Transport Plan Cost a Problem

The possibility of establishing a county-wide public transport system exercised county and city officials last week, the immediate problem appearing to be how to pay for the planning necessary to take advantage of the federal funds available for the project.

As presently envisaged, the system would consist of three 15-passenger buses, each making four runs a day to transport persons to Prestonsburg from the county's outlying areas. A 50-cent fare has been suggested.

Federal funds are available to cover 90 percent of the capital outlay for the project and for some of its operating expenses. Applying for the federal grant presupposes a detailed assessment of the county's present transport needs and resources, however.

A planning firm with offices in Charleston, W. Va. has offered to do the required transportation study and prepare the grant application, at a cost of $10,703, a figure that might be reduced by several thousand dollars, it was said, if local planners were able to gather the preliminary data.

Collecting the preliminary data should be "no problem" for local officials, said Prestonsburg City Manager David Evans, who indicated that Big Sandy Area Development District planners had already done some work toward this end. Even if this task is done locally, however, some $7000 may still be needed to complete the application for federal monies.

A $5500 Department of Transportation grant to the the area development district last year has already been consumed, it was said, although ADD Planner Bill Moyer indicated that the ADD is willing to further assist county and city officials in planning the transportation project.

Even assuming the award of a government grant, the proposed transport system would be expected to operate at a deficit, which would need (See Story No 2, Page 4) <image><image>

THE FUGITIVE

There was a time when we would rise early on a cold morning and drive long hours to get to Lexington for a UK football game. And when we couldn't make it to the game, we agonized at the radio. It was great to be young and foolish.

I make note of those days to emphasize the point that we ourselves change as much as the times. Last Saturday, for example, I was in Lexington and those Wildcats were at it again. And I was interested in another matter, namely, in getting out of town before that crazy football crowd debauched from the stadium, whirled away in their cars and caught me in the inevitable traffic jam.

David's Water Woes Topic for Argument

Opinions differ as to who is at fault and, in any case, a good many David residents say they are beyond trying to pinpoint the blame. The fact remains, they say, that there has been scarcely a day during the past three months when the town's water supply has not been cut off, often for hours at a time.

Angry and frustrated, the residents tell of their inability to bathe, do their laundry, cook, entertain, or give a thirsty child a glass of water. The unannounced interruptions work a particular hardship on families with young children, they emphasize.

"The cut-offs strike any time of the day or night. We never know when, for how long, or why," said Valerie Bentley, an Official Hollow resident. "It's like playing Russian roulette," she said. Among the areas hardest hit by the water interruptions is School House Hollow, where a housing development financed by the Appalachian Regional Commission, is under construction Patsy Boyd, who moved into one of the new houses with her three children just over a week ago, said the water has been off every day since she arrived. She had had no forewarning of the possibility of water outages, she said.

Belinda VanHoose moved into the subdivision in March. "I'm tired of going home from work every day only to find there is no water," she said. "I

Legal Snag Mars Plan For Patrol

Opinion Says Law Envisions Force Of Several Men

The proposal to hire a county patrolman to meet pressing law enforcement needs in the Mud Creek section appears to have run into a snag.

The idea came out of a fiscal court meeting several weeks ago, following complaints by Mud Creek residents of an outbreak of lawlessness there. The area has been without a law officer since former deputy sheriff Gillis Conn, of Teaberry, was dismissed earlier this year by Sheriff Doug Lewis.

Funds might be found to hire Conn as a county patrolman, Judge Bill Wells suggested, though County Attorney Arnold Turner Jr. cautioned against the county's moving too hastily into the law enforcement arena.

In any case, the issue might well be moot, since an attorney-general's opinion, issued this week in response to a question from Assistant Floyd County Attorney Eric Hall, indicates that the establishment of a one-man county police force may contravene state statute.

The statute, wrote Assistant Deputy Attorney General Charles W. Runyan, "clearly implies that a police force would consist of a chief and several subordinate officers."

"Only the courts could say how many police officers would constitute a minimum number," Runyan wrote. "But clearly a one-man force is not contemplated by the statute."

Runyan indicated that a further obstacle to the fiscal court plan lies in its not having fixed "a reasonable compensation" for the officer. Conn was reportedly willing to serve at a

Except for a Russell May landscape, this office is pretty bare of decoration. MAJOR WORK begun recently on the Cliff bridge has closed one lane of traffic as the span's old steel flooring is being removed to make way for new flooring and resurfacing. In addition, some installation of structural beams will be included in the work which is being done at a cost of $252,991. Contractor for the project is Frankfort Steel, of Frankfort, Ky. (The Bureau of Highways announced Monday that the bridge will be restricted to cars and pickup trucks until further notice.) In addition to its traditional patriotic theme, the 11th annual Red, White and Blue Day to be staged here Saturday. Oct. 18, will be dedicated to the American citizens held hostage by Iran, it was announced this week by Marcella Bailey, of Eastern, founder of the event.

One of the floats in the big parade will honor the hostages, and the line of march will be halted for moments of silent prayer in their behalf.

"I urge everyone to come and take part in some way in helping to make this Freedom Day observance the greatest ever," Mrs. Bailey said. The wearing of the colors, red, white and blue also was requested.

Red, White and Blue Day has since its beginning attracted crowds greater than any other Floyd county event.

Any who wish to participate in the parade are asked to register by Oct. 12. To have an entry or float, call Linda Bartrum (874-9915) or Hene Thompson (285-3787 after 5 p.m.); for bands, call Janie B. I coudn't sell my place for ten dollars the way things are."

Named by many residents as the villain of the piece is the Middle States Coal Company, which installed a coalwashing facility in the town in April. When the plant is operating, it draws water away from the water system's residential customers, they complain.

"There's not a jury in the land would uphold a company's right to take drinking water from a town to wash coal," asserted Ashland "Hawk" Howard, chairman of the David Water District board.

The coal company is not to blame, however, according to Bill Hoppman, its sales manager. Hoppman cites a September 11, 1979 letter from J. C. "Crit" Wells, then chairman of the Beaver-Elkhorn Water District, from which the town has purchased its water since 1977, assuring the company that the water district could supply more than enough water for the needs of the town and the coal-washing plant.

Wells wrote that Beaver-Elkhorn could supply 40-50,000 gallons of water a day to the plant, which is currently using between 30,000 and 35,000 gallons a day, according to Hoppman.

The problem appears to be that Beaver-Elkhorn is unable to supply sufficient water to the David system to (See Story No. 5, Page 4)

Retrial Slated For October 21

The second trial of Ralph Anderson. charged with murder for the slaying at Ivel of Mack Lewis, has been set for Oct. 21 in the Madison circuit court at Richmond, it was announced this week.

The first trial of Anderson at Richmond in February, 1979 ended in a "hung" jury. The case was not redocketed for trial until about two months ago, it was said here

Floyd Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen and Lester Burns, of Manchester, again will represent the Commonwealth in the trial. Henry Hughes, of Lexington, is counsel for the defense.

In circuit court here most cases heard during the current term have been civil hearings. The first criminal case ended Monday when Charles McGuire entered a plea of guilty to a charge of fraudulent use of a credit charge, an offense which could carry a penalty of one to five years in prison Circuit Judge Hollie Conley set his sentencing for Friday.

Devoid of a murder case for one of the few times in the history of the court, the circuit court docket here was described by Commonwealth's Attorney Allen as being "in good shape."

Historic Landmark Here Is Focal Point in Zoning Study

Local interest in preserving a piece of the past seems likely to be put to the test next week when the public will be heard on zoning changes proposed for several properties here, including the site of what is probably the county's best-known historic building.

Among three lots being considered for a zoning change from residential to commercial is the Arnold Avenue property, owned by Prestonsburg attorney John Allen, on which the Garfield Place stands.

Built by John M. Burns, an attorney and later state senator, in 1857, the twostory frame house was commandeered in 1862 by Civil War Colonel James A. Garfield for use as his headquarters during the Big Sandy campaign. Within a month. Garfield drove the Confederate forces from Kentucky, subsequently won a general's star, and was elected the country's 20th president. Although the present owner has been reluctant to discuss publicly his plans for the site, a professional office building is reportedly being considered for construction there. Allen said recently he would have welcomed funds to restore and preserve the building but that public interest in such a project appeared to be lacking. The public will be "in no position to complain," he said, if the property is converted to some other use.

An abortive effort to save the building was launched in 1978, when 15 local residents organized the Big Sandy Historical Preservation Society, with a view to seeking a restoration grant from the Kentucky Heritage Commission The commission is a state agency with responsibility for preserving sites of historical or architectural significance.

Entered on the National Register of Historic Places in 1974, the house has been empty and decaying since 1977. The Big Sandy Historical Preservation Society sought to restore it as a museum of eastern Kentucky history, possibly including an area for demonstrating traditional mountain crafts.

Matching grants-in-aid are available for such a project, they learned, and tax incentives written into the Tax Reform Act of 1976 are designed to encourage preservation of properties like the Garfield Place.

Restoration of the house, it was then estimated, would cost about $100,000, of which $50,000 would need to be raised locally. Prestonsburg Mayor Harold W. Cooley and then-Floyd Judge-Executive Yvonne S. Jones expressed an interest in the project, but no city or county funds were committed to it. Restoration plans subsequently died for lack of public interest.

Red River Rally Set For Cyclists

The heartland of Kentucky's natural bridges and forests will be ablaze with autumn colors for bicycle enthusiasts cycling in the Red River Rally Oct. 5 near Natural Bridge

This year marks the eleventh year the Bluegrass Wheelmen have sponsored the Red River Rally on this same route. The 38-mile course winds around Sky Bridge, Chimney Top Rock, Tower Park, Castle Arch, Nada Tunnel and Red River Gorge.

The course is quite hilly, but has only a major hill to climb. Riders will be given maps upon registration to help them follow the marked route. All difficult intersections will be marked.

Although all roads along the rally course are paved, they are narrow and cyclists will be asked to ride single file and obey all traffic laws. Rally organizers also advise cyclists to be equipped with a bike light since the Nada Tunnel can be very dark.

