$146,000 Telephone Project At Allen Nearing Completion

Western Electric installers connect additional switching equipment needed to handle telephone growth in Allen exchange.

Construction of South Central Bell's Dyer Street building in Allen is nearing completion.

The $146,000 project, which began last March, involves construction of a 24-foot addition to the rear of the existing building to make room for additional switching equipment.

"There has been a steady increase of telephone users in the Allen area," Art Willett, local telephone company manager, said. "In 1966, there were 732 telephones in Allen; today, there are more than 1,700.

"The building addition is now complete," said Willett, "and Western Electric installers are connecting the central office equipment which will provide a means to handle the present telephone needs, while preparing for future telephone growth," Willett said.

A hearing on election fraud suits filed by the Democratic and Republican opponents for Johnson county judge was continued last Thursday until Nov. 29.

Republican candidate, Wayne Blevins, who lost the election, also asked a suit he had filed, asking a recount, against Democrat James Witten, the apparent winner, be dismissed.

Johnson Circuit Judge W. B. Hazelrigg, in granting the dismissal said later the suit was dismissed because "in an election . . . three hundred precinct votes can't be thrown out because 10 people didn't sign the registration books."

Blevins, in the dismissed complaint, had charged more votes were tabulated in some precincts than there were registered voters.

Blevins' attorney is to present his case on Nov. 29 when the hearing resumes. Witten's lawyer, J. K. Wells, will present Witten's case, beginning Dec. 10 or possibly earlier.

With the dismissal of one of Blevins' complaints, lawyers for both sides will not now be attempting to prove the same charge against both candidates "buying votes with whiskey and money," Hazelrigg said.

The judge added later that both attorneys must prove Witten and Blevins "had knowledge" of any alleged attempts to influence voting.

Johns Creek Road Closing Threatened If Dust Not Allayed

Johnson County Judge James C. Witten last week warned coal truckers who use the lower Johns Creek road that failure to live up to their commitments may mean closing of the road to all truck traffic until the situation is corrected.

He referred to "hazards to public safety" created by a dust problem on the heavily travelled road which has only a gravel surface.

Coal men had earlier agreed to control the dust through the application of either water or oil to the surface. In a letter to all operators and truckers Judge Witten wrote:

"To keep faith with the residents along this heavily traveled road and to avoid any possible hazards to school buses and passenger vehicles, it is my intention to see that either the dust on this road is kept to a minimum or there will be no truck traffic allowed."

Festival of Faith Climax Set Nov. 22; Graham To Speak

Frankfort, Ky.—Kentucky's Bicentennial Festival of Faith, a celebration begun by Gov. Julian Carroll in August, will climax Nov. 22 in Louisville with an ecumenical service featuring Rev. Billy Graham as speaker.

Also on the program, scheduled to begin at 7:30 at the state Fair and Exposition Center, is music of the Roman Catholic, Jewish, and Protestant faiths, as well as congregational singing.

Although all tickets for the program have been distributed, there may still be seats available, according to Rev. Bob Brown, chairman of the 23-member Bicentennial Prayer Committee. Those without tickets will be seated at 7:15 on a first come, first served basis, Rev. Brown said.

Doors for the program will open at 5:30.

Fiscal Court Levy Of Sales Tax Void

Frankfort, Ky.—A sales tax cannot constitutionally be levied by a county, according to an opinion by the office of the Kentucky Attorney General.

Assistant Deputy Attorney General Charles W. Runyan issued the opinion in reply to an inquiry by Tom Scheffey, of the Frankfort bureau of the Kentucky Post, who questioned the constitutionality of a northern Kentucky fiscal court levying a sales tax to support a mass transit program there.

Runyan cited a Kentucky Court of Appeals decision in Driver vs. Sawyer (1965), in which it was made clear that a county can levy only two kinds of taxes—ad valorem taxes (on property) and occupational taxes.

Give Hospital Dialysis Machine

Mrs. Oscar C. Sowards, of Lexington, treasurer and president-elect of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, gave the dedication address at the Highland Regional Medical Center here Sunday afternoon, Nov. 14, when the kidney dialysis machine was given to the hospital by the Pikeville Woman's Club, Inc., the Pikeville Junior Woman's Club and the Elkhorn City Area Woman's Club. The machine was procured by the collection of S&H Green Stamps, and some stamps were received from as far away as California, Florida and New York.

In her talk Mrs. Sowards talk told of the work of volunteers and their worth to the community. Dr. Mary Pauline Fox, president of the Pikeville Club, was master of ceremonies and introduced Mrs. Sowards. The invocation was given by the Rev. Virgil Fryman, pastor of the Pikeville United Methodist Church.

Dr. Fox introduced Chalmer H. Frazier, president of the hospital; Lester Rankin, hospital administrator, and Dr. John W. Sutherland, who with Dr. James Cox will administer the dialysis program. All expressed their appreciation for the gift of the unit. She also introduced Mary Edna Branch, regional consumer relations manager, the Sperry and Hutchinson Company, Atlanta, Ga.

Miss Lena T. Porter, chairman of the project, presented a check to Mr. Rankin toward the purchase of the unit. She also presented a framed painting by Robert Burns Wilson, which was a gift from Mr. and Mrs. Ralph May, Wytheville, Va., and Miss Porter.

Floyd Savings Bond Sales, 82% of Goal

Miss Burieta Gearheart, volunteer chairman for Floyd county, reports that sales of Series E and H Savings Bonds in this county amounted to $33,993 in September, bringing the county to 85.2 percent of its goal for 1976. Total sales as of Sept. 30 for the year were $339,660.

Over the state, sales amounted to $7,445,229 in September. Nationwide, total sales for the first nine months were $5.7 billion (7 pct. above a year ago).

Holdings of Series E and H Bonds reached $70,752 million as of September 30, 1976. Including Freedom Shares, holdings totaled over $71 billion, which is nearly 1-5th of the privately-held portion of the public debt.

Ballard, Larue, Lee, Martin, Monroe, Montgomery, Morgan and Owsley counties have already exceeded their annual goals.

THE COMPREHENSIVE Employment and Training Act (CETA) followed 12 years of national involvement in developing and operating programs offering a variety of training, employment and related services for unemployed and underemployed persons, according to the 1976 Employment and Training Report of the President.

Judicial Article, Main Target For Special Legislative Session

Implementation of the state's new Judicial Article will be the main topic in the Kentucky General Assembly's special session, expected to be called by Gov. Julian Carroll this week and to begin next Monday.

The article, an amendment to the Kentucky Constitution approved by voters last November, replaced a combination of state and local courts with a unified court system. The new four-tiered structure reforms a court system which had existed in Kentucky since 1891.

The article established a Kentucky Supreme Court, restructured the Court of Appeals and maintained the circuit courts. This part of the reform became effective last Jan. 1. The article is to be fully implemented Jan. 1, 1978, when new district courts are to become operative. Legislators are to set up machinery for the district courts and work out details for circuit court operation during the special session. More than 100 specific issues relating to the district and circuit courts have been pinpointed for consideration.

Among other matters, legislators must determine the number, distribution and location of new district courts, as well as the number of district judges who will assume duties now performed by county, quarterly, magisterial and police court judges.

The judicial reform article calls for a minimum of 56 district judges, one in each judicial circuit. Legislators will decide how many judges each county is to receive and whether each county is to receive a district judge.

In addition, the General Assembly must address the related issue of the number and salaries of trial commissioners who could assume some responsibilities of district judges and could be paid less than district judges. The judicial article requires the Supreme Court to define the authority and duties of trial commissioners, who do not have to be lawyers.

Another court-related issue that will confront legislators in the special session is establishment of a fee system for the new courts to assure that they will be substantially self-supporting. (The new system will cost about $34.7 million by July 1, 1978, according to one estimate of the Administrative Office of the Courts.) Currently, filing fees differ from county to county. The administrative Office of the Courts set up by the 1976 General Assembly has proposed a uniform filing fee.

