

TV System Owner Wins Bids Right

Most of Resolution On TV Franchise Approved by Court

Everett Akers, Martin television system owner, won a partial victory last week when the state Supreme Court held unconstitutional one section of the resolution adopted by the Floyd fiscal court governing cable television systems in the county.

The fiscal court's resolution was the basis of a suit filed by Akers in circuit court, and the appeal to the higher court was filed after he had lost the circuit court decision.

J. K. Wells, Paintsville, attorney for Akers, said the Supreme Court opinion, in effect, gives the Martin man "the right to bid on as many television cable franchises as he wants to."

The section in the fiscal court ordinance which was voided by the ruling reads:

"No owner or operator of a community television system will be allowed to bid on an area in which a system is operating, other than the one in which he is presently operating, nor shall any person bid for same on his behalf or with the intent of permitting him to operate same. Should there be two operators in (See Story No. 2, Page 4)

'Unfair' Conditions Fail To Stop Flow Of Exhibits to Fair

Despite days of miserable, "unfair" weather, the Floyd county fair last week attracted 2,298 exhibits—exactly 201 more than the total exhibits of the preceding year.

Of the exhibit total, 1301 were by 4-H Clubs, 96 by Future Homemakers of America, 140 by Future Farmers, 9 by schools and 751 were in the open adult class.

First and second prize winners, respectively, in the three school categories were:

High school—Betsy Layne and McDowell; rural school—Bonanza and Auxier; consolidated elementary school—Clark and Osborne.

Winners of the bicycles given away during the fair were Connie Branham, of Water Gap, fourth-grade pupil here, and Charles Hunter, 12, of Martin.

Rainfall during the four days of the fair was so persistent that the Kissel Brothers amusement feature operated little until Saturday.

Home Rule Loss To Cost County; May Void Order

Although the Floyd fiscal court hasn't used much of the power granted it under the so-called Home Rule law, the authority taken from local government when the state Supreme Court last week ruled the legislation unconstitutional is considerable, County Judge Henry Stumbo said Monday.

The court has, from time to time, discussed actions possible for it under Home Rule, but has not entered many orders under that authority.

One order in effect under Home Rule is the recent fiscal court mandate directing that all loaded coal trucks have a tarpaulin cover while travelling any highway in the county.

The Supreme Court opinion voids that, unless the court later reverses itself on appeal from its decision.

And, even without the high court action, it is highly doubtful that the fiscal court's order is legal, County Attorney Harold J. Stumbo told the magistrates when they met here Monday.

Stumbo questioned the validity of an order directed at only one industry and expressed the opinion that the order, to be legal, would have to provide a penalty for other trucks—gravel, for instance—if they transported spillable contents and did not use a cover to prevent spillage.

He added that one attorney for a coal carrier had threatened to take the court order to circuit court for a declaratory judgment.

The county attorney said he thought the fiscal court order was "a good thing but that it should be written so as to be legal."

County Judge Stumbo said he understood one or more of the four magistrates have levied fines from truckers hauling coal in uncovered trucks.

It is estimated that only half of the truckers were in compliance with the order.

HOPE THE CORRECTION'S CORRECT

Red, White and Blue Day will be observed on Oct. 22—repeat, Oct. 22—not on Oct. 2, as we reported last week. Incidentally, the party who made that mistake has departed for Peru. All mistakes appearing in this week's edition may be laid to somebody who has gone, or wants to go, fishing.

TARDY AUTUMN

In the good, old days, fall never arrived later than Sept. 21, swept in by an old-fashioned equinoctial storm. Just to show you that things have indeed gone to the bowwows, the season change this year doesn't come, according to my calendar, till the 23rd. But I should be happy about the matter—it isn't a national holiday falling on a Monday.

Since ginseng is consumed by the Chinese as an aphrodisiac, and the United States is going to stop its shipment outside the country, look for a rumor to spread to the effect that it's all a CIA plot to cut down on the number of Chinese.

OPPOSES CHANGE

Any day now, the arguments about retaining the present state constitution or voting for a convention to draft a new one should get under way, unless the boys find something less esoteric to palaver about. Already one report comes of an individual who is opposed to the change and his reason for taking a stand.

$1 Million Seen For ARH Relief

The Appalachian Regional Hospital system, still in critical financial condition, is expected to receive a transfusion of $1 million later than week from the U.S. Department of Commerce.

The Department of Commerce staff has recommended approval to Robert T. Hall, assistant secretary. In addition, the grant has received the endorsement of a study team from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) which visited many of the firm's 10 hospitals in Kentucky, West Virginia and Virginia in August.

A letter from HEW to the Department of Commerce said the $1 million grant would be a good short-term solution until HEW can devise a way to remedy 14 years of financial problems.

Rex Bailey, spokesman for AHR, said the hospital chain has finished in the red every year except one during the 14 years it has been in existence.

While he termed the $1 million grant a "tremendous boost," he cautioned that, "We're not sure we can set a date as to how long $1 million will last us." He noted the chain has a $68 million yearly budget.

Oct. 10th Date Set For New KY 80 Start

Gov. Julian Carroll will preside at the groundbreaking ceremony October 10 to initiate construction of the new Kentucky 80 in Eastern Kentucky.

Congressman Carl D. Perkins, who has been a strong supporter of the new facility, will share the speaker's stand with Gov. Carroll.

The groundbreaking will be at the site of the future interchange which will join KY 80 with the Daniel Boone Parkway at Hazard.

Among those attending will be members of the Kentucky 80 East Association and a number of supporters who served on the old East Kentucky Planning Committee.

November Poll To Decide Fate Of Utility There

The Prestonsburg City Council and Utilities Commission and the board of trustees of the City of Allen last week took the preliminary action which will later depend for implementation upon a decision to be made by the voters of Allen at the November election.

The action taken here last Thursday was to accept the proposed contract with the City of Allen which had been prepared by Grafton & Fleischer, attorneys. The tentative agreement was approved the following day by the board of trustees of Allen, clearing the way for final adoption or rejection by the voters.

The question to appear on the ballot will read:

"Shall the City of Allen, Ky. sell and convey to the City of Prestonsburg, Ky. all of Allen's right, title and interest in and to properties and facilities providing water service in and to the City of Allen and to the adjacent unincorporated areas known as New Allen and Dwale, upon assumption by Prestonsburg of the City of Allen's overdue and unpaid obligations with regard to such water system properties?"

The incorporated portion of Allen, which is known as Old Allen, acquired its water system in 1966, issuing $280,000 in revenue bonds to pay for it. The obligations of the incorporated town are listed at more than $35,000, and it has defaulted on the principal and interest of the bond issue.

A majority vote will decide the future of the water system.

In the tentative agreement made between Prestonsburg and Allen it was specified that the existing minimum charge of $6.80 for the first 2,000 gallons of water used per month will remain in effect if Prestonsburg should acquire the system. These other rates are also in the agreement:

$1.80 per 1,000 gallons for water used above the minimum and up to 100,000 gallons; over 100,000 gallons, $1.05.

Most Candidates For City Office Are Unopposed

City election campaigns which usually enliven the November voting have not materialized this year in the county except at Wheelwright, where three slates of candidates for Board of Trustees are in the running.

Allen, Martin, Prestonsburg and Wayland candidates for city offices are unopposed.

The Prestonsburg election includes the mayor's office, and Mayor Harold W. Cooley is unopposed for the full term after appointment to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Mayor William O. Goebel, Jr.

Cooley and the following unopposed slate of candidates here for City Council will appear on the ballot under the (See Story No. 3, Page 4)

2 Officials Say Revision Should Aid Annexation

The Municipal Statute Revision Commission held its second Eastern Kentucky hearing last Tuesday night at May Lodge on the proposed revamping of state law governing cities, and Prestonsburg officials emphasized that the greatest need is a change in the annexation law.

Mayor Harold Cooley and City Manager Curtis Clark joined in pointing out that the law should provide cities the means of annexing areas to which cities are already providing services.

The problem Prestonsburg has with pollution of the Big Sandy River by persons living outside the city limits was cited, the city being powerless in such cases to control a situation which affects its residents.

The proposed revision would make the methods of annexation uniform for all classes of cities.

The mayor and city manager also said they were disappointed with the draft of the statute revision, as it now stands, because it does not provide for solving what they described as a serious problem here. This problem, they said, is the city's inability to effect badly needed zoning measure because it is tied to a joint city-county zoning commission which is inactive. As a consequence, they pointed out, development here is not planned, nor is there any planning for nearby areas that affect Prestonsburg and which could at some future date become a part of the city through annexation.

George Rabe, legal counsel for the Statute Revision Commission, suggested that the city use its influence to get city-county zoning action, and, failing that, to seek relief from the courts.

The statute revision proposes mandatory use by cities of county assessments of property for tax purposes, and Councilman Ronald Hager, of Prestonsburg, and Ed Burtner, of Big Sandy ADD, urged the commission to give cities the option of using either assessment, their own or the county's. Congressman Hails Passage Of Black Lung Legislation

Congressman Carl D. Perkins jubilantly discussed via telephone Tuesday morning the victory won Monday afternoon when the House approved by a 283 to 100 vote his bill, the Black Lung Benefits Reform Act.

The bill now goes to the Senate, which is expected to act this week.

Perkins said: "The major thrust of the House bill is to bring about changes in the program so as to obtain the approval of thousands of claims of miners suffering from pneumoconiosis who have previously been denied benefits."

He added that his great concern for the older miners who filed under Part D of the Act prompted the legislation. Perkins pointed out that in most cases such a miner spent 30 or more years in the mines, and there is no way that state workman's compensation or any other program can reach his needs.

"He cannot find any responsible operator and he is barred by the statutes of limitation. Now, the reforms made by the House passage of this bill brings him new life," the Congressman said.

The legislation, according to one congressman who voted for it, "stacks the deck in favor of the coal miner."

One of the most controversial features calls for establishment of a trust fund, (See Story No. 4, Page 4) financed from production royalties paid by coal operators, to cover the costs of black lung benefits.

This, supporters of the measure said, would shift the burden of financial responsibility away from the federal government to the operators.

The legislation was not quite as sweeping as a version which the House approved last year and House Education and Labor committee chairman Carl Perkins, D-Ky. pushed through his panel again this year.

The Senate, earlier this year, approved similar legislation including provisions for the trust fund. But, the Senate stopped short of voting final approval because the trust fund was viewed as a revenue measure and the Constitution requires the House to act first on revenue measures.

Under the legislation, coal operators would still be required to pay the full cost of benefits in cases where responsibility can be determined. The fund would finance other claims.

The fund would be administered by a board of seven trustees elected by coal operators.

Claimants would be given three years to file, and rejected claims could be appealed to federal court under the new legislation.

Big Sandy ADD District To Share Funds

Gov. Julian Carroll today announced federal funding approval of Kentucky's Joint Funding Administration Program, which will provide more than $6 million to the state's 15 Area Development Districts.

Grant awards were received last Thursday from the Economic Development Administration, Housing and Urban Development and Appalachian Regional Commission totaling $2,475,438.

Other funds will be included from Urban Mass Transit Authority as well as from six state agencies—Justice, Transportation, Human Resources, Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, Development and Department for Local Government (DLG).

