

PE Building Cost Is Cut To $248,924 Education Board Says Funds at Hand Eliminates Bonding

Construction of the physical education building to serve the Martin Elementary School will be done by Tom O. McGuire, Prestonsburg contractor, for $248,924.07. That figure, reached in negotiations between Mr. McGuire and the architect after his original low bid on the project was approximately $100,000 above the architect's estimate, is still over the estimate by around $75,000 but it is $23,974.93 below the original bid which was the lowest of three offered.

The lower construction price was reached by negotiations which agreed upon the deletion of certain items from the contract. Major items deleted are bituminous paving, lawn planting and landscaping, benches and lockers, metal shelving and bleachers.

The Floyd County Board of Education approved the new cost figure, and Supt. Charles Clark transmitted the contract to the Floyd fiscal court for its approval Monday.

Old Bridge Passes As New Completed

They tore down the old bridge at Emma last week, soon after the new $439,899 span across the Big Sandy there was opened to traffic. In photo residents of Emma are interested spectators as machinery is being used to haul down the superstructure of the 47-year-old landmark. Some of those who live at Emma said they would have preferred to see the old bridge stand and be used for pedestrian traffic, but one pointed to old bolts from the bridge which were almost rusted in two. "It would have fallen before long, anyway, and somebody might have been killed," he remarked.

Fiscal Court Moves For Recreation Site

The Floyd fiscal court moved Monday toward the founding of a central recreation center in the vicinity of Allen. It instructed County Attorney James R. Allen to negotiate for the purchase of land owned by National Mines as a site for the center and directed him, if negotiations fail, to file condemnation proceedings immediately.

Land owned by the C. & O. Railway Company may also be involved, but this tract was not mentioned in the court's order.

The tract is now mainly used as a golf course. Plans for the recreation center involve not only a golf course but other facilities such as a swimming pool, tennis courts, picnic grounds, areas for various types of athletic events, a children's playground and the like.

At a meeting last Wednesday the court voted its approval of lifting the weight limit on a .6-mile section of the Mare Creek road at the request of the Greer Brothers & Young Coal Company. But it will require the company to post $65,000 bond to keep the road in good condition. The company also agreed to widen a part of the road and to strengthen an existing bridge.

Before the resolution was approved, the court called on Sheriff Joe W. Lewis, whose home is on the Mare Creek road, for his views. He said he had no objection to lifting the load limit "as long as the road is in good shape and we can get in and out." County Judge Henry Stumbo and Magistrate Dewey Roberts, in whose district the road is located, concurred in the position they would oppose lifting the limit if the road would not be kept in good condition.

The court voted permission for C. J. McNally and Hershell Owens to use county property adjoining the C. & O. right-of-way for transporting equipment and construction and operation of a railroad sidetrack on the Middle Creek road, near here. In other action the court accepted the May Village road into the county road system and agreed to repair

Long Probe of Chaffins Case May Be Nearing a Conclusion

The long, often frustrating investigation of the five-year-old mystery surrounding the slaying of James M. Chaffin may be drawing to action by the grand jury.

Mickey Porter one of several reported to have seen Chaffin the night of the murder, was brought here from Lexington last week by ambulance for grand jury questioning. Porter is still suffering from injuries sustained in an auto wreck.

What he told the jury has not been divulged, but officials apparently are ready to call for one or more indictments.

The body of the 27-year-old Chaffins was found at the roadside on Arkansas Creek, near Martin, Sunday morning, May 4, 1969. The car in which he had and blacktop the road; accepted the Clark Branch of Buffalo road into the County program; voted to condemn property of Howard and Bertha Keahley for right-of-way for a bridge across Toler Creek; voted construction of a bridge across Prater Creek to connect with the Johnson Branch area.

Salvage Work On Sunken Boat Considered Here

If anybody wants to salvage the steamboat reported buried in the sands of the Big Sandy River here, the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers' district office at Huntington, W. Va. has indicated it will sanction the effort.

Told that recovery of the wreckage is desired, a Corps spokesman told Donald L. (Dootney) Horn last week that he foresees no problem.

A Prestonsburg businessman reportedly has agreed to underwrite cost of salvaging the boat. It is believed the water has so preserved the boat that it can be removed from the river and used as a tourist attraction.

Although efforts to substantiate its sinking through historical records have been fruitless, many, in addition to Mr. Horn, have said they know the old craft is there in the river bottom.

"Every kid in West Prestonsburg knew the boat was there," Jack Hyden, who with Horn salvaged the boat's whistle and anchor, told The Times.

OPEN A. A. MEETING

A meeting of Alcoholics Anonymous will be open to the public Saturday evening at 8 o'clock at the Floyd County Library. The public is invited to hear an out-of-town speaker.

driven from his home in Louisville to visit his parents at Garrett was missing. He had been shot four times, in his head, chest and back. The auto was later found near David, 10 miles away. A man's suitcase found on a hillside near the mouth of the Open Fork of Middle Creek was thought to be the dead man's.

In the early days of the investigation officials and State Police thought a solution of the case would not be difficult. But as time passed and those thought to have information refused to talk, the trial grew dimmer.

Commonwealth's Attorney Harold J. Stumbo has been persistent in his search for evidence, and he has been joined in recent months by Sheriff Joe W. Lewis in the investigation.

This Town . . . That World

The word around, these days, is, if you step on President Ford's toe, don't say, "Pardon me."

In reply to an "urgent" inquiry: Yes, I still go fishing. At Dewey. Force of habit. Don't expect much. Therefore seldom disappointed. Or surprised.

FROM THE "GRASSROOTS"

The Stone County (Ark.) Leader is one of the more interesting newspapers to cross this cluttered desk, and one of its attractions to me is its "country correspondence." For instance:

The Dodd Mountain correspondent concluded his weekly contribution recently with a timely admonition. Wrote he:

"It is mailtime and I am tired, anyway, so until next week don't anyone squeeze the Charmin."

Work To Up Capacity Of Water Plant Seen

Prestonsburg's municipally owned water system hopes to start work next spring to increase capacity of its water plant by 250,000 to 300,000 gallons.

The system now has a capacity of a million gallons a day, and the extra production is necessary if the present 1400-customer load is to be increased, William O. Goebel, Sr., chairman of the water and gas system, said this week.

The 25-30 percent increase in plant capacity becomes more urgent as demands for water from outlying areas increase. The Bull Creek Water District is pinned down unless it can get a contract for water from the Prestonsburg system, and it is expected to open with 100 customers. The estimated customer load there in the next 5-10 years is 290.

The Emma-Cow Creek section is another area dependent upon a greater water supply here. A three-inch line has been extended to the mouths of Cow and Calf Creeks but the line up Cow Creek and the one to Emma is only two inches in diameter and the number of consumers has been limited. Further development in that section will require more water and a larger line.

The system is adding approximately 50 customers of the new Middle Creek Water District and has contracted to serve perhaps 15 homes to be built near the top of Abbott Mountain. The six-inch line to this area is being laid by the developers, C. R. Hatton and the B. & B. Engineering Company, from the main line downriver from Cliff and on the Cliff side of the river. This will eliminate the river crossing now in use to serve a few residences in the mouth of Abbott section.

