

P'burg Loses Bid On Flood Problem

Corps Says Cost In 4 Areas Here Are 'Excessive'

Prestonsburg's hopes of enlisting Corps of Engineers assistance toward additional flood control projects were dashed recently on completion of the Corps' reconnaissance report on the flood problem here.

In a letter to Mayor Harold W. Cooley Co. George A. Bicher, district engineer, wrote: "...the approved report concluded that construction of additional flood control projects for the Levisa Fork at Prestonsburg are infeasible...I regret that the Huntington District cannot participate in additional flood control projects at Prestonsburg at this time."

The study was begun late last year. It centered on four areas subject to flood—Lancer, West Prestonsburg, the area between Branham street and May Branch here and the area downstream from May Branch.

Colonel Bicher told Mayor Cooley that the study shows that the minimal cost for providing protection for Lancer, West Prestonsburg and the area downstream from May Branch to the 100-year flood frequency level "vastly exceeded the allowable costs."

An alternative to cut off the backwater flooding through the low areas between Branham Street and May Branch (an area which includes Prestonsburg High School) was the least costly, and more nearly matched the anticipated benefits, he wrote, but this also was dismissed because of excessive cost.

The Corps of Engineers recommended that residual and future flood problems be met by a comprehensive program of flood plain management, emphasizing land-use control and regulation along the

Amburgy Victim In Bypro Wreck

One of nine fatalities reported in Kentucky traffic accidents over the week-end was recorded in this county late Saturday afternoon when Danny Amburgy, 20, of Bypro, was fatally injured in the wreck of his auto on KY 122, half a mile east of Bypro.

State Trooper J. A. Rederick, who investigated the wreck, said Amburgy's car left the highway, hit a rock in the ditch and turned, end over end, throwing the driver onto the highway. He said the victim was partially paralyzed but conversed with him following the wreck and indicated he was "all right." He died at the McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital, possibly an hour later.

The victim was a son of Lawrence and Artie Thornsburg Amburgy, of Bypro. Besides his parents, he leaves six brothers and five sisters, Franklin D., of Halo, Ezra, of New Lebanon, O., James Clifford, Wurtland, Mich., Martin, of Pineville, Kenneth Paul, of Searcy, Ark., David, of Bypro, Mrs. Loretta Keibler, Warren, Mich., Mrs. Emogene Elder, Mrs. Shirlene Skaggs and Miss Marcella Amburgy, all of Brandenburg, and Miss Judith Ann Amburgy, of Bypro.

Funeral services were conducted at 10 a.m. Tuesday from Joppa Regular Baptist Church, and burial was made in the Buckingham cemetery under direction of the Merion Funeral Chapel.

Friar Earns National Honor

Jack M. Friar, of Allen, Floyd county extension agent for 4-H, has received national recognition for his efforts in youth career guidance.

The veteran extension agent is one of 10 county agents across the nation to be honored for helping young people choose careers. The recognition was made at the recent annual meeting of the National Association of County Agricultural Agents in Boise, Idaho. Mr. Friar was unable to attend the meeting, but Floyd county was represented there by his associate, Extension Agent, John Sparks.

Friar's award-winning effort included his development of a career education program which has been presented to 2,936 4-H members. The program includes five segments: the decision-making process, self-analysis and appraisal of abilities, facts about employment, making a realistic choice and a discussion of costs.

In addition to the 4-H program, Friar involved 430 elementary students in a career project in the schools of the county, and helped high school juniors and seniors with information relating to available scholarships.

A native of Tennessee, Friar has been an extension agent in this county since 1957 and has established a solid reputation in Kentucky as a coach of 4-H poultry-judging teams. Friar-coached teams have won every poultry-judging event at the Kentucky State Fair since 1967. The latest state championship to be won was at the State Fair last week.

This Town...That World

If you want to be scientific about it, it's the cicada that's ruling the sound stage, these late summer evenings, but no name is more accurate than jarfly. All I've ever got out of listening to them is this idle thought:

Jarflies and barflies have one thing in common. They both sing before the fall.

MR. ANON WRITES

"As a rule, we toss anonymous letters into the wastebasket, but this one escaped. It reads:

"Sir, I just now learned that they killed an alligator down at Hilton Head, South Carolina, and it had 16 dog tags in it. They shouldn't have killed that gator. They oughta brought him to Floyd county and made him dog warden."

THE CLINCHER

The old preacher had given the congregation what-for. He cited individual and collective transgressions, and as he spoke he saw eyes harden and necks stiffen. Undismayed, he wound up with the clincher:

"Begins to look like I've tromped on several toes, this morning. But I might add that if I've tromped on so many toes, there must be some heels around."

CRIPPLING BLOW

Saw Jack Carter, navigating with the help of a cane after having an ankle broken while working at the coal tipple which he operates. I'm not unsympathetic, but sight of him reminded me of the time when the late Jim Hatcher, one of the brightest minds Eastern Kentucky has produced, arrived at a coal meeting in a Lexington hotel, some years ago. Mr. Hatcher suffered from rheumatism or arthritis, and it was obvious as he limped in that he was in pain. Up jumped a friend to inquire, "What's the trouble, Mr. Hatcher?" "Oh, nothing," was the answer, "except the price of coal fell on me."

Roberts' Statement Did Not Refer to Deputy Sheriffs

The Times incorrectly stated in last week's edition that a statement made at a recent fiscal court meeting by Magistrate Kenneth Roberts referred to Floyd county deputy sheriffs.

Magistrate Roberts said his statement, originally recorded by a Lexington Herald reporter to the effect that there are "hop heads and dope fiends who aren't helping the county," did not refer to deputy sheriffs.

"I was talking about hop heads and dope fiends on the corners at Garrett and other places in my district," Roberts explained. "I was not talking about any officers."

Sheriff Doug Lewis, who first directed The Times' attention to the error, said he had received numerous telephone calls from various parts of the county as a result of the statement. He said it was clear to him at the time the statement was made that the magistrate's statement did not refer to any of his deputies.

13th Annual Folk Festival To Honor Late Dennie Slone

When the 13th annual Kentucky Highlands Folk Festival begins Friday at the amphitheatre of Jenny Wiley State Park, the name and memory of one who has been a part of the festival since its beginning will loom large in the minds of participants and those who come to see and hear the customs, arts and crafts and music of the region.

For the festival this year, all three days of it, is dedicated to the memory of the late Dennie Slone, whose music and dedication to the festival meant so much to it in its early years and on through its development into an event attracting not only Eastern Kentuckians but visitors from widely separated spots over the country.

Mr. Slone died last Jan. 23 at the age of 64. Though crippled by arthritis, until last year's festival he continued to play his banjo and contribute to festival programs the authentic mountain music that he loved.

Mrs. Kathryn S. Frazier, festival director, recalled this week his love for folk music and his contribution over the years to the preservation of mountain tradition. He was very helpful to young talent, she recalled, and his home, even after his crippling illness, was a mecca for mountain musicians.

Among those who will be paying tribute to Mr. Slone this weekend will be Mrs. Edith R. James, founder of the festival, and other musicians who have worked closely with him over the years to preserve the music of the area.

Friday and Saturday programs at the festival will feature traditional music and dance, beginning at 7 each evening. Musical workshops, exhibits of arts and crafts will be featured all day Saturday, and the festival will close Sunday with a program of church music beginning at 5 p.m.

The tentative program for the festival appears on Page 5, Section 3 of this edition of The Times.

State Pays Claimant For US 23 Damages

Mrs. Jeannette Neace, Genoa, W. Va. woman, this week received full cash settlement for the $700 allowed her early this year against the state Department of Transportation for damages resulting to her auto when it was struck by a rock dropping from the cliff onto US 23 at Auxier, April 9, 1977.

The suit was filed for Mrs. Neace by Dan Rowland, Prestonsburg attorney, and the state Board of Claims allowed the damages for her nine-year-old auto after a hearing here. The case later was appealed to Floyd circuit court, and Circuit Judge Hollie Conley upheld the Court of Claims judgment. The state went no further in its effort to avoid responsibility.

One part of the Board of Claims' strong "Conclusions of Law" in the case noted: "The defendant in the present case did not show that the costs and expenses of remedying this inherently dangerous situation would outweigh the probability of danger to human lives. The evidence is clear that the situation existing at the place of the accident presented such a severe and immediate danger to the lives of the traveling public that the mere placing of signs by the defendant was inadequate to conform to its duty of ordinary care under the circumstances..."

(The threat to motorists exists at various places along US 23, between Prestonsburg and Paintsville, and the Prestonsburg Area Jaycees have requested improvement of the road to remove overhanging rock. One danger point in the Prestonsburg city limits, the cliff opposite the Pic-Pac Supermarket, is scheduled for contractors' bids next

Court Rescinds Its Vote To End Park Work Pact

The fiscal court last Tuesday rescinded its August 8 order terminating the contract of Big Wheel, Inc., contractor on Phase I construction at the county park at Allen.

The order was rescinded, County Judge-Executive Yvonne S. Jones later explained, to preserve the county's right to liquidated damages from the contractor's surety.

No work is being done at this time at the park, except for bridge construction by Burchett & Bush, contractors.

The court also acted to clear the way for the sale by Everett Akers and associates, of Martin, of the Akers television transmission system. The contract which court members approved would clear the litigation between Akers and the county but would not exclude the right of any individuals to file a possible class action against the system, nor does it include any rate increase.

Because the county has lost $18,728 in revenue sharing funds, the revenue sharing budget was amended to that extent and transfers were voted to various funds. The loss resulted from increased employment in the county and other factors which are more economically favorable this year than last. The budget for these funds is now $279,018, down from the original $297,447.

Effective Sept. 1, the court voted to employ a trial commissioner for the district court at a salary of $500 a month. Employees of the county clerk and jailer were set at the same number as were employed earlier—12 fulltime and four part-time in the clerk's office; two turnkeys, one fulltime cook and one part-time cook for the jail.

In other actions the court voted to investigate condition of the Tram bridge and to take necessary steps to make it safe for public use; to continue the Floyd County Planning Commission, and to set

Porter Slaying Probe Is Begun By Grand Jury

Polygraph Tests Given As Complicity Rumors Heard in Murder Here

The grand jury for the September criminal term of circuit court got off to a belated start Monday when two of its members failed to appear but began its study of violations by noon.

One of the first cases presented to the jury was the multiple stabbing murder near here recently of Earl Chester Porter, night attendant at the TCT Truck Stop on Katy Friend.

Tony Greg Baril, 18, who was named in a warrant charging him with the Porter murder, remains in jail here after failing to post the $50,000 bond asked for his release. He denies guilt.

State Detective Keith Scott, who has led the investigation of the slaying, said Monday that there are no new developments in the case. Neither the murder weapon nor cash reported to have been taken has been found.

