If a Snake Winks at You, Or Its Tail Falls Off, It's a Legless Lizard

It looks like a snake, moves like a snake, and glistens like a snake but it isn't a snake at all. What is it?

It's a misnamed legless lizard called the glass snake, according to Ranger Rick's Nature Magazine. In fact, at 27 inches in length, it is the longest lizard found on the North American continent.

Centuries ago, the ancestors of today's glass snake did have legs, but as they took to burrowing underground those appendages disappeared, according to the National Wildlife Federation's monthly magazine for children.

How can you tell a glass snake from the real thing? Like all lizards, the shiny, gray-brown glass snake has eyelids, which it can open and close. Snakes, on the other hand, have no eyelids and cannot close their eyes.

On close inspection, says Ranger Rick, you will also find that the glass snake has a mouthful of teeth—about 165 of them. Too close inspection is not recommended, however, since glass snakes, though nonpoisonous, often bite when handled.

The glass snake, which is found along the Atlantic Coast from North Carolina into Florida and in parts of the Midwest, got its strange name from its peculiar tail. If its tail is tugged or hit, it may break like glass into several pieces.

Contrary to popular notion, the pieces never join together again or grow into new lizards. Instead, the lizard grows a new tail. "A glass snake's original tail is at least twice as long as its body," reports Ranger Rick, "but its new tail is shorter and stiffer." Fewer than half of the glass snakes found in the wild still have their original tails.

Often the glass snake may choose to leave its tail behind to fool a predator. A king snake, for example, will be distracted by the still wriggling detached tail, while the glass snake makes a quick getaway.

So, if you're afraid of snakes, don't jump to conclusions next time you see a slithery, legless creature in the grass. Instead, take a closer look.

Any "snake" that winks at you is a liza.

Woody Herman To Kick Off 15th Concert Season Here

The Eastern Kentucky Concert Series will kick off its 15th season Oct. 8 with its headliner event, Woody Herman and his Young-Thundering Herd.

Gus Kalos, president of the concert association, said four concerts will be held during the 1978-'80 season.

"I hope all Floyd countians will take the opportunity to attend these events," he said. "For 14 years, the concert series has brought a great deal of enrichment into our area through musical programs, the dance and drama."

"In past years," Kalos added, "we have received financial support from the Kentucky Arts Commission, but this year no such aid is forthcoming. Our own people in the Big Sandy area will have to support us if we are going to be able to continue the series."

Kalos said there will be a meeting tomorrow (Thursday) of all who will be able to work and help support the concert series. The meeting will be at 7:15 p.m. in the Chorus Room (Administration Building) of Prestonsburg Community College.

Season tickets for the Concert Series are on sale now. Anyone wishing to purchase tickets may contact Kalos or Mrs. Chalmer Frazier (886-2185).

The Woody Herman program will be held at the Prestonsburg High School gym. Other events scheduled for this season are: Carl Ratcliff Dance Company, of Atlanta, Nov. 13 at the Prestonsburg Grade School; Lee Luvisi, Louisville, concert pianist, March 18 at Prestonsburg Community College; Actor's Theatre of Louisville in an original drama, "In Fashion," April 1, at the Grade School. Trojan Rally Comes Too Late; South Point, O., Is 40-28 Winner

By ERNIE JOHNSON
(For the WHS Journalism Class)

The Wheelwright Trojans traveled 150 miles to play South Point, Ohio last Friday night, looking for their first victory of the '79 football season. But victory was denied the Trojans as South Point defeated them, 40-28.

"Mr. Jamerson played a good second half," said Anthony Rhea, complimenting Coach Shorty Jamerson after the game.

The Trojans rallied in the second half but their attack was held off long enough for the South Pointers to slip by them.

Wheelwright's fans were getting pretty discouraged with the score 20-0 in the first half. Would they have to go home ashamed to tell the score of the ballgame?

Then the Trojans scrapped and scrambled for three first downs. With a little help from a penalty against the Pointers, Wheelwright was getting close to a touchdown and they knew it. With 5:25 remaining in the first half, Coach Jamerson decided this was the time to spark his team. Senior Captain Henry Isaac called time out. In Ohio, when a team calls time-out the head coach is allowed to go on the field and talk to his players. Jamerson used this rule to the Trojans advantage as he went out to instruct the team on what to do. Immediately following the time-out, the ball was handed to Tony Hall who run for 20 yards and a touchdown. The conversion attempt was also scored by Hall. The Trojans had scored and were beginning to fight back. South Point scored again in the first half to make the half-time score 26-8.

After the halftime discussion and lecture from Coach Jamerson, the Trojans came out ready to play a real half of football.

Trojan running back, Tony Hall received the kickoff and returned it 35 yards. Wheelwright could do nothing further with the ball and punted again. South Point then scored another touchdown, only to have Wheelwright fight back and also place an additional six points on the scoreboard. With 10:05 remaining in the game the score was 33-14. Wheelwright had scored more points against this AAA team, South Point, than they had scored against any other opponent thus far in the season.

South Point came on strong to score once more and make the score 40-14. The Trojans were only beginning as Tony Hall scored from 45 yards out to complete his rushing for the game at 298 yards. Alan Tackett also scored as he ran a very unusual play that was put into effect years ago by Coach Jamerson. The game ended at 40-28.

Wheelwright will have an open week-end this week before beginning a thru. game homestand as they face Cumberland on Sept. 27, Raceland, Oct. 6, and Mullins on Oct. 11.

Rice's Crispies . . . Gray Runs Because It's Fun

By KENNY RICE

Frank Gray has been on a regular running program for 15 years. His 48-year-old body shows the benefits of the program. He is lean and muscular and in better condition than most men half his age. When he was 45 his heart beat was 45 per minute. At an age when most men are finding it hard to get enough energy generated to change channels on the television set, Gray is running five miles a day.

"I run because I like it. That might not sound like a real good reason to run but that's why I run," said the Allen Elementary School teacher who almost has enough years in the teaching profession to retire.

During the time Gray has been on a running program he has read many books magazines about running. He said he's read everything from training for a marathon to correct running posture to tips for beginning a running program. Gray has formed his own philosophy about running.

"Running is so popular now because it is not complicated, it is not expensive and anyone physically capable can start a running program. I used to run eight miles daily but that became too time consuming and I didn't need to run that much to stay in shape. I wasn't interested in running a distance race and five miles a day was plenty for me. There are people all over the country who run twenty miles or more each day however because they are training for distance races. That's the great thing about running, the individual can choose the amount and pace."

While he is in excellent shape and could easily complete a 6.2 or 13-mile course that has become a popular distance with runners, Gray prefers to keep running by himself because "everyone has their own running pace," and to run "wherever the mood strikes me when I walk out the front door." His running course covers a five-mile radius from Old Allen that sometimes leads to Dwale and other times to Cracker Bottom or Banner.

Gray selects different routes almost daily because he feels that running the same course day in and day out gets boring. "Overcoming a monotonous rut is what every runner faces. The change in scenery keeps me fresh when I run and it helps me relax. Running is as good for the mind as it is the body."

He was a member of the short-lived Floyd County Jogging Club that was formed through the Prestonsburg Community College Community Service Program.

"It was a nice idea for local runners to get together and run, but a lot of runners would rather run alone or at least not in a group, plus some people didn't want to drive to Prestonsburg just to run. I guess that's why the club idea fell through."

Gray would like to see less harassment for runners, especially women runners in the county. He has had the usual encounters with hecklers and dogs that most runners experience but nothing that would cause harm. He realizes men runners have an advantage over women runners.

"I've known of cars stopping or cutting across lanes to say something or throw something at a female runner. A lot of women are now running with their husbands or in groups to avoid harassment from passers by. That's a shame when people can't respect runners, but it's happening all over the country, not just in our area."

Gray's "if you don't get out of shape, you never have to get in shape" approach to life is refreshing and encouraging to runners of all ages. He can't foresee the day when he would have to give up his running program because "running is something I've always done and I keep in shape, so I don't see why I can't keep on running."

FINALLY

One of the problems the Kentucky High School Athletic Association has had in recent years with football districts is that some districts have too many teams, making it almost impossible for a team to play every team in its district. This has made for some controversial finishes in the past.

A prime example of a district with too many teams to play round robin during the year has been Region 4, District 2 of Class A. Wheelwright is in this district of nine teams. Two times in the last four years, Wheelwright and Paintsville have finished undefeated in District 2 because neither team played the other. As most football followers know, Paintsville represented the district in the state playoffs those years, while Wheelwright's fine teams were left behind to speculate what might have happened.

The KHSAA has finally realized its error of not having a better way of putting teams in a district. Wheelwright's predicaments were a major reason for a redistricting shakeup this year.

Now each team has to play the team within its district to be eligible to win the district title. Districts having eight, nine or ten teams have been split into sub-districts. Region 4, District 2 still has nine teams, but five of those teams (Pheps, Elkhorn City, Virgie, Fleming-Neon and Jenkins) are in Sub-district 1 while four teams (Betsy Layne, Paintsville, Wheelwright and Mullins) comprise Sub-district 2. After the regular season ends, there will be a week between the start of the play-offs where districts are sub-divided so the two sub-district winners can meet to decide the overall district championship.

Thank goodness the KHSAA has seen the light and set up this new format for deciding district crowns. It's just a shame they were too late for some very good Wheelwright teams to benefit.

Jr. Blackcats Blank Johns Creek, Stumbo

The Blackcats' seventh and eighth grade football squad spelled bad luck for Johns Creek last Tuesday, and again for the John M. Stumbo team, Thursday. Final scores were Blackcats 30, Johns Creek 0; Blackcats 50, Stumbo 0.