"As pilot state for the first statewide unified grant application, the Commonwealth led the way in bringing more services to local governments with less red tape," Gov. Carroll said. "With this year's level of funding, Kentucky will continue to be a leader in this innovative federal, state and local government effort."

Under joint funding, DLG files a single application for the 15 ADDs incorporating all major sources of funding into one single program plan. DLG then receives the funds from participating agencies and disburses them quarterly to each ADD, with each funding agency maintaining control over its program. Throughout the funding period, DLG serves as liaison between funding agencies and ADDs to help improve overall funding systems, identify problems and help resolve problems.

Kentucky was a pilot state for joint funding four years ago. This approach was made available to all 50 states last year.

Parent Says 'Smoke Breaks' At School Invite 'Pot' Use

(In publishing the following anonymous letter The Times violates its policy of refusing to publish letters unless the writer is willing to have his or her name appear. This letter, however, is so challenging that, for the once, we break the rule.—Editor)

I can't sleep tonight because of a conversation I had a few days ago with my child, who is a high school student. She said, "Mom, the schools are making it easy for kids to smoke marijuana." Astonished, I asked why she thought so. She went on to explain that students are permitted a smoke break if they have written permission from their parents. There are no school personnel supervising these breaks and "pot" is openly passed from one youngster to another who is willing to "take a drag."

I can remember a time, not so many years ago when, even though the child's parents permitted those things harmful and not in the best interest of the pupil, the schools did not.

If a parent wants to permit his or her child to smoke, let him smoke at home—not at school. Not where other students can be influenced to take up their bad habits.

Drug users in Floyd county junior high and senior high grades are rapidly multiplying. Our law-enforcement officials verify that. Is it any wonder drug users are on the increase? How many regular users of marijuana inhale their "joint" at school-permitted smoke breaks? How many kids are introduced to "grass" at school who might not otherwise be, were it not for the smoke breaks? How many principals and teachers know marijuana is used during these permitted smoke breaks? How

Arizona Reader Writes

I read with interest about the potato plant that had tomatoes on the top and potatoes underground. When I was a child in Floyd county I picked a small half-ripe tomato from our sweet potato vines. I was so excited about what I thought was a great miracle, but never could seem to get anyone to believe me. The adults acted like it was an everyday occurrence. I was glad to hear some one else had a similar experience.

Sorry to hear of the passing of Dr. J. H. Allen. He was a great man as well as a great doctor. In his day, to be a physician was an honored profession, and rightly so, because doctors gave so much of themselves, working night and day under unbelievable circumstances, a lot of the time without pay.

I remember when my 18-month-old son found a box of sugar coated pills and tried to eat them all. It was Dr. Allen who came and administered chloroform for the dreadful convulsions the child was in, and in a short time returned him to my arms, as good as ever. One can never forget things like that.

Although "Hawley," as we called him, was older and in high grades, I can remember going to school with him at the Old "Beech Grove," near Eastern.

Would Save Garfield Place

My husband and I want to help—if we can—in saving Garfield Place.

I wonder—could not the owner present it, as a gift, to The Kentucky Historical Society? Or to the county of Floyd?

One group of people could take it over, purchase, repair, upkeep, etc., completely. I refer to the millionaires of Prestonsburg and Floyd county. The coal business has brought many men (and women) millions of dollars.

A phone call from a nephew in Oregon alerted me to the fact of many unusually rich men in Prestonsburg. My nephew said, "Aunt, why in the world are northern churches and northern Christians paying the living expenses of all the home missionaries in S. E. Kentucky? Why, that area is 'loaded' with the wealthy! Cheryl and I are now watching a program that deals with all the millionaires who live in a place called Prestonsburg. Is that near you?"

I admitted it was! He had more questions—I had no answers.

So—could not these persons, so blest by Almighty God, share a small portion of their means to benefit the county? Garfield Place is a part of the heritage of this area. If I, a "furriner," can see it so, should not they?

It should be furnished as a home—the home it was like when Garfield took it over, and a fee should be charged for viewing it.

Let's save Garfield Place by all means and blessings on Mrs. Stephens for what she has done for all of us in preserving it. She should be the official hostess to show it to those who come to see it.

CHARLOTTE M. MARTIN

many teachers report those who come to class, glassy eyed and smelling of "pot" after their smoke breaks? All the kids smell it. They all know this goes on. What is wrong the principals and teachers cannot smell and see?

Why are our schools allowing these smoke breaks? Just because a few have written permission from their parents does not justify this.

Our school system needs to take a firm stand against habits which medical science has proven to be harmful.

I would like to challenge our superintendent of the Floyd county schools, assistant superintendent, principals, and teachers to take a firm stand against these smoke breaks, thereby fighting the use of drugs also.

Our administrative officials have allotted money or means to fight narcotics in the schools. One of the best things that can be done to prevent further drug use is eliminate the smoke breaks.

Those of us who do not allow our children to smoke at home do not want them to get the habit while at school. I would like to see our schools decrease the use of drugs and bad habits, not increase them.

From Michigan Prison

I subscribe to the Times because I'm a native of Floyd County. It's like having my friends and family here with me each week I receive it! I'm doing a life sentence here at Michigan State Prison, but the Times makes it a little easier.

The articles and pictures are exceptionally good—keep up the good work!

Here enclosed is a copy of our weekly prison paper. Perhaps you'll find it interesting. There are no words to accurately describe the hell and torment of a lonely convict in prison. Prison is a cold and heartless place—a place where one letter from someone who cares can mean so much.

the same area, then the first operator who has given continual service shall be preferred in awarding franchise if he meets other qualifications.

All other sections of the resolution dividing the county into areas for the stated purpose of "preventing a monopoly" and ordering that these areas be advertised for bids and that exclusive franchises be awarded for a period of 15 years to the highest and best bidder were upheld by the high court. The section calling for bids specified that "such best bidder (shall) be selected by the court, taking into consideration the ability financially and educationally to operate such a system and the moral character and fitness of such bidder."

The Supreme Court opinion, written by Justice Sternberg, was rendered last Friday.

The high court recently reversed the Floyd circuit court judgment holding that Frank DeRossett, Jr. had filed too late his $57,000 suit against Herbert Wayne Burgher and Capitol Truck Rentals for injuries allegedly sustained when his auto was hit by the company's truck.

The accident occurred July 25, 1973, and the suit was filed July 25, 1974. Circuit Judge Hollie Conley sustained the defendant's contention that the one-year limitation had expired when the action was filed and that the last day for filing was July 24, 1974. The case was returned to the court here for trial.

said the mandatory use of county assessments was proposed to avoid costly duplication of effort and of eliminating the possibility of one piece of property having two values for taxation. Use of the county assessment also would provide cities this service at no cost, he said.

But Hager and City Manager Clark expressed the belief that Prestonsburg's assessment is better than the county's and that use of the county assessment of property here might threaten the city's tax revenues.

Mayor Cooley also voiced strong opposition to the proposal for collective bargaining by public employees, a part of the commission's statute revision plan. He argued that collective bargaining should be left to the discretion of the individual cities.

"I'm bothered by the idea of dealing with state law and a state board about local employees and local issues," Cooley said.

On Sept. 17, 1937, a mere matter of 40 years ago, the late James B. Goble wrote for The Times its first "This Town—That World." And one of the items in that column was this:

"While attempting this—a first column—the writer is reminded of Editor-Columnist Henry Arrowood, of The Paintsville Herald, who recently said, "Newspapers in Floyd county without an Allen or a Goble would be like an insane asylum without Arrowoods."

The late Henry Arrowood was my idea of a great guy. He had that rare grace of being able to laugh at himself.

ADD Board Proposes Floyd Project Funds

The proposed use of nearly three and a half million dollars currently available in the form of state and federal funds was outlined Monday night at the meeting of the Big Sandy Area Development District at May Lodge.

A list of projects throughout the five-county Big Sandy ADD was reviewed and approved by the board of directors for proposed allocation, including $1,860,000 for projects in this county alone.

Of $1,027,200 available in state Area Development Funds (ADF), $250,000 of that total was approved for proposed allocation for the following Floyd county projects:

Highlands Regional Medical Center sewer line, $100,000; Sandy Valley water plant, $100,000; Wheelwright recreation and community improvement, $50,000.

The Sandy Valley water plant was one of five water projects approved for possible allocation in the district and, if funded, would go toward alleviating the severe water problems which have plagued the Mud Creek section of this county in recent years. Joe McCauley, executive director of Big Sandy ADD, said he was particularly pleased with the inclusion of Wheelwright for ADF help in community improvement. Three hundred thousand dollars of the available ADF funds were allocated for the ADD district's enterprise development program which is aimed at rekindling efforts to identify industrial sites in the five counties and attract industry to the area.

Listed among proposed projects for Appalachian Regional Commission supplement was the Abbott Creek-Little Paint Water District, $150,000, and $146,000 for expansion of Prestonsburg's water plant. Sixty percent of the total cost of the Prestonsburg water expansion has already been committed by the federal Economic Development Administration (EDA) in the amount of $876,000 McCauley pointed out. The ARC money represents 10 per cent of the total, and the remaining 30 per cent, $438,000, is expected to come in the form of a Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) loan.

Two projects listed for ARC supplements which would serve the entire ADD district include $20,000 for a roving city manager to help small communities in the efficient operation of municipal government and community projects, and $10,000 for a home health care research project designed to promote more efficient health care, especially for older residents.

Referring to the proposed projects,

Board member Alan Perry, of Paintsville, introduced Big Sandy ADD's newly acquired enterprise development specialist, Charles Nicklas. Nicklas, 44, an Ohio native, will head the district's efforts at attracting diversified industry to the area.

Also present at the meeting was ARC representative Mike Potter. Potter spoke briefly of the agency's involvement in Eastern Kentucky as well as throughout the Appalachian region and concluded his talk by quoting long-time ARC official John Whisman who said, according to Potter, "If you can get it done on the Big Sandy, you can get it done anywhere."

McCauley said, "The funds are available and we know we have topnotch chances of getting them funded."

Featured speaker at Monday night's meet was Ralph Ed Graves, director of the state Department for Local Government (DLG). Graves announced that $4,000,000 in federal Housing and Urban Development (HUD) funds will be made available for the state with $2.5 million of that total being allotted for the Big Sandy area for flood rehabilitation. Graves said his office also got $100,000 in HUD 701 funds for technical assistance and an additional $50,000 from Gov. Carroll for flood-related work.

Much of Graves' talk concerned the widespread problems faced by the area's water districts. He pointed out that the dilemma is not restricted to the counties included in Big Sandy ADD. "Water districts are actually failing all over the state," he said. He admitted, however, that problems faced by water districts in the Big Sandy area are particularly severe.

Graves said his office plans a 90-day water resource survey in the district. "We want to see exactly what you've got, what you need, and what you have to have to secure adequate water service."

Usable land was pointed to by Graves as "the greatest need there is in the Big Sandy." He cited a project which has been initiated by Big Sandy ADD for securing detailed LANDSAT satellite photographic maps of the area as of considerable significance. "The LANDSAT mapping program will help make better use of the land . . . and when flat land is not available, somebody better be looking at how best to use what you've got," Graves commented.

Earl Campbell, director of the Department for Local Government's Division of Local Affairs, presented a slide show outlining the services which the office offers ADD districts and communities all over the state. "Our purpose is to help communities in handling development and problems in the most efficient manner," Campbell told the group.

