Highway 23 Main Topic Of Meeting

Ashland Group Here On Tour Told Road Completion in Plan

Highways-a four-lane US 23, in particular-was the theme of the annual visit last Thursday evening of the Ashland Chamber of Commerce to this

Approximately 30 Ashland business and professional men, who were traveling by bus, met with business and civic leaders of Floyd, Johnson, Lawrence and Pike counties at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park. Mayor Pro-Tem Harold Cooley and City Manager Curtis Clark represented the city of Prestonsburg in the absence of Mayor William O. Goebel, who is a patient in a Louisville hospital.

A four-lane US 23, all the way from South Shore, Ky. to the Kentucky-Virginia line was emphasized as the No. 1 aim of the visiting group, but consideration also was given to an improved KY 3 from Louisa to Inez to Prstonsburg and to KY 80 from Water Gap to Hazard.

Bill Anderson, assistant division engineer, Department of Highways, said planning for four-laning US 23 from Ashland to Louisa is under way. He predicted future action of the same type of work for the route from Louisa to Prestonsburg.

Marking what he termed "a wild guess," Anderson said four-laning of the entire 168 miles of the highway could be completed within the next 6 to 10 years.

Four-lane construction from Pikeville toward Jenkins is under way, but the work there has encountered delays. In one sector planning has not been completed, it was said.

Court Approves Water Project

The Floyd fiscal court announced this week it has found that extension of water lines by the Beaver Elkhorn Water District will have no significant effect on the environment and that it proposes to request the release of funds to pay the cost of the work.

The court will ask $300,000 from the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), and this will be augmented by $286,000 of Appalachian Regional Commission money.

The proposed project involves extension of water distribution lines from three to eight inches in diameter to Finance Hollow, Drift Branch, McDowell Branch, McDowell (Middle Fork), Bosco and David. Approximately 17 miles of line will be laid, making water service available to approximately 300 homes.

Involved in the work is the extension of water service from the district's existing main on Brush Creek, across the mountain and down the left fork of Middle Creek to the town of David.

Public comments on the proposed work may be submitted to the office of County Judge Henry Stumbo till Nov. 25.

To Get $1,113,000 Employment Grant

Congressman Carl D. Perkins announced last week that a $1,113,000 Economic Development Administration (EDA) grant has been approved for the five-county Big Sandy area of which Floyd county is a part.

The EDA grant is intended to supply employed for 125 persons in the five counties. It will be administered by the Big Sandy Community Action Program to fight unemployment.

Board Accepts Allen Central Gymnasium Job

The Floyd County Board of Education voted Saturday its acceptance of the gymnasium section of Phase II construction at Allen Central High School, subject to State Department of Education approval.

If the state department approves, the gym will be used at first for basketball practice and soon, possibly, for actual competition, Supt. Charles Clark said.

The swimming pool to be used in connection with the new school's physical education program remains the main work to be done. The board at its monthly meeting

Saturday accepted the resignation of Eula C. Hall as English teacher in Prestonsburg High School and employed Mary Hall in her stead. Four persons were employed to coach basketball in three elementary schools of the county. The coaches and their assignments are:

Danny O'Quinn, girls' basketball at Garrett; Sandy Boyd, both boys' and girls' basketball at Prater; Forrest Curry, boys' basketball at Betsy Layne; Bill Newsome, girls' basketball at Betsy Layne.

Beer, Whisky Hauls Made

Four Left Beaver Creek raids staged by Sheriff Joe W. Lewis and Deputy Sheriffs Doug Lewis, Lenzie Hunt, Denver Spurlock, J. D. and Melvin Martin during a six-day period ending Sunday resulted in the arrest of a man and two women and the confiscation of 46 cases of beer, 385 half-pints of whiskey and gin, 23 pints of whiskey and two

First of the raids was made last Tuesday at Ligon, where eight cases of beer and a half-pint of gin were found on the premises of Bobby Joe Flanery. The premises of Gloria Dean Salisbury at Hunter were twice raided-first, last Thursday when eight cases of beer and 23 pints of whiskey were taken, and again Sunday when two quarts of wine were found. Biggest haul was made Friday in the raid on the premises of Naomi Martin at Drift where 720 cans of beer and 384 half-pints of whiskey were confiscated.

HE HAS DOUBLE TROUBLE

Any time you have an idea you're having it rough, look around. Somebody else, if it's any consolation, is in a worse fix. Today, Tuesday, has been a rough one for dejectedly y'rs. Bottom of the barrel scraped for news. Bottom bare, as I should have known it would be. Why not start walking due south?

Then it occurred to me. I have only a paper to get to bed, and a few miles down the road is a fellow-editor having it rougher even than I. I refer to my compadre, "Bud" Perry, who this day has the unusual distinction of trying his hand at not one but two tough jobs: 1. Getting enough news together to pass for a newspaper; 2. Trying at the same time to get himself elected mayor.

And I hope he succeeds in both en-

A REAL ANTIQUE

That news item telling of a woman's gift to Governor Carroll, the other day, of a 110-year-old rolling pin reminds us that Mrs. Edith F. James, of Prestonsburg, has a rolling pin that is at least 113 years old, and nobody knows how much older. It was a piece of flotsam caught during the flood of 1862, the greatest the Big Sandy valley ever experienced, by Mrs. James' father, Jasper Fitzpatrick, according to family lore. The rolling pin apparently hasn't been thrown much, it is so round and smooth, and until a few years ago was in almost daily use.

HOW TO GO BROKE WITHOUT REALLY TRYING

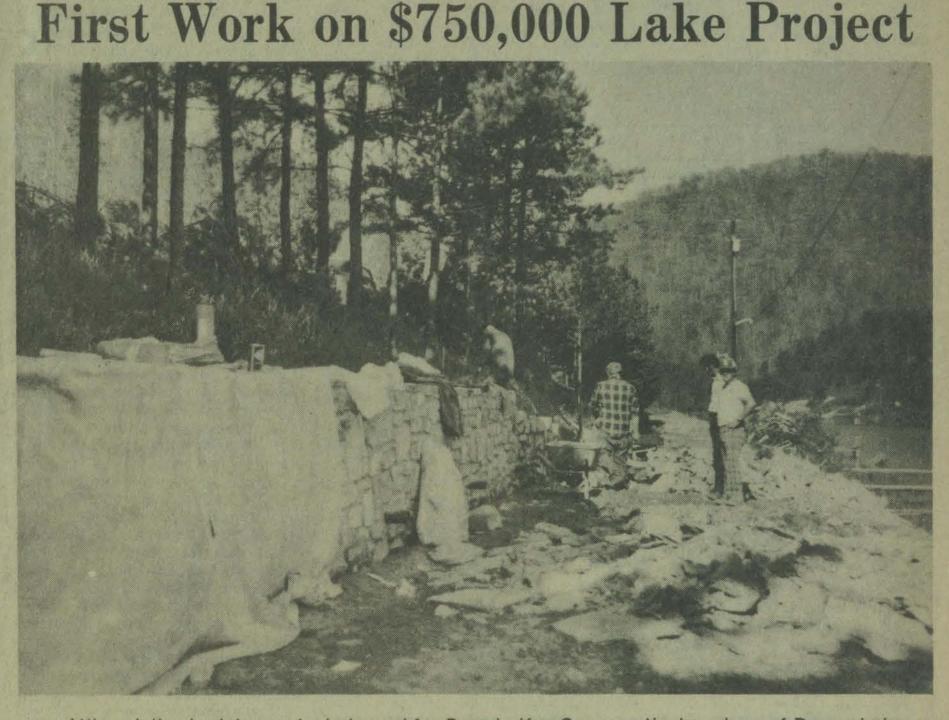

If you think crooks are smart, consider this story of a gang which started out in this county one night, a few years back, to get enough cash together to finance a whiskey-buying trip to Perry county. First of all, they picked up an estimated $100 worth of T-bones from a meat market. Just like money in the bank. But they weren't satisfied. Passing a hardware store, they decided to appropriate some of its stock.

But there was the matter of a large and not exactly friendly German shepherd standing in the way. So what do they do? One of the gang who had had previous acquaintance with the dog fed him the T-bones to keep him quiet while the others were appropriating a few items worth far less than the meat.

BUT YOU CAN'T PUT BEAUTY ON A STRINGER

Both of my readers have been clamoring for a fish story. Well, I made a trip, all the way to London (Kentucky, that is) to this new Laurel Lake in search of one. No fish story. I didn't, so to speak, hoist myself on my own petard by catching myself in the seat of the pants on my backswing and then heaving forward Others booked at the county jail within and on out of the boat. Didn't get lost, didn't fall into the lake. And the weather was wonderful, even though three of us, all close relatives of Joe Pflsk, descended upon the impoundment like locusts. The nearest I got to a fish was the 15-inch rainbow trout my son caught and

W'wright Gets Road Aid Funds

Gov. Julian Carroll has announced that the city of Wheelwright has been allotted $10,802.55 in municipal road aid money for the current fiscal year, beginning

Of the total amount allotted, $3,627 was identified as new money. The remainder consists of previously allocated funds remaining unexpended from the last fiscal year. The funds will be used to support the installation of street signs, blacktop patching, blacktop resurfacing and construction of sidewalks on various streets and roads within the city limits.

The work will be done by the city with the state's Bureau of Highways financing all or a portion of it in accordance with the municipal aid agreement.

Similar allocations to other communities also are being announced locally. In all, the state expects to allot nearly $9.5 million to muncipal road aid programs during this fiscal year.

P'burg, Martin City Elections Enliven Voting

Floyd county, as usual, was voting solidly Democratic, according to incomplete election returns Tuesday night, and in the early going the Democratic state ticket appeared to be winning.

Locally, however, two city races commanded most interest.

