Advisory Council Meets at Martin

The Martin Title I Parents Advisory Council began its new year recently with a meeting at the Martin Elementary School with Chairperson Ilene Thompson presiding. Principal Bill Hughes discussed the new reading program recently begun in the Floyd County Schools. The Ginn Reading Program, adopted last year by the Floyd County Board of Education, was initiated in all schools at the beginning of the 1979-80 school year. Parents were also told that Title I reading services do not substitute for classroom reading instruction. The school's Title I program serves to supplement and aid regular instruction. Reading Supervisor Anna Lee Rice presented the projected budget for the year and explained the different components. She also described the extra services provided by Title I, such as visual aids, and others. Virginia Skeans discussed the pamphlet "Title I Needs Parents," giving the purposes of the program, ways to involve parents, and means of participant selection. Attending the meeting were Mary Fannin, Annie L. Burchett, Barbara Parsons, Fay Wright, Lois Hamilton, Herbert M. Ferrell, Loretta Ferrell, Eulene Ratliff, Ilene Thompson, Bernice Howard, Anna Lee Rice, William Hughes, Virginia Skeans, Audrey Gunnell, and Pam Wohlford.

Author-Educator To Speak At Reading Conference Here

A noted author and educator has been scheduled as one of the outstanding attractions to the fall conference, an annual reading event here sponsored by the Kentucky chapter of the International Reading Association. Dr. Lacy A. Marcotte, a professor of education and director of the Reading Improvement Center at Nicholls State University, will bring his own unique blend of insight and humor to exemplify the theme of this year's conference, "Reading Strokes for Different Folks."

The Louisiana educator has served as classroom teacher, consultant to various school systems in Louisiana, Georgia, and South Carolina, and has been associated with several colleges and universities in the south. He has also published extensively in educational journals.

Dr. Marcotte will conduct one of the four pre-conference institutes scheduled Friday afternoon, November 2, at Prestonsburg Community College. His presentation will offer a different perspective to diagnostic and prescriptive teaching. Later in the evening, Dr. Marcotte will also serve as keynote speaker at a banquet to be held at May Lodge at Jenny Wiley State Park.

The Jenny Wiley Council and Prestonsburg Community College will host the two-day KSC-IRA Fall Conference. For more information, contact either Bertha Ratliff at 377-2208, or Delphia Hicks at 886-3108.

Water Testing Lab Set Up at Morehead

"Epidemics such as typhoid fever, dysentery and cholera are caused by bacteria transmitted by polluted drinking water. This makes it very important to be able to determine whether or not water is safe to drink," said Dr. Ted Pass, professor of microbiology at Morehead State University.

Dr. Pass is director of the newly established Water Testing Laboratory at MSU which is providing bacteriological examination of public and private drinking water supplies in eastern and southeastern Kentucky.

"We began testing water as a result of the Gateway Area Development District expressing a need for such a service in the region," said Dr. Pass. "Not only do we want to provide a service for the health departments in this region but also all the public water supplies in the area as well. We will also be able to process private water supplies such as well water as needed and we also hope to work with Farmer's Home Administration (FHA)."

"We've had several contacts, not only from our immediate region, but also from different sections of state," Dr. Pass said. "So it's possible that we may be serving many of the health departments and public drinking water supply sources east of Lexington."

When testing water samples, Dr. Pass and Michael Groeschel, Newport senior and chief analyst, check for the presence of coliforms, bacteria native to the intestinal tract of mammals. If coliforms are present, this is an indication that the water supply is being contaminated with raw sewage either from barns, outhouses, cattle or where septic tanks are being used.

"The lab meets both state and federal guidelines for water testing and only certified personnel can conduct the tests on the water samples," said Dr. Pass. "But, our students also have an opportunity to observe the procedures involved and can often simulate the operations to learn about water testing."

Additional information on the service is available from the Morehead State University Water Testing Laboratory, UPO Box 804, MSU, Morehead, Ky. 40351, or by calling Dr. Ted Pass, director, at 606-783-3148.

Kiwanians Here To Help Ailing Blood Program

For many years now Floyd county has had a blood program with the Central Kentucky Blood Center in Lexington. As a result the three hospitals in Floyd county—Highlands Regional Medical Center, McDowell ARH, and Our Lady of the Way—have had their blood needs supplied through the center, and no longer have to draw their own donors except in extreme emergencies.

Residents of Floyd county who have donated at scheduled blood drives have been able to provide valuable blood protection for themselves and their immediate families.

Yet, except for a few regularly scheduled drives at Highlands Medical Center and Kentucky West Virginia Gas Co., blood drives have seen very little participation from Floyd counties. The Central Kentucky Blood Center now supplies more blood to county residents needing it than they donate.

Recognizing the important role that this blood program plays in Floyd county, and concerned about the health and well-being of all Floyd counties, the Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club has decided to come to the aid of the ailing blood program.

During the next week public service announcements will be aired on local radio stations asking the public to help in making this blood program a success by donations of blood. The club will sponsor a blood drive Tuesday, Oct. 23 at the Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church, from 12 noon to 3:30 p.m. and from 5 to 8 p.m. In their attempt to turn out large numbers of blood donors Kiwanians will be making personal phone calls to many Floyd counties.

