Music Drowning Second at Lake In 10-Day Period

The Memorial Day drowning of a Prestonsburg man was the second such tragedy to occur at Dewey Lake within the last 10 days.

The victim, Stephen Music, drowned shortly after 1 p.m. while swimming in the tragedy-marked Stratton Branch beach area. His body was recovered about an hour later by the Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad.

The drowning occurred in the presence of a large holiday crowd. Coroner James J. Carter, who conducted an inquest, said he was told by Dallas Dillon, of Sugar Loaf, a friend of the victim, that he and Music swam across the Stratton Branch arm of the lake to the steep hillside, that Music then jumped back into the water and had swam about 20 feet when he began struggling. Dillon said he attempted to rescue him and contrived to grasp Music's arm but that his hold slipped. His attempt to locate Music beneath the water failed.

Sixteen-year-old Quentin Adkins, Jr., of Galveston, drowned May 21 in the German bridge area of the lake. The Stratton Branch area has had more drownings than any other section of the impoundment.

A son of Elija and Ellen Hamilton Music, of David, the victim was born in Johnson county Oct. 29, 1956. He was employed by the Stone Meat Company. Surviving, besides his parents, are his widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Knott Music, and one son, Kevin Michael, of Prestonsburg; four brothers and four sisters, Thomas, Richard, Larry and James Music, all of David, Mrs. Merline Lafferty and Mrs. Helen DeLong, both of Van Lear, Nolita and Gwen Music, both of David.

His funeral will be conducted at 10:30 a.m. Thursday from the chapel of the Jones-Preston Funeral Home, Paintsville, by the Rev. J. H. Short.

LO AND BEHOLD!—A HOLIDAY ON FRIDAY

To say anything against Memorial Day would be as tactless as assailing motherhood, and we can attract enough vitriol without trying that hard. Truth is, all these holidays are all right. I would have said they're all great but for the fact that the powers that be have maneuvered them around till most of them fall on a Monday. Which leaves my gang and me out. We have to work while others frolic and gambol. And working on a holiday wouldn't be all that bad if, as others, a-frolicking and a-gambolling, didn't lock up and take off and leave us to look on closed doors as we try to scrape up a bit of news or even a mite of business. Think I'll fly a Rebel flag, come Confederate Day—it's on a Friday.

ELECTION LAW

This is straight out of KRS 117.235 (pertaining to the conduct of elections): "No person shall do any electioneering at the polling place on election day unless the fiscal court or legislative body of an urban-county government specifically authorizes by ordinance on a countywide basis electioneering and establishes the distance from the polling place where such electioneering may be permitted, but in no case shall electioneering be

Regional Air Board Hires Consultants

The establishing of a regional airport to serve Floyd and three surrounding counties came nearer reality over the past week as the Big Sandy Regional Airport Board appointed a Lexington consulting firm to make formal application for funds which will provide for the formulation of a "master plan" for the airport.

The board chose G. Reynolds Watkins, Consulting Engineers, Inc. at a meeting last Wednesday after previous interviews with numerous other consulting firms from several states. Although a brief, preliminary request for funding submitted by the board had been approved, it will be the Lexington firm's responsibility to submit a complete and formal application for the necessary federal money.

The airport master plan would be compiled by the consulting engineers and would take into consideration such factors as area population, available transportation and environmental impact. Ultimate recommendations on site selection would come as a result of the firm's findings.

Board Chairman Allen M. Perry, of Paintsville, stressed the importance of the consulting firm's site recommendations, pointing out that while a number of individuals from the counties involved have suggested site locations, only the findings of the master plan could determine suitability in terms of such considerations as approach clearance and wind direction. "Someone may contend he knows of the ideal location for an airport," Perry said, "but if you can't land an airplane on it safely, then it's no good at all."

Perry said aerial photographic studies of the four-county area will be made to explore all potential site locations in addition to a number of sites which the board has already considered. Completion of the master plan would take from 10 months to a year for completion, Perry said.

Martin Work Could Have Saved $2.9 Million Damages, Claim

The flood protection project proposed for the town of Martin would have reduced the crest of the April flood by 5.8 feet and would have saved about $2,900,000 in flood damages, Lt. Col. Samuel L. Britten, acting district engineer, U.S. Corps of Engineers, Huntington, W. Va., wrote County Attorney Harold J. Stumbo last week.

The information was supplied in response to a letter Stumbo had written Congressman Carl D. Perkins, who in turn had referred the inquiry to the Corps of Engineers.

The district engineer said data available at his office indicates that the April flood caused approximately $3,600,000 damage.

In addition to the floods of 1957 and 1977, he said damage-causing flooding also occurred there in 1939, 1955, 1958, 1962, 1963 and 1967.

Lt. Col. Britten added that a flood stage at Martin of major damage proportions occurs on an average of every five years but that completion of the stream improvement project would change the recurrence of such floods to one every 35 years. He added that the frequency of floods such as that of 1957 would, if the project were completed, change from every 35 years to approximately every 200 years.

Although the 1957 flood was listed as the highest of record, unofficial records indicate that the flood last April crested about one foot higher, Britten said.

Work on the project awaits negotiations for easements over holdings of owners of property along the stream.

Native of Wayland Among 160 Victims of Club Blaze

One of the 160 known dead in the fire which swept the Beverly Hills Supper Club at Southgate, Ky. last Saturday night was a native of this county.

Besides the dead, 74 were injured in what is described as "the worst disaster in Kentucky history."

The native of this county who lost her life was Mrs. Helen Wright Floyd, 61, of Ashland, who was born at Wayland, the daughter of the late C. G. and Virginia Cochrane Wright. She was the retired co-owner of the Twin Realty Company in Ashland. Her survivors were listed as two sons, David Floyd, of Ashland, and Jack Floyd, Arlington, Va.; three brothers, Claude Morton Wright, of Bellefonte, C. G. Wright, Byrdstown, Tenn., and Joseph Wright, Oroville, California.

Mrs. Floyd was one of 13 residents of the Ashland-Catlettsburg area to die in the blaze. All were members of a Tri-

State Roadrunners Travel Club party to go to Southgate that day to hear singer John Davidson in a performance at the swank Beverly Hills. An estimated 1,200 persons were in the building when the fire was reported.

A Cincinnati fireman told of bodies being stacked "six and seven feet high," and one said, "I've counted bodies in rice paddies in Vietnam, but I've never seen anything like this."

Governor Carroll has proclaimed the month of June as an official state period of mourning for the victims. All flags in the state will be flown at half-mast throughout the month.

Other Ashland-Catlettsburg victims were Charlotte Burns, Robert Burns, Maxine Butler, Roy Butler, Orville Coulter, Virginia Fitch, Ruth J. John, Dorothy Polley, Marian Adkins, George Polley, Maymie Louise Rist, Charles Rist,

Bond Sale To Finance KY 80 OK'd

Contract Awarding On Part of Route Expected in Month

Revenue bonds totalling $212 million to finance reconstruction of KY 80 from Water Gap to Hazard are on sale and the first contract on the 42-mile, four-lane route is scheduled late this month or early next.

Sale of the bonds was awarded last Friday by the Kentucky Turnpike Authority to Blyth, Eastman, Dillon & Co., of New York, and will be handled by the firm's Kentucky manager, Dupree & Co., of Lexington. The sale was authorized at a net interest cost of 6.025 per cent.

Governor Carroll had aimed at ribbon-cutting on the road by the end of his term, but this will be possible only on a segment of the route, since it is estimated that 40 months will be required for completion of the entire highway after construction begins.

The road bonds, 1977 Series A, were authorized by the 1976 General Assembly as part of Gov. Julian Carroll's coal severance tax package and the bonds will be secured with funds from the 4.5 per cent severance tax.

Portions of the coal severance tax were also earmarked for return to the coal producing counties for local development, but the Louisville law firm of Grafton, Fleischer, Tarrant, Combs & Bullitt has advised the Turnpike Authority that the tax must first go to back up the bonds and potentially all of the severance tax could be used for that purpose.

A total of $120.9 million of the bonds will be term bonds sold at 9.05 per cent interest with a maturity date of 2007. The other $92 million will be sold in serial bonds with varying maturity dates between 1979 and 1996 at interest rates ranging from 4.25 per cent to 5.8 per cent.

The total cost of the project from design through final construction is $198.7 million, with an additional $27 million going to capitalized interest, a debt service reserve fund and the discount and cost of issuance of the bonds. A total of $13 million of that is

Shotgun Blast Fatal to Hicks, Shepherd Held

Darrell R. Hicks, 24, was fatally wounded by a shotgun blast in an exchange of shots with Kenneth Shepherd near his father's home on the Open Fork of Middle Creek, near David, late last Friday afternoon.

Shepherd, who was jailed here by State Detective Kenneth Deboard, was shot through his left forearm by a bullet from a .22-calibre rifle.

Hicks was a passenger in an auto driven by Richard Music, who had stopped or slowed to turn from the highway onto the driveway of Hicks' father, Carl Hicks, when the auto occupied by Shepherd and three others arrived. Authorities have received conflicting reports about who fired first. They quoted Music as saying Shepherd first fired the shotgun at close range through the windshield of Music's car, the main charge entering the victim's left arm and scattered pellets entering his chest.

The prisoner and others contend that Hicks first opened fire on him.

Two Democratic candidates who lost nomination in the May 24 primary balloting have filed with the Floyd County Election Commission requests for a recount of the voting machines and a recount of absentee ballots.

Joe Helton, chairman of the election commission, said a third candidate may have made a similar request by mail which has not yet reached him. He added that the commission will meet at 10 a.m. tomorrow (Thursday) to do the requested work.

One of the requests was lodged by Sandy Boyd, who lost the Democratic nomination for Magistrate in District 4 to Elder Hershell Hamilton by 19 votes. The other was filed by Henry Hale, who lost to Doug Lewis for Sheriff by 152 votes.

The highest number of absentee ballots cast in the primary was 342, in the race for the Democratic nomination for sheriff.

The vote totals in all primary races, including absentee ballots, follow:

For District Judge—Jarvis Allen, 2,235; Harold Stumbo, 5,462; Scott Collins, 2,715.

Stumbo and Collins will be the candidates for the office in the November finals. (The Times last week erroneously gave the vote total of Stumbo as 6,462.)

Death of Youth Ruled Suicide

The death at Wayland early Monday morning of 15-year-old Byron Keith Bentley, of Cleveland, O., was adjudged by a jury empanelled by Coroner James J. Carter the result of a self-inflicted bullet wound.

The youth was found fatally wounded, about 2 a.m., by his aunt, Mrs. Novella Froman, at whose home he had been visiting. He had been shot in the left temple by a bullet from a .22-calibre target pistol.

The tragedy was investigated by State Detective Gary Rose, County Detective Sam Hale and Coroner Carter. Officers were told the youth "had seemed depressed." He had also been visiting in Wayland his paternal grandparents, Robert and Dova Bentley. He was a graduate of Schall Junior High School, Cleveland.

Survivors include his parents, Bert R. and Louise Combs Bentley, of Cleveland; four brothers and one sister, Barry, James, Quincy and Beverly Bentley, all of Cleveland, and Bennie Bentley, of the Army at Ft. Eustis, Virginia; his paternal grandparents at Wayland his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Tressie Walters, of Drift.

June Held Critical For Blood Supply; Drawing Set June 9

"The month of June is one of the most critical times for the blood supply to your Floyd county hospitals," a Blood Center representative said this week. "With Memorial Day at the beginning and July 4th at the end, it is hard to keep up with the blood needs without help from concerned people who care enough to volunteer to donate."

