

2 Projects Here Assured Funding

Municipal Bldg., Low-Rent Work Get $1,121,142

Congressman Carl D. Perkins last week announced federal funding of two Prestonsburg construction projects to the extent of $1,121,412.

An Economic Development Administration (EDA) grant of $716,288 will mean an early start on construction of the Prestonsburg municipal building to house all departments of city government and administration with the possible exception of city utilities.

The second grant of $405,024 by the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) was awarded to cover construction costs of 94 dwelling units for low-income families at Hickory Hills, in the Cliff vicinity.

An early beginning of work on the municipal building is certain, because the city has only 90 days after the grant is made to start work. Although the grant does not become official until EDA notification of its action is received, that formality is expected this week.

For this reason, the architect has been instructed by the city to advertise for bids as soon as the grant becomes official. Core drilling of the site, the former Stephens property on North Lake Drive here, and engineering have already been completed.

The HUD grant for low-rent housing will be administered by the Prestonsburg Housing Authority which manages the Green Acres, Indian Hills and Dixie housing complexes here. It will be located on acreage below cliff which lies across the river from Prestonsburg Community College.

A block grant of $100,000 was recently announced to finance road construction to the site, but the funds have not actually been received. Road improvement includes access from the Abbott road, near its juncture with old US 23, and a railroad crossing. This road has long discouraged industrial development on property in the same area which has been held for new industry, and its completion is seen

Burial Place Dispute Finds Way to Courts

When Tavis Wallen died last week relatives claimed the right to bury him on land sold by relatives several years ago.

The controversy over the location of a new cemetery on the right fork of Bull Creek became so heated that two restraining orders were sought and a warrant was issued for the latest owner of the land.

The claim stemmed from an "exception" made in a deed executed in 1964 by Alex and Lizzie Wallen, reserving space for a cemetery and for a road leading to it.

The land changed hands several times, and one of the recent owners, Albert Miller, procured from Johnson Circuit Judge W. B. Hazelrigg a court order restraining Dewey Wallen and others from using a portion of the land for a cemetery and road. The restraining order was granted Aug. 15 but was not executed till last Thursday.

Big Sandy ADD Gives Martin Job Priority

When the Big Sandy Area Development District met Friday night to decide on the most-needed flood control projects in the district, the rechannelization of Beaver Creek in the vicinity of Martin was listed as this county's most urgent priority.

The Martin rechannelization was one of seven flood abatement projects recommended by a recent area flood study by Howard K. Bell Engineers as a means of preventing future flood damage in the county. The study was designed to aid Pike, Johnson, Martin and Magoffin counties as well as Floyd in applying for $7.5 million in state funds which have been made available for flood abatement projects, statewide.

Although work on channelization at Martin was planned several years ago when federal funds were appropriated, the project recommended by the Lexington engineering firm calls for $100,000 in state money to supplement the work of acquiring rights-of-way and easements.

This Town...That World

We all go through our growin' years. And later most of us keep right on groanin'.

THE NEEDED GOOD

A week or so back, I was taking my text on deadlines. The work wasn't so hard but that eternal, infernal deadline demanding to be met, week after week, and so on ran the jeremiad.

Then it was that our sprightly visitor, Betty Fiedler, dissented. "Deadlines—they're great! Who would get anything done without them?" she wanted to know.

Come to think of it, she's right, though I still don't like 'em. This chore at hand, for instance, wouldn't get done but for a deadline.

ANOTHER VISITOR

The robins are gone, but the jays, sparrows, cardinals and others are around for their handout. This week, a fox looked us over briefly from the doorway of his hillside lair. Like the robins, this fellow depends upon nobody but hunts his own food. The last chicken we had went long ago into the pot, so I hope he sticks around.

Shots Thru Door Hit Blankenship, Hall Is Charged

Sheriff Joe W. Lewis and deputies jailed here last Saturday Ernest Hall, 24, after Ralph Blankenship had been twice shot Friday night in the back with pistol bullets fired through the door of a Mud Creek home where Blankenship was visiting.

The wounded man was taken to the McDowell Appalachian Hospital.

The sheriff said he and Deputy Sheriffs Linzie Hunt, Doug Lewis, J. D. and Melvin Martin, Wallace and Phillip Keathley searched the hills until Saturday morning before catching up with Hall.

He said the shooting took place at the home of America Hall with whose son Blankenship was preparing to leave on a hunting trip when the shots were fired. The .25-calibre weapon used in the shooting was not found.

There is no known motive for the shooting, the sheriff said.

Rickey Adkins and Kenneth Mullins, both of Allen, were charged last week by Sheriff Lewis and Deputy Sheriff Doug Lewis in connection with a rash of burglary incidents Wednesday night. The two are charged with stealing a quantity of candy and a cigarette lighter from the Almar Drive-In concession stand and later breaking into Ruby Kinzer's store at Allen and taking cigarettes, soft drinks, cigarette lighters and other small items. Sheriff Lewis said Adkins is also charged with stealing a bolt cutter from a telephone company truck and attempting to break into the Texaco Service Station here. Adkins also faces earlier charges of breaking into the Big Y Market at Allen and Mitchell's Gulf Station at Lancer.

Arrested by sheriff's deputies last week on a charge of illegal possession of alcoholic beverages was Bill Prater. Officers discovered 12 cans of beer and two half-pints of whiskey in Prater's

One of many who will participate in the 12th annual Highlands Folk Festival this week-end is Jan Farley, who plays the dulcimer. The Georgetown woman is appearing at the festival for the second year in a row.

Highlands Folk Fest Top Week-End Event

For the 12th consecutive year the Kentucky Highlands Folk Festival this week-end will devote three days to the preservation of the music, dances, costumes, crafts, speech and way of life that has made Eastern Kentucky distinctive.

The festival, which was founded by Edith F. James, of Prestonsburg, and is now directed by Mrs. Kathryn S. Frazier, also of Prestonsburg, will begin Friday evening at 7 at the amphitheatre at Jenny Wiley State Park with a program of traditional music, string bands, instrumental groups, banjo-pickin', a dulcimer ensemble, square dancing, mountain songs and will end with a jam session for performers. Mayor Harold Cooley, of Prestonsburg, will open the festival with an official welcome to performers and guests.

The Saturday program, also at 7 p.m., will bring together folk musicians from a wide area. Ballads, old songs of the mountains, music by dulcimer, banjo and other instruments will be featured.

Special features to be offered earlier Saturday are these: At 10 a.m., an arts and crafts exhibit in the Amphitheatre parking lot, and at the same location at 1 p.m., a musical swap shop. At 3 p.m., at May Lodge, Jan Farley will conduct a workshop.

The festival will end with a program of religious music at 5 p.m. Sunday. Besides the range of hymns by choirs and other song groups, the shaped note system will be the subject of a "singing school" taught by "Uncle" Jake Goble. The religious music to be heard in this closing program will date back to the Gregorian Chant and will include primitive mountain chants, the four-note system, "lined" tunes, fireside hymns and others.

Football Game Cut Short When Three Wounded

Shotgun blasts fired from outside the field resulted in minor wounding of at least three persons and the cancellation of a football game shortly before the end of the half at Wheelwright last Friday night.

Wheelwright High School was leading Fleming-Neon High at the time, 26 to 0, and the score may stand. When it was discovered that two or three players on the visiting team had been hit by pellets, Fleming-Neon coaches and school officials decided to call the game and go home.

Wheelwright Coach Don Daniels expressed his deep regret and emphasized the point that the shooting had no connection with the football game. The most serious wound sustained was that of a Fleming-Neon player who was struck by a pellet on the bridge of his nose.

The search for the gunman continued this week, but nobody had been arrested Monday and no warrant had been issued.

Stories of the shooting were widely at variance. At first it was reported that the gunman fired the shots into a trailer, near the football field, and that the pellets ricocheted from the trailer onto the field. Another said the shooting was an exchange of shots between two per-

Nat'l Mines a Winner in Safety Day Events

Under simulated disaster conditions members of the National Mines team wear gas masks during last Friday's mine rescue competition at Archer Park. The team won the one-hour contest.

Members of the mine rescue team of National Mines Corporation, Wayland, are pictured during Friday's session of the Big Sandy-Elkhorn Mining Institute's Annual Safety Day. The National Mines team, regarded among the best in the country, placed first in the one-hour mine rescue competition and second in the two-hour contest.

Winner in the two-hour rescue competition was Beth-Elkhorn, Mine No. 26, of Jenkins, and third place in that category was won by the Eastern Coal Corporation team, of Stone. The Eastern Coal team also took second in the one-hour competition and third place was claimed by the Kentland Elkhorn team, of Pike county.

In what is believed to be a first in mine competition, an all-woman team of underground miners competed in the first-aid safety event Saturday against five men's first-aid squads, beating out three of the more experienced male teams. The team, composed of six women from various mines of Beth-Elkhorn, placed second to Beth-Elkhorn's Mine No. 26 male team by only two points.

Saturday's competition was followed by a banquet at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, where nine large trophies and 140 smaller awards were presented. The event was attended by 240 persons from the coalfields area.

4 Major Firms To Have Stores In P'kway Plaza

Construction of the 141,000-square-foot Parkway Plaza will begin late next month on an eight-acre tract of land on the Mountain Parkway here, it was announced this week.

The $3 million-plus construction venture is one of several shopping centers being developed and owned by M. D. Lowe, of Campbellsburg, and James A. Hughes, of Prestonsburg. It will be located near the interchange here of US 23 and the Mountain Parkway at the mouth of Katy Friend. The development is in cooperation with Marvin Crider and Associates, Prestonsburg architects.

Mr. Hughes delayed announcement of plans for the shopping center until four major firms had signed leases. These companies and the area leased by each are:

S Mart Discount Department Store, 40,000 square feet; Hobbs' Department Store, 30,000 sq. ft.; Food Fair Supermarket, 18,750 sq. ft.; Begley Drug Co., 8,750 sq. ft.

Negotiations, Mr. Hughes said, are now under way for another 20,000 square feet for a well-known local department store. In addition to these, two fast-food places, one of which is Pasqual's Pizza, will be in the center, and 15,000 square feet of second-floor space will be provided for offices. These offices, ranging from one office to a suite, will be built to the tenant's order, Hughes said. In addition, shop spaces in varying sizes will be for rent to local tenants.

Parkway Plaza, said to be the largest yet planned in Floyd county, will be of masonry construction, with mansard roof and Tudor architectural design. Hughes said the structure will be ready for occupancy by major tenants by next spring, with offices and local tenant spaces scheduled for completion by the fall of 1978.

Regional Airport Plans Delay Cut As Funds Okehed

Planning time for a possible regional airport in the Big Sandy was shortened this week when the Federal Aviation Administration in Washington approved prompt release of planning funds.

FAA administrator Langhorne Bond authorized transfer of approximately $35,000 to the southern region, headquartered in Memphis, for local use.

That action will enable the airport consultants, G. Reynolds Watkins Consulting Engineers, to begin work on a master plan within the next few weeks, according to an airport board spokesman.

Board members from Johnson, Magoffin, Martin and Floyd counties met with Bond Monday morning in Washington. The meeting, arranged by federal highway administrator William Cox, was also attended by William Vitale, deputy assistant administrator for the FAA, Sandy Pullen of Kentucky's aeronautics division, Floyd County Judge Henry Stumbo, Judge James Witten of Johnson county, representatives of the consulting firm, State Senator Jim Hammond, State Representative James "Jitter" Allen, Commonwealth's attorney James R. Allen and others.

The four counties are seeking to develop a new airport, large enough to handle transport and commuter aircraft services.

The master plan, a study which will include potential site selection, is a state and federal requirement prior to actual airport development. Funding was not scheduled until late in October, since the FAA's southern region already had allocated all of its money to other projects.

Administrator Bond's action Monday "cut as much as three to four months delay" from the planning schedule, the board spokesman said.

Bluegrass Is Chosen As Movie Location

Central Kentucky has been chosen by Hollywood producer's as the site for the filming of two major motion pictures within the next few weeks, according to Development Secretary William L. Short who is chairman of the Kentucky Film Commission.

Walt Disney Productions will be bringing a crew into Danville and Boyle County later this month for filming of their two-part TV series titled "The Ghost Belongs to Me." Then, in early September, Universal Studios will be in Lexington and the central Kentucky area to begin preparations for their five-part television special "Black Beauty."

Ben Bishop, producer of the "Black Beauty" series, and executive producer and script writer Peter Fischer were in Kentucky in August with a three-person scouting team looking for locations with Film Commission Director Tom Clark-Todd and his executive assistant, Betty Lampkin.

"We were able to show them several usable locations in central Kentucky, and they liked what they saw," Lampkin said. The decision to use Kentucky locations for the entire production was announced by Universal early last week.

"Black Beauty" is an adaptation of Anna Sewall's children's classic and will be presented on NBC this season in five one-hour episodes, according to Fischer. The producers have looked at locations in Lexington, Frankfort, Paris, Shaker-town at Pleasant Hill, Versailles and Georgetown and will make specific location decisions later this month, according to Clark-Todd. Filming of "Black Beauty" will continue through November.

The Walt Disney production is scheduled to begin in Danville Aug. 22 or 23, and filming is expected to take six to ten days.

James Tadevic, location manager for Walt Disney Productions, said that several states were considered for this production, but Kentucky was chosen "because we knew we could find the locations and the cooperation we needed in Kentucky."

Tadevic and Walt Disney Productions are no strangers to the Commonwealth, according to Eben Henson, of Danville, who is a member of the Film Commission and whose efforts were largely responsible for the production's location in Kentucky. Tadevic was with the Walt Disney Production crew when "Treasure of Matecumbe" was filmed in central Kentucky in 1976.

According to Tadevic, "The Ghost Belongs to Me" is a story of a present-day family moving from a city to an old southern plantation that happens to be the home of a very friendly ghost of a mid-nineteenth century girl. The plot of the story deals with the family's adventures with the ghost as she searches for a lost treasure.

Jan Williams will be producing the film, while John Erman will direct.

In reference to the upcoming productions, Short said, "The Kentucky Film Commission is very pleased that both of these family-entertainment productions chose Kentucky."

"The commission is, of course, vitally interested in the economic impact of motion picture production in the state," Short continued, "but we also want to make an effort to ensure that Kentucky is presented to motion picture audiences in the best possible light in high-quality entertainment endeavors."

Short noted that both "Black Beauty" and "The Ghost Belongs to Me" are productions that exemplify those attributes.

Where Was Your TV Set Made?

You may find it easier to figure out where your next television or stereo set comes from if the government has its way.

The Customs Service has proposed requiring that the country of origin be marked on the front, top or sides of the item, as opposed to the back, where it is labeled now. That would make sure it is visible when the television, radio or stereo is on display.

To comment on this proposed rule, write to the Commissioner of Customs, Regulations and Legal Publications Division, 1301 Constitution Ave. NW, Washington, D. C. 20229 by Sept. 2.

Notice of Intention To Mine

In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that Greer, Inc., Box 460, London, Ky. 40741, intends to file an application for the surface mining of approximately 10 acres located north of Stanville in Floyd County. The proposed operation is approximately 3/4 mile east of State Route 23's junction with Mare Creek Road and located north of Mare Creek.

The surface of the area to be mined is owned by Chester Layne and Windell Stratton. A brief description of the kind of mining activity proposed is: strip and auger.

The application will be filed at the Division of Reclamation, Prestonsburg area office, 405 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653.

Persons wishing to object to the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection as to the issuance of a mining permit must do so in accordance with KRS 224.081 (2) and must forward same to the Director, Division of Reclamation, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

dollars.

Advantages both ways. It's good for the corporation regardless of size, because the premiums for life insurance on corporate owners, executives, key employees... all employees... are tax deductible as a business expense under a recent government regulation. So the employee gets the benefit of increased compensation, up to $50,000 in term life insurance purchased by the corporation, with no current income tax liability for either party! The employee can even have permanent life insurance, retain the cash values and benefits, and pay only the tax on the premium. It's a good concept.

Now, all you need is a little help to do something about it. Kansas City Life, The Lioness, would like to introduce you to one of our people who knows the ins-and-outs of this new concept.

HRMC Staff Receives Fire-Fighting Training

Prestonsburg Fire Department member Paul Chaffins oversees as staff members of various Highlands Regional Medical Center departments try their hand at operating fire-fighting equipment. The demonstration was part of an emergency fire-fighting seminar presented by Bob Barringer, state fire-fighting coordinator, and members of the Prestonsburg Fire Department.

Professionals Visit ARH Sites

As part of an intensive effort to resolve the financial problems of the Appalachian Regional Hospitals, Inc., the Appalachian Regional Commission, the states of Kentucky and West Virginia and representatives from HEW participated in a three-day site visit last week to the hospitals and clinics in Kentucky and West Virginia.

The team of federal and state health-care professionals began work Thursday at the Lexington headquarters of ARH, Inc. by examining the organizational structure and financing of the health care system. They also met with representatives of both the Eastern Kentucky and West Virginia health systems agencies during field visits.

Friday, the group divided into two teams—one visiting Hazard and Homeplace, the other going to Williamson and Beckley, West Virginia. The final session for the team was Saturday in Huntington.

Most members of the team were of the opinion that the ARH system is both a national and a community resource for which reasonable long-range financing must be established. ARC has supported the ARH system, with both construction and operating grants since 1968. Kentucky supplied the initial $1.8 million to help make the conversion from the Miners Memorial Hospitals in the 1963-1966 period. Originally designed as a health resource for members of the United Mineworkers of America, the hospitals began to serve members of the community at large within two years of their opening. Today, the union beneficiaries represent only 15 percent of the system's users.

Federal cochairman of the Appalachian Regional Commission, Robert W. Scott, expressed concern about the current fiscal crisis, which has been heightened by recent wildcat strikes and benefit reductions by the United Mineworkers' health and retirement funds. He pointed out, however, that the basic problem with the Appalachian Regional Hospitals, Inc., is a reflection of the national problem of financing health care services.

In an effort to stabilize short-term financing for the system, the Commission and the Kentucky and West Virginia Congressional delegations are working with DHEW, the Economic Development Administration (EDA) and HUD to procure both early settlements on funds outstanding, and a short-term emergency payroll assistance grant. The latter was proposed by Senator Jennings Randolph, of West Virginia.

Federal Grant Made For Day-Care Centers In Floyd and Magoffin

Gov. Julian M. Carroll and Secretary for Human Resources Peter D. Conn have announced that the Kentucky Youth Research Center, Frankfort, will receive a federal grant of $60,000 to provide services for 100 children enrolled in day care centers in Floyd, Magoffin and Madison counties.

The day care centers will provide pre-school training for children from low-income families. Under federal guidelines, they also provide nutritional, medical, social and dental services the children might require.

Nancy Gets Ring Back—And Look Who Nancy Is!

Twenty-one years ago Nancy Wilson lost her high school ring. Now she's got it back, thanks to a thoughtful custodian at the State University of New York at Oswego.

John "Jack" Tonkin found the ring one day in the fall of 1956 when he was sweeping the auditorium floor in the college's Old Main Building.

He plastered bulletin boards with notices in an attempt to find the owner. He even looked in the classified sections of newspapers for a while to see whether anyone had taken an ad out seeking the ring.

But after a year or so no one had claimed it so he took it home, tossed it in a small box with other odds and ends, and forgot about it.

Recently, he was going through the box and figured he'd try again to find the owner. He got a magnifying glass and discovered the word Greenwich. "Then I realized it was a high school graduation ring," Tonkin said. "The numerals were 1955, and the engraving inside the ring bore the name of a girl—Nancy."

Someone in the college's public relations office helped him track down the school—Greenwich High School north of Albany in Washington County. He sent a letter to the guidance counselor there asking him to check the records to see whether any girls named Nancy graduated in 1955.

Yes, there was a Nancy Wilson. By coincidence, the counselor had an elderly next-door neighbor named Lucille Wilson. He asked her if she had a daughter named Nancy who graduated from Greenwich in 1955. She did.

