Governor Creates Committee on Rail Safety and Service

Gov. Julian Carroll last week established a special commission on Railroad Safety and Service to represent the state's interest in matters concerning rail safety and service.

"This commission will guarantee continuity and coordination in pursuit of the state's interest both before federal agencies and in proceedings in Kentucky," the Governor said.

Chairing the new commission will be former Commerce Commissioner W. Terry McBrayer, who until his resignation Aug. 1 had coordinated the state's activities particularly in regard to coal service problems.

Members are Agriculture Commissioner Thomas O. Harris, who has been involved in similar problems with rail car shipments of grain; Bert T. Combs, the attorney for several of the unit-train coal shippers; Fred Karem, attorney for several of the single-car coal shippers; and William H. Cull, the attorney on Gov. Carroll's staff who has been following the rail problems.

The five will serve without pay, but will be compensated for necessary expenses. The commission is attached to the Department of Commerce for staff and administrative support.

No School "Emergency Days" Before They Happen, Board Rules

The State Board for Elementary and Secondary Education has indicated that it will not give approval for a school district's emergency days before the emergency has occurred.

Seventeen local school districts have submitted requests to the Department of Education to operate with extended school days so that they can stockpile days to be used in the event of a severe winter such as the last two winters have been. Randy Kimbrough, head of the Bureau of the Bureau of Instruction, told the board at its special meeting last Friday that most of the districts requesting the extended days had missed more than 20 days last winter due to the bad weather.

Senate Bill 198, passed during the 1978 General Assembly, gives districts the option of extending the school day to make up days missed during an emergency prior to the emergency if they have approval of the elementary and secondary board.

Superintendent of Public Instruction James B. Graham said he would not recommend approving the extended day "until we know what the winter will bring." He suggested that the board give retroactive approval to districts requesting the extended day if an emergency situation arises.

Graham said the education department had already suggested to local districts that they build 20 days into their calendars that could be used as emergency days if the need arises. Under the new law, he said, they can "bank" emergency days to be used if they are needed.

The board will consider the requests for extended days again at its quarterly meeting in December.

THE ESTIMATED national average current expenditure per pupil for 1977-'78 is $1,742. Kentucky's equivalent expenditure is $1,298.

Want To See a UFO?— Try Estill County Area

If you want to see a UFO, the Irvine area in Estill county may be your spot.

Estill county may, some say, be the UFO capital of the United States. For months strange objects have been sighted in the skies there, moving at incredible speeds, often changing color as they hover above trees or skim along over highways. That's what people report.

State Trooper Jim Whitaker has encountered them twice.

Terry Kirby, a 16-year-old schoolboy, managed to photograph one of the dozens of weird shapes that he has observed.

An elderly minister and his wife, who had a frightening experience while driving to Sunday night services, have decided that if it occurs again, they won't talk about it.

Whitaker isn't reluctant to discuss the incident that took place last February while he was patrolling near here.

"I was able to get within 300 yards of this thing, which was about as big as an auto," the 29-year-old trooper recalled. "There was no noise like you'd hear from a plane, and no vapor trail, but it gave off a red, blue and green glow and was rectangular in shape."

Whitaker watched for nearly four hours as the object "ran along at an ungodly speed, stopped abruptly and started up again, and did 90-degree turns. No remote control system could make the craft perform like that. Somebody or something had to be aboard."

Whitaker, who spent four years as a Navy helicopter crewman, is convinced that what he saw wasn't an aircraft. "It had to be a UFO."

Two weeks ago, while traveling in the same area, he got a glimpse of another one. "I'm getting over my surprise," he said. "They're becoming quite common up here."

Kirby, a junior at Estill County High School, agreed with Whitaker.

The teen-ager believes there is life on other planets and "they could be coming down to take a look at us."

Kirby has proof of what he observed. The photograph was taken in February, 1977, when a glowing, oval shape appeared near his home.

"I grabbed my camera and was able to get a picture before the thing zoomed away. It was as large as a house."

Such sightings are becoming commonplace to the youngster. He says he has witnessed them for two years. Last week, while Kirby and his parents were outside, "a white light appeared, changed to orange, and then disappeared over the horizon."

"I wish one of them would land," he said.

That wish isn't shared by the Rev. Elmer Hardy and his wife, Lucille. They

Review Group Postpones Strip Mine Move Till Aug. 23

Proposed state regulations to meet interim federal strip mine standards have been submitted to a legislative review subcommittee.

The Administrative Regulations Review Subcommittee postponed action on the regulations—submitted by the state Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection—until Aug. 23.

Meanwhile, the department said underground mine operators are being given a three-month extension to make full application for surface disturbance permits.

The federal law covers disturbances to the surface of the land by underground mining, as well as surface mining disturbances—and existing underground mines had been given until today to apply for a permit.

However, Gene Brandenburg, commissioner of the Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation, said the Aug. 3 deadline was creating a burden for coal operators and also for his Division of Permits in processing the large number of applications.

Brandenburg said the operators will be allowed to apply for and receive a temporary authorization for surface disturbance that will be good until Nov. 4.

He said the more involved and technical full permit applications will be due by then.

The proposed regulations submitted Wednesday are a modification of emergency regulations which have been in effect since May 3, allowing the state to enforce the interim standards of the 1977 federal strip mine act.

Brandenburg said there are several changes in the regulations resulting from both a federal court ruling and comments at a public hearing in June.

He said the most substantive changes are to conform with the May ruling of U.S. District Judge Thomas Flannery, who struck down some parts of the federal law. The sections of the Kentucky regulations implementing the federal standards thrown out by Flannery have been removed, Brandenburg said.

While several coal operators and residents of Eastern Kentucky were critical of the regulations at the June hearing, Brandenburg said the department was limited in the changes it could

Setser To Coach in New Jersey

By KENNY RICE

"I hate to leave this area. I grew up here and I have always liked living in this section," Fred Setser recently said, "But my future lies away from eastern Kentucky."

Setser, who resigned as basketball coach at Prestonsburg High earlier this month, will be coaching basketball and tennis at a high school in Millville, N.J., this year. Millville is in the southern part of the state, approximately 15 miles from Atlantic City.

"I have enjoyed coaching at Prestonsburg. The competition from the other schools in Floyd county and the 15th Region was always exciting and I looked forward to it each season," Setser added, "However, I feel it is to my advantage to take this job in New Jersey. There is room for advancement and the offer was too good to pass up."

During the six years Setser coached at Prestonsburg, his teams won the Sandy Valley Conference championship, the 58th district tournament, which marked the first time in over a decade and a half PHS won the district, and were twice 15th regional tournament semi-finalists. Setser's 1974-'75 team was one of Kentucky's winningest teams that season, with a 28-3 record. Setser coached baseball at Prestonsburg four years. His teams advanced to regional tourney play three seasons, winning the district title three times.

Safety Analyst Program Credited for Fewer Deaths

LEXINGTON, Ky.—Underground mine fatalities in Kentucky have decreased sharply this year, and the state's top mining official credits the new mine safety analyst program.

