Hearing for Couple In Child Case Set By District Court

Floyd District Judge Harold J. Stumbo last Friday denied a defense motion which sought to close to the public and the press pretrial hearings in the case of Ben and Olive Meade, accused last month of assaulting their four-month-old child.

In overruling the motion, Judge Stumbo said the defense would be permitted to renew it if, in the preliminary hearing, evidence is offered which "is not within a witness's competency to testify" and "is of the sort which would probably be inadmissible at trial."

In the event of such testimony, he said, he would consider a motion to close the hearing only with respect to that particular testimony.

The preliminary hearing was set for tomorrow (Thursday) morning.

A motion by defense attorneys to reduce bonds on the couple, from $25,000 to $10,000, was granted.

Commenting recently on his motion to have the pretrial proceedings closed, Public Defender Richard Burmeister claimed that publicity about the case was potentially prejudicial to the defendants' rights to a fair trial, naming County At-

Wednesday Night Blaze Levels Auxier Home

Firemen fight in vain the blaze which last Wednesday night destroyed the home of Rachel Webb at Auxier. According to Prestonsburg Fire Chief Tom Blackburn, the single-story, wood frame structure was "really involved" by the time firemen arrived and firefighting efforts were concentrated on preventing spread of the fire to a neighboring house. Firemen from the Prestonsburg squad and Auxier Fire Dept. were able to minimize damage to the adjacent house although minor loss from heat and smoke was reported. Cause of the fire has not been determined.

Supporters Say Husband Abused Accused Woman

The upcoming circuit court trial of a 20-year-old Wheelwright woman accused in the slaying of her husband has aroused the interest of an organization of women here and of a national attorneys' group.

Kathy Johnson Phillips, who is alleged to have shot Eugene Phillips in front of the couple's residence, September 15, 1978, told her story last week to a meeting of women who organized two years ago under the name of DASH (Domestic Abuse Support and Housing). In addition, the National Lawyers' Guild is assisting Mrs. Phillips' counsel in preparing the defense in the case.

The defendant joins a growing number of women in similar situations who, rather than pleading diminished responsibility, cite patterns of domestic abuse as justification for their actions.

Mrs. Phillips and other witnesses have claimed that Phillips frequently beat her with his fists and feet and sometimes beat her children, now 4 and 2, as well.

The fatal shooting occurred during an altercation between the couple several days after Mrs. Phillips left their home, allegedly after a beating in which she suffered a blow to the head.

This Town...That World

Easter, they tell us, began as a pagan festival to honor Eastre, the goddess of spring. That being admitted, it offers the greater proof of the ennobling influence of the Christian religion by its observance of the day in commemoration of the Resurrection.

There are at least two means of knowing when Easter comes, any year:

1. Its date is the first Sunday after the first full moon that occurs after March 21.

2. It's when most of us forget our excuses and betake ourselves off to church.

WANTED—A POKE WARDEN

We have our priorities all mixed up. Here we've gone, these last few weeks, centering our attention on those Presidential primaries in New England, Illinois, down South, all around, all the while neglecting the office of poke warden. If Watt Hale or Lenna Moore doesn't file soon, think I'll draft "Snow" White.

Lum, the last surviving member of the old radio team, Lum 'n' Abner, died the other day. So passed another link with a pleasant past. If you ever have the opportunity, hear their rustic reenactment of the Christmas Story which, to my low-brow sort of thinking, remains the most beautiful program that has ever come my way.

Broadform Deed Bill Easily Passes House

The broadform deed bill sponsored by Rep. Gregory Stumbo last week passed the House of Representatives by an unexpectedly wide margin.

According to the bill, which passed by 83 votes to 7 in the House and now goes to the Senate, the broadform deeds transferring ownership of a million acres of east Kentucky land between 1880 and 1920 would be interpreted to mean that, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, the intention of the parties was that coal be mined only by the mining methods "commonly known to be in use in the area" at the time the deeds were signed.

In the case of coal sold under the deeds, the Act would proscribe, unless the surface and mineral owners agree otherwise, the large-scale stripmining which came into common use only years later.

Arguing against the bill, Rep. David H. Thomason said there is "no question in my mind but that this bill is unconstitutional." Original surface owners who sold their mineral rights had since sold the land to others at a lower price because the mineral rights had been already sold, Thomason said. Purchasers of mineral rights could lose their complete investment under the bill, he added.

"If this bill isn't constitutional, we may as well quit," Representative Stumbo said this week. He pointed out that similar legislation in Tennessee has been upheld by the courts.

Under the broadform deed as it is presently construed, Stumbo said, coal operators can "destroy property and leave without even saying thank-you." The legislature and courts of Kentucky, he has been "wrassling with this issue 50 years or longer," he added.

Even new stripmine laws do not protect surface owners from damage by powerful coal companies, Stumbo said. "We are asked many times to help those people who can't help themselves—the poor, the elderly, the helpless—and those are the people that I'm speaking for today," he said during floor debate last week.

Speaker Says Road Program May Face Bleak Prospects

The plight of the state Department of Transportation's road program in the face of spiraling construction costs and shrinking funds was outlined at last Thursday's dinner meeting of the Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club by Wesley Howard, of Prestonsburg, chief right-of-way agent for the department's District 12, Pikeville.

In a detailed and frank discussion of state highway program prospects,

Howard told the group, "The future is not promising—the bureau faces serious problems."

According to Howard, the root of the state's problems lies in the fact that "the pressure of inflation on construction and maintenance costs are and have been rising at an unbelievable rate while funds assigned to the highway program are actually starting to shrink."

"When steaks cost $4 a pound and a Chevrolet can be priced at $8,000, a bridge over the Ohio River at Ashland may run $30 million and Route 80 may cost $7-$9 million per mile. These figures point up the problem facing your highway program," Howard explained by way of example.

Howard said while individuals as wage earners have some insulation against inflation through the fact that wages have tended to follow, at least to some degree, the inflationary spiral, the Bureau of Highways situation is different. "The bureau is little better off than a senior citizen living on a fixed income. Every month hamburger is higher but the check in the mailbox is about the same as last month's," Howard pointed out.

Facing an operating budget, he explained, are two substantial fixed charges that must be met—to retire general obligation bond issues of the 1950's and '60's, and to meet the scheduled obligation of the state's toll roads. In addition, the state must fund the statutory revenue—sharing programs, county road aid, municipal aid and rural secondary system. "After that we have 25,000 miles of roads in Kentucky state-maintained, and, of course, we must pay administrative costs," he added.

"Sometime in the early 1980's these charges—debt, revenue sharing, maintenance and administration—will consume the entire income of the road fund. When that day comes, there will be

Police Chief Says 'Toughs' Park Problem

Frequent police patrols have cleared the Fun House area of loiterers but the same youths are now congregating around the Archer Park skating rink, Police Chief Keith Lawson told members of the Prestonsburg city council Monday.

Two juveniles were arrested in connection with the slashing of a police car tire near the rink last Friday.

Describing the area as "a little Peyton Place" and those gathering there as "bugs, potheads and beer drinkers," Lawson said it is now "the worst spot in town," and all the more alarming because of the number of younger children using the area.

Archer Park Administrator Susan Johnson confirmed that a problem exists there, especially on Friday and Saturday nights, and said the area would be better illuminated. However, park staff members are unable to supervise the area outside the skating rink itself, she said.

Lawson said he would try to assign two auxiliary police officers to the area.

The council's streets committee was authorized to submit projects for funding out of the $90,000 now held in escrow on the city's behalf by the state Department of Transportation. One project that may be considered is the construction of a sidewalk long University Drive, from Prestonsburg High School to the Highlands Plaza shopping mall. $4650 has already been spent on engineering the project, the total cost of which has been estimated at $40,000.

Gas Tax Help Cited But Sentiment Split

There remain wide differences in the thinking of legislators as well as the public on House Bill 973, which would change the state's motor fuel tax from nine cents a gallon to nine per cent of the wholesale price of fuel, but the Department of Transportation claims the result will be a much-needed increase in funds for streets and roads.

Eastern Kentucky's House delegation split on the issue. Representatives Ray Brown (D-Sandy Hook), Herbie Deskins (D-Pikeville), Charles Holbrook (R-Ashland), Woody May (D-West Liberty), Bill Weinberg (D-Hindman) and Pete Worthington (D-Ewing) voted for the measure when it barely passed, 52-48, last week.

Opposing the bill were W.D. "Doc" Blair (R-Paintsville), Ron Cyrus (D-Flatwoods), Clayton Little (D-Hartley), George Plummer (R-Vanceburg) and Greg Stumbo (D-Prestonsburg).

Representative Stumbo reported that a newspaper poll in this county of public sentiment on various issues drew more than 500 responses and that 55% of those polled opposed an increase in the gasoline tax.

Some viewed the tax as a burden on those who could least afford it, particularly those who must drive considerable distances to work. Rep. Stumbo said of his "no" vote:

"I figured that the only way to stop government spending is to stop the money."

Drainage Work Nears Completion

Drainage problems near the juncture of Earl St. and Lake Drive here which have long constituted an aggravation to motorists and pedestrians alike where being remedied this week as City workmen completed installation of new drainage pipe and neared completion of installation of catch basins to accommodate overflow from an adjacent, low-lying bottom as well as street runoff. Prestonsburg City Manager Dave Evans said the City is powerless to drain the swampy bottom which borders Earl St. since the property is privately owned. Evans said the drainage project is expected to be completed this week.

Wells Says Hospital Fight Will Continue

The state Certificate of Need and License Board last week turned down a request by owners of the Paintsville Hospital to replace that 60-year-old facility with a new structure.

Paintsville attorney J.K. Wells said, however, that the action will not deter residents there in their fight to replace the hospital. He will appeal the decision to the state Department for Human Resources and, should that fail, Paintsville Hospital attorneys will file suit against the state health planners, he said.

A pending suit to halt the expansion of Highlands Regional Medical Center near here will not be dropped, Wells added.

The 9-6 vote to disapprove Paintsville Hospital's application followed a board subcommittee's recommendation that the request be denied. In a report submitted to the board last Wednesday, the three-member subcommittee found the proposed 72 new beds were not needed in the area and that the proposal was not consistent with regional health plans.

In October, the board gave officials of Highlands Regional Medical Center the go-ahead to add 47 acute-care beds to that facility. If Paintsville's request had been granted, the Big Sandy area would have had 59 more acute-care beds than called for in regional plans, regional health officials said.

Because Paintsville's aging structure fails to meet state building standards, the current hospital will have to close down, Paintsville owners said in their application.

Paintsville residents supporting the Paintsville application have said access to Highlands is hindered by poor roads and that Paintsville's recent growth justifies a hospital in the community.

Wells said that Paintsville's move to block the Highlands expansion is based on the exclusion of Paintsville Hospital representatives from discussions that resulted in approving the Highlands plan. The exclusion violated Paintsville Hospital's due process rights, he said, and may have rendered the approval of the Highlands application unconstitutional.

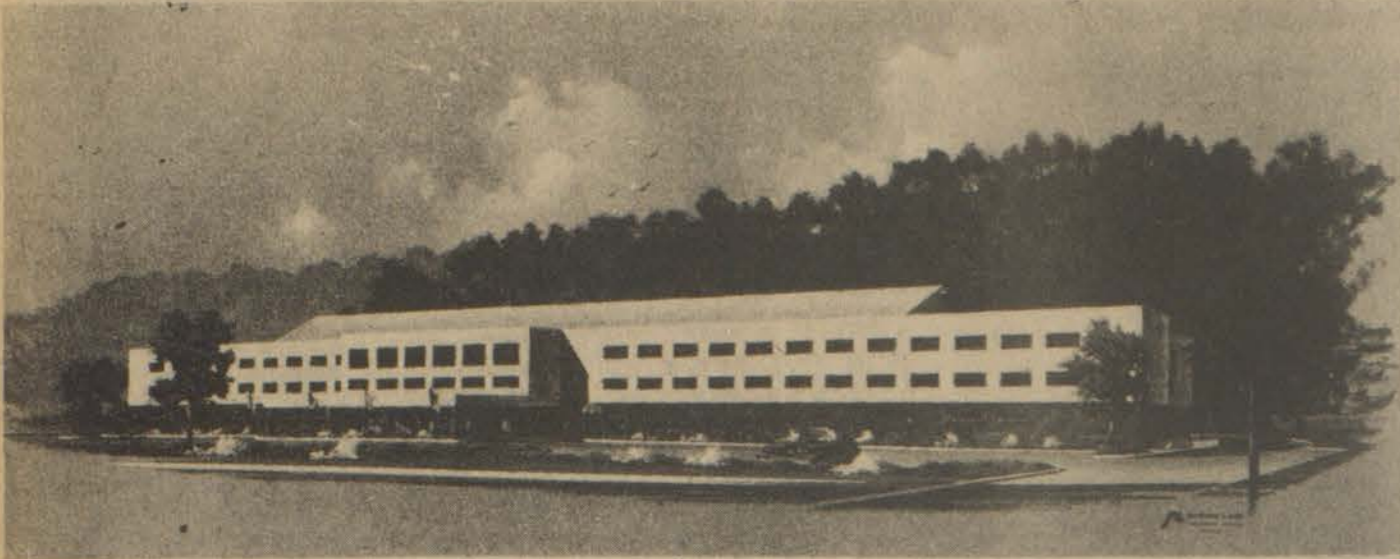

'Broadform' Hits Unexpected Snag

The broadform deed bill sponsored by Rep. Gregory Stumbo, which passed the House by a handy 83 votes to 7 last week, was unexpectedly snarled in the senate judiciary committee yesterday (Tuesday).

Four votes of the six-member committee are required before the bill can be reported out for vote in the Senate. As of late yesterday afternoon, only two committee members—Sen. Tom Easterly (D-Frankfort), committee chairman, and Sen. John A. (Eck) Rose (D-Winchester)—had voted for the bill.

Sen. Benny Ray Bailey said the opposition to the bill was a surprise to him and that he would attempt to have the bill brought up again for a vote in committee today. Rep. Stumbo expressed disappointment but said he would continue the fight.

The other members of the committee are Sens. Charles W. Berger (D-Harlan), August (Gus) Sheehan (D-Covington), Michael R. Moloney (D-Lexington), and Clyde Middleton (R-Covington).

Stumbo, Weinberg Blast Workmen's Comp Bill

A bill revising the state's workmen's compensation system is now being considered in the House of Representatives and Representatives Greg Stumbo, of Floyd county, and Bill Weinberg, of Knott, oppose it.

"An abomination," says Weinberg of the bill.

"A monstrosity," says Stumbo.

The issues of workmen's compensation has been a controversial one during the 1980 session of the Kentucky General Assembly. Representatives of business and industry have told legislators that workmen's compensation premiums are too high and recently more than 10,000 union members went to Frankfort to tell the Legislature that many of the benefits for injured workers are too low.

"This bill is being called a compromise between business and workers," Weinberg said. "But it's not a compromise, it's not a balanced bill. It's about as balanced for the worker as the guillotine was for Marie Antoinette."

Weinberg said the problem with the state's workmen's compensation program is that the benefits paid to injured workers are too low compared to other states and the premiums paid by businesses are too high. The only people benefitting from the present program are the insurance companies, according to Weinberg.

"Many of us suspect the villains in this whole thing are the big insurance companies who write the workmen's compensation policies," Weinberg said. "They are making profits at the expense of both the employers and the workers."