Scott said several persons underwent polygraph (lie detector) tests last week but that these were given mainly to scotch or confirm spreading rumors. He said the tests indicated that those questioned were telling the truth in refuting rumors of complicity in the murder.

The grand jury is expected to complete its work this week. The court term will begin next Tuesday.

Ex-Sheriff May Not Be Deputy, Runyan Opinion

An assistant attorney general last week handed down an opinion to the effect that Ex-Sheriff Joe W. Lewis may not be employed in any capacity in the office of his son, Sheriff Doug Lewis.

The opinion was written by Asst. Atty. Gen. Charles Runyan in response to an inquiry made by County Attorney Arnold Turner, Jr., asking if a former sheriff could be retained for some type of clerical work in the new sheriff's office. Turner also asked if the Floyd fiscal court would be potentially liable for civil rights action filed against the ex-sheriff, acting as a deputy city marshal for a city of the sixth class (Wheelwright), if the suit is brought against him for actions done outside the city limits and if they are in concert with the sheriff's office and with the assistance of county vehicles or employees.

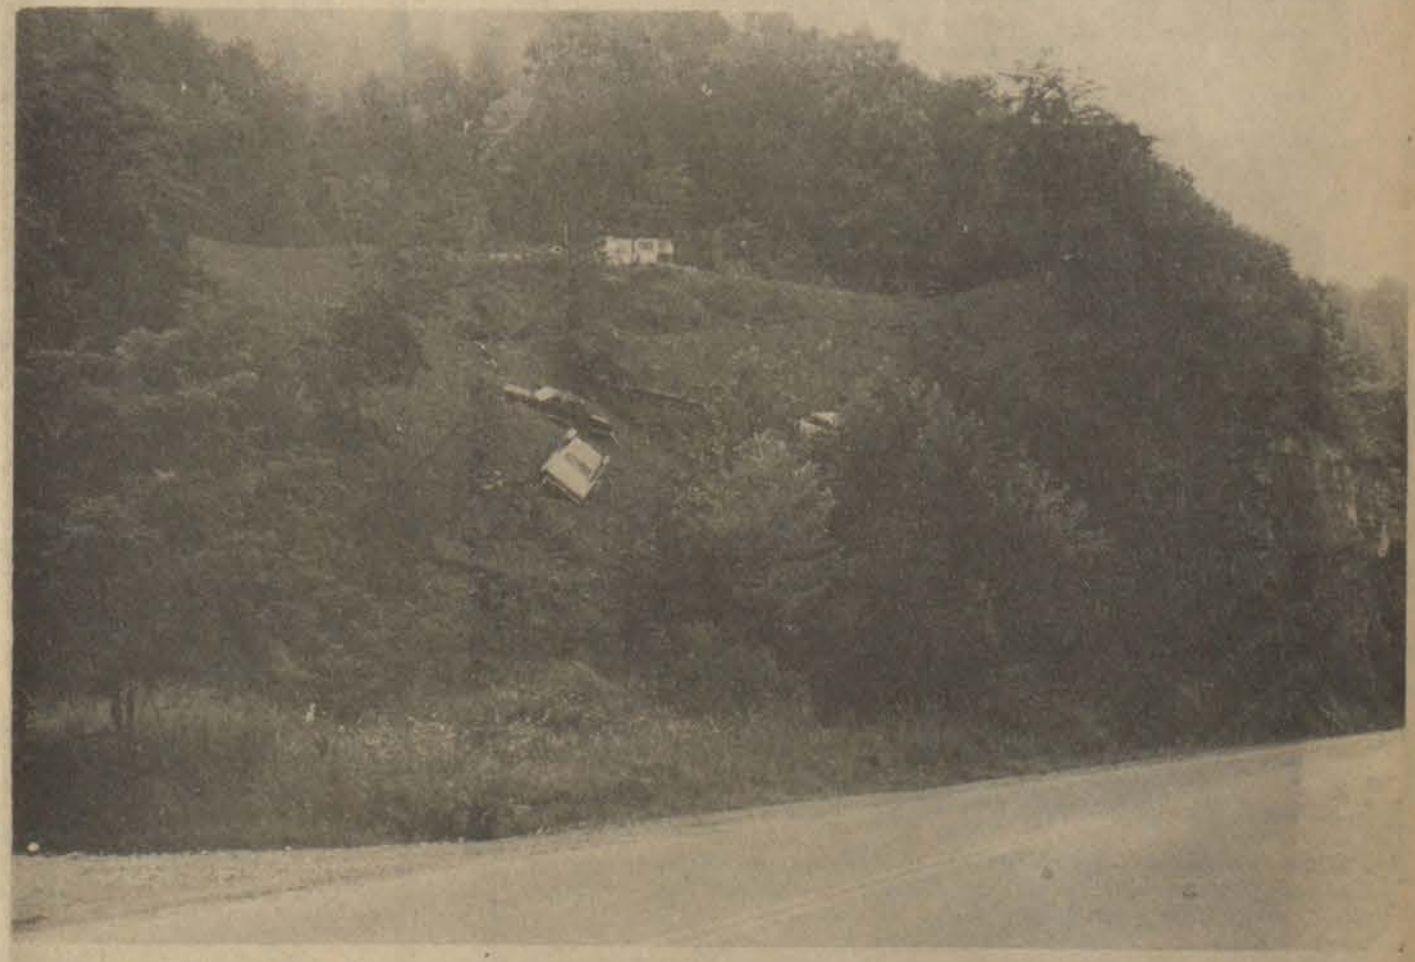

Pointing out that the state Constitution forbids a sheriff from running for reelection for the following term or from acting as a deputy sheriff for the next term, Runyan wrote:

"The ex-sheriff's employment in the incumbent sheriff's office is really as a deputy sheriff, regardless of what you call the employment."

He added that KRS 61.060 (3) prohibits the ex-sheriff from being a deputy sheriff and a deputy marshal of a city.

U.S. 23 Motorists Beware! Falling Junk Cars

Not only does the motorist traveling U.S. 23 between Prestonsburg and Auxier have to fear the ever present danger of falling rocks—but now, falling DeSotos as well! As can be seen in the above photo, junk cars have slipped over the hillside along the route and, with each rain, slide farther down the slope. At the very least the cars present an eyesore, and could possibly tumble into the road after a hard downpour.

Decision Could Help

The recent state Supreme Court decision to the effect that fiscal courts are not required in every instance to award a contract to the lowest bidder should be helpful, on occasion. The opinion, which originated in Warren county, pointed out that advertisements for bids include "the best" as well as "the lowest" as qualifications of successful bidders, and that the ability of a bidder to fulfill the contract should be considered. Floyd county has had some experience with low bidders which may not have been the best. Most counties have. It is especially important that a contractor be able to complete a project on schedule when more than one phase of construction is contemplated, with a second or third phase awaiting completion of the first. If a successful conclusion of the initial project is not made on schedule, the delay on the next could, and often does, result in higher construction costs because of higher costs of labor and materials. It is true that the court decision could open the way to cronyism, with fiscal courts awarding contracts to "friends," although their bids are high. But there is a law to cover that, too.

Coal Roads Plan Isn't Helpful

(An editorial in The Courier Journal) The idea of a national severance tax to pay the long-range cost of building and repairing roads used heavily to haul coal has merit, under certain conditions. But the U.S. Department of Transportation's companion idea, to finance the most immediate needs with funds designated to reclaim abandoned strip mines, is absurd. That's partly because it would be a case of robbing Peter to pay Paul. But it's mostly because money spent on coal roads, especially in Kentucky, will be wasted until reasonable weight limits are enforced. After years of promises (and official buck-passing), roads in Eastern Kentucky are still being ground to rubble by illegal loads. Even the legal loads are preposterously high. A plan to upgrade these roads before solving the weight problem approaches the situation backwards. That goes even for Senator Walter Huddleston's more sensible proposal, shot down Monday in the Senate, to spend $200 million in highway revenues over two years. This made sense as a stopgap until a plan can be devised to let the coal industry pay its own cost of doing business. Senator Huddleston had sound reason for his feeling that the Department of Transportation timed release of its report, already a year late, to help defeat his coal-road-aid amendment to the federal-aid highway bill. But the amendment was in bad shape anyway. Despite a provision that the aid would be denied to states that failed to enforce weight limits, senators who voted against the Huddleston amendment were aware of Kentucky's past record in that area and were accordingly skeptical. Nor does the prospect of using federal highway trust fund money to subsidize a regional industry appeal to many congressmen from outside the coal states. So the coal industry and, even more sadly, the citizens of Eastern Kentucky who'd like to drive on decent roads for a change, are likely to be stuck with what they've got, while it lasts. The proposal to rob the reclamation fund undoubtedly will fail, since it's illegal in the first place and wouldn't provide enough money to do much good in the second. The proposal for a coal-road tax, while it may provide an ultimate solution, evidently isn't going to get serious consideration in Congress for three or four years, if ever. Eastern Kentucky, for a long time to come, seems to be stuck in the ruts the coal industry and politicians have dug.

lines defined in the National Flood Insurance Program. interesting." I am tempted to sit down and count the ways it sometimes becomes a bit too interesting. "Snooks" Crutcher, who is smart enough to unchain himself from the desk but who still writes a column for The Morehead News when he feels like it, tells this "interesting" experience:

A few years back, this Publisher wrote a news story, referring to one local office holder as a "lame duck".

The man referred to was infuriated, as was his wife. They came to our office, then located in the Sample Building next to the Trail Theatre, with loudly shouted claims that we had slandered his good name, etc, threatening a libel suit.

"First you wrote that my husband is lame which he ain't," the woman shouted. "But that's not as bad as putting in the paper that he's a duck and is waddling around."

Finally, the irate husband and wife were quieted, and then, carefully choosing our words and in a consoling voice we explained that "lame duck" is the accepted and appropriate definition for an office holder whose term has not expired but did not seek re-election. We showed them the dictionary definition. Fortunately, that morning's metropolitan newspaper had printed a story that the then Governor of Kentucky was a lame duck, which we showed them. They were pacified to an extent, but on departing the man said over his shoulder, "We've always liked you and your newspaper. But, if you ever again call me a crippled duck I'll cook your goose."

Don't know why they blame little girls with such remarks, but the Masonic Home Journal printed this one recently: Little girl-asked preacher if he would pray for floating kidneys this week as he had prayed for the loose livers last week.

Drug Problem 'Hits Home'

This is about your article on drug abuse.

I am a mother of three children 9, 7 and 22 months. This problem concerns me as well as it does the next person. I have a brother who just turned 18 in March of this year. He has taken some kind of drug that will leave him a mental patient maybe for the rest of his life. No one cares about drug problems until it hits home. This is a young life wasted. When something like this happens it cannot be undone.

How many more children has been like this? You cannot replace a mind or a life when it has been destroyed for good. Why can't the good people of Floyd county wake up and see what is going on around them? The drugs are in the schools and in the community. I am begging for better laws and better law enforcement. When a young life has been taken away or destroyed on account of drugs it cannot be replaced.

