Ky. Will Not "Sell Out" To Feds On Stripmine Law, Swigart Says

Natural resources and Environmental Protection Secretary Jackie Swigart told a Senate committee last week that Kentucky would not be "selling out" to the federal government although a number of state laws and regulations will have to conform to the federal surface mining control and reclamation act of 1977 to Kentucky to achieve primacy.

Gene Brandenburg, the state surface mining reclamation and enforcement commissioner, appeared with Swigart at a morning meeting of the Senate Agriculture and Natural Resources Committee and laid out some of the anticipated statutory changes.

Primacy would give Kentucky full authority, presently shared with federal officials, over bonding, permit approval, inspection and all other strip mine regulatory responsibilities.

Brandenburg said statutory changes already agreed upon by his department and the federal Office of Surface Mining would require:

- A determination of hydrologic consequences on the watershed around each strip mine site.
- A coal exploitation permit for all sites where more than 25 tons of coal is to be removed or where there would be "substantial damage" to the environment.
- Penalties to be assessed against corporate officials for "willful violations" of the federal act. Currently only private citizens can be sued.
- Citizens be allowed to petition that land not be mined when a person would be adversely affected by the strip mine. Brandenburg emphasized that no existing operations could be shut down by a petition.
- Within two months after the state achieves primacy that an operator apply for a permit if he would expect to mine more than eight months after applying for the permit.

Brandenburg also said that the state may have to require strip mine operators to hold public liability insurance through state regulatory changes. Presently, no liability insurance is required of operators.

Another possible revision in state law would require that the state hold a bond for five years, he said, whereas bond is now held by the state for "two growing seasons."

Swigart said the state is required to submit its legislative changes to the Office of Surface Mining (OSM) by March 3, but would have until June 15 to meet any missing requirements of the federal act.

In other action, the committee passed a bill on to the Senate concerning nuclear waste disposal sites in the state.

The measure, Senate Bill (SB) 47, is sponsored by the Special Advisory Committee on Nuclear Waste Disposal, created by the 1978 General Assembly to find solutions on the Maxey Flats nuclear waste disposal site in Rowan County.

The bill requires that a majority approval of both houses of the legislature before the state may relinquish ownership of Maxey Flats; requires that the state have complete authority for approval of building such sites; and makes the reopening of Maxey Flats or opening of any other site the responsibility of the legislature and the Department for Human Resources and the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection.

The bill also requires sufficient budgeting for necessary expenses at the Maxey Flats site.

Sen. Ed Ford (D-Cynthiana) also recommended the Senate create a resolution to establish a commission or task force to study the long-range possibilities for nuclear waste disposal in Kentucky.

The committee today also voted to send Senate Resolution 13 back to the Senate for consideration.

The resolution asks the state attorney general to study the "feasibility" of filing suit against the U.S. Department of the Interior challenging various portions of the federal surface mining control and reclamation act.

A similar consideration was requested by House Speaker Bill Kenton (D-Lexington) recently and at that time, state Attorney General Steven Beshear said that a suit would be "uneconomical, both in time and expense to the taxpayers of Kentucky."

However, most committee members agreed with Sen. John Rogers' (R-Somerset) assessment that a resolution would give "folks affected by the federal act a moral boost."

Collins-Lopez

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Collins, of Auxier announce the engagement of their daughter, Pfc. Judy A. Collins, to Sp-4 Alex A. Laboy Lopez, of Humacao, Puerto Rico.

Both Pfc. Collins and Sp-4 Lopez are serving in the U.S. Army, stationed in Germany. Alex is with the 3rd Med. Bw. and Judy is an ENT specialist.

Brown Orders Coal Use

Agreeing with a policy developed by secretary of Energy William B. Sturgill and Finance Secretary George Adkins, Gov. John Y. Brown Jr. last Friday cancelled the planned purchase of an oil-fired boiler at the Blackburn Correctional Institution in Lexington and ordered that the facility be heated by Kentucky coal.

"While the Blackburn facility is not a large one," Brown said, "Kentucky state government needs to set the example for all others to follow if coal is going to be the answer to America's energy problems."

The facility presently has three coal-fired boilers. A decision was made by the previous administration to convert the institution's heating system from a coal-fired system to one using oil.

Brown also sent a policy memorandum to all cabinet secretaries, university presidents and agency heads notifying them that it shall be the policy of the Commonwealth of Kentucky that any new or retrofitted state heating facilities shall use coal as source of fuel.

In developing the policy, Sturgill and Adkins consulted with coal county legislators, state Reps. Greg Stumbo (D-Prestonsburg), and Steve Cawood (D-Pikeville), Sen. John Doug Hays (D-Pikeville), and Rep. Jim LeMaster, of Lexington, where the Blackburn facility is located.

The study considered a number of options, including the purchase and installation of oil and gas-fired boilers as well as a coal-fired system.

"It was a front-end decision by a previous administration," Sturgill said. "The decision to purchase the oil furnace was made without giving consideration to the fuel to be burned over a reasonable life of the boiler," he added.

"After a detailed analysis it showed in the investment for coal as compared to gas and oil Kentucky would recapture its costs of a coal-fired boiler in two years. Over a 10-year period, the conversion will save Kentucky taxpayers some eight million dollars, in addition to other benefits in state taxes and employment.

"Even though some $60,000 has already been spent to put in the oil storage tanks and some other expenses have been incurred," Sturgill said, "the present cost of oil fully justifies the conversion to coal."

classes of property, they are useful "only as a general indication of assessment quality."

Because the state constitution requires that all property be assessed annually at its fair market value, Floyd county may have to make good the 18 percent under-assessment by an across-the-board assessment hike in order to have the county assessment certified by the state this year, Hall said.

Hall acknowledged that many properties which have not changed hands for some time are under-assessed. With more than 20,000 parcels of land in the county, and the county's limited appraisal staff and budget, it is impossible to keep individual property assessments up to date with their current market values, he said.

mineral out of here and not giving us anything in return," he said.

Appearing in support of the bill before the House Committee on Natural Resources and the Environment last Thursday, Dorothy Clark, executive-director of the David Community Development Corporation, said that fears of damage from blasting and possible silt-pond breaches, raised by the reported plans of Branham and Baker to mine in the area, threaten the corporation's ability to sell houses in the town.

Twelve homes have already been built, of the 28 proposed for the town's Schoolhouse Hollow subdivision; about 25 are planned for Official Hollow; a 24-unit housing project is intended on KY 404; and 40 or more homes have been planned for Reservoir Hollow, where Branham and Baker are said to be considering opening a deep mine.

Howard said this week that when the corporation purchased the town, David L. Francis, owner of the coal there, gave a verbal assurance that no more mining would be done in the area. "That's why we bought the town," he said. "We thought we'd have no worries about mining."

What if the coal operator agreed, in addition to paying royalties, to leave parts of the mined surface suitable for housing development? Both Howard and Mrs. Clark say they would be open to such a proposal.

"I'm not against mining," Howard insists. "I helped mine the No. 3 seam here in the old days, and I've raised eight children here. I'd like to stop it, but if they guarantee there'll be no damage and that they'll leave the surface usable, that would be fine with me."

on robbery or some such pastime. Which brought me around to thinking that the Levite might have trotted out a similar excuse for passing by on the other side.

Then, after I had got around to this consideration of the Good Samaritan, lo! one turned up. This vehicle passed on by, but within minutes was back to offer help.

And the Good Samaritan—it was so very fitting that he should be a preacher. Bill Thomas, former pastor of the Presbyterian Church here, enacted the role to perfection.

A headline in the morning newspaper says, "Nobody Will Arrest Arizona Man Who Confesses To Stealing $1300." Maybe they think swiping that small sum of inflated currency isn't sufficient evidence to convict.

waive this requirement in the present case.

Judge Wells will write the Army Corps of Engineers as soon as possible indicating whether or not an "all-out effort" is to be made to see the project through.

If a decision is made to complete the project, the ADD office will accept responsibility for providing the technical assistance needed to secure flood abatement monies to pay for moving homes, garages or other buildings.

If a decision is made to go ahead with the project, the Corps of Engineers will accept responsibility for training the project administrator. County Attorney Turner agreed to check into the possibility of finding a law student willing to accept that position.

The meeting also expressed concern that property owners, including the C. & O. railroad, understand that neither city, county or state funds are available for the purchase of easements or rights-of-way for the project.

During the current school year, the modification program has expanded to include grades 9-12.

On Bureaucrats

An item in The Times caught my eye last week—the account of "How Bureaucrats Spend Your Money."

The figures, if correct, total up to one billion, thirty-three million dollars for items all the way from weaning baby monkeys to why people are rude, cheat and lie. All this great sum seems to have been spent for naught, except several million dollars to find out if drunk fish are more aggressive than sober fish, while the paltry sum of $2500 seems to be only peanuts to find where all the liars are.

It seems to me that it would be better to spend a few thousand to find out what happened to the lowly toad frog which has about disappeared from our landscape. This lowly amphibian devoured billions of insects and was one of man's best friends, but most have disappeared from our hills and valleys, due to contamination of our waters. The demise of this valuable little vertebrate is due to the fact that their eggs will not hatch in the muddy, polluted waters of our rivers and shoals.

Air Waves Excel Fists

When I turned on my television set the other day, I received a shock similar to the one I received nearly 40 years ago when I was driving along with my mother and others and suddenly the radio made an announcement to the effect that his majesty's government was now at war with Germany.

To see the faces and shaking fists of old and young Russians supporting the invasion of Afghanistan, our feeble efforts at containment and many of our own citizens demanding firmer action—the impotence of the League of Nations and our United Nations are all reminiscent of the pre-World War II period.

So we ask, are we too late? May something still be done? Has communication between nations broken down?

Could this be the key? Key communications would have to be off key if half of the world is led to believe one thing and the other half another. Could the United Nations be turned into a world information center where true facts could be dispersed throughout all the world. With minor adjustments, we have the technical systems already in operation. While Iron Curtain jamming may be a minor irritation, enough information could filter through to alert any peoples anywhere in the world to what is truly going on.

Let's stop all this fist-waving with radio and television waving and, hopefully, "the truth shall keep us free"—of war.

