Extension Notes

There's More to a Salad than Lettuce!

County Extension Agent for Home Economics

Anyone who has visited a grocery store lately knows that the price of head lettuce is sky high. And as a result of the farm labor troubles in California's lettuce growing valley, the price will shoot even higher.

What can you do if the cost doesn't fit your budget? Try substituting other salad greens that are more reasonably priced.

Fresh spinach, Chinese cabbage and endive are a few possibilities. Or stretch salad greens with other raw vegetables, like shredded raw carrots, broccoli or celery.

Or you may decide to forget about tossed salad until next summer when you can grow leaf lettuce, bibb or some of the other varieties in your garden. In the meantime, serve vegetable or fruit salads.

Three-bean salad made by combining canned green and yellow beans and red kidney beans is one possibility. Cabbage and grated carrot slaw is economical and nutritious. Fruit salads which combine some fresh fruits with canned are good, and for variation try a molded vegetable or fruit salad using unflavored gelatin.

THREE-BEAN SALAD

- 1 can (16 oz.) green beans
- 1 can (16 oz.) yellow wax beans
- 1 can (16 oz.) red kidney beans
- 1 large sweet red onion, sliced thin
- 1/2 cup thinly sliced green pepper
- 3/4 cup vinegar
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/4 cup salad oil
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1/2 tsp. pepper
- 1/2 cup thinly sliced green pepper

Drain beans and place in large bowl. Add onion and green pepper. Blend vinegar, sugar, salt, pepper and oil together. Add to vegetables, toss lightly and chill 12 to 24 hours. Serves 8 to 10.

Fresh broccoli is available all year at a reasonable price. It is usually cooked as a vegetable but also makes a good salad.

FRESH BROCCOLI SALAD

- 1 pound fresh broccoli
 - 2 tablespoons vinegar
 - 1 tablespoon soy sauce
 - 1 tablespoon salad oil
 - 1 tablespoon sesame seed, toasted
 - 1 teaspoon sugar.
- Cut broccoli stalks lengthwise into uniform spears. Half spears crosswise. Steam 5-7 minutes, or till just done. Drain; chill broccoli. In screw-top jar combine vinegar, soy sauce, oil, and sugar; cover and shake to mix well. Drizzle vinegar mixture over broccoli; toss gently. Sprinkle with toasted sesame seed. Makes 4-6 servings.

PLATFORM OBJECTIVES

February 21, 1979, Floyd County Times:
THE TEN COMMANDMENTS IN SCHOOLS

February 28, 1979, Floyd County Times:
10 MAJOR OBJECTIVES ON COAL

Watch each week for our other Platform objectives.

MY 10 MAJOR OBJECTIVES ON SPORTS

1. STOCKING STREAMS
 Begin at once to work with the Fish and Game Clubs to stock our rivers and streams with game fish (Big Sandy River, Right and Left Beaver Creeks, Kentucky River and its tributaries).
2. GAME BIRDS
 Begin at once to explore every avenue possible to bring wild turkeys, pheasants and other game birds to our mountains. I have never believed that these game birds aren't suited to our area and will work toward experimentation to prove that they are suited.
3. FOX HUNTING
 Will work with the associations to further this great mountain traditional sport. We will make every effort to control the needless destruction of the red fox population. At the present rate of destruction they will soon be extinct.
4. GOLF
 Will address myself to making the State Park golf courses more interesting. Improve and re-open the club house at Jenny Wiley Golf Course and:
 Make more supplies available;
 Make available a small coffee shop;
 Install a public phone booth;
 Promote golf in the area.
5. SQUIRREL HUNTING
 Will work with Fish and Game Clubs to correct the split squirrel season—especially in the years when deer hunting is not allowed in our area.
6. 'COON HUNTING
 Will make every effort to stock our mountains with "fish tail" raccoon. With our perfect terrain our people should not have to travel hundreds of miles to hunt and in most cases drive back home when they are sleepy and tired. This is long overdue!
7. BASEBALL
 Will begin at once to see what can be done so that every team in the district has an adequate playing field. There are areas in the district where the playing fields are very poor. This is at least fifteen years late.
8. BASKETBALL
 Make every effort to keep the State Basketball Tournament in Lexington. Do everything possible to cooperate with the superintendent's office and the schools to further promote their athletic programs including all sports.
9. ALLEN RECREATIONAL PARK
 Look for ways to cooperate and aid the new park at Allen.
10. VISITS TO SPORTS FACILITIES
 I promise that I will do my best to visit as much as humanly possible every sporting situation in the county and stand ready to aid in any way I can in all sports situations.

METHODIST WOMEN MEET

"Wake us up Lord" was the topic of devotions presented by Mrs. Douglas L. Brown at the monthly meeting Tuesday at 7 p.m. of the First United Methodist Church women at the home of Mrs. Walter Applegate.

Mrs. Brown used Matt. 28, verses 1 to 10 as her reference and told the group, "We all need to be doing." Prayer was offered by Mrs. Arthur Bradbury.

Mrs. Jess Stover, president, announced Spiritual Life Retreat at Christ United Methodist Church, Ashland, April 7, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., with Rev. Raymond Gibson as speaker. Officers training day will be held at Prestonsburg Community Methodist Church March 18 at 2 p.m.

Minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. George D. Brown, and treasurer report was given by Mrs. James J. Carter.

Bonnie Applegate, hostess, served refreshments to Dorothy Stover, Karen Goebel, Hope Witten, Christene Ball, Katherine Stevens, Gertrude Bradbury, Mable Brown, Roslyn Burchett, Geneva Carter, Ruby Clark, Eleanor Horn, Ina Mae Hereford, Mary Jane Brown.

CONCLUDES VISIT

Mrs. Thomas Lemaster has returned to her home here following a visit with her daughters, Mrs. Ed Wingham, Mr. Wingham and children, of Dayton, O., and Mrs. Fred Setser, Mr. Setser and children in New Jersey. Mrs. Lemaster's mother-in-law, Mrs. Florence Reynolds also spent some time with the Wingham family, has also returned home.

A STATEMENT FROM JERRY LAFFERTY, JR.

