

Bagworms Pose Threat to Trees

Many varieties of trees found in Kentucky may be defoliated and several species of evergreens could be killed this summer if bagworms which feed on the trees are not controlled.

During the early spring months is the best time to get rid of the insect pests which do so much damage, according to Elmore Grim, director of the state Division of Forestry.

Bagworms feed on evergreens and many hardwoods, but prefer pine, eastern red cedar and arborvitae, according to forest pest control specialist, Richard Dorset. They can be a serious problem on ornamentals and shade trees, he said.

"If a bagworm problem is not controlled early, the population can reach dangerous numbers within a few years," Dorset continued. "Consequently, early control is economically practical and esthetically desirable, especially on plants used around the home."

The best and cheapest method of controlling the pests is to pick the bags off trees by hand, the foresters said. If the bags are picked in the winter they should be destroyed. Burying them or burning them would kill them, Dorset said.

If you wait until summer, the bags should be put in a bucket covered with quarter-inch mesh screen and left outside, he added. This allows any parasites that may be attacking the pests to emerge and attack the rest of the worms.

If the bagworms are numerous or the trees very large, insecticides may be needed. For best results, spray with Dursban, Diazinon, Sevin, Malathion or Orthene in late May or early June, the foresters advise. Large or older bagworms can often tolerate insecticides.

A biological control agent, a bacteria sold under the trade name Dipel, also is effective against various species of defoliating caterpillars. This eliminates the need for chemical pesticides.

"Identifying the harmful caterpillar stage of the bagworm is easy," Dorset said. "Each caterpillar spins a small tough triangular or conical-shaped bag soon after it hatches in late May or early June. The bag is usually no longer than one-fourth inch."

"As the caterpillar grows, it continually enlarges its home, adding bits of foliage, grass and webbing," he continued. "When the caterpillar is full grown the bag is one and a half to two inches long and about three-fourth inch in diameter."

"In late September, after the caterpillars have become moths, the female lays between 500 and 1,000 eggs in her old bag," he said. "These eggs remain in the bag until the young caterpillars emerge the following spring and begin construction of new bags."

For more information on bagworms or any other tree pest, contact your local district forester or write to Forest Pest Control Specialist, Kentucky Division of Forestry, Bureau of Natural Resources, Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

Energy Saving Measures Help Reduce Taxes

Homeowners or renters who purchase insulation, storm windows and other energy-saving devices for their homes can reduce their federal tax bill as much as $300, the Internal Revenue Service said. In addition, they can receive a credit of up to $2,200 for installing solar panels, windmills or other devices that use renewable energy sources.

The first credit, known as the energy conservation credit, is figured at 15 percent of the first $2,000 spent on items such as storm or thermal windows and doors, insulation, weatherstripping or caulking.

The second credit or "renewable" energy source credit is 30 percent of the first $2,000 plus 20 percent of the next $8,000 invested in qualifying solar, wind or geothermal equipment used to heat, cool, or provide hot water for the home.

Both credits are available for items purchased and installed on a taxpayer's principal residence between April 20, 1977 and December 31, 1985.

To claim the credit, taxpayers must file Form 1040 and attach IRS Form 5695, to show how the credit was computed. Form 5695, "Energy Credits," comes with your tax package.

Additional information on the credit is available in the free IRS Publication 903, "Energy Credits for Individuals." Copies of the publication and of Form 5695 may be ordered by using the order form in the tax package or by calling the IRS toll-free at 584-1361 in Louisville, 255-2333 in Lexington, 628-0055 in Covington, or 1-800-428-9100 elsewhere in Kentucky.

Miss Horn Is Neb. Teen Pageant Finalist

Dusty Horn, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Horn, of Sutherland, Nebraska, will be a finalist in the 1980 Miss Nebraska National Teen-ager Pageant to be held at Concordia College, Seward, June 13-15. Miss Horn is sponsored by Sutherland High School student council, Mr. and Mrs. Jaycees, Lions Club and the Sutherland Fire Department. Her hobby is painting. Contestants will be judged on scholastic achievement, leadership, citizenship, poise, personality and personal appearance. Each contestant will write an essay on the subject, "What's Right About America."

She is the daughter of Marie Vance, of West Prestonsburg.

Methodist Women Meet

Women of the First United Methodist Church met at 7 p.m. Monday in the church parlor for their monthly meeting. The president, Mrs. Elizabeth Ramey, presided, and the meeting was opened with prayer by Mrs. Fannie Runnels.

Minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. George D. Brown, and treasurer's report was given by Mrs. James J. Carter.

The president announced the following meetings: District Spiritual Life Retreat, April 12, at Prestonsburg Community Methodist Church, with Reverend Joanne Mendecker leader. Theme for the day will be "Inner Healing." Also the Conference Spiritual Life Retreat will be held April 25-26 at Coadmore.

Program topic, "The Cost of Discipleship," was given by Roslyn Burchett, Elizabeth Ramey, Bonnie Applegate and Alice Harris.

Hope Whitten and Alice Ball, hostesses, served refreshments to Fannie Runnels, Roslyn Burchett, Elizabeth Ramey, Geneva Carter, Bonnie Applegate, Eleanor Horn, Alice Harris, Katherine Stevens, Mary Jane Brown.

The next meeting will be May 5 with Dorothy Stover, leader, and Geneva Carter, hostess.

Dr. Owen To Lead In Revival Here, Beginning Tonight

Dr. Frank Owen, executive secretary of the Kentucky Baptist Convention, will be the evangelist, beginning tonight (Wednesday) for the spring revival which began Sunday at First (Irene Cole Memorial) Baptist Church here.

The pastor, the Rev. Dean L. Pack, has occupied the pulpit prior to Dr. Owen's arrival, beginning the revival effort with last Sunday morning's service and continuing the services nightly at 7:30.

The revival will end with next Sunday morning's service.

The Rev. Owen, a former pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, Lexington, is widely known as a preacher and denominational leader.

The revival music program will be led by Gus Kalos, music director. Nursery facilities are offered.

An invitation to attend each service is extended by the pastor and congregation.

HOMEMAKERS MEET

The Day Homemakers met at the First United Methodist Church, Tuesday afternoon, April 8, at 1 o'clock, with the club's president, Mrs. Phyllis Herrick, in charge. Mrs. Eleanor Horn brought the devotionals, using as her topic "Caring and Sharing With Love." The club voted to make a donation to the Floyd County Red Cross drive. Mrs. Frances Pitts, home economist for this county, announced that the Ovarian Cancer Fund, to which members of the Homemakers were among the clubs which have contributed their 100% quota, and expressed the desire that those members who have not contributed do so as soon as possible so that the goal may be met.

The president, Mrs. Herrick, appointed the following nominating committee to select officers for the club year, 1980-'81: Mrs. Becky Short, Mrs. May K. Roberts, and Mrs. Eleanor Horn. The leaders for this meeting, Miss Alice Harris and Mrs. Fannie Runnels, presented an informative lesson on "Table Accessories and Centerpieces." Following a brief introduction by Mrs. Runnels, she and Miss Harris displayed a large selection of china, crystal, silverware and table linens, and discussed the matching of accessories that should be used in the serving of various types of meals. The hostesses, Mrs. Norma S. Stepp and Mrs. Mae S. Kendrick, served a dessert course to Miss Alice Harris, Mesdames Fannie Runnels, Phyllis Herrick, Frances Pitts, Darlene Jones, Joyce Everly, Otelia Smiley, Pat Necessary, Myrtle Snively, Beatrice Collins, Dorothy Stover, Minnie Grace Sutherland, Stella Spurlock, Docia Woods, Eleanor Horn, Mary Sue Moore, and Dorothy Burke.

The next meeting will be on Tuesday afternoon, May 13, at the same location, with Mrs. Becky Short and Mrs. Darlene Jones as hostesses.

ATTEND CONVENTION

Mrs. Maxine Bierman, president, and Mrs. Susan Johnson, secretary, of the Prestonsburg Woman's Club, have returned from Louisville, where they attended the KFWC convention at the Hyatt Regency, April 10-13. Mrs. Bierman is the recently elected vice-governor of the Seventh district.

Members of the Prestonsburg Woman's Club who plan to attend the installation dinner at May Lodge, Thursday evening, May 1, should call Mrs. Dorothy Stover (886-3039) or Mrs. Martha Johnson (886-2939), in regard to tickets, and any other information which they may need.

DON'T PAY TAXES IN CASH, SAYS IRS

When paying your Federal income tax, send either a personal check or money order, but never cash, the Internal Revenue Service warned. Using a check or money order is safer from two standpoints, the IRS explained. First, a check or money order is harder to steal; second, the cancelled check or money order will serve as a record that the payment was made.

The IRS also advised taxpayers to put their social security number on the check or money order directly below the signature. That way the check or money order can be detached from the return.

The IRS noted that no matter what type of check is used, the tax is not considered paid until the draft is honored by the bank on which it is drawn.

Our Fragile Earth

By DR. JERRY HOWELL
 Director of Environmental Studies
 Morehead State University

The last few articles have examined some good news about energy. This installment continues that discussion by summarizing some reports from the December, 1979 issue of Environment magazine and the January, 1980 issue of Environmental Action.

Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) scientists have developed a chemical non-electrical cold-storage system capable of air conditioning rooms during the day. The MIT chemicals, a special mixture with a melting point of 66°F, are frozen during normal summer nighttime air conditioning, then allowed to gradually absorb room heat as the mixture melts the next day. Further research may help develop a system capable of heating rooms during the winter.

Nature may be a partial answer to hot or cold water storage for community use later. Battelle's Pacific Northwest Laboratory, part of a large private nationwide research organization, plans to develop aquifers, water-bearing geologic formations, as underground energy storage systems. The idea is to use waste heat from a source such as a power plant to raise aquifer temperatures, then use the water later for domestic purposes.

Elsewhere, mass transit ridership continues to increase nationwide, exhibiting the longest period of sustained growth since World War Two. Car pool and bus usage increases of about seven percent, came to a virtual halt in 1979. Despite electrical industry growth forecasts of from four to seven percent for 1979, the U.S. experienced a growth rate of about one-half of one percent. The slowdown was attributed to conservation awareness, insulation and other energy-saving methods, less usage of more efficient automobiles, and the fact that the average energy bill has nearly doubled in the past six years, with future increases predicted.

In other energy news, an Israeli scientist, Dr. Oser Igra, has developed a simple shroud to surround the blades of a windmill, thereby tripling its efficiency. And Alcoa, the Aluminum Company of America, estimates that every time an aluminum can is recycled, we save 95 percent of the energy needed to make new metal from bauxite, aluminum's raw material. Last year, the aluminum industry received a record seven billion used containers for recycling, thereby conserving enough energy to meet the needs of a city the size of Pittsburgh for a year. Other benefits of aluminum can recycling include the creation of 15,000 new jobs, the payment of over $180 million to civic groups and other recyclers, and a reduction in coal and bauxite consumption.

Rescue Squad, Hospital Staff Members Attend Med Technician Class

The Left Beaver Rescue Squad and McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital had 15 members of their staff attend an emergency medical technician (EMT) continuing education class on basic cardiac care, March 20. Included in the group were squad members, Douglas Rice, Glen Frazier, Chuck Hall, Steve W. Berger, Terry Mullins, Owen Short, Rodney Jones; LPNs Brenda Rice, Joan Hall, Pamela Moore, Janet Horn, Tammy Lance, Joy Howell, Annette Hall; and Debbi Warrens, R.N.

The class was held at McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital and taught by Ruth Zika, R.N. from Eastern Kentucky Emergency Medical Services, Inc., and assisted by Red Cross CPR Instructor Terry Mullins. It included topics on cardiopulmonary resuscitation and obstructed airway sequence review, management of cardiac patients, and information about drugs and intravenous lines.

Treasurer Nomination, Landfill Selection Discussed in Opinion

The attorney general's office recently released opinions concerning selection of a county treasurer, county input on landfill site selection and the duties of a deputy circuit clerk.

(Opinions issued by the attorney general's office interpret state statutes but do not carry the force of law.)

County judge-executives must make the nomination for county treasurer, according to an opinion from the attorney general's office. Assistant Deputy Attorney General Charles W. Runyan said that while the fiscal court votes on the appointment of the county treasurer, the judge-executive must do the nominating. Further, Runyan said if there is a tie vote on the selection by the fiscal court which continues for 15 days or longer, the county judge-executives should make the appointment. The opinion was in response to an inquiry by Rowan County Treasurer Pruda Shay.

Deputy circuit clerks can perform the same function as circuit clerks, according to the attorney general's office. According to an opinion written by Runyan, deputy clerks can perform any statutory functions that circuit court clerks perform, including certifying court documents like indictments and warrants for extradition. The opinion was in response to an inquiry from Donald C. Hines, administrative assistant-detective in the Bowling Green commonwealth attorney's office.

Pulaski county fiscal court has no authority to take action against the Pulaski garbage district board, according to another opinion by Runyan, who said garbage disposal districts created before 1978 have authority in determining sites. Under the Kentucky Solid Waste Act of 1978, districts created after that date are subject to city and county authority.

The opinion was in response to an inquiry by Somerset attorney Bruce W. Singleton. He had said the fiscal court has opposed the landfill site selected by the board.

Former Pastor Here To Lead Revival At Lancer, Apr. 20-26

An all-day prayer meeting will be conducted at Lancer Baptist Church Saturday from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. in preparation for a week of revival services which are to begin Sunday night.

The pastor, Rev. Lloyd Senters, has announced that the Rev. Ira McMillen, Jr., of Mason, Ohio, will be the evangelist for the week of special services which will continue through the following Sunday night.