"We've only had three underground fatalities this year," H. N. Kirkpatrick, state commissioner of the Department of Mines and Minerals, said yesterday. "We're real pleased. We feel like the program is working."

Eighteen miners had died in deep mines by this time last year, and 30 miners died underground during the first seven months of 1976.

Explosions at the Scotia Coal Co. mine at Oven Fork March 9 and March 11 accounted for 23 of those deaths. Three federal inspectors were also killed in the second blast.

In hopes of preventing another Scotia, the General Assembly established the safety analyst program in 1976.

However, Kirkpatrick said, "we just started moving, getting in high gear this year." Pay scales originally were set low and the state could hire only a few of the 100 analysts provided for in the legislation, he said.

After the Personnel Department upgraded the pay scales, the state could recruit more, with the same qualifications as state inspectors, Kirkpatrick said in a telephone interview.

Only 70 analysts have been hired, and Kirkpatrick said he is not rushing to recruit the remaining 30.

"We are still recruiting, but we're over the hump, and we're not taking anyone just for the sake of quantity," he said. "I'd rather have 70 top people and be able to pay them well."

Analysts have the same authority as inspectors to close a mine or to pull men from a section if they believe danger exists. But their emphasis is on correcting safety problems, not on citing operators, Kirkpatrick said.

When they get to a mine they examine the roof control plan, ventilation, rock dust and general cleanup. Then they study the miners' work habits. If they see careless or dangerous practices, such as a crew working under an unsupported roof, they make recommendations for safer procedures.

Analysts are involved in investigating all deep-mine fatalities and are able to tell other mine workers how those accidents occurred and how they can avoid them, Kirkpatrick said.

The analysts' top priority is working with miners in gaseous mines and in mines with ventilation problems.

Although there are about 1,500 deep mines in Kentucky, only about 70 mines in Western Kentucky and 10 Eastern Kentucky are considered top priority operations, Kirkpatrick said. Most of the deep mines in eastern Kentucky are small operations, which are relatively easy to check, he said.

Retired Teachers Hear KRTA Leaders Here

The Floyd County Teachers' Association held its regular quarterly meeting Saturday at the Emma Wells May Cultural Center here.

Following the devotional, the minutes were read by the secretary, Mrs. Norma Stepp, and approved.

Mrs. Roberts then introduced Dr. J. Marvin Dodson, former secretary of the Kentucky Education Association.

Dellard Moor, president of the Kentucky Retired Teachers' Association, discussed "Plans and Goals for the Coming Year."

Following these discussions, Mrs. Lucy Regan, chairman of the committee to sell tickets for a Billy Graham film asked for a committee to be appointed to help in this endeavor.

Mrs. Kelsa Elliott mentioned that many retired teachers, who would like to attend the local meetings, do not have transportation.

Clem Martin suggested that persons who have taught 30 years be contacted regarding becoming members of the FCTA.

The president announced that the next meeting will be held on Saturday, November 11, at 12 o'clock noon, at the Floyd County Regional Library here.

The group welcomed Miss Ruby Akers, of Drift, as a new member, and Mrs. Nellie Webb, formerly of Garrett, presently of Columbus, Ohio.

Others attending this event were: the Rev. Walter Applegate, Dr. J. Marvin Dodson, Dellard Moor and Mr. and Mrs. Les Wetherell, all of the KRTA.

Many Coal Counties Slow with Reports

Only 18 of the 46 coal-producing counties have responded to a legislative advisory committee request for a status report on the projects, the Department for Local Government has reported to the committee.

Committee members then requested that they be provided with a list to do some personal checking. The lawmakers have voiced concern about projects for which funding has been allocated but on which there has been no action.

Legislators also received copies of proposed regulations covering the 1978 coal severance allocation legislation.

A recommendation by the legislators, subject to the approval of the Department for Finance and Administration, would allow counties having a balance of less than $1500 remaining in 1974 funds to add these funds to projects previously funded.

Receiving committee approval were increases in three projects—Mud Creek Water District, $19,920; Johnson county industrial access road, $13,000, and Johnson county courthouse renovation, $8,643.90.

Ex-Sheriff Joe Wheeler Lewis' Answer to Last Week's Issue of The Floyd County Times Story

LAY THE FACTS ON THE LINE ANSWER TO THE SUIT FILED IN THE UNITED STATES COURT

On June 30, 1977 two deputies arrested a man from Virgie of Pike county, Kentucky. The within named subject was Raymond Hampton; he was lodged in the county jail but only stayed a short time, then was released. One year later, minus three days, this subject filed a suit in Federal Court. Mr. Hampton came up for trial and he was not present. His attorney called the magistrate and had the case continued and it was continued again and was later dismissed without the sheriff or the deputies knowing any thing about it. The suit filed read as follows:

Raymond Lee Hampton and Jacqueline Faye Hampton VS

J. D. Martin, Melvin Martin, Joe Wheeler Lewis, Rati Stumbo, ADM. for the estate of deceased (Henry Stumbo), Dewey Roberts, Ken Roberts, Bill Wells, Leroy Akers, constituting Floyd County Fiscal Court.

Why did Mr. Hampton wait for one year before he filed his suit? Why didn't he mention his problem with the sheriff? The reason was, I was present when he was brought to jail.

Now we go to see the Attorney General. Off they go, Arnold Turner, Ray Wilcox, Hershell Hamilton, Kenneth Roberts and Eddie Caudill. It is only three hours' drive to Frankfort, Kentucky but they go and stay overnight. The trip consisted of two days and one night, all at the county's expense. Wouldn't it been better to have made a phone call?

Did you carefully read the last week's issue of the Floyd County Times? The paper did not say what the attorney told them about the law suit the officials were involved in. Two of the magistrates, Ray Wilcox and Hershell Hamilton, were not defendants in the case. If they were interested in the case alone, then why didn't they take the defendants, Bill Wells, Dewey Roberts, J.D. Martin, Melvin Martin and the ex-sheriff Joe Wheeler Lewis, along with them.

Now what did they really go for? The intention of the trip was the ex-sheriff Joe Wheeler Lewis who is at the present time a special officer in the city of Wheelwright, Kentucky, checking his authority to make arrest in Floyd county.

Statute 95.800 reads as follows: 1. The police or city marshal in a sixth class city shall be under the control and direction of the city marshal.

2. The marshal shall have the powers of a sheriff. His lawful duty of orders shall be promptly executed by deputies, police and watchmen of the city, and citizens shall lend him aid when required for the arrest of offenders to maintain order.

Statute OAG 38.805 reads as follows: A person who does not reside in a city which he desires to serve as a police officer may be appointed a nonelective peace officer such as a deputy sheriff, deputy constable, etc., providing he possesses the qualifications, or he may be appointed a special local peace officer.

Questions they should have asked: 1. Can a magistrate draw a salary of $13,500.00 each year from the county fund and work steady at a private business? Should he be out looking after muddy, muddy roads for the taxpayers of the county? We have the same old roads we have had for years.

