Increase in Cost Of Water in '82 An ordinance which would raise

Prestonsburg's water, sewage and natural gas rates next year was given its first reading at a special meeting of the city council Monday

Under the ordinance, monthly water rates for customers within the city will rise from $4.25 minimum for the first 2000 gallons to a minimum of $5.46. Cost of the next 98,000 gallons will rise from a rate of $1.60 per thousand gallons to $2.11.

Outside the city the rates will increase from $6.25 to $9 for the first 2000 gallons and from $2.25 to $3.25 per thousand gallons for the next 98,000 gallons. Similar increases in sewage and natural gas rates have also been proposed.

The new rates are to become effective November 1, 1982, "when improvements and extensions (to the water, sewer and gas systems) are expected to be substantially completed," the ordinance notes. Adoption of the new rates at this early date is required for release of Farmers Home Administration funds financing the expansion project, it was explained. The ordinance is set for its second reading and final adoption April 13.

Prestonsburg and Martin have both been denied funds under the Department for Housing and Urban Development's Small Cities Program, it was announced this week.

Prestonsburg had sought a grant of $497,000 for downtown improvements and Martin had asked $461,000 toward restoration of its water system.

Neither city came even close to receiving a grant under the program. Prestonsburg being ranked 63rd and Martin 64th of the 78 applicants for the funds.

Nine projects competing for the 'rural, single purpose" grants were funded, including a Salversville proposal to renovate its water system. Economic Development Administration funds, also intended for the Salyersville project, have been lost to federal budget cuts, however.

Following the denial of three grant applications submitted by the Community Development and Urban Renewal office here-the agency also applied unsuccessfully for a $471,369 grant to renew downtown Paintsville-that office will be closed June 1, it was announced.

Two staff members at the office will be laid off and two others-Assistant Director Teddi Pence and Harold Baldridge, a rehabilitation specialist-will be transferred to the agency's Wheelwright office, it was said

Cutbacks Viewed By County Board

"I hope everyone is listening," said a voice in the audience as school officials catalogued anticipated budget cuts during a meeting of the Floyd Board of Education last Wednesday evening.

Even as Supt. E. P. Grigsby, Jr. read from a list of cuts proposed in the federal education budget, the same proposals were on their way to an overwhelming vote of approval in the U.S. Senate.

Proposed cuts of nearly 45 percent in child nutrition programs could wipe out the program here, warned Dr. Mary Hall, a board member, who asked that the school district's food super-

Notices routinely sent to non-tenured teachers at this time of the year, advising them that they may not be re-hired for the coming school year, assume a new gravity in view of the budget reductions. Moreover, following a resolution of the board Wednesday, even tenured teachers will receive the notices this year.

While 75 percent of the school district's 99 non-tenured teachers could normally expect to be re-hired, substantial retrenchments seem likely this year. The jobs of tenured teachers will probably be spared, however, Asst. Supt. Ray Brackett emphasized.

RASPBERRY NO. 1

It's out to the old ball game at Cincinnati this afternoon, and that should just about make April perfect for us saps who agonize over that bunch, season after season. Now, we have something else to gripe about, and I hasten to begin.

For a starter, I'm sore at the Cincinnati business management: too tight to spend money on talent they know they need, sitting tight with what they've got, which isn't much, while other clubs were trading like mad.

The Cincinnatis have had trouble with a name for the team for a long, while now. They started off, I believe, as the Red Stockings, later changed to the Reds, a name which was retained till it became shared by Communists, and now it's the Redlegs. Why not change again and call them the Standpatters?

And while we're changing names,

Hackworth Retains Election Status

District 2 Constable Bob Hackworth survived a challenge to his re-election bid in circuit court Tuesday, when Special Judge Charles S. Sinnette denied a motion that would have had his name stricken from the May primary ballot.

A suit brought by Darrell W. Bradley, an opponent to Hackworth in the District 2 constable's race, claimed that Hackworth was a resident of District 3 and so was not entitled to run for office in District 2.

Bradley based his contention on a 1968 order of the late County Judge Henry Stumbo which drew a section of Right Beaver Creek into a new Martin precinct within the boundaries of District 3. Hackworth, who lives on Right Beaver Creek just above the mouth of Stephens Branch, is a resident of the new Martin precinct, Bradley claimed.

submitting a document to that effect signed by Stumbo on December 30 of that year When construction of the new KY 80 forced him to relocate from Bucks Branch, in District 2, to his present address in April, 1977 he had ascertained that his new residence would still be within the electoral district he was then serving as constable, Hackworth said

The question of what electoral district Hackworth lives in arose, Morris Isaac told the court, when he (Isaac) sought to run for the District 2 magistrate's office but was told by county officials that he lives in District 3. Isaac lives about half a mile above Hackworth on Right Beaver Creek.

visor be instructed to prepare a report on the likely effects of the cuts on Floyd students.

Under the proposals, all federal reimbursements and donated foods would be eliminated for paid meals and reduced for reduced-price meals. The milk program, nutrition education, summer food program, and reimbursement for paid and reduced-price meals in the childcare food program would also be wiped out.

No changes are proposed in federal reimbursement for free school meals.

Twenty-five percent cuts are planned in the remedial reading, han-dicapped education, gifted and talented, career education, emergency school aid, adult education, and vocational education programs.

Mildly handicapped children will be excluded from the program for assisting the handicapped and federal support for those who remain in the program will be reduced from $193 to $131 per child if the cuts, which are being considered by the House budget committee this week, are approved by Congress

Federal support for local school districts, already reduced by 33 percent, will again be cut, for a total reduction of 68 percent, if the plan is approved.

The board adopted teacher recommendations for new textbooks next year, even though purchase of the texts

Hospital Strike Begins 3d Week As Parley Fails

The strike by Highlands Hospital workers enters its third week today (Wednesday) with no resolution of the contract dispute in sight

Negotiations, resumed last Wednesday at the bidding of a federal mediator, quickly stalled again without yielding any agreement on the outstanding issues.

Hospital officials claimed this week that the union's wage demands represent a 72.5 percent increase over two years and would add $65 a day to the cost of hospitalizing a patient. The hospital's offer of a 40.4 percent increase over three years would raise the minimum starting salary to $3.75 an hour immediately and to $4.50 by the third year of the contract, a hospital spokesman said.

wouldn't it be all right to change Dick Wagner's title to General Mangler? For all that, I'm with the Red er, Standpatters. I predict for them a finish no better than fourth place-and if that doesn't bring them a pennant, they're as hopeless as I think they are.

I STILL MAINTAIN THE POSSUM SULLED

"Sulled"-now there's a word for you, one you can run a cold trail on for days. Any Eastern Kentuckian knows that when a possum plays dead he sulls, but others, the poor uninitiates, will simply say he's playing possum ("for goodness' sake, not playing opposum") and others might say he's feigning or pretending.

Anyway, when my son's Blue Tick came in, the other day, with a fullgrown carcass at his master's feet and turned for a round of applause, the varmint came alive and fled the premises-and, told of the incident, I automatically exclaimed, "He'd sulled!'

Then I began wondering where in tunket we came by that word. Webster's was no help; "sull" (Brit, dial.), a plow

Sullen? Sulky? Oh, well ...

Incidentally, we have a snake which (See Story No. 4, Page 4)

County Court Clerk C. "Ollie" Robinson testified that that section, included in Martin during a "political dispute," was restored by Judge Stumbo to Maytown, in District 2, "in 1974 or 1975." but conceded that no record of such an order could be found.

Judge Stumbo had clearly recognized him as the duly elected constable for District 2 in 1977, Hackworth argued,

In view of the facts that the county has no official precinct maps, that Hackworth has been recognized as District 2 constable since moving to his present address, and that both Hackworth and Bradley voted in District 2 in the last election, the court sustained a motion by defense attorney Phillip Damron for a directed verdict in the case, overruling plaintiff's motion for injunctive relief.

Judge Sinnette, of the Boyd circuit court, heard the case in lieu of Floyd

The suit, filed by County Attorney Arnold Turner, Jr., follows a finding by the agency last month that Tel-com had failed to meet the requirements of the ordinance under which the company enjoys a franchise for cable TV service in this county.

The Harold-based firm has been the target of frequent criticism from some if its Wheelwright customers during the past year for allegedly providing poor service in that area.

(Court suits give only one side of the issue in dispute.)

Father, Son Among Five Unopposed for Reelection

It is unusual for a candidate for office on the Democratic ballot in this county to "escape" without opposition in the primary election campaign, more unusual for a father and son to be candidates at the same election, and for both to be unopposed may be a

"first" in Floyd county political history.

This was the situation at the deadline for candidates to file for office last Thursday

District Judge Harold J. Stumbo and his son, State Representative Greg Stumbo, had filed at the office of the Secretary of State without opposition. The elder Stumbo filed on the Judicial (non-partisan) ticket; his son, as a Democrat for re-election.

Three other Democratic candidates for major county offices also are unopposed. They are:

James R. Allen, for Commonwealth Attorney; Frank DeRossett, for Circuit Court Clerk; C. "Ollie" Robinson, for County Court Clerk.

None of the five unopposed Democrats has opposition in November

Including those without opposition, there are 90 Democrats registered as candidates. Republicans, at a serious disadvantage in the voter registration, have, by contrast, registered only seven candidates, of whom only three have opposition, and all of these seek the nomination for Constable in District 4.

Republicans unopposed for nomination are:

Leo Music for Magistrate in Dist. 1. Eddie Chafins for Magistrate in Dist. 3. Linden Elliott for Constable in Dist. 1, and Bill Elliott for Constable in Dist. 4. The various offices drew candidates in these numbers:

County Judge-Executive, 3; County Attorney, 2; Property Valuation Administrator, 2; Jailer, 3; County Surveyor, 4; Sheriff, 10; Coroner, 3; Magistrate, Dist. 1, 9 Democrats, 1 Republican; Magistrate, Dist. 2, 8; Magistrate, Dist. 3, 10 Democrats: 1 Republican; Magistrate, Dist. 4, 4; Constable-Dist. 1, 10 Democrats. Report Says Floyd Shares In Absentee Coal Owners

At a time when a wide range of community services is threatened by state and federal budget cuts and a hardpressed school system is considering ways to raise additional revenue here, comes a report that much of eastern Kentucky's natural wealth is owned by outside corporate interests who leave behind little in return for the profits they draw from the region.

According to a study of property ownership in Appalachia released last week, 25 large corporations own more than a million surface or mineral acres in 12 eastern Kentucky counties, including Floyd.

In 1979 they paid an average of 27 cents per acre in property taxes.

The area's mountainous terrain is not the only reason for the severe shortage of land for housing here, according to the study, which noted that less than a quarter of the 1.3 million privately-owned acres surveyed is available to local residents for homebuilding

Moreover, the high degree of absentee ownership makes strip mining and environmental damage more likely, according to the study.

The study, financed by an Appalachian Regional Commission grant, covers 80 Appalachian counties, and was conducted over two years by a coalition of citizen groups called the Appalachian Land Ownership Task Force. The group is associated with the Appalachian Alliance, a coalition of groups formed in response to the 1977 flooding of this area.

Data for the study was drawn from. 1978-79 lax records and deeds.

While the researchers were able to learn comparatively little about mineral ownership-"No one really knows who owns eastern Kentucky's coal except the owners themselves," one wrote-they documented ownership of nearly 600,000 mineral acres and about half the 3.1 million surface acres in the 12 Kentucky counties included in the study. Tracts of less than 20 acres were not included.

What they found was that about onethird of the surface and mineral acres surveyed is owned by 10 large absentee corporations, nine of them based outside Kentucky

The same 10 corporations paid only 11 percent of the taxes collected on the surveyed property in 1979, their average tax bill being less than 17 cents per acre that year, according to the report.

