

A 74-year-old woman was trapped for a time after the screen of the Prestonsburg Drive-In Theatre was blown onto the house which she occupied during Friday's high winds.

The Harold section of the county was perhaps hardest hit by the storms. Photo shows office of Clayton Mobile Home Sales there. Few mobile homes on the Clayton lot escaped damage.

Twisted ruins of the mobile home which housed the Darby & Allen Insurance Company, near Sugar Loaf is pictured here, after winds blew it from its foundation.

Friday Windstorms Cause Heavy Damage in County

Floyd county's sheltering hills failed to ward off two separate windstorms last Friday morning, and the result was heavy property damage, with six persons slightly injured. The wind touched down with damaging force mainly along the Big Sandy river valley but caused some damage at widely scattered spots elsewhere in the county.

Seventy-four-year-old Dora May escaped from her home here through a window after the huge screen of the Prestonsburg Drive-In Theater was torn loose from its moorings and was toppled onto her residence in the Porter Addition here. She was uninjured but much of her household furniture was badly damaged, as was the building which is owned by T. E. Neeley. In addition to the screen, the theatre fencing was blown down. Nearby, a tree toppled onto the roof of Bob Ranier's home.

Perhaps the heaviest storm damage was suffered by Clayton Mobile Homes, between Betsy Layne and Harold, the area which was apparently hardest hit. Ron Williams, Clayton manager, said half the mobile homes on his lot were damaged.

The roof of the nearby Conn's Texaco service station blew away and added to Clayton's loss by landing in the mobile home park.

Hall's Grocery and Gift Shop in the same area was derooft. It was in the Betsy Layne area that the six persons were injured as members of the Virgil Kendrick family were trapped inside their overturned mobile home. At Ivel a mobile home and a camper on the Dillon Recreational Vehicles lot were overturned.

The mobile home which housed the office of the Darby and Allen Insurance Agency near Sugar Loaf blew from its foundations into the adjacent field and was reduced to wreckage. All office files were in the building but most of these have been recovered. The agency's woes were not confined to the loss of the building and interruption of business—while the damage was being assessed, claims of others whom the agency had insured began coming in as a result of the storm.

Trial of Four In Slayings May Be Set

76 Residents Get Jury Duty Notices; Term Begins Apr. 4

The grand jury and petit jury panels for the April criminal term of circuit court will be formed from a list of 76 Floyd countians who have been notified for jury service.

The docket for the term will not be set till the term begins Monday, April 4, but it is fairly certain that it will include three murder trials. The defendants are: —Bobby Workman, charged with the slaying on Arkansas Creek of James Chaffins.

—Jot Marsillett, for the slaying of Sam Nelson, near Bonanza.

—Dallas Fletcher, of Magoffin county, charged with the slaying of a Salyersville policeman. The Floyd circuit court has jurisdiction in this case because the victim died at a hospital in this county.

Names and addresses of those notified for jury service during the term follow: Elsie Pinion, Ivel; Hobert Bates, Bevinville; Jerry T. Case, Garrett; James D. Bradley, Wayland; Bob Webb, Teaberry; Namo A. Green, Estill; Gladys M. McKinney; Birchell Sexton, Langley; Thelma Autore, Bevinville; Milford Howell, Grethel; John N. Jenny Wiley State Park Prepares for Big Season

Winter wasn't officially over till last Sunday, but Jenny Wiley State Park was acting like spring before that.

"We're getting ready for a big season," Park Manager Lowell Baker said this week. No major construction projects—mainly cleaning up the premises, making repairs, getting ready for the thousands who defy such things as gasoline shortages to enjoy the park, its lodge and Dewey Lake every season.

The major camping area which was completed last year at Goble Branch is already open. The golf course was opened last week-end. The boat dock is already in operation, and the run on docking spaces for boats is heavy.

Only one park attraction, the riding concession, remains doubtful. Last

This Town...That World

As a rule, I can bring relief from a heat wave by predicting more of same, but I've found one sign that makes me look pretty good in the forecasting business. This week when I saw those star magnolias bursting into bloom, all over the place, I sounded a warning. (Now, if that doesn't turn the thermometer around for the better, you may as well decide the weather has gone to pot, too.)

THERE IS A CURE

As of inst. date I have escaped spring fever and that general feeling of lassitude which only liberal potions of sassafras tea will cure. But just now I'm suffering my third relapse of fishing fever, and no herb, potion or charm known to man has any beneficial effect. Some of these fellows who have been inviting me to join them for a bit of fishing may find in this a not-too-subtle warning that I am on the verge of accepting their hospitality.

SEASONAL TRAVAIL

This youngster became rather philosophical, the other day, after two windstorms had hit nearby. He pointed out that the spring and its violence of wind and rain spoke of nature's stirrings, of a birthing time. In the same vein he remarked that autumn is the dying-time, days of quiet sunshine and hazy distances.

And I almost agreed with him till I recalled what the September equinox sometimes brings in the most rip-snotin' way.

TAKE AS DIRECTED

At my request George Brown and Watt Hale have collaborated in compiling their own "almanac" of oldtime remedies. The two of them have doubtless recalled others since they finished this first draft of their work, but this one covers a good deal of ground. It runs to this effect:

For all aches and pains, Oil of 7 Pines and Japanese oil were recommended as sure relief. Rub it on briskly.

In the oldtime country store, you could always find Barker's Nerve and Bone Linament, "good for man or beast."

For the measles, there was nothing better than a large glass of tea made

Water Extension Contracted, But Work Delayed

The Prestonsburg Utilities Commission has awarded a contract for extension of its water line to connect with the Allen water system and afford New Allen and vicinity better service, but work can't begin till the money promised from Governor Carroll's contingency fund is received.

Bill Harvey Howard, city utilities superintendent, said the governor's help on the project, which has been labelled an emergency, will be $31,000, the full amount of the contract.

Jim Music, of Abbott Creek, has contracted to lay the eight-inch line from the Mack Tackett Furniture Store a distance of approximately 5,000 feet into New Allen.

Meanwhile, the Sharp Co., of Winchester, Ky., low bidder on the sewer line construction to the Lick Branch site where the Kentucky National Guard armory is under construction, began work this week. The work involves laying of 1.6 miles of six-inch line and construction of a lift station. The line is adequate to serve the area from the armory to the Highlands Medical Center when, and if, the sewer is extended to that area.

Hospital Strike Deadline Is Set As Pact Talked

Appalachian Regional Hospitals, Inc. announced today that it has been notified by the United Steelworkers of America that the union intends to strike the hospital system April 1 because agreement on a new contract has not been reached.

ARH President David K. Heydinger said, however, he is confident an agreement can be reached before the current contract expires at midnight March 31.

"ARH and the Steelworkers have been bargaining since October and additional negotiating sessions are scheduled prior to April 1," Dr. Heydinger said.

Although he says he firmly believes a strike can be averted, Heydinger said he feels obligated to inform the people served by the hospitals that the possibility of a strike exists.

Eddie Jones won last Saturday his long fight for acquittal of the murder charge lodged against him in this county for the shotgun slaying at Garrett of Deputy Sheriff Lawrence Conley.

An all-male jury of the Pike circuit court deliberated about two hours before returning the "not guilty" verdict. The case was argued by opposing counsel Saturday morning after four days of testimony.

In the first trial of the case at Pikeville last January, the jury failed to agree and the deadlock was then reported as a 6-6 split in the jury poll.

A second murder indictment remains against Jones in the slaying near Wayland of James Clayton Conley, but it is not expected to come to trial, since the Commonwealth regards it as the weaker of the two cases.

"I am very happy," the defendant said following the verdict. "This has been a long, drawn-out affair. I killed no one. It's been a long time coming, but I feel great now."

Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen, who led the prosecution at Pikeville last week, expressed keen

Research Shows Man Here 10,000 Years Ago

That American Indians lived among the hills of Floyd county for at least 10,000 years was among the findings of two Kentucky Heritage Commission archaeologists who recently concluded a three-week archaeological survey of the county.

The researchers, Tom Sanders and Tom Gatus, began their investigation into the county's past, February 21, as part of a large-scale Kentucky Heritage Commission project which provides for similar studies to be conducted in a total of 24 counties throughout the state.

Sanders explained that the commission has selected a county from each of the state's area development districts—"usually the county in a district in which the least archaeological research has been done."

In the case of Floyd county, the last (and only) work by archaeologists occurred in 1932 when Professor W. S. Webb recorded a meager three sites in the northern section of the county, near the Johnson county line, where most of Webb's survey and excavation took place.

When Gatus and Sanders concluded their survey little more than a week ago, they had recorded 10 times as many sites with a total of 33 in various sections of the county. "This total doesn't include the dozens we heard about and just didn't have the time to check out," Gatus stressed.

The archaeologists, who depended almost completely upon "leads" which they gathered from local artifact collectors and other interested residents, said their search for sites in the county, which they admitted could only "skim the surface" in the time allotted them, had been more successful than they had hoped. "We were surprised at finding so many sites in such a short period of time," Sanders remarked.

A site could be defined as any area where Indian occupation can be verified by the presence of artifacts, which may include various flint or chert tools and weapons such as projectile points or "arrow heads," scrapers, drills and knives, bone or shell tools and pottery. From differences in methods and styles of tool or pottery manufacture archaeologists are able to identify sites as belonging to certain time periods and using such knowledge, Sanders and Gatus identified three different time periods for Floyd county's original inhabitants.

"Peoples of the Archaic period lived here, as in other parts of Kentucky and much of the eastern United States from about 8,000 to 1,000 B.C.," Sanders explained. As hunters and fishermen, Indians of the Archaic period moved with the seasonal availability of different

Reduces Fuel Curtailments

Frankfort, Ky.—Gov. Julian Carroll announced recently that Columbia Gas of Kentucky has made a further substantial reduction in its natural gas use curtailments by its large industrial and large commercial customers.

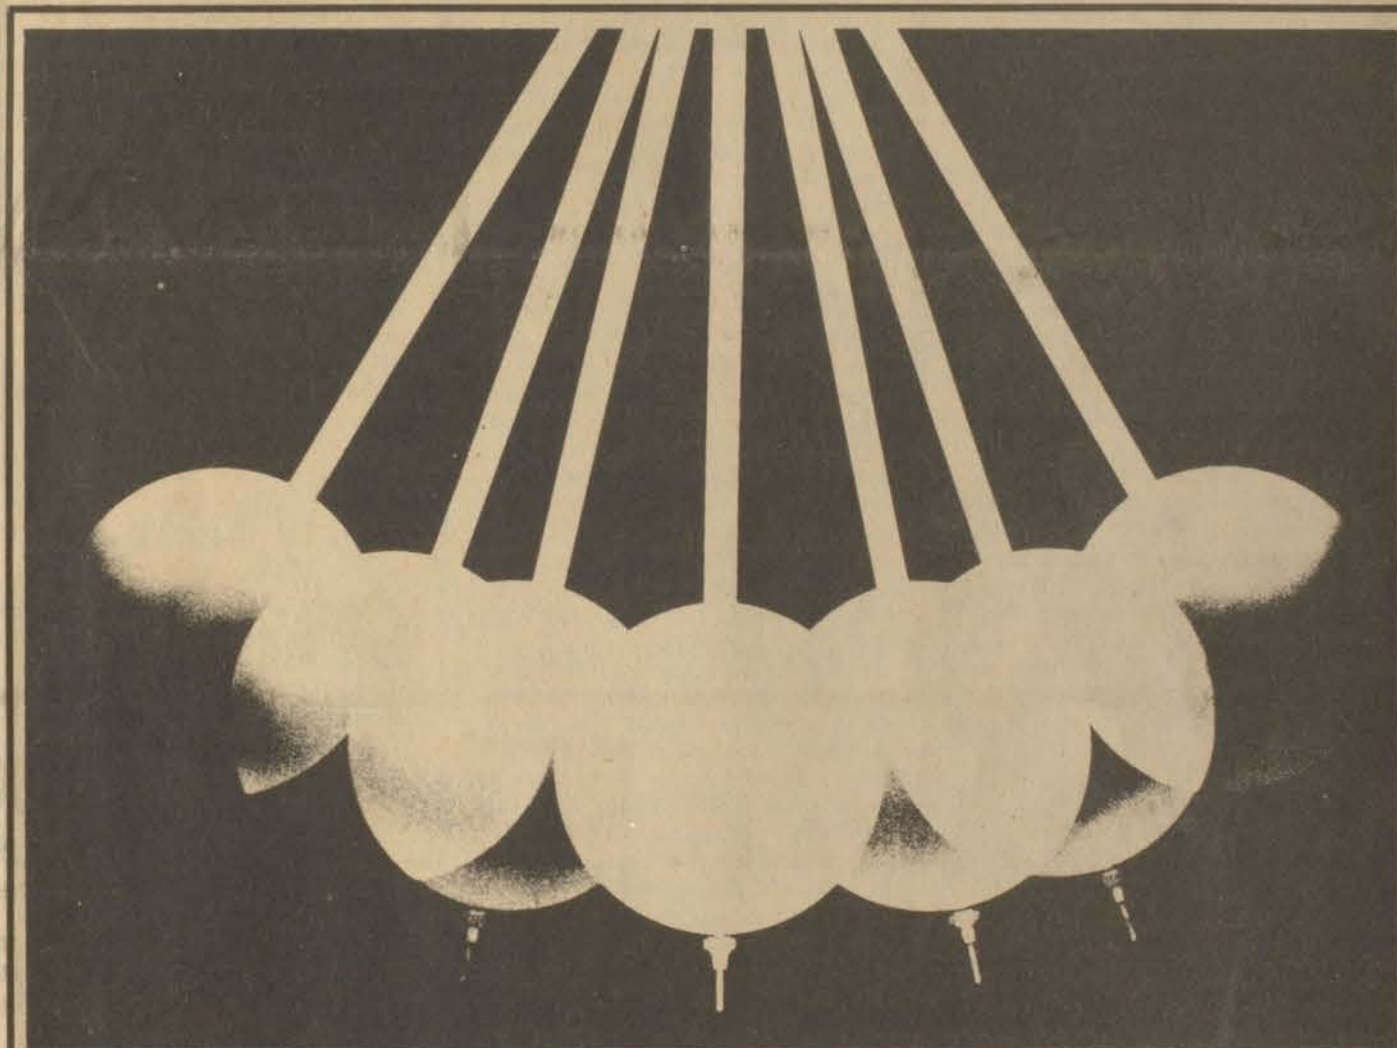

Effective March 10, Columbia of Kentucky completely lifted its 40 percent curtailment on 115 large commercial customers. On the same date, 75 large industrial customers had their curtailment of 50 per cent. of non-substitutable gas totally lifted. Columbia points out that all boiler fuel curtailments remain at 100 per cent.

Through a system of carefully planned steps to be taken in case of severely cold temperatures, most large industrial and commercial natural gas consumers in the Commonwealth were curtailed at 100 per cent for a number of weeks. Smaller customers' use of natural gas was cut back to a lesser degree.

All of these steps were taken to insure sufficient gas for essential human needs. On March 1, large commercials' curtailments were reduced from one hundred to forty per cent, and large industrials' cutbacks were reduced from one hundred to fifty per cent.

"I am convinced that careful planning and wise use of conservation methods in all walks of life preserved sufficient natural gas for our most pressing needs," Gov. Carroll said. "With warm temperatures returning, however, it is important that none of us lose sight of the need for continued fuel conservation awareness."

Columbia serves customers in central and eastern Kentucky.

US 23—Adequate for What?

The failure of state and federal bureaus of highways to plan four-laning of US 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville is blamed on the judgment passed, some years ago, to the effect that the present two-lane road with its overhanging cliffs is adequate.

Adequate for what? For those who like a thrill and to take a chance? Certainly not for the heavy traffic between the two points.

We wonder, too—Since when has somebody's guess of years ago about the traffic capabilities of a road become so infallible that the passage of time, industrial development and the increase of motor traffic are given no consideration later.

