School Bd. Voids Pact On Building Bonding Firm Told It Must Complete Betsy Layne Work

The Floyd County Board of Education last Saturday cancelled the contract of the Daniel Engineering and Construction Co., of Versailles, to build a multipurpose building on the Betsy Layne school campus and notified the contractor's bonding company, U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co., to have the work completed.

Superintendent of Schools Charles Clark said the board action followed a long delay in the construction schedule on the lunchroom-classroom-library structure there on which a contract was awarded to the Versailles firm Nov. 15, 1972. The contract provided for completion of the work in 180 working days. The job is still incomplete and no work has been done at the site in the last sixteen weeks, Clark said.

The board notified the bonding company that the building must be ready for the August opening of the new school term, and U. S. Fidelity has said that will be done.

WELCOME TO THE CLUB, DOC

I have been accused of publishing a birth announcement which had been lost so long on this desk of mine that the "newcomer" was old enough to criticize the punctuation. Now, Dr. Joe T. Hyden, of Martin, turns up as a strong rival for honors (?) in the Lost-and-Found Department.

Last Wednesday afternoon, while prowling around in desk drawers, he discovered what appeared to be a Kentucky Colonel's commission. A closer look confirmed that suspicion. It also shocked him. The commission had been issued during the administration of Governor Combs, dated Nov. 13, 1963, and had been given him to present to Mrs. Winnie F. Johns, of Prestonsburg.

If Dr. Hyden and I had been entrusted with the Message to Garcia, wonder what would have happened?

THE 'QUARE PEOPLE'

The Mennonites have by some been called "quare people," the men with their flowing beards, the women in their long dresses and bonnets.

After the town of Stamping Ground, Ky. was almost wiped from the earth by a tornado last month, more than a hundred of these people came from all parts of the United States and some from Canada to work without thought of pay in the rebuilding of the homes of others

Signs Pact for Sewage Project

Prestonsburg Mayor William O. Goebel, Jr. is shown signing the contract for construction of the city's $1,100,000 secondary sewage treatment project. Prestonsburg is one of six Kentucky cities receiving 75 per cent grants from the Farm Home Administration to aid in meeting federal water pollution standards which have been set for compliance by 1977. Jack Wesley, project director for Howard K. Bell, Consulting Engineers, Inc., said it is hoped that construction will begin next month. Contractors on the project are W. Rogers and Company, Lexington. Others shown in photo are, from left, H. D. Fitzpatrick, Jr., project financial consultant; Mr. Wesley; Dr. N. Roger Jurich, City Council representative to the Water and Gas Commission; Blaine Hall, city Utilities Commission member; Bill Goebel, Sr., chairman of the Utilities Commission, and Billy Harvey Howard, superintendent of utilities.

School at Allen Damaged by Blast

Superintendent of Schools Charles Clark said repairs necessary at the Allen Elementary School building after damage by blasting for construction of a coal ramp across Beaver Creek from the school may include a new roof and the replacement of shattered windows.

He estimated cost of a new roof at $6 to $8,000.

Workmen for the Clifford Mining Company were blasting for construction of piers when the damage was caused last Wednesday, it was said. Rocks which hurled the school building into a parking area broke windshields of two autos.

Nobody was injured, pupils and teachers being at classes at the time.

Officials Say Revenue Total May Be Less than Reported

Floyd county and its five incorporated towns will receive almost three-quarters of a million dollars in revenue sharing funds during the next fiscal year, Congressman Carl D. Perkins announced this week.

Floyd county will receive an allotment of $622,633. Prestonsburg's share has been set at $101,699; Martin's, $7,249; Wheelwright's, $3,537; Wayland's, $2,983; Allen's, $1,601.

County Judge Henry Stumbo and County Attorney James R. Allen pointed out, however, that the allotment total for this county may be misleading, since more than $100,000 of the allotment for the new fiscal year represents funds due the county in a readjustment of figures from the current fiscal year to correct an error made in Washington.

"We will not budget this allotment, as it appears," Judge Stumbo said. "We don't want to spend these funds, then find an error has been made and have to pay money back."

Floyd county's revenue sharing allotment for the current fiscal year which ends June 30 is slightly in excess of $200,000.

The fiscal year starts on July 1, 1974, and the payments will be made in four installments, beginning in October, 1974, and ending in July, 1975.

The Treasury Department's Office of Revenue Sharing administers the program, and Kentucky's funds total $332,102,833. Rep. Perkins said.

A community or county gets funds based on its population, income of the people in the area, and the taxes paid by the people in the area.

Allotments to other counties and cities of the area follow:

Boyd, $452,227; Ashland, $682,567; Catlettsburg, $78,943; Breathitt county, $297,638; Jackson, $57,294; Carter county, $303,630; Grayson, $30,280; Olive Hill, $17,553; Elliott county, $128,101; Sandy Hook, $3,295; Greenup county, $274,034; Johnson county, $357,202; Paintsville, $109,721; Knott county, $475,140; Hindman, $9,435; Lawrence county, $277,127; Louisa, $48,554; Letcher

Thompson Gets Life Sentence In Pike Slaying

William Eugene Thompson, 24, one of three men who were accused of a recent attempt to make a dash for liberty from the Floyd county jail, was convicted Friday in the Pike circuit court of conspiracy to murder, and the trial jury set his penalty at a life prison term.

Thompson was accused as one of four allegedly involved in the 1971 slaying of Mrs. Gladys Deskins, 59, at her home at Meta.

The woman's husband, Boone Deskins, 70, from whom she was estranged at the time of her death, was found guilty at an earlier trial and is serving a life pen term. Trials of Robert Sykes, 40, and Willard (Woody) Christian, 26, will probably be held next month.

Christian, who testified for the Commonwealth, is at liberty under bond. He said Deskins paid him, Thompson and Sykes $7,000 to kill his wife. Mrs. Deskins was killed by a shotgun blast and several stab wounds. Christian said he and the two others went to the Deskins home and that he and Thompson went to the house while Sykes remained in the car. Christian said he became frightened prior to the murder and returned to the car, then was en route to the house again when he heard a shotgun blast.

Testifying in his own defense, Thompson denied all of Christian's testimony and indicated that Christian's accusations stemmed from the fact that he and Christian had fought, four days prior to the slaying, because Thompson had dated Mrs. Christian.

Thompson's wife claimed her husband was with her at the time of the crime.

Jones Trial Goes To Pike Co. Court

Creason To Speak At PCC Exercises; 102 To Get Degrees

Venue Change Is Won Monday, Day Trial Set

The ninth annual Commencement for Prestonsburg Community College will be held Sunday at 2 p.m. at the Jenny Wiley State Park Amphitheatre (Prestonsburg) High School gymnasium if inclement weather. One hundred two students will receive associate degrees in Applied Science, Arts and Science, or a Certificate of Study.

Joe Creason, columnist of The Courier-Journal, will be the Commencement speaker. To thousands within the circulation area of The Courier-Journal, Joe Creason is perhaps the best-known member of the staff of the nation's fourth-ranked newspaper.

The change of venue requested for the trial of Eddie Jones, of Lackey, on two charges of murder was granted Monday morning, on the day the trial was scheduled to begin, and Circuit Judge Hollie Conley directed that the case be transferred to Pike county for hearing.

Date of the trial will be a matter to be determined by the circuit judge there to whom the case is assigned. (Pike county has two circuit judges and it is not yet known which will preside in the trial.)

Had not agreement been reached on change of venue, two other motions were potential barriers to trial of Jones at the current court term here. One of these asked for a continuance of the case. The other asked that Circuit Judge Hollie Conley vacate the bench because of kinship to the victims, Deputy Sheriff Lawrence Conley and James Clayton Conley.

The shift of the case to Pike county was granted on a petition filed April 29 by Burnis Martin, who with John Y. Brown, of Lexington, represents the defendant. This petition claimed that a fair trial could not be had by Jones in Floyd county, because:

1. The victims were widely related in the county and the feelings of friends, relatives and associates toward the defendant are "extremely bitter and hostile."

2. Both Ex-Sheriff Frank Leslie and his successor, Sheriff Joe W. Lewis, who have a wide circle of kin and friends, have been active in the investigation of the two killings and will be prosecution witnesses at the trial.

Ph.D., Grade Schooler May Rub Shoulders in Special PCC Classes

You don't have to have any sort of degrees, recommendations or grade transcripts to enroll in Prestonsburg Community College's Community Services classes—scholastic record or ability really doesn't matter—and it's not unusual in many classes to find students with Master's or higher degrees sitting beside those who have never completed high school.