How many more of our children will die or end in a mental hospital before the people of Floyd county and the rest of America will wake up and see what is going on and do something about this serious problem? It affects every one of us, young and old, rich and poor alike. So, maybe the good Lord will look down and help us in some way.

If you and your paper can help in any way, may God bless you.
MRS. CHADDIE MARTIN
McDowell, Ky.

(An attorney general's opinion is not binding as a judicial order, and the status of the ex-sheriff could be tested in a formal court action. Sheriff Doug Lewis said Monday that he had not at that time seen the attorney general's opinion. He also said his father has no connection with the sheriff's office.)

In addition, the opinion said members of the Floyd fiscal court could be potentially liable in connection with any civil rights actions filed against the ex-sheriff, resulting from unlawful occupancy of the county office of deputy sheriff and the city office of deputy marshal.

"In such situation, the fiscal court should take positive action by appropriate resolution, disavowing any recognition of the ex-sheriff as a deputy sheriff of the county," Runyan recommended, "and specifically prohibiting the ex-sheriff's use of county vehicles and assistance of county employees."

The county attorney also asked the Attorney General if employees and deputies of county officials, the sheriff, county court clerk and county attorney are subject to control of the fiscal court as to their numbers and salaries. Runyan replied that the court is responsible for establishing the number of deputies of the sheriff and county clerk and the fixing of their salaries in counties of less than 75,000 population. He added that the number of the deputies of a constitutional officer may not be changed during his term of office, although their salaries may be changed each year under the procedure outlined by statute.

Answering another question posed by the county attorney, the assistant attorney general said that police in cities of the sixth class have the powers of a sheriff for the suppression of any riot, disturbance of the peace or resistance to law or authority. "This simply means," he wrote, "that the marshal or his deputy would have the power to arrest anywhere in the county, provided it involved the suppression of any riot, disturbance of the peace or resistance to law or authority."

Says We're Too Passive

As a former resident of Floyd county who has been gone for over 26 years, I made a recent visit to Floyd county. Even though I receive the Floyd County Times each week it was a pleasure to see some of the changes made. It was also a disappointment to see some of the things that were not being done.

After living up North where people, generally, are more aggressive I was made more aware of how passive the southern people are. Their general concept is to live and let live, which is not all bad.

After traveling in the Wayland, Eastern, Middle Creek, Harold, Betsy Layne, Bucks Branch and Prestonsburg area I was appalled at the road conditions.

The elected officials of the county, from the one with the most power to the one with the least power, has been taking Floyd Countians for a ride. They have been accepting their salaries, paid by the taxpayers, and except for a few "favors" here and there have been negligent of their duties.

The roads in the Wayland, Harold, Mud Creek, Middle Creek areas are just deplorable. It is a miracle more people have not been killed than the ones at Wayland, and the school buses will soon be traveling the same dangerous roads. What have the elected officials been doing to earn their money?

The new school at Eastern has a sewer leak that the residents of that area are forced to tolerate. The stench is unbearable, and the school officials will do nothing about it. The county officials will do nothing about the sewer that empties into the drainage ditch, there, even though they promise great things at election time.

I would suggest at election time to start eliminating all the officials and put in a new bunch. You will have nothing to lose and possibly something to gain. Forget their spiel about being related to each and every one, choose a new one, and if they do not do the job they were elected to do, vote them out. It is your tax money that is paying them to do a good job, demand they do so. When you are in the voting booth it is your prerogative to vote for whomever you please, and you do not have to account to anyone for the way you vote. It is your birthright.

Yours for a better Floyd County.

Emergency Aid Fund

To All Floyd County Citizens: This is a short reminder and my own belief that it is something we should all think about. It is now time to look ahead and try to get something going for our county so that we will be ready to help our handicapped when the need arises.

If we in our county could get a fund started to help those we love—our friends, our neighbors—not just our families, but everyone. If we all could give just a little, it would mean a whole lot to someone who needed a heart transplant or a kidney, or to pay for any unusual medical expense for those in need. Many people cannot afford the high cost of such things as a wheel chair, crutches, a portable chair or hospital bed, and it is very hard for them to get these things.

If someone in our town could get this fund drive started, it would surely be worth every citizen's giving one dollar a month to try to reach out to help everyone in need. I think this would be worth doing now and not wait to hear about these cases when people die for lack of help. Let us get on our way now.

Thank you all.

Turner Says Garrett RR Crossings To Stay

Railroad Commissioner Jimmy Gabe Turner told The Times Tuesday that there will be no railroad crossings taken out at Garrett without the approval of the Railroad Commission. "And," he said, "as long as I am Railroad Commissioner, this will not be done with my consent."

According to Turner, a railroad crossing cannot be taken out by a railroad without its first appearing before the Railroad Commission at a public hearing in Frankfort. This hearing must be publicized so that any individual or group opposing such action may also be heard.

Commissioner Turner and Charles McDavid, C & O representative from Martin, this week looked over the crossings at Garrett, one of which has been blocked, causing consternation among Garrett residents who must drive or walk "the long way around" either leaving or going home. The C & O representative said that he knew nothing of any proposed elimination of crossings at Garrett and had had no word from the C & O engineering department of such an action.

Lt. Col. John G. Coburn, native of this county, assumed command of DCASMA, South Bend, Ind., in late July following completion of the Advanced Procurement Management course at Fort Lee, Va. Prior to this, he had served as Executive Officer of the Battlefield Systems Intergration Directorate of the Army Materiel Development and Readiness Command at Alexandria, Virginia.

Citations to Trucks For Overweight Rise

Citations written by state highway enforcement officers for overweight coal trucks rose last month, compared with June figures, while total violations declined for the month.

According to the July monthly report by the state Department of Transportation's division of highway enforcement, officers cited truck operators for 489 overweight violations, 113 more than in June.

Overall violations declined by nearly 20 percent with 103 counties reporting 2,115 citations issued compared with 2,637 in June.

State Transportation Secretary Calvin Grayson said that cab-card violations were down by 33 percent compared with June but that 641 citations were written, making it the largest single violation. The cards are required to show that a truck owner paid state fuel tax, is licensed and has authority to operate in a particular area.

National Championship Hillclimb Slated at Park This Week-End

The Pioneer Motorcycle Club, of Marietta, O., will be sponsoring and working the National Championship Amateur Motorcycle Hill Climb this week-end. (September 3 and 4) at Jenny Wiley State Park.

The hill climb will feature approximately 240 of the best hillclimbers across the nation. To enter this national climb the riders were registered to enter, ride and place in the two national qualifier hillclimbs in their area which may include several states.

The Pioneer Motorcycle Club of Marietta held a qualifier at their grounds on Waterford route, June 4, with the other qualifier for this area being held at Indianapolis, Indiana. The area with Ohio included the other states of Indiana, Kentucky, Michigan, Illinois, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, and Florida.

The national qualifying events and National Championship Hillclimbs are sanctioned by the American Motorcyclist Association (AMA), which also scores and invites the riders to compete in the National Championship Hillclimb. Several from Floyd County have qualified for the championship event.

This is the second national championship and the first held in Kentucky.

The hillclimb will be held on the Dewey Lake Fish and Game Club grounds, on Stratton Branch, near Dewey Lake.

Blackcats Edge Frankfort, 9-6

The Prestonsburg Blackcats, with a sound kicking game, a strong defense, and a ball control offense, defeated the Frankfort Panthers, 9-6, in the season-opener for both teams here last Friday night.

The Cats took the opening kickoff and began a sustained drive that finally fizzled out on the Panthers' 30 after a 15-yard penalty. After an exchange of punts, Prestonsburg fumbled and Frankfort picked up the loose ball and returned it 55 yards for a touchdown. The two-point conversion was thwarted by the Cats' defense.

Though the Blackcats controlled the ball the remainder of the half, they were unable to score and went into the dressing room, trailing, 6-0.

The second half began as had the first, with Prestonsburg moving the ball but unable to score and the 'Cats' defense getting stronger. Both teams exchanged punts through the third quarter and during part of the fourth, with the Blackcats steadily gaining better field position. Finally, Prestonsburg punted from the Frankfort 35 with 9 minutes remaining, and downed the ball on the visitors, 9-yard line. The Cats' defense, led by Monty Branham, Keith Colvin, John Hollar, Lee Carter, Tiny Click, Bill Crum, Dwayne Rodebaugh, Dewey Layne, Ralph Grilling, Jack Goodman, Jack Wells, and Greg Haywood, backed the Panthers up to their 4, forcing a punt. Rather than punt, Frankfort elected to take a safety and kick off from the 20, hoping time would run out.

But it was not to be. The Cats returned the kick to the 50-yard line and with just under 8 minutes remaining began a 6-minute drive that ended with Dewey Layne going in from the 5, with 2 minutes left in the game. Dwayne Rodebaugh kicked the extra point, making the score 9-6. Prestonsburg then held the Panthers on downs and ran out the clock.

Heading the 'Cats' special teams were Rodebaugh, Andrew McClanham, Jody Collins, Greg Dillon, Richard Burchett, Alan Frasure, Ray Marcum, Sam Huffman, Joe Frazier, Dennis Daniels, Steve Wright, and Mark McKenzie. The offense was led by Rodebaugh, Layne, Tom Hastings, Desi Whitt, Goodman, Danny Daniels, Branham, Colvin, Greer, Bobby Wells, Lonnie May, and Frasure.

The Cats amassed 286 yards offensively while holding Frankfort to 85. Haywood had an interception for the Cats while Gilliam recovered a fumble.

Prestonsburg travels to West Carter this Friday for the team's first Region IV, District II contest.

Report Says Fish Numerous At Dewey But They're Not Bass

Dewey Lake, according to the 1977 annual report of the Kentucky Division of Fisheries, has more fish per acre than any other impoundment in Eastern Kentucky, but they apparently aren't what fishermen are after.

Studies made last year by Fisheries personnel showed that Dewey at that time had 4,750 fish per acre—almost twice that of either Cave Run (2,536), Grayson (2,317) or Fishtrap (2,419)—but there was no figure as to the number of bass per acre in the Floyd lake.

The report included this comment on the Dewey Lake situation:

 "Game fish reproduction success was fair, but as in previous years harvestable size game fish (black bass and crappie) are conspicuously absent."

Meanwhile, the state did no restocking at Dewey except for 1553 tiger musky added to the lake as an experiment. Few musky have been caught at the lake since that time.

Cave Run Lake last year had 2,536 fish per acre which weighed 142 pounds, as compared to the 211.86 pounds which Dewey's 4,750 weighed. Five legal size bass per acre were found at Cave Run.

The growth of tiger musky in that impoundment was traced over a three-year period from 12.4 inches the first year, 23.5 inches the second and 30.6 inches the third.

At Grayson Lake there were 2,317 fish per acre which weighed 152.08 pounds. Reproduction of black bass there declined slightly but the number of harvestable bass held good.

