IN MEMORY OF CHESTER ALLEN LAYNE 1923 - 1980

Chester Allen Layne of Ivel, a longtime businessman and politician of Floyd County, and known best and affectionately by the people of Eastern Kentucky as the "Friendly Tom's Man," was born on September 6, 1923, the youngest of five children of Tommy Mae Stratton Layne and Morgan Malcom Layne of Ivel. He died in body but not in spirit on Tuesday, January 8, 1980.

Chester was married to Virginia (Jean) Christian of Prestonsburg on April 15, 1948. To this union was born two sons, David Allen Layne and Malcom Darwin Layne of Ivel. Chester is survived by his wife and sons. He is also survived by a daughter-in-law, Waynette Davis Layne, the wife of David, and one grandson, David Allen Layne II; two sisters, Nannie Lou Layne Goble and Goldia Layne Hall of Ivel; two brothers, Darwin Layne of Ypsilanti, Michigan, and Keil Layne of Ivel, three nieces and three nephews.

Chester was a graduate of Betsy Layne High School with the class of 1942-43. After graduation, he taught school at Grethel on Big Mud Creek and then at Ivel in the Floyd County School System. Chester then worked in the coal industry as a coal truck driver, after which he operated his own bus company in Prestonsburg and later was employed by Grapette Bottling Company. This started him on a lifelong career as a businessman and an outstanding salesman.

From 1952 to 1974 Chester owned and operated a family business at Ivel, Kentucky, known as Chester Layne Distributor of Tom Huston Peanut Company. During this time he traveled over a million miles in Floyd, Pike, Knott, Magoffin, Johnson, Lawrence and Martin Counties, becoming admired, liked, loved, and affectionately and best known as the "Friendly Tom's Man," a name he always cherished.

Chester was also for a period of time a part owner and operator of the Big Sandy Livestock Market at Ivel, in the 1960's.

Of late, he put his business skills and salesmanship to work in real estate development involving land, coal, oil and gas, with his two sons, Malcom and David, in an enterprise known as Layne, Layne & Layne, with assets all over Eastern Kentucky and in Central Florida.

Beginning as a boy and throughout his entire life, Chester Layne was always active and prominent in Democrat politics. Chester's active support of any candidate was often used as a barometer in predicting whether or not a candidate would succeed in his race. Candidates and officeholders from constable to governor personally sought out Chester's advice and help.

Everyone who knew Chester knew that he was intelligent, that he was frugal, that he was understanding, and that he was learned in the ways of the mountain people. They knew that Chester could take what some would consider nothing and turn it into something of value. Chester loved life, and this was the source of his ability to see the potential of people, communities and business endeavors.

Chester Layne loved his family. He would go, as he would say, "beyond" for them all. This love for family developed a sense of strong obligation in him toward their well-being and happiness. He gave himself freely and willingly to the task of meeting all the family needs. This relationship gave him security, pride and honor, and much happiness. To him his family was a team which could help him to overcome any obstacle.

His love for his neighbors, his fellow human beings and all people brightened up everyone's life. Chester received so much strength in helping others; he never intentionally hurt anyone; he never wanted to, nor would he, turn down any request from anyone in need. He would help attack their problems with the same tireless energy that he attacked his own. Chester often said he measured his wealth in the number of friends he had. Chester never met a stranger. He offered friendship to everyone.

Chester loved his community—Ivel, Floyd County, Eastern Kentucky, and Kentucky. His pride and love for this community knew no bounds. He wanted to see the people have the best standard of living that could be had, from good homes to the best roads.

With this eternal love for his fellowman Chester knew he could fix anything for everybody. It gave him an abundance of energy and a winning attitude which he shared generously with everyone he met. Chester would say, with a big smile on his face, "A smile costs nothing but pays big dividends," and, "A quitter never wins and a winner never quits."

As many of you, knowing Chester the way I did and having his friendship the way I did is one of the most treasured gifts of my life.

Bad Roads Raise Driving Cost, Recent State Study Reveals

Badly-worn roads cost the average Kentucky motorist an extra $84 a year in wasted fuel, excessive tire wear and extra vehicle repairs, says a study released recently.

The typical Kentucky driver travels some 2,500 miles on bumpy, broken pavement, inflating annual statewide vehicle operating cost by $167.5 million, according to The Road Information Program (TRIP) of Washington, D.C.

Wasted fuel accounts for the largest percentage of the overall loss. TRIP said the average Kentucky driver wastes some 60 gallons of gas per year, amounting to $118.9 million statewide. Drivers use up to two-thirds more fuel when stopping or slowing to pass safely over rough, rutted pavement before resuming normal speed, the study said.