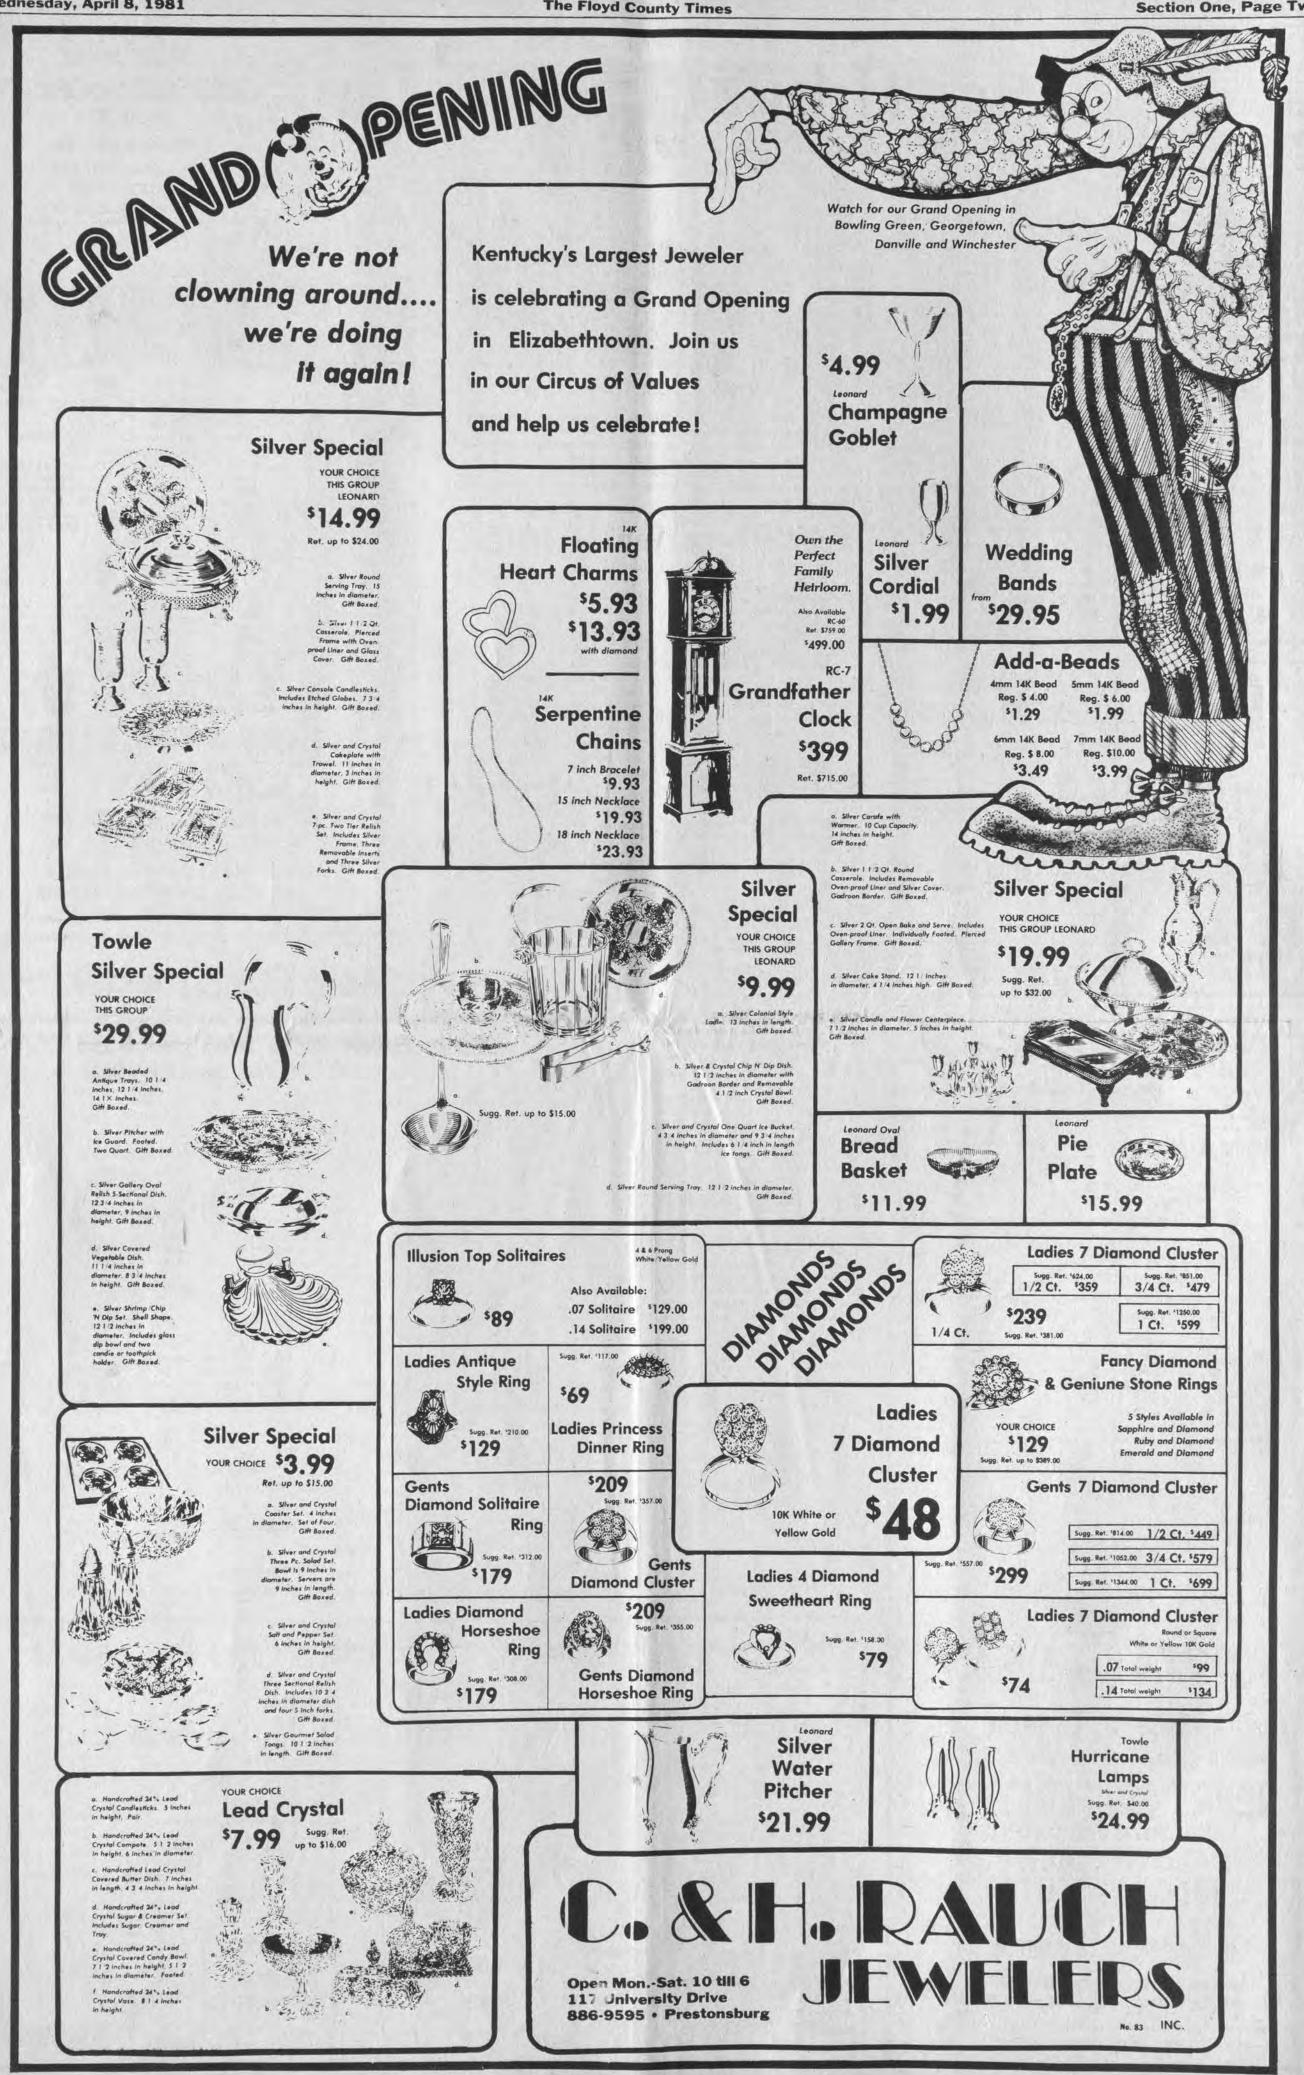

The 10 firms were Pocahontas-Kentucky (a subsidiary of Norfolk and Western Railroad), based in Roanoke. Va., with 142,566 acres: Kentucky (See Story No. 1, Page 4)

LINES ARE LONG these days at the state Department for Human Resources unemployement office here as members of the work force affected by the current coal strike apply for unemployment insurance. Rick Crawford, state director of the unemployment insurance program, said workloads at regional offices in the eastern and western coalfields have increased dramatically since the strike began, two weeks ago.

Discuss Changes In School Evaluation

A series of 12 regional meetings have been scheduled across the state to inform local school personnel and the public about proposed changes in the way schools are evaluated.

The changes will be implemented in 15-25 school districts on a volunteer basis beginning with the 1981-82 school year if approved by Superintendent of Public Instruction Raymond Barber and the state Board of Education.

The new procedures include a multifaceted survey of school districts every three years, a system of selfevaluation for local school districts and accreditation by district rather than by individual school

The first phase of the new accreditation system began in October when a 15-member citizens' committee was formed to set broad standards of quality in education. A group of professional educators took those standards and developed indicators to show evidence of compliance by local districts.

Russell Below, assistant for curriculum development with the Kentucky Department of Education, said the regional meetings, scheduled between April 15 and May 8, will have a two-fold purpose.

'We want to inform everyone as to what has happened up to this point and get interaction and input from the local districts and citizens," Below explained. "We will also consider suggestions on areas that people believe have not been adequately addressed.

Meetings have been scheduled April 16, 1-4 p.m. for school personnel at Prestonsburg Community College: and 7:30-9:30 p.m. for the general public, at Prestonsburg grade school

Members become eligible for re-election at the end of the third year following their election to membership. The Academy, the country's second largest national medical association, was the first national medical group to require members to keep up with medical progress through continuing education

A daily sweeping schedule will soon be published, enabling residents to anticipate when the sweeper will be in their neighborhood, he said

Mobile Home, Vehicles Riddled

No arrests had been made as of Tuesday afternoon in an incident, late Sunday night at Auxier, in which a mobile home and two vehicles were peppered by repeated shotgun blasts.

The mobile home of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Craft was riddled by what was reportedly identified as 00 buckshot as Mr. and Mrs. Craft and their three children lay sleeping. Mrs. Craft said she and her husband awoke to the sound of breaking glass and gunfire as one blast entered through a front window. The Crafts' nine-year-old daughter was asleep on a couch in the living room and pellets struck on all sides of the couch, with one shot ripping through a pillow at the foot of the sofa. The gunfire was also turned in the direction of the home of Mr. and Mrs.

According to Mrs. Webb, a teacher at Auxier Elementary, she and her husband, as well as Mr. and Mrs. Craft, had complained the preceding night to state police of the reckless operation of a van in the neighborhood and of the suspected sale of narcotics by two youths. State police arrived and searched a vehicle. Mrs. Webb said, but found nothing incriminating.

Police were called back to the scene after the Sunday night gunfire, but the gunmen had left the scene.

Members of two families complained of "dope peddling, whiskey selling, reckless driving" and acts of vandalism in Auxier and spoke of a need for increased law enforcement there. "You very seldom see police here, state or county, unless they're chasing somebody," Mrs. Webb commented. "There ought to be routine patrols here.'

has been postponed for a year as a result of a state education department directive.

Estimates of the cost of repairs following recent bomb damage to Prestonsburg High School run as high as $18,000, Supt. Grigsby told the board. While the building is insured, the school board will have to pay the first $10,000 of the repair bill, he said. Meeting in executive session, the board expelled the two students-a 17-year-old senior and a 16-year-old junior-said to be responsible for the blast, and instructed the superintendent to take legal steps to recover damages resulting from the incident. In other actions related to the bomb explosion, the board declared a state of emergency to exist, thus enabling repairs to go forward without the public bidding normally required for such projects, and applied to the state board of education for a "calamity day," which would obviate the need for Prestonsburg High School to make up the day lost as a result of the blast.

A delegation from the Home Branch grade school petitioned the board for a new lunchroom there, following condemnation of the existing lunchpreparation facility by the health department recently.

Lunches for the school's 58 students are presently prepared in a trailer and served in the classrooms. Inadequate plumbing and deterioration of the trailer floor were cited in the health department report on the facility.

Repairs scheduled to be completed last week would "get the facility into compliance," Asst. Supt. Brackett told the delegation.

The board will study a request by the Fitzpatrick BaptistChurchto purchase a 100-foot-square lot on the site of the Home Branch school in order to build a church there. A decision would depend on possible uses the school itself might have for the lot, board member Ray "Shag" Campbell indicated.

A resolution of appreciation for Fred Turner, the school district's transportation supervisor, was voted unanimously by the board. Turner is retiring after 28 years' service with the school system.

In Floyd county, the larger land and mineral tracts surveyed amounted to 35.5 percent of the county's acreage. Twenty-six percent of the county's surface, and minerals underlying 34 percent of the surface, are owned by corporate, public or private absentees, according to the study.

Richmond estate, Prestonsburg, 907, 35 cents: Joe Weddington, Prestonsburg, 753, $2.08; and Edward Music, Prestonsburg, 750, 68 cents.

The county's top mineral owners, apart from those listed among the surface owners above, are given as National Mines, Pittsburgh, 19,087 acres: Harkins Minerals, Lexington, 16,981: Elkhorn Coal, Richmond, Va., 14,388; Island Creek Coal, Los Angeles, Calif., 7447: West Pocahontas, Richmond. National Mines reportedly paid no taxes here in 1979; none of the other mineral owners listed was taxed at a rate greater than three-tenths of a cent per acre.

"Overall, the small landowner...bears the burden of taxes in Floyd county," the study concludes.

Coal companies are increasingly buying surface acres as well as mineral rights, the study said, especially since strip mining has become more highly regulated and surface owners' rights have been given more weight.

The million acres owned by absentee individuals and corporations and being held for future strip mining is almost wholly undeveloped and is not available for other industry, commerce, housing, or recreation, the researchers note.

"Ownership of so much land and minerals by non-residents and profitminded corporations has led to a facilitation of strip mining in eastern Kentucky," wrote Joey Childers, the UK law student who authored the report on Kentucky, "since coal companies wishing to strip mine coal need not deal with local people who would otherwise live alongside the 'strip jobs.

"Local control over the decisionmaking process in coal-mining is virtually non-existent," he added.

As a result of widespread underassessment of property values and improper classification of much of the property as farmland, property tax often represents only a small percenshould be stopped, it said.

The four percent ceiling on revenue growth imposed by a special session of the General Assembly in 1979 will need to be lifted if adequate revenue is to be raised for essential services like schooling and road building, the study said.

Tax incentives should be given for housing development in coal counties and national laws should be passed to prevent the takeover of coal lands by oil companies and energy conglomerates, it added.

Spokesmen for the union, District 1199, National Union of Hospital and Health Care Employees, claim that the increase in the cost of living means workers must earn $4.04 an hour to give them the same standard of living today that they had three years ago. The union has proposed a $4.25 an hour minimum starting wage.

A substantial increase in the hospital administrator's salary and an increase in the number of top management positions belie the hospital's claim of trying to contain hospital costs, union officials charge.

Hospital authorities complain of property damage and harassment of visitors, patients, physicians and nonunion employees at the hands of striking workers, including damage to cars crossing the union picket line. The union has denied responsibility for the alleged incidents.

Co. Attorney To Propose 'No Gun Thugs' Ordinance

County Attorney Arnold Turner, Jr. said Monday he will submit to the fiscal court at its meeting today (Wednesday) the same ordinance that he unsuccessfully introduced three years ago during a coal mine strike. The ordinance would regulate the hiring of guards, private police, watchmen and others who perform any service ordinarily rendered by county and state officers. It was admittedly

Miners' Strike Ends 2nd Week On Quiet Note

The strike which has closed all union mines as well as most that are not organized ended its second week today (Wednesday) on a note so peaceful that some considered the quiet "almost ominous."