Courthouse Annex To Be Ready For Emergency Use

The specter of possible flooding in coming months helped spur efforts by the Floyd County Emergency Task Force last week to ready the courthouse annex here for use as an emergency operations center.

In the event of an emergency, the building would be used as a communications center for coordinating the activities of the civil defense director, the county judge-executive, police, fire and rescue units, the utilities systems, Red Cross, welfare and food stamps agencies, and other relief forces.

Additional telephone lines and a power generator to provide light and heat during a power failure were said to be the most urgent needs. Officials of South Central Bell told the meeting that the additional telephone services could readily be provided. A discussion of three 25-kilowatt power generators provided to the county from army surplus some years ago, however, revealed that one is in use by the Floyd County Rescue Squad, one has been given to the Salyersville rescue squad, and the third is stripped and inoperable after lying idle for years in an open storage area.

Civil Defense Director Petty Thompson expressed surprise at the deterioration of the unit stored here and at the transfer of the other unit to Salyersville.

Bob Morrison, of the state disaster emergency service, said that his office is in the process of designating disaster assistance centers for this area. The centers would be used as one-stop assistance and referral centers for people in need of emergency services following a disaster.

Six automatic rain gauges, designed to give advance warning of a flood, will supplement local rain gauge observers, Morrison added.

The 1980 census will probably be the first census since the Civil War to record that blacks moving to the South outnumber those leaving.

Floyd County Health Dept. Offers Free Diabetes Screening

Diabetes is the sixth leading cause of death in Kentucky. In the United States, diabetes ranks third as a killer disease while also being the second leading cause of blindness.

There are about a million and a half Americans who know they have diabetes and are working with their physicians to control their disease. But medical authorities estimate that there are just as many diabetics who do not know that they are really sick. They think they are just tired and run down or have a minor complaint which will go away.

But diabetes does not go away. It can be treated with diet, exercise, medication, and regular living habits. The sooner diabetes is diagnosed and treated, the better are a diabetic's chances to live a full and long life.

The Floyd County Health Department offers diabetes screening to the public on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday of each week from 8:30 to 12 and 1 to 4.

If you or any member of your family think you may have symptoms of diabetes, it would be well worth your time to come to the health department to obtain free diabetes screening.

Clinics for the week:

Monday, February 4, the regularly scheduled Martin Outpost Clinic will be conducted at the Beaver Valley Clinic in Martin from 10 to 12 and 1 to 2. Immunizations, TB skin tests, diabetes screening, blood pressures, and Pap tests will be available to the public.

This clinic is a free service and the public is welcome to attend.

Also on Monday, February 4, a glaucoma clinic will be conducted at the Floyd County Health Department from 10 to 12 and 1 to 3.

All persons age 35 and older are urged to attend this clinic to be screened, free of charge, for glaucoma—a serious disease of the eye that can result in blindness.

The regularly conducted Bypro Outpost Clinic scheduled for Monday, February 18, has been cancelled.

The blacksmith's craft was essential to every settlement. Without the tools made and kept in repair by the blacksmith, a man could not bring crops from the earth. February is American History Month. Observe it with the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Fire Destroys Mobile Home

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the mobile home pictured above late Monday night at a trailer park on Bull Creek. No injuries resulted as the residents of the mobile home, Mr. and Mrs. Cline Hale and child were away at the time of the blaze. For a time there was concern that the fire might spread to one or more of the 13 other trailers which make up the trailer park but fire-fighting detachments from Prestonsburg and Allen were called to the scene and Wade C. Moore, director of housing for the Jenny Wiley Drama Association, owner of the ruined trailer and others in the park, credited the fire departments' response for saving surrounding property.

Kings' Defense Motions Heard By Pike Judge

Pike Circuit Judge E.N. Venters recently overruled four defense motions in the case in which David Lowell and James King, brothers, are accused of the kidnapping and murder of James Leonard Wells, night clerk at the Heart o' Highlands Motel in Paintsville.

He also withheld a ruling on another defense motion, set pre-trial hearings on two other motions and accepted evidence into the record.

Most of the motions involved Ruby Jordan, the Paintsville woman who has said she was with the brothers on the night of the kidnapping, Judge Venters said. Judge Venters overruled motion which asked that Mrs. Jordan, who is expected to be a major Commonwealth witness in the trial of the case, undergo psychiatric examination. He held that the defense could ask her to submit to such examination but that the court could not force her to do so.

Another defense motion to present her testimony in support of the request for psychiatric examination was overruled. Venters also overruled a defense motion to increase the number of juror challenges in the case from the usual eight to 20. On a motion for defense funds for the employment of an expert in the field of hypnosis the judge said he feels the taxpayers should not be saddled with an exorbitant fee, should the motion be sustained, and directed defense counsel to try to find such an expert witness nearer home and to report back to the court.

Hearings on other motions have been set later this month. On Feb. 14 the matter of an exchange between defense and prosecution of their list of witnesses will be decided, and Feb. 26 was tentatively fixed as the date for hearing of a defense motion for change of venue. A defense motion to suppress court identification and other testimony regarding or influenced by hypnosis and (or) resulting from impermissible suggestion was scheduled for a separate hearing Feb. 14.

The defense requested that the medical records of Ruby Jordan which defense counsel subpoenaed from the Methodist Hospital, Pikeville, be accepted as part of the record. Venters accepted certified copies of the records, as presented to the court by a hospital representative, but ordered that they remain sealed and not be opened except by order of the court.

Actual trial of the case apparently is some distance away. One of the defendants, James King, is being held in the Floyd county jail.

Arrests Listed

There follows a listing of persons booked at the county jail over the past week, charges against each, and arresting officers:

Billy Parsons, theft by unlawful taking, Wayland policeman Roger Anderson; Gary D. Keathley, drunk driving (DUI), State Trooper Sizemore; Jonah Isaacs, DUI, State Trooper D. Weedman; John Shepherd, DUI, Prestonsburg policeman L. Woods; Ronald Lee Parsley, theft, State Trooper P. McLough; Lowell Dean Parker, receiving stolen property, State Det. D. Stumbo.

75-Year-Old Home At Allen Levelled By Sunday Blaze

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Laferty at Allen was destroyed with all its contents by fire, late Sunday afternoon.

The blaze was discovered about 5 p.m., and had spread through the entire second story before the Allen and Prestonsburg fire departments reached the scene. It apparently caught in the area between the upstairs floor and ceiling below, and may have resulted from defective wiring, a neighbor said.

The same source said there was no estimate of the loss. The two-story home was about 75 years old and contained a large collection of antiques.

The nearby home of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Nelson was slightly damaged by was saved by firemen from also being destroyed.

Kentucky Treasure Trove

By HELEN PRICE STACY The gleam, glitter, beauty and value of gold!

Kentucky has more of it than can be counted in gold bricks at Fort Knox. And if all of the treasure could be found, there would be enough to go around.

In Fleming county, where gold has been discovered, it is creating more excitement than stories of John Swift's silver mines.

Ten years ago, gold was reported in Lawrence county, enough gold to start free enterprise swinging as much as finding an oil well in what was thought to be a dry hole. (This discovery was made on the farm of Homer Neeley, former Floyd man.—Ed.)

Along the Little Sandy River in Greenup and Carter counties, old tales about buried gold flow on and on. At the current price of gold, should the Anglin buried treasure ever be found, it would make the owner a Midas.

Three bachelor brothers, John, Bill and Adrain Anglin, lived in a log house with a stone fireplace. The one window had no glass but in winter the brothers latched a thick wooden shutter over the opening to keep out the cold.

It has been said that at hog-killing time the brothers would butcher 20 hogs at a time, working without stopping until all were dressed and the meat taken care of. They always held back half of one animal. When everything was readied, they would cook the meat in the fireplace and have a feast.

The old bachelors had money. They sold hogs and cattle and saved every penny. They preferred to live off the land.

Bill always took his money to an Oldtown store and had it converted to gold coins. He arranged with the store owner to be there on Sunday mornings to take care of the money when neighbors would be in church and not in the store. That way, he figured, prying eyes would not know about his gold.

War started and as soldiers of the North and South traveled in the area, Bill worried about his cache. One evening he took his gold from its secret place and carried it away from the house. He died without telling anyone where he hid it.

Potholes can still be seen today on the hills and in the lowland of the Anglin farm. Holes also dot the cemetery where the Anglin brothers are buried.

If treasure seekers ever found the gold, it was never made known.

In Morgan county, Capt. John T. Williams kept gold and served as a "bank" for neighbors who could not always travel to Mt. Sterling to borrow money or make deposits. The Confederate captain kept his gold in an iron kettle in a stall in the barn at his farm at Liberty Road until a hired hand found it one day while cleaning the stalls.

Williams carried the kettle in burlap sack across a steam and out of sight around a hill and buried it. Years later he called for a nephew to hear his story as he lay ill. Williams died before the nephew arrived, and the kettle of gold remains somewhere in the area.

The spun gold, yellow gold, coin gold bounties remain. Nearly every Kentucky county has a story about buried gold to entice treasure seekers.

(Editor's note: The current value of gold may start anew the search at Hueysville, in this county, for the fortune said to have been hidden by Jack Neel, early merchant and landowner.)

Researcher Seeks Gold Substitute

With rising gold prices, that crown, bridge or filling your dentist puts into your mouth may send you to the bank for a loan. But if research at the University of Louisville School of Dentistry pans out, you might be able to bank your savings on dental work.

In 1976, a porcelain fused gold restoration, a tooth made from a sturdy shell of gold covered with white material, cost only about $7, according to U of L biomaterials scientist Dr. Anthony von Fraunhofer. Today, the same amount of gold will run about $42.

Crowns are also costing dental patients more because of higher gold prices. Gold in a crown that only recently cost $40 is now running about $80 to $120. "This is just a minimum price," noted Dr. von Fraunhofer.

"Just before Christmas, gold prices were about $50 an ounce," he explained. "With gold prices of between $700 and $800 an ounce in mid-January, we've had about a 60 percent increase in the price. It's phenomenal. We cannot hang around doing nothing with the price of gold going up. We have to find reasonable alternatives to gold."