Rev. McMillen and his wife, Jeanette, will be remembered here for their eight and a half years of service at First Baptist Church (Irene Cole Memorial). Mrs. McMillen will be singing prior to the message each night. David Wooster, song leader at Fitzpatrick Baptist Church, will be in charge of the song services.

It was while Rev. McMillen was pastor here that the brick-and-block structure housing the Lancer congregation was built. He was invited back from his pastorate in Ashland, Ky., to preach the sermon at the service when the Lancer Baptist Chapel was constituted into a church. A part of the closing service on the night of April 27 will be presented as a memorial to Miss Annie Allen, veteran mountain missionary who served as Bible teacher and leader of girls' and women's work at the Lancer Mission in the '50's and '60's.

Following the opening service Sunday night there will be a get-acquainted fellowship with women of the church serving refreshments. Monday night will be Kid's Night for grades 1-6. They are being asked to pack the pews. One hour before the service, they will meet with the pastor and evangelist for a hot dog supper and practice a song to be sung in the service. Wednesday night will be observed as "Guest Night" with all members encouraged to bring a guest to the service and to the pot-luck supper which will be served one hour earlier. Thursday night will be "Ladies Night" with a women's trio bringing special music. The youth will be given special recognition on Friday night, starting with a "Sloppy Joe" supper one hour prior to the services. All young people, grades 7-12, are invited. Saturday night will be "Old Fashioned Night" when old-time songs will be sung, the evangelist will preach on the "Old-Time Religion" and those attending will be encouraged to wear old-time clothing. The church will be lighted by lamplight and the song leader will "line off" some old hymns just like it was done many years ago. Pastor Senters and the McMillens extend a warm welcome to residents of the area to attend these revival services.

Allen Woman's Club Installs New Officers

The Allen Woman's Club held its installation dinner, April 1, at their clubhouse. Anna Hoffman, of the Drift Woman's Club, for the ninth year installed the newly-elected officers who are the following:

President, Mary Hinchman; vice-president, Ferne Ankrom; secretary, Diana Reed; treasurer, Jo Ann Adams.

A short business meeting followed with president Mary Hinchman presiding. Plans for a softball tournament were discussed. All proceeds are to go to the Allen Volunteer Fire Dept. Co-chairmen for this project are Carolyn Branham and Carol Jo Collins. Carolyn Branham reported to the club of the St. Jude Bike-A-Thon that is to be held at Betsy Layne April 16. Rain date was set for May 3. Volunteers discussed time schedules to help with refreshments. The club voted to make a donation to the American Red Cross and a donation will given to help purchase a gift of recognition for Mary Elizabeth Quint, president of G.F.W.C.

Anita Lafferty and Mary Hinchman reported on their attendance at the 7th District meeting, held at Inez, March 22. Annetta K. Smith, daughter of William and Deloris Smith, of Allen, represented the club in the music competition category. Various committees reported on their plans for the Little Miss Floyd Co. Pageant. The theme for the year's pageant will be "Sugar and Spice." Rehearsal dates and time schedules were set. The pageant will be held at Betsy Layne gym Saturday, May 3, at 7 o'clock.

The following members were present: Nancy Marcum, Bonita Porter, Belle Conn, Carolyn Branham, Hollie Blanton, Jo Ann Adams, Lois Marshall, Carol Jo Collins, Ferne Ankrom, Anita Lafferty, Pat DeRossett, Diana Reed, Mary Hinchman.

Guests were Mrs. Ada Depoy, of Dwale, and Miss Ruby Akers, of the Drift Woman's Club.

IN ASHLAND HOSPITAL

Mrs. Albert Spradlin is a patient at King's Daughters' Hospital in Ashland. During her hospitalization, her husband, who has been ill for the past few years, is the guest of their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Salisbury, of Catlettsburg.

Summer Theatre Cast Near Complete

Pictured during a recent tryout and rehearsal are a group of aspiring Eastern Kentucky actresses who will be a part of this year's Jenny Wiley Association productions. From left to right (standing) they include Dorothy Howard, of Salyersville, Belinda Marshall, West Liberty, Lisa Morris, of Ashland, Debbie Dean, Paintsville, and Sharon Friley, of Ashland (who will portray Jenny Wiley). Seated is pianist, Sister Jean Ford, of David.

Following auditions held in Prestonsburg, Louisville, Lexington and Nashville from January 23 through March 8, General Manager Jack Wicker announced today that casting for the 1980 summer season of the Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre is nearing completion.

In an address to the Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club on March 28, Wicker said, "This is an exciting and challenging season for us, and we are both enthused and excited with the exceptional talent for this season. We are especially pleased with the response of local performers at our auditions, and we hope to use as many local performers as possible."

One such performer is Sharon Friley, of Ashland, who has been selected for the title role in "Jenny Wiley," and Wicker said that several other local performers will be receiving contract offers within the next few days.

The season begins June 18 with a gala opening of "Jenny Wiley" (last performed here in 1972), followed by two-week runs of "Hello, Dolly," and "Li'l Abner," and a three-week run of "Fiddler on the Roof." Season subscriptions are available from any member of the Jenny Wiley Drama Association, and due to the unexpected volume of advance group sales, patrons are urged to purchase their tickets as soon as possible.

Berea Offers Two Appalachian Courses in Summer Session

Berea College will offer two courses in Appalachian studies as part of its 1980 summer curriculum. A six-week workshop in Appalachian history and culture provides six hours of graduate credit with the University of Kentucky College of Education, and a non-credit course—"The Frontier and the Genteel in Appalachian Literature"—is open to teachers and students interested in Appalachian studies. Under the direction of Loyal Jones, head of the Berea College Appalachian Center, the six-week workshop, from June 9 through July 18, will be an intensive study of Appalachian history, culture, literature, arts and skills. Lectures on Appalachian politics and economics also will be given.

Berea College professors involved in the workshop include Dr. Richard Drake, professor of history; Dr. James Gage, assistant professor of English; Dr. Pat Wear, professor of education; and Dr. John Ramsay, director of Recreation Extension. Guest instructor will be Dr. Jim Miller, poet and professor of German language and literature at Western Kentucky University.

Special lectures for the six-week workshop will be Harry M. Caudill, writer, attorney and professor of history at the University of Kentucky; Wilma Dykeman, novelist, biographer and teacher, Newport, TN; Dr. Louise McNeil, poet and historian, Lewisburg, W.Va.; Mike Millins, executive director of the Hindman Settlement School, and Dr. Cratis Williams, specialist in Appalachian speech, literature and culture, Appalachian State University.

Other lectures will be Mary Joan Coleman, poet, Beckley, W.Va.; Dr. Stephen Fisher, associate professor of political science, Emory and Henry College, Emory, Va.; Persis Grayson, specialist in crafts, Kingsport, Tenn.; Joan Moser, coordinator of Appalachian Studies and Ethnic Music at Warren Wilson College; Dr. Ellen Stekert, professor of English and Folklore, University of Minnesota, and Dr. David S. Walls, associate director of the Appalachian Center at the University of Kentucky.

The workshop is designed to give teacher and curriculum specialists the knowledge, materials and techniques necessary to establish courses in Appalachian studies.

The short course in Appalachian literature is scheduled the week of June 8-14. The course will examine the works of a variety of authors from the Appalachian region including John Fox, Jr., Thomas Wolfe, James Agee, Jesse Stuart, Wilma Dykeman and Gurney Norman. Dr. James Gage of Berea's English department will direct the course, with special lectures to be given by Wilma Dykeman, Dr. Jim Miller and Dr. Cratis Williams.

Total cost for the six-week workshop will be $200 per person and for the one-week course, $85 per participant. The charges will cover room and board expenses, materials, books and field trips. For more information and registration materials contact Loyal Jones, CPO 2336, Berea, Ky. 40404.

Mrs. Allen Receives Ky.-W.Va. Promotion

The promotion of Joyce Short Allen to the position of supervisor, land administration, has been announced by E.B. Jenkins, vice-president in charge of operations of Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company.

Mrs. Allen began her career as a stenographer on January 16, 1959, and has served as secretary in the executive department since Dec., 1965.

In her new position, she will supervise the office staff of the company's land department and will maintain and administer the land records associated with the company's operational properties in eleven Eastern Kentucky counties related to its 2700 gas and oil wells and more than 2000 miles of pipeline system.

Mrs. Allen graduated from Prestonsburg High School and Mayo Vocational School. She attended Pikeville College and Morehead State University, and is currently enrolled at Prestonsburg Community College.

She has been active in local civic clubs and fraternal orders, holding the offices of president and treasurer of the Prestonsburg Woman's Club; Past Worthy Matron of the Adah Chapter No. 24, Order of Eastern Star; Past Noble Grand of the Miriam Rebekah Lodge No. 31; and vice-president of the South Prestonsburg Homemakers Club. Mrs. Allen is also a member of the Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company Chapter of the National Management Association serving as Chairman of Management Development.

Mrs. Allen and her husband, James, reside at 1165 Cardinal Drive, Prestonsburg with their son, James Kenneth, 10.

Miss Greene To Wed

Mr. and Mrs. A.L. Greene, of New Carlisle, Ohio, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Teresa, to Mr. Mark Boatwright, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Boatwright, of Water Gap.

Miss Greene is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Holbrook, of Abbott Road, and Mr. and Mrs. Perry Greene, of Prestonsburg. Miss Greene is a student at Northwestern High School in Springfield, Ohio.

Mr. Boatwright is a 1976 graduate of Prestonsburg High School and is a senior at Pikeville College, majoring in accounting.

The wedding will be held July 12, at 6:30 p.m., at the Community Methodist Church in Prestonsburg. A reception will follow at the church.

A Building Idea Whose Time Has Come?

"An energy-efficient building construction technology whose time has come..." That's the way inventor-architect Melvin H. Sachs describes his technology—known as U-Form—which features "built-in" insulation and can cut heating costs by half and air conditioning costs by one-third for the life of a building.

Those and other energy and cost-saving features led an international panel of judges to award him top honors for "significant achievement in technological development" at the recent Eighth Annual World Fair for Technology Exchange in Atlanta. Sachs developed the winner with the aid of an $87,000 grant from the U.S. Department of Energy.

Sachs, 48, of Livonia, Mich., was one of seven inventors supported by DOE's Energy-Related Inventions Program who exhibited their inventions at the Atlanta Fair. He was the only architect among the select seven.

The Detroit area inventor was a student of Buckminster Fuller, famed architect-inventor-scientist, 26 years ago at the University of Michigan. Sach's "Best of Tech-Ex" award at the Atlanta Exposition was the culmination of 14 years of active development of an idea he first committed to paper in 1966.

Sachs' concept is not unlike the "stockade" system developed by "Bucky" Fuller 50 years ago. The differences are basically those of size, weight, materials, including insulation, and the fact that the current energy crunch places an entirely new emphasis on energy efficient building construction methodology than was the case in Fuller's heyday.

"Another way of putting it," says Sachs, "is that people may not have been interested in this concept when gasoline was 19 cents a gallon, heating oil a dime, and crude oil under $2 a barrel. Now, of course, it's a different story."

The key to Sach's concept is a series of permanent building forms which incorporate insulation, the framework for pouring reinforced concrete supporting columns, and pre-finished exterior and interior surfaces. These permanent forms automatically become parts of the buildings' wall structures.

Some obvious advantages of the system are the dual use formwork and year-around workability of concrete without freezing. "As permanent forms," says Sachs, "they can and are designed to do things that ordinary formwork simply cannot do."

Sachs also contends that the current high inflation in the U.S. heightens the importance of the U-Form since it can cut construction time by one-third to one-half. "Contractors will sign 'fixed price' contracts based on six or seven months in this day and age," says Sachs. "But they won't sign many contracts in these inflationary times based on 12 to 14 months or more."

"With this technology," he adds, "you can pour concrete into the U-Forms on a Monday afternoon and on Tuesday morning you can start installing the floor and roof systems."

Constructing a building with U-Form technology, Sachs claims, will cut heating costs by half and air conditioning by one-third for the life of the building.

Covered Trucks May Be Required By Existing Law

Despite the gutting of a bill proposed in the recent legislative session that would have required the covering of coal trucks, an ordinance already on the books should give citizens adequate legal remedy for the problem of uncovered loads, a Prestonsburg audience was told last week.

The House bill, sponsored by Rep. Greg Stumbo, emerged from a conference committee in a much-weakened version during the waning hours of the legislative session. The House and Senate agreed to a compromise on the bill, according to which only trucks traveling on limited access highways, such as the Mountain Parkway, must be covered.

As passed earlier by the House, the bill would have required all coal trucks to be covered. The Senate deleted that requirement and a conference committee recommended the compromise.

As recently as February this year, David residents inquired of the Floyd fiscal court about the possibility of an ordinance requiring the covering of coal trucks on county roads, but Judge-Executive Bill Wells said at the time there was some doubt about the constitutionality of such an ordinance.

In reply to a question as to whether proposed state surface mining regulations addressed the issue, Bureau of Surface Mining Deputy Commissioner Ed Hartowicz told a Prestonsburg Community College audience last week that, while BSM has no jurisdiction in the matter, a relevant statute and regulations already exist and fall within the jurisdiction of the Division of Air Pollution of the state Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection.

Jerry Goebel, chief of the Division of Air Pollution's mineral processing section, confirmed this week that a "fugitive dust" regulation applicable to coal trucks has been on the books some years. However, a lack of inspectors makes the law difficult to enforce, he said.

(According to section 4 of Kentucky Administrative Regulation 63:010, "At all times in motion, open bodied trucks, operating outside company property, transporting materials likely to become airborne shall be covered.")

Goebel said that officers of the Division of Air Pollution "have their hands full keeping up with stationary structures," such as coal tipples and preparation plants, and that policing coal trucks is "physically impossible," given the present shortage of personnel.

