

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

An Explanation

Referring to the fiscal order reported in last weeks Floyd County Times as rescinded:

On February 29, 1975 the Floyd County fiscal court met and filed a condemnation suit, to condemn a strip of land just above my house, which reads as follows:

On the motion of Kenneth Roberts, seconded by LeRoy Akers, it is moved by the Floyd County Fiscal Court that a strip of land 10 x 150, be condemned to provide a wider right of way for the county road. Said land is described as follows and lies on Salyers Branch: Starting at a point on the right hand side of Salyers Branch (County Road) as you go up same at a point approximately 75 feet above Zeb Ousley's house & continuing for 150 feet up said road. Said land is to be a strip of land 10' x 150'.

"All members being present voted for same."

The road broke off and needed widening out. They filed this suit unknown to me, without talking to me about it. Five or six months later, county attorney James Allen told me about this. I told them to come up and fix this road any way they wanted to.

County Judge Henry Stumbo, County Attorney James Allen, and Magistrates Bill Wells, Dewey Roberts, and Leroy Akers all came. Now the road is fixed. I just want the people to know that I never did try to block any road work. Thanks to Judge Stumbo for not sending out any appraisers, for I believe he knew what was right.

A new VA record for a single sale of silver bullion was set last month when the agency sold an unprecedented 210,803 fine troy ounces for $911,933. Supply service reports the amount anticipates an increase of about 50 per cent for 1976 from expended x-ray solutions and the disposal of x-ray films.

DAR Good Citizen

Laura Francis Brackett, Prestonsburg High senior, has been named by the John Graham Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, to receive the 1975-'76 Good Citizen Award. The senior student chosen for this award must exhibit high qualities of dependability, service, leadership, and patriotism.

Besides having a scholastic average of "A," Miss Brackett is treasurer of the National Honor Society, parliamentarian of the Student Council, co-editor of the '75-'76 yearbook, co-sports editor of the Hi-Times, and serves as statistician for the varsity basketball team. She is a member of the honorary Quill and Scroll and national Beta Club and is a member of the golf team, lettering two years. She received the Junior Achievement Award, Top Ten Junior Student medal, was selected as girl in Junior year who had contributed most to the class, served as chairwoman of the Prom Committee, served as DAR Page to the Kentucky State Convention at Lexington, and received medals in English and typing.

Named this year to Who's Who Among American High School Students, Outstanding Teenager of America, The Society of Outstanding American High School Students, and to the Top Ten of the Senior Class, she was also an attendant on both the 1975-'76 Football and Basketball Homecoming Courts.

Miss Brackett is a member of the Allen United Methodist Church, where she sings in the choir, and has served as Allen MYF vice-president and treasurer. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Brackett, of Allen.

Police Offer Way To Identify What Burglars May Take

There's something you can do before the burglar arrives, and the Prestonsburg Police Department has arranged to help you.

With the cooperation of the Kentucky Crime Council, the department has six electric pencil engravers which are available for use in marking your property so that it can be identified if later stolen. The engraver may be used on metal, plastic or wood.

Chief of Police Ralph Thornsby said this week that householders or owners of businesses may borrow these engravers without charge. The police department also has available an Operation Identification record and decals. The latter can be placed at entrances to homes or businesses as a warning to criminals.

Operation Identification, it was pointed out, is a statewide program which has dramatically reduced crime in communities where the majority of citizens has joined the program. Police point out that most burglars steal valuables for resale, but if all items are marked with permanent identification numbers (Social Security, Kentucky Sales Tax or other number), the burglar will be unable to sell them to his "fence" or to other underground contacts. The permanent numbers also will enable officers to contact the owner if a stolen item is found.

Seminar on Alcoholism To Be Repeated at PCC This Spring

"A Community Looks at Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism," a seminar on alcoholism presented for the first time last fall by the Mountain Comprehensive Care Center, will be presented again this spring beginning March 16.
Steve Knowles, district coordinator of alcohol services for MCCC, will act as moderator and coordinator of the class which will be presented in 10 two-hour sessions as part of Prestonsburg Community College's community services program.

Following last year's format, the class, said to be the only program of its kind in the state, will feature a series of speakers who possess an expertise in alcohol-related problems either through personal experience or professionally. Alcoholism will be viewed through the eyes of an alcoholic, alcoholic's spouse, sociologist, judge, medical doctor, psychiatrist, psychologist and a panel of clergymen.
Leo Weddle, instructor of sociology-psychology at P.C.C. said the classes utilized "one of the best seminar approaches to alcohol education we've seen."

Knowles said the purpose of the seminar is a "two-way education between the speakers and the community, and to hopefully rework attitudes toward alcohol abuse."