The proposed improvements will cost in the neighborhood of $250,000, but not all are restricted to water system improvement or extension. Replacement of badly deteriorated gas lines in West Prestonsburg will cost between $60,000 and $75,000, it is estimated. Some

3 Juveniles Quizzed After Widow Hurt

Mrs. Anna Stratton, 77-year-old widow, is in serious condition at the Highlands Medical Center here after suffering a broken hip and other injuries at her Stanville home when knocked or shoved to the floor by one of three juveniles with whom she had argued.

Sheriff Joe W. Lewis said his investigation of the elderly woman's injury showed that a 14-year-old boy who had been staying with Mrs. Stratton in her trailer-home and two other youths were at the trailer, preparing to go squirrel-hunting before daybreak, the morning of Aug. 23. Mrs. Stratton was aroused from bed and in an exchange of words one of the three shoved her to the floor. The three left but returned later to find her yet on the floor, her hip and thigh broken.

Plans to operate have been postponed because of the injured woman's condition, Lewis said.

3 Draw Fines Of $275 Each For Marijuana

Three men were fined $275 each by Prestonsburg Police Judge Tom Lafferty after having been arrested over the past week on charges of illegal possession of marijuana.

Two of these were Paul Edward Minix, of Royalton, Magoffin county, and Michael L. Miller, of Wabash, Indiana after a search of their vehicle here last Tuesday by Deputy Sheriff Doug Lewis uncovered a small quantity of marijuana, some pipes, and other smoking paraphernalia. Minix was also charged with no operator's license and Miller was charged with permitting another to operate a vehicle without an operator's license.

The third to be fined was Danny Ray Blanton, of Pikeville, who was arrested in his car at Archer Park Saturday and charged with drunk driving as well as possession of marijuana. Deputy Sheriffs Doug Lewis, Linzie Hunt and Sherman Williams confiscated a pouch of "grass" as well as a marijuana cigarette.

Arrested on a third offense bootlegging charge Saturday at his home at Stumbo Hollow, near Drift, was Clarence Martin. Deputy Sheriffs Green Slone, Linzie Hunt, Doug Lewis, Roland Howell and Denver Newsome seized 12½ half-pints whiskey "off the kitchen table," as Sheriff Joe Wheeler Lewis reported. Martin executed bond Monday.

Others booked at the county jail over the past week, charges against each and arresting officers follow:

Manford McCarty, failure to appear in court, by State Trooper Setser; Turner Ramey, drunk driving and interfering with a police officer, by Constable Bob Hackworth; Henry Burkett, drunk driving, State Trooper Castle; John D. Horn, resisting arrest, reckless driving, attempt to elude a police officer, escaping custody while under arrest and failure to yield to an emergency vehicle, by Deputy Sheriffs Doug Lewis and Green Slone; Curtis Warrix, drunk driving, assault and battery and no operator's license, by Deputy Sheriffs Doug Lewis, Linzie Hunt and Sherman Williams; Hillard Branham, uttering a cold check, by Deputies Denver (See Story No. 4, Page 2)

Two Brothers, Father and Son Among Accused

Six men were named in murder indictments voted last week by the grand jury of the Floyd circuit court. They are:

James Gibson, accused of the murder of Ollie Conley; his brother, Amos, named as aiding and abetting in the Conley murder; Agnel Jones, his son Eddie and Johnny Martin, named in two murder counts of "aiding, abetting and conspiring each with the other in murdering Lawrence Conley" with a shotgun and James Clayton Conley with a revolver; Greenberry Tackett, charged with the murder of his brother-in-law, Carlos (Dickie) Hall.

Eddie Jones and Johnny Martin were already under indictment in the slayings of Lawrence and James Clayton Conley, and Jones' trial had been transferred to the Pike circuit court for trial. The trial of his father on the new indictment is also expected to be venued to Pike county. Trial of Martin has been scheduled during the current court term here.

Also named in the recent Carlos Hall slaying on Mud Creek was Mary Ellen Ireton, common-law wife of Greenberry Tackett. She is accused in one indictment of conspiracy to commit a murder and of obstructing justice by concealing evidence; in the other, of aiding and abetting the murder.

James and Amos Gibson were also named in an indictment alleging that they conspired and banded together to murder Ollie Conley.

The grand jury's first work last week was with the murder cases. It recessed last Friday, to re-convene Friday of this week.

Other indictments reported before the jury recessed include the following:

Jurich Resigns Post on Council; No Vote Is Seen

Dr. N. Roger Jurich submitted his official resignation from the City Council here at last Thursday night's council meeting, and a successor will probably be appointed by council members shortly.

City officials said the vacancy resulting from first-term Councilman Jurich's step-down would most likely be filled by appointment rather than election, since Jurich's resignation came less than 90 days prior to the general election in November. By this procedure, the Council seat would not be filled by an election until November, 1975.

In other action, council members voted to accept proposals by the City Planning Commission to install pedestrian "walk-don't walk" lights at the intersection of Court Street and South Lake Drive and to confer with the State Highway Commission on the possible construction of paved bicycle paths to accommodate Prestonsburg's increasing two-wheel traffic.

A low bid of $4,193, submitted by K.P.S. Manufacturing Co., of Bay City, Michigan, was accepted from among three other bidders by the council for the purchase of a wood chipper for the processing of such waste as broken or trimmed tree branches. Bids were also opened for the purchase of a new pickup truck for use by the city. The $3,179.85 asked by Music-Carter-Hughes was the lower of two offered.

$2500 Store Loss To Thieves Reported

Former State Representative Allen (Little A) Slone said Monday that thieves may have hauled away as much as $2,500 worth of the stock of his store at Blue River, sometime after Sunday midnight.

Mr. Slone said entrance to the store was effected through a feed storage room and that the thieves apparently loaded up a truck. Sheriff Joe W. Lewis investigated the break but no clue to the identity of the thieves has yet been gained.

The storeowner said the break apparently was made by a person or persons familiar with the store and its surroundings.

Three soon-to-be-completed greenhouses (pictured at right) will bring to a total of five the number of modern, temperature-controlled greenhouse facilities in operation at Mountain Comprehensive Care Center's Greenhouse Training Project. The project, located across U. S. 23 from Highlands Regional Medical Center, near here, also features a large office facility and an open air market (at left) staffed by patient-workers.

Suit by Music Claims Skylift Pact's Validity

Edward Music, of Prestonsburg, filed last Saturday a suit in Franklin circuit court at Frankfort challenging the state's cancellation of a contract with him to construct and operate a chairlift at Cumberland Falls State Park.

The suit seeks a declaration of Music's rights to the effect that he holds a legitimate lease from the state Department of Parks and should be permitted to begin operation of the chairlift.

The suit asks $1,600,000 damages for loss of income over the 20-year term of the lease, should its cancellation be upheld by the court, plus $107,000 for expenses Music incurred before the contract was cancelled.

An additional $100,000 is asked to cover lost profits during the current season and for depreciation of equipment on the ground but never erected because of the lease cancellation.

