Four-Lane KY 80 Is Recommended

Firm Estimates Cost of Highway At $176 Million

Four lanes, not three, have been recommended for reconstruction of KY 80 from this county to Perry, and the cost will be "at least" $176,100,000, a consulting engineering firm has told the Department of Highways.

The road under study by Brighton Engineering Co., Frankfort, and three other firms under state contract would stretch 42 miles from the new four-lane US 23, near Water Gap to junction with the two-lane Daniel Boone Parkway at Hazard.It would replace the present twisting, two-lane KY 80.

Financing of such an undertaking presents a problem, admittedly, but Transportation Secretary John C. Roberts said his agency "hasn't given up" on it, although the estimated cost is far beyond his "guess" of $75 to $150 million. The lower figure, however, applied to earlier plans for a two-lane road with a third lane for passing on hills.

Governor Carroll has asked for a study of possible financing and has been emphatic in saying he is determined to see the road built.

There apparently would not be enough money from regular federal aid or state road funds to build the road, unless it were done in short stretches over a number of years. KY 80 is not part of the Appalachian road program.

Issuance of toll-road bonds seems unlikely because the amount of traffic would not make a toll road self-sufficient. The road fund is heavily committed to debt payments for toll roads that do not pay their way. Design standards for the corridor study called for partial control of access

Salisbury Trial On Murder Count Under Way Here

Commonwealth testimony still was being heard Tuesday afternoon in the murder trial of Gene Salisbury, accused of the slaying of Crit Butler at Drift, and it appeared that the case may not reach the jury until today (Wednesday). The case was called for trial Monday, and at the end of the day one juror was still lacking. The jury was completed Tuesday morning.

Edd Wright, an eyewitness of the slaying, appeared as a Commonwealth

Testimony of Sheriff Joe W. Lewis, who differed with State Police on findings at the scene, was scheduled as a witness.

The Salisbury case is the only murder trial slated during the current term. Commonwealth's Attorney Harold Stumbo said he has been assured Bobby Workman will be returned from Michigan to this county for trial on a charge of murder in connection with the slaying of James Chaffins on Arkansas Creek but that his return may not be expected before January.

THE METRIC MEASURE MESS

I haven't bothered my congressman in recent weeks, and being troubled myself about this proposed change to metric measure, I hereby call on him to take time off from playing wet-nurse to everybody else in the district and hear

What I want to know is, What's wrong with good, old U.S. measures, and why surrender to "them furriners"? What's wrong with an old-fashioned inch, or foot, or yard, or mile?

Not even considering all the confusion that will result, think what we would do to the language if we go metric. How would you like to say, for instance:

"I whipped him within 25.4 millimeters of his life."

Or "They 25.4 millimetered along." Or, "First down and 914.4 centimeters

Or, "He missed it 1.609347 kilometers." I tell you, it won't work. The only bright spot I see in it for me might be when I am called upon for the size of the fish I caught. Then it would be nice to say, nonchalantly, "Oh, it measured about 30 (and then leave the matter open as to whether I'm speaking of inches or cen-

Two Unions To Vote On New Labor Contract

Membership of two local unions of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers will vote this week by secret ballot on acceptance or rejection of the new labor contract reached recently through negotiation between their committee and representatives of their employer, the Columbia Gas Transmission Company.

The present contract will expire at midnight Sunday, but the workers' decision by ballot is expected to be known by the end of the day Friday.

Forty-six local employees are involved in the balloting. The two local unions involved-Nos. 3-372 and 3-6628-include workers in other sections of Kentucky and West Virginia.

Churches Here To Join In Thanksgiving Service

The Community Thanksgiving Service will be held Thanksgiving eve (Nov. 26) at Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church at 7:30 p.m. The Rev. Harold Applegate, pastor of the First United Methodist Church, will preach. An offering will be taken for the fund maintained by the Prestonsburg Ministerial Association to purchase food given to transients who, passing through Prestonsburg, stop at one of the local churches.

Flood Insurance Deadline Said Already Past for Some

Only the cities of Prestonsburg and Wheelwright are in compliance with the National Flood Insurance Act at this time, and the deadline for compliance for Allen, Martin and Wayland, the county's other incorporated communities, has already passed. So said a flood insurance specialist at a meeting held at City Hall here Tuesday afternoon.

Floyd county, he added, has till December 13 to make formal compliance. Claude Swiney, county planner, said it is possible officials will adopt a compliance resolution-which at this time appears to be all that is required-

Again, it was pointed out that no use of federal funds or of the funds of any lending institution under federal supervision will be available to builders in areas where the governmental unit has not complied with the flood insurance act. Nor may owners of buildings already occupied procure flood insurance in such Appearing at the meeting were Robert D. Cassell, Jr., flood insurance specialist, Atlanta, Ga.; R. G. Baumgardner, chief of the Flood Plain Management Service, Huntington district Corps of Army Engineers, and Richard E. McCoy, of the district Corps of Engineers.

Prestonsburg and Wheelwright at this time, it was pointed out, are in the emergency phase of the program, and there are no restrictions at this time as to where building may be done. Phase Two, which was not fully explained, will come Wheelwright has no great flood problem. But the flood plain for Prestonsburg, as outlined on Corps of Engineers maps, aroused comment from Mayor William O. Goebel and others here. The flood plain, as it now is mapped, is all that area below the record flood of 1862 and includes all of Prestonsburg below the eastern boundary of Highland Avenue. This "flood line", however, does not take into consideration the floodwall constructed here several years ago and the more recent building of Fishtrap and John Flannagan dams, all of which has prevented flooding here.

Mr. Cassell explained:

"We are at the point where we are ready to begin a study of the 100-year elevation projection. This study would take into consideration protective structures. After it is made, the report will be sent to the city, then the city has a six-month appeal period."

But he added, "New homes should be built above the 100-year flood level, and businesses should be flood-proofed."

Boat House in Dry Dock

"No Wake Speed," the sign on the Jenny Wiley Boat Dock boat house, warns boaters, even though the building has been moved to the amphitheatre parking lot, and a long way from Dewey Lake which has retreated almost to the original creek channel since the Corps of Engineers' drawdown began a little over two weeks ago.

Water System Asks Grant for Expansion

The Prestonsburg Water & Gas System the filing of an application for a grant of began this week the preliminaries toward trebling the capacity of the water plant here and providing water, eventually, to all the area from Allen to Auxier as well as meeting Prestonsburg's growth demands.

The initial step was taken Monday with

Subdivision Asks Council's Action For Annexation

At the same meeting last Thursday at which City Council adopted an ordinance completing the annexation of area in the Goble-Roberts Addition a petition was received from residents of the May Branch subdivision asking that that section be included in the corporate limits of Prestonsburg.

A survey of the May Branch area will first be made by City Engineer Earl Martin, then City Attorney Joe Hobson will institute the requested annexation proceedings, it was said.

Council heard a request from Dr. Henry A. Campbell, Jr., director Prestonsburg Community College, for police patrol of University Drive, the city street through the campus, and for street sweeper services there. Parking of vehicles there in front of fire hydrants is creating a potential danger in case of fire, he pointed out

The resignation of DeGarmo DeRossett from the Board of Zoning Adjustment, was received, and Roger Colvin was appointed in his stead. Jack Absher was appointed to fill the vacancy created by the death of Judith Archer, and Ted Nairn was reappointed. A full board is now functioning for the first time since the death of Mrs. Archer

Mrs. Anna Jean Tackett resigned from the Park Commission, and Mrs. Marthann Damron was named her successor.

$800,000 from the Housing and Urban Development Administration (HUD) and for a loan of $300,000 from FHA as the local contribution to the $1,100,000

Bill Harvey Howard, superintendent of the water and gas system, said the financing sought is intended to increase the water plant capacity from its present 1 million gallons a day to 3 million and, hopefully, to take care of the water needs of Prestonsburg and surrounding area for a period of 15 to 20 years.

Mr. Howard said that on financing and completion of the work trebling capacity of the plant depends service to other water districts and communities in the area. Three water districts—Bull Creek, Abbott Creek and Little Paint Creek-are in the process of formation, and all will depend upon the Prestonsburg system as their source of water. Extension of service into the Left Fork of Middle Creek section also may depend upon a heavier volume of water from the Prestonsburg system.

A "letter of conditions" was received by the system last week from FHA, which indicates that FHA will make available $150,000, if the system meets required conditions, this amount to be used to increase capacity of the water plant to 11/2 million gallons a day.

Sewage treatment plant work costing $1,100,000 and providing secondary sewage treatment as well as doubling the capacity of the plant is 98 per cent complete, it was said. All structural work has been completed by the contractor, the W. Rogers Co., of Lexington, with only painting and "finishing touches" remaining to be done. The work was designed to make capacity of the plant such that it will handle sewage from the same area later to be served with water.

The city last week received from the Environmental Protection Agency (EDA) a grant of $30,000 to finance a study of existing storm and sanitary

Prisoner Wins Brief Freedom

A break from the Floyd county jail here last Wednesday gave only in brief freedom for Harold Bolen, Jr., as he was returned to the jail by state troopers within a half-hour.

Turnkey Paul Osborne said he led Bolen out of the cell area after the prisoner had requested use of the telephone and that Bolen suddenly bolted. State Troopers Williams and Castle found Bolen 30 minutes later walking in the vicinity of the Mountain Parkway bridge. Bolen has been serving time at the jail for nearly a year on two counts of assault in the first degree.

State Trooper Hardin and Deputy Sheriff Doug Lewis arrested Lloyd D. Kidd last Tuesday here and charged him with transporting alcoholic beverages. The officers recovered 11 cases of beer, a case of whiskey and eight fifths of whiskey. Kidd entered a plea of guilty in Prestonsburg Police Judge Tom Lafferty's court and was fined $107.

Lexington Firm Gets Contract For Work Here

The Floyd fiscal court last Thursday accepted the low bid of $873,850 submitted by the Barco Construction Company, Lexington, for construction of the courthouse annex which has been planned more than a year.

Barco's bid was approximately $100,000 above the architect's estimate of the cost, but that estimate was made a year ago and the higher cost was ascribed to inflation

Two other bids were received, and the lowest of the two was approximately $40,000 higher than that of Barco. Hacker Bros. Construction Co., Corbin, asked $914,399 to do the construction job, and the James N. Gray Construction Co., Glasgow, submitted a bid of $1,063.41.

The contract with Barco, which was expected to be executed officially, Tuesday, provides for completion of the annex in 360 working days. The structure will be built on a 100 x 200-foot lot purchased last year for $30,000 from Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Kendrick. It is located to the rear of the courthouse itself.

The annex will be of two main floors and a third-story penthouse for mechanicals and will have approximately 11,000 square feet of floor space. On the first floor will be the office of the juvenile judge and areas which may be used for records storage. The second floor will house the juvenile detention center and a recreation area.

The annex will serve to comply with the Court of Appeals injunction that all juvenile prisoners must be kept isolated from sight and sound of adult prisoners.

The annex cost will be paid out of revenue sharing and coal severance tax The court also bought approximately

Floyd Officials In Capital Rally

The importance of revenue sharing to the nation and its local governments was emphasized last Tuesday by approximately 1,500 county officials attending a rally in Washington, D. C. to urge speedy renewal of the fund-sharing Floyd county was represented by County Judge Henry Stumbo, County Attorney James R. Allen, Magistrate Dewey Roberts and Joseph McCauley, executive director of the Big Sandy Area Development District. Forty-six Kentuckians attended the rally during which members of the Kentucky delegation in both houses of Congress and other key Congressional figures were contacted.

Some opposition has risen in Congress to revenue sharing in any form. Other legislators would continue the program but would change the guidelines for spending the funds. The consensus of opinion of those appearing for the program was that revenue sharing will be continued in some form. Congressional action will not come before Christmas as requested, however.

The Floyd delegation joined those from other counties across the nation in explaining that Congress needs to act now on revenue sharing because half of the state and local governments have fiscal years which begin in June or July and they must know what their revenue sharing allocations will be, well in advance of the new fiscal year. Since the congressional budget act forbids appropriation of funds by Congress between January and May 15, unless action is taken now many state and local governments will be far into their new budget work before they know how much revenue sharing to expect.

Wheelwright Votes Littering Penalties

The Wheelwright board of trustees cracked down Thursday night on crime against the environment.

The trustees unanimously adopted an ordinance setting the penalty for littering streams and highways at a fine of $250, or a jail term of six months, or both. The ordinance became effective upon adoption.

In other action the trustees voted to award a cash prize of $25 to the householder whose home is adjudged to have been the most attractively decorated during the Christmas season. All citizens, except members of the board of trustees, are eligible to compete for the home beautification award.

PRESTONSBURG'S NEW PARKING LOT extending from Second Avenue to Lake Drive was opened this week, with Bill Pettrey (at left) in charge pending later installation of meters. The two original lots and two new ones recently completed, plus on-street parking, give Prestonsburg 1,000 parking accommodations—more than any other town in the area, officials claim.

Noncompliance Regulation

By MARVA GAY Frankfort, Ky.—The eight persons who testified at a public hearing in Frankfort last week objected to provisions of a proposed repeated noncompliance regulation for the Division of Reclamation in the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection.

Several of the speakers called the proposed regulation ambiguous, unenforceable and contrary to statutory in-

Spoken testimony came from officials of coal associations, a citizens' group and the attorney general's office. Written comments on the proposed regulation are being accepted until Nov. 28. The comments will be evaluated and revisions to the proposed regulation will be made, based on those comments, before the final version is adopted.

The 1974 state legislature passed a bill requring the environmental protection The wedding will take place December agency to adopt regulations governing repeated noncompliance reclamation rules.

The proposed regulation says an operator shall be deemed to have repeatedly been in noncompliance when three noncompliances have occurred without certain results for violation on the same permitted area within any 18month period.

Permits may be divided into 25-acre units, but adjacent permitted areas of smaller sizes, up to 25 acres, will be considered as one permit.

The law passed the 1974 General Assembly specifies that the department shall not issue permits to any operator who has been found repeatedly in noncompliance. Also, the department shall not reinstate any suspended permits until the operator complies with all the department's requirements.

The regulation lists six occurances that will be considered repeated noncompliances, for the purposes of this particular regulation. They are:

-Failure of the operator to obey an order of suspension;

-Failure to obey a revocation of a permit or certificate;

-Mining without a permit, certificate or permission to mine; -Failure to obey an order of the department within the time prescribed

when the order follows a departmental -Failure to maintain standards that are current with the approved reclamation plan; and -Any noncompliance whereby the operator agrees to pay or is fined $5,000

Objections centered on the six definitions of noncompliance how Lying on Arkansas Creek of Beaver -determination of a noncompliance is Creek, joining Oakley Robinson farm decided, the 18-month time period and the allowable size of a permit.

Rights, J. T. Begley, an attorney with the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund, objected to most provisions of the regulations, especially the definitions of noncompliance which he said left the determination of who was guilty and who wasn't up to the discretion of department officials. Begley said the definition of who was an operator was also not clear.

He called for a redrafting of the regulation using an accumulating point system similar to one used by federal mine safety officials. He also recommended that a hearing be held after three noncompliances were issued.

David Short, representing the attorney general's office, said the regulation does not properly implement the statute under which it is written, is inconsistent, would be unenforceable, does not fulfill the legislative mandate and is contrary to statute. More specifically, he objected to limitations on the size of a permitted area and the time during which the three noncompliances must be accumulated. He also objected to the definitions of noncompliance.