For the past several months, Dr. von Fraunhofer—who holds a master's and Ph.D. in metallurgy—has been researching alloys which might replace gold. These alternatives must perform as well as the precious metal. For instance, they will have to withstand the tremendous pressures of the mouth during chewing. They will have to mold well, fitting into the mouth properly. And they will have to look attractive.

Dr. von Fraunhofer believes suitable alternatives to gold exist. Researchers have found that an inexpensive form of diluted gold works well in crowns and inlays, noted the U of L scientist. And plastics are becoming an attractive option to other materials, even though they require further study.

And there is bronze, which Dr. von Fraunhofer researched while working in England at the University of London's Institute of Dental Surgery (Eastman Dental Hospital). There, after preliminary testing of bronze alloys to ensure they were safe for use, he had about 12 patients fitted with partial dentures made from bronze instead of gold.

The saving from using bronze would be tremendous, Dr. von Fraunhofer noted. "Instead of paying $50 for gold used in a restoration, you would pay only about $1 or $2 for the bronze," he said. He explained that bronze costs about $6 a pound, compared with gold's price of around $700 an ounce.

But before bronze can be used by dentists in their practices, more information must be obtained. That means testing thousands of different kinds of bronze to find just the right one, since the bronze Dr. von Fraunhofer used in England is unavailable in this country.

If results from the testing prove satisfactory, which he expects, Dr. von Fraunhofer will report his finding in dental journals. These journals will circulate among dentists, letting them know a substitute for gold has been discovered. Then, with demand for the bronze, dental supply houses will begin stocking the material, dentists will begin using it, and people will begin reaping the savings.

State Schools Board Considers Requirements For Graduation

The state Board for Elementary and Secondary Education voted last week to leave requirements for high school graduation at 18 credits, rather than raising them to 20 as had been constructed.

However, the board encouraged local school boards to set higher standards if it is in the best interest of their students.

Board members asked the staff of the state Department of Education to prepare a regulation that would limit the number of credits to be counted toward graduation to five per year. That would require students to take at least three credits their senior year. However, such a regulation would allow all credits earned to be counted for college entrance.

The state board wanted the regulation also to allow denial of accreditation of schools that fail to keep students in classes for the required six-hour school day.

The board took the action after receiving the recommendation of the hearing officer to withdraw the amendment to the state regulation setting the minimum requirements toward a diploma. All of those testifying at the Dec. 19 hearing opposed the increase.

In other action, the board approved the minimum appropriations set for instructional materials for each student. The amounts set for the 1979-80 school year are: instructional materials, $5; printed material, $2.50; and audiovisuals, $1.75. For the 1980-81 school year, the appropriations are: instructional materials, $7.50; printed material, $3.50; and audiovisuals, $2.50.

The board also approved a proposed regulation that establishes minimum courses of study, the scope of instruction offered and minimum requirements for graduation. The regulation would make the state education course of study program an official standard rather than the guide it has been.

The state board approved experimental programs for the Leslie County Area Vocational Center and Clinton County, Wayne County and Assumption high schools.

Dr. William Sadler, monitor to the Jefferson County Board of Education, reported that the Jefferson County board is continuing to work on the board policy.

He said the two newly-elected board members met for their first regular session in January. There is no pronounced split in the new board, he added.

In a report about Jefferson County school construction, Sadler said the school system had not followed the procedures required by state regulation for construction.

After an executive session, the board asked state Superintendent of Public Instruction Raymond Barber to continue monitoring the Jefferson County School District and to make a report at the next meeting about the noncompliance of Jefferson County schools with administrative procedures for school construction.

Serious audio equipment for people who are serious about the sound in their cars.

Model R402 10 watt AM/FM stereo cassette with independent Bass & Treble controls.

The R402 offers full stereo equalization with individual Bass and Treble controls. This 4-speaker unit lets the listener adjust the left-right speakers with a Balance control; front-rear speakers are adjusted with a separate Fader control.

For full bass tones at low volume levels, there is a Loudness Compensation function.

Mechanical switches control several functions; LED indicator lights glow when they're engaged. For example, a Mono/Stereo switch lets you switch to "Mono" for clearer reception of weak FM stereo signals.

The Interstation Muting switch cuts out undesirable interference heard between FM stations when tuning. And a built-in Automatic Local/Distance feature limits powerful FM signals in high intensity areas. Which means better reception and clearer, sharper music.

Count on long life and better performance from the hard permalloy cassette heads. And the end-of-tape light indicates when your cassette is over.

The R402 will fit most domestic and foreign cars.

February—Month of Uncertainty

By NEVYLE SHACKELFORD
UK COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE

Reference books tell us that the name of our second month, "February," comes from a Latin word meaning "to purify." It was the period in which the Romans purified themselves for the many religious festivals to follow during the year. Other sources say the name stems from an ancient and forgotten term meaning a "time that tries the patience," and certainly it does.

First and foremost, February's weather is a tantalizing mixture of thaw and promise. One day it may be warm enough to go barefoot; the next cold enough to freeze the whiskers off a polar bear. On another day violets may bloom in the meadow and Ceonoe Bells in the woodlands, the next icicles may festoon the eaves.

Certainly February is a month of uncertainty and its promises of spring are often false and as insubstantial as shadow pictures on the wall. It is the month of the hunger moon of the Indians; the month in which the farm wife has to stoop in order to retrieve potatoes from the bin in the cellar; and a time of year when the farmer looks at his haymow and wonders if he will have enough roughage to last until grass grows green again in the pastures.

In times past, February marked the beginning of the planting season in Kentucky and other Border States. On the 14th day, many old timers went out, rain or shine, and planted what they called "sallet peas." These were hardy peas that were broken up, cooked with a piece of middlin meat, and eaten hull and all. The month also called for sassafras tea and a mess of "Hammer-on-the-Rock," an edible wild green of the toothwort family.

For all the tokens of spring that show up in February, it is still a winter month and actually an off month for the gardener. There is one thing, however, that we in the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture remind gardeners. February is the precursor of March, perhaps the busiest month of the year.

With that being the case, gardeners will benefit by doing jobs now that will make spring tasks easier and less hurried. For instance, February is a good month in which to spray for scale insects on fruit trees. The fruit trees can be pruned, too, as well as shade trees and ornamental shrubs. But in the case of shade trees, avoid pruning trees like maples and elms that bleed when the limbs are cut off. On bleeding trees, this work is best done after the foliage is well developed, or left until September. Be careful, too, to trim only the flowering shrubs that bloom late in the season. Otherwise the blossoming wood on the early blooming varieties will be destroyed. Pruning of shrubbery is largely to remove the oldest wood and to induce new growth from the bottom.

Another good idea for February is to check the garden tools and sharpen and repair them if needed. Check on the seed supply, determine what will be needed, and get the order in immediately.

Checking the Old Farmers' Almanac, here are some other things that can be done with profit in February. This venerable old periodical advises as follows: Overhaul the tractor. Build birdhouses. Mend fences. Order strawberry plants. Buy Mom a box of Valenting candy. Start seed of peppers, eggplant, cabbage, and tomatoes indoors. Build a hotbed and get cold frames ready. Prune grapes. Read a good book. Visit your county Extension agent and talk over your future farm and garden plans with him.

And maybe, just maybe, if all these things have been done in February, "You," as it says in Joel 2:26, "shall eat in plenty and be satisfied."

One other thing good about February: It is the last full winter month of the year.

Scientists were puzzled at first when three white polar bears at the San Diego Zoo turned green. A check-up revealed that algae growing in the bears' pool had found a safe home inside the bears' hollow hairs, explains the National Wildlife Federation.

Hamilton Loses Round in Fight To Mine Tract

Reversing a Franklin circuit court decision, the Court of Appeals ruled last Friday that Teaberry coal operator, Sterling Hamilton, had not been denied due process by the Secretary of the Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Protection (DNREP) in denying Hamilton a permit to stripmine a parcel of land on Tinker Fork of Mud Creek.

Under consideration by the Appeals Court was a Franklin circuit review of a 1977 decision by Robert D. Bell, then secretary of DNREP, denying the re-issuance of a permit to Hamilton for the stripmining of 58 acres of land on Andy Branch of Tinker Fork and the issuance of a new permit for the construction of a hollow fill on the adjoining eight acres.

Willard Johnson and Edgar Howell, who live below part of the acreage in question, had objected to issuance of the permits, citing Hamilton's record at that time of more than 60 violations of state stripmine laws, several contempt citations in related litigation in Floyd circuit court, and the danger which they claimed would be posed to their families and properties if the permits were issued.

Following a departmental hearing, Secretary Bell denied the permits on the basis of the coal operator's violations and the probability that the proposed hollow fill would not be constructed in accordance with the law.

However, in a subsequent judicial review of Bell's decision, Franklin Circuit Judge Henry Meigs ruled that Hamilton had been denied due process in that the secretary made his decision before receiving a typed transcript of testimony taken at the departmental hearing, and remanded the case to the secretary for a new decision.

At issue before the Court of Appeals was the question of whether Hamilton was in fact denied due process by Bell's deciding the case without access to the typed hearing transcript. Attorneys for Johnson and Howell, denying that this was so, asked for a reversal of the Franklin circuit court order and for a remand of the case to the circuit court for review of the issue as to whether there was substantial evidence to sustain the secretary's original decision.

Friday's ruling, which accepts the argument of Johnson and Howell, means that no new hearing will be necessary on the permit application and that the denial of the permits will stand as long as the circuit court finds that it was based on substantial reasons.

In the meantime, Hamilton still awaits a decision on a permit application for a deep mine on the Hollybush Branch of Mud Creek, an operation which has also been the focus of alleged irregularities.

A non-compliance order had previously been issued against T. and S. Coal Company for mining at the site without a permit, and a mine inspector's report of October 3 last year noted that "the operator has been moving coal since the non-compliance was issued."

Following a departmental hearing on the application, November 16, the hearing officer found that a deep mine had been operated at the site without a surface disturbance permit, and Hamilton agreed to shut down the operation until a permit was issued, to undertake certain remedial measures, and to pay a $2500 fine.

A subsequent application to operate the mine was turned down by DNREP in December, owing to "deficiencies" in the application. Hamilton filed another application in relation to the same mine site last month.

New Bills Affect Teachers, Students and Senior Citizens

For the fifth time since 1972, a bill addressing professional negotiations for Kentucky teachers has been introduced on the Senate floor—this time with the endorsement of Gov. John Y. Brown, Jr. and the Kentucky Education Association.

