

Rail Firm's Deed Fills Park Needs Early Work Is Seen On Center at Allen As Land Is Acquired

A deed to the last acreage needed for full development of the county recreational center near Allen has been received from the C. & O. Railway Company, County Attorney Harold J. Stumbo announced Monday.

Conveyance of the company's 9.3 acre tract will become official when the Floyd fiscal court pays the company the agreed price of $33,300. The only delay in completing the transaction will be approval of funding by the Coal Severance Tax Commission, and that should not be long, Stumbo said.

Acquisition of the rail company property, plus that of National Mines which was a gift to the county for recreation purposes, will make approximately 40 acres of land available for the project. The 9.3 acres being purchased from C. & O. is mainly the bottom land now occupied by the Beaver Valley golf course.

Some interest has been expressed by golfers in retaining the present golf course, with grass greens added, and a change in plans for the center to use more of the hillside property as a location for the clubhouse and other facilities. It is not known, however, if a change in plans will be made.

As the plans now stand the clubhouse would be on the present golf course. Two federal grants—one of $205,000 from the Appalachian Regional Commission and another of $30,000 from Land and Water Conservation funds—have been earmarked for the park.

Johnson Co. Man Held in Jail Here After Man Axed

James Morris VanHoose, 55, of Johnson county, Saturday night became the seventh person to be jailed here on murder charges after he had been arrested on a charge of killing George "Dooney" Spencer, Jr., 31, of Paintsville, with an axe.

Spencer's body was found, almost decapitated, outside the home of VanHoose's brother, Venole, on KY 1428, less than a mile outside Paintsville. Apparently the axing had gone unreported and unknown to others in the house till the brother returned at about 8:30 p.m. from Paintsville, where he had gone for groceries, officers said. Spencer had been struck three times with a double-bit axe.

Woman Deputy's First 'Arrest' Easy as Workman Surrenders

Mrs. Lloyd Edwards made her first "arrest" as a deputy sheriff last Thursday and it was made with a minimum of effort.

It resulted when Arnold Turner, Prestonsburg attorney, entered the sheriff's office with a client at a time when Mrs. Edwards was alone. The attorney introduced his client as Bobby Workman, and the latter informed her that he was there to surrender on a grand jury indictment charging him with the murder of James Chaffins.

So Deputy Sheriff Edwards accompanied Workman to the county jail on the third floor of the courthouse and booked him.

Next day, he was arraigned and his bond set at $12,000. He had not executed bond as of Monday morning.

Workman surrendered on the day he had been directed to appear here by a Michigan judge at the conclusion of a recent hearing in Ann Arbor on his extradition. At the conclusion of the hearing the judge released Workman on his own recognizance.

The defendant may stand trial at the September court term. His jailing ended months of effort by two commonwealth's

The completed Town Center housing facility for the elderly at Martin.

First Area Complex for Elderly

Town Center Plaza at Martin, the first housing complex built in Kentucky solely to serve the elderly, will entertain the public with open house next Sunday (Sept. 5) from 2 to 5 p.m., it was announced this week by Helen P. Ison, executive secretary of the Martin Housing Authority.

The $575,000 project for the elderly has been in use for almost a year, with all its 28 apartments occupied, but open house was delayed till the recent completion of its Community Room by the contractors, Bradley and Powers, of Paintsville.

Located at the rear of the municipal parking area at Martin, Town Center Plaza consists of two two-story structures, with 15 apartments in one and 13 apartments in the other, plus a community room, office and laundromat.

Three apartments are designed especially for the handicapped, and facilities in all the apartments were planned to meet the special needs of the aged.

The buildings are of brick and wood construction.

This Town...That World

September, and the months are back in the r's again. October, November, December-r-r—oh, boy!

NOW, ISN'T IT?

And, next Monday, the calendar says, it's Labor Day again. While others are having their last summertime fling with picnics, outings, boating, celebrating, we will, barring nothing more upsetting than a mere holiday, be working. ("Oh, isn't newspaper work so romantic," the s.w.t. cooed.)

THE PLASTIC TRAP

Over at Dewey Lake today Bill Pettrey and others were trying to catch one of the lake's finest assets, one of its wild ducks which had become entangled in a plastic binder such as you see holding together an eight-pack of soft drink cans. The mallard was hopelessly entangled, yet was able to elude every helping hand, and they were planning to trap it.

This is another bane of the age. Even deer have been found dead after becoming enmeshed in these plastic contraptions, and the National Federation of Wildlife has been urging picnickers, campers or just ordinary joes like us not to throw these binders where they will serve as a death-trap for the wild things.

Please . . .

THE TRAGIC CYCLE

I have been told by several acquaintances in recent weeks that there is a dearth of toads this year. While this is not one of God's creatures on which one would feast his eyes upon, the toad is important. Where he is no more, the flies and harmful insects move in. I wouldn't know, but I suspect that the toads have been reached by those poisonous sprays used to kill pests. That being so, the

Annual Highlands Folk Fest To Open at Park for Three Days

The Jenny Wiley State Park Amphitheatre will be the setting for the 11th annual Kentucky Highlands Folk Festival which will be held this weekend, Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Featuring singers, musicians, dancers, tale tellers and craftsmen from the Central Appalachian area, the festival has become the area's annual tribute to mountain music and folkways.

Friday and Saturday evening programs, which will begin at 7, will be dedicated to traditional Appalachian music and dance. Scheduled performers include Alfred Bailey, fiddler; Hack Thornsberry and the Floyd County Mountain Boys; Clarence Clearwater, singer; Marcus Owens, blues singer; Vickers dulcimer group; Bob Rennie, singer; Marie Bailey, banjo; Buddy

Ratcliff and group; Mathias Trio; Leonard Roberts, story teller; Melanie Sovine, singer; Hillbilly Square Dancers; George Tucker, singer; Mash Fork Boys; Patsy Margolin, singer; Buckskin Pioneers; Scottish Highlanders; Kentucky Sweethearts, dancers; Dianna Donahoe, singer; Homer Ledford, Cindy and Judy (demonstrating handmade instruments); the Fraley Family group; Kentucky Heritage Dancers; Jan Farley, dulcimer; Bill Vanover, singer, and others.

A musical "swap shop" and general pickin' session will begin at 1 p.m. Saturday, and an arts and crafts exhibit will begin at 3 p.m. Exhibitors will include the David Appalachian Craft group, Sandra Branham, Russell May, J. D. Hall, Tom Whitaker, Ralph W. Dingus and Vivian Hale. At the same time a workshop and folk music demonstration will be conducted at May Lodge.

Sunday's program will begin at 3 p.m. with a crafts display and at 5 p.m. a program of traditional religious music will be presented. The religious program will trace the development of sacred music in the Appalachians from earliest times to the present. A concession stand at the amphitheatre will be open for Friday and Saturday evening's performances.

The festival, which was founded by Mrs. Edith Fitzpatrick James, of Prestonsburg, will be directed this year by Mrs. Kathryn Frazier with the assistance of Mrs. James.

Road Program Amended To Permit Bridge

The 1976-'77 rural secondary road program for Floyd county has been amended to authorize one additional project, which will provide for construction of a bridge over Stone Coal Creek on the Maytown-Garrett road about 1.4 miles east of KY 80.

Project costs will be financed out of the $419,786 already allocated to the county for this current fiscal year, Transportation Secretary John C. Roberts said.

'Aunt' Becky at 95 Not Too Old To Go to Church for Footwashing

"Aunt" Becky Bayes was 85 years old before she ever spent a night in a hospital. Now, 10 years later, although she's had recent health problems, including the fracture of a hip and leg and an operation, she faces life with much the same attitude as she always has—approaching each day as it comes, tolerating the bad and never losing sight of the good things that life may offer.

A resident for the past two years of Mountain Manor Nursing Home here, Mrs. Bayes takes a great deal of comfort in her religion and church, and a foot-washing two weeks ago at the Auxier Free Will Baptist Church of which she is the oldest living member was not to be missed. Pastor of the church, the Rev. John Frank Ratliff, picked Mrs. Bayes up at the nursing home, as he often does for special services, and the 45-year church member, who moves about with the aid of a walker, was able to enjoy the service.

Patsy Evans, recreation director at the home, said Mrs. Bayes has actually learned to walk again after an accident which resulted in the broken hip and leg, a mishap from which many much younger persons never fully recover. "She was a pretty sick woman for quite a while," Mrs. Evans said, "but it's been wonderful how she's bounced back."

"I've always had the willpower to overcome these things," Mrs. Bayes explained.

"Aunt" Becky is an old-time mountain woman in the best sense, retaining a vivid recollection of life as it was before the railroad penetrated the Big Sandy Valley. She recalls the excitement as workmen arrived in the Cliff area with the first rails, and the grueling labor which the laying of the track required. The steamboats which plied the Big Sandy stand out in her memory, and her eyes sparkle yet when she speaks of rides up and down the river on the big boats.

Born at Cliff, a daughter of John and

Newsome Bond Set at $25,000, Daughters Held

Bond of $25,000 was asked last Friday for the release from jail of John Henry Newsome, 47, after his examining trial on a charge of murder in the knife-slashing here Aug. 23 of Gerald Ernest McBrayer, Prestonsburg shoe store owner.

The bond was set by Trial Commissioner Yvonne S. Jones after only testimony for the Commonwealth had been heard. Newsome has been unable to execute bail and remains in jail.

His daughters, Gloria Faye, 15, and Barbara, 14, also are prisoners after a hearing slated Monday before Juvenile Judge Richard E. Fitzpatrick was continued. The continuance was granted on motion of Public Defender Dan Rowland, who asked that the two girls be given psychiatric examination prior to a full-dress hearing to determine if their cases shall be transferred to circuit court.

If the trial of the two girls is transferred to circuit court, they will stand trial and may be sentenced in the same manner that trials of adults are handled. If they are given trial in juvenile court, the maximum penalty they will pay, according to Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen, would be six months in a detention center.

CB Club Members To Man Coffee Stop

Friday and Saturday, weary travelers can stop for a coffee break at a station manned by members of the Floyd County CB Club at the junction of U. S. 23 and Ky 114 near West Prestonsburg.

All CB Club members are asked to come out and help serve coffee, Pepsi, and donuts to those coming back to Floyd county for the Labor Day week-end.

Patrick Moves Deputy Sheriff To Salyersville

A jurisdictional dispute between Floyd and Magoffin counties over the custody and future trial of a Magoffin deputy sheriff who is accused of fatally wounding a Salyersville policeman who died Sunday at the Highlands Medical Center, near here, was brewing this week.

The accused deputy, Dallas Fletcher, 47, was in jail here till Monday, accused of the murder of Salyersville Policeman Mike Williams. He was jailed here because, according to State Police Detective Jack Music, threats had been made on his life.

At about the same time a warrant was being issued Monday for Fletcher at the county judge's office here Sheriff Ben Patrick, of Magoffin county, was presenting to a deputy Floyd jailer a note from Magoffin County Judge Earl Borders directing the jailer to release Fletcher to Patrick. When an officer took the Floyd warrant to the jail to serve it on Fletcher, he found that the prisoner was gone.

County Attorney Harold Stumbo joined Jarvis Allen, Prestonsburg attorney who is representing the victim's family in the case, in the opinion that the county first issuing the warrant and making the arrest has jurisdiction.

After Fletcher had been returned to

Court Is Asked To Oust Family In Murder Case

An aftermath of the fatal stabbing of Gerald McBrayer at the Highland Heights housing project in the Goble-Roberts Addition here, the night of Aug. 23, was the filing last Friday by the Church Housing Association of a suit asking the circuit court for a temporary restraining order to prevent John Henry Newsome and his two daughters, who are in jail on murder charges, from returning to the housing unit they have occupied or onto the housing project premises.

The suit also asked a protective order to insure proper disposition of defendants' furniture and personal possessions for storage against the time when their cases are decided.

Kentucky statute requires a 30-day notice prior to eviction, but the housing Association petition claims the conduct with which defendant and his daughters are charged is sufficient under terms of the lease to effect their eviction. Plaintiff expressed the feeling that the remedy at law is not adequate to protect the welfare and safety of defendants or other persons residing at or near the housing project.

"While plaintiff . . . recognizes the basic principle that all accused persons are innocent until proven guilty, nevertheless it is acutely aware of a volatile situation which now exists," the petition adds.

"Aunt" Becky Bayes

bought, it sure tasted good," Mrs. Bayes recalls.

Spinning and weaving were a natural part of growing up for Mrs. Bayes, and the family raised sheep and even cotton for homespun cloth. "We'd pick the wool, card it, and my aunt Sarah Music would do most of the spinning and weaving."

"All the children would have to knit their own stockings," she recalled.

In those days coming to Prestonsburg meant fording the river in the area of the present Cliff bridge, either on foot or, more commonly, on horseback. The nearest store, according to "Aunt" Becky, was that of "Uncle" Jim Hatcher, near the mouth of Abbott Creek, where the family would buy "just things we couldn't provide for ourselves, like coffee."

"Aunt" Becky was married to a childhood sweetheart, Lige Bayes, in 1902. Mr. Bayes worked as a raftsman, floating logs downriver to Catlettsburg. He later worked on the railroad, Mrs. Bayes said, for $1.50 a day.

Mrs. Bayes, who says she regards Mountain Manor as "home to me," is popular among residents, and Mrs. Evans said, "Aunt Becky always has a smile for everyone."

"Aunt" Becky Bayes believes "the Lord must be keeping me here for a purpose," and with her attitude it's likely that she'll always have a smile for everyone and, hopefully, attend many more footwashings.

NAMED CHAIRMAN FOR P-BURG CAMPAIGN

Rev. Walter Applegate has been named Prestonsburg chairman of the Breath of Life Campaign to fight children's lung-damaging diseases, according to Jay Crouse, president of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation. Rev. Applegate will lead local volunteers in raising funds to support research and care programs for children affected by lung-damaging diseases like Cystic Fibrosis, severe asthma chronic bronchitis, and bronchiectasis.

The Breath of Life Week will be September 11-24 with a door-to-door drive scheduled during that time.

School Enrollment up Only 39

The school enrollment at the beginning last week of a new school term reflected a stability in the student population, with an overall increase over last year of only 39, Supt. of Schools E. P. Grigsby, Jr. said Monday.

The slight gain is not expected to require employment of additional teachers.

Last year the enrollment showed a gain for the first time in 15 years.

The biggest enrollment gains were registered at J. M. Stumbo Elementary (57) and Melvin (56). Other schools showing enrollment gains over the past year are Daniels Creek, Prater, Betsy Layne Elementary, Harold, Maytown, McDowell Elementary, Prestonsburg Elementary, Prestonsburg High School, Wayland and Wheelwright High School.

Attendance in the county's three county-operated kindergartens, Harold, Martin and McDowell, was up to 120 this year from 81 the preceding year—mainly because the third school, McDowell, opened this year—but these pupils do not count in the enrollment totals.

151 Attend Maytown Meet

One hundred fifty-one members of the newly formed Maytown Concerned Citizens met there Monday morning at the grade school library to discuss the educational status of children in the Maytown school.

Among the common concerns bringing this group together are overcrowded classrooms, lack of teachers, needed building repair, and the desire for a kindergarten such as has been established in some other schools in the county system.

A delegation from the group will come to the Floyd County Board of Education building this morning where they extended an invitation to Superintendent E. P. (Pete) Grigsby, Jr., to attend a meeting scheduled at 7 p.m. Thursday at the Maytown Grade School auditorium.

At the Monday meeting, the following officers were elected:

Mrs. Violet Allen, chairman; Mrs. Tom McCann, second chairman; Mrs. Tamara Hensley, recorder; and Mrs. Shelby Blevins, second recorder.

Orwell Missed This One

If the federal Water Pollution Act of 1972 means what it says, there will within nine years from this time—by 1985—be no more discharges of pollutants, none whatsoever, into the nation's streams.

We think this is another Impossible Dream. But there was a time when we thought man would never walk the moon. We hope we are wrong again.

Yet we wonder . . . How, in an area of the nation such as this, can absolute purity of the streams be achieved?

There are literally thousands of mobile homes scattered through Eastern Kentucky, not only along the Big Sandy and other rivers but also up almost every creek and hollow. Many of these depend upon septic tanks, many empty their sewage directly into the nearest stream. Scores of sizeable villages, even some incorporated towns, depend upon septic tanks, and in many cases the soil is ill-adapted to this method of sewage disposal.

In the drainage basins of these streams are hundreds of coal mining operations of varying magnitude. These may not increase the bacteria count, but chemical pollution may be as deadly. (In Dewey Lake, for instance, mercury has made its appearance. Although its source has not been identified, only coal mining, or drilling for oil and gas, or agriculture could be suspect.)