As we begin this campaign for County Judge-Executive, I want to voice my support for a united Democratic party and a united Floyd County people. It has been said a journey of one thousand miles must begin with a single step. When I am elected your County Judge-Executive, I will take that first step to help bring our people together again. I will work in harmony with all of our elected officials to promote progress for our county. I will not use my office to support or oppose any other Democratic candidate for public office. We as Democrats need to concentrate on the many assets that unite us, instead of belaboring the few problems that some would divide us.

Since I believe you need and desire to meet all your candidates for public office, I plan to campaign full time, meeting as many of you as possible prior to the election. I urge you to ask your neighbors and friends about me. Then I believe you will decide to vote for me for County Judge-Executive.

Your Friend,
 JERRY LAFFERTY, JR.

The Romance of Pepper

By NEVYLE SHACKELFORD
(UK College of Agriculture)

In this quaint and picturesque region of Appalachia there is an irreverent little folk tale about an old mountaineer who, finding himself in dire economic straits one day, decided to take his troubles to the Lord.

Getting down on his knees he informed the Lord that his wife and children were desperately hungry and had been existing for days on nothing more than meatskins and scalded bread made from dried whiteoak acorn meal.

"Oh Lord," he prayed, "send us a barrel of flour so we can make us some gravy."

Then thinking he needed something with which to flavor the gravy, he added: "Oh Lord send us a barrel of pepper."

At that point his wife who had been kneeling with him broke in: "Land sakes, Rafe," she said, "that's too much pepper."

"Not to worry," her husband replied. "If we get it, we can always swap it."

And no doubt but that he could, since from time immemorial black pepper has been an item of trade and sought almost as eagerly as gold. In fact, during the Middle Ages it often served as currency and was accepted as legal tender in payment of debts.

History reveals that the great popularity and demand for pepper helped spark world exploration and was once cause of the discovery of America by Christopher Columbus. Sailing westward in search of pepper and other spices of the fabled Indies, Columbus did not find what he sought. Instead, he discovered a new world.

This condiment which has flavored so much history and exerted such an influence on early commerce, is native to the Indo-Malayan region. C. R. Roberts, University of Kentucky Extension horticulturist, says it is unrelated to the sweet and the hot varieties grown in our gardens. The berries are harvested before they are ripe, dried, ground, placed in small boxes and sold in grocery stores around the world. Sometimes the peppercorns are marketed whole for use in pickling and for those who like to grind their own.

In early times black pepper had two important uses that are of little import today. It was in great demand to make overripe and tainted meats more palatable and for use as a medicine for treating fevers. Although refrigeration and antibiotics have lessened the need for pepper in these two categories, the great demand for it is still extant. So great, in fact, that very few, if any, kitchens exist throughout the land that do not have a box or two of black pepper in the cupboard.

During World War II, as many housewives will remember, black pepper all but disappeared from the market and to get a box, a customer had to know somebody who knew somebody, and then pay an outrageous price for what he got. The price was usually paid with a minimum of complaint because gravy just isn't gravy without being dusted with ground black pepper.

Actually few other items of trade and commerce have been of such significance as black pepper. In addition to the uses already mentioned, it adds to the piquancy of bland foods, keeps skippers away from curing hams, banishes certain species of lice and flies, and according to the Universal Botanical Guide and Reference, is valuable in the treatment of a "languid state of the stomach, dyspepsia, colic, and intermittents."

In the technical lingo of botany, black pepper is classified as "piper nigrum." It is a product of a climbing or trailing shrub and its sharp, biting taste comes from an acrid resin and oil it contains. It is one of the most favored of household condiments.

MAY METAL EMPLOYEE SUFFERS BROKEN JAW

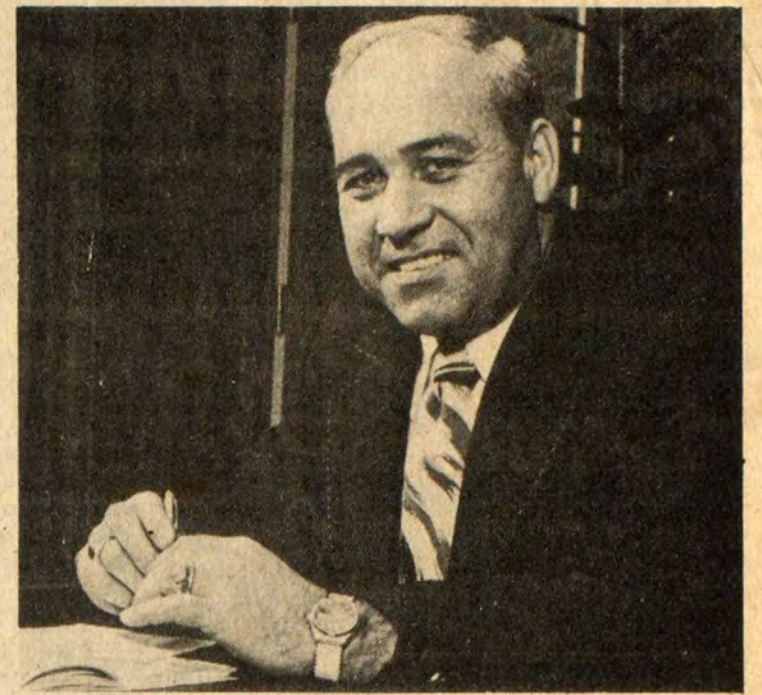

Billy Keathley, of Mud Creek, employee of the May Metal Company at Allen, suffered a broken jaw and facial lacerations last week when a crane slipped and he was struck by a piece of metal being attached to a truck bed.

The plant manager said that Keathley is recovering at a Lexington hospital.

Area Residents Use Only Part of Fuel Bill Allocation

Residents of the Big Sandy Area Development District used about $66,000 of the district's $162,000 allocation this year from the Department for Human Resources program offering grants to elderly or disabled Kentuckians to help pay winter fuel bills.

Many area development districts fell short of their budgeted amount, department figures indicated. Statewide, about $3.9 million remains available from the Energy Cost Assistance Program, which began Dec. 1, 1978. A total of $5 million was approved by the state legislature for the program this winter. Applications will be taken through April 30.

ECAP provides assistance in paying winter fuel bills for households with a member who is either 62 or older, or who is blind or disabled and receiving Medicaid or Supplemental Security Income benefits. The amount of aid depends on family size and income. Grants average about $80 per household.