To officials who receive from every corner of the Commonwealth pleas for help every Kentuckian must seem to belong to the category of the Old Testament's leech doctor's daughters whose cry was, "Give! Give!", but the importunities that plague them do not alter real situations. The situation on this stretch of road, which would be the only two-lane section of US 23 in the Big Sandy unless official thinking changes, is this:

The present two-lane US 23 is so dangerous that those threatening cliffs should be cut back and terraced against future rockfalls—and, that done, a new, four-lane highway between Prestonsburg and Paintsville should be built to meet traffic demands that are not in some distant future but are as immediate as this very moment.

types of game and fish and settled down only seasonally.

The Woodland period, dating from 1,000 B. C. to around 900 A. D. saw a more sedentary people who supplemented hunting and gathering activities with some farming. Woodland sites are often identified by the presence of a distinct type of pottery as well as certain tool types.

The most recent period identified in the county is referred to as Ft. Ancient with dates between 1200 and 1650 A. D. "Those living during the Fort Ancient period resided in rectangular or oval houses in small villages," said Sanders. "In addition to hunting and fishing, they farmed corn, beans and squash."

Although the archaeologists found no artifacts in the field which could be identified as belonging to the most ancient occupation in the state, the Paleo-Indian, large, extremely well-made spear points characteristic of the period were seen in local collections and the researchers regard these as proof of the existence of these most ancient Indians in Floyd county.

"There have been Indians here since at least 10,000 years ago, and perhaps as long ago as 30,000 years," Sanders pointed out.

The great span of time encompassed by human occupation in the county as well as statewide goes against what the archaeologists said was a common misconception among residents in this section as elsewhere—that any artifact found must be related to Cherokee or Shawnee. "Certainly these groups were in this area at the time of the coming of the white man," Gatus said, "but 10,000 years before the white man we can talk only of time periods and things like artifact types and burial methods, not of specific tribes."

As students dedicated to learning about the state's prehistory, Sanders and Gatus are very outspoken against the work of "pothunters," or those who indiscriminately dig and consequently destroy valuable information just for the sake of recovering artifacts. "The amount of potting in Floyd county is about average," said Sanders. The archaeologists reported a good deal of digging in local rockshelters and in mounds where, Sanders pointed out, "some people are under the totally false impression that they will find gold in Indian mounds."

"The Kentucky Heritage Commission has initiated this project as a means of recording all the sites it can in a limited period of time before such things as highway or dam building or any other type of construction can destroy them," Sanders explained.

Gatus and Sanders emphasized that responsible amateur archaeologists can contribute a great deal to the knowledge of the state's prehistory, and they said numerous amateur organizations throughout the state work regularly with the University of Kentucky and other state institutions.

The archaeologists, both graduate students at U.K., recorded numerous bottomland sites, ridge top burial sites, large mounds, and rockshelter, sites. Although one of the shelters investigated had been destroyed by pothunters, fragments of human bone, polished and drilled stone beads and mussel shell ornaments were found in the backdirt piles.

One site attributed to probably Woodland occupation was found on the campus of Prestonsburg Community College. Sanders explained this rather surprising discovery:

"We just happened to be driving by the college campus noticing the relatively wide bottom which the buildings occupy and we noticed an area where the grass had been worn off, so we decided, what the heck, we might as well go take a look."

Finding that the area had been used as a softball field, the two walked the exposed ground and immediately found some pieces of Indian pottery and "several flint chips."

"Much of the area has been filled," Gatus pointed out, "but the area of the ball field hasn't, and it's definitely a site."

Gatus and Sanders said they had met with "excellent cooperation" from Floyd county residents. "People couldn't have been nicer," Sanders said. Sanders, a native of Winchester, and Gatus, a Pennsylvanian, said their stay here was "enjoyable and productive."

The two archaeologists are now conducting a similar survey in Perry county.

Hostesses for the evening were Myra Salisbury and Doris Osborne. Members present were Dorthula Childers, Barbara Gullett, Gladys Gullett, Jenny Hagan, Mattie Hall, Gloria Harlowe, Barbara Johnson, Doris Osborne, Myra Salisbury, Alma Souleyrette and Kathy Tackett.

disappointment at the acquittal. "We feel," he said, "we presented one of the strongest cases and that the defense had one of the weakest. We cannot understand the basis for the jury verdict."

Although commending Circuit Judge A. N. Venters for his impartial handling of the trial, Allen said, "Under no circumstances will I try another case in Pike county."

Lester Burns, one of Jones' attorneys, said the verdict reaffirmed his faith in the jury system. "When the evidence presented calls for a not guilty verdict, you'll get one," he commented.

In essence, the testimony heard during the trial differed little from that which was heard in January.

There was only one admitted eyewitness—John Martin. Martin detailed the circumstances surrounding the killing, saying Jones shot Conley twice after he and Jones had stopped at the Garrett service station where Conley had parked his cruiser.

Jones, however, denied any part in Conley's death, and his claim that he was at the Lackey home of Zelda Terry at the time of the shooting was corroborated by Mary Ellen Bentley and her daughter, Nova.

The Commonwealth sought to introduce a tape purporting to be the conversation of Mary Ellen Bentley, some months prior to the first trial of the case, in which she implicated Jones, but the tape was not admitted as evidence.

The Commonwealth sought to refute Jones' claim that he had been with the Bentley woman during the entire evening and knew nothing of the killing till the next morning. It introduced as witnesses Kendall Martin and Anthony Castle who claimed they saw Jones and Martin with two women at Martin's Service Station at Hueysville at about 7:30, the evening of the slaying. (Martin, however, had testified that he and Jones drove to Hueysville and were on their way back to Lackey when they stopped at the Garrett service station and Jones shot Conley.)

Tivis (Bo) Neeley, a new prosecution witness, testified that he saw Jones and Conley in an apparent heated argument at Lackey, some days before Conley's death. He also testified that Eddie Jones conferred with his brother, Phillip Neeley (now dead), as the two sat in a car and that he heard his brother say as he left the car, "If you want him killed, you can kill him yourself."

Again the shotgun which Martin admitted was his was identified by the deposition of Donald R. Blackburn as the murder weapon. A shotgun shell casing was found at the service station where Conley was killed, and Blackburn in his deposition said, "This shell casing was shot from this shotgun and no other shotgun in the world."

The gun, Martin claimed, was the weapon Jones used to fire on Conley.

As in the first trial, Martin was brought into the courtroom under heavy armed guard. He has been kept by state or federal officers, or both, almost in hiding since flatly accusing Jones of the shooting.

"I would also like to point out," Dr. Heydinger added, "that the central management office of ARH in Lexington will not determine the individual hospital's response to a strike."

That determination, he said, will be made by the board of governors of each hospital.

A guideline common to each board, and each hospital's medical staff, Dr. Heydinger added, is not just the provision of health care but the quality of service a hospital can deliver with fewer personnel.

"Our primary concern is the patient," Dr. Heydinger said, adding that ARH annually provides inpatient care for more than 46,000 persons in the Central Appalachian service area. Out-patient services total more than 625,000 yearly and more than 130,000 visits are made annually to ARH emergency rooms.

ARH operates hospitals at McDowell, Harlan, Hazard, Middlesboro, South Williamson, West Liberty, and Whitesburg, Ky.; Beckley and Man, West Va., and Wise, Va. The county-owned hospital at West Liberty is not a part of the collective bargaining agreement, Dr. Heydinger said.

Draw from the Hip!—Handgun Use OK'd

Kentucky deer hunters will be permitted to use certain handguns during the 1977 gun deer season, according to Arnold Mitchell, commissioner of the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

All handguns used for deer hunting must have barrel lengths of 3.90 inches or more and no full metal jacketed bullets of any caliber may be used, according to the regulation adopted by the Fish and Wildlife Commission at its quarterly meeting March 7.

Only cartridges of the following calibers may be used in handguns: .30 Herrett; .357 magnum; .357 Herrett; .357 auto mag; .41 magnum; .41 auto mag; .44 magnum; .44 auto mag; .44-40; .45 Colt long; .45 auto mag; and .45 ACP, the last of which must have either semi-jacketed hollow point or semi-jacketed soft point bullets.

Handguns meeting the above qualifications may be used during the statewide gun deer season, Nov. 12 through Nov. 14 and Dec. 3 through Dec. 5.

Regulations concerning the use of handguns on hunting areas subject to special regulation will be made at a later date, Mitchell said.

Annual Book Fair at Clark School

Children make their selections as the annual book fair draws to a close at Clark Elementary School. Each year the fair is held to provide a wider selection of reading materials for children than can be found in most neighborhood stores. The fair also allows time for parents to visit the school and assist their children in making selections.

Of the total enrollment of 530 at the school, 415 made purchases, either for themselves or as gifts. Many purchased books for their pre-school brothers and sisters. A total of 1,097 books were purchased during the week the fair was in progress.

Mrs. Louise Howard, school librarian and book fair chairman, indicated that this was the most successful fair the school has sponsored, in student response and in the number of parents who volunteered to assist during the week.

Among the volunteers were Alice Ratliff, Judy Frasure, Deloris Baldrige, Bernice Shuff, Carole Rice, Linda Woofter, Elaine Ousley, Juanita Bailey, Janice Hodson, Martha Murical, Mary Sue Moore, Sue Nairn, Jean Rosenberg, and Rosalie Shepherd. "We wish to thank all students, teachers, and parents for making our book fair such a success this year. Without everyone's cooperation, activities such as this just do not always succeed," Mrs. Howard stated.

ASCS Now Receiving Farmers' Applications

The Floyd County ASCS office is now taking applications for cost-sharing under the 1977 Agricultural Conservation Program. The ACP federally funded program shares the cost of needed conservation measures on farms.

Practices available for cost-sharing include the establishment of permanent vegetative cover, improving established permanent vegetative cover, planting trees, improving a stand of forest trees, underground drainage systems, water impoundment reservoirs, permanent wildlife habitat, soil erosion and runoff control measures, agricultural lime and interim cover crop.

Farmers who are interested in participating in this program should contact their local ASCS office as soon as possible. The phone number of the Floyd county office is 886-2802.

Way of the Cross Outreach Work Spurs Interest Here

The second floor of a South Lake Drive building here which formerly was occupied by a store and offices has become the center for a religious work which is described as "a church and yet more than a place for worship."

The Way of the Cross Outreach, which began its work from there in February, last Sunday added to its program the traditional 11 a.m. worship service.

Non-denominational, the effort will be to reach young people with problems and adults who need help.

Jean Carol Hale, pastor-director of the Way of the Cross Outreach, said, "This work is not designed to take away from any church but to reach the unloved and the unlovable for Jesus Christ."

The idea has attracted the attention of members of traditional denominations. Professional people are lending their assistance. The second floor of the building was made available without cost by its owner, H. D. Fitzpatrick, Jr. The board of directors is composed of persons of varying religious beliefs.

"Eventually, we may have a building, but we needed to get started and were fortunate enough to have the space we have," Miss Hale said.

Sunday school is at 10 a.m., and Sunday morning worship is at 11. All other activities are at 7 p.m.—Evangelistic outreach on Sunday; youth outreach, Mondays; prayer and share, Wednesdays; deeper life teaching, Thursdays.

ADD Directors Set Priorities, Back Reservoir

Directors of the Big Sandy Area Development District (BSADD) adopted a list of nine project priorities at their meeting Monday night at May Lodge in preparation for the April 18 meeting with the State Development Cabinet, and at the same time adopted a resolution reaffirming their support of the Paintsville dam and reservoir.

The priorities adopted, in the order of their importance in the view of the directors are:

1. Extension or development of water and sewer systems.
2. Improved primary, secondary and county roads.
3. Improved housing.
4. Solid waste collection and disposal.
5. Industrial and job development.
6. Better medical facilities.
7. Road to Inez.
8. Development of local initiatives.
9. Parking and movement of traffic.

The priorities listed will be Big Sandy ADD's contribution to the statement being required of the Development Cabinet by the Appalachian Regional Commission pinpointing "Issues in Appalachia Kentucky" and stating where emphasis should be placed by ARC.

Five priorities were originally sought when those attending Monday night's meeting divided into four groups for consideration of area needs. Four were added to the list when the assessment and tabulation of views was concluded.

The meeting with the State Development Cabinet will be held at 4 p.m. April 18, at May Lodge. The meeting will be open to the public.

The Paintsville dam was one of several projects opposed by President Carter. The ADD board's resolution reaffirming its support of the project said, in part: "The project, to be located in Johnson county, is now in the construction state, after more than twelve years of design, engineering and land acquisition. It has had more intensive study than any similar project in the area, including detailed environmental review in U. S. District Court. Objections to various aspects of the project have been met, to the extent that the suit in Federal court was removed from the docket."

"The benefits of the Paintsville dam and reservoir, including flood protection, economic potential, tourism attraction, job development and possible industrial site acquisition, all conform with the long-range plans of the multi-county Big Sandy Area Development District for the future growth of the area."

Voc Rehab Bureau In Location Change

The Floyd county offices of the Bureau of Vocational Rehabilitation moved last Wednesday into the Allen building on Third Street after 13 years in quarters afforded by the Floyd County Board of Education in its administration building here.

The building is one of the few, if not the only one, in the state that has been especially designed to meet the needs of handicapped persons.

Office personnel interview persons who have a disability which hinders them in having gainful employment. Those who qualify for employment are helped find or keep jobs. Others are referred to college or vocational schools, according to their qualifications, and others are referred to the rehabilitation center at Thelma.

Members of the staff are Carl Hall, counselor, who also serves Knott county; James Justice, counselor; Patty Reynolds, Sandra Wicker and Dee Dee Moore, secretaries.

Floyd Among 13 Counties To Get 60 Housing Units

Sixty housing units have been allotted Floyd and a dozen other Eastern Kentucky counties in HUD's Existing Housing Assistance Payments Program designed to help lower income families have decent, safe and sanitary housing at rental prices they can afford.

Public housing agencies in these and other counties are being invited to submit applications to administer the program, Virgil Kinnaird, director of HUD's Louisville office, said.

Other counties among which the 60 units will be divided are Johnson, Magoffin, Martin, Pike, Breathitt, Knott, Lee, Leslie, Letcher, Owsley, Perry and Wolfe.

Once operation of the program has begun, public housing agencies will solicit applications from eligible families. Single persons 62 or older or the handicapped may also be eligible. Certificates of Family Participation will be issued to persons or families whose adjusted gross income does not exceed 80 percent of the median income for the area.

The success of the program is largely dependent upon the participation of individual rental property owners, Kinnaird said. Their willingness to lease units to eligible families is crucial to the solution of the housing problem, he added.

Brothers Escape Johnson Jail

Law enforcement agencies were searching last week for two brothers who escaped from the Johnson county jail early Wednesday morning.

The two men, David and Dennis Gilliam, 20 and 18, both of Sitka, were being held in connection with a February kidnapping and rape charge. They are described as both having red shoulder-length hair. David is five feet 10 inches tall, about 155 pounds, with blue eyes. Dennis is described as five feet nine inches tall, about 130 pounds, with gray eyes, according to Johnson County Sheriff Harold VanHoose.

Kentucky State Police Det. B. J. Music said law enforcement agencies have been notified in several states concerning the two escapees.

Deputy Jailer Elige Kistner said the two escaped about 4:30 a.m. Wednesday. Music said they used a steel bar to pry the cell bars apart and then crawled out through a narrow space. The jail is currently being renovated, Music said, and the two brothers may have gotten the steel bar they used in their breakout amidst all the repair work. Music said he did not think an accomplice was involved.

The two men had not been brought to trial on the kidnap and rape charges, VanHoose said, and were in jail because they could not meet bond. They were to go to trial in April VanHoose said.

The charges stem from a February incident when the two men allegedly kidnapped a woman at an area laundromat, drove her out to a strip mine and raped her, VanHoose said.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Dayrus S. Montgomery wishes to take this opportunity to express appreciation to all our friends and neighbors who helped us in our time of need. We wish to thank everyone for all the nice flowers, food, respect and sympathy you have shown to us and our mother. We would also like to thank the nurses and doctors at the Highlands Regional Medical Center who were so helpful during his illness. A special thanks to Dr. Doug Adams when we needed him, also for the kindness and understanding we received from the Floyd Funeral Home and their staff.