TRIP reported that the state's drivers logged roughly 5.1 billion vehicle miles on worn roads at a cost of $637.9 million. Had these roads been up to standard, this travel would have cost only $470.4 million, or an average savings of $84 for each of the state's 1.99 million drivers, the agency estimated.

"Because of tightening gas supplies and skyrocketing prices, the state, counties and municipalities need to concentrate immediately on upgrading substandard roads that waste fuel and inflate vehicle operating costs," said William J. Crowe, who released the report.

Crowe is a member of the Kentucky Association of Highway Contractors, which requested the TRIP study. TRIP is a research and information industry sponsored by the highway industry.

The research and information found: —Nearly 30 percent of all paved primary roads in Kentucky are deficient by national engineering standards. An estimated 6,067 miles are rated "fair" and 602 miles are rated "poor." Both are substandard categories.

—It costs Kentucky drivers on average 3.3 cents more per mile to drive on "fair" and "poor" roads than to drive on "very good" roads. The direct operating cost of driving on one mile of "good" or "very good" road is 9.22 cents, while the cost is 12.5 cents for "fair" and "poor" roads.

—If all Kentucky roads were up to standard, the state's drivers could save $167.5 million in driving costs.

"We're not talking about unpaved back roads," said Crowe, "but about Kentucky's primary and secondary roads used for commerce, agriculture and commuting."

"We desperately need additional revenue for highway improvements to cut driving cost and reduce the number of accidents where poor road conditions are a factor."

Driving costs are further increased by traffic congestion, narrow lanes, antiquated bridges and accidents—all related to deficient roads. However, these additional costs were not part of the TRIP study.

According to the study, the problem would be much worse were it not for the present efforts of the state Department of Transportation and county and local road agencies. They have managed to achieve the best road maintenance possible within extremely limited budgets, TRIP said.

TRIP recommended a 10-year, $24.6 million annual road renewal program to bring Kentucky's roads up to standard, including $7.6 million a year to rebuild 602 miles and $17 million to resurface 6,067 miles. The study said that because of inflation, it would be considerably cheaper to catch up on road improvements now, rather than later.

TRIP's findings were based on scientific road test that measured fuel consumption and tire and vehicle wear relating to the physical condition of the road surface. Other sources of data included the Kentucky Department of Transportation, the Federal Highway Administration and the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

Group Offers Fruit Trees for Planting

The National Arbor Day Foundation is offering free fruit trees as part of its 1980 campaign to encourage tree planting.

The Arbor Day Foundation, a nonprofit organization, is working to improve the quality of life in communities throughout the country by encouraging tree planting. The Foundation will give three fruit trees to new members contributing $10 or more. Each tree will be 3 to 4 feet tall. All trees will be ready for planting and will be sent postage paid.

The Foundation says that if the trees are planted according to the enclosed instructions they will provide years of enjoyment and will add to the Foundation's goal of a greener America. And they will bring fruit to the table year after year.

To become a member of the Foundation and to receive the three free fruit trees, a contribution of $10 or more should be sent to the National Arbor Foundation, Arbor Lodge 100, Nebraska City, NE 68410. The donation should be sent along with a choice of any three of the following trees. Any combination or as many of any one variety may be specified.

Judge Opens Knott Murder Case File

Pike Circuit Court Judge E.N.Venters ordered the file in the Knott county murder trial of Raymond Little opened to the public last Friday.

The Lexington Herald had asked for the case to be made public after Knott District Judge Robert Morgan barred the public and press from a preliminary hearing in the case, Oct. 18. Ruling in favor of the Herald, Venters said there had been "no compelling reason" to bar the public and press from the hearing.

At the hearing, charges against Little were sent to a grand jury. He was accused of shooting Estill Thornberry and his son, Major, in a Knott courtroom, Sept. 24.

At last week's hearing, Little's counsel, Prestonsburg attorney Gary Johnson, argued that Venters should send the case back to Judge Morgan for a ruling on whether closing the file had been justified. Venters said, however, that the case had "gone on long enough" and that there was nothing to show the defendant would be "unfairly prejudiced" by making the file public.

Johnson said he would appeal the ruling.

To Teach Ballet

A professional dancer, Jacqueline Hamilton, will begin teaching ballet, Jan. 29, for Pikeville College's Center for Continuing Education. She joins Peggy Davis, Flo Beth Keller, and Claire Olson as members of the ballet and dance staff.

