Kidd-Cook Vows Said

Pentecostal Church in Drift was the setting for the March 25 wedding of Miss Rhonda Kidd and Mr. Mark Cook. A program of wedding music was presented by Peggy Pack, pianist, who also sang "Annie's Song."

The bride, given in marriage by Rev. Ted Shannon, wore a floor-length gown of white silk organza. The bodice had a lace inset of sheer netting encrusted with tiny seed pearls. The neckline was a mandarin style, and the sheer sleeves were caught at the wrists by a band of lace. Panels of lace trimmed the skirt and the hemline was treated with a double ruffle falling into cathedral length train. The bride's veil of illusion fell from a matching cap of lace, and she carried a cascade of white carnations tipped in blue, and babies' breath, with blue and white streamers.

Miss Connie Miller, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor, and Alicia Dawn Allen, niece of the bride, was flower girl.

Best man was Danny Ray Osborne, and ringbearer was Kip Kidd. Ushers were Ronnie Cook and Ricky Kidd.

The couple now resides at Drift, and the groom is presently employed as a section foreman at National Mines.

Hundreds and hundreds of years ago, Omar Khayyam the Persian poet wrote these words:

"And that inverted bowl they call the sky,
 Whereunder crawl, cooped, we live and die.
 Lift not your hands to it for help—for it
 So impotently moves as you and I.

This poem called "The Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam" is the outstanding classic of cynicism and doubt.

This, of course, is just one man's view of human destiny.

Today millions of people know and realize that human destiny is not as somber looking as it was to Omar Khayyam. As long as a neighbor loves, and cares for another . . . as long as human hearts cry out for the poor and unfortunate . . . so long as man loves a fellowman, human destiny has a bright future. Just how much do you, or I, contribute to a bright destiny?

Plan Election Law Seminar Here

Secretary of State and State Board of Elections Chairman Drexell Davis (center, in photo) goes over plans for regional election law seminars with State Board members, Raymond Bossmeyer and Earl Searcy. The seminar for this area will be held at 2 p.m. April 25, at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park. The seminars will deal with changes in election laws enacted by the 1978 Kentucky General Assembly and with election day problems. Davis emphasized that the meetings are open to the public, and he particularly hopes that precinct workers will attend. "If Kentucky's election laws are to be administered properly and honestly, I feel that it is important that as many persons as possible be knowledgeable of the elections process," Davis said.

Moore Named DXer of Month

Wade Moore, who has guided three tours of the Middle East, particularly the Holy Land, has been named DXer of the Month for April by ANDEX, international publication of Andes DXers International, a DX Club operated in conjunction with DX Party Line broadcast over radio station HCJB in Quito, Ecuador.

DXer, for the uninitiated, in radio parlance means someone who listens to distant countries via short wave radio. Mr. Moore has been selected for this honor from members all over the world.

Although he has been qualified for his amateur radio operator's license since 1955, Mr. Moore has only recently been bitten by the SWL (short wave listener) bug. In a short time, he has logged 60 countries and received verification from 34 of them. Countries heard include New Zealand, China, Japan, Australia, South Africa, Argentina, India, and most of those in Europe.

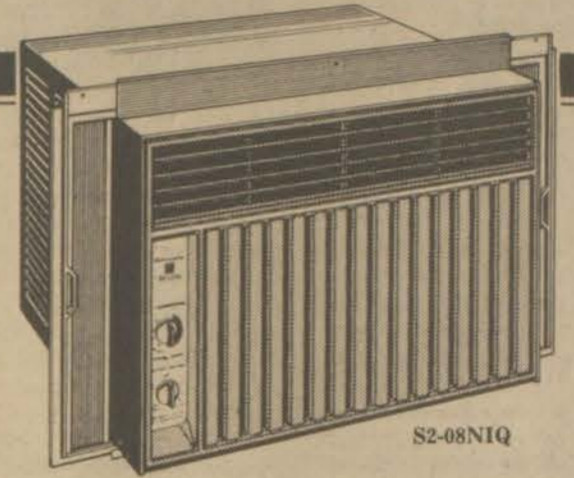

In addition to joining ANDEX, Mr. Moore is a member of the North American Short Wave Association and the United World Radio DX Club.

Now retired, Mr. Moore does most of his listening via short wave from 8 p.m. to midnight. Other hobbies include reading, travel, and photography, and during the last four years, he has combined travel and photography in his Middle East tours. In Israel, he took hundreds of slides which he shows to church and other interested groups.

Contrary to popular belief, shaving doesn't make hair grow thicker or faster.

Perkins Calls For Funding Of New Dam

Congressman Carl D. Perkins has requested $5 million for the stalled Yatesville Lake project on the grounds that more than $11 million has already been spent and "it is a mistake to leave a hole in the ground."

He has also requested $850,000 from the House appropriations subcommittee on public works for flood control on the Levisa and Tug Forks and navigation studies on the Big Sandy River.

A delegation from Lawrence County, including Judge-Executive J. J. (Jake) Jordan, FIVCO Area Development District President R. C. Wells and attorney Wayne T. Bromley, testified before the House subcommittee that funding should be resumed for the Yatesville Lake project.

Work on the project was halted last year because of a lack of funding and pressure from President Carter that he would veto funding measures for Yatesville and other similar water projects.

The group said the project would alleviate flooding on 99-mile-long Blaine Creek and provide about $10 million annually in tourism and other jobs. The delegation also pointed to the $11 million already spent on the project, the 112 families relocated, the 12,000 acres purchased and, if the project is not reinstated, the loss of taxes on that land for 10 years.

The problem was in the Senate last year, but Sen. Walter Huddleston told Judge Jordan the project will be reinstated and that it is not on President Carter's hit list, as it was last year.

In addition to his request for funding for Yatesville, Perkins requested $500,000 for "dredging, deepening and widening operations in the Tug and Levisa Fork basins, according to legislative aide Red Swift. Perkins also has requested $350,000 to be available to study resumption of navigation on the Big Sandy River.

At a U.S. Army Corps of Engineers public hearing Feb. 2 at Louisa, Corps spokesmen said canalization of the river would depend on Congress funding studies for it. At any rate, a completed canalization project would take 15 years, the spokesman said.

UMW Pensions Paid With $85 Million Loan

The trustees of the United Mine Workers of America (UMWA) Health and Retirement Funds announced Friday that an $85 million loan has been negotiated which makes it possible to make up pension payments missed in February and March by 80,500 miners covered by the Funds' 1950 Pension Plan.

The loan also enables the Funds to make April pension payments to those covered by the 1950 pension plan. The Funds will repay the loan with future income earned by coal produced by miners whose employers sign UMWA contracts.

Pension checks for beneficiaries of the 1950 Pension Plan were mailed last Friday.

THE FAMILY CAR uses 14 percent of the energy consumed in this country. That category includes other personal non-business automobiles, too, according to home management specialists with the UK College of Agriculture Cooperative Extension Service. The basic fuel economy of a car is determined by weight, engine type, and size. But optional features, tires, maintenance, and driving habits are other important influences on how much fuel is used.

Blue Grass Festival To Aid Bush Gallery

The Appalachian Guild of Artists and Craftsmen will present a Bluegrass Music Festival at the Prestonsburg High School gymnasium at 7:30 p.m., Saturday.

Funds raised will help the guild reopen its Gallery of Arts and Crafts in Prestonsburg. Many groups have volunteered to perform for the benefit performance.

Master of ceremonies for the festival will be Alton Songer, of Paintsville radio station WSIP. Some of the many groups who will play are: Lum Patton and the Half-Mountain Boys, Buddy Ratliff and group, Dave Sizemore, Paul Neil Allen and group, South Salyers and the Brown Mountain Boys; a group called "Grin and Bear It," including Sandy Powers, Karen Frazier, David Frazier and Mark Barton, Ross Johns on the dulcimer, and Ray Slone and daughters.

Besides the musical entertainment, there will be a display of the works of artists and craftspeople who are members of the guild. These works include paintings, sketches, pottery, wood-working, dulcimers, quilting, weaving, macrame, jewelry and local literature. Information on the purchase of these products of traditional mountain arts and crafts will be available.

An action may be maintained upon any commissioner's bond by any person injured by a violation of the covenants therein contained.

Section IV. All Commissioners shall continue in office until their successors have been appointed and qualified. Any commissioner shall be eligible for reappointment upon the expiration of his term.

Christian Scientist Excused From Knott Health Course

Joni Carol Southworth will be graduating with her senior classmates at Knott County Central High School in June despite her objections to a state-mandated health course.

Miss Southworth and her parents contend portions of the health course conflict with her Christian Science religious beliefs.

The state Board for Elementary and Secondary Education has granted her an exemption from the course, paving the way for her graduation.

The board stressed, however, that it was not making a blanket exemption to all similar students and directed its staff to develop an alternative health course that would meet the objections of other Christian Science students.

And some board members, while voting for the one-time exemption, expressed concern that they were setting a dangerous precedent.

Randy Kimbrough, assistant superintendent for instruction, said she had talked at length with Mrs. Wayne Southworth, Joni Carol's mother, in an effort to devise a special, individualized health course for her daughter, but they could not reach agreement.

Mrs. Southworth pointed out similar alternative courses are not required for physically handicapped students exempted from required physical education courses.

The Christian Science faith, formed by Mary Baker Eddy in the 1860's, interprets the Scriptures as upholding the idea that disease, sin, death, etc. are caused by mental error and have no real existence.

Mrs. Southworth told the state board Tuesday that the ideas presented in the high school health course, particularly relating to hygiene, physiology and anatomy, could corrupt or damage the mental concepts of her daughter.

"We consider the study of the body and health idolatry and this would force my child to practice idolatry," Mrs. Southworth said.

Mrs. Southworth said her daughter had 22 credit hours in high school, well above the minimum 18 hours required by state law. The statutes require 10 hours in mandatory courses, including a one semester, halfhour credit course in health.