Gail Huecker, commissioner of the department's Bureau for Social Insurance, said she hopes for increased response from prospective applicants before the April 30 deadline.

Huecker said, "Receiving an ECAP grant has no effect at all on other assistance the client is receiving. This is extra help for persons hardest hit by high utility bills in the winter."

The program will continue next winter with another $5 million allocated.

FLOYD RESIDENT RECOGNIZED—Leo Gayheart, of Eastern, has been recognized for outstanding achievement in Auburn University's veterinary medical program. Gayheart was one of two students who received the Avary Equine Award, presented to a senior who demonstrates particular abilities in the treatment and care of equine patients. Mr. Gayheart (left) is pictured with Judge Jim Avery, who presented the award.

CONDITION IMPROVES

Miss Linda Stephens, who recently underwent surgery at St. Mary's Hospital, Huntington, and returned several days ago to her home on the Bull Creek road, was able to attend Sunday morning services at the First United Methodist Church.

Johnson Group Says Legislation Effect Disastrous to Coal

The Paintsville - Johnson County Chamber of Commerce announced last week that its board of directors had unanimously passed a resolution calling for an "effort...by all business, industrial and professional interests in Johnson County to persuade" Congress and the General Assembly of Kentucky of "the adverse effects of existing (coal) Legislation on the economy of Eastern Kentucky."

Announcing the chamber's resolution, Chamber President Wick Moore said, "We have watched for several months now the disastrous economic impact of current state and federal legislation on the coal industry of Eastern Kentucky and Johnson county. It is now clear that if the legislation is not changed more than 70 per cent of our coal industry and a major portion of the nation's energy program will be adversely affected."

"Contrary to the opinion of some, this legislation has had no redeeming environmental virtues. Instead, it is inhibiting the growth of our industry, housing and population potential at a time when these are critical factors to the immediate future of Johnson and surrounding counties," Moore said.

Vaness-Newman Vows Said

The marriage of Miss Pamela Vaness and Mr. Lewis Newman was solemnized Tuesday, March 6, at the home of Mr. Newman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Newman in Rittman, Ohio.

He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Bart T. Meade, of McDowell, and of Mr. and Mrs. George Newman, of Bevinsville.

Former U. S. Shoe Head Succumbs in Cincinnati

Nathan Stix, former president and chairman of the board of the United States Shoe Corp., died Saturday in Cincinnati following a short illness. He was 80.

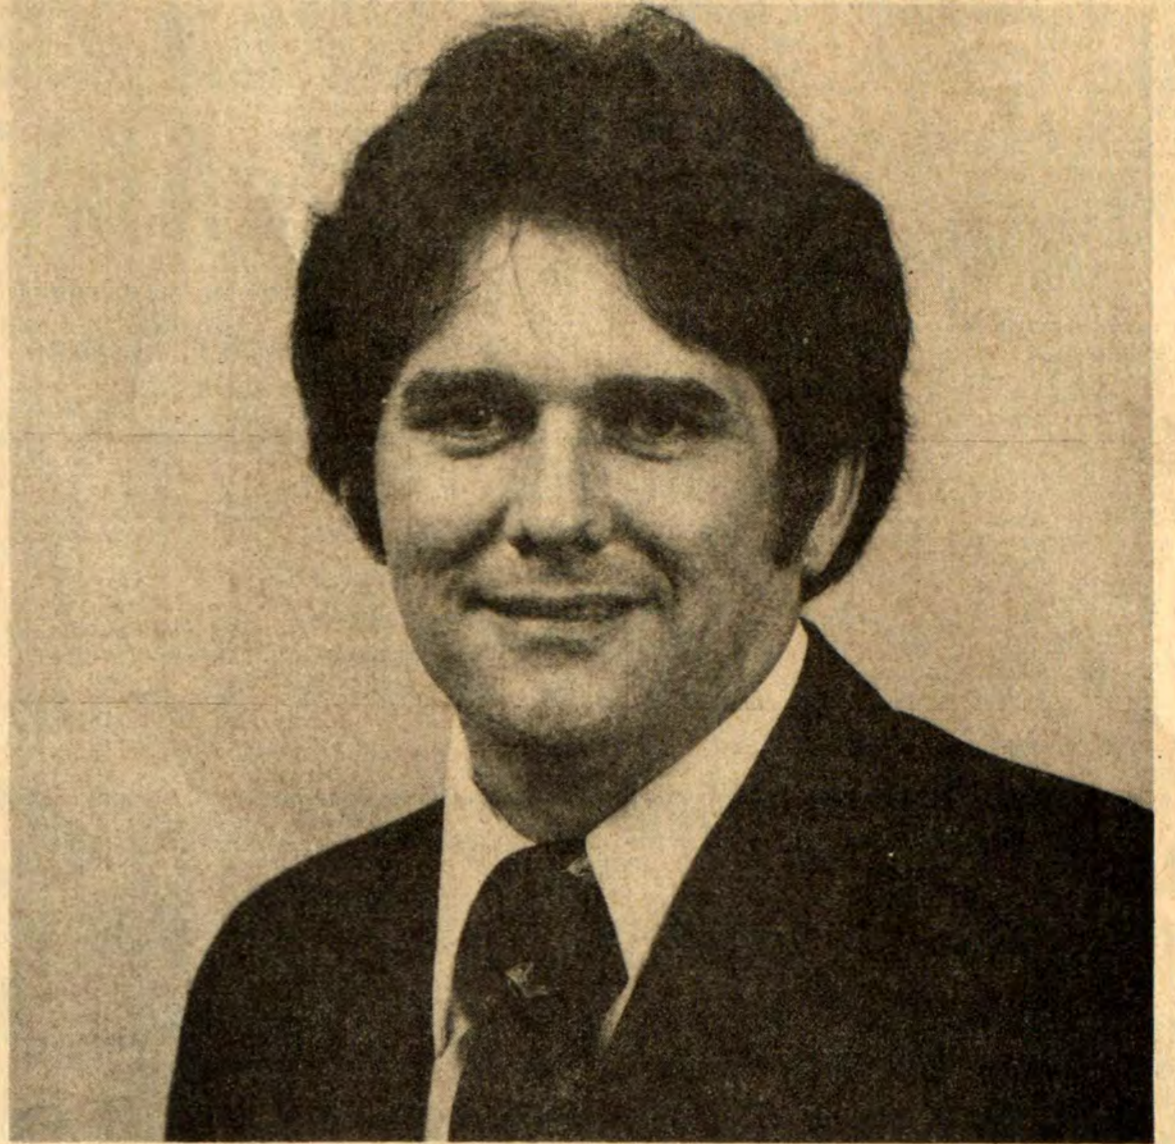

Mr. Stix's entire working life was spent in the shoe industry, and under his direction United States Shoe expanded from its only brand, Red Cross Shoes, to several brands, including Selby and Joyce shoes. Mr. Stix rose from general manager of United States Shoe to chairman of the board in 1968. He retired in 1972 and remained as a consultant and a director until his death.

