

County To Meet Program Demand

Court Appoints Hale To Direct Compliance Job

The Floyd fiscal court has not yet adopted the flood plain management program demanded last week by the Federal Flood Insurance Administration—but it is so certain that it will that it already has employed a flood plan administrator.

Sam Hale, who has served as county detective under the federally funded crime prevention program, was named to begin work as administrator of the program, December 1. He has resigned the detective post.

The draft of the county's flood plan resolution will get its first reading at the next, the Nov. 28, meeting of the court.

The court moved to implement the program after hearing from Robert Maier, of the Federal Flood Insurance Administration, at last Tuesday's meeting that the county has until Jan. 1 either to get into the program or to drop out. Next day, county and city officials, those of Prestonsburg, Allen, Martin, Wheelwright and Wayland, got the same message. The five incorporated communities indicated they will move in the same direction as the fiscal court to comply with the requirement that they implement a flood plain management program. Their own building inspectors may be used as administrators within their corporate limits.

Mr. Hale's duties will include:
—Defining special flood hazard areas in the county outside incorporated communities.
—Reviewing proposed developments.
—Issuing permits for all proposed construction, including the placement of mobile homes.

The federal guidelines also provide that he will require all water and sewage systems to be designed so as to minimize or eliminate the infiltration of flood water.

Carroll Appoints P'burg Resident County Planner

William R. Callihan, Prestonsburg man who was named by the fiscal court last week to succeed Claude A. Swiney as county planner, will do double duty, also serving as the county's Eastern Kentucky Concentrated Employment Program (EDCEP) officer, a work heretofore performed by County Judge-Executive Yvonne S. Jones.

Mr. Swiney resigned, effective Nov. 15, to accept the position of planning director for the 23-county Employment Opportunity pilot program.

Mr. Callihan, who has already begun work as county planner, will be paid a salary of $1,000 a month.

Two others employed are Janet Tackett and Sue Hager as secretaries in the office of the county judge-executive.

Again having trouble with its parks construction program, the court voted to take "proper action" to terminate the program.

Raniers Give $195,000 Home To Meet Christian Club Need

"It really isn't anything big. We know why we did it, and we're happy we did." So said Harry H. Ranier, Prestonsburg coal operator, of the gift of a $195,000 Charlotte, N.C. home which he and his wife, Juda, had made to the PTL (Praise the Lord) Club when they found that the Christian television network's president, Jim Bakker, and family needed a house.

Mr. Ranier said he and his wife had not wanted any publicity about what they did. "We simply went to see the Bakkers, found them in need and the PTL Club really in dire need, so we helped them."

He said Mr. Bakker, who hosts the network's two-hour daily show (seen locally over WOWK, Huntington, W. Va.), was having to drive about an hour each way to the studio. Three weeks ago, the Raniers visited the Bakkers in Charlotte and it was at that time that they found the house. The Bakkers will occupy the home, rent-free.

For the Raniers the gift was not a mere contribution to the Bakkers but to the entire PTL Club. "At first," Mrs. Ranier said, "I thought this would be just a quiet gift that would not make any news. People may get the wrong impression and think we did this for publicity, but we don't have a thing to gain from this."

Except the satisfaction of helping

This Town...That World

A friend has ventured the idea that, inasmuch as this column went on vacation last week, we should have plenty to write about after the rest. Maybe so, but I've found the matter not unlike catching up on sleep. You don't do it. Anyway, somebody has been kind enough to say that the column was missed. Great! It's good to be missed in more ways than one—by friendly readers and by brickbats.

THE DECISION

For weeks now I have been reading and hearing predictions of the winter to come. There have been those who have assured one and all that this winter will be worse than last. They consulted the wooly worms, spiders' webs, sunspots, weather patterns, everything. There are those who, on the other hand, are less pessimistic and predict with equal assurance that we're going to get a break with a milder winter.

All this has brought me to a momentous decision, which is this: I intend to wait and see (if I may, please) and then take whatever comes as best I may.

THE QUICK MISCUE

Somebody once upon a time sat himself down and counted all the ways you can make a mistake in printing a newspaper. Counted the number of words in a line, the number of words in a column and the number of letters in all the words, and so on. The odds against an error-free job are astronomical.

But we don't have to go a column to mess up the job. Last week, for instance, Prestonsburg merchants announce the official opening of their Christmas shopping season this week with a two-page ad which appears in this and all other newspapers in the area pointing out the variety and convenience of shopping in downtown Prestonsburg.

But ADD Group Does Not Agree With Suggestion

Although the absence of Pike County Judge Wayne T. Rutherford at Monday night's meeting of the Big Sandy Area Development District's board of directors delayed an anticipated "showdown" between Rutherford and BSADD Executive Director Joe McCauley, discussion of what board member J. B. Wells, Jr. described as a "bad situation developing," occupied a sizeable part of the board's business session.

In four letters from Rutherford's office to Mr. McCauley which were submitted following last month's board meeting, Rutherford objected to a number of BSADD actions with his strongest criticism being voiced in another letter to ADD board members which blasted the "regional concept" which, he said, characterizes ADD projects. He pointed to McCauley specifically as being a champion of regionalism which threatens, according to the Pike official, to result in a "take-over of the city governments and county governments in the Big Sandy Area Development District." His letter continued: "I ask you (the board) to consider firing Joe McCauley, the Executive Director, since what leadership he is exercising is on behalf of the take-over and the abolishment of the city and county governments in the area."

Hammond Hails Call For Special Session

State Senator Jim Hammond said here Monday that a special session of the General Assembly is needed and that he is "delighted" that Lieut. Gov. Thelma Stovall called one.

His position was in sharp contrast to that of Governor Carroll and others who expressed fear of the impact the proposed legislation will have on the state budget.

Cost of the session, which is set for Dec. 11, may run as high as a million dollars, but Hammond said, the saving to the public during the remainder of the present fiscal year and all of the next will be $78 million, he claims.

Hammond cited two items of Mrs. Stovall's call for the special session—the elimination of the utilities sales tax and the review of the Public Service Commission's procedures in granting utility rate increases.

He said at the last regular session Senator Ford introduced a bill to eliminate the utility tax and that he co-sponsored the legislation. He said that they succeeded in getting the bill out of committee and onto the floor but that Governor Carroll expressed the fear that, in view of revenue losses resulting from the mine strike, passage at that time might upset the budget. The bill was returned to committee with the understanding that the Legislative Research Commission would study it for action at a later date, possibly at a special session.

Hammond also said that he and Senator Noe concurrently introduced at the last regular Assembly session a bill that would have "outlawed" the fuel adjustment clause permitting automatic adjustment of fuel costs. The legislation failed of passage, but the PSC promised it would by its own regulations eliminate the effect of the clause, the senator said.

"It attempted this but wound up with a decision to do a review of it every six months, and it's still there, possibly to be abused," Hammond said.

Hammond said the Dec. 11 date set for the special session is not too early to get effective action. He said these two bills that failed have already had LRC study

Water Project Official Start Slated Saturday

Official groundbreaking for the $615,000 Abbott-Little Paint Water District project will be held Saturday, at 11 a.m. at the mouth of Alley Fork of Little Paint Creek where early work has been done.

Congressman Carl D. Perkins will be the speaker.

The first work done on the water distribution system followed authorization of construction by the Public Service Commission. This was site preparation for a 60,000-gallon reservoir to serve the Little Paint section.

Actual construction of lines began Monday morning on Abbott Creek. The general contractor, G. R. Alderman, Inc., of Morehead, has until next August to complete the project. The Chicago Bridge & Iron Co. is the contractor on the reservoir.

Funds for Removal Of Asbestos Assured

Resolution to the weeks-long dilemma and controversy over hazardous asbestos in the high school here came Monday night in the form of a commitment by the Big Sandy Area Development District's board of directors to provide funds to help effect the asbestos removal.

After hearing pleas from Superintendent of Schools Pete Grigsby, Jr., Ruby Catherine Clifton, president of the non-profit People for Better Schools group, and Floyd County Judge-Executive Yvonne Stumbo Jones, the board approved a motion by ADD board member J. B. Wells, Jr. to allocate $35,000 from available Area Development Funds to help pay for the work which will cost an estimated $74,400. Prior to the motion Judge Jones, in her plea for funds, told the ADD board, "The Floyd County Economic Aid Board is ready to match any funds which Big Sandy ADD may provide," so the remaining amount is expected to come from local sources.

The Economic Aid Board, which is responsible for allocating coal severance tax money which the county receives, voted earlier during the day Monday to rule that an emergency exists at Prestonsburg High School due to the asbestos hazard and accepted an application and petition for funds which was submitted on behalf of the Floyd County Board of Education and the People for Better Schools. In that petition was included the report made to Supt. Grigsby by Anthony Natale, one of 22 contractors in the nation licensed by EPA to remove and handle asbestos, who visited the school here last Tuesday. Natale's report said: "In accordance with my experience in removal of asbestos, I would contend the conditions here to be one of the worst I have ever encountered. I would recommend the immediate removal and disposal of the asbestos material in accordance with all EPA safety regulations."

Mrs. Clifton repeated Natale's statement at the ADD meeting and suggested that the work here be considered a model for other schools in Kentucky and elsewhere.

Supt. Grigsby told the ADD board that money through the Floyd Board of Education is not available. "If we had the money we wouldn't be here," he said. A meeting last Friday with state officials in Frankfort was unproductive, according

Free Firewood Available In Daniel Boone Forest

The nip in the air tells anyone with a woodburning fireplace or furnace that now is the time to stock up on firewood for the cold weather ahead. And there's no better place to get it than where it's free for the taking, such as one of the seven ranger districts of the Daniel Boone National Forest. Free, that is, for personal use and not for resale.

Here's how to get the firewood. Go to any of the district ranger offices and ask for a firewood cutting permit. Each permit comes with a map or instructions to locate the areas designated for cutting the wood. The limit is 20 cords per year, far more than most homes could use, and it can be cut at any time convenient to you.

The Best-Laid Plans Fail

Since flood plain management is now a "must" if residents of this section are to have the protection of federal flood insurance, it becomes obvious that building sites out of the flood plain are an absolute necessity.

That being the situation, The Times wonders why benches created by strip or auger mining, or both, should not be left to provide such flood-free locations for future homes and businesses, and especially if the surface owner wants it so.

We have, since the first surface mining was begun in this area, argued against destruction of the environment. We feared then, and still fear, that uncontrolled mining will leave water pollution and areas of dreary wasteland as a tragic legacy to future generations.

We have belabored the issue until some coal interests have doubtless come to regard us as the enemies of their industry. This is a mistaken concept of our sincere concern for the environment, because we are as aware as any that upon coal the economic life of this area is heavily dependent. That is a fact, even if it is an unfortunate fact.

Yet, for all our concern that the beauty and the "liveability" of this part of the country not be destroyed, we have an idea that some of the provisions of the 1977 Surface Mine Act will work to make impossible continued development of the region. If every mountainside must be restored to its original contours, regardless of the wishes of the owner of the land, and none of the level land created by mining is permitted to remain for future building sites, it would seem that compliance with the National Flood Insurance Act will reduce sites for homes and businesses to the minimum in flood-prone Eastern Kentucky.

This same Surface Mine Act has another practical weakness. It threatens to eliminate the small coal operator, the home product, and to leave coal mining possible only for financially powerful corporations. That situation was rather graphically described last week by Ron Sanders, of the Western Kentucky Coal Operators' Association, in a discussion of the costly equipment which the federal law requires of the operator. He pointed out that mines buying the needed new machinery will have an estimated 12 per cent cost increase this year, and added:

"I don't think this will mean much lessening of production, but it may force small companies to sell to larger corporations. It hurts the state, because the small operators return a much larger percentage of every coal dollar to Kentucky. For example, if an operator sells coal at $20 a ton, the small operators will spend $20 in the state for taxes and purchases of materials and so on. The larger companies, AMAX, Peabody and P & M, are owned out-of-state, and they take the profits away from Kentucky."

Indeed, it is a pity that we can't have our cake and eat it, too. In this vein, it might also be observed that the best-laid plans of men often go agley.

two innocent words did the trick. The outline for Governor Carroll's Page 1 photo at Garrett was written, "Flanked by Circuit Judge Hollie Conley and Representative 'Jitter' Allen..." and, so help me, if it didn't come out, "Thanked by..."

This is one of several good reasons I have for trying not to be too critical of others and their boo-boos.

CAN'T DECENCY BE ART, TOO?

I confess, I am a bit confused about this matter of realism.

In what passes as literature, these days, they justify what some may consider plain pornography by explaining that it's true to life—realism, no less. But when you turn to art the artist, one such as the beloved Norman Rockwell who died the other day, is downgraded as too photographic in his work, which says to me that he is being accused of being too realistic, or true to life.

I dunno. It's true, according to Rockwell himself, he could not paint a sexy woman. But how he could portray life, his kind of life, the gentle, beautiful realities!

I maintain that it is as true to life, or as realistic, to record that a character spoke a blessing as it is to have him pronouncing a curse. By the same token, it strikes me that a Rockwell painting showing a couple going to church, their young daughter glorying in her Sunday best while her brother finds the trip a Calvary because he is in starched shirt and shiny shoes and on his best behavior is as realistic as the painting of a nude or of a bacchanalian scene.

This man Rockwell—no Rembrandt or Titian, certainly—is another of the reasons that I am thankful at this season of the year, a time when he probed the deep meanings of family, home and church and portrayed them so unforgettably.

RUBE THE CYNIC

There's no denying it, Mrs. Stovall caught the boys unawares with that call last week for a special session of the Legislature. But the village cynic wants to know why she wanted to inflict another Legislature so soon on the people of Kentucky.

APPRECIATION

I am not so old that I can't remember the days when this newspaper accepted cabbages, potatoes, whatever there was to spare in lieu of cash for a subscription. I am reminded of this by a visit I had this week from an old friend, the Rev. C. H.

Furman, of Betsy Layne, who brought me some of the finest turnips I've seen. These were brought not in lieu of anything, simply as a gift. I appreciate the gift, but I appreciate more the giver.

A CANDIDATE'S FEAR

The woods are full of candidates for state office already. Don't run that pedestrian down, Mr. Motorist—he may be a candidate for governor.

The urge to get the old hat into the ring spreads. Lenna Moore has almost decided it isn't too early to start the ball rolling for poke warden again. Only one barrier is seen.

"I'm afraid Watt Hale will insist on me making disclosure of my finances," he grumbles.

Have a good Thanksgiving—and I am not referring only to turkey.

New Strip Laws Seminar Topics

Seminars to explain new state and federal laws on strip mining permits will be conducted at Jenny Wiley State Park, Wednesday and Thursday, Nov. 29-30, and at Pine Mountain State Park, Tuesday and Wednesday, Dec. 5-6.

The Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement's Division of Permits is sponsoring the seminars in cooperation with the University of Kentucky College of Engineering Office of Continuing Education and the UK Institute for Mining and Minerals Research.