She said the local Knott county school board granted an exemption for her daughter Monday night, but feared it might lose state educational funds if the state board did not concur.

Mrs. Southworth said she has eight other children, including five others in school. They include a son who is a sophomore in high school and a daughter who is a freshman.

"I am afraid this is opening a can of worms," said the Rev. Bob Brown. "Everyone with a religious objection on anything will be sitting in here."

State Superintendent of Public Instruction James Graham also expressed concern, saying he was not against the exemption but "it has implications down the road. We are going to be besieged with allied beliefs."

But board member Henry Condom, who made the motion, said "We sometimes anticipate problems that don't materialize."

Sure, you want economy. But you've probably convinced yourself that you'd have to give up most of the things you've come to expect from a bigger car. That's why we'd like you to see Volare. Because the 1978 Plymouth Volare 4-door is designed so that you don't have to give up room for six. Its special suspension system means that you don't have to give up a bigger car ride. And, as you can see, with Volare, you don't give up economy.* The 1978 Plymouth Volare... proof positive that a smaller car can be designed to give you the things you'd expect from bigger cars. So why would anyone consider compromising in order to get economy? We give up.

Little League Sets Opening for May 15

The Prestonsburg Little League, which will field teams from the northern end of the county, will be ready for its official opening, May 15, it was announced last week. Twenty-seven teams already have filed charter applications, and they represent communities from Bull Creek, Middle Creek and on north to the Floyd-Johnson county line.

New officers were elected at a meeting last Friday night. They are Paul P. Hughes, president; David H. DeRossett, vice-president, and Glenn Copley, secretary-treasurer.

Mr. Hughes succeeds as president Ray Wilcox, who now is District 1 magistrate.

A second league session, scheduled tomorrow (Thursday) evening, was described as a "must" meeting for team coaches and league officials. The agenda will include discussion of new rules and the planning of projects to raise badly needed funds.

Weightlifters of the Week

Andrew McClanahan, Bobby Wells, Dewey Layne and Desi Whitt have all been selected again as Blackcat Weightlifters of the Week. Weight Coach Bob Stetson said, "The main thing right now for all of our athletes is staying with it. They have made a lot of progress in strength and muscular development up to this point, but they could more than double their progress from now to August by just keeping after it."

One thing the Blackcat coaches are concerned about is speed. Coach Stetson said, "We are just now implementing our running and speed improvement program, but it is already evident from our times that we do not have any super-speed yet, or the kind that coach Haywood expects us to have. Along with staying on the weights, we are really going to have to work on increasing our speed."

Cliff Anglers Record Good Catch

The fish, which included smallmouth and largemouth bass, white bass, striped bass, catfish, drum, walleye, and crappie (including one 18-inch crappie), were caught between Thursday and Sunday by Mr. and Mrs. Lafferty. Paul Lafferty, Rodolph Burckett, Mike Daniels and Joann George, all of Cliff, joined them for a day's fishing, Thursday.

UK Cager To Speak At Alice Lloyd Fete

Pippa Passes, Ky.—Dwayne Casey, a guard on the N.C.A.A. championship University of Kentucky basketball team, will speak at the Alice Lloyd College athletic banquet at 6 p.m. Monday (April 24) in the dining hall of the June Buchanan Alumni Center.

Casey, a UK junior, is from Morganfield, Ky., and is a graduate of Union County High School where he played baseball, basketball, football, and ran cross country.

Coach Joe B. Hall said "Dwayne's defense is his main strength, but his hustle and desire are an inspiration to the entire team." He was presented the Lexington Lions Club 110 Percent Award and won a leadership award in his freshman year at UK.

The athletic banquet is to honor the college's outstanding men and women basketball players as well as its top intramural athletes.

Floyd Health Department To Share Use of Mobile Van

The Floyd County Health Department has recently obtained the services of a mobile van to make medical services more accessible to the people of the county.

The van, which will be shared by the health departments in Floyd, Magoffin, Martin, Johnson and Pike counties, is constructed so as to make clinic services easily accessible. Inside there is a small waiting room, a clinic room, an examination room, two dressing rooms and bathroom facilities. The unit is self-contained and has its own generator to provide electricity for all electrical equipment, including refrigeration and air-conditioning, and has its own water storage and sewage disposal tanks.

Earl Compton, administrator of the Floyd County Health Department, said he has been working for the past several months, trying to procure the van and making arrangements to utilize its services throughout the county.

The following services will be offered by the mobile clinic: Immunizations, blood pressures, pap smears, TB skin tests, diabetes screening, glaucoma screening, hemoglobin tests, family planning services, WIC services and screenings for the Kentucky Medical Assistance Program.

Over the past several years health department services to the various geographic areas in the county have been limited, due to lack of personnel and inability to transport all the records and supplies that are necessary to provide more complete services. The use of this mobile van will hopefully alleviate some of these problems and further reduce the number of illnesses and diseases within Floyd county.

'South from Hell fer Sartin' Dramatized, Auditions Slated

Auditions for "South From Hell Fer Sartin," a dramatized adaptation of Dr. Leonard Roberts' book of the same name, are set for Thursday, April 20 at 7 p.m. and Friday, April 21 at 2:30 p.m. in Faith Chapel at Pikeville College.

A celebration of mountain culture based on folk tales collected by Roberts, the Floyd countian who is the director of the college's Appalachian Studies Center, "South From Hell Fer Sartin" includes folk songs, dances, riddles, jokes, and stories, "all part of the oral literature tradition of the Western World, and particularly of Appalachia," commented Peggy Davis, instructor of sociology and anthropology at the college and director of the production.

There are roles for eight, four men and four women, of any ages from teens to seniors, Davis said that people who can play the banjo, fiddle, guitar, dulcimer, or autoharp are encouraged to come to auditions. "We don't particularly want professional actors. We need people who like to tell tales, sing songs, and dance old timey dances like square dancing and clogging."

The dramatization has been funded by the Kentucky Humanities Council and will involve four performances in June. All but one are on week-ends. One is set for Tuesday, June 27 at Alice Lloyd College.

One of the week-end shows will be at the Breaks Interstate Park, another will be held for the combined senior citizens' groups in Pike and Floyd counties. The location of the fourth performance has not yet been decided.

Anyone interested in participating in the production should come to auditions or contact Davis at 432-3161, extension 346.

Vest Quadrangle Map Open for Inspection

A geologic map of the Vest quadrangle, covering parts of Knott and Breathitt counties, has been released for open file inspection prior to final printing, according to representatives of the Kentucky Geological Survey at the University of Kentucky and the U.S. Geological Survey.

The map was prepared as part of the joint statewide geologic mapping program of the two geological surveys. The geologic map of the Vest quadrangle may be inspected at the publications office of the Kentucky Geological Survey, Room 404, Breckinridge Hall, University of Kentucky, Lexington.

The first umbrella in the U.S. is believed to have been used in Windsor Conn. in 1740. It produced a riot of merriment and derision.

Plants are blooming all over Kentucky.

Last year Kentucky welcomed 54 new industries and saw the expansion of 298 of the firms already located here. That makes over 2,800 companies supplying jobs and income to the citizens of the Commonwealth—285,000 direct manufacturing jobs and over $3 billion in annual wages.

Kentucky manufacturing industries are the largest employers in the state. As a result, everyone profits from the profits of industry.

Artist Series and Spring Show Set

The redbud is blooming in the mountains and foothills, creating a downy softness to the rugged country at Natural Bridge State Resort Park just off the Mountain Parkway. With violets, bluets and buttercups and other spring wildflowers helping gentle the rugged cliffs and boulders, it is a perfect setting for beauty of still another kind.

Following a custom of several years, artists have been invited to exhibit, demonstrate and sell their works on the balcony and in the lobby of beautiful Hemlock Lodge. This spring, Glenn Wilson started the artist series on April 9, followed by Russell May, of Prestonsburg, on April 16.

On April 22-23 Don Ensor will be guest artist, and, completing the April exhibits, will be Brett Johnson.

During May artists who will exhibit their art work in the lodge are Gary Akers on May 6-7; Helen Price Stacy,

May 14, and Nellie Meadows, May 20-21. The park also is sponsoring a spring arts and crafts show, June 3-4, in the new Activities building, located where the old Hemlock Lodge once stood. "Our Thanksgiving show has been so successful," remarked Mrs. Bush, "we felt that a similar exhibit and sale in late spring would be just as popular." The June event will feature artists, craftspeople and sales of hundreds of gift items from the park.

"I think Bybee Pottery will be here," she said, "and everyone knows how visitors stood in line last year." She was referring to Bybee's potter who threw clay on the wheel for hours, creating individual vases, candle holders and the like for visitors. (Don't tell too many, but the lovely items in clay were given to anyone who wanted one!)

The artist list for the June show and sale is not complete yet, but among those already contacted are Al Cornett, Georgia Gifts, Fort Boonesborough Gifts, Glenn Wilson, Larry Dolbertson, Brett Johnson, Gary Akers, Russell May, Nellie Meadows, Don Ensor and Helen Price Stacy.

Don't wait until June to visit this park, near Slade in Powell county. Before the redbud is gone, dogwood will be creating its beautiful version of snow on hillsides. One of Kentucky's most magnificent gifts to travelers is its springtime show when wildflowers star greenfields, and on the slopes and above the cliffline redbud and dogwood bloom beneath a blue, blue sky studded with a few fleecy clouds. This all awaits Parkway travelers and visitors to Natural Bridge.

HOMEMAKERS MEET

Members of the Day Homemakers Club met in the clubroom of the Kentucky Power Company, Tuesday afternoon, April 11, with Gertrude Bradbury and Muriel Prather as co-hostesses. The devotionals, entitled, "The Beauty of Spring," were presented by Otela Smiley. The text was from the Song of Solomon. Mrs. Hardin Short, president, presided. Members were reminded to be aware of the countywide cleanup campaign. It was announced that the Floyd County Homemakers' meeting will be held August 23 at the First United Methodist Church here. Plans will be announced at a later date.