The state should wait until the results are in from a study which is going to be made of the workmen's compensation system. The actuarial study of the system, which has been approved by the House of Representatives, will find out how much profit the big insurance companies are making off of workmen's comp, according to Weinberg.

"Before we jump into revising this program, we need to get the facts," Weinberg said. "Then we'd be able to make a logical and fair demonstration of just what needs to be done."

Both Stumbo and Weinberg said the bill now before the Legislature is unfair to workers because it changes the workmen's comp law to make it difficult for workers to collect benefits for any kind of mental injuries and also makes it harder for people suffering from black lung to receive workmen's compensation.

In addition, according to Weinberg, the way the bill has been written, it ends up being "the lawyer's bill to end all lawyer's bills."

"If this bill passes, we'll be in court arguing about every area of workmen's compensation, much more than we are now," Weinberg said.

Weinberg said he thinks the state's program for injured workers needs to be revised but he doesn't think the legislation now before the General Assembly is the way to do it.

Stumbo said he would like to see a study made of the workmen's compensation issue and that work completed in time to be included in the call for a special session that will be held to redistrict the state after the new census is completed.

Juries Convict Trial Absentees

George Branham, of Wheelwright, was faring well in district court Monday till he encountered trouble with the court itself on a matter which was not in the original charge.

District Judge Stumbo had dismissed the reckless driving charge against Branham when the arresting officer failed to appear for the hearing. But then came another order from the court—three hours in jail for contempt of court.

Three defendants were given trial in absentia and three were sentenced on their pleas of guilty. Wallace Lynn Compton, R. 5, Pikeville, who failed to answer for trial on a driving under the influence charge, was fined $500 and sentenced to 30 days in jail. Sterling Lynn Hall, of Teaberry, also given trial in absentia, was fined $500 and ordered to serve five days in jail for public intoxication. The third convicted while absent was Willard Clarence Craft, of Prestonsburg, charged with non-support. He was fined $100 and given a 12-month jail term. Bench warrants were issued for all three defendants.

Pleas of guilty and their results:
Joseph Johnson, no operator's license, $27 fine, $10 suspended, marijuana possession charge dismissed; Jeff Blackburn, R. 1, Betsy Layne, possession of marijuana, $250 fine; Samuel Terry, Martin, carrying a concealed deadly weapon, $50 fine.

Other cases called for hearing Monday:
Jimmy P. Turner, Drift, public intoxication, motion for bond forfeiture sustained and bench warrant issued; Randy Scott Hamilton, Teaberry, no liability insurance, Commonwealth moved to revoke probation.

The following cases were dismissed at the request of the prosecuting witness in each:

Phillip Allen, Jimmy Dean Hall, and William Lloyd Hall, all of Toler Creek, each charged with first degree wanton endangerment; Reao Hamilton, Harold, assault, and Sterling Hall, Teaberry, third degree assault.

Clark-Tackett Marriage Solemnized

The Calvary Baptist Church of Betsy Layne was the scene of the marriage ceremony which united Gwen Evelyn Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R.B. Clark, Jr., and Clyde Tackett, son of Mrs. Gloria Tackett, of Harold, and the late Clyde Tackett. The ceremony, solemnized at 2:30 p.m., November 17, was performed by the Rev. Cohen Campbell.

A program of contemporary wedding music was given prior to the ceremony. Darrell Clark, soloist and guitarist, accompanied by Marcia Smith, both cousins of the bride, performed "My Sweet Lady", "Follow Me", "If", and "We've Only Just Begun". "Annie's Song" was also sung by Marcia Smith accompanied on the piano by Darrell Clark.

Following the lighting of the candles by the ushers, the wedding march was played by Fran Clark as the bride was escorted to the altar by her father. The bride wore a gown of organza and chantilly lace fashioned with a victorian neckline, sheu yoke, empire waist, fitted lace sleeves with ruffled cuff and full A-line skirt with attached chapel train. A deep ruffle bordered the skirt and train and formed a bustle in back. A satin ribbon encircled the waist and tied in a bow in back. The matching fingertip veil was trimmed in chantilly lace secured to a camelot cape covered in matching lace with attached blusher veil.

After the giving of the bride by her father, the pastoral prayer was given. During the trinity candle lighting, "Sunrise, Sunset" was sung by Darrell Clark. Following the trinity candle lighting, the couple exchanged rings. Jennifer Clark, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Karen Clark, sister-in-law of the bride; Gale Wright, cousin of the bride; and Kay Blackburn, friend of the bride.

Miss Angela Kay Newsome, cousin of the bride and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Newsome, was flower girl. Larry Hall, cousin of the groom, was ring bearer. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Hall, of Ivel.

Serving as best man was Brent Clark, brother of the bride. Groomsman and ushers were Steve and Greg Tackett, brothers of the groom, and Doug Stratton, cousin of the bride.

Following the ceremony, a reception was given in the church social hall. The serving table was centered with the wedding cake which was twin, side-by-side, 4-tier cakes connected by a bridge with the bride and groom and attendants on the bridge. Underneath the bridge was a fountain with two tiers of cake. This was an original creation by Wanda Patierno, of Belleville, Michigan, aunt of the bride.

Receptionists were Mrs. Geneva Wright, Mrs. Dollie Ralph, Mrs. Nancy Hall, Miss Pam Newsome, Miss Rosemary Tackett, and Mrs. Rosena Tackett. Mrs. Aileen Hall directed the wedding, and presiding at the guest register was Miss Vicky Tackett, cousin of the bride.

Mrs. Clark chose a cranberry gown with matching trim, and short jacket for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Tackett wore a gown of light green pastel accented by a matching fingertip cape.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Rick Young and Sara, of Ashland; Mr. and Mrs. Roger Stewart and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stewart, of Flatwoods; Mrs. Mildred Shuler, Hopewell, Va.; Kenneth Reynolds, Mary Sale, Dollie Ralph, Pamela Newsome; Wanda Patierno, Sheila Patierno, Sharon Patierno, Tim Patierno, George P. Wright, Geneva Wright, Gale Wright and Brian Wright, all of Michigan.

Following their honeymoon to the Rocky Mountains, Utah, and the Grand Canyon, the couple is now residing at Ivel.

The bride is a graduate of Betsy Layne High School and Ashland Community College and is presently employed as a dental hygienist for Dr. Brent G. Clark, and Dr. William H. Justice. The groom is a graduate of the University of Kentucky and is presently self-employed at Tackett's Dental Lab in Betsy Layne.

A Matter of Human Rights

Of his bill to curb the powers of the broad-form deed Rep. Greg Stumbo has said:

"If this bill isn't constitutional, we may as well quit."

The Times agrees. A similar bill enacted by the Tennessee legislature has been held constitutional by courts of that state. If the legislation which now appears to be headed for passage by the state Senate fails to satisfy the Kentucky Supreme Court, we, indeed, may as well quit charging the windmill.

This legislation is not taking property from those who acquired Kentucky coal under the broad-form deed. The old argument that property is taken without just compensation no longer holds. Instead, the Stumbo bill simply seeks to hold the mining of coal to the methods known at the time those old deeds were executed.

For a hundred years, or thereabouts, the surface owner has been, under terms of this pernicious document, at the mercy of the owner of the coal. In some cases owners of the mineral have been merciful, but that deed provided that the owner of the mineral owned even the stone "and all other substances." The owner of the coal could tear apart the surface, do as he pleased. Except for his mercy, the landowner retained only a tenuous right to the surface.

We commend Representative Stumbo and his colleagues on their attempt to end this injustice. We recognize the importance of coal to Eastern Kentucky and the nation and have no desire to put those who mine it in an untenable position. But we contend that this bill is a move toward a just settlement of human rights and will make that settlement not only possible but also feasible by negotiation rather than dictation.

torney Arnold Turner, Jr. as a primary source of the allegedly damaging publicity.

Opposing the motion were Turner, the Floyd County Times, and the Courier-Journal and Louisville Times. Requests by the newspapers to intervene in the case were denied by the court but an attorney for the Louisville papers was permitted to enter the case as "friend of the court" (amicus curiae).

After hearing testimony about the extent and nature of news coverage about the case in this county, Stumbo found that "there has been no publicity with a demonstrated prejudicial effect on the defendants' rights to a fair trial and an impartial jury," and that the pretrial and trial proceedings, including defense attorneys' rights to question and challenge potential jurors, are sufficient to protect the defendants' rights without infringing on the rights of the public and the press.

The court, Stumbo added, "does not have the power to order the press what to print or not print."

Qualifying his refusal to close the proceedings, Stumbo argued orally that closure might be appropriate in the event that "inflammatory" evidence or evidence likely to prove inadmissible at trial is introduced during pretrial hearings. In his written order, however, only the narrower circumstance—the introduction of probably inadmissible evidence—is cited as a basis for possible closure.

The court also found that County Attorney Turner "made a good faith effort to minimize pretrial publicity" and that "all statements released by the county attorney were supported by affidavit or coroner's report."

Called as a witness by Burmeister, Turner answered questions about information he had given the press concerning the case. In cross-examining Ron Marstin, a Floyd County Times writer, Turner established that he had successfully petitioned The Times to delay a news report until details of the case could be more solidly founded.

Burmeister said last week that, even with the bond reduction, the Meades were not likely to be able to execute bond.

Ten Years Ago

Of the 67 cases booked for trial at the April criminal term of the Floyd Circuit Court, 17 charged defendants with child desertion and 11 others allege theft and obtaining money under false pretense. The investigation of the blaze which destroyed a newspaper and printing plant operated by the 979 Community Action Council at Teaberry on Mud Creek, early last Saturday morning, was interrupted by the illness of State Detective Chester D. Potter, but the FBI is expected to join in the probe. Statistics released by the Attendance Department of the Floyd county school system shows that in the first five months of the current school year every high school in the county except Wheelwright's has lost students. Joe F. Childers has been named winner of Commonwealth Life Insurance Company President's Trophy for the 1969 sales year. Request of State Senator Clifford B. Latta that Gov. Nunn make a grant from his contingency fund to make possible continued operation this year of the Jenny Wiley Drama Association was granted last week. Congressman Carl D. Perkins announced last Tuesday that the Bureau of Recreation Department of the Interior, has made a grant of $66,608 to the city of Prestonsburg for development of approximately 25 acres of land in Archer Park. Born to Mr. and Mrs. William B. Click, of Colorado Springs, Colo., a daughter, March 11. There died: Mosey Johnson, of Garrett, March 19, at Our Lady of the Way Hospital, Martin; Luther Hall, 61, of Hall, March 22, at his home; Delbert E. Curnutt, 74, March 24, en route to Martin hospital; Lundy Cole, of Melvin, March 24, at McDowell hospital; Mrs. Sally Elizabeth Ratliff, 62, of Martin, March 23, at Our Lady of the Way Hospital.

Twenty Years Ago

Over 60 percent of the incorporated area of Prestonsburg is vacant land, a study shows. The Planning Commission said, "Because of rising costs and additional service demands upon the municipalities, Prestonsburg cannot economically tolerate the amount of vacant land comprising 506 acres within the corporate limits." Plans for establishing of a tree-seedling nursery in Morgan county were announced by Governor Wilson Wyatt. The Eastern Kentucky nursery will be located on an 82-acre farm near West Liberty and was purchased by the Department of Conservation for $23,700. The new Prestonsburg Housing Commission announced that it has unanimously agreed on low-rent public housing and has signed all necessary papers in connection with the project. Floyd county contributed $3,330,000 to the federal coffers this year. The cheapest school bus transportation per pupil in the state is in the Eastern section of Kentucky, according to John L. Vickers, director of pupil transportation. The Harold Telephone Company has negotiated with the Inland Steel Company a contract which will afford free telephone service between Melvin and Wheelwright, it was announced this week by Paul R. Gearheart. There died: Lewis W. Swann, 81, of Mare Creek, at home; Charles Robert Lushbaugh, 43, a former resident of Dvale, at the Paintsville hospital; Preston Boyd, 71, of Estill, at the McDowell hospital; Mrs. Maggie Eden, 83, of Martin, at the home of a son, at Martin; Den D. Fairchild, 51, of Allen, at the Prestonsburg General hospital; Daniel Newsome, 68, Teaberry, at the Pikeville Methodist hospital; Evan Hicks, 57, of Spencerville, O., formerly of Garrett, at his home last Friday; Emmitt Hunter, 11, of New London, O., Saturday, while visiting relatives in the county; Richard D. Smith, 70, Wednesday at his home at Wheelwright.

Thirty Years Ago

(March 30, 1950)

A suit, which, if successful, could cast present administration forces of the Floyd County Board of Education into a minority role was filed in the Floyd circuit court here Saturday. Government of the town of Martin was reorganized Tuesday night under the town's new status as a city of the fourth class, and J. H. Osborne, chairman of the old Board of Trustees, was named Martin's first Mayor. The real estate office here of the Dewey Reservoir Project has been advised that the office of the Chief of Engineers, U. S. Army, Washington, D.C., has authorized leasing of lands upstream from German in the reservoir area for agricultural and grazing purposes. A moonshine still located within 200 feet of the mouth of the old Sampson mine on Simpson Branch at Drift was captured Sunday by Deputy Constable Johnny Martin on a lone "still" hunt. There died: F. C. Hall, Prestonsburg banker, last Thursday at the Paintsville hospital; Willie Hall, 28, in a mine accident at Teaberry, Tuesday night; Rhoda Preston Edwards, 84, Friday night at Wayland; Lewis Ramey, 75, Saturday at the home of a daughter at East Point; Lawrence Thomas, 54, last Thursday at his home at Sugar Loaf; Sarah Ramey Mollett, 94, Friday at the home of a daughter at Betsy Layne; Alphonso Fraley, 76, Saturday at his home at Auxier; Mrs. Hulda Sexton Kitchen, 79, Friday at her home at East Point; Edith Shepherd, 15, last Thursday at her parents' home at Goodloe; Mrs. Elizabeth Compton Hall, 44, of Prestonsburg, Saturday at the Paintsville hospital; Thomas C. Stanley, 80, Friday at his home at Garrett.

Forty Years Ago

(March 28, 1940)

Medium type surfacing of 12 miles of the Left Beaver Creek highway and concrete surfacing of approximately the same distance of the Mayo Trail's Missing Link in Johnson and Lawrence counties are among the 62 highway projects approved by the state Highway Commission for 1940. The appropriation made for the Left Beaver road totals $46,514. This week three new school buildings, which cost approximately $100,000, are being dedicated at Maytown and Martin, with Dr. R. E. Jagers, of the State Board of Education, Frankfort, as the principal speaker. The Science Building, the dedication of which was postponed from last year because of the flood, and the new building which replaced one destroyed by fire last March will be opened to the public. The Science Building cost about $16,000, the cost of the other was about $42,000. Seven Floyd county men were arrested this week by Deputy U.S. Marshall John McKenzie on dope handling charges. Warrants for their arrest accused them of "purchasing, possessing and selling morphine not in or from original stamped packages. A federal officer was quoted as saying "this dope situation in Prestonsburg is pitiful." County Judge E. P. Hill accompanied Sheriff Dial Salisbury and deputies to Harold, there to confiscate 26 half-gallon fruit jars of moonshine whiskey and capture one prisoner. The Judge finished the evening's work by bringing the prisoner and the whiskey from nearby Lancer on to Prestonsburg without aid. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harlowe, Mar. 25, a daughter, at Christ hospital, Cincinnati. She has been named Alice Gay; to Mr. and Mrs. Howard Brown, at their home here, Mar. 25, a son, Joe Norris; to Mr. and Mrs. R. V. May, a daughter, March 6, at Paintsville hospital. She has been named Elizabeth Archer. There died: Mrs. Alma Preston Shoffer, 40, of Allen, at her home at Allen; Mrs. Jeff Skeans, of Bays' Branch, near Cliff, at her home; Mrs. Levi Strickland, 69, Lancer, at home.