Earl Combs, of the Kentucky Reclamation Association, objected to defining noncompliance as any time the operator didn't keep current with the approved reclamation plan. He pointed out that often the operator might fall behind because of weather conditions over which he had no control

Tom Duncan, president of the Kentucky Coal Association, urged reevaluation of the psoposed regulations so that operators would not be barred from mining for life because of minor violations. He also suggested the time limits be reduced to 12 months to coincide with the life of a strip mine permit. Permits are issued for one year.

Also advocating a 12-month time limit, Bob Harris, reclamation supervisor for Peabody Coal Co., recommended that a hearing be held after a noncompliance notice is issued so that an operator could present evidence in his behalf. He also called the definition of noncompliance that is based on the $5,000 penalty a case of double jeopardy. He said if an operator agrees to pay $5,000 in penalties, he's putting himself in jeopardy of getting a noncompliance and increasing his chances of having his permit revoked.

Also taking issue with the definitions, Earl Williams, director of Williams and Associates, said the repeated noncompliance sanctions should be used only for grave or willful violations.

Clovd McDowell, president of the Hardin County Coal Operators Associatin, and David O. Smith, executive vice-president of the Kentucky-Tennessee Chapter of Coal Operators and Associations, called for hearings on noncompliance notices. Using the stronger language, Smith called the entire regulation unconstitutional-a violation of due process-and said it would put many coal miners out of business.

Comments on the proposed regulations should be sent to the division of reclamation, Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, 5th floor, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

Entered as second class matter June 18. 1927, at the postoffice at Prestonsburg. Kentucky, under the act of March 3, 1879.

It Can Happen Here

Elsewhere in this edition of The Times is reprinted the statement of Mayor Cornett, of Morehead, in which he asks for financial help for his city with a sewage treatment problem and at the same time frankly describes what has happened at Morehead and to the stream which its untreated sewage has

We reprint this statement, not to emphasize Morehead's plight, but in an attempt to warn Floyd county communities of what lies ahead as central water supplies become available to them and as the effluence from indoor plumbing is dumped, untreated, into streams.

The Right and Left Beaver Creek sections of the county now have a water system. So does Mud Creek. Almost every home served by these systems has a bathroom, and from many of these the raw sewage goes directly into the nearest stream. In some cases septic tanks are used, but in at least one population center of the county the soil has become so saturated from these that sewage is only a matter of a few inches beneath the surface.

The smell of outdoor privies will fade by comparison with what such areas eventually will know. But it is not only the olfactory sense that will be offended, or water resources that will be lost. One day, the day of sad reckoning will come, and then disease born of raw sewage will begin to take its toll.

No water distribution system should be built without the absolutely necessary complement of a sewer system and adequate sewage treatment before it enters either streams or soil.

And all the talk of anti-pollution, of pure water and of sewage treatment plants will mean nothing whatsoever unless the government, state or federal, or both; becomes willing to bear most of the cost of such expensive projects.

Government must realize that for one community to protect its stream from raw sewage is a failure as long as other communities dump their raw sewage into the same stream. It must realize, too, that talk is cheap but that it takes money, and lots of it, to clean up the mess we've all had a hand in creating.

Come to think of it, why hasn't government, long before this, insisted on an end to pollution of Triplett Creek by the city of Morehead, in view of the fact that it has been threatening Big Sandy towns such as Prestonsburg, Paintsville and Pikeville with fines unless they built not one sewage treatment facility but unless they added secondary treatment to plants already in operation?

Surplus construction funds from the last two toll-road projects could be channeled indirectly into the new road, but this would be only a partial answer.

The total of such funds is $68 million. Brighton's "preferred recommended" corridor is the least costly of several studied. The cost could be higher if the Bureau of Highways picks another route to improve traffic service or displace fewer residents. The recommended corridor is north of KY 80 between Hazard and Garrett. It crosses KY 80 several times between Garrett and Martin, and then is northwest of KY 80 between Martin and Water Gap. The study report notes that a more costly route curving south of Martin would by-pass the community and better serve motorists from the Left Fork of Beaver Creek area. E. B. Gaither, assistant state highway engineer, emphasized that the recommended corridor is subject to change by the bureau and that local opinions would be sought before any final decision. If financing is arranged, it will take about five years to design and build the road, Gaither said. Gaither said the bureau has found that in the mountains it sometimes is cheaper in the long run to build four lanes initially, rather than widen a two-lane

Under its $194,471 contract, Brighton coordinated the work of three other engineering firms in the study-Adam K. Grafe & Associates, Lexington; Hazelet & Erdal, Louisville, and Bluegrass Engineering Co., Louisville.

"As we well know, one of the first things we have to learn is that the food we eat and the water we drink is all

"The raw food is poisoned when the water that feeds the food underground to maturity is polluted. Then we have a problem. The vast majority of people don't know that by the process of osmosis, water feeds up through the earth into the plant, and the normal food can become deadly unless it is properly cooked. This is true in Morehead.

"Our earth is so full of sewage that the water is all polluted. Young people don't realize that when they go barefooted in the summer time that they are subject to problem. We actually lost a young man last summer in Hidden Valley, probably due to pollution.

"The North Fork of Triplett Creek, 10 years ago, used to be nationally known as a musky stream. People traveled from all over the United States to fish in this stream. Today this stream is so infected with raw sewage that the fish are literally eaten up with hookworms.

"This brings us to another problem. How are we going to keep the young people from swimming in this water? We have a beautiful municipal pool, but there is something about going swimming in the old swimming hole, and they will go in spite of polluted water.

"We have paid fines to the fish and game department, for fish killed due to pollution and raw sewage, over 10 years ago. This year our raw sewage running nto Triplett Creek was 30 ner cent greater than it was last year. We don't five per cent in Morehead last year, and have to pay for any more fish killed it will get worse unless we can clean up because this Fork of Triplett Creek is dead. Nothing lives in this water except

"This problem is a moral one. We have hundreds of people that live down this stream and each summer the water line drops and the accumulation of raw sewage begins to smell and as the water keeps dropping the odor increases until it is almost unbearable. My mother lived in the coal camps of Eastern Kentucky all her life. She died about two years ago because of a massive heart attack. But, after the autopsy had been completed, the doctor informed us she was in the last stages of black lung. Now she never worked in the mines but she did breathe the coal dust and fumes in the air and had

"What is this odor in the air from raw sewage doing to these people? Morally, allowing this to happen. There was actually 9,300 allergy cases reported in our county last year. This did not include the people that didn't go to the doctor. We are morally wrong when we allow the earth and water, that God gave us to keep clean, become so contaminated that it begins to kill the people. We must respect the people down stream; after all, God made them too.

"When the odor, from raw sewage, on the streets begins to embarrass the visitors to our city because the sewage runs down the ditches; when the school children have to wade raw sewage to get to the school buses, the problem is not only serious, it is a disaster. It is a far our sewage problem now. "Raw sewage has caused us to have industrial problems. Industry doesn't want to come to an area that can't furnish adequate sewage facilities, and people can't swim and use the water unless it is clean. "In spite of our sewage problem, Morehead has grown every year. In the past year, we have gotten one $5 million plant. A big shopping center is moving into town; another shopping center is being developed. New homes are springing up everywhere. Our University had its biggest enrollment in history. The raw sewage, next summer, will double and the death rate will go up. "Gentlemen, we are trying to do something about our situation in Morehead, Kentucky. We have our share of the money to match the federal grant all types of disease caused by our sewage the City of Morehead is wrong for we have applied for. As Mayor of the City of Morehead, I am not asking you to help us, I am begging for your help. If we don't get some help soon, and I'm not speaking of three years, I'm begging now. We won't be around for the final round.

"We can't continue to smell the polluted air, walk the polluted earth, wade the pollution on the way to work and to school, and live."

Bemoans Lack of Interest In Study of Alcohol

This is not intended as a personal affront to anyone, just something I feel compelled to publicize.

A ten weeks' course on "The Community Looks at Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism" was held at Prestonsburg Community College this fall. Thanks go to Stephen Knowles for the fine work that went into the planning and carrying out of each week's program.

There were several outstanding people who presented information on this subject-namely Dr. Robert Straus, head of the Department of Behaviorial Sciences at the University of Kentucky Medical School and an internationally known authority in the field of alcoholism; Dr. Cranicker, a fine psychiatrist at Eastern State Hospital in Pike County Health Department; Judge Wayne Rutherford, of Pike county; our own Rev. William Jaggers and Mr. Leo Weddle, who is an instructor at PCC, also some experienced local people of Alcoholics Anonymous and Al-Anon (both men and women).

But the distressing thing to me is the hue and cry one hears of what can be done about the serious problem (disease) of alcoholism-and then, when we have such an opportunity to learn something constructive, how many citizens care enough to learn? Very few! Not a county official, not a member of city government, not a doctor, clergyman, newspaper or radio personnel.

Magistrate Bill Wells' motion for repair of a bridge on Brush Creek which had been damaged by a heavy piece of equipment did not receive a second, but County Judge Henry Stumbo was emphatic in his declaration that the span will be repaired by the county.

"This bridge serves eight families who are cut off from access to the highway, and I intend to see that it is repaired, if I have to work on it myself," he said.

He pointed out that the Wells motion failed of support from Magistrate Kenneth Roberts in whose district the bridge is located and from the other two magistrates The three magistrates said the man who damaged the bridge should be required to repair it or pay for the repairs, but Judge Stumbo argued that the work should be done without delay by the county, which could act to collect from the machine operator later.

ASC Election Deadline Set for December 1st

Farmers are reminded of the December 1 deadline for returning ASC committeeman election ballots to the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office here. Voters will elect one committeeman (men) and two alternates for the county committee to serve in 1976.

The county chairman of the County ASC Committee says that voter eligibility for ASC committee elections is nondiscriminatory. Any eligible farmer can vote, regardless of religion, race, sex, color or national origin. Voter lists are open for public inspection through the final date for returning ballots on December 1.

Says Wells Should Resign District Reclamation Post

"Prestonsburg, Ky.-Kentucky stripmine reclamation laws are often loosely enforced in the state Division of Reclamation's Prestonsburg district, and violations of the laws sometimes go uncorrected for months, division sources

"They say that the district supervisor, Nevard Wells, and the division's engineering staff in Frankfort frequently do not follow up on reports of violations and do not support the reclamation inspector who reported the offenses." (Courier-Journal, Nov. 16, 1975)

Based on the findings of The Courier-Journal, Nevard Wells, district supervisor for the Prestonsburg Reclamation Office, should resign immediately. It is obvious that he is not doing his job or Lexington; Dr. Mary Fox, head of the allowing his inspectors to do theirs. The people of Eastern Kentucky deserve to have responsible people in such important positions. It doesn't take a genius to know that Floyd county and other surrounding counties are being destroyed by greed-hungry companies that break the laws every day. I wonder why the Department of Reclamation hasn't acted on this matter before. They have been told over and over that the laws are being broken every day in Eastern Kentucky and that nothing is being done to remedy the violations.

I applaud the field inspectors who voiced their opinions regarding nonsupport from their superiors. I also applaud Natural Resources Secretary John L. Hoffman's efforts to tighten enforcement of stripmining laws. However, I do not applaud those persons, some of which are holdovers from Tom Harris' administration, who are sabotaging the efforts of the field inspectors and Secretary Hoffman.

Mr. Wells stated, "I know we've neglected a lot, but that's something that can't be helped when you don't have the personnel." The people of Eastern Kentucky are tired of excuses. If Mr. Wells is neglecting his job then he should resign and let someone else give it a try. The history of this area is a history of neglect. It is time we did something to

For Proposed Lake

The Huntington District, U. S. Army Corps of Engineers has completed a court-ordered supplement to the 1971 Environmental Impact Statement for the Paintsville Lake, near Paintsville.

The supplement was prepared and is being distributed for review and comment in compliance with orders of the U. S. district court for the eastern district of

The Paintsville Lake is a multiplepurpose project being built for flood control, water quality control, recreation, and incidental redevelopment as authorized by the Flood Control Act of 1965. The dam site is on Paint Creek in Johnson county, about eight miles upstream from the confluence of Paint Creek and the Big Sandy River at Paintsville. The reservoir will extend into Morgan county.

All work on the project, except completion of an access road to the proposed dam site, has been suspended since July 15 by order of the court. More than 25 per cent of the real estate required for the

Kinzer Claims Hillclimb Title for Third Year

Terry Kinzer, of Pikeville, won the 1975 American Motorcycle Association Formula Grand National Hillclimb Championship for the third straight year, Nov. 6 at Westerville, Ohio.

Kinzer, 29, who captured the 1973 and 1974 championship aboard a Triumph, contested the 17-event 1975 national series on a four-cylinder, 750cc Honda, and became the first man ever to gain a national hillclimb championship on a Japanese machine. Kinzer edged Lou Gerencer of Elkhart, Indiana.

James Clark of Laurelville, Ohio, registered a convincing victory in the Formula B category for smaller machines, defeating Joe Nash of Coatesville, Pennsylvania, and defending champ Keith Grooms, also of Laurelville.

Kinzer and Clark each registered six victories in their respective classes during the national series. Clark's championship avenged a second-place finish to Grooms in the 1974 season.

Kinzer was sponsored by the Kinzer Cycle Shop, of Allen which is owned and operated by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Kinzer, of Allen.

Feathers Are Expected To Fly At Turkey Bowl Game Here

With visions of turkey, along with Alka-Seltzer, Pepto-Bismol, plain baking soda and other home remedies for indigestion still dancing in their heads, Turkey Bowl team members will face each other for a tie-breaking, bone-crushing battle at 2 o'clock, Sunday afternoon on the high school athletic field here.

. After three wins each and one tie, members of both East and West teams are eyeing their opposite numbers warily, and with feathers ruffled. Menacing sounds are said to rumble about the practice sessions.

Coaches Mutt Harris (West) and Bill Ray Collins and Huey Gray (East) this week announced lineups which may be added to up to the time of actual play, if it can be called that. Lineups are as follows:

Led by a Thanksgiving Day reject, Turkey Bowl members will stage their first parade here Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. Adding to the Roman games aspect of the annual gridirony will be a Turkey Bowl Queen contest as well as a drawing for two turkeys at half time.

Tickets are now on sale or may be purchased at the gate Sunday for those who like their tackle football padless and painful.

continued their winning ways this week by defeating Wheelwright, 64-28, and Millard, 72-59. It was McDowell's sixth and seventh wins in a row without a defeat. The win over Millard last Friday night at Millard was a big one for Mc-Dowell, since Millard is rated one of the top teams in the 15th region.

Against Wheelwright McDowell was led by Geri Grigsby's 40 points and 8 assists. Cathy Howell captured 10 rebounds to lead the "Daredevils" in that department.

Geri Grigsby's 45 points and center Rita Roberts' 10 points and 14 rebounds powered McDowell over Millard. Forwards Jamie Martin and Cathy Howell also combined for 20 rebounds as the "Daredevils" controlled the backboards in this hard-fought contest.

The Daredevils next encounter will be in the Floyd County pre-season tourney at Allen Central, December 1. They will meet Prestonsburg for the first time this

Asks 'Coon Hunters For Help in Study

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 19-The Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources is asking the cooperation of raccoon hunters in several Eastern Kentucky counties during this year's hunting season.