2. Can a magistrate serve as magistrate and be a security guard or some other type of an officer for a coal company? Answer: Providing he has not hired himself out for the past two years to perform any services, or receive any compensation from any private source for acting as a private paid detective, policeman, guard, etc. No one can even be a deputy sheriff and have rendered any of the above duties.

Answer to the Blue Cross statement: I don't suppose many people out in the county are familiar with the Blue Cross Plan which our Floyd County Fiscal Court has adopted. The employee does not pay anything into the plan but the county pays it for all employees. Now whoever is responsible for the payments has made a mistake and trying to PASS THE BUCK. I have been of the opinion since January 15, 1978 that I was not a member Blue Cross Plan.

Answer to the question about using county car:

I am sorry to inform you how little our fiscal court knows about our problems. I am sure if they had checked the registration plate they would not have had the editor to print all these mistakes. This vehicle I drive is unmarked and I purchased this vehicle from Mr. Milt Hunt while I was Sheriff. Beginning of 1978, I gave this vehicle to my son, Doug Lewis, who is now the present sheriff. It has never been a county-owned vehicle nor have I ever driven a county-owned vehicle since January, 1978.

Answer to the question about county retirement:

It is my understanding that any official who has contributed to the retirement fund and his term of office has expired can still contribute to the fund. I do not know whether or not I am on the list of the retirement plan. The sheriff's secretary presents him with a figure for which to write a check by. The employer pays half of the plan and the county pays the other half. Now who ever looks after the county affair should have mentioned it before now. I suppose it is an oversight.

Answer to my salary as employee:

Being the outgoing sheriff as of January 1, 1978, I was partly responsible for the tax settlement which took place in June of 1978. The sheriff being the youngest sheriff that was ever elected in Floyd County and his secretary being new on the job and not understanding all the tax reports she had to prepare monthly, daily and quarterly, they asked me if I would help until the settlement on tax was made. I worked long hours in office helping and out in the county with inexperienced deputies. I have worked a large number of burglary cases and caught every bootlegger I could. My salary was not mentioned. The sheriff has paid me from his personal account until the time I was leaving, then a boy was murdered at Bevinville, Ky. The sheriff asked me if I would assist some deputy with the investigation. This I did and did my best.

Comments on many questions I have been asked:

1. Have you stepped on someone's toes?
2. Has some one been trying to organize crime (bootlegging)?
3. Have you failed to go along with the crowd?

I want to thank all of the good people who have in the past worked harder for me than I have them. Now if you think I have done any wrong, please let me know.

JOE WHEELER LEWIS 1t.

Check for sod webworm or white grub activity in lawns and spray if necessary.

Vegetables

Sow fall lettuce, mustard, radishes, kohlrabi, kale, endive, chinese cabbage, turnips and brussels sprout seed in areas of the garden vacated by earlier crops.

Keep cantaloupes and melons off the ground with a piece of board or other material to prevent decay where soil is damp.

As vegetables begin to set fruit, sidedress fertilize with ammonium nitrate (33-0-0). Do not fertilize root crops or melons with high nitrogen as it would cause lush leaf production with small fruits.

Check with your University of Kentucky County Extension Agent for the most recent recommendations on insects and diseases for your ornamentals, vegetables and fruits.

Lawns

Apply fertilizer and lime to sites for new lawns.

Late August is the best time of the year to seed or renovate bluegrass and fescue lawns. Dethatch bluegrass if thatch is over 1/2 inch thick.

Fruits

Spray the second time for peach tree borers on the 1st of the month.

Spray the 6th time for lesser peach tree borers on the 15th of the month.

Plant rooted strawberry runners.

Cut out fruited shoots of brambles and tie in new shoots.

Summer prune apples and pears.

Arthritis Campaign Issues Early Alert

"Play it safe," the Kentucky Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation urges all residents in order to protect their bodies against the pain and crippling of arthritis.

The local Arthritis Foundation voluntary health association has issued a four-point alert to all citizens to inform them of the early warning signs of arthritis:

Persistent pain and joint stiffness on arising; pain, tenderness or swelling in one or more joints; recurrence of these symptoms, especially when they involve more than one joint; recurrent or persistent pain and stiffness in the neck, lower back, knees and other joints.

"If one or more of these symptoms appears, it is essential for a person to seek prompt, proper medical diagnosis to avoid serious joint damage."

The Kentucky Chapter will be visiting residents in this area to distribute arthritis information and raise funds to support its programs and services. If you would like free information on arthritis or wish to become a volunteer, contact the Kentucky Chapter of The Arthritis Foundation, 1381 Bardstown Road, Louisville, Kentucky, 40204. National Hill Climb Scheduled At Dewey Lake as State's First

The first national championship sportsmen's motorcycle hill climb to be held in Kentucky will be staged at the Stratton Branch (Dewey Lake) course Labor Day week-end, Sunday and Monday, Sept. 3-4, it was announced this week.

Amateur riders from almost every state in the Union will compete for national championship trophies after first qualifying in area competition.

More than 200 riders from as far away as California to the west and Maine to the east have been listed for the competition. The country is divided into six areas, and six riders in each of six classes of competition have qualified for the nationals here.

Floyd county motorcyclists who have qualified include Tim and Paula Spencer, Allen brother and sister, James Wright, Keith Arnett and Jimmy Click, all of Emma, Willard Kinzer and Earl Cline, of Allen, Larry Allen, of Greenup, formerly of Allen, and Johnny Mosley, of Boyd county, formerly of Emma.

The Dewey Lake Fish & Game Club will handle all concessions at the two-day event.

$200 Million Federal Funds Proposed for Coal Roads

Senators Walter "Dee" Huddleston, D-Ky., and Jennings Randolph, D-W. Va., last week proposed spending up to $200 million in federal highway funds to repair and rebuild roads damaged by coal hauling traffic.

The proposal, being offered as an amendment to the Federal Highway Act of 1978, calls for spending as much as $100 million a year for the next two years.

Under the plan, federal funds would cover up to 70 percent of the cost of repairing the roads, with the work designed to prepare them for an additional 50 years of use.

The states would contribute the other 30 percent and would be required to strictly enforce truck weight limits.

Huddleston and Randolph said in news releases that the program would be particularly important for West Virginia and Kentucky, the nation's two biggest coal producers.

Randolph said the emphasis on increased coal production "places the extra burden on the states which is beyond their immediate capability to assume alone and which, because it addresses the national interest, is also a federal as well as a state responsibility."

The highway act, which would be amended, already has been reported from the Environment and Public Works Committee and is awaiting Senate action expected within the next two weeks.

Huddleston said, "Unless reconstruction and repair of these routes is undertaken quickly, there will undoubtedly be bottlenecks in coal deliveries to the nation's consumers."

"We have been working for five years to make the case for federal assistance in this area, and this amendment is another step in that process—and it could be a big step if we secure approval," Huddleston said.

Wins Second Fight

Former Martin resident, George Randal Lewis, has defeated his second opponent in his second light heavy-weight boxing competition in Findlay, O., July 29. In winning his second fight, Lewis defeated Ruben Martinez, a Golden Gloves winner who outweighed him by four pounds.

