

EDUCATIONAL IMPROVEMENTS IN LEFT BEAVER SCHOOLS

TO THE VOTERS OF THIS AREA:

Over the past eight years, I have been a concerned citizen and parent in the Left Beaver section of Floyd County, School Board District No. 4. It saddens me to make this report on the situation in our schools as I found it.

MELVIN ELEMENTARY

1. TRAILERS PULLED ONTO THE SCHOOL GROUNDS TO SERVE AS "TEMPORARY" CLASSROOMS!
2. A SIGN ON ONE SCHOOL ROOM FLOOR THAT SAYS "DON'T WALK HERE" BECAUSE IT IS UNSAFE!
3. CHILDREN SENT HOME AT LUNCH BECAUSE THE PROPER WATER AND SEWAGE IS NOT AVAILABLE!
4. RESTROOMS THAT HAVE NO PROVISION FOR PRIVACY!
5. CHILDREN WALKING GREAT DISTANCES TO CATCH BUSES. ADEQUATE BUS STOP BUILDINGS NOT AVAILABLE!

WEEKSBURY SCHOOLS

2. WEEKSBURY CHILDREN CANNOT ATTEND KINDERGARTEN BECAUSE THEY "LIVE OUT OF THE DISTRICT!"

WHEELWRIGHT HIGH

1. THREE DIFFERENT PRINCIPALS IN THE LAST FOUR YEARS!
2. HUGE STAFF TURNOVERS INDICATING DISSATISFACTION WITH BOARD POLICIES!
3. NO IMPROVEMENTS IN AN AGING, ALMOST UNSAFE BUILDING!
4. FREQUENT DISCIPLINARY PROBLEMS!
5. OVERLOADING OF SCHOOL BUSES!