Fishtrap had 2,419 fish per acre and they weighed 172.5 pounds. "A favorable increase," the report noted.

State stocking last year in other lakes of the area included 3,700 channel catfish in Carr Fork, near Hindman, 8,054 musky in Cave Run and 3,087 largemouth bass in Grayson.

Final standings in the Magoffin County tourney were as follows:
 R & S Truck, first; Hindman Rockettes, second; Salyers Coal, third, and Martin's Department Sotre, fourth.

Question: How Can $200 Bill Be Paid on $177.50 Income

Consumer groups have urged the Kentucky Public Service Commission (PSC) to develop new regulations to help hardship cases pay utility bills.

The groups advocated partial payment plans for high utilities bills, adequate notice of service termination, and hearing rights.

Utilities companies appearing at a hearing last week countered by saying they followed PSC regulations pertaining to notice of service cutoffs and provided budget payment plans for those who qualify.

The hearing was an outgrowth of unusually high heating bills that resulted from the severe weather last winter. Some witnesses asserted that other factors that made it difficult or impossible for some people to pay their utility bills during the severe winter were illnesses, labor strikes, fixed incomes and increased living costs.

Jeri White, representing the Central Kentucky Legal Services of Lexington, said, "Utility bills were outrageous in many cases."

In situations where the monthly Social Security check, the only source of income, was $177.50, the utility bill exceeded $200, White said. "Some of these bills were exorbitant—$200 to $300."

"There was no way on their income that they could pay their bills and they were threatened with cutoffs," she explained. "Many had attempted to negotiate payments, but the companies were refusing to accept partial payments."

As a result, she contended, service was shut off.

Arthur Kling, of Louisville, representing the Kentucky Association of Older Persons, said the situation was particularly difficult for elderly people on fixed incomes. He urged the PSC to develop a plan that would "ameliorate some of the hardship" of those affected by high utilities bills.

Gail S. Huecker, commissioner of the Bureau of Social Insurance in the Kentucky Department for Human Resources, said the state is implementing a $9.5 million emergency fuel program to help qualified people with their utilities bills. The program is scheduled to go into effect in December.

Assistant Attorney General Glenda Beard said the government should take the responsibility for these hardship cases. "I don't think the utilities companies should get into the welfare business," she indicated that's what would happen if the companies attempted to determine hardship cases to qualify for a special payment plan.

Additionally, she said, the cost of such special plans would have to be borne by "the working people."

Various utilities companies, including

Kentucky Utilities, Louisville Gas and Electric and Kentucky Power Co., testified they already had budget payment plans in effect and cutoff policies that conform to PSC regulations.

Commissioner Mary Ray Oaken, who conducted the hearing, said the commission will receive written rebuttal statements until Sept. 18, after which the commission will take the matter under consideration.

Health Notes

By DONNA J. GRIFFITH

The best way to prevent needless blindness from glaucoma is to be tested for the disease. The Floyd County Health Department will be doing glaucoma screening, free of charge, Thursday, August 31, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. If higher than normal pressure is found in your eyes, you will be referred to a specialist who can give you further tests, diagnose and treat the problem.

The Floyd County Health Department recommends a glaucoma check-up every two years for all persons 35 and older.

The Health Department will be closed Monday, September 4, in observance of the Labor Day holiday. Business hours will resume at 8 a.m. September 5.

Big Sandy CAP Gets Grant of $58,000

Store Safe Stolen In Burglary Here

Identity of thieves who broke into Lloyd's Hardware on North Lake Drive (US 23) here last Tuesday night and carted away a 700-pound safe and its contents has not been determined, police said this week.

The break, one of a series in that section of Prestonsburg, was made through a rear door. Lloyd Crum, owner of the store, said the safe contained a small amount of cash but that his greatest loss was in permanent business records.

The home of Dr. H. G. Salisbury, two blocks north of the store, was entered several days earlier.

Emmett Lawson, head of the Lawson Coal Co., Harold, this week posted a $200 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons who stole a motorcycle from his premises at Laynesville last Friday.

Mr. Lawson said he is a regular target for thieves. "My office is broken into about every six months," he said. While on vacation, a month ago, he said, four guns were stolen from his premises.

Notice of Finding of No Significant Effect on the Environment

The Section 407 Disaster Grant Program Applicant: Prestonsburg and Floyd County, Kentucky, 6 Court Street West Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653 (606-886-6164)

TO ALL INTERESTED AGENCIES, GROUPS, AND PERSONS: Prestonsburg and Floyd County propose to request the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development to release federal funds under Title 1 of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 (as amended) to be used for the Section 407 Disaster Grant Program.

Project Description: The applicant proposes to provide assistance to households on the HUD Disaster Field Office (DFO) case load on a priority basis. Such efforts include assistance in leasing mobile home sites and provision of water, sewer, and site preparation to accommodate the mobile home. The second priority includes relocation of mobile homes out of group sites for which license by state authorities is unavailable. For those families, the above noted infrastructure will be provided plus minimal transport and set-up costs.

It has been determined that such request for release of funds will not constitute an action significantly affecting the quality of the human environment; and, accordingly, the city of Prestonsburg and Floyd County has decided not to prepare an Environmental Impact Statement under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (PL 91-190).

An Environmental Review Record respecting the within project has been made by the city of Prestonsburg and Floyd County which documents the environmental review of the project and more fully sets forth the reasons why such Statement is not required. This Environmental Review Record is on file at the above address and is available for public examination and copying, upon request at Floyd County-Prestonsburg Housing and Community Development Office during normal business hours.

All interested agencies, groups, and persons disagreeing with this decision are invited to submit written comments for consideration to the Floyd County-Prestonsburg Housing and Community Development Office. Such written comments should be received on or before Sept. 15, 1978. All such comments received will be considered and the city of Prestonsburg and Floyd County will not request the release of federal funds or take any administrative action on the project as described prior to the date specified in the preceding sentence.

CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICERS: Yvonne Jones, Judge-Executive Harold Cooley, Mayor Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653

Pike Coal Firm To Perform Work On Agreement

A Pike county coal company has agreed to perform several remedial measures at its Mill Branch site after meeting with representatives of the state's Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection.

The firm, Mill Branch Mining Co., was ordered Aug. 11 to halt its operation after being cited for several alleged violations of the state's strip mining laws. Department officials were concerned that imminent environmental harm could result from the firm's operation.

After meeting with department officials last week, company representatives agreed to take the necessary steps to correct the problems in exchange for permission to resume mining. The company had made "good faith efforts" to comply with the Aug. 11 order, according to the agreed order signed by representatives of the department and the company.

Under conditions of the signed order, the company agreed:

- To construct temporary silt structures below all slide areas and periodically clean them.
-Stabilize all slide areas by grading, ditching, diversion or whatever feasible method is necessary.
-Increase the capacity of the existing diversion ditch to at least two feet high where the ditch comes out from the hollow.
-Remove all timber from the slide areas.
-Clean all silt structures on the site and maintain them to insure continued effectiveness.
-Bring all grading and backfilling to a current status.
-"Grade down" the hollow fill and "toe it out" properly.
-Seed and mulch all slide areas on the site after the slides have been properly "worked down."
-Take whatever precautions are necessary to not disturb the gas pipeline on the site.

The company was given 30 days from the date of the signing of the order to comply with the stipulations.

Kentucky May Sue Over Radial Tires

Frankfort, Ky.—The state of Kentucky is considering filing suit against the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. to recover damages for residents who have bought defective steel belted radial tires manufactured by the company.

The state attorney general's office is weighing the option of filing suit against the company, which has been under fire for problems with its 500 series steel belted radial tires.

Rick Wyatt, an assistant attorney general with the Kentucky Consumer Protection Division, said the possibility of filing suit in the state would make Kentucky the first to file formal legal action against Firestone in connection with the problems with the tires.

He emphasized no formal decision had been reached by the attorney general's office on the possibility of taking the legal action.

"But it's one of the things we have under discussion at the present time," Wyatt said in an interview. "We are going to review the matter and see what action, if any, the federal government plans to take against Firestone in connection with the 500 Grappler and other tires under question."

Firestone is under investigation because of consumer complaints of problems with the steel belted radials.

The National Highway Traffic and Safety Administration had asked the states to report to them on the number of individual consumer complaints regarding the tires in question.

The state of Kentucky put out a call for such responses and by this Wednesday's deadline, about 400 complaints were made to the Consumer Protection Division in a three-week period.

"We are mailing those results to the safety administration today (Friday)," Wyatt explained. "There's really no way to gauge whether 400 complaints in three weeks' time is a lot of complaints, but we'll let the federal government decide on that."

Most of the complaints in Kentucky focused on "blowouts" from the Firestone tires, usually after between 14,000 and 20,000 miles, Wyatt said.

Driving Tips for Safe Labor Day

Frankfort, Ky.—"When you're driving in Kentucky, take it easy, take it slow. Buckle up and hold it down on 55..."

That's the message of the state Transportation Department's promotional spots for highway safety, and Safety Coordinator Bennie Maffet hopes that travelers this Labor Day weekend will heed the advice.

"Safe driving practices are especially important on holiday weekends when the accident rate is so high," said Maffet. Labor Day traffic fatalities have increased from four in 1975 to 10 last year, he said.

Maffet urged Labor Day motorists to compensate for the heavy traffic when planning trips. "A holiday is the worst time to crowd a lot of driving into a few hours," he said. "It's important to allow yourself enough time to take frequent breaks and observe the speed limit."

One important step before a long trip is to check your car's tires, cooling system and brakes, said Maffet.

Maffet also stressed the importance of using safety belts. "It's just common sense," he said. "Wearing a seat belt keeps the odds in your favor in case of an accident."

Sub-Committee Decides Interim Mine Issues

Virtually all of the state's proposed interim surface mining regulations were given final approval this week by the Administrative Regulations Review Subcommittee. The three-member panel is responsible for interpreting legislative intent.

The regulations, which deal with surface mining and the surface effects of underground mining, are permanent regulations for the interim regulatory program of the federal surface mining law. The actual permanent program regulations may not be adopted until 1980.

Little or no controversy surrounded most of the regulations, "But some of them were fiercely debated," according to Eugene Mooney, secretary of the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection.

Only two of the 44 regulations before the panel were deferred until the next meeting, scheduled for Sept. 6.

The two, concerning prime farmland and operations affecting two acres or less, could have several interpretations, according to the subcommittee, and so will have to be clarified. The prime farmland regulation falls under the surface mining heading and the other one concerns the surface effects of deep mines.

Officials from the department the state agency charged with enforcing the regulations, were pleased with the outcome of Wednesday's hearing. "The few things which were changed (amendments to some of the regulations) during the hearing do not bother us and we're pleased with the total package," Mooney said.

However, a great deal of confusion has already resulted from newspaper accounts concerning one of the amended regulations.