Big Sandy ADD staff member Roger Reckenwald reported on the ADD's involvement with the City of Allen in securing water service for the community. The extension of water service from the Prestonsburg system has occupied much of the effort. Reckenwald pointed out, and an ordinance will be drawn up which will allow citizens of "old" Allen to vote on the question of transferring the water system there with its assets and liabilities to Prestonsburg.

Board member Alan Perry, of Paintsville, introduced Big Sandy ADD's newly acquired enterprise development specialist, Charles Nicklas. Nicklas, 44, an Ohio native, will head the district's efforts at attracting diversified industry to the area.

Also present at the meeting was ARC representative Mike Potter. Potter spoke briefly of the agency's involvement in Eastern Kentucky as well as throughout the Appalachian region and concluded his talk by quoting long-time ARC official John Whisman who said, according to Potter, "If you can get it done on the Big Sandy, you can get it done anywhere."

Our Fragile Earth

By DR. JERRY HOWELL, Director of Environmental Studies, Morehead State University

There has been an upsurge in oceanic oil spills at sea during the past two years. 1976 is on record as the worst year in high seas oil transportation history. There were 13 oil tankers completely lost at sea, but it was the Argo Merchant that captured the nation's attention.

The Argo Merchant was really one of the smaller tanker casualties, but its beached location and its loss of nearly eight million gallons of oil catapulted it to tainted fame. It ran aground on December 15, 1976 and broke apart six days later. The dilapidated ship was grounded on Georges Bank, an excellent fishing ground for U.S. vessels, off Nantucket Island.

Although the initial fear of broadscale fish, mammal and shellfish degradation was never realized, some damage to the area's resources did occur. The difficulty lies in assessing the damage. The spill occurred during or just before the prime breeding season for several species of northern Atlantic fish, including cod, haddock, flounder and sea herring, which utilize Georges Bank as a primary breeding ground. The effect on breeding will not be known for another year or two, but it is known that some scallops were contaminated.

The area is also on the migratory route for humpback whales, but it is thought that these whales had already passed through the area at the time of the spill. Bird losses were not as heavy as predicted, although it is certain that more than 1,000 died when the oil removed the mucus lining of their feathers, rendering them incapable of flying and exposing them to the bitter cold.

The Argo Merchant disaster was only the first in a series of six tanker accidents during the last two weeks of 1976. Two of the other tankers spill a total of 135,000 gallons of oil near Connecticut and Pennsylvania, while one, the Grand Zenith, carrying 8.2 million gallons of oil, completely disappeared 300 miles southeast of Cape Cod. Five of the six tankers involved in the late year accidents were registered in Liberia, a nation known to issue registrations for ships and captains with little investigation of credentials. The Argo Merchant, for example, had long outlived her usefulness (the tanker was built for a maximum life of 20 years; it was 24 when it grounded for the final time; and had a long history of accidents, ownership changes and neglect.

Liberia does not have the most lax standards for ship and crew registrations; that title probably belongs to Cyprus or Panama (the Grand Zenith and its crew of 38 was Panamanian registered). There are a number of other countries considered to have standards more lax than those of Liberia.

A MESSAGE TO DEMOCRATS

There is a drive as never before by the Republican Party to put a Republican candidate in the Court House, whether it be County Judge, Sheriff, or Magistrate. All Democrats accept the premise that a man is but a man, but the current list of Republican candidates consists of men who have opposed the election of Jimmy Carter, Julian Carroll and even Carl Perkins, for U.S. Representative. In fact, their "slate" is headed by the Chairman of the Republican Party, who Official that has had any Republican opposition. These Republican candidates have, and will continue to fight for the defeat of every Democratic Candidate and Official you may nominate hereafter. HAPPY BIRTHDAY, SUE
 From all of us

Westward to Big Country, Kentucky

Traveling west? Not the wild, wild West, but that part of the Commonwealth that talks about big rivers, big lakes, big country, and at this time of transition from late summer to early autumn, small wildflowers.
 If you're gentling your vehicle along at the proper miles per hour, you will have time to note scenery in the Land Between the Lakes, the Purchase, the Pennyriple, Big River and Lake Barkley and Kentucky Lake.

There are Indian mounds and buried Indian villages; two migratory bird routes and at Henderson, paintings by a man who operated a grist mill and left the name Audubon to endure through the ages.
 There are towns, some big and some big in heart. Owensboro, Hopkinsville, Paducah, Madisonville, Fulton, Hickman, Mayfield and Wickliffe, each with a story to tell, beauty to see and heart enough to say to all comers: "Glad to see you. Stay on. Get to know us better. You might not want to leave."
 But out here in big country are small discoveries that tell everyone the season of summer is rusting around the edges and the brightness of fall is here. It's a feeling in the air, rather than a change in temperature, though nights have an added coolness.

It can be a hazy, shimmering sunbeam hovering over a field of calico asters. Such a sight makes everyone think of country days, a country stove in a country kitchen redolent with aromas of fried potatoes, country ham and mellow coffee, all served by a country mother in a calico dress covered with a clean calico apron.

On a sun-gilded day in late September, Short's asters will trim western fields with a ruffle of blue-violet. This wildflower was discovered by Dr. Charles W. Short of Transylvania University and named for him in 1834.

There are spreading asters, New England asters, various violet and white asters, all about to star the Big Country with bloom.

These flowers are not in a class to themselves so far as western wildflowers are concerned, for there are the sun-flowers, ironweed, sneezeweed, goldenrod and others. But for those who watch the seasons, they look for the return of the asters.

If you're traveling westward, look for the asters and other wildflowers. Search for them. Buy a book, so you will be more able to identify these small beauties that make big fields, big woods, big roadsides as pretty as an oriental carpet.

Learn from the asters. If you note an area turned from green to white, it might be a blanket of frost-weed aster. This flower is part of one of nature's patterns. After frost-weed asters live their era out, they are followed by shrubs and berry vines which in turn are followed by trees.

In the weeks ahead be aware of the wildflowers dotting the Big Country like different colored patches in a big country quilt.

ATTENTION

To The Voters In Dist. 2, Floyd County, and Tax-payers:

I don't guess that you know about this. There are 1,421 dissatisfied Democratic voters. There are that many who voted against Kenneth Roberts in the primary. And another thing, he doesn't need this office. He has a job at a salary from the coal company of around $1,000 a month. Also I saw in The Times where the people on Mill Creek and around Wayland wanted somebody to fix their roads. If they will vote for me, I'll fix their roads. If I was the Magistrates and County Judge that's in office I would be ashamed to ask anybody to vote for me or vote a straight ticket—They have got everything in such a shape.

Your vote and influence will be appreciated.

ANDY CONLEY
 for Magistrate, Dist. 2

Judge Dismisses $60 Million Suit In Scotia Disaster

(Delayed from Last Week)

U.S. District Court Judge H. David Hermansdorfer dismissed Monday a $60 million damage suit filed by the widows of 15 miners killed in the 1976 Scotia mine disaster against the Blue Diamond Coal Co.

Hermansdorfer said he had studied the case and could find no precedent for the suit, adding that he would give a more detailed explanation later in a written opinion. The opinion is expected to be issued during the next two or three weeks.

The decision sustained Blue Diamond's argument that it was immune from liability and prosecution for the deaths of the 15 miners killed in a methane gas explosion March 9, 1976.

The widows, who brought the $60 million suit against the Knoxville-based corporation, appeared shocked and stunned as Hermansdorfer announced his decision.

The decision was handed down without the presence of the six-member jury. It would leave, if not reversed, only Workman's Compensation as the plaintiffs only recourse.

The trial revolved around a technical question of law dealing with the interpretation of the contractor-sub contractor relationship between the Scotia Coal Co. mines at Oven Fork in Letcher county and the Blue Diamond Coal Co. Hermansdorfer returned the verdict after spending several hours reviewing the final arguments made by the two principal attorneys in the case, Gerald M. Stern, of Washington, representing the widows, and former Kentucky Gov. Bert T. Combs, representing Blue Diamond.

Combs had argued earlier that if Blue Diamond was a sub-contractor for Scotia, as the plaintiffs contended, "then the company does nothing but perform services for Scotia. Blue Diamond doesn't mine Scotia's coal and the case might as well be dismissed."

Stern, in his summation, said that when Scotia was formed, it lacked expertise in finances and management "so Scotia entered into an agreement with Blue Diamond to provide those services."

SINGING CONVENTION

AT KATY FRIEND CHURCH

Have your blood pressure checked.

METHODIST WOMEN MEET

The United Methodist Women of Vogel-Day United Methodist Church met at the home of Mrs. Annetta Williams, of Harold, for their September meeting.

The president, Ruby Staton, presided. The meeting was opened with prayer by Mrs. Margaret Branham; devotions by Nancy Tackett.

Mrs. Arcolas Allen gave the program using the topic, "Prayer." She also read an interesting article on "Born Again."

The group made a circle and prayed for special requests.

Get-well cards were sent to the sick and shut-ins.

A motion was made and approved to have a fellowship supper at the church in October.

Refreshments were served to Arcolas Allen, Margaret Branham, Ruby Staton, Addie Bea Hall, Elizabeth Spears, Nancy Tackett, Hattie Mae Hall, Cora Branham, Annetta Williams, and Lisa Blackburn, a guest.

Volunteer parents have been quite busy this year at Clark Elementary School, assisting both students and teachers. The above group, Sally Chaney, Rhoda Stanley, Betty Layne, Hilda McKinney and Shirley Thompson are assisting teachers with pupil enrollment forms which will be processed by computer and returned for attendance purposes.

These and other parents are also involved with work for individual students, preparing materials for teachers to use as instructional devices, and assisting with maintaining "paperwork" the school needs to operate more efficiently.

Mrs. Lucy Regan, accompanied by Mrs. Malinda Conley, of Auxier, spent a day last week in Magoffin county, where they visited Mrs. Regan's relatives and also visited the cemetery where her husband, the Rev. M. Robert Regan, is buried.

The Katy Friend Women's Auxiliary will hold a singing convention on Friday, September 23, at 7 p.m. at the Katy Friend Free Will Baptist Church. Local singing groups will be featured, and everyone is invited to attend.

Beaver Valley C.B. News

The Beaver Valley C. B. Club held its regular meeting Sept. 4. The following officers were elected:

President, Little Bit (Curt Myers); secretary, Lady Fishhook (Arlene Harper); vice-president, Disco Duck (Sammy Hall); treasurer, Lady Little Bit (Goldia Myers). The retiring president is Bassman (Herschel McCarty).

The club had a special drive last week for Tivis Johnson, Jr. a little boy who is a hemophiliac. When injured his shots are $104 each. His family has no medical card or insurance. So our deepest thanks go to Lady Green Horn (Vonda Bates) and Sammy Hall (Disco Duck), who between them collected $205.51. The club also donated $50.00 to total $255.51 for medicine to be kept at home for Tivis so his mother can give the shots when needed.

The club's next goal is to raise money for a church basketball team of young boys in the club area. The drive is headed by Jay Bird (Ray Dempsey), and $33 in donations were received Sunday at the club meeting. The club will also donate.

MARTIN HOMEMAKERS MEET

The Martin Evening Homemakers met September 12 at Martin grade school lunch room with Dorothy Wildman presiding.