Responsibility for enforcing such a regulation necessarily falls to county officials, Goebel said.

Pageant Date Changed

The date of this year's Miss Floyd County Pageant has been changed until May 10, it was announced this week by Pageant Chairpersons Nora Hicks and Debbie Billiter.

Spring Carnival Scheduled Friday At High School

A spring carnival and auction, along with a chili supper will be held at the Prestonsburg High School Friday beginning at 5 p.m. and continuing until 10 p.m.

Sponsored by the Prestonsburg High School Committee of People for Better School, Inc., all proceeds from the event will go to high school improvements.

A feature of the carnival will be a "Teacher Dunking Booth", with principal John W. Shepherd sitting in the dunking chair.

Other activities will include a cake walk, bingo, games for younger children and door prizes.

The auction, to be conducted by P.B.S. President Lennie Grant, will offer a wide variety of merchandise donated by local merchants, including a framed Russell May print.

Mrs. Joyce Everly, chairman of the high school committee, said tickets for the chili supper will be $1.50 for "all you can eat." All proceeds from this portion of the evening will go into cafeteria equipment and furnishings, she said.

There is no admission charge for the carnival, but there will be for various events inside.

A poster contest advertising the carnival was sponsored at the high school by P.B.S. also, and all of the entries have been placed in local stores, Mrs. Everly said.

Winner of the contest was Debra Crider, a junior. She received $15 and a Russell May print. Second place, with a $10 prize and a print, was won by Mary Ousley, senior; and third place went to Brenda Music, who received a print. Honorable Mention went to Coletta Harris, a sophomore.

The poster contest inspired an anonymous donation to P.B.S. of $150, Mrs. Everly said, to sponsor an essay contest at the high school.

Open to all Prestonsburg High students, the contest will be for 750-1,000 word essays on "Changes I Would Like To See in Education and Facilities at Prestonsburg High School."

The essays must be in by April 28, and prizes of $75, $50, and $25 will be given on May 23. The judges will be Linda Stephens, retired English teacher; Rev. Tim Jessen, pastor, Prestonsburg Presbyterian Church, and Ron Marstin, reporter, Floyd County Times.

Judges for the poster contest were Rev. Moultrie MacIntosh, Russell May, and Wally Ratliff.

CHURCHWOMEN TO MEET

Mrs. Mary Lou Layne, president of the Local Churchwomen, announces that there will be a meeting of this group Friday morning, April 18, at 10:30, at the First Christian Church here. The Rev. Taylor Biggs, pastor of the Community United Methodist Church, and the Rev. Moultrie McIntosh, vicar of St. James Episcopal Church, will discuss, and answer questions concerning the Alcohol and Drug Abuse Program which is being conducted each month at the Floyd County Library. All churchwomen throughout the Prestonsburg area are invited to attend.

SURPRISE BIRTHDAY PARTY

Democrats Slate County Precinct Meets Saturday

Floyd county's Democratic precinct conventions will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday at the regular polling place of each precinct, according to Paul P. Burchett, county chairman.

Delegates to the county convention, scheduled at 2 p.m. Saturday, April 26, at the courthouse here, will be elected at the precinct meetings. Participants in the precinct and county level conventions will elect delegates to take part in district and state conventions from which will be selected the state Democratic Central Executive Committee. Congressional district and state conventions will be held June 7.

Information concerning county convention or delegate selection may be obtained from Dr. Larry Leslie, county convention chairman.

Building That Summer Vacation Home

By Jane Sherman

The ladder and scaffolding under me began to sway perilously as I stretched to "cut-in" the enamel kitchen wall paint at the ceiling's edge. Twenty feet below, my two- and five-year old children were swinging on the support bars of the scaffolding, oblivious to the fact that at the top of that rickety pyramid was their mom. My panicked shriek alerted them and they skipped off to find some other mischief.

At that moment I was sure that I had overestimated my confidence and enthusiasm in building our house. I paused (only briefly, as I still had three more walls to finish painting) to let my adrenalin level level, and the life of our house-building project passed before my eyes!

The land had been chosen for its view and lovely surroundings. We felt lucky to have scooped it up early before prices in that area sky-rocketed.

Six years later, with investment as our primary objective, we decided to build. This house-to-be was located 250 miles from our rented city apartment and while it would be a year-round "vacation" house, it would be our first and only house. We would depend on rentals for a long time to help us carry mortgage and tax costs and at the same time benefit from business income-tax deductions.

An architect was chosen because of his reputation for being an environmentally oriented designer. His price was within our budget and he was eager to build a house in that particular location.

For three months we talked about our needs, our dreams, and our finances. Our files were fat with years of ideas saved from magazines illustrating particular design elements.

The Plan

The architect visited our lot to study its character and to contact local builders, sounding them out as prospective contractors for our house.

Deciding on THE plan was a lesson in compromise. Money was the great leveler of dreams. Fantasies of luxurious baths and country kitchens gave way to some smaller charming rooms.

One room remained constant throughout the drawings! A solarium. We decided early on to keep bedrooms small and comfortable in order to have the larger open spaces of the living room and solarium.

The give and take between architect and client proved interesting, too, as the house seemed to belong to both. For the architect, the house design was an art form. For the client, it had a different connotation. It was not a significant struggle, but a perceptible one.

Finally a plan became THE plan and it was submitted to the town building inspector. He approved the plan. We sent the plan to the bank for mortgage approval (all the applications had gone in earlier). We lined up a builder and naively set a ground-breaking date.

The bank came through with a mortgage (it had invested in the development of our area) rather quickly and the builder was ready to go. But, to our great surprise and distress, the local committee would not approve our house plans. Everything had to halt until we could get their approval.

We learned quickly that we were in the midst of a political problem not totally related to our house. Covenants which we signed when we bought the land required our plans to conform to a review committee's decision. No house before ours had ever actually been reviewed, and the committee had decided to begin actively reviewing all plans. And they took our house apart.

The Compromise

Views and roof heights became the focus of debate. For two months we met with the committee every week or so, and still we tried to plan for a fall ground-breaking. When no compromise could be reached we packed up the whole family and went home.

Lawyers were hired by both sides. Letters flew back and forth. Months later, a compromise was reached. We would drop our roof height three feet, no simple task when one of the other roof requirements was a 90 degree pitch. Such a drop in roof height necessitates an increase in foundation size to maintain the same internal square foot area. An increase in foundation size means a substantial increase in money.

Renegotiating with our architect, we settled weeks later on the revised plan. Ironically, it was a much more beautiful house.

Again we sent the plans to the town inspector. He approved them. The committee had approved the plans. We applied for more money from the bank which they granted (at a higher rate, of course).

This time, however, because of the huge cost increases, lawyer fees and travel fees, we had decided to do a lot of the work ourselves. We would contract the job, seek out the workers, review their bids, hire and supervise them, and have the builder complete a finished shell which we would then paint and finish inside.

About this time, my husband was offered a rare opportunity to do some work overseas for the same two months we had planned to begin building the house. I encouraged him to accept. He did and took our oldest son along. Many times later I wondered at my own sanity, having enthusiastically sent them off to the plains of East Africa while I struggled through this contracting effort with three small children in an old station wagon which threatened to die daily.

Bids and Contracts

The yellow pages were a good beginning, but ultimately all the people I contracted were discovered from word-of-mouth references. I spent hours and days driving to houses-in-construction and talking to workers, examining their work in both the finished and unfinished state. I talked to home-owners who had hired these workers to get their opinions on quality and schedule. Finally the excavator, foundation man, builder, electrician, plumber, cabinet man, and sheet-rocker were chosen and the contracts were signed.

The men were supportive of my efforts to contract the job myself. Our builder was particularly helpful. Most of the sub-contractors I hired had worked with the builder before, so I knew they could work cooperatively together.

Since my husband was on the other side of the world, I was dependent on my government issue Wood-Frame House Construction, and the architect's and builder's explanations. My calculator was kept red-hot as I added and re-added bids and tried to plan for contingencies.

The land boundaries had been completely surveyed during the winter's dispute, so now the house itself was staked. At that point I was ready to move in the furniture. The struggle of the past year seemed over when the perimeter of the house could be clearly seen.

My first brush with near-calamity came during excavation. Our cellar was unusually deep as part of the special construction to get our roof height lower. Because of its depth, the cellar wall partially caved-in under the weight of the back-hoe, almost tossing the back-hoe and its driver (the excavator's son) into the hole. My first reaction was concern. Then came the first thoughts of responsibility (spelled i-i-a-b-i-i-i-y) as a home owner. Whew, yes, my insurance covered injuries to workmen on the job.

The foundation was 90 percent in when my husband returned, but we decided that I would continue as the contractor, rather than start a joint effort.

Delays and More Delays

During the summer we had been assured we would spend Christmas in our partially finished shell of a house. That would give us six months to complete the house by summer, in time for lucrative vacation rentals.

At Christmas there was a subfloor and walls. The weather had not been kind. In February we optimistically advertised the house for summer rentals. By April it was clear that rentals were in jeopardy and we kicked ourselves for not including a penalty clause in the contract for delays in completion. We needed that summer income.

Our builder complained that the house was too complicated—not for his skills, but in labor costs. He was used to four-walled two story houses with variation only in room placements. Our year-round, two modular house set at an odd angle was too customized for his schedule and became burdensome for him to finish.

In early June I moved into the raw shell with our two youngest children to begin the finish work as soon as there was a place to start. I followed the sheet-rockers from room to room, brush and roller in hand.

As window trims, baseboards, interior and exterior doors were installed I sanded and primed and painted. One month later, school ended and the two older children joined us. A month after that my husband joined the effort.

By now the best we could hope for was a winter rental, not nearly as lucrative, but at least a monthly income on the house.

Light At The End Of The Tunnel

It wasn't the carpet or the beds, but the installation of the refrigerator and stove along with our kitchen cabinets which caused the biggest celebration. We had done without these—and without a sink—for almost eight weeks. We had bathed ourselves, our clothes and our dishes in the tub, cooked on our hibachi, and learned to go without cold anything all summer. A little ice kept milk and meat from spoiling.

By Labor Day, we could see the light at the end of the tunnel and at Thanksgiving we had year-round tenants signed, the house 99 percent finished.

I know our house intimately. I know what materials went into it and how far apart the studs stand, where the insulation is and how the ductwork runs from the furnace to each room. Each nook and cranny holds an anecdote which is probably only interesting to me, but I enjoy it.

I highly recommend the experience. Anyone contemplating the undertaking of house construction should plan for lots of the unexpected. Humor as well as expertise is needed.

Do it! Enjoy it!

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of Pauline Goble, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Van Goble, of St. Clair Shores, Mich., who passed away September 1, 1978 at the age of 18.
She is missed deeply by all who knew and loved her. I know God could never make another to take her place. Her love won't be forgotten nor will the smile upon her face. To me she was the best that best can be. Though she is gone from our sight, she left a light burning and I can see it shining bright. She did something special while on this earth she walked. She gave the road of glory and made me proud.
Written by her grandmother, Belle M. Goble.

County's Murder Rate Last Year In Sharp Drop

In Kentucky last year reported violent crime had its biggest upsurge since 1975 with an increase of 12.1 per cent, and except in its murder and robbery cases Floyd county more than kept pace.

The preliminary report released by State Police Commissioner Kenneth Brandenburg shows that Floyd county had 9 murders and only 2 last year for a decrease of 77.7%, as compared with a state murder increase last year of 5.3%.

The number of robbery cases in this county dropped last year to 4 from the preceding year's 6, or 33.3%. The state increase in that crime category was 14.2%. Aggravated assaults rose 13.5%, statewide, but in this county from 35 to 75 (72%).

Of the violent crimes, only rape decreased at the state level, a mere .8%. In Floyd county they rose from 3 to 5.

As a group, nonviolent crimes increased 5.8%, statewide. Theft had the sharpest increase of 7.2% over the 1978 figure (in Floyd county, 58%). Burglary rose by 3.8%, and auto theft increased by 3.1% in the state. The percentage for this county showed increases of 48 and 17%, respectively.

Final crime statistics for 1979 will be published in the state police annual crime report available in July, Brandenburg said.

Reported murder in counties adjacent to Floyd were up in all except Pike, when the 1978 total of 18 dropped to 11 last year. Johnson county was up from 2 in 1978 to 3 last year; Knott, up from 1 to 3; Magoffin, up from 3 to 5, and Martin was up from 0 to 2.

Auxier Gas Co. Wins Billing Plan Delay

The state Energy Regulatory Commission has granted the Auxier Road Gas Co. of Prestonsburg an exemption until Oct. 3 to implement a budget billing plan.

Budget billing plans allow customers to pay equal amounts each month rather than paying higher amounts in certain seasons, such as winter, than in others.

The utility was supposed to implement a plan by the end of 1979 but in September 1979 it requested an exemption.

The commission held a hearing on the matter and instructed the utility to survey its customers to determine their interest in a plan. According to the commission's exemption order, the utility serves 499 customers who would be eligible for a plan. The survey, however, indicated little interest in such a plan.

In granting the exemption, the ERC noted that the utility offers individually fashioned partial payment plans to customers who experience hardships and that implementation of a plan would require the ability to incur expenses that would impair its operations.

Nevertheless, the utility must have a budget billing plan established by October 3.

INVITATION FOR BIDS

Sealed proposals will be received by the Floyd County Board of Education, Prestonsburg, Kentucky (Floyd County), at the office of the Superintendent, on May 7, 1980 at 7 p.m., Eastern Standard Time, at which time and place they will be publicly opened and read aloud for the furnishing of all materials and labor and performing all work as set forth by this Invitation for Bids, the Instructions to Bidders, the General Conditions of the Contract, the Specifications and Drawings prepared by Marvin Crider & Associates, Architect, 315 North Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky.

