

Hearing May Settle Old-Style Mine Fate

"It will be a safe, neat and clean operation," Thomas Kuss, half-owner and vice-president of the Old Style Mining Company, said at a hearing Tuesday on the company's application for a permit to operate a pony mine on KY 1428 near the Ball Alley curve here.

The hearing, conducted before an officer of the state Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, followed complaints by Prestonsburg city officials that the operation of the mine would be detrimental to the public interest.

Witnesses for the city, including City Manager David Evans, Councilman Tom Rose, and Joyce Everly, who lives near the proposed mine site, argued that a 1978 attempt by Co-Op Mining Company to re-open the deep mine there was unsightly, constituted a public safety hazard, and caused serious traffic congestion.

Albert A. Burchett, an attorney for Old Style Mining, protested that the proposed operation would differ substantially from the former operation, since it involves a different management and method of extraction. Co-Op Mining had sought to mine the site by conventional mechanical methods.

Opponents of the mining proposal argued, however, that Donald L. "Dootney" Horn, as consultant to Co-Op and now president of Old Style Mining, is involved in both projects, and that traffic hazards associated with the previous operation could be expected to continue if the mine is re-opened.

Appearing for Old Style Mining, Horn blamed a contractor for the problems associated with the former attempt to mine at the site. No more earth needs to be removed from the

Ky. W. Va. Plans Drilling To Cost Over $10 Million

Deregulation of oil and natural gas prices has resulted in an upsurge of drilling for either or both fuels, but little will be done in Floyd county this year, it was indicated this week by industry spokesman.

Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company has budgeted for 1981 perhaps the most pretentious drilling program of the lot, but of the 60-61 wells planned, only one or two will be located in this county.

Columbia Gas has five new wells planned for the year—all in Pike county, none in Floyd, Knott or Johnson.

Inland Gas Company plans most of its new development in the Buckhorn-Quicksand areas of Perry and Breathitt counties. None in Floyd.

Besides its $10,800,000 drilling program, Kentucky West Virginia plans the laying this year of approximately 40 miles of new and replacement lines, a venture which will cost an additional $4.7 million.

This company has eliminated all of its old-style cable drilling rigs and

This Town...That World

Just to show you that times have changed, and not necessarily for the better, let it go into the record that not a new calendar had been sent us as of Monday morning.

THE VERDICT

This is apropos of nothing, but the story survives. This drunk went into a museum where fish of all stripes and sizes adorned the walls. His bleary gaze finally focused on a particularly large specimen. The brow wrinkled. He struggled for expression, finally set himself and declared:

"The man that caught that fish is a danged liar!"

Staunch Republican though he is, Lenna Moore may have a valid gripe about the decision to require formal attire at that Jan. 20 Event. He's afraid he'll not be able to get his tux out of hock.

Light Docket Faces Circuit Court Session

When circuit court began its new term here Monday morning, its opening was not accompanied by the usual empanelling of a new grand jury. Under the new court schedule the next grand jury will convene Feb. 2.

The court docket is not heavy, and it was further lightened by pleas of guilty by two defendants—one entered last week, the second on opening day of the term. Wendell Hamilton entered guilty pleas last week to two burglary charges, and Monday the same plea was made by Chet Hall, accused in separate counts of stealing an auto and an ambulance. Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen recommended two two-year pen terms to run consecutively for both defendants. Sentence will be passed later by Circuit Judge Hollie Conley.

The only homicide case awaiting trial is that of Frankie Gibson, of Garrett, who is accused of the slaying of his brother, Grover. The arson charge against Tommy Cisco is docketed for later this month.

One circuit court case that was thought disposed of has been returned for a new round of court procedure.

Greg Collins was indicted a few days after his 18th birthday as an adult, charged with the robbery of the Western Sizzlin' Steak House, outside Prestonsburg. The crime, however, was committed a few days before his

Scott Back in Jail Where He Married

The tangled skein that is the life of Richard A. Scott has new knots.

Almost two years ago he was in jail here, charged with the robbery of the Alpike Hotel, near Allen, and while in jail was married to Billie Thomas, 34, whose daughter, Patricia, 16, was at the same time married to his alleged confederate in the robbery, Ralph Keller.

Scott escaped the Kentucky state reformatory while serving a 20-year term for the robbery. Keller committed suicide while being held in Ohio, to be returned here for trial.

Now, Scott is back in jail here, as is another woman who says she is Scott's wife. She was booked as Anna M. Walker.

The two were returned recently to

Lakes, Streams Low As Drouth Yet Unbroken

Dewey Lake is holding steady at winter pool, but the Big Sandy river into which it feeds and almost all other lakes and streams in Kentucky are lower than usual as the result of a drought which began in October and continues into the new year.

The Big Sandy "looks like July, except it's frozen over," one observer commented. Its low stage and lack of normal strong current has permitted an early freeze-over.

Herrington Lake is one of the state impoundments hardest hit. Only one dock, Gwinn Island's, has enough water for boat launching.

The lake at Jenkins which served as the water reservoir for the town was so dry a week ago that the town was forced to pipe water from another source.

The last month when the rainfall was normal or above in this county was August when 7.4 inches were recorded by the rain gauge monitored by Tom Westfall at Ivel. September was down to only 3.7 inches. Then only .98 of an inch of rain fell in October. November precipitation was 3.75 inches, and December turned drier with a low 1.37 inches, with neither rain or snow helping the situation.

And the forecast for January—for what is worth—is, less precipitation but colder than normal.

Dry weather, however, is nothing new for the area. It really began in 1979, when only 16 inches of precipita-

Grants Workshop Slated Here, Jan. 12

The Kentucky Department of Energy will begin workshops this week for persons interested in applying to the federal Appropriate Technology Small Grants Program.

The workshop for the eastern area of the state will be held Jan. 12 in Prestonsburg.

The statewide workshops will assist applicants in preparing their proposals for grants of up to $50,000 for the development or demonstration of innovative energy-saving products and technologies. The federal Department of Energy program is open to individuals, local non-profit organizations and institutions, state and local agencies, Indian tribes, and small businesses.

For more information, call the Department of Energy's Division of Alternate Energy toll-free at (800) 432-9014.

Fireman Seriously Hurt In Fall From Truck

Ricky Davis, of the Prestonsburg Fire Department, was seriously injured last Friday afternoon when he lost his balance and fell from a fire truck onto the pavement of Highland Avenue. He was flown by helicopter from Highlands Medical Center to Cabell-Huntington Hospital, Huntington, W. Va., where he remained unconscious for several days. His condition was reported Tuesday as improved, and, barring complications, his recovery is expected.

Old Christmas Set Sunday at May Lodge

The observance of "Old Christmas," which has become an annual event in the Prestonsburg area and is included as part of the Kentucky Highlands Folk Festival, will be held Sunday afternoon at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, beginning at 2 o'clock. Traditional string band music and folk dancing by a number of local groups, recitations and refreshments will be featured at this observance which is free to the public.

Belying Slump Reports . . .

New Buildings Going Up

New construction may be slow, and the economy "down," but you can't prove it by driving along U. S. 23 through Prestonsburg.

Four new businesses, three restaurants and a combination self-service filling station-grocery, are in various stages of construction here, easing, to a certain degree, oft-heard concerns that Prestonsburg may be lagging behind its sister Big Sandy county seats of Paintsville and Pikeville in commercial development.

Work on Ashland Petroleum Company's Save Mart Store here, located on the former site of Wise Restaurant, is near complete and the combination grocery-gas station, one of more than 100 in the Save-Mart chain, has begun operation of its gasoline sales. Greg W. Hencye, a native of Ashland, will manage the store which will operate 24 hours a day and employ a staff of 20. General contractor on the job is Pack Construction, of Morehead.

Scheduled to open within the next few weeks on adjoining lots at the mouth of May's Branch are two popular "chain" restaurants, Pizza Hut and Wendy's.

The brick veneer and frame Pizza Hut structure, which includes 2,200 square feet and provides a seating capacity of 110, represents the 14th restaurant for the Lexington Pizza Hut franchise which operates in a number of south-central and eastern counties in the state. Pizza Hut, currently the No. 1 pizza restaurant chain internationally, bought the franchise here five years ago, according to Don Lucas, regional director for Pizza Hut. Lucas said the restaurant should open "toward the end of January," and will create about 30 new jobs. Gene Dukes, Louisville, is general contractor.

Wendy's, popular hamburger and fast food restaurant chain based in Columbus, O., has set an opening date of February 9 for their restaurant here which is being constructed of metal, frame and block by T.M. Construction Company, of Charleston, W. Va. The Wendy's structure has a total of 2,280 square feet of space.

Both restaurants are located on land owned by Art Bolen, of Prestonsburg, it was said.

Would-Be Customers Protest Phone Delay

About the easiest thing to get in David these days is a telephone. Getting it hooked up, however, is another matter.

Up and down Schoolhouse Hollow, residents will display the phones they picked up as they moved into the new subdivision during the past year, some with phone company assurances, they claim, that service would be available in a matter of days. Months have passed and, except for four families hooked up last April, no connections have been made.

"I always thought it was impossible to live without a phone," confessed Annabell Harless, who moved to the area from Town Branch in August. It is possible, she is discovering, although still downright inconvenient. Three phone sets lie idly by as she describes the daily frustrations of trying to keep in touch with her employer and her night-working husband.

Curtis Wallace has a spouse who works nights, too, and a heart condition that makes him fearful he may be stranded without help in an emergency. "I applied for a phone here before I left Pikeville," he said, "and they told me I'd have it in three days. They came by and left me two phones and told me I'd be hooked up in two weeks." It has been six months.

Being available to clients is "an increasing problem" for Mike VanHoose, a building contractor, as it is for Ann Slone, a childbirth educator who lost her phone service when she moved recently the short distance to Schoolhouse Hollow from neighboring Official Hollow. For a number of divorced and single mothers in the area, security is the uppermost concern.

"No one knew we would not be able to get a phone when we moved in here," complains Sharon Lawson. The fact that the Schoolhouse Hollow subdivision was planned well in advance and the utilities given ample notice of housing construction there leaves them with little excuse for the long delay in providing service, a number of residents contend.

Jim Deyarmond, of Rough and Tough, has been waiting for a phone since July, 1976. "Every year they have promised I'd have one by the end of the year," he said.

Some 14 David families are acknowledged by the phone company

Thieves 'Clean Out' Clinic Drug Supply

Thieves took an undetermined quantity of drugs from the pharmacy of the Mud Creek Health Project at Craynor in a weekend break.

The theft was discovered by employees reporting for work Monday, and Eula Hall, clinic social director, said it appeared the break-in had occurred earlier that morning.

The intruders gained entry to the building by forcing a rear window, "cleaned the shelves" of the pharmacy, and apparently carried the drugs away in a number of garbage pails which were also missing, according to Mrs. Hall.

Det. Don Weedman, of the state police, is investigating the incident.

Driver of "Runaway" Pickup Arrested

The 1977 Lincoln Continental of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Pelphrey is pictured Sunday morning after being hit, broadside, by a pickup truck, the night before as it was parked in the driveway of their home on Mays Branch here. The truck, driven by John M. Jarrell, 18, of Prestonsburg, apparently swerved off the main road leading up the branch, ran through a neighbor's lawn, knocked down a brick planter at the corner of the Pelphreys' home, and plowed into the auto. Jarrell was arrested by Prestonsburg Policemen Woods and Wright and booked at the jail here on a charge of public drunkenness.

Presents Annual Fearless Forecast

Attorney Woodrow Burchett took another long, hard look at the future, and without flinching, delivered his annual fearless forecast for the next 12 months at the meeting of the Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club last week. Although many of his predictions are of the tongue in cheek variety, Mr. Burchett's score for accuracy last year fared better than did that of more famed seers such as Jeanne Dixon.