One out of six Kentucky teachers hired bought his position or had a relative in the school system, according to a state survey; Floyd method of teacher hiring better than average, although one board member said that in earlier years "we had a few who wouldn't sign a nomination for less than $50." Other items of business transacted at the court session included:

—A request that County Clerk C. "Ollie" Robinson attend the next court meeting for a discussion of taking the court minutes. Court officials complained that minutes recorded by inexperienced persons had required considerable correction.

—Authorized Colonel Montgomery to install a sewer line along county right-of-way in Auxier.

—Continued till Nov. 28 action on the request that a road on Corn Fork be closed, the court awaiting a report from Sam H. Fitzpatrick, county road supervisor.

—Authorized amendment of the budget to increase general fund receipts by $40,058.54, unanticipated revenues from surface mining activities and materials under the cooperative program.

—Adopted, as amended, the ordinance pertaining to television system franchises.

—Authorized payment of $500 to Clifford Marshall for right-of-way and approved payment of $14,370 for Workmen's Compensation insurance for county employees.

—Authorized payment of $47.46 to Kanawha Steel and Equipment Co. for the Mud Creek Water District, and payments for the Floyd County Water and Gas System of $935.99 to Kentucky Utilities, Inc., and three payments totaling $6,235.46 to E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Company.

waters into the systems.

Hale said that, first of all, he will take all the training for the job that he can get. "Right now, I'm as green about this program as you, he said."

He added that he expects to meet later with citizens' groups, clubs and other organizations for discussions of the program.

County and city officials have taken the position that the Flood Insurance Administration has left them no choice except to conform with the requirements voiced here by Mr. Maier. Failure to do so would, they say:

—Result in no flood insurance for residents of the county outside the incorporated towns if the fiscal court refuses to comply, and none for residents of the towns if their city councils or boards of trustees fail to implement the program.

—No federal flood disaster funds for either county or the towns in the event of future flooding.

—No loans from federal sources for construction, and none from local banking institutions except at their own risk.

Letters to the Editor

In Support of Turner

I am writing this letter in defense of my kinfolk and our county attorney, Arnold Turner.

I believe there are three or more sides to every issue—my side, your side and the other person's side. In most cases if it remains between your side and mine—the differences can be resolved. When the third person gets involved it becomes more and more complicated.

For several weeks now the Floyd County Times has covered articles pertaining to the difference of opinion between County Attorney Arnold Turner and Ex-Sheriff Joe Lewis. The articles in most part were in defense of Lewis.

The question in the beginning of these differences between Lewis and Turner was and still is a question of LAW, not personalities.

Arnold Turner, our county attorney, interpreted the law to disqualify an ex-sheriff from serving as a deputy sheriff and being paid from county funds. As stated earlier, the article writers have left the question of LAW and gone into personalities, some gone so far as to claim that Arnold is out to destroy this, that or the other. This, in my opinion, is prime hogwash.

Arnold Turner is attempting to the best of his ability to do the job for which he was elected to do to serve all the people of the county.

When a question of LAW arises where in the citizens might be short-changed, it is the duty and responsibility of the county attorney to challenge the legality of the act. This Turner had done with vigor and honesty.

The parties involved have asked and got three or four Attorney General's opinions, and keep in mind, they are only opinions, not necessarily the LAW, but do serve as a guide. The opinions to the average citizen are about as clear as muddy water and, no doubt, to some lawyers the same.

Let us turn the coin over and say: Suppose Arnold Turner was attorney general, and he had been asked to render or give a legal opinion pertaining to this question. What would have been his opinion?

I daresay he would have replied with the same section of law that he used in the beginning of these differences. So then we would have used his opinion as a guide.

I have not questioned either party, Turner or Lewis, about their differences and I do hope this letter does not offend either; it is not my intention to do so.

In my opinion the question involved in the difference between the parties is a question of LAW, and not one of how well one has served his county or how bad one might have been.

Certainly we would all agree that it is the whole duty of the County Attorney to uphold the law and that Arnold Turner has and is doing. When and if he ceases to do so, then and there he is no longer qualified to serve as County Attorney.

I am not qualified to say what the law is regarding the differences between Lewis and Turner, but as a citizen of this county I feel I qualify to say, "Amen" to the stand our County Attorney took. I hope he continues to do so when he feels we as taxpayers are being wronged.

There could be nothing worse than our County Attorneys failure to take action when he felt the law was being violated regardless of the toes he might step on.

We as citizens of this county know Joe Lewis has served two terms as sheriff of the county, you are qualified to make your own judgement, as to his past service.

The question of LAW can only be resolved through our Court system and the sooner the better.

Let each of us forget our little gripes and get down to the task at hand, back our leaders and in so doing—build a better Floyd county.

Besides these two issues, Mrs. Stovall's call for the special session asked that the Legislature take up her proposals to freeze property tax assessments at their current level; increase the power of the attorney general's utility consumer intervenor in opposing rate increases; increase the standard deduction for personal state income taxes and make the special income tax benefits now available to persons 65 years old and older also available to persons 62 and older; and modify district court fines, jail fee reimbursements to the counties, and court space.

Board member Wells, of Paintsville, said—he considered Rutherford's statements concerning the ADD staff and policy to be offensive. "I would not agree that this group stands condemned as in Judge Rutherford's letter," Wells told the board. "In all my many years with this board there has never been this sort of dissent against the majority of the board." Referring to Rutherford's frequent voicing of complaints which are heard at the monthly ADD meets, Wells said, "This threat of negativism has come up at almost every turn."

Wells said a certain degree of regionalism in any ADD or similar organization was of necessity, "since, after all, area development districts are regional organizations." Wells also told the group, "Regionalism seems to be just fine with Judge Rutherford as long as it means gain for Pike county." Wells then called for a roll call vote of confidence for McCauley.

Another board member, Dr. Henry Campbell, who joined Wells in his criticism of Judge Rutherford's communications, revised Wells' call for a vote of confidence by suggesting that the vote reflect support of McCauley's "doing his job" in furthering the regional purposes of Big Sandy ADD. Of the 25 board members, there were 19 votes of confidence with three abstentions. Three members were absent.

Acting as state clearing house in applications for funding from the five-county area, the board approved seven projects at Monday's meeting for A-95 review, including the application for $4,320,000 in federal funds for construction of the proposed Big Sandy Regional Airport. Allen Perry, chairman of the Airport Board, said the master plan for the project is now being completed and the next step, design and engineering, which is a fundable expense, will help in acquiring the necessary monies. An additional $540,000 will come through state funds, with $540,000 being provided locally.

The regional airport, which, as projected, will be located near the borders of Martin, Johnson and Floyd counties, will be capable of serving transport-type aircraft, with a 5,000-ft. runway and ancillary services. It is being designed to serve a multi-county area.

Jack E. Farley, public advocate, of Frankfort and a former BSADD board member, addressed the board of directors, discussing the planned increase in services rendered by the state public advocate office (formerly public defender office). "For three area development districts and 26 counties we need 55 public defenders but we'll probably get 16," Farley said. "But that will be 16 we don't have now," he emphasized. Farley said that his office, like many state offices, looked to the ADD's as agencies through which to act in expanding public defender services and he stressed that "we don't intend to replace working attorneys but only to supplement legal services in those areas where case loads point to a need."

Bill Short, secretary of the Kentucky Development Cabinet, was the featured speaker at the dinner session of the meeting.

to Grigsby, and he told the group the ADD was a "last resort." Grigsby also told the board that Prestonsburg's asbestos removal efforts would represent one of the first such programs and said similar projects would "become of a national scale."

Since Natale will be available to begin the removal work beginning January 3, the ADD board said it would be able to bypass usual lengthy funding procedures and thereby get the necessary money relatively soon. The removal process is expected to close the school for three weeks.

Tests of air samples from the school confirmed the presence of asbestos fibers of the size which can be inhaled. Asbestos is a known cancer-causing agent as well as the source of some respiratory diseases, including asbestiosis.

Kentucky Afield

By JOHN WILSON

Early indications are that Kentucky is headed for a second consecutive record harvest of deer, with the take for the first two days of the November gun hunt running 427 ahead of last year's opening weekend.

The commonwealth's conservation officer in 100 of the state's 106 open counties report that they checked 7,626 hunters and tallied 2,597 deer taken legally. Last year more hunters (7,932) were checked, but fewer deer (2,170) were accounted for.

The officers also encountered 113 deer which had been taken illegally and made 130 arrests. The illegal kill is very close to last year's figure (111) but the number of arrests is down from the 206 made on the opening weekend last year.

Gun hunters who didn't get a deer in November will have another chance Dec. 2 through Dec. 4. But they should keep in mind that 24 counties that were open for the November hunt will be closed during the December gun season.

These counties are: Adair, Bell, Bourbon, Breathitt north of Buckhorn Creek Road (remainder of county closed to all deer hunting), Fayette, Garrard, Greenup, Hardin, Jefferson, Jessamine, Kenton, Knox, Laurel, Letcher, Lincoln, Madison, Mercer, Metcalfe, Montgomery, Morgan, Pike, Rockcastle, Whitley and Woodford.

In the meantime, archers may resume hunting deer Nov. 18 and continue through Nov. 30. The third and final phase of the bow season for deer opens Dec. 9 and runs through Dec. 31.

While bow hunters may take either sex deer, gun hunters are limited to bucks with at least one forked antler in all open counties except Ballard, Crittenden, Livingston and McCracken Counties, where either sex deer may be taken only on Dec. 2 with bucks only for the remainder of the gun season.

In Edmonston County, Hart County west of I-65 and south of KY 88, and in Barren County west of I-65, either sex deer may be taken during all gun hunts. Again, bucks only is the rule in the rest of Hart and Barren Counties for the entire gun hunt.

Both gun and bow hunters who take deer must visit a check station or have the deer checked by a conservation officer. (A list of these check stations is attached to each deer permit). The purpose of the check stations is to give biologists a quick and accurate count of the total deer harvest.

The $977,000 contract is the first phase of a $2.3 million total which is expected to produce 140 houses in the Jenkins development.

Kallaher's Report Of Recent Shooting

Referring to the recent Times news-story relating to his having been wounded by Adrian Lafferty, Edward Kallaher, of Louisville, last week asked that his version of the incident be published. Mr. Kallaher wrote, in part:

"Tom Lafferty became angry at me when I told him that I would go somewhere else, since he did not want to honor the Master Charge convenience check, and more so when I tore the registration card up that I had already signed...Then he started pushing me out...I was trying to put my checkbook in my pocket at this time. Tom then said, 'You're under arrest,' and I said, 'what for? I haven't done anything to be arrested for.' He flipped out a badge with no explanation of his authority, and this is when Adrian came up behind him, saying, 'You are under arrest; and he flipped out a badge. And at this moment, as he drew my attention to the badge, he was firing his gun at me. And at no time did I raise my hand or yell at Tom Lafferty. All I was trying to do was leave.

"My wife was with me and was right there witnessing the whole incident.

"Now that you have printed all the wrong things, please print the truth and correctly."

(The Times' original story was based on statements made by officers who investigated the shooting.)

CINDERELLA, CINDERELLA

Children from the Osborne Elementary audience form an arch for Cinderella and the Prince in Wheelwright High School's audience-participation production of "Cinderella, Cinderella."

(Wheelwright High School Journalism Class)

"Can I really believe her?" the stunning Cinderella asked of the audience composed of children at Osborne Elementary, as Wheelwright High School performed its production of "Cinderella, Cinderella."

"Can I really to the ball?" Cries of "Yes, yes!" came from throughout the crowd of bright young faces seated on the floor of the school gymnasium. "Cinderella, Cinderella" was performed at both Osborne Elementary and Melvin Grade School by Wheelwright juniors and seniors in a joint effort of two English classes.

Hattie Smith, a junior cheerleader and football cheer attendant, played the lovely "ragged" Cinderella who, with the help of the children in the audience and a slightly absent-minded Fairy Godmother played by Lisa Blankenship, gets to attend a "disco" ball where she is spotted by the Prince (Danny Smith) and chosen by him to be his future queen. But time runs out for Cinderella (as it always does) and she is whisked out of her beautiful ball gown and once again finds herself back in the kitchen of the family home where she has the unpleasant task of cleaning out the fireplace.

The children in the audience must set the story right. When Prince Charming appears at Cinderella's doorsteps with the bumbling Duke (Robbie Berger) to try the magical glass slipper on the inhabitants of the house, it is the children in the audience who must tell the prince what happened to Cinderella. The stepmother (Teresa Mullet) and the two stepsisters (Patti Tackett and Rose Osborne) have locked her away upstairs.

A comment from one small boy was, "The ugly stepsisters locked Cinderella up. They may cut her head off!"

The child that danced with the prince said, "He's beautiful."

The play "Cinderella, Cinderella," is a different type of drama that has been extremely popular in the last few years. It is known as an audience-participation play. The audience has work to do: The children from a wedding arch for the prince and Cinderella; they brush Cinderella's hair; the King (Roy Haley) invites them to the ball and chooses one of them as his queen; they dance with the court, and most importantly they wish for the magic that is to occur on the stage.

"Make the sound of horses' hooves," the Fairy Godmother asks the children as she bends in front of them. "Clippity Clopp" she says as she claps her hands together and the noisy sound of horses fill the gym. For a moment, the young eyes do indeed create a magical kingdom where wishing and imagination make it so.

Arthritis Foundation Encourages Interest

"We always welcome Kentucky residents who want to know more about arthritis, but during the holiday season we are making a special effort to tell people about our organization," said James E. Letcher, Executive Director of the Kentucky Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation.

"We are the only national health agency dedicated to finding the cause and cure of arthritis, as well as helping America's 20 million victims, through programs of education, research and care," reported James E. Letcher. He pointed out that there are many people right here in Kentucky who have this crippling disease severely enough to need medical care.

The health agency is a partnership between professionals and volunteers and all Kentucky residents are encouraged to find out more about the organization. For a free pamphlet, "The Arthritis Foundation—What It Is, What It Does," write to the Kentucky Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation, 1381 Bardstown Road, Louisville, Kentucky 40404.

WAYLAND NEWS

CLUB HAS ANNUAL DINNER

The Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club held its annual daughter club dinner last Monday evening at the Wayland Masonic Lodge dining hall. Guests included ten members from the Drift Woman's Club and six members from the Wheelwright Club.

A greeting was given by the host club's president, Mrs. Bobby Joe Castle. Mrs. Hansel Bradley and Mrs. S. M. Martin gave the devotions. Mrs. Martin performed an impressive candlelighting ceremony in memory of the Wayland club's three members who passed away during the past club year—Mrs. Ellen Hornsby (a charter member), Mrs. Dora Reed and Mrs. Florence Pack. A red candle was lighted for Mrs. Imalee Spillman, who is bedfast as a result of an automobile accident in July. Mrs. Martin was warm her praise of the loyalty and dedication of these club members.

Mrs. Otto Martin gave a reading on Thanksgiving and read a poem in keeping with the season.