Linebacker James Blackburn scored three t.d.'s; Brad Hughes and John Anderson one each against Johns Creek. Nose guard Randy Hager, defensive tackle Todd Daniels, linebackers Brian Pace and James Blackburn controlled the line of scrimmage, while defensive ends Gordie Ratliff and John DeRossett and cornerbacks Marty Minix and Todd Nairn shut down the Johns Creek outside game.

In Thursday night's game, good down-field blocking was displayed by Ritchie Schoolcraft, Gordie Ratliff, and Randy Hager whose play made touchdown runs easier for John Anderson who scored three t.d.'s; John DeRossett, who scored two on runs of 36 and 42 yards with extra points on both. Jamie Adkins and Michael Gunter scored a touchdown each.

Cheerleaders are Johnna Hill, Lisa Hall, Rachel Allen, Debbie Hall, Stephanie DeRossett, Diane Johnson, Kim Branham, Stephanie Branham and Susan Adams.

RIP

The football program at Allen Central did not live to see a third season. The program had been ill and struggling for two years.

When the team was first organized in 1977 the plan was for Allen Central to play junior varsity football for at least one season, maybe two, and then move on to the varsity level by 1979 at the latest.

After the initial season, a varsity schedule was planned for the 1978 season. It was then decided the move to varsity was too soon and the varsity schedule was nixed in favor of a six-game jayvee schedule.

Central was supposed to make the jump to varsity this year, but a lack of interest and support of football in the Right Beaver Creek area led to the termination of football altogether at the school.

Allen Central was 1-11 in two years of jayvee ball.

The two days of music will feature, besides the Goins Brothers and Larry Sparks and the Lonesome Ramblers, the Outdoor Plumbing Company, Goins Brothers Second Edition, South Salyers, the Midnight Travelers and other groups.

Friday's show will begin at 6 p.m. and run through 12 midnight, and Saturday's performances will start at 12 noon and run through midnight. The Archer Park festival site offers plenty of free parking and a shelter in the event of rain, and restrooms and refreshments will also be available.

Blackcats Win First of Season With 35-0 Victory over Central

By C. "OLLIE" ROBINSON

The Prestonsburg Blackcats halted their three-game losing streak last Friday in emphatic fashion.

The Cats' first win came in a home game over the Johnson Central Golden Eagles, 35-0. The Cats led at the end of the first quarter, 7-0, as Tom Hastings scored on a five-yard run and Dwayne Rodebaugh kicked the extra point. In the second quarter, quarterback Jack Wells scored on a one-yard keeper, and Tom Hastings scored his second t.d. on an 18-yard run with Dewey Layne picking up the two extra points on a pass from Rodebaugh, who made a six-yard run to score in the third quarter, plus kicking the extra point. The final tally came in the fourth quarter when Jack Wells connected on a 30-yard pass play to Daniels, and the kick by Rodebaugh again was good.

Offensively, the Cats were led by Hastings, who carried the ball 13 times for 136 yards and two t.d.'s. Defensively, he had five solo tackles and helped on nine others.

"Live from Met" Features Otello

"Otello," Verdi's masterpiece of love and jealousy, airs on KET on Monday, September 24, at 8 p.m.

Adapted from Shakespeare's "Othello," Verdi's opera is set in Cyprus around the 16th century. It is the tragic story of Moorish general caught between love for his gentle wife, Desdemona, and the uncontrollable jealous rage which consumes him.

His ensign, Iago, plots his own advancement by preying on Otello's suspicion of Desdemona's infidelity. Easily conquered by Iago's evil fabrication, Otello strangles Desdemona, then stabs himself upon learning of Iago's treachery.

Placido Domingo sings the title role in Verdi's "Otello" in an opening night production of "Live From The Met" conducted by Metropolitan Opera Music Director James Levine.

Alternate Tax Study For Schools Is Asked

Members of the Subcommittee on Education and the Arts have voted unanimously to recommend to the Interim Joint Committee on Education that a special seven-member subcommittee be set up to study alternate tax sources for local school districts.

The alternate source would be sought to replace property tax as the major source of revenue for local school districts. The subcommittee would determine alternate taxes which would not be subject to as much controversy and would be easier to administer than are the current property taxes.

In its resolution, the subcommittee noted the amount of property tax revenues available to the school districts has steadily declined over the years.

Education and the Arts subcommittee chairman, Rep. Buell Gy (D-Scottsville) said that the new subcommittee would be established to gather citizen input as well as to study alternative tax sources.

After hearing from witnesses about the weighted pupil unit system, the subcommittee approved a motion to recommend to the Interim Committee on Education, which met later, that legislation be prepared providing for as many as 20 pilot school districts which would be funded on the weighted pupil unit system.

The weighted pupil unity system, currently in use in several states, bases financial support for elementary and secondary education upon the individual pupils participating in a particular program rather than upon the number of classrooms.

The pilot projects would allow the General Assembly to secure better data on establishing financial accounting systems, evaluate the accuracy of these systems and to more accurately set up the system of weights upon which any statewide system would be based.

Jim Melton, executive director of the Kentucky School Board Association, told the subcommittee that "properly developed, the weighted pupil unit system could equalize educational aid across the state," but that the system needs a large amount of study before it could be enacted.

Bob Summers, executive secretary of the Kentucky Education Association, told committee members that the results of a questionnaire sent to executive secretaries of 13 education associations in states using the weighted pupil method showed the system "generally causes more state control." This additional control, according to Summers' respondents, causes state departments of education to become less service-oriented and more regulatory and monitoring-oriented agencies.

Summers said that the Kentucky Education Association Board of Directors is on record as not supporting weighted pupil units unless accompanied by assurances and penalties as to the size and ratio of pupils to teachers.

In other action, the subcommittee decided to take no action on an LRC bill draft to count non-public teaching experience toward teacher retirement benefits.

The proposed bill would allow teachers to receive credit for private school service in Kentucky. Currently, experience in non-tax supported elementary or secondary educational institutions in Kentucky is not recognized in compiling the retirement benefits of teachers under the Kentucky Teacher's Retirement System.

The subcommittee recommended a memo be sent to Sen. Gene Stuart (R-Prospect) pointing out concerns of constitutionality and financial impact on the retirement systems and suggesting that he ask for an attorney general's opinion on its constitutionality.

The subcommittee passed a resolution calling for a letter to be sent to Superintendent of Public Instruction Dr. James B. Graham asking for response from him or the state board on the issue of certification for school nurses.

A special committee established by the Department of Education recommended to Dr. Graham that certification for school nurses should be made available with the provisions that no local school district can be kept from hiring a non-certified nurse.

The next meeting of subcommittee is scheduled for 10 a.m. Oct. 3 in Room 307 of the Capitol.

"To accomplish great things, we must not only act but also dream, not only plan but also believe."

T-LOCKED

The NR-1019 incorporates the same DC (direct coupled) amplification and exceptional FM technology as the top-of-the-line NR-1219. Dual VU meters monitor power output; signal strength and center tuning meters are provided for FM.

Excellent phono signal-to-noise ratio, phenomenal transient response and low IM (transient intermodulation distortion) enable flawless reproduction of direct-disc recordings. Twin regulated power supplies insure minimum hum and noise.

When the bass, midrange and treble controls are at 12 o'clock, they are effectively bypassed. This simulated straight line configuration (also used in the NR-1219) results in maximum transient response and minimum phase shift.

The NR-1019 also features Nikko's T-Locked FM tuning, permanently aligned FM IF ceramic filters, dual-gate MOS-FET front end, phase-locked loop FM multiplex, MPX pilot signal cancellation circuit and FM muting. Additional features include 12-dB/octave subsonic filter, high filter, LED function indicators, bidirectional tape dubbing, 25 µs de-emphasis for an FM Dolby decoder and pre/main terminals. The speakers are disconnected automatically if instability is detected and a delay system eliminates turn-on thumps.

Hybrid Fuels the Answer— Now—Today's Energy Needs?

Coal-based emulsions (hybrid fuels) could meet today's energy needs, says University of Louisville professor of law Dr. Dee Akers.

In a presentation to the 87th national meeting of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers in Boston, Dr. Akers described a double breakthrough in liquifying coal and using it in place of oil.

Dr. Akers, director of the U. of L. Government Law Center, recently wrote a paper entitled, "Coal-Based Emulsions: A New Generation of Hybrid Fuels?" in which he concludes that these types of fuels offer a solution for energy problems now, not in 10 years.

He suggests the government encourage private industry to take Kentucky coal and change it in the simplest manner possible to produce a more attractive fuel that burns relatively cleanly and is easily handled. The fuel that will provide an answer to the problem is a water-oil emulsion (WOC), he said.

Combinations of oil and coal are not new; however, until recently these mixtures have had problems of stability (coal settling to the bottom). This problem has been solved in a patented process by Eric Cottell of Bayville, N.Y., an expert in processing techniques.

WOC is approximately 50 percent coal, 20 percent water, and 30 percent oil. The coal is ground to 200-mesh fineness before mixing. Then the mixture is treated by an ultrasonic probe which further reduces the coal particles and produces a never-before achieved stability.

The main deterrent in the past to burning coal has been the pollution factor. However, all the polluting carbons in WOC were totally burned in a three-hour test burn at an Ohio plant, Akers reported. Other combustion tests conducted at U of L have demonstrated the potential of this fuel.

Test results also indicate that WOC has a burn efficiency much more like oil than coal and the combustion efficiency of oil is improved by the addition of coal particles. Heating capacity of this fuel is approximately equivalent to that of coal.

Akers classifies the WOC emulsion as one of a new generation of hybrid fuels. "They offer an easy and attractive way to increase the use of coal and they constitute a new option for stretching oil supplies over the next few years while other options are being developed."