Layne House—A Place of Hope for Alcoholics

By A. K. WEBB

A place of hope for alcoholics in Floyd county is the Layne House.

Is it an undercover bootlegging place, you ask? Not even close.

Located behind the Mountain Comprehensive Care Center, on Front Avenue here, Layne House is always open. Some five dedicated workers go around the clock in providing a comfortable homey atmosphere for the visiting problem drinker.

And for the drunk in this community—the hospital and jail are his only other alternatives, both of which are threatening surroundings.

The two-story white frame, warm looking building supporting the sign, "Layne House," is a non-medical detoxification center. In essence it's where the alcoholic can come to sober up after a drinking binge.

The Layne House also welcomes other drug-addicted patients, who, like the alcoholic, can stay at the house up to five days to dry out. The facility is used as an evaluation and referral unit for the substance abuser.

The Layne House way of thinking is to treat the chemically dependent person with concern and empathy for his illness. An alcoholic is a diseased person, not a criminal.

After a five-day visit at Layne House, the counselors can refer the patient, if he wishes additional guidance, to a long-term treatment facility. One such place is ARC (Alcoholism Recovery Community) in Lexington which is a 30-day residential program to assist the alcoholic to living without drinking.

The counselors suggest attendance of Alcoholics Anonymous (A.A.) meetings, held weekly on Saturday night at the Floyd Regional Library in Prestonsburg.

Steve Knowles, alcohol and drug team director at Mountain Comprehensive Care and the first Layne House manager

VISITS RELATIVES HERE

Col. James B. Howard, who is stationed with the U.S. Army in Oklahoma, stopped here recently, en route to his Army base from a government-sponsored business trip to Florida. While here he was the guest of his aunt, Mrs. Nell Howard, his cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Collins, Mr. and Mrs. Wes Howard and Miss Mary Elizabeth Powers. Mrs. Nell Howard entertained her family group, honoring Col. Howard on Labor Day, and on Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Bill Harvey Howard entertained to dinner at their home, in his honor. He was joined here by his aunt, Mrs. Meta Sizemore, of Ashland, who had been the houseguest here of Mrs. Carrie Hubbard, and visited briefly with her at her Ashland home before returning to his base in Oklahoma.

HERE FOR WEEK-END

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Scaif visited Mr. and Mrs. J. Lee Hall here during the week-end.

STRICKEN ILL

Mrs. Lucy Ransdell became ill while at Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church, Sunday morning, and was taken to the Highlands Regional Hospital, where she is resting comfortably. Persons wishing to write Mrs. Ransdell, may address her at Room 200, at the hospital here.

ATTEND LODGE FUNCTION

Mrs. Rebecca Rasnick and Mrs. Belle Conn spent Tuesday evening in Hindman where Mrs. Rasnick served as chaplain and Mrs. Conn as warden for the installation of officers, at the Rose of Sharon Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star. They were accompanied to Hindman by Mrs. Hollie Blanton, of Allen, and Rudolph Spencer, of Garrett.

when the program began three years ago, says that the Layne House program has been most successful.

"The environment here is one of caring. Putting pressure on the alcoholic to change will be of little benefit. We encourage our clients to make their own decisions and to start developing responsibility for the changes in their alcoholic life," said Knowles.

Since its founding in 1974, Layne House has handled a total of 1,568 admissions.

Floyd County Judge Henry Stumbo agrees that the Layne House program is a good one. "It has definitely been some help, they do a good job working with the alcoholics. I'm in full support of the program," said Judge Stumbo.

There are 15 sobering up facilities throughout the state similar to Layne House which serves this five-county region (Floyd, Johnson, Martin, Magoffin, Pike). These crisis intervention centers, known as SID (Situation, Identification, Disposition) units, have established a more productive way of dealing with the alcoholic. Layne House was the fourth operational unit started in the state.

Layne House was named in honor of Frank Layne, Floyd county native still going full speed at age 70, who has worked in the area of alcoholism for 29 years. Alcoholism Coordinator Knowles is quick to note the Layne House name also includes Layne's wife, Mary Lou, who, Knowles says, deserves credit for "putting up with Frank for 53 years."

There is a special place for the alcoholic at Layne House. Floyd countians with drinking problems need to take advantage of it. For further information write Alcohol, Front Avenue, Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653 or call 1-800-422-1060.

KPA Opposes Proposed Legislation

The Kentucky Press Association, in open opposition to legislation headed toward the Kentucky General Assembly for adoption under sponsorship of the Kentucky Municipal League, gives this explanation of the proposed statute:

City officials in Kentucky would be given broad, sweeping powers of taxation and for use of tax monies.

That same statute, however, would make it more difficult for the taxpayer to find out what the city officials are doing with his money.

The proposal has been drafted by the Municipal Statutes Revision Commission, made up largely of city officials from across the state, established by a bill approved by the General Assembly in 1976.

Legislation called for the group to review statutes pertaining to city government and, hopefully, come up with a uniform code of statutes that would apply to all cities.

Although the proposal drafted by the commission recently doesn't meet the goal of providing completely uniform statutes for all classes of cities, it does go a long way toward eliminating the hodgepodge of laws which have been written and added to the law books in a piecemeal fashion over the years.

While giving some uniformity to laws that apply to the six classes of cities, the commission has gone much farther—too far, some say—in giving local officials control over city government than does any current statutes.

One Frankfort attorney who has been close to the commission's study since it was formed back in August, 1976, says he believes the commission's attempt to give local authorities such broad powers could create problems in trying to sell the proposal to the General Assembly and, ultimately, to the public.

"Coming on the heels of the Judicial Article, which brought about changes in our court system that the public neither understands nor wanted, I think the commission is going to have a difficult time selling the public on a proposal giving city officials authority to do many things that they can't do now without approval of the legislature," the attorney said.

"As a matter of fact," he continued, "I'm not sure that even the legislators are ready to give up their say about what the cities can do in some of these areas."

He cites as an example one section of the commission's draft which would permit city officials to exercise the same powers beyond city boundaries that they exercise in the city, except for taxation and penal regulation.

This section specifically gives cities the right of eminent domain outside, as well as inside, the city limits.

Another section would give cities the same immunity as the state against suits for injury or damages, including suits for such actions as excessive force by police officers. All claims against cities would be vested in the state board of claims, as are claims against the state.

Cities could "maximize" tax revenues, according to the commission, by taking advantage of a section of the proposed legislation that permits municipalities to impose and administer any tax authorized by the Kentucky constitution unless such tax is prohibited by statute.

And, while cities would be required to have public funds audited each year, the commission would no longer have these audit reports sent to the state Auditor of Public Accounts for review. Instead, copies of the audit reports would go to the Department of Local Government, which has no mechanism for doing anything with the reports other than filing them away.

If city taxpayers wanted to take a close look at the city's finances to see just how their money was being spent, the new proposed legislation would require them to visit city hall.

The commission recommends that cities no longer be required to publish financial statements showing who gets their money and how much. Neither would they publish more than a summary of new ordinances adopted by city legislative bodies, and then only after the ordinance had been adopted.

And city officials could spend up to $5,000 without having to advertise for bids. That's double the amount the legislature decided last year was a reasonable limit on non-advertised contracts.

In the area of conflict of interest, the commission says it sees nothing wrong with conflicts so long as other city officials know about them.

"This section does not prohibit conflicts. It merely requires that conflicts be disclosed," says the commentary of the commission following one section of the drafted legislation.

The commission's recommendations are the subject of public hearings to be held throughout Kentucky during the remainder of September. Persons who wish to comment on the proposals but do not attend the hearings, may comment in writing to the commission prior to September 21.

The commission is expected to meet late this month or early next month to put the finishing touches on their proposal, then send the recommendations to the General Assembly for consideration when that body meets in January.

The purpose of this hearing will be to determine whether or not the fuel adjustment clause (which allows the electric utility to pass increased costs of fuel to the customer without a separate rate hearing before the PSC) should be modified or replaced by other regulatory procedures.

Any member of the public may express his or her views on this issue either orally at the hearing or in written form. Written comments may also be mailed to the PSC at the following address:

Orville Blevins, president of the Institute, and Willard Stanley, secretary, presented the donation to Dr. Maurice Bailey, chairman of the Division of Science, and C. H. Brown, vocational adviser to the mining technology students at Pikeville College.

The four students honored by the Institute are Randal D. Bartley, 1972 graduate of Elkhorn City High; George M. Fields, 1976 graduate of Belfry High; DeVonna L. McQueen, 1976 graduate of Everts High in Harlan county; and Calvin Reed, 1970 graduate of Jenkins High on Letcher county.

A Matter of Names

More than one person having the same name results in these corrections pertaining to the suits filed in last week's Times:

The Brenda Hunter named in a suit filed by Marie Taylor is not the Brenda Gayle Hunter who is employed by the Floyd County Health Department, nor is she the Brenda Hunter who is employed by Radio Station WPRT.

And the Gordon Lafferty listed as a defendant in a suit is not the man of the same name who resides at Hueysville.

$1.3 Billion Savings Seen If Roads Resurfaced Soon

Kentucky could save more than $1.3 billion by resurfacing 11,000 miles of roads before they become too badly worn to restore, says a study released last Thursday.

With increasing traffic, these deteriorating roads are expected to wear out by 1985 and then will have to be rebuilt at more than four times the cost of resurfacing, according to The Road Information Program (TRIP), Washington, D. C.

The research and information agency found that:

—Twenty-six per cent of Kentucky's paved road system needs resurfacing now to prevent further expensive damage.

—Nearly forty per cent of these aging roads are in the state's coal haul regions where trucks carry some 83 million tons of coal a year from mines to rail transfer points.

—It would cost $1.69 billion to rebuild 10,733 miles of deteriorating roads after they wear out, but only $357 million to resurface them instead—a $1.3 billion savings.

—Timely resurfacing would save the equivalent of $670 for each of the state's 1,957,000 drivers.

Traffic in Kentucky is expected to increase 17 per cent by 1985, from 24.7 to 29 billion vehicle miles per year, according to state traffic predictions. At the same time, coal mining will increase to help meet the nation's energy needs, resulting in increased truck tonnage over the deteriorating coal roads.

Kentucky already has 1,065 miles of roads that are too badly worn to be resurfaced and must be rebuilt at a cost of $167.7 million. Four years ago, it would have cost $24.1 million to resurface them, the study estimated.

"It's a waste of tax money not to resurface roads and streets in time to avoid the need for more costly reconstruction," said TRIP state chairman Buckner Hinkle, who released the report. Hinkle is president of Hinkle Contracting Corporation in Paris, Ky.

Hinkle said the state, counties and cities are postponing urgently-needed road resurfacing to stay within inflation-pinched budgets, but that "the day of reckoning from stretching out road renewal cycles is only a few years away."

TRIP estimated it would cost $543.4 million, or $67.9 million a year to catch up on road resurfacing and reconstruction needs by 1985. By comparison, the state has budgeted $36.1 million for road improvements in fiscal 1978.

In addition, only part of the $33 million the counties and municipalities have budgeted for all road work, including new construction and bridge replacement, will be used to upgrade existing roads.

The pavement condition in Kentucky would be even worse were it not for the continuing efforts of the state Department of Transportation and the county and local road agencies to achieve maximum possible improvement under these extremely limited budgets.

In June 1975, TRIP issued a study showing that Kentucky would have great difficulty doubling its coal production to meet national energy needs unless an estimated 4,228 miles of coal-haul roads were upgraded.