New Year's Baby at Lady of Way

At 7:35 a.m. on New Year's Day, Amy Hamilton became the first baby born in 1981 at Our Lady of the Way Hospital. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Barry Hamilton, of McDowell, she weighed 8 lbs., 5 oz. at birth. The Martin hospital celebrated this first birth of the new year by giving the family gifts donated by Martin area merchants, the Blossom Basket, Messer's Department Store, the Federated Clothing Store, June's Dress Shop, and the Lad and Lassie store.

Paintsville NOW To Host Meeting

The Kentucky National Organization For Women will meet in Paintsville on January 11, at the Johnson County Public Library at 2 p.m.

The public is encouraged to attend this State Council Meeting which will be hosted by the local chapter of Big Sandy NOW.

There will be a business meeting, followed by discussion of NOW's public services actions and directives. NOW plans an Equal Rights Amendment Inaugural Watch on January 20, to send a message to the new President and nation—that there is no "E.R." without the "A".

Big Sandy NOW is the first Chapter to be organized in Eastern Kentucky, and we need and welcome new members. There is no discrimination in membership.

ENTERTAIN GUESTS

Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Short entertained a group of their friends at their home here, Friday, January 2. Enjoying the evening with them were Mr. and Mrs. William Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hodson, Mr. and Mrs. Rob [unclear] and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Malto.

Register Again For Army Draft

Registration for the military draft entered its second round this week, with all men born in 1962 required to sign up by Saturday. Males born in 1963 and later must register within 30 days of their 18th birthdays.

While there appears to be little inclination in Congress to return to conscription in the near future, some observers note that rising costs and a shrinking population of young men will make it increasingly difficult to maintain an all-volunteer army.

If the draft is again introduced, the law provides for selecting draftees by lottery. The first group subject to such a lottery would be young men turning 20 in the year the draft resumes.

Registration is opposed by President-elect Ronald Reagan and it also faces a Supreme Court challenge because of its failure to include women.

During his campaign, Reagan characterized peacetime registration as an "ill-conceived" move of little military value. He is now under mounting pressure to continue the program, however. The Supreme Court is expected to rule on the constitutionality of the sign-up plan in June or July.

Registrants are required to fill out a card bearing their name, birthdate, social security number, address and phone number. Cards for the purpose are available at post offices. Failure to sign up carries a possible felony conviction with a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a fine of $10,000.

SURPRISE BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mrs. Shirley Halbert, of Lexington, was honored with a surprise birthday party December 20 at the home of her sister, Mrs. Ronnie Chaffins, on the Middle Creek Road. A buffet supper and birthday cake were enjoyed by Shirley Halbert and Jason, of Lexington; Pat and Ronnie Chaffins, Aime Sheryl and Joel Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Anderson Laferty, Mr. and Mrs. James L. Laferty, Leah Ann and Chad Leigh, all of Prestonsburg; Mr. and Mrs. Herman Halbert, of Martin, and Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Laferty, of Sidney.

Mrs. Halbert is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anderson Laferty and the wife of Dr. Dennis H. Halbert.

NOTE OF THANKS

The Auxier Volunteer Fire Department wishes to thank the people and businesses of Auxier and surrounding communities for their generous donations of merchandise, money and time, to our annual Christmas Treat for area children, the elderly and shut-ins of the community. By your help we distributed 350 bags of treats and 40 fruit baskets. Again, we say thanks on behalf of members of the department and recipients of the gifts.

BETSY LAYNE NEWS

A. M. Boyd is still improving at his home where his daughter and husband, Eulevene and Fred Conn, take care of him most of the time, except when the other children come from Ohio to visit.

Mrs. Virginia Campbell is reported as having been very ill from a relapse of the flu. She is better.

Mrs. Ruby Alice Stratton reports that her grandson, Ray Webb, was seriously injured recently while riding a snowmobile. He lives in Louisville.

Irene Gibson, Losa Osborn and Margaret McKenny have been confined to their homes due to flu, but are reported some better.

Among those who attended the wedding of Jamie Syck to Mark Daugherty, Jan. 3, at the Boldman Free Will Baptist Church were Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Davis and Pauline Jones.

Mrs. Kelsa Elliott's Sunday School class at the Betsy Layne United Methodist Church did not exchange gifts at Christmas time but put the money along with money they earned by recycling aluminum cans as a gift for "World Hunger".

Mr. and Mrs. Randy Stone and family, of Toler, visited his grandmother, Era Stone, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Coleman and family, of Louisville, were visiting their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Lynch, last week.

Corene Dye reports that her sister, Marie Dptson, is not doing too well at the Mt. Manor Nursing Home, Prestonsburg. She has undergone surgery to repair a hip fracture suffered in a fall.

Citizens of Betsy Layne remember in prayer the sick and shut-in of the community. Known at this time are A. M. Boyd, Marie Dotson, Mary Green, Arvid Lynch, Margaret Boyd, Maude Colegrove, Fannie Steele, E. W. Hurley, Mae and Lee Cecil, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Hale, Aunt Jane Tackett, Myrtle Howard, Langely Hall, Sarah Jane Keathley, Basil Hamilton, Hattie Hall, Rubin Hall, Edgar Bingham, Sam Lee Crum.

Solid Waste Funding Anxiously Awaited As Jan. 20 Nears

As the Carter Administration enters its final days, county officials await word on the funds requested by the county to help finance its proposed garbage collection and disposal system.

For the record at least, they remain hopeful that the application for $495,000 in Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) funds will be approved. "The indications have been positive," said County Planner Dick Leslie, who predicted this county would be the nation's first recipient of a FmHA grant for a solid waste system. The federal agency usually funds housing and water projects.

In the meantime, the recent granting of tax exempt status to Floyd County Solid Waste Inc., the corporation which will manage the new system, paved the way for the sale of $1.5 million in bonds to finance the system.

HAVE FAMILY DINNER

Atty. and Mrs. Barkley Strugill and family entertained to dinner at their home on Christmas Day his mother, Mrs. Troy B. Sturgill. Spending the holidays with them were their daughters, Misses Patricia, Dorothy and Sarah Sturgill, all of whom are students at the University of Kentucky.

HAVE DINNER GUESTS

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Clark has as dinner guests on Christmas Day Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Stephens and daughters, Cindy and Stephanie, of Lexington, Mr. and Mrs. Joe A. Burchett and children, Kathy, Joe and Jennifer, Mrs. Pauline Burchett and Mrs. Sue Pigg, all of Prestonsburg.

GO TO ATLANTA

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Grant left Tuesday for Atlanta, where they will attend a gift show. From there, Mrs. Grant will go to St. Cloud, Fla., where she will visit with her daughter, Mrs. Paul Henry, Mr. Henry and baby daughter, Jennifer, and Mr. Grant will fly to California to attend a gift show there.

HOME FOR CHRISTMAS

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas LeMaster had with them here during the Christmas season members of their family, Miss Mary Ann LeMaster, a student at the University of Kentucky, Lexington, and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Wingham and children, Amy Elizabeth, and Thomas Matthew, of Tipp City, Ohio.

If every household in the United States lowered its average temperature six degrees over a 24-hour period, more than 570,000 barrels of oil could be saved per day.

Present Key Club Charter

Officers installed, other than Rice, were Gerald Derossett, vice president; Debbie Ranier, secretary; Ralph Gilliam, treasurer; Sam Huffman, senior representative; Ann Everly, junior representative; B. J. Sturgill, sophomore representative, and John Anderson, freshman representative. H. C. Francis, immediate past governor of the Kentucky-Tennessee District, conducted the installation, and Lt. Governor George Wofford was present.

The Key Club was organized through the efforts of Dr. Rondall Hart, Morehead State University who is district coordinator for Key Clubs; Lenny Grant, president of the Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club; Cliff Ryan, Bobby Harmon, and Bobby Wells, principal of Prestonsburg High School.

Woodrow Burchett, Nostradamus of the local Kiwanis Club, who is battling a much better average than Jean Dixon, once more peered fearlessly into the future and gave forth with his prognostications for the coming year.

New Year's Baby at Highlands Regional

Rachel Ann Blackburn, first baby of the new year at Highlands Regional Medical Center, seems completely relaxed amid the array of gifts which were presented to her and her parents, Patricia and Elbie Blackburn, of Inez. Just like a woman, the 7 lb., 3 oz. babe kept the staff of Highlands Regional waiting until 11 p.m. Friday, January 2, to award the more than $500 worth of gifts which had been donated by merchants from the Prestonsburg, Martin, Paintsville and Pikeville areas.

"I certainly didn't expect this," commented Mrs. Blackburn as she opened the gifts, "since our babe wasn't due until the end of January."

Mr. Blackburn is employed by Wolf Creek Collieries in Martin county, and the new arrival is the Blackburn's second child.

A 1949 amendment to the Fair Labor Standards Act directly prohibited child labor for the first time, according to a publication of the U.S. Department of Labor, "Important Events In American Labor History."

recently purchased its second rotary rig. A rotary, it was said, will within seven days drill a well which would require three months for completion with the cable outfits.

Columbia, in addition to drilling, hopes to replace old lines, one in the Johns Creek-Johnson county area a distance of about two and a half miles.

Columbia and the Department of Energy are reported testing a new technology which, hopefully, will open the tight shale formation in this section, increase its production of oil and perhaps open a wide area of Eastern Kentucky to oil development. If successful, experimental work under way would reopen old shale wells to greater production than ever, it was said.

Oil prices have risen to the point that some independent developers say a five-barrel well is now a "paying proposition."

Most of the Mississippi valley suffers. The river was closed to traffic in Arkansas last week because of "hazardously low" water levels, and several barges reportedly have broken up in shallow water south of Cairo, Illinois. to be waiting for service, while another three families with two-party lines are said to have requested a private line.

"All we're asking for is a reasonable explanation and a reasonable date," said Budalene Boggs. "We can get neither."

South Central Bell officials reply that the company is caught between rising costs and a regulatory agency that recently denied it almost half the rate increase it sought.

Some unrealistic hopes have been raised by local PhoneCenter employees who promise a quick hookup without realizing that service requests in some areas pose special problems, conceded Art Willett, South Central Bell area manager, this week. Estimates of the time needed to provide service in unserved areas must also allow for variable weather conditions, he cautioned.

While distribution cable is available in Schoolhouse Hollow and on Rough and Tough, additional "feeder" cable needs to be laid between David and the Prestonsburg exchange, company representatives explain.

An official in South Central Bell's Louisville office estimated in November that the job would be completed by April 30 this year. A December estimate by District Manager B. M. Starnes gives June as the anticipated completion date.

In a letter to Dorothy Clark, executive director of the David Community Development Corporation, Starnes noted that the 14 families without phones in the David area are among 2900 other Kentuckians awaiting service.

"We simply don't have the dollars it takes to do all the work needed to answer Kentucky's telephone needs," Starnes wrote. "Only by charging rates that reflect the cost of providing service today, can we get phones to the hundreds of families waiting for service while keeping the quality of telephone service for others."

"No one likes to ask for a rate increase," added Area Manager Willett this week. "We realize it can be a hardship, especially for those on fixed incomes. But it takes money to provide service, and it takes more in the mountains than elsewhere."

It also costs more to provide service out in the county than it does in Prestonsburg, said Willett, in response to complaints that, even when service is available, the charge is considerably higher in David than it is in town. While most customers in the Prestonsburg area can lease their phones at the basic rate of about $8 monthly, an additional mileage charge is levied on out-of-town customers that can raise the monthly charge in David to as much as $21, he explained.

You exercise your freedom of choice when you give to voluntary health and welfare agencies. This is an expression of democracy.