According to Mooney, several deep mine operators called Thursday after seeing a wire story about the meeting.

The secretary said many of the operators were under the impression, after seeing the story, that they will not have to file for permits with the department.

"This is simply not the case," Mooney said. "Permits for existing deep mines will be required, they just won't have to include as much information as new ones will."

However," the secretary said, "they still have to meet all of the performance requirements."

He added that new underground mines must meet the full permitting requirements.

The department was requiring operators of existing deep mines to include detailed maps of their operations and plans for activities that affect the environment. These items were deleted from the regulation but several other requirements were left intact.

The operators of existing mines will have to give area maps, location of the operation, ownership of the mine and other detailed information.

If existing operations plan on expanding, they will have to file the same kind of permit as it is required for new mines.

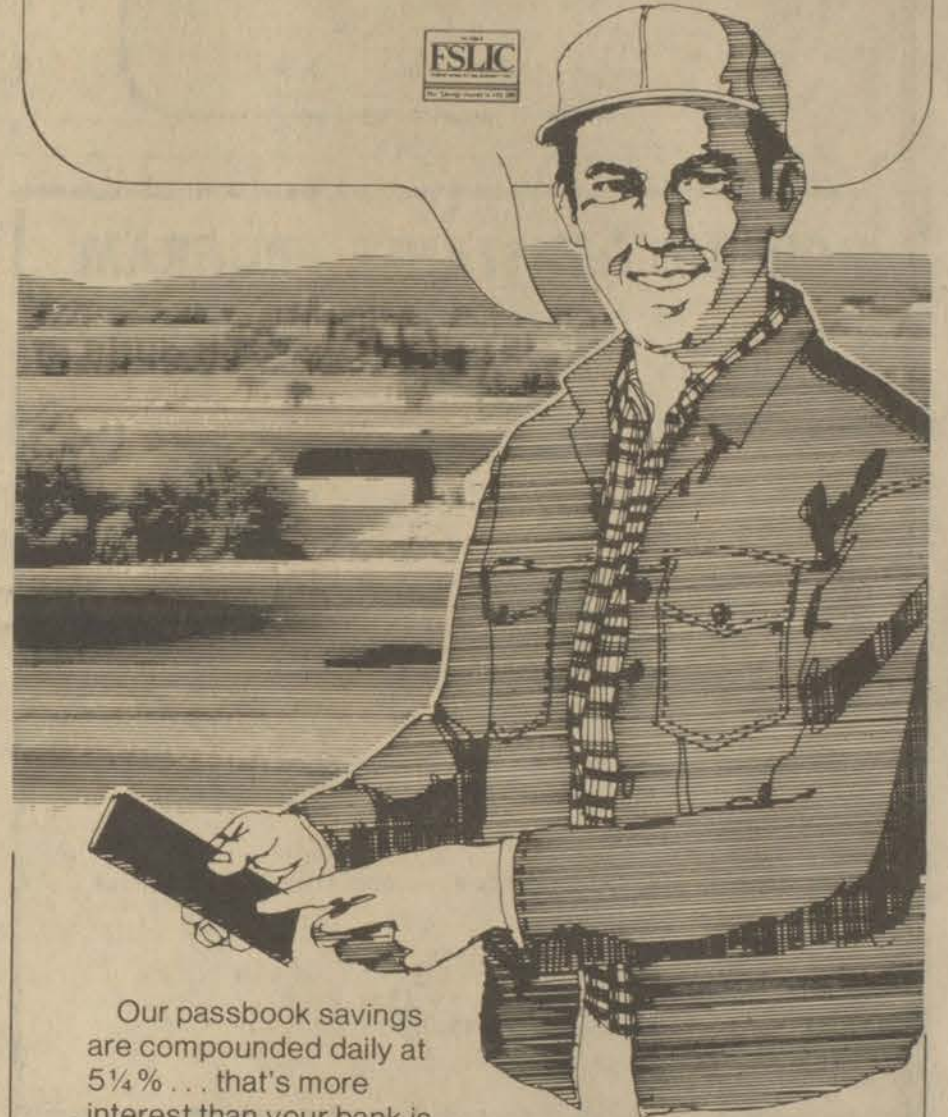

After the meeting, Mooney said, "This successfully completes our attempts to have regulations on the books that will allow our reclamation program to move forward. This now gives us a solid base for our permanent program development."

The Sept. 6 meeting will begin at 10 a.m. in Room 327 of the Capitol.

COOK REUNION, SEPT. 3

The Cook family reunion will be held at the Dry Creek Community Park Sunday, September 3. In event of rain, the reunion will be held at the Beaver Creek Elementary School at Topmost.

OUTDOOR LORE

by Neville Shackelford
UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY • COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE

Down through the ages, comets have always inspired awe and fear in peoples of the world. They were formerly considered signs of impending catastrophes and the wrath of God. A comet appearing in 1066 struck terror in the hearts of the Saxons and presaged the Norman conquest. The comet of 1811 was thought to warn of the war of 1812 and the defeat of Napoleon.

Now some scientists have about concluded that some of these ancient fears were, and for that matter, still are justified. They consider it possible that some of the terrible epidemics of the past originated and came from outer space in the tails of comets that brushed the earth.

Take for instance, the deadly influenza epidemic of 1918-19 that spread so rapidly over the world. This dreadful disease spread so swiftly that it still seems impossible for, the contagion to have been caused by human contact. At that time people couldn't travel that far or that fast. Then, where did the common cold come from? Medical authorities say it was not mentioned in ancient literature until the 15th century. The theory is that the cold virus could have come from comet dust.

Scientists know that prebiotic molecules exist and travel through space in the debris of comets. They speculate that it may be possible that in some strange form of alchemy resulting from comet travel around the sun, these prebiotics are changed into primitive type organisms or pathogens, which the dictionary defines as disease causing virus.

Keep in mind, this is only a matter of speculation based on a few facts. If, however, it would prove to be true, then the world may be in for some awful times in the future. If such a disease should come, there would be at first, no remedy.

Astronomers say there are 500 comets whose courses have been measured. The longest period belongs to Halley's Comet which comes back every 75 years. Its last appearance was in 1910, the year of Mark Twain's death. It is scheduled to reappear sometime in 1985.

But don't be alarmed or apprehensive about the plagues that could originate in the tails of comets. This is only a matter of speculation based on a few flimsy facts. The comet is just another heavenly body like the stars, meteors, planets and such, and the untoward things that have happened when a comet was in evidence in the sky is considered merely coincidental and nothing more.

Information on Getting Social Security Number

Everyone, regardless of age or place of birth, must now submit evidence of age, identity, and U.S. citizenship or lawful admission status when applying for a social security number, Jim Kelly, Big Sandy Area Social Security manager, said.

These procedures are intended to help protect the applicant's social security record, assure that it is complete and accurate, and to prevent anyone else from misusing or abusing the person's social security number, Kelly said.

Those over 18 must apply in person and present their birth certificates and identification. The best evidence of a person's age and U.S. citizenship is a birth certificate, Kelly said. Local health departments have forms that can be used to obtain certified birth certificates. A photocopy is not acceptable, Kelly emphasized.

Evidence of identity should include documentation which shows the person's picture, signature, date of birth or age, or other identifying information. Some examples are driver's license, voter record, school record, draft card, etc.

Applicants not born in the U.S. should submit evidence of their U.S. citizenship or their immigration documents showing they are lawfully admitted to the U.S.

All documents submitted as evidence are subject to verification with the agency which issued them, Kelly said.

A person should allow plenty of time to get the number. It takes three to four weeks to issue the number and deliver the card after all required evidence has been submitted, as the numbers are issued centrally from Baltimore, Maryland.

A free leaflet, "Applying for a Social Security Number," can be obtained at any social security office.

CANCER Answerline

American Cancer Society

A regular feature, prepared by the American Cancer Society, to help save your life from cancer.

A retired engineer writes: "I have bladder cancer. The fact that I smoked two packs of cigarettes a day all of my life seems to have played a role in my disease. Does the public realize this association?"

ANSWERline: While the association of cigarette smoking to cancers of the lung and the larynx (voice box) has been widely publicized, a series of studies have shown a correlation between bladder cancer and the tobacco habit. Most recently Dr. Ernst L. Wynder and Robert Goldsmith of the American Health Foundation studied the lifestyles and occupations of bladder cancer patients, both smokers and non-smokers. Wynder and Goldsmith's work agreed with previous studies indicating that 48 percent of male bladder cancers and 31 percent of female bladder cancers are associated with smoking cigarettes. While other factors influence the development of bladder cancer, e.g., the occupational exposure to certain chemicals, the tobacco influence is strong. Currently there are approximately 30,000 new cases of bladder cancer in the U.S. each year.

A man in his late 40's writes: "I am due to have my first 'procto'. How effective is this examination in finding cancer?"

ANSWERline: Very effective. "Procto" is an abbreviated name for a proctosigmoidoscopic exam in which a lighted tube is passed through the rectum and lower colon enabling a physician to actually see within the body for a distance of nearly 12 inches. Nearly two-thirds of all colorectal cancer can be detected in this manner. It is wise for you to have a "procto" because the incidence of colorectal cancer increases after age forty and this is an important way of finding it early. This is essential because approximately two out of every three colorectal cancer patients could be saved if the disease is found early and treated promptly.

A bookkeeper asks: "What are the main cost factors in the treatment of cancer?"
ANSWERline: According to the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, most of the cost in cancer treatment is for hospital care. An estimated 96 percent of newly diagnosed cancer patients are admitted to hospitals. Other costs include physicians' fees, drugs and home nursing, if needed. Hospital fees, however, are the main problem. An average 28-day hospital stay in a community hospital in 1975 cost over $4,000. Lost earning power and productivity are part of the cost of cancer, beyond the cost of treatment. That "indirect" cost of cancer is estimated at between 15-25 billion dollars yearly.

Knott Plane Crash Claims Four Lives

A Cincinnati physician, his wife and two teenage sons were killed last Sunday when their single-engine plane crashed into trees on a mountaintop near a small airfield here on the Knott-Letcher county border.

The wreckage, found Tuesday night, was identified as that of a Cessna 195 that disappeared with four family members aboard on a Sunday flight from Cincinnati, Ohio, to Hilton Head Island, S.C.

Police identified two of the bodies at midday Wednesday. A dispatcher at the Hazard Kentucky State Police post said two more bodies remained in the wreckage.

Police identified two of the dead as the pilot, Dr. Daniel J. Kindell III, 49, of Cincinnati, and his wife, 50-year-old Dorothy Kindel. The Kindel's two sons, Douglas, 15, and David, 16, were also aboard the plane. Two daughters did not accompany them on the trip.

The wreckage was spotted Tuesday night by a helicopter, police said.

"The plane crashed right on a mountaintop Sunday night. The cockpit, containing the two bodies we have identified, was ripped off the rest of the plane. The fuselage, with the two other bodies, is still stuck about 50 feet up in a tree," state police dispatcher Lynn Caudill said last Wednesday.

