

Massive Cleanup Job Set May 1st

Every Division Of Government To Participate

Floyd county will begin on May 1 what its fiscal court hopes will be the greatest cleanup effort in its history.

The month has been declared Cleanup and Beautification Month by the court, and John M. Stumbo has been designated to head the effort.

The cleanup work will be done under auspices of the fiscal court, but Mr. Stumbo said last week every agency, including federally funded programs, will be involved. "Everybody, the young, senior citizens, all will be asked to pitch in and help," he said.

A spokesman for the fiscal court said the drive will center on removal of small forms of litter and garbage, leaving the junked automobiles that dot the countryside to be removed by the Department of Highways.

He added that several thousand plastic bags have been ordered for distribution to householders for use during the month but that the supply may not be adequate. Stumbo expressed the hope that many will use boxes or bags purchased for the purpose to store the accumulated litter.

The plan is to have all containers of litter at the roadside where trucks can pick them up to be transported to a landfill. A schedule of pickups by trucks will be published prior to May 1.

"For this campaign to be a complete success," County Judge Henry Stumbo said, "every individual and every

Police Probe Gunshot Death At W'wright

Although the rifle shot in his temple which claimed the life of Richard Edwin Brown, 43, of Wheelwright, was reported as self-inflicted, the investigation of the case was being continued this week by Wheelwright Special Officer Joe W. Lewis and State Police Detective Phelps.

Brown, a native of California and a former physician's assistant for Big Sandy Health Care, was wounded at his home Sunday night. He died the following day, en route to a Lexington hospital, without regaining consciousness.

Among those questioned was Mrs. Brown, who, Lewis said, told others she had hidden the rifle from her husband. The weapon is at the sheriff's office here, and it has been established that its length would not have prevented Brown from firing the bullet into his head.

Brown was a veteran of the Korean Conflict, and has recently been involved in establishing a distributorship of home respiratory equipment for a Huntington, W. Va. firm. He was a son of Cyril Brown, of Colorado, and Mrs. Jean Strange Brown, of Maywood, California. Other survivors include his widow, Mrs. Janice Newsome Brown, of Wheelwright; a son Rickey Brown, of the U.S. Air Force, Texas; one daughter, Mrs. Karen Nolan, Albany, Ga., and five stepchildren, David Grigsby, Jr., Lisa, Leslie, Robert and Kevin Grigsby, all of Wheelwright; two brothers, Bob Brown, San Diego, Calif., and Chris Brown, Richlands, Washington.

His funeral was conducted at 11 a.m. today (Wednesday) from the chapel of the Hall Brothers Funeral Home by E. P. Grigsby, Jr., superintendent of schools. The body was cremated.

This Town...That World

TRA—LA!

This is, indeed, Spring. All the symptoms and signs proclaim it: that long-gone feeling of lassitude while all the world is breaking free. First came the crocuses, then forsythia, and now the star magnolia, plums and pears. And, almost overnight, the greening of the hillsides has begun. Boats are being cleaned, motors tuned up, the grosbeaks are gone—the snail's on the thorn, and I wish I could in good faith amen Browning and say, all's right with the world.

Soon, the dogwoods will be the "snow on the hillside"—if the forest fires don't get there first.

Center Asks Help Of Blood Donors At Drawing Here

The effects of this winter have been far-reaching and were in many ways devastating. It caused shutdowns, cancellations, and has even interfered with many basic needs. Almost every day, an emergency has existed somewhere within the state.

For the Central Kentucky Blood Center the emergency came when all scheduled surgeries had to be cancelled due to lack of blood. There was even more concern about the supply of blood for emergency surgeries. Now, like most medical facilities, it is trying to recover and rebuild its supply to normal levels.

The blood center will have its staff and equipment at the Prestonsburg Fire Department at Lancer Saturday (April 8) from 12 noon till 5 p.m. Any person donating blood will receive complete blood coverage for his or her immediate family for the next year. All individuals needing to replace blood used may also donate at that time.

W. P'burg Evacuated After Gasoline Spill

A gasoline spill at the Marvin Music Gulf Distributors bulk plant at West Prestonsburg and the resulting threat of explosion and fire, forced the evacuation, late Saturday night, of an estimated 300 to 400 residents there.

Members of the Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad and Prestonsburg auxiliary police evacuated the residents after a reported 200 to 400 gallons of no-lead Crest gas was spilled as it was being transferred from a tanker to a storage reservoir.

The gasoline, which apparently overflowed through an open dike valve on the reservoir, quickly spread to a nearby rail car loading area where four 20-ton hoppers filled with highly explosive ammonium nitrate were located. Prestonsburg Fire Chief Tom Blackburn said the greatest danger of explosion resulted when gasoline ran into and partially filled concrete pits which are located beneath the hoppers. "If the

Move To Void Neeley's Bond Delayed Friday

The effort of the Commonwealth to effect revocation of the $20,000 bond permitted Cisco Neeley, of Hueysville, while he is appealing the eight-year pen term given him by a Floyd circuit court jury for second degree manslaughter, was temporarily stalled last Friday.

Although Neeley had earlier in the morning entered a plea of guilty to a charge of escaping custody and had been sentenced to a 30-day jail term by District Judge Harold J. Stumbo, Judge Conley announced that he will withhold a ruling on Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen's motion to revoke the appeal bond until outcome of two other cases lodged against Neeley after his release on bond are decided in district court.

The commonwealth's attorney argued that the bond could be revoked at the court's discretion.

The remaining charges against Neeley are drunk driving and resisting arrest.

Neeley says he was not driving at the time of this arrest. He and his father, Chester Neeley, claim he was black-jacked by a state trooper and that the

Court Docket Lists Three Murder Cases

Sixty-eight cases were set down for trial by Circuit Judge Hollie Conley at the first day of the April criminal court term Monday, and of these three are for murder.

The court term was not marked by the usual delay in empaneling juries, since both the grand and petit juries named at the January court session continue to form the panels. Nor was time taken for the judge to instruct the grand jury before it began work Tuesday morning, since the same jurors had received the court's instructions in January.

The first of the murder trials scheduled is that of Don S. Gearheart for the slaying of Brian Conley, set for trial April 14. Trial of Randy Hall, charged with the murder of Charlene Varney, was set for May 2, and that of Ralph L. Anderson for the slaying of Mack Lewis, June 20.

The murder trial here of Edward Roy Jones remains doubtful. The case was marked, "Commonwealth to make determination as to case being transferred to the Pike circuit court." Jones, who was acquitted at Pikeville of the slaying of Lawrence Conley at Garrett, is charged in this case with the murder of James Clayton Conley, near Wayland.

Listed on the docket also are 21 cases of theft, burglary and robbery, seven forgeries, three for possession or sale of intoxicants, four for controlled substances (drugs), four for escaping custody and three for reckless homicide.

Search Party Finds Baby's Body After Mother, 17, Hospitalized

The hearing presumably would precede possible grand jury action.

The baby's body was sent to Ashland for an autopsy. Although the pathologist's written report had not been received Tuesday morning, he told Coroner James J. Carter that there was no water in the infant's lungs, indicating that it may have died before being tossed into the stream.

The mother reportedly told of the disposition of the child after she had entered a hospital for post-natal care. She had not been questioned as of Monday afternoon.

Authorities said they had received two reports of the incident, both attributed to the mother. In one, it was said, she claimed that she and her sister put the body in Left Beaver Creek. The other version was to the effect that she alone was responsible.

The grand jury is expected to hear testimony of two or more adults, it was said Monday.

Officers learned of the disposal of the body only after the girl, entering the hospital Friday afternoon, told an attendant what had happened. Search of the stream was made Saturday morning, and the body was located within 45 minutes.

Investigation of the case is being led by State Police Detective Donnie Jack Phelps, County Detective Sam Hale and County Attorney Arnold Turner. Coroner Carter conducted an inquest, immediately after the body was recovered.

Funeral of the baby, who was listed at the Hall Brothers Funeral Home as Rita Martin, was held at 1 p.m. Monday at the graveside in the Drift cemetery.

Owners of Gas Allege P'burg Violated Pact

Owners of gas wells on three leases in the Prestonsburg vicinity filed suit last Thursday against the City of Prestonsburg, alleging that the city had violated its contract to buy from them all marketable gas produced from their premises.

Plaintiffs are John Allen, trustee, Viola M. Cooley, Jettie Shreve, Elizabeth W. Spurlock and Neil Haywood, all of Prestonsburg.

They claim that an agreement entered into with the city Dec. 1, 1970 provided that the city would buy from them and their predecessors all marketable gas from their wells for 40 cents per 1,000 cubic feet till Dec. 1, 1971, and thereafter at the same rate paid Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company, principal supplier of the city's gas. The suit alleges the city not only has refused to take all the gas produced from their Webb-Hereford, Porter and Fitzpatrick leases from Dec. 1, 1970 to the present time but also has refused to pay for their gas at the rate paid Kentucky West Virginia.

They ask for judgment to determine that the city is indebted to them under the agreement; to recover such amounts as they may be entitled to for the "wrongful refusal" to purchase gas from plaintiffs' wells, and such sums as may be approved for the "wrongful preference" of adjoining wells to those of plaintiffs. Judgment also is asked for alleged drainage of gas from plaintiffs' wells and leases.

New Riverview Manor Under Roof

Although completion of the new $1.8 million Riverview Manor is not expected before early fall, the 116-bed extended care facility was under roof when this picture was made this week and some inside finishing work had begun. The two-story structure, which is being built on a two-acre tract adjacent to Briarwood Addition here, will offer 56 skilled and 60 intermediate care nursing beds. Owners of the facility are P. & P. Hueysville Youth Critically Injured

Michael Neeley, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Neeley, of Hueysville, is in serious condition at the U.K. Medical Center, Lexington, as a result of injuries suffered when his truck wrecked on KY 7, near Hueysville, last Wednesday.

Young Neeley reportedly suffered a broken neck and is paralyzed. A Whitaker youth, passenger in the truck, escaped with a broken nose. Neeley's father said the wreck resulted when his son swerved to avoid an oncoming vehicle and struck a bulging section of the blacktop.

Pre-School Classroom For Deaf Youngsters May Locate in Area

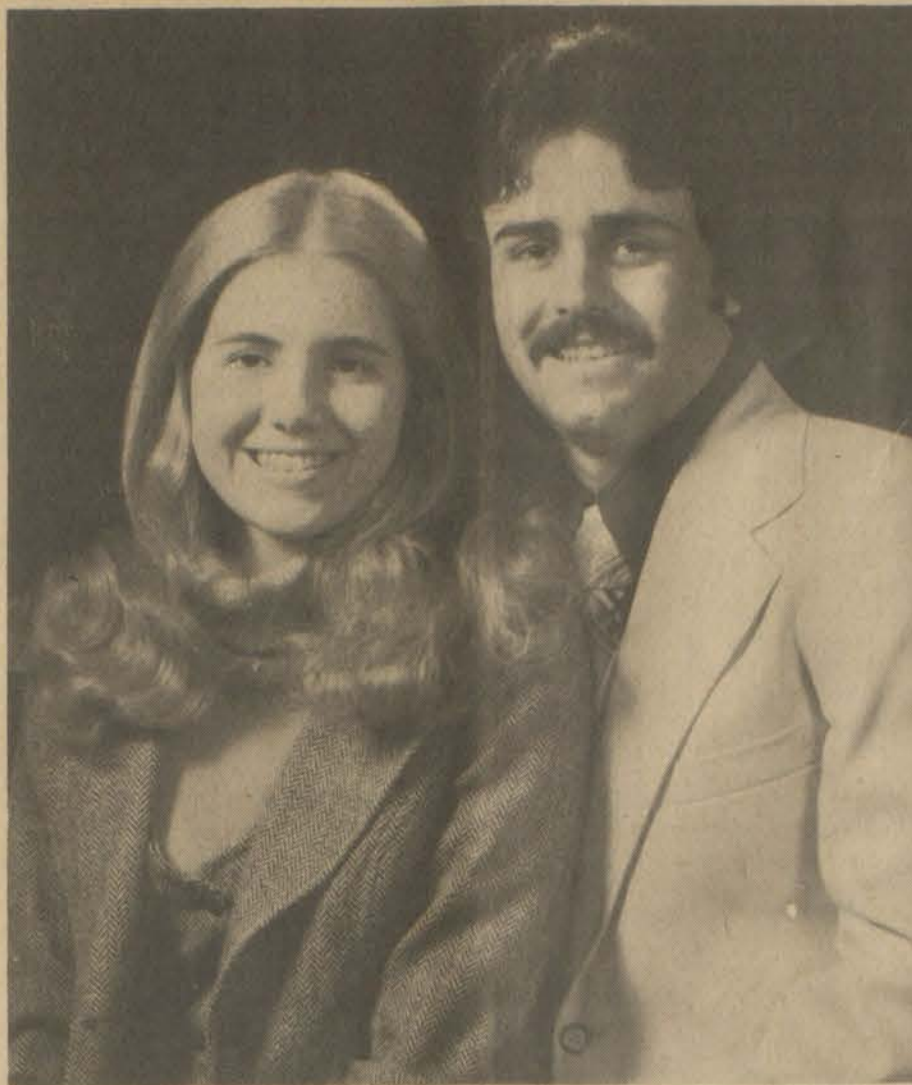

The Danville School for the Deaf has proposed a pre-school classroom in this area for deaf children, but at least five children must be enrolled to justify its founding, a Mountain Comprehensive Care Center spokesman said last week. Location of the classroom will depend on where it will be most convenient to students involved. Transportation to and from the pupil's home daily will be provided.

Parents who have children whom they would enroll for the class should telephone Carol Rudy at the toll-free number, 1-800-422-1060 at once. The area classroom has been suggested to eliminate the necessity of younger deaf children having to leave home for their educational needs, it was explained.

Arthritis Takes Toll In Economic Losses

"Aside from the pain and crippling involved, arthritis takes a tremendous economic toll," reports James E. Letcher, Executive Director of the Kentucky Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation.

How expensive is arthritis? James E. Letcher said medical bills of $2.5 billion and drug bills of $1 billion are annual expenditures for the one in four families where arthritis strikes. He also cited $3.5 billion in lost wages and $1 billion in lost homemaker services annually.

"These and other expenditures related to arthritis add up to a nine billion dollar annual impact on the U.S. economy," said James E. Letcher. "And no price tag can be put on human suffering, disability, lost potential, and family problems that often accompany the disease.

To help reduce the toll, the Arthritis Foundation is offering a free booklet "Arthritis—The Basic Facts" to anyone who writes to their Kentucky Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation at 1381 Bardstown Road, Louisville, Kentucky 40204.

They are Ike Pennie, a 6-7 forward from Sue Bennett College, and Rocky Adkins, a 6-3 guard from Elliott County High School.