A Floyd county mobile blood drawing will be held Thursday, June 9 at Kentucky-West Virginia Gas Company here. The hours will be from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The blood drawing is sponsored by Kentucky-West Virginia gas and the Department for Human Resources. These organizations encourage all Floyd counties to give blood on this day to help guarantee that the three Floyd county hospitals have the blood they need during this very critical time.

Residents of Daniels Creek Protest Truck-Caused Dust

Residents of the Daniels Creek section, a short distance downstream from Dewey Dam, last week blocked KY 3 in protest of the heavy dust created by scores of coal trucks which pass their homes daily.

They are demanding that state transportation officials order the badly-damaged road repaired to hold down the dust.

KY 3 was built, a few years ago, as a major highway link between Prestonsburg and Inez but has never amounted to more than a coal-haul road.

Sixty to 70 residents has as of last Thursday manned the picket line for two days. Truckers honored their requests, they said.

There are five or six strip mines on a four mile stretch of KY 3 in Johnson county, all of which haul over the road.

So far, the protesters have stopped only trucks, but Mary Wells, the leader of the group, vowed Friday "to stop everything unless the state highway man comes out here like he said he would. If we don't meet with them, there's nothing going over this road tomorrow."

Her remarks were to a truck driver who had just finished hauling a load of gravel to fill in potholes, yesterday.

The residents along Daniels Creek are hopping mad over the four to six hundred coal trucks that travel past their homes each day.

Harold Reed, an operations engineer in the Pikeville Highway District office, was familiar with KY 3.

"We've done a lot of repair on the road, even last March. But it is broken up again by coal trucks as you know."

Reed said that one of the coal companies that uses the road, Addington Bros. Mining Co., a subsidiary of Ashland Oil Co., had agreed to donate 5,000 gallons of oil which the state will put down this Saturday.

The dust problems on Daniels Creek and neighboring Johns Creek are not a new issue. Picket lines were set up several years ago to dramatize the plight of dust raised by traffic over potholed roads.

"It's the only way we can get something done, and make them pay attention," said Agnes Webb, a picketer.

Fasting: It Works but Is it Healthy?

While large portions of the world struggle with malnutrition and starvation, America is confronted by the reverse problem—increasing obesity. For some the problem is so acute that their health is seriously threatened; when traditional diets fail, where can they turn?

According to the June issue of Reader's Digest, an effective—though controversial—alternative is fasting. Michael Goodwin writes: "Supporters assert that not eating is easier than eating a tantalizing little and that fasting purifies the body, rests the central nervous system, slows the aging process, saves money and improves sex." On the other hand, nutritionist Jean Mayer comments: "I would no sooner ride in a car driven by someone who hadn't eaten in three days than I would with someone who had just had three martinis."

Still, medically supervised fasts supplemented by protein to avoid physical damage have worked. A program at the Mt. Sinai Hospital of Cleveland, Ohio, now has 800 patients actively enrolled and another 2,000 on the waiting list. Their goal is a loss of at least 100 pounds. Under the program the fasters spend the first week in the hospital. They then make weekly visits for checkups and to pick up their protein supplement, returning to the hospital for the last several days of the diet. When the target weight is reached, they're given diets tailored to their activities and their life style, Goodwin reports.

Fasting may be successful in getting weight off, but as many have sadly discovered, keeping it off is quite another matter. Some studies have shown that recidivism for fasters is high—as many as 70 per cent of patients eventually regain their weight.

Yet one Mt. Sinai patient, Sandy Scott, who fasted for 178 days and lost 99 pounds says she is a new person and determined to stay that way. "I've never felt better about myself in my whole life," is Sandy's conclusion.

An Invitation to Fraud

Wholesale voting fraud may not have resulted yet from Kentucky's weak absentee voting regulations, but it will if the law stands unchanged.

The law as it now stands asks no more than that the voter seeking an absentee ballot state that he or she expects to be out of the county on election day. It is now reported that a number of those who "expected" to be absent last Tuesday were at home or driving around, hale and hearty, while others were taking the trouble to travel to the polls and cast their votes.

The mere fact that these absentee voters did not make the "expected" trips does not mean that their voting by absentee ballot was fraudulent, but it could. Some day, some enterprising, well-financed candidate or candidates may concentrate upon locating, say, a thousand or more persons who can be bribed to vote. Each of these could sign the statement to the effect that they expect to be absent, thus get their absentee ballots. Then the candidate or his representative could make a second call on these voters, pay them, pick up the ballots, vote them as they please and mail them to the county clerk for counting at the official vote tabulation.

Thus the buying of votes could be made a procedure as exact and certain of effect as the "chain ballot" which disgraced the old paper ballot system of voting.

Body of Woman Slain in Detroit Buried in Floyd

A former Floyd county woman was killed early Saturday morning when she was struck by two rifle bullets fired by a man who had been ejected from a Detroit bar. The gunman himself later was believed to have been fatally shot.

The victim, 36-year-old Lovora Ousley, had visited her husband, George P. Ousley, in Wayne County General Hospital during Friday evening and was en route home with a woman friend when the latter asked her to go with her into the bar to see her brother. As she sat talking with the woman the gunman entered, firing a fusillade of shots from a .22-calibre rifle.

Shot in the left breast and arm, Mrs. Ousley died in a matter of minutes. The bartender, Bill Johnson, who had dropped to the floor at the entrance of the gunman, who was identified as Gerald Pipgriss, 22, crawled to another room, procured a shotgun and fired on Pipgriss.

A native of McDowell, Mrs. Ousley was a daughter of the late Orville and Caroline Moore Tackett. She was employed as a machine operator by the Fisher Body Company. Survivors include her husband, who is a son of Mr. and Mr. Roe Ousley, of Martin; two sons and three daughters, Randy Ousley and Ronald Ruff, Mrs. Caroline Russell, Misses Nancy and Cheerree Ruff, all of Detroit; and 10 brothers, Harold Tackett, Green and Junior Hall, all of Detroit, Verchell Lynn Tackett, Ashtabula, O., Hillard, Willard, Johnny and Joe Tackett, all of Willard, O., Jerry and Paul Tackett, both of McDowell, and one grandchild.

The body was returned to the Hall Brothers Funeral Home, and funeral rites were conducted at 11 a.m. today (Wednesday) from the Old-Time Regular Baptist Church at Printer by the Rev. Eugene Case. Burial was in the Lucy Hall cemetery at McDowell.

Letters to the Editor

Protest Operation By Coal Company

If you listen to radio, you will hear a brief announcement that says, "We now pause to give thanks." Then you will also hear that in Red China your father or brother may be arrested and you may never see him again.

Well, Floyd county is not much better. Our officials seem to listen only to the big coal companies. They talk of environmental protection by the government, but they also will tell you there isn't much you can do until they knock your house down with a bulldozer. Our county roads have been let to the coal barons. Where your school bus stops used to be, they are no more. They have coal trucks parked along your roads, waiting to unload where the few stops are that are left, and they have little regard for the children. In fact, a few have been run over.

When you call a lawyer or officials of the big companies, you always get the small fry—the higherups are out of town, you are told—and the ones you reach will just tell you, that it "has already been cut and dried, my friend."

They do not even advertise that they are going to construct a coal tippie, siding or anything—just run a bulldozer in and start work. The citizens or landowners have nothing to say. If you would like to see some of this, take old 114, come west of West Prestonsburg and see what Western Kentucky coal barons can do. This has been in the planning three years by the operators and the Fiscal Court.

We also extend our sympathy to the good people of Auxier, where a big company apparently has taken over.

Protest Road Situation

We are writing this letter to let the people of Floyd county know how we have been done by the coal company and the school board.

We did have fine roads to drive on till the coal company came to our area. They have torn the roads up so bad we can't get out in cars and sometime not even trucks.

We live on Route 194 in the Dewey Lake area, above the German Bridge. We have to eat dust every day because the coal trucks have torn black top up so we have nothing but a dirt road now. When it rains it's nothing but a mud hole. You can't get out in a car when it rains.

We have asked the coal company to help fix them, also the state, but we always get the runaround. The state says the coal company is supposed to keep them up. The coal company says the state is suppose to keep them up. So who do we believe, and who's going to fix them, we want to know?

I know a lot of people come up here on the week-end to camp, fish and have time with their families. But who can for the dust, and mud when it rains? Some old people have already left their homes because of the dust.

We are sick of the way we are done. They act like we are nothing. We are nobody to them. They act like we don't even live up here in this area.

We don't have a school bus because of the road condition. We had a driver, but he quit because of the roads.

We have 10 children to go to school, but have no way of getting them there. We can't get a bus driver, so our children are left out.

The ones that are going to school, the parents are taking them. The rest are left out.

The board doesn't care. I, DeAnna Stephen, hauled the children 1½ years for nothing, then they started paying me $175 a month, so I hauled them till I got sick and had to quit almost two years ago. They can't keep a driver because you have to run your own car or truck and not get enough money.

These children that can't get to school are not going to get promoted.

What is Floyd county coming to?

This is the way we are done. Our children do not matter. Their education is not important enough for them to get education like everyone else.

We need help bad because of the road and school bus. Our children need help to get the education that they need.

All of us up here on John's Creek 194 route are going to have white lung. Who cares? We don't matter.

Blames Water Company

Copy of letter which I addressed on May 23 to Barkley Sturgill, of the Public Service Commission, with copies to Governor Carroll and others:

I am writing to you again about my concern over the water problems we have with the Auxier Water Company owned by Forrest Music.

I was unaware of any water problems when I bought my home in September, 1976. However, I quickly became aware of the situation when the water went off during the second week I lived in my home. I contacted one of my neighbors and she informed me that the lack of water and adequate pressure when we did have water was a continuing problem. She told me that she and the previous owner of my house had testified in Frankfort about the condition here in Oaklawn Estates.

Unfortunately, those hearings did not accomplish any permanent improvement in the water. Hardly a week goes by that we are not without water. Sometimes it is for an extended period of time. In January the water was off for nine consecutive days and we had to move out of our home. This May the water went off on May 15 and is still of as of today.

Obviously this condition creates health and fire hazards. I cannot flush my toilets without bringing in water from another area. When the water is off I have to go to my father's house and fill up 30 individual gallon jugs of water to maintain my home for one day.

I have already written quite a few times to the PSC, as have my neighbors. In a letter from Governor Carroll dated May 10, 1977 I learned that the Commission, after public hearing, entered an order on October 1, 1976 directing the company to make a number of improvements including the extension of a six-inch water main and the construction of a supplementary water storage tank. The Commission also ordered the Company to seek an auxiliary source of water with the City of Paintsville (water is now supplied from Prestonsburg).

On November 1, 1976, the Auxier Water Company filed suit against the Commission in the Franklin Circuit Court demanding that the order be set aside. As of this date, the Court has not rendered a decision.

Although the water problem has been worse during this past year it is a condition which has existed for eight years and has been allowed to go unrectified. I find this appalling. On top of that I have had to pay an increase for the inadequate water service I do get.

The purpose of this letter has been to let you know how serious our problem is in Oaklawn Estates. I am offering my services to do whatever I can to change the situation. I am willing to testify on behalf of myself and my neighbors to the Franklin Circuit Court if you think it will help.

When technology has advanced so far that we can put a man on the moon and return him safely to earth I find it impossible to understand why existing water supplies cannot be efficiently distributed within an eight-year time period.