There were 14 members present from the Wayland club.

New Vets' Pension Program

A new Veterans Administration pension program to be in effect January 1, will offer substantial increases to neediest veterans and a choice of remaining under the old program for those who are better off financially.

VA Chief Max Cleland said that "while the new program basically provides the greatest benefits for those most in need, all VA pensioners should take a careful look at the facets of the program before making up their minds."

In setting up the revised pension plan, Congress provided that veterans have until October 1, 1979, to choose whether they want it or prefer to remain under the current program.

"If they choose the new program, payments will be retroactive to January 1, 1979, but the choice is irrevocable," Cleland said.

VA pensions are based on income and go to eligible wartime veterans with other than dishonorable discharges who are permanently and totally disabled from causes not traceable to their service.

VA considers veterans 65 years of age and older to be disabled for pension purposes.

VA pensions are also paid to certain needy survivors of wartime veterans. Currently, about 2.7 million Americans are receiving VA pensions.

Under the new pension program next year, the maximum annual pension rate for a single veteran will be $3,550, up from the current $2,364, Cleland said.

A veteran with one dependent and no other income now receives a maximum pension of $2,544, that will increase to $4,651 under the new program, Cleland said.

Other annual pension rates under the new program will be:

Veteran with no dependents, but in need of regular aid and attendance, $5,680; with one dependent who is in need of regular aid and attendance, $6,781; veteran permanently housebound, without dependents, $4,340; permanently housebound, with one dependent, $5,441; surviving spouse without dependent children, $2,379; with one dependent child—$3,116; surviving spouse in need of regular aid and attendance without dependent child, $3,806; surviving spouse in need of regular aid and attendance, with one dependent child, $4,543; surviving spouse permanently housebound, without dependent children, $2,908; permanently housebound, with one dependent child, $3,645.

The new pension program also includes an $800 increase in the annual rate paid to elderly veterans of wartime periods for whom education and loan guaranty benefits had not been made available. The language of the bill limits this increase to veterans of World War I and earlier wartime periods.

Additionally, Congress approved an automatic increase for pensioners each time there is a cost-of-living increase in social security benefits.

"What this means is that no VA pension recipient will have his pension reduced because of a social security cost-of-living increase, as has been the case in the past," Cleland said.

"We want to make sure everyone understands that under some circumstances, such as a veteran with a working wife and certain amounts of outside income, the new plan could result in a lesser pension," Cleland said.

"This is because the current plan excludes 10 per cent of a veteran's social security or other retirement-type income, and all of a wife's income. None of this income is excluded under the new pension program. All of it will count when calculating a veteran's total income for pension purposes."

He said VA will send all pensioners a detailed explanation of the new pension program in January.

"Remember, you have until October 1, 1979, to make up your mind as to whether you want to enroll under the new program," Cleland said.

"If anyone receiving a VA pension has any questions about the new program, VA counselors will be more than glad to explain the various options and benefits."

Consumer Comments

By ROBERT F. STEPHENS
Attorney General

Christmas shopping is right around the corner. Some of the more industrious have already begun. With the increase in retail shopping this time of year also comes an increase of consumer complaints related to their purchases. Some of these complaints could possibly be avoided if the consumer would watch for certain problem areas.

One of the problem areas is return policies of businesses. Most of our shopping at Christmas time is for gifts for others. It is a tradition also to keep that gift a secret, so the size, color and other features must be "guesstimated." All of us receive sweaters that do not fit, neck ties that do not go with anything in our wardrobe, two wallets just alike, and so on. When we get ready to return them we might find out that we need a sales receipt, or some other form of proof of purchase. The return policy a business implements is strictly up to that business, as long as it is not a violation of the Consumer Protection Act. Most businesses have specific return policies and post those policies on a sign where everyone can see it. There are however, the exceptions and you should always ask about the return policy.

Some return policies will be a full refund, no matter the reason for the return. Some stores will only give refunds if the merchandise is defective. Some stores will not give refunds at all, they simply will provide you with a credit or due bill for the purchase of other merchandise in the store. So be sure it is clear in your own mind what you will do if you have to return the merchandise. Do not ASSUME that you can return the merchandise according to your rules. You may end up with merchandise that is of no benefit to anyone.

In the same avenue, you should make yourself aware of stores' lay-away policy. This is a popular mode of shopping for Christmas presents and it can be a very convenient way of budgeting your payment schedule. You may be paying something for the service, and you might loose the merchandise if you do not know or conform to the rules of the stores' lay-away policy.

Some stores require a certain amount of deposit on the article and certain amounts to paid on the merchandise within a specified period of time. Investigate before you invest your money. Asking after the fact might be too late.

If you have a question about return policies, lay-away or if you have a consumer complaint please write to Office of the Attorney General, Consumer Protection Division, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601, or call the consumer Hot-line 1-800-372-2960.

A Beautiful Last Weekend on the Lake

To be at Dewey lake over the weekend of Nov. 10-11 was to enjoy the last days of the "season" on the water, as the yearly drawdown to winter pool stage began the following Monday. And, with the temperature well into the '70's with little more than a whisper of a breeze, you could have closed your eyes and imagined it was June. Actually, to see the houseboat suburbia, TV antennae and all, still at dock on Brandy Keg Creek, (photo at top left) added to the feeling of disbelief that it's already mid-November! Even with the trees nearly bare of autumn foliage the water and hills seemed to look just as pretty as in months past. A delightful reminder of fall was apparent in the form of scattered flocks of migratory waterfowl foraging around lake shores. In photo at lower left, the small speck visible at near center was one of a group of loons, a large and increasingly rare bird common to the northwoods of the U.S. and Canada. And, although many have long since put away their fishing rods and tackle boxes, there were some, like the two diehards in the boat pictured at lower right, who weren't about to miss the last weekend on the lake, even if they didn't take home fresh fish for supper.

Delay Till May For Job Center Opening Is Seen

Opening of the Job Corps center here by the U.S. Department of Labor is assured but will not be effected before next May, The Times learned this week.

The delayed opening date is the result of the Labor Department's agreement to permit the Prestonsburg Shoe Company (U.S. Shoe) to continue to occupy its present quarters across the river from Lancer which will house the center, while repair of the KAI building, future site of the shoe company operation, is being made.

(Domestic shoe reproduction has experienced a strong comeback, and the plant here is back to a work force of 170, with plans to remain here, despite an announcement several months ago that it would close.)

The KAI building at West Prestonsburg is getting roof renovation and a sprinkler system, all of which will cost an estimated $70-$80,000. It is completion of this work that has caused postponement of the Job Corps center opening in the structure now occupied by the shoe company.

The $30,000 annual rent on the KAI building will enable the Prestonsburg Development Corp., owner of the property, to pay the $15,000 which it yet owes on the building.

Some design changes may be made at the U.S. Shoe building for Job Corps occupancy, and new construction may be for housing of staff members and a dormitory for trainees. The center will be designed, it was said, for 165 resident trainees, plus a staff of about 55.

The Labor Department has estimated that the center will have an economic impact of $2 million on the area over the next 18 months after it goes into operation.

Miss Wells-Mr. Burchett Wed Here

The marriage of Miss Charlotte Wells to Mr. Robert Anthony Burchett was solemnized in a candlelight ceremony at the Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church here at 6 p.m. Saturday, September 30, by the Rev. Lee Edward Caudill.

Preceding the ceremony, traditional wedding selections were presented by Jane Couch, of Paintsville, at the piano, and Mrs. Pam Ratliff who sang "Wedding Song", "The Lord's Prayer, and "Evergreen."

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Wells, of the Goble-Roberts Addition, Prestonsburg, and Mr. Burchett is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Burchett, of East Point.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floorlength gown of white silk and Chantilly lace fashioned with a Queen Anne neckline banded in lace which also formed a wide band across the bodice and shoulders. The long full sleeves of Chantilly lace were gathered onto a fitted gauntlet of lace. Side panels of the same lace swept from each side of the waistline in front and back with band of lace above the hemline. Her veil of illusion, banded with lace and sprinkled with sequins, fell into a long, flowing train in back. The bridal bouquet was a cascade of white baby roses and baby's breath.

Miss Cindy Wells, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Kim Steffy, Laura Mayo, and Mary Wright. They wore floor-length multi-colored gowns made and designed by Mrs. Paul Wiley, of Paintsville. Their bouquets were of yellow and bronze daisies with yellow sweetheart roses and baby's breath. The flower girl, Elizabeth Hall, wore a gown of similar design and carried a basket of daisy petals.

Candlelighters were Jeffrey Wells and John Burchett.

Acting as best man was Kenneth Donta, and ushers were Scottie Walker, Randy Wells, Mike Dixon. Todd Miller was ringbearer.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Wells chose a mauve three-piece floor-length ensemble of Qiana with matching French braid and wore a cymbidium orchid corsage. Mrs. Burchett, mother of the groom, chose a floor-length dress of black floral polyester and also wore a cymbidium orchid corsage.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the church annex. The three-tiered wedding cake decorated with peach-colored roses and greenery, featured a fountain.

Following the reception, the newlyweds left for a wedding trip in the Smoky Mountains. They are now residing in Prestonsburg.

Knott Lake Yields Body Of Man Missing Two Years

The body of a Knott county native who disappeared two years ago was recovered last week from Carr Fork Lake, near Huntington.

Volley B. Amburgey, 42, Strongsville, Ohio, disappeared Dec. 22, 1976, while on his way to visit his family for Christmas, according to Knott County Coroner Ralph Slone.

The body was discovered about 3 p.m. Monday (Nov. 13.) when the lake level was lowered because of a mechanical problem with the dam.

The auto, according to Slone, was covered and filled with mud which had to be cleared before the car could be identified and the body found. The body has been sent to Cincinnati for an autopsy, the coroner said, but there was no indication of foul play. He theorized that Amburgey had lost control of the car on the slick road and plunged down the embankment into the lake.

The dead man's suitcase and Christmas presents were still in the car.

Slone said that the victim's parents, Lloyd and Callie Amburgey, of Omaha, had believed all along that their son was in the lake. He was last seen about five miles from where the body was found.

In addition to his parents, Amburgey is survived by a daughter, Donna Amburgey, of Hindman; a brother, Walter Amburgey, of Indianapolis, Ind.; and three sisters, Alfreda Terrill and Thelma Jean Bentley, both of Middletown, Ohio, and Dana Lois Haynes, of Hazard.

Services were held at Pine Top, Thursday. Hindman Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Oh, that we could only glimpse
Your loving smiles once more.
Since Death has closed the door.
Your names were called from Heaven far,
Your souls have been set free.
Through love you left, our hearts will know.

Where we go, you shall be.
The freedom of your spirits soar,
And carry through the breeze.
Then, stillness falls upon the Earth,
Except for rustling of the leaves.
We listen close, Dear Loves, and hear
The laughter of life gone from thee,
Instilled upon your lips again,
Throughout Eternity.

We'll love you both forever.

Travel Precautions For Winter Travel

Winter storms can bring snow, ice, or high winds and all can make travel hazardous, warns the Kentucky Division of Disaster and Emergency Services. Following blizzard conditions last winter all travel on Kentucky highways was ordered stopped for several days. But sometimes during winter months, even a shopping trip can be hazardous if the weather changes rapidly.

DES gives a list of precautions that should be heeded during winter weather:

—Make sure your car is in good condition, properly serviced, and equipped with chains or snow tires.

—Take another person with you if at all possible.

—Make sure someone knows where you are going, your approximate schedule, and your estimated time of arrival.

—Have emergency "winter storm supplies" in the car, such as a container of sand, shovel, windshield scraper, tow chain, or rope, extra gasoline and a flashlight. It is also good to have heavy gloves or mittens, overshoes, extra woolen socks, and winter headgear to cover your head and face.

—Travel by daylight and use major highways if you can. Keep the car radio turned on for weather information and advice.

—Drive with all possible caution. Don't try to save time by traveling faster than road and weather conditions permit.

—Don't be daring and foolhardy. Stop, turn back, and seek help if conditions that test your ability or endurance threaten, rather than risk being stalled, lost or isolated. If you are caught in a blizzard, seek refuge immediately.

If your car does break down during a storm, or if you become stalled or lost, don't panic, DES advises. Think the problem through, decide the safest and best thing to do, and then do it slowly and carefully. If you are on a well traveled road, show a trouble signal. Set your directional lights to flashing, raise the hood of your car, or hang a cloth from the radio antenna or car window. Then stay in your car and wait for help to arrive. If you run the engine to keep warm, remember to open a window enough to provide ventilation and protect you from carbon monoxide poisoning.

Wherever you are, if there is no house or other source of help in sight, do not leave your car and search for assistance because you may become confused and get lost.

DES notes that all unnecessary trips should be avoided and in areas where it is available, public transportation should be used.

Boys Basketball Preview

Prestonsburg—Young Team Building for Future

By KENNY RICE
 "It's a matter of time for this team. They have to develop confidence and not get upset if they lose some early games. They work hard and they have a positive attitude," first year Prestonsburg Coach Ron Robinson recently said of his team.
 Prestonsburg has only one returning starter from last season's club that posted a below .500 record. A key player has been lost for the remainder of his high school career because of a knee injury and the Blackcats struggled against the press in their Panorama game with Johns Creek at Betsy Layne. Yet, Robinson is not taking a negative approach to this season.

"I don't mind facing this team every day in practice because they are so enthused. Anytime a team tries as hard as they can, it is enjoyable to work with them," added Robinson, who is returning to coaching basketball after three years as assistant football coach. "The team is making an adjustment to me and I'm adjusting to coaching basketball again. In the past, the boys knew what to expect from me because I was coaching the jayvee and freshmen teams (he was assistant basketball coach at PHS for seven years) and working with the varsity each year. The boys are getting use to my system again. And, with a young team, it's a matter of time."

In Prestonsburg's preseason scrimmage against Johns Creek in the Betsy Layne Panorama, the Blackcats held Johns Creek scoreless for the first of two ten minute quarters. The Creekers came back, by using a pressing defense, to within four points of Prestonsburg before time expired.

"There were at least six coaches at the Panorama games and they saw how we did against the press. I am sure they will keep that in mind when we play them," he said.

Getting through the press is one of many things the young Cats need to work on. Their positive outlook on the season should be an asset.

"Almost all our team played on the junior varsity last season. We have to wait on them to get some varsity playing time. After they get a little experience I think we can have a pretty good team by the end of the season," Robinson commented.

Dave Pitts (6-6 jr.) is the starting center and lone returning starter. The Blackcats received a large setback when Cohen Swiney (6-5 jr.) reinjured his right knee and is not only sidelined for this season, but for next season as well. Swiney cited his frequent knee injuries during his brief high school career for his decision not to play basketball anymore at PHS.

"Pitts moves well inside and hits well from fifteen feet on in. He handles the ball well and is a good passer. Pitts is a good all around player," but, adds Robinson, "even though he started last year, Pitts missed six or eight games because of a bad ankle and there were some games that were cancelled because of bad weather, so he does not have a full season's experience."