It would be interesting to know what the federal government intends to do in order to comply with this no-pollution law which sets a deadline only nine years away. Padlock every home, mobile and otherwise, which, with or without a septic tank, pollutes a stream? Close every industry, including farming, that pollutes with chemicals? Devise individual "package" sewage treatment plants and force residents to buy and install them?

Or will government launch a multi-billion-dollar program to supply sewerage and sewage treatment facilities to the unknown number of homes as they stand in isolation or in clusters?

Then, after all that, what of the water treatment plants which serve communities? Some such plants practicing chlorination have chloroform and related compounds in their drinking water. And under certain conditions chloroform has caused cancer in rats and mice. What about humans?

All conjecture and pondering the imponderable aside, government needs to realize that the nation can't wait nine years for more than planning to be done. While we wait the population grows and problems increase, rural water systems are being extended, more bathrooms are in use, more sprays and poisons permeate the soil and find their way into streams. And more existing water distribution systems and their treatment plants are being overworked.

As a starter, government should require—and make possible through public funding—every water distribution system to have its sewerage system and sewage treatment plant. The cost will be stupendous, but so is the cost of our experiments with Outer Space.

No pollutants in any stream of the United States by 1985? That's one Orwell missed in his "1984."

prospects look drear. Insecticides kill the toads and birds which are the greatest enemies of pests, and so more insecticides must be used, and the insects become immune—and then what do we do?

A friend gave me one of these long, crooked cucumbers. Said he didn't know if they were Burpee's or something else but that he could assure me they were almost that, in any event. They're burpless.

IDENTIFYING THE AUTHORS

Much of my reading, these days, is a pure waste of time but these Gothic novels don't require the effort of thinking to be negotiated. I could whisk through one a night, I suppose, but have, somewhere, picked up the habit of editing as I read, looking for typos, grammatical errors, poor writing and the like.

Some say the feminine names of the authors are pen names of male writers, but I doubt that. I am pretty certain that no man less than 100 would ever refer, as these writers do, to a woman's breast as her chest.

I find more things, these days—coins, pencils, things that in other years escaped my notice. It might just be that the old head isn't carried as high as it once was.

Carroll Family Reunion Held at Craynor, Aug 15

A reunion of the family of the late Troy Carroll was held at the home of Emil and Junita Carroll at Craynor, August 15.

Attending were the mother, Mrs. Dollie Carroll Case, of Craynor, Amos Carroll, of Harold, Charlie and Judith Kay Carroll, Troy Douglas Carroll, Charles Carroll, and Diana Lynn Carroll, all of Baltimore, Md., Anna May and John Canfield and Thelma Hall, all of Pocatella, Idaho, Debbie Carroll, Deana Carroll, and Darin Carroll, Cathay and Tivis Evans, Palmer and Alice McKinney and children, all of Craynor.

This was the first time the family members had all met in 31 years. Everyone enjoyed country music, singing, and old time country dancing as well as plate lunches and soft drinks which were served.

the killing the night McBryer died, confirmed the cause of death as having been from knife wounds, of which there were 15.

Marcella Mullins, who lives in Apartment 18 of the Highland Heights housing complex, said she was sitting on an automobile talking with McBryer and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Goodman when Newsome drove in and that McBryer approached Newsome and a fight ensued, with Newsome beating the other with a belt while the two Newsome girls repeatedly urged, "Kill him, Daddy." The two girls, she said, ran toward the McBryer apartment, and when McBryer ran in the same direction, apparently to help his wife, the two girls emerged, armed with knives.

Mrs. Mullins said McBryer was holding the girls hands when Newsome again struck him with the belt. At one juncture, she said, Newsome helped one of his daughters with a knife thrust into McBryer's body, and that he continued to flail the merchant.

Asked by the public defender if it wasn't possible that Newsome was trying to prevent the daughter from stabbing McBryer rather than helping stab him, Mrs. Mullins replied, "No way."

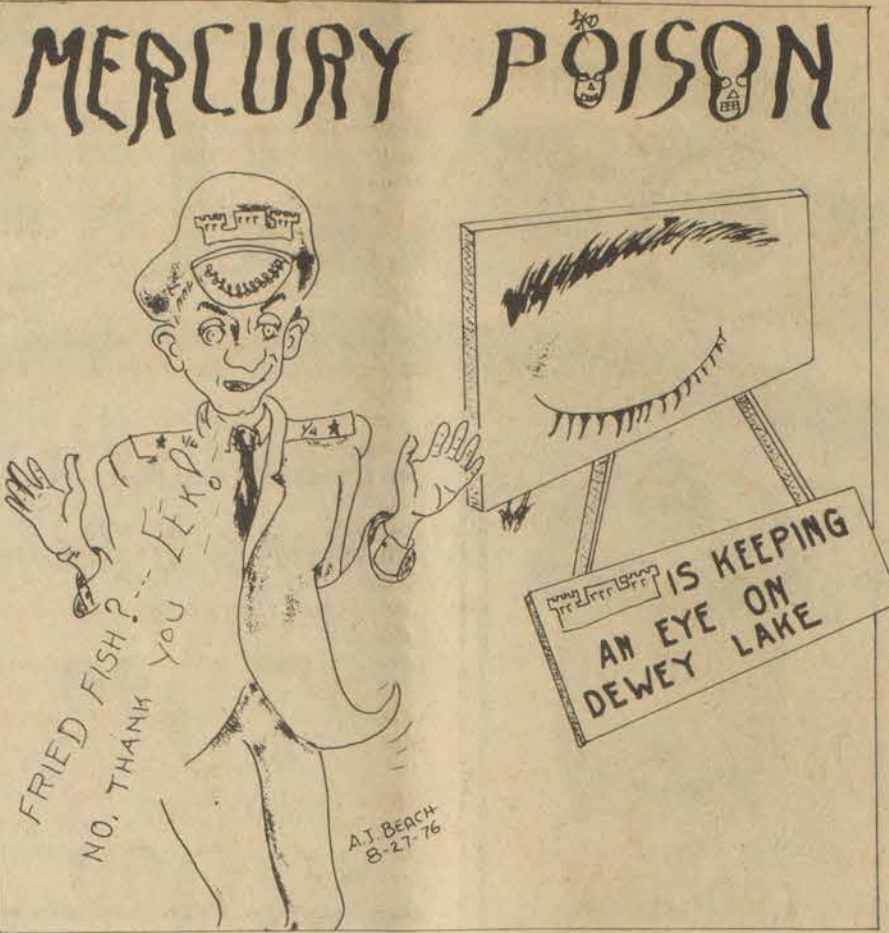

Sam Goodman, who occupies Apartment 17, said that when he approached to tell the girls to quit their attack on McBryer they asked him, "Do you want the same?"

Breathitt Woman Honored at Fair

Mrs. Patsy Turner of Breathitt County, 101 years of age, talks with Gov. Julian M. Carroll who presented her with a plaque at Senior Citizens Day at the Kentucky State Fair for being the oldest woman registered for the day's activities. After receiving the honor from the governor, she told an audience of older citizens how she has seen "Bloody Breathitt County become Beautiful Breathitt County."

Breathitt County was described by Mrs. Turner as a place where wild shootings and heavy drinking were part of every day life in 1913, when she moved to the small town of Canoe. She talked about one time when she took a pistol from a man and "busted it with an axe."

A close friend who traveled to the fair with Mrs. Turner described her as a missionary who built a church in the area back in 1925. "I still teach three Sunday school classes every Sunday," said Mrs. Turner.

Several Floyd countians attended Senior Citizens Day at the Kentucky State Fair which was sponsored by the state Department for Human Resources and hosted by the Institute for Aging, a citizens advisory group.

State Detective Jack Music was quoted as saying the slaying followed a dispute over whiskey and money—"mostly whiskey."

Johnson county crime last week also included an apparent attempt to burn at Paintsville housing complex last Friday morning. Fire Chief Bob Dixon, of Paintsville, said 11 fires were set in the housing project. Ernie Lee Childers, 19, of Mealy, and a juvenile were booked on arson charges.

Spencer was born in Paintsville, a son of George Spencer and Mrs. Mildred Davis. Additional survivors include three brothers, Richard, David and Steve Spencer, all of Paintsville; and five sisters, Mrs. Janice Houston, of Tutor Key, Mrs. Cawlyn Sue Hitchcock, of Salyersville, and Mrs. Diana Pack and Misses Beatrice and Penny Spencer, all of Paintsville.

Three of the seven jailed here on murder charges are being held for other counties.

Magoffin county, it was said, State Detective Lafferty went to Salyersville and served the Floyd county murder warrant on Fletcher. Officials here claim a warrant for Fletcher was issued at Salyersville for the accused man on Sheriff Patrick's statement but that this action was taken after Lafferty had served the Floyd warrant on him. Meanwhile, an order signed by County Judge Pro-Tem Walker Howard directing that Fletcher be returned to this county was rescinded.

The attorney general's help in the case was asked Tuesday morning.

Williams died in the hospital here at 3:30 Sunday afternoon of a bullet wound in a kidney. The shooting took place Saturday night during a Bluegrass music festival in Salyersville. Detective Music was quoted as saying Williams was shot while he was arresting a man listed as Tracey Patton on a drunkenness count.

Fletcher denied the shooting. He surrendered to Sheriff Patrick, about an hour after the shooting. His .357 Magnum had a spent .38 special cartridge in the chamber, but Fletcher was quoted as saying he had never fired a .38-caliber bullet from the weapon. He said he last fired the pistol last Friday, and then at a woodpecker, and had not changed the cartridges.

The weapon and the bullet removed from the victim's body will be sent to the State Police ballistics department for tests, Music said.

The slain man was married about three weeks ago to Miss JoAnn Bayes, of Abbott Creek. Other survivors include a daughter, Melissa; three brothers, Terry L. Williams, of Ft. Knox, and Henry C. and Timothy A. Williams, both of Salyersville, and two sisters, Mrs. Janet Fletcher, of Royalton, and Miss Tammy Williams, of Salyersville.

His funeral was conducted today (Wednesday) from the Burning Fork United Baptist Church.

Begin New Program At Garth School

Vocational education regional director Bronelle Skaggs has announced that new competency-based vocational education programs are being implemented in the schools this fall.

Among these schools is the Garth Area Vocational Education Center, in Hite, where the following teachers will be using the new teaching system: Clifford VanHoose, Machine Shop, and George Barker, Carpentry.

Competency-based vocational education is a new teaching system for teachers. Courses of study have been updated and revised and new instructional materials developed.

Competency-based vocational education programs have been in development for over two years. This year modules, or student-oriented learning packages, will be available in nine of the instructional program in vocational education. These include machine shop, child care, food preparation, bank teller, tractor mechanics, cashier-checker, secretarial, auto body repair and carpentry.

According to Dr. Bruce Carpenter, director of the Office of Competency-Based Vocational Education in the Bureau of Vocational Education, each of the competency-based vocational education programs was field tested in two different schools last fall.

He added that the competency-based system of developing a curriculum or course of study starts with an extensive research process. Workers in the occupational area are asked to list the tasks they perform on-the-job and rate their importance.

Teachers and curriculum specialists then organize the tasks into a logical learning sequence. Then they write performance objectives which specify the actual task that students must perform to demonstrate that they have learned the task.

Numbered learning modules for the students contain a description of each performance objective, all learning activities necessary to achieve the objective, worksheets and other directions. After they complete the learning activities, which may include reading textbooks or articles, practicing the operation under study, viewing slide-tape presentations and other activities as appropriate, students have a self-check to use before they go through the check-out activities with their instructor.

Carpenter said that the use of the competency-based system will allow for more individualized instruction. He also said, "Competency-based vocational education will allow for what we call open-entry, open-exit programs, in which students can begin the program as soon as there is an opening and complete the program at their own speed."

Another advantage of the new curriculum is that it ensures that students are competent in the tasks they need on the job, and it ensures that the students have learned the tasks that are currently in operation in the occupation, he said.

The Kentucky General Assembly appropriated 1.2 million dollars for the implementation of the new programs over the next two years.

FIRST GOVERNOR'S MEET ON ENVIRONMENT SET

Frankfort, Ky.—Gov. Julian M. Carroll has announced that the First Annual Governor's Conference on the Environment will be held in Louisville on Oct. 8 and 9.

A series of seminars will be devoted to nuclear energy development, strip mine reclamation, hazardous and toxic waste disposal and various other subjects. Participants from government, industry and the public are being invited to serve as panelists and moderators. Programs of particular local interest will be a discussion of the National Environmental Policy Act initiated Ohio River Basin Study and Kentucky's Wild Rivers Program.

Robert D. Bell, secretary for the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, said that highlights of the two-day meeting will be the presentation of awards by the governor for noteworthy contributions in the effort to promote the wise use of our natural resources and the protection of the environment.

Outstanding speakers will address the conference on Friday, Oct. 8 with a kick-off session at 9 a.m. and a luncheon at noon. The meeting will conclude with the governor's luncheon on Saturday.

The public is invited to attend. Additional information and reservations can be obtained by contacting the chairman of the Governor's Conference on the Environment, 5th Floor, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

Cyclists on 4,000-Mile Ride Spend Week Here with Combs'

Mrs. Shirley O'Malley (left) and daughter Colleen in a familiar pose.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley A. Combs, of Prestonsburg recently had visitors from Oregon. Mrs. Shirley O'Malley and 12-year-old daughter Colleen, former neighbors of the Combs' in Belmont, California, stopped by August 20 on their coast to coast trip to Yorktown, Va., site of the decisive Revolutionary War battle. They spent a lieuresly week with the Combs' here, and they probably needed it—4,000 miles by bicycle can be tiring.

The O'Malleys, like countless others this summer, have taken advantage of the thousands of miles of secondary roads which have been designated as bike trails this bicentennial year. The mother-daughter duo struck out from the Oregon coast May 27 and have averaged about 50 miles a day and have, for the most part, camped along the way, utilizing the 50 lbs. of camping gear they carry.

Mrs. O'Malley, 50 years old, a grandmother twice, and mother of six other children, obviously is blessed with an abundance of confidence and determination. Just this spring she graduated from San Francisco (Calif.) University after 22 long years of attending night classes between the responsibilities involved in rearing seven children.

At the end of her stay here Mrs. O'Malley, who has seen hundreds of small towns in her cross country trip, decided Prestonsburg was "the friendliest place I've ever been."

Red Cross To Honor Multi-Gallon Givers

The local Red Cross is trying to locate any person who has donated five or more gallons of blood through any Red Cross or hospital facility.

Multi-gallon donors are asked to call their local Red Cross chapter or the Tri-State Red Cross Blood Center in Huntington. These persons will be recognized at the center's regional annual meeting in October and given a certificate of appreciation by their local Red Cross chapter.

Any donor or volunteer is also invited to attend the annual meeting which will be formally announced at a later date.

Red Cross has stated that locating gallon blood donors has always been a difficult task. In past years particularly, Red Cross has indicated, they have often been unaware of all those who have "given of themselves to others." This occurs because some blood donations have been made at hospitals or Red Cross bloodmobiles across the country, they said.

Floyd 4-H'ers Take State Titles

Judgers at work: Jackie Slone, senior state champion, and Bill Flanery, junior champion.

Floyd county 4-H'ers, coached by Extension Agent Jack Friar, apparently have a "lock" on the Kentucky poultry-judging title awarded annually at the Kentucky State Fair. They won again last week, with all seven senior division entrants from this county taking as many top spots in judging.

Moreover, they won the junior division, with Floyd county clubmembers taking first, third, fourth, seventh and eighth places.

Mr. Fair noted that this is the first year girls have been on the poultry-judging team and that they have done so well that at the State Fair the first, second and third-place winners were all girls.

The first four in the senior division—

Jackie Slone, of Garrett, Linda Boggs, Langley, Vicky Blackburn, Stanville, and Richard Hackworth, West Prestonsburg, will represent Kentucky in the national poultry-judging contest in November at Chicago.

Miss Slone, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tauby Slone, led all judges with 1018 out of a possible 1100 points. Linda Boggs, 17, Langley, daughter of Mrs. Barbara Boggs Bentley and the late County Agent Ellis Boggs, was second with 993 points. Third-place winner with 966 points was Vicky Blackburn, 16, Stanville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Blackburn. Fourth in the top four was Richard Hackworth, 15, West Prestonsburg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Troy Hackworth.

Melvin May, of Langley, was fifth with 957 points; John Flanery, Langley, sixth, with 953, and Ann Flanery, Langley, seventh, with 944.

In the junior division 13-year-old Bill Flanery, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hershel Flanery, of Langley, was first with 908 of a possible 100 points. Mark Westfall, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Westfall, of Ivel, was second with 879; Dwayne Fraley, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fraley, of Eastern, fourth with 878; Todd Halbert, Langley, seventh, 849, and Nathan Reffett, Langley, eighth, with 824 points.