According to Akers, since a barrel of oil will go twice as far when added to coal and water, oil imports can be cut in half. He views this fuel more as an oil replacer than an oil stretcher, since it offers a quicker and cleaner way to shift from coal to oil without the $50 billion cost of reverting to non-liquid coal systems.

Concerned with time and cost factors, he said, "We now know that production plants can be built with off-the-shelf hardware in a matter of months, not years, and at a very low cost compared with most options."

In fact, the nation's first coal-oil liquid fuel manufacturing plant opened Aug. 30 at Shelbyville. It took approximately 18 months from inception to completion.

In addition to lower production and manufacturing costs, and apparently lower pollution emissions, this fuel can be burned in industrial furnaces. With minor burner modification, it is adaptable to home heating.

"WOC is the only energy alternative aimed at relieving near-term energy supply shortages. And it is the only energy alternative expected to lower instead of raise energy costs," concluded Akers.

Knott Resident Exhibits Art

Elizabeth K. "Betty" Snyder, of Ball Branch near Leburn (Knott county), is exhibiting several of her paintings at the Floyd County Library. The exhibit will run through September 29.

Mrs. Snyder, a former member of the Logan County Art League and the Indian Lake Art League near Bellefontaine, O., recently spent a year of study under Aiko Ishida, a Cincinnati artist widely known for her oriental style and her method of using "acrylic-as-watercolor" technique in a fresh approach to art.

Mrs. Snyder recently exhibited at the Knott County Library as well as the Perry County Library and her paintings include birds, animals, landscapes, portraits and many flowers, particularly roses. Many of her works are for sale.

HOSTESS TO LODGES

1982 Foreseen For Completion Of New KY 80

All of the 42 miles of construction necessary to complete new, four-lane KY 80 from Water Gap, near here, to Hazard is under construction and scheduled for completion in 1982, J. C. Hawkins, director of contract procurement in the state Department of Transportation, said last week.

During the first six months of this year contracts calling for the expenditure of $46 million on this highway through Floyd, Knott and Perry counties were awarded—more than twice the $21 million awarded in the same period of last year.

Other contracts awarded during the January-June period of this year included $33.9 million in state projects, $26 million in resource recovery projects or projects funded from the coal severance tax, and $21 million in interstate projects.

According to Hawkins, $105,841,677 for road construction was awarded during this same period last year. "We awarded more contracts this year than last in almost every area," Hawkins said.

Hawkins added that Appalachian road contracts increased from $16 million during the first six-month period of 1978 to more than $50 million for the same period in 1979. The federal government funds 70 percent of these projects.

Another boost occurred in contracts awarded to repair interstate roads. During 1978, $1 million was awarded from January to June for repair work. This year, more than $21 million will be spent upgrading the system and adding safety improvements.

"The bulk of these improvements are taking place in Louisville and northern Kentucky," Hawkins said. "We are widening bridges, adding lanes and generally making the system more safe."

The first state legislation requiring factory inspections was in Massachusetts in 1879, according to the U.S. Labor Department's "Labor Firsts in America".

P'burg Students Confront Problems Of "Married" Life in New Course

Susan Key and Tim Collins "exchange vows" in a mock marriage staged last Tuesday as part of the PHS home economics department's newly-introduced course, Family Living.

A new course at Prestonsburg High School promises to give students a real taste of the complexities and difficult decision-making which face young married people in today's society.

Introduced experimentally into the home ec. curriculum this fall, the course, Family Living, will expose several couples, all of whom were "married" in an elaborate mass wedding at the Church of God here last Tuesday, to the kind of annoying but necessary decisions which tend to minimize "marital bliss."

Teacher Janet Rowe said of the innovative course: "The emphasis throughout is on concrete experience; thus the course is structured in a format that challenges students to tackle problems firsthand, much as they would as actual married couples." The course is directed toward three basic areas—communications, decision making and consumer education, Mrs. Rowe pointed out.

From their "marriage" each couple will tackle various problem situations—things like what kind of car to buy, renting an apartment, and generally how to cope with the high cost of living. Students will obtain information for these projects from community sources, guest speakers, reading materials and films.

Carroll To Seek $145 Million Bonding for KY 80, Other Roads

Gov. Julian Carroll notified legislators Monday he plans to prepare for a $145 million resource recovery road bond issue which would include 13 projects authorized by the last Legislature.

The next bond issue, as were the previous two, will be financed from coal severance tax proceeds according to legislation enacted by the 1976 General Assembly.

Carroll said no additional funds will be needed this fiscal year for debt service because the current budget takes care of that.

The initial $250 million bond issue was for the first phase of the road projects. The new $145 million bond issue will help finance continuation of the projects and will include the cost overrun for Kentucky 80, the main new coal highway in Eastern Kentucky. The governor indicated the cost overrun on Kentucky 80 was caused by inflation.

The road from Inez to connect with US 23 near Auxier was not listed. It however, was not in the list of roads authorized by the Legislature.

Other projects on the list: —Ulysses—Inez road from Ulysses to KY 40 east of Inez, 13.6 miles.

—U.S. 421—Harlan county from Grays Knob to Dressen, 2.1 miles.

—Kentucky 11—Lee county—Beattyville-Zachariah road from KY 52 in Beattyville to near junction with KY 498, 5 miles.

—Kentucky 11—Mason county from Lewisburg to KY 11 near crossing of Limestone Branch in Maysville, 6.9 miles.

—Henderson county—Second Street-Zion road from KY 351 west of Carlisle Street to 1,930 feet east of Adams Lane, 2.3 miles.

—Providence Bypass—Webster county from KY 109 north of Providence to Kentucky 41A east of Providence, 3 miles.

—Muhlenberg county—U.S. 62—Greenville-Central City road from U.S. 62 at junction of KY 189 west of Greenville to U.S. 431 north of Central City, 11.8 miles.

—Whitesburg Bypass—Letcher county, from KY 15, near the west city limit of Whitesburg east to U.S. 119, 2.27 miles.

—Helechawa to Index—Wolfe and Morgan counties, from KY 205 intersection at Helechawa to U.S. 460 east of Index, 12.1 miles.

—Morgan county—From Kentucky 7, near Elkfork, north of West Liberty to KY 519 east of Yochum, 3 miles.

—Montgomery county—Mount Sterling Bypass from U.S. 60W to U.S. 60E, 4.1 miles.

—U.S. 25E from Baughman to existing four-lane section southeast of Corbin, 11.8 miles.

Robinson Draws Three Years on Drug Guilt Plea

Kenneth Robinson, formerly of the Harold section of the county, pleaded guilty in circuit court last week to a charge of possessing a controlled substance (narcotics) for the purpose of sale and was sentenced by Circuit Judge Hollie Conley to a three-year pen term. The maximum penalty for the offense is five years.

Another drug case headed toward circuit court began Tuesday with the issuance of a district court warrant charging John Mark Howard, of Prestonsburg, with the same offense. Howard was first arrested Sept. 1 by Deputy Sheriff Joe Gunner and booked for possession, but laboratory tests showed that among drugs in his possession were almost three grams of cocaine.

Lee Griffith was returned here Monday morning from the LaGrange reformatory to appear as a witness in the circuit court trial of Earl Ray Slone, who is charged with the burglary of the home of Mrs. Ark Castle, widow, near Pyramid. But Slone failed to appear for trial.

Slone's bond was forfeited and a bench warrant for his arrest was issued. Griffith remains in jail here as court officials are hoping to get Slone to trial soon.

Griffith, who also was charged with the burglary of the Castle home, pleaded guilty at an earlier court term and was sentenced to 15 years in prison.

OLM Parent-Teacher Group Holds Meet

Our Lady of the Mountains Parent-Teachers Organization is now conducting a magazine sale as part of their fundraising projects for the school. The sale will continue through September 20.

The school's P.T.O. is sponsoring an aluminum can collection which will be taken to a recycling center in Lexington. St. Theodore Parish in Prestonsburg is also collecting cans and will donate all proceeds to the school.

These and other projects were discussed at the first P. T. O. meeting held Thursday evening, August 23. Co-chairmen Thomas Hereford, of Prestonsburg, and John Gannon, of Paintsville, were both present. Following a prayer by Rev. David P. Shockey, John Gannon presided at the meeting.

Two new faculty members were introduced to the parents. Sister Mary Bernadette is homeroom teacher for the first and second grades, and Mrs. Jolita Burchett is homeroom teacher for the third and fourth grades. Sister Leonore has transferred to St. Agatha Academy, Winchester, and Mrs. Margaret Hernandez is continuing her education at the University of Kentucky. Other faculty members include Sister Alma Marie, seventh and eighth grades, and Mrs. Alyce Conley, fifth and sixth grades. Sister Alma Marie is also principal.

A report was made by the tuition committee, and it was explained that the increase decided upon was necessary to help make up the deficit in the school's operating expenses.

Mr. Cannon reported to the group that donations received from the school's alumni was approximately $700, and he expressed appreciation for the contributions.

The proposed budget for the 1979-80 school year was presented and discussed. Besides the magazine sale and aluminum can drive already in progress, it was voted to continue the five holiday bake sales.

Mrs. Gary Rubado, chairwomen of an Apple Day booth project which will offer helium balloons for sale, reported that a booth and space has been reserved.

The annual Florida-Indian River Citrus Sale was then discussed by the chairmen and members and a committee was appointed to work out the details for this year's sale. Mrs. William Cook, chairwoman for the past several years, said that since it is a three-month project, groundwork should begin soon. A report will be made at the next P.T.O. meeting concerning the sale.

Following the closing prayer by Father William Poole, of Martin, refreshments were served, and parents were invited to visit the classrooms and talk to the teachers.

The next meeting of the school's Parent-Teachers Organization will be Thursday, September 20 at 7:30 p.m.