The nominating committee, composed of Mrs. Opal Dingus, and Mrs. Dorothy Burke, submitted the names of officer-nominees for the year. Elected were: Mrs. Otela Smiley, president; Mrs. Opal Dingus, vice-president, and Mrs. Phyllis Herrick, secretary-treasurer. The installation of officers will take place during the May meeting.

Mrs. Frances Pitts presented the lesson on "The Growing of House Plants," illustrating her discussion with colored slides. Many of the members brought house plants for exchange.

Mrs. Norma Stepp and Mrs. Mae Kendrick were introduced as prospective members of the club.

The hostesses served a dessert course to Mesdames Becky Short, Phyllis Herrick, Ruth Francis, Grace Burke, Docia Woods, Alma Keenon, Opal Dingus, Dorothy Burke, Beatrice Collins, Peg Hewlett, Eleanor Horn, Gladys Blackburn, Ann Whorton, Otela Smiley, and guests, Mrs. Norma Stepp and Mrs. Mae Kendrick.

Senators Announce Black Lung Meeting Slated Here Apr. 25

Kentucky Senators Wendell H. Ford and Walter D. Huddleston announced last week that one of a series of "town meetings" to be held in Kentucky to furnish information about the newly-enacted Black Lung Benefits Reform Act of 1977 will be held at the courthouse here, April 25. Meetings will begin at 10 a.m., 2 and 7 p.m.

Six teams of two persons each will conduct the meetings to ensure that every person who has a chance to qualify for benefits under the new law is aware of the new liberalized requirements and how the program works, the senators said.

Under the new law thousands now have an opportunity to have their claims reviewed under its provisions. DOL expects that many persons who did not file claims under the old law will decide to file now. For that reason, the Department of Labor wants to get as much information about the law to interested persons across the country as quickly as possible. The teams will establish communications with miners, coal operators, unions, claimant associations and other individuals affected by the new law.

Permanent field offices will be established as quickly as possible where miners and others may obtain information on black lung benefits and requirements. The field informational campaign will be supplemented, nationwide, through various news media, fact sheets, informational leaflets, and brochures.

"We expect the miners to converge on these town meetings, and we believe the DOL will present the information in a highly understandable way," the senators said. "Reform in this area has taken far too long, but at last we seem to be getting noticeable results."

Conference To Study Non-Voting Trend Of Young Voters

The state is taking aim on a new silent majority, young non-voters, and will sponsor a day-long conference May 2 at Eastern Kentucky University on the causes and patterns of this growing trend.

The conference is part of a program, initiated by Secretary of State Drexell R. Davis, which is designed to get more Kentuckians registered and out to vote. Funded by the 1976 General Assembly and begun 18 months ago, the program's first phase included 10 months of research that suggested an alarming apathy among young voters.

According to Judson Edwards, director of voter education for the State Board of Elections, demographic studies in tandem with age analyses of county elections over the years 1973-'76 indicate that the major non-voting age range is 18-34. Only one out of five persons eligible to vote in this age range is actually voting, said Edwards.

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Floyd Circuit Court rendered at the April 21 term, 1977 and by Supplemental Judgment of April 4, 1978 in the above styled cause I shall proceed to offer for sale at the location of the property on the west side of the Old Mayo Trail in South Prestonsburg, Kentucky, to the highest and best bidder, at public auction, on the 29 day of April, 1978 at 10 o'clock a.m. same being a day of the regular term of the Floyd Circuit Court, for cash or upon a credit of six months, the following described property to-wit:

That certain tract or parcel of land lying and being in Floyd County, Kentucky, being the same land conveyed George L. Shannon et al by Anna B. Allen, widow, on September 11, 1963, recorded in Deed Book 183, page 274 and being the same property conveyed to George L. Shannon by Clifford B. Latta and Betty P. Latta, his wife, by deed dated the 16th day of November, 1965, and duly recorded in Deed Book 189, page 154, Floyd County Court Clerk's Office, and which is more particularly described as follows, viz:

Beginning at a stake and corner common with the line of Mason Moore and R-W line of the Kentucky Department of Highways, thence running as follows: N 20 degrees 30' E 651.03' to a stake and corner; S 53 degrees 07' E 126.81' to a stake; S 26 degrees 57' E 165.58' to a stake; S 33 degrees 07' E 62.46' to a stake; S 72 degrees 02' E 120.58' to a stake; S 38 degrees 03' E 145.28' to a stake; S 40 degrees 19' E 58.44' to a stake; S 65 degrees 07' 30' E 226.07' to a stake; S 35 degrees 19' 30' E 218.59' to a stake; S 32 degrees 59' 30' E 124.96' to a stake; S 31 degrees 45' E 155.18' to a stake; S 23 degrees 28' E 71.14' to a stake; S 12 degrees 54' 30' E 131.76' to a stake; S 03 degrees 36' E 140.84' to a stake; S 04 degrees 07' 30' E 119.36' to a stake; S 16 degrees 00' W 10.0' to a stake; S 39 degrees 29' 30' W 8.20' to a large sycamore in the R-W line of the Kentucky Department of Highways; thence running with the Highway R-W line 1430' to the beginning, containing 15.45 acres.

There is excluded from and not included in the above mortgaged description, that certain tract or parcel of land conveyed by George L. Shannon, et. us. to Donald L. Horn, by deed dated August 2, 1969, and recorded in Deed Book 200, page 248, Floyd County Court Clerk's Office, to which reference is made for a more particular description of said exclusion.

Subsequent to the judgment of April 21, 1977 this tract of land has been surveyed and platted into ten lots, all lots fronting on the right of way line of the old Mayo Trail, now Kentucky Highway No. 1428 which forms the southwesterly boundary of the entire tract, Lot 1 beginning at the beginning corner of this tract and running in a southeasterly direction with the right of way line of the State Highway a distance of 174.0' to a stake, and thence a straight line S 43 degrees 30' W a distance of 512' to the end of the fourth call of the tract as described and thence with the back line of the tract as described, to a stake at the extreme northern point of the land and thence in a direction of the reversed bearing N 20 degrees 30' W a distance of 651.03' to the point of beginning. The remaining lots Nos. 2 and 3 are rectangular in shape with their westerly and easterly boundaries, all having the same direction of S 43 degrees 30' W except that lot 10 for its easterly boundary has the direction S 39 degrees 13' W; all lots have as their southwesterly boundary the right of way line of the highway and have as their northwesterly boundary the back line of the tract as described. The width of the lots fronting on the highway of Lots 2-10 are respectively: 100.0'; 102.0'; 110.0'; 110.0'; 112.0'; 100.0'; 103.0'; 116.0'; 113.0'; the depth of the lots on their north-easterly boundaries are respectively as follows: 543.0'; 516.0'; 482.0'; 500.0'; 516.0'; 478.0'; 435.0'; 385.0'; and it is noted at this time that these distances mentioned in the descriptions of these lots are all approximate.

These lots are subject to an easement for a road or street having a width of 50' and extending from the southeasterly boundary of Lot 1 through the easterly boundary of Lot 10 adjacent to the highway right of way line so as to provide a street running down the front of each lot and it is noted that this easement is for the joint use and benefit of these 10 lots, only.

The amount of money to be raised by this sale shall be in the sum of $5,600.00 with interest thereon at 7 percent annually from August 10, 1975 until paid, and in the sum of $8,100.00 with interest thereon at 7 percent annually from November 24, 1975, the additional sum of $13,000.00 with interest thereon at 7 percent annually from the 30th day of August, 1975 and the sum of $11,410.00 with interest thereon at 8 1/2 percent annually from April 10, 1975 until satisfied and the costs of this action, including costs of advertising of this sale and the fees and commissions for conducting this sale.

Workers Idled By Plant Close To Receive Help

Congressman Carl D. Perkins had good news Wednesday for the upwards of 300 area residents who became unemployed with the closing of the Prestonsburg Shoe Company (U. S. Shoe) plant.

He announced that the U.S. Department of Labor will make trade adjustment assistance available to those laid off since last Oct. 29. They will be eligible for about 70 percent of their average pay per week for a period of 52 weeks; will be given special assistance in finding new jobs; will receive free training, also transportation help if they train a distance away from home. An allowance will be paid them for transportation while looking for work, and relocation help will be available if they have to move.

Perkins, who applied for the assistance immediately after learning of the plant closing, said he is "very gratified that these people have been helped." He suggested that they go to their nearest unemployment office to file necessary applications.

Meanwhile, the shoe company building remains unoccupied and it has no prospects of having a tenant soon.

Sound Happenings

Music is moving folks. So hang on, we've got some catching up to do!

The Allman Brothers Band returns? Well, maybe. Gregg Allman seems to be pondering a dropping of his sexy sidekick, Cher, and regrouping the old gang for a tour. However, Dickey Betts and Chuck Leavell are doing great on their own and seem to doubt the come-together. Dickey Betts and the Great Southern currently have a new album called "Atlanta's Burning Down" that is climbing the charts. Chuck Leavell and his group, Sea Level, have produced a second album, "Cats On the Coast," that is rising forward as a contemporary sound. Maybe Greg had better look elsewhere.

Gordon Lightfoot is upset with critics labeling him as a folk singer or a country-western artist. He considers himself a contemporary songwriter and set out to prove himself on his new album, "Endless Wire". The stronger beat and heavier guitar on the cuts, "The Circle is Small" and "Songs the Minstrel Sang," plus the almost rock 'n roll sound on "Endless Wire" definitely stray from his usual folk song style. Lightfoot, beginning with the heavy folk scene of Dylan and Peter, Paul, and Mary, broke away, established an all Canadian band and now sees himself as a writer and singer of all types of music. No doubt this artist is capable of such talent, however, he is just beginning to prove this to the public.