The Cumberland Falls chairlift became a hot issue last spring, with environmentalists attacking it as damaging to the natural beauty of the park and as encouraging further commercial development there. Governor Ford stopped the project in late April for further study, a few days later permitted work to be resumed and finally, on primary election day, cancelled the lease on the grounds that it violates the section of the state's Wild Rivers Bill which prohibits commercial development along certain sections of designated streams.

C. Kilmer Combs, who represents Mr. Music, said prior to the filing of the suit, "We feel like he (Music) had a valid lease, and we don't feel that anyone, including the state, can terminate a valid lease."

"The devil is real busy but he's never too busy to rock the cradle of a sleeping backslider."

JUST DROP IT
Bill Arrowood sends me this one:
A new pastor of a rural church decided to drop in on one of the Sunday school classes and test the efficiency of the teachers by quizzing the students.
"Who knocked down the wall of Jericho?" he asked one student.
"It sure wasn't me, Preacher," the boy replied.
"Such insolence," the preacher said to the teacher. "Do you let your students get by with such things?"
"Look, Reverend," replied the teacher. "Johnny is a good boy and doesn't lie. If he says he didn't do it, he didn't."

Thoroughly upset, the pastor took the matter to the church's board of deacons. After due consideration, the board sent the following message to the pastor.
"After due consideration of the matter, we see no point in making an issue of the incident. The board will pay for the damages to the wall and charge it off to vandalism."

Notes to an angry teenager:
Sure, I'm so hep-less that the word, "square" means to me a carpenter's item, but cool it, man, cool it. It may just be barely possible that you know even as much as I and twice as much as your Dad and Mom, but, remember, they knew enough to keep you from harm when you weren't so smart yourself. You may be capable of reversing the accepted saying that Mother knows best, I don't know. But take it from one who learned the hard way, a fellow has to be pretty capable for that. True, they may not have given you everything other youngsters have had, but you might consider those who have had a lot less. And, remember—they tried. Stick around, and some day you'll know how hard they tried. Bear with those ignorant old folks of yours. As you grow older you will find them to be wiser and yourself a little less like Solomon. Go ahead and spout steam, but enjoy while you may the love they have for you. For, dear angry youngster, it's just possible no others will ever love you so much.

After asking and getting the fiscal court's help as fiscal agent for the building undertaking, the board learned that it has capital outlay funds at hand to cover the cost.

"This," Superintendent Charles Clark commented, "means that we can do this building with our own funds and will not have to issue bonds and pay interest on the debt."

Mr. McGuire said he hopes to begin work at Martin within a few days.
The Martin improvement program, which also included renovation of the old Martin High School building, was first advertised two months ago, but bids received were so far in excess of the approximately $220,000 estimated cost that both were rejected. The renovation work was not readvertised.

The physical education facility under contract has an area of 9,240 square feet and will be constructed of block masonry and prefabricated steel.

The board of education at its meeting last Saturday approved the earlier action of high school principals and coaches in recommending that the annual "pre-season" basketball tournament sites be rotated among the five high schools. Hertofores, the tournament has been held at Prestonsburg High School's gymnasium. The rotation schedule provides that this year's tournament will be held at Betsy Layne High, next year's at McDowell, the 1976 tournament at Allen Central, in 1977 at Wheelwright High and in 1978 will return to Prestonsburg.

The board also approved its contract of support with Mountain Comprehensive Care Center for trainable special education classes and with the Kentucky Youth Research Center for Day Care space in the old Drift school. The lease of a portion of the Happy Hollow school grounds to the United Baptist Church at West Prestonsburg was renewed.

Gwen Williams was employed as a teacher at the McDowell Elementary School, and Raymond Griffith was employed in the same capacity at the Martin school.

Non-certified personnel employed included Melvina Scott, Virginia Allen and Linda Jones as cooks at the Garrett school; Ola Howard as fulltime janitor at Allen Central High and Mattie Jones as half-time janitor at the same school, and James and Russell Sherman as school bus drivers.

A delegation of 20 patrons of the Auxier school, headed by Clem Stumbo, Auxier postmaster and president of the PTA there, appeared at the board meeting in protest of conditions at the school. They listed as points for complaint the fact that the school has no library, art, music or physical education, no fulltime principal or office help. The school, they said, had 196 pupils at the end of the last school year and only seven teachers. By contrast, they pointed out that the Maytown school with 201 pupils had 11 teachers, a principal and office help.

Supt. Clark said the Auxier attendance is not sufficient to have the departments sought. To the contention that the school enrollment would be greater if fewer children in the Auxier area were transported to the Prestonsburg grade school, he pointed out that the board of education has never fixed boundary lines restricting pupils to any specific school.

Three members of the board of education—Dr. J. D. Adams, James A. Duff and Ray Campbell—will meet tomorrow (Thursday) at the school with parents to discuss the situation and possible remedies.

Ashland Oil Plans $100 Million In New Construction, Expansion

Ashland, Ky.—Ashland Oil, Inc. plans to spend approximately $100 million over the next three years at its Ashland refining complex, according to Orin E. Atkins, chairman of the board and chief executive officer.

Atkins said the capital expenditures will be split between two major projects: 1. Construction of a new plant to produce lubricating oils, and, 2. Construction of units for the production of lower-sulfur, environmentally acceptable fuels.

The lubricating oil plant will be capable of producing 5,000 barrels of high quality "lube stocks" a day. Since it will be one of the larger plants of its type in the world, its construction will help meet a growing international shortage of basic lubricating petroleum feedstocks. Company officials said the plant's output would assure adequate supplies of basic lubricating materials for use in the firm's well-known Valvoline products.

The new plant, which will utilize advanced solvent extraction and solvent dewaxing technology, will be built on available land within Ashland Oil's existing refinery complex near Ashland. It will incorporate equipment that will permit it to meet or exceed all applicable state and federal air, water and other environmental standards. Design work is now in progress, and completion of the plant has been set for 1977.

Production of the lower-sulfur fuels will be accomplished by the addition of three major new units to the refinery complex's present desulfurizing facilities. Ground has already been broken for the first of the new units, a distillate desulfurizer designed to remove 90 per cent of the sulfur from heating and diesel fuel oils and jet fuels.

Work will begin later this year on a heavy oil desulfurizer which will remove sulfur from oils processed by units in the refinery that produce heavier, industrial grade, fuels.

Sulfur from both units, as well as sulfur generated from existing process units, will be recovered for sale as elemental sulfur. This will be accomplished by a sulfur recovery unit which will be built concurrently as a part of the overall capital additions program.

The distillate desulfurizer and sulfur recovery plant are scheduled to be completed by early 1976. The heavy oil desulfurizer will be operational in 1977. The units not only will make a major contribution in meeting the need for cleaner fuels, but also will further enhance sulfur emissions control facilities at the refinery, spokesmen said.

The Lummus Company of Bloomfield, N. J., has been named contractor for the desulfurization projects. A contractor for the lubricating oil plant has not yet been chosen.

When all are operational, the new units should provide as many as 75 new jobs.

Letters to the Editor

Approves Editorial

Editor, The Times:

As a board member of the Kentucky State Right-to-Life Association, I am pleased to see the stand you have taken in your recent editorial, "Take Care to be Shocked."