GONE BUT NOT FORGOTTEN

One so dear from us is gone, Now she is resting in that sweet home. Her smiling face we see no more, Until we meet on Heaven's Shore. We miss you Patty, our hearts are sore, As time goes by, we miss you more Your loving smile, your gentle face, No one can fill your vacant place, Where there's no pain or suffering, But a place filled with love We loved her so much, But God loved her best, We miss her each and every day, Her picture hangs upon the wall, And her smile the sweetest of all, How I miss her no one knows. We hope someday to walk the Golden Street with you Patty. We love you very much,

Our Fragile Earth

By DR. JERRY HOWELL
Director of Environmental Studies

The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) report, "Southeast Environmental Profiles, 1977," covered environmental aspects of life in eight southern states. In addition to describing advances and problems in water and air quality, solid waste and toxicants, the report covered pesticides, radiation, mining, and noise.

DDT has been banned for practical purposes since 1972, and aldrin, dieldrin, and others have been phased out recently, but pesticides are still a problem because certain other chemicals, such as carbamates and organophosphates, are being used more frequently. These new pesticides are less persistent in the environment, but are more dangerous to handle than the old formulations. To help safely handle these pesticides, southern states have certified, through the federal Insecticide, Fungicide and Rodenticide Act, more than 40,000 commercial and 260,000 private pesticide applicators.

Pesticide disposal is also a problem in the southeast. Alabama recently approved the first landfill in the region for accepting hazardous wastes, and Kentucky is considering turning the "Valley of the Drums," an illegal hazardous materials dump, into an accepted disposal site.

Radiation exposure is potentially a problem in the southeast, although there have been no major accidents. One problem is nuclear waste disposal. Kentucky's Maxey Flats, in Fleming county, was recently closed as an official burial ground and may eventually be used for scientific research. Whatever its eventual fate, the site must be monitored for at least hundreds of years. Kentucky has no nuclear power plants, although adjacent states have several in operation or planned. The southeast presently has 15 operating nuclear plants and expects to have 53 by 1991.

According to EPA, Kentucky has several specific water quality problems associated with coal mining. There is limited acid mine drainage along the upper reaches of the Cumberland River in Harlan, Bell and Knox counties, and minor mine pollution also exists in Laurel, Whitley, and McCreary counties along some Cumberland River tributaries. The upper reaches of the Kentucky River, especially the North Fork and its tributaries, have depressed water quality. Continuous pollution from mine drainage exists only in a few tributaries in the vicinity of Hazard and Whitesburg, and intermittent acidity occurs in the Levisa Fork of the Big Sandy. Other counties with acid water problems include Christian, Webster, Union, McLean, Muhlenberg, Ohio, Daviess, and Butler. Sedimentation from mining activities was also cited as a problem in these and other areas of the state.

Noise control ordinances are rare in the southeast, possible because the need is not as great as in the north. Kentucky did have some local ordinances in 1976, but statewide controls have only recently been proposed. Florida was the only regional state with motor vehicle acoustical criteria in 1976 and it led regionally in the number of communities with ordinances for nuisance noise and sound limits based on use categories, such as residential, commercial, and industrial.

Floyd County Health Notes

JANET E. HICKS
Health Educator

Diabetes is the sixth leading cause of death in the state of Kentucky. There are about a million and a half Americans who know they have diabetes and are working with their physicians to control their disease. But medical authorities estimate that there are just as many diabetics who do not know that they are really sick. They think that they are just tired and run down or have a minor complaint which will go away. But diabetes doesn't go away. It can be controlled with diet, exercise, medication, and regular living habits. The sooner diabetes is diagnosed and treated, the better are a diabetic's chances to live a long and full life. The Floyd County Health Department offers diabetes screening to the public on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday of each week from 8 to 12 and 1 to 4. If you or any member of your family think you may have symptoms of diabetes, it would be well worth your time to come to the health department to obtain free diabetes screening. Clinics for the coming week: Wednesday, September 19, a nurse from the health department will be at Hamilton's Kentucky Food Store in Teaberry to conduct the monthly outpost clinic there. Immunizations, TB skin tests, diabetes screenings, and blood pressures will be available from 10 to 12 and 1 to 2. This clinic is a free service and the public is welcome to attend. There will be a glaucoma clinic conducted at the Floyd County Health Department Friday, September 21, from 10 to 12 and 1 to 3. Glaucoma is a serious eye disease that can result in blindness without producing any noticeable symptoms to the victim. All persons age 35 and older are urged to attend this clinic to be screened, free of charge, for glaucoma, a disease that slowly and painlessly can result in blindness.

Second Birthday

Cake and ice cream were served and he received several nice gifts. Also attending were his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Rorer and Mr. and Mrs. John Rose, and Tammy and Stephanie Rorer.

A Consumer Tip
from Extension Specialists at the UK College of Agriculture

Features that allow for comfort and growth are important considerations when buying clothes for children. Extension clothing specialists with UK's College of Agriculture point out that garment features—not an extra size—allow for growth. They suggest looking for adjustable waistlines, straps and cuffs. Try to choose large neck openings and wide seams. And make sure jackets and coats have enough room to fit over other garments.

LETTERS To the Editor

Denies Misrepresentation

There appeared a statement in the Floyd County Times the week of Sept. 12 where Mrs. Virgie Collins went before the City Council and stated that I had misrepresented the desires of the people of Town Branch, and the names I had turned in were young children and renters. The facts are:
1. The statement of Mrs. Collins is misleading and untrue.
2. Each petition we turned in stated whether they were property owners, renters or voters.
3. The hollow behind the Town Branch Church has been declared by the Ky. Dept. of Health officials to be unsafe and unfit for human habitation.
4. The sewage in running wild and the garbage is a disgrace. The people who are fighting the hardest are some of the worst polluters.
5. They are not afraid of the city officials being dictators, as they know that Prestonsburg has a good city government. What they are really concerned about is supervision and that some will have to clean their property up. Just think hard and consider the facts:
1. We need Prestonsburg a lot worse than they need us.
2. They can help clean up this mess that is a disgrace to the neighborhood and an eyesore to the town.
3. They can furnish the following greatly needed services:
(a) Fire protection that will greatly reduce the high cost of insurance.
(b) Police protection which is greatly needed.
(c) They can supply a fine sanitation department at a low cost.
(d) We should have lower gas and water rates, because we would be within the corporation. The benefits that annexation have to offer are much greater than the cost. So, please don't be misled. If the blind lead the blind, they will all fall in the sewage together. Yours for a cleaner and better neighborhood.

In Appreciation

I would like to take this opportunity to thank Mayor Harold Cooley and the City of Prestonsburg for their cooperation in helping make the United Mine Workers' Labor day celebration a success. The city police were very efficient in directing traffic and in handling the parking situation. I would especially like to extend my appreciation to Mrs. Susan Johnson, director of Archer Park, for all her help in getting the park ready for the celebration. I would also like to say I appreciate the good coverage of all the activities by the WPRT radio station. Without the cooperation of all these people, the celebration could not have been such a success. To all of you again I say, Thanks!
GEORGE VAUGHN, Chairman

Issue and Debate

Should the States Call for a Constitutional Convention for an Amendment to Balance the Federal Budget?

PRO: The following statement represents the position of the National Taxpayers Union

Only once since 1960 has the federal budget been balanced. Through good years and bad the deficit has tended to increase, so that today—in the fifth year of a recovery—the President plans a deficit of $29 billion. As the deficits have increased, so has the rate of inflation. The consumer price index has more than doubled since 1967. At current rates it will double again by the early 1980s. This outcome is due to the fact that incurring inflationary deficits is in the self-interest of congressmen. It improves their chances of reelection. Deficits enable them to make the benefits of increased spending immediately evident to special interests while disguising the costs to large numbers of the rest of society. This is true in either of the two ways in which deficits can be financed.
• Deficits can be financed by the hidden tax of inflation. When the government increases the money supply to pay for the deficit, each dollar becomes worth less. From 1950 to 1965 the average annual federal deficit was $2.6 billion dollars and the average inflation rate was under 2%. From 1965 to 1978 the average deficit was $25.8 billion, and the average inflation rate was about 5.5%. With deficits averaging over $50 billion in the last 3 years, the current inflation rate is over 10%. In the long run, a balanced budget will reduce the rate of inflation substantially.
• When deficits are financed through genuine borrowing from the public, those who will bear the costs are the future generations who must pay taxes to redeem the bonds. This, too, reduces the political costs of the spending. By passing the bills on to our children and their children, members of Congress evade the responsibility for their spending decisions today.

A balanced budget amendment would require the politicians to be accountable; to own up explicitly and honestly to the full costs of spending our money. That is something which no political body in history has ever wanted to do. Once politicians shake free from fiscal discipline it is only by a kind of miracle that they are ever induced to voluntarily restrain themselves again. The record of many countries proves this. Thankfully, our constitutional fathers foresaw that a day might come when the Congress would fail the people. They gave us the means through Article V to go around the Congress to propose constitutional amendments by the convention process at times when the Congress itself was the cause of a defect in our system. Today, 30 states of a needed 34 have already officially petitioned the Congress either to pass a balanced budget amendment or to convene a limited constitutional convention to consider that and no other subject. As this movement to halt inflationary deficit spending nears success, the Big Spenders say that the people cannot be trusted to select delegates to a convention and that the state legislatures cannot be trusted to refrain from ratifying absurd proposals. The facts are that the 30 state resolutions have asked for a convention only on a balanced budget amendment, and only if Congress refuses to propose the amendment. It's the opinion of the American Bar Association, Attorney General Griffin B. Bell, former U.S. Senator Sam J. Ervin, Jr., the majority of the legal scholars and the unanimous opinion of the United States Senate in 1971 and 1973 that a convention can be limited. Furthermore, critics of a convention conveniently ignore the fact that the Congress itself is effectively an unlimited convention which could propose any amendment it chose at any time. Through almost two hundred years, no steps have been taken to repeal the Bill of Rights or to do anything which is alleged to be likely in a limited convention. Upon close consideration, therefore, the charges against a convention would not persuade a reasonable citizen. The experience of many countries proves that inflation, once allowed to run out of control, is destructive of free institutions. Inflation turns expectations upside-down. It impoverishes the elderly, makes fools of those who save, and turns every contract into a fraud, eventually creating conditions which no person of goodwill could desire. That is why we must heed the advice of all parties and enact a constitutional amendment outlawing inflationary deficit spending.