A hard rock ghost? How cool can you get? This seems to be the bid as critics bombard Frank Marino of Mahogany Rush with accusations of being a reincarnation of Jimi Hendrix. The Canadian band's star guitarist began with a style known to fans as Hendrix but is not developing more to his own. Check the heavy sound out for yourself on their new album "Mahogany Rush Live" and hope the critics will allow them to "rest in peace."

Who are, what is "Little Feat"? Well, first of all they have played on other artists albums as many times as they have their own. Linda Ronstadt (focus, focus) flitterized one of their songs, "Willin'", on her "Heart Like A Wheel" album. Lowell George, the group's leader and founder, runs the slide guitar on recordings of such well knowns as Bonnie Raitt and Robert Palmer. He is also been exposed to the zanies of Frank Zappa. An album history from beginning to current include: "Little Feat", "Sailin' Shoes", "Dixie Chicken", "Feats Don't Fail Me Now", "Last Record Album", "Time Loves A Hero", and "Waitin' for Columbus." The music style is along the lines of rock-blues done up tight and together. The album covers are outlandish and definite attractions in any collection. Their new release of "Waitin' for Columbus" is a live album done in London's Rainbow Theatre and the Lisner Auditorium in Washington, D.C. The double album includes some of the best cuts from previous albums that are a definite must for laid back listening pleasure.

Andrew Gold. Who is he? Where did he come from? This golden haired artist who first broke into the rock scene with his single, "Lonely Boy," emerged from the shadow of Linda Ronstadt. It began with heredity, as his father Ernest Gold has written many film scores including "The Exodus" and his mother was lip synch for Natalie Cole in "Westside Story" and for Audrey Hepburn in "My Fair Lady". Admiring the three big B's—the Beatles, Byrds, and Beach Boys—in 1969, Gold formed a group called the Bryndle which included Wendy Waldman, Karla Bonoff and Kenny Edwards. The band soon split with Ronstadt picking up the pieces: Bonoff's songs, Edwards as a bassman, and Gold as a backup vocalist and guitarist. Gold then became Ronstadt's arranger and things began to come together. Gold now has a new album, "All This and Heaven Too", which contains the hit single, "Thank You For Being a Friend." The sound is romantic rock with flares of guitar and piano produced by the master-to-be.

A tightly knit trio that is appearing more and more often is that of Carly Simon, James Taylor, and Paul Simon. Together they appear on Carly's new album, "Boys in the Trees." The work of these three remarkable artists tuned into Carly's style has definitely produced a winning album for the lady with a clear, haunting voice.

An unsung hero in country and western music is now singing his own and coming forth—Ed Bruce. Things began to move when Waylon and Willie recorded his song, "Mamas Don't Let Your Babies Grow Up to be Cowboys," and Bruce launched it from there. His new album, "The Tennessean," contains a skyrocketing single, "Love Somebody to Death," with other material by notables such as Dennis Wilson, Sonny Throckmorton, Bobby Borchers, and Dave Kirby plus his own work, of course. This man's voice is as smooth as a lazy country river but as exciting as sitting on the edge of a waterfall. One previous album that contained the single lately picked up by Waylon and Willie did not dent the country world in great fashion, but this new release is predicted to do that and more.

Ol' Waylon has found a new partner—nonetheless, Johnny Cash. He appears on Johnny's new album, "I Would Like to See You Again" in two cuts, "I Wish I Was Crazy Again" and "There Ain't No Good Chain Gang". The second cut also appears on Ed Bruce's new album. These two superstars will hit the television world on May 7 on Cash's CBS special of "Spring Fever." Other guests will include June Carter Cash, Jessi Colter, and Ray Charles.

Some works to look forward to that are currently in the studio are: Joe Walsh (Miami - Bayshore); Eagles (NY - Record Plant); UFO, Firefall (Miami - Criteria); Parton-Ronstadt-Harris, Player, Bee Gees (Miami - Criteria); Fleetwood Mac, Talking Heads (Nassau-Compass Point); Led Zeppelin, The Who, Rolling Stones (Paris).

DISAPPOINTMENT: Frank Pappalardi, the genius on the bass, for the once heavy rock group "Mountain" is now producing punk rock.

Don't forget Seger at Lexington Rupp Arena, April 29. Don't expect to wait till the last minute for tickets to this one, as they are doing fast. You can register for a drawing for two tickets to this big event at J.J.'s Soung Shop at Betsy Layne or Robinson Creek.

Gotta go, Coey.

Grape Vine Pruning Demonstrated

Although only one kind of fruit makes up the vine crops there are still differences in the pruning due to the growth habits of the different kinds of grapes. For example, French American hybrids tend to over-produce much more so than the American type grapes. Consequently the French-American hybrids must be pruned much heavier than the American variety.

The four-arm kniffin system is the most popular training system for grapes. The first step in training the grape vine by this system is to cut the plant back to two strong buds when it is set in the spring. When the shoots from the two buds get about one foot long the weakest bud should be removed. The shoot that is left should be tied to a stake or to a string if the trellis has been erected. If the shoot is tied to a stake then it should be tied about every 12 to 18 inches. When the shoot reaches 6 feet the top should be removed, this is the height of top wire of the trellis. The low wire should be about 3 feet high. After the main trunk has reached 6 feet, two to four buds should be allowed to push out growth at the top wire and two or three at the bottom wire. All shoots between the wire or below the bottom wire should be rubbed off.

Pruning on old vines should be done during the dormant period in early spring. The American grape varieties should be pruned 30 to 10 this means that 30 buds are left for the first pound of wood removed and 10 buds left for each additional pound of wood pruned from the vine.

Since French-American hybrids tend to over bear then a general formula 20 to 10 should be used. The new fruit tabloids are in and can be picked up at the Extension Office (Courthouse Annex or call 886-2668).

A stitch in time OR Elias Howe was a SEW-SEW inventor.

When Howe invented the sewing machine in 1846, he really got needed.

Some tailors said a machine could never replace hand work, or so it seemed.

But a few followed the thread of Howe's thinking. An automatic stitcher worked faster and more consistently, and the results were highly profitable.

Which happens to be the same reason folks today sign up for the Payroll Savings Plan. It's tailored to let you buy U.S. Savings Bonds automatically. And that makes saving faster and more consistent. With results that are highly profitable.

So, save regularly with U.S. Savings Bonds. You'll have your future all sewn up.

Series E Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4 1/2% the first year). Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Apple Pruning Methods Shown

Many of the fruit trees that are planted every year are not pruned properly if at all. The kind of pruning and training a tree received the first 1 to 4 years after it is planted may determine whether or not it will produce a maximum crop for the next 15 to 20 years. There are a few basic principles that the homeowner should follow when pruning any type of plant, and of course these principles must take into consideration such things as growth and fruiting habits of the plants.

Apples, peaches, plums, cherries, nectarines, and pears are included in the tree fruits. This group of fruits are probably abused most from the lack of pruning. Well-developed scaffold branches, with wide crotch angles is one of, if not the most important, principles to remember when training tree fruits. Also remember all cuts should be made flush with the limb or trunk. To train a tree to the modified central leader system, first cut the one year old unbranched whip, (for those who are wanting to plant apple trees, one year whips are the cheapest and easiest to train) back to about 36 to 40 inches in the spring or fall when the three is set. This will induce side branches. During the summer, the scaffold branches should be selected from the induce side branches. The first branch should be selected about 18 inches up from the ground, the next branch should be about 6 to 8 inches above the first limb but as close to the opposite side of the tree as possible. This is probably the most scaffold branches one can expect from the first year growth.

When the whip is cut back, the top 2 shoots nearest the cut will grow at a very sharp angle which will develop into very undesirable crotch angles. Remove one of these shoots in late spring or early summer. They can be rubbed off at this time by hand. This will cause less stress on the plant and as a result those selected branches will develop much faster for the first year.

The second year, the central leader should be cut back 30 inches higher than the last scaffold branch. All side branches should be cut back to about 10 to 18 inches with the bud nearest the cut facing away from the center of the tree. The third scaffold branch should be as near to a right angle to the first two limbs but 6 to 8 inches higher and the fourth should be on the opposite side of the third but 6 to 8 inches higher.

This same pattern of scaffold branch selection is followed until the desired height is attained. The selection of scaffold branches will probably take from three to six years. After all the scaffold branches are selected, most of the pruning that is done is for maintaining the tree. This pruning is done in the spring while the tree is still dormant. Maintenance pruning includes such pruning as removing watersprouts, cross branches, dead and diseased wood, unproductive wood and to thin branches, to allow light to the center of the tree, and also to reduce the number of fruit buds. At all times while pruning apple and pear trees one must keep in mind that apples and pears bear best fruit on old wood (2 year old fruit spurs.)

Although the one year old unbranched whip is the most desirable many people still buy two branch one year old trees. In this case as many scaffold branches should be selected from the existing material as possible. The top should be cut back 18 to 24 inches above the highest scaffold branch and selected scaffolds should be cut back to almost 8 to 10 inches. All other branches there are to be removed should be cut back to 4 to 6 inches. This will stunt the limbs but allow the tree trunk to grow. The following spring remove the 4-6 inch stubs, the trunk will be much larger than the stubs so consequently there will be less girdling effect.

Mrs. Kenneth Burchett is shown standing beside young apple tree which has been correctly pruned at a recent demonstration of apple tree pruning held at the Burchett farm at Goble-Roberts Addition.