A 1921 graduate of the University of Michigan and a Navy veteran of World War I, Mr. Stix joined United States Shoe in 1941 when it acquired his Plaut-Butler Shoe Co. in Harrison.

Mr. Stix was a pioneer in the field of human relations, men who worked with him said. His practice of participatory decision making and his concern for the individual set standards that are recognized throughout the industry today. In the mid-1940s, he established one of the first profit-sharing plans for employees.

Mr. Stix is survived by two sons, Robert, a group vice-president of United States Shoe, and Charles, a 29-year employee of United States Shoe who now works for Chemical Fireproofing Corp.; a sister, Ruth Guggenheim, Cincinnati, and seven grandchildren.

DR. RALPH DARRELL JOHNSON

STATE SENATOR

15TH SENATORIAL DISTRICT

FLOYD, KNOTT, MARTIN AND PERRY COUNTIES.

Since making my announcement as a Democratic candidate for the State Senate, many people I have talked with have wanted to know more about me and my family.

I attended Garrett High School and was active in athletics. I attended Prestonsburg Community College in 1965 and graduated from the University of Kentucky College of Dentistry in 1973.

I worked in private dental practice at Hindman and Martin, Ky. I also worked for two years at the June Buchanan Clinic at Hindman.

While in High School I was a member of the Fish and (Game) Wildlife Club, 4-H Club, Future Teachers of America and Beta Honor Society Club.

I am a past Lions Club member, and have managed High School, Little League and All Star Little League Baseball teams.

Norma Jean Campbell, my wife, is a former teacher at Hindman Elementary, where she taught Remedial Reading. Jean graduated from Alice Lloyd College in 1966 and from Morehead State University in 1968. She is an active member in the Beta Sigma Phi Sorority.

Jean and I have two sons, Matthew Kevin, age 6, and Jonathan Darrell, age 3.

I am asking for your vote and support in the May election. To my friends and neighbors I ask you to tell the voters what kind of man I am. To those who do not know me I hope to visit with you in your homes and I invite you to ask my neighbors and friends who know me, what kind of man I am.

In the near future, I will address to you the voters, what you and I feel are the issues we are facing. I will put my platform before you the voters. Along with myself, my family, friends and neighbors will be visiting you soon.

Woman Mining Pioneer

Rosella Lemaster has quietly made history at the Big Creek No. 2 Mine of Island Creek Coal Company in Pike county. She passed the landmark with the same quiet dedication and interest in her work that has marked her four-year career with the company.

In November, 1978, Mrs. Lemaster became the first female underground supervisor in the history of Island Creek. The five-foot, three-inch, 109-pound woman began her supervisory career as a "fireboss" and has progressed to supervising a general labor crew. She is still in training, but as soon as a new section is opened at Big Creek she will become a section foreman—the first line of management at a coal mine.

"I'm looking forward to it," Mrs. Lemaster says. "I've always tried to do my best in anything I attempt."

To work as a certified apprentice foreman in Kentucky, a person must have three years of underground working experience and pass a certification test administered by the Kentucky Department of Mines and Minerals. To date, according to the Department, about a dozen women have qualified to be foremen, but not all those are actively working as supervisory personnel in the mines.

The road to obtaining a foreman's certification is a long, hard pull, but Mrs. Lemaster believes the end result is worth the trip. "It was one of the hardest courses I have ever taken," she says. "I think it's worth it in the end, but you really have to want it."

"It's been a lot of hard work—you won't believe what my husband has gone through. Every evening he would cook and wash the dishes so I could have enough time to study for the certification test." Her husband Cody and her 16-year old daughter Kathy are now very proud of her accomplishment. "My daughter was very skeptical at first, but now she tells everybody about her mom."

Mrs. Lemaster also credits a member of Island Creek's top division management team for encouraging her and helping her along. Curtis Evans, district manager of the Big Creek district for Island Creek, was the first to ask Mrs. Lemaster if she would like to attend classes to receive her certification.

"The company did encourage me, and one man really pushed me through this whole thing—Curtis Evans. There was a time when I had doubts, but he always talked to me and encouraged me," she recalls.

"We have tried to push her in a sense," says Evans, "because she was exceptionally interested in her work. She can do just about anything, and she can run all the equipment we have."

"She has a good personality and that helps her," continues Evans, "and the men respect her and try to help her. They try to help her because she is the type who tries to help herself. She gets down to business and gets the job done."

Mrs. Lemaster, a native of Paintsville, began work for Island Creek as a general laborer in the Gund mine in Pike county in October, 1974. After working in a sewing factory for 10 years, the company went bankrupt, and she began looking for work. "I never really thought I would be hired—there just weren't that many women in the coal mines," she recalls.

"Now I would recommend mining to any woman who is willing to work. The modern methods of mining make it easier. The equipment is not that hard to learn how to run."

"You need confidence more than anything. A lot of women have asked me how to get a job in the mines. I tell them that the first thing they have to do is fill out an application."

"I have had a couple of problems as a woman," Mrs. Lemaster says, "but I was determined to stay from the beginning. The men have accepted me as a worker, and I think they will accept me as a boss in time. I just have to prove myself."

The quiet determination that has stood Rosella Lemaster in good stead to this point in her mining career could very well carry her on to other things. In talking about the future, she admits to a very ambitious goal. "I have to have five years of mining experience to qualify to be a mine foreman. And after that, I want to be a superintendent of a mine. I've always tried to do my best."