Chris Stephens (5-11 jr.) and Mark McGuire (6-ft. jr.) were the starting guards for the jayvees last season. They are the starting backcourt for the varsity this year. Jack Wells (6-1 so.) provides backup in the backcourt and four others, Tom Wilson (5-9 jr.), Tony Reynolds (5-11 so.), Rex Williams (5-10 jr.) and Greg Haywood (6-1 so.) could see action as they improve.

"Chris is a playmaker, point guard. He will set up our offense. Mark is a shooting guard. He is a good outside shooter and passes well and handles the ball well. He, like Chris, lacks experience. Jack is a guard and forward. He will be used depending on the situation. He has a good inside game and is a good rebounder."

A part-time starter last season, James Brown (6-3 sr.) moves into a full time starting forward spot this season. Keith Colvin (6-3 jr.) is in his first year of playing high school basketball but has earned a starting corner spot. Four other forwards, all with junior varsity experience, provide some depth but no varsity playing experience. They are Russell Music (6-1 jr.), Robert Allen (6-ft. so.), Danny Daniels (6-ft. jr.) and Dave Collins (6-ft. so.).

"Keith Colvin has a good inside game. He is a strong rebounder and a solid defensive player, but he has no basketball experience. James Brown is good at getting rebounds, and is a good offensive rebounder. He is a very aggressive defensive player," Robinson said.

Robinson seems pleased to be back in basketball coaching. His patience and future goals make him the right man in the right place at the right time.

"I'm pleased with the situation at Prestonsburg. I like coaching a young team to build for a future. That's what we are doing now," he said.

Prestonsburg's schedule: Nov. 22-25, Jenny Wiley; Dec. 1-4, Preseason; 12, McDowell, A; 16, Feds Creek, H; Jan. 5, Wheelwright, A; 9, Betsy Layne, A; 12, Allen Central, A; 16, Johnson Central, H; 19, Virgie, A; 23, McDowell, H; 30, Betsy Layne, H; Feb. 2, Knott Central, A; 3, Allen Central, H; 6, Wheelwright, H; 9, Dorton, H; 10, Magoffin Co., A; 13, Sheldon Clark, H; 16, Paintsville, H; 20, Pikeville, H; 23, Fleming-Neon, A; 24, Johns Creek, A.

In Second Season at UK

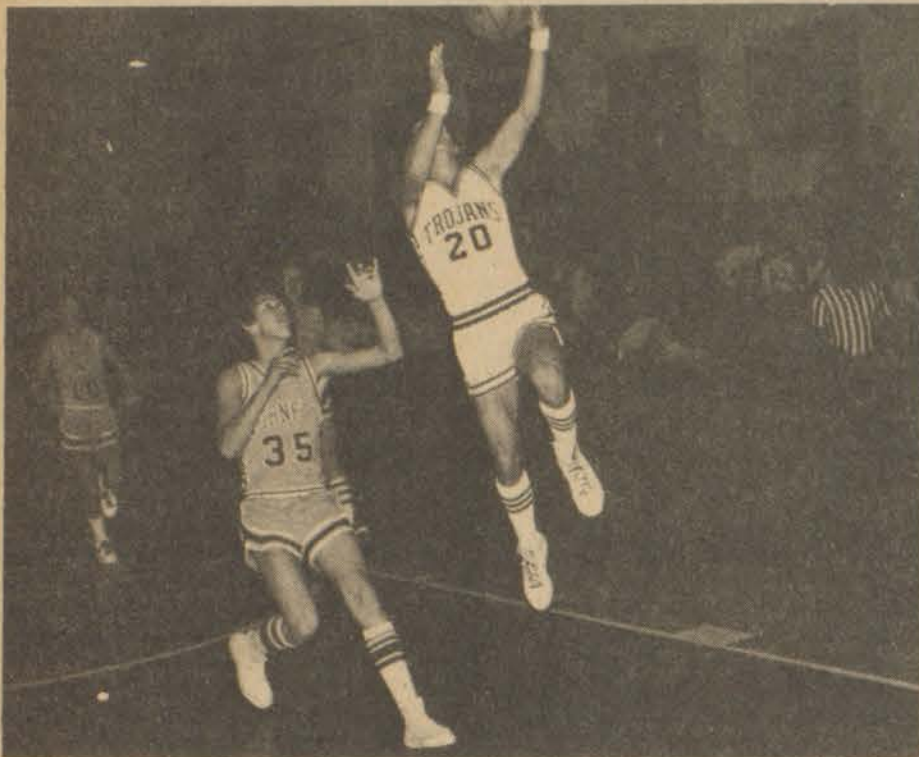

"One of the most complete athletes to play for the Lady Kats," says the University of Kentucky's "star sheet" of Floyd county's Geri Grigsby, who is now in her second year on the team. The UK news release adds: "Geri is one of the squad's quickest members, a fine ball-handler and shooter...very dedicated and noted for her hustle and desire...many times is given the toughest defensive assignments." In high school at McDowell she was a three-year All-Stater, was Kentucky's 1977 Miss Basketball, Parade Magazine All-American and Joe Namath's Prep. Magazine Player-of-the-year. Basketball in Full Swing

 The Prestonsburg Blackcats played three games last week, won one, lost two. Last Tuesday night they lost to Millard, 85 to 54. The Cats were in the game the first half and trailed only by 38 to 35, but the inexperienced Cats just couldn't match the Mustangs in the second half.
 Coach Ronnie Robinson made his debut as head basketball coach after serving 11 years as an assistant in basketball and football at Prestonsburg High School. Returning with varsity experience will be only 6-5 David Pitts and 6-3 James Brown; however, Coach Robinson has several prospects from the junior varsity squad.

Magoffin Co. Hornets vs. Wheelwright; Trojans Triumph in Season Opener

(Wheelwright High School Journalism Class)

The Wheelwright Trojans battled the Magoffin County Hornets in a close opening game at home Saturday night and finally pulled away to a 75-68 win.

Tony Hall, Monroe Jones and Vic Rhea turned in impressive performances, earning 17 points each. Jones, a junior guard, displayed the skill that made him part of the Trojan team as a freshman, handling the basketball with a grace not common to the average basketball player. His playing combined with that of Tony Hall and Vic Rhea led to some fantastic shots, especially for junior Tony Hall. Jones brought the ball down for the Trojans throughout most of the game, maintained control of it, and passed it off to Hall and Rhea who went in for shots. Senior Vic Rhea began the ballgame slowly but by the end of the second quarter, he and Jones were working together and Rhea became a powerhouse of size and strength for the Trojans. Also turning in a good performance were junior Henry Isaac, with 10 points, and senior guard Lanny Hall, with 7 points.

The Hornet team kept a slim lead over the Trojan team until the beginning of the 2nd quarter. The score was 19-23 in favor of the Hornets at the end of the 1st quarter. Teddy Harvey, a senior forward for the Hornets, scored the first two points of the game. Both the Trojans and the Hornets were experiencing foul trouble within the first three minutes of the game. Lanny Paul Hall was fouled with 6:31 left in the 1st quarter. Henry Isaac, with 5:45 left. The Trojans also fouled the Hornets as the two teams kept up the pace of the game. Wheelwright had trouble getting to the net, throwing the ball away several times. Tim Eads was put in the game to replace Jones with 1:15 left in the quarter. A series of bad passes and an inability to find the right combination to take the basketball to the goal kept the Trojans behind during the first quarter. Coach Newman substituted, taking his players out and putting back in trying to find a good combination. On a long, fast pass from Jones to Lanny Hall, Hall made a good lay-up shot.

In the 2nd quarter of the ballgame, the combination of Jones, Tony Hall began to click. Jones fed the ball to Hall for a series of lay-ups which were good. With 5:05 left in the 2nd quarter of the game, the Trojan team took a lead of 28-27 over the Hornets, with Tony Hall recovering the ball on a couple of bad plays. Jones stole the ball during the 2nd quarter and drove under the basket for a lay-up, which was good. The Trojans were able to hold the Hornets to 27 points for two minutes. With 3:36 left in the 2nd quarter the score was 31-27. Rhea drove to the basket and passed off to Jones for an easy ball. The Hornet team had trouble finding a way to the basket against the Trojan defense. Donnie Daniels replaced Tony Hall on the line up during the last minutes of the second quarter. With Hall out of the game, the Trojans experienced trouble. Passing from Daniels to Lanny Paul Hall to Jones indicated the trouble the Trojans were having in working the ball to the net. The Hornets were able to steal the ball from the Trojans. Jones recovered the ball but found he had nobody to pass to. At the end of the 2nd quarter, the Trojans led the Hornets by 4 points, 37-33. Tony Hall had scored 13 points during the first half of the ballgame. Both the Trojans and the Hornets had used up one time out in the quick-paced play of the first half.

Holding the Trojans to a very slim lead, the Hornet team was in serious foul trouble by the end of the first half. David Spurlock, who led the scoring was benched by Coach Conley so he could be used in the later part of the game. At halftime 4 of the Trojan players were also in foul trouble. Vic Rhea, Henry Isaac, Strawn Berger, and Danny Smith had all accumulated 3 fouls by that point of the game.
 The third quarter was Jones bringing the ball down the floor and feeding off Henry Isaac and Vic Rhea who shot and made good points. Vic Rhea, during this quarter, came alive, going to the nets more, and at one point in the quarter executing a steal and drive of the ball. Jones also stole the ball and drove to the basket for the score. With 2 of their starting 5 out of the game, the Hornets found it difficult to deal with the Trojans. Coach Kenny Nemman played his foul situation carefully by rotating the players. Danny Smith replaced Henry Isaac on the floor and Tony Hall was substituted in and out of the game effectively. With 1:16 left in the third quarter, Tony Hall drove under the basket for a lay up. With one minute left, Spurlock came back into the line up for the Hornets and scored a basket almost immediately. Teddy Harvey, Senior forward for the Hornets, fouled Strawn Berger, increasing the Hornet foul trouble. Jones in a power play stole the ball from Spurlock during the third quarter and drove to the basket for a good lay-up. Howard of the Hornets team committed his 4th foul during the last minutes of the game and Danny Smith, junior forward for the Trojans, committed his 5th foul. The third quarter ended with 2 successful foul shots by the Hornet team.
 The Hornets had, despite their foul trouble, kept the lead of the Trojans down and the 4th quarter began with a score of 53-48 in favor of the Trojans.
 The first minutes of the 4th quarter found Rhea and Berger driving in for shots which were not good. Spurlock committed his 4th personal foul, as did Strawn Berger. In the opening minutes of the 4th quarter, Tony Hall resumed play and made two points before committing his 3rd personal foul with 5:44 left in the game. The Hornets closed the gap to bring the score to 57-56. The combination of Isaac, Rhea and Jones-Hall resulted in some good shots. With 3:09 left in the quarter, the Hornets called for their 2nd time out. The score was 65-60 in favor of the Trojans. Lanny Hall made some good plays during this quarter, going to the net for some lay-ups, and in a good underhanded pass to Rhea, helped the team maintain their lead. With one minute left in the game, Spurlock, of the Hornet team, fouled out. The score was 71-64. With 1:07 left, the Hornet foul trouble continued as Mike Blanton fouled out. With only a minute left in the game, the Trojans began to freeze the ball. A foul was called on Hornet player number 11, Jamie Cheek. He was to foul again before the game was over. Jones took a shot and made it before Trojan Strawn Berger fouled out with only seven seconds left in the game. The final score was 75-68.

PHS Girls Need Harmony To Accompany Music

By KENNY RICE
 "I couldn't ask for any better play than Dee Dee has given the team this season," Prestonsburg Coach Charlie Collins said of Dee Dee Music (6-1 sr.), who is a prime candidate for All State honors, "but our future lies in the other four girls. We haven't got cohesiveness right now, because the girls are relying too much on Dee Dee. I want the other girls to use their talents also and to use Dee Dee's ability as an asset."
 Prestonsburg is 5-1 at this stage of the season; their only loss coming to 13th Region power, Clay County. Included in the Lady Cats' victories, is the championship of the Betsy Layne Invitational. The tourney championship is pleasing to Collins. The third year coach has his eye set on the 15th Regional crown this season and getting in the early tournament games and playing a good schedule is part of the plan to have the Cats ready in March.

"Our goal is to be able to compete on an equal level with the best teams in the 15th Region. I think our schedule will help us to be competitive with any team in the 15th Region. The schedule should prepare us for the district tournament and by then I hope the girls are playing with a consistent and united effort," said Collins, who coached Prestonsburg to the 15th Regional Tournament finals in 1977. In the pivot, the Cats have one of the most dominating players in the state according to Collins. Music has averaged 36 points per game with a season high of 52 versus Morgan County. Music was averaging 27 rebounds per game going into the Clay County contest, a game in which she had her lowest total of rebounds this year with 12. Jane Pitts (5-8 so.) was a key reserve last season and provides backup at center along with Kay Hale (5-6 jr.).
 "Dee Dee is definitely one of the best players in the state. She has not played all that much in some games because of foul trouble and a sprained ankle has been giving her trouble, yet she has impressive statistics in scoring and rebounding," he noted.

 Sherry Allen (5-1 sr.) and Brenda Wright (5-4 sr.) return as starting guards for a second straight year. Both have the potential to score and each handles the ball well. Three players back from last season's 13-9 squad, Barbara Cragar (5-5 jr.), Pam Dingus (5-5 so.) and Connie Slone (5-ft. jr.) plus freshman Arlena Music (5-6) give depth at the backcourt positions.
 "Right now the guards are adequate, but haven't reached their potential. Overall, they lack height but they can score points and they have scored this season. But the points they are scoring have not come when we need them. Their points have not been the deciding factor in the wins because they have come after the game has been wrapped up. There are a lot of guards on the bench, but we still lack bench strength in the backcourt," Collins points out.
 Three girls who started at one time or another at the forward spots are among the eleven girls returning this season. They are Kin Hilton (5-5 sr.), Cindy Wells (5-6 jr.) and Jeanne Chaffin (5-6 sr.). Brenda Music (5-8 so.), Drema Webb (5-4 so.) and Alice Slone (5-2 fr.) are also available at forwards.
 "The forwards have improved since last year," Collins continued, "But they are not consistent. They don't have a scoring punch that we need. The highest total so far from one of the forwards has been fourteen points. They need to play aggressively. Cindy Wells has become an offensive threat this season, and I hope the other girls will start scoring with some consistency."
 Collins wants his team to be the first from Floyd county to represent the 15th Region in the state tournament. Even though Prestonsburg has an impressive record at this stage of the season, he wants his team to realize there is still the biggest part of the season ahead and there is much to be worked on to be a contender in March.
 "Our attack isn't geared to go just to Dee Dee. We could do that and win most of regular season games. But to be competitive with the best teams in the region, we can't have a one-girl team. A one-girl team cannot win the regional tournament. The other four girls on the floor have to compliment Dee Dee's skills for her to compliment theirs. That is important for us to be a good team," he said wistfully.
 Prestonsburg has been in tune with Music through the first six games of the season. Collins is not satisfied with the tempo of his club however and will not be until there is the harmony of the quartet to accompany Music. Then, he feels Prestonsburg will be a tough team to beat.