Letters to the Editor

Discusses Martin Situation

I found past Martin City Attorney John Caudill's comment that he would "not become involved in petty, small-town politics" quite interesting and cannot but wonder if the reason is because the present city administration was not a financial backer of his law partner's recent state race.

The issues the City of Martin is trying to deal with are anything but "petty" to those of us who live here, and Mr. Caudill's resignation is but one example of why the "faults of the prior administration" remain to be corrected. The first two meetings of the council (which are all Mr. Caudill had to draw from in forming his opinion of the present council) reflected many concerns but decisions were made unanimously. The council is one this city can be proud of, I think. They were elected for the persons they are and the concerns they represent, not as a bunch of yes-men. It is only natural, and indeed healthy, to have different views and ideas expressed. The fact that after the expression of these concerns the group can come to conclusions satisfactory to all is a real credit to them and those who elected them.

The catch seems to be that city employees and appointees of the past administration are unwilling to cooperate with the council. Martin Water Works is a municipally owned system and its books and operations should be open to any Martin citizen. Yet the Water Commission chairman has not yet attended any council meetings, provided any of the requested information on customers, their water usage and bills, and can only "hope" that the report due last October will be ready for the "next council meeting." Employees of the Water Works were outraged when the system was tested for contamination but would anyone have known even that "one site" was contaminated, had not a baby become sick and its doctor used his expertise to investigate the source of the sickness? Wouldn't all of us rather boil our water when there's the slightest question of contamination, and hope that those in charge would inform us accordingly as soon as possible? Wouldn't we like to see the day when the Water Works employees gladly allowed the system to be tested, confident that the water quality itself would testify to their responsible management of it, and also when the superintendent could not shut down the plant simply because he was angry?

There are other things we, the people of Martin, want to see. These things have been voiced at the meeting and the council has moved and seconded that action be taken. We need a city attorney and clerk to carry them out. We need the continued support of citizens at council meetings, prompt payment of their taxes and perhaps some voluntary action on that which remains undone. We need real cooperation, not lip service, from the Water Works. And we need to quit criticizing this administrator and work with it.

nothing left for construction," he warned. Howard added that highway planners have concluded that during the decade of the '80's, there will be an average shortfall of $300 million facing the construction program which has already been laid out.

On a slightly brighter note, Howard said that the department "has been making a number of economies in order to live within our means." Payroll reduction, cut-backs on fuel use and a reduced motor pool were among saving strategies currently being practiced by the department, he said.

If the highway program is to receive additional funding in the coming decade, Howard said, a number of alternative sources are available. Alternative funding possibilities such as the following could go a long way toward "taking up the slack" in the department, according to Howard, are:

1. Charging the debt retirement obligations of the Kentucky Turnpike Authority to the general fund, not the road fund. Such a strategy would free $54 million for the highway program, Howard said.

2. Adding to or charging the character of the motor fuel tax. (The administration favors a percentage tax of 9 per cent per gallon on the wholesale price paid by each individual station.)

3. Increasing the cost of registration of all motor vehicles, personal cars and trucks.

"Obviously, there are other possibilities including provision for some part of highway program support by the general fund," said Howard who called on "all Kentuckians who are in a position of political, social or economic leadership...to give serious thought to this problem and undertake to assume an active role in shaping public opinion and solving this problem."

STUDY WITH DENTISTS

Pam Atzinger and Anna Garrett are dental hygiene students from the University of Louisville studying with local dentists.

Pam Atzinger is with Dr. Howard Higgins of the Big Sandy Health Care Inc., Salyersville. Anna Garrett is with Dr. Fred Meece of Prestonsburg.

The students' study here will include a look at rural practice and the need for dental hygienists.

The students' stay in the area is coordinated by the Big Sandy/FIVCO Area Health Education System, which is a program of the Council on Higher Education funded by the state.

Reports Police Attack

While driving to Pikeville at the junction of routes 80 and 23 I was shocked to see a policeman pull his car off the road, open the rear door and begin to strike the occupant of the rear seat. It's bad enough that no care was taken to hide such a violent outburst of temper and it's worse to think what is done in private. I don't defend the lawbreaker in police custody, but what insult could make a law enforcement officer act so rashly, with his partner looking on, apparently giving approval?

I would not want to be protected by such officers if self-control meant all the difference in a critical situation, as it so often does. A policeman is governed by laws, as we are, and has no right to act otherwise.

squadron of pine siskins. The evening grosbeaks didn't make it back, but these dainty siskins, with black-and-white decorating an almost solid coat of soft olive, are excellent substitutes. They're as greedy as the grosbeaks but they don't look you in the eye and give you that look that challenges you to do something about it.

MEANINGLESS WORD

"Usury"—now, there's a word that you probably aren't acquainted with, unless you're 50 or older. Why should you?—it has no meaning, any more.

There was a time when usury (to you youngsters, it's the charging of excessive rates of interest) was illegal. I have one or more personal recollections of usurers. In that day they got around the law by charging you 10 per cent, say, but interest wasn't mentioned in the note—they simply added it to the principal.

At that, it was usury of the mildest sort, judged by modern-day standards, with the Federal Reserve itself Usurer No. 1.

Whatever may be wrong with the country, the world, the economy or anything else, don't believe these misanthropes who claim the race is getting weaker. People are stronger today than they were even five years ago. Proof: Today, almost anybody can carry with one hand $20 worth of groceries.

The suggested construction of a multi-tiered parking garage on the site of the existing municipal parking lot drew little support from downtown merchants who met to consider the proposal last week, the council was told. Cost of the garage had been put at $2½-$3 million and bond counselors have advised that financing the project would not be feasible at this time. Instead, a metered parking lot is being considered on a lot bordering Goble Street.

The council voted to increase, from 25 to 50, the number of permitted parking spaces on the existing municipal lot, and to raise the monthly permit fee from $7 to $10.

Prestonsburg will pay Floyd County Sanitation Co. $1150 monthly for use of the county landfills for the next two years, with an option to renew the contract for another eight years at $1000 a month, and then for a further 10 years at the same rate, according to an agreement entered between the city and Floyd County Sanitation owner Adrian Lafferty.

Lafferty, who holds the county franchise for garbage collection in three magisterial districts, is presently negotiating to sell his franchise back to the county in view of plans to establish a county-operated trash collection system.

Citizens wishing to appeal citations for fire code violations may now take their complaints to an appeals board established by the council. Appointed to serve on the board are City Administrator David Evans, City Attorney Paul P. Burchett, Fire Chief Tom Blackburn, and the two-city councilmen with responsibility for fire department affairs, Billy R. Collins and Dick Clark.

School Principal Told He May Seek Office in County

A school principal, as a non-merit state employee, may be a candidate for a county office and serve as such at the same time he holds his state position, according to an opinion from the attorney general's office.

The state constitution and Kentucky statute prohibit a state officer or deputy state officer from holding a county office but there is no provision prohibiting a non-merit state employee from doing this, said Walter Herdman, assistant deputy attorney general.

There may exist the possibility of a common law conflict where the individual cannot perform the duties of both offices satisfactorily; however, this must be decided on an individual case by the courts, Herdman said.

The attorney general's opinion was requested by a principal in the Floyd county school system.

Domestic Violence Bills Pass Senate

Violence within the home is often a greater threat than outside dangers, according to a recent survey sponsored by the Kentucky Commission on Women.

Two pieces of companion legislation passing the Senate last Wednesday are aimed at easing the threat of violence in Kentucky homes between husband and wife or other family members.

House Bill 86 passed 37-0, would categorize domestic abuse as a Class A misdemeanor and allow warrantless arrest of the offender. The Senate attached an amendment requiring the arresting officer to return to the home within 12 hours and obtain a signed statement from the abused person.

If the abused family member refuses to sign, then the alleged abuser is released from jail.

Sen. David Karem (D-Louisville), who spoke for HB 86, said often the abused person is too inhibited by the presence of the abuser to sign a statement or obtain a warrant while the offender is still in the home. Under the proposed law, the officer having probable cause can remove the alleged abuser, then return to the home to see if the spouse wants to pursue the matter, said Karem.

The bill, sponsored by the Interim Joint Committee on Judiciary-Statutes, now goes back to the House for concurrence on the Senate amendment.

House Bill 87, the companion measure, passed 36-0. It would allow a person who has lived in Kentucky 30 days to obtain a restraining order and to file for custody and support orders.

Raids Net One Arrest

Six raids staged last week by Sheriff Doug Lewis and deputies resulted in the confiscation of 81 cases of beer and the arrest of one man.

Deputy Sheriffs Randall Lewis, Gillis Conn and Chuck Akers arrested James Cole, of Teaberry, last Wednesday when they found 51 cases of beer in his mobile home.

Thirty cases of beer were taken by Sheriff Lewis and his father, Joe W. Lewis, in a raid on Branham's Creek last Friday. Chester Keathley, alleged owner of the trailer from which the beer was taken, was not found. Harbit Hall was arrested, Sheriff Lewis said, after he was seen pouring out wine as officers entered his home.

In all, five raids were made on Branham's Creek Friday, but searches failed to uncover any intoxicants at three places.

Eighteen cases of beer were found by the sheriff at the roadside on Stumbo Hollow, near Drift, but the owner had not been identified Monday.

Other deputies participating in the raids were Frank Hardin and Phillip Neeley.

A listing of others booked at the county jail during the past week, charges against each, and arresting officers follows:

Hardin; Jason Sammons, obstructing a public roadway, by Deputy Sheriff P. Neeley; Larry J. Porter, extreme reckless driving, by Allen policeman V. Conn; Johnny Smith, drunk driving (DUI), by Prestonsburg policeman L. Woods.

Carl, DUI, possession of marijuana, by State Trooper J. Rederick; Stallard Osborne, DUI, by Deputy Sheriff P. Neeley and Const. R. Hackworth; Kyle R. Student Vandalism Blamed in Allen Central HS Fires

Although student vandalism is nothing new in Floyd county schools or elsewhere, for that matter, the apparently deliberate setting of fires two days last week at Allen Central high school gave parents and school personnel new cause for concern.

State police arson investigators were called to the school Thursday morning after a trash can was reportedly set aflame and moved to a wall location where the flame could spread to maps and other school materials. Thursday's fire, which damaged the materials and scored a wall and ceiling, followed two minor blazes a day earlier, also apparently set by students.

One Allen Central parent said the school has been plagued with similar incidents for some time and commented, "It seems about this time of year outbreaks of this kind happen."

James A. Duff, board member from the Right Beaver school district, blamed the trouble on a small group of trouble makers at Allen Central. "The school has 600 students and 10 roughnecks," Duff said. He also pointed out that the octagonal configuration of the building and layout of halls made effective supervision of student activities difficult.

Duff explained that both incidents occurred before school buses arrived and said a "beefing up" of supervisory personnel at that time will take effect at once. He said the state police investigation had "narrowed down" suspects and vowed that the vandals, if identified, "will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law no matter who they are or who their parents are."

Duff stressed that vandalism and incidents of violence are by no means restricted to Allen Central (a locker fire was reported at Prestonsburg high school Tuesday morning), and he added, "We can't have something like this going on at Allen Central or any other school and the best way to solve the problem is to effectively prosecute."

Superintendent Pete Grigsby, Jr. said Monday he was unaware of the trouble at Allen Central but would investigate the matter.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Mrs. Lula Slade wishes to express its deep and enduring gratitude to all who were so kind upon their recent bereavement. Every expression of sympathy will be long remembered. We would especially thank the doctors and staff of Our Lady of the Way Hospital, Ella Robinson, Nora Martin, and all the friends who helped during her illness and upon her death. Again, we thank you all.

Opinion Says Judge May Be RECC Mgr.

A county judge-executive may serve as manager of a rural electric cooperative corporation with no conflict of interest, according to an opinion from the attorney general's office.

Assistant Attorney General Thomas R. Emerson said to avoid a conflict of interest problem, the person holding both positions would have to demonstrate his employment as manager of an RECC does not prevent him from properly performing the functions of county judge-executive. Emerson added that the positions are not subordinate and could, therefore, not interfere with each other.

The opinion was written in answer to a request from Roy Turner, of David.

Revival Is Scheduled At Betsy Layne Church

The Betsy Layne United Methodist Church will hold a revival, "Proclaim the Word," beginning Friday and continuing through Sunday. Evangelist for these special services at 7 p.m. each evening will be James Doughten, of Raceland. There will be special music and the public is invited to attend.

People who are not satisfied with the decision made on the claim for Medicare hospital insurance benefits have the right to question that decision, Jim Kelly, Social Security director for the Big Sandy area, said recently.

Different rules apply to claims for Medicare medical insurance.

The first thing a person should do after he or she has received a notice explaining that all or part of a claim has been disallowed is to contact a social security office of the intermediary. The insurance organization which rules on and pays hospital insurance claims. A representative will explain the provision of the Medicare law on which the decision is based. If a person still disagrees after the decision has been explained, he or she may ask that the decision be reconsidered. If all the claim was denied, the person has 60 days from the date the notice was received to request reconsideration.

When only part of a claim was denied, the person will receive two notices. He or she has 60 days from the date the second notice was received to request reconsideration. A request for reconsideration form can be obtained at any social security office or from the intermediary. A new decision will be made on the claim by people who had no part at all in making the original decision.

A person still dissatisfied with the reconsidered decision can request a hearing, provided the amount in question is $100 or more. A hearing must be requested within 60 days of the date of the notice of the reconsidered decision was received. The hearing, conducted by an administrative law judge, is an informal proceeding which you or your representative can attend, testify, and present evidence.

A person not satisfied with the hearing decision can request that it be reviewed by the Appeals Council of the Office of Hearings and Appeals. This request must be made within 60 days after the hearing decision notice is received. If the Appeals Council decides not to review the claim or it upholds the hearing decision, a person can bring suit in Federal district court provided the amount in question is $1,000 or more. The suit must be filed within 60 days of the date the notice of the Appeals Council decision is revised.

More information about hospital insurance appeals rights is the leaflet, "Your right to question the decision on your hospital insurance claim." Copies can be obtained at the Big Sandy Area Social Security Office, located between Prestonsburg and Paintsville on U.S. 23. The telephone number is listed in the local directory.

Miss Jones-Mr. Rozovitch Wed

The marriage of Miss Jennifer Gwenn Jones and Michael Rozovitch, II was solemnized in an evening ceremony February 14 at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Hill, of Abbott Rd., Prestonsburg, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Rozovitch, of Lexington, Kentucky.