At Martin E. P. "Pete" Grigsby, Sr., the incumbent, won the race for mayor by a scant nine votes on the face of unofficial returns over James (Jack) Conley. Grigsby polled 237 votes to 228 for

In Prestonsburg the new eight-member City Council will be composed of Harold Cooley, George Cecil Brown, Hansel Cooley, Ronald L. Hager, E. "Shag" Branham, Donald D. Nunnery, Cloyd Johnson and Paul Phillip Hughes. All but Brown, Hager and Hughes are incumbents. All the winners, with the exception of Johnson and Hughes, were on the Independent ticket with Open Book device. Johnson ran as a Progressive Party candidate and Hughes as a candidate on the Liberty ticket. The vote totals in the Council race

Floyd Idle Rate Still Above 10%

Floyd county's unemployment rate for the month of September stood at 10.9 per cent, and the Eastern Kentucky rate as a whole continued to be higher than the state rate, which was 7.5 per cent.

Robert MacDonald, chief statistician for the Bureau of Manpower Services, said that, although the Eastern Kentucky coal business has been booming, the return to the area of many former residents who have been laid off work in other states has contributed to Eastern Kentucky's unemployment problem.

The Eastern Kentucky rate stood, overall, at 8.9 per cent. The highest for the month in the area-and the statewas Powell county's 21.6 pct. The lowest for this section of the state was Martin county, which once had one of Kentucky's greatest unemployment problems. Martin county's rate in September was 5.1 pct. The lowest rate in Kentucky was Ballard county's 3.4 pct.

The unemployment rate in other Eastern Kentucky counties:

Bell, 11.9; Boyd, 5.9; Breathitt, 11.6; Lawrence, 8.1; Lee, 18.2; Leslie, 12.2; Letcher, 11.0; Magoffin, 16.7; Carter, 12.0; Clay, 12.2; Elliott, 7.1; Menifee, 13.6; Morgan, 10.3; Owsley, 15.0; Perry, 10.2; Pike, 6.4; Greenup, 7.0; Harlan, 7.5; Johnson, 8.1; Knott, 9.7; Rowan, 5.4; Wolfe, 13.9.

Floyd County Couple May Lose Mine Fight

A Floyd county couple who won their fight last April to prevent strip-mining in the vicinity of their home at Teaberry on Mud Creek may lose, after all.

The state Division of Reclamation has granted the Paul Pelphrey Coal Co., of Paintsville, preliminary approval of a permit to mine land across KY 979 from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Milford Newsom. Reclamation officials said all the Paintsville firm needs to do to get a permit is to construct a silt dam. The Newsoms and some of their neighbors are fighting the proposed work which will extend 7,200 feet along Mud Creek, contending they fear the slope to be mined is too steep and too near their homes for them to be safe.

A permit to mine the same location was denied Ralph Moore, of this county, last April. The department declined to approve a permit at that time because, it was said, the miner proposed to push the overburden down the hillside. The procedure, it was held, would have threatened homes, the creek and the Opponents of the mining operation say they fear blasting will damage homes and that silt deposits could fill the creek and slides might endanger homes, highway and stream.

Mrs. Newsom said she and her husband have already invested $27,000 in their brick home, which is unfinished. "We've everything we've worked for tied up here, and it's pretty bad when you can't protect your property," Mrs. Newsom said.

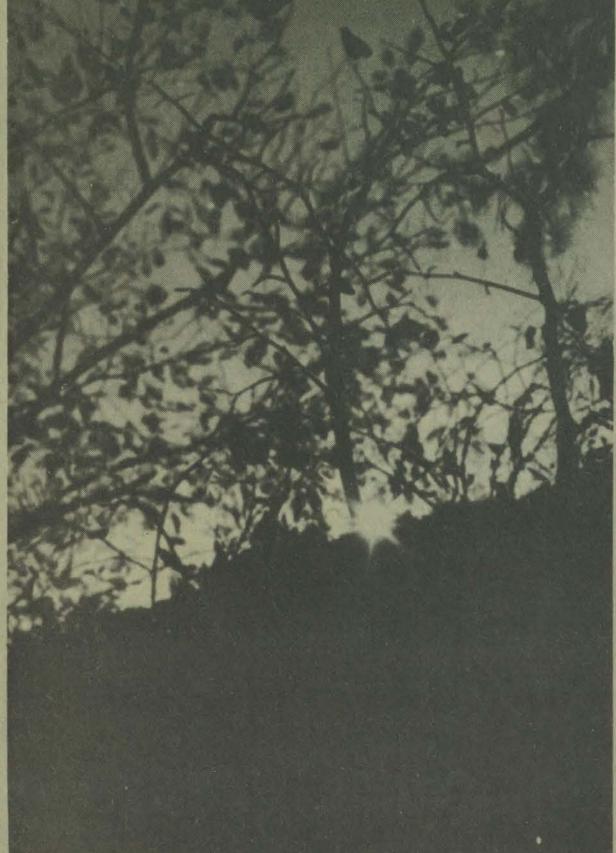

Approximately a third of about 18 residents of the vicinity are said to be opposing the mine operation. One, George Tackett, who lives below the mine site, commented, "If they can strip here, they can strip anywhere.

The coal company and some reclamation officials promise that the mine will be safe.

The Newsoms and Ralph Moore were quoted as alleging that Pelphrey's application for a mining permit had been strengthened by the support of Circuit Judge Hollie Conley, who leased the property to the Johnson county firm. Judge Conley, Pelphrey and Nevard Wells, head of the Prestonsburg district, Division of Reclamation, were emphatic in their denial that the judge had intervened in behalf of Pelphrey.

"I don't know if they can legally mine it or not, but I assume they can, or they wouldn't have gotten a permit," Judge Conley commented. "All I did was lease

The Fuel Crisis—Is it Real?

If the President and the Congress ever really make up their minds that the fuel crisis of which they all speak so much is truly a reality, conversion of coal to oil and gas will be a real part of the American industrial picture.

But, as of this moment, the national leadership is content to point with alarm and to depend upon the country's untapped, and largely unknown, resources—and on the uncertain supply of oil from the Near East and Soviet Russia.

Congressmen Carl D. Perkins and Tim Lee Carter recently lost their attempt at passage of a bill to provide federal loans and guarantees, as well as funds for federal construction of coal conversion plants. Now, the whole program of oil and gas production from coal seems to be bogged down in troubled discussions of what effect such plants would have on the environment and what would be the social and economic impact on the area in which plants may be located.

These are matters worth discussing. But, if the situation is as serious as we have been told, there is no choice—unless the United States is willing to stake its future on a fuel supply from the Arab nations and Russia.

Congressman Perkins was looking far down the road, some 20 years ago, when he first introduced a coal conversion bill. He knew then that coal could be the ultimate answer, because Germany, under tight blockade and fighting for its life, produced oil from coal during World War II, and one of its coal conversion plants was brought, intact, to this country after the war ended.

Germany did this quickly, because it was do or die. And yet we plan and temporize . . . even hint of an armed takeover of Arab oilfields, if necessary, at a time when we are not doing all we can to become self-sufficient.

Whatever the cost of coal conversion, no price is costlier than that of war. If there is a crisis, the United States should cut the talk and do something about it.

Letters to the Editor

Red, White and Blue Day Founder Hails Observance

The eyes of the nation should have been focused on the patriotic hills of Floyd County and Eastern Kentucky Saturday,

This should be staged throughout this great country we live in. America, Kentucky loves you so much-they proved it, Saturday, Oct. 25, the day when all freedom-loving people dressed up in Red, White and Blue and, wearing their colors, showed their love for this county of ours, walking hand in hand down the same path together.

If we're going to survive, we're going to have to have unity and Saturday proved just that.

God bless all you little children-you looked so sweet to everyone and your teachers and parents, you did a great job of helping get it going.

Isn't it worth all the long, hard hours of work, especially when you see so many little ones in there, standing up for such a great cause? We really need to help the little ones. They look to us for guidance and leadership, and I thank God for giving me strength to hold up. He has to be behind me. Times I felt like I couldn't go on, I'd make a come-back, and I love working for this great cause so much. I love and trust in the Lord with all my heart, and I surely hope, God will bless America again.

I had a representative from the Army stop by my place today, talking about the big parade. He was very impressed with all the participants and the Military. As he was leaving, I remarked, "Well, we got to get a meeting ready and start on the 1976 event." He said, "There you go."

(He was very happy to hear me say this). So, people, get ready—we all need rest but we can at least think and make some plans. Get ready, Ameica, you'll be hearing from Kentucky, inviting you to come and join in our 1976 celebration of the birth of our great nation. Each state will receive a letter of invitation to take part in our patriotic event, and we surely hope they will accept

You Shriners, you make many little ones, as well as grownups, so happy. You work for such a good cause. And the police department and Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad, State Police—we all congratulate you for a fine

Many thanks to the City of Prestonsburg and for use of the parking lot. It takes us all to make this Festival go-so, America, get behind us.

Trip Back Home Revives Memories of Other Days

During my recent visit to Floyd county I was awed by many changes. About the only thing that had not changed was the kindness of the people.

It seemed most of the men had my problem, in that they were fatter and uglier, but the women were beautiful as ever. I also had the feeling there were two cars for each resident, and I wondered if everyone drove one car to work and another back home.

On the long drive back home I thought pleasantly of the business success of so many old friends. I was especially proud of Robert Branham, who began working with me at the age of about 14 (this would be illegal now), while he was still in high school. He was at work as soon as the store opened and ran to school for his first class, then ran back to work and back to school during his lunch hour (I'm not sure he ever did eat lunch) and then ran back to work after school. He just never seemed to stop running and he was always selling, whether at the store, Sunday School, ball game or any place there was people. I hope he has stopped running, but I'm sure he will never stop selling.

Another friend of great fortitude was Russell Hagewood who at one time worked at the bank for about $85 a month and posted my books after hours for another $25 monthly. I was happy to learn that he is doing somewhat better today.