Registration for the bike tour is Sunday morning, the day of the rally, from 8:30-9:30. The ride will begin at 10 and a lunch stop is planned at Sky Bridge. Riders may carry their own lunch or turn it in at registration and pick it up at Sky Bridge. Drinks will be provided at the lunch stop.

A "sag-wagon" will follow cyclists to provide limited first aid and minor bike repairs for the cost of the parts such as chains.

Greg Circle, a Bluegrass Wheelman, will lead a group of cyclists from Lexington to Natural Bridge on Saturday to spend the night at Hemlock Lodge as a warm-up activity for the Sunday ride. Reservations for the overnight stay should be made by calling the lodge (606) 663-2214. The group will leave for Natural Bridge from Jerry's Restaurant at Woodhill Shopping Center in Lexington at 8:30 Saturday morning.

Home Renovation Series On KET

After learning how to cook like master chefs and garden like professional green thumbs. KET viewers get valuable advice on do-it-yourself renovation on "This Old House," premiering Sunday, October 5 at 5:00 p.m.

The 39-part series, especially designed to take the mystery out of home rehabilitation, focuses on the renovation of two very different kinds of houses. One house is a 120-year-old single family dwelling in the aging Boston neighborhood of Dorchester.

The second project is a neglected Victorian mansion in Newton, Mass., designed by renowned architect Henry Hobson Richardson. When this house is completed in 26 weeks it will be transformed into five condominiums. Viewers are given a step-by-step guide to every aspect of the remodeling process—from plastering and painting to roofing. landscaping and tax assessment.

The Hour-Glass Highway

The Appalachian Regional Commission is, for the record, committed to the task of improving that portion of the United States that is known as Appalachia, but here in the heart of that region its millions spent to improve some areas are helping create a situation that will choke another to death.

This situation exists through ARC's refusal to participate in the construction of a modern, four-lane US 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville, a distance of approximately 12 miles, while dumping millions into four-laning the same route into Paintsville from the north and from Prestonsburg to the south.

The effect is to turn US 23, an arterial route from South Shore, Ky. to the Kentucky-Virginia line, into a ludicrous hour glass, with the pinched waist of the ungainly "vessel" representing these twelve miles of the route which appear to be destined to remain two-lane.

And those twelve miles, it is generally agreed, are twelve of the most heavily travelled miles along the entire route. This has been described not only as heavy but "explosive" traffic-huge coal trucks, heavily loaded; explosives trucks, gasoline tankers and the like.

With normal growth, the "waist" of this hour glass of a road will within a few years literally stall the flow of traffic.

Perhaps the ARC is not the only marplot in the scenario. It is said that the decision not to include this sector of the highway in plans for reconstruction or four-laning was reached after ARC was assured by a state highway official that the road as it then was and still is between the two county-seat towns would be adequate. That was a tragic error of judgement.

But wherever the blame lies, the mistake should be corrected, and ARC should not be so inflexible that it, dedicated as it presumably is to the improvement of life in Appalachia, cannot change its spending plans to the end that such a potentially tragic situation can be corrected.

Francis Sets High Examples

(An editorial in The Ashland Daily Independent)

On Sept. 30, Hubbard N. "Huck" Francis of Prestonsburg steps down as governor of the Kentucky-Tennessee district of Kiwanis International, to be officially succeeded by Lowell Shallenberg of Tullahoma, Tenn-

Francis' service needs to be recognized because of the kind of attention and duty he gave to his year as governor of Kiwanis; because his club serves as something of a hotbed for civic responsibility; and because of the example his strength and character have given to Kiwanians and others around the two states

"I promised my Lord, when I took this office, that my conduct would be such that neither He nor any Kiwanian in this district would ever have to be ashamed of it," he told a crowd of a thousand in convention at Johnson City. Tenn

For those who have known Huck Francis, that promise, based upon morality and his own strong life, was understood without any vow. Another speaker at that convention noted that Francis' belief system was built to give primacy to spiritual matters, and his hometown record in his Baptist Church has been a stout one.

four inches. "It's only logic that, if someone's drawing water with a twoinch meter from a system which is fed by a two-inch meter, they're going to take it all," he reasoned.

Not so, claims Bob Hackworth, general manager at Beaver-Elkhorn. The problem, he says, is that David is currently using considerably more water than it has ever used before. 1.6 million gallons have been pumped this month into a system which has never before drawn more than a million gallons a month, he said. That should be enough to supply a town several times the size of David, which has fewer than 100 customers, he said.

Hackworth said he believes the David water system has a major leak, a problem compounded by what he describes as the system's "very loose" management. Both the leak and the management problems could be promptly resolved, he said, if Beaver-Elkhorn is permitted to take over the David system—a proposal he says has the support of the Utilities Regulatory Commission.

Howard conceded this week that he does not have the answer to the town's water problem, and indicated that he might soon resign from the water district board. "All I've had is headaches," he said. "And I've had enough.'

Mary Pineau, of David, founder of the planning group, said this week she thinks the time is ripe for a renewal of interest in the project. The current move to re-zone the property threatens the county with an irreplaceable loss. she said.

Burns, the home's original owner, was said by the late Henry P. Scalf. Floyd county historian, to have been-like most Floyd countians at the time-a Union supporter who nevertheless fell under suspicion of Confederate sympathies on account of his partnership with John M. Elliott, reputed to have been helping Confederate interests. Burns fled Prestonsburg at Garfield's approach. returned later, and moved to Catlettsburg in 1864.

The property was subsequently purchased by Dr. R. H. Leele and Margaret Fitzpatrick Leete, and was inherited by their daughter, Elizabeth Leete Stephens, wife of Claude Stephens, who lived there until shortly before its purchase by Allen several years ago. While the furniture has been sold at auction, a pistol reputed to have belonged to Garfield is said to be still in the family's possession.

Edith James, sister to Mrs. Leete and well-known collector of local folk music, said this week she hoped the Garfield Place, which had been "like a second home" to her, might yet be saved. "But I'm afraid the present generation is not interested in preserving its heritage," she opined. "It's interested only in money, show, and parking lots.

Jenny Wiley Trail Added To National Parks System

Secretary of the Interior Cecil D. Andrus has designated the historic Jenny Wiley Trail in eastern Kentucky a National Recreation Trail in the National Trails System, the Interior Department has announced. A certificate of designation was presented at the annual meeting last Sunday of the Jenny Wiley Trail Conference in South Portsmouth, Kentucky.

The scenic Jenny Wiley Trail is a continuous 180-mile-long hiking trail which runs from South Portsmouth. Ky. to Jenny Wiley State Park. Two side trails connect with Jenny Wiley-the 24-mile Michael Tygart Trail, which links Greenbo Lake Park and the 9-mile Simon Kenton Trail. which links Carter Caves State Park. for a total of 213 miles.

The trail offers some out, inding views as it generally follows the ridge line of the Pottsville Escarpment. There are such interesting scenic features as waterfalls, large overhanging rocks and unusual rock formations along the trail route.

Open year-round, the trail is jointly administered by the FIVCO Area Development District and the Jenny Wiley Trails Conference. At the federal level the National Trails Program is administered by the Heritage Conservation and Recreation Service (HCRS).

Designation of the Jenny Wiley Trail is the eighth addition to the National Trails Program in Kentucky and the 475th in the nation.

If you re like most Americans, you suffer through three colds every year, with each lingering from three to ten days," so says science writer Lowell Ponte in the October Reader's Digest. And for years doctors and scientists have been arguing the effectiveness of vitamin C in battling the common cold. According to the most recent findings.

vitamin C can indeed help prevent colds! Reporting on controlled tests conducted by Dr. Terence W. Anderson of the University of Toronto-actually double blinds, where neither the scientists nor the volunteers knew who was taking vitamin C and who received placebos-Ponte writes:

"Twenty-six percent of the volunteers taking vitamin C remained free of illness throughout the winter experiment, compared with only 18 percent of those taking placebos. Even more significantly, those taking vitamin C experienced 30 percent fewer total days off work or confined to a sickbed." This is particularly important since colds are estimated to cost our society more than $19 billion annually in labor lost.

In addition, vitamin C performs other useful functions, he writes; It opens stuffy breathing passages

It increases the body's supply of oxygen

It detoxifies poisons It helps clear toxic metals like lead and mercury out of the system It enhances the effect of aspirin or antibiotics during a cold It speeds healing But it also has risks: In huge doses, it leaches calcium and other needed minerals

The state Energy Regulatory Commission has given Equitable Gas Co. of Pittsburg, Pa., authority to issue and sell up to 175,000 shares of common stock under the company's restricted stock option and stock appreciation rights incentive compensation plan.

Equitable serves 4,043 residential and three industrial customers in Kentucky along its transmission lines in Floyd, Martin, Magoffin, Johnson, Pike, Knott, Leslie, Perry and Letcher counties.

The stock option plan was approved by Equitable shareholders in May. A committee comprised of three members of the company's board of directors will select key employees who are entitled to receive the option of purchasing common stock at not less than 75 percent or more than 100 percent of the closing price on the day the option is granted. The price cannot be less than the par value of the common stock.

Cats Down Morgan County, Other Floyd Teams Lose

By C. OLLIE ROBINSON The Prestonsburg High School Blackcats won their first district game of the season last Friday by defeating Morgan County High in the Sorghum Bowl at West Liberty, 21 to 16. It was the Blackcats' fifth consecutive game away from home, and their overall record now stands at 3 wins and 2 losses.

The Cats fell behind in the first half as the host team scored two touchdowns, one on a 50-yard pass from quarterback Bill Allen to Mide Holbrook. The run was good and Morgan County led, 8 to 0, the Blackcats went on the scoreboard as Greg Haywood caught a 13-yard pass from quarterback Jack Wells. The run failed, but in the third quarter Wells. passed to Steve Wright for 9 yards and a touchdown. Greg Haywood ran the extra points. Wells passed to Steve Rice for a 20-yard touchdown, then sophomore B.J. Sturgill kicked the extra point for the final score for the Cats. Morgan County closed out the scoring in the fourth quarter when Tommy May had a safety.

Prestonsburg will face Evarts in their first home game, Friday night. Last Friday night, Evarts lost to Harlan, 26 to 13. In the late ratings Harlan was No. 5 in Class A. Paintsville was rated No. 1 in the Class A, and will meet Johnson Central Thursday night at the Paintsville field in the annual Apple Bowl game. Paintsville is now 5 and 1. Johnson Central won easily last Friday night by thumping Johns Creek, 55 to 6.