The article requires that the state pay for the new court system, and Gov. Carroll has promised that no cities or counties will lose revenue when local courts are replaced by district courts. So, another task of the legislature will be to decide how local governments will be compensated for any loss of court revenue.

City and county courts have been financed through fines, fees and forfeitures collected by the local courts, and excesses have gone into local treasuries as general revenue.

Check Toy List Twice for a Safe Christmas

By ROBERT F. STEPHENS (Attorney General)

The Christmas season is quickly approaching and many people will be buying toys. To insure that your family has a safe Christmas, check all toys to make sure that they cannot hurt your child.

There are toys with obvious hazards, like dart games, but there are also many unsafe toys that might not appear so hazardous at first glance. To be sure, ask yourself six basic questions when you shop for toys:

1. Are there any detachable parts which could easily fall off or be taken off, and then caught in the throat, ear or nose, or swallowed?
2. Is this toy marked "flame resistant", "flame retardant", or "non-flammable"? Is it washable? Look for these labels on dolls and stuffed toys, especially.
3. Is the toy appropriate for the child's age? A chemistry set may be fine for an older child, but remember that younger children in the home may injure themselves on an older child's toy. To be safe, heed the minimum ages recommended by manufacturers.

4. Is the toy made of a substance that will splinter or shatter easily? Try to buy flexibly constructed toys, with smooth, rolled edges. Sharp points could cause punctures, so avoid toys made with nails, staples, pins, or wires.

5. Are there non-toxic labels on any art supplies or painted toys?

6. Finally, beware of electric toys which are terribly noisy and could cause ear damage.

If toys have directions for children, make sure that they are easy to read and understand. If necessary, explain or demonstrate how to use a toy properly.

Teach children how to disconnect electrical toys: show them how to hold on the rubberized plug and pull, without tugging on the cord.

And just because a toy was in good condition when you bought it, don't forget to check toys periodically for breaks, jagged edges, loose parts, or deterioration.

Should you have questions about the safety of any particular toy or discover that one appears to be hazardous, contact Edsel Moore, Kentucky Product Safety Program, Department for Human Resources, 275 E. Main, Frankfort, Ky., 40601. The Product Safety Program investigates products which are hazardous, unsafe, or defective in their design, construction or composition. The Product Safety Program will be glad to answer questions about any toy you are considering purchasing.

If you have a consumer complaint, write to the Attorney General's Division of Consumer Protection, Frankfort, Ky. 40601. The office has found that it can most effectively deal with written complaints and encourages you to write when you have a complaint. However, if you have an emergency situation, call the Consumer Hotline. The number is 1-800-3y2-2960.

State Securities Division Told Of 'Advance Fee' Loan Racket

Frankfort, Ky.—Another fraudulent "easy money" scheme, known as the "advance fee racket" or "front-end loan device," has been brought to the attention of the state Division of Securities.

Difficult financial conditions encountered by businesses recently have led businessmen to use other-than-normal methods to obtain capital for new or expanded operations.

Under the "front-end loan" plan, the businessman is told that for a fee, usually between five and 10 per cent of the value of the loan, he can secure the funds from another source.

The source, usually unidentified, is described in a way that is alluring to the businessman.

Tactics frequently employed by the "money broker," the term used to refer to the person offering to arrange the loan, include descriptions of the anonymous source as either a wealthy individual, a foreign capital source of an off-shore bank.

The money broker will also use a "name-dropping" technique in his appeal. He will provide the businessman with a list of prominent businesses, claiming he has secured the funds for these enterprises, as evidence of his success in securing loans.

After payment of the fee, the business-victim receives promise after promise for the delivery of the cash. After several months, the money broker will either disappear or claim he has been defrauded by the anonymous source.

By this time, the businessman has lost his last available cash, the money he used to pay the broker's fee, and has lost the time necessary to find a legitimate funding source or an alternative financial approach.

Unfortunately, in many cases, the victim is so embarrassed by his gullibility that he will not complain to the proper authorities.

James Strode, attorney for the division, said it is difficult to obtain an indictment even when complaints are made.

"The charge, theft by deception, is very difficult to prove because the question remains as to what extent the money broker must go to secure the loan," Strode said.

According to Securities Director Jack Bunnell, the division has received several inquiries concerning this type of operation in Kentucky.

Bunnell said the money brokers generally make their appeals through newspaper advertisements, using the classified section most frequently.

"Hot Line to Money" or "Unlimited Funds Available" are two of the phrases often used in the appeal for loans involving first or second mortgages on real estate, venture capital or business loans.

Both Bunnell and Strode advised a "hands-off" policy toward the advance fee scheme but added that anyone already involved in this kind of deal should contact the division.

Moon Group At Hazard

By DON GIPSON (In The Hazard Herald)

HAZARD, Ky.—There's a knock on the door. When you answer it you find a smiling youth wanting to sell you flowers or some candy for a religious youth movement in the Unification Church. Being the open, loving person that most people in Hazard are, you probably give him or her whatever loose change you have in your pocket. They thank you; they leave; you close the door and go about life as usual.

But what do they do? What kind of youth movement is it? And, most important of all, where does the money go?

If this scene took place at your house recently chances are your donations will never make it to a youth movement, instead the money will be channeled to Rev. Sun Myung Moon's Unification Church, whose headquarters are in New York. Moon and his family live in a 25-room mansion in New York's Westchester County and the church's national budget exceeds $11 million dollars.

Rev. Moon himself is a multi-millionaire in Korean industry, with industries in stone vases, tea, pharmaceuticals, air rifles, concrete and machine parts valued at $15 million.

Nevertheless, Moon preaches antimaterialism in his speeches.

There have been rumors of incidents in our city. The concern of focal groups such as the Hazard-Perry County Ministerial Association and the Walkertown-Lothair PTA are alarmed enough for the responsible citizens of our community to take heed and protect our young from this man and his movement.

Motor Fuel Use Drops 3rd Year

Frankfort, Ky.—For the third straight year since the 1973 energy crisis, the Kentucky Department of Transportation is reporting a significant decline in its annual motor fuel consumption rate.

According to State Transportation Secretary John C. Roberts, current figures indicate that the department's usage of gasoline and diesel fuel is not expected to exceed six million gallons for 1976—or 13 per cent fewer gallons than were consumed during 1973, the year the energy crisis began.

In 1975, the combined gasoline-diesel fuel consumption figure was eight per cent below the 1973 figure. In 1974, it was 15 per cent below the 1973 figure.

Roberts said the predicted 13 per cent reduction for 1976 was based on gallons consumed during the first nine months of this year, and an anticipated decline in the amount of roadwork which always occurs in the final quarter of each year when weather conditions force a halt to most highway construction and maintenance projects.

The number of gallons of fuel consumed between January and September 1976 was "just slightly over five million gallons," Roberts said.

Mrs. Patterson Named Welcome Wagon Hostess

Ruth Patterson has completed training as a Welcome Wagon Hostess and will begin greeting families in Prestonsburg and Floyd county, Mrs. Barbara Marshall, president of Welcome Wagon International, has announced.

Mrs. Patterson will call on new movers, engaged girls, new mothers, and on special occasions present gifts from local sponsoring businesses. As a community service, she will also distribute information for many government agencies and local civic and cultural groups. To request a Welcome Wagon call, contact Mrs. Patterson at 886-8668.

The oldest and largest national greeting service, Welcome Wagon has more than 8,000 hosts and hostesses nationwide who call on 1.5 million families annually. The organization, which was founded in Memphis, Tennessee in 1928, takes its name from the Conestoga wagons of frontier days. Loaded with food and gifts, these wagons were sent out to greet passing wagon trains in hopes of enticing travelers to settle in local communities.

Mrs. Patterson is active in many community organizations including church, Eastern Star, White Shrine, political organizations and Rebekahs.

DESIGN FUNDING in the Veterans Administration budget this year includes five 200-bed domiciliary projects.