Not long ago, citizens who expressed such concern were discredited by overzealous "libertines" as being reactionary conservatives trying to impose their values on others. The news media and misguided intellectuals came to the rescue of the anti-life groups. An organized campaign was staged to convince the public that our history, laws and all western religions are not based on the preservation, protection and appreciation of all human life. Although our laws and communications are increasingly representative of minority views, the nation's majority is decreasingly less willing to let its views be silenced.

The taking of liberty and rights from some eventually leads to the taking of liberty and rights from all. Twentieth Century history amply illustrates this fact. For those too young to remember World War II, let them examine recent American history. The end of liberty begins with the abbreviation of individual rights. In time, those who take away the rights of others live to see their own disappear.

Those living in Eastern Kentucky should be able to appreciate the dangers facing them, should our economic and social problems be solved by killing those with the problems, rather than addressing the causes of the problems. It's a reassuring experience to see that our local newspaper has taken a stand for life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. Some traditions are worth preserving.

If you use aluminum foil in your oven, make sure it is not blocking circulation from vents or you'll lose heat. Don't place foil directly under a pan; heat is deflected away from the pan. It's better to place a slightly larger pan or a piece of foil on the lower shelf to catch spills.

Light for a Duck's Dark World

(From CONSERVATION NEWS)

We recently received a fascinating little story from Dr. Arthur G. Peterson of DeBary, Florida, which bears repeating. It seems that a variety of mallard ducks and coots, some domesticated and others migratory, nest on Dr. Peterson's "beautiful 15-acre, pine-rimmed lake" in central Florida. Last Spring, Dr. Peterson happened to notice some strange behavioral goings-on between two of the mature mallards, and he tells the story:

One day I became aware that John-Duck was unusually attentive to Mary-duck, as if he had taken her into protective custody. Since it was not the mating season, this puzzled me. Whenever I appeared, even at a distance that he formerly ignored, he would issue an alert in the form of a low "Quack-quack."

When I came near, his quacking became louder and with a tone of anxiety. Then he would head for the lake, quacking loudly all the way. Mary-duck, with evident understanding, tagged close behind him.

I never saw Mary-duck alone, not until one rainy day when she was huddled under a red cedar. This was the opportunity for which I had waited. Quickly I got my fish-landing net and approaching quietly in the wet grass. I slipped the net over her and soon overcame her struggle.

My suspicion was confirmed. Both of her eyes were opaque. She was stoneblind and John-duck was her seeing eye. When I released her she rushed away and bumped into some shrubs. Then she backed off, slowed down, and headed for the lake.

Before she got there, John-duck met her with reassuring quacks and the indirect vision to guide her in her dark world, as all nature seemed to rejoice.

Loss to Black Cats Here Mars Pike Grid Record

By C. OLLIE ROBINSON

The Prestonsburg Blackcats knocked the Pikeville Panthers from the undefeated ranks last Friday night with a come-from-behind 13 to 12 win.

Two years ago, Pikeville lost only one game and that was to Prestonsburg, 12 to 8; however, that year Pikeville went on to the finals of the Class A competition.

This year's Pikeville team is fast and aggressive, one of the better Kentucky Class A teams. Pikeville had shut out Lynch and Virgie, so Prestonsburg scored the first touchdown on Pikeville this year.

In fact, the Blackcats scored quickly in the first quarter on a 4-yard run by Danny Layne. The kick failed. Pikeville came back in the second quarter and scored on quarterback Scotty Smith's keeper. Their run failed and at halftime the score was deadlocked at 6 all. Pikeville came back in the third quarter and went ahead by a touchdown as Joe VanHoose scored on a 12-yard run. Again the run failed. The Blackcat defensive line was tremendous throughout the ball game and especially in the final six minutes of the third quarter and all of the fourth quarter. Quarterback Del Jagers scored the final Cat touchdown on a 12-yard dash to tie the ball game up at 12-all. Danny Layne kicked the extra and that was enough as the Blackcat defensive really went to work and held the Panthers scoreless from then on out.

Prestonsburg rushed for 243 yards while Pikeville picked up 156 yards. Prestons-burg had 13 yards through the air, Pikeville had a total of 41 yards.

Danny Layne was Prestonsburg's leading rusher with 80 yards on 12 tries. Steve Campbell picked up 72 yards on 16 carries, Harry Lee Burchett had 70 yards on 11 carries, Dennis Walker snagged a Smith pass late in the ball game.

Prestonsburg's record now stands at 2 and 1. The Cats will play host to Greenup County Friday night in the Class Double A competition, while Pikeville will face Wheelwright in Class A.

Consumer Comments

By ED W. HANCOCK
(Attorney General)

Bait advertising is an insincere and dishonest offer to sell a product or a service which the advertiser actually does not intend or want to sell. Its sole purpose is to lure the consumer into the store where his attention is "switched" to a much higher priced item or service.

Bait and switch tactics are forbidden by Federal Trade Commission's Guides and are contrary to the Kentucky Consumer Protection Act which prohibits "false, misleading and deceptive acts or practices."

The theory behind bait and switch tactics is very simple—and obvious to most consumers. But some dishonest merchants have developed sophisticated bait and switch practices to sell carpets, freezers, beef, furniture and many other types of articles and services.

For example, an advertisement may offer a home freezer at a "fantastic, end-of-the-summer price of $150." This looks very appealing, especially to the many consumers who hope to fight increasing food prices by freezing food for winter. When the consumer rushes down to the merchant to save money on both the freezer and food prices, he may find a small, dusty or even damaged freezer stored away in the corner of the store.

The salesperson tells the consumer that the freezer really isn't very practical, hold only a few pounds of food, and probably isn't worth even $50. However, surrounding the freezer on sale may be numerous new freezers for only $400—that's only a couple of dollars extra per month. The salesperson may even refuse to demonstrate or sell the "bait" item in order to "switch" the consumer to the more expensive product.

It is an illegal trade practice for a merchant to discourage the purchase of advertised merchandise as part of a bait scheme to sell other merchandise. If a merchant refuses to demonstrate or sell an advertised article, uses disparaging words about the advertised article, or fails to have a sufficient quantity of the advertised product available at all outlets listed in the advertisement, he may be engaged in illegal bait and switch tactics.

Students To Collect For Cystic Fibrosis

The Cystic Fibrosis Breath of Life campaign is presently being conducted in Floyd County, and this Saturday high school and college students will take donations from motorists at various traffic stops throughout the area.

Mrs. James R. Allen is Cystic Fibrosis Foundation chairman for the county, and she emphasized that there are six million reasons why the Breath of Life Campaign needs volunteers—six million boys and girls who have the inherited, incurable disease, cystic fibrosis, or other lung diseases like chronic bronchitis, bronchiectases, severe asthma, and a condition sometimes called childhood emphysema.

The National Cystic Fibroses Research Foundation supports over 100 Cystic Fibrosis Centers across the country, where children suffering lung diseases are diagnosed and treated. It also supports continuous research, seeking a cure or more effective control for Cystic Fibroses and the development of new techniques to make possible a practical test to determine carriers of the C-F gene.

Money contributed through the Breath of Life Campaign over the years has made possible research and care which has significantly increased the life expectancy of C-F children. Although Cystic Fibrosis is still incurable, these children are living into the teen years and increasing numbers are reaching young adulthood. This research has also brought tremendous advances in the treatment of other chronic respiratory illnesses. Today, many of these diseases can be cured, and all respond favorably to treatment.