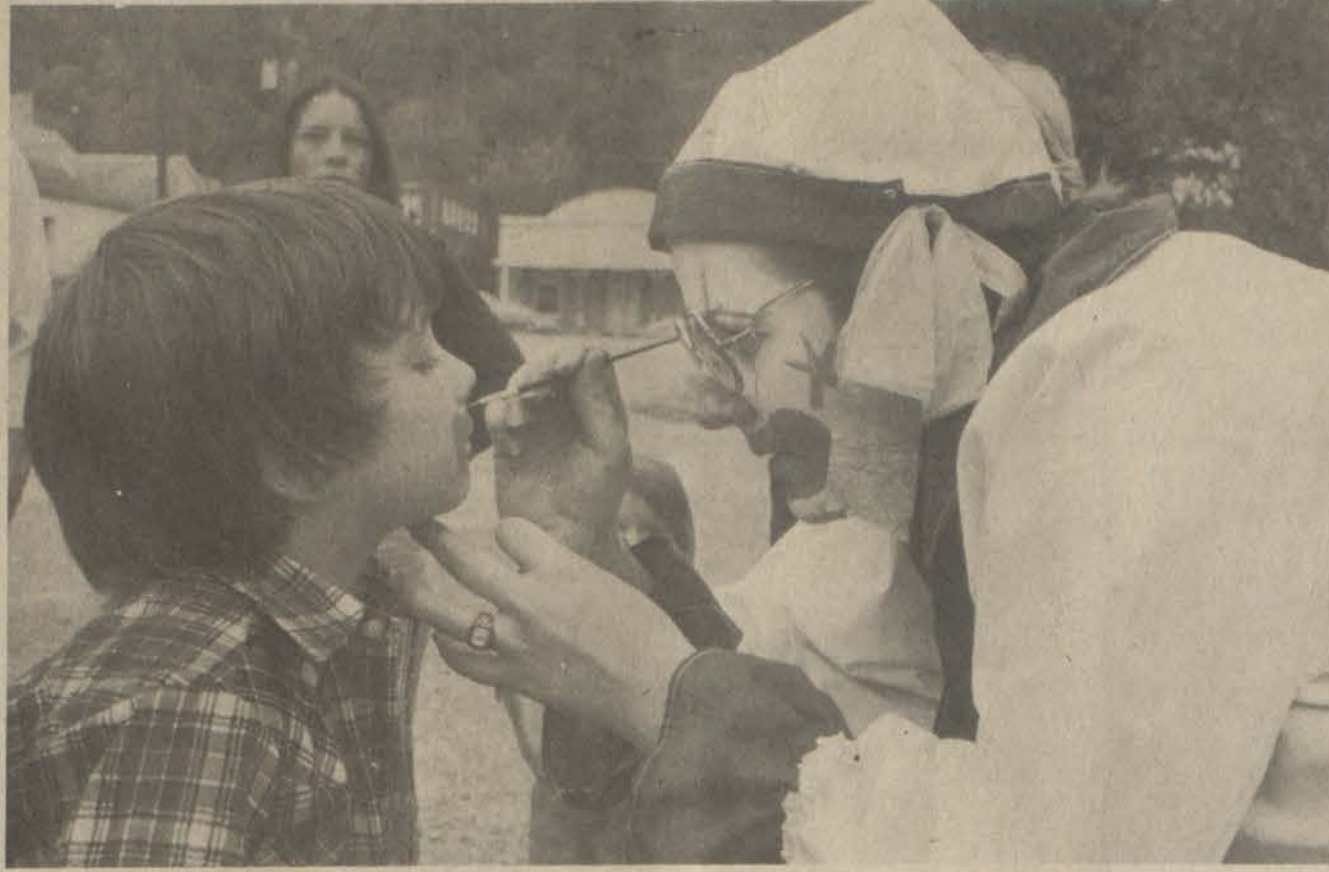

McDOWELL HIGH

1. TWO LARGE METAL RODS TO HOLD THE BUILDING TOGETHER!
2. UNREPAIRED FLOOR-DAMAGED CLASSROOMS!
3. SHORTAGE OF TEXTBOOKS!
4. ADEQUATE BUS STOP BUILDINGS NOT AVAILABLE. OVERLOADING OF SCHOOL BUSES!

As I travel around the district and talk with the people, I always receive new life and a new commitment to work for our children so that they might have the very best educational opportunity. I ask each of you to visit the schools, look at the conditions our children must face each day and then ask yourself the question, "Why can't we do better?" My answer to that question is simple—we can and must do better! Our teachers and our school personnel are the finest to be found anywhere. They deserve our support. All concerned citizens must join with me to assure our children of equal educational opportunity. Vote for Carson Akers. It's a vote for your child's educational future.

Red, White and Blue Day Scenes

Rain fell intermittently, but the 11th Red, White and Blue Day still "went over great" in the reckoning of its founder, Marcella Bailey, of Eastern.

A flag-raising ceremony by the National Guard, recitation of the Lord's Prayer and Pledge of Allegiance, and the singing of the National Anthem set the day's theme, traditionally one of uncomplicated patriotism, and concern for the hostages held in Iran found expression this year in a number of floats and ceremonies, including a 21-gun salute in their honor by members of the Disabled American Veterans.

Senator Wendell Ford helped Mrs. Bailey cut the Freedom Cake, sponsored by the Drift Woman's Club; an eight-foot Freedom Bow, sponsored by the Martin Jaycees was affixed to the courthouse door; Congressman Carl D. Perkins led the parade as grand marshal; World War I veteran "Smoky" Joe Meadows, of Lancer, carried the colors as far as his strength allowed; school, civic and church groups competed for parade honors; pageant queens of all ages rode atop limousines; and a crowd turned out for square-dancing in the municipal parking lot to end the day's festivities.

Next year, Mrs. Bailey suggested, "we might have one big march" to accommodate "all the little kids, rich and poor alike" who would like to participate but cannot for want of an organized float.

Among high school bands, Prestonsburg scooped the honors, winning first-place in the playing, percussion, and flags-and-rifles divisions. The band's field commander, Jane Pitts, was also named best in that category. Allen Central took marching honors, Sheldon Clark, of Inez, placed first in the majorettes division, and McDowell was runner-up for flags-and-rifles.

Trophies for grade school floats went to Auxier kindergarten, first, for a float sponsored by Delano May, of the May Metal Company; Allen cheerleaders were second, and Clark school, third. In the miscellaneous division, first prize was awarded to Mayo Vocational School, with the Fitzpatrick First Baptist Church and Allen First Baptist Church tying for second. Other trophies were awarded to the Beaver Creek Promenaders and the Auxier Community Development Center.