"This is almost a 'Ripley's Believe It Or Not,'" said Nancy Wilson Skiff, who is now married to the Rev. Milton E. Skiff, former pastor of Prestonsburg's First Presbyterian Church, and who now lives in Lisbon, N. Y.

WELCOME "GRIPE"

It's so seldom that we get a complaint that has a bit of humor about it that I am printing at least a portion of a letter received last week from a former Floyd countian, William T. (Bill) Shannon, now a resident of Hampton, Va. He writes: "Now, look here, fellows! You have almost committed the unpardonable sin. I haven't got the Floyd County Times for last week, and here it is Tuesday . . . Well, I thought maybe the horse had broke its leg."

Bill Shannon wrote more, of moving in 1918 at the age of 14 with his family to Drift and of "doing a lot of growing up on Left Beaver." "That," he adds, "was when the creek was a young river and you could find a lot of swimming holes shaded with trees growing right down to the water's edge, and when you could catch yourself a mess of fish, most any time. But now . . . looks like Father Time got in an awful hurry and that Mother Nature is fifty years behind with her work. But I still love to visit Floyd county and meet good, old, real down-to-earth people and hear a language that is music to this old hillbilly's ears."

Then, getting back to the matter of his errant paper, he adds:

"Don't let this grow into a federal case."

The temptation to editorialize about this matter results in the following being printed in this column rather than as a straight news-story.

It has to do with Cherokee Lake, a place for which I have developed a fondness over the years. Not for its fish alone but also for its beauty in Tennessee's low hills, the surrounding countryside of red clay and limestone soil, its conveniences and, perhaps most of all, for its people.

Anyway, Cherokee, which is almost always good for some fish—black bass, rockfish, white bass, crappie, bluegill, catfish—is having a battle for its life.

Rockfish were dying, last spring. Black bass with ugly sores were being caught. The word got out that you dare not eat a Cherokee fish if you caught one. Five agencies, including TVA and Tennessee Eastman representatives, are at this time doing a comprehensive study of the situation, trying to find the culprit, and, if possible, put an end to the threat.

But all is not as bad as we heard. A representative of the Wildlife Resources Department in Morristown told us, the other day, that there is no indication at this time that it is unsafe to eat fish taken from Cherokee. He explained that the rumor perhaps started from his statement made when he found boaters or fishermen loading up with rockfish which were belly-up but still alive on the surface. "I told them," he said, "that I wouldn't eat those fish, 'and somebody took it from there," he said.

Yet there was a chemical spill into the lake last spring, and the result was foul-tasting water. That went away, but the concentration of mercury found in the North Fork of the Holston River, the stream impounded by Cherokee Day, will not for another hundred years or so. The North Fork has been closed to fishing, but no heavy concentration of mercury has been found in the main lake, this informant said.

How come? The Wildlife Resources man said the trouble is "an accumulation of things that have been happening 20 to 25 years." He added that he could not say if it was the result of industrial wastes, or domestic, or a combination of the two.

Anyway, Cherokee is in trouble—trouble which had its faint beginnings 20 to 25 years ago, trouble which was manmade and which even Tennessee, a state which often has drawn our praise for its care of its water resources, failed to recognize in time.

This is a story you'll hear more often, we predict. And Kentucky is at this moment writing several chapters of the sordid yarn.

Hey, Printer, reserve one chapter for Dewey Lake!

sons in the trailer park. Later, it was reported that the driver of a truck pulled up and began firing toward the football field.

At least two state troopers and as many deputy sheriffs were at the game when the shots were fired. They began a search for the gunman immediately. A deserted truck which may have figured in the incident was later found.

"I just hope this thing doesn't get blown out of proportion," Coach Daniel said. "By the time it gets around, people will be saying they were shooting at the players. We try to live down that kind of reputation here."

Daniel, who doubles as principal and football coach at the school, stressed his sympathy with the visiting team. "I don't blame the Neon people at all for leaving," he said. "It's sickening to me to see those people have to go through the turmoil of something like this, even though no one was hurt badly."

rank those projects in order of importance. What at first appeared to be the makings of a dilemma was eased, when the board received assurance that it was "almost certain" that the projects selected as most vital by the five counties would receive funding. Big Sandy ADD Director Joe McCauley said, "There's pretty good reason to believe we'll get half a million dollars for these projects." Smiley also expressed confidence that the projects would be funded. "I personally don't believe there's any doubt," he said.

Upon motion by Johnson County Judge James C. Witten, the board decided to list the first five projects in alphabetical order, according to county. Thus, Floyd county's project was listed first, and Pike's last. The counties' second priorities were listed in the same manner while the third and fourth lists of projects were in reverse order.

Floyd County Judge Henry Stumbo, who is chairman of the ADD Executive Board, said the county is now in the process of getting easements on the Martin channelization project and he pointed to various court involvements relating to right-of-way acquisition as causing delay in the work. He also said two homes need relocating. "It's pretty hard sometimes to tell people how a project like this is going to help them," he said. Smiley pointed out that the Martin work would also help the flooding situation on the Big Sandy, since Beaver Creek is one of the river's main tributaries.

Smiley, who also pointed to the possibility of some of the counties' other, lower-rated projects being funded, said, "The philosophy behind the levee at Prestonsburg high school is to fund the project with aid from other agencies." The concept of involving joint agencies was also mentioned in connection with the West Prestonsburg levee.

Smiley said a meeting would be held today (Wednesday) with Howard K. Bell representatives, the Army Corps of Engineers and others to discuss steps toward protection of McDowell high school.

The engineers' study also made some recommendations toward the establishment of an effective evacuation plan for the area, including an early warning system, to scrutinize weather and flood forecasts to make them more reliable. "If your people have any confidence in the warnings, they'll get out," a technical advisor from Johnson county pointed out.

In other business the board approved the hiring of Charles Nicklas as head of its new Enterprise Development Program. Nicklas, who has been working as an enterprise development specialist in northern Michigan, was chosen from among a number of persons interviewed. The enterprise development program of Big Sandy ADD will concentrate on industrial development and site location for industry in the area and is funded entirely by Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) funds.

The board also approved Marvin Crider, of Prestonsburg, as architect on the proposed expansion of the Tourist Information Center here.

Last week, Miller sold the tract to his attorney in the litigation, Jarvis Allen, and at 11:45 last Friday night the Wallens asked a temporary injunction to restrain him from interfering with use of the land for a cemetery. That injunction action later was dropped, Circuit Clerk Frank DeRossett said.

Miller had admitted the exception for the cemetery but pointed out that no specific area was described for the cemetery and road, that he owned only about an acre of level land and that construction of a road at the rear of his house would destroy the value of his property. He also pointed out that Alex Wallen, one of the grantors who made the exception, has since died but was buried in another cemetery. He contended that the cemetery reservation did not extend to any person other than Alex Wallen and his wife, Lizzie.

The plaintiffs claimed that before Allen acquired the property a road was built to the intended site of the cemetery.

After a confrontation Friday between the opposing parties, a warrant charging Allen with terroristic threatening was issued. He executed $500 cash bond, and the case apparently is headed for a court hearing.

COONHUNTERS PLAN EVENT

The Big Sandy Coonhunters Association will sponsor field trials and a water race at 3 p.m., Labor Day, at the Floyd-Johnson county line. Signs will be posted.

The board members also made a preliminary request for a $2.5 million allocation to begin engineering and site development from fiscal '79 funds, in anticipation of actual construction. Completion of the master plan will require most of the fiscal '78 period.

Bond stressed that only $15 million was available annually for general aviation projects across the nation, and emphasized that local effort was essential to determine how much "match" the federal government could provide.

Judge Stumbo and Judge Witten emphasized the need for the airport, based on the demand for energy resources in Eastern Kentucky and on future economic diversification.

No commitment was made on the $2.5 million request, but the board spokesman said none was expected until planning is completed, a site selected and accurate costs of the project determined.

"Administrator Bond made it clear that local effort would be of major importance in this project," Board Chairman Allan Perry said, "and all of us agreed with his reasoning. We are, however, on record with the FAA concerning the $2.5 million, and will have a better grasp on local effort needed as planning progresses."

"The interest shown by Mr. Cox, Mr. Bond, state and local authorities is encouraging," Perry said. "While we have a long way to go, we believe that we have made a good start toward a facility that is much needed in the Big Sandy area."

Home Br. Teacher Resigns, Parents Protest Conditions

Water cooler in Home Branch school before a background of plywood cover for window smashed by vandals.

The school on the Home Branch of Buffalo Creek had no more than opened its term last week than things began to happen.

Windows were smashed, the two buildings entered, human excrement was left in the floor, on desks, the refrigerator, even on the water cooler, a group of irate parents said.

Children were kept out of school. Mrs. Freda Compton, teacher of younger pupils whose classroom was defiled, quit. One or more delegations of parents came here to protest conditions to the board of education.

Who are the vandals? Residents of the community have their suspicions but they aren't talking. They fear retaliation. State Police have taken fingerprints from the one-room building that has most often been broken into and been left a stinking shambles. Sheriff Joe W. Lewis has what he describes as a "perfect footprint" (man's size), and believes he is near identification of the guilty.

Although parents decline to name names, they are very vocal in their blame of the Floyd County Board of Education and school officials.

In a letter to this newspaper which was signed by 24 residents of the community, they said:

"This is not a one time thing that has happened. It occurs almost nightly. This is what greets our children each morning when they enter school. And this is not even the worst of it. It has been reported to the School Board—the broken windows that let this happen and all the other bad conditions. All we got in response was plywood board nailed on the windows. Now, the children are expected to sit in school, in the stifling August heat, without air and smell the odor from the mess inside."

Ray Brackett, assistant superintendent of schools, agreed that the people are justified in complaining. He said a former teacher, now dead, took care of the school so well that the board heard few if any complaints, "and we have not kept up with the school as we should."

Mr. Brackett said, however, that windows have been replaced, then broken out. He said the board has been working with the community development club toward physical improvements of the two buildings at Home Branch, furnishing paint and other materials.

More recently, he said, the well has been made safe as a drinking water supply, a part-time custodian hired, new outdoor toilets have been built, and heavy wire screens have been added to protect the windows.

After the repeated breaks into her classroom had created a furore in the community, Mrs. Compton was instructed to go to the school early last Friday, inspect the interior and to recess school for the day if she found a renewal of despoliation of the room. She went quite early, inspected the room and returned to her car—to find that somebody had placed human excrement on the seat of the auto. That was when she resigned.

School officials are unable to explain the series of untoward events. Mrs. Compton was new to the school, having begun teaching there only Monday of last week, and had no opportunity to incur enmity there. Mr. Brackett complimented her as a person and as a teacher. The upper grades, which occupy a separate building, also are taught by a teacher new to the community. He is Elmer Miller. That building has not suffered the indignities visited on the other.

The building was not entered over the last week-end, and classwork resumed with Mrs. Mabel Blackburn substituting as teacher.

The protesting group from the community is still disturbed about the situation. "We of this rural community," they wrote, "are tired of being treated like second class citizens. They (the children) have no decent toilets and no clean drinking water. We pay taxes the same as the rest of the county, and we think our children should be treated the same as the rest. We have several children to go to school for the first time this year. They started out with such hopes for the beginning of their education. Now, they don't know what to think."

as a possible solution to the problem. To date, the Department of Highways has insisted upon actual industrial development to justify improvement of the road, and industry has shunned the location because there is no adequate access.

If a satisfactory road is built, the industrial site will have not only that advantage but also the added asset of the railroad passing in front of it.

City officials acknowledged the cooperation of Big Sandy ADD and Congressman Perkins in seeking federal aid on these projects.

W'wright Homemakers Attend Meet

Wheelwright Homemakers enjoy luncheon: Ruby Osborne, Katie Newsome, Barbara Johnson, Donna Mullins, Anna Laura Watts and Ola Mae Colvin.

Wheelwright, Ky.—The first annual meeting of the Floyd County Homemakers was held August 24 at the Abbott Creek Development Club.

Guest speaker was Jo Akers, of "Jo's Antiques" at Betsy Layne. The program was on "Antiques of Past and Future." Luncheon was pot-luck.

A display of handicrafts and homemade items were entered from all over the county. Persons representing the Wheelwright Club (Night) and their displays were:

Ruby Osborne, two crocheted afghans and a painting; Katie Newsome, crocheted afghan and macrame wall hanging; Barbara Johnson, canned peppers; Donna Mullins, painted stained glass. Persons not in attendance, but with displays were: Dorthula Childers, canned home made jellies; Doris Osborne, ceramics and a dulcimer; Barbara Gullett, homemade jelly; Gloria Harlow, Spanish "ojho's" or "God's Eye"; Virginia Hagans, beehive pin cushion; Myra Salisbury, embroidery on a levi jacket; Linda Couch, oil painting. Anna Laura Watts and Ola Mae Colvin represented the Wheelwright Homemakers (Day) Club.

Each club brought on table decoration and they were given as door prizes. Branham Florist at Bypro donated materials for the Wheelwright Homemakers and the arrangement was made by Katie Newsome. Favors were donated to the Wheelwright Club by Harold Telephone Co., Inc., of Harold, and the First National Bank at Betsy Layne.

The next regular meeting of the Wheelwright Homemakers (Night) is Sept. 15 at City Hall. All Homemakers are urged to attend.

Cloyd D. McDowell Says Coal Suffers 'Double Taxation'

A coal industry representative last week asked for relief from what he termed "double taxation" on coal by the state.

That issue was one of several raised by some of the 19 coal industry representatives attending a legislative "listening seminar" at the state Capitol. Others were workmen's compensation insurance, compliance with the new federal surface mining law and conflicting interpretations of regulations governing coal mining.

Cloyd D. McDowell, president of the National Independent Coal Operators' Association, said that Kentucky's severance tax on mined coal and the tax on unmined coal represents double taxation. And he said a possible federal tax on coal would further burden the industry.

"We certainly in the coal industry do not want to price our product out of business," said McDowell who noted the effect higher taxes ultimately have on consumers of electricity.

Asking for relief from present workmen's compensation insurance rates, McDowell noted, "We feel in many instances the workmen's compensation insurance program is a welfare program rather than an insurance program."

McDowell also asked that the state not hastily change its legislation to comply with the new federal surface mining law recently signed by President Carter.

Tom Duncan, president of the Kentucky Coal Association, agreed, saying a liaison group of coal industry representatives should be set up to work with the state in changing its legislation.

Another industry representative, Earl M. Williams, director of Williams and Associates, environmental specialists, Harlan, complained that when it comes to administering coal regulations, "There's too many people that have little or no expertise in it."

Saying the intent of the legislation usually is lost, he said, "We need a reasonable, fair, equitable regulation and we need uniformity in enforcement."

Today's seminar was the second of a series of 11 meetings scheduled by the legislature to provide input and information on legislative issues. The research arm of the legislature, the Legislative Research Commission, conducts the sessions on the committee system and how bills become law.

COOK FAMILY REUNION TO BE AT DRY CREEK

2 Pike-Co. Offices
For Food Stamps
Close Last Week
 Two temporary offices established in Eastern Kentucky to process food stamp applications for miners were closed last Tuesday.
 The Phelps and Belfry locations in Pike county were closed because there was not enough activity to warrant keeping them open, according to Bureau for Social Insurance (BSI) commissioner Gail S. Huecker. The Ferrell Creek office was closed Aug. 18.
 All three offices were satellite centers set up soon after Aug. 9, when the US Department of Agriculture and the US Department of Labor issued a joint decision requiring the state to issue food stamps to eligible miners affected by illegal activity around work sites.
 Commissioner Huecker reported that approximately 3,000 miners have applied for food stamps at the three satellite centers and at permanent offices in Prestonsburg, Paintsville, Salyersville, Inez, Pikeville, Hindman and Whitesburg. These regular BSI offices will continue accepting food stamp applications.
 If miners are still out of work in September, these offices will be sufficiently staffed to handle the food stamp recertification process, according to the Commissioner.

 Court St. Prestonsburg

Miss Kimberly Jo Miller and Mr. Robert Glenn Greathouse were united in marriage at the First Presbyterian Church, Prestonsburg, Sunday afternoon, August 7.
 The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugo E. Miller, of Drift, and the groom is the son of Mrs. Jack Morgan, of Georgetown, and Mr. Glenn Greathouse, of Lexington. The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Thomas.
 The church was decorated with greenery around the altar and a spiral candelabra on either side with an arched candelabrum bearing lighted tapers in the center.
 A program of wedding music preceding the ceremony was presented by Mrs. Thomas Hall, organist, and Misses Gay and Geri Grigsby, vocalists and guitarist.

 The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of imported Chantilly lace, fashioned with a scooped neckline and long fitted sleeves. The dress had five tiers terminating in a chapel-length train. A matching lace cap held her cathedral-length veil of imported French silk illusion. She carried a bouquet of white stephanotis, baby's breath, and talisman roses. Her only jewelry was a small antique cameo.
 Mrs. Tracy Stumbo, cousin of the bride, was the matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Connie Greathouse, sister of the groom, Mrs. Sandee Holt, and Mrs. Kathy Tackett, cousins of the bride. The attendants wore long Quiana knit dresses of pastel peach, matching sheer hats, trimmed with baby's breath and long satin streamers. They carried long stemmed talisman roses with baby's breath and trailing streamers.
 Mr. Michael Meadows, of Lexington, served as best man, and ushers were Mr. Alvin Greathouse, brother of the groom, Mr. Jeffrey Miller, brother of the bride, and Mr. Denver Tackett, cousin of the bride.
 Mrs. Miller chose for her daughter's wedding a long coral dress of crepe and chiffon and a corsage of phalaenopsis orchids. Mrs. Morgan, mother of the groom, chose a gown of blue and a corsage of phalaenopsis orchids.
 Assisting at the reception in the social rooms of the church were Mrs. James Reed, Mrs. Harry Martin, Mrs. Alvin Reed, Mrs. Wm. Hoffman and Mrs. Howard Stickler, all of Drift. Guests were registered by Janet Reed Stumbo, of Drift. Favors were presented by Mrs. Donald R. Shannon, of Drift. The wedding was under the supervision of Mrs. James R. Reed, of Drift, and Mrs. Regina Williams, of Paintsville.
 Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Greathouse, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Karkick, Mr. and Mrs. John McGuire, Mrs. Ben Greathouse, grandmother of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. Gale Pelster, Mr. and Mrs. George Peters, maternal grandparents of the groom, Mrs. Zellas Bowens, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Meadows, Mr. and Mrs. Denver Tackett, Mr. and Mrs. Wendall Grider and family, all of Lexington; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Morgan, and John, Mr. and Mrs. Greg Lynch, all of Georgetown; Mr. and Mrs. Adcock, Laura and Emily, of Berea; Mr. and Mrs. Dean Short, Dean Jr., Steve, and John, Newport News, Va.; Dr. and Mrs. Richard Comfort, Huntington, W. Va.; William Miller, Pasadena, Calif., and Cecil Miller, Naples, Florida, both uncles of the bride.
 Following a wedding trip to Gatlinburg, Tenn., the couple is residing in Lexington, where they both will continue their studies this fall at the University of Kentucky.

FROG HELPS BRING TROPHIES HOME

Freddy the Frog and George Elste, better known as Kinkipoo the Clown, of Zebulon lodge 273 and Oleika Temple, participated in the Southeastern Shrine Clown Association competition held August 17-20 in Memphis, Tenn., where 800 clowns competed for 40 trophies. Freddy and Kinkipoo helped win a trophy for unit parading, plus winning one for individual parading. Kinkipoo said it was Freddy who deserved the credit, as the talking frog was a big hit. Freddy intended to join the Trail 70's next year, though, since they got a bigger trophy, but Kinkipoo said, "No, because Freddy can't ride a motorcycle yet." The individual trophy was displayed Saturday, August 27, at the lodge and will be taken to the Oleika Temple in Lexington, where it will be on permanent display.

NEWS OF THE ALLEN COMMUNITY

Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Snodgrass announce the birth of their first daughter, born Tuesday, August 23, at Pikeville Methodist Hospital, and named Amy Catherine. The paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Harry Snodgrass.