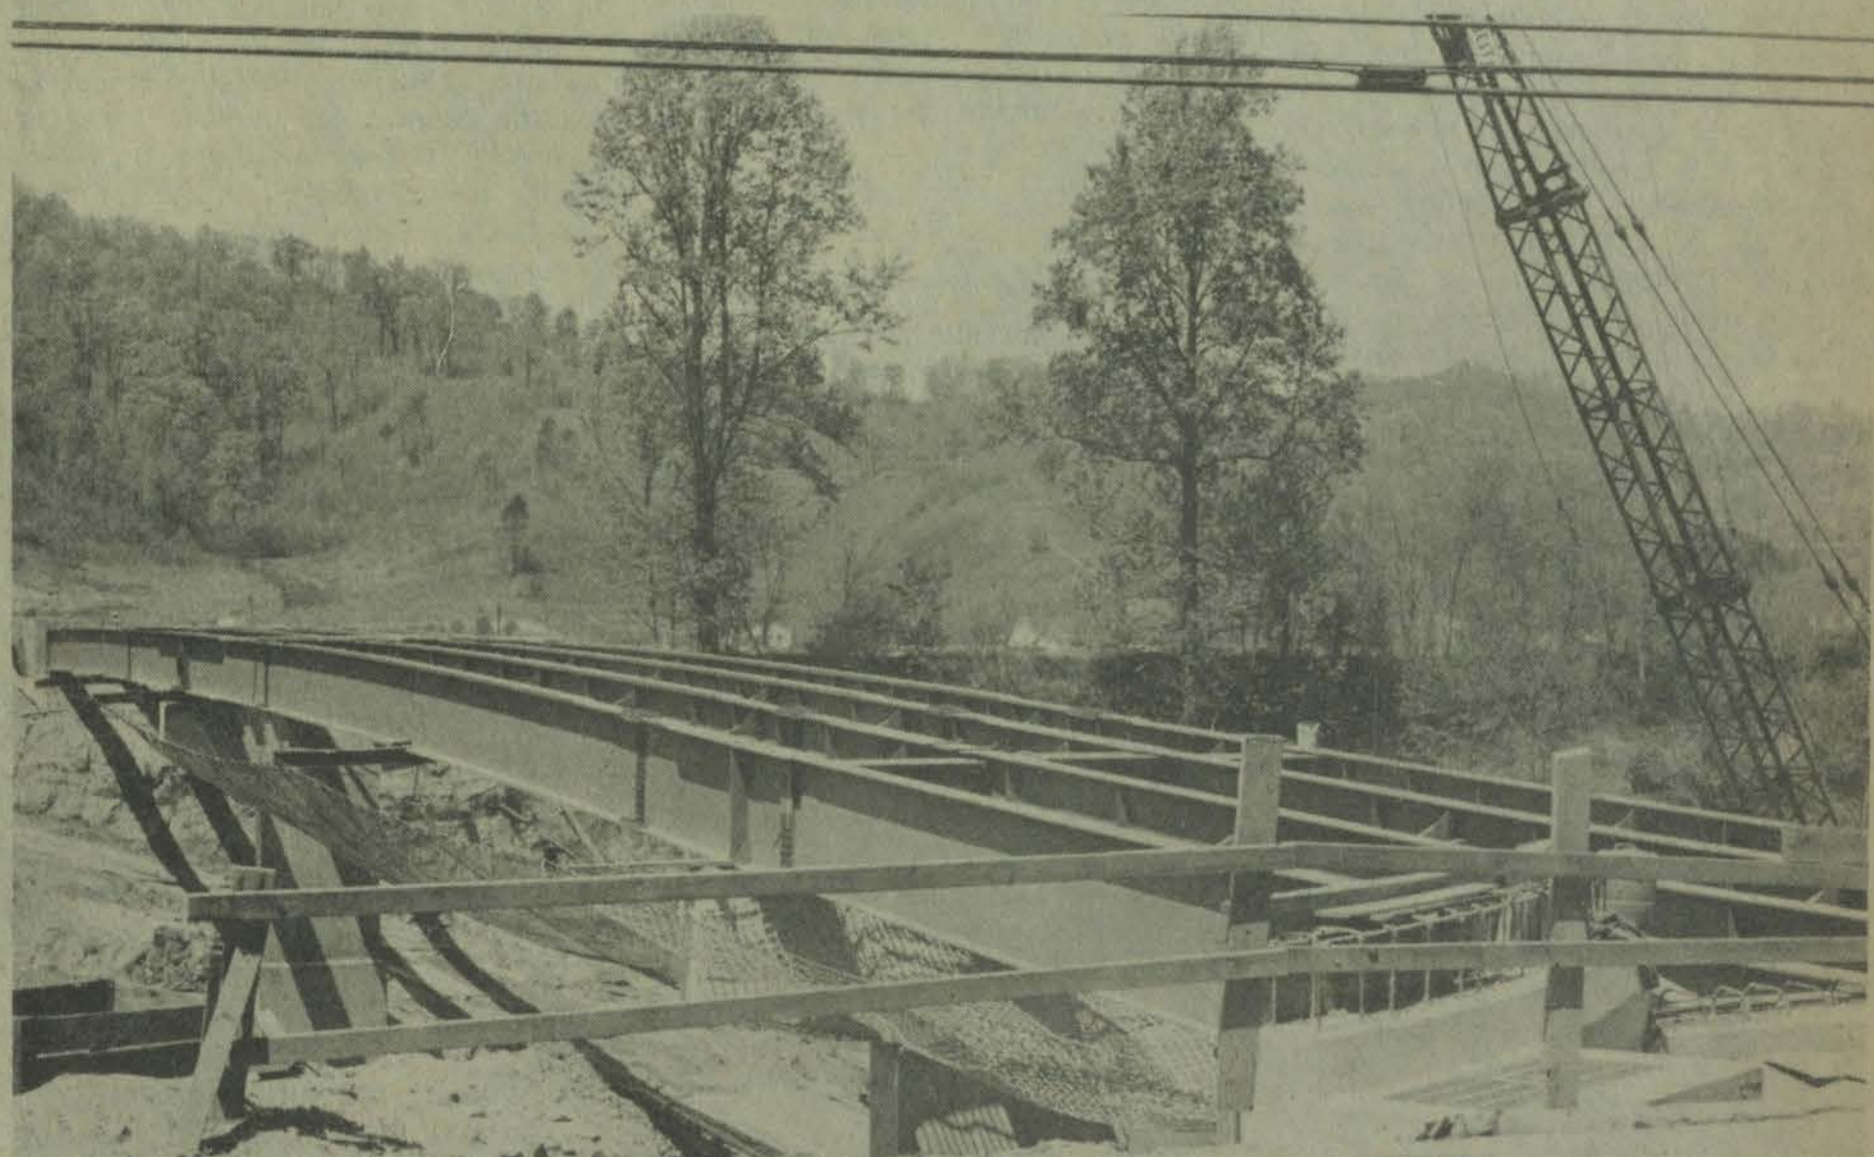

But offering classes in such diverse topics as residential house wiring, guitar, weaving, quilting, square dancing and money management, to name but a few, the Community Services Program proves of interest to people from all backgrounds and educational levels.

"A class such as residential house wiring, for example, should prove of equal concern to the Ph.D. or to the person with no more than a grade school education," Jim Ratcliff, director of the program, said "That's one of the nicest things about the program. Everyone who enrolls in one of the classes does so because of a genuine interest in the subject offered and not because they're seeking college credit. As a result, the instructor has the unique pleasure of teaching students who are all really interested."

The Community Services Program is part of a larger continuing education

Emma Bridge Completion Seen in June

Edwards & Webb, Danville Contractors, expect to complete the bridge across the Big Sandy at Emma, sometime next month. (Steel) construction complete, the concrete roadway is expected to be poured in not more than two weeks. Once the new, two-lane span is opened, the old suspension bridge, downstream from the new, will be dismantled. A two-lane blacktop road is being built from the Emma end of the new bridge to the old road paralleling the C. & O. railway.

Division of Fish Renews Effort At Dewey Lake

Although Dewey Lake may be the only major impoundment in Kentucky that will not permit white bass to propagate, the Division of Game and Fish is willing to give it another trial.

The Division recently released more than 200 adult white bass in the lake, hoping that they will spawn. But the species will not spawn in muddy water, and Dewey, as usual, is muddy.

White bass go upstream into running water to spawn, and for the last few years Johns Creek, above the lake itself, has been muddy at spawning time. As a consequence, the lake, which at one time had a good white bass population, did not produce one fish of that species last year. Apparently, white bass were extinct there.

Dewey, some hold, may be the first major impoundment to have white bass only on a put-and-take basis.

The Division of Game & Fish is also continuing the fertilization program begun at the lake a few years ago with favorable results. It added 334 bags of fertilizer to the lake, a few weeks ago, and four more applications of 334 bags each are scheduled during the year.

The Environmental Policy Center (EPC) in a recent attack on the Army Corps of Engineers, accused the Corps of mismanagement, poor planning, incompetent engineering and "hoodwinked" Congress in its wide-scale dam-building activities.

It notes that the Fishtrap Reservoir in Eastern Kentucky is expected to be "completely useless for flood control and recreation" in a few years due to siltation caused by extensive strip mining in nearby areas. The reservoir, south of Pikeville, was completed in 1968 at a cost of $54 million.

A General Accounting Office report last fall warned that the Dewey Lake and Carr Fork reservoirs in Eastern Kentucky have a "potential for the development of problems similar to Fishtrap." This is quoted in the environmental charges.

The Falmouth and Red River Dams are cited as examples of the "corps arrogance and persistence."

Mining operations, mostly surface mining, in the Johns Creek watershed, accounts for much of the extremely muddy condition of Dewey Lake.

The Appalachian Research and Defense Fund last month filed on behalf of seven environmental protection and sportsman's groups a petition asking the Corps of Engineers to issue regulations "designed to correct ongoing and future destruction." The petition referred to the protection of water resource projects such as Dewey, Fishtrap and other reservoirs.

Tackett Jailed On Three Counts

Willie Tackett, of Tackett Branch of Mud Creek, was jailed here Saturday on three liquor counts after Sheriff Joe W. Lewis and deputies had confiscated 16 half-pints of whiskey, 10 pints of wine and 72 cans of beer found on his premises.

Second and third-offense charges of selling intoxicating beverages and a fourth-offense charge of liquor possession for the purpose of sale were lodged against Tackett. Sheriff Lewis said the selling charges were made in a warrant issued after one or more officers had allegedly bought liquor from the Mud Creek man. Also involved in the search of the Tackett premises were Deputy Sheriffs Linzie Hunt, Green Slone and John D. Martin.

McArthur McKinney, also of the Mud Creek section, was jailed Saturday by Deputy Sheriffs Eddie Hamilton and Torrence Wright after they had confiscated 36 cans of beer which, they said, were in McKinney's possession.

Generally, the number of arrests over the week-end were not so numerous as in similar periods of the last few weeks. Those booked at the county jail, charges against each and names of arresting officers follow:

Roosevelt Morrow, drunk driving, Hermit Newsome and Homer Hall, no operators' licenses, and Ronald Turner, drunk driving and no operator's license, all arrested by Deputy Sheriff Doug Lewis; Dale Richie, a.w.o.l.; Delmer Greer, escaping custody, Deputy Sheriff Green Slone and Constable Bob Hackworth; Obie Gilreath, speeding, by Deputy Sheriffs Hunt and Slone; Earl Patton, drunk driving, by Deputies Hamilton and Wright; William Cantrill, drunk driving, by Deputy Sheriffs Lewis, Hunt and Williams; Phillip H. Cole, drunk driving, by Policemen Hall and Rickman; of Allen; Jimmy Crisp, drunk driving and no operator's license, and Donald Ray Bentley, drunk driving, both arrested by Policeman Keith Lawson, of Prestonsburg.

program being offered in a number of Kentucky's institutions of higher learning. According to Ratcliff, in addition to offering a two-year baccalaureate and a two-year terminal technical program, a third obligation of the state community college system is to offer a program of continuing education.

Ratcliff, originally a music instructor at PCC, assumed the duties of director of the program in 1972 and since that time there has been a tremendous growth of the program, and, more important, perhaps an enthusiastic acceptance of it by the community and residents of surrounding areas. Ratcliff said he realized, years ago, that only a small fraction of area residents had ever visited the PCC campus. "I wracked my brain trying to think how I could get people from the community to come to the campus. But then the Community Services Program solved it all," he said. In addition to providing a wide variety of courses to the general public, Ratcliff said it is hoped that parents attending the classes will become familiar with the college environment and say, "Well, I guess my son or daughter could come to college, after all."

In order to decide what courses would be best received, Ratcliff said two types of questionnaires were drawn up and sent to a number of area residents and organizations. "Through these questionnaires we were able to lay some of the groundwork for the program's curriculum," Ratcliff said.

In the selection of instructors, as in the enrollment of class members, educational requirements are not a major concern. "There's no stipulation concerning teaching qualifications," Ratcliff explained. Since many of the classes are of a practical nature, many times involving manual skills, Ratcliff said that "word of mouth" is often the most productive method of locating prospective teachers. "We take into consideration not only the proficiency of the person in their particular skill, but also personality factors and ability to relate to other people."

The Community Services Program is currently offering a variety of classes in the fields of music, arts and crafts, social art forms (such as square dancing and physical fitness), consumer skills, technical skills, social science, family relations and environment. Courses which are being planned for next fall include everything from violin to gardening and even yoga.

Ratcliff also mentioned the idea of forming an arts and crafts center on the PCC campus where local craftsmen could work and perhaps sell their wares. "We want to feature courses and activities which stress and encourage Appalachian culture," he said.

Ratcliff commented on the enjoyment he had derived from working with the program. "Although my speciality is music, I've always had strong interests in a variety of other fields. So, for a fellow like me, the program with all its diversity is just perfect."

As the program continues to grow, Jim Ratcliff is confident that an even greater number of community people will be attracted to the classes and become involved in Prestonsburg Community College's contribution to "continuing education."

3. Commonwealth's Attorney Harold Stumbo has been so interested in the prosecution that he personally posted a $500 bond as an award for solution of unsolved slayings.

4. The prosecutor is of the same family as County Judge Henry Stumbo, and Judge Stumbo is chairman of the fiscal court which posted a $3,000 reward in unsolved slayings.

5. Newspaper publicity, especially that given in The Floyd County Times, was such that "the minds of the citizens of Floyd county have been saturated with the news of this case."

6. Sheriff Lewis had "very viciously" informed defendant's attorney, prior to issuance of subpoenas for witnesses in the trial, that the attorney would have to look to some means other than the sheriff's office to have papers served in the future.

7. False rumors had been circulated in the county to the effect that Jones had entered a plea of guilty.

At one point in the motion for the change of venue Jones' attorney stated, "No one can possibly read the newspaper accounts and listen to the radio and television broadcasts without being convinced that if the trial is held in Floyd county, it may resolve into a mere formality and a mockery of justice."

The school board took action Saturday toward completion of renovation of the old Martin High School building and construction of a pre-fab steel physical education building at Martin and learned that the first step (state approval of a BG1) has been passed for construction of a physical education-lunchroom facility at McDowell. Both projects are expected to get under way this summer.

The board unanimously accepted the $88,000 architect's estimate made on central air-conditioning and heating of the old elementary facility. This, plus lowering of ceilings and installation of new toilets in the old building and the erection of the physical education structure, will involve the expenditure of around $300,000, Supt. Clark said.

Clark said State Superintendent Lyman Ginger has given assurance of his cooperation toward making the McDowell work possible.

The board authorized Clark to execute a lease of Bosco school grounds to the county as a possible location of a mini-park, but the lease will be contingent on a federal grant to the county for the park and on the board's ability to procure "reverter rights" on the portion of the school property which was purchased from the Elk Horn Coal Corporation. The school holdings there are comprised of about two acres bought in 1919 from Elk Horn and 1.25 acres purchased from Diamond Elkhorn Coal Co. in 1952. The latter purchase was outright, but the first contained a clause providing that the property would revert to Elk Horn when it ceased to be used for school purposes.

In 1960, however, the Kentucky General Assembly enacted legislation providing that if the original owner of such property did not file claim to the land within 90 days after it was no longer used for school purposes, the property would remain that of the school system.

A test of that law is now before the Court of Appeals. If the high court upholds the legislation, the Floyd board will retain the Bosco property.

The board at its meeting last Saturday voted its compliance with the federal minimum wage law, effective May 1, raising the hourly wage of all non-certified personnel from $1.80 to $1.90. It also approved the $570,000 bond of Burl W. Spurlock as treasurer of the board of education. The board authorized Supt. Clark to notify all teachers who have had less than one and a half years' tenure that they may not be employed for the next school year.

Resignations of six teachers who have applied for retirement were accepted. These are Juanita Cox, Garrett; Julia Akers, Allen; Margaret E. May and Frankie S. Best, both of Prestonsburg; Edna Keahley, Harold, and Maxie Burke, of Osborne Elementary.

Michael Auxier, of Emma, former mathematics teacher at Betsy Layne, who has during the last year been supervisor of field services for the Teachers' Retirement System, submitted his resignation, to remain with the Retirement System. Mr. Auxier is a former president of the Kentucky Education Association (KEA).

Leave of absence for remainder of the current school term was granted Elizabeth Hall, McDowell teacher, and Elizabeth Shelton was employed as her replacement. Non-certified personnel employed included Terry Ford, teacher-aid at Prestonsburg elementary; Earl Patrick, bus garage mechanic; Connie Tackett Stumbo, teacher-aid at McDowell, and Pamela Nance, part-time clerk at the board's central office here.

