

Gov. Carroll Announces KY 80 Dedication, Friday

Perkins, Combs Slated To Speak During Exercises

A dedication ceremony for the section of new KY 80 from Martin to Water Gap will be held Friday, at 2 p.m. at the Water Gap junction of KY 80, KY 3 and US 23.

Gov. Julian Carroll and Transportation Secretary Calvin Grayson will join local officials for dedication of the first of the resource recovery road projects.

A reception immediately following the dedication ceremony will be held at the state regional office in Prestonsburg. The office is located on the second floor of the City Building on North Lake Drive. The reception is open to the public.

The resource recovery road program, initiated by Gov. Carroll, is financed by coal severance tax revenue and attempts to meet some of the special highway needs of coal-producing and coal-impacted counties. Gov. Carroll broke ground for KY 80 in September, 1977.

The section to be dedicated is 4.5 miles long and runs from Hunter Branch east of Martin through the US 23 intersection at Water Gap. Two contracts totaling $10.6 million were awarded for the section. The Martin-Water Gap section is being constructed by Bizzack Brothers Construction Co. of Frankfort. The US 23 intersection contract is held by Bizzack and R. R. Dawson Co., Bloomfield, in a joint venture.

These two contracts for KY 80 are part of 22 construction contracts let for the 42-mile road from Hazard to Water Gap. The first contract for the entire project was let in July, 1977.

One of those who entered the Ladle Rat Rotten Hut contest got even with us. He (or she) wrote:

Would say this serves us right. Incidentally, the jury is still out on those "translations" of Ladle Rat. We're promised a verdict before Christmas.

Soon after the first snowfall of the season last Thursday came a letter from James Morell, of San Angelo, Texas, taking me to the wishing well with newspaper clippings showing big catches of strippers in a place called Lake Whitney.

The birds having apparently gone on vacation and with the bees in the hive, few pleasant facts of life remain just now to be recorded.

CHARITABLY SPEAKING

Med Center Names New Administrator

Burl Wells Spurlock, chairman of the Highlands Regional Medical Center board of trustees, has announced the appointment of Clarence C. Traum as administrator of the facility.

Traum has been serving as interim administrator at Highlands since the resignation of former administrator Les Rankin in May. Over 200 applications for the position were received and reviewed by the board during the last six months.

In making the announcement, Spurlock commented that with the heavy use of the present facility and the recent granting of the certificate of need to Highlands to begin their $7.2 million expansion, the hospital is entering a dynamic period in its history. The selection of the new administrator took on added significance at this time, he said.

"An important factor in selecting Mr. Traum was the opportunity we had to work with him in his capacity as our interim administrator. He has played a significant role in securing our certificate and has demonstrated a very effective, professional approach to hospital administration," according to Spurlock.

Spurlock also praised Traum's qualifications citing his 20 years of health care experience. Traum, with a master's degree in business administration from the University of Chicago, served over five years as administrator of a 400 bed hospital in Norwalk, Connecticut.

Garrett Mishap Claims Child

Jo Ann, six-year-old daughter of Silas and Polly Slone, of the Stonecoal section of Garrett, died Sunday night at Our Lady of the Way hospital, Martin, of injuries suffered earlier that evening when she was struck by a car at Garrett.

According to the investigating officer, State Trooper Johnnie Sizemore, the tragedy occurred as the victim and a sister were being led across KY 80 to a Garrett market. The child reportedly broke away from her mother's grasp and was struck by a car driven by Gary D. Francis, 29, of Garrett. Francis, who was driving west, was temporarily blinded by an oncoming car, it was said, and no charge of negligence was made in the accident.

Survivors, besides the parents include two brothers, Ollie James and Silas, Jr., and six sisters, Clovis Ann, Nannie Jean, Judy Carol, Lucinda, Nannie and Laverne Slone, all of Garrett.

Parade Cancellation Vexes Band, Friends

The Prestonsburg High School band apparently will not be in the line of march at the inauguration next Tuesday of John Y. Brown, Jr., as Kentucky governor, and the school, students, band parents and just about everybody else are unhappy about it.

They're angry because the band was invited to the inaugural—then, after plans for the trip were made, and fundraising had begun, the invitation was cancelled.

Early plans announced from Frankfort provided a place for a band or float from every county, but this was changed to include only two bands per Congressional district, and so the hassle is statewide.

But none is more disappointed and angry about the snafu than the students here and their supporters.

"You just don't tell kids they can do something like that, then turn around and say they can't," said State Rep.-Elect Greg Stumbo, who declared he would not attend the inaugural if the youngsters don't go. And he added that he will ask that nobody from this county go.

Stumbo, who is an alumnus of the school, said recent troubles of the school made the invitation more important than it normally would have been. "The kids have gone through a lot of adversity at this high school. I don't believe the people

Sturgill Named, Stumbo Appointment Considered

One Floyd county native has been named to a key post in state government by Governor-Elect John Y. Brown, Jr., and a second is reported in line to head another.

William B. Sturgill, of Lexington, formerly of Prestonsburg, was named last week to be Secretary of Energy in the new state administration, effective with Brown's inauguration next Tuesday.

The second Floyd county reported considered for appointment is Dr. Grady Stumbo, McDowell native, who is co-founder of the East Kentucky Health Services Clinic which operates non-profit clinics at Mallie and Kite in Knott county.

That appointment, if made, would be as secretary of the massive state Department of Human Resources.

The 55-year-old Sturgill, it was announced, will serve without pay. The current energy secretary, David D. Drake, will continue in the department as deputy secretary.

Sturgill, whose past operations, mainly in Perry and Knott counties, have stirred controversy in Eastern Kentucky, is president of the Golden Oak Mining Co., but Governor-Elect Brown said that the new secretary is now "in the process of arranging his personal investments in such a way that he will have no conflict of interest."

Brown also said an official representing the environmental viewpoint also will have a voice in establishing administration policies relating to coal. "I think there has to be a balance," he said.

In announcing the appointment Brown said Sturgill "will understand the red tape and bureaucracy that the coal industry has had to face."

Sturgill himself repeated the widespread complaint heard from coal operators that the industry labors under excessive governmental regulation. "I think there needs to be a broad inventory taken of the needs of a lot of the regulations and the law...at the federal and the state level," he was quoted as saying.

Sturgill came under heavy fire in the 1960's for what critics charged were highly irresponsible mining practices, and once had a reputation among environmentalists as one of the "worst" operators in the business.

One of his Knott county operations was the site of the celebrated "Widow Combs" case in 1966 when Mrs. Ollie Combs placed herself in front of a bulldozer and was carried away by state troopers. The incident was instrumental in winning support for state stripmining legislation that year.

Sturgill last week defended his mining record, calling it the record of a "responsible operator" and one of which he is "proud."

While the Department of Energy is primarily concerned with energy conservation and research, Brown indicated that Sturgill will have responsibility in other areas as well and will contribute to administration policies affecting the coal industry.

Although it is held certain that Dr. Stumbo has been offered the Human

Construction of Highway Rouses Fear of Flooding

While officials are scheduled to cut the ribbon and extol the virtues of the new KY 80 this week, by no means all Floyd countians regard the highway as an unimixed blessing. For many living in Beaver Creek communities from Martin to the Knott county line, for whom the road will mean safer and faster access to Prestonsburg and Hazard, it also raises the specter of increased flooding.

Highway engineers, who altered the landfill design around the Garrett bridge some months ago in response to complaints of residents there, insist that the remaining fears along Right Beaver, while understandable, are groundless. Many residents remain unconvinced. They point to the five low-water-creek crossings installed by construction companies as access roads, and to the extensive floodplain fills, as evidence that their communities have been made more vulnerable to flooding than ever.

Hueysville postmaster Irene Hayes describes the low-water fords as a series of "minor dams that have bottlenecked Beaver Creek." As spring rainwater backs up behind the crossings into flood plains now partially filled, the flood level will inevitably be raised, she argues.

"If the water can't spread out," Mrs. Hayes asks, "what is to keep it from going up?" Next flood season the high-water mark may well encroach on properties never before flooded, she figures, predicting that it may even top the flood of '63.

Such predictions are the result of a misunderstanding, says Richard Noon, project engineer with Brighton Engineering Co., of Frankfort, the general engineering consultants for the Route 80 project. For one thing, he explains, the low-water fords are only temporary; they are designed to permit high water to flow over the top; and, in any case, they can be and are breached in the event of excessive water backup.

The crossing at Stephens Branch, above Martin, has caused some backup because it was constructed somewhat higher than normal to allow easier access to trucks entering from a nearby hill, Noon said, but the situation is being corrected by installation of an additional culvert. In the event of high water, there is no reason to believe that the low-water crossings will have any adverse effect on the situation, he added.

As regards the floodplain fills, all have been approved by the state highways department only after extensive hydraulic testing, Noon explained, and the filling of floodplain areas is compensated for by improved stream flow resulting from the straightening and widening of the creek.

In some places the creek channel will be two to two-and-a-half times wider than it was, and all fresh cuts are being lined

Another US 23 Incident

Robert Bowen, of Huntington, W. Va., examines boulder which fell into the path of his auto Monday from a cliff bordering US 23 in the vicinity of B. & B. Engineers about five miles north of here. (Damaged vehicle is pictured in background.) Although Bowen was not injured, the incident is the latest in a number of "close calls" which occur each year as a result of rockslides along the route and points to the hazards which exist at many points between Prestonsburg and Paintsville. Bowen was unusually good-natured in the face of the mishap as he expressed regret for having "killed the rock" which, he said, "must have been drunk when it fell off the cliff."

Regional Office Here To Close, Gov.-Elect Says

In what he described as an example of the tight-fisted policy that will be his when he becomes governor, Governor-Elect John Young Brown last week announced plans to abolish the governor's regional office here and others located in Louisville, London, Covington and Madisonville.

Brown termed the Office of Inter-Agency Relations from which the five regional offices stem as "just another layer of bureaucracy that does not serve the full purpose for which it was created."

Richard (Dick) Allen, director of the regional office here, said he has not been told the actual closing date for the offices but added that he and his two assistants last Friday tendered their resignations to Governor Carroll and at the same time submitted their resumes and applications for other state employment. One of the assistants is Former County Judge-Executive Yvonne S. Jones, who began work Nov. 7 when Judge Bill Wells took office as her successor.

Asked his evaluation of the regional office program, Allen said, "I think it is a fine opportunity for a governor to get to the level of the people. We haven't done anything earthshaking, but ours have been people problems."

When he established the offices in May, 1978 Governor Carroll said their purpose was to cut red tape and bring state government closer to the people.

Brown said elimination of the five regional offices and the office of secretary of the Cabinet—the latter a post which he said he himself will fill—will mean a saving of $787,000 a year.

Time To Clean Drains, Tools

By NEVYLE SHACKELFORD
UK College of Agriculture

Now comes December and with each setting of the sun and rising of the moon, the year winds down to the climax of Christmas, adding another footnote to the geologic and human history of the world. Notwithstanding February which has only 28 or 29 days as in the case of Leap Year, it has been argued that in terms of daylight hours December is the shortest month of the year. In other words, it takes December 31 days to rack up as many daylight hours as February does in 28.

But be that as it may, December has much to commend it. There's Christmas for instance with cheerfulness and attendant good will. Then there's winter solstice, that happy time on December 22, when the departing sun reaches the end of its tether and once again starts its long, slow journey toward this Northern Hemisphere, bringing with it the joys of spring and the hopes of summer.

Except for keeping the leaves raked and wood cut for the stove or fireplace, there's not too much garden work to be done. There are, however, some things outdoors that can be done with profit. Now until snow falls, for example, is a good time to do any filling or grading about the old homestead so that loose soil can settle during the cold weeks ahead.

Then, according to horticulturists in the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, before winter really closes down, give the compost heap a final turning over with a fork so as to mix in the latest additions and hasten their decomposition. A generous sprinkling of dehydrated lime and fertilizer will help things along and correct any tendency to acidity.

Unless fallen leaves, twigs, and like rubbish are kept cleaned out of drains and gutters, these facilities are likely to clog and freeze up, resulting in much damage. A final cleaning out in early December is more than likely to pay dividends when Old Man Winter really gets down to business.

December is a good month in which to look at the garden tools. This is a fine time to clean, lubricate, and repair the equipment that will be needed next spring. Anyone who has ever started to put out a patch of early peas, onions, or greens in the spring and discovered that his rototiller wouldn't start because of something he failed to check during the winter will attest that this is good advice.

And finally if you are attempting to soften the energy crunch by burning wood, save all of the ashes from your open fires or heating stoves this winter. They will be fine for garden use next spring.

Ashes are a fertile source of potash, an essential plant food. Store them in watertight containers and keep them dry as their strength easily leaches away. When applying them in the spring use them sparingly, especially on lawns. They are said to help save asters from the blight and are sure to loosen up tight soil if used consistently.

And so, now that it is December, we come to the end of another measure of time—a time in which we join in with Daudney, the poet, who said: "Goodbye kind year, we walk no more together. But here in quiet happiness we part and from thy wreath of faded fern and heather, we take some sprays and forever wear them on our hearts."

Miss Jones-Mr. Goebel Wed

A white covered altar with brass candelabra holding lighted tapers and entwined with lilies-of-the-valley was the setting at the Bonanza Freewill Baptist Church October 5 for the wedding of Miss Sherry Lou Jones to Mr. William O. Goebel III.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Hill, of the Abbott Road, and the bride groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William O. Goebel, Jr.

The double-ring ceremony was performed at 6:30 p.m. by the Rev. Lee Caudill. A program of pre-nuptial selections was presented by Mrs. Mary Crisp, and Kent Dickerson, pianists, and Gary Crisp, vocalist.

Mr. John T. Hill, upon the request of his daughter, asked the Lord's blessing on this marriage, while kneeling with the bridal couple.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a traditional gown of delicate white organza. The empire waistline was accented with silk venise lace and the sheer bishop sleeves were cuffed with matching lace. A ruffled self-fabric hemline with a border of silk venise lace extended into a cathedral train. The bridal bouquet, of a simulated lavender rose, bridal pink roses, stephanotis, baby's breath, and Australian laurel greenery, completed the ensemble.

Mrs. Debra Howard Dixon, matron-of-honor, was attired in a dusty rose quiana pleated gown with matching cape.

Bridesmaids were Miss Jennifer Jones, Mrs. Annette Jones Camp, and Miss Johnna Elizabeth Hill, sisters of the bride, and Mrs. Debbie Thomas, sister of the groom, and Miss Lona Goble. Their matching gowns were of burgundy quiana knit with fitted bodice, pleated skirts and mandarin capes.

Best man was Mr. Goebel's brother-in-law, Mr. Jimmy Thomas. Groomsman were Ricky Morgan, Mike Meade, Michael Click, Jamie Latta and John T. Hill, III, brother of the bride.

The wedding party also included Miss Rachel Gwenn Hackworth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry O. Hackworth, Abbott Road, as flower girl and Master Mathew Thomas, nephew of the groom, as ring bearer.

The bridegroom's mother wore a mauve, flowered print silk gown with a corsage of pink sweetheart roses.