Pennie, described by Martin as "an outstanding leaper and shooter," played at Woodford County High School.

Adkins led his team to the 16th Regional Tournament.

The Juvenile Bill Veto

The Times has no desire to join the argument between State Senator Michael Moloney, of Lexington, and Peter Conn, secretary of the Department of Human Resources, about who lied, or didn't, and created circumstances leading to the veto by Governor Carroll of the senator's bill providing for trial as adults those 14-year-olds, or older, who commit capital and other serious crimes.

Two statements attributed to Governor Carroll and Mr. Conn seize our attention. With one we agree; with the other we are at odds.

Pointing out that he reluctantly vetoed the bill providing for prosecution as adults of some juveniles charged with major crimes and that he did so solely because the law would cost the state $2.3 million a year in federal funds, Governor Carroll said: "I strongly resent this further example of how it (the federal government) dictates how the states can deal with their problems and handle their own affairs."

Most of the experiments and innovations that have confounded down-to-earth educators and complicated local school programs were created by the insistence of the federal government, as the governor has said, that it dictate how the funds it contributes to the states can be used.

Counties, cities and towns, hard-pressed for funds, are grateful one moment for revenue sharing funds and are frustrated the next by the conditions imposed by the federal government on how and for what purposes these monies may be spent.

U. S. Bureau of Highways funds have helped build roads, but the funds are dangled, carrot-on-the-stick style, before the states. If the recipients fail to comply with certain federal regulations—removal of billboards, for example—the carrot will be withdrawn.

These are some of the reasons for our agreement with the governor.

Then there is Conn's statement in which he defends the handling of juvenile crime by the Department of Human Resources—and with which we could not disagree more. Says Conn:

"Statistics demonstrate that Kentucky's juvenile justice system works and represents a national model in which we are able to take pride."

Whose statistics? Who kept the books?

We suggest that any who agree with Mr. Conn should ask the enforcement officers and judges of the courts who are involved with juvenile crime. Then walk the streets and ask the ordinary citizen, many of whom have suffered because juvenile crime has skipped merrily along on a broad way paved with state laws and the general permissiveness practised by the Department of Human Resources. Ask these about this juvenile system that, according to Mr. Conn, "represents a national model." Then pity the states which strive—Excelsior!—to attain that high standard of excellence.

Kentucky law already recognizes the teen-age driver who violates traffic laws as an adult. Is such a youngster more responsible than those who murder, rob, rape, loot and burn?

matter. But now, from Plant City, Fla., Homer Neeley writes:

"I am concerned about the poke situation. I was out in the grapefruit grove today and discovered about a dozen bunches of the precious weed. There doesn't seem to be any poke warden in these parts and I'm wondering if this territory would come under the jurisdiction of the Floyd county warden. I'd like to file claim on my find if I can determine the proper authorities."

I can appreciate the gravity of the situation, especially so since another Floyd county expatriate, Emory Clark, is having the same concern at Ormond Beach. So I suggest that they post armed guards around the premises—not to protect their claims against Floridians but against any Kentuckian who may wander or stagger past—and in the meantime wire Watt Hale for a franchise.

CROP REPORT

One disappointment there is this spring which I sadly record. That is the failure of the wild onion crop in my backyard. It has been suggested that, somewhere, there must be a federal program that will cover my loss. I may, if things begin looking any darker, put that yard in the soil bank.

And now the day is made complete by one of our gang dashing in to recall in my hearing that exactly one year ago, this date, the rain began and wouldn't stop and we were on our way to another flood.

arresting officers broke his hand by beating it with a revolver. The elder Neeley said he had five witnesses who would testify to this charge, but indicated he would not ask grand jury action.

State Police Sgt. Gary Rose, one of the arresting officers, branded the Neeleys' charge as "a bunch of junk." He said there was nothing wrong with Neeley's hand when he was taken to jail. Rose added that the prisoner struck at him through the jail bars and hit a turnkey. He admitted that Trooper John Sizemore struck Neeley over his eye one time at the arrest scene.

Neeley underwent hand surgery at a Lexington hospital, the day following his imprisonment here.

against the defendant to the extent that he could not get a fair trial here.

2. The case is "inextricably bound up" with the coal strike and its emotions.

3. It would be impossible for defendant's attorney to serve in the case "in an atmosphere of fear."

4. The victim's brother, Joe Wheeler Lewis, has twice been sheriff, and the present sheriff, Doug Lewis, is his nephew. It also was pointed out that Ex-Sheriff Lewis and County Attorney Arnold Turner, Jr. were involved in an altercation following the slaying of Mack Lewis.

5. The slaying was related to the mine strike in progress at the time Lewis was killed.

6. The hearing on bail was held outside Floyd county, and when bail was granted the defendant was ordered to stay out of Kentucky.

(The order excluding Anderson from this county was rescinded Friday by Judge Conley.)

Affidavits of Glenn Woods and James Fulks were filed to substantiate the defense claims.

Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen, in opposing the change of venue request, relied mainly on oral testimony of four citizens who expressed the belief that Anderson could get a fair trial in this county. The witnesses were Ex-Magistrates Dewey Roberts and Zeb Ousley, Ralph Hamilton, of Harold, and John N. Burchett, of Emma.

Defense counsel asked that the trial be transferred to a county not contiguous to Floyd. Judge Conley asked that the law on such a move be researched. Although cases are traditionally transferred to adjoining counties, it is claimed that they may be moved to more distant courts.

Resolution Is Aimed At Removing Miller

Gallipolis, Ohio—United Mine Workers locals around the country soon will be receiving copies of a resolution aimed at removing union President Arnold Miller from office.

Representatives of seven UMW districts adopted the resolution at a meeting here Saturday. Don Nunley, a District 6 official, said representatives came from Indiana, Ohio, Tennessee, Kentucky, Missouri and West Virginia.

"What we're attempting to do is to call a special constitutional convention and amend the process for recalling our international officers," said Nunley.

Nunley said that in order to call a special constitutional convention, a majority of the locals and at least five UMW districts must vote for such a convention. He predicted the group would have little trouble getting the necessary number of locals to join the movement.

The resolution, among other things, seeks to amend the UMW constitution to specifically define recall procedures, including the placing of time limits; to allow special conventions to consider recall of a sitting national officer and to change the distribution of funds to the local, district and international unions but not to raise dues.

Nunley said members of the group were disenchanted with Miller because "he sold us clear down the river and everybody in the union is going to know that before this contract expires."

"But this isn't a political move for any special candidate. We want to get rid of Miller and Sam Church (UMW vice president) and have a new election," Nunley added.

As the group met, Miller lay in a Miami hospital bed in serious condition after having suffered a stroke last week.

"What may happen," said Nunley, "is that they'll retire Miller and give him a pension. But that would leave Church. We're going to get rid of him, too."

At least one district vice president attended the session.

"I'm really just here to see what's going on," said Cecil Roberts, vice president of District 17, the union's largest and Miller's home district.

"I'll probably go back home to West Virginia and talk about what happened here today. I may well support this move," Roberts said.

Although both Roberts and Miller are natives of Cabin Creek in southern West Virginia, the two men are political enemies. Miller has said he plans to attempt to unseat Roberts for allegedly violating the UMW constitution during the recent contract vote.

The proposal to change the dues process would take away much of the UMW president's power. Such a move has been advocated by several union officials, including Lee Roy Patterson, a Madisonville, Ky., member who narrowly lost to Miller in last spring's union election.

Auxier Parents Reply

The first knowledge of fleas was during the week of March 6, 1978. Several of the students commented on the flea situation to the parents, but the parents didn't realize what the true situation was until Monday, March 13. Because, unlike other problems, the employees failed to report the flea problem to the parents. On March 14 several parents were notified and met at 10 a.m. at school to discuss the problem. At this time we had a meeting with the principal and came to the conclusion to dismiss classes at noon. Therefore, the parents went to each classroom and dismissed classes.

On March 15 there was a special P.T.A. meeting called and there we learned that not only were there fleas in the Second grade room but also in the Seventh grade room as well. We also learned at the meeting that the rat in the seventh grade room was too big to get in the eradicators to get to the poison.

We were told by the principle, teachers and lunchroom staff that the Board of Education had been informed several times about the opening which had been left by the maintenance men during the winter of '76-'77 and also the emergency needs to provide our children the safety and warmth in which they need but don't get. They also told us that the Board would not help in any way, but we are sure that if the Board had been made aware of all the severe problems something would have been done. We are concerned parents and not trouble-makers.

We as concerned parents are more interested in our children's education than a massive Watergate cover-up.

Ambulance Service Temporarily Halted

The Left Beaver Rescue Squad and Volunteer Fire Department are using this means to inform the people in the Left Beaver area that for a period of time the squad is no longer permitted to respond to ambulance calls, although emergency transportation is badly needed in this area and the Rescue Squad has been responding at the rate of about one and one-half calls a day. State regulations require that any individual or group providing transportation for the sick, injured or otherwise incapacitated must have ambulance license, either conforming or non-conforming.

As of this date, we have started that lengthy process. A certificate of need has been filed with the appropriate division in the Department of Human Resources. Once we have secured ambulance license, you will be notified in this paper and we will once again provide you, the good people of this area, the badly needed service that you so richly deserve.

The Rescue Squad and Volunteer Fire Department have never charged a fee for any of the services that we provide. The Squad operates solely on donations, and, although the services provided for the last year have been much more expensive than those normally provided by a Rescue Squad, we will continue to provide them for so long as we can financially do so.

If we can be of service to you don't hesitate to call us. Phones 377-2411, or 377-6773.

Accuses State Troopers

I, Cisco Neeley, left home Sunday evening with Vernon Cagar and Donna Shepherd. I had hired Vernon to take me to Wayland to stay with my girlfriend, Debbie Jacobs, and Vernon ran in the ditch on Route 7, and I was trying to get him pulled out when state police Gary Rose and Sizemore stopped. They came up to me and said, "Get in the car, Russell. We'll take care of you later." I told them I was Cisco. They said, "That's better, then." So I was scared and got out of the car and ran into Junior Bentley's house. They broke in and put a gun to my head and then knocked me down and kicked me, hit me with a slap jack and beat my hand with a pistol and told me if I moved they'd blow my head off. They broke my hand and cut a place over my eye.

They also beat Donna Shepherd in the face. She also was hurt pretty bad. She is 16 years of age.

I was took to Prestonsburg hospital and then sent to Lexington to get my hand took care of. They also told me the next time I wouldn't be so lucky, that I might end up like my brother Philip. As everyone knows, Philip was killed by a state police and nothing was done about that. I think it's time something should be done.

Rewarding Experience

On February 14 a lovely girl was born to the writers. "What is so unusual about aht? Babies are born every day." The difference in our case is the circumstances surrounding the happy event.

At Our Lady of the Way Hospital in Martin, under the care and guidance of Dr. Vasantha Sastry, we were able to fulfill our wish that our baby be born by way of the Lamaze (prepared childbirth) method. Relatives and friends of ours have taken advantage of this rewarding method of delivery and we had read several books on the subject. During the last month and a half of pregnancy, we were instructed in the Lamaze techniques by Marian and Greg Yarus, of Pikeville, who offer classes for interested parents-to-be in the Pike county area.

Dr. Sastry, who recently moved to Our Lady of the Way from Cook County Hospital in Chicago, is outstanding in her field of obstetrics and gynecology. In addition to being an excellent doctor, she is personable, compassionate, and shows a genuine concern for her patients.

Dr. Sastry's nurse, Clarissa Hall, whose smile adds cheer and comfort to the Martin Family Care Center, provided extra confidence.

The staff at Our Lady of the Way Hospital is also very friendly and most helpful. They are there when you need them.

Thank you Dr. Sastry, Clarissa and Hospital staff! You are the greatest!

organization in Floyd county needs to take part. This kind of total involvement will be highly beneficial in several ways. First of all, there will be a direct correlation between how many people are involved and how clean Floyd county will be at the conclusion of the drive. Another benefit will be that everybody taking part will be more inclined to do their part in keeping it clean.

Further information about the drive may be had by calling John M. Stumbo at 886-3697.

Our Fragile Earth

By DR. JERRY HOWELL
Director of Environmental Studies
Morehead State University

Appalachia is presently undergoing an unparalleled growth spurt. For Appalachia, long accustomed to blight and neglect, this growth phase is such a different experience, it is causing problems unfamiliar to the region's residents and elected officials. This, at least, is the opinion of one man, William K. Reilly, President of the Conservation Foundation. Reilly talked about Appalachia and its natural resource problems at a late 1977 Charleston, West Virginia conference sponsored by the Appalachian Regional Commission and the state of West Virginia.

Reilly said that coal is responsible for the growth resurgence in the area and that, in addition to contributing to many environmental problems, the rush to mine coal has led the region into an era of unplanned land use practices. Cities, in the absence of zoning requirements, are growing haphazardly outward along narrow roads.

Regulations for orderly growth are absent, according to Reilly, partially because of the independent nature of Appalachians. Another reason is that residents find it hard to believe that prosperity will be long lasting. The old cycle of boom and bust has prevented any kind of long range land use planning. Reilly cited the Rocky Mountain states as being far ahead of Appalachia in planning for future growth. He spoke of Wyoming's new siting law which restricts industry to certain locations and of Arizona, Idaho and Nevada, states with mandatory local zoning laws. Six of the eight Rocky Mountain states have mandatory local subdivision regulations. These rules permit local people to exert control over the growth generated by outsider demands for energy, recreation and land. Reilly said that few states are as conservative or hold greater respect for individualism than the Rocky Mountain states, yet they have exercised controls to prepare for anticipated growth due to coal production.

Permitting farm land to become residential areas in Appalachia is causing urban sprawl with few open areas. This pattern is precisely what happened in the north during their early growth years and because many of the residential areas consisted of mobile homes and substandard housing, these areas quickly became slums and no plans for future rehabilitation existed. Reilly sees the same cycle happening in Appalachia and cautioned that plans must be made to curb it.

His solutions involve leaving some land open for parks, building subdivisions under strict regulations and controlling their size, concentrating eyesores such as junkyards and keeping them away from subdivisions, and controlling detrimental land use practices, such as strip mining and unregulated timber cutting.

Mr. Reilly thinks that Appalachia can avoid the busts traditionally following coal booms. In a talk to a Charleston, West Virginia conference, sponsored by the Appalachian Regional Commission, Reilly stated that Appalachia would need several tools to manage the present unparalleled growth in the area.

One tool mentioned was disaster prevention, not just reaction. Local governments must adopt floodplain zoning controls and restrictions on building on steep or unstable slopes. Disaster-prone abandoned mines must be located and sealed, dams must be repaired and watersheds must be protected from timber overcutting. At the same time, critical environmental resource areas must be protected.