We cannot explain in words how much we appreciate the Rev. Moses Kitchen, of the Church of God, and the singers. All we can say is, thank you and may God bless you. We also would like to thank the pallbearers and the honorary pallbearers, along with Henry C. Hale for his assistance in a time of need.

I would like to take this time to apologize to those that were not notified of our father's death especially to those out of state. Our father had so many friends we just could not reach them all.

I wish Dad could have been alive to see all his friends together.

May God bless all of you and we wish we were able to thank all of you in person.

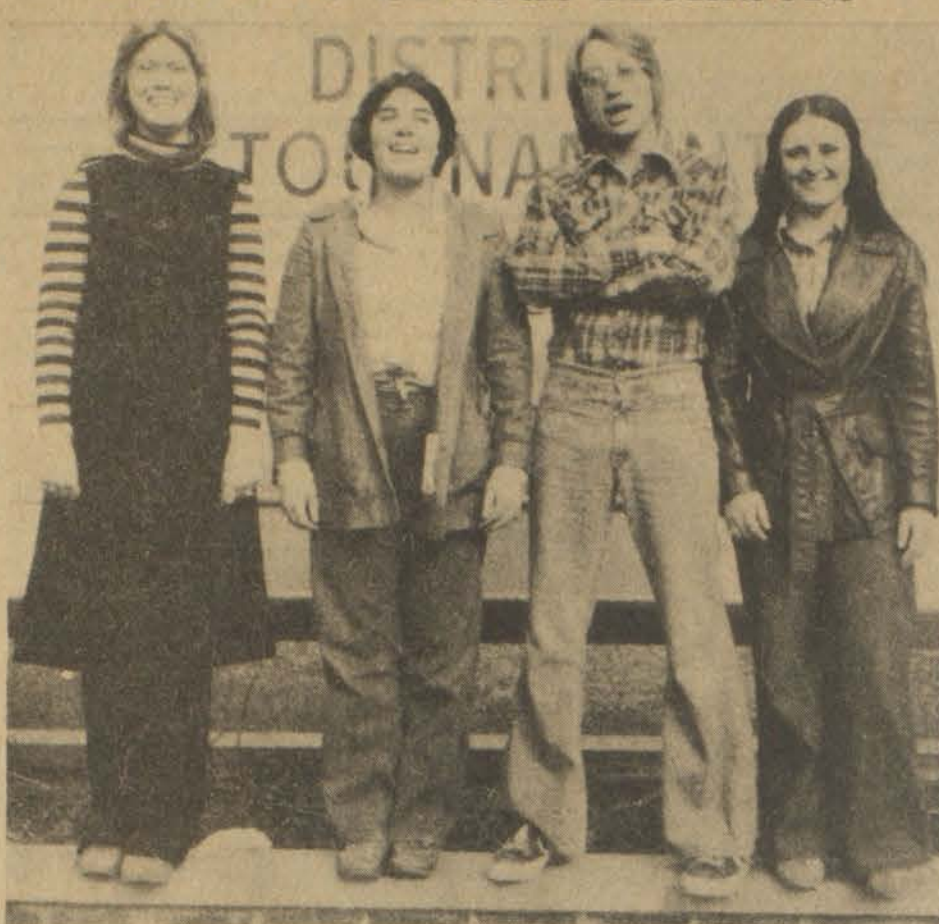

We would like to ask you to pray for our mother and visit her if you have the time.

Again may God bless you. We will never forget you, Dad.

HARRIS TO PRESS

FOR DISASTER AID

Frankfort, Ky.—Agriculture Commissioner Thomas Harris is tired of waiting for word from Washington on whether Kentucky farmers will get federal disaster aid.

If the Federal Disaster Assistance Administration doesn't call tomorrow, Harris said, "I'll, by God, call them."

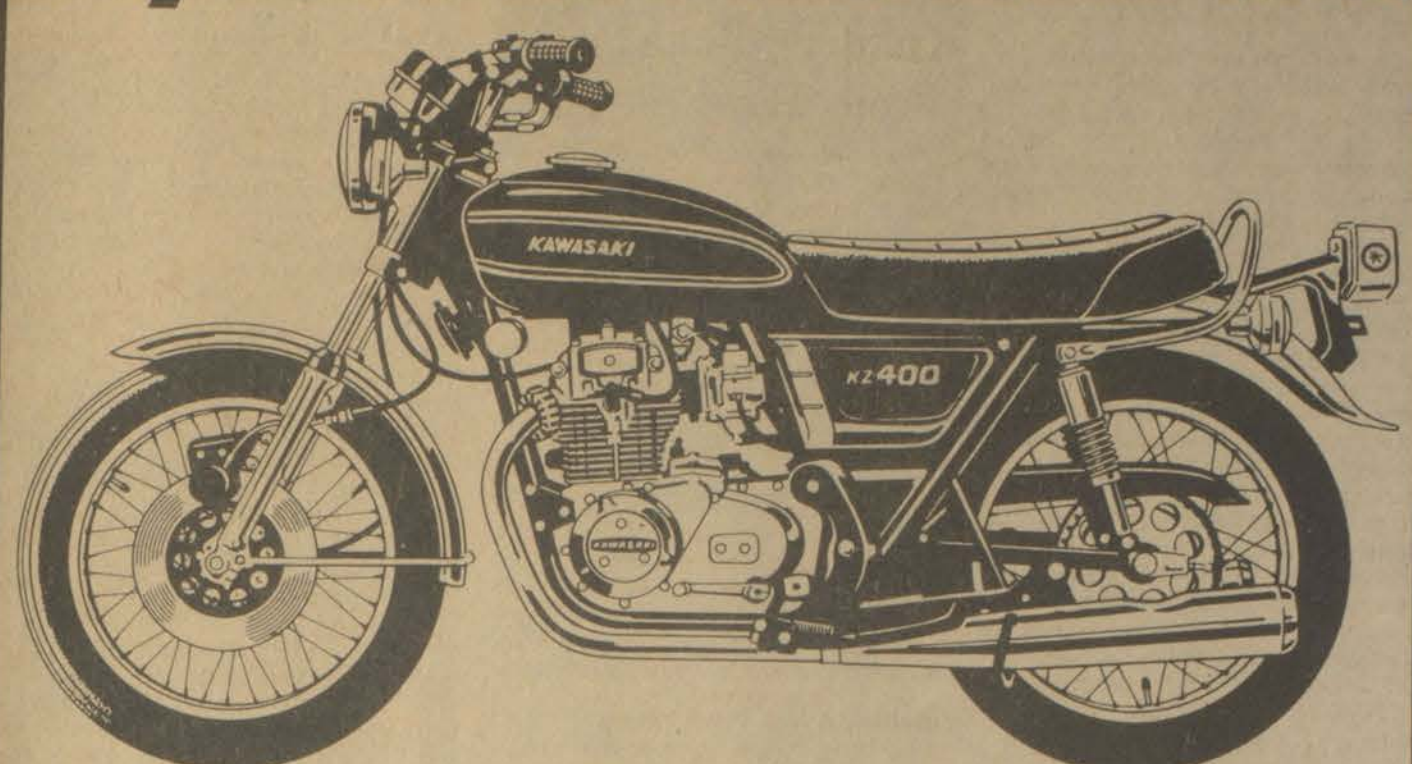

The commissioner has visited Washington twice to urge approval of Kentucky's request for low-interest loans for farmers and grants to help pay for extra feed needed to keep animals alive during the state's coldest and snowiest winter in years.

MANY VETERANS ARE ELIGIBLE FOR REHABILITATION TRAINING

Veterans with service-connected disabilities of 10 per cent or more may be entitled to training under the Veterans Administration's vocational rehabilitation program, the agency reminded today.

Nearly 28,000 disabled veterans received training under the program in fiscal year 1976 and 800,000 veterans have participated since World War II.

Veterans with disability rated 10 per cent or more who are found to require rehabilitation can receive up to four years of training. Eligibility for training is usually nine years after discharge and under certain conditions this may be extended four years. A new law provides seriously disabled veterans training beyond these termination dates when this is found to be necessary, it was noted.

Rehabilitation training may be taken at colleges, universities, vocational, technical schools, or by means of job or farm training.

If necessary, training may be taken in special facilities or in the veteran's own home.

Eligible disabled veterans applying for training will receive VA counseling to determine need for such training, and covering the veterans' desires, abilities and goals in identifying the most advantageous action.

VA pays for tuition, books, and fees. Trainees receive a monthly allowance, and disability compensation also. Monthly checks were recently increased 8 percent, and single veterans training full time in school or college now receive $226 monthly. Veterans with one dependent receive $280 per month and those with two dependents draw $329 monthly. Trainees are paid an additional $24 a month for each dependent over two.

Veterans participating in VA's work-study program may work a maximum of 250 hours per semester (or other enrollment period) and earn a maximum of $624. Payment is at the rate of $2.50 per hour.

Get full details of the rehabilitation programs at the nearest Veterans Administration office or at any veterans organization office.

Some Area Landowners Fearful Of Permits To Reclaim Land

Landowners in Knott, Perry and Letcher county agree that reclamation of their land on which are located abandoned stripmines is needed. But some are balking at signing an agreement that would permit the work to be done.

Burned once by the broad-form deed, they fear the agreement could give somebody unknown rights again.

John Witt, commissioner of the Bureau for Land Resources in the state Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, said that residents of Perry, Knott and Letcher counties are leery of agreeing to anything since their parents and grandparents signed broad form deeds in the late 19th and early 20th century.

Those deeds transferred mineral rights under a landowner's property, in the belief that coal would be extracted without extensive surface disturbance, Witt said.

Since strip mining was virtually unknown at the time, they could not have imagined giant earth moving machines lifting the surface soil to get at the underlying coal seams—now the most common mining method in the mountains.

So when the people working on the reclamation project asked residents of Perry, Knott, and Letcher counties to sign an agreement allowing them to start reclamation work, they were rejected, Witt said.

"They say, 'I'm not agreeing to anything. I signed something way back then that was supposed to be a simple instrument, too.'" Ironically, the five-year reclamation project is aimed at undoing some of the damage caused by careless strip mining.

Kentucky is one of four states participating in the federal project, administered by the Tennessee Valley Authority with a total budget of $23.5 million.

Kentucky's share is to reclaim more than 40,000 acres of strip mined land in 12 southeastern Kentucky counties. Kentucky has already received $650,000 in federal funds, which will be replenished as the reclamation is completed, Witt said.

After a year of operation, only a few hundred acres have been reclaimed in Laurel and Clay counties, where the broad form deed was not widely used, he said.

Federal guidelines for the project say the landowners must agree to protect the reclaimed land from re-mining or regrading for at least five years, and agree to open it to the public for "low level" use such as hiking. Landowners do not have to permit camping.

Landowners are also asked to cooperate with local soil conservation district personnel responsible for carrying out the actual reclamation and in maintaining the reclaimed land.

Witt said the federal government has been adamant that if the taxpayers' money is to be spent to reclaim the land, the public has the right to something in return—such as a guarantee that the land will not be ripped up again for a few years.

Witt said he was deeply concerned about the landowners' attitude, but that he understands it. He is a Perry County native.

"On the basis of having been severely burned, they're not interested in signing a little offhand agreement—such as they were probably told the broad form deeds were," Witt said.

Witt said he met with TVA officials Monday who told him to assure landowners they would have discretion over who they permitted on their property.

"We're going to go back and try again," Witt said. "We've not by any means given up."

Junior Historians' Workshop Reslated Saturday at ALC

A workshop for Eastern Kentucky's Junior Historians, originally scheduled for March 11-12 at Alice Lloyd College at Pippa Passes, has been rescheduled for Saturday of this week.

Officers from Junior Historical Society (JHS) chapters in the Eastern Kentucky district will participate in the one-day workshop to prepare for their jobs as curators of the Kentucky Historical Society (KHS) Historymobile.

The historymobile is a mini-museum mounted on a 40-foot air-conditioned tractor trailer. It travels throughout the state to make Kentucky history accessible to the people.

When the Historymobile visits an area, students who have been trained at the workshops around the state act as curators or guides, according to Nancy Penney, director and coordinator of JHS activities.

The March 26th workshop will begin at 10:30 a.m. with a welcome from the KHS staff conducting the program. Penney said that at the first session from 11:15 a.m. to noon, students will be divided into four groups and will rotate between staff members teaching improvisation, collecting historical artifacts, exhibit design techniques and interviewing for oral history accounts.

After a lunch break the students will resume their rotating schedule from 1:45 p.m., to 4 p.m. until each group has attended all four workshop sessions, said Penney.

The purpose of the workshop, according to Penney, "is to show the students that the state's exhibits are related to their own areas. For example the students can supplement the Historymobile's Frontier exhibit with one of their own depicting that period in Eastern Kentucky."

OUR NATION NEEDS nearly 100,000 additional teachers of handicapped children to meet the needs of approximately five million such children of school age, says the Easter Seal Society.

Spring and Artists Are Budding At Natural Bridge State Park

By HELEN PRICE STACY

Spring, Natural Bridge State Resort Park and paintings each Sunday—and sometimes Saturday, too—by Kentucky artists can be reason enough to plan a visit to the Powell county park.

On March 13, Lexington artist Tom Armstrong showed his paintings, including a Morgan county sorghum mill, a mountain moonshine still and an Eastern Kentucky coal tippie. March 20, Charles Spaulding exhibited his art work of birds and wildlife and demonstrated painting.

Gary Akers, native of Eastern Kentucky and now an art teacher and gallery owner at Florence, will display his watercolor and egg tempera paintings Saturday, March 26, to be followed March 27 by Howard Fain.

Robert Powell, of Frankfort, well-known author as well as artist, will be at the park Saturday, April 2, and Joe Fears will follow on Sunday, April 3. Artists scheduled the next week-end are Glenn Wilson April 9 and Al Cornett on the 10th (Easter Sunday). Cornett lives near the park, as does Mrs. Iva Daniels, of Clay City, who is scheduled Saturday, April 16, to be followed Sunday by Dan Short.

Louisville Artist Don Ensor will display his oil paintings of nostalgic items on both April 23 and 24. Ben Hampton is scheduled May 1; Brett Johnson, May 8; Nellie Meadows, May 14-15, and Helen Price Stacy, May 22.

CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

Mary Elizabeth Click celebrated her 12th birthday March 16 at her home on Buck's Branch, near Martin. Her guests included Sammy Hughes, Jeff Hall, David Hutchinson, Timmy Reynolds, McKay Reynolds, Lynn Hughes, Donna Reynolds, Valerie Hughes, Keesha Dingus, Belinda Click, DeAnna Dingus, Kris Dingus, Mr. and Mrs. Hallie Flanery, Mrs. Mae Flanery and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dingus. After games were played and gifts were opened, all enjoyed cake and ice cream.

Chess Club Tourney Scheduled at Thelma

The Big Sandy Chess Club's annual spring chess tournament will be held Sunday, March 27, at the Johnson County Rehabilitation Center at Thelma.

Registration will be from 8 to 8:45 a.m. and play will begin at 9. Trophies will be awarded to the top three in open class, top college, high school, and rehabilitation students.

For more information, those interested may call or see Larry Greer.

Local Color Makes Regional Magazine

Who says mountaineers can't produce their own quality regional magazine? If you doubt it, take a look at CUMBERLANDS, the new monthly magazine of Eastern Kentucky and neighboring areas of Virginia and West Virginia. It's on sale at most newsstands.

CUMBERLANDS is headquartered in Pikeville, is written, edited, and illustrated entirely by local talent, is printed in Pikeville and is supported mainly by local advertising.

What enables the region to produce a magazine that compares favorably with similar regional magazines across the country? "Because we're a colorful region," says CUMBERLANDS co-editor Harold Branam. "We've got a distinctive landscape and a distinctive people. We've also got a rich past, an exciting present and a promising future. In CUMBERLANDS we intend to emphasize both the positive and the colorful."

A general-interest magazine, CUMBERLANDS features articles, photographs, and artwork on regional people and places, businesses, history, sports, books, food, how-to-do-it, gardening, and the outdoors, among other things. The magazine also includes a regional calendar of events and two regular columns, "Business Notes" and "Cooking in the Cumberlands," the latter written by Irene Hayes, of Hueysville.