David Regrets Loss

Shekar Narasimhan came to David in September, 1975 from the University of Pittsburgh. He had just graduated from the School of Business and had previously completed a Bachelor of Technology in Chemical Engineering from the Indian Institute of Technology in Delhi, India.

He was instrumental in gaining new sewer and water for David and a planning grant from ARC, also a site development grant for David's first subdivision. He has been the contact between the David Community Development Corporation and all federal, state and county agencies for the past 22 months. The people of David owe much gratitude to Mr. Narasimhan and wish him well on his new venture with the Human Economic Appalachian Development Corp. in Berea.

Dorothy Clark will assume the role of acting director and Ricky Kibbey will be taking on the role of staff planner for the DDCD.

Doctors To Assess Area War on Hunger; Public Meet Slated

A team of doctors sponsored by the Field Foundation will visit several communities in this area next Thursday and Friday to determine how effective government programs have been in relieving malnutrition and hunger.

The team of doctors, headed by Dr. Gordon Harper, of Boston, Mass., accompanied by Dr. James Ashbrook, of Rochester, N. Y., Dr. William Dow, of Vanderbilt University, Dr. William Bickers, of Memphis, Tenn., and Dr. Stanley Sagov, of Harvard University, will conclude their survey with a public hearing at the Martin Grade School gymnasium from 9:30 a.m. until noon Saturday, June 11.

The 10-year follow-up assessment of federally funded programs such as food stamps, school lunch and breakfast, head start, medicare, medicaid, social security, SSI, black lung and others is being made in several other parts of the country.

Many of these programs were formed in an effort to alleviate hunger and malnutrition after it was found in 1967 that many people in this country were suffering from diseases associating with malnutrition which were then thought to exist only in overpopulated and underdeveloped countries.

GOODLOE CHURCH REVIVAL TO BE HELD JUNE 10-12

To the Voters who voted for Foster Porter in District 3:

I sure am not a bit mad at anybody for voting against me. Everybody should vote. My leg that was hurt in a fall is not well yet, so I did not make even one trip, electioneering. I figured I'd better not go out on crutches or a cane, asking for votes for Constable.

We have an important election this fall. Please go out and vote. Then later you see if you made a mistake or not.

JAMES J. CARTER EXPRESSES APPRECIATION

With deep pride and humble heart, I wish to thank you, my many friends, for the overwhelming majority of votes you gave me. Such a victory is a direct indication of the trust and loyalty you feel for me. It is for such trust and loyalty that I wish to thank each of you—and I am most grateful for your support.

It has been said a man's worth is measured by his friends, so it makes me very humble indeed to realize by what overwhelming means you have shown me. We are blessed by our many friends and you have truly blessed me by your loyalty.

So I say again—Thanks to each of you for the victory you made possible.

Troop 27 Wins Camporee Honors

Two patrols of the Prestonsburg Boy Scout Troop 27 distinguished themselves recently during competition at the Lonesome Pine Council's annual spring camporee held this year at Breaks Interstate Park.

For the first time in the camporee's long history a Tenderfoot patrol (the beginning rank in scouting), Troop 27's Cobra Patrol, took top honors in camporee competition which included 350 scouts in 22 troops and approximately 50 patrols from the thirteen counties included in the Lonesome Pine Council of the Boy Scouts of America.

"This was what we call our 'Cinderella' patrol," said Troop 27 Scoutmaster Dr. Larry Leslie who explained that the boys who comprise the Cobra Patrol are brand new "recruits" to scouting. Dr. Leslie said the boys worked hours each day for several days preceding the event practicing such skills as fire building, knots, first aid, and nature.

For their first-place ranking the Cobra Patrol was awarded the Presidential Award for high achievement.

To add to Troop 27's honors, the Badger Patrol, made up of more experienced scouts, placed fifth overall in the competition. Prestonsburg's Badger Patrol won the Presidential Citation for placing first in last year's camporee.

The next major event sponsored by the Lonesome Pine Council in which Troop 27 will participate will be the summer camp set to begin at Camp Shawnee on the headwaters of Dewey Lake, June 26. A 50-mile canoe trip is also planned down the Big Sandy this fall.

Other Floyd troops which participated in the camporee included Troop 26, Stanville, Troop 56, Allen, Troop 148, Drift, and Troop 222, Prestonsburg.

Truck Wrecks, Cargo Seized

One load of beer and whiskey resulted in the impounding Tuesday morning of two trucks, the arrest of one man and a search for a second.

Sheriff Joe W. Lewis and Deputy Sheriffs Randall Lewis and Wallace Keathley confiscated 68 cases of beer and four cases of whiskey, the cargo of a truck which wrecked on Branham's Creek. Before they arrived on the scene, however, 20 cases had been loaded into a truck owned, Sheriff Lewis said, by Tom Hall and taken to Tony Tackett's place. The 20 cases were recovered. Although he did not drive his truck with the intoxicants from the wreck scene, Hall was arrested and may be charged with assisting in transporting intoxicants.

Paul Roberts, of Toler Creek, who was listed as the driver of the truck which wrecked, is sought on a charge of transporting illegal alcoholic beverages.

Two other liquor arrests were reported—Mrs. Clifford Jarrell on Prater Creek Monday, eight pints of whiskey confiscated; Dean Hunter last Friday at Honaker, 10 cases of beer and seven bottles of vodka and gin. The sheriff said the Prater Creek haul was taken from a car from which a small boy was selling.

Prestonsburg police reported one case of breaking and entering last Thursday an auto theft Saturday night.

Stolen from Crum's Ashland Service here were $200 in cash and a shotgun. Entry was gained into the station by prying loose a window. A new, 1977 CJ-5 Jeep was stolen from the lot of Parkway Motors here Saturday night. Although no arrests have been made in either case, the jeep was reported sighted in the Van Lear vicinity.

Other booked at the county jail over the past week, charges against each, and arresting officers follow:

Sam Hall, Jr., drunk driving, by Wheelwright Marshals Harold and Mildred Bates; Sandy Mitchell, drunk driving, by Deputy Sheriffs J. D. and Melvin Martin; Purvis Riley, drunk driving, by Deputy Sheriffs J. D. and Melvin Martin; James Earl Wright, drunk driving, by State Troopers Stephens and Stumbo; Bobby Joe Turner, drunk driving, by State Troopers Stephens and Shelton; Adrian Newsome, drunk driving and no operator's license, by State Troopers Shelton and Stephens; Ronald Tackett, drunk driving and eluding police officer, by Deputy Sheriffs J. Faulty Equipment Cause of Injuries On Playgrounds

Without proper maintenance and supervision, Kentucky's public and private playgrounds can be hazardous, according to consumer health officials of the state Department for Human Resources.

"During the past two years, an estimated 4,700 injury accidents occurred on playgrounds across the state," said Edsel Moore of the Division of Consumer Health Protection. "Many of these injuries could have been avoided if equipment had been properly installed and maintained."

The bulk of the accidents were among children five to 10 years of age.

"Especially when school is out for the summer, kids are attracted to unsupervised playgrounds. If equipment has rough edges, protruding threaded bolts, splintering wood, or poor anchoring, children can be seriously injured," said Moore.

Playground equipment should not be installed on hard surfaces such as concrete or asphalt and the equipment should be at least eight feet from any fixed object. There should be plenty of room surrounding playground equipment, Moore said.

All playground equipment and backyard swingsets should be checked regularly for sharp edges which should be filed smooth. "Monkey bars" should be checked for wear. All welds and anchors should be solid. The anchors and supports of all playground equipment should be tight and caps should be placed over protruding bolts.

Playground surroundings should be free of glass, metal and other sharp objects, Moore noted. Rusty equipment should be sanded and painted.

Worn metal, especially on sliding boards, "may crack and cut like a knife," he said. "An the wooden seats of swings should be painted regularly to prevent cracking and splintering. Chains should be inspected regularly for broken or worn links," Moore said.

"Parents should be familiar with the playgrounds their children go to," said Moore. "And if broken or worn equipment is apparent, the parents should report it to appropriate officials or owners of the apparatus."

Backyard play equipment should be checked frequently throughout the year to correct damage and wear which could result in serious injury. "A little supervision, maintenance and repair work can go a long way toward reducing the number of serious injuries received each year by unsuspecting children," said Moore.

HONOR YOUTH CHOIR

Members of the Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church entertained with a dinner at the church, Wednesday evening, honoring members of the Youth Choir and their directors, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Kalos, who had returned that day from a tour of churches throughout this section, where they rendered a musical program, "Because He Lives." Following the dinner, the musical program was presented to the congregation, and was so well received that members asked that it be repeated at the morning services, Sunday.

FORTY-FOUR percent of the married women living with their husbands were in the labor force in March 1975, according to the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Sentencing Guides Studied by Judges

Judges of Kentucky's Supreme Court, Court of Appeals and Circuit courts devoted the first day of the recent Kentucky Judicial Conference to sentencing, concentrating on particular sentencing problems in the state.

At the two-day conference, held in Louisville May 9 and 10, the judges heard Thomas Swisher, research director of the Ohio State Bar Foundation, talk about uniform sentencing guidelines. The guidelines are a means utilized in Ohio to reduce the disparity in sentences meted by judges.

David Fogel, professor in the criminal justice department of the University of Illinois, explained his variation of "flat-time" sentencing, a concept under which judges specify definite sentences which can be shortened through good behavior. Prisoners may not be paroled under the concept.

The second day of the annual conference was devoted to reports from various committees, commissions and offices which affect the Court of Justice.

CENSUS DATA show that nearly one-third of 1965 workers had transferred to a different occupation by 1970, according to the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

AN EXCITING AND NEW DIMENSION OF THE MINISTRY!

Travel has become the new open door to the Ministry! It is becoming one of the major means of educational pursuit which a Minister has at his disposal. Travel can be one of the most effective ways for a Minister to express his vocation as a servant. Let us consider together some of the more obvious benefits of travel for the Minister.

The minister is a preacher, which means he must build sermons. The heart of effective sermons is found in the ability to discover and use illustrations, and one of the best means of illustrations is from the field of travel. The fact is that most prominent ministers rely heavily upon this source.

By traveling to the Bible Lands, one becomes far more knowledgeable about scriptures and thus is in a better position to illustrate and enliven the presentation of the Bible in the sermon.

We must also mention that travel allows one a greater understanding of contemporary problems. The minister today is required to give his congregation an interpretation of the events that are transpiring in the world. A first-hand personal experience helps him accomplish this role as a preacher.

The function of the minister is to be an educator and a teacher. Ministers are called upon to teach Bible classes, Missions, Evangelism, etc. Travel provides an excellent source of audio-visual aids such as films, slides, maps, recordings, etc., all of which help to fulfill this important role. The classes become more alive because of the use of these aids. Learning is increased remarkably. Interest on the part of the students is kept at a high level. Respect is shown because the teacher is speaking from personal experiences which travel has afforded. The use of the materials and experiences gathered by the minister pays dividends when it comes to teaching a class for membership in the church.

Another important function of the minister is to be a Spiritual Director. Walking in the footsteps of Jesus, and viewing the sights of Biblical interest opens the hearts of individuals in a very meaningful and real way. This is indeed a highlight that remains with any person for a lifetime.

Another important role of the minister today is his relation to the community. Travel provides an excellent means because many of the organizations, clubs, etc. are constantly looking for speakers. They are especially interested in speakers who bring in visual aids and talk on travel. People are becoming more aware of the world about them and are interested in hearing first-hand what is happening. This is particularly true of the Middle East. Travel extends a minister's influence not only throughout his own church, but throughout the community. It gives him many opportunities to reach people in his role as an Evangelist.