The ceremony was followed by a reception at the bride's home.

The bride's mother received guests in a plum quiana gown with a corsage of pink sweetheart roses.

KY 80—Carroll's Doing

New KY 80, one of the most important highways to be undertaken in this region, is by no means complete, but it is highly appropriate that Governor Carroll is coming to this county Friday to have a part in dedicating a portion of it.

For KY 80 is this governor's doing. It was he who recognized the need for such a highway to replace the dangerous, tenuous road that has for years after a fashion been the only connecting link between vital parts of Eastern Kentucky. It was his initiative and influence that led the General Assembly to approve the financing of this costly venture of building a four-lane highway a distance of 45 miles over rough, mountainous terrain.

It, of course, can be argued that the millions being spent on new KY 80 from Water Gap in this county, through Knott county to Hazard in Perry is a mere matter of spending monies supplied by the people. That is true. But it should be remembered, also, that a governor less interested in Eastern Kentucky could have spent those millions on some project in the other end of the state.

New KY 80 is presenting problems for individuals, as is always the case in major road construction. But it is a route which will remove the comparative isolation to which its predecessor, the present, wretched KY 80, has contributed. And it will "complete the circle," adding that last link to a system of modern roads which includes the Mountain Parkway, US 23, the Daniel Boone Parkway and Interstate 75.

The Times is glad Governor Carroll is coming to this county, four days before his term of office ends, to join other officials and the people of the area in the dedication of a sector of this road of the future.

Resources post, he would not confirm that assumption in a telephone conversation with The Times, Monday morning.

"At this point, all I would say is, I have been discussing with Governor Brown some of the needs of state government," he said.

He is known to have spent two days in Frankfort last week.

"I left the Mountains," Stumbo said, "to become a doctor and with the ambition to return to the Mountains. Personally, I am very happy here" (in Knott county)...We're in the process of discussing those things right now."

The Courier-Journal quoted the physician last week as saying "it would take something...of extreme importance to make me move what has been my life and my commitment."

The Louisville newspaper noted that Dr. Stumbo is a strong advocate of improving health care for the poor and that his appointment "might signal major changes in the philosophy of the department which, some say, has been too closely tied with the medical profession."

Stumbo and State Senator-Elect Benny Ray Bailey founded the Knott county clinic in 1972.

Two men who quit the Democratic primary race for governor to support Brown were named last week to top posts. One of these, State Auditor George Atkins, will become secretary of finance. The other, Ralph Ed Graves, has been named with Carol Kunk to handle legislative matters.

Atkins was described by the governor-elect as "one of the most talented, bright, capable individuals I've ever had a chance to work with." His job, Brown said, will be "to raise all of the red flags throughout state government, even in the governor's office."

Frank Ashley, Courier-Journal political editor, was appointed Brown's press secretary. Don Mills, former Lexington newspaperman, and Roy Stevens, former finance secretary, were named the incoming governor's chief administrative assistants.

Frankfort had decided at last to submit to the Biblical injunction, turn the other cheek and do good to those who spitefully use them.

That's a bit more charitable than most of the folks around here are able to be of inst. date.

THE DROPOUT

For some time now I have been looking askance, as they say, upon those who are known as dropouts—only to realize this week that I may be the worst dropout of the bunch.

There was the distant time, for example, when I attended an old-fashioned singing school, one of those between-season sessions lasting a week or so. In this "institution" I was a star pupil for exactly three class periods. I studied the book diligently and could come up with the right answers with the best of them. But then the "professor" pointed his tuning fork at certain members of the class who were to do a bit of singing, next day—and I was one of the doomed.

Scratch one "scholar." I had some sort of mysterious ailment, next day, and stayed home till the itinerant teacher had moved on to another neighborhood to go through is do-re-mi's.

Then there was the more recent time when I enrolled in that Dale Carnegie course locally (remember?—all about winning friends and influencing people).

I figured I could do with more friends, so I buckled to the task and was moving along right well till came this matter of standing on your hind feet and swing with a speech.

Some of the fellows stuck it out and really became so proficient in the art of spouting off that it became difficult on occasion later to keep the number of speakers on the floor down to one.

But that was not in my department, and again I faded from the picture, never completed the course which required public speaking, and as a consequence may to this day be held in contempt by my more gifted fellowmen who can rise to the occasion and orate at the slightest provocation.

Pity the poor dropout.

Rosemary Frazier entertained with a Christmas party at her home in Allen, Monday night. The old songs were sung and Mrs. Laura Weddle, of Prestonsburg Community College, read traditional Christmas stories. The true Christmas spirit was experienced by all present who included Irene Stephens, Sylvia Hall, Alda Malone, Edna Caudill, Belle Jones, Sharlene Hall, Opal Martin, Eleanor Martin, Sherry Lane, Donna Reitz, Pearl Watts, Susie Campbell, Ruby Imes, Becky Watts, Susie Barnett, Flora Hunt, Marianne Hall, Voneta Porter, Mrs. Tommy Westfall, Mrs. Virgil Smith, Dotty Lane, Melissa Lane, Irene Campbell, Laura Weddle, Margaret Tackett, and Mary Jo Wall.

Cataract Sufferers Get New Treatment Option

A relatively new surgical technique presents many cataract patients with an exciting option—a plastic lens implant that obviates the need for thick spectacles or contact lenses.

Called intraocular lenses or IOLs, the development is described in the December Reader's Digest by a writer, Earl Selby, who has undergone an IOL implant.

Cataract surgery has improved markedly in recent years. Patients are no longer required to wait for an operation until their cataracts are "ripe" and their sight vastly impaired. Nor are they hospitalized for weeks with their heads immobilized.

The traditional alternatives, once the cataract is removed, Selby writes, are cataract eyeglasses or contact lenses. Each has definite limitations. Cataract lenses are difficult to manage "for anyone with shaky hands, arthritis or poor coordination. Patients with dry eyes or allergies also have difficulties," he notes. The eyeglasses limit peripheral vision and even "head-on" vision is distorted.

Now, however, approximately one fourth of the cataract operations performed in the United States today involve IOL implantations. According to the Food and Drug Administration there is "widespread acceptance" of IOLs, with 3000 ophthalmologists in 2500 hospitals performing implant surgery.

What happens is this: the surgeon separates the lens nucleus from its capsule and eases it through the pupillary hole. There he pulverizes it with an instrument resembling a miniature jackhammer, removes the fragments by suction, inserts the plastic lens in its place and stitches the wound shut.

"The patch came off the next morning," Selby writes of his own experience, "and after 20 hours in the hospital I was discharged." Initial blurriness gradually cleared and, "with a corrective lens, my eye tested 20-20."

Implant surgery isn't for everyone. "In general, IOLs are not recommended for relatively young patients. There is debate, and no settled opinion, on whether those with previous cataract surgery should be exposed to a second operation to implant a lens," Selby points out. "Also surgeons treating patients with cataracts in both eyes do not agree on how soon—or even if—an implant in one eye should be followed with an implant in the second."

But the president of the American Intra-Ocular Implant Society, Dr. Robert C. Drews, of St. Louis, declares, "IOLs have come of age." Referring to the continuing FDA investigation, which after one year of monitoring all implants found no reason to suspend the procedure as unsafe, Drews calls IOLs an "overwhelming success."

with sandstone to resist erosion, the engineer explained.

Michael Rudloff, Brighton Engineering's chief engineer, supports Noon's assessment. "Proper consideration has been given to the anticipated runoff, and no problems are expected," he said in Frankfort this week.

What will be the benefit of improved flow in upstream areas, some critics wonder, as long as Beaver Creek remains choked up from Martin to the Big Sandy River? Especially in view of the proposed dredging of the Tug Fork in Pike county, some here say they are baffled and frustrated at the apparent inability of Floyd officials to have Beaver Creek rechannelled.

The prospects of flooding are "a big topic of conversation around here," according to Reg Rice, of Eastern. "We've never had flood insurance before, but we're going to have to buy it now," he added. Rice believes that, while channelizing Beaver Creek is the only solution, "snagging" the stream would at least provide a temporary remedy.

One site that some Right Beaver residents feel is especially susceptible to flooding as a result of the road construction is the Columbia Gas compressor station near Maytown. Plant superintendent Adrian Truesdell is not overly concerned. "Frankly, I can't see that we're in much more danger than we were before," he commented this week.

"But I am not familiar with the engineering details; we have no way of calculating these things," he conceded. "We are all guessing."

If the flood level were to increase by two or three feet, the plant could sustain "tens of thousands of dollars damage," Truesdell estimates, but adds hopefully, "Maybe it will only be up six or eight inches."

In the final analysis, Right Beaver communities are caught in an uneasy balance of resident fears and official assurances, and it appears that only time will tell which are justified. "We can only hope and pray that the engineers are right and we are wrong," says Irene Hayes. "It will be a shame if we have to prove them wrong, next time it floods."

that are organizing the parade realize what they're doing to them."

Phillip Damron, Prestonsburg attorney who served as finance chairman for the Brown campaign in the November campaign, said he first of all received from Robert Cobb, state Democratic party chairman, a letter asking him to select a band or float to represent the county in the parade. He selected Prestonsburg High's band, then transmitted the selection to Supt. of Schools Pete Grigsby, Jr., who in turn notified the school.

Mr. Damron said he had no notice of the change of plans till a Courier-Journal reporter called him about the turn of events. "Actually, I didn't receive a written notice of the change till yesterday (Monday)," he said. He added that the first letter inviting a school to represent the county in the inaugural parade was signed but that the next was not.

When he first learned that the invitation had been cancelled, Damron insisted that the band would go to Frankfort, but now he's not so certain.

"I had hoped that somebody could be found who is sensible enough to change this decision but so far I've failed," Rep. Stumbo said Monday.

Some band members pointed to the galling fact that Johnson Central High School's band, representing a county which polled a majority for Brown's Republican opponent last month, has been selected to play in the parade, along with Paul G. Blazer High School, Ashland, the other selection from this district.

Frank Metts, chairman of the inaugural committee, said the two high schools from each Congressional district were selected by two state university music professors whose names he said he could not recall.

June Stokely, assistant to parade chairman Dave Clark, said, "Prestonsburg is not the only one that is bothered by this right now. The whole state's up in arms." She added that inaugural officials have been flooded by calls from local, state and even federal officials. "It got to the point where we can hardly get anything done for taking calls from people about high school bands."

Beaver Creek Crossing Arouses Flood Fear

LOW-WATER CROSSING at Stephens Branch, above Martin, is one of five Beaver Creek fords—built as haul roads for the construction of the new KY 80—that have aroused fears of increased flooding among Right Beaver residents. Highway engineers say the fears are groundless.

Garden Yields Heavyweight Turnip

Narman Prater stopped by the Times office Monday to leave with us a monster of a turnip he raised in his garden on Abbott Creek. The big "purple top" weighed in at more than five pounds and measured 24 inches in girth. He said no special horticultural techniques were followed in raising the turnip, one of a number of extra large ones which have come from his garden this year. According to Prater he just has some "pretty good ground."

Columbia, Union To Resume Pact Talks Thursday

Contract negotiations between Columbia Gas and union employees will be resumed in Huntington, W. Va. today (Wednesday) after the deadline for an agreement last Friday midnight passed without a strike.

Representatives of two locals of the Oil, Gas and Atomic workers Union temporarily broke off negotiations last Friday night with the announcement that the last company offer would be submitted to union members with a recommendation by union officials that the offer be rejected. Later, however, it was decided to resume contract talks.

The new deadline for an agreement or work-stoppage is Friday midnight, Dec. 14. Meanwhile, union employees of the company continue to work.

Approximately 1100 company employees in Kentucky and West Virginia—meter readers, maintenance workers and others—are members of the union.

The main point of disagreement is wages. Workers were reported to be asking a wage increase of 80 cents an hour, the first year of the two-year pact, and 75 cents the next. Negotiations will be entering their fourth week of talks with the meeting tomorrow.

DIAMONDS

There is a difference in the quality of diamonds.

Are you buying diamond rings at a what you think are wholesale or discount prices?

When economic times get tough, a number of predictable things happen. One very unpleasant fact is that too many retailers or so-called retailers or "wholesaler-retailers"—take advantage of consumers' genuine desire and/or need for a bargain to cheat them blind. This is politely called deceptive pricing. In fact, it's stealing.

What these so-called discounters are doing is taking very cheap quality diamonds and marking them up two or three times more than what they are worth. Then they put them on sale and usually you pay more than what the ring is worth to begin with.

If you want to buy diamonds at a fair price and be told the truth about what you are buying, come to Earl Castle's Jewelry in Prestonsburg, Ky.

Martin Sewage Funds Okehed, No Work Begun

Five weeks after the Big Sandy ADD voted $45,000 from its area development fund for emergency repairs to the city of Martin sewage system, the repair work has not begun, ADD Executive Director Joe McCauley said Tuesday.

McCauley said he had been in touch with officials of the state Department for Local Government, which must approve applications for area development fund monies, and confirmed that nothing stood in the way of Martin officials' authorizing contractors to proceed with the work.

"It would probably help cut down the red tape if the mayor (of Martin) would declare that an emergency exists," McCauley said, adding, "I don't think there is any question that it is an emergency when EPA (the federal Environmental Protection Agency) is threatening to sue."

EPA is reportedly going ahead with its threatened suit against city officials, whom the agency is said to have described as "very slow, very recalcitrant in doing anything." The city missed several state and federal deadlines earlier this year, citing inability to obtain funding for the work.

The city's sewage has gone untreated since three of its six sewage pumping stations were disabled by the December, 1978, flood. Howard K. Bell Engineers, of Lexington, have negotiated with Nash and Stewart Construction Co., also of Lexington, to pump out the stations preparatory to their repair. The firm is said to be awaiting authorization to go ahead with the work.

To Be Married

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Campbell, of Allen, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter Susan Campbell to Mr. John D. Cummings, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Cummings, of Clearwater, Fla. Miss Campbell is a sophomore at Prestonsburg Community College.

Mr. Cummings is employed by the Dewey Bocook Engineering Co. at Paintsville.

The open church wedding will be solemnized Dec. 20 at 6 p.m. at the Allen Baptist Church.

It's a well-known fact that you don't stand under the mistletoe if you're playing hard to get. The little-known fact is that mistletoe itself is hard to get. According to the December Reader's Digest, it grows high up on deciduous trees—those that lose their leaves in autumn—and harvesters collect it either by spearing it with long fork-topped sticks or shooting it down with rifles or bow and arrow.

KEA Asks Release Of Hostages by Iran

Kentucky Education Association (KEA) president June Lee and members of the statewide teachers organization are joining a letter-writing campaign initiated by the National Education Association to let the Iranian government know that Americans support the U.S. government's activities to free the 50 American hostages now held in Iran. Mrs. Lee said KEA is urging other Kentuckians to join teachers in communicating that support by sending letters or telegrams to the Iranian Mission to the United Nations, 622 Third Avenue, 34th floor, New York, N. Y. 10017.

"The situation in Iran makes it critical for all Americans to support the efforts of the President to win the release of the hostages," she said.