Retired Teachers Here Talk on Legislation

The Floyd County Retired Teachers' Association met November 13 in the Arts and Music Room of the Regional Library here, with Mrs. Grace Conley and Mrs. Ethel Ratliff as co-hostesses. The devotional was given by Mrs. Opal S. May. The secretary, Mrs. Grace Sutherland, gave the reports. Mrs. May K. Roberts, the president, introduced the guest-speaker, State Representative James "Jitter" Allen, who gave a report on how bills become laws.

Stating that any proposed legislation begins on the local level, he advised the group to plan an effective program, secure the approval and support of members, and inform the representatives of their needs. He also urged the members to keep informed on bills introduced in the General Assembly, and to write or call the representatives concerning the bills in which they were interested.

During a discussion period following Representative Allen's speech, members expressed the desire that future increments in teachers' retirement benefits follow the guidelines of Social Security payments, by being keyed to the Consumer Price Index, instead of the 1 percent cost of living voted them several years ago. A request was made that increased payments be made for all years of prior service, rather than for 15 years' maximum. Improvement in death benefits was requested.

Rep. Allen pledged his support to legislation favorable to the Kentucky Retired Teachers.

Mrs. Roberts, distributed copies of the present Tentative Legislation Program, prepared by the Kentucky Education Association and the Kentucky Retired Teachers' Legislative Committee. These were read and discussed. Information concerning the National Association of Retired Teachers and the Aetna Life and Casualty companies were also distributed. The president, Mrs. Roberts, appointed a nominating committee, to present the names of prospective officers for next year. Appointed were Norma Stepp, Alice Harris and Lucy Regan. Mrs. Ratliff and Mrs. Conley served doughnuts and coffee to the following members and guests: Lola P. Ousley, Annis Clark, Edna Gearheart, Juanita Cox, Rhoda Howard, Ora Mae Allen, Anne Scutchfield, Mary E. Wells, Pollyanna Wiley, Opal S. May, Kelsa Elliott, Margaret Compton, Grace Sutherland, Norma Stepp, Victoria Spradlin, Myrtle F. Reasor, Beatrice Collins, Lucy C. Regan, Dacia B. Woods, May K. Roberts, E. Dick Roberts, Wade Slone, Wayne Ratliff, Carmal L. Akers, and the guest-speaker.

The next meeting will be held at the Regional Library, February 12, with Mrs. M. Robert Regan and Mrs. Carl Woods as co-hostesses. The 77 members and all prospective members are urged to attend.

FREED POLITICAL PRISONERS GIVEN VISAS TO LEAVE CHILE

SANTIAGO, Chile—Seventy-four of the nearly 300 political prisoners released last week by the military government have obtained visas to live in exile.

A spokesman for the Inter-governmental Committee for European Migration said the United States has granted 18 of the visas, the most from any one country. He said the other visas are mainly from countries in both Western and Eastern Europe, with "a very few from Cuba."

THREE NURSING HOME care projects under construction by the Veterans Administration will add 300 beds by the end of 1977.

Present Sacred Concert

Rev. and Mrs. Charles Sheppard, of Wilmore, Ky., will present a program of sacred music at the First United Methodist Church at 11 a.m., Sunday, November 28.

The Singing Sheppards are known in sacred concert and evangelistic singing circles across the United States, the Middle East, and Europe. They are both graduates of Asbury College in Wilmore, where they reside. Mr. Sheppard studied at the American Conservatory of Music, Chicago, and taught on the music faculty of Chicago Evangelistic Institute, now Vennard College.

Mrs. Sheppard attended the University of Michigan and headed the music department of Malone College. The Sheppards have served as ministers of music in churches in several states and have traveled widely in sacred concerts, song evangelism and mission tours in 36 states, 5 Canadian provinces, and 22 foreign countries. Singing in Holland, they were presented to the late Dutch queen, Princess Wilhelmina.

Singing highlights of the ministry of the Sheppards have been: city-wide meetings in Beirut, Lebanon, Methodist conferences in Austria, Baptist youth conferences in Switzerland and singing in the state churches of Norway.

The Sheppards are actively engaged through the year in sacred concerts, church conferences, evangelistic meetings, missionary conventions, spiritual renewal retreats and camp meetings.

Recent trips abroad have been to the British Isles, the Scandinavian countries, Yugoslavia, Hungary, Poland, Switzerland and Egypt.

They frequently host Preaching Mission Tours through Europe and to the Holy Land and the Middle East. On these mission tours they provide the music in evangelistic rallies in the large cities of Europe and the Middle East, and direct a choir comprised of those traveling on the Mission and host the group in cooperation with a well known evangelist.

The program of sacred music here will be varied, including hymns of the church, outstanding gospel music of the day, personal witness and a musical drama. During this Bicentennial Year "Old Glory Speaks" will be a special patriotic picture. A free will offering will be received for the couple.

The pastor, Rev. Walter Applegate, invites the members and friends of the church and community to attend this inspiring service in the ministry of sacred music.

Quantity of Child's Swine Flu Vaccine Said Inadequate

Frankfort, Ky.—Although youngsters who are immunized against swine flu will be protected this winter and next, the quantity of vaccine being supplied by the federal government for such a program is not enough to prevent an epidemic, if one should break out, said Dr. C. Hernandez, director of Preventive Services for the Department for Human Resources.

The federal government recently decided to supply the states with enough vaccine to immunize 10 per cent of the nation's youngsters age three through 17 years. The first portion of Kentucky's shipment is one the way.

Human Resources will distribute the vaccine to Kentucky counties on the same basis as the 10 per cent distribution to Kentucky, said Dr. Hernandez. Each county health department will receive enough to immunize 10 per cent of its youngsters. As yet, no mass clinics are being scheduled as they were for immunization of adults, but the vaccine probably will be available on a first come, first served basis at the county health departments. Dr. Hernandez emphasized that the details of vaccine distribution on the local level will be up to county health department officials.

"Children cannot take some of the vaccine prepared for adults because it results in too many side effects," said Dr. Hernandez, explaining why a special vaccine had to be developed for this age group. "Healthy children will have to take two doses of this vaccine, each four weeks apart, to build up immunity," he added.

While this vaccine has been developed especially for healthy youngsters, a vaccine has been available since the beginning of mass immunization for children with chronic health problems.

Dr. Hernandez called the distribution of the children's vaccine an "ill-advised decision" on the part of the federal government, in light of the fact that there is not enough for everyone.

Dr. Hernandez continues to stress the safety of the swine flu vaccine for all age groups and the fact that all types of the vaccine will be available in the county health departments until the supply runs out.

DURING THE PAST five years the Veterans Administration has opened four nursing homes for a total of 540 beds at a cost of $10.3 million.

Floyd Board Adopts Tackett Is Charged In Branham's Creek Shooting Incident

The county's schools lost their first day of the new school year to the weather Monday when snow and icy roads made early-morning bus travel hazardous. But there's hope not so many days will be lost during the term. The Floyd County Board of Education has this year, for the first time, adopted a "Snow Days" program in the hope of cutting down on lost time. This plan provides for a wait of an hour past the usual time for early-morning bus runs after there has been an accumulation of snow. The transportation director puts all buses on "hold" for an hour; then if at the end of that time road conditions improve, word goes out via radio for the drivers to start their runs. "We'll lose an hour of school sometimes, but we think that's much better than losing an entire day," Supt. E. P. Grigsby, Jr. said.