Mrs. Edna Mae Callison and Mrs. Delores Bradley accompanied Mrs. Juanita Allen to Lexington, where she left for her home in Oklahoma after a visit here with them and other relatives.

Capt. and Mrs. Steve Hampton and children, Stephen and Stephanie, of Maxwell AFB, Montgomery, Alabama, have returned home after a week's visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Laven. They also visited Mrs. Hampton's grandmother, Mrs. Tom Stephens, Mrs. Bill Williams, of Cliff, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Stanley, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Laven, Mrs. Ben Spradlin, of Martin, and his mother, Mrs. Bess Hampton, of Columbus, Ohio, before returning to Alabama.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Bailey had as guests several days last week Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Wheeler, of Isonville, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Acock, of Medina, Ohio, and Mr. and Mrs. George Sowers, of Lake Panasofkee, Florida.

Tuesday, Laura Brackett and her grandmother, Mrs. J. Frank Preston, were in Huntington, shopping. Laura was also overnight guest of her grandparents at Ulysses several nights.

Mr. and Mrs. Watt Robinette, of Pikeville, and Mr. and Mrs. Wick Hayes, of Stanville, visited Mr. and Mrs. Felix Crisp, Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hinchman announce the birth of a son, Kevin Joseph, who was born Monday, August 22, at Pikeville Methodist Hospital.

Visiting Mr. and Mrs. Grover Johnson last week were his son, Mr. and Mrs. James Johnson, of Ada, Ohio, and his daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ron Roberts and family, of Ft. Jennings, Ohio.

Attending a birthday dinner held for James Henry Porter, of Campton, by Mrs. Porter were his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Porter, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Porter, Mr. and Mrs. James Lacy Porter and children, Mary Lynn, Frankie, and Kevin, Mr. and Mrs. James David Porter and son, John, of Campton, and Doug Austin and son, of Somerset.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Thompson and children, Gary Dean, Mark, and Tony, of Washington Courthouse, Ohio, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Snodgrass en route home from a trip to Florida. Also, visiting Mr. and Mrs. Snodgrass was Mrs. Vivian Beverly, of Detroit, Michigan, last Friday.

Terry Jo Slone celebrated her second birthday with a cake, Thursday, at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Grover Johnson. Terry is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Slone.

Sympathy is extended to the family of Larry Roger Wells, formerly of Auxier, of Warsaw, Indiana, who was killed in a car accident there. He is survived here at Allen by his daughter, Tony Lee Wells, the daughter of Mrs. Jerry Slone, of Allen. Family attending the services from here were Mrs. Jerry Slone and daughter, Tony Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Grover Johnson, and Mrs. Myrtle Maynard.

Attending a family reunion at the home of Mrs. Kelly Kendrick in Huntington, Sunday, were Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Porter, Mr. and Mrs. Randy Porter, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Porter, Jr., and children, Mathew, Brian, and Jessica, Mr. and Mrs. James Lacy Porter, and children, Mary Lynn, Frankie, and Kevin, Mrs. Martha Jane Porter and daughter, Paula, Nancy Jo Crisp, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Cole and Stephen, of Cannonsburg, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Jordan, Heather and Kipp, Kenova, West Va., Mr. and Mrs. Jody Marshall, Huntington, and Miss Janice Porter, of Ashland.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Crisp and John D. Preston, of Paintsville, visited Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Preston at Ulysses, Sunday. All of them were also dinner guests of Mrs. Howard H. Moore, of Louisa, along with Mrs. Mary Belle Moore and Mary Anne Pack, of Louisa.

Mrs. Margaret Conn was the honoree at a shower given by the members of the Allen Baptist Church, August 25, at the church annex. Mrs. Conn's home was recently burned, and she received many nice gifts.

Among those students returning to the University of Kentucky for the fall semester were Laura Brackett, David Flanery, Frankie Grey, Oscar Ratliff, Wayne Gearheart, and Mike and Gregg Dixon, of David.

Floyd County's Share of Permit Fees Is $10,015

Gov. Julian Carroll announced Monday checks totaling nearly $880,000 are being sent to 44 Kentucky counties as their share of strip-mining permit fees paid to the state, and that Floyd county's share is $10,015.

A 1972 law provides for the state to return to each county one-half of the amount it collects from permit and acreage fees for strip-mining operations in the county.

Amounts going to other Eastern Kentucky counties:

Bell, $42,607; Boyd, $8,095; Breathitt, $51,835; Carter, $8,420; Clay, $18,720; Elliott, $9,902; Greenup, $6,502; Harlan, $20,900; Johnson, $38,662; Knott, $23,452; Knox, $36,332; Laurel, $35,747; Lawrence, $24,495; Lee, $5,990; Leslie, $41,772; Letcher, $15,022; McCreary, $6,625; Magoffin, $31,371; Martin, $55,760; Menifee, $880; Morgan, $15,017; Owsley, $10,325; Perry, $59,267; Pike, $50,612; Wolfe, $8,700.

CANCER Answerline

American Cancer Society

(A regular feature, prepared by the American Cancer Society, to help save your life from cancer.)

A father of two writes: "I think that student cigarette smoking rooms in high school are an outrage! How prevalent is this, and what can be done?"

ANSWER line: In a recent national study of cigarette smoking among teenage girls, it was learned that 49 percent of those who smoke attended schools where smoking was permitted in special areas of the school premises. If this angers you enough to act, work within your community to change any problems that might exist in your own school system. Parents have a powerful voice when it comes to school matters and you should make yours heard. Who knows, by beginning locally, you might start a national revolt against school smoking.

A TV viewer asks: "What is comedian Flip Wilson doing talking about cancer? Did he have the disease?"

ANSWER line: Flip Wilson is Chairman of the 1976 American Cancer Society educational and fund-raising Crusade because of his great personal desire to fight this disease. While he has never had cancer himself, he has a sensitive understanding of the patient's problems. He has visited many cancer patients on a "cheering" mission during his tour with the Professional Golfers Association. As Crusade Chairman, he will use his talent to call public attention to cancer control and the need for support of vital research. Watch for the special TV spot he made for the American Cancer Society.

A woman writes: "Last month I had cancer surgery, and to save my life, one of my breasts was removed. I am recovering quite well and hope to go back to work soon. But it's one thing to wear a dress that covers you—what will I do in the summer when I want to swim?"

ANSWER line: You can swim in as stylish an outfit as any other woman! Swimming is wonderful exercise and, after recovery, you might find it especially beneficial. Your local ACS Unit has a list of attractive bathing suits made by popular manufacturers, which are well-suited for the woman who has had breast surgery. The Unit will be able to tell you what suits are available in your area and where they may be purchased.

A building contractor asks: "Are today's cigarettes really different from the ones they smoked, say 25 years ago?"

ANSWER line: The American Cancer Society estimates that the consumption of cigarette tars is 30 percent less than it was 10 years ago and 60 percent less than it was 20 years ago. This does represent a difference. When you think about it, it is a recognition on the part of cigarette manufacturers, though not admitted, of the health hazards of smoking. Nonetheless, there is no such thing as a safe cigarette.

A young man writes: "I wear my hair long and when people really kid me, I say I'm protecting my head from skin cancer. Did I hit on the truth in joking?"

ANSWER line: Hair is protective, and since skin cancer of the ear is a common site of that type of cancer, longer locks can block excessive sunlight which might lead to this disease.

Letcher Coal Firm Pays $2,000 Fine

Lance Coal Co., of Whitesburg, has paid the state $2,000 and agreed to perform remedial measures on the company's strip mine site in Letcher county.

Three notices of non-compliance with state regulations had been issued against the company by the reclamation division in the state Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection for allowing slides off the permitted area, not pushing down hollow fills, failing to maintain adequate silt control and failing to maintain grading and backfilling on the site.

The company agreed to pay the fine and perform the needed reclamation after an informal conference between the company and the department.

PSC OK's Columbia Insulation Assistance

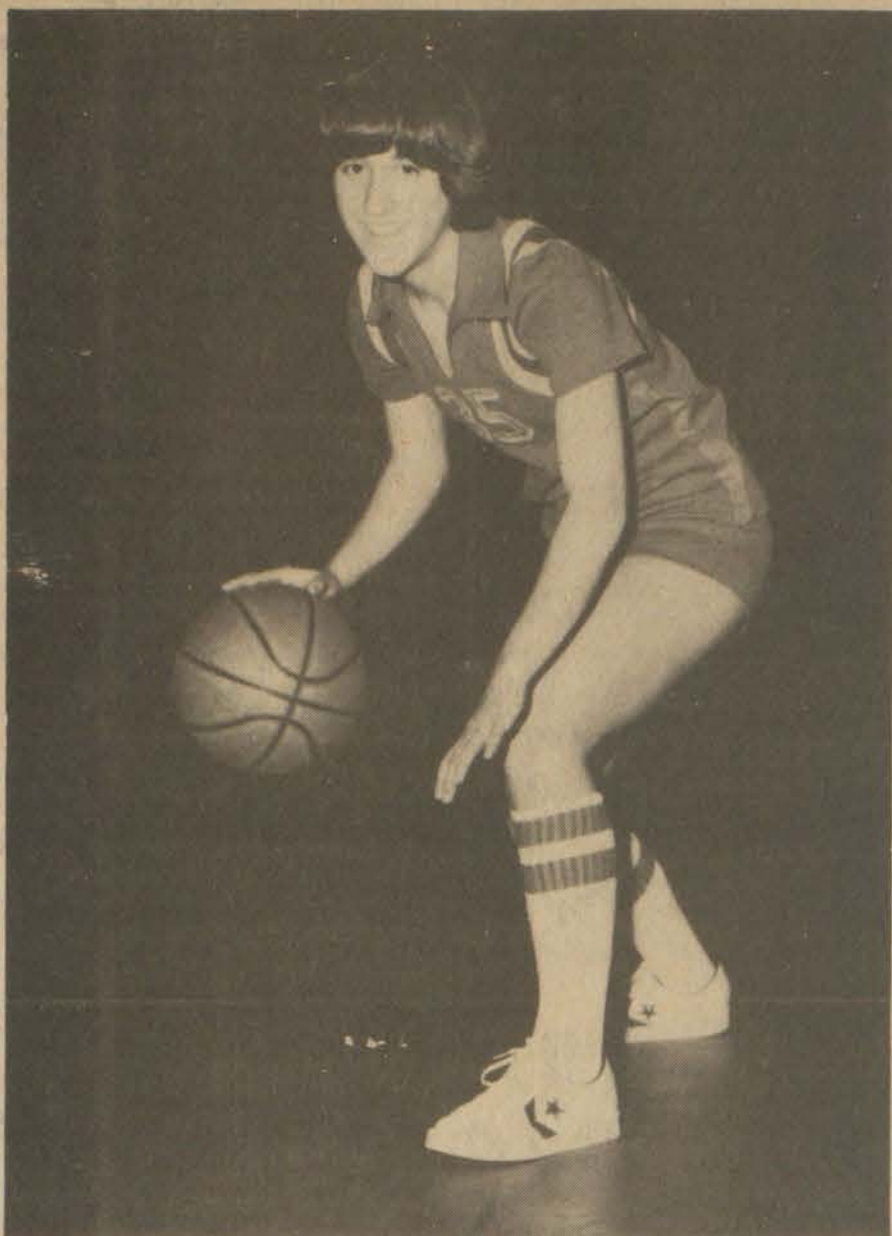

The Kentucky Public Service Commission has granted Columbia Gas of Kentucky permission to institute an attic insulation financing assistance program for its qualified customers.

Under the plan, qualified Columbia customers could get financing for sums up to $750 at 6 per cent add-on interest with a repayment period of up to three years.

The PSC order says the attic insulation program "is in the public interest as an energy conservation measure."

The commission ordered that Columbia keep separate accounts so that the program would not be given rate case treatment.

Named '77 Player of the Year

Geri Grigsby, who next week will leave McDowell, the scene of her high school triumphs, for the University of Kentucky, has been named Joe Namath's National Prep Sports magazine "National Prep's 1977 Basketball Player of the Year" and No. 1 on the All-America team.

The nation's leading scorer last season with a 49.6-points-per-game average, Miss Grigsby will play with the UK Kittens.

Prep Sports gave this review of her record in naming her the Basketball Player of the year:

"Geri Grigsby, National Prep's 1977 Basketball Player of the year, is living proof that big prizes come in small packages. The valedictorian of her graduating high school class at McDowell, Kentucky, this 5-foot, 5-inch daredevil has talent to burn, makes straight A's, writes sports stories, plays the saxophone in the school band, was the vice-president of McDowell's Drama Club and scored more points than any girl in the history of Kentucky high school basketball: 4,385 varsity points in four years, averaging 46.1 points per game in 95 games with a career single-game high of 81 against Feds Creek.

"This year she scored 1,885 points during a 32-6 season for a 49.6 average, besting her junior mark of 45.8. She scored 66 points against Sheldon Clark last March and her career total is a state record for both boys and girls. Coach John Turner's prize pupil shot 50.5 percent from the field, 74 percent from the line, averaged seven assists per game and five rebounds. She says she had trouble keeping her temper when opponents resorted to pinching, biting and tripping her in attempts to hold down her scoring. Obviously, it didn't work, and with Grigsby in the lineup, McDowell averaged 81.2 points per game to their opponents' 53.8."

Miss Grigsby was captain of the Kentucky team in the two-game post-season series with Indiana, and she set scoring records in both games—24 points at Indianapolis and 30 points in the second game at Freedom Hall, Louisville. The Kentucky girls won both games.

Area Boards Receive Head Start Grants

Gov. Julian M. Carroll and Peter D. Conn, secretary for human resources, have announced that two Eastern Kentucky boards of education will receive federal grants totalling $236,448, to provide full-year, part-day Head Start programs for 260 children.

Grants were awarded to the Boyd County Board of Education, Catlettsburg, $107,391, for a program serving 120 children, and to the Laurel County Board of Education, London, $129,057, for 140 children.

The Middle Kentucky River Area Development Council, Inc., Jackson, has received two federal grants totalling $237,000. The grants will continue for a one-year period programs which are already in operation.

Wheelwright Plans Winter Projects

The Wheelwright Community Action Club held its regular monthly meeting August 18 at the Wheelwright High School Cafeteria.

Reports were given by officers of the club concerning completed fund raising projects. These projects included a benefit volleyball game Aug. 13, proceeds of which were used to buy volleyball net, volleyball, lawn darts and other recreation equipment, and a dance on Aug. 20 to raise funds for winter projects.

Roger Recktenwald, of Big Sandy ADD, was the guest-speaker. He discussed the allocation of coal severance tax money to the City of Wheelwright and the possibility of getting the swimming pool opened next May, provided that the city used the money to buy motors, pumps, paint, chemicals, etc. and could get volunteer help from the community and county workers to do the initial renovation such as painting, carpentry, grass cutting, supervision, plumbing, etc.

Felmon Blackmon, former president of the club, was presented an appreciation award for his 10 years of dedicated service.

Suggestions concerning future projects were voiced by Mr. Blackmon, who called attention to unsightly and dangerous vines growing on the retaining wall and sidewalk in the uptown section of Wheelwright. This project was completed the next day by the city, using county workers.

Installation of a fire hydrant in front of the high school was discussed. This is a real need to the community and for children attending the school. Mountain Investment owns the water line running in front of the school. The problem is that the water main is only a 3-inch line and the fire marshal says that a fire hydrant run from this line would be just about useless in fighting a fire, since pressure from the line would not be enough to extinguish a fire of any major proportions. The nearest 6-inch line is approximately one mile farther uptown in Wheelwright. The cost of running a line from the 6-inch main has not been computed, but it is estimated to run very high. Mayor Delbert Davis stated that the county has agreed to share half of the expense with Mountain Investment in running this water line. Community involvement and possibly community funds are needed to get this project going.

Mrs. Annie Laura Watts talked about a bridge in dire need of repair in Hall Hollow. On this project the community will need to contact the county for help. Persons living in this area and using the bridge can make themselves heard by writing letters to Magistrate Eddie Caudill. Mrs. Watts is contacting persons in this area.

Bingo was mentioned as a winter project. The club is in the process of getting this activity together for the fall and winter months and plans and scheduling will be introduced for approval at the next regular meeting of the club. Another dance will be sponsored, but no definite date has been set for this event.

A finance committee was elected to raise funds for the club. This committee includes Ella Jackson, Scott Hines, Linda Holbrook, Pearl Bartley and Debbie Hall. Volunteer help is needed in these projects.

Thirty-five persons attended this meeting and free refreshments were prepared by Pearl Bartley and Donna Mullins. All citizens are urged to attend the next scheduled meeting on September 8 at 7:30 p.m. in the upstairs lobby of the Wheelwright Clubhouse. Suggestions for fund raising and other projects are needed from the community. All suggestions will be considered for action according to priorities obtained from an opinion poll currently being compiled. Volunteer workers for these projects are needed and any help offered will be appreciated.

Yatesville Dam Activity Ended

All construction and land acquisition activities have stopped at the Yatesville Lake project, Brigadier General E. R. Heiberg, Ohio River Division engineer for the Army Corps of Engineers, announced last week.

He said the Corps of Engineers issued a "stop order" after receiving official notice that funds for the Yatesville project had not been included in the federal budget for fiscal year 1978, which starts October 1.

The Yatesville project was authorized by Congress in the Flood Control Act of 1965 for flood reduction, recreation, water quality improvement, and fish and wildlife conservation. The dam site is on Blaine Creek, five miles west of Louisa.

Colonel George A. Bicher, Huntington District engineer, said, "The Corps is very much aware of the impact this action could have on some landowners." In an effort to be fair and to consider landowner hardships of all types, Col. Bicher said the Corps will maintain a staff at its Louisa real estate office for an indefinite period to assist landowners.

The contractor, Eby & Associates of Kentucky, has been notified to stop all construction work with the exception of performing certain items of work in the interest of safety and the environment in connection with site evacuation. Before leaving the site, the contractor will remove the field office and maintenance building that he constructed.

Prior to the issuance of the stop order, the contractor had cleared the dam site, the "borrow" areas from which material would have been taken for construction of the dam, and the areas at each end of the intended diversion tunnel.

FIRST RATE RISE IN 25 YEARS

For the first time in 25 years, residential electric rates are going up for customers in Barbourville, Ky., according to an announcement by the publicly owned Barbourville Water and Electric Co.

Randell Young, company manager, said the 65 cent per kilowatt hour raise was due to the continuing increase in wholesale fuel prices from Kentucky Utilities and the need for company to buy additional transformers and other equipment.

COMMONWEALTH OF KENTUCKY DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION BUREAU OF HIGHWAYS NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Coach Says Bobcats Enthusiastic Despite Lack of Experience

The Bobcats of Betsy Layne are Floyd county's newest football team, and although they've lost their first two games, Head Coach Jim Cecil is not really surprised and he's certainly not discouraged.

Although Betsy Layne established a junior varsity program for the first time last year, the Bobcat gridders just haven't had the time to amass the necessary experience, and, as Coach Cecil said, "experience is the difference."

"There's no little league program and for all practical purposes, this is the first time these boys have ever been involved in a football program of any kind," Cecil pointed out. "When you're having to concentrate on the basic rules and mechanics of the game it's hard to respond quickly to different game situations," Coach Cecil pointed out.

Although the Bobcats, a single A team, lost their first game to AA-class M. C. Napier, 46-0, last Friday's game saw Betsy Layne lose to Virgie by a score of 14-0. Inexperience cost the Bobcats the Virgie game, according to Cecil who said his team would drive to the goal line and then make costly mistakes under pressure.

Overall, however, Cecil is pleased with the new team. "They've really put out," he commented, "and with experience they'll improve tremendously."

Coach Cecil pointed out that there are only four seniors on the squad with a number of freshmen and sophomore starters.

With no football field at Betsy Layne, the Bobcats' "home" games will be played on the high school field here. The team's next game will be played here Friday night against East Carter.

Cecil, who returned to his native Floyd county from a coaching job in Michigan, said his young team displays a lot of promise. "It's just gonna take time," Cecil said.