Melvin Elementary Begins Net Schedule

By CHARLENE JOHNSON
 The Melvin Grade School Cougars (boys and girls teams) began their basketball season Thursday, Nov. 9 in contests against Prater.
 The Prater girls employed speed and strength to spoil the lady Cougars home opener, 17-36. High scorer for Melvin was 8th grader Lori Hamby with 13. Patti Blocker and Tina Hamby contributed two points each. The Prater A-team boys were also victorious after coming from behind the Cougars.
 Entertainment was provided by the Marching Cougar band which presented a half-time musical program. Director is Darrell Greer.
 The following night, the Melvin Cougar girls defeated the Osborne Eagles, Melvin's first victory over Osborne. Scoring was close for both teams with Brenda Little hitting for most points on the Melvin squad. Osborne center, Mia Jones was top scorer for the Eagles with 14 points.

MSU Football Coach Resigns; Search On

Wayne Chapman, head football coach at Morehead State University for the last three years, has resigned, effective at the end of the season.
 He stated: "My greatest wish has been to see the Eagles develop a winning tradition. I can state that everyone associated with the program has worked diligently toward this goal, sometimes under great adversity. However, the unstinting dedication, determination, and effort on the part of the players and coaches has not brought this goal to realization."
 "It is with a deep sense of loss and after much inner struggle that I have concluded that I should resign. I have given everything I had to give for three years and my only regret is that I have not been able to attain the goal I set for the Eagle program when I became head coach."
 "I wish to thank the real friends of MSU football, who support the program even through the hardest times. Thanks also to the staff and their families for the many sacrifices they have made. And especially, thanks to those proud Eagles who gave 100 percent."
 MSU President Morris L. Norfleet said of the resignation: "Coach Chapman has made a very difficult decision and we fully understand his reasons for leaving the University. We are most appreciative of his dedicated service and offer our best wishes for the future."
 In three seasons, Chapman's teams have compiled a 7-19-3 record, including a 2-5-1 mark this season with one game remaining.
 Athletic Director G. E. Moran said of Chapman's tenure:
 "Wayne Chapman is one of the hardest working men with whom I have ever been associated in athletics. Through the efforts of Wayne and his staff, we have some very fine young men in our program. It will be difficult to find a replacement any more dedicated than he has been the past three years toward building a winning football program at MSU. My best wishes go to Wayne, his staff, and their families."
 President Norfleet said a committee will be named shortly to begin a search for Chapman's successor.

Betsy Layne Bobcats Playing Team Ball, Gaining Strength

By KENNY RICE
 "My first year here last season I had an experienced team—this year I have an inexperienced team, but that's the way it is in basketball. Rebuilding is part of the coaching process," said Bernadette Kok, coach of the defending 58th District champion Betsy Layne female Bobcats.
 Seven players were lost through graduation and the team that went through the regular season with only one loss and finished the year with a 26-2 mark has lost two of its first five games. It is not time to panic in Bobcat country, however, with Betsy Layne starting a freshman and relying on the play of four other freshmen, two sophomores and an eighth grader. And with rebuilding, the Bobcats have gained something Kok felt they lacked last season—team play.
 "After our first game in the tournament (the Betsy Layne Invitational) some of the parents and students came up to me after the game and said they were surprised at how well the team played and they were impressed to see us playing team ball this year. Coach Kok commented, "Last year we did not play good team ball and I think that is what hurt us in the regional tournament."
 Returning for a fifth consecutive season as a starting guard is Pam Clark (5-6 sr.). She is joined in the backcourt by freshman Elana Hamilton (5-2). A freshman, Jennifer Tackett (5-3) and an eighth grader, Lela Layne (5-5) give youthful support to the Bobcats' backcourt.
 "Elana, as a freshman, is very quick. She needs to work more on her shooting and defense, but that is to be expected of a freshman. Pam is coming out of her early slump and she scored 35 against Virgie. I am impressed with her all around ability."
 Three returnees from last year are at forward. Charlotte Tackett (5-8 jr.).

Brena Reynolds (6-1 so.) and Debbie Presley (5-10 sr.) are being counted on to help the inside game of the Bobcats. Freshmen Monica Boyd (5-7), Belinda Robinette (5-8) and Vicki Clark (5-8) give depth to the corners along with Rachael McKinney (5-8 so.).
 "Charlotte is playing real well. She is quick, handles the ball well and has a nice outside shot. She has been our strong forward. Brena and Debbie played last year, but they need to work on their game and the freshmen need work."
 Betsy Layne's fifth returnee is starting center Sherry Watkins (5-11 sr.). Sherry is supported by Vicki Clark and Rachael McKinney.
 "Sherry has been in a slump the last two games. She needs to be more aggressive and get more confident," Kok adds. "We need to work on our inside game right now. The outside game is good at this stage."
 Another area Kok wants her team to improve in is the mental part of the game. Betsy Layne needs to become self assured.
 "When the freshmen and some of the players gain more confidence we will improve. The success of past teams has put pressure on the girls and they need to overcome the pressure."
 The freshmen are still improving and the veterans are establishing some consistency. Betsy Layne is on the way to becoming a rebuilt team.
 As Bernadette Kok says, "By the end of the year I think we'll be pretty strong."
 Betsy Layne's schedule: Nov. 29-Dec. 2, Preseason; Dec. 7, Pikeville, H; 9, Wheelwright, H; 14-16, Ashland Invitational; Jan. 5, Allen Central, H; 6, McDowell, A; 9, Prestonsburg, H; 12, Wheelwright, A; 17, Dorton, A; 22, Elkhorn City, A; 25, Virgie, A; 26, Allen Central, A; 29, Millard, A; 30, Prestonsburg, A; Feb. 2, McDowell, H; 8, Sheldon Clark, A; 24, Pikeville, A.

Trojans Lose in Barnburner

By STEVE HALL
 (Wheelwright High School Journalism Class)
 The Wheelwright Lady Trojans' varsity basketball team lost to the Dorton Wildcats by an upsetting score of 64-65 in their first game of the season. They played a good game, however, both on defense and offense. The game was held Thursday, November 9 in the Dorton High School gymnasium, with an attendance of about one hundred and fifty people.
 At the end of the first quarter, Wheelwright was ahead 14 to 12 and they remained ahead until the end of the fourth quarter. With 24 seconds to go in the last quarter, the score was Dorton 62, Wheelwright 64. A foul by Wheelwright gave the Wildcats a chance at a free throw in which they made 1 point and brought the score to 63-64 Trojans. With only a remaining 6 seconds, Dorton scored their last 2 points which made the final score Lady Trojans 64, Wildcats 65.
 The high scorers for the Lady Trojans were Amber Moscript with 22, Leslie Grigsby and Janet Little scored 12 points each and Kim Curry made 9. The top rebounders for Wheelwright were Kim Curry with 16, Amber Moscript with 8, and Leslie Grigsby with 7.
 The main difficulty that the Lady Trojans had was keeping hold of the ball, with a total of 18 turnovers, including seven bad passes, four walks, five double dribbles, and one 3-second penalty.
 The Wheelwright Lady Trojans B-team gained a victory against the Dorton Wildcats B-team with a final score of 24-21.
 The Wildcats started the game with 8 girls that were going to play. By the last quarter, 4 of the 5 starters had been taken out of the game on fouls and the Wildcats had to play the remaining 4 minutes and 48 seconds with only 4 players.
 The high scorers for the B-team Lady Trojans were Evelena Johnson and Kim Johnson who led the scoring with 6 points each. Anna Thornsberry made 5, and Kami Ferrari came up with 4.

EPHRAIM McDOWELL: FATHER OF ABDOMINAL SURGERY

by Lynn S. Evans

Dr. Ephraim McDowell of Danville, Kentucky, on Christmas Day, 1809, performed the first successful removal of an ovarian tumor. His patient underwent the operation without anesthesia and lived for 30 years afterward.

The case began when Dr. McDowell was called in as a consultant to examine Mrs. Thomas Crawford, who had a large lump in her abdomen. Her two doctors at first thought she was pregnant with twins, but when her time came due, she did not deliver. After McDowell examined her, he concluded that she had a huge ovarian tumor.

In those days, the early 1800s—this type of tumor was considered inoperable and always fatal. There was a great deal of pain and suffering connected with it. When McDowell told her the news, she said she was willing to undergo the operation he suggested.

Jane Todd Crawford traveled 60 miles by horseback to McDowell's office in Danville. With the assistance of his nephew and without the use of anesthetic, Dr. McDowell removed a 22-pound tumor. Mrs. Crawford's feet were strapped to a table; and she recited verses from the Bible to try to alleviate some of the pain and fear. In 25 days, she was strong enough to return home. She was 47 at the time of the operation and lived to be 78.

After the operation on Mrs. Crawford, McDowell performed the same procedure on 13 other patients, with eight successes, four deaths and one abandoned operation because of adhesions.

McDowell was born in Virginia on Nov. 11, 1771. His father, Samuel, moved the family to Kentucky, where he became the president of the convention that drew up the first Kentucky Constitution, leading to Kentucky's acceptance as the 15th state of the Union in 1792.

McDowell was educated in medicine in Staunton, Virginia, and the University of Edinburgh in Scotland. Though he did not receive a degree, he returned to Danville to practice medicine in 1795. (He did receive an honorary medical degree from the University of Maryland in 1825.)

Because of his successes and his dedication, he was recognized by his peers as the finest physician west of the Alleghenies.

Some insight into McDowell's physical characteristics and personality became known through a paper read in 1912 by Dr. August Schachner before the Johns Hopkins Hospital Historical Club: "...erect and tall, nearly six feet, and inclined to corpulency, with a florid complexion and lustrous black eyes. He had a ready wit and was a fine conversationalist...He mingled freely with all classes of townspeople, displaying the modesty and simplicity of a great man. He is said not to have used tobacco in any form, and to have been temperate in his habits. He was neat in person and invariably dressed in black, wearing a silk stock and ruffled linen."

McDowell was a man of prayer. When he felt stress during the performance of his medical duties, he would write out a prayer and carry it in his pocket.

In 1902, Dr. McDowell married Sarah Hart Shelby, daughter of Kentucky's first governor, Isaac Shelby. They had six children, McDowell died on June 30, 1830, in Danville.

Silver anniversary reunion brings back memories of how...

Tiny Kentucky high school produced two "world champion" 4-H judging teams

"Kentucky 4-H Team Wins...Top Dairy Cattle Judges Take Chicago Titles."

That was a headline in a Chicago newspaper back in 1953. The story under the headline told about the state champion 4-H dairy judging team from Kentucky winning the international dairy judging crown at the International Livestock Exposition in Chicago that year.

The very next year, another headline in a Chicago newspaper declared, "Kentucky 4-H Poultry Judges National Champs." The accompanying story told how the state champion 4-H poultry judging team from Kentucky won the national championship of the National 4-H Invitational Poultry Judging Contest—which was also a part of the International Livestock Exposition. The Chicago exposition was for many years "the" livestock show of the world and it was considered the ultimate to "win at Chicago."

Kentucky's 4-H judging teams winning two such important titles in consecutive years was conspicuous enough. But what was even more astounding was that the two teams were from a tiny high school in Lewis County with an enrollment of only 78 students. It was the Laurel Point High School—a rural school 17 miles from the nearest town—Vanceburg.

A near equally amazing sequel to the tale of accomplishment of the tiny Lewis County school—long since having passed from existence—occurred this fall, a quarter of a century later. The sequel is that the members of the two champion teams, their leaders and coach gathered for a reunion—and that all members of the two teams, as well as their 4-H leaders of 2½ decades ago, and their coach, are all alive and well and still very active. Many of them are still involved in 4-H as leaders and program supporters.

Mike Duff, now a community resource development specialist with the Cooperative Extension Service of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, was the Lewis County Extension agent back 25 years ago and was the coach of the two champion judging teams.

Several of the 4-H leaders suggested the reunion and Duff offered his home in Lexington as the reunion site.

Duff enlisted the aid of Mrs. Theodore Gardner, former publicity chairman of the Lewis County Extension Council, and Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Roe, former 4-H poultry leaders in Lewis County, to do the necessary communicating to set up the reunion. The reunion idea grew until about 50 persons made up the group attending.

Everyone invited showed up—coming from three states, Kentucky, Ohio and Florida.

At first the reunion was only to be a gathering at the Duff home centered around a pot-luck Sunday luncheon. But the plans grew—and finally included a reminiscing session at UK's Ag Science Center where scrapbooks and old photo slides were presented—all concerning the two champion teams. There was also a visit set up to the dairy complex on one of the research farms of UK's College of Agriculture where the dairy judging team "judged" a champion Holstein cow from the farm's dairy herd. And the poultry judging team "judged" some top grade Leghorn hens from the college's research poultry flocks.

The teams posed for photos—just as they had lined up for the "champion" photos of a quarter of a century ago in Chicago.

As an added recognition, the members of the two teams and their former leaders were presented with special commissions, designating each as an Honorary Kentucky Commissioner of Agriculture.

It was on Oct. 9, 1953, that the Lewis County 4-H dairy judging team won the international title in Chicago, competing against eight other teams and walking away with most of the top honors. The Kentucky team ranked first in judging all dairy breeds, scoring 1,781 points. The second place Connecticut team had 1,731 points. Glendle Horsley tied for first place in individual scoring, with second place going to Allen Stafford and third place to Paul Stamper. Sam Richmond, who had ranked first in the state contest earlier at the Kentucky State Fair, misplaced a top cow and dropped out of the top individual ranks.

Horsley now is employed in a steel mill in Mansfield, Ohio, while Stamper and Richmond are Lewis County farmers. Stafford is in the masonry contracting business in Sarasota, Fla. Ray Gardner, the alternate member of the team, now farms near Felicity, Ohio.

To gain the opportunity to compete in Chicago, the team took first place honors at the 1953 Kentucky State Fair, winning over 44 teams and 169 individual contestants.

The Lewis County team that won the national 4-H poultry judging title in Chicago on Nov. 26, 1954, scored 4,104 points, a slim two points more than the second place Indiana team.

Fifteen teams and 60 individuals participated in the contest. The Kentucky team was made up of three girls and one boy.

Sue Hamilton, now Mrs. James Wilking, was only 15 then, but she was the second highest individual in the state contest, but ran into a switched class in the national contest and, though placing well, dropped to 13th. The other two team members, Joan Kidwell, now Mrs. Jim Moyer, and Stuart Nolen, the only boy on the team, were among the top 10 individuals in the national contest.

Like the dairy judging team, the poultry judges also had to win the Kentucky championship at the State Fair to advance to the International Livestock Exposition competition.

