Music Says Pact Should Be Honored P'burg Man Places $108,000 Cost Tag On Chairlift Work

Unless the state honors its contract with Ed Music to build and operate a chair-lift at Cumberland Falls State Park, the Prestonsburg man stands to lose as much as $108,000, he said this week after Governor Ford had cancelled the project.

Mr. Music learned of the cancellation Tuesday morning, last week, and he said the project was approximately 65 percent complete when that word came.

Governor Ford explained that land-use restrictions under the 1972 Wild Rivers law forbids construction of the chairlift. Until a few days prior to the cancellation order, apparently the law had escaped the attention of state officials as well as critics of the project.

Explaining his action, Governor Ford said, "On countless occasions I have said that mistakes can be made by government, but they should be recognized and corrective action should be forthcoming.'

"I operated under a valid contract and in good faith, and I feel that I should be reimbursed for what I have spent and the indebtedness incurred," Music said this week. He said the lift is lying at the site, that it was designed for the terrain at the Falls site and cannot be used elsewhere. The 2945 feet of cable, also on the grounds, has no value, since it cannot be spliced for a longer chair-lift project elsewhere. The heavy cost bill, he added, includes not only these items but also wages of workers in clearing work, the

Only 2202 Vote In Primary Here

Last Tuesday was the Longest Day for a select group of Floyd countians.

It was election day, and those who found time dragging were the election officials in the precincts where there was little to do.

In all precincts only 2202 Democrats and Republicans voted.

As everybody had agreed, well in advance of the voting, Senator Marlow W. Cook won the Republican nomination for U.S. Senator, and Gov. Wendell H. Ford, Democrat, won the right to oppose him in the November finals.

Ford received 1539 votes to 412 cast for his Democratic opponent, Harvey Edw. Brazin. The governor's total included five absentee ballots, the only absentee votes cast in this county.

Cook polled 233 votes. His opponents, E. William Klein and Thurman Jerome Hamin, received 11 and 7 votes, respectively.

No Republican votes were cast in Melvin precinct.

And nobody-not even Governor Ford or Senator Cook-stayed up to listen to the election returns.

Rum-Laden Car Wire Thefts Top Week's Arrests

An automobile confiscated here Saturday by deputies of Sheriff Joe W. Lewis was loaded with 160 pints of whiskey, 47 pints of vodka and 12 quarts of wine, the officers reported. The car, a 1972 Torino, was registered in the name of Harold Joseph, near whose Highland Avenue home it was seized. Joseph was arrested on a possession charge. The search warrant for two cars owned by members of the family was procured by Sheriff Lewis from Magistrate Bill Wells. The raid was made by Deputy Sheriffs Doug Lewis, Green Slone, Linzie Hunt, John D. Martin and Denver Newsome. Darrell Stephens, of Stephens Branch, near Martin, was reported as having been shot in his lower chest last Thursday night by his wife, but it was indicated no action will be taken against Mrs. Stephens. Sheriff Lewis said he was told the couple had had domestic difficulties

JEREMIAD REPEATED

Last Wednesday I was told that the Today Show had reported a massive high canopying Kentucky and Tennessee, so it was with some surprise that we ran into highway crews that night in Virginia and Tennessee clearing the road of tree limbs so that we could get to Norris Lake and decimate the fish population there.

But-ha, ha!-we chortled, this little shower will set us up for clear weather on the morrow. So it was that the five of us sweated it not.

Till the next day. Then we began to surmise, somehow, that the Today Show was either a day behind time or several days ahead as the weather worsened, as the winds whipped us about and the rain chased us to cover.

Three days of the same. All the time we had. Things got to such a pretty pass that one member of the gang was heard suggesting to my own son that maybe they'd better send me home. He followed the hint up with the story that on my one and only visit to the Homosassa River in Florida the wind blew so hard that the tide from the Gulf did not come in that particular day.

Veteran Coach Named Second Aide to Clark

Pete Grigsby, Jr., veteran McDowell High School basketball coach, was employed Saturday by the Floyd County Board of Education as assistant superintendent of Floyd county schools. The board action, taken on recommendation of Supt. of Schools Charles Clark, adds a second assistant superintendent fo the school system's administrative staff. Ray Brackett, of Allen, continues in his present capacity as assistant to Supt. Clark.

Mr. Grigsby will assume his new duties at the conclusion of summer term studies at the University of Kentucky. His contract is for two years, expiring June 30, 1976-which, incidentally, is the expiration date of the contract held by Supt. Clark.

Commenting on the addition of Grigsby to the administrative staff, Clark said:

First National Promotes Ten

Russell Hagewood, president of the First National Bank here, announced several appointments and promotions of bank personnel this week, including the naming of six new vice-presidents.

"We have created several new departments," Hagewood said, "in order to streamline and better serve our customers. "First National Bank is celebrating its 70th year of operation in Floyd county during 1974, and on June 1 we reached an all-time high of $53 million in total assets-an increase of $8.3 million in the past six months alone."

"We are proud of our achievements and of the people who have helped us make them," he said, "and we believe these promotions reflect our continued growth and our desire to further serve our customers and friends through our main bank in Prestonsburg and the Twin Bridges Branch Bank at Martin."

banies which bear the Adams name.

The court action seeks to enjoin representatives and members of the United Steel Workers of America (AFL-CIO) and CLC Local No. 14581 from picketing the premises of any of the five companies, from engaging in a strike in violation of the contract between the union and the companies, and from attempting to persuage others to picket and strike their properties. The suit also asks the court to require defendants to comply with terms of the bargaining agreement. Other firms listed as plaintiffs are the Adams Stone Corp., Adams Ford Co., Inc., Adams Construction Co., and Adams Coal Corporation. More than 40 individuals, in addition to the union, are firms and threatened to picket others.

The suit says the dispute arose on or about May 3 when Arnold W. Stewart, then an employe of Adams Stone Corp. at Burdine, asserted a grievance, claiming he had not been paid proper wages.

Plaintiffs' representatives say they have been called by the Commissioner of Highways for an explanation of the shutdown of Adams operations.

Adams Concrete Products owns readymix plants at Allen, Burdine Whitesburg, Shelbiana, Paintsville and Louisa.

Repair of Prestonsburg streets damaged in the laying of underground telephone lines has been delayed because of failure of Adams ready-mix plants to operate.

Old Tipple Burns But Isn't Mourned; New One in Plans

The fire which late last Wednesday night levelled the old No. 2 tipple formerly used by Princess Coals, near David, was not considered a damaging incident, since it was being dismantled. It was said here that the Royal Coal Co., owned by the Justice brothers, of Pike county, had leased acreage for strip-mining in the David vicinity and has also acquired the old tipple. Determining that the tipple was beyond repair, the company had employed workmen to dismantle it in preparation for construction of a new tipple. Origin of the fire had not been established this week by state detectives. Use of torches in cutting superstructure steel was suggested as a possible cause of the blaze.

Guard Unit in Summer Camp

The superintendent added that during the last school year the Floyd county system ranked in the low 25 per cent of Kentucky counties in the cost of administration per pupil.

David Turner, who played his high school football under Grigsby, will be the new McDowell coach and physical education instructor. Phillip Chaffin was employed as assistant principal, at McDowell.