As part of a major research project. more than 1,000 raccoons have been released with ear tags. Hunters taking a tagged raccoon are asked to send the tag. along with data about where and when the animal was taken, to the department of Fish and Wildlife.

Return of the tags will furnish valuable information about the movements, dispersal and survival rate of restocked raccoons. Most of the raccoons used in the study were imported from other states by sportsmen's clubs for restocking. And one purpose of the study is to assess the effectiveness of these stocking programs and to develop recommendations for clubs to use in such projects.

Several raccoons have also been equipped with radio transmitter collars to monitor their movements. Should a hunter take a radio-equipped 'coon, he should send both the collar and the ear tag to the Department of Fish and

Both tagged and transmitter-equipped raccoons may be taken by legal methods during the open season, according to Joe Bruna, director of Fish and Wildlife's game management division. The season on raccoons and other furbearers opens November 20 and runs through January 31, 1976, but is closed December 6-10 for the gun deer season. The ear tags have a number on one side and on the other an inscription stating "Notify Ky. F. & W." These tags may be given to the local conservation officer or sent directly to: Division of Game Management, Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, Capital Plaza,

Farm Bureau Helps Ready Project

The Floyd County Chapter of the Kentucky Farm Bureau recently gave financial support to Project R.I.F. (Reading is Fundamental) at the Clark Elementary School. (Shown is photo, making the presentation of $200 to John K.

Pitts, principal of the school, is Troy Hackworth, president of the local chapter.) Project R.I.F. is a national volunteer program which attempts to supply books to children at no cost. The program also encourages the child to make his own selections from many titles available.

During the project's operation last year, 150 children who were having reading difficulties read more than 4,849 library books, and earned 750 R.I.F. paperback books of their choice to keep.

"With combined efforts of the Farm Bureau, the Prestonsburg Junior Woman's Club, and our limited school resources, we hope to expand the program for this year. Obviously the more assistance we obtain, the more children we can serve," Mr. Pitts said.

PHS Glee Club Presents Program at Club Meet

Prestonsburg Junior Woman's Club was held November 20 at the Floyd County Library with Mrs. Kenneth D. Brown, president, presiding. Mrs. Brown introduced Mrs. Carlos Haywood, music instructor at Prestonsburg High School and the 50-voice P.H.S. Glee Club in a program of Bicentennial and Thanksgiving music. Tom Blackburn, member of the group, read the poem, "Thanksgiving Is Many Things." Following the musical presentation, Mrs. Effie Milby gave a talk on the Daughters of the American Revolution. During the business session Carole Burchett presented a carriage throw to Carol Tussey who had secured $315.50 in sponsors for the Bike-a-thon.

In the President's report, Jeanne Brown presented the club's new corresponding secretary, Daisy Risher, replacement for Rita Campbell who had resigned, related happenings at Seventh District fall meeting and reminded everyone of upcoming KFWC events. She also announced that the December meeting will be held at the home of Barbara Robinson.

Rhonda Jupin, Arts Chairman, told of committee meeting held November 13 and invited clubwomen to attend a free crafts workshop to be held December 4 at Prestonsburg High School. Mrs. Jupin also told of bake sale plans and of the Bicentennial art show scheduled for February 22.

Linda Francis, Education Department chairman, told of plans for the second annual breakfast with Santa, scheduled for December 13, from 9-12, at Prestonsburg Elementary, and of a rummage sale for November 29. She reminded members of the Colgate drive to help P.H.S. secure air-conditioning of a need to bring books and magazines for committee's

The regular November meeting of the projects. Mrs. Francis told the membership that workbooks and supplies for indigent Prestonsburg Elementary first graders totaled $147, a project which the club will again fund.

Delilah Vaughn of the Home Life Department, reminded all of a bake sale on November 22 and distributed raffle tickets on a diamond ring. Proceeds from these two projects will be used for purchase of shoes and glasses for needy. The Home Life Department also collected towels and canned foods for department projects.

Cheryl Rosenberg, vice chairman of International Affairs, reported on a bake sale and chili supper held as moneymaking projects. She told of three department meetings and of a UNICEF party the department gave for youngsters who helped during the UNICEF campaign.

Peggy Kidd, Public Affairs chairman, reported on a money-making booth in October and proposed rummage sale. The department distributed a KFWC survey regarding alcoholism.

By-laws chairman, Della Ormerod, placed a By-laws revision before the assembly. Membership approved bylaws change regarding attendance.

Cheryl Rosenberg, Shirley Combs and Kay Cooley volunteered to screen kindergarten students for the "Oh, Say Can You See?" project.

Daisy Risner, New Year's Eve advisory chairman, presented proposals for the 1975 dance and Kay Cooley was named as refreshments' chairman and Ebbie Prater as decoration's chairman. Linda Setser, Miss Floyd County Scholarship Pageant advisory board chairman, presented pageant proposals, and March 27 was set as the date for next year's pageant. Ebbie Prater was named entries chairman. Nancy Spradlin, Floyd County Kidney Foundation chairman, asked for and secured help in selling tootsie rolls for the foundation.

Hostesses for the evening were members of the Education Department. Bicentennial was the theme chosen by the department.

Fiddlin' Dewey Recalls Father as "The Best"

Summer Brice Shepherd

"Fiddlin" Dewey Shepherd, of David, is widely known in this area for his oldtime fiddle playing, singing and dancing, and as being an authentic mountain "character." Shepherd is also familiar to many folk music enthusiasts all over the nation from his performance at the prestigious Newport (R. I.) Folk Festival where he appeared on the same stage with personalities such as Joan Baez, Theodore Bikel, Johnny Cash, Bob Dylan, Judy Collins and others.

What few remember is that Fiddlin' Dewey's father, "Summer" Brice Shepherd, may have been one of the finest fiddle players ever to come out of the southern mountains.

father. "Even old Can Estep, a lefthanded fiddler, and Fiddlin' Tom Burchett couldn't come close to beatin' Dad.'

Summer Brice Shepherd, who, like his son, was born and raised in the David area, learned to play the fiddle on a home-made gourd instrument, just as his son would years later. "They've got daddy's old gourd fiddle behind glass in the Smithsonian Institute," Dewey remarked. "Guess it'll be there as long as there's a United States," he added.

According to Fiddlin' Dewey, his said.

"That fellow told my dad he'd pay all expenses, food and drink, if dad would go with him to the fiddle contest in Utah.'

"Well, that suited dad just fine," Dewey continued, "and he went out there and won the world champion fiddler title. He just got up on stage and started warmin' up and they knew he was the best and they give it to him."

According to Shepherd, Summer Brice was awarded a genuine, Stradivarius violin with a picture of the exposition hall where he won the title painted on the back of the instrument. The violin was lost in a fire which destroyed Dewey's home several years ago.

Dewey said his father composed most "He won all the fiddle contests around of the tunes he played and sang, inin this country," Dewey recalled of his cluding his favorite, "The Elkhorn Fastline," a song Dewey describes as "kinda like the "Orange Blossom Special," but all about the first train in this area which didn't go farther than Elkhorn City.

Dewey recalled the marathon picking sessions and dances which would be held at the "old homeplace" when he was a small boy. "Back then they drunk moonshine and apple brandy—and it was made good, too, to where they wouldn't get so drunk, and they'd fiddle, pick the banjo and dance all night," Shepherd father's greatest achievement was As a boy Dewey also recalls the time winning the World Champion Fiddler's some fellows came "from out West" and Contest in Salt Lake City, Utah in the recorded scores of his father's fiddle tunes on an Edison record player. "I "Daddy was on the train going to guess there's probably people right today playing dad's tunes and they don't even know where they really come from,"

many of the songs he performs at numerous folk and bluegrass festivals. "The Snow White Shirt," a "ballit" about a boy killing his brother "after they'd fell out over a hazlenut tree" was one of the tunes Shepherd performed at the Newport festival and which is included in a giant songbook which also features the songs of the other artists who performed at the festival. Other songs include "Jack Monroe," which Dewey describes as "the true story of an outlaw I knew when I was serving time in the federal penitentiary in Atlanta for moonshining," and "Moonshiner's Blues," a story of hard times in the mountains and of the problems and perils peculiar to the occupation. "I used to make that liquor,"

I've made some that's hard to beat." Fiddlin' Dewey is today an active performer in festivals and wins his share of contests, but he contends his father was the best. "I just wish I knew half the old songs he knew," Shepherd remarked.

Columbia Gas Cuts To Some Customers Will Be Reduced

Columbia Gas of Kentucky announced Friday that, beginning with December fillings, it would reduce winter curtailment levels to large industrial and commercial customers throughout

The curtailment levels that will go into effect are:

-10 per cent curtailment of all industrial loads of one million cubic feet or more a month.

-10 per cent curtailment of all commercial customs that use one million cubic feet or more a month.

-100 per cent curtailment of all industrial boiler loads of one million cubic feet or more per month.

The individual curtailment levels for any of the 75 industrial customers subject to curtailment will depend on how much gas each customer uses in each category. There are 117 commercial customers subject to curtailment.

During the November billing period curtailment levels were 100 per cent of boilder loads, and 35 percent on large industrial and commercial loads of one million cubic feet or more a month.

In letters to its customers the gas company cited the purchase of quantities of gas surplus to the intrastate market in the Southwest, and the availability of additional volumes of gas from its supplier, as the reasons for the reduction in curtailment levels.

The letters stressed, however, that Columbia's gas supply picture was under constant review and was subject to change at any time based on "temperatures experienced in our service area, continual conservation efforts by all of our customers, and further changes in our gas supply.'

LEGAL NOTICE

NOTICE OF THE INTENT TO REQUEST THE RELEASE OF TITLE I COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT BLOCK GRANT FUNDS FROM THE DEPARTMENT OF HOUSING AND URBAN DEVELOPMENT BY THE FISCAL COURT, FLOYD COUNTY KENTUCKY

The Fiscal Court, Floyd County, Kentucky, will, on Friday, December 5. 1975, request from the Department of Housing and Urban Development the release of $300,000 Title I Community Development Block Grant Funds and the certification by the Department of the water extension portion of the Floyd County Community Development

The Floyd County Fiscal Court made application for Community Development Block Grant Funds on April 15, 1975.

The purpose of the water extension portion of the Floyd County's Community Development Program is to construct extensions to the Beaver-Elkhorn Water District: the major extension will be a water line from Bosco along Highway No. 850 through Hippo to the community of David.

The County has prepared an environmental review record of the areas to be affected by the construction; said record is on file at the Office of the County Judge, Floyd County Court House, and may be examined during the hours between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m., Monday through Friday. The Floyd County Fiscal Court will undertake the project described above with Block Grant Funds from the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), under Title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974. The Floyd County Fiscal Court is certifying to HUD that the Fiscal Court, Floyd County, Kentucky, and Henry Stumbo, in his official capacity as County Judge, consent to accept the jurisdiction of the Federal Courts if an action is brought to enforce responsibilities in relation to environmental reviews, decision-making, and action; and that these responsibilities have been satisfied. The legal effect of the certification is that upon its approval, the Floyd County Fiscal Court may use the Block Grant funds, and HUD will have satisfied its responsibilities under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969, HUD will accept an objection to its approval of the release of funds and acceptance of the certification only if it is on one of the following bases: (a) That the certification was not in fact executed by the chief executive officer or other officer of applicant approved by HUD; or (b) that the applicant's environmental review record for the project indicates omission of a required decision, finding, or step applicable to the project in the environmental review process. Objections must be prepared and submitted in accordaince with the required procedure (24 CFR Part 58), and may be addressed to HUD at the Louisville Area Office, 601 Floyd Street, Louisville, Kentucky, 40202. Objections to the release of funds on bases other than those stated above will not be considered by HUD. No objection received after December 29, 1975, will be considered by

Bessie Lafferty Patton

Mrs. Bessie Lafferty Patton, 73, of Langley, died Friday in a Lexington hospital following a brief illness. Born December 31, 1901, she was a daughter of the late Josh and Parthenia Hicks Lafferty, and the widow of Talmadge Patton who preceded her in death in 1950. She had been a church member for the past 41 years.

Survivors include five sons, Russell, Charles Ray, Ralph, Paul and William Patton, all of Langley; five daughters, Mrs. Ruth Wells, of Langley, Mrs. Nova Wallen and Mrs. Faye Caudill, both of Garrett, Mrs. Edith Green, of Hueysville, Mrs. Anna Mae Gearheart, of Shelby, O.; three brothers, Lonnie Lafferty, of Shiloh, O., Jimmy Lafferty, of Ashland, Buck E. Lafferty, of Royalton; three sisters, Mrs. Julia Mays, of Munith, Mich., Mrs. Josie Bennett, of Ypsilanti, Mich., and Mrs. Nancy Allen, of Ashland; 19 grandchildren and 13 greatgrandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted at 11 a.m., Monday, at the Maytown United Methodist Church by the Rev. John Huffman. Burial was made in the Stewart cemetery under direction of Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

Jennie Ward Young

Mrs. Jennie Ward Young, 79, former resident of West Prestonsburg, died at her home in Lexington Tuesday, November 18, following an extended illness.

A native of Corbin, she was a daughter of the late Anderson and Edith George Ward. Her husband, Henry Young, died in July 1965. She was a member of the Assembly of God Church in West Prestonsburg.

Survivors include a son, Chester Young, of Zion, Ill.; two daughters, Mrs. Rachel E. Bells, of Torrance, Calif., and Mrs. Emma Smith, of Kenosha, Wisc.; a brother, George Ward, of Hazard; 12 grandchildren and 18 greatgrandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted at 2 p.m. Saturday at the Floyd Funeral Home chapel by the Rev. Henry Harold Wright. Burial was made in Richmond Memorial cemetery here under direction of Floyd Funeral Home.

998 Enrolled in College Get Monthly VA Checks

Kentucky has 1,143 widows, wives of totally and permanently disabled veterans and their children who draw monthly checks from the Veterans Administration for attendance at colleges and other schools. Of these, 998 are enrolled in college.

Their checks from VA generally are $270 per month for full-time training. Included are wives of prisoners of war and missing in action.

To attend school or take job training with VA financial help a son or daughter must be between 18 and 26 years of age, although in some instances it is possible to begin earlier and continue later. Marriage of a child is not a bar to this VA

Eligible dependents may receive up to 36 months of education or training with VA help, but their program must be aimed toward a definite educational or vocational goal. There are special restorative programs for the physically or mentally handicapped. These may begin as early as age 14. Special vocational training is also available.

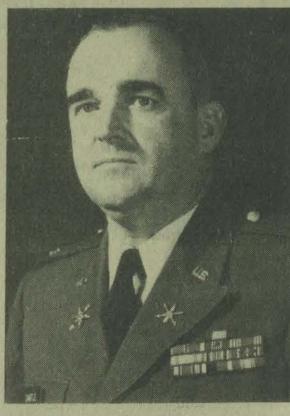

Information and application forms are available at the VA regional office, 600 Federal Place, Louisville, Ky. 40202. Veterans Service Organizations can assist eligible applicants.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our friends and relatives for the kindess and sympathy shown us during the recent passing of our loved one. We express our deep gratitude to each one who sent flowers and brought food and also our sincere appreciation to Rev. Herbert Householder, of Junction City, Ohio and Leroy Gibson for their comforting words. Thanks to the pallbearers, Tommy Thompson, Jack Hyden, James Burchett, Sanford Burchett, David Allen, Tom Lemaster and Leroy Gibson, and the Floyd Funeral Home for its kind and efficient service. HERSHEL GRAHAM

Col. Edmund Castle Dies in El Paso

Retired Col. Edmund Castle, 55, native Floyd countian, died Nov. 14 in El Paso,

Col. Castle, who was a son of the late Vern and Maude Castle, was born and reared at Estill. Upon graduation from Wayland High School in 1938 he enlisted in the U.S. Army and there he spent the rest of his life, serving in the European Theater of operations, the Italian Campaign, the Korean Conflict and the Vietnam war.