One of the minister's needs is of personal renewal and this is indeed a function of the ministry. Even ministers require fresh experiences so that they may be challenged anew. Travel provides one avenue for this experience. Many ministers feel that travel, with a trip to the Holyland, is worth at least one year in a Seminary, with this exhilarating experience leading them to new commitments in their own personal life. Many ministers who travel annually find this is one of the finest blessings awarded in the entire realm of travel.

We must realize that travel is not something that is apart from the ministry, treating it as a minor activity. Travel can be the most effective way to express a vocation as one serves his fellowmen. Every minister needs to travel to become exposed to a tremendous avenue of spiritual enlightenment.

These are a few ways in which travel can enrich the Ministry. It is obvious that travel offers a tremendous opportunity to any Minister to fulfill his vocation in so many unique and different ways. Every Minister should have the opportunity to travel and to discover personally this new dimension of the Ministry.

Why not plan now to visit the Holy Land with us this Fall?

Leadership III

By WILMAY

Here is the final column in the leadership series. Floyd is blessed with a high ratio of top leaders who help account for its progress, so superior to some counties. Let's keep it thus in every generation. Need for A-1 directors in all spheres will increase as King Coal gives impetus to the economy. Basic principles of leadership help youth. Modern philosophy says, avoid negatives. God's first command was DON'T! Eight of the Ten Commandments are negatives. The Sermon on the Mount is replete with them. Ideology opposed to negativism encourages permissiveness, with which the U.S. is already saturated. Life requires positives and negatives. The last column listed leadership DO'S. Now for the opposite. Excuse the didactic tone, used for brevity, and also the repetition of "don't's."

1. Don't fail to delegate. 2. Don't let co-workers bury their talents. 3. Don't forget that every associate is an individual who can contribute something, or that a detail omitted or done incorrectly by just one cohort can wreck a venture. 4. Don't resent corrections or suggestions, or be sensitive and wear a childish chip on the shoulder. 5. Don't flatter people. 6. Don't be constantly pessimistic. Every cloud has a silver lining. It's wiser to be realistic than continually pessimistic or optimistic. 7. Don't exercise privileges refused others. 8. Don't be a fairweather friend. Jesus had some who were. 9. Don't falsify. Lies boomerang. 10. Don't sweep problems under the rug. They will not disappear. Leaders are the logical ones to deal with them. 11. Don't be a rubber stamp or an echo for someone else, or expect another to be one for you. Nothing is more apparent or injurious to all concerned than a "mouthpiece" for somebody else. 12. Don't be inconsistent. The world loses confidence in those who are. 13. Don't break rules or by-pass them—another confidence killer. 14. Don't show favoritism. Partiality always hampers. 15. Don't lose your temper. No one else wants it. Hebrew and Greek, in which scripture was originally written, contain more than one word for anger. Their meanings vary. There is a vast distinction between an explosive disposition and righteous indignation. God and Christ manifested the latter, which Christians must exercise occasionally. But habitual, uncontrolled wrath is wicked. An angry man stirreth up strife, and a furious man aboundeth in transgressions. Pr. 29:22. Childhood is the time to warn against vile tempers, which lead some to violence, prison, etc. 16. Don't gossip. Untruths killed Rachel Jackson. Pat Nixon became gravely ill just after one false report about her husband made headlines. Sometimes it is hard to distinguish between gossip and truth, between the chronic talebearer who is reckless with truth and someone defending same. Tattling is a curse. The youngest tattler in school is unpopular. Harmful traits can be checked in childhood. 17. Don't retaliate when the victim of slander unless circumstances compel it. Look at the bright side. Someone else gets a rest while you are castigated. Pray for opponents who may make you a V.I.P! 18. Don't seek revenge. Rom. 12:10 says: Vengeance is mine. I will repay saith the Lord. He makes all wrongs right in this world or the next. Better still, we can refrain from wanting our offenders repaid ever, for who among us is not sometimes the offender? 19. Don't hold a grudge. Ready forgiveness toward others is one of the most therapeutic elixirs on the market, and it is free. 20. Don't be jealous. It is a disease that can be fatal, causing many types of emotional illness. Few sins are more detrimental to health or more obvious.

Summer Camp Program At Reduced Cost Seen

Lonesome Pine Council, Boy Scouts of America, has announced that through a cooperative program with the Kentucky Department of Education Scouts from throughout the 13-county area served by the council will be able to attend summer camp at a reduced price. The Department of Education, through a federal grant, will pay most of the food cost for all campers.

The requirements for this program are that the Boy Scout council supply the department with data to show that at least one-third of the campers qualify for reduced price or free lunches in school and that no Scout is discriminated against because of race, color, creed, or national origin. District Executive William Shambora said that in 1976 more than a third of all the Scouts attending Camp Shawnee qualified for free or reduced price lunches in school and that he expected the same to hold true in 1977. The camp's policy has been and continues to be non-discriminatory, Shambora said.

Camp Shawnee, which is located near German bridge, operates for three weeks during the summer when Scouts camp for one week periods. Boating, canoeing, archery, riflery, and Scout merit badges are featured during those weeks. The camp is also operated for two additional weeks for handicapped non-Scout boys and girls.

DIRECTOR HONORED

At the recent spring concert given by the band and choruses of Prestonsburg High School, Mrs. Carlos Haywood, choral director, was presented a certificate from the Kentucky Music Educators' Association. This certificate was "for twenty-five or more years of service in music education in Kentucky." To honor Mrs. Haywood on receipt of this certificate, floral arrangements were presented to her from the chorus and the faculty of the school here.

21. Don't knowingly mistreat others. A guilt complex can result and cause terrific harm. 22. Don't be above apologizing and making restitution where due. This does wonders for the guilty. Newly converted persons often make reparations to those they have wronged. Unfortunately, it is impossible to bring back human life or to retrieve scattered untruths and malicious words. 23. Don't judge anyone by what others say. Think what many said about Jesus, and how Lincoln was hated as few have been. Leadership at all levels has a price label, and there is good and bad in every mortal. If it took goodness to take us to heaven none of us would make it. 24. Don't talk double. The double-minded man is unstable in all his ways. James 1:8. The chances are that Christians commit this sin frequently. It can become second nature to play both sides, to retain popularity when controversial issues arise. It is better to analyze the situation, evaluate the people, determine why some are lauded, criticized, or both, who does it and why, then take a stand and adhere. Double talk and fence riding, being wishy-washy soon stamp any person as not dependable. 25. Don't forget that every coin and story has two sides. Listen to both and be a peacemaker when possible. 26. Don't fail to keep in mind that no group or organization surpasses its administrator. Success begins with him or her, depends more on him or her than on all others combined. 27. Don't fail to start and close all meetings on time. Overtime kills some endeavors. 28. Don't neglect to study, to keep on keeping on. Study and perseverance provide two major keys to many leaders whose imprint is on the sands of time centuries after they are gone.

SSI Benefits To Increase

Payment standards for Kentuckians receiving Supplemental Security Income (SSI) benefits will increase $10 beginning July 1 in compliance with a directive from the Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) regional office in Atlanta.

"We are making the necessary arrangements to raise the state levels for personal care, family care and caretaker services by $10 so that Kentucky's supplementation recipients receive the full benefit of the SSI cost of living increases," said Gail S. Huecker, commissioner of Human Resources' Bureau for Social Insurance.

The SSI full payment scale will increase from $167.80 to $177.80. Payment standards will rise from $310 to $320 for personal care, from $248 to $258 for family care and from $206 to $216 for single individuals in a caretaker situation. Proportionate increases will be made for caretaker couples.

Huecker said the state's failure to implement the HEW directive could result in withholding of federal Title XIX funding.

Dog Lost—Reward Offered

A white male poodle belonging to Mrs. Kathryn S. Frazier was lost, from her lawn on Court Street across from the postoffice in Prestonsburg around 7:30 Tuesday evening. He was wearing a harness and leash, and answers to the name "Scruff". A reward will be paid for the return or for information leading to the return of the dog—no questions asked.

"Scruff" is strictly a house dog, and cannot be left outside.

Ford Says Amended Bill On Surface Mining Sensible

The Federal Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act, which passed the Senate last Friday night, was described by Kentucky Sen. Wendell H. Ford as a "strong but commonsense measure that enables Kentucky coal to remain in a competitive position while at the same time protecting the environment through strong reclamation standards."

The bill, supported by Ford, now goes to a joint House-Senate conference committee to iron out differences which exist in the separate surface mining measures passed by each house.

The Senate bill included an amendment that would allow a variance to be granted, under specific circumstances and strict conditions, from the requirement to restore reclaimed land to its approximate original contour.

The amendment, offered by Sens. Ford and Walter (Dee) Huddleston, permits a request for a variance to allow the land, after suitable reclamation, to be used for specific agricultural, industrial, commercial, residential or other desirable public use.

Ford pointed out that, in some instances, proven better land uses would be permitted under an inflexible approximate original contour requirement. Ford specifically cited the development of a residential housing complex in Jenkins and the construction of a nursing home in Hazard which are located on flat and level benches left from previous strip mining.

In addition, Ford noted that the Appalachian Regional Commission urged the inclusion of a provision which permitted variances for such purposes.

"Good post-mining land use planning has been all too rare in Central Appalachia," Ford said. "The bill as written would preclude this. While we must guard against a flexible provision that would allow abuses, we should allow for appropriate departures from the general rule wherever such a variance is desirable and in the public interest. This is what our amendment seeks to do and nothing more."

Variances will only be granted in cases where the highwall is reduced to the maximum extent consistent with sound engineering technology and a vegetation plan will be required to screen the remaining portion of the highwall within five years after seeding or planting.

Ford said that as a control mechanism the requests for a variance will be subject to certain standards of preparation and review at the state level. The project must be designed by a registered engineer and reviewed by appropriate land use planning agencies to assure that the potential post mining land use would constitute an equal or better economic of public use.

The Senate also approved a Ford-sponsored amendment that would allow small operators mining 100,000 tons or less annually, 24 months to comply with the new law.

Kentucky Afield

By JOHN WILSON

Farm pond owners around Kentucky will be interested in a new booklet recently published by the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. Titled "Fish Management: Kentucky Farm Ponds," the booklet contains almost everything anyone would want to know about establishing and maintaining his own fishin' hole.

The authors, Biologist James P. Henley and the late Joseph L. Arnett, a fishery aide, have examined many a pond in their combined 50 years in fish and wildlife work. Together, they've probably seen about everything that can go wrong with a pond, from improper construction to muskrats in the dam.

Since their booklet contains a section on getting started, it will be invaluable to those interested in building a new pond. Several aspects of construction affect future productivity and can even determine whether or not the pond experiences serious weed problems in the future.

Those contemplating a farm pond can also get an idea from this booklet just how much is involved in properly managing a farm pond. Unfortunately, it isn't possible just to throw in a few fish and expect the pond to produce quality fishing.

Winter Cost To Ky. Schools Estimated at $11 Million

Kentucky's elementary and secondary schools suffered an $11 million loss this year due to the unusually harsh winter, a state official of the Kentucky Department of Education said last week.

James Melton, associate superintendent of public instruction, said that $4.6 million was spent on unanticipated fuel bills during the extreme cold in January and February.

Speaking at the Governor's Conference on the Economic Impact of the Winter of '77, Melton explained that in addition to physical losses caused by severe cold, such as broken pavement, frozen pipes and roof damage, school systems also faced the additional costs of snow removal and the necessary early warm-up of buses.