Observe 50th Anniversary

Garfield (Tobe) and Susie Baldrige, of East Point, observed their 50th wedding anniversary September 26. A surprise dinner celebration was held for them by their family, Denver, Ruth, Timothy, James and Lesha Coleman, and friends, Tammy Blair, Kathy Barnett and Glen Ison. They received nice gifts from family and friends and enjoyed the celebration tremendously.

MAYTOWN HOMEMAKERS MEET

The Maytown Homemakers met Thursday, Oct. 9, at the Steak House with the president, Helen Boyd, presiding. The devotion was given by Alda Gibson. Frances Pitts reminded everyone of coming events for homemakers for October: Christmas decoration workshop, Oct. 29; pine cone workshop, afternoon of Oct. 29; special interestmaking place mats, Oct. 30. All of these to take place at the Floyd County Library, also the area Homemakers' annual meeting, Oct. 17, with Floyd County being hostess. Several members of the club have been helping with their time and making sandwiches for the St. Jude's Bike-a-Thon held on Oct. 11.

The lesson, "Exercise and Physical Fitness," was given by Marge Sammons and Alice Hayes. The club welcomed a new member, Charlotte Smith, who comes to live in this area from Winchester, Ky. Refreshments were served by the hostess, Loraine Beach, to guests, Leila Harvey, Kimberly Harvey, Pamela Ausemus and Tamayra Jean Hensley; clubmembers, Frances Pitts, Alice Hayes, Marge Sammons, Helen Boyd, Alda Gibson, Minnie Gearheart and Thelma Hicks, Debrah Hagans.

The meeting for Nov. 13 will be at the home of Thelma Hicks at 7 o'clock.

MR. CARTER????

Mr. Carter is one sharp cat—he sure knows how to cover up. He's been a complete failure. He may have meant well but he has woefully failed our country. He promised us 4 to 6% inflation by 1980—he has given us 12 to 25% depending on the item or items you wish to buy. He has made promises after promises and changed his mind. He has failed in foreign affairs. Our allies could not, nor cannot depend on him, or trust his judgement in negotiations with him, or his promises or ability to back them up. ONE CAN NOT DEAL FROM WEAKNESS. His promises are like snow balls, they fade away.

His inflation has robbed the people of their savings—HIS PLATFORM IS SET UP FOR MORE OF THE SAME.

The Russians have outsmarted him on every side on every strategic point. He has backed down everywhere to them, except to say we couldn't play ball with them. He is gullible to them, thus they pull the wool over his eyes and take him in. He says our defenses are strong. If they are, why are so many high-ranking military officials proclaiming our weakness, that our country is in a very dangerous situation?

Castro gave us 150,000 or more cubans, costing our taxpayers $750,000,000 dollars at $5,000.00 per head to process and feed, plus billions more in welfare, housing and medical care, plus taking jobs from our people who need jobs, as they are scarce. And the same to thousands and thousands of others coming in from all over the world. And most likely none of them would fight in our defense.

He has given and given to the communists and has weakened our defenses to such a low that we are unable to fight a major war. He couldn't even send out a task force of eight helicopters with crews on mission of rescuing our people held hostage in Iran without losing half the force because of poor management and malfunctioning equipment, because of poor maintainance.

Do you want the U.S. treasury thrown open to you, with worthless money, or do you want your country run on a SAFE, SOUND, PROGRESSIVE BASIS? Do you want more of the same we've had since 1976, or do you want a strong leader to get our country out of the mess we are in, and the danger we are in?

REAGAN

You have a choice in November—REAGAN. Four more years of Carter would be our WATERLOO. Our country cannot stand up under such management. We will have had it!

Reading Is Fun(damental), First Graders Find

First graders at Prestonsburg Elementary School pore over books before selecting one to keep as their own. The books were made available through a program sponsored by RIF (Reading is Fundamental, Inc.), a national non-profit organization designed to promote reading among children, and the school PTA.

Under the program, free books are distributed three times during the school year to youngsters in all grades through the sixth. About 700 children chose from among over 1000 titles at the Prestonsburg grade school last week, some of them having in their hands a book of their own for the first time.

Prestonsburg businesses raised $1000 toward the program, said Doris Hyden, coordinator of the project.