State To Get Funds For Heat Cost Aid

WASHINGTON—Kentucky will be receiving about $20 million this winter to help those with low incomes pay for their heating bills, according to Senator Walter (Dee) Huddleston.

A Senate-House conference committee has agreed to include $1.3 billion in the Interior Appropriations bill for this purpose, and the bill should soon be signed by the President.

Huddleston, manager of the Senate conferees, said, "The appropriation was enacted on an emergency basis because winter is upon us and the increased heating cost will impact very strongly on those with low incomes."

The Kentucky senator said that those Kentuckians whose income is up to 25 percent above the poverty level could qualify for the funds.

"It is my hope that those qualifying for assistance should begin receiving it by late December or early January," Huddleston said.

State Probe Halts Army Depot Burning

FRANKFORT, Ky.—The Blue Grass Army Depot has ceased use of an incinerator and a landfill as a result of the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection's investigation into operations at the Madison county site.

Open burning of smoke canisters at the depot on Aug. 16 resulted in exposure of the surrounding area, sending more than 40 people to Richmond area hospitals for treatment.

Following the incident, Natural Resources Secretary Frank Harscher instructed his department to conduct a thorough evaluation of activities at the depot which could cause environmental harm.

Harscher said the department's investigation revealed that an incinerator and an unpermitted landfill were operating at the depot against state regulations. Referred to by depot personnel as a deactivation furnace, the incinerator was used to deactivate live rounds of ammunition.

A permit application for the incinerator was solicited by the department which must include all necessary information before operation can be considered permissible. Harscher said use of the incinerator and the landfill have ceased. When permit applications are submitted, the department will rule then on whether or not approve the operations, he added.

Drinking water samples from the Peytontown-area were analyzed by the Division of Sanitary Engineering staff, and no contamination due to depot activities was found.

According to Harscher, "All other facilities at the depot are now under proper permits to operate, and the department will continue its surveillance of all activities and related environmental problems."

In other findings in the department's investigation, the Division of Water Quality's evaluation of local streams proved satisfactory, according to the division staff.

Air Pollution Control division reported no evidence of pentachlorophenol (PCP) detected in any of the leaf samples collected near the area on August 17—the day after the incident.

The department has previously advised the Army officials that no further open burning would be allowed at the site until proper assessment could be completed. Data has been received and the Army advised that a case by case evaluation by the department's air pollution staff will be necessary before any future open burning is allowed at the depot.

SPENCER AUCTION Saturday, December 8—3:00 p.m.

We have been authorized to sell the following real estate and equipment on the above date and time. This tract of land is one of a kind and located in an area that will develop further as the traffic flow on the Mountain Parkway and the growth pattern in eastern Kentucky increase. This tract of land contains approximately 4½ acres and fronts on the Mountain Parkway right of way on the north side and on Highway 82 on the west side containing the southeast corner of the Clay City-Irvine cloverleaf of the Mountain Parkway. Landfilling this tract of land to highway level would enhance its value a hundred times over, but development potential is not limited to a landfill operation. This tract of land is absolutely one of the best opportunities to invest in a money making real estate venture that has ever been offered along the Mountain Parkway. There is a small barn, also a 1,049-pound tobacco allotment. We invite your inspection and inquiries.

Also selling will be the following equipment:

1 Ford diesel back-hoe and end-loader with 18-inch and 36-inch buckets, in good condition; 1 tag-a-long tandem trailer; 1962 Ford dump truck, single axle, 2-speed rear end, 6-yard bed; 1960 Chevrolet 5-speed with 3-speed auxiliary axle, live twin screw, 10-yard dump bed. These trucks are in good running condition.

Terms: Real Estate announced at auction time. Equipment, cash before removal.

First Wheelwright Business Site Sold

In the first sale of its commercial properties at Wheelwright to a private buyer, Kentucky Housing Corporation's field director Bob Murphy, right, accepts a check for $7200 from James A. Combs, center, and Earl D. Thornsberry. The two Kite men bought one of the town's vacant commercial buildings, which they intend to renovate and open as a grocery store next summer.

High interest rates have discouraged bidding on the commercial properties so far, but KHC has received "reasonable bids on a couple more properties" and hopes for further sales soon, Murphy said this week.

Cancer Answer Line

A regular feature prepared by the American Cancer Society, to keep you informed about cancer.

Q—"When cigarette smoke is inhaled, where does it go?"

A—Even when smoke is inhaled for just two to five seconds, approximately 80 to 90 percent stays in the mouth or in the bronchial tubes or air sacs of the lung. If inhaled smoke is retained for 30 seconds, almost none of it is expelled. Research in animals has shown that large smoke tar particles are deposited in the upper bronchial tree and smaller particles lodge farther down in the lung.

Q—"I don't know how to act toward my mother who has just had a mastectomy. Should I be sympathetic or pretend that nothing has happened?"

A—All women who have had a mastectomy (breast removal because of cancer) must confront the reality of their illness and surgery and then continue their everyday active lives. As your mother goes through this adjustment process, you can help by showing that you care. It is important not to be overly protective because your mother needs to feel as independent and competent as she has always been. If you wish, your local American Cancer Society Unit can arrange for either you or your mother to speak with an ACS Reach to Recovery volunteer, a woman who has had a mastectomy, has adapted well, and is trained to help patients and families cope.

Q—"Could you explain how much cancer might occur in a community like mine which has about 10,000 people?"

A—While this answer can be only the roughest approximation of actual data for your community, it is estimated that in a community of 10,000 some 43 people will be under medical care because of cancer in 1979. During the year, some 15 people will die of cancer. Of all of the people in your community at present, it is estimated that some 2,500 will eventually develop some form of cancer.

Q—"Can cancer be prevented?"

A—For some forms of cancer, prevention is possible. Most lung cancers are caused by cigarette smoking and many skin cancers are caused by frequent overexposure to direct sunlight. These very common forms of cancer can be prevented by avoiding their causes. Certain cancers caused by occupational-environmental factors—for example bladder cancer in dye industry workers—have been prevented by elimination or reducing contact with cancer-causing agents. The hope of cancer prevention keeps growing with advances in cancer research. However, proof of effective cancer prevention is available only for a few forms of cancer at present.

Gifts Available At Post Office

Postmaster Donald W. Osborne, of Prestonsburg announced release of the U.S. Postal Service's 1979 Commemorative Mint Set and this year's edition of Stamps and Stories, a Postal Service book on stamp collecting for the new collector and the experienced philatelist.

The 1979 Mint Set album contains all the 30 commemorative and special stamps issued by the U.S. Postal Service during 1979 (including the 1979 Christmas Stamps and a description of each). The 1979 Commemorative Mint Set is the latest in a series of annual sets of commemorative stamps released by the Post Office each year just before Christmas. The cover of the Mint Set features a montage of artwork related to the commemorative stamps. Inside the album are clear strips of acetate in which to mount and protect the collection.

The new full-color 6th Edition of Stamps & Stories—The U.S. Postal Service Encyclopedia of U.S. Stamps, is also on sale. The 256-page book relates more than 100 stories about U.S. stamps and is designed to introduce non-collectors to stamp collecting. The book also provides interesting philatelic information such as 1980 market values for the novice and experienced collector. Many of the stories in this new edition are new or have been changed substantially to illustrate a different aspect of an individual's life or of a significant historical event.

Stamps & Stories also contains information on price trends of selected stamp issues, catalogue numbers and current prices for souvenir pages and commemorative panels, and an index listing every U.S. postage stamp ever issued.

Postmaster Osborne also noted that a number of popular topical stamp collecting kits are available for beginning collectors. The kits feature topics ranging from "The World of Sports" to "Birds and Butterflies" and "Flowers." Each kit also includes a 20 page album, mounting hinges, insert sheets for additional stamps, and a 32-page booklet entitled "The ABC's of Stamp Collecting."

KENTUCKY AFIELD

By JOHN WILSON

Any Kentucky duck hunter who hasn't caught on to the point system by now is either a beginner or has been doing something very wrong for the past several years.

But if you've still got the point values for the various duck species memorized from last year, you'll have to remember only one change. Drake mallards, which cost you 35 points last season, are worth 25 this year.

This is welcome news, since the mallard is our most common duck. Hunters who select only drakes can harvest four mallards per day, instead of the three possible last year.

Other point values, in case you don't remember from last season, are: 100 points - canvasback; 70 points - hen mallard, black duck, wood duck, hooded merganser and redhead; 10 points - pintail, blue-winged teal, cinnamon teal, green-winged teal, gadwall, shoveler, scaup, widgeon and all mergansers except the hooded merganser; 25 points - drake mallard and all other ducks not mentioned above.

Coots have a point value of zero, but there is a daily limit of 15 and a possession limit of 30 on coots.

Under the point system, the daily bag limit is reached when the point value of the last duck taken, added to the total point values of the ducks already bagged, reaches or exceeds 100 points. The possession limit (after two or more days of hunting) is the maximum number of ducks of those species and sexes which could have been taken legally in two days.

Kentucky's duck season opened Nov. 21, with the first phase ending Jan. 25. This five-day season is designed primarily to allow some early shooting in the Mississippi River bottoms of extreme Western Kentucky, where if conditions are right some good concentrations of ducks can be found.

The season reopens Dec. 7 and runs through Jan. 20, 1980. The best waterfowl concentrations generally occur late in December or in January. Although ducks can be found over most of the state, West Kentucky offers the highest populations and the best hunting.

This year's goose season, which opened Nov. 12, will also run through Jan. 20. How rapidly geese migrate into Kentucky depends largely upon the weather—the nastier it is up north, the more geese move south. Late-season hunters usually find the highest numbers, and West Kentucky, along the Mississippi River, offers the best hunting.

Goose limits are set at five daily, with only two Canada geese or two white-fronted geese or one of each allowed in the daily bag. The possession limit is also five, with any combination which does not include more than four Canada and white-fronted geese in the aggregate, of which not more than two may be white-fronted.

Waterfowl hunters are required to purchase a Federal Migratory Bird Hunting Stamp (the formal name for what we all know as a "duck stamp") in addition to a valid Kentucky license. The duck stamp (available at all U.S. post offices) is required of all duck or goose hunters over 16 years old and is good anywhere in the country. Duck stamp money goes to acquire wetlands for waterfowl, so we shouldn't mind shelling out for the stamp, even though the price is up to $7.50 this year.

For a copy of this year's waterfowl hunting guide, which contains an identification chart to help you figure out which duck is which, write to Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, Division of Public Relations, 592 E. Main Street, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

Kentucky's quail hunters should find improved conditions in most sections of the state when this year's small game season opens Nov. 15, according to an annual survey conducted by the game management division of the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

However, quail numbers are still below average, the result of two severe winters which caused high mortality, particularly in areas with poor or marginal habitat.

August sightings of quail in the western portions of Kentucky were up 41.2 percent over last year, the survey shows. Eastern Kentucky scored a 40 percent gain, while the west-central portion of the state showed an increase of 11.4 percent. The Bluegrass was the only region to show a decrease. August sightings were down 27.5 percent from a year ago.

These results are from a survey in which cooperating rural mail carriers record the number of quail and rabbits they see on their regular routes. Separate figures are kept in June, July and August. Comparing results from year to year gives biologists an index of population changes.

"The June sightings were low this year," says Ben Burnley, the wildlife biologist in charge of collecting and tabulating the quail figures for this survey. "But the big increases in August over most of the state are encouraging and probably mean that there will actually be more quail than indicated by the three-month average figure of a 5.58 percent increase over last year."

"But how the individual hunter does," Burnley says, "depends largely upon local conditions. This survey covers broad areas of the state, and the hunter could find adequate numbers of quail in regions where the overall numbers are down—or low numbers where the overall population is higher. Where there is good habitat, there will be quail."

The same holds true for rabbits, Burnley says. Good habitat means high survival rates and higher populations. Rabbits did not suffer the drop in numbers that quail did, but populations are still below average. The survey shows overall statewide populations about the same as last year. Biologists predict that it will take at least another two years for quail and rabbit populations to reach what they were before "the winter of '77."

The first phase of this year's small game season runs through Nov. 30, when it closes for the December 1-3 deer gun hunt. From Dec. 4, the rabbit season runs through Jan. 21. Quail hunting will be allowed through Feb. 17. The limits on rabbits are four daily and eight in possession after two or more days of hunting. Quail limits are 8 daily and 16 in possession.

THINK ABOUT APPLIANCE NEEDS BEFORE CHRISTMAS SHOPPING

When it comes to Christmas shopping for mom, most families head for the appliance section of stores. And appliance manufacturers happily accommodate by providing everything from a mini ice cream freezer to an electric potato peeler. So long as we know mom doesn't have one, we often feel that Christmas is the time to buy her the latest kitchen "toy".

But before you start down the small appliance aisle looking for something she doesn't have, do some thinking about mom herself.

You may discover her lifestyle has changed since the good days when the kids were at home or when they were all young. Maybe mom has a new job outside the boundaries of the kitchen or she may be a part-time student these days. If that's the case, her present needs are decidedly different.

For example, remembering all those harvest-hand dinners mom once fixed, you may be inclined to buy her the largest size of an appliance—the large capacity slow cooker, the 12-inch electric skillet or the 6-quart sauce pan. Most likely mom may have enough "biggies" and she may now need the "minis". The small omelet pan or the 8-inch skillet or a set of small-sized casserole dishes, may better fill the niche of her present way of life.

As you look at small appliances, picture the kitchen "home" that it's going to. If counter and cabinet space are at a premium in mom's kitchen, she may want to forego the convenience of a new appliance instead of finding space to store it.

For example, food processors, a popular gift, should be situated conveniently on a counter top to enable access to versatility. But if the whole family is going together to purchase this gift, you may find that bringing her into the scheme of things is better than a surprise.

By talking with her and finding out if she wants to rearrange the kitchen or perhaps add counterspace by purchasing a small table or roll-around cart, the family can buy the kind of gift that will please and be used this Christmas and many more.

As you decide on the appliance, take a look at care and cleaning requirements. Are there many crevices to collect grease, requiring a lot of work to clean? Does the appliance do double-duty? Food processors and toaster ovens, for example, are great quick change artists.

Look for special features that will prove helpful over the lifetime of the appliance. Easy to read dials and an indicator light, which glows when the appliance is in use, are two beneficial features.

Other details to look for are base materials that are good conductors of heat, heat resistant handles and feet, detachable parts or accessories that are easily removed, cleaned and replaced and tight-fitting covers, doors or lids.

Be certain all electrical cords and appliances come with UL (Underwriter's Laboratory) seals. Additional information about the appliance you select can be requested by writing to the manufacturers.

A GIFT FOR ALL OCCASIONS A PASSPORT TO PLEASURE!

For that "just right" gift for someone special—give a certificate that will make a Kentucky State Park visit a passport to pleasure. A gift certificate in denominations of $10, $25, or $50 may be applied to the following at any of the 15 Kentucky State Resort Parks:

-  Lodge and cottage accommodations (subject to availability in the park of your choice)
-  Meals in dining room and coffee shops
-  Golf green fees, cart rentals, pro shop merchandise
-  Gift shop purchases
-  Camping fees, hookups, groceries in campground stores, swimming

Rhea Reflects on Rookie Season

By KENNY RICE

Wheelwright High product Vic Rhea is pleased with his first year as a scholarship football player at NCAA 1-AA powerhouse Eastern Kentucky University. Rhea worked hard every day in practice, sat in on the skull meetings and film sessions and did not play a minute in an EKU game but he is still pleased.