Mr. Grigsby is a son of Mayor and Mrs. E. P. Grigsby, Sr., of Martin. He is a graduate of Martin High School and the University of Kentucky and has coached at McDowell since 1961.

Another major shift in personnel was made Saturday when David Hensley, principal at Allen Central High School in the first two years of its operation, asked for a change of status. James Oliver Dingus, of Martin, assistant principal at the new school, was named principal, and Adrian Bentley was employed as his assistant.

Oliver Allen was employed as transportation supervisor for the school system, filling the vacancy created by the death of James Salisbury. The post of adult education supervisor which also was held by Mr. Salisbury was not filled. Ned Bush, of Harold, was named health coordinator, a new Minimum Foundation position created by the State Board of Education. He will serve as liaison between the county health department, school nurses and the sanitation department.

Although final approval has not been granted for the McDowell High School construction project, the board of education moved Saturday to be ready for action when the O. K. does arrive. The bond firm of Hinsch and Myer was employed to handle the sale of bonds to finance this work and the addition at the Martin elementary school.

Other board action:

1. Approved the sale of the old Lackey school property to Dr. Ira Potter and Maurice Minix, III, on their high bid of $15,050.

2. Authorized the superintendent to petition the Stae Board of Education to

Other Counties Get Into Coal Boom Act

The coal boom that has helped this area escape most of the economic downdraft felt in other parts of the nation isn't confined to recognized coal counties such as Floyd, Pike and Martin. Counties such as Magoffin and Morgan, where agriculture has been the mainstay, are having their own "coal rush."

Magoffin has a score or more of mining operations going. Morgan county two weeks ago had half a dozen, with 15 to 20 are now believed stabilized, and the industry is believed to be pretty well "fixed" for the next five years.

In West Virginia large industrial conglomerates, including oil companies, are moving into the picture. If a coal gasification plant is located in the Catlettsburg area, as has been suggested, Eastern Kentucky's coal future would be all the brighter.

Bank deposits in this county are at an Munich, Bertchesgaden, Amsterdam, German cities are in the itinerary.

"If I can get to Brussels, I'll try to find the girl who hid me for about three weeks from the Germans," Mr. Allen said this week. The girl was about 16, back then in 1943, and the risks she took included not only harboring Allen but also sheltering her brother, who was a fugitive from German capture.

There are others the Floyd countian would like to see and thank again for their help, but he fears most of these are dead. Next October, he will have an opportunity in this country to meet some of the French Underground. Thirty of its members will be flown to Detroit at that time to meet again with a leader who lives there and who was known to Allen and others only as "Franko."

Prices and Policies On "Gas" Confusing To Dealers, Public

Although the "panic" of a few months ago has subsided, the fuel crisis in Floyd county is still very confusing, with local distributors reporting widely varying price trends and allocation policies.

But Jarvis Allen, Prestonsburg attorney who will be among the 75 or more veterans on tour, saw the land at both levels, for his Flying Fortress, "Frisco Jenny," was shot down over Belgium and for weeks he played a grim game of hideand-seek with the enemy.

Mr. Allen will leave here Saturday. The tour will begin with a celebration at Bassingbourn Air Base, England, where the 91st was based during the war. The old World War II control tower there still stands, and it will be dedicated to the 91st

The rumor presists that Island Creek Coal Company, which has big Martin county coal holdings, will soon begin construction of a major office building on a tract of land which it has purchased near the Combs Airport and that as many as 40 families will move into the Prestonsburg-Paintsville area. The company has declined to tell its plans, and it is not known if personnel from Island Creek's main Lexington office or from the Holden, W. Va. office, or both, would be transferred to this section.

Allied industries-dealers in coal trucks, bulldozers, diesel to run them, explosives and the like-are booming, also. The employment picture is bright, and some Floyd countians who have been working elsewhere are returning.

In January of this year, according to W. J. Reynolds, III, head of the local Employment Service office, 10,400 residents of the county-roughly onethird the total population-was employed. That was 1,200 more than were Anyway, the demand for coal and working during the same month, a year earlier.

> And the number of food stamp recipients in this county dropped in March by 1288 from the same month in 1973.

Marvin Music, distributor of Gulf Oil products in the area, reported that the price per gallon at which gas is sold to local Gulf stations dropped 3.5 cents on May 1, and that an additional 1.3-cent drop became effective Monday.

Standard Oil Distributors at Allen showed no recent changes in gasoline prices and allocation is being made at 100 per cent of 1972's quota-an improved situation over last month's 95 per cent. A spokesman for Ashland products distributor at Paintsville, on the other hand, said that gas prices to stations increased 2 cents, effective Saturday. Gasoline allocation was also reported as being only 80 per cent of the 1972 quota. Distributors were unable to explain the current situation. One summed up the situation, saying, "All we know about it is from what we see on television."

The Prestonsburg Unit of the Kentucky National Guard, Det 1, Co B, 1st Bn, 149th Infantry (Mech) began annual summer camp at Fort Polk, Louisiana May 24 and will return June 9. # Education Need Seen with Bill for Pesticides Frankfort, Ky.-A bill passed by the 1974 General Assembly requiring training and licensing of farmers before they use certain pesticides in Kentucky is expected to require an extensive educational campaign.

enacted to bring Kentucky into compliance with U. S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) regulations. Control of pesticides known to be potentially hazardous to human, animal or aquatic life rests with EPA. The states have until 1976 to assume responsibility for the controls.

Fred Waters, director of the pesticides branch in the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection (administrating agency for the program in Kentucky), said the most pressing problem now is getting farmers to accept the controls.

Many of the pesticides which will Waters noted. "We are not trying to drive probably be placed on the restricted list farmers out of business, but to train them are in widespread use now, and many in the proper uses of pesticides, so that farmers are concerned they will no longer be able to use them to control pest and weed problems, Waters said. He The new pesticide legislation was added, "There are so many rumors flying around that the farmers don't know what to believe."

> Waters said one of the strongest rumors is that all pesticides and herbicides will be banned. Use of pesticides will not be stopped, he said, but individual chemicals will be restricted to certain areas.

> The restrictions are necessary because a chemical that controls tobacco worms without leaving a residue can leave toxic traces when used on a grain, according to Waters.

"Pesticides have been a big boom to farming and increasing crop yields,'

they may obtain the maximum results with a minimum of detrimental effects on the environment.'

Waters currently is developing a state plan for administering and regulating the program. Although scheduled to be in operation by the end of this year, the plan must first be approved by EPA.

Included in the controls will be a list of restricted herbicides and pesticides. The list is now being compiled by EPA and is expected to be released this fall.

Before farmers are allowed to use the restricted pesticides, they will be required to participate in a training session designed to acquaint them with the benefits and drawbacks of the individual compounds.

According to provisions of the new law, unless a farmer or commercial applicator has a state license to use the restricted pesticides, a dealer will not be allowed to sell the chemical to him. As the program is expected to cover a minimum of 30,000 farmers, Waters said the buying restriction may be one of only a few ways of enforcing the program.

Penalties for abuse of the chemicals are severe. Fines may be levied up to $1,000 and a jail sentence of one year may also be imposed.

An added expense for non-compliance could be crop loss. The U.S. Department of Agriculture conducts spot checks of crops such as corn and tobacco for traces of restricted or banned pesticides. The presence of such a chemical can result in rejection of the crop for sale.

