, Johnson, Martin, Pike and Magoffin counties under the direction of the Regional Office to Provide Educational Services (ROPES), Region 11. The survey deals with non-manufacturing firms and this summer's interviews will focus on the mining, construction, transportation, communications and public utilities industries.

Henley C. Dutton, industrial coordinator of ROPES, said the interviews are designed to provide answers concerning the number of employees now working in the area, what skills are needed, and what skills are in "critical need."

"From the information gathered," he said, "we can see how vocational training—in the area extension schools, Mayo State Vocational School at Paintsville and in the colleges—is doing and supplying training for critical needs and also in areas which are not deemed critical."

Dutton said a similar study last summer gathered employment data from manufacturing firms and preliminary results were favorable in showing that vocational training was meeting the needs of the manufacturers.

The interviewers were selected from

Missing Man Found At Las Vegas Hotel

A telephone call by a Lexington police detective to California last Thursday ended the mystery surrounding the whereabouts of Gaylord Martin, Prestonsburg bank employee, who had been reported missing since June 3.

Fears of relatives and friends that the 26-year-old Eastern man had been kidnapped or killed were dispelled with the information that he was at the Dunes Hotel and Country Club in Las Vegas, Nevada. The hotel later confirmed the report that Martin was registered as a guest there.

The end of the 10-day search for the missing man came when Police Detective James Latimer called a friend of Martin in Los Angeles. The friend, William Ori, was described as an "old Army buddy" of Martin. Latimer said Ori told him where Martin was staying in Las Vegas.

Martin left Prestonsburg June 3 to attend a banking institute at the University of Kentucky. He attended one session, and was not seen again by acquaintances. One or more notes found in the room which he occupied in the apartment of his cousin during the cousin's absence indicated kidnapping. But Latimer said he learned that Martin was seen on June 6 and 7 in Lexington.

Martin served the bank as installment loan collector. His records were in order, bank officials said last week.

Cousins Victims In Auto Wreck On Prater Cr'k

Two Toler Creek cousins were fatally injured last Tuesday afternoon near Banner when their auto left the Prater Creek road and crashed into a tree.

James Edward Jarvis, 21, died at the scene of the wreck, which occurred around 3 p.m. He was identified as the driver of the car. His cousin, Charles Phillip Keathley, 20, died three hours later at Our Lady of the Way Hospital, Martin.

Jarvis is survived by his mother, Mrs. May Conn Jarvis Mitchell, of Harold, and a half-brother, Allen Douglas Mitchell. His funeral was conducted at 11 a.m. Friday from the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Dolly Keathley, of Toler Creek, and burial was made in the Akers cemetery there.

Survivors of the second victim include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Keathley, of Toler Creek, and three sisters, Mrs. Joene Stewart, Mrs. Shirley King and Miss Sharon Keathley, all of Harold. Graveside rites were conducted at 2 p.m. Friday at the Sam Roberts cemetery on Toler.

Music Theatre Opens Tonight

The cool, conservative men of "1776" with Steven Wilmot (far right) as John Dickinson

Jenny Wiley Slimmer Music Theatre opens its season tonight (Wednesday). This marks the opening night for the 1973 season of Broadway musicals to be presented this year at the amphitheatre at Jenny Wiley State Park. Beginning tonight and continuing every week night except Mondays and Tuesdays, the Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre will be presenting "the finest in under the stars entertainment" in the state of Kentucky.

The season begins with "1776," the dandy of a musical about the American Revolution, which will run, June 20 through July 8. Performances are at 8:30 nightly, except Mondays and Tuesdays. Tickets may be purchased daily at the box office or at the door. All tickets this season are general admission, so early arrival is important. The doors open at 7:30.

"1776" is one of the most original, tuneful, witty and beguiling musicals ever to delight Broadway. It has a number of special distinctions. It's the only Broadway musical ever presented at the White House in its entirety (the occasion was Washington's Birthday, 1970); it's the only play or musical that has made genial entertainment out of the events that led to the Declaration of Independence; and it won the two top prizes when it was first presented in New York, the Tony Award and the New York Drama Critics' Award as the best musical of its season. It has still another distinction—its scenery represents an actual historic room that is visited by many thousands of Americans every year—the chamber in Independence Hall where the Continental Congress began meeting in 1775.

This jocular, lyrical version of what happened during the hot weeks of debate in Philadelphia before the Continental Congress was chivvied into passing the Declaration of Independence will be followed with "Damn Yankees," beginning July 11 and playing through July 29, and followed by "Man of La Mancha," running August 1 through August 29.

Next Bridge For County In Planning But Banner Bridge Three Years Away; 2 Others Delayed

Although the state has contracted to build a bridge across the Big Sandy at Emma which will eliminate the old and dangerous "swinging" bridge there, another span of the same hazardous type may remain in use in this county as long as three years.

The suspension-type bridge which will continue in use—if it doesn't collapse, in the meantime—is the span at Banner which connects US 23 with the Prater Creek section of the county and is a part of the route from the main Big Sandy valley up Prater Creek into Mud Creek.

A Department of Highways spokesman was quoted last week as predicting a 1977 completion date for the Banner bridge. The present Banner span has a 12-foot wooden roadway and has on occasion been closed for repairs. School bus traffic has been forbidden on the bridge.

The bridge cannot reach the planning stage until negotiations between the Department of Highways and a consultant are completed, a department spokesman said. Once these negotiations are concluded, the plans will be prepared, submitted to the U. S. Bureau of Roads for approval, and if the plans are approved surveying and acquisition of rights-of-way would begin.

Hearings on the bridge replacement job were held, earlier this year.

In the project planning study stage are two other major bridges—one to cross the Big Sandy at Catlettsburg, connecting the Boyd county-seat with Kenova and replacing the deteriorating present span; the other, the Louisa-Fort Gay bridge, to replace the old toll bridge connecting the two towns and serving as a major link with Huntington, W. Va.

The Louisa-Fort Gay span, which will cost an estimated $4 million, will be between 1,200 and 1,400 feet long, crossing both the Levisa and Tug Forks of the Big Sandy.

James W. Fehr, director of the highway department's division of planning, said design work on this bridge could begin next spring, with acquisition of right-of-way and relocating on utilities following in late 1975. Construction could begin 18 months after that, he indicated.

AMVETS State Convention Set At Jenny Wiley

AMVETS (American Veterans of World War II, Korea and Vietnam) will hold its 28th annual state convention, June 22, 23 and 24 at Jenny Wiley State Park. The location here for the convention was announced by Harold J. Newsome, state public relations officer Louisville, formerly a basketball player and graduate of McDowell high school.

The bid for the convention to be at May Lodge was successfully made by J. D. (Demp) Allen, commander of AMVETS Post 27, Martin, Henry Hale, Glenn Patrick and AMVET Bob Copeland, park manager, three years ago.

Newsome said the delegates to the convention will elect state officers for the coming year, plan membership drives and develop project programs for Kentucky.