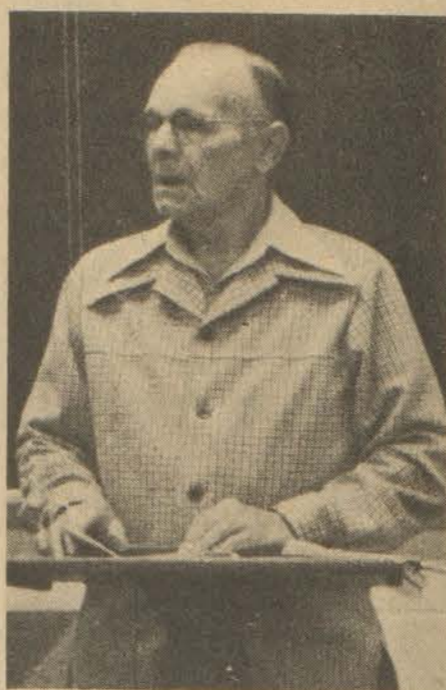

The series of classes are free of charge and Knowles stressed that "anyone can attend one or all of the sessions." Two continuing education credits are given class members at the end of the seminar in May.

"Alcoholism and problems of alcohol abuse should be the concern of everyone," Knowles said, and he pointed out that last semester's seminar included among its members a nurse, social service employees, alcoholics and alcoholic spouses.

"This type of seminar would cost a lot in most places," Knowles said, "and we're hoping to attract a variety of people willing to take advantage of what we think is an exceptional learning situation." Mr. Knowles said MCCC hoped to attract law enforcement officials, educators, those in health care, government officials as well as the general public to the seminar.

Among the professionals scheduled to conduct seminar sessions is Dr. Robert Straus, chairman of Behavioral Sciences, College of Medicine, at the University of Kentucky. Dr. Straus has worked in the field of alcoholism for 30 years and has written two books on the subject, "Escape from Custody," and "Alcoholic Society."

The course outline will be as follows:

Guild To Sponsor Exhibit and Sale Of Original Prints

Prestonsburg Community College Art Guild will sponsor an exhibit and sale March 8 of approximately 600 original prints from the famed Ferdinand Roten Galleries collection. The event will be held from 2 to 7 p.m. in the college library. Along with prints by such masters as Picasso, Goya, Renoir, and Hogarth will be works by many of today's American artists.

Area residents are invited to browse through this outstanding collection of original graphics. A knowledgeable Roten representative will be on hand to answer questions about the prints and the artists and to discuss other prints not in this collection but which may be procured from the gallery in Baltimore.

Married veterans should include their spouses' income in considering whether they can take advantage of the GI loan. The VA counts the wife's income in computing whether married veterans are qualified for home loans, especially in cases where the veteran's income alone is not sufficient to qualify him for the amount of the loan sought. The type and duration of employment will determine if the income of either or both can be considered reliable for the relatively long term of loan repayments.

Rep. Hopkins Plans Funeral Cost Bill

Frankfort, Ky.—State Rep. Larry Hopkins, R-Lexington, said Monday he will introduce a bill requiring that funeral costs be itemized.

"I've decided to go ahead with it because I've had two meetings with funeral directors, asked them for suggestions or alternatives and I've heard nothing from them," Hopkins said.

Basically, the bill would require funeral directors, upon request from those making arrangements, to produce an itemized list of the costs of merchandise and services involved in a funeral.

Currently, Hopkins said most funeral directors quote an overall price for a funeral.

"They (funeral directors) say this thing would increase the price of funerals, but I don't buy that," Hopkins said. "How could handing a piece of paper to a person cost anything?"

"If it does, there is something wrong, and there has been something wrong for a hell of a long time," Hopkins said. Hopkins said he is basically opposed to regulation by government, but that he felt something ought to be done to control the high price of funerals.

For that reason, he said, he invited local funeral directors, plus their state association, to meet with him three weeks ago, and again last week, to offer any alternatives to his bill.

"They were just like stone," Hopkins declared. "I told them the decision to introduce the bill wasn't mine, but theirs, and since they've offered no suggestions, I guess they've made their decision."

Hopkins noted that his bill calls for a list of costs only if the person making funeral arrangements asks for one. A similar law is on the books in Colorado, Florida and North Carolina, he said.

The idea behind it is to allow people who don't want or can't afford some goods or services connected with the "complete" funeral to reject them.

Such things might include use of additional limousines other than the hearse, arrangement of church services, transportation of flowers, organists or vocalists, prayer cards and so on.

"If a person could see this list he might find they had two organists or three extra limousines, for example," Hopkins said. "He might want to cut these out to lower the cost."

"Why, you wouldn't go into a super-market and buy a basketful of groceries without a list of what's in the basket, would you?"

Farm Tax Forms Due By Monday, March 1

Louisville, Ky.—Farmers may have to file their Federal income tax return and pay that tax by Monday, March 1.

Paul Niederecker, IRS director for Kentucky, said last week that farmers who did not file a declaration of estimated Federal individual income tax by January 15 should file their 1975 tax return and pay all tax due by March 1 to avoid a penalty.

Farmers are defined as those persons who earned at least two-thirds of their 1975 gross income from farming.