The February issue attracted a lot of attention with an article by architect Harold Stratton Moore, who gave advice on choices available in new homes. The February issue also featured articles on quilts, karate clubs and soup recipes, plus an interview with a game warden.

Earlier issues had such stories as "Getting Our Highway Program Moving," "Pete McCoy—War Hero from the Cumberlands," "Famous Rock-Fights" (a sample of the humor that regularly appears), and "An Eastern Kentucky Olga Korbut?" (an article about gymnastics).

The cover of the March issue features stock-car driver Ferrell Harris, "our man at Daytona." The issue includes articles on Harris, fictional Cumberlands detective Uncle Abner, and gardening. The April issue will be centered around water sports.

The editors of CUMBERLANDS are all well-traveled natives of the region. Branam was born in Campbell county, Tenn., and grew up there and in Perry county, Ky. Co-editor Hugh Collett is from Pikeville, and Assistant Editor Judith Harris is a native of Matewan, W. Va.

Branam, a coal miner's son, attended Berea College and later won a Marshall scholarship for two years of study in Britain. Holder of four degrees in English, he has taught at the University of Kentucky and La Salle College, Philadelphia, Pa. He now heads Pikeville College's English Department.

Collett, a University of Kentucky journalism graduate, is a former Madison Avenue executive and public relations director for the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce. He now does publicity for Pikeville College.

Harris, who holds a Ph. D. in speech and theater, has written for newspapers in Columbus, O., and taught at Southern West Virginia Community College, Williamson.

Other CUMBERLANDS staffers include two of the region's top young artists, J. D. Hall and Sandy Branam (already the magazine is acquiring a reputation for its fine artwork), and up-and-coming photographer Linda Biliter. The magazine is also attracting an expanding pool of regional writing talent.

IN 1975 ENOUGH TUNA was landed in the U.S. to make more than 4.5 billion tuna-fish-salad sandwiches. Tuna is so popular all over the world that global demand for the fish will top a yearly 10 billion pounds by 1990. But, says the March Reader's Digest, by 1980 the tuna population will be in a decline, unless conservation measures are taken soon.

A message to the voters from

JAKE LAYNE

Democratic Candidate for

MAGISTRATE, District 2

Do you want a man that will not wait until election time to gravel the roads and install drain pipes?

Do you want a man that will gravel public roads instead of private driveways?

Do you want a man that will gravel your roads while you are living, and not after you die?

If you want a man that will do something to improve his district from the beginning of his term to the end, elect me for Magistrate.

If you elect me and I do not do my job as I should, then you can vote me out on the next election, as you have done to other Magistrates.

If you vote me in as Magistrate and then vote me out, because I did not do the job that I should have done, then I would not ask you to vote for me again for the same position that you said I could not fill.

Vote for me for Magistrate in District 2. A man that can and will work with all the county officials and do a good job for my district.

Your Friend,
JAKE LAYNE

Strip Mine Law Meets Criticism

Neither the representative of an environmental group nor the spokesman for the Kentucky Coal Association (KCA) expressed much approval of pending federal strip mine legislation at a recent meeting of the Environmental Quality Commission here.

Tom Duncan, executive director of the KCA, charged that the legislation "attempts to dictate mining practices rather than set environmental goals." On the other hand, Don Askins of the Appalachian Coalition, said that although his group supports the bill for the present, it is one of "compromise and deletion."

A bill presently in the hearing process, would allow mountain top removal—removal of mountain tops to get at seams of coal, leaving behind a generally level plateau—only if the strip mine operator can prove that the reclaimed land will be put to a specific commercial, industrial, agricultural or residential use.

A second provision of both bills, discussed more than the mountain top removal technique, is the eliminating of highwalls from contour mining by returning strip mined land to its approximate original contour. Highwalls are the vertical cliffs that result from strip mining.

Duncan said that if the goal of the legislation is a higher use of strip mined land, then the bill is "Completely illogical" in banning mountain top removal.

Askins expressed opposition to the technique in general, saying that large scale topographical changes that could even affect climatic changes could occur.

The two men also disagreed on the permitting procedures as presently written in the legislation. Duncan said that capital investment would be deterred because it will be hard to estimate the amount of time before mining can begin.

"The only real incentive for anyone to enter the industry will be greatly inflated coal prices," he said, adding that the procedures also will be cumbersome for operators in less mountainous coal-producing areas.

Askins approved of the procedures, primarily the provision calling for extensive hydrologic testing of soils and water.

"The impact of strip mining on water quality is more serious and far-reaching than any impact on the land itself," he said.

As for approximate original contour, Askins said that mining of slopes over 20 degrees should be phased out. He cited coal reserve figures that say 70 per cent of all reserves in Appalachia are on slopes of less than 20 degrees.

Askins also referred to a University of Tennessee study of the economic impact of the legislation. If passed, the study says it would mean an increase of production and reclamation costs of only $2.67 per ton, which, if passed on to consumers in their electric bill would only mean an increase of from one to 10 cents per hundred kilowatt hours.

Also the study says a four to five per cent decrease in strip mining would be offset by an increase in underground mining of six to seven per cent.

John Witt, commissioner of natural resources for the state environmental department, followed both speakers. He said that he and the department agreed with points made by both sides.

"I expected to referee, but I'm in fairly close agreement with both sides, which indicates that we've come a long way in strip mining and reclamation."

He said he and the department are in favor of provisions eliminating overburden being placed over outcrops on stripping operations. However, he said the biggest problem the department has in its analysis of the legislation is with approximate original contour.

"You cannot legislate against Mother Nature," said Witt. "It's been my experience that you can't stack shot or dynamited material back on a slope without erosion."

He, along with Duncan, also objected to the possible ban of mountaintop removal.

He said, "If we are going to mine coal then we shouldn't outlaw the very best method technicians have devised for doing it."

Volunteers in Corrections
Would Organize Chapter
For Floyd County Work

Volunteers In Corrections is attempting to form a chapter in Floyd county to assist the Floyd county probation officer in work with those sentenced to correctional institutions, probated or paroled and with the families of those in these categories.

Dr. Bland, the new Kentucky Commissioner of Corrections, appointed Burnett Napier, a native of Hazard, the director of volunteer services for the corrections department. This is a new department, and Mr. Napier recently came to Prestonsburg to meet with Frank DeRossett, Jr., probation officer, and citizens interested in the Volunteers In Corrections program.

An initial goal is to compile a list of Floyd countians interested in this project with skills and professions indicated. A short preparatory course then will be offered. The group plans a visit to LaGrange penitentiary and the Frenchburg Correctional Institution in several months. Recently, ten of the group visited with eight inmates at the Federal Correctional Institution in Ashland for group discussion of prison life, its purposes and results.

Those interested in the Floyd County chapter of Volunteers in Corrections may contact Frank DeRossett at 886-8731 or Janet Van Horn at 452-2106 (Wheelwright Clinic).

(Gene) Stanley rejoice that he is able to return to his home, church and teaching after a serious illness of many weeks in the Pikeville Methodist Hospital; then as a patient in Baptist Hospital, Louisville. Since his return to his home from Louisville, he has been visited by his brother, John Stanley, of Baltimore, Md., for several days, and now he and Mrs. Stanley have, visiting with them their son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Stanley. Mrs. Stanley remained with Mr. Stanley during all of his hospitalization and they were accompanied home by their daughter, Patricia, and husband, both of whom are medical doctors.

Mrs. Clyde Layne, who underwent major surgery and has been having regular treatments at the Pikeville Methodist Hospital, is recuperating at her home, at the Mt. Zion Mission in Justell.

Thomas Spears, pastor of the Church of Christ here, his brother, Buster Spears, and other relatives recently attended funeral services for their sister, Betty Lou Spears Salisbury, in Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Larson and Robin have returned from California to reside here. Mr. Larson is employed at Phelps.

We are happy to learn of the improvement of several from recent illnesses. Among these are Mrs. Perry Stumbo, Mrs. E. P. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Crum, Eugene Akers, Mrs. Emogene Lewis, Mrs. Myra Amburgy, and Joe Jacobs.

The Volunteer Fire Department, with a faithful few, continues to try to serve those in distress, and answers many calls of those who persist in giving "false calls," and those who cannot resist being careless about burning garden and waste debris. They are glad to help those in distress in times of fire and tornado. Some wonder if some of the trained firemen have moved away or if they are sick or have other problems. If there are problems, sympathy is in order. If there aren't, attendance at meetings, answering calls and even small contributions will all help.

Traffic DeathsLow in February

Kentucky State Police have reported that this year's fatality rate for the month of February is the lowest since 1962.

State Police Lt. Ernest Bivens said, "We had predicted that more people would be killed because of an increase in traffic after the hard winter, but just the opposite happened." He said only 41 people were killed on the highways last month.

"Over the past 15 years," Bivens said, "we have averaged 58 deaths on Kentucky roads for this month."

The total for the year now stands at 112.

The work to be bid upon is described as follows:

Division "B"—High Rate Filter Media Removal of Existing Filter Media, and Furnishing and Installing New High Rate Media in Existing Filters, Including Polymer Feed and Control Equipment.

2. All bids must be made on the blank forms of proposal to be furnished.

3. Each bid must be accompanied by a certified check or bidder's bond payable to the Owner for five per cent of the total amount of the bid. As soon as the bid prices have been compared, the Owner will return the check or bond of all except the three lowest responsible bidders. When the contract is awarded, the checks or bonds of the remaining unsuccessful bidders will be returned. The check or bond of the successful bidder will be retained until the contract and surety bond have been executed and approved, after which it will be returned.

4. A performance and payment bond in the amount of 100 per cent of the contract price with a corporate surety approved by the Owner and the Engineer, will be required for the faithful performance of the contract, and the bidder shall state in the proposal the name and address of the surety or sureties who will sign this bond in case the contract is awarded to him. A maintenance bond guaranteeing the repair of all damage due to improper materials or workmanship for a period of one year after the acceptance of the work by the Owner will also be required.

5. The party to whom the contract is awarded will be required forthwith to execute the contract and a performance and payment bond within ten calendar days from the date when the written notice of the award of the contract is mailed to the bidder at the address given by him. In case of failure to do so, the Owner may, at his option, consider that the bidder has abandoned the contract, in which case the certified check or bidder's bond accompanying the proposal shall become the property of the Owner.

6. The Owner reserves the right to reject any and all bids for any justifiable reason. It is understood that the work to be done is being financed with a loan from the Farmers Home Administration, U. S. Department of Agriculture. Contractor's proposals shall hold firm for sixty (60) days to allow the Owner time to complete its financing arrangements. Mutually agreed upon extensions of time may be made, if necessary.

7. If the prospective contract exceeds $10,000, the bidder must submit Form FHA 400-6, "Compliance Statement," with his bid. An Equal Opportunity Clause will be a part of all construction contracts exceeding $10,000.

8. If the prospective contract exceeds $10,000 and the contractor has one hundred (100) or more employees, he will file Standard Form 100, "Employer Information Report," with the Joint Reporting Committee, P. O. Box 12, Springfield, Virginia 22150, within thirty (30) days after the contract award and annually on or before March 31st thereafter for the life of the contract.

9. If the prospective contract is for $50,000 or more and the successful bidder has fifty (50) or more employees, he will develop and place on file within 120 days of the contract award written affirmative action compliance programs using Form AD-425, "Contractor's Affirmative Action Plan for Equal Employment Opportunity," as a guideline.

10. Before the award of the contract, any bidder may be required to furnish evidence satisfactory to the Owner and to the Engineer of the necessary facilities, ability, and pecuniary resources to fulfill the conditions of the said contract.

11. Prior to signing the contract, the Contractor shall submit on a form acceptable to the Owner and Engineer, an overall construction schedule for the project. This construction schedule shall start with the proposed date of signing the contract, and the completion date shall be the date specified in the contract.

12. Bidders must satisfy themselves by personal examination of the location of the proposed work, by examination of the Plans and Specifications and requirements of the work and the accuracy of the estimate of the quantities of the work to be done, and shall not at any time after the submission of a bid dispute or complain of such estimate nor assert that there was any misunderstanding in regard to the nature or amount of work to be done.

13. The Construction Contract and the Detailed Specifications contain the provisions required for the construction of the project. No information obtained from any officer, agent, or employee of the Owner on any such matters shall in any way affect the risk or obligation assumed by the Contractor or relieve him from fulfilling any of the conditions of the contract.

14. Proposals which are incomplete, unbalanced, conditional or obscure, or which contain additions not called for, erasures, alterations or irregularities of any kind, or which do not comply with the Detailed Specifications may be rejected at the option of the Owner.

15. A bidder may withdraw any proposal he has submitted at any time prior to the hour set for the closing of the bids provided the request for withdrawal is signed in a manner identical with the proposal being withdrawn. No withdrawal or modification will be permitted after the hour designated for closing the bids.

16. For the purpose of clarification it is understood that the work to be done is being financed in whole or in part by means of a loan and-or grant made or insured by the United States of America acting through the Farmers Home Administration of the Department of Agriculture. The Farmers Home Administration will, therefore, require approval by its representatives of all contracts, attachments, and similar documents, all partial and final payment estimates, and all change orders.

17. Computation of quantities that will be the basis for payment estimates, both monthly and final, will be made by the Engineer.

18. The word "Owner" means the Prestonsburg City Utilities Commission, Prestonsburg, Kentucky. The Owner will be responsible for payment in accordance with the terms of the contract.

The word "Contractor" means the person, firm or corporation to whom the award is made. Subcontractor as such will not be recognized.

The word "Engineer" refers to Howard K. Bell, Consulting Engineers, Inc., Lexington, Kentucky, designated by the Owner as its engineering representative during the course of construction to make appropriate inspections and computations of payments.

Lonesome Pine Council Cited As Scouting Program Example

Pikeville, Ky.—"Scouting today is a lot more than you think." That 1977 slogan for Scouting U.S.A. (formerly Boys Scouts of America) is an excellent illustration of the Lonesome Pine Council headquartered here in the mountains of Eastern Kentucky.

Despite handicaps such as geography, sparse population and traditional poverty, the Lonesome Pine Council offers education and recreation with an outdoor flavor to almost 2,500 area boys and girls.

John Fanning, the council's scout chief executive, attributes scouting's success in his region to "continued generosity from public charities and the tireless efforts of more than 800 volunteers."

"There are several distinct levels of voluntary participation in modern scouting," Fanning said from the council's Pikeville office. "Certainly, our unit scout masters are an integral part of the program, but without a method of coordinating their activities, we simply couldn't manage the number of young people we now do."

District committeemen comprise the next level. Assigned to specific areas such as camping, activities, training and planning, the committeemen provide direct assistance to unit leaders.

"The committeemen are responsible to the commissioners who perform general services including procurement of supplies and keeping the office informed of the units' needs," said Fanning. "I'm responsible to and employed by the executive board."

The executive board handles all management functions, particularly the collection and distribution of funds. It also controls camps and properties.

Fanning, a professional scout for more than 21 years, supervises two other specially trained employees who also extend direct assistance to the units as well as oversee the office staff and camp projects.

The Lonesome Pine Council is one of five councils serving Kentucky's Cub (8-10-year-olds), Boy (11-17) and Explorer (high school aged) Scouts. It encompasses 10 Kentucky and three Virginia counties. Kentucky counties represented are Floyd, Breathitt, Johnson, Knott, Leslie, Letcher, Magoffin, Martin, Perry and Pike.

"We derive community assistance—personal and financial—from service clubs and churches," Fanning said. "We've received from state government sources several referrals of people interested in volunteering. One wanted to be a den mother."

The Legislative Research Commission forwards Fanning information on proposed and enacted legislation which affects the council and its member units. The Department for Human Resources requires camping and food permits.

Perhaps the most important state offering is the summer food service program administered by the Department of Education. Provided that at least 33 per cent of the camp enrollment is from low-income families, the department supplies federally-funded groceries.

"A quick review of our program shows exactly how complex the organization has become," said Fanning. "Only through its services and support can we satisfy the needs of our scouts."

Today, scouting is a lot more than you think.