The measure, Senate Bill (SB) 149, is similar to bills introduced in past Senate sessions, said its sponsor Sen. Bill Quinlan (D-Louisville).

"What it's saying is each board (of education) shall recognize the teachers in their area, those that elect to join an organization, and it outlines how the elections to determine who is the representative voice for the teachers will be held," Quinlan said in an interview.

The bill has a no strike clause in it, Quinlan said. "It does say that (the board and representative) will work out a grievance procedure that ultimately will end up with binding arbitration on grievances, (but) not on wages when you get to that part of it."

Quinlan said the governor's office, in coordination with the Kentucky Education Association, drafted the bill.

"The Kentucky Education Association had a proposal and they worked with the governor and his staff to develop a bill that was acceptable to both of them," Quinlan said.

Public school students could be charged for some out-of-class activities if a bill passed by the House of Representatives Thursday becomes law.

By a vote of 94-0 lawmakers sent the bill to the Senate where a similar bill was adopted last week and sent for House approval.

Rep. Steve Wilborn (D-Shelbyville), sponsor of the bill, explained that students attending certain "cultural enrichment programs" and field trips could be charged admission and transportation fees. A 1978 law prohibited public schools from charging students for anything and caused some confusion over continuing students' outside activities, Wilborn said.

Senior citizens, threatened by insurance companies that want to cancel their auto insurance, can rest a little easier now. The House unanimously passed and sent to the Senate a bill that would prohibit insurance companies from canceling policies because of the driver's age.

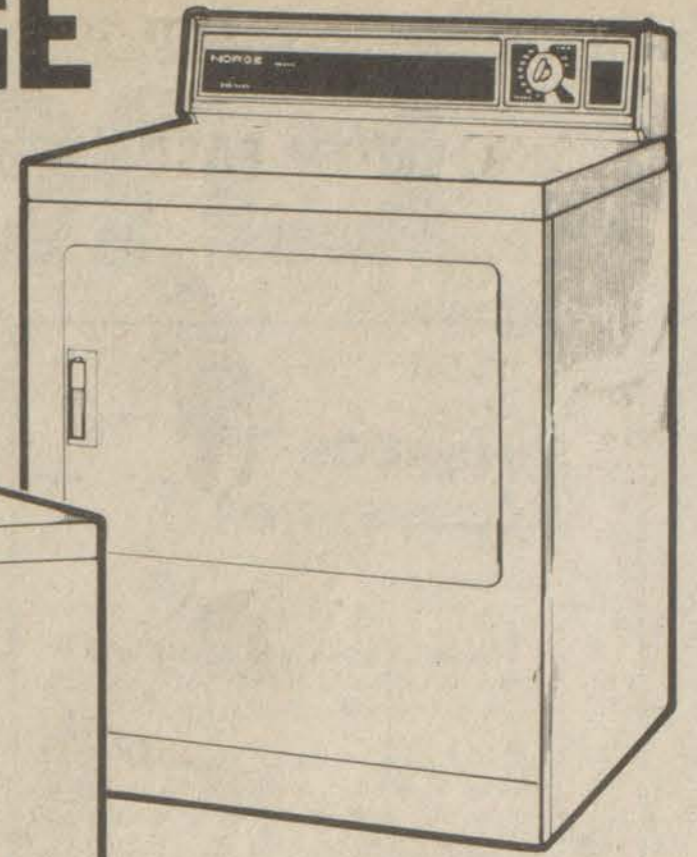

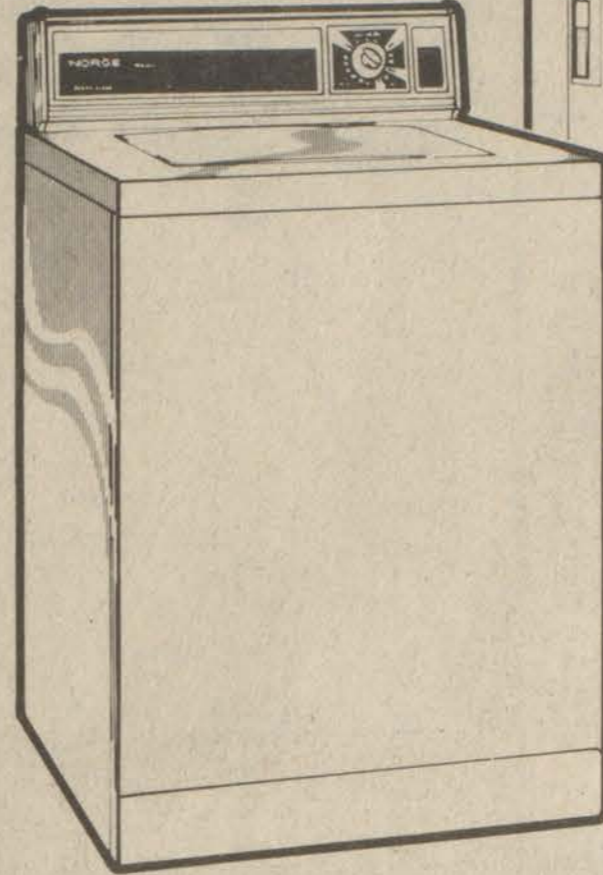

The House passed, 80-10, and sent to the Senate a bill that would abolish the three-member county budget commission.

Bill sponsor, Marshall Davenport (R-Somerset), said the action was recommended by the Task Force on Counties and would improve the way a county's budget was prepared and approved.

Under the bill, the county judge-executive would prepare the county budget and submit it directly to fiscal court.

Verdict Places $505,000 Value On Floyd Tract

A highway condemnation case heard in circuit court here Monday resulted in a jury verdict for the plaintiffs which may represent the largest such award made in this county.

The jury verdict awarded May Enterprises (Charles and David May, Earl Webb and Virginia Allen) $505,000 for 5.12 acres of land condemned by the Department of Transportation for construction of KY 80 at Eastern, on Right Beaver Creek.

Right-of-way for the four-lane highway took 5.12 acres of the 8.44 acres owned by the plaintiffs. Their holdings included a coal tippie and associated facilities. The road construction involved a change in the stream bed which moved the creek near the tippie and also claimed the areas used for stockpiling of coal and for a pond to contain water used in coal preparation, plaintiff's attorney, Clifford B. Latta, said.

The jury set the value of the entire tract before highway construction at $1,235,000; after construction, at $730,000.

The property in question is located across Beaver Creek from Allen Central High School.

Gas Co. NMA Provides Scholarship Help

Lois Greene presents check to P.C.C. Financial Aid Officer Walter Frasure.

Lois Greene, past president of the Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company Chapter of the National Management Association has announced the awarding of a $200 scholarship to the Prestonsburg Community College Scholarship Fund for the 1979-80 academic year.

Greene explained that the club voted to make the contribution to the general scholarship fund to be used as determined by the fund administration, but that future grants may be designated for local students or those living in the Company's operating area.

Walter Frasure, financial aid officer at the community college, accepted the gift on behalf of the institution commenting that it was needed to help supplement the educational pursuits of deserving eastern Kentucky students. Frasure also encouraged other businesses and groups in the area to support the scholarship fund to help offset increased requests for financial assistance by a growing student population.

Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company has been affiliated with the National Management Association for more than twenty-five years. The local chapter's 105 members are part of the largest professional association of its type in the world with 210 management chapters and 52,000 members covering the entire spectrum of American industry and organizations in the public sector.

Both Snow, Temperatures Fall

Snow of any consequence was slow in its coming, but when it did arrive it was far from inconsequential.

It fell in this county to a depth of seven inches last Wednesday, Wednesday night and Thursday morning.

Traffic was at a near-standstill early Thursday but main highways were fairly well cleared by Friday. Rural roads, however, remained snow-covered and icy early this week.

If there is no further snowfall, schools are expected to reopen today (Wednesday) after losing four days last week and two this week.

(When school bus drivers began preparing their buses Monday for travel later in the week, they could not get 12 started, Supt. Pete Grigsby, Jr. reported. Zero weather on two preceding nights added to their immobility.)

Accidents reported were minor in nature. The most serious traffic mishap occurred Sunday but was not snow-related.

Road conditions last Thursday were such that a circuit court case set for trial here was continued. One cause of the continuance was the fact that not enough jurors could reach Prestonsburg to comprise a trial panel.

Bill Would Define Absence of Governor

The House State Government Committee last week passed out of committee House Bill (HB) 143, which would define the absence of the governor from the state, and HB 95, which would subject the minutes of the State Fair Board to the open records provisions.

Rep. Bill Weinberg (D-Hindman) sponsor of HB 143, said the bill is the result of the interim subcommittee that reviewed the duties of the lieutenant governor.

The bill defines effective absence as an absence that renders the governor temporarily incapable of acting in an emergency.

It would require the lieutenant governor to "make a good faith effort to contact the governor and inform him of the emergency, giving him the opportunity to return."

"The bill would correct something that has led to a great deal of abuse in the past," Weinberg said. He referred to previous situations in which a lieutenant governor has called general assembly sessions when emergency situations did not exist but the governor was out of state.

"We have a governor now who plans to do a great deal of traveling, and we don't want him to feel he cannot step over state lines," Weinberg said.

Weinberg said the courts would have the new law to refer to in cases of abuse of the lieutenant governor's duties. At present the only document they have to go by is the constitution written in the 19th century when travel time to the Capitol from out of state was greater, he added.

Legislators concerned with the constitutionality of the bill were shown three conflicting attorney general's opinions. Two said the bill was constitutional, according to Weinberg, and one questioned the constitutionality.

Weinberg said the question of constitutionality would be left to the courts if the law was ever tested.

Rep. Art Schmidt (R-Cold Spring) was not at the meeting to present his bill, HB 95. However, Rep. James E. Bruce (D-Hopkinsville) said the State Fair Board was in agreement with the bill. The board abides by the Open Meetings Law but wants statutes in case it is ever questioned, Bruce said.

In other action, the committee passed out House Resolution (HR) 12, sponsored by Rep. Jerry Lundergan (D-Lexington) to adjourn the full House at the next opportunity in memory of John B. Breckinridge who formerly had served in the House of Representatives and instituted the state merit system.