Potted plants and red and white arrangements of roses, carnations and babies breath decorated the fireplace and mantle for the double-ring ceremony. Bill Campbell, minister, read the vows at 6:30 following a program of piano selections by Mrs. Wm. O. Goebel, III, sister of the bride. "You Light Up My Life" was sung by Miss Johnne E. Hill, also a sister of the bride.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in an ivory chiffon ballerina-length dress with matching cape. An ivory pill box hat with ivory net attached completed her ensemble. She carried a single large white orchid, and her only jewelry was a pair of diamond earrings, borrowed from her sister, Mrs. Brinton Camp.

Miss Cathy Lee, of Lexington, was her only attendant. She wore a pink quiana street-length dress with a corsage of white roses and carnations. Mr. Allen Saunders, of Lexington, served as best man for Mr. Rozovitch.

The bride's table, covered with white linen and lace, held a heart-shaped, three-tiered cake with fresh sweetheart roses on each tier and was encircled with babies' breath. Red and white arrangements flanked by lighted tapers in silver candelabra decorated the reception table.

Assisting at the reception were Mrs. John Sparr, Mrs. Larry Webb and Mrs. Garry Mullins.

Mrs. Rozovitch chose an ivory wool suit with brown accessories for their wedding trip to the Smoky Mountains.

Physicians from the departments of Medicine and Pediatrics at the University of Kentucky Medical Center will conduct the clinic.

Co-sponsored by the Kentucky Heart Association, the Bureau for Health Services and the County Health Departments, this clinic provides a diagnostic service for the patient along with recommendations for treatment and management of the case. Asks Insurance Co. Be Banned in State

The state Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection has asked that an insurance company's permission to operate in Kentucky be revoked because the company has failed to pay surface-mining reclamation bonds.

As a result of the department's request, the state Department of Insurance has begun an investigation of the company, Buckeye Union Insurance Co. of Columbus, Ohio.

The company issued bonds totaling $261,300 to ensure the reclamation of land that was strip mined by Dean Trucking Co. in the Cranks Creek area of Harlan County. The reclamation work was not performed.

In a letter to the Insurance Department, the office of Acting General Counsel Tom Marshall asked that action be taken against the insurance company because of its failure to pay on the reclamation surety bonds issued to the Natural Resources Department.

Reclamation of approximately 1,400 acres in the Cranks Creek watershed cannot begin until Buckeye pays the six bonds, the letter said. The general counsel's office noted that two other insurance companies which issued bonds for reclamation work in the area have paid off bonds totaling $134,500.

The Natural Resources Department ordered forfeiture of the bonds following an administrative hearing Dec. 7.

Reclamation bonds are required before the department's Bureau of Surface Mining can issue a permit to begin mining operations.

By JUDITH CARR
Rosie Reffitt is a seamstress. She likes to sew, but especially, she likes to quilt. If you have ever browsed through David Crafts' collection of quilted pillow covers, you have undoubtedly seen several that Rosie made. Like the other women working with the David Crafts group, she makes different designs, but Rosie also makes a special design that no one else makes—the Dresden Plate. Named after the famous Dresden china manufactured in Dresden, Germany, the design is a favorite of quilting collectors. Rosie makes unique quilted coasters, too.

Rosie, a resident of Little Caney, has been with the David Appalachian Crafts program since 1973, almost from its beginning. Her steady, friendly ways make her an asset to the Tuesday morning gatherings at the Center at David. Her five children are grown, leaving her with time for herself and she likes working at home on her sewing for the Crafts group. Her pillow covers and coasters are sold through the David Crafts Center to shops and at fairs all over the United States.

The David Appalachian Crafts group is a member of the Appalachian Guild of Artists and Craftsmen. The guild will sponsor an arts and crafts show, April 11-12 at the Paintsville Recreation Center on Preston Street at Paintsville. The public is invited to come and enjoy the fine arts and crafts of the people in our area. For additional information call 606-265-3245.

County Edges Nearer Public Transportation

Floyd county apparently edged closer to a public transportation system yesterday (Tuesday) when county officials agreed in principle to seek federal and state funds for such a project.

A meeting attended by County Judge-Executive Bill Wells, Martin Mayor Larry B. Hall, Big Sandy Area Development District planners, and representatives of various social service agencies heard Bill Smith, of the state Department of Transportation, outline a program which makes federal and state monies available for public transportation systems in rural areas.

The program, authorized under Section 18 of the 1978 Urban Mass Transit Act, is designed to improve the access of rural people to health care, education, shopping, recreation, public services, and jobs, by subsidizing public transportation in those areas.

Under the program, the federal government will assume 80 percent of capital expenditures, 80 percent of administrative costs, and 50 percent of net operating costs. The state government will assume 10 percent of capital costs.

Agencies presently operating buses for their clients and private taxi owners might participate in such a program, Smith said, but all vehicles in the program would have to be open to the general public.

A committee is to be formed to develop a proposal to be submitted for funding under the program.

New Documentaries Shown on Public TV

Independent producers get a new showcase for their work when "Non-Fiction Television" premieres on KET, Friday, April 4 at 9 p.m.

The series of twelve documentaries presents the work of innovative video and film producers who delve into subjects ranging from tap dancing to the activities of the Central Intelligence Agency.

In the first program of the series, "Deadly Force," the one-hour special raises the question of police accountability in cases where undue force is used to subdue unarmed suspects.

Later in the season, "Non-Fiction Television" encores the Emmy Award-winning "Paul Jacobs and the Nuclear Gang." The documentary deals with an investigative reporter's account of the long-range effects of low-level radiation and the alleged attempts by government agencies to keep that information from the American people.

(2), and must be forwarded to the Director of Permits, Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

Notice is hereby provided pursuant to 30 CFR 715.13 (d)(10) and KRS 350 that the proposed post mining land use does not constitute a change from the premining land use. Public comment regarding a proposed change in land use may be submitted to the address listed above. 3-19-21.

Lawmakers Come from Diverse Occupations

Who is the typical state legislator? He is an attorney with a medical degree who sells real estate and moonlights as an engineer and a school administrator. On Sunday, he preaches.

In other words, the occupations of legislators are about as diverse as those of the people the Kentucky General Assembly represents.

Some may believe the House and Senate are composed mostly of lawyers. The legal profession is well represented—22 in the House and 15 in the Senate—but legislators come from all professions.

The membership rolls include industrial maintenance workers, and LP gas distributor and a weekly newspaper publisher. Farming is represented in both houses, and several lawmakers are merchants. A couple are real miners.

The General Assembly also counts among its members a physician, a dentist and a veterinarian, as well as a health clinic administrator.

Attending General Assembly sessions while holding down a full-time job can be difficult, legislators have said in recent interviews.

Rep. Dottie Priddy of Louisville says she's more fortunate than some of her colleagues because her business interests are mostly seasonal. She owns a display business in Louisville.

When the legislature is in session, she designs displays on weekends and evenings. She goes home weekends to deal with urgent business matters, she said.

"I really don't have a problem (managing) in my type of business," she said.

Rep. Bill Weinberg of Hindman, a lawyer, said he counts on his law partners to help oversee his caseload while he is in Frankfort for the 60-day session.

Sometimes, he must ask judges to reschedule his court appearances, he said.

Sen. John Trevey is an occupational physician for International Business Machines Corp. in Lexington.

When the General Assembly is in session, Trevey said, he either takes vacation time from his job, works at his office before or after the daily Senate session or takes time off without pay. His medical staff helps him keep up with his practice at IBM, he said.

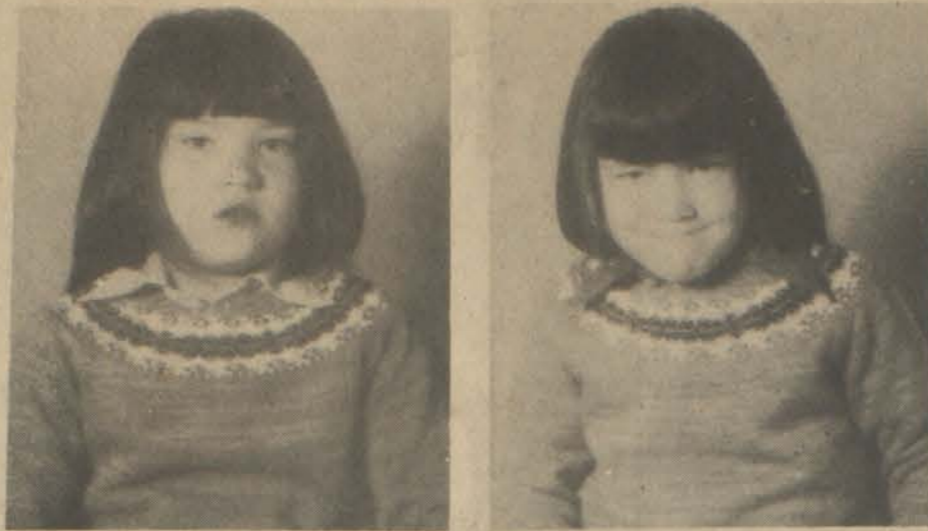

Dealing with the demands of both the legislature and his practice is difficult, but Sen. Trevey said he "enjoys working long hours."

Some legislators said skills in their work often helps in their legislative duties.

Sen. Gene Huff of London is a minister. He noted that reporters voted him the best Senate orator in 1974.

Asked if his speechmaking skills in the legislature were fostered by his years of preaching he said with a smile, "I think there's a carryover."

Pharmacy Footnotes

by HAROLD COOLEY

Gout has some characteristics which make it stand out among rheumatic diseases. It has a tendency to affect a big toe although fingers and knees may also be affected. Approximately 95 to 97 percent of the cases are in men. It is most frequently found in inactive, heavy eaters and usually occurs after age forty-five. The presence of excess amounts of uric acid in the body is usually associated with the diseases. The excess acid causes the formation of crystal deposits in a joint. Fortunately, gout usually responds quickly to medical treatment.

Many diseases or maladies respond quickly to medical treatment, and part of this treatment will usually involve some interaction with your pharmacist. At COOLEY APOTHECARY INC., No. 2 Town Center Bldg. (886-8106) we're your one-stop pharmaceutical center, where all your prescription and over-the-counter needs can be fulfilled at once. Economy and service are our best advertising, and personal attention to our customers' needs is our hallmark.

Seek Opportunities for Women

The year ahead will be one of noteworthy activity for the U.S. Department of Labor's Women's Bureau, according to its director, Alexis M. Herman.

Bureau plans for the year include highlighting employment-related efforts and concerns of women, advocating programs which address those concerns, and involvement in training and employment programs which serve the needs of women workers.

At a briefing for labor editors in Washington, Herman recapped some of the gains made by women in the 70's, and discussed current priority programs being conducted by the Women's Bureau. She also highlighted special activities scheduled for early spring which involve the Women's Bureau and the department.

Focusing on events scheduled for April, Herman said the U.S. Labor Department's headquarters building in Washington, D.C., is being named for the first woman Cabinet Secretary and the only woman who has served as Secretary of Labor, Frances Perkins. Herman said, "The occasion will also serve to point out some of the lasting and significant contributions Perkins made to improve the lives of all American workers."

This April in Paris, the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD) will hold its Conference on Women's Employment, Herman said.

"It will be a historic meeting and of great significance to women around the world because it is the first time the OECD has focused a conference on women's employment issues at the ministerial level," Herman said. Secretary of Labor Ray Marshall will lead the U.S. Delegation and will serve as one of the two vice presidents of the conference.

Using the achievements and shortcomings of the '70s as hindsight, and focusing on the bureau's objectives for this year, Herman said: "The bureau's initiatives for 1980 reflect our commitment to expand employment opportunities for all women and especially for those who encounter particular disadvantages in the labor market."

Herman's recap of the gains women have made in the past decade. They accounted for about three-fifths of the total labor force growth.

Herman commented that forecasts indicate this pattern will continue during the '80s, when the female labor force could increase from the present 44 million to 57 million. She noted that 2 million minority women entered the work force during the 70's. They represented 16 percent of all women entrants and brought the total number of minority women workers to 5.9 million.

Educational attainment increased for women workers from a median of 12.4 years to 12.6 years during the decade.

Herman said that gains in the higher-paying occupational groups occurred among managers and administrators. Women increased their share these of jobs by over 9 percentage points.

She explained that women now hold one-fourth of all managerial jobs. Among minority women there was a 154 percent growth in the number holding managerial positions; however, the number rose to only 175,000.

Significant gains were also made in politics, in both elected and appointed offices. The number of women serving in State legislatures more than doubled from 305 in 1969 to 767 in 1979, according to Herman.

Herman noted that during the 1970s legal actions that affected women included an amendment to Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 which prohibits discrimination based on pregnancy.

The federal minimum wage and hour law was also amended and coverage was extended to large numbers of additional workers, many of whom are women.

The Department of Labor issued regulations setting goals and timetables to increase the participation of women in apprenticeship and construction work.

Herman also cited the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA), which was revised to include a number of provisions to improve the status of disadvantaged women.

All of these changes, Herman explained, have contributed to the larger role that women have in the labor force today. She said, "Despite this profile of progress, far too many women workers still find their opportunities limited and their welfare threatened economically."

The Women's Bureau's major objective is to improve the economic status of women by participating in the development of policy and programs which have an impact on women's training and employment-related needs, Herman said.

"To accomplish this objective, the bureau works not only with department of labor agencies but also with union women, community groups, women's organizations, and others," she told the editors.

The Women's Bureau's current priorities relate to such issues as the entrance of more women into nontraditional jobs, the earnings gap between women and men, child care for the children of working parents, safety and health in the workplace, and equal pay for work of comparable value. The bureau is also concerned about the treatment of women in pension and social security systems and sexual harassment of women on the job.

In addition, the bureau continues to focus on groups of women with limited access to opportunities, those and who experience difficulty in obtaining training or jobs or advancement in their present employment, such as minority women, mature women including displaced homemakers, women offenders, low income, teenage, and rural women, and women in business.

Despite the fact that tremendous numbers of women are entering the work force, many are coming in at or near the entry level of jobs. And while more and more women are moving into higher paying nontraditional occupations, over half of all employed women are in just 20 occupations, most of which are related to homemaking tasks and support roles like clerical work, Herman said.

Herman said, "We are greatly concerned about the concentration of women in the low paying traditional jobs because it places a particular economic burden upon women, especially those who are heads of families."

While the median earnings of women who worked full time year round in 1978 were about $9,300, there were many women heads of families who earned less than the poverty level of about $6,600. Over 31 percent of the 8.5 million families headed by women had incomes below the poverty level. This was, however, a slight decrease from 33 percent in 1970. Over half of all families headed by black women are poor.

Q "We just got married and are planning to buy a house and start a family. We want to start a savings account, too. But we're wondering how much to save each month?"

A "This is, of course, a personal decision that depends on your income and lifestyle. But there are some rules of thumb for the 'average family'. Try to put between five and ten percent of your monthly income (after taxes) into a regular savings account. (Hint: consider an automatic savings plan so you're not tempted to spend.) Let this account build up until you have three to six months of your salary (after taxes). Keep this amount in a regular savings account as a cushion against emergencies, but let the build-up continue. From time to time, 'skim off' any excess and put it into a higher yielding certificate of deposit. This money, then, can be used to finance your home, send the kids to college, etc."

Will Help Teachers Use Environment

The U.S. Forestry Service, the U.S. Soil Conservation Service and the Kentucky Division of Conservation are teaming up with the Kentucky Department of Education to help Eastern Kentucky's teachers more effectively use their environment as a teaching tool.