Sale of six old school buses and one truck were authorized, and high school principals were authorized to award to the lowest bidder contract for providing girls' basketball uniforms.

NEW LIFE FOR AN OLDTIMER

Last Thursday, The Big Sandy News, of Louisa, became the last of Big Sandy newspapers to quit the old letterpress and, as we say, "go offset." And the paper was printed here on the new offset press which three upper Big Sandy publishers have installed.

The transition was something special for me, since it was on this same Big Sandy News that I did my journalistic teething, around 50 years ago. They say you grow older and wiser, but, somehow, I have never managed to be as smart as I was then or again to write as one inspired, no less. One recollection sticks close, and that is the odor—the word is, "fragrance"—of ink and paper and old type and padding compound that pervaded the place, that first time the young genius graced that newspaper office. And I am still blest—once in a long while, I again get a whiff of that fragrance that drifts around out there, somewhere between the halcyon days and the "golden years."

I RISE TO THE DEFENSE

Everybody likes to give the Postal Service what-for. Rubber strips were placed on the postoffice steps here last week, and somebody remarked that they would wait till all the ice and snow had departed before adding the anti-skid surface.

But I gamely rose to the defense and at the risk of losing a few notches in the esteem of my fellow-countrymen reminded the critic that you can slip and fall on something other than ice or snow. Those fish scales, for instance, which John Ward and I leave behind after a fishing session on those same postoffice steps.

Questions Hanging Rope

Editor, The Times:

The Sunday edition of the Lexington Herald-Leader ran the same big discovery by Circuit Clerk Frank Derossett that you ran some years ago—viz, the finding of the rope that supposedly hung Gus Finley.

This rope has never been missing from the clerk's office; in fact, it is not the rope that hung Gus Finley. This rope that Mr. DeRossett discovered and which has been in the vault of the Circuit Clerk's office since the early 1900's was a rope that was used in the rituals of an old organization formed after the Civil War called The Knights of the Golden Eagle. I remember seeing and wearing the old KGE uniform in the 1920's. Jim Jones, the last living juror in the hanging of Gus Finley, always said the scaffold, along with the rope, was burned after Gus Finley was hung.

Dog Pound Needed

Editor, The Times:

Seems like everytime I go to Prestonsburg I see a lot of stray dogs on the street. Isn't there a law for people letting animals run loose. If there is, it should be enforced, and a dog pound built. Is it the Mayor's job or County Judge's job. Let's keep Prestonsburg clean and free of stray dogs. We need action instead of promises.

Kentucky Needs More Trails

By NEVYLE SHACKELFORD
(UK College of Agriculture)

Walking and hiking are simple but rewarding outdoor pleasures and nearly everyone who has an opportunity to indulge gains healthful exercise and appreciation of the physical environment. A foot trail through the woods, along a watercourse, or even across an open field can also be educational.

In this respect, it's like what a little girl said one day after returning from a school nature hike. Upon being asked by her teacher what the trip was like, she said it was fine and that the class had "learned things they hadn't meant to." With a normal amount of curiosity, there are many things, indeed, to be learned "without intending to" on a footpath through the country.

Walking through a carpet of fallen leaves and noting their slow decay, one gets an idea of how nature works to restore the soil and the fertility of the soil. Seeing a flock of purple martins out hawking mosquitoes is a small lesson in how a balance in nature is maintained, and spotting a bumblebee on a head of crimson clover is to sense the interdependency of all living things in maintaining survival.

Unfortunately, however, modern society restricts opportunities for such activities, especially near urban areas. Both city streets and country roads these days are constructed primarily for automobiles and thus are unsuited, if not actually dangerous, for foot travelers.

There are many established hiking trails in Kentucky but, according to UK Extension outdoor recreation specialist Allan J. Worms, not nearly enough. This lack is not due so much to insufficient land as to lack of information on the places where trails could be established and to other factors related to planning and accessibility.

Worms says that, for instance, there are numerous old logging roads, abandoned railroad grades, and no longer used public roads, especially in Eastern Kentucky, that could be turned into wonderful, secluded walkways. Some of these are now privately owned, of course, but it is highly possible that arrangements could be made for their use by select groups.

This need for places where nature groups, conservation groups, bird-watchers, and anyone seeking an outdoor experience can get out and wander, observe, and study seems an opportunity for some landowners to profit. They could, in a limited way, go into the recreation business. Some back-country farmers whom we know about have established trails and campgrounds, erected cabins, constructed fish ponds, and realized a substantial income from the venture. They discovered that city people were more than willing to pay for the privilege of using the facilities.

In constructing a trail, Worms says the route should be explored to discover the main points of interest. Then the trail should be laid out in a manner to take advantage of the natural features without excessive damage to the environment. After that, more or less, let nature take its course. As with any business venture, however, development of a recreation business should be preceded by a realistic study of the opportunity for success.

Worms says there are many sources of technical assistance available to those who would establish trails. Help can be obtained from the UK Cooperative Extension Service, the Soil Conservation Service, local botanists, biologists, and ecologists.

Currently, according to Worms, studies are being made of existing trails and the potentiality for other trails—water trails for float trips, horse trails, cycle trails, outdoor education trails, and trails for the handicapped—in the state. With the energy crisis making it difficult for many to travel to other states and areas where they are in sufficient supply, certainly the need for more of these facilities here in Kentucky is great.

Perkins Urges Action on Coal Conversion Plants, Technology

Rep. Carl D. Perkins of Kentucky contends that if this country is ever going to have cheap and readily available fuel again, we must "commit ourselves, to the extent necessary, to build a real coal conversion industry."

In a floor speech as the House of Representatives debated a bill on Special Energy Research and Development Appropriations, the Congressman said he was "glad that the funds for coal gasification and coal liquefaction research have been increased—both for the Bureau of Mines and the Office of Coal Research. But I must emphasize that what the nation needs to solve the energy crisis permanently is an appropriation that would start construction of commercial scale plants to convert coal into liquid fuel and gas."

Rep. Perkins had urged higher appropriations for coal liquefaction and coal gasification work, and the Appropriations Committee came through with substantial increases over the 1974 appropriation.

Bureau of Mines research funds are going from $32,541,000 this year to $144,308,000 next year, and coal liquefaction research funds in the Office of Coal Research are going from $43,500,000 to $79,600,000 while coal gasification funds in the Office of Coal Research are going from $41,700,000 to $86,800,000 according to the bill passed by the House.

He also told the House that in addition to starting commercial scale production of liquid and gas fuels from coal, "we must begin the other efforts that tie in with coal conversion—training the coal technicians and miners and engineers and chemists; and building the coal cars and other vital elements in the transportation system for this new industry."

Rep. Perkins warned the House that "we must move this all together, and not let one element fall behind."

He also cited the commercial scale coal conversion now going on in South Africa as proof that the process is ready for use.

And he pointed out that more than 20 years ago a developing coal conversion industry was dismantled, "and for years afterward we lagged behind in developing a coal conversion process that would have insured cheap and readily available fuel today."

"Let us not let that happen ever again," he said.

P'burg Anglers Win Bass Tournament

Chalmer Howard and Claude Newberry, the bass fishing team who in last year's tournament capsized, losing most of the contents of their boat, this year gained a kind of poetic justice by winning first prize in the Dewey Lake Fish and Game Club's Second Annual Bass Fishing Tournament held Sunday at Dewey Lake.

Catching five keeper bass which weighed in at 7½ pounds, Howard and Newberry, both of Prestonsburg, were each presented a Garcia 5000C bait-casting reel. Howard also won the prize for biggest bass, a two-pounder. They caught the fish casting live nightcrawlers in the shallows in the upper half of the lake. Second prize of two plano tackle boxes went to the father-son team of Lloyd Daniels and Lloyd, III, of Prestonsburg.

The club's Hard Luck award went to the team of Warren Delong and Martin Webb, of Louisa. It was learned that the two had caught more than enough bass to win second place but they felt they didn't have a chance so they continued to fish past the 2 p.m. deadline.

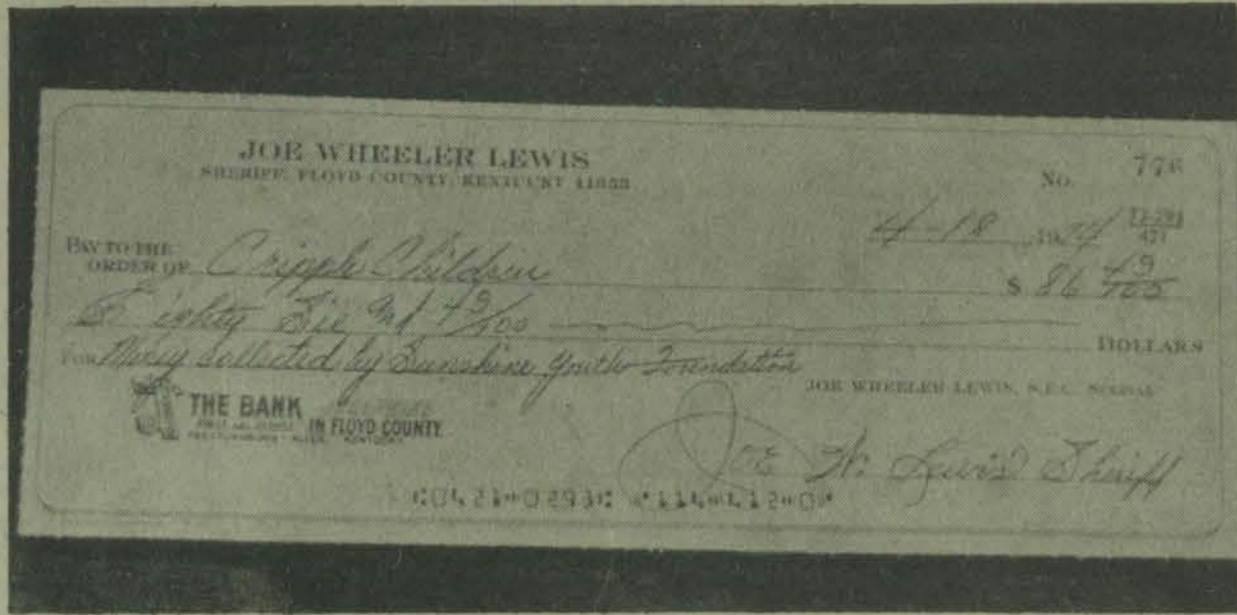

A total of 24 bass fishermen entered this year's tournament.

All Stars in Prestonsburg June 1, at the Fieldhouse

By C. "OLLIE" ROBINSON
Basketball fans throughout the 14th and 15th regions will get to see some of the top stars in Kentucky June 1 at the Prestonsburg fieldhouse. Coach Pete Grigsby, Jr. and Coach Wendell Wallen will guide the 15th regional all-stars and both coaches are impressed with the talent that they will be handling. This game has been sanctioned by both the Kentucky High School Athletic Association and the NCAA and sponsored by the Martin Kiwanis Club and the Perry County Jaycees, with Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club being one of the sponsors for this years meeting. The 15th regional all-stars will feature UK-bound 6-11 Dan Hall, of Betsy Layne, and three of the top scorers in the state, Mark Myers of Pikeville, Bill Jack Runyon of Paintsville and Jim Bob Michaels of Louisa. Other topnotch talent for the 15th regional will be Johnson Central standout, Neal Burchett, Prestonsburg's Jim Blackburn, (Blackburn has signed a scholarship to play football at Morehead), Don Hansford and

Keith Gearheart of Allen Central, with several colleges after the two that played for the Rebels; McDowell's two standouts, Jumping Jim Tackett and playmaker, Glenn Heinisch; high scoring Jimmy Miles, of the Salyersville Hornets, Sheldon Clark's excellent player, Wayne Tiller, Pikeville's playmaker, Tommy Allen, Virgie's outstanding Chipper McPeek, and Barry Thompson, of Johns Creek, one of the region's top performers. Several trophies will be awarded that night for various performances.

U. K. Basketball Player To Speak at Meeting

A one-night youth meeting will be held at the First Assembly of God Church at Martin Friday night, May 10, at 7 p.m., with Rick Drewitz, 6-8 University of Kentucky basketball player, as the speaker. Youth group singing will also be a feature of the meeting. The pastor, the Rev. Lorie Vannucci, invites all youths in the area to attend.

Baseball Roundup

By C. "OLLIE" ROBINSON
The regular high school baseball schedule will end this week-end. The district baseball tournament will begin Wednesday, May 15, and run through Friday, May 17, at Archer Park, and the following week the regional baseball tournament will be played at the Johnson Central baseball field. Prestonsburg high school will be the host team for the district tournament. Bobby Wells will be tournament manager. Prestonsburg is the defending district champion and this year will be one of the tourney favorites as the Blackcats drew in the opposite bracket at Allen Central and McDowell. The opening round play will pit McDowell against Betsy Layne at 2 p.m. on Wednesday. Allen Central drew a bye in the upper bracket and will play the winner of the McDowell-Betsy Layne game on Thursday at 1 p.m. In the lower bracket play on Thursday Prestonsburg will go against Wheelwright at 3:30 p.m. The championship game will be played on Friday.