"No violence reported," the district post of the Kentucky State Police at Pikeville said in response to an inquiry

Few, if any, coal trucks were moving, and this eased a more volatile situation in which truckers seeking higher pay through formation of a union had clashed with independent truck operators, particularly in Lawrence and Martin counties.

A glimmer of hope of renewed contract negotiations was seen Tuesday as UMW President Sam Church summoned the union's 39-member bargaining council back to Washington. But last week Bobby R. Brown, leader of the coal industry bargaining team, was saying there would be no new contract talks.

One high UMW official, J.B. Trout, international executive board member for District 30, thought otherwise. "It may be a long strike, but I don't think these coal companies are going to sit by, just because Brown is being hardnosed," he said, aimed at preventing "any gun thug situations.

"A simple reading of this ordinance," Turner wrote County Judge-Executive Bill Wells, "will show that its intent is to insure that private guards, employed and armed by coal companies, have at least presented an appearance of sound judgment and character so as not to create a danger of over-reaction or irrational judgment in expected confrontations."

The county attorney said the ordinance could be in effect within two weeks if the court acts favorably and promptly.

The ordinance would require:

-Any person, firm or corporation conducting or maintaining any patrol service or system in this county to apply in writing to the Floyd County Court for permission to engage in such business. Such application would then be referred to the sheriff, or any other police agency designated by the court, who would make an investigation into the character of the applicant and the conditions of police protection prevailing in the area designated for such protection. A maximum of 10 days would be given for this investigation.

-Any person or firm employing persons for such services would be required to submit, in writing, the names of those whom they propose to employ so that an investigation of these individuals can be made to determine if they are of good moral character.

-Any permits granted would be issued on the condition that the patrol service or system would be operated and conducted under the general supervision of the Floyd county sheriff, and such permit would be subject to being revoked by the court, if cause is shown, and after a hearing is held.

-Each individual or firm granted a permit would be required to execute $10,000 bond.

FARM REPORT

At hand is a well-circulated 'letter' from a fellow who had moved-not from Kentucky, surely-to Indiana or Florida, or somewhere, to friends back home. We quote excerpts from this model epistle:

"We are busy farming, eggs are a good price now. We have 25 roosters and 1 hen. Some of the ground is so poor here you can't raise a umbrella on it. But we have a fine crop of potatoes, some are the size of Hickory nuts and some are the size of peas and there are a whole lot of little ones. The other day mom was taking the cows to water, and when they crossed the bridge one of them fell through and strained her milk. Now she got the hiccups and churns her own butter."

'The dog died 4 weeks ago. Russel said he swallowed a tape measure and died by the inches. Mom said he went up the back alley and died by the yard. But I said he crawled up under bed and died by the foot."

"My brother-in-law is sick and near death's door. We sure hope the doctor can pull him through. Alice got the mumps and is having a swell time."

"The baby swallowed a roll of film, but I don't think anything will develop. Everytime Bill gets sick, he gets to feeling bad. The doctor gave him some medicine and said if he didn't get any worse he would stay the same. I must close now, if you can't read my writing, make yourself a copy and read your own. It took me 5 days to write this, as I know you are a slow reader and I didn't want to get ahead of you.'

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of our beloved son and brother, Keith B. Boyd, on his birthday, April 9th.

Mrs. Martha Stambaugh, above, was presented a gift on her 95th birthday, March 14, by Becky Stout, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Walter Stout, of Prestonsburg. A native of Paintsville, Mrs. Stambaugh celebrated her birthday at the Mountain Manor Nursing Home here with an open house. She attributes her long life to prayer and good food.

She and her family would like to express their gratitude to each and everyone who helped make her day a perfect one, for the beautiful cards, gifts, phone calls, and flowers; especially the Mountain Manor staff-Mable Goeble for the beautiful cakes, Ann Ousley, Robert Crider for their help with the punch and coffee, Irene Wallen, Pam Elkins, Liz Allen for serving as hostesses, for the songs, and prayers.

Again, thanks and God bless each and everyone of you.

For ninety-five years, you have trod this land here below while holding to God's hand as you go.

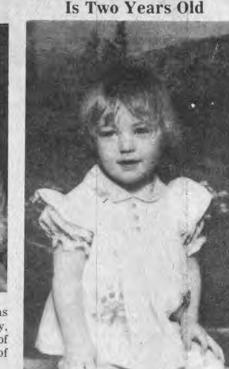

Now that you are getting older and time is swiftly passing by, you are just getting nearer to your beautiful home in the sky.

The first time I met you, you held your Bible in your hand, and I knew by your expression you were going to a better land.

So just keep looking up Martha, God is always near and some day you will enjoy the fruits of your laber in a land where you will never have a care.

And may God bless you on this your special day.

Upset By Statement Made By Educator

Regarding the issue of the Ten Commandments posted in the schools. Recently, to my utter disbelief. I heard a well known respected local educator and civic leader make one of the most outlandish statements that 1 have heard in sometime.

They requested of a local merchant to allow a copy of the Ten Commandments to be displayed in their store. While I find no disagreement with the merchant displaying the Commandments, I was upset by the reasoning of the educator.

This person explained that the reason the Commandments could not be displayed in the schools was because the Communist Party and the ERA had worked to get them out of the schools.

Being a full believer in and supporter of the ERA, you can imagine how surprised I was to learn that by doing so, I was somehow in alliance with the Communist Party.

If I may state a few facts, I would like to say first of all, that I have read a copy of the ERA and nowhere in the Amendment does it mention or even hint at any affiliation with the Communist Party. I have also read a copy of the Constitution of the United States and it does make mention of separation of church and state.

The only political backing that I am aware of concerning the Commandments, is that of the well heeled group calling itself the moral majority. They do give it their full support. I have also read their Constitution, thoroughly. In my opinion, their beliefs parallel strongly with that of an infamous Austrian born leader with an obsession with ovens and lampshades.

Hopefully, this person could have simply been ignorant of the facts, or have them confused. I truly hope so, it is scary to think otherwise. Words such as this coming out of the mouth of an educator could soon make it difficult to distinguish between 1934 and 1984.

When we started Maple Wood Village, we vowed to build affordable homes that offered what people appeared to want most: good quality and well organized space.

Maple Wood Village provides what people in Eastern Kentucky often have been told they cannot have: a good piece of land, close to shopping and schools, and a well-built home with garage and patio in a neighborhood that is well dimensioned with room to breathe.

Maple Wood offers six different floor plans to fit a variety of family needs. The Boston, featured at upper left, is a typical one story home featuring an open living environment with well separated bedroom areas.

It's spring time in the mountains and time for the trees to bud and flowers to bloom. We welcome you to join us at Maple Wood and view what we think is one of the most attractive residential areas anywhere.

Sincerely, Jack D. Deskins, Builder

Our Fragile Earth

By DR. JERRY HOWELL Department of Biological and Environmental Sciences Morehead State University

The National Wildlife Federation's Environmental Quality Index (EQI) for 1980 was published in the February-March, 1981 issue of "National Wildlife." EOI is a subjective estimation of the quality of American life, based on seven different environmental categories: wildlife, minerals, air, water, forests, living space, and soil. For 12 years, the Federation has been estimating these factors annually, comparing them with each other and individually ranking each category with its previous year's assessment. Previous installments have summarized EQI's comments about wildlife, minerals (energy) and air; this segment examines water.

Despite earlier victories in cleaning our nation's waters and nine years of progress under the Clean Water Act, our water quality worsened in 1980, primarily due to toxic waste contamination. Last fall a House subcommittee released a list of 2,100 places around the nation where industrial wastes may be contaminating ground water, affecting about one half of the U.S. population. The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) estimates that the U.S. is generating nearly 80 billion pounds of hazardous chemical wastes annually, but only about ten percent is being disposed of properly. In Michigan, ground water has been adulterated in 300 localities. Two dozen towns have chemically-polluted water supplies in Massachusetts, while in New York, the drinking water of three

Urge Caution With New Contact Lenses

The Kentucky Board of Optometric Examiners joins with the manufacurers of extended-wear contact lenses in warning consumers that although the newly approved soft contact lenses for use in correcting nearsightedness may be worn up to two weeks without removal, and have major advantages, they may not be for the average young contact lens wearer. A thorough vision examination is needed to determine whether or not a person can wear extended-wear lenses.

The U. S. Department of Health and Human Services, Food and Drug Administration, warns that the new soft lenses, which are made of a new water absorbing material which allows oxvgen to reach the cornea even when the wearer is asleep, are not of the same composition as the daily wear lenses, and the FDA recommends that these new extended wear contact lenses be prescribed and fitted only by an ophthalmologist or optometrist. In its pproval, the FDA required long-term follow-up care for those wearers of the new soft contact lenses. Serious corneal damage may result from wearing a lens which is not properly fit, or it conventional hard contact lens solutions containing preservatives are used with soft hydrophilic contact lenses. The manufacturers of these lenses recognize that some optical sales persons are promoting these lenses without including a full disclosure of the product, the durability or the necessity for periodic check-ups by an optometrist or ophthalmologist. Abrasions, ulcerations, increases in corneal thickness and infection may be an increased risk with extended-wear lenses. Post-surgical cataract patients may wear these lenses up to thirty days if no discomfort is noted and if recommended by the eye doctor.

million residents has been contaminated by 60-odd companies dumping about 10 million gallons of wastewater daily into a dozen Long Island sewage systems. Last spring, EPA issued regulations that will cost a billion dollars annually, but they estimate the cost as minimal when compared to the costs inflicted on society by uncontrolled disposal.

Ground water depletion and ocean dredging were continuing problems in 1980. In some states, water usage laws have become very restrictive. Arizona, for example, is using water eight times faster than it can be replenished naturally and they have recently passed the most ambitious water management law in history. Dredge spoils, regularly dumped in some 130 places off the coasts of 15 states, are the result of the scouring of harbor bottoms to keep ports open. The mud is sometimes laced with chemical wastes.

The cleanup costs are high ($45 per person in 1978) and will increase in the next few years, but the sum of all federal environmental regulations will only add less than one-half of one percent to the annual inflation rate until 1985. By them, Americans should begin reaping major financial, health and recreational benefits from cleaner water supples. Next; forests.

Police Cars To Be Sold

Approximately 100 used state police cars will be auctioned Wednesday, April 8, at 10 a.m. at the Kentucky State Police Academy, one mile west of Frankfort on U. S. 60.

Most of the vehicles are 1977 Fords with air conditioning, automatic transmission and power equipment; some cars have been wrecked. All vehicles will be sold "as-is."

A complete list of vehicles for sale will be available the day of the sale. Cars can be inspected only on the day of sale.

Payment for vehicles purchased at the auction must be made by cash, cashier's check or certified check. Checks should be made payable to Kentucky State Treasurer or the buyer as payee. "Change" will be given, in reasonable amounts, for checks written for more than the purchase price.

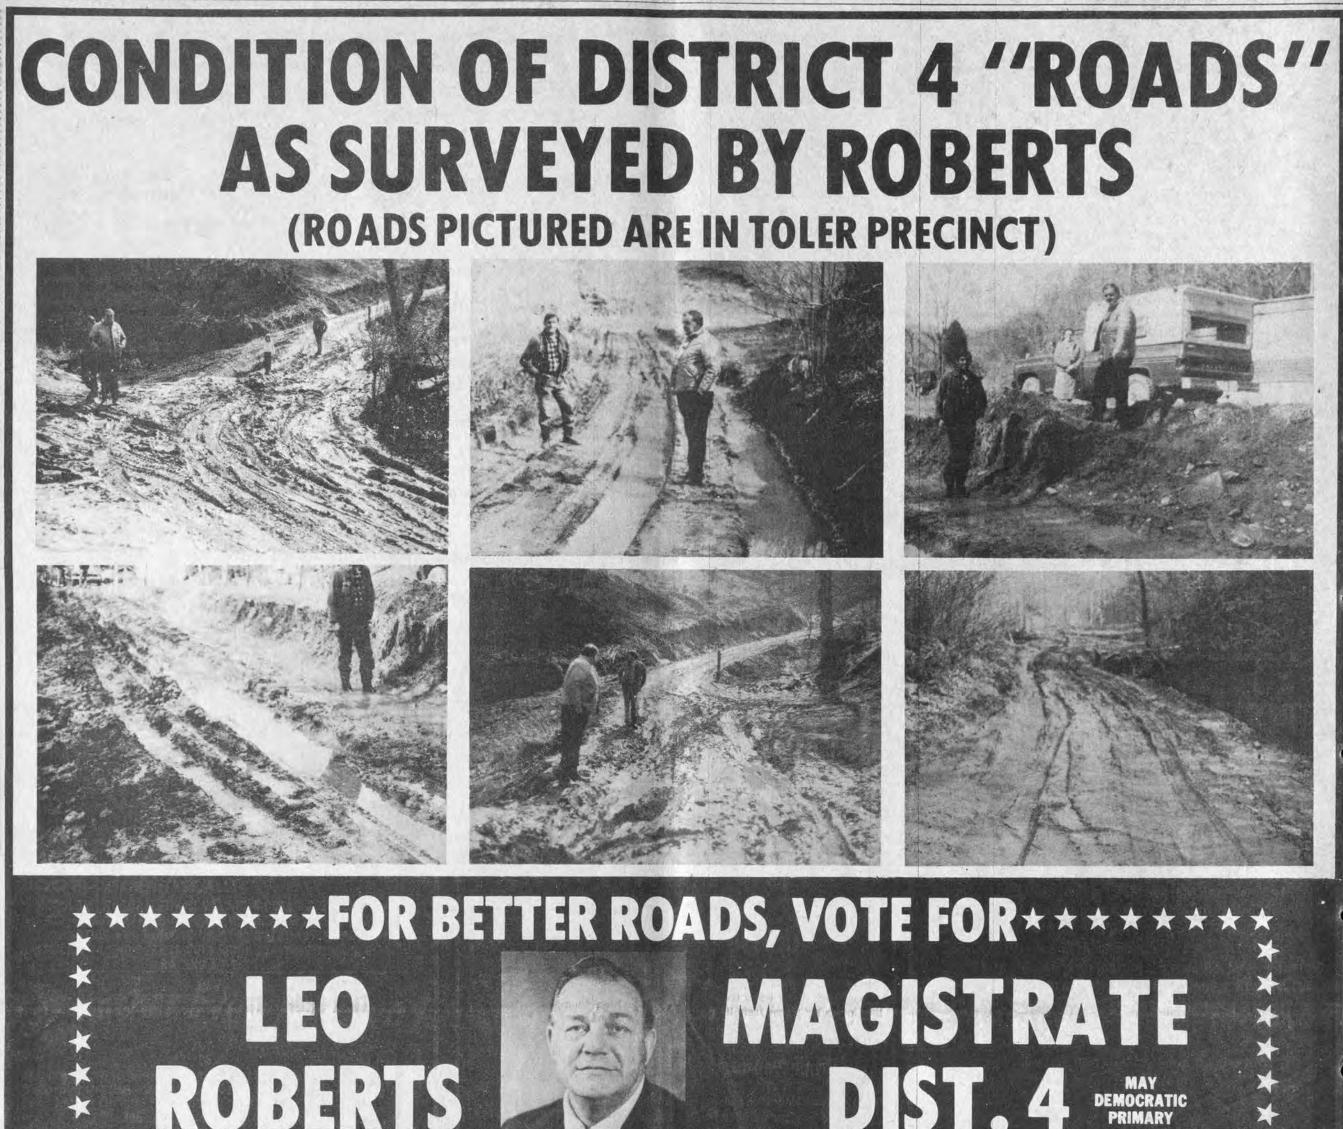

The manufacturers of extendedwear contact lenses say they cannot control the promotional efforts of individual optical sales persons, but they do "discourage any advertising which does not include a full disclosure of the product". Unethical promotion of extended-wear contact lenses may do a disservice to the public, the eyecare professionals and the product itself.