Support Dr. Mary Hall

We, the undersigned Members of Local Union 5899, United Mine Workers of America, support DR. MARY A. HALL for Board Member for these reasons to only mention a few:

1. Her father is also a member and mined union coal in Weeksbury and Wheelwright to help educate her.
2. Her interest and help that she has been to each Community in her area she serves not only as Board Member, but also a doctor for our coal miners and their families.
3. Her plans for More Improvements in the area she serves which will help our children and grandchildren.
4. Her occupation allows her to have the best interest of the school system at heart at all times without any conflict.
5. We and other Local Unions in this county hold our meetings in the school buildings and want to make sure this service isn't discontinued for we are sure she will support the Union, because it's a proven fact.
6. We don't feel the State Department or its fine Compensation Laws will benefit anybody except coal operators. We hope they don't try to deceive us and stay out of our union affairs and away from politics.
7. Schools in her District have made much academic progress and improvements in the curriculum since she has been our School Board Member.
8. For these reasons we request our brothers to join us and help us re-elect as Board Member, A Proven Friend, Dr. Mary Hall, to serve us again.

Stanley's Devotion to Safety In Mines Was Born of Tragedy

By EVA SMITH

A miner's child who grew up years ago has memories only another coal miner's daughter or son could understand.

Coal dust lining his father's eyes. Coal dirt imbedded in his hands. The round aluminum dinner bucket packed with extra food and water in case of a cave-in. Mine clothes washed over and over but never coming clean.

And the knowledge that some day strangers may knock on the door with news that one more coal miner won't be coming home.

For Mines and Minerals Commissioner Willard Stanley that knock on the door came one night 50 years ago. His father Jesse had been killed in a roof fall at the Semet-Solvary mine at Allegheny. The 10-year-old-boy, his mother, brother and two sisters moved from the Pike county coal camp to a farm in Floyd county.

During the half century following his father's death, Stanley has been a miner, coal operator and a safety director for both coal companies and the state.

Death in the coal mines could never be far from his mind. His uncle died in a haulage accident. His brother-in-law died in a shop accident. While working as a coal miner, Stanley himself almost died in a roof fall.

Stanley has also been "on the other side of the door." He has had to bring bad news to a miner's family.

All those years Stanley was learning how and why accidents happen in the coal mines. He kept a mental list of what he would do if ever in a position really to change things. Last year he got the chance. He was appointed commissioner of the state Mines and Minerals Department, the agency responsible for miner training and safety.

Stanley is not a fatalist. He believes miners don't have to die.

He has worked to gain for Kentucky the best accident rating in 1980 of all the major coal-producing states. Kentucky's incident rate per 200,000 manhours is 8.33 compared to the national average of 13.66. The rate is 13.56 for Alabama; 13.14 for Illinois; 19.59 for Ohio; 16.86 for Pennsylvania; and 13.08 for West Virginia.

It is evident Willard Stanley cares passionately about the safety of Kentucky's coal miners.

He can recite the mine fatality statistics "by heart." Last year 33 miners died. So far this year 17 miners have been killed. Six died in roof falls. One miner died in a surface accident at an underground mine. Two died in electrical accidents. One died in a machinery accident. One died in a haulage accident. One died in a belt-haulage accident. Five surface miners died.

But Stanley does not look upon miner deaths and injuries as a box score or just more statistics. The responsibility for the lives and safety of 31,147 men and women in underground mining and 27,054 surface miners weighs heavily on him.

When a coal miner dies, Stanley takes it personally. He goes to the department computer to find clues to what caused the death. He looks at how much training the miner had, when the mine was last inspected and other data.

Often, human error is a factor. A miner's thoughts "stray from the things he knows will kill him," said Stanley. A coal mine is jealous of a miner's attention, he added.

Often a death can be traced to a specific cause with the aim of preventing more tragedies.

For example, miners sometimes play Russian roulette with their safety—going past permanent roof supports to get a last bit of coal rather than stopping for placement of additional supports. Roof falls claim 60 percent of lives lost in underground mines. Stanley has tackled this problem by assigning 10 of the department's 64 mine safety analysts to work specifically on roof control. The analyst's role is not that of mine inspector, rather that of educator.

The most far-reaching action taken by Stanley is the reorganization of the department so each of the five districts has a supervisor in charge of all Mines and Minerals Department workers.

There are four divisions in the department—mine safety analysis; miner training, education and certification; explosives and blasting; and oil and gas.

Commissioner Stanley said he feels good about the work that's been done since he took office in December. The commissioner said he had a list of objectives in mind and ideas on how to reach each goal.