Dog of the Week

Named Wonder Dog, this brown and white female took a stand on the traffic island at the lower traffic light in Prestonsburg where she successfully "directed" traffic for a couple of weeks before being brought to the animal shelter. She is a nice medium sized dog, has been spayed and had all her shots. This unusually intelligent dog is up for adoption at the animal shelter which asks a reimbursement of $30 for inoculations and surgery.

There will be a rabies and spaying clinic Thursday, October 18, at the shelter. The phone number is 886-1042.

There must be a minimum of ten participants. Enrollment is limited to 20. Two continuing education units will be awarded those completing the course. Interested persons should contact Frances Stapleton, of the PCC Office of Community Services, for registration information.

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY—
I am really desperate for help! They keep me locked up most of the time and I feel as though I don't really justify my existence. I was created for the sole reason of helping to keep a town clean, but it seems as though everyone in this town stays mad at me and says I don't do my job. Please tell me what to do.

Anxiously,
Prestonsburg Street Sweeper

DEAR SWEEPER—
You really do have quite a problem. I checked with other towns and their sweepers and they advise me that without the proper guidance you are rendered completely useless.

There are four steps that you should follow. They are:

- (1) Find a competent person to drive you regularly,
- (2) Ask for manpower to assist you by picking up the trash and debris after you make your run,
- (3) Set up a schedule and run in ALL parts of your town (not just a chosen few), and
- (4) You must come out of hiding and appear each day so that everyone can applaud your efforts.

Sincerely,
ABBY

P.S. I have litter bags available at my store for anyone who wants one. Maybe this will help keep some of the trash off the streets.

Student Grant, Loan Programs Expanded

Expansion of the state student grant program and a discussion of the success of the guaranteed student loan program highlighted the meeting of the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority board of directors held Thursday in Louisville.

During a discussion of the legislative package to be presented to the 1980 Kentucky General Assembly, board members heard and approved a proposal to expand the higher education state grant program from $4,900,000 to approximately $15 million for the 1980-82 biennium.

In explaining the proposal to board members, authority Executive Director Paul P. Borden noted that due to escalating costs and other inflationary pressures, the maximum state grant available to eligible postsecondary students under current appropriation levels is unrealistically low.

Borden said that in the past three years grant award amounts have remained essentially the same, while education expenses have risen substantially. "The current maximum grant ($300 for students attending public institutions and $850 for attendance at eligible private institutions) falls dramatically short in helping needy students meet expenses," he said.

Under the new proposal, maximum grant awards would be increased to equal the cost of tuition for those attending public colleges and universities and $1,150 for students attending private institutions. Additionally, Borden noted that through increased funding, eligibility (now based on financial need as determined through a family's ability to provide financial support) could be expanded to include more students from hard pressed middle-income families."

In addition to the grant proposal, the board also heard a presentation concerning the guaranteed student loan program. Established by the 1978 General Assembly, the program has "exceeded all expectations" in the number of students served, Borden said. Originally, it was anticipated that approximately $15 million in student loans would be guaranteed for the current academic year. However, $19 million in loans has already been guaranteed and the total may exceed $25 million by June, according to Borden.

Borden also noted that the concept of funding the administrative operations of the agency through income received from the loan program has been an overwhelming success. So much so, in fact, that the agency's 1980-82 budget request will include no funds for administrative expenses. "The practical effect of this," Borden observed, "is that every dollar appropriated to this agency for student financial aid will wind up in the pockets of Kentucky students."

Hamilton Trial Set October 29

Court officials here and attorneys in the case have been notified by Judge N. Mitchell Meade, of the Fayette circuit court, that the trial of Lee Hamilton, charged with the murder of Charlie (Hatler) Hamilton, has been set for trial in Lexington, beginning October 29.

The trial was sent to Fayette county on change of venue from this county after a prospective juror in the trial of the case here reported that she had been threatened. It was later incorrectly reported that Judge Meade had declined to accept the case for trial.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of Roger Lee Stowers, who was killed in a car accident in Warsaw, Ind., six years ago.

God called him away, and probably, that's the way he was to go, but I hope and pray that he is in Heaven and that I will meet him some day. I miss him coming into the kitchen, kissing me on the cheek and telling me that he loved me. Tears come and my heart gets heavy sometimes when I think of it, and I look to God to help me.

On his birthday Thursday, October 18, he would have been 27 years old if God hadn't called him, but God knows best for us all, and I am certain to meet him one of these days. He is terribly missed by his mother and dad, sister and brother too.

Auxier Class for Hearing Impaired

A class for hearing-impaired preschoolers opened in Floyd county recently, as the result of an arrangement between the Kentucky School for the Deaf at Danville and the Floyd Board of Education. The nearest classes of its kind are at Ashland and Pineville.

Three youngsters are currently enrolled in the class, under an agreement by which KSD supplies a teacher and teaching materials, and the Floyd school board provides the classroom. Barbara Ware, a recent graduate of Eastern Kentucky University with a degree in Deaf and Elementary Education, conducts the class four days a week at the Auxier grade school.