After the stubs are removed the second spring, the pruning and training of a branched tree is the same as a unbranched tree. Those who attended the pruning demonstration held at the farm of Kenneth Burchett were:

Arthur Branson, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Keathley, Darwin Woods, D. W. Howard, Alice Rowe, Rev. Charlie Rowe, Nancy Roberts, Oma Reynolds, Oscar Reynolds, Wanda Paterno, Eugene Blackburn, Linda Burchett, Scott Wallen, Johnnie Lafferty, James Staggs, Elmo Rowe, Ledford T. The Farmer's Almanac

By MARYBELLE G. CAUDILL
A cherished friend observed that changing seasons revealed the scars of nature's many operations. Today, those scars are being temporarily healed, symbolic of God's greatness. Ironically, most of the scars of Appalachia conceal happy and priceless memories.

More than a quarter century ago, I visited a Letcher county home for the first time. As a teenager, I viewed the world through rose-colored glasses. The visit followed the end of a difficult winter and most anyone would know where a young girl's fancy lay at such a point in time. I saw the unique qualities of the home and the lady of the house; I grew to envy both.

Dad and Mom were the parents of eight healthy children—Five sons and three daughters. They owned three visibly worn books; two for reading and a third for display. The third book was "living" proof that Mom recognized and utilized "good" reading material.

shared by the parents for their spiritual manna. Its many lessons were used to guide their children along life's "straight and narrow." Their example has produced a harvest that she would have been so proud of.

The second book, "The Black Draught Farmer's Almanac," coupled with the manual labor of the five young sons, produced most of the food. It eliminated some of Dad's burden, taught the daughters how to preserve food, and provided the sons with the opportunity to put their boundless energy to good use. It also provided them with "a different way to make the same mistake—again". I found Mom's reliance on such a publication to be a source of comedy. The skeptic believes one plants seeds in the ground, not in the signs.

The third book: Of course, it was the family album that reflected the growth of the eight children, all of whom are living. Since the second book is the basis of my subject, I shall leave the others in their respective places.

Mom always obtained the first available copy of the publication, each year. She researched its pages with the determination of one preparing for a Ph.D. dissertation, and to her it was more valuable. The information she catalogued was passed to Dad and that determined when the sons did the planting, what they would plant, and when they would attend to the crops.

Their farmland was a field, turned edgewise, filled with thorny brambles, with the driftmouth of an abandoned mine, above them. It was also directly adjacent to the mine where Dad earned a living, tramping coal. Their constant companions were "Old Mag," the mule, a French harp, safely tucked inside the pocket of one of the younger boys, and too frequently a contraband deck or cards.

It was my impression that the boys accomplished a great deal by merely arriving at their destination. That farmland was "straight up a mountainside" and, at best, difficult to negotiate with a mule, farm implements, seeds and their lunch. According to the boys, Old Mag had already been the source of their greatest discontent by remaining in one place too long. Today, they intended to avoid a repeat performance by doing the work to their satisfaction, without harming the mule.

The farmland was considered "new ground" because it hadn't been tilled, was filled with thorny brambles, a few oak and chestnut stumps, and sporadic growths of moss in the driftmouth residue, red dog. The boys were instructed to grub the brambles, use the stumps as a border between the field and abandoned mine, and plow the ground before returning home. The rising sun was accompanied by abnormally hot temperatures; so the boys decided the shortest road home was to hitch Old Mag to the brambles and let her do the work. Unfortunately, she became entangled in one of the brambles and was halfway to the mouth of the hollow before being caught. They took Old Mag home and began the long, arduous task of removing the thorns from her hips with pliers. The error was considered only a slight infraction of the rules, one Dad confessed he "might" have made, under similar circumstances.

April 15th arrived. No, it didn't mean income tax deadlines: the signs were in the right place for the planting of corn and cornfield beans. The boys, with their "necessities" returned to the mountain. This time, they were determined to get their crops in while it was still cool. The musician, in charge of planting, managed to get the corn planted in record time. The second son realized they had forgotten to add the gallon of beans. As a solution to the problem, he promptly hid most of the beans in the oak stump and scattered the others throughout the red dog debris that "wouldn't sprout a weed."

The one I know best allegedly remarked, "Ralph, when that corn comes up without the beans, Dad's gonna know that something is wrong and we're all in trouble".

The optimist replied, "Don't worry, they won't come up".

When Dad went to assist in the harvest, he inquired about the absence of the beans. Before the boys could explain themselves, he spied them growing out of the stump and red dog.

There were two family mottos, each established by Mom and Dad. They were: "Solidarity in bad times as in good," and "Spare the rod and spoil the child." This time, when the punishment was meted out, there was no particular order.

Inasmuch as we "took a memory to lunch," Ralph confessed he might have counted the beans, only to learn that each of them sprouted. There were a few beans, despite the congestion of vines. A record crop might have been possible, had they been planted properly.

My husband and I didn't settle down to family living immediately following our marriage. He was transferred half a world away to war-torn, Korea. Although it was too late to plant a crop when he returned nearly two years later, Mom inquired, "Do you have an almanac?". "No," the skeptic voice replied. "We plant seeds in the ground, not in the signs."

"Well, you ain't housekeeping, then," and she handed me a belated wedding gift—"The Black Draught Farmer's Almanac".

The following spring, we planted our first garden. Neither of us could read an almanac; therefore, we planted our crops at will. We had the most beautiful bean vines I've ever seen. There was only one thing wrong: they bloomed nine times and not a single bean. Henceforth: "Mom, when's a good time to plant?" resounded in the house, prior to planting season.

To Attend Camp in East Floyd Student, Member Of 'Carson County' Cast

Scottie Lykens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Lykens, of Harold, who is currently enrolled in 10th grade at Betsy Layne High, has been chosen to be a summer camper at Camp Rising Sun located about 90 miles north of New York City.

This camp began in 1929 through the efforts of George Jonas in memory of his father. In addition to leadership potential and other criteria, the camper must be a true representative of the cultural area from which he is chosen.

The camp has an international atmosphere with campers from the United States and several foreign countries.

The Morehead State University Theatre will present the musical drama, "Carson County," by Sam J. Kibbey, for the reopening of the renovated Kibbey Theatre, April 19-22 and 27-29.

The play will be directed by Bob Willenbrink, Louisville graduate student. It tells the story of a romance which tries to overcome the political intrigue of a small Eastern Kentucky town.

Featured in the 8 p.m. production are Kevin Murphy, Fort Mitchell senior; John Matthews, Shelbyville senior; Jules Wieseman, Louisville sophomore, and Suzan Allen, Langley senior.

Kibbey, a member of the MSU Board of Regents, is an amateur actor and playwright. An attorney employed by Ashland Oil, Inc., he is active in community theatre in the Ashland area.

Only one variety of mushroom is grown commercially in the U.S. It can range from dark brown to pure white. Differences are negligible, but the darker ones are firmer, better for skewering, less easily bruised and—some believe—more flavorful.

Answers to Origin Often Inadequate

From all over the United States, they come seeking a key to their pasts. Vital statistics lures genealogical researchers to its records of births and deaths. Many find what they are looking for, but too often searchers leave in disappointment.

bound by law not to reveal the records in question," reports Omar Greeman, director of the Vital Statistics Branch of the Department for Human Resources.

Adoptees in search of their natural parents find that these records are of little benefit in their quest.

According to Greeman, legislation requires that the original birth certificate of an adopted child be sealed and closed to public inspection. A duplicate certificate is prepared, bearing the child's adopted name and the names of the adopting parents. When a copy is requested, only the duplicate certificate can be released. Release of the original birth certificate of an adopted child presently requires a court order.

Kentucky Revised Statute 199.570 specifically details that the original birth certificate should be sealed and marked "CONFIDENTIAL—subject to copy and for inspection only on written order of the court."

"This legislation was designed to protect the privacy of individuals who give their children up for adoption. An unexpected revelation of this sort could do a great deal of harm," commented Greeman.

Greeman has discovered that dealing with determined and often emotional searchers is a part of his job.

About his unpleasant task of denying the information, "It is very difficult. I attempt to explain why it is impossible for the office to give out the information; but for some, no explanation is acceptable. I'm in no way playing God, only upholding the law."

Problems for genealogists arise when they discover that the Vital Statistics Branch has records dating back no further than 1911.

Though the 1850 General Assembly set up provisions for recording the births and deaths of Kentuckians, the legislation proved inadequate. A constantly changing series of county officials, to whom the responsibility had been delegated, failed to yield an organized and efficient system of record keeping. As a result, a centralized office was established in Frankfort in 1911.

To frustrated genealogists, Greeman has several sources to recommend, including Kentucky's Historical Society which maintains an index of all birth and death certificates including those recorded prior to 1911.

The Boone National Guard Center in Frankfort maintains the Military Records and Research Library which will yield information on any Kentuckian who served in the military. The records include all Kentuckians who served during and after the War of 1812 and many Revolutionary War soldiers.

As Greeman points out, genealogical researchers will discover an invaluable source in the Division of Archives and Records. This Department of Libraries and Archives office maintains public records such as marriage licenses, wills, deeds and tax assessments. Since county officials determine what records are to be preserved, the archives are not all inclusive. However, investigators generally find reward for their efforts.

For the family history buff, sources abound; but public records continue to yield little information to those in search of an identity.

NEWS OF YOUTH

Track And Field Holds Great Appeal

Who can run the fastest? Who can jump the highest? This is the great appeal of track and field, for both young and old, for here athletic skills are reduced to their essence.

Perhaps, from today's youth will come our next Babe Didrikson Zaharias, our greatest woman athlete, six-time winner of the Female Athlete of the Year and winner of two gold medals in the 1932 Olympics. Perhaps there's a young Wilma Rudolph among them, too, winner of three gold medals in the 1960 Olympic games.

There are more programs today for young athletes to participate in, such as the 1977 National Track & Field Youth Program sponsored by Hershey's. The program is being conducted in 10 southeastern states this summer for 250,000 youths aged 10 to 15 to promote physical fitness.