Mrs. Hamilton, wife of Pikeville Attorney John Hamilton, has been dancing for 18 of her 24 years. She has been a member of the Sanborn Ballet Company and the Contemporary Dancers of Lexington and was a soloist for the Lexington Civic Ballet and the Centre College Players. Jackie also gained dance experience through the Nils Jorgenson Corps and the Contemporary Dance Company of Central Pennsylvania. She continues her dance training by periodically visiting the Martha Graham School of Contemporary Dance and the ballet schools of Finnis Jhung and Melissa Hayden. She will be teaching two children's classes, one for the 6, 7, and 8-year-olds and another for the 8, 9, and 10-year-olds. She is offering second-year ballet for more advanced teen-age and adult students and dancercise for students who wish to dance into shape. In Elkhorn City, beginning March 4, she will teach dancercise and children's ballet.

All classes taught in Pikeville begin the week of January 28 at Faith Chapel in the Record Memorial Building.

TO JOIN RALLY AGAINST ABORTION

Members of the Floyd County Catholic Parish will participate in the state-wide anti-abortion rally on the steps of the state capitol in Frankfort, Thursday, Jan. 24. They will leave Prestonsburg at 9 a.m., and the rally is at 12 noon. The program is scheduled while the General Assembly is still in session and in observance of the Supreme Court decision of Jan. 22, 1973 which legally permitted permissive abortion. Anyone who would like to join the group may do so by calling 285-9817.

Kentucky leads the nation in the percentage of children participating in the school fluoride mouthrinse program.

U.S. To Buy Grain Barred from Russia

Vice President Walter F. Mondale last week announced the Commodity Credit Corporation is prepared to assume the contractual obligations for wheat, corn and soybeans previously committed for shipment to the Soviet Union. The CCC will offer to assume these contracts at the contract price minus any costs that have not already been paid.

"Our purpose is to protect against losses, not to guarantee profits," the Vice President said.

None of the grain so purchased, the Vice President said, will be resold into the market until it can be done without adversely affecting market prices.

Travel Assistance Board Holds Meet

FRANKFORT, Ky.—The new Kentucky Travel Assistance Board held its first meeting Tuesday, Jan. 15, at 3 p.m. at the Campbell House Inn in Lexington.

The board, made up of consumer and travel industry representatives, is attached to the state Department of Tourism. Tourism Commissioner Hank Lindsey is an ex officio member.

Headed by Chairman Jim Bertino, of Lexington, the board was created to educate consumers about the rights and remedies available to Kentucky travelers, to review policies related to the travel industry and to mediate any consumer complaints.

Other members are Bobby Gayle Amato and William Brent Rice, both of Lexington, and Barbara Wexler, of Louisville.

The board was appointed by former Gov. Julian Carroll as the result of a recommendation from the Governor's Study Commission on Travel Agencies. The commission, named in June 1978 to study the need for regulation of individuals or agencies providing travel services in Kentucky, was disbanded after its report was submitted last September.

Fuel Shortage Makes Compacts Popular with Roads Department

Each facet of transportation has undergone changes because of the ongoing energy shortage and the resulting increased gasoline prices, and the state Department of Transportation motor pool is no exception.

The KYDOT Transportation Services Division is working to increase the percentage of gas-saving compact cars in the pool, according to division director Jim Claxton. "Our ultimate goal is to have compact cars make up at least 72 percent of our fleet by 1982," he added.

To meet that goal, KYDOT has purchased 180 compacts to replace full-size models this year. "Considering all costs, fuel, maintenance and repairs, our compact cars can be operated for about 14.6 cents per mile," Claxton said.

"Our station wagons average about 13 miles per gallon while the compacts will get around 21. So there is significant savings with compacts," he said. "We're trying to stress the use of the smaller cars because right now we're using full-size cars where compacts could frequently be used."

The motor pool, in operation since July 1976, tries to replace about 315 vehicles a year, Claxton said.

"Replacement of vehicles is based on three general criteria. If the vehicle has lasted 70,000 miles, has about four years of service or if the repair bill on the car is 85 percent of the original purchase price, generally that car will be replaced," he explained.

Increased awareness of energy conservation has led to the purchase of 30 minibuses for use in carpooling, Claxton said. The additional buses were obtained when the present state employee carpooling program proved successful, he added.

"We wanted to make sure our vehicles are used to their greatest extent," Claxton said, adding, "but we also want to see them used properly."

Transportation services' 1,385 vehicle operating fleet is available to any employee at a state university, state agency or vocational school, Claxton said. The total number of vehicles includes 380 compact cars, 538 full-size sedans, 310 station wagons and 153 full-size and compact and enforcement vehicles. The fleet traveled about 19 million miles last year, he added.

located at 15 general use motor pools across the state. Three of the pools are in Frankfort to accommodate the large number of state workers, and there is one at each of the 12 state highway districts. There are also 80 restricted pools for exclusive use by universities and penal institutions.