"I have worked 20 years in the agriculture field, and I have always found farmers to be reasonable," he said. "They are not only concerned with their interests, but with the best interests of their environment and the people of this country that they feed."

Mrs. James and group travelled to Frankfort upon the request of a representative of the Kentucky Arts Commission who expressed interest in the festival's performers of traditional mountain religious music-especially the modal tunes.

The 3:30 p.m. performance began with a rythmic choir (one of two such groups in the state) under the direction of Mrs. Kathryn Frazier with Miss Rebecca Haywood, featured vocalist. # Crime Lab Smells of Sour Mash As Liquor Fraud Investigated

By HERB BROCK and SUE ANNE SALMON

Frankfort, Ky.-There's a room in the Kentucky State Crime Laboratory that smells like a bar.

But the lingering odor of sour mash doesn't seem to bother the lab's chief chemist Tom Easterling against whose desk is propped a brown grocery bag containing several pints of name-brand whiskeys.

It all started this spring when state Alcoholic Beverage Control (ABC) Inspector Les Cole asked the crime lab to help him determine if some bars in Fayette and Jefferson counties and in Northern Kentucky are refilling namebrand liquor bottles with cheaper substitutes.

Under state law, liquor retailers are required to pour spirits only from the original containers. Failure to comply with that law may lead to penalties ranging from a 30-day suspension to revocation of the retailer's license.

Cole and fellow agents confiscate 12bottle cases of suspect liquor from bars and deliver them to the crime lab. Easterling then tests contents of each bottle for liquor's different constituents, which include alcohol proof, acids, color, solid materials and oils.

Nearly a month's work was required to establish the complicated testing procedures, Easterling said.

"All distilled spirits have slightly different compositions," said the 17-year veteran of crime lab operations.

He said a case can be solved readily if, for example, confiscated liquor which is labelled "100 proof," $7 bottle of whiskey has been refilled with "200 proof," $2 stuff.

Easterling said he gained considerable procedural knowledge from the federal Alcohol and Tobacco Taxation laboratory at Cincinnati where similar tests routinely are performed at the federal crime lab.

In addition to advice, the federal lab also provides Easterling with some profile information on standard brands of whiskey. Still, he keeps a bag of whiskey pints by his desk so he can readily compare visible differences of confiscated samples.

Even though he looks for variances from state and federal standards, he does not "predict the identity of the material with which a bottle has been refilled."

Cole said that the most common citizen complaint which spurs the possibility of ABC investigation is, "The drink I was served didn't taste like what I ordered." Cole dispatches agents to observe suspect bars and taverns. If observation turns up questionable serving practices, the premises officially are inspected and bottles are confiscated.

Cole said that ABC agents will check the condition of bottles, noting any torn labels. They also determine from invoices the amount and type of stock actually purchased by the bar or tavern owner.

Sometimes consumers complain that labels on bottles are switched behind the bar. But most inquiries by ABC primarily concern the illegal pouring of spirits from one bottle to another, Cole said.

According to Cole, ABC investigation teams already have uncovered several bars in Jefferson and Fayette counties which may be in violation.

Eventually, they also will canvass establishments in Franklin, Campbell and Kenton counties.

Possible litigation of investigated cases awaits final test results from the crime lab. Cases will be tried in blocks by counties, with those in Jefferson County to be first on the docket.

The inspector said ABC is cracking down on violators to protect consumers from paying high prices for low quality drinks and to shield wholesalers from"flimflam" operations which force low quality liquor on the market.

15th Region All-Stars Win Annual Basketball Classic

15th Region Squad after Victory

By C. OLLIE ROBINSON The 15th Region won the second annual collected 12 points.

Black Cats Lose Regional, 1 to 0

By C. OLLIE ROBINSON

The Prestonsburg Blackcat baseball team lost a heartbreaker in the regional baseball tournament last week to Bath County by the lowest possible score, of 1-0. Last year, Prestonsburg lost to Rowan county by a one run margin in the championship game of the regional.

Prestonsburg advanced to the semifinals by winning over Phelps, 3 to 2. Sophomore Mike Dixon was the winner as he struck out nine and didn't issue a walk. Roger Shepherd hurled a two-hitter for the Blackcats in the 1 to 0 loss to Bath County. Prestonsburg had four hits, but Bath County's John Snedegar fanned 12, including nine in the last four innings. Snedegar was in trouble early as Prestonsburg left one man on in each of the first three innings. The Blackcats had men on second and third with one out in the third, trailing 1-0, but a suicide squeeze attempt failed and Snedegar worked his way out of trouble.

An outing sponsored last Friday by the McDowell High School athletic department was held at Jenny Wiley State Park. Pictured are a few of the award winners: Front row-Ernie Moore, Tim Lance, Larry Daugherty, Ricky Roberts;

Glenn Heinisch, of the McDowell Daredevils (the McDowell Sparkplug) had a fine night. The little quarterback set up the plays and also racked up a total of 17 points. Johnson Central's versatile player, Neal Burchett, also hit in the double figures as he racked up 15 points.

Breathitt County's Darrell Gross who had a high of 27 points. Eddie Stallard

Being honored by his fellow coaches as well as fans is no new experience for Coach Wallen. Since becoming head coach at Martin County High School in Stuart, Fla., he has been named "Coach of the Year" in his conference five times, and for the district six times. In addition, he has been named "Florida Coach of the Year" twice, and has been selected as South coach in the annual North-South

All-Star game in Florida for two consecutive years.

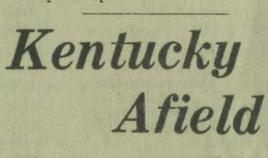

Since he became coach at Martin County, his Tigers have become a legend in Florida basketball. They have won 175 games while dropping only 26; won six consecutive conference championships: four consecutive district and regional champioships; played in the state championship finals four consecutive years, winning, back-to-back state championships the past two years.

While at Wheelwright, Wallen's team won 218 games to 37 lost. In 1961, Wheelwright lost to state champion Ashland in the state semi-finals.

Wallen and other district winners will be honored at the NHSACA ninth annual convention-clinic in New Haven, Conn., where the National Coach of the Year, Basketball will be announced at the National Awards Banquet, June 21.

Three persons died on Kentucky highways this Memorial Day week-end. According to Kentucky State Police Commissioner Ron Johnsn, that's the lowest number of fatalities during that holiday period in 17 years. He attributed the lower number of fatalities to stricter enforcement of the lower speed limits.

Prestonsburg closed out its schedule with a record of 21-6 and the district championship.

The Inconational Game Fish Association, keeper of the lists of worldrecord marine fish, has categories for light lines that test only six and 12 pounds, as well as the much heavier classifications. New knot technology had to be developed to make possible catches of addish, tarpon and marlin on such wisp: materials.

Now you can learn and use these same super connections to add power to your own fishing, because all of us need to get all we can from our lines whether we're trying to keep a largemouth bass from reaching a brush pile or to snub a bonefish before it tangles in the man groves.