Jefferson County assistant superintendent Mike Burcherri said that 600 Jefferson County school bus drivers were paid to arrive half an hour early to warm up buses so they could make their runs at the usual time. Burcherri said the added costs to the Jefferson County school system for January and February exceeded $1 million. He added that $848,000, double the budgeted amount, was spent on fuel oil.

In a written report to the Governor, the KDE suggested that schools develop alternate heating capabilities, open on an earlier date so that they can close schools during periods of extreme cold and develop a curriculum guide to make students aware of the need for energy conservation. They also recommended an energy audit for each school district.

Roger Crittenden of the Council on Higher Education said that state universities spent almost $900,000 more than their budgeted resources last winter, but added that they were able to operate during the cold spells.

The report on Kentucky's elementary and secondary schools didn't include damages to schools in Eastern Kentucky during April's severe flooding, but was concerned only with the recent severe winter months.

Burns Research Produces Theory

FOR REASONS researchers couldn't fathom, girls in the five-to-nine age bracket suffered higher burn fatalities than boys. Recently, however, burn fatalities for girls have dropped 55 per cent, while the figures for boys have only declined by 12 percent. One possible reason for the shift, notes the May Reader's Digest, is the increased popularity of jeans and slacks for girls: they are now as well protected as their male counterparts.

GW Coach Tallent Invited To Conduct Clinics in Brazil

Washington, D.C.—Bob Tallent, head basketball coach at George Washington University for the past three years, has been invited by Partners of the Americas to conduct clinics for high school and club coaches in Brazil, Brazil from July 25-August 7. (Tallent is a native of Langley, Ky.)

For Tallent, it will mark his second straight summer of teaching and coaching basketball in Brazil under the auspices of the Partners Sports Program.

Partners of the Americas is a private, non-profit organization which is currently the largest people-to-people program operating between the United States and Latin America.

Tallent found his trip a year ago mutually rewarding and is eager to return again to dispense his knowledge and expertise. He says, "The opportunity to coach basketball in Brasilia through the Partners was one of the best experiences of my life. A teacher couldn't have asked for better students; everyone was enthusiastic and interested. I've kept in contact with a couple of the coaches down there, and I look forward to going back."

Tallent, a former All-American player at George Washington, has guided the Colonials to a fine 51-29 record during his past three years as head coach.

Kentucky Afield

A farm pond can offer many hours of pleasant "backyard" fishing, but it takes some attention to make sure that the pond remains a good fish producer. The Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources offer free stocking of bass, bluegill and channel catfish as well as technical advice and assistance to pond owners.

Although the deadline for stocking applications is October 1, now is a good time to start working on getting fish in your pond, says Pete Pfeiffer, assistant director of the fisheries division for the department.

For one thing, most folks are thinking about fishing now and are more likely to remember that their ponds need some attention. In September, most outdoorsmen are getting ready for hunting seasons and may forget about that pond until after the deadline has passed.

Previously stocked ponds which offer poor fishing may need extensive and time-consuming work before they can be restocked, Pfeiffer says. So it's a good idea to get in touch with the local conservation officer now to see what work your pond needs before it can be restocked this fall.

The Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources is happy to offer assistance to pond owners and to make recommendations about pond fertilization, weed and algae control or how to restore or maintain the proper balance between bass and bluegill in the pond.

If you are catching only small bluegill and no bass, chances are your pond is out of balance, Pfeiffer says. Often the only solution, particularly for a pond of one-half acre or less, is to completely renovate the pond by removing all the existing fish and starting over.

If your pond does have a good balance between bass and bluegill populations, it is important to catch enough bluegill to keep it that way. Pfeiffer recommends that five to seven pounds of bluegill be harvested for each pound of bass.

This means that for every 13-inch bass removed from the pond, between 50 and 75 five-inch bluegill should also be caught. If this ratio is not maintained, the bluegill will often overpopulate and become stunted because of insufficient food.

The man to see for stocking applications or about pond problems is the conservation officer in your county. He can answer your questions himself, or he may request that a fishery biologist visit your pond for further investigation.

If you don't know your conservation officer, call the county court clerk or the local sheriff's office and ask for his name and phone number.

One final note—having your pond stocked by the Department of Fish and Wildlife does not obligate you to open the pond for public fishing or in any other way interfere with your right to control access to your land. As a pond owner, you may also place more restrictive size and creel limits on your pond than those in force on public waters.

Bluegrass Featured In KET Musical Performance Series

Bluegrass music is a part of the Kentucky heritage. Rooted in oldtime mountain music, bluegrass has travelled a long way since Bill Monroe's Blue Grass Boys gave it its name in the '40s. Kentucky claims bluegrass as its own special brand of music, and justly so, since Kentucky is the Bluegrass state.

This summer, KET is giving Kentuckians a chance to explore the diverse directions bluegrass music has taken with a new series called "Bluegrass Bluegrass."

The series of musical performances by some of the top bluegrass groups representing the various forms of bluegrass music will be taped at Diners' Playhouse in Lexington throughout June, July and August. The public is invited to attend the taping sessions.

The first performance will be the Highwoods Stringband on Monday, June 6. Other performances will include Ralph Stanley and the Clinch Mountain Boys on June 13; Boone Creek on June 20; New Grass Revival on July 11; Falls City Ramblers on July 18; McLain Family Band on August 1, and J. D. Crowe and the New South tentatively scheduled in August.

The hour performances begin at 9 p.m. (ET) and admission is free. However, you must have a ticket to attend. Tickets and further information can be obtained by writing Bluegrass, KET, 600 Cooper Drive, Lexington, Ky., 40502 or by phoning (606) 233-0666.

CREDIT-CARD BUYING, according to some bankers, is good for the economy. In fact, when people stop putting their purchases on the plastic card, economists worry. The June Reader's Digest says the range of goods and services available with a credit card is nothing short of fantastic: you can charge a speeding ticket in Erie, Pa.; a funeral in New York City; college courses in Atlanta, Ga.; and unspecified services from a brothel in Nevada.

Youth Named Winner Of DeKalb Award

Jimmie Neff Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Bert Hall, of Ivel, was recently named winner of the 1977 DeKalb Agricultural Accomplishment Award.

The award, sponsored by DeKalb Research, Inc., is presented to the outstanding senior in Vocational Agriculture Departments around the country. He was chosen for the award on the basis of his scholarship, leadership, and supervised farming program.

Young Hall attends Betsy Layne High School, where he has been vice-president of the local FFA chapter for a year and president of the local FFA chapter during his senior year in high school. His supervised agricultural program consists of vegetable garden, beef cattle and home improvement.

THE U.S. DEPARTMENT of Labor has approved a contract for an analysis of the impact of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 on collective bargaining.

High Adventure Program Includes 'Mountain Trail'

When summer comes, Scouts in the Lonesome Pine Council start looking for high adventure.

This summer 30 Scouts from the council will be participating in adventure programs at the Florida Gateway High Adventure Area, the 1977 National Scout Jamboree in Pennsylvania, the Land Between the Lakes Gateway in western Kentucky, and the National Order of the Arrow Conference in Tennessee. These bases offer exciting new experiences in adventure, learning, and personal growth, according to M. K. Eblen, council president.

Under the leadership of Vito Contento, of Hazard, the older Scouts participating in the Florida Gateway High Adventure will be the first to leave the council area. They will depart June 18 for Miami, Fla., where they will emplane for the Bahama Islands and a full week of scuba diving, both instruction and adventure, under the direction of high qualified and experienced personnel.

The next group to leave the council will be older Scouts participating in the Land Between the Lakes Gateway. They will be under the direction of Scoutmaster Roy May, of Troop 24, Maytown. This group will participate in one week of sailing, including instruction and camping, and one additional week of pontoon boat camping on Kentucky Lake and Lake Barkley.

Less than a week after the group leaves for Land Between the Lakes, the Scouts selected for participation in the 1977 National Scout Jamboree will leave under the direction of Scoutmaster Jim Kegley, of Wise, Virginia. They are scheduled to meet the group travelling to the Jamboree from Chattanooga, Tennessee at Abingdon, Virginia where they will all travel together for three days of sightseeing in the Washington, D.C. area and then travel to Moraine State Park in western Pennsylvania for 10 days at the 1977 National Scout Jamboree. More than 40,000 Scouts from the nation as well as Scouts from 17 other countries are expected to participate in this year's Jamboree.

Finally, on August 24 a group of 15 Scouts and their leaders under the direction of Scoutmaster Les Rogers, of Troop 90, Hazard, will depart for a week at the National Order of the Arrow Conference which is to be held at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville. The Order of the Arrow is a society of Scout honor campers and these men will be joining 4,000 other Scouts at the National Conference to learn how to improve and strengthen the camping program in all of the troops of the Lonesome Pine Council.

According to Eblen, the Lonesome Pine Council has encouraged high adventure programs for Scout troops because they offer opportunities for young people to develop a significant degree of self-reliance, initiative, and resourcefulness, and because older Scouts are always looking for these super-sized experiences.

New to the council program this year is the "Mountain Trail" which has been developed at Camp Shawnee in cooperation with the U.S. Corps of Engineers at Dewey Lake. The "Mountain Trail" circles Dewey Lake and will take the participants on a four-day trip covering approximately fifty miles during which time they will carry all of their food and equipment in their backpacks, cooking all of their meals, and sleeping out each night in a different location near Dewey Lake. Participation in this activity at Camp Shawnee will be limited to a small number of Scouts each week.

Additional information regarding any of these high adventure activities may be obtained by calling the Scout Service Center in Pikeville (606) 437-6209 or by writing to the council, P. O. Box 110, Pikeville, Kentucky 41501.

Two Floyd Residents Chosen Tutor-Counselors

Pippa Passes, Ky.—Two Floyd county residents, Sandra K. Newsom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Newsom, of Harold and Imogene Bates, daughter of Mrs. Hazel Bates, of Martin, have been selected as tutor-counselors in ALC's Upward Bound summer program. Along with other qualified staff members, they will spend six weeks on campus helping area high school students develop the skills and motivation necessary to attend college.

The Upward Bound Program at Alice Lloyd College will begin its eleventh year of operation this summer. The program, designed to offer assistance to qualified high school students from the seven-county area, has served nearly 600 students over the past ten years.

To the People of District No. 2

I offer Kenneth Roberts my most sincere congratulations upon his success at the polls.

To all my friends who so loyally supported me I am deeply and sincerely grateful.

I am well aware that there has been a slanderous rumor circulated that I was a candidate for the sole purpose of taking votes from Zeb Ousley. There is absolutely no truth in this rumor. I ran for Magistrate because I sincerely believed I was capable of improving service to the people in District 2.

I can honestly say that I certainly do not regret entering the race. The invaluable experience I gained is well worth the time and effort spent.

There is the story told of the village cartwright who because of age was compelled to give up his business.

He was asked by a friend why he had not made more money during his long life. "It is true I have not made much money," he replied, "but I have made a lot of good carts."

It is no wonder that this cart maker enjoyed the respect of his neighbors and wielded an influence for good.

There are people who place importance on the quality of their work, and these are known as the salt of the earth.

The greatest achievement of man is found in the value of his accomplishments. The happiest people are those who stress quality in their daily services.

OUR THOUGHT TO REMEMBER: Produce the best—place special emphasis upon the quality of your work.