Stripmining must be controlled and past abuses must not continue. Reilly said the new federal stripmining law will become an important tool because it regulates current mining and allows orphan land reclamation. At the same time, the tourism resource must be protected and expanded as it will eventually become the area's largest income source.

Local governments must be given control of land use decisions. County governments must be allowed to place restrictions on residential and industrial building and Reilly believes that Area Development Districts are excellent vehicles for this authority.

Finally, Reilly said that Appalachia must use these tools to develop a "sense of place," a feeling that the area is a unique part of America. This feeling once existed in other parts of the country, including the Florida Keys and eastern Long Island, but in the last two decades, growth and blending has caused these regions to take on the appearance of other U.S. areas; their uniqueness is gone. Tract houses, fast food joints and commercial establishments have homogenized them.

For those who do not believe this blending can happen to Appalachia, Reilly cited the example of Jefferson County, West Virginia, an Appalachian area some 70 miles from Washington, D.C. This area is presently being carved up for suburbs for capital commuters.

Reilly believes that Appalachians must preserve their "sense of place" and that the only possible way this can be accomplished is for the residents themselves to decide what they want to become and how much of the past they want to preserve.

Arbor Day, April 7

A day for all Kentuckians to plant trees

Arbor Day in Kentucky this year will be Friday, April 7.

Arbor Day dates back over 100 years. The first official Arbor Day was observed in 1872 in Nebraska when the state legislature and the governor of the state supported the observance.

Since then many other states established Arbor Day observances—and an effort was launched in the mid 1900's to develop a National Arbor Day. In 1970 and 1972 there was Congressional legislation setting aside Arbor Day observances, but nothing permanent has been developed.

"Horticulturists have long recognized the need to protect our trees as one of our most important natural resources," says Mary Hotze, Extension horticulturist with the Department of Horticulture and Landscape Design of UK's College of Agriculture.

She said arborists organizations, garden clubs, nursery and forestry associations have continued to promote annual Arbor Day tree plantings and educational programs, but that the observance is still conducted on state levels.

Kentucky's Gov. Julian Carroll has proclaimed Arbor Day in Kentucky as April 7 this year and despite weather conditions many schools and organizations have made plans for the observance.

"Arbor Day is a day to draw attention to the need for the replanting of trees and the conservation and protection of our existing trees," Hotze said. "Most people, when thinking about the value of trees, readily associate them with home building, furniture, fencing and even railroad ties. However, our forest products stretch far beyond these few obvious items. Actually there are thousands of items made from wood that contribute to our standard of living.

"Many of these items are made of paper, of which we use a tremendous amount—approximately 500 pounds per person annually," the Extension horticulturist pointed out. "Of even greater importance to our physical and mental well being is the contribution made by trees toward neutralizing the atmospheric pollution caused by man."

Hotze noted about 78 trees are needed to absorb the carbon dioxide and produce the oxygen needed to maintain the balance in the atmosphere for every person in the United States. Twenty trees are required to offset the effect of a car driven 60 miles in one day. More than 100,000 trees are needed to cancel the atmospheric pollution of just one commercial jet traveling each day round trip between New York and Los Angeles.

"New York City, which should have 78 trees for each person, has 1/4 tree per person," Hotze said. "Israel, aware of the growing menace, has planted 100 million trees to reforest mountains which have been barren for 2,000 years."

"The preservation of trees and plants may be literally a matter of survival," she emphasized.

Adult Americans most often consider Arbor Day as an activity of elementary school children, the horticulturist observed. While that is important as an educational experience, she said, "more and more adults recognize the vital necessity to get involved in the preservation and protection of our trees—in urban areas as well as in our open lands and forests.

"This Arbor Day, let's all get with it and plant a tree," she concluded.

Leo Brauer
UK College of Agriculture

"PLANT A TREE ON ARBOR DAY"—Arbor Day in Kentucky is April 7, when all Kentuckians are urged to plant a tree. For landscaping, UK horticulturists suggest planting such trees as a flowering crabapple, like the one pictured. The local county Extension agent can make other suggestions as to varieties that do well in Kentucky. However, whatever tree is planted, the advice is to plant a disease resistant tree.

Johnson County Escapace Nabbed

Texas officers last Wednesday arrested a Johnson county man charged with capital murder there and wanted for kidnapping, rape and escaping from custody in Johnson county.

David Gillium, 21, was arrested in Starks, La., by Texas Ranger Everett Smith and Louisiana officers. He waived extradition proceedings and was transferred back to Texas.

He and his brother, Dennis, 19, escaped from the Johnson county jail, March 16, 1977. They were charged with kidnapping and rape after they allegedly kidnapped a woman at a laundromat, drove her out to a strip mine and raped her.

David Gillium was wanted in Texas for the murder of Mrs. Nelva Bates Salmon, 40, of Woodville, who was killed last Wednesday at her home.

It was alleged that Mrs. Salmon had asked Gillium "to do something he didn't want to do." When Gillium said he wouldn't do it, Mrs. Salmon threatened to call police. Woodville Police Sgt. Charles Rainey surmised that Gillium held Mrs. Salmon from behind and cut her throat.

Rainey said Mrs. Salmon attempted to defend herself, as evidenced by cuts on her hands. He described the murder as "brutal."

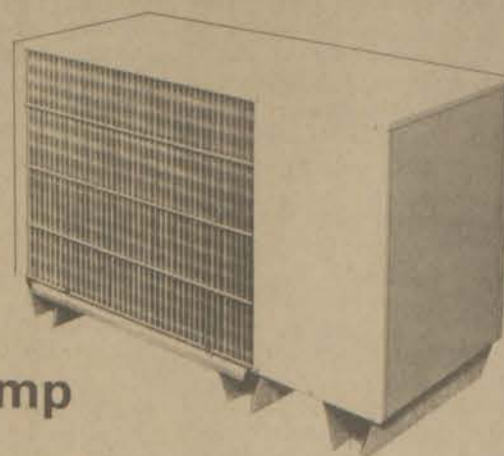

State Police Detective Kenneth Deboard, of Paintsville, said Gillium was also wanted in Texas for raping Mrs. Salmon, but Rainey said police there "feel there was no rape involved."

Gillium was lodged in the Hardin county, Texas, jail. Bond has been denied, and a "hold" has been placed on him for extradition to Kentucky.

"Authorities here want him real bad," Deboard said.

According to Deboard and Rainey, Dennis Gillium was in the Woodville area but left. He is being sought by law enforcement authorities there for Kentucky State Police, Deboard said.

Clues Missing after Blast At Knott Judge's Residence

County Judge-Executive Foster "Tubby" Calhoun, of Knott county, told The Times Saturday that investigation of the "bombing" of his automobile the morning of March 28 had uncovered no clues to the identity of those responsible for the blast.

The explosive, which apparently had been placed beneath the family car in a carport adjacent to the official's home at the mouth of Mill Creek, at Leburn, practically demolished the vehicle and damaged the home. Time of the blast, which showered Judge Calhoun's sleeping 15-year-old son with glass from a shattered window, was set at 1:50 a.m. "We had just gone to bed a few hours earlier after watching the UK game," Calhoun said.

The blast also damaged the roof of the carport and shattered the bay windows of his home at the mouth of Mill Creek.

"The community is very upset about this. In fact they are riled," Calhoun said. "We've never had anything like this here."

The type of explosive device used in the bombing was investigated by Kentucky State Police and the federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms.

Calhoun expressed mystification over the violence directed at him.

"As far as I've heard I never had an enemy in the world. I don't know what would make anybody do this. I've never had anything happen like this to me before. It's disturbed me and everybody here very much," he said. "I can't see malice like that."

Calhoun said he knew of no controversy connected with his official duties or any actions by the Knott fiscal court that would irritate someone enough to bomb his home.

"I would hate to think anyone is that mad at the court," he added.

"I've been in political battles before but they don't lead to this. There's no malice in that. And I don't think any people have that much against me," he said.

Calhoun beat the Knott County Democratic establishment almost a year ago, forcing incumbent Judge Sid Williams out of office, he explained.

"I don't think that the election had anything to do with this. It's been almost a year since it was over," he said.

The judge, as well as the other members of his family—his teenage daughter, wife and son—were sleeping at the time of the blast.

"My son had the window broken over where he was sleeping. But he wasn't hurt. All the rest of us hit the floor when it went off."

"Thankfully no one was injured, that's all I can say," Calhoun said.

Evidence picked up at the scene will determine what type of device was used in the explosion after tests are made at the State Police crime laboratory in Frankfort.

Senior Citizen News

Sunday April 9 from 1-4, Open House will be observed, and the public is invited. Refreshments and entertainment will be provided. Everyone is invited to attend.

The past week was greatly enjoyed at the senior citizens center at Archer Park. Jim Kelly from the Social Security office was guest speaker on Tuesday. Social workers from the University of Kentucky visited and interviewed several of our senior citizens, and Sister Jeanette from the Martin center visited and taught a class on macrame. G. P. Grigsby Center members along with their director, Dee Burchett, visited also.

A quilt is up and being quilted. The ladies are making macrame baskets and will be learning soon how to do hand bags which will be sold.

The G. A. group of the Irene Cole Baptist Church visited and Mrs. Evans, director, gave a short talk about the activities planned for the future and what the Senior Citizen Center is all about. The group was invited to Prestonsburg High for lunch and a tour of the school.

A covered-dish dinner was enjoyed by approximately 100 on Friday. Paintsville Center attended along with their director Audrey Pierce.

Sound Happenings

By COEY HARRIS

Music is exploding! Concerts, Rock, Country, Yeah!

CONCERTS: First of all, most important of all (yeah, yeah go ahead) the Bob Seger concert on April 29 at Lexington Rupp Arena has been confirmed by the ticket office. Tickets go on sale this week, so don't miss this red hot happening. April 7, Rupp Arena will be having Blue Oyster Cult fronted by "high-flying" Angel—heavy, you get! "A Rocky Mountain High" will be lifting Louisville on April 10 with John Denver—experience!

A concert last week on Friday, March 31, definitely lit a fire in Lexington with one of rock's hot areas, namely southern California sound, in the form of Jackson Browne. Up front, Karla Bonoff with a clear bell ringing voice did songs Linda Ronstadt popularized plus more of her own melodies. If you didn't catch her gentle, soft, and mystical contributions to the "Browne family" sound at the concert, latch on to her new album at your favorite record store. In talking with Jackson, he seemed a mellow laid back personality, but on stage, he was a dynamite package of energy and talent. His genius is the continuous rave of "Sound Happenings" (the nation seems to agree) so to avoid repetition, although not enough can be said, let's move on. (Missed previous articles? Shame on you! Grab a handful of Jackson Browne at the record retail and give it a listen). Browne with his voice and lyrics related to the packed arena, but his backup band, "The Section" with Rosemary Butler, Doug Haywood and Dave Lindley moved them. The female backup vocalist, Rosemary Butler, has a dynamic soprano voice that wooed the crowd and Doug Haywood blended with Browne for that complete sound. Both could break it wide open on their own. Dave Lindley, Browne's right hand man on the fiddle and lap steel, matched talents with Browne to gain equal respect and applause from the audience. The Section with Craig Doerge, Leland Sklar, Russ Kunkel, and Danny Kortchmar is a power-packed talented group. For you album cover readers, you probably know them as backup for James Taylor, Carole King, Crosby, Stills, Nash and Young as well as J.B. Each member stood out as equal talent—Craig Doerge "Jerry Lee Lewis-ing" it on piano and organ, Russ Kunkel, a wild pounding rhythmical drummer, Leland Sklar, a jumping moving bass man and Danny Kortchman, a burning guitarist. Catch their album, "For It Over" for a thorough display of this dynamic emerging talent.

ALBUM CHECK: Rock 'n roll it with Van Halen on his new album featuring the hit single "You Really Got Me." The music is hard and driving with the knockout vocals of David Roth. Gene Simmons, a name you Kiss fans should recognize, had a hand in the production to give you a little idea of the style. A blues and jazz double explosion comes on with Little Feat "Waitin' For Columbus" and the Dave Grisman Quintet. Little Feat come on with a heavy, blues-rock double live album you can't miss. The Dave Grisman Quintet will hit your head with sophisticated jazz arrangements of—get this—outcast bluegrass. The combined nimble use of mandolin, guitar, violin, and bass produce a distinct sound known as "dawg music." For a new lift, experience this album.

Country fans also are up for a double "country as cornbread" happening. Eddie Rabbitt comes out with a "hare-raising" (oh no!) album in a style only the Rabbitt can deliver. The hit single, "Hearts On Fire" is only a sample of the quality of the album. The Rabbitt's distinctive wooing voice will go down with you with love blues such as the beautiful "Kentucky Rain" (originally recorded by Elvis Presley but now Rabbitt records his song for himself) and drinking blues such as "Plain As the Pain On My Face." The Kendalls have also completed a second album, "Old Fashioned Love" featuring the hit single "It Don't Feel Like Sinning to Me." This release tops the first with ease. Straight from Nashville, Jeannie rolls out a song like never before. Potential here is outstanding as "Old Fashioned Love", the title cut, is expected to be released as a single that will skyrocket. No mixing or musical boundary crossing here—the Kendalls are strictly down home country.

LOCAL: The reaction was speechless and WOW! was the only sound that could be squeezed out of my excited mind after hearing the band, BLACKSMITH jam. This group of rock 'n rollers from Robinson Creek in the outreaches of Pike county have got a sound that will rock eastern Kentucky away. What do they play? Catch this spread—top 40, disco, and hard rock. How do they do it? With talent like John Hobson belting out a song, Mark Pleasant connecting a rhythm to a set of drums that will pound your mind, Jimmy Smallwood making a guitar speak four different languages, Greg Rice, a cool man on a bumping bass, and Rusty Polly tickling ivories for as complete a sound as you can ask for. These musicians get into their music and put out a sound that completely captures you. Am I excited about this group called Blacksmith? WOW! They have been together three months practicing in a small backroom and have already rocked Bristol, Tenn. when they hit there for a recording session. The group even do their own arrangements and have written a song of their own—comment on quality? watch our world! They begin with "Travelin' Man" (Seger) and jam down into "Beautiful Loser." Currently, they are working on "Ramblin' Gambler" (Seger) and going to jam down into "Heavy Music" (Seger). Like disco? Blacksmith's got it! How about Pablo Cruise, Alan Parsons Project, Atlanta Rhythm Section, Billy Joel, James Taylor? Blacksmith's got it!! Interested? Be glad to give you details at 478-9999 or 639-6046.

Some say, enough is enough, so I'd better split!

One weekend
Jim Murray burned some leaves, the trash, and most of the neighborhood.

The wind was brisk. The forest, dry. And Jim decided it was a perfectly beautiful day for clearing and burning trash and debris. The outcome? A tragic wildfire in neighboring woods.

Remember. Any form of unauthorized trash burning is illegal. And dangerous. Because it can rage out of control. Call your local forestry agent before burning debris. And protect that perfectly beautiful day for you, and others.