Deaf children need to be schooled in all the usual areas of development, including gross and fine motor skills, self-help, social, cognitive and language skills. Miss Ware said this week. While the hearing child absorbs a lot of information simply by listening, the deaf child must lean heavily, however, on the other senses for this information.

Under the KSD preschool satellite program, which began in 1974 and now has nine centers statewide, teachers work with deaf children and their parents to develop communication skills, especially the visual language or "signing" used by the deaf, and to help them deal with other problems encountered by the deaf and their families.

Because of the important role played by rhythm, inflection and intonation in learning a language, and because a child's hearing mechanism grows less plastic with age, the program emphasizes early instruction in speech, with frequent use of amplifiers calibrated to the child's hearing level.

While the program does not usually enroll children before age three, Miss Ware said, her class includes a four-year-old and two two-year-olds.

Teachers React to KSBA Warning

"Heavens, no. I don't want to strike and I know that most other teachers don't, either. All we're asking is to be able to sit down and talk, and to have someone listen to us."

That was the response of Prestonsburg High School teacher Sarah Clay Archer to warnings of teacher strikes if lobbying efforts by teachers for a professional negotiation law are successful.

The warnings were issued recently by the Kentucky School Boards Association, which contends that in states with mandated collective bargaining laws for teachers there are three times more teacher strikes than in states without bargaining laws.

"Statistics clearly reject the claim of some advocates of unionization of classrooms that collective bargaining legislation reduces labor unrest and strikes," said KSBA President William L. Land to which Mrs. Archer replies that "statistics can be made to prove anything."

"Everyone knows that it is against the law for teachers to strike in Kentucky. All we want is fairness. We are professionals and we don't want to be told that we can have nothing to do with curriculum, working conditions and related issues," Mrs. Archer said this week.

For its part, KSBA asserts that "whether a law is called professional negotiations, collective bargaining, or meet-and-confer, an adversary situation is created which inevitably leads to costly, illegal teacher strikes. Records show the majority of teacher strikes occur in states where they are illegal. No-strike clauses are almost uniformly ineffective."

The issue of collective bargaining for teachers is being debated with renewed urgency in connection with the current governor's race in this state. The Kentucky Education Association, the teachers' professional organization, has endorsed Democratic nominee John Y. Brown Jr., who says he favors a professional negotiation law. The organization accuses Brown's opponent, Louie B. Nunn, of failing to keep his word after supporting a negotiation law in his last run for governor.

KEA hopes that Kentucky will become the 33rd state to pass a negotiation law, and cites a University of Kentucky survey indicating that 57.1 percent of Kentuckians support the idea.

Working conditions, rather than pay, are uppermost among teacher concerns, says KEA President June Lee, who lists guaranteed teacher preparation periods, a limit on non-teaching duties, class size maximums, and a detailed evaluation procedure as the areas on which teacher negotiations have primarily focussed.

Prestonsburg High School teacher Lowell McCown, of Auxier, agrees. "Most teachers favor collective bargaining because they feel they should have a say in the size of the classes they teach and their working conditions," he said this week. However, salary is also at issue, McCown concedes, "especially when high school dropouts can drive a coal truck and earn more than we do."

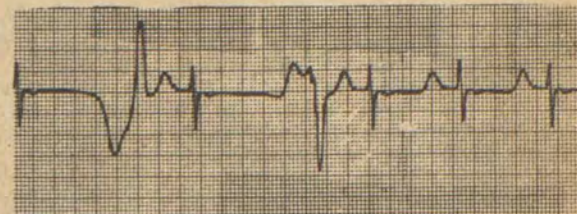

"I don't think it's necessarily the case that strikes would follow passage of a professional negotiations law," said Frank McGuire, Jr., another PHS teacher. "What we're really asking for is input. Right now we have none."

Garbage Collection Problem at Clark

This accumulation of trash at Clark School resulted last Friday in Health Department order.

Clark Elementary School officials were issued a Health Department notice last Friday, ordering them to have the garbage there disposed of within five days. Trash had accumulated at the school for several weeks.

The immediate cause of the problem, which is affecting the entire First magisterial district, is the near-collapse of the garbage collection system in that district.

While the trash was collected at the Clark school twice a week in previous years, said Hazel Shepherd, of the school's kitchen staff, collection this year has been sporadic, with intervals of two to three weeks between pickups. Other District 1 residents have complained of similar delays in recent months.

Adrian Lafferty, owner of Floyd County Sanitation Co. and holder of the franchise for trash collection in the district, denied Tuesday that any Health Department notice had been issued with respect to uncollected trash at Clark and refused to discuss the collection problem. The issuance of the notice has been confirmed, however, by Health Department Administrator Earl Compton, but it was directed to the school and not to Floyd Sanitation.

Paul Slone, of Dwale, who picks up garbage in District 1 through an arrangement with Lafferty, conceded this week that the problem is too big for him to handle alone. Four trucks are needed to service the area adequately, he said. Slone's aging truck is the only one currently in operation in the district.

Slone also claims that he does not collect enough in fees to be able to hire adequate staff. He receives $38.50 per month from each of the four schools in the district—Clark, Allen and Auxier grade schools and the Dwale Day Care Center—and four dollars monthly from those private residents still paying for their intermittent service.