Acting on warrants procured by Hershell Shepherd, State Police Troopers Stephens and Shelton arrested Eugene Tackett Saturday on charges of wanton endangerment in the first degree and criminal mischief in the second degree. The warrants allege that Tackett fired several shots into Shepherd's pickup truck and home on Branham's Creek, near Galveston. Several members of Shepherd's family were at the house at the time of the incident. Trooper Stephens said Tackett was drinking at the time and state police are investigating a possible link between the alleged incident and a shooting earlier this year in which Jonah Tackett, a brother of the accused men, was blinded by a gun blast. Two raids by Sheriff Joe W. Lewis, Deputy Sheriffs Doug Lewis and Randall Lewis and ABC Agent Ted H. Salisbury last Wednesday resulted in the arrest of two persons and the seizure of a quantity of liquor. James Jacobs was arrested at Wayland by the officers and three pints of wine, two half-pints whiskey and two fifths of vodka were confiscated. In the other raid Eugene "Red" Wright was charged with illegal possession after 29 pints of whiskey were found at his trailer on Buck's Branch near Martin. Both men pleaded guilty in Magistrate Dewey Roberts' court and paid fines.

Others booked at the county jail, charges against each, and arresting officers follow: Rickey Turner, drunk driving, by Constable Bob Hackworth; Tony Bradley, assault in third degree, by Prestonsburg Policemen Lawson and Lafferty; Ray Perkins, drunk driving, by State Trooper Shelton; Stan D. Lawson and Frank McGuire, theft by unlawful taking, by Deputy Sheriff Randal Lewis and State Troopers Stephens and Shelton; Dale C. Conn, drunk driving, by State Trooper Stephens; Joe David Stumbo, drunk driving, reckless driving, and attempt to elude police officers, by State Troopers Weedman and Hall; Hurl D. Frasure, drunk driving, attempt to elude police officer and improper use of blue light, by State Troopers Weedman and Hall; Roger Owens, resisting arrest, by Deputy Sheriffs J. D. and Melvin Martin; Tommy Tackett, drunk driving and no operator's license, by State Trooper Shelton; Greg Little, burglary in third degree, by State Troopers Shelton and Stephens; James Prater, assault in third degree, by State Troopers Stephens and Shelton; Blaine Adkins, drunk driving and attempt to elude, by State Trooper Hall; James Hunt, reckless driving, by Allen Policemen V. Conn and Ed Rickman; Frank Woods, resisting arrest, by Prestonsburg Policemen Lawson and Conley; Jim Back, drunk driving, by Prestonsburg Policeman Darrell J. Conley.

Telephone Pioneers Increase Membership In Big Sandy Area

For more than six decades, thousands of telephone people nationwide have combined their talents and energies toward a specific goal of reaching out to meet the many needs of their fellow man in a positive, forthright manner. The common bond of fellowship among those of the communications industry led to the founding of the Telephone Pioneers of America, November 2, 1911. The only requirement for membership was established as 21 years of service in the industry—expressing the concept of pioneering as a continuous process. Pioneers across the United States and Canada are actively working toward improving the world and the lives of its people. Retirement from the industry is mandatory at age 65 but there is no retirement from the Pioneer organization. Its members are kept active through the community service programs such as working with the physically handicapped, the mentally disturbed and the sightless as well as answering to the needs of other emergencies that might arise. Local Council President, Cliff Baldrige explains the years of service requirement was lowered to 19 years of service in July, 1976 and will be 18 years of service in July, 1977. "Lowering the eligibility age for Pioneer members from 21 years of service to 18 years of service recognizes the recent trends of expansion in all areas of service, in all areas of society. It also recognizes the dedication and willingness to participate that is so much a part of telephone employees," Baldrige said. These new, younger service members have brought to Big Sandy Council the strength of renewed enthusiasm, dedication and energy and by the end of next year our estimated membership in Kentucky will reach 3,600 and 500,000 in the United States and Canada, adding even greater bearing to the fact that Telephone Pioneers of America is the largest industrial service organization in the world. "As an employee of the Bell System, I take personal pride in the fellowship and services offered by Telephone Pioneers. We now have 88 members in the Big Sandy Council," Baldrige said.

Others booked at the county jail, charges against each, and arresting officers follow: Rickey Turner, drunk driving, by Constable Bob Hackworth; Tony Bradley, assault in third degree, by Prestonsburg Policemen Lawson and Lafferty; Ray Perkins, drunk driving, by State Trooper Shelton; Stan D. Lawson and Frank McGuire, theft by unlawful taking, by Deputy Sheriff Randal Lewis and State Troopers Stephens and Shelton; Dale C. Coal Men Say Box Cut, Acid Method Help Land Frankfort, Ky.—Near a protected Kentucky stream in McCreary County is a mountain that may someday be a wildlife management area—that is, after it has been strip mined. The owners of Quality State Coal Co. believe that with the box cut and acid method of operation they employ in mining, the land may even be more useful and liveable after it is reclaimed.

The box cut and acid method is an example of reclamation practices approved by the state Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Protection's reclamation division to prevent serious damage such as erosion, acid pollution, landslides, stream sedimentation and off-site property damage to strip mine areas. The Division of Reclamation seeks ways to reduce the cost of reclamation, but its chief purpose is to enforce reclamation laws and increase the effectiveness of reclamation in Kentucky.

The sites being mined and proposed for mining by Quality State are located in Jones Hollow, near the Little South Fork of the Cumberland—which is protected by the Kentucky Wild Rivers Act—off Highway 92 west of Stearns in McCreary county.

According to Dempsey Foster, a co-owner who is also foreman of Quality State's strip mine operation, the results of the mining job will prove that strip mining without acid drainage can be done on a wild river—as long as it's done with good management.

Glenn Shadoan, who, as a reclamation division field inspector, assists coal operators and monitors reclamation work to see that it is carried out properly, described the box cut method used by Quality State Coal:

"A berm, or wall, of land stands undisturbed around the active mining to prevent dirt and water from sliding over the mountain side. Then, as the coal is mined in sections, the spoil, or dirt, that is taken from the first section is placed in the next vacant spot. In this way, reclamation is completed as the mining goes along and no spoil is pushed over the hill to form outcrops that may slide into the valley and streams."

Using the box cut method, said Shadoan, the topsoil must be scraped off before mining can begin. Afterward the pits are filled up to the berms to make the area look as much as possible like the original contour. After grading, topsoil must be spread over the entire area and finally it must be seeded and mulched.

This method of mining may be more expensive and more time-consuming for the operator than regular strip mining in which everything is placed over the side of the hill, Shadoan said.

He continued, "Except for the extra spoil material that goes into the hollow fill, none of it goes over the hillside. It stays within the boundaries and is later put back in place. And the material that is put in the hollow fill is graded to form a gentle slope down to a 30 foot bench followed by a 100 foot lift to another 30 foot bench followed by another 100 foot lift."

The reclamation inspector added that the company must segregate the different soil layers when it tackles a high-wall. This separation enables the company to sever the topsoil and to place the toxic layers, or potentially acidic material, in the bottom of the old pit. The toxic layers must be covered with at least four feet of nonacid-bearing material.

Quality State Coal also utilizes a dilution pool. Into the normal storage capacity of the silt structure, they allow an extra amount of storage for rainwater that would dilute any acid existing in the silt structure.

Not only does Quality State Coal seed and mulch, but the firm also plants trees. According to Foster, the company has planted 6,000 to 7,000 loblolly and Virginia pine and Chinese chestnut trees. "One of my brothers," he said, "who works for us on the mining operations, is known as 'Johnny Applesed' because he wants to plant trees everywhere."

Nearby, there is a mountain that Quality State Coal has already strip mined and reclaimed, after using the box cut and acid method. According to the mine's three co-owners—Jim Clevenger and O. C. Davis as well as Dempsey Foster—the possibilities of a farm or perhaps a residential subdivision arise for what was previously useless, rugged ground.

Clevenger continued, "The landowner of our proposed strip mine site plans to develop it into a wildlife management area—a kind of game preserve with a pond for wildlife and wild fowl, such as pheasant and quail. Our company would be doing the grade work and vegetation. The landowner would provide the wildlife and any necessities required for their habitats and feeding."

"We've already 'permitted' 40 acres at the site of the proposed wildlife area," added Davis. "However, when the strip mining is done and reclamation completed, that area should span 80 acres."