Wildfire. It's a crime against you.

Allen Officials Say Water Quality Good

A report to the effect that the water supply to homes at Allen is "pure mud" was refuted Tuesday by both Oliver Allen, principal of the Allen school, and Bill Parsons, manager of the City of Allen's water system.

Both said the water pressure has been low there and that school had been dismissed, a part of both Monday and Tuesday, for this reason, but not because of the quality of the water.

Mr. Parsons said work is being done on the city system lines. "What water we're getting now is through the Prestonsburg line."

The Prestonsburg water system was extended late last year to serve the New Allen-Dwale section.

Fourth-Graders Write To Quiz President

For the past week students in Miss Vicki Steele's English class at Prestonsburg Elementary School have been writing President Carter. The students, who have been working on a letter-writing unit, climaxed the unit by writing the President.

The students' letters dealt with such current events as the coal strike, the Panama Canal treaty and the conflict between Israel and Lebanon. On the personal side they wondered how it felt to be President of the United States, how had he changed, how Washington differed from Georgia and how being the President's daughter had changed Amy.

Fires Sweep Where Snows Lay On Hills only Few Weeks Ago

Burning of gardens and plant beds was pointed to as the major cause of a reported 28 forest and brush fires which swept over some 420 acres in the county over the week-end.

Incidence of fire in Floyd county between Friday and Monday was the worst in the eastern district of the state's Forestry Division which also includes Pike, Lawrence, Martin, Magoffin and Johnson counties, according to District Forester Arthur Leach. In the district as a whole, 61 fires burned a total of 1,655 acres and cost $5,782 to control, Leach said.

Snow and unseasonably cold temperatures had held forest fire activity to a minimum during the spring fire season which began March 1, Leach pointed out, but recent warm, dry weather combined with heavy burning and clearing activity by area residents resulted in the week-end blazes. Leach said although residents have generally observed a regulation which prohibits burning during the fire season (March 1-May 15) until after 4:30 p.m., "they're not taking adequate precautions during the clearing activity." He explained that persons burning gardens, for instance, often fail to clear a ring around the area to be burned, "and almost never have adequate tools for controlling a fire, once it spreads." He said forestry officials had collected suppression costs from 12 land-owners.

Leach also pointed out that several fires over the week-end had been started by trail bikes, which, when improperly muffed, can throw off sparks. Law requires a special spark arrestor on exhausts for all off-road vehicles, Leach explained, but he said the regulation is not properly enforced.

Tom Blackburn, Prestonsburg fire chief, reported that the first department responded to five calls in the Prestonsburg vicinity where woodland or brush fires presented a threat to homes and other structures. Three runs were made to the Goble-Roberts Addition area, one to Trimble Branch, and another on the hillside behind Thompson's IGA. In addition, Blackburn reported, several calls were received from the Abbott Creek area.

Townley Bergmann, resource education chief for the state Division of Forestry, said the division has lined up forest rangers to keep a close watch on timberland throughout the state. He also said adequate radio equipment is being installed in each forestry district to provide sufficient communication between rangers and extra firefighters who are being hired during the spring months.

PSC Refuses Protest Of Melvin Gas Firm

The Public Service Commission announced last week that it had dismissed the complaint of the Mike Little Gas Co., of Melvin, which protested its November, 1977 order lowering the rate the company may charge customers for natural gas.

The order entered March 23 dismissing the company complaint confirms the November order setting the rate at $3.5752 for the first 2,000 cubic feet of gas used instead of $3.5752 per 1,000 cubic feet for the first 2,000 used.

The PSC order requires the company to refund to its customers all monies collected in excess of the amount authorized by the November 23, 1977 order.

The initial PSC order in the rate case was made last Sept. 1.

Ky. Power Lifts Curtailment Request

With the settlement of the 110-day coal strike and resumption of coal production, Waldo S. La Fon, executive vice president of Kentucky Power Company, said today that the utility was lifting its request that its electric power customers voluntarily curtail their usage of electricity.

"While we encourage prudent use of electricity at all times, we are today rescinding our calls, made earlier in the strike, for 25 percent voluntary cutbacks in usage," La Fon said.

Pointing out that a number of the power plants on the American Electric Power System, of which Kentucky Power is a part, are located adjacent to coal mines, La Fon said that coal stocks at those plants should start building up at a solid rate within the next few days as will deliveries elsewhere on the AEP System "within a week or so."

The System's coal supply at the start of the strike on December 6 was at the 105-day level, based on normal usage. When the strike was settled last Friday, the supply was down to about 39 days.

"In recent weeks," he explained, "we were able to keep our supply of coal fairly constant, at about 39-40 days, thanks to a number of factors—one of the most important of which was voluntary conservation by our customers."

"We are grateful to our customers, large and small, for their conservation efforts, as well as for their patience and understanding, over the period of this unfortunate strike. And we are grateful, as well, that the economy can get moving again."

Lyon Frasure with "Scuffs," overall winner in Saturday's canine competition.

No neighborhood dog show could be complete without the traditional Kool-Aid-pop stand. Manning the refreshment stand at the dog show were Jonna Hill (left) and Jerry Sword.

Ribbons, trophies and cash prizes were awarded to the top dogs in four categories Saturday at Prestonsburg's first official display of local canine integrity.

Fourteen canines, from Afghan hound to several entrants of uncertain ancestry, were paraded (and, in more than one case, dragged) before the judges' bench to be judged on carriage and general appearance as a large number of local dog fanciers, who gathered for the show held on the lawn of the Robert R. Allen residence here, pulled for their favorite hound.

These same dogs were begged, prodded and cajoled by their owners to display their cleverness and dexterity in the "tricks" and "obedience" categories of competition, and, after a period of consultation by judges Thelma Pruitt, Mary Scutchfield and Sarah Buchanan, the winners were announced. The winning dogs, with owners, are listed as follows:

BEST OVERALL—"Scuffs," owned by Lyon Frasure.

OBEDIENCE—(First place) "Scuffs," Lyon Frasure; (second place) "Sugar," Laura Hereford; (third place) "Taffy," Diana Johnson.

TRICKS—(First place) "Scuffs"; (second place) "Taffy"; (third place) "Sugar."

PRETTIEST—(First place) "Sheba," Brent Akers; (second place) "Sam," Billy Sizemore; (third place) "Princess," Rachael Allen.

Winner of the April Fool category was "Stray," an animal of undetermined breed owned by David Hereford.

Proceeds from the dog show are being donated to a local "Save the Animals" club. Master of ceremonies for the occasion was young Sam Huffman.

Weddington-Tucker Vows Solemnized Here

Miss Mari Lynn Weddington and Mr. Andrew James Francis Tucker were united in marriage at the Community United Methodist Church, Prestonsburg, on Saturday, March 11, at 6:30 p.m. The candlelight, double-ring ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. Taylor Biggs.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph David Weddington, of Prestonsburg, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Tucker, of Cobham, Surrey, England, and Canberra, Australia.

The church was decorated with Easter lilies around the altar, and spiral candelabra intertwined with greenery were on either side. A cathedral-styled candelabrum bearing lighted tapers was in the background.

Preceding the ceremony, a program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Chalmer Frazier, organist. Vocal selections were presented by Miss Elizabeth Lynn Frazier. These included "My Heart Ever Faithful", "Ave Maria", and "The Greatest of These Is Love". Holy Communion was served to the bridal pair.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a designer gown of ivory peau-de-soie and a full-length veil of silk illusion held in place by a band of roses. An elbow-length capelet of crystal and pearl re-embroidered Alencon lace was worn over a beaded bodice. A wide band of lace and beaded English net ran along the hem of the chapel-length train. The bride carried a colonial bouquet of white roses, stephanotis, babies' breath and greenery. She wore a single strand of pearls and earrings given to her by her father.

Miss Lynda Weddington, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a lavender silk chiffon gown with an elbow-length capelet of sheer chiffon and a silk flower in her hair. The other bridal attendants, Mrs. William Paul Fairchild, Miss Cynthia Claire Bott, and Mrs. Derek D. Hicks, all of Lexington, wore ensembles identical to that of the maid of honor and carried nosegays of purple chrysanthemums, stephanotis, carnations, statice and babies' breath. Each attendant wore celdon jade earrings, given them by the bride.

Miss Lynon Frazier, flower girl, wore a floor-length gown of ivory organza and satin with a lavender ribbon sash, and carried a streamer-trimmed basket of petals. She wore a heart-shaped locket and silk roses in her hair, gifts from the bride.

Best man was Mr. Richard Nathan, of London, England. Ushers and taper lighters were William Paul Fairchild, Ernest Warren Hall, Wm. H. Weddington, Robert Todd Weddington, cousins of the bride, and Joseph David Weddington, Jr., the bride's brother.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Weddington chose a floor-length designer gown of red and lavender floral print silk chiffon. A lavender orchid was pinned at the waist of the gown. Mrs. Bart Copley, maternal grandmother of the bride, wore a street-length navy ensemble and a corsage of white carnations. Mrs. Wm. Harry Weddington, paternal grandmother of the bride, wore a street-length ensemble of mint green and a corsage of white carnations.

Following the ceremony, a buffet and champagne reception was held at May Lodge. Assisting at the reception of their niece were Mrs. Charles D. Hall, Miss Flo Weddington, Mrs. W. H. Weddington, Jr., Louisville, and Mrs. Herbert Weddington, Frankfort, Mrs. H. D. Fitzpatrick, Jr., Mrs. Clifford Bevins and Miss Marilyn Marsh, of New York, Clifford Bevins and Frank Fitzpatrick, also assisted. Mrs. Wm. C. Cross, Miss Lea Davis, of Midway, and Miss Cheryl Alderdice, of Annapolis, Maryland, attended the guest register. Favors were presented to the guests by Todd Johnson and Joseph David Weddington, Jr.

Former Gov. A. B. Chandler, of Versailles, sang a selection of traditional music at the reception and was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Edith F. James.

Mrs. Tucker received her degree in Fashion and Art History from Stephens College, Columbia, Missouri. She completed additional study at St. Peters College, Oxford, England, and is now employed by Vera Maxwell, fashion designer, in New York.

Mr. Tucker received his degree in modern languages from Trinity College, Oxford, England. After completing a graduate development program with Barclay's Bank International, Ltd., he is now associated with Brown Brothers, Harriman and Company, a private investment bank, Wall Street, New York. The couple will reside in New York.

WEDDING GIFTS STOLEN
Wedding gifts belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Tucker were stolen from a van when drivers of the truck stopped to spend the night in Newark, New Jersey. All gifts received the day of the wedding and at the reception were among those taken. Mrs. Tucker, the former Lynn Weddington, regrets that she had not yet made a listing of the gifts and is now unable to thank each one for them.

OUTDOOR LORE

by Nevyle Shackelford
UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY • COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE

According to botanists, the origin of the name "jonquil," the first of our domesticated flowers to bloom in the spring, comes from the Latin, "juncus," which means "rush."

This, no doubt, is correct, but my grandmother, who long ago loved and had her front walk lined with "johnnyquills," had a different tale.

As she told it, during medieval times in southern France there appeared each spring a wandering minstrel known as Jongleur, who delighted the people with merry songs and lively music played on a simple, trumpet-like instrument called a quill. Jongleur's sunny face and gentle ways endeared him to old and young alike, and his sprightly music made them briefly forget the adversities that often beset them during this harsh and austere period of history.

One spring when he arrived, the people noticed that their sweet singer who had brought them so much pleasure was somehow different. His music and the words of his songs were as gay and lively as ever, but they also noticed with some concern that his always smiling face was now sometimes somber and touched with sadness.

He did not linger quite as long in their villages and upon his departure from each place, he presented them with tiny white bulbs such as they had never seen before, with the request that when autumn came to plant them in the ground. The villagers complied with his request.

The next spring Jongleur did not show up at his appointed time. When the villagers went out to look for him, he could not be found. Instead, they were greeted by the bright faces of hundreds of yellow, trumpet-shaped flowers that seemed to be blooming everywhere across the burgeoning landscape. Then they understood the reason for his sadness of the spring before and knew he would never come again. So in honor of their wonderful musician and friend, and because the flowers reminded them of his quill, they named the flower, Jon's quill, or Jonquil.

Asked if she really believed the story told so many times to her grandchildren, my grandmother answered that she certainly did, adding that any child that was good to little animals, studied his lessons, minded his parents, and behaved generally, could know also that the story was true. Such a child had only to hold a jonquil to his ear and hear for himself the merry tunes of Jongleur, the lost minstrel. Unfortunately, I was never able to reach such a point of behavioral perfection.

Kentucky Afield

By JOHN WILSON
With some of the year's best fishing just around the corner, now is a good time to review Kentucky's fishing regulations.

There is only one major change this year, but it is a significant one. The size limit on black bass has been raised from 10 inches to 12 inches (30.5 centimeters). Although this change has been in effect since Jan. 1, 1978, few anglers have been on the water this year and might not be aware of this change.

The 12-inch limit applies to all black bass—largemouth bass, smallmouth bass and Kentucky (or spotted) bass. Fish may be measured from the longest jaw to the longest tail fin. Bass under 12 inches must be returned to the water immediately and in the best possible condition.

Even fish which are deeply hooked or otherwise injured must be returned to the water. Although this practice might seem wasteful, it is necessary because of the few unscrupulous anglers who would see it as a loophole to use to their advantage.

Kentucky's fisheries biologists feel that this increased size limit is one of the most effective management tools now available for improving quality of bass fishing around the commonwealth.

The daily limit on black bass remains 10 daily with 20 in possession after more days of fishing.

There are only three other fish on which size limits are imposed: muskellunge, 30 inches (5 daily and 10 in possession); walleye, 15 inches (10 daily and 20 in possession) and rockfish, 15 inches (5 daily and 5 in possession).

Fish with daily and possession limits, but no size limits, are: rock bass (15 daily and 30 in possession); sauger (10 and 20); northern pike (5 and 10); chain pickerel (5 and 10); white bass and/or yellow bass (60 and 60); trout (8 and 8) and crappie (60 and 60). There are neither size nor creel limits on other fish.

Also remember that if you haven't purchased your 1978 fishing license yet, you'll need to get one before hitting the water. Licenses are required of all anglers 16 years old or older, except resident landowners, tenants and their immediate families fishing on lands they own or on which they live. Kentucky residents age 65 or older may fish without a license by carrying a card (which can be obtained free of charge from any county court clerk's office) attesting to their age and residence, but all non-residents 16 years old or older must have the appropriate license.

Licenses are available at all county court clerk's offices and at many sporting goods stores, hardware stores, docks or bait shops. Ask for a copy of the Kentucky 1978 Fishing Digest where you buy your license, or write the Division of Public Relations, Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, Frankfort, Ky. 40601 for a copy of this pocket sized guide to fishing regulations.