Ten Years Ago

(January 7, 1971)

Heavy snow fell in the county last Wednesday with some sections reporting as much as 11 inches accumulation. Prestonsburg is included in the list of six Kentucky communities which, the Kentucky Water Pollution Control Commission last week said, are due for a warning to have secondary sewage treatment plants working by December, 1975. Now it's official—Floyd county's population is 35,889, according to the Census Bureau. Hamp Rollins, of Belfry, formerly of Floyd county, was the 10,000th person to apply for Black Lung benefits at the Pikeville district Social Security office. Born to Mr. and Mrs. James M. Goble, of Prestonsburg, a daughter, Tracy Elizabeth, Dec. 24 at the Prestonsburg General hospital; to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wendell Wells, of Auxier, a daughter, Deidre Renae, Dec. 24 at the Paintsville hospital; to Mr. and Mrs. Ballard Gibson, of Ligon, a son, Dec. 22; to Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Collins, of Melvin, a son, Dec. 22; to Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hicks, of Garrett, a son, Dec. 23; to Mr. and Mrs. Orville Hall, of Grethel, a daughter, Dec. 25. There died: Miss Maxie Hall, 46, last Thursday at her home at Teaberry; Louie Parsons Meade, 89, Dec. 25 at her home at Harold; Mrs. Lula Prater, 39, of Garrett, Dec. 26 at Our Lady of the Way hospital, Martin; Mrs. Betty W. Bailey, 88, of Hippo, Monday at Mountain Manor Nursing Home, here; Colonel H. Harrington, 66, Wednesday at his home at Craynor; Jesse J. Caudill, 74, of Estill, Dec. 27 at Prestonsburg General hospital; Mrs. Wilma Hayes Slone, 59, of Garrett, last Wednesday at McDowell Appalachian Regional hospital; Charlie Hamilton, 56, of Teaberry, Monday at Teaberry; William J. "Bill" Hall, 63, of Prestonsburg, Dec. 25 at Prestonsburg General hospital; Lindsey Spears, 51, of Weeksbury, Dec. 24 at Jenkins; Beckham Blankenship, 67, of Weeksbury, Saturday at MARH; Homer R. Walker, 71, Dec. 27 at his home at Garrett; Aaron Burr Flannery, 89, former Floyd magistrate, Dec. 28 at his home at Martin; Bill Gibson, 67, of Price, Dec. 27 at MARH; Ballard Setser, 77, of Endicott, last Monday at Prestonsburg General hospital; Julie Bell Edwards, 68, of Estill, Dec. 28 at MARH; Daniel Osborne, 79, of East McDowell, Dec. 21 at MARH; Jake Click, 68, of Manton, Dec. 27 at the UK Medical Center, Lexington.

Twenty Years Ago

The Floyd County Board of Education in its first meeting of the year named a new chairman Tuesday evening and voted a sweeping reorganization of practically all school services. Employment of Commissioners of Property and Buildings of the Floyd County school system, the creation of the commission and the naming of a director of personnel were attacked in circuit court here Tuesday. A committee was named Wednesday by the Prestonsburg Community Development Council to promote a state-operated junior college, and a move was instituted to ask that U. S. 23 and 460 as well as the new road from the Blue Grass to the mountains, be routed through Prestonsburg. Bids on construction of the 40 low-rent housing units planned for Prestonsburg are to be opened August 20. One man was killed and another seriously injured Wednesday morning by a slatefall in the Russell Laven Coal Company near Emma. Robert Maynard Briggs, 34, of Water Gap, was killed, and Henry Robinson, of Dwale, was seriously injured. The Teen-Age Drive-In on Abner Fork, near Melvin, was the scene of this county's lone outburst of Christmas-time violence as Russell Isaacs, 25, of Bypro, was shot and killed December 23. One man was killed and three others injured when two automobiles collided on Ky. 114 near here, December 28. Instantly killed was Norman Lee, 48, of West Van Lear. The injured are Herbert Deskins, 48, and Winfred Holbrook, 32, both of West Van Lear, and Radford Knox Barnett, 42, of Martin. There died: Mrs. Mary H. Austin, 60, of Guthrie, formerly of Allen, Christmas Eve in a Clarksville hospital; Jonas Slone, 62, former Raven postmaster, at his home there, Sunday; Joe H. Johnson, 61, of Melvin, at a Martin hospital, Wednesday; Mrs. Lillian Keenon, 75, of Prestonsburg, in a hospital here, December 30; Mrs. Emma Hall, 66, of Wheelwright, at the home of a daughter, December 27; Sam Elliott, 69, of Printer, at his home, December 22; Will M. Smith, 94, former Pike county sheriff, December 23 in Winchester.

Thirty Years Ago

(January 4, 1951)

Beginning the new year in his new work as Commonwealth's Attorney, Bert T. Combs, Prestonsburg, in a court-opening statement here Tuesday morning listed four offenses on which he will center the fire of prosecution. They were perjury, child desertion, carrying concealed deadly weapons and drunk driving. The new line-up in the Floyd County Board of Education since a fifth member was supplied by appointment was regarded this week as anti-administration as John E. Campbell, the new member, joined Dr. J. H. Allen and James Greene, the original "anti" members, in signing a letter addressed to County Superintendent Palmer L. Hall and asking his resignation from office. A total of 43 Floyd counties are scheduled to leave this month to begin service in the armed forces, it was said this week by Mrs. Gladys S. Allen, clerk of Draft Board 25 here. Coach "Copper" John Campbell's Wayland Wasps swept through the Pikeville Invitational Tournament and defeated the Ashland Tom Cats for their third tourney championship in a row. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Preston, of Allen, a son, Thursday at the Paintsville hospital; to Mr. and Mrs. Caney Owens, of Martin, a son, Dec. 24 at the Beaver Valley hospital. There died: Wootsie Moore, 19, of Price, Monday, as the result of injuries suffered in a coal "bank" slatefall that morning; Chauncey L. Hyden, 59, former Prestonsburg City Councilman, Dec. 22 at his home at West Prestonsburg; Harry Gearheart, 52, of Worthington, formerly of Floyd county, Dec. 15; Mrs. Cynthia Justice Hunter, 25, Dec. 23 at her home at Emma; Oliver Slone, 56, Sunday at his home at Garrett; Harold Osborne, 33, Tuesday at his home at Ivel; Chester Akers, Prestonsburg native, Dec. 23 in the furnace of one of the ovens of the Helliher Coal & Coke Co. which he supervised; Von Moore, 68, Sunday at his home at McDowell; John Menifee Laferty, 89, Dec. 26 at his home at Emma; Dock Click, 84, Saturday at his home on Arkansas Creek; John Walker Spears, 70, Saturday at Paintsville hospital.

Forty Years Ago

"We will try or dismiss." Circuit Judge Henry Stephens, Jr. declared this week in announcing his determination to clean up the criminal docket of the Floyd circuit court at the term beginning next Monday. Opposition to canalization of the Big Sandy river from Catlettsburg to Pikeville was expressed Monday by representatives of four Kentucky railroad employee brotherhoods meeting in Louisville. Jake Nester, 25, of Lick Fork, near here, was shot and killed on the Middle Fork of Quicksand Creek, Knott county, Christmas Day. Shot by a charge fired at close range from a sawed-off shotgun in the hands of a 68-year-old man, Deputy Constable Richard Harrison, of Allen, died in the Beaver Valley hospital, Sunday. In Hindman, which he transformed from a hotbed of feudism to an educational center, Prof. George Clarke died, Christmas Day, at the age of 78. There died: Alex L. Crisp, 93, Tuesday at the home of his son at Allen; Jacob M. Porter, 82, Friday at his home here; Walker French Harris, 21, of Brandy Keg, Dec. 20 in a truck mishap at Eureka; Mrs. Polly Spencer, 87, of Drift, Monday at her home; Mrs. Minerva Sizemore, 74, Dec. 19, at Water Gap; George Fannin, 68, of Johns Creek, Dec. 18 at the Prestonsburg General hospital; Mrs. Rudy Ratliff, 39, of Hueysville, Dec. 22; Mrs. Romba Childers, 79, Saturday at Dwale.

Caudill Says Coal Should Be Responsible

The grip of what Alben Barkley called the "coal combine" is tighter today than it was in 1911 when John Mayo, Johnson N. Camden and Clarence Wayland Watson met at the Sinton Hotel in Cincinnati and decreed the election of James McCreary as governor of Kentucky. At every level and in all agencies the coal industry is served slavishly and obsequiously.

Governor Brown has referred to coal as "the economy" of Kentucky, and appointed a coal operator Secretary of the Department of Energy. His Coal Policy Commission is made up of coal people from beginning to end without any voices from consumers or other groups. He pushes a fantastic synthetic fuels industry to be paid for with public funds—a capitalizing of profits and a socializing of losses. The state taxes coal in the ground at the rate of 1/10 cent per $100 of value—a mere 315th part of the rate levied on houses and farms. The severance tax is 4 1/2% as compared to rates ranging from 12 1/2% to 30% in the western fields, and most of it returns to the coal fields to build and repair coal roads. The coal industry enjoys low taxes, public esteem, political power, and immense profits. The people generally carry all the burdens growing out of ruined roads, silted rivers and lakes, polluted water, inadequate housing, poor schools and low health standards. The Brown Administration appears to be as proud as punch of this situation.

As Bert Combs once said in a speech in New York, Kentucky has been "pillaged" by people whose only motive is profit. For examples, Van Lear Black was one of the wealthiest men of his day but I have found no evidence that he ever gave so much as a single library book to the Johnson county community that bears his name. The library at Morehead State University was named for U.S. Senator Johnson Newlon Camden, Jr., heir to a vast Standard Oil fortune, but I have found nothing to show that he gave a nickel to the college. (Actually it began as a mission school and was financed by donors from outside the state.)

University of Kentucky board chairman William Sturgill has been quoted as stressing the need to get tax funds behind energy research on the campus. This is precisely opposite to what should occur. The vast mineral oligarchy should provide such research funds because it is the coal, oil, gas and railroad interests that stand to reap gigantic profits from increased use of fossil fuels.

Recently Ashland Oil did something unique in Kentucky history: it gave a million dollars to the University of Kentucky and pledged additional annual bequests for support of certain needed educational programs. Every Kentuckian is indebted to Ashland for setting this salutary example.

It is essential to the welfare of Kentucky that the governor and the governing officials of Kentucky's state-supported universities use this example to obtain long over-due funding from other energy giants operating within the state. They include such well-heeled outfits as Kentucky River Coal, Occidental Oil, Gulf Oil, Ford Motor, Neufanzan AG (of Lichtenstein), CSX Corporation, Pittston Energy, Kanab Corporation, KyCoGo Corporation, Stearns Coal and Lumber, U.S. Steel, Royal Dutch Shell, National Steel, Koppers Corporation, Columbia Gas, Equitable Gas, Big Sandy corporation, Tennessee Valley Authority, Harvard University, Southern Railway, Diamond Shamrock, International Harvester, Howell Oil Company, and assorted German and Swiss tycoons. In the aggregate they own or hold under long-term lease a couple of million acres of Kentucky, extract more than 150,000,000 tons of coal, 7 million barrels of oil, and 75 million cubic feet of natural gas annually, gross many billions annually in sales revenues, and realize many hundreds of millions as net profits. In the energy-short future they are designing their profits will rise enormously.

It is these energy giants that should finance voluntarily and generously the research programs at the state universities. In decency how could they withhold grants for such tasks as inquiries into better methods of preventing, diagnosing and treating the occupational diseases of coal miners? Their money should support forestry research aimed at getting new and fast-growing stands of native trees on to strip-mined lands. Their money rather than the taxpayers' should pay for shale and coal liquefaction studies. They should finance studies of polluted streams and ways of eliminating acidity of public waters. They should try to learn why (in Grady Stumbo's words) "people line up a hundred and fifty deep to get on Welfare." They ought to finance new ways of educating so that coal-field children can cease to be the butt of jokes because of their sorry elementary and secondary school backgrounds.

In short, these corporate "pillagers" ought to take the lead in financing a new and better era in Kentucky. They should be asked to do it, and if they refuse to respond their anti-social rigidity should be told to every man, woman and child in the state. So informed, the voters might send to Frankfort a new generation of law makers determined to make those who "pillage" pay.

The continued failure of university officials and state politicians to take these steps will constitute a gross betrayal of public trust. The status quo is intolerable and is leading inexorably toward state bankruptcy, the elimination of one or more universities from the state system, a general downgrading of higher education, and a worsening of traditionally low standards in grade and high schools.