Mrs. Esham is now a Vanceburg housewife and is employed in a shoe store. Mrs. Wilking is a housewife and staff assistant to the buyer for Procter and Gamble Co. in South Fort Mitchell. Mrs. Moyer is also a housewife and a secretary in the personnel department of the Mansfield, Ohio school system. Nolen is a teacher in Xenia, Ohio.

Mrs. Harlan Hamilton, who is the mother of the Hamilton sisters and who still resides in Lewis County, was one of the county 4-H poultry leaders in 1954 and accompanied the team and Duff, the coach, to the Chicago contest.

Both championship teams were considered as "dark horses" in the competitions, "I guess because they came from such a small school," according to Duff.

"Those were days of glory for that little high school in Lewis County," Duff says. "But, you know, this reunion that we had, turned out to be almost as exciting for the people who attended as did the actual winning of the championships. I think it was the reminiscing and the opportunity to get together again after all these years that made it so."

The former judging coach and county agent said that seeing all of the members of the two judging teams together "as successful and stable adults certainly points up the value of 4-H as a foundation for a better future life."

Canada's Capital Winters

Almost everyone in Canada enjoys snow, but the type of pleasure derived from it varies depending on the locale.

In Victoria, for example, snow is treasured mainly for its novelty—it doesn't stay around long enough to do much with. The capital of British Columbia has the most temperate climate of any Canadian city and, with an average snowfall of just 25 cm (10 inches), winter goes almost unnoticed.

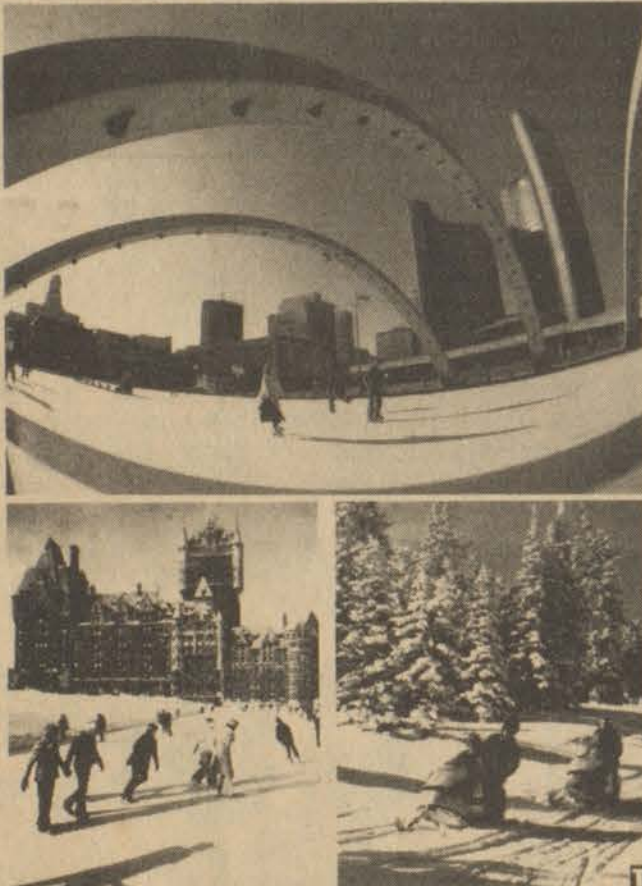

In contrast to Victoria's year-round golfing weather, the more snowbound interior of British Columbia offers the best in snow-related activities: skiing, snowshoeing, ice-boating, ice-fishing, snowgolf, winter mountaineering and almost every other winter sport.

Québec City, capital of the province of the same name, is Victoria's opposite. Every year, an average of 309 cm (123 inches) of snow falls, covering the historic, romantic city in a carpet of white. The Chateau Frontenac, in particular, a castle-like structure and city focal point in any season, becomes a fairyland palace in winter with snow sparkling from its turrets and elegant coziness radiating within.

Rather than hibernate, the Québécois make winter their most exciting and, with the help of the Québec Carnaval (Feb. 1 to 11), most famous season. Beautiful Mont Sainte-Anne, only 20 minutes from the city core, as well as numerous other resorts in the nearby Laurentian Mountains, make skiing one of the area's most popular activities.

Ottawa, Ontario, the nation's capital, takes advantage of its natural winter resources. When not busy clearing away the 201 cm (80 inches) of annual snowfall, Ottawans can be found gliding along the numerous cross-country ski trails in and around the city or skating on the eight km (five miles) of rink that meanders from Dow's Lake to the downtown National Arts Centre. Numerous alpine ski areas, as well as parkland with well-marked snowmobile trails, also attract Ottawa residents and visitors.

Toronto, Ontario's capital

city, receives only 136 cm (54 inches) annually.

Snow-related activities are mainly cross-country skiing in local parks and golf courses, and skating on the 21 outdoor artificial ice rinks and over 100 natural ice rinks. Perhaps the best known public rink is in front of City Hall where skaters enjoy recorded music, a snack bar and change shelters.

Atlantic Canada also receives a wide range of snowfall, from 160 cm (64 inches) in Halifax, Nova Scotia, to 353 cm (141 inches) in areas of Newfoundland.

The four provinces—New Brunswick, Newfoundland, Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia—together have skiing, both alpine and nordic (although downhill is not as extensive here as in most other provinces), snowshoeing, snowmobiling, skating, winter camping and colorful carnivals.

Manitoba and Saskatchewan receive only slightly less snow than the more easterly provinces. Skating, tobogganing and skiing are popular, as are numerous winter carnivals held in towns and cities throughout the provinces.

In Alberta, the Canadian Rocky Mountains offer some of the best alpine skiing in the country. The resort areas of Banff, Jasper and Lake Louise are the best-known centers, with runs for novice and expert alike as well as cross-country skiing.

Canadian winters are fun and invigorating. No matter where you live or visit in Canada, you'll find that Canadians have found ways to take advantage of this beautiful season and, best of all, they share it willingly with visitors.

Bert N. Porter Named VFW Aide-de-Camp

Kansas City Mo.—Bert N. Porter, of Prestonsburg, V.F.W. Post 5839, has been appointed by V.F.W. National Commander-in-Chief Eric G. Sandstorm, of Tacoma, Wash., to serve as a national aide-de-camp for 1978-79.

Sandstorm, head of the 1.8 million member organization of overseas veterans commented, "It is because of the tireless efforts of civic-minded citizens like Mr. Porter that the veterans and communities the V.F.W. serves have been affected in a positive manner."

Survey Describes Lifestyle of Aged

The majority of Kentucky's older people live with someone else, own their own homes, like indoor recreation, feel they enjoy a reasonably good diet and are fairly satisfied with their lives.

This information and much more is revealed in a survey of what the state's 60-and-older people feel they need in services and programs. The survey was conducted by the Urban Studies Center of the University of Louisville for the Department for Human Resources.

In some instances, what older people said about what they needed or wanted seemed to contradict the facts of their lives. For example, 96 percent of them said they had a good diet and were satisfied with their present eating habits. However, 25 percent reported that they ate two meals a day or less. As to what they had eaten on the previous day, from one-quarter to one-half of those questioned said they had not had an item from such major food groups as green vegetables, fruits or juices, other vegetables or eggs.

While 81 percent of the older people owned their own homes only 41 percent regarded the house as a possible asset which could be used in an emergency. Also, only 29 percent said their homes did not need repairs. Over half (53 percent) said their homes needed minor repairs and one-fifth said major repairs were necessary. Disabled individuals and those in the lowest income bracket were more likely to need home repairs. Almost one-half of the under-$4,000 group reported their houses needed major repairs.

Most older people are not employed and don't want jobs. However, nine out of ten said they believed that if they did want to work, they would probably not be hired simply because of their age.

Paul Schulte, director of survey research for the Urban Studies Center, said that the survey had four objectives: to profile older Kentuckians and their life situations; to identify their needs and what barriers existed in meeting those needs; to measure how aware people were of programs and services and how much use they made of them; and to develop statistical information on Kentucky's aging population.

The survey questionnaire covered 13 topics: housing, transportation, mental health, life satisfaction, social activities, physical health, nutrition, employment and retirement, crime and victimization, recreation, income and assets, desired discount services and the statistical information. The people who were interviewed were living in independent housing situations.

NOTICE

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN:

That The Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company has filed with the Kentucky Railroad Commission on application pertaining to its Big Sandy Subdivision, to the effect that it be permitted to establish a control or base agency station at Coal Run, Pike County, Kentucky, with an agent on duty at said station, and establish a mobile or traveling agent to operate daily for the services of the present agency stations of Pikeville, Jenkins and Prestonsburg and all non-agency stations being served by the aforesaid agency stations.

The mobile or traveling agent will travel directly to each customer's place of operation daily, when his services are needed, or on any reasonable schedule requested by the customer, or as directed by his individual service requirements, and will prepare bills of lading, waybills, furnish advice on car supply, take car orders, investigate complaints and generally function in the capacity of a local agent at all of the aforesaid agency and non-agency stations on the Big Sandy Subdivision of The Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company.

All railroad customers will be able to make telephone toll-free contact with the control agency at Coal Run, Pike County, Kentucky, and the traveling agent, by leaving messages with the control agent, whom the traveling agent will visit daily.

It is believed that the aforesaid method of operation will be conducive to more efficient operations and enable better service to be rendered to all customers.

A careful survey has been made among the customers of The Railway Company and the plan explained to them, and no objections, to the Company's knowledge, have been registered.

It is expected that this matter will come on for hearing before the Kentucky Railroad Commission at Frankfort, Kentucky at 10:00 a.m. on Wednesday, December 13, 1978.

Oil Truck Wreck Fatal to Driver

Covered by a part of the 7,800-gallon load of crude oil from the tanker-truck which he was driving, Franklin Delano Moore, 38, of Hunter, driver for the Kentucky Oil and Refinery, of Betsy Layne, was dead when rescuers reached him at the scene of a wreck near the base of the mountain on Jones Fork, Knott county, last Thursday afternoon.

Assistant Coroner Danny Terry, of Knott county, held that death did not result from injuries sustained in the wreck but resulted, rather, from either drowning or suffocation. No autopsy was performed.

Cause of the wreck was not established, Dale Tomlison, manager of the refinery, said. Rain was falling at the time, which was placed at about 1:30 p.m., and Moore had safely negotiated all the curves on the Jones Fork side of the mountain when the trailer left the highway and both it and the tractor began rolling a distance of 500-600 feet, finally ramming the cliff and ripping the tanker apart.

The driver was thrown clear of the cab and he was beneath the tanker, but it was said he was not crushed by it. Visible injuries included a cut on his arm and broken ribs.

The oil spilled into Jones Fork, and a dam was constructed across the creek to contain the threat of pollution farther downstream. Later, however, persons residing in the vicinity said, a man who was dumping refuse into the stream permitted a lighted cigarette to fall into the oil, and this was blamed for the oil fire which broke out. In the excitement aroused by the fire, somebody reportedly "kicked out" the dam.

Tomlison said his company has about five miles of the stream to clean up.

The victim was a son of Mrs. Alta Salisbury Moore, of Hunter, and the late Gomer Moore. In addition to his mother, survivors include his widow, Mrs. Carol Ray Daughterty Moore; two daughters, Loretta Lynn and Debbie Jean Moore, both at home; five brothers and seven sisters, John B. and William Calvin Moore, both of Blacksburg, S.C., Gary Dean Moore, Gaffney, S.C., Carmel Moore, Carthage, Texas, James Nelson Moore, South Shore, Mich., Mrs. Margie Goodman, of Eastern, Mrs. Kay Reynolds, Cincinnati, O., Mrs. Loretta Tuttle, Wayne, Mich., Mrs. Judy Mullins, of Hunter, Mrs. Emmogene Daniels, Stoutsville, O., Mrs. Hazel McDonald, Rittman, O., and Mrs. Elesta Hamilton, of McDowell.

Funeral services were conducted at 10 a.m. Sunday from the residence by ministers of the Regular Baptist Church. Burial was made in the Moore cemetery at Hunter under direction of the Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

Knott Contract On KY 80 Let At $3.2 Million

The state Transportation Department has awarded seven contracts totaling $6.5 million for highway work in north-eastern Kentucky.

The contracts resulted from an October 20 bid-letting. A statewide total of $12.8 million in contracts was awarded, according to Transportation Secretary Calvin Grayson.

The largest contract, for Knott county, calls for grading and drainage work on about six-tenths of a mile of the Hindman Connector, which will join the new and old KY 80 routes. Also included is reconstruction of short sections of the KY 80 business route and KY 160 in Hindman. The $3.2 million contract was awarded to Raymond Construction, Louisville.

A $2.4 million contract was awarded to East Kentucky Paving Corp., Grayson, for widening 5.4 miles of KY 32 in Rowan county, from Interstate 64 to the Fleming county line.

East Kentucky Paving also received an $8,398 contract for surfacing on about one-tenth mile of Reneau Drive and three-tenths mile of Lakeview Drive at Bluestone in Rowan county.

Martin & Judy, Inc., Cynthiana, received a $759,767 contract for improvements on three toll plazas in Powell and Magoffin counties.

On the Bert T. Combs Mountain Parkway the bridge at Slade will be widened and at Waltersville the pavement will be widened and toll plaza facilities modified. The roadway will be widened and new toll booths constructed at Gullett on the Mountain Parkway extension.

Other highway contracts for northeastern Kentucky, listed by county, are:

—Elliott county—A $67,716 contract to East Kentucky Paving Corp. for surfacing on 1.6 miles of the Ridgeway road, from one-half mile west of KY 7, continuing west.

—Lawrence county—A $45,167 contract to CFE Construction Co., London, to replace the superstructure of a bridge over Jim Woods Branch on the Louisa-Hitchins-Grayson road (KY 1), six miles west of KY 3.

—Montgomery county—A $17,861 contract to M & M Services Co., Paris, for bridge deck repairs over Slate Creek on the Jeffersonville-Howards Mill Road (KY 213), 1.7 miles northeast of US 460.

Survey Shows Likes, Dislikes of Residents

Although pessimism dominates the national mood, a majority of Kentuckians feel Kentucky is headed in the right direction and express "tremendous optimism" for the future in Kentucky.

Gov. Julian M. Carroll, in announcing these and other results of a recently completed survey of attitudes about Kentucky, said the survey will be "invaluable" in improving the state's tourism industry and industrial development by telling us what we need to do to polish or, when necessary, change Kentucky's image both among Kentuckians and visitors to Kentucky.

The survey, conducted by Reichman Research, Inc. of New York at a cost of $67,000, contains information which will help the Commonwealth develop an overall hospitality theme, message and strategy to project Kentucky's good image.

Reichman developed four separate studies as part of the survey, to determine the perception of Kentucky among Kentucky residents, among residents of other states, among actual tourists, and among members of the Kentucky tourist industry.

According to Public Information Commissioner Daniel Mangeot, specially trained and briefed members of Reichman Research's interviewing staff conducted in-person interviews with 603 adult residents of the Commonwealth, 608 visitors to Kentucky's state parks, tourist attractions and information centers, 320 adult residents of Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan and Missouri, and 312 hotel-motel and tourist site operators in Kentucky.