Since then, a $25 million, two-year "Energy Roads Program" was authorized by the state for the renovation of coal roads in fiscal 1977 and 1978. Also, a $93 million project to rebuild one major coal road, called "Kentucky 80," was approved by the state legislature and work is scheduled to begin this summer.

These two programs represent, however, only 10.4 per cent of TRIP's total estimated cost of improving these essential roads.

TRIP's study is based on data from the U.S. Department of Commerce, Labor and Transportation, and the Kentucky Department of Transportation.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of Virgil C. Peters
Born: Aug. 9, 1927 Died: Sept. 17, 1975
Two years since you left us to go home to Glory. Never a day goes by that we don't miss you.

When the roses have dew on them with their faces lifted toward God, or when golden leaves fall, we're reminded of time you brought us flowers, honeysuckle and Indian corn. We're so thankful for these memories.

Now golden rods are yellow and we face another year without you. We will lift our eyes into the Hills from whence our help cometh from the Lord.

Thank you Father for this love.
So sadly missed by parents,
Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Peters and all family members. It-pd.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Shivel entertained to lunch at May Lodge, Tuesday, having as their guests Dr. and Mrs. J. H. McClure, of Ashland, George Shivel, of Newport, Mrs. W. A. Parsons, of Mt. Sterling, Mrs. Jack Hardin, of Gallup, and Mrs. Mary Jo LaPointe. Following the dinner, Mr. and Mrs. Shivel were accompanied by their guests to their home where a social hour was enjoyed and a dessert was served.

HERE FROM PENNSYLVANIA

Mrs. William Wareham, of Washington, Pa., was here last week for a visit with her cousin, Mrs. Leonard Grant, and Mr. Grant. Mrs. Wareham is the former Patricia Pelphrey, daughter of Russell Pelphrey and the late Mrs. Susan Pelphrey, who formerly resided here.

ALTHOUGH RIDES AND GAMES were usual favorites among carnival visitors over the week-end, perhaps the most popular stopping place was the cotton candy booth.

World, Take My Son by the Hand

(The name of the writer of the following has been lost over the years, but the thoughts expressed remain apropos at this time of year as boys (and girls) enter school for the first time.)

My son starts to school tomorrow. It's going to be strange and new to him for a while, and I wish you would sort of treat him gently.

You see, up to now, he's been king of the roost. He's been boss of the back yard. I have always been around to repair his wounds, and to soothe his feelings.

But now, things are going to be different. Tomorrow morning he's going to walk down the front steps, wave his hand, and start on his great adventure that will probably include wars and tragedy and sorrow. To live his life in the world he has to live in will require faith and love and courage.

So, World, I wish you would sort of take him by his young hand and teach him the things he will have to know. Teach him . . . but gently, if you can.

He will have to learn, I know, that all men are not just, that all men are not true. Teach him that for every scoundrel there is a hero—that for every crooked politician, there is a dedicated leader—that for every enemy there is a friend. Let him learn early that bullies are the easiest people to lick. Teach him the wonders of books. Give him quiet time to ponder the eternal mystery of birds in the sky, bees in the sun, and flowers on a green hill. Teach him that it is far more honorable to fail than to cheat. Teach him to have faith in his own ideas, even if everyone tells him they are wrong.

Try to give my son the strength not to follow the crowd when everyone else is getting on the bandwagon. Teach him to listen to all men, but to filter all he hears on a screen of truth and to take only the good that comes through. Teach him to sell his brawn and brains to the highest bidder, but never put a price on his heart and soul. Teach him to close his ears on a howling mob—and to stand and fight if he thinks he is right. Teach him gently, World, but don't coddle him because only the test of fire makes fine steel.

This is a big order, but see what you can do. He's such a nice little boy.

Joint Committee Favors Collective Bargaining for Public Employees

The Interim Joint Committee on Labor and Industry last week took action supporting collective bargaining for public employees and a state-operated workmen's compensation system.

Committee members said their action "would provide public employees the right to bargain." But they pointed out the measure they approved for pre-filing contained a "no-strike" clause.

The proposal also recommends that the mechanics of collective bargaining be set up under the Kentucky Department of Labor.

The committee action will be given further consideration by the 1978 General Assembly.

A state-operated workmen's compensation system was proposed by the Subcommittee on Workmen's Compensation at its meeting yesterday and was presented to the full committee today.

Subcommittee Chairman R.E.P. Ron Cyrus (D-Greenup) asked that research be initiated to draft legislation establishing a state-operated workmen's compensation system similar to the one now operating in West Virginia.

Sen. John Lackey, D-Richmond, chairman of the Interim Joint Committee on Labor and Industry, said there may be a problem of time in preparing this proposal for 1978 legislative consideration.

Lackey said, however, the proposal would be given further consideration at a meeting of his committee in late October.

In other action, the committee adopted for pre-filing:

—A measure to prohibit the recruitment or employment of strikebreakers.

—A measure to permit wage deductions for union dues for public employes.

—A measure to include coverage of chiropractic services in Kentucky's workmen's compensation laws.

Gasification Plant Groundbreaking Set Today In Pike Co.

(From the Pike County News)

Groundbreaking for Pike County's new coal gasification plant will be held today (Wednesday) at 3:30 p.m., according to County Judge Wayne T. Rutherford.

Gov. Julian Carroll will be on hand for the start of the $142 million project. Sens. Walter (Dee) Huddleston and Wendell H. Ford, as well as U.S. Rep. Carl D. Perkins, are attempting to arrange their schedules so they may attend.

Judge Rutherford hailed the new project Monday as "the most important event to be held in Pike county."

He said the people "just don't realize the importance of this project."

The gasification plant, which should be in operation in about 18 months, will open Pike county to a vast amount of industrial and commercial development.

The site of the plant, in the Douglas Industrial Park on Robinson Creek, will open 72 acres of level ground for development.

Actually, construction has already begun on the gasification plant. The 30-foot excavation needed for the plant, which will change coal into low BTU gas, has been dug, Judge Rutherford said.

Besides the gasification plant, there will be public and private housing developed, a shopping complex, a fire station (which will open Sept. 21), a nursing home and a church.

Judge Rutherford said the county should be ready by Oct. 15 to let bids for the 232 units of public housing to be constructed at Douglas.

THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY, DOES HEREBY ORDAIN AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1. The City Council hereby acknowledges its receipt and consideration of a certain instrument which is designated "Proposed Contract of Sale and Purchase Between the City of Allen, Kentucky (the Seller) and the City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky (the Purchaser)," relating to the water service problems of the nearby City of Allen, Floyd County, Kentucky; shown to have been considered and approved by the Utilities Commission of the City of Prestonsburg; and contemplated to be submitted to the Board of Trustees of the City of Allen, Kentucky; all subject to the outcome of a special election, contemplated to be held within the corporate limits of the City of Allen on November 8, 1977, in accordance with the requirements of Section 96.540 of the Kentucky Revised Statutes; and shown by the terms thereof to be intended to be ineffective for any purpose unless (a) such "Proposed Contract" is approved by the Board of Trustees of the City of Allen, and (b) the same shall be approved and authorized upon the occasion of such special election in the City of Allen, by a majority of the voters who may choose to vote thereon.

Section 2. A copy of the text of the aforesaid "Proposed Contract of Sale and Purchase" shall be preserved in the office of the City Clerk of the City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, where the same shall be subject to examination by any qualified voter of the City of Allen, Kentucky, or by any other party having a legitimate interest therein, during the normal working hours of the City Clerk, at any time prior to the occasion of the proposed election which is above referred to.

Section 3. The City Clerk is hereby authorized to tender a copy of this Ordinance, and of the pertinent portions of the minutes of this meeting of the City Council, to the Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the City of Allen, Kentucky, in order that it may be understood that if such instrument is approved by the Board of Trustees of the City of Allen, then the same may be the subject of a special election to be held in said City on November 8, 1977, in accordance with KRS 96.540; and with the understanding that if the proposal to execute such contract is approved by the voters of Allen on that occasion, then the City of Prestonsburg is prepared to execute the same and cause it to be performed in accordance with its terms, through the agency of its Utilities Commission, as recited in the instrument itself.

Section 4. If the Board of Trustees of the City of Allen, Kentucky, shall see fit to approve the form and substance of the above-identified "Proposed Contract of Sale and Purchase," and shall see fit to call a special election in Allen, Kentucky, offering the qualified voters of said City an opportunity to approve or to disapprove the same, and if upon the occasion of such election a majority of the qualified voters of Allen who may see fit to vote upon such question shall vote in favor thereof;—then upon certification of such facts the City Council hereby authorizes the Mayor of the City of Prestonsburg to execute the aforesaid "Proposed Contract of Sale and Purchase"; provided, however, that such Proposed Contract (as in the text thereof provided) shall bind the City of Prestonsburg only through Prestonsburg's Utilities Commission, and subject to payment of obligations therein stated, only from the available resources of the City's Utilities Commission and not, under any circumstances, to be considered as the assumption by the City of Prestonsburg of any such obligations except through application of available resources of the City's Utilities Commission, and not otherwise.

Section 5. This Ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and after its adoption by the City Council, its approval by the Mayor, and publication as provided by law. Space for New District Courts Is Problem in Some Counties

While the new district courts are scheduled to begin operation next January, the court system is still plagued with the problem of finding space in which to house the district courts.

"In over 100 counties there has been no problem with space," Bill Davis, director of the Administrative Office of the Courts (AOC), told members of the interim joint committee on judiciary-courts. In the remaining 20 counties, however, he said there is a "serious problem." And, he said, financial arrangements in a "good many facilities" won't be settled until January.

Under existing law, counties must provide "reasonably available" space in which to house district courts. If such space is not available, the courts can be housed in city facilities. If space can't be found in either city or state facilities, the state may lease space at the fair market value from the private sector.

Davis said it would be "impossible" to have enough money to lease all the needed space at fair market value. In addition Leland King, of the AOC said, while counties are by law to receive the net revenues they received from their courts prior to implementation of the judicial article, current audits of county court revenues show that many counties have not been making revenue from their court systems, but losing money.

The courts committee passed a resolution which asked the AOC to prepare legislation aimed at remedying the situation.

On another court matter, the committee prefled a bill which would allow circuit courts to keep certain fees which are deposited with the clerk but payable to a third party rather than sending the fees to the state finance department. Under legislation passed in the special session the fees would have been sent to the state finance department, logged and returned to the local clerk.

These fees include such things as alimony, support payments, garnishments, restitutions and bail bonds. The proposed bill would eliminate paperwork and would eliminate the need to hire more people to process the money in Frankfort, Davis said.

Supreme Court Chief Justice Scott Reed told committee members that staff support for the district courts and facilities for the staff, along with the problem of compensation for district judges are among the greatest concerns of the new court system.

He said that "We're in the course" of preparing the budget, although the cost of implementing the system of district courts won't be known until judges are elected this fall.

Care Center Program Offers 24-Hour Service

Help is only a phone call away. The help-line (1-800-422-1060) is an emergency service available to Floyd countians in 24-hour service capabilities.

Mountain Comprehensive Care Center set up the program in 1973 to aid local residents in alcohol, drug, mental health and other emergency problems.