Think I noted an absence of what I called the 3 C stores. These were the farmer-owned crossroads stores where the proprietor would stop his farm chores to wait on a customer. You could be sure they always had a stock of cheese, crackers and calico.

I recall during the early '30's when one of these merchants came to me to buy a 50-pound cotton mattress and after looking them over, he said: "Now before you price this mattress I want you to know I can buy it wholesale for $4 and will appreciate your selling me as close to that price as possible." I replied: "Well, if it will make you happy I'll just sell it to you for $4. He was more than happy and we loaded it on his wagon, and we came back inside where he paid me in cash while telling me what a fine fellow I was for letting him set the price. I advised him that I always enjoyed granting a customer's wish if possible and that in his case it was easy to do. I then picked up a copy of The Floyd County Times and showed him my ad with 50-lb. cotton mattresses on special sale for $2.95 each, and told him it looked like we both should be happy as he had bought at wholesale and I had obtained an extra profit. I don't recall his reply, but I'll never forget the expression on his face.

Today it's almost unbelievable that 50 pounds of any manufactured product ever sold for so little. I ask you what can you buy now for six cents per pound? How quickly did you answer?

I trust adjusting to the slower time will not be too much of a problem for you. JAMES MORELL San Angelo, Texas

At Martin only Howard Hamilton among the six candidates on the Independent ticket was elected, and his vote total, reported unofficially at 372, led both tickets. The other winners, all Progressive Party candidates, are Denzil Halbert, Clyde Hogsed, Sanford Ousley, John L. Maddox and Raymond Griffith, Jr. The unofficial vote totals there:

Glenn C. Patrick, 212; John Quincy Salisbury, 185; Harlen Bradley, 200; Wheeler D. Crisp, 190; Joe Everage, 197; Howard Hamilton, 372; Denzil Halbert, 254; Clyde Hogsed, 261; Sanford Ousley, 234; John L. Maddox, 257; Raymond Griffith, Jr., 244; J. C. Skeans, 221.

The early tabulation indicated that Floyd voters were giving their approval of both Constitutional amendments.

Democratic nominees for legislative, judicial and county offices were unopposed, as were candidates for the board of trustees at Wayland and Wheelwright. Circuit Judge Hollie Conley, who was unopposed, suffered loss of votes through his position on the Judicial ticket on the ballot, separated from all other candidates.

The elction, held in ideal weather, drew a light vote which would have been lighter but for the Prestonsburg and Martin municipal races.

CARD OF THANKS

We would like to acknowledge our appreciation to those who helped upon the death of our loved one, Woodrow Branham: to those who brought food and flowers, to the ministers Rev. O. E. Stanley and Rev. Clark Lafferty, to Dr. Adams and Dr. Jurich, to the singers Rev. Floyd Tackett and Nancy and Kim, to the Carter Funeral Home for its efficient service.

Prestonsburg High School's Black Cat football team, which has been the surprise of Eastern Kentucky grid play this season, lost its fourth game last Friday night because of its failure to convert for the extra point. Of the four losses for the team this season, three have resulted from conversion failures.

After holding the favored Raceland Ramblers to an 8-all tie during the regulation four quarters, the two teams went at it to break the deadlock. Each team was given four downs in which to score from the opponent's 10-yard line. The Cats, by the flip of a coin, made the first attempt and they scored on fourth down via an 8-yard pass from Greg Dixon to Tim Patrick.

But the conversion attempt on a run

Raceland followed that with a touchdown of its own on Terry Howell's sixyard run. Tim Rose kicked the extra point for the Raceland victory

The scoring started when the Ramblers received the opening kickoff on their own 35-yard line. They then drove 65 yards, Tim Wilson finally scoring on a one-yard plunge. The conversion, a run by Claude Campbell, was good.

The Black Cats stormed back in the second quarter. Mike Click recovered a Raceland fumble on the Raceland 22. From there the Cats drove until Greg Dixon ran the final four yards. The point after, a Dixon run, was good.

Johnson Central High Plans Majorette Fest

Invitations went out last week to all area majorette corps for the third annual Eastern Kentucky Majorette Festival at 1 p.m., Nov. 8.

The festival, sponsored by the Johnson Central High School majorette corps, is to be a program of competition among area majorette groups. Although the event is competitive, it is geared more toward entertainment of an audience rather than formal competition.

First place, first runner-up and second runner-up trophies will be awarded to the majorette group with the best overall performance in each event. An individual trophy will be awarded to the outstanding majorette in each participating group.

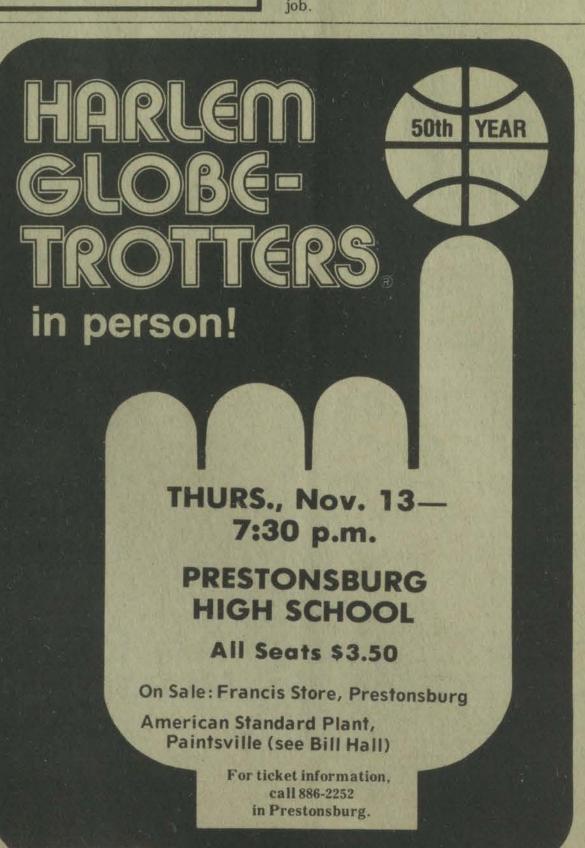

Feature twirlers will perform as individuals in competition and for entertainment and will be awarded

Historical Society To Hear Dr. Moffat

The fall meeting of the Big Sandy Valley Historical Society will be held at French Tavern, U. S. 60 West, Huntington, Saturday, November 15, beginning with a luncheon at noon, according to society president, Robert E. Kennedy. Following the luncheon, Dr. Charles Moffat, Chairman of the History Department, Marshall University, will deliver the main address, "The History of the Region as It Pertains to the National Bicentennial." A short musical program will also be a part of the program. Kennedy stated that the board of directors of the society and the officers will meet one hour before the luncheon to conduct an important session. Advance tickets for the luncheon may be purchased from the officers throughout southern West Virginia, Eastern Kentucky, and southwest Virginia, or they may be ordered by mail from Edward R. Hazelett, 1215 Stafford Avenue, Paintsville, Kentucky 41240. Tickets will also be sold at the luncheon.

The meeting will feature a display of history publications relative to West Virginia, Kentucky and Virginia. Kennedy requests all authors who have such material for sale or exchange to bring these items to the meeting. The Kentucky Young Historians at Johnson Central High School, Paintsville, are assisting the organization with the meeting and program, with club president Barbara Burchett serving as publicity director.

> IN MEMORY OF MY DAD PROPHET LITTLE who passed away Nov. 6, 1969:

Six years ago today the good Lord called and took you away.

The greatest Dad anyone could of had. Dad I miss you so bad, but great memories linger on.

When we were all at home, When you would read the Bible to me, what was right and what was wrong, that is what lingers on. You had been gone six weeks ago to the day when you came to me in a dream in the middle of the night. You said," Come and go with me, so I can show you where I will be."

We walked this narrow and rough road, You said, "Come on, Sissie, don't look back, just hold on to my back." We kept climbing and didn't fall. (you see I held on to Dad's overalls.) We went on up and made it just great. And walked inside this Golden Gate.

There were six golden chairs and six golden water founatins. There were names written on them. The first was, my grandfather, Jerry. The second was my aunt, Betty. The third I won't reveal; you see, it was empty still. The fourth bore my Dad's name. The fifth one had aunt Rosie's name. The sixth Lord called Aunt Lizzie.

May God keep all of us that remain, behind until our departure from this

Visiting UK Dental Students Get 'Feel' of Floyd Co. Area

A group of senior dental students from the University of Kentucky's School of Dentistry are here this week observing the total health care delivery system of the county and generally getting the feel of life in the area.

The group of nine students is part of the UK school's community laboratory project in which a number of similar groups are exposed to the life and practice of dentistry in rural areas in different sections of the state. This is the first time for Floyd to host a community laboratory group.

The students arrived here Sunday at Miss Alafair Flanery has been confined o May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, and her home this week by flu but is much spent Monday visiting various health organizations in the Prestonsburg area James (Jitter) Allen and son Greg including the Floyd County Health Department, Mountain Comprehensive Care Center, Mountain Manor Nursing Home, the Big Sandy Comprehensive Health Planning Office, FIVCO-Big Sandy Area Health Education System and Highlands Regional Medical Center. vacation spent touring the Canary Tuesday's activities included visits to area dental offices and other health organization offices.

Besides becoming familiear with the workings of the local health care system, the students were also exposed to some of the aspects of Eastern Kentucky life in general. For example, Tuesday afternoon's stops included a visit with Ernest Maynard, Emma basketmaker, and a presentation of Appalachian folk music at Prestonsburg Community College gave the students a taste of the area's musical heritage.

"We want the students to really acquire a feel for the area and its people as well as the health care system here,' explained Carolyn Hay Francis, director of the Big Sandy Area Health Education System and coordinator for the week's Today (Wednesday) the students will meet with Department for Human Resources personnel and accompany DHR caseworkers on home visits. Later in the afternoon they will visit the Mud Creek Clinic at Craynor and end the day with a seminar with a group of community medicine students from UK at Jenny Wiley State Park.