Panic

Let someone shout "FIRE!" in a crowded building, and immediately people act like animals as they trample each other to reach the doors.

Let a rumor start that there will be a shortage of sugar or oil or any product, and immediately panic buying results. People stockpile all they can get with no thought of the needs of others.

Rich panic. Poor panic. Cultured, educated people panic. No one is immune when faced with a situation which threatens his life and welfare.

One of these days such a tremendous panic will occur that "... the kings of the earth, and the great men, and the rich men, and the chief captains, and the mighty men, and every bond man, and every free man, hid themselves in the dens and in the rocks of the mountains; and said to the mountains and rocks, Fall on us, and hide us from the face of him that sitteth on the throne, and from the wrath of the Lamb. For the great day of his wrath is come; and who shall be able to stand?" (Revelation 6:15-17)

Who is the Lamb? What is the great day of his wrath?

In olden days lambs were often used for sacrifice. So this name was given to Jesus Christ. He came to earth once as a sacrifice. He lived a life of love, humility, and service, and then gave his life for man's sin.

But Jesus Christ is God Himself. And instead of being honored and accepted, His name is blasphemed. His laws are ridiculed. His rightful claims are denied. His loved is spurned. His offer of salvation is rejected.

One day He is coming back in power and majesty. The first time He came to save. The second time to judge! When will He come? Possibly today or next week or later. No one knows. But He will come.

It will be a terrible day for those who have rejected Him. They will panic! They will cry to the mountains, "Fall on us!"

Countless millions, however, will rejoice to see their Savior and Friend. These have accepted His death as the payment for their sins. They acknowledge Him as Lord. They obey His commandments and honor His name.

To which group do you belong? Only in this life can you choose. There is no second chance. Today is the day of salvation. Today may be your last day! Flee from the wrath to come!

Matthew 24:44. "Therefore be ye also ready: For in such an hour as ye think not the son of man cometh."

State Team Tries To Help Beattyville Get Industry

Beattyville, Ky.—The Kentucky Industrial Development Advisory team came here recently to meet with local leaders to discuss plans to aid development in the area.

The newly-formed team comprises members of the Kentucky Industrial Development Council (KIDC) who work and communicate daily with industrial prospects and are familiar with the needs of industries and how a community can meet these needs. Secretary for Development William L. Short has described the team as, "In reality not one team, but many—each composed of development professionals familiar with the community or problem involved."

During their visit to Beattyville, the team visited the currently empty Lyeomg Shoe Factory and two potential industrial sites being considered for development.

The factory was identified as the greatest potential for immediate development as it is a finished, air-conditioned, 50,000 sq. ft. building with additional office space attached which could be occupied rapidly when the right industrial prospect is located, said Jim Nutter, assistant to Commerce Commissioner Larry Townsend and coordinator of the advisory team.

Although the building has been recommended to industrial prospects in the past the team recommended that the local development committee in Beattyville make a special effort to advertise the availability of the facility by placing advertisements in a Cincinnati paper. The local group approved this recommendation and appropriated the money for the ad.

In other action, team member Art Crowe of the L & N Railroad pointed out the availability of good rail transportation was an asset for the city to emphasize when talking to industrial prospects.

Also discussed was the tourism potential of the area with the possible development of a recreational lake near the city. Past studies have shown this to be a feasible project for the city, Nutter said.

He said, in addition to the recreational aspect of the lake, additional benefits to the city would be derived from the creation of a new road across the dam which would help alleviate traffic bottlenecks on Highway 11. Additionally, the lake would provide the city with an excellent source of water for industrial use, drinking water and fire protection.

Secretary for Development William L. Short addressed members of the Kentucky River District Development Fund, Inc., and members of the community following the advisory team's visit to the city.

The fund is a group comprising 10 district banks in the area which have pooled funds to be made available for loans for industrial development.

Other team members who participated in the meeting in Beattyville included Jack Hoover, executive director of the Kentucky Industrial Development Finance Authority; Russ Sloane, Kentucky Utilities; James Coleman, Industrial Development Director for Eastern Kentucky Rural Electric Cooperative Corp.; Gene Cline, Commerce representative for Eastern Kentucky; and Tom Fields, director of the Industrial Development Division of the Department of Commerce.

Sales of Decals At Slow Pace

State and county officials are beginning to express growing concern over the slow pace at which many automobile owners are buying the new Kentucky 1976 license decals.

"The last minute lines of the past will be nothing compared to what we may see this March if sales don't pick up soon," said State Transportation Secretary John C. Roberts.

Midnight, March 1 is the deadline for buying the decals which are to serve in lieu of issuing new metal tags for 1976. The decal is to be displayed on the lower, right-hand corner of the old 1975 plate. According to Roberts, "There currently is no plan to extend the deadline for getting those decals."

Roberts said he believed that the lagging decal sales could be explained, at least partly by public forgetfulness.