Rhea was a redshirt freshman, which means he still had the privileges and still had to sweat and strain like the other members of the football team. Coach Roy Kidd sees a lot of potential in Vic and rather than play him sparingly this season held him out of competition so that he can have four years of eligibility left and four years to play a large part in the EKU program.

"I think being redshirted this season will be better for me in the long run. I would rather have a chance to play four years instead of just playing a little bit this season and only having three years of eligibility remaining," Rhea said.

Vic has added 16 pounds to his 6-4 frame since arriving at Richmond. He now weighs 256 pounds and has the EKU coaching staff drooling over having a big, quick Rhea on the line next year. But will Rhea play on offense or defense?

"During the first half of the season, Coach Kidd was playing me at offensive tackle and the last half I was working at defensive tackle. He wanted to get a look at me on both offense and defense. I don't know where I'll play next season, I'm just working hard to play."

The move from high school to college went smoothly for Vic this season. He was somewhat surprised at how easily he adjusted to a college with 14,000 students after going to a high school with just over 200.

"Making the switch (from high school) wasn't a big change. I was looking forward to it and that makes a difference. I'm doing well in my classes. I haven't chosen a major yet, instead I'm taking general studies requirements. Being redshirted will help me in my school work also. I'll have an extra year of school this way."

"As far as the competition goes, it is a lot harder. There are a lot of big guys here, but I like competition, it makes me work harder. The only way to do well is to like something and work at it, that's my attitude."

Rhea worked with the "scout" team (the team that runs the offense and defense of the upcoming opposition so the first string can practice for the opponent) and the experience of going head to head with the starters has been helpful as he has learned about what it takes to be a starter.

"In preseason practice the coaches stressed agility and speed. We ran 40 and 20 yard sprints about 10 or 15 in a row. During the winter we work a lot on the weights. I'm going to work hard this winter on the weights. I want to be ready for spring practice. Quickness and strength are very important for success and I want to be ready for spring practice to make a good showing and get off to a good start for the next four years at Eastern."

That's what the EKU coaching staff had in mind when they redshirted Vic this season.

PRESTONSBURG GIRLS' TEAM
Prestonsburg's Kittens were ranked among the top 20 teams in the Commonwealth last season but with five gone via graduation, including four starters, from last year's 24-2 team, first-year coach Gary Hopkins is facing a season of rebuilding.

Prestonsburg has got off to a rocky start due to a lack of experience and poor shooting from the field. The Kittens have only one double figure scorer with senior guard Cindy Wells (5-6) tossing in 15 points per game. Barbara Crager (5-7 sr.) and Pam Dingus (5-6 jr.) are averaging 9 p.p.g., but the rest of the team has been lacking consistent scoring punch.

Wells is in her fourth year as a starter. She played a key role as a freshmen in helping Prestonsburg reach the regional finals. Cindy is hoping the younger players this season can come on and help Prestonsburg become a solid team by tourney time.

"Our inexperience has been showing early. I think we have been improving since preseason practice. Outside of Barbara (Crager) and me the other girls aren't use to playing with each other. I feel we are getting use to the other now and we are working the ball around better," Wells, an all-region player last year, noted.

Crager has moved into the starting backcourt spot opposite Wells after three seasons of being the sixth girl for the Kittens. She has second most varsity playing time on the team and is being counted on to help Wells out in the leadership role this season. Betty Hyden (5-3 jr.) and Bertha Burchett (5-4 jr.) provide backup help at guard.

Jane Pitts (5-9 jr.) has given Prestonsburg strong rebounding. She is joined on the frontline by Dingus and Brenda Music (5-8 1/2 jr.) at forwards. Music has helped out Pitts on the board while Dingus provides inside scoring. Drema Webb (5-7 jr.) has started at forward and is another good rebounder. Janet Dixon (5-5 1/2 fr.) and Cindy Shepherd (5-9 soph.) are gaining varsity experience and are expected to help out the frontline as the season progresses.

Prestonsburg has been impressive on defense and have held their own on the boards in most games this season. Wells needs to have some of the scoring load taken off her to enable the Kittens to be a threat by March.

Prestonsburg has played one of the strongest schedules among the county teams thus far with games against 13th Region power Clay County and 14th Region favorite Knott County Central. They have also played in two tournaments, the Preseason and the Betsy Layne Invitational, and they will be playing in the Paintsville Invitational in two weeks. This tournament exposure could be especially beneficial to the youngsters on the team.

"We have about six freshmen playing junior varsity who could come around and help out the varsity later on," Wells added. "Plus the girls on the varsity who didn't have much playing time before this season are coming around. I think it's just a matter of time before we'll be ready to make a run at getting in the regional tournament."

THE GRADE SCHOOL PICTURE

Osborne Elementary boys basketball coach Roger Johnson says this is shaping up into one of the most competitive races for the county championship in a few years.

"There are four real good teams right now. Clark, Wayland, Stumbo and Osborne are probably the favorites at this stage but throughout the county there are a lot of good ball players and the competition is always tough here. There are a number of good teams in the county that could come on before the tournament starts," Johnson said. "Floyd County has a fine, well balanced grade school basketball program."

Prater Girls Win Maytown Net Tourney

The Prater Cougars girls' team defeated the Martin Purple Flash 27 to 15 to win the Maytown Invitational Tournament. Prater advanced to the finals by defeating Maytown 44 to 33 in the opening game. Martin advanced with a win over Allen.

"The key to our success," said Sandy Boyd, the Prater coach, "was good free throw shooting and good rebounding by my big girl (Patricia Akers)."

The free throw shooting captured the Cougars the team free-throw trophy and co-captain Holly Jarrell, the individual free-throw trophy. Co-captains Kim Cordial and Holly Jarrell along with Denise Mulkey were chosen to the All Tournament team.

Individual scoring for Prater: Holly Jarrell 13, Kim Cordial 7, Denise Mulkey 5, Patricia Akers 2, Steffanie Dillon and Stacey Rowe were scoreless.

Individual scoring for Martin: B. Click 8, G. Marshall 4, P. Baldrige 2, S. Dingus 1.

The Cougars record stands at 6 and 2.

Seek Explanation of Star of Bethlehem

By RITA C. BOBOWSKI
Smithsonian News Service

Nearly 2,000 years ago, the three wise men saw a light in the heavens, signaling to them an event of the utmost importance. In the words of the Book of Matthew: "There came wise men from the east to Jerusalem, saying, where is he that is born King of the Jews? For we have seen his star in the east, and are come to worship him."

The brief mention of the Star of Bethlehem has intrigued scientists, historians and theologians for hundreds of years because, other than descriptions in the New Testament, there are no other known accounts documenting this apparently short-term celestial phenomenon.

Much speculation exists over whether there really was such a star, according to Von Del Chamberlain, an astronomer at the Smithsonian Institution's National Air and Space Museum. In an annual public lecture, Chamberlain traces the various theories advanced to explain the Star of Bethlehem.

"Most of us assume that the Christmas star was an extraordinary sight to behold," he says. "It may not have been so spectacular. Actually, it may have been an event which only professional star gazers—such as the Magi—would even have noticed. And, perhaps what the wise men saw was not really a single star at all."

One theory holds that the Christmas star was a comet. Early records kept by the Chinese mention a comet without a tail visible in the spring of 4 B.C., a date which fits the most recent estimates of the year in which Jesus was born. (Scholars now believe that Jesus was born between 8 and 4 B.C. Since our present calendar system was not instituted until the 6th century A.D., more than 500 years after his birth, errors in calculation are possible.)

But comets move slowly from night to night through the starry sky. Moreover, comets were believed by the ancients to be omens of impending doom, not harbingers of glad tidings.

Another theory has it that the star might have been an unusually bright meteor, called a fireball. As fireballs flash through the atmosphere, they burn with an intense but fleeting light. But ancient records and modern knowledge indicate that fireballs are fairly commonplace occurrences lasting only a few seconds.

A third and more tenable explanation is that the Star of Bethlehem was a "nova," which means literally "new star." Actually, novae are not new but old stars that have reached the end of their evolution and have become unstable. These exploding stars abruptly rise to great brilliance, then lose their luminance slowly over a period of weeks. "This theory has potential," Chamberlain says. "A nova could be bright enough and last long enough to lead the wise men on a long journey to Bethlehem."

"In addition," he continues, "a nova would certainly be the most dramatic explanation. What could be more exciting than to have a 'new star' appear on the night that Christ was born?"

One recent study of ancient Chinese and Korean records indicates that a nova may have appeared in 5 B.C., but there is no definitive account that such an event took place.

The theory most widely accepted by astronomers today was put forth in the 1600s by German astronomer Johannes Kepler. Kepler suggested that the Christmas star was really a "conjunction" of planets.

A conjunction occurs when two or more planets appear to pass by each other in the sky. Using ancient sky records, astronomers have verified that the planets Jupiter and Saturn appeared in conjunction not once but three times between 7 and 6 B.C.—a relatively rare phenomenon.

A conjunction would explain the lack of other records, since it most likely would have gone unnoticed except by those, like the Magi, who were trained to watch the sky.

A conjunction takes on even more significance when viewed from an astrological standpoint. The ancient astrologers would have considered conjunctions to be highly symbolic events. To them, conjunctions of Jupiter and Saturn held special significance—Jupiter, symbolic of the king of the gods, and Saturn, said to be the protector of the peoples of the eastern Mediterranean.

In 6 B.C., the planet Mars joined Jupiter and Saturn following the third conjunction, according to the records. All three planets appeared in the constellation of Pisces (the Fishes), which signified to the astrologers the House of the Hebrews.

While the triple conjunction is the most widely accepted theory, it is unlikely that we will ever know for certain what produced the Christmas "star." But whether the star was supernatural or part of the natural order of things, the story of the Star of Bethlehem has endured as a symbol of Christmas.

Opinion Says Judge Must Inspect Jails One Time a Month

County judge-executives must inspect their county jails at least once a month but do not have sole authority either to close the jail or to prosecute rule violations, according to an attorney general's opinion.

The fiscal court would have authority to close a jail, since the court establishes the rules and has continuing responsibility to furnish the facility, said Charles Runyan, assistant deputy attorney general and author of the opinion.

If a jail is closed, however, the fiscal court must provide another jail within a reasonable time as determined by the courts, according to Runyan.

The district court would have authority to prosecute violations of jail rules, according to the opinion. A violation of jail rules can only involve a fine of up to $250 but no imprisonment since the offense is outside the penal code, said Runyan.

A jailer who is breaking more than one rule is still only charged with one offense—violation of rules, he said. The jailer is not charged with a separate offense for each broken rule.

The opinion was requested by Carroll C. Fugate, Perry county judge-executive.

During the 1979 fiscal year, 39 major disasters were declared in 27 states, the largest number of disasters in any year since the Disaster Unemployment Assistance program began 10 years ago. The program is administered by the Unemployment Insurance Service in the U.S. Department of Labor's Employment and Training Administration.

Johnnie Caudill, Jr.

Junior was born Johnnie Caudill, Jr. to Maxie and Johnnie, March 26, 1923 at Gearheart, Ky.

He leaves his wife, Birchie; five sons, Eddie, Jeff, Ricky, Bobbie and Birchell Lee; two daughters, Myrtle Jean and Donna; seven grandchildren; seven brothers; four sisters, and five stepchildren whom he loved very much.

Junior was a kind, courteous person to everyone he met. He seemed to know people from all walks of life. He was always around when needed, at funerals, digging graves, visiting the sick, directing traffic and playing Santa Claus, since he had a special talent with little children—they all loved "Uncle June." He was a person who had a great desire to be needed.

Junior was only 56 years old when he left this life the 26 day of November 1979. He always talked about the Lord and was so humble. He left a good testimony because he told his family he was dying and was on his knees praying.

He was so full of love, especially for his wife and family, for his last words were, "Tell everybody I love them."

We, as wife, children, brothers and sisters have lost far more than we realize.

Although Junior wasn't a wealthy man financially, he was wealthy in many ways. He had many, many friends, and the most important part of Junior was he gave all he had—himself.

We, the wife, children, brothers and sisters of Junior Caudill wish to take this opportunity to thank everybody who helped out during his funeral, to everyone who did anything from giving a dollar to washing dishes.

We especially thank Dr. Hall, Dr. Moreno, the nurses that were on duty at the McDowell Hospital. They were most kind, not only to the family but were always kind to Junior. We thank the ministers from the Church of God of Prophecy, Ralph Hall, Wm. Sprinkle, Glen Hayes, Don Fraley, all the members and singers, Revs. Hugh Osborne and Harry Moore. We thank each one who sent flowers, food, money parked cars, those who sat up at the church, but most of all for your presence, because if Junior could have been there, he would have been so pleased and would have said well-done. May God bless each and every one for your efforts.

* Arrange to do the big cleaning tasks early in the week, so you don't have to spend Thanksgiving morning cleaning. Just touch up the bathroom and kitchen, using your vac's floor brush to pick up crumbs on the kitchen floor. And to insure a bright, fresh carpet when your guests arrive, include a last-minute vacuuming of frequently walked-on areas.

IN MEMORIAM

In Memory of Charles D. Hyden, who passed away December 8, 1978.

Your gentle face and patient smile With sadness we recall You had a kindly word for each And died beloved by all.

The voice is mute and stilled the heart, That loved us well and true, Ah, bitter was the trial to part From one so good as you.

You are not forgotten loved one Nor will you ever be, As long as life and memory last We will remember thee.

We miss you now, our hearts are sore, As time goes by we miss you more, Your loving smile, your gentle face, No one can fill your vacant place.

Sadly missed by his wife and children.

A 1400-year-old Greek Orthodox monastery nestled in the Sinai Desert houses the world's richest collection of Greek parchment manuscripts. Among the treasurers, the December Reader's Digest reports, are portions of 5th-, 6th- and 8th-century Bibles and 1000-year-old leaves from Homer's Iliad with a schoolboy's prose rendition scribbled between the lines.

When the high is gone, the pot is hot, warns the December Reader's Digest. It takes five to eight days for just half the mind-altering ingredient from a single marijuana cigarette to clear from the body. Scientists are only just beginning to assess pot's long-term damage, but it is extensive.

First Birthday

Ernie Christopher Moore celebrated his first birthday October 28 at the home of his parents, Ernie and Rita Moore, of Grethel. He received many gifts from friends and relatives who joined him on the occasion.

He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. James K. Hall, of Beaver, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Moore, of McDowell.

Rumors are most often born in business meetings, the December Reader's Digest reveals. Employees like them. Through the grapevine they learn about job openings, transfers and plain old gossip. Moreover, an authority on rumor estimates they're 75 percent accurate.

Fire Claims Nine Victims

Deaths of three persons in Knott county and two at Louisa brought to nine the number of area residents who have become fire victims in less than two weeks.