Training Center Grant Is $33,487

A grant of $33,487 to the Mountain Mental Health-Mental Retardation Board here was among those announced this week by the Kentucky Department of Mental Health.

The money will be used for a workshop training center teaching horticulture skills and providing meaningful employment for the mentally retarded.

The statewide grants total $393,852 for programs in Kentucky providing services to the mentally retarded, cerebral palsied, epileptic and others having neurological handicaps.

Approved by the Kentucky Planning and Advisory Council for the Developmental Disabilities Service Act (DDSA), the federal grants provide matching funds for organizations ranging from local associations to state agencies.

Categories of service covered by the DDSA include diagnosis, treatment, day care, special living arrangement, sheltered employment, protective and other social and socio-legal services, counseling and transportation.

Professional Orchestra To Play At Jenny Wiley Summer Theatre

The Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre's resident orchestra is shown practising for tonight's opening performance of "1776."

The largest professional orchestra ever to reside at the Jenny Wiley summer Music Theatre will provide the accompaniment for the season's first production, "1776," opening tomorrow (Wednesday) evening.

Unlike most outdoor theatre productions accompanied by tapes, piano or organ, Jenny Wiley's production of "1776" will be performed with a live rendition of the complete Broadway score.

The 13-piece orchestra will be under the direction of Michael Cerveris, a chairman in the music department at Marshall University, Huntington, W. Va. As musical director for the entire season, including "Damn Yankees" and "Man of LaMancha," Cerveris is responsible for the vocal, as well as the instrumental score.

An award-winning graduate of the Juilliard School of Music, Cerveris has trained vocalists for the West Virginia Opera and served as musical director for Community Players, Inc. in Huntington. A man of many talents, he has also directed, composed and choreographed several mass media productions. Like the performers at Jenny Wiley, the musicians are hired on the basis of an audition and have come here from several regions of the country to spend a summer dedicated to musical theatre. Members of the orchestra range from ages 17 to 33 and claim to have studied music anywhere from the day they were born to 20 years.

There are several musicians from various cities in Kentucky, as well as West Virginia, North Carolina, Ohio and Oregon. Four members of the orchestra, Rodney Berry, Jon Lautman, Jeanne Helmich and Wayne Bishop, are spending their second season with the company.

For the production of "1776" the orchestration will include Carol Warren, cello, piano, bass; Margaret Herde, flute-piccorno, piano; Pam Livingston, oboe, saxophone, flute, piano; Gregory Hoffman, trombone; Toni Hoffman, piano accompaniment and assistant musical director for "1776," Jerry Martin, percussion; Ted Quest, violin; Maureen Reese, violin; Rodney Berry, clarinet-saxophone; Jon Lautman, clarinet; Jeanne Helmich, flute-piccorno, piano; Wayne Bishop, bass.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. John Nitsch, Huntsville, Ala., announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Laurel, to Mr. Town Hall, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Town Hall, of Sarasota, Fla., formerly of this county.

The marriage will be solemnized Aug. 26 from Southside Baptist Church, Huntsville.

Miss Nitsch was graduated from Huntsville high school and is a senior at Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tennessee.

Mr. Hall is a graduate of Riverview high school, Sarasota, and Stetson University, Deland, Fla. He served as a Navy lieutenant from 1968 to 1971 and is presently a graduate student at Vanderbilt.

Self-Taught Artist To Visit Library

A newcomer to the field of art in Kentucky, Robert E. Byrd Williams is fast becoming one of the outstanding portrait painters in the state. A brick and tile contractor, he had to give up this work following a heart attack brought on by sweeping snow on Christmas Eve, 1966. While looking for some light work he began drawing and doing pencil portraits in color. In 1971 he did his first portrait in oil on canvas. These were well received, especially since the artist is totally inexperienced in art of any sort, and entirely self-trained in the space of two years time.

Mr. Williams will be at the Floyd County Library July 17 and July 19, showing a collection of his works and demonstrating his technique. The public is invited to stop by during the week of July 16 to meet Mr. Williams and view his portraits.

Summer Theatre Needs Local Support

The only ingredient missing from the success formula of the Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre is local patronage. Tourists coming to Jenny Wiley State Park have always contributed heavily to the attendance, but local support, it must be admitted, has not been what it should be.

This theatre group has offered for nine years now consistently fine performances by talented players and musicians. Many of these have come here after having established sound professional reputations in larger cities and before greater audiences. All have worked hard, and often under discouraging conditions.

Only by the good graces of Governor Ford and his predecessors, who have contributed liberally from their emergency funds to augment funds raised by the Jenny Wiley Drama Association has the theatre survived.

Many other Kentucky communities would be proud to have a cultural organization such as this. The amphitheatre provided at Jenny Wiley State Park during the administration of Governor Combs for the staging of the theatre's offerings is the envy of many other parks and communities.

This season is a good time for Prestonsburg, Floyd county and nearby areas to provide the strong support to the Summer Theatre that is its due.

The first presentation of the season, "1776," will begin its run this evening (Wednesday). Tonight, then, is the time to begin this local support that is a "must" if the theatre is to have the success that it deserves.

Four from County Graduate at Berea; James Still Honored

Charles Edward Collins, of Minnie, Paula Meade Fields, of Hi Hat, Wilton Everette Dingus, of Hite, and Clara Turner, of Langley, were among the 203 students who graduated recently from Berea College at its 118th commencement.

Mr. Collins received a B. S. in industrial arts; Mrs. Fields, a B. S. in nursing; Mr. Dingus, a B. A. in chemistry, and Miss Turner, a B. A. in biology. Twenty-six of those who received the B. S. degree in Nursing are now eligible to take the State Board examinations for the R. N. degree. They received special recognition in a Pinning Service. Others received the B. S. in Agriculture, in Business Administration, in Home Economics and in Industrial Arts. Those who received the B. A. degree held majors in various departments including special independent majors.

James Still, a Kentuckian by adoption, who has lived and worked many years in Appalachia, received the honorary degree of Doctor of Literature. He was librarian for six years at Hindman Settlement School and during this time carried cartons of books on his back to one-room schools in Knott county.

Mr. Still, who is known for his books, "Hounds on the Mountain," "River of Earth," and "On Troublesome Creek," all of which led him to tramp over every ridge and hollow in the region of hill farms and coal camps mentioned in his writings, has numerous awards and fellowships and also finds time to be a beekeeper, a fisherman, a gardener, a friend of the common man, and an inveterate reader.

RESOLUTION OF RESPECT

Inez Cottrell Hobson

Inez Cottrell Hobson was born in Floyd County on October 21, 1897, died on October 25, 1972, and was buried in the Richmond Memorial Cemetery.

She was the daughter of Fred H. Cottrell and Lida Richmond Cottrell, and was a direct descendant of one of the founders of The Bank Josephine.

She was the beloved wife of Joe Hobson, a Director of and General Counsel to The Bank Josephine, and was the beloved mother of Fred R. Cottrell, an Advisory Director of The Bank Josephine.