Celebrates Birthday

It has been marvelous to witness how the skilled hands of these surgeons, doctors and nurses performed to save the life of my dear son for which I am so thankful and grateful. However, we all realized that the Supreme Power of God was needed to save my critically ill boy. Yes, that's when the pastors, the God-loving people from the beautiful hills of eastern Kentucky, our lovely Blue Grass land, from our northern states of Ohio, Indiana, Michigan and from the Sunshine State of Florida sent messages, phone calls, telegrams, cards, letters and made visitations assuring us that prayers were constantly being sent up for Dicky. They were on their knees in prayer at the magic hours of midnight-chains of prayers were going all out, churches were in touch with each other with special prayers. I don't have to tell you those days grew long and nights were dreary but by your faithful deeds, your financial support, and your constant reminder that, "God Would Take Care," gave us the courage to face each hour. May God bless you. Yes, prayers are being answered and many miracles unfolding as we are seeing this brave and loving young man battling bravely and patiently for his recovery all with the help of so many dedicated people and your continuing prayers. There will never here on earth be a way that I can ever get in touch with so many of you kind, loving and caring people. I know you do realize that I shall always be grateful for everything.

Service Of Tenebrae Set At Church Here

The service of Tenebrae will be conducted at the First United Methodist Church here on Good Friday, April 17, at 7 p.m., it was announced this week.

The musical service is an adaptation of the ancient Tenebrae service in which the gradual extinction of the candles during the service is accompanied by chorales, chosen for their simplicity and aptness. The music is traditionally sung a cappella.

According to background provided by the church in its announcement of the service, Tenebrac is the Latin word meaning shadows. In the service the sanctuary is progressively darkened as the candles are extinguished and at the end, only one candle remains burning. The light is removed for a short time, symbolizing Christ's three days in the tomb. The light is then returned and spreads its light through the disciples, symbolized by the choir.

The chancel choir and rhythmic choir will be under the direction of Mrs. Arthur Haywood and Mrs. Chalmer Frazier and the public is invited to attend.

ECUMENICAL CHURCH PROGRAMS PLANNED

St. Theodore Catholic Church, St. James Episcopal Church, and First Presbyterian Church will combine for several ecumenical events as well as their own Holy Week services.

The Rev. James Ryan, Rev. Moultrie McIntosh and the Rev. Timothy Jessen will share in leading the program.

During the service, an offering will be taken to support the joint youth group, particularly designated for a spring overnight trip they are planning.

The public is invited to the program, and to share in the fellowship following.

They are not members of the clergy, but each team member is involved in the work of their church.

The mission is designed to motivate, encourage, and strengthen those who wish to live a Christian life, and all are welcome to attend.

Blackcat Weight Program Makes Progress, Coach Says

The Prestonsburg High School football team's off-season weight training program has been under way for about three months and quietly but steadily the youthful Blackcat squad has been making very good progress, according to Head Football Coach Phillip Haywood.

The off-season program is designed to help the athletes increase their muscular strength and endurance, improve their flexibility, quickness, and speed, and by enhancing the overall physical condition of the players help reduce injuries. The key to the progress being made has been in the attendance and attitude of the players, according to Coach Haywood. He said. "We've had excellent attendance out of the majority of the boys already out for the team. And that's the real key-if you're there regularly, you will improve. Though we're basically young, our players have shown a great deal of dedication, self-discipline, and have been enthusiastic-a good attitude overall for this time of the year.

In this year's winter program, the Cat's broke up into six intra-squad teams and set up a competition similar to television's "Superstars" competition Points were awarded individually, based on improvement of specific strength exercises, quickness, skills, and attendance and then combined for the team totals. Periodic checks at regular intervals were made over a nine-week period. Players attending regularly increased on an average of 10-15 pounds on both the bench press and the squat, and also, improved on the other related skills at each check. The intra-squad champions of the sixteam competition were the "Trolls." whose team consisted of Joe Frazier. Jeff Hilton, Bristol Gibson, Kelly Flanagan, David Mann, Randall Hager, James Stanley, Eddie DeRossett, and Clarence Davis. The top five individual point leaders were B. J. Sturgill, Joe Weddington, Dennis Daniels, Steve Rice, and Clyde Johnson. The competition was topped off by a team cook-off in which the players did their own cooking which was voted on by the players and their dates. Shirts were presented to the champions and trophies awarded to John DeRossett for the best dessert and to Todd Johnson for the best main dish.

The Blackcats are also planning a spring competition similar to the previous one, but with more emphasis on quickness and speed, and also to allow those athletes playing basketball in the winter and other newcomers a chance to compete. Coach Haywood said, "Our players liked it and wanted to do it again. Any athlete worth his salt likes competition. This allows to improve their skills and have friendly. competition at the same time. It may be a little hectic this spring as most of our players are either in baseball, track, golf, tennis, etc., but we'll work it out

On a different note, the Blackcat gridders are also doing well in the class room according to their past nine-week grade reports. Of the approximately 50 players checked, the team had a solid B average "We're very proud of this." Haywood said. "We expect our players to keep their grades up and, like anything else, some are naturally going to do better than others. A high percentage of our athletes participate in our other sports and many extracurricular activities. This requires a lot of self-discipline, maturity, and a wise budget of time to be able to do these things and still do well in the classroom.

It's certainly not too late to get started in the Blackcat football program and several more boys are expected to come out. "We're always looking for young men who want to be a part of our program," the coach said. And of the upcoming season, he said-"Let's just take it, one day at a time ..

The players already participating in the Blackcats program are: Steve Rice, Robert Midgette, Earl Shepherd, John Burchett, Dennis Daniels, Chuck Johnson, Randal Slone, John DeRossett, A. O. Orkst, Jeff Ratliff, Kenneth Sellards, James Blackburn, Ritchie Schoolcraft, James Hager, Jimmy Nichols, Joey Hicks, Mike Thompson, Todd Daniels, Eddie Compton, Brad Hughes, Ronnie Leslie, Ray Marcum, Jeff Wells, Michael Gunter, John McDowell, Bill Slone, Richard Hamilton, John Clifton, Derek Calhoun, Clyde Johnson, Ronnie Lawson, Tom Smith, Joe Frazier, Gordie Ratliff, Kelly Flanagan, Randall Hager, Marty Minix, Bristol Gibson. Jeff Hilton, David Mann, Jamie Adkins, Eddie DeRossett, James Stanley, B. J. Sturgill, Clarence Davis. Joe Weddington, James Little, Jamie Powell, Irvin Spears, Tommy Brown, John Anderson, Todd Nairn, John Gilliam, Jim Webb, Ronald Willis, Ray Porter, Robbie Tackett, Rod Lafferty. Harry Joseph, Ted George, Dennis Flanagan, Bill Tom Moore, Bryan Pace, Todd Johnson, Jody Hackworth.

Rice's Crispies . . . Pike Holds the Edge

By KENNY RICE

Politics plays a vital role in the operation of the KHSAA and one reason, two reasons, the tournament moved to Lexington were Pete Grigsby, Jr. and Fairce Woods, a couple of Floyd countians who were on the Board of Control when the decision to return to Lexington was made.

Woods is still on the board, Grigsby's term expired last summer and board members can't succeed themselves. Grigsby is planning on running again when the Eastern Kentucky region representative is up for election in two more years.

Until Grigsby gets back on the board. Pike county will probably host most of the high school tournaments.

UPLIFTING

Don Daniels is well pleased with the turnout for his weightlifting program for the Betsy Layne football team. This is the first time the Bobcats have had an off season weight training program and Daniels feels this will help the Bobcats immensely in August.

Betsy Layne has got off to slow starts the past two seasons but still managed to have respectable seasons against good competition. This time around, Daniels thinks the Cats will be able to make a run at the district title from the start, although the team maybe a year or two away from being solid contenders.

Daniels expects 70 boys to turn out for the team this summer. More than 40 are in the weight program at present.

AH, YES! SPRING

Spring is definitely here. Though the winter was mild and not worth complaining about, there is nothing to compare to Spring. It is the beginning of the seasonal cycle.

It is also a great time for taking in some high school baseball games. Almost every day this Spring some county team will be playing a game.

The caliber of Floyd county baseball has improved in each of the last five seasons. Expanded Little League and Babe Ruth programs is one reason, and another is that baseball has become something more than a void filler between the end of the basketball season and the end of the school term. Johnson county still has the best baseball teams in the region, teams that compare with the better clubs in the state, but Floyd county is gaining. The gain is slow, but it is to the point that a county team could win the region this season and end Paintsville's dominance

Floyd county has some fine coaches, some very talented players and the brand of baseball is comparable to most teams east of Lexington. With the exception of Allen Central, the high schools have decent facilities. The ingredient missing is fan support.

The games are free during the season, yet the attendance has been sagging over the last couple of seasons. even though everything else is improving on the high school baseball level. Contact the schools in the county: they will be glad to tell you when their team is playing. The county baseball program is worth supporting.

teams in the final four in the state in recent seasons. Floyd county could get a team in the finals within the next four or five seasons. Baseball might be the only team sport left in the state in which a Floyd county team could compete with every club in the Commonwealth.

RECRUITING

The most sought-after basketball player is in the county this season is Allen Central's 6-4 forward, Randy Conley. Conley averaged close to 25 points an outing over the last two months of the season. The agile senior really came into his own during the second semester, enough to draw the attention of several colleges in Ohio, West Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee,

If elected, I will have a public meeting in each community of Dist. No. 1 to hear suggestions from the people. The present system just isn't working.

I will put roads ahead of parks and your needs above politics. I will honor every commandment—I'll make the system work, or we might as well eliminate the office.

Braden, who has coached some of the world's top players, is respected by pros and amateurs alike for his ability to teach, inspire and entertain. Humor, in fact, is what truly sets Braden apart from other tennis coaches. Sports Illustrated described him as "a combination of Norman Vincent Peale and Rodney Dangerfield."

Braden is very serious about the role of humor in tennis. "People are so scared to death of looking bad, that their whole goal is to prevent that instead of trying to have some fun and hit the ball. My philosophy is laugh and learn, and ultimately you'll laugh and win!

Fires Continue To Plague Floyd, Eastern Forestry Dis.

With gusting winds adding to the suffered heavy damage from forest woes of firefighters in Floyd and five other counties of the Eastern Forestry District last week, thousands of additional acres of forest land was added to the total already burned during the current fire season.

Unlike last fall's disastrous rash of fires which affected this county's woodlands more severely than in other counties of the district, Floyd county was spared the brunt of the damage, at least over the past week, with 3,000 acres burned over

Magoffin county was hardest hit of Eastern District counties with 60,000 acres reported burned within a week, according to Carter Conley, public information officer with the district forestry office here. In addition to loss of timber, wildlife shelter and watershed value, several barns were destroyed in Magoffin, and perhaps the most tense situation of the spring fire season thus far occurred Saturday night when fire surrounded an explosive powder plant at Tyyton. Conley said high winds which made Saturday's burning the most intense of the week, rendered firefighting efforts near the plant almost useless. Workers "lucked out" when rain finally began to fall that night. Conley commented. Johnson and Lawrence counties also fires over the week, it was said.

In Floyd county, the largest fire of the week was recorded Saturday near the Dewey Dam with 350 acres involved. Forestry workers and Corps of Engineers personnel joined to control spread of the fire. A vacant house was destroyed as the result of forest fire on Reed Branch at Hueysville which was battled by members of the Maytown. Martin and Wayland fire departments and the Maytown Volunteer squad also was called to a large fire at Warco which threatened several houses, according to Maytown Fire Chief Edward F. Robinson. Robinson said the wind during Saturday afternoon whipped flames 15 to 20 feet high. The Maytown firefighters also answered a call from Goose Creek near Maytown where a house was threatened, according to Robinson. Other fires were reported at Dwale and Stone Coal, forestry officials said.

Four Division of Forestry personnel were sent to this district from the Campbellsville district and three more from Elizabethtown, according to Information Officer Conley.

"Conditions are still ripe for another big blow-up," commented Conley, "and we want to urge the public to be particularly careful during this period.

Until conditions improve, all burning is unlawful in Floyd county and the forestry district as a whole, according to Conley.