Betsy Layne's schedule is as follows: Sept. 10, Elkhorn City (home); Sept. 24, Wheelwright (home); Sept. 30, Leslie county (away); Oct. 8, Homecoming, Phelps; Oct. 14, Fleming county (away); Oct. 22, Clay county (home); Oct. 28, Morgan county (away), and Nov. 4, Mullins (away).

CHURCH BASKETBALL LEAGUE OPENS SEASON, OCT. 1

October 1 will mark the opening of the Big Sandy Basketball Church League's 1977 basketball season. Next meeting of the organization will be Sept. 11.

Any church wishing to enter or wanting additional information may contact Bob Hughes, 874-2705, or Rev. Dempsey, 452-2279.

Heat Returns—Fishing Slows

Frankfort, Ky., August 29—Hot weather returned to the Commonwealth over the week-end and on many of the state's major lakes fishermen are finding reduced fishing activity. The lake-by-lake rundown, according to the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources:

CUMBERLAND: Bluegill good still fishing crickets off deep banks; black bass fair casting spinner baits and dollies at night and still drift fishing small crawfish during the day off points and deep banks; in tailwaters, trout fair to good; clear, stable, 35 feet below the timberline and 84 degrees.

BARREN: Black bass fair to good on artificial nightcrawlers and crank baits off points and over drop-offs; bluegill fair to good off rocky banks; in tailwaters, trout slow; clear to murky, falling slowly, six inches below pool and 80 degrees.

BUCKHORN: White bass good trolling medium runners off deep banks; black bass slow to fair casting and drifting small crawfish off shallow banks; in tailwaters, trout slow; clear to murky, stable, one foot above pool and 83 degrees.

NOLIN: Black bass fair on crank baits and artificial nightcrawlers off points; crappie fair around stick ups; in tailwaters, trout fair to good; clear, falling slowly, one foot above pool and 78 degrees.

GREEN: Bluegill fair off gravel points and over submerged cover; black bass fair on spinner baits and artificial nightcrawlers off points and over drop-offs; in tailwaters, trout and crappie fair; clear to murky, falling slowly, four feet above pool and 79 degrees.

LAUREL: Trout fair at night still fishing cheese and worms off points and deep banks; black bass fair on spinner baits in timbered coves; clear, stable at power pool and 80 degrees.

CAVE RUN: Musky fair casting and trolling deep runners off points and over drop-offs and main channel; black bass slow to fair early and late and at night on surface lures (early and late) and spinner baits and artificial nightcrawlers (night) off points and over drop-offs; clear to murky, stable, six inches above pool and 84 degrees.

FISHTRAP: Black bass slow on surface and medium runners off rocky points and banks; crappie slow and improving over submerged cover; in tailwaters, trout fair; clear to murky, stable at pool and 81 degrees.

GRAYSON: Black bass slow on medium and deep runners in inlets and bays; bluegill slow in same areas; in tailwaters, trout fair; clear, stable, six inches above pool and 78 degrees.

HERRINGTON: Black bass fair and improving at night on dollies and artificial nightcrawlers off points and over drop-offs; clear, stable, two feet above pool and 80 degrees.

ROUGH RIVER: Crappie slow and improving around stick ups; black bass slow and improving casting artificial nightcrawlers in inlets and bays and over drop-offs; clear to murky, falling slowly, one foot above pool and 82 degrees.

KENTUCKY: Black bass slow and improving on surface lures and crank baits off gravel points and shallow banks with stumps; white bass slow and improving on slab baits and plunker and fly combination in the jumps; in tailwaters, catfish slow; clear to murky, falling slowly, 3½ feet below pool and 82 degrees.

BARKLEY: Black bass slow and improving on artificial nightcrawlers and small crank baits in inlets and bays; in tailwaters, catfish slow; clear, falling slowly, 3½ feet below pool and 81 degrees.

DALE HOLLOW: Black bass slow and improving (best at night) on spinner baits and artificial nightcrawlers off points, in weed beds and over drop-offs; clear, falling slowly, six feet below pool and 82 degrees.

DEWEY: Crappie slow over submerged cover and around stick ups; clear to murky to muddy, stable at pool and 83 degrees.

Great Good Looks For Fall From

Fred Rothschild
California

Nothing can be more stunning nor practical for Fall than the exciting good looks of the dress and coat costume — particularly when the coat has the drama of a hood with capelet sleeves. Fabric is 100% Polyester heather herringbone tweed. Turtle neck sweater dress has the look of Shetland. Truly a duo for a grand entrance.

Kentucky Artist Turns Historian

Who discovered Kentucky? Who was the first white female Indian captive in Kentucky? Who was the first white woman to set foot on the territory that in 1792 would become Kentucky?

Some students would answer Daniel Boone to the first question, his daughter to the second and his wife, Rebecca, to the third question. They would be wrong. Robert A. Powell's history of the Commonwealth, "Kentucky the Story of a Proud Heritage," answers correctly these questions as well as hundreds of others, and the book has been approved as a textbook for Kentucky schools.

The author was born and reared in Kentucky, is a well-known artist and one of the original Kentucky Heritage Artists. He has illustrated and written other books, taught school and edited a magazine.

Robertsons Observe Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Branch Robertson, of Waverly, O., celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary recently with a carry-in dinner at their home.

Mr. Robertson and the former Miss May Reed were married July 31, 1917, and are the parents of 12 children, Mrs. Norman Hayes, of Anderson, Ind., Denver Robertson, of Lexington, Mrs. Mitchell Nichols, of Estill, Mrs. Clyde Lee, of Wayland, Mrs. Paul Boling, of Lackey, Mrs. Robert Knowles, of Sciotoville, O., and Mrs. Douglas Daniels, Mrs. Woodrow Anderson, Mrs. Billy Joe Vanhoose, Jan, Stanton and Reed Robertson, all of Waverly, Ohio. The Robertsons have 33 grandchildren and 17 great-grandchildren.

A highlight of the Robertsons' anniversary included an anniversary card from President and Mrs. Carter.

Powell used the "Kentucke" spelling in the book's title, explaining that he felt it was appropriate in history, "and I make the change (To Kentucky) along the same time line in the story that it actually happened in history."

Included in the textbook is a history of America's discovery and related subject matter. At the end of each chapter are "Words to Know," a list of words for further study; "Visual Words," giving words to be described in writing or by drawings by students; "People to Know," listing names of subjects mentioned in the chapter; "Questions to Answer," and "Extra Credit," a listing of subjects to be used by students in special reports, construction of models or creation of murals or even preparation of a historical skit, holding mock elections, preparing a court case or painting a picture.

Almost every page bears a pen and ink sketch by the artist or more detailed art work, chart, map or portrait. There are sketches of each Kentucky Governor as well as biographical history, a pronunciation key, glossary and index.

"The history and heritage of Kentucky has always been a favorite subject with me," says Powell. "When I began working on this project I set two basic goals: 'To tell my story in the interesting folklore style that has kept the heritage of Kentucky so alive; to illustrate the volume with as many interesting and significant pictures as possible.'"

The book is published and distributed by Kentucky Images, P. O. Box 878, Frankfort, Ky.

(Answers to those first questions: Robert LaSalle in his expeditions down the Ohio River allowed the French to get credit for discovering Kentucky, though Gabriel Arthur was in Kentucky in 1674; Mrs. Mary Inglis was captured by Indians in July 1755 and brought into Kentucky and became the first English woman to enter Kentucky.)

State Historical Society Museum Features New Victorian Era Room

The Victorian Era began with the crowning of Queen Victoria of England in 1837 and ended with her death in 1901. For convenience the period in this country is usually dated from 1850 to 1900. These were the prosperous years for America when fortunes were being made, industries being developed and living for many people was elegant and leisurely.

"The new Victorian Room in the Kentucky Historical Society History Museum provides a personal panorama of what people's lives were like during that period," said Elizabeth Perkins, curator of exhibits. "Although the room appears opulent to the eye of the visitor, it reflects the Victorian parlor of the average or middle-class Kentuckian."

The new attraction in the Old Capitol Annex in Frankfort is the result of many hours of work by all the society's staff members and the creativity of Elizabeth. She has researched the Victorian period for over a year, used over 70 references and documented each item, including the color theme.

"Deep colors were considered affluent during the period. White walls and green trim were unpopular because of an association with the white-washed houses of the less prosperous," said Elizabeth. With the help of other staff members, Elizabeth painted the walls of the Victorian Room in a grayed, blue-green and the floor and trim in a deep chocolate brown.

Hanging from the French windows are curtains of deep scarlet which were primarily handsewn by Elizabeth and by Carol McGurk, the society's chief tour guide. They cut the pattern from an example found in a book on professional drapery making. The draperies were made from 13 yards of brocade, 13 yards of velvet and seven yards of lace.

The other major purchase was the gasolier, a gaslight chandelier, which illuminates the room. However, most of the items were donated by Kentuckians.

One of the most notable contributions is the French white marble mantel from Mrs. Jacques Bossiere, a native Kentuckian, who now lives in Roanoke, Va. The mantel originally belonged to Gov. Flem D. Sampson, of Kentucky, who gave it to Maj. E. S. Helburn, the state commission of highways, in 1931. The mantel remained in Maj. Helburn's office in the Old State Capitol until his death and was later given to Mrs. Bossiere by his daughter.

The large gilt over-mantel mirror reflects the images of mannequins dressed in costumes of the period. Also depicting Victorian fashion is a velvet panel, which includes a silver bouquet-holder, a lizard card case, gold watches and other jewelry. Elizabeth plans to change the costumes and furniture periodically to present the different facets of Victorian life during the different seasons.

"The Victorians were a home-centered society and had personalized and cozy parlors," said Elizabeth. "This quality of hominess is presented by such items as the hanging needlework tapestry and family portraits, a family album on one of the marble topped tables and various bric-a-brac throughout the room."

Elizabeth ordered horsehair from France to reupholster the two rosewood sofas. Although the reupholstering was done by a firm in Louisville, the staff refinished all the pieces of furniture, including the large rosewood piano.

In addition to culture, furniture and fashion, the architecture of the period is presented by graphic panels which Elizabeth designed, silkscreened and painted.

The Victorian Room is part of Elizabeth's overall plan to change all the present exhibits to blend in better with the Italianate architecture of the Old Capitol Annex, she said. "By doing our exhibits inhouse, we have more originality, and better quality at a considerable savings."

Elizabeth is a member of the Victorian Society of America, a group which was formed to appreciate and preserve America's Victorian heritage. She studied art and history at Centre College in Danville, and following her graduation, joined the staff of the Kentucky Historical Society.

A very REFINED Gentleman OR how NORBERT RILLIEUX was the original Sugar Daddy.

On August 26, 1842, Norbert Rillieux put a patent on a sweet idea.

It was a way to refine sugar.

To help the sugarcane juices evaporate more quickly, he enclosed condensation coils in a vacuum chamber. A process that's made things a lot sweeter ever since.

Collection

By WILMAY

While rock n' roll has no appeal for many of us and not everyone was an avid fan of Elvis Presley, all must admit he typified the American dream of "rags to riches" that helped make this nation great, for any youngster—black, red or white—can still succeed here, especially if he remembers the prescription of Thomas A. Edison. It reads, "Genius is one per cent inspiration and ninety-nine percent perspiration." Numerous facets of Presley's character command admiration. He never expected or wanted preferred treatment, disliked the Hollywood way of life, kept in touch with many friends of his youth, provided for needy relatives in his will, proved his love for his parents.

If the Canal Treaty offers any advantage to the U.S. it has not been cited, despite platitudes of some. America is to defend it but we are to remove our 14 bases there. Reconcile those two if you please. Three senators just back from tour of the zone oppose the deal. Since we have annually paid Panama two to three million—far in excess of sum pledged—why must we now pay 50 to 70 millions yearly? Or is there an advantage in that? In addition, the treaty requires that we "lend" the Panamanians many more millions (you know we have such a magnificent surplus????) to help stabilize their tottering economy. Countless prominent Americans have heavy investments there that are suffering, so they want the already overburdened American taxpayers to bail the nation out. It is past time to pay our own debt instead of continuing to help support others. Panama finds fault with her original agreement about the canal though we went the second mile on our part of the bargain. How long will it be before she will demand changes in the new treaty if it is ratified?

We do right to assist weaker countries by supplying technology, etc., and always to help wherever disasters of magnitude occur. But there is a limit to what is just, even if no debt of our own exists. If we paid our horrible national debt the U.S. would be the poorest nation on the globe. Actually, we are paying it daily in the form of inflation. As it is we have to "rob Peter to pay Paul," borrow from this fund to meet expenses in other areas often. The budget has been balanced only eight times in decades, with little prospect of a "repeat performance" any time soon. Instead, the deficit continues; the debt increases. Few seem to care, perhaps because many are too busy trying to earn a living to maintain a monolithic government loaded with overlapping bureaucracies of every kind and description, a high percentage of which are worthless though costly. Mr. Average Middleclass America lacks time to keep informed on every aspect of government sometimes, and to protest if he would do so. On the other hand, some think that so long as Uncle Sam "foots" the bill no price tag is attached. Pay day is coming, and it will be memorable when it does. Magazine articles are already predicting a recession this fall. During the depression of the thirties some old guy grabbed a pick and shovel and announced that he was going to dig up Grover Cleveland to show him what a real panic was. If and when the next occurs (God forbid), likely somebody will head for a cemetery on an estate in Hyde Park, New York!

This unskillful writer is not a pessimist, but a realist, and we do classify our land and government as much the best in the world, the only one that three-fourths of world population reportedly envy. But governments resemble marriages: the best can always be improved.

Early reports indicated coming severance of American ties with Taiwan, to please Red China. Evidently mounting sentiment against the canal treaty has compelled a temporary lower key in regard to the brave island of the Orient. In all probability the rule of the administration for a while will be "One fight at a time," because tough sledding lies ahead for it in regard to obtaining the support of more senators for the Panama Treaty. Thousands oppose forsaking brave Taiwan, repudiating our pledge to her. Many recall how Madame Chiang Kai-Shek pleaded in vain with Roosevelt for antiquated planes to resist the coming invasion, how Hungary begged for help later, how thousands of our finest young men were needlessly sacrificed in Vietnam, others left maimed and crippled for life because our men were instructed to fight a no-win war, according to reports of newswriters, officers, and servicemen. They were told not to bomb real targets, to waste tons of ammunition on forests. Billions were spent on a war the U.S. could have won in 30 days by mining the Haiphong Harbor, (lifeline of North Vietnam,) and by maintaining control of the DMZ. Victory against a nation the approximate size of Indiana was not permitted. Now some ask if we will turn our backs on Taiwan and Korea possibly, leaving both to the same fate of others, well knowing the intentions and desires of the hungry octopus spreading over the earth. Some ponder how long we will stand by Israel except on strict U.S. terms. Others wonder if Barry Goldwater, Sr. may prove correct in his estimate that the U.S. may survive ten more years as a free land. Only time will prove.

Small Business Loans Reach $34.7 Million for East Kentucky

In a visit to Eastern Kentucky last week R. B. Blankenship, director of the Kentucky district office for the Small Business Administration, reported that as of August 15 his office had approved 1,997 disaster loan applications for a total of $34.7 million. The home loans totaled 1,737 for $21.1 million and 240 business loans totaled $13.6 million.

Loans through the Prestonsburg field office included 194 home loans for $2.5 million and 29 to businesses for $1.4 million.

With the reduction in interest rates and the extension in the filing date to September 30, Mr. Blankenship estimated that in the next four to five weeks the total SBA disaster loans for Eastern Kentucky will probably reach $50 million.

While visiting the banks and businesses in Eastern Kentucky Mr. Blankenship said that the restoration and replacement of property in the flood damaged areas was remarkable. Once again he praised the people of Eastern Kentucky for their recovery efforts and particularly the attitude and spirit of the people.

Women Protest Road Conditions

David women work along KY 404 near David in protest to what they term the state's failure to make needed repairs along the heavily travelled route. The women claim the road is being undermined and point to breaks in the pavement as presenting a hazard to motorists and especially school children who must travel the route.

Our Fragile Earth

By DR. JERRY HOWELL
Director of Environmental Studies
Morehead State University

There are probably less than 100 red wolves left in Louisiana and Texas, their only remaining natural range in the U.S. Red wolves were formerly found throughout the southeast and southwest, but cattle ranchers and hunters extirpated most of them. This wolf elimination program permitted the coyote to occupy the wolf's former range and even to mate with most of the remaining red wolves.

This cross breeding has left us with only a few "pure" animals of the species. Wolf transfers to areas in its former range are now being attempted, but the biggest problem is the presence of the coyote, now spreading its range and found in increasing numbers in the east.

This genetic "swamping" of the species, according to the National Audubon Society, prompted the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service to select Bulls Island, north of Charleston, South Carolina as the site of its most recent transplant. A mated pair was introduced on the Atlantic island in late 1976, having been flown in from a zoo in Tacoma, Washington, after attempts to find a wild pair were unsuccessful. No other predators are found on the island and it is thought that the wolves will become established if no coyotes or dogs are allowed to reach the land mass.

Another animal undergoing recent transplanting is the brown pelican, a species being moved from Florida, where it is rather successful, to Louisiana. No pelicans hatched in Louisiana from 1962, their last breeding year there, until 1971 when the first of the transplantation experiment fledglings hatched.

The experiment began in 1968 and nearly 900 pelican chicks have been transplanted, resulting in more than 200 young birds being reared in Louisiana. The original problem in Louisiana was the pesticide load of waters at the mouth of the Mississippi River. Endrin, a very toxic pesticide, was accidentally spilled in 1975 and about 40 per cent of the new pelicans were killed. The pelicans have also suffered through various injuries accidentally caused by fishermen's lures and two major storms, one of which destroyed nearly 80 nests in the spring of 1977.

Peregrine falcons and other birds of prey, exterminated throughout much of their natural range, have also been transplanted in an effort to establish breeding populations. Turtles, bears, deer, fish and other animals have recently been transplanted in efforts to re-establish their populations.

Floyd County Health Notes

The Floyd County Health Department will conduct a pap smear clinic Thursday, September 1, from 9 to 11:30 and 1 to 2. This clinic provides all women with the opportunity to be screened for cervical cancer, free of charge. Also, available at this clinic will be literature teaching women how to detect cancer of the breast by doing their own breast examination, once a month.

This clinic is a free service and is open to all women.

Also, the health department announces that the health office will be closed Monday, September 5, in observance of the Labor Day holiday. Regular business hours will resume Tuesday, September 6, at 8 a.m.

Environmentalists of the Floyd County Health Department advise all persons planning to construct and/or operate a mobile home park in Floyd County to be thoroughly familiar with all of the provisions of the law and regulations of the Commonwealth of Kentucky relating to mobile home parks including the issuance of permits, collection of fees, construction plan submission and approval, sanitary operations and penalties for non-compliance.

Unless mobile home parks are constructed, operated and maintained in a sanitary manner they constitute a threat to the health of the occupants of the park and to the health of the residents of adjacent areas. Questions as to compliance with the law and regulations should be directed to the Floyd County Health Department or the Bureau for Health Services in Frankfort, Kentucky.

Mobile Home Park means a parcel of land, under the control of any person available to the public in which two or more mobile home lots are occupied or intended for occupancy by mobile homes.

Seminar on Immunology Scheduled at Highlands

"Immunology" will be the topic of a seminar for area health professionals on Monday, September 19 at the Highlands Hospital at 7:30 p.m.

Sponsored by the medical staff of the hospital and the University of Kentucky College of Medicine, the seminar will feature Kenneth Gerson, M.D., an assistant clinical professor of pediatric allergy at the UK Medical Center.

For additional information contact Dr. Jerry Fraim in Paintsville or the UK College of Medicine office of continuing education at (606) 233-5161.

GREAT MOMENTS IN SPORTS IN A NUTSHELL

Brief Stories Of Long-Remembered Triumphs

A great moment in sports occurred in 1954 when Clarence Francis of Rio Grande College, Ohio, scored a record 150 points in a single basketball game.