Coach Don Daniels' Betsy Layne Bobcats traveled to Hurley, Va., Friday night and lost to Hurley, 30 to 12.

MOTOR VEHICLE DIV. TO LICENSE BOATS

Gov. John Y. Brown Jr. has issued an executive order changing the name of the division of motor vehicle tax to the division of motor vehicle licensing and transferring the licensing of motor boats to that division.

Brown said the secretary of Transportation had determined that since the division licenses motor vehicles it would be most appropriate, efficient and economical to license motorboats as well. Kentuckians will still buy their boat licenses through the circuit clerk's office in their county.

Rice's Crispies ... PHS Winner in Sorghum Bowl Spring Football Makes Sense

By KENNY RICE

Don Daniels, Betsy Layne's football coach, has an idea that makes a lot of sense. Daniels proposes playing the grade school football season during the Spring semester of the school year and moving the grade school basketball season to September, with the tournaments ending the season to be played by December and before the first semester of school ends.

Here are the major points for shifting the sports seasons in the county grade schools:

-The problem of overcrowding the school facilities would take a major step toward being solved. The football fields would not have to be shared by the high and grade schools if they were playing at different times of the year. The basketball season for the grades would be ending before the high schools really began a full schedule, thus less conflict in the use of gym time.

-Every high school football coach needs more assistants. With the grade school coaches free in the Fall, they would assist the high school programs. The high school coaches would be available in the Spring to work with their feeder schools.

-Spring football would eliminate some of the competition for the dollars' that every program needs for survival. Parents are faced with grade school and high school football in the Fall which is immediately followed by grade school and high school basketball.

-By finishing the grade basketball schedule in the first semester, the youngsters would not have to play during the months of January and February when the weather is the coldest and the roads freeze constantly.

-Football programs could share the cost of equipment with grades using the equipment at a separate time from the high schools.

-The grades would have a sport to offer youths in the Spring, something they don't have at this time.

Daniels feels that every county in this area would use the Spring football schedule in the grades within two years after it is initiated. He is hoping this county begins it before another county gets the jump on Floyd.

RETURNS

In Betsy Layne's 33-12 loss to Phelps, September 5, both of the Bobcats' touchdowns came on 85-yard kickoff returns in the first quarter. The first was by Lee Roy Ross and the second by Wayne Morris.

ALL-STAR FOOTBALL GAME

The county grade school all-star football game will be played at the Prestonsburg football field, October 16. Kickoff for the contest pitting the Class A stars (Prestonsburg, Clark, Martin, Stumbo) against the Class B stars (Betsy Layne, Osborne, Maytown, Allen) is set for 7:30. Eastern school. Martin coached the sport three years at Sheldon Clark and never failed to qualify a team for the state meet. AC won its inaugural run with Paintsville. Shawn Thacker, Ollie Goble, McKay Reynolds, Tim Reynolds, Tim Lawson, Derek Click, Chris Reed and Tony Jones comprise the Central cross-country team.

NEW COACH AT PHS

Tim Salisbury will be coaching the Prestonsburg girls basketball team this season as Gary Hopkins takes the season off to be with his wife who is expecting their first child this winter.

HANDCUFFED

When an infielder has a ball come upon him quickly and he isn't able to get his hands to react fast enough, he is handcuffed. McDowell's basketball coach and resident wit, David Turner, was involved in a semi-pro baseball game at Archer Park in 1970 where the opposing shortstop was indeed handcuffed. The Archer Park team was playing Whick, a team from Breathitt county. Halfway through the game, with the Whick team in the field, a deputy sheriff and a constable came onto the field and arrested the visiting shortstop.

"They must have tracked him from Breathitt to Archer Park," David laughed, "They took him away but about ten minutes later he came running back on the field, yelling, 'I can finish the game before I go to jail."

BILLY'S PLACE

Billy Ray Collins, softball commissioner, city councilman, and an all around enterprising fellow, is now fixing some great tasting hamburgers at his restaurant. About a month back, Billy Ray and star softball player, Mike Meade, who also happens to be a fine carpenter, went to work on sprucing up the Playhouse in Prestonsburg. They've done a great job, but that was expected.

A TIP

UK is unquestionably THE school in the state for major college football and basketball. Not everyone can get good tickets or even bad tickets for the Cats' games however. This does not leave the local sports fan wanting to watch college ball in person out in the cold. OVC schools Morehead State and Eastern Kentucky offer the best brand of football in I-AA and their basketball teams feature ex-high school stars from the mountains.

There are a lot of MSU and EKU alumni in this county and they can tell you OVC football and basketball gives those interested in being there for the action a good alternative.

HEADS UP DEFENSE helped the Prestonsburg Blackcats defeat the Morgan County Cougars, 21-16, Friday night at West Liberty. Here a PHS defender foils a Cougar pass attempt.

The Prestonsburg Blackcats traveled to Morgan County Friday night and came back with an important conference win over a strong Cougar team. PHS, lately riddled by injuries, pulled together during the Sorghum Bowl contest and walked away with a five-point victory, 21-16.

*After dominating the first quarter defensively and maintaining good field position, the Blackcats gave up two touchdowns to the Cougars in the second quarter as well as an extra point conversion to trail 14-0. Late in the quarter, however, Prestonsburg's offense got untracked and moved steadily down the field scoring on a fourth down pass from Jack Wells to Greg Haywood. After an unsuccessful extra point attempt, the halftime score stood at 14-6.

According to a member of the PHS coaching staff, "the players and coaching staff worked hard and dug deep into the character of the team to come out prepared to perform at the level required to win."

As Morgan County kicked off to Prestonsburg to begin the second half, the Blackcats proceeded to drive down the field with strong blocking and a precise aerial assault. The drive proved to be the undoing of the Morgan countians as the second Blackcat touchdown came when Jack Wells passed for nine yards to Steve Rice, and Coach Haywood, looking for the eventual win, went for the two-point conversion with a pass from Wells to Greg Haywood to tie the game at 14-14. Throughout the first three quarters the defense was called on to contain an

the defense was called on to contain an explosive Morgan County offense, which they did. They were again called on in the fourth quarter to make a break for the team so the offense could gain possession, and, again, they did as Mark McKenzie rushed the Morgan County quarterback and delivered a crushing tackle causing a fumble which was immediately recovered by teammate John Gilliam.

The PHS offense again took charge and scored, again on fourth down, and following a penalty, with a "flea flicker" play from Jack Wells to Greg Haywood to Steve Rice covering 13 yards. The extra point conversion attempt by B.J. Sturgill was good pushing the Blackcat lead to 21-14 with about 10 minutes remaining.

The Cougars received the kickoff and started a strong drive which was stopped when Ray Marcum made two outstanding defensive plays in a row forcing Morgan County to punt the ball. The Blackcat offense then began a drive that was slow to develop and all but ended by a costly penalty call.

With only 21 seconds remaining, Coach Haywood chose to take a twopoint safety in order to use up valuable seconds. The decision paid off as it gave PHS a free kick from the 20-yard line with better defensive field position to fend off the Cougars during the last nine seconds of the game. And so the Morgan countians were stalled with the final score showing 21-16.

Morgan County was held to 168 yards total offense giving up two fumbles and one interception. The Blackcats gained nine first downs and 173 total yards with 90 passing and 83 rushing. Jack Wells completed 12 of 20 passes.

KENTUCK

By JOHN WILSON

Kentucky's bowhunting deer season opens Oct. 1 and the big news this year is that archers may take two deer.

Back in the good old days (that is, prior to this season) the lucky bow hunter who went out opening day and took his deer after maybe only an hour or two of hunting was through for the season. But this year, he may purchase "second deer" permit and continue to hunt

If he takes the first deer by bow, he may use his second permit to bow hunt, gun hunt during the Nov. 8-10 and Dec. 6-8 gun seasons or, if he still hasn't taken that elusive second deer, use a crossbow during the special crossbowonly season Dec. 21-23.

But after he takes deer number two, that's all. Under no circumstances may a hunter legally take more than two deer in Kentucky this season.

If you haven't bought your deer permit yet, remember that the "first deer" permit and the "second deer" permit are different. Make sure you ask for the right one. Each permit costs $10.50.

The first permit, of course, is for the hunter who hasn't already taken a deer. This permit is blue and has a complete rundown of deer hunting regulations and a list of check stations attached to it.

A portion of this permit has a space for hunters to punch out a circle to indicate the method-gun or archery-used to take the deer. According to fish and wildlife regulations, this section must be punched before the deer is moved.

This section of the permit is then presented to the check station operator nearest to where the deer was taken (or to the nearest available conservation officer) who will validate the permit. This section of the permit must be retained if the hunter wishes to hunt for a second deer.

The second deer permit (this one is white and has nothing attached to it) can be used only after a hunter has taken his first deer. It is not valid unless it is accompanied by the properly punched and validated portion of the first permit. This is because this portion of the first permit shows how the first deer was taken, and only one deer may be taken by gun, except on certain special management areas-see the deer guide attached to your first permit for full details.

Other than the two-tag, two-deer change, other bowhunting regulations remain pretty much the same. Bow hunters may take either antlered or antlerless deer in all open counties. Estill, Floyd, (except Dewey Lake Wildlife Management Area), Johnson, Knott, Knox, Lincoln, Magoffin, Martin and Perry counties are closed to all deer hunting, whether by gun, bow or crossbow.

Several wildlife management areas re closed to hunting or have other

Traffic School Goes Statewide

A new statewide traffic school program has been established as an educational tool for Kentucky's drivers, according to state transportation officials.

Successes in locally operating traffic schools in Franklin, Jefferson and Fayette counties prompted the 1980. General Assembly to establish a statewide program. Responsibility for the schools was placed with the state Department of Transportation beginning July 15. More than 450 students in Jefferson County successfully completed the traffic school during the first week of the program.