He married his high school sweetheart, Betty Ann, daughter of the late Albert B. Brook and Mrs. Brook, of Wayland. In addition to his wife, Col. Castle is survived by two sons, Richard and Albert, three daughters, Janet, Carol and Lori, one brother, Major Richard Castle, all of El Paso, Texas; two sister, Dorothy H. Conley, of Wayland, and Florence C. Ison, of Cumberland.

He was a member of the Presbyterian Church in El Paso.

During his numerous tours of duty in the states and over the world, Col. Castle served as commander of the U.S. Army Training Center at Ft. Bliss, Texas. From there he went to Vietnam where he served as post commander of the U.S. Headquarters at Long Bingh. While in Vietnam, both he and his son, Richard, were seriously wounded in battle.

Col. Castle was a highly decorated soldier. In the eulogy and final tribute to Col. Castle, the officiating chaplain, Phillip A. Drake, commented on the thousand of lives of young soldiers that had been touched by the Colonel's command; of the numerous medals and commendations he had received for extraordinary heroism in close combat, of his exceptional valorous gallantry in action which was in keeping with action which was in keeping with the highest tradition of the military service, reflecting great credit upon himself, his units and the United States Army.

The Rev. Billy Graham once commented in a letter to Col. Castle: "I can sincerely say you are the greatest soldier it has been my privilege to meet. I have never before witnessed such devotion to one's troups as I have seen you display for yours.

Col. Castle was buried with full military honors in the National Cemetery at Ft. Bliss, Texas, Nov. 18.

IN MEMORIAM

In Memory of W. A. Wills, who passed away Nov. 29, 1972:

The Holidays are near again And thoughts keep to my mind, Of one so loved, and sadly missed, So dear, so good, and so kind.

I can still see him sitting on the couch, In front of the old TV, With loving hands grown old with age, Working puzzles so carefully.

He's no longer with us in person, God's will was to take him away, But really he has not left us, His memories, always with us, will stay. Written by Mrs. Harry N. Wills Louisville, Ky.

According to the U.S. Department of Labor, 18 is the minimum age for employment in a nonagricultural occupation declared hazardous by the Secretary of Labor.

My God Can Do Anything, But Fail

Welcome ... to this great move of God revival. God uses Rev. Martin to call people out of the audience, revealing names, sicknesses, and needs of the people. God heals and delivers as the prayer of faith is prayed.

One service could change your entire lifetime. You are invited to attend this all nine-gift, Holy Ghost, great move of God, deliverance revival. The lost will be saved, people will be sanctified, and filled with the Holy Ghost. The blind see, the lame walk, the deaf hear by the miracle power of God. God will deliver many from narcotics and alcohol. Come expecting YOUR MIRACLES. Bring someone with you. Everyone is welcome, regardless of race, creed, color, or church affiliation.

Consumer Comments

By ED W. HANCOCK

The furnace inspector who drops in to check your furnace free of charge may warm your heart, but he may not warm your house. Beware of phony furnace inspectors who may try to persuade you to have unnecessary work done on your furnace.

As the weather turns colder, consumers are reminded to have their furnace inspected, cleaned and repaired-if repairs are needed. There are many reputable firms that will do

There also may be others who want to sell you unnecessary parts or a whole new furnace, if possible. Let's review the guidelines to protect yourself against the unscrupulous furnace repairmen: -Be cautious when approached by anyone who offers a free furnace inspection. -Don't let anyone take your furnace apart for inspection or cleaning unless you are sure that he is qualified to do soand will both inspect and reassemble it free of charge. -Don't take an inspector's word that he is qualified. Investigate every home improvement firm you deal with. Call the Consumer Protection Division, the Better Business Bureau, the National Home Improvement Council, the National Remodelers Association or a local home builders group. Ask around. -Investigate inspectors and dealers in advance, if possible. If there is ever a real danger of an explosion or of poisonous fumes, you will want to act quickly to have your furnace repaired. Advance checking can do away with the possibility that an inspector might use scare tactics to get you to panic and sign a contract too quickly-without checking past service or shopping for the best price.

-During an inspection, watch carefully. A fraudulent inspector may bring his own broken parts with him and pretend that they are yours.

-After an inspection, get a second opinion. If you've been told your furnace is beyond repair, have it confirmed by a heating engineer. If an inspector recommends a particular heating engineer, it could mean that the inspector and the engineer are working together. Find your own.

-Obtain written estimates or competitive bids on replacements or major overhauls. Beware of unusually low bids. -As always, get any guarantee or warranty in writing.

If you have a consumer complaint, write to the Attorney General's Office, Consumer Protection Division, Room 34, Capitol Building, Frankfort, Ky. 40601. Kentucky rsidents may use the toll-free hotline: 1-800-372-2960.

She was chosen for her innovative techniques and her exceptional rapport with children.

To Reclassify Nursing Homes

Frankfort, Ky.—Nursing homes across the state will in the future be reclassified to another appropriate long-term care category under a new policy adopted by the Certificate of Need and Licensure

The new policy requests that the regional and state comprehensive health planning councils not accept any applications to convert other beds to nursing home beds or to establish more

The Department for Human Resources' (DHR) Bureau for Licensing and Regulations is not to accept licensure applications from existing skilled nursing facilities requesting their skilled nursing beds be relicensed as nursing home beds.

Jerry Miller, secretary of the board, said there were approximately 1,800 nursing home beds in the state with 1,100 of those beds in Jefferson County.

If these facilities were appropriately classified under current licensure standards, they would fall into numerous new categories of health care,

HONORED!

KENTUCKY COLONEL

Bette Galliher, mgr. National Champions, presents Avon President David W. Mitchell his Kentucky Colonel's commission.

"WELCOME, CHAMPIONS"

from
David W. Mitchell
President of Avon

Prestonsburg, Ky., Nov. 11, 1975

Avon Products, Inc. paid tribute to Avon Representatives and their District Manager, Mrs. Bette Galliher, at a luncheon, Nov. 11, at the Jenny Wiley State Resort Park Lodge. The women were honored for their outstanding achievement in attaining record sales during president's campains. Mrs. Galliher's District was Number One in dollar sales in the entire nation.

Mr. David W. Mitchell, President of the Company, presented gifts to all the Representatives, with special gift awards going to the ranking top 10 women in the District.

During the course of the event, prize drawings were held and Representatives walked off with an exciting array of prizes—among them, an Oldsmobile Omega, Singer sewing machines, microwave ovens, color TV sets, and numerous cash prizes.

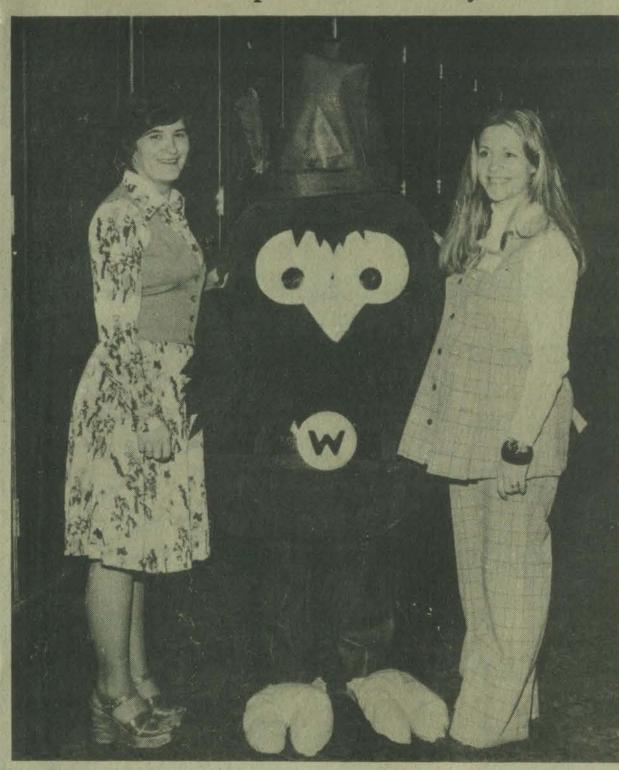

Hooray! "The Moment" Is Now!

President Mitchell, Mgr. Galliher and Oldsmobile winner Judy Elswick, as winner comes forward.

Congratulations to our Avon representatives! You are Kentucky's "First National Winners" in Avon's 89-year history.

Club Here Sponsors Woodsy Owl

From left, KFWC Fourth Vice-President, Miss Patricia J. Lee; Woodsy Owl as he appeared on September 26 at KFWC fall board meeting in Louisville; Mrs. Kenneth D. Brown, president of Prestonsburg Junior Woman's Club.

Woodsy Owl has delivered his famous "Hoot, Hoot, Don't Pollute," to many hundreds of onlookers across Kentucky during the last three months. His travels have taken him to the KFWC fall board meeting in Louisville in September, to Pikeville and the Seventh District fall meeting in October, to Owingsville and the Eighth District fall meeting, to Prestonsburg and the Red, White and Blue Parade in October, and to Prestonsburg visiting kindergartens, day care centers and Calico Corner this month. During his visit to pre-schools, Woodsy Owl delivered pictures for little ones to color. Woodsy Owl is a conservation project of the Prestonsburg Junior Woman's Club and he has captured attention of audiences numbering more than 800 (excluding thousands of spectators at the Red, White and Blue Parade).

New Community Club Plans Christmas Tree

Members of the newly formed Hi Hat-Price Community Development Club met November 17 at 7 p.m. to elect officers. Officers elected are:

Paul Crawford, acting president, Rhoda Compton, secretary-treasurer; members of the board of directors, Jim Bates, Gary Compton, Danny Dotson, John Adams and Eddie Caudill.

The club's first project will be the erecting of the community's first Christmas tree. The tree will be located in front of the Island Creek Coal Company. The coal company, as well as residents of the community, will provide decorations for the tree, and Island Creek will supply the electricity. Boy Scouts will cut and deliver the tree. Those on the tree project are Rhoda Compton, Chairwoman, Gary Compton, Paul Crawford, Alvin and Pat Little, Zettie Snyder, Eddie Caudill and Ishmael Elliot. All members of the community are invited to come out and help. The club plans to decorate the tree December 6, at 2 p.m. Coffee and doughnuts will be

Those attending the meeting November 17 were Gary Compton, Alvin Little, Ishmael Elliott, Paul Crawford, Rhoda Compton, Zettie Snyder, Paul Ross, Eddie Caudill, Development Assistant Novella B. Froman, County Agent John E. Sparks, and Development Specialist Bill Bridges.

Alleges Inspectors Denied Mine Entry

U. S. Attorney Eugene E. Siler, Jr. announced last week that a complaint and motion for a preliminary injunction was filed in U. S. district court at Pikeville against Harry R. Smith, doing business as Little Branch Coal Company, Nov. 4 Mine.

The complaint alleges that authorized representatives of the Secretary of the Interior were refused entry into the entire mine of the defendant for inspection purposes and that such action constituted a continuing threat to the health and safety of the miners. The motion for a preliminary injunction asks that the defendant be enjoined from denying authorized entry into the coal mine, from operating machinery in violation of an order of withdrawal and from otherwise interfering with the Secretary of the Interior or his authorized representatives in carrying out the provisions of the Federal Coal Mine Health and Safety Act of 1969.

Title IX Demands Equality Between Sexes in Schools

By JOD NEACE

Frankfort, Ky.—School superintendents from across the state gathered recently in Frankfort to hear and discuss sexual equality in education—Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972.

Marge Justice, equal opportunity specialist for the Office of Civil Rights in the U.S. Office of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) in Atlanta, explained that elementary schools have one year to implement Title IX, while secondary schools have three years to implement it. During these adjustment periods the schools must develop some plan of action to abolish sexual discrimination said Miss Justice.

The amendments, which became effective July 21, 1975, apply only to educational programs and activities receiving federal financial assistance. They cover the treatment of all employes involved in educational programs and activities, rather than only professional and paraprofessional employes directly responsible for the education of students.

Title IX does not apply to military schools; however, it does apply to educational institutions controlled by a religious organization to the extent that compliance would be consistent with religious tenets.

Right now, said Miss Justice, schools should be in the process of satisfying the immediate requirements of Title IX, such as filing assurance with HEW that they are intending to abide by Title IX regulations, establishing grievance procedures and appointing a person to coordinate Title IX.

Also, the school administrators must notify applicants for employment, students and parents of students, employes, sources of referral holding applicants and all unions or professional organizations for collective bargaining or professional agreements with employes that they do not discriminate on the basis of sex in educational programs or activities they operate.

Miss Justice pointed out that each school is responsible for evaluating its practices and policies in accordance with Title IX regulations by the end of the fiscal year—July, 1976.

Some of the provisions of Title IX which Miss Justice pointed out are:

-Admission to secondary and postsecondary vocational schools must not be

—Rules of appearance or behavior must not be made arbitrarily against one sex:

-Students may not be guided into occupations dominated mainly by their sex:

—Students may not be assigned to classes because of their particular sex;
—Health classes should be separated only when discussing human sexuality;

Woman Victim As Home Burns

A woman who, fire department officials said, "went back after something" died in a fire that destroyed her home just outside the city limits of Salyersville last Tuesday.

The victim was Charlotte Kay Williams, 19. Salyersville Fire Chief George Puckett said the woman and her husband, Billy Williams, also 19, "started out together, but she went back for something and was overcome by smoke." The chief said he did not know what the women returned to get.

The fire apparently started about 10 a.m. when a wood and coal stove exploded while Mrs. Williams was starting a fire, Puckett said.

He said she awakened her husband, who escaped through a window of the one-story, five-room, wood frame home along Ky. 460. He was treated at West Liberty Hospital for cuts and was released, the chief said.

The woman's body was discovered lying on the floor of the kitchen within three to four feet of both the stove and the window that had provided her husband's means of escape, Puckett said.

A spokesman at Caudill Funeral Hme, which handled the funeral arrangements for Mrs. Williams, said the couple's young son, about age 3, was visiting his grandparents at the time of the fire.

Both the Williams home and one next to it owned by Irvin Workman were engulfed in flames when the fire department arrived some eight minutes after the call was received, Puckett said.

The homes, of the same size and construction, were only "a couple of feet apart" and both were destroyed," he said. The Workman family escaped injury.

I believe it was the late Will Rogers who said, "I never met a man I didn't like."

If this is true then you would have a difficult time finding someone who didn't like Will Rogers.

That is the way it is! Love people, and you will be loved. Find a person who is constantly mad at others, and you will find a man with few friends.

In this great complicated world of ours love is the one item that is shared. Share for share in almost 100 per cent of the cases.

OUR THOUGHT TO REMEMBER: "To be a friend one must be friend-

FLORIDA BOARD DEFENDS PRAYER The Okaloosa County School Board, in Florida's Panhandle region, is being sued in federal court by the local teachers association over the issue of classroom prayer. Despite a 1963 ruling of the U.S. Supreme Court that declared prayer and devotional Bible reading to be unconstitutional, the Okaloosa schools have continued to have mandatory daily prayer and Bible reading. The Board has reaffirmed its policy requiring the devotional exercises.