THE WORK TO BE BID UPON: New Betsy Layne High School, Betsy Layne, Ky. 41605.

PROPOSALS WILL BE RECEIVED AS FOLLOWS: PROPOSAL NO. 1: To include entire project.

Plans, Specifications and Contract Documents, may be examined at the following places: Builders Exchange of Louisville, Kentucky; Dodge Corporation of Knoxville, Tennessee; Charleston, W. Va.; and Lexington, Ky.; and at the office of Marvin Crider & Associates, 315 North Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky.

Copies of the documents, not to exceed two (2) sets, for the General Contractors, and his major Subcontractors; Mechanical, Air Conditioning, Plumbing and Electrical only, may be secured from the Architect, Marvin Crider & Associates, Prestonsburg Office, upon payment of $100.00 per set, which payment will be refunded upon return of the plans, specifications, and other documents, in good condition, within ten (10) days after date of bid opening. If more than two sets of documents are requested, they may be obtained upon payment of $60.00, which payment will not be subject to refund. All deposits on hand after expiration of the ten-day period, become the property of the Architect.

All Subcontractors, material suppliers, and other interested parties, may obtain a full set of Drawings and Specifications for a total deposit of $100.00, made payable to Marvin Crider, Jr. & Associates, in two separate checks: one in the amount of $75.00—completely refundable; and one in the amount of $25.00—not subject to refund; or they may obtain the necessary sheets required to estimate their work, upon payment of $5.00 per sheet of the drawings, which charge will include the corresponding section, or sections of the specifications.

Bids must be accompanied by a bid bond payable to the Owner in an amount not less than five percent (5%) of the Base Bid.

Bids received after the scheduled closing time for the reception of the Bids, will be returned, unopened to the bidders.

DOCUMENTS AVAILABLE, ON OR ABOUT April 18, 1980.

In the event an award is made, and the successful bidder fails to furnish a satisfactory performance bond within fifteen (15) days after written notification of acceptance of the Proposal, and fails to execute a Contract for the construction of the work under the award, then the bid bond shall be forfeited as liquidated damages for such failure.

Notice of Requirement for Certification of Nonsegregated Facilities: Bidders are cautioned as follows: By signing this bid, the bidder will be deemed to have signed and agreed to the provisions of the "Certification of Nonsegregated Facilities" in this solicitation. The Certification provides that the bidder does not maintain or provide for his employees facilities which are segregated on a basis of race, creed, color, or national origin, whether such facilities are segregated by directive or on a de facto basis. The Certification also provides that he will not maintain such segregated facilities. Failure of a bidder to agree to the "Certification of Nonsegregated Facilities", will render his bid nonresponsive to the terms of solicitations involving awards of contracts exceeding $10,000, which are not exempt from the provisions of the Equal Opportunity Clause.

The Proposals including the Bid Bond, shall be in a sealed envelope, bearing the Bidder's Identification, addressed to the: FLOYD COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION and labeled in the lower left hand corner:
PROPOSAL: New Betsy Layne High School, Betsy Layne, KY.

TIME OF OPENING: 7:00 p.m. E.S.T. on Wednesday, May 7, 1980.

The Owner reserves the right to reject any or all bids and to waive informalities.

No Bid shall be withdrawn for a period of sixty (60) days subsequent to the opening of the bids, without the consent of the Owner.

4-16-31.

Doubts Voiced On Ky. Primacy At Meeting Here

Not everybody is happy with Kentucky's bid to take primary responsibility for enforcing stripmining laws in this state.

That became clear during a hearing here last week to elicit public comment on the stripmine regulations recently submitted by the state Bureau of Surface Mining (BSM) for approval by federal mining authorities.

"How will 'primacy' be of advantage to the citizens of Kentucky?" was the question put by Jeannette Knowles, of Van Lear, to state mining officials at the meeting, which was held last Tuesday at Prestonsburg Community College. Mrs. Knowles and other questioners focused primarily on the scope of citizen input into the mine permitting process under the proposed regulations and on the willingness of state officials to enforce the regulations.

BSM Deputy Commissioner Ed Hartowicz told the meeting that recent actions by a federal court and by the Kentucky legislature pointed to the need to relax certain restrictions on the coal industry. Hartowicz referred to a decision handed down by U.S. District Judge Thomas Flannery in late February, overturning 21 federal stripmine regulations, and to HB 830, a bill passed in the final hours of the recent legislative session, which exempts operators mining sites of two acres or less from the law requiring the elimination of highwalls.

But many in the audience seemed less concerned with relaxing the regulations than with enforcing them.

John Rosenberg, director of the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund, a legal services agency which has been active in the drafting of stripmine laws, complained that the BSM program provides citizens too little access to the regulatory process. Rosenberg asked whether copies of mining permit applications could be filed in BSM's regional offices as well as in Frankfort and whether, in considering an application, attention would be given an applicant's past record of violations.

If the state wins primacy, Hartowicz replied, copies of permit applications will be on file in regional offices of the bureau or in county courthouses. A planned computerization will also facilitate access to an operator's past mining records, he said.

Everett Akers, of Martin, angrily accused state surface mining officials of doing the bare minimum necessary to secure primacy, adding that in his opinion they would be doing nothing at all if they were not forced to do so by federal law. Akers, long involved in litigation with stripminers on his Finance Hollow property, described BSM's Prestonsburg office as "a shame and a disgrace." The office's enforcement of stripmine laws "needs to improve a whole lot," he said.

"The little man, the landowner, has got to have protection," Akers said. "Otherwise there'll be deep trouble in eastern Kentucky."

Akers lauded Rep. Greg Stumbo for his sponsorship of a bill this year to restrict mining under the so-called broad-form deeds and blasted "(Energy Secretary William B.) Sturgill and the big coal interests," whom he blamed for the bill's dying in the committee.

Hartowicz told Akers that coal operators are not responsible for covering highwalls left by mining prior to the 1977 Surface Mining Act, although such sites may be eligible for reclamation funds under the federal abandoned mines program. One question that went unanswered—though some observers predict the issue will take on increasing significance in future years—came from a coal operator who asked whether operators returning to rework old sites will be required to reclaim them according to current standards.

BSM submitted its proposed regulations to the federal Office of Surface Mining March 3. OSM will now review the package, advising the state of any changes needed for approval, which changes may be made up until June 15.

Interior Secretary Cecil D. Andrus will make an initial decision whether to approve or disapprove the state package by September 3. If the program is not approved, Kentucky has until November 3 to resubmit its plan. If the state program has not been approved by January 3 next year, the federal office will assume primary responsibility for regulating the industry.

FLOYD COUNTY HEALTH NEWS

Glaucoma is the second leading cause of blindness, affecting one out of every 50 Americans over age 50. Here in Kentucky there are more than 26,000 victims of this eye disease that damages nerves involved in the process of vision.

Blurred vision and headaches, frequent change of glasses, poor adjustment in the dark, halos around lights and loss of side vision are all signs which suggest glaucoma. Pressure and pain in the eye are key symptoms of the disease.

The best way to prevent needless blindness from glaucoma is to be screened for the disease. You may be screened for glaucoma at the Floyd County Health Department on Monday, April 21, from 10 to 12 and 1 to 3. If higher than normal pressure is found in your eyes, you will be referred to an eye physician who can give you further tests and diagnose the problem.

This clinic is a free service and the public is urged to attend.

Also, the same day, the regularly scheduled Bypro Outpost Clinic will be conducted at Ethel Osborne's Store at Bypro, from 10 to 12 and 1 to 2. Services available at this clinic will include immunizations, TB skin tests, diabetes screening, and blood pressures.

This clinic is a free service and the public is welcome to attend.

Beginning April, the regularly scheduled Mud Creek Outpost Clinic has moved its location from Hamilton's Food Store in Teaberry to the John M. Stumbo Elementary School at Grethel.

The Mud Creek Outpost Clinic this month will be conducted Thursday, April 24, in the library of the John M. Stumbo School. Immunizations, TB skin tests, diabetes screening, and blood pressures will be available from the hours of 9 to 1.

This clinic is a free service from the Floyd County Health Department and the public is invited to attend.

Two Win Promotions At Eimco Elkhorn

Alternative Programs In Some Counties Give "Disruptive" Students Special Help

Kentucky and the federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration have come up with more than $325,000 and several ideas to help many Kentucky students remain in the public school system.

The venture, recommended by the Kentucky Crime Commission and approved by Gov. John Y. Brown Jr., will help school officials in 23 communities provide a means of dealing with problem students other than suspension or dismissal. Called "alternative" programs, the recently funded educational programs will help students whose behavior has been termed "disruptive."

"Our goal is to effect a change in the students' behavior and attitudes by providing counseling, academic help, home-school coordination and a school program structured for success," explained David Jackson, director of the Division of Alternative Education with the Kentucky Department of Education.

Jackson said the activities in the programs are as varied as widely as the communities involved. "Each local school system develops its own program based on its own assessment of needs," he said. "The various programs may differ in many ways—length of the student's stay in the program, for example, or in the physical location of the program.

"The common element in all programs is that we try to help the student develop coping skills," he added. "This means encouraging academic training as well as encouraging the student to deal with problems that are emotional or that involve home and school situations."

The programs involve a "preventive" approach, Jackson said, which should make the student feel good about himself and to help him develop self-discipline. The preventive approach, which emphasizes changing the student's behavior, is used rather than punishment. This lessens the student's hostility and anti-social attitude, Jackson added.

The alternative-to-suspension programs enable students to continue their academic work and to receive any needed remedial help.

In addition to academic supervision, counseling and social services are available to the student to help him discover the root causes of disruptive behavior and find a solution, Jackson added.

Students' problems are identified before they reach the arrest or court appearance stage. Severe behavioral problems are identified, and the student referred for outside assistance, he added.

Clark and Boone counties plan to use their grants to set up alternative learning programs. Ballard, Perry, Carroll, Calloway, Hardin, Montgomery, Rowan, Morgan, Russell, Leslie, Henderson, Marion, Grayson, Union, Pulaski and Harlan counties plan to establish alternative learning centers. Berea, Campbellsville, Owensboro and Union City also plan learning centers.

Honored on Birthdays

A surprise birthday party was given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Harlie Conn at their home at Printer, April 4, by members of their family. Mr. Conn is 61, and Mrs. Conn is 57.

U.-K. Nursing Student Working in County

University of Kentucky College of Nursing Student Mary Montgomery arrived in the area March 29 to work with Liz Robinson, certified nurse-midwife, at Our Lady of the Way Hospital in Martin. This clinical experience is coordinated through the University of Kentucky and the Area Health Education System and will continue for a period of six weeks for Miss Montgomery, who is a registered nurse completing requirements for the Bachelor of Science degree. She will be observing and assisting Mrs. Robinson in her care of families experiencing normal pregnancy and child birth.

State Police Issue Feb. Arrest Figures

State police troopers and detectives reported 17,275 traffic citations and 1,558 criminal arrests during the month of February. Troopers issued 13,014 warning citations to drivers during the month.

According to State Police Commissioner Kenneth Brandenburg, who released the latest available activity totals for all 16 state police posts, 967 of the traffic citations issued were for drunk driving.

During February troopers assisted 4,345 drivers on Kentucky roads and investigated 2,431 accidents. At least 145 stolen vehicles were recovered during the month by troopers and detectives.

Detectives reported the largest number of cases handled in February throughout the state involved theft and drug violations. Detectives also reported a large number of burglary cases during the month.

Troopers and detectives operating out of the Pikeville post reported more than 1,400 arrests during February. Included in the total were 119 criminal arrests and 1,354 traffic citations.

The Pikeville post serves Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin, Martin and Pike counties. Officers at the post investigated 292 accidents, assisted 190 motorists and issued 1,086 warning citations during the month. At least 13 stolen vehicles were recovered.

Detectives at the post reported the highest number of cases involved liquor law violations and theft.

KET Lists Programs For 1980-81 Season

KET has purchased 26 television series for the 1980-81 broadcast year, announced Acting Associate Executive Director Sandy Welch last week at the network center in Lexington.

Included in the program package, which cost a total of $504,864.00, are four new series plus one special, as well as new productions of popular, ongoing public television series.

Four of the five all-new selections purchased in the seventh national program buy are designed to be of particular interest to minorities. They include: "The Next Page," a series of 13 half-hours, hosted by Ossie Davis and Ruby Dee, exploring varied aspects of minority life in a magazine format; "I Remember Harlem," a documentary series examining over three centuries of life in America's most celebrated black community; "American Perspective: Another View," a series of ten, 30-minute programs examining America's multicultural heritage; and, "World Of My America," a one-woman show starring Paulene Myers, and recreating characters from the works of noted black poets and writers.

Also new to the schedule is "Matinee At the Bijou," a series of sixteen, 90-minute programs presenting film classics from the 30's and 40's.

Under the newly purchased program package "Firing Line" with William F. Buckley, Jr. and a "Special Fund" of films, musical specials, dramas and documentaries, which have been absent from KET in recent years, return to the schedule.

Other program selections include: "Austin City Limits," "Bill Moyers' Journal," "Crockett's Victory Garden," "The Dick Cavett Show," "The Electric Company," "Evening At Pops," "Great Performances," "Here's To Your Health," "The MacNeil/Lehrer Report," "Mark Russell Comedy Specials," "Meeting Of Minds," "Mister Rogers' Neighborhood," "The 1980 Drum Corps International Championships," "Nova," "Over Easy," "Sesame Street," "Sneak Previews," "Soundstage," and "Wall Street Week." Programming purchases are made by the Programming Division at KET based on several considerations, according to Welch: budget; the annual KET Viewer Preference Survey; recommendations from the Programming Sub-Committee of the KET Advisory Committee and the Ad-Hoc Minority Advisory Committee; and, guidelines contained in the mission statement of the KET Authority, the governing and policy-making arm of KET.