The school is one chance at educating first-time traffic offenders before they are fined, says Sim McCarty, who is responsible for the program. Most first offenders have the option of paying a fine or attending traffic school

Allen Central Places First

The Allen Central boys varsity cheerleaders, reigning 58th district champs, have completed their most successful year ever at Morehead State University's summer cheerleading camp. They were awarded the first place trophy in pom pom evaluation, and each girl individually received a gold superior ribbon. During the week they were awarded seven blue superior ribbons and a spirit stick in cheer and sideline evaluation. In the final evaluation they won four gold superior ribbons and a spirit stick. They also placed in the top eight, competing with top squads from the Tri-State and surrounding areas for the title of regional champs. They were beaten by Ashland Holy Family.

Since returning home, the girls have received a letter inviting them to compete for the national high school cheerleading championship at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio, November 22. They will be competing there for the title of Mid-West regional champions.

The top squad in the high school division at each regional competition will be invited to participate in the finals of the competition in Orlando. Fla., which will be televised, next spring.

Elementary All-Star Game Scheduled Here, Oct. 16

The Floyd County Elementary Football Program will reach its climax Thursday, Oct. 16. at 7:30 p.m. when the annual All-Star game will be played at the Prestonsburg High School football field.

The All-Star game will pit the Class A schools against Class B schools. The head coach for each team will be the coach of the respective division champions. Twenty-six players will be chosen for each team by the division coaches.

Cheerleaders for the game will be the first team cheerleaders from each division championship team

Trophies will be awarded to the winning team of each division, each head coach will receive a plaque and all 52 players chosen for the game will receive individual trophies.

Class A division schools and their coaches: Clark Elementary, Earl Ousley: Martin Elementary, Jimmy Hopkins: Prestonsburg Elementary. Charles Collins: Stumbo Elementary, Gerald Newsome.

Class B division schools and coaches: Allen Elementary, David Mosley: Betsy Layne Elementary, Don Daniels: Maytown Elementary, Ronnie Patton: Osborne Elementary, Roger Johnson.

All regularly scheduled games will be played before October 11.

PLAN MINE CLASS

Five one-day classes will be taught at the Coal Building, Martin, this month. The classes and dates for instruction are:

Underground retraining—Oct. 13, beginning at 7 a.m., surface retraining—Oct. 14, 7 a.m., shot firer—Oct. 15, 8 a.m.; belt examiner—Oct. 16, 8 a.m.; 24-hour surface training—Oct. 20, 8 a.m.

Jamerson, Daniels Meet, Head On

(By Wheelwright High journalism class.)

Wheelwright won its second game of the season against Betsy Layne, Sept. 19, 20-14. Brackett Field was filled to capacity as Jamerson and Daniels pitted their strategies against each other. The Trojans had mixed emotions as they met to confront their previous coach, Don Daniels.

Alan Tackett led the scoring for the Trojans with 12 points, Eddie Johnson

Blackcat Graders Remain Undefeated

The 7th and 8th grade Blackcats opened their season against Pikeville, September 11, with a 20-16 win. On September 15th, they defeated Paintsville, 52-0. They began their county play against Martin last Thursday night with a 50-0 win.

After Martin failed to move the ball, the Little Cats began their romp when Mike Gunter ran the punt back 50 yards for the t.d. Jamie Adkins ran for the 2-point conversion. The next Blackcat series, Jamie Adkins ran 30 yards for the score, with John Goble getting the 2-point conversion. The third Blackcat t.d. came on a blocked punt, with Pete Green recovering the ball in the end zone. The conversion failed.

Prestonsburg began playing its subs midway through the first quarter. John Osborne scored the last t.d. of the half with David Spradlin getting the 2-point conversion. The score at the end of the first half was 30-0.

The second half scoring consisted of a pass of 30 yards from Marty Minix to Pete Green, Todd Daniels recovering a fumble on the kick-off and running it for a t.d., Marty Minix's 2-point conversion, and the last touchdown came on a 20 yard run by Bill Tom Moore,

The Blackcats play Clark Sept. 29 at home. Osborne away on the 30th, and John M. Stumbo away on October 2. ran for 10 yards and a touchdown, and Eddie Little came in for two points. Betsy Layne's Wayne Morris made two spectacular touchdowns and Richie Reynolds came in for the extra points. Trojans' halfback, Alan Tackett, led his team with 144 yards. Gerald Osborne gained 119 yards and Eddie Little had 98 yards. Betsy Layne's offense was dominated by Wayne Morris who had a total of 205 yards.

Wheelwright won the coin toss and Betsy Layne kicked to start the game, with Ronnie Little receiving. Gerald Osborne later fumbled the ball with Betsy Layne recovering. Wayne Morris carried the ball 39 yards for Betsy Laynefor a touchdown with 10:12 left in the quarter. The Trojans quickly came back with a 47-yard touchdown by Alan Tackett. The score was 6-6 at the end of the first quarter.

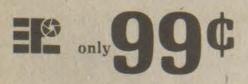

The second quarter was marred by injuries to Wheelwright players. The problem continued to haunt the Trojans throughout the night. The ball went to and fro with neither team scoring during the second quarter.

As the third quarter opened Wheelwright's Gerald Osborne kicked to Betsy Layne's Wayne Morris who scrambled 80 yards for a touchdown. The extra points were good, making it Trojans 6, Bobcats 14, but again the Trojans came back with quarterback Eddie Johnson taking the ball into the end zone with 8:35 remaining. Score, 12-14.

The Trojans struggled in the fourth quarter to gain the lead and it appeared they were defeated. But with 1:08 left in the game Wheelwright's Alan Tackett crashed into the end zone from the one-yard line, giving the Trojans what they needed. Eddie Little scored the extra points for the final 20-14 score.

Allen Central Novices Win Cross-Country Run

The fielding of a cross-country team by Allen Central High School last week was, as far as coach John Martin is aware, a first for the county.

The seven member team met Paintsville High over a 5000 meter (3.1 mile) course last Wednesday, winning the event by 21 points to 39. While Paintsville had the first man over the finish line, Allen Central's Shawn Thacker came in second, McKay Reynolds, third, Tim Lawson, fourth, and Tim Reynolds, fifth. Allen Central runners also placed seventh, eighth, and tenth

The fledgling team ran in borrowed uniforms and, lacking a training course, prepared themselves by running around the school buildings. It is not a big budget sport, Martin explains, "but you can put what you want into it."

A school teacher asked the children in her class to draw a picture of the most important thing they could think of.

A little girl took her art paper and began to work 1 ard and attentively. "What are you drawing?", the teacher asked. "I'm drawing a picture of God," was her answer. Her teacher said, "Honey, nobody knows what God looks like." To this the little girl quickly replied, "They will when I finish drawing Him.

I happen to know many people in this world who can reveal more about goodness, kindness and consideration than others. Somehow, these are able to radiate powers and happiness that is rare in many people.

Are these people able to draw a picture of someone great and powerful? Do they have an insite that escapes many? In any case, I am happy these great ones exist, and that many of

Alice Lloyd Homecoming Scheduled October 11-12

College, Oct. 11-12, promises to be a special time of sharing memories with old friends as well as an opportunity to participate in a wide range of traditional activities. This year's events will be highlighted by the Homecoming Program on Sunday morning featuring Lt. Gov. Martha Layne Collins. The program will be held in the McGaw Library and Learning Resource Center. This new building will be open for alumni visitors all day Sunday.

Last year's most popular attraction, the student-alumni variety show, will be repeated this year. The variety show is being organized by Emma Lois Pigman and will be held in the new library auditorium.

In addition to the variety show, a number of other activities are planned for Saturday. There will be the traditional wiener roast on the meadow. Later that evening there will be the color and pageantry of the Homecoming King and Queen ceremony and the Homecoming dance. Again this year there is plenty in store for the sports enthusiasts. The first alumni athletes

Sunday's activities get under way with Miss June's Continental Breakfast and the worship service. Following the service in Cushing Hall. Miss June will again present her special awards to close friends of the college. Other events include the Alumni Association business meeting and Charlie's special barbeque chicken dinner.

Suit Names Rail Co. As Plaintiff

A Harold rail crossing accident in which two Pike countians were killed and a third injured resulted in the filing Sept. 25 in the Floyd circuit court of a $1,300,000 damage suit against the C.&O. Railway Company

The suit was filed by the survivor, King David Adams, and by Gennece Adams, executrix of the estate of Norman Adams, and by Cassie T. Adkins, executrix of the estate of Bobby G. Adams.

The suit recites that the three men were occupants of a pickup truck owned by Norman Adams, and which was hit by a train. It alleges that the tragedy was the result of negligence on the part of company employees.

Damages of $500,000 each are asked for the estates of the two victims, Norman and Bobby G. Adams; for the injured King David Adams, $300,000.

Advises Setting Up Trust For Mentally Retarded Child

Although newspaper and magazine required to determine that the child is advice columns frequently emphasize the need for parents to make a will, little advice has been given to the parents of developmentally disabled children in making wills to meet their children's special needs.

The state Office for Public Advocacy recently held its first training seminar in Louisville to train lawyers and parents in ways to design a will that will provide for their children's special needs

Melvin Heckt, a Minneapolis attorney and father of a 29-year-old mentally retarded daughter, led the seminar. Heckt has become an authority in the area of wills and trusts for mentally retarded children as a result of his own experience.

He has set up trusts for nearly 700 parents of retarded children or children with other developmental disabilities. He is currently chairman of the legal advocacy committee for the National Association for Retarded Children.

Heckt said that most parents who come to him have three concerns. 'They want to assure that someone will be around to protect, befriend and advocate for their child during that child's lifetime; they want to distribute the money fairly between the disabled child and the other children; and they want to leave their assets for the child in a form that will last and not make the child ineligible for state or federal programs," he said.

'Even millionaires can't be certain that the money they leave their child will pay for that child's expenses throughout his lifetime," he said. "Inflation may eventually eat up all the funds.

"One solution is to set up a trust that will provide services and benefits to the child that can't be obtained through state or federal programs," he said.

Heckt added that if parents simply leave a portion of their estate to the disabled child, the child may not be eligible for many state or federal programs until after that money has been spent. That estate may also be vulnerable to the claims of creditors, and the parents' intentions for the child may never be carried out.

'It is important that parents not leave large amounts of money in the disabled child's name for these reasons," he said. "Leaving a large sum to the developmentally disabled child may also make him vulnerable to exploitation."