Martin TV Channel To Serve 3.200

Beginning this Sunday, television viewers in several Floyd county communities will have an extra channel to turn to, and programming will originate not from some distant metropolis, but locally-Martin, to be exact.

Local residents Eddie Taylor, Bobby Griffith and Ken Peters, in a joint venture, will begin broadcasting at 9 a.m. Sunday with religious programming which will include services conducted by some local clergymen through video tape. Replays of the April 3 wrestling match at Martin will be shown during the day as well as three movies and a special "man on the street" program which will feature local residents responding to questions and voicing opinions.

Broadcast through channel 5, the programming will be accessible to an estimated 3,200 viewers in Martin, Maytown, Ivel, Allen, Hunter, Prater Creek, Arkansas Creek, Stephens Branch and Emma and surrounding areas, it was said.

The channel will operate on weekends on a trial basis, a spokesman for the concern stated.

FLOYD HEART CHAPTER TO MEET, APRIL A meeting of the Floyd County Chapter of the American Heart Association is scheduled for next Wednesday, April 15, at Riverview Manor Nursing Home here. The meet, which will deal with continued fundraising efforts, will begin at 6:30 p.m. and all members and interested. citizens are invited to attend.

Cancer Radiothon Goes Over Goal

The annual American Cancer Radiothon, held by the Floyd County Chapter over station WDOC last Saturday, surpassed its goal of $12,000, and once again leads the state in funds collected in this way. Originator of the Cancer Radiothon is the state. The local chapter each year schedules a full day's program of entertainment and information.

This year's radiothon began at 6 a.m. and continued until 1 a.m. Program coordinator Lennie Grant said, "The response from Floyd and surrounding counties again demonstrates the public's willingness to help others. We are especially grateful for such generosity in this time of high inflation and economic uncertainty.

Mrs. Lyda M. Howard, chairperson of the radiothon and Mr. Grant expressed their appreciation to all who helped in any way in making the annual event a success, and emphasized that without the cooperation of Mr. and Mrs. Gorman Collins, owners of radio station WDOC who give the radio time each year, the effort would not be possible.

TO THE VOTERS IN DISTRICT 1

I would like to thank all of you that have given me support and donations. And I would like to say to all of the people in the heads of hollows: I will remember you when I am elected. You are important to me. I am interested in all people and each road and hollow. I will devote all of my time and energy to improving the roads and assisting the people any way I can. We need someone who can devote all his time to keeping the work done. We don't need a man that has another job to worry about that pays more than he would make as magistrate, so he would have to neglect the office of magistrate so he could keep his better-paying job.

At this time I have the sanitation department. In the near future the Floyd County Solid Waste is taking the sanitation department, and I will be free to devote all my time as magistrate. Elect a man fulltime not part-time.

Federal, State Fire Fighters Battle Nat'l Forest Blazes

State and federal forest firefighters hope last Saturday night's rains lasted long enough to cool off the serious fire danger throughout Eastern Kentucky. Daniel Boone National Forest Fire Management Officer, Steve Pedigo says the recent dry weather, warm temperatures, and strong winds, created "red flag" conditions where the slightest spark could set the woods afire.

Pedigo said Saturday was one of the worst days in a long time with over 460 personnel and supporting air and ground equipment taking action on 14 fires that burned over 1400 acres. The largest of these fires ocurred in Whitley county on the London Ranger District near the state designated Wild and Scenic river portion of the Cumberland River. This fire burned over 900 acres of important watershed near the river and had over 100 firefighters on the line.

How much good the rain will do will depend on several important weather elements associated with the cold front that passed through after the rain. Pedigo added that fire conditions could soon again become serious if warm temperatures, low humidity, and breezy winds return. Contributing to the overall problem is the deficit rainfall that is all too common a situation reported around the southeastern portion of the nation.

Both federal and state forestry personnel offer some tips for citizens who do burn. First check with local forestry officials on the latest weather conditions and the state laws that apply to the burning of flammable material. Always burn in a safe area insuring that the fire is well away from flashy and flammable fuels. Never leave any fire unattended. An escaped debris fire is perhaps one of the most frequent causes of wildfire. To insure that a fire is out, the fire should be drowned thouroughly with water, the coals stirred, and drowned again.

about your Social Security

By JIM KELLY Social Security District Manager

It seems that the older we get the greater the pressure to prove how young we are. The late Jack Benny drew endless comic payoff from this phenomenon by always giving his age as 39

However when it comes to applying for social security benefits, everyone is required to prove his or her date of birth. Eligibility for benefits is generally based on one's date of birth and the amount of work covered under social security.

In addition to proving your date of birth in applying for benefits, under current law you also have to establish date of birth as well as identity when you apply for a social security card. Proof of age continues to be the problem that plagues more social security applicants than any other. The problem generally surfaces when they discover that the date of birth they are currently using is different from that given to social security many years ago when they applied for a social security card. When this happens, social security requires additional evidence.

The preferred proof of age is a birth certificate or baptismal record dated before a person's fifth birthday. Other proofs may include an old school record, delayed birth certificate, insurance policy, census records, bible or other family record, religious record of confirmation or baptism in your early adult life, military record, marriage record, vaccination record, physician or midwife's record of birth, or passport. The list is not exhaustive. Social security evaluates such documents in terms of how old they are and the circumstances under which they were made. A record made before age 5 is the best record.

We urge people who are not sure that they are using the correct date of birth

VA ?uestions & Answers

Q-I will be released from active duty in the very near future, after 20 years of service, and plan to attend high school. Will the VA pay for my schooling?

A-Public Law 96-466, recently signed into law, eliminates the payment of educational benefits for high school attendance except for tuition and fees.

Q-When will I get my dividend for my World War II insurance and how much will it be?

A-The 1981 dividends will be paid on the anniversary date of the policy. The average dividend on World War II policies is $168. For World War 1 policies the average is $296, and for Korean Conflict policies, the average dividend is $67.

Q-If a pension recipient is not sent an annual income questionnaire, is there any responsibility to report income to the VA?

A-The fact that one is not sent an income questionnaire does not mean he is exempt from the income limits prescribed by law. These persons must still report changes in the number or status of dependents and any increase in annual income to the VA office that has the individual's records. General rate increases in social security need not be reported.

Q-When my father died a number of years ago, we received a flag from the Veterans Administration: Since it has only 48 stars, could we have the flag replaced with a 50-star flag?

A-The VA issues only one flag for each deceased veteran. Once a flag is given to the next-of-kin of the deceased, it cannot be replaced. This applies in all cases, even if the original flag issued has been damaged or destroyed. Q-I want to get a loan to start a small business. Will the Veterans Administration assist me? A-The VA no longer guarantees loans for small businesses. This service is provided by the Small Business Administration, which has counselors designated to assist veterans. Contact your nearest SBA office for details.

Q-I am a veteran attending school under the GI Bill, and I am having problems with my college algebra course. Can my wife, who is a math major, act as my tutor?

A-No. Veterans Administration regulations state that payment of tutorial assistance cannot be made to a veteran's parent, spouse, child, brother or sister.

Q-Is there a difference in the rate of Veterans Administration disability compensation paid for wartime and peacetime service?

A-No. The payment is the same for wartime and peacetime service.

Q-What is Veterans Administration domiciliary care?

-This program offers shelter and sustenance on an ambulatory, selfcare basis for eligible disabled veterans who do not need hospitalization, nor the skilled nursing services provided in nursing homes. To make application, contact your nearest VA office.

A-Yes. The veteran should contact the vocational rehabilitation specialist at a VA regional office. Arrangements for the eye examination will be made and, if required, glasses will be furnished.

Q-What is the current hourly wage paid to veterans utilizing the workstudy program under the GI Bill?

A-Effective Jan. 1, 1981, the hourly wage for work-study benefits was increased to $3.35.

Q-May a veteran pay off a Veterans Administration guaranteed home loan before it becomes due without a penal-

A-Yes.

Q-How can I have the Veterans Administration reevaluate my service connected disability since I am currently being treated as an outpatient at a VA clinic?

A-Submit a request in writing to the adjudication officer at your VA regional office. In your request, show where and when you received treatment.

State To Kill Weeds

Landowners with property adjacent to state-owned right of way may soon get relief from noxious weeds.

Kentucky's noxious weed law provides that the state will destroy noxious weeds on state-owned right of way at the request of the adjoining property owner.

The noxious weeds named in the law are Johnson grass, giant foxtail, Canada thistles, nodding thistles and multiflora roses.

"Destroying the noxious weeds on just the right of way or just the adjoining property does not solve the problem," said George Franke, assistant state highway engineer. "Runners or windblown seed can cause the weeds to crop up again."

A joint effort between the state and the property owners must be made to destroy the noxious weeds, he said.

Landowners wishing to work with the Department of Transportaiton to rid thier property of noxious weeds must submit a written application to the highway district office in their area. Applications and addresses of each district office will be located at state highway maintenance barns.

Q-I see ads for veterans life insurance on TV. Can you explain this program?

A-Such insurance is offered by private insurance companies and has absolutely nothing to do with the VA or the U. S. government. Unfortunately, the commercials do not adequately explain that this is not a government program.

Q-Can a veteran receive GI Bill educational assistance for training leading to a private pilot's license?

A-No. Educational assistance cannot be provided by the Veterans Administration for training leading to a private pilot's license. A veteran must possess a private pilot's license before entering a commercial flying program for which VA educational assistance can be provided.

Q-My deceased husband is buried in a national cemetery. As his widow, am entitled to be buried in the same cemetery?

A-Yes. Burial in a national cemetery is available to a veteran's widow, minor children, and under certain conditions, to unmarried adult children.

Q-Is a veteran with a service connected disability entitled to a Veterans Administration eye examination while he is attending school with VA educational assistance?

Furniture Investment As Inflation Hedge

Gold is being bought and sold today with the enthusiasm shown by the Spanish Conquistadors when they demolished the Incan Empire. The market for fine art has never been so brisk. Prices of private homes match those of the oil baron estates of yesteryear.

All this frantic investment activity reflects the desire to find a hedge in a time of spiraling inflation. Elaborate investments, however, are not usually available to people with moderate incomes. Their purchases must be more modest, although they face the same economic pressures. One investment they should consider is fine furniture.

"Good furniture retains its value," says Harley F. Shuford, Jr., President of the Century Furniture Company of Hickory, North Carolina.

"Well-made case goods, like chests, tables and chinas, often increase in price over the years. If you've ever attended an estate sale, you know that's true."

Whether you're furnishing your first home or adding pieces to your present one, choose your furniture with quality as the first consideration. Labor is increasingly more expensive. The price of fine woods continues to soar. Mass-produced furniture has become more prevalent as the cost of producing fine, hand-crafted furniture increases. Now is a good time to invest in beautiful, hand-finished furniture. What should you look for when you're investing in fine furniture? Harley Shuford suggests some of the less obvious characteristics of quality that will insure your purchase is a good investment.

The wood used in fine case goods must have certain specific qualities. Exterior wood must be beautifully grained, strong and easy to work on. It must finish well and take a high polish. Staining should enhance its natural beauty. The surface should be smooth and free of imperfections when you run your hand over it. Check for hairline cracks which may become more obvious as furniture ages. Exposed ends of wood should be covered with a layer of solid wood or veneer, not simply painted to resemble the finish on top.

"Benchmade, well-crafted furniture requires as many as 27 manual operations before a piece is completed to meet our standards," says Shuford. "We have quality control checks all along the way."

Beautiful patterns in unusual woods can be achieved by the cutting methods used in preparing the veneers, or layers of wood; by the part of the tree from which the wood is cut; and by various irregularities caused by the way wood grows. An example of decorative veneer is burl, which is an unusual pattern obtained by cutting wood with a large growth resulting from injury to the tree. Matching burl veneers, either opened like a book, joined endto-end, or arranged side-by-side, can produce beautiful surfaces in quality furniture.

"Wonderful effects are possible with matched white ash burl veneers," says Raymond Sobota, case goods designer. "A warm medium tone stain allows the beauty of the burl grain structure to emerge." Although classically Oriental in style, the dramatic use of ash burls and dark solid parts creates stunning furniture that's perfect for a period setting or a contemporary room.

Inspect Interiors

Wood used for interior surfaces must have strength and permanence. High quality cabinets, desks and chests usually have solid five-ply veneer side panels. In fine case goods, the back panel is made of plywood and inset into the frame. Well-made drawers have dovetail construction front and back.

When opened, drawers should not move from side to side; they should glide easily. There should be dust panels between the drawers. Stained backs and undersides of wood furniture are other signs of quality construction.

example of decorative veneer is burl, One mark of fine manufacture in which is an unusual pattern obtained wood pieces is the way in which interlocking joints are connected. Mortise and tenon joints, which wedge into each other, offer a strong union. The dowel joint, a peg fitted into holes in the pieces to be joined, is most commonly used and is very strong. Grooved dowels are superior to smooth ones. Corner blocks are essential at points of stress. The joints should be smooth without filler between them.

Often table tops are made of veneers which add strength and resistance to warping. A veneer also allows the matching of grain configurations, and almost any effect is possible with fine craftsmanship. The veneered panel is then banded by solid wood strips, mitered at the corners, which provide both strength and a handsomely finished edge to the top panel.

"Quality furniture is expensive," says Shuford, "and will become more so. Consumers, concerned for our economic future, should seek their money's worth in the design, construction and finish of furniture."

Furnishing a home is a highly individual experience. To be sure that your purchases, particularly in case goods, are good investments that will retain their value for many years, investigate the hidden features that testify to high quality. If you do, your furniture will be more than just another purchase—it will be an investment.