Quicksand (Breathitt County) has been named as the site of a three-day workshop set for July 11-13. The workshop, open to any primary, elementary or secondary teacher in Eastern Kentucky, will focus on using the environment to teach basic subjects.

The workshop will include soil, forest and water studies at Robinson Forest near Quicksand. On-site study of current strip mining and reclamation techniques will be held. Teachers attending will receive free environmental education materials and may receive college credit for the workshop through Morehead State University.

Enrollment in the workshop is limited. Organizers suggest that interested teachers register immediately. For more information on the workshop, contact Nancy Theiss, Environmental Education Program Manager, Kentucky Department of Education, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

Know What You're Buying in Alterations

Since the human body comes in so many shapes and sizes, it's not surprising that many off-the-rack garments require some alteration before they fit properly.

Bette Jo Dedic, an Extension specialist in clothing with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, offers some advice to those who must have new garments altered or old clothes modified.

First, consider tackling the job yourself. "There's nothing wrong with top-stitched hems for many of today's clothes," points out Dedic. Also, there are many home sewing products that don't require sewing, such as for attaching buttons or fusible webs for some hem.

"Follow directions on these products," cautions the specialist.

If you don't want to tackle the job yourself or don't have confidence in your ability, Dedic advises checking around on businesses and individuals who do alterations, looking at both price and quality. Ask to see samples of the work.

This advice becomes valuable when considering the cost of out-of-home alteration work.

In a recent random survey of alteration shops in Lexington, clothing specialists found that an A-line skirt hem—no pleats, slits or lining—costs a minimum of $6. The minimum for a coat hem varied from $12 to $16.

The cost of replacing a zipper in a skirt ranged from $2.50 to $7 minimum. And replacing a zipper in men's pants costs $1 to $5, although the cost of zipper replacement depends on the weight of the zipper and type of application.

The specialists themselves place a conservative value of $1 on such minor mending repairs as sewing up a seam, putting on a button, fixing a buttonhole, putting on a patch or mending a tear. (Costs for all jobs will vary statewide.)

Three common alteration jobs involve hems, zippers and general fit. For any job, Dedic says if you don't know what a garment should look like, compare it with something ready-made. "It can be a problem, for instance, when a person doesn't know what a good hem should look like; that stitches shouldn't show from the outside unless topstitched or decorative trim is applied.

For hems, the specialist says that generally, the fuller the garment at the lower edge, the more narrow the hem should be to avoid bulk. A lot of heavy lines should not show from the outside and stitches should be loose enough not to cause dimpling. If the fabric is such that hem edges tend to ravel, then some finish should be applied to prevent it.

If a garment has pleats, the facing should lie smoothly and pleats should be well-pressed, adds Dedic.

When a zipper is involved, Dedic says there's not much to look for when determining if a job is well-done. "Stitches should be straight and secure and teeth shouldn't show at all unless it's a garment where they are intended to show."

With back zippers, upper edges should be of the same height, and if the zipper is centered instead of lapped, it should lie flat. Overall, be sure the zipper locks and is the right weight for the garment.

Men and women often bring fitting problems to those who do alteration work. Noting that fit is very personal and cultural, Dedic says a common problem is that those who do alterations tend to fit garments too tightly.

When you have a garment with wrinkles that go across the body, that indicates a too tight fit. Vertical wrinkles indicate too much fullness, and diagonal wrinkles usually point directly to the source of the problem. Side seams shouldn't sway to the back or front but should fall straight. Darts should point to the fullest part of the bust. And the end of long sleeves should hit the wristbone when the elbow is bent.

"You'll always find people with fitting problems," comments Dedic. "These people don't really have any choice but to have alterations done."

However, she says a lot of alteration time and money can be saved by selecting a design and fabric that requires less alteration. For example, women with waistline problems can choose no-waist garments that are belted.

★ Kentucky Afield ★

By JOHN WILSON

Kentucky's 1980 trout program gets underway March 31, when over 1,000 rainbow trout will be stocked into the tailwaters of Lake Cumberland. By April 10, all streams, lakes and tailwaters in the commonwealth should have received their first shipment of trout.

By the end of October, the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources will have stocked over 335,000 catchable rainbow trout in Kentucky waters. "Catchable" by the way, refers to the size of the fish (around nine inches, on the average), not to any genetic engineering designed to make life easier for fisherman.

Since this appears to be developing into a cold, wet spring, there might not be many other angling opportunities around when the trout trucks start rolling. So if you're itching to get in some fishing, you might give trout a try.

Your regular fishing tackle will probably catch trout, so the only additional equipment you'll need is a trout stamp, available for $3.00 at all county clerk's offices and at most places where fishing licenses are sold. (This stamp must be affixed to your fishing license and signed.)

The favorite baits among Kentucky trout fishermen are worms, whole kernel corn and small balls of cheese. Small spinners and crankbaits are the choices with flyrods in Kentucky, there's no reason fly fishing shouldn't work just as well here as it does elsewhere.

While some trout fishermen like to be at the stocking site when the truck arrives, the best fishing is usually a few days later, when the crowds have thinned out somewhat, the trout have scattered up and down the creek and have gotten over the shock of being transported.

It's necessary to stock trout on an annual basis in Kentucky because not enough suitable spawning areas exist for more than very limited natural reproduction. Trout can serve year-round in the waters where they are stocked and "hold-over" trout of over 14 pounds have been taken in Kentucky.

Most of the waters stocked with trout are too cold and infertile to support fishable populations of warm-water fish such as bass or crappie. These waters include mountain streams, spring-fed creeks and the tailwaters below large dams, where cold-water discharges from the lakes create good conditions for trout.

The trout themselves are obtained free from the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. Kentucky's trout now come from the new Wolf Creek federal hatchery near Jamestown. The fees collected from trout stamp sales pay the costs of hauling and stocking the trout, with some money left over for other fish and wildlife projects.

Because the growth rate—and hence the availability—of trout in the hatchery is determined by the weather, it's impossible to make out a specific stocking schedule too far in advance. Actual stocking dates therefore are set on a monthly basis. So the guide to Kentucky trout waters (which you can obtain by writing the Department of Fish and Wildlife, Frankfort, KY 40601) will show only the months each water is stocked.

There are 49 stocked trout streams in Kentucky, counting 19 in the Daniel Boone National Forest stocked by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. Nine tailwaters and 12 lakes also receive trout, so you could be closer to some good trout fishing than you suspect.

Stories By Wright, Hemingway on KET

Ernest Hemingway's "Soldier Home" and Richard Wright's "Almos' A Man" are featured in an encore presentation of "The American Short Story" on KET, Monday, March 31 at 10 p.m.

Harold Krebs, the protagonist of Hemingway's story, is a soldier who returns home a year too late from service in World War I. The parades, the banners and the hurrahs for returning heroes are over.

"This unusual Hemingway story is set firmly in its period," says Robert Geller, executive producer of "The American Short Story" and author of the teleplay for "Soldier's Home." However, Geller continues, "It stirs haunting echoes of a more recent event—the gradual, week-by-week return of American soldiers from Vietnam."

"After the return of the first POW's was cheered, the arrival of the foot soldiers was without-widespread public recognition then, too," Geller says.

It was Krebs' modern plight—the need for time to sort things out—plus a particular fondness for the story that led Geller to write the teleplay.

"Soldier's Home" shares the bill with Wright's "Almos' A Man." LeVar Burton, who starred as young Kunta Kinte in Alex Haley's "Roots," shows the range of his acting skills as he portrays a teenage farmworker in the Deep South three or four decades ago.

Geller points out differences in Burton's roles, explaining, "In 'Roots,' Burton portrayed a young man filled with hope—destined, he is sure, to be a warrior and a leader. That hope was torn from him."

"In 'Almos' A Man,' he plays another young man, Dave, who is nearing adulthood—but without hope, expecting to continue his present life behind the plow. In the Wright story, he only fantasizes the future."

To Dave, the passage to manhood is symbolized by the possession of a hand gun and by his determined efforts to master the weapon.

"The American Short Story" is a production of Learning In Focus, Inc., and is presented on public television by South Carolina Educational Television (SCETV).

Then from 5 to 11 p.m., the rates change. But you still get the 35% evening discount on 1 + dialed calls.

Check the front pages of your phone book for all the great rates.

And call early on Sunday to save the most.

Reach out with long distance. And save when rates are great.

*Low 1+ rates do not apply to person-to-person, coin, hotel guest, credit card or collect calls, calls charged to another number, or calls to Alaska or Hawaii.

Mining Rules Hearing Set Here April 8

Citizens will have an opportunity to help shape the surface coal-mining regulatory package at four public meetings to be held in April, announced Jackie Swigart, secretary of the state Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection. One of the meetings is set for April 8, at Prestonsburg Community College, at 7 p.m.

"We are confident that Kentucky can earn the right to enforce our own surface mining regulations," Swigart said, "and this is a major step in that direction." She said the public review period "will give the department an opportunity to present the regulatory package that our staff has worked so long and hard to produce."

The 1,600-page package, which is designed to give the state "primacy" or primary responsibility for regulating strip mining and the surface effects of underground mining, was submitted to the federal Office of Surface Mining on March 1. The department has until June 15 to make changes in the regulatory package.

"I hope that people will take advantage of this opportunity to make their concerns known and also let our people calm some fears," Swigart said.

The package includes a copy of the surface-mining bill now before the General Assembly, regulations to be adopted pursuant to that bill after it becomes a law and a description of the regulatory authority to be assumed by the Natural Resources Department.

It also describes the proposed methods of handling permits, bonds, fees, inspections, violations, coordination with other agencies, public participation, designation of lands unsuitable for mining, employee conflict of interest, technical training and certification, administrative and judicial review, and assistance to small coal operators.

Officials from the department's Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement will present the plan, answer questions and receive comments on the proposed permanent coal regulations during the meetings.

Copies of the weighty regulations will be available in the department's regional offices by March 18. In most other coal-producing counties where there are no Natural Resources Department field offices, the regulations will be available in public libraries.

Comments about the regulations can be made at the meetings or mailed to Ed Hartowicz, Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, Sixth Floor, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

Foodstamp Office Feedback Requested

The Department for Human Resources wants to know what the public thinks about two aspects of its food stamp program—the location of the local food stamp offices and the hours of those offices are open for business.

Until April 10 the department's food stamp branch will be soliciting public comment as part of a county-by-county needs assessment. The purpose, according to branch manager Lela Bentley, is to determine the extent of state compliance with federal regulations and to identify areas in which additional services are needed.

Persons with comments and suggestions concerning the location and business hours of local food stamp offices are asked to mail them to Mrs. Bentley at the Department for Human Resources, Food Stamp Branch, 275 E. Main St., Frankfort, Ky. 40621.

Artists Sought For Classroom Program

For the past decade, Kentucky's professional artists have been visiting the commonwealth's classrooms, involving students, teachers, and community members in the excitement of the arts through the artists-in-the-schools program. The Kentucky Arts Commission, which administers the program in cooperation with the National Endowment for the Arts and the U.S. Office of Education, is once again looking for artists interested in spending some of the up-coming school year continuing this successful program. Artists-in-the-school residencies are available in poetry, creative writing, visual arts, film and media, folk arts, dance and architecture. Each residency is unique and is tailored to meet the needs of the school and of the artist serving that school. All residencies share the program's goals of enriching the education process and the existing arts program found in the school, sharing the experience of artistic creation and self-expression, and helping the community served as an "art resource."

Artists interested in serving in the program must apply to the Kentucky Arts Commission by May 1. Applicants within each program category will be reviewed by a panel of educators and professionals. Artists will be judged on the quality of their work and on their ability to communicate to the students the ideas and processes involved in their work. For further information on the program or an application, contact: Nancy Carpenter, Kentucky Arts Commission, 302 Wilkinson Street, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

It highlights seven internationally known interpreters of Bach, including Peter Schreier (evangelist), Ernest Gerold Schramm (Jesus), Sigmund Nimsgern (Betrus Pilatus), Helen Gurnath (soprano aria), Julia Hamara (alto aria), Horace R. Laubthel (tenor aria), and Peter Enger (bass aria). "Bach: St. John Passion" was videotaped at the Church of the Cloister, Driessen am Ammersee. "Great Performances" is a production of WNET/New York.

CONSUMER COMMENT

By ATTORNEY GENERAL STEVEN L. BESHEAR

Most consumers will take advantage of reduced prices wherever they can find them. The terms "wholesale" and "wholesale prices" are generally thought of as representing lower rates. However, consumers should be aware there are specific laws concerning the use of these terms. "Wholesale" means to sell in quantity or bulk for purpose of resale at retail. "Wholesale price" refers to the price fixed on goods or merchandise by one who buys in large quantities from the producer or manufacturer and who sells these goods in quantity or bulk to retail dealers for purpose of resale. Licensed wholesalers are not prohibited from making sales to individual consumers. However, it is unlawful for any wholesaler who also sells to individual consumers to advertise such sales at prices other than retail. The publisher of such an advertisement may also be in violation of this statute if he knowingly publishes an ad which does not conform to the provisions of the statute. Furthermore, it is unlawful to use the word "wholesale" in a business or corporate name or the word "wholesaler" in any way describing his business, unless the person is in fact engaged in the wholesale business. There is nothing wrong with selling goods at wholesale prices as long as such sales are to retailers. However, these terms can be misleading. The wise consumer will always investigate before he buys. If you have a consumer complaint, write the Office of the Attorney General, Division of Consumer Protection, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

Gas Tax, Severance Tax Bills Approved by House Committee

Bills that would revise the state gasoline tax, put a severance on all minerals and set up a local government economic assistance fund were approved by the House Appropriations and Revenue Committee last week.

The bills, proposed by Gov. John Y. Brown Jr., have already had two of their required three readings in the House of Representatives and has been returned to the committee for final consideration.

The committee approved House Bill 973 which would change the state tax on motor fuels from a nine-cent a gallon tax to a tax of nine percent on the wholesale price of fuel. However, the members agreed to put a lid of $1.50 per gallon on the maximum taxable amount that could be charged in the fiscal year ending July 1, 1981. Further, they amended the bill to allow a 10 percent a year increase in the tax thereafter with the taxable amount rising to $1.65 by July 1, 1982.

The committee also changed the formula for distributing the state gas tax to local governments. Previously allocations to localities were based on a percentage of the nine-cent tax. These were changed to a percentage of total receipts with secondary and rural roads receiving 22 percent, county roads and bridges receiving 15.6 percent and urban roads and streets receiving 6.7 percent.

Since the figures are rounded off to the next higher tenth of a percent, under the proposal local governments would receive a slightly higher percentage of the tax than they are currently getting.

The committee rejected an amendment proposed by state Transportation Secretary Frank Metts that would have put an expiration date on the 2 percent surcharge on gasoline that truckers will be charged. (They are currently assessed a two-cent a gallon surcharge. Metts said, but the tax is difficult to collect.)

The committee also gave its approval to another revenue measure, HB 968, which would put a severance tax on all minerals or natural resources in the state. The original version of the bill would have put a 7.5 percent tax on natural gas and a 5 percent on all other natural resources. As amended by the committee today, the bill would tax natural resources at 4.5 percent.

EXPERT ON EXPLORER, DIES

Ernest S. Dodge, noted authority on 18th century explorer Capt. James Cook and director of the Peabody Museum, is dead at age 66.