Midwest Governors To Meet in Lexington

Some 500 participants are expected to attend the Midwestern Governor's Conference in Lexington, July 12-15, including the 15 governors in the conference. Gov. Julian M. Carroll will be host governor for the annual meeting at the Lexington Hyatt Regency.

In a news conference today, Lexington Mayor James G. Amato and Kentucky Commerce Commissioner W. Terry McBrayer stressed the importance of hosting the conference in Kentucky. "Recent annual meetings of the Midwestern Governor's Conference have generated in excess of one million dollars for the host city," McBrayer said. "The economic impact of this event is indeed significant and very much in line with our continuing efforts to bring economic development to our major cities."

A primary focus on the annual meeting will be the broad theme of rural development, including agriculture, small community development and rural transportation. Energy concerns will be a secondary focus. The national energy plan and the impact and implementation of new policies on the states will continue to receive the chief executive's attention. Health care will also be a major topic.

"We are very pleased and determined that the conference will blend the hospitality and great setting of the Bluegrass region of central Kentucky and vitality of downtown Lexington with the substantive program that will focus the attention of the governors on the major issues," Amato said.

Vice President Walter Mondale, U.S. transportation Secretary Brock Adams, U.S. energy Secretary James Schlesinger and Rep. John Breckinridge of Kentucky, will also be invited to participate in the conference.

Assistance Available

For Ky. Arts Groups

Arts organizations in the state may be eligible for assistance from the Kentucky Arts Commission in establishing permanent administrative positions for their groups.

According to Marvin Weaver, assistance director of the arts commission, the purpose of the salary assistance program is to serve as a systematic program for personnel development. The program, which gives initial assistance in creating full-time permanent positions in local arts organizations, is designed to be supported totally by the group in the fourth year of participation.

The guidelines have been revised to include a preliminary deadline of April 1. The purpose of the deadline is to encourage applicants to send a detailed description of the position along with a statement of need for the salary assistance to the commission. The deadline for the final formal application is May 1. The arts commission will arrange an interview with the applicant organization during the month preceding the May deadline.

Any organization that considers applying for salary assistance, said Weaver, should develop a long-range plan that outlines specific objectives and anticipates the operating funds required to support its programs and to provide necessary staff, facilities and supplies.

The organization must show it can provide partial salary for the position, whether it is new or expanded. If a part-time position is expanded to full time, the commission will consider funding the expanded time. An organization receiving a grant must pay one-third of the salary the first year, one-half the second year, and two-thirds the third year.

Any interested organization should contact the Kentucky Arts Commission, 100 West Main Street, Frankfort, Ky. 40601, or call (502) 564-3757.

CANCER Answerline
American Cancer Society

(A regular feature, prepared by the American Cancer Society, to help save your life from cancer.)

An engineer asks: "Is it true that after surgery for cancer of the larynx, patients are unable to speak and have to use electronic devices to communicate?"

ANSWER line: Fortunately the answer to that question is no. After laryngectomy, an operation in which the larynx or voice box is removed, approximately 65 per cent of patients eventually learn a new method of speaking. Called esophageal speech, this method forces the walls of the esophagus and pharynx to vibrate which creates a low-pitched voice. Another 15 per cent of patients are able to use a combination of esophageal speech and an electronic device. Only 15 per cent of laryngectomees are totally dependent on artificial devices and for 5 per cent, no information is available. The International Association of Laryngectomees is an organization sponsored by the American Cancer Society made up of some 260 new voice clubs. Through their members, the laryngectomee is given encouragement and help in perfecting his or her ability to speak.

A highway worker explains: "I have a small lump in the nipple area of my chest. My wife says that I should see a doctor, but I told her that men never get breast cancer. Am I right?"

ANSWER line: No. Breast cancer does occur in men even though it is extremely rare. Of the estimated 90,000 new cases of breast cancer in this country in 1978 only 700 will occur in men. This means that while it is unlikely the lump that you have discovered could signal the presence of cancer, it is important for you to have it examined by a physician as soon as possible. Surveys have shown that because men are unaware of the possibility of breast cancer in themselves, they are apt to delay medical attention. The earlier the disease is diagnosed and treated, the better the chance of cure for both men and women.

A law student asks: "Can you give me examples of what occupations may influence whether or not one gets cancer?"

ANSWER line: Occupational hazards associated with cancer are a source of concern and study. Rubber and aniline dye workers, for example are known to develop more bladder cancers than other workers. Woodworkers and nickle miners develop more sinus cancer. Uranium, asbestos workers and roofers have more lung cancer and vinyl chloride workers, more liver cancer. People who work with X-rays also have a risk. As these various occupational problems are identified, safeguards are essential to alert and protect workers.

Backyard Gardens As Good as Any

If you haven't grown a garden in your backyard because you think the soil is too poor, don't let that stop you any more.

Your vegetables will be as nutritious and delicious as if you grew them in the finest garden soil around. They just won't be as big.

"If you plant a bean you'll get a bean's worth of nutrition," says John Sparks County Extension Agent for Agriculture. "If a crop will grow at all, it will be nutritionally adequate."

He adds that the carbohydrates, protein, fat and vitamins will vary with the maturity of those vegetables when you harvest them. The nutritional quality will vary with the varieties you plant.

You can build up a better soil in your backyard year after year by adding such things as leaves, grass-clippings for mulch, organic wastes from your kitchen and commercial fertilizer, he explains.

Beginning gardeners as well as old-timers can get lots of help from the Floyd County Extension Office, including a copy of the new home-gardening tabloid written by horticulturists and other specialists at the UK College of Agriculture.

"It tells what varieties to plant, when to plant them, and about everything else you could possibly want to know. Come on in and get your free copy."

The Floyd County Extension Office is located at the New Courthouse Annex. Our telephone number is 886-2668.

EXPLANATION

The Times has been asked to explain that the Larry Prater who was booked last week for drunk driving and no operator's license is not the Larry Prater who is employed by the First National Bank and who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Conard Prater, of the Abbott road.

By LARRY BURKE.

Someone has said that there are five foods which are essential in a person's growth. They are love, learning, beauty, service and suffering. Without these foods the soul does not grow.

Given hunger—the soul grows in an experience of love. We are nourished when one hungers for learning, studies, seeks mastery of a subject. Beauty comes only when we strive to appreciate or create the beautiful.

Suffering as food may seem to us hard experiences, but have you not noticed that men intent upon spiritual achievement have grown more surely and rapidly when suffering was their lot, rather than when life moved along like a song.

OUR THOUGHT TO REMEMBER: No high or higher stage in life is reached without devotion.

KET To Join Satellite System Sat., April 15

KET viewers will begin to see the benefits of the world's most advanced communications technology on April 15 when the network joins public television's new domestic communications satellite program distribution system. The system, which will eventually link all public television stations in the United States, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands, will offer KET viewers a wider choice of programming at a reduced cost and with first rate technology.

Through the new satellite distribution system KET will be receiving programs from the Public Broadcasting Service (PBS) in Washington in greater variety and volume than is now possible. The Kentucky Network's link with the system will be its new satellite receiving dish located on the network property in Lexington. The dish will be able to receive simultaneously any two of four programs beamed from the Westar 1 satellite which orbits 22,000 miles above the equator.

Darrell Burton, KET's assistant director of engineering for studios, says that by April 15 the satellite receiving dish which will link The Kentucky Network to the program distribution system will have undergone 30 days of extensive functional testing. Says Burton, "Since we will have observed the transmissions for four weeks, hopefully there will be no problems when we switch to the satellite system. Our viewers should be able to notice improved sound quality because the network audio feed will be greatly improved."

The satellite system will replace the present method of distributing public television programs over telephone company lines and microwave links. The satellite system will be more effective because more programs will be received in a shorter length of time and maintenance costs will be less expensive.

Obituaries

Martin Hall

Martin Hall, 52, of Martin, whose body was found in front of a church near Hite at 1 a.m. Sunday by State Troopers John Sizemore and Terry Hall, did not die as a result of foul play, a pathologist at King's Daughters' Hospital, Ashland, told Coroner James J. Carter Monday after performing an autopsy.

Carter was told Hall apparently strangled from his own body fluids and that the autopsy showed a high alcohol blood content.

The coroner ordered the autopsy because an abrasion on the victim's forehead indicated he might have been struck.

Hall was a native of this county and was the son of the late Bill and Laura Sherman Hall. His survivors include his widow, Mrs. Sarah Kathryn Osborn Hall; six sons, Cainer Hall, of Martin, Gary, Tommy, Phillip David, and Billy Joe Hall, all at home, Larry Hall, of Kendallville, Ind.; two daughters, Mrs. Patsy Rose, of Garrett, and Mrs. Georgia Faye Conn, of Martin. Four grandchildren also survive.

Funeral services will be conducted at 11 a.m. today (Wednesday) at the Faith Bible Church at Martin by the Rev. Bob Martin. Burial will be made in the Martin cemetery under direction of Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

'Cancer Update' Meets at Parks Are Announced

Physicians throughout the state will soon be learning about cancer from the casual, informal setting of a Kentucky state park, according to an announcement made this week by the American Cancer Society's Kentucky Division.

Dr. Laman A. Gray, Sr., of Louisville, chairman of the Society's Professional Education Committee, said "The purpose of holding the cancer education programs at state parks is to remove the family doctor from his usual hectic lifestyle and to put him in a relaxing atmosphere where he can concentrate fully on learning about cancer."

Dr. Gray said a group of outstanding medical speakers has been lined up for the "Cancer Update in the Parks" series. Each of the five programs meets the criteria for four credit hours in Category I of the Physicians Recognition Award of the American Medical Association. Advance registration is requested at least one week prior to each program.

"The Cancer Update in the Parks" schedule follows:

April 8, Barren River State Park; April 22, Kenlake State Park; May 20, General Butler State Park; June 3, Carter Caves State Park; June 24, Jenny Wiley State Park.

Members of the Medical Community wishing to register should contact the American Cancer Society in Louisville, at 502-459-1867.

"Good evening, sir. Would you like to do your part in conserving energy?"

Pepper Sauce Helps, Doctor Says

Eat garlic to cure a cold? Gargle with hot pepper sauce to treat bronchitis? Sound ridiculous?

The answer may be "yes" on all counts. But, according to Dr. Irwin Ziment—associate chief of medicine at the San Fernando Valley Medical Program at UCLA—hot, spicy foods are proving helpful to patients with lung disease. Dr. Ziment presented his views at a recent seminar sponsored by the American Lung Association of Louisiana.

Eating garlic and onions, says Dr. Ziment, can help prevent as well as cure a cold. And, he says, "if perchance such hot, spicy food isn't equally good for your ulcer, then all you have to do is sprinkle 20 drops of tabasco sauce into a glass of water, use it as a gargle, and your bronchitis will improve."

Dr. Ziment said people who eat bland, non-spicy food seem to have more trouble with their bronchitis than those who eat spicy food. Exactly why this might be true is not clear. But eating horseradish and hot spicy foods may trigger an overproduction of mucus in the stomach and also in the respiratory system. The outpouring of fluid, which is thin mucus rather than thick, may help clear breathing passages. Before trying spicy remedies, however, lung disease patients should consult their own physicians about the best treatment for their own conditions.

Preventing bronchitis and other lung diseases is a lot easier than treating them. And since cigarette smoking is the major cause of chronic bronchitis and other long-term diseases, quitting smoking is the best way to avoid lung trouble.

To find out more about the causes and cures of lung diseases, contact your Kentucky-Louisville Lung Association—the "Christmas Seal" people. They care about every breath you take.

HIGH-FLYING HOUSEKEEPING

High-flying housekeeping took place recently when a helicopter lifted a 30 x 30 foot collar and placed it around the peak of the Jefferson Davis Monument in Fairview. Workmen will anchor their scaffolds to the collar so they can clean and repair the 53-year-old obelisk.

The first lift of the collar was aborted because the aircraft couldn't handle the 3,800 pound cargo due to dry atmospheric conditions. But a second attempt was successful.

The monument in Western Kentucky is a tribute to the only confederate president, a native of Fairview. It towers 351 feet above a serene Kentucky countryside and is the fourth highest monument in the United States.

Lady, Take Care

By JAY HENSLEY

A woman alone in her car can't be too careful! Heeding a long list of precautions can head off theft or assault when you're driving, parking your car, having trouble on the road, and arriving back home again.

Following are tips from home management specialists with the UK College of Agriculture Cooperative Extension Service:

On The Road

—Travel on well-lit, busy streets when possible. Keep your car doors locked.

—Keep your windows rolled up, high enough so that nobody could put an arm or hand through the opening.

—Keep your car in gear at stop-lights and stop-signs in questionable neighborhoods—be ready for a quick take-off. If someone threatens your safety, hit that horn and hold it down! Drive off as soon as possible, even if it means disobeying a traffic signal.

—Maintain your car in good mechanical condition to head off breakdowns on the road.

—Check your fuel level and tires before each trip. Refill your fuel tank when it is down to the one-quarter mark and don't take a chance by keeping tires past their good-tread and safe-use stage.

—Don't leave your handbag out on the car seat. Tuck it out of sight, where it won't tempt a thief.

When You Park

—Park only in a well-lit area close to your destination.

—Lock your car. Don't identify your keys with your name and address. Have several spares in case you lose one set of keys.

—Don't keep credit cards, identification cards, receipts, or your car's registration papers in your car. You could be traced to your home that way.

—Don't leave shopping packages or other valuables out on the car seat. Lock them in the trunk before you stop to park.

—Don't leave your car parked for long periods at railroad or airport parking lots. Your license plates might be traced to the unoccupied house you left behind.

—Always look into the back seat before getting into your car again.

Car Trouble

—If you have a flat tire or your car is otherwise disabled, pull off the pavement and onto the shoulder if you can.

—Set out reflective markers or flares to warn other motorists if your car is disabled at night. Keep a flashlight in your car, just in case.

—Raise the hood and sit inside car with doors locked until help arrives. Leave window up high enough for safety when you talk to someone who comes. It is usually better to stay in your car and wait, rather than go off with a stranger to find help.

—When you're traveling alone, it's safer not to stop to help other motorists. But if you do, keep doors locked and window up. Get instructions for sending help, and drive on.

When You Get Home

—If possible, leave on lights at your garage and front-door entrances to welcome you home. Light is a friend to a woman alone.

—Leave headlights on until the garage is open and the car is parked.

—Keep keys in hand. Quickly lock car, relock garage, unlock door to house.

—If you think you're being followed, don't drive directly home. Stop at a well-lit service station, police station, fire station, food market or other place of business that's still open.

—If this isn't possible, pull to the curb where people are about, and let the car pass you. Take down the license number, noting other things about the car and its occupant(s), too. Report it to the police.