"In years past, we all were reminded that it was time to get our plates simply by seeing the new colored plate on other cars around us. This year, however, the old, blue (1975) plate is not being changed. The only difference is that small, silver decal in the lower, right-hand corner of the 1975 plate," he said.

Kentucky formerly alternated blue-on-white, white-on-blue color schemes from year to year on the metal license tags.

At least six county clerk offices across the state also echoed Roberts' concern about lagging decal sales.

Floyd County Clerk C. "Ollie" Robinson said decal sales are badly lagging here.

Fayette county officials said they were 9,000 sales behind last year's pace—"maybe more," said a spokesman, "no one's coming in." In Warren county, another spokesman reported that they also were "way behind," possibly as many as 5,000.

Officials in Jessamine, Kenton, Henderson and Pulaski counties also said they were running far behind in the number of the decals sold thus far this year, as compared to plate sales one year ago.

Of eight counties contacted, only Franklin and Pike counties reported sales "about the same as last year."

Heart Disease Major Killer in Kentucky

Nearly 19,800 residents of Kentucky will die of heart and blood vessel diseases in 1976, according to statistics from the American Heart Association. This number represents 56 percent of the state's estimated total of 35,500 deaths from all causes this year.

In February, American Heart Month, the nationwide Heart Fund campaign will be conducted to educate the American public about the nation's number one killers—heart and blood vessel diseases.

These diseases will kill more than a million Americans this year. Early diagnosis and treatment can reduce the incidence of heart attack and stroke, the two major cardiovascular diseases. Knowing their early warning signs and risk factors can save lives.

During February, volunteers from Floyd County will visit residents to distribute heart-saving information and collect Heart Fund dollars to help your heart.

A groundhog's natural life span is usually four to seven years.

Murder Suspects Face Grand Jury

Columbus, Ind.—Three persons accused of killing a Louisville man in Indiana will face a grand jury in Jackson county. A grand jury has decided that the man the trio is accused of killing did not die in Bartholomew county.

The jury said the alleged murder of John Simmons Jr., 46, took place in Jackson county.

The jury said it found that Simmons was strangled in his truck while en route to Indianapolis and then dumped in Bartholomew county along Interstate 65 near Columbus.

James Amburgey, 34, and David Jacobs, 26, both of Pippa Passes, Ky., and Glenna Fay Shepherd, 17, Gunlock, Ky., are being held without bond.

Amburgey is alleged to have strangled Simmons after he talked the victim into giving the trio a ride from Louisville to Indianapolis.

Jacobs turned himself in to Indianapolis police and the other two suspects were arrested as they slept in the Indianapolis bus station, authorities said.

Consumer Comments

By ROBERT F. STEPHENS (Attorney General)

Frankfort, Ky.—April 15th draws nearer, with consumers preparing and filing their income tax returns.

Many consumers will have a tax practitioner complete their forms. But regardless of who completes your tax return, remember that you are responsible for your taxes being completed correctly. Here are some practices of which you should be aware.

A tax practitioner may suggest discounting your refund. This is an arrangement where the consumer signs a legal document agreeing that the practitioner will receive the income tax refund and give the consumer a percentage upon filing. While this practice is not illegal, it does mean that the consumer is not receiving the total amount due him.

Be wary also of tax practitioners who guarantee a refund. Remember, you are liable for any inaccuracies in your tax report.

If your form is audited, you should be able to personally justify the deductions and all other information.

Do not sign a blank income tax return and leave it for the tax practitioner to complete and mail to the Internal Revenue Service. To insure that your income tax form is complete—review the final document for accuracy, then sign and mail it.

Check the reputation of tax practitioners before you do business with them. Ask friends and neighbors if they have been satisfied with their services. Make sure your taxes are done by someone in whom you have confidence.

If you have specific questions about income tax preparation, don't forget that the Internal Revenue Service provides a toll-free number to call in Kentucky. The number is 1-800-292-6570. Also, the IRS will provide you with the free publication, "Your Federal Income Tax" to help answer your tax questions. Contact the IRS office for this guide.

If you have a consumer complaint write to the Attorney General's Division of Consumer Protection, Room 34, Capitol Building, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

Relief Funds Needed For Quake Victims

The American Red Cross has sent a contribution of $100,000 to the League of Red Cross Societies for relief of victims following the catastrophic earthquakes in Central America.

In making the announcement, George M. Eley, president of the American Red Cross, stated that the League indicated most emergency items are available in the stricken areas. He said the greatest need is for funds to purchase local supplies and to offset transportation and operational costs.

Immediate aid both in kind and in personnel is already at the disaster location from the Red Cross Societies of Costa Rica, Honduras, Mexico, Nicaragua, Panama, El Salvador and the United States. These teams are distributing beans, powdered milk and corn meal to the disaster victims.

The Red Cross recommends that persons wishing to help the relief efforts send cash contributions, earmarked for Central America Earthquake Relief to their local Red Cross Chapters.