If you want to stretch your mind as well as your body this year, one of three Conservation Summits offered by the National Wildlife Federation, a nonprofit conservation group, may meet your summer vacation specifications.

You can spend a week learning about nature while experiencing your education first hand at the Blue Ridge Summit, Black Mountain, N. C., June 24-30; the Rocky Mountain Summit, Estes Park, Colo., July 3-9, or the Adirondack Summit, Silver Bay, N.Y., July 30-August 5.

Designed for singles, couples, and families of all ages to get "back to nature," each Summit offers a wide variety of outdoor activities and more than 25 classes, including backpacking basics; introduction to edible and medicinal plants; outdoor cooking; tree, wildflower and bird identification; folk history; astronomy; fresh water biology; geology; photography, and art. Professionals teach the classes, and university credit may be earned.

For details about the Summits, including costs and accommodations, write to Conservation Summits, Dept. CS-6, National Wildlife Federation, 1412 16th Street, N. W., Washington, D.C. 20036.

Says Grain Reserve Has Many Benefits

"We believe that if a sufficient number of farmers participate in the reserve program, grain prices will rise. This is one big reason many farmers are responding to the program," Polk Hill, chairman of the Floyd County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) committee, said last week.

Mr. Hill noted that there are other important advantages in the program: Farmers retain ownership and control, permitting them to take advantage of later price increases. They can receive a commodity loan advance to help their cash flow while the grain is in reserve.

"The farmer receives annual storage payments in advance (25 cents per bushel for corn) from the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) to help pay the costs of reserve storage," Mr. Hill said.

Floyd farmers can sign up for the 1978 feed grain and wheat set-aside program, starting March 1, according to Sharon Conley, of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) committee. Set-aside requirements are 10 per cent for feed grain.

Participation in the program is voluntary. All farmers planting feed grain and/or wheat are eligible to participate in the voluntary program. Farmers who sign up will be eligible for price support loans, target price and disaster payments for corn, on the participating farm, and eligible for loans on any other normal crop acreage (NCA) grown on the farm.

Regional Meeting At PCC To Study Education Program

One of seven regional meetings to discuss compensatory education in Kentucky will be held April 28 for local administrators at Prestonsburg Community College.

Compensatory education, a program that is federally funded under Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, is designed to meet the special educational needs of educationally disadvantaged children.

The regional meetings will help local administrators of Title I programs plan for next year's program. All 181 local school districts conduct remedial reading programs with Title I funding. About 80 districts also offer remedial mathematics programs and a few districts have Title I kindergartens. Programs for migrant children and for neglected and delinquent children are included in the reading and mathematics programs.

Among the topics to be discussed at the regional meetings are parental involvement in Title I programs, how recent legislation will affect Title I in the local districts, in-service plans for next year, and conditions for new migrant projects.

Consumer Comments

By ROBERT F. STEPHENS
Attorney General
AUTOMOBILE INSURANCE
Automobile liability insurance in Kentucky is not a matter of choice for consumers, but rather a necessity. The Kentucky General Assembly recently passed a bill requiring all motor vehicles to display a sticker proving coverage of automobile liability insurance. These stickers will be sent to consumers by their automobile insurance company before September 1, 1978. A $50-$500 fine and suspension of their registration will be imposed for anyone not having liability insurance or displaying the sticker on their automobile after the September 1, 1978, deadline.

The Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division received inquiries daily regarding automobile insurance, particularly the cancellation and rate increase policies of automobile insurance companies. The Department of Insurance explains that an insurance company has sixty days to investigate and review an application for insurance.

If within that sixty day period the company elects not to accept liability coverage on that individual, that individual has the right to know the source of information which the insurance company based its decision. The insurance company is not required to give reasons for the denial. However, if a policy holder is told that his policy will not be renewed, the company must provide the policy holder with specific reasons for termination of the insurance and the source of their information.

Information about automobile accidents, traffic violations and other personal information is provided to insurance companies by independent reporting companies. The major reporting company in Kentucky is Equifax, Inc. located at 200 East Reynold Road, Lexington, Kentucky. Equifax, Inc. is a nationwide, independent informational reporting company that provides information to businesses, upon request, concerning consumer's inurance records, including automobile, life and health insurance. They also provide limited information on individuals' credit history.

Equifax is covered under the federal Fair Credit Reporting Act. Therefore, if a consumer is denied insurance, because of a report given by Equifax, Inc., the consumer has the right to know the nature and substance of the report. If the consumer disagrees with the report, a statement of 100 words or less, written by the consumer, can be attached to the file explaining the discrepancy. Equifax will then investigate the discrepancy. Any necessary corrections will be made and notice given to all parties affected by the report.

Any questions regarding automobile insurance or the cancellation of insurance policies should be made to Department of Insurance, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601. Their toll-free hotline number is 1-800-372-2967. Other questions or consumer complaints may be taken up with Office of the Attorney General Consumer Protection Division, 209 St. Clair Street, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601. The office has found that it can most effectively handle written complaints and encourages you to write if you have a consumer complaint. However, if you have an emergency situation or just need some information, call the toll-free consumer hotline number which is 1-800-372-2960.

Be the FIRST on your block.

Or the first in your town. Or even your state. That's the way it was back in 1862 when the government gave out new land for free. If you'd live on it.

They called it the Homestead Act. And you know who made it possible?

Americans taking stock in their new country through the public sale of government securities for money to purchase frontier territories.

That was how those Americans took stock in America; and today, you can take stock in America by buying U.S. Savings Bonds.

Because whether you buy Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan or where you save, you're not only helping your country, you're helping yourself, too.

So buy U.S. Savings Bonds. You may not be the first on your block, but you'll be number one at home.

Now U.S. Bonds pay 8 1/2% interest when held to maturity of 5 years. (4 1/2% the first year. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.)

THIS COULD BE THE START OF SOMETHING BIG.

One man. One match. One small trash fire. It all seems harmless enough. Yet, add to this a light wind. A flying spark. A dry forest ready to explode. And you've got all the makings of one raging Wildfire.

For this reason, unauthorized trash burning is illegal. And dangerous.

If you plan to burn trash or debris, call your local forestry agent for permission. Before you start something too big to handle.

WSCS MEETS

The Betsy Layne United Methodist Women's Society held its regular monthly meeting April 13 at the home of Mrs. Hettie Johnstone. The club president, Mrs. Willie Caldwell, presided. Opening prayer was by Mrs. Billie Osborne. The program leader, Mrs. Edith M. Stanley, presented the first of a series of lessons, entitled, "Women in the Bible." This first program was based on the book of Genesis. The program was closed with prayer by Mrs. Stanley. Attending were Mrs. Curtis Wallen, Mrs. G. H. Blackburn, Mrs. R. K. Larson, Mrs. B. C. Caldwell, Mrs. Eliza Blackburn, Mrs. Edith Stanley, Mrs. Dale L. Meade, Mrs. Emory Osborne, and Mrs. Dean Osborne. Refreshments were served to those present. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Eliza Blackburn, May 11.

Expert stilt walkers used to be able to travel as fast as a horse could trot. The foot-rests they used were often five or six feet above the ground.

Jaycees Again Ask Work To Correct US 23 Situation

Although the Floyd County Area Jaycees say they have no desire to carry on a "pen pal" correspondence about the matter, they again have called for state action on US 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville.

The following is a letter to Governor Carroll, signed by Phillip N. Price, Jaycees' internal vice-president:

"The Floyd County Area Jaycees feel that it is time that we bring to your attention what we and others feel is a dangerous and unacceptable situation. We are referring to the deplorable conditions of the high walls and cuts along U.S. 23-460 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville, Kentucky.

"Enclosed you will find copies of our previous correspondence with the Kentucky Department of Transportation and their replies. Conditions have not improved!

"We are well aware of the facts that projects such as these are very costly and that the Department of Transportation has started a reconstruction plan for U.S. 23; however, these facts do not negate the fact that the citizens who travel this section of road at present have a right to travel without a constant fear of impending doom from falling rocks.

"The time to begin is now! We are willing to begin with the Department of Transportation plan of benching the rock cliff in the vicinity of Ky 1428; however, we have had no confirmation that bids were taken and we are not willing to carry on an extended 'pen pal' correspondence with the Department of Transportation.

"Your are cordially invited to join us in correcting this situation and you are welcome to come at any time to visit with us and play 'Russian Roulette' by driving between Prestonsburg and Paintsville, Kentucky via U.S. 23."

Old Newspapers May Be Helpful to Ky. Historical Project

Old scrapbooks and yellowed newspapers which have been saved for generations may contain valuable material needed by the Kentucky Historical Society to publish a series, "The Public Papers of the Governors of Kentucky." The material includes newspaper accounts of speeches, letters of a public nature, executive orders and speeches printed as campaign flyers.

The society is working with the Kentucky Advisory Commission on Public Documents to publish the series, which will be furnished to schools and governmental offices and will be available to the public to buy. Thomas D. Clark, a Kentucky historian, is chairman of the 17-member committee appointed by the governor.

All material used for publication will appear with the contributor's name, according to Dr. Robert F. Sexton, general editor of the series. Material which is loaned will be microfilmed by the society and returned.

The state Historical Society will collect and screen all material submitted. "That material which is not used for publication will still be worthy of preservation and the society will add it to their library," Sexton explained.

For more information on contributing material for this project, contact General William Buster, the society's executive director, at (502) 564-3016.

Cigarette, the Main Culprit, But There Are Others, Report

By JEANNENE MANNING

Within the next five to ten years the medical profession should have enough information to determine an individual's risk in developing heart disease, emphysema or lung cancer, according to Dr. William H. Anderson, chief of the division of respiratory and environmental medicine at the University of Louisville School of Medicine.

The work being done by Anderson and his colleagues centers around the cigarette smoker and the factors in the smoker's physical make-up and environment that make him a greater risk in developing one of these serious diseases.