The old governor's mansion was used for state police headquarters during the late 1930s and early 1940s. It was vacant before and after that time until it was renovated in 1956.

Federal Grant Given State To Aid 55 mph Speed Enforcement

Kentucky State Police have received a $564,430 federal highway safety grant for enforcement of the 55 mph speed limit, according to state Department of Transportation officials.

The purpose of the project is to reduce speed-related accidents in Kentucky, which made up 36 percent of all fatal accidents from 1977 - 1979.

As part of the Selective Traffic Enforcement Program called "55 Please" which began in March 1980, the state police will concentrate on reducing speeds of all drivers on all highways in the state.

The project will include a public information program as well as increased patrols in high-accident locations. Monthly newspaper information, radio spots, bumper stickers and brochures will be used to educate the public on driving 55 mph, CB assistance, radar and safe driving.

Two state planes will be used for additional patrol of state highways.

The state police will match the federal funds with an additional $285,680.

Solar Seminar Set At Park, Nov. 13

Kentucky Department of Energy officials will be participating in two solar energy seminars to be held in Eastern Kentucky in November.

The free public workshops will be held at the Ashland Community College at 7 p.m., Wednesday, Nov. 12, and at Jenny Wiley State Park in Prestonsburg at 7 p.m., Thursday, Nov. 13.

The seminars are being sponsored by the Kentucky Solar Coalition, Covington, and Appalachia—Science in the Public Interest, Livingston. The two non-profit citizen's groups received a grant from the U.S. Department of Energy's Office of Conservation and Solar Applications to conduct the seminars.

"The goal of this program is to boost solar commercialization," said David Ross Stevens, director of the Kentucky projects. "We are hoping to trigger an explosion at the grassroots level in the use of current solar energy techniques. It's the one sure way of reaching President Carter's stated goal of receiving 20 percent of our energy from renewable sources by year 2000."

The Ashland and Prestonsburg seminars will also bring city officials and business leaders together to explore solar energy applications for their particular communities.

"We would like to see bankers, mayors, lumber yard owners, educators, and contractors get together and learn how development of solar energy can make a town prosper," said Don Huseman of Appalachia—Science in the Public Interest. "We know the economics are on the side of solar and energy conservation. It is just a matter of getting the word out."

Those persons interested in further information about the seminars should contact Ralph Dennis, Kentucky Department of Energy, (800) 432-9014.

UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE ELIGIBILITY SET FOR VETS

Servicemen and women who are discharged from the armed forces must have served at least 365 days to be eligible for unemployment insurance compensation, the U.S. Department of Labor noted.

Congress raised the new eligibility period from 90 to 365 days effective on or after Oct. 1, 1980. The provision is contained in Public Law 96-364.

Leaders of veterans organizations testifying at the Congressional hearings regarding such benefits were in favor of taking wome action that would attract individuals into completing their terms of enlistment.

Allen, New Manager Of Shoe Store Here

Lloyd Ray Allen, of Hazard, last week assumed his duties as manager of the Pic-n-Pay Shoe Store here. He succeeds Michael Mullins, who is now employed in Lexington by another firm.

Mr. Allen, his wife, Ann, and children, Michell and Christopher, have moved to Prestonsburg. A native of Indiana, he has lived in Hazard the last 10 years.

The American Federation of Labor was organized at a convention in Columbus, Ohio, in December 1886 as successor to the Federation of Organized Trades and Labor Unions.

Ky. Moves Closer Toward Primacy

The granting of partial approval to Kentucky's proposed regulatory program means that the state is well on its way toward gaining primacy, or primary responsibility for the control of surface coal mining, Jackie Swigart, secretary of the state Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, said.

The next step toward primacy is to work with the federal Office of Surface Mining to resolve issues cited as deficiencies in Kentucky's plan, Swigart said.

The department has 60 days from the date the decision is announced in the Federal Register—probably sometime next week—to make revisions in the disapproved items, to issue clarifying policy statements, to submit legal opinions demonstrating that those items are adequate and that no deficiency exists, she explained.

U.S. Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus announced partial approval of Kentucky's surface-mining program at a press conference with Gov. John Y. Brown Jr. and Swigart in Brown's office Monday, Oct. 13.