Throughout her lifetime her jovial and happy disposition endeared her to all of us, and to her countless friends. Her constant devotion to The Bank Josephine made her one of its most faithful supporters.

We mourn her loss, and extend to her husband, son and family our deepest sympathy in their bereavement.

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED:

FIRST: That a page be set apart upon the records of this Board whereon shall be recorded these resolutions.

SECOND: That no further matters be here after entered upon the original record book of this Board subsequent to the minutes of the meeting at which these resolutions are adopted.

THIRD: That a copy of these resolutions be furnished to the family and to the Floyd County Times for publication.

Group Formed To Head Drive On College Challenge Grant

Pippa Passes, Ky.—With the assistance of Ex-Governor Bert T. Combs, Alice Lloyd College trustee, a regional appreciation committee has been formed in eight Eastern Kentucky counties to help meet a challenge grant from the Lilly Endowment.

The Lilly Endowment, of Indianapolis, Ind., has promised to grant the college $50,000 if an additional $100,000 can be raised before July 31.

Committee members include Burl Wells Spurlock, R. V. May, Jr. and Charles Clark, of Floyd county; Dr. Gene T. Watts, Knott county; Dave Zeegeer, Letcher county; L. D. Gorman and Dr. Elmer Ratliff, Perry county.

The committee was formed to help Alice Lloyd College as it begins to celebrate its 50th anniversary of service in Eastern Kentucky. While the committee is raising funds in this area, the college's development staff is concentrating on securing additional funds from foundations, corporations and individuals throughout the United States.

According to Judge Combs, these sources from outside the area want to know what the people from Eastern Kentucky are doing to help the college. "It's very important," he commented, "that the people of Eastern Kentucky support Alice Lloyd College because it has meant so much for this region. Once we have provided our own leadership and all done our share, then we can step forward with pride to seek the gift investments that these other sources provide to colleges throughout the nation."

"Unprecedented," is how William S. Hayes, ALC president, describes the Lilly Endowment grant. "I believe that this is the first time the Lilly Endowment has ever made such a grant to a two-year college like Alice Lloyd," he explained. "Also, in the past these grants have been practically restricted to institutions in Indiana." In addition to this challenge grant, the Lilly Endowment supplied a matching grant of $42,250 last month to help fund the college's Appalachian Learning Laboratory.

"It seems like the working of Providence," Dr. Hayes said in describing the timing of these grants. Recently the College has been straining to meet its financial commitments. "Now we're at a turning point when our friends can help us move into a much stronger position financially. Their help now will enable the College to build on its past 50 years of service with renewed dedication to service in Eastern Kentucky." If the Lilly challenge grant is met, the College will need less than $150,000 to successfully complete its fiscal year ending July 31.

Publication Offered On Home Freezing

By FRANCES H. PITTS
(County Extension Agent)

A new freezing circular, prepared by foods specialists at the University of Kentucky, is available at the county Extension office here.

The attractive new circular gives step-by-step directions for freezing 22 fruits and 29 vegetables. Special picture directions are given for strawberries, peaches, green beans, broccoli. Also included are a list of recommended varieties to freeze, and general guidelines on freezing temperatures, containers, sealing and labeling, record keeping and storage time.

There seems to be an increased interest in the home preservation of foods this year. Freezing is an excellent way to preserve most fresh fruits and vegetables.

Another useful how-to-do-it publication, "Jellies, Jams, Preserves, and Marmalades," is also available. The county extension office is located on the second floor, Prestonsburg Post Office building.

Educators in California are voicing concerns at the declining scores of sixth graders on nation-wide standardized tests. According to Dr. Alexander Law, chief of the State Education Department's Office of Program Evaluation, the evidence that they now have shows a gradual deterioration in computing skills. New math, widely used in California and across the United States, emphasizes mathematical theory and the reasons behind simple arithmetic. The California Assembly Education Committee has been holding hearings on the math program.

The Richmond City Board of Education has been selected as the national first-place winner in the 1973 National School Board Awards Program, representing districts of no more than 6,000 enrollment. The program is sponsored by the Association of Classroom Teachers of the National Education Association and costs are underwritten by the Thom McAn Shoe Company. The Richmond Board received $1,000, a first-place national trophy and individual plaques for the board members. The Richmond Education Association nominated the Richmond school board for the award.

A 14-page booklet, "Doing Your Best on Aptitude Tests," offers helpful hints for taking aptitude tests administered by the state employment services, schools, or private employers. This U. S. Labor Department publication is available in English and Spanish, from the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. 20402.

If the Michigan Senate passes a bill already passed by the House, nonunion teachers may be paying union dues. The bill authorizes so-called agency shops where payroll deductions support the teachers' legal representatives, even if the individual teacher is not a union member. The bill is designed to overturn a court decision which held such an agency shop agreement invalid.

WHY REGISTER REPUBLICAN?

You have been told throughout the years by the politicians to register Democratic if you want to get anything in Floyd County. . . I, Linzie Hunt, Chairman of the Republican Party say, "what have you gotten for the past twenty years by registering the way that the politicians direct?" You have gotten crony government. . . You have had your candidates in the Democratic Party selected by a few to run for office. . . you have virtually given a deed to the county offices to one group of people in substance. . . Floyd County no longer has a government by the people, and for the people, but government by a few and for a few. Go out and register Republican—Let's make Floyd County a two-party county. Let's make the politicians know that we can select. . . and elect the people of our choosing. Remember, POLITICIANS FEAR ONLY ONE THING AND THAT'S THE POWER OF THE BALLOT. And being a Republican or a Democrat does not make you a better man or a woman. WE ALL BELIEVE IN GOOD GOVERNMENT. . . WE DON'T HAVE IT, AND HAVEN'T HAD IT FOR YEARS.

Register now, for the November election. . . REGISTER REPUBLICAN. . . It's time for all good men and women to stand up and be counted, WITH YOUR HELP FLOYD COUNTY CAN ONCE AGAIN BECOME A LAND OF THE FREE. . . AND THE HOME OF THE BRAVE. Register. . . Register Republican.

UK To Show Farm Research At June 28 Event, Near Lexington

Lexington, Ky.—What's new in farming today? In terms of farm income and expenses, this question may be more important today than ever before. In order to take advantage of today's farm prices and at the same time hold down spiraling production costs, farmers must keep up with the latest advancements in farm technology.

The University of Kentucky College of Agriculture will present a wealth of new information on a wide variety of agricultural topics at its Farmers Research Information Day on June 28. The event will be conducted at UK's Coldstream-Spindletop-Maine Chance research farms near Lexington.

Displays, demonstrations and tours will be used to present the University's latest research findings on crop and livestock production.

Ten different tours will be going on throughout the day, getting underway at 9 a.m. The tours will begin at Maine Chance farm on Newton Pike, and visitors can go on as many of the tours as they wish during the day.

A special program on horses will be featured at the field day. There will be demonstrations on the teaching of basic and advanced riding and on the teaching of breaking and training techniques. The University's teaching program on horses will be outlined, and research information on horse nutrition, health care and parasite control will be presented.