Commenting on one statistic showing 79 per cent of Kentuckians having a "great deal" of pride in their state, Reichman noted, "Nowhere have we come across a match for the genuine enthusiasm for a state expressed by the people of Kentucky in this survey."

Of the 54 per cent who feel Kentucky is headed in the right direction, Reichman said Kentucky is one of the few states where opinion is positive and such optimism prevails. "The pride and optimism are encouraging," Governor Carroll said, "but just as important to us are the negative and neutral aspects we sought and want to correct."

For example, the Governor noted, 43 per cent of Kentucky residents have negative feelings about their educational system. "Despite our best efforts over the last four years, including dramatic increases in teacher salaries and doubling of the state's share of the cost of education, our people still have a low opinion of our system of education."

On yet another crucial phase, Governor Carroll noted residents feel that of the unfavorable impressions people may have of Kentucky, an image of backwardness would be most frequently cited.

"Our own residents don't see themselves that way, but it will be a crucial part of our campaign to erase the feelings that others may," the governor said.

The survey also showed that 52 per cent of Kentuckians feel that Kentucky, as a place with honest public officials, requires improvement.

This finding supports what I have been saying for years," Governor Carroll said. "Our people have lost faith in their public officials and one of our biggest tasks is going to be to restore the confidence of the people. Almost equally, the survey shows that Kentuckians want their state government to improve education, law enforcement and job opportunities."

The governor noted that there are some encouraging related aspects.

Residents by a two-to-one margin want state government to do more. "There are few states today where government is being asked to do more and to take greater responsibility. Kentucky is one of them," Reichman said.

"This combination of results mandates our best efforts not only to continue our strides in those areas where Kentuckians have the greatest concerns, but to do a better job of letting the people know what has and is being done," Governor Carroll said.

According to Commissioner Mangeot, the survey results will be a "tremendous tool" for developing tourism advertising strategy which will make best use of the state's current advertising dollars and programs.

"The survey will allow us to pinpoint which market areas will provide the most for our money in attracting even more of the clean dollars which have made the billion dollar tourism industry the state's third greatest income producer," Mangeot said.

Chessie-Seaboard Merger
To Help Coal, Carroll Says

Gov. Julian Carroll said last week he is optimistic that the planned merger of Seaboard Coast Line Industries and the Chessie System will bring improved rail service to Kentucky's coal fields.

The two railroads announced last Thursday in Richmond that they had approved a plan of merger, subject to approval by stockholders. Seaboard owns the L&N system which serves, along with Chessie, most of the Eastern Kentucky coal field.

"The combination of rail networks and coal car hopper fleets would, in my judgment, provide the merged system with the ability to improve the movement of coal out of the mountains and to the consumers," Gov. Carroll said.

"Given the problems we have had of late with service by L&N, it appears to me that Kentucky's coal business can realize gains through this merger," Governor Carroll said.

He noted that he has been informed that the merger would provide a total coal hopper car fleet of some 125,000 cars and that the combined system would reduce the hauling of empty cars to loading points and circuitous routing, thus providing better car supply to both systems.

Further, Governor Carroll said he has been told that Chessie's Raceland car shops would help Seaboard's car acquisition program, as opposed to its current use of private builders.

The railroads have also indicated that by combining roadway maintenance equipment, idle time will be reduced and the maintenance programs improved. This, Governor Carroll noted, is yet another area in which problems have been encountered and which might be improved through merger.

Section Three, Page One

LABELING

Do you read food labels when you shop? If so, you probably realize that they can help you plan more nutritious meals and save you money.

All labels are required to carry certain information. This includes: 1) identity of the food; 2) net content or net weight; 3) name and place of business of the manufacturer 4) list of ingredients. They may contain information or recipes, storage, etc.

The Food and Drug Administration established a program of nutrition labeling effective July 1, 1975. Any food to which a nutrient is added, or which makes a nutritional claim, must have a nutritional label. Nutrition labeling for other foods is optional.

All these labels must follow the same format. The upper portion of the label shows you the number of calories in a serving of the food, and lists, in grams, the amount of protein, carbohydrate and fat. These are the three major nutrients that make up all the food we eat.

The lower portion of the label tells you the percentage of United States Recommended Daily Allowance (U.S. RDA) for protein and seven vitamins and minerals provided in one serving. Add percentages for each nutrient consumed throughout the day. When the daily total approaches one-hundred, you are getting an ample supply of that nutrient. The label may include the composition of fats, amount of cholesterol and amount of sodium (salt). Up to twelve other vitamins and minerals with established RDA values may be included on the label if they are present in significant amounts.

Now how will nutritional labels help you to save money? Use the label to compare the cost per serving of similar foods. Read the label to make sure you get the most for your food dollar. You may find that you can substitute less-costly foods for more expensive ones.

The next time you go to the grocery, check the package for what's inside. And don't forget, public concern and government action make nutrition labeling a fact of life. (PRN)

Money and time are two things most consumers are short on so it's hard to make meals nutritious and appetizing while balancing the family budget. Nutritional labeling is a helpful shopping tool in supplying much of the information needed to make wise food choices. (PRN)

Frosty Pumpkin and Shocked Fodder

Deep autumn! A time for quiet. A time for walking through sunlit woods...for visiting loved ones...for feeling and expressing thanks for the bounty and goodness of this Kentucky land. A time for remembering things past and for building memories for the years to come.

Do you remember the pictures your mind painted when you suddenly became quiet as your teacher read from Riley? It had been a misty morning, cool and damp, but sun fingered through the window and touched you with a gentle warmth. The wood on your school desk was smooth as a satin square in a tacked bed cover.

"The husky, rusty russel of the tassels of the corn,

And the raspin' of the tangled leaves, as golden as the morn..."

Oh, it sets my heart a clickin'..."

Then there is the one that sets your feet a-runnin' through paths of the mind as "over the river and through the woods to Grandmother's house we go..."

There is the narrow road, weeds tangled in dusty shreds...the beauty of trees without leaves, smell of woodsmoke as you near the house, the aroma of pies laden with cinnamon and nutmeg. The steamy country kitchen, smiling faces, outstretched arms, younguns headin' for the barn where horses neigh and hearts are grateful for such a day.

Thanksgiving!

Hands carry baskets of food from cars and trucks. Your family brought cakes. A cake thick with blackberry jam, moist and pockmarked where small fingers snatched morsels along the way.

Grandma did the most. She made pies from her own mince meat, baked the big turkey, made dressing with sage, onions and cornbread, and had slices of country ham ready to fry. She would pour a cup of coffee into the ham skillet to make gravy for hot biscuits. Someone would make milk gravy in the turkey pan for sopping with thick slices of homemade bread.

Thanksgiving!
Women scurry around the kitchen, tea-towels in their hands, wiping plates and glasses, cleaning off the bread board and dusting extra chairs.

Loud talk and loud laughter mix together in the front room and Grandpa looks to see where Grandma is before he passes the tobacco pouch around. Grandma sees. Let them chew and spit. It has been a long time since the boys and their father sat at her hearth.

Third and fourth cousins, already taken with one another, made their way to secret paths, away from talk and visiting and good and other mundane things of the day. The important thing was to share thoughts with this person as hands linked.

Thanksgiving!
Those too young to court and those too old were placing iron rods in the earth for pitching horseshoes. Clank! Clank! A ringer!

In the valley and up on the far hill patches of color move as slow as cold maple syrup, and you know the red and blue patches are sweated visitors come to spend Thanksgiving with kinfolk. Soft blue-gray smoke finds a gentle path to the sky. Other homes are warm and happy this day and other kitchens are heady with spice and roasting meat.

An adult voice calls: "Now you younguns quit your runnin' in and out. Settle down for dinner's almost ready." Extra places crowd the table but every one has a place. Every head is bowed. Small heads move this way and that to see what other small heads are doing and small sighs are heard as Grandpa begins.

"Our Father, we thank Thee for this food we are about to receive for our body's use and for all our blessings..." "Oh, it sets my heart a clickin' like the tickin' of a clock. When the frost is on the punkin and the fodder's in the shock."

Thanksgiving!

Maxey Flats Operation To Rise to $700,000

The nuclear waste burial site at Maxey Flats in Fleming county will cost the state $353,000 this year and about $700,000 per year from now on, according to an attorney in the state Department of Finance.

Charles Wickliffe, a member of the Special Advisory Committee on Nuclear Waste Disposal, last Thursday told the panel that the disposal site might cost less but could cost a lot more.

Committee member Hugh Spencer, a professor at the University of Louisville's Speed Scientific School, said the $700,000 figure might be misleading, since the money will cost taxpayers an added amount as it is dispersed over a period of time. Spencer estimated that over a seven-year span such an allocation would result in an additional expense of $3.6 million.

The dumping ground was opened in 1963 and taken over by the state in December, 1977 after reports that radioactive material had leaked away from the site. Since then the facility has been paid for by the Department of Finance, regulated by the Department for Human Resources and operated on site by contract with the privately owned Nuclear Engineering Co., which owned the facility originally.

Lt. Governor's Duties May Need Expanding

Lt. Gov. Thelma Stovall, former Gov. Lawrence Wetherby and former Lt. Gov. Harry Lee Waterfield told a legislative subcommittee Nov. 15 that laws should be enacted to give lieutenant governors specific duties, chief among them the chairmanship of the Legislative Research Commission.

Stovall, Wetherby and Waterfield testified before the Subcommittee on Legislative Effectiveness and the Duties of the Lieutenant Governor, and agreed that they favored constitutional changes to spell out clearly what lieutenant governors' responsibilities are.

"Until such time as you can constitutionally change it, and as long as you're giving him the appropriation, you ought to give him some specific responsibilities," Waterfield said.

Waterfield, the only person to serve two full terms as lieutenant governor, said the office, since it is elective and serves in both executive and legislative branches, is the logical choice for head of the Legislative Research Commission.

The lieutenant governor was removed as head of the LRC in 1974.

Wetherby, who also served as lieutenant governor, said the state's second-in-command should have duties delineated by statute, and agreed with Waterfield that lieutenant governors should be vice-chairmen of a regular meeting of elected cabinet officials.

Asked if he thought the governor's office might object to such an arrangement Wetherby said, "Well, I've been on the first floor and I never had any objections."

"I think it is terrible that you have the appropriation for lieutenant governor and they can say they have nothing to do. I say let's give them something to do," he said.

Stovall went further than the former lieutenant governors, calling for a combining of the offices of lieutenant governor and secretary of state.

Stovall said she suggested last week to the constitutional advisory committee that they consider the action, which seven other states have taken. She noted that Arizona, Alaska and Hawaii began statehood with those offices combined.

The lieutenant governor said she favored combining the jobs because, "If you're ever going to change the office, those (secretary of state's) are the duties for the lieutenant governor."

"I don't know that the people of Kentucky want to pay a salary for me to go out and make speeches to them, or any other lieutenant governor," Stovall said, adding, "I'm paid $29,000 a year virtually for making speeches, other than those 160 days in the legislature," she said. The lieutenant governor serves as president of the Senate.

Stovall added that she serves on several state and national committees, including state toll roads, state property and buildings and education task force committees, as well as on the Southern

The seventh and eighth grade classes at Prestonsburg Elementary School are learning more than the usual textbook material this school term. A practical arts class is being taught by each teacher. Pictured above is Roland Jones' class of eighth grade students participating in small engine repair (lawn mower engines). They are also learning about switch boxes and how to hook up electrical appliances.

Fuel Cost Help Available

The Kentucky Department for Human Resources will begin taking applications Dec. 1 for a new program designed to help elderly or disabled persons meet the cost of winter fuel. The Energy Cost Assistance Program, initiated by Gov. Julian Carroll and approved by the 1978

General Assembly, is funded for $5 million a year for each of the next two years.

"Winter fuel bills are difficult for many Kentuckians to pay," Gov. Carroll said, "but our elderly and disabled citizens often are especially burdened by fuel expenses. This assistance program is designed to help those most in need."

The program will be administered by the Department's Bureau for Social Insurance offices. It offers payments up to $80 to households with a member who is either age 62 or older, or who is blind or disabled and receiving Medicaid or Supplemental Security Income benefits.

The amount of aid depends on family size and income. Payments are made only once each winter (December through March) to each qualified applicant. The grants may be used to help meet the costs of electricity, gas, coal and other heating, lighting and cooking fuels.

"We will be receiving applications from December through April at our local Bureau for Social Insurance offices," Human Resources Secretary Peter Conn said, "Further information on the program is available at bureau offices."

Each year 60,000 Americans become new victims of arthritis, reports the Kentucky Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation.

Black Lung Act Questions-Answers

Some Questions and Answers About the Black Lung Program:

Q. May a miner who continues work in or around a coal mine or preparation facility collect black lung benefits?

A. Under the new law a miner may file a claim and obtain a benefit determination while still working in coal mine employment. However, to receive black lung benefits generally the miner must terminate coal mine employment within one year after the determination of eligibility is made.

Q. How does a person file a claim for Federal black lung benefits?

A. Visit, write or call the nearest office of the Social Security Administration. Personnel there will have all the necessary U.S. Department of Labor forms, and will help you file a claim.

Q. Who pays for the medical examinations?

A. The costs of medical examinations authorized after the miner files a claim will be charged directly to the U.S. Department of Labor.

Q. Does a miner have a choice of physician?

A. If the miner does not wish to go for the necessary medical tests with the physician suggested by the U.S. Department of Labor, the miner must notify the department and get approval to go to another physician.

Q. May a miner be reimbursed for the cost of transportation for travel to the place of examination?

A. Yes, and under certain circumstances the miner may also be paid for meals related to this travel.

Q. What are the monthly cash benefits under the black lung program?

A. Benefit levels are adjusted each time federal salary rates change (usually in October). Until October 1978 the basic monthly benefit for a totally disabled miner or widow is $219.90. This increases to a maximum of $439.70 for individuals with three or more qualified dependents.

MARTIN EVENING HOMEMAKERS

The Martin Evening Homemakers meeting was held at the Senior Citizens Building Nov. 13. Gail Osborne, president, presided, and the lesson by Jean Meade was on Christmas decorations. Plans were made for a Christmas party next month.

Wilma Mayo talked about "Gifts From Our Kitchen" which we can give for Christmas, and refreshments were served by Gail Osborne and Alice Hayse.

Those present were Gail Osborne, Alice Hayse, Pat Frye, Fannie Branham, Wilma Mayo, Jeronita Roark, Jean Meade, Alpha Gruesdell, Geraldine Bartrum, Francis Pitts, and Dorothy Tackett.

Veterans' Queries

Q—I am a widow receiving nonservice-connected pension benefits. If I remarry, will these benefits be discontinued?

A—Yes. However, if you have children, they can continue to receive benefits. Contact your nearest VA office for applications for each child.

Q—If a veteran dies in a VA facility, can his survivor request a contract burial service?