VIKING CAMERAS IN RANGE OF MARS

PASADENA, Calif.—Viking I cameras began "looking down the gun barrel" at Mars Friday as its orbiter moved to within 185 miles of the planet for close-up photographs, a mission spokesman said.

The new orbit puts Viking I closer to Mars than any other spacecraft except the two Viking landers that reached the Martian surface last summer.

PHONE COMPANY GETS MESSAGE

Although Ma Bell gets upset with those who buy "decorator" phones and plug them into a jack, the American Telephone & Telegraph company is getting the message.

In an effort to keep customers happy, AT&T has experimented with 55 retail outlets for its decorator centers, generally within department stores or shopping centers, according to Consumer Electronics magazine.

The Maytown Volunteer Fire Department will sponsor portraits Saturday and Sunday, April 2 and 3, at the Maytown school. The firemen will be around to sell coupons, so be looking for them.

Mr. and Mrs. Steve Allen and Hannah were recent guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Allen. Steve and Hannah visited his grandfather, Dr. J. H. Allen, while here.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Moberly, of Lexington, are spending two weeks here visiting her mother, Mrs. Haley Webb, Beatrice and Paula; also Mrs. Emma Turner and Zeda in Wayland and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Spencer, Kevin, Wayne, Denise and Ernie (the Gospel Singers) from Shiloh, Ohio spent Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. Rob Lewis and sang at the evening services at the Martin Freewill Baptist Church. Tommy Moore, Rob and Louise Lewis, Mrs. Beatrice Chaffins and Paula, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Rowland, Rhonda Webb and Richard joined them for services at the Martin Branch Freewill Baptist Church at Estill for Sunday morning services.

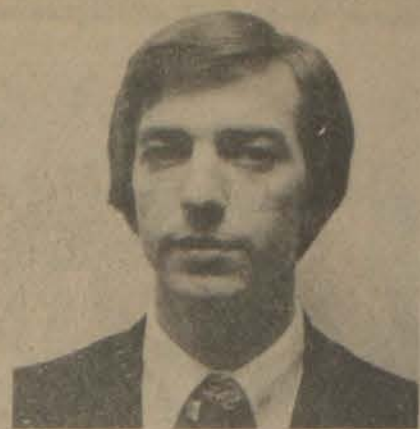

George A. Patton spent several days last week at St. Joseph Infirmary in Louisville for diagnostic tests.

MEETING! MEMBERS OF FLOYD COUNTY REPUBLICAN PARTY will meet at

EFFIE'S BUFFET
(Formerly Wise Steak House)
FRIDAY, MARCH 25
7 p.m.

All Republicans Are Urged To Attend. 3-16-2t.

A MESSAGE TO THE PEOPLE

My name is Doug Lewis, and I am a Democratic candidate for Sheriff. I am 26 years of age. I am married to Lamarr McCoy, of Prestonsburg, and we reside on the Auxier Road, just outside of Prestonsburg.

I am a graduate of Betsy Layne High School with the class of 1968. I attended Prestonsburg Community College from 1968 to 1970. I have recently been taking Law Enforcement Classes from Eastern Kentucky State University.

I am the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wheeler Lewis, of Stanville, Kentucky. My father was a coal miner in Floyd County for 16 years and a United Mine Workers member. He is presently serving his second term as Sheriff, being the only Sheriff in Floyd County ever elected twice to that office.

As most of you know, according to Kentucky law a Sheriff cannot succeed himself in office. Therefore, I am seeking the nomination to this office.

I have served you for the past three years as a Law Enforcement Officer; ½ year as Commonwealth Detective and 2½ years as a Deputy Sheriff. I have tried hard as an officer to better our county, and my only concern as your Sheriff would be to continue doing so.

My father and I both have clean records as law enforcement officers and if I am elected we will continue working together so that you may have four more years of honest and dedicated work in the Sheriff's Department.

TO THE PEOPLE...

All people were created equal and all people should be treated equal. If elected I will do so. I am not promising that I will stop all the crime in our county, because it can never be, but I am promising that I'll devote my full time working on it.

Thank You.

Inspiration Plus Perspiration Equal New Home for Corbin Man

When six or eight men get together at Corbin to drink coffee and jaw late at night at a local restaurant, they consider their time well spent. Their jaw sessions recently resulted in the building of a house for a friend who had nowhere to go.

A social worker, an electrician, an automotive parts salesman, a retired truck driver, a contractor, and a tire salesman all sat around a table one night and formed the Cosmos Construction Company.

The company went out of business—at least temporarily—after building the house for their friend Henry. Henry is 52, disabled, and draws a small social security check each month.

When eviction became apparent, Henry's case was referred to Bob Lockhart, a social worker for the Department for Human Resources, and a friend of Henry's since they were boys.

"You see, Henry was about to be put out on the street because his landlord was selling his place," said Lockhart. "We held off the landlord for more than a month by sending someone to talk to him. But that was running out and it was getting close to Christmas."

Lockhart explained that one night he was sitting at the restaurant talking with a local contractor about Henry's plight. "Well, my contractor friend flipped over a paper place mat and started drawing a house. When he was through, he put together a list of materials needed to build it."

"Students at the vocational school did a blueprint of the plans, and a lumber man found out about the project and gave us all the lumber free," said Lockhart. "And all the insulation was donated, and people started giving money and other materials. Before we knew what was happening, we had what we needed to build Henry's house."

The Lions Club, the Rotary Club, the Kiwanis Club and others helped with donations.

"We never even began to tap the resources in this town. We even got a sewage disposal system worth $1200 for just $100," he said.

Lockhart's supervisor admits that most of the resulting $7,000 project would be difficult to document in paperwork for Human Resources, "but the service got delivered."

"And it cost more than the books show," said Lockhart. If labor was counted, the cost would double.

"We named this short-lived volunteer construction company the Cosmos Construction Company. We took three times more liabilities than assets and came out with a balanced budget. We used 40 per cent inspiration and 60 per cent perspiration to make up the difference," reads a letter of appreciation to contributors.

"It wasn't planned—it mushroomed. It came out of an emergency. Henry had no place to live," said one of the Cosmos workers who met for lunch at the restaurant. All the men preferred to remain anonymous.

"A town like ours, with 16,000 people in it, should never let a man starve to death or go without a place to live," said one of the men. "People are eager to take a hand in things; they don't want to stand back and watch."

Lockhart has already started to interest his friends in the idea of painting houses for needy families in the area. And before another cold winter rolls around, he wonders, how many houses could be warmed with insulation?

The Corbin social worker thinks these and other plans may pan out. "There are enough people who are interested in doing the work and it won't cost the taxpayers anything. This winter has proved to us that people get cold. Maybe next year they could be warmer," he said.

Henry, sitting on his couch in his little house on Idaho Street, smiled an appreciative toothy grin when Lockhart paid him a recent visit to see how his friend was getting along.

"Some folks think I have some pretty hair-brained ideas," said Lockhart. "But it's all worth it just to see Henry smile like that. After all, Henry and I grew up together."

None of its members know for sure if or when the Cosmos Construction Company will ever go back into operation, but chances are good that anyone willing to donate his time for a good dose of satisfaction in return could be hired on the crew a "Cosmonaut." One retired truck driver spent 170 hours working on Henry's house and says he'd do it again.

MORE THAN 2,400 Kentuckians with hearing and speech problems received professional help from Easter Seal Centers in Kentucky last year.

By LARRY BURKE

The story is told of a man walking down the street with a friend. They stopped to buy a newspaper from a very rude newsie. The purchaser of the paper was exceptionally nice and courteous to the newsie, but he didn't even acknowledge their presence.

"He is like that all the time," shrugged the man.

"Then why do you continue to be polite to him?" asked his friend.

"Why not?" he inquired. "Why should I let him decide how I'm going to act?"

How many of us react to people when we should act? We often let others dictate how we will be—"Get an impolite reception—offer an impolite reaction."

After all is said—the greatest people are those who do not let others decide how they are going to act.

A little kindness sometimes breaks down the barriers of indifference.

THOUGHT TO REMEMBER: "You alone can decide what kind of person you will be today."

Answer To Mr. Zeb Ousley

I would like for Mr. Ousley to name several roads he built when he was in office.

I would like for him to tell the people of District 2 when he was in office.

He knows that the state lets the bids on the county aid road gravel and that the magistrate doesn't have any say in this. We have had one of the worst winters in history, and it is Adams Contractors' fault that we didn't gravel last fall. We are just getting it delivered now. It is not gravel, but dust. It is the state's fault, not the county.

As for the money he is talking about, I can tell him where it is. Since this Fiscal Court has been in, it has paid off the balance on some equipment which was owed when he was in office and some bills he owed at the hardware store when he was in office. We have bought two new road graders, two new bulldozers, two new dump trucks, one new backhoe; $100,000 worth of drain pipe, and spent $100,000 for blacktop in each district. He walks on some of the blacktop every time he goes to Stone Coal church. In addition, $20,000 dollars for fire departments split four ways, plus helping some of the towns with water, plus other help for towns.

For lumber and nails for thirty-four or thirty-five bridges I have built. He can check at Howard Lumber Co. at Lackey, and for concrete which went into bridge straight across from the hollow from where he and about twelve other families live, plus a church house. This is where the people could not get Mr. Ousley to build them a bridge or help them because one of Mr. Ousley's good friends wouldn't let him help all those people, plus the church.

And the retaining wall at Mr. Ousley's house on the Salyers Branch Road which I had to build to get the school children's lives out of danger. The wall is about 48 feet long and 12 inches thick at the bottom and tapers off to eight inches at the top. This was filled in to make the road wider for the school bus. Before, the front end of the bus would be against the rock cliff which Mr. Ousley and John Henry Hale owned. One tire would be hanging off the blacktop over the bank of the creek about 15 feet high. Judge Stumbo contacted Mr. Ousley three times. He first said he would let us have enough to widen the road; then he would not let us have it. I made a motion to condemn it. It was voted on, and the Fiscal Court passed it. Then some of the Magistrates and County Judge went up there, and they made a suggestion that I try to build a retaining wall after Mr. Ousley made a big thing over it. I told them I would try and if I couldn't then the order would stand to condemn Mr. Ousley's property. I would do anything to get those children on the school bus out of danger. The parents on Salyers Branch petitioned me to do something about the road where their children were in danger. Mr. Ousley jumped on some of the people over the petition; said it would make him look bad. If it was fixed, it shouldn't make him look bad for he should have fixed it when he was in office. It was that way when he was in office. He says he is interested in young boys and girls. He didn't seem too interested in them when it came to widening the road and taking some of that old rock cliff, straight up and down, that belonged to Mr. Ousley. That is one motion he failed to tell you people that I made.

If Mr. Ousley will walk out behind the Courthouse and look at the annex we are building, which cost so many hundred thousand dollars and which we had to build for juveniles in accordance with the federal law, he can see some more of the money. As for severance tax money, the County hasn't received any for the last two years, this is controlled from Frankfort. The county doesn't have any say so on this. Mr. Ousley doesn't check to see where the money goes to. The county buys about $50,000 worth of gravel a year themselves. Mr. Ousley tries to make all the stuff he put in the paper to serve him in his campaign. He is making a "mountain out of a molehill."

As for the garbage, you people know it takes the majority of the Fiscal Court to pass anything which comes before it. When we let the franchise on the garbage to Mr. Lafferty and Mr. Lawson, all four Magistrates voted for it and the County Attorney was present at that time, so the way Mr. Ousley put his ad in the paper for better roads and free dumping if he is elected, he knows that he can't do that. If he had that power, you people wouldn't need the other three magistrates or County Judge because Mr. Ousley would be the Fiscal Court himself. So if Mr. Ousley should be elected, don't expect that, for that is one promise which Mr. Ousley can't keep; he knows that.

For the appraisers who were sent to appraise the equipment of Mr. Lafferty and Mr. Lawson. Mr. Ousley didn't tell you who they were. Some of the county officials were against it. The appraisers didn't appraise Mr. Lafferty's equipment for what it was worth. When he went in the garbage business, he bought three new six hundred trucks; two three hundred trucks and one new pickup truck and one compactor, plus setting up all the routes, plus he hired help, plus all insurance, and his franchise. So in my thinking, the appraisers did what Mr. Ousley did for 16 years he was in office. They did what they were told to do.

All I ask the people in District No. 2 to do is judge my three years and a half against Mr. Ousley's sixteen years. We have worked for the last four Saturdays and three Sundays on the roads, trying to fix them so people can travel. I drove a county truck part of that time myself. I wonder if Mr. Ousley would do that.

Mountain Parkway Revenues Last Year Less than for 1975

Revenues from Kentucky's parkways increased 12.4 per cent during 1976, state Transportation Secretary John C. Roberts announced today. Only the Mountain Parkway and the Shawneetown bridge suffered revenue losses.

Figures for the nine parkways and two toll bridges for the calendar year showed total toll receipts of $16,832,249 as compared to $14,966,780 for the year before.

Receipts for each separate facility with 1976 figures first are: Mountain Parkway, $2,708,680, $3,264,663; Blue Grass Parkway, $2,258,703, $2,085,489; Jackson Purchase Parkway, $588,353, $508,252; Pennyrile Parkway, $2,047,152, $1,730,718; Audubon Parkway, $681,535, $590,890; Daniel Boone Parkway, $1,278,142, $982,536; Green River Parkway, $2,059,943, $1,754,465; Cumberland Parkway, $1,208,422, $1,040,900; Shawneetown Bridge, $374,942, $401,953; Sebree Bridge, $68,748, $57,566.

A Medley

By WILMAY

Kind friend Wanda Rodebaugh, of Prestonsburg, called Wednesday to say The Times carried a "bouquet" for this columnist. Imagine its being from Cassie Martin, whom we never saw but once, then through Lassa Hatcher, now of St. Petersburg, Florida. Thanks, Cassie, for the unexpected orchids; however, your labeling this writer capable and well informed resembles the old maid, whose pastor saw her and said, "Congratulations, Sallie!" "What for?" she asked. "I hear you are getting married," the minister replied. "Say that again, Preacher!" she cried. "There ain't a word of truth in it, but I do love to hear you say it." Cassie, since you gave no address it is necessary to answer via the paper. Your many friends and relatives here remember you most kindly.

Young Stuart Wright is expected home soon, according to report, thanks to his courage, determination, faith, grit, and the prayers of hundreds who learned of the tragedy. It is easy to picture the wonderful people of Prestonsburg volunteering to assist his parents with the required physical therapy that will be necessary for a long, long time. No doubt scores of young people will offer their services gladly, for despite the objectionable element found among youth today, there exists the opposite type in abundant numbers, those who are unsurpassed in innumerable ways.

Countless Baptists enjoy the Kentucky State paper. Its last issue has a splendid editorial on "Gratitude" by Dr. C. R. Daley whom many here know and love. He tells how a Louisville church honored its faithful custodian, something most of us neglect, due to the rush of modern times, and downright carelessness. Often we forget to express or show appreciation when folks go an extra mile. Such thoughtfulness will die unless it is passed on to each generation. Jesus himself wondered why only one of ten lepers whom He healed expressed gratitude. The Recorder story reminds some of two retired men in the Maytown First Baptist Church who for months have gone far beyond the call of duty almost daily, to continue odd, finishing jobs on the building now three years old. Maytownites identify them but outsiders may not know they are John R. Baldrige and Wayne Hagans, two of the most dedicated laymen in Floyd county. One of many miracles Christ performed in this new church was that large numbers of men and women who did not belong there (some who lacked membership anywhere) voluntarily donated services, labor, needed items, and funds, often in the nick of time.

Many await the movie, "Noah's Ark," which should be interesting, although no Christian requires such to bolster his faith. Chances are strong that the vessel-like structure partially visible on ice-encrusted Mount Ararat in Armenia really is the ark of the flood. Indisputable proof some day may convince a few skeptics of the authenticity of scripture. Once a guy remarked that he tried to believe but when he read the Bible which gives the huge measurements of Noah's ark and later read where men carried the ark on their shoulders, he knew the Bible was false. Bless his heart. He confused Noah's ark with the small casket-like ark of the covenant in which Israel kept the stone tablets of the law God gave Moses on Mount Sinai. Numbers feel confused when they do not comprehend some portion of the blessed book.