"Right now there's no way I can manage a regular pickup even every two weeks," Slone said. "I'm doing all I can. I start early in the morning and go till late at night. Saturday and Sunday, too." Slone said he doesn't know who to blame and he has no ready solutions, but is tired of taking the blame for a situation which he admits is completely beyond his control.

INSULATION USED TO BE A DETAIL. NOW IT'S A PRIORITY.

Used to be, insulation in commercial, industrial and institutional buildings was frequently taken for granted.

The energy crisis has changed all that.

Suddenly, insulation is one of the most important considerations in the planning of any new building. Simply because good insulation saves precious energy.

Which brings us to the buildings we build. Butler buildings. Because they're built around pre-engineered systems, the roof and wall systems are designed with superior insulation to provide you with the best available seal against outside heat and cold, regardless of the climate.

Butler building systems have always been time and money savers. But more important, now they're energy savers. We'd like to show you why. Call us.

Commission Grants
Neeley Rate Increase

The Kentucky Energy Regulatory Commission has granted a rate increase to the Elzie Neeley Gas Company, of Lancer, because of the rising cost of natural gas.

The company's customers will now pay a minimum monthly bill of $8.52 for the first 3,000 cubic feet of gas. The rate of almost $2.93 per 1,000 cu. ft. will apply to amounts more than 3,000 cu. ft.

Formerly, minimum bills were $8.49, and the rate was $2.91.

The increase is needed to offset the rising cost of wholesale natural gas supplied to Elzie Neeley by Columbia Gas of Kentucky.

County Officials at Hearing Said Satisfied with Road Fund

In general, county officials testifying last week concerning the state-administered County Road Fund were satisfied with fund operation, but all said additional money is needed.

Seven county judge-executives and Magistrate Donnie Rogers, of Caldwell county, testified before the Subcommittee on Highway Finance: Maintenance and Construction.

The county road fund is financed with money received from nine-tenths of one cent of the nine-cent motor fuel tax. This percentage generates an average $20 to $21 million each year.

It is predicted that during fiscal year 1979-80 $19 million will be generated, according to Otto Ingram, deputy commissioner of rural and municipal aid with the Department of Transportation, Bureau of Highways.

Money is allocated to the counties under a legislative formula: one-fifth of the total divided equally among the counties; one-fifth based on rural population; one-fifth based on miles of rural roads; and two-fifths based on rural areas.

Most counties represented were working under a cooperative agreement in which the state provides materials and rental equipment and the county provides labor.

Counties may also have some type of partial cooperative agreement, or the state can do all the work.

County Judge-Executive Bernie Barnes, of Cumberland, said his county does not have a cooperative agreement. Barnes said he would favor such an agreement if the state would be more flexible concerning paperwork and minimum county equipment required under the program.

Also testifying before the Highways and Traffic Safety subcommittee were county judge-executives Mike Miller, of Marshall County; R.R. Thomas, of Hardin; Wendell Moore, of Oldham; Russell Stephens, of Harrison; Roy Baber, of Bourbon and Lowell Cline, of Carter.

NOTICE

To All Water Consumers of Beaver-Elkhorn Water District:

We have found some customers permitting their "neighbor" to connect onto their line, thereby avoiding the hook-up charge and the metered water charge. This is clearly a violation, both on the part of the regular metered customer and the "neighbor" who is permitted to make this connection.

Customers permitting this, when discovered, will be "Back Charged" for minimum billing as though he had two meters, or in the event he declines to pay the back charges, he will be subject to be disconnected for violation of rules and regulations of the Beaver-Elkhorn Water District and the Energy Utility Commission of Kentucky.

Pharmacy Footnotes

by Harold Cooley

Peptic ulcers are associated with pepsin, an enzyme found in the stomach digestive juices. They develop in the stomach and also in the duodenum, or first part of the small intestine. The exact cause of an ulcer is not known. Heredity may play a part in determining whether or not an individual develops ulcers. Most persons who have ulcers have extremely high concentrations of gastric acidity. Nervous conditions frequently are associated with ulcers, but many nervous persons do not develop them. It's interesting that more men than women suffer from ulcers.

COOLEY APOTHECARY, No. 2 Town Center Building, Prestonsburg, 886-8106, is your one-stop neighborhood pharmacy. We take great pride in getting to know our customers personally, therefore we cordially invite you to stop by and introduce yourself to our Registered Pharmacist. 9:5-30 M-F; 9:5-00 Sat.

HELPFUL HINT:
A menu for guests should be interesting, but do not experiment. The diet should above all, be balanced and appetizing.

Maytown Fire Dept. Again To Have Part In Celebration Here

Edward F. Robinson chief of the Maytown Fire Department, announces that again this year the department will take part in the Red, White and Blue Day celebration, Saturday, October 20.