Reading Group Meet Scheduled Sept. 14

The board of directors of the Jenny Wiley Council of the International Reading Association met August 18 to plan the year's activities and meeting dates. This meeting was followed by a Kentucky State Council directors meeting at Elizabethtown August 21 which was attended by Kathleen Keithman, president, Jenny Wiley Council, IRA; Lexie Allen, treasurer, KSC-IRA; Delphia Hicks, corresponding secretary, KSC-IRA; Bertha Ratliff, director, KSC-IRA.

Upcoming activities on the local level include the first regular meeting to be held September 14 at the Regional Library in Prestonsburg and a workshop at the W. R. Castle School in Johnson county, October 16. On the state level, the Fall Conference will be held in Louisville, October 8-9.

Membership in the Jenny Wiley Council is open to all persons engaged in the teaching or supervision of reading at any school level, to parents, and to all others interested in the purposes of the Council. Local and state dues are four dollars. For further information, contact Bertha Ratliff, Minnie, phone 377-2208, or Delphia J. Hicks, Prestonsburg, phone 886-3108. The Jenny Wiley Council is an affiliate of the International Reading Association.

HERE FOR VISIT

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bengel, of Ocean View, Calif., and Mrs. John Wade and son Mark, of Downingtown, Pa., have spent the past several days visiting Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Roberts here and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. J. Baird, III, at Pikeville.

Apple Butter's Fun At East Point Club

Apple butter making got under way at the East Point Area Development Club, August 28, for the Kentucky Apple Festival '76 to be held October 1 and 2 in Paintsville. A fine crowd turned out to help peel, core and slice the apples, and, of course, stir.

Fried chicken was served. There will be another apple butter makin' September 4. It's a great way to spend a Saturday and everyone enjoys themselves.

The regular meeting of the East Point Area Development Club will be September 2 at 7 p.m. downstairs at the Masonic Hall. Matters pertaining to your community will be discussed. If you have any ideas to improve the East Point area, please attend.

RETURN TO FLORIDA

Mr. and Mrs. George Ryan, Jr. and grandchildren, Laurie and Charles Simms, have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Ryan, of Allen. They were on vacation and returned to their home in Deland, Florida after visiting some Civil War sites in the area.

Trip to Washington and New York Highlight Senior's Year

By GEORGE L. MOORE

Beginning in the '40's and continuing through 1965, I made some 20 trips to Washington, D. C. and New York City with senior classes. This came to be the event that all high school students looked forward to from the time they entered high school. It was the highlight of the students' high school career. Many teachers told me that the senior trips were a considerable influence in keeping children from dropping out of school. All students in the senior class, from the poorest to the most affluent, had the same opportunity. If for some reason there was a boy or girl who could not raise the necessary $15 for the five-day, all-expense-paid trip there was someone in the community ready to advance the money.

Planning and preparation for the senior trip is quite important. In our school, preparation began the first week of school. All members of the class were involved. They were always successful in raising the necessary funds for the trips with little or no interruption in the school program. Thanks to the strong and united support from the parents, the task was made much easier.

We used all methods of transportation that you can think of. In the early days we used the school buses. This was the cheapest transportation and also the most uncomfortable. The Greyhound was better but also quite expensive. As the classes grew larger, the use of the school buses had to be discontinued. Our best method of transportation was by train. The C&O railway had coaches equipped especially for this purpose. They had adjustable, reclining seats installed that were quite comfortable. The round trip to Washington and New York, including two meals on the train, was around sixty dollars per student. We usually spent one night in Washington and two nights in New York. Our students preferred New York to Washington.

When we arrived in Washington, our first visit was to the Capitol. Just as soon as you enter the rotunda of the Capitol building, swarms of guides will approach you. They will tell you you have to have a guide, but you do not. I would advise a guide for the first two or three trips, but after that you can do the tour much quicker and at the same time save 25 cents per student by acting as your own guide. One morning we arrived very early and took seats in the Senate gallery to see how the nation's business was conducted. The chaplain came in and requested everyone to stand. After a few preliminaries were finished, a Senator took the floor and began to speak. I am absolutely sure that there was not a senator in the entire chamber that listened to a single word the speaker was saying. Senators would turn in their seats and engage the nearest neighbor in a noisy conversation. In the meantime, senators were constantly walking in and out of the chamber. To say the least, it was utterly disgusting.

After leaving the Capitol, we usually visited the Washington Monument. It is a good idea to get here as early as possible if you do not wish to wait in line for a long period of time. The next stop was the Lincoln Memorial. This takes about five minutes. I have noticed that the crowd always seems to become solemn and quiet as it comes near the statue of Lincoln.

From this point we crossed the Potomac and made a short visit to Lee's Mansion. I think you can get the best view of the city of Washington from the front porch of this mansion.

The next stop was the tomb of the Unknown Soldier. The thing that impresses the students more than anything else in Washington is the changing of the guard at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington Cemetery. The thing the students photograph most often is the raising of the flag on Iwo Jima.

From Arlington Cemetery, we usually went down the Potomac to visit Washington's home at Mount Vernon. All places inside the mansion grounds are well marked and no guide is necessary. The most impressive thing here is not the mansion but the tomb that holds the remains of Washington and his wife, Martha. It is located midway between the mansion and the Potomac River. At the tomb's entrance, a short lecture is given at frequent intervals. It is quite interesting and well worth listening to.

When we returned to Washington from Mount Vernon, we always had lunch at Scholl's Cafeteria. The service is quick, the food is good, and the prices are reasonable.

When time would permit, we made a tour of the White House. You are herded through at a rather rapid rate and actually you don't see much. The most lengthy visit of the day was reserved for the Smithsonian Institution. It seems that all of the nation's heritage is here. The thing that is of most interest to the girls at the Smithsonian is the display of the inaugural gowns of the first ladies. Until Mrs. Kennedy appeared on the scene, the gown preferred by most was that of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt. The thing that seems to be of most interest to the boys is the collection of ancient automobiles.

Before taking a three-hour cruise down the Potomac at night, we always managed to have dinner at a sea food restaurant. There are a number of good ones located down by the boat docks at the Seventh Street wharf. This is always a new experience for most students and there were always a few who would have no part of sea food; pork chops were more to their liking.

The cruise down the Potomac at night is pleasant and entertaining. There is an excellent orchestra on the boat that provides dance music for the two dance floors on the upper and lower decks. It is orderly and well policed. No boy can appear on the dance floor without wearing his coat. It would be my guess that students enjoy this event more than anything else in Washington.

Flu Vaccines Explained

By DONNA J. GRIFFITH
Health Educator

Elsewhere in this newspaper is a Pre-registration form to be presented at the clinic sites for the Swine Flu mass immunizations. Any person 18 years of age or over who plans to attend one of these mass clinics should cut this form out of the paper and have it filled out, signed and ready to be presented when they reach the clinic site.

There will be two types of flu vaccine offered to the public at the various clinic which are to be held throughout the county: Monovalent Vaccine and Bivalent Vaccine. Monovalent vaccine contains the A-New Jersey-8-76, or the Swine Flu, strain, and Bivalent vaccine contains both the A-New Jersey strain and the A-Victoria-3-75 strain, which was last season's epidemic strain.

This registration form, however, is only for those persons who should receive the Monovalent vaccine—that is, those persons between 18 and 64 years of age who have no type of chronic illness such as diabetes, heart disease or respiratory disease.

Pre-registration forms for those persons to receive Bivalent vaccine will be published in this newspaper at a later date. The Bivalent vaccine is to be given to persons of all ages who are considered to be high risk, such as those who have chronic cardiac, pulmonary, renal, or metabolic disorders and also to all persons age 65 and over.

Registration forms for both Monovalent and Bivalent vaccines will also be distributed throughout the county so that they will be available to all Floyd countians.

More specific information regarding the clinic sites and dates will be published later when plans are more definite.

ANNOUNCE BIRTH

A daughter, Nancy Aileen, was born August 20 to Mr. and Mrs. Dan Wallen, of Walkersville, Maryland.

The grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Wallen, of Stanville, and Mr. and Mrs. James A. Wise, of Denton, Maryland.

Blackburn-Hite

Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Blackburn, of Endicott, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Gwendolyn Susan, to Larry Bailey Hite, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Hite, of Salem, Ohio.

They will be united in a double-ring ceremony at 6 p.m., September 4, at Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church, of Prestonsburg, by the Rev. W. D. Jagers.

The gracious custom of open church will be observed and a reception will immediately follow in the activities room of the church.

Children Schedule Carnival To Raise Dystrophy Funds

A neighborhood carnival against dystrophy will be held Saturday afternoon at Rt. 1, West Prestonsburg; Rebecca Prater, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Prater, will serve as ringmaster.

The carnival, which will begin at 12 noon will feature such entertainment as bowling on the green, fortune-telling booth, bean bag toss, penny sale, pat ball, pie toss and candy walk, and all proceeds will go to aid the fight against dystrophy and related diseases.

The children got the idea for staging their event while watching TV personality Joe Smith who is promoting carnivals on his clubhouse 22 children's show seen on station WKEE, Dayton, Ohio.

Last year, in cooperation with the Muscular Dystrophy Association, 40,078 carnivals were held by children across the country, and more than $1.4 million was raised for MDA's research and patient service programs.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION ABOUT SWINE INFLUENZA (FLU) VACCINE (MONOVALENT)

July 15, 1976

The Disease

Influenza (flu) is caused by viruses. When people get flu they may have fever, chills, headache, dry cough or muscle aches. Illness may last several days or a week or more, and complete recovery is usual. However, complications may lead to pneumonia or death in some people. For the elderly and people with diabetes or heart, lung, or kidney diseases, flu may be especially serious.

It is unlikely that you have adequate natural protection against swine flu, since it has not caused widespread human outbreaks in 45 years.

The Vaccine

The vaccine will not give you flu because it is made from killed viruses. Today's flu vaccines cause fewer side effects than those used in the past. In contrast with some other vaccines, flu vaccine can be taken safely during pregnancy.

One shot will protect most people from swine flu during the next flu season; however, either a second shot or a different dosage may be required for persons under age 25. If you are under 25 and a notice regarding such information is not attached, this information will be provided to you wherever you receive the vaccine.

Possible Vaccine Side Effects

Most people will have no side effects from the vaccine. However, tenderness at the site of the shot may occur and last for several days. Some people will also have fever, chills, headache, or muscle aches within the first 48 hours.

Special Precautions

As with any vaccine or drug, the possibility of severe or potentially fatal reactions exists. However, flu vaccine has rarely been associated with severe or fatal reactions. In some instances people receiving vaccine have had allergic reactions. You should note very carefully the following precautions:

- Children under a certain age should not routinely receive flu vaccine. Please ask about age limitations if this information is not attached.
- People with known allergy to eggs should receive the vaccine only under special medical supervision.
- People with fever should delay getting vaccinated until the fever is gone.
- People who have received another type of vaccine in the past 14 days should consult a physician before taking the flu vaccine.

If you have any questions about flu or flu vaccine, please ask.

REGISTRATION FORM

I have read the above statement about swine flu, the vaccine, and the special precautions. I have had an opportunity to ask questions, including questions regarding vaccination recommendations for persons under age 25, and understand the benefits and risks of flu vaccination. I request that it be given to me or to the person named below of whom I am the parent or guardian.

Officers Report Theft Outbreak

A rash of thefts was reported in the Prestonsburg area by city police over the past week and they included the theft of two CB radios and the breaking and entering of a service station.

Reported stolen from the Supertest gas station on U. S. 23 North Monday night was approximately $30 in merchandise. Also stolen Monday night was a CB radio belonging to Phoebe Allen. The CB was removed from her car which was parked at her home on Davis Street. Another incident involving the theft of a CB radio from the car of Maurice Minix was reported last Friday night in the Prestonsburg area. Investigations into each of the incidents are under way.

In connection with the incidents Prestonsburg Police Officer Darrell Conley stressed that crime involving the theft of the popular CB radios was increasing in the area, and he warned CB owners to lock their vehicles. Officer Conley said the police department will make available to any interested person an engraving machine with which a permanent identification mark may be placed on any item which an owner would like to safeguard. "We also will provide the owner with a sheet so all the marked items may be listed to facilitate tracing." Those using the service will also receive a sticker for car or home which identifies contents as being so marked to discourage would-be thieves. More information may be obtained by contacting city police at 886-2335 or 886-3857.

Arrested on charges of selling alcoholic beverages in local option territory and possession of alcoholic beverages for purpose of sale Saturday at a taxi stand here, was Raymond Joseph, of Prestonsburg, who was reportedly caught in the act of selling by Sheriff Joe W. Lewis. Joseph paid fines on each charge totalling $114 in Prestonsburg Police Judge Tom Lafferty's court.

Booked at the jail here on a charge of transporting alcoholic beverages was Randy Hall, who was arrested Saturday on Mud Creek by Deputy Sheriff J. D. Martin. A juvenile was booked at the same time on the same charge.

Others booked at the county jail, charges against each and arresting officers follow:

Samuel Boyd, drunk driving, by State Trooper Sizemore; Jerry R. Burke, assault in third degree, by Deputy Sheriff Ed Isaac; Vernon Akers, assault in first degree, by State Trooper Castle; Thomas G. Butler, drunk driving, by Wheelwright City Marshals Harold and Mildred Bates; David Bolen, drunk driving and attempt to elude police officer, by Constable Bob Hackworth; Pina Mae Hall, wanton endangerment in third degree, by State Trooper Weedman; Claude Plummer, Danny Joe Brown, burglary in third degree, by Prestonsburg Policemen Kelly and Trusty; Morris Thacker, drunk driving, by State Trooper Weedman; Cecil Tillis Jervis, drunk driving and carrying a concealed weapon, by Prestonsburg Police Officer Darrell Conley; Donald L. Shul, drunk driving, by Prestonsburg Police Officer Keith Lawson.

Woman's Club To Sponsor Labor Day Street Dance

A Labor Day street dance with Steve Rector and the Silver Dollar Band will be held in city parking lot at Martin, Saturday (Sept. 4) under auspices of the Martin Woman's Club, from 7 p.m. to 12 midnight. ### Highlands Regional Wins Accreditation

Highlands Regional Medical Center and Skilled Nursing Facility have been accredited by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals (JCAH), Allan Perry, chairman of the board, announced this week.

This accreditation, which covers from June, 1976 to June, 1978, is the result of an on-site survey made by field representatives of the Joint Commission's Hospital Accreditation Program (HAP). Accreditation indicates that this facility has chosen to operate according to standards set by JCAH and that the facility has met these standards.

Highlands Regional is one of approximately 4800 general hospitals throughout the United States that have earned this recognition. There are approximately 7150 hospitals in the U. S.

Leake Honored as 50-Year Mason

A Master Mason since 1926, Mr. Leake was presented his 50-year pin and gold membership card at the East Point Lodge August 14. His wife, three daughters, and sons-in-law and three grandchildren were presented as was a large group of friends.

Rainley "Snow" White, a 50-year Mason himself, gave a fine talk and make the pin presentation. Mr. Leake was presented a past master's watch by Master Ermon L. Tackett on behalf of the lodge and Mr. Leake's sons-in-law. He is active in his lodge, his church, the community development club, gardening and light farming.

Cancer-Detection Method Readied

LEXINGTON, Ky.—A new method of pinpointing the location of cancer in the digestive tract will be put to use on patients this fall at the University of Kentucky Medical Center.

The technique, developed by Dr. David Goldenberg and a team of doctors at the center, involves tacking a radioisotope to an antibody which is sent into the patient's body to seek out the tumor.

The doctors have been using the method on hamsters for about three years and Dr. Goldenberg said it "does localize tumors that are extremely small."

Cancer of the colon, he said, "is one of the major types of cancer." Some 100,000 new cases can be expected in the United States this year "and about half of these will die," Dr. Goldenberg said.

"Any advance made in early detection would have an impact on these patients," he added.

The use of the detection method on human patients probably will begin in November. It is financed by a $292,000 contract from the institute "to take our experience in animal studies and try to adapt it for similar work in humans," Dr. Goldenberg said.

Dr. Goldenberg said the first patients to receive the antibodies will be those "where we have a quite a bit of knowledge of the case" so doctors can learn "just how reliable our detection technique is."

Later, "we can proceed to patients where it will make even more impact—those where we're not certain the tumor has spread," Dr. Goldenberg said in an interview.

"But I'd be reluctant to go into this phase until I have enough information to be able to provide the physician and the patient with the best approach to take," he added.

Even later—perhaps in the distant future—it might be possible to attach a "tumor destructive device" to the antibody and send it into the patient to wipe out the cancer.

"Our future goal is to detect tumors while they are so small that they are curable," Dr. Goldenberg said.

Dr. Goldenberg explained that tumors spew a substance known as carcinoembryonic antigen, or CEA, into the bloodstream and the CEA is the target aimed at by the new detection technique.

The antibody carrying the radioactive marker attaches itself to CEA-producing cells and then can be located by X-rays or body scans.