"Every agency that uses these cars reimburses us for their use," he said.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of the late Randall Lynn Tackett wishes to thank everyone for their kindness during our heartbreaking time. We especially want to thank those who sent floral arrangements, food, and money that was gone instead of sending flowers, and everyone who came to be with us. We send a special thanks to Merion Funeral Chapel for all their kindness and help.

Martin Countian Slain at Kermit

A Martin county man was shot and killed last Thursday while he stood outside an East Kermit, W.Va. tavern.

A man identified by West Virginia State Police as the owner of the tavern has been taken into custody in connection with the shooting which was reported between 2 and 2:30 a.m.

Eddie Jude, of Inez, was shot in the right side with a .38 caliber revolver, state police said.

Jude, who was in his early 20s, was dead at the scene, according to Trooper Cecil Collins.

Edward Lee Zeek, 64, who lives at the tavern, has been charged with murder. He was held in the Mingo county jail at Williamson.

Police said they were told that two blasts from a 20-gauge shotgun were fired from the inside of Zeek's Tavern into a door, then one shot from a .38 caliber revolver was fired from inside the tavern through a broken windowpane.

The victim's body was taken to the state medical examiner's office in South Charleston for an autopsy.

★ Consumer Comments

By STEVEN L. BESHEAR
ATTORNEY GENERAL

If you want something done right—do it yourself!

This also applies to effective consumer complaining. While the consumer specialists in the Attorney General's Division of Consumer Protection can try to mediate legitimate consumer complaints, they often find consumers have not taken any action on their own.

Before contacting anyone, make sure your complaint is legitimate and that you have followed the directions concerning the operation and up-keep of the product.

If you decide your complaint is legitimate, immediately contact the person or company that sold you the product. Don't delay in registering your complaint!

Take the purchase receipt, warranty and other documents to the business where you bought the product. State your complaint calmly and concisely to the salesman or company representative. If he or she cannot act on your problem, ask to speak to the manager or assistant manager. Don't be put off by "buckpassing" techniques.

If you do not obtain a satisfactory response from the store owner or manager, send a written complaint to the manufacturer. The address of the home, or regional division office is usually included in the warranty or other materials accompanying the product. If you cannot find the address, check with the retailer, Better Business Bureau or our Division of Consumer Protection.

When you complain by mail, be sure to include the brand name, year, model number, serial number, size, color and other details which identify the product.

If you sent any documents, send a clear and readable copy. Do not send the original.

Be sure to keep copies of all correspondence and documents you send to the company. If you return the merchandise, be sure to insure it, if it is returned by mail or other delivery service.

When you complain to the dealer or to the manufacturer, you are letting them know their goods or services are not entirely reliable and worthwhile.

Valid complaints will often be resolved by this kind of customer approach to the company. A reputable business will welcome the opportunity to remedy the problem and preserve the customer's confidence. Effective and responsible complaining can also prevent other consumers from experiencing the same problem.

If you have tried to resolve your complaint on your own, but feel the company response is inadequate or unsatisfactory, then you may want to contact the Attorney General's Division of Consumer Protection, 209 St. Clair, Frankfort, Ky. 40601 or call the toll-free Consumer Protection Hotline at 1-800-372-2960.

Education Week Observed in State

Gov. John Y. Brown Jr. has proclaimed Jan. 20-26 as Community Education Week in Kentucky. In designating the week, Gov. Brown asks Kentuckians to use "the principles and practices of Community Education to improve the quality of their lives."

Citing the increased public demand for citizen involvement in decision-making processes, Brown said "great social and economic benefits" can be derived by the commonwealth through citizen involvement in community education.

"Support for community education is growing in Kentucky," said Harry G. (Gippy) Graham, unit director for community education in the Kentucky Department of Education. "More school districts each year are becoming alerted to the need for community education," Graham said.

Community education involves opening schools and publicly funded facilities to the public for use by the entire community—from preschoolers to senior citizens. It also involves developing cooperation between agencies in the community and promotion of the concept of learning as a life-long process, Graham said.

"Awareness Building" workshops, sponsored by the Kentucky Department of Education and funded by the federal Community Schools Act, are currently being held throughout Kentucky. These workshops, along with training sessions and seminars, are designed to help local school districts establish and strengthen their community education programs.

SPORTS AFIELD

By JOHN WILSON

If you're a late-season hunter, you need to keep a sharper than usual eye on the calendar, since a couple of closing dates have been moved up from what has been customary in the past.