1. ant monofilament fishing lines are used not only because they are sporting, but because they help us cast farther and with more accuracy. However, if we are fishing with six-to ten-pound test lines we will wan: to make sure we retain as much line scrength as possible after the knots have been fied. If a certain knot weakens our line by 50 per cent-and some knots now sidely red will do just that-our line strength will be cut in half, and so will our chances of ever landing the fish we are at er. It is not really possible to catch a fish on rod and reel without knowing at least one knot unless you have a friend or guide who is willing to tie the knot for you). You will need a knot to tie the line to the spool of the reel, and another knot at the other end, to tie the line to the hook or artificial lure. If you have plenty of line on your reel, the knot you use at that end is not important because its strength will seldoet if every be tested. # Holiday Traffic Fatalities Lowest in State Since 1957

By SUE ANNE SALMON

Frankfort, Ky.-Three persons were killed in traffic accidents during Memorial Day Week-end, Kentucky's lowest number of highway fatalities in 17 years. Three persons also were killed during the same holiday week-end in 1957.

Last year, eight persons were killed on highways in the state during Memorial Day Week-end-6 p.m. Friday to midnight Monday.

A spokesman for the Department of Transportation said that holiday traffic on all tollways was "lighter than expected." On the Kentucky Turnpike, where holiday traffic usually is the heaviest, toll officials counted 17,000 fewer vehicles than were reported over Memorial Day week-end a year ago.

None of this year's holiday fatalities occurred on interstate highways and only five non-fatal accidents occurred on the state's tollroads. About 200 persons were injured in mishaps on all state roads.

Victor David Dunlap, 24, Lexington, killed Monday in an accident involving another vehicle on U.S. 68 in Jessamine county; Robert Earl Morgan, 26, Payneville, killed Sunday when his car ran off Ky. 144 in Breckinridge county; James R. Thomas, 17, Tollesboro, killed when his car ran off Ky. 10 in Bracken county.

In addition, the Department of Transportation spokesman said an unofficial tally had two water-related deaths over the week-end, compared with three persons one year ago.

Kentucky State Police Commissi ner Ron Johnson attributed the low number of road fatalities to "a combination of slower speeds and strict enforcement of those slower speeds."

All available troopers were patrolling the state's highways during the weekend, Johnson said. Some 300 on-duty state police troopers cited nearly 4,700 motorists from midnight Thursday to midnight Monday. About 250 of those were charged with driving while intoxicated.

"We think volume of traffic is a factor contributing to accidents and fatalities," Johnson said. "State police observations this week-end showed volume this weekend about the same as Memorial Day week-end of 1973."

A spokesman for the Department of Parks said occupancy at state parks was average during the week-end.

"But lots of people away on trips traveled home on Sunday as well as Monday, which spread out the flow of traffic," Johnson said. "Officers reported about the same volume of traffic on both Sunday and Monday afternoons and evenings."

Johnson said that traffic tie-ups at exits and toll booths on interstates, parkways and turnpikes were "temporary and minimal."

He reported lower highway Camp in Floyd Co., through July 6. year as compared with 412 through the School cooking experience preferred. same period of 1973-will continue "as long as we can enforce the 55 mph speed limit, as long as it's a law on the books." "I think we had an exceptional weekend," Johnson said. "I wouldn't have predicted it."

McGill Novel Tells Story of Carter Co.

By HELEN PRICE STACY

The name of John McGill will be familiar to Central Kentucky sports page readers, but if those who follow football and basketball think his novel, "For Which the First Was Made," concerns sports, they are wrong. Wrong, unless they feel an exhilaration in playing and ultimately triumphing in the game of life. McGill, a native of Olive Hill, has written his 230-page first novel about Carter County and its people in an era that leaves time for a sequel.

"A sequel would be nice," says the author, "and I have ideas for a couple more books."

Beginning his newspaper career with The Ashland (Ky.) Independent, McGill presently is sports editor of The Lexington Herald.

He grew up near Carter Caves and the wilderness mansion of aviation pioneer Matthew Sellers. Both figure in authentic history which abounds in the book, but reader interest will center on twins Dave and Johnny Scott, born in Carter County in 1882, the girls they courted and the women they married.

In fictionalizing history McGill does not stray from fact. One of the most interesting chapters tells about the Scott brothers' visit to Fireclay and the storybook house the Sellers family built. Dave and Johnny had been hearing about the "crazy" Matt Sellers who claimed he could fly like a bird and who was building flying contraptions to prove it. They called at the home and were awed by its interior. electrified to provide conveniences unheard of in the neighborhood and gossiped about but unbelieved. After spending the night, the boys watched as. Sellers sat in his airplane ready to fly over an Eastern Kentucky field, with his friend and aide Link Binion working the propeller.

McGill describes the good life of youngsters growing up in the beautiful hills, the hard life of farm men and women, and fear and distrust of Regulators.

Many nearby counties and towns are included in the book published by Qualls, Hood & Co. It is available at Kentucky's state resort parks.

Nobody really knows how perilously close to extinction the American bison came. Some researchers believe there may have been as few as 50 buffalo in the United Stats and perhaps 200 in Canada at the turn of the century. Today the U.S. herd stands at 25,000 animals and in increasing by 5000 animals a year. Projections of the National Buffalo Association predict that buffalo meat will once more become a staple in Americans' diets. buffalo are far better foragers than cattle are and can take care of themselves even during the most severe winters. I want to take this opportunity to thank my many friends for their prayers, telephone calls to my family, who sent cards, wrote notes and letters, and sent flowers and plants to me while I was in the Central Baptist Hospital at Lexington, Kentucky and the St. Thomas Hospital at Nashville, Tennessee. Many of you who have called, come by, or seen me since my return home; said you, were suprised because it was so sudden-well, don't feel badly, because I assure you my having to have open heart surgery and have four arteries transplanted was a supprise to me also. I appreciate your concern more than mere words from me could tell you-so from the very bottom of my sore heart I say thank you, and just ask that you keep praying for my whole and complete recovery. # Woodsbend Boys Respond to Need

By R. G. ROLLINS

West Liberty, Ky.,-"Dig deep boys, their need is greater than ours". With this call from Chaplain Joe McFarland, the residents of Woodsbend Boys' Camp designated a $50 church collection to be used for the Campbellsburg Disaster Fund.

In a letter to the residents of the camp, Commissioner Jerry B. Hissong of the Department for Human Resources' Bureau for Social Services wrote, "Your donation is evidence of the fact that you are concerned for others to the point that you can act in a positive tangible way to meet their needs. Your efforts in behalf of others are appreciated by them as well as by the Department for Human Resources.

This spirit of concern and act of unselfishness is not an isolated incident. In numerous instances the boys, 15-18 years old, from all parts of the Commonwealth, have, when the call has come, volunteered their time and services to numerous civic projects. The recent removal of the last remaining split-log one room school house in Morgan County is a prime example.

Built around 1900, at the head of Paint Creek, near Crockett, "Split Log," a 24 x 36 foot building, was skillfully disassembled and carted to land owned by the U. S. Corps of Engineers. This land, on Riverside Drive, West Liberty, will be deeded over to the city and turned into a park and recreation area. The old Split-Log school will be reconstructed. with a roofing of new shingles, already rived by the Woodsbend volunteers. It will serve as a museum housing mementoes of West Liberty's proud past and evidences of its optimistic future.

Woodsbend Superintendent John Karman expresses pride in his boys, "The condition of the heart is expressed in the actions of the hand and in my opinion, these boys are all heart."

Official Discusses Disaster Payments

Producers in Floyd county are checking thoroughly into the disaster payment provisions of the 1974 feed grain, program administered by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS).