School Board District 2, I Think You Should Know

Five or six years ago, a member of my family went before the Floyd County Grand Jury to seek an indictment of Charles Clark and the 5 members of the Floyd County Board of Education. Most of the members of the grand jury listened to the presentation sympathetically. The presentation included listings of numbers of Kentucky state school laws that I claimed were being flagrantly violated and many existing conditions in Floyd County's school system which, I alleged, violated specific laws. These were actual listings of alleged crimes being committed against the children and youth of Floyd County along with the naming of the KRS numbers which were being violated daily.

No member of the grand jury challenged the validity of the presentation. One member made this remark, "It's always been that way in Floyd County."

I am now seeking an indictment of the Floyd County school system, a people's indictment of a school system ruled by greed and personal ambition, through fear. Fear of losing jobs, positions and favors.

Four years ago in the school board race, a great many people spoke out against the policies of the Floyd County Board of Education. I feel that to fall to speak out against crimes being committed against our children, when I know it to be true, would make me guilty also.

I spent 4 years of my life during the Korean War defending people's freedom, and find now, years later in my own Country, my county, my community that many people do not feel free. Indeed, we will never be free until we are willing to unite and show the spirit of our forefathers when they united in their struggle for independence.

We all know that our schools in Floyd County have become tools to be used, not primarily for education, but as a means of keeping the people under control. Only two kinds of people are going to vote against me November 5, 1974, those that would continue using our schools to gain or keep personal power or positions, and those who are uninformed, who haven't been exposed to the truth.

I AM THE CANDIDATE WHO IS SPEAKING OUT AGAINST THE CRIMES AND I HAVE NO HUNGER FOR POLITICAL POWER.

I Needed the Quiet

I needed the quiet, so He drew me aside Into the shadows where we could confide,

Away from the bustle where all the day long

I hurried and worried when active and strong.

I needed the quiet, tho at first I rebelled,

But gently, so gently, my cross he upheld,

And whispered so sweetly of spiritual things.

Tho weakened in body, my spirit took wings

To heights never dreamed of when active and gay.

He loved me so greatly, He drew me away.

I needed the quiet. No prison my bed, But a beautiful valley of blessing instead.—

A place to grow richer in Jesus to hide. I needed the quiet, so He drew me aside.

(In memory of Joe Crum, died Aug. 30, 1968.)

Mrs. Julian Carroll, general chairman of the Wilderness Road Girl Scout Council fund drives, made the announcement at a luncheon August 9 at the Lieutenant Governor's Mansion.

The luncheon was held for the chairmen of the 37 fund drives to be held in those areas of the local Girl Scout council with no federated campaigns such as United Way or Community Chest.

The goal of these local fund drives has been set at $20,000 or 6 percent of the $321,002 budget. The remainder of the support for Girl Scouting in 55 counties in Kentucky and one county in Tennessee and one in Ohio comes from United Fund contributions, gifts, grants, foundations and from the annual Girl Scout Cookie Sale.

Mrs. Carroll noted that the purpose of Girl Scouting today is helping girls grow and develop as creative, responsible individuals, deepening their self awareness, fostering their sense of oneness and interdependence with others, and encouraging their contributions as citizens in their homes, communities, nation and world.

The Last Journey

(In memory of my father, J. Fred Gearheart)

God called him away a while ago To a place where, I'm sure, he wanted to go.

To a land of joy and peace and rest, A home for the ransomed who've stood the test.

While he lived below, he labored long And all who knew him knew he was strong.

Strong in faith, in hope, in trust, He laid up treasures that did not rust.

He was a man with a heart of gold, He stood for right, he was staunch and bold.

He was honest, truthful, firm and grand, A valuable tool in the Master's hand.

The Master used him throughout the years, He never faltered nor yielded to fears.

Onward he plodded at a steady pace Until the end of his earthly race.

He must have known it was time to go. His summons was clear in a voice, soft and low.

"Come on, my child, your work is done, Your toils are ended, the victory's won.

"You've fought your battles gallantly, Come now and live eternally.

Enter the rest spoken of for thee forever more

In the ninth verse of Hebrews in chapter four."

When he arrived on the other side I know Heaven's gates swung open wide.

As he entered, the laid his burdens down And traded his cross for a brilliant crown.

Island Creek Grant To Benefit Students

Pikeville, Ky.—Five Pikeville College students in mining technology will benefit from a $1,500 contribution from the Island Creek Coal Company and its parent company, Occidental Petroleum.

Gary White, director of public relations for the Paintsville office of Island Creek, presented the two checks to Dr. Maurice Bailey, director of the college program, and John Waddell, provost of the school.

White said the scholarship checks were presented to Pikeville College because of the long affiliation between the school and the company in coal mining and a recently developed program of the coal miners acceptance and attitudes toward mining equipment modifications. The investigative and evaluation program of attitudes will be conducted at the Island Creek Jenny Mine in Martin county.

The U. S. Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics estimates that about 101.5 million workers will be employed by 1985, a 24 percent increase over 1972.

The bride is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. H. E. Pennington of Flemingsburg, formerly of Prestonsburg, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sexton, of Versailles.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Bobby Downing, Winchester Street, Paris. Selections included: "Wedding Song," "The Lord's Prayer," "Love One Another," "The Two Shall Be One," and the traditional "Wedding March."

The church was decorated with arrangements of gladioli and chrysanthemums with palm leaves.

The bride, in marriage by her parents, wore a gown designed by herself and made by her mother. The gown was white satin and chantilly lace fashioned with an empire bodice of chantilly lace, enriched by a high stand-up collar with a low neckline. The full length sleeves gathered into buttoned cuffs. The A-line satin skirt was edged in lace, matching the bodice with a full chapel train of chantilly lace. The shoulder-length veil of white tulle was attached to a Juliet cap covered with the chantilly lace. She wore a lavalier belonging to her grandmother, Mrs. W. B. Ritchie. The bridal bouquet was a cascade arrangement of miniature roses, carnations, daisies, and baby's breath.

Miss Melissa Faye Pennington, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor. Her gown was a yellow floral polyester designed with an empire bodice, bateau neckline and an A-line skirt, with short flared sleeves. She wore a picture hat of yellow and carried a nosegay of white daisies with rainbow streamers. Mrs. Wayne Cooper of Flemingsburg was matron of honor. She wore a pink floral polyester dress designed with a princess skirt stitched to the bodice above the normal waistline with a high round neckline and stand up collar with short flared sleeves. She wore a pink picture hat, and carried a nosegay of white daisies with rainbow streamers.

Mrs. Larry Sturgill of Paris and Miss Esther Hay of Bourbon County were bridesmaids. They wore gowns styled identically to that of the matron of honor.

The flower girl was Miss Christine Elizabeth Strock.

Jarvis Ritchie Wagoner, cousin of the bride, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Wagoner Jr. of Bourbon County, was the ring bearer.

Mr. Steve Sexton, brother of the groom, of Versailles, served as best man.