Rabbit season will close Jan. 21 this year, instead of the usual Jan. 31. And quail hunting will stop after Feb. 17 instead of extending through the end of the month as it has for the last few years.

These shortened seasons, coupled with lowered bag limits, are in response to the low populations of these two popular game species. About the only other thing we can do is keep our fingers crossed and hope the rest of the winter will be a mild one. The winters of '77 and '78 were hard on wildlife, and it's still going to take a couple more years before things start getting back to normal.

Music Theatre Sets Tryouts Jan. 26th

The Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre will hold open tryouts for the 1980 summer season on January 26 at 10 a.m. in Pike auditorium, Prestonsburg Community College.

Auditions are open to all area residents, regardless of age, and positions to be filled include actors, chorus, orchestra and technical positions. Although each will be required to perform one musical number of his own choosing, readings and additional music will be assigned at the auditions.

The theatre intends to utilize local talent to the greatest possible extent, with the local cast being supplemented with professional actors and staff.

Former members of the Summer Music Theatre program include Eileen Bittman, currently appearing daily on "Another World"; Ron Paolillo, the hilarious Horshack on "Welcome Back, Kotter"; Randy Jones, the cowboy with the hit group, The Village People; Gary Herb, lead singer with the vocal group Gotham; Tommy Kirk, who appeared in many Walt Disney films, including "Old Yeller" and "Swiss Family Robinson"; Jacqueline Pierce of the Metropolitan Opera, and former general manager, Mitch Douglas, who is now agent for such celebrities as Tennessee Williams and Shelly Winters.

Shows to be performed during the summer season are Jenny Wiley, Hello, Dolly, Li'l Abner, and Fiddler on the Roof.

The newspaper "morgue" or library was originally a file of materials for obituary articles but was expanded into a reference library.

With surgery in between.

It's called outpatient or same-day surgery. And it's one of the many programs Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Kentucky support to help keep health care costs down.

You just schedule your surgery, have your operation, and go home the same day.

Compared to inpatient surgery, you spend less time away from your family and job. And best of all, outpatient surgery saves money by eliminating the hospital stay. 25% to 75% of the expense can be saved.

Outpatient surgery is not just for minor problems either. Thanks to improved surgical techniques many operations that once involved several days in a hospital can be handled on this same-day basis. And you receive the same professional, quality care as you would on an inpatient basis.

So, if you need surgery, check with your doctor to see if your procedure can be handled on an outpatient basis. It'll save you time and help hold down health care costs for all of us.

With the many advances in medical technology... today would be a good time for you to check your health care benefits to see if they will help meet today's costs. Write for information: 9901 Linn Station Road, Louisville, KY 40223.

★ Cancer Hopeline ★

This question and answer column is provided as a public service by the Ephraim McDowell Community Cancer Network. Questions are answered by appropriate specialists associated with the Network. These questions represent some of the inquiries made by callers who use our Hopeline. Hopeline is a toll-free consultative telephone service (1-800-432-9321) provided free of charge to any Kentuckian with a cancer-related problem. Qualified counselors answer every call Monday thru Friday, (9:00-5:00 p.m.). Hopeline counselors do not diagnose cancer or recommend treatment for individual cases, nor do they dispense money to callers. Counselors do not provide consultations with specialists as well as support and understanding. Because of its designation by the National Cancer Institute as Kentucky's official Cancer Information Service, the Hopeline has rapid access to the latest cancer information. All matters are treated confidentially.

This Hopeline Column is the second of two dealing with comfort measures for the terminally ill. It is an answer to a request from a woman who is caring for her dying mother at home.

The previous column spoke of physical means of making the terminal patient more comfortable. This column will be concerned with social, psychological, and spiritual comfort measures.

The dying person often feels that he/she can't contribute any more to the world because of dependence on others for basic needs. Your understanding acknowledgement of the reasonableness of your mother's worries or fears or her frustration at being unable to care for herself will enable her to better accept your help.

Each of us needs to contribute to others, so let your mother help when and as she can by meal planning, sewing, helping make family decisions, etc. Doing too much for her may make her feel more helpless and frustrated so that she may delay or not share final goodbyes. This would deprive you of each other's comfort. As much as she is able, keep her involved in family activity rather than isolated in a bedroom. Suffering of all kinds is greatly intensified by isolation, so, subject to your mother's wishes in the matter, encourage her to take part in the family's activities by putting her bed in the living room. If this arrangement is not feasible, encourage her to join the family and visitors there as often as she is able.