Dowell Receives Award For Safety Record

The Prestonsburg District of Dowell, a division of Dow Chemical Corporation, received its first 1,000-day safety award at a dinner Friday night at the Paints-ville Country Club. Since the Prestonsburg district was opened in January, 1973 there were no lost-time accidents through the period ending September 28, 1975. Attending the dinner besides employees of Dowell's Prestonsburg District, were Region Manager Winton Wahl, Region Safety Engineer Larry Surgeon, Mike Stout and Frank Burger, all of Columbus, Ohio, and former Region Manager Leo Cutlick, of Evansville, Indiana, and Area Engineer Jerry Norton, of Charleston, West

PRIME SPONSORS

By the end of the 1974 fiscal year, more than 400 State, county and city governments and other organizations had been designated prime sponsors to administer training activities under the decentralized manpower program, according to the U.S. Department of Labor.

Notice of Public Hearings

Public hearings will be held at 7:00 P.M. on Wednesday December 3rd and Wednesday December 10, 1975, at the Prestonsburg Water & Gas Co. Office. located on South Lake Drive in the Fire Department Building at Lancer, Prestonsburg, Kentucky.

The purpose of the hearings are to: 1. Discuss City and area needs, including, but not limited to, a proposed project to expand and improve the City's Water Treatment Works.

2. Solicit and receive suggestions for satisfying community needs.

3. Review and discuss DHUD discretionary application procedures for possible grant monies to aid in funding needed improvement projects, eligible under the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974.

This notice is made pursuant to the requirements of applicable federal and state legislation.

They Count Their Blessings

By HELEN PRICE STACY In Lewis county, back of Dry Hollow near Garrison, a man is thankful for his new home. Well, it's not really new-just new to him. In Elliott County, a lady is thankful that she still can use a pen. In Salversville a woman is thankful she won a seat on the city council. In Paintsville a writer is thankful for pleasant memories.

The names could stretch from the Ohio to the Tug fork of the Big Sandy, from English to Mt. Eden, Shoulderblade to Hell's Half Acre. There are those everywhere who can find something for which to be thankful.

"It's tough sometimes," said a Boone county man, "when you've not been away from home for years. But I heard about a fellow down in Lexington that was in bed almost that long and unconscious most of the time.'

Mrs. Linnie Stinson in Elliott county is happy to be able to use a pen. Crippled with arthritis, she had to learn how to write again by dragging her pen instead of the usual method that is automatic to even the youngest school children.

Her illness forced her to start using her left hand. She managed to write fairly legibly; then, as the illness progressed, she had to practice dragging the pen with that hand. "I couldn't begin to count my blessings, they're so many," said Ms. Stinson, who has been confined to bed for almost 25 years.

Dave Leuthold, 29, is grateful for his home. Most people would not envy the Vietnam veteran, for his abode is an abandoned potato chip truck. Leuthold had traveled around and lived and worked many places before he made a visit to Lewis county. He never left, and since the truck owner was using the van for a corn crib, according to Dr. William Talley, Leuthold helped the owner build a crib in exchange for the truck. The new owner since has rebuilt the inside to make a comfortable home and surrounded it with a flagstone patio. He has even built an outdoor grill of creek rock. "He knows it is necessary to have some money," said Talley, adding that Leuthold has no plan to drop out of society, "so he works at a sawmill."

The transplanted Ohioan had worked in office jobs and attended Bible school in Oregon, but needed a place apart for a time as an experiment in living and to see how economically feasible such a life would be.

Mary Lou Brown, writing in The Salyersville Independent, said, "I won! I won! And I didn't run badly to be a relative newcomer on the political scene." Mrs. Brown was elected to a seat on the Salversville city council. "And just as I've promised I'm going to try my best to do a few things for Salyersville." She plans to look around her community and work constructively, using local expertise and talent that she claims is going untapped. She is thankful she won, but admitted that had she lost, she would have been "the same old droopy grudge, nitpicking and griping.'

In Powell county, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Bush are thankful their daughter Shonda Renee, 5, can be trained in a special school for cerebral palsey. (They would be truly grateful for assistance in obtaining a chair for Shonda that can be used as both a wheel chair and desk. Interested persons may contact Mrs. Grider Denny, Stanton, Ky. or The Clay City Times, Box 218, Clay City, Ky.)

Eileen Parrigin, of Johnson county, had all kind of encouragement for others in trouble. "Blithe gems of philosophy flew from my pen or dripped from my lips. Then one day sorrow came my way, and I found myself unable to practice what I preached." Her husband died. She shut herself away from everyone. Then, expressing her gratefulness for Divine help, she noted that "life was going on around me, and from somewhere deep inside myself the spark of life that is Godgiven and God-controlled stirred to remind me that I had children to care for, a place in the scheme of things and a responsibility to the living."

One can be thankful for the bare essentials necessary for survival or for blessings of merited material gain. Gratitude has no hurdles of rich or poor, black or white, skinny or fat, beautiful or ugly to conquer, for these are transcended when help comes in time of Doing good deeds as partial payment for help, assisting where there is need is all part of God-given religion. Doing good as a way of paying for past blessings may not buy one's way to heaven, but might earn extra polish on one's crown. What better way to express thanksgiving.

Weekly earnings of full-time workers rose about 9 percent from May 1974 to May 1975, the U.S. Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics reported. Because consumer prices rose by about the same percentage, the average purchasing power of full-time workers was unchanged over this period.

Stark Appointed To College Post

Paul S. Stark, former administrator of Our Lady of the Way Hospital, has been appointed director of Health Education at Daytona Beach Community College. Daytona Beach, Florida.

He will be responsible for administering the college's Health Education Division, including the development of new health specialist training programs to meet the needs of Dayton's growing health care industry. Mr. Stark has been administrator of Our Lady of the Way Hospital since 1971.

Stark's health administration background also includes a position as Administrative Director of Comprehensive Health Care, Inc., Prestonsburg. Prior to entering the health care field Stark was assistant director of Save the Children Foundation in Berea. Stark also served in Washington, D. C. as administrative assistant to the president of Intext Corporation, where he was responsible for maintaining contacts with U. S. and foreign government agencies for the purpose of marketing company products, and as technical assistance officer with the Peace Corps in Malaysia. He began his professional career as a high school social science teacher in New York.

His appointment is effective immediately, according to Dr. Charles H. Polk, Daytona Beach Community College president.

Reading Council Group Told of Johnson Work

Jenny Wiley Council members recently traveled to nearby Porter Elementary School to view and discuss reading programs currently used in Johnson county. Harriet Johnson, reading coordinator, introduced the evening's twofold program.

Porter Elementary teacher Christi Cook related to council members and guests some aspects of the readiness program. These include the development of hand and eye coordination through the use of numerous materials, exercises and games. Many children, according to Mrs. Cook, are not ready to participate in the readiness program when they enter Title I team teachers, Bernice Ferguson and Ilene Hampton, presented slides and discusses their reading centers located in "The Right Wing," one of the buildings in the Flat Gap school provided by Title I Funds. Aiming to supplement the adopted basal reader used in the classroom, the teacher team provides many teacher-constructed materials and games. Individual learning centers are provided for motivational purposes and to reinforce reading skills. Techniques which have a carry-over in the home are employed. These include weekly magazines and take-home worksheets.

The meeting was conducted by Nadine Hicks, council presided. Refreshments were served by the Johnson County school personnel.

The Jenny Wiley Council is an affiliate of the International Reading Association.

Among the employees to whom minimum wage provisions have been extended by the 1974 amendments to the Fair Labor Standards Act are: domestic service workers; employees of federal, state and local governments; employees of large motion picture theaters; small logging crews; and agricultural employees engaged in the processing of shade-grown tobacco, according to the U. S. Department of Labor.

Pike Bank Loot Totals $28,000

A lone robber, wearing a white cloth around his head, was apparently waiting inside the Virgie branch of the Pikeville National Bank last Thursday morning. When it opened; he left with $28,000 from a safe.

The bandit escaped in the bank manager's car after locking the manager and a salesman in a restroom.

Although investigating officers were reluctant to tie a separate incident in with the robbery, three female bank employes were late for work yesterday because their automobile tires had been deflated-apparently during the night. Roadblocks were set up in the Virgie area as state and local police officials and the FBI began intensive investigation of the robbery. According to police accounts of the theft, the bandit was waiting inside the bank when the manager, Ray Burke, arrived shortly before 8:30 a.m. Burke entered the building with a Coca-Cola salesman, Paul Jackson, who services the branch.

The bandit reportedly stepped from a kitchenette, pointed a long-barreled pistol at the two men and ordered Burke to open a safe. Burke hesitated, the bandit reportedly cocked his pistol and ordered Jackson to get down on the floor.

When Burke opened the safe, the bandit, described as about five feet tall, weighing 160 pounds and wearing faded denims, locked the two men in a bathroom, tying the door with a strip from a blanket. He also took Burke's car

After removing bills of various denominations, the bandit reportedly started out the door, carrying a briefcase. He encountered Clifford Akers, police said, who is a co-employe of Jackson's. Akers because suspicious and entered the building, finding Jackson and Burke locked inside the restroom.

The manager's car was later found abandoned on Penny Road, about four miles north of Virgie.

Service of Thanksgiving Slated at Martin Church

A service of Thanksgiving will be held on Thanksgiving Day at 10 a.m. at Saint Juliana Catholic Church in Martin. The heritage of American freedoms will be recalled in sermon, prayer, and song.

'People's Inauguration' Planned for Carroll

Frankfort, Ky.-In contrast to past inaugurations, Gov. Julian M. Carroll's centerpiece of some other exciting acswearing in on December 9 will be a tivities. On Inauguration Eve, December "People's Inauguration."

has been sealed off at 8 a.m. on Huddleston and Sen. Wendell Ford, will Inauguration Day and only invited attend a dinner-concert at Freedom Hall guests, along with citizens of the city, have been privileged to watch the parade and ceremonies.

This year, the volunteer committee of Frankfort citizens which plans the festivities has decided to issue invitations through the newspapers to all Kentuckians. They will station information booths at every entrance to the Capital City for those unfamiliar with the city and the event. To further aid visitors, a map of Frankfort showing major parking areas, shuttle bus route and the parade route will be included in the inaugural program, which will be distributed throughout the city.

Although there will be locations on the outskirts of the city where motorists can park and take shuttle buses into Frankfort, streets within the city will remain open to traffic.

Even the route for the inaugural parade will be open until 9:30 a.m.-a half-hour before the parade is scheduled to begin. The only exceptions will be Wilkinson and Wapping streets, where the parade will assemble to march down Main Street and on to Capitol Avenue.

It is expected that the parade, with bands, floats and other entries totaling about 300 units, will last from 10 a.m. until 1:30 p.m. The 1975 parade will feature another new facet of Kentucky's inaugural celebration—the float contest. This year, prizes will be awarded in various categories for the best efforts of float builders.

Thanksgiving Service Scheduled at Allen

A special Thanksgiving service will be held at the Allen United Methodist Church, Wednesday at 7 p.m. Rev. Eugene Phelps, a young evangelist from Louisiana, will be the guest-speaker. Music will be furnished by the Gospel Light Singers from Buchanan and Allen, Jerry Lafferty, the Allen United Methodist junior choir, the Allen United Methodist UMYF choir, and a duet by Karen Marcum and Bonnie Spencer. Everyone is welcome.

Of course, the inauguration itself is the 8, Gov. carroll, with Lt. Gov.-elect For recent inaugurations, Frankfort Thelma Stovall, Sen. Walter "Dee" in Louisville.

After the afternoon events on Inauguration Day, the evening festivities will begin, with the Official State Reception in the Capitol Rotunda at 7:30. Finally, there is the Inaugural Ball. There will be only one ball this year and it will be held at the Capital Plaza.

The Tommy Dorsey and Maynard Ferguson orchestras will provide the music and dancing will take place on the court of the Sports Center. The area from the Sports Center to Fountain Place will be enclosed, as will Fountain Place itself, and tables will be placed in these areas.

BOARDS LOSING POWER

Fairchild in Hall of Fame

By BOB BRUMFIELD (In The Cincinnati Enquirer) A former Cincinnatian, the late Frank Mayo Fairchild, recently was named as a member of the OX-5 Aviation Pioneers

Hall of Fame. The honor was bestowed upon Fairchild at the organization's national convention at San Antonio, Tex., in recognition of his contributions to the establishment of the aviation industry. Also honored by induction into the OX-5 Aviation Pioneers Hall of Fame were Charles A. Lindbergh and Orville and Wilbur Wright.

Fairchild was known to members of the aviation community in the Greater Cincinnati area as Mr. Aviation. He was prominent in many matters pertaining to aviation, including the direction and coordinating of courses of study in the schools, assisting the city and the Chamber of Commerce in airport site selection and planning, flight and ground school training of pilots and active leadership of the Civil Air Patrol squadron at Lunken Airport.

Fairchild was born in Floyd County, Ky., in 1900. At the age of 16, he left home to enroll at East Texas Normal College. He also attended Berea College, Berea, Ky., for four years, and McSweeny Auto and Electrical School, Cincinnati, where he graduated with honors.

He began flight training at the site of the present Chicago Midway Airport, and became a pilot in 1924. The following year, Fairchild returned to Cincinnati and opened his own flying school at what is now Lunken Airport.

In 1929, the Cincinnati Board of Education added an aviation department to its vocational education department, and asked Fairchild to head the department. He remained with the board in this capacity for 35 years, retiring in 1964.

During the period 1937-'39, Fairchild trained as a tower operator at the Cleveland, Chicago and St. Louis centers of the then Civil Aeronautics Administration (CAA) and received his tower operators certificate. He then took over as the first tower operator at Lunken Airport, in 1939. While serving as tower operator, Fairchild prepared a course of instruction in air traffic control which was adopted by the Cincinnati Board of Education in 1940. This course was included in the instruction given prospective Aviation Cadets during World War II. The same material prepared by Fairchild was used in the Civilian Pilot Training (CPT) program at various colleges and schools in the area during the war.

Fairchild's flight school was chosen as a center to train students sent from other states by the military as part of the Aviation Cadet training program.

Fairchild was the first to join the Civil Air Patrol Squadron at Lunken, and became its commanding officer, advancing through the ranks to Colonel.

Fairchild presided at the first meeting of what is now the Greater Cincinnati Airmen, Inc., founded to promote aviation in the Cincinnati area. The first pilot in Floyd County, Ky.,

Fairchild built a landing strip on his farm there, and often flew between Cincinnati and his boyhood home, where he took aloft residents of the area who otherwise might never have had an opportunity to Fairchild died at his retirement home, overlooking his flying field in Eastern Kentucky, on December 21, 1972.

His widow, Margaret Gaines Fairchild, herself a tower operator at Greater Cincinnati Airport for many years prior to her retirement, accepted the honor for her late husband at San Antonio.

Communities Testify on List For Treatment Plant Grants

vironmental protection department held a hearing today to receive public comment on a priority list of communities applying for part of the $114 million in federal grants to be used toward ultimate construction of waste treatment plants.

The grants list, which includes a priority ranking for applicants for construction grants for some public treatment works, will determine the Kentucky communities to receive money from the federal government for building waste treatment plants and how much they will receive.