In September, Lewis, who is 22, will face his third opponent. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lewis, Jr., of Martin. Since graduation in 1973 from Allen Central High School, he was lived in Willard, O., where he is employed by Penn Central and Conrail Railway.

Attending the fight in Findlay were his parents, his sisters, Miss Rebecca Lewis, of Martin, Mrs. Louise Likens and children, Elizabeth and Randal, of Printer; Mr. and Mrs. William Darrell Stephens and children, Jennifer and Jeffery, of Allen. An uncle, Eugene Lewis, Mrs. Lewis and children, of Willard, O., also attended. Unable to attend were a sister, Mrs. Darlene Stephens, of Martin, and a brother, Thomas Edward Lewis, of Manton.

Senior Citizens' News

A farewell party was given last Wednesday by members of the George P. Archer Senior Citizens' Center at the center for Mr. and Mrs. Glen Brickley, who moved to Newport, Tenn., last weekend to be near their sons. The occasion, organized by Patsy Evans, Center director, was enjoyed by all with gifts for Mr. and Mrs. Brickley, and a plaque honoring Mrs. Brickley will hang in the Center's hall.

Members of the Center went to Pineville, Friday, to attend the performance of the "Book of Job". While other members attended the play, Mrs. Cora Pennington and Mrs. Otela Smiley "minded the store". There was a good attendance at the Center, Friday.

Marie Harmon, staff member of "The Kentucky Highlands" Magazine, was taking pictures at the Center last Wednesday which will be used with an accompanying article.

MORE THAN 20 million people in the U.S. suffer from arthritis so seriously that they need medical care, including hundreds right here in Floyd county.

Landscape Topics To Be Discussed

The County Extension Office will be sponsoring a session on "Your Landscape" to be held Wednesday August 30, at the Floyd County Regional Library, beginning at 7 p.m. Dr. Mary Hotze, horticulture specialist from the University of Kentucky will be conducting the program.

Planning, improving and care of your landscape will be part of the topics discussed. There will also be a question and answer period for special problems.

For additional information call the Floyd County Agents office at 886-2668.

Give 'em a shot in the arm.

Children can still get such serious preventable childhood diseases as polio, measles, whooping cough, lockjaw and mumps. Yet, many children have not been getting the shots they need to be protected from them.

What about your children? Have they had all their shots? If not, or if you're not sure, check with your doctor. Letting your kids go unprotected is an unnecessary risk of their health.

At Blue Cross and Blue Shield and Delta Dental of Kentucky, we're concerned about rising health care costs. That's why we're working with consumers, doctors and hospitals to find ways to hold these costs down.

You can help by taking care of yourself. Staying healthy is the best kind of health care — and the least expensive.

Washington Dateline

Disarmament—the Story of War

By MAJ. GEN. G. J. KEEGAN, JR. (PART III)

In part one of our article we wrote of a study of the past thousand years which proved that "the short twenty-to-thirty year intervals of peace enjoyed by the nations of the world have been solely due to the maintenance of an adequate balance of military power amongst protagonists." It is an important historical lesson which many in Washington ignore.

In last week's WASHINGTON DATELINE, part two of our article, we concluded that it is not idle speculation to suggest that during the period of SALT I the United States lost the strategic balance to the Soviet Union.

While it is claimed by some authorities in government that the United States retains certain advantages such as technical superiority, greater accuracy, more warheads and greater bomber payload, these judgments represent another great delusion. Based on the quicksand of wishful thinking and faulty estimates, our vaunted technical superiority is a myth. It hasn't been produced. Each phase of improvement in the accuracy of our missiles has led directly to an elimination of our high-yield weapons. The result is that our nuclear payloads do no more work than previously. The belief that we have more nuclear warheads is equally open to question. Traditionally our estimates of Soviet warheads have failed to account for the three-to-five thousand IBM's which are produced solely for refire and reload purposes. They ignore almost wholly the Soviet improvements in the weight-to-yield ratios of their lower-yield warheads. And finally they are based on the most optimistic—and erroneous judgments about the size of the Soviet's fissionable material stockpile. As to the premise regarding the superiority of our bomber payload—that too, is entirely mythical. In fact it is the product of poor bookkeeping. For more than ten years our intelligence estimates have ignored the nearly 900 medium bombers in the Soviet offensive inventory. Many of these bombers can be refueled in flight. Most can reach neutral or safe Cuban territory on one-way missions over the United States. Most of the Soviet medium bomber units today still train their crews for an intercontinental attack mission against the United States. Thus by legerdemain in the bookkeeping department we have seriously misled the Congress and the public at large about the size of our relative bomber fleets.

What little we have been able to learn of SALT II gives small room for comfort. The 40 percent advantage which we agreed to give the Soviets in SALT I is now apparently to be expanded by 1985 to an 8 to 1 advantage over U.S. strategic forces. SALT II will inhibit future development of advanced strategic weapons systems. It will in no way inhibit the continued momentum in Soviet weapons design and building—an area in which they presently have something like a 15 to 1 investment advantage over the United States.

The Soviets are not likely to terminate the testing of this vast array of new strategic hardware which they have now developed at great cost to themselves. While we are told that the Soviets have agreed to compromise the development of cruise-missile technology—a three-year ban or moratorium on their production will serve only the Soviet interest. The Soviets now are able to manipulate the largest disarmament lobby in U.S. history. With the extraordinary success of these lobby groups, cancellation of the B-1 Bomber and several other major weapon systems the Soviets now know that the odds are better than even in the next three years that they can incite world and American public opinion to the point of unilaterally killing the missile.

Finally—reconnaissance satellites are incapable of verifying developments in the laboratory, continuing research and development in anti-ballistic technology, testing of the Soviet particle-beam weapon, and rapid new advances in laser weapons systems.

Time and again Solzhenitsyn has warned us that the entire Soviet Union is on a war footing—maintaining a war economy—the world's largest array of fighting forces. Their doctrines call for a war-winning capability. The Soviets have established a requirement for, and now maintain war-waging nuclear, chemical and conventional forces. Everywhere, the third world is under assault.

Meanwhile, the diplomacy of SALT Detente and Deception represents the ultimate in weaponry and economic warfare. The U.S. and Western Europe are today subsidizing the Soviet Arms program. Through nearly 60 billion dollars in credit and loans, the USSR is allowed unlimited access to U.S. technology—soon to be followed by Red China, while the greatest "peace" lobby in history presses effectively for dismemberment of military intelligence, military staffs and headquarters—as well as our most important weapons systems. As it was in the 1930's, so is it in the 1970's. Only a rebirth in leadership, national will and a determination to halt the drift which has taken us from containment, appeasement and now preemptive surrender can halt our mad, self-inflicted rush toward the last holocaust!

Our Fragile Earth

By DR. JERRY HOWELL
 Coordinator of Environmental Studies
 Morehead State University

This installment examines another agency activity, as mandated by the Soil and Water Resources Conservation Act of 1977.