The skyrocketing cost of protein supplement is one of the most serious problems facing farmers today, and UK animal scientists are doing extensive research on more economical protein feeding. At the field day the UK beef cattle specialists will discuss feeding urea as a protein substitute. The dairy scientists will discuss the protein needs of dairy cows and how to meet these needs at the least possible cost.

Many swine producers today are wondering if it is wise to lower protein levels in swine rations. Pigs fed various levels and sources of protein will be on display at the field day. The possibility of using Opaque-2 corn, which has about 25 percent more protein than regular corn, as a source of protein for hogs and dairy cattle will be explored.

Visitors at the field day can see Finn-cross sheep which bear litters of up to six to eight lambs. There will be information on heat detection in cattle, liquid manure handling, beef sire selection, grass tetany, and forage testing. Swine farrowing facilities and simple homemade cattle handling equipment will be demonstrated.

Tobacco producers can check variety tests, including plots of Maryland type tobacco. In addition, they can learn about liquid fertilizer in setter water, weed control and disease control.

UK agronomists will also demonstrate research work on small grains, corn, soybeans, grasses and legumes. They will show variety tests, fertilizer studies, no-till studies, and weed control studies. New harvesting and field storage systems for hay will be displayed.

Farmers must consider insect control in almost all crop and livestock enterprises. UK entomologists will discuss alfalfa weevil control, safe use of systemic insecticides on tobacco, and soybean insect problems. They will have a display on various dust bags available for fly control on cattle and will show an automatic spray system for controlling flies in livestock buildings.

The June 28 field day at Lexington will be the first of two such events conducted by the UK College of Agriculture this summer. Another Farmers Research Information Day will be held July 19 at the West Kentucky Research and Extension Center at Princeton.

The Garrard County Board of Education has agreed to join the Bluegrass School Purchasing Association. The purchasing association was recently set up to enable the area's school systems to collectively buy custodial and school supplies. Membership in the association is on a one-year basis and can be withdrawn on a 60-day notice.

Teacher Recognized

Phillip M. Jenkins is one of a select number of elementary teachers to be named "America's Outstanding Elementary Teacher" for 1972-1973.

He was awarded this recognition on the basis of his civic and professional achievements by the board of advisers of Outstanding Elementary Teachers of America, located in Washington, D. C.

Mr. Jenkins is a graduate of Martin high school and Morehead State University. He is a teacher in the Wyoming county, W. Va. school system and is also employed by Field Enterprise Educational Corporation, Chicago, as an area manager. He is the son of Mrs. Mary Jenkins, of Martin, and the late Thomas A. Jenkins.

"The Bridge"—in Art, Verse

Editor's Note: The old bridge at Emma and the long fight to get it replaced by a modern span has been so well-publicized that it enlisted the sympathy and talents of an artist and a poet. The charcoal sketch here shown is by Neil Davidson, of the Appalachian Arts and Crafts Center, Martin; the verse, by a native of this county writing under the pen name, "Phillip Iscariot."

Swingin' Bridge
"Emma"

It's safe to walk across my planks
to reach the other side,
but to drive a car across my frame is seeking suicide.

I fell before; I'll fall again,
don't place the blame on me.
I know my weak spots when they come but fix them—"I'm not free!"

The people on this river play games within their minds, and tell themselves, I'm well today—
"I'll go most anytime!"

Please walk across me; take your time
don't rush and start me swaying.
It rubs my sore spots when you do and starts my cables fraying.

Humans are crazy, at their best with misguided minds, you see;
they jump into those heavy cars—
"Don't place that weight on me!"

I can't see why, someone can't try to correct this situation.
I'm only cable and some planks in this richest of all nations.

Politics—are crazy games;
they appropriate, that's true.
But, there's no interest in your health;
the money's not for you.

Funds aren't used for my repair;
it surely is a sin.
I heard a motor chug-a-lug,
oops!—here we go again—

...Our Father who art in Heaven...

Howell Held Suicide By Johnson Coroner

Paintsville, Ky.—The body of a 29-year-old Johnson county man, who apparently shot himself in the head late Monday night as he sat in his pickup truck on U. S. 23, near here, was discovered the morning of June 12 by his wife.

Johnson County Coroner Dick Van Hoose said Charles D. Howell, of Wintonsville, apparently took his own life about 10:45 p.m. Monday with a .22-caliber revolver. Mrs. Marlene Howell found her husband dead at 11 a.m. Tuesday in the truck, about three miles from Paintsville.

Other survivors are a son, Christopher Lee Howell; three daughters, Debra Charlene, Jennifer Lynn and Angela Michele Howell; his mother, Mrs. Evelyn Howell, and two sisters, Mrs. Francis Music, East Point, and Mrs. Phyllis Osborne, Hagerhill.

Services were conducted at 2 p.m. Friday in the Church of God here. Burial was in the Robinson cemetery at East Point.

The wedding of Miss Sherri Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Jennings Martin, Garrett, Ky. and Gary Douglas Reed, son of Mr. and Mrs. David M. Reed, Langley, Ky., took place at 2 p.m. Saturday, June 16, in the United Methodist Church, Garrett, Ky. The double-ring ceremony was conducted by the Rev. Floyd Tackett, pastor of The Garrett and Wayland Methodist Churches.

Peggy Martin Allen, Garrett, a former schoolmate of the bride, was pianist. The church decorations were white and pink gladioli on either side of the ivy-covered arch, with the piano and pews accented in pink and white.

The bride wore a gown of white organza, fashioned with a Victorian neckline and front panel of venise lace appliques, full lantern sleeves and empire waistline circled with petite lace appliques. The A-line skirt, with scattered lace appliques, was designed with a chapel-length train. Her elbow-length, mantilla-type veil of imported illusion, bordered with lace and accented with spaced lace appliques, was held by a clip of venise lace motifs. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink rose buds and baby's breath accented by touches of silver and white lace with pink ribbons.

The bridesmaids wore pastel flocked dotted swiss dresses trimmed in pink with horse-hair braid hats. They carried white enameled baskets with a variety of spring flowers. The maid-of-honor was Suzanne Martin, Garrett, sister of the bride. Luci Martin Reed, Langley, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid. Fred Reed, Langley, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were David Martin, Garrett, Mark Smith, Patriot, Ohio, Emmitt Roy Thompson and Mike Beebe, both of Cheshire, Ohio.

The bride's mother wore a turquoise suit with a corsage of white rosebuds and the bridegroom's mother a pink dress with a corsage of pink and white rosebuds.

The reception was held in the church social room immediately following the ceremony. The bridal table was decorated in pink and white with a three tiered white and pink wedding cake as centerpiece. Serving as hostesses were Teddi Gibson of Langley and Teresa Osborne of Garrett. Mrs. Clem Martin greeted guests as registrar.

The couple left for a stay in the Great Smokey Mountains National Park. They will reside in Garrett, Ky. after June 21.