Although the bulk of the 1979-80 schedule remains intact, the purchasing process was more difficult than in previous years. "We seriously considered not purchasing such KET staples as "Nova," "Evening At Pops," and "The Dick Cavett Show," Welch admitted. "This year's package cost $80,000 more than last year's," she noted. "The more dollars we continue to shell out, the harder we have to look at the validity of the program for our audience."

METHODIST WOMEN MEET

The Allen United Methodist Women held their monthly meeting March 9 at the home of Mrs. Elsie Lafferty. The business meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Jerry Martin, reading two poems. The group expressed appreciation to have Mrs. Martin back. She and Mr. Martin have spent the last several months in Florida. It was suggested that the landscaping planned by the group for the front of the church would have to wait until the blacktopping of the church parking lot has been completed. The group drew names for the new Secret Sisters and revealed the names of past Secret Sisters.

Mrs. Jayne Patton had the program for the evening and asked each woman present to share her own reason for attending the meeting, attending church, of things she was thankful for or relate her experience when she found the Lord. A chain prayer of Jayne Patton, Tincy Crisp and Kay Lemaster closed the program. Refreshments were served by the hostess, Elsie Lafferty, to Ernestine May, Maude Snodgrass, Dianne Scalf, Jerry Martin, Jewel Allen, Janice Stratton, Tincy Crisp, Kay Lemaster, Jayne Patton and son, Ray.

The May meeting will be held April 13 at the home of Mrs. Kay Gray with Mrs. Maude Snodgrass in charge of the program.

Model R402 10 watt AM/FM stereo/cassette with independent Bass & Treble controls.

The R402 offers full stereo equalization with individual Bass and Treble controls. This 4-speaker unit lets the listener adjust the left-right speakers with a Balance control; front-rear speakers are adjusted with a separate Fader control. For full bass tones at low volume levels, there is a Loudness Compensation function.

Mechanical switches control several functions: LED indicator lights glow when they're engaged. For example, a Mono/Stereo switch lets you switch to "Mono" for clearer reception of weak FM stereo signals.

The Interstation Muting switch cuts out undesirable interference heard between FM stations when tuning. And a built-in Automatic Local/Distance feature limits powerful FM signals in high intensity areas. Which means better reception and clearer, sharper music.

Count on long life and better performance from the hard permalloy cassette heads. And the end-of-tape light indicates when your cassette is over.

The R402 will fit most domestic and foreign cars.

Roadside Cleanup, Garbage Concern East Point Club

The East Point Area Development Club met April 3, with Landon Tackett presiding. The devotional was by Mrs. Esta Tackett and the pledge to the flag by Herbert Spradlin. Letters and thank-you cards were read from those who had been helped and from institutions which had received donations. Letters from Prestonsburg Community College and from the University of Kentucky, expressing gratitude for the club's scholarship, was acknowledged. Another scholarship will be given to a student this fall.

Garbage and roadside cleanup remain major community problems. Floyd County Sanitation manages a garbage pickup about every other week, while garbage pickup in Johnson county is every week. The club would like to employ some youth organization to do the roadside cleanup this month or early May, also someone with a mower attachment to a tractor to mow the roadsides, monthly.

The club will purchase six basketballs and goals for distribution in the community. Flatware for the Archer Park Senior Citizens also will be purchased. Arrangements for purchase of supplies for making apple butter will be made soon.

The next meeting of the Development Club will be May 1, at 6:30 p.m.

ALLEN COMMUNITY NEWS

Mrs. Lizzie Carr, a longtime resident of Allen who had had her 90th birthday, April 4, passed away at Highland Regional Medical Center at Prestonsburg, Saturday, April 12. Sympathy is extended to her children, Nelma Grace May and Cecil Webb, of Nicholasville, and Jim Sellards, with whom she had made her home, and her many relatives and friends here in Allen.

Sympathy is extended to the family of Curt Mullin, who passed away Saturday, April 12, at the University of Kentucky Medical Center in Lexington. The late Mr. Mullins had made his home here recently with his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Don Prater, of May Garden.

Mrs. Maude McGuire, of Newark, Ohio, is here to spend the summer months with Mrs. Dora Chapman Setser. Mrs. McGuire's grandson, David Caldwell, also of Newark, spent several days here visiting Mrs. McGuire and Mrs. Setser and other friends and relatives. Easter guests of Mrs. Setser were her grandson and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Branham, Jr., and children, Crystal and Kylene, of Indiana.

Phillip, Larry, and Marty Vaughan, of Lexington, are spending this week of spring-break with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. O.B. Crisp. They also visited their great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Felix Crisp and Mrs. Dora Nelson, of Dwale.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Bailey returned Tuesday to their home here after spending the winter months at their home in Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Adkins visited her sister, Mrs. Betty Jo Estep Hunter, at a hospital in Charleston, W.Va., last weekend. Mrs. Hunter underwent surgery recently, and is recuperating nicely.

Medicare For People With Kidney Failure

Almost every person in the Floyd county area who has permanent kidney failure and needs maintenance dialysis treatment or a kidney transplant is eligible for Medicare health insurance. Jim Kelly, Social Security director for the Big Sandy area, said recently.

Medicare helps pay for kidney transplant surgery and related inpatient hospital services. It also covers outpatient maintenance dialysis and helps pay for doctors' services including surgeons' services for transplants, outpatient self-dialysis training, and home dialysis equipment, supplies and periodic support services. Medicare also helps cover the cost of a donor for kidney transplant surgery.

To be eligible for Medicare because of kidney failure, a person must have worked under social security long enough to be insured, from 1 1/2 to 7 1/2 years depending on age, or be the wife, husband, or dependent child of an insured worker.

Only the family member with kidney failure is eligible for Medicare; others in the family are not, Kelly said.

For people with kidney failure, Medicare protection generally begins with the third month after the month the person's cause of maintenance dialysis begins.

Medicare protection can begin earlier if the person takes part in a self-dialysis training program in a Medicare approved facility and the person is expected to complete the training and self-dialyze thereafter. Protection can also begin earlier if the person is admitted to an approved hospital for a kidney transplant.

Medicare generally ends 12 months after a person no longer requires maintenance dialysis treatments or 36 months following a kidney transplant. Medicare, can, however, be resumed if the transplant fails.

Anyone with permanent kidney failure who is not covered by Medicare, should apply at the Prestonsburg, Kentucky, social security office, located between Prestonsburg and Paintsville on U.S. 23. The telephone number for the Prestonsburg social security office is 886-8525. The people there will be glad to answer questions about Medicare protection and provide a free Medicare pamphlet.

Democrats, Too...

Red River Gorge Residents Complain About 'Outsiders'

Outsiders who visit the Red River Gorge area were variously described at a hearing as "pot-smokers," Democrats, nudists, Boy Scouts, out-of-staters and "trash" by residents of the scenic valley.

The meeting at Natural Bridge State Resort Park was the first of four public hearings for the state Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Protection to receive comments from the public on Kentucky's proposed Wild Rivers Management Plan.

"We haven't had any help from the government before and we don't want any now," said Lula Bailey, of Campton. "We want the river, the land and the houses left just like they are."

"Just stay out of our business," she vehemently told representatives of the department's Division of Water Resources.

James R. Lacy, of Campton, a landowner and Wolfe County Soil Conservation District board member, said the area does not need "a goofy recreation area...that would interfere with agricultural production and private citizens."

Lacy called the wild rivers program that was passed eight years ago by the General Assembly "a socialist idea." "The whole idea should be dropped and shut up about," he said.

Laura Mae Helton, a resident of Valeria, also commented on the existence of the wild rivers system rather than the management plan for the Red River.

"People along the Red River Gorge are self-supporting," Helton said. "Leave me and my land alone."

"The desire among many is to keep the river as it is," said Tim Murphy of the Kentucky Rivers Coalition in Lexington, bringing the discussion back to the purpose of the meeting.

"We need to manage the area to keep farms, to minimize further recreational encroachment and to minimize acquisition of land," Murphy said. He concluded that the proposed management plan meets those needs.

Oscar Gerald, newly elected chairman of the state Environmental Quality Commission, explained that regulating the area would help to keep it beautiful, while allowing farming and timber harvesting to continue.

"We need to regulate how it (the Red River) is used so we can all enjoy it," Gerald said. "The limited access really discourages use of the area," he added.

"Under this plan, the area could be used by people who really appreciate it," Gerald said. "The plan protects a truly unique resource. The plan should be implemented."

Try Camping In A State Park

If you're fed up with the city life and long for the wide open spaces then why not grab your backpack and tent and head for one of Kentucky's fine state park campgrounds?

There are 26 campground facilities to choose from, and all offer campers a chance to get away from it all and enjoy the great outdoors. Whether you like your camping rough or prefer the comforts of shower facilities and laundry, state park campgrounds have a variety of surroundings to choose from.

Campsite rates are $5 for tent or primitive locations and $5.50 for sites with water and electricity for groups of up to 4 persons. Additional campers are charged 50 cents each.

For further information, call your favorite state park or call toll-free 1-800-372-2961.

AUCTION DAIRY FARM AND EQUIPMENT
Saturday, April 19, 1980, 10:30 A.M.
Located 11 miles east of Mt. Sterling and 3 miles of Owingsville on the Tunnel Hill Road, just off U.S. 60. Selling agents have been authorized by Mr. and Mrs. John Crouch to offer for sale, at public auction, the following described property:
This well improved dairy farm consists of 145 acres (more or less) all in good grass except approximately 12 to 15 acres of shade trees. The house is a 7 room, 2 story frame in good condition. It has 4 bedrooms, living room, kitchen, dining room, and bath. Also aluminum siding, storm windows, well insulated, paneled, and is heated by a forced air propane gas furnace and a wood burning heater. There is a dug well for the water source.
The farm carries a 2,400 pound tobacco base, has almost one mile of road frontage (including both sides of the Tunnel Hill Road), 3 good ponds, pretty good fences, and several outbuildings. Mr. and Mrs. Crouch have this farm and house in excellent shape and the farm has been an excellent producer. There are two barns. Barn no. 1-a three bent stock barn with loft, concrete floor, and a concrete block milking parlor attached. The parlor is fully equipped with like-new surge milkers, cooler, automatic feeders, 6 ton mixed feed storage with auger, 14,000 gallon cistern, etc. There is also a 229 ton silo with auger feeder and 60' feeding skid. Barn no. 2-a good 6 bent tobacco barn with stripping room.
For inspection prior to sale, contact the selling agent, Caswell Prewitt Realty, Inc. at 498-0208.
TERMS: 10% down day of sale and balance within 30 days with delivery of deed.

Ky. Airport Zoning Commission Said To Be "Pioneer" Project

Some state government councils, task forces and commissions are more recognizable to the public than others. The Council on Higher Education is surely more visible to the public than, for example, the Board of Embalmers and Funeral Directors.

Lodged somewhere else in the middle, in terms of publicity, is the Airport Zoning Commission whose main duty is helping keep airspace around Kentucky's airports safe.

Uneven zoning and a proliferation of tall television "supertowers" are reasons cited by Kentucky Department of Transportation aeronautics director Ed LaFontaine for the formation of the commission in 1960, by then-Gov. Bert Combs. "A lot of agricultural land was being subdivided at the time," LaFontaine said. Also, many television stations were "trying to outdo each other" and regulation and planning was needed, he said.

Six commission members were appointed by the governor to staggered four-year terms. The Transportation secretary chairs the commission as an ex-officio member. By statute the secretary also appoints the commission administrator, whose duties include investigation of permit applications, developing administrative standards for the zoning program, coordinating meeting agendas and preparing zoning charts.

At bi-monthly meetings the six-member commission considers action on permits for construction or altering of structures which affect navigational corridors around the state's airports, according to present commission administrator Ed Martin.

The commission's established area of jurisdiction is defined by a 100 to 1 slope for a 20,000-foot radius around the point where runway elevation begins, he said. At 20,000 feet the slope angle increases to 30 to 1 up to a 44,000-foot radius.

Consequently, the slope plane gets one foot taller for every 100 feet of distance from the runway up to 20,000 feet and one foot taller for every 30 feet from 20,000 to 44,000, Martin explained. Therefore, obstructions more than 200 feet tall at 20,000 feet and more than 1,000 feet tall at 44,000 feet fall under commission jurisdiction.

This doesn't mean that obstructions shorter than 200 feet are considered "safe" and ignored, Martin said. In some cases, depending on the terrain, comparatively shorter obstructions can pose more of a navigational hazard than tall ones, he said.

A 100-foot tower built on a hill 1,000 feet above the runway elevation would have to be considered more of a hazard than a 250-foot tower the same distance from the runway on level ground, Martin explained.

Permit jurisdiction by the commission also extends over Kentucky's bodies of water, he said. Permits must be issued for obstructions more than 50 feet above the surface of open waters in Kentucky, including the Ohio River, Mississippi River, Kentucky Lake, Lake Barkley and Lake Cumberland. The height is 200 feet for all other bodies of water, Martin said.

The commission can approve permits with conditions, such as requiring painting and lighting of obstructions. It may also approve construction as planned or deny approval of the permit entirely. A circuit court injunction can be ordered by the commission to enforce the conditions of an approved permit.

Many of the commission's zoning decisions are affected by a 10-year "master plan" which takes into consideration current and future development of Kentucky's airports, Martin said. In some instances what might be considered "undue zoning" is done with an airport's future plans in mind, he said.