—If a car follows you to your driveway at night, stay in the car, doors locked and windows up. If necessary, sound the horn. This may scare the person away or bring out a neighbor or someone from your own house.

And More...

—Never pick up hitch-hikers.

—Don't pull over if another car tries to force you to the side of the road. If you can, write down the license number, a description of the car and who's in it. Report what happened, and where, to the police.

—If you are held up in your car, do what the person says. Don't offer resistance unless you are actually assaulted. Look at the intruder carefully so that you can give an accurate description to the police.

—Fight like a tiger if you have to! Fight with any weapon at hand, aim for vital spots, and make it hurt.

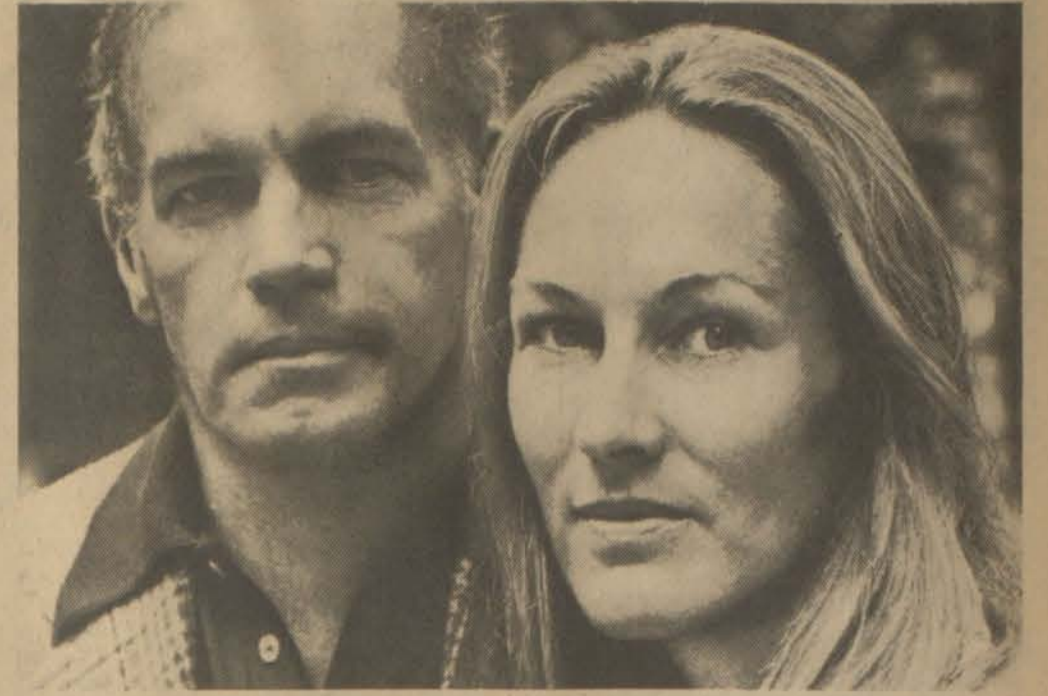

Contact the home economics agent in your local Cooperative Extension Service office for more information on ways to safeguard yourself, your family and your property.

"IGNORANCE IS CRAZY."

Carroll O'Connor
"I've never had cancer. But I'd be crazy to ignore it. I know many cancers can be cured if they're detected early. But you've got to know the warning signals. Change in bowel or bladder habits. A sore that does not heal. Unusual bleeding or discharge. Thickening or lump in breast or elsewhere. Indigestion or difficulty in swallowing. Obvious change in wart or mole. Nagging cough or hoarseness."
"If one of them appears, see your doctor right away. The odds are you don't have cancer. But only your doctor can tell you that for sure."

IF YOU'VE HEARD THIS BEFORE, WHY HAVEN'T YOU DONE IT?

Once a year, even if you're feeling terrific, see your doctor for a checkup. A checkup can detect cancer before any signs or symptoms appear. And early enough for your doctor to do something about it.

For adults, a complete physical checkup from head to toe should include a procto. And for women, a Pap test for detecting cancer of the cervix.

If there's something wrong, your doctor can find it. If nothing is wrong—great.

Don't be afraid. Cancer is one of the most curable of the major diseases in the U.S. today. But it must be caught early.

Get a checkup today. Even if you never felt better. It's what you don't know that can hurt you.

Book Fair Slated At School Here

The Prestonsburg Elementary School P.T.A. will sponsor a book fair from Monday, April 10, to Friday, April 14, during school hours. Books will be on display in the school library, and will be arranged according to reading levels.

The book fair display will include new books from many publishers in all popular price ranges. All reading interests will be represented, including classics, fiction, biographies, adventure stories, science, nature, crafts, mystery, and reference books.

The book fair committee invites all students, parents, and visitors to attend. The fair is intended, it was explained, to encourage student interest in reading and in building home libraries, and also contribute to a worthwhile project.

Profits from this year's book fair will go toward the purchase of outdoor water fountains to be placed on the school playground.

DOES THE LOCHNESS monster have a Yankee cousin? According to the April Reader's Digest, Lake Champlain may have a monster too.

Weightlifter of the Week

Terry Click is a 6-1, 205 pounder who played tackle on the Cats freshman team last year. The Cats' coaching staff believe that Click has a great deal of potential and that he could be a big help to them next year. Weight coach Bob Stetson said Click has been working good on the weights the past 3-4 weeks and that he is "about to get his head on right." He said, "Terry really needs to concentrate on his upper body strength and his quickness. He's been gaining strength steadily and now it's just a matter of keeping after it."

Another Blackcat freshman, 5-9, 200-pound Alan Frasure, has also been putting in the time in "the factory." Coach Stetson said, "Alan's been working steadily and he is coming right along. Besides continuing to increase his strength, he needs to begin working on his speed and quickness." The Cats' coaches also feel Frasure has great potential and have high hopes for him as a Blackcat gridder.

Tim Howard, a 6-2, 250-pound junior, is a newcomer to the Cats' program, but seems very determined to play. Coach Stetson said, "Tim has been working hard. He already has good strength and is getting stronger. He really needs to work on his speed and quickness." Howard is also working to take off some weight to help these facets along. Coach Stetson added, "He's already taken off some and when he gets down to 225 or 230, he could be a big asset for the team next year."

Assistant coach Ron Robinson seemed pleased about the number of eighth-graders who have turned out already and hopes more will soon get started. He said, "This is definitely the time for them to get started. The weight training and conditioning process is a gradual one and these boys will definitely be a jump ahead." He went on, "The main thing is to stay with it. We've had two or three who started earlier, but have slacked off, and if they wait until August to start conditioning, it won't be easy. It's a big jump from the eighth grade to the big time and the conditioning part is usually the hardest thing to get young players to understand. However, for those who stay with it and gradually begin to learn some of the things we do, why we do them, and to get to know the coaches and some of the older players, this big transition from the eighth grade to high school is made much easier."

Jail Terms, Policy For 'Repeat' Cases

When he sentenced Omar Hall, of the Mud Creek section to 10 days in jail Monday for drunk driving, District Judge Harold J. Stumbo said he was putting into effect a policy to which he had been committed from the start of his term of office—to crack down on "repeater" drunk drivers.

Hall was convicted in January and fined $100, the usual fine for first-offense tipsy driving, and Judge Stumbo said he told him then that if he was back in court again on that charge it would be jail for him.

So the second penalty was the $100 fine again, plus the stay in jail.

Stumbo said this week that he is requiring all persons convicted of illegal possession or sale of alcoholic beverages to execute $500 peace bond.

Collection of the bond if the defendant violates it, he said, is the responsibility of the county attorney.

ARTHRITIS COSTS our nation more than $9 billion per year through absenteeism, lost wages, loss of revenue from taxes, drain on welfare rolls, medical care bills, and other expenditures, according to the Arthritis Foundation.

Win Second Place in Tourney

The Eaglettes of Allen Elementary School were the runners-up in the recently completed Floyd County Grade School tournament.

In reaching second place they defeated Harold, 28-27, on a last-second shot in overtime, and Wayland, 29-26, after overcoming a 12-point deficit. Both games were considered upsets. They lost in the finals, 34-22, to Stumbo—a team which had defeated them soundly twice previously.

On the season they were winners of the Clark Invitational, runners-up in the Prestonsburg Invitational and runners-up in the Section 4 playoffs. The team, from left, is composed of Paula Spencer, Sandy Bevins, Tracie Fields, Janet Conley, Brenda Stapleton, Belinda Clifton, Donna Merritt, Millie Tackett, Alicia Mullins, Sheila Campbell, Caryn Rice, Christina Compton, Jimmy D. Gray, coach.

Health Group Views Projects

The Project Review Committee of the Big Sandy Health Council met at the health planning office Tuesday to consider proposed project review standards. The committee also reviewed the following certificates of need and grant applications:

Salyersville Health Care Center, Inc., 21-bed patient care facility, $2,485,000. Hallmark Nursing Home, Inc., Salyersville, 21-bed patient care facility (resubmission), $2,438,000.

Chapman's Ambulance Service, Stone. Gilbert's Emergency Ambulance Service, South Williamson, Ky.

Martiki Coal Corporation, special purpose ambulance service, Martin county.

MCCC, continuation funding of alcohol program, $65,315.

The first two applications are competing for the only long-term care (nursing home) beds available in Magoffin county.

The Big Sandy Health Council will also review these projects tomorrow (Thursday) at a 7:30 p.m. meeting at the Plantation Motel.

MORE THAN TWENTY million Americans suffer from some form of arthritis serious enough to require medical care. That includes the people right here in Kentucky, reports the Arthritis Foundation.

Carroll Vetoes Juvenile Bill

With "very much regret," Gov. Julian Carroll vetoed a bill that would have allowed some 14-year-olds to be tried as adults.

The loss of about $2.3 million a year in federal funding through the Department for Human Resources, not opposition to the law, forced the veto, Carroll said.

The veto touched off a heated exchange between Human Resources Secretary Peter Conn, who recommended the veto, and Sen. Michael Moloney, D-Lexington, the bill's sponsor.

Carroll apparently is in the middle; sympathizing with the bill's intent but unable to accept the $2.3 million loss in federal dollars.

In a prepared statement, Carroll said, "This veto is strictly a matter of money. It should by no means reflect on the content of the bill nor on its sponsor."

"If this legislation could be put on the law books with a manageable loss of federal funds, I would not hesitate to sign it. The state budget cannot stand a loss of up to $5 million, however," he said, referring to the amount of federal money that could be lost over the two-year period covered by the budget.

Carroll criticized the federal bureaucracy, saying, "I strongly resent this further example of how (it) dictates how the states can deal with their problems and handle their own affairs."

Moloney had some criticism of his own, leveling a blast at the Department for Human Resources.

He accused Human Resources officials of lying to him and misleading the governor about the measures effect.

Senate Bill 143 would have required that youthful offenders, aged 14 and over, be tried as adults when charged with capital or other serious crimes.

The bill would have also required the Human Resources Department to build special facilities by 1980 to house those youthful offenders.

Moloney said he had amended the bill several times after it was introduced in an effort to satisfy department officials.

Conn finally said he was satisfied after the bill was amended to change the date for completing the new juvenile facilities until the next budget year, Moloney said.

"I am not surprised at anything the Department for Human Resources says," Moloney continued.

A letter to Conn from a federal official in Atlanta precipitated matters. It stated that the Department of Health, Education and Welfare would cut off $2.3 million in Title XX funds used in juvenile corrections programs. But Moloney said the letter is based on false information.

The letter was written by Edwin Schulz, HEW's acting regional program director for the Office of Human Development Services. Schulz stated that no Title XX funds could be used for food, clothing, shelter or treatment of a juvenile offender tried as an adult and sentenced to a set term in jail.

"I'm assuming the information (Schulz) has, is what was given to him by (the Human Resources Department). They're (Human Resources) so totally opposed to the bill, they'll do anything to get it defeated," Moloney said.

Moloney said his bill would not have required that juveniles be given set, or determinant, sentences.

Moloney said he does not blame Carroll for vetoing the measure, however.

"I don't think the governor had any choice but to veto it, given the information that he was given by his people," Moloney said.

Moloney said the Human Resources Department has been opposed to the bill since it was introduced early in the 1978 General Assembly. "They've known what was in it (the amended version) since March 16, and they waited until the last day to come up with this letter from HEW," he said.

Conn, meanwhile, said he had made no commitment to support the legislation.

In fact, he continued, Moloney made no effort to work with the department in developing the legislation.

"The first we heard of it, was when it was introduced," Conn added.

"This bill dramatically alters the way this state deals with juvenile justice," Conn said.

"There was not enough time in the House and Senate to deal with all of the ripples it would cause," he added.

The bill would have affected more than 200 youthful offenders who are now tried in juvenile court, Conn said.

Only eight or 10 juveniles currently are tried as adults each year in Kentucky, he said, and the state does not receive Title

XX funds for those juveniles, under current law.

Conn sent Carroll a letter Tuesday listing several reasons why the bill should be vetoed.

In the letter, Conn stated, "I am urging that SB 143 be vetoed because it does not represent a measure that would be beneficial to the public as a deterrent to juvenile crime."

"Statistics demonstrate that Kentucky's juvenile justice system works and represents a national model in which we are able to take pride," Conn said.

UK Buildings Named For Hall, 2 Others

A University of Kentucky committee has recommended the naming of three buildings on the Lexington campus.

The Committee for Naming University Buildings has recommended that the Administration Annex be named the Ezra Gillis Building; the new basketball house be named Joe B. Hall Wildcat Lodge, and the Service Building be named the Frank D. Peterson Service Building.

Ezra Gillis, who died in 1958 at the age of 91, was UK's first registrar and served in that position for 27 years.

The basketball house, located between Lexington and Harrison avenues near Memorial Coliseum, has just been completed and is the residence of the UK varsity basketball team. The building name to honor Coach Hall was recommended by the members of the team.

Winter Farm Cost Heavy

The Kentucky Department of Agriculture released a final report today showing that severe winter weather this year cost the state's farmers more than $194 million. The total exceeds last year's winter farm losses by more than $87 million. "This supply means that Kentucky farmers have had to take out of their pockets, one way or the other, a total of $194 million compared to expenses during a normal year," said state agriculture Commissioner Tom Harris. "This is money they had intended to use for buying gasoline, seed and fertilizer to start next year's crop, but now has been lost as the result of another tough winter."

Harris and livestock producers suffered the heaviest losses this winter. Their increased feed costs were estimated at $75 million greater than a normal year is an increase of over $28 million over the last year and represents the largest single expense to Kentucky farmers this past winter. The commissioner explained that livestock must be fed greater amounts during cold weather just to maintain body heat.

Labor costs for livestock care amounted to $56 million this year, the second largest expense. "On days when we had over a foot of snow on the ground, farmers had to spend most of the daylight hours feeding and caring for livestock and making sure all of the animals had access to water," Harris said.