Information Available On Miner Education

The Board of Miner Training, Education and Certification, Kentucky Department of Mines and Minerals, ruled that effective last Nov. 1, all Kentucky coal miners who worked in underground mines must meet minimum certification and education requirements. All Kentucky underground coal miners who have 90 working days' experience prior to that date may be "grandfathered" into the system without enrolling in the 48-hour inexperienced miner's course and successful completion of the examination given in connection with this course. Sol H. N. Kirkpatrick, commissioner of the Kentucky Department of Mines and Minerals, has urged all miners who meet the qualifications set by the board to contact the local district office of the Department for information in complying with the board's requirement. To insure successful completion of the board's ruling, eligible miners should complete all necessary filing of forms by March 9.

The phone number of the Martin district office is 285-9205.

FORECAST: ACID RAINFALL

The forecast for the future may be acid rain. Caused by pollutants in our air. "Acid rain is perhaps the most serious environmental dilemma of this century," says plant pathologist Leon S. Dochinger of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Virtually all rainfall east of the Mississippi River now has increased acidity. Over the past 25 years, the acid content of rain in the Northeast has increased fortyfold. And a survey in southern California shows a sharp rise in acid content of rainfall.

One problem is there's no local way to prevent acid rain. Tall smokestacks hundreds of miles away can spew pollutants into the air that are carried by winds to far distant places. Most particles and gases—with the exception of fluorocarbons from aerosol sprays—are eventually washed down by the rain. Half of the 200 high altitude lakes in New York's Adirondack Park are dangerously acidic and devoid of fish. There are no polluting sources in the immediate area, and the pollutants arrive from other areas. When England built high smokestacks the air in that country cleared up noticeably but acid-rain problems in Western Europe and Scandinavia shot up sharply.

International monitoring of acid rainfall is in embryonic stages. In the United States, however, 40 stations operated by government agencies are already in operation; another 60 are scheduled to be functioning by 1982. To find out more about the hazardous effects of air pollution on our lives and ways to combat it, contact the Kentucky Lung Association—the Christmas Seal people. You can join the fight to curb pollution at its sources. It's a matter of life and breath.

Disco at Riverview Benefits Heart Fund

As a means of raising money for this year's Heart Fund drive, as well as for the enjoyment of residents, a Rock & Roll Jamboree and Disco was held at the Riverview Manor Nursing Home last Tuesday.

Members of the Archer and E. P. Grigsby Senior Citizens Centers were on hand to entertain residents and perform special disco exercises. Residents and staff also joined in for some group singing.

Patsy Evans, director of the Archer center and Dee Burchett, Grigsby center director, presented Heart Fund donations which had been collected to Riverview Administrator Eleanor Robinson.

Medicaid To Pay Cost of Second Medical Opinion

Each year, Kentuckians participating in the Medicaid program are faced with surgery. Often surgery is necessary to treat a particular health problem. But in some non-emergency cases, alternatives to surgery might be considered.

For this reason, the Department for Human Resources administers a program through which second medical opinions will be reimbursed through Medicaid.

U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare officials believe the second opinion program can help reduce the costs of surgery to the Medicaid program. According to HEW, most surgery is clearly necessary. But any person concerned about the need for surgery can procure the name of a physician or specialist who will give him a second opinion.

Gail Huecker, commissioner of the department's Bureau for Social Insurance, said, "For non-emergency surgery, a second medical opinion helps patients to weigh the risks and benefits of surgery against the risks and benefits of other methods of treatment. In an effort to emphasize the use of second opinions, the bureau soon will publicize the program through letters to physicians and Medicaid recipients."

Patients in Kentucky may now obtain the name of a second physician through a referral center established by HEW. The regional center maintains a list of specialists in Kentucky participating in the program, Huecker said.

The center may be contacted by calling, toll-free, 1-800-352-6400.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy J. Turner of Fraser, Mich., formerly of Floyd county, announce the engagement of their daughter, Dottie, to Robert Findley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Findley, of Columbus, Ohio.

The bride-elect received a degree in education from Eastern Kentucky University at Richmond and is a teacher at Indian Run Elementary School, Dublin, Ohio. She is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta. Her fiancé also received a degree in education from Eastern Kentucky University and is a teacher in the Columbus public schools. He is a member of Sigma Chi.

The wedding date is August 11, at the First Baptist Church of Sterling Heights, Michigan.

Annual Girl Scout Cookie Sale Begins

The annual Girl Scout Cookie Sale, a major fund raising effort for over 18,000 girls from Wilderness Road Girl Scout Council, is now in progress. Floyd county Girl Scouts will be conducting the sale until March 31, according to Ada Depoy, Floyd County Cookie Chairman.

The purpose of the Girl Scout Cookie Sale, a tradition since 1936, is twofold: to help raise money for local troop activities, and to help support Wilderness Road Council's outdoor program and camp development. Twelve and one-half cents of each box sold stays in the home troop, to help pay for program supplies and other troop plans. The remainder of the profits go to help support Wilderness Road Council's five campsites, which Floyd county Girl Scouts may attend.

This year local girls are selling six kinds of cookies: chocolate mint, sandwich creme, peanut butter sandwich, butter shorties, peanut butter patties, and granola cookies. The cookies sell for $1.25 a box, the same price they have been for several years.

Those who would like to buy Girl Scout Cookies and who have not had a Girl Scout call on them, should call Ada Depoy, Girl Scout Cookie Chairman. The number to call is 874-2631. If no answer, call 874-9997.

South Lake Drive Prestonsburg

Parker Had Car at Daytona, Too

Parker's car, custom-built by its driver for the racing grind.

Prestonsburg in all probability holds a distinction enjoyed by no other town its size in the country. Two Prestonsburg men had cars in the Daytona Beach races last month.

Harry Hale Ranier's car set a speed record, won the pole position for the Daytona 500 and some $70,000 in cash before developing transmission trouble in the big race itself.

And in the ARCA 200 (sponsored by the Automobile Racing Club of America) "Sap" Parker's Riviera Buick was in fourth place, with six laps to go, when a tire blew. The Parker entry finished 10th, at that.