Nearly all the grand old families prominent in the ownership of these companies call themselves philanthropists and proclaim their numerous bequests. They boast of their giant private collections of art. (Armand Hammer of Occidental Oil recently paid 5.1 millions for a work by Leonardo da Vinci, and Paul Mellon of Gulf Oil boasts of a billion dollars worth of art given away). Kentuckians ought to have the official courage to at least ask for some of this largesse. It would be fine, for example, if Armand Hammer would send some of his art to be seen by Kentucky's coal field children, their teachers and parents.

Why should Kentucky be the nation's leading coal producing state if all we get out of it is crippled and dead miners, silted streams and lakes, torn up roads, uprooted forests, and holes in the ground?

Kentucky is a great cow that has been systematically starved while being vigorously milked. It is time that the beast be fed.

HARRY M. CAUDILL

SEEKS FRIENDS HERE

My name is John Wayne Lucas, and I am an inmate here at the K.S.R., LaGrange, Ky. I am 35 years old and I am in good health, my race is white and my occupation is welding.

Upon my release from here in July, 1981 I plan to make my home here in Prestonsburg. As I have no family or friends who live there in Prestonsburg, it would make me very happy if I could make some friends through your newspaper. If anyone wishes to write to me I want them to feel free to do so and I will answer all letters.

P. O. Box 188
LaGrange, Ky. 40031

I am writing concerning a headline in the Floyd County Times, recently, "Spreading Use of Drugs Reported in Schools."

I am certainly glad that someone has awakened to the facts, and is interested in doing something about it. I have noticed for a period of years that dope pushing and bootlegging have been rapidly on the increase.

It has been suggested by some that the public be educated in order to be acquainted with dope and alcohol. This is o.k. to do this but is far from being enough to do very much good. I am a strong believer that in unity there is strength; therefore, the public should all join together and fight against the drug pushers and bootleggers by seeing that they are caught and the law is enforced on each offender to the limit of the law.

There are many ways that we can fight against this thing. First, the parents should each notice our sons and daughters and if we find any of them using drugs or alcohol we should have that boy or girl summoned before the grand jury and make them tell where they got the drugs or alcohol. Of course, there are those who would object to this because it would expose us and degrade our families.

Well, I ask this question; Would it not be better to do this today than to have your son or daughter dead tomorrow because of an overdose of drugs? Remember the old saying, "a stitch in time saves nine."

Prestonsburg is very fortunate in having two fine Nursing Homes. River-view Manor and Mt. Manor are well-staffed and are efficiently run. There is loving care given the patients at both places.

The members of our organization were guests for our business meeting at a luncheon, Friday, December 12 at Riverview Manor. We really enjoyed the food and appreciated the invitation from Mrs. Eleanor Robinson and her staff.

METHODIST WOMEN MEET

Women of the First United Methodist Church met Monday at 7 p.m. in the church parlor for their monthly meeting. President, Mrs. Elizabeth Ramey, presided, and the meeting was opened with prayer by the pastor, Rev. Ted Nicholas.

After the business session, Mrs. Robert Burchett, program leader, assisted by Mrs. James Carter, presented a program on "Command to Love," with scriptures read from Matthew, Chapter 5 and Luke 10.

Roslyn Burchett, hostess, served refreshments to Rev. Ted Nicholas, Pearl Nicholas, Elizabeth Ramey, Patsy Brown, Rose Glynn, Katherine Stephens, Geneva Carter, Mary Jane Brown. The next meeting will be held February 2.

First Rate First-Aid For Under $10

Today's drugstore shelves house an ever-widening array of first aid products—a far cry from the somewhat makeshift items homemakers had to contend with a generation ago. With doctor's fees rising and self-care becoming a national pastime, consumers are demanding—and getting—medical-quality first aid products identical to those used in hospital emergency departments.

Some of these products, however, were not even available to doctors until a few years ago, so it's not surprising that consumers are sometimes confused about which products belong in the home medicine cabinet, and how to use them effectively. Here's a rundown of the new generation of wound care products, and some tips on technique to help you bandage like a pro.

The first step in first aid for minor wounds is to cleanse thoroughly to wash away infection-promoting dirt and other foreign particles. You'll find many products on the market for cleansing wounds, but the most useful—and the most economical—is a bar of mild soap, with no cosmetic creams or fragrances. Since germs can enter an open wound and cause infection, it's essential to wash your hands thoroughly with this soap, which should be stored separately for this purpose. After washing hands, gently cleanse around the wounded area with the soap, running water and a sterile pad.

Sterile pads are one of the most useful all-around first aid products. More absorbent than gauze pads, they can be used for cleansing wounds, applying creams or ointments, dressing superficial wounds, and applying pressure to stop bleeding. Unlike cotton balls, they are less likely to leave lint behind in the wound, and they're individually wrapped for sterility.

Wound Treaters

Remember the bright red liquid that stained your knees and elbows when you were treated for a cut or scrape? These products have been replaced by non-staining liquids, creams and ointments that eliminate much of the pain associated with cleansing and treating wounds.

The purpose of any wound treatment product is to form a barrier against infection and to keep the wounded area lubricated. Products that discolor the skin may make it hard to tell when the wound is infected, and they can be difficult to wash off without pain to the injured area. Your best bet is a water-soluble first aid cream or a tube of antibiotic ointment. For maximum cleanliness, apply these with a fresh sterile pad, not with your fingers.

First aid cream is also suitable for soothing burns when the skin is not broken, and it is a much better lubricant than butter or cooking grease. Cooking fat of any kind actually does the opposite of what it's supposed to: it can trap heat next to the burn, making it even more painful; and it provides an ideal breeding ground for germs. Butter or grease is almost impossible to wash off without considerable pain to the burned area—don't use it!

Wound Covering

For small cuts and scrapes, you should have a package of adhesive bandages in assorted sizes and shapes. Since so many of these are used, it may be tempting to buy a bargain brand. These may not really be such a bargain, however, since they seldom adhere as well or absorb as readily as national brands, and you'll probably use more in the long run.

For larger injuries, you can now choose between extra-large adhesive bandages, for covering wounds on areas that bend, and adhesive pads that can be attached securely on all four sides on flat areas of the body. Adhesive pads do the job of a gauze pad and adhesive tape in one step, eliminating the need for scissors. The four-sided adhesive helps promote healing by sealing out dirt and germs, while still allowing air to circulate freely.

Both adhesive bandages and adhesive pads are now available with a non-stick pad surface to prevent the scab from being pulled off when the bandage is changed.

Sometimes, you may want a larger dressing for scrapes that cover a wider area. In such cases, you may use a sterile pad, which can be unfolded to double its width.

For more heavily bleeding wounds, you may use an extra-absorbent surgical pad. Surgical pads are quite new for general consumer use, and they're especially effective when you need to bandage a heavily draining or oozing wound. Surgical pads make a safer, neater bandage than a gauze pad folded in many layers, since they have a non-stick coating on the outer layer and an absorbent pad inside that cushions the wound from accidental reinjury. The greater absorbency of surgical pads can also help speed healing by keeping blood and fluids away from the wound, leaving it cleaner and drier.

Tapes

First aid tapes have come a long way from the heavy white adhesive tape that tended to hurt quite a bit upon removal (although they certainly adhered well). Today's first aid tapes have been developed for different skin types and bandaging needs. They're less likely to pull hair off the skin and leave sticky residue. Best of all, the new first aid tapes come in plastic dispensers with built-in cutting edges, doing away with the need for scissors.

Clear first aid tape is almost invisible when applied, and is air-vented to allow skin to breathe. This variety is strong and flexible, even when applied to a part of the body that bends.

Rayon tape is today's all-purpose tape, strong and hypo-allergenic. And paper tape is designed for sensitive skin. Because removal is virtually painless, this tape is ideal for frequently-changed bandages and for babies and young children. Heavy-duty adhesive tape is necessary only for the thickest dressings, or for immobilizing an entire area—splinting a finger, for example.

Rolled gauze is one more product seen everywhere, but not so obvious in its use. Its purpose: holding down a dressing that's hard to bandage with first aid tape, such as an ankle, knee or elbow injury. Rolled gauze has been updated with new material that clings to itself and conforms to body contours, allowing skin to breathe and making a neater bandage.

Pharmacy Footnotes

by HAROLD COOLEY

Once a diagnosis of allergy has been made, it is essential to discover all of the substances causing the allergic reaction. A detailed health history, a thorough study of the patient's environment and allergy testing are the tools commonly used to determine the specific allergen or allergens. Testing for sensitivity by means of skin and mucous membrane tests is effective in most instances. Be aware, however, that it may take a long time to complete the extensive number of tests that need to be made. Fortunately, children sometimes outgrow their allergies and are no longer bothered by symptoms.

If you have an allergy that requires treatment with prescription medication, then come to COOLEY APOTHECARY INC. We can take care of your prescription for you on a regular basis, or demand. You can trust us to always provide you with the most ethical and professional prescription and pharmaceutical service. We're in 2 Town Center Building, 886-8106. Mon-Fri 9-5:30; Sat. 9-5.

IN MEMORY Of Morris Thornsberry

God looked down from heaven
Just one year ago,
said, "I'm bringing you home, child,
'Cause you're suffering so.

Yes, God surely looked down
In that hospital bed
And said, "Take my hand, child,
You've nothing to dread.

"I'll wipe away that cancer
That caused you such pain,
Child, don't be afraid,
You've a new life to gain.

"You'll have no more pain,
Troubles, sorrow, or woe,
For you've been a faithful soldier
In your life below."

My life is so empty
Ever since that sad day
God sent His angels
To carry you away.

The days are so long,
They seem to never end;
I'll never be happy
Until we're together again.

But I am so thankful
God's ways are so dear,
For He loaned you to me
For fifty-three years.

We had a good life
With our children of ten,
And I'll relive those memories until we meet again.

Sadly missed by
WIFE AND CHILDREN

Miss Skeans, Mr. Martin Wed

The formal candlelight wedding ceremony of Miss Virginia Ann Skeans and Mr. Mack Webb Martin was solemnized October 11 at 6 p.m. at the First Assembly of God Church in Martin by the Rev. Lori Vannucci, pastor of the church.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Rebecca Skeans and the late Sammy Ray Skeans, of Martin. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Martin, of Wayland.

Several musical selections were played before the wedding by the cousin of the bride, Mr. Jerry Bryan Lafferty, II. Following the lighting of three candles, symbolizing the union of the bridal couples lives with Christ, the couple knelt and participated in Holy Communion. Mr. Lafferty then sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Mr. David Skeans, of Ypsilanti, Mich., wore a floor-length gown of white polyester chiffon trimmed with chantilly lace. The gown featured an empire waist style with a square neckline and long sheer sleeves caught at the wrist with a lace cuff. The bodice was lace covered and encrusted with tiny seed pearls. The skirt of the gown featured a front panel of pleats with lace panels that fell into a cathedral-length train. Her matching veil fell from a cap of lace into cathedral length and was lace-edged.

The maid of honor, Miss Renee Vannucci, wore a floor-length gown of burgundy quiana and carried a bouquet of dusty pink and burgundy roses with white baby's breath.

Bridal attendants, Misses Karen Glide and Connie Glide, wore dresses identical to that of the maid of honor, and each carried a bouquet of dusty pink and burgundy roses with white baby's breath.

Mr. Jimmy Martin, of Wayland, brother of the groom, was best man, and ushers were Mr. Dwight Davis, of Inez, and Mr. Frank Skeans, of Wilmore, Ky.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Skeans wore a floor-length gown of deep mauve. Mrs. Martin, mother of the groom, wore a floor-length gown of turquoise.

Immediately following the ceremony, a buffet supper was served by Christian friends under the direction of Mrs. Annette Vannucci. Miss Cathy Glide served as guest registrar and Miss Chanda Spencer, Miss Belinda Branham and Miss Jamie Branham assisted in serving cake and punch.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin now reside at Martin.