Con: The following statement represents the position of Citizens for the Constitution.

The current call for a constitutional convention to require a balanced federal budget not only represents a radical threat to our Constitution, it also threatens to alter radically the course of government as we know it. There are several reasons which preclude the calling of a convention for any single purpose, regardless of how worthy its intent. The concept of amending the Constitution by convention call is a radical approach to changing the Constitution. Very few people understand the process that exists for amending our Constitution. Article Five of the Constitution provides for two methods of amendment. Under the only method used since the original Constitution was adopted, Congress proposed amendments that became part of the Constitution after they were ratified by the legislatures of three-fourths of the states. We have been able to adopt, through this congressional initiative, twenty-six amendments to our Constitution. The other method, which has never been tried, provides only that "Congress... on the application of the legislatures of two-thirds of the several states, shall call a convention for proposing amendments." Why did the framers of the Constitution offer this alternative method of amendment? The Article Five convention device was a compromise that guaranteed the states would have power to initiate constitutional change in the event of an emergency in which Congress proved unresponsive or if there were a basic and fundamental argument about the type of government we should have. Clearly, this is not the case today. The convention provision was a reluctant compromise, to be sure. And like many compromises among conflicting interests, it is incredibly vague. Most constitutional experts agree that this method was provided to guarantee that the states would have power to initiate constitutional change in the event of a basic and fundamental argument about the type of government we should have. One of the few points on which constitutional experts generally agree is that the convention device should be used only in circumstances so extreme that we are prepared to rewrite the entire Constitution. In the two hundred years since the drafting of the original Constitution, a convention has never been called, and there is no body of law on which to base the calling of a convention. The convention delegates could argue that they were charged with considering constitutional issues of major concern to the American public and would assert their right, as outlined in the Constitution, to consider amendments with no constraint or limits. Amendments could be considered on a vast spectrum of issues including abortion, busing, affirmative action, or even property rights.

The drive to rewrite our Constitution is really an effort on the part of a small group of people interested in a narrow and conservative goal, a goal that could cause a major economic shock to our nation if enacted. No one supporting this effort has sought to explain how such an amendment would affect the country's economy. Would such a permanent requirement lead to increased taxes as one way of balancing the budget? It could, and the possibility of increased taxes is not what the American people want as a way to balance the budget. Many economic experts have presented sound arguments that a balanced budget is itself a dangerous prospect, one which could cost the nation's taxpayers in the long run. The Constitution amendment process was never meant to be used to prove or disprove the economic theories of a small group of people. The Constitution and the process of amending it exist as tools of governance which defines the rights of citizens and their system of government. If we begin to narrow this role for the Constitution, by using it to define specific policy actions on the part of government, we will undo the work of its original framers and of 200 years of sound judicial opinion on the role of government in our lives. Restraining inflation is a goal shared by the vast majority of the American public. It is not easy to argue against any proposal that purports to restrain inflation and the growing costs of government and its taxes. A constitutional amendment mandating a balanced budget is, however, an unwise and dangerous method—a method which could cause a major economic shock to the nation if enacted and result in turning minor recessions into serious depressions. The Convention proposal goes beyond being merely an unwise economic policy, it is a serious challenge to the continued strength of our democratic form of government.

Moore-Yoho Vows Exchanged

Miss Claudia Lynn Moore became the bride of Mr. Allen Bradley Yoho in a double ring ceremony solemnized Saturday evening, June 9, at 6:30 at the First Baptist Church in Gallipolis, Ohio, by the Rev. Joseph Godwin, pastor of the church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Moore, of Gallipolis, O., formerly of Garrett, and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Pack and Mrs. Roshia Moore and the late Albert Moore, all of Garrett.

Mr. Yoho is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen F. Yoho, also of Gallipolis.

Music, presented by Mrs. Edward Stewart, included these selections, "Ave Maria", "Theme from Ice Castles", "For All We Know" and "A Time for Us". Lisa Stewart sang "Whither Thou Goest", "You Light Up My Life", "Sunrise Sunset", and "The Lord's Prayer".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a formal gown of white quiana with imported Venice lace and seed pearls, a high neckline and fitted bodice and long fitted sleeves. The gown was fashioned with an empire waistline and cathedral train. An attached hood, trimmed with Venice lace, formed the head piece. The bridal bouquet was of yellow and blue daisies with white rosebuds and ivy.

Mrs. Jane Koerten, matron of honor, wore a gown of yellow quiana nylon featuring a long flared skirt, and a deep neckline ruffle which tapered to a point. Cindy Graham, Wendy Orr, Janet Yoho, Kathy Yoho, and Beth Yoho served as bridesmaids. They wore dresses identical to the matron of honor, in blue quiana nylon. John Moore, brother of the bride, was best man, and Jon Thompson, David Graham, Jeff Bane, Doug Perry, and Russ Perry served as ushers.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Moore wore a long, sleeveless powder blue gown, and Mrs. Yoho, mother of the groom, wore a long pink quiana nylon gown. Both wore white carnation corsages. Registering guests was Pamela Joyce Conry, cousin of the bride.

A reception was held in the church social room following the ceremony. Tables were decorated with silver candelabra with arrangements of blue and yellow daisies and the four-tier scalloped edged wedding cake, topped with a bouquet of yellow and blue daisies, was baked by the groom's mother. Rice bags were given out by Rodney Stevens, cousin of the bride.

Out-of-town guests include Mr. and Mrs. Claude Pack, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Stevens and Rodney, Mrs. Roshia Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Combs, and Mrs. Bill Francis, Jr., all of Garrett; Mrs. Myreda Pratt, of Martin; Mrs. Jacqueline Conry, Pamela and Carolyn, of Centerline, Michigan; Mr. and Mrs. Michael Guy, of Detroit Michigan; Mr. and Mrs. Gary Koerten, of Cincinnati, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Perry, of Hamlin, West Virginia; Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Dudding, of Charleston, West Virginia; Mr. and Mrs. James Sowards, of Huntington, West Virginia, and Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Horn, of Columbus, Ohio.

Scientific Program Slated Three days At Nat'l Med Meet

Topics of timely medical subjects will be offered to Kentucky physicians at the Kentucky Medical Association's annual meeting scheduled September 24-27 at the Ramada Inn-Bluegrass Convention Center, Louisville.

The three-day scientific program, beginning Tuesday morning, September 25, will accentuate the general program themes of "Trauma," "Cancer," the "Billiary Tree" and "Recent Advances in Medical Practice."

Dr. Roger P. White, of the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn., will participate in the opening program on Tuesday morning. Dr. White's topic will be, "Mobile Basic and Advanced Life Support in Traumatic Emergencies."

Tuesday afternoon program will be highlighted by a presentation by Dr. Robert S. Sparkman, Dallas, Texas, on "The Woman in the Case"—the story of Jane Todd Crawford on whom the world's first successful abdominal surgery was performed by Dr. Ephraim McDowell at Danville in 1809.

Wednesday's session theme, "The World of Cancer," will include some of the most eminent physicians in the United States in the field of cancer treatment and research.

Thursday's program will stress the theme of "Recent Advances in Medical Practice," and will include presentations on the "Hypersensitivity to Insect Stings," by Dr. Martin D. Valentine, Baltimore, Md., and a discussion of the "New Diabetic," by Dr. Thomas G. Skillman, Columbus, Ohio.

Dr. James H. Sammons, executive vice-president of the American Medical Association, will be the featured speaker at the annual President's Luncheon on Wednesday, Sept. 26, which will also include the installation of the 1979-'80 KMA president, Dr. Robert S. Howell, of Louisville.

CARD OF THANKS

We would express our thanks to everyone who sent cards and flowers, who made calls and visited, or helped in any way during Miss Jean Carol Hale's illness and upon her death. We would especially thank the nurses of the Riverview Manor Nursing Home for the special love and attention they gave Jean Carol. We are grateful to Dr. Larry Leslie for his kindness and wonderful care, and we offer our special gratitude to the following ministers for their comforting words: the Revs. Lori Vannucci, Dean Pack and Bill E. Campbell. We also thank the officials from the Kentucky District of the Assemblies of God, the Revs. James C. Ellis, Laverne Snyder, Joseph Hardt, and Wayne Hemphill, for the comfort which they brought us. We, the family, offer our gratitude to Gus Kalos for the love he and his family showed toward us, and for the beautiful hymns he sang at the services, and to Mrs. Lolita Campbell for playing the piano. We want to thank the Floyd Funeral Home for its kind and efficient service and for the love which they showed our family, and the pallbearers for the help which they rendered. Our special thanks go to some special people who showed their love for all of us, and helped during Jean's illness and following her death: Mrs. Eleanor Robinson, Mrs. Dorothy Bowlds, Mrs. Hermia Powell, Mrs. Betty Osborne, and Jean's many other friends who helped in so many ways. We also offer our heartfelt and sincere thanks for all the prayers and support which they gave.