Andrus said the deficiencies noted are "not insurmountable." Any changes in state legislation on surface mining "will be some minor adjustment" that can probably wait until the next regular session of the General Assembly, he added.

Andrus said that, even if some problems remain after the resubmission of Kentucky's program, it will still be possible for Kentucky to attain primacy. A program with minor statutory deficiencies can be conditionally approved, subject to the governor's submitting the needed changes to the General Assembly for consideration at the next session, he said.

Describing partial approval as "an interim step that all states go through," Andrus said, "We are very very close to a point in time when we will be granting outright primacy to the state of Kentucky."

Elmore Grim, commissioner of the Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, said answers have already been provided to a number of questions raised about Kentucky's program by OSM since the June 12 submission.

His office will be working with Swigart and General Counsel Joshua

Santana to resolve the issues cited as deficiencies and complete the resubmission, Grim said. He noted that an additional $240,000 grant from OSM, which was among $13.1 million in surface-mining grants announced by Andrus Monday, will go toward developing and refining the state's regulatory program.

Earlier, Swigart and other department officials expressed relief that the state was not granted primacy on Sept. 3, the day targeted for the decision a year ago. The anticipated date for either full or conditional approval is now Jan. 3, 1981.

Swigart said the delay will give the coal industry more time to gather the extensive data required for permit applications under the permanent regulations.

In addition, Grim and the bureau's staff will have more time to gear up new computerized information systems and training programs for the regulation of surface mining, she said.

The new surface-mining information system, which will maintain permitting and enforcement records on all surface-mining operations in Kentucky, will not be operational until Dec. 1 at the earliest, Swigart said.

MIDDLE AGE CRAZE EPIDEMIC SPREADS

"Normal" couple certified Middle Age Crazy

Houston (HP)—Bobby Lee Burnett, a man who made a fortune building taco stands, is the first person known to have contracted Middle Age Crazy. According to reports, Burnett then passed the virus onto his wife, Sue Anne.

Mr. Burnett, a highly respected citizen of Houston, has been observed doing bizarre things. Ten days ago, he impulsively traded in his old reliable Oldsmobile for a $40,000 Porsche.

Warning Signs Isolated

North Bend (NP)—The National Institute for Disease Study has isolated the better known symptoms of Middle Age Crazy. This is a list of the warning signs.

1) Owning a sex drive that is permanently stuck in over-drive.

2) Telling your biggest client where to go.

3) Realizing that having one beautiful woman is three less than you want.

4) Delivering an outrageous graduation speech.

5) Turning on your mate instead of the TV.

6) Traveling great distances to check out a cheerleader's pom poms.

7) Sitting in a Jacuzzi when fully clothed.

Science has yet to discover a method to prevent Middle Age Crazy and according to experts, once contracted, only time and luck will provide a cure.

Although experts agree that Middle Age Crazy can strike anyone at any time, research suggests that the prime targets are Americans of middle age. Therefore, the best way to avoid Middle Age Crazy is to avoid all costs your fortieth birthday," said Dr. Melnick, chairman of the group. In his soon-to-be published booklet he states: "Turn twenty, turn seventy, turn thirty-nine or even forty-nine if you must. But whatever you do, do not turn forty."

Alumnus Delivers Shocking Graduation Speech

Houston (HP)—Bobby Lee Burnett, class of '58, returned in his alma mater to deliver a keynote address and delivered instead a knockout punch to the ceremonies. The following are excerpts from the speech:

"Every year thousands of you kids put on these silly, theater hats, while some other kid in a white t-shirt just tells you you're the future. Well that's the future. Cause you can't all be the future, not that much future to go around."

October Starts Robbery Season

Last October Kentuckians reported 348 robberies, more than any other month during 1979.

"October is the start of the robbery season in Kentucky," says Lt. Norman Bryant, director of the state Office of Crime Prevention and recently appointed director of the National Crime Prevention Institute in Louisville.

Nearly one-third of all robberies reported in the state occur during the last three months of the year, Bryant says.

Of the 3,247 robberies reported in the state last year, 45 percent involved individuals being robbed and 22 percent were robberies of hotels, motels and lodges.

Bryant suggests that business managers make sure their employees know how to handle a robbery and what to do afterward.

"The time to train employees in handling a robbery is now," Bryant says. "Trained employees can avoid causing a robber to use a weapon and can help police capture the robber more quickly."