However, Dr. Goldenberg said, the physician must be wary of false hot spots treated by such things as "an accumulation of radioactive urine in the bladder."

"This is what we call a false positive," he said, but sophisticated computer techniques can separate them from "real hot spots."

Dr. Goldenberg began the search for a detection method more than 10 years ago when he began growing human colon tumors in hamsters.

East Kentucky CAP Groups Receive $621,424 Federal Fund

Frankfort, Ky.—Gov. Julian M. Carroll and Sec. C. Leslie Dawson, Department for Human Resources, have announced the allocation of federal funds in the amount of $621,424 for Community Action Agencies (CAA) in Eastern Kentucky.

Some $526,000 of the funds will be used to carry out programs of the following agencies:

—Harlan County CAA, Inc., Harlan, $26,400 for a period of three months.

—Bell-Whitley CAA, Pineville, $30,750, for a period of three months.

—Northeast Kentucky Area Development Council, Olive Hill, $12,247, for a period of one month.

—Northeast Kentucky Area Development Council, Olive Hill, supplemental funds of $24,494 for a period of two months.

—Knox County Economic Opportunity Council, Barbourville, $77,000 for a period of three months.

—Daniel Boone Development Council, Manchester, $42,500, for a period of three months.

—Gateway Community Services Organization, West Liberty, $33,017, for a period of three months.

—Letcher-Knott-Leslie-Perry (counties) Community Action Council, Inc., Hazard, $126,732, for a period of three months.

—Lake Cumberland Community Services Organization, Somerset, $103,800, for a period of three months.

—Middle Kentucky River Area Development Council, Jackson, $49,500, for a period of three months.

In addition, $94,984 in federal funds were allocated for operation of energy conservation programs in the following areas:

—Bell-Whitley CAA, Pineville, $8,920, for a period of three months.

—Knox County Economic Opportunity Council, Barbourville, $5,000, for a period of three months.

—Lake Cumberland Community Services Organization, Somerset, $19,470, for a period of three months.

—Big Sandy CAA, Paintsville, $21,384, for a period of three months.

—Daniel Boone Development Council, Inc., Manchester, $6,690, for a period of three months.

—Northeast Kentucky Area Development Council, Olive Hill, $5,000, for a period of three months.

—Letcher-Knott-Leslie-Perry (counties) Community Action Council, Inc., Hazard, $15,140, for a period of three months.

—Gateway Community Services Organization, Inc., West Liberty, $6,690, for a period of three months.

—Middle Kentucky River Area Development Council, Jackson, $6,690, for a period of three months.

The energy conservation programs are directed at lowering utility rates for lower-income families and the elderly by winterizing the families' homes with insulation and other means. In some cases, energy conservation programs will help the family pay their utility bills.

Notice of Intention To Mine

In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that: Toler Creek Mining Co., Inc., P. O. Box 152, Charleston, W. Va., 25321, intends to file an application for the surface mining of approximately 10 acres located southeast of Harold in Floyd county. # Westward, Ho—and Away We Go!

By CHARLES M. MCCOY

June 17th, we're up and ready to go. We're now near Disneyland. This is Rosemary's day, the one she has been looking forward to; she always likes to go to Disney World or Disneyland, so we have breakfast and head out to Disney. I don't need to explain about Disney, as you already know it is a fantasy land. So in we go. I told Rose to ride or see whatever she wanted to, so this is another day of riding trains, cars, boats, whirls, dips, going through spook houses, and riding into outer space in the dome ship, which seems very realistic according to the imagination. We also watch a very colorful parade dedicated to the bicentennial, put on by the Disney stars, Mickey Mouse, Donald Duck, Pully, Peter Pan, the Three Pigs, Snow White and Seven Dwarfs, Cinderella, Sleeping Beauty on one of the floats, etc. which all made up a beautiful parade. Also we ride the Monorail, we go to the different sections of the park, which shows up Frontier Days, the New Orleans section, the Modern-Day section, the Futuristic section. This all makes up quite a day, also browsing the stores and shops and taking on a few souvenirs.

June 18th, we head north to Hollywood, the glamour town of the world. We head back through the winding roads and freeways, go north on 5, and go too far for our turnoff to the Hollywood freeway. We turn back, I attempt to cross over to it on an exit that I thought would get me there; instead, it led me around and up over a mountain going away from where I wanted to go. I saw a policeman in a parking lot and ask him to direct me. He says, "Up over the hump and keep going to your right and you will come into Hollywood freeway. I did and all was well. We drive around a bit, until we came to Hollywood and Vine, which is the notable landmark of Hollywood. We get parked and start walking. We are now walking the Street of the Stars; there are large stars made into the center of the sidewalk and they continue one after another for three or four blocks, with different stars' names in them. We go by the Brown Derby, a very famous restaurant which is frequented by the stars and notables. We go through shops and stores, browsing around, and buy some souvenirs, then back in the car. It's getting late in the afternoon, so we drive out the Sunset Strip, the famed street of the sportsters and showmen. It is lively and hectic but not as brilliant as it was a few years ago, I have been there several times beginning in 1955 and each time I notice a difference, which is the loss of a little of its glamour, and dignity. I stop long enough to take Rose to see the famed Chinese Theatre. It was a doozie in its day and still is a remarkable building. The design is enchanting and the coloring to match. In the concrete out front of the building are many of the stars' names written in the concrete by their own scribbling when the concrete was poured. Some made their handprints in it with their initials in the print or just under it, or their first name, also love notes from one to the other. It's very interesting. We continue on out Sunset toward Beverly Hills, go driving the various streets, looking at the stars' beautiful homes and well-kept lawns and gardens of flowers, trees and shrubbery. It is very beautiful and those homes are mostly enormous in size, very beautifully designed. Mercedes, Jaguars and Rolls Royces or other expensive sports cars are about all you see in their driveways. We saw anywhere from one to six at most every home or residence we looked at. After looking over Beverly Hills we continue on Sunset toward the beach, which is about eight miles farther. We find a place to stay and put up for the night. We were going to stay for two days on the beach but the water was so freezing cold and it was so windy, we only put up for one night. So ends another very good day at 14,604.1, a run of 145.8 miles in our run-around today.

June 19th, we head out, back up Sunset about six miles to 405 north ten miles, then east on Ventura six miles to Universal City, where now most of the movies are made, and they also have studio tours, something they started about six or eight years ago, which is very interesting. So in we go and get on a tour train. We head down off the hill into movieland, and they are telling us about the various streets and special buildings where many, many movies have been made by the famous stars—Western, romantic pictures, war pictures, gangster, all of different types of background suitable to almost any location on earth, with their creations made up to suit—any thing from Bangkok to Moscow, from Tripoli to Turkey, Argentina to Alaska they can come up with a back ground to suit. They can take from the many fronts and sections of various building designs and come up with a set up that would make you think you were in Peking, Paris, London, Buenos Aires or anywhere else in the world. They are, of course, very crafty at make-believe. For example, we were riding the tour train along, and there's a man-made lake right in front of us. All of a sudden the lake begins to part, there is a wall of water on each side as the train passes through, and when we are out on the other side the water comes back together. The walls of the water were about even with the top of the train. I got pictures of this. Then we had to cross a bridge over part of the lake. It sure did look shakey and they told us it was. When we were out about midway the bridge, it fell straight down from about 18 feet to two feet. You talk about some screaming out of those women—they put it up. I guess some of the men were excited, but were ashamed to show it. Then traveling on around by the lake, suddenly the train swerved sideways and tilted toward the lake, and up comes a fish that looks as big as a whale right at that moment, with its mouth open like a cave, looking like it was going to devour whoever he could get; and more screaming was on. They screamed when the train tilted toward the water, they screamed even more when the fish came up after them. We went back up on the hill to the park, and looked around. Frankenstein was out strolling around making pictures with those that wanted him to, which kept him pretty busy. Then out onto the freeway south, heading toward San Diego. Down the line sixty miles, we come to safari country. We turn in and go through the wild animal kingdom, as Rose, of course, wanted to see it. We drove through and close by all kinds of wild animals, which were free to roam as they wished. We then head on south, turn east just south of Oceanside to Escondido where we were going to stay for the night, but all motels were full up. We had to go on to San Diego on 8, turn east to El Centro—140 more miles before we can get a room. It's 9 p.m., we have a good meal, gas up and hit the road to cover that 140 miles. We get to our room by 12:30 and put up. So ends another very interesting day at 14,916.8, a run of 312.7 miles. Now we are headed east.

June 20, we are back on the road again in the wide open spaces after a few days in the cities. El Centro is a nice, clean, little town down near the California-Mexican border. Today, as I did yesterday evening, I will run my radio as here I get lots of beautiful Mexican music. I want to see the Anza Borrego desert country, so we head out north on 86 to Brawley, then on 78 north west to Julian. To Julian is all wild, desert country, Julian sits on top of a mountain range about 75 miles west of Brawley, so we travel the 75 miles over to the mountain range, then start the beautiful, winding climb up the high mountain. We get up to Julian, which is a quaint, beautiful, little town of friendly people. We then drive around the town, which sets on a plateau of rolling, green meadows. We come back off the mountain, back over the road to El Centro, then on 8 east to Yuma, Arizona, where we say goodbye to California. Most all the road over to Yuma, Arizona, is desert country and near Yuma the sand becomes very thick into large sand dunes. This is where the sports with dune buggies have their thrills running over the sandhills. Yuma is a town of about thirty thousand, it sets at the lower end of the Imperial Valley on the U. S.-Mexican border. We put up here for our 15th night out at 15,191.4, a run of 274.6 miles.

June 21, we head east on 8 to Gila Bend and Casa Grande and on to Tucson. Over this road are more wide, open spaces of desert country and very hot; the heat here today ran from 110 to 114 at Gila Bend. As the old saying goes, if I owned this part, of the country and hell, I would rent this out and live in hell. That's getting pretty bad, so you can see I haven't too much to say about this drive. Anyway, getting away from the above smart alex saying, I have no grudges against any of God's creation, it all has its purpose; I am sure He knows what the purpose of each is, it is all certainly in balance and serves the purpose intended. We continue on to Tucson where we put up for the night, our twentieth night out, at 15,453.3, a run of 261.9 miles.

June 22, we head out of Tucson on state 14 to Old Tucson, where the serial of High Chaparral movies were made as well as many other big western films. We see a movie of the history of Old Tucson, and spots of some of the great movies that were filmed there. This is the land of the tall Saguaro Cactus, this is a picturesque location, with the cactus and the surrounding mountain chain, makes this an ideal filming location. We look all around, make some pictures, see another big western gunfight, then make our exit and back to route 10, east to Tombstone, a town of rough western history, the place where they mined lots of gold and silver, had their brawls, gunfights and wild days. The biggest gun battle which is much talked about was at the O. K. Corral, where the Clantons tangled with Wyatt Earp and Doc Holiday. The old section of town still has its original looks of the 1880's; it looks so natural, seems you can almost hear the roar of the laughter, the clanking of the wagons, the clapping of the horses, the roar of the guns, smell the smoke in the air, but there's only silence except for a few walkers as I stand in the old street looking all around. We head back north toward Benson, from Benson we take 10 east to 666 north, go a short distance on 666 and we hit Indian territory. We sure can tell the difference: there are no fences, or telephone poles along the road; it's wide-open range with great, wide vistas, no houses in sight. Sure looks like the land of the coyote; in fact, Rosemary saw one off to the right about 150 or 200 feet. Of course we had seen coyotes in Nevada on previous trips. I have never got the opportunity to hear their lonesome, wailing howl, which, they say, makes the chill bumps pop out on you and your hair kinda stand up, especially at night if you're out on the lone prairie. We continue on, the sun is sinking low, and it is beautiful as usual with its golden sheath of fiery streaks, fanning out in every direction, as it seems to set in the ground on the far horizon and it casts its last glow on the colored chimney rocks, peaks and towers, making a breathtaking painting of the last minutes of the day. How little I feel, this magnificent, awesome, wonderful sight to behold, but what a stirring thrill to the soul. This is the reward of going to see God's great creations. The night is closing in on us. The silhouette of the formations of the horizon is all one can see now as all is shut off for the day. We head on up 70 to Globe, Arizona where we put up for the night. So ends another very interesting day at 15,734.1, a run of 280.8 miles.

June 23, up to see more of the beautiful wild-looking Indian territory, which yesterday and today runs a total of about 380 miles. At Indian Wells on 77, we get to see just how the Indians have to live, or just what an Indian village looks like nowadays. They live in little two-room cabins in this area, I noticed they have a church and school, their living is hard in this barren country. If they had water for irrigation they could grow some fine crops, as this soil is very rich in minerals and will grow vegetation very fast. In coming up 77 we are passing through the Painted Desert. It has some of the hues of the Grand Canyon, except it is not as colorful. In traveling on north through the Indian country, we see the various shapes and colors of the hills, mountains, rolls, canyons, and wide panoramic vistas, with no fences or telephone poles to tell us of the modern-day mode of living. There is electric power into the reservation, but here it seldom runs near the highway. In this land it sets you back in time, 75 or 100 years. The highway is a narrow two way strip of blacktop, in fair condition. We continue on to 63 and to 160 east, we are north now near the "four corners." We continue east a few miles to the four corners, which is where Arizona, Colorado, New Mexico and Utah meet. We have been here before; we have a picture of Gary, on the previous trip, with one foot in Colorado, one hand in New Mexico, one foot in Utah, one hand in Arizona. There's a big granite slab with a pivotal center, with the four state corners meeting at the center, showing each state boundary line coming up to the center, and naming each state in its respective place; thus a person on all fours can be in four states at one time. It is getting very late, we circle the slab, exit to the highway east on 160 to Durango, Colorado, and put up for the night at Stage Coach Inn. So ends another very interesting day, at 16,193.7, a run of 459.6 miles.

June 24, after breakfast we stroll around Durango, which is a very pretty town sitting in a valley between two high mountain ranges, on 160 east and 550 north, in southwestern Colorado. From here is where the famous narrow gauge railroad runs north up a very beautiful valley to Silverton, a distance of about 50 miles. We have been over the highway to Silverton and on to Ouray, which is called the Million Dollar Highway. It is absolutely beautiful. We arrived ahead of the train in Silverton. We were awaiting its arrival, as we were told they would stage a big holdup and have one whale of a gunfight all the way from the railway station clear through town, the town being one of the old western authentic-type towns, and they sure weren't lying. They had a fight and a half. It was very realistic, a lot of running, ducking, shooting, falling off buildings, and through windows, down stairways, in streets. It was about the toughest brawl I ever saw put on, and I've seen a lot of 'em. After getting a few souvenirs from Durango we head out east on 160, over high mountains, up and down beautiful valleys viewing the snow-capped mountains, and watching the swift clear waters below. Colorful Colorado is the word; it is a very beautiful, interesting state. We cross the Rockies at the Sangle De Cristo Pass, on to Walsenburg on the east side of the Rockies, near Spanish Peaks. This is all very beautiful country. Then we take route 10, a narrow state route, and see another 100 miles of beautiful country. This is off the beaten path—it's wild, beautiful country, with hardly a house to be seen. This is the kind of road I like to travel; you're in God-made, not man-made, beauty. This is where you see the real country and in most of my travels these are the kind of roads I travel every time I have the opportunity. We hit route 50 at La Junta, then on to Lamar, Colorado. We see another very beautiful western sunset, and put up for the night. So ends another very interesting day at 16,558.5, a run of 364.8 miles.

June 25, up and ready to go. First, we look around the town of Lamar buy a souvenir or two, as the town has the same name as my daughter, Hedda Lamarr, then we head out to Kansas, which is only a few miles east. We're now in Kansas, in flat country, known as the great wheat state. We see lots of farmers at work with their glittering farm machinery. I thank God for this great bread basket. Also there are some big cattle spreads in the state, and many large feeder lots, from two to ten thousand head. We continue on across Kansas to Dodge City. I don't have to tell you this was a very colorful, historic town in the annals of the old west. Many of the great cattle drives ended up in Dodge, also drifters, outlaws, and gunfighters angled into Dodge from the four corners of the great west, trying their hand at gambling, shooting and chiseling, as this is where the best met the best at their own game, and things really exploded. We stayed here awhile, looking around, took some pictures, bought some souvenirs and headed out east toward Wichita. It's gettin down in the shank of the evening when we reach Wichita, all the motels are full up and we have to continue on south east to Winfield, where we put up for the night. Another very good day at 16,929.3, a run of 370.8 miles.