Heckt suggested that a parent set up a will in which a trust for the child is included. Several components of the trust are vital:

-All income accumulated by the trust should be returned to the principal;

-Only the trustees (those who manage the trust) should be responsible for how the principal is spent;

-The trust should contain provisions hat prevent creditors from claiming the trust assets and prevent the disabled child from using the trust money; -Regular visits to evaluate the child's residence, medical treatment, education, work and benefits should be receiving the most appropriate care and that the child's rights are not violated

-A termination clause should be included to enable the trustees to end the trust if it interferes with the child receiving benefits from the state or federal government or becomes subject to the claims of creditors.

The special needs of developmentally disabled children continue throughout their lives. A trust, Heckt said, is one of the best means of assuring that these needs will be met after the death of the parents.

Parents don't have to have a large estate to set up a trust, Heckt emphasized. Sometimes a small estate can provide the extra services for the child that federal or state programs cannot

He also suggested that parents who do not have much money consider insurance as a way of providing the funds for a trust.

Parents who are interested in considering a trust for a developmentally disabled child can receive more information by contacting the state Office for Public Advocacy at 1-800-372-2988.

The Office for Public Advocacy is presently compiling names of lawyers who are knowledgeable in trusts for developmentally disabled children and working to provide more training seminars for interested parents and attorneys, according to Marie Allison, attorney for the office.

Legendary Vacation •In Historic Dells

Legend has it that around the turn of the century a teen-age boy climbed a tree and, hidden among its eafy branches, secretly watched the Wisconsin Dells Winnebago Indians perform their age-old sacred dances.

Whether or not Captain Glen Parsons first saw these dances from a tree as a youth, he did show them to tourists at the Wisconsin Dells some 23 years later during his sunset cruises on the Wisconsin River in a steam-driven paddle wheeler. Stopping near the Stand Rock glen, his passengers disembarked and walked up to the glen, a traditional Winnebago gathering place. Sitting on rude benches, they watched the Winnebagos dance while "Cap' Parsons provided the narration.

This was the forerunner of the now world-famous Wisconsin Dells Stand Rock Indian ceremonial. It also presaged the host of theme parks, shows, entertainments and museums which have been attracting millions of visitors to the Dells each year

The Stand Rock Indian ceremonial is one of the country's longest continuously running public Indian many of them tiny totem figurines, performances. Among the Indian and old guns captured during the performers are many who are the French, British and U.S. Indian fourth generation to show the culture of Native Americans to visitors from all over the world.

Miss Gardner, Mr. Meade Exchange Vows

The marriage of Miss Lisa Ann Gardner and Mr. Cary Grant Meade was solemnized at 7:30 p.m., June 20 at the First Christian Church. Prestonsburg, with the Reverend Lorie Vannucci officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie C. Gardner, of Proctorville, Ohio, formerly of Prestonsburg. Mr. Meade is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Chadman Meade, of Auxier. A program of nuptial selections was presented by Miss Brenda Music. Their vows were exchanged in a candlelight ceremony before a prayer bench encircled by an archway flanked by lily of the valley and pedestals which were topped with baskets of mums and roses in colors of violet, orchids and pinks.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of French silk. Embroidered lace with seed pearls enhanced the sweetheart neckline and the fitted bodice. The lace and pearls were also on the A-line skirt and chapel train. The mantilla-style veil had matching French lace embroidery and pearls. The bride carried a bouquet of white and violet roses, baby's breath and seed pearls.

Mrs. Lori Gardner Click was matron of honor, Miss Jennifer Burke was maid of honor and Miss Tia Music and Mrs. Annette Mosley were bridesmaids. They wore identical floor-length gowns of violet taupe with A-line skirts and spaghetti straps topped with rulled jackets. They carried white lace fans with violet-pink flowers. The flower girl was little Miss Melanie Rose Pelphrey. She wore a long white gown of silk organza. The ring bearer was Jason Kestner. Both are cousins of the groom.

Greg Meade, brother of the groom, served as best man. Ushers were Timothy Gardner, brother of the bride, Rancy Click, brother-in-law of the bride, and Dale Mosley, brother-in-law of the groom.

The mother of the bride wore a long taupe rose dress and orchid corsage. The mother of the groom wore a long dress of aqua with an orchid corsage

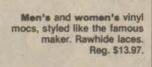

The reception was held at the church. Hostess were Mrs. L.B. Fairchild. Mrs. James D. Adams, Mrs. Ray Gardner, Mrs. Harry Burke, Miss Rita Ellcessor, Miss Sharon Wells, and Miss Christine Spradlin. Miss Kay Hale President Carter has named David C. Short, Region II Director of the Interior Department's Office of Surface Mining (OSM), as a Meritorious Executive of the Federal government.

OSM's Short Honored

A $10,000 award accompanies the honor, bestowed on just 206 senior executives throughout the Federal government. Short has been with the Federal government just over two years.

In announcing Short's selection, Secretary of the Interior Cecil D. Andrus praised his "outstanding efforts and contributions to improved Federal executive management in general and to the Department of the Interior in particular" and noted that competition for the award was "extremely keen." OSM Director Walter N. Heine also commended Short for his "invaluable contributions" to OSM and told him: 'You have demonstrated the qualities of strength, leadership, and integrity as well as personal initiative and innovation in overcoming obstacles to achieve OSM's objectives."

Short said he viewed the honor as "a reflection of the superior manner in which OSM employees throughout Region II have been performing their duties over the last two years, and I accept it in that light.' "I truly believe we have many outstanding workers in Region II who have performed admirably at a most difficult task, compounded by extremely short deadlines and staff shortages," Short said. "Because of their dedication, Region II has not missed any important deadlines and has served well both the public and the state agencies. I am pleased with this recognition, for their sake." Short was appointed Regional Director of OSM's Knoxville, Tennessee, office, one of five throughout the country. in July, 1978. His region includes Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Florida.

His most recent position prior to that was as Assistant Deputy Kentucky Attorney General and Director of the Division of Natural Resources and Environmental Law in Kentucky's Department of Law.

Altogether, Short worked as an attorney for Kentucky state government for nearly eight years, including an earlier stint as general counsel for the Kentucky Department of Health, which included extensive experience in environmental litigation. He took a leave of absence from the state in 1974-75 to obtain a master's degree in international and comparative law from the Free University of Brussels, Belgium, graduating cam laude.

Short had also previously obtained a law degree and a B.A. in political science from the University of Kentucky.

He is a co-founder of Northeast Kentucky Legal Services. Inc., the first rural legal services program in Kentucky, and served on the original board and later as senior attorney for the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund, Inc., a legal services program

167 Mining Permits Issued Last Month

The division of permits in the state Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection issued 167 mining permits during the month of August.

The number and types of permits issued included 88 original permits, 59 revision permits, 13 amendment permits, two renewal permits, one repermit and four succession permits. Of the total issued, 106 were for surfacemining operations, 47 were for underground mining operations, 10 were for preparation-plant facilities and refuse areas and four were for haul roads

Permitting activities for August authorized the disturbance of 4,440.7 new acres of land and resulted in the collection of $245,970 in fees.

$2m. In Taxes Returned

The Kentucky Department of Revenue has mailed checks totaling $1,942,033.67 to Kentucky businesses that made payments under the 1978 Litter Control Act.

Commissioner of Revenue Robert Allphin said today refunds have gone out to 2,896 taxpayers who made payments under the "litter tax" law, which was in effect from June 1978 until it was declared unconstitutional in May 1980. Following the May ruling. the commonwealth was ordered to refund all revenues collected.

The Litter Control Act was passed by the 1978 General Assembly as a means of funding some activities of the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection. Under its provisions various wholesalers, manufacturers and processors were required to remit 3 cents per $100 of their gross receipts from sales of such items as newspapers, magazines, tires and other materials wrapped in plastic, paper or fiber containers.

The law was invalidated by the Kentucky Superme Court May 14.

Dr. Jim Herron, weed specialist, discusses common lawn weeds with Gilbert Music, maintenance worker at Highlands hospital, during recent ground maintenance workshop.

By JOHN E. SPARKS County Extension Agent for Agriculture

A one day workshop was held at the Floyd county library, sponsored by U.K. and the Floyd county extension service, to provide information and training for people caring for public and private grounds. Program participants were A.J. Powell, turf specialist, Dr. Jim Herron, weed specialist. and Robert McNiel and David Hensley, horticulture specialists

For those who need to renovate or establish lawns. August through September is the best time to sow grass with the second best choice being February through March. By seeding now and getting a good stand of grass you are cutting down on weed competition in the spring. Due to the extreme hot and dry weather many bluegrass lawns that were not being watered were sowing tall fescue because it is more hardy and disease resistant. Some good varieities to choose from are Kentucky 31 fescue. Kenhy and Rebel. With the tall fescue, a heavier seeding rate is needed to prevent clumping. Six to seven pounds of seed per 1,000 square feet is recommended for a thicker turf.

Now is also the best time for general treatment of kiwn weeds. Fall killing allows lawn grasses to fill in vacant spaces before crabgrass germinates next spring. For crabgrass control, pre-emergence herbicides should be applied before April 1 before the crabgrass seed germinates.

COMMUNITY CONSUMER SER-VICES

In this age of runaway inflation, few people would argue that consumer protection is a highly needed commodity. For consumers to be aware of their rights and buying power has become essential.

Attorney General Steve Beshear has announced that the consumer protection division, along with the Department for Human Resources' Bureau for Social Insurance and many community service agencies in the Bluegrass area, will soon begin a concentrated effort to assist low-income individuals with consumer problems.

While the role of the social insurance agencies will be fimited, the agencies will serve as the main base for the distribution of consumer-related information. Bureau offices in each county of the Bluegrass district will be supplied with consumer information literature, complaint forms and a listing of community agencies available to provide further assistance.

The established network of community service  $a_b$  ies will serve as the prime resource to assist consumers in how to fill out and how to file a consumer complaint.

Though the initial area affected will be in the Bluegrass district, the program is expected to expand to cover all 15 area development districts of Kentucky. If you have any questions regarding this program, or if you are experiencing a consumer-related problem, write the Attorney General's Office, Consumer Protection Division. 209 St. Clair Street, Frankfort, Ky.