Other navigational problems are studied by the commission as well. Martin said he is currently working on a helicopter wire hazard study. Since helicopters generally are more maneuverable and travel different corridors than airplanes, areas between mountains where wires are often run can be hazardous, he said. The increase of the helicopter's use in mountainous Eastern Kentucky in the last few years prompted the study to examine the feasibility of requiring utility companies to obstruction-mark wires in dangerous areas, Martin said.

On the whole, Martin said the zoning commission is a "pioneer" project. "Many other states don't have an Airport Zoning Commission, so they don't get the enforcement within the state we have here," he said.

Co-ops Seek To Pass Costs To Consumers

Representatives of 18 Kentucky electric cooperatives serving approximately one million Kentuckians, have presented testimony in a rate case before the state Energy Regulatory Commission that could raise a typical consumer's bill by $2.47 a month.

The cooperatives including the Big Sandy RECC, are asking the commission to approve their increases if their supplier, East Kentucky Power Cooperative, Winchester, is granted an $8.58 million increase. East Kentucky Power's case is now pending before the commission. Intervenor are to file their testimony by April 24 and will face cross examination May 14.

East Kentucky lists five reasons for its increase request: (1.) constantly increasing interest costs, (2.) increasing construction costs, (3.) inflation, (4.) compliance with environmental laws, and (5.) deteriorating financial condition.

The 18 member cooperatives served by East Kentucky want any increase granted to the supplier to be passed through to their customers. Failure to grant the pass-through, the cooperatives contend, would materially impair their operations.

Money Available to Counties To Assist Ambulance Services

Ambulance services funded by local governments have been hard pressed financially like just about everybody these days, but help is on its way in the form of a bill which recently passed the General Assembly.

Senate Bill 66, which makes $2.7 million available and addresses the authority of the regional emergency service boards, was signed by Gov. John Y. Brown Jr. on April 3.

Under the bill the money will be distributed directly to counties and cities on a 50-50 matching grant basis. There will be an ambulance and equipment fund with $350,000 available the first year and $500,000 the next. A personal fund will be available with a $1 million the first year and $850,000 the next.

The new law stipulates a county can only get up to $40,000 a year, including grants to cities within its boundaries, for personnel. A county can only receive a maximum yearly grant of $12,500 for ambulances and equipment.

But each county will not necessarily get these maximum amounts, stressed Roland Dallaire, with the Bureau for Health Services, state Department for Human Resources. Distribution of the money will be according to priorities based on need, he said.

Before county or city governments can participate in the matching grant program for personnel, they must have spent more than 5 percent of their general fund budget on ambulance service. It is hoped program guidelines can be quickly set up and the first money sent to local government units by fall, said Dallaire, manager of DHR's emergency medical service branch.

Dallaire said the state already contributes around $1 million a year on a matching basis for upgrading training and equipment and for operation of regional administrative boards.

In addition, federal grants to local governments for ambulance service average about $1 million a year. Dallaire said Kentucky has received more money under the federal Emergency Systems Act of 1974 than any other state. The Bluegrass State has been able to get a high number of federal grants by demonstrating that Kentucky has a good approach to aiding development of ambulance services, he added.

The new money under SB 66 will be used to maintain the present level of ambulance service, he said. The ambulance services are financially pressed due to inflation, and due to increased demands for local government service in other areas, said Dallaire. The problem is compounded by a 78-week cap on use of workers paid by the federal Comprehensive Employment Training Act.

Training program workers had been used as ambulance service personnel for a couple of years in some cases, he said. Now the newly trained workers can only remain with the ambulance for 78 weeks so additional people can also receive training.

Governmental efforts to establish ambulance services started about ten years ago when funeral homes began to discontinue their ambulance services because of economic pressure, said Dallaire. Right now 39 percent of all ambulance services in Kentucky are maintained by local governments. About $20 million in local funds goes toward their operation.

There are 189 ambulance services licensed by the state and 40 unlicensed services in Kentucky. Dallaire said the state has permissive legislation that allows a county fiscal court to decide whether or not its public and private ambulance services will come under state licensing.

Also federal specifications on equipment must be met. These standards were updated Jan. 1 but vehicles which were conforming in 1979 will be "grandfathered in" with the new standards applied as new ambulances are purchased. When the present level of ambulance service can be maintained, attention will be focused on moving toward and improving the service, said Dallaire.

The biggest problem now is lack of patient stabilization when the patient is being moved from smaller hospital facilities in rural counties to large hospitals in Louisville and Lexington, he said. A patient's chance for survival can be greatly improved if stabilization can be obtained through administration of intravenous fluids, medication, and in cardiac cases, defibrillation, restoring the rhythm of the heart. Plus a patient's hospital stay can be greatly reduced if his condition is stable during transfer to the hospital, Dallaire said.

Patient stabilization can in part be reached by training more paramedics, who must have 1,000 hours of training, and more intermediate emergency medical technicians who can perform the stabilizing treatment. Regular EMTs, who have 81 hours of training, cannot administer IVs, medicine or defibrillation, he said.

A related problem area is advance notice to the receiving hospitals that critical patients are on the way. In 43 percent of the cases, the large hospitals do not have advance notice, he said. With advance notice the staff can gear up for the special needs of the patient and the physician can obtain vital information on the patient's medical history and present condition, he added.

Discovery of the existence of the body regulating substances now called vitamins marked an important milestone on our understanding of nutrition. However, the bombardment of advertising claims designed to establish the virtues of certain vitamin preparations may distort their true value. The average person is often in a quandry attempting to buy vitamins. The truth is that vitamins are essential for normal growth and regulation of body activities. However, they are required in extremely small amounts which are generally available in balanced diets. Vitamin deficiencies, however, caused by improper diet and other health reasons should be supplemented.

You won't find many deficiencies when you come in and look around COOLEY APOTHECARY, No. 2 Town Center Bldg. (886-8106). We don't play doctor, but we do render assistance to the people of our community, and offer alternatives to a problem, advising when first aid is appropriate. There is always a registered pharmacist on duty to serve you, and we dispense only the very best quality ingredients available, for the money. We're open Mon.-Fri.; 9-5 Sat.

UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY • COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE

"Caw! Caw! Called the crow. Spring has come again I know. For as sure as I am born, there's a farmer planting corn." And sure enough spring is finally here with corn planting time and lots of crows around to pull it up.

And what a perfectly North American sound is the voice of this pesky winged bandit. As Henry David Thoreau once remarked, if you walk out and stand still anywhere in the outskirts of town and listen, the caw of the crow can be heard rising above the sounds of industry, leading your thoughts to some far away fields and shaded woods.

The crow is probably the most intelligent of all our native birds. And, as many a farmer will testify, it is quick to learn and exceedingly clever in action. Despite all the devices farmers have thought up and manufactured over the years to scare it out of cornfields, it has always been able to figure them out and circumvent their purposes. Some outdoor people will swear that a crow can count and figure at least up to the old time "rule of three" but this is to be doubted a little. It is believed, though, they can comprehend when three people go into a patch of woods and two come out, one still remains.

But to go back to the sound of a crow, it hollers a lot and sometimes sings a bit. When it sings, it perches on a limb, ruffles its feathers, stretches its neck like a whitepoker swallowing an oversized hogmolly minnow, and with what seems a tremendous effort, delivers a series of squawks like those made by an old mother hen whose chicks are threatened by a marauding hawk. Aside from a harsh caw, a crow has some very seductive notes. A bunch of crows will sometimes sit around in a treetop and seemingly carry on a conversation in a sort of guttural tremolo, most grotesque but highly interesting to a hidden human observer and listener.

Although a bird of many sins and often given to downright rascality such as robbing the nests of other birds, the crow does possess a few virtues. As a general feeder, it will eat anything that doesn't eat it first. It does most of its food hunting on the ground, except in mulberry time. Then it does a lot of feeding in the trees because there are a few things a crow likes better than ripe mulberries.

A crow raises its nestlings almost entirely on insects. Many pests are thus destroyed—pests such as cutworms, grasshoppers and grubworms. It also clobbers hosts of crop-destroying field mice and moles that it encounters while stalking over the earth.

In the crow and the voice of the crow is the sound of untamed nature. It has seen many epochs and ages pass away, but it passes not away itself. It remains, as Thoreau hinted in his essay, "to remind us of aboriginal" times.

May Day Observance Set At Hindman Settlement School

The Hindman Settlement School, in conjunction with the Knott County Community Arts Series, will sponsor the second annual May Day Celebration May 2. This event will be held on the Hindman Settlement School campus in the vicinity of the Knott County Public Library. This celebration of the coming of spring will include the crowing of May Queen, folk dancing (Maypole Dance), folk games, traditional mountain music and crafts. Local civic groups such as Beta Sigma Phi and the Eastern Star will be selling bake goods and sandwiches. Everyone is invited to attend this celebration. In case of rain, all activities will take place in the Knott County Middle School gymnasium. Musicians and craftsmen who are interested in participating in this celebration should contact Mike Mullins, Hindman Settlement School, Hindman, Kentucky 41822, or phone 785-5475 or 785-5024.

Voluntary sterilization has become the single most popular form of contraception among couples married ten years or longer, the April Reader's Digest reports. Further, of the estimated one million people in this country who choose sterilization each year, almost half are men.

WANTED Eligible, Omitted Names For Archer Park War Memorial

Information has reached us since the construction of the Archer Park WAR MEMORIAL that many eligible deceased veterans are not listed. We are extremely sorry that this occurred. We did advertise widely for help in collecting the names of all Floyd Countians killed in World War I, World II, Korea and Vietnam.

To correct these omissions, Walter Karr Bowling Post No. 5839, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Prestonsburg, Ky., is planning to erect another plaque at the memorial, adding names of all the eligible deceased that we omitted. We need your help in supplying names for this new plaque. Please assist by contacting one of the following members by mail, phone or in person, and furnish the information needed:

Girl Scouts Conduct Waste Oil Survey

A survey by a dozen Lexington Girl Scouts found 55 percent of Lexington residents change their own motor oil. That coincides very closely with a federal Department of Energy study which shows 55 to 60 percent of automotive waste oil is generated by vehicle owners who change their own oil.

The girls found that 53 percent of the people they interviewed owned two cars and that 25 percent owned three or more vehicles.

A third of the people interviewed dispose of the oil by putting it in containers in garbage cans, others pour it into storm sewers or dump it in the backyard or driveway, the scouts discovered. Gas station attendants and others, totaling 30 percent, find other disposal methods.

One of the 12- to 14-year-old girls found a gas station in Lexington currently buys waste oil. Another girl's father, after reading an oil-recycling pamphlet given to the girls by the state Division of Hazardous Material and Waste Management, arranged for his company's oil to go to a Somerset firm.

The waste-oil survey is the action phase of a Girl Scout project to learn about government. The girls were meeting "a challenge to serve the public or community in some way," said Miatta Wilson, 14. Miatta's father, Jackson Wilson, is commissioner of the state Bureau of Environmental Protection, a section of the Natural Resources Department.

He arranged for the troop to visit the Natural Resources Department and spend a day working as pages for the General Assembly. While in Frankfort, the girls spoke with female attorneys, chemists, secretaries, administrative assistants and directors.

One of those women, Lili Palmore, chief of the waste management section of the Division of Hazardous Material, told the girls about waste oil recycling and about a bill that was before the Legislature that would enable statewide recycling. The scout troop chose to make the waste oil survey their action project.

Half the people said they would take their waste oil to a recycling center if one existed. More than half, 56 percent, said they would store oil in containers and return it to a gas station if the station would accept it. A few people said they would return the oil only if they were paid for it.

Garrett Store Scene, 53 Years Ago

Bill Francis
GENERAL STORE
GARRETT-KY

Now 91 years old, Bill Francis is shown (right) in his general store at Garrett 53 years ago. The customers (at left) were Roy Conley and John Vanderpool. The photo was made in 1927 when Mr. Francis was 38. The veteran merchant came to this county in 1916 from Uniontown, Pa., soon after the Elk Horn Coal Corp. began its building of the towns of Garrett and Wayland. Mr. Francis' wife, Julia, is 78. they are the parents of 13 children and have 27 grandchildren and 16 great-grandchildren.

Castle from Coal

Not coals from Newcastle but castles from coal. The small table-top arrangements in glass bowls delighted children in years past.

"We called them coal castles," recalled a Madisonville woman, "but a cousin in Virginia said in her family they were coal flowers."

Though some formulas are slightly different, the table-top decorations are easy to build. Place a lump of coal in a bowl (fish bowls were popular) and pour one-fourth cup table salt over the coal. Add one-fourth cup of water but be careful not to wash the salt from the coal.

On top of the coal place three drops each of red, yellow, blue and green food coloring. As the salt changes and "grows," the effect is a miniature rainbow-colored castle. Add one tablespoon of water each day.

People have found many unique ways to build with coal.

Back in the early 1800's, pioneer-preacher Daniel Williams built his own coal castle. He first settled in West Liberty in 1804 and built a log cabin, then moved a short distance away to Caney where he built a larger cabin of coal.

"He thought coal was so beautiful he wanted a house of coal," said Wardie Craft of Caney. "The house caught fire one day and soon was gone."

One of the main attractions at the 1907 Jamestown Exposition was a blockhouse made on the site from two car loads of coal dug from mines in Letcher county.

The Middlesboro Chamber of Commerce building, called the "Coal House," required 40 tons of coal to construct it in 1926.

Ginkgo trees believed to be more than 1,000 years old still grow in some Chinese temple gardens.

Dr. Thomas Walker and his companions discovered coal in the Big Sandy section of Eastern Kentucky in 1750 but did not evaluate its potential as did the later Mayos and others.

It was 91 years after Dr. Walker's visit that Big Sandy considered buying and selling coal land. It was much longer before the land was developed.