June 26, This day carries a tinge of sadness, as we know this is the last of the Old West. We leave the little town of Winfield, head south to route 166, then east, we are heading for Coffeyville, Kansas. On this route we see some beautiful, rolling country, very similar to our Blue Grass country. In this area are many big cattle spreads, and it is ideal for them, with lots of lush grass and plenty of clear, pure water. It is a rancher's paradise; there's about a hundred miles of this. We stopped at a historical marker near a fence. While I was reading the sign, Rosemary had rolled her window down and was talking cow language to some cows near the fence, she was mooing at them, they were staring toward us with their ears perked up, wondering where that awful cow language was coming from. Then we head on to Coffeyville, where the last of the Old West took place; that is to say, the real, old, rough style action. This is where the Daltons and their gang undertook to hold up two banks at the same time, and would have done it, had it not been for a little tipoff by some one that some strange riders are coming into town of mean desperado appearance.

The word spread, and in the meantime the lawmen and the town folk decided to stand firm against the desperadoes. As the outlaws rode near the banks their actions were being watched. The townfolk were very scared, as these men looked so dangerous and intent. Just prior to the approach of the banks, the outlaws split up and came in at different angles, some going in and some just casually waiting at different corners as they were being eyed by the sheriff and his aids. Suddenly some shots came from one of the banks, then all hades broke loose, as the sheriff and his aids attempted to intervene in the holdup. In the course of a real gun battle in a short time eight or ten people lay dead. It was about an even match, they got four of the outlaws, and five or six townspeople lay dead. Four Dalton brothers lay dead. The people had aided the law in protecting their lifetime savings. A museum is there today that tells all about the great Dalton raid, with pictures and old relics of the day, including some of the weapons used in the great fight of 1892, the Daltons vs. the town of Coffeyville. A great price was paid and nothing made. We head east to Springfield, Missouri. We leave Coffeyville, knowing our trip of interest is coming to a close. There's nothing of interest or noteworthy on our road to Springfield. We arrive there late, so ends another very good day at 17,179.7, a run of 250.4 miles.

June 27, Springfield, Missouri is just another bustling city; it probably has its points of interest, although I didn't see any. We headed out toward St. Louis, so we go across the flatlands of Missouri, driving between fields of various kinds of crops. We get over to the Jesse James country, went through the Merrimac caverns, where he holed up once after a train robbery. The cave is quite large and the only one known to have five stories or levels in it. A statue of Jesse and Frank is far back in the cave. I don't know why so many people go for western lore, unless it be the history of the fearless and the hardy in settling the great west. I believe those ingredients have played a great part in the making of our nation. We leave the cave and head on out toward St. Louis, which we reach shortly, and the first view we get is tall buildings with the great arch just to the east of them. The great arch was erected as a symbol of the doorway to the west. We continue on into Illinois, to Mount Vernon, where we put up for the night, so ends another good day at 17,485.3, a run of 305.6 miles.

June 28th, we are ready to go, with nothing new to see, as we have been over this country two or three times before. We were going to leave here, go straight east to Louisville, but instead turned south on 57 to Cairo, Illinois, where the confluence of the Ohio and the mighty Mississippi is, as Rosemary had never seen this. Down 57 is just more farmland which is all flat country. We get to the confluence of the rivers, drive right out to the point where they meet, take pictures of the rivers and the traffic on them, of steamboats and tugs with their barge lines, going up and down the rivers. We take a picture of the Mississippi bridge to our right and the Ohio bridge to our left. We leave the point and go back a ways to where we turn east across the big Ohio bridge into Kentucky. We drive on to Elizabethtown, where we put up for another day. We see nothing of interest on our way to Elizabethtown, or in the town either. So ends another good day.

June 29, we drive to Lexington. Nothing has been of interest on our way until we begin to drive in the Blue Grass area, which, as I have said, is always of interest. All Kentuckians, of course, are proud of Lexington. I think it is the jewel of the state, considering its setting in beautiful surroundings. We eat our last vacation meal, then head out to 75, then 64, then onto the Mountain Parkway on the last stretch home. We get to Winchester, swing onto the Mountain Parkway, go a few miles, we pop up over a rise—"Look, Rose, there's your little Kentucky hills." They loom up in a distance, look like "tater hills," compared to the ones we've been traveling over. Our little hills are quaint and are beautiful in their own way, but are not majestic like the giants of the west. A little ways farther and we are enveloped by the hills of Old Kentucky. The passage through them by a stranger would leave him to wonder if he could or would ever get out, as the passages become so narrow at times it leaves him wondering if he's going to be able to breathe in the squeeze, and at times the roads in places appear to dead end as one looks ahead. It looks as if there is no way out, but as you keep going there is always an opening or an avenue out. These little hills hold a great bastion of wealth, King Coal, our energy friend and some of the best people that you will ever find on the face of the earth. There it is, Rose, we're home. What's the miles? 18,012.5. We've been around a lota curves and over a lota humps, Rose, 7,744.1 miles of 'em, and we enjoyed every foot of it.

It makes one appreciate his country far more. Every time I go, I see the devastation of our great forests in the northwest by the method the timber hogs are using. They cut and destroy everything in their path, leaving nothing for the wildlife to survive on, which causes them to perish or move on into remote areas or farther and farther away. Of course, we have to have timber cut for homes and many other various uses, but they don't have to be so destructive and wasteful about it. The forest means so many things to us other than uses of wood. It is, first and foremost, very beautiful; it maintains or conserves water supply, it controls floods, it purifies the air we breathe, it is home for our wonderful wildlife, it is a place of serenity for nature lovers. If you love your forest lands as I do, write your congressman, ask him to fight for the conservation of our forest lands. Thank you.

NOTICE TO PUBLIC

Equitable Gas Company has filed with the Public Service Commission of Kentucky a notice in the matter of adjustment of rates. A public hearing concerning this matter will be held at the offices of the Public Service Commission of Kentucky in the Capitol Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky, on September 20, 1976, at 9:00 a.m. EST. The proposed rates in condensed form are as follows:

Rate: For the first, 2 MCF, $0.90 per MCF; For the next, 18 MCF, $0.715 per MCF; For the next, 30 MCF, $0.660 per MCF; For the next, 50 MCF, $0.610 per MCF; All over, 100 MCF, $0.560 per MCF.

The minimum bill shall be $1.80 per month.

Special Conditions:

Gas delivered pursuant to this Tariff is from pipelines owned and operated by Equitable Gas Company's supplier and all gas sold hereunder is made available by said supplier. Equitable shall have the right to abandon gas service to any customer served from any line which is no longer operated by its supplier for any reason whatsoever. All gas sold and delivered under this Tariff shall be delivered at the varying pressures of Equitable's supplier's pipeline, and it shall be the responsibility of the customer to supply, maintain and operate the necessary regulator and related equipment for the customer's use.

Purchased Gas Adjustment

The rate authorized herein is based upon the wholesale cost of gas to the Equitable Gas Company as computed upon the rate of Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company, which rate shall be considered as the base rate for purchased gas. In the event there is an increase in this base rate, Equitable Gas Company shall within thirty days from the time it receives notice of the proposed change file with this Commission: (1) A copy of the Federal Power Commission tariff, effecting the change in the base rate and the effective date of such proposed change; (2) A statement showing the gas purchased for the previous twelve months showing billing under the base rate and under the proposed revised rate; (3) A balance sheet as of the end of the latest twelve month period and a detailed statement of operating expenses and revenues; (4) A forecast of gas purchased from Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company for the next twelve months period together with the cost thereof; (5) Other information as requested by the Commission.

Upon receipt of this information this Commission will review the effect of the revised base rate and will prior to the effective date of the revised base rate, but not less than thirty days from the date of the filing of the above prescribed information, issue its Order setting out the appropriate purchased gas adjustment. In the event there is a decrease in purchased gas costs or refund, the Company shall file the information required in 1, 2, 4 and 5 above. Upon receipt of this information the Commission shall review the proposed reduction and within thirty days from receipt of the information required, issue its Order setting out the proper refund and/or revised rate. The maximum amount of the adjustment so prescribed shall not produce revenue adjustments greater than the difference between the purchased gas billed at the then existing rate and at the revised rate.

The base rate for purchased gas for the application of this Purchased Gas Adjustment Clause is:

Fall Term Begins At Alice Lloyd

The Fall term at Alice Lloyd College began today (Wednesday) with a special four-week session whose interdisciplinary theme is "Nature and the Human Experience . . . Can There Be Harmony?"
 During this unique term, three courses are being offered, one in each division. The Humanities Division is offering Humanities 105: "I and It: The Classical versus the Romantic View." Throughout the course, students are examining these two approaches as they appeared in three historical periods: the Crusades, the French Revolution and the 1960's.
 Environmental Science 105: "Living within Limits" is the title of the three-credit course given through the Natural Science and Mathematics Division. This course is a brief introduction to the environmental problems of Eastern Kentucky, including a nostalgic look at the simple life, but with major emphasis on the pollution problem and the energy crisis.
 Social Science 105: "Alternative Life Styles—Needs and Notions" is presented through ALC's Social Science and Education Division. This is an introduction to a variety of life styles in traditional and contemporary societies with an emphasis on the ways in which human needs and desires are affected and met by human and natural resources.
 All members of the Alice Lloyd College faculty are taking part in presenting information to students enrolled in the special four-week term. While each student has signed up for only one of the three courses, one week of the term is set aside for study with members of the other two divisions, giving each student the opportunity to consider the theme from several perspectives.

ADD Board Votes Work Toward Regional Housing Corporation

The Big Sandy Area Development District (BSADD) board, in special meeting Monday night, voted to set up an ad hoc committee for the purpose of laying groundwork for the establishment of a regional non-profit housing corporation.
 The concept of such a regional housing organization was the primary topic of discussion at the meeting at May Lodge which featured officials of the Kentucky Housing Corporation as well as representatives of the Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) and other funding agencies.
 The establishment of a regional non-profit housing corporation has been under consideration by the Big Sandy ADD board for some time as a possible answer to the pressing housing problems which presently exist in the five-county area of Floyd, Pike, Johnson, Magoffin and Martin.
 Emphasizing area housing needs and speaking in support of a regional non-profit corporation were Len Louallen, executive director of the Kentucky Housing Corporation; Wilbur Pratt, state development cabinet official; Frank Mayo, state housing specialist, and John Kimbrow and Maurice Hines, ARC representatives.

 Louallen cited the success of regional non-profit housing organizations which have been established in the Cumberland Lake and Kentucky River Area Development Districts and reassured representatives of local housing authorities that "regional non-profit housing corporations in no way interfere with established local housing authorities."
 Frank Mayo said a regional non-profit corporation in the development district would be founded and "executed from the ground up" by local people. "The local group has to initiate the whole thing," Mayo said.
 Joe McCauley, executive director of Big Sandy ADD, said the ad hoc committee for the five-county area would include all directors of present housing authorities.

Anne Ogden To Head KAC Crafts Program

Frankfort, Ky.—On the basis of her credentials, Anne Ogden seems to have been named to the right position. Nash Cox, director of the Kentucky Arts Commission has appointed Miss Ogden as KAC's new Crafts Coordinator. The new position is being funded under a Program Development Grant from the National Endowment for the Arts.
 A native Louisvillian, she spent seven years in New York on the editorial staff of House Beautiful magazine, four of those years as art-crafts editor. In that position, she wrote and edited articles dealing with varied crafts from Early American quilting to the crafts of Portugal; from the ancient art forms of vegetable dyeing and weaving on a hand loom to the newest art expressions in metal work.
 Miss Ogden expressed her hope that the KAC crafts service will be beneficial to all Kentuckians interested in crafts. Toward that end, she expects to spend several months exploring the possibilities with craftsmen of the Commonwealth. Using knowledge combined with experience, she hopes to help cultivate and expand appreciation of the existing crafts in Kentucky.
 Depending on the results of her research, she would like to include such services as workshops in which qualified craftsmen can train others in their various skills, as well as being a source of information for all craftsmen and interested groups in the state.
 Miss Ogden's love of the country and the out-of-doors spurred her decision "to return for a while to a more comfortable life in Kentucky which," she hopes "will enable me to be close to the advantages of city life and still be able to enjoy the country. Part of my heart has always been here."
 Although she will be traveling throughout the Commonwealth, Miss Ogden will be based at the Kentucky Arts Commission, 100 W. Main St., Frankfort.

RE-ELECTED AS HEAD OF SHERIFFS' GROUP
 Sheriff Jerry G. English, of Marshall county, was re-elected president of the Kentucky Sheriff's Association Saturday at the group's 47th annual conference in Louisville.
 Re-elected to other offices were Sheriffs Bobby Kennedy, Breckinridge county, first vice president; Hal Cole, McCracken county, second vice president; Billy Hudson, Caldwell county, sergeant-at-arms; William L. Wheeler, Carroll county, public relations director; and Carlton Nay, ex-sheriff of Oldham county, secretary-treasurer.
 The only newly elected officer was Sheriff Ralph Baskett, Hardin county, third vice president.
 The association's three-day-conference, held at Executive Inn West, ended last night with a banquet.

Nature Trails

By Rufus M. Reed

With Teenagers in the Forest

We were walking quietly through the forest, looking and listening for sights and sounds of Nature, when a large and rather plump gray squirrel leaped out of a tree overhead and went swinging through the trees with all the agility of Tarzan of the Apes.

"A big, fat squirrel!" one cried. They began asking questions about the squirrel, and I knew in their hearts they admired it, and not for any amount would one of them try to harm it.

"What does it eat?" ... "Why does it have such a large, bushy tail?" "To what group of animals does it belong?"

I tell them: "It belongs to the rodents, the Gnawers. Squirrels eat a variety of foods, mostly nuts of all kinds; sometimes mushrooms and beetles in the summer. It lives by its wits and thrift, as it 'squirrels' food away for winter. It buries nuts in the earth, so as to have a supply on hand when foods run short ... Its big, bushy tail shades it in summer and keeps it warm in winter; the tail also serves as a sail when the squirrel makes a long leap from tree to tree. In winter, the tail is folded back over the squirrel's body and serves as a blanket to keep it warm. The Latin name of the squirrel is Sciurus, which means literally an animal that shades itself with its tail."

"How does the squirrel bury nuts? It has no tools, no digger." "It digs the holes with its forepaws, then pushes the nut down in the hole with its nose, then covers it. So the squirrel is nature's tree planter. Look around at these oaks, growing thick in the forest. They were most all of them planted by the squirrels."

"Squirrels plant many more acorns than they can ever find; these sprout in the spring to begin new trees."

"What advantage is the squirrel's color, gray?"

"It is the color of tree bark, and the squirrel presses its body tight against the tree trunk when the big hawk flies over looking for it to devour."

Now we stand still for a time, listening to the birds singing. The songs of the wood thrushes ring out from the trees like a carillon of silver bells. They learn the colors of the thrush: brown back, spotted breast, a touch of red on the head. "A polkadot breast," they call it. "We'll not soon forget that."

"Can you name some other birds in the Thrush family?" "Robin, bluebird, hermit thrush."

Suddenly one of them sees a large female spider running about with a silken eggbag attached to her abdomen. Some have a little fear of the big spider but I tell them she is entirely harmless to humans but deadly to insects.

"How does she catch insects?"

"She sets a snare," says one, "in which insects get caught; they get all tangled up in the snare and the harder they struggle to get free, the worse they are entangled."

"Spider's silk must be strong for its size," says one.

"It is the strongest of all silks." They follow the spider a short distance, watching her closely as she safeguards her precious bag of eggs. To the teenagers, she becomes a living, dynamic creature, desperately bent on saving her precious eggs. "Is this spider an insect?" asks one. "No, she has eight legs, but insects have only six."

We hike on to a small swamp formed on top of the level ridge. This forest was in Carter Caves State Park. Here, around this swamp, we find a different environment. There was a thick leaf-mold around the swamp, all matted together. In lifting up slabs of the leafmold, one of the youngsters finds a superb specimen of the long-tailed salamander. They capture it without fear and one holds it out for us to study. It was a rich yellowish-orange with a sprinkle of black dots over the body and was about five inches long.

"Will it bite?" one asks.

"It has no teeth for biting." I took the beautiful salamander and held it in my hand. It reared up and regarded us with bright, beady eyes. Soon each one wanted to hold the salamander and pet it. One of the girls took it in her hand and spoke sweet words to it. She wanted to take it home for a pet but I convinced her it couldn't survive in any other environment.

Those young people left the woods with a new love in their hearts for all the creatures of the wild. They had developed a new love and respect for the living things of the forest and assured me they would always be careful not to harm any living thing.

Floyd County Health Notes

The Floyd County Health Department is conducting a glaucoma clinic on Friday, September 3, from 9 to 11:30 and from 1 to 2 p.m. Glaucoma is a serious disease that can cause blindness, usually in persons 35 years of age and over.

It is estimated that over 1.7 million Americans have unsuspected glaucoma since many times it strikes people slowly and painlessly. However, blindness from glaucoma can be prevented if detected early enough.

The community health nurses urge all persons age 35 and over to take advantage of this free glaucoma screening because early detection is your best defense against glaucoma.

The health department will be closed Monday, September 6, in observance of the Labor Day holiday. Business hours will resume Tuesday, at 8 a.m.