Thursday, the group will visit the Heat an older home better.

If your home furnace is a "conversion" to gas or oil, think about a new Lennox furnace to fit the fuel you're using. It stands to reason that a furnace designed for the fuel will heat your home more efficiently. Easier to add central air conditioning, too.

Take a look at your air distribution system, too. If it's as old as the furnace, it's probably costing you in efficiency. Call us. We'll help solve your heating problems.

Stay comfortable at a lower temperature.

Add a Lennox power humidifier to your ducted heating system. It actually helps you feel warmer at a lower temperature. Evaporates up to 19 gallons of added moisture a day. It's humidistat controlled. Set the humidity level you want to protect furniture, squelch static electricity and that dried out feeling. Call us, we'll help solve your heating problems.

Miss Wells-Mr. Berniak Wed

Miss Barbara Lee Wells, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jeff Wells, of Brunswick, Ohio, formerly of Prestonsburg and Auxier, became the bride of Mr. Thomas John Barniak, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Barniak, Sr., also of Brunswick, in a double-ring ceremony solemnized by the Rev. William Harvey at 3:30 Saturday afternoon, September 27, at the Brunswick United Methodist Church.

Nuptial music was provided by Mrs. Betty Good at the organ.

The bride, given in marriage by A. Each separate bid number listed in parents, wore a princess gown by Medicino of New York in renaissance styling of silk organza re-embroidered pearl lace. The victorian neckline was trimmed with alencon lace with scattered lace motifs. The sheer traditional sleeves were trimmed with beaded lace, and the flounce hemline of her skirt fell B. Separate Bid Nos. 1, 2 and 3, if into a sweeping train. She wore a garden hat accented with roses and veiling which formed a large bow in back. Her only jewelry was a pair of pearl earrings, a gift from her grandfather, Jeff B. Wells, of Auxier, and she carried a cascade bouquet of Fuj mums.

Miss Gayle Wells, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Mrs. Sue Kuchta and Miss Valerie Zak. They wore similar gowns with halter styling with matching voille jackets in a fall floral print on beige background. They wore matching picture hats and carried long-stemmed white mums with ribbon streamers. Flower girl Carolyn Bariak, sister of the groom, wore a dress of the same print as that of the bridesmaids, and Master Anthony Benton Wells, cousin of the bride, was ring bearer. Miss Denise Wells, also cousin of the bride, was rice bearer.

Richard L. Stanfor, III, of Cleveland, O., served as best man, Paul Jewel and Kim Lyons were groomsmen.

Mrs. Wells, mother of the bride, wore a blue floor-length polyester knit dress with matching jacket trimmed with maribou. Her wrist corsage was of white orchids. The mother of the groom chose a green floor-length dress of chiffon and knit. Her corsage was of white, greentipped carnations.

A reception was held at the Michlands Town and Country Club in Strongsville, interim guides concerning the use of fuel economy claims in advertising. These guides are based on the "city" and "highway" gas mileage figures of the EPA, which derives its figures from tests on cars driven on platforms designed to simulate city and highway driving conditions.

The couple are residing in Brunswick, O., where Mrs. Barniak is employed at the Westside Cardinal Bank, and Mr. Barniak is employed at Ganser and Ganser, Ind., a construction firm.

EPA figures can be used to compare fuel economy on different model cars. But don't forget to consider the following factors which effect EPA gas mileage figures and which the FTC requires car ads to disclose:

-The engine size, transmission type and fuel system result in different gas mileage for the same model car. This information should be disclosed-look for it.

-When mileage figures in an advertisement are for a specific car and not from the EPA Mileage Guide, the ad must disclose all optional equipment which can increase fuel costs. In addition, the absence of optional equipment must be disclosed.

Consumers also should not forget that the EPA gas mileage figures are estimates. Actual mileage obtained by the consumer may vary because of individual driving differences or the condition of the car.

To obtain a listing of the EPA gas mileage figures for all new cars, write for the "1976 Gas Mileage Guide for New Car Buyers," Consumer Information, Pueblo, Colo. 81009. Use this free pamphlet to help determine the most economical car for you.

If you would like to know more about consumer protection, or if you have a consumer complaint, write to the Attorney General's Consumer Division of Protection, The Capitol, Room 34, Frankfort, Ky. 40601, or call our toll-free number on the consumer hotline: 1-800-372-

Gotham Default Would Not Hurt State, Is View

received from 236 of Kentucky's 252 chartered banks to date show that 59 of the banks hold some $6,065,000 in New York City obligations, according to Banking and Securities Commissioner John Williams added that of thoe 59 banks with New York bonds, only 20 hold as much as $100,000 or more. Those 20 banks account for $4,650,000 of Kentucky's New York holdings.

Williams.

Williams said he does not anticipate any serious "ripple" effect should New York default. The commissioner explained that some relief would normally be provided even in the case of a default by the nation's largest city. But even if a 160 per cent default Frankfort, Ky.-Responses should occur, he said, Kentucky's financial situation would not be impaired.

> The responses stem from a survey mailed from the banking office last Monday. Williams said the department makes routine checks of Kentucky banks but does not normally keep a detailed list of their holdings. However, the New York crisis has been receiving so much national attention it was felt that Kentucky's situation should be examined, he explained.

"From this survey I feel that the New York crisis should not destroy any confidence in Kentucky municipal bonds. The investment situation in Kentucky is good," Williams Frankfort, Ky.-Only four Kentucky high schools and 42 colleges advising them of the chemicals. More than 200 high school responses and 17 college reports have been received since the mailing.

Dr. Block said most of the chemicals would be found only chemicals by the state in more advanced labs where they are used for detection of changes in an acid balance or to determine the strength of a solution.

> The medical consultant explained that the registration request stemmed from a routine college survey by department employes in which some of the chemicals were found to have been placed unlabeled on a shelf with no warning precautions.

> Dr. Block said that students should not be alarmed by the notification since minimal risks are involved if the chemicals are handled properly. He added, however, that many of the schools have decided to dispose of the chemicals since they are not used very often and therefore are not worth the risk.

> Dr. Block said the chemicals are usually placed in special containers and buried in sanitary landfills as a means of disposal

The doctor said his staff planned to send a follow-up letter to the schools with a list of trade names the chemicals might go under to encourage remaining responses.

" I SAY, WHO IS THIS 'OAKWOOD'

WE THOUGHT YOU'D NEVER ASK!

Oakwood opened for business in Greensboro, North Carolina in April 1946. Since that time, Oakwood has sold over 27,000 homes. Until recently, Oakwood sales centers have been limited to North Carolina, South Carolina, and Virginia locations. Expansion started into West Virginia, Tennessee and Kentucky in 1972.

... build their own ...

In the late 1960's, Oakwood became dissatisfied with general mobile home quality and value levels. Mobile home manufacturing under Oakwood's ownership and supervision has proved to be the only way for the company to deliver the quality and value levels desired for customers. There are two plants producing Oakwood (brand name) mobile homes. All homes produced meet or exceed the American National Standards Institute mobile home building code (A119.1) and are listed by the famous Underwriters' Laboratories.

... a public company ...

Oakwood became a publicly-owned company in 1971. Nearly 1700 shareholders financially support the firm. Stock is traded on the distinguished American Stock Exchange under the ticker symbol OMH.

... the meaning for you ...

You gain distinct advantages in doing business with a solid, stable company. When you buy an Oakwood home, you can be assured that you're buying from a dealer who has been around a long time and who will continue to be around to keep the promises made and to service the homes sold. You can be assured that there are funds available to you for financing your home. You can be assured that Oakwood personnel are sincere, dedicated professionals whose only concern is providing you with the highest quality and best value housing available on the market today.

LEVEL OF CLEARANCE FINDING NOTICE OF FINDING OF NO SIGNIFICANT EFFECT OF THE ENVIRONMENT FLOYD COUNTY

COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT PROG. The proposed project will extend water distribution lines into the following areas of Floyd County: Finance Hollow, Drift Branch, McDowell Branch, McDowell (Middle Fork), Bosco, and David.

The water distribution line extension will consist of approximately 89,000 feet of line, varying in size from three to eight inches in diameter. This proposed line will make service available to approximately 300 homes.

It is the finding of the Fiscal Court of Floyd County, the Applicant, that the extension of the water distribution lines will have no significant impact or effect on the environment. The Applicant, the Floyd County Fiscal Court, has completed an Environmental Review Record of the aforementioned areas of the County where the water distribution lines will be installed, which is on file at the Office of the County Judge, Floyd County Court House. No further Environmental Review will be conducted for these activities.

The Applicant plans to request the release of funds totaling $300,000 from the Department of Housing and Urban Development. These funds together with $286,000 of funds from the Appalachian Regional Commission will be used to pay the cost of the installation of the water distribution lines.

Public Comments on these activities of the Floyd County Community Development Program may be submitted to the County Judge's Office until November 25, 1975.

November Is Nat'l Epilepsy Month

November is National Epilepsy Month, and the Central Kentucky Epilepsy Foundation of Epilepsy Foundation of America is preparing its annual drive to inform the public about epilepsy

Nationally, about four million people have this neurological disorder, which USED OFFICE FURNITURE, Just can result from head injuries of various kinds as well as other known and unknown causes. In Central and Eastern Kentucky, about one out of 50 is believed to have epilepsy. Like epilepsy victims everywhere, they face tremendous problems in dealing with the rest of society. These problems are the prime targets of Epilepsy Month.