In 1841 Richard Deering bought a small tract of coal land from Samuel May. The tract was at Abbott Shoal where George R. Brown, Jr. soon would begin building a coal boat. May's heart had never been on "black gold" and when gold was discovered in California he was one of the first to join the great rush West.

It was the other way around for Richard Broas, of New York City, who searched for gold in the West, became disenchanted and found his treasure in "black gold" in the East. Coal from his discoveries was exhibited at the International Fair in Milan, Italy, in 1924. Two years later it fueled the "Chantier," a supply ship for Commander Richard E. Byrd's trip to the North Pole.

In 1851, coal oil was first produced in Breckinridge county, and in 1857 the first plant of its kind was built near Cloverport.

Britons, familiar with coal, became owners-investors in early Kentucky ventures, including the Wallsend Mine in Bell county where they also built a nine-hole golf course in 1886. The Prince of Wales (King Edward VII) was an investor in the Cloverport plant.

Rivers were the early highways of the commonwealth. In 1811 the steamboat New Orleans created excitement when it left the yard at Pittsburgh, steamed down the Ohio to the Mississippi and on to New Orleans. En route, the boat stopped at Yellow Banks (Davies county) to take on coal.

Later coal shipped to New Orleans was sold by the barrel. Robert Triplett was the first to get coal substituted for wood as fuel on river boats below Louisville.

New Orleans was a far market for East Kentucky coal but some of it went down the Mississippi. Steamboating, timbering and coal mining were born almost as triplets in the mountains. Logs were fastened together in rafts in the beginning and loaded with coal from the Highlands, then shipped downstream to Catlettsburg market. Later, great boats were made from choice wood, filled with choice coal and shipped downstream. Adventurous traders would travel as far as New Orleans where the market always was good to sell the coal and also the boat for its timber.

Q. Your recent story on arthritis reminded me of a clinic I heard about in Mexico which guarantees complete cures for arthritis. Do you know what sort of treatment is used there and why it isn't available in the United States?
J.K., Waterloo, IA

A. The University of Mississippi's School of Pharmacy has been studying drugs given to arthritis patients in Mexican clinics for several years. The patients were told that the drugs they were being given contained only vitamins or other natural substances, but research shows that the majority of these drugs contain a tranquilizer (usually diazepam) and a steroid, or diazepam and phenylbutazone. Steroids are known to be very effective in providing relief of arthritis symptoms; however, there are many hazards associated with long-term use of a drug when the patient is thousands of miles away from the prescribing doctor. All drugs analyzed were available from American companies by prescription, so we can safely say that there are no miracle cures south of the border.

Q. I saw your January "Shopping Aisle" column on Video Discs which can be played at home. What films are available?
N.B., York, PA

A. Magnavox, which manufactures a Video Disc television, also sells movies on cassettes which play without commercial interruption. The list of available discs is too long to reprint here, but categories include feature length films such as Looking for Mr. Goodbar, Jaws, The Sting, and Sgt. Pepper's Lonely Hearts Club Band as well as oldies-but-goodies like Frankenstein and Francis, the Talking Mule. There is also a small group of made-for-TV movies, a variety of sports events, six Jacques Cousteau offerings and educational, self-improvement and religious programs. There are about 100 discs in all which are available through MCA discovision.

Q. How can I get more specific information for my firm on the retirement plan program you wrote about in February?
B.H., Parandina, TX

A. The National Council on the Aging (NCOA), a 30-year-old private, non-profit corporation can handle all aspects of implementing and conducting a retirement program for a company. It offers various support services including the training of company personnel to conduct the program, customizing materials for the company, and consultation regarding post-retirement relations with employees.

Q. What is the easiest way to remove varnish and stain from woodwork?
J.M., Biloxi, MS

A. This can be very tedious work and there are no real shortcuts. Old varnish is often brittle and can be scraped off dry. If the area is large enough, use a cabinet scraper—a rectangular metal blade that you can grip with both hands. If you use chemical liquid or paste paint and varnish remover, brush it on according to the instructions. Remove it with a scraper and steel wool. Some craftsmen recommend washing the wood after using chemical removers to be sure that none remains to eat through the new finish. If you do this, be sure the wood has dried thoroughly before sanding and applying new finish to it.

After you have removed the old finish, use a reciprocating sander on large areas, followed by hand sanding. Small or intricate areas must be hand sanded.

Oil-based stains which penetrate the wood are difficult to remove. Some of it will come out with chemical remover, depending upon the color of the stain. Some extra sanding may do the trick, but if that doesn't work use a solution of bleach and water.

Q. I got a new dishwasher for Christmas. How can I get the best use from it for the least cost on my already sky-high electric bill?
E.G., Rockland, MA

A. Generally, you should place glasses, cups and light items in the top, silverware in the basket (with handles up—it's safer and more sanitary), and plates, pots, etc. in the bottom. Don't pre-rinse. Just scrape off the large scraps, bones and caked on bits of food.

Save energy by always waiting until the dishwasher is full before running a load, and use the "energy saver" feature if you have it. (This shuts off the heater during the dry cycle to save electrical energy.) The dishes will dry by their own residual heat, though it does take a little longer. Use the feature as often as possible, especially if you don't need the dishes immediately. The "heated dry" cycle does not sterilize the dishes, by the way. No dishwasher does this, although studies prove that dishes washed in dishwashers do have less bacteria than hand-washed dishes.

If you have problems with food soil redistributing during washing and remaining on dishes, be sure that you're not over-loading the machine. Check to see if your detergent is fresh. Old detergent loses its solubility and can't clean properly. As a last resort, check the water pressure to be sure that the amount entering the machine is sufficient.

Q. Recently I went to an optometrist for an eye exam and a pair of new glasses. I asked for a copy of my prescription, or the results of the exam, because I wanted to buy another pair of glasses elsewhere. They refused to give me a copy of the prescription. Is it legal for them to do this?
J.D.T., Industry, PA

A. Definitely not. Under a Federal Trade Commission (FTC) regulation informally known as "The Eye Glass Rule," an optometrist must voluntarily and automatically provide a written prescription immediately following an eye examination. This rule, which went into effect on July 13, 1978, governs the advertisement of optalmic goods and services, and the FTC launched an investigation in March of 1979 to find out whether optometrists have been complying with the law.

If your optometrist doesn't automatically give you a prescription, ask for it. If he still refuses, advise him of the federal regulation. Inform him that the FTC has the authority to file suit seeking penalties of up to $10,000. If it's still no go, write to the FTC, Room 281, Washington, D.C. 20580. State your name, address and complaint. Be sure to include the name and address of your optometrist.

Q. Up to what age are children permitted to fly free of charge?
P.Q., Normal, IL

A. Infants up to the age of two are usually carried free on domestic flights, but they aren't entitled to a seat of their own. On international flights, infants up to age two are generally charged 10 percent of the adult fare if they don't occupy a separate seat. For example, you would pay approximately $30 for a baby on a New York-London round trip budget flight.

Discounts for children under 17 are available on domestic flights, but they vary according to the route and fare. International flight discounts of up to 50 percent of the adult fare are available for children two through 11. This doesn't include most excursion and discount fares, however. Check with your travel agent or the airline you plan to travel, as the rules vary.

Q. In response to your recent "helpful hint" on removal of hemlines, not all hemlines will come out with a solution of vinegar and water. On some fabrics, nothing will take out the old hemline. If you have tried it on permanent press or a garment that has been washed, you will soon find out—nothing works.
I.D.P., Pittsburgh, PA

A. We stand corrected, and thank you for setting the record straight. We welcome readers' tips on how to deal with worrisome household problems, but realize that some solutions may not work for all situations.

Q. My father, who is 68, has glaucoma. I have heard that there is a new drug available for treatment of glaucoma. Can you tell me what it is, and if it is safe?
T.S., St. Paul, MN.

A. The drug is called Timolol, and is an eyedrop which appears to be an effective treatment of glaucoma, but it is not without problems. Patients who have heart and lung problems may experience serious side effects from the drug. For most patients, however, the drug will not cause any serious side effects, and can mean less frequent drug use and less interference with vision than is the case with other eye drops on the market.

Q. What is meant by the "rapid smoking" technique of breaking the tobacco habit? That seems like a backwards way to quit smoking to me.
J.P.R., Norwalk, CT

A. The idea behind rapid smoking is to smoke so much that you lose the desire for cigarettes. The smoke takes a puff every six seconds until he or she becomes too nauseated to continue.

Unfortunately this technique can have dire consequences for those with coronary heart disease, chronic lung disease, hypertension and anemia. The rapid smoker absorbs high quantities of carbon monoxide, impairing the blood's ability to carry oxygen. People with the chronic conditions listed above risk heart attack, stroke and seizure.

If you are in good health, the rapid smoking method can be an effective way to quit, but qualified medical professionals should be on hand in case of emergency.

Q. I was very interested to read your article on vocational schools, and I am wondering if the proposed FTC regulations of these schools will apply to cosmetology schools, because I plan to enroll in one this summer.
P.B., Las Vegas, NV.

A. The National Association of Cosmetology Schools has asked that all cosmetology schools be exempted from the FTC rule covering vocational schools, and the FTC is asking the public to comment on the request.

The rule provides for students who drop out of courses to receive a refund for the unused portion of their courses. The school is permitted to keep a registration fee of up to $75. The rule also requires a 14-day cooling off period during which students can cancel and receive a full refund.

The NACS is arguing that most cosmetology schools, which train hairdressers and beauticians, are small and adequately regulated by state regulations. Since work performed by students in these schools earns income for the schools, NACS feels that the FTC's refund rule is not applicable.

Award Winner

One of two Kentucky Power Company winners of American Electric Power System education awards this year is David Alan Riddle, a senior at Virgie High School. He will receive $2,000 for his first year in college, and $1,500 for the second year.

The other Kentucky Power winner is Shirley S. Williams of Ashland.

Riddle competed against a total of 273 applicants from across the American Electric Power System. There were 34 awards.

His parents are Bill and Elizabeth Riddle, of Pikeville. His mother is a personnel clerk at Kentucky Power Company.

State Plans To Preserve Wild Rivers

A study of Kentucky's wild rivers has resulted in a statewide plan to help manage and preserve scenic rivers. That plan is being distributed to state and federal agencies, local groups near the rivers and interested citizens by the state Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection.

"The wild rivers system was established in 1972 by the legislature in an attempt to preserve the unique and primitive and free-flowing character of streams in Kentucky," explained Jim Fries, chief of the planning section of the Division of Water Resources.

Portions of the Cumberland, Red, Rockcastle and Green Rivers, Rock Creek and the Big and Little South Forks of the Cumberland are designated as wild rivers.

Although use of the wild rivers has increased during the past eight years, present use is still below the estimated carrying capacity, Fries added. He expects rising fuel costs to keep vacationers closer to home, thus increasing use of the 100 miles of wild rivers.

The study, done by a private Louisville firm, outlines potential uses for the rivers and surrounding areas. Those include swimming, picnicking, bicycling, golf, hiking, tennis, camping, horseback riding, hunting, fishing, boating, water skiing and sailing.

"We hope to increase public interest and promote use of the wild rivers system by making the statewide management plan available to citizens," said Jackie Swigart, secretary of the Natural Resources Department. She urged citizens to become involved in determining future plans for the program by attending public meetings next week.

Each meeting will include discussion of the individual river segment in that area. Meetings will be held April 8 at Natural Bridge State Resort Park in Slade, April 9 at the Corbin Public Library in Corbin, April 10 at the McCreary County Courthouse in Whitley County and April 11 at the Harlan Public Library in Harlan. All meetings will begin at 4 p.m.

Elected To Office

Lloyd L. Sammons, Prestonsburg junior at Morehead State University, has recently been elected Grand Chapter Reporter-Historian at the Sigma Tau Epsilon National Convention in St. Louis. Sammons is currently president of MSU's chapter and has served on the Dean's Advisory Council. Sammons was among 22 MSU students and faculty members attending the national convention.

Englishmen were taxed from 1697 to 1851 for all windows in their houses over the number of six.

Oral History Tapes Keep Heritage Alive

"You didn't have to go to the drugstore then. He had the medicine in his pocket. He would give you a pill, and he'd take one himself. He pulled teeth. He did everything," said a Bullitt county resident recalling the old family physician.

This Kentuckian is helping keep community history alive for future generations by making a tape for the Kentucky Oral History Commission.

"Recalling the way it used to be through oral history interviews helps to preserve Kentucky's heritage," said Kim Lady, coordinator of the program. "The commission was established four years ago and now includes more than 1,500 tapes."

The program is administered by the Kentucky Historical Society and guided by a 32-member commission appointed by the governor to conduct a state-sponsored effort to promote oral history in Kentucky.

In addition to collecting taped interviews, the commission also has a funding program which provides money to colleges and universities for in-depth oral history projects. These funds are awarded on the basis of a grant proposal and application process and are supported by matching funds from the sponsoring institution. To date, 30 projects have been awarded grants totaling $89,167, and several hundred tapes have been collected.

Some of these grants have been awarded to record Appalachian culture and history. Alice Lloyd College in Pippa Passes (Knott County) has the largest oral history collection in the state. The focus of that collection is on Appalachian history, and two grants have been awarded to the college. These grants were for studies on mountain leaders and the coal industry.

Another interesting Appalachian study has been completed by Marguerite Carson of Mountain Heritage Inc. Working in conjunction with Sue Bennett College, her project concerns blacks in Eastern Kentucky.

"An interesting series of 13 tapes interviews deal with an October night in 1920 in Corbin when most of the black population was loaded into boxcars and literally 'railroaded' out of town," said Lady. "Today only three blacks reside in Corbin, and this is largely attributed to that October night."

One of the earliest grants awarded by the commission went to the University of Louisville to conduct a study of Louisville black history. A series of these interviews reconstructs the history of Old Walnut Street, now Muhammad Ali Boulevard, which was the black business district of Louisville during the age of legal segregation.