Due to this holiday, the Martin Outpost Clinic usually scheduled on the first Monday of each month has been postponed until Wednesday, September 8. This clinic will be held at the Beaver Valley Clinic in Martin and will last from 10 to 12 and 1 to 2.

Medical services available will be immunizations, TB skin tests, blood pressures, diabetes screening and pap smears. These services are free of charge and the public is welcome to attend.

Library Notes

(From the Floyd County Library)

The Floyd County Library is proud to announce a new book, presented to us in honor of Sallye L. Clark (Mrs. John R.), president of the Kentucky Society of the Dames of the Court of Honor, 1974-1976, by the National Society of that organization.

The Tree of Liberty, by Elizabeth Page:

Mathew Howard, frontiersman, and his wife, Jane Peyton, of Tidewater, Virginia, are the central figures in this novel of the making of a nation. From their marriage just before the Revolution to the time of their grandson, another frontiersman, establishing his home in Ohio, in 1806; their family circle and its widespread affiliations epitomized the political history of the country, the conflicting loyalties to different leaders, the economic differences, and the regional partisanship as a new nation was fused from colonies.

A "must" to be read in this bicentennial year.

WASHINGTON—U. S. receipts from international tourism totaled $5.65 billion in 1975, a 16.5 per cent increase over 1974, the U. S. Travel Service says.

Church of Christ Homecoming Singers

The Watchmen, a gospel quartet from Chesapeake, Ohio, will provide special messages in song for each service of the 1976 Hueysville Church of Christ Homecoming, September 3, 4, and 5.

Pictured above from left are David Michael Lucas, evangelist; Steve Ranson, baritone; Rick Ranson, tenor; Sam Batten, lead; George Draper, bass, and sitting, Vickie Warren, pianist.

The evening services on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday begin at 7:30 p.m. The Sunday morning worship service begins at 11 a.m. and will be followed by the homecoming meal.

Fred Klatka, minister of the Hueysville Church of Christ, cordially invites the public to attend.

Consumer Comments

Have you won a free stereo, sewing machine, or other appliance? Did you receive an offer for one of these at a ridiculously low price? Many Kentuckians have won, only to end up losing. Let's examine these offers.

The game begins when you receive a certificate through the mail informing you that you won a "free" sewing machine, television or stereo or a "check" for a portion of the purchase price. The prize is described including its monetary value. The trick to this scheme is that the prize will cost YOU money. A monthly or yearly charge to cover either a service contract or a portion of the cost of the item beyond the amount won is required. Frequently, the winner is requested to come to the store to inspect the merchandise and accept or reject the offer.

What's wrong with these offers? The amount you must pay is often higher than the average retail value of the item. Be sure to compute the yearly or monthly cost so that you are aware of the total amount of money involved. Is the merchandise worth the price it will cost you?

Beware of the high pressure sales tactics. Why must you decide immediately to accept the offer? A reputable businessman can wait on your answer until tomorrow. The gimmick salesmen are fly-by-night operators.

A contest implies that there are losers as well as winners. These fake contests have everyone winning. How many other people that you know have won?

The promises of warranties or reliable repair service are often false. Ask how long they've been in business, who does the repair work and what does the warranty include.

You can protect yourself against fraudulent business practices such as this by remembering to be skeptical of advertising tactics. "Special offer," "free," and "for only a few dollars more" are your clues to start investigating.

If you receive an offer like this or if you have any other consumer complaint, contact the Attorney General's Division of Consumer Protection, Frankfort, Ky. 40601, or call toll-free on the consumer hotline: 1-800-372-2960.

To Whom It May Concern:

On and after publication of this notice I will not be responsible for any debt incurred by any person other than myself.

State Receives Payment Of Federal Funds To Reclaim Orphan Strip Mines

Frankfort, Ky.—A $600,000 check received recently from the Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA) marked the beginning of Kentucky's efforts to reclaim abandoned coal strip mines in the first phase of a four-state demonstration project financed through TVA.

The check was presented to Gov. Julian M. Carroll by John Witt, commissioner of the state's Bureau of Natural Resources, Ralph Waddle, director of the reclamation division, and Ira Gray, head of the orphan land program in the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection.

Gray said his section has completed more than 80 per cent of the phase to identify mined watersheds in the project area of Perry, Knott and Letcher counties and has begun reclamation planning.

TVA's regional demonstration program is designed to illustrate an efficient method of dealing with the problem of abandoned mines throughout the Appalachian coalfields. The orphan lands were mined and abandoned before states passed effective reclamation laws. Other states involved in the $22.8 million project are Tennessee, Virginia and Alabama.

Kentucky expects to receive about $10 million during the five-year program for work on 40,000 acres of abandoned mines and 1,450 acres of old haul roads in 12 southeastern counties. The counties are Bell, Breathitt, Clay, Harlan, Knott, Knox, Laurel, Leslie, Letcher, McCreary, Perry and Whitley.

State officials said remedial work is needed to end erosion, siltation, water and acidity problems, as well as restoring the natural vegetative beauty of the mountains and returning the land to productive use.

The program will involve some earth movement to properly direct water, bury toxic wastes and prepare planting sites. Silt traps or settling basins will be constructed at critical points to catch soil that is still washing from the areas. The project also includes the sowing of grass and seeding of legumes to provide ground cover on some critical sites, intensive planting of trees and shrubs to provide long-term soil stabilization, blend the "orphan" lands with surrounding landscape and provide additional benefits of forest and wildlife production.

Cooperating with the state divisions of reclamation, conservation and forestry is the U. S. Soil Conservation Service, TVA, which for many years has promoted orphan mine reclamation, will administer the demonstration program and channel appropriations to each state for the reclamation work.

Coal Operator ALCOR Director

John M. Rosenberg, of Prestonsburg, chairman of ALCOR, Inc. (Appalachian Leadership and Community Outreach, Inc.) has announced the recent election of Clarence Maggard, president of Clarence Maggard Coal Company, Inc., to ALCOR's board of directors.

A native of Leslie county, Mr. Maggard has resided in Perry county since 1938. A graduate of Witherspoon College, Buckhorn, Ky., Lees Junior College, Jackson, and Eastern Kentucky University, Richmond, he served as a teacher in Leslie and Perry county schools until 1940 when he became the representative of Jefferson Standard Life Insurance Company in Hazard. Since 1949, he has been in the coal business with deep mines in both Leslie and Perry counties.

His wife is the former Mary Ward Gabbard, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Elmer E. Gabbard, of Witherspoon College. Mr. Maggard has been a leader in Presbyterian Church affairs, including serving as a lay preacher and elder.

ALCOR's chairman said that Maggard will significantly strengthen ALCOR's local leadership. "East Kentucky has undergone considerable change since ALCOR began in 1969, and we look to Mr. Maggard, along with our other board members, to insure this program's responsiveness to the area's human resource development needs," Mr. Rosenberg said.

ALCOR is a non-profit corporation chartered in 1970 to provide human and community services programs in twenty counties in southeastern Kentucky. The program operates through the six colleges of the area, and includes: Alice Lloyd College, Cumberland College, Hazard Community College, Lees Junior College, Southeast Community College, and Union College.

During 1976, ALCOR is operating 68 outreach centers in the rural areas of the southeastern Kentucky mountains, employing some 230 students outreach workers. Program services include health, community development, education, and recreation.

The ALCOR Program operates on an annual, total budget of approximately $500,000, of which, during 1976, $373,404 will be financed by ALCOR, Inc.'s operating budget. The primary source of funding is from individual donations and foundation grants. The central office for ALCOR is at Hazard Community College.

ADDS To Identify Title XX Problems

Frankfort, Ky.—Kentuckians are being given an opportunity to point out problems that services offered under Title XX of the Social Security Act can present.

Each Area Development District (ADD) and each Bureau for Social Services district office will identify problems in their districts and submit reports to the Kentucky Department for Human Resources. The department will accept statements until November 30, 1976.

ADDS are required to include in their report suggestions from other individuals, agencies and organizations in their district. Any person or group may submit problem statements to their respective ADD or to the Bureau for Social Services.

The statewide comprehensive social services programs planned with the help of these reports will become effective July 1, 1977.

Forms and technical assistance for completing the reports will be provided upon request by bureau district managers, or by calling toll free 1-800-372-2992.

From Nov. 30, 1976, until Feb. 14, 1977, the bureau's central office staff will develop a proposed state plan. A summary of this plan will be displayed in newspapers April 1.

Written comments will be accepted until May 16, 45 days after the plan's publication.

After revisions, the final plan will be published June 30.

Title XX includes a broad range of services to individuals and families. In Kentucky, Human Resources' Bureau for Social Services administers the programs.

Problem statements should be sent to either the respective ADD or to Commissioner Jack C. Lewis, Bureau for Social Services, Department for Human Resources, 403 Wapping St., Frankfort, Ky., 40601, on or before November 30, 1976.

U.S. RECEIPTS FROM TOURISM UP
WASHINGTON—U. S. receipts from international tourism totaled $5.65 billion in 1975, a 16.5 per cent increase over 1974, the U. S. Travel Service says.

A Thought to Remember

By LARRY BURKE

Have you ever received a surprise gift from a dear friend, and as you were opening it you made this remark: "Now, they shouldn't have done this!" What a wonderful feeling!

The heart-warming experience of getting something for nothing is actually beyond description.

These rare and wonderful occasions are few and far between. They are so rare, in fact, that we are inclined to question the motives of many of the most noble acts of love.

What else can be expected of a person who lives in a world where it seems to be "every man for himself." What valuable time a person has seems to be devoted to his family group, and there isn't enough to share with others.

Many years ago someone wrote these words: "Love never asks how little it can do; love always asks how much." To this statement we could add—"Love goes farther than any man could look for who is guided by cold and calculating reasoning."

OUR THOUGHT TO REMEMBER: In my haste—let me find what guides me.

State Regulation Start to Finish

Frankfort, Ky.—The development of a state regulation can take time and talent. From its first instant as an idea through drawing board changes to full enforcement regulation can last anywhere from three to several months.

According to Gene Attkisson, an attorney with the general counsel office in the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, the need for a regulation must exist before it can ever reach the drawing board. That need can originate in one of two ways: department officials may decide that a regulation is needed to better direct a program or the Kentucky General Assembly may authorize a new regulation.

Attkisson said that after the need is determined, division officials get together, and with some assistance from the legal section, write up a regulation to cover the needs of a program. They then formally present that regulation with an explanation of its development, why it is needed and what its effect will be to their commissioner.

"Depending on which division is writing the regulation," explained the attorney, "that would be either John Witt, commissioner of the natural resources bureau, or Dr. Frank Stanonis, commissioner of the environmental protection bureau. The commissioner then sends it on to Secretary Robert Bell, head of the environmental department, for his approval."

The next stage in the growth of a regulation depends on the nature of the regulation. "Some regulations," said Attkisson, "such as those concerning water, air and noise, would be sent by Secretary Bell to the Environmental Quality Commission." The commission is an advisory body that is statutorily authorized to make recommendations to the state environmental agency for the adoption or rejection of certain matters including regulations.

If the regulation is one that the environmental commission should review, continued Attkisson, it will make a recommendation for or against the proposed regulation to the environmental head. If the group recommends adoption of a regulation, the department can continue with the approval process. If the regulation is rejected, Secretary Bell could still proceed with the regulation. However, he must explain the reasons for his action to the group.

Attkisson explained that the next step on the proposed regulation's route is the Legislative Research Commission which publishes it in the Administrative Register. "At that time," the attorney went on, "the department may or may not schedule a public hearing. However, if someone requests a hearing within 30 days of publication and one is not already scheduled, the department is required to hold one. The purpose of the hearing is to allow people to comment—either for, against, or for modifying it—on the content of the regulation."

It's back to the drawing board for department officials following the hearing. They must write a formal answer to all remarks made on the regulation at the public hearing, said Attkisson. Those answers are drafted into a statement of "affirmative consideration" in which the department must agree to change the regulation according to the comments or justify why it's not changed.

Attkisson said that the department then sends the statement of "affirmative consideration" to the Legislative Research Commission where it is forwarded to the Administrative Regulation Review Subcommittee. The subcommittee, which is composed of three members appointed by the governor, meets on the first Wednesday of every month and considers the proposed regulations or the proposed amendments to regulations of all the departments in state government.

"When reviewing the statement," Attkisson added, the subcommittee must raise two questions in consideration of any regulation. Members must answer "whether the regulation conforms to the statutory authority under which it was promulgated and if it carries out the legislative intent of the statutory authority under which it was promulgated."

Attkisson said, "If the subcommittee is satisfied that the regulation answers the questions, then they approve the regulation. Their approval makes a regulation effective at the time it is approved and filed. After the regulation becomes effective, it is incorporated into a Legislative Research Commission publication called the Kentucky Administrative Regulations Service."

Jarrell Retires After 49 Years

Paul Francis Jarrell, formerly of Floyd county, has retired as the current Columbia Transmission Corp. employee with the longest period of service. Jarrell has been continuously employed by Columbia for more than 49 years.

Manager of Southern Division transmission operations at the time of his retirement, he formerly had been manager of the Lockwood Division, being named to the new position when some operations of the Southern Region were reorganized earlier this summer.

Jarrell lives in Huntington. A native of Kenova, W. Va., he began his career with Columbia in 1927 as an oiler at the Beaver Creek Compressor Station. He became a construction foreman at Means in 1948. From 1954 to 1959 he was assistant division engineer and assistant division superintendent at Prestonsburg, and in 1966 he became superintendent of operations in Charleston. He was appointed Lockwood Division manager in 1970.

Jarrell is a graduate of Maytown High School. He is a member of the Farmdale Church of Christ in Barboursville, W. Va., and of Zebulon Masonic Lodge here.

Mrs. Jarrell is the former Rebecca Beryl Turner, of Northern. The Jarrells have two daughters, Billie, of Lexington, and Glima, a secretary for Columbia Gas in Huntington.

Buckhorn Dock Work Contracted for $7,236

Frankfort, Ky.—The Kentucky Department of Parks has awarded a $7,236 contract to Rose Con, Inc., of Scott City, Mo., for construction of a gas barge at Buckhorn Lake State Park.

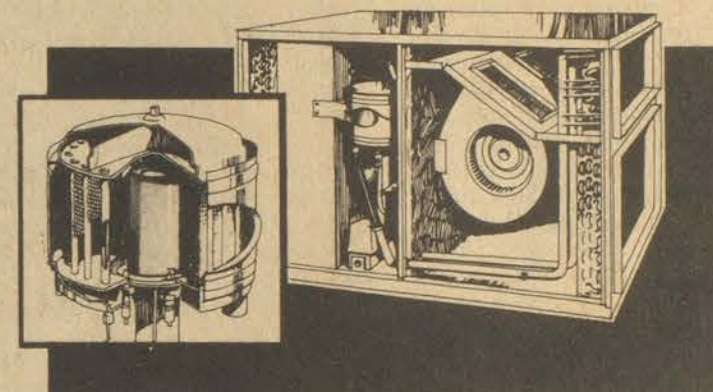

The contract calls for construction of a 16 x 24-foot concrete gas barge, its installation with utility extensions at the existing boat dock. The project is to be completed by Sept. 11.

PAINTSVILLE, Ky.—Paintsville, a Class A team in District Two, Region Four, needs a football game, home or away, with a Class A opponent on Sept. 3. Contact coach Walter Brugh.

ATLANTA—In 1900 the average American used the equivalent of 60 pounds of paper a year. Now he uses about 600, the American Forest Institute says.

2-Day Ceramic Workshop To Be Offered at College

A two-day ceramic workshop will be offered Saturday and Sunday, September 11-12, in the pottery building at Prestonsburg Community College. The workshop, which is co-sponsored by the college's Community Service Program Potters' Guild and the Kentucky Arts Commission, is entitled, "Functional Ceramics: The Tightrope between Craft and Business," and will be conducted by Gary Robertson, production potter.

Mr. Robertson has successfully shown his work in exhibitions in the western part of the United States. The demonstration part of the workshop will consist of various decorative techniques as applied to the functional object, focusing on the problem of giving potentially dreary household items a personal touch without detriment to its utility.

The workshop will begin at 9 a.m. on Saturday, September 11. To register, contact the Office of Community Services, Prestonsburg Community College, or telephone 606-886-3863, extension 243.

'Biggest Pie in World' Connected With Floyd Woman's Cookbook

By HELEN PRICE STACY

In Casey County the biggest apple pie around is being prepared in anticipation of the Casey County Bicentennial Apple Festival September 23-25—and the recipe is one featured in a Floyd woman's popular cookbook.

"Why, that pie they're working on," commented an oldtimer, "is going to be a mile around and halfway back."

Adding considerable spice to the Casey county event is its Bicentennial flavor this special year in the nation's history—and where would be a more appropriate setting for such a pie than a town called Liberty!