"We want to do all we can to explain how producers become eligible for prevented planting and low yield payments," said Sharon Conley, Executive Director of the Floyd County ASCS Office. Prevented planting means that the farmer is unable to plant because a severe natural disater striking at planting time prevented him from planting. Low yield is when a disaster seriously affects the potential yield of a crop after planting.

In the case of feed grains, if the producer is prevented by a disaster from planting an acreage of annual nonconserving crop at least equal to the sum of his feed grain allotments, he may qualify for a prevented planting payment.

Low yield payments apply only to program crops of corn, grain sorghum, and barley that have been planted, and a natural disaster such as hail, excessive rainfall, extended drought, or flood totally destroys the crop or reduces the potential yield substantially below normal.

Mrs. Conley emphasized that if a disaster prevents a farmer from planting his crop acreages or severely damages a planted program crop acreage after planting, he should immediately report it to the ASCS office. Participation in these programs is open to all farmers regardless of race, color, creed, sex or national origin, and an intention to participate must be filed by July 15 to be accepted.

M/Sgt. Castle Member

Award Winning AF Wing

MERCED, Calif.-Chief Master Sergeant Frankie O. Castle, son of Mrs. Fred Castle, of Price, is a member of the 93rd Bombardment Wind that has won the Strategic Air Command's (SAC) Charles D. Trail Logistics Award. Sergeant Castle is a metal working superintendent at Castle AFB, Calif., with the 93rd which earned the command honor for sustained excellence in transportation, supply, procurement, logistics plans and maintenance functions.

AFDC, she must register for WIN," said Bill Eddins of the Bureau for Manpower Services. "The main idea is to get jobs for people who are receiving AFDC payments.'

Many WIN participants are trained and placed in nursing, secretarial and other careers. The Kentucky Department for Human Resources, using 90 per cent federal funds, purchases training and educational services from colleges and businesses for WIN participants. Transportation and child care costs are provided during the training.

"If it hadn't been for WIN I wouldn't be where I am now. You can look forward to working, getting off welfare, being independent and having a better outlook on life," sayd Doris Jean Shephard. Through WIN, Doris was placed as a secretary for Big Brothers and Sisters of Frankfort. She has three children, now earns $400 a month and is no longer dependent on welfare.

"We have an accumulative placement figure of 3,000 persons so far this fiscal year," said Eddins. Since the beginning of WIN in 1968, some 20,000 women have received training and there have been more than 7,000 job placements. Currently, 2,500 women are in the training program.

"WIN does one very basic thing which is to create a break in the welfare cycle. The full impact will probably not be felt in this generation," Eddins said. "The children will see their mothers get up and go to a job or training. It changes the atmosphere in the home and sets a pattern for the children to follow."

One of the biggest problems facing WIN participants is the misconception an empioyer has of the welfare recipient, Eddins said. Often they are considered unskilled or poorly motivated.

As an incentive to help overcome employer reluctance, employers can receive a 20 per cent tax credit on WIN workers's salaries. During the training period, WIN pays up to 100 per cent of the trainees' salaries.

the fall, several changes will be made in their operating procedures due to bills passed by the 1974 General Assembly.

The most widely known education bill involves girls basketball. Each secondary school that has a boys basketball team (other than intramural) must also have a girls team. Any school district which does not comply may be prohibited from participation in varsity competition for one year.

Local boards of education are permitted to adopt a code of student rights and responsibilities following recommendations made by a committee of students, faculty, parents, school district administrative personnel and a local school board member.

The bill states that some of the areas in which the rights of students may be defined included: freedom of expression, participation in decision-making procedures that directly affect students, procedural due process concerning major disciplinary action, freedom from abuse and threat of abuse by members of school faculties and administrative personnel, and access by a student to his or her own records.

Responsibilities of students include: refraining from activity which disrupts the educational process or presents a danger to the health and safety of persons or property or infringes on the rights of others.

Three bills were passed pertaining to exceptional children. One deletes intellectually gifted and functionally retarded children from statutes pertaining to exceptional children, but adds visually impaired, hearing impaired and multiple handicapped categories. Two others made provisions for the education of exceptional children. If they are unable to attend school, they must be provided with home, hospital or institutional instruction.

In civil or criminal court proceedings, communications between students and their school guidance counselors will be considered privileged information unless the student gives his permission for the information to be disclosed. If the student is under 18, both his consent and that of his parent or guardian is required.

Three school districts will be chosen by the state Board of Education to begin experimental year-round school programs this fall. Later the three programs will be evaluated carefully by the state Superintendent of Public Instruction who will recommend to the governor and the Legislative Research Commission whether they should be Upward Bound program will begin June 10 and run for eight weeks. # New UMWA Policy Allows Contest of Benefit Fund Denials

Workers of America (UMWA) Welfare and Retirement Fund is establishing an official process by which Fund beneficiaries can appeal the denial, termination or suspension of their benefits, the Fund's board of trustees announced recently.

As of June 1, any Fund beneficiary who feels a Fund action has been unfair will have the right to request a hearing. The request must be made within 90 days of the date of notification of denial, suspension or termination. If the Fund action occurred prior to June 1, 1974, the beneficiary has until December 31, 1974, to request a hearing.

"Since this is a new procedure," said Martin B. Danziger, the Fund's director, "it will generate a tremendous workload for the Fund and there could be delays. We will try to stay current with today's cases but, with yesterday's, we are playing catch-up with 28 years of the failure to do this and it will take time."

Any beneficiary who does not understand a Fund decision may want to first contact the Fund Regional Office in his or her area. A Fund representative will explain how and why the decision was made. If the beneficiary feels this explanation is not satisfactory, he or she should then request a hearing by completing a special form available from the Regional Office or by sending a letter to the Fund director, Mr. Danziger.

Any correspondence with the Fund should include name, address, telephone number, Social Security number, the type of benefit denied, suspended or halted and any evidence the beneficiary may have available.

Beneficiaries should be aware that only one hearing will be held.

Hearings will be conducted as soon as possible after the Fund receives the initial request. Hearing sites will be chosen to limit the amount of travel necessary for the beneficiary and special arrangements will be made for any beneficiaries physically unable to travel. There will be no charge for a hearing but the beneficiary is responsible for his or her own travel expenses.

WASHINGTON .- The United Mine or old-and have full access to all materials, including investigative reports, in the Fund's file on him.

> The hearing examiner, who will make his decision solely on the case file, the evidence and testimony presented at the hearing, will, in most cases, given his opinion as to whether the appeal will be denied or approved.

> Shortly after the hearing, the beneficiary will receive written notification from the Fund as to the final decision in the case. If the original denial is upheld, the beneficiary must take the matter to the courts if he still disagrees. The hearing is the Fund's final action in the matter.

> However, if the original decision is reversed by the hearing, the beneficiary will receive retroactive payments to the date of eligibility.

> If the case involved the cancellation of a Health Services Card, medical bills will be paid retroactively to the eligibility date.

Mr. Danziger termed the Fund's new appeals process, "another step in our efforts to make the Fund more responsive to its beneficiaries."

The Fund now provides health services and pension benefits to more than 121,000 active miners, 78,000-plus retired miners, almost 8,000 widows of miners and close to 370,000 dependents.