As in years past, the fire department will have a concession stand in the municipal parking lot and also a float in the parade. At 6 p.m. they will sponsor a square dance in the parking lot. For the past few years their float has featured square dances from hoedown island, but this year it will be different: They will still feature square dancers but, this being "The International Year of the Child", they will be the Beaver Creek Promenaders under the direction of Lt. Ray Prater, of the fire department. The group is composed of grade school children from the Maytown school. Lt. Prater and his group have performed several times in the area and most recently at the Folk Festival at the Jenny Wiley Amphitheatre.

Also during the daytime ceremony two former members of the department will be honored for several years of outstanding service to the department and community. The members are Capt. Danny Flannery, now superintendent of Columbia compressor station at Boldman, and Tom McCann, of Ashland.

Maps of Interest To Civil War Buffs

Whatever happened to Langford's, one of the few locations in the state noted on an early map of Kentucky that also located such easily identifiable places today as Lexington and Louisville?

Elihu Barker's map, "Kentucky," prepared at the time Kentucky became the 15th state, conveys with almost unbelievable accuracy the physiographic features of the state.

Barker places Langford's at a point in today's Rockcastle county where the Wilderness Road branches to form tendons reaching north to Boonesborough and more westerly to Fort Harrod. Sometime afterward Langford's disappeared and became Mt. Vernon.

Madison Courthouse, also located on the Barker map, became Richmond, while Bourbon Courthouse became Paris. The map names other localities that just faded from the face of the land—and subsequent maps.

The Barker map is one of 10 in a new issue published Oct. 5 by the University Press of Kentucky. The package of maps ranges from Thomas Conder's "North America," first published in 1794, to Barker's "Kentucky" to "The Perryville Battlefield," issued in 1877, which should be of interest to the growing army of Civil War buffs.

An accompanying 96-page booklet by UK history professor emeritus Thomas D. Clark, who also selected and annotated the maps, describes the maps and discusses the early mapping of Kentucky.

The booklet and 10 maps went on sale in early October. Decorators of dens and family rooms, as well as persons seeking a change from the print fad of recent years, with its birds, animals and river scenes, could very well find in the collection that "something different" they have been seeking.

Duplicating the original hand-coloring of yellows, reds and blues, the maps, of different sizes, provide a lesson in history, especially when studied in conjunction with Clark's text.

Number Two in the series, "The United States," created by John Russell after the Treaty of Peace of 1784, contains a number of anachronisms and chronological puzzles. Clark cites some of them: Vermont and Kentucky are listed as states, and the Kentucky River joins the Ohio opposite the Falls. Nevertheless, says the author, this is an important document "which reflects in its gross errors the foggy notion of Kentucky and the United States held by provincial British geographers and publishers in the closing decade of the 18th century."

A Kentucky map by John Melish is more accurate, the result of Melish's travels in this area 1809-11. Some county boundaries are located, but others are indicated by name only in their general regions. Melish makes no attempt to indicate the topographical features of the state or the presence of natural resources.

By the time map Number Seven is examined, which depicts Kentucky and Tennessee at the close of the Civil War, the viewer can see today's Bluegrass state being defined.

Among interesting items in the collection, all chosen for their historical value and interest as well as the tendency to arouse curiosity, is "The Road from Limestone to Frankfort." This is a fascinating profile of the Limestone (Maysville) Road, as seen in 1795. Appearing to the casual observer as little more than a trail through a heavily-forested land, which it was, with few homesteads, to the serious viewer careful attention is noted to ridges, rocky ledges, stream crossings and crossroads.

"The Perryville Battlefield" depicts the formations of the two armies in the action of Oct. 8, 1862, with some troops being brought into action and others engaged in the fighting.

Other maps in the collection are "Rapids of the Ohio River," published in 1806; "Kentucky with Adjoining Territories," as seen "from the best Authorities 1800," and "A New Map of Kentucky," printed in Philadelphia in 1837.

Gore Is Appointed Grethel Postmaster

The appointment of Richard Gore as postmaster at Grethel, effective October 6, was announced by John P. Doran, Regional Postmaster General for the 13-state central region.

Mr. Gore was born in Wayland, and attended school there. Before starting to work for the postal service, he worked for the Chrysler Corporation in Dayton, Ohio. He began his postal career at Estill, as a leave replacement and was appointed postmaster at that office in 1958 where he has served as postmaster for the past 21 years.

Postmasters are selected on merit, based on recommendations by a Management Selection Board, and appointed by the Postmaster General. Appointments are not subject to Senate confirmation.

With an Eye on Sparrow's Diet

By JIM WRIGHT
In the Dallas, Texas News

Fairly frequently on this page, we run brief editorials commenting on some funny or startling event in the news, in hopes of making our point the hard way (humor can be tougher to handle than the more ponderous approach).

Back on Aug. 25 we ran one of these. But the central event turned out to be not quite so funny.

The edit, "The Worm Tax Also Turns," told about a 12-year-old boy selling fishing worms out of his Eddyville, N.Y., back yard and how he had been collared by the tax men.

The youngster, Jody Gerard, had somehow attracted the attention of the state taxing authorities. These worthies apparently had pondered the effects of the Gerard commerce and ruled that he was dealing with sale of "tangible personal property" and that he would have to pay the state sales tax or else.

As we noted, this brief news item shows that "the tax office's eye is on the sparrow—and also on its diet. So you'd better not try to make any money off either one without giving the treasury its cut."