This past week, Prestonsburg lost to Allen Central, 11 to 8. Rick Pack was the winner, with Acie Shepherd doing the catching. Mike Wells and Dell Jagers each connected for three-run homers but the Cat defense weakened. Mike Dixon was the loser.

The McDowell nine suffered their first loss of the season Tuesday as they bowed to the Virgie Eagles, 12 to 2. Virgie rallied in the sixth inning for the win. The Betsy Layne nine picked up their fifth win Tuesday as they won over Millard, 9 to 7. Billy Osborne started and picked up the win. Dwaine Daniels did the catching. Larry Woods had a homer and Dan Hall a double, driving in two runs.

Wednesday, McDowell and Allen Central split a doubleheader, with Allen Central winning the first game, 3 to 2, and McDowell taking the nightcap, 8-2. The Rebels won the first game on the five-hit pitching of Jim "Bo" Patton, Acie Shepherd the catching. Kenny Mitchell pitched a five-hitter and was charged with the loss as Tommy Murphy, of Allen Central, doubled home a run and scored from third base on a pick-off play, Terry Tuttle had 2 for 2 and Allan Howell 2 for 3 for the Daredevils. In the second game, Big John Martin limited Allen Central to only two runs while his teammates scored 8. Rocky Adams did the catching. Huffman was the loser. Rick Roberts had 2 and 3 and Terry Tuttle 1 for 1 for the Daredevils. Also on Wednesday, the Blackcats lost to Paintsville, 9 to 6. Prestonsburg was leading 6 to 4 in the sixth but couldn't hold the lead as Paintsville rallied for five runs in the seventh inning. Roger Shepherd was the loser. Prestonsburg was rained out in its scheduled meeting in the Sandy Valley Conference baseball tournament. The young Wheelwright team won their first game of the season in a doubleheader at Jenkins. Wheelwright defeated Fleming-Neon, 12 to 4, but lost to Jenkins, 7 to 5. THIS WEEK'S SCHEDULE

Wednesday, May 8—Betsy Layne at Prestonsburg (doubleheader), Paintsville at Mullins.
Thursday, May 9—Wheelwright vs. Allen Central (at Wayland) Prestonsburg at Salyersville (doubleheader), Betsy Layne vs. McDowell at Drift.
Friday, May 10—Prestonsburg at Louisa (doubleheader), Salyersville vs. McDowell at Drift, Mullins at Betsy Layne (doubleheader).

OTHER SPORTS
In other sports, Drift and Wheelwright, members of the Pike County Semi-Pro Baseball League, were rained out last Sunday, with Drift scheduled at Pikeville and Wheelwright at Sycamore. This Sunday's schedule has Wheelwright at Drift, Sycamore at Johns Creek, Pikeville at Kimper at 3 p.m., Greasy Creek at Marrowbone and Phelps at Marrowbone. Little League baseball is being organized throughout the county, and we are in need of all schedules for the season. A large crowd of parents and other interested persons attended the Little League meeting at Archer Park Saturday and the league officials—Bill Wells, president, Darrell Blankenship, vice-president and Ural Ray Wilcox—all commented that they were very much enthused by the meeting and that they extend their thanks for all of those who attended or called and expressed their interest in Little League baseball in and around Prestonsburg.

Sports Roundup

By C. "OLLIE" ROBINSON
The Prestonsburg golf team and the boys' and girls' track teams participated in the Sandy Valley Conference, Thursday and Friday, while the Prestonsburg baseball team was rained out during the conference tournament. If Coach Eddie Radjumas could have had his druthers, he would have had the golf and track meets rained out as rain and wind did his teams no good. The Prestonsburg golf team went into the Ashland Invitational undefeated, but this wasn't their day as they finished fifth in the event. Russell won with a team total of 319, Ashland 325, Paintsville 330, Boyd county 345, Louisa 345, Prestonsburg 354, Greenup County 369, Fairview 406 and Holy Family 419. Scoring for Prestonsburg: Jim "Bill" Frazier 86, John McCauley 86, Phil Green 89, and Larry and Gary Brown 93, each. Terry Plybon, of Russell, won medalist honors with a 73 for the day.

On Friday during the Sandy Valley Golf Tournament again Blackcat golf wasn't up to par as the team finished third with a team total of 340. Again Russell won the event with a 312, Boyd county 333, Prestonsburg 340, Belfry 371, Greenup County 380 and Johnson Central 439. This was Russell's 22nd straight win and certainly will make them a regional favorite. The regional will be played at Paintsville. For Prestonsburg, Gary Brown carded an 80, John McCauley 84, Jim Bill Frazier an 88 and Larry Brown had 94. Although Prestonsburg lost two outings during their visit and now has a record of 11 and 2, the Blackcats still remain one of the regional favorites in golf with the Paintsville course being known as their home course.

The girls' track team picked up 10 points in the outing, with Bridget Clay winning the high jump and Marguerita Burchett placing in another event. The boys' track team had points by John Layne, Dennis Walker, Steve Campbell and Dave Flanery. The Prestonsburg track team will travel to Boyd County Friday and compete against Boyd County, Greenup County and Russell. The events will be starting at 2:30 p.m., and on May 17 the regional track meet will be at Morehead.

HOW TO QUIT BIG CARS AND BE HAPPY.

Mark II Hardtop

Switch to our 1974 Mark II. It brings you big car benefits without big car problems.

Mark II has plenty of space per passenger. It rides cushy... yet parks and handles easy.

And Mark II gives you the kind of luxury... as standard equipment... that you may have associated only with big cars. Such as an AM-FM Multiplex radio on the Hardtop and Wagon. An electric clock. Tinted glass. Power front disc brakes. Plus the gas benefits of a peppy 6-cylinder engine.

If this is your first "little" car there's another advantage. The Mark II isn't styled like one. But it's designed to save like one.

Whitt-Stone

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Whitt, of the Wells Addition, Pikeville, Ky., announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Patricia Gayle, to Mr. Richard A. Stone, son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Stone, of Winchester, Ky.

The bride-elect, a 1971 graduate of Pikeville High School, is presently a senior at Transylvania University, Lexington, Ky., where she will graduate in June with a degree in pre-medicine. While at Transylvania, she has been a member of the choir, a dorm counselor and a member of the Chi Omega Sorority.

Mr. Stone, a 1971 graduate of Clark County High School, is also a senior at Transylvania University. He is a member of the choir, the Science honorary, and Kappa Alpha order. He will graduate next month with a degree in pre-medicine.

The gracious custom of "open church" will be observed when the vows are exchanged at 2:30 p.m., Saturday, July 20, at Immanuel Baptist Mission, Route 1, Pikeville.

MOTHER MINE

You guided first my baby feet;
Your very presence made life sweet.
You kissed my childhood hurts away
And taught me then to trust and pray.

So I have learned, dear Mother mine,
That mother love is a love divine.
You always helped and understood
As only a loving mother could.

You guided me through the hurtful years;
You held in check my wayward will,
And, Mother mine, you guide me still;
For memory is a golden chain
That links us till we meet again.

In loving memory of my dear Mother,
Clara May Leslie who passed away Nov.
11, 1949. Her daughter, EMMA L.

To Lead Revival

REV. SANDERS

The Rev. LeRoy Sanders, pastor of Elwin United Methodist Church, Elwin, Ill., and a former pastor in this area, will be the evangelist during revival services beginning Monday, May 13, at the Spurlock Bible Church on Spurlock Fork of Middle Creek. The services, which will be held at 7 p.m. daily, will continue through May 19.

The Rev. Sanders is a former pastor of Community Methodist Church here and of the Allen and Martin Methodist Churches.

The pastor, Rev. Dan Heintzelman, and congregation invite the public to each service.

The Executive Department for Finance and Administration and the Kentucky Department of Revenue have announced that state General Fund receipts for the first nine months of the current fiscal year were $590,928,606—an increase of 12 per cent over the same period last year. Tax receipts showed a marked increase over last year, with the exception of total Road Fund tax receipts, including motor fuel and motor vehicle usage tax receipts. Revenue Commissioner John Ross said the apparent lifting of the Arab oil embargo earlier than expected will likely cause receipts from the fuel and usage taxes to be greater than the January budget estimate of $246 million.

Ecuadorian Teacher Comes Here For Visit to One-Room School

Mrs. Violeta Dazila, assistant director of a teacher's college in Quito, Ecuador, recently caught a glimpse in Floyd county of a disappearing Kentucky institution—the one-room school. There are only 15 of these schools remaining in the state.

Mrs. Dazila, who came to the United States to study its educational system, made a special request to observe a one-room school, and Kentucky became the first stop on her month long tour.

When she entered the white frame building in this county, the 27 pupils of Daniels Creek school greeted her shyly. Gradually, however, all the students warmed to Mrs. Dazila as she described her family and country.

The students questioned her about her home and the kinds of animals that live in the Ecuadorian jungle. Their teacher, Helen Martin, answered Mrs. Dazila's questions about American teachers and school systems.

Mrs. Dazila said that in rural

Ecuador's many one-room schools, children attend classes from 7:30 a.m. until 1:00 p.m. with a "milk break" around 10 a.m. When the school day ends, they go home for their main meal of the day.

In contrast, the students at Daniels Creek prepare their own lunch using the stove and refrigerator in their room.

Mrs. Dazila also has visited one of Kentucky's modern schools, Allen Central High School, in this county. There she conversed with students in a Spanish class and inspected a language laboratory.

Continuing her tour, Mrs. Dazila will travel to New Mexico and San Francisco, where she will visit schools for Indians and for bilingual students.

Anne Hamilton, librarian for the state Department of Education, Blanche Dingus, food services director of Floyd county schools, and professional interpreter, Linda Maeatri, accompanied Mrs. Dazila during her visit.

Squad Receives Award for Services

This year at the annual meeting of the National Water Safety Congress at Charleston, W. Va., an award was approved recognizing the Floyd County Rescue Squad for "outstanding efforts to prevent water accidents and drownings in recreational use of the nation's waterways." In photo, Robert L. Casey, vice-president of the NWSA (far right, standing) presents the award to Squad Chief Graham Burchett. Dean Murray, resource manager for the Corps of Engineers Big Sandy Area, who recommended the Floyd group, stands at left. Other members of the squad present at the ceremony (kneeling, from left to right) are Clyde Derossett, Andrew Goble, Freddie Garrett and Bud Alexander.

Kentucky Tops In Coal Exports

By BOB MEEKER

Kentucky, the nation's leading coal producer, is also the country's paramount coal exporter to other states. Figures released recently by the U. S. Department of the Interior's Bureau of Mines show that Kentucky mines, both surface and underground, shipped 80 per cent of their 1973 output to 20 states for electric utilities.

The purchasing states ranged geographically from Minnesota to Florida and included West Virginia, the nation's second-ranking bituminous producer.

Highlighting the Bureau of Mines' figures is the fact that Kentucky uses less than five per cent of total U. S. coal production while mining more than 20 per cent of the national total.

As an increasingly important energy source, due to the unsteady posture of fossil fuels such as oil, Kentucky this year is the center of increased coal mining, mainly by surface mining techniques.

In the first quarter of 1974, the state issued double the number of strip-mining permits compared with the same period in 1973.

One of the dangers to increased coal production is a shortage of diesel fuel. More than 100 million gallons of diesel oil was consumed in 1972 coal production alone, and that figure doesn't include transportation of coal from the fields.

It is estimated that during February of this year about 4.4 million gallons of additional diesel fuel was required to maintain the production level set in December 1973.

Gov. Wendell H. Ford and the Kentucky Office of Petroleum Allocation have strongly urged that additional supplies of diesel oil be provided, as 80 per cent of Kentucky's coal is needed by other states, with almost 90 per cent of the exported coal consumed by electrical utilities.

The Governor's action, based on a projected shortage of needed diesel fuels, has culminated in additional supplies being made available by suppliers.

Maytown Baptist Chapel Dedication Set June 23

By WILMAY

On June 23 a monument will be dedicated in Maytown. Standing beside Route 80, it is 38 x 84 feet. With the exception of the masonry and roof, Maytown people built it. It is the new home of the Maytown Baptist Chapel that opened two years ago this June in the old grade school. The move to it is under way.

Sponsored by Allen First Baptist Church, the chapel had an average attendance of 79.4 its first year. Its rapid progress has been cited throughout the state. The sponsor church and its pastor, Rev. Earl Waugh, the Department of Direct Missions of Kentucky Baptists, and the Home Mission Board of Southern Baptist have supplied invaluable assistance in various forms.