Miss Castle-Mr. Thorpe To Wed

Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Joe Castle, of Wayland, announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Cindy, to Michael J. Thorpe, son of Mrs. Geraldine Thorpe, of Wayland.

Miss Castle is a 1977 graduate of Allen Central High School and is now a junior at Pikeville College.

Mr. Thorpe is also a graduate of Allen Central High School and Mayo State Vocational School. He is now employed with Melco Construction Company.

The wedding will be solemnized October 20, at 5 p.m. at the Wayland United Methodist Church with the pastor, Rev. Mabry Holbrook, officiating.

The gracious custom of open church will be observed with a reception in the church basement following the ceremony.

Students May Work Longer Hours Now

A state regulation pertaining to Child Labor Law which became effective last Wednesday removes the restriction of hours 16- and 17-year-olds may work while school is not in session. This includes spring, summer and Christmas breaks.

Formerly, the students were limited to 8-hours days and 48-hour weeks while not in school.

Filed by the Kentucky Department of Labor's Division of Labor Standards, the regulation permits the students to work until 11:30 p.m. Sundays through Thursdays and until 1 a.m. on Fridays and Saturdays when school is in session.

Before the change, 16- and 17-year-olds could not work past 10 p.m. Sundays through Thursdays and not past midnight on Fridays, Saturdays and during vacation periods.

Students can work a maximum of 32 hours per week while school is in session.

However, instead of the previous four hours-per-day limit, the 16- and 17-year-olds can now work six hours-per-day Mondays through Fridays and eight hours-per-day on Saturdays and Sundays.

TO ASSIST VETS, WIDOWS

The state service officer, Disabled American Veterans, will be at the McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital at 9 a.m. Sept. 25 to perform service work for veterans and their wives.

What's Cooking in Ovens?

by Catherine Winters

Whether you cook quick and easy meals for one, or prefer gourmet dining for a group, you're probably in the market for an oven that is pretty hot stuff.

Why not consider a convection oven—a scaled-down version of the ovens that professional chefs and bakers have used for more than 25 years? It bakes, broils and roasts—with no basting or turning required—and reduces cooking time. For the ambitious cook as well as the practical homemaker, it's an appealing new alternative to traditional kitchen ovens and microwave ovens.

Convection ovens come in a variety of styles—gas or electric, free-standing, built-in, or table-top. They can roast a chicken for Sunday's dinner or bake cookies for the holidays about 25% faster than a conventional oven, and half as fast as a microwave oven—and with no transfer of flavor from one food to another.

The reasoning behind the design of the convection oven is of a practical nature: most kitchen ovens are too large for the jobs they do. As a result a great deal of unused space is unnecessarily heated. Often, the heat is not distributed evenly throughout the oven. In addition, many regular ovens require lots of elbow grease once cleaning time rolls around.

Microwaves, on the other hand, are energy efficient since they heat only the food and cook foods faster than does a traditional oven. But, while more than 8.9 million microwave ovens have been sold since 1972 with no reported ill effects, there has been no final word on the short and long range effects—if any—of microwave radiation on the human body.

For the energy and health conscious consumer, a convection oven may be the right answer.

What is Convection?

A fan continuously recycles heated air throughout a convection oven, making sure that it touched all surfaces of your food, so you can count on even temperature distribution and uniform cooking. That means that every loaf of bread you bake will come out of the oven looking like every other loaf of bread. That roast chicken will be juicier, since it will require less cooking time. Outside, you'll never reach the boiling point, no matter what you cook, since the heat given off by some brands of convection ovens is less than half of what ordinary ovens produce.

Several companies, including Tappan, Faberware, Cuisinart, and Maxim, currently have convection ovens on the market. Will these eventually replace the traditional oven or give microwave ovens a run for the money?

That remains to be seen. Although consumer sales of convection ovens are on the rise, industry spokesmen estimate that of the six million ovens sold in this country in 1978, only 150,000 were convection ovens. (2,600,000 were table top microwave ovens.)

Manufacturers of convection ovens emphasize the fact that their ovens can conserve energy, an appealing characteristic for the energy conscious consumer. Since no pre-heating is needed for most foods, cooking times are shortened. One company reports that you can actually save five to ten minutes per pound cooking time for a leg of lamb, for instance; thirty-five to forty minutes for scalloped potatoes; four minutes for a medium sirloin steak; and five to ten minutes for an angel food cake. While the microwave can still do the job faster, industry sources claim that the convection oven produces a tastier product without fear of possible harm from microwave radiation.

Size and price

Although larger and more costly models are available, the small convection oven will appeal to the single person as well as the household with no room to spare. The pint-sized models, however, do have their drawbacks. Most of them are not large enough to accommodate dinner parties for eight or twelve; on other occasions, they should work well. Because of the constantly circulating heat, the oven can be filled to capacity: It's not unusual to cook a 14 pound turkey or to use the adjustable racks—a special feature—to cook a roast, baked potatoes, muffins and baked apples—simultaneously.

One company estimates that a typical convection oven costs about 4¢ an hour to operate—based on the national average of residential electricity cost, less than what it costs to operate a standard gas or electric oven. Prices for models can range from under $200 to more than $350 for compact counter-top styles up to $600-$1200 for free-standing and built-in models.

The Daughters of the American Revolution remind us that September 17 through 23 has been proclaimed by the President of the United States as Constitution Week. If our nation is to remain vital, it must maintain the spirit of liberty expressed in our Constitution. If we fail to guard that spirit, and become indifferent to the worth of our freedom, we will have lost the right to freedom.

MORPHINE-RELATED DRUG FOR PAIN RELIEF IS PATENTED
WASHINGTON—A compound for alleviating pain has been invented by Dr. Paul H. Mazzocchi, professor of chemistry at the University of Maryland in College Park, and Aline M. Harrison, a research associate and graduate student. Technically the compound is a benzazocine. It is structurally related to morphine, but in animal tests has shown none of the addictive properties of that drug.

★ Extension Service News ★

By JOHN E. SPARKS
(County Extension Agent for Agriculture)

Killing frost arrives in most parts of Kentucky in mid-October. Most garden products come to an end except late cabbage, greens, and turnips. Areas of the garden which have not already been planted in a cover crop should be planted now to rye. Chances are that rye planted at this time won't make much growth before winter, but if left until April would provide ample organic matter to turn under.

If no cover crop is sown, and the garden is level enough not to wash, plowing may be done after frost has seared the vegetable tops. If turned under in partly green condition, cover crops readily change to humus. Areas of the garden containing weeds and grasses should be turned before they completely dry out and turn brown.

If such materials as vegetables, weeds and grasses are allowed to lie on the soil surface during the winter, they become dry and tough and frequently interfere with soil preparation in the spring.

When fall plowing can be practiced the alternate freezing and thawing action helps to improve the soil structure.

Fall has arrived and with it bright red, yellow, and intermediate shades of our native forests. Learn to identify the red color of red maple, sourwood, tupelo, sweet gum and dogwood and the yellow of beech, tulip, yellowwood, aspen and birch. All of these native trees can add much to the October residential landscape.

If you've started some new grass, mow it when it is 3 inches tall, but don't cut it lower than 1 1/2 inches. Rake leaves often. Accumulations of leaves shade out lawns during a time when plants are stooling and filling in empty places. If you haven't fertilized your lawn yet, it is not too late to do so.

October is also planting time. Most deciduous trees and shrubs can be planted now as they lose their leaves. Wait 'till next spring to plant the thin-barked species such as Magnolia, Dogwood, Birch, Vitex, Althea, and Buddleia. Support trees with stakes to protect them from rocking in the winter wind and injuring root systems. Also, it's a good idea to wrap young tree trunks and mulch them heavily for this first winter.

Fertilize your trees which are established. Plant roots are active at this time and it's possible that nutrients are more readily absorbed in the fall than in spring. In spring, soil temperatures are sufficiently cool to greatly reduce the amount of nutrient absorption.

If all your trees are planted, spend some time and effort with daffodils and other bulbs. The results will be most rewarding next spring and for years to come if you make the right selections now. Daffodils are especially adapted for Kentucky gardens as are scillas, grape hyacinths, crocuses and several other small, spring-flowering bulbs. Locate crocus where rabbits are not likely to bother (there is one thing to be said for a rabbit-proof chainlink fence.)

After frosts kill the tops of dahlias, begonias and other tender bulbs, wait 7 to 10 days, then dig and dry them. Be careful not to leave them out on a frosty night. Most store well in dry vermiculite in a cool dark basement, if temperatures can be kept below 55 degrees F. Don't divide Tuberose, Dahlias, and Cannas until next spring.

During the cool Indian Summer days is a good time to get clean-up work done. Perennials need to be cut back, their dead and diseased portions removed. Petunias, marigolds and other annuals need to be pulled and composted or thrown out. Bring in flower pots and urns before hard frosts crack them. Take down bird houses and store them in a dry place. Put up bird feeders and start stocking them with feed. If you've some walks or fences that need repairing, now's the time to do it, while it's cool. Also, store some soil for next spring's annuals and for houseplant repotting during the winter.

Enjoy chrysanthemums now while they're at their best. You might want to cover them when the weatherman says the temperatures will be in the 20's. By protecting them for a few cold nights, you may be able to have plenty of color well into November.

Pharmacy Footnotes

by Harold Cooley

Because of the absolute necessity of nutrition to life and health, it is often considered as a single, separate, health-producing factor. A balanced diet provides the body essential nutrients for three main purposes; growth and repair, regulation of body processes and to yield energy. The right kinds of foods, in proper balance, provide the nutritional needs of the body and markedly affect the quality of life. Sadly enough, improper nutrition is still an important health problem in the United States.