Ushers were Mr. Wayne Wagoner, Mr. Randy Wagoner, cousins of the bride, both of Bourbon county, and Mr. Robert Towers, of London, Ky. Candlelighters were Mr. Wayne Wagoner and Mr. Randy Wagoner.

ENERGY CONSERVATION TIP

Only about 5 per cent of the average annual bill comes from lighting. So, it doesn't make sense to use bulbs that are too low in wattage and run the risk of eye strain or accidents. Also, night lighting on your porch and in the house has been found to be the best protection against criminal break-ins.

Johnson Is Named
Admissions Head

Pippa Passes, Ky.—Denward Johnson, Weeksbury native and former assistant to the dean of Alice Lloyd College, has been named the college's director of admissions.

"Alice Lloyd College, more than any other school in Eastern Kentucky, is designed to fit the needs of the communities it serves," Johnson said. "Ample proof of this is found in the college's graduates who have remained in the area to serve the people of Eastern Kentucky. This is why I look forward to the challenge of serving as admissions director."

Johnson, 29, is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Burl Johnson, was born at Weeksbury and is a 1961 graduate of Wheelwright High School. He graduated from Alice Lloyd College in 1963 and at the University of Kentucky earned an undergraduate degree in political science and history in 1966.

After graduation, he taught American government and American history at Wheelwright High School until 1969 when he returned to school at Indiana State University at Terre Haute. There he completed work on a master's degree in guidance counseling and school administration.

He then joined the staff of ALC, serving first as a counselor in the College's Upward Bound Program, and later as the program's director. In 1972 he was promoted to director of co-curricular affairs, and a year later was named assistant to the dean.

Pike and Floyd Truck Citations Tops in State

Frankfort, Ky.—During the most recent reporting period—July 19-August 23—officers of the Bureau of Vehicle Regulation's Division of Highway Enforcement issued 633 overweight truck citations, 46 of which were issued in Floyd county.

Only Pike county, with 55 citations, had more legal action against overloaded trucks than Floyd.

Operators of overweight coal trucks (most of which were cited in the Eastern Kentucky coal producing counties) received 313 of the citations. Forty-two of the Floyd county citations were against coal trucks.

The remaining 320 citations were issued primarily to overweight freight carriers at the bureau's weigh stations which are located on the interstates and other major Kentucky trucking routes.

The July-August figures bring the total number of overweight citations issued throughout the state during 1974 (reporting period includes the last week of 1973) to 3,818.

Citations to overweight coal trucks have accounted for 1,529 of the total number issued.

In Western Kentucky only seven coal trucks were cited—one in Hopkins and six in Ohio county.

Coal truck citations in Eastern Kentucky counties: Bell, 4; Boyd, 16; Breathitt, 15; Carter, 7; Clay 11; Harlan, 9; Johnson, 32; Knott, 10; Knox, 3; Laurel, 9; Lawrence, 3; Lee, 13; Magoffin, 12; Martin, 6; Owsley, 5; Perry, 18; Pike, 44; Wayne, 9; Whitley, 4; Wolfe, 5.

By Rufus M. Reed

I often wonder, does cruel Time, given enough years, obliterate all living things and consign them to a forgotten sphere of the universe? In the case of the Mingo Oak, it is today mostly a fragile memory. The rotting ruins of its huge stump may remain for some time to mark the original birthplace.

The tree was felled in 1938, while some 2,000 people crowded into the valley of Trace to witness the crash of the "Old Monarch of Mingo." Many a rugged hand brushed away a tear as the huge trunk landed with a thunderous roar, never again to tower above the valley.

Employees of the State Department of Conservation erected an iron grill around the stump and poured cement on top of it, in a vain effort to preserve it for future generations. But the spreading root system which had drawn nourishment from the rich soil cannot be preserved by cement. In a few years, all signs of the oak's existence will vanish from the earth and nothing will be left to mark the spot but the deep pit in the earth after the roots have rotted away. Here a historical marker should be erected to commemorate the oak.

I spent some time studying the terrain in which the oak grew, and I feel sure I discovered the secret of its immense size; also, I came to the conclusion that never again can this region produce an oak the size of the "Old Monarch of Mingo."

The valley of Trace widens out a lot where the oak grew; this admitted plenty of sunlight for the work of photosynthesis. A tall mountain covered with deciduous trees rises abruptly near where the oak stood. This mountain had produced through the centuries a soil rich and black in humus from ages of leaf mould and decay. A small and quite steep ravine slices its way down the steep mountain, passing within a few feet of where the oak's great root system fanned out in all directions. During heavy rains, this ravine carried down the rich, black humus of the mountain and deposited it

Two Plead Guilty To Embezzlement

A criminal information was filed in federal court at Catlettsburg last Thursday against Ruth H. Sturgill for embezzlement of $68,890.91 from the Bank of Hindman in Knott county, U. S. District Atty. Eugene E. Siler, Jr. announced late last week.

Mrs. Sturgill, 44, of Hindman, waived her right to be indicted and entered a plea of guilty before Judge H. David Hermansdorfer. Siler said that Mrs. Sturgill had worked as a bookkeeper at the bank since 1968.

Sentencing was postponed by Judge Hermansdorfer until September 23.

A second criminal information was filed in federal court against Merion Gail Compton for embezzlement of $750 from the First National Bank of Pikeville.

Mrs. Compton, 26, of Pikeville, also waived her right to be indicted and pleaded guilty. Siler said that Mrs. Compton had worked as a bookkeeper at the bank since 1967.

Mrs. Compton was sentenced by Judge Hermansdorfer to 15-month suspended prison term and was fined $500.

about the root system of the oak. The small bench became laden with humus from the mountain above. So throughout the centuries of the oak's life it extended its vast root system and drew in the necessary minerals to insure a steady growth. The oak was fortunate in the selection of a favorable environment, one that nurtured and sustained it and insured constant growth. Small wonder it attained such an immense size.

My mind harks back to the wilderness days when the big oak's companions were the wild timber wolves which howled about it and preyed upon the white-tailed deer that sometimes sought its shade. The pure mountain air (not polluted then) often stirred in its crown and sang eternal lullabies. Mountain bobcats screamed about the oak, and wild passenger pigeons lit in its crown and feasted on its acorns.

This was the picture before white men settled in the valley. The pioneers cleared away the forests, built their cabins and raised their crops of corn and potatoes. In the course of time, industrial development came into the valley and brought drastic changes in the wild environment. Mining became the leading industry and soon mountains of waste material began to belch out poisonous fumes.

Under the present environmental conditions of the region, with the pollution of air and water, no tree can ever again attain the size of the Mingo Oak. One also regrets to say that the rich heritage of wild life that lived in the region in the early years of the oak has also vanished.

Schiewetz-Parson Vows Said

Jeri Schiewetz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Schiewetz of Miamisburg, Ohio, Springboro Road, and Kevin Parson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Parson, of Dayket Circle, Miamisburg, were united in marriage Friday evening, August 2, at 7:30 p.m., at St. John's Lutheran Church, Miamisburg.

The candlelight service was performed by the Rev. William Paul, former minister of St. John's, who came from Temperance, Michigan, to officiate at the ceremony.