Dr. Russell L. Travis, president of the Central Kentucky Epilepsy Foundation, says, "Knowledge is the theme of Epilepsy Month this year, and our slogan is 'Epilepsy-the more you know about it, the more you want to help.' This applies FOR RENT-Trailer space, also one to the general public, to government officials and legislators, to employers and others. For far too long people with FOR SALE—5-room house with bath, 3 epilepsy have had to face general notions that epilepsy is contagious, that those who have it are necessarily retarded or even insane. These views are totally false. People with epilepsy themselves, Reduce safe and fast with GoBese as well as medical authorities, tell us that understanding and social acceptance can be just as important as medicines and medical treatment."

Because of medical and social advances, more epilepsy victims than ever can lead normal, active lives. Said Dr. Travis, "We want the people to know that their fellow citizens with epilepsy have a contribution to make to Kentucky. We look to the day with the man with epilepsy is hired or released on merit, and nothing else. We look to the time when the child with epilepsy is fully accepted at school and in the neighborhood. And that's the basic aim of Epilepsy Month."

For more information about epilepsy, and Epilepsy Month activities, contact the Central Kentucky Epilepsy Foundation, Suite 14, 845 Lane Allen Road, Lexington 40504, telephone 606-278-5472.

Weinberger Warns of Welfare State

Caspar Weinberger, former Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, charges that the current trend in federal programming is taking away our most precious personal freedoms and may plunge the country into insolvency by the year 2000 if it continues at its present

In a speech delivered to the Commonwealth Club of San Francisco and condensed in the November Reader's Digest, Weinberger says that "If

Dawson Unsure Of Food Stamp Change Effects

Frankfort, Ky.-C. Leslie Dawson, secretary of the Department for Human Resources, says that until the federal government sends him copies of the new food stamp bills being considered by Congress, he cannot be sure what the effects will be on Kentucky's 435,000 food stamp recipients.

"We have asked the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) for copies; and when we receive them, we will be able to accurately evaluate the effects on Kentucky's Food Stamp Program," said Dawson.

One of the bills, proposed by President Ford, would only provide food stamps to families whose incomes fall below the national poverty level. If passed, it would probably become effective by July, 1976.

The bill would allow for a standard deduction of $100 for most applicants. Individuals over 60 years of age would be able to take a slightly higher standard deduction. Under the proposal, everyone would pay a flat 30 per cent of their net income for food stamps.

This may mean that many people with incomes just above the national poverty level, even though they have high medical, rent and utility expenses, would no longer be eligible.

As the program stands now, applicants can deduct from their income monies what they must pay for necessitites such as heat, rent, gas, electricity and medical expenses.

"Since we were not consulted by the federal government when they drafted the proposed bills, we are not sure of their exact content. However, it appears to me that there are a lot of things that need to be addressed when Congress considers the bills for passage," said

Based on information obtained from the regional USDA office, if the Ford proposal passes, Kentuckians affected would most likely be the aged, the ill and those on fixed incomes such as Social Security and Supplemental Security Income. If these individuals can no longer take certain deductions for basics such as medical bills, rent and utilities, they may, technically, no longer fall below the federal poverty level, Dawson

The national poverty level for a onemember household is $2,590 a year; for a four-member household, it is $5,050 a

THE REGIONAL USDA office also reported that, if the bill passes, recipients of Aid to Families with Dependent Children will no longer be automatically eligible for food stamps, nor will college students be able to receive the stamps.

VS. NOTICE OF SALE

Leonard Joseph, Jr. and Della Joseph, West Prestonsburg . . . Defts.

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Floyd Circuit Court rendered at the August 26, October 9, term, 1975 in the above styled cause I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Courthouse door in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, to the highest and best bidder, at public auction, on the 7th day of November 1975 at 10 o'clock a.m. same being day of the regular term of the Floyd Circuit Court, for cash or upon a credit of six months, the following described property to-wit:

Being one-half of said lot and being 37 ft. x 54 feet adjoining the property of Bill Blackburn on the back, Frank Price on the northside; on the south by Leonard Joseph; and on the front by the street. A 7 foot passway in front of Leonard Joseph's property to the stree is excepted and not

Being the same property conveyed to the defendants by Deed recorded in Deed Book 216, page 401, Floyd County Court Clerk's Office.

The amount of money to be raised by this sale shall be in the principal sum of $9,652.73 with interest thereon at 81/2 percent annually from the 31st day of December 1974 until satisfied and the costs of this action, including costs of advertising of this sale and the fees and commissions for conducting this sale.

For the purchase price the purchaser must execute bond with approved surety or sureties, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid and having the force and effect of a judgment with a lien retained upon said property as a further security. Bidders will be prepared to comply with these terms.

Given under my hand, this 20th day of (federal) social programs continue at wherever we find it-under a black skin, their present pace, we could be spending close to half of our whole Gross National Product for domestic social programs alone by the year 2000 We would no longer have enough money left to invest in job-producing activities in the private

Along with this projected collapse of our free-enterprise system, Weinberger fears a welfare-state trend toward mediocrity. As an example of the kind of "social engineering" of the welfare state, he points to the program to end hiring discrimination in colleges which he calls "ineffective and meddlesome government." "It took the University of California over a year to prepare the mountain of paperwork that the Department of Labor requires," he says. "Yet the net effect of this herculean effort will be only trivial in terms of increasing real job opportunities for minorities and women.

Weinberger argues that an egalitarian society does not promote true equal opportunity. The egalitarians, he feels, expect rewards with no eye to contribution and worth, while a freeenterprise system can further the quest for excellence. "The real social agenda of America, still unfinished, is to discover and reward excellence a white skin, in a female or male, in a Catholic, a Jew, a Protestant or an agnostic," he asserts.

In a companion Digest article on the perils of big-government spending, condensed from The Washingtonian, UPI Capitol Hill correspondent Donald Lambro itemizes his preferences for shrinking the federal bureaucracy. Among this suggestions: elimination of the civil defense program which, in the age of missiles, he feels is superfluous. Current cost of this program, according to Lambro, is $82 million a year.

A simple across-the-board cut of 25 percent in travel by government officials and employes could be effected by placing more emphasis on phone and mail, Lambro believes, and would save the government more than $525 million in travel costs alone, not to mention the savings in energy.

Elimination of the Economic Development Administration, a move indicated by a report to Congress from the Commerce Department and Office of Management and Budget, would effect an annual savings of $395 million.

"Clearly," Lambro writes, "the budgetary scalpel can be wielded, agency by agency, across a vast wasteland of unnecessary spending."

Calgon Corp. Agrees To Pay Damages

Calgon Corp., a Boyd county firm which manufactures pollution control equipment, among other products, has agreed to pay the state $10,000 in damages and to expand and improve its water pollution controls as a result of actions taken by the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection.

The department had charged Calgon with numerous violations of state water pollution regulations. The charges involved alleged discharges of industrial aste and acid water into the Big Sandy River and White's Creek

According to the agreed order, Calgon will spend more than a million dollars in pollution control equipment by June 30, 1976. Of that, $326,000 is for additional controls not required for compliance with the pollution control plan approved by the department.

The Old Johnson Place Revisited

By GEORGE L. MOORE One of the satisfying and rewarding things about writing about people and places of long ago is the response that you get in the form of letters from people that you never knew existed. A case in pont is the old Crit Johnson Place. When I wrote a story about this old place on Clay Fork of Sinking Creek, I said that I did not know how long the old buildings had been standing but certainly longer than the memory of anyone still residing in these parts. I did not know that Uncle Crit (or Judge Johnson, as he was later called) had any surviving children.

Shortly after the article appeared, I received a long and interesting letter from his only surviving daughter, Mrs. Clydia Webb, Louisville. Her letter would indicate that she is not only very intelligent but quite articulate as well. She gave me considerable information about her father and the old place on Sinking Creek, To begin with, she said that the house was constructed in 1887. Let her describe it:

"It was built with white oak logs of uniform size, hewn to a smooth surface. It was a fine house in those days. It was well put up. It had good floors and windows, an upstairs, two big porches and five big fireplaces."

She added information about her father. She writes: "He was a staunch Republican and a Mason. He made a first-class teacher's certificate at the age of 16. He studied law at Morehead. He shared a law office with Sam Wyley, Allie Young and John D. Theobold." These lawyers were all prominent lawyers at the time mentioned here. I think it may be interesting to note here that Allie Young had a brother, Bill Young, who was the best criminal lawyer in Eastern Kentucky. I know that Uncle Crit joined with him in a number of

In one case he joined with him in defending a man who had been indicted for first degree murder. Sentiment was mounting against their client in Rowan county. It was thought that the jury would have to come from another county. Bill Young had a cousin who was sheriff of neighboring Bath county. He visited the cousin and no doubt they had discussed the case many times. When the case came up for trial, the counsel for the defense made the motion to procure the jury from another county. After the commonwealth attorney agreed to this, Architect, 248 East Short St., Lex., Kv.: Mr. Young jumped to his feet and said. "We demand that the jury be selected from Carter county." The opposing attorney said, "I wonder why Mr. Young is Distribution of the documents, not to so anxious to secure the jury from Carter?" "Your Honor," said Mr. Young, "I suggest we get the jury from Bath county. Just to show that I want to be fair about the matter, I will agree to have the jury selected from Bath."

Needless to say, the jury impaneled from Bath county returned a verdict of not guilty.

On another occasion, the judge appointed Bill Young to defend a man in his court. The man had been indicted on a felony charge and had no money to employ an attorney to defend him. The jailer brought the man into court. The judge said, "Now, Bill, I want you to go out and confer with this man and advise him to the best of your ability."

After an absence of an hour of so from the courtroom, Mr. Young returned to the counsel table. The judge looked at him and asked, "Mr. Young, where is your client?" He replied, "Judge you told me to advise that man, to the best of my ability."

"But, where is he?" inquired the

'Well, I advised him to get out of here at once and leave Rowan county for good," Young replied.

Mrs. Webb gave some background about her ancestors. "My grandfather Johnson was a wealthy land owner in Virginia; he had many slaves. He had to flee with his family during the civil war period," she related.