Dickens Novel To Open Sun. on KET

"A Tale Of Two Cities," Charles Dickens' story of mystery, love and honor during the French Revolution, is the next presentation on "Once Upon A Classic." Divided into eight half-hour episodes, "A Tale of Two Cities" premieres Sunday, October 5 at 11:30 a.m. on KET.

Set in Paris and London, "A Tale Of Two Cities" looks at the revolution which brought about the collapse of French society and which spawned "The Terror" that sent thousands to the guillotine.

In the debut episode of the new adaptation, Lucie Manette learns that her father, who has been missing for almost 20 years, is alive. Jarvis Lorry, the banker who managed Dr. Manette's affairs, has agreed to take her to Paris where the doctor has been living since he was released from the treacherous Bastille prison.

Dr. Manette's former servant, Mr. Defarge and his wife, have been caring for him while he lived a lonely life in an attic above their wine shop, biding his time making shoes until rescuers could take him safely back to England.

The public is invited to attend the hearing to offer their comments on the proposed zoning changes.

Helicopter Used To Quell Forest Fires

The helicopter made another pass over the rural Bell county hillside, dropping 80 gallons of water from an attached bucket, as 75 firefighters and officials from Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia watched.

Looking at the small localized "rain" which the helicopter poured on the hillside, one of the men nodded and said to his companions. "That'll hold it until you can get a hand crew in there."

The firefighters, attending the 27th annual tri-state fire compact meeting held at Pine Mountain State Park last week, watched the helicopter demonstrate firefighting techniques used in America's western forests.

The demonstraton, jointly sponsored by the division of forestry of the state Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection and the U.S. Forestry Service, dropped 1,200 gallons of water from Cannon Creek Lake in 23 minutes.

"This technique for fighting fires will help, especially if you have limited personnel available," said Steve Pedigo of the Daniel Boone National Forest. "Helicopters can do the work of two or three men."

Demonstration officials told the group helicopters can be used for three hajor firefighting tasks—to fly in firefighting crews, to do "bucket work," dropping water directly on fires and to ferry cargo loads into supply areas.

"Like any firefighting tool, it all depends on how well you use it," said Pedigo. "In the spring of 1976, I saw a helicopter equipped with a 100-gallon bucket save the lives of two firefighters on a mountainside in North Carolina."

"Turn-around time" for the helicopter demonstration witnessed by the group was five minutes from water source to target and back to water source. During the short demonstration 15 buckets of water from the lake were scooped up and emptied on a targeted area.

The bucket, equipped with hydraulic lines, dropped water directly on target, or spread along the flight line. The lines, which allow the pilot to control the amount and placement of the water, can also jettison the bucket should it become entangled. "That means that should something go wrong, you'll only lose your bucket, not your $2,000,000 helicopter." Pedigo explained.

The helicopter, rented by the division of forestry for the meeting, seemed a plausible firefighting tool to most of the forestry personnel present. "You can put out a lot of fire with just a little yell-placed water," said forest warden Chuck Hedgline, of Hazard.

Retired forester Walter Green declared the technique "very helpful." especially with small fires or beginning fires. "It's easy for a fire to get ahead of you in terrain like this," Green said, motioning toward the many hills and cliffs surrounding the lake

"This lake was an ideal place for emonstrating the value of helicopters equipped with buckets," said Forestry Director Ray Swatzyna. "It combined a ready water source and the geography in which aerial aid is most successful."

The tri-state fire compact meeting brought together representatives of the three states, the federal firefighting agencies and private and commercial landowners to discuss common firefighting concerns.

By FRANCES H. PITTS County Extension Agent for Home Economics ADJUST FLEXIBLE EXPENSES TO COPE WITH INFLATION

Many people have found it a challenge to develop and use a spending plan. But with double-digit inflation, it's even more important to plan and control your spending.

Don't make the mistake of trying to plan too far in advance. It's best to start with a two- or three-month plan rather than one for a year.

Begin by establishing what your income-take home pay-will be for the time period you are planning. Then subtract fixed expenses from the income. Fixed expenses are those you're already committed to, such as a mortgage and car payment, taxes and insurance premiums. You should also include a contribution to your emergency fund as a fixed commitment.

An emergency fund is an account where you make a monthly deposit to cover or help cover insurance premiums, household repairs, car repairs and other unexpected expenses.

If you have an emergency fund your budget will not go haywire when the washer breaks down or when the car insurance comes due because you'll have the money you need to cover these expenses, and you will have more control over them as time goes on. For example, you'll decide what to spend for food and clothing.

Also keep track of out-of-pocket cash expenses. It will take less than five minutes every evening to list what you paid cash for during the day. Unless your finances are really tight, keep track to the nearest dollar or even the nearest $5. Then you won't be bothered with the often tedious task of keeping track of every penny.

Just remember to establish your "break point" if you use this system. This means that if you are keeping track to the nearest dollar and the amount includes one to 49 cents, drop it; but if the amount is 50 to 99 cents, go to the next dollar. Establish your break point and then use it consistently to help this system work.

In addition, never write a check without noting what it is for. This practice also will help simplify your recordkeeping procedures.

After you set up a plan, keep track of where the money goes, whether it's a

A tradition at the apple festival is fried apple pies, those hand-size pie wedges of spices and apples sprinkled liberally with sugar. Various booths sponsored by church, school and civic groups also offer apple pies, stack cakes, fruit puffs, apple rings, apple cider, applesauce, cinnamon crunch, apple sundaes, candied apples on a stick and quarts of the delectable apple butter.

Virginia Blair, of Paintsville, has a way of making apple syrup to drizzle over waffles, toast, crepes, ice cream or hot biscuits. To make one cup of syrup she mixes one cup of diced Johnson county apples, 34 cup maple flavored syrup, 1/2 cup water, 3/4 teaspoon cinnamon and one tablespoon lemon juice in saucepan. "Heat to boiling, then reduce heat and simmer till apples are transparent, about 10 minutes," she said.

Paintsville is accessible from Mountain Parkway, US 460 and a short drive from Interstate -64. Once within the county, look for the smoke from the apple butter stir and follow the aroma of cooking apples.

Former Educator Wayne Ratliff, Sr., Victim at Age 73

Wayne Ratliff, Sr., 73, died last Thursday evening, at Highlands Regional Medical Center following a short illness.

Born December 2, 1906 at Langley, he was a son of the late James and Mary Porter Ratliff. A retired school administrator, he was a member of the Kentucky Education Association, the National Education Association, and the Kentucky Association of School Administrators, the Masonic Lodge, was a past worthy patron of the Order of Eastern Star, and a member of National Realtors Assn., and the local Chamber of Commerce.

From the age of 12, when he went to Frankfort with the late Will Stewart as a special page to Governor Morrow, to the Crusade tours through the midwest to California to raise money for his alma mater, Caney College, he studied and worked to get more education for himself and the youth of this area.

Completing the two years of college available at Caney, he went on to Tusculum College in Greenville, Tenn., to earn his baccalaurecte degree. He studied law at the University of Kentucky and received his master's degree in Educational Administration from the University of Kentucky in 1951.

Although he taught at all levels in the public schools in this county and was for a time a visiting professor at the Prestonsburg Community College, the major portion of his adult life was spent in public school administration—four years as principal of Bonanza High School, 18 years as principal of Wheelwright High School, and 20 years as assistant superintendent of schools, in charge of personnel and finance in the Floyd county school system. Upon retirement from his educational work, he founded and developed the Ratliff-Lenox real estate business here.

Survivors include his wife of 49 years, Mrs. Ethel May Ratliff; a son, Wayne W. Ratliff, Jr., Allen; a daughter, Mrs. Phyllis Lenox, of Prestonsburg; three sisters, Mrs. Emma Jones, Grundy, Va., Mrs. Flossie Reed, Monroeville, Ind., and Mrs. Maggie Hill, Mt. Sterling, Ky., and four grandchildren. His funeral was conducted at 1 p.m. Sunday from the chapel of the Hall Funeral Home, the Rev. Earl Waugh officiating. Taking part in the service were longtime friends and associates in the field of education-Ex-Supt. Charles Clark, who delivered the eulogy, Woodrow Allen, who read the obituary, and Billie Jean Blackburn, who provided the music. Burial was made in Davidson Memorial Gardens at Ivel.

By DR. JERRY HOWELL Department of Biological and Environmental Sciences Morehead State University The last article outlined three present and future major world problems. as presented in the latest Presidentially-commissioned study. The Global 2000 Report to the President." This report, three years in preparation, represents the finding, statistics and analyses of 13 government agencies. Its 800 pages paint a foomy environmental picture of the world in 2000 A greatly increased world population (from the present four and one-half billion to six and onehalf billion in 2000), the decreasing availability of food on a per capita basis and a dwindling energy supply were three major problems discussed in the last installment

These primary problems are spawning secondary problems, but not yet of the magnitude they will be in 2000. For example, as man invades their wild habitats and pollutants rain down on them, one-half to two million species of plants and animals may die off in the next two decades. Rare plants needed to create new blight and disease resistant hybrids will disappear.

Paradoxically, some environmental problems may result from trying to resolve others. Soil salinity is increasing and by the year 2000, as irrigation increases even more, the soil's ability o sustain food production will decrease, just at a time when we need it the most.

One consequence of the increased use of energy predicted by 2000 will be global heating, which could start the polar icecaps melting. A probable result of increased energy production

Water will be at a premium in 2000, shortages will be commonplace, especially in areas with poor soil conservation resulting from improper forestry or range practices.

The report is restrained, dignified and non-sensational. It carries an uncomfortable feeling of authenticity which relates again and again the message that time is running out. They do offer some hope, though, that technology, cleverness, proper planning, and new initiatives will help stem the obvious.

The study admits there are no "quick fixes." The authors agree that the solutions are complex and long-term, and are linked to some of the most perplexing and persistent problems in the world, including poverty, injustice and social conflict.

'Sid' Meade Named EKEDC Chairman

Foster "Sid" Meade, native of McDowell and superintendent of Lewis county schools, was named to his second consecutive term as chairman of the Eastern Kentucky Educational Development Corporation Board of Directors at a recent meeting in Ashland.