Club Speaker Stresses Vocational Education

Wayland, Ky.—The Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club met October 18 at the home of Mrs. Hansel Bradley, of Garrett, with Mrs. Marie Mullins, the program leader. Mrs. Mullins had as her guest speaker Mrs. Rosemary R. Sutton, Louisville, of the Kentucky Department of Vocational Education, who spoke on "Education" with special emphasis on vocational education.

Mrs. Sutton pointed to the need for more vocational education classes in schools where normally only academic subjects are taught. She stressed that young people need to be better prepared for life when they finish high school, that some are not even able to balance a check book.

Mrs. J. T. Spillman conducted a devotional period and Mrs. Marie Mullins read the Club Collect.

During a business session later in the evening it was decided that the club will again sell pecans to raise money for its civic endeavors, and Mrs. Bobby Joe Castle was designated chairman to handle the sales.

Mrs. Don Hughes was elected trustee to serve for a four-year term.

Those present were, besides the guest-speaker, Mrs. Sutton, Nancy Sue Dingus, guest, and Mrs. J. C. Wells, Mrs. Mervil Dixon, Mrs. Patsy Ann Patton, Mrs. Joyce P. Stevens, Mrs. Lula Coburn, Mrs. Blanche Bamer, Mrs. LaFaye Hughes, Mrs. Ann Castle, Mrs. June M. DeCoursey, Mrs. Imalee Spillman, Mrs. James A. Duff, Mrs. Marie C. Mullins, Mrs. Marcella C. Students Learn How To Spin— In This Case, Rabbit Hair

By HELEN PRICE STACY

"One of my clearest memories of my boyhood is watching my mother spin," recalled a mountain man during an Eastern Kentucky festival. "She had her big wheel in a corner and walked back and forth, back and forth, spinning the wool into yarn. I have often wondered if her steps had been measured how far she walked."

Learning to spin on a wheel, but first carding the wool and even before that plucking wool was part of a four-day program at Rogers Elementary School in Wolfe county. This event was made possible by the Kentucky Arts Commission and National Endowment for the Arts through cooperation of the Wolfe County Board of Education.

In the Wolfe school students were initiated into plucking hair from Angora rabbits, rather than wool from sheep. "When it is spun it looks like thread," said student Sandra Proffitt, "but when it is crocheted and washed it fluffs out real pretty."

She added that "it doesn't hurt the rabbit when you pluck the hair and you only pluck hair five inches or longer. When spun, rabbit hair is much stronger and eight times warmer than sheep's wool."

Donna Shotts was one of the students who enjoyed spinning the rabbit hair into yarn on a walking wheel. (Oldtimers usually refer to a smaller type wheel as a flax wheel.)

"The rim of the walking wheel," she explained, "is made of ash because this wood bends easiest. Five kinds of wood are used in a wheel. People used to have spinning bees in which they tried to see who could spin the longest yarn without stopping."

Sandra Proffitt also learned how to card rabbit hair on a carding comb, and Noah Collier became familiar with the yarn winder. Sandra told how in early days families picked teasel plants and mounted them on two pieces of wood "shaped in a cross," compared with today's carding combs made of hardwood and metal.

Collier said yarn winders, similar to a wheel without the rim, once were called weasels. "A gear inside the box would pop after a certain number of turns and that is where the song 'Pop Goes the Weasel' comes from." As yarn is wound on the winder it stretches, is tied into skeins, removed and washed, then put back on the winder "so it won't shrink."

Janet Fields learned about vegetable dyeing. She discovered that a greenish yellow could be obtained from mountain alder, gold from apple bark, yellow from white ash or aster, blue from bayberry and if walnut leaves, hulls or bark is added, black will result. A light caramel can be obtained from beech leaves, red from poke berries or the inner bark of white ash and a butter yellow from petals of brown-eyed susans.

The program was under direction of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Southworth, of Knott county, and was a Folk Arts pilot program in the Wolfe county school system.

"We are involved with three complete crafts," said Mrs. Southworth. "We do spinning, natural dyeing and textile production."

As to how far the mountain man's mother walked when she paced back and forth, spinning wool into yarn, Donna Shotts explained that "a long time ago a person might walk as much as 20 miles a day while spinning with this type of wheel."

The program will do much to preserve mountain traditions. The Folk Arts venture is designed to create interest in traditional music, arts and crafts on the local level and is directed by John Harrod.

Hunters Are Warned Against Fire Hazards

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 19—Kentucky hunters, who are taking to the fields and woods in great numbers this week with the opening of the small game season, are urged to be especially careful with cigarettes, matches and campfires due to the unusually dry conditions which now exist throughout the state.

"If hunters are cautious with their smoking materials and campfires, they can actually be a deterrent to grass or forest fires," Fish and Wildlife Commissioner Arnold Mitchell said. "By virtue of sheer numbers," he added, "these hunters constitute a pretty good 'fire reporting corps', and I know they'll be willing to do their part and more."

Mitchell said reports from landowners and fish and wildlife field personnel, especially in Western Kentucky, indicate conditions are "ripe" for fires which could cause serious damage to forest lands, wildlife and personal property. State forestry officials confirmed these reports, Mitchell said, and stressed the need for cooperation from hunters.

"A good rain or snow is what we need most right now," Mitchell said, "but until then, we'll just have to double up on our fire prevention and fire reporting efforts."

A mine rescue team representing the Paintsville Island Creek Division of Island Creek Coal Company recently won the first annual intra-company mine rescue contest held at Island Creek's corporate headquarters in Lexington.

The team representing the division headquartered in Paintsville received the best marks in solving a rescue problem in competition with Island Creek teams representing the four operating divisions of the company.

Tony Turyn, director of safety for the Island Creek Division, led the winning team. Team members included Henry Bowers, trainer, Gordon Albright, captain, Jack Hatfield, Charles Leonard, Daril Daniels, Junior Jude, Phil Kingery, Bill Spry, and Joey Wyatt.

The winning trophy for the contest was presented to the team by Stonie Barker, Jr., president and chief executive officer of the company. Each team member was also presented a certificate by R. L. Dulaney, executive vice-president—operations.

Directors for the event included Kentucky Department of Mines and Minerals Commissioner H. N. Kirkpatrick; T. R. Mark, subdistrict manager of the Mining Enforcement and Safety Administration (MESA); Charles H. Sample of MESA; and Jed Mosgrove, vice-president of the Kentucky Coal Association.

After the Saturday morning contest, team members attended a luncheon in their honor, and members from all four division teams were given tickets to the University of Kentucky-Georgia football game.

Other teams competing in the contest came from Island Creek operating divisions located in Madisonville, Ky., Craigsville, W. Va. and Keen Mountain, Virginia.

Oral History Project Announces Publication of Social History

Pippa Passes, Ky.—The Appalachian Oral History Project announced the publication of a social history at its quarterly executive meeting held recently at Alice Lloyd College. "Our Appalachia," a book based on hundreds of hours of tape-recorded interviews with local residents, is about the memories and experiences of the mountain people, from the turn of the century when cash was scarce and barter a way of life, through the pressures the mountain people face today as they attempt to balance the nation's energy needs with preservation of their ecology.

The book, edited by William Weinberg, former project director and now a Hindman attorney, and Laurel Shackelford, former project editor and Louisville-based free lance writer, is being published by Hill and Wang, New York, N.Y. Scheduled for release in February, the book has been hailed by Harry Caudill, author of the widely-read Appalachian book, "Night Comes to the Cumberlands," and Studs Terkel, best-selling author of "Hard Times" and other books based on oral history interviews, as a remarkable social history of the Appalachian area, as told by its people.

In other business, the Appalachian Oral History Project completed plans to make oral history tapes available throughout the nation, with the signing of a contract with the Microfilm Corporation of America (MCA), New York, N.Y. (a subsidiary of New York Times). MCA will put the transcripts on microfiche, index-size cards which will hold 100 pages of copy and can be read with a desk-top viewer. MCA, which has exclusive rights to publish the collection in this form, will market them throughout the United States.