About the House

Making The Grass Greener On Your Side

Ever wonder why your neighbor's grass always seems to be greener than yours? Maybe it's because he's watering his lawn properly, and you're not. Here's what to do:

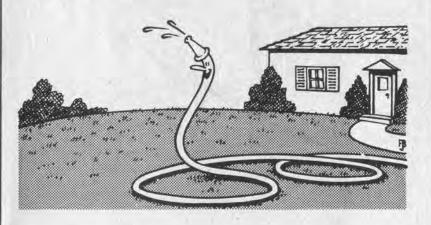

As a rule of thumb, your lawn needs about $1-1\frac{1}{2}$ " of water per week. Never water more than $\frac{1}{2}$ " at a time, since most soils can't absorb that much water in one sprinkling. To figure out how long it takes your lawn to soak in $\frac{1}{2}$ " of water, set four flatbottomed cans at various distances in a straight line from your sprinkler. Run the sprinkler for a set period, say an hour. If the cans have accumulated $\frac{1}{4}$ " of water in that time, you know you need to run the sprinkler for 2 hours.

As to what kind of sprinkler to use, portable ones are generally best when you've got a small lawn. Traveling sprinklers are good for larger areas. If you can afford it, an underground system is best, but be sure to have it installed by a trained irrigation specialist.

Water the lawn evenly, except for tree-shaded areas, which may require less moisture. To effectively water a slope, shut the sprinkler off when the water begins to run-off, let the moisture sink in, then resume sprinkling.

Sometimes older lawns develop a thick mat of living grass, clippings and other debris which acts as a barrier against moisture. Remove this thatch with a powered renovator, or, if it's really bad, consult a landscape specialist.

Securing A Good Alarm System

Every minute of every day four homes are burglarized across the country. Most of these burglaries can be prevented by simple steps, such as bolt-locking your doors and key-locking your windows. If you have a lot of valuables, are away from home often, and/or live in a burglary-prone neighborhood, you'll also want to invest in an alarm system.

Systems run about $1,000. Here's a run-down on components:

• Sensors. These trigger the alarm. For best protection, have them installed both on your doors and windows and inside the house. For windows, magnetic contacts connected to the control unit by wires can be used to signal that a pane has been removed. Some systems use transmitters instead of wires, but this can be unsightly since it requires bulky hardware. Inside your house, you can install pressure-sensitive mats and rugs.

• Alarm. The bell or siren should be loud enough to alert you (if you're home) and scare off the intruder. Good units have a panic button so you can sound the alarm yourself. They also have a battery-powered backup in case of power failure.

• Central reporting. This feature transmits the alarm to the police station, usually through an automatic dialer which sends a prerecorded or coded signal over regular phone wires. Make sure the device can bypass any regular phone use; otherwise, the burglar can stymie the alarm by simply keeping the receiver off the hook. Reporting devices are expensive; security companies often charge you a monthly fee to maintain them.

A good system will protect your house, but you have to protect yourself from getting robbed by the security salesmen. Be wary of scare tactics, and don't buy a system that will disrupt your lifestyle too much. Also, don't take the salesman's word for it if he says your insurance rates will go down when you install a system.

Betsy Layne Students Named to Honor Society

The Society of Distinguished American High School Students announced today that 19 students from Betsy Layne High School are to be included in its membership for 1981.

The society, one of the most selective high school honoraries in America today, accepts only students nominated by their sponsors. To be nominated, students must excell in academics, extracurricular, or civic activities.

Students awarded this honor include Don Robin Spears, Lori Newsome, Jennifer Newsome, Elaine Akers, Hillard Newman, Jr., Jeffrey Clark, Lucia Bentley, Teresa Justice, Joey Collins, Tammy Williams, Kim Tackett, Sheila Watson, Billy Joe Justice, Anita Smith, Peggy Frasure, Lynnette Boyd, Larry Rogers, Lisa Meade, and Kathy Johnson.

The sponsor, Ramona K. Auxier, received a National Appreciation Award from the society for "being dedicated to the encouragement and assistance of students." One of the Society's goals is to make membership an encouragement for top performance on the secondary school level.

Unique in concept, the Society has combined this honor with its National Awards Program which earmarks college scholarships for society members. This program, now in its thirteenth year, is funded by over 100 American colleges. It also preserves the honor by listing the students and their biographies in an annual Membership Registry.

How important is world health and the world health organizations? The United Nations Review states: "It is estimated that in India alone, 4,000 people die every day from water-borne diseases. This means about 2 million people a year in a single country where 50 million persons annually suffer to some extent from such diseases. It is only about six percent of India's people that enjoy the benefit of a safe water supply and barely one-sixth of India's towns have this advantage." It is something to think about, isn't it? For some years now, many Americans have said they felt something missing in their lives: heroes, those charismatic, larger-thanlife public personalities once so deeply entwined in the nation's identity.

"We have no heroic leaders, no religious or philosophic or artistic heroes, no inspiring military heroes,' novelist/critic Herbert Gold wrote when the American hostages returned home in January. In their place, he and others see nothing but a fast-changing clutter of celebrities, "the fast-food throwaway version of a hero," extending even to the freed Americans.

Viewing these men and women as heroes is wishful thinking, Dr. Robert Jay Lifton, professor of psychiatry at Yale University, believes. "Americans are really hungry for heroes," he says, 'and there's a great temptation to project onto the hostages that role.

But wait; take a second look, suggests Jack Santino, the Smithsonian Institution's Folklife Program expert on American heroes and folklore. "The hostages truly were heroic," he says. "They behaved well under a certain set of circumstances; they behaved with grace, courage and dignity. Moreover, he believes they are the latest in the long line of American heroes, a varied and complex cast that has mirrored the nation's history, changing images with its cultural development

American history divides into four major periods, each with its own particular life style and set of hero figures, folklore historian Richard M. Dorson writes in America in Legend. The first, the time of the religious man, dominated the nation's Colonial period. Heroes then were godly men, Puritan leaders like William Bradford, John Winthrop and Cotton Mather, who dedicated their lives to serving the Lord and safeguarding their new religious societies.

Next came the era of the democratic man, lasting well into the 19th century. The heroes were paternalistic, aristocratic statesmen yet advocates of democratic ideals-George Washington, father of the nation; Thomas Jefferson, architect of the Declaration of Independence.

Following their lead came more common men: Andrew Jackson, "The Hero'' to Americans moving westward, and then log-cabin-born Abe Lincoln, savior of the Republic and to Dorson "the most legendary of our presidents." Davy Crockett, perhaps the quintessential American folk hero, appeared, too, "a rough, full-blooded (Continued on Following Page)

The American Hero

hero who somehow seemed to spring from the people," Santino says, "one who represented their drives, ambitions, labor and humor."

The third era, that of the economic man, beginning in the mid-19th century, yielded a glittering roster of selfmade Americans, the captains of steel, rails, banking and other industry. "But they did not capture the people's imagination," Santino says. Celebrated instead were U. S. workers, who had been exploited and foreclosed by business interests, and famous outlaw figures such as Jessee James. The labor movement, struggle for individual rights and the nation's world wars later added to the U. S. stock of heroes.

Along about the 1960s, a fourth period emerged, the time of the human man, represented, perhaps, by the late John Lennon, whose message in lyrics seemed to be that 20th century man was too aggressive and needed to change his ways. But other heroes concurrently crossed the cultural landscape: political and sports figures, media stars, those who have achieved the unusual or extraordinary—the astronauts, Elvis Presley, Martin Luther King Jr., John F. Kennedy, Muhammad Ali.

"Because we live in a large, complex society, our heroes now tend to be very startified," Santino says explaining why it may seem as though Americans may have lost their idols. "Heroes to one group today may not even be known in another circle."

Some well-known personalities who seem bound for hero ranking don't quite make the grade, however. Witness the recent national flirtation with Jimmy Carter. "Carter was all set," Santino recalls. "He was portrayed as a man of the earth, the humble peanut farmer who called upon other working Americans to help him change the ways of Washington."

"Everyone was waiting for him to become a folk hero, but he didn't live up to the opportunities that were there," he adds.

So who qualifies for hero ranking? Santino lists six criteria that he feels go into making the American hero:

-Correspondence to tradition. Heroes usually personify the American dream, Santino says. Elvis Presley, a poor boy from Tupelo, Miss., might have gone nowhere, "but instead he did the traditional thing—he went from rags to riches literally. People thought, "That could be me.""

-A personal iconography. The hero will almost always have some personal feature that is attractive and unique and that later becomes symbolic: Presley's sideburns and guitar, Crockett's coonskin cap, Martin Luther King's vocal cadence,

-A sense of heroism. "Heroes have a great sense of viewing themsleves as heroic," according to Santino. "Hank Aaron broke Babe Ruth's homerun record, but what he didn't seem to have was his own sense of heroism. He didn't seize the moment." On the other hand, motorcycle daredevil Evil Knievel had it. "but no one had any need for his act, there was no social need for that." At the same time, a hero can't be someone who takes himself too seriously, Santino says. "JFK was loved because he had that wink and a smile."

—A credulous biographer. In the making of the hero, there is a real need for someone to get the information out to the public. Both Crockett and Lincoln were themselves skillful at telling tales, inserting themselves into the story line. "Crockett was brilliant at making himself a hero," Santino says. "Now the media often builds heroes."

-Personal concern. Beatles fans, for example, felt the British rock group was writing lyrics directly for them.

-Mastery of the uncontrollable. The hero seems to have control over his environment and ultimately even over death, Santino says. "The hostages reflected this, and people still think of Elvis as being alive, that he somehow has transcended mortality."

But confusing our idea of what makes a hero is the time in which we live: the age of the celebrity. "It's astonishing how fast they come and go, achieving celebrity status for short periods," Santino says. "Look at Farrah Fawcett. She was considered important three years ago—now, passe. Bo Derek of "10" fame is probably going or gone."

Now a final cautionary word about hero worship: "Though heroes can be a positive force, there are a lot of things about heroes that are not good," Santino believes. "They are unhealthy for us when they become objects of wishful thinking or when we begin to impersonate them."

"I worry about people who are so wrapped up with their heroes that they have no life of their own. I worry about people who spend Saturdays with the shades drawn down watching Elvis' 'GI Blues' for the 14th time."

Dam Faces Stiff Opposition

The Kentucky Rivers Coalition, a citizen activist group from Lexington, wants Congress to scuttle the $94 million Yatesville Dam project and sell back to private citizens the 13,000 acres acquired for the project.

'Yatesville Lake has not reached the theoretical point of no return," Robert Hoffman, coordinator of the KRC told a House Appropriations subcommittee last week

He said the federal government has completed only one percent of the construction, spending $13 million of the $94 million estimated to complete the project

More than 100 families already have been relocated from the site, and termination of the project would preserve the homes of about 70 families and 8,000 acres of fertile farm land.

"At least one-half of the $11 million already spent-not counting the $2 million in the fiscal 1981 allotment-could be recovered by selling the 13,096 acres of already acquired land back to the public at half of the 1979 average value of Kentucky farm land," Hoffman said.

"Given the economically useless nature of this project, it certainly is not too late to withdraw from this project and to invest the funds in other more useful projects," such as flood control along the Tug and Levisa forks, Hoffman added

The KRC representative called Yatesville "a bad investment...the most useless squanderings of public money that this country has ever witnessed.

But a group of Lawrence county residents, as well as Rep. Carl Perkins (D-Hindman), disagree. They told the same House panel that the dam would offer flood protection, new jobs and recreational facilities to an area suffering from a 16 percent unemployment rate.

Hoffman admits opponents of Yatesville have faced some formidable odds in their efforts to kill the dam, including Perkins, a 31-year veteran of Congress and chairman of the powerful House Education and Labor Committee

"Congressman Perkins is a powerful man and can make life miserable for other Kentucky congressmen" if they don't go along with Yatesville, Hoffman said.

Perkins is trying to convince colleagues on the Senate and House Appropriations Committees on Energy and Water Development to add $6.9 million for Yatesville to their appropriations bills.

But Hoffman says the current budget-cutting fervor now sweeping Congress, and the fact that President Reagan's fiscal 1982 budget included zero funding for Yatesville has given his movement new hope.

Here are the reasons why KRC opposes Yatesville:

Nashville Edition

-Flood protection is minimal. The dam would lower the Big Sandy River at Catlettsburg, 25 miles down river from the dam, by only 2.5 inches during a flood.

-Coal, oil and gas exploration in the region would be halted, a possibility that already has "stunted growth of the county's economy." The KRC says five gas and two oil fields, of which 80 percent remain untapped, are beneath the dam site; there also are seven million tons of recoverable coal beneath the -Recreational benefits are questionable, since Yatesville will be the seventh such lake within a 50-mile radius.

-The Kentucky Department of Parks, in a letter to the Corps of Engmeers, said the agency can I atford to support a recreation area at Yatesville.

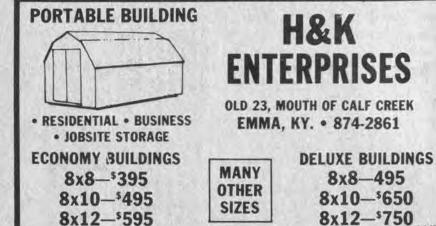

-The project is not economically justifiable. The KRC says the dam's cost has risen to $96 million in fiscal 1982, a 50 percent increase over the last fiscal year.

By JOHN WILSON

If someone tells you to go white bass fishing when the redbuds are in full bloom, don't dismiss him as a bloomin' fool

It's actually possible to make ratherclose correlations between the spawning activities of various fish and other natural phenomena, according to Charlie Bowers, director of the fish and wildlife department's fisheries division

Both spawning activity and the growth of plants is determined by temperature-or rather the "accumulation to temperature" as days become progressively warmer in the spring, Bowers says. During a warm, early spring, trees will leaf out, flowers will bloom and fish will spawn sooner than during years when winter hangs on longer than usual.

The actual dates when fish spawn can vary a month or more, depending on the weather, Bowers says. So it's impossible to predict in advance when white bass, or crappie, as examples, will be spawning. But you can look at the vegetation surrounding a lake and tell what species you should be fishing

If the serviceberry (or "sarvis" as they're often called) trees are blooming, walleye and saugher should be spawning and white bass should be moving toward their spawning sites.

By the time the redbuds start to bloom, the walleye and sauger spawns should be peaking and the white bass runs gathering speed. When redbuds are in full bloom and the dogwoods are just starting to blossom, the white bass fishing should reach its peak, Bowers says.