The Resources Conservation Act was designed to appraise the nation's natural resources base, according to Glen Murray, State Conservationist, U. S. Department of Agriculture, SCS, 333 Waller Avenue, Lexington, Kentucky 40504. The law provided the opportunity for local people, including farmers, to make an appraisal of current resources and voice their concerns. Program participants also listed the most pressing resource problems in their areas.

The Act also calls for the development of a five-year plan designed to meet local needs and the program's progress and effectiveness must be evaluated annually. Several tough questions must be answered at local and national levels: "Are conservation tax dollars being spent wisely? Do present programs insure ample resources for future generations? Do national programs emphasize some conservation needs disproportionately to other environmental needs? We are presently losing three million acres of farm land annually (nearly 3,000 acres are lost in Kentucky each year); how can we stem this loss?"

To help in deciding needs and concerns at the local level, each county in Kentucky held meetings during the summer of 1978. Recently, individual public meetings were held in Clark and Rowan

Counties to decide major county problems. The Clark County attendees, composed equally of urban and rural residents, listed flooding as their major concern. Other concerns, in order, were unwise land use practices, erosion, air pollution, lack of conservation advisors, lack of prime farm land, storm water management, ground water pollution, the needed redirection of national priorities, stream pollution, unwise use of funds, tree diseases, sewage, littering and weed control. Attendees also listed some 20 other concerns.

The Rowan county citizen group listed five main concerns: streambank erosion, cropping steep land, construction site erosion, improper land use and stream pollution. Other concerns included improper drainage, wildlife management and protection, timber stand improvement and septic tank discharges. Some 15 other items were also listed by the group.

Local concerns will be incorporated into individual county plans; comments from the 120 Kentucky counties will be combined to form a state priority listing. This listing will form the basis for the state plan and will be forwarded to Washington, D.C. for inclusion in the national plan. Next: wild and scenic rivers.

RICE REUNION SET SEPTEMBER 3

The Third Annual Rice Reunion will be held the first Sunday in September. All those who are related are welcome to attend. It will be held at Dewey Dam, Jenny Wiley Park.

Child Care Project Funds OK'ed

At the request of Gov. Julian Carroll the Appalachian Regional Commission has voted to provide fourth-year funding for the Tri-County Developmental Child Care Project, which includes facilities in Floyd, Magoffin and Madison counties.

The commission approved a request for a third continuation of funding in the amount of $50,000, according to William L. Short, Gov. Carroll's alternate on the commission and secretary of the Kentucky Development Cabinet.

Short said the project includes the Floyd County Developmental Child Care Program, the Magoffin County Child Development Center and the Madison County Child Development Center. It provides comprehensive day care services to 80 children aged 3 to 5 years.

Other funds for the project include $31,125 provided by the federal government's Title XX and $19,093 provided by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Local sources will provide $79,126. The project's total cost is $179,344.

The budget period for the project is July 1, 1978 to June 30, 1979.

At the request of Governor Carroll ARC also voted to provide fifth-year funding for the St. Claire Medical Center Homemaker Home Health Expansion program, based in Morehead.

The commission approved a request for a fourth continuation of funding in the amount of $41,578. The program provides services to home-bound rural residents of Rowan, Bath, Menifee and Montgomery counties.

Operating from bases at St. Claire Medical Center in Morehead and at the Mary Chiles Hospital in Mt. Sterling, the program has served approximately 1200 persons with 13,361 hospitalized but to place it on a less costly level, he said.

The program employs nurses and specially trained homemaker health aides as well as a part-time physical therapist.

UK Meats Specialist Defends Nitrite Use

A meats expert at the University of Kentucky has released a statement to clarify some of the misunderstanding in the controversy over the use of nitrite as an additive in eat curing.

"It is highly unlikely that a health hazard exists as a result of the use of nitrite in meat curing in the amounts that currently are permitted," says W. Y. Varney, Extension meats specialist in the UK College of Agriculture.

He points out that more than 80 percent of the nitrite entering the human stomach originates in saliva, and that most of this nitrite comes from eating vegetables containing nitrate. The nitrate, he explains, is subsequently excreted in saliva where it is converted to nitrite by bacteria.

"Banning nitrite in meat curing could pose a greater health hazard than its use," declares Varney. He adds, "Nitrite prevents botulism, one of the most dreaded and painful bacterial toxins that afflict man, causing paralysis and death."

"There have been no known cases of botulism due to contamination of cured meat since nitrites have been used," emphasizes Varney.

The additive also helps give cured meats their special flavor and appearance, and retards oxidation which otherwise causes an undesirable flavor, according to the meats specialist.

"Nitrite is the only substance available to do all these things," says Varney, adding that "no substitute has been found by research that has tested more than 700 substances as possible replacements."

The controversial sodium nitrite is a derivative of sodium nitrate which occurs naturally in air, water, soil and plants, including vegetables. Sodium nitrate and potassium nitrate (saltpeter) were used in meat curing for thousands of years.

When nitrate was used to cure meats, it automatically changed to nitrite which currently is being added during the curing process.

"Many vegetables naturally contain higher levels of nitrate than the nitrite levels permitted in curing meats," says meats specialist Varney.

For example, he points out that in bacon curing the recommended level is 120 parts per million (ppm) of nitrite, most of which is dissipated by the time the bacon is consumed. In contrast, lettuce naturally contains 600 to 1700 ppm of nitrate.

The controversy over use of nitrite in meat curing has built up since it became known several years ago that the substance can combine with secondary amines to form compounds called nitrosamines. When fed in large doses, nitrosamines sometimes caused certain types of tumors in laboratory rats, according to Varney.

The meat industry became concerned because secondary amines occasionally can be found in very small quantities so small that they are almost undetectable."

The meats expert urges consumers and officials to separate fact from fiction when considering the nitrite question.

In the covered wagon days, it was a common practice to cure fresh meat with salt in order to preserve it for later use. OUTDOOR LORE

by Neville Shackelford
UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY • COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE

If you have ever sat on the back porch on a warm summer evening you probably wondered at the flashing beacons of fireflies. Entomologists say this fireworks display is the result of a desire for romance.

A male firefly, beset by that universal biological urge, will crawl up a weed or grass stem and flash his light. If his amorous signal is well received by some female of the species, she will flash back. Then, say entomologists, who make a study of such things, the fun begins. Several male fireflies will respond to the female. This, in turn, influences other males and females until the whole area is filled with the rhythmic flashings as the insects use one of nature's oddest gifts to add wonder to the nights of summer.

It is said that out of this firefly method of attracting a mate originated the good old backwoods term, "sparkin'," which means courting one's best girl.

The entomologists go on to say there are about 50 species of fireflies in this country. There is one species, like the sirens of old, that lure males of other species to their doom. These deadly demoiselles make meals of indiscreet males that show up panting for a twilight rendezvous and which the females do not find suitable as mates.

There is more to the firefly and its twilight pyrotechnics than meets the eye. In many other ways the insect is an extraordinary creature. First, it has the ability to produce light without heat. Then, some scientists speculate that the insect with its strange ability, may hold the key to life itself. The basis for this speculation is of too much profundity to be discussed here, but it has to do with the process of photosynthesis upon which all creatures depend to sustain life.