The Appalachian Oral History Project is also making other plans to make tapes more accessible to students, writers, sociologists, educators and others interested in the history of the Appalachian region. A catalog of the transcribed tapes, funded by the Research Section of the National Endowment for the Humanities, will be available this spring. The catalog will include annotations of tapes from all four colleges involved in the Project, along with a topical index.

In addition, Mike Mullins, project director, discussed the project's possible participation in the Coal Miners Research Project. "The group is now looking for funds to set up a coordinated effort to collect oral history, photographs and written records on the coal industry, an industry which has had and continues to have great impact on our mountain region," says Mullins.

Four colleges participate in the Oral History Project, which uses student interviewers to collect the history and folklore of the Central Appalachian region. Students interview local residents, recording their stories, songs and recollections about the past. These memories are then transcribed and are available to all persons interested in learning about Appalachian life and culture. The four colleges are Alice Lloyd College, Pippa Passes, Lees Junior College, Jackson, Emory & Henry College, Emory, Va., and Appalachian State University, Boone, N. C.

198 Rehabilitated In Floyd by Bureau

In Floyd county the Kentucky Bureau for Rehabilitation Services served 487 persons and rehabilitated 198 during fiscal 1975-'76, according to figures released by the state bureau.

Kentucky continues to rank among the top 10 states in the nation in helping the handicapped, especially the severely disabled, reach their full potential as wage-earners. According to U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) statistics, Kentucky has ranked in the top 10 in the nation over the past decade for its rehabilitation program.

"Almost 50 percent of the 25,079 handicapped Kentuckians served during fiscal year 1976 were severely disabled persons," said Marshall Swain, assistant superintendent of education for Kentucky's Bureau of Rehabilitation Services. "A total of 9,276 were rehabilitated and 5,335 of this number were severely handicapped."

The cost of rehabilitation was less than $2,200 per person, said Swain. After rehabilitation, the individuals go into the job market as taxpayers who will pay back much more than the cost of their rehabilitation, according to HEW statistics.

Among those rehabilitated in Kentucky, 1,544 were previously on welfare rolls, Swain added.

Miss Combs-Mr. Conley Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Enoch Combs, of Garrett, announce the engagement of their daughter, Betty Karen, to John David Conley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kennel Conley, also of Garrett.

Miss Combs is now attending the nursing program at Prestonsburg Community College. Mr. Conley is employed by Elkhorn Industries at Martin.

The wedding is planned for December 3 at 5 p.m. at the home of the groom.

It takes about one pound of coal and a few hundred people just to bake a meatloaf.

Baking a meatloaf is simple. But making the electricity that bakes it isn't.

It only takes about a pound of coal to generate enough electricity to operate one oven for one hour. But, when you figure in the hundreds of other ways electricity works for you each day, and multiply that by the thousands of other homes and businesses where electricity is working around the clock, the job of supplying power takes on a different perspective.

Behind all the plugs, switches, lights, appliances, tools and machines in our area is a gigantic and complex power system.

Where thousands of tons of coal are burned every day to make the steam that turns the turbines that generate your electricity.

But that's only the beginning. Getting that electricity where you need it, when you need it, also requires thousands of miles of power lines, transmission towers, substations, poles and transformers.

And people. The hundreds of specially-trained people who manage and maintain this vast network that serves you 24 hours a day.

We're not offended if you take electricity for granted, though. Because that means we're doing our job; keeping the power coming.

But there's a job you can do, too. Make sure the electricity we provide isn't wasted. How? Turn off lights and appliances when you're not using them. Wash only full loads of clothes and dishes.

Or, better yet, make sure your home is properly insulated. And look into appliances that have the new energy-saving features.

Working together this way we can make something even better than meatloaf.

Progress.

Days for Reaping and Storing

There is a certain place in Clark county, near the Powell county line, where travelers may look to far hills for an exciting first view of eastern mountains. There is a particular curve of highway leading to the Menifee county seat of Frenchburg where one may view cliffs that one day will create another great stone arch across the Kentucky sky. There is in beautiful Morehead a large window in a particular room that looks up to a vista of scalloped hills that will be forever green, however interspersed they are with multicolor patches of the season.

Here and there, from Bath to Floyd, Fleming to Greenup, Boyd to Pike and throughout this region of the Commonwealth are glimpses of the state's natural beauty. Most of the beauty is classified with the best things in life and free. There is, of course, the cost of fuel to those who travel. Still, in these days of late autumn, when trees without leaves pencil dark silhouettes, there are beautiful vistas and interesting sights awaiting those with eyes that see and ears that hear.

These are the unusually quiet days. Just ahead are busy school activities, the holidays; still, for now and for then, they are days that include a special closeness, whether this nearness is around a hearth, a supper table, in the classroom, the office or a family and friends traveling in Kentucky at a time when the eye can see farther than any other season, and the heart is more open to absorb and hold this beauty.

It is a time for storing up treasures that cannot be stolen and can't even be given away. Once inside the heart these bits of life and beauty belong to the holder except for a special warmth that is subconsciously imparted to others.

It was 1769 when Daniel Boone stood on the eminence that today is known as Pilot Knob and looked out over the beautiful level of Kentucky that one day would include modern interstates and parkways leading from low country of the Bluegrass to the Highlands.

Even earlier, scouts and redmen in Red River Gorge country might have noticed cliffs in the present Menifee and other counties creating unmistakable beauty and also eroding to create a rockhouse for shelter, a lighthouse for looking beyond and above and some day an arch for a pathway in the sky.

The region has many wonders, natural and man created. Some are spectacular; some are commonplace yet with an uncommon beauty. There is in Magoffin county a giant field of fodder shocks, visible from U.S. 460, and looking for all the world like tepees in a well-populated Indian village.

Travelers on Ky. 7 in Elliott county may enjoy sights along the Palisades of Little Sandy as well as Grayson Lake whose autumn waters reflect blue sky and timbered hills.

These are days of harvest. Orchards are giving up their fruits; fields their corn and pumpkins; hills and meadows their wildflowers, and trees their leaves. Just as important is the reaping of scenes and sights to hold in store for any dark days of winter.

When snowclouds hang low on the horizon or winter's slow rains flow in rivulets down windowpanes, a sifting through the memory will find just the vista of scalloped hills or sycamore leaves carpeting a driveway to create a special warmth in any room and maybe dispel any spirit of sadness in the heart.

Detroit Airport Fire Results in Injuries To Six Persons

DETROIT—Smoke billowed through a busy terminal at Detroit Metropolitan Airport recently, resulting in injuries to six persons and delaying flights for two hours.

Two sheriff's deputies and an American Airlines employe were overcome by smoke, and three firemen suffered minor injuries when their truck overturned en route to the fire. All were hospitalized.

The fire broke out in the air ducts and was confined there. The cause was not known. Airport fire department officers said damage was light.

Now! Two big $253 Specials from AMC, the small car specialist.

Unlike the other manufacturers, who build cars of all sizes, AMC is exclusively a small car producer. Therefore, we have a lot at stake on the success of small cars.

Recently, the small car market has diminished substantially. Over the last five years, increased costs have forced prices up more than $1,000. As a result, American car buyers have pretty much stayed away, not only from AMC small cars, but from all small cars.

At American Motors, we're doing something about it. By attacking the problem in the most direct way we know how. By initiating pricing programs designed to save you a lot of money.

Our goal is to increase our sales volume by encouraging you, the car buyer, to return to the small car market. If we can get you to consider a small car, we're confident that the small car you buy will be an AMC.

1) $253 cash rebate on every new AMC Pacer and Pacer Wagon.

Right now, you get a $253 cash rebate when you buy any new 1976 or 1977 AMC Pacer. Make your best deal with your AMC Dealer and American Motors will send you a $253 cash rebate. Or, if you like, you can apply the $253 to your down payment. This cash rebate offer is good on all AMC Pacers and Pacer Wagons delivered from stock by January 10 or ordered by December 10.