Livestock death losses this winter were almost double what they were last year, exceeding $15 million. "The animals were exposed to the cold for so long that even some that started the winter in good condition came out of it severely stressed," Harris noted.

The agriculture department also estimated the total cost of repairing farm roads damaged by this winter's weather at $15 million compared to only $6 million last year.

Ornamentals

Plant magnolias, oaks, dogwoods, tulip trees, and any other trees that are difficult to get started. Ball and burlap the roots if there is to be a delay in planting.

Prune after flowering—shadbowl, redbud, bittersweet, flowering quince, fringe-tree, dogwood (flowering, kousa, cornelian cherry), hawthorn, forsythia, magnolia, crab-apple, andromeda, firethorn, mountain ash, lilac and viburnums. Also prune after flowering—red osier, dogwood, spreading and multiflora cotoneaster, coralberry, weigela, chokecherry, azalea, barberry, sweetshrub, prashrub, smoketree, deutzia, mountain laurel, kerria, privet, honeysuckle, mock-orange, flowering cherry and plum, jetbead, spiraea and Japanese snowball.

Check with your University of Kentucky County Extension Agent for the most recent control recommendations for aphids, scales, galls, mealybugs, mites and tent caterpillars. Common galls include ash flower gall, honeylocust pod gall, pin oak vein pocket gall and maple bladder gall.

Remove declining flowers from tulips, narcissus, and hyacinths to prevent seed formation.

Prune rust galls from cedars and junipers.

Lawns

Set lawnmower at 2 1/2 inches. Never clip off more than one-third of the height at a time. Too many clippings will shade newly growing grass.

Control broadleaf weeds in lawns. Apply pre-emergent herbicide for crabgrass by April 10. Turfgrass is recommended for use on newly seeded lawns.

Dethatch bluegrass lawns if thatch is near 1/2 inch thick.

Vegetables

Harvest asparagus, rhubarb, radishes, green onions and collard, mustard, turnip and chinese cabbage greens.

Sow beet, carrot and parsnip seed in mid-April.

Seed okra, muskmelons, cowpeas, cucumbers, radishes and spinach, bush beans, sweet corn and English peas toward the end of the month.

If the danger of frost is over, you can plant transplants of cabbage, lettuce, tomatoes, peppers, eggplants with plastic or cardboard collars 2 inches into the ground to deter cutworms.

Consider using mulch or black plastic over the entire garden to help with weed control and moisture conservation.

Fruits

Plant nut trees, fruit trees and small fruits. Ball and burlap the roots to prevent the roots from drying out if there is to be a delay in planting.

Consult fruit spray schedules from the University of Kentucky Cooperative Extension Service.

Coal Strike Cost Kentucky $316 Million, Is Estimate

As a result of the 15 1/2-week coal strike, more than $316 million has been lost to Kentucky's economy, according to state Commerce Commissioner W. Terry McBrayer. Citing figures in a commerce department analysis, McBrayer said Kentucky lost over $10 million in wages every week, a total of some $155 million since the strike began last December. In addition, sales of almost seven million tons of coal amounting to $161 million were also lost during the strike.

"Fortunately, the number of workers idled by the strike did not grow beyond the 34,000 that lost their jobs in the first few days of the walkout," McBrayer said. "Many large buyers of coal had large stockpiles on hand which saved thousands of jobs by avoiding mandatory cutbacks," he added. McBrayer also said that the permanent impact on tax revenues and lost retail sales will not be known for several months but predicted that many of the losses will be recovered as coal production increases during this year. Lost withholding taxes and wages will be partially recouped through higher wages and increased work weeks, McBrayer said, as coal demands remain high. He also believes many workers will make major consumer purchases later this year that were postponed because of the strike.

Killer Waves . . .

TSUNAMIS, the killer waves that wipe out entire ocean-front communities, travel at spectacular speeds. At depths of 24,000 feet, the April Reader's Digest states, they can go 600 miles an hour—as fast as a jumbo jet. When they hit the shore, the speed is reduced to something like 30 miles an hour, but the waves can then be as high as 100 feet.

Here's a monthly reminder to make your next building an energy saver:

The energy crises has made us realize some things about energy: It's no longer cheap. And it isn't going to last forever. That's why you need to make your next building a true energy saver. And that's where we can help. We'll show you how we use special insulation methods on your building to keep the heating and cooling inside where it belongs. We offer the lowest "U" factor in the industry (a low "U" factor is a measure of good insulation effectiveness). The combination of Butler Systems and superior insulation can give you the best available protection against the weather and a high energy bill. And we can handle your entire building project from start to finish. That saves your energy. If you're thinking about building, give us a call. We'd like to show you how to keep those monthly reminders a little gentler.

ARC Votes $4 Million Aid For Hospitals in Coal Fields

Financial help is available to hospitals in Eastern Kentucky and elsewhere in the coal fields to help them recover from serious losses sustained during the national coal strike.

The Appalachian Regional Commission voted last week to provide $4 million to an estimated 20 to 25 hospitals in the five principal coal-producing states.

An ARC spokesman said the hospitals have been asked to submit applications for funds and the agency will decide the amount each will receive on the basis of need.

Wibby Pratt, an official with the state's Development Cabinet, said Pikeville Methodist Hospital, Our Lady of the Way Hospital at Martin, and St. Clair Hospital at Morehead had all applied for help.

In addition to the ARC grant, the Economic Development Administration is expected to announce a $2 million grant to help the same hospitals.

Hospitals throughout the Appalachian coalfields rely heavily on funds from the United Mine Workers' health program for their revenue. Union health benefits have been severely curtailed for the past 10 months because of strikes and other problems.

The ARC voted, 12-to-1, to approve the expenditure, with Alabama the lone dissenter.

Decisions on distributing the money were expected later last week or early this week. Until the government checks go out, the hospitals can use the agency's notifications as a "line of credit" to borrow money.

"Plus it's my understanding that the Appalachian Regional Hospital chain is getting ready to apply," Pratt said. "We're set to go here in Kentucky. I can't speaking for the other states."

Pratt said funds could be distributed to Kentucky hospitals within "a couple of weeks," but added that governors of the 13 states making up ARC would have to approve the expenditure first.

"The governors aren't scheduled to meet again until April 18," Pratt said. "But it's possible they could have some kind of mail-in vote before then. I'm sure it will be taken care of in the most expedient manner possible."

He said he foresaw "no hangups" with the governors' approval, adding: "I think we've demonstrated a pretty clear need. It's just been one disaster on top of another for these hospitals, what with these past two winters and the flood last spring and now the miners' strike. We simply had to act or a lot of people would be hurting pretty badly."

The $4-million-dollar ARC aid package, coupled with the $2 million from the EDA, does not provide the full amount Appalachian hospitals are said to need.

Kentucky Afield

By JOHN WILSON

Herrington Lake, near Danville in Central Kentucky, is the Commonwealth's oldest major impoundment. Since its creation in the middle 1920s, Herrington has had its ups and downs as a fishing lake.

In what has since become a familiar pattern, fishermen enjoyed fantastic catches for a few years, then experienced a gradual and steady decline in the quality of fishing as the lake aged.

During the 1950s the department of fish and wildlife conducted a major project to restore an ecological balance favoring game fish. A major part of this project was reducing the large number of gizzard shad in the lake by selective poisoning.

The shad reduction did help improve fishing so that today Herrington ranks among our top game fish producers. But some biologists believe that the project also had an unfortunate side effect. After the program was completed, smallmouth bass had disappeared from the lake. Biologist Ted Crowell thinks that the shad project was likely a "major contributing factor" in the smallmouth's decline, although the population of this fish had been low before the program began, according to Charlie Bowers, director of the fisheries division.

But from whatever cause, the smallmouth, which had sustained a fishable population for three decades, were gone. This spring, the Division of Fisheries will begin a four-year project to try bringing them back.

Sometime in June, 100,000 two-inch smallmouth fingerlings will travel in fish transport trucks from a federal hatchery at Corning, Arkansas to Herrington, where they will be released into the lake. This process will be repeated each June for three more years, and biologists will closely monitor the results.

Crowell, the biologist in charge of bass research projects for Kentucky, says that the key to the success of this smallmouth program is whether the fish reproduce naturally.

"Since the lake supported smallmouth bass for over 30 years, we know that suitable habitat exists there," Crowell says. "In fact," he adds, "the food supply is better now than it was in the 50s, since we have now established threadfin shad in the lake."

Crowell emphasizes that this is an attempt at restoration, not a "put and take" stocking program. The aim is to re-establish a self-sustaining population of smallmouth in the lake, and no additional stocking is contemplated after the four-year program ends.

Neither should this stocking project be viewed as an attempt to "bring back" Herrington, Bowers says. The lake now supports excellent largemouth and Kentucky bass populations and creel survey consistently show Herrington among the leading bass producing bodies of water in the commonwealth.

Rather, Bowers and Crowell agree, the smallmouth stocking is an attempt to fill an empty ecological niche with an important game fish, one which can add to an already impressive bass harvest. With their differing habitat requirements, largemouth and smallmouth bass should not compete directly for food or living space. In other words, Bowers says, there's room in the lake for both and establishing a high smallmouth population could mean a net increase in the number of bass caught.

NAMED LANGLEY CHAIRMAN

Tom McCann has been named Langley chairman of the Breath of Spring Bike-A-Thon to fight children's lung-damaging diseases, according to Jay Crouse, president of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation. Mr. McCann will lead local volunteers in organizing a Bike-A-Thon in Langley to raise funds to support research and care programs for children affected by lung-damaging diseases like Cystic Fibrosis, severe asthma chronic bronchitis, and bronchiectasis.

Biologists feel that one pound of smallmouth per acre represents a good population level and that in at least one lake (Norris, in Tennessee) with such a population, around 15 per cent of the total bass harvest is comprised of smallmouths.

The fish that are stocked this fall should reach the legal 12 inch size limit (this new 12 inch limit on black bass became effective January 1, 1978) in the late summer of 1980. As these fish start showing up on anglers' stringers, biologists can get some indication of survival of the stocked fish. But what they are really looking for is evidence of a successful spawn, which should take place in the spring of 1980. If smallmouth fry start appearing in appreciable numbers, the project will be well on its way toward success, Crowell says.

Safety Hazard Removal In Yatesville Dam Area Contracted for $28,360

Morey Construction Equipment, of Parkersburg, W. Va., has contract for $28,360 to remove safety hazards on government-owned lands in the vicinity of the Yatesville dam site, and five miles west of Louisa.

The work will consist of demolishing old buildings and standing chimneys and filling in open cisterns and wells. It is expected that the work will be completed about July 10.

On August 19, 1977 all construction and land acquisition activities were stopped at the Yatesville project. Congress did not include any funds for it in the fiscal year 1978 federal budget which started last October 1.

NERO POISONED GUESTS

ROME—Emperor Nero once served poisonous mushrooms at a banquet, killing all the guests, the chief of the guard and a number of centurions and tribunes who he thought were plotting against him.

WOULDN'T PAY POSTAGE

WASHINGTON—Zachary Taylor was several days late in officially acknowledging his presidential nomination. He would not pay the 10 cents postage due on his formal letter of notification.

ARTHRITIS COSTS the nation's work force more than $3.5 billion annually in lost wages due to activity limitations and inability to be employed, says the Arthritis Foundation.

Inquiry Attacks Ky. Railroads

Railroads operating in the state came under attack last week during an inquiry into the spillage of hazardous materials associated with train derailments.

The inquiry was requested by Gov. Julian Carroll to examine causes of the responses to hazardous material spills after three incidents in the state earlier this year. State officials emphasized that the inquiry was not a legal proceeding but was merely a fact-finding session.

Eugene Mooney, secretary of the state Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, who along with Calvin Grayson of the Department of Transportation conducted the hearing, issued a particularly sharp challenge to a representative of the L & N Railroad, the state's largest railroad common carrier.

After listening to testimony from an L & N official, Mooney said that a staff study by his department indicated that the L & N Railroad accounted for 50 percent of all rail accidents in Kentucky and that 74 percent of those accidents were derailments. He also pointed out that 56 percent of all derailments in the state were L & N derailments and that nationally, L & N accounted for 36 percent of all hazardous materials spills.

In response to Mooney's inquiry as to why, Chester Lepeaza, executive vice president of L & N, said the railroad carries more tonnage of coal and does so in mountainous eastern Kentucky terrain where accidents are perhaps more likely.

Mooney's retort was that "coal is not a hazardous material."

Mooney attacked the L & N for what he termed "uneven reporting" of railroad accidents. He specifically mentioned a derailment at Bowling Green where there was a delay of seven hours before state and local officials were notified.

Lepeaza responded that the apparent breakdown in communications has been corrected.

Grayson questioned railway officials concerning their maintenance of railbeds. The rail company officials consistently stated that their expenditures for maintenance in 1977 were the highest in 10 years.

William F. Howse of the Chessie System, which operates 700 miles of rail in the state, said 15 percent of that company's revenues was spent on maintenance last year.

Lepeaza said, "The first dollar available to the railroad must be spent on maintenance."

But Paul Royster, Frankfort city manager, attacked L & N maintenance of rail lines in the city's limits. He called the company's efforts "a band-aid approach" to maintenance and cited numerous deficiencies including "loose spikes, low joints, and split ties" along the L & N owned tracks.

Royster said Frankfort officials were first alerted to the problem because the tracks were "shabby and unsightly." He said city officials are considering declaring the tracks unsafe and considering appointment of city rail inspectors.

Royster speculated that the rail condition was allowed to exist as a strategy of L & N to encourage subsidy or abandonment of the rail line in Frankfort. "But I have no idea what that strategy is," he said.

Thai Student Has Art Exhibit

Chavethip "Tip" Sangsophit, senior art major at Pikeville College, has her senior art exhibit on display April 2-8 in the library at Pikeville College.

Quite often, mountaineers are less than hospitable to outsiders. Even though we pride ourselves on being warm and friendly, we also admit that when someone from "the outside" gets too familiar, we back off.

Occasionally, though, a person comes to Eastern Kentucky who breaks through our isolationist tendencies. One such person is Chavethip Sangsophit, affectionately known on the campus of Pikeville College as "Tip."

Arriving in Pikeville in June of 1975, Tip faced a new country and a new language as well as a new challenge in her education. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sompope Sangsophit, of Bangkok, Thailand, and she came to America, and to Pikeville College, to study art.

This week Tip is presenting her senior art exhibit in the O'Rear-Robinson Library at Pikeville College. The exhibit opened April 2 and runs through April 8 during regular library hours, from 8 a.m. til 9 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays, 8 a.m. til 4 p.m. Fridays and 3 p.m. til 9 p.m. Sundays. The exhibit is free and open to the public.

Tip's enthusiasm for Pikeville, and life in general, is reflected in her art.