For the 48 states, barley acreage is expected to total 9.5 million acres, virtually unchanged from 1975.

Jehovah's Witnesses Slate Special Week

James C. Hall, circuit supervisor for Jehovah's Witnesses, will be making his semi-annual visit to the Allen congregation, February 24-29. This will be a special week of activity in which the growth to spiritual maturity will be emphasized. The visit was described by William Wells, local presiding minister, as part of an advanced training program of Jehovah's Witnesses. "Also, through his visit, we hope to encourage families of all religions, or none at all for that matter, to study the Bible," he stated. The program is slated to begin Tuesday, Feb. 24, at 7 p.m. at the local Kingdom Hall.

This particular meeting centers around family togetherness. The Witnesses, along with Mr. Hall, will spend time during the week calling on homes in the community as part of their regular field missionary work. This work is done by Jehovah's Witnesses throughout the earth in over 210 lands. The purpose is to declare Jehovah's Kingdom as man's only hope. The regular congregation meeting, which provides ministerial training, will be held Tuesday evening at 7. Thursday evening at 6:30, a special Bible question period, "New Things Learned", will be discussed by the local congregation with Mr. Hall. Highlight of the week will come on Sunday at 10 a.m., when Mr. Hall will deliver the public discourse, entitled "God Prospers The Subjects of His Kingdom". This will be accompanied by colored slides. After the congregation Bible study, using the Watchtower magazine, Mr. Hall will bring the week's activity to a close encouraging the Witnesses to continue their worship to Jehovah, the God of the Bible. An invitation is extended to all interested persons to attend the meetings held at the Kingdom Hall, located on old Rt. 23 at the Mouth of Cow Creek.

Pike Plant Plans Announced by Evans

Sam Evans, board chairman of Coal Processing Equipment, Inc., of Pikeville, announced last week that General Molded Products, Inc., of which he is a major stockholder, intends to establish a modern manufacturing facility in Pike county.

A spokesman for the manufacturer of a wide range of plastic products for the building and construction industry said the company expects to employ approximately 100 persons during the first 18 months of operation.

Negotiations are presently under way to procure a site for construction of the 25,000 square foot facility. Future plans call for an additional 25,000 square feet during the second year of operation, plus an additional 100 employees. Initial production is scheduled to be under way within the next 90 days, Mr. Evans said.

Group Claims It Is Denied Voice in Health Agency

A citizens group has begun action to gain a voice in the Eastern Kentucky Health Systems Agency (EKHSA) which is scheduled to take over health planning this summer in the eastern half of Kentucky, and is now preparing for the installation tomorrow (Thursday) of its governing board.

Called the Eastern Kentucky Citizens for Better Health Care, the dissident group is composed of members of the Floyd County Citizens Association, the United Mine Workers, the Black Lung Association, the Knox County Economic Opportunity Council as well as others, primarily mountain residents.

The group has formulated a proposal that they feel would allow "true public participation" in the decision-making process of the non-profit health-planning corporation. EKHSA, which was tentatively formed pending federal approval by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW). In a press release, the citizens' group proposes that the EKHSA governing board "include representatives of the United Mine Workers, the Black Lung Association and at least three members whose income falls below federal poverty guidelines."

Although the 1974 Health Planning and Resources Act that revamped health planning across the country and created EKHSA in its massive health care restructuring "attempted to provide for grass roots citizen participation", the press release continues, the EKHSA has failed to allow this.

EKHSA, "contrary to the intent of the legislation that formed it, is not representative of the needs and problems of the vast majority of people in Eastern Kentucky," the release claims. The EKHSA "has failed to properly inform the public about their functions and has systematically excluded private citizens, particularly those from low-income groups, from having any input into their organization," according to the press release.

Other objections voiced by residents in the EKHSA region focus on the facts that none of the people involved in selecting or electing members for the governing board were themselves democratically elected; that the EKHSA will be located in Winchester, outside the coal fields, and that board members from the mountains will be outnumbered 10 to 18 by representatives from the foothills and flatlands.

"We're mountain people and they're (most of EKHSA officials) flatlanders," said Julius Mullins, secretary-treasurer of UMW District 30, who supports the citizens' group proposal for low-income and miner representation on the board. "Most of the people in the agency aren't going to know what black lung is or what should be done about it," he said.

East Kentucky Health Systems Agency Inc., a non-profit, private corporation, was formed as the direct result of the passage of The National Health Planning and Resources Development Act of 1974, (P.L. 93-641). The Agency, if designated by HEW, will be responsible for health planning, development and implementation. The future provision of health services will be greatly affected as a result of the decisions made by this agency.

During the past year, open meetings have been conducted, news releases have been printed, radio, TV shows have been aired, and public hearings have been scheduled to inform and involve the public in the development of the agency and its organizational structure. Articles of incorporation have been filed with the state, bylaws have been approved, and the application to HEW for designation, as an official health systems agency, is being prepared.