Police said Wednesday night they were attempting to cut down the tree in an effort to retrieve the plane and the two youth's bodies.

Kindel, a dermatologist, also was a professor in the School of Medicine at the University of Cincinnati. The Kindel's owned a condominium home at Hilton Head. Kindel was a former Navy pilot in the Korean War.

Youth Dies But Drive For Funds To Continue

Young Charles Keith Davis, of Van Lear, died last Thursday at Highlands Medical Center here as many persons over a wide area, touched by his need for heart surgery, prepared to wage a campaign to raise the thousands of dollars needed to finance a heart transplant.

Miss Billie Post, social worker at the hospital, voiced thanks to all who were committed to the vain attempt to help the youth.

She added that the boy's death will not end the drive for funds. The Rev. Orion Davis, father of Charles Keith, has requested, she said, that the work continue and that the money thus raised be held in trust for possible future need in such a case. Funds will be held by the recently organized Charles Keith Davis Memorial Fund, Inc.

The father will sponsor possibly the first event to be held to raise funds—a gospel sing Sunday (Sept. 3), from 1 till 5 p.m. at the Kentucky National Guard armory on US 23 near here. No admission will be charged, but a freewill offering will be taken.

Hunter's Death Held Accidental

Billy Ray Howell, 17-year-old hunter whose body was found in the hills on Branham's Creek, near Galveston, last Sunday afternoon by members of the Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad, died as the result of an accidental shot from his own gun, State Detective Keith Scott has held.

Young Howell and a friend, Gregory Hall, had gone squirrel hunting last Saturday and became separated. When he did not rejoin Hall late that afternoon, Hall notified Howell's father, Green Howell, and relatives and neighbors began a search for the missing hunter. The body was found at 5:05 p.m., the following day.

Howell had been shot in the head. Detective Scott said physical evidence found indicated he may have shot a squirrel and reloaded his single-shot gun which accidentally discharged while he was going downhill.

Shots were heard in the mountainside area late Saturday but Detective Scott said hunters had been shooting throughout the day.

The victim is survived by his widow, Mrs. Wilma Adkins Howell and his parents, Green and Virginia Hall Howell, all of Galveston; two brothers and four sisters, Roy Lee and Tandy Howell, of Galveston, Mrs. Teresa Sterlie, Ypsilanti, Mich., Diane, Polly Ann and Patricia Gail Howell, all of Galveston.

Funeral of the victim will be conducted at 10 a.m. today (Wednesday) from the Pilgrim Holiness Church on Branham's Creek, ministers of the Regular Baptist Church officiating. Burial will be in the Howell cemetery on Island Creek, Pike county, the Hall Funeral Home directing.

Sound Happenings

By COEY

WAIT, WAIT - The second album is delayed 10 months - WAIT, WAIT - All those stories and rumors - WAIT - The anticipation peaks! It's here! "Don't Look Back!" Boston releases again! Can it overpower the sound of the first? No way it can surmount the impact of the first. So, to be fair, judge the album on its own quality - you see, "Don't Look Back."

Tom Scholz with Brad Delp show progress in their writing style. The title cut, "Don't Look Back," launches the album then blends into the instrumental "Journey" and lands with "It's Easy." A touch of space conceptualism? Reflective, heart pacing lyrics fill the last cut on Side 1, "A Man I'll Never Be" - "I can't get any stronger, I can't climb any higher; You'll never know just how hard I've tried; Cry a little longer, and hold a little tighter, Emotions can't be satisfied. You look up at me, and somewhere in your mind you see, A man I'll never be." He needs her and wants her but realizes he can never fulfill her dream. Is there a more clear way to say it than with these lyrics, the voice of Brad Delp and the music of the group Boston.

Scream the guitar, live it up, party! The second side blasts rock 'n roll again with "Feelin'" and "Party." Look over your shoulder a moment at the first two cuts on Side 2 of the first album and you'll find a similar pattern with "Rock and Roll Band" and "Smokin'." "Smokin'" and "Party" both include a lengthy jam. "Party", however, produces a sound more like rock 'n roll than hard rock as in "Smokin'" with a more steady drum beat and a little less of Scholz's special guitar. "Used to Bad News" features Scholz's keyboard and Delp's lyrics. But what happened to the first part of the lyrics? If you will observe on your little song sheet so graciously included with your LP, you'll be sure to notice that over half the first verse is not sung on your LP. "Don't Be Afraid" is probably the weakest cut on the album or a perfect reflection of a romantic con artist. The lyrics express comfort to a broken heart and an offering of a new love, yet the music and effects reflect a party state of mind and a one night stand.

Now that Seger and Boston have come through, continue your countdowns for the new Ronstadt album with her currently released single, "Living in the U.S.A.," and the new album from the Eagles with their new recruit from Lobo, Tom Schmidt.

Just released are new sounds from the Ozark Mt. Daredevils, Starcastle, Trigger, Roadmaster, Dan Fogelberg and Time Wiseburg, Klaatu, Larry Carlton. Give special attention to the new sounds of Russ Ballard and the duo of Cockrell and Santos.

TELCOM Buys Akers System, Announcement

Paul D. Gearheart, of Harold, announced Tuesday afternoon that TELCOM, Inc., which he heads, has completed the purchase of Everett Akers' television transmission holdings.

Involved in the transaction are the Akers tower on the mountain, east of Martin, and lines serving approximately 825 customers on Right Beaver Creek to Warco, on lower Left Beaver Creek to Hite, the Martin area, a part of Prater Creek and along old US 23 north of Allen.

Mr. Gearheart said TELCOM does not propose to be in competition with other local transmission systems but will offer them the option to use the signal from the main, multi-signal tower near Martin in areas which can be reached by its signal. "We want to bring peace to a troubled situation," he added.

Added to its own system which serves most of Mud Creek, Wheelwright, along the Big Sandy north from Harold to near Allen and other sectors, TELCOM will have approximately 4,000 TV customers.

One change was announced by Mr. Gearheart as immediate, and that is to reduce the monthly service rate from $10 to $9. "We hope to make a further reduction later," he said.

Discussing long-range plans, Gearheart said his firm wants to make available later a signal from a satellite.

Mr. Akers is a pioneer in television transmission in the area, and erection of his tower at the top of a high mountain is considered an unusual feat of engineering.

Reunions

By WILMAY

Most people love reunions. Rarely does one have the privilege of attending three in one week. My beloved daughter and son-in-law, the Thomas Ray Flanerys, made the experience a reality recently. While visiting Louisville friends in 1977, I surprised a young cousin by hearing him preach. He and his wife had just seen ROOTS on TV and wanted to know more about his mother's family, since he had been reared in North Carolina where his father met an early tragic death. A two-hour conversation about mutual ancestors prompted the idea of a 1978 reunion of my mother's family, whose oldest son was his grandfather.

The focal point would be to honor the last surviving member of the oldest generation on both sides of the house, double first cousins who were 85 last January. For decades they have made circles around many much younger. Letters and invitations galore were sent and frequent phone calls made to cousins and others. Some had never seen each other, and many had not met for 40 or 50 years.

The event was held in one of the Holiday Inns of Meridian, Miss., with folks of four generations flying, or driving, in from Oregon to Massachusetts, from Illinois to Mississippi and Louisiana, plus one young fellow from Sweden, and a couple from the Mid-East. The motel marquee that read, "Welcome, Brame-Spinks Reunion," made all feel VIP. Everyone registered in the two guest books—keepsakes for the honorees, Mrs. Sallie Brame Harrell and Mrs. Maggie Spinks Wilkerson, who grew up on adjoining plantations, attended the same college simultaneously, became separated during their marriages, but have resided in the same city since retirement. To save time and questions I.D.'s were provided guests. On the second evening Aunt Minnie Brame Gressett entertained the large crowd to dinner, serving 26 at a time. Following the banquet of the main day, Dr. Tim Townsend, of Virginia, and Dr. Frank Gunn, of Mississippi, co-chaired the program, with Rev. Harold Fleming, only "in-law" minister in the family, offering the invocation and benediction. Programs and family "trees" covering 11 generations, compiled by genealogists and historians on each side, were distributed. Orchid corsages were presented the two elderly ladies. Albert Spinks, of N.J., gave THIS IS YOUR LIFE, AUNT MAGGIE, while Frances Brame Spain, of La., did similar honors for Aunt Sallie. Frances brought the house down, since she has quite a reputation as a professional comedienne. Tears flowed from more than one when Albert described the yester-years. Modern times offer several advantages: luxuries, push-button appliances, etc., but we of this era have lost other things far more valuable, things no earthly sum can buy.

The city paper which had carried an advance account of the celebration sent a photographer to get photos of the two V.I.P.'s, who were featured in the Sunday edition. A number of those present visited the beautiful, old, country church where several ancestors were ordained and where many worshipped for generations. Typically, the two ladies being feted declined gifts and requested instead that their "kith and kin" who wished to remember them donate instead to the Perpetual Care Cemetery Fund of the ancient rural church they love so dearly. Festivities were a joy for everyone, including babies, age 3 to 12 months. Their adoring fathers had them in the pool, along with other small fry. The crowd voted unanimously to hold future reunions somewhere every five years, and elected officers for the Brame Spinks Reunion Association. Like some years, our family had an added plea: because our son, Edgar Ronald May, his wife, and one daughter, from Kansas, joined us there. If you want to put a sparkle in the eyes of some dear octogenarian, try a big reunion in his or her honor. Aunt Sallie and Cousin Maggie are still on "Cloud Nine" Bless them.

The day and night following this commemoration found us farther south in the lovely home of Virginia Coats for a gathering of four university classmates, some of whom had not met in 54 years. Our gifted hostess, now 78, is in superb health, and does more than many much younger. A former home demonstration agent, she pays close attention to dietary needs, something often neglected. As the four of us compared growing "forgetteries," graying hair etc., we developed new appreciation for the well known lines of the anonymous poet who wrote: I love my bifocals—My dentures fit fine—My hearing aid is lovely—but I do miss my mind!" One in this group was Thelma Stevens, who served in New York City 30 years as director of W.S.C.S. for the Methodist Church and then the United Methodist Church of the U.S. Virginia drove us to the university, where Powell Ogletree, head of the alumni association, drove us over the campus. It had eight buildings in the early twenties and more than 100 now. All rejoiced to hear him say that co-habitation is not permitted on campus.

During this interlude my family toured Vicksburg, famous for its Civil War sites. Last but not least, we Gunn "gals," and others of our immediate family held a smaller reunion in Gulfport. That final, bountiful repast added more avoidrduois to waistlines! The following day Tommy Ray and Ann chauffeured us more than 700 miles home before 7 p.m. Joyous memories of the three occasions should last a lifetime.