Deadline on Grants For Flood Losses, Now Set June 6th

The deadline for Eastern Kentucky flood victims to apply for grants under the Individual and Family Grant Program is nearing, according to Ronn Padgett, disaster assistance coordinator for the Division of Disaster and Emergency Services.

Padgett said that applications must be submitted to local Bureau of Social Insurance offices by June 6.

More than 6,700 applications have already been submitted from residents of the 15 counties declared disaster areas following April flooding.

The grants, which can total as much as $5,000, are given to provide long-term assistance to those who have serious needs not covered by any other aid program.

Notice of Intention To Mine

In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that Greer, Inc., Box 460, London, Ky. 40741, intends to file an application for the surface mining of approximately 19 acres located north of Stanville in Floyd county. The proposed operation is approximately 3/4 mile east of State Route 23's junction with Mare Creek Road and located north of Mare Creek.

SLATE ELECTRICAL CLASS

An electrical class will be taught by Lester Beauchamp, instructor with the Kentucky Department of Mines and Minerals, at Pikeville College, beginning June 6, with two sessions each day. The morning class will be held from 9 a.m. till noon; the evening class, from 6 to 9 through June 9. The examination will be given on the morning of June 10, and initial and retraining courses will be offered.

Study To Compare Strip Methods

Among the personal service contracts recently approved by state government was $209,543 for a study of surface mining sedimentation control that could have important ramifications for Kentucky if federal strip mine legislation pending in Congress is passed.

The study will compare the sedimentation from water runoff on an undisturbed watershed before, during and after surface mining using a modified block-cut method at a site near the Perry-Letcher county line in Eastern Kentucky.

The block-cut technique involves restoring strip mined land to its approximate original contour. A provision calling for this kind of reclamation in strip mine bills in both houses of Congress has been a major point of contention with some coal operators.

In the conventional method some of the spoil (dirt and rocks covering coal seams) is placed on the downslope below the mining area of strip mine bench, while the rest is hauled and deposited in permanent storage areas, usually at the head of a hollow. The modified block-cut method calls for moving spoil laterally along the bench, covering the highwall or cliff left after coal is extracted. The first cut of spoil is usually placed on the downslope as in conventional mining, but on this project the spoil will be deposited on an old unreclaimed strip mine site.

The project, to be carried out by Watkins and Associates, Inc., of Lexington, will help determine the water pollution and cost effectiveness of the block-cut method versus the conventional method of strip mining widely used in Eastern Kentucky.

Many coal operators expect that the modified block-cut method may increase reclamation costs in mining, while some agree with the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) that the method may actually save money in several ways. The EPA says that since the spoil is moved relatively short distances, spoil handling costs are reduced. Also revegetation costs and bond and acreage fees are less expensive since acreage disturbance by the block-cut method is 60 per cent less than with conventional mining. In addition, because reclamation is taking place while mining is being done, bond money posted by operators to insure reclamation is returned faster.

In examining the disadvantages of the method, which the EPA suggests are outweighed by the advantages, they say investment costs for spoil haulage equipment are increased and that some small mines might not be able to afford the additional expense.

Robert Bell, Secretary of the state Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, who has questioned total highwall reduction in steep slope areas from an engineering standpoint, feels that the study will be useful.

"Inasmuch as this method of mining means covering highwalls, coupled with the fact that federal regulations, if passed, will require it in the future, the coal industry and the reclamation section of this department will be provided with a pilot demonstration by this project."

Strip mine operators in West Virginia have been successfully utilizing a similar "controlled placement" method of mining since 1973.

All state funds for the project will be provided by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

Development Club Discusses Day Camp

Day Camp was discussed at the recent meeting of the East Point Area Development Club. The camp will be held at the same place as last year, at the recreation area below Dewey Dam. A school bus will be provided to transport children to and from the East Point Area Center to the park. Time of day camp is from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., with provisions for shelter in case of rain. Those wishing their children to go to day camp should contact any of these members of the club, Mrs. Elsie Leake, Mrs. Susie Gray, Mrs. Dorothy Harris, Mrs. Betsy Baldrige and Mrs. Esta Mae Tackett.

The motion to buy a swing set for the mini park was passed and the swing has been ordered.

The Awards banquet of June 4 was also discussed.

Thanks Voters

I would like to take this means to thank each and everyone who voted or helped me in any way during the campaigning and primary election. Thanks so much.

Columbia Offers Insulation Plan

Columbia Gas of Kentucky today announced it will offer a new, low cost financing plan to encourage its customers to insulate their homes.

In outlining what he termed a "dollars and sense" approach to conservation, Jack Stumbo, manager for the gas company in the Prestonsburg area, said the new ceiling insulation financing program will be available to customers as soon as necessary regulatory approvals are secured.

He explained that ceiling insulation was chosen for financing assistance at this time because it offers the biggest fuel savings at the least cost to the homeowner. It helps accomplish the double objective of conserving energy and holding down heating bills.

Stumbo said Columbia Gas of Kentucky customers with a good credit rating who own residential properties may use the plan to install ceiling insulation or to increase the amount of existing ceiling insulation in their properties. The plan will be available for both "do-it-yourself" or "contractor-installed" sales.

Columbia's financing plan provides for a 10 per cent down payment and a maximum of three years to pay with no finance charge if full payment is made within 90 days.

The insulation financing concept has been under study for several months and Mr. Stumbo emphasized it is not designed to earn a profit for the company.

"Our objective is to make it easier for our customers to have their homes insulated. In addition to offering low cost financing, Columbia will provide customers with lists of contractors who will perform satisfactory work."

"This is the latest in a series of conservation programs initiated by Columbia since 1972," he said. "Since that time residential gas users in Kentucky have reduced their consumption 12.9 per cent through conservation thereby making more gas available to industrial users."

"A recent customer survey conducted by Columbia indicated that one out of eight of our customers have little or no ceiling insulation and of the remaining, three out of four have insufficient insulation. These customers are literally spending good money with no benefits. It would certainly make sense to invest these wasted dollars in ceiling insulation which will in the long run pay for itself many times over. The amount of insulation and the savings to be realized would of course be different when comparing one residence to another."

He added that Columbia will analyze the acceptance of this program before deciding if financing should be extended to include other conservation activities.

The ARC and Eastern Kentucky

By MAC HARRIS

"Some one said to me once 'Eastern Kentucky is like another state,' and I resented that remark," said Hazard resident Lois Smith, an instructor at the Hazard Vocational-Technical School. "But it's true, isn't it? Here we are, alone..."

Eastern Kentucky is different from the rest of the state. Its Appalachian Mountains that give it so much beauty also isolate it, confine it, and even retard it, some say.

But the mountains contain Appalachian Kentucky's salvation, others believe. The coal that lies under the soil in eastern Kentucky—coal that America must have for its energy needs—was once the source of employment for a great many Kentuckians and may now propel the region into the American economic mainstream.

The isolation of the region has been broken in part by highways built through the mountains and by the construction of community service facilities, health facilities, and education facilities, including a network of vocational-technical schools like the one Lois Smith teaches in at Hazard.

A large part of that progress is due to efforts of the Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC)—a unique local-state-federal partnership endeavor created by Congress in 1965 to deal with the special problems in the 13-state Appalachian area.

Most state officials here agree that the most significant achievement of ARC has been the Appalachian Highways program, which helped make the region accessible to industry and commerce, and which opened the area for social and cultural growth.

Now into its second decade, the Commission—citing the necessity of stimulating real economic growth in the region—is shifting its emphasis from upgrading social services and community facilities to spurring energy and industrial development.

"In the beginning," said state Development Secretary William L. Short, "the one issue that gave ARC impetus was the Appalachian Highway System. As that program nears completion, the next big issue—the one that will replace the highway issue—is coal production."

Short went on to say that the state's strategy for providing a solid economic base to Eastern Kentucky is to use the Kentucky ARC allocation for projects that will attract industry into the region—development of industrial parks and construction of access roads to industrial plants, for example—and for energy development projects that will make use of Kentucky's coal.

Although state ARC officials will continue health and education parts of the total ARC program, they say, evidence of the new emphasis is apparent in ARC involvement in projects like the proposed Corbin-Tri-County Industrial Park.

Along with the federal Economic Development Administration, the U.S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development, and possibly the Kentucky Industrial Development Finance Authority, ARC will participate in funding the regional park which will serve Knox, Laurel and Whitley counties.

"We plan to channel and direct more investment—water, sewer, housing and the like—into areas that will complement industrial development," said Wilburn J. Pratt, Development Cabinet executive assistant for community and regional planning. Pratt heads the state ARC program.

"Emphasis on multi-county industrial parks doesn't mean we are not interested in community industrial sites," Pratt said, "but when you consider the terrain and community patterns in Eastern Kentucky, it makes more sense to push multi-county sites—because of the water, sewer, and other development costs—than to build sites in each community."

What ARC people say they are looking for in promoting industrial development is the achievement of economic diversification for the Appalachian region, the creation of jobs and the retention of jobs.

Establishing regional parks is one way to attract industry into the area. But Gov. Julian Carroll, Secretary Short and the ARC staff believe they can capitalize on coal to provide jobs and to attract industry.

Recognizing the importance of coal to Appalachia, the Commission is seeking a leadership role in the development of a national energy policy based on coal.

"I would predict," said Gov. Carroll at the November 1976 meeting of the Commission, "that the Appalachian Region could very well be sitting at the threshold of an economic explosion... that in terms of our energy resources we have more oil in the Appalachian Region in the form of coal than there is in the Middle East... and I say that the Appalachian Regional Commission, in taking some leadership, can respond to the need for an energy policy in America."

To that end, the Commission recently passed a resolution that calls for a Presidential energy task force chaired by ARC.

In addition, the resolution recommends that Appalachian and federal funds be targeted on Appalachia for energy research and development; that other regional groups join with ARC in its efforts toward a national energy policy; and that an international conference on coal be held to emphasize its role in meeting world energy needs.

ARC participation in energy development in Kentucky is underway.

In early April the Energy Research and Development Administration signed a contract with Pike County for construction of a $7 million coal gasification plant which will supply natural gas for use in the county. Part of the financing of the project will be an ARC grant of $1.5 million.

At Catlettsburg, development has begun on a pilot project to squeeze liquid fuel from coal. ARC plans to participate in the funding of a water supply system for the liquefaction plant with a grant of around $1 million.

But the great increase in coal production, along with the efforts to convert coal into other fuels, promises some problems for the region, state officials say.

"The future would demand that the nation double its coal production and that a substantial amount of this coal must come from Appalachia," Gov. Carroll told members of the U.S. Senate and House Appropriations Committees recently. "This will create the need for additional housing, health services, schools, community facilities and means of transportation."

Gov. Carroll went on to say that ARC was equipped to handle those problems. "The structure already established within the ARC is uniquely capable of dealing not only with the central problem of energy development, but also the multiplicity of associated community service problems it will create."

As an illustration of how ARC will handle those problems, Development

Secretary Short cited a housing development project in Jenkins.

Ground was broken there in February for a 150-unit housing project that is a cooperative effort of ARC, which provided an initial $514,000, Letcher County, the State of Kentucky, Beth-Elkhorn Coal Corp. and the United Mine Workers of America. Eventually the project will provide another 150 available units.

Noting that it will be built on a former commercial mining area, Short said the Jenkins project is significant because of the cooperation of different government levels and private industry, because of its use of unproductive land, and because it is the first of several similar projects in Eastern Kentucky.

State ARC officials are now attending public meetings in each of the Appalachian Area Development Districts to explain their strategy of economic development and diversification through industrial development and coal production, and to obtain citizen input concerning the issues facing them as Appalachian Kentucky changes.