A graduate of McDowell High School, Mr. Meade received his AB and master's degrees from Morehead university and has been active in eastern Kentucky school systems for 38 years, having served 14 years as superintendent of South Portsmouth Independent and Irvine city schools, and the last 12 years in his present position.

He is probably best known, however, for his 38 years of officiating at high school basketball games and his refereeing of more district, regional, and state tournaments than any other Kentuckian, living or dead.

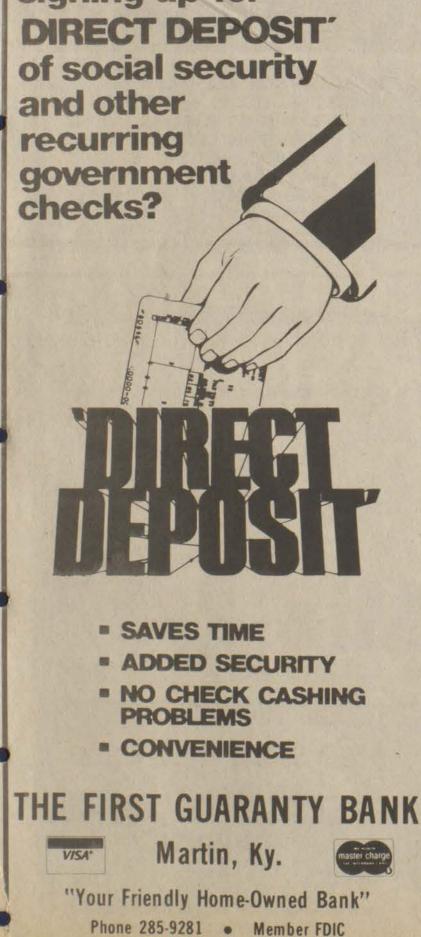

Mr. Meade and his wife, Florence, reside at Vanceburg. Their daughter is a teacher at Tollesboro, and they have one grandson

WILLIAMS TO SPEAK AT NATURAL BRIDGE

Dr. Cratis Williams, nationally known authority on Southern Appalachian Mountains culture, will be the guest speaker for the Kentucky Youth Research Center's annual field meeting at Natural Bridge State Park on October 1 and 2.

The Kentucky Youth Research Center, Inc. (KYRC) is a private, nonprofit agency which is instrumental in activating educational, health, and social service programs in eastern Kentucky. The annual field meeting unites board and staff members with parents and other program participants in a communication and learning event. Representatives from 13 eastern Kentucky counties will be attending the meeting. Self-described as a "complete mountaineer." Dr. Williams' own background and his life-long studies have made him an authority on the Appalachian language patterns and the area's cultural heritage. His appearances at the KYRC meeting are jointly sponsored by KYRC and the Kentucky Humanities Council. Dr. Williams is well known as an educator and an entertainer who spellbinds his audiences with colorful tales. This meeting is one of Dr. Williams' many appearances before conventions. workshops, clubs, colleges, and other groups from New York and Florida.

The Floyd County Times

Lead Smelter Fined In Health Violation

The U.S. Department of Labor's Occupational Safety and Health Administration has proposed penalties totaling $82,765 against the Bunker Hill Company of Kellogg, Idaho for 108 alleged violations of occupational safety and health standards. Four of the alleged violations were termed willful, four repeat, 92 serious and eight other than serious. Bunker Hill operates a primary lead smelter.

In citations issued September 11, the agency proposed a $10,000 penalty against the Gulf Resources and Chemical Corporation subsidiary for adopting and implementing a "corporate policy which required women employees to be sterilized in order to be eligible to work in areas of the plant where they would be exposed to lead." OSHA believes that this policy constitutes a willful violation of the general duty clause of the Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970 which requires employers to provide employment and a place of employment free from recognized hazards causing or likely to cause death or serious physical harm.

Occupational exposure to lead can cause damage to the nervous, urinary and reproductive system; studies have linked lead exposure in workers to defects in their offspring. However, the agency's view is that the Bunker Hill Company could not under the OSH Act seek to eliminate the hazard to women employees from excessive lead exposure by compelling them to choose between their jobs and sterilization, thereby incurring serious and irreversible impairment to their reproductive systems.

Good Old Days Return On "Matinee At The Bijou'

Remember the classic cliff-hangers of the late 30's and 40's that left you on the edge of your seat ... to be continued? Remember the thrills of the Saturday matinee Westerns, the zaniness of Laurel and Hardy and vintage cartoons'

KET offers the opportunity to recapture the movie-going experience of that bygone era with titles like "Junior G-Men," "Hopalong Bides Again" and "Winds of the Wasteland," on its new 16-part series "Matinee At The Bijou," premiering Saturday, October 11 at 5:00 p.m.

For 90 minutes each week, "Matinee At the Bijou" joins the theatrical screen with the home television screen. The first eight programs of "Matinee At The Bijou" concentrate on movies from the 1930's; the final eight programs, from the 1940's-presenting, in addition to film entertainment, a lighthearted examination of social developments and technological advances in filmaking spanning the two decades.

Included on the "bill" are such classics as "Winds of the Wasteland" (1952), staring John Wayne; "Man From Music Mountain" (1938) with Gene Autry; "The Lost City" (1935), featuring Russell Hayden; "Hopalong Rides Again" (1937) with William Boyd; Laurel and Hardy in "Movie Struck" (1937); "It's A Joke, Son" (1947) with Kenny Delmar; Crash Corrigan and the Rangebusters in "Cowboy Commandoes" (1944), and "Submarine Alert" (1943) with Richard Arlen.

Selected short subjects include early newsreels; Shirley Temple in two comedies, "Bride of the Beast" (1932) and "Kid in Africa" (1933); a brief "singalong" short subject; a Jimmy Dorsey short with Helen O'Connel, and the Al Christie comedy, "Technocrazy."

"Pagan Moon" (1931); "Ballgame" (1930); Betty Boop's "Crazytown" (1932), and "Smile, Darn Ya, Smile" (1932) are just a few of the animated cartoons that will be featured in the series.

"Matinee At The Bijou" will also feature three complete movie serials, five chapters each: "Junior G Men" (1940) with Huntz Hall and the Eastside Kids; "Zorro's Fighting Legion" (1939) starring Reed Hadley; and Don Terry in "Don Winslow of the Navy" (1943).

Miss Stephanie Jan Hamilton became the bride of Michael Hall Turner in a double-ring ceremony Saturday, August 16 in the United Methodist Church, Morehead.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Hamilton, of Morehead, and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Potter, of Raceland, and Mrs. Ruby Hamilton, of Charlestown, Indiana. The groom is the son of Mr. Ray Turner, of Drift, and the late Amy Lee Turner. He is the grandson of Mrs. Nancy Hall, McDowell, and Mrs. Mae Turner, Drift.

Ferns and lighted tapers decorated the church for the 2 p.m. ceremony performed by Father Dan Dorsey and the Rev. Harold Tatman. Nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. John Stetler, organist, and the Rev. Steve Englehardt, soloist. Selections included "Longer Than," "The Wedding Song," "Ave Maria" and "The Lord's Prayer.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a dress of ivory eyelet with the neckline ruffle and chapel-length train edged in ivory satin. The dress was designed and fashioned by the bride's mother and Mrs. E. W. Martindale. The bride's headpiece was a church. The bride's mother received the guests in a peach colored gowr trimmed in ivory lace and the groom's stepmother, Mrs. Roberta Turner,

Assisting at the reception were Mrs

The bride is a graduate of Western Kentucky University School of Nursing and is employed by St. Claire Medical Center in Morehead. The bridegroom is a graduate of Morehead State University and is employed by Mor-Wood Lumber Company in Morehead. Following a wedding trip to Florida.

Forum Set On Problems of Elderly

The concerns of older Kentuckians will be the topic of a county-wide public forum next week. Residents will be invited to air their views on government services provided to the elderly and problems faced by older Kentuckians. The forum, which will be held October 7 at the George P. Archer Senior Citizens' Center at 1:00 p.m., is one of a series being held in every county as preliminaries to the Kentucky White House Conference on Aging, to be held in May, 1981. Issues pinpointed at the local level will be carried to the statewide conference. The forums and the state conference are sponsored by Kentucky's Department for Human Resources. Fifteen Kentuckians will be selected at the state conference as delegates to the national White House Conference on Aging, Nov. 30 - Dec. 4, 1981.

Oil Shale Mining Regs Need More Info, Task Force Says

Not enough data on Eastern oil-shale deposits is available to adequately develop thorough state oil-shale mining regulations, the new Oil Shale Advisory Task force has concluded after its first meeting.

The task force, appointed by Jackie Swigart, secretary of the state Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, was organized to aid her department in the development of oil-shale regulations. The department was mandated by the 1980 General Assembly to file regulations for oil-shale regulations for oil-shale mining by June 30, 1981.

Everett Green, oil-shale specialist for the Natural Resources Department, explained the registration procedure for oil shale mining exploration and experimental projects. Projects disturbing five acres or less are allowed to operate after registering with the department, he said.

The legislature did not allocate funds for research or regulation development, Green said. However, the Natural Resources Department has made numerous applications to federal agencies and the Ohio River Basin Commission for study and development grants, he said.

The three groups making up the task force represent industrial, environmental and academic interests. Although each group's recommendations duplicated some of the others, all gave suggestions from their individual perspectives.

More studies are needed before long-

Citizens have a right to know about oil-shale processing and its potential hazards, they emphasized. Landowners need to be informed to enable them to make decisions about the sale or lease of their land, they said.

The situation both creates a potential profit for area farmers and possibly endangers their livelihoods, said Tim Murphy of the Kentucky River Coalition. The plants' needs for large amounts of water could potentially create problems, he said.

Creating regulations for oil-shale mining is extremely difficult because the properties of the shale vary greatly from location to location, John Janka, of the Institute of Gas Technology in Chicago, pointed out. Even shale classified into the same category varies from that mined just a few miles away, he said.

The environmental group explained that those variations in shale properties will cause variations in the types of waste products produced by the processing plants.

Studies needed to determine facts about oil-shale production may be hindered by the legislature's pressure to move ahead with regulation development, the university professors said. The time limitations may necessitate a study which looks at a minimum amount of data, they said, but that minimum should be at least a year.