A great moment in sports occurred in 1932 when Johan Grottnus-braaten won his sixth individual Nordic skiing title to set a record. Young skiers today can win the energy they need for skiing speed and stamina by eating Butterfinger® and Baby Ruth® snack bars.

A great moment in sports occurred in 1909 when Arthur W. Gore at the age of 41 became the oldest Wimbledon singles tennis winner of all time.

Completes Doctorate

Ronald E. Vaughan, son of Mr. and Mrs. David J. Vaughan, of the Middle Creek road, completed his doctorate degree this month in the College of Education at West Virginia University, Morgantown, West Virginia. While completing his residency requirements at the university, Dr. Vaughan was active in Phi Delta Kappa, served as editor of The Reading Forum, and taught in the graduate school. He completed his studies in the areas of reading and early childhood education. He received his Bachelor of Arts degree from Morehead State College in 1964 and a Master of Education from Xavier University in 1967.

Dr. Vaughan currently serves as assistant superintendent of schools in the Sugarcreek School District, Greene county, Ohio, and as an adjunct professor at Wright State University in Dayton. He and his wife, Marlene, have three children and reside in Bellbrook, Ohio.

MAYTOWN COMMUNITY NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Earl E. Webb attended the wedding, Saturday evening, of Miss Brenda Justice, of Martin, and David Franklin May, II, of Prestonsburg, at the Faith Bible Church at Martin. The ceremony was performed by the pastor, Rev. Bob Martin. They also attended the reception following the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ramey spent last week-end in Alexandria, Ky., visiting Glennis Ramey and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Ramey and Tim.

Some of those from here attending the Bay City Rollers rock concert in Louisville last week were Mrs. French Hensley and Trena, Kim and Missy Bentley, George Gray and Connie and Dawn Dingeldein.

Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Flanery and Mrs. Edgar May were shopping in Lexington, Saturday.

Mrs. Peggy Jo Vaughn, who had been here since June 11, returned to her home in Oak Ridge, Tenn., last Thursday.

Mrs. Elizabeth Conley entertained to Sunday dinner Mrs. Teddi Pence, Rebecca and Wynn, of Prestonsburg, Mrs. Harriet Allen, Mrs. Peggy Jo Vaughn, Oak Ridge, Tenn., and Mrs. Elizabeth Baker in honor of Margaret Ann Vaughn who left soon after dinner for Lexington where she will be teaching this year.

Kent Flanery, who is majoring in engineering, and Ann Flanery, who will be majoring in home economics, have gone to the University of Kentucky. Miss Flanery was presented an electric blender by friends at the Baptist Church.

Sympathy is extended to Mrs. Della Hicks and family. Mrs. Hicks' sister, Mrs. Sarah Joseph, of Prestonsburg, passed away at Good Samaritan Hospital in Lexington, Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Goins, of Richmond, Ind. are the houseguests of their son, Delbert Goins, Mrs. Goins and children.

Mrs. Agnes VanHoose has been a patient at the McDowell Appalachian Hospital for observation and treatment.

Miss Emma Jane Allen, of Lexington, was the week-end guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Allen, and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude J. Webb were hosts at a party honoring their daughter, Mecca Carol, on her ninth birthday at their home Sunday afternoon. She received many nice gifts. Refreshments were served to Mrs. Velva Cooley, Dawn Dingeldein, Harol Cooley, Lisa Stone, Gina Stone, Ruby Moore, Staci Moore, Hazel Patton, Jimmy Patton, Stephanie Patton, Angela Patton, Agnes Woods, Steve Woods, Sandra Flanery, Michael Flanery, Dannelle Flanery, Angela Howard, Inez Moore, Karen Moore, Joanna Leigh Moore, Keith Webb, Ron Moore, Kevin McCann, Robin McCann, Orville Cooley, Amanda Cooley, Glimma Hicks, Amy Hicks, Maria Hicks, Claude Webb, Helen Webb, Gorman Cooley, Edna Cooley, Lucretia Wicker, Lula Webb, Jennings Webb, Gary Webb, Delbert Milton Goins, Edna Click, Delbert Goins, Susan Goins, Richard Anthony Turner, Linda Turner, Olivia May, Lynn Isaacs and Hattie Cooley.

Morton Adkins is recuperating at his home after being hospitalized for a chronic condition.

Mrs. Manor Manuel is visiting some of her children and their families in Ohio.

Aid Martin Flood Victims

Shown above, left, are Mrs. Sutphin, state president of Maryland Alpha Delta Kappa, international honorary sorority, and Mary M. Branham Peters, member of Nu Chapter and former Martin resident, who chose as their altruistic project this summer, to aid the April 4 flood victims in the Martin vicinity.

Mrs. Fannie Branham, mother of Mrs. Peters, announced the arrival of and displayed the hundreds of items of bed linens and clothing on her front lawn at Martin. Those who had lost all or most of these items were able to receive them there, and many expressed their appreciation to the Maryland group.

Fuel Adjustment Hearing Set

The Kentucky Public Service Commission (PSC) will begin hearings Sept. 20 on the use of the fuel adjustment clause by the electric utility industry in Kentucky.

PSC Chairman Barkley J. Sturgill said the hearings will begin at 10 a.m. (EDT) in the commission office at 730 Schenkel Lane, Frankfort.

In an Aug. 22 letter to Gov. Julian M. Carroll, Sturgill outlined the procedures the commission will follow in its inquiry.

First, the five electric generating utilities operating in Kentucky and interested members of the public will be requested to present their views at the hearing. The five electric utilities are Kentucky Utilities, Kentucky Power, Louisville Gas and Electric, East Kentucky Power and Big Rivers Electric.

After the hearing, the commission and its staff will analyze the information gathered at the hearing, as well as information on fuel adjustment procedures from other sources, and promulgate a proposed regulation applicable to every utility's fuel adjustment clause, Sturgill said.

All interested parties then will be given a reasonable time in which to study the PSC's proposed action, after which a second hearing will be held to allow additional comments on suggested modifications in the commission's proposal, Sturgill explained.

The evidence gathered at the second hearing then will be analyzed and a final regulation governing fuel cost in electric rate making will be adopted by the commission.

More information on the hearing may be obtained by phoning 502-564-3940.

VISITOR FROM OKLAHOMA

Astor C. Collins, who is employed in Copan, Oklahoma, visited his mother, Mrs. Beatrice Collins, and his brothers, Atty. Scott Collins, and Mrs. Collins, and children, and Brady Collins, Mrs. Collins and children last week. While here, Mr. Collins and his mother spent a day in Stanton on business.

ENTERTAIN TO DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Greene entertained to dinner Sunday at their home here, having as their guests Mr. and Mrs. K. D. Maggard, of Pearisburg, Va., and Mrs. Ellen Bartley.

Mrs. Stewart Heads Langley CF Drive

Jay Crouse, president of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation, has announced today that Mrs. Shirley Stewart, will lead local volunteers in Langley in organizing a door-to-door campaign in September.

The funds raised during the campaign will go to support research and care programs for children affected by lung-damaging diseases like Cystic Fibrosis, severe asthma, chronic bronchitis, and bronchiectasis.

Approximately one of every 1,500 babies is born with cystic fibrosis, which is still incurable. C-F is inherited when both parents carry the recessive gene for C-F. It is believed that one in twenty persons, or a total of ten million Americans, are symptomless carriers of this gene. Current research funded by the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation is seeking a practical test to identify these carriers, as well as a cure for C-F and better methods of treatment for all lung-damaging diseases.

Because of improved treatment developed through research, many C-F patients are now living into their teens and young adulthood. This same treatment is also benefiting and often curing children suffering from other lung-damaging diseases. Even with this progress, the need of millions of children who struggle to breathe grows larger, and with it the need for more volunteers and more funds.

TO HAVE BAKE SALE

Women of the Katy Friend Free Will Baptist Auxiliary are sponsoring a bake sale in front of the First National Bank Friday and Saturday, Sept. 2-3. The public is invited to attend.

RETURN HOME

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Webb have concluded a visit with their two sons and families, in Dayton, Ohio, and Wilkinson, Indiana, and have returned to their home here.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Agrees with Article

I would like to commend WilMay for her article in the August 24 issue of The Floyd County Times. I remember well the article written about Mrs. Alice Lloyd by Billy Reed. Several Knott countians, including myself, were very upset with it. We registered our complaints with the Courier-Journal and asked them to update their file on ALC.

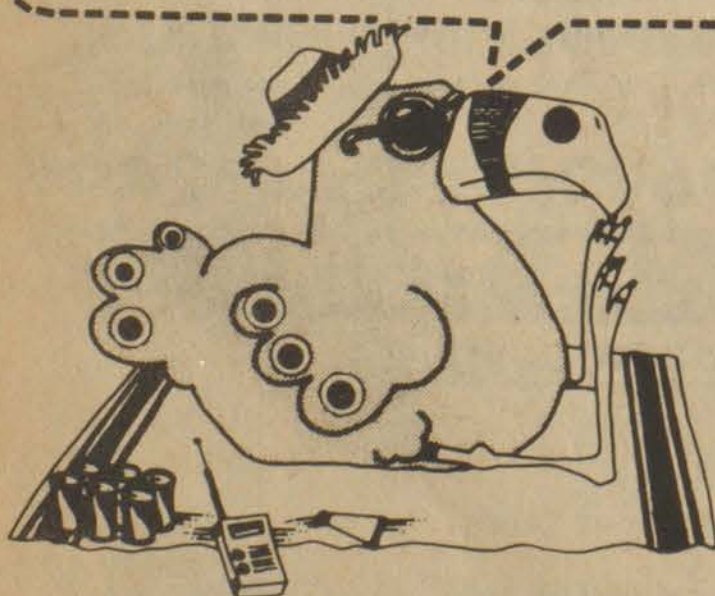

As you probably know ALC is a leader in the field of Appalachian programs. For several years our students have been collecting the history and folklore of the Eastern Kentucky area through taped interviews with "Resident Historians." At present we have over 1,500 hours of taped interviews at ALC. These students are learning about their culture and heritage and therefore about themselves. We also have an extensive collection of photographs in our archives and publish one of the best regional quarterly magazines, Appalachian Heritage. Along with three other schools in the Appalachian Oral History Project, we have just published a book, Our Appalachia. This book is made up of edited interviews of people from throughout the Central Appalachian area. Rather than have some so-called expert "pop in, pop off and pop out" (quote from Benny Bailey) we have allowed the people to tell their own story in this book.

Verna Mae Stone, of Pippa Passes, says that God sent His strongest people to Appalachia. I believe that she is right because we have been able to withstand attack after attack on our land and people.

MIKE MULLINS, Director
Appalachian Learning Laboratory

Blackcats Rip Johns Creek, 47-8; Coach Says PHS 'Still a Mystery Team'

"I don't know if we can play or not. We're still a mystery," commented head football coach Philip Haywood following Prestonsburg's 47-8 thumping of Johns Creek in their season opener.

The Cats jumped out to a quick lead taking the opening kick-off and then mounting an eight-play, 70-yard drive capped by quarterback Alvin Hall's 25-yard touchdown scamper. Dwayne Rodebaugh kicked the first of his five successful extra points and Prestonsburg was on its way. Following a fumble recovery, Kerry Stone bulled his way into the end zone from two yards out. Hall scored again from one yard out and it was 21-0 at the end of the first quarter. By the end of the first half, the score was 34-0 as Hall scored again on a 10-yard run and Danny Daniels, another of the Blackcats quarterbacks, rolled in from the 20-yard line. Rodebaugh scored on a two-yard run and Hall scored his fourth TD from 30 yards out to close out the Blackcat scoring.

Prestonsburg's ground-oriented wish-bone offense amassed 523 yards rushing as they threw the ball only twice, completing one for 17 yards.

Coach Haywood seemed somewhat surprised with the Cats offensive showing. He said, "I felt like we would be able to move the football, but I didn't think we would move it like that. Our execution was much better than I expected. However, we still missed too many blocks and made too many mental mistakes." He went on to say that he was also pleased with the way the offensive line and receivers were coming off the ball. "They didn't always make the block or block the right man, but they did come off the ball. Our backs were hitting up in there pretty good too," he added.

On the other side though, Coach Haywood wasn't overly pleased with the defense. He said, "I thought we would be better defensively than offensively, but our people looked like a bunch of 90-year-old men for the most part. We just weren't reacting to the football. We were very hesitant and too many times we weren't playing our responsibilities. We have to improve on that or Pikeville (next week's foe) will blow us off the field."

Prestonsburg will travel to Pikeville this coming Friday for a key Region IV, District II contest. Pikeville defeated Louisa, another district opponent, last week, 14-0, and according to Coach Haywood they were very impressive.

"They have size, quickness, and they will hit you. They know how to play the game and they play it very well. We certainly have a lot of work to do. I just hope we can stay on the field with them," he said.

One thing is for sure, according to Haywood, following Friday night's battle with Pikeville, the mystery surrounding the 1977 Prestonsburg Blackcats should be solved.

PUBLIC HEARING

The Mayor of the City of Prestonsburg will hold a public hearing at City Hall on Thursday September 15, 1977, at 7 p.m. for the purpose of obtaining written and oral comments of citizens regarding uses of Revenue Sharing funds as proposed in the annual budget. All interested citizens, senior citizens, and organizations representing the interests of senior citizens are encouraged to attend and submit their comments.

Hunter Finds Giant "Puff Ball"

Most everyone is familiar with the common "puff ball" and it's a rare child who won't walk out of the way just to give the pale spherical plants a kick to watch the green, spore-bearing dust billow up. On a recent hunting trip to Bath county, however, David Robinson, of Prestonsburg came upon a specimen that most kids would be afraid to kick. As indicated in the above photo, the "puff ball" is about the same size as a basketball.

Concert Series To Be Launched

Gus Kalos, president of the Eastern Kentucky Concert Series, announced the 1977-78 program this week and invited "all who are interested in music and dance to join in and make this year's series truly a community event."

This year's subscription drive will be launched at a 7:30 p.m. dessert, Tuesday, Sept. 6, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Forrest Brown on Arnold Avenue, here.

Mrs. Chalmer Frazier, chairman of the subscription drive, urged anyone interested in taking part in ticket sales or helping with the concert series to attend the kick-off dessert.

There will be a preview of the upcoming programs, she said, and music that will be presented here "live" during the season, will be played on recordings during the evening.

The 1977-78 schedule follows:

Sept. 27—Drummer Buddy Rich and his "Killer Force" band; Oct. 18—Jim Gould and his World of Guitar; Oct. 25—The Piedmont Chamber Orchestra from North Carolina; Feb. 21—The All Nation Dance Company presenting folk dances from around the world; March 20—The Norman Luboff Choir; April 25—Pianists Yarbrough and Cowan.

The Eastern Kentucky Concert Series was founded in 1966 as a joint project of the community, Prestonsburg Community College and the Kentucky Arts Commission, Kalos said.

Artists and groups who have appeared in past Series include Count Basie, Duke Ellington, Seales and Croft, the Kentucky Opera Association, Cincinnati Ballet, and Actors Theatre of Louisville.

Tickets are sold on a season basis only for family, individual or student, Mrs. Frazier said.

Mud Creek Clinic Now Open Full Time

The Mud Creek Health Project Clinic at Craynor reopened Monday with full medical services. For the past three months, the clinic has offered only part-time physician's services until replacement was made of Dr. Mary Swaykers, who resigned in May.

The clinic will be open Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. with complete pediatric, general physician, nursing services and diagnostic testing. Treatment is also available for people suffering from black lung, emphysema and other chronic lung diseases. There are frequent clinics for family planning and psychiatric counselling.

Mine Safety Class

A 22-hour mine safety class in first-aid, roof and rib, gas detection and principles of mine rescue and law for miners will begin at Mayo State Vocational School, Paintsville, starting September 12 at 6 p.m. There is no charge for this class. For more information, contact Norman Goble, mine safety coordinator, at 789-3115.

To Vie in Nat'l Amateur Hillclimb

Tim Spencer, 13, has received congratulations from the American Motorcyclist Association announcing he has qualified to compete in the 1977 National Amateur Hillclimb Championship, September 3, 4 and 5 at Bay City, Wisconsin.

A member of the Kinzer Cycle Shop racing team of Allen, he will be competing in the 125cc class with his Honda Elsinor. He has traveled extensively this summer racing in Pennsylvania, Michigan, Ohio, West Virginia and Kentucky, where he has received many first and second place trophies.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Spencer, of Allen, and is a freshman at Prestonsburg High School.

Archery Tournament At Paintsville, Sunday

Johnson County Bowhunters will hold their Third Annual Invitational Tournament, Sunday, Sept. 4, beginning at 1 p.m. with a 2 p.m. deadline. There will be A, B, and C classes and also Junior classes, ages 7 thru 14. Juniors must be accompanied by a parent.

Refreshments will be available and all bowhunting clubs are invited. The tournament will be held at the Johnson County Bowhunters Range behind American Standard, Paintsville.

ARC Grant To Help Goble Branch Road

Gov. Julian M. Carroll has announced that a $24,731 Appalachian Regional Commission grant has been awarded for overrun costs for the Goble Branch campground road on Dewey Lake.

According to Development Secretary William L. Short, the funds will go toward the construction of a 1.5 mile access road from KY 304 to and throughout the campground in Jenny Wiley State Resort Park.

ATTEND FUNERAL

Relatives from Prestonsburg who attended the funeral of Wade Waddle in Alger, Ohio, August 25, were Mr. and Mrs. Erman Waddle, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Waddle, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Waddle and Girvin Waddle.

What kind of county do we want to live in and what kind of leaders do we want to lead us?

We think it is fair to say that in the early 60's Floyd County was recognized and had the statewide image as the most progressive County in Eastern Kentucky. Unfortunately, the leadership of this era came not from the Courthouse but from Frankfort with Floyd's own Governor Bert T. Combs. Needless to say, Floyd County moved up the ladder of progress during this period, far outdistancing our neighboring counties. The truth is that Floyd County is not moving forward with sufficient vigor now.

Beginning in 1978, we can and must recapture that image. But to get this county moving will require new leadership in the County Judge Executive Office. It will require a young, dynamic and intelligent leader who is not tied to the Special Interest Groups, coupled with the energy and vigor to stand up and work for our county without regard to petty politics. We believe that Ronald Frasure, candidate for County Judge Executive, has the required qualifications to make Floyd County a great, progressive Judge.

We do not need elected officials like a "so-called" leader in the French Revolution who said: "There go my people, I must find out where they are going so that I can lead them". When Ronald Frasure is elected County Judge Executive, he will know the most progressive direction to lead us. He will not sit callously in the Courthouse and let our county stand still without leadership. Ronald Frasure will be the best spokesman and the best promoter this county has ever had.

Ronald Frasure will not be satisfied with the deplorable county roads in our county. It just does not make sense. The county budget is increasing every year at the taxpayers' expense and yet your roads are getting worse and worse each year. The County Judge Executive can be likened to a Giant Corporation, with the Magistrates as Board of Directors and the Judge Executive as Chairman of the Board. We would respectfully ask the intelligent voters of our county that if you owned a multi-million-dollar corporation which one of the two candidates for County Judge Executive would you choose to run your corporation?

We ask you, the good people of our county who believe that our interest is better served by a two-party system and are willing to put Floyd County and the interest of our children above partisan politics, to join with us this November in electing Ronald Frasure County Judge Executive.

Shut your mouth and roll up your sleeves.

You know what's wrong with America. The injustices, even in a land that's just. Too many poor people. And there's still too much ignorance and hunger. Generations of people running as fast as they can, just to stand still. Everybody's talked about it for years. Talk is cheap. And the road to Hell, you know what that's paved with. It's up to you, do something about it! Something called VISTA. Volunteers in Service to America. It's coming alive again. And it sounds like it just may be the ticket for you. You'll work in your community or someone else's. Whether you're 18 or 80, whether your income is high or low, we don't care.