The chapel started without a Baptist man, but has eight today. There have been 31 professions. Membership totals 38, some of whom are young folks. To date, there has been no resident pastor. Two splendid ones commuted: Glenn Noe, of Whitesburg, and now Lawrence Baldrige, native of Hueysville, living in Pippa Passes. Directors are: Chapel, Howard Ramey; Sunday School, Jimmy Lynn Allen; Choirs: Adult-Youth, Gloria Jones; Juniors—Ulabor Acree; Cherub—Mary Webb; BTU, Libby Flanery; Missions, Terri Harris. Dee Burchett does the floral arrangements. The chapel has a small but good library, a well-equipped nursery headed by Alva Flanery; a fine collection of Christmas costumes and accessories. Its members rotate on nursery duty, custodial services, editing the bulletin, preparing the bulletin board, hosting Brotherhood dinners, etc.

From the first, plans to build were paramount, though there is not one affluent family in the congregation. Funds were scarce, but faith and prayer were hallmarks of the group. A desirable site was found in July, 1972, ground broken June 17, 1973, the footer poured July 20. The sanctuary is one of the largest in this county. The main floor has six classrooms, a three-level choir, big rostrum, two restrooms, two stairs, vestibule, seven closets and four overhead bins for storage, plus a bapt-tistry second to none. Dr. Wendell Belew, of Atlanta, did the mural behind the latter. The ground floor is incomplete but will provide 8-10 classrooms, two restrooms, huge dining-recreation area, and a serving kitchennette beneath the upstairs kitchen, where range, refrigerator, and sink must remain because of floods. Once the first level is finished, some rooms on the main floor will be devoted to the library, Pastor's Study, etc. Indebtedness of thousands has been reduced to a few hundred in eight months. The note will be burned during the dedication service at 3 p.m. June 23.

The church is a monument to prayer, faith, cooperation and love, about all the members had to start. Scores of times, needs for funds, materials, specific items or skills were miraculously met in the nick of time. Unexpected gifts came from unknown sources. Members sacrificed to maintain it, too. Miles Gibson, Jr. served as general chairman of the Building Program; Edgar May, overseer. Corkie Patton, John R. Baldrige, Thurmal Click, Tommy Jones, Roland Burchett, Ermol Hicks, Thomas Ray Flanery Daryl Hayes, Jim Patton, Chalmer Hicks, Howard Ramey, Jimmy Lynn Allen, Gene Frasure, Paul Harris, Earl Edward Webb, plus Gibson and May supplied expertise in a dozen fields that saved thousands of dollars. School boys who performed many tasks included Randy and Dennis Hicks, Jim Patton, Virgil Halbert, Jr., Jeff Jones, Kent Flanery, Keith Frasure, Eric May, Nathan Reffitt, Keith Harris, Creed Acree and John Flanery, perhaps others. The pastor called the women's weekly group, "the Maytown Baptist Women's Lib," with Chairwoman, Mary Webb, plus Jeanette Harris, Henrietta, Thelma and Glenda Hicks, Alva and Libby Ree Flanery, Jean Patton, Marie Martin, Alice Baldrige, and Trilby May. Any omissions are unintentional. (Several who work were unable to assist.) Jobs the ladies did are too numerous to list.

A tall spire, permanent steps, central heat and air conditioning, carpet, an organ, and the completion of the lower floor remain to be realized, but the congregation is thankful for what has been accomplished. Gratitude is expressed to Rev. Waugh, his church and its missions committee, and to all who have in any way assisted the small young group in its vast undertaking that shows where there is a will there is a way. No church or people can outgive God. His dipper is bigger than all earthly ones combined. He never fails to care for those who love and trust him.

National Hospital Week Observance

The Highlands Regional Medical Center is joining the nation's more than 7,000 hospitals observing National Hospital Week, May 12-18.

This is an annual event sponsored by the American Hospital Association on behalf of its member institutions to create public interest in and support of the accomplishments and goals of our health care institutions.

With the theme of this year's observance, "Get to know us before you need us," hospitals are asking the public to become better informed about the growing responsibilities health care institutions are assuming both inside and outside their walls, and the challenges they face in meeting increasing demands for their services in a time of rapid social and economic change.

Open house will be held Sunday, May 19 from 2-5 p.m. at the Medical Center. Guided tours will be provided.

Basic Sewing Class Members

These Grethel Homemakers have recently completed garments made in the basic sewing class. They are Mrs. Eileen Martin, Cossetta Newsome, Eleanor Akers, Arietta Hall, Maisie Anspaugh, and Glenna Evans. Not pictured were Golda May Derossett, Joyce Hall, Pearl Newsome and Debbie Reynolds. The next meeting of the club will be May 21.

Health Notes

By DONNA J. GRIFFITH
(Health Educator)

The Floyd County Health Department announces that a public health nurse will hold an outpost clinic Monday, May 13, in the basement of the Methodist Church at Wayland from 10 a.m. till 2 p.m. Services available are TB skin tests, immunizations, diabetes screening, blood pressures and hemoglobins. These services are free.

The health department also announces that there will be no nursing services available after 12 noon Wednesday, May 15. The nurses will be assisting in the neurology clinic being held at the health department. Regular nursing services will resume Thursday, May 16, at 8 a.m.

Veneral diseases are America's No. 1 enemy among all communicable diseases. Statistics show that more than 2,200,000 Americans contract gonorrhea each year and about 500,000 Americans are now infected with syphilis.

Veneral Disease presents such a threatening health problem that Kentucky law now says that anyone, regardless of age, can be tested and (or) treated for V.D. without their parents' knowledge or consent.

The only way to be sure you have or do not have V.D. is to be checked. If you think you have now or recently been exposed to V.D., see a doctor or go to the Floyd County Health Department. Only you can take this important step.

Diabetes is the sixth leading cause of death in Kentucky and the ninth leading cause of death in Floyd county. This disease results when the body can't transform food—chiefly, sugar and starch—into energy, tissues and bones and is more likely to occur in people who have diabetic relatives. Other likely candidates for the disease include white females ages 45 and over; persons who are overweight; and women who have given birth to a baby weighing over nine pounds.

There are approximately 293 people in Floyd county who have diabetes without knowing it. You could be one of them. Find out for sure by having a simple blood test, free of charge, at the Floyd County Health Department.

Obituaries

William J. Ratliff

Stricken by an apparent heart attack while at work Wednesday, William J. Ratliff, 51, of Allen, died shortly after being taken to Our Lady of the Way Hospital at Martin.

Mr. Ratliff was office manager for Elkhorn Industrial Products Corp., near Martin, where he had been employed for the past nine years. Prior to this he was with Turner Elkhorn Mining Co. at Drift for 14 years. He was a graduate of Alice Lloyd College, a veteran of World War II, member of Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Big Sandy Mining Institute, was a 32nd degree Mason and a member of J. W. HOPE Helping Solve Problem Of Waste Paper

After its first five weeks of operation, HOPE Industries has established itself as an important part of the Big Sandy communities which it has begun serving.

Through the collection and bailing of paper for re-cycling, reforestation and landscaping and lawn maintenance, this industry for the handicapped, a subsidiary of Mountain Comprehensive Care Center, now employs 12 people, fulltime, and is making a significant impact on both the ecology of the region and on the lives of the handicapped people it is employing.

So runs the report filed recently with the Region 11 Mental Health-Mental Retardation Board of District 11, the non-profit, private board of lay citizens which establishes policy and direction for Mountain Comprehensive Care Center, by HOPE's General Operations Manager John Bland. Bland was particularly complimentary to the merchants and officials of Prestonsburg, Pikeville and Paintsville who, according to him, had been "so overwhelmingly cooperative in their support of HOPE Industries' efforts to find meaningful employment through needed business and industrial pursuits in the region."

Bland pointed to 17 contracts for landscaping and lawn maintenance, contracts or agreements with the cities of Paintsville and Pikeville to collect paper, a contract with S & S Sanitation of Johnson county to collect paper and many agreements with individual merchants in Paintsville, Pikeville and Prestonsburg to handle their bulky boxes and cartons which give official garbage collectors problems because of their bulk.

The HOPE manager also reported that the contract with the Kentucky Surface Mining and Reclamation Association to plant seedlings on a pilot project site near the Martin-Johnson county line was completed on schedule April 15 with more than 6,000 trees planted in less than 10 days. Said Bland:

"This project proved that our people, handicapped though they may be, can do the job. What is more important . . . they proved it to themselves, and through their own suggestions we now know how to improve on our next project." "This is what HOPE Industries is all about," Bland observed, "helping people work toward their fullest potential to build lives of their own."

Club Donates $200 to School

Mrs. Tommy Rose, Prestonsburg Junior Woman's Club incoming treasurer, presents John K. Pitts, principal of the Clark Elementary School, a $200 check to begin a new program, known nationally as "RIF." The program is designed to start next fall for the remedial reading and special education classes at the school. Goals of the program are two-fold: To provide ownership of books and permit freedom of choice in book selection. It will be used as an incentive to get children to read more and to place books in the hands of children who may not have reading materials in their homes. Two hundred dollars will buy approximately 500 books.

Conservationist Group Asks Engineer Corps Reform

By BILL PETERSON
(In The Courier-Journal)

WASHINGTON—A leading environmental group yesterday called for massive reform of the Army Corps of Engineers, citing eight Kentucky dams as examples of "disastrous projects" the corps has promoted.

In a lengthy document presented to corps officials, the Environmental Policy Center (EPC) accused Army engineers of mismanagement, poor planning, "hookwinking" Congress, political favoritism, arrogance and "incompetent engineering."

It recommends that eight Kentucky dam projects in various stages of development be dropped, describing them as "disastrous projects opposed by all the leading national conservation organizations."

They are the Falmouth Dam, Red River Dam, Paintsville Dam, Taylorsville Dam near Louisville, Eagle Creek Dam, Camp Ground Dam, Yatesville Dam, and Booneville Dam.

The EPC, which has led fights against strip mining and the supersonic transport (SST), singled out Rep. Carl D. Perkins, chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee, and several projects in his Eastern Kentucky district for special criticism.

Referring specifically to Perkins, the conservation group said: "The corps is guilty of blatant favoritism toward certain powerful members of Congress and is willing to advance some of the most unjustified projects in the districts of these congressmen."

Three major reservoirs have already been completed in Perkins' district, it said. "But the corps hasn't stopped there: It's just about completed Carr Fork and Cave Run dams and is about to begin on Paintsville, Yatesville and Red River dams, all in Congressman Perkins' district."

Only one other current member of Congress, Sen. John McClellan, D-Ark., received such criticism. EPC spokesman Brent Blackwelder described Perkins as one of the "worst dozen" members of Congress in regards to dam and reservoir projects.

He attributed the large number of projects in Perkins' district to an "unholy alliance" of corps planners, special interest groups and pork-barreling in Congress.

The Hindman, Ky., Democrat was in his home district... and couldn't be reached for comment. His press aid, Ivan Swift, defended the projects, contending they had "reduced the tremendous amount of floods in the 7th District."

"Perkins has an extremely flood-prone district because of the mountain terrain, heavy rainfall and numerous streams," Swift said. "The people have clamored for flood protection and Perkins has worked hard to get it for them."

He accused the EPC of "mudslinging" and suggested that by making such charges it was "destroying the reputation of the environmental movement."

The charges were included in "95 theses" the EPC and several other environmental groups presented the corps yesterday. Originally, the groups intended to tack the theses on the office door of Lt. Gen. W. C. Gribble, chief of engineers.

But when Blackwelder knocked on Gribble's door, Major A. Emmerson, a corps public affairs officer, stepped out and accepted the document.

The general was out, he said. "We have no responses to this at this time. There are plenty of pages here. We'll read and study them."

The theses represent a major condemnation of past corps activities, methods and motives, criticizing many projects the corps has spent more than $7 billion on since 1936.

They charge the corps has made many flood problems worse, not better, contending the corps has benefitted special interest groups and real estate developers more than flood victims. They attack the way the corps calculates its cost-benefit ratios used to justify projects, the way it acquires land, its engineering practices and the damage projects have done to wildlife, historical sites and land.

The EPC theses recommend a major overhaul of corps activities beginning with the adoption of suggestions made in a 1966 Task Force on Federal Flood Control Policy and the firing of "its antiquated civilian planners who have countenanced all the outrageous projects of the past two decades."

The environmentalists used several Kentucky projects, including some of the eight they recommend dropping, to illustrate what they said were specific corps deficiencies.

The proposed Falmouth Dam in Northern Kentucky is cited as an example of a project that benefits the "well-to-do." "Projects like the Falmouth and Red River Dam in Kentucky would greatly enrich the owners and developers of the floodplain lands downstream" at the expense of small farmers, the theses contend.

Wolf Creek Dam on the Cumberland River in Southeastern Kentucky is mentioned as an example of "incompetent engineering." The dam, completed in 1951 at a cost of $81 million, has developed leaks and the corps is seeking $64 million to rebuild it.

"Because the corps built the project on porous limestone foundation which has dissolved, the dam would collapse unless corrective action is taken," the theses charge.

Guard Unit Here Formed, May 1

After several months of discussion between city officials and representatives of the Kentucky National Guard and a period of recruitment activities, the Guard unit to be located in Prestonsburg was officially organized as of May 1, it was learned Tuesday.

Col. Wellman, chief operations and training officer of the Kentucky National Guard said "the response has been tremendous" to the armory and he added, "We are extremely proud and enthused with the formation of this new unit."