Thus, we concluded, "the 12-year-old has learned an important lesson about free enterprise in the welfare state: If you're in business, you're in trouble with the government, or about to be."

But there was more to the story than the brief news item we saw. We are indebted to the Chamber of Commerce of the United States for the rest of the saga of the government vs. the Eddyville Worm King.

The chamber reports that state had not only cracked down on Jody for not collecting state taxes. It instructed him to come through with back taxes or be hauled into court.

Jody, scared out of his wits, telephoned a tax official and explained that he was only 12 and that he certainly did not want to break any laws, especially those he knew nothing about. The bureaucrats conferred for about a week and ruled that he must pay up or else.

At about this time, the news media got wind of the dilemma and reported it. Letters poured into Eddyville from all over the world, many offering support and money to help him cover his tax bill—64 cents for the first quarter.

As the publicity grew, the bureaucracy bent, a little. A bureaucrat who had earlier declared himself "proud" of the way the agency had managed the affair claimed he had been misquoted. A state official was sent to the Gerard home to help young Gerard fill out his tax forms and get right with the system. Politicians who are always on the spot when there's ink to be had talked of legislative relief.

But all this post-publicity effort by the adults trying to look good in the limelight came a little late.

To be sure, government had proved it will go to any lengths, however ridiculous, to reap the rewards of any citizen's risks.

Conservation Officers Present Film at Meet

Wayland, Ky.—The first program meeting of the new club year for the Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club was held recently when the club met at the home of Mrs. Otto Martin, Wayland. A film was shown by Dalton Conley and Calvin Prater, conservation officers for the Department of Fish and Wildlife. The film was a beautifully photographed presentation of birdlife in Kentucky in color and sound.

The business session following the program was conducted by the president, Mrs. S. M. Martin. After the Pledge to the Flag, Mrs. Marie Mullins gave the devotions. Three prospective members from the club's membership drive were introduced. They were: Mrs. Anne Layne and Mrs. Sandra Kay Isaac, of Topmost, and Mrs. Novella Froman, Wayland.

During the treasurer's report, it was noted that the $200 voted by the club earlier in the year had been paid to the Area Volunteer Fire Department, which is the club's continuing Community Improvement Project.

During the discussion of old and new business, Mrs. Don Hughes reported that the Daughter Club dinner date of November 5 had been cleared with the Masonic Lodge and the dinner would be held on that date at 6:30 p.m. in the recreation room.

Following the business meeting, refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Rex Martin, Mrs. J. C. Wells, and Mrs. Otto Martin to the following: Mrs. S. M. Martin, Mrs. Marie Mullins, Mrs. Lula Coburn, Mrs. Marcellous Dunfee, Mrs. Don Hughes, Mrs. Eugene DeCoursey, and the three guests, Mrs. Layne, Mrs. Isaac, and Mrs. Froman.

The October program meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Hansel Bradley, Garrett, at the regularly scheduled time.

ten percent (10) of the bid, such deposit to be forfeited in the event a successful bidder fails to purchase the property by December 15, 1979. Bidders must make their own arrangements for financing the purchases.

No bidder may withdraw his bid for a period of sixty (60) days after the date set for the opening of bids.

Bids will be opened on October 31, 1979, at noon, at the offices of the Kentucky Housing Corporation.

The Kentucky Housing Corporation reserves the right to reject any and all bids and to waive formalities.

Lerner Tribute To Air

Lyracist Alan Jay Lerner is the subject of a musical tribute in the premiere of "Song By Song," Monday, October 22 at 9 p.m. (ET), 8 p.m. (CT), on KET.

"Song By Song" is a new series of seven hour-long tributes to some of America's greatest lyricists. Produced and hosted by Ned Sherrin, the monthly series is patterned after his smash-hit London and Broadway show, "Side by Side by Side," a production which was applauded by critics on both sides of the Atlantic.

Special guest star Lena Horne appears in the premiere program, which features the lyrics of Lerner with music by Frederick Loewe, Burton Lane and Kurt Weill. Gemma Craven, Millicent Martin and David Kernan join Miss Horne in performances of music from "My Fair Lady," "Camelot," "Brigadoon" and "On a Clear Day You Can See Forever."

VA Questions and Answers

Q—I have a five-year level premium term insurance plan. I would like to convert to one of the permanent plans. Will I have to take a physical to meet certain health requirements? A—No. The five-year level premium term insurance plan can be converted without meeting health requirements at any time the policy is in force. However, if the veteran is totally disabled, it cannot be converted to an endowment type policy.

Q—I now receive 100 percent service connected disability compensation. My wife and I plan to divorce soon. We have been married for 28 years. Will she be entitled to a portion of my compensation when we are divorced?

A—No. Her entitlement to all benefits ceases when you are divorced.

Q—I understand that recent legislation granted payment of a monetary allowance toward the purchase of a non-government grave marker. What are the details?

A—Public Law 95-476 allows VA to pay up to $50 in cases of veterans whose burial occurred on or after Oct. 18, 1978. For additional information on eligibility, you should contact your nearest VA office.