For the 16th straight year, infant mortality hit a new low in the U.S., reports for the September Reader's Digest. More than 30,000 babies lived who would have died in 1965.

Floyd Gets $29,535 in Split Of $1.5 Million Surface Fees

Kentucky's coal producing counties received almost $1.5 million this year in fees collected by the state from the surface mining of coal, Eugene Mooney, secretary of the state's Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, announced last week, Floyd county received $29,535.

Under a program started in 1972, the counties split, 50-50, with the state the money collected from the issuance of strip mine permits. The amount a county receives is based on the number of permits issued and the number of acres affected.

The program is not related to the severance tax program and the money the counties receive is over and above their severance tax returns. Also there are no conditions attached to the spending of the permit and acreage fees as there are with severance tax monies. The counties' share goes straight to their general accounts as does the state's.

Mrs. Marie Turner New Party Leader

Mrs. Marie Turner, of Breathitt county, has been named to succeed Howard "Sonny" Hunt Jr. as Democratic party chairman through next May—after the Democratic primary for governor.

The unanimous vote came Saturday at a special meeting of the Democratic Central Executive Committee in the executive mansion.

Mrs. Turner has been a political matriarch in eastern Kentucky for decades and has been on the state committee for 26 years. She had been serving as vice chairman, a position left vacant Saturday.

After she was nominated, former state Rep. Norbert Blume, of Louisville, who was presiding temporarily, asked Mrs. Turner: "Would you accept, madam?"

"I see no other way out," she quipped. The controversial Hunt resigned last month, partly blaming a newspaper investigation of his personal finances. He also had been under fire from anti-administration Democrats for allegedly working on behalf of Terry McBrayer, believed to be the favorite of Gov. Julian Carroll for governor.

The selection of Mrs. Turner as temporary chairman resolves a potential issue that could have further divided the state Democrats.

State Auditor George Atkins, an anti-administration gubernatorial candidate for 1979, had suggested a neutral committee choose a permanent chairman. Atkins, who was present Saturday, raised no objection to Mrs. Turner's election.

Mrs. Turner remarked earlier in the meeting that in the time she has spent at state Democratic headquarters since Aug. 1, she had seen no evidence that the party favored any candidate in the governor's primary next year.

VA Ed. Benefits May Be Extended

If a veteran's GI Bill educational benefits expired June 1, 1976 or since then, the veteran may be eligible for an extension of his eligibility. Mrs. Mary G. Sinders, director of the VA regional office in Louisville, says if health problems prevented the veteran from completing his education a new law may open the way for continuing training.

If mental or physical disability caused an interruption or failure to enroll in training, and if the disability was not the fault of the veteran, it is possible to extend the eligibility period for training purposes.

As part of the VA's program this summer to interest those veterans who have not used their GI Bill education benefits, Mrs. Sinders urged such veterans to contact the regional office at once if they would like to finish their education.

A veteran has 10 years from the date of discharge to complete GI Bill training in colleges, high schools or business or trade schools. In Kentucky, about half of the eligible veterans have participated in an educational training program.

Full details on benefits, or the extension because of illness, are available at colleges, schools, service organizations, or the Veterans Administration.

Arts, Crafts Fest At Amphitheatre

The Kentucky Highlands Folk Festival, which takes place this coming week-end at Jenny Wiley State Park, will feature on Saturday a large display and sale of varied crafts of the mountains at the Amphitheater parking lot. In case of rainy weather, the exhibit will take place inside the theater.

Between 10 a.m. and 7 p.m. artists and craftspeople will be demonstrating their skills to the public. Some examples of the crafts on display will include wood-working, pottery, weaving, broom-making, patchwork and quilting, jewelry making, leatherwork, crocheting, musical instrument making, and paintings.

The Kentucky Highlands festival is an annual event where musicians, dancers, folk-tale tellers and craftspeople gather to share the wealth of lore of the Southern Mountains. Musical performances will be September 1 at 7 p.m., September 2 at 7 p.m. and September 3 at 5 p.m.

Odds Are State Lottery Won't Make You Rich

For making money on a bet, your chances are much better in Las Vegas than in any state-run lottery. The September Reader's Digest reports that Prof. G. Robert Blakey of Cornell conducted a lottery study for the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration and concluded: "From a purely economic point of view, no one but a fool would gamble with state-run operations."

The unsuspecting public is fooled in other ways as well. State lotteries are proposed as a way of holding down taxes, and most bettors believe this is true. But, the article reports: "In fiscal 1976, on a gross take of $1.1 billion, they produced profits of $480 million...That sum amounted to less than half of one percent of the $110 billion it took to run state and local governments in the lottery states."

Nor do lotteries help stamp out organized crime by reducing illegal gambling, as some proponents claim. Former U.S. Attorney Jonathan L. Goldstein says: "The state lotteries begin to blur people's ethical and moral values. They make gambling respectable, and thus create new clienteles for organized crime to prey upon. You become addicted."

As Consumers Union concluded in one report, lotteries are "a legal sucker bet."

In Knott Art Series

The event is free and the audience is urged to participate in an evening of singing and dancing that marks the opening of the Knott County Community Arts Series. Other performers include Wry Straw, J. P. Fraley, and the Foothill Mountaineers.

Johnson Named ARH President

Robert L. Johnson, president of the National Center for Health Education in San Francisco and a former University of Kentucky vice-president, has been named president of Appalachian Regional Hospitals, Inc.

Johnson's appointment was made last Thursday by the ARH board of trustees. Johnson, 52, an ARH trustee from 1968 to 1976, will assume on September 1 his new position as the health care system's fourth president. He succeeds David K. Heydinger, M.D., who served as ARH president for four years.

ARH is a private, not-for-profit network of 10 hospitals and related facilities serving parts of eastern Kentucky, southern West Virginia, southwestern Virginia, and northeastern Tennessee.

Johnson has been involved in the health field as an educator, consultant and administrator and through civic activities for nearly 30 years.

ARH facilities are located at McDowell, Harlan, Hazard, Middlesboro, South Williamson, West Liberty, and Whitesburg, Kentucky; Beckley and Man, West Virginia, and Wise, Virginia.

The health care system annually provides care to more than 45,000 inpatients. The system employs approximately 2,700 persons and has a $62.3 million budget.

More than 100 languages are spoken by over a million people each.

'Angel Dust'—Lethal Drug

To escape a vision too horrible to bear, a Maryland college student gouges out his eyes; also plagued by terrifying visions, a California high-school student hangs himself; New York, a young man kills his mother, but can't remember doing so.

All three young people were high on an increasingly popular psychoactive chemical known as PCP, or angel dust. According to the September Reader's Digest, it can be eaten, injected, snorted or smoked. Its effects—never predictable—range from a mild "spaciness" to psychosis, violence, coma and death.

The National Institute of Drug Abuse has identified PCP as the country's new top-priority problem drug and estimates that about 7 million people in the U.S. have used it—three times the number for heroin and not far behind cocaine.

Reactions to the drug vary widely. It may stimulate or depress the central nervous system, depending on the dosage. While first experiences with PCP are usually pleasurable, it has been known to kill kids who have used less than two joints.

"If you can follow a cookbook recipe, you can make PCP," says Robert E. Willette, chief of the research technology branch of NIDA. While the basic chemicals are controlled substances, they are available from most large industrial supply houses, and the drug is cheap to produce. Thus teen-agers who cannot afford cocaine, for instance, may be able to buy a marijuana—PCP joint for about $2. The article points out that one joint is so potent "that up to five youngsters can get a buzz out of it."

Efforts are being made in Congress to move PCP to a top-priority category of controlled substances, in the hope that judges, juries and prosecutors will ask for and deliver stiff penalties to dealers. In the meantime, national groups and school districts are developing educational programs to educate children to the drug's dangers. NIDA has begun a national blitz of TV announcements featuring Robert Blake, star of "Baretta," who warns kids: "PCP is no good. It's a rattlesnake and it'll kill you. Don't go near it."

NOTICE

There will be a public hearing on August 31st, relative to the State 208 Water Quality Plan. The draft State Plan affecting the farming, construction, forestry and mining industries will be reviewed at this time.

Public participation is strongly encouraged.

Hearing to be held 7:00 p.m. August 31, 1978 in the conference room of the Big Sandy Area Development District, 552 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653. 8-23-21.

OCEAN LINERS STARTED SMALL

New York—The first liners appeared in the North Atlantic early in the 19th century. Most of them were little vessels of only 300 to 400 tons. The American Black Ball line inaugurated the first regular service in 1818 with ships sailing between New York and Liverpool.

Accident Reports

Due Within 10 Days

Automobile accident reports must be filed with the state Department of Justice's Bureau of State Police within 10 days of the occurrence of the accident on forms provided by the bureau, according to an opinion from the attorney general's office.

In an opinion sought by Scott Collins, Prestonsburg attorney, Carl Miller, assistant attorney general, said that legislation in the 1978 General Assembly eliminated the necessity of also filing reports with the Department of Public Safety and Revenue.

HAROLD NEWSOME

Of Craynor, Ky.

Secretary-Treasurer, Dist. 30

Dear Sir and Brother:

I take this opportunity to introduce myself as a candidate for District 30 Secretary-Treasurer to fulfill the vacancy of Julius Mullins, who is now Chairman of the Board Trustee of the Health and Retirement Fund, and personal and very close friend of mine and my family.

I am a coal miner and a graduate of Pikeville College with a Master's degree, yet I chose to work in the coal industry since it's a tradition of my father, brothers, and family on both sides of my parents. I have served as Recording Secretary of Local Union 8100 for the past 5 years.

I am asking your support and nomination in my endeavor, for I feel I can do a good job and help you and this membership in many ways because of my education, experience, and above all my desire to serve the membership of District 30.

In closing, I want to assure you I will do everything in my power to make you a good and honest District Secretary-Treasurer, and I can work with anyone elected, or whoever may be elected in the future.

Come out and vote Thursday, September 28, 1978.

Best wishes and kindest regards to you and your membership.

A friend,
HAROLD NEWSOME

LEGAL NOTICE

On Aug. 8, 1978, the City of Prestonsburg submitted a disaster application in behalf of the City of Prestonsburg and Floyd County, as authorized by Section 407 of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974, to the Louisville Office of the Federal Department of Housing and Urban Development. This application requested $160,000 for these activities designed to alleviate problems relating to the April 4, 1977, flood.

The applicant proposes to provide assistance to households on the HUD Disaster Field Office (DFO) case load on a priority basis. Such efforts include assistance in leasing mobile sites and provision of water, sewer, and site preparation to accommodate the mobile home. The second priority includes relocation of mobile homes out of group sites for which license by state authorities is unavailable. For those families, the above noted infrastructure will be provided plus minimal transport and set-up costs. (Transport will be provided by the DFO for families still on the DFO case load.) If funds remain, a third level of assistance will be provided for those already relocated into unsatisfactory circumstances. The total grant amount is budgeted at $160,000. This program will be administered by the Floyd County-Prestonsburg Housing and Community Development Program for the City of Prestonsburg and the Floyd County Fiscal Court. Copies of the application may be reviewed at the Floyd County-Prestonsburg Housing and Community Development office, 6 D Court Street W. Prestonsburg, Kentucky, during normal working hours. Anyone desiring to provide comment on this proposed grant request should provide a written statement to Mayor Harold Cooley, or Judge-Executive Yvonne Jones, prior to September 15, 1978.