Wellman said a total of 66 are presently listed in the unit but he added that the number "is increasing every day." He said the unit is authorized for a maximum of 84 members.

The first drill will be conducted May 18 at the F.O.E. building here and summer camp will be at Fort Polk, Louisiana from May 25 through June 8, Wellman said.

Construction of an armory in the Prestonsburg vicinity has been authorized, but actual construction must await acquisition of a site.

Attorney General's Recent Rulings

Among opinions released last week from the office of Atty. Gen. Ed W. Hancock were the following:

Asst. Atty. Gen. Walter C. Herdman said, in response to a question submitted by Sen. Eugene P. Stuart, of Prospect, that Sen. Lacey Smith is not in violation of any statute in his role as legal aide to the mayor of Louisville. He pointed out that Sen. Smith is not an employee or officer of the city, but an independent contractor in an attorney-client relationship.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Carl Miller issued an opinion that a school board may enact regulations requiring a student to be absent a limited number of days. Although pupils over 16 are not required by law to attend school, if they choose to attend they are subjected to the same regulations. The information was sent to Charles A. Brown, superintendent of Fleming county schools.

MAJESTIC BLUEGRASS HOME—A home that could easily be a duplicate of Scarlett O'Hara's beloved Tara from "Gone With The Wind," Mt. Brilliant looks out on Russell Cave Pike in Fayette County. The imposing structure, named after one of Patrick Henry's homes in Virginia, was built in 1796 and is typical of several mansions that dot the Bluegrass State. Countless thoroughbreds have grazed on the estate's lush pasture, including the 1908 Derby winner, Stone Street, bred by James B. Haggin.

Attorney General Files Tax Suits

The state attorney general's Consumer Protection Division has filed seven suits against car dealers alleged to have overcharged customers on usage taxes and has asked that the dealers be ordered to refund overcharges to the customers. The suits, which stem from an investigation by the division into Kentucky's retail automobile industry, allege such overcharging is in violation of the state Consumer Protection Act, which outlaws "false, misleading and deceptive" practices.

Telephone Calls To Precede State Survey of Game

Frankfort, Ky., May 2—The telephone will ring at least once in 3,000 Kentucky households, sometime between May 13 and May 24.

If yours is one of those 3,000 phones, don't hang up when the caller, a woman, asks: "Is there a hunter in your household?"

It won't be a prank and there won't be an idiot on the other end of your receiver, either.

The call will simply be a part of the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources' annual telephone survey, one phase of an effort to determine how much game was harvested by Kentucky hunters during last year's hunting season.

Should you answer, "Yes," she'll ask you to cooperate with the Department by filling out a brief questionnaire about the number of hunting trips, kinds and numbers of game killed.

The questionnaires will be mailed from the Game Management Division and, according to Carl Kays, wildlife biologist in charge of the project, the information gleaned from them will help biologists in recommending lengths of future seasons and bag and possession limits.

All calls will be made between 5 and 9 p.m.

Much of the energy used in doing your family wash goes to heat the wash water. The more you use cold and warm water cycles, the more energy you save. Use permanent press and fluff cycles on your dryer for synthetic fiber garments. These cycles use warm or "air only" settings rather than hot and save considerable energy.

State Police Retain Hopes For Auto Title Legislation

By SUE ANNE SALMON
Frankfort, Ky.—At present, Kentucky is the only state without an auto title law, and Detective Sgt. Richard McQuown of the auto theft special investigations section of the Kentucky State Police (KSP) said he will assist the Legislative Research Commission in a study of other states' title laws to determine the most feasible title system for Kentucky.

"The title law won't insure that a car would not be stolen or retitled," he said, "but, it would make it easier for police to detect stolen vehicles and would deter the car thief who now uses a fictitious address in obtaining a quick negotiable registration."

Such a law would create a time lapse between an owner's application for and receipt of the registration document.

"Thousands of fictitious addresses are given every year by owners for various reasons," McQuown said, "but no thief is going to wait around for a document to reach his mail box."

"Mailing the document after time has elapsed would also insure the correct address of the owner for taxation purposes," the sergeant added.

"In addition, mistakes and the possibility that documents may be stolen from a clerk's office would be prevented if we had a centrally located office which would receive the applications from county clerks and process the title registrations," McQuown said.

Even if the police officer locates a suspected stolen vehicle, he may wave the driver on if the serial number is not listed as a stolen vehicle on the National Crime Information Center (NCIC) computer. Due to clerical error, many serial numbers are listed incorrectly.

The KSP auto theft section recently programmed a computer to list incorrect digital sequences of serial numbers for "high theft risk cars"—Lincolns, Corvettes, Cadillacs and Thunderbirds—registered during 1973.

The auto theft section is now notifying more than 6,000 car owners whose serial numbers were registered recently.

"Their chances of recovery would be minimal if their cars were stolen," he said. "The owner who reports his stolen vehicle must rely on the serial number copied on his registration certificate. If that number is wrong, then the vehicle would be reported incorrectly."

"A car thief depends on quick and easy registration and disposal. A good motor vehicle title law would put a stop to that," Sgt. McQuown added.

Canoe Races Set On Red River

A week-end of canoe racing, May 18-19, on Kentucky's scenic Red River, will feature competition in 12 classes over 10-mile and 20-mile courses.

Sponsored by the Powell County Jaycees, the annual Red River canoe race is now in its eighth year. Competition in the 10-mile races Saturday will begin at 11 a.m. (CDT) at the Bown Bridge, which is on Highway Ky-615, near Bowen. Classes represented in Saturday's races will include senior men's, junior men's commercial, mixed men's aluminum, mixed USCA cruiser, mixed intermediate commercial, women's intermediate commercial and women's USCA cruiser. Saturday's events will also feature sprint races in the war canoe class.

Sunday's 20-mile races, beginning at the KY-77 highway bridge near Nada Tunnel, are divided into the downriver Kayak class, men's junior intermediate commercial, men's senior intermediate commercial, men's senior junior USCA cruiser and men's senior USCA cruiser classes.

All races will be run under the rules of the Kentucky Canoe Association. Each contestant must have a Coast Guard approved life preserver in his possession at all times. Races will end at the Lions Club Park, near Stanton, where a fish fry will be held after the last race Sunday. At that time trophies will be presented to the first and second place winners in each of the 12 classes, in addition to the coveted Challenge Trophy, a revolving trophy awarded to the entrant with the fastest time regardless of class.

Re-enlisting in the Navy can really pay off.

Most men who have been in the Navy have met certain challenges, and are entitled to special advantages if they re-enlist. For example, if you are a Navy veteran whose last tour of duty ended 90 days to 2 years ago, and you are otherwise qualified, you are entitled to any of these choices:

1. Re-enlist for 4 years and select either the type of ship you'd like to serve on or the area in which you would like to serve.
2. Re-enlist for 5 years and select both type of ship and area.
3. Re-enlist for 6 years, and you may select both type of ship and area, or shore duty location.
4. As an alternate to the above choices, re-enlist at an E3 pay rate and train for a brand-new rating at "A" school.

As you see, re-enlisting in the Navy can really pay off.

Nominations Open To Naval Academy

Young men between the ages of 16-21 who are interested in applying to the U. S. Naval Academy for the class entering in July, 1975 should write their congressman as soon as possible to request a nomination to Annapolis.

There are many sources for nomination to the Academy. Nomination can come from senators, members of the House of Representatives, the Congressional Representative of Washington, D. C., the Resident Commissioner of Puerto Rico and the President and Vice President of the United States. It is not necessary to know these officials to apply.

For information on the types of nominations available, sample letters of application, answers to questions about admission and to initiate a file at the Naval Academy, write to: Superintendent, Attn: Candidate Guidance, U. S. Naval Academy, Annapolis, Maryland 21402. For immediate information, contact LCDR Gayle H. Rees USNR-R, the Blue and Gold officer for this area, at 1829 Dalna Drive, Lexington, Kentucky 40505. As the local representative of the Naval Academy, he is familiar with all admission requirements for the Academy.

Miss Stewart is a 1973 graduate of Allen Central High School and is presently attending Prestonsburg Community College. Mr. Ferguson, also a 1973 graduate of Allen Central, is attending Mayo State Vocational School.

The wedding will take place at the Maytown United Methodist Church on May 29 at 7 p.m. The gracious custom of open church will be observed.

Jenny Wiley Council To Honor Wheeler, Others at May Meet

Jenny Wiley Reading Council members will meet at the Martin Elementary School lunchroom next Tuesday evening to bestow honors upon selected guests who have been inspirational or instrumental to the success of one of the younger Kentucky Reading councils. The annual election meeting, which will include a covered dish dinner, will begin at 6 p.m.

Among the honored guests will be Dr. Arville Wheeler, the recipient of the 1973-'74 Jenny Wiley Council honorary membership. Dr. Wheeler, well-known author in the educational field, is presently serving as consultant in the Education-Research Division of George Peabody College for Teachers. His many publications include "White Squaw," the true story of Jennie Wiley.

Marie Stumbo, Council president announced the council will also pay special tribute to selected news media personnel who have been instrumental in the promotion of the Jenny Wiley Council. The first annual Special News Media Award will be presented to the newspaper editor who has made outstanding contributions to the success of the Jenny Wiley chapter of the International Reading Association. The recipient will be announced at the meeting.

Kentucky Afield

By Hope Carleton
Dept. of Fish and Wildlife

When most fishermen are coming back to the dock after a day on the water, there is another group waiting for the sun to set so they can begin pursuing their favorite, fish, the white bass.

After the spawning runs are complete, the whites return to the lakes and go on a heavy feeding spree. One of the best ways of catching them at this time is by night fishing with live minnows.

Fishing at night gives the angler an advantage because he does not have to hunt for the fish—he lets them find him. By anchoring his boat along a deep bank, point or hogback and casting the beams of a lantern or other artificial light into the water, the night fisherman attracts schools of bait fish, which in turn attract the bands of roving and hungry white bass.

The experienced fishermen plan to make their trip an all-night affair, knowing that most of the activity takes place from midnight to dawn. However, many like to be on the lake before dark in order to find a suitable location, anchor the boat from both stern and bow so it won't swing around, and generally get organized.

White and silver pond minnows about three inches long are the preferred bait, and they are fished at various depths until the anglers establish at what level the whites are feeding. Usually the minnows are hooked through both lips, lowered to the bottom, then retrieved slowly back toward the surface until a fish is hooked. Then the angler counts the number of turns of the reel handle to get an indication of the proper depth to fish.

Some recommended equipment for a night-fishing expedition is two anchors with plenty of line, warm clothing, rain gear, an extra light or two, and an ample supply of coffee. Either spinning or bait casting tackle can be used, and most experienced fishermen choose a number four or five aberdenn-style hook.

With the spawning runs now almost completed in Kentucky's lakes, the night fishermen are starting to get their gear together in anticipation of the whites returning to the lake. Already there have been reports from Herrington Lake of good night fishing, and the activity should soon start at most of the other major lakes as well.

The daily and possession limit on white bass is the same—60 per person, and when conditions are right, limit or near-limit strings are not unusual for the night fisherman.

Besides the action, which at times can be furious indeed, there is a special appeal about being out on the water on a warm spring night, watching the sun both set and rise over the lake. So if you've never tried night fishing for white bass, now is the time to plan a trip to your favorite lake.

You'll probably decide that it's a kind of fishing worth losing sleep over.

The National Labor Relations Act in 1935 established the national labor policy of protecting the right of workers to organize and elect their representatives for collective bargaining.

Festival of the Wildflowers

By REBA MAYO

Awake! Awake! The TRUMPET VINE blasted,
"The day is near at hand
When wildflowers come from out the earth
Bedecked to every land."

"Let's make, O Beauties! a festival
With music by the brook
Let's sing and dance and laugh and play
Right in this merry nook."

"What shall we honor!" the DAISIES asked.
"The Dance," The ANEMONES jiggled,
"Sweet Music," The TRILLIUM Trilled.
"No! No!" The POPPIES reneged.

"A wedding is the finest thing,
Great beauty and much grace,
What else can interest all our tribe,
Or propagate the race?"

"A wedding then," they all agreed,
And laughed and jiggled and sang,
The vale along the winding brook
With melody did ring.

"Who shall be married?" The CROCUS croaked,
(The WIND-FLOWER sighed close by)
"The WILD ROSE," chimed in every one.
(The VIOLETS began to cry)

"The WILD ROSE, then," the POPPIES bowed,
"We now extend our hand,
And she shall be the finest bride,
That ere bloomed in our land."

"Her gown shall be of QUEEN ANN'S LACE.
Her jewels, the sparkling dew,
Her train shall be a VEIL-OF-MIST,
And LADY'S SLIPPERS, satiny new."

"Sweet BLUEETS, too, shall twine her hair
Old SOLOMON'S SEAL her book,
On beauty past description we
With reverence shall look."

"But wait! Just wait!" JOHNNIE-JUMP-UP called (With hope upon his face)
"Indeed you've chosen a lovely bride,
"So a GROOM must have a place."