Bryant says the office of crime prevention is currently training police departments around the state in making robbery surveys. These surveys can show a business owner how susceptible the business is to robbery and steps that can help prevent one from occurring.

Trained police officers can also instruct employees how to deal with a robbery when it occurs, how to contact police and how to preserve evidence afterward.

Bryant offers some basic tips for individuals and businesses during the robbery season:

- Individuals should avoid carrying large sums of money. If you need to carry a large amount of cash, do not let anyone know you have it on you. Carry a spare wallet with a small sum in it to throw off a robber—but, remember, no amount of money is worth your life.
- Avoid unlighted areas. Know where you are going to avoid getting lost and finding yourself in an unfamiliar neighborhood.
- Keep car doors locked. Have an ample amount of gas in the car. Don't pick up hitchhikers.
- Senior citizens should make use of direct deposit services for Social Security and other checks.
- For business he advised:
 - No large amounts of cash should be kept in the store or business. Make frequent deposits if necessary.
 - Businesses that operate 24 hours a day should have a drop safe, a safe in which money can be deposited that employees cannot open.

IDs For Non Drivers May Be Convenient

The State Department of Transportation offers non-driver identification cards for those Kentuckians who do not drive—and sometimes they are needed.

The cards can be obtained for $2 from the circuit court clerk in each county. Birth certificates are required for each person obtaining an identification card. "They must be shown with every request for an ID card as proof of identity," said Gene Hodges, director of driver licensing.

These ID cards are a solution to an identification problem many Kentuckians who do not drive face every day, Hodges said. Many stores require a driver's license as means of identification when cashing a check and the person who does not drive but wishes to cash a check may have difficulties. Most merchants will accept the identification card in place of a driver's license, he said.

Although the identification cards do not have to be renewed, Hodges encourages keeping the card updated so the person's present appearance will match the picture on the card.

The department issued 9,579 of these identification cards last year in Kentucky.

Recycling Reducing Disposal Costs

Of all recurrent local problems garbage disposal is the most pervasive one encountered by the Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, department Secretary Jackie Swigart told an audience at the opening session of the Governor's Conference on Local Issues meeting in Louisville.

Swigart told representatives of Kentucky's local governments attending the three-day meeting the Natural Resources Department is working to set up improved garbage-disposal arrangements which will involve local, state and federal agencies.

"The state is currently in the planning stages of a program to set up acceptable landfills, but to be successful in dealing with our garbage-disposal problems we must make our citizens aware of disposal costs and ways to reduce them," she said.

One way for Kentuckians to take part in reducing disposal costs is participation in the Beverage Industry Recycling Program announced at the recent Governor's Conference on the Environment, she said. Unlike other litter and cleanup programs, this program operates as a private industry, the secretary explained.

In addition to paying people to bring empty steel and aluminum cans to recycling centers, the program plans to implement a public education and advertising campaign warning of the hazards of litter, Swigart added.

PBS in the spotlight

California's Thirsty City

'California Dreams: Thirsty City,' an important television documentary about the historic and controversial search for water to nourish the city of Los Angeles, will air nationally Wednesday, October 29 over PBS.*

Eddie Albert (pictured), narrates this one-hour film which tells the still controversial story of how William Mulholland, the first water commissioner of Los Angeles, brought the water necessary for the city's growth 250 miles from its point of origin in The Owens Valley. The historic story is told through rare film footage and revealing interviews, including one with one of the inhabitants who was alive when Mulholland made his first field trip to the Owens River.

'California Dreams: Thirsty City' is a presentation of KOCE, Channel 50, Huntington Beach. It is produced and directed by Patrick Griffin with a script by Francis Gladstone. The film marks United California Bank Foundation's first underwriting of an educational documentary for public television and they are also funding a major statewide educational outreach program. Special free classroom materials to be used in conjunction with the film have been developed by KOCE. Off-air video recording rights will be granted to schools and many of the instructional materials will also be available in public libraries throughout California.

The importance of linking the historical documentary to an educational outreach program was underscored by Lloyd B. Dennis, President of the Foundation.

"The documentary itself will serve as a major teaching aid, and should complement existing high school and college California history programs. Taping rights have been granted so that teachers may record the program and use it with new teaching materials developed especially to accompany this documentary," Dennis said.