According to the law, the application will be available for public inspection, 30 days prior to submission, and review and comments will be heard at a public hearing during that period.

Any person interested in membership in the EKHSA may make application by filling out the required form which can be obtained through Big Sandy Comprehensive Health Planning office (404 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653, Telephone-886-6869), or by writing to EKHSA, Box 531, Winchester, Ky., or by making application at the annual meeting.

Local participation in the decision-making process is the basic philosophy of the organization, leaders claim. The annual meeting is open to all.

Council To Help Form Perry Group

Members of the Jenny Wiley Council will go to Perry county Feb. 23 to assist Hazard Community College personnel in establishing a branch of the International Reading Association in that area.

Marcia Blandau, learning lab co-ordinator, has informed Council President Nadine Hicks that educators in and around Hazard have been invited to the organizational meeting at the college at 7 p.m., Feb. 23.

The Jenny Wiley Council, the local chapter of IRA, includes the counties of Floyd, Pike, Magoffin, Martin and Knott and was organized in 1971 to encourage and promote the improvement of reading and reading instruction. To accomplish this aim the council has sponsored many activities such as the presentation of informative speakers, county fair displays, and mini-workshops designed to construct simple reading supplementary aids. Council members have also taught speed reading and reading comprehension classes as a community service, and assisted ROPES XI personnel in teacher in-service activities. One of 17 reading councils in Kentucky, the Jenny Wiley Council has been awarded the Annual Achievement Award Kentucky State Council of IRA, each year since its inception.

Ninety-five persons died by drowning in Kentucky during the first half of 1975. Twenty-three of those fatalities occurred in boat-related activities. The 12-month toll for 1974 was 150.

Deskins Bill Would Let Counties Impose Coal Franchise Tax

A bill intended as an economic "shot in the arm" for Kentucky's coal producing counties has been introduced in the House of Representatives by Herbert Deskins Jr., (D) Pikeville.

House Bill 494 would allow any county's fiscal court to levy a franchise tax on coal processed in that county. The minimum rate of tax would be 10 cents per ton with a maximum rate of one percent of the gross value of the coal processed during the reporting period.

Pike county's fiscal court levied such a tax but its validity has not yet been decided by the Kentucky Court of Appeals. The bill would also allow a coal producer to deduct his local franchise tax payments from the state severance tax assessment.

The Nicholas County Historical Society will publish in July, 1976 a history of the county, including discoveries and development of Blue Lick Springs as a fashionable resort. Mrs. Joseph Conley, editor of The Carlisle Mercury, is author of the history.

By LARRY BURKE

There is an often used word in the English language—"Convictions". We say it is something a person possesses when they stand up for a truth—or a fallacy.

All the great movements in the world have their birth in profound convictions—whether they be good or bad. Adolph Hitler strongly believed in his course. George Washington believed in his country. In other words these two, but opposite individuals, had strong convictions. Hitler's dream failed—Washington's dream is as real today as it was 200 years ago.

If you persuade your neighbor, you must be persuaded yourself. If you are to possess noble convictions and you expect to move the world—be sure of your facts and the underlying principals. Your convictions must be clear, definite and certain. When dreams fail—it usually begins at their foundation.

Project Underway To Meet Clean-Water Requirements

Frankfort, Ky.—One of the largest coordination efforts in the history of Kentucky's water pollution control effort has begun—the result of a Supreme Court ruling handed down this fall.

The result will be the collection of information about water quality throughout the state, the working out of budgetary, regulatory and enforcement procedures for localities to clean up their water and the implementation of those clean-water plans.

Implementation of the plans is the key difference between what the state had to do before the Supreme Court ruling and what must be done now.

The Supreme Court decision indicated that the entire state should come under control of section 208 of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act. As a result of that decision, last Nov. 28, the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency adopted regulations requiring each state to implement the provisions of section 208 by November 1978.

Briefly, section 208 requires each state to implement detailed plans for water pollution control. According to the original interpretation of section 208, that was required only for areas with complex water quality problems—generally urban industrial areas. Those areas were designated by the governors of each state.

Former Gov. Wendell Ford designated Louisville and northern Kentucky as such areas. That was to take two years after grants were awarded by EPA. The northern Kentucky project should be finished in a year. The Louisville project should be complete in one-and-a-half to two years.

Now, though, the state must also produce detailed plans and implementation procedures for the non-designated areas of the state. To do that, the division of water quality in the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection is combining information from studies done by the division and other agencies.

State Idle Rate Up for January

Frankfort, Ky.—Kentucky's January jobless rate was 7.9 per cent, up from December's rate of 7.7 per cent, according to statistics released by the Department for Human Resources.

The nation's unadjusted jobless rate for January was 8.8 per cent. "We're starting out with the highest first of the year unemployment since January, 1964," said Robert MacDonald, chief labor market analyst for Human Resources. At that time the jobless rate was 9.5 per cent.

When the recession had just begun affecting Kentucky last January, the unemployment rate was 7.2 per cent, said MacDonald.