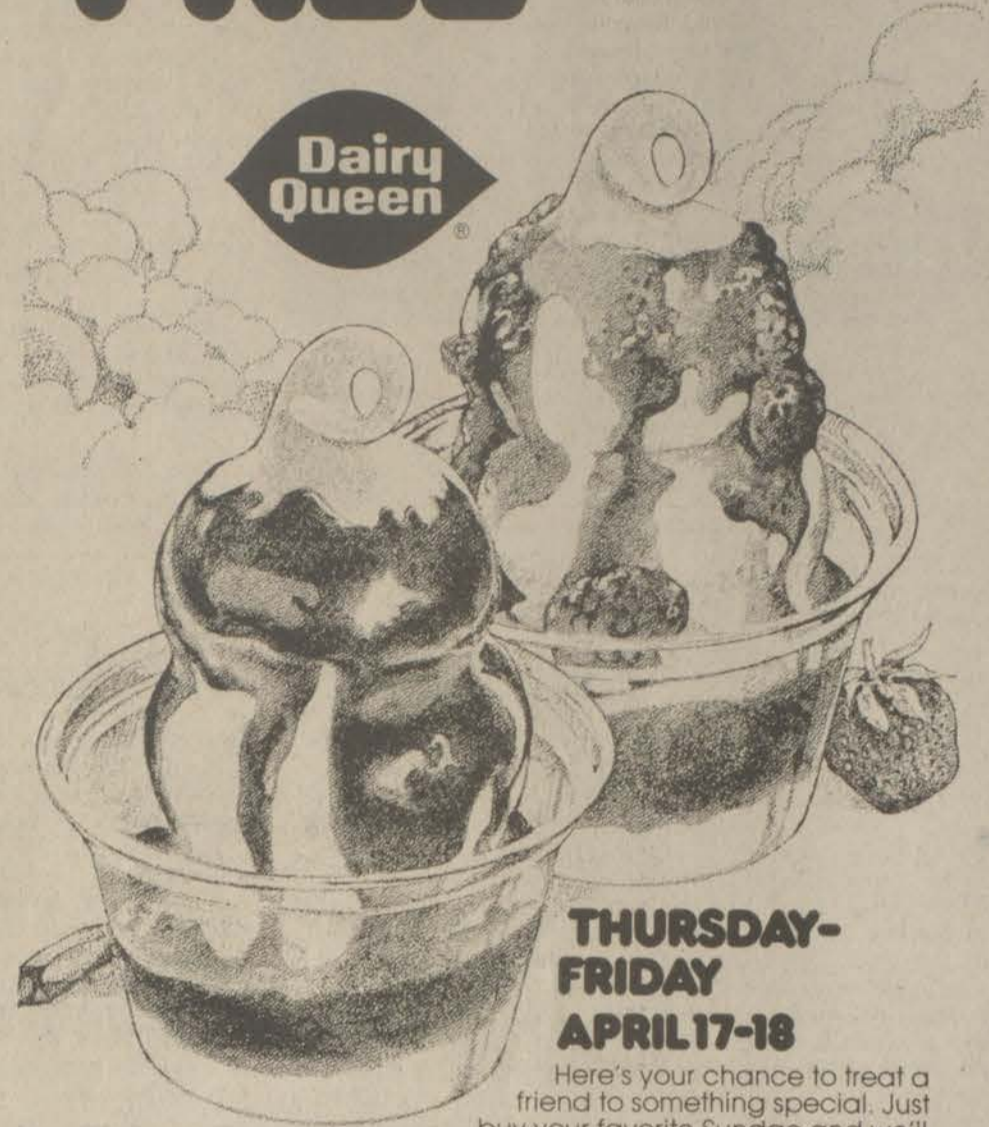

Three other recently awarded grants dealing with Louisville history include studies on the Louisville Orchestra, L & N Railroad and Louisville' Jewish community.

James Bennett of Western Kentucky University has developed two projects through commission grants. The two concern a study of the years in which Kelly Thompson served as president of the university and the early life of Robert Penn Warren.

Another professor from Western has also developed two programs through the aid of the commission. Lynwood Montell has completed a study on black officials in southern Kentucky and is now working on a study about senior physicians in southern Kentucky.

The other grant projects deal with famous Kentuckians, the tobacco industry, horse racing, photography, Frontier Nursing Service, Georgetown College and the city of Georgetown, the life of John Sherman Cooper and former state governors.

COAL.

It's one big reason your electric rates are below the national average.

It takes a lot of fuel to make the electricity our customers use. And because fuel is the major factor in the cost of producing electricity, your electric costs are directly affected by the kind of fuel we use.

Coal is the answer. It's cheaper to burn than oil. It's an abundant fuel source. And it's found right here in America.

Last year the American Electric Power System which we're part of burned over 38 million tons of coal. And that saved our country over 150 million barrels of oil.

Just as important, it helped keep your electric rates below the national average.* And that's good news for all of us.

We also have ways to help you keep your electric bill even more in line. They range from lending you money for insulating your home to the use of "off-peak" power and other energy-saving tips. Call the office nearest you and ask for Customer Services. We'll explain the programs and how each might help.

It's Not Too Late To Be Counted In Census, Bureau Announces

It's not too late to be counted in the 1980 census, the U.S. Bureau of the Census announced today.

Questionnaires were mailed to every household on March 28, and most people were instructed to mail back a completed questionnaire on Census Day, April 1. Millions did so, but the Bureau reports that a number of households have not yet been heard from.

People not counted in the census will in effect be "invisible" when census statistics are used to reapportion seats in the House of Representatives and to guide the distribution of Federal funds—their tax dollars—for programs in communities across the Nation.

There is no penalty for a late return of the census questionnaire, but census answers should be given as of April 1 date regarding births, deaths, changes of address, and other facts.

To be sure everyone is counted, after April 16 census takers will contact those households that were asked to mail back a completed questionnaire but have not done so. The Bureau emphasizes this follow-up work increases the cost of the census. It is estimated for every one percent of the households that mail back a fully answered form as asked, $2 million in follow-up costs will be avoided.

Every person's answers to the 1980 census are confidential by law and cannot be obtained even by other government agencies, whatever their purpose. Census answers are seen only by census workers, sworn to secrecy, who are liable to a jail term of up to 5 years and/or a fine up to $5,000 for violating the law. Not once in the history of the modern confidentiality law, which dates back to the 1930 census, has any census worker even been prosecuted for breaking census confidentiality. Census answers become public after 72 years for historical purposes.

Mrs. Halbert Chairman Of Langley "Breath of Spring"

Charles Thayer, president of the Bluegrass Chapter of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation, announced last week the appointment of Mrs. Kathy Halbert as chairman of this year's "Breath of Spring" campaign in Langley. This annual campaign raises funds to support research and care programs for children affected by cystic fibrosis. Details of the 1980 campaign, which will be held this spring, will be announced at a later date.

Cystic fibrosis is the number one genetic killer of children, striking one of every 1500 babies born in the United States today. The mucus-secreting glands of a child who suffers from cystic fibrosis malfunction, producing a thick sticky mucus that clogs the airways and causes severe breathing difficulties. It is an inherited, incurable disease that results in eventual death.

Today, because of expanded research and improvements in patient care, increasing numbers of individuals with CF are surviving into adolescence and early adulthood, rather than dying in pre-school age.

HERE ON EASTER VACATION

Mrs. Loretta Rainey Stephens and Willy Rainey, of Wyandotte, Mich., formerly of the Goble Roberts Addition, returned here for an Easter vacation. They visited Mr. and Mrs. Cullen Bryant, of Melvin, friends in the Weeksbury area, and Lancer-area relatives and friends, including Mr. and Mrs. Otis Wallen, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Goble, Mr. and Mrs. George Noe, Mr. and Mrs. John Mann, and Mr. and Mrs. Darvin Blackburn and family.

RURAL CHILD CARE HEAD START PROJECT ACCEPTING APPLICATIONS FOR 1980-81.

Applications are now being taken for the 1980-81 Rural Head Start Program year.

Parents of eligible pre-school children (3, 4, 5 years of age) may apply for enrollment Monday-Friday, 8:30 to 4 p.m. at the Rural Child Head Start Office.

Head Start personnel will be at the office to assist with recruitment. Please bring with you verification of income and child's shot record if available.

If you are interested in enrolling your child in the Rural Child Care Project Head Start Program, please contact: Rural Child Care Head Start Office, Floyd County Rescue Squad Bldg., Phone 886-3548.

WHAT IS HEAD START

Project Head Start is a federally funded child development program serving 3 to 6 year old children from low-income families. Ten per cent of the children may be from families whose income exceeds federal poverty guidelines. Another ten per cent of the children, those with handicapping conditions, are provided with experiences to play and learn with non-handicapped children.

Head Start programs operate under annual grants from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare/Administration for Children, Youth and Families. Program staff plan Head Start activities and services with the assistance of parents and area residents. They also work with other community agencies to ensure that children and families receive needed services.

Many items in this ad carry a reference retail price. This reference is intended to provide a guide to the range of retail selling prices in our selling area and may be useful in identifying different units of the same manufacturer. An item's reference retail price is either the manufacturer's suggested retail price or our determination of its full retail price based on prices at which it or similar merchandise is offered by principal retailers (department stores, specialty shops, and other non-discount sellers) in our selling area. While we believe our reference retail prices do not appreciably exceed the highest retail prices at which sales are made in our selling area, we cannot assure you that our reference retail prices, as described above, represent the prices in every community on any given day. Some items in this ad are listed as "regular" selling price. The merchandise is offered at this price except during a special sale. The purpose of showing a reference retail price (or a regular price) is to assist you, our customer, in making a knowledgeable and better informed buying decision. We suggest that you also do comparative shopping and compare our prices.

WAIKIKI

On an island paradise even a cop and two private detectives can be friends, as proven by (left to right) Dack Rambo, Donna Mills and Steve Marachuk, but that friendship could prove to be deadly in 'Waikiki,' a world premiere on 'ABC Monday Night Movie,' airing MONDAY, APRIL 21. This production will serve as the pilot for a proposed weekly series on ABC-TV.

Osborne Elem. Students Exhibit Handiwork

The 4-H Club (4-H Eagles) of Osborne Elementary entered a large number of projects on Rally Day held last Wednesday at the school. Projects consisted of photography, cooking, sewing, woodwork and automotive. Fifth grade students from Mrs. Ruth Jones' class are shown with their projects. At left, with photography displays are Ramona Woods, Sandra Scalf, Carrie Hamby, Sara Gullett, Johnny Isaac, Tony Hutton and Kevin Hamby. Automotive and woodwork exhibitors in lower photo are Shane McCown, Stevie Little, Byron Hall, Sherman Johnson, and Dennis Horn. The woodwork section also included Ernie Johnson and Barry D. Johnson. With cooking exhibits are Melissa Copp, Kelly Johnson, Sherry Hall, James D. Meade, Samantha Mays, Carrie Hamby, Dondra Williams, Bernal Day, Debra Stone, Lori Hall and April Reeves.

Converted Jew To Speak

Joe Blevins (formerly Levins), a Messianic Jew from Israel, will be the speaker at the April 19 meeting of the Big Sandy Chapter of the Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship. The meeting will be at 6:30 p.m. at the Holiday Inn banquet room, Pikeville.

Converted to Christianity while attending Indiana University, Mr. Blevins came to Eastern Kentucky a year ago.

Final Arguments Heard In L & N Coal-Haul Rate Hike Request

Final testimony has been presented on an L&N Railroad request for 22 and 13 percent intrastate coal-hauling rate increases to the Kentucky Railroad Commission.

Cross-examination of L&N rebuttal witnesses by the protestants—Kentucky Utilities and coal company representatives—completed the hearing of the 18-month-long case.

In summary of his rebuttal statement, T.E. Strauss, manager of the L&N coal traffic pricing division, said even with the two increases, which total a 38 percent hike, the L&N coal-hauling rates to Louisville from eastern Kentucky origins would be less than those of competitor C&O Railroad for similar hauls.

J.C. Oakes, superintendent of L&N's Corbin division, said $7 million in improvements had been made in L&N facilities at Ravenna "for benefit of the coal shipper."

During Oakes' cross-examination, KU attorney Malcolm Marshall said KU won't benefit from many of the improvements funded largely by the rate increases.

He said according to previous L&N testimony 56 percent of the rate increase for the Hoyt coal operation in eastern Kentucky will be used by L&N to buy new hopper cars and 85 percent of the increase imposed on Southeast Coal to buy locomotives and hopper cars.

Marshall said the estimated $241 million in new cars wouldn't benefit these operations because shippers provide cars for their hauls already and rarely use the L&N equipment.

Attorneys from both sides agreed on a "30-30" briefing schedule. According to commission counsel Chat Chancellor, both will simultaneously submit rebuttal briefs in 30 days. Each will then have 30 additional days to present reply briefs.

Chancellor said the case then goes under submission by the commission, which will issue an order upon reaching a decision.

"We're really interested in real estate loans."

"If you're in the market for a new home, but afraid of the spiraling interest rates, stop by and discuss our liberal mortgage loan rates.

We can help eliminate the confusion many borrowers experience in deciding whether they qualify for low-interest Kentucky Housing and Floyd County Bond Loans.

We feel that the real key to mortgage lending is to provide the best advice we can... and make our customers feel comfortable."

Eleanor S. Stevens, Assistant Cashier—Mortgage Loans

When it comes to financing a new home, it pays to shop around. We can answer your questions and help you avoid any pitfalls of purchasing.

Because we believe you'll see we're: PEOPLE WHO KNOW HOW TO HELP.