2) $253 price reduction on every new 1977 AMC Gremlin.*

The list price of all 1977 AMC Gremlins has been reduced by $253. This reduction applies to all Gremlins now in dealer stock, and to all orders placed on or after November 5.

AMC Gremlin now only $2995.*

*The manufacturer's suggested retail price for Gremlin is now just $2995. Destination charges, dealer prep, state and local taxes, white walls, wheel covers and other options extra. Excluding military and fleet sales.

Kentucky Afield

By JOHN WILSON

This is the third year that Kentucky's waterfowl hunters will be using the point system to determine daily bag and possession limits for ducks. Although the basic system will be unchanged this year, some of the point values have changed.

This season there is only one 100 point duck—the canvasback. Redheads, hen mallards, black ducks, wood ducks and hooded mergansers are worth 70 points each, while pintails, blue-winged teals, cinnamon teals, green-winged teals, gadwalls, shovelers, scaups, and mergansers (except the hooded merganser) are 10 point birds.

Drake mallards and all other species not mentioned above count 25 points each. Coots have a point value of zero, but there is a daily limit of 15 and a possession limit of 30 on coots.

Although the point system seems complicated at first, it's really not too hard to figure out. Basically, a hunter can take ducks until the point values of the birds he bags reaches or exceeds 100 points.

If, for example, a hunter takes a canvasback as his first duck, he's through for the day. If he goes out the next day and drops another canvasback, he's reached the maximum possession limit also (the possession limit is the maximum number of ducks of those species and sexes which could have legally been taken in two days of hunting).

However, if our hunter takes nine birds worth 10 points each, he is still allowed another duck, no matter what the point value, since he hasn't reached 100 points yet. Now, if he takes a canvasback, his point total is 190 and he's reached the legal limit.

It's possible to have as many as 195 points (for example, three 25 point birds, two 10 point birds and a 100 point bird), depending upon the order in which they were taken. As long as the hunter's bag doesn't contain 100 points worth of ducks, he may continue to shoot.

It's possible to identify your ducks either on the wing or in hand after they've been taken. But the hunter who is good at on-the-wing identification can often get in more shooting than the one who must wait until he has retrieved his ducks before making a positive identification.

In fact, the point system is designed specifically to encourage on-the-wing identification. The hunter who chooses his ducks, taking primarily low point birds, can come home with a lot more meat for the table than the hunter who shoots, then identifies. Even the ability to tell a drake mallard from a hen of the same species can allow a hunter to double his daily take.

Hundreds and hundreds of years ago, Omar Khayyam the Persian poet wrote these words:

"And that inverted bowl they call the sky, Whereunder crawl, coop-ed, we live and die. Lift not your hands to it for help—for it So impotently moves as you and I.

This poem called "The Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam" is the outstanding classic of cynicism and doubt.

This, of course, is just one man's view of human destiny.

Today millions of people know and realize that human destiny is not as somber looking as it was to Omar Khayyam. As long as a neighbor loves, and cares for another... as long as human hearts cry out for the poor and unfortunate... so long as man loves a fellowman, human destiny has a bright future. Just how much do you, or I, contribute to a bright destiny?

Is There a Real Gas Shortage?

The American Gas Association predicts the nation will run out of its supply of natural gas in 30 years unless the price is raised to permit new exploration for resources. But according to an article by James Nathan Miller in the November issue of Reader's Digest—"Is There Really a Shortage of Natural Gas?"—AGA's statistics may be delusory. If the AGA's figures on natural gas resources are correct, there is persuasive argument for deregulating the wellhead price; Miller contends there is enough evidence to the contrary to warrant a stringent and thoroughgoing examination of the facts before Congress acts on the issue.

In essence, the Federal Power Commissioner (FPC) has to accept the AGA's estimates 1) because it hasn't the equipment with which to make its own measurements and 2) because the major gas companies will not release their own data to the regulatory agency. A Congressional subcommittee headed by Rep. John Moss, (D., Cal.), charged with examining the AGA figures has found reason to doubt their accuracy.

Miller writes: "Investigators for the Federal Trade Commission told the Moss Group that, on the basis of a five-year investigation of the AGA's reserves figures, they had recommended taking the AGA and the companies to court for 'concertedly maintaining a deficient reporting system.' The system was 'tantamount to collusive price rigging,' said the staff, and it produced 'serious under-reporting.'

Since it is the consumer who will ultimately pay the price for more expensive natural gas, the FTC observations are of interest to the general public. Furthermore, there is one group of gas fields where the government does have access to all the raw data it needs to make estimates comparable to the AGA's: the Gulf of Mexico fields are in the federal domain, and the companies leasing them are required to turn their data over to the U. S. Geological Survey. Based on these data (the same kind of material on which AGA claimed it based its own estimates) the USGS made a survey in 1974. According to Miller, "The USGS estimate of reserves (for the 153 or 220 fields where data were comparable) was 63 percent higher than AGA's." No one knows if this level of disparity exists in other gas fields. "But if the same degree of under-reporting did apply nationwide," Miller continues, "its significance to the nation's energy policy would be momentous. It would mean that the post-1967 drop in reserves has been a statistical delusion, and that the United States now possesses upward of 100 trillion more feet of gas than the 228 trillion feet the AGA says it has."

In 1970 a gas-company official who was then chairman of the AGA Reserves Committee testified before the FPC that all geologists on the assaying subcommittees adhered to strict AGA formulas for estimating reserves; that companies provided them with all the raw data they asked for; that they were not influenced by the companies they worked for but were truly independent in their estimates.

What the Moss group learned after subpoenaing the records of just one such subcommittee was something quite different: many companies refused to give the geologists any raw data at all; there was no enforcement of AGA guidelines; the geologists followed whatever method of estimating they chose—including "ball-park" guesses.

The FPC has already granted the industry a large increase by raising the ceiling on "new" gas from 52 cents per thousand cubic feet to $1.42. But before the new Congress implements a national energy program, it must have the real facts. "And," Miller concludes, "no one can be certain that this is being done as long as the companies and their allies in Washington are allowed to control—and to keep secret—so many of the key facts on which the policy must be formulated."

Allen Man Convicted In Pikeville Robbery, Gets 5-Year Sentence

Russell Sammons, 30, of Allen, was recently convicted in Pike circuit court on a robbery indictment, and his pen term was set at five years.

Sammons was arrested by Pikeville city police Sept. 7, shortly after he allegedly took a quantity of drugs at knife-point from Ron Johnson, of Prestonsburg, pharmacist at the Town & Country Shopping Center in Pikeville.

Sammons, who was charged with robbery in the first degree, was found guilty of a lesser offense, robbery in the second degree.

CARELESSNESS CAUSES HOLIDAY INJURIES

A federal expert predicted recently that 150,000 children will be seriously injured by hazardous toys during the coming holiday season because of their parents' carelessness.

"Everybody at the U. S. Consumer Product Safety Commission wishes you and your kids the very best of holiday seasons," said Alex A. Labonski, the commission's New York area director, "but you'd better watch out."

Labonski said most holiday injuries to adults and children result from parental laxity, especially where electrical equipment is concerned.

Floyd Native, Wife Victims in Shooting

A Floyd county native and his wife were found shot to death at their home in Jessamine county late last week.

The victims were identified as Bobby Ray Harris, 41, of Bates Creek Estate, Route 5, Nicholasville, and his wife, Belpha, 36.

Jessamine county Sheriff Gene Goldey was quoted as saying he received a call at 12:10 p.m. and that he arrived at the Harris home 10 minutes later. He said he found Mrs. Harris lying on the living room floor, covered with a blanket and her head on a pillow. She had been shot in the temple with a .22-calibre pistol. Her husband lay beside her, his head on a pillow. He had been shot in the ear.

The sheriff said both were dressed as if to go to work. Mr. Harris was employed at the Gulf States Paper Company plant in Nicholasville; his wife, at Shillito's in Lexington.