The bride is a 1972 graduate of Garrett high school. The groom is a 1972 graduate of Maytown high school. They will resume their education in the fall at Morehead State University, where both will be sophomores.

Holcomb Argues Price Freeze Should Include Insurance Rates

Frankfort, Ky.—An Eastern Kentucky coal operator said Friday Congress would violate President Nixon's price freeze if it does not extend federal workmen's compensation benefits beyond the proposed July 1 cut-off date.

The states and individual operators now are scheduled to assume all liability for disability payments to coal miners having black lung and other disabilities on that date.

Robert Holcomb, of Pikeville, president of Coal Operators &

Associates, Inc., said the federal cut-off would result in an estimated rate increase of $25 per $100 or payroll for Kentucky's coal operators.

"We had hoped to meet this extra cost by raising the price of coal," Holcomb said. "We figure the spot market might pay us about $1 a ton more, but weren't sure."

Underground coal from eastern Kentucky is selling from $8 to $11 per ton now, according to quality, Holcomb noted. Workmen's compensation rates for the small mines are $60.60, the highest in the nation, he said.

Holcomb called on Kentucky's congressional delegation to ask Congress to invoke the price-freeze on insurance rates.

"Just as the President has invoked a wage-price freeze on June 13, that keeps us from raising the price of coal," Holcomb said. "I maintain that the private insurance companies and the federal and state agencies with whom coal does business cannot raise prices on us."

Gov. Wendell Ford has been elected chairman of the National Democratic Governors' Caucus for the coming year. The Governor was selected unanimously by the 31 state governors at their conference in Nevada.

Castle-Bentley Vows Spoken

The marriage of Miss Sharon Castle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Castle, of Auxier, Ky., and Mr. Adrian Bentley, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Bentley, Sr., of Hueysville, was solemnized May 12 in a ceremony at the Prestonsburg Church of Christ. The Rev. Talmadge Allen performed the double-ring, candlelight ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length white dacron organza gown over slipper satin with a chantilace oval neckline, apron A-line skirt and wrist-length sleeves, all outlined with scalloped organza, with matching back panels ending in a cathedral train. Her imported French veil of illusion was held in place by a Juliet cap trimmed with pearls and white satin streamers. She carried a cascade of rosebuds.

Her matron of honor, Mrs. Carol Hughes, wore a floor-length gown of illusion, with imported dacron basque fitted bodice, tucking and chantilace trim, mandarin neckline and short, puffed sleeves. She carried a nosegay of spring flowers.

The bridesmaids were Miss Nancy Gibson, Kettering, Mich., Miss Mary Jarvis, Jenkins, Ky., Miss Genia

DeCoursey, Wayland, Ky., and Mrs. Janet Harmon Colburn, Berea, Ky. They wore matching rosette headpieces, with blue and white shimmer satin streamers. Their gowns were identical to that of the matron of honor.

Nuptial music was rendered by Miss Reva Duff, pianist, and Mrs. Jeffrey Wells, vocalist.

Mr. Bob Harmon, Hueysville, Ky., served the groom as best man. Ushers were Ellis Castle, brother of the bride, Benjamin Mullins, Pound, Va., Ray Prunty, Pound, Va., and David Chaffins, Garrett, Ky. Grover Wright, cousin of the bride, was ringbearer, and Carol Music, also a cousin of the bride, was flower girl.

The reception was held at the Auxier school lunchroom. Assisting at the reception was Miss Ruby Robinson, Mrs. Billie Wilcox, Mrs. Nancy Goble and Miss Peggy Wells. Miss Janet Wright presided at the guest register.

The bride is a graduate of Prestonsburg high school and attended Alice Lloyd College at Pippa Passes. Mr. Bentley is a graduate of Garrett high school, and is employed by the R & S Body Co., Allen. Mr. and Mrs. Bentley are residing at Hueysville.

NOTE OF THANKS

The family of James M. Jarrell wishes to acknowledge its appreciation to all who sent flowers and food upon the passing of our beloved brother. A special thanks to the ministers, Hall Brothers Funeral Home, the pallbearers, and those who performed the military services.

Engineers Plans Legal Move To Halt Siltation of Fishtrap

By KATHY KARCH
(In The Huntington Herald-Dispatch)
Pikeville, Ky.—The U. S. Engineers, Huntington district, legal offices are currently gathering information as additional evidence to press for a permanent injunction against Kentland-Elkhorn Coal Co. for allegedly polluting the Big Sandy River.

While this case is pending, filing of other court cases against coal companies for the same charge are at a standstill, according to John Compton, with the U. S. District Court at Pikeville.

"We are regrouping before we ask the court to give us time for a hearing on the permanent injunction," said Compton. In the meantime, "we're not interested in loading the court down with litigation that would have to wait on the Kentland-Elkhorn decision, anyway," he added.

Compton explained that "episodic" cases are still being filed in the courts with the cases "generally disposed of by guilty or no-content pleas." The law offices of the Corps in Huntington noted that "we hope to go forward with the permanent injunction" and are now in the process of amassing additional information to submit as evidence in the civil case.

In November, 1972, the Corps filed both criminal and civil actions against Kentland-Elkhorn.

In the criminal action, Kentland, a division of Pittston Co., which operates a mine at Mouthcard, Ky., was charged with four violations of the 1899 Refuse Act by allowing coal waste material to flow into Big Creek, a tributary of the Levisa Fork of the Big Sandy River. The alleged discharge has, according to the criminal suit, destroyed wildlife and damaged the ecological balances of Fishtrap Reservoir, a Corps project in Pike county.

The current status of that case shows the defendant filed a memorandum of law to sustain a claim that the charge should be dismissed. It will probably be called up again in October, said a Corps lawyer.

On the civil side of the case, the Corps sought both a temporary and permanent injunction to have the coal company stop the alleged violations of the Refuse Act.

Judge H. David Hermansdorfer ruled in the Eastern District of U. S. Court on Jan. 29 that the evidence submitted by the Corps to sustain the plea for a temporary injunction was not strong enough. He freed the company from the charge of "irreparable damage" by siltation to Fishtrap Reservoir, noting that "the charge by the Corps that Fishtrap Lake is endangered as a flood control project is not supported by the evidence."

The Huntington district Corps director, Col. Kenneth K. McIntyre, stated in February that legal aides in that office would begin gathering evidence for the permanent injunctive action.

The judge indicated additional evidence in any future injunctive action should show "what this company is doing in relation to what other companies are doing" as a form of contribution to the siltation problem, said a local legal aide.

This, he added, is hard to prove and gathering such evidence will be time-consuming with negotiations for contracting to uncover the evidence currently under way.

"We're trying to get them to take us seriously," he concluded.

Compton concurred by noting that "our intention is that, if the interpretation of the law will permit, we intend to do our best to clean up Fishtrap and other bodies of water in our judicial district." But, he added, "We're not filing mass criminal information on other alleged offenders," especially in light of the heavy court schedule.

"We don't want to impose on the courts for a hearing date," he said, "until we could sustain our information."