Waste Plan Is Aired

A proposed five-year plan for the management of all types of waste material in Kentucky will be presented for public review and comment at the Pike Building at Prestonsburg Community College at 7 p.m. today (Wednesday).

State Natural Resources Secretary Jackie Swigart said the plan outlines methods now used in treating, storing, transporting and disposing of waste, as well as recommendations for improved waste services.

The plan, prepared by the state natural resources department's division of hazardous material and waste management, covers hazardous, non-hazardous, agricultural and residual waste from pollution-controlled facilities or industrial processes.

At the meeting, the content of the plan will be described by staff members from the division. The public will be able to present oral or written comments at the meeting, and can make additional comments to the department until Jan. 15.

Division Director Roger Blair said a summary and response to all comments on the plan will be prepared at the end of the public comment period. The comments will be considered in the final preparation of the plan, which must be submitted to the federal Environmental Protection Agency by Jan. 29, he said.

Officials said preparation of the five-year plan was required under the 1976 federal Resource Conservation and Recovery Act.

A meeting on the plan was held in Frankfort Tuesday, and one is planned in Hopkinsville on Friday.

About 50 million Americans still drive alone to their jobs. The President's Task Force on Ridesharing urges people to consider joining carpools or vanpools or using public transit.

MAGISTRATE, DIST. 4

To my understanding, within the last 60 years District 4 has never re-elected the same Magistrate to office. The late Bro. Dewey Roberts served 24 years in the past 48, being elected every other term. It is my belief that this has greatly affected progress for our district. A man learns his duties and responsibilities reasonably soon, but it takes time to set up projects and get things under way and moving. If we had elected Bro. Dewey Roberts to six consecutive terms instead of six broken terms and let him continue his plans, our district would be in better shape today.

I have served three years and I am still learning and making plans for the future of our district. I believe that the experience that I have acquired in the past three years can benefit our district greatly in the future.

We have over 100 roads to maintain, serving 5000 homes, one high school, several elementary schools and a community that is growing faster than most people realize.

During this campaign I will be listing projects that I have completed and new ones now underway. Some of the projects now in progress will effect the lives of each and every man, woman and child not only in District 4, but all of Floyd County for generations to come.

I have friends who are candidates for Magistrate of District 4. My prayers are with these friends and their families. My intentions will never be to offend them or their families. When this campaign is over I want our friendship to be as strong as the day that we entered the race. We all go into this campaign knowing that there can only be one winner, whether that person be me or another depends on you, the voter. However, my opponents can rest assured that if I do lose, my aid and assistance will always be available. We all must place the benefit of our district at the top of the list.

I am asking you for your vote and support. Re-elect a man for a change and I am sure that you will see projects completed and new ones created that will benefit everyone.

We have had three different County Judge Executives in the past three years, affecting our county greatly, also.

I want to continue the Mud Creek Road and the Tram Bridge projects. During this campaign I will make known to the voters projects like these which I have acquired and supported for our district. I believe that if projects like these are to remain successful that someone with experience must remain behind them.

Our District is growing by leaps and bounds. All of Eastern Kentucky will grow tremendously in the very near future and I truly feel that I can keep District 4 in the running with any other district in the area. I ask you to re-elect an experienced and devoted man to stand up for our district. It is only with your vote in the May primary, 1981 election that I can continue to make our district a more progressive and successful place for us and our children to live.

SPECIAL JUDGES RULING HALTS CIRCUIT JUDGE CASE

Court of Appeals To Rule On Point

Proceedings in the case of C. B. Wheeler vs. A. T. Patrick involving the Republican nomination for Circuit Judge of this district came to a sudden halt in the Floyd Circuit Court last Friday when Judge J. C. Carter, special judge, sustained Judge Patrick's demurrer to the jurisdiction of the court to try the case.

Speaking on the demurrer for Judge Patrick Joseph D. Harkins made the point that the notice of Judge Wheeler was insufficient and void because it called upon the contestee to "answer in the court room" when the only legal place to answer was in the office of the circuit clerk.

Judge Carter deemed the question raised sufficiently doubtful to make advisable for the Court of Appeals to pass upon it, before the parties should proceed further in the case, thereby incurring expense which might be needless, should the Court of Appeals in reviewing the whole case sustain the demurrer.

Accordingly, Judge Wheeler took an immediate appeal and the papers in the case were forwarded to the Clerk of the Court of Appeals last Monday morning.

Under a special provision of the law applying only to election contest cases, it was not necessary to copy the record, and when the original papers were filed in the office of the Clerk of the Court of Appeals, it was immediately docketed and given precedence over all other cases, so that an early decision may be expected.

It is thought Judge Carter's ruling in this case will come out of court, at least temporarily. Should the higher court reverse Judge Carter, the case will proceed in due course, unless the appeal should be dismissed because of some defect in the appeal itself—always a possibility in hard fought cases.

In the opinion of lawyers a ruling by the court of appeals may be expected within two weeks.

Counter Contest By Patrick Answering Judge Wheeler's petition Judge Patrick on Thursday afternoon filed a counter contest in the suit. As one of the grounds for contesting Judge Wheeler's right to receive the nomination, Judge Patrick claims that Judge Wheeler had not resided within the district for the legal period of two years prior to the day of the primary.

Other grounds alleged are the voting for Wheeler of numerous illegal votes in each and every precinct in the district, numbering at least 200, consisting of votes of minors, non-residents, and persons permitted to vote on the table without first making the legal affidavit of disability, and also numerous votes cast for Wheeler as a result of bribes by Wheeler or by his workers with his knowledge and consent, that in every precinct in the district voters were bribed by Wheeler and by others for him and with his knowledge and consent; that in Precincts Nos. 8 and 25 in Floyd County and Nos. 5, 7 and 12 in Knott County less votes were counted for Patrick than were cast for him and more votes were counted for Wheeler than were cast for him.

Answering the charges contained in Judge Wheeler's petition with reference to the part taken by relatives of Judge Patrick in his race while employed by corporations, Judge Patrick states in his answer that the type writer and stationery used in connection with the activities of these relatives belonged to them and the services rendered were rendered on their own time.

In reference to the returns from the Mouth of Mud Precinct No. 14 Judge Patrick charges that a change was made in the result of the election as certified by the election officers, at some time on Aug. 10, while the vote of the election was being canvassed and tabulated by the County Board of Election Commissioners. The original return from that precinct as certified by the election officers, it is alleged, was that Patrick received 77 votes and that Wheeler received 63 votes, and that when the County Board came to canvass and tabulate the vote from Mouth of Mud it was found that the 6 in 63 had been changed to 8 thereby adding 20 votes to the original certified as cast for WP.

After settling the filing of the injunction suit on Aug. 12 and 13, by Patrick against the election officers and the election commissioners to compel the officers to reassemble and recertify the vote, and to restrain the commissioners from canvassing the vote, until the election officers, Judge Patrick alleges that the Commissioners, after being served with the restraining orders in these cases, nevertheless and in contempt and disobedience of said orders, did tabulate and certify to the County Clerk that Wheeler received 83 votes and Patrick 77 votes, and that said tabulation and certification was illegal and void, and that the only legal tabulation and certification by the commissioners of the vote in Precinct 14 was the corrected tabulations and certification subsequently made by the commissioners under compulsion of law, showing that Wheeler received but 63 votes in that precinct.

Judge Patrick asks that the contest of Judge Wheeler be dismissed; that he be adjudged the nominee for Circuit Judge on the Republican ticket; that the ballot boxes of every voting precinct in the district be opened and re-counted and that Judge Wheeler be adjudged ineligible to receive the nomination.

TO THE DEMOCRATS OF FLOYD COUNTY

I wish to thank my many supporters in the recent primary in which I was defeated. You certainly made a game fight.

Our organization was made up mostly of young men and women and many ex-soldiers but you demonstrated that you were able to cope with the old veteran politicians in ever precinct in which we made a fight. But we lost, and regardless of how it happened, I am for the nominee. And I will call your attention to the quotation from my speech at the May term of court "When told that I can no longer ride a big white horse and lead the procession then give me an old musket and I will hobble along in the rear rank, true and obedient soldier and stick to the nominee if he goes to hell." These words are as true today as the day they were first spoken.

The faces of the returns showed the majority of the people were in favor of me waiting a while, so as you soldiers know how we waited in line for mess, waited for our compensation etc. When it comes to waiting we can do it without getting mad, as we are experienced.

So let us show that we can smile on defeat and that our organization still lives. Let's elect the nominee this fall by fighting beside the one who fought us in the primary.

With the best regards for all my supporters and without malice towards those who opposed me.

THREE NEW COUNCILMEN

At a special meeting of the City Council yesterday, Messrs M. J. Lee,

Chick Howard, and John May resigned, and in their stead three were elected to serve during the unexpired term Messrs. W. H. Layne, B. P. Carter and George B. Archer.

The reason assigned for the resignation of the retiring members was that the pressure of their business affairs.

It is probable, however, in the opinion of persons familiar with municipal matters that the changes in the personnel of the Board in the foreground of important developments in the management of the affairs of the city.

NOTICE

The music department of the Prestonsburg High School will be in charge of Miss Gertrude Patrick of Paintsville, Miss Patrick will teach Piano, Violyn and Voice Culture. Miss Grace Layne is preparing to assist Miss Patrick. Those who wish to study music, will please see Miss Patrick at the school building Monday Sept. 19th.

ASHLAND BOOSTERS TAKE PRESTONSBURG

They came, they saw, they conquered—so may be epitomized the result of the visit of the Ashland Chamber of Commerce Boosters to Prestonsburg yesterday afternoon.

Issuing forth from a ten coach pullman train, one hundred and fifty good fellows, business men, men of affairs, representing the material, mental and moral power of the fair city of Ashland, were met with cordial welcome by Prestonsburg people at the station shortly after one o'clock.

In a short time, mutual greetings and introductions had initiated acquaintanceship that will ripen into lasting friendship, to the mutual advantage of all concerned, if the many cordial expressions of the visitors are to be taken as a criterion.

After selections rendered at the station by the Boosters Brass Band, an aggregation of twenty pieces, the reception committee, band, boosters, and citizens forming in parade in the order named, proceeded to the city park, where the visitors were welcomed by Hon. A. J. May on behalf of the people of Floyd County and the City of Prestonsburg.

In fitting and eloquent terms the speaker gave to the visitors assurance of Floyd County's friendship for Ashland in the development of the marvelous resources of the Big Sandy Valley.

Rev. Paul S. Powell, pastor of the First M. E. Church South, of Ashland responded on behalf of the visitors. In an interesting and graceful speech, Rev. Mr. Powell made his audience feel the genuineness of Ashland's interest in and fellowship with the whole Big Sandy Valley, and emphasized the fact that the men who composed the booster delegation represented "moral and spiritual values" in Ashland, no less than its amenities for material accomplishments.

Hon. E. B. Hager, next introduced, made a touching and humorous address, in the spirit of a boy who grown to manhood in a place removed from his native hills, comes back to the scenes of his first loves and his early joys, to renew acquaintance and to tell the folks how proud he is of them and his own country.

A feature of Mr. Hager's speech was his fine tribute to the character of his father—at the moment one of the audience, but seated—whom he referred to as "the best man ever born in Sandy Valley"—calling on him to stand up. The elder Hager did so, and stood in dignity—a distinguished figure—while the throng gazed and applauded.

The frequent rounds of applause that greeted and interrupted the speakers, demonstrated that those assembled there responded to the spirit and sentiment of the occasion. Ashland won entrance, within the portals of Prestonsburg's heart, when the Booster Quartette took the stage and held the people in thrall for half an hour, with sweet songs of an earlier and the present day, such as "When You and I were Young Maggie" and "Blowing Bubbles" and ending with a humorous selection "Old Nick Arnold Had a Farm". When they had done, Prestonsburg had taken Ashland in to its heart of hearts.

Messrs John S. Hager, Harry McIntosh Nelson Weedon and Harry Moore, composing the quartette will be long held in affectionate remembrance by Prestonsburg people to whom music is language of the soul.