At the hearing held by the division of water quality in the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection to solicit remarks on the Kentucky construction grants project list, several communities across the state gave oral testimony. Those communities were Williamstown, Morehead, Louisville, Lexington, Jefferstown, Shelbyville and Crofton.

One speaker, Herbert Caldwell, mayor of Williamstown, said although his city's sewer system had been completed for several years, another area of the city has greatly developed since that time. "Late in 1974," said Caldwell, "a representative from the water quality division viewed the newly-developed part of the community and said it should be a priority in being serviced with sewage

W. B. Brown, representing Will Brown and Associates of Shelbyville, said, "Like everybody else, we'd like to be number one on the priority list."

Several persons showed up from

Frankfort, Ky.-The state en- Lexington to represent its need for collector sewer projects.

Gordon Garner, a commissioner of the Lexington-Fayette County Urban Government, said, "In Lexington the health threat due to septic tanks is great and pollution done by septic waste to ground water is a certainty."

Dr. Phillip Wyler, of the Lexington-Fayette County Health Department, said the health department receives over 500 complaints each year about raw sewage on the ground and street.

Anyone wishing to submit written testimony on the construction grants project list, which may be obtained from the division of water quality, must do so by Nov. 24. Written comment should be sent to: William Forester, Acting Director, Division of Water Quality, Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, Century Shopping Plaza, U. S. 127 South, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

MALES LEARN BETTER?

Males are learning substantially better than females, according to the latest findings of the National Assessment of Educational Progress. Studies involving 80,000 students over the past six years show that males do better than females in four subjects: mathematics, science, social studies and citizenship. Females consistently outperform males in only one area, writing; maintain a slight advantage in music, while in reading and literature, females have a slight advantage over males at age 9, but lag behind males by the time they reach the ages of 26-35. NAEP Director Roy Forbes says National Assessment does not know why there is such a difference between male and female achievement.

How To Take Care of a Dam

Frankfort, Ky.—A book, being written by the state water resources division. will show Kentucky's 800 dam owners how to properly care for their dams.

According to Harry Keith Honaker, a civil engineer in the division of water resources of the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, the purpose of the book is to help owners of dams establish a program of maintenance and visual safety inspection. And, the principal objective of the program is to detect and avert any potential failure.

"We're writing the book as a supplementary manual to our state dam inspection program," said Honaker, who's compiling the book, which may be completed by the end of December. "It's a set of guidelines that owners can use on their own to maintain and care for their Honaker explained that failure of a dam can cause not only considerable loss of capital investment and possible income, but also possible property damage and loss of life. Because of this, regular inspection of a dam is vital to its care and maintenance. Problems can usually be detected at early stages if a dam is inspected regularly.

Through content and schematic diagrams, the book explains the main elements of a dam. It also goes into the prominent types of dam failures, proper maintenance of dams, owner inspection and reporting emergencies.

"We want owners of dams to grasp the techniques necessary for a proper program of maintenance," said Honaker. "If an owner is able to thoroughly check the dam on his own and is capable of recognizing any potentially dangerous conditions, he may possibly avert a disastrous dam failure.

Honaker added that because early detection and remedy are essential in preserving the structure, the dam owner should be aware of various signs of danger during an inspection. "We point out these danger signals in the book," he said, "and tell the owner what procedures to follow in the dam's upkeep and inspection. For an owner to properly maintain a dam after it's constructed is a good business practice as well as a moral responsibility.

"This handbook on dams," Honaker continued, "will aid owners in taking care of their dams through frequent owner-inspections and therefore will help to prevent dam failures.'

Control Keeping Forests Safer

Kentucky is suffering fewer forest fires

now than ever before.

During the five-year period between 1965 and 1969, there were an average of 2,733 forest fires each year. Between 1970 and 1974, the number dropped to 1,752. During the spring of 1975 there were 860 forest fires-the best record for any spring forest fire season in Kentucky.

The improvement, according to Harry Nadler, director of the division of forestry in the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, is due to an improved fire control and prevention programparticularly a personal contact program.

Finding debris burning to be the number one cause of forest fires in Kentucky, forestry officials have been going door-to-door and field-to-field visiting residents of areas that have had trouble with forest fires to explain fire season in Kentucky.

For instance, to a farmer who needs to burn a field to clear it, the forestry officials would recommend that the burning be done either early in the morning or late in the afternoon before winds pick up. They would advise that the farmer plow around the field first and that only small sections of the field be burned at a time. Otherwise, so much heat might be generated that flames could flare up, carrying over to nearby areas.

NOTICE AS TO FILING A PETITION FOR THE CREATION OF ABBOTT LITTLE PAINT WATER DISTRICT AND FOR THE APPOINTMENT OF THE COMMISSIONERS OF SAID DISTRICT AND THAT THIS COURT ENTER ALL OTHER PROPER AND APPROPRIATE ORDERS CON-SISTENT WITH THE PROVISIONS OF CHAPTERS 74 AND 424 OF THE KENTUCKY REVISED STATUTES.

Notice is hereby given that a Petition for the creation of the Abbott-Little Paint Water District has been filed requesting said Court to enter its Order approving said District and appointing Commissioners of said District and the apwater commissioners of said District.

The description of the area to be included within the boundaries of the proposed District are as follows:

of Abbott Creek and the Levisa Fork of Big Sandy River; thence running in a South Westerly direction up the point between said Streams to the top of the knob on which is a microwave radio tower; thence a South Westerly direction with the center of the ridge and its meanders to a stake on top of a high knob at the head of Sally Stevens branch of Middle Creek and the left Fork of Big Branch of Abbott Creek; thence running a Westerly direction with center of the ridge and its meanders between Abbott Creek and Middle Creek to a stake on top of the knob at the head of Williams Branch of Little Abbott Creek of Abbott Creek, and Arnett Branch of Middle Creek; thence a Northerly direction with the center of the ridge and its meanders between Abbott Creek and Middle Creek, to a Low Gap where Ky. Highway 1427 crosses; thence continuing in a northerly direction up the hill to the top of the ridge between State Road Fork of Middle Creek and State Road Fork of Abbott Creek and continuing with said ridge to a stake on a high knob at the Head of State Road Fork of Middle, Long Fork of Jenny's Creek, and Bee Fork of Abbott Creek, Corner to Johnson County Line; thence running a North Easterly direction with the center of the ridge and its meanders and running with the Johnson County Line to a stake on top of a high knob at the head of Middle Fork of Jenny's Creek and Dotson Branch of Big Lick Fork of Jenny's Creek; thence running an Easterly direction with the Johnson County line to a stake in Little Paint Creek and its confluence with Levisa Fork of the Big Sandy River; thence running a in Southerly direction up the point to the top of the ridge between Little Paint Creek and Levisa Fork of Big Sandy River and continuing with said ridge and its meanders in a Southerly direction to a stake on top of a knob between Stephens Branch of Big Sandy River and Sheep Field Branch of Abbott Creek and Little Paint Creek; thence a southerly direction with the ridge and down the point between Abbott Creek and Levisa Fork to the beginning.

It is the intent and purpose of this description to include all the water Shed of Abbott Creek and those portions of Big Lick Fork of Jenny's Creek and Little Paint Creek lying within Floyd County, State of Kentucky. Within 30 days after the first publication of this Notice on November 26, 1975, any resident of said area described above may file, with the County Clerk of Floyd County, Kentucky in his office in the Floyd County Courthouse in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, objections to the creation of said Abbott-Little Paint District.

A hearing has been set to be held on the matter on the 20 day of January, 1976, at 10 a.m. in the Courtroom of the Floyd County Court in the Courthouse in Prestonsburg, Kentucky. At that time any resident of the area described above or anyother interested party may appear and be heard on any prior objection filed by them concerning the matter, or with respect to anyother aspect of the matter. Dated this the 21 day of November, Starting at the top of a hill is another recommendation. That way the fire will burn down the hill slowly. If the fire is begun at the bottom of a hill, drafts probably would carry sparks on up.

Suggestions for burning trash include plowing or raking the areas clear before beginning the fire.Burn only when the wind is down. Keep hand tools and water nearby to put out spot fires. And, most importantly, don't leave a fire until it is

There are laws mandating some of these recommendations, including some local ordinances prohibiting trash burning. Nadler said enforcement of those laws, and a campaign to inform people about the laws and their enforcement, has helped to cut down the number of fires.

Last year, as a result of court action initiated by the division of forestry, 328 persons had to pay for the cost of suppressing the fires they began. Many also were forced to pay fines.

Carelessness, said Nadler, is the main cause of the fires. However, arson is a leading cause, with 408 such fires burning 10,771 acres last year. Arson is a felony that carries a prison sentence of one year or more. Nadler said that each year the state sends people to prison for this of-

Behind debris burning, the number two cause of forest fires in 1974 was smoking, which caused 452 fires and burned 14,251 acres. During 1974, a total of 2,073 forest fires burned 49,775 acres in Kentucky.

FUNDS SOUGHT TO HELP YOUNG CANCER SUFFERER

Fourteen-year-old Anita Childers, a ninth-grade pupil at Barboursville (W. Va.) Junior High School, has missed many classes during the past year. She's being treated for cancer.

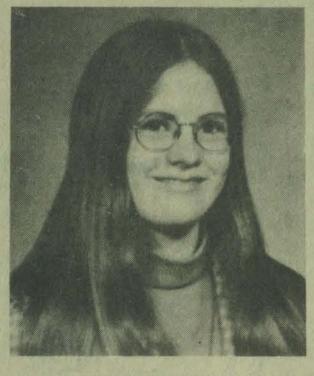

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Amon Childers, of Barboursville, formerly of Prestonsburg, she is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Goble, of Prestonsburg, and Foster Childers, of Emma.

Anita had undergone 41/2 hrs. of surgery less than a year ago to remove a tumor from her Adrenal gland. Her Huntington physician, Dr. Tara C. Sharma, said, "This is a very rare kind of tumor. It changes physical appearance and physiology.

"She's missed a lot of school and gone through a lot of emotional stress," Dr. Sharma said. "She's a very nice pretty girl to have to go through this.'

Anita checked into the Sloan Kettering Cancer Institute in New York City, November 3, and on November 20 underwent eight hours of surgery for removal of her right kidney and three other cancerous tumors. In about 10 days she will undergo chematherapy and partial removal or all of her right lung. Some friends and neighbors, coordinated by Mrs. Ira L. Beckett, have raising. Anyone wishing to donate can established the Anita Childers Cancer fund to help defray expenses of the Childers family. "A semi-private room

Area CAP Gets $1,106,072 Fund For Head Start

Gov. Julian M. Carroll and C. Leslie Dawson, secretary of the Department for Human Resources last week announced federal funds in the amount of $1,106,072 for the Big Sandy Community Action Program to provide full-year and summer Head Start Programs.

The grant to the Paintsville-based agency includes $40,000 to be used for a program geared to the educational needs of the physically and mentally handicapped children in the area.

Head Start programs provide children from low-income families with educational, nutritional and social learning experiences. Under Community Action guidelines, medical and dental services which the children might require are also provided.

Community Action agencies are local administrative units that operate on a regional basis and deliver services geared to the needs of the people in the area served. In addition to Head Start programs, local CAA's provide emergency food and medical services, energy crisis funds and develop programs to aid all members of the community.

"Daughter" Clubs Guests at Dinner; Dr. Fox Is Speaker

The Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club entertained members from three "daughter" clubs in the Seventh district Monday evening, Nov. 17, at the May Lodge with its annual daughter club dinner event.

Music for the occasion was furnished by Alicia Mayo, president of the Maytown Woman's Club; her sister, Bonnie Hubbs, and James and Floyd Taylor. Mrs. Mayo gave a vocal rendition of "Tom Dooley", "Blowing in the Wind", "Sentimental Journey," and, for an encore, "Cheatin' Heart."

Dr. Mary Pauline Fox, of Pikeville, second vice-president of the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs, spoke on "Ringing the Bells All Over," referring to the Federation's bicentennial theme of "Ring the Bells of Freedom."

Dr. Fox pointed out that one of the bell ringers of the Federation is a clinic being sponsored by it on blindness in young children, screening for eye diseases that could cause blindness if not detected before the age of six. She also mentioned the clinic for dyslexia being sponsored by the junior clubs, which is the only clinic of its kind in Kentucky. Dyslexia is an impairment of the ability to read due to a brain defect.

She suggested that clubmembers adopt a senior citizen and furnish that person transportation to church, to the grocery, or to the doctor when needed. She listed the alcohol and drug abuse program of the Federation, the community improvement program, and hypertension clinics-all projects of the Federation. She emphasized that "there is nothing more rewarding than to give out love, which is what you do in the many programs and projects you have to care

There were 14 members of the Magoffin County Woman's Club present; 11 from the Drift club; 9 from Wheelwright; three guests from Hindman, Mrs. Virginia Combs, Mrs. Betty Combs, an Mrs. Mabel Collins; one guest from Pikeville besides Dr. Fox, Mrs. Noah Howard, a former Wayland clubmember; and 20 members from the Wayland club. Mrs. W. T. Hatcher of Hindman, a 50-year charter member of the Wayland Club, was also present and was honored by the club president, Mrs. J. C. Wells.

The next meeting will be the Christmas get-together at the Masonic Lodge recreation room, Wayland, with husbands of clubmembers as guests. The date and time will be announced later.

Appearing at the Upper Carr Creek Community Center Saturday night will be Larry Sparks and the Lonesome Ramblers.

Sparks and his group are considered one of the most popular groups in the Bluegrass music field and have been one of the greatest calling cards at Bluegrass festivals across the country. Their music is characterized by a traditional mountain music flavor although they are equally suited to the more modern sounds of Bluegrass. Sparks is backed by the Lonesome Ramblers including Wendy Miller-mandolin, Mike Lilly-5-string banjo, and Art Wydmer, string bass.

The performance will get under way at 8 p.m. at the center which is near Pine Top, Ky. (Knott county). Pine Top can be reached either by taking Ky. 160 from Hindman, then turning left for a short distance on Route 582, or by traveling Route 7 and turning right on 582.

What To Do in December

By NEVYLE SHACKELFORD (UK College of Agriculture)

considered as the beginning of winter, but in reality, this frigid season does not commence until December 22. This is the day on which the sun reaches the end of its tether (solstice), seemingly hesitates on its southward journey, and again starts its oh-so-slow return, bringing spring back to the Northern Hemisphere.

Although December is frequently spoken of as the "frosty month," it is not usually the coldest month of the winter season. By the same token, it is not the most cheerless month. Crackling fires and the good will inspired by the spirit of approaching Christmas spreads a wonderful, warm, and happy glow across the land, mitigating the chill of boreal winds sweeping down from the North.

December is one of the months in which all nature seems to come to a halt. Of the manifold activities of summer and autumn, there now remains scarcely a trace. There is no growing, no fruiting, no ripening, no harvesting, but no matterto function successfully, everything must have time for resting and recuperation, and this applies to the inanimate as well as to the animate things that exist on this good earth.

The ancient Romans made Vesta, goddess of the hearth, the special deity of December. For several reasons, this seems most appropriate, but mainly because it is the most glorious month for little children-a month in which chimneys and mantlepieces over the hearth play such an important role. Without chinmeys, hearths, and The first of December is generally December, there could be no Santa

Notwithstanding Christmas, the spirit of Christmas, red holly berries, some snow on the ground, Santa Claus, and some other attributes, December is not exactly the most pleasant month of the year. As the popular naturalist and outdoorsman, Hal Borland, once wrote, it is the price "we pay for June."