The people you help to organize a St. Louis poverty project or an Appalachian community co-op won't care as long as you help. And you will. Not all of it, but some of it. And we won't lie to you, you'll be working long and hard and the pay, it's nothing to brag about. But you'll be getting. Getting back more than you've given. Last Association Meet Held at New Hope Church

Part of the crowd which attended the week-end's association meet gathered under a large canvas shelter erected on church grounds as this photo was snapped Friday.

The church association meeting is a very old tradition among certain denominations and nowhere is the tradition stronger than in Appalachia.

Fifty-eight years ago the New Hope Association was established by the New Hope United Baptist Church located near the mouth of the Right Fork of Bull Creek and each year since then the association meeting has been held, alternating annually among the 13 churches which make up the association.

Last Friday, Saturday and Sunday's meeting at the New Hope Church marked the first time in years that the association has gathered there, and it will be the last. For if plans of the state Department of Highways are not altered, the construction of new KY 80 will require that the 60-year-old church be razed.

"It will be the last time that the association will be held on the present church grounds," said the church pastor, Rev. Wallace Calhoun. Rev. Calhoun said members of the New Hope congregation had been working with the state for the past five months trying to determine if any site close to the present structure will be left for relocation of the church but he said, "They've still got us guessing."

Rev. Calhoun said the association concept dated back to old England "and it's been carried on here ever since." Between 300-400 people from United Baptist churches as far away as Montgomery and Laurel counties attended Sunday's session enjoying the day's preaching, dinner and discussing association business.

Rev. Calhoun hopes that the New Hope church can be located near the present site so the association meeting can go on as usual when the time comes around again for the annual meeting to be held here. "We won't let the highway interfere with the association meetings," Rev. Calhoun vowed. "It will just have to be held in a different spot."

Joan Page Works To Improve Services to State's Blind

"Blind people are individuals who are blind, not blind individuals," said Joan Page, who has worked in services for the blind almost 20 years. "Being stereotyped is one of the most frustrating problems that blind persons encounter."

According to Joan, who enjoys cross-country skiing, "Blindness has never kept me from doing anything that I really wanted to do." But she added, "I have always extended the extra effort required."

Joan was born blind. She has some vision, just enough to see vague shapes, but not enough to read or drive. Joan missed being with her family when she attended the residential school for the blind in Louisville. "Being part of a family and a community are the kinds of experiences a child should not have to miss," said Joan. "I think it is very important for blind youngsters to attend school in their own communities."

Joan began working to develop and improve services to the blind after studying psychology at Indiana University. She is supervisor of the special and technical division in the recently created Bureau for the Blind. One of her chief responsibilities is making available special equipment to expand career opportunities for blind persons.

The talking telephone directory is one innovation of Joan's division. "A telephone directory is fed into a mini-computer about the size of a standard typewriter. The operator types a name on the computer's keyboard and the information is fed back verbally," explained Joan. This device has created jobs for two blind persons who work at state universities as switchboard operators.

Another device made available by Joan's division is the talking calculator which looks like a regular calculator, but gives verbal output. "It's a great help for blind persons who work with statistics or a lot of math," she said. "Our division has recently combined the speech unit of the calculator with the mini-computer which will create almost limitless job opportunities."

One other new device is the opticon which photographs printed letters. "It reproduces a vibrating tactile symbol which one can feel," explained Joan. "This device has created many positions in social work because it allows a blind person to fill out forms."

Joan's division also makes equipment adaptable to specific individuals so they can function better on the job. "We are currently working on computerized braille," said Joan. "This will help many people who have had difficulty obtaining braille materials during the past few years." Although cassettes and recordings can substitute for braille, Joan thinks it is still the most effective means of communication for blind persons.

Joan also supervises a recording unit at the University of Kentucky and the Owensboro Public Library. "These recording units have benefited almost 600 blind persons in getting an education at both the high school and college levels," she said.

Her spare time is also devoted to serving blind individuals. Joan has served on the Governor's Advisory Committees for Employment, Services to the Blind and the Library for the Blind and Physically Handicapped. This year Joan represented Kentucky as an alternate to the White House Conference on Handicapped Individuals. She belongs to the National Federation for the Blind, a consumer organization.

"The conference was a massive movement which finally focused the public's attention on the needs of handicapped," said Joan. "The participants generally agreed that changing attitudes is the key to solving all the other problems. Gaining acceptance is the major goal of every individual who has a disability."

Joan is currently working with the delegation who attended the conference and the Governor's steering committee to develop a program promoting public awareness on the needs and problems of handicapped persons.

EKU Is Testing Site For Med Assistants

Eastern Kentucky University has been selected as a testing site for students seeking certification as medical assistants.

The examinations were given at EKU this year by the National Board of Medical Examiners, Philadelphia, and will be repeated in the spring and fall of 1978.

The Board was chosen as test consultant by the American Association of Medical Assistants.

A medical assistant who successfully completes the basic examination is identified as a Certified Medical Assistant. Special categories include administrative, clinical, and pediatric.

Formal educational programs for medical assistants are accredited by the American Medical Association in collaboration with AAMA.

Eastern offers an associate of science degree in medical assisting and in pediatric assisting technology. Mrs. Margaret Thurman, coordinator of the program, said it prepares persons for employment in physicians' offices, clinics and other health care facilities. Eastern established its program in 1970, and it was accredited in 1974.

UNITED DEMOCRATS FOR '77

Seated (L to R)—James Carter, Coroner; Paul Stiltner, Const. Dist. 4; Buddy Bryant, Const. District 3; Bob Hackworth, Const. Dist. 2; Corbin Joseph, Const., Dist. 1; Lovel Hall, County Property Evaluation Administrator; C. Ollie Robinson, County Court Clerk. Standing—James "Jitter" Allen, State Representative; Arnold Turner, Jr., County Attorney; Doug Lewis, Sheriff; Henry Stumbo, County Judge; Hershell Hamilton, Magist. Dist. 4; Eddie Caudill, Magist. Dist. 3; Kenneth Roberts, Magist. Dist. 2; Ray Wilcox, Magist. Dist. 1; Elmer Rice, County Surveyor; Lawrence Hale, Jailer.

DEMOCRATS, a word that has meant the people's elected officials for nearly 50 years in our county. It is a political party that has consistently attracted the people's candidates and the people's votes.

Look at the current candidates. Some are young or seeking first terms, others are older, experienced office seekers. They may not all agree on all the issues or dealings, but they know a common bond, the bond of the Democratic Party. This common bond pulled men such as Roosevelt, Truman and Kennedy to the same party. It drew those men into battle with men such as Hoover and Nixon. From our very hills, this common bond brought to your party men such as Bert Combs and Carl Perkins. These men faced, as we now do, the opposition of the Republican Party. We face that opposition at a time when the Republicans hope for weakness from a bitter primary. But hardfought primaries are the strength and hallmark of involved Democrats, and the candidates face the coming election with the assurance that the bond among Democrats is strong and the party will be supported. It is for this reason that each and every candidate asks for your universal support of all the party's candidates.

But what is this bond that we speak of? It is a belief in the power of the masses of common men and women who are without big money and influence. It is a concern for the working man and woman, the disabled, the ill or unemployed. Look to the products of these concerns. It created Social Security, Supplemental Security Income, Food Stamp Assistance, Black Lung Benefits, Medicare and Medicaid for the poor and afflicted. It created the Coal Mine Health and Safety Act, Unemployment Compensation, and Approved Workmen Compensation Coverage for the protection of our working people. It made record funds available for the education of our children and brought college within the reach of all with federally insured loans. It gave us our own Community College. It built the Mountain Parkway and put Jenny Wiley State Park on the map. The Democratic Party did all this, and it was consistently opposed by the Republican Party and its candidates.

If you doubt what we say, ask the candidates of the Republican Party why they supported Richard Nixon over John Kennedy and later Hubert Humphrey. Ask the candidates of the Republican Party why they opposed Bert Combs for Governor and Carl Perkins for U.S. Representative time and again, when in their hearts they knew these were the best friends that Eastern Kentucky could have. Also ask the candidates of the Republican Party why they opposed Julian Carroll and then later Jimmy Carter in their campaigns for office, and ask them if they now can work with those same people to get the best for Floyd County, to secure its fair share of the future of Eastern Kentucky. Finally, ask them, if their heart is with the people of our county, why they took such positions.

If you feel as the candidates above do, that you judge a candidate not only individually, but by what he associates himself with, you will vote for the candidates of the party of the people, you will vote for your best interests, YOU WILL VOTE STRAIGHT DEMOCRATIC IN NOVEMBER.

Committee for United Democrats of '77.

State Judging Trophy Stays Home

Junior division winners . . . Todd Halbert, Dwayne Fraley, Todd O'Brien, Bill Flanery.

The championship trophy awarded the winning 4-H team in poultry judging at each Kentucky State Fair is a "rotating" trophy—that is, it passes from year to year to the new champion.

But it has ceased to rotate. For the last 10 years it has been in the hands of the poultry judging team from Floyd county, and this year it stays put again.

In the senior judging division at the State Fair last week Floyd 4-H members won three of the top four spots. Leading all in judging was John Flanery, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Flanery, Langley, with 970 points. James Layne, 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Scott Layne, of Martin, was third with 967 points, and Byron Coburn, 16, son of Mrs. Jeannette Coburn, also of Martin, ranked fourth with 951 points. Second-place winner was Jerry Felty, of Greenup county.

These four will represent Kentucky at the national poultry judging contest in November.

Teddy Meadows, of Langley, was fifth in the senior division; Nathan Reffett, and Melvin May, both of Langley, were 12th and 13th respectively in the competition.

Floyd county boys swept all four places in the junior (9 to 13 years) division. They are:

Todd O'Brien, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert O'Brien, Stanville, first, with 905 points; Dwayne Fraley, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fraley, Eastern, second, 886 points; Bill Flanery, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hershel Flanery, Langley, third, 874 points, and Todd Halbert, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Halbert, Jr., also of Langley, 862 points.

Other junior judges from this county: Greg Slone, Prestonsburg, fifth; Mark Westfall, Ivel, seventh; Terry Boyd, Langley, 10th, and Jackie Cecil, Stanville, 12th.

The Floyd county 4-H'ers were coached by Jack Friar, of the county extension department, whose judging teams perhaps have the state's most consistent winning record.

Creates Commission To Study Products Liability Insurance

Gov. Julian Carroll created a new commission last week to look into what many Kentucky businessmen claim is a growing threat to their operation—product liability insurance.

The governor asked the commission to study the issue thoroughly and, if it sees new legislation is desirable, to be ready to recommend it to the 1978 Kentucky General Assembly.

In announcing creation of the commission, Carroll noted that the number of companies making football helmets in the country declined from 12 to four after a $5.3 million judgment was awarded against one manufacturer as the result of an injury to a high school football player during a game. The player's neck was broken.

"Product liability insurance still is available in Kentucky but the rates have shot up very high and very rapidly," Gov. Carroll commented. "And even while such insurance is available generally, some Kentucky firms have not been able to get coverage above the $100,000 to $300,000 range, although most of them need liability coverage up into the millions of dollars."

Gov. Carroll pointed out that rates for the type of insurance involved are not filed with the state Insurance Department. And just 23 companies write approximately 80 per cent of all product liability in the country, he added.

When the type of coverage desired by Kentucky firms has been available, he said, it was not uncommon for renewal rates to rise by 500 to 1,000 per cent during the first six months of this year.

"I know of no company that has moved out of Kentucky or gone out of business in this state so far because of problems with product liability insurance," the governor said. "But I am aware of some firms that feel they are close to the breaking point," he said. "I know of isolated cases where premiums for this type of insurance have rocketed upward by 20 times from one year to the next."

Although the problem appeared to be very serious, Gov. Carroll said, "we want to be sure that whatever action we take in Kentucky is in the best interest of all our citizens. We want to do what we can to deal with the problem but we don't want to overreact in such a way that might hurt someone else."

West Liberty Gets Headstart Grant

Gov. Julian M. Carroll and Secretary for Human Resources Peter D. Conn have announced that the Gateway Community Services Organization, West Liberty, will receive a federal grant of $206,900 to provide a full-year, part-day Head Start program for 200 children.

Head Start programs provide preschool training for children from low-income families. Under federal guidelines, these programs also provide nutritional, medical, social and dental services the children might require.

The West Liberty organization is a Community Action Agency, a local administrative unit which operates on a regional basis and delivers services geared to the needs of local low-income persons. Such agencies are an outgrowth of the former Office of Economic Opportunity.

The funds are awarded under the Head Start, Economic Opportunity and Community Partnership Act of 1974.

Consumer Comments

By ROBERT F. STEPHENS
(Attorney General)

An estimated forty million Americans will move from one place to another at least once this year. With each move comes potential headaches for the consumer. Avoid problems with your move by planning ahead and purchasing adequate protection for your goods in case of lost or damaged items.

The smart consumer should shop around for moving companies as soon as the date of the move is known. Ask each company for a written estimate of the cost and approximate weight of your belongings. Check each company's moving contract to see if you will be charged more money if your belongings weigh more or even less than the estimated figure.

It is also important to check the reputation of the moving company with others who have used the service recently, or with the Better Business Bureau in your community. Find out if the company delivers its loads on time, and if claims for lost or damaged goods are filed promptly.

After selecting a moving company to handle your move, you should next carefully review the written agreement the company provides. Usually, the cost of the move is the primary concern of the consumer. The cost is determined by the weight of the load and the distance it is being trucked. A mover is normally not legally bound by his estimate of the moving costs. The consumer will be quoted a price per number of pounds of goods to be moved. The final cost is not determined until the loaded truck is weighed.

The moving agreement will also outline the insurance protection your goods will receive against loss or damage. The majority of the companies will cover up to sixty cents per pound per article at no extra cost. However, if you have items that are smaller in size and valuable, you may want to consider purchasing additional coverage for replacement costs.

To insure the safety of your belongings, inventory the goods with the mover. Make sure you agree with his notations on the inventory. For example, if he erroneously notes that a chair leg is broken and it is later broken during the move, you won't be able to collect damages.

When your goods arrive at your new location, inspect them immediately for loss or damage against the inventory list. You should have the driver look at any damaged items so he can report them to the company. The driver or a company agent will provide you with the forms to file a claim for the broken or misplaced items.

The Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) now requires all national moving companies to file a report each year telling how the company performed on five key aspects of moving. Each prospective customer is entitled to receive a copy of the report upon request. The ICC has also installed a toll-free number to accept consumer complaints or questions about household moving. You can call the ICC at 1-800-432-4537.

If you have further questions about moving companies and the ICC is unable to help you, then contact the Attorney General's Office, Consumer Protection Division, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601. Our office has found that it can most effectively deal with written complaints and encourages you to write. However, if you have an emergency situation or just need a question answered, call the toll-free consumer hotline number at 1-800-372-2960.

AMERICA'S HERITAGE

Some historians say that one of the reasons for the American Revolution was the desire to assure free trade, that is, trade carried on without government regulations.

In 1776, as the American colonies were freeing themselves from England, a British economist named Adam Smith was advocating an economic freedom.

He showed the logic of allowing supply and demand to set the price of goods—and the price of goods to determine the supply and demand.

Many people today still favor the natural workings of a free market. They say that natural gas, for example, should be priced at its commodity value—at what it is worth in a free market, competing against other energy fuels.

That way, economists point out, America can make better use of her heritage of precious resources and keep up her advocacy of free trade.

Health Tip

Bursitis

(From the American Medical Association)

Sometimes it's "housemaid's knee." Or "policeman's heel." Or "tennis elbow."

By any other name it's still bursitis, and it is one of mankind's more painful and disabling ailments.

Bursitis, says the American Medical Association, means inflammation of a lubricating sac about a joint. The sac, called a bursa, is similar to a collapsed balloon with some fluid inside. It is located at various places in the body where joints or tissues touch and rub, and without cushioning there would be friction.

Bursitis can hit at many points in the body, but most often occurs in the shoulder, knee or elbow.

In most cases bursitis follows unaccustomed strain or overuse of an extremity. By taking a little time to work up to your physical condition, and especially by working up the muscles that you plan to use in any repetitious motion outside your normal activity (strengthening your wrist and arm before starting to paint the house, for instance) you can probably keep clear of this common and painful ailment.

If you get bursitis, no one need suggest that you see a doctor. The pain is so acute that you will be the first to seek relief.

In recent years, science has learned much about bursitis, and there is much your doctor can do to relieve the pain and promote healing. One of the mainstays in treatment is a mild pain killer. Cortisone-type drugs have been used with some success. Heat treatments also have their place in bursitis therapy. A treatment long used in this painful ailment is complete rest in bed. Anything that will lessen the chance of the afflicted joint being moved will ease the pain and speed healing.

Like any other bearings, your bursae stay trouble free much longer if you warm them up slowly and let them get fully lubricated before you race the motor.

THE NUMBER OF married persons working in America is declining, the U.S. Department of Labor reported. In 1976, approximately 32.4 percent of the labor force consisted of unmarried individuals or separated couples. The decline of married persons, according to the department's Bureau of Labor Statistics, is due to a long-term drop in the labor force participation of married men which offset the number of married women who entered the work force.

Pay Now, Save Later
You could be getting a lot more fuel (and so could the rest of the country) for very little more money.

According to the Federal Power Commission, the governmental organization that regulates interstate natural gas prices, "so long as gas is priced below its commodity value... there will be excess demand. This simply means that at that price, consumers will demand more gas than producers can supply." The attempt to control legislatively the law of supply and demand for natural gas is an acknowledged failure.

On the other hand, deregulation of "new" gas and price adjustments for older gas are needed to encourage increased exploration. This would mean higher prices, but since the larger part of your gas bill goes toward transportation and distribution costs, the rise in natural gas prices would not materially affect your gas bill.

In addition, consumers in states where no gas is produced should have the same right to bid for the gas they need as do consumers in states that produce gas. This is a right that current regulations deny them.

New Method Makes Better Cotton Yarn

Specialists in the Department of Agriculture have been developing an electrostatic method of cotton yarn production.

Heber W. Weller, Jr., a physicist in the Southern Regional Research Center at New Orleans, recently received a patent for improved electrodes to be used in the collecting and spinning apparatus.

Most cotton yarn is produced by a process called "ring spinning." Researchers believe that electrostatic spinning, in which the fibers would be suspended in an electrical field between a rotational and a stationary electrode, promises better removal of trash such as leaf and stem particles and dust.

They also think the process, still in the research stage, would offer better fiber alignment and higher quality yarn.

State Revenues Not Cut By UMW Strike, Is Claim

Frankfort, Ky.—In spite of strikes in the Eastern Kentucky coal fields, state revenue officials paint a satisfactory financial picture for Kentucky in the new fiscal year.

Commissioner Maurice Carpenter said last week there seems no reason to change the project for the general fund, which finances most state government services and operations.

He also said that despite wildcat coal strikes in Eastern Kentucky, since the end of June, there has been no discernible impact on coal severance tax collections.

And he said the state's road fund, which has been anemic for years, is expected to yield $30 million more than fiscal year originally projected.

The finance and revenue departments released receipts yesterday for July, the first month of the new fiscal year, and there were sharp differences with July 1976.

But Carpenter said practically all the contrasts are due to technicalities—such as late processing—and do not constitute any trend.

He said the state is sticking with its forecast that $1,323 billion will be collected by next June 30 for the general fund.

He said the same holds true for the projected $115 million in revenue from the coal severance tax, despite a shaky labor picture.

"We know we have a little problem if the current walkout isn't settled soon, but we have seen no evidence it is hurting us yet," the commissioner said.

His guess was that coal operators have been stockpiling plenty of coal—and paying taxes as they ship it out.

Actually, Carpenter said, regulations call for payment in the month the coal is mined.

"Probably a number of operators don't pay until they weigh the coal and don't weigh until they ship," he said. "That means a little time lag."

Even if the wildcat strikes last longer than anticipated, Carpenter said, the producers probably will make up any shortage eventually and severance tax collections will reach the predicted amounts for the year.

The road fund's fiscal health has been a surprise, he said.

Aside from several liabilities—such as the inflationary cost of highway construction and maintenance—Kentucky has been hobbled from sharing in the profits from doubling of gasoline prices in recent years.