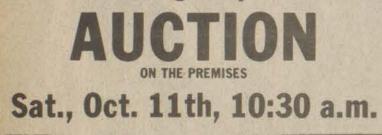

The task force will meet again in several months, said Nancy Osborne, executive assistant to Jackie Swigart.

"In light of our limited resources for term regulations can be developed, the three groups agreed. However, each group used different reasoning to come to that conclusion.

The academic group suggested a long-term baseline study of the shale-rich Knobs area of Central Kentucky is needed to investigate vegetation, animals and minerals. The environmental group wanted a thorough investigation of the possible health effects of the proposed plants.

The industry representatives suggested that more than one oil-shale processing plant should be permitted to operate to study its effects and methodology. The shale itself must be studied to determine its physical and chemical properties both before and after processing, they said.

An oil-shale processing facility handling 5,000 to 10,000 tons of shale each day should be operated over a five-to-10-day period to help answer questions about Eastern shale, the industry group advised. Data gathered over a single year is not sufficient to base regulations upon, he said.

Confidentiality of trade processes must be maintained, they said. Delineations should be made between what kinds of information go to the government or to the public and what will be maintained as trade and process secrets, the industrial representatives said.

Fred Barnett, vice president for technical development for Davy McKee Corp. of Cleveland, Ohio, said eventually surface mining, underground mining and in situ processes could be used to mine oil shale, but that currently surface mining seems to be the most feasible.

The regulations should consider the plant location's limited land, air and water resources, the academic group emphasized. They also suggested that the entire task force tour an experimental oil-shale mining site in Lewis County.

The environmental group agreed there must be limits on the kinds and amount of pollutants emitted by oil shale processing facilities. Developers should be given guidance or be regulated to ensure that processing facilities are located where they will not create environmental problems, the environmentalists said.

program development, the cooperation of these advisory groups is of great importance to the development of air and reasonable oil-shale regulations," she said.

Unemployment Rate Remains High Here

If the economy is improving, the Department for Human Resources' Kentucky labor market estimates for August do not show it. The state's unemployment rate for August hit 8.2 percent of the labor force, 0.7 percentage points above the month's national rate of 7.5 percent. The increase in the state's rate brought the number of jobless Kentuckians to 132,900 persons.

The state's August unemployment rate marked the highest jobless level since the 1975 recession when unemployment peaked at 8.3 percent of the state's labor force, said Robert MacDonald, the department's chief labor market analyst.

During the first eight months of this year, unemployment in Kentucky averaged 7.3 percent of the labor force, or 116,300 persons, about the same level as during the recession five years ago, MacDonald said.

The total civilian labor force in Kentucky numbered 1,625,800 during August, 26,000 more than in July and 54,300 more than in August 1979. The otal was the largest number every ecorded in Kentucky's labor force.

Continued high inflation has caused more people to enter the labor force than ever before, said MacDonald. Many of Kentucky's unemployed are people re-entering or entering the labor force seeking jobs, he added.

MacDonald attributed most of the unemployment directly to the recession, which has lowered the number of available jobs. Job losses have been primarily in the state's durable goods ndustry, he said. The coal, construction and trade industries within Kentucky continue to be depressed.

Battle of Perryville Re-Enacted

Confederate Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner met Union Gen. Lowell Harrison Rousseau at the most critical point of the battle of Perryville during the Civil War. The conflict of their troops symbolized the torn sentiments brought by the war as Kentuckian fought Kentuckian.

Buckner, a native of Munfordville, and Rousseau, a native of Stanford, were among the many soldiers fighting against their own brothers and fellow Kentuckians at the battle of Perryville. Buckner later became governor of Kentucky in 1887 and Rousseau represented Kentucky in the federal Congress after the war.

Although a majority of Kentuckians joined Union forces, a large number sympathized and enlisted with the Confederacy. Being a border state like Missouri, the geographic location of Kentucky exposed it to some of the Civil War's most ferocious fighting, said Dr. Charles Lee, history professor at Centre College in Danville.

According to Dr. Lee, the battle of Perryville not only represented brother fighting brother, but proved to be a decisive turning point during the war in the west. Upon Confederate Gen. Braxton Bragg's retreat following the battle of Perryville, Kentucky remained securely under the Union's control for the duration of the war, said Dr. Lee.

State Wins Control Of Block Grant Fund

Gov. John Y. Brown Jr. announced Friday the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development has given Kentucky administrative control over its Small Cities Community Development Block Grant program for the federal fiscal year starting Oct. 1.

Earlier this year HUD invited states to take part in a demonstration project through which state governments, rather than HUD, run the block grant program. Only Kentucky and Wisconsin were chosen for the program, Brown said. For the past six years, the Louisville area office of HUD had administered block grant money for Kentucky

Kentucky will receive $28 million for next fiscal year's program, Brown said. That is about $3 million more than the current year's allocation. Brown said the cha ange in admistra 'really give us a lot of latitude" in spending the federal money. The block grant funds may be used to buy property for community development, build or renovate public and community facilities, preserve and rehabilitate housing units and promote economic development through site development. In a written statement released at a press conference in the governor's office, Borwn said HUD hopes to see if state control will help make the block grant program more responsive to state and local needs.

A re-enactment of this battle will take place at the original Perryville battlefield in Boyle county Oct. 3-5. Troops portraying units from different periods of the Civil War will be present to re-create the battle. These military units will come from many surrounding states to participate in the weekend activities.

Everything will be authentic and the battle will be historically re-enacted to a certain extent, said Col. Louis Grivetti, coordinator of the units. "This is a very popular re-enactment since we will be on the original battlefield.'

The original battle of Perryville was plagued with problems that won't necessarily be present for the reenactment. Atmospheric conditions and bad communications played important roles in complicating matters for both commanding generals.

The Union commanding officer, Maj. Gen. Don Carlos Buell, did not know the battle had been in progress two hours after it began. Although the general's headquarters was only two miles from the battlefield, an acoustic silence kept sound from traveling its normal distance, said Dr. Lee. The rolling terrain and a mild gale from the west created the silence by ricocheting gun and cannon fire up into the air and away from the surrounding area.

Lack of communications added to atmospheric problems. Had Buell been aware of the battle's progress, he could have overpowered Bragg's Confederate forces, Dr. Lee said. The Union army greatly outnumbered the Confederates 61,000 soldiers to 16,000. Bad communications kept Buell from gathering all Union troops to fight the small number of Confederate forces.

By nightfall, Bragg realized he was severly outnumbered and withdrew toward Harrodsburg. The Confederate troops were actually better handled and used, said Dr. Lee. Although the battle ended in a strategic victory for Buell's Union forces since they controlled the battlefield, Bragg won the tactical victory.

The Perryville battle was one of the fiercest and bloodiest battles of the Civil War. Bragg's troops sustained 3,396 casualities out of 16,000 men. Buell used between 22,000 and 28,000 of his 61,000 men and they sustained 4,241 casualties. According to Dr. Lee, if Buell and Bragg has been better informed and more aggressive, the bat-

The state Department for Local Government will evaluate block grant applications and rank the applications for federal funding. Local government will begin taking applications from city and county governments in January.

Brown said state Development Secretary Larry Townsend was the "catalyst" in getting Kentucky chosen for the demonstration project. He said it was "one idea of some of the very effective things he does." The Local Government Department is a part of the state Development Cabinet.

Big Sandy Valley Funded for Flash Flood Warning System

Congressman Carl D. Perkins announced recently that the Appalachian Regional Commission will provide $800,000 to complete the flash flood warning system for the Big Sandy valley in Kentucky, West Virginia and Virginia, the Upper Cumberland in Kentucky and the Kentucky river valley. The funds will be provided to the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) for radar, computers, automated rain gauges and other equipment. Elements of the system include a flash flood warning coordinator, volunteer rainfall and stream gauge observers, a reliable and rapid local communications system with emergency backup, forecast procedures developed by National Weather hydrologists, a warning dissemination plan and an adequate overall preparedness plan.

The Kentucky counties covered are Pike, Magoffin, Martin, Johnson, Floyd, Bell, Harlan, Knox, Whitley, Breathitt, Knott, Lee, Leslie, Letcher, Perry, Menifee, Powell, Rowan, Wolfe, Morgan and Montgomery.

In 1978 funds were appropriated for an S-band weather radar station with a scanning radius of 125 miles. This station is nearing full operation at Jackson. Another S-band station with a scanning radius of 125 miles received funding in 1979. It will be located at Beckley, West Virginia and should be in full operation within 12 months. Previous funds had been used to set-up a flash flood warning system in twelve counties centered around Pike county. Automated equipment had already been purchased for this area.

"This $800,000 will go a long way towards completing and expanding the flash flood warning system in this tristate area." Congressman Perkins said. "In 1978 I had to drag the National Weather Service into Pikeville to meet with the local people to make them understand the necessity for this warning system. ARC is to be commended for assisting in this effort. With the new radar stations at Jackson

The organizational meeting for these classes will be held in the auditorium at 6 p.m., Tuesday, October 7. The classes are scheduled to meet two nights per week. For further information, call 789-5321 or apply in person at the Mayo admissions office. and Beckley as well as the existing stations in the area, the tristate area will have weather radar coverage that is the best in the nation. The addition of rain gauges and other devices will give the weather service the tools and information upon which it can base its forecast. When this system is completed people will be able to go to sleep at night secure in the knowledge that if it rains there will be a warning if their lives and property are in jeopardy.

Stop Smoking Clinic Offered At P.C.

When your feet hit the floor for the first time in the morning, do you reach for your cigarettes? Answer the telephone, light up a cigarette? Finish a meal, start smoking? If this sounds familiar, the continuing education department at Pikeville College has a class to help you eliminate this behavior.

Kathy Sohn, director of the department has previously worked with the American Lung Association in Baltimore, Maryland, directing Stop Smoking Clinics. Beginning Wednesday, October 8, she will conduct a clinic in Room 123 in Wickham Hall, at Pikeville College. Sohn has designed the program so persons interested in quitting smoking may bring their lunch and attend during their lunch hour 12:00 - 1:00 p.m.