This January's rate means that 117,000 Kentuckians are unemployed—an increase of 2,800 since December, and an increase of 13,700 since last January.

MacDonald attributed most of January's increased unemployment to layoffs, particularly in construction, trade and service industries. The layoffs, in part due to seasonal factors, are for the most part caused by the present economic conditions, he said.

Seven High Schools Participate

Prestonsburg Community College was the scene Jan. 30 of the finest chess competition for high school students ever held in the Big Sandy area.

Represented were chess teams from Russell High School, Knott County Central High School, Allen Central High School, Wheelwright High School, Prestonsburg High School, Pikeville High School, and Belfry High School. The tournament was sponsored by the Prestonsburg Community College Chess Society. Greg Wells, a sophomore from Prestonsburg, is the president of the organization and Prof. John D. Sammons is the faculty sponsor.

A double elimination bracket system of play was used to recognize both individual and team winners. The individual winners were: Tim Lemaster, Russell High School, first place, receiving a $75 savings bond; Joe May, Russell High School, second place, $50 savings bond; and Robert Sheldon, Pikeville High School, third place, $25 savings bond.

The team winners were Russell High School, first; Allen Central High School, second, and Knott Central High School, third. Each of these three teams received a plaque reflective of the position in which they finished the tournament.

Studies conducted by the U. S. Department of Labor and private industries indicate that learning ability does not decline significantly with age and that the ability to learn at ages 50 and 60 is about equal to that at age 16.

Local Educators At National Meet

Four members of the Jenny Wiley Council of the International Reading Association will be participants at the fourth Southeast Regional Conference of the International Reading Association in Jacksonville, Florida, February 18-21.

The group will exhibit teacher-made materials at the Jacksonville Civic Auditorium Exhibition Hall, February 20. Later in the afternoon, they will join with other distinguished teachers at the Robert Meyer Hotel to answer questions and for a discussion period with conference attendees.

The Floyd county group will also be viewing an innovative program from Tallahassee and attending sessions on the teaching of reading. The conference theme for this year is, "Read To Learn: Live: Lead".

Teachers representing the Jenny Wiley Council are Bertha Ratliff, McDowell; Lexie Allen, Maytown; Nadine Hicks and Delphia Hicks, both from Clark Elementary. All are remedial reading teachers in their respective schools.

This group of teachers was chosen to go to Florida by Dorothy Jones, president of the Kentucky State Council, because of their outstanding contribution to both local and state councils.

ITEMIZING DEDUCTIONS

QUESTION: My wife and I had a joint income of $17,000 last year. Our deductions including contributions, interest, taxes and medical expenses, totaled $2,250. Would it benefit us to itemize this year?

ANSWER: Since the standard deduction in your case would be $2,600 it would be to your advantage to itemize your deductions only if they exceed that amount. However, since you already have $2,250 it may benefit you to have your deductions reviewed by a competent tax preparer to see if you might have any additional items such as educational and child care expenses, union dues, alimony, tax return preparation fee, or income production expenses. Then if you total deductions exceeds $2,600, it would be to your advantage to itemize.

Accepts District Forestry Award

Mr. Akers received the Eastern District Tom Wallace Forestry Award in recognition of outstanding forest management practices.

The Tom Wallace Forestry contest is an annual event sponsored by the Louisville Courier-Journal. Private forestland owners throughout Kentucky and southern Indiana are nominated by professional foresters who have assisted the landowners in planning and carrying out proper forest management practices on their woodland areas. David Johnson, prepared a forest management plan for Mr. Akers which included timberstand improvement on three acres of shortleaf pine which had been planted previously. Pruning of young black walnut to produce higher quality lumber in the future was also recommended.

Mr. Akers carried out these forestry practices under the Forestry Incentive Program which provides cost-sharing of 75 percent of the cost of getting the work done up to $35 per acre for timberstand improvement. With cost-share incentives and landowners such as Mr. Akers who realize the multiple benefits gained by sound forest management practices, a better natural environment can be attained for the enjoyment of all, a Forestry Division spokesman said.

"Not only can better quality and faster growing timber be produced, but proper forest management also provides watershed protection, food and cover for wildlife, and suitable outdoor recreation areas."

EPA Issues Recall Of Insecticide

The U. S. Environmental Protection Agency has issued a recall of Cythion 5EC Insecticide—The Premium Grade Malathion, which is manufactured by Coastal Chemical Corp. of Greenville, North Carolina. All lots of the product coded "L430702" are included in the recall.

According to EPA, the sample product coded "L430702" was tested and found to be contaminated with Chlordane. EPA said the use of this adulterated product may cause illegal residues of Chlordane in wheat, oats, rice, rye, barley, grass, livestock and poultry. There is no tolerance for Chlordane on those commodities.

According to the pesticide control agency within the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, the recalled product is not registered for sale in Kentucky. However, anyone who has purchased it from another state and brought it into Kentucky should return it to the point of purchase.