If crappie is your fish, keep an eye on the dogwood trees-the best crappie fishing usually takes place between the time these trees are in full bloom and when the leaves begin to appear, Largemouth bass will go on the nest right after the crappie runs peak, so again watch for the dogwoods to leaf out fully.

We've confined ourselves to obvious, showy, blossoming trees, but almost any plant can act as a natural indicator-so open your eyes and start noticing and remembering. If, for example, you make a good catch of bass just as the lilac bush in your yard bursts into bloom, file this correlation away for future reference-it could be more than coincidence.

Observe and remember enough, and you'll not only be a better fisherman, you'll one day find that you've become a certified old-timer, able to dispense angling advice with the best of them. And if someone thinks you're a blooming idiot because you let blossoms tell you when to go fishing well, just let him laugh

Local Blood Center In Need of Donors

The Prestonsburg station of the Central Kentucky Blood Center is still in need of new blood donors. Although many Floyd countians have rolled up their sleves and donated in the nine months the center has been in operation, weekly collection is not meeting the necessary 30 pints to keep the center going.

"I think a good deal of the problem is a result of a lack of understanding of what the station represents," explained Patty Prosser, public relations coor-dinator for CKBC. "For several years, we have heard complaints from Floyd countians who have wanted to donate blood but have had nowhere to give it. The station is open three days each week to give anyone who qualifies the opportunity to be a donor.

There are still several businesses and civic organizations in and around Prestonsburg who are not participants in a group blood donor program which would help bring in more donors. If 20% of the employees of an organization or business donate blood each year, then all the members and their families have their blood needs assured.

Anyone interested in becoming a blood donor, a group blood donor program, or for further information should contact the Prestonsburg Station at 886-1557.

The station is located on the second floor of the Municipal Building and is

Honored On Birthday

Donald L. Osborn, of Lee's Summit, Mo., was honored on his birthday Saturday, March 28, at the home on Mare Creek of Mrs. Norah J. Scalf, with a group of relatives and friends attending.

An auditor and accountant with Trans World Airlines, Mr. Osborn became interested in what he terms "shaking the family tree" in 1950, and since that time, has done research in many states and in Germany. He has visited with Mrs. Scalf and her late husband, historian Henry P. Scalf, several times in the past in connection with his family genealogy. His grandfather, DeLancen Goode Osborne, was born in this county in 1853, and around 1870 moved with his parents, Albert and Mary Burchett Osborn to Missouri. Mr. Osborn has written four books, "Knowing the Bruners," "Genealogy of Edward and Sarah Burchett Osborn, of Floyd County, Ky.", "Tales of the Amarugia Highlands of Cass Co., Mo.,' and "A Family Record: Stephens."

Attending the birthday dinner were the honoree and his children, Sarah and David, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Davis and sons, Gerald and Brian, of Jeffersontown; Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Harris and Elizabeth Cesco, all of Prestonsburg, Mr. and Mrs. Devon Scalf, of Pikeville.

An added surprise was a birthday cake baked by Mrs. Devon Scalf.

ORDINANCE NO. 2-81

District 30 Voted 120-1 AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY, RELATING TO THE FINANCING OF ADDITIONS, IMPROVEMENTS AND EXTENSIONS TO THE MUNICIPAL COMBINED AND CONSOLIDATED Against Mine Pact Okeh WATER, SEWER AND NATURAL

GAS SYSTEM. In this Ordinance a determination is made that the City of Prestonsburg (the "City") shall go forward immediately with the construction and installation of substantial additions, improvements and extensions (the "1981 Project") to the water facilities of the City's combined and consolidated Water, Sewer and Natural Gas System (the "System"), to extend water service to the areas both inside the City and in nearby communities where service is badly needed, to add two new elevated storage tanks, and to provide a new water treatment plant having capacity to purify 3,000,000 gallons per day, -all in the interests of the public health, safety and general welfare of the citizens and inhabitants of the City and its environs. Plans and specifications for the 1981 Project have been prepared by Howard K. Bell Consulting Engineers, Inc., Lexington, Kentucky (the "Engineers"), and have been approved by the state health and water pollution control authorities, the City's Utilities Commission, the City Council, and concerned Agencies of the U. S. Government, Competitive bids for construction and installation have been received in response to public advertisement as required by law and on the basis thereof the City determines that the total cost of the 1981 Project, including payment for the services of the Engineers, construction and installation costs, financing costs and a reasonable and prudent allowance for unforeseen contingencies will be $4,200,000. The City has been awarded grants by various federal agencies in the total amount of $2,500,000 and a loan commitment from the Farmers Home Administration, U. S. Department of Agriculture "FmHA"), in the amount of $1,700,000, this being an agreement that if the City will authorize and offer at public sale its "Water, Sewer and Natural Gas System Revenue Bonds, Series 1981," in that amount (the "Bonds"), FmHA will submit at the public sale, in competition with bids which may be received from others, an offer to buy the Bonds upon terms of price and interest rate deemed highly advantageous in the light of present financial conditions.

If the Bonds are awarded at public sale to FmHA, as seems likely will be the case, FmHA will not accept the Bonds and pay for them until the 1981 Project is complete (in November 1982)

Under the FmHA loan commitment it is the responsibility of the City to provide interim construction money to pay the contractors and other necessary costs while construction goes forward: and to accomplish this purpose the City, in this Ordinance, has authorized its $1,700.000 "Revenue Bond Anticipation Notes, Series 1981" (the "Notes"), to be dated May 18, 1981, and to become

Two of Kentucky's three United Mine Workers districts narrowly ratified a tentative contract, but a landslide 'no" vote in Eastern Kentucky's District 30 brought the state down against the pact ba a 2-1 margin.

In voting Tuesday, last week, miners in Middlesboro-based District 19 and District 23, headquartered in Madisonville, narrowly approved the tentative contract between the UMW and the soft coal industry. But miners in District 30 voted 4,191 to 353 against the pact, bringing the state total to 6,832 against and 3,270 in favor, according to unofficial voting figures supplied by the UMW

District 19 miners approved the contract 752-600 while those in District 23 approved it 2,165,041.

Nationally, the pact was beaten by about 2-1.

District 23 President Tommy Gaston, the UMW's chief negotiator in the talks that led to the contract proposal, was said by an associate to be depressed over the apparent defeat of the measure. Gaston had earlier expressed optimism that it would be ratified.

Before balloting began, proponents of the contract were confident that miners would run counter to their history and approve the first tentative agreement offered. Too, they said, UMW President Sam Church was well liked and wouldn't accept anything but a good contract.

But it quickly became obvious Tuesday that the miners would, as in past contract years, send their negotiators back to the table.

District 30 President Robert Carter, who disapproved of the contract because of the lack of a royalty provision and for other reasons, predicted early that his district would vote it down.

He added that miners will "stay out as long as necessary" to get a better contract.

District 19 President Joe Phipps was bitter over the contract's defeat. "This was a good contract," he said.

Phipps contended that media coverage, including Church's weekend trip through the coalfields, "had a big part in this" defeat. The "continual onslaught" of what he termed "negative reporting" served to undermine union attempts to explain the contract to miners.

Phipps said that explanations of the contract by union leaders during meetings were fruitless in the face of media coverage.

"At these meetings, a miner would listen to the explanation, put the contract book in his pocket, and go home. But some drunk outside burns a contract, and all you guys fall all over each other trying to get to him, Phipps. The apparent division between United Mine Workers in Eastern and Western Kentucky over ratification of a proposed contract reflects innerent regional differences, according to a UMW official. The "big factor" is that Western Kentucky coalfields are about 80 percent unionized, while UMW membership in Eastern Kentucky is only about 50 percent, said J. B. Trout, a member of the UMW international executive board who has held various union leadership posts since 1946. Substantial strip mining occurs in Western Kentucky, but, "In Eastern Kentucky, anyone with a damn pick and shovel can open a mine," Trout said in an interview. "That's a heck of a difference. Most UMW members in Eastern Kentucky work in underground mines and appear more concerned about health and safety issues that those in relatively safer strip mines, Trout said. But Trout and Carter said their gravest concerns about the proposed contract involved issues that could affect UMW organization efforts in Kentucky.

The strongest objections by both men were to provisions for a 45-day probation period for new miners and elimination of the $1.90-a-ton royalty on non-union coal processed at UMW tipples.

The probation period would allow companies to fire new miners after 45 days without just cause, effectively intimidating prospective union members, Trout and Carter said.

The royalty provision has been in the contract since 1964, but numerous lawsuits have been filed by the union against companies that allegedly tried to avoid the payments.

The UMW leadership has stated that the royalty generated $52 million since 1964, but should have generated $1 million a month. UMW President Sam Church said the royalty was "traded" for a $100-a-month pension to widows of miners who were covered by the 1950 contract. The union estimates there are 44,600 such widows who currently receive no pension. And it says the pension payments would cost the industry $10 million in the first year alone.

Trout said he was not opposed to pensions for windows, but felt that halting the purchase of non-union coal was more important.

Contracts prior to 1974, when rankand-file ratification was adopted, were accepted or rejected by vote of a policy committee that included representatives from each UMW district.

Carter said chances for local ratification would have been better if Church had visited District 30 while he stumped for the contract last week and during the weekend.

"He was all around this district and he should have showed this district some of the respect he showed the others," Carter said. "It could have helped his cause. I'm quite sure it wouldn't have hurt.'

Admission $5.00 per person

due November 18, 1982. The Bonds and the Notes will be offered at an advertised public sale and awarded to the bidders offering the lowest interest cost. The City reserves the right to accept or reject bids for the Bonds and/or the Notes.

The principal of the Notes will be paid on November 18, 1982, after FmHA has paid the City the purchase price of the Bonds, and only from such Bond proceeds; and interest on the Notes will be payable, when due, from money which the city will set aside and deposit for that purpose in The First Commonwealth Bank, Prestonsburg, Kentucky, from accumulated earnings and resources of the City's Utilities Commission, with provision that such deposit shall be invested, until paid out, in U.S. Government Obligations so that the City will not lose the benefit of interest earned therefrom.

The Bonds, when issued, will be payable as to principal and interest solely from the revenues of the City's Water, Sewer and Natural Gas System after first paying principal of and interest on revenue bonds which the City has previously issued for water, sewer and natural gas improvements and extensions and which are entitled to prior payment from such revenues.

Neither the Bonds nor the Notes will be general obiligations of the City, and the City does not pledge to pay them from taxes.

In this Ordinance the City affirms and continues the usual and customary covenants for the security and protection of the holders of the Bonds, the Notes and the City; and reserves to the City the right to issue additional similar revenue bonds in future, if further additions, improvements and extensions to the facilities of the System should be necessary.

Both men remember the union's riches-to-rags experience of the 1950s. Membership was more than 400,000 in 1952, Trout said, but slipped to about 90,000 in 1959.

The union since has grown to about 160,000, but Trout said: "We've got the history to look back at.'

"I've got 44 years in this union," said Carter, "and it kind of burns me up to see guys with five or six years in the mines trying to tell me what it stands for.

Both men opposed the contract from the moment it was offered for ratification by negotiators for the UMW and the Bituminous Coal Operators Association. Both Trout and Carter are seeking re-election May 12 to four-year terms, but they denied their opposition was politically motivated.

Carter said he opposed ratification "because they (negotiators) couldn't convince me that was a good contract."

- Do you the voter think a part-time magistrate's position should be worth $19,139 a year?
- -Do you the voter want this type of public servant?
- Do you the voter realize that this type of salary for a part-time position is far above the average fulltime salary of many hardworking people in this county?

THE HERSHELL HAMILTON FAMILY

TO THE VOTERS OF DISTRICT 4:

With all due respect for my opponents and their families I will explain why I think I can do a much better job in bringing more tax money to district 4.

I am listing some of the projects that I have sponsored the last 3 years. Most of these are complete. Two major ones, the Tram Bridge and the Solid Waste Projects have already been funded and will be in operation within 90 days. These two projects total $4 million. The Mud Creek road project that I began in January 1980 is well under way. I am having the petition printed in this issue. A copy of this petition with 2,260 signatures is in offices of Congressman Carl Perkins, U.S. Senator Wendell Ford, State Senator Benny Ray Bailey, Representative Herbie Deskins, Representative Greg Stumbo, Governor John Y. Brown, KY Highway Commissioner Frank Metts, Judge Bill Wells, and Pikeville District Office. On July 12, 1980, Senator Benny Ray Bailey and approximately six highway officials met with the residents of Mud Creek on the issue of KY 979 from Mallie Conn at Harold to KY 122 at Hi Hat. By spot checking they found 41 dangerous curves to be removed. the road widened to safe traveling conditions and guard rails to be installed around high embankments. This is approximately $6 million, and a very badly needed project. Anyone interested in this project may contact the Highway District Office at Pikeville and ask for Ed Patton, District 12 Superintendent.

Four years ago, as I campaigned, I found many people isolated in hollows with no roads at all, using the creek for a road, and in the winter months were completely blocked in. I found the people in Tram blocked in also.

I believe that anyone in my position would have to consider the projects and decide which project deserved first priority. I have had to call the C&O Dispatcher from Martin to come to Betsy Layne to stop the train, and walk along with the grader down the railroad track to Tram to grade the road, and 3 or 4 days later call the dispatcher to delay the train and we would bring the grader back out.

I know that I have not pleased everyone. I also realize that each person considers his road the most important and the most urgent. Before you condemn me for not getting to your road as promptly as you thought I should have, just remember that I have over 100 roads to maintain, more than 100 bridges to keep repaired. I have learned a lot the past four years in office, and I know I can use what I have learned to help you, the people of District 4, if given the opportunity for the next four years.

I consider it a great privilege to be one of five commissioners of the Solid Waste Program. I was appointed treasurer of this good and needful project. We hope to make it a success and I will work and do all I can to help to make it a success.

I am asking you for your vote and support so that I can continue working and serving you, as best I know.

PETITION

TO: THE KENTUCKY DEPARTMENT OF HIGHWAYS

Ky. Highway 979 is a narrow and crooked road beginning at Harold, Ky. off U.S. 23 running through the valleys, across the creeks, around the foothills of the mountains to Hi Hat, connecting to Ky. 122 in Floyd Co., Ky.