"The lines on which we are working are to see if we can develop evidence to aid in determining the risk (of developing one of these diseases) in certain people," Anderson said. "And it appears that genetic make-up is involved."

"The tobacco industry is right when they say cigarette smoking is not the sole cause of cancer," he said. "There are multiple factors in the causation of the disease."

Anderson's research involves the study of many patients suffering from heart and lung diseases, the patient's medical history, that of his family, and an investigation of his environment all help Anderson to reach new conclusions about the future of the cigarette smoker's health.

Anderson is studying three aspects of cigarette smoking—the tar, nicotine and carbon monoxide involved in smoking. He says the Federal Trade Commission measures the first two in cigarettes each six months, but nothing is being done to determine how much carbon monoxide a person takes into his body from smoking, and the effects from that carbon monoxide.

"We do know that carbon monoxide is related to heart disease," Anderson said. "Some people get rid of carbon monoxide faster than others. Women do better at that than men."

He added that active people get rid of carbon monoxide faster, and it is possible that this is one reason for exercise being a recommended prevention for heart disease.

"Carbon monoxide attaches to the hemoglobin in the blood 210 times more readily than oxygen," Anderson said. It deprives the heart of oxygen. Nicotine makes the heart work harder while we are taking away the oxygen and inhaling carbon monoxide.

Because of the extensive work done in Anderson's laboratory at Louisville General Hospital on carbon monoxide, the facility also is used by the coroner's office to determine whether carbon monoxide poisoning is the cause of death in such cases as fire deaths. It is the only laboratory in the Louisville area with this capability, Anderson said.

But there is much more to the work done in the laboratory. He said he and his colleagues have pretty well concluded that the material in tar is related to emphysema, and that nicotine as well as carbon monoxide is related to heart disease.

"Cigarette smoking does and does not cause lung cancer," Anderson said.

"Only 10 percent of all smokers are going to get lung cancer, which means smoking is not the only risk involved in getting lung cancer."

"But," he added, "only about one percent would develop lung cancer if they didn't smoke. And, approximately one-third of all smokers develop emphysema and chronic bronchitis."

As for the genetic theory about developing cancer, "We know that if there is someone back in the family with lung cancer, there is a greater risk in the future generations," he said.

The environment also has some effect on people, and there are occupational risks, too, such as working around asbestos, mining uranium and other things.

"People who live in Louisville are significantly more apt to get lung cancer than those who live in Bardonia or other towns of less than 25,000," he said.

And there are some socio-economic factors to consider, too. The decreases in the number of smokers in the last 16 years have been greater in the higher socio-economic group, Anderson said. "That's probably because the literature on smoking is more available to the higher socio-economic group," he said. Anderson's reputation as a pulmonary specialist is widespread. The 53-year-old physician has been at U of L since 1963 and has been chief of General Hospital's respiratory and environmental medicine section since 1964.

Major support for Anderson's research comes from the Kentucky Tobacco and Health Research Institute. His research into cigarette smoking and the diseases related to smoking is a continuous project.

But, one conclusion is already clear to Anderson: "If there is proven lung cancer in the blood relative, and a person regularly smokes more than one pack of cigarettes each day, then the chances are greater of that person getting lung cancer."

Named Kentucky Colonel

William B. Campbell, III, son of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Campbell, of Allen, recently received his commission as a Kentucky Colonel from Lt. Gov. Thelma L. Stovall, acting governor.

Mr. Campbell is a 1977 graduate of Prestonsburg High School and is attending Prestonsburg Community College where he is majoring in civil engineering.

In addition to his commission as a Kentucky Colonel, he received a special bicentennial dollar from Senator Jim Hammond who nominated him for the honor. In a letter, Senator Hammond said, "I am enclosing a special bicentennial dollar as a memento to you for your achievement and accomplishment. It should represent to you that you and I have to meet the needs of each new day and era."

Council Chairman Announces Camporee

Arthur Leach, of Prestonsburg, Boy Scouting chairman for Lonesome Pine Council, Boy Scouts of America, announced last week that the 1978 annual spring camporee will be held over the week-end of May 5, 6 and 7 at Breaks Interstate Park.

Approximately 400 Scouts and leaders from all 13 counties served by the Lonesome Pine Council are expected to attend this annual event at which groups of Scouts called "patrols" will vie in competitive events such as first-aid, fire building, axemanship or nature identification. In addition to the competition, each patrol will be judged on the neatness and suitability of its campsite, its cooperative patrol spirit and its cooking during the camporee.

In addition to the competitive events, the Scouts will enjoy campwide games and a giant closing campfire ceremony, Leach said.

Personal Service Contracts On Roads Above $2.9 Million

The Personal Service Contract Review Commission has approved $5.7 million in personal service contracts, more than $2.9 million of which were for transportation.

Nearly all of the contracts approved for transportation were for design of, and plans for, resource recovery roads.

Another $1.3 million was approved for design and plans for repair and construction of state buildings.

In other action, the commission approved a $2,907.12 contract with Wenz-Neely, of Louisville, but agreed to send a letter to Development Secretary William Short complaining that the contract has been requested more than nine months after the work had been done. The contract was for work on a slide presentation on the development department for last summer's Government Day.

Charles Lambert, deputy finance secretary, said that the contract, submitted long after the work was done, was not in accordance with the usual procedure for review of the contracts.

Contracts of $100,000 or more approved by the commission were:

—$190,000 to pay eight medical residents from the University of Louisville who are working at the Trover Clinic Foundation.

—$118,666 to Hittman Associates, Inc. to study the effects of vegetation filter zones on sediment run-off from strip mined land.

—$715,000 to Brighton Engineering to make location studies, prepare an engineering report, make cost comparisons and prepare other studies for resource recovery roads. Transportation Secretary Calvin Grayson said 15 projects are planned for resource recovery roads, six of which are represented by the contract approved last week.

Coal Severance Tax May Fall $10 Million Below Estimate

State revenues from the coal severance tax may fall about $10 million short of estimates this fiscal year because of the prolonged coal strike and cold winter, state revenue officials say.
 Commissioner Maurice Carpenter said he hopes increased sales tax revenues will compensate for the loss of coal taxes, however.
 Revenue officials have estimated that the state's general fund—which finances most state government operations—will reach $1.4 billion by June 30, the end of the fiscal year.
 In comparison, a loss of $10 million seems fairly minor—only about two-thirds of one percent of the total budget.
 "We're fortunate to have such a large general fund," said Paul Tanner, the Department's research director, "because there are compensating areas."
 Tanner said part of the lost severance tax revenue could be recouped in the 60 days before the end of the fiscal year, but it is unlikely the state will make up the bulk of the loss.
 The increased price of coal in the wake of the strike will help somewhat, he said, since the severance tax is based on the price of coal.
 The department originally estimated that the severance tax would bring in $131.2 million this year. A total of $112.6

was collected during the last fiscal year, Tanner said.
 "The strike was longer than we anticipated," he said. But he said it came at as good a time as any, since cold and snowy weather would have hampered coal production and transportation anyway.
 Tanner said the sales tax is producing more than was estimated, primarily because of inflation.
 "Inflation is going to help us out," he said. "It's more than we bargained it would be."
 Tanner said revenue analysts predicted an inflation rate of about 6 percent, but that it is running closer to 7 percent.
 "That will make up part of the (severance tax) loss," he said.
 Personal income tax returns are coming in more slowly than anticipated, leaving Revenue officials "on the edge of our chairs," Tanner said.
 Generally, returns are filed early by taxpayers who expect refunds, and late returns by those who owe some tax, he said, and Revenue officials are hoping that holds true this year.
 Corporate income tax revenues look good because corporation profits are up, he said.
 The only other unexpected decline in taxes has come in cigarette tax collections. Tanner said the state could lose about $750,000 in cigarette tax revenues this year, primarily as a result of the crackdown on cigarette bootlegging by other states. Last year the state got a little over $22 million from the tax.
 Tanner said cigarette consumption apparently has also declined.

Bernadette Kok Is Girls' Coach of Year

Bernadette Kok, Betsy Layne girls' basketball mentor, has been named Coach of the Year in the Floyd County Conference.
 The Betsy Layne Lady Cats, under Coach Kok's guidance, ended the season with a record of 26 wins, 2 losses. They emerged winner of the District Tournament, defeating both Prestonsburg and Allen Central. They then went on to the Regional Tournament with wins over Elkhorn City and Pikeville. They were stopped by a loss to Sheldon Clark in the final night's play of the regional.
 Lady Cats team members honored include Pam Clark, named to the all-conference and all-district teams; Vicki Salisbury, Mary Stumbo, and Carla Hammonds, all-conference team; Karen Newsome, Mary Stumbo and Carla Hammonds, all-district team.
 Betsy Layne fans look forward to an even better season next year with the return of Coach Kok and the following team members:
 Pam Clark, Sherry Watkins, Charolette Tackett, Debbie Presley, Jackie Samons, Brenda Kidd, Breena Reynolds, and Tammy Roberts.

Bell May Eliminate Special Church Rates

The Kentucky Public Service Commission (PSC) has authorized South Central Bell Telephone Co. to eliminate its special rates now given to charitable institutions, churches and clergymen.
 The PSC ruling does not eliminate concession rates for South Central Bell employees.
 The decision follows a Feb. 27 public hearing at which no protests were filed.
 The PSC noted that withdrawal of concession rates "is in the best interest of all South Central customers."

Strip-Mine Law Compliance Provisions Cited to Operators

The state Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Protection has sent a memorandum to all persons connected with the coal industry in the state outlining the schedules for compliance with Kentucky's new strip mine law.

The legislation and initial regulations, which also will govern the surface effects of deep mining operations, become effective May 3. The law, passed by the recent General Assembly, is in conformance with the initial regulatory program of the federal strip mine bill passed last August.