A—The maximum loan which may be made is limited to the purchase price or the appraised value of the property, whichever is less. However, some lenders, as a matter of policy, restrict the loan amount to four times the amount of a veteran's available entitlement. The VA will guarantee up to 60 percent of the loan, with a maximum guaranty of up to $25,000.

Q—Is there a nation-wide toll-free telephone number veterans can call to get information from the Veterans Administration?

A—VA has no nation-wide number but there are VA regional offices in each state and all have toll-free numbers. Look in the telephone book white pages under United States Government, Veterans Administration.

Q—I am in college as a GI Bill student. If I receive a failing grade in a course, can I repeat it and still receive educational benefits?

A—Any course in which a veteran receives a failing grade is not considered successfully completed. Therefore, the course may be repeated and benefits will be paid.

Q—I am a retired serviceperson and have elected under the family Survivor Benefit Plan (SBP) to provide an annuity for my surviving eligible dependents. If I waive my entire retirement pay in favor of VA compensation, will the VA continue to pay my sbp premiums?

A—If you authorize VA to withhold your monthly premium payments, VA will forward them to your military finance center.

Q—My husband was killed in Vietnam. I believe I am financially able to purchase a home. Will the VA provide any assistance in this regard?

A—Unmarried widows or widowers of veterans of any period of service occurring since Sept. 16, 1940, whose deaths were service connected, are eligible for a VA guaranteed home loan. Contact your nearest VA regional office for details.

Q—If I am rated "zero" percent for a service connected disability, am I entitled to a civil service preference letter?

A—Veterans with an established service connected disability of "zero" percent or more are entitled to receive eligibility certification for civil service preference.

Q—If a veteran is incarcerated at the time he is scheduled for a compensation exam is his claim disallowed until he can report to a VA facility for his exam?

A—Normally the VA will have a VA physician examine the veteran at the prison or arrange for an examination by a fee basis physician.

Q—I have an opportunity to purchase a four unit apartment building. May I use my VA loan guaranty entitlement to purchase this building?

A—Yes. You may purchase the property on a VA loan provided you meet all requirements and plan to occupy one of the units as your home.

Q—I am receiving a nonservice connected pension. My wife died in June. There have been no other changes in my dependency or income status. Must I report social security paid her up to the time of her death?

A—Yes. However, you should show the cost of her illness and burial if you paid for it yourself. This is an allowable exclusion which serves to reduce your countable income for VA purposes.

Q—What is the maximum amount I can borrow on a VA guaranteed loan? I have been told I can borrow four times the $25,000 guaranty.

If someone in your family has a drinking problem, you can see what it's doing to them, but can you see what it's doing to you? For information and help, contact Al-Anon. Meetings are held Saturday night at 8 at the Floyd County Library in Prestonsburg and at 10 Wednesday morning at St. James Episcopal Church in Prestonsburg.

CARD OF THANKS

I would like to express my deepest appreciation to all my friends and relatives who were so kind and helpful to me upon the death of my wife, Roberta Nelson. Your kindness will not be forgotten. Again, thank you all.

Highway Makers Record State's Colorful History

Some of Kentucky's most colorful history is recorded on highway markers that are prepared by the Kentucky Historical Society. The historical markers program, first included in the society's budget in 1964, now consists of more than 1,350 markers.

Of this total 271 are related to the Civil War, according to Dianne Wells, chairman of the markers program. Thirty-five markers concern Daniel Boone, and a large number identify Indian raids and Revolutionary War information. Markers also identify early forts, stations and settlements, iron furnaces, salt works, tanneries and Kentucky Derby winning horses and jockeys.

Many markers honor Kentuckians who have made varied contributions to history, such as "Aunt Julia" Marcum. She was the only woman, as a fighter, to receive a U.S. pension by a special act of Congress in 1884. Her home in Tennessee served as a depot for Southerners going north to the Union Army. While defending her home against marauders, Marcum lost an eye and was badly wounded.

She later moved to Whitley county. A military funeral was held there when she died in 1935 at the age of 91. The marker is located on US 25W in the Williamsburg courtyard.

The burial site of Princess Cornblossom is identified by Marker No. 1075 near Stearns on US 27 in McCreary County. According to legend, the daughter of Chief Doublehead accompanied her father at the signing of the Treaty of Sycamore Shoals in 1775. The treaty transferred the Cherokee land between the Ohio and Cumberland rivers to the Transylvania Company. Princess Cornblossom, who killed a renegade while trying to protect her tribe's secret mine, was married to Big Jake, a white trader.

Also recorded on these "capsules of history" are the origins of county and city names, such as Paducah, the only major Kentucky city with an Indian name. It was named in honor of the legendary Chief Paduke by General William Clark when he platted the town in 1827. The marker is located at 415 Broadway in Paducah (McCracken County).

Historical markers also identify significant buildings and sites, such as the Scott County Courthouse. It was chosen by Judge J. E. Cantrill for trials of the 20 persons accused of being involved with the assassination of Gov. William Goebel in 1900. Although the murder occurred in Frankfort, the hearings were held in Georgetown to ensure fair trials for those indicted. This marker is located in the Georgetown courthouse yard.