Under the direction of Mr. B. F. Forgy, President of the Ashland-Daily Independent Company, the crowd when maneuvered while motion pictures were taken from the stage. Mr. Forgy announced that motion pictures taken here and at other Big Sandy points on the trip would be shown at the Liberty Theatre, and the people, especially the youngsters showed no bashfulness at this prospect.

From the park, at the close of the program there, the guests were escorted to the offices of Harkins and Harkins where they were received by a committee of ladies and Messrs Harkins. Delicious punch and cake, cigars and cigarettes were served and at this point good cheer and good fellowship reached its climax.

The length of the program prevented the visitors from seeing much of the city and there was no time to visit points of interest in and around the city. But they promised to come again next year—stronger than ever—and pledge was made that city of good streets and automobiles accommodations would be waiting for them then.

expressions of appreciation for the manner in which they had been received.

STATE CONVENTION AMERICAN LEGION

Members of Floyd Post 139 and all who take interest in American Legion activities should take occasion to converse with W. S. Wallen about the Third Annual State Convention held in Lexington Sept. 1 and 2.

Mr. Wallen attended as a delegate of Floyd Post and took active part in the work of convention as a member of the Committee on War Risk Insurance and Compensation, and was elected by the convention a member of the Legislative Committee for the ensuing year and delegate for the 10th Congressional District, Annual National Convention to be held at Kansas City Mo., October 31, Nov. 1 and 2.

But it is not concerning his part in the convention proceedings nor of the honors it conferred upon him, that Mr. Wallen talks. His theme is the convention—its personnel, its purposes and the work it is doing for the country in general and for worthy ex-service men in particular.

Mr. Wallen speaks warmly of the pleasure of mingling with the delegates in informal gatherings, where good fellowship and a spirit of patriotism prevailed. He says the comrades that failed to attend the convention missed something, the pleasure and spirit of which they will not realize till they attend some future convention.

In the conventions oratory and proceedings love of country and solicitude for the permanence of American institutions was apparent at every moment of the sessions, said Mr. Wallen.

The convention went on record against narrowness of every character. With the legionaires there is no sectionalism, no religious, political, class or race prejudice. An evidence of this was the unanimous adoption against all associations secret or open, the purpose of which may to array class against class or race against race. The adoption of this resolution was a rebuke to the movement to stir up hostility against the Jews, and a condemnation of the Ku Klux Klan whose activities were considered calculated to cultivate race hatred for the negroes.

That the American Legion is not or selfishly zealous in behalf of the ex-service men as a class, Mr. Wallen states, was plain, not only from public speeches, but from private expressions. Mr. Wallen says the Legion is as solicitous that unworthy ex-service men shall not impose on the bounty of the government, as that every needy ex-soldier shall be assisted.

According to Mr. Wallen, the government is not well supplied with hospitals for men who came out of service suffering from nervous and mental disorders. A bill to appropriate $5,000,000 to supply this need, now

Brown Bag Blues

When the kids come home from school with cramps, diarrhea, vomiting, fever—the tendency is to dismiss it as just “a bug that’s going around.” Or when you miss a couple of days work with the same symptoms, you figure you merely “caught something somewhere.” But the bug you caught—or that caught you—may well have been food poisoning. And you might have sent the bug to school or work in that innocent brown bag lunch.

So not to get caught holding the bag, you should start with scrupulously clean countertops and utensils. Wash them thoroughly with soap and hot water. The same goes for your hands. If you have cuts or sores, use rubber gloves. Also, rinse vacuum bottles with boiling water after each washing.

Making sure food is cooked thoroughly is surely a step toward preventing food poisoning. But if the food is meant to be hot, keep it hot by closing it up tight right away. If it’s meant to be cool, keep it cool. Bacteria will thrive between 45 degrees and 115 degrees.

A vacuum bottle will keep certain kinds of food hot or cold. There is no need to worry about bacteria creeping into the bottle. If the food is poured boiling hot, it is safe.

When making a sandwich, use a fork to place meat, poultry or cheese in the sandwich—not your fingers. Fingers spread bacteria. The lunch-meat should be used within one week after purchase. If kept longer than that, the cold cuts can become contaminated from being opened and handled in the kitchen.

Aside from a sandwich, canned meat and poultry products, opened and eaten immediately, are a good bet (if the can is sealed and not bulged or dented). Dry meats or fully cooked products, like bologna and franks, also keep well. Frozen chicken or turkey is good, too. Virtually any meat or poultry product can be used for lunch—if it’s cooked and handled properly. Fruits and vegetables are not a problem either, as long as they are clean and well scrubbed. Besides bacteria, they may be contaminated with surface residues of pesticides or herbicides. Hard-boiled eggs keep fine too but, by all means, don’t peel them. Nature has designed a sterile package for this excellent protein source that keeps it free of contamination. Leave the shell on until you’re ready to eat the egg.

Bagging it is fine but using lunch boxes is better. Lunch boxes, especially insulated ones, hold the cold much better than paper bags. Plus, a box is easy to keep clean and sanitary. But if you decide to use brown bags, buy them specifically for lunches and use them once—don’t use bags in which you bring home leftover lunches, groceries or other items.

Ideally, lunch should be stored in the refrigerator—if there is one at work or at school. If not, use a freezer gel device, or make one by cleaning out a plastic margarine tub, filling it with water and freezing it. Put it with your lunch to keep it cold until you’re ready to eat. Or you might try freezing certain types of sandwiches, though you will experience some loss of quality.

Frozen sandwiches thaw in time for lunch, and also help keep the rest of the lunch cool until then. One other thing to remember—letting your lunch sit in a warm place (such as the top of a radiator) lets bacteria grow at will. The longer it sits, the greater the potential for problems.

You won’t know for sure if you have had a case of food poisoning, that is, without thorough medical tests. But if you have a severe headache, diarrhea, vomiting, abdominal cramps and fever after eating, there’s a pretty good chance the culprit might be food poisoning. Because the symptoms are similar, “flu” and food poisoning are often mistaken for each other. Food poisoning is rarely fatal, but may affect infants and elderly persons severely. If you have symptoms, ask your doctor about the possibility of food poisoning. The important thing to remember is—why take chances? You can prevent food poisoning.

Additives Explained

When you try to read labels on packaged foods, you’ll find a lot of unfamiliar chemicals listed. Here’s a list of emulsifiers.

Safe
 • Lecithin. It’s also an antioxidant, used in chocolate, margarine, and baked goods. This chemical is common in plants and animals, and provides the nutrient choline.

• Mono-and diglycerides. Used in peanut butter, margarine, candy, and baked goods, this is safe but appears mostly in foods high in sugar or fat.

• Polysorbate 60, 65, & 80. Added to baked goods, imitation dairy products, and frozen desserts, they appear to be safe though they’re synthetic.

• Sorbitan monostearate. An emulsifier that keeps oil and water mixed in cakes, icing, and frozen pudding.

The following are considered “uncertain”:

Uncertain
 • Phosphoric acid, phosphates.

Unsafe
 • Brominated vegetable oil (BVO). It’s also a clouding agent in citrus-flavored soft drinks; leaves a residue in body fat. Alternatives do exist.

Ferry in Monroe County One of Last in State

Two hundred years ago most Kentuckians crossed rivers of any size by boat.

In later years when a farmer needed to cross the river with his horse and wagon, he encountered difficulties.

Then the ferry system was devised to solve the problem. The flat-surfaced boat was designed to transport a vehicle, as well as passengers, across the river and deposit them safe and dry on the other side.

Bridges were the next step in the line of progress toward the easiest and most efficient way to cross the river.

With the widespread use of bridges, crossing a river, even one the size of the Ohio River, is something Kentuckians take for granted today.

But for Kentuckians living in eastern Monroe county, time stands still. To get to the county seat of Tompkinsville, residents use a ferry to cross the Cumberland River at Turkey Neck Bend. One of the few ferries left in Kentucky, it is the only one owned and operated by the state.

The ferry is powered by a small tug boat, the Jennie Lou, and is maintained by Department of Transportation employees who work 24 hours a day transporting vehicles across the river free of charge.

Without the ferry, residents could not travel the two sections of KY 214 connected by the ferry and would have to drive 50 miles out of their way to get to Tompkinsville.

“I don’t use the ferry too often,” one resident said. “But it sure comes in handy when you need it. I’m an independent businessman and it saves money to cut corners any way you can.” The 100-mile round trip would cost plenty in gas, he said.

While crossing on the ferry to get to town recently, Cleo Finley, a Monroe county farmer, explained how he helped build the ferry in 1948.

“Six of us with farms across the river donated some money and built this thing so we could get across the river,” he said. They paid a Louisville man $1,500 to build the ferry.

Finley said at that time they charged 40 cents for a car to cross and 60 cents for a two-ton truck. “We gave a man 50 percent to operate it until then Governor Louie Nunn came along and freed it,” he said.

In 1968, when Finley decided to discontinue operating the ferry, the state Department of Transportation bought it for $6,500 and began operating it free of charge to the public.

Signs of age are showing on the ferry

this year and its load limit has been lowered from 17 tons to five tons by the U. S. Coast Guard. The Coast Guard inspects the ferry once a year to make sure it is up to federal standards.

“The brace is broken and the bottom is rusting out,” Strode said. “We can only take two cars at a time now and no big trucks. We’re just waiting for them to bring us a new ferry.”

The Department of Transportation has purchased a ferry from a company in Portsmouth, Ohio. It should be delivered to the site within a month, department officials said.

Even though winter work is hard, Strode likes his job “because I like to talk to people.” In the five minutes it takes to cross over and back on the ferry, neighbors exchange greetings and the latest news with each other and the workers on the ferry.

During the warmer seasons, the job gives him a chance to enjoy the outdoors, Strode said. “I see deer swimming across the river all the time. We almost ran into one once, but he saw us at the last minute and swam the other way.”

Finley said he had hoped the department would replace the ferry with a bridge. But building a bridge at that spot is just not feasible, according to E. V. Hilton, general manager of the highway district in Bowling Green.

With rough terrain and the variation in water level, a very large expensive bridge would have to be built there, Hilton said. The ferry crosses the Cumberland River about 50 miles southwest of Wolfe Creek Dam, which causes the water level to fluctuate greatly.

“There is not enough traffic at this point to warrant such a bridge,” Hilton said.

About 150 vehicles cross the ferry on an average day, according to transportation employees working on the ferry.

“It stays pretty busy on the ferry during the day, and you need two men to operate it,” said Cornell Guffey, an employee assigned to the ferry. “It only takes one at night and it gets pretty lonesome at times. Work is real bad some nights when it gets 10 below down here.”

Since the river freezes in the winter, the ferry operates year round. “In winter I’ve taken people across and had to push them up the hill when it was icy,” said Leon Strode, another employee.

While people in the area wait for the new ferry to arrive, they depend heavily on the old one. One resident said that without the ferry he could not get his work done. “We farm on both sides of the river so we use it all the time. It’s a necessity.”

School enrollment has dropped more than 770,000 in 1971 to approximately 720,000 in 1979.

Miss Pelphrey, Mr. Spradlin Exchange Vows

Connie Lynn Pelphrey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. Pelphrey, of Prestonsburg, and James Dean Spradlin, son of Roger Spradlin, of Enon, Ohio, and Betty Wagner, of Paintsville, were united in marriage October 18 at the Community United Methodist Church, Prestonsburg, with Paul Leslie Pelphrey, brother of the bride, officiating at the ceremony.

Pre-nuptial music was played by Mrs. Alice Gray Buchanan, organist, and The Lord's Prayer was sung by vocalist Brenda Ward, while the couple knelt in prayer.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a lovely gown of chiffon, silk venise lace and seed pearls. Tiny scattered seed pearls graced the silk venise lace of the sheer yoke and created the Victorian look of the high neckline. A slightly raised waistline and the molded silk lace bodice were also touched with seed pearls. The long and sheer bishop sleeves were sculptured in matching lace trim and the full sunburst pleated chiffon skirt flowed into a longer-than-chapel-length train. The bride wore a two-tiered Juliet cap and fingertip length veil, completely edged with silk venise lace and seed pearls.