Two brothers, Benny and Ernest Harvey, ages 15 and 14, respectively, and their month-old niece, Charlotte Denise Harvey, died early Saturday morning in a fire which destroyed the home of Earl Harvey, Jr. near Kite in the upper Right Beaver Creek section of Knott county. That night, two adults, Mary Spencer and Chester Spencer, were victims of a fire in a Louisa home which they reportedly had moved into only a few hours earlier.

These deaths were preceded by a Nov. 25 fire at Kimper, in the Johns Creek section of Pike county, which claimed the lives of Fletcher Casey, 9, Wayne Casey, 8, Jason Lewis Morley, 2, and Gary Clifton Morley, 1.

In the Knott county blaze Earl Harvey, father of the baby-victim and brother of the teen-agers, suffered second-degree burns over half of his body, and his wife received minor burns.

At Louisa James Ray Spencer, husband of the woman-victim, was in serious condition Sunday at a Huntington hospital.

• Remember that floors located in high-traffic areas of your home, and particularly near entrances, need more constant attention than less-used areas, especially with wintertime salt and muddy feet. To keep dirt buildup away from these areas, and to prolong the life of your floor covering, cover it with a small, frequently washed throw rug.

Hangup Halts Home Haul

James Lawson, 32, ponders a too-familiar problem as trailer home is "hung-up" on pavement near Allen post office. Lawson, who was delivering the 70-foot trailer to an Allen customer for Lawson Mobile Home Co., soon rectified the situation.

Letters to the Editor

Says Letter 'Intemperate'

The Nov. 28 edition of The Floyd County Times contained an intemperate letter from Arbor Jones, of Prestonsburg, who attacked me as "loud of mouth, shallow of wisdom, way out in left field," and a promoter of "extreme left wing causes."

The letter constitutes a personal attack far removed from the consideration of issues. It seems to proceed from animosity towards me, which touches only upon the periphery of a letter I wrote to The Lexington Herald (Nov. 15) concerning the Iranian situation in an historical context. The same Mr. Jones responded to that letter in The Herald. Why then the additional venom in The Times regarding a letter in The Herald? What I noted in the Herald was that in 1953 the Shah returned to power by taking advantage of the CIA-organized coup against the Nationalist Prime Minister Mohammed Mossadegh. This is the widely held view, particularly in Iran. In 1957 the Shah created his notorious secret police, SAVAK, again with the assistance of the American CIA. Imprisonment, torture, and execution became the normal procedure as the Shah's response to divergent viewpoints.

Although the United States could not have envisioned how despotic the Shah would become, Iranians were conscious of American participation and presence in the Shah's government and business empire. Even as President Carter's sensitivity to human rights issues halted continued American support for the Shah, Henry Kissinger was protesting "abandonment" of the former dictator. Kissinger's role in this affair is lamentable.

It is a mitigating circumstance for the previous American administrators that if the United States had not entered into the situation, Russians opportunists would have exploited developments with their usual ruthlessness. Also, the West needed the oil and did meet the increasing price of it. Nonetheless, Iranians recognized the complicity of America, no matter how well-intentioned.

It was for this internal interference in their affairs that we owe Iranians an apology. Certainly we Americans would resent internal interference in our nation by Iran or any other nation. Obviously, nothing that preceded would justify the taking of innocent hostages. Certainly, we all pray for the release of all the hostages and normalization of relations between the Iranian and American peoples.

Commentators suggest that the present leadership of Iran is anti-Communist, as any practising Muslim would be. I am among the majority of Americans who are grateful for the calm leadership that President Carter has shown in this crisis. Invectives against the Ayatollah Khomeini (or editorials attacking him as a spiritual leader) would, at this time, not be helpful in negotiation.

To date, relatively little vengeance has been visited upon those formerly identified with the Shah. The Iranian revolution was remarkably restrained on the part of the popular forces inspired by the ayatollah. And to date, not a single American—or perhaps any foreigner—has died in Iran. It is language and emotion being used as tools now. I agree that restraint is the best answer, no matter how provocative. That is wisdom, not cowardice.

It is unfortunate that Arbor Jones feels the need to engage in character assassination because of a different point of view. I would ask him, in all fairness, to present even a shred of evidence that I "promote extreme left wing causes," as he claims.

FATHER WILLIAM POOLE
MARTIN, KY.

The Shah's Mistakes

Apparently the U.S. Congress, the U.S. Government and the United Nations organizations are going to accede to pressure from the Ayatollah Khomeini and investigate the Shah, as his conviction and condemnation seem assured. I may as well add my list of charges as well!

1. His foolish attempt to bring these primitive and backward people of the middle ages into a modern world by utilizing American technology and educational processes was criminal and not according to the Koran.
2. His close association with the pagan Americans and other Satanic people.
3. His liberal government which failed to take appropriate action which, if as cruel as his accusers shout, would have meant death or imprisonment for the Ayatollah and his followers before they could have done so much damage, and allowed the Khomeini Communists and other dissident groups to form a coalition which led to his ouster from power.
4. His prompt surrender of power and hasty departure from the country which undoubtedly saved countless Iranian lives, including probably his own.
5. His starting the OPEC oil cartel so that he could have more funds for the education and development of his people.
6. His becoming ill at a most inappropriate time, necessitating his return to the U.S.A. and precipitating the present crisis.

"Passport" Aims At Helping Elderly With Doctor Visits

Going to the doctor? If you're an older Kentuckian, you may want to take a passport.

It's not the kind of passport you need to visit another country. It's a booklet called a "Passport to Good Health Care." By filling out the booklet, older patients can provide physicians with information needed to treat medical problems.

The passport is part of a statewide educational program aimed at educating older persons in the prudent use of medicine. Through local training sessions featuring a 30-minute film, an information packet and other teaching aids, older citizens are learning about generic drugs, drug interactions and related topics.

The program is coordinated by the Department for Human Resources' alcohol and drug branch. Material is provided by the National Institute on Drug Abuse.

Since the project began this summer, 1,000 information packets have been distributed to comprehensive care centers, senior citizens centers and other interested groups. The Division for Mental Health is ordering more packets because of the heavy demand, said Verna Fairchild, acting director of the division for mental health.

Each training session centers around a 30-minute film. The movie dramatizes a visit by an older person to a doctor's office. In one segment of the film, the patient fails to tell the physician about symptoms and allergic reactions to drugs and forgets to mention medicines she already is taking.

A discussion then suggests ways to be better prepared for doctor office visits.

The program has many important points to make, Fairchild said. It notes, for example, that because some drugs react dangerously with others, it may be vital for the physician to know what a patient is taking.

The drug education sessions, scheduled locally through comprehensive care centers, are conducted either by comprehensive care staff members or by knowledgeable members of other agencies, such as senior citizens centers.

Says VA Pensioners May Qualify for More Money

Mrs. Mary G. Sindors, director of the Veterans Administration regional office in Louisville, says a number of elderly VA pensioners may be shortchanging themselves because they haven't reported all their 1978 medical expenses.

She says they have only until December 31 to advise VA of these expenses or lose forever pension money to which they may be entitled.

There are 24,601 veterans and 32,621 dependents in Kentucky receiving VA pensions. Mrs. Sindors estimates the potential loss to a recipient could run as high as $100 a month, depending on medical expenses.

The pensioners are primarily veterans or their survivors who chose at the end of 1978 to remain under what is now called the "old" VA pension plan because it was to their advantage to do so. Their pension rates were frozen at the end of the year.

According to the VA director a small group of pension recipients chose to switch to a more recent plan which offers higher rates to some pensioners, depending upon their individual circumstances.

The law permits members of either group to advise VA by the end of 1979 of any previously unreported medical expenses they had in 1978.

By taking these bills into account, the VA can increase the amount of pension the individual receives for non-service-connected disability.

The fact that approximately 15 percent of the veterans and survivors enrolled in the old pension plan have neglected to report all their medical expenses for last year was discovered in a recent VA survey.

BETSY LAYNE COMMUNITY NEWS

By PAULINET JONES

The annual Union Thanksgiving service was held Wednesday evening, Nov. 21, at the Betsy Layne Methodist Church, with pastors and laymen of eight churches participating. Several persons represented the Betsy Layne Free Will Baptist Church.

The message, delivered by the Rev. Bob Spencer, Sammy Clark Branch Baptist Church pastor, the inspiration, given through expression of the host pastor, Rev. Kaminski Robinson, Rev. Other inspirational songs were rendered by Mrs. Willie Caldwell and Mrs. Lorraine Smiley in a duet, and solos were sung by Mrs. Avery Harmon and Miss Carol Tackett. All in attendance joined in singing "Amazing Grace."

The planning for the annual service for the past few years has fallen on the shoulders of Rev. Proceeds from the offering taken was presented to the Betsy Layne Volunteer Fire Department.

Whitaker Exhibit Scheduled

Art works by Tom J. Whitaker will be on display December 6-11 at the Prestonsburg Community College library.

Whitaker holds degrees in art from Eastern and Morehead State Universities and presently is associate professor of Art at Prestonsburg Community College and owner of the Parkway Gallery and Frame Shop.

Although Mr. Whitaker works with various materials, drawings and watercolors are his favorites. "I get a freshness and spontaneity with these materials that work for me." His work reflects the somber, rustic beauty of Eastern Kentucky that he knows.

He communicates his feelings through paintings of dilapidated buildings, rocks, broken windows, local landscapes and portraits. "All of my work is about me," he says.

A reception with the artist present will be held Thursday, December 6, from 6-8 p.m. The public is invited.

What To Do When You Go into a Skid

Almost everyone over the age of 16 who wields the power of a driver's license has at one point or another found himself skidding out of control on a slick street or highway.

Since the first hazardous conditions of winter arrived this week, the state Department of Transportation offers a few tips on winter driving that will not only save you a few gray hairs, but might also save your life.

Although the vast majority of people who find themselves in a perilous skid can maneuver their way out of it, Transportation Department statistics show that in 1978 more than 20,000 motorists were not so fortunate. Many of these accidents could have been prevented if drivers had known techniques for combating the skids.

If you find yourself skidding on the pavement, perhaps the most important rule to remember is to keep calm. Take your foot off the gas pedal and steer in the direction the rear of the car is sliding. Next, straighten the wheels out quickly and remember not to brake or accelerate until the car is headed straight ahead again.

Studies have been conducted by the National Safety Council's Committee on Winter Driving Hazards on the best technique for handling a car on ice and snow. The following are tips offered by the committee:

—It takes from three to nine times as far to stop on snow and ice. Decrease your speed and increase your braking distance.

—Brake gently to test the pavement for slickness. Always accelerate slowly.

—Pump your brakes to slow down or stop.

—Think ahead. Plan your moves in advance before accelerating, turning and braking. And avoid any sudden motions.

—Remember that overpasses, underpasses and shaded areas are the first areas to freeze and the last to melt.

"Even the most cautious and experienced driver can get caught in a skid," according to the state transportation safety coordinator Bennie Maffet. "To avoid becoming another statistic, keep your head and follow the simple winter driving rules—and always wear your safety belts."

Learning More about Kentucky

How well do you know Kentucky? You can be a promoter for the commonwealth in your town or county, your neighboring communities and even on foreign soil, but first you must do your homework.

Kentucky's fame as a land of horses is well known, but who brought horses here more than 200 years ago?

A marker west of Vanceburg in Lewis county states that Col. Robert Patterson, William McConnell, David Perry and Stephen Lowry brought the first horses and cattle into northern Kentucky in 1775.

Kentucky ranks at the top in coal production. Do you know who discovered coal in the Big Sandy region?

Dr. Thomas Walker, on his mid-18th century exploration trip into this area, discovered coal on the Louisa (Levisa) Fork of the Big Sandy. In 1841, Richard Deering bought a tract of land from Samuel May and planned to begin mining coal. When Lt. Col. James A. Garfield reported to Gen. Don Carlos Buel at Louisville in 1861, he told the general about his teenyears' experience as a driver of a canal boat hauling coal to Cleveland. Garfield, later a U.S. President, while on his Big Sandy campaign said the coal would be transported by boat.

Thousands of Kentucky Boy Scouts know about Daniel Carter Beard. Beard (1850-1941) was the first national commissioner of the Boy Scouts of America. He lived in Covington where he also was an artist, author and outdoor enthusiast.

Do you know that in 1823 Kentucky founded the first tax-supported school for instruction of deaf children in the United States at Danville (Boyle county).

Do you know the first book, other than the Bible, brought to Kentucky is said to have been a copy of Gulliver's Travels? It is believed to be the source of the name Lubegrud Creek near the Clark-Powell county line. The name is a corruption of "Lorbrulgrud," and was bestowed on the creek by Daniel and Squire Boone, Alexander Neeley and John Stuart.

The Kentucky State Fair in Louisville is attended by thousands every year, but the first Kentucky fair was organized by Lewis Sanders on his farm in Fayette county in 1816.

You might not know Walter E. Scott as a native of Cynthiana, but you may know more about him as Death Valley Scotty, a California gold prospector. His desert home was said to be a $3,000,000 castle provided by a Chicago millionaire.

Caney Junior College in Knott county was renamed Alice Lloyd College after the death of its founder, Alice Geddes Lloyd. Mrs. Lloyd came to Kentucky from a Boston society home in 1916 to regain her health. She stayed on to found an important educational institution in a community named Pippa Passes, after a poem by Robert Browning. Visitors en route to a Texas museum with a lock of the poet's hair, once stopped at the mountain school so those there could see and touch it.

Do you know some isolated Kentucky families for years celebrated Christmas in January, a day now known as Old Christmas? (Edith James, of Prestonsburg, has led an annual observance of Old Christmas for years.-Ed.)

If you sing "Away in a Manger" to the tune of Robert Burns' "Flow Gently, Sweet Afton," you are singing music written by Jonathan E. Spilman, a native of Muhlenberg county who is also known as a lawyer and minister.

Do you know Jesse Stuart and Lillie Chaffin share honors as Kentucky's poet laureate?

Learning more about Kentucky can be fun. If you study legends, background, facts and lore, you'll find you not only know Kentucky better, but love Kentucky more.

Miss Amy Lynne Tackett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Tackett, of Grethel, celebrated her fourth birthday at her home Monday, November 26. Friends and relatives attended, and she received many nice gifts. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallust Reynolds, and Mr. and Mrs. Azzie Tackett, all of Teaberry.

Workshops Set For Teachers, Parents of Visually Impaired

"How to Grow Your Own Teachers" and working with parents of visually impaired students are two of the topics to be covered in a series of workshops conducted by the Bureau of Education for Exceptional Children.

The workshops are intended to help local school districts prepare plans for serving these students, said Julia French, director of the bureau's Division of Physically Handicapped.

The first item on the workshop agenda is a discussion of Public Law 94-142, which requires public schools to provide a free and appropriate education for exceptional children. These are youngsters who differ from normal children in one or more aspects of physical, mental, learning or emotional characteristics and cannot gain the maximum benefit from regular school programs. The law also calls for special education programs geared to the needs of the individual child.

Also covered will be information about the American Printing House for the Blind and how to order their materials and a discussion with parents on the problems they have had when their child was "mainstreamed" in regular classes. "People tend to overprotect a blind child; some parents have to tell school personnel to let the child do as much as possible—carry his or her own tray in the cafeteria, for example," Ms. French explained.