Photosynthesis is a mysterious method by which plants utilize light to store up chemical energy in the molecules of food compounds. The firefly does just the opposite. It uses its chemical energy to produce light.

It is very efficient too. Compared to the ordinary light bulb which converts only about three per cent of its energy to light, the firefly converts 95 per cent of its energy into light, wasting only a negligible amount in heat.

Scientists are striving to discover the lighting secret of the firefly and how it manages to produce this "cold light." If this secret of producing a cold, highly efficient chemical light is ever discovered it will mean much to science and industry alike.

This is firefly or "lightning bug" time and for the most of us, the thing to do is enjoy these little critters as they go about their enormous "sparkings" in the darkness.

Lack of Access Permits Delays Tug River Project

Opening of bids on $1.5 million worth of stream rehabilitation work along Tug Fork has been postponed one week by the Army Corps of Engineers' Huntington District office—mainly, because of lack of progress in getting access permits.

Colonel George A. Bicher, Huntington district engineer, said bids will be opened August 22 at 10 a.m. The original bid opening date was August 15.

The rehabilitation project, an outgrowth of recovery action following the disastrous April 1977 flood, will include selective snagging, clearing and bar removal at 43 sites along Tug Fork and along 15 reaches of its tributaries.

Col. Bicher explained that the principal reason for postponing the bid opening is the lack of progress on the part of some of the five counties involved toward providing private property access permits and disposal sites. The counties involved are McDowell, Mingo and Wayne in West Virginia, and Pike and Martin in Kentucky.

Bicher said representatives met with officials of the five counties from early to mid-July to gain assurances that the counties would provide the private property access permits and debris disposal sites.

The access permits, called "rights-of-entry," must be signed by individual property owners in order for Corps and contractor personnel and equipment to gain access to the streams.

Concerning both rights-of-entry and location of disposal sites, Bicher said Mingo county is "by far ahead of the rest of the counties" in progress to date.

He added that Pike county is making good progress, followed by Martin, Wayne and McDowell counties.

Court of Appeals Upholds Letcher County

The Kentucky Court of Appeals, in a unanimous opinion, has upheld the action of the Letcher County Board of Education in refusing to enter into a collective bargaining contract with the Letcher County Teachers Organization for the 1976-'77 school year. The board and the teachers' union had executed master contracts since 1970-'71. When the contract for the 1975-'76 school year expired, the board did not continue to negotiate, and determined not to sign another master contract. The Court of Appeals, ruling on a suit brought against the board by the teachers union, ruled the board was not obligated to continue negotiations.

Repairs Are Planned For Dwale Crossing According to Turner

Railroad Commissioner Jimmy "Gabe" Turner this week said he has received assurance from the superintendent of the C. & O. Railway Company that conditions at the railroad crossing at Dwale which have caused problems for residents of that section would be alleviated.

Turner inspected the crossing after being alerted to the situation by Dwale postmistress Palma M. Elkins. After reporting his findings to C. & O. officials, the railway superintendent conducted an inspection and assured Turner that the crossing would be repaired to allow cars to cross without dragging and weeds cut to afford better visibility.

Turner encouraged residents to report similar problems which may be encountered in the area.

Dental Sealant Program For Pupils in 6 Counties

What may be the nation's first public-funded dental sealant program will begin providing services in Kentucky Aug. 21. State dental officials say sealant can prevent cavities on the most susceptible tooth areas.

The Kentucky River District Health Department, with funding and technical assistance from the state Department of Human Resources, will coordinate the program in six eastern Kentucky counties. Letcher county pupils in grades six and seven and selected primary grades will be the first to receive free sealant applications. In late August and early September the service will be extended to pupils in grades six and seven in Knott, Perry, Owsley, Lee and Wolfe counties.

James T. Corum, manager of the human resources dental branch, describes dental sealant as a clear, hard, protective coating, chemically similar to materials dentists use to fill cavities. Sealant is "painted" onto the chewing surfaces of the permanent back teeth. "Those surfaces represent only about 13 percent of the total tooth area but are involved in approximately half of all dental cavities," said Corum.

Sealant is being offered along with fluoride mouthrinse, which human resources provides statewide to children in kindergarten through grade eight. Corum said that fluoride "dramatically reduces" cavities in children but is effective primarily on smooth surfaces of teeth.

"Sealant is just as effective in protecting the rough surfaces of the back teeth," he said. "Those surfaces contain deep valleys where bacteria and small food particles lodge."

Children in grades six and seven were chosen to participate in the sealant program because they are at the age when most of the back "baby teeth" are replaced by new permanent molars.

Corum said dental sealant has been extensively tested in Kentucky and elsewhere. "Dentists who emphasize preventive measures have used it routinely for several years. But Kentucky may be the first state to appropriate funds specifically for a public dental sealant program."

The 1978 Kentucky General Assembly allocated $113,000 to the sealant program for fiscal 1978-79. Corum estimates the program's cost to be a maximum of $1.50 per treated tooth. "Compare that cost with the cost of fillings and you can see why we are optimistic that the cost effectiveness will be very favorable," he said.

The six-county program will be conducted by local dentists, county and district health department personnel and a dental team under contract to the Kentucky River District Health Department. State officials plan to expand the program through other district health departments later in the fall.

Children must have parental permission to participate in the program. Each will receive a free dental examination to screen out teeth which appear to be developing cavities.

"While sealing a tooth that has a cavity can slow down the progress of decay," Corum said, "it seems best at this time to have the cavity filled rather than treated with sealant."

Sheep Producers Council Conducting Referendum

The American Sheep Producers Council is conducting a referendum on a proposed new agreement between the American Sheep Producers and the Administrator, Agricultural Marketing Service. The agreement provides for the Administrator, ASCS, to withhold a part of price support payments to producers on shorn wool and unshorn lambs marketed during the years 1978 thru 1981. The payment deductions are authorized by Section 708 of the National Wool Act of 1954, and will be used by the ASCS to finance advertising and promotion programs for wool and lamb, similar to those carried out since 1956.

Two-thirds vote by the total number of sheep producers who vote is necessary for this agreement to become effective. Anyone may vote who has owned sheep (6 months old or older) in the U.S. for at least 30 consecutive days during 1977.

Anyone who thinks he is eligible to vote and wishes to do so, is asked to contact the Floyd County ASCS office, no later than August 30, 1978. Telephone 886-2802.

Floyd Chairmen Named In Cystic Fibrosis Foundation Campaign

Jay Crouse, president of the Bluegrass Chapter, Cystic Fibrosis Foundation has announced the appointment of the following people as chairmen of the annual "Breath of Life Campaign" in Floyd county.

Mrs. Glenna Bradford for Allen, Mrs. Denzil Hall for McDowell and Mrs. Priscilla Webb for Wayland will lead local volunteers in their communities to raise funds to support research and care programs for children affected by lung-damaging diseases like Cystic Fibrosis, severe asthma, chronic bronchitis, and bronchiectasis.