The memo was sent to 2,600 coal operators, coal company engineers and engineering consultants by Commissioner Gene Brandenburg of the department's Bureau of Surface Mining Regulation and Enforcement. In essence, it reminds the industry that all proposed and existing strip mining operations and surface operations associated with underground mining must comply with the new standards on and after May 3.

In addition, the memo outlines what procedures must be taken if there are problems with compliance. Existing underground mines have until Aug. 3 of this year to apply for a permit in accordance with the new laws, although they will be subject to the environmental protection performance standards beginning May 3. Structures and facilities at both surface and underground mines existing prior to May 3, and which cannot be brought into compliance by May 3, must be reconstructed or removed by Nov. 4 of this year. However, operators must submit to the department and to the director of the Office of Surface Mining in the U.S. Department of Interior, a statement by May 3 demonstrating why it is physically impossible to bring structures into compliance and a work schedule for doing so.

A professional engineer registered in the state must submit design plans for reconstruction no later than June 3, must be responsible for engineering inspection during reconstruction, and upon completion of the structure must submit two copies of "as-built" plans to the department accompanied by the engineer's certification that the work was done in accordance with his plans and meets the new standards.

The department is requiring that reconstruction start no later than the May 3 deadline, or not later than June 3 in the case of sedimentation ponds.

With sedimentation ponds, a "hazard classification" must be determined by the design engineer according to a state regulation administered by the Division of Water Resources, also in the natural resources department. If structures are classified as moderate to high hazards, operators must apply for a permit from the Division of Water Resources.

In most cases the new standards will require larger sedimentation ponds. The hazard classification requirement is consistent with existing department regulations in dams and will insure that existing small, low-hazard dams are not made larger and more potentially hazardous unless appropriate engineering design and construction standards are followed.

The memo also stated that new application forms and instruction manuals for completing the new forms will be available from the Division of Permits by April 17, and that only new applications in accordance with the new law can be accepted on or after April 18 because of the time required to review and process permit applications.

To Crown Successor

Pamela Ann Burke will crown her successor to the title of Tiny Miss Springtime Saturday night in ceremonies at Allen Central High School. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Danny Burke, of Martin.

CORRECTION

In last week's item concerning the birthday party of Mrs. Beulah Hayes Martin, the names of Mr. and Mrs. Crit Martin were mistakenly omitted. The name of Eddie Taylor, of Martin, was also incorrectly listed as Taylor Martin.

Drivers Have Opportunity To Make Lifesaving Gift

What do a Kentucky driver license, kidneys and eyes have in common? The answer to this riddle is printed on the back of 1.8 million driver licenses and more than 900,000 new ones to be issued this year.

A driver license can hold a lifesaving gift, according to Gene Hodges, director of the Driver Licensing Division in the state Department of Transportation. It can be a chance for hundreds of Kentuckians with kidney disease or blindness to get the surgery they need to live normal healthy lives.

Signing the simple form on the reverse side of a driver's license, along with two witnesses, can make any adult 18 or older an organ donor. It means that upon death the donor's kidneys, eyes or other organs can be used for transplants.

But, apparently, few Kentucky drivers are signing the backs of their licenses. Organ donors are in critically short supply, according to Kidney Foundation and Lions Eye Foundation spokesmen.

The Kidney Foundation has reported that about 50 people are waiting for surgery that could release them from expensive and time consuming treatments that purify their blood by filtering it through a dialysis machine.

Dr. Ron Wathan, a kidney specialist at the University of Louisville School of Medicine, estimates that roughly 450 Kentuckians depend on dialysis machines, and about 50 percent of those could receive transplanted kidneys—if kidneys were available.

But the majority of kidneys from unrelated donors used last year in 73 transplant operations at Louisville and Lexington came from out-of-state donors, he said.

Dr. Richard Eiferman, an assistant professor of ophthalmology at the University of Louisville, works with the Lions Eye Foundation. He says 50 people are currently waiting for corneas to become available.

The cornea is a clear disc that covers the colored part of the eye. Eiferman said transplants are about 90 percent successful and the operation usually takes about 45 minutes. He described the current supply of cornea tissue at the Lions Eye Bank as "miserable."

Eiferman said corneas can be stored for only 72 hours at best, so a regular supply of the eye tissue is needed to keep the eye bank stocked.

Dr. Wathan similarly described last year's efforts to obtain kidneys as "a disaster."

Both men agreed that if more licensed drivers would sign the backs of their licenses, and if emergency medical personnel were alerted to the organ donor program, the kidneys and corneas from highway accident victims alone would probably meet current needs.

Each death from a highway accident or any other cause holds the potential for four successful operations—two kidneys and two corneas—if the accident victim's driver license is signed and prompt action taken to alert hospitals upon death of the victim, Eiferman said.

But a University of Kentucky medical center kidney specialist could recall only three transplants since 1975 from driver license donors.

A recent emergency case, Eiferman recalled, found a patient ready for a cornea transplant, but no available tissue at the eye bank. During the same day he heard news reports of traffic fatalities, but no eye donors. Eiferman noted that the Lions Eye Foundation is on call 24 hours a day to receive eye donations.

According to the Department of Transportation, non-driver identification cards also carry the organ donor form on the reverse side. The cards are available at County Clerks' offices. The licenses and identification cards can be signed at any time directly on the plastic with an ordinary ballpoint pen.

ASCS Office Receiving Cost-Share Applications

The Floyd County ASCS office is taking applications for cost-sharing under the 1978 Agricultural Conservation Program. The purpose of the program is to solve conservation and pollution problems on the farm.

ACP cost-sharing funds are used to correct conservation and pollution problems on a farm beyond that which would be accomplished with the farmer's own resources. The program provides both technical and financial assistance to farmers whose land is a source of agricultural pollution or affected by wind or water erosion. The maximum cost-shares that a person can earn annually for conservation practices under ACP is $2,500.

Practices available are:

Establishing or improving permanent vegetative cover; underground drainage system; water impoundment reservoirs; diversions; grazing land protection; cropland protective cover; permanent vegetative cover on critical areas; sediment retention, erosion or water control; stream protection; sod waterways; animal waste control; planting trees; improving a stand of forest trees; permanent wildlife habitat; shallow water areas for wildlife; streambank stabilization.

Farmers who wish to learn more about the program should contact their local ASCS Office, 886-2802.

CANCER Answerline

American Cancer Society

A regular feature, prepared by the American Cancer Society to help save your life from cancer.

A high school student asks: "How is cancer research information exchanged around the world?"

ANSWERline: Cancer research is truly international. Scientists meet face-to-face at conferences held in many different nations and publish information in journals with wide circulation. Through the International Association Against Cancer (UICC), with headquarters in Switzerland, the American Cancer Society shares information with other cancer control agencies. The ACS sponsors a special Eleanor Roosevelt - International Cancer Fellowship grant program to permit investigators to work abroad and cancer researchers from other countries to work in the U.S. The National Library of Medicine in Bethesda, Md. is part of a cancer research information computer program that is plugged into 500 locations in the U.S. and in several foreign countries. Here, there is information on thousands of published scientific papers and on ongoing cancer research projects and treatment regimes involving patients throughout the world.

An upholsterer explains: "My aunt had cancer and took Laetrile. She is still alive a year later. Isn't that proof that Laetrile works?"

ANSWERline: Too many facts are missing to use the word "proof" for your aunt's experience. Scientific proof is based on meticulous study of objective facts that can be verified by repeating the results, first in laboratory animals and then in patients. First it would have to be scientifically determined through microscopic biopsy examination of your aunt's body tissues that she does indeed have cancer. If she does have cancer, the type would influence the fact that she is still alive because some cancers grow more slowly than others. Hence the fact that she is alive would not be "proof" of cure. There are other important questions to ask. For example, did your aunt have any other kind of cancer therapy? If she did, she might be responding to that treatment and not to Laetrile. It is an extract of apricot pits that has been rigorously tested and has never been proven useful in treating cancer. Nonetheless, the scientific community is interested in your aunt's experience. If your aunt believes that Laetrile helped her and she is willing to offer complete details of her health history and treatment, she should ask her physician to submit her case records to the National Cancer Institute in Bethesda, Md. which is now reviewing this kind of information.

A reader asks: "How many Americans will get cancer in 1978?"

ANSWERline: The American Cancer Society and the National Cancer Institute estimate that there will be 700,000 cases of cancer diagnosed for the first time in 1978. This number excludes very common, curable forms of skin cancer and very early cervical cancer which also can be easily controlled.

East Kentucky Unemployment State's Highest During Strike

The eastern Kentucky area had the state's highest rate of unemployment in February, according to Robert MacDonald, chief labor analyst for the Department for Human Resources.

"The coal strike was responsible for the high levels of unemployment," said MacDonald.

The unemployment rate rose from 8.5 percent in January to 10.4 percent in February. The 30,128 persons unemployed in eastern Kentucky constituted 29.6 percent of the state's total unemployment.

Letcher county had the highest rate of 16.4 percent while Martin county had the lowest at 4.3 percent. Floyd county's rose to 13.2.

February figures for other area counties follow:

Bath 12.2, Bell 8.5, Boyd 6.9, Breathitt 8.6, Carter 14.1, Clay 11.3, Elliott 7.6, Greenup 7.0, Harlan 9.7, Jackson 11.8, Johnson 9.2, Knott 15.5, Knox 8.8, Laurel 6.9, Lawrence 13.2, Lee 15.2, Leslie 11.8, McCreary 10.8, Magoffin 14.5, Martin 4.3, Menifee 14.3, Montgomery 9.8, Morgan 11.6, Owsley 13.0, Perry 10.7, Pike 14.9, Pulaski 7.7, Rockcastle 9.0, Rowan 8.6, Wayne 10.7, Whitley 9.5, Wolfe 12.0.