Compton added "all our efforts are directed at getting the coal operators to cooperate in voluntary compliance for the improvement of the situation."

Development Club Elects Officers

East Point, Ky.—The East Point Area Development Club in its regular meeting on June 4 had as guest, Claude Christian, Extension agent for Johnson county, who spoke to the club concerning judging in area competition with 11 other county winners in the rural non-farm category competition sponsored by the Northeast Kentucky Rural Community Development Association. Judging of the local club will take place this week.

The club also had at its meet Johnson county's new home demonstration agent, Miss Francine, Freeman, from Hardin county.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: Chairman, Mrs. Calvin K. Gray; vice-chairman, W. L. Baldrige, Jr.; secretary, Paul Roger Greer; treasurer, Mrs. Harry H. Hager.

Members of the club who were present at the Johnson county Awards Banquet held at Johnson Central high school June 2, when it was announced that East Point was a winner in the rural non-farm division, were Mr. and Mrs. George L. Ramey, Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Hager, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Baldrige, Jr. Mr. and Mrs. Herman Wells and son, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Gray, Mrs. LaRue Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis De Long, Mr. and Mrs. Danny J. Daniels, Miss Carolyn Baldrige, Mrs. Sandra Arnett, Mrs. Verna Music, Mrs. Hazel Short, Mrs. Grace Leek, Mr. Landon Tackett, Mrs. Carol Pickle, Misses Sherry and Crystal Pickle, and Mrs. Henry J. Music.

For the eighth consecutive year, the number of winners in the Presidential Physical Fitness Award program is running well ahead of the previous year's pace. Through February of the current school year, 100,472 boys and girls (ages 10-17) had earned the nation's highest fitness award. There were 93,188 winners at the same point a year ago, when the final total was 316,118. Schools desiring to participate in the Presidential Physical Fitness Award program may obtain official application forms from the President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports, Washington, D. C. 20202.

To the Voters of Magisterial Dist. 2:

I am deeply grateful to the people of our district for their help in nominating me as the Democratic candidate for Magistrate. At the same time I wish to assure each of my primary opponents that I hold no ill feelings for any of them. I apologize for my failure to acknowledge my indebtedness to the people earlier than this, but I have had a daughter in the hospital and have been away from home much of the time. I hope the people will join in their support of me in the November election. I promise that in return I will do my level best for them.

looked down into a huge vat filled with brew, and one of the two—it may have been Pat—leaned so far over that he fell inside. His companion could do nothing but stand and watch his buddy thrash and swim about, down there below. Upshot of the matter was, Pat drowned, and it fell his friend's unhappy lot to go, tell Pat's widow the sad news.

The widowed Mrs. Pat finally recovered her composure to inquire, "Didn't he ever have a chance for his life?"

"That he did," replied the other. "In fact, he had two chances—once, when he got out for a chaser, and again when he went to the bathroom."

A HAPPY THOUGHT?

The U. S. Bureau of Mines estimates that with current growth rates the world supply of petroleum will be depleted in 20 years; natural gas in 22, tin in 15, coal in 111. Even if we discover resources four times larger than we now know about, the Bureau continues, we will run out of petroleum in 50 years; natural gas in 49; tin in 61, and coal in 150. The same pattern holds true for most other vital resources.

Meanwhile, most of us will run out of breath.

Registration books have been reopened in Kentucky's 120 counties following the primary election. Mrs. Thelma Stovall, Secretary of State, issued a reminder to voters that September 24 is the deadline for reregistering to be eligible to vote in the general election in November.

Theatre Readies Productions

The Appalachian Summer Theatre schedule at Alice Lloyd College is nearing completion, with weekend entertainment to be offered on campus. Visits to the ALCOR and Head Start centers in the area are planned for July and August.

Weekend performances get under way with the presentation of "Winnie the Pooh" each Sunday at 2:30 p.m. in Cushing Hall, beginning June 24 and ending August 12. Saturday evenings, the Summer Theatre will offer entertainment for adults and teenagers with an Appalachian play at 8. Admission is free to all performances.

Municipal Wastewater Studied As Guide To State Sharing

A survey of needs for municipal wastewater treatment facilities in Kentucky will serve as a guide to the federal government as to what the state's fair share of construction grant money should be.

The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) questionnaire will be completed mainly by engineers representing Kentucky municipalities (of over 10,000 population), major sanitation districts and Area Development Districts. The engineers attended a recent Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection meeting, where Deputy Commissioner for Environmental Quality Herman Regan explained the survey.

Regan said the responses to the questionnaire are important because the "ability of Kentucky to fund needed wastewater treatment facility construction for several years to come will be based on the need survey."

Kentucky's share of construction grant funds will be proportioned on Kentucky's needs relative to the total needs of the nation, Regan explained.

As a result of the previous needs survey, Kentucky has suffered substantial reduction in funds based on its previous allotment, he said.

"We were, in effect, penalized financially for already having done a lot of waste treatment facility construction on our own," Regan said. "States that hadn't done as much of this as Kentucky had further to go toward the national goals so they were given more financial assistance than Kentucky."

The Federal Water Pollution Control Act Amendments of 1972 establishes the following policy on a national basis: all waters will be suitable for aquatic life and recreational purposes by 1983, and all pollutant discharges will be eliminated and federal assistance will be provided for publicly owned treatment works by 1985.

The "1973 Survey of Needs for Municipal Wastewater Treatment Facilities" will progress through three channels before actual allotment of funds takes place: submission by municipalities to the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection and submission of survey to EPA by July 20.

County and City Get State Checks

Both Floyd county and the city of Prestonsburg have received checks from the state to begin implementation of a Police Training and Educational Incentive Program.

Gov. Wendell Ford said the county's check, for $415.80, is part of a total of $1,134.00 to be received over the next two years.

Prestonsburg's check, for $2,778.28, is part of a total of $8,280.48 to be received by the city over the next two years.

The program, implemented after negotiation with the Federal Pay Board, will encourage improvement among county and city police officers by increasing salaries 15 percent after in-service and basic training.

Chris Conn will represent the area in the state Talk Meet, July 5-6, at the University of Kentucky.

Nature Trails

By RUFUS M. REED

With food prices high as they are, we should turn our attention more to the best foods from Nature's storehouse and learn more about these and how to obtain them. It would be wise also to learn more about the oldtime homemade foods of our foreparents—what these were and how they were prepared.

Nature abounds with good things to eat, but many of us today have lost the knack of finding and preparing them as our forefathers did. They lived and ate well on foods put up at home by their own skillful hands. One might well ask, Where are the oldtime dried apples, so good for making pies? How many homes of today have a kiln for drying apples? Not many. How many farm homes prepare a barrel or sulphured apples for family use? All too few. How many know how to make homemade hominy, or how to pickle corn, or how to pickle beans and make saurkraut? All of these foods were wholesome and furnish the necessary elements of nutrition.