HB 287, which would exempt certain Kentucky Educational Television employees from the compensation schedule of the state Department of Personnel, was passed prior to the committee's adjournment.

The committee passed over House Bills 144 and 145 which deal with the duties of the lieutenant governor and cases of a governor's possible mental or physical disability.

Says Carter Program Commitment to Youth

WASHINGTON—President Carter's proposal for a new $1 billion employment and training initiative serving 450,000 disadvantaged young people is "an unprecedented commitment to providing real opportunity for the youth of this country," Secretary of Labor Ray Marshall said.

In a statement coinciding with the program's announcement at the White House on Jan. 10, Marshall said the program, designed primarily to assist out-of-school youth aged 16-21, "marks the next important step in the Carter Administration's continued efforts to deal with the critical problem of youth unemployment."

Based on experience gained from programs carried out under the Administration-proposed Youth Employment and Demonstration Projects Act (YEDPA) of 1977, the new program will provide a broad array of employment-related services to economically disadvantaged youth.

Depending on individual needs of the participants, services will include counseling, testing, job placement, in-school work experience, and intensive training and employment services for out-of-school youth. Training in both residential and non-residential settings, as well as on-the-job in the private sector.

Marshall said the Administration is requesting $300 million in funds to administer the program during 1981, with a goal of increasing that amount to $1 billion in 1982.

When the program is fully implemented, the 450,000 young people served will bring the total of youths aged 14-21 participating in all Labor Department youth programs to more than 2.5 million.

Some $4 billion is currently being spent on youth through YEDPA, Job Corps and other activities carried out under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act, Marshall reported.

YEDPA programs alone, he said, have accounted for 25 percent of the increase in teenage employment and 75 percent of the increase in black teenage employment since 1977.

The Labor Secretary said the proposed youth employment and training initiative emphasizes serving out-of-school youths most in need of direct jobs and training assistance.

Performance benchmarks will be established "to be sure that as youths pass through our programs they not only learn something but can prove it to employers when they apply for a job," Marshall said.

Local program administrators will have direct financial incentives to improve program performance and serve priority needs. Funds will be concentrated on the most distressed local areas to improve the employability of needy young people, he added.

Marshall said the proposal "makes good economic sense" because it answers the nation's need for the productive work effort of young people.

During the 1980's, he said, the number of young people aged 16-21 will decrease by 4.4 million, but the number of minority youths will continue to grow.

"Unless we intervene now to reverse the severe employability problems of many of these disadvantaged youths, we may find ourselves having a serious skill shortage at the same time that an important part of our potential labor force remains idle or underemployed. This is a situation we should not and need not tolerate," the Secretary said.

P'BURG GIRL INJURED IN WRECK NEAR AUXIER

Lisa Heinze, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Heinze, underwent surgery Monday at the Highlands Medical Center, a day after she was injured in a car wreck near the Floyd-Johnson line on US 23. The wreck occurred when a car pulled onto the highway from the Johns Creek road, directly into the path of Miss Heinze's car. Swerving to miss the car, she lost control of her own and plunged over the embankment. Her compact-type auto was a total loss. In addition to internal injuries, she suffered a broken collarbone. Her condition was reported Tuesday morning as satisfactory.

Why will the 1980 census ask how many bedrooms are in a home? Because the answer, combined with the number of occupants and the home's value, indicate overcrowding, housing, quality, and help forecast potential school enrollment.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. John T. Hill announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Jennifer G. Jones, to Mr. Michael Rosovich, II, of Lexington. The ceremony will take place at the home of the bride's parents at 6:30 p.m. on February 14, with the Rev. Bill Campbell officiating.

Mrs. Ware will also teach an Intermediate Sign Language Workshop which will meet 7-9 p.m. on Tuesday nights, beginning Feb. 5. This class will better acquaint those who have taken basic sign language with its practical use. Basic communication skills and use of more specific signs will be incorporated, and 1.6 CEU's will be awarded.

Another class being offered will be a Beginning Guitar Class to be taught by Jed Dills. This class will meet at 7-9 p.m. on Tuesday nights, beginning Feb. 5. Enrollment is limited to 15. # Historical Bulletin Offers New Features History quizzes and crossword puzzles are a new feature of the "Bulletin," the bimonthly publication of the Kentucky Historical Society.

"They are designed to encourage the readers to do research on their own, for students to use as educational tools and to draw attention to the significant roles which Kentuckians have played in national politics," said Tom Appleton, assistant director, publications staff. Appleton noted several examples from recent quizzes:

Q. In 1861 President Lincoln tapped a flamboyant Kentuckian to become minister to Russia, where he dazzled the imperial court with lavish entertainment and eccentric behavior. Who was this man?

A. Cassius M. Clay, Kentucky's famous abolitionist, served as ambassador to Russia for more than six years "only because the Russians tolerated his manifold aberrations," according to one biographer.

Q. In 1864 President Lincoln named what prominent Kentuckian attorney general?

A. His choice was James Speed, the brother of Joshua Speed, Lincoln's close friend and advisor. Speed was devoted to preserving the Union and worked tirelessly to ensure that Kentucky did not secede.

Q. Shortly after his election in 1932, Franklin D. Roosevelt considered appointing this prominent Kentuckian secretary of state, but instead named him ambassador to Britain.

A. Robert Worth Bingham, former mayor of Louisville and owner of the Courier Journal and Louisville Times, served as ambassador to Britain from 1933 until his death in 1937. He was succeeded by Joseph P. Kennedy.

Q. What famous Kentuckian became acting majority leader of the U.S. Senate following the serious heart attack of Senator Lyndon B. Johnson in 1957?

A. His fellow senator and close friend, former Kentucky Governor Earle C. Clements, was named acting majority leader. According to Appleton, many people felt the amount of time he spent with Senate matters may have attributed to his defeat in his 1956 Senate re-election campaign. The Clements remained close friends with the Lyndon Johnsons, and their daughter, Bess Clements Abel served as social secretary to Mrs. Johnson and later to Mrs. Walter Mondale.

Receiving the "Bulletin" is one of many benefits of membership in the Kentucky Historical Society. The "Bulletin" contains news of local societies, information about the state society programs and services, and information about national meetings of history organizations. Throughout the year members are offered substantial discounts on new books and publications, art prints and objects, commemorative coins, and genealogical materials.

Membership in the society costs $10 per year or $100 for life membership. Members also receive the quarterly publications, the "Register" and "Kentucky Ancestors," which contain genealogical information.

For more information about joining the Kentucky Historical Society, contact Col. George Chinn, deputy director, Box H, Frankfort, Ky. 40602, (502) 564-3016.

First Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Steven R. Cassel, of Dwale celebrated their first wedding anniversary Sunday, February 3, at the home of Mrs. Cassel's parents. The couple were married last February on the same date by the Rev. Earl Waugh at the new First Baptist Church at Allen.

Mr. Cassel is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Cassel, Jr., of Nicholasville, Ky. He is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. John H. Cassel, Sr., of Grantville, Pa.; and Mr. Edward E. Lewis, Sr., of Fork, Md., and the late Mrs. Elly Lewis.

Mrs. Cassel is the former Lorita J. Stephens and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Stephens, of Allen. She is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Stephens, of Allen, and Mrs. Vina Davis, of Dwale, and the late Rev. Mansford Davis.

Dinner along with the traditional top layer of their wedding cake was served to Mr. and Mrs. John H. Cassel, Sr., Nicholasville, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Isaacs and son, Jimmy, of Tutor Key, Miss Terri Hall, Martin, Tony and Mark Stephens, Kenny Bentley, and Charlotte Stumbo and daughters Angela, and Tracy, all of Allen.

After dinner the couple were presented with many lovely gifts.

'It Could Be Better'

After my granddaughter's Christmas visit I found the following in my typewriter. (I am quoting exactly as she wrote it).

OUR COUNTRY

Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their Country We should all have Equal Rights no matter of Race, Religion and Etc. We should all be Friendly toward our Fellow man. Killing never did anything but Rouse up a Murder Trial. Do YOU get your Revenge by Killing someone? Is it Fair?, or is it just how YOU get your kicks? Clean up our Country and make it a safer place to live.

IT COULD BE BETTER, DON'T YOU THINK?

NICOLE WILLIAMS
BETHEL, OHIO

The above description of adult society by a child should cause us, the creation of God, the human race, the parents of our children, to stop and take a good, long, hard look at the ungodly way we have, and are to be exposed to every evil the mind can conceive, the immoral acts of cheating, stealing, dope, alcohol, sex and murder. Our radio and TV programs have become murder and sex-dominated. Seemly the disc jockeys and announcers only want to play songs that are sex-suggestive or descriptive of sex activities. The songs have become saturated with sex. Our everyday conversation is spotted with sex. We have allowed our schools to become teachers of atheism and sex in place of teachers of the Three R's. Our judicial system has wavered in favor of the law violator against the law-abiding citizen who still believes in law-enforcement the way our forefathers set up. Our country was built on a very deep belief in God and His teachings. God was included in everything our forefathers did. We have almost excluded God from anything we do. we have become a permissive society, permit' g our children to do as they please, permitting ourselves to do every evil imaginable, permitting the free use of dope and alcohol, leaning toward a free murder society by permitting thousands of our unborn children to be murdered every year. I agree with this eleven-year old girl. It could be better, don't you think?

JAMES WILLIAMS

Mrs. Dingus announced the following key committee chairmen who will serve in the February campaign:

St. James Church Mortgage Is Burned

The mortgage of St. James Episcopal Church was burned Sunday, January 27.

The Prestonburg church was first conceived in 1967 by the Rt. Rev. William Moody, then the Bishop of the Dioceses of Lexington with the help of the Rev. David Webb, then of St. David's Church, Pikeville, and the donation of the land was made by Mrs. Susan Porter Elliot. Construction began in 1972 with Harry Short and Elmer Collins as contractors. The first service was held in the new church, which bears a plaque in the honor of Mrs. Elliot, April 15, 1973. On Easter Sunday, April 22, the present Bishop, the Rt. Rev. Addison Hosea, consecrated the building. The congregation of approximately five first met in the courthouse in June 1967, and later at the chapel of the rescue squad and at Prestonsburg Community College. Presently, attendance averages 40. The Rev. Moultrie McIntoch serves as Vicar.