This special festival is going to be a shoo-in for entertainment that all the family will enjoy. This year's grand marshal, Skylab IV Commander Gerald P. Carr, will lead a parade featuring apples, children in colorful costumes, pretty girls with apple-pink cheeks, and rousing band music. Another attraction among the many demonstrations and exhibits will be Astronaut Carr's news conference at 3 p.m., Sept. 25.

Casey county was named in 1806 for Col. William Casey who was the great-grandfather of Samuel L. Clemens, better known as Mark Twain. Col. Casey, a native of Virginia, came to Kentucky in 1779 and built Casey's Station on Dix River in 1791. He was a member of the 1799 Convention called to outline the second Kentucky Constitution and was a Presidential elector in 1813.

John Frey as early as 1780 acquired land in what later would be Casey county. Frey's land grant was for service in the Revolutionary War, the grant signed by Gov. Benjamin Harrison. Frey's military service began with what some historians agree was the first battle of the Revolution, fought at Point Pleasant (W. Va.) in 1774, and ended with his death at what is considered the last battle of that war fought at Blue Licks in Kentucky.

Not far from the Battle of Point Pleasant a descendant of a soldier put together a recipe, using apples from trees that were themselves "descendants" from trees planted by early pioneer John Chapman, who like Samuel Clemens became better known by a sobriquet, Johnny Applesseed. Through the years the recipe traveled across hills and streams to Floyd county and was used in Irene Hayes' popular book, "What's Cooking in Kentucky."

"This is one of the best apple dumpling recipes I ever tried," said Mrs. Hayes who got it from the Demra Taylor family. So, for all those who will enjoy the Casey County Bicentennial Apple Festival in September, here is the apple dumplings recipe "that is almost a meal in itself."

Make a syrup from 2 cups sugar, 2 cups water, add ¼ cup butter. Pare and core 6 apples and cut into eighths. Then sift together in a mixing bowl ¼ teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg, 2 cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt. Cut in ¾ cup shortening then add ½ cup milk, all at once.

Stir until dough follows fork around bowl, then roll ¼ inch thick on lightly floured surface and cut into 5 inch squares. Arrange four pieces of apple on each square and sprinkle generously with sugar, cinnamon and nutmeg. Dot with butter, then fold corners of dough to center. Pinch edges together. Place in greased baking dish one inch apart, pour syrup over the dumplings and bake in 375-degree oven for 30-40 minutes. Serve plain or with cream. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

"They're mouth-watering," said Mrs. Hayes.

Whatever apple recipe is being used,

Hall-Osborne Reunion

whether it's for that Casey County pie billed as the biggest apple pie in the world, or Point Pleasant apple dumplings, interspersed with the ingredients will be large measures of this country's history. It will include mixtures of the freedom battle that started it all, early pioneers, popular characters brought to life by Mark Twain, and one of the biggest bicentennial celebrations of all in Liberty, Ky.

For further information contact Mrs. Otis Thomas, Wolford Street, Liberty, Ky. 42539.

1956 MARTIN CLASS REUNION

All members of the 1956 class of Martin High School are invited to attend the 20-year reunion Saturday, September 4.

A dinner will be held at the Hut Restaurant at 6 p.m. with a dance starting at 9 p.m. in the new Martin gym. Please contact Delores Flanery Dingus to make your reservations, at P. O. Box 151, Martin, Ky.

BOLEYN REUNION

The Boleyns will hold their annual family reunion near the old Boleyn Post Office on the head of Rock Fork Creek (Ky 777) Sunday, September 5, beginning at 10 a.m., at the Wheatley and Nancy Boleyn cemetery. All friends and relatives are welcome. Bring a covered dish.

Error—But Not Ours

One photograph published in last week's Times relating to the Left Beaver Bicentennial celebration was that of the Drift Babe Ruth team, not the McDowell Little League as it was erroneously identified. This, however, was not the newspaper's error but resulted from incorrect identification by those submitting the photo.

NOTICE

Hindman School Selected As Energy-Saving Model

The Hindman Elementary School in Knott county has been selected as one of 10 schools across the country to serve as a model in the American Association of School Administrators' (AASA) Saving Schoolhouse Energy Project.

The project calls for the model schools to be redesigned essentially for energy conservation. Knott County School Supt. Morton Combs said he's "happy they've chosen our school to study. In the past three years, the cost of utilities has almost doubled—gas, coal, just about everything we use. It's important now to start conserving."

An AASA report indicates that modifications on buildings like the models could mean a savings of from 30 to 60 per cent of the energy now consumed.

The identification and selection of the demonstration schools was funded by $170,000 in Federal Energy Administration monies, and is the first step of a five step program. In addition to selecting the schools, the program calls for developing architectural and engineering designs; constructing and/or installing the modifications; monitoring and developing conservation data on energy use after the changes; and making the information available to school districts and interested in energy conservation.

Monies for the final phase of the program will come from private and public funds. Combs said architectural and engineering experts have looked at the Hindman school, and he estimated "it could cost anywhere from $5,000 to $15,000" for the modifications. The local school board will have to come up with 10 to 15 per cent of the cost of the changes.

The 10 demonstration schools were chosen from each of eight federal regions with one in the New York-New Jersey Region and one in the Arizona-California-Hawaii-Nevada Region to be named at the end of the month. The selections were based on capacity for modifications to conserve energy and a representation of a cross-section of school building types.

The total estimated budget for the project is $1,988,000.

Bean Supper Pays Off Atkins Campaign Debt

Frankfort, Ky.—State Auditor George Atkins staged a $50-a-plate bean supper last week, successfully paying off the remainder of his 1975 campaign debt.

Atkins thanked several hundred of his supporters assembled in Frankfort Saturday evening, saying that the direct-mail fund-raising had resulted in hundreds of contributions from throughout Kentucky. "I am proud to say that we conducted this political fund-raising without the corrosive influence of big money. We have seen that relying on huge private contributions has had severe and detrimental effects on our political activities," he said.

ADAIR COUNTY'S "HISTORICAL FINDS"

ADAIR COUNTY'S PAST REVISITED--Until the recent historical survey conducted by Kentucky Heritage Commission historian Bill Broberg and co-workers, there were only 23 recorded historical sites in Adair County. The survey team's efforts resulted in over 300 "historical finds" including two old flour mills still intact, 150 log structures and many homes and other structures built before and around 1800. Some examples of these circa 1800 homes include the Holiday Place, upper right, Montpelier district, with its original slave quarters still attached, the Miller Place, (below left) a combination frame and log structure being restored in the Columbia area and the Dr. Jones house (below right) which combines three styles of architecture -- the brick Federal style main block, one original log wing and one late 19th-century Victorian wing. Within the next two years, the commission will conduct surveys in 24 Kentucky counties. Boyle, Powell and Adair have just been completed.

TV Repairman Wins Top Price— And It, Naturally, Was a TV

Who won the No. 1 "door prize," a color television set, at the Dewey Lake Fish and Game Club's annual fish fry, August 22? Why, a man who has a shopful of TV's—Frank Wallace, who has a television repair shop on Star Route 1, near Sugar Loaf. And what was the weather for the event? Rain, naturally. For seven of the eight years the fish fry has been held they've had rain. Yet the event was considered a success.

GARRETT NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Harry R. Clay, of Garrett Hill, had as their dinner guests, Aug. 21 Mr. and Mrs. Howard Farquer, of Dayton, Ohio, Mrs. Mary Music and daughter, Heather, of Prestonsburg, and Mrs. Clay's sister, Nona Hughes, of Garrett. A birthday dinner honoring Mrs. Farquer was held.

Mr. and Mrs. Artis Moore, of Garrett, returned home Sunday after spending a week in Franklin, Ohio with Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Retherford. While there they attended an open-church military wedding of their nephew, Wayne Robbins, and Miss Erma Adkins, who were married in Middletown. The reception was held at the Congress Inn, in Monroe. The couple left for Georgia on their wedding trip. Wayne Robbins is a Marine attending the military academy in Ohio. Before returning home Mr. and Mrs. Moore visited friends in Ohio and also Mr. and Mrs. Adam Martin, of Dry Ridge, Ky.

Other prize winners: Al Gunter, Abbott road, second, Remington shotgun; Ballard Plummer, Rt. 1, Prestonsburg, third, Johnson CB radio; Tom Hasting, Prestonsburg, fourth, Coleman campstove; Raymond M. Copley, Prestonsburg, fifth, Burgess fluorescent light; Rita Gardner, Prestonsburg, sixth, Zebco reel; George Robinson, Garrett, seventh, Igloo cooler; William T. Goble, Van Lear, Plano tackle box.

And Frank Wallace won a Remington shotgun for selling the TV winning ticket. Contest winners: Horseshoe pitching—the team of Danny Goble, of Offutt, and Phillip Meeks, of Van Lear, first; Johnny and Sam Huffman, of Prestonsburg, second. Baitcasting: Glen Copley, of Prestonsburg, winner in the men's division; Zeta Martin, Langley, women's division winner; Mark McGuire, Prestonsburg, junior division.

Trapshooting: Fifty-target singles—Danny Pugh, Paintsville, first; Larry Short, Allen, second; David Conley, Martin, third. The team of Larry Short, of Allen, and Wiley Elliott, of Martin, won the buddy match 50-target event.

In the 12-gauge division of the skeet shoot Frank Baldrige, of Wayland, was the winner, with David Conley the runner-up. The 20-gauge division reversed the standings, with Conley first and Baldrige second.

Holiday Travel Safety Urged

Frankfort, Ky.—State Transportation Secretary John C. Roberts is urging Kentucky motorists to improve on last year's Labor Day week-end fatality total. Four persons were killed on Kentucky highways during that holiday period.

As one safety measure, Roberts urged drivers to travel Kentucky's parkways, whenever possible, citing state police records which show that fewer fatalities occur on those roads than others.

The secretary suggested to motorists: Have your car inspected at an official Motor Vehicle Inspection Station (there are 2,000 of them in Kentucky) before leaving on a holiday trip.

Give yourself plenty of time to get where you are going.

Plan your trip to avoid peak travel periods and areas of congested traffic. Stay within the 55 miles per hour speed limit. Not only may it save your life, he said, it also can save you money for fuel and tires. Use seat belts.

Religious Education Classes Are Announced

Religious education classes will begin the second week of September at Saint Theodore Catholic Church in Prestonsburg and Saint Juliana Catholic Church in Martin. Elementary level teachers include Mrs. Carol Leinenbach (Clark School Addition), Brother Jerry Tupy (David), Mrs. Janice Hodson (Clark School Addition), Sister Mary Dorgan (Martin), and Sister Jeannette Tenborge (Dwale). Secondary level teachers include Mrs. Ann Pafunda (Price), Sister John Martin Herzog (Martin), Robert Garlich (Salyersville), and Father William Poole, the pastor.

At Saint Theodore, the elementary class will meet on Mondays after school, and the high school class will meet the second Saturday of the month, beginning at 10 a.m. for three hours of worship and study. At Saint Juliana, the elementary class will meet on Thursdays at 3:30 p.m. and the high school class on the second Sunday of the month in the evening.

Retirement Dinner For Mrs. Howell

Mrs. Nell L. Howell, income maintenance supervisor of Pike county, Bureau for Social Insurance, retired August 31 after 32 years' service. Before the Reorganization Plan she served as supervisor for the district including Floyd, Magoffin, Johnson, Martin, Pike and Letcher counties.

A dinner in her honor was served August 28 at the Landmark Motel, Pikeville, with a "This Is Your Life" program preceding the dinner.

Attending were representatives from the central office in Frankfort, including Jack Waddell, director of Field Services, with a letter of commendation and a Kentucky colonelship from the Governor; Administrators, social workers and retired workers from the various counties she had served were present.

Those from Floyd county attending were Ronald Wright, administrator, Marsha Wright, Ruth Ratcliff, William Bailey, Venelia Rinehart, Gladys Allen, Barbara Crider and Linda Pelphrey.

Those participating in the "This Is Your Life" Program from Floyd county were Ronald Wright, Venelia Rinehart and Barbara Crider. Mrs. Howell received many gifts and special awards.

Orders Restrain 3 Coal Firms

Frankfort, Ky.—Three eastern Kentucky coal firms recently were issued restraining orders by Franklin Circuit Court Judge Squire N. Williams for strip mining without a permit.

The Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection had charged S & L Co., of Williamsburg, James T. Eldridge, of East Bernstadt, and Robert Martin Coal Co. of London with strip mining without first obtaining a permit from the state division of reclamation.

S & L Co. was charged with strip mining illegally at a site off Ky. 92 at Siler in Whitley county. For the affected area of approximately three acres, the environmental department is seeking a performance bond of $21,000 from the company to insure proper reclamation.

The environmental department charged James T. Eldridge with illegally strip mining about seven acres located off Highway 1228 near River Mill Church about 12 miles from Bernstadt in Laurel county. The department seeks $49,000 as the cost of performing reclamation on the disturbed land that has not been satisfactory reclaimed by the company.

Robert Martin Coal allegedly strip mined without a permit a 10-acre site located on KY 80 on Hawk Creek road about eight miles west of London in Laurel county. The environmental department is seeking a $70,000 performance reclamation bond to guarantee reclamation of the affected area.

The Kentucky environmental department is seeking a $1,000 penalty for the initial violation from S & L Company and penalties for the initial violations of James T. Eldridge and Robert Martin Coal. The department is also seeking $1,000 a day from each firm for every day that the violation continues. The department is asking that a reclamation plan be required to be submitted to the division of reclamation for approval and then be carried out.

Area Idle Rate In July 8 Pct.

Eastern Kentucky's unemployment rate fell from 8.0 percent in June to 6.9 percent in July, and Floyd county's was down to 7.4, according to figures released by the Department for Human Resources. This is above the state rate of 5.9 percent, but below the national rate of 7.8 percent for July.

Robert MacDonald, chief labor market analyst for the department, says the primary reason for the drop in unemployment is that high school and college students seeking summer work dropped out of the labor force during July, after efforts to locate work proved fruitless. In Eastern Kentucky, an estimated 18,032 people are out of work.

County-by-county Eastern Kentucky figures for July are:

Bath 8.6, Bell 8.2, Boyd 4.9, Breathitt 8.2, Carter 8.0, Clay 10.4, Elliott 5.3, Greenup 5.8, Harlan 7.3, Jackson 11.4, Johnson 6.1, Knott 8.9, Knox 8.0, Laurel 5.4, Lawrence 6.1, Lee 14.0, Leslie 8.0, Letcher 7.9, McCreary 6.8, Magoffin 9.0, Martin 3.8, Menifee 11.0, Montgomery 6.7, Morgan 7.9, Owsley 9.7, Perry 8.1, Pike 5.5, Pulaski 4.3, Rockcastle 6.4, Rowan 5.1, Wayne 7.8, Whitley 9.4, Wolfe 10.4.

Girl Scout News

The Pike County Girl Scout day camp was held again at the Pikeville Elementary School. The scouts are a part of the Wilderness Road Girl Scout Council and Pikeville Service Unit, which includes Harold and Robinson Creek. More than 120 girls attended the five days of camp during the week of August 2-6. Thirty-six leaders were on hand to help the girls in their many activities.

Monday was a busy day of getting acquainted, making name bracelets, and in the afternoon beginning macramé with Cheryl Sheets from the Pike County Arts and Crafts Association as resource group. The younger girls made colorful yarn centipedes while the older children worked on belts of jute.

Tuesday and Thursday were swimming days. Tuesday was spent at Archer Park, Prestonsburg, with swimming in the morning and supervised play in the afternoon. Thursday, the group traveled to Jenny Wiley for a fun day capped off with an ice cream treat.

Wednesday was filled with activities for all the girls. In the morning there were three interest groups with community resource people providing the leadership. Dr. Fred Lawson, local veterinarian, led a discussion group on the care of pets. Melanie Davis, a former Girl Scout and nursing student, had an activity discussion group on first aid. In the afternoon a group of summer students under the direction of Bob Arlett from Alice Lloyd College presented three puppet shows.

Friday was cooking day with each of the 13 units preparing their own outdoor lunches. There were crafts to finish such as bottles that took on a leather look, wall hangings of burlap and hand puppets of felt. Each unit also prepared a short skit which was presented at the end of camp. The week ended on Friday with 101 children having attended every day and 33 others who also received patches for having participated.

Mrs. John D. Hays was director of the camp with Mrs. William J. Baird, III, co-director. Mrs. Troy Tackett and Mrs. Carl D. Thomas were assistant directors. Mrs. Clarence Robinson was registrar and Mrs. Gordon Wagner served as camp nurse.

One-Mile Stretch On Left Beaver To Be Surfaced

The state's Department of Transportation has awarded 12 contracts totalling slightly over $1 million for road improvements in 13 Eastern Kentucky counties.

The contracts were a part of a letting held August 12 at which bids of more than $5.5 million were received.