A—Except for unclaimed remains, contract burials were ended July 1, 1963.

Q—I received an honorable discharge after completing a two-year enlistment. Am I eligible for a headstone or gravemarker even though I had no wartime service?

A—A headstone or gravemarker is available for any deceased veteran of wartime or peacetime service (other than for training) who was discharged under conditions other than dishonorable. Reservists who die while on duty may also be eligible.

Q—I am a veteran of the Army Reserve and have had no regular active duty. Am I eligible for a VA guaranteed home loan?

A—You are not eligible for a VA guaranteed home loan. However, you may be eligible for one of the FHA loan programs. Check with the agency that administers that program.

Q—If I give a payment in cash for an overpayment to the veterans' representative on campus, what happens to the cash payment?

A—For your own protection, it is advisable that you pay by personal check, money order or cashier's check. The vet rep should issue you a temporary receipt and forward the money to the agent cashier at the VA regional office. It will then be deposited in the government fund.

Q—Are veterans with peacetime service eligible for VA domiciliary care?

A—Yes.

Q—What is the minimum and maximum VA pension rate for veterans under the current pension laws?

A—The range is from $5 to $222 per month.

SOVIET SHEPHERD, 143, DIES

MOSCOW—Medzhid Agayev, a shepherd called one of the Soviet Union's oldest residents, has died in the Azerbaijan Republic at 143, the official news agency Tass reported Nov. 14.

Tass said Agayev's relatives, friends and acquaintances trekked through three-foot snow drifts to pay respects to the man, who tended sheep for 120 years.

By LARRY BURKE

We overheard a remark the other day when a person was saying: "He took a mighty hard fall . . . but he bounced right back onto his feet." You know that is one of the greatest compliments that can be said of a man . . . He bounced right back onto his feet." There are few among us who do not at one time or another stumble and fall as we weave our way through the briarpatch of life. Often we are innocent victims of fate . . . sometimes our misfortunes are of a nature which lays the blame squarely on our own shoulders.

Whatever the nature of our fall, there is a great amount of respect and glory in the ability to rise again.

Many years ago, from the pen of Oliver Goldsmith, came these words:

"Our greatest glory consists not in never failing . . . but in rising every time we fall . . ."

As we recall the remark being made of the one bouncing back onto his feet . . . there was no mention of courage . . . or strength . . . or glory, but it was there—it is always there.

We'll bet you didn't know how annoying that drippy faucet of yours really was.

It costs $17.00 to heat the 2400 gallons of water you lose each year from one hot water faucet that drips once a second.

And maybe a 10¢ washer is all it would take to stop it.

There are other ways you can cut your hot water costs, too.

Take showers instead of baths. Use the cold water cycle on your washing machine. Turn off your electric water heater when you go on vacation.

And, since your hot water costs will go up as you raise your water temperature, make sure your water heater isn't set too high. You can easily get by with 140° water in most cases.

We have some S.A.V.E. booklets that not only show you how to save electricity all around your home, but also how to become part of our Save America's Valuable Energy Program.

Stop in your nearest Kentucky Power office for your free copies. At Kentucky Power, we want you to get the most out of your electric service.

Governor Carroll Calls Energy Conference

Gov. Julian Carroll today warned representatives of state government and the energy industry that "the country has not yet fully realized all the consequences that will come from the shortage of energy in this country."

The Governor told approximately 500 people attending the annual Governor's Energy Awareness Conference, held at the Executive Inn in Louisville, that he sees great importance in discussing the nation's energy problems "openly and candidly".

Carroll commended President Carter for his energy package.

"Most of the nation's governors have been and will continue to be deeply concerned about energy," Carroll said. He also pointed out that the national energy legislation came close to dying both in the House and Senate.

Carroll said that it is his responsibility as chairman of the National Governor's Association to see that state leaders recognize energy awareness, conservation and production and the problems production can cause with inflation.

Carroll announced that he has called a meeting of the governor's executive committees in Atlanta Nov. 18 and 19 to schedule a mid-December meeting to discuss the national energy legislation and the substantial initiatives that will be needed in upcoming general assemblies and administrations.

Sen. Wendell Ford told the conference that although Congress finally met its responsibility by signing energy legislation into law, 53 percent of energy consumption nationwide is still from foreign sources.

Ford said that a portion of the conservation measure of the legislation is "of the greatest importance to Kentucky," with a coal conservation program that will encourage utilization in order to decrease usage of oil and natural gas.

Ford said he is greatly concerned with the coal transportation network because "we know it won't work. We have the resources and the means to mine it," he continued, "but the increases sought by railroads would price Appalachian coal out of the market." He said, "We can't sit idly by and watch that happen."

"Kentucky helped show the rest of the nation that the role of coal could be expanded to meet the country's energy need," Ford said, "and it can be Kentucky who provides the impetus for the answers that cloud the role of coal in the first national energy plan."

Ford said he believes a favorable balance can be reached between an increased use of coal in an environmentally acceptable manner despite the continuing uncertainty of the Federal Clean Air Act.

Secretary David Drake of the Kentucky Department of Energy said that the state will have adequate fuel supplies to meet a winter that is "at least equal in severity to last year. If we have a problem, it will be in transporting supplies from one site to another, he said.

Winter Protection for Roses

By JOHN E. SPARKS
County Agent for Agriculture

Many old-fashioned shrub or rambling roses are quite hardy and do not need extra winter protection. Hybrid tea and gradiflora roses may be injured during severe winters and some protection is necessary to insure their survival.

The best form of winter protection for garden roses is to mound the base of each with a soil that drains well. The mound of soil should be 10-12 inches high. Don't scrape soil from around the plants or the roots may be injured. Bring the soil from another location in the garden.

Loose compost or aged sawdust may be used in place of soil. Don't use leaves, grass clippings, manure or other materials that would remain wet. This can promote disease.

Mounding should be done after the plants have lost their leaves, usually after several hard frosts. The old leaves should be raked up and disposed of as many diseases will over-winter in them. The canes can be pruned back to 15-18 inches to make mounding easier.

The mounds should be carefully removed in the spring after danger of severe frost is past. Don't be too anxious because these tender shoots can be injured by a light freeze. Keep some straw or mulch material handy to cover plants in case of late frost.

The Economy and You

This is a first in a series of weekly articles to be published by Students in Free Enterprise (S.I.F.E.), an organization of business students dedicated to the continuing existence of our private enterprise system. Each week key economic topics will be discussed trying to explain the importance to the Eastern Kentucky area.

Last week President Carter announced an increase of 1 per cent in the Federal Reserve's Discount Rate (this is the interest rate charged to member banks when they borrow funds from the Federal Reserve). With inflation the number one problem in our economy, this increase of 1 per cent was deemed necessary to help control inflation in our economy. With the discount rate increase, we will see in the near future local bank interest rates on borrowing money also increase. Since it costs banks more to borrow from the Federal Reserve, it will also cost you (the consumer) more to borrow from local banks. In other words, credit will become more expensive, and since borrowing costs more, consumers will be discouraged from excessive spending, one cause of inflation. Also affected later on will probably be an increase in savings account interest rates offered by banks. Higher rates on your savings account will stimulate consumers to save more and spend less thus lessening the incentive for excessive spending. So President Carter has taken a major step in halting inflation, as was seen by many as a necessary move to put more confidence back into the American economy and the U.S. dollar. More will be needed, but hopefully business, industry, and consumers will all be interested in helping in the fight against the economy's number one problem.

If you have questions on topics that you would like discussed in later issues write to: S.I.F.E., Prestonsburg Community College, Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653. (The views expressed in this column are not necessarily those of the newspaper.)

Contaminated Honey Widely Distributed

The distribution of some contaminated honey is greater in Kentucky retail outlets than previously believed, say officials of the Department for Human Resources.

An investigation by the department's food control branch confirmed that contaminated honey has been distributed to various chain and privately owned stores across the state.

The recalled J.W. Parrish Honey, packed and distributed by J.W. Parrish of Homerville, Ga., was found to be contaminated by ants and other filth plus added corn syrup, says John Draper, manager of the food control branch.

According to Draper, the contaminated honey was originally found in a routine state inspection. It was first believed that the contaminated J. W. Parrish Honey was distributed only to Kentucky IGA Food Stores, but is now known that many other Kentucky stores received shipments of the honey, Draper says.

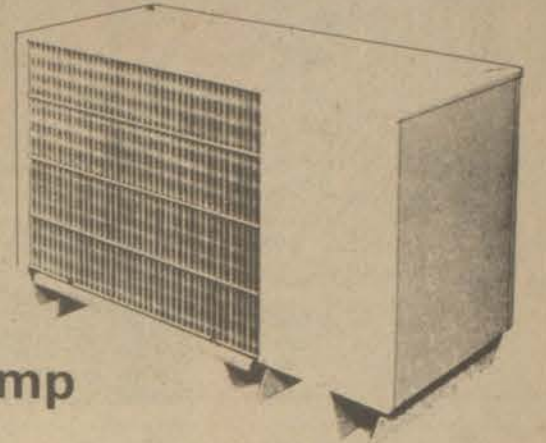

"This is the only honey we have found this year that has been contaminated with ants and other filth," says Draper. "However other honey has been found to be blended with fillers, such as corn syrup."

All honey that is known to be contaminated with filth or blended with fillers has been detained by quarantine action, he says. The federal Food and Drug Administration is analyzing samples of the honey in order to determine what action will be taken against the packers.

Financial Aid Depends On Student's Ability

By MITZI HALL
(Wheelwright High School Journalism Class)

Wheelwright High School had two informative visitors recently: Walter Frazier, financial aid advisor, and Mrs. Robinson, librarian, from Prestonsburg Community College.

Mr. Frazier informed the students of loans and grants which are available to students wanting to go on to college. Income of the family is no longer the main determining factor in obtaining such a grant or loan, he said. He stressed the idea that students need to apply themselves to high school studies, especially in fields such as math, language arts, and social studies.

Mrs. Robinson talked about PCC's library program and informed the students of an interesting career for those who are interested, that of medical librarian, and discussed the requirements for this type of work.

The media class, journalism, typing, and secretary-office classes attended the meeting. The students asked questions that concerned their futures in college, and received the answers they were searching for.

We wish to express our appreciation to Mrs. Robinson and Mr. Frazier for giving their time, and we hope they will visit us again.

Arson Held Major Threat

Arson may be one of the fastest growing threats to public safety in Kentucky today.

According to State Police Commissioner Kenneth E. Brandenburg, the number of fires identified by state police arson investigators as having been set by arsonists thus far this year has increased by more than 78 percent.

"Between January and October 1977, we handled 316 fires of criminal origin," Brandenburg said. "The total for the same 10-month period this year is now up to 564."

But that may not come anywhere near describing the true extent of the problem since state police do not know how many more cases are being investigated locally. Kentucky has no law mandating the uniform collection and evaluation of information statewide on all arson and arson-related offenses.

Were such information available, however, it probably would reflect a trend similar to that being seen by state police and their counterparts in law enforcement across the nation.

The latest data now available to state police indicates that the incidence rate of arson, nationally, has increased tenfold since the 1950s. The International Association of Arson Investigators, Inc., has also reported that arson now accounts for an estimated 1,000 lives annually and may cost the American people more than $2 billion a year in property losses.

Fortunately, say state police, a look at the other side of the coin also shows that arrests, in Kentucky at least, are climbing at a significantly faster pace than the case rate despite the fact that the size of their 19-man Arson Unit has remained almost unchanged.

Since January of this year, the number of state police cases cleared by arrest has risen by approximately 89 percent. Lowell Hamilton, a senior investigative supervisor who has been with the State Police Arson Unit since 1972, puts much of the blame for Kentucky's rising arson rate on the profit motive. More and more people are using arson as a way "to rip off the insurance companies," he said.

One of the largest insurance frauds in his memory involved a Kentucky businessman who, last fall, was sentenced to 11 years in prison for setting fire to his own store and then trying to collect $1 million in insurance money.

The scheme fell apart after it was discovered that a large portion of the insurance claim was based on fire insurance coverages secured less than two weeks before the blaze occurred.

But the most frequent target in fires for fraud seems to be the family automobile.

"The insurance companies call us day and night," Hamilton said. "In fact, we've recently had 20 auto fires just in Graves County alone."

Vandals and persons nursing a grudge, or attempting to conceal other crimes

PRATER CREEK HOMEMAKERS

Members of the Prater Creek Homemakers Club met Nov. 15 at 7 p.m. in the school lunchroom. The meeting was called to order by the president, Susan Akers. The lesson on "Gifts from your Kitchen" was given by Loretta Conn. There will be no meeting for the month of December, but the club plans a Christmas party and exchange of gifts December 20, at 7 p.m. in the school lunchroom.

Hostesses for the evening were Lazelle Williams, Gail Taylor, and Loretta Conn. Members present were, Kathryn Akers, Willma Campbell, Lucille Akers, Sandra Roberts, Susan Akers, Sereda Brown, Mona Boyd, Pauline Akers, Lynn Boyd, Destaphine Boyd, Belle Jones, Wanda Hall, Emodel Boyd, Doris Akers and agent Francis Pitts. The club welcomed these new members, Polly Robinette, Marie Conn, Connie Hall and Polly Hall.

A widespread popular fallacy is that "nothing much can be done" about arthritis. Here's the good news. According to the Arthritis Foundation, medical science now knows how to prevent most arthritis disability if victims seek prompt and proper medical care.

such as murder and theft, also were ranked by Hamilton as frequent motives for arson. A large percentage of those fires attributed to vandalism are traced back to juveniles who "torch a car or a barn, just for something to do," he said.

Thus far this year, 49 juveniles have been convicted on charges stemming from state police cases involving arson.

But grudge fires probably worry the investigators the most, for those are the ones in which people get hurt.

As an example of their seriousness, Hamilton cited one recent case in which a young boy was killed in a fire set by a man angered at the boy's mother for rejecting his advances. The man was caught, convicted of murder and first degree arson and is now in prison.

Although flammable liquids such as gasoline and mineral spirits seem to be the materials most often used by arsonists to set fires in Kentucky, state police have investigated some fires where incendiary explosives like Molotov Cocktails have been used.

"We've also had a few fires involving the use of timing devices," Hamilton said.

And currently, state police are looking into several fires which they think may have been the work of hired professionals.

The professional arsonist probably presents the arson investigator with his biggest challenge although, state police say, there is no such thing as an easy arson case.

Unlike other crimes where witnesses often are able to lead police directly to the perpetrator, the arson investigator almost never finds anyone who, Hamilton said, can say: "I saw him strike the match."

As a result, the arson investigator must rely almost entirely on his senses, his knowledge of incendiary techniques and materials and the skills of state police crime lab technicians who analyze the charred ash and bits of evidence which investigators gather by spending hours painstakingly sifting through the debris that remains after the fire is extinguished.

"And about the time you think you've seen it all, and know it all," said one investigator, "somebody figures out a new way to do it, and you're back to Square One again."