See Kentucky Via the Festival Routes

Daniel Boone would have stopped to join the fun. He might have added beef meat as a specialty food for the feast. John Hunt Morgan would have tied his horse to the nearest tree and even cached his rifle before making his way through the gatherings of people, and Alben Barkley would have loved all of it, hugging the mothers, kissing the babies and giving out philosophy along the way to the bean pot, sorghum mill or apple pie stands.

They, like all of us today, would dote on our Kentucky festivals. The galas start early in the year and end late and soon will be like bright gems strung in a necklace to encircle our beautiful Kentucky.

Some festivals already have taken place, leaving those communities free to enjoy the galas coming up.

It's music, ringing and echoing against the hills of Floyd county when the Kentucky Highlands Folk Festival gets under way at Jenny Wiley State Resort Park, near Prestonsburg, Sept. 1-3.

At the Morgan County Sorghum Festival in West Liberty, Sept. 22-24, down-home foods and Morgan-made molasses together with hundreds of crafts items will provide a full weekend.

Where better than Morehead in Rowan county to hold a Harvest festival? The second annual event is set Sept. 22-24 and over 50 activities have been planned to create a fun-filled weekend for everyone. According to the Morehead-Rowan County Chamber of Commerce, the main attraction here will be arts and crafts exhibitions with an expected participation from a 16-county area.

Oct. 6-7 will find thousands of visitors in the Johnson county seat of Paintsville for the famous Kentucky Apple Festival. This festival is one of the oldest in the Highlands and has events and entertainment throughout the week preceding the weekend. County music stars are scheduled for special concerts and in downtown Paintsville there is nothing to equal the aroma of apples everywhere. Apple butter bubbles in a large kettle on the street, apple cider waits to be sampled, apple pies are being fried and baked and bushels of apples are to be auctioned.

According to the East Kentucky Travel Guide, the first full week in October will find Greenup welcoming visitors to its annual Old Fashioned Days. Here entertainment and bargains are combined in an area that abounds in history.

One festival Ol' Dan'l wouldn't miss, for sure, is the Daniel Boone Festival in Barbourville, Oct. 12-17. This gala is another that provides entertainment for the entire family with historic meetings with Indians featured.

Court days! Those wonderful days of swappin' and tradin' and going home with a Barlow knife, a Kentucky rifle or a piece of Spode china to be cherished. Court Days in Mt. Sterling Oct. 14-16 will feature tables of glassware, china, brass, copper and pewter; tables and shelves of knives, guns and other traddables; kerosene lamps, pressed glass, and hound dogs creating music along with artists of country and bluegrass.

How far is it from festivals redolent with woodsmoke from cane mills, barbecue pits and apple butter kettles to red, white and blue bunting furling in a Highlands breeze? It's only a step from one festival to another Daniel-Boone style. With his coonskin cap and his Kentucky rifle he could visit each gala, walking from Montgomery to Rowan to Morgan to Johnson and other counties.

By Oct. 19 Boone would be walking through Floyd county, anxious to shake hands with Marcella Bailey whose dream of Red, White and Blue Days has been a reality for the past few years. If he had his Rebecca with him, the two would walk away with the costume prize in their pocket, for his leather britches and her calico frock and bonnet would have to be best.

These Kentucky festivals are all family entertainment and fun and all are accessible by parkways, interstates and cross-country highways.

This year, see Kentucky via the festival routes!

Asst. Supt. Explains Age Requirements

In response to numerous inquires from parents, Ronald Hager, assistant superintendent for instruction, Floyd county schools, this week issued the following statement:

Next year (1979-80 school year), the compulsory school age as well as the kindergarten and first grade entry age changes throughout Kentucky. Presently, if a child is five years of age on or before January 1, parents may enroll the child in kindergarten. Next school year, the entry age for kindergarten changes to September 1. This means that to be eligible for kindergarten for the 1979-'80 school year a child must be five years of age on or before September 1.

This year if a child is six years of age on or before January 1, parents may enroll the child in the first grade. Next year children will have to be six years of age on or before September 1, to be placed in the first grade. However, any child who has successfully completed public kindergarten during this school year shall be eligible for enrollment in the first grade for the school year 1979-'80, notwithstanding age requirements of House Bill No. 92.

September Song

By NEVYLE SHACKLEFORD
(UK College of Agriculture)

Like ribbons of soft lamb's wool, fog trails trace the river valleys at dawn. Goldenrods illuminate fencerows and waste places while over the lowlands the bluish-purple of wild ageratum, the mist flower of the Indians, appears as a blanket on the bed of a king.

Apples ripen in the orchards, the amber juice of which is to be seen in glass jugs at roadside fruit and vegetable stands. Tomatoes blush in the crabgrass which the gardener, tired out from a long summer of weeding, hoeing, and fighting insects and plant diseases, has permitted to grow. The stately pink Sweet William blooms in rich profusion in the swamps, mingling beautifully with the equally regal dark red cardinal flower. And with all these and a host of other "lovely tokens," September days are here "with summer's best of weather and autumn's best of cheer."

September days are fleeting days. The longest day of the year was back in June and ever since the hours of daylight have grown shorter and shorter—a minute, two minutes, and more at a time. At first the decrease was imperceptible but in September the shortening of daylight hours really becomes manifest. It is when we notice the shadows lengthening earlier across the land that we realize with a jolt that another good spring and summer has almost slipped away.

Knowing that this passage of time means one less spring and summer to spend stimulates an urgency to be up and away; to make the most of the days left before not only the season, but also life itself is gone; before the good earth is again locked in the cold grasp of winter.

September is the month of summer's end and autumn's beginning. It is the month of the Harvest Moon—the moon that comes early and stays late. In the old days busy farmers made good use of this moon. It gave them what was equal to an extra day or so of light to harvest their crops. Many an acre of corn has been cut and shocked, and many a potato has been dug by the light of the Harvest Moon.

Maybe this is a sort of a flashback to primordial times when many creatures of the earth migrated to escape the cold. But as mentioned before, in September there is an all but uncontrollable urge to wander and it doesn't make much difference where. The wanderlust may be alleviated by just rambling through a city park; strolling through a woodlot on the farm; or walking down to the pond, creek, or river.

It is something like a story Hal Borland tells of a migrant farm worker. Every summer the migrant would vow to pick himself a place, settle down, and make something of himself.

"Then it comes Fall," the migrant farm hand was quoted as saying, "and I just can't seem to stay where I am."

That is the way it is with many persons. In September they feel a great urge to take off from where they are to somewhere else. It is hard for them to stay "where they am."

The cool nights of September stimulate the appetites of bass and bream, making the month a good time to get in some fall fishing. It is also a good month in which to put out a patch of winter hardy onions to eat with wild greens in the spring. Celery, cabbage, and cauliflower do well in September if carefully cultivated and kept free of bugs.

It is likewise a good month for de-thatching, reseeding, and fertilizing the lawn. Also, according to horticulturists in the UK College of Agriculture, it is a good month in which to divide and transplant perennials, plant daffodil bulbs, transplant evergreen shrubbery, harvest and store sweet potatoes and Irish potatoes, and sow winter cover crops in vacant garden areas.

September is somewhat of a sad month, but it is a good month, nevertheless.

Credit Card - September

The vile person shall be no more called liberal, nor the churl said to be bountiful. For the vile person will speak villainy, and his heart will work iniquity, to practise hypocrisy and to utter error against the Lord, to make empty the soul of the hungry, and he will cause the drink of the thirsty to fail.

Gardening Tips from Extension Specialists at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture

Several homeowners with small orchards or a few fruit trees have wondered this spring why some of their apple and peach trees put forth only scanty bloom, or failed to bloom entirely.

Well, according to UK fruit specialists, this may be the result of at least two factors. For one thing, the prolonged and extremely cold weather we had last winter may have killed the dormant fruit buds. Winter cold, however, rarely kills all hardy apple, pear, sour cherry, and plum buds, it could destroy some of those more sensitive to bitter cold. This, of course, would result in fewer blossoms. Peaches are most sensitive to cold and their buds may be killed if temperatures reach 10 degrees below zero. Old time orchardists had a term for this failure to bloom, or scanty blooming. They said the bloom was "killed in the sap."

Then something else may have caused this lack of fruit tree blooming.

Occasionally certain fruit trees, particularly apple trees, bear heavily one year and largely fail to bloom the following year. UK fruit specialists call this condition "biennial bearing." They say that since the buds of most hardy fruits that open in the spring are formed during the previous summer, a very heavy crop like most fruit tree owners had last summer, often prevents bud formation. Biennial bearing is difficult to change or correct. But, the fruit specialists add, a return to normal annual fruit production may be induced by early and heavy thinning of the fruit during the years when the trees are producing heavy crops. Orchardists hate to do this, but it is a good practice nevertheless. It may not only cause the trees to bear the following year, but may also protect tree limb breakage caused by overload-

ing. The fruit specialists recommend that when thinning the fruit to correct biennial bearing to leave one fruit per foot along the branches. The thinning should be done, they say, within 30 days after blooming.

Provided several other conditions are favorable, a fruit tree normally begins to bear fruit after it becomes old enough to blossom freely. Tree health, environment, and cultural practices used can all directly influence its ability to produce fruit. Adequate pollination is also essential to fruit production.

If any of these conditions mentioned are not favorable, yields may be reduced, or the tree may not bear at all. A grower, however, can exercise control over most of them if he will take time to read up on the subject and consult with his local county agent who can provide fruit growing information.

Pamphlet Advises Children: Don't Adopt Wildlife Babies

A baby raccoon looks like the perfect pet to a child. The temptation to carry the animal home is often too great to resist. But wildlife babies do not make good pets, according to a new publication from the National Wildlife Federation. "Let It Be—Wild and Free" is a 12-page pamphlet available free of charge for the first copy and 25 cents for each additional copy. It is designed to teach children what to do if they find an apparently orphaned baby animal.

The four-color pamphlet points out that while a wildlife pet can be cute and cuddly as a baby, the animal can grow up to be destructive and even dangerous. Catching and keeping a wild pet can also be a violation of wildlife conservation laws.

What should a child do if he or she discovers an abandoned or injured baby bird? The pamphlet answers that question in detail, outlining ways to repair broken wings and legs, how to keep birds warm, and what to feed them. But, the pamphlet concludes, "NOBODY is as good a parent to a baby bird as the parent birds themselves."

Have your blood pressure checked.