Parker's racer was custom-built by its driver, Bobby Watson, of Prestonsburg. He and Watson are now negotiating with 18-year-old Kyle Petty, winner of the ARCO 200, and his father, the famed Richard Petty, seeking Petty to drive the Buick for the remainder of the season.

Both Ranier and Parker have "made it big" in coal during the boom—Ranier as a mine operator, Parker as a trucker. Their racing hobby is costly for both, but they have done well.

Last year, Parker's car was tied for second place on the ARCO circuit. On points he is in first place this year, winning the first race of the season at Avilla, Indiana.

Accompanied by a friend, Jack Hyden, also of Prestonsburg, Parker drew good coverage from Florida sports writers while at Daytona Beach. There they occupied the same beach side motel suite that had just been vacated by actor Paul Newman and his wife. A reporter wrote for his paper Parker's comments:

"Talked to the maid that cleaned their room, and Newman gave her a little trinket that must have cost $2 when they checked out. Here's a poor, little, country girl, got two kids, and he gives her that. I gave her $10—I'm just a crazy hillbilly but proud of it."

Columbia Asks PSC Okay New Customers

Columbia Gas of Kentucky, a unit of the Columbia Gas System, applied today to the Kentucky Public Service Commission for permission to take on new residential, commercial and industrial customers in Kentucky starting April 1.

Columbia is in a position that it should promptly begin to take on new customers and return to normal conditions as they existed prior to the imposition of restrictions," Michael J. Barna, district manager of Columbia Gas of Kentucky, said.

The company and its principal supplier project that Columbia has sufficient supply to serve existing load requirements, additional customers and provide for at least a 10-percent-colder-than-normal weather reserve.

Columbia listed the following reasons for improved gas supply:

—Substantial improvement in gas supply from the company's principal supplier, Columbia Gas Transmission Corp.

—Substantial conservation by residential and commercial customers.

—Substantial and permanent underruns by large industrial customers.

—Enactment of the federal Natural Gas Policy Act with its potential to increase further the flowing gas supply.

Columbia currently receives approximately 93 percent of its total supply from Columbia Gas Transmission Corp.

The Public Service Commission ordered Columbia—at the company's request—to stop taking on new customers in 1972, when Columbia experienced a supply shortage. Columbia asked for the new business ban in order to protect requirements of existing customers.

"While supplies have increased, Columbia has experienced at the same time a significant reduction in the total requirements of its existing customers," Barna said. "All of the new business we expect to add through the next six years still will not recapture the load we have lost during the past seven years."

Usage by residential customers has declined a total of 15.3 percent of their normal demand since the 1972-73 oil embargo. Additionally, the company has experienced a 25.0 percent reduction in usage by commercial customers and a 25.8 percent reduction by industrial customers.

Observes 90th Birthday

A buffet dinner was served February 17 at the home of Margie Parsons at McDowell honoring her mother, Mrs. Virgie Hamilton, on her 90th birthday.

Many friends and relatives, including three of her great-grandchildren, were present to help her observe the occasion. Due to bad weather conditions, only two of her children could be with her in person. However, all visited via the telephone to wish her a happy birthday.

She received many flowers, cards, and gifts which she greatly enjoyed. Mrs. Sharon M. Newsome, wife of one of Mrs. Hamilton's grandsons, baked a cake for the occasion, and Leroy Jones, friend of the family, made photographs of the party to be shared with those who could not attend.

Although Mrs. Hamilton has been bedridden most of the past five years, she still displays a beautiful smile. She feels that her strong faith and clean Christian living have contributed to her long life.

She is the daughter of the late James and Mary Ann Martin Tackett, of Long Fork in Pike county, and the widow of the late D. Emit Hamilton, of Frasures Creek, in Floyd county.

Her children are Charles Hamilton, of New Carlisle, Ohio; Ira Hamilton, of Medway, Ohio; Elmer Hamilton, of Kettering, Ohio; Foster Hamilton, of Alexandria, Ohio; Noah Hamilton, of Michigan City, Ind.; Stella Howell, of New Carlisle, Ohio; Draxie Newsome, of Ligon; and Margie Parsons, of McDowell, with whom she makes her home. The firm did planning for the renovation work at Russellville Ky., which has been viewed by members of the Development Committee here.

Sufficient parking is seen as a major problem when and if renovation is begun, and the firm will present a plan for solution of this as well as the theme or look projected to make the section from the postoffice at the corner of Court and Third to the end of Court Street on First Avenue more attractive.

General Designs is expected to make its recommendations in about two weeks. Mrs. Grant said each business or building owner will be asked to contribute $100 to pay for planning work, with the city paying half of the cost.

Present at the meeting at the home of Mrs. Grant were Mayor Harold Cooley, Councilman George Cecil Brown, H. D. Fitzpatrick, Jr., Gari Sutton, Aileen Burchett, Earl Castle, Tommy Rose, H. C. Francis, Jr., and Lenny Grant.