House Bills Seek To Solve Varied Problems

Four bills, including one that would require companies selling workmen's compensation insurance to file more extensive reports with the state Insurance Department, were passed by the House of Representatives last week.

Dubbed by its sponsor James E. Bruce (D-Hopkinsville) as a "financial disclosure law for insurance companies," House Bill (HB) 21 would require companies selling workmen's compensation insurance to report 14 separate items to the department. Bruce said the information would help the state Insurance Department determine whether workmen's compensation rates were "fair and reasonable."

The bill passed 93-2 with Rep. Pat Freibert (R-Lexington) and Rep. Hank List (D-Lexington) voting against it.

Also passed in the House last week by an 82-14 margin, HB 42 would require a 60-day waiting period for testimony in divorce cases in which there are children involved. Rep. Charles R. Holbrook (R-Ashland), sponsor of the bill, said the measure would assure a "sympathetic cooling-off period" in divorce proceedings.

HB 84, passed the House by an 82-13 margin. It would specify that if the governor signs a bill which is not identical to that passed by the legislature, the bill would be void.

Rep. Mary Ann Tobin (D-Irvington) said the measure should be called the "Tobin Memorial Drivers License Bill" after a bill she sponsored. The bill, she said, was passed by the General Assembly but did not reach the governor. Instead, Tobin said, a bill sponsored by another representative was signed instead.

Rep. Terry Mann (D-Newport) said he had lost an amendment in the same way during the last session. He added the bill would "make people a lot more careful in the way they handle" bills after they are passed.

Rep. Archie N. Romines Sr. (D-Valley Station) said the bill could result in a measure being intentionally misrepresented so it could be nullified. Rep. Jim LeMaster (D-Lexington), however, said the bill was needed to ensure what is passed by the General Assembly is what becomes law.

HB 117, which would increase the legal limit for sheriff's expenses to $3,600 from $2,100, was passed 95-1. Rep. Adrian Arnold (D-Mt. Sterling) said sheriffs had been receiving the greater amount since 1976, but statutes had not caught up with the change.

The House also suspended the three-day posting requirement for bills to remain in committee and recessed to allow a committee to consider a bill appropriating daily expenses for the legislature. Rep. Bobby H. Richardson (D-Glasgow) said that if regular rules of the House are followed, legislators and General Assembly employees would not get paid until Feb. 5.

The bill, which would appropriate $8,346 per day during the session, was reported favorably by the State Government Committee.

IT'S A FACT!

More than a million Southeast Asian refugees need homes. Tens of thousands are living on the sea in overloaded and under-supplied boats. Many nations are ignoring the tragic plight of these people. A few countries are not.

In the forefront of nations that are offering homes, jobs and education to these refugees is Argentina. An estimated 5,000 refugees will be arriving in Argentina, and the people of that country are finding them the jobs and the homes they need. That could take some of the burden off the U.S.

PUBLIC HEARING

The Town of Wayland will be receiving approximately $3,887.00 from Revenue Sharing-Entitlement period 11. There will be a public hearing February 18, 1980 at 7 p.m. in the Town Hall, and all written or oral proposals by any citizens will be welcomed and taken under consideration for the budgeting of these funds. The funds for the previous year were used for the police protection of the town. Written or oral proposals will be taken at the meeting or at Town Hall or Tuesdays from 10 a.m. till 2 p.m. by the Town Clerk.

WWI Vets Eligible For Outpatient Care

Veterans of World War I and the Mexican border campaign of 1916-1917 are eligible for outpatient care except dental treatment at Veterans Administration clinics for any disability—regardless of whether or not it is service connected—as the result of legislation signed by President Carter last month.

These veterans already had the right to treatment as bed patients in VA medical centers without regard to the cause of illness or injury. Effect of the law will be to enable persons not needing bed care to avoid hospitalization.

There are some 600,000 veterans who served during the periods to which the new provision applies.

The legislation, known as the "Veterans Health Programs Extension and Improvement Act of 1979", also expands the eligibility of veterans served by VA outpatient clinics to receive government-paid emergency care at non-VA hospitals.

It gives VA the authority to contract for such care when the patient is at a clinic where there is no nearby VA medical center and there is a serious threat to the life or health of a veteran. VA could previously pay for this kind of care in much more limited circumstances involving only veterans with service connected disabilities.

The law provides that medical care benefits for surviving spouses and children under VA's civilian health and medical program (CHAMPVA) be consistent with those of the military's CHAMPUS, which also provides care for family members.

The law authorizes the provision of home health services, up to a maximum of $600, to housebound veterans or veterans in need of regular aid and attendance.

It requires that VA must have its own dentists examine a patient before the agency is authorized to pay a non-VA dentist for more $500 worth of work in any 12-month period.

The law also continues VA authority to grant construction funds for state veterans facilities and increases by 15 percent per diem operating payments made to state homes for veterans.

It terminates the authority of the Administrator of Veterans Affairs to enter into agreement with states to help establish new medical schools. It extends authority to provide grants to institutions training physicians and other health personnel at levels of $15 million for this fiscal year, $25 million for Fiscal Year 1981 and $30 million for Fiscal Year 1982.

Under the law VA is required to conduct a study of veterans exposed to defoliants, including Agent Orange, while serving in Vietnam to determine if they are suffering ill effects from the exposure.

Mrs. Brenda Shelton has agreed to the chairmanship of the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital Bike-A-Thon in McDowell, to raise funds to support the hospital, according to William J. Kirwen, director of Development at the internationally recognized hospital. St. Jude was founded by entertainer Danny Thomas. The institution opened its doors to the public in 1962 to combat catastrophic diseases which affect children. It is a non-sectarian, non-discriminatory and completely free of charge to all patients.

Dec. Jobless Rate Highest in East. Ky.

The December unemployment rate in the eastern Kentucky area was 8.1 percent, the highest rate in the state, the Department for Human Resources reported last week.

The November rate in the area was 7.2 percent. Robert MacDonald, chief labor market analyst for the department, attributes the increase to layoffs in the area.

McCreary County's unemployment rate for December was 15.2 percent, the highest in the area and in the state. Martin had the area's lowest rate, 3.9 percent. The rate for Floyd county stood at 9.3 percent.

The state's unemployment rate for the month was 6.2 percent, up 0.6 percent from November.

The U.S. Department of Labor's Labor-Management Services Administration administers veterans' reemployment rights provisions of the Vietnam Era Veterans' Readjustment Assistance Act of 1974 and similar earlier laws.

SENATORS—These eastern Kentucky legislators share an interest in the mountains. Sen. Benny Ray Bailey, D-Hindman, (left), is a graduate of McDowell High School; Sen. Lowell Hughes, D-Ashland (center seated), is a graduate of Prestonsburg High School; Sen. Nelson Allen, D-Bellefonte (standing), graduate from Maytown High School, which is now Allen Central.

Senators Bailey and Hays are members of the Senate Appropriations and Revenue Committee, which is charged with making recommendations for appropriations to the state budget. Senator Hughes is the Senate Majority Whip and Senator Allen is serving his third term as chairman of the Senate Education Committee.

MAYTOWN HOMEMAKERS MEET

The regular January meeting of the Maytown Homemakers was held at the home of Webble Bleivins, with the president, Helen Boyd, presiding. The devotion was given by Alda Gibson. The club chose for one of its fund-raising projects the selling of chances on a hand-made quilt and pillow. Each member was asked to bring to the next meeting a gift for the kitchen of the Green Acres 4-H Camp. Mrs. Pitts announced a work shop in cross stitching will be held at the end of February. The lesson on "How to Stretch Your Food Dollar" was given by Frances Pitts. Refreshments were served to the following members: Frances Pitts, Marge Sammons, Alice Hayes, Sue Osborne, Alda Gibson, Burietta Moore, Helen Boyd, Sandy Lowe and Chasity Lowe.

The next meeting will be held Feb. 12.

Two Stores Disqualified From Food Stamp Use

Two East Kentucky grocery stores have been barred from accepting food stamps because of violations, the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Food and Nutrition Service reports.

The stores, which had been charged with selling gasoline and other ineligible items for food coupons, were listed as follows:

Dunn's Grocery, of Campton, owned by Mrs. Lucy H. Jones; disqualified for six months, starting Dec. 28.

Annie Handshoe Grocery, Hueysville, owned by Mrs. Annie Handshoe; disqualified for 60 days, starting Dec. 31.

Robert L. Cunningham, who is in charge of the Prestonsburg field office of the Food and Nutrition Service, explained that stores will not be allowed to accept food stamps during their respective disqualification periods.

★ Cancer Hopeline

This question and answer column is provided as a public service by the Ephraim McDowell Community Cancer Network. Questions are answered by appropriate specialists associated with the Network. These questions represent some of the inquiries made by callers who use our Hopeline. Hopeline is a toll-free consultative telephone service (1-800-432-9321) provided free of charge to any Kentuckian with a cancer-related problem. Qualified counselors answer every call Monday thru Friday, 9:00-5:00 p.m.) Hopeline counselors do not diagnose cancer or recommend treatment for individual cases, nor do they dispense money to callers. Counselors do provide consultations with specialists as well as support and understanding. Because of its designation by the National Cancer Institute as Kentucky's official Cancer Information Service, the Hopeline has rapid access to the latest cancer information. All matters are treated confidentially. Please write us at the following address: CANCER HOPELINE, Kentucky's Cancer Information Service, Ephraim McDowell Community Cancer Network, 915 South Limestone, Lexington, Kentucky 40536.

Q. I've heard people say things about cancer that I know aren't true, but I can't prove it. Can you help?

A. In answering calls and letters to the Cancer Hopeline, counselors at the McDowell Cancer Network have learned that there are a great many myths and mistaken ideas about cancer which are generally accepted. One of the main purposes of Hopeline is to provide accurate information, and so this column will be devoted to clarifying two cancer myths.

MYTH-It doesn't hurt, so it can't be cancer.

FACT-If a person waits to be examined until a cancer causes pain, few cancers will be diagnosed in the early stages. Indeed, some cancers are not painful even in the late stages.

Since cancer in the early stages can be painless, it is vital that anyone noticing any bodily change see a physician immediately.