With new highways, new community facilities, new educational and cultural opportunities, and the establishment of social services never before available, ARC has made a mark on Eastern Kentucky.

Disaster Office Curtails Hours

John Shamaley, branch manager of the Prestonsburg SBA Disaster Office, announced Saturday that the local office would be closed on Sundays until further notice.

Mr. Shamaley noted that the office, now located in the Johnson Building of the Prestonsburg Community College, had been open 10 hours a day, seven days a week, since April 10 and has handled 1829 appeals for assistance from families and businesses which suffered damages during the April flooding. Mr. Shamaley said the seven-day work week would be resumed "as soon as the volume of business increased sufficiently to warrant the overtime."

SBA will continue to serve those who suffered flood-related damage from 8:30 a.m. till 6:30 p.m., six days a week, Monday thru Saturday. He emphasized the need for those individuals and businesses that have not filed for SBA loans to do so as soon as possible to insure prompt handling of their claims.

College To Replace Flood-Lost Diplomas

If you are a Pikeville College graduate and lost your diploma from the college in the April flood, it will be replaced by the college. Walter Brumm, acting registrar, announced last week that any Pikeville College graduate who lost a diploma from the college in the flood should call 432-3161, extension 211. When you call, have the following information: your name as it appeared on your original diploma, the type of degree you received (such as Bachelor of Arts or Bachelor of Science), and the date of your graduation.

New diplomas will be provided at no charge.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Woodrow Hays acknowledges with deepest appreciation every kindness extended by friends and relatives upon his passing. We also thank the ministers, Hershell Huff, Mitchell Chaffins and Jerry Hall, for their comforting words, and the Hall Brothers Funeral Home for its efficient service.

THE BATTERED WIFE syndrome, seldom acknowledged as anything more than "a family matter," is being recognized today as part of a major social problem. According to the May issue of Reader's Digest, there is evidence that some 4.5 million American women have been assaulted by their husbands or boyfriends.

My Fellow Floyd Countians

I wish to express my deep appreciation to those persons throughout this county who supported me in the last primary.

I do not have any malice toward those persons who voted for my opponents. I like to think that this is a free country, and I respect my opposition.

I ask for your support in the forthcoming November election, and I will do my best to make you a good public servant.

We must not forget that the welfare of Floyd County should be our first priority. Malice and hatred will only destroy our main objective. Let us advance in the best direction and unite this county for the future.

With the sincere desire for a better Floyd County tomorrow.

President May Turn To Coal from East

The Carter Administration has signaled a major shift in federal coal policy that would place increasing reliance on coal from the East and Midwest rather than from the western states, David Hess wrote last week in The Lexington Herald.

Such a move, now being considered by experts in the Interior department and White House energy office, would, if finally adopted, reverse the policies of the past four Presidents.

It would also mean thousands of new jobs in the coal belts of Appalachia and the Midwest, less environmental damage to fragile western lands, and a heavy investment in anti-pollution equipment to clean up the fumes from burning higher sulfur coal from east of the Mississippi.

The bare outlines of the President's prospective coal policy were last sketched Wednes. by Guy R. Martin, assistant Interior secretary for land and water resources, during testimony before the House Energy and Power Subcommittee.

"It's quite possible," Martin said after the hearings, that the President will recommend shifting the nation's future coal-supply burden from the West to the rich coalfields of West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Kentucky and other Appalachian states, as well as to Ohio and Illinois in the Midwest.

Such a switch would touch off fierce opposition from big coal and oil companies. Those companies rushed to the West in the 1960s and '70s to grab off millions of acres of federal leases in anticipation of increased demand for coal as domestic oil supplies waned.

Martin told the subcommittee that the President will not stand by idly and let coal operators either sit on unmined federal leases or devastate western lands, particularly when high grade coal is still plentiful in the East and Midwest.

Carter already has assigned to coal a major role—as a stand-in for oil and natural gas—in his national energy plan.

It was widely assumed he also would call upon producers to step up production of western coal. Most of it would be cheaply strip-mined and shipped to the energy-hungry industrial cities of the Midwest and East for use under electric-utility boilers.

But Martin's testimony seemed to blow some holes in that assumption. He said the administration is now engaged in a sweeping reappraisal of federal coal policy.

Unlike western coal, most eastern and midwestern reserves would be deep-mined, with far less damage to the environment. The higher grade eastern and midwestern coal also delivers more energy per ton, and is located closer to the population centers that need it.

A major reason for the increasing use of western coal is its low-sulfur content, which makes it more desirable fuel in areas with serious air pollution problems.

Under the President's environmental and energy plans, however, all coal-burning industries and utilities would have to install smoke "scubbers" and other advanced equipment to reduce the harmful gases emitted from coal-burning furnaces.

This being the case, Martin said, "the energy content will become more important (than sulfur content) in measuring the value of coal. Application of combustion... technologies will make all our nation's coal resources useful to the economy."

In short, the built-in advantage of western coal will be removed.

Beyond that, however, Martin said much of the nation's western coal reserves, the bulk of which are owned by the federal government, underlie public land that serves many purposes.

M/Sgt. Whitley Retires

Master Sgt. Donald Whitely, son of Mrs. Stella Akers, of Betsy Layne, retired from the U.S. Air Force, May 1.

During his military career, Sgt. Whitely served as a first sergeant and technical training advisor in various flying, maintenance and support units. He was assigned military duties outside the United States for a period of 15 years and was stationed in Germany, Japan, the Philippines, Viet Nam, Thailand and England. His career as a professional noncommissioned officer resulted in numerous citations, awards and decorations. His awards and decorations include the Meritorious Service Medal, Air Force Commendation Medal (4), Republic of Viet Nam Campaign Medal (4), Viet Nam Service Medal, Viet Nam Cross of Gallantry with Palm, Presidential Unit Citation, Air Force Outstanding Unit Award for Valor, German Occupation Medal, National Defense Service Medal (2), and Air Force and Army Good Conduct Medals. Sergeant Whitely is currently residing at Betsy Layne and will be seeking employment in this area.

Dell Jagers Honored At Georgetown College

Dell Jagers, of Prestonsburg, was recently honored at Georgetown College during the college's Honors Day Program. He received a German award. Dr. John L. Butler, academic dean at Georgetown College, presided over the program which annually recognizes some of the college's most outstanding undergraduates.

Latter Day Saints Elders Begin Work In Floyd Co. Area

Elder John Neilson, of Delta, Utah, and Elder William Patterson, of Sacramento, Calif., are now serving as representatives of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints in the Floyd county area. They are two of approximately 25,000 missionaries of the Church.

Most missionaries are young men between the ages of 19 and 21, but young women 21 years and older and retired married couples also serve in full time capacities.

Receiving their mission calls from church headquarters in Salt Lake City, the missionaries have no say about where they are sent to fulfill their missions. One example from this area is Elder Marty Spurlock, who is now serving in Korea. They serve from 18 months for the couples and lady missionaries to two years for the elders. Their service is voluntary and they receive no monetary compensation from the church. The missionaries are either financed from previous savings, by parents or by the congregation from which they came. By paying their own way, they can work in an area without becoming a burden to the congregation.

While working in the county Elders Neilson and Patterson will be living in Martin and they can be reached at phone 285-9072.

To the Public

I congratulate Lawrence Hale on his victory in the primary election.

I love Floyd county and the people who live in it. I have no hard feelings toward anyone, and wish for you all the best.

Health Tip

(From the American Medical Association)

Plants of the poison ivy family are likely the single most often encountered cause of painful, itchy skin rash in the United States today.

This family of plants can grow in the great variety of conditions of soil, water and sun present in all states of the nation. There are several varieties, all causing the same trouble.

Poison sumac is a shrub or small tree. The others are vines. Except for the sumac, all are marked by three leaflets arising from the node. Remember the old w: "Leaflets three, let it be."

Washing with soap and water soon after exposure might help reduce the skin rash, the American Medical Association says. Cold water compresses will bring relief from itching and reduce inflammation. Calamine lotion will hasten drying of the blisters. Extensive and severe uncomfortable eruptions may require medications prescribed by a physician.

The only method for preventing poison ivy rash is avoiding the plants. There is no effective skin protectant or immunizing technique. The plants can be dug out, or destroyed by herbicides.

Actually, poison ivy is misnamed. It isn't really a poison. It is an allergen, which causes the body's defense mechanisms to over-react. First exposure might not produce a rash, but later exposures will trigger the reaction.

ARE YOU A LARK or an owl? Larks, according to the June Reader's Digest, are those sturdy souls who are bright-eyed and bushy-tailed first thing in the morning, while owls rev up later in the day and can often keep going until larks are ready to rise again. It's a question of body rhythms, scientists have found; a lark's temperature rises in the morning, but the owl's temperature doesn't peak until later in the afternoon.

Dancing at Hoedown Island

One of Kentucky's most famous wonders is the huge rock bridge curving across the sky like a mystical sky ship flying toward Torrent Falls in Natural Bridge State Park.

Natural Bridge country is filled and covered with history, legend, interesting rock formations, beautiful scenery and mountain hospitality. This welcoming warmth to the land of rocks and bridges is never more evident than on Saturday evenings when people from many surrounding counties and from far away places begin arriving at the resort park in Powell county to take in the square dancing on Hoedown Island.

Kentucky's outstanding dance caller Richard Jett, of Wolfe county, started his clog teams, hoedowners and do-si-do-ers April 30 with a big frolic. On June 3 at Natural Bridge State Resort Park, square dancing and all the gaiety, fun and fellowship that are part of this wholesome recreation initiate the season's two-night shindiggers. Friday and Saturday night dancing will continue throughout the summer.

Here on Hoedown Island, which has been enlarged for more floor space and additional seats for onlookers, visitors have opportunity to "go through a set," aided by veterans of the art or sit on the sidelines and watch some of the country's best performers.

On May 27, the Western Square Dance Frolic will attract additional performers and viewers from various states, followed May 28 by the Mountain Square Dance Festival. On May 29 a Bluegrass Music Festival will round out the week-end, allowing comparison of two styles of dancing and musical accompaniment, plus popular Bluegrass music.

"Square dancing is one of the best things that happened to the country," said Jett, who learned to dance and call sets several years ago in Washington, D. C., area. "Here on Hoedown Island, we make the get-togethers family evenings. We get to know one another and sometimes three generations of the same family will be here to dance or to watch."

Jett considers the Natural Bridge frolics conducive to good health and a good life. "It's the best exercise there is. There's no telling how old some of the square dancers are, for who looks or acts old when they're going through a set to the tune of "Old Joe Clark" or "Buffalo Gal." I know the gatherings help give area young people a place to go and something to do."

Other special programs connected with the square dance season include the 11th Annual National Mountain Style Square Dance Festival on June 17-18; Ninth Secession Plan Heard in Pike Co.

There's trouble brewing in the hills of Pike County. Some citizens are suggesting secession from the state's largest county on the ground of "neglect" from officials in this county seat.

It is hard to pin down how serious or widespread the unrest in the southern half of the county is. But a sign erected on U.S. 460 in Millard proposes creation of "Elkhorn County" below a line from Shelbyana to Phelps.

The sign says "WARNING! You are now entering the neglected highway of the proposed Elkhorn County. Drive with care."

The sign also notes there is a "Citizens Committee" of the proposed county. But not even Dick Junemaker, a Robinson Creek sign shop operator who put up the sign, claims to know the identity of the committee.