Matrons of honor, Teresa Gibson, of Lexington, and Pam Mosier, of Tulsa, Oklahoma, sister of the bride, were attired in a two piece ensemble of seleta chiffon, in a soft rose shade, with a sunburst pleated skirt which fell gracefully from the empire waistline.

Bridal attendants were Judy Minix, of Salyersville, Rhonda Caylor, of Georgetown, Sandy Collins, of Prestonsburg, and Cindy Wolett, of Louisville. All were attired in gowns identical to that of the matrons of honor, with each carrying a hurricane lamp and lighted candle, with white streamers.

The flower girl, Miss Terri Lynn Houston, cousin of the bride, was dressed in a white sunburst pleated gown, with long sheer sleeves which fell from a raised waistline into a soft full skirt.

The ringbearer was Shawn Heath Ousley, who was dressed in a white tuxedo.

Best man was Myron Reimers, of Tampa, Florida. Groomsmen were Gary Combs, of Paintsville, Dave Hartman, of Omaha, Nebraska, Christ Hutchinson, of Kettering, Ohio, Joey Spradlin, of Lexington, and Dennis Walker, of Auxier.

For her daughters' wedding, Mrs. Pelphrey wore a floor length, two piece chiffon print ensemble of soft beige and pink with spaghetti straps and sunburst pleats falling from the natural waistline. Mrs. Wagner, mother of the groom, chose a floor length gown of pink printed chiffon with a matching cape.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where the bride's table displayed a beautiful six-layered cake decorated with silk burgundy roses, with miniature bridesmaids and groomsmen dressed in pink and burgundy.

Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Nancy Hunt, Mrs. Opal Green, Mrs. Verna Pelphrey, Mrs. Ernestine Collins, and Mrs. Carol Jean Robinson.

After a wedding trip to Gatlinburg, Tennessee, Mr. and Mrs. Spradlin are residing in Kettering, Ohio, where Mr. Spradlin is stationed at Wright Patterson Air Force Base. Mrs. Spradlin is employed as a medical assistant for Drs. Carroll Estep and Talmage Porter.

Five Cats on All-Area Squad

Five Prestonsburg High School athletes have been named to the 1980 All-Area Class A-AA football team. The all-star squad was named by The Ashland Daily Independent and coaches of all 10 Class A and AA teams in the area. The selections included top players on both offense and defense.

Blackcat players named "All Area" are:

—Jack Wells, 6-2, 182-pound senior, quarterback; termed "one of the top wishbone quarterbacks in the state."

—Greg Haywood, 6-1, 153-pound senior, offensive end, leading vote-getter at the position, who caught eight touchdown passes from Wells and added two two-point conversions.

—Raymond Gibson, 6-2, 270-pound senior, offensive tackle; biggest player picked, described as "a two-fold threat in running or passing" plays.

—John Burchett, 6-1, 225-pound offensive guard; the only junior selected all-area on offense, picked up the most votes received by an offensive lineman.

—Lonnie May, 5-11, 170-pound senior, defensive end; "speed made up for lack of size, and was an offensive star, too..."

The full roster of both offensive and defensive all-star follows:

Gets College Grant

Mike Setser, 6-2, 230-pound linebacker, offensive guard and place kicker for the Clintwood (Va.) High School Green Wave football team has signed a four-year grant with James Madison University. He earned all-district, all-Region D, all-Southwest Virginia and all-State honors and is also a standout on the baseball and basketball teams, earning all-district honors on both teams as a junior. Setser is an A student and a member of the National Honor Society and plans to study medicine. He is the son of Marvin and Wilma Setser, formerly of Auxier. He is a grandson of James Setser, of Auxier, and Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Howard, of Clintwood, Va.

82% of Vietnam Vets Train Under GI Bill

Eighty-two percent of the 123,000 Vietnam Era veterans who live in Kentucky have taken some form of training under the GI Bill.

Statistics show that 101,660 veterans used their educational benefits and that of those 56,437 attended college.

Veterans have 10 years from the date of discharge to complete training under the GI Bill. Veterans discharged in 1971 have only one more year of training remaining in which they can draw a monthly check to help them defray educational costs.

Training is not restricted to college, since there are programs for on-the-job training and other residential schools providing technical training that may be attended.

Lee Caudill, director of the VA regional office in Louisville, says any veteran who still has time available should consider using the GI Bill for training.

Thanks To Donors

United Federal Savings & Loan, Hall Funeral Home, James Allen, attorney, First Commonwealth Bank, Irene's Grocery, Oval Howard, Bruce Van Hoose, National Mines, Elmer Morrison, fire chief, Elk Horn Coal Co., Frank Martin, First Guaranty Bank, Conley's Ky. Food Store, Walter Henegar, Nick Shepard, Garrett Sundry, and the area Volunteer Fire Dept. for their time.

We appreciate the help of all with making the Christmas treat a success especially to Santa for his time to please the children.

PATY MURPHY, chairman; DAN JUETT, member; MARVIN COLLINS, member; SAM FRALEY, member; MIKE FROMAN.

Development Club Names New Directors

The officers of the Abbott Development Club met at the home of Bill Campbell, December 15, at 7 p.m. Present were President Delmas Saunders, vice-president Bill Campbell, Secretary Patsy Brown and County Agent John Sparks.

New directors elected at the meeting were John Sparr, Johnny Clark, John M. Howard and John Forrest Brown. The directors will meet with the executive board at its next meeting at 7 p.m. Monday, Jan. 12 at the Community Center.

The regular meeting date is the third Thursday of each month at 7 p.m. at the Community Center. The next meeting will be January 15.

IN APPRECIATION

The Hall family, of Lancer, wishes to thank each and every one who brought food or contributed flowers or helped in any way during the funeral of Mr. Hall's father who passed away January 1.

Basketball Near Standstill

C. "OLLIE" ROBINSON and TOMMIE LYNN MAY

Basketball was almost at a standstill in the 58th district last week, with the only game a doubleheader pitting the Betsy Layne Bobcats and the Prestonsburg Blackcats. The Bobcats picked up their eighth win by defeating Prestonsburg, 83 to 52. High scoring for Prestonsburg were Joe Marson with 21 points and Jack Wells with 12. Betsy Layne was led by Dwight Newsome with 20 points and Jimmy Hall with 14.

At halftime of the boys' game, Betsy Layne held its homecoming activities. Miss Breena Reynolds, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Reynolds, of Beaver, was crowned the 1980-81 Homecoming Queen. Members of the court were Sheila Watson, Peggy Frasure, Belinda Robinette, Lisa Meade, Annita Smith, Kathy Roop, Elaine Akers and Melody Conn. They also honored the ball players, cheerleaders, managers, coaches, and principals for the years of 1940, 1950, 1960 and 1970.

The Betsy Layne Lady Cats picked up their 10th win by defeating Prestonsburg girls, 91 to 35. Top scorers for Prestonsburg were Jeanna McKenzie with 19 points and Kerry Johnson with 10. Betsy Layne was led by Sheila Johnson with 21 points and Lela Layne with 15.

VISIT IN LEXINGTON

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Pettrey and Mrs. Rebecca Rasnick, of Prestonsburg, and Rudolph Spencer, of Garrett, spent the Christmas holidays in Lexington with Mrs. Rasnick's daughter, Mrs. Don Harris, Mr. Harris and children. The Harris' son, Frank, who is a student at Leblin Valley College, Harrisburg, Pa., was also home for the holidays.

Rice's Crispies . . .

New Year Wishes

By KENNY RICE

David Turner looks back on the 1980 portion of this season with warm thoughts. His McDowell Daredevils are the winningest team in the county and one of the hottest clubs in the mountains.

David can't ask for much more than continued fine play from his unit, to avoid a slump and to roll along as the favorite in the 58th district at this stage of the season.

The rest of the county coaches are looking forward, not back, on the season. They are making New Year wishes for improved play from their teams.

Allen Central's John Martin notes that his Rebels are making progress, "showing improvement in just about every game." John has a reputation for district and regional tournament success and AC will improve between now and March if Martin's track record remains intact. Consistency is his and Rebel fans' New Year wish.

Wheelwright's Danny Johnson is searching for a starting five. He lost a key player when Gerald Osborne transferred to Virgie, and the Trojans have not had a set lineup yet. Danny feels he has arrived at a starting combo that will put Wheelwright in the stretch run as a darkhorse. A solid starting unit is his and Trojan fans' New Year wish.

Betsy Layne's William Newsome, Jr. has put together a respectable team of youngsters who can win on any night. That was expected. His Bobcats made run after run at Ashland in the Pikeville Invitational before running out of runs. Even in the loss, Betsy Layne showed they have the gunners to take a shot at a third straight district championship. Time is on their side and Junior has a great tourney record. Tradition upheld is his and Bobcat fans' New Year wish.

Prestonsburg's Ron Robinson has a young team that will get better as the season goes along. Look for a surprise or two between now and March. Ron's Blackcats always pull an upset. With a good looking bunch of freshmen, the future looks bright in Blackcat Country. Seasons to come is Ron's and Blackcat fans' New Year wish.

Here is hoping all these wishes are granted. It will make for another wonderful district tournament.

DID YOU KNOW?

Between 1967 and 1972, Gene Frasure set an amazing mark at Maytown High. With an enrollment of around 200 in grades 9-12, Frasure produced four major college players in a six-year span: Rudy Thacker (Vanderbilt), Mike Tallent, Randy Click and Pat Talleat (George Washington). In 1964 he had another Wildcat go to a major college, Bob Tallent (UK, later George Washington, and still later Tallent became George Washington's coach.)

STILL THE ONE

C. "Ollie" Robinson is in his 28th consecutive year as "the Voice of Eastern Kentucky Sports." Thousands still rely on Ollie's account of the regional sports scene over WDOC-FM. His wit is still crisp and his style unique.

If this is Ollie's 28th year of following sports, how old does that make him? Well, would you believe he started out as a four-year old sportscaster? How about a five-year-old?

Keep up the good work, O.R.

WELCOME BACK

Jim Allen has joined Ollie as the color commentator on WDOC's high school play-by-play coverage. Jim started sportscasting at Morehead State and has been one of the area's most-listened-to radio personalities since returning to Floyd county a decade ago.

Welcome back to sports, Jim.

WISH

I wish "Huck" Francis was the public address announcer for UK football and basketball. He would be a class addition to the state's top athletic program.

GOOD CHOICE

Two of the county's finest golfers, Garry and Larry Brown, are entering professions synonymous with golf. Garry is attending UK Med School and Larry is enrolled at UK's Law School.

QUE PASA?

Former Prestonsburg High cheerleader, Linda Godsey, is now a foreign language instructor at one of PHS' biggest rivals, Pikeville. She is doing an excellent job, as expected.

SPORTS ARE FUNNY

Sports sure are funny. Sometimes they are downright hilarious.

Sports causes everyone at some time in their life to shout, "We're Number One." Sports can evoke cries of "Kill!" and "Crush 'em," and in the next instance have those same folks hugging and shaking hands and wishing each other the best. Sports allows grownups to be kids again and allow kids to emulate grownups.

This year should be full of fun. Happy New Year everyone.

Lost Papers Are No Problem, Says VA

Don't let lost documents prevent you from seeking veterans benefits, the Veterans Administration today reminded veterans and their dependents.

A VA spokesman said, "We have found that some veterans who cannot locate birth or marriage certificates don't apply for benefits because they believe these documents are essential."

VA will accept a certified statement instead of an original birth or marriage certificate when needed to establish eligibility. In the case of a marriage this policy applies only to the first marriage for each partner, and there must be no contradictory information on file at VA.

In years past, VA required formal documentation to support claims for compensation and education benefits for veterans, widows and orphaned children.

Now, however, VA will accept a certified statement regarding the birth of a veteran's child or as proof of age and relationship in disability cases, the spokesman said.