No matter how devoted care givers may be to a dying loved one, you need to make arrangements to get away on a regular basis for shopping, a movie, a visit with friends. Getting away is not disloyal. You will be better for it, and so will your mother. A trusted relative, friend, or neighbor is probably just waiting to be asked to help.

As a home care giver, you can receive professional nursing support from the visiting nurses at your county health department. You can also request assistance from the Hospice program, which is an organization of nurses and trained volunteers who help terminally ill people live actively and well until they die. Hospice patients live at home, but they and their families are just a phone call away from skilled medical, nursing, counseling, and practical home care. There are several Hospice programs in Kentucky.

If your mother has a religious faith, it may be a great source of strength to her. Encourage her to seek pastoral guidance if she is receptive to it, and be willing to sit and listen if she wants to talk about her past successes and failures in light of her faith. You, another family member, or a pastor can help her to unburden herself of guilt she may be feeling and assist her to reconcile any differences with others. Settling such old business can be very important to the dying patient, for mending old hurts now can contribute greatly to the feeling that life has had a purpose. The resulting sense of peace, once such business is finished, enables the dying to accept religious comfort and its sense of hope.

Much of the information in this column has been generously provided by Linda Godfrey, R.N., of the Lexington Hospice Program.

If you would like more information on Hospice or other cancer care alternatives, write us at Cancer Hopeline, 915 South Limestone St., Lexington, Kentucky 40536, or call our toll-free number 1-800-432-9321.

Sgt. Gibson Named Outstanding Airman

SMSGT. Everett L. Gibson, now stationed at Homestead Air Force Base, Florida, was nominated one of the 12 Outstanding Airmen in the Air Force, representing the Alaskan Air Command when he was stationed in Anchorage, Alaska with the Elmendorf 21st Munitions Maintenance Squadron.

Sgt. Gibson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Gibson, of Weeksbury, was at this time responsible for the overall management and accountability for all munitions located at all but one Alaskan Air Command bases. He devised a system to prepare and keep current personnel access lists which has saved much time and work, and has also established a team to inventory the entire munitions account every 45 days. His efforts have been recognized by the Air Force Suggestion Awards Program.

Active in youth programs, Sgt. Gibson has been outdoor advisor for the Anchorage Girl Scout Council, commissioner of Elmendorf's Babe Ruth Baseball Association, manager of an Amateur Softball Association girls' team, an official for the Jesse Owens Track and Field classic, an active member of the National Federation and International Association of Basketball Officials, and a member of the planning committee for the Anchorage Area Summer Sports Activities Club.

"In all, no person with whom I have worked in the past 16 years has earned the degree of respect and admiration of his subordinates, peers, and supervisors alike, as has Sergeant Gibson," said Major Lloyd F. Silva, commander of the 21st MMS.

Sgt. Gibson, who attended Wheelwright High School, is married to the former Irene Vanover, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Babe Vanover, of Weeksbury.

Century Hulburt Names Stancil Sales Manager

Century Hulburt, Inc., lubricant manufacturer and distributor, announces the promotion of one of its salesmen, Harris Stancil, to district sales manager of the Appalachian region.

Stancil will serve as a key field manager to newly-appointed sales director George Bohne. His duties will focus on strengthening Century Hulburt's marketing program by working closely with sales personnel and by identifying strategies for expanding into new areas and marketing new products.

Mr. Stancil began his career with Hulburt Oil 28 years ago in Pikeville, Kentucky where he built the company into a major concern in the area by developing one of its most dynamic marketing programs.

Before joining Hulburt, Stancil worked in underground coal mines and in the merchandising department of Inland Steel Co. in Wheelwright. He later served as Wheelwright's postmaster.

Public Meeting Set On Regional Airport

A third and final public information meeting on progress of the proposed new Big Sandy regional airport will be held Thursday, January 24, at Prestonsburg Community College. The meeting, designed to bring interested persons up-to-date on the status of the multi-county facility, begins at 7 p.m.

Airport board Chairman Allan Perry said the required master plan for the airport has been completed.

Floyd, Johnson, Martin and Magoffin counties formed the regional airport board with the objective of developing a transport-type airport with a minimum 5,000 foot runway, and capability of providing commuter air service in the future.

G. Reynolds Watkins, Inc., consulting engineers, have recommended a site near the Johnson-Martin-Floyd lines, off KY 3, for final design, and the airport board has approved that location. The consulting firm studied a dozen potential locations prior to making their final recommendation, Perry said.

Representatives of the consulting firm and the Kentucky Division of Aeronautics will be present at the January 24 meeting, which is open to the public.

Legislative Leaders, Swigart To Talk New Mine Regulations

Legislators last Thursday questioned Jackie Swigart, secretary of the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, about proposed surface mining regulations.