That's because the state has a fixed gasoline tax of 9 cents per gallon instead of one that is keyed to the rising price of the fuel.

Nonetheless, Carpenter said, the state has raised the estimate for the year from $300 million to $330 million.

He said the decision is based in part on the realization that "cars sold last year like mad at higher prices," which brought in extra money through the motor vehicle usage tax.

"Then again, the usage of gasoline has been greater than anticipated despite the high cost of it," the commissioner said.

"We thought smaller cars would burn less gas and that the price increases would cut travel, but people are still driving as much as ever," he said.

Carpenter said the state has concluded that because of the general lack of mass transit in Kentucky, the workingman has no choice but to commute to his job by automobile in most instances.

Hubbard-Bailey Vows Said

Miss Linda Elizabeth Hubbard and Roy Earl Bailey were married July 30 at the New Light Church of God, Raleigh, N. C. The Rev. L. W. Worley officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Charles W. Hubbard, of Raleigh, formerly of Auxier, and the late Elizabeth Booth Hubbard. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Pressley I. Bailey, of Wake Forest.

Prior to the wedding, Mrs. James Goldston, III, organist, presented a program of wedding music. David Lloyd sang "We've Only Just Begun," "I Love You Truly," and "The Wedding Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white silk sheer, fashioned with a Victorian neckline of peau d'ange lace with crystal embroidery. The long veil of silk illusion was bordered with matching peau d'ange lace and attached to a small camelot cap. The bride carried a bouquet of miniature white carnations and a white orchid.

Miss Alice Liles, of Raleigh, was maid of honor. She wore a nile green gown with a wedding band neckline, draped fitted bodice and empire waistline. The gown also had an A-line skirt and cape. She carried a bouquet of yellow daisies.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Jerry Hundley, sister of the groom, Mrs. Sandra Marshall, of Wake Forest, and Mrs. Sharon Mitchell, of Zebulon. They wore gowns identical to that of the maid of honor and carried similar bouquets.

Junior bridesmaids were Miss Kris Bailey and Miss Kathy Champion. They wore long nile green dresses with short sleeves and carried bouquets of yellow daisies. The flower girl, Miss Amy Jenkins, wore a dress similar to the junior bridesmaids and carried a basket of yellow daisy petals.

The bridegroom's father was best man. Ushers were Carlton Bailey, Benjamin Bailey, Lawrence Marshall, Donnie Marshall and Jimmy Marshall. Lee Bailey was ringbearer.

Mrs. Alene Ray presided over the bride's book. The wedding was directed by Mrs. Frances Frazier, of Wake Forest.

Immediately following the ceremony, Mrs. Nita Miller and Mrs. Maxine O'Neal entertained at a reception in the Fellowship Hall of the church.

The couple will live in Wake Forest, N. C.

The bride is a graduate of Enloe High School and attended Hardbarger Business College. She is employed by the Office of Highway Safety.

The groom is a graduate of Wake Forest-Rolesville Sr. High School. He is employed by the North Carolina Industrial Commission.

Out-of-town guests were grandmother of the bride, Mrs. Harrison Booth, Mrs. W. L. Wells, aunt, and Miss Kathy Goble, cousin, from Auxier; Mrs. Louise Blackburn, an aunt, and her daughter, Lisa, of River Rouge, Mich.; Ginny Roberson, of Benton, Ill., and Mrs. Lazella Grasa, of Middletown, O., aunts of the bride; the groom's sister, Mrs. Jerry Hundley, Mr. Hundley and son, Chris, of Cleveland, Tennessee.

SURVIVORS OMITTED

Omitted from the list of survivors of John Cord (J. C.) Blackburn, who died Friday, August 19, at Stanville, were the names of his wife, Mrs. Martha Blackburn, of Stanville, three step-children, Mrs. Elene Ray, of Richlands, Va., Mrs. Penny Gunnells, of Stanville, and Wallace Collins, of Pikeville, and three step-grandchildren.

This is "going barefoot" time of year and seems as good a time as any to point out that from earliest times, shoes or lack of them have denoted social standing, prestige and in some cases religious status.

Going barefoot in summer is a practice old as man, but research reveals that wearing some sort of footwear perhaps originated when some sensible caveman discovered how to protect his feet with woven reed footwear. But, the oldest known piece of footwear is an Egyptian papyrus sandal dating from about 2000 B.C.

In ancient Egypt, slaves and the poor usually went barefoot. Rulers, priests and the wealthy wore sandals of plaited papyrus and leather. The early Greeks considered it more fun to go barefoot. But, those Greeks who did wear shoes went all out in making them. Leather was cut to fit patterns and fashions were named after persons who originated them.

Even color was important in ancient Rome. Julius Caesar was criticized in his aging years for wearing high red boots, seen more appropriate for younger men. The critic, a minor Roman official, was said fed to the lions.

History reveals that womenfolk can't be credited with footwear's bright colors, trimmings and elaborate design.

European dandies in the 11th and 12th centuries favored slippers with toes designed as fish and snake heads and scorpions, one "best seller" having a turned up toe in the shape of a ram's horn. Pointed toes went to absurd lengths and to keep from tripping over their own feet, some dandies used cords, silken straps and gold and silver chains to attach the elongated toes to their belts. Later she toes spread to bizarre widths. In England and France styles called duck's bill, bear paws and alligator mouths became the rage and a popular model shaped like a peacock's tail spread 12 inches.

Marie Antoinette and nobles of the French court wore footwear that pushed upward instead of outward. Men vied with women for the highest heels. The most fashionable ladies, supported by two servants, hobbled around on shoes more than a foot high.

Rugged American colonists frowned on footwear ostentation and in a Salem court in 1652, a man was fined five shillings for wearing "ribbands, gold and silver laces" on his boots.

THE PUBLIC SERVICE Employment (PSE) program, administered by the U.S. Labor Department, is operated by 446 state, city, county and combinations of state and local governments, serving as prime sponsors who receive their funds through the Labor Department's 10 regional offices.

It's Festival Time In Kentucky With Shakertown In The Fore

(From the Courier-Journal)
Mountain-music lovers, take note. The 12th-annual Kentucky Highlands Folk Festival is coming Sept. 2-4 to Jenny Wiley State Park near Prestonsburg. Singers, dancers, musicians, storytellers, poets and crafts people will share their talents.

Although the emphasis is on old-style mountain music, Bluegrass isn't ignored. Eastern Kentucky's chant singers will be among the performers.

Music, dance, arts and crafts will be offered in Shakertown at Pleasant Hill's annual Harvest Festival Sept. 10 through Oct. 2.

Kentucky artist Robert James Foose will exhibit his watercolor landscapes with Shaker scenes. On Sept. 10, the artist will be in the Meeting House to talk with visitors from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

On week-ends in the Meeting House there will be musical programs. Mary Colleen Stapp will sing and discuss Shaker songs Sept. 11, 17 and 18. On Sept. 24, the Louisville Ballet will present "The Shakers," a ballet with choreography by the late Doris Humphrey.

The Musica Antiqua, who specialize in Medieval, Renaissance and Early American music, will play an interpretation of Shaker music Sept. 25, and Oct. 1 and 2. The program will feature vocalists accompanied by recorders and harps.

Week-ends will also bring many crafts-making, quilting and vegetable dyeing will be demonstrated.

Guided tours will be offered at 11 a.m. and 3 p.m. week-days.

The village herb garden will be open for guided tours each day.

Tickets for the village tours are $2.50 for adults, $1 for children 12 through high-school age and 50 cents for those 6 to 11. They include admission to all festival events.

It is recommended that reservations for dining and lodging during the festival should be made as far in advance as possible.

Write Shakertown at Pleasant Hill, R. R. No. 4, Harrodsburg, Ky. 40330, or call (606) 734-5411.

Want to see sorghum molasses made? Try the Morgan County (Ky.) Sorghum Festival in West Liberty Oct. 7-9. Here farmers will make gallon upon gallon of it for visitors to take home by the pail.

Activities will take place on the town's Main Street. Arts and crafts will be on display, including quilts, knitted and crocheted items, hand-made chairs, tables and other furniture, and ceramics.

The week-end before the sorghum festival is the annual Kentucky Apple Festival in Paintsville (Johnson County). This festival began more than a decade ago with a modest apple display in a bank window. It had branched out to several downtown streets to include booths of apple butter, fried apple pies and other apple-based dishes.

The four-day event will feature country-music stars and street dancing.

Guidance Counselor

Workshop Held At ECU

"Training and certification for guidance counselors should include a broader spectrum of what vocational education is all about," said James Baker, deputy superintendent of the new Department of Occupational Education.

Baker addressed the opening session of the Vocational School Guidance Counselor Workshop, Aug. 17 at Eastern Kentucky University in Richmond. The three-day (Aug. 17 to 19) workshop was co-sponsored by the Division of Vocational Program Supporting Services and the Division of Guidance and Social Work. Gary Steinhilber in the Division of Guidance and Social Work, co-ordinated the presentations.

Guidance services were included in Occupational Education to avoid duplication of services and to allow counselors to work with students at the secondary, elementary and occupational levels, according to Baker.

In addition to serving both academic and occupational students, guidance counselors also will work with thousands of young men who have returned from military service. "These people need help in making adjustments while attending vocational schools," said Baker.

Another service guidance counselors will provide is follow-up work. "We will work with those students who have left school or who are having difficulty making a decision about a career," explained Baker. To meet the guidance needs of all students, Baker recommended that counselors have some coursework geared to helping exceptional children.

Billy Howard, assistant superintendent of Vocational Education, presented the state plan for vocational education at the workshop.

Dr. Curtis Phipps serves as director of the Division of Guidance and Social Work, which has 13 consultant-supervisors who serve 900 guidance counselors in schools throughout Kentucky.

Save energy . . . be comfortable.

Your fuel costs may be going through the roof. Literally.

While you heat the inside of your home, you may be heating the outside, too.

But preventing that is easier said than done. We have a plan to make doing it almost as easy as talking about it.

We call it our Insulate Now, Pay Later Plan.

And this is how it works.

We'll discuss your insulation needs with you. If you need more insulation or if storm doors and windows will help you save energy and dollars, we'll tell you.

Then, after you qualify, we'll lend you the money to help you pay for what you need. Up to $750. With a finance charge calculated at an annual percentage rate of 8%.

So, if you need help keeping your heating and cooling costs under control, give us a call.

Meanwhile, there are some other things you can do on your own.

Watch your thermostat settings.

Seal drafts out with caulking and weatherstripping.

Working together, we can save energy and money. And every bit each of us saves helps us all.

FIRE ANTS CAME BY SHIP?

JACKSON, Miss.—Black fire ants are believed to have arrived in the United States in 1918 aboard a ship from South America. Their cousin, the red fire ant, reached this nation in the early 1930's presumably in the same way. They have multiplied until today 5 to 10 billion of the insects occupy more than 150 million acres in nine Southern states, often the best farmland.

Guild Sets First Annual Meeting

The first annual meeting of the Appalachian Guild of Artists and Craftsmen will be held at 7 p.m. Friday in Room 113 of the Technology building at Prestonsburg Community College.

At that time a new board of directors will be elected; the active members and advisory board will be introduced, and business concerning the Bush Gallery, the coming Fair in conjunction with the Highlands Folk Festival, and future workshops will be discussed.

The Appalachian Guild of Artists and Craftsmen is a non-profit corporation formed this year by area artisans. The Guild hopes to provide a sales outlet for area artists and craftsmen through the Bush Gallery, an arts and crafts center made possible by Travis Bush, who donated the space, materials, and initial funding for the gallery.

The Guild is open to three kinds of members: Active, individuals or craft centers who wish to exhibit their work; Associate, those who wish to support the Guild; and Honorary, those who contribute financially or in an advisory capacity to the Guild. Any wishing to become an active member must first submit samples of his or her work to a screening committee. Those interested in membership in the Guild may contact the Bush Gallery on Rt. 23 north of Prestonsburg, telephone 886-2211.

9% of Floyd County's Population May Be Problem Drinkers

Alcoholism is a growing problem in Floyd county. There are an estimated 3,488 problem drinkers here—which is almost 9 per cent of the county's estimated population.

This Eastern Kentucky area has five percent of the state's population, yet comprises 10 per cent of the state's arrest for public intoxication.

A weekly column entitled "Talking About Alcohol," appearing next week, will explore alcoholism—its history and effects.

The featured article, presented by Mountain Comprehensive Care Center, will also explain alcohol abuse, prevention programs and counseling services offered by the agency.

Anita Webb, public information specialist at MCCC, will write the column. A spring graduate of Morehead State University, she is the niece of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Webb, of Allen.

R/S: Simply Outlast It

You've got a cold. Probably because you were run down in the first place, and your office is drafty. So you dose up on Vitamin C, try a drugstore colds remedy, drink plenty of fluids and stay in bed a couple of days. Guess what: According to the September Reader's Digest you won't get any better any faster than someone who does none of these things.

In fact, scientists can't find any evidence that getting run-down or placing yourself in the path of a draft affects your catching cold in the first place. The perpetrator of the common cold is the rhinovirus—entering through the nose. There are more than 100 types already identified, which explains why no vaccine has been developed. What scientists do know is that its protective armor is so tough that it can live in temperatures of -200 degrees F. and can survive a crushing force 100,000 times the force of gravity.

There is some truth to the fact that people who travel catch colds easily; that's because they meet new strains of the virus in their travels. And chronic cold-catchers usually have some physical difficulty, such as clogged Eustachian tubes or sinus problems. You're in trouble if you sleep with your mouth open, too, because the membrane linings are more susceptible to the virus when they are dry.

One virologist explains how he handles his own colds: "In my line I get a lot of colds," he says. "I don't do anything to treat them."

HOWARD REUNION TO BE HELD SUNDAY

The 13th annual Howard family reunion will be held at Archer Park here all day Sunday, September 4. Everyone connected with the John Howard family is invited to attend. Everyone will bring their dinner.

Boy's Insanity Laid To Violence on TV

MIAMI—A teen-ager charged with killing his elderly neighbor during a robbery, had gone insane from seeing too much violence in television crime shows, his attorney said yesterday.

"His explanation of the crime was exactly what I had seen on a 'Kojak' episode a year earlier," Miami attorney Ellis Rubin said in an interview. "Ronney became intoxicated with the TV dramas and lived them as if they were his own life."

Rubin, in a pretrial brief filed in circuit court, characterized his 15-year-old client as an ardent television fan whose constant viewing led to insanity.

Rubin said the boy had been disciplined by his parents for watching too many crime shows on television "but defied them."

"When his parents would come home from work, they would find him on the floor watching TV," Rubin said.

Laird Says Coal Is Over-Regulated

The federal government policy is largely responsible for America's energy problem, according to former Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird. He contends that to solve the problem it has created, the government now must liberate private industry to utilize energy technology and resources which the nation possesses in abundance.

Laird's contentions, which appear in the September Reader's Digest, result from a two-year bipartisan study he directed under sponsorship of the American Enterprise Institute. The supply of domestic energy dwindles while dependency upon imports grows because of artificial pricing and a mish-mash of conflicting standards imposed by government, Laird writes.

Saying that President Carter's call for conservation should not be ignored, he also points out that "conservation alone is a slow walk down a dead-end street." The U.S. has plentiful supplies of energy—enough to meet present needs and future ones, he asserts: an estimated 920 trillion cubic feet of natural gas—enough to last 45 years at least; about 160 billion barrels oil, sufficient to last into the next century; at least 220 billion tons of recoverable coal. "Converted into gas and even gasoline, burned with new clean technology, coal alone could supply our energy needs for several centuries," Laird declares.

But industry, hobbled by artificial government pricing regulations is not developing its resources. Because the Federal Power Commission sets the price of gas moving through interstate pipelines (but not the price within the producing state)—and has set it artificially low—drillers have had little economic incentive to develop new fields. In Texas, a producing and thus non-regulated state, the price of natural gas rose from 75 cents per thousand cubic feet to a high of $2.20. But the high price motivated the development of 2000 new wells; the increased supply drove the price down to $1.76. "Texans watched their thermostats more closely," Laird notes, "but they had the gas to conserve." It was Texas that supplied additional gas (at the going market price) during last winter's shortage.

The same story applies to oil resources as well. An "entitlement" ticket added to the price of domestic crude makes it as expensive as OPEC oil to refine. Thus cash incentive for domestic well development is small. Says Laird: "A study by Robert E. Hall and Robert S. Pindyck of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology shows persuasively that if we would simply let the price of crude go to the world, or market, level, there would be a dramatic lessening of our dependence on foreign oil."

The most abundant supply of energy lies in America's coal fields. But Laird says that "King Coal" has been so whipsawed by federal regulatory and environmental policy and priced out of competition by unrealistically cheap gas that the industry now presents us with serious problems of resuscitation... The failure of the federal government to make the crucial environmental-energy trade-offs necessary to bring about greater use of coal is in no small part the result of both Congress and the Executive Branch treating energy and environmental policy separately."

Calling for deregulation of gas and oil prices, extensive leasing and development of oil and gas on the outer continental shelf, and briefer, less complicated environmental studies, the former Defense Secretary states: "We will not solve our energy 'crisis' until we perceive clearly that we are dealing with shortages manufactured by governmental policy—controlled prices and continuing disincentives to expanded production of known domestic gas, oil and coal supplies that would easily supply us until the transition to future energy alternatives. Government has created the problem, and we as citizens must direct government to correct it."

A PERMANENT UNIT within the Labor-Management Services Administration to provide technical assistance and advice to officials responsible for conducting major union elections was created by Secretary of Labor Ray Marshall. The unit will help prevent the overturning of union elections due to technicalities, thereby saving money for both the unions involved and the government.

Participate in Career Ed. Workshop

The workshop was sponsored by the Floyd County Board of Education in its support of implementing a comprehensive career education program in kindergarten through grade twelve in the Floyd county schools.

Career Education is designed to make education more responsive to ever changing individual and social needs, increase the relevance of educational practices, and insure greater success in the pursuit of life roles for all students. It is presented with information, activities and guidance in the areas of basic learning and academic skill development, self and career awareness.

The five-day workshop, under the direction of Ronald L. Hager, assistant superintendent for instruction, personnel from the Division of Guidance Services, State Department of Education, and personnel from Morehead State University was attended by thirty-one Floyd county teachers and administrators. By their participation in the workshop, the teachers and administrators will be able to serve as Career Education consultants within their respective schools and provide coordination and training of their fellow staff members through in-service programs.

Teachers and administrators participating in the workshop were:

Stephen Halbert, Allen Central, Phyllis Craft, Allen Elementary, Carl Horn, Auxier Elementary, Alice Williams, Gwen Hammonds, and Elizabeth Jones, Betsy Layne, Louise Howard and Anne Dickerson, Clark Elementary, Danny O'Quinn and Helen Martin, Garrett Elementary, Glenna Allen, Harold Elementary, Pamela Wohlford and Vivian Barnett, Martin Elementary, Doris Robinson, Maytown Elementary, Johnny Stumbo, Sally Miller and Robert Hall, McDowell, Inez Owens, Melvin Elementary, Treva Newman and Virginia Jamerson, Osborne Elementary, Sharon Stumbo, Edgar Craft and Sarah Clay Archer, Prestonsburg H. S., Ruth Blanton and Connie Tackett, Prestonsburg Elementary, Denver Newsome and Hayes Hamilton, Stumbo Elementary, Brent Allen, Wheelwright H.S., Anna Sue Stumbo, Larry D. Jervis and Ulysses Horne, supervisors from the Board of Education.

Kentucky Afield

By JOHN WILSON

A check with Kentucky's conservation officers indicates that opening week-end squirrel hunters found squirrel populations higher than last year in eight of the state's nine wildlife districts.

Reports from 115 of Kentucky's 120 counties show conservation officers checked 2,772 hunters, who had taken 5,313 squirrels during the first two days of hunting. When encountered by the officers, 251 hunters had harvested their limit of six squirrels each.

But 76 of the hunters checked over the two day period found themselves in violation of the commonwealth's game laws and were issued citations.