Escorted by her father, the bride appeared in a satin gown with a nylon skirt overlay. The dress was designed with butterfly sleeves and an empire waistline, with daisies sprinkled on the bodice and on her mantilla veil. She carried a bouquet of daisy pompoms and baby's breath.

Mrs. Harry Martin, of Allen, Kentucky, the groom's grandmother, fashioned her new granddaughter's wedding gown.

The bride was attended by Kathy Burton, who was the maid of honor. Bridesmaids were her cousins, Laura, Becky, and Jenny Burkhart, and Jeannie Darst. The little flower girl was Becky Darst. The attendants wore dresses of white eyelet, lined with pastel rainbow colors. Complimenting the bride's dress, they were styled with butterfly sleeves and empire waistlines. They carried nosegays of daisy pompoms and baby's breath, tinted in rainbow colors.

Best man was Perry Kelly, with Dave Schiewetz, brother of the bride, Kenny and Mark Parson, brothers of the groom, and Dave Alexander as groomsmen. Jerry Saylor and Tim Brown served as ushers. The men wore black trousers and white jackets, with shirts in pastel hues to match the linings of the girls dresses.

A reception of 150 guests was held in the church social room, with Joni Guthel, Bobbie Schiewetz, and Nancy and Marty Burkhart serving as hostesses.

The newlyweds honeymooned in Kentucky and are now at home to their friends and relatives at 219 Marwood Court, Miamisburg.

Thursday evening before the wedding, the groom's parents entertained the wedding party with a picnic-style rehearsal dinner at their home.

College Head Views Decade of Progress

By DR. HENRY A. CAMPBELL, JR.

When I accepted the position as Director of Prestonsburg Community in the spring of 1964, I was impressed with the leadership on the main campus and the vision that they had for the Community College System of Kentucky. Although there have been times when it has appeared that Prestonsburg Community College has suffered from some of the overall plans, in the final analysis the direction that the Community Colleges have received from the presidents of the University of Kentucky and the deans and vice presidents for community colleges is having a lasting and worthwhile benefit for all the post high school students of Kentucky.

When I arrived in Prestonsburg in 1964, it was to temporary quarters in what is now part of the Fountain Korner Drug. There was a building engineer, Walter Reid, and a librarian, Robert Wallace. We employed Miss Judy Smiley as secretary and Walter Frasure as counselor soon after my arrival. The first year, we immediately ran into a crisis of no equipment, an incomplete building and a faculty allotment of nine, which was completely inadequate for our enrollment of 325 students. In an emergency meeting with Vice President A. D. Albright, who is now serving as head of the Council on Public Higher Education, we were allocated two additional full-time faculty members. The following year, we again had to appeal for extra help and received four additional faculty members with a new student enrollment of 564. Our third year brought a drastic increase in students and in faculty and staff positions, as 608 students actually enrolled for the fall semester.

Then in the fall of 1968-'69, we saw a drastic decrease in numbers of students throughout the Community College System and at this institution. We also were forced to share in a $24 million deficit on the state level. In some ways we are still trying to overcome that deficit. The one area in which we were extremely successful was in securing federal money, particularly in the areas of equipment. Person by person, position by position, we have been able to increase the staff in all areas of college life and have been able to secure capable and efficient young faculty members to give better services to our student body.

In July of this year for the first time there is an actual assistant director at Prestonsburg Community College. Robert R. Allen was recommended by the faculty of this institution, by the administration, and by the Community College System and the Board on July 1, 1974, officially made Mr. Allen an associate professor and assistant director.

We have tried to bring to this institution the most capable people we can find in each area to bolster our educational offerings. We now feel that we have obtained a desired level of capability for the programs we now offer. We have secured the 10 acres of land immediately adjacent on the south end of our campus after seven years of frustrating legal actions. We have been able to have two additional buildings added to the original campus and are looking forward to our third new building which will be a physical science building of 44,500 square feet. This would enable us gradually to take over the original building as an administration, library and fine arts center.

We are in the process of building some physical education facilities that would be available for not only college students and faculty but also for the community at large.

We are searching for new two-year programs to satisfy various needs in our area. The current nursing program has just graduated its first class with approximately 80 per cent of our class passing the State Board examination, first time attempted. We feel that our current student body of 476, of which 389 are full-time students and 87 are part-time, will give us a basis for steady growth in the next three years. We are actually going to be 50-75 students short of our anticipated enrollment this year, primarily in the area of part-time students. The biggest reason for this is the large number of young men who pre-registered in the spring but obtained jobs associated with the booming coal industry during the summer and who have not returned to school this fall.

Not only have we graduated our first class of nurses, but students who have attended this institution have gone on to become responsible and leading citizens in the Eastern Kentucky area. There have been 18 students who started work at this institution who are now M.D.'s, or are in medical school at the present time. We have graduated architects, engineers, teachers, counselors, social workers, secretaries, dentists, optometrists and pharmacists. I am sure that there are many other occupations that are represented that we are not aware of.

The financial aid office of this institution, led by Glen Cowan, our business officer, and Mrs. Carolyn H. Francis, our financial aid officer, has obtained aid for thousands of students in our 10 years of existence. For example, 196 students are receiving over $100,000 this year in some form of student financial aid. One of the greatest feelings that any of us associated with this institution can have is knowing that hundreds of young people are working in a professional capacity who could never have gone to school anywhere, had this institution not been here.

In the final analysis, the glory of any institution is the success that its product enjoys. We feel that our product has made Eastern Kentucky a better place to live, and that is glory enough for all of us.

But, if you are not already slick bald, how can you be sure what is actually causing your hair loss?

Many conditions can cause hair loss. No matter which one is causing your hair loss, if you wait until you are slick bald and your hair roots are dead you are beyond help. So, if you still have hair on top of your head, and would like to stop hair loss and grow more hair... now is the time to do something about it before it's too late.

Everage-Wade Vows Said

Miss Mary Catherine Everage became the bride of Mr. Paul Wade in a 7 p.m. ceremony, July 20, at St. Juliana Catholic Church at Martin.

dresses of pink and blue with circlets of white roses, lily of the valley and baby's breath entwined throughout. Each carried a single long stemmed white rose.

Escorted down the white-carpeted aisle by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of traditional satin and embroidered alencon lace accented with seed pearls. The fitted bodice had a high neckline and full Victorian sheer organza sleeved with deep lace-edged cuffs. The natural waistline held the softly gathered skirt fashioned with lace panels that fell from the waist to circle the hem. She wore a bandeau of Alencon lace accented with seed pearls which held her silk illusion mantilla, edged in matching lace, and carried a bouquet of white roses and lily of the valley with ribbon and baby's breath entwined throughout.

Serving the groom as best man was his brother, William Wade. Ushers and candlelighters were Eddie Clark, Doug Compton and Joseph Everage.

The groom's mother wore a floor-length dress of white polyester with gold accessories. Her corsage was of red roses.

A reception followed the ceremony at May Lodge.

The newlyweds will reside in Brown's Mills, New Jersey.

Mrs. Wade is a daughter of Mr. Joe Everage, of Martin, and the late Mrs. Everage. Mr. Wade is a son of Mrs. Jim Turner, of Drift.