"Sweet WILLIAM, then," Sang all the flowers
(JOHNNIE'S hopes began to die)
"SWEET WILLIAM, them," the POPPIES bowed (JOE'S TEARS began to fly).

"SWEET WILLIAM, then, shall dress unique
With white and purple flowers,
The PANSIES' velvet makes the coat,
And DUTCHMAN'S BREETCHES the trousers."

The wedding day was just like this ...
When all the flowers grew nearer
The BLUE BELLS rang, the TRILLIUMS sang
The TRUMPETS grew loud and clearer.

All over the hills and far beyond
Great PHLO were standing watching,
The IRIS and the PANSY beds
On nearby slopes were splotching.

The MOSS PINKS sat in millions camped
On points along the river,
The FIRE FLAME and the SHOOTING STAR
Made the bridal path aglitter.

The bride and groom just met beneath
A cliff of TRAILING ARBUTUS,
And JACKS-IN-THE-PULPIT read aloud
The sermon 'bout doing your duties.

And WILD ROSE dear did blush and say
"I shall, my kind SWEET WILLIAM."
And he, in turn—so ardently—
Clasped his "one rose in a million."

Now their new home is lighted 'round
With DANDY LIONS yellow,
The ADDERS TONGUE will guard the ground
'Gainst any bad offender.

"Each year we'll have a festival
While every one is radiant
"In honor of the lovely stage
OF SPRING TIME'S RECREATION."

Judge Stumbo Proclaims Mental Health Month

County Judge Henry Stumbo has proclaimed the month of May Mental Health Month for Floyd county.

The proclamation said, in part:
"... many of our citizens give generously of their time and energies to support and promote effective mental health programs in Floyd County; ... Mountain Comprehensive Care Center through its local staff and programs continues to have an increasingly positive impact on the mental health of our people. ..."

Judge Stumbo urged all citizens "to acquaint themselves with local mental health programs and to give these programs their encouragement and support."

Further recognition of May as Mental Health Month will come in the form of programs and activities to be sponsored by the Floyd County Mental Health-Retardation Association.

Floyd County's Turner Recipient Of Distinguished Faculty Award

Pikeville, Ky.—Two long-time members of the Pikeville College community were recipients of Alumni Awards here last Saturday.

Dr. Redford Damron, a former acting president of the college and professor of sociology, was presented the "Outstanding Alumni Award" and Virgil O. Turner, political science professor, was presented the "Distinguished Faculty Award."

Turner received a $200 cash award for his leadership, teaching ability and influence on students.

Turner, a native of Floyd county, is a graduate of Berea College. He received his B.A. degree from Berea and later received the M.A. from the University of Kentucky. Deciding upon a law career, he attended Duke University where he received his L. B. degree. While at Duke on scholarship, he was a member of the Duke Law Journal Staff.

A political science professor at Pikeville College since 1962, he is a member of the Kentucky Bar Association, T.K.A. and Pi Sigma Pi.

His educational career began in Floyd county as a principal of Maytown High School. Before joining Pikeville College, he was superintendent of the Floyd county school system.

He has been president of the Eastern Kentucky Education Association, charter member and chairman of the Floyd County Library Board, and a Washington, D.C., lobbyist for the National Education Association.

Published widely, Turner's two most outstanding articles were "Crisis 1001: A Study in Integration" and "A Survey of Criminal Law Practice in North Carolina."

Turner was recently selected as one of 140 professors to attend a national conference at Reston, Virginia, on "The People, the Congress, and the Presidency." During the seminar, the professors and political science students were addressed by and talked informally with Vice President Gerald Ford.

Presentations of the awards were made during the annual Alumni and Commencement Banquet at Pikeville College. Among the students recognized was William Bottoms, of Prestonsburg, who received the accounting award.

The Employment Act of 1946 committed the government to take all practicable measures to promote maximum employment production and purchasing power, according to a Labor Department publication, "A Brief History of the American Labor Movement."

Reed Receives Honorary Degree At Pikeville College Exercises

One of two men honored at the Pikeville College graduation exercises last Sunday afternoon was Floyd county's B. F. Reed, upon whom was conferred the honorary Doctor of Humanities degrees. The other, the Rev. Charles Morton Hanna, Jr., executive presbyter of the Presbytery of Transylvania, Lexington, was awarded the Doctor of Divinity degree.

Mr. Reed, a native of Shamokin, Pa., began his long career in the coal industry in 1914 as a colliery clerk in Northumberland County, Pa., served as treasurer of the J. P. Burton Coal Company, Cleveland, Ohio, from 1922 to 1927, then came to Kentucky to help organize the Turner Elkhorn Mining Company at Drift.

Mr. Reed is one of the founders of the Big Sandy-Elkhorn Coal Operators Association and is a director of that group also the National Coal Association and the Kentucky Coal Association. He is a past president of the Kentucky Coal Association and a former director of the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce.

A former director of Spindletop Research, Lexington, Ky., Mr. Reed also served as chairman of the Eastern Kentucky Regional Planning Commission which group made the systems proposals later adopted by the Appalachian Regional Commission and the Kentucky Department of Highways. He is board chairman of the First Guaranty Bank of Martin, Ky., and of the Big Sandy Insurance Agency of Martin.

Mr. Reed is an elder in the Presbyterian Church at Drift and has long been active in Scouting, having served as president of the Lonesome Pine Council and also has served as council finance chairman. In 1953, Mr. Reed was chairman of the fund-raising campaign for the Floyd County Bookmobile. He has been awarded two of Scouting's highest honors—the Silver Beaver and Silver Antelope Awards.

He is a Shriner and a member of the Board of Regents of Morehead State University, Morehead, Ky.

Mr. and Mrs. David Derr and son, David Allen, are enjoying the many new experiences they have encountered while making their home in Danneberg, Germany. Mrs. Derr is the former Kathy Goines, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Goines, former Floyd county. Mr. Derr's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Harold Derr, of Perryville, Ohio.

The Derrs expect to return to this country in the fall and will make their home in Perryville, Ohio. Mr. Derr is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Noah Collins, of Printer, and the late Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Goines, of Drift.

Cook Announces CEP Approval After July 1

The Eastern Kentucky Concentrated Employment Program, Inc. (CEP), which serves Floyd and 21 other counties, has been singled out as eligible for additional federal funding because of the effectiveness of its program.

Senator Marlow Cook reported that the U.S. Department of Labor in Washington named the Hazard-based CEP as eligible for grants under the new Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA). That designation, which only three other rural CEPs in the nation earned, means that the Kentucky project will receive grants to carry on its program for the next year, beginning July 1.

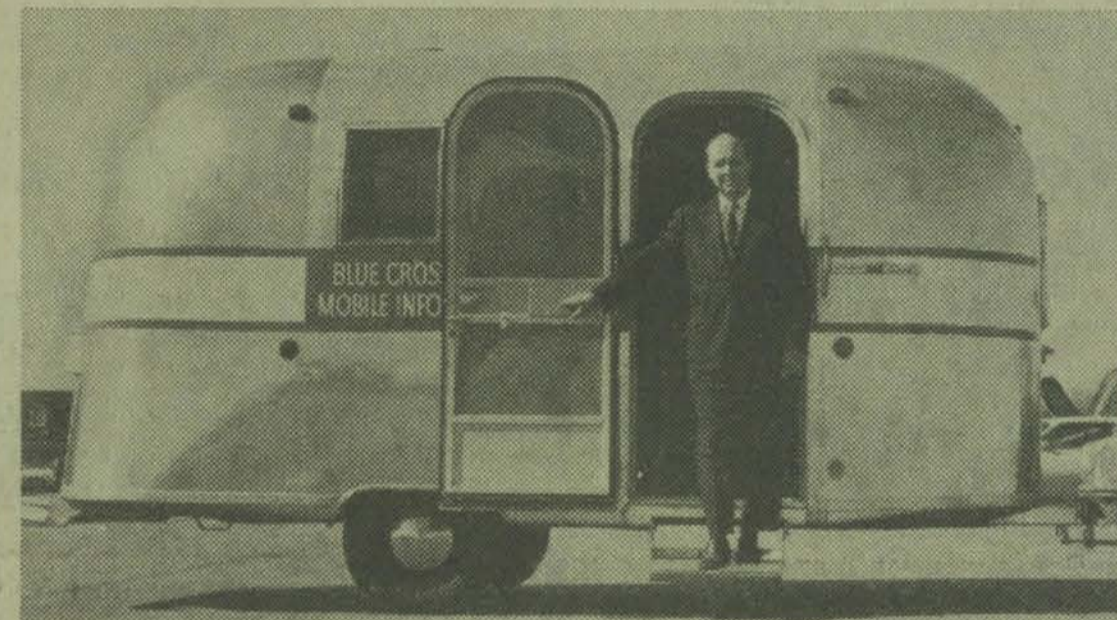

The Eastern Kentucky CEP was selected April 25 as a prime sponsor under the CETA because it had demonstrated special capabilities for carrying out programs for the counties it serves, according to Cook.

Those capabilities include a low dollar cost per enrollee completion as well as high percentages of enrollees completing the program, being placed in well-paying jobs and retaining their job 60 days after completing the program.

CEP's serve individuals in areas of high unemployment with an umbrella of manpower services aimed at returning them to employment.

LOSING HAIR? National's Hair Consultant IN PIKEVILLE FRIDAY WILL EXPLAIN HAIR PROBLEMS FREE

George Swowers shows results by National Home Treatment.

FREE CONSULTATION
MEN and WOMEN just take a few minutes of your time on FRIDAY, MAY 10 and go to the LANDMARK MOTEL, PIKEVILLE between 1 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. and ask the desk clerk for F. W. DANGLER'S room number, or call for appointment.

There is no charge or obligation... all consultations are private, you will not be embarrassed in any way. Learn how you can treat yourself right in the privacy of your own home.

If you are not already slick bald, how can you be sure what is actually causing your hair loss? Even if baldness seems to "run in the family," this is certainly no proof of the cause of your hair loss.

Many conditions can cause hair loss. No matter which one is causing your hair loss, if you wait until you are slick bald and your hair roots are dead you are beyond help. If you still have hair on the top of your head, don't put it off until it's all off. It doesn't make sense for a man to let himself go bald, certainly not without seeing a National Hair and Scalp Consultant to see if we can help you.

Male pattern baldness is the cause of a great majority of cases of baldness and excessive hair loss, for which no method is effective. National's Hair consultant cannot help those who are slick bald after years of gradual hair loss.

WRITTEN GUARANTEE
If you are accepted for treatment, you will be given a written guarantee on a pro-rated basis from beginning to end.

Floyd Countians Invest More in Savings Bonds

If Floyd countians' investments to date this year in U. S. Savings Bonds reflects the business climate, the county never had it so good. At the end of February sales of Series E and H Savings Bonds in this county had reached $64,530, which was within $22,107 of the total purchased in all of last year. The bond sales goal for this county in 1974 is $464,400. Statewide cumulative sales for the current year reached $13,872,024 or 17.9 percent of the 1974 goal of $77,400,000. Sales for the same period in 1973 were $13,549,726. Pike, Magoffin and Letcher counties, which are in Group 9 with Floyd and six other area counties, have already exceeded their 1973 bond purchases. Other counties in the group are Breathitt, Harlan, Knott, Leslie, Perry and Wolfe.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of my sister Jill, slain January 23, 1974:

She was my sister
Full of sunshine that glistened;
She wore a smile that my heart
Cannot forget.

With black hair that shone,
With tears in her eyes,
She always told me... "I love you."

With a heart full of love
She lost her life. No I'm

The years may pass but our Love will last and we'll see
One another, someday

With tears in my eyes
I can see her by my side,
And I'm saying to her... "I love you."

Gray Cites Factors That Hinder Kentucky Highways Program

Frankfort, Ky.—Secretary of Transportation James E. Gray recently stated that transportation and highway programs are being pressured by three separate factors. "Presently the department faces a five to 10 per cent decline in revenue, price rises that have doubled the cost of some essential construction and maintenance commodities, and we must pay $72 million in bond indebtedness," Gray pointed out. Gray commended Gov. Wendell Ford for adding $26.5 million in general fund monies to the budget of the Department of Transportation.

"Having this support from the general fund has enabled us to develop a budget and matching construction and maintenance schedules that will provide sound programs for the two years ahead. "Not all the projects that are needed or wanted can be funded, but no program or section will be neglected for lack of money," he said. Gray explained that the 1973 general road fund had revenues of $258 million, while estimates for fiscal 1974 show revenues of only $245 million—a reduction of five per cent. According to Gray, the loss in revenue is the result of a decline in sales and consumption of gasoline and a decrease in usage tax on new car sales. Another problem facing the Department of Transportation is spiraling inflation. Gray explained that the cost of gasoline and liquid asphalt has doubled, while the cost of guardrails has jumped from $1.15 to $1.88 per foot and reinforcing rods from 12 to 18 cents per pound. He said that the largest burden facing the Department of Transportation is the money needed for the retirement of general obligation and toll road bonds. This year alone, he added, that figure will amount to $72 million and will require four cents out of every nine cents the state earns from gasoline tax.