"We need more special education teachers," she said, "and regular classroom teachers tell us they want additional information so that they can be more effective in teaching children who are in their classes. These workshops address both topics."

The workshops are open to local school district administrators, teachers and parents of visually handicapped students. The bureau will pay each participant a stipend of $50 to help defray expenses for attending the workshops.

One workshop has already been held at Murray State University. Upcoming sessions are: Dec. 6 - Union College, Barbourville; Feb. 28 - Northern Kentucky University, Highland Heights; March 13 - Eastern Kentucky Comprehensive Rehabilitation Center, Thelma.

All three workshops begin at 8:30 a.m. local time. For more information on the workshops, contact Julia French, Bureau of Education for Exceptional Children, Kentucky Department of Education, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Ky. 40601 or phone (502) 564-5535.

Pharmacy Footnotes

Disorders of the gallbladder require the care of a physician. In some cases the disorders respond to diet and medication; in others, surgery is necessary to correct the difficulty. In any case, early treatment of the condition is more likely to produce favorable results. Self-treatment of symptoms with liver pills or other such remedies seldom reaches the cause of the symptoms. It is much better to have a physician determine cause and prescribe treatment before the disorder becomes severe. Uncomfortable symptoms can include nausea, bloating, and pain.

At COOLEY APOTHECARY, No. 2 Town Center Building, Prestonsburg, 886-8106, we know how painful a gallbladder disorder can be. Have your doctor call us with your next prescription. We'll have it ready to pick up with no waiting.

At COOLEY APOTHECARY we offer the most complete and professional prescription service in the area. We dispense only the very best quality ingredients available, for the money. Open for your convenience 9:00-5:30 PM Monday-Friday and 8:00-5:30 PM Saturday.

Ounce of Prevention For Winter Safety

As Old Man Winter rears his frosty head, it's time once again for Kentuckians to prepare their cars for the long months ahead. The Kentucky Department of Transportation offers several preventative tips to keep you moving during the year's most perilous driving season.

Winter's ice and snow bring several driving hazards that just don't exist during other seasons. Sometimes even a short trip to the grocery down the street can evolve into a major ordeal.

"The trick to surviving winter's driving hazards is being prepared for the worst—before something happens," said Bennie Mafnet, transportation safety coordinator. "If you apply some common sense to your preparation and either know a reliable mechanic or service your vehicle yourself, chances are you'll make it through the season unscathed."

The initial step in automobile winterization is making sure your car is in top condition. The National Safety Council's Commission on Winter Driving Hazards recommends a "fanbelt-to-tailpipe" inspection to insure that your car is in good working condition.

A good exhaust system is especially important for winter driving as a safeguard against carbon monoxide poisoning. In the winter we drive with the windows rolled up, and a minor exhaust leak can be fatal even if the car is in motion.

Brakes need to be checked to make sure that each wheel has equal braking ability to avoid skids on ice and snow. Tires must have good treads for control and pulling power, and air pressure must be readjusted for cold weather.

Visibility is sometimes drastically reduced in winter, so having good, clean headlights and taillights on your car is imperative, as are effective windshield wipers.

Even after you've checked all the mechanical parts of your car, you'll need a few other things to make it through the perilous driving season.

The Transportation Department suggests that a number of items be kept in the trunk of your car in case of emergency. These include booster cables, steel link tire chains, a traction mat, rock salt, shovel, safety reflectors, tow chain, window scraper, heavy gloves and extra winter clothing.

Stumbo Among New Legislators At Pre-Legislative Conference

Rep. Gregory D. Stumbo (D-Prestonsburg) was among the 25 newly elected legislators who met Nov. 18 at Kentucky Dam Village for the opening session of the 1979 Pre-Legislative Conference. The first day of the conference consisted of a series of orientation workshops to familiarize the new legislators with the workings of the General Assembly.

The pre-session legislative conference was the first official function for the freshmen legislators since their election Nov. 6.

"The structure of the conference starting with the introduction workshops to educate the new legislators, then blending with the veteran legislators we'll be serving with, followed by the election of the leadership will serve to give us a gradual, although rapid, education," said Stumbo.

"This conference and what information we glean from it is vital to the efficiency of the 1980 legislature," he said.

Stumbo said he is concerned about the future of Eastern Kentucky. "In the area of education, our teachers are good but our facilities are severely lacking. In transportation—another area lacking," said Stumbo. "Eastern Kentucky needs to have a stronger return on the coal severance tax for roads. We need to be allowed to utilize coal as a resource instead of draining an area of a resource and getting nothing in return."

Although he hopes to see coal and its industry as an advantage to the area he hopes to "attract and promote other types of industry to Eastern Kentucky" which aren't coal related, he said.

"If we are to progress in the state of Kentucky as a whole, then the eastern portion of our state must be made a more attractive place in which to both live and establish businesses and industry," he said.

Rep. Stumbo is seeking membership to the Labor and Industry, Agriculture and Natural Resources, Transportation and Education committees.

Collecting Interest in Collector's Plates

By Bryna Brennan

It's an art form. It's exciting. Some consider it a hedge against skyrocketing inflation. For whatever reason, plate collecting has attracted some two and half million devotees in the United States alone.

Collector's plates are limited edition decorative plates made solely for the purpose of collection. Although most of the collector's plates are china, some of them are silver, gold, copper or pewter.

It all began back in 1895 with a Christmas plate issued by the Danish porcelain maker, Bing & Grondahl; with this small blue and white plate, a tradition was born. Folklore has it that the custom of collecting plates dates back hundreds of years to when wealthy landowners presented Christmas foods to the common people on beautifully decorated wooden plates. After the food was eaten, the plates were kept to kindle the Christmas spirit throughout the year.

Ever since that first Bing & Grondahl plate, entitled "Behind the Frozen Window," the manufacturer has issued a Christmas edition collector's plate. That original plate, which depicts Copenhagen's skyline through an iced window, sold for 50 cents. Today the hand painted plates are valued at $3,170. There were 400 plates made and it is believed that most of them are still in existence.

In 1908, another Danish firm, Royal Copenhagen, issued its "Madonna and Child" plate and started its Christmas series. Plate collecting was slow in coming to the United States. As the Danes emigrated here they brought collector's plates with them, but it wasn't until the 1950s and early 1960s that the interest in collector's plates grew.

In 1965, Lalique of France, a crystal company, issued an etched crystal plate of two entwined birds, "Deux Oiseaux." The plate, which originally sold for $25, soared to more than $1,700 in a little more than a decade. And it wasn't even a Christmas plate. Over the next five years, limited edition collection plates depicted all sorts of scenes at all times of the year.

By 1972 the market of collecting plates was in trouble. As more and more makers entered the market, plates of inferior design began surfacing. Quality declined; quantity rose. Less reputable manufacturers and speculators entered the market, often with little or no study of plates or of the market for them. Following Franklin Mint's success with the first silver plate, manufacturers flooded the market, causing the price of silver to fall. Dealers panicked and several closed their doors as the prices for all plates dropped.

But the industry contends that the "Crash of 1972" was beneficial to the true collector. The get-rich-quick manufacturers were forced out of the market and quality once again prevailed.

Plates are not only collected, they are traded on a market similar to the stock exchange or commodity markets. The Market Index, which is the "Dow Jones" index for collector's plates, issues a bi-monthly report listing the high, low and current values for every plate listed on the Bradford Exchange. You can trade or sell collector's plates on the market.

Here are some guidelines, compiled by the Bradford Exchange, to help evaluate collector's plates:

- Is the manufacturer known for fine workmanship and continuity of other series?
 - Is the art created especially for this plate by an artist of note? Is the subject of broad appeal?
 - Is the edition limited yet not too limited to create a market? If the edition is closed, are dealers still bidding?
 - Is this plate one of a series or merely a single issue?
 - Can you get it at issue or while the price is still rising?
 - Is it issued in association with a government or an official nonprofit organization?
 - Does it commemorate a seasonal or historic event?
 - If made of metal, is it solid silver or gold? If glass, is it 24% lead crystal? If ceramic, is it true hard-paste porcelain, or fine or bone china?
- To learn more about plate collecting, or to buy or trade plates, write to the Bradford Exchange, 9333 North Milwaukee Avenue, Niles, Ill. 60648.

Concerns of Ky. Youth To Air on KET, Dec. 11

The questions and concerns of Kentucky's young people are addressed on "The People's Voice," Tuesday, December 11 at 7:30 p.m. (ET), 6:30 p.m. (CT), on KET.

KET producers visit a student conference held recently at McCreary County High School, where student government representatives from 11 schools in the district discuss common problems ranging from drug abuse and alcoholism to student apathy. Students, independent of teacher or administrator supervision, lead discussions and interact with each other.

The program also highlights a session on juvenile justice from a conference on Kentucky's Children: A United Concern, held in Louisville during October.

The legal rights of children and their representation in the courtroom are discussed by a panel of experts including Rebecca Westerfield, attorney and board member of Kentucky Youth Advocates; Jeanne Block, research director, Kentucky Youth Advocates; and Allen Button, attorney, Juvenile Section, Jefferson County Public Defender's Office.

In future segments, "The People's Voice," a forum for the ideas and concerns of the people of Kentucky, will address such topics as the coal industry and Cincinnati's impact on Northern Kentucky.

Cousteau Explores The Nile, on KET

The Nile, the 4,000-mile river that flows from the mountains of Central Africa to the Mediterranean, has sparked the imagination and daring of explorers for centuries.

Sunday, December 9 at 8 p.m. (ET), 7 p.m. (CT), Jacques Cousteau and his crew begin an odyssey down this exotic river in Part I of "The Cousteau Odyssey," on KET. Part II airs the following evening, Monday, December 10 at 9 p.m. (ET), 8 p.m. (CT).

During this two-part edition of "The Cousteau Odyssey," the last program Philippe Cousteau participated in before his death in June, 1979, the Cousteaus and their film crew follow the rugged course of the Nile from its headwaters to the Mediterranean Sea.

Focusing primarily on the effects of man's intrusion upon nature, the explorers find some startling examples of places where nature will not give way to man.

On one excursion in the Sudd, the explorers meet two tribes, the Dinka and the Shilluk, who have managed to protect their cattle from the tsetse fly. This infamous fly may well be the savior of most of the wildlife in the area, for only this pest has kept man from taking over all the grazing land in Central Africa from its wild inhabitants.

The first segment of "The Cousteau Odyssey" on the Nile comes to a close at Khartoum, where the White Nile joins the Blue Nile as it flows from Ethiopia. At this confluence, the Cousteau journey is just over halfway in its long descent to the Mediterranean.

In Part II, the explorers take a close look at some of the changes brought about by the introduction of technology along the river.

★ Consumer Comments ★

By ROBERT F. STEPHENS
Attorney General

With the price of fuel rising rapidly, the thought of heating your home with low-cost, wood-burning heaters has probably become more attractive.

Modern technology has brought the wood heater a long way from the pot-bellied stove of yester-year. However, before you shop for a wood heater, the Consumer Protection Division of the Attorney General's Office feels you should know how to compare wood heaters so the one you purchase fits your needs.

There are two basic types of wood heaters: radiant and circulating. Radiant heaters have a single wall between the fire and the room. This wall gets hot and radiates heat into the room.

Caution is necessary around radiant heaters. Because of this, radiant heaters are not recommended in homes where small children live. To reduce the likelihood of fire, furniture should be placed at a distance from the heater.

Circulating heaters have a second wall which surrounds the firebox. Air is heated between the walls and then passes out into the room. Some models have blowers which force the air to circulate.

Circulating heaters can heat several rooms fairly evenly. However, they generally cost more than other heaters.

The most efficient wood-burning stoves have devices which burn the small particles and gases wood releases as it burns.

Another aid to efficiency is the thermostatically controlled damper. These dampers automatically open and close to maintain a selected temperature. Therefore, the fire burns more evenly and efficiently.

Safety is a "must" with wood-burning heaters. Select a heater which has been approved by an independent testing group such as Underwriters Laboratories.

Before you install a wood heater, contact your local building inspector and your home-owners insurance agent to find out what requirements you must meet.

After your heater is installed, never let children play near the heater and never use chemicals to start a fire. Don't burn trash or man-made logs in your heater; they can damage your unit. Always keep a fire extinguisher handy, just in case.

Creosote buildup is always a danger with wood-burning heaters. Creosote is the "tar" that accumulates inside the chimney. Creosote buildup can be a definite fire hazard. A roaring fire in your heater once each week will burn out creosote before it gets thick enough to be dangerous.

You can get maximum economy from your wood heater by carefully choosing the wood you burn. Hardwoods, such as oak, provide more heat per log than softwoods, such as pine.

Avoid buying green wood unless you can store it for six months before burning. The cheapest way to get wood is to cut your own. To find out where you are allowed to cut your own wood at no cost, call your forest service.

If you have consumer questions or complaints, write the Office of the Attorney General, Consumer Protection Division, Frankfort, Ky. 40601, or call the toll-free consumer hotline at 1-800-372-2960.

LAWTON RAY ALLEN - PLAINTIFF
 VS. JUDGMENT
 WELDON LUGINBYL DEFENDANT
 VS. DEFENDANT
 THREE-M PRODUCTS SALES, INC. INTERVENING PLAINTIFF

This cause came before the Court upon an original Complaint filed on 6-23-77, seeking actual damages on behalf of the Plaintiff for various alleged breaches of a contract of October 1, 1976, between Plaintiff and Defendant, whereby Defendant purchased an on-going Certified Public Accountant business in Prestonsburg and Martin, Kentucky. The Defendant, answered timely, said complaint, setting forth that the Plaintiff was in default of said contract, as a defense thereto and counter-claimed the amount of $50,000 for damages resulting to the Defendant by Plaintiff's defaults and $150,000 for damages resulting from slander. The Defendants further asserted as a defense that the contract of October 1, 1976, was so "permeated with misrepresentations and fraud as to be contrary to public policy and said contract should be voided." Three-M Products Sales, Inc. intervened in this action, being a creditor of the Plaintiff, seeking to recover monies owed to it from Plaintiff and/or Defendant.

On Nov. 9, 1978, counsel for the parties hereto appeared before the Court upon a motion for the Plaintiff, to dispose of all pending motions before the Court, including a Motion for Interlocutory Judgement. Said motion was passed and a conference was held between the Court and counsel for Defendant and Plaintiff, whereby said counsels agreed to proceed and dispose of this matter by deposition. Pursuant to that agreement, depositions were taken by both parties, and on July 19, 1979, Plaintiff moved to amend its pleadings to conform to its proof and seek specific performance of the October 1, 1976 Agreement. Further, on June 8, 1979, the Court ordered the parties to appear for pre-trial hearing on June 12, 1979, at the hour of 9:00 a.m. and no appearance was made on behalf of either Plaintiff or Defendant. Thereupon, the Court took this matter under advisement, and having reviewed the record makes the following Findings of Fact, Conclusion of Law and Judgement:

FINDINGS OF FACT

On or about June 1976, Lawton Ray Allen, Plaintiff herein, was engaged in business of Certified Public Accountant, with offices located in Martin, Kentucky and Prestonsburg, Ky. During that period of time, the Defendant Weldon Luginbuhl came in his employment, as a Certified Public Accountant, and began to undertake responsibility and various duties for the running of the office. That approximately on Sept. 15, 1976, Defendant and Plaintiff herein entered into at least a verbal agreement, somewhat preliminary in nature, whereby Defendant would purchase from the Plaintiff, his on-going practice. On Oct. 1, 1976, a copy of which has been introduced herein, and agreed between the parties to be accurate and identified as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 1.