Mrs. Johnson Named Easter Seal Chairman

Mrs. Helena Johnson, of Prestonsburg, has been named chairman of the 1976 Easter Seal Campaign for Floyd county, according to Bert Combs, Louisville, state campaign chairman.

The annual appeal will begin March 1 and continue through Easter Sunday, April 18.

Contributions to the annual campaign will be used by the Kentucky Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults to provide care and treatment for physically handicapped Kentuckians throughout the state.

2-11-21.

Summertime Work Seen For Youth Conservation Corps

Young Kentuckians interested in conserving the state's natural environment may have an opportunity to do so this summer through the Youth Conservation Corps (YCC).

Secretary C. Leslie Dawson of the Department for Human Resources (DHR) said his department, on the request of Gov. Julian Carroll, has applied for a federal grant of over $445,000 to operate the YCC program statewide this summer.

Funded jointly by the U. S. Departments of the Interior and Agriculture, the program aims at developing an interest in the conservation of natural resources while providing gainful employment for young men and women between the ages of 15 and 18.

Workers spend six hours of each work day in beautification or conservation work and the remaining two hours in environmental education classes. All are paid the minimum wage.

"The hope of the program is to develop an appreciation and understanding of our nation's beauty and heritage while providing a means of earning income during the summer months," Dawson said.

The program has operated on a pilot basis nationally since 1970 and Congress recently granted it permanent status.

The success of the 19 YCC projects in Kentucky last summer has drawn 55 applicants this year. Dawson said, "We are anticipating approval of our requests for these funds since we have had good performance ratings in our previous projects."

Med Board Reviews Drivers' Illnesses

Frankfort, Ky.—The young woman needed her car. "I don't have any other way to get around," she said, a note of panic edging in her voice.

Clutched in her hand was a letter from the state's driver licensing division stating that the Kentucky Medical Review Board—"Who are they?", she wanted to know—had been asked for a recommendation as to whether she would be allowed to continue driving.

Only a few weeks earlier, a routine physical examination had revealed that she had diabetes. The diagnosis was serious. A prescription for daily dosages of an oral medication had been ordered. But that, she already knew.

What she hadn't known—until receiving the letter—was that the diagnosis also brought her to the attention of driver licensing officials in the Kentucky Department of Transportation who are charged with administering a relatively little-known program called Driver Limitation.

Created more than 10 years ago, the program was established to help the state identify drivers and applicants for drivers licenses, with mental or physical infirmities that might dangerously impair their ability to operate a motor vehicle safely.

The case of the young woman cited above illustrates much of the public misunderstanding which still surrounds both the program and the laws that created it, say State Transportation Secretary John C. Roberts and his driver licensing director, Eugene Hodges.

"Many people still jump to the conclusion that their license is about to be taken away from them," said Roberts, "when, in truth, only about 15 per cent of the 40 or so cases reviewed monthly ever result in actual revocation."

"For example," said Hodges, "nearly everyone is familiar with the requirement that drivers with less than normal vision must wear corrective glasses or contact lenses when driving an automobile. They also are familiar with the fact that restrictions must be entered on the reverse side of the person's driver's license."

"The misunderstanding sets in, along with the fear that the license is in jeopardy, when it is determined that a driver suffers from some of the more serious maladies, such as the onset of diabetes in the case of our young lady driver," Hodges explained.

Diabetes and epilepsy account for the vast majority of the cases referred to the driver limitation program. Other maladies include stroke and heart cases, and sight and hearing problems.

And that's where the medical review board enters the picture.

Made up of a panel of medical specialists and general practitioners appointed by Dr. William P. McElwain, commissioner of the state's Bureau for Health Services, the board meets once a month at Frankfort to review each case referred to Hodges' office for a licensing determination.

"Safety is our criterion," said Hodges, "but we are not doctors, and the guidance given us by the review board is absolutely essential if we are to reach the right decision in each case."

The law establishing the review board guarantees complete privacy to its deliberations and confidentially for the records under review.

Generally, the board may recommend either revocation or restriction of certain driving activities. Sometimes, however, the law decides the case for them.

Revocation is mandatory where a motorist has actually suffered a blackout or seizure, Hodges said. However, the license may later be restored if the driver has no seizure or blackout for one year.

Many diabetics and epileptics are driving legally in Kentucky right now, said Hodges, because they haven't suffered any seizures or blackouts within the past 12 months and are taking a medication which keeps their infirmity under good control.

In some cases, cooperation is so complete that epileptic patients themselves have reported their seizures and accepted the revocations. Once the license is restored, the person's on-going records from a physician are re-evaluated on a regular basis by the review board.

The licensing division also receives frequent requests from concerned relatives to revoke or restrict the driving privileges of elderly family members. However, Hodges said, "we do not discriminate on the basis of age. A specific medical condition must be cited since approaching old age does not automatically mean a lessening of driving skills."

He added that all such communications must be in writing and are kept confidential.