About the old place on Clay Fork of Sinking Creek she said, "We had tenant farmers to help with the crops of wheat, oats, barley, corn and flax. All of these crops were necessary at that time. We had beef cattle, sheep, hogs, chickens, ducks and guineas. We had plenty of big fat featherbeds and pillows. I still have a featherbed that is more than 75 years old that came from the old farm." (I would like to interrupt here to say, anyone who has not sunk into one of these fat featherbeds on a cold winter night, does not know what good sleeping is all about.) To cotinue her account: "My mother knew how to pick geese and could shear sheep. She could also make that jute yarn and make cloth from it. I could write a book about her.

I would like to add that Mrs. Webb's mother was indeed a woman of many talents. We called her Aun't Minda. I cannot think of anything she could not do. It was said, if Aunt Minda can't break up a fever, there is no use to send for a doctor. Her services were in great demand around the turn of the century. This was especially true in case of childbirth. She would answer a call for help at any hour of the night in any kind of weather. She was responsible for bringing hundreds of people into the world in this part of the country including yours truly.

The part of Mrs. Webb's letter that I cherished most was this:

"Some people are sensitive about their forefathers but I am proud of mine. I have really enjoyed going back through the past year with you. I hope my letter has helped you. I could tell you more but I don't want to bore you.'

I have since received other letters from Mrs. Webb and none of them have been boring; they have been interesting down to the last word. She has been a valuable and highly esteemed consultant on a way of life that has disappeared from these hills.

Raisins, Lizards and Aborigines

By DICK WEST (In The Dallas, Texas News)

Those who were children of the Great Depression in the thirties find it hard to comprehend the extravagance and waste of the seventies.

I remember my father walking 10 blocks to save a dime on a sack of turnip greens. The greens cost a quarter and, with buttermilk and cornbread, helped feed a family over the week-end. The dime he saved bought two cigars which were smoked during Amos 'n' Andy.

On Sundays we splurged and spent 50 cents for a hen, but about half the time my father was too chicken to kill it.

We were never hungry, but a dollar was hard to come by and you appreciated 100 cents of it.

My thoughts reverted to the scarcities of the thirties when I read, recently, that the federal government this year will spend $15 billion on paper work, alone.

Interest on the national debt is another $36 billion. Which means that $51 billion which is one-sixth of the federal budgetbuys nothing that anybody can eat or wear, much less a submarine to defend us in a sudden emergency.

items in Washington.

Do you who read this have any conception of what a billion is? The Farm on Obscenity and Pornography which Bureau News can enlighten you:

One billion seconds ago the Japanese bombed Pearl Harbor. One billion minutes ago was a world only 40 years after the death of Christ. One billion hours ago no man had set foot on the face of the earth.

Yet, the federal government right now is spending one billion dollars a day, which is around $41 million an hour.

Those of us who matured on 25-cent turnip greens really can't comprehend the wealth of those Mideastern oil countries whose revenues this year will be $125 billion.

That figure would buy all the steel produced in America for the next four years and all the trucks and cars for three years. It would purchase all the stock in our 30 largest corporations, pay for 3,200,000 American homes or the entire U.S. farm crop.

If you aren't conscious of how much a billion dollars is and how Washington can fling a billion around like a bag of jellybeans, consider this:

It took 185 years for the U.S. government to reach the point where it was spending $100 billion a year.

But in only nine more years it was spending $200 billion. In only four more years, $300 billion.

Washington press corps, in its eagerness to expose Watergate had overlooked the biggest story in the capital-waste in government.

Lambro's book, "The Federal Rathole," published by Arlington House, shows how $25 billion could be lopped off the federal budget by eliminating some 50 useless federal programs and trimming a score of others.

Somebody should subsidize the distribution of this book in Washington. Why should American taxpayers finance a $75,000 bill to study the smell of perspiration from Australian

Program Enlists Students To Encourage Safer Driving

By JIM CLARKE

Kentucky's high schools and being recruited in a joint effort to help reduce the state's rising highway death tolls.

Expressing "grave alarm" over the now obvious trend toward more traffic deaths in Kentucky for 1975, state Transportation Secretary John C. Roberts said here recently that his office is working on a program aimed at enlisting student help to encourage safer driving and better compliance by all motorists with the state's traffic safety laws.

"We are especially concerned by the growing tendency of drivers to ignore the 55 mile-an-hour speed limit," he said. According to Roberts, the program calls for a series of eight regional high school traffic safety conferences to be held at various locations in Kentucky between now and November. The first meeting was held Oct. 15 at Jenny Wiley

State Park. Three other meetings since Frankfort, Ky.-Students from all of have been held at Greenup, Corbin and

Fort Mitchell. The next conference, scheduled for Kentucky Dam Village State Park on Oct. 28, will be attended by students from schools in Fulton, Ballard, Carlisle, Hickman, McCracken, Graves, Livingston, Marshall, Calloway, Crittenden, Lyon, Trigg, Union, Caldwell, Christian, Hopkins, Webster and Henderson counties.

The program is being sponsored by the Office of Highway Safety Programs (OHSP), an agency of the Kentucky Department of Transportation (KYDOT).

"These conferences have the enthusiastic support of the governor who believes, as I do, that one of the best ways to attack the problem is to get the support of our youth who account for a large part of the state's driving population," Roberts said.

One statistic for which Roberts and his highway safety programs people will be seeking workable solutions it the high rate of young driver involvement in fatal accidents.

Although the actual number of young drivers involved in fatal accidents during 1975 won't be known for several months yet, Roberts noted that nearly one-third of all fatal accidents reported, both nationally and in Kentucky during 1974, involved drivers under the age of 24.

"We need to talk about what can be done to reverse that trend, and the best place to look for answers is among the drivers most affected," he said. "We hope to benefit from their (the students) constructive thinking and advice, both on that question and on a number of other issues which affect our entire driving population as a whole," he added.

Among the specific topics scheduled for student discussion at each of the conferences will be drugs and alcohol, driver education, traffic enforcement and driver licensing.

Each discussion group will be joined by an adult representative who will be there "primarily to answer questions," Roberts said.

The representatives will come from virtually every field of traffic safety and enforcement. Among agencies sending representatives to the conferences are the Kentucky State Police, KYDOT Division of Driver's Licensing, OHSP and the state's Department of Education which administers driver training programs in the schools.

Students attending each of the conferences will be asked to submit their ideas and suggestions for improving the state's traffic safety record to OHSP representatives who will compile them into a report to be turned over to the governor andother state officials, including state legislatos, after the last conference is held.

Roberts said tht the final report may prove "invaluable" in helping the state reach future decisions, legislative or otherwise, on how best to deal with the traffic accident situation.

On Nov. 30, 1782, the United States and Britain signed a preliminary treaty of peace, recognizing American independence.

Roadbeds Furnished by Gov't Suggested as Help for Rails

tenance of rail roadbeds and rights-ofway could be one possible solution to providing better transportation services to coal shippers, according to a coal transportation study released by the Kentucky Development Cabinet.

The study says such action, in which railroads would continue as private companies functioning to provide transportation services, would provide increased and more efficient coal transportation and help alleviate the financial burden of the rail networks.

Dr. Dee Ashley Akers, secretary of the Development Cabinet, said, "An effective railroad system is a national resource and could be publicly financed as such.

"In addition, an arrangement of this nature would make it possible to eliminate the monopolies railroads may have in particular market areas and would allow the railroad management to concentrate resources and managerial skill on the effective operation of the transportation system '

Akers said that proponents of this plan point to highways as a precedent of the government providing facilities for other modes of transportation.

Another proposal in the study was the original purchase of coal cars by the state or guaranteeing the financing of cars, which would create a "reserve fleet" of coal cars to be used in periods of peak coal demand.

Don Hartman, assistant cabinet secretary for policy and planning, said, "The rail car shortage is most significant to the long-term effectiveness of coal transportation by rail.

"One solution suggested by the study would be to modify the equal sharing of cars to better supply the most steady shippers."

The study also recommends decreasing the rail-haul distance and time to markets in the South, Southeast and East-all forecast as future markets for Kentucky coal.

At present, Kentucky coal shippers using south-bound rails pay extraordinarily high freight rates because of backtracking in the Southeastern Kentucky area to bypass Pine Mountain.

The study encourages more use of unit train shipments. Such shipments are defined by the study as trains utilizing a specific number of coal cars loaded at one origin, unloaded at one destination each trip and moving in both directions on a predetermined schedule.

Although the origin and destinations are not necessarily the same for each trip, the train is never split for any other shipments.

Rates for unit trains, usually 40 per cent lower than bulk rates, are established on the basis of minimum tonnage per year and per shipment, paralleling closely coal contracts between producers and consumers which are usually long-term and large-volume.

Coal tonnage hauled by the major railroads serving Kentucky coal shippers increased by 1.5 per cent from 1973 to 1974 and two per cent for the previous year. However, the rate of coal production in the state grew over seven per cent in 1974, putting pressure on other modes of transportation.

Movement of coal by barge, which accounted for 19.4 million tons of coal or about 17 per cent of total Kentucky production in 1972, was seen by the study as an area of coal transportation maintained largely by the federal government, precluding state participation in providing more efficient

The Corps of Engineers, responsible for locks and dams on waterways used by Kentucky coal shippers, report that barge traffic on the Ohio River could double if a "bottleneck" at the Gallipolis, Ohio, lock could be alleviated. A project is presently underway to improve this

As for truck coal-hauling, the study reports an increasing tendency toward truck use. The percentage of coal

The study also states that 75 per cent of the coal trucks on all three classifications of roads in the state are running overweight

The Kentucky Department of Transportation estimates that $1.9 billion would be needed to bring all local roads up to normal travel standards with an additional $335 million needed to build roads to support coal trucks.