The toll-free help-line number is valuable in contacting immediate services for persons needing attention. A telephone counselor is on duty to handle incoming calls, and if they cannot be dealt with by phone a counselor in the county is notified to handle the problem.

An additional service provided by the help center is the walk-in program through which persons can come to the Mountain Comprehensive Care Center in Prestonsburg and receive crisis counseling after work hours. Last year, there were 2,782 contacts reached through the help-line.

For additional information write Alcohol, Front Avenue, Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653 or call 1-800-422-1060.

DON'T MISS IT!

DON'T MISS IT!

Marguerite Estep Carson, of Laurel County, practices one of her hobbies, dulcimer playing, while husband Bill watches. They formed Mountain Heritage, Inc. from which Mrs. Carson plans to establish an Appalachian Folk School.

Gravestone Study, Part Of Appalachian Study

More than a year ago, Marguerite Estep Carson, of London, in Laurel county, began a study of ancient gravestones in Appalachia. Using rice paper, masking tape and graphite, she developed her own technique of taking "rubblings" from the handmade sandstone markers, an art long practiced in Europe. Her study led to many new and exciting discoveries about her own "mountain" people and evolved into a new approach to learning what life was really like for the early settlers of Appalachia.

Before Marguerite started this project, she had studied the Appalachian people, their furniture, architecture, artifacts and log buildings for more than 20 years. To her disappointment, there has been little written about the Appalachian people, and few scholars have delved into the study of their cultural development.

With a good working knowledge of the people, their customs and artifacts, she was able to interpret the gravestone rubbings and trace the patterns of migration across the mountains. The information found on the gravestones also helped her outline the various stages of cultural development in Appalachia.

Mrs. Carson, who had always loved and read Appalachian poetry, realized that poetry was still another link. She began rereading the poetry, especially those poems which dealt with death. "Death, in our culture, is actually one of the most important parts of life," she explains. "The artistry in the rubbings seemed to complement the symbolism in the poetry. It also speaks more clearly than our history books of a creative and sensitive people."

Another area of her research includes working with the Kentucky Oral History Commission. She has spent many hours talking with the older Appalachians, listening to their mountain music and hymns and making oral history recordings. Marguerite has also spent many hours researching family histories in the genealogical library of the Kentucky Historical Society in Frankfort.

With an intense desire to preserve and protect her rediscovered culture, Marguerite has compiled her research and written a book, titled "What Say'd These Stones?"

That title also identifies a unique program which Marguerite developed to share her culture with others. After purchasing her own computer, she was able to put together a presentation of old tints of the people with recordings of their voices, music and poetry.

Marguerite's interest in the gravestones has now expanded into another area of research, the genealogy and the art of the people. Her native dialect and a knowledge of archaeology provided her with the title of the book she is writing about the early material culture.

Value of Ingot Find Beleived 'Fabulous,' If It's Genuine

This photo from the Guidebook to U.S. Coins appears to agree in every detail with the $20 ingot found in this county.

If what purports to be a $20 gold ingot found last Friday by a bulldozer operator at or inside an old house in this county is truly gold, its value is "fabulous," a former dealer in old coins here said Monday.

The ingot, purchased by Donald D. "Dootney" Horn, of Prestonsburg, from the finder, is a perfect replica of the ingot listed and pictured (see photo) in the Guide Book of United States Coins published in 1965. In later editions the publication does not list the ingot—possibly, it is believed, because it is so rare that none have over the years turned up and further listing was held unnecessary.

The obverse side of the ingot bears the inscription:

Parsons & C.
Assayers
Col.
1860
Twenty Dols

Mrs. Abigail Allen Grant, who has handled old coins in recent years, commented on the ingot submitted to her by Horn for inspection and a "qualified guess" as to its worth. She said she is certain there was no intention on the part of Mr. Horn or the original finder to perpetrate a hoax but that it will be necessary to determine if the ingot is, indeed, pure gold before anybody can place a value on it. She added, however, that if the ingot is gold, its worth "is a fabulous figure."

Horn said the ingot was cleaned with gold cleaner and that the result convinces him that it is genuine and pure gold.

Mrs. Grant suggested that the Numismatics Society in Louisville would be able to authenticate the find and give an accurate estimate of its worth. The owner said, however, it is in a bank safety deposit box and will remain there.

With its listing of the ingot in its 1965 edition the Guide Book of U.S. Coins wrote:

"Very little is known regarding the mint of John Parsons and Co., although it is reasonably certain that it operated in the south part of Colorado, near Tarryall, in the summer of 1861."

How did the ingot reach then-isolated Eastern Kentucky from Colorado and under what circumstances was it acquired by an early settler of this section of the state? Nobody knows, although it is surmised that a Civil War soldier, returning home from service, could have brought it with him.

Horn bought the ingot for $125—"just on a gamble."

"I bought it to have it made into jewelry for my wife," he said.

His plan for that apparently has changed, however, since it appears he got more than he bargained for.

Unemployment Rate Up .4% in August

Kentucky's unemployment rate edged upward .4 per cent in August, to 4.6 per cent of the labor force compared to July's rate of 4.2 per cent, according to statistics released Friday by the Department for Human Resources.

Robert MacDonald, chief labor market analyst for the department, says that there were an estimated 68,500 persons out of work in August. This was 5,800 more than in July, but 8,300 fewer than were unemployed in August of 1976.

MacDonald says that most of the August increase was due to layoffs within Kentucky's manufacturing industries. However, three areas of the economy registered gains in employment: Agriculture, up 3,000 over July; trade, up 2,400 and construction, up 1,600.

The national unadjusted rate of unemployment was 6.8 per cent in August.

U.S. 23 North, Next to the Napa Store

By LARRY BURKE

Many years ago in Maine there lived an invalid minister who conducted a weekly radio program. He had many listeners. Every week letters of praise and thanks were mailed to this man. His ministry was a great success and his followers were many.

Very few of his hearers knew of this minister's personal predicament. He was blind, and had been bedridden for fourteen years. Yet, every week his messages stirred his audience.

This invalid minister was able to practice the fine art of "appreciation." He appreciated people, had a concern for others and didn't let his own infirmities stand in the way.

Those with lack of gratitude are ill and a thankful person is the healthful person. Appreciation and thankfulness made this bedridden man more healthy than many of his "well" listeners.

Hospital Honors Employees on Anniversary

Mayor E. P. Grigsby, of Martin, offered his congratulations to Sr. Loretta Anne, co-administrator, at the tea commemorating the 30th anniversary of Our Lady of the Way Hospital.

Mrs. Waneta Newsome, pictured with Sr. Angelo, received an award for 30 years' service as a nurse at Our Lady of the Way Hospital. Sr. Angelo was one of the first Sisters who came to Martin in 1947.

Thirty-four employees of Our Lady of the Way Hospital were honored at a hospital 30th anniversary tea, September 15. Employees who served at the hospital from 5 to 30 years were honored with service awards. This group of employees alone represents 347 years of service to the hospital.

Mrs. Waneta Newsome, RN, received an award for 30 years of service. Mrs. Newsome was employed at the Gearheart General Hospital when the Sisters of Divine Providence of Kentucky assumed management in 1947, and has remained on the staff ever since. She has served in the hospital as staff nurse, as director of nurses, and, most recently, as health care coordinator, a position she has held for two years. Her efficiency in this capacity is attested to by the fact that from both the Utilization Review and the KPRO review she has received commendations, and this has been suggested as a model program for other hospitals of this size. Mrs. Newsome is married to Estill Newsome, of Martin, Kentucky, and they have two children, Michael Newsome, of Lexington, and Mary Helen DiPaolo, of San Antonio, Texas.

Receiving an award for 29 years of service was Pauline Wallace, of Allen. Mrs. Wallace has worked in practically every area of nursing service. She is married to Freddy Wallace.

Helen Bradley, food service supervisor, received an award for 27 years' service. Mrs. Bradley has worked in practically every area of the hospital, but has been most continuously in the dietary department and has been supervisor of the department since 1973. She is married to Harlan Bradley and lives in Martin.

Annette Vannucci received an award for 21 years' service. Mrs. Vannucci has worked in the medical records and business office departments and has been financial manager since 1975. She is married to the Rev. Lorie Vannucci and lives in Martin.

Receiving awards for 13 years of service were: Pearl Halbert, Printer, Ward Clerk, and Alice Hall, LPN, Hueysville. Nannie Tackett, LPN, Printer, received an award for 12 years' service. Receiving an award for 11 years' service was Polly Crum, dietary aide, Martin. Wanda Allen, Wayland, received an award for 10 years of service in the housekeeping department.

Receiving awards for eight years of service at the hospital were Geraldine Thorpe, dietary, Wayland; Patty May, pharmacy technician, Allen; Joyce Childers, nurse aide, Mousie; Ann Ousley, central service aide, Martin; Betty Ramey, nurse aide, Larkslane; Evelyn Cornett, nurse aide, Garner; Alka Samons, nurse aide, Martin; Edith Noble, nurse aide, Minnie; Bessie Dingus, LPN, Martin; Kenneth Rudder, orderly, Martin; Dolly Mayo, linen room, Martin; Lydia Branham, central service aide, Martin; Margaret Hoover, administrative secretary, Hippo. Receiving awards for seven years' service were Cecilia Peters, ward clerk, Martin; Maggie Branham, LPN, Allen; Freda Barnett, admitting officer, Martin; Loretta Perry, dietary aide, Hi Hat; Bonnie Crisp, nurse aide, Banner; Jean Hutchinson, nurse aide, Printer; Janice Little, purchasing agent, McDowell; Ruth Shelton, business office. Joan McCallister, nurse aide, Martin, received an award for six years' service. Martha Chafin, housekeeping, Martin; Patty Hopkins, business office, Minnie; and Linda Bartrum, business office, Martin, received awards for five years' service.

The awards were presented by the administration and board of directors of the hospital at a special anniversary tea held on September 15, the actual date of the hospital's 30th anniversary.

Recent Action Broadens Ass'n Representation

The State Board of Elementary and Secondary Education last week took action which would broaden representation on the Kentucky High School Athletic Association (KHSAA).

The board's action would permit each local board of education or governing body of private or parochial schools to appoint one representative for each member school within the district to represent the school in the association. Only certified personnel employed by the district would be eligible for appointment.

Previously, secondary school principals automatically served as member schools' representatives.

The board's consideration of the issue began in March when representatives of the 400-member Kentucky Girls Sports Association (KGSA) asked the State Board of Education to broaden eligibility requirements for the association so that women would be represented on KHSAA's governing Board of Control. Norris Wake, attorney for the KGSA, has contended that membership regulations precluded women serving on the board due to the limited number of women secondary principals. Board members are elected by member school representatives.

KHSAA is the state's administrative agency for high school sports, and as such has the responsibility for enforcing rules of high school sports throughout Kentucky.

Work of Billboard Clearing Faced by Strong Criticism

Kentucky has begun enforcing the "Lady Bird" law to clear billboards from the proximity of federal or federal-aid highways, and the going is rough.

State compliance with the federal law which was sponsored by onetime First Lady, Lady Bird Johnson, is being initiated in order to avoid the loss to the state of $10 million or more in U.S. funds.

"We've run into opposition in spots," C. K. Dingus, of Martin, who has been assigned to supervise the work in Floyd and other counties of the area, said this week. "It's an unpleasant job, one I didn't want, but it was given me," he added.