At COOLEY APOTHECARY, No. 2 Town Center Building, Prestonsburg, 886-8106, your health is important to us. To provide you with the personalized service you deserve, we keep an up-to-date medical profile on each member of your family. To assure that you always receive the best quality ingredients available, there is always a Registered Pharmacist on duty to serve you. Come to COOLEY APOTHECARY and get the professional service you deserve. Open 9-5:30 PM Mon.-Fri.; 9-5:00 PM Sat.

Cancer Hopeline

Q—Do more men than women die of cancer and if so, why?

A—Statistics do show that more men than women die of cancer by about a 55 to 45 ratio.

Men are less likely to go for health checkups, especially men who are feeling fine. Some consider it "unmanly". Others claim that the pressures of business prevent them from going. Whatever the excuse, failure to have regular checkups has led to many needless deaths among men.

In addition, the lung cancer death rate among men is soaring at almost epidemic rates. Also women pay more attention to warning signals; and cancer may strike them in such sites as the womb and breast where the disease is more accessible for diagnosis and treatment.

The Cancer Hopeline encourages anyone who suspects cancer to seek a physician's opinion, remembering that early detection saves lives. Although cancer does not discriminate some types of cancers do occur more frequently in men than women such as: lung, bladder, and prostate. Specifically a brochure on: "Cancer of the Prostate and Other Male Genito-urinary Organs" is available free as other similar brochures. These may be obtained by writing the Cancer Hopeline, 915 S. Limestone Lexington, Kentucky 40536 or phone 1-800-432-9321.

COURSE GRADUATE—Amie Burke (right), of Prestonsburg, was among more than 20 graduates of the recent 15-week food service supervisory training course at Morehead State University. Presenting the certificate are Dr. Charlotte Bennett, left, head of MSU's Department of Home Economics, and Cathy Peterjohn, workshop coordinator.

The first watches produced about 1580 had only hour hands since their movements were too slow for minutes.

HOMEMAKERS MEET

Members of the Abbott Homemakers group met at the church annex, Tuesday evening, Sept. 11, with the president, Mrs. Ethel Ratliff, in charge of the meeting. Mrs. Ratliff led the members in the reading of the Club Creed. The devotions were given by Mrs. Muriel Hill. Mrs. Frances Pitts, Floyd county home economist, announced that there would be a workshop for club leaders on the making of baskets at the Kentucky Power Building, September 25, beginning at 10:30 a.m. Mrs. Ethel Ratliff and Mrs. Eukie Merritt were selected to attend the meeting. Mrs. Pitts and Mrs. Ratliff presented the lesson on "the Fall Fashion Picture." At the close of the meeting the hostesses, Mrs. Grace Greer and Mrs. Helen Ann Neeley, served a dessert course to a guest, Mrs. Mary Margaret Neeley, and members, Mesdames Frances Pitts, Grace Conley, Alta Hall, Ethel Ratliff, Sharon Neeley, Cynthia Mae Frasure and Sharon Sparr.

Hot Tubs—Just Good Clean Fun

By Brian Perry

"Rub-a-dub-dub, three men in a tub." In California, where the hot tub craze is hottest, you may well find three men in a tub—and possibly a few women and kids as well.

Hot tubs provide a large, comfortable setting for groups of people to loll about in swirling, bubbling, 105° water. Man (and woman) has sought to immerse himself in pleasure ever since Adam and Eve, and the notion of soothing public baths goes a long way back.

Leave it to California, of course, to launch the idea on a new wave of popularity. The modern hot tub, gaining in acclaim as it moves across the country, was adapted in the early '70s from a device enjoyed by millions of Japanese. (The sunny west coasters made the first tubs from what seemed most familiar—wine vats.)

More than a simple tub, a hot tub provides a constant temperature, pumped-in air bubbles, and swirling water for a massage effect. Those are the benefits which induce buyers to shell out $1,000-$3,500 rather than soak in conventional one-person porcelain bathtubs. Or perhaps the big attraction lies in the extra room for company, and that certain chic something a hot tub lends to a lawn party.

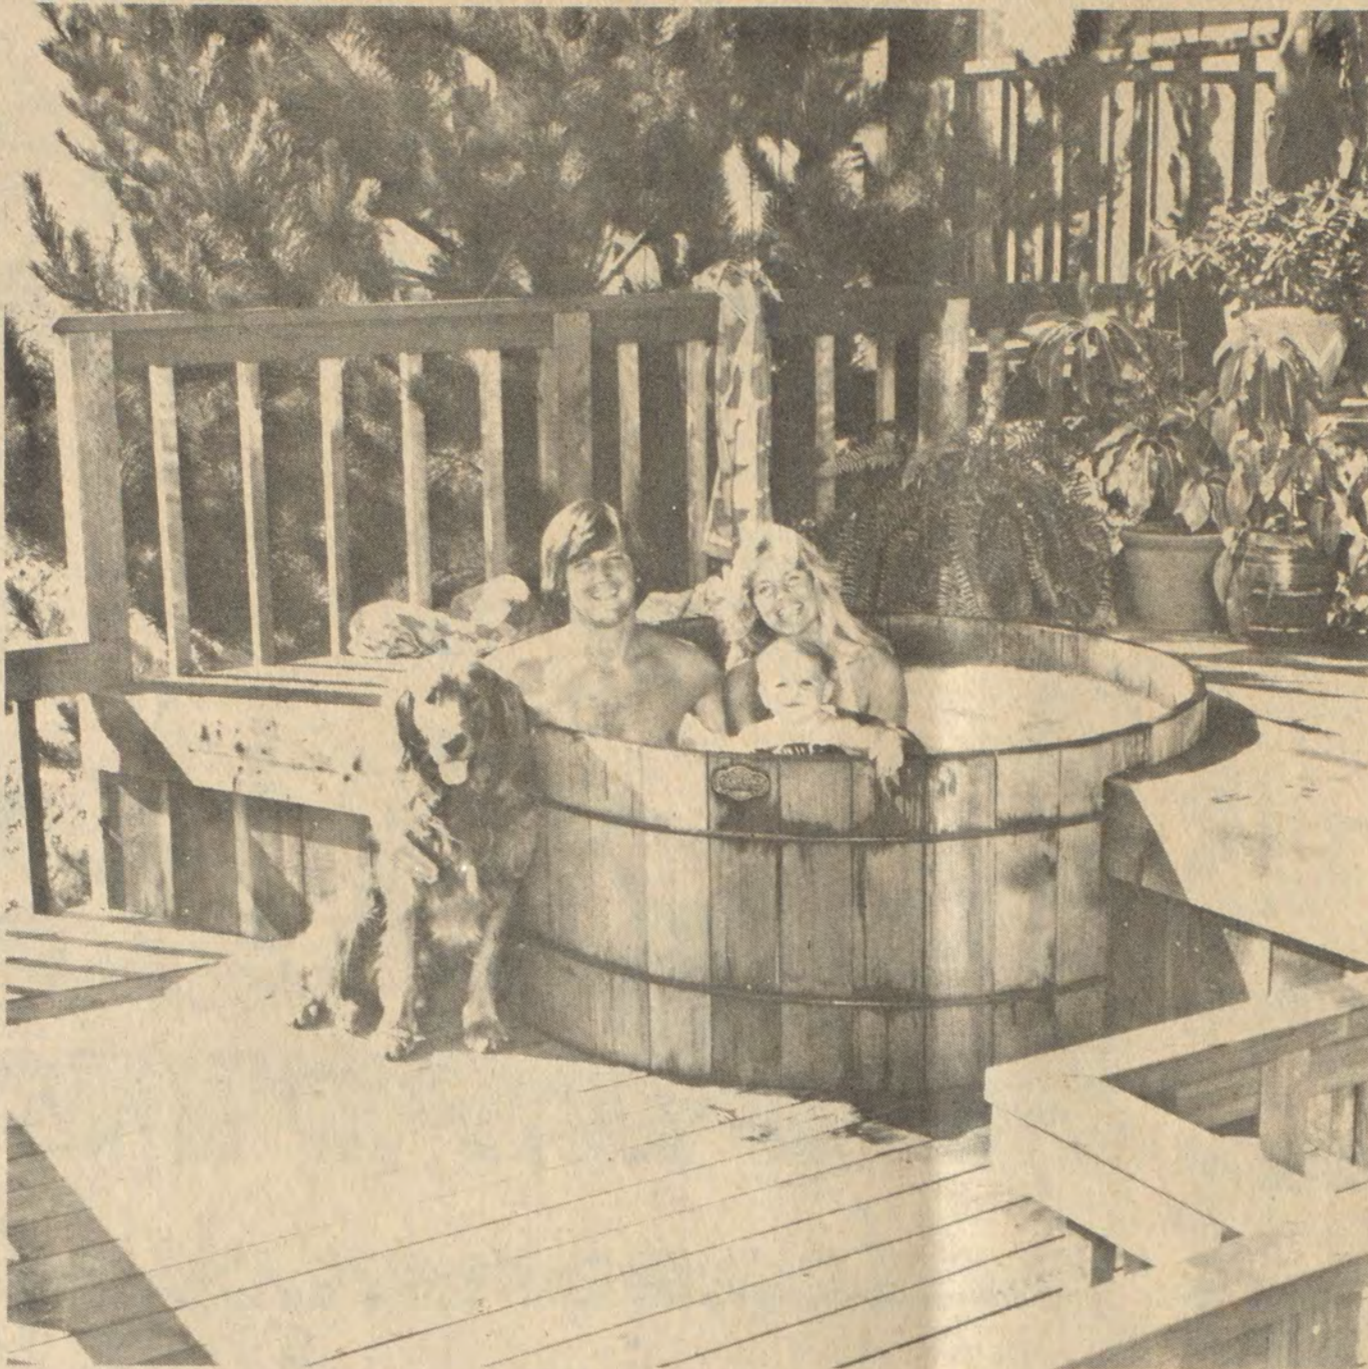

History of a Trend

Trendsetting California, the land of rising fun, may think it's come up with a new angle on the venerable swimming pool, but public bathing has a long and distinguished history.