That under that agreement, Plaintiff agreed to sell to the Defendant, all files and right to do business with clients, all equipment and fixtures of the business, all accounts receivable, billed and unbilled, as of October 1, 1976, all other business assets, tangible or intangible, including post office box, leases, telephone numbers, and good will, as well as all bank accounts, including the First National Bank in Prestonsburg and the Citizen's Bank of Jackson. The weight of the evidence clearly indicates that said items were delivered.

The purchase price, as agreed between the parties was $150,000 with specified installments of payment thereupon. The evidence is undisputed that the time table for payments was breached after only one installment, $10,000. With late payments included, the Plaintiff testified that he had received $18,436.74 through the date of the giving of his deposition. Although this amount was disputed by the Defendant, no documentation was presented by the Defendant to establish a different figure, indicating that $131,563.26 remained owing upon said agreement.

In conjunction with the agreement of October 1, 1976, a list of accounts payable was prepared by the Defendant herein, and is included in the evidence as Exhibit A attached to Exhibit 1 for Plaintiff. By his own testimony, Defendant established that the only accounts payable thereupon that had been paid as of the date of the giving of his evidence was Martin Gas, Prestonsburg Water, Prentiss Hall, Betty Hall, Dynatax, Fountain Corner Drug. The Defendant also testified the indebtedness to the Internal Revenue Service had been paid, although that matter is disputed by the Plaintiff herein.

Therefore, the Court finds that the Defendant did agree and has failed to pay all other vendors listed upon said accounts payable list included in Plaintiff's Exhibit 1 reference to which is made as if copied at length herein, and which will be recited again in the final Judgement below. The Court further finds that the Defendant did agree to pay and is obligated to pay on behalf of the Plaintiff, all sums owed to the Internal Revenue Service, through 7-14-76 totaling $4,070.00, as well as any late payments or interest bearing thereupon.

Defendants proof presented no competent evidence in violation of the covenant not to compete, being that the same was heresay and timely objected upon by the Counsel for the Plaintiff herein (Luginbuhl depo. p. 8). Further, no showing or proof was made as to liable, nor damages attempted to be proven. The Court further finds that the further allegations of the Defendant as to the Plaintiff's failure to deliver good title to certain files referred to as the "Ray Allen heirs" property is without merit, being that Plaintiff's Exhibit 1 in the testimony of the Plaintiff, reflected that the Plaintiff was aware of a debt obligation to the estate of Ray Allen and his heirs, that was merely estimated, to be at a round figure of $18,000 (Luginbuhl depo. line 18-23, p. 23), whereby he testified that he understood the money was owed to the Ray Allen heirs and that the $18,000 was "estimated" subject to further records to be delivered at another time. This was further corroborated by the testimony of Gill Gwen, apparently representing the Ray Allen estate, whereby he testified time and again that they desired to assert no interest in the files nor re-possess them. Therefore, the Defendants title to the files was never questioned, but only the payment of the debt thereupon which he agreed to pay by his October 1, 1976 agreement.

In regard to the intervening complaint of Three-M Business Products Sales, Inc., the Court finds that the same is due and payable by the Plaintiff herein to the third party Plaintiff, in the amount of $2,006.39, plus 6 percent interest per annum from July 14, 1978, and that Defendant herein did agree in said October 1, 1976 agreement to pay $135.10 thereupon and is obligated thereon the same.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

That on October 1, 1976, Plaintiff and Defendant entered into a bonafide and enforceable contract whereby Plaintiff has made substantial compliance with his requirements thereunder and the Defendant has failed or refused to comply with his obligations.

2. That the Plaintiff is entitled to specific performance thereunder.

JUDGEMENT

WHEREFORE, in consideration of the foregoing, it is hereby ORDERED and ADJUDGED as follows:

- That the Defendant is to pay unto the Plaintiff the sum of $131,563.26 plus 6 percent interest from 6-23-77.

Before You Take a Bough, Check One Superstition About Christmas Holly

'Tis the season to deck the halls, but before you bring home boughs of holly you ought to know some of the history and superstition surrounding that tough, prickly-leaved, berry-bearing plant, according to the current issue of National Wildlife magazine.

Since the days of the ancient Celts, magical powers have been ascribed to holly, the National Wildlife Federation bi-monthly reports. And one legend holds that weather conditions at the time Christmas holly is brought in will determine who runs the household—the husband or the wife.

Holly's use as a decoration dates back to the Druids, a religious order that thrived in pre-Christian England and France. "These woody priests considered the plant's eternally green leaves proof that the sun would never desert them," the magazine explains.

The early Romans extended this tradition by hanging holly indoors during the feast of Saturnalia, a mid-winter festival celebrating the return of longer days. Early Christian converts also adopted this ritual by designating Christmas Eve as "templum exornatum"—"temples are adorned." It was forbidden to bring any greens into the home before that night.

"Because of this ban on early decorating, many Christians believed that bringing holly into a house too soon would cause family quarrels and misfortune," National Wildlife says.

As Christianity spread, so did holly legends. In one tale, the plant was said to have had white berries until the Nativity. When a visitor broke off a branch of a holly tree growing outside the Bethlehem stable and offered it to the Christ Child, the baby pricked his finger on the sharply pointed leaves. "Horribly embarrassed, the holly blushed and its berries have remained red ever since."

Another holly superstition was promoted by Pliny, the early Roman naturalist. He asserted that a wild animal could be subdued merely by throwing a stick of holly at it. "He also alleged," notes National Wildlife, "that holly flowers could make water freeze, and that if the tree was planted near a house it would protect the inhabitants from bad weather, poison, and witchcraft."

Medieval English physicians thought holly berries could cure colic, but patients who followed their doctors' advice sometimes died from the violent vomiting the berries induced. Holly leaves, however, are harmless when roasted and brewed for tea. The brew was often drunk by South American Indians, who thought it gave them extra strength.

The subject of all these legends comes in more than 200 varieties, including some that lose their leaves each autumn. Nearly two dozen species are found in the U.S., the most common of which is American holly. This variety once grew thickly in forests throughout the eastern U.S., but now only a fraction of those wild stands remain, according to National Wildlife.

Like other varieties, American holly trees are single-sexed. Only the female plants produce the scarlet berries, and not until they are at least 8 years old. The berries are food for mockingbirds, thrushes, robins, blue-birds, and many other animals.

"Beneath its rough gray bark, holly wood is chalky white and hard as rock," says National Wildlife. Once prized by cabinetmakers for its indestructible quality, the plant is now considered a nuisance because it's tough enough to break a chainsaw.

Most of the holly boughs seen at Christmastime come from English holly, which grows wild throughout much of southern Europe. It was imported into the Pacific Northwest by a group of British immigrants and now about 1,000 acres in Washington and Oregon are used to cultivate the plant and fill our Christmas decorating needs.

It was imported into the Pacific Northwest by a group of British immigrants and now about 1,000 acres in Washington and Oregon are used to cultivate the plant and fill our Christmas decorating needs.

If you contribute to the $3 million Christmas holly industry, maybe you'd better check the weather first. An old Irish Catholic legend has it that if holly is brought inside during fair weather, the wife will rule the household forevermore. But if boughs are brought in during a storm, the husband will be master.

Capital Investment Hits Record High

Capital investment in manufacturing operations in Kentucky is at a record level of more than $1.3 billion for the first 10 months of 1979, Commerce Commissioner Carroll Knicely announced this week.

Knicely said plans have been announced for the establishment of 39 new manufacturing plants, representing a total investment of $1,149,010,000, since he became commissioner of the department in January.

In addition, 230 existing plants have announced plans for expansions totaling $182,274,969, he said. The largest investment in new and expanded manufacturing operations in any previous year came in 1977, with a total investment of $623,725,000.

William Short, secretary of the Kentucky Development Cabinet, said the record figures reflect the strong emphasis placed on industrial development to provide jobs for Kentuckians and to stimulate economic growth.

"This investment of more than $1 billion in new plants also shows a growing recognition of the value of Kentucky's central location and the many other advantages the state offers to manufacturers seeking an industrial site," Short said. He commended Knicely for the department's increased efforts to attract industry to Kentucky and the reorganization of some divisions to provide better services to industry.

Knicely noted that the capital investment in new plants from January through October is already more than double the previous high of $506,818,000 for new manufacturing plants, exclusive of expansions, set in 1970. Expansions that year came to $80,526,400 for a total investment of $587,344,400.

The new plants announced this year include a major coal-conversion facility to be located on the Green River in Daviess County, Knicely said. The plant is a joint venture between private enterprise and the federal government, he added. The facility will convert high-sulfur coal into a clean-burning fuel.

Tom Fields, director of industrial development for the Commerce Department, said the other new plants are primarily concerned with metal working and plastics and will be located throughout the state.

The new manufacturing plants and plant expansions announced this year will create approximately 8,000 new jobs when they are completed and in operation, he said.

Knicely said the total investment in manufacturing operations in Kentucky during the past five years comes to $3,275,275,000. This figure is more than in any previous five-year period, he said.

In addition, industries which provide supportive services to manufacturing, such as power plants and centers for warehousing and distribution, have announced plans for more than $2.6 billion in new and expanded operations in Kentucky during the past five years, the commerce commissioner said.

Earnings Gap Between Men, Women Persists

The Women's Bureau of the U.S. Department of Labor has issued a revised edition of "The Earnings Gap Between Women and Men." According to the publication, women have to work nearly nine days to gross the same amount that men gross in five days.

The latest earnings data, which are for 1977, show that among full-time workers employed throughout the year, men earned $14,626 while women earned only $8,618. This indicates that women earned only 59 cents for every dollar men earned.

The data also show that the differential has remained at about its present level since 1961, in spite of the employment gains women have made in recent years. The gap is wider, however, than it was in 1955, when women earned about 64 cents for every dollar men earned.

The publication discusses factors related to the earnings gap, such as the concentration of women in low-paying traditional jobs and the large number of new entrants to the labor force who are in or near the entry level of jobs. Differences in the occupations and industries in which women and men are employed, their educational attainment, and work experience are highlighted.

Single free copies of the publication are available from the Women's Bureau, U.S. Department of Labor, Washington, D. C. 20210. The publication is for sale at $1.50 a copy from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402.

Perkins Promises Fight On Social Security Tax

"The proposed tax on Social Security benefits is nothing less than immoral," charged Congressman Carl D. Perkins. "Such a tax will cause needless suffering among our elderly and disabled. Many retired persons barely have enough money for decent food and housing. The reduction of even a few dollars a month will mean that our elderly will be forced to cut back on their purchase of food and other necessities."

"Over the years the Congress has worked to insure that those who worked to build this great nation will be able to live in dignity when they retire. This is a right which our elderly have earned through their sweat and toil," Perkins said. "The Advisory Council's proposal is an affront to human decency. It is an affront to every working person in this nation."

"I shall fight this proposed tax every step of the way," Perkins vowed. The Advisory Council on Social Security has recommended that one half of a recipient's Social Security cash benefits be subject to federal, state and local income taxes.

Our Fragile Earth

By DR. JERRY HOWELL
Director of Environmental Studies
Morehead State University

The Fourth Annual Governor's Conference on the Environment was held in mid-September, 1979, at the Executive Inn in Owensboro, Kentucky. The three-day affair was entirely devoted to discussions of Kentucky's environmental problems and their solutions.

In addition to an employee awards luncheon and one at which environmental awards were given to individual citizens and groups, there were a total of 12 two and one-half hour panel sessions on various topics. The sessions covered the Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act, wood as an energy source, energy and air pollution, environmental management, dam safety and flood control, citizen participation, solid waste management, energy facility siting, hazardous waste, alternatives for coal, safe drinking water, and water quality management.

Coal production, use and distribution dominated several of the sessions.

James Joseph, Undersecretary of the Interior, said coal was the best hope for future energy independence, but that the Carter administration would resist efforts to weaken the 1977 federal strip mine law. Mr. Michael Koleda, Executive Director of the President's Commission on Coal, said that some alternatives to oil, such as conservation, solar energy, and synthetic fuels, would not make a quick difference in our energy dependence, but that coal would.

Hazardous waste, an acknowledged problem in Kentucky, was also thoroughly discussed at the conference. Governor Carroll said a rough draft of Kentucky's new hazardous waste regulations had been reviewed, and was ready for his signature. The disposal of hazardous wastes will be addressed during the next session of the Kentucky legislature, according to State Senator John Berry of New Castle, a panelist during the hazardous waste session.

During the session on using wood as an energy source, Michael Kubica of Wickliffe's Westvaco Corporation, Kentucky's only pulp and paper mill, said that a new wastewood boiler at the facility will use 70 tons of bark, slabs, and sawdust per hour or about 1,000 tons per day. On a yearly basis, the boiler will save nearly 20 million gallons of fuel oil and will save the company four million dollars. It will also meet all air pollution regulations.

At the Governor's Award Luncheon, McCreary County received the outstanding solid waste management award, the Kentucky Association of Conservation Districts received the award for distinguished service in improving the quality of life and protecting Kentucky's environment, the Green Coal Company of Owensboro and the Rebel Coal Company of Auxier were honored for their stripmining reclamation efforts, and Jon Rickert, of Elizabethtown, was honored for his efforts in getting the Kentucky Nature Preserves Commission created. Some 15 other awards were also given.

KET Profiles Dark Side of Mark Twain

"Mark Twain: Beneath The Laughter," a one-hour teleplay dramatizing the dark side of the American writer's character, airs on KET, Monday, December 10 at 10 p.m. (ET), 9 p.m. (CT).

The drama, co-authored by Gill Dennis and Larry Yust, features re-creations of incidents from the life and work of Mark Twain, which explain the origin of his increasingly pessimistic view of human nature.

Actor Dan O'Herlihy, known for his performance as Robinson Crusoe in "The Adventures of Robinson Crusoe" and for his portrayal of FDR in the film version of "MacArthur," plays the title role.

"In the popular imagination, Mark Twain has become a caricature," says producer Jeffer. "Too often Twain is associated solely with freckle-faced boys wearing straw hats and toting cane fishing poles. Though Twain carefully cultivated his image as a humorist, there was also a dark side to his genius."

The drama begins in 1909. It's the Christmas season and Twain, an old man at age 74, returns from Bermuda to Stormfield, his home in Redding, Conn., to spend the holidays with his daughter, Jean. But on the morning of Christmas Eve, Jean suffers a fatal heart attack.

Twain retreats into the privacy of his study and there broods on his life and work. He recalls a montage of real and fictional events that help explain his feeling that Jean "has been enriched with the most precious of all gifts—that gift which makes all other gifts mean and poor—death."