Dodge was the author of eight books on the early history of the Pacific Ocean and was considered a world expert on ethnological material collected by Cook of whom he wrote: "Capt. Cook discovered more islands, surveyed more coasts, charted more waters, and cleared up more geographical nonsense than any single man before or since."

BY LARRY BURKE

Someone said years ago: "An adult who ceases after youth to unlearn and relearn his facts, and to reconsider his opinions, is like a blindfolded person walking into a familiar room where some-one has moved the furniture."

Life changes! When we were children it seemed like five years elapsed between Christmas and the Fourth of July. Today we can scarcely turn around until another year has passed. This is a case of relearning the facts. It is not that Christmas is of any less importance to us, but that each day, each hour has more value to us, and we are more concerned with the activities of the present than the months of the future.

The happiest of all people are those who say: "There just aren't enough hours in the day." It is a way of saying—"I failed to do all the wonderful things today I wanted to do."

OUR THOUGHT TO REMEMBER: Break time into bits, and enjoy every morsel to its fullest.

Picking Forgeries Is Crime Lab Task

People's signatures are like snowflakes—no two are exactly alike.

The variations in a person's signature make forgery a difficult crime to prove. The burden of proof in forgery cases in Kentucky rests on the shoulders of two Lawrenceburg men employed at the state police central crime lab in Frankfort.

Fred H. Thomas and Phillip D. McCormick are the document examiners for the Kentucky State Police central crime lab.

Recently state police Commissioner Kenneth Brandenburg recognized the two men for their work in document examination. The two are the only document examiners in Kentucky certified to testify in court by the American Board of Forensic Document Examiners. The board has certified 120 document examiners in the United States.

Last year Thomas and McCormick handled 600 cases involving more than 13,000 pieces of evidence. Together they ran more than 25,000 tests on the exhibits. The cases involved more than a quarter of a million dollars.

"About 98 percent of the cases we handle deal with food stamps and forged checks," Thomas said. "Occasionally we examine suicide notes, anonymous threat letters and counterfeits."

Few of the forgeries are done by professionals, Thomas said. Most are done by local people and involve small amounts of money.

Sometimes a case will involve a large sum. McCormick, who has worked at the lab for five and a half years, recalled a case in which the smallest check was for $10,000.

A female bank employee was forging her husband's name on promissory notes. When her husband found out, she shot him. McCormick's testimony that the woman had forged the notes gave police the motive for the murder.

Occasionally Thomas and McCormick are involved in a murder or rape case. By examining hotel registers, they can sometimes place a suspect at the scene of the crime.

Thomas and McCormick handle all the cases for the state police. They also work on cases for public defenders and city, county and municipal police departments.

"We can't always make a positive identification," Thomas said. "Document examination is not an exact science. The lab chemists can tell you exactly what's in a particular drug sample and how much there is."

"But many things affect a person's handwriting," he continued. "For instance, we handle a lot of credit card cases. Often the receipt is signed on the steering wheel of a car. The space is small, so the person has to compress his signature. If the car is running, the vibration alters the signature."

"In these cases we only have the carbon copy to work from. One time I made positive identification on 65 out of 88 credit card receipts in a case. I felt like I had done a good job," Thomas said.

Before a document examiner makes a positive identification on a signature, every aspect of the exhibit and the sample handwriting must match exactly with no unexplainable differences.

"Sometimes we have to say it's highly probable the suspect wrote this. Sometimes we have to admit that we can't say with the samples we have to work with," Thomas said.

In one case that sounds like a segment from the TV show "Quincy," Thomas kept delaying his decision. The investigating officer became angry, especially with Thomas' requests for more handwriting samples.

"The writing was just too close to say. The case only involved a few hundred dollars in checks. Finally I took a guess and asked the officer for samples of handwriting from the suspect's family. It was a lucky guess. A sister was forging the checks," he said.

In the past year Thomas and McCormick have been getting an increasing number of forged prescriptions to examine. "You can imagine what trying to identify a doctor's signature is like," McCormick quipped.

Job security is something the two men aren't worried about, according to McCormick. "As the economy gets worse, more people try to get away with forging checks. We keep busy," he said.

New Family Drama Comes To KET

A new family drama premieres on KET, Saturday, April 5 at 9 p.m. The drama, "A Gift To Last," is the story of the hardships and pioneer spirit of a Canadian family in the early 1900's.

In the first of 13 one-hour episodes, the Sturgess family meets for a picnic near their hometown of Tamarack, a small community in southwestern Ontario. Harrison Sturgess, his wife Clara, and their two children—Claire and Clement—are the picture of a perfectly contented Victorian family.

But the picture is soon shattered with the death of Harrison Sturgess and the struggle of the surviving family to face the rugged frontier life alone.

Immediate help comes in the person of Harrison's brother, Edgar, played by the series' creator, Gordon Pinsent. Edgar, a sergeant in the Royal Canadian Army, offers a source of strength for his brother's family as they seek to make the difficult adjustment of strength from a secure past to an insecure future.

Also on hand to lend support to the family are Harrison's mother, Lizzy Sturgess, and his other brother, James, who is also part owner of the family tannery.

Later episodes of "A Gift To Last" follow the crises, heartbreaks and triumphs in the struggle to survive the rugged frontier life.

"A Gift To Last" is a production of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

TV News Staffs Grow 100% In Last 7 Years, Study Says

The number of television stations employing a full-time news staff of 20 or more people jumped 100 percent during the last several years, a new study says.

In contrast, radio news staff have shown little significant growth, according to the Radio-Television News Directors Association.

The association's 1979 survey found that almost a third of television stations now employ 20 or more people full-time to gather and report the news.

The study is based on responses from 473 commercial television stations and 400 radio outlets around the country.

Drift Store Among Four Cited For Violations

Four eastern Kentucky grocery stores have been barred from accepting food stamps because of violations, the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Food and Nutrition Service reports.

The stores, which had been charged with selling ineligible items for food stamps were listed as follows: Pelfrey Grocery, Star Route 1, Jackson, owned by Russell Pelfrey, disqualified for six months, starting Feb. 4; Slone's Grocery, Drift, owned by Bonnetta Slone, disqualified for a year, starting Feb. 4; Baker's Grocery, Hindman, owned by Clyde Baker, disqualified for six months, starting Feb. 4; Mike Caudill's Grocery, Jackson, owned by Mike Caudill, disqualified for six months, starting Feb. 29.

Robert L. Cunningham, who is in charge of the Prestonsburg field office of the Food and Nutrition Service, said the stores will not be allowed to accept food stamps during their respective disqualification periods.

To Conduct Services

Six nights of special spiritual emphasis services are to be held at the Vogel-Day United Methodist Church at Harold, from Sunday, March 30 through Friday, April 4, at 7 p.m. each evening.

Guest minister will be the Rev. Sam Glenn, an evangelist with the Kentucky Conference of the United Methodist Church. Rev. Glenn is a 1971 graduate of Asbury College and a 1975 graduate of Asbury Theological Seminary. He served four years as pastor of the Paintsville-Mayo United Methodist Church, Kentucky before becoming a full-time evangelist.

These six evenings of special services are in close conjunction with the "Proclaim The Word Event" being held in the Southeastern Jurisdiction of the United Methodist Church, comprising 17 annual conferences, a 163 districts, 7,663 pastoral charges, and covering 9 states.

The pastor and the members of the Vogel-Day United Methodist Church welcome and invite the public to attend.

N. KOREA SAYS WAR GAMES 'GRAVE CHALLENGE' TO PEACE

North Korea claimed Saturday that the winter war games staged by the U.S. Marines near the dematerized zone dividing North and South Korea were a "grave challenge" to the recently reopened contacts between the two Koreas.

North Korea's official Rodong Sinmun newspaper said the six-week "Magex-80" operation, which ended Friday, was "an act throwing cold water over the desire of the people for reunification."

In an editorial, the newspaper called the exercises "one more intolerable provocation against the Korean people and a deliberate move to increase tension and disturb peace and bar the peaceful solution of the Korean question."

Historic House

A history-laden house in Columbia, southcentral Kentucky, has become a center of community activities through the efforts of interested citizens and the Adair County Heritage Association.

The Trabue-Russell House was built 1821-23 by Daniel Trabue, one of three founders of Columbia who associated with Lafayette during the American Revolution. When Trabue built the house, it was outside Columbia. Over the years the town has grown and now surrounds the premises.

Trabue lived there until 1831. In 1870 it was acquired by James Montgomery Russell, a grandnephew of Benjamin Logan, who helped explore and settle Kentucky. For the next 100 years some member of the Russell family owned the house.

The Adair County Heritage Association bought the house in 1974 and proceeded to restore it, using the talents of their members and other volunteers in the community. The house is open to the public from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Wednesday through Friday, and 1 to 5 p.m., Sunday. Various groups use the place for meetings, luncheons and dinners. There has been a wedding in the garden and several wedding receptions are scheduled for this year.

Visitors to the Trabue-Russell House will see beautiful antique furniture and, over the fireplace in the parlor, a painting that appeared on the jacket of Janice Holt Gil's novel "The Great Adventure." Some of the furniture in the house came from the Giles home in nearby Knifely after her death last year.

A research center upstairs, open to the public, contains historical records, books about Adair County and its citizens, and novels by Giles.

The Heritage Association sponsors four events each year at the house: an art show in the spring, a summer burgo festival, a silver tea in the fall and a Christmas open house with all the trimmings.

Mayo Students Win Awards

DNREP Still To Answer For Water, Sewer Ills

A bill that would transfer jurisdiction over water treatment and sewage plant systems from the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection to the Department for Human Resources was tabled by the House Natural Resources and Environment Committee this morning.

Rep. Richard Turner (R-Tompkinsville), one of the bill's authors, said the legislation would "ease the problems of funding for local health departments."

"This would be a very bad move at this time," Jackie Swigart, secretary of the Natural Resources Department, told the legislators. She said that the water and sewage treatment programs relate to environmental protection and responsibility for them should remain within her department.

In response to a question from Rep. Bill Brinkley (D-Madisonville), Swigart said that federal funds would be lost if the program was transferred to the Human Resources Department.

Thirty-three members of the chapter, accompanied by four faculty advisors, attended the meeting held at the Holiday City Convention Center.

Friendly competition was generated at the conference in the election of state officers and in a series of competitive events among local chapter delegations. The Mayo chapter received awards as follows:

Cecil Murray, first place, Data Processing I; Mary Stumbo, second place, Data Processing I; Pam Mosier, fifth place, Data Processing II; Mollie Prater, fifth place, Office Procedures. The chapter ranked fourth in the largest chapter membership and was one of eight chapters to receive a special award for increasing its membership by more than 35 percent.

Phi Beta Lambda is the national organization for post secondary school students who plan to enter careers in business or business education.

Ski Club Meet At PCC April 1

A rescheduled organizational meeting of a new area ski club will be held Tuesday, April 1, in the Prestonsburg Community College auditorium at 7 p.m.

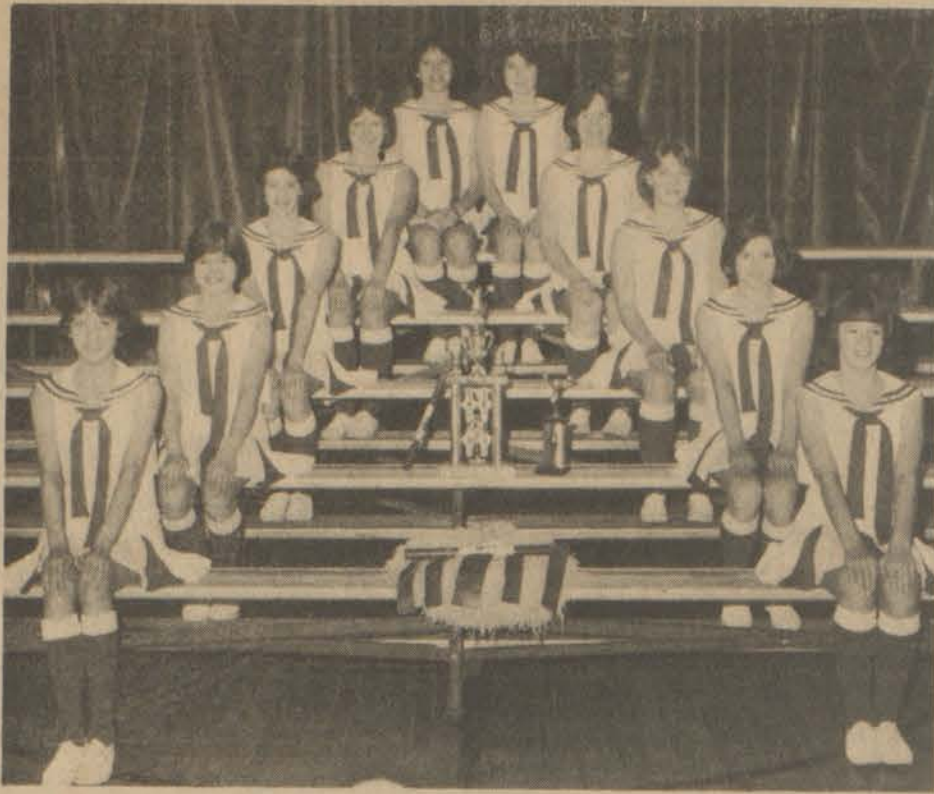

The meeting is for people in the Big Sandy region interested in one of America's fastest growing sports. Club objectives will be discussed, an official name for the club will be chosen, and there will be a presentation about a ski resort in the Big Sandy area at the meeting.

Rolf Lanz, ski director at Ober Gatlinburg, Gatlinburg, Tenn., who is scheduled to attend, will speak to the group.

"The purpose of this club is to introduce skiing to Eastern Kentuckians and let them decide if they would like to become involved in skiing. You don't have to be a skier to attend this meeting, and there is no commitment on the part of anyone attending. We just want to meet with everyone in the Big Sandy area who might want to ski. We are hoping a lot of families will attend. This ski club is for all Eastern Kentuckians and we want to get together and share ideas on April 1," said John South, of Prestonsburg, one of the organizers of the club.

For information about the club call 886-3586 or 886-6558.

Rice's Crispies ...

Second Time Just as Sweet

By KENNY RICE

William Newsome, Jr. emerged from the cramped press box at the Prestonsburg Fieldhouse after granting post-game interviews. He stood in the top aisle of the gym and surveyed the playing floor where, 30 minutes past the game's end, the Betsy Layne fans were still celebrating Billie Jean Osborne's Mardi Gras band was beginning to pack up and prepare for even more celebrating at Betsy Layne. Bobcat fans were everywhere shouting "We're Number One," and hugging players and cheerleaders and majorettes and just about anyone with a Betsy Layne emblem on. Newsome enjoyed the scene below him.

He smiled as he started down the steps toward the floor, he was happy, content and relieved. The Betsy Layne Bobcats had held off a Virgie rally and, courtesy of Dwayne Lykins' two free throws with four seconds left in the game, were going to Louisville with a 72-70 win over Virgie and the championship of the 15th region.

Newsome had achieved something no other active coach in the 15th region has, two 15th Region championships. In 1976, his first season as Betsy Layne's head coach, Newsome guided the Bobcats to the regional crown and came within five points of the eventual state champ, Edmonson County, in the first round of the "Sweet 16." Four years later, the second trip to the State Tournament is just as sweet for Newsome.