Cleanup of 400,000 Junkers A Two-Year Kentucky Project

Frankfort, Ky.—The state plans a massive campaign to rid Kentucky of many of an estimated 400,000 junk cars in the next two years.

Thomas Harris, commissioner of Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, said there is no official goal, "but we'll knock a big hole in that 400,000."

Only a small dent has been made up to now. For example, in the past six months a mere 5,000 junk vehicles have been hauled away in various counties under volunteer programs. That's hardly enough to keep pace with the current accumulation of junkers.

However, that was before the state obtained special equipment, including 10 trucks with winches, and had been carried on under a modest $26,000 yearly budget.

The 1974 legislature has appropriated $130,000 for each of the next two years, expressly for removing junk cars, and there may even be more money from unspent highway funds previously appropriated.

Harris said the key to success appears to be the cooperation of local authorities.

Typically a civic-minded club decides to rid the county of junk cars and asks the state to help with manpower and equipment.

Local officials get releases from property owners for cars on their land and draw up a detailed map. The state uses its trucks to haul the vehicles to a central point.

Then a crushing company under contract squashes the cars into small squares and takes them away, paying the local organization up to $15 per vehicle.

"The people in the county make the plans and locate the vehicles," Harris said. "We come in with manpower and equipment and do what they tell us to."

A typical operation is under way in Harlan County, with an estimated 6,000 junk vehicles clogging rights-of-way, hillsides and creek beds.

A kickoff campaign was held in Cumberland two weeks ago under leadership of the Jaycees, and more than 2,000 vehicles so far have been tagged and made ready for pickup.

"We have adopted a policy of not going into any county and telling it to clean up," Harris said. "They must invite us and we'll send a representative."

Counties already finished with their junk car riddance include Clark 600, Hardin 1,000, Owen 490, Bell 1,500, Leslie 3,500, Carroll 500 and Marshall 300.

Another 20 counties have notified the Special Programs Division in Natural Resources they are interested in the project.

Harris indicated the state exercises extreme caution on hauling away junkers.

"If it's on the right-of-way we get in touch with the State Police or county sheriff and they make an official request to get it moved," he said.

"If it's on private property, regardless of whether the owner put it there, we think it necessary to have a release signed by the property owner."

The commissioner said that often people with junkers in their yards are willing to have them moved away without charge if they can retain certain parts.

Harris said the bulk of junk vehicles is in Eastern Kentucky's mountains.

"I've heard people say Kentucky is worse than any other state," he said. "Let's just say this: We have our share."

Proclaims Nursing Home Week

Eleanor Robinson, administrator, Eunice Hall, director of nurses, and Patsy Evans, activity director, of Mountain Manor Nursing Home, observe as Mayor William O. Goebel, Jr. signs a proclamation designating the week of May 12-19, National Nursing Home Week in Prestonsburg. National Nursing Home Week is being recognized by communities throughout the nation. Mayor Goebel's proclamation urged all residents to join in this observance and participate in activities marking the week "in a show of community encouragement and recognition for the services nursing homes perform in the public good."

Scrubbers described, examined and rejected.

The Environmental Protection Agency recommends that electric utilities install "stack gas scrubbers" to control sulfur-oxide emissions and meet the standards that have been set.

WHAT IS A "STACK GAS SCRUBBER"? There are many "stack gas scrubber" systems. All have been tested. Some — the most promising — more than others.

Simply stated, the scrubber is designed to eliminate most of the sulfur-oxide emissions by creating, in a chamber, a violent rainstorm of water laced with huge quantities of a chemical, limestone or lime for instance.

WHAT DOES CAREFUL EXAMINATION REVEAL?

Problems. Horrendous problems.

Scrubber systems do remove sulfur-oxides. But in the process all of them are plagued with one or more problems that make them unreliable and impractical for a major electric utility.

Many scrubber systems produce a by-product that clogs the operation or erodes or corrodes the mechanism. Faults that cause shut downs. An impossible situation for an electric utility that must have a reliable power supply operation that will work all day, every day.

If the system doesn't clog and shut down it creates massive amounts of sludge.

Some — like the most popular and most studied system, the wet lime or limestone scrubber — do both.

To understand the vastness of the amount of ground-polluting sludge produced, consider this:

If limestone scrubbers were applied to a 12,000 megawatt coal-fired system they would in only five years produce enough of this "oozy gook" to destroy and cover 10 square miles of America to a depth of 5 feet.

How's that for a system that's supposed to solve pollution problems!

If it doesn't have either of these major faults chances are it will have some of several less dramatic problems. And chances are it hasn't been tested at a coal-burning plant.

WHAT MAKES AMERICAN ELECTRIC POWER REJECT SCRUBBERS?

The problems revealed. The score card on scrubber tests. Time and time again proven too unreliable, too impractical for electric utility use.

But a greater overriding reason is the sincere belief that there are better ways to solve the sulfur-oxide emission problem.

One way is to release the enormous reserves of U.S. Government-owned low sulfur coal in the West.

At the same time continue the investment of time, energy and money in the development of the technology to clean high-sulfur coal before it is burned.

Such a positive program, we think, is in the best interest of the people we serve and the country we live in.

Singer Slain Near Jackson

Jackson, Ky.—A singer with a country music group was shot and killed last Thursday morning, and a man identified as his friend of several years was arrested in connection with the slaying.

Breathitt County Sheriff Roy Watkins said Roy Lee Centers, 29, of Jackson, identified as lead singer with Ralph Stanley and the Clinch Mountain Boys, was killed instantly when he was shot about 3:30 a.m. after the truck in which he was riding with one of his sons and an adult couple, ran off the road and into a creek.

Sheriff Watkins said Chief Deputy Sheriff Orville Shouse, Jr. arrested the driver of the truck, William Robert Hurst, 39, also of Jackson, and described as a friend of the victim.

Hurst surrendered at the scene without resistance and turned over to the deputy a .38-caliber pistol with which the slaying reportedly was committed.

Hurst was jailed here, and Sheriff Watkins said he was charged with murder. No date for the arraignment has been set.

According to the Sheriff's investigation, in which he said he was assisted at his request by detectives from the State Police, the two men, one of Centers' two young sons and a woman companion of Hurst were riding in the truck on Ky. 39 (Booneville Road) when the two men began fighting.

The truck ran off the edge of the road and stopped with the vehicle bed backed into the waters of Cane Creek, about three miles west of Jackson.

The shooting occurred afterwards near the truck, the sheriff said. He added that Centers' body was found lying on the ground about 12 feet from the truck. He had been shot twice in the face and once in a leg.

No one was injured in the truck accident, the sheriff added. He said Hurst, a Jackson land developer and owner of some business properties, declined to make a statement about the shooting.

Centers is survived by his wife, Mrs. Lucille Centers; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Centers, Stamping Ground; a daughter, Sherry Lou Centers, at home; two sons, George Leonard and Norman Lee Centers, at home; a sister, Mrs. Daisy White, Cleveland, Ohio, and three brothers, Elmer Centers, Columbus City, Ind., and Daniel Boone and William Centers, Stamping Ground.

Services were conducted at 2 p.m. Sunday at the Breathitt Funeral Home Chapel. Burial was in the Holbrook cemetery at Keck.

KEA Reviews Pay Schedules For State's Classroom Teachers

Starting salaries this year for Kentucky's public-school classroom teachers with bachelor's degrees and no experience range from $5,865 to $7,725, according to a new Kentucky Education Association (KEA) Research Unit publication.

The publication, "Kentucky Public-School Teachers: Salary Schedules and Related Information, 1973-74," shows a $5,865 beginning minimum salary reported by the Knox county school system. The top minimum of $7,725 for beginners is scheduled in the Fort Thomas school system.

KEA public relations and research director Charles Whaley said last year's scheduled salaries for beginning teachers with bachelor's degrees ranged from Knox county's $5,554 to Fort Thomas' $7,225.

Most Kentucky teachers are in the Rank III category, which means they have a bachelor's degree. The state-mandated minimum this year for Rank III teachers with no experience is $5,775.30.

For Rank III teachers at the maximum level of experience the highest scheduled salary ranges from $7,802 in Boyle county after 12 years to $11,520 in the Anchorage and Jefferson county systems after 15 years.

Starting salaries for Rank II teachers—those with master's degrees—range from $6,300 in Clinton County and Carroll County to $8,325 in Fort Thomas. At the maximum level of experience Rank II teachers receive a low of $8,292 in Lincoln county after 10 years and a high of $12,326 in Anchorage and Jefferson county after 14 years.

For Rank I teachers—those with a master's degree plus 30 approval college-credit hours beyond the master's—starting salaries this year range from $6,724 in Jackson county to $8,825 in Fort Thomas.

The highest salary a Kentucky teacher at the Rank I level can earn in a local school system ranges from $8,793 in Lincoln county after 10 years to $13,140 in Jefferson county after 15 years.

Kentucky's average salary for classroom teachers this year is estimated at $8,244, ranking the state 47th in the nation. The national average is $10,673.

Whaley noted that the seven states bordering Kentucky pay their classroom teachers an average of $9,870. This is $1,626 more than the Kentucky average.

Seven school systems—Floyd county, Bardstown, Bowling Green, Daviess County, Fayette county, Owensboro, and Woodford county—have salary schedules for teachers with doctor's degrees, a category above Rank I. The top salary paid the holder of a doctorate is $13,182 after 11 years in Owensboro.

Eight systems list longevity increments or supermaximums. Anchorage and Jefferson County pay $260 after 20 years and after 25 years, while Louisville and Fort Knox pay $250 after 20 years. McCracken County pays $75 at 15 years and $50 at 20 years. Other supermaximums are Danville's $150 at 25 years, Fayette County's $208 at 20 years and Green County's $250 after 10 years.

In the Floyd school system, the highest salary scheduled is $8,070 for Rank III teachers, $8,570 for Rank II teachers, and $9,080 for Rank I teachers.

The lowest salary scheduled in the county is $6,160 for Rank II teachers, $6,640 for Rank I teachers, and $7,135 for Rank I teachers.

The research memo prepared by Mrs. Floye Perkins, KEA assistant director of public relations and research, lists these median minimum and maximum salaries based on an analysis of salary schedules from all Kentucky school systems (half the systems are above the median and half are below the median): Median minimum—Rank III, $6,245; Rank II, $6,740; Rank I, $7,230. Median maximum—Rank III, $8,052; Rank II, $8,560; Rank I, $9,070.

Senior Citizens Begin Flower Arranging Class

Last Friday, the first class in flower arranging was held at the George P. Archer Senior Citizens Center. The class is taught by Mrs. Grace Burke, of Prestonsburg, and will meet every Friday at 11.

Mrs. Burke, in this first lesson, talked briefly on the art of drying flowers and greenery and displayed some of her work. The next lesson will be in the arranging of artificial flowers and in drying flowers.

Those participating were Mrs. Dinah Hall, Prestonsburg, Mrs. Alta Hayes, Sugar Loaf, Mrs. Jemima Shumate and Mrs. Caroline Jones, both of Bypro.

Anyone interested in attending this class, may contact the Center at 886-8386 in Prestonsburg. Transportation will be furnished to the Center with both transportation and participation in the class free of cost to senior citizens.

Wayland Army Officer Named Commander of Old Battery D

Ft. Still, Okla.—Early one morning an Army colonel walked his dog in a field at Ft. Bragg, N. C. Stumbling over something, the colonel discovered an almost-square concrete slab inscribed with a pair of crossed cannons, the numeral "17," and the letter "D."

Several months later, the five-by-six-foot marker was ceremoniously unveiled at Ft. Sill, Okla., more than a thousand miles away.

A 23-year-old officer from Wayland, Ky., was called forward.

On that April afternoon, Army Second Lieutenant Mabry E. (Bud) Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Martin, of Wayland, became honorary commander of Battery D of the 17th Field Artillery Regiment, now called the 1st Battalion of the 17th Field Artillery.

Born in 1917 as part of the horse-drawn heavy artillery unit, Battery D had been dead for a long time. And buried.

Until the colonel and his dog accidentally resurrected it. Recognizing the insignia, the colonel looked up the commander of the 17th's 1st Battalion.

They speculated that the memorial was inscribed between 1921 and 1929, when the regiment was stationed at Ft. Bragg. But the big stone hulk rightfully belonged to Ft. Sill, one of the regiment's two original homes.

The Oklahoma post was eager to reclaim "D." After all, it was the only American field artillery battery in World War I to win the Fourragere, one of France's top awards for heroism of a unit.

Ft. Sill won its case, and with a little help from Ft. Bragg's 82nd Airborne Division and the U. S. Air Force, the 2-ton, 10-inch-thick memorial was reassigned.

The battalion decreed that Battery D would be an honorary firing battery. It would take its place beside the other batteries—A, B, C, Service, and Headquarters.

And it would have its own commander, Lt. Martin, a graduate of Wayland High School and Clemson (S. C.) University.

Now Ft. Sill would revel in the glory of its reborn unit.

But only symbolically. For all practical purposes, Battery D is dead.