Fifteen of the 17 covered bridges in the state have historical markers. Two privately owned bridges do not.

The society is funded to erect 35 new markers each year and provide maintenance on those already standing. Individuals and organizations also fund markers. The Armco Corporation, a steel company in Ashland, has funded 26 markers in Boyd, Carter and Greenup counties. Because of private donations, McCracken has more markers than any other county, 71. Fayette county has 63 markers.

Suggestions for markers are carefully researched and submitted to county marker chairmen. They make recommendations and send the ideas to the society. Wells and her assistants research and forward the applications to a 12-member editing committee selected by General William Buster, director of the Kentucky Historical Society.

The markers are cast in aluminum and sent to the proper county where state Transportation Department personnel erect the markers at the approved site.

In 1969 the society published "Guide to Kentucky Historical Highway Markers" which is available to society members for $1.50 and to non-members for $2. In 1973 a supplement to the original guide was published, and it is available to members for $2 and to non-members for $2.25. These publications contain the exact location of and wording on all the markers in the state.

The public can help preserve Kentucky's heritage by reporting any damage or needed repairs to markers. Reports should be made by contacting Dianne Wells, Kentucky Historical Society, Box H, Frankfort, Ky. 40602, or by calling (502) 564-3016.

Sparger Exhibit
At PCC Oct. 16-23

An exhibition of art work by Hugo Von Sparger will be on display October 16-23 at the Prestonsburg Community College library. A reception will be held Tuesday, October 16 from 6 - 8 p.m. with the artist present. The public is invited.

Mr. Sparger, a quiet, modest man, paints peaceful watercolors, deep fantasies, and total abstractions. "I paint what I feel, and at times I feel differently," he explains. Of German descent, he came to this country at age seven. Other than one drawing class, he is self-taught. He now paints and lives on Elk Creek in Magoffin county.

Eastern Kentucky's Changing Economy

By DR. RAYMOND S. FERELL
Coordinator of Regional Research
Appalachian Development Center
Morehead State University

In a previous column, I discussed the trend in the Appalachian Kentucky region toward an older population. One of the effects that this will have on the regional economy is that more government services will need to be provided in the future and this might put some strains on the counties and cities. Another effect probably will be that fewer people will be working in manufacturing and more will be working in services for these older citizens.

This tendency toward more government can be seen in the rise in transfer payments coming into Kentucky and the Eastern Kentucky region.

Transfer payments are income to people, businesses, county and city governments, and institutions which come from federal government funds. These include all types of payments to veterans (retirement, educational benefits, mustering out pay), welfare payments (aid to dependent children, food stamps), retirement benefits, and all types of unemployment and health benefits. In Kentucky, the total amount of transfer payments increased by 140 percent from 1971 to 1977, the latest figures available.

These are funds which come from taxes, personal and corporate, yours and mine.

The biggest increases in transfer payments in the state are not for welfare payments, as one might suspect, but for retirement benefits to federal employees (183 percent increase from 1971 to 1977), workmen's compensation (190 percent increase, 1971-1977), and government disability payments (273 percent increase between 1971-1977). During the same period, welfare-type payments such as income maintenance, aid to aged, aid to dependent children, and food stamps increased at slower rates, but they still represent almost one-third of all transfer payments.

One of the best federal programs in terms of benefits to the country for the costs was the G. I. Benefits program initiated after World War II. The present educational benefits to veterans program will most likely prove itself to be just as good. Veterans educational benefits increased by 186 percent from 1971 to 1977.

Transfer payments to Eastern Kentuckians increased at a slower rate from 1971 to 1977, but that was only because they were so high at the beginning. The average transfer payment per person in Kentucky in 1977 was $410 as compared to the average transfer payment per person in Eastern Kentucky of $470. By 1976, both had increased, but the gap between the two had widened. The 1976 average transfer payment per person in Eastern Kentucky was $940 as compared to only an $830 average per person for all Kentuckians.

This trend will continue until the Eastern Kentucky region can develop the job opportunities to reduce its dependencies on government checks. A more diversified economy, one which serves the needs of the older population and yet one which attracts younger people is needed. Such an economy will also insure the labor force against the major effects of any recession.

Eastern Kentucky historically has been badly hurt by recessions. By all measures, we are now in one. Unless we can begin now to plan for expanding and diversifying the regional economy, the recovery from the recession will be just as difficult as has been the recovery from past recessions.

Pikeville Center Gets $111,885 in ARC Funds

The Appalachian Regional Commission has approved a $111,085 grant to the Coal Industry Technical Assistance Center in Pikeville, according to Gov. Julian Carroll.

The center collects and evaluates regulatory, legal, safety and technical information needed by small and medium-size coal operators in the area.

Development Secretary William Short said the grant would be used for acquisition of library materials and technical assistance. The Kentucky Department of Energy and the Development Cabinet will use some grant money for evaluation of the center.

In addition to the one-year ARC grant, the Institute for Mining and Minerals Research at the University of Kentucky has contributed $37,037 to the center and Pikeville College will provide $22,778.

The federal government offers employers the opportunity to hire qualified workers and receive a tax break for it under the Targeted-Jobs Tax Credit (TJTC).