As Borland indicated, December may not be the best month of the year for some things but often because of weather conditions, neither is January, February, nor wayward March. But as another distinguished outdoor writer once said, "not from the perfect circle of the year can be spared these crystal gems of

Not too much can be done outdoors in December in the way of farming or gardening, but specialists in the various fields of rural living say this way of life can be enhanced if some things are done this month.

December, they say, is the month in which to paint the basement stairs . . . make sure animals in the barn have plenty of warm bedding and birds in the fields and woods have plenty of suet, cracked corn and sunflower seed . . . read Isaiah 40:11 and start planning for next year . . . and make every effort to catch a favored person of the opposite sex under the mistletoe.

And many musky fishermen, too, are finding Cave Run Lake an ideal spot for musky fishing. Cave Run, located in the Daniel Boone National Forest near Morehead, is the site of a musky stocking program currently being conducted by the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources and now with the cooler weather and water, conditions should be right for limit catches.

This period, too, is ideal for those who like crappie fishing in their favorite lakes. Now the schooling crappies will be found around fallen tree-laps, stump beds, channel dropoffs and other submerged cover areas.

Miss Flanery To Direct Youth Choir in Concert

An area youth choir will present a Thanksgiving concert, "In God We Trust," at the Hueysville Church of Christ, Friday at 7 p.m.

The choir is comprised of members from Churches of Christ at East Point, Hueysville and West Van Lear. It is organized and directed by Patricia Flanery, of the Patricia Flanery School of Music in Allen. Miss Flanery has a degree in Music Education from Morehead State University and taught music in the public school system of Wolfe county for two years before coming to Allen to teach piano.

Fred Klatka, minister, cordially invites the public to attend and share in this service of Thanksgiving.

Carroll Asks Federal Funds To Develop Synthetic Fuels

A statement from Gov. Julian M. Carroll received in Washington recently told a congressional subcommittee that a federal program to provide capital for commercial synthetic fuel development from coal "is an essential step toward a national energy policy.'

In written testimony filed with the House Subcommittee on Energy, Research, Development and Demonstration (Fossil Fuels), Carroll said such a step would be a recognition of the importance of synthetic fuels in reaching the nation's goal of energy independence.

Carroll expressed Kentucky's support for a loan guarantee for the development of synthetic fuels, saying it would be necessary in order to provide financial incentives to commercial fuel

Carroll emphasized that "policies must not restrict guarantees to projects based on perfected technology, but should take into account emerging technology nearing feasibility.

"Several processes that have apthe goals of this legislation within a very short time," Carroll told the group. "The legislation must recognize the possibility of new advances so that they are not excluded in favor of technology which has an advantage at this point in time."

As an example, he told the committee, "We are encouraged with some of our progress, particularly with the advances being made in solving the caking problems associated with bituminous coals."

Carroll also told the committee that the success of the synthetic fuels program will depend to a large degree on the support and involvement of state and local governments in coping with the impact of specific project locations. For this reason, he said, the impact costs of such facilities must be provided for in the legislation and policies associated with it. Impact costs are related expenses for sewers, utilities, community costs for schools, etc.

"It is imperative," he said, "that the impact costs of public services associated with a project be identified and the availability of funds assured.

This is vital.' Congress has already provided funds for coal conversion demonstration projects, including one near Catlettsburg. Gov. Carroll's testimony concerned legislative measures intended to aid in the development of larger plants designed to actually produce synthetic fuel in commercial quantities. Carroll said he welcomed the opportunity to speak to the subcommittee, which reports to the House Committee on Science and Technology, because Kentucky has "made a substantial commitment toward the development of synthetic fuels and is rich in bituminous

"Kentucky has mounted an intense effort to expand coal conversion research and support coal conversion demonstration plants," Carroll told the subcommittee, "and our annual coal plication to Kentucy coals should meet research expenditure will exceed $2 million this year.

"In addition to basic coal conversion process development, we are carrying out research on mining techniques, as well as reclamation and environmental effects on the economics of coal.'

Carroll said Kentucky's demonstration program is authorized up to $50 million in the form of a special trust fund and that the state is currently pursuing the potential of gasification of coal for specific industrial application throughout the state. Major pipeline quality commercial gasification and liquefaction plants are included in the state's efforts, he said.

He informed them that site work will begin shortly on a liquefaction plant jointly funded by the Energy Research and Development Administration, industry participants and the state. He said other major coal conversion facilities are in the planning, design and preliminary engineering stages.

Arts and Crafts Sale Set at Natural Bridge

Kentucky still will have beautiful sunshiny days, perfect for hiking and being outdoors, but when October's brilliance changes to leafless trees, fallow fields and chill weather, your state parks are ready to welcome you and your family with indoor activities.

At Natural Bridge State Resort Park in Powell county a special Thanksgiving week-end includes not only delectable foods, but an annual arts and crafts sale.

The Commonwealth does not have an unbeautiful season and, as you travel to Natural Bridge for this event, be sure to look around you and note the beauty of trees without leaves, fields without corn and homes without front-porch people. Instead there will be a flag of smoke from a kitchen stove or open fireplace in a family room that speaks eloquently of this season of closeness and warmth.

It is with this spirit of added bounty and friendliness that park employes and state personnel have put together this special

It is the first such event and scheduled Nov. 29-30. It will see some of the state's leading artists and crafts people exhibiting their work in the park's new multi-purpose building.

For exhibitors, it will mean a place of beauty to enhance their handiwork and also one of convenience, for they will be able to drive to an unloading center at the building.

For art lovers and collectors, the structure provides ample room for viewing and contemplating a purchase, even to standing thoughtfully at a window wall overlooking lovely, wooded Red River valley.

Constructed of strong materials, the multi-purpose building blends well into the landscape as did old Hemlock Lodge that once stood on the site.

Amendment Aids Child Support Program

Security law has resulted in an expanded effort by the Department for Human Resources (DHR) to locate and prosecute parents who are not supporting their children.

Kentucky's courts and prosecutors to obtain their assistance in locating absent parents and bringing parents before the courts to obtain child support orders. The courts will be reimbursed as a result of funds being made available at the federal level for this program.

"It is hoped that the courts and prosecutors will carry out the major responsibility for this program," said Commissioner Gail S. Huecker of DHR's Bureau for Social Insurance. The Bureau for Social Insurance has been designated as the unit of DHR to implement the program in Kentucky.

The newly passed legislation, Part D of Title IV of the Social Security Act, requires every state to cooperate with the courts and law enforcement officials to conduct a child support enforcement

Each state is also required to set up a parent locator service. This unit will attempt to find absent parents through the use of state and federal sources of information.

The program is not limited to welfare families, but applies to anyone who cannot locate a parent for child support. According to the new law, DHR must pursue all those who have not been providing for their children.

Garnishment of income of federal employes and the military for child support and alimony is permitted by the new Social Security amendment.

As a condition for eligibility for Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC), the law now requires a mother

A new amendment to the Social or father to cooperate in locating the absent parent of a child. This establishes the paternity of a child born out of wedlock and locates the source of child support payment.

"Since 1974, the department has had a DHR will be negotiating contracts with child support unit which has dealth specifically with families who receive federal Aid to Families with Dependent Children," said Commissioner Huecker.

SECTION 3. And whereas, Scott Wallen and others filed an answer and amended answer to the petition of the City seeking annexation, and whereas, the Floyd Circuit Court heard said case and on August 25, 1972, entered judgment

as follows: FLOYD CIRCUIT COURT CR. NO. 7891

KENTUCKY

IN RE: ANNEXATION INTO THE CITY OF PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY OF A CERTAIN TRACT OF LAND IM-MEDIATELY ADJACENT TO THE MOST SOUTHERN LIMITS OF THE CITY LIMITS OF PRESTONSBURG,

JUDGMENT, FINDINGS OF FACT. AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The City of Prestonsburg filed this action under KRS 81.210 to annex an area adjoining its south city limits. As presently constituted the City contains approximately eleven hundred dwelling houses with a population of thirty-three hundred people. The proposed addition contains approximately forty-two dwellings with a population of approximately two hundred people. There are no industrial plants located within the proposed addition, and much of it has been laid out for residential subdivision. It has been stipulated by and between the parties that at least ninety-five per cent of the property owners remonstrated against the annexation. However, the Court concludes that under the rule of law set out in City of Hickman, Inc., v. Choate, Ky., 379 SW 2d 238 (1964) the issues are the same regardless of the percentage of remonstrants. The only distinction is that if the remonstrants exceed fifty percent, the burden is on the City to show a prima facia case of benefit to itself and to the property proposed to be annexed. When the City has done this, the burden shifts to the property owners to prove material injury

The Court finds and concludes that the residents of the proposed annexation would receive the standard benefits of Municipal Incorporation. City of Greenville v. Gossett, Ky., 355 SW 2d 311 (1962). The City established a benefit to the property proposed to be annexed in that the City proved that it can give the residents of the proposed addition substantially the same services as the residents of the City are now receiving, including paved streets, city water, fire protection, street lights, police protection, city sewers, street sweeping, garbage disposal, and trash pick-up. Further, the city has established that it will be benefited by this annexation, not only through the additional tax revenue, whatever it may be, but also through the intangible but nevertheless substantial advantages that will accrue to both the City and the owners of property within the affected area by the unifying force of one government for what is in fact one community. Annexation, in short, holds the promise of a better and more effective government for all concerned than they now enjoy separately. City of Hickman, Inc., v. Choate, Ky., 379 SW 2d

The City having met its burden of proving benefit to the City and to the owners of the property to be annexed, the burden then shifted to the property owners to prove material injury. The Court finds and concludes that the property owners did not meet their burden in that they did not prove any material injury to the entire area, but only attempted to prove injury to the separate parcels of real estate isolation. Isolated instances of detriment do not amount to material injury to the property of the whole area. Mitchell v. Central City, Ky., 354 SW 2d 281 (1962)

The Court further finds that most of the residents of the proposed territory have water and sewer services they would not have except for the instrumentality of the City. Their lot was made better by the City, and having accepted its benefits they cannot defeat an annexation unless it is so unfair to them as to border upon arbitrariness. City of Hickman, Inc. v.

JUDGMENT The Court concludes that the evidence under KRS 81,210 was sufficient to allow annexation. Accordingly, it is OR-DERED and ADJUDGED that the territory described in the Petition, which description is incorporated herein by reference as if it were set out at length, be and the same hereby is ORDERED annexed into the City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky. It is further ORDERED that said territory shall hereafter be treated and considered for all purposes as a legal part of said incorporated City.

Dated: 8-25 day of Aug., 1972. s-s Hollie Conley HOLLIE CONLEY, JUDGE FLOYD CIRCUIT COURT

SECTION 4. Whereas, said remonstrants appealed such case to the Court of Appeals of Kentucky, which Court affirmed the judgment of the Floyd Circuit Court by opinion rendered on May 9, 1975, which opinion is as follows:

RENDERED: May 9, 1975 Court of Appeals of Kentucky File No. F-169-72

BY ADDITION OF LICENSE FEES THEREUNDER PERTAINING TO OPERATORS OR FACILITIES FOR LOADING AND UNLOADING OF COAL, SAND, GRAVEL, OR A COM-BINATION THEREOF: DEFINING TERMS: STATING LEGISLATIVE PURPOSE OF THE WITHIN AMEND-MENT: PROVIDING METHOD OF PAYMENT OR LICENSE FEE MODIFIED BY THIS ORDINANCE PROVIDING FOR THE FORCEMENT THEREOF BY THE INSPECTION OF RECORDS: PROVIDING EFFECTIVE DATES: AND REPEALING CLAUSE

AT A REGULAR MEETING OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE CITY OF WAYLAND, KENTUCKY, A CITY OF THE SIXTH CLASS, OPERATING UNDER THE TRUSTEE FORM OF GOVERNMENT, HELD AT THE CITY HALL ON THE 17 DAY OF NOVEM-BER, 1975.

BE IT ORDAINED AS FOLLOWS:

SECTION I. DEFINITIONS: WORDS AND PHRASES USED IN THIS OR-DINANCE SHALL HAVE THE OR-DINARY AND ACCEPTED MEANING ASCRIBED TO THEM AND THE SPECIAL MEANING ASCRIBED TO THEM BELOW:

(a). "Existing Business License Ordinances" means and includes the Business License Ordinance enacted by the City of Wayland on 21 December, 1949.

(b). "Coal" means and includes any FLORENCE MORRISON material composed predominantly of hydrocarbons in a solid state.

(c). "Gravel" means small stone, or fragments of stone intermixed with particles of sand and-or dirt.

(d). "Sand" means fine particles of stone and-or other silica bearing substances not reduced to dust. (e). "Operator" means any individual,

Appellants firm, partnership, corporation, organization, or association, or any combination thereof engaged in the actual operation of the loading and unloading facilities described herein. The term "Operator" is not synonymous with ownership of the facilities described

(f). "Loading and Unloading facilities" means and includes, but is not necessarily limited to, coal ramps, tipples, loading docks, and other devices for the loading of coalinto railroad cars, trucks, or other apparatus for the transportation of coal, hoppers for the loading of sand and gravel, and other apparatus other public ways tends to create excessive noise, tends to create traffic congestion, and tends to adversely affect the aesthetic appearance of the City of Wayland, Kentucky. The Board of Trustees of Wayland, Kentucky further finds that the classification of said facilities for the within modification and minimum license fee is reasonable in view of the stated adverse affects these particular facilities have upon the City of Wayland. SECTION V: METHOD OF PAYMENT

OF LICENSE FEES MODIFIED HEREIN: On or before the twentieth (20) day of each month, beginning on 20 February, 1976, the operator of each facility for the loading or unloading of coal sand, gravel, or a combination thereof, shall file with the Office of the City Clerk of the Cityof Wayland a statement indicating the number of tons of coal, sand, gravel, or combination thereof, to which the within modification of minimum license fees shall apply for the next last preceeding calendar month. Said statement shall be accompanied by the operator's payment of the sum of ten cents (10c) per ton as specified herein.

SECTION VI: RIGHT OF CITY CLERK'S OFFICE TO VERIFY RECORDS: The City Clerk, or his duly authorized assistant, shall have the right to see, imspect and copy and and all records kept and maintained by operators of facilities affected hereby, in order to verify the accuracy of any statement filed by an operator. It shall be the duty of the operator to keep and maintain ccurate records correctly setting forth the tonnage to which the within amendment applies.

The City Clerk of the City of Wayland, or his duly authorized assistants may likewise see, inspect, and copy the records of third parties, in order to verify the accuracy of any statement filed by an operator pursuant hereto.

SECTION VII: REPEALING CLAUSE: All Ordinances or parts thereof in conflict with the provisions of this Ordinance are hereby repealed, to the extent of such conflict

SECTION VIII: EFFECTIVE DATE: This Ordinance shall become effective immediately upon passage and an emergency is declared to exist affecting the public welfare requiring its immediate effectiveness, subject however to the provisions contained herein defining the date at which the modification in minimum fees shall be in SECTION IX: PUBLICATION: This Ordinance shall be published in full in the next issue of the Floyd County Times immediately following its passage.