The seven cancer warning signals are:

1. Unusual bleeding or discharge.
2. A lump or thickening in the breast or elsewhere.
3. A sore that does not heal.
4. Change in bowel or bladder habits.
5. Hoarseness or cough.
6. Indigestion or difficulty in swallowing.
7. Change in size or color of a wart or mole.

MYTH-Cancer is contagious.

FACTS-Cancer, in the usual sense, cannot be caught from another person so there is no need for the relatives and friends of a cancer patient to avoid him/her. Sometimes the husband or wife of a cancer patient avoids intercourse because of fear of infection. Such avoidance of sexual contact or even of touching or breathing the air in the same room with the patient is unnecessary.

In addition, such avoidance isolates the patient and may make him feel guilty of being "unclean" at the very time he needs more love and acceptance, not less.

People believe many cancer myths. Most of them are the result of their fear of cancer. Counteract fear with knowledge. Call or send for the free brochure "Myths and Misconceptions About Cancer." The Cancer Hopeline has been designated by the National Cancer Institute as Kentucky's official Cancer Information Service. As such, the latest information is available to us. Call the Cancer Hopeline toll free at 1-800-432-9321 for the brochure or for accurate information, referral, and counseling, or write us at 915 South Limestone, Lexington, KY 40536.

Want To Enforce Salvage Food Regs.

The Department for Human Resources has asked local health departments to set up efforts to enforce state regulations concerning salvaged food.

In a recent memo, Human Resources also called on health department officials to report the location of all food salvage operations in their areas.

John Draper, manager of the department's food control branch, said the action is an effort to see that unsafe food does not enter the marketplace.

Commonly, salvaged food results from accidents such as train wrecks and grocery store fires. For example, if one bottle in a case of syrup is broken in a shipping accident, the other bottles may be sticky, but they can be cleaned up and sold in retail stores.

As long as food salvage companies comply with the Food, Drug and Cosmetic Law and to salvage regulations, the food should be safe to eat, Draper said. He estimates there are a dozen such firms operating in Kentucky.

The department has found, however, that not all salvage operations are selling safe food, Draper said. In December, officials from a western Kentucky health department inspected a nursing home's food supply. Inspectors found 75 rusty, swollen and unlabeled cans of food in the supply purchased from a food salvage company. The officials quarantined the merchandise, which subsequently was destroyed.

"Food from those rusty cans could have caused serious illness to the nursing-home occupants, so it's easy to see why we want strict enforcement of the law," Draper said.

Companies that process the salvaged food must label all products to show they have been salvaged. They also must maintain sanitary facilities. Both processors and distributors must obtain state permit to operate.

★ Kentucky Afield

"April is the cruelest month," declared T.S. Eliot in "The Wasteland." Maybe it was to a poet living in England, but if Eliot had been a Kentucky outdoorsman he would surely have cast his vote with the rest of us in declaring February the worst month of the year.

And this February is going to be worse than usual, at least in one respect. It's a leap year, so there's more of it.

Besides the fact that February is cold, dreary, snowy (when it isn't raining) and just generally unpleasant, the big problem is that there often isn't enough going on to keep the hunter or fisherman from coming down with a bad case of cabin fever.

In case you're not familiar with this malady, cabin fever is brought on by excessive confinement indoors. Its symptoms include restlessness, irritability and a compulsive desire to organize tackle boxes. The only sure cure is the coming of spring and news that the white bass are running.

But there are some things the outdoorsman can do to relieve the symptoms of cabin fever. Reading a good book on your favorite outdoor topic will help and may even teach you something you didn't know about bass fishing, for example, or wing shooting. There are a lot of entertaining and informative books down at your local library (that's the large stone building on the left, three blocks down from the bail shop).

Sorting, cleaning, repairing and organizing all your outdoor equipment will take up several cold, snowy evenings. If any items need to be sent away for repair, now is the time to take care of it, so you have them back before spring seasons get into full swing.

While you're at it, make lists of all the equipment you'd like to purchase. Then go through the list and mark out all the items you can't afford. Then show the list to your wife and work out what you're actually going to buy. This process (particularly the last step) can be highly entertaining.

Actually, these measures should only be last resorts, to be saved for those long spells of weather so bad that it's impossible to get outdoors. If conditions are just normal February miserable, there's no excuse for not being out and doing.

Quail season will remain open through Feb. 17, and you can hunt grouse through the last day of the month. Chasing grouse up and down some of those Eastern Kentucky mountains will warm you up even on the coldest day.

You can even get in some productive fishing in February. Walleye and sauger are beginning to move into their spawning areas and will start getting restless at the first hint of a rise in water temperature. A trip to the Big South Fork of the Cumberland could yield some big walleyes and probably (later in the month) some good white bass also.

The winter sauger hot spots are below the dams at Kentucky and Barkley lakes. But these fish are in every major drainage system in the state. Good places to check are below dams on rivers—including the Ohio River.

Some crappie fishermen know that February can be a productive month, even if the anglers have to break ice in bays to reach the open water of the main lake. And if your favorite lake gets good and muddy, try "jigging" for bass.

This winter has been a mild one (so far) and fishing has been better than usual on many of our lakes. There are things to do in February, so instead of pacing the floor and getting more and more grouchy, why not bundle up and get outside—it'll do you (and your family) some good.

Job Corps Students Arraigned Last Week

OWENSBORO—Two students from Breckinridge Job Corps Center near Morganfield appeared for arraignments last week in federal court at Owensboro.

Michael Howard, 18, of Mobile, Ala., pleaded innocent to an assault charge. Howard is accused of striking another student with a broken drinking glass last month at the center, allegedly causing the youth to lose sight in an eye. U.S. Magistrate Marvin Nunley scheduled Howard's trial for Feb. 28.

Nunley scheduled a trial for Feb. 26 for another student, Terry Mitchell, 19, of Hartwell, Ga., who pleaded innocent to a rape charge. A woman student at the center says she was raped last month and identified Mitchell as one of six men involved.

Two juvenile students at the center who are also charged in connection with the alleged rape failed to appear as scheduled and Nunley issued warrants for their arrests.

BETSY LAYNE COMMUNITY NEWS

By PAULINE T. JONES

Home from a Lexington hospital are Barbara Bow and baby son. Mrs. Bow is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emmitt Conn. Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Larry Cecil upon the arrival of a new son, born last Thursday at the Methodist Hospital, Pikeville. Mrs. Cecil is the former Rhonda Cecil.

Citizens of Betsy Layne extend sympathy to the family of Amma Hunter who passed away in Florida. She was a former resident of Floyd county, but she lived for the past few years with her son, Kenneth Hunter, in Florida.

Many of Betsy Layne's older citizens are confined to their homes due to ice and snow.

Sympathy is extended to the family of Linda Elkins, who passed away in Elizabethtown, Ky. She formerly lived at Boldman.

Citizens of Betsy Layne were saddened to learn of the death of Will Cecil, one of Floyd county's older citizens.

Betty and Joie Bartley were visiting here last week. They are living in Lexington and attending Eastern Kentucky University at Richmond.

Geneva Hamilton and Verbal Meek were here over the week-end. They are teachers in the Virginia education system. Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Collins, of Albion, Mich., were visiting their fathers, Eligah Collins and Joe Spears, this week-end, before leaving for a vacation in Florida.

Luanna Jean Scaggs, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rhoda Stone, was married Jan. 29 to Floyd Eugene Barker in Mt.

Sterling, Ohio. E.P. Davis is confined to his home with the flu.

Laura Smith has gone to Man, W.Va., to spend some time with her daughter, Stella Smith, until she is feeling better from her recent illness.

Sympathy is extended to Dr. Ralph Allen, of Pikeville, as his father, Charles Allen, passed away last week.

Prayers and get-well wishes to this week's sick and shut-ins: Otis Foley, Mrs. Lane Hall, E.P. Davis, Laura Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Hale, Fannie Steele, Christine Akers, Lisa Adkins, Lee and May Cecil, Alice Layne, Eligah Collins, E.W. Hurley, Georgia Lewis, Elizabeth Spears, and all others whom we may not know about at this time.

W.M. Lynch celebrated his 86th birthday, Feb. 4, at his home here. Mr. Lynch is a lifelong resident of Betsy Layne.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Elyea, of Marshall, Mich., have returned from a trip to Florida, and will spend a few days with their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Danny Collins, before they go on to North Carolina for a visit with their son and family.

Sympathy is extended to the family of Watt Adkins, of Tram. Mr. Adkins passed away last week, also the family of Tom F. Hamilton, of Banner, who passed away last week.

The 1980 census asks when a person moved into his or her current residence, but why? Because it helps identify transitional communities and aids planning for schools and law enforcement.

Ditch Is Hazard, Says School Group

This trench, which channels Trimble Branch through Prestonsburg Elementary School property, a source of concern for members of the People for Better Schools' grade school committee, who fear for the safety of children playing in the area. An unstable wire fence bordering the area provides little security, they say.

Carolyn Ford, who chairs the committee, said this week that she has approached school board officials who told her that no funds are available to remedy the problem.

VETS GROUP TO ORGANIZE AT AUXIER, FEBRUARY 9

There will be an organizational meeting, for all veterans and veterans' auxiliaries, Feb. 9 at 2 p.m. at the Auxier Fire Dept. to form an organization of Kentucky Colonel's Veterans.

Members of all veterans' organizations and auxiliaries are invited to attend.

The federal minimum wage is established by the Fair Labor Standards Act, which also sets overtime pay, equal pay, recordkeeping and child labor standards affecting more than 50 million fulltime and parttime workers; provisions of the law are administered by the U.S. Department of Labor's Employment Standards Administration.

"Austin City Limits" Links Country, Jazz

In one of the most novel pairings in contemporary country music, Roy Clark and Clarence "Gatemouth" Brown jump and jive through a lively performance when "Austin City Limits" returns to KET Thursday, February 14 at 10 p.m.

As it has in the past, "Austin City Limits" continues to explore new turf in the rich field of country music—its roots, off-shoots and new directions.