The three trustees of the Fund, all attorneys, are Harry Huge, chairman and the UMWA's designate; C. W. Davis, a mine industry consultant and the coal operators' designate, and Paul Dean, the "neutral" trustee and professor of law at Georgetown University in Washington.

The following were invested: Novella B. Froman, leader, Tine Ritchie, Sarita Bentley, Lynn Collins, Lora Mustard, Kim Tackett, Stephanie Green, Kim Wiley, Melissa Martin, Sherri Ward, Lisa Ward, Debra Elkins and Linda Cordial. Following the ceremony, members of the troop served refreshments to friends and relatives who attended. The Junior Troop welcomes the Wayland Methodist Church as its sponsor.

Anyone in the Wayland vicinity who is interested in becoming a Cadette leader (girls, grades 7, 8, 9) is asked to call 358-4581 or 874-2844.

recovering at Our Lady of the Way Hospital, Martin. Alleged theft of copper wire from the C. & O. Railway Co. resulted in the arrest last week of four men. Sheriff Lewis and C. &. O. Detective Frank Johnson jailed Milford Blackburn, of David, on a charge of knowingly receiving stolen property. After 580 pounds of the wire was reported missing, three Pikeville men, Roscoe Cavins, Jr., Charles Frederick Davis, Jr., and Robert Eugene Mink, were booked by Deputy Sheriff Green Slone and Detective Johnson on a charge of knowingly receiving stolen property. Warrants were issued for two juveniles who allegedly stole a truck loaded with 300 pounds of copper wire. Three men arrested Sunday on Cow Creek by Deputy Sheriffs Lewis, Hunt and Hamilton were charged with marijuana possession. They are Charles Gordon Frye, of Martin, Daniel Ray Willis and George Marlin Eagle, of Pikeville. The officers confiscated three pouches of marijuana, a pipe, ap-, proximately a half-gallon of rum and part of a bottle of wine.

Prestonsburg Policeman Ralph Thornsbury reported the arrest, early last week, of Billy Robinson, of Pike county, and Prince and Orville Waller, of Johnson county, who, he said, were operating a truck loaded with between 1500 and 2000 pounds of copper wire said to have been taken from the Hunt Coal Company in Pike county. All were charged with grand larceny, and Robinson, who was listed as the driver of the truck, was also booked on an escaping custody count.

Police Judge Thomas Laferty placed Robinson and the Wallers under $2000 bond each to answer to grand jury action.

We stuck it out. Norris Lake was never more beautiful, and Orville Rice, the former Garrett man who is manager of Alder Springs Boat Dock for his brotherin-law, Mr. Fields, of Hindman, did all any man could do to smooth the furrowed brows-but, in a word, and this is what I've been stalling about saying, all along. we didn't even manage to lose a big'un. #### GARDENING REPORT

Having resisted the temptation to lie about the fishing trip, I refer the readers (reader?) of this column to Mr. John Milton Stumbo who tells of his success growing cabbages. He declares that since he used ammonium nitrate on those cabbage which he is growing in High Bank Holler the neighbors have been complaining. They say-he says-that those cabbage are growing so fast that they split open and the noise keeps them awake, nights.

THE GREAT DIVIDE

Sherrill Frazier was in from Martin today, and he and I jointly lamented the lack of hair between our ears, reading from left to right. He pointed out, however, that there was a time when we both had black, wavy hair. Then, on a more sober note, remarked that now we each have two hairs that wave at each other.

Who said, a fisherman waits for a bite with baited breath?

A Matter of Honor Duels Now Obsolete took his turn. If he had tried to escape the tleman" unlocked a mahogany case sheltering his prized pistols if his honor was questioned. An early General Assembly imposed a fine on the act and prohibited participants from holding public office for seven years, but several incidents occurred throughout Kentucky before dueling gradually subsided.

Many involved men who survived as victors or escaped serious harm to later become famous political figures.

One of the most well-known duels was that in 1801 between John Rowan, owner of Bardstown's "Federal Hill" (My Old Kentucky Home), and James Chambers, a popular Nelson County physician. The two had been good friends.

In fact, they were drinking and playing cards in a local tavern until Chambers began to lose heavily. Tempers flared and each began claiming his superiority in knowledge of the classical languages. The agrument lead to them denouncing the other as a liar and coward.

Sobriety returned soon after the fracas, but Chambers felt that his honor was at stake and promptly issued a challenge. The two masters of dead languages faced each other a few days later in the early morning at a nearby farm.

Each missed his opponent at the first firing and could then have halted the confrontation, but both refused and demanded a second firing. Chambers was wounded and died the next morning. Rumors spread along with news of the duel, and some citizens said Rowan had not behaved according to the rules. Although witnesses agreed that everyone had followed the code, a mob stormed Federal Hill.

Jackson's adversary was Charles Dickinson, reputed to be the best pistol sharp-shooter in Tennessee. Spurred on by Jackson's policital enemies, the duel resulted from disparaging remarks about his wife and a squabble over a horse race between thoroughbreds owned by Jackson and Dickinson's father-in-law. Jackson, in his early 40s, realized that he couldn't possibly hit Dickinson first so he decided to wait until the sharpshooter fired, believing that he could aim accurately enough to down his 25-year-old opponent although he, himself, might be critically wounded. With that decision made, "Old Hickory" faced Dickinson at Harrison's Mills on Red River in Logan County, May 30, 1806. The younger man indeed fired first, but Jackson remained upright, never revealing that he had been badly wounded. Thinking that he had missed, Dickinson was so startled that he stumbled from his assigned spot until a second warned him to stand still while Jackson

By MARVA GAY

Frankfort, Ky.-Reversing a trend, total benefits awarded for claims filed with the state Workmen's Compensation Board dropped during the first four months of 1974, the board announced. From January through April 1974, the board awarded $9 million in benefits compared with $11 million for a fourmonth period last year. Benefits jumped from $9 million in 1969 to $11.5 million in 1970, $27 million in 1971, $30 million in 1972 and $34 million in 1973.

According to Earl Cornett, assistant director of workmen's compensation in the Kentucky Department of Labor, less money has been awarded this year because fewer persons have filed claims. The average number of claims filed each month has dropped from 280 in 1973 to 240 this year.

And, said Cornett, the drop is due to a decline in black lung claims. Of the more than 1,000 claims filed this year, less than half were black lung cases. The reverse had been true for several years.

"Black lung was first placed under a federal workmen's compensation law in 1969," Cornett said. "Applicants for benefits under the federal law must file claims with the state Workmen's Compensation Board. Although Kentucky had been processing black lung cases for about 15 years, many persons were not aware they could receive benefits until the federal law was passed. That's why we've have so many black lung cases during the past few years."

Cornett said the decline in black lung cases indicates the backlog has been depleted and the number of black lung claims is leveling off.

When the number of black lung claims drops, the amount of benefits awarded by the board falls markedly. Cornett explained, "Injury cases are usually not as costly as black lung cases. Black lung is usually declared a permanent total disability. An injury may be a permanent partial disability, so the benefits awarded would be less than those awarded a black lung case."

While the number of black lung claims has decreased, the injury cases have increased.

directions for using these insecticides. Other advice about ticks Mr. Goble offers Floyd Countians includes these points:

1. First avoid areas which have a lot of ticks. Before camping or picnicking in an area, it's a good idea to pull a piece of white flannel cloth through the grass and bushes and then examine it for ticks. If they're there, some of them will have hopped onto the cloth.