"Oh, yes," he beamed, "it's just as exciting, just as fulfilling the second time. I'm happy for the team and the fans. It's been a great year."

Newsome's team takes a 24-6 record into Thursday night action in the Sweet 16. The Bobcats will face the 16th Region champ (who else?) Ashland (20-10) at 7:30 p.m. The 24 wins for Betsy Layne already this season equal the average number of wins per season Newsome has posted in his five seasons at the helm of the Bobcats.

The regional title is another jewel in Newsome's coaching crown. He has coached Betsy Layne to four regional appearances in his five seasons, missing only in 1977, including three 58th district championships (1976-'79-'80). The Bobcats were runners-up in the district to McDowell in 1978. Newsome is the first coach since Denzil "Hoss" Halbert of Martin High in 1964 and '65 to direct a team to back-to-back 58th district tournament titles.

Only two months ago, Newsome and Bobcat fans were concerned about the team's cold shooting and consecutive conference losses to Prestonsburg, Wheelwright and Allen Central. The Bobcats regained their fine shooting form in February but Newsome notes it was not Betsy Layne's offense that has earned them a trip to Freedom Hall.

"Our defense over the last month has been winning games for us and defense

UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY • COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE

You rarely hear of such anymore, but in many backwoods settlements of yesteryear there were certain "gifted" characters, both men and women, with the peculiar power to raise the "knocking spirits." On occasion, these persons could make small tables and chairs dance jigs, mugs and other small objects fly through the air, and just by staring at them, cause hens to cackle and housecats scale the wall.

Were those people warlocks and witches? No, according to "modern science," they weren't. Neither were all their queer doings the work of magic. It was, instead, the work of poltergeists.

Now what in Tophet is a poltergeist? Parapsychologists and other students of the spiritual world say a poltergeist is a "racketing spirit" or "noisy ghost" that takes possession and gets its energy from a living person. It is different from the ghost that haunts houses and graveyards in that this ghost haunts a person. A ghost is the surviving personality of a dead person. A poltergeist survives in the living person.

At least that is one interpretation. Another explanation is that the ability to make tables and chairs knock their legs on the floor and inanimate objects fly through the air without touching them is through the power of "telekinesis" or "psychokinesis." In other words, by consciously concentrating, objects can be moved by mental powers alone.

This last explanation, however, doesn't hold water all the time. The two persons we have known who could raise the knocking spirits, or "Yimps" as they were sometimes called, claimed they did not know how it was done. The power, or whatever, is that it could not always be summoned up. It came and went periodically, sometimes staying for a day or two; sometimes for a month. Then it would depart for a year or more and sometimes for good.

This is indeed an outrageous tale and nobody is asked to believe it. Personally speaking, we have seen tables appear to move, teacups dance in their saucers and heard weird thumping sounds inside walls when one of these poltergeist mediums was present. Since these manifestations were always at "play parties" such as socially starved young people used to hold in their homes "away back yonder," we always believed that these odd doings were the result of some natural, rather than unnatural means.

"He who has no faith in others shall find no faith in them."

BETSY LAYNE COMMUNITY NEWS

By PAULINE T. JONES

It is good to learn that James H. Lyons is able to get out for short walks and is in good spirits and feeling better. His son, William Lyons, and family, of Stanton, Ky., visit him each week.

Those having recently been in the Pikeville Methodist Hospital and are now improving at home include Eliza Blackburn and Emma Grace Hartley. Others from the vicinity who are still patients at the hospital and improving are Cora Branham and Pauline Stumbo.

Arvid Lynch was in Lexington last week for a medical checkup.

Among the shut-ins whom friends have called recently is Minnie Boyd, mother of Tommy Boyd, who is not very well and welcomes calls from friends.

Roxie Hall has been moved from the Pikeville Methodist Hospital to the Mountain Manor Nursing Home of Pikeville.

Dr. June Brose spent a recent week-end in and around Knoxville, Tenn.

The United Methodist Women held their March meeting at the home of Mrs. Kathryn Blackburn. The meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. Willie Caldwell, and the program on "The Meaning of Easter" was presented by Mrs. Clara Allen. Several items of business were taken care of, including planning of cards and gifts for shut-ins. At the close, refreshments were served by the hostess.

The week-end revival, "Proclaim the Good News of Christ," will be preached by the Rev. James Dalton, of Raceland, Ky., Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings at 7, and on Sunday at 11 a.m., March 28, 29 and 30. The pastor, Rev. Kaminski Robinson, and the members invite everyone who can and will to attend one or all of the meetings.

Mrs. Cora Lynch is much improved and able to be up after a recent illness.

Mrs. Cheryl Blackburn Meade has been quite ill at her home for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Branham and Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Conn are on a few weeks' tour of Greece and other parts of Europe.

Congratulations to the High School Bobcats in their winning of the regional basketball tournament and to the girls' team on their efforts and good playing.

As the Bobcats represent the Betsy Layne school and Floyd county for the fifth time at the state basketball tournament, we hope they are winners, or if not, that they will be good losers!

The Bobcats represented the region in the state tournament in 1929 and 1930, when coached by the late Julian Harlowe, and in 1931 when Maurice Baker was their coach.

The known living players of those first three teams are Palmer Crum, Gordon L. George and James A. George, Wilburn Miller and Fred Wilburn (1929); Wilburn Miller, Palmer Crum, Gordon L. George, Fred Wilburn and Bill Stone (1930); and Palmer Crum, Wilburn Miller, Glen Blackburn, Bill Stone, Denver Layne and Burr Layne (1931).

Mr. and Mrs. Gail Thompson, of Melbourne, Fla., and Mr. and Mrs. James Conn, of Allen, were visiting Mr. and Mrs. Luther Walters recently.

Willie Lawson has returned from the VA hospital of Lexington, where he had a medical checkup.

Mr. and Mrs. Millard Gibson visited Mr. and Mrs. Marion Hale last week and report their health has improved.

Mr. and Mrs. Millard Gibson will travel to Marcella, Ky., to attend the wedding of their daughter, Georgia Rose, to Douglas Burton, March 29. There will be a household shower given for the bride-elect at the Methodist Church basement here, on April 5 at 7 p.m.

The Betsy Layne Church of Christ has purchased two new church buses. If you need transportation to their church, let the pastor, Rev. Thomas Spears, or some member know.

The Betsy Layne Bobcats were honored with a banquet held at the school lunchroom at 1 p.m. Sunday, with the majorettes, cheerleaders, band, teachers and fans attending. Members of all churches in the Betsy Layne area brought food. The Bobcats are greatly appreciated and the attendance at this banquet showed how much the citizens are behind their team and school.

Citizens of Betsy Layne remember in prayer the sick and shut-in list. Known at this time are Otis Foley, Roxie Hall, Cora Branham, Polly Stumbo, Eliza Blackburn, Mary Green, Mamie Stanfield, Emma Grace Hartley, Minnie Boyd, Mae and Lee Cecil, Alvia Cecil, Fanny Steele, Elijah Collins, Willie Lawson, W.H. Hurley, the family of Wade McCown, Rubin Hall, Margaret Boyd, Myra Amburgy, Maude Colegrove, Bossie Hale, Arvid Lynch, Georgia Lewis, Goldia McCalahan, Eara Stone, John L. Stone, Marie Dotson.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Collins and son Jason, of Albion, Mich., visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Castle Collins, last week.

Elijah Collins spent a few days as a patient at the Methodist Hospital last week and is now at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rhoda Stone.

Mr. and Mrs. James McCalahan, of New London, Ohio, are here due to the illness of Goldia McCalahan and Georgia Lewis, their parents.

Gas Rate Increases Granted Two Firms

The state Energy Regulatory Commission has approved rate increases for two Floyd county natural gas companies.

Customers of the Elzie Neeley Gas Co. will pay a minimum monthly bill of $11.16 for the first 3,000 cubic feet of gas. A rate of almost $3.81 per 1,000 cu.ft. will be charged for amounts over 3,000 cu.ft.

The minimum bill was $10.94, and the rate was $3.73.

Customers of the Martin Gas Co. will pay $3.60 per 1,000 cu.ft. for the first 2,000 cu.ft. and $4.40 for amounts over that. The minimum bill will remain $5.50.

The rates were $3.54 and $4.34.

The increases, which are subject to refund, reflect an increase in the wholesale cost of gas supplied by Columbia Gas of Kentucky.

Consumer Comments

AUTO REPAIR

Consumers should collect information before they spend money on car repairs. This would help reduce the recurring problems encountered by people who negotiate repair agreements with businesses they do not know and about problems they do not understand.

Before you take your car in for any repairs, check the reliability of the garage. Ask family and friends about its business reputation. Ask them also about the kind of service they have received, the attitudes of the people who did the work, the reasonableness of the charges and the willingness of the business to stand behind or guarantee its work.

Call ahead to find out whether or not an appointment is necessary and whether labor costs are lower on weekdays than on Saturdays. You may be able to arrange your schedule to benefit from this savings.

When you take your car to the repair shop, describe your car's problems in detail to the service manager. Do not suggest what you think is wrong with the car; just list the symptoms.

Be sure to stay with the service manager while he examines the car, and, if possible, talk with the mechanic and discuss the car's problems. Don't be talked into having repairs done that you don't want or didn't plan on. If other repairs are suggested, you may want to confirm the need for them elsewhere.

After the car has been examined, have the needed repairs specifically described by the repairman. Don't accept vague, work-order terms such as "repair brakes" or "fix transmission."

Get an estimated cost for repairs in writing, and make sure the cost of all parts and labor is included. If a need for a major repair job is indicated, it may be advisable to obtain several estimates before having the work done.

Every repair shop has a flat-rate book that gives the average time and the number of parts required to complete the job. Ask the service manager for a price quotation based on this book.

Read the work order before signing it. This paper should state that any repairs required beyond those described in the work must be authorized by you. If this is not printed on the authorization, write it in yourself. Obtain a copy of the repair order for your records and to review if further repairs are suggested.

When the repair work is done and you go to pick up the car, test drive it to be sure the work has been done properly. If it has not, return the car and insist the work be done correctly and at no extra cost.

Before paying the bill, make sure the computations are accurate and that all costs are itemized. Kentucky sales tax should be applied only to parts—not to labor. Make sure that any guarantees are put in writing and keep copies of work orders, bills and guarantees.

If you have a complaint about the repairs done to your car, you should first contact the management of the repair shop directly.

If you can't get the problem resolved in that manner, write the Office of the Attorney General, Division of Consumer Protection, Frankfort, Ky. 40601. The office has found that it can most effectively deal with written complaints and encourages you to write when you have a complaint.

Berea Offering Special Study For HS Students

More than 4,000 outstanding high school students throughout the United States will participate this summer and fall in research and study programs sponsored by the National Science Foundation.

Forty of these students will be selected for the NSF's four-week wildlife biology course at Berea College. Students who have completed the junior year by June are eligible to attend the session, scheduled in conjunction with three other classes being offered in the college's Rising Seniors summer program.

The wildlife biology class begins June 15 and is being taught by Dr. Claude Gentry, professor of agronomy and biology at Berea. College course credit will be awarded for the successful completion of this advanced course.

Approximately one-fourth of the wildlife biology student's time will be spent in a self-initiated project in animal behavior, and one-fifth of the course time will involve a field experience in wildlife management in the 7,700-acre Berea College Forest. Students will study various types of forestry and environmental conservation management and terrestrial life forms.

Those accepted for the program must have completed at least one year of high school biology by June with a B plus average in the sciences and an overall B average in all studies. Approximately 80 percent of students will be selected from the Southern Appalachian region.

Students will be housed in college dormitories and eat at the on-campus food service. All Berea College facilities—including the student health service—will be open to participants.

Other classes planned for Berea's Rising Seniors Program this summer include creative writing, conversational French and mathematics (point set topology).

Application forms and additional information may be obtained from John S. Cook, Director of Admissions, Box 2234, Berea College, KY 40404.

February Rate Of Unemployment Reaches 7.7%

Kentucky's unemployment rate reached 7.7 percent of the state's labor force in February. According to statistics released last week by the Department for Human Resources, 122,100 persons were unsuccessful in their search for jobs.

February figures reflect the continuing slowdown of Kentucky's economy, said Robert MacDonald, the department's chief labor market analyst.

Most major industry groups experienced decreased employment in February, MacDonald said. The number of non-agricultural wage and salary jobs in Kentucky has decreased 13,000 since January, with 6,000 fewer jobs in the manufacturing industry and almost 7,000 fewer in non-manufacturing.

According to department statistics, major employment losses during February were in construction (5,400 fewer jobs), transportation (down 3,300), trade (down 3,300) and tobacco stemming and readying (down 1,100).

The total number of Kentuckians employed in February was 1,467,700, MacDonald said. "This represents a drop of 22,100 workers since January and it's the lowest number of employed Kentuckians since April last year," he said. "But there are currently 49,600 more state residents working than in February 1979."

With unemployment expected to remain high and job growth to remain low this year, the job market for persons entering or re-entering the labor force will be highly competitive, MacDonald said. "Job opportunities for high school and college graduates will be much less than in previous years, causing already high youth unemployment to increase substantially during 1980," he added.

The national jobless rate in February was 6.8 percent, 0.9 percentage points below the state's rate.

The state's revised unemployment rate for January is 7.4 percent.

The Veterans Administration has guaranteed more than 10.3 million home loans valued at some $170 billion during the 35-year history of the GI Bill.

Sunday Liquor Sales Bill Loses in House

Despite the sponsor's urging that passage would aid the economics of Kentucky cities such as Louisville and Ashland, a bill designed to ease restrictions on Sunday sales of liquor was defeated in the House last Wednesday.

The bill, sponsored by Terry Mann (D-Newport), would have allowed the governing bodies of first-, second- and third-class cities to permit the sale of alcoholic beverages after 1 p.m. on Sundays in hotels and restaurants in which at least 50 percent of the income is derived from the sale of food.

After much debate on the religious and moral implications of the bill, Mann's proposal was defeated 56-34.

Prior to the defeat of the bill, the House approved a floor amendment which was aimed at keeping Ashland Oil in Kentucky. The amendment's sponsor, Rep. Charles Holbrook (R-Ashland), said the amendment would only affect the city of Ashland and was aimed at helping the city's "dying" downtown area and at keeping Ashland Oil from relocating its corporate headquarters in another state.

The floor amendment would have allowed the governing body of a dry second-class city to authorize the sale of alcoholic beverages in certain precincts. Those sales would only be allowed if it were determined that legal sales in adjoining areas were causing an economic hardship on the city, and if the action was requested by petition of 33 percent of the voters in the affected precincts.

"What we're voting on here today is whether we're going to keep the largest corporate taxpayer in the state of Kentucky, or whether we're going to ship them off to the state of Ohio," Holbrook said.

His amendment was approved 43-37, but died with the bill's defeat.

Mann said that since he has served as a representative, he has found the most hypocritical section of the Kentucky statutes to be the section dealing with alcoholic beverages. He said he has found that the prohibition of the sale of alcoholic beverages does not keep alcohol out of dry areas, but rather encourages bootlegging.

He said the bill was not a move to dictate the sale of alcoholic beverages, but rather a home-rule concept—a right to self-determination.