Brilliant colors, delicate flowers, and warm, sparkling subjects are obvious in each piece. She has captured an innocence and child-like awe of, and reverence for, the world in all her works.

Tip's art hasn't consumed all her time in Pikeville, however. She was senior attendant to the 1977 Homecoming Queen, is a member of the Foreign Language and International Students Club, and is a Student Government representative. She is also known for her Thai cooking, offering native dishes to the college community during Foreign Language Week and other special events, such as the celebration of Thai New Year that was held in 1976.

After a trip home this summer, Tip plans to return to the United States to study for a master's degree in art. She is excited about the future, but sincerely sorry to be leaving the college. "I love Pikeville," she says. "It's the best place in America."

CELERY'S LOW-CALORIE status makes it a well-known diet food. But it's even better than you think. The April Reader's Digest notes that it takes more calories to chew a stalk of celery than there are in the stalk itself!

Guarantees Tuition Of Area Residents

Pippa Passes, Ky.—The Alice Lloyd College board of Trustees has recently approved a new program which will be of important financial benefit to college-bound students living in the seven counties surrounding the college.

Participants in the new "Regional Opportunity Program" are guaranteed that out-of-pocket costs for tuition will be zero, according to Dr. Jerry C. Davis, ALC president. Tuition will be met through a combination of grants from the college, the required ALC work program, and federal and state tuition aid programs.

"The Regional Opportunity Program is of great importance to eastern Kentucky high school students and their parents," said Dr. Davis. "The ALC Board of Trustees authorized the Regional Opportunity Program because they and I agree that the college should rededicate itself to its traditional commitment to provide leadership education. This means that every qualified student should be given a chance to attend ALC, regardless of income."

The Regional Opportunity Program is available to all students admitted to Alice Lloyd College who have a 2.5 ("C" plus) or better grade point average in high school and live in the counties of Knott, Perry, Letcher, Floyd, Pike, Magoffin and Leslie.

They Called Him Little Bear

By GEORGE L. MOORE

I have often thought what a different world this would be if all of us had a genuine compassion for all of God's creatures. This doesn't seem possible in this mad world in which we live. We are inclined to rush about from place to place, giving little thought to creatures other than our own kind. Fortunately, there are a few people left in this world who are deeply concerned for the welfare and comfort of all of God's creatures.

I became acquainted with such a person, several months ago. It was during the time when we began to experience the worst winter on record that kindness, sympathy and understanding were his trademarks.

The story began when we found a small, black pup of uncertain ancestry that had been left on the highway to starve and perish in the harsh, winter winds. It was afflicted with mange and other skin ailments that left bare patches over its entire body. For some strange reason, this little dog bore a marked resemblance to a bear cub; hence the name, Little Bear. Little Bear was placed in a box in a tight shed. Medicine was applied to his skin, each day. His bedding was changed at regular intervals and he was never without food and water. Three months have passed and slowly but surely Little Bear is on the mend. He will even wag his tail when you enter his quarters.

The next dog he became acquainted with was called "Old Reckless." Reckless, that appeared on the TV show, "The Waltons," was the gentle sort that showed little or no hostility toward man. The new "Reckless" was just the opposite. He had the peculiar habit of baring his teeth when one attempted to pet him or offer him food. Many of the neighbors thought he was a vicious animal that should be destroyed, before a child was bitten by him. The dog lover soon discovered this vicious expression was really a smile that was the only way "Reckless" could express his appreciation of kindness. It wasn't long until he was christened "Old Smiley." Now, he is affectionately known by all as, "Old Smiley."

There was a character in the Lum and Abner radio show called "Mousie Gray". Mousie was a sort of ne'r-do-well who stayed in the background unless he was called upon to respond to a question. In modern lingo, he would have been called an introvert. When the animal lover went for the mail, a little dog with one ear up, the other down, would follow him a short distance on his homeward journey. Day after day, the little dog would follow him a few steps further up the mountain until, finally, he followed him home. He named the little dog "Mousie Gray" because Mousie became his constant companion.

Sometimes, it is next to impossible to reach our house by motor vehicle. The groceries would be left in a truck and carried up the mountain, through the deep snow. On one occasion, this dog which we called Little Mouse was following his master and ventured out into the middle of the highway. A girl in an on-coming car couldn't stop and her front wheel ran over the little dog. His master saw that he was hopelessly crippled, but the animal lover forgot the groceries, dropped them near a tree, and with tender, loving care carried Little Mouse to the top of the mountain and placed him in a warm, dry place. He made another difficult trek to the bottom of the hill, retrieved his groceries, and walked back up the mountain a second time. Although two months have passed, Mousie is doing quite well, but gets around on three legs.

The animal lover who saved his life, I'm proud to say, was my brother, Elmer Moore.

District 38 Masons To Meet at Wayland

The annual meeting of District Grand Lodge of Kentucky Masons, 38, is scheduled for Friday, April 7, at 7:30 p.m. at James W. Alley Lodge No. 869, Wayland. All Master Masons are invited to attend. Dinner will be served from 5:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m.

District Deputy Grand Master Donald Hughes will preside at the meeting. Acting Grand Master Tom Roberts will be the principal speaker. District 38 is composed of 14 lodges in Floyd, Johnson, Pike and Martin counties.

Have your blood pressure checked.

Thanks, Eastern Kentuckians for helping us keep your power on.

The nation's longest coal strike is now history. And by working together, we all stemmed the tide of a crisis. Conservation of electricity helped avoid large-scale layoffs and mandatory cutbacks. Inconveniences staved off massive problems.

You did your part by turning out unnecessary lights, lowering thermostat settings and reducing your use of electricity in many other ways. It was difficult because the cold weather was demanding you use more. These actions, though they may have seemed small at the time, added up to save many thousands of tons of coal.

While you were flicking switches off, we were stretching coal reserves as much as possible. Like you, we cut back on power usage. And we obtained coal whenever we could. Those sporadic deliveries, supplemented by burning oil where possible and implementing other coal-saving steps, helped us meet your lessened - but continuous - demands for power.

Power production is expected to be back to normal soon. But, in the spirit of energy conservation, it remains important to avoid power waste. Doing this will also help keep your electric costs in line and help offset the future higher cost of coal.

Again, thank you for your help.

DHR To Initiate Program of County Case Conferences

The Department for Human Resources soon will initiate a pilot program of county case conferences in eight counties—Graves, Boyd, Campbell, Hardin, Wayne, Madison, Pike and Muhlenberg. These conferences will involve representatives of all human service agencies in a given area for the purpose of coordinating activities to provide the best service for clients in that area.

Coordinator of the new program will be Michael Ferguson, who has been an assistant to the director of the Center for Community Service Development in human resources' Bureau for Social Services.

Ferguson said the eight counties were chosen for the pilot program on the basis of their geography, total population, client population and agency resources to be representative of situations existing in the state. Part of the pilot program will be a careful evaluation of how successful the county case conferences are in establishing better coordination among agencies and in eliminating unnecessary duplication of services within an area, he said.

"We'll be looking very carefully at how well the system works, and will consider the results in the eight counties in deciding whether to expand the program into other parts of the state," he said.

The pilot program will be phased in over the next few months, and in each county, the moderator of the case conferences will be a social services staff member, according to Ferguson. "It's a question now of selecting the moderators and having them contact the different agencies in their areas."

In addition to social services staff members, participants will include representatives from other human resources bureaus (social insurance and manpower services, usually), the county health department and local Comprehensive Care Center and private agencies serving the county in question.

Ferguson has served as assistant district manager for social services in the Bluegrass District and a social services supervisor in Carter, Elliott and Lawrence counties. He grew up in Johnson county, graduated from Morehead State University and earned a Master of Social Work degree from the University of Kentucky.

New System To Increase Ky. Interest Earnings

A new electronic system to speed up the transfer of federal highway funds to Kentucky is expected to increase interest earnings on state accounts by about $250,000 annually.

The new money-saving system was announced at Frankfort recently by State Transportation Secretary Calvin G. Grayson who said that the increased earnings will be realized by reducing the turnaround time on monthly billings to the Federal Highway Administration (FHWA) in Washington, D.C. for reimbursement of costs incurred in federal-aid highway projects.

Kentucky is the first state in the southeast to adopt the new system.

According to Grayson, the old method required approximately two weeks for the Department of Transportation (KYDOT) to receive the monthly (reimbursement) check. "Under the new method, however, FHWA has advised that we should have those funds in our bank account 10 days sooner each month," Grayson said.

KYDOT's billings to FHWA for reimbursement funding average about $10.6 million monthly.

Grayson said the windfall interest makes more money available that could be used for road improvements on construction projects during the year.

High School Student Observes State Government in Operation

(The following article is a high school student's impression of a day at the State Capitol. It was written by Jim Duncan, 14-year-old son of J. Henry and Nancy Duncan, of Morgantown, Ky. (Butler county) and a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Ermine Hall, of Prestonsburg. The article appeared in a recent issue of The Green River Republican.)

It was like the last spring day of school—everyone rushing to leave. That is this writer's impression of a Friday afternoon recess at the State Capitol in Frankfort—all the men and women rushing home.

Last Friday, I visited our government building in Frankfort on a fact-finding mission to see "what goes on." Surprisingly enough, there are many happenings at the State Capitol that even our adults do not know about.

There are two major points of interest going on right now in the capitol—the Senate and the House of Representatives. This is the branch of our state government where most our laws are made. The 138 senators and representatives work in the General Assembly only 60 days every other year. The rest of the time is spent with their own personal jobs as well as traveling to Frankfort frequently for committee meetings. Every bill, whether passed or not, goes into print and is filed in the Legislative Research Commission (LRC) where it can be obtained instantly. The LRC also prints the Legislative Record, a daily record of all the General Assembly's actions. This journal is similar to the United States' Congressional Record, printed in Washington. The LRC prints many other publications, research reports, and brochures which are available to the public and provide needed information.

Many other people work to support our state senators and representatives, such as the doorkeepers, pages, janitors and cloakroom keepers. Doorkeepers keep unauthorized persons from the floor of the chambers. Pages, teen-age boys and girls, run errands for the legislators.

Governor Julian Carroll also has his office in the capitol. His position and influence is very powerful, although he cannot do it alone. We talked with Don McCormick, the governor's executive assistant, who takes care of many of the governor's problems that arise. Mr. McCormick explained how he goes with the Governor on trips and aids him in any way possible.

Frankfort is more than just politics. The city is built in a low-lying valley overlooked by the State Capitol. Horse farms surrounding the city also add to the beauty. To the right of the capitol is the beautiful floral clock, running continuously. To the left is the Governor's Mansion, with several other large office buildings, making the town very attractive.

Visiting our State Capitol was a very good and interesting experience. Anyone having the opportunity should go and take a friend—it is a trip you will never forget.

Health Notes

A pap smear clinic will be conducted at the Floyd County Health Department Thursday, April 6. This clinic will be held from 9 to 11:30 and 1 to 2. All women needing their yearly pap smear are welcome and urged to attend this clinic for this free screening for cervical cancer.

Monday, April 10, the health department's mobile unit will be stationed in front of the Methodist Church at Wayland. Medical services offered from 10 to 12 and 1 to 2 will include immunizations, TB skin tests, diabetes screening, blood pressures, and pap smears. All persons are welcome to take advantage of these free services being offered in their community.

There will be no nursing or clerical services available to the public at the health department, family planning office, or the WIC office on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, April 10-12. The entire staff will be involved in the regional heart clinics on these days. Clerical services, family planning services, and WIC services will resume Thursday. However, nursing services at the health department will not resume until Friday, April 14, due to the Community Health Nurses attending a diabetes workshop at Prestonsburg Community College on Thursday.

Two County Students Among 9 To Receive Walker Scholarships

The Walker family has endowed two perpetual funds, one to recognize teaching excellence on the part of Pikeville College faculty, and one to recognize academic excellence on the part of high school students.

The William Wade and Helen Record Walker Scholarship Fund provides financial support to any high school student who ranks first or second in his class upon entering his senior year (or at the end of his senior year) and who chooses to attend Pikeville College upon graduation from high school. The scholarship carries an annual cash award of $750 for each student who ranks first in his class, $600 for those who rank second. If the student elects to live on campus, he receives a $300 deduction from his dormitory expenses. In addition, if he maintains a cumulative grade point average of 3.0 (B) or better, the scholarship automatically will be renewed each year.

At this point, nine area high school seniors will become freshmen at Pikeville College, attending with the honor of being Walker Scholarship recipients. Others may be added as their applications and credentials are received in the Admissions Office. The nine include Kimberly M. Wagner and Debbie L. Steele, of Mullins High; Mary A. Montebello, of Jenkins High; Paula Stewart Baldrige, of Millard; Marcia Anne Adkins, of Johns Creek; Ronnie Damron and Liza Joyce Bently, of Virgie; Dianna Faye Justice, of Betsy Layne, and Ramona Lynn Johnson, of Wheelwright.

Miss Justice is the daughter of Clyde and Wilovene Adkins Justice of Harold, Kentucky. First in her class at Betsy Layne High, she is the eldest of five children. Her aunts, Jaralene, Ernestine, and Lola Adkins, are all Pikeville alumnae.

First in the 1978 class at Wheelwright is Ramona Lynn Johnson of Melvin. She is the daughter of Sylvan and Reona Johnson, and will be the first in her family to enroll at Pikeville.

Smith Ends 37 Years' Work With Kentucky Power Co.

Chester Smith, well-known area civic leader, has retired from Kentucky Power Company after 37 years. He was administrative assistant to the Pikeville division manager.
Active in civic affairs and past president of both the Pikeville Kiwanis Club and Pike County Chamber of Commerce, Smith spent his entire utility career in Pikeville.
A Pike county native, Smith plans, initially at least, to spend his retirement "catching up with my fishing and things around the house." He also intends to pursue some of his favorite pastimes, baseball, electrical work and gardening.
In reviewing his many years of service with the company, Smith says "unusual things are almost commonplace." He recalls that with Kentucky Power he has weathered three major floods and some tremendous snow and ice storms.
Smith started with the company February 16, 1941 as a meter reader. Just under six months later, he was promoted to serviceman. In 1956 he became area sales engineer and in 1968 he assumed his administrative assistant position.

Currently, Smith is treasurer of the Kiwanis Club and a lifetime member of the organization. Among other civic endeavors, he is vice-chairman of the Pikeville Urban Renewal Board, chairman of the Pikeville Community Services Commission and a member of the board of directors of the Big Sandy Area Development Council.
A graduate of Pikeville College Academy, Smith attended Pikeville Junior College. He is a World War II veteran and was awarded the Bronze Star for meritorious service.
Smith is married to the former Lucille Saad. They have one son, Gregory, living in Elkhorn City, and a granddaughter. Mrs. Smith is Pikeville postmaster.