"There are no limits as to how the materials can be used," Dennis added. "The attached guides are in the form of a stylized newspaper to stimulate innovation and creativity."

Mountain Delegation Spurs Coal Transport Task Force

The efforts of truckers from Floyd, Knott, Letcher, Perry, Breathitt and Magoffin counties played a major role in the formation of the Governor's Task Force on Transportation of Coal recently appointed by Governor John Y. Brown, Jr.

The Task Force, chaired by Secretary of Justice Neil J. Welch, is a 14-member commission appointed to conduct a study of the problems of delivering coal in Kentucky. It includes two Knott countians, Representative Bill Weinberg (D-Hindman) and trucker, Kelly Draughn.

Weinberg recalls how the initiative for the Task Force first began:

"One Sunday afternoon I was throwing a football with my boys, a caravan of truckers driving pick-ups and four-wheel drive vehicles rumbled into my yard. In a matter of minutes there must have been 30 vehicles. The truckers, led by Ancil Smith and Kelly Draughn, of Knott county, indicated that they had formed an association of truckers to see if they could get anything done about what they believed to be unnecessary harassment of the coal trucking industry in Kentucky. They complained that they were losing their trucks, having to pay unreasonable fines and in some cases losing their homes because of the inconsistent and unenforceable laws and regulations which Kentucky has with regard to the coal trucking industry. After listening to them in several meetings and looking into their problems in depth, I became convinced that there was much merit to their complaints."

With Weinberg's help, an appointment was set up with Secretary of Justice Neil Welch and State Police Commissioner Kenneth Brandenburg to discuss the problems. Some of the most serious problems that the truckers complained of were: Long delays by enforcement personnel, inconsistent and widely varied weight limits from one road to another, inconsistent and arbitrary enforcement in some locations, discrimination toward the coal trucking industry as compared with other trucking in the state, undue hardship necessitated by the way the judicial system works.

As a result of the truckers' meeting with Welch and Brandenburg, and at the recommendation of the delegation, which consisted of several truckers from Knott, Letcher and Perry counties, and Representative Weinberg, a recommendation was made to Governor Brown from Sec. Welch and Commissioner Brandenburg that he appoint a Task force on the Transportation of Coal.

Appointed to the task force were Sen. John M. Berry, Jr., D-New Castle; Sen. William L. Sullivan, D-Henderson; Rep. Bill Weinberg, D-Hindman; Rep. Herbie Deskins, Jr., D-Pikeville; Rep. Gregory D. Stumbo, D-Prestonsburg; Stephen Reeder, deputy secretary of the Department of Transportation; Lewis B. Hooper, of Barbourville, representing the Administrative Office of the Courts; Elmer Whitaker, of Hazard, representing the coal industry; Jim Crawford, editor of The Corbin Times; environmentalist Harry Caudill, of Whitesburg; Kelly Draughn, Knott county; Phil Damron, Floyd county; and William M. Cox, Hopkins county, representing the coal hauling industry; and Carolyn Connel, Paris; and Lucille Walls, Greenville, representing citizens-at-large.

The Task Force is to prepare a report to the Governor recommending changes in legislation, court procedures or administrative procedures which would correct the problems which now exist in connection with the transportation of coal. Included in its study are the effects of coal delivery on the conditions of roads, the effects of weight limitations on coal delivery, selective enforcement of weight limitations, and the problem of lack of uniform dispositions for violations of weight limits.

In appointing the Task Force, Brown said: "It is extremely important that we deliver coal to the market. At the same time we must make certain our road system is protected from wear and tear of overweight coal trucks. It is a big problem but one which we must solve."

Weinberg hailed the Task Force as an example of what grass roots initiative can accomplish and complimented Governor Brown for being responsive to what is a serious problem in the eastern coal fields. He predicted that the Task force will present a series of legislative proposals for the next session of the General Assembly which will go a long way towards resolving what is a very complicated and difficult problem in Kentucky. Weinberg commented: "It is indefensible for coal truckers to haul coal in such a manner as to spray chunks of coal on other motorists and pedestrians in a way that endangers their safety. It is equally indefensible for our system of laws and regulations to, in effect, make criminals out of small businessmen, that is, truckers. We must and will find a way which will allow coal truckers to earn a livelihood and to effectively deliver coal without endangering other motorists' safety."