Collection of a ton-tax by Kentucky coal counties, establishment of an export tax on the state's coal, institution of a "ton-mile" tax for coal haulers and amendment of the Appalachian Regional Commission's budget to provide money for coal hauling were listed by the study as ways to meet the cost of highway improvements in the Kentucky coal mining area.

The study says better regulation of trucks and a more thorough analysis of weight limits is needed.

EKU Grant Increase For Justice Program

FRANKFORT, Ky.-Gov. Julian Carroll has announced an increase of $12,131 in funding for a grant supporting the criminal justice internship program at Eastern Kentucky University. The grant revision was approved by the Kentucky Crime Commission during a recent meeting and submitted to the governor for final consideration. To date the program has provided an opportunity for 26 EKU students to work as interns in 15 different local, state and federal criminal justice agencies. It is estimated that these students have worked approximately 200 man-weeks in the various agencies. Interest in the program by both students and criminal justice agencies has been so great that additional funding is being provided in order to extend the program through the 1976 spring term. Of the total increase, $9,796 comes from federal funds made available to the State Department of Justice by the U.S. Law Enforcement Assistance Administration. EKU will provide additional matching funds of $2,335, raising the overall project funding, including the original grant which was awarded last January, to $24,485.

Struck Hospitals Discharging Thousands of Patients area discharged thousands of patients vesterday and closed entire floors, and three nursing homes, whose resources were being exhausted by the three-day old-strike, announced they would be sending home all 1,347 patients within the next week.

At the same time, the 48 hospitals and homes affected by the strike sought to cope with mounting food, fuel and medicine shortages. The Jewish Institute for Geriatric Care had a helicopter deliver linen.

In Washington, John T. Dunlop, director of the Cost of Living Council, said "the council had no intention of being a scapegoat" for the strike by 30,000 members of Local 1199 of the Drug and Hospital Union.

Late last evening, Mayor Lindsay who had been trying to talk with Dr. Dunlop for five days, got through to him and urged him to convene the council immediately to consider the wage question that led to the strike.

According to the Mayor, Dr. Dunlop said he would consult with his council on whether to order an immediate meeting on the matter once the hospital workers called off their strike. He reportedly told the Mayor that he would announce the decision immediately after his deliberations.

The Mayor's announcement came at the end of a day in which both labor and management expressed hope that the wage board would act to resolve the bizarre impasse.

The strikers left their service, maintenance and laboratory jobs because the council had not approved a 7.5 per cent wage increase awarded to the union by a state arbitration panel in July.

The hospital management group, the League of Voluntary Homes and Hospitals, whose members are bearing the brunt of the walkout, had appealed to the council to approve the increase, which was to have gone into effect last July. Mayor Lindsey, Governor Rockefeller and Senator Jacob K. Javits had also urged approval.

Whatever momentum for settlement there might be is expected to come today Marshall. An associate of the TCH Coal in Federal Court, where a hearing is scheduled on the league's request for a permanent injunction against the union. A temporary restraining order against the strike was issued last week. The strikers defied it.

William Abelow, director of the league, reported yesterday that the effects of the walkout and the pickets' blockades of deliveries were becoming cumulatively severe. He noted that sporadic violent eruptions, involving vandalism and harassment by strikers, also appeared on

Checks at some of the struck institutions showed that all had closed down outpatient departments, which normally treat 8,000 people a day, and that there were no nonemergency admissions. In normal times the hospitals handle an average of 1,700 admissions a

At New York Hospital, the patient census dropped from 580 patients on Monday to 375 yesterday. At Long Island Jewish Hospital, 120 patients were sent home in the last two days. At St. Luke's, one entire building was closed in an attempt to consolidate services, and 141 patients were sent home.

Those discharged were patients awaiting non-mortal surgergy or those who would have convalesced in the hospital.

A microcosm of the critical situation at many of the institutions was presented by Leo Lazarus, the fatigued director of Trafalgar Hospital a 120-bed institution at 161 East 90th Street.

"We're discharging patients left and right," he said wearily. "We have 75 left and we're calling their families to take them. We have three days of fuel left and Similar bleak assessments were given at the other homes announcing their intention to move out all patients, the Jewish Institute for Geriatric Care in New Hyde Park, L. I., where the staff was reported "exhausted," and at the Kingsbrook Jewish Medical Center, at East 49th Street and Rutland Road in Brooklyn.

Early today, the police reported that there had been 34 arrests of pickets throughout yesterday at hospitals in Brooklyn, Queens and Manhattan, on charges of disorderly conduct, criminal mischief or harassment.

In one incident of random violence, according to the police, vandals smashed the windows of 15 parked automobiles of hospital employes at Brooklyn Jewish Hospital, 555 Prospect Avenue.

At the Bronx Lebanon Hospital last night, a Molotov cocktail exploded in a parking lot. The burning gasoline did not reach the apparent target, a hospital bus.

There were at least 22 strikers arrested yesterday in incidents that took place at BethIsrael Hospital at First Avenue and 16th Street, where pickets swarmed over a truck that hospital staff members had rented and filled with provisions. The attempt to bring the food in was described by Dr. Jacob Horowitz, director of the hospital, as "a clandestine operation."

Dr. Horowitz said that the rented truck had met bread and cereal suppliers at an undisclosed place and that members of the hospital staff had transferred the (In The New York Times) packages. A police escort was arranged and the truck went through. It was being "They overtunred linen carts. They unloaded when some pickets stormed it and fought with the police and hospital employes.

A union spokesman at the scene, Angelo Alicea, said he regarded the hospital's attempt as subterfuge. "They lied to us, they broke a promise," he said. "The truck that came in had bread, cakes and cereal on it. People don't need that to live." As a result, he said, no trucks will be allowed to leave the hospital or make

In another incident, strikers at South Shore Hospital in the Rockaways, Queens turned back vans from the city morgue that had come to pick up the bodies of three patients who had died.

Moe Foner, a spokesman for the union, said that such actions resulted from "misunderstandings" and that the union stood ready to cooperate with the hospitals on the deliveries of vital materials.

Mr. Abelow, at the league, said that he had received these views from the union, but found the position at the hospitals to be "180 degrees opposite from the union's public expressions of a willingness to cooperate.'

The only situation where there seemed to be some improvement was in the removal of hospital refuse, whose accumulation had posed health hazards. Inspectors from an emergency City Health Department force visited the hospitals and ordered sanitation trucks to remove the piles.

"Sometimes the trucks turned back two or three times before making the pickups," said Walter J. Hinckley, deputy commissioner of the Health Services Administration and director of the emergency group.

ZUMWALT SAYS ODDS ARE HIGH THAT SOVIETS COULD BEAT U.S.

CLEVELAND—Retired Adm. Elmo R. Zumwalt Jr. says the odds are very high that the Soviet Union would defeat the United States in a conventional war.

Zumwalt, former Navy chief of operations, told a City Club Forum in Cleveland that the Soviet Union has outspent the U.S. militarily since 1971. He said the U.S. Navy has the smallest number of ships since 1939.

"What this country desperately needs Tackett, Weeksbury; Conrad Evans, is a truth-in-packaging foreign policy,' that would make people aware that the Russians are abusing their detente agreement with the United States, Zumwalt said.

Floyd County Health Notes

By DONNA J. GRIFFITH Health Educator I

A pap smear clinic will be held at the Floyd County Health Department Thursday, November 6, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. This service is free and all women are welcome to attend. The health nurses remind all women that they should have a pap smear at least once a year in order to have continuing protection against cervical cancer.

A nurse from the Floyd County Health Department will conduct an outpost clinic Monday, Nov. 10, in the basement of the Methodist Church at Wayland. Clinic hours will be from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. with the following services being available: Immunizations, TB skin tests, diabetes screening and blood pressures. These services are free, and all persons in the Wayland vicinity are welcome to attend.

The Floyd County Health Department will conduct a glaucoma clinic Tuesday, November 11, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Glaucoma is a serious disease that can eventually cause total blindness if left untreated. All persons age 35 and over are urged to be screened for Glaucoma every two years because early detection and treatment is your best defense against glaucoma.

The health department also announces that there will be no nursing or clerical services available to the public on Wednesday or Thursday, November 12 and 13. The health department staff will be working in the regional heart clinic on these two days. This clinic is open only to patients who have previously attended these cl nics or new patients who have a doctor's written referral.

Two times more women than men suffer from arthritis.

Work on Exhibit at Library

A dozen watercolors executed by Mrs. Duna Verich-Combs, of Langley, are on exhibit today through November 14 at the Floyd County Library here.

Mrs. Combs said of her work on display: "Watercolor is a most challenging medium to work with, and one I find especially expressive . . . The flower paintings on view were done, each one, at the site of the hibiscus flowers in our back yard. I chose watercolor because it seems especially suited to the fragile flowers; in color and form.'

An earlier exhibit of Mrs. Combs' work was made up of paintings and drawings of her family.

Mrs. Combs taught art in Wisconsin before coming to Kentucky to teach in the art department of Eastern Kentucky University. She has taught art in the Maytown, Martin, Garrett and McDowell schools. In addition, she has set up a six-unit art program in Johnson Central High School which included drawing, painting, printmaking, crafts, ceramics, sculpture, and art history. She has given up teaching to remain home with her family and to devote more time to her first persuasion, that of painting and drawing.

BEES IN ARGENTINA ATTACK 18, KILL ONE

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina-A swarm of bees attacked 18 passersby in a small town near the Bolivian border, killing a six-year-old boy and seriously injuring two children and two adults, the official Telam news agency reported Friday

The bees were described as descendants of African bees brought into South America 19 years ago by an American scientist. African bees have been blamed for several recent attacks in Brazil, Argentina and other South American countries.

Citing local police, Telam said the bees swarmed out of discarded boxes lying at an intersection in the town of El Carmen, about 950 miles northeast of Buenos Aires and attacked anyone nearby.