2. Keep grass and plants cut back along paths and roads. This will lessen the possibility that a tick will climb from bush to you.

3. Use one of the tick repellants which are on the market. They'll discourage ticks from getting on both the family and the family dog. Often the dog brings ticks into the house, and these ticks can infest the house.

4. If you're going to be out in tick areas, wear high shoes, boots or leggings and luck your trousers legs tightly inside the boots.

5. On returning from the tick area, strip and examine your body carefully for ticks. An adult should examine a small child. Pay close attention to the armpits, nape of the neck and head, crotch and groin areas. (Ticks usually need a little time to attach themselves firmly, and several hours before they will infect somebody.)

6. Hang up field clothes outside when you return home-any ticks still on the clothes will eventually drop off.

If you do find a tick on either a person or the dog, remove it with a pair of tweezers or a piece of paper or cotton held between the fingers. DON'T use your bare hands. The tick bite area should be washed with soap and water and treated with a good antiseptic (iodine, methiolate or alcohol).

Fortunately, most ticks aren't infected and even if they are they usually must feed for at least two hours and usually four or six hours before they will infect man. But the tick that bites you might be that one-in-a-hundred that does carry Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever or Tularemia.

Don't take chances with a tick. If you do become sick after being bitten by a tick, see your doctor.

will conduct a glaucoma clinic Friday, June 7, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Since finding the disease and getting proper treatment can control glaucoma and prevent needless blindness, the health nurses urge all persons over age 35 to take advantage of this service.

All dogs and cats should be vaccinated against rabies, a disease which always means death to the animal or human who comes down with it. According to health department records, most of the dogs in Floyd county have not been vaccinated against rabies. Vaccinating pets will protect them and humans against this terrible disease.

The health department will be conducting a rabies clinic from June 17 to June 20. Distemper and Hepatitis shots will also be available. The clinic schedule giving the place, date and time of each clinic will appear in next week's issue of the Floyd County Times.

Perkins Bills Aimed at Getting Coal Conversion Under Way

been introduced by Rep. Carl D. Perkins of Kentucky, to establish a commercial coal liquefaction and coal gasification industry.

Rep. Perkins introduced the legislation to insure that coal liquefaction and coal gasification-on a commercial scalegets going "as rapidly as possible."

Earlier, the Kentucky Congressman introduced other legislation aiming to expand the use of coal, and to develop a conversion industry. One of the bills introduced earlier, called the "Energy Self-Sufficiéncy Act of 1974", includes a provision which would help solve the coal car shortage now being experienced by railroads.

That provision would help railroads build the necessary cars and equipment to make sure that coal is moved where it is needed in the country.

Perkins said he introduced the new legislation "because it is absolutely essential that we have a law setting up a Mineral Gasification and Liquefaction Administration, with the authority to see to it that the plants are built.'

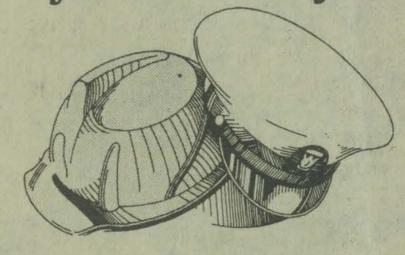

That administration would be able to assist private industry to develop and operate commercial facilities for liquefaction and gasification, he said.

"I would certainly want to see some of these plants in Eastern Kentucky, where we have so much coal, as well as good water supplies," he said. "But locating them in Eastern Kentucky would not only mean a lot to coal counties-it would mean a good supply of fuel to all of Kentucky, and therefore help to hold down prices," Perkins said.

The agency which the law would set up could make loans so that the liquefaction and gasification plants are properly financed, and also agree on price and purchase conditions for the products, so there is a reasonable profit, he explained. "We went through enough problems

Washington-Two major bills have when the oil embargo was on, and I want this country to be self-sufficient, so we do not have to go through anything like those shortages again," he said. "They way to do it is by taking advantage of the tremendous energy resources we have underground.'

State police dispatchers, after taking reports on runaways, develop descriptions of the missing juveniles and send them to all law enforcement agencies in Kentucky and nearby states.

> "We need that warrant to hold a runaway, otherwise our hands are completely tied," said Col. James Mayes, field commander of the state police.

A recent survey of three state police posts which annually receive large numbers of reports on runaways indicates this spring's total should at least equal the numbers reported in years past.

Joe Nation, chief dispatcher at the Frankfort post, said 27 runaways already have been reported since Jan. 1. Of those, 80 per cent departed during the last six weeks. However, only one still is unaccounted for.

Besides LINK, the "best machinery" to track down runaways is coordinated communications between families of runaways, police and juvenile authorities, Mayes said. Police will attempt to locate runaways primarily because they want to reduce the potential for kidnapping and other forms of foul play, he said.

Mayes urged parents of runaways to notify state police the minute their son or daughter turns up. Many parents will delay the whole legal process of recovery or force police to contine searching by failing to inform all agencies involved in the search.

Among opinions released this week from the office of Atty. Gen. Ed W. Hancock were the following:

In response to a question asked by Hon. C. Allen Muncy, Leslie County judge, Atty. Gen. Ed W. Hancock said that no person may be a state officer of a member of the General Assembly while holding a position as an officer of any county, city or municipality, or an employe thereof.

In response to a question asked by Ray Corns, Department of Education, Frankfort, Assistant Atty. Gen. Carl Miller said that although Kentucky statutes require all school administrators and teachers to be certified, the certification of other school personnel is vested in the state Board of Education. Miller added that without being certified teachers may not become members of the Kentucky Teacher's Retirement System.

In response to a question asked by Dr. William W. runaways are 15- and 16-year-old white girls from middle-class homes. Most, he said, leave home during the first months after school ends. Florida or California seem to be the most popular destinations.

"These youngsters choose to run away because, in most cases, they feel their parents have placed stiff restrictions on them. It's a form of adolescent rebellion which seems to be increasing," he said. Problems confronting newly departed runaways primarily stem from the fact that they leave town penniless or almost so. Runaways then resort to shoplifting, dope peddling or panhandling to get by, activities which explain why more than half of all runaways are nabbed by police for crimes, the counselor said.

Runaways are a problem needing more public attention, not just the attention routinely paid by police and juvenile court authorities, he added.

"None of us, the 'establishment,' should pamper runaways into thinking that running away is the solution of their problems.'

Coal. It is critical to nuclear energy!

America's nuclear reactors can't use natural uranium ore. It must be refined, purified, enriched. That's done in a diffusion plant. There are just three diffusion plants in the United States, all under the control of the Atomic Energy Commission.

The operation of the diffusion plants requires huge quantities of electricity. And nearly all of that electricity is generated by burning middle western and border states coal.

So . . . coal is needed . . . to generate the electricity to run the diffusion plant to enrich the uranium to use in the reactor

Block the burning of coal by unrealistic environmental standards flowing from the Clean Air Act and you deliver a devastating blow to the capacity of this country's diffusion plants.

There is no desire or need to cripple, destroy or kill the Clean Air Act. There is, however, a need to update the Act to reflect the practical levels dictated by today's technology.

There is one other need. The need to release the enormous reserves of low-sulfur coal the U.S. Government owns in the West.