"Mark Twain: Beneath The Laughter" is repeated on KET, Sunday, December 16 at 4 p.m. (ET), 3 p.m. (CT).

To Wed December 22

Mr. and Mrs. James A. Duff, of Hueysville, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Rita Ann, to Larry Joe Osborne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Osborne, of Harold, Kentucky.

Miss Duff is a graduate of Allen Central High School and a senior at the University of Kentucky, majoring in business education.

Mr. Osborne is a graduate of Betsy Layne High School and the University of Kentucky. He is presently employed by Citizens Bank of Pikeville.

The wedding will be solemnized December 22, at 4:30 p.m. at the Church of Christ in Hueysville. The gracious custom of open church will be observed.

A reception will be held immediately following the wedding at the church.

Floyd County Health Notes

By JANETE HICKS
Health Educator

A Pap smear clinic will be conducted Friday, Dec. 7, at the Floyd County Health Department from 8:30 to 11:30 and 1 to 2 p.m.

In order to have continuing protection against cervical cancer, a woman must have a Pap test at least once a year.

On Monday, December 10, the regularly scheduled Wayland Outpost clinic will be conducted in the basement of the Wayland Methodist Church from 10 to 12 noon and 1 to 2 p.m. Services offered at this clinic will include immunizations, TB skin tests, diabetes screening, and blood pressures.

Also, on December 10, a glaucoma clinic will be conducted at the health department from 10 a.m. to noon and 1 to 3 p.m.

All persons age 35 and older are invited to attend this clinic to be screened, free of charge, for glaucoma, a disease that can slowly and painlessly cause blindness.

Beginning in December, the Mud Creek Outpost clinic will be conducted every second Wednesday in the month. This month the clinic will be on Wednesday, December 12 at Hamilton's Kentucky Store at Teaberry. All these clinics are free, and the public is welcomed.

How To Start
The Savings Habit.

Pay Yourself First

Many of our customers have discovered a very unique, but effective way to develop and maintain the savings habit. Instead of trying to save what remains from the weekly paycheck (usually nothing) after living expenses are taken care of, from your checking to savings account. After a while you don't even miss this money, and before you know it, you will have established a healthy nest egg. It's quick and easy to get started. Simply drop by the bank and ask about automatic transfers.

Types Of Savings Instruments

Some of the difficulty, no doubt, in establishing a regular savings habit lies in understanding the various savings vehicles a full service bank offers. These include regular statement account, certificates of deposit, and Christmas Club. With a statement account, you can deposit or withdraw regulation requires you lose 90 days' interest if the maturity is less than one year, or 180 days' if the maturity is greater than one year. With a Christmas Club you make regular payments throughout the year. You receive your check in early November in plenty of time for the Christmas shopping season.

Getting Started

The best way to judge which savings plan you need is to check the rules governing each of these accounts. If you would like our assistance, we will be happy to explain our various savings plans and help determine which best serves your savings goals. Why not start saving today?

these customers look at savings as another bill they must pay. In other words, savings is an expense which has to be paid regularly just as the mortgage payment, the car payment, and the doctor's bill.

Another very popular way to start and continue the regular savings habit is through our automatic transfer plan. Upon your authorization, we can make regular automatic transfers money at any time. With a certificate of deposit (CD), you make a commitment to keep a specified amount on deposit for a specific length of time, but you earn a higher rate. If you withdraw your money early, Federal

Lawmakers Hear Water Problems

"People should not have to check the faucet to see if there is water in the system before they put clothes in the tub or flush a commode," state legislators whose districts include the five counties of the Big Sandy ADD were told at a May Lodge meeting last week.

ADD staffer Roger Recktenwald briefed the legislators on the services of the Water Resources Assistance Corporation, a technical assistance group offering management and maintenance services to the area's water systems.

The group is currently responsible for the operation of the Mud Creek water system and expects to enter contracts in the coming year with other Big Sandy systems, especially some of the smaller systems which lack the experienced management and equipment needed to maintain uninterrupted service to their customers.

Inexpert management of smaller systems is a nationwide problem, caused by "the feds handing out loan monies without knowing how the loans are going to be repaid," Recktenwald said. As long as federal departments like EDA and HUD, rather than private lenders, are holding the bonds, he explained, there is no pressure on management to provide the services which justify collection of fees. "The result is that the person up the holler suffers," he said.

The Water Resources Assistance Corporation, which was formed about a year ago out of the Big Sandy ADD office here, is said to be the only organization of its kind in this state. Funded by the National Demonstration Water Project, the non-profit corporation was described by Jack Branham, board chairman of the Sandy Valley Water District, as "one of the finest things I've seen come out of Washington." Branham serves as one of the two Floyd county representatives on the WRAC board. Bill Harvey Howard, Prestonsburg utilities superintendent, is the other.

State legislators attending last Wednesday's briefing included Senator-Elect Benny Ray Bailey, Sen. Woodrow Stamper, of West Liberty, and Rep. William Blair, of Paintsville.

Officers Arrest Six During Raids

Sheriff's deputies and state troopers have joined in making six liquor raids since last Friday, with as many arrests and the confiscation of 76 pints of whiskey, three cases of whiskey, 104 half-pints of whiskey and vodka, 62 cases and 879 cans of beer.

Beginning last Thursday, Deputy Sheriff Gillis Conn arrested Billy R. Newsome, of Grethel, and booked him on a transporting count after confiscating 240 cases of beer. Next day, the same officer arrested Paul Keathley, also of Grethel, on a charge of transporting and confiscated 52 cases of beer and three cases of whiskey.

James "Dukie" Poston, of McDowell, was arrested Friday by Deputy Sheriffs Randall Lewis and Phillip Neeley, who confiscated 51 half-pints of whiskey and 103 cans of beer. He was charged with illegal possession. Sheriff Doug Lewis and Deputies Randall Lewis and Phillip Neeley and State Trooper T. Hall arrested George Hamilton at his home at Melvin Saturday after finding 536 cans of beer and 53 half-pints of whiskey and vodka in a car parked in his yard. The auto, officers said, was licensed to Branham's Used Cars at Bypro, and a warrant was issued for Roy Branham.

Sheriff Lewis and deputies, Randall Lewis and Phillip Neeley, with State Troopers R. Castle and W. Scott, found 23 pints of whiskey in a search Saturday of the premises of Chester (T.Y.) Jarrell on Sugar Loaf, and also confiscated 53 pints after a search of the property of Diana Lewis on the same creek. Both were arrested on possession charges and District Judge fined the woman $100 and costs and placed her under $500 cash bond for one year after she had entered a plea of guilty.

In an earlier raid Deputies Phillip Neeley and Gillis Conn arrested William R. Wells, of the Auxier road, Nov. 21 after confiscating 10 cases of beer.

Report Recommends Statewide Banking

Statewide banking can induce economic growth and provide better consumer services, according to a study presented last week to members of the Governor's Economic Development Commission.

The study, prepared by Dr. L. Randolph McGee in the Department of Economics at the University of Kentucky, says that new branching through merger would create the most competitive banking structure in Kentucky.

Kentucky's banks currently are limited to branching within their home county.

The study states that lifting geographical restrictions would allow the public to receive better allocation of loanable funds, greater variety and better services, more banking facilities and an efficient means of shifting excess loanable funds to areas where the demand is strong.

A banking structure that permits competition and permits banks to increase in size so they can provide more public services is the most conducive to economic development, the study states.

Compared to other states with fewer banking limitations, Kentucky continues to have a relatively large number of small banks and relatively few large banks, McGee said in the study.

"Larger size enables banks to employ more personnel with specialized skills and to make a greater proportion of their loans to large businesses without neglecting the needs of the small customers," the study states.

"Some growth-inducing factors associated with a banking system are bankers' willingness and ability to assist local officials in attracting new industry, being able to anticipate local financial needs and the introduction of financial innovations," the study says.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON PETITION FOR ZONING CHANGE

Notice is hereby given that on December 13, 1979, at the hour of 5:00 p.m., at the new Prestonsburg Municipal Building, located on North Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky, a public hearing will be held before the City Planning and Zoning Commission on the Petition filed by Tom G. Dingus to amend the zoning regulations from R-2 to C-3, on the following described property:

Lying and being in the City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, beginning at the southwesterly corner of the lot this day conveyed to first party by second party, said point being 100 feet from the right of way line of Court Street, and in the property line of the Jo M. Davidson lot; thence running in a southerly direction with the property line of Joe M. Davidson, Paul B. Francis and W. B. Boyd a distance of 305 feet to the right of way line of Westminister street; thence in an easterly direction with the right of way line of Westminister street to the property line of Mrs. Spradlin; thence in a northerly direction with the Spradlin, Hershel Graham and Carter and Powers lot; known as the Turner lot, and Powers heirs line to the northeasterly corner of the lot this day conveyed to first party by second party, said point being 100 feet from the right of way line of Court Street; thence in a westerly direction with the line of said lot a distance of 105 feet to the place of beginning. The right to use a 12 foot driveway entrance where now located across the lot lying between the above property and Court Street as a means of ingress and egress to the above property, and to maintain their gas and water line as now located is granted to above property, and to maintain their gas and water line as now located is granted to second part, his heirs and assigns. It is understood that the right of ingress and egress conveyed herein is to be located adjacent to the Davidson line except it necessarily has been relocated because of a garage and walnut tree. If and when either or both of these obstructions are removed then the easement shall follow the Davidson line.

A certain tract or parcel of land lying in Prestonsburg, Floyd County, Kentucky, on Court and High St., and being same land conveyed to the first parties by Ethel C. Powers, widow, by deed bearing date, June 23, 1952, which is duly recorded in Deed Book 151, page 197, Floyd County Court Clerk's Office containing acres more or less.

This same tract of land was deeded by Edith C. Kendrick to Cecil Kendrick by deed bearing date August 5, 1979, which is recorded in Deed Book 202, page 447, Floyd County Court Clerk's Office. Cecil Kendrick became deceased on or about and left this property to Edith Kendrick, deceased to Elizabeth Goble by Will, and Elizabeth Goble has subsequently transferred this property to Tom Dingus by Deed dated _____, which is duly recorded in Deed Book _____, page _____, Floyd County Court Clerk's Office.

For cause, the Petitioner states that there have been major changes of an economic, physical, and social nature within the area involved which were not anticipated in the Commission's comprehensive plan, and which has substantially altered the basic character of subject areas.

It's the Small Miner Who's Hit

By LEE MUELLER
(In The Lexington Herald)

Not long ago, John Y. Brown Jr. — positioned carefully on the edge of his seat in the back of a helicopter— confessed two things.

"I'm a bad flier," he said, lighting up another Kent.

And, yes, said Brown, exhaling, "At one time I thought about getting into the coal business. We talked about it for quite a while, but I decided I didn't know enough about it to take the risk."

Brown stared at the floor of the helicopter.

"You know," he said, looking up, "here's been a lot more money lost in the coal business than there has been made."

A growing list of former Kentucky coal operators these days will testify to the wisdom of the governor-elect's decision.

The list contains "about 20 or so coal companies in both straight bankruptcy cases and reorganization cases," said a source acquainted with the U.S. district bankruptcy court in Lexington.

While the industry languishes in a prolonged market slump, observers in and outside the industry are writing off the small operator as a factor in Kentucky's coal business.

"I think the day of the small operator is over," said Lexington attorney Shelby Kinkead, "and I think most people agree with me."

One of Kinkead's clients, Paul Wells of Wells Coal Co., Hyden, pleaded nolo contendere this week in U.S. District Court to five counts of failing to account for and deposit federal taxes withheld from his employees, a misdemeanor.

Wells was fined $1,000 on three counts and placed on a one-year probation by Judge Eugene Siler in Covington.

Wells' company at one time employed 80 persons in Clay County. His financial troubles began late last year, said Kinkead, and he filed for reorganization assistance in federal bankruptcy court here. His problems continued, however, according to Kinkead, and were "a part of everything that normally precipitates the bankruptcy of a small company."

The problems apparently are widespread.

"We're losing at least two a month to Chapter XIs (the federal bankruptcy act)," said an Eastern Kentucky lawyer this week in bankruptcy judge Joe Lee's office here.

Joe T. Roberts, of London, is an attorney who has handled several bankruptcy filings for coal companies in Clay, Whitley, Knox and Pulaski counties. "At times, there are five or six a month," he said.

Attorney Maxie E. Higgason of Corbin filed for a bankruptcy petition for four small coal companies owned by one corporation recently.

Another Corbin lawyer, David Smith, who also works as a coal broker, is an official in the Kentucky-Tennessee Coal Operators Assn.

"We're losing about two companies a month from the association through bankruptcy," he said, "while the market seems to be getting worse. Business is horrible. We're selling compliance coal—high Btu, low sulfur—but we're seeing no demand for it. Most of the operators don't see any relief until next summer or fall."

Operators frequently blame the lack of a national policy on the use of coal and strict federal and state regulations for the slump. Other sources, however, place the blame elsewhere, even on the operators themselves.

"Many people who mine coal apparently don't know much about marketing it," said the bankruptcy court observer.

Elements—both competitive and regulatory—apparently have combined to make survival a struggle for many of Kentucky's smaller coal companies.

Fixed operation costs, inflation, complex government regulations, the increased cost of meeting those regulations, declining coal prices, and competition from large, oil company-owned mines all create problems for small operators.

"A heck of a lot of know-how now has to be exercised," said Dave Zeeger, a Lexington mining engineering consultant.

"When the coal boom hit in 1974, an operator could go in and make 15 mistakes and get by with it. It's not that easy now. A lot of bad decisions can wreck you, especially when your tonnage is not that great."

Fixed costs are a serious problem for small operators during a slump.

"One company in court recently had agreed to pay a minimum annual royalty of $144,000 in increments of $12,000," said the bankruptcy court source. "If you're not selling any coal, obligations of that amount are difficult to meet."

"Some companies don't own equipment at all," he said, "but pay between $30,000 and $60,000 to lease it."

Fuel costs and inflation are heavily felt among small operators, who—for the most part—run strip mines.

"I've got 18 bulldozers," said an operator Wednesday. "Our fuel costs have gone up 100 percent; our parts about 40 percent."

"Three years ago, it cost about $60 a man per day and $100 a shift for fuel. Today, a man gets $110 to $120 per day, including benefits, and fuel costs about $200 to $220."

Meanwhile, the operator said, the price of coal has dropped more than 10 percent in the last year.

An unstable coal market also tends to force small companies to bid against each other for sales, he said, which drives down prices.

ENLISTS IN AIR FORCE

Delano Hagans, son of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip D. Hagans, of Rt. 2, Langley, enlisted in the U.S. Air Force, November 21st, according to T-Sgt. Jim Brooks, Air Force recruiter at Ashland. A graduate of Allen Central High School, he is scheduled to report for active duty, December 17. Upon graduation from the Air Force's six-week basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, he will receive technical training as a munitions maintenance specialist, which he selected. He also selected Japan as his country of choice, where he will be stationed after training. Hagans will be earning credit toward an associate degree through the Community College of the Air Force while attending basic and other Air Force technical training schools.