The season's premiere offers a potpourri of country, jazz and blues as Roy Clark, the well-known banjo player, fiddler, comedian and television personality is joined by New Orleans' "Gatemouth" Brown, who pioneered the use of the electric guitar as a jazz and blues instrument in the late '40's. Gate's blunt, metallic-twang blues sound blends with Roy's full, ringing tones like gumbo and cornbread.

Gatemouth's raspy, soulful vocals recalls his roots in the rockin' "Caledonia" and the country/blues ballad, "The Drifter." Roy is featured vocally on "Brown To Lose" and "Folsom Prison."

Future editions of "Austin City Limits" feature such well-known musicians as Ray Charles, Willie Nelson, Don Williams, Marty Robbins, Jerry Jeff Walker and Johnny Paycheck.

"Austin City Limits" is a production of the Southwest Texas Public Broadcasting Council, San Antonio/Austin.

The U. S. Department of Labor's Office of Workers' Compensation Programs (OWCP) administers the Federal Employees' Compensation Act, the Longshoremen's and Harbors' Compensation Act and the Black Lung Benefits Reform Act of 1977.

Why will the 1980 census ask if people have complete plumbing facilities? The lack of indoor plumbing is a good indicator of substandard housing and helps identify areas that need governmental assistance.

The U. S. Department of Labor's Wage and Hour Division was established in 1938 to administer the Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA), which includes minimum wage, overtime, recordkeeping and child labor provisions.

By Federal law, only you and census employees sworn to secrecy have access to your answers on the 1980 census questionnaire. Not once has the Bureau been prosecuted for releasing personal information.

Now, 'Coat and Tie Every Day'

"This tie's not really normal for me," said Paul Patton, newly appointed deputy secretary of the Kentucky Department of Transportation. "In fact, I've never had a job that I had to wear a coat and tie every day."

Such remarks are probably common around Frankfort of late as Gov. John Y. Brown's administration begins the task of settling in. Even though he grumbles a little, the new deputy secretary seems to be enjoying his transition from successful businessman to state government administrator.

Patton, a resident of Pikeville, has spent most of his life in the coal fields of Eastern Kentucky, climbing around on coal tipples and under mountains. In his 20 years of mining experience, Patton rose from a laborer on a coal tippie to president of Kentucky Elkhorn Coals, Inc., and president and chairman of the board of Chapperal Coal Corp.

Sitting behind his desk on the tenth floor of Frankfort's State Office Building recently, Patton confided, "Believe it or not, when I was appointed to this job I had to go out and practically buy a whole new wardrobe."

The expense of his new clothes, however, was well worth the new position, for Paul Patton has big plans for the state's Transportation Department.

"Transportation, from my Eastern Kentucky point of view, is a very important issue," Patton said. "If we can get some program changes and better service for rural areas, then it will be all worthwhile."

During the next few years Patton hopes to see more money funneled into actual projects that will benefit people.

"I hope to spend a lot of time out in the state learning what transportation problems we face and what can be done about them," he said. "Gov. Brown wants his administration to run things in a business-like manner. We hope to give people more efficiency."

In order to provide more efficiency, Patton said many transportation policies and procedures will be re-evaluated.

"There are going to be several changes in the transportation field in the coming years, not only in Kentucky, but nationally," Patton said. "There have to be some fundamental changes made in our approach to transportation."

One change that Patton foresees is a greater emphasis on mass transit. Getting a better network of commuter airlines for the state is one project Patton hopes to remote.

"I don't see the anticipated reduction of gasoline supplies as foretelling the reduction in importance of our highway systems," Patton said. "All facilities will have to be continually improved and modernized. We can't reduce the mobility of people or goods, but we need to make our systems more efficient."

Patton, who holds a degree in mechanical engineering from the University of Kentucky, feels that his mining experience will help him in his new position.

"Mining is very similar to road building," Patton said. "There is a need for experience in solving environmental, safety and construction problems. I'm not afraid to question old, past procedures and to interject a few new ideas of my own."

KET Airs Ky. Drama On Depression Era

Louisvillian Marsha Norman's television drama, "It's The Willingness," airs on KET Saturday, February 16 at 9 p.m., as the second program in the new "Visions" series.

Bonnie Bartlett, R.G. Armstrong, George Hearn and Mary Beth Hurt star in the 90-minute program, produced by KCET Los Angeles.

Poverty, unemployment, family jealousies and tragic events all intertwine in the thoughts of family members as they come together for a memorial service two years after their mother's death.

The mines are closed in Eastern Kentucky and the auto plants have shut down in Detroit, forcing the ones who are used to being independent to need help.

As they converge on the small house where they used to live, pent-up emotions about their mother, their father's new wife and the hard times brought about by the Depression overflow.

Ms. Norman has written two plays—"Getting Out," which had a successful off-Broadway run, and "Third and Oak," which was produced by Actor's Theatre of Louisville. Currently, she is producing scripts for television's "Skag."

Kentucky children have been exposed to Ms. Norman's work through KET's "Word Feathers," a primary reading series for first graders for which she wrote the scripts, and an activities book which she wrote to accompany "Contract," a ninth grade remedial reading series produced by KET.

Sizing Up New Math Instruction

By Nancy Kaplan

Not too long ago, the concept of "new math" was introduced into the school system. Now a different kind of math instruction has been developed to identify and resolve individual student problem areas in math. It will soon be introduced into many elementary schools across the country.

The DICOM Individual Testing Program came into being due to the combined efforts of the Educational Testing Service and the Eastman Kodak Company in 1975. The following year it was used and tested in 120 classrooms throughout New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania. Its purpose and most important feature is its ability to help the teacher detect and eliminate troublesome areas in math on all levels.

How It Works

The teacher receives a year's worth of testing material from which she selects the appropriate work for her class. The test is composed of a Pre-Level Test, an On-Level Test and a Post-Level Test. The Pre-Level Test reviews basic mathematical concepts. It gives the teacher the chance to catch and correct problems before the child progresses further with any misconceptions. The Post-Level Test can be administered to more advanced students, while the On-Level Test is for the majority of students in the class.

The tests cover computation, numbers and operation (including whole numbers, fractions, and decimals), geometry, measurement, and problem solving.

To incorporate this program into the classroom is a simple procedure. All that is required are film cards (called microfiche), a microfiche reader, and a test analysis chart. The microfiche reader is a lighted screen onto which the film cards are projected. Students work on their own, and quickly learn how to use the machine.

Each microfiche test contains 140 frames. The individual test sheet, with letters across the top and bottom and numbers along the sides, lets the student know what test he is working on. There is a question on the upper level of the fiche with a corresponding diagram, plus three or four choices for possible answers.

The student places the microfiche that the teacher has selected for him in the reader and begins testing. When he picks the answer he thinks is best, the card indicates his next move by placing a number and a letter directly beneath his choice. It tells him what chart he should advance to. If the child answers the question correctly, he will be moved along to a more difficult or challenging question.

If the child answers the question incorrectly, he will be moved along to another question of the same kind to determine if he does not understand that particular concept or if he has made a mistake due to carelessness. In some cases, he might be branched to a question of an easier nature in the hopes that he will correct on his own, the misconception which is leading him to the wrong answer.

If the student answers two questions of the same type incorrectly, he is directed to an exit card which means he should stop testing. This card informs the teacher of the problem area. It is up to her to give the child individual instruction. If there are several students confused by the same concept, she can work with them as a group.

Testing contains 40 to 50 questions and takes approximately 15 minutes. It is concluded when the child has trouble with the answers and makes two errors, or when all parts of the test have been taken successfully.

Developing the Program

Questions used in the test were arrived at through the use of math textbooks and with the aid of persons experienced in developing mathematics tests. The questions which seemed most likely to reveal problems were the ones that were chosen. If the child is utilizing an incorrect procedure for arriving at an answer, it will be detected by the test.

One of the most obvious benefits of this method of testing is that the student can work on his own, not in competition with any of his classmates. He can master what he knows well and get help in his weak areas. By pinpointing these problems, a teacher will know what further instruction the child needs.

With the implementation of this program all students will be able to get the care and attention they require, and all students in the class can advance at their own rate.

THE TROUBLE WITH WOMEN

While the ongoing, socially turbulent struggle for the liberation of women has resulted in significant successes, it has caused new and difficult problems as well. These triumphs and traumas of feminism will be explored on 'CBS Reports: The Trouble With Women,' WEDNESDAY, FEB. 13 on CBS-TV.

The broadcast, reported by CBS News Correspondent Harry Reasoner (pictured), examines the new options created for women by the strides toward equality. These options, while broadening their opportunities, have raised new questions about marriage and the family. The broadcast focuses on the lives of three women of differing circumstances.

Seek Sponsors For Summer Food Program

The U.S. Department of Agriculture is seeking sponsors to operate the 1980 summer food programs in Kentucky, according to Charles Kirby, regional director of the Department's special nutrition programs.

"People tend to think only of the children in cities and forget the nutritional needs of children in rural areas," Kirby said. "We would like to see many responses from interested organizations in the rural areas of Kentucky."

The summer food program provides free, nutritious meals to children in needy areas during school vacations that last longer than three weeks. In most areas the program runs from May through September. Eligible children include those through age 18 and certain handicapped students over 18.

Sponsors can be reimbursed for program operating and administrative expenses up to the current rates of reimbursement. Administrative costs may include expenses related to planning, organizing and supervising the food service.

Rural sponsors or sponsors preparing meals on site will receive additional administrative money. They also will be allowed to claim expenses for transporting children in rural areas to designated rural sites.

Sponsors may be public or private, non-profit, nonresidential organizations serving areas where at least one-third of the children are eligible for free or reduced price school lunches. Residential summer camps whose enrollment includes needy children also may act as program sponsors.

Sponsors also may include city government agencies, county and municipal school systems recreation departments, churches and social service organizations. The principal eligibility requirements include, but are not limited to, the following:

Sponsors must be nonprofit organizations; they must show they are financially and administratively capable of operating the program; they must agree to ensure that children eat their meals at designated sites and the meals must meet the department nutritional guidelines.

The summer food program began in 1969 to encourage the health and well-being of needy children by extending food assistance into the summer months.

For more information, potential sponsors in Kentucky should contact: Mr. Cooper Whitt, Division of School Food Services, Bureau of Pupil Personnel, Capital Plaza Tower, 17th Floor, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601. Telephone: (502) 564-4390.