A good example of the fact that many yearn to see a smaller national budget so long as they lose nothing thereby is the present hubbub over not funding several planned waterways. Public officials are howling to have the President reinstate dams in their home territory. Then we ask why it is difficult or impossible to reduce government spending, the primary cause of inflation, which grows worse daily. (You can buy one cucumber or bell pepper for 49 cents now!) At least the terrific price rise in fresh vegetables lately has an alibi. For once it can be blamed on the dreadful cold.

The current uproar over cyclamates is no surprise. Too many genuine experts—not just someone who is far from home—recognize that some food additives, synthetic preparations, etc. are highly suspect when it comes to possible malignancy in humans as well as in animals. Like occasional drugs, they have not been adequately tested. In numerous instances this takes years, and often the worst victims are those yet unborn. Decades past, many young physicians acclaimed stilbestrol, one of the first synthetic drugs in its category, widely prescribed until Britain outlawed it because of cancer danger. The U.S. finally prohibited its use in feeding animals, and more recently somewhat restricted it for individuals, it is reported, since tests have shown that girl babies whose mothers used this drug during early pregnancy often grew up to have cancer of the breast. Yes, it may take decades to know fully the ill effects of additives and drugs; and, unfortunately, the FDA is always understaffed. Too, every patient is a clinical entity, unlike any other. Medicine or food that is ideal for one may be poison for another.

Copter Landing Pads For State Hospitals Offered in Program

Fifteen Kentucky hospitals have expressed interest in the state's program for constructing or improving local emergency helicopter landing pads since that program first was announced late last December.

Although the majority of the helipads are still in the planning stage, it is expected that the hospitals will eventually apply for funding.

The funds are being offered under an assistance program established last year after the General Assembly during its spring session appropriated $200,000 to the Kentucky Department of Transportation (KYDOT) for the construction or improvement of helipads, near hospitals and other emergency service agencies.

The ultimate goal of the state's Helipad Development Program is to establish 100 emergency landing sites for helicopters across Kentucky within the next five years.

The average cost of building a new helipad has been estimated at about $10,000. Each approved grant will be funded 50-50 with state and local money.

Spring May Not Be Very Flowery

"If you're afraid you won't have blossoms this spring on some of your shrubs and trees, you definitely have reason for concern," says Robert McNeil of UK's Horticulture Department. The prime reason, he said, is due to the extreme low temperatures that hit Kentucky during the early days of this year.

McNeil said Kentucky shrubs and trees are not accustomed to such extremes and a lot will "undoubtedly not be able to stand up to the 'abuse' of the weather."

He added, however, that here is a considerable variance in the damage. "I have checked a number of plants and on some have found the potential blossoms to be severely injured—while others have not been injured at all," McNeil said.

The yellow flowering forsythia has had about 90 per cent of its flower buds killed, with the result that few of the traditional yellow flowers will be appearing this spring.

The saucer or star magnolia flower buds have been partially damaged, McNeil stated, noting the flowers will open "but will not give the usual spring display."

There is always the chance of spring frosts and if such conditions should occur the magnolias could be damaged even more.

According to McNeil the redbud and dogwoods appear to have suffered only minimal flower damage and "should give their usual colorful floral display."

Witchhazel and pussy willow in some cases have already bloomed during the warm days in the last few weeks, but in many instances they, too, have been short of blossoms.

"The flower buds on spring flowering maples are swelling now and should be opening soon," McNeil said.

"Actually, nothing can be done about the condition. We've just lost this year's color," the UK horticulturist said. "It appears most of the plants themselves have survived the unusually low temperatures and the next time around they should be OK—providing we don't experience another severe winter."

Annual pruning will help most of the flowering trees and shrubs produce more blossoms next year, he said, particularly the forsythia. He noted that plants with old and woody branches produce fewer flowers and that such branches should be pruned now.

"It's something we have to live with and just hope that things will be better next year," he said.

McNeil urged caution in removing a bush or tree entirely even though they may appear to have been killed by the extreme cold. "Watch these plants and don't remove them until you are absolutely certain they have been killed," he advised. "Nature has a wonderful way of taking care of its own—and they may pull out of it despite the winter damage."

Middle Schools Are Designed To Serve 'In-Between' Period

"In between" is usually an awkward spot for anybody, but it is especially hard on youngsters. When boys and girls are between the age of 11 and 14, they're at that in-between age known as adolescence when their bodies and minds are changing and no one seems to understand how to deal with them.

Middle schools in Kentucky are trying to meet the special needs of these young people.

They're ready to leave the structured classroom of elementary school, but they're not quite prepared for the relative freedom of the high school schedule.

They don't consider themselves children, but the rest of the world doesn't view them as adults.

Middle schools are springing up to help them make the transition from childhood to adulthood and from elementary school to high school a little easier. Over 80 middle schools are presently operating in Kentucky, with most of them concentrated in western Kentucky.

Generally, middle schools combine any three grades between five and nine. Some existing junior high schools operate with a middle school concept.

Although each middle school will try bridging the gap between elementary and high school differently, most middle schools do have common practices.

Exploratory and career education courses introduce students to new activities and ways of thinking. Six to nine week courses give students a chance to try out a new subject area before moving on to a different experience. Resource people in the community can give students insight into occupations, local government, industries, the environment, and any number of subjects.

Foreign languages, industrial arts, home economics, journalism and typing are just a few of the wide range of exploratory courses that can be offered in the middle school.

Team teaching enables middle school teachers to strengthen a student's weak subjects. Comparison shopping for a home economics class may improve a youngster's math skill. Ordering parts for an industrial arts class may help a student improve in business letter-writing.

As new middle schools are being built, more attention is being paid to the surroundings in which the lively pre-teens will spend the biggest part of their day. Instead of drab and colorless rooms and halls designed to that nothing will distract young minds from their studies, splashes of color and art work are to be seen in the new middle schools.

Lockers in the halls of Meece Middle School in Somerset, for example, are alternately red, orange and yellow in color. Classroom doors are bright orange, blue, green, red and yellow. Shelves in the library are lined with paper-mache "animules" fashioned by seventh grade art students.

Just as more attention is being paid to

OUTDOOR LORE

UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY • COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE

Of all the old saws and sayings people once used to predict the weather, the one most subject to error was the one holding that if the month of March came in like a lion, it would go out like a lamb or vice versa. Probably not more than once in a half dozen years did this old weather prophecy prevail, but one thing for sure—weatherwise, March is full of surprises.
March weather can be just about anything on any day of the month and usually is. A person can wake up some morning to bright warm sunshine and before noon can be shivering in a blizzard complete with drifting snow and wind keen enough to shave the whiskers off a musk ox.

There has also been an unusual number of other superstitions connected with March. One is that it is a month of madness as well as unpredictable temper. This reputation for lack of sanity probably stems from the aberrant March Hare in Lewis Carroll's Alice In The Wonderland. The month of March is the principal breeding time of rabbits and no doubt the crazy antics through which they go at this time suggested the much used phrase, "mad as a March hare." Since Carroll's day this madness has not only been erroneously ascribed to hares, but also to the month in general.
Because Old Julius Caesar was slain on the "Ides of March," (March 15) the month has long been regarded by some as not exactly a time to expect good fortune. And it wasn't so very long ago that a lot of farmers and gardeners and other outdoor people believed the first three days of the month were especially unlucky. As a consequence, they would plant no seed of any kind or engage in various other outdoor activities on those days.
For what reason we do not know, these folks called the first three days, "blind days."
Then despite the fact that the number of days in March has remained constant since the very beginning of the calendar, another old belief holds that the last three days of the month were stolen from April, and being stolen were also unlucky.
But withal, March is a good, if a bit "windy" month. Its noise and its bluster once again awakens Old Mother Earth from her long sleep, provides the first "mess of wild greens" for the dinner table, and starts fat chubs a-biting in the old mill pond. It brings us the violet, spring beauty, saxifrage and dainty crow's foot to start the long procession of wildflowers that, in the good months to come, will beautify the earth. Even if a bit crazy, it is always a welcome month.

Easter Telethon
Set March 26-27
The 1977 Easter Seal Telethon will be broadcast Saturday and Sunday, March 26 and 27, by two Kentucky television stations, Channel 27, Lexington, and Channel 57, Hazard.
Kentucky viewers will also be able to see the telecast at Channel 12, Cincinnati, and Channel 3, Huntington, West Virginia.
Funds raised from contributions to this special program will be used to provide rehabilitation services for handicapped children and adults, according to Bert T. Combs, Louisville, Kentucky Easter Seal campaign chairman. National Easter Seal chairman, Michael Landon, will be the host emcee for the telethon which will be broadcast by more than 60 stations nationwide.
Viewers of the telethon will be able to make their pledges without cost by telephoning a free 800 number or a county pledge center telephone number. Those in the Channel 27 viewing area can dial a free 800 number—1-800-432-9322. Those residents of the Lexington local dialing area may also make their pledge by telephoning 293-1626.
The Channel 57 show will feature local entertainers and top personalities from many Eastern Kentucky counties. Viewers of the Hazard telethon will also be able to make their pledges and gifts by visiting the telethon studio in the new Hazard High School auditorium-gymnasium located off state road 15, the Hazard-Whitesburg road.
Viewers of the telethon who live in Floyd county, may make their pledges without cost by telephoning 886-9939 or 886-8362, Prestonsburg, according to Mrs. Helena Johnson, local telethon chairman.
In 1976, THE WEST Kentucky Easter Seal Center for Crippled Children and Adults, at Paducah, provided services for 732 people.

FOR MOST OF THE past billion years, climatologists say, the earth has been so warm—an average of 72 degrees—that even the arctic regions were free of ice. Today, according to the March Reader's Digest, the average temperature is down to 59 degrees. Summer frosts occasionally damage U. S. crops. England's growing season is shorter and ice is two miles thick on Antarctica and Greenland. And this winter hasn't helped the statistics at all!

Dangers of Poisoning Lurking In Shelves Around the Home

Frankfort, Ky.—It may be that every Kentucky home has several poisons stored in all-too-handly places—poisons such as aspirin, furniture polish, spot removers, nail polish, cold medicines or glue.

E. Edsel Moore, head of DHR's Consumer Product Safety program, says accidental poisoning can be serious, causing permanent damage to young children or even death. Yet most poisonings can be prevented.

(March 20-26 is Poison Prevention Week.)

Here are some of Moore's ideas for ways to "poison-proof" your home:

Bathroom: First, do something nice for everyone in the family and throw out old prescription medicine which may have outlived its usefulness. Keep all medicines on the top shelves of the cabinet. If there's a would-be Tarzan in the family, purchase another small cabinet, one that can be locked with a key. Aspirin is still the most common cause of accidental poisoning, even though "safety caps" have been required on aspirin containers since 1972.

Kitchen: Toxic and caustic cleaners, detergents, disinfectants and insecticides are stored in the kitchen, usually under the sink or in a low cabinet, where a crawling child can get to them easily. The skull-and-cross-bones and printed warnings don't mean a thing to a toddler, and this is the age when a child is discovering the world through senses of touch and taste. Store cleaning products and other items up high, or under lock-and-key or behind self-locking cabinet doors. Even though there's not a small child in the home, a visitor's child might go exploring.

Another good kitchen rule is to keep food stored apart from cleaning products, and to keep cleaners, soaps and disinfectants in their original packages.

Garage: All kinds of dangerous items can be found in a garage. Often, the garage will be readily accessible to the child and out of easy sight of adults. Insecticides, herbicides, fertilizer, paints, auto polishes, fuel for power mowers and other products are often stored in reach of small youngsters. Again, a strong metal cabinet with a lock is a good preventive measure.

Other rooms: Cosmetics, hair grooming products, nail polish removers should be safely put away in the bedroom. Glues, paints, and other hobby items should be properly stored away after use. Closets might have furniture polish or metal-polishing compounds where little hands can find them. Almost any room in the house could have a potential poison.

Everywhere: Since children tend to imitate what they see others do, the U. S. Product Safety Commission suggests that adults should avoid taking medicines in sight of youngsters. Parents or baby-sitters should never tell a sick child that the medicine is candy, or even that it "tastes like candy." Replace safety closures properly—the safety element isn't there if the cap isn't really closed. And never put a cleaning agent or other product in a soft drink bottle, tin cookie box or other attractive container—a small child may recognize the container and believe the contents are goodies.

Most of all, adults need to remember that a small youngster can get into trouble in a matter of seconds. If it's necessary to leave the room, even for just a few minutes, take the potential poison along or put the container in a secure place. Being safe is better than being sorry.

Olds Owners Taking Long Look at Motors

From Maine to Mexico; from California to New York and points in between, Oldsmobile owners are peering anxiously under car hoods, comparing motors, and muttering vile imprecations.

The cause of this nationwide concern is the recent discovery that an estimated 43,000 models of the Delta-88 Oldsmobile reportedly have been sold with Chevrolet engines.

An Illinois Circuit Court judge this week ordered General Motors to tell past and future purchasers of Oldsmobiles throughout the nation if their cars contain anything other than Oldsmobile engines.

GM had been ordered by another Circuit Court judge last Thursday to notify any customers in Illinois who had received anything other than Oldsmobile engines in their Oldsmobiles.

In the same order, Judge Nathan M. Cohen also directed GM to provide a list of such customers to Illinois Attorney General William Scott, who had filed suit against the nation's largest auto maker. Scott contends in his suit that General Motors had violated Illinois' Consumer Fraud and Deceptive Trade Practices Act.

Both the Chevrolet and Oldsmobile engines in question have a displacement of 350 cubic inches. Scott maintains that the Chevrolet engine costs less.

MAINE BILL TO REPEAL RULE ON CYCLE HELMETS IS VETOED

AUGUSTA, Maine—Gov. James B. Longley Saturday vetoed a bill that would have repealed the state's 10-year-old law requiring motorcyclists to wear protective helmets.

Longley said he had intended to let the measure become law without his signature. But he received reports on recent studies showing that cyclists who do not wear protective gear increase their chances of serious or fatal injury.

Carroll Urges Welfare Reform

Frankfort, Ky.—Gov. Julian Carroll opened a public hearing on welfare reform, recently, telling the panel members, "I feel a strong moral commitment to assist the unfortunate (but) I believe in the work ethic."

"I believe that every able-bodied person ought to work for a living," Carroll said. "I am deeply concerned that we are seeing a cycle of welfare move from one generation to the next. 'This is not helping the welfare recipient,' he said.

The hearing, co-chaired by Tom Ward, Versailles, and social insurance Commissioner Gail Huecker, will cover six areas: Coverage and benefit levels; the relationship between the income maintenance system and the labor market; appropriate roles for the federal, state and local governments; the impact of the welfare system on the family; the relationship between welfare and social services; and administration and management.

Gov. Carroll said that in fiscal 1976, the total expenditures for four major public assistance programs in Kentucky were more than $471.6 million. Of this, Kentucky paid more than $108.99 million, while the federal government's share was $362.6 million.

The Governor said the costs of these programs had "reached an alarming level," but that the rapid escalation of the costs had made him "particularly concerned." He noted that Kentucky Medicaid payments have almost doubled in four years.

Gov. Carroll said that while the "cost of welfare is wounding the taxpayer," the welfare recipient was also being damaged by the program. "A man cannot attain self-respect and dignity... unless he has the opportunity to work and support himself and his family."

"I do not suggest that there are easy solutions (to welfare reform)," Carroll said. "There are areas where jobs are hard to find. I know that too many of our people unfortunately do not have the basic education to be trained for many of the jobs in today's competitive (employment) market."

Carroll said that the state government would try to handle the education aspect by encouraging young people to take vocational and technical education courses in high school.

Carroll noted that many of the state's welfare-related problems are indicated by figures that show Kentucky 44th in the nation in per-capita income and 50th in educational attainment for persons 25 years old and older.

Carroll said paperwork is also a major problem in the welfare system, but added that his administration had achieved a 25 per cent reduction in paperwork.

"We have the capacity to respond to people's needs," Carroll said.