The Breath of Life months are September and October with a door-to-door drive scheduled during that time.

Approximately one of every 1,500 babies are born with Cystic Fibrosis, which is still incurable. C-F is inherited when both parents are carriers of the recessive gene which causes C-F. It is believed that ten million Americans are symptomless carriers of this gene. Current research funded by the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation is seeking a practical test to identify these carriers, as well as a cure for C-F and better methods of treatment for all lung-damaging diseases.

Most people don't realize that there are millions of children in the U.S. affected by lung-damaging diseases. For some of these children breathing is a struggle, rather than the natural function we, who are lucky, take for granted.

The "Breath of Life" Campaign will support not only research, but diagnosis and treatment of children with lung-damaging diseases in C-F Centers across the country. There are more than 110 of these Centers, which also provide for educational programs and research.

Ky. Coal Pays $5,000 in Fines

Two coal mining companies have paid the state a total of $7,000 in civil penalties and have agreed to perform corrective measures on their strip mine sites in Pike county following an informal hearing with the state Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection.

Ky. Coal Co., of Prestonsburg, paid a total of $5,000 for reclamation violations at two permit sites. Ky. Coal had been issued three notices of non-compliance at the site for failing to maintain back-filling, grading, seeding and mulching. The company also failed to properly construct a hollow fill and failed to scalp and windrow all timber ahead of the stripping operation.

The company was also issued two notices of non-compliance at another site for allowing a slide to occur off the permitted area and failing to take remedial action. Ky. Coal has agreed to take correction action.

Hilltop Energy Corp. paid a $2,000 civil penalty for blasting rock off the permitted area, causing minor off-site damage.

The company has agreed to remove all rock blasted off the permitted area and seed and mulch the affected area. Hilltop Energy will also submit a blasting plan to the department for approval.

Unemployment Rate In Slight Increase As Schools Close

Unemployed persons in Kentucky numbered 73,300 or 4.6 percent of the labor force in June compared to 61,300 or 4.0 percent in May.

"Most of the increase in unemployment during June was due to schools closing for summer plus a number of temporary layoffs across the state," said Robert MacDonald, chief labor market analyst for the Department for Human Resources.

The national unemployment rate for June was 6.2 percent.

The state's labor force reached a new high in June of 1,591,900 persons, almost 20,000 people above the previous high recorded last October. At the same time, total employment in the state increased to 1,518,600 or 42,000 people more than in June 1977.

Unemployment increased to 5,200 persons over last June. MacDonald explained that it is possible for the number of employed and unemployed people to increase simultaneously as the number of people entering the labor force increases.

Increases in the number of people working in June were recorded in the following areas: manufacturing, plus 3,400; construction, plus 5,200; trade, plus 3,500, and agriculture plus 18,400. Government employment dropped 3,200 workers in June due primarily to schools closing for the summer.

In Air Force Academy

Paul C. Ackerman, son of Margaret Ackerman, of Prestonsburg, and the late Bill Ackerman, who was nominated to U. S. Air Force Academy by Congressman Carl D. Perkins, entered the Academy June 26, and completed basic training Aug. 4.

Cadet Ackerman graduated from Prestonsburg High School in 1978. In high school he was a member of the National Honor Society, the Beta Club, and received all-state honorable mention in football for 1977.

Henry Ward Lodge To Be Named

Henry Ward, a prime mover in the development of Kentucky's state park system from 1947 to the mid-50's, will be honored Saturday when the 72-room lodge at Kentucky Dam Village State Resort Park, Gilbertsville, Ky., is renamed Henry Ward Lodge in his honor.

Ward served as conservation commissioner under Gov. Earle Clements (1947-1950) and Gov. Lawrence Wetherby (1950-1955). During those years, state parks were under the state Department of Conservation.

A well-rounded park system was developed under Ward's guidance. Tourists visiting Kentucky increased and, finding attractive facilities in the parks, they began to spend more time in the Bluegrass State.

In the eight years Ward served as commissioner, state historic properties were restored, new parks were opened to the public and overnight accommodations were added in existing parks. My Old Kentucky Home was restored, the state accepted as a shrine the burial ground of Kentucky's first governor, Isaac Shelby, restoration of the shrine at Perryville Battlefield was completed and Lake Cumberland State Park was dedicated.

It was Ward who purchased Kentucky Dam Village from the federal government for a state park. It had contained housing for construction workers on Kentucky Dam, which impounded the Tennessee River to form Kentucky Lake. Ward also built and opened Ken Lake Hotel, in nearby Kenlake State Resort Park, first of the 15 modern lodges in the state park system.

Through the efforts of Ward and his staff, the state parks became a catalyst in the development of tourism in Kentucky. Today Kentucky's 43 state parks, which include 15 resort parks, are billed as "the finest in the nation."

Gov. Julian Carroll, Parks Commissioner Bruce Montgomery and other state dignitaries will take part in the ceremony, beginning at noon at the lodge.

Bailey Among Agents
Winning National Awards

Four county Extension agents for agriculture in Kentucky are receiving awards from the National Association of County Agricultural Agents during the organization's annual meeting in Boise, Idaho August 13-18.

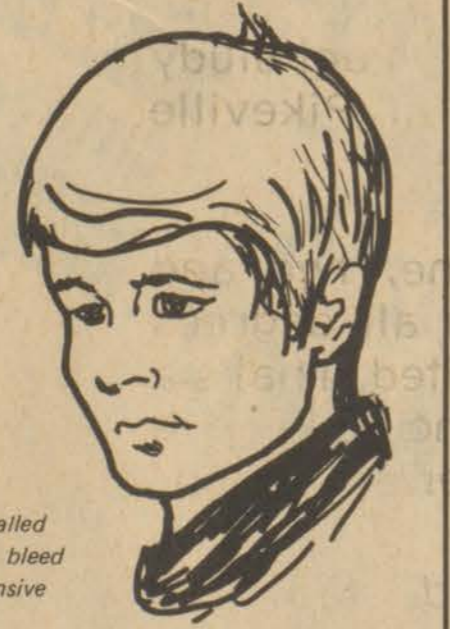

Winning Distinguished Service Awards are Carroll Bailey, Raceland; Roy Catlett, Shelbyville; and Gordon Henshaw, Bardwell. A national Achievement Award winner is George Martin, Paducah.

Bailey, agricultural agent in Greenup county in the Northeast Extension Area, is a 17-year veteran in the Cooperative Extension Service. Prior to his current position, he worked as an agent in Magoffin and Johnson counties, and was in charge of the Big Sandy Area livestock program.

Bailey is the second vice-president of the Kentucky Association of County Agricultural Agents. He has served the state association in many capacities during his 17-year membership. The annual program includes timely topics selected on the basis of farmers' needs in the production, marketing and storage of grain crops. All Extension agricultural agents in the Purchase Area are involved in the event which is jointly sponsored by the grain industry and the UK College of Agriculture.

To prevent loss of the metal from which coins are made in U.S. mints, scrap metal and floor sweepings are remelted to be made into coins.