Release it and you eliminate coal-burning pollution control problems and assure sufficient generation to generate nuclear energy.

It's that simple and that critical.

The role of nuclear energy is important to many sections of our country. Take the New England area for example.

There are six nuclear energy plants in operation in Maine, Vermont, Connecticut and Massachusetts. They have a capacity of more than 4 million kilowatts. That's 20% of New England's generating capability. They need enriched uranium from diffusion plants.

year "locusts," called cicadas. You'll see their empty hulls clinging with catlike claws to trees and shrubs, but the locust has split the hull down the back and emerged a glorious new creature, newly risen from the tomb of earth. Now they're weird, monotonous chant drowns out all other sounds; even the singing of the birds is squashed. But a lot of birds get even by devouring their songfest competitors.

An aura of mystery cloaked with superstitious fear surrounds these strange insects. Let's consider some of these:

Their scientific name is: Magi-Cicada-septendecom-17 years underground! 7 or 17 are magic numbers,

Tax on Intangibles Exceeds $13 Million

By CHARLES WILLIAMS

Frankfort, Ky.-The Department of Revenue received more than $13 million in intangible property taxes last year.

An additional $600,000 in tax, interest and penalties was collected by the department's intangible tax unit.

The tax, which includes assessments on stocks, bonds, notes, accounts receivable, contracts on sale of real estate, money in hand and deposits outside Kentucky, is one of which many Kentuckians are unaware.

Bradley Nease, supervisor of the state assessment section of the Department of Revenue, says that "individuals who prepare their own tax returns without professional guidance and those moving into Kentucky from a state which doesn't have such a tax probably would not know about it."

Owners of intangible property should list that property with the property value administrator (PVA) in the county where he resides. The PVA submits the tax schedules to the omitted intangible unit. The omitted intangible unit later reviews income and inheritance tax returns and corporate balance sheets to determine if the individuals or corporation owns intangible property. If interest or dividend income is reported on tax forms and no intangible schedule is submitted, the department sends a letter to the individuals asking for an explanation. If it is determined that a person has omitted his intangible property and he voluntarily lists his intangible property upon notification by the department he faces a 10 per cent penalty. If he doesn't voluntarily list his intangibles, he faces a 20 per cent penalty. Thos who have omitted their intangibles also must pay interest of onehalf of one per cent per month on the tax, starting one year from the assessment date.

This is the coming-out year for the 17- aren't they? The prefix, Magi, comes from the Latin, Magus, which connotes wizardry, enchantment-literally, a wise person. The song is the most enchanting one heard in all nature. It starts with a soft, seductive strain, bellike intone, and is prolonged into a monotonous singsong of PHA-a-OH! with the stress on OH.

> There is an elusive quality about the song, a sort of ventriloquistic effort. The singer often seems close by when he (the males do the singing) is really far off. The reverse is also true. But when tens of thousands are singing all at once, it is a monotonous, bell-like roar. It is the most enticing love song heard in the wilds. While the males seemingly chant the name of "Pharoah," the females respond with a staccato cry of "Egypt, Egypt!" So these must be the "locusts" that plagued that old king when he reneged on his promise to let the Children of Israel go. Or so say the oldtimers, some of whom have seen 5 "locust years."

But the killjoy scientists pooh-pooh this version of the insects and tell us they are cicadas, no relation to "locusts." But Webster's New World Dictionary says, "A cicada is a species of locust."

So one might well ask, How can you account for the theme of their song, which must have grievously plagued the old king? I can well imagine he called up his soothsayers and on a note of hysteria stormed out, "These blamed things are driving me nuts. Get rid of them or off come your heads!"

Now look on the gauzy wings of these enchanters and you'll see three capital W's on each. These signify WANT, WOE, WAR! I've heard oldtimers swear by that! Disasters untold follow in the wake of these weird insects, they swear. Perhaps they presage the impeachment of the President!

Now look at their bulging eyes, red as blood! Bloody red eyes, a steely blueblack body, wings like the finest gauze lettered with W's . . . now you have the enchanters!

I've had a number of phone calls about them. "Can they sting people?" "Do they lay their eggs on ripe mulberries or raspberries?" "Is it dangerous to eat berries during the year of the locusts?"

No! This is based on superstitious fear. The females couldn't lay eggs on any kind of berry! They lay their eggs in the limbs of trees, mostly hardwoods like oak and hickory. The egglayers have razor blades in their ovipositors for use in splitting a tree limb. They make a slit in which they deposit their eggs. The limbs may die or soon be broken off by the wind. The eggs hatch out nymphs, which drop to the earth and burrow. They are blind as bats, as there is a skim over the bulging eyes. They look somewhat like a goggle-eyed, oversize bee. They have digger claws like a mole for tunneling in hard earth.

Just think! 17 years living blindly in tunnels, then to emerge as an adult, which lives a week or so. Contrary to statements recently published in papers, these adults do not eat anything. They have no mouth parts for biting or chewing. They are too busy singing and making love to eat. But is not a few days in the sun making love and singing ample payment for spending 17 years in dark underground tombs?

A lady phoned me and said, "My lawn is swarming with these skeery-looking things! How can I get rid of them?"

"Call up the guineas, turkeys, chickens, cats, dogs. All these like cicada meat."

Indeed, birds, foxes, skunks, poultry, grouse live sumptuously on these insects as long as the supply lasts.

Don't be afraid to pick and can your berries this year! They are perfectly safe from cicada eggs.

Once I heard an oldtime preacher use these cicadas as a symbol of man's resurrection from the tomb of earth. From a dull, drab, seemingly lifeless creature, the locusts burst their hulls (a symbol of the grave) and emerge as a glorified creature, to join in a mighty chorus that swirls from earth to heaven!

Intangible property held by a broker should be listed by the owner unless the property is held in a marginal account. If the individual buys stock on margin the broker will pay the tax and bill the individual.

Deposits in out-of-state institutions and out-of-state mortgages that are owned by Kentucky residents also must be listed. However, tax on deposits in Kentucky institutions will be paid by the respective institutions.

Paul Tanner, assistant director of the research staff in the Department of Revenue, says that the intangible property tax was part of the old general property rate and subject to the same rate.

"As stock buying became more common it was realized that people were not paying intangible taxes. In 1917 classified property was initiated and subject to state tax only at the rate of 50 cents per $100 of assessed valuation. In 1947 the rate was reduced to the present rate of 25 cents per $100 of assessed valuation."

Boone Day Fete Set At Boonesborough

Frankfort, Ky.-On June 7, some 205 years ago "after a long and fatiguing journey through a mountainous wilderness," Daniel Boone caught his first glimpse of "the beautiful level of Kentucky."

Each year in celebration of this event, members and friends of the Kentucky Historical Society come from all parts of the state, usually to the Old Capitol in Frankfort. This June, because the restoration of the Old Capitol is underway, the Boone Day celebration will take place instead at Boonesborough. Festivities, which are open to the public, begin at 10:00 a.m. with a concert by the Wilderness Road Singers, part of the cast of Berea's outdoor musical drama about Civil War Kentucky.

Dr. Thomas D. Clark, widely known editor and historian, now Professor of History at Eastern Kentucky University, will speak along with Ewart Johnson, commissioner of the Kentucky Department of Parks.