FOR COUNTY JUDGE-EXECUTIVE

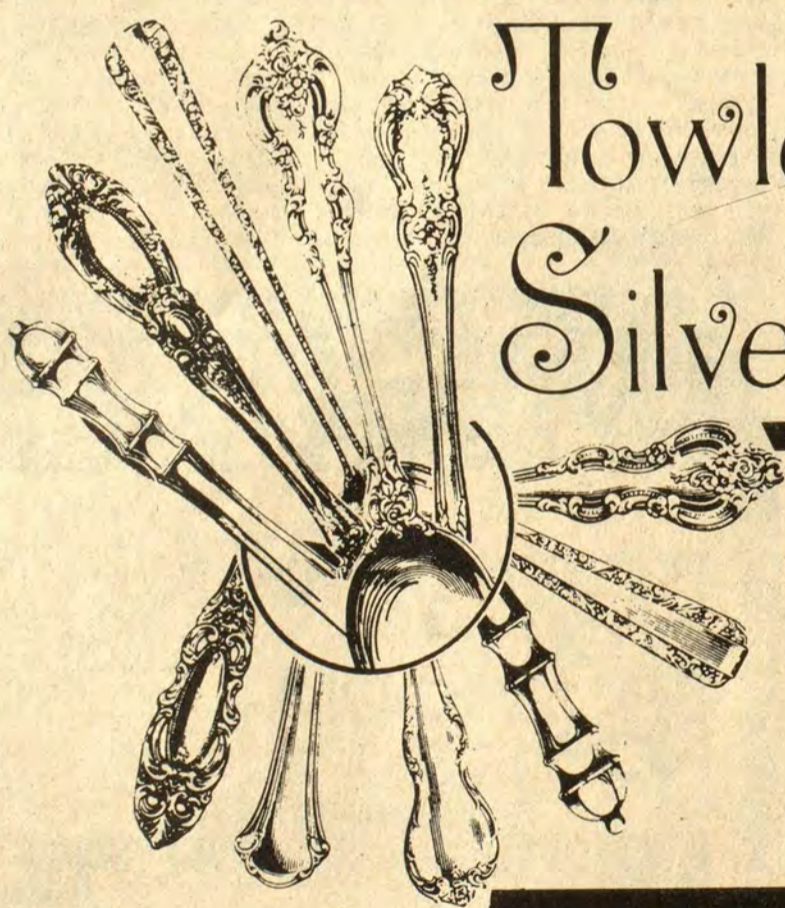

The future development of Floyd County is, once again, in our hands this coming election. If we are to achieve our chosen objectives, we must have leadership in our county offices that exhibits qualities of DETERMINATION, MOTIVATION, and SINCERE DESIRE for PROGRESS, GROWTH, and PROSPERITY in this county. The opportunities of achieving these chosen objectives are abundant and the only shortage of opportunity is the shortage we declare and accept. If a sincere, positively determined desire for progress exists in our county's leadership nothing can cause us to accept less than what we are striving to achieve. The one realization we all must face is that in order to have the means of support to BUILD and MAINTAIN our county we simply cannot afford to take our tax dollars elsewhere. We must make beneficial use of them here and intelligently apply the return profit to our county's use, also. The reason I am seeking this office is one of DEMOCRATIC DESIRE and DETERMINATION for a more POSITIVE, ECONOMICALLY-BALANCED future for ALL Floyd Countians. TOGETHER WE CAN HAVE IT THE WAY WE WANT IT!

The 1978-'79 basketball season ended Feb. 28 for the Wheelwright Lady Trojans in a 61-58 loss to the Betsy Layne girls.

The Lady Trojans played a fine game against the Lady Bobcats both offensively and defensively but the decisive advantage that the Bobcats had was on the free throw line. Wheelwright went to the line for 21 free throws but only made 10 for a 48 percent average.

Miss Lewis is a graduate of Betsy Layne High School. In 1962 she received a B.A. degree in secondary education from Morehead State and returned to teach in Floyd county.

Later, she accepted a teaching position in Marion, Ohio and earned the Master's degree in special education (EMR) from Ohio State University. Since that time she has taught mentally handicapped youngsters.

Patrick Trial To Begin Thursday

Trial of Ex-Sheriff Ben Patrick, of Magoffin county, in U.S. district court at Catlettsburg is scheduled to begin tomorrow (Thursday) on charges stemming from allegations that he and two others were involved in a scheme to extort $2900 from a former Floyd county man.

Lum and Linda Patton, also of Magoffin county, were accused with the former sheriff in the plan to extort money from Ralleg Barnett, former resident of the Martin vicinity.

Patrick currently is serving a term in the federal correctional institution at Lexington on an unrelated conviction from West Virginia. The Pattons are charged with delivery of whiskey to two other Magoffin county residents and accepting money from the transaction.

The charges materialized last December, first in the form of an indictment against Patrick and Mrs. Patton. The violations charged against the former Magoffin sheriff span over a period of 1974 to 1977.

Judge H. David Hermansdorfer heard several defense motions Feb. 21 and granted Prestonsburg attorney Sam Doyle release from the case as a legal counsel for the Pattons.

Motions ruled upon at that time by Hermansdorfer did not lead to a trial delay. The judge took a motion to dismiss the case under advisement, overruled a request to see grand jury records, accepted prearranged motions on evidence inspection, reserved a ruling on a motion to suppress certain evidence, and allowed Doyle his dismissal.

Four points were magnified in the motion for trial dismissal: unclear language in stating a federal offense; the case was unnecessarily delayed in its presentation to the grand jury; trial, therefore, was not timely; and that immunity for Patrick was understood in the West Virginia case as far as future prosecutions were concerned.

Another argument in the case concerned a request by the defendants for copies of the federal grand jury minutes. Judge Hermansdorfer held to the general rule that such documents are secret.

Now Is a Good Time To Start Pruning

By JOHN E. SPARKS
(Extension Agent-Agriculture)
Now is a good time to remove those pruners from the shed and start pruning. To many people, especially those faced with an overgrown or neglected apple tree, pruning becomes a puzzle. As trees differ in their development, especially those neglected as young plants, each situation is a little different. Pictures seldom help in evaluating a tree, because the tree in a picture never seems quite like the one facing us.

Late winter, from February through early March, is when most pruning should be done. Young trees should be pruned each year as they develop. Proper pruning in the early years saves much work later, and a fruit tree that is stronger and easier to care for will develop.

One objective in pruning a young apple tree is to select 2 or 3 wideangled branches to form the skelton, or "scaffold," of the tree the first year.

In an old, neglected tree, the goals should be to reduce the number of main branches to only 4 to 5 coming from the trunk.

Uniform spacing and wide angles cannot always be developed in an old tree, but the best major branches that are spaced around the tree should be selected. All others should be removed.

Another objective to pruning apple trees is to develop an open center. Any branches leaning toward the center of the tree might be removed. If severe pruning is necessary, do it gradually over several years. Apples produce fruit on 2-year-old wood. Remove no more than 5 to 10 percent of the bearing wood from regular apple trees and 2 to 5 percent from dwarf trees.

Another characteristic of a neglected apple tree is a dense thicket of upright shoots called "watersprouts". These are mainly in the center areas of the tree, and should be removed to help open the center of the tree.

Weak, pendulous branches should also be removed. Limbs that rub against each other should be removed.

The center of a standard apple tree should be fairly free of limbs for good sunlight penetration. Any branches that have been broken or damaged should also be cut back. Always prune to a side, or lateral branch so that a long stub does not remain.