The oldtime dried apple pies our grandmothers made were simply out of this world! No store-bought pie can begin to compare with one of these heavenly delicacies. Most farm families of other days built their own kiln for drying apples. The kiln was made of stones and clay and it had a fireplace underneath. The top was covered with white clay, all smoothed down clean and neat. On this were placed the sliced apples and a fire was lit in the kiln. After drying, the apples, now as brown as an Indian, were stored away for future use. What our country needs today is to go back to eating homemade apple pie.

Now think of the good things nature prepares in the wild, and all free for the taking. There are the many kinds of nutritious nuts—the beechnuts, good and delicious, rich in protein and minerals; the hickory nuts, the walnuts, the butternuts, all of these healthful and delicious they contain valuable natural oils for lubricating the bowels; they can be gathered in autumn and stored away for winter use.

Then there are the wild sweet crabapples, which make a high grade jelly when mixed with blackberry juice. This jelly has a wildwood tang like no store-bought concoction.

Consider also the hazelnuts, which are the sweetest and best-tasting nuts found in nature's wilds. Some of you may know the hazelnut as "filbert," to the botanist, this fine shrub is known as Corylus Americana; it is a member of the Hazel family, which includes such important trees as the birch, ironwood, alder and hop hornbeam.

Unfortunately the hazelnuts are far too scarce in our region. These shrubs grow in clumps on dry, rocky hillides, in thickets, often along old fence rows and borders of woods. I have often wondered why some enterprising man didn't try growing the hazelnuts on a large scale as a commercial enterprise. The sweet nuts would sell like the proverbial hot cakes at a Kentucky primary election!

The hazelnut shrub grows about 10 feet high and has large, ovate leaves, finely toothed. The nuts are produced in clusters on the ends of the twigs; each nut is covered by two bracts which are fringed at the ends. Peel off these bracts in autumn and you have a round, light-brown nut with a flavor that hits the right spot any old time. Some people say that the chipmunks and squirrels stand guard by the clumps of hazelnuts, ready to grab the nuts when they ripen.

The hazelnut shrub can be propagated and produced commercially. In most any bag of mixed nuts, you will usually find a few hazelnuts thrown in to add zest to the mixture.

The blooms of the hazelnut appear in early spring, before the leaves, and are in the form of catkins, similar to those of the alders and birches, distant relatives.

Junior Honor Student

Thirteen-year-old Joni Lynn Banks, formerly of Garrett, was recently named to the Junior National Honor Society during ceremonies at Buckeye Junior high school, Columbus, Ohio. As in the naming of senior National Honor Society students, selections for the junior group are based on scholastic ability, citizenship and student activities.

The honor student is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Banks, of Columbus, and a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Banks, of Hueysville.

The U. S. Supreme Court has agreed to decide whether or not it is constitutional for school boards to require women teachers to take an unpaid leave of absence at some arbitrary point during pregnancy.

'Outstanding Teacher'

Mrs. Melvin Douglas Elkins, an elementary teacher in Bronson, Michigan, formerly of Garrett, has been named one of America's "Outstanding Elementary Teachers of 1973." Mrs. Elkins is one of a select number of teachers from across the country to be awarded this recognition on the basis of her civic and professional achievements. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Laferty, 209 Grove Street, Sturgis, Michigan, also formerly of Garrett. Mr. Elkins is a teacher at Bronson high school, Bronson, Michigan. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Elkins, of Lackey. Mr. and Mrs. Elkins reside at 755 E. Chicago Rd., Bronson, Michigan.

Forms Graduate Class Here in Public Welfare

Shirley Beard, administrative assistant to the ROPES Region 11 office in Prestonsburg, announced last week that Morehead State University representative, Hubert Crawford, met with area citizens to organize a graduate class in Public Welfare Administration, June 13. Regular classes began Tuesday at 6 p.m. The classes will meet two nights a week, Tuesday and Thursday, from June 13 until August 2. Three hours graduate credit can be earned by persons completing the course.

Class will be held in the ROPES Region 11 office at 552 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg.

May To Have Part In July 2 Reception

The Kentucky Heritage Committee of Western Kentucky University's College of Education will sponsor a reception for 30 well-known Kentucky artists and creative photographers Monday, July 2 at the College of Education.

Russell E. May, of Prestonsburg, will be present to meet the public at 2 p.m. and will informally discuss their works with interested visitors.

The works will be on display in various parts of the University's College of Education Building. The Kentucky Heritage effort held its first display and reception last year and is a result of an idea sponsored by Dr. Tate C. Page, retiring dean of the College of Education.

Maximum Penalty For Threats Given In Federal Court

Eugene E. Siler, Jr., U. S. Attorney for the Eastern District of Kentucky, announced last week that a federal jury at Pikeville deliberated 15 minutes before returning a verdict of guilty against Glenn Baker, of Avawam, Ky., on both counts of an indictment charging the obstruction of justice.

Judge H. David Hermansdorfer sentences Baker to the custody of the Attorney General for a period of five years on each count and imposed a total of $10,000 in fines.

Baker, 38, who owns a trucking business consisting of approximately 25 coal trucks, was found guilty of threatening to dynamite the residence of George E. Johnson, a Hazard police officer, and threatening to shoot Raleigh Riddle, of Jeff, and to dynamite his place of business. Both Johnson and Riddle were to be witnesses in a case pending in the United States District Court against Tommy Kilburn.

The threat to officer Johnson allegedly occurred at the residence of Johnson's father, who testified that he overheard the threats made to his son. The alleged threat to Raleigh Riddle was made by telephone.

A motion to fix bond pending appeal was denied by the court, referring to testimony that Baker had told each of the witnesses that if convicted he could stay out on appeal for two years and that "a lot of things could happen in two years."

John M. Compton, assistant U. S. Attorney who prosecuted the case, said the sentence imposed was the maximum permitted by law.

$29,940 Grant Made To Cerebral Palsy Group at Ashland

Frankfort, Ky.—A grant of $29,940 to United Cerebral Palsy of Eastern Kentucky, Ashland, was among those announced this week by the Kentucky Department of Mental Health.

The grant is for continued development of a comprehensive education and therapeutic program for pre-school exceptional children and their families in Boyd and Greenup counties.

The statewide grants total $393,852 for programs in Kentucky providing services to the mentally retarded, cerebral palsied, epileptic and others having neurological handicaps.

Approved by the Kentucky Planning and Advisory Council for the Developmental Disabilities Services Act (DD-SA), the federal grants provide matching funds for organizations ranging from local associations to state agencies.

Categories of service covered by DDSA include diagnosis, treatment, day care, special living arrangements, sheltered employment, protective and other social and socio-legal services, counseling and transportation.

$6,390,000 In Federal Grants Went for Purposes Locally

Special to The Times

New York, June 16—Compared with other communities across the country, how well has Floyd county been making out under the federal grants-in-aid programs?

Of the $35 billion in grants distributed by Washington in the past year, how much went to the local area?

Judging from a state-by-state analysis made by the Tax Foundation, a non-profit organization that keeps track of public spending and taxation, Floyd county's share was relatively large.