In Floyd county 1.1 miles of the Left Beaver highway (KY 122) will be resurfaced, beginning one-half mile south of KY 680 and extending south. East Kentucky Paving, of Grayson, was awarded the contract on its bid of $107,899.

According to State Transportation Secretary John C. Roberts, the 12 Eastern Kentucky contracts include four projects to be funded under the state's Energy Road Fund (ERF). These are:

In Lawrence county, 18.1 miles of the Louisa-Blaine Road (KY 32) will be patched from KY 201, near Blaine, to US 23 southwest of Louisa by East Kentucky Paving Corporation of Grayson at a cost of $114,442.

In Martin county, 5.4 miles of the Warfield-Louisa Road (KY 292) will be resurfaced from KY 908 to KY 3 by Adams Construction Corporation, of Pikeville, at a cost of $162,802.

In Breathitt county, Hinkle Contracting Corporation, of Paris, was the successful low bidder ($90,327) on a contract to resurface nearly 2.5 miles of local roads.

Other projects, all calling for resurfacing are 6.2 miles of the Red Bush-Martha road from Red Bush to the Lawrence county lines, and various roads in Greenup, Harlan, Clay, Leslie, Knox, Perry and Whitley counties.

In addition to these, Roberts also said that Boyd county is one of 10 counties which are scheduled to get thermoplastic pavement striping along various roads under a single contract awarded to Prismo Universal Corporation, of Rockville, Md., on a bid of $701,049.

ANNUAL MEETING SCHEDULED

The 139th annual meeting of the Paint Union Association of the United Baptist Church will be held at Bonanza, September 17, 18 and 19. Gale and Estill Music and Joe Snipes members of the church there, are heading plans in preparation for this occasion, and are being joined by other members of the church in securing a tent to help accommodate the large crowd that is anticipated.

Pike Co. Court Wins Bid Fight

The Pike fiscal court last week won its battle to use $552,635 in coal severance tax money to purchase heavy road equipment from a firm which was twice the second-lowest bidder.

State Finance and Administration Sec. Russell McClure approved the release of the coal tax money to Whayne Supply Co., Louisville, for eight graders and eight loaders which the court voted to purchase, Aug. 3.

McClure, in July, refused to release the same amount after the fiscal court awarded bids to Whayne—even though a rival bid by Kentucky Machinery, Inc. (KMI), which has a plant in this county, was $24,606 lower. After that rejection, the fiscal court re-advertised bids and awarded Whayne the contract—although KMI's bid was $37,751 lower that time.

In a letter to Pike County Judge Wayne T. Rutherford, McClure said he was finally approving the purchase because Pike officials have made an adequate case that the Whayne bid was the "best."

The letter told Rutherford that the fiscal court's second order approving the purchase "states a rational basis, reasonable related to . . . (a) provision of the advertisement for bids, for determining that it was the best bid . . . of the bids received."

State law requires that the court accept "the lowest and best bid."

In rejecting the earlier request for financing, McClure said those bid specifications included "unreasonable" restrictions which closed the bidding to some competitors—including one restriction which "apparently limited bidding to Whayne."

In explaining why he is approving the latest award to Whayne, McClure cited two problems with the advertisement for the bids which "we believe the re-advertisement had adequately cured."

In the order accepting the second Whayne bid, the fiscal court listed these five reasons it considered Whayne's bid best:

—KMI allegedly had given poor service in the past in repairing a piece of equipment. KMI denied the fiscal court's accusation.

—Whayne was the only bidder to include statements relating to availability of parts and service.

—Whayne promised immediate delivery while KMI indicated a delay of at least 60 days. The equipment was needed for use before winter.

—The Whayne equipment was 2,100 pounds lighter per machine than KMI's, making it better suited to rural roads and wooden bridges in the county.

—The quality of Whayne equipment was well known to the court but the quality of the KMI equipment was not.

During the more than three months of controversy over the purchase, J. N. Holeman, an official of the Dominion Road Machinery, Corp., of Canada, complained to Gov. Julian M. Carroll that rejections by Pike and Muhlenberg counties of equipment manufactured by his company was hurting chances of his firm's building a $6-million plant in Owensboro.

Dominion is the manufacturer of Champion equipment, the brand that KMI was offering. Whayne offers Caterpillar brand equipment.

Rutherford has noted that Whayne has a parts and service facility in Pike county, providing jobs and tax revenue for the county.

Carlson Named Elkhorn's General Manager at Wayland

Raymond M. Carlson has been appointed general manager—Wayland of the Elk Horn Coal Corporation, a 96-percent owned subsidiary of Ethyl Corporation. The appointment, which is effective immediately, was announced in Richmond, Va., last Tuesday, by C. Raymond Hailey, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Elk Horn.

Mr. Carlson, 44, joined Ethyl in 1974 as a senior project coordinator in the company's engineering department in Baton Rouge, La. Prior to that, he was with Stone & Webster, Inc., in Boston and the Monsanto Company and Fruin-Colton Corp. in St. Louis.

In his new position with Elk Horn, Carlson will have his office in Wayland. Elk Horn owns approximately 130,000 acres of coal land, primarily in Eastern Kentucky, part of which it leases to others for mining.

Mr. Carlson is a native of Erie, Pa. He received his B. S. degree in civil engineering from Northeastern University and a master's degree in management from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute. He is a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers and a registered professional engineer in Kentucky. Mr. Carlson is married to the former Dorothy Couillard of Duxbury, Mass., and they have two sons and a daughter.

Floyd County To Have Education Workshop

The Kentucky Department of Education has been awarded a $71,936 federal grant to conduct community education workshops in 35 Kentucky school districts, two of which are those of Floyd and Knott counties.

Community education encourages the use of school facilities for educational, recreational, social and cultural services for all people in a community, according to Harry Graham, coordinator for Community Education Development in the state Department of Education. Schools can be used by civic groups for suppers, dances, games and movies as well as concerts, lectures and theater, and classrooms can be used for vocational, adult education and extension classes.

"By using the school facilities all year, taxpayers can get full return on investment in the school plus interest through more and better organized services," Graham said. "When the school is not used to its full potential, the taxpayer gets less than one-fourth return on investment in the school, besides paying for many duplicated services."

Graham said the federal government has appropriated $3.5 million through the U. S. Office of Education, for community education project grants. Local school districts have been granted $1.5 million, while an equal amount has been allocated to state departments of education. Nineteen other states have received grants. Approximately $500,000 was allocated to colleges and universities.

Four Kentucky school districts—Montgomery county, Owen county, Roosevelt School in Jefferson county, and Bowling Green in Warren county—received individual grants for community education projects.

Other school districts scheduled to participate in the workshops are: Ballard County, Paducah Independent, Trigg County, Providence Independent, Henderson Independent, McLean County, Owensboro Independent, Bowling Green Independent, Warren County, Grayson County, Elizabethtown Independent, Larue County, Hardin County, Carroll County, Owen County, Grant County, Covington Independent, Campbell County, Ashland Independent, Elliott County, Morgan County, Bath County, Montgomery County, Frost School in Jefferson County, Woodford County, Adair County, Knox County, Wolfe County, Lee County, Magoffin County, Leslie County and Owsley County.

According to Graham, staff members of Murray State, Western Kentucky,

Northern Kentucky State, Morehead State, and Eastern Kentucky Universities and Lees Jr. College will conduct workshops in their respective regions. He said plans for the workshops will be completed by mid-October.

Richardson-Meek Nuptials Held

The marriage of Miss Jerri Kaye Richardson and Mr. Walter Robert Meek, Jr. was solemnized in an afternoon ceremony July 10 in the Betsy Layne Free Will Baptist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Argus Richardson, of Betsy Layne, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Robert Meek, King Addition, Paintsville, Ky.

The double-ring vows were read by the Rev. Cohen Campbell, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, Betsy Layne. A program of nuptial selections was presented by Mrs. Frances Pope, aunt of the groom. Given in marriage by her father, Miss Richardson wore a floor-length gown of white over slipper satin, full puffed sleeves, wristlet cuffs, semi-empire waist, mandarin collar and fitted bodice of embroidered chiffon and chantilly lace. Her A-line skirt of Sheerganza with triple lace motifs from waist to hem was trimmed with iridescent sequins and baby seed pearls matching the lace pattern on all focal points. Her wedding dress was bordered with wide lace at the hemline ending in a bouffant chapel train edged with single chantilly lace. Her cathedral veil of imported French net was held in place with a trumpet cap of white slipper satin, chantilly lace, sequins and baby seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white daisies, fern, baby-breath and stephanotis tied with white pearl floor-length streamers.

Lois Ann Hunter, maid of honor, wore a blue printed dotted swiss gown and carried a bouquet of blue and white daisies with white streamers. Denise Bentley, bridesmaid, wore a pink printed dotted swiss gown and carried a bouquet of pink and white daisies with white streamers. James N. Meek, III, was best man. Ushers were Johnny Pat Ramsey, cousin of the groom, Charles Ray and Argus Keith Richardson, brother of the bride. Melissa Ann Tackett and Thomas Richardson, brother of the bride, were flower girl and ring bearer, respectively.

Assisting at the reception were Karen Ratliff, Mary Lou Spradlin, Linda Spradlin, Adele Meek, Phyllis Tackett and Anna Lee Meade.

Judge Orders Firm's Forfeit Of Mine Bonds

Frankfort, Ky.—Franklin circuit court recently ruled in favor of the state environmental department in the first lawsuit filed to force collection of reclamation bonds.

Utica Mutual Insurance Co., of New York, was ordered by Judge Squire N. Williams to pay $9,000 to the state on forfeited reclamation bonds for four strip mine sites.

Southeastern Kentucky Coal Co. of Ann Arbor, Mich., a coal company no longer existing, operated during 1970 and 1971 and afterward abandoned some of its strip mined areas in Laurel and Rockcastle counties. The bonds to insure reclamation that were posted by the coal company were underwritten by Utica Mutual.

In 1973, the division of reclamation in the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection sent bond forfeiture notices to the company because satisfactory reclamation was not completed.

In his recent ruling, Williams found that Utica Mutual was liable on their contractual obligation with Southeastern Kentucky Coal to be responsible for either reclaiming the strip mined areas or paying the amount of the bonds.

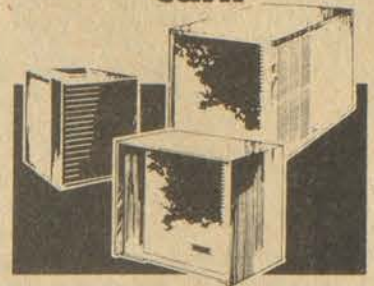

CARD OF THANKS

We, the children of James (Jim), Ousley, apologize for the delay in placing this notice in the Floyd County Times. Our mother is critically ill and has been since before he passed away; also, one of the sons, Sanford has been very ill. Nevertheless we do appreciate every act of kindness, every word of consolation, all flowers, and food that were sent. We especially thank the Floyd Funeral Home for its fine services and the Regular Baptist Church for its service well done.

Community Service Classes Scheduled

Six community service classes will begin at Prestonsburg Community College on the evenings of September 7 and 8 (Tuesday and Wednesday), and an organizational meeting for the Photographers' Guild will take place on the evening of September 9.

"Beginning Tennis", "Introduction to the Old Testament" and "Automobile Maintenance and Repair" will begin Tuesday evening; "Modern British Poetry", "A Women's Consciousness-Raising Group," and "Prepared Childbirth" start Wednesday evening.

The tennis class already has a full enrollment. "Introduction to the Old Testament" will begin 7 p.m. in Room 207 of the Technology Building, and will be taught by the Rev. William Thomas, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church here. The other Tuesday class, "Automobile Maintenance and Repair," will be taught by Ronald Carter, at 7:30 p.m. in Room 147 of the Administration Building. This class is especially designed for men and women who need to know what to do when the car will not start, how to change spark plugs, head lights, etc., and other practical money-saving information.

Meeting for five consecutive Wednesday evenings from 7 to 9 p.m. in Room 207 of the Technology Building, "Modern British Poetry," will be taught by Carolyn Turner, a member of the Prestonsburg Community College faculty. This course will deal with the world views held by Gerald Manley Hopkins, William Butler Yeats, T. S. Eliot, Dylan Thomas and W. H. Auden, and will look at their poetry as a reflection of these views. The main purpose of the course is to give readers an insight into the excellent poetry of this period which many pass by as too difficult.

"Women's Consciousness-Raising Group," will be organized in Room 105 of the Technology Building beginning at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday evening.

"Prepared Childbirth," also on Wednesday evening, will meet from 8 to 10 p.m. in the Floyd County Library. Taught by Jean Rosenberg and Sue Crottinger, this course consists of training for husbands and wives in techniques of prepared childbirth. It includes conditioning exercises and discussions on the process of labor and delivery.

For further information on these and other Community Service courses, contact the Office of Community Services, Prestonsburg Community College, Telephone 886-3863, extension 243.

NOTICE OF THANKS

The family of the late Rev. Rufus E. Johnston takes this opportunity to say, "Thank you," to all who brought food or flowers, or who showed their respect and sympathy in any way. A special thanks to Rev. Phil Fraley and Rev. William Amburgey for their services and comforting words to the family, also to the singers from Wheelwright. Many thanks to the doctors and staff of Highlands Regional Memorial Hospital for special consideration to the family.

Sterling, Reece Stamper, of Lexington, and Joe Stamper, of Maytown; 22 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Burial will be made in the Stamper cemetery at Maytown.

Historical Society Seeking Information About Ky. Cemeteries

The Kentucky Historical Society is soliciting help from citizens around the state in gathering information about family and community cemeteries.

According to Lewis Woods, Historical Society field services director, the project, authorized by the 1976 General Assembly, was set up to "collect, maintain and preserve information concerning Kentucky family cemeteries." "It will be beneficial to have this information on file," Woods said, "because in understanding our past, it helps to know who was where and when."

"Edgar Lee Masters in 'Spoon River Anthology' wrote the history of a town from real epitaphs in a cemetery. His, of course, was fiction, but it illustrates how much we can be enlightened by knowing what our cemeteries hold," he added.

Woods said the time factor and successful completion of the project will depend largely on cooperation from local historical societies, civic groups, and private citizens who are familiar with their areas. He said Historical Society personnel will notify local newspapers when they will be coming to an area to survey.

After the information has been gathered, it will be published and placed in the Historical Society's Genealogical Library in the Old Capitol Annex in Frankfort. Each county will be given a copy of the records on its cemeteries.

Notice of Intention To Mine

In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that: Lone Star Coal Co., Allen, Ky. intends to file an application for the surface mining of approximately 11 acres located south of Prestonsburg in Floyd county. The proposed operation is approximately one-half mile east of State Route 1428 and located east of the Big Sandy River. The surface of the area to be mined is owned by: D. B. Leslie heirs.

A brief description of the kind of mining activity proposed is: strip and auger.

The application will be filed at the Division of Reclamation, Prestonsburg Area Office, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653.

Persons wishing to object to the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection as to the issuance of a mining permit must do so in accordance with KRS 224.081 (2) and must forward same to the Director, Division of Reclamation, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

SENIOR CITIZEN NEWS

A large crowd was on hand the week of Aug. 23-27 to share in games, covered dish dinners and fellowship. The activities included guest speakers.

We are grateful to them for coming to us without charge. Eleanor Robinson, administrator, and Patsy Evans, activities director, Mt. Manor Nursing Home, were at the center to help us understand better our nursing home and health services.

A pot-luck dinner and old time singing were enjoyed August 27. Tommy Moore sang "The Third Man On the Cross," and was joined by W. E. Warrens in singing several more songs. John Morgan Slone also joined in with them. Rhoda Brickley sang, "My Jesus," which was written by her. Leona Winkler read a poem, "Gift of Today and Tomorrow."

Everyone enjoyed their trip to Louisville for the State Fair. The main interest was looking over arts and crafts.

A picnic is planned Thursday, Sept. 8, at Dewey Dam for the five-county senior citizens.

Enjoying the activities were the following:

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pennington, of Prestonsburg; Angie Adams, Middle Creek; Herbert and Elva Spradlin, East Point; Beulah Williamson, Prestonsburg; Mae Kendrick, Prestonsburg; Cynthia Ousley, Middle Creek; Callie Skeens, Mrs. Green and daughter, Grace Conley, Polly Lafferty, Joe Helton, Leona Winkler, Mrs. Calhoun, all of Prestonsburg; Kelsa Elliott, Betsy Layne; Mrs. Turner, Harold; Mrs. Mitchell, Wells Addition; Mrs. Compton, Harold; Mrs. Mullins, Pikeville; James Martin, Drift; Mr. and Mrs. Granville Setser, Allen; Ermine and Dinah Hall, Prestonsburg; Gypsie Baldrige, Sola Blackburn, Edith Elkins, all of East Point; Mr. and Mrs. W.