The bill was argued both for and against on religious and moral grounds. Rep. Joel Ellington (D-Paducah) said, "Sales on Sunday can't mean anything but greed. Let Sunday be a special day, a day set aside." Rep. Richard Fryman (R-Albany) labeled the bill "the devil's bill." And several other representatives argued the religious merits of not selling alcohol on the Sabbath.

The House passed several minor changes in the state strip mine law, in a bill sponsored by Rep. Steve Cawood (D-Pineville). Most of the changes had been requested from the state's coal industry. The bill passed 79-1.

The bill gives the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection increased authority to investigate violations of the strip mine law and requires coal trucks to be covered with tarpaulins or some other similar material to help avoid spillage on the roadways.

An amendment, which was sponsored by Rep. Albert Robinson (R-London), changed one portion of the bill which would have prevented trucks from loading coal above the top of the original truck bed. The word "original" was deleted from the bill under Robinson's amendment.

He said this move would allow coal trucks to continue utilizing boards along the tops of the truck beds to increase their carrying capacity.

The House defeated a bill Wednesday which would have required a licensing and regulations system for guidance counselors. The bill, sponsored by Rep. Clayton Little (D-Hartley), was defeated 42-39. This was the second time Little's bill had been considered by the House.

An amendment to the bill which would have exempted counselors from being forced to testify in a criminal trial was dropped from the bill, a move which Rep. Ray Overstreet (R-Liberty) said helped defeat the bill. Overstreet said the dropped amendment deleted a vital part of the bill.

A bill which would have raised the licensing fees of cosmetologists and would have given the State Board of Cosmetology more latitude in dealing with disciplinary matters was defeated on a 40-40 tie vote. The bill was sponsored by Rep. Thomas Burch (D-Louisville).

A bill sponsored by Rep. Gregory Stumbo (D-Prestonsburg) to require persons performing electrical work in underground mines to be qualified and certified was approved by the House.

Another bill sponsored by Stumbo was approved 74-9. The bill allows only a certified shot firer to fire explosives in underground mines. This bill was requested by the Department of Mines and Minerals, according to Stumbo.

Grigsby To Speak At Next Meeting Of Drug Committee

Pete Grigsby, superintendent of Floyd county schools has been invited to address the Floyd County Drug and Alcohol Awareness Committee Tuesday, April 15 at 7:30 p.m. The announcement of the invitation by Bob Sloan at the March 18 meeting was the business portion of a gathering otherwise devoted to a program presented by Teen Challenge, a Pennsylvania-based group.

Sloan indicated Grigsby has been asked by letter to discuss the school system's policies and programs regarding drug and alcohol abuse by area youth, and said he hoped the month-long period before the next meeting would give the superintendent time to fit the committee into his schedule.

The committee, a group of concerned and interested citizens, seeks to focus the community's attention on what it perceives to be a serious drug and alcohol problem in county teenagers. Having devoted several meetings to educational presentations by area law enforcement and health care professionals, the group hopes to invite various officials to speak to their concerns over the next few months. Officers for the committee will be elected at the April 15 meeting.

The Teen Challenge group presented in music and testimony their experiences with drug and alcohol abuse and addiction. Indicating that they had been taught "reality" through Teen Challenge's "Christ-centered" program, they stressed the dangers of nicotine, alcohol and marijuana in the public acceptance of addictive drugs. The group, composed of men 16 years of age and older, is currently on a three-state tour. The committee program was the first presented in Floyd county, though the young men indicated they would be performing in county high schools and churches in subsequent days.

Since the first GI Bill became effective in 1944, some 17.7 million veterans have taken some form of training under the Veterans Administration program, 7.5 million of whom served in the military during the Vietnam Era.

REBEKAHS MEET

Miriam Rebekah Lodge No. 31 met in regular session, Tuesday evening, March 17, with Mrs. Otelia Smiley, noble grand, presiding. As members entered the lodge hall, they were presented small, potted shamrock plants by Mrs. Smiley. Mrs. Sue Moore gave a report on the district meeting at the Pleasant Valley Rebekah Lodge, Paintsville. Wanda Elste was received as a new member of the lodge. It was decided that Queen Esther Rebekah Lodge, of Pikeville, would be invited to meet with the local lodge, to celebrate Friendship Night, Tuesday, April 1. Cards were signed to be sent to members sick or in distress. "Happy Birthday" was sung to Past Noble Grand Susie Clifton. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served. During that time Mrs. Venelia Rinehart presented each member with a booklet which she had made, entitled, "Newsmakers of 1979: It Was A Very Good Year." These booklets filled with photographs and news clippings of lodge members and poems appropriate to the program carried out by them, also included the names of new members for the year, 1979: Mesdames/Mary B. Johnson, Lois Williams, Bernice Prater, Crystal Owens Hale and Linda Patton Hager, and Miss Mary Ann LeMaster; and of members who died during the year: Mesdames Minerva S. Allen, Laura Stambough Prater, and Maggie M. Hall. Members present for this meeting were Mesdames Otelia Smiley, Rebecca Bingham, Maman Leslie, Beatrice Patton, Venelia Rinehart, Docia Woods, Myrtle Allen, Linda Hager, Theckley Short, Pauline Owens, Anne Patton, Susie Clifton, Effie Hopkins, Hope Whitten, Sue Moore, Ruth Patterson, and Violetta Wright. The next meeting will be held on Friendship Night, Tuesday, April 1.

The House defeated a bill Wednesday which would have required a licensing and regulations system for guidance counselors. The bill, sponsored by Rep. Clayton Little (D-Hartley), was defeated 42-39. This was the second time Little's bill had been considered by the House.

Your Will—Can You Do It Yourself?

By Alfred A. Porro, Jr.

A will is a legal document which will direct how your property will be distributed after death and who will handle the administration of your estate.

If you do not have a will, both the distribution and the control of your estate will pass in accordance with the intestacy laws of the various states. These laws are normally very rigid and may not be in accord with your desires.

Having a will has very marked advantages. It guarantees that your wishes for your family and those you want to benefit will be carried out. It will permit you and not a court to designate a guardian for your minor children. It will permit you to create a trust for your children, designate the person you desire to administer the trust and to tailor the provisions of that trust for your children's benefit. It will permit you and not a court to appoint a person you desire to administer your estate.

In the long run, a will saves your family money. It avoids unnecessary probate expenses, particularly by eliminating the danger of conflict. It may reduce taxes and permit your executor to serve without a bond, which is normally an unnecessary expense.

Pitfalls of Self-Made Wills

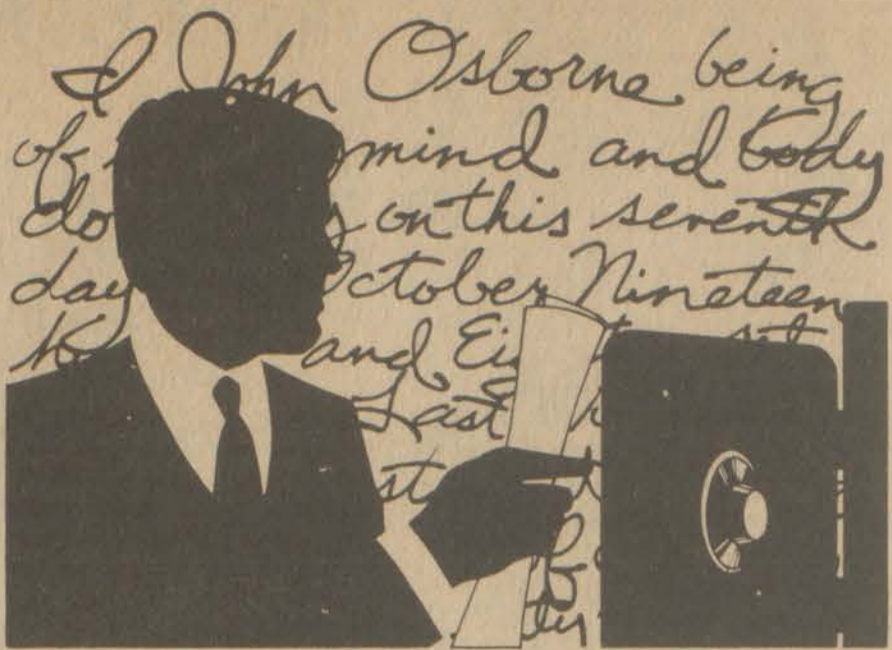

Recently there has been much publicized about self-made wills. Although a will is basically a very simple document, the preparation of one's own will has certain pitfalls. The laws in each state vary with regard to the formal requirements of a will.

Normally, all states require that your signature on the will be witnessed. Some states require two and some three witnesses. To be safe, three witnesses should be obtained to witness on the will document itself that you were of sound mind and in fact executed the will voluntarily. Some states require that the signatures be notarized—in some states, a marked advantage is obtained by having the signature notarized. Thus, it is important that your signature and that of the witnesses be notarized on the will document itself.

Ironically, most of the problems with self-made wills do not center around the formal execution requirements, but rather around their failure to be clear. Simple, concise and direct language should be used. Be as detailed and precise as possible in the content of your directions regarding distribution and whom you desire to administer your estate, be guardian of your children and the trustee of the assets of your children.

Other than in a very simple situation, self-made wills are not recommended. Check with your local Bar Association and various attorneys in the area and you will be surprised to find that a professionally drawn will is not expensive. Obtain a price before obtaining the lawyer. This will assure your meeting the legal technicalities prescribed by law, making your intentions clear, avoiding questions of interpretation for court proceedings and obtaining capable advice regarding reducing death taxes.

How To Draft A Will

When a simple will is going to be drafted, there are certain steps that should be taken. The first paragraph of a will should clearly state your name, what other names you may be known by and a declaration that the following is your direction respecting the distribution of your estate upon death. Normally, it is wise to provide that the very first thing to be done upon your death is the payment of any outstanding bills and indebtedness that you have.

Next you should attend to the distribution of some very specific items of your desire. In this regard it will be helpful for you to make a list of everything you own, whether it be real estate, personal property, bank accounts, insurance policies, stocks or bonds, cash, household goods and furniture, jewelry or the like.

It is unnecessary and normally cumbersome to direct that these various items be distributed by name. It is better practice to generalize if possible: "I direct that all my property, whether it be real or personal, present or future, be distributed equally between my children (specifically naming each child)."

It is also advisable to list all documents that you have in preparation for the contents of your will. Ultimately some direction should be given to the Executor of your estate as to the location of any safe deposit box and other business or valuable legal documents, including your will.

Appointing An Executor

Next, it is important that you appoint an Executor for your estate. This person in some instances is referred to as Administrator or personal representative. It is the person who will have the responsibility of assuring that your declared intentions are carried through. It may be a member of your family, a friend or your bank. Most important, it must be someone that you trust and know to be capable to carry out this function.

If you have minor children, you certainly want to appoint a guardian for those children. You may also desire that a trustee of their assets be appointed until they reach majority or whatever age you desire.

The guardian and trustee may be one and the same person or they may be separate individuals. On the other hand, you may want multiple guardians or trustees, i.e. co-guardians, whether two or more persons. In any event, the guardian must be one whom you trust completely to care for your minor children. The trustee, on the other hand, requires trustworthiness and ability to manage the assets of your children until such time as you designate.

After you have set forth an introduction, direction as to the distribution of your various assets and the appointment of your executor and (if the case requires) guardian and/or trustee, you are prepared to conclude.

It is normally advisable to direct that your executor, guardian and trustee need not post a bond. By law, most states require that these fiduciaries post a bond. It is normally considered an unnecessary expense upon the estate if you have selected these persons.

Thereafter, you will conclude by affixing your signature to the document and having it witnessed and notarized as previously discussed.

One final warning—remember that lawyers are particularly trained to be experts in this subject matter. The best advice is to consult one.

Knitting's New Look Is Very Designing

Boa Mania. Boa and Muff instructions are available wherever Coats and Clark's Red Heart "Tweedy" yarn is sold.

By Marilee Wyman

If knitting calls up images of "helping hands at home," Granny in a rocking chair by the fire, and endless pairs of scratchy mittens, then you'd better take a second look. This season's designer collections contain some of the loveliest, most innovative knitwear ever: a profusion of coat-length sweaters, cowl necks that become hoods, leg-warmers, tube tops and much more.

Whether your taste is for Ralph Lauren's traditional classics in pastel heather tones (which go perfectly with swirly skirts and tailored pants), or for Perry Ellis' dazzlingly daring styles which have taken the fashion world by storm, you can stretch your fashion dollars by knitting some of these fabulous looks yourself. It's the latest way to transform your ho-hum, work-a-day wardrobe into a fashion-wise, eye-catching collection.

Since nearly anything that comes in strips, or can be cut into strips, can be used for knitting, the new designs incorporate string, lengths of plastic and feathers. The main idea is to be innovative, be imaginative, have fun and breakdown the stodgy image of knitting (and knitters).

Which Design?

Before planning a design project, take a fresh look at knitting stitches. Inexpensive paperback books of knitting stitches are available in the craft section of your bookstore and are an invaluable source of inspiration.

Both open-worked stitches and raised patterns take on new qualities when worked in an unexpected yarn. For example, if you don't have the patience to knit delicate linen or silk lingerie, but like the idea of lacy patterns, why not use heavier weight yarn?

Many textured stitches come to life when worked in two or more colors, forming tweeds, checks or stripes automatically. Try working cables in one color and background in another for a sculpted effect. Vary fabric texture by changing yarn. Knit a piece of lurex "jewelry" right into the sweater. Or mix in a fine strand of silky rayon to highlight part of the garment.

Getting Wild Ideas

Anything ordinarily made of fabric can be knitted, so don't overlook the possibility of knitting decorator items for your home.

Which Yarn?

A trip to your yarn shop can be a real adventure. Never have there been so many hand-knitting yarns. You'll find every color in the rainbow (and a few that aren't, like the latest metallics) in a multitude of textures. The hottest new yarns include matte-finish cottons, angora-like synthetics, glittery lurex, silken rayon floss, furry velours and unique knobby yarns.

You may feel overwhelmed by the combinations of natural and synthetic fibers. These yarns frequently offer the best qualities of both "ingredients"—the warmth of wool and the durability of a synthetic—so don't consider them a compromise.

Since yarn of 100 percent natural fiber is always more expensive than a synthetic or blend, decide whether you really need wool before you pay for it. Pure cotton is one warm alternative.

Remember that most synthetics and some blends can be washed, so you save money twice: first on the purchase price and then on cleaning bills. Some yarns can be machine washed and dried. Read the labels for instructions.

Today, designers are knitting spectacular rugs, curtains, lampshades—even hammocks—at equally spectacular prices. Do it yourself and save!

Don't know how to start? You'll find the basics clearly explained and well illustrated in Wild Knitting (A & W Publishers, Inc.). In addition to "basic garment" instructions, stitch and color patterns (which you can use to start making your own designer originals) there are over 50 patterns for exotic, sometimes outrageous items.

Clothing designs include sophisticated sweaters and dresses, trendy punk fashions and disco clothes, an armadillo wrap and a "landscaped" jacket with three-dimensional animals. Accessories include jewelry from metal wire, matching camisole, panties, stockings and garter belt, and some amazing socks shaped like duck feet! You'll also find a floor sculpture of fruit-shaped pillows, a brick-like rug with tufts of "grass" and much more.

So pick up those knitting needles and let your imagination go wild! You'll save money and have fun with the new knitting.