Nunemaker said he was "commissioned" to paint the sign but he said he doesn't recall the name of the person who paid him.

The sign was erected about two weeks ago, but the idea of secession was aired in public in a guest editorial in a Pikeville newspaper several weeks ago.

Carroll Sets Pike Co. Visit

Gov. Julian Carroll will combine today (Wednesday) an inspection tour of flood cleanup in Pike County with another of his visits with state government employees in his Governor to Government program.

The governor will tour the Pikeville, Peter Creek, Blackberry Creek, and South Williamson-Pond Creek areas. They are the areas hardest hit by the April flooding in Pike County.

On Thursday he will visit with state workers at their offices in Pike county. The Governor to Government visits will be preceded by a breakfast with local elected officials in Pike county. From 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. he will host a picnic on the Pikeville College grounds for all state workers in Pike county and spend the remainder of the afternoon going to the state offices.

The format of the Governor to Government Day is somewhat changed from previous ones. This time, the Governor will be going to various offices in Pike county and will meet briefly with supervisory personnel, and then proceed to visit with other employees at their work stations. As in the past, the governor will be available to speak privately with any employee who desires such a discussion.

Governor Carroll will be available for press and broadcast interviews at about 5 p.m. at the Appalachian Regional Hospital parking lot in South Williamson, and will also be available for interviews at about 4:45 p.m. Thursday at the district highway garage, North Mayo Trail, Pikeville.

He is scheduled to speak to Coal Operators & Associates at 7 p.m. Thursday at Pikeville College.

IN 1975, approximately 12.3 percent of the female work force in the United States was either divorced or separated, up from 10.7 percent in 1970, according to the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Kentucky's state parks and resorts have it all . . . from the most luxurious lodging and modern recreational facilities to wilderness backpacking trails and primitive camping areas. We figure there's more natural beauty here per square mile than just about anywhere else in the world. And this beautiful land of ours is called home by the most genuinely friendly and helpful people we think you'll ever meet.

There's a whole lot of beautiful America in Kentucky.

We'd like to show it to you.

UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY • COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE

Since the time man lived in caves and maybe even before, he has been concerned with methods of easing the agonies of hurts and diseases. In attempting to combat illnesses and cure injuries, he has come up with some very interesting practices. We don't know how effective they were, but strangely some of these old remedies are still used today.

Colds were cured by wearing a wool stocking around the neck. Fried rattlesnake meat was considered a sovereign cure for tuberculosis, then called "consumption." Bleeding from a cut or a wound was stopped by shifting a pocketknife from one pocket to another; by repeating over and over "Christ's wounds were never bound," or by placing spider webs, dry dirt, or coal soot in the wound.

Blood from the bobbed tail of a cat was used to cure shingles. Hunters wore the right eye of a wolf on the right sleeve as a protection from hunting accidents.

Eating from a blue dish cured a persistent and hacking cough, or a spider confined in a bottle was worn around the neck.

Nothing was thought more effective for a sore throat than to stick the head of a live fish in the mouth three times and then returning the fish unharmed back to water.

A cancer cure was tallow fried from the dried udder of a cow, smeared on a piece of flannel and worn over the tumor. A bag of camphor and asafetida worn around the neck was believed as a prevention for all ills.

In the light of modern times, these old remedies appear pathetic and no more than superstition, but who knows? Modern medical science admits that faith often goes a long way in the process of healing.

For example, some people still ward off toothache by trimming their finger and toenails only on Fridays and Sundays and bury the clippings on the northside of the smokehouse. Other toothache cures have included picking at the offending tooth with a splinter from a tree struck by lightning, or with the middle toe of a screech owl, a coffin nail, a raccoon bone, or a needle used to sew the burial shroud of a corpse.

To cure the mumps, children had their swollen jaws rubbed against the side of a hog trough. If they suffered from fits, they were forced to sleep in the loft above a cow stall, or were passed three times through the fork of a hickory tree.

Stroke: Prevention is Possible

(This is the fourth of a series of six articles to inform readers of this newspaper about various aspects of heart and blood vessel diseases.)

IV

Stroke is not a disease that affects only the aged, nor is it a matter of fate. It is caused, in many cases, by specific risk factors — factors that can be identified and reduced, according to the American Heart Association.

Stroke can usually be avoided, but prevention comes only by knowing risk factors and warning signals.

About 200,000 Americans will die of stroke this year. A total of 1,800,000 will be afflicted, many with crippling after-effects. Stroke occurs when oxygenated blood is blocked from reaching part of the brain, causing millions of brain cells to die; the result can be irreversible brain damage.

Many major strokes are preceded by "little strokes" or warning signals experienced days, weeks or months before the more severe event. Prompt medical or surgical attention to these symptoms may prevent a major stroke from occurring. The primary signal of stroke is a feeling of sudden, temporary weakness or numbness of face, arm and/or leg on one side of the body. Other signals include: temporary loss of speech or trouble in speaking or understanding speech; temporary dimness or loss of vision (particularly in one eye); unexplained dizziness or unsteadiness or sudden falls.

Many fatal strokes could have been prevented if hypertension (high blood pressure), a leading cause of stroke, had been diagnosed and controlled.

"We know reduction of risk factors can help prevent stroke," said a local Heart Association source. "Take high blood pressure, for example. Nowadays it can be controlled. VA Hospital research showed significant reduction in stroke deaths in cases where high blood pressure was controlled. And data from lengthy studies on residents of Framingham, Mass. has supported the theory that early detection of high blood pressure, and its control, is the key to stroke prevention."

Although high blood pressure is the most significant risk factor in stroke, like heart attack, there are other factors: high levels of cholesterol in the blood and excessive smoking are major factors, along with overweight, lack of exercise, stress, and a diet high in cholesterol and saturated fats.

Because stroke has hit young men and women, even children, it is essential that blood pressure checks, proper diet and heart-healthy living begins at an early age. That's why the local Heart Association stresses public and medical education on stroke prevention — particularly high blood pressure control.

Plan Area Chapter, Kidney Foundation

It is a documented fact that lives have been saved through the Organ Donor Program.

One young man who was totally dependent on dialysis is now living an almost normal life with plans for the future, because another young man had taken the time to fill out a simple form on the back of his Kentucky driver's license authorizing the use of his organs for transplant in the event of his death. In this case, a kidney transplant made the difference.

The story was revealed by a spokesman for the Kidney Foundation of Kentucky which, along with the Kentucky Department of Transportation, backed 1974 legislation making it possible for motorists to use the reverse side of their state-issued driver's licenses to voluntarily will their organs for surgical transplantation after death.

Transplants are only one facet of the Kidney Foundation's work, and all those interested in the foundation are being asked to attend a meeting at the Floyd County Library here, Friday, June 27, to organize a Big Sandy Chapter, Kidney Foundation of Kentucky, which will include Floyd, Johnson, Pike, Martin, and Magoffin counties. A film will be shown at 7 p.m., followed by the meeting at 7:30.

Retiring President, Speaker As 55 Receive ALC Degrees

Five Floyd countians were among 55 Alice Lloyd College students receiving associate degrees in commencement ceremonies May 13 at the college. The Floyd county students are:

Karen R. Duff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Duff, Hueysville; Randy D. Frasure, son of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Frasure, Grethel; William D. Hook, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hilbert, Hook, David; Sheila A. Isaac, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Isaac, Melvin; Sandra K. Newsom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Newsom, Harold.

"This is our commencement too," said William S. Hayes, who will retire as Alice Lloyd College president this summer after 35 years of service to the college. "There is so much we need to do," he said in his commencement address.

Following a year of vacation, Mr. Hayes will work through 1980 as a consultant in long range development for the college board of trustees.

"After that, however, my wife Edith and I wonder if we should continue in service in some way. We know there are people who suffer and those who are alienated, and we think we might be of some service."

"We believe God has an unfinished task for us—to bring his order more fully to the universe."

Mr. and Mrs. Hayes came to Caney Creek in 1942 to work with Mrs. Alice Lloyd at what was then called Caney College—Mr. Hayes as teacher and registrar, afterwards as dean, his wife as volunteer nurse. In 1960 he was appointed executive director of the college by the board of trustees and, after Mrs. Lloyd's death in 1962, became president.

Since 1960, ALC has tripled its enrollment capacity and its physical plant value has increased 10 times to over $5 million. The College's leadership education program, once funded for less than $100,000 per year, commands an investment of more than $4000 per student during the current fiscal year.

While the facts and figures may seem impressive to some, said Mr. Hayes, they do not constitute the criteria by which the accomplishments of the College's next president should be measured.

Mr. Hayes said the next president will have two important tasks, and he challenged the College's graduates to make these tasks important in their own work.

"The first task is to identify the values and purposes of God's work. Alice Lloyd College is fortunate that its next president, Dr. Jerry Davis, sees his work at Alice Lloyd College as God's task.

"The second requirement for our new president and of our graduates is to have faith in the providence of the universe," Mr. Hayes told the graduates.

Dr. Davis, 33, who holds a Ph. D. in entomology and zoology from Ohio State University, will assume the duties of president, Aug. 1. He is presently vice-president of North Greenville College in Tigerville, S. C. Prior to joining the staff of North Greenville, he worked for three years as vice-president for development at Cumberland College, Williamsburg, Ky.

Youth Job Plans To Begin June 20

The Big Sandy Area Community Action Program, Inc. has announced plans to operate a summer program in Floyd, Johnson, Martin, Pike and Magoffin counties. This program affords area disadvantaged youth the opportunity to earn a wage and acquire valuable work experience, and at the same time contribute to needed community services. Non-profit public and private agencies are urged to utilize these young employees.

The youths will be paid an hourly wage of $2.30 through funds made available through the E.K.C.E.P., Hazard.

The summer youth program will begin June 20. High school graduates and college students who meet the poverty guidelines and plan to resume their education this fall should contact the Manpower Office located on the third floor of the courthouse in Paintsville, Ky. or the Community Action Program Office, Prestonsburg, Phone 886-3697.

CENSUS DATA show that nearly one-third of 1965 workers had transferred to a different occupation by 1970, according to the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

FRANCHISED NEW car dealers registered an average annual productivity gain of 2.5 percent between 1958 and 1975, according to the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Health Tip

About half of us are allergic to something.

Pollen in the air can trigger hay fever, certain foods can start hives. Possible allergens are countless—house dust, animal fur, feathers, cosmetics, bleaches, medicines, foods, pollen. Some people are even allergic to heat, or to cold, or to sunlight. And there is the classic case of the woman who was allergic to her husband.

The American Medical Association points out that the most common result of allergy are four illnesses—hay fever, asthma, skin rashes, and digestive disturbances. Hay fever is an inflammation of the eyes and nasal passages. Asthma is a disease of the bronchial tubes of the lungs. Food allergies, a sensitivity to one or more foods, can affect the skin, the digestive tract or the respiratory system. Skin allergies cause itching, sometimes rash. Reaction to an allergen varies with individuals. One person may be only slightly upset by eating an egg. Another could become violently ill from a small trace of egg in salad dressing. There still are many unknown factors about the reason someone suddenly becomes allergic to something.

Allergic diseases are not usually fatal, but they can cause untold discomfort and suffering. Although worry and stress might be a contributing factor, allergy is not an imaginary illness. It is very real to the sufferer.

Sometimes the allergen is known and can be avoided. Sometimes many tests by a physician are required to arrive at the true cause. Medical care is necessary for relief of discomfort and for protection against future attacks.

Your doctor often can prescribe medications that will relieve the discomfort.