The ancient Greeks, who bathed to purify both mind and body, passed the idea along to the Romans. The noble Romans, who would sit 3,000 at a time and discuss politics in their massive marble baths, introduced public bathing to the entire known world. Bathing—public or private—is one Roman legacy that remained forgotten when the world emerged from the dark ages into the Renaissance.

Our own White House, long revered throughout the world as a bastion of cleanliness, did not have its first bath tub installed until 1851—and it was hotly criticized as an outlandish luxury. Even the relatively well-known mineral water and hot spring resorts of the last century fell far short of widespread popularity.

Hot tubs are less expensive than swimming pools, but they come with just as many, if not more, gadgets, toys, and optional accessories. A ready-made wood tub comes equipped with water heaters, filters, chlorine dispensers, and one or two whirlpool jets usually included in the price.

Hidden Costs

"If you use it regularly, it's not expensive," says one owner. "But it's good to be aware that there are some hidden costs involved."

What costs and how much? That depends on how lavish you want to get. Although you can build your own for about $500, you can add thousands of dollars to your costs through such accessories as sun decks, stairs, lights, housing for pumps and heaters, aerators to make extra bubbles, and a concrete slab to give the tub an even foundation.

Even such necessities as installation costs, plumbing and electrical hookups are extra. Maintenance, including gas or electricity, averages $20 to $30 a month. Some packages include automatic timers which will heat the tub at a specified time of the day. Tub covers are sold as accessories but are considered a necessity—especially if there are young children around. Insulating blankets are also deemed to be a required item. Where does the lavishness come in?

Some people insist on intricate control systems which allow them to control special lights, whirlpools and temperature level. Others want to enhance the exotic effect by adding lush plants and sophisticated landscaping. Some demand the convenience of an outdoor shower. A few gentle souls will settle for the mild indulgence of scented water or a good old rubber duck (actually offered in a current hot tub catalogue).

Youth is said to be wasted on the young. Hot tub fans are making up for that, openly acknowledging their desire to return to warm, womb-like security—and hot tubs are soaking them for all they're worth.

Cabinet Meeting Scheduled Sept. 20

Gov. Julian Carroll will hold his cabinet meeting in the Old Capitol, Thursday, Sept. 20, at 8 a.m. The meeting marks the first time in 70 years that the executive branch of government has conducted business in the Old Capitol.

Gov. Carroll officially opened the Old Capitol after its restoration with a ribbon-cutting ceremony on Boone Day, June 7, 1975. Since that time, he has encouraged the use of the historic building by holding a special session of the legislature there in 1976 and a meeting of the state Supreme Court in 1978.

State officials moved their offices into the New Capitol in the fall of 1909. The Old Capitol was the seat of government for 79 years after it was completed in 1830 by Gideon Shryock, a 27-year-old architect. Historians note the building as one of the finest examples of Greek Revival architecture. The present Old Capitol is the third which has been constructed since Kentucky achieved statehood in 1792.

The first Capitol, a three-story stone structure, was built between 1793-94 and burned in 1813. The second Capitol, a two-story brick building, was constructed between 1814-16 and burned in 1824. These two structures were located on the site of the public square in Frankfort, which included Clinton, Lewis, Madison and Market (now Broadway) streets.

Cultural or educational events can be scheduled at the Old Capitol by contacting Bill Long, curator at the Kentucky Historical Society by calling (502) 564-3016.

"People are what museum work is all about. We are trying to present the people of yesterday and their activities to the people of today in a manner that is both interesting and educational," Long said.

Credits for High School Grads Raised

The state Board for Elementary and Secondary Education has proposed a regulation amendment that would raise the number of elective credits required by the state for high school graduation from 18 to 20.
The revision would also allow the local board of education to require additional credits for a diploma. No final action will be taken on the proposed regulation until after a public hearing is held.
Most seniors graduating in spring 1979 had more than the minimum 18 credits required, according to the report of a committee studying the effect of the increase. That committee, which was made up of school superintendents, high school principals and a teacher, sent a survey on graduation requirements to 205 public high schools. It received 143 responses.
The survey showed that not only did

Summer Cleanup in Floyd, Elsewhere, Returns Bonus

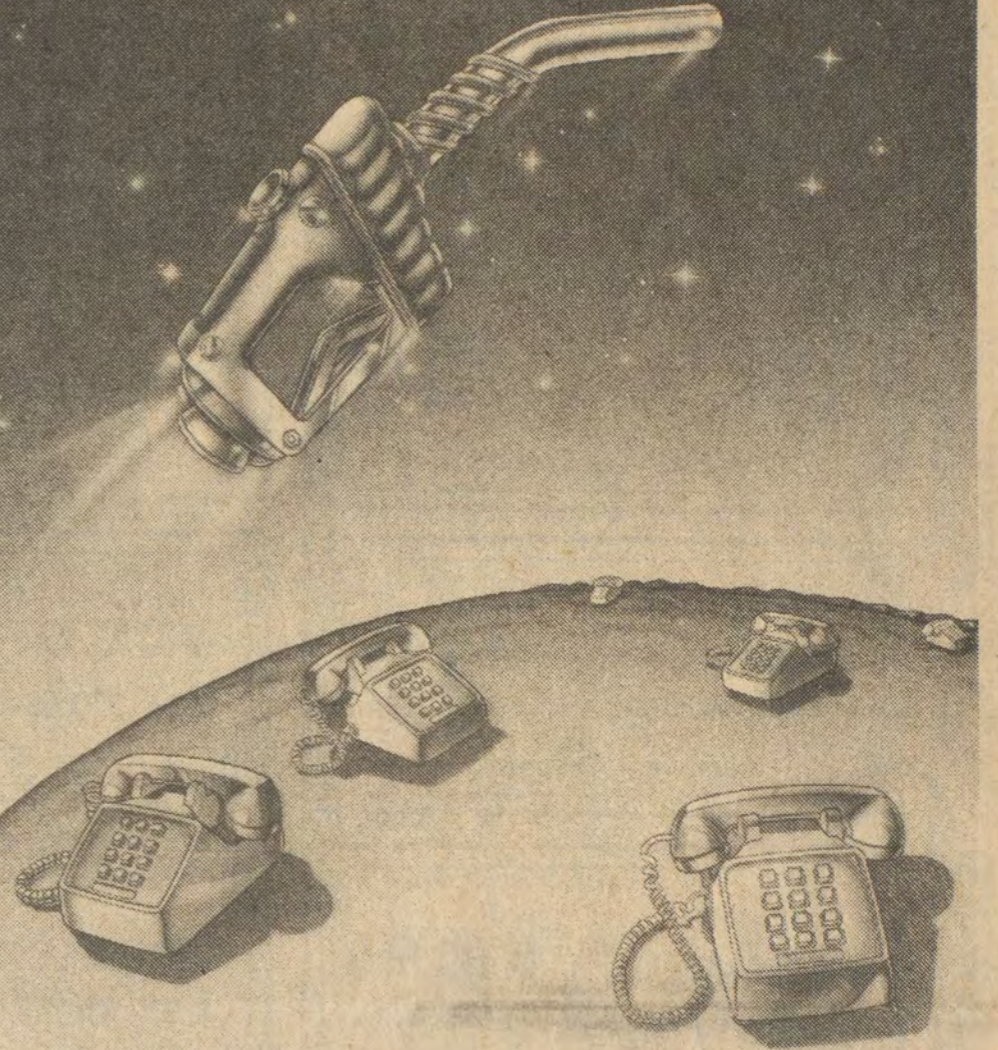

In addition to cleaner roadsides and summer employment for many Kentucky youths, this year's version of the Summer Litter Corp program provided an added bonus in 18 counties, including Floyd.
The counties received more than $8,700 in return for aluminum that was recycled. In each county, the proceeds from the recycled aluminum were divided among the workers as a supplement to their regular paychecks, according to Frank Harscher, secretary of the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection.
The summer litter program was sponsored by the Natural Resources Department. The program ended Aug. 10 so the employees could return to school.
Of the 18 participating counties, 16 have already compiled their summer aluminum collection figures. The 16 counties combined to collect a total of 38,028 pounds of aluminum.
The aluminum was sold to Reynolds and Alcoa recycling centers for 20 to 23 cents a pound. The profit totaled $8,746.
Kenton county's crew reported the largest amount of aluminum collected and sold this summer—5,362 pounds. Davis county collected 4,000, and Boone county collected 3,909 pounds. The other counties collected between 700 and 2,500 pounds of aluminum.
Harscher said recycling is an important step toward solving the litter and solid waste problem in Kentucky. "Besides making money for the kids in these 18 counties, the recycling of aluminum saves energy," he said.
"Aluminum does not deteriorate. Therefore, it can be recycled. This recycling process requires less than 5 percent of the energy originally used to make the aluminum," he added.
Since aluminum has a scrap value, public education efforts for recycling may encourage people to think twice before they toss an empty soft drink can out their car window, Harscher said.

The 17 other Kentucky counties that participated in this summer's eight-week clean-up campaign were Boone, Boyle, Boyd, Breathitt, Campbell, Daviess, Floyd, Franklin, Henderson, Kenton, Laurel, Madison, Mason, McCreary, McCracken, Pulaski, Russell and Warren.
Harscher said the crews and their bags of litter were highly visible in the 18 counties covering 5,373 miles of state and county roads. This effort will, hopefully, encourage Kentuckians to refrain from littering the commonwealth's roadsides, he said.