One complaint heard was from the Hueysville community where the Church of Christ sign was removed last week without notice and was reported damaged when state workers took it to the site of the church, downhill from where the sign was located.

Mr. Dingus said he would have permitted the sign to stand, had there not been near it two commercial signs which were patently in violation of the law. He said that if he had permitted the church sign to stand after removing the others he would have been open to discrimination action. He denied that the sign was broken.

"I told the lady (a member of the church) I was sorry and would myself help erect a legal sign," he added.

The sign, he said, measured 4 by 8 feet, while the federal law forbids signs of more than 8 square feet.

He admitted that no notice was given before the church sign and the two erected by business firms were removed.

The sign in question was on private land and 50 feet or more from the right-of-way of KY 80.

The Bosco signs are the only ones taken down without prior notice, it was said.

The regulations given him, Dingus said, are lengthy and difficult to comprehend. "And I don't agree with all of them, but I didn't write the law," he added.

Those affected by enforcement of the law call it "highhanded and inconsiderate of the people's rights."

Simultaneously with the sign removal undertaking, the Department of Highways began enforcing the junkyard law which forbids five or more junk cars to be visible in one location from the highway.

W'wright Studies Possible Purchase Of Utilities System

The board of trustees of the City of Wheelwright has for some time considered the acquisition of the water, sewer and gas system presently owned by Mountain Investment, Inc. This possibility moved one step nearer reality September 9 when Delbert Davis, chairman of the board, met with Earnest Murphy and Scott Smith, of the Public Service Commission in Frankfort.

The purpose of the meeting, requested by Mr. Davis, was to become fully acquainted with the actions of the PSC in regard to both the water and sewer system and the gas system. The city received a systems evaluation report in January of this year, commissioned by the Big Sandy ADD, and executed by Schimpeler-Corradino & Associates, an accounting firm with branch offices in Louisville. This report, together with the district water-sewer plan, makes specific recommendations regarding the renovation of both systems.

Initial contacts with Frank Arnell, president of Mountain Investment, and Walt Williams, the local manager of the corporation, have proved very encouraging, Mr. Davis said. In regard to future rate structures, Davis was informed that if the systems now serving his town were to be purchased and managed by the city as public utilities, individual customers would realize near-present rates. The prospect of expanding the existing service area to include areas not presently served was strongly encouraged by the PSC.

Fishtrap Reservoir Drawdown Started

The annual fall drawdown of Fishtrap Lake began September 12 in preparation for the flood season.

A U. S. Army Corps of Engineers representative in the Huntington district office said Fishtrap will be lowered five feet at a rate of about 25 foot per day until October 3, after which it will be lowered 27 additional feet at a rate of about 45 foot per day. Water will be discharged at approximately 190 and 280 cubic feet per second, respectively, for these two drawdowns.

It is expected that the drawdown will be completed by December 1.

One-Room School

By MRS. HERSCHEL COMBS
The beginning of this year's school has brought back memories of my childhood school days.

My thoughts go back to a one-room school I attended at Jacks Creek in Floyd county. The description of my school fits most of the others, I suppose. It was a frame building, painted white; one door in front, with windows on each side. A long blackboard was across one end with the teacher's desk nearby. A cast-iron stove sitting in the center of the building supplied the heat. A boy, hired by the teacher for ten cents a morning, usually came early and built the fire.

The long benches up front were used by the students for reciting their lessons. Each class was called up separately. The students in lower grades had an opportunity to advance their learning by listening to the discussions of the upper grades.

The school building was used by the people for church gatherings, box suppers, a voting place and many other community activities.

There was cooperation between parents and teachers. They usually worked together in disciplining the children. The students respected the teacher and each other. They regarded good manners and morals as an accepted "must". These values meant a lot to people in those days. Children were not so quick to challenge authority or to question long-established social customs.

Not everyone finds the scene as they left it; time has a way of changing things. The school building I attended many years ago is gone. Sad memories reactivated the sense of loss each time I pass the place where it once stood. Most of the one-room schools have disappeared and large Consolidated schools have taken their place in the name of progress.

QUESTION:

Have the State and County Highway Departments mounted a campaign against the right of a certain political candidate for the political office of County Judge? This is being done by the tearing down of campaign posters paid for by this candidate.

WHY NOW??? WHY AT THIS TIME???

WHY NOT IMMEDIATELY AFTER THE MAY PRIMARY???
WHY NOW???? ONLY WEEKS BEFORE THE "FINAL" ELECTION.

Especially since the many candidates of years past have used the power poles and state highway property freely. Is it really a cleanup campaign? Or is it an ORGANIZED POLITICAL DISCRIMINATION against Ronald Frasure, the candidate for County Judge Executive.

With the condition of so many of our state and county roads in this county being nothing short of poor and unsafe. (Example—Picture showing one such condition and there are many more in as bad or worse condition.)

Is this bridge in your community?

With the amount of money to be spent on our roads, would it not be better to have "our" tax dollars spent on upgrading "our" roads and bridges instead of wasting "our" tax dollars taking down the campaign posters of this candidate for County Judge at this particular time.

Have these signs been destroyed or WHAT??? If not, why has this candidate not been notified to remove his signs or to pick them up at the State Highway Department after they have been torn down by the Highway Department.

I have nothing against a clean-up campaign for Floyd County—

(BUT WHY NOW???) WHY NOT BEFORE THE MAY PRIMARY OR DIRECTLY AFTER THE MAY PRIMARY???

COMMUNITY ACTION NEWS

The Wheelwright Community Action Club held its regular monthly meeting Sept. 8. Felmon Blackmon, vice-president, presided in the absence of the President. A building has been obtained to have our regular meetings and possibly other activities. This is the office space upstairs over the Wheelwright Library. Mayor Delbert Davis has donated this building for use, the Community Action Club to pay utilities and maintain upkeep. The office equipment in the building will be used by the community. A copy machine will be rented on a month-to-month basis with the cost being shared equally with the Community Action Club and the City of Wheelwright.

Walt Williams, manager of Mountain Investment, donated used brick from torn down houses to the Club to be sold as a fund raising project. If anyone is in need of used brick we ask that you contact someone with the Club for costs and details.

Audrey Yates, city clerk, represented the city of Wheelwright in the absence of Mayor Delbert Davis. She reported on state monies allocated to the city for repaving state roads in the corporate limits of Wheelwright. The amount allocated is $4,046. This amount is held in Frankfort until the work is completed and the contractor submits his bill to Frankfort for payment.

Donna Mullins reported on the Opinion Poll. She stated that the remainder of these opinions should be in by Sept. 15, so that the information can be compiled and used for annual planning. With the few that are in, we find that jobs and roads are topping the list as main priorities for this area. A complete rundown should be available by October. Annette Farmer has worked diligently on these opinions and she was recognized before the club for a job well done.

Katie Newsome discussed projects for the month of September. Scheduling includes a hay ride, a pop bottle drive and, tentatively, dance. Fund-raising drives are considered to build treasury for winter projects. All donations of time, money or anything will be appreciated.

Pearl Bartley has resigned as treasurer.

A new restaurant has opened in Wheelwright. Ray Newsome is the owner and operator of the Big Wheel Restaurant, located in the old Clubhouse Restaurant.

Carlos Blankenship now has the bowling alley open at Wheelwright and leagues are bowling on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights.

Attending the meeting were Felmon Blackmon, Annette Farmer, Walt Williams, Linda Holbrook, Helen Ritchie, Katie Newsome, Audrey Yates, Joe Yates and Donna Mullins.

The next scheduled meeting of the club will be in the upstairs office over the Wheelwright Library, Thursday, October 13 at 7:30 p.m. A cordial invitation is extended to anyone interested in community involvement.

Kentucky Afield

By JOHN WILSON

Are you a safe hunter? If you hesitated before answering, there's a possibility that you may not be. A safe hunter knows how to handle firearms, under what conditions it is safe to shoot and when not to. He realizes the destructive potential of firearms and of modern archery equipment; he respects the tools of his sport and handles them, and himself, responsibly at all times.

But the person who only thinks he's a safe hunter may not be. And the chances are that the individual who doesn't know whether he's a safe hunter or not has some bad habits or may not be aware of some of the precepts of hunter safety.

So if you don't know for sure that you're a safe hunter—and for the most part, this means whether or not you've been taught hunter safety by a professional—now is your chance to become one.

The Conservation Education Division of the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources is sponsoring a series of hunter education courses around the state. These courses provide six hours of classroom instruction in such topics as firearm safety, sportsmanship, hunter ethics, first aid and outdoor survival. A third session features actual range experience with firearms and archery equipment.

In addition to producing safer hunters, these courses will allow those who successfully complete them to get hunting licenses in any of the 23 states which now require hunter safety certification. Completing the course also fulfills the hunter safety requirement for those youngsters participating in youth hunts at Land Between the Lakes in western Kentucky.

All interested individuals are welcome at any course, but remember that for certification, a student must attend all three sessions. Check the list for a course in your area; if none is available a course will be offered wherever 20 interested individuals can be found.

For additional information, get in touch with Marion Mattingly, Senior Hunter Training Officer, Dept. of Fish and Wildlife Resources, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

CANCER Answer line

American Cancer Society

(A regular feature, prepared by the American Cancer Society, to help save your life from cancer.)

A retired office worker writes: "Years ago there was much agitation about Krebiozen, a so-called cancer cure, and then the topic died out. Why hasn't the same thing happened with Laetrile, another phony cure?"

ANSWER line: Early in the 1950's Krebiozen, a substance made from the blood of horses, caused much publicity and controversy. The issue began to die away as evidence mounted that its proponents were profiteering at the expense of patients. Laetrile, an extract of apricot pits, has been proven time and time again to be of no value in treating or preventing cancer and it was therefore banned by the Food and Drug Administration. Why, then, unlike Krebiozen, is it being legalized in several states, and promoted as well? The answer is a social and political one: Laetrile backers are well organized, publish literature for the public, make films, speak on radio and TV. Most crucial, they have linked Laetrile in a misleading way with the political issue of "freedom of choice." Despite the misinformation the truth is this: if a cancer patient relies on Laetrile rather than scientifically proven methods of treatment, he or she may lose the time and means to save his or her life.

A mailman asks: "Many years ago I lost a young cousin to Wilm's tumor. Have things improved at all?"

ANSWER line: Definitely, yes. Wilm's tumor is a form of cancer of the kidney that can afflict young children. It is first noticeable as a swelling or lump in the abdomen. Today, using a combination of treatments—surgery, radiation, drugs—some 80 per cent of patients are being cured. This is a true sign that the investment in medical research pays off.

An English teacher asks: "What are some of the most common misconceptions about cancer?"

ANSWER line: There are many myths about cancer which are simply untrue. For example, despite what some people may believe, the following do NOT cause cancer: Cooking in aluminum pots, vaccinations for smallpox, fluoridation of water. Contrary to what some women may think, a blow or injury to the breast does not cause breast cancer. Also, there are still some people who worry needlessly about contracting cancer from a patient. Cancer is not the kind of disease that one "catches." Nearness to a cancer patient is not harmful to health.

Consumer Comments

Recently a consumer received a telephone call from a salesperson who wanted to sell magazines. Since she was in a hurry to get off the phone, the woman hastily agreed to purchase a magazine so that the salesperson would hang up. Much to her surprise, a few days later a bill arrived from a company saying that she had purchased over the phone a five-year subscription to not one, but several magazines!