In the course of the fiscal year, an estimated $6,390,000 in grants were earmarked for local purposes.

The total amount allotted to the State of Kentucky as a whole came to $595,000,000, the Tax Foundation reports, based upon figures it obtained from the Treasury Department.

The awards were for such local needs as school construction, health facilities, urban renewal, welfare, job training, vocational education and the like.

On the other side of the ledger is the cost of these benefits. They are paid for out of federal income and excise taxes that are collected from the public at large and allocated to the aid programs. Floyd county's share of the costs, according to a breakdown of the statewide figures, amounted to approximately $4,409,000 in the year.

For the entire state it came to $410,000,000, the report shows. This was exclusive of matching funds.

In some areas the costs exceed the grants and, in others, the reverse is the case. There is no attempt to keep them in balance. The allotments are determined by local needs and requirements rather than on a dollar-for-dollar basis, it is explained.

Under the new budget presented to Congress by the Administration, there will be a change in the way aid will be channeled in the future to states and local communities.

As analyzed by The Conference Board, specific grants will be replaced by "special revenue sharing." About 70 grants will be so affected, it says.

"The net result," it finds, "is that total aid in fiscal 1974 is to be frozen fractionally below the level of the previous year."

Revenue Sharing Allocation Notice

The government of the town of Wayland plans to expend its Revenue Sharing Allocation for the entitlement period, beginning January 1, 1973 and ending June 30, 1973, in the following manner, based upon an estimated total of $1,300.00:

Re-constructing sidewalks $1,300.00.

Mt. Parkway Again Shows Monthly Gain

Frankfort, Ky., June 15—Kentucky's Parkway System showed a gain in revenue of nearly $300,000 for the month of May over collections in May, 1972.

Although this was the first month to reflect the removal of tolls on the Outer Loop and Fern Valley ramps as directed by Governor Wendell H. Ford, the Kentucky Turnpike had the largest increase among these facilities with a gain of $94,368.75 over a year ago.

Collections on the other facilities as compared to a year ago are:

Shawneetown Bridge, $32,471.46, up $915.09; Mountain Parkway and Extension, $175,506.73, up $8,060.82; Western Kentucky Parkway and Extension, $310,973.52, up $14,687.89; Blue Grass Parkway, $191,608.18, up $15,866.51; Jackson Purchase Parkway, $43,219.33, up $2,448.53; Pennyrile Parkway, $163,662.37, up $9,056.39; Sebree Bridge, $4,978.40, up $552.30; Audubon Parkway, $40,721.80, up $14,555.13; and the Daniel Boone Parkway, $22,550.98, up $4,719.40.

The Green River Parkway took in $114,060.08 and the Cumberland Parkway, $20,665.45. The Green River Parkway was opened last December. Twenty-nine miles of the Cumberland Parkway were opened to traffic in February.

Personal Income Of Kentuckians Rose Last Year

Total personal income in the Southeast region rose nearly 10 percent in 1972, compared with an 8 3/4 percent increase nationally, the Bureau of Economic Analysis reports in the Survey of Current Business, its monthly magazine.

Advances in the region ranged from 8 percent in Georgia to 11.25 percent in Tennessee. Kentucky was between these extremes with a gain of almost 9.75 percent.

Kentucky's gain last year was an advance above the U. S. average gain of 8.75 percent. At $11.9 billion, total personal income in Kentucky last year accounted for 1.4 percent of the U. S. total of $932.4 billion and the state ranked 24th in total personal income size. Kentucky ranked 21st among the states in the rate of personal income gain last year.

Gains in Kentucky in manufacturing (up 14 percent in the state and 9 1/2 percent in the nation), mining and farming were greater than were the gains in the nation. Developments in the local service-type industries in Kentucky were mixed: The gains in wholesale and retail trade were sharper than the national gain, but the advances in finance-insurance-real estate group were weaker in the state than in the nation.

At $3,601, per capita income in Kentucky in 1972 was 9 percent above 1971; this advance was stronger than the U. S. average gain of 7.25 percent. Yet per capita income in Kentucky was still 20 percent below the U. S. average of $4,478. Among the 50 states, Kentucky ranked 13th in rate of change in per capita income from 1971-72, but in the level of per capita income, it ranked 43rd.

Total personal income in Kentucky was up 21 1/2 percent—a little more than the national average of 19.25 percent—from the fourth quarter of 1970—the cyclical low point—through fourth quarter of 1972. There were very large gains in the state in manufacturing—up 25 percent in Kentucky, compared with a nationwide advance of 18.75 percent. Strength in the state was noted in both durable and nondurable manufacturing payrolls. On the other hand, the gains in mining and farming about equaled the national average gain and the advance in Kentucky in contract construction was well below average. Among the local service-type industries there was an above national average gain in wholesale and retail trade in Kentucky, the state's gain about equaled the national average in the transportation-communications-public utilities group; and it was below average in the finance-insurance-real estate group, in the service industry and in nonfarm proprietors' income.

Gardening Tips from Extension Specialists at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture

Here in Kentucky, even though there is usually adequate rainfall for most field crops, most growing seasons still have periods when water is a limiting factor in vegetable growth.

According to UK Extension garden specialist C.R. Roberts, vegetables do best when they get about one inch of water each week and, if they don't get this amount throughout the entire growing season, both quality and quantity of vegetables produced may be affected. This is particularly true of the tomato which is especially sensitive to fluctuations in soil moisture levels. Fruit size and quality can be greatly reduced because of inadequate water.

To a greater or lesser degree, the same situation applies to several other vegetable crops. Therefore, to assure a good home garden, provision for an irrigation system of some sort should be made.

Depending on the size of the garden, the system may be no more than a length of perforated garden hose that can be stretched along the lengths of the rows. It could be a series of inexpensive sprinklers, attached to garden hoses and placed at strategic points in the vegetable patches, or a hand sprinkler carried from plant to plant.

This last method of watering, however, is generally the least effective because gardeners seldom apply enough water. If hand irrigation is the method used, Roberts recommends that water be applied at the rate of about 2 1/2 quarts per square foot of ground around the plant.

Frequent light watering encourages shallow rooting and more rapid drying out of the soil, so this type of irrigation could be worse than none at all. Instead, it is recommended that the soil be moistened to a depth of from 5 to 6 inches at each application.

The time for watering is also very important. When hand watering or using a perforated hose, late afternoon or early evening is best. At these periods of the day, the water can soak into the soil with a minimum loss from the sun and drying winds.

When using a sprinkler system that drenches the foliage, irrigation should be done earlier in the day, preferably during the morning hours. Vegetable foliage left wet during the night increases the chances for the development and spread of plant diseases.

When planning to water the garden, keep this in mind: irrigation will not take the place of cultivation. Actually, irrigation without cultivation is seldom successful. Cultivation as soon as possible after watering is desirable because it prevents the soil from baking or crusting and therefore reduces moisture loss from evaporation. It also keeps down the weeds that also enjoy the benefits of the applied water.