Our Fragile Earth

By DR. JERRY HOWELL Director of Environmental Studies Morehead State University

The last article discussed food poisoning. This article examines some of the diseases transmitted from animals to man, called zoonoses.

Salmonellosis, that form of food poisoning caused by the bacteria Salmonella typhimurium, is very common in the U.S., where it is estimated that two million cases occur annually. This common bacterial species is found naturally in the intestines of man and other animals. When an outbreak occurs, it almost certainly is a result of food coming into contact with feces in some fashion. Commonly infected foods include turkey and pork products, ice cream, chicken, and potato salad. Disease symptoms include headaches, dizziness and nausea. A recent study by the U.S. Public Health Service showed that as many as 200,000 salmonellosis cases are caused by U. S. pet turtles annually. Their feces contaminate the aquarium gravel and the gravel is often handled by children. Two states, Maryland and Pennsylvania, have outlawed the public sale of turtles as a result.

Toxoplasmosis is a disease caused by a microscopic animal parasite, Toxoplasma gondii. Spread from the Arctic to the Antarctic, this parasite is found in rabbits, rats, mice, birds, swine, dogs, chickens and cats.

Toxoplasmosis has a mysterious mode of transmission, but is it known that eating infected meat can cause the disease and it is also known that contact with cat droppings is a major vehicle for disease transmission. Because the disease agent is so small, it can be transmitted across the placenta of pregnant women and infect the fetus which has not had sufficient time to build up infection antibodies. Consequently, pregnant women have been advised to avoid cats.

Recent research has uncovered an insidious mode of operation. For no apparent organic reason, people sometimes go blind in their mid-20's or 30's. It has been shown that in many cases toxoplasmosis dormant since the fetal stages, is to blame. The brain's equilibrium sound and sight centers are attacked and once detected, it can be treated with antibiotics, but it can kill.

Another serious, sometimes deadly zoonose is encephalitis, a virus which inflames the brain. In 1964 in Houstin, more than 500 people were stricken and New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Florida also experienced encephalitis outbreaks during the 1960's. The disease is transmitted by mosquitoes which have recently bitten infected birds. Common reservoirs are the pigeon, blackbird, starling and chicken. Encephalitis is increasing primarily because these bird populations are building up. Chickens must be grown to feed our expanding population. Starlings and redwing blackbirds fly rampant in an unbalanced environment and pigeons never had it so good in our congested and dirty cities.

There are many other zoonoses about which we must be concerned.

Most everyone you see has a job-they go to work and do this job the greatest part of their lives.

Most of their lives! That is a pretty big statement. If you are going to be doing something most of your life it should be something you love and enjoy.

I'm sorry for the boy or girl who picks a job simply for its monetary rewards. Pay is certainly important, but the job will eventually make the person. A person who finds the job that lets him feel he is doing something-gives him satisfaction- will be a happier and better individual.

Reflective Disks "Lighting Up" Kentucky's Major Highways

Frankfort, Ky.-The white-painted centerlines of several major use highways in Kentucky are being replaced with a new type of raised, highly reflective plastic disk designed to help. improve road visibility for drivers during dark and inclement weather.

Thus far, at least seven areas of the state have received the raised markers or will receive them soon. They have been installed on I-75 between Lexington and the Ohio state line, on New Circle Road (the by-pass route around Lexington), on US 421 at Frankfort, between Wilkinson Boulevard and the Thornhill By-Pass, and on I-64 from Lexington to the I-65 interchange at Louisville.

Jefferson County and the by-pass route around Owensboro in Daviess County are next in line to get the new marking

The disks, being installed by a Connecticut traffic equipment company for the Kentucky Department of Transportation, are made of ceramic material and small squares of the reflective plastic. They literally light up at night in the glare of an approaching car's headlights instead of fading off into the dark as the old, painted centerlines tend

They are especially effective in rainy situations where a painted centerline often seems to disappear from view completely, said John C. Roberts, secretary of the Department of Trans-

Public reaction to the new and still experimental project has been "truly amazing," according to Roberts.

"The only criticism so far-if you can call it that-has come from several persons wanting to know why we didn't start using the markers sooner."

Roberts' chief traffic engineer and the man who first brought the new idea to his attention, Bob Flener, said that it was not until just recently that the raised markers became practical for use in states which experience heavy snowfalls.

"Until now we were afraid that they (the markers) could be damaged by our snow plows," he said.

However, a newly developed edge for snow plow blades has virtually eliminated that particular concern, he

Roberts said he hopes that the Jefferson and Daviess County installations can be completed by the end of this year. "But it all depends on the weather because the epoxy used in cementing the markers to the pavement will not bond in cold temperatures," he said.

The contract for the work, which was awarded to Interstate Traffic Equipment Co. of New Haven, Conn., amounts to about $278,000 in federal-state money. Marker installations on the interstates are being funded 90 per cent with federal funds and 10 per cent with state money. The funding ratio for rural and noninterstate segments is 70-30.

A second contract, scheduled to start next spring, has been let to another firm to improve two-lane road segments in Christian, Henderson, Daviess, Hardin, Meade, Jefferson, Anderson, Mercer, Boyle, Pulaski, Boyd, Pike and Floyd Contract costs for next spring's work will amount to about $247,675, but will be covered entirely by Federal Highway Administration (FHWA) money.

In urban areas and on most welltraveled highways, the markers are being placed three feet apart for a distance of 15 feet, after which there is a skip of 25 feet before the next sequence of markers is resumed. In rural areas and on some interstates, the spacing calls for one high intensity marker every 40-80 markers as "both fast and simple." One workman, on foot, marks the spot for application with a sand-blaster. Behind him, another man in a bucket seat-on-wheels towed by a truck, places the marker tiles, covered with epoxy, upside down on the road. A third workman, following the truck in a go-cart, flips them over, centering them, epoxyside down, on the sand-roughened patch.

By the time they have covered one mile, the epoxy has set and that section of road is finished, Flener said.

While the program is still considered experimental, Flener and Roberts see several important advantages for Kentucky in using the new markers in-The Watterson Expressway, I-71 within stead of continuing the old painted centerline system.

"For one thing, they should eliminate 18, 10 a.m., at the church. the need for a yearly repaiting of the old centerlines and all the problems associated with that work," Flener said. But more importantly, say both men, they could prove to be as significant contribution to highway safety.

Roberts noted that the FHWA is actively promoting the marker project as part of its over-all highway safety program nationally.

CPHE To Consider Budget Requests

Frankfort, Ky.-Requests from Kentucky's public colleges and universities for state funds for their 1976-'78 biennium budgets will be prime agenda items at the Council on Public Higher Education (CPHE) meeting here November 6 and 7. The Council will meet in the ground floor conference room, Capitol Plaza Office Tower, Frankfort.

The CPHE, which is Kentucky's public higher education coordinating agency, is required by state law to review the eight state institutions' budget requests and recommend funding totals to the

The agency has received requests from the institutions totaling $571.6 million for operating expenses and $192.6 million for capital construction projects during the two-year period beginning next July 1.

Review of the requests by the CPHE staff, involving representativesof the institutions, began October 15. The staff's recommendations on the operating expenses requests will be considered by the CPHE members for approval Thursday, November 6. Capital construction request recommendations will be considered Friday, November 7, and the agency's recommendations will go to Gov. Julian Carroll Saturday, November CPHE recommendations for the 1976-'78 biennium will be announced at the November 6-7 meeting.

Also scheduled for consideration by the CPHE is a report from a hospital and construction management firm on its review of the proposed construction costs for a teaching hospital-regional medical care complex at the University of Louisville.

4 Defendants Convicted In U.S. District Court

These convictions in U.S. district court at Pikeville were announced this week by U. S. Atty. Eugene E. Siler, Jr.:

Amos Adair Stilner, 24, and Freddie Carson Stilner, 23, both of Grundy, Va., pleaded guilty to unlawfully possessing a quantity of stolen explosives on Feds Creek in Pike county. The explosive materials had been stolen from a mine operated by James L. Griffith, also of Pike county. Judge H. David Hermansdorfer sentenced both defendants to five Ronnie Mullins, 30, Route 2, Grundy, Va., also entered pleas of guilty to receiving and concealing the explosives taken by the Stilners and each was separate incidents and lodged in the sentenced to three years.

Jack Little, 51, of Robinson Creek, Pike county, was convicted of knowingly storing explosive materials in an unauthorized manner, in violation of the Organized Crime Control Act. The explosives were discovered in an abandoned car and outbuilding pursuant to a search by Kentucky State Police Detectives Richard Ray, Fred Bailey, and Trooper Kenneth Frost. The defendant was fined $200.

Suspect Jail Inmate Winter Cover Crop In Cellmate Death

A Pikeville jail inmate was beaten or stomped to death in his cell late Saturday night, officials said.

A cellmate has been charged with murder in connection with the death.

Kentucky State Police said John Herrington, Pikeville, was fatally assaulted sometime between 8 and 11:30 p.m. Saturday.

Billy Hall, 28, also of Pikeville, has been booked on a charge of murder. He was removed from the city jail to the Pike county jail.

Both men were arrested early Saturday night and jailed on charges of public drunkeness. They were arrested in same cell by city police. A third man was also lodged in the same cell, but police said he was unable to be questioned because of his state of alleged intoxication.

KSP Detective Fred Bailey said officials at the jail discovered Herrington's body about 11:30 p.m. last night when they attempted to lock up a fourth man.

Police said other occupants of the jail, lodged in nearby cells, gave no indication they had heard or seen any fight or Cost-Sharing Available

The Floyd county ASCS office advises farmers that cost-sharing for winter cover crops is still available.

Cost-shares are on a 50 pct. basis and cover all eligible seed. Practices should be completed by December 1. Those interested should contact the Floyd County ASCS office.