Ky. Heritage Group Notes Historic Sites

Frankfort, Ky.—Landmarks, such as crossroads, trees, or old buildings in the community, are used by almost everyone for giving directions or identifying a particular locality in the community. In the same way, landmark certificates are used by the Kentucky Heritage Commission to identify historic sites in the state.

According to Eldred W. Melton, executive director of the commission, "The landmark certificate program is representative of Kentucky's interest in her heritage as reflected by each community. The local aspect of the program begins in the county where the Heritage Commission has designated a volunteer citizens' committee. The duty of the committee is to recommend and submit brief histories of proposed landmarks to the commission."

Created in 1965, the landmark certificate program has identified more than 1,579 sites and buildings in the state that are historically significant. Certificates are awarded to properties listed on the commission's Survey of Historic Sites in Kentucky. Structures listed include log houses, stores, churches, railroad stations, cemeteries, old homes, battlefields, schools, covered bridges, and natural sites, such as Natural Bridge and Cumberland Gap.

Sites and structures recognized as historically, architecturally, culturally, or geologically significant to Kentucky's history may be documented and submitted to the commission as candidates for landmark certificates. "Rather than using the current owner's name," Melton added, "the commission usually takes the name of the original owner, the earliest known, or the most significant as the historic name of the structure."

Melton, who is also the state historic preservation officer, explained that the program starts with the county representatives who know the area and can document the sites. The county representatives, usually local historians, volunteer to do the work. "The system of volunteer historians in each county," she said, "is more and more proving to be the strength of Kentucky's preservation program."

Melton said a site can be added to the survey in three ways: submittal of recommendation by commission's county representative, recommendation of a listing by a local individual or group, or information collected through pre-historic and historic surveys conducted by the commission staff.

To present the landmark certificates, a citizens' group in a community or county usually plans a special program in cooperation with the Heritage Commission. On each certificate is the name of the structure or site honored, the owner's name and the signature of the governor.

Melton said that the commission strives to secure preservation and restoration of important buildings through generating an awareness of them—and the landmark certificate is one way to build and strengthen that awareness.

According to the commission director, the chief objectives of the landmark certificate program are to identify cultural resources of Kentucky that have local, state, or national significance, to record Kentucky's historic sites permanently for the official state register and the National Register of Historic Places, and to recognize the worth of the state's historic sites to both present and future Kentuckians.

American Red Cross Aids Quake Victims

The League of Red Cross Societies was contacted by the Romanian Red Cross following a violent earthquake registering 7.2 on the Richter scale and hitting Eastern Europe the night of March 4, 1977. As of March 6, the official death toll was 550 dead, 2,600 injured, 3,000 dwellings evacuated and 10,000 homeless in Bucharest alone.

The Romanian Red Cross is assisting authorities in rescue, evacuation and shelter through its first aid teams. An appeal for funds has been made through the league, and the American National Red Cross is accepting contributions earmarked for Romanian Earthquake Relief.

The American National Red Cross has responded by making $25,000 available for this appeal to the Romanian Red Cross.

The United States Department of State has advised that no American citizens have been reported killed or injured. The League advises that inquiries about the fate of Romanian citizens in earthquake hit regions should be directed through the Romanian Embassy in Washington, D. C. Phone 202-232-4747.

No Appointment NecessaryState Takes Step
In Federal Dispute

Governor Julian Carroll announced Thursday, March 17, that State Government has taken a major step toward winning its longstanding dispute with the federal government over how many high-level positions in the Kentucky Department for Human Resources should be exempt from the State Merit System—thereby saving a potential expenditure of $750,000 in state funds.

The good news came to the Governor from Joseph Califano, Jr., Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, who said he agreed that Governor Carroll and Human Resources Secretary Peter Conn "need sufficient latitude in appointive non-merit system positions to insure an effective operation responsive to your leadership goals and objectives." Governor Carroll said he had personally discussed the matter with Secretary Califano during his recent visit to Washington, and that the Secretary had indicated a willingness to make an immediate review and that he hopes to be able to react favorably.

There were some 33 top positions involved in the controversy, which Governor Carroll has personally pursued since taking office in 1974. HEW participates in funding the salaries of 29 of the 33 positions, and Secretary Califano's action removes any threat of HEW fund-withholding on those 29 positions. The other four positions which were in question are funded by the U. S. Department of Labor.

In pursuing Kentucky's case, Governor Carroll's basic contention was that state law clearly exempts the positions from the merit system and should prevail. However, the Atlanta regional offices of HEW, Labor, and the U. S. Civil Service Commission had previously argued that federal standards required the 33 jobs to have merit coverage and resultant job protection. Furthermore, to enforce their positions, HEW and Labor in 1976 had initiated steps to withhold federal funds which Kentucky receives for salaries for the 33 questioned positions—an action which could have cost Kentucky an estimated $750,000 in state funds which would have been needed to fill the funding gap.

Under state law, all policy-making positions—including agency heads, their deputies and principal assistants, and division directors—are exempt from the merit system. In the Human Resources Department, which has just under 11,000 permanent, full-time employees, state law exempts from merit coverage some 53 management positions. The federal government's previous argument, now largely overturned by Secretary Califano's ruling, was that only 20 positions should be nonmerit.

In a series of letters to federal officials, Governor Carroll had insisted that, with 97 percent of all state employees under the merit system, Kentucky obviously supports the principle of job protection; but, he added, Kentucky also supports, through its law, the principle that top management personnel should be totally accountable to the executive authority elected by the citizens at large. "The crux of the issue," the Governor stated in one letter, "is which value weighs heaviest in the balance—management accountability or management job security. I must take the side of accountability, and believe in good faith that the security of management will be commensurate with its capacity for efficient public service."

Carroll said the dispute with the U.S. Department of Labor over four of the Human Resources positions which are funded by Labor, and over two management positions in the Kentucky Labor Department, remains unresolved, but added that he has written President Carter and Labor Secretary Ray Marshall in an effort to bring that issue to the same satisfactory conclusion as the controversy with HEW.

"I am gratified by this important development, and I view Secretary Califano's action as symbolic of the new era in federal-state cooperation which President Carter has initiated," Governor Carroll said.

The Rose, Most Popular Flower

The rose was chosen as the national flower of England. It is also Persia's official flower. It leads all others as state flower. It also leads its family, the Rose Family, one of the largest flower families of earth. It includes such useful members as the pear, apple, peach, cherry, strawberry, raspberry, hawthorn and many others, all of which have blossoms of five petals, the same as the wild rose.

The rose is the official flower of New York state, and some of its varieties have been chosen by other states. The wild Cherokee rose is the state flower of Iowa.

The apple blossom of the Rose Family is the state flower of Arkansas and also of Michigan. The peach blossom of the Rose Family is the state flower of Delaware. The American Beauty Rose is the official flower of the District of Columbia. The wild prairie rose is also the state flower of North Dakota. The hawthorn blossom of the Rose Family is the state flower of Missouri.

Small wonder the rose is the most popular of all flowers. It comes in many colored forms, as the red rambler, the cabbage rose of sheer white, and the pink damask rose from which a rare perfume called attar of rose is obtained.

Then we have the tea roses, such as the American Beauty and varieties of the rambler rose which run wild and climb over shrubs and bushes, decorating them with masses of bright red roses, along about June.

In our region, we have the wild pasture rose, which blooms in sheer pink in May and has five petals to each blossom. This rose and the multiflora rose produce the famous red rose hips, from which Vitamin C is extracted. These rose hips are eaten by grouse, quail, cardinals and other birds as a winter diet.

Roses have been widely cultivated in flower gardens, and new forms and rare shades of color are produced. Some personal appeal and excellence, the rose has no equals.

There is a city called "The Rose City," Portland, Oregon, for its abundance of beautiful roses.

Pasadena, California is also noted for its famous "Tournament of Roses," which is a flower show unequalled anywhere.

Lightning Is Major Killer

Lightning kills more people in the United States than do tornadoes, floods, or hurricanes.

The year is again moving into the season when storms that trigger lightning become more prevalent, and with that in mind, B. J. Barfield, of UK's Agricultural Engineering Department and a weather specialist, urged Kentuckians to reacquaint themselves with a few simple safety rules that could very possibly save their lives during an electrical storm.

"Lightning seldom kills more than one person at a time," Barfield noted, "and for that reason a lightning death doesn't claim the attention that is regarded more spectacular incidents of nature's rampages such as tornadoes, hurricanes and floods, which often have tolls that number scores of people."

When accounting for all lightning deaths in the United States in a single year, the toll is often more than twice the fatalities caused by tornadoes and not quite double the fatalities in which hurricanes and floods are responsible.

The National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, the parent organization of the National Weather Service, has drawn up a list of safety rules designed to avoid death and injury from lightning, Barfield said.

The first rule is simply to learn to recognize the signs of an oncoming thunderstorm, from which bolts of lightning emanate. "Watch for towering 'thunderhead' clouds, distant rumbles of thunder and distant flashes of lightning which indicate an approaching storm," Barfield said. He added that listening to the radio and television for National Weather Service forecasts and warnings provides the individual ample time to "get in out of the weather."

All experts on lightning agree that, when a thunderstorm threatens, the most important single thing is to get inside a home or large building, or inside an all-metal vehicle. An enclosed car or truck is described as an excellent shelter from lightning, for, if struck, it will allow the current to be discharged harmlessly into the ground.

When inside during an electrical storm, persons should avoid using a telephone, except for emergencies.

If outside, with no time to reach a safe building or an automobile, there are another set of rules to follow, Barfield said.

"Don't stand under a natural lightning rod, such as a tall, isolated tree in an open area," he warned. "Avoid standing in small isolated sheds or other small structures in open areas."

Persons should avoid projecting above the surrounding landscape, such as standing on a hilltop, in an open field, on a beach, or fishing from a small boat.

"Get out of and away from open water," Barfield advised. "If you're swimming, the electrical current from a nearby lightning strike can flow through the water to you."

On the farm, persons are warned to get away from tractors and other metal farm equipment.

Get away from motorcycles, scooters, golf carts and bicycles. Put down golf clubs. Stay away from wire fences, clotheslines, metal pipes, rails and other metallic paths that could carry the electrical shock from lightning from some distance away.

In a forest, a person should seek shelter in a low area under a thick growth of small trees, however, in other open areas a person should go to a low place, such as a ravine or valley.

If a person, hopelessly isolated in an open field, suddenly feels the hair standing on end, the persons should drop to the knees and bend forward, putting the hands on the knees. "In this position, if lightning strikes near you, the chances of it using your body as a conductor are minimized," Barfield said.

The recommendation at one time was to lie flat in the field to get as low as possible, however, this action has been disapproved. Kneeling, it was stated, provides the maintaining of a low profile, while at the same time keeping as small an area of the body in contact with the ground as possible. Lying in a ditch or hollow is also discouraged, for surface water or saturated soil is termed as a better conductor of electricity than the surrounding area.

Groups of persons in exposed situations, such as hikers or mountain climbers, should spread out—staying several yards apart—so if lightning strikes nearby, the smallest number will be affected.

"Many people apparently 'killed' by lightning can be revived if quick action is taken," Barfield pointed out. "When a group is affected, the apparently 'dead' should be treated first—those unconscious but breathing will probably recover on their own."

The American Red Cross says first aid should be given to persons not breathing within four to six minutes after being struck by lightning to prevent irreparable damage to the brain. Mouth-to-mouth resuscitation should be administered once every five seconds to adults and once every three seconds to infants and small children until medical help arrives.

If the victim is not breathing and has no pulse, cardio-pulmonary resuscitation is necessary. Cardio-pulmonary resuscitation is a combination of mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and external cardiac compression. Such action, however, should be administered by persons with proper training—the technique can be learned from local Red Cross or Heart Association chapters in one-day sessions.

It was emphasized that medical attention should also be given victims who appear only temporarily stunned or otherwise unhurt, since there may be hidden injuries or effects.

MOSCOW—The Soviet Union is the world's largest potato producer, but Soviet officials described the 1976 crop as disappointing. At 82 million metric tons, it was down 8 per cent from 1975, largely because of prolonged cool, wet weather in the important growing regions.

Another Broken Promise

By Henry Stumbo

Four years ago, after being elected to his seventh term, Henry Stumbo said he would not run again for County Judge. Last week, after nearly 28 years in the office, Henry Stumbo said he would run again for County Judge.

In January, I announced as a candidate for County Judge. This week, I repeat, I am a candidate for County Judge. I have no intention of withdrawing from this race because Henry Stumbo wants four more years of being King Henry of Floyd County.

For nearly 12 years I have been a Magistrate on the Fiscal Court run by Henry Stumbo. For 12 years I have kept quiet and refused to get into fights with Henry Stumbo. I have even voted for his programs. Why? Because, like every other Magistrate now and in the past, the only way I could do anything for the people of my District was to get along with Henry Stumbo.

When I filed as a candidate for County Judge it was because I believed I could do some good for Floyd County. It was because I believed that an open, honest, and efficient government is what this county needs and is what this county has not had in the past two decades. And because I believe the people of Floyd County deserve a fair deal from their elected county officials.

It was not my intention to run against Henry Stumbo. He said he was retiring. I took him at his word. There would be no need to criticize Henry Stumbo. Let him retire after his 28 years in the Courthouse, and let the people forget the past, move into the present, and look toward a brighter future.

Unfortunately, Henry Stumbo has changed his mind. Like other Kings, Henry has changed his royal mind, and his subjects are supposed to bow down and give three cheers for King Henry. He wants four more years in the Palace.

I say to you today that you do not have to bow down to King Henry. You do not have to put up with four more years of mismanagement, of royal favors that are granted only to the most loyal subjects, of your tax money being poured into a few favored pot holes while the less-favored citizens are mired in mud and promises.

From now until the Primary Election, Henry Stumbo will be coming to see you with new gravel, new pipe, new promises. He will not be doing his campaigning in the county truck, run on county gasoline paid for by your tax dollars, if I can help it. I will introduce a motion in the next Fiscal Court meeting to forbid such use of county property. King Henry has a royal chariot—a Lincoln Continental. I suggest he use that.

From now until the Primary Election, I will be talking to you, too. I doubt if I will have any gravel or pipe and I hope the people of my District will forgive me and understand and be patient for a few months. A subject is rebelling and the King will not take this lightly. On the other hand, I hope the people of the other Districts will ask where the gravel and pipe have been for the last four years. You pay taxes every year. Ask why you only get service from Henry Stumbo at election time.

There are other questions to ask, too. Ask about the deplorable condition of the roads in this county, while thousands and thousands of dollars are spent every year on gravel and road equipment. Ask why there is no new industry and no new jobs for people. Ask about the whole picture of coal and how much it means to Floyd County, and whether a County Judge who has interests in coal business can be objective about coal business. Ask about the garbage that litters the hills and roadsides and the thousands of dollars that have been spent already supposedly for sanitation services. Ask about your county budget—your tax dollars—and ask where that money has gone.

Most of all, ask about The System—the System that Henry Stumbo has established and personally controlled for 28 years. I know about the System because, unfortunately, I have seen it from the inside. The System gives favors to friends. The System uses one Magistrate against another—Henry Stumbo only needs two votes on the Fiscal Court—as long as two Magistrates stay with him, he can and does run roughshod over the other two. And it makes little difference to him which two. I have been on both sides of that power play, and I apologize for it. The System does more than that. It threatens people. It says it will take away your job, it will take your welfare, it will take your food stamps, it will keep you in or get you out of jail. The System says you pay for what you get with your vote on election day.

I will be coming to see you and will be talking to you personally and in the newspapers and over the radio for the next few weeks, and I will be discussing all of these matters in more detail. I hope you will listen to me and know that The System CAN be broken. You CAN fight the Courthouse.

Henry Stumbo wants four more years. Just remember he began this campaign with ONE MORE BROKEN PROMISE. It's time for a change.

Department of Transportation Claims $1.25 Million Saving

One of the state's major fuel consumers—the Kentucky Department of Transportation (KYDOT)—says it has saved $1.25 million since the 1973 Energy Crisis by practicing the same brand of conservatism that provoked Americans during World War II to ask themselves: "Is this trip really necessary?"