EPA Says State Water Plan In Violation of Federal Law

By LIVINGSTON TAYLOR
(In the Courier-Journal)

Frankfort, Ky.—Reversing its position, the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has decided a controversial Kentucky stream-classification plan does not comply with federal law after all.

In an Aug. 19 letter to Gov. Wendell H. Ford, EPA regional administrator Jack E. Ravan of Atlanta asked the state to apply "aquatic life" water-quality standards to "all waters" in the state.

At present, Kentucky water pollution regulation WP-6-2 applies numerical purity standards only to those waters shown on a state Department of Commerce map "Streams of Kentucky."

If the state does not act, Ravan said, necessary changes will be adopted by federal regulation, as authorized by the federal water pollution control law.

An aide to Ford said yesterday that a reply to Ravan is being drafted. The state probably will agree to Raven's request, providing that EPA supplies an acceptable definition of "all waters," the aide said.

EPA's latest action comes after state Atty. Gen. Ed W. Hancock filed suit in Federal Court against Ravan and EPA administrator Russell Train, claiming that EPA's approval of WP-6-2 violated a federal law requiring that all waters be protected.

"It looks like they (EPA) are doing what we said should have been done initially—applying aquatic life standards to all the streams," Hancock said yesterday.

The action, when completed, "would make our lawsuit moot," Hancock said. Hancock filed suit in June.

EPA originally sided with his office, Hancock said, and the agency's latest move is its "second switchback" in a year-old dispute between the attorney general and state and federal officials.

State Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Secretary Thomas O. Harris adopted WP-6-2 last November, despite Hancock's opinion that it was illegal.

Ravan approved the regulation in February, hailing it as "a significant accomplishment."

However, in his new letter to Ford, Ravan wrote, "my staff has recently concluded a re-evaluation of the adequacy of the Kentucky (water quality) standards, with respect to (federal) law, . . . the (state) regulations promulgated pursuant thereto, and developing (court) case law."

"In addition, my staff has made on site evaluations of several bodies of water not depicted on the ("Streams of Kentucky") map . . .

"As a result of this review, it has been determined that Kentucky water quality standards do not classify all waters of the United States and are, therefore, inconsistent with the (federal) act," Ravan stated.

Ravan attached a draft of two amendments to Kentucky's regulations, which, he said, would bring the state into compliance. They provide that:

"All waters as defined in (federal regulations) not shown on the map . . . shall be classified 'aquatic life' . . . and shall meet the water quality criteria supporting that classification."

"The EPA administrator of a person he designates may grant exceptions to classifications or criteria upon a showing that "maintenance of water quality necessary for the preservation and propagation of desirable or indigenous species of aquatic biota and secondary contact recreation is not possible."

Exceptions would be granted "on a case-by-case basis . . . following an analysis of each area."

"The analysis must show that the necessary water quality cannot be maintained due to technological limitations and/or naturally occurring poor water quality," the proposed amendment states.

Ravan asked for a reply by Sept. 1 and said that, if the state did not change its standards, the proposed amendments would be adopted after publication in the Federal Register.

A spokesman for Ford said existence of the letter was not brought to the governor's attention until Tuesday, after this reporter's inquiry.

After being received in the governor's office, the letter had been sent to Harris. Harris in an interview Tuesday said the federal proposal is unacceptable to him until he gets further information.

"Let me ask you a question," Harris said. "If you were to accept this kind of a situation, would you like to know what the hell are 'all the waters . . . of the United States?' I can't find out from EPA."

"Are you talking about streams that boats can go up . . . streams that have full flow the year round . . . streams that have flow occasionally?" asked Harris.

Highway Deaths Near Record Low

By LEONARD KIMBALL
Frankfort, Ky.—State Police Commissioner Ron Johnson said recently that he would object to any attempt at making an "across-the-board" increase in the current 55 mile-an-hour speed law.

Johnson explained that while he thought speed limits on limited access highways (interstate and toll roads) could safely be raised to as much as 65 m.p.h., he believed that any effort to increase speed limits on secondary two-lane highways above the current 55 m.p.h. limit should be opposed.

Experience has shown that about 88 per cent of the state's traffic deaths occur on the secondary two-lane roads, he said.

Johnson expressed those views at a press conference at Frankfort during which he pointed out that the state's traffic death toll to date was at its lowest level since the same date in 1961 when it stood at 446 fatalities. On Sept. 3, the current deaths toll was 508. On the same date, one year ago, it was 757.

In addition, the commissioner also noted that only four deaths were recorded on Kentucky highways over this past Labor Day week-end as compared with 10 fatalities a year ago. It was the second best Labor Day week-end in the state's history, Johnson said. In 1959, only two deaths were reported.

Johnson said he thought it was not just a coincidence that road deaths dropped by 32 per cent this year while traffic citations rose 35 per cent. The 55 m.p.h. speed law, enacted last March as an emergency fuel-saving measure, does not deserve all of the credit for keeping the deaths toll down, he said.

In addition to increased speeding citations, Johnson said that state police arrests for drunk driving also increased 21 per cent during the first half of 1974.

Although continuing to agree that the lowered speed limit and a lower volume of traffic have played a part in reducing fatalities, Johnson said he believed that state and local police, Kentucky citizens, the news media and Gov. Wendell H. Ford deserve credit also.

"I believe we could have shown a reduction (in traffic fatalities) without a reduced speed law," he said. Kentucky already was doing considerably better than many other states even before the emergency speed law went into effect, the commissioner added.

Johnson cited several changes in the state police approach to traffic enforcement over the past 12-18 months which he believes have played a substantial role in holding 1974 traffic fatalities down.

A prime factor in reducing the death toll, Johnson said, was unbelievably strong support from Governor Ford, "not only with money but with moral support for the policeman as a professional. Unless I am badly fooled, both state and local police have gained increased confidence because of increased support from the governor's office."

Among the more interesting innovations described by Johnson was a handheld radar speed timing device which state police first began purchasing about one year ago to replace older, more cumbersome and more costly speed clocking units. Twenty-five of the new units are in use now. Delivery on another 25 is expected within about 60 days.

Johnson said that the new units offer a much greater flexibility—"because they are hand-held"—than was possible in the past.

With the old units, a trooper could clock traffic only from a parked position on the right-hand side of the road. And even then, Johnson added, he was limited to clocking traffic moving in one direction only. None of those limitations apply to the hand-held unit which is aimed, like a pistol, at the suspect speeder.

The hand-held units also are more flexible because they can be used 24 hours a day. The old units had to be mounted permanently on a car which meant that when the trooper ended his patrol shift, the unit went home with him.

In response to questions about motorists' suspicions that troopers may be dealing leniently with truckers, Johnson said, "If we find any trooper giving the truckers a break, he is going to be dealt with."

Johnson said that state police have been ordered to crack down on traffic violations by truckers, and the records show that the number of citations issued truckers since June is increasing.

Troopers also are spot-checking driver's licenses to catch truckers carrying a false license which might be used for identification if they are stopped for a violation.

The practice of "forthwithing" also is on the increase, Johnson said. "Forthwithing" requires that anyone charged with a traffic violation appear immediately before a judge to post bond if the trooper has reason to believe the person might not make an appearance on a later court date.

Usually, the amount of the bond approximates the amount of the actual fine, he said.