Swigart attended the House Committee on Agriculture and Natural Resources meeting in an effort to "help the committee understand what the state is up against regarding the surface mining regulation issue.

March 3 is the deadline for the state to submit proposed regulations to the federal Office of Surface Mining (OSM). The regulations deal with "many controversial issues," she said.

She indicated a need for the leadership of both House and Senate committees to sit down with her and "make sure we understand each other." Such a session is expected early this week.

The surface mining regulation issue has "created a lot of fear and a lot of concern," Swigart said. "We need to keep a cool head for a couple of weeks and work together (to prepare any needed legislation.)"

In response to legislators' questions, the secretary assured them the Natural Resources Department does not intend to "clone" OSM's regulations.

She also explained that until the state obtains federal approval as the primary enforcer of the permanent regulations, both federal and state agencies are inspecting mines. If the state gains control, through OSM's acceptance of Kentucky's laws, then federal inspectors would only act as overseers to ensure the regulations are enforced.

When asked how much federal money is involved if the state fails to win federal approval, Gene Brandenburg, commissioner of the Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, noted that control over spending $40 million for abandoned land reclamation would be lost to OSM.

Consumer Comments

By STEVEN L. BESHEAR
Attorney General

It wasn't that long ago that consumers kept their money in the family cookie jar, in the mattress, or some other "secret" hiding place.

Today financial institutions have taken over a large amount of the average family's transactions with regard to spending and saving. The services banks offer have multiplied just within the past few years. And along with those services, your rights as a consumer have increased.

Many consumers call our Division of Consumer Protection with questions on banking and their rights. In fact, the demand for consumer information has become so great that the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) has set-up a toll-free Consumer Telephone Hotline to allow the public to ask questions, present views and voice complaints about consumer or civil rights matters in banking.

The new toll-free number is 1-800-424-5488 and can be used Monday through Friday between 8:30 and 5:15 p.m. EST.

Hopefully, the new hotline will help consumers learn what their rights are when dealing with banks. Banks can also benefit from the hotline because it should help resolve misunderstandings between banks and their customers.

If you have another type of consumer complaint or question please write to our office. The address is Office of the Attorney General, Division of Consumer Protection, 209 St. Clair, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

How Much Should You Save?

What Is Savings?

Savings are funds you put aside in a place that is safe and offers ready access. Savings should involve little or no risk; at our bank, for example, savings accounts as well as all bank deposits, are insured up to $40,000 by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, an agency of the U.S. Government. Savings should also provide you with a return on your money. We have and will continue to pay the maximum bank interest rates permitted by law on all of our various savings plans.

We believe that saving money should be as systematic and effortless as possible. And that's why we've designed a variety of savings plans for you to choose. Below, you will find some helpful hints that may help you develop the regular savings habit.

How Much Is Enough?

Most of us are familiar with a number of ways to save, ranging from a cookie jar or mattress to a full service bank. Because there are so many places to save, you should shop around to see which method of savings is right for you. Your decision should be based not only on the interest your money will earn, but on the service and convenience you may require.

How much you should save is a personal decision. While it used to be that saving four to six months of your annual salary after taxes was a rule of thumb; insurance, social security, and pension plans somewhat reduce the amount you should keep in emergency funds. Today, anywhere from 3-8% of your monthly income after taxes is a good amount to save each month.