"The answer to that question has cut our overall gasoline and diesel fuel consumption rate by more than 2.5 million gallons since 1973," says State Transportation Secretary John C. Roberts.

In fact, he adds, not even the large increase in KYDOT's motor vehicle fleet during the past year "really hurt us very much."

That increase came about as the result of an order issued by Gov. Julian M. Carroll directing that KYDOT assume administrative, motor pool control over virtually all state vehicles.

At the time the order was issued, Carroll described it as an economy measure.

And the figures, as released by Roberts, would seem to prove him right. In February 1976, long before that order was issued, Roberts had set a maximum fuel consumption goal of not more than 6.5 million gallons for that year. Total gallons actually consumed by the year's end exceeded that goal by only 114,000 gallons.

"But even with the small increase brought about by the new motor pool program, our total 1976 fuel consumption figures still ran 11 per cent below the total number of gallons consumed in 1973," Roberts said.

Will the department do as well this year? Or will the high fuel usage forced upon KYDOT during January and February when snow and ice removal crews were working 16-hour days cause the department a serious setback?

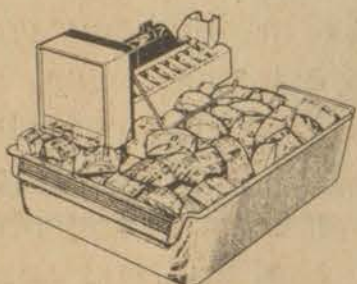

Roberts is inclined to be optimistic on that point.

"Our maximum usage goal for 1977 is not more than 7.5 million gallons, and that takes into account both the new motor pool as well as the snow and ice removal operations," he said.

Broad-Form Deed Still Holds But Some Think It's Weakened

Few of the legal profession see in the recent refusal of the U. S. Supreme Court to review the Muhlenberg county court decision which forbade stripmining against the landowners' wishes as a direct threat to the broad form deed, but there are some who see a crack in the old deed's armor.

John M. Rosenberg, director of the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund there, whose lawyers have fought the broad-form deed over a period of years, doubts that the high court refusal gives room for a direct court attack on the deed in all its Eastern Kentucky power. But he considered the Kentucky Supreme Court opinion in favor of the surface owners and hazarded the thought that the state court's decision may mean that it will be more receptive to future legislative attempts to reduce the scope of the broad form deeds.

"One couldn't feel too optimistic about a straight court attack, but perhaps it means a well-drafted bill might have a better chance before the court," he said.

There was general consensus that the court action by itself will have little or no impact on the powers of the broad-form deed.

The phrasing of broad-form deeds varies, but they permit mineral owners to use any "necessary" or "reasonable" means to mine their coal, with or without the consent of surface owners.

Most of the deeds were signed between 1880 and 1910, before strip mining was even envisioned. Attempts to strip mine against the wishes of surface owners often have resulted in bitter controversy.

The Supreme Court, which refused without comment to hear an appeal of a Kentucky Supreme Court decision, let stand the state court's refusal to allow two coal companies to strip mine in Muhlenberg County in Western Kentucky under a mineral deed. The deed in question, however, was not a broadform deed.

The deed "was extremely limited, a far cry from the broad-form deed," said Hazard attorney Bruce Stephens Jr., who has often defended the deeds.

Stephens added, "It may cause more litigation. It may raise some false hopes."

Some opponents of broad-form deeds said they were indeed hopeful, adding that the Western Kentucky case offers solid grounds for encouragement.

"I disagree with the legal authorities who say that it won't have a profound impact on Eastern Kentucky," said state Rep. Raymond Overstreet, R-Liberty, sponsor of a 1974 state law curbing the rights of coal operators to strip mine without surface owners' approval. The state Court of Appeals (now called the state Supreme Court) declared the law unconstitutional the following year.

Overstreet said the Muhlenberg county case encourages him to consider trying again in the 1978 General Assembly to limit the scope of broad-form deeds.

"This has started the adrenalin flowing again," he said. "It's just such a gross injustice; we just can't let it lie."

Overstreet argued that the Kentucky Supreme Court's Muhlenberg county decision, which it handed down last year, considered the intentions of the signers of the mineral deed. He said he hopes for a rash of suits challenging the deeds on the basis of the state decision.

Even Overstreet's sympathizers, however, were skeptical that either the state or the U. S. Supreme Court had opened the door for a courtroom solution to the broad-form deed controversy.

Dean Hill Rivkin, who defended Overstreet's bill in 1975, said the state court's Muhlenberg county decision alluded to past decisions upholding broadform deeds. The court ruled, however, that the language of the Muhlenberg County deed was more restrictive than that of broad-form deeds, he said.

"That tells me that the court thought about broad-form deeds pretty seriously and said, 'We're not going to reverse ourselves,'" said Rivkin, a law professor at the University of Tennessee.

The old state Court of Appeals upheld the validity of strip mining under broadform deed at least a dozen times, including landmark rulings in 1956, 1968 and 1975.

Coal-industry spokesmen said, however, they were confident the broad-form deed could withstand any new challenge.

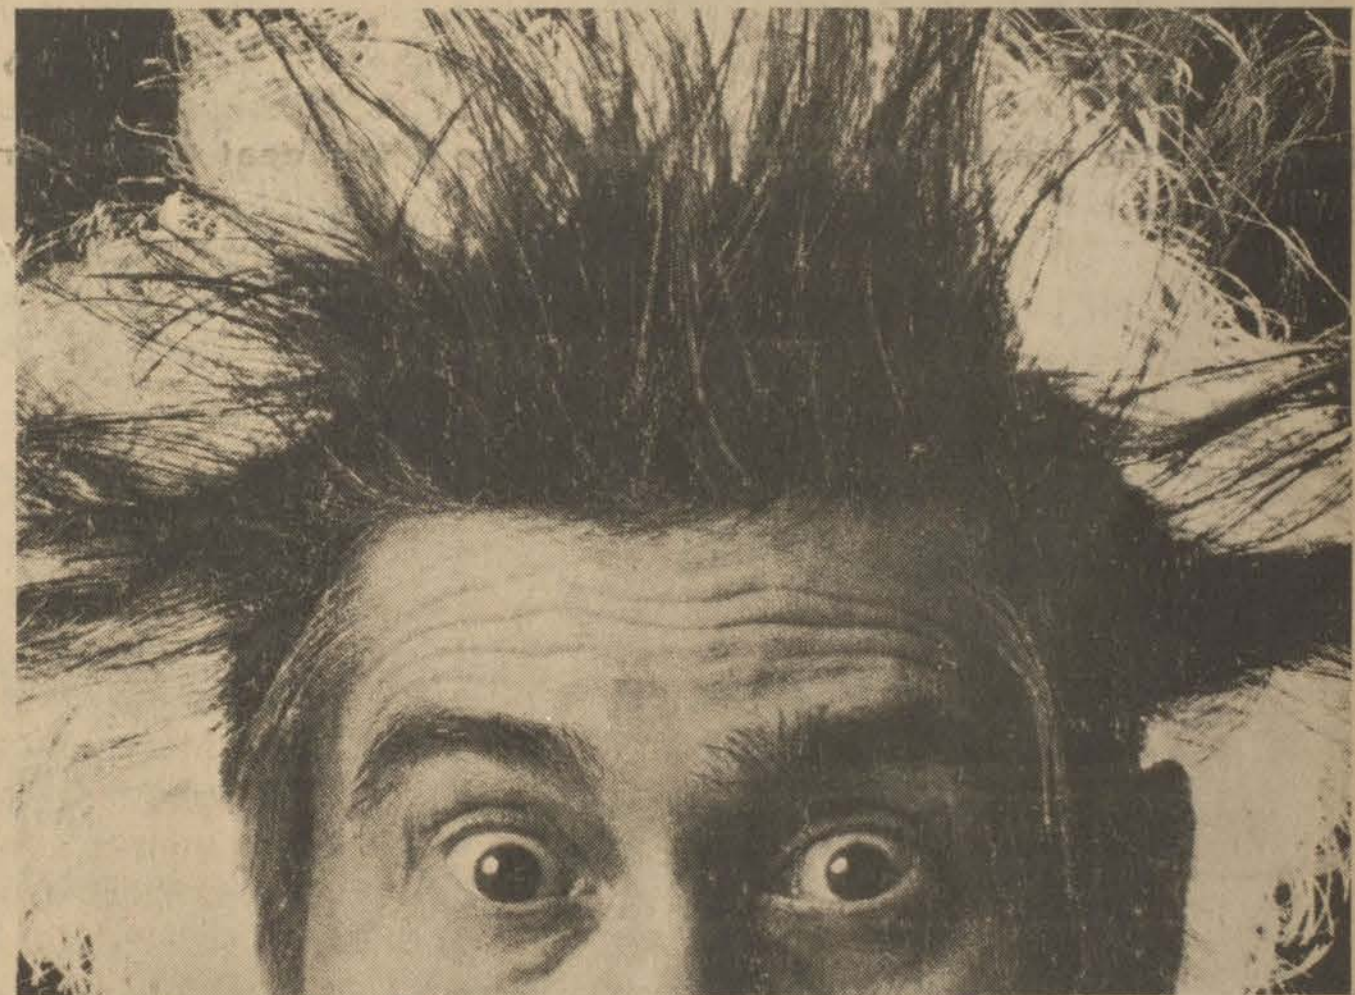

"I think the broad-form deed has been before the Court of Appeals so many times—and always been decided in favor of the holder—that I don't see that this particular case (in Muhlenberg county) would affect their past decision," said Cloyd McDowell, president of the Harlan County Coal Operators Association.

Overstreet said about two-thirds of Eastern Kentucky's coal is owned by holders of broad-form deeds. The percentage in Western Kentucky is much less.

An attorney for the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection said the U. S. Supreme Court action was under review by the department. He indicated it is unlikely to have an effect on state rules for issuing strip-mining permits.

The department no longer requires coal operators to list their broad-form deeds to receive a permit. Instead, they sign affidavits attesting that they have the right to mine their coal.

In late 1974, before this practice was started, state strip-mining officials said only 1 or 2 per cent of new strip-mining permits involved cases where operators had broad-form deeds but did not have the consent of surface owners.

If you're not careful your CB antenna could put you in touch with a lot more than you bargained for.

Unfortunately, your CB base station antenna will not only help you reach more people, it could also put you in touch with our power lines.

And the slightest contact between you, your antenna and our lines could be fatal.

So, before you put up your antenna, here are a few suggestions you should follow.

First, we recommend you have a professional do it for you.

Okay, if you're determined to do it yourself, look out for power lines. The ones attached to poles. And the ones attached to your house.

If you can't tell a power line from a phone line, don't experiment. Steer clear.

Then make sure you locate your antenna (including supporting mast and guy wires) at least one and a half times its total height from all power lines. Which means, a 30-ft. high antenna should be 45 feet away from all power lines in all directions.

That way, if it falls during construction, or gets blown down during a storm, it won't hit any lines and endanger you or your neighbors.

Trying to carry an antenna, climb a ladder and keep your balance all at the same time is risky business, too.

Wait for a calm day, assemble the antenna where you intend to put it up, be sure to ground the antenna properly and get somebody to help you.

TO THE VOTERS OF MAGISTERIAL
DISTRICT NO. 1

- (1) Just a little about myself. I live on Bull Creek, I am a member of Zebulon Lodge, no. 273, and also, I am one of the Water Commissioners of the Bull Creek Water District. I have been working on this project for four and a half years. So by working together with the citizens of Bull Creek, and other interested people, we at last accomplished our goal.
- (2) At the end of December, 77, I will have finished 26 years as an employee of the Columbia Gas Company. Then I will be ready to serve as a full time Magistrate—not four hours per day, not just on Saturday, but eight hours each day, six days each week; or as many days or hours that is necessary to get the job done.

Now, I want to take this means of letting all my friends and Kin Folk know that I am a candidate for Magistrate of District No. 1, Floyd County, Kentucky. My name will be on the Democratic Ballot in the May Primary Election, 1977. We have had a part time Magistrate for almost 12 years. So let's try the next four years with a full time one. I can, and I will, keep these promises. I have only four promises to make and here they are:

1. I WILL TRY TO THE BEST OF MY ABILITY, AND WITH THE HELP OF THE OTHER MEMBERS OF THE FISCAL COURT TO HELP IN ANY WAY I POSSIBLY CAN FOR EVERYONE CONCERNED.
2. I WILL GIVE $100.00 EACH MONTH TO THE CRIPPLED CHILDREN'S FUND.
3. I WILL GIVE $100.00 EACH MONTH TO THE HEART FUND.
4. AND I WILL ALSO GIVE $100.00 EACH MONTH TO THE KIDNEY FUND.

So, if the good people of Magisterial District No. 1 want to help their children, grandchildren, friends, and neighbors - to do so - all I'm asking you to do is very simple. Elect me as your next Magistrate of District No. 1. This I can, and I will do, so help me God.

Over the past four years the only thing that Mr. Roberts has done is grow fatter and richer while our district has grown poorer and in worse condition. I don't have to tell you what he's done because there's nothing to tell. You can see for yourself what hasn't been done. Our district has taken a back seat to the rest of the county long enough. Help me put Dewey out of office and our district on top where it belongs. Get on the bandwagon and let's run over top of Dewey!

MAGISTRATE DISTRICT 2

I am the son of Taylor Layne and Martha Hale Layne, of Stephens Branch, Manton, Ky. My paternal grandparents are the late Alford Layne and Mary Carver Layne. My maternal grandparents are the late Wess Hale and Sarah Kennedy Hale.

My wife, Pauline, is the daughter of M. F. Patton, of Eastern, Ky., and Pearl Prater Patton, of Ypsilanti, Mich. We have five children, Brenda Joyce Burton, of Stanton, Ky., Glenda Kay Merion, Martin, Ky., John Phillip, a student at Morehead University, Bert Ricky (Dewey) and Kathy Lynn, at home. We also have three granddaughters. Pauline and I own and operate Layne's Grocery at Manton, Ky.

I graduated from Martin high school in 1942 and served three years in the US Air Force during World War 2.

I am an active member of the UMW. I have served as an officer of two Local Unions—7791 at Langley, and 6282 at Manton, for twenty years. I have also served as a Notary Public for the last seven years.

During all these years, I have filled out many forms for my brothers of the UMW, regardless of the local Union they belonged to. I have also notarized many papers during my last seven years as Notary Public.

All of you people offered to pay me for the services that I did for you, but I never accepted anything. These things I did because I wanted to help you. Now, I would like to ask all of you to help and support me, Jake Layne, for Magistrate in District 2.

If you do not live in my district, but know some people who do, would you please talk to these people and tell them about me?

Every politician will tell you, I am honest and sober. I am not asking you to take my word alone. If you want to know anything about me, ask the people who know me.

This is my application for the job as Magistrate in District 2. If you want a man that will help all of the people in this District, regardless of where they live, vote for me.

Your help will be appreciated.

THOMAS D. TUCKER FOR MAGISTRATE OF DISTRICT 4

To All Voters of District 4 of Floyd County:

As most of you know, I am a candidate for Magistrate of District No. 4 of Floyd County. I am a young man, age 32, and I am the son of George and Della Tucker. I have never been in politics before.

So much has been promised to the people by politicians—that if they were elected that they would build roads and bridges. None of these promises have been fulfilled. Our roads are worse than they have been in several years.

I pledge with an oath of honor to the voters that I will do everything in my power to build roads and bridges. If elected, I will form a Citizens' Road Committee for each precinct to help see that we receive our fair share of road money.

If you are tired of scraping the bottom out of your car or getting stuck in the mudholes in the middle of the roads... If You Are Tired of This,

As you know I am a candidate for Sheriff of Floyd County, Kentucky. I quit drinking over 4 years ago and I have not drunk any alcoholic beverages since that time. I want you to know I am against bootlegging, dope and drunk driving. I will carefully select qualified deputies, they will be in full uniform and they will treat everybody in an equal manner. Deputies will be furnished at all funerals, school activities or any place needed in Floyd County.

As I have stated before no Elswick has ever run for public office in Floyd County. I believe that everyone deserves a chance. A vote for Elswick means a safer Floyd County.