Only in the Fifth Wildlife District did the officers feel that the squirrel population was the same as last year. All other districts reported an increase. The fifth district is comprised of 13 counties in the Covington area.

Squirrel populations seem particularly high in Eastern Kentucky, where the abundant forest lands provide excellent habitat for squirrels. The extreme western counties of Kentucky also reported a high hunter harvest.

From its Aug. 20 opening date, Kentucky's squirrel season will run through Oct. 31, then re-open Nov. 17 (the opening of the statewide small game seasons). Except for a three-day closure (Dec. 3 through Dec. 5) for the second portion of the statewide gun deer season, squirrels may be hunted through Dec. 31.

Many hunters feel that they have better luck later in the season, when the leaves have fallen and the squirrels are usually more concentrated near stands of those trees, such as oaks and beech, which provide much of their food.

Pignut hickories are ripe in some areas now and squirrels are feeding on them. Another favorite early season food is buckeyes, and experienced hunters also know that at this time of year squirrels can sometimes be found in or around cornfields.

But generally, squirrels are scattered now and the hunter who hopes to get his limit has to do a lot of walking, stalking and looking. Shotguns are usually more effective early in the season, while late season hunters often choose a .22 caliber rifle. Squirrel hunters may not use any breech loading rifle of .240 caliber or larger, but those who hunt frontier style with muzzle loaders may use any caliber.

Hunters who are having difficulties finding good hunting areas are invited to visit one of Kentucky's many public hunting areas. A list of these areas can be obtained by writing the Division of Public Relations, Dept. of Fish and Wildlife Resources, Frankfort, Ky. 40601. Ask for the publication titled "Places to Hunt."

$88,119 ARC Grant For Technical Aid To Coal Is Made

Gov. Julian M. Carroll has announced that an $88,119 Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) grant has been awarded for technical assistance to the coal industry in the Appalachian region of Eastern Kentucky.

The grant, awarded to the Commonwealth of Kentucky, on behalf of the Kentucky Development Cabinet and the Kentucky Center for Energy Research, will help find a project designed to collect, analyze, store and deliver information concerning coal mining and mine reclamation for the Eastern Kentucky coal industry, according to William L. Short, who is Carroll's alternate on the commission.

According to Short, the Institute for Mining and Minerals Research (IMMR) of the University of Kentucky and the faculty of Pikeville College will work together to provide information on coal mining regulations, safety, extraction technology and developments in coal utilization.

"For the most part, Kentucky's coal industry has no information retrieval facilities to gather and use literature pertaining to coal mining, processing and utilization," Short said. "Through this project, library facilities will be made available and extension services provided to deliver this information to the coal industry."

The total cost of the project is $135,568. IMMR will provide $34,160, and Pikeville College will provide $13,289.

Ordinance No. 77-002
An Ordinance for the City of Wheelwright, Kentucky establishing a curfew for juveniles within the Corporate City Limits.

WHEREAS, it has come to the attention of the Board of Trustees of Wheelwright, Kentucky that there exists a problem with regard to juveniles remaining on the streets of the city at all hours of the night. This behavior on the part of juveniles disrupts and disturbs the peace of the city creating a police problem in the city.

WHEREAS, it is an expressed power of a city of the sixth class to provide for the safety and well-being of its citizens under authority of the Kentucky Revised Statutes.

NOW, THEREFORE, be it ordained by the Board of Trustees of the City of Wheelwright, Kentucky:

Section 1: All persons under 18 years of age will be required to be off the streets within the corporate city limits by curfew time as noted below unless accompanied by a legal guardian. This includes all public buildings, public recreational facilities, private commercial facilities (without the permission of the owner), streets, and public sidewalks within the city.

The curfew is hereby established as follows:
Sunday thru Thursday 11:00 p.m.
Friday thru Saturday 12:01 a.m. (midnight)

Section 2: The penalty for violation of this ordinance will be prescribed by the appropriate judicial body with jurisdiction in juvenile matters. Penalties are to be in consonance with the common and criminal law.

Section 3: All ordinances or parts of ordinances in conflict herewith are hereby repealed, and this ordinance shall take effect on the date of adoption and publication of this ordinance.

Section 4—Exceptions to this ordinance are those situations brought about by organized school trips for educational, athletic, or cultural benefit reasons.

Music, Yoga Courses, Prepared Childbirth Class Are Offered

Studio lessons in guitar, violin, viola, cello string bass, banjo, voice and other musical instruments will be taught at Prestonsburg Community College this fall. For those interested in taking individual lessons without college credit, there will be a meeting in Room J-155 of the Administration Building on Thursday, September 8, at 6:30 p.m. In addition to the studio lessons, there will be two classes in beginning guitar, one on Tuesday, the other on Thursday, from 7 to 8 p.m. on either night, beginning September 6 and 8 respectively.

Beginning September 6 and continuing through October 13, a Hatha Yoga class will be taught by Clay Goebeler, and it will meet twice each week on Tuesday and Thursday from 7:30 to 9 p.m. in the Student Center. The class is open to beginners and those with some experience in yoga. Participants must be at least 12 years or older.

For registration information on these and other Community Service Classes, contact the Office of Community Services, Prestonsburg Community College; telephone: 886-3863 ext. 243.

The Community Service Office will begin another class in Prepared Childbirth conducted by Mrs. Jean Rosenberg and Mrs. Donna Goebeler. The class will meet on Wednesdays, beginning September 7, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the Floyd County Library and will continue for six consecutive Wednesdays. The six training sessions for husbands and wives will include techniques of prepared childbirth, conditioning exercise, and discussions on the process of labor and delivery. For more information on any of these programs, contact the Community Service Office, 886-3863, Ext. 243.

FELLOWSHIP REVIVAL SET

A fellowship revival will be held, Sept. 4-10, at the Cliff Free Will Baptist Church, it was announced this week. Special singing will also be featured at each of the services which will begin at 7 o'clock nightly.

Kentucky Woman Becomes District Judge in Texas

Naomi Childers Harney, native of Ashland and daughter of former Floyd countians, tomorrow (Thursday) will become judge of the new 251st judicial district, Texas.

To accept the district judgeship to which she was appointed by Texas Governor Dolph Briscoe, Judge Harney has resigned the post of judge of the Potter county court at law to which she was elected in 1974.

Before that, she was elected for four consecutive terms as county attorney of Potter county after serving as assistant district attorney and assistant Amarillo city attorney. She was the second Texas woman to be elected to a prosecutor office.

As district judge she will hear civil cases and felony trials.

Judge Harney is a daughter of Mrs. Myrtle Allen Childers, of Ashland, and the late Guy E. Childers. She is a granddaughter of the late Rev. and Mrs. Alex L. Allen, for many years residents of Allen.

She holds a doctor of jurisprudence degree from the University of Houston law school and a bachelor's degree in sociology from the University of Texas. Judge Harney began the practice of law in 1957.

BIBLICAL ACCOUNTS of the Flood are strikingly similar to legends of other cultures—from the Hopi Indians in the American Southwest to the Incas in the Peruvian Andes. Yet scientists have generally assumed the Deluge was local in scope, not universal. But the September Reader's Digest theorizes that a sudden melting of the ice caps in America and Europe could have produced a sea-level rise that circled the globe and produced a worldwide flood.

$1.7 Million Grant Approved by ARC

Gov. Julian Carroll has announced that a $1.75 million Appalachian Regional Commission grant has been approved for the Kentucky Appalachian Housing Program and Fund.

According to Development Secretary William Short, Carroll's alternate on the commission, this program will serve to "stimulate the construction and rehabilitation of housing for low and moderate income families and individuals in Appalachian Kentucky."

Under the application the Kentucky Development Cabinet, the grant recipient, will subcontract with the Kentucky Housing Corp. (KHC) for implementation of the program, said Short.

Program goals include the provision of training to both KHC and Area Development District personnel in housing administration; the employment of a housing consultant to assist housing project sponsors in various phases of project development and implementation; funding of a field office and staff located at Hazard and funding of the staff and administration of expenses of regional non-profit housing corporations located in the Big Sandy, Bluegrass, FIVCO and Gateway Area Development Districts.

"Plans are that eventually all nine of Kentucky's Appalachian Area Development Districts will receive funds under the housing program, then, ultimately, funding of all the ADD's in the Commonwealth, using other funds in the non-Appalachian counties," Short said.

Each of the regional non-profit housing corporations will operate under the guidance of the KHC, Short said, but will be governed by a locally appointed board of directors.

The KHC also expects to fund the Human Economic Appalachian Development Corp. (HEAD), which, according to Short is a coalition of central Appalachian church-related self-help groups designed to "provide housing-oriented technical training and marketing services and to promote development of low and moderate income housing in Central Appalachia."

The Kentucky Appalachian Housing Program and Fund will also supply funds for the establishment of a direct, uninsured construction loan fund for single-family homes in Kentucky's Appalachian areas, Short said.

"This will constitute a new use of ARC's energy-enterprise development funds," Short said.

A particular advantage of the construction loan fund, according to Short, is that it will not be restricted to low or moderate income housing exclusively, but can also be used for construction of housing for coal miners in cases where the costs of such housing would exceed federal and state low and moderate income definitions and where no other source of income is available.

"This $1.75 million grant will have a major impact on Kentucky's Appalachian counties," Short said, "and represents the largest housing program Kentucky has ever undertaken with ARC funds."

"It is a vital step in our work toward development of more and better services and a better way of life for Kentuckians living in the Appalachian area," he concluded.

Hambley and Dotson On Hospital Board

Dr. William C. Hambley, mayor of Pikeville, and Herman G. Dotson, Pikeville attorney, are new members of the board of directors of the Pikeville Methodist Hospital.

Dr. Hambley, a general and thoracic surgeon, was born in Pikeville, and is a son of Mrs. Myrtle Hambley and the late W. C. Hambley. He was graduated from Pikeville College Academy and attended Pikeville Junior College, received a B.S. degree from the University of Notre Dame and his M.D. degree and an M.S. degree in anatomy from Northwestern University.

Dotson, a native of Phelps, is a son of the late Dr. William A. Dotson and Nora Barrett Dotson, who resided in Pike county their entire lives. He is a graduate of Kentucky Military Institute, attended Duke University and the University of Kentucky, receiving from UK the A. B. and law degrees and began the practice of law in 1939.

Kentucky To Solicit More Foreign Investment

With hopes of recruiting more foreign investment into Kentucky, state Commerce Commissioner W. Terry McBrayer will leave Sept. 2 on an eight-day journey to Europe, commerce department officials said Monday.

McBrayer will conduct talks with business and governmental leaders in Switzerland, Germany and Belgium. During his stopover in Belgium, McBrayer will conduct meetings in Kentucky's commerce department office in Brussels.

"We must take advantage of the vast opportunities that await us overseas," McBrayer said. "Statistics show that within the next 20 years, 80 percent of all capital investment made in the world will be made right here in the United States. That's why we've been stepping up our efforts to attract more foreign investment," McBrayer added.

McBrayer has scheduled meetings with European business prospects who are considering industrial investment in Kentucky.

"I'm prepared to answer any questions the foreign industrialists have about Kentucky," McBrayer said. "I won't sit idly by while other states lure foreign investment. I'm going to Europe to assure that Kentucky gets a piece of that action."

Johnson Man Asks PSC Help

John Kimbrough is in a lonely area, a stretch of the Big Sandy River near Tutor Key where he operates John's Sand and Coal Co.

But Kimbrough doesn't have a telephone, and his difficulty in getting one has led his attorney to turn to the state Public Service Commission and the newspapers for help.

Kimbrough's attorney, Eugene Rice, of Paintsville, said the coal operator applied for service in "October or November of 1976."

Kimbrough was "continuously promised" service but didn't get it, Rice said. After turning to Rice, Kimbrough was told he would have service by July 2 or 3. But those dates passed, and he still had no phone, Rice said.

After more requests, South Central Bell now has promised service by Oct. 14, he added.

But a spokesman in the Louisville office of South Central Bell tells a slightly different story. The spokesman said Kimbrough's application was received Dec. 14, 1976, and a contract engineer was assigned to plan a new line to the "very remote" area.

By March, the route had been mapped out, but the April flood destroyed prints and notes in an engineering office, he continued.

The job was reassigned to the contract engineer, but plans were changed twice, the spokesman said. The first revision was made to include a proposed trailer development in the new telephone line, and a second change was made because a coal company was using part of the original route as a landfill, he said.

Engineering work was completed Aug. 2, at which point it normally takes "six to nine months" to complete such a job, the spokesman said.

But, because of Kimbrough's predicament, the job will be "expedited" for completion by Oct. 14, the spokesman said.

The job involves extending a phone line about a mile and a half at an estimated cost of $3,300, the spokesman said. Kimbrough will pay $600 of that amount as a construction charge.

In an Aug. 10 letter to the Public Service Commission, with a copy to The Courier-Journal, Rice asked the commission to investigate.

On Aug. 15, the commission asked South Central Bell for an explanation of the situation but has not yet received a reply.

Kimbrough could not be reached for comment.

WHITE-WATER RIVER rafting got its start when the end of World War II left a surplus of neoprene life rafts. Today, notes the September Reader's Digest, there are more than 125 professional outfitters running river trips with experienced guides. From placid passages to plunging rapids, there's rafting for beginners to experts. The Department of the Interior can provide you with a list.

RALPH STANLEY AND THE CLINCH MOUNTAIN BOYS lead the "Bluegrass Bluegrass" repeat schedule on KET Saturday, September 3 at 10 p.m. (ET), 9 p.m. (CT). Their repertoire includes traditional bluegrass, newer bluegrass and bluegrass gospel. Pictured is "Curly" Ray Cline, of Rockhouse (Pike county), well-known fiddler for the Clinch Mountain Boys.

Hughes To Oppose Friend For Post of Majority Whip

State Senator Lowell D. Hughes, of Ashland, formerly of Prestonsburg, wants to be majority whip at the 1978 Kentucky General Assembly.

He is challenging Sen. Kelsey D. Friend, of Pikeville, and the control exercised over the General Assembly by Gov. Julian Carroll.

In another power struggle to free the legislature of Carroll's influence, Sen. John Berry, D-New Castle, is trying to unseat Sen. Pat McCusick, D-Pembroke from his job as assistant president protem.

Hughes, who represents Boyd, Lawrence and Martin counties, and two precincts in Floyd was quoted recently in the Louisville Courier-Journal that he wants to make the Senate "more independent" of the governor's office.

"I advised the governor what I was going to do. And he suggested that he doubted it was a good idea. The indication was, 'We had a good session last time with the leadership we have, so why change a good thing?'" Hughes told the Courier-Journal.

Friend, in a separate interview, said he did not know what was on Hughes' mind.

The majority whip is elected by members of the controlling party. His major duties are explaining and promoting party or administration bills, plus his committee assignments.

Party leadership-floor leader, caucus chairman and whip for the 1978 General Assembly will be decided at the pre-legislative conference this December.

Hughes, 39, midway through his first term, said he is "not bucking the administration by design" in attempting to unseat Friend, who is a six-year veteran of the Senate.

"I'm assuming that the administration prefers that I not be in the race," Hughes said. "I want the job because I feel the person in it should assume the responsibility of being informed so he can explain and promote administration bills; I don't feel that that has been done."

Hughes and Friend were on opposite sides of the legislative fight to overhaul the workmen's compensation law during the special session in December 1976.

Hughes said his move is also to "make the Senate more independent than it was in the past."

ARISTOCRATIC TWANG

LEEDS, England—If you are not born into the British aristocracy, you will never learn to speak the way they do.

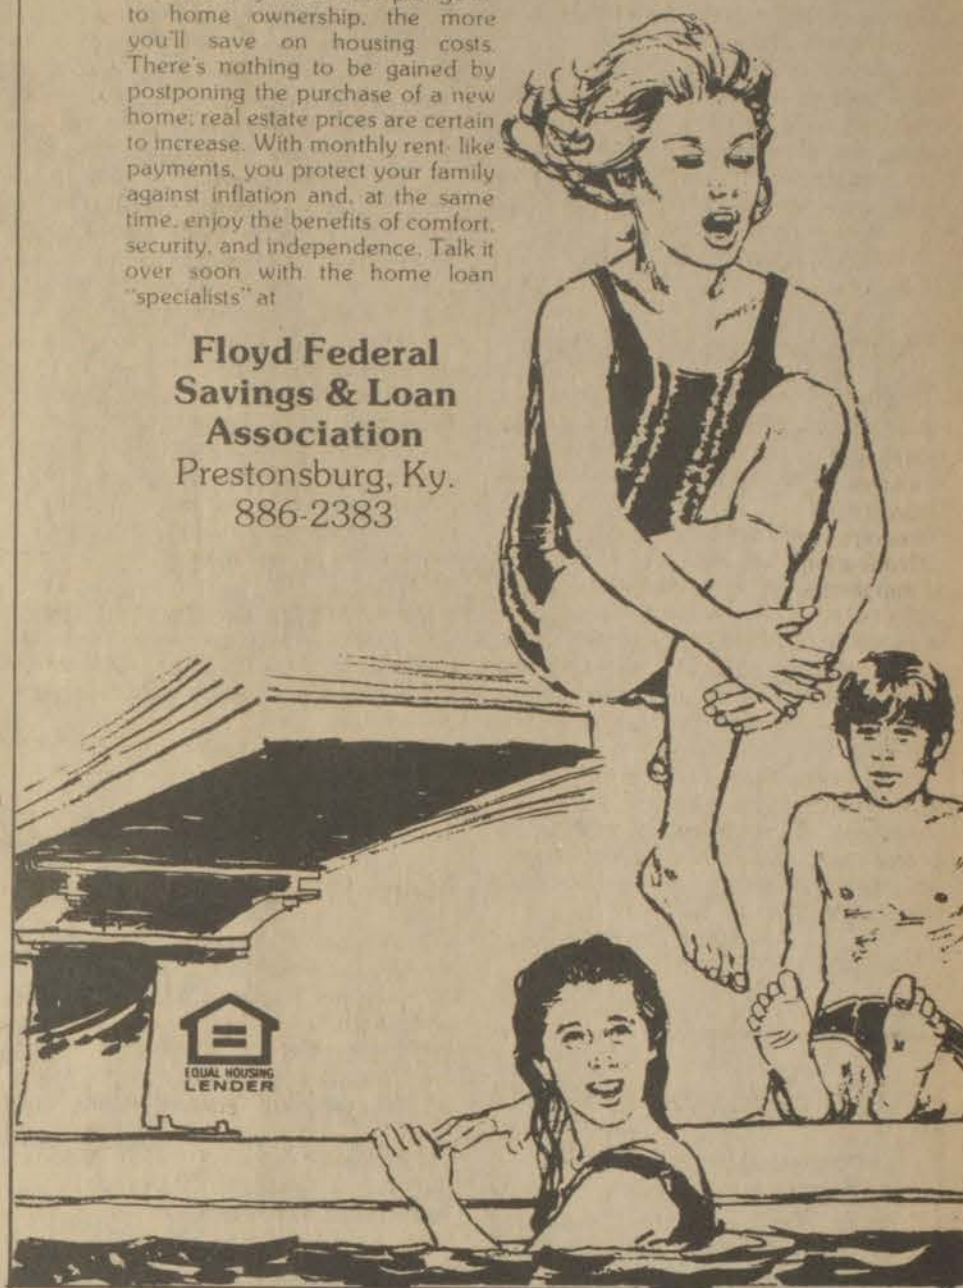

That is the conclusion of a British linguistics specialist, Dr. Arnold Spector, who says the aristocracy uses its abdomen and back muscles to get the particular vocal twang it does.

Dr. Spector told an international conference on the teaching of spoken English that only the Koreans are able to get anywhere near the same sound.

Go ahead, take the plunge.

The sooner you take the plunge in to home ownership, the more you'll save on housing costs. There's nothing to be gained by postponing the purchase of a new home; real estate prices are certain to increase. With monthly rent-like payments, you protect your family against inflation and, at the same time, enjoy the benefits of comfort, security, and independence.