Supreme Court Upholds Corporal Punishment

The U.S. Supreme Court has upheld the use of corporal punishment in schools provided that school personnel follow minimum due process procedures. In a summary judgement upholding a lower court ruling without a hearing, the high court ruled in Baker vs. Owen that states may permit school teachers to spank misbehaving students even over the objections of parents, as long as the teacher uses a lesser punishment when appropriate and warns the pupil ahead of time what kinds of behavior warrant corporal punishment

The lower court ruling which was upheld set forth three criteria that must

1. Spanking should not be the "first line of punishment"; 2. A second teacher must observe the punishment; 3. Parents are entitled to a written explanation of the punishment if they so wish.

There's a new topic of conversation around the docks at Herrington Lake, a new kind of excitement among fishermen and a "new" species of fish in the waters that is responsible for both the talk and the excitement.

The rockfish isn't actually a "new" fish to Herrington or several other Kentucky lakes, but it might as well be. The first of these salt-water cousins of the white bass were stocked in 1958, but in small numbers on an experimental basis. Herrington received a few rockfish in subsequent years, but not in really significant numbers.

When it became apparent that these fish were surviving and doing well in

Herrington (a 44 pound, four ounce rockfish, the state record, was caught there in 1970) the numbers were increased significantly. In 1973, the Department of Fish and Wildlife put 39,800 rockfish in Herrington, then increased the 1974 and 1975 stockings to approximately 50,000

Those 1973 fish are now averaging between three and five pounds each, and they are the ones that are being caught in increasing numbers at Herrington. According to one dock owner, fishermen started taking these fish in early July and have been catching them ever since. This is the first year that Herrington's anglers have been fishing specifically for rockfish and they are slowly developing techniques for locating and catching

The most productive lures seem to be either deep runners or large dollflies fished fairly deep, but recently some rocks have been caught in the jumps on surface lures. Those who have seen rockfish slashing through surface schools of shad say that it's really a fantastic sight. If you've ever fished for white bass in the jumps, you can imagine what a commotion these much larger rockfish make.

Add to this the possibility of hooking into a 30- to 40-pound (or perhaps larger) fish when you cast into these jumps, and you'll see what all the excitement is about. A 16-pounder was brought in recently and apparently some much larger fish were hooked but not landed. Several docks reported selling out of 20pound test line a couple of week-ends ago as anglers who had tangled with a rockfish came back for some heavier equipment.

I talked to a couple of fishermen at Herrington who have caught rocks and they agree that these fish seem to put up more of a fight than a black bass of comparable weight. Even when hooked in deep water, these fishermen said, the rockfish will come to the surface and do most of its fighting there.

They also recommended the rockfish highly as table fare, saying the meat is firm yet flakes easily. One fisherman compared the taste of rockfish to that of haddock.

Aside from its qualities as a game fish, fisheries biologists expect that the rockfish will have beneficial effects on the lakes where it is stocked by helping to utilize populations of gizzard shad. These shad grow too large for most predator fish to tackle, but they're just a comfortable mouthful for a big rockfish. Stomach content analyses have shown that well over 90 percent of the rockfish's diet consists of shad.

With the completion of the Department of Fish and Wildlife's Clark Hatchery, the number of rockfish available has increased greatly. Previous relatively small stockings have produced some good catches from Lake Cumberland and rockfish, probably stocked by other states, are showing up in the tailwaters of both Kentucky and Barkley lakes. These areas also have a growing number of rockfish anglers.

However, 1974 was the big year for rockfish stocking, with 121,000 going in Kentucky Lake, 100,000 in Barkley and 50,000 in Barren. Tennessee is also stocking their portions of Kentucky and Barkley lakes, so in the very near future these waters should join Herrington as top rockfish producers as more and more anglers discover this "new" Kentucky

Switch to Wood-Burning Stove

By JAY HENSLEY

(UK Extension Information Specialist) Buying a wood-burning stove can change your lifestyle. It can also cut your fuel bill by as much as $400 a year.

We switched to a wood-burning stove as our primary source of heat for three reasons:

(1) there was a fuel shortage that promised to grow worse; (2) our gas furnace wasn't doing a good enough job of heating our old farmhouse; and (3) our fuel bills were as high as $80 a month in the coldest weather.

We bought the first stove new for about $110 two years ago when they were getting scarce. We installed it in the kitchen, and life on our farm began to change.

Last year, we bought a second-hand stove just like it, only bigger, for $15 at a flea market. We went over it with a stiff wire brush, polished it with stove blacking, and set it up in our little threeroom house out back. We sold the small gas furnace it replaced.

Except on week-ends, we just keep the kitchen warm. We wear sweaters in the rest of the house and use an electric spaceheater several times a day to take the chill off the bathroom. My 16-year-old builds a fire in his stove out back when he wants privacy or has friends over.

It takes getting used to.

Now, the children all know how to use an axe, split kindling, build a good fire and keep it regulated. Sometimes they squabble over who's turn it is to carry out the ashed or bring in a load of wood. They have finally mustered the courage to get out of bed when the alarm rings and sprint through an ice-cold house to the warm kitchen. We have all learned to be careful about keeping things a good 24 inches from the stove and never letting the fire get too hot.

On wintry mornings, we stuff the stove full of wood and damp it way down before we all leave the house. First one home in the afternoon puts more wood on and opens the damper and air vents for more heat output.

In not-so-cold weather, we let the fire go out during the day. On week-ends, we keep a second wood fire going in the living room's efficient old coal grate. We hang blankets to block off the stairway to the second floor, open the door to the bathroom, and the whole downstairs keeps warm.

You can dry a wooden rack full of laundry overnight by the stove, and you can cook a pot of soup on it or warm up a casserole. We keep a kettle of water simmering there to put moisture in the house. It means we always have hot water on hand for making coffee, tea, or instant cocoa. An iron kettle is best, because sometimes it boils dry.

We still have our big gas furnace. If the house gets colder than 50 degrees, the thermostat kicks on and the little bit of heat that results is enough to safeguard our not-so-modern plumbing.

Our stoves are cast-iron and are firebrick lined to burn coal. Coal gives a hotter, quicker fire than wood and it will burn much longer. But we don't like it, and it's expensive. Our wood is free, burns cleaner, and smells good.

Even so, we always have some coal on hand and use it once in a while to keep a fire burning all night when everyone goes to bed early, or for a long cold day when none of us gets home until late.

You can buy a wood-burning stove that takes much bigger chunks of wood than ours and burns much longer from one stoking. But we like being able to burn

Delinquency Prevention Grants Are Awarded

Twelve Kentucky school districts have been awarded grants from the Kentucky Crime Commission to fund the operation of juvenile delinquency prevention programs. David Jackson, director of the Department of Education's Division of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention, states that any school district making an application and proving the existence of a delinquency problem may qualify for grants. Each of the programs operating in local school districts is unique, geared to local conditions. A major objective of the programs is to work with pre-delinquent students before they become more deeply involved in delinquency.

The $1.1 million in grants went to Ashland, Bowling Green, Covington, Franklin county, Hardin county, Jefferson county, McCracken county, McCreary county, Montgomery county, Newport, Owensboro, and Paducah school districts.

amount of floor space our stoves take up. You can burn wood in a coal stove, but it's just not safe to burn coal in a wood stove. It makes too hot a fire and could burn up your house along with the coal.

both wood and coal, and we like the small

We cut, haul and split all our own wood. We do it with the help of a 15-inch chain saw kept in top working condition, a bow saw, two sharp single-bladed axes, two hatchets for splitting kindling, and a beat-up station wagon with heavy-duty springs. It takes many hours, and it's something we all like to do.

There's plenty of free wood available, especially after a storm takes down some trees and branches. Clearing out cull and fallen trees on our own 22 acres gives us a good supply.

We split lots of kindling and it calls for a certain amount of skill-watch somebody who's really good at it. You should let go of the piece of wood just before the hatchet hits, in case you miss. I have many scars on my left hand from the painful days of my apprenticeship, and my 6-year-old sank the hatchet deep into his thumb the very first time he tried, in secret, to learn how.

These cold fall days, we linger long over meals in the warm kitchen, often spend whole evenings there-reading, talking, doing homework, writing letters, playing music, working on handicraft projects, dozing in the rocking chair.

Even without a fuel crisis, a winter storm sometimes cuts off our electricity for hours or even days. When this happens, we just light a kerosene lamp or two, bring in another armload of wood, and keep warm around our stove.

(There's free firewood available for Kentuckians in the Daniel Boone National Forest - provided you get an official permit from your district forest ranger, and provided you intend the wood for your own use. No fair selling it. So if you want wood to burn, and you don't mind working for it, here's what to do, according to UK Extension forester Ralph Lewis. It's all part of USDA's Free Use Timber Program. District forest ranger offices are open 8 to 4:30 on week days. They're located in Morehead, Stanton, Berea, London, Somerset, Whitley City and Peabody. Just go in and apply for a "free-use permit." The ranger will supply you with a map, marking on it where you can cut timber and giving you directions on how to get there. Within the area marked off, any tree is fair game.)

Keathley-Henderson Vows Said

Miss Suzanne Keathley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Keathley, of Allen, and Mr. Clayton Bruce Henderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Henderson, Willoughby, Ohio, were united in marriage Oct. 4 at Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church by the Rev. W. D. Jaggers.

Given in marriage by her father and grandfather, Mr. Graham Burchett, of Allen, the bride wore a gown of white chiffon enhanced by a peau d' ange lace bodice. The gown was styled with a fitted waistline, wedding ring neckline, full, soft sleeves and sweeping train. Her fingertip veil was held by a cap of peau d' ange lace and completely edged in lace.

Mrs. Doug Prater, sister of nex.

the bride, was matron of honor. Miss Renee Prater, niece of the bride, was flower girl. Their gowns were of contrasting shades of apricot. They carried bouquets of apricot carnations and white gardenias, enhanced with baby's breath.

Terry Kuper, Mentor, Ohio, was best man. Ushers were Rod Henderson, brother of the groom, and Doug Prater, brother-in-law of the bride.

Music was provided by David Banner Leslie, organist, Thomas James Blackburn. guitarist, and Mrs. Pam Ratliff, soloist.

Mrs. Carol Jo Collins registered the guests.

A reception was held, immediately following the ceremony, in the church an-

Birds of American Literature

the night song of the whippoorwill is the most widely known of any other bird's song. But the sight and knowledge of this bird is something else. Very few persons have had the chance to see a whippoorwill at close range, mainly for two reasons: It is a bird of the darkness, and in daytime, when it squats down on old, brown leaves, its brown and mottled coloration blend so perfectly with the brown-leaf forest floor, it is almost impossible to spot the bird.

There have been many fine poems written about the whippoorwill, and, strangely, all of them have a touch of melancholy, or nostalgic yearning. It has

1.—THE WHIPPOORWILL. It is said been said that if one listens closely to the song of the whippoorwill and lets it sink deep into the heart, it is a never-to-beforgotten experience. Why does this bird's song affect people with a touch of melancholy, or often a feeling of sadness? The answer is, this bird lives on the lonely heights of the mountains, or hides in deep, dark ravines, in the lonliest part of the forest. It is a bird that dotes on the darkness of the woods and reflects the loneliness in its song. Yet it often ventures into the backyard of some farmhouse to do its nightly stint of song. If it gets all wound up and off to a good start, it may sing its song over and over a thousand times or more. John

Burroughs, the great naturalist, counted the calls one night and wrote: "That bird laid the lash on the back of poor Will 1,478 times," Burroughs added that he then fell asleep and left the bird still singing.

The whippoorwill seems to love the sound of its own voice and is a past master of pantomime and ventriloquism. It is a sight to watch this bird perform. It bows like a prima donna on the stage and introduces its song with a low, emphatic sound, tock, then the three notes follow in rapid succession-whip-poor-WILL! with the stress on the last note. It squats and prances about while singing; it can throw the sound of WILL far across the

The scientific name of the bird, vociferous, means "loud-mouth." The whippoorwill wears chin whiskers and has a white mark across the throat; its red eyes shine in the dark like a cat's eyes. The wings and tail have irregular black spots. The bird never builds a nest, but simply lays two eggs on old brown Whippoorwills migrate in late summer and go to Mexico or Central America to spend the winter. They are among the earliest birds to return in spring, and their first song is usually heard about the tenth of April.

One of the most beautiful poems written about the whippoorwill was by Van Dyke. And I'm sure you will feel in reading it the note of nostalgia and yearning for his lost boyhood. I quote the

"Do you remember, father-It seems so long ago, The night we fished together Along the Pocono?

You seemed so long in coming, And I felt so much alone, The wide, dark world was round me, And life was all unknown;

The hand or sorrow touched me And made my senses thrill With all the pain that haunts the strain Of mournful whippoorwill . .

I was but an idle lad, I had not learned the lessons That make men wise and sad.'

Marvin Music, of Prestonsburg, (second from right) was honored recently as a new University of Kentucky Fellow for his financial contributions to UK. Mr. and Mrs. Music were recognized by UK President Otis A. Singletary, right, in Lexington during the annual dinner of the UK Development Council. Ervin J. Nutter, chairman of the UK Fellows Executive Committee, is at left.

Regional Board Opposes Two Proposed Education Bills

Dr. Donald VanFleet, of the Legislative Research Commission, appeared before the Kentucky Educational Development Region XI board of directors here November 17 to discuss pre-filed legislation affecting education.

Among bills discussed by Dr. VanFleet were the educational accountability bill (attempts to establish output measures for the achievement of the goals of education in Kentucky), the power equalization bill (guarantees that school districts with poorer economies will have per-pupil expenditures equal to the wealthier school districts), the consumer education bill (requires a course on consumer education in order to be eligible for high school graduation), and the career education bill (attempts to legislate the incorporation of career education in all state-supported educational programs).

Following Dr. vanFleet's presentation and discussion, the board voted unanimously to oppose the educational accountability bill because of the lack of appropriate instruments to measure many objectives, state funding for elementary and secondary education could be based on data from inappropriate instruments and diagnostic systems, and the legislature may not provide adequate funds to implement an accountability plan.

The board also voted to oppose, pending acceptable modification, the policy adopted by the State Board of Education for improving the professional performance of school personnel. Charles F. Clark, superintendent of Floyd county schools and chairman of the KEDR XI board of directors, said school superintendents of the region are particularly opposed to the legislature's mandating the content for any particular

Also appearing before the Board were June Preston, training specialist for Civil Preparedness Education, and Jim Hampton, Division of Disaster and Emergency Services. They pointed out that the Kentucky Department of Education is charged with assisting all school districts in the development of emergency and disaster plans. This assistance will include workshops in all educational development regions, the provisions of materials useful in formulating disaster plans, and some free curriculum materials.

Eugene Robinson, director of the Division of Instructional Media, discussed textbook adoption policies and procedures. Robinson stressed the importance of having written board policy pertaining to the adoption of textbooks. Robinson also told the board that there will be a high school textbook program of some sort next fall if funds are appropriated. He suggested that principals be advised not to order textbooks until after the General Assembly meeting.

Following Mr. Robinson's presentation, Reo Johns, executive director of KEDR XI, discussed with the board the possibility of a regional hearing for textbook adoption. Johns told the board that he would arrange the meeting if the superintendents preferred a regional meeting, but suggested that the meeting might be more convenient in terms of time needed if each district had its own

The U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics reported that the proportion of workers on extended hours who received premium pay declined from about 43 per cent in 1973 to 36 percent in 1975.

For A Legacy That Makes Us Americans

There's a lot to be remembered on this holiday. A glance at American history proves that it's so.

Hardships overcome by men who sought freedom. A new nation founded through vision and dedication. For then and for now . . . let us join and be thankful.