Each week the Attorney General's Office, Consumer Protection Division receives complaints about annoying salespersons trying to sell products over the telephone. If you receive a call of this nature and are not interested in purchasing the product, the easiest solution is to simply hang up the phone. However, if you are bullied into agreeing to purchase something that you later discover you did not need or want, then Kentucky law can help you.

Dialing a telephone rather than ringing a doorbell does not change the responsibility that a salesperson owes a consumer. The Kentucky law requiring a three day "cooling off" period for door-to-door sales also applies to telephone solicitations.

Under the law, a telephone solicitor is required to send the consumer a written statement of the sale and advise him of his right to cancel the telephone sale within three days. Therefore, if, after the salesperson has talked with you over the telephone, you do not receive this written notice to sign, the seller has not complied with the law. You then have the right to cancel the contract. On the other hand, if you do receive written notice of the telephone sale but no longer want to purchase the product, you still have three days to cancel the contract.

To properly cancel a contract for a sale made in your home or over the telephone, you must notify the seller in writing. A simple letter to the company listing your name, address, and the name of the product you no longer want to purchase is usually the best means of cancellation. Keep a copy of this letter for your records. It is essential, however, that you cancel the contract within three days after receiving the telephone solicitor's written statement.

Kentucky law also requires magazine solicitors to register with the county clerk in each county in which the salesperson intends to sell subscriptions. If the solicitor fails to register, then the consumer again has the right to cancel the contract of sale.

These home solicitation laws were enacted in an attempt to remedy abuses that have occurred in the past. Although fraudulent telephone practices have not been stopped completely, consumers are given more rights under the law to confront such practices.

To protect yourself from improper sales, always insist on receiving a written contract when ordering magazines or any other product from a telephone solicitor. If a dispute later arises regarding the terms of the sale, you can always refer to the written contract as your proof of the agreement.

If you have questions concerning Kentucky home solicitation laws requiring a three day "cooling off" period, then contact the Attorney General's Office, Consumer Protection Division on the toll-free hotline at 1-800-372-2960.

OUTDOOR LORE

by Nevyle Shackelford

UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY • COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE

Lending considerable interest to the already fascinating lore of the woodlands are the many unnatural growths to be found on roots, stems, buds, leaves and flowers of vegetation. These growths are called "galls" and in most cases are caused by the irritating presence of larvae of insects.

These galls may vary in size from the merest swelling of a twig to fruitlike growths several inches in diameter and weird sprangles of twigs known as "witches' broom." In all cases there is great variety in appearance. Some are ball-shaped; some are shaped like stars, trumpets, rosettes and beef kidneys. Some are smooth and shining; some are rough and hairy; some are green, brown, and red and blue speckled. But one thing all galls have in common—each contains one or more young insects.

Birds and squirrels often tear open these strange little castles to feed upon the larvae within, but natural protection from such ruthless enemies is generally afforded by curious devices by the galls themselves. For instance some galls secrete caustive juices that burn the tongues of predators; others are so inconspicuous as to escape notice; and still others are bitter with tannin.

Many gall-producing insects like the Hessian fly, clover-seed midge, or grapevine phylloxera are extremely destructive to some forms of crops and fruit. The small, dark, four-winged gallfly, however, is of some value, especially when it deposits its eggs in the leaves and twigs of oaks to produce the familiar spongy white, green, and blue "oak apples."

From these growths are obtained tannin for tanning leather. They are also used in making ink and in pioneer days were frequently utilized in the compounding of medicine. The gallic acid from these oak galls was considered a specific in cases of chronic diarrhea or whenever an internal astringent was required. It has also been said that pioneers used oak galls for making dye and that some of the oldest American documents show the bright, permanent ink of oak galls.

Although oak galls are abundant throughout the woodlands of America, gathering them for commercial use is considered too tedious and expensive. As a consequence the galls used in commerce are gathered chiefly by country folk in parts of Italy, Iran and Syria.

As a hint to fishermen, galls found on goldenrod stems have another valuable use. The little worms found inside these galls make the finest bream and bluegill bait in the world, or so it is said. These little larvae reach fishbait size just in time for late autumn fishing.

$500,000 ARC Grant Funds Voc Schools In 19-County Area

Gov. Julian Carroll has announced that a $500,000 Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) grant has been awarded for sixth-year funding of the operation of area vocational technical schools in 19 Eastern Kentucky counties.

The project provides vocational training to post-secondary students and specialized occupational training to both employed and unemployed adults in Monroe, Rowan, Montgomery, Morgan, Menifee, Boyd, Carter, Greenup, Johnson, Magoffin, Letcher, Leslie, Laurel, Harlan, Bell, Clay, Green, Wayne, and Powell counties.

According to William L. Short, Carroll's alternate on the ARC, priority will be given to students who are currently on waiting lists. "This will include large numbers of veterans and disadvantaged adults," Short said.

Short also indicated that adult program priority will be accorded to classes that will accommodate the training needs of new and expanding industries in the Eastern Kentucky area.

The project will offer instructional opportunities for 4,210 adults.

Total project cost is $564,381. State funds will be provided to match the ARC grant.

ARC Funds for Med Services
Planning in Area Total $40,755

Gov. Julian M. Carroll has announced the award of a $40,755 Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) grant for initial funding of a three-state consortium that will coordinate Emergency Medical Services (EMS) and train emergency medical personnel in Floyd and other counties. Local sources will provide $15,885, bringing the total for the project to $56,640. The FIVCO-Big Sandy EMS Region IX Board is the official grant recipient.

According to Development Secretary William L. Short, Carroll's alternate on the ARC, the grant is for the planning phase of the project and will support a planner-developer in Ashland who will work with Boyd, Carter, Elliott, Floyd, Greenup, Johnson, Lawrence, Magoffin, Martin, and Wayne counties in Kentucky; Cabell, Lincoln, Logan, Mason, Mingo and Wayne counties in West Virginia, and Athens, Gallia, Hocking, Jackson, Lawrence, Meigs and Vinton counties in Ohio.

Approximately 738,000 people stand to benefit from the program, Short said. "A serious problem exists in this Tri-State area in the coordination of policies to guarantee that patients will be transported across state lines when it is necessary," he said.

Short indicated that other problems related to emergency medical services in the area include weakness of cooperation between EMS providers and health facilities; inadequate reimbursement of EMS services; lack of job stability and career ladders for EMS personnel and lack of first aid and emergency medical service training for public safety personnel.

According to Short, the project has three major goals:

—Development of an organized interchange of information about EMS among the three regions to eliminate duplication and improve services.

—Development of an organized tri-state continuing education campaign for EMS and their business and public safety personnel.

—Development of a mechanism for financial solvency in the tri-state EMS system.

KEA Commends Decision To Enforce Truancy Law

The Kentucky Education Association (KEA) commended the State Board of Elementary and Secondary Education last week for its stand on enforcing truancy laws in Kentucky's school districts.

Wayne Harvey, president of KEA, read a prepared statement to the board in which he praised the board's decision to prosecute parents failing to comply with compulsory attendance laws.

The board's action came in an August 31 meeting when they directed pupil personnel directors, formerly Kentucky's truancy officers, to initiate necessary legal proceedings against those failing to comply with truancy laws.

Harvey said that since public schools must meet basic requirements for accreditation, "it is consistent that the same minimum standards be required for private schools that set themselves up as alternatives to public education."

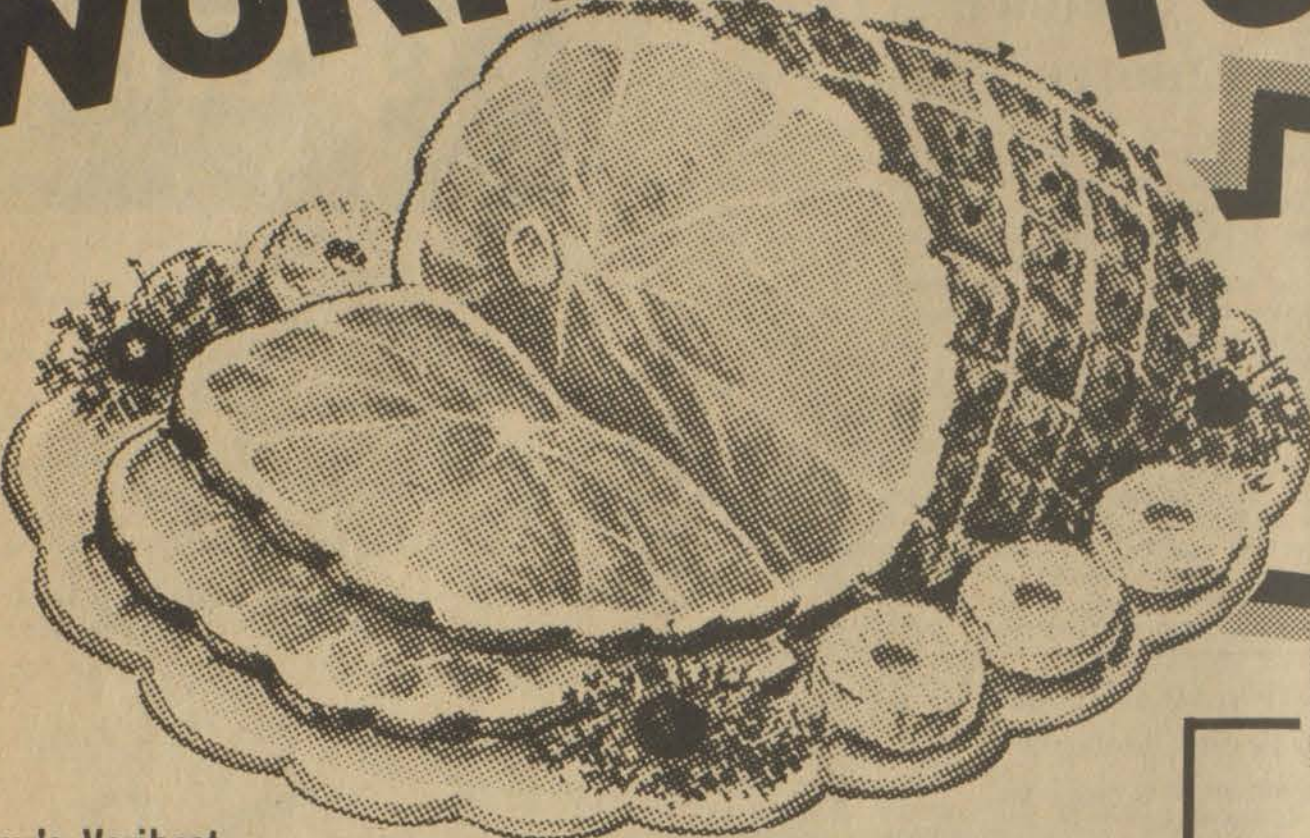

"Children whose parents enroll them in non-public schools should not be denied the protection afforded them" by accrediting standards of the state board, he said.

Henry Pogue, of Fort Thomas, newly-elected chairman of the board, emphasized that their action in enforcing truancy laws applied to all 181 school districts and not just the 16 districts with non-accredited private schools.

Each director of pupil personnel is to submit a written compliance report to the board by October 10.