This narrow and crooked road was built in the 1930's and 1940's by the WPA Project men with picks, shovels, and wheelbarrows before modern equipment was introduced in this area of the nation. It was badly needed and well appreciated because the only road at that time was creek beds and bridle paths around the hills. This road served its purpose and was built to meet the needs of the people in those days.

In those days there were 1- and 2-room school buildings along this road and up the hollow, and one High School (Betsy Layne). There were about 10 branches with these 1- and 2-room school buildings, about half-way up each hollow, about the same amount along this road with no school buses traveling this road. To drive over this road now and see all the traffic, especially 11 school buses hauling 1350 children, meeting small trucks and large coal trucks, tandems, semi-tractors, cement trucks, lumber trucks and all kinds of trucks continuously traveling day and night. To count the traffic would be surprising to anyone, to know how busy and heavy the traffic is. When this badly needed road was built so many years ago it evidently never entered anyone's mind that some day small coal mines (now we have approx. 42) would be opened in about every branch and hollow and that this coal would have to be transported to market by trucks traveling like they are today on this road.

To live in the modern days like we are today, and travel the narrow and crooked road around the foothills with enbankments two to three hundred feet high with no guard rails, the narrow sharp curves where the driver of one truck can't see as far as 60 to 75 feet ahead, and then to meet a school bus loaded with children with the road not wide enough to pass and not enough time to stop. To see this bus load of kid's roll over one of the enbankments as we experienced Wednesday, the 2nd of January, 1980, is evidence enough to know this road is no longer safe to accommodate the heavy traffic and especially the 11 or more school buses that hauls the kids from all the hollows. Since the John M. Stumbo Elementary School has been built and all the 1- and 2-room school buildings done away with, all the children have to travel by bus to John M. Stumbo, and Harold Elementary, Betsy Layne High and McDowell High.

The citizens of the Mud-Creek Section of Floyd County (this includes Toler Creek, Branhams Creek, Mink Branch, Tinker Fork, Tackett Fork, and all the other hollows leading from the 979 Nighway) are common people and are not as hard to please as one might imagine. They very seldom complain about local or state government, but there has been a growing concern about the safety of our children. Having to travel this crooked, and narrow and very dangerous road on school buses where there is no guard rails around the hills where the buses can again very easily roll over one of these high enbankments and no one on the bus will escape.

We the people of this section of Floyd County would appreciate it if the Ky. Dept. of Highways would investigate our problem before another accident occurs, and for the future safety of our kids and all that will travel this out-dated road.

It is impossible to identify all the conditions of the road, the sharp curves, broke-off places, no guard rails. So we the undersigned petition the Ky. Dept. of Highways for a fact-finding information tour of Ky. 979. An immediate reply from the Department on what action will be taken concerning this request would be greatly appreciated. Please send reply to: Bill Wells, County Judge-Executive and the Floyd County Fiscal Court, Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653

AUDITOR OF PUBLIC ACCOUNTS Frankfort, Kentucky 40601

September 16, 1980

To the People of Kentucky Honorable John Y. Brown, Jr., Governor Honorable Bill Wells, County Judge/Executive and Members of the Floyd County Fiscal Court

We have examined the statement of assets, liabilities and fund balance arising from cash transactions of Floyd County as of June 30, 1978, and the related statement of revenue received, expenses paid and changes in fund balances for the year then ended. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and accordingly, included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances. We also conducted tests of compliance with State and Federal laws and regulations including Federal revenue sharing requirements.

As recommended by the State Local Finance Officer, pursuant to KRS 68.210, the accompanying financial statements are prepared on a cash basis. Consequently, certain revenues and the related assets are recognized when received rather than when earned, and certain expenses are recognized when paid rather than when a liability is incurred. Accordingly, the accompanying financial statements are not intended to present financial position and results of operations in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles.

In our opinion, the accompanying financial statements present fairly the assets, liabilities and fund balance arising from the cash transactions of Floyd County at June 30, 1978, and its revenue received and expenses paid during the year then ended, in conformity with the accounting system described above, applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

In connection with our examination, we also (1) made a study and evaluation of the County's system of internal accounting control, (2) performed tests of compliance with the Revenue Sharing and Antirecession Fiscal Assistance Acts and Regulations as required by Sections II.C.3. and III.C.3. of the Audit Guide and Standards for Revenue Sharing and Antirecession Fiscal Assistance Fund Recipients issued by the Office of Revenue Sharing, U.S. Department of the Treasury, and (3) compared the data on Bureau of Census Form RS-9 to records of Floyd County as required by Section II.C.H. of the "Guide.

The supplemental information presented in this report is not necessary for a fair presentation of the financial statements, but is presented as additional supplementary data. This information has been subjected to the tests and other auditing procedures applied in the examination of the financial statements mentioned above, and in our opinion, is fairly stated in all material respects in relation to the financial statements taken as a whole

Recommendations and areas of noncompliance are as follows:

Upon completion of this audit, the former Sheriff, Joe Wheeler Lewis, had not paid the 1976 taxes that we showed due from in our audit report dated January 29, 1979. The amounts due various taxing districts are as follows:

| Fiscal Court | $1,557 |
|--------------------------------|---------|
| School Board | 1,915 |
| Health Board | 96 |
| Library Board | 41 |
| Cooperative Extension District | 26 |
| Total | $3,635 |

We were unable to reconcile the Bureau of Census Form RS-9 to receipts of the County Treasurer

We recommend the fiscal court establish an inventory control ledger of fixed assets. This ledger should contain a list of all fixed assets belonging to the county whether purchased from excess fees or directly from a budget account.

Respectfully submitted,

/s/James B. Graham

WE WANT YOU TO KNOW THE TRUTH

The Hospital Union that has chosen to strike the Medical Center and disrupt service to the community has been making some misleading and untrue statements. Here are the facts:

*The union's first salary and benefits demand, finally presented a full week after the strike began, called for a 72.5 percent increase over two years.

*The union's 72.5 percent increase would cost the people of the Big Sandy area an additional $65.00 per patient per day.

*The union rejected the hospital's very generous but realistic offer of a 40.4 percent increase over three years. This offer would give each union employee no less than a $1.15 per hour increase over the contract period.

Notice is hereby given that the City of Martin, Floyd County, Kentucky intends to construct various improvements to the city's water supply system within the floodplain of Beaver Creek, a tributary of the Levisa Fork of the Big Sandy River, and Buck Branch. The accompanying map shows the major components of the project and the limits of construction. The majority of construction will be located within previously disturbed areas of the Beaver Valley which is bounded by steep forested ridges. Components of the project will include construction of a low-level intake dam on Beaver Creek adjacent to the existing water treatment plant, upgrading the existing water treatment plant and increasing treatment capacity from 200 to 400 GPM, construction of an 8" 24,200-foot loop transmission line to maintain pressure, replacement of 16,400 feet of distribution lines, and construction of a 200,000 gallon ground storage tank at the south end of the service area. Further details of the project are contained in a preliminary engineering report available for public inspection at the City Hall, Martin, Kentucky or the office of the Big Sandy Area Development District, Prestonsburg, Kentucky. The majority of the water line placements will be within highway rights-of-way and will replace the existing deteriorated water supply system within the city limits of Martin. A 5,000-foot line along Bucks Branch will serve unincorporated Floyd County. Most lines will serve previously developed areas. Service to an area along new Kentucky Highway 80 is outside the floodplain. Adverse impacts of the project are increased levels of noise, dust, soil erosion, and traffic disruption during construction. Soil erosion will be minimized by prompt revegetation of disturbed areas, and other adverse impacts will be minimized by careful management of construction activities. Construction is projected to begin in 1981 and be completed in 1983. There are no alternatives to construction in the floodplain due to the fact that the existing water supply facilities are located within the floodplain, and the customers served by the system are located within the floodplain. The project will conform to the City of Martin and Floyd County Floodplain Management Ordinances. The project will result in temporary adverse impacts on the natural values of the floodplain during the construction period. However, impacts will be minor and will be mitigated by the actions described previously. Long term impacts on natural values of the floodplain are expected to be unchanged by this project since most floodplain areas to be served by the water system are already developed and currently have access to a water supply. Agencies involved in the project include: the Economic Development Administration of the U.S. Department of Commerce, the Farmers Home Administration of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, the Community Flood Abatement Program of the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers. All interested parties should submit comments to: John C. Cole, Regional Environmental Office, Economic Development Administration, Atlanta Regional Office, 1365 Peachtree Street, N.E., Atlanta, Georgia 30309, Phone (404) 881-7667. This notice is published in compliance with Executive Order 11988, "Floodplain Management."

*The hospital's proposal would establish a minimum starting salary of $3.75 per hour for unskilled and untrained employees in the first year, and, $4,50 per hour by the third year. These figures are well above the $3.35 per hour minimum wage figure often quoted by union members. Salaries for those already employed by the medical center and for those in technical positions are considerably higher in the hospital's proposal.

The Medical Center is open to serve you with qualified staff in all departments. We are fighting in local court to eliminate the deplorable property damage and harassment committed against visitors, patients, physicians and non-union employees. You do not have to stop and talk to pickets, and you have a right to medical care without threats or violence.

Eating Out Makes Cents—Sometimes

When is it cheaper to eat out than to make a meal from scratch at home? Nearly all the time, according to Professor Lee Kreul of Purdue University's School of Consumer and Family Sciences.

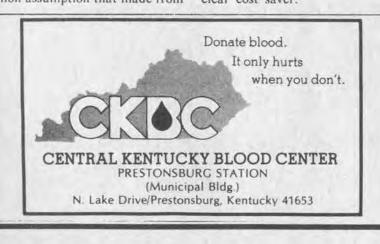

"We wanted to know if making a meal from scratch was still the most economical and practical means of feeding a family," says Kreul. His study found that the smaller the family, the greater the savings; a single person can save as much as 92 percent by eating out instead of preparing the same meal at home.

Kreul analyzed the cost of preparing a fried chicken or a roast beef sandwich meal in the home, and compared it to the cost of buying the same meal in two national fast food restaurants. Consumer volunteers in nine cities, including Detroit, Tampa, Houston, New York, Baltimore and San Francisco, were asked to Duplicate the fast food meal at home and compare the cost.

"Our study," Kreul says "clearly shows that a restaurant's ability to inexpensively produce a meal at a lower unit cost is due to the large volume of meals served daily. As family sizes decrease, that restaurant economy of scale naturally makes it far more expensive for the home chef to produce a low-unit cost meal.'

common assumption that made from clear cost saver.

scratch meals are less expensive than fast food take out meals. A recent U.S. Department of Agriculture study compared the costs of a hamburger meal made at home with the same meal's menu price in a fast food restaurant. The USDA study Kreul's study challenges the shows the home made meal to be a

"The USDA study isn't realistic," Kreul says. "It is a narrow view to compare just the food price and totally disregard the other costs incurred in home food preparationpreparer's time, service, clean-up, kitchen facility and utility use costs. These variable costs are all included, plus profit, in the restaurant's menu price and should be taken into consideration in any price comparison research."

Kreul admits that in every instance, the cost of just the food for the at home meal was always less than the cost of buying the same food at a restaurant. The differences in dinner price changed, though, when the value of the labor used to prepare the meal at home was figured in at the minimum wage of $3.10 per hour. The study also calculated the operating costs of gas and electricity.

For a single individual, Kreul's study showed that the total food cost for a chicken dinner was $2.30 in a fast food chain, and $1.98 when prepared at home. Electricity and labor, however, bring the cost of the chicken dinner made at home up another $2.83, double the cost of the comparable fast-food dinner.

Does this mean more eating out for your single person household? If your time is worth $3.10 or more an hour, and you spend that time working, you'd be better off eating a take-out dinner, especially if you take advantage of mid-week restaurant specials which are becoming more popular in fast food chains. But if your income is fixed, and the hour you save in the kitchen would not produce more income, then you're probably better off making the meal at home from scratch.

Asner Narrates Passover Special

Actor Edward Asner narrates a special half-hour documentary film on the Jewish holiday, Passover, airing Sunday, April 12 at 10 p.m. (ET).

"Passover," produced by the Mississippi Center For Educational Television, traces the history, practice and significance of Passover, celebrated each spring by Jews in rememberance of the Exodus, led by Moses, from Egypt into Israel more than 3,000 years ago. The beginning of Passover is observed at the seder, a home service centered around a special meal.

An American seder is the program's focal point. Also featured are seders practiced by several Israeli families, and the scene of another well-known Jewish seder is included: the Upper Room where Jesus and the 12 apostles participated in the Last Supper.

Other sequences shot on location in Israel show art from several rare, historical Haggadahs (Passover prayer books); an Israeli dance troupe; and several geographical locations that pertain to the Passover story: the Sinai Desert, Jericho and the Western Wall, the last remaining wall of the Second Temple.

The filmed segments in Israel are intended to illustrate the universality of the practice of Passover among Jews everywhere.

THE WE AKE UN SIKIK

Employees at Highlands Regional want to be treated fairly and with respect. Clarence Traum, the Hospital Administrator, was brought here from Pennsylvania and is paid
$65,000 per year. The previous administrator was paid $37,000. So Mr.
Traum got a 76% increase.

Meanwhile, 197 of 284 employees make less than $4.00 per hour. With the contract offer Mr. Traum made, 176 employees would still be under $4.00 per hour. Mr.
Traum is part-owner in a consulting firm from Pennsylvania. That firm has been paid thousands of dollars in recent months.
There are now three assistant Directors of Nursing, when there were none before. And an Assistant Personnel Director. And two

Public Relations "experts". And assistants to the assistants.

The Union offered not to strike, but to submit all unresolved issues to binding arbitration. The Hospital refused. The Union proposed negotiations with the news media present. The Hospital refused. If they were being fair, they would not be afraid of impartial arbitrators or public negotiations.

There should be a public investigation into the hundreds of dollars spent on administrators, assistants, and consultants. The books of the Hospital should be opened, not kept hidden.

The Union is dedicated to resolving this strike in a fair and reasonable way, as soon as possible.