They are survived by three daughters, Debbie, Patricia June and Linda Sue. Mr. Harris also is survived by his mother, Mrs. Ollie Jane Sammons, of Drift, according to the Kelly and Dunn Funeral Home, Salyersville, where the bodies were taken. Mr. Harris was buried at Drift; his wife, at Seitz, Magoffin county.

2 Gas Companies Win Rate Increases

Rate adjustment increases have been granted to the Buck's Branch Gas Co. and the Martin Gas Co. by the Kentucky Public Service Commission (PSC).

Buck's Branch was granted a $2,268 adjustment increase in its rates, effective for gas supplied on and after Nov. 1. The increase sets a minimum monthly bill of $3.20 for consumers.

Also effective Nov. 1 is the new rate schedule, granting a $9,828 increase, for the Martin Gas Co. The new schedule sets a minimum monthly bill of $3.15 for the firm's customers.

Both firm's rate adjustments were due to an increase in the wholesale cost of gas from the supplier, Columbia Gas of Kentucky.

Possible Construction Of New Airport Discussed At ADD Meet

A new airport to serve Floyd, Martin and Johnson counties was discussed as a real possibility Monday night at a meeting of the Big Sandy Area Development District's board of directors.

After an announcement during the meeting that a special session is scheduled for today (Wednesday) to discuss airport planning in the area, Russell Williamson, of Inez told the group that he and some other area businessmen had taken a recent tour in the Spicy Ridge section of Martin county with state Aeronautics Commissioner Ed Lafontaine to determine a suitable location for the possible future construction of an air strip.

The site which Lafontaine was shown would make use of an extensive flat area formed by strip-mining the ridge which is located on the Daniels Creek road below Dewey Dam about 20 minutes from Prestonsburg, Inez or Paintsville.

Lafontaine seemed impressed by the idea, according to Williamson who said, "He was about as favorable over the site as you ever get those fellows to commit themselves."

The ridge top location was cited by Lafontaine as being especially well-suited to the area. Williamson said the aeronautics commissioner had revealed to him that "Our airports are going to be on top of hills from now on for two reasons—the fog and lack of availability of land in the valleys."

Martin county has placed establishment of an airport as its number one priority but Williamson stressed that although Lafontaine considered the site quite suitable, "he said we could just forget about it unless all three counties agreed on it."

"We need an airport, with Ashland Oil coming into the coal fields, Mapco and Island Creek already there. Mines need to be able to fly in pieces of equipment for repair," Williamson said.

Williamson suggested the possibility of building two strips on the ridge, perhaps crossing each other. He also expressed the hope that Pocahontas Coal Co., who is believed to own the land, might donate the site for airport construction.

The new airport would consist of a strip or strips of 5,000 to 6,000 feet long to accommodate much larger aircraft than possible on the Bert Combs Airport on U. S. 23, Williamson said, and he added that the new facility would not necessarily replace the existing Combs strip but rather, supplement existing facilities for area air traffic and make provisions for larger craft.

In other business at the meeting at Jenny Wiley State Park, newly-appointed Chairman of the Big Sandy ADD Board Henry Stumbo named his new executive committee, consisting of O. T. Dorton, treasurer; Ollie J. Arnett, secretary; Judges James Witten, Ray Fields and himself.

Among favorable A-95 reviews given during the meeting were two affecting Floyd county directly. They included the following:

—A $60,000 request to the Economic Development Administration for construction of an athletic complex in the City of Martin in conjunction with Allen Central High School.

—A request for construction of 28 building lots in the community of David as part of a revitalization program for the town.

Turkey Bowl Day Looms Here—9th Annual Fray Set Saturday

Battle-scarred veterans of previous gridiron encounters will again square off at 2 p.m. Saturday for the ninth annual Turkey Bowl joust at the high school football field here.

Played without pads, without helmets, and some fainter hearted souls say without a proper regard for life or limb, the yearly endurance test is played with a wealth of mud. Among its therapeutic qualities is that of cushioning slightly the bone-jarring clashes between East and West teams.

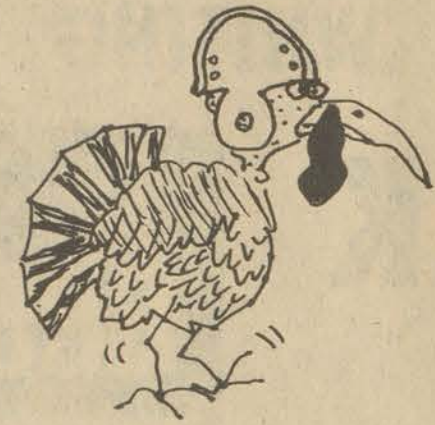

Turkey Bowl IX finds the score standing at West, 4; East 4; one tie.

For the second year, if there can be found a gal with the necessary combination of grit, gall, and guts, a Turkey Bowl queen will be crowned at halftime ceremonies. These also include the awarding of two turkeys. Pre-game entertainment last year included an impromptu turkey chase. While not scheduled, such could well be the case again this year, for who can say that evil lurks in the heart of a turkey.

In addition to witnessing and supporting a style of football unique to these here mountains, Turkey Bowl fans have helped the group establish a scholarship fund which for the past two years has awarded $500 to a graduating senior member of Prestonsburg High School's grid squad who attend Prestonsburg Community College. Leo Whitt was the first to receive the scholarship, and

RETURN FROM TENNESSEE

Mrs. Delena Cooley and daughter, Mrs. Irene Hester, of the Bull Creek road, have returned from a visit with relatives in Clinton and LaFollette, Tennessee.

Leslie "Bear" May was last year's recipient.

Tickets are being sold by Turkey Bowl team members, or may be bought at the gate, Saturday.

This year's East team will be led by semi-retired veteran quarterback Steve Clark who holds the record for most touchdown passes thrown, and Bennett Leslie, running back for eight grueling years. Defense for the team will be headed by middle linebacker Tommy Howell and end Mike Castle.

Pitted against these stalwarts will be West led by Wimpy Clark, seasoned running back who has a perfect Turkey Bowl attendance record which speaks well for his staying power, and hard running John Leslie. The defensive team will be led by tackle Larry Lyons.

GUEST OF RELATIVES

Mrs. Oriole Maggard, of Lexington, was here last week visiting relatives and friends in Prestonsburg, Allen and Martin.

Christmas Parade At Martin, Saturday

Martin's Christmas Kick-off Parade and attending festivities is scheduled to begin there at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Members of the Drift Woman's Club will act as Grand Marshal.

The parade will include school bands, beauty contestants and state and local dignitaries. There will also be booths displaying articles for sale by individuals and church and civic organizations.

Following the parade, there will be an official lighting of the Christmas lights.

Columbia Wins Rate Increase

Frankfort, Ky.—Columbia Gas of Kentucky, a firm providing gas to consumers throughout the Commonwealth, has been granted a $2,148,270 rate adjustment increase by the state's Public Service Commission (PSC).

In the Nov. 11 order, the PSC said it had found that the proposed increases properly reflected the increased cost to the company due to an increase in the wholesale price of gas from Columbia's supplier.

The approved rates will be effective for gas supplied on and after Nov. 1, the date that Columbia Gas Transmission Corp., the Kentucky firm's supplier, begins charging its higher rates.

VISIT IN CHARLESTON

Alice Lloyd Eagles In 3-Win Streak

Pippa Passes, Ky.—The Alice Lloyd College Eagles began their basketball season with a three-game winning streak. Coach Lee Backston's Eagles overpowered Prestonsburg Community College in the season-opener, November 11, 96-54. Two days later they edged out Ohio Tech, 70-68, and continued their success story on November 16, pounding Calvary College, 102-46. The Eagles will next take on Sullivan Business College, December 4 at 7:30 p.m., in the ALC fieldhouse.

"The team is young, but they're finding out what their potential really is," says Backston. "This streak has given them confidence in the team and in their new coach. They know they can really put it together now."