★ Kentucky Afield ★

By JOHN WILSON

Ted Crowell, the fisheries biologist in charge of black bass research for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, spends every Friday giving away money.

Friday is the day Crowell sets aside for processing the tags anglers have returned to him. These tags, which were attached to bass, are worth money and Crowell spends most of the day matching tag numbers with dollar amounts and seeing that checks are written and mailed.

And how much is a bass worth? Well, just ask Roger Coffey. This lucky Valley Station angler caught three tagged bass, two of which were worth $1 each. However, the third fish netted Coffey an even $1,000—the maximum "reward."

So far, nine other fishermen have caught $50 bass and five have received $100 each for returned tags, Crowell said. Other tags are worth $5, $10 or $25 dollars each.

To date, over $3,800 has been rewarded for 455 returned tags, and Crowell considers it money well spent. "The overall return rate is 17.6 percent, he says, "and the program has really just started."

In other tagging studies, researchers consider themselves lucky to get a five per cent return at the end of the project. "Every person who fishes for bass is potentially a paid member of our research team," Crowell says, adding that a high rate of returned tags will provide biological information that very likely could not be otherwise obtained—at any price.

The primary purpose of the study is to measure the amount of fishing pressure placed on bass in various bodies of water—large impoundments, smaller lakes, streams and even a portion of the Ohio River. Over 2,500 bass were tagged this spring in the study waters. Fisheries officials did not announce either the names of the waters (except that some were tagged in the Ohio River) or how many tags were assigned to each dollar value.

"We want fishing pressure and other factors to be as nearly normal as possible," Crowell says. "If we announced that there were $1,000 bass swimming around in a certain lake, conditions very likely would not remain normal for long."

It's taking from two to three weeks for anglers who submit tags to find out how much their reward will be, Crowell says. The small orange tags, which are attached to the fish's back just behind the dorsal fin, may be returned in one of the special envelopes provided at boat docks or in a regular envelope addressed to the Department of Fish and Wildlife, Frankfort, Ky. 40601. In either case, Crowell emphasizes that the angler should include several scales from the fish as well as information about where and when the fish was taken, its length and weight.

Another group of bass will be tagged next spring, but there are still a lot of valuable fish left in the water from this year's taggings.

"The more tags that we get back, the more we can learn about bass in Kentucky," Crowell says—giving us two more excuses to go fishing: (1) to make money and (2) to assist in a scientific research project.

A young moose is so dependent on its mother that she has to drive it away in spring when she is ready to bear her next young.

Williams-Hayes Vows Said, June 24

Miss Debra Ann Williams of Dana, and Mr. David Hayes, of Betsy Layne, were united in marriage, June 24, at 2 p.m. at the Boldman Freewill Baptist Church, with the Rev. Cohen Campbell of the Calvary Baptist Church of Betsy Layne officiating.
The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Williams, of Dana. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hayes, of Betsy Layne.
Preceding the ceremony a program of wedding music was presented by pianist Mrs. Johnny Bradley and vocalist, Mrs. Avery Harmon. Miss Kristi Howard, of Martin was maid of honor. Miss Donna Williams and Miss Denise Williams, both sisters of the bride, were bridesmaids. The maid of honor and bridesmaids' dresses were floor-length gowns of green quiana nylon. Accenting the gowns they carried flowers of yellow carnations.
Wayne Hayes, brother of the groom, and Benson Hayes, cousin of the groom served as ushers. Randy Hayes, also brother of the groom, served as his brothers best man.
The bride, given in marriage by her father wore a floor-length gown of white silk organza and chantilly lace. The gown was empire in style with a Queen Anne neckline and long sheer sleeves gathered full at the wrist with a lace cuff. The bodice was lace-covered and encrusted with tiny seed pearls. The skirt of the gown featured panels of lace and fell into a cathedral-length train. Entire bottom of gown was bordered with chantilly lace. Her matching veil of illusion fell from a cap of lace and was lace edged. She carried a cascade of yellow carnations.

The flower girls were Jennifer Hayes and Amy Hayes, both nieces of the groom. Serving as ring bearer was Michael Cecil, cousin of the bride.
The bride's mother wore a floor-length gown of yellow polyester knit with matching jacket trimmed in yellow lace. The groom's mother wore a street-length dress of ivory polyester knit with matching jacket. Both mothers wore yellow baby orchids.
Mr. and Mrs. Lee Cecil and Mrs. Bertha Williams, grandparents of the bride, were present as was Mrs. Mollie Hayes, aunt of the groom.
Registering the guests of the couple were friends of the bride, Miss Belinda Jarrell and Mrs. Cecelia Bryant.
A reception was held in the auxiliary room of the church with hostesses-Mrs. Bobi Phillips, Mrs. Sally Conn, Stacy Conn, Mrs. Cora Osborne, Yvonne Jones, Mrs. Faye Cecil, Mrs. Janet Tackett, Mrs. Teresa Fitzpatrick, Mrs. Sue Hager, Mrs. Dorsie Puckett, Mrs. Cecelia Bryant, Mrs. Lazelle Williams, Mrs. Kathryn Akers and Mrs. Debbie Bradley.
The couple enjoyed a wedding trip to Myrtle Beach, S.C. and are now residing in Betsy Layne.

State Agencies Face Review

A new legislative committee which will conduct an ongoing review of state agencies and programs has been organized.
The 16-member Program Review and Investigations Committee was created by the 1978 General Assembly and is empowered to study the agencies to determine if they are operating efficiently.
"State government is spending over $7.5 billion in the next two years and the legislature has a responsibility to see that the money is used wisely," said Representative Buddy Adams, D-Bowling Green, who was elected chairman of the committee. Senator Robert Martin, D-Richmond, was chosen as vice-chairman.
The review committee will have the power to subpoena witnesses and require them to turn over any documents the committee needs in its investigations.
If the committee finds deficiencies in any agency, it will report them to the head of the agency and make recommendations to correct them. The agency head is then required to adopt the recommendations or take some other form of corrective action.
Legislators on the review committee said they are optimistic the group will have a positive effect on the performance of state agencies.
"The legislature has never really had any oversight power during the 21 months we're not in session," said Sen. David Karem, D-Louisville. "This committee will allow us for the first time to have a legislative review of state agencies' activities."
Karem said the existence of the committee would help develop legislative independence because the legislature will be better informed on the operation of the agencies.
Adams agreed the committee would strengthen the legislative process and he said the committee will immediately begin studying program review activities of several other states.
"We won't jump into this without adequate study," Adams said. "We must take advantage of the experience these other states have had with program review."

BUILDING AUTHORITY MEETS
The Kentucky School Building Authority, created by the 1978 General Assembly, had its first meeting on July 25. State Superintendent Dr. James Graham is chairman of the authority, and T. K. Stone of Elizabethtown is vice-chairman. The 11 member authority will spend the 1977-'78 year in hiring staff and developing a formula that will be used to determine the distribution of Authority funds to local districts.
The Authority has $7 million with which to issue school building bonds, starting in July, 1979. It is estimated that this annual amount, together with local matching funds, will enable the authority to issue more than $100 million in bonds.