Establish A Savings Goal

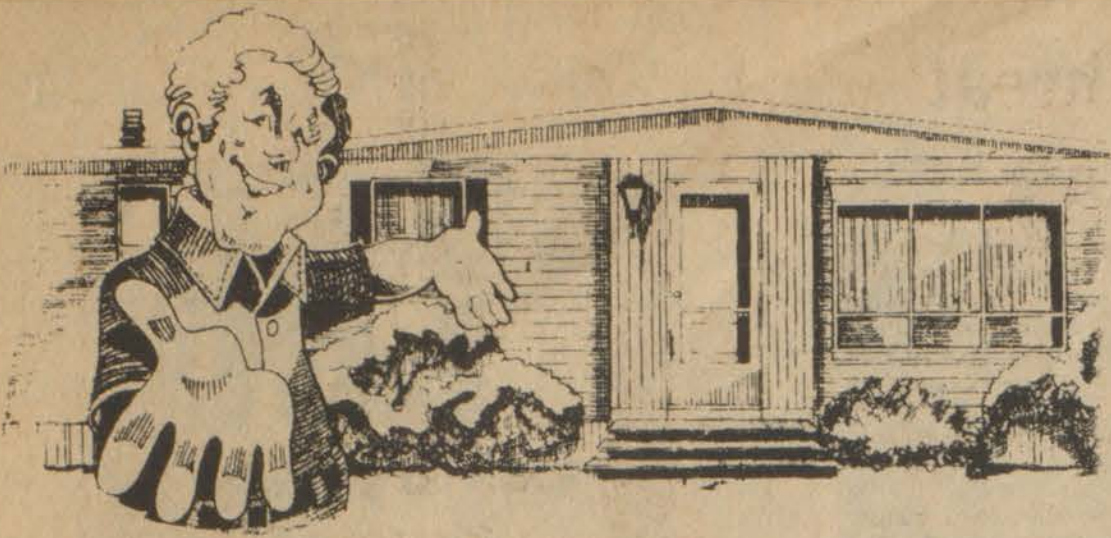

In establishing your savings goal, consider your personal commitments and planned expenses like an upcoming vacation, a major purchase, or college expenses. If in doubt as to how much you should save, stop by and ask our advice. We feel you should know as much as possible about money matters and we'll be glad to help.

‘Save a Place for Wildlife’ Is 1980 Wildlife Week Theme

More than 15 million American schoolchildren, teachers, and conservationists are expected to participate in the 1980 observance of National Wildlife Week, March 16 through 22.

“Save a Place for Wildlife” will be the theme for the 43rd annual celebration of the week that was first proclaimed by President Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1938 to rally public support for programs to enhance the nation’s wildlife population.

The importance of preserving wildlife habitat—areas where wild creatures can find food, water, cover, and a place to raise their young—will be emphasized this year, according to Dr. Frederick R. Scroggin, of Dry Ridge, Ky., president of the National Wildlife Federation, which sponsors the annual event.

The 1980 National Wildlife Week poster animals are two young red foxes, photographed for the NWF by Brian Milne, of Thunder Bay, Ontario. On the reverse of the four-color poster Mark Trail, the conservationist hero of a nationally-syndicated cartoon strip, explains what “Save a Place for Wildlife” means, with illustrations by artists Ed Dodd and Jack Elrod, creators of the cartoon character. More than 800,000 copies of this poster will be mailed to Wildlife Week participants.

The NWF, which has 4.1 million members and supporters, will also distribute 597,000 copies of a second poster, which bears color photographs of 16 species of wildlife with information on each animal in English and Spanish backing up the pictures.

Teachers across the country, as well as in Guam, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands, will receive 394,000 Wildlife Week Education Kits, which contain posters, activity booklets, and badges. Youngsters will receive 65,000 smaller student kits.

“Habitat is the key to a healthy and abundant wildlife population,” said NWF President Scroggin, a physician and lifelong conservationist, in explaining this year’s theme. “Without habitat, there would be no wildlife.”

“But,” Dr. Scroggin continued, “as our demands for more homes, more food, and more energy continue to mount, we are putting ever-increasing pressure on our remaining wildlife habitat. In some places, we are needlessly and recklessly destroying wildlife habitat.

“One of the big challenges of the 1980s is to settle the conflicts between our own needs and the needs of our wildlife. We must save a place for wildlife.”

Dr. Scroggin noted that President Carter has designated 1980 as the “Year of the Coast.” The coast is just one habitat vital to both people and wildlife whose existence is threatened “by pollution, by development, by erosion,” Scroggin said.

“In addition, our wetlands, our wilderness, our prairies, and our oceans are priceless habitats in need of protection.”

“We can answer the challenge of the next decade if all of us show our concern,” he emphasized. “With careful planning, we can grow and prosper and still ‘Save A Place For Wildlife.’”

Appointments Made For 1980 Heart Fund

Two appointments to leadership positions in the 1980 Floyd County Heart Fund drive have been announced by the state campaign chairman, Lt. Gov. Martha Layne Collins of Frankfort. They are: Mrs. Dolores Dingus, Martin, to serve as county Heart Fund chairman, and Burl Wells Spurlock, Prestonsburg, treasurer.

She also announced that Mrs. Pauline Sparks, Prestonsburg, will continue to serve as the year-round Memorial Gifts chairman in Floyd County.

The month-long Heart Fund appeal will be launched Tuesday, February 5, with Coffee Day. The house-to-house solicitation will be conducted on Heart Sunday, February 24.

Mrs. Collins urged full support of the 1980 Appeal, noting that 425,000 Kentuckians suffer from heart disease and that 52 percent of all known causes of death in the Commonwealth are due to heart and blood vessel diseases.

A total of $1,380,053.12, including wills and bequests, was contributed last year to the Heart Fund in Kentucky.