Do not cut back upright, unbranched major shoots. Let them bear fruit, and allow the weight of the fruit to pull them down and give them a more desirable horizontal position. Cut out side branches that grow toward the inside of the tree. This helps them to bend toward the outside of the tree when they are heavy with fruit.

Fully dwarf trees usually need additional support from a post or trellis. Little pruning is usually necessary in older dwarf trees that have been properly pruned other than removal of basal shoots, broken branches, weak branches and an occasional thinning as needed.

"Spur" growth on apple trees also reduces the need for heavy pruning, and care must be taken not to remove too many "spurs". The "spur" type apple branch has short, compact lateral branches that produce flowers and fruit. These spurs may produce fruit for 10 to 15 years. Because their longitudinal growth is slow, removal of them is not desirable or necessary.

More information on apples and other fruit is available in "Kentucky Home Fruit and Vegetable Gardening," available at the County Extension Office.

Seek Application for Funding Of East Ky. Housing Projects

William L. Short, secretary of the Kentucky Development Cabinet, announced last week that applications are being solicited for the funding of Eastern Kentucky housing projects under a $1.5 million allocation from the Appalachian Regional Commission.

Short said letters inviting applications are being sent to county fiscal courts, housing authorities, non-profit organizations and other groups in Eastern Kentucky.

The housing fund is part of the state's current allocation of $9.9 million in ARC funds, he said. The Development Cabinet is the state agency designated to administer the ARC program for Kentucky.

Ralph Coldiron, executive director of the Development Cabinet's office of community and regional development, said the housing funds are available under Section 207 of the Appalachian Regional Development Act.

The Development Cabinet contracts with the Kentucky Housing Corp. to operate the Appalachian housing program, which is in its third year. Coldiron said applicants will have 45 days from the date of the letter to submit proposals for new housing programs or to seek continued funding of projects already under way.

The applications will go to the Kentucky Housing Corp., which will review them for the Development Cabinet and make recommendations for funding, he said.

CORRECTION

By Wilmay

The last column, FALSE TEACHING, had a bad omission from the original sent The Times. Since it affected the meaning of paragraph 5 and left out part of a quotation, correction is hereby made. Too, continuity was broken, meaning destroyed. It should have read:

The writer on Exodus mutilates the number of Israelites the Bible says left Egypt. He lists possible unbiblical reasons for the burning bush, Red Sea passage, and plagues. Quote: "The water turned to literal blood; blood was used to describe the reddish color of the water; or the term was used in a nonliteral sense by a later writer...The reality of the event likely rests in the second or third alternative, with the 3rd probably, although not certainly, the 'better option.'" p. 336. Number one is scriptural, but the author believes number 2 or 3, preferably three. If the word "blood" was used nonliterally the Egyptians would not have been without water! Scripture declares the plagues were supernatural acts of God.

Quotation as follows: Clyde T. Francisco and Roy L. Honeycutt, Jr., the BROADMAN COMMENTARY, Vol. I, Nashville, Broadman Press. Used with permission. (The Exodus account was by Dr. Honeycutt.)

Smoking during Pregnancy Poses Danger to Unborn Babies

Samuel S. C. Yen, M.D.
Professor and Chairman
Department of Reproductive Medicine
University of California
San Diego

STUDIES NOW SHOW that among women who smoke there is a greater incidence of miscarriage, fetal distress, premature birth, low birthweight, and smaller-than-average body and head measurements in the newborn. To avoid these risks, women of childbearing age should not smoke.

An unborn baby shows a sharp decrease in chest breathing motion after its mother smokes only two cigarettes, according to new ultrasound findings. A disturbing image? Every pregnant woman who reaches for a cigarette ought to keep that image before her.

A fetus cannot be expected to thrive with a limited supply of oxygen. Yet that is essentially what a mother who smokes is asking her fetus to do.

Research from our laboratory shows that smoking in pregnancy causes a decrease in the fetal oxygen supply. Nicotine sets off a sympathetic nervous system discharge that causes constriction of blood vessels leading to the uterus. As a result, the blood flow carrying oxygen to the fetus is reduced. This, together with prolonged increase in the amount of carbon monoxide in the fetal blood stream may cause a continuous oxygen deficiency.

Smokers vs. non-smokers

The influence of smoking on the outcome of pregnancy can be seen when comparing groups of pregnant women who smoke with those who do not. Among women who smoke, there is a greater incidence of miscarriage, fetal distress, premature birth, low birthweight, and smaller-than-average body and head measurements in the newborn. Low birthweight, with its risks of disability and death, is four times as common, and fetal deaths have been 27 per cent higher.

We are not certain which of the 4,000 chemical compounds in cigarette smoke causes damage to a fetus. Some investigators suggest that it is none of these. They believe that smoking depresses the mother's appetite, causing her to limit her eating to a degree that brings about growth retardation in her unborn baby. Whether these effects on fetal growth carry over into childhood development is not yet known.

The damage caused by smoking usually stops when, and if, a pregnant mother quits smoking. Breaking the habit before or, at least early in pregnancy is the best way a mother can protect her baby from the dangers of smoking. Pregnancy is an ideal time to educate her about dangers to her unborn baby and provide motivation for quitting.

Ways to stop

The Massachusetts Department of Public Health offers several recommendations to cut smoking among pregnant women. They advise health personnel to: (1) At the first prenatal visit, include cigarettes in the list of drugs known to have adverse effect on the outcome of pregnancy; (2) Tell pregnant women that smoking is even more hazardous if they have a history of miscarriage or newborn loss, bleeding, or placental complications; if they are anemic; or if they are in an older age group; (3) Consider testing every pregnant patient for carbon monoxide levels in her blood and warn her if the reading is high; (4) If a woman has any bleeding, question her about smoking and re-emphasize the dangers; (5) Provide pregnant women who smoke with the locations of "stop-smoking" clinics; (6) Enforce "no smoking" rules in all health facilities where staff and patients come in contact.

One sure thing

Although the "what" in tobacco smoke that endangers a fetus remains unsolved, the "what-to-do-about it" has a clear-cut answer: women of childbearing age should not smoke.

Dr. Yen is a grantee of The National Foundation-March of Dimes. As part of its nationwide program for prevention of birth defects, the voluntary health organization supports research into the effects of a mother's smoking on her unborn and newborn child.