VA urged veterans and their dependents with eligibility questions to contact the nearest VA regional office or a representative of one of the national veterans organizations.

DAV Reminds Veterans Of Job Preference

At present the Job Corps has several openings at the old shoe factory at Lancer. Veterans who need a job should check with the Employment Office at Prestonsburg which will give assistance in finding employment, or come to the D.A.V. meeting at Auxier, Friday, Jan. 9 at 7 p.m.

If just one gallon of gasoline were saved each week for every automobile in the country, approximately 5.6 billion gallons of gasoline would be saved a year.

Brown Reappoints Reynolds To Board

William J. "Bill" Reynolds, of Allen, has been reappointed by Gov. John Y. Brown, Jr., to membership of the Kentucky Geological Survey advisory board. The commission, dated Dec. 24, provides that Reynolds, a former state representative, will serve a term ending Dec. 8, 1983.

In an accompanying letter Governor Brown wrote Reynolds:

"You have rendered a valuable service to this body, and it will continue to make significant progress under the programs you have helped to develop."

ANNUAL CHRISTMAS PARTY

About two hundred people, including the residents and their families, enjoyed their annual Christmas party December 23 at Mountain Manor Nursing Home at Prestonsburg.

All enjoyed a special program and Santa Claus appeared on the scene to help give out gifts to all the residents, and refreshments were served to everyone. All had a very joyful time.

We also want to extend special thanks to everyone who gave donations of money, clothing, fruit and candy. Because of their kindness and thoughtfulness our residents had the best Christmas ever.

We want to invite everyone to come and visit our home when you have the time; we feel that ours is a home of love.

Let's all work together and help our elderly have a more happy and fulfilling life.

Wishing everyone a very happy and healthy New year!

Jerrico Head Offers Employment In Support of Convicted Agents

By HARRY MERRITT
(In The Lexington Herald)

Warren Rosenthal, the chairman of the board of Lexington's Jerrico Inc., says he has "had it" with a judicial system that cares more about the rights of criminals and anarchists than about the law-enforcement officials who protect the public.

So when two former FBI officials were convicted recently of violating the rights of people suspected of having links with the radical Weather Underground, Rosenthal decided to do something about it.

He wrote a letter of support to the former FBI men, Edward S. Miller and W. Mark Felt, and offered either of them a job as director of security for Jerrico, a multimillion-dollar restaurant chain.

"This was my personal reaction to what I think is a miscarriage of justice," Rosenthal said in an interview. "I wanted to let them know there were some people in this country who didn't believe justice was given (by the convictions). I told them I'd be pleased to have either one interview for the job."

Miller, 57, will fly to Lexington next week to discuss the job offer, which Rosenthal said is probably one of several that Miller has received lately. Felt, 67, declined the offer and told Rosenthal that he intends to remain in retirement in Alexandria, Va.

Rosenthal also offered to use his own money to pay either Miller's or Felt's $8,500 fine if either man went to work for Jerrico. Both men turned down the offer. Their fines are being paid through a defense fund raised by other past and present FBI agents.

Law-enforcement officials today don't get the support they need to track down criminals and protect the public, Rosenthal said.

"Whether it's the FBI, the CIA, the Lexington police or the state police, I wonder whether we put them first against the adversaries they're facing," Rosenthal said. "And I wonder whether the individual citizen is being put in a defensive position over that of the adversary."

To illustrate his point, Rosenthal mentioned a New Jersey man who was charged recently with firing a gun at two robbers in his own home. "Now where's it all fit in? You can't protect your own home, and if the police protect you they're often made the scapegoat of the arrest," Rosenthal said.

"Here are two FBI men (Miller and Felt) who were assigned to break the hold of one of the most vicious anarchist groups this country's seen in many a day, and they expect them to play according to the Bill of Rights," Rosenthal said. "Anybody who wants to get into an alley fight according to the Marquis of Queensberry rules is going to get whipped."

Rosenthal said he has "great concern" for the guarantees provided by the Bill of Rights. "But I also have the right of safety of my home. My wife has the right to carry a purse or wear a gold chain around her neck and walk down the street without fear of being robbed."

Rosenthal said the job of security director was in Jerrico's corporate budget for 1980, "but we had been moving very slowly in our choice of a person to head that department."

An increase in armed robberies at the Long John Silver's and Jerry's restaurants owned by Jerrico makes it necessary to fill the position he said.

Rosenthal said he was not seeking publicity when he made what he thought was a confidential job offer to Miller and Felt, and he expressed surprise at "the leak of the whole thing" in an article in a Washington newspaper late last month.

Attending was her Granny Ruth Price; Jim Fraley, Sheila, Roland, Mike and Patricia Patrick; her cousins and their parents, Mike Hobson, Steve Price, Danita Wireman, and Robbie Price; her friends and their parents, Eileen Ennis and Blake Price. Many nice gifts were received.

Her grandmothers, Melvina Price and Thelma Fraley, were unable to attend.

Modern Art Studied In New KET Series

Public television takes a look at art as a mirror of social change in a new eight-part series, "The Shock Of The New." The series, written and hosted by Time magazine art critic Robert Hughes, premieres Sunday, January 11 at 8 p.m. on KET.

Hughes, who characterizes "The Shock Of The New" as a "look at ourselves and our century through the lens of art," filmed the series in over a dozen countries, including France, Spain, Italy, Brazil and the United States. It features rare documentary film and filmed interviews with such living and deceased masters as Pollock, le Corbusier, Miro, Dali and Rauschenberg, among others.

Each hour-long program focuses on a different socially-historic period and the prevailing philosophies of that time. The premiere episode, "The Mechanical Paradise," travels back to the late machine age (1870-1914) with its vast array of inventions to see how art reflected the rapidly changing world.

Episode two, "The Powers That Be," explores the great despair and malaise that resulted from World War I and the relationship between Russian constructivism and the 1917 revolution.

Not all modern art protests or tries to reform. In the third presentation of "The Shock Of The New"—"The Landscape of Pleasure"—Hughes examines the experience of pleasure modern art gives, from Impressionism to contemporary art. Included is rare archival footage of Picasso and Matisse at work, as well as interviews with Robert Motherwell and David Hockney.

In part four, "Trouble in Utopia," Hughes looks at architecture from the Bauhaus to the Buckminster Fuller Dome, examining the idea that buildings can improve thought and behavior.

Future episodes focus on surrealism; the works of artists like Van Gogh, Klee, O'Keefe and Munch who did not feel at home in the ordinary world; modern art's relationship with other media; and, the consequences of the modern art movement.

"Unfortunately, epochs of art don't start or end neatly on cue," says Hughes. "Ours is finishing its run now, leaving behind it some of the most challenging, intelligent and beautiful works of art ever made by man, along with a mass of superfluity and rubbish. We're at the end of the modern era. Art no longer acts on us in the same way that it did on our grandparents." "The Shock Of The New" is Hughes' attempt to explain why.

A BBC-TV and Time-Life Television co-production, "The Shock Of The New" is presented on public television by South Carolina ETV.

Make Fire Safety a Workbench Project

The danger of hitting your thumb with a hammer is real enough. The U.S. Government calculates that over 47,000 hammer injuries occurred in 1979 alone. Misuse of even so simple a workshop tool as the common screwdriver caused an estimated 13,642 injuries in the same year.

The total amount of accidents, serious enough to require emergency room treatment or hospitalization, resulting from workshop apparatus, tools and attachments in 1979 is estimated to be nearly 297,000.

These startling statistics should remind home handymen that workshop safety can't be taken for granted. Even more frightening are workshop conditions that pose serious risk of fire, threatening not only the workshop area, but your family and home if fire should start and spread.

The safety engineers at Underwriters Laboratories stress that your home workshop should be organized and maintained safely to decrease, as much as possible, the dangers of fire. Not only is a safe workshop necessary to protect you and your family from harm, but a safe, worry-free environment can spare your mind the anxieties that hinder efficient, concentrated, creative work.

Consider your surroundings. Special fire-prevention care must be taken in a small area, like your workshop, where many highly combustible building materials may be present. Fires burn at varying speeds, and with finely divided substances such as wood dust and fine sandings, the possibility of rapid fire is critical.

Deposits of combustible dusts on beams, machinery, floors and other surfaces are more easily ignited than the solid material they cover. When ignited, the result is a flash fire.

Dust Explosions

If the dust is stirred up into a cloud, and there is a source of ignition present, an explosion can occur. Even the simple act of turning on an electric light switch can ignite a cloud of combustible dust or flammable vapor.

Statistics are not available concerning dust explosions in home workshops; however, it is more likely that a home workshop would have a sawdust fire than a sawdust explosion. The difference lies only in degree; the greater the concentration and accumulation of combustible substances, the more possible a rapid fire becomes.

Various means can be employed to reduce the danger of sawdust fires in your work area. These include collection, elimination of ignition sources and proper venting. Good housekeeping (cleaning up sawdust, shavings and woodchips) is essential to prevent workshop fires.

Don't forget that metal dust due to grinding is also capable of catching fire. All fine dust should be cleaned up as soon as possible to reduce the chance of fire.

It is the same with all workshop

Home Workshop Safety

With inflation driving up the prices of home improvement and accessories, do-it-yourselfers are turning to their home workshops to make their own improvements, repairs, etc. Carelessness, and being unfamiliar with safety rules, often results in accidents. Underwriters Laboratories Inc. (UL), offers the following suggestions to keep in mind while working in one of the most hazardous areas of the home—the workshop.

- Never wear neck ties, jewelry or loose fitting clothing with baggy sleeves which can be entangled in power tools. A snug-fitting shop apron, safely tied in the back provides good protection against tool moving parts.

- Keep work-bench free of litter and floor clear of loose pieces of lumber, nails, etc.

- Store all combustible fluids such as solvents and thinners outdoors or in a low fire probability location. Store oily rags in enclosed metal containers, disposing of them soon and frequently.

- Keep a fully-charged UL, Listed Class B & C or an A,B,C multi-purpose fire extinguisher handy for flammable liquid and electrical fires.

- Keep hands away from moving saw blades, drill bits, router cutters, etc. Use a notched cutter to push wood work pieces the last few inches past the blades of an electric bench saw.

- Never remove the guards from tools—they are there to protect you. Follow the instruction manual for their use.

- Electrical supply cords of all power tools should terminate in a 3-pin grounding plug, which should be connected to a 3-terminal receptacle. Make certain that the ground terminal is really grounded, or have a qualified electrician determine this. When necessary, adapters should be provided for two-pin plugs, and the green-wire pigtail of the adapter securely fastened to the center screw supporting the receptacle box cover. Again, make certain that the receptacle box is properly grounded.

- Wear safety glasses or goggles.

- Look for the UL Listing Mark on all power tools. This indicates that the design of such equipment has been tested, and found to meet recognized safety requirements.

litter. If you're a seasoned handyman or just starting out, you already know work space is frequently at a premium. It is important that you conserve room and not waste what space you have. Therefore, avoid needless clutter.

Make a habit of cleaning your work area frequently in between the stages of your work project. Not only will you find working more pleasant and efficient, you'll also avert the fire and safety risks caused by sawdust, woodchips, shavings, scrap wood and stray nails.

The proper storing of flammable liquids, such as solvents, thinner, gasoline and oils, in low fire probability locations, is an important factor in fire safety. Flammable liquids should be kept in tightly closed metal containers. They should be used only where there is good ventilation, and away from possible ignition sources such as matches, pilot lights, sparks or hot surfaces.

—Wednesday, January 14, a glaucoma clinic at the Floyd County Health Department from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Any person age 35 and older may attend this clinic to be screened, free.

Project

Keep in mind that the vapors of these liquids are usually heavier than air and can travel a considerable distance along the floor. Oily rags should be stored in a metal container and disposed of as soon as possible to prevent spontaneous ignition.

Ignition Sources

While you're dealing with substances that fuel fires, watch for possible hazardous ignition sources. It is estimated that portable electric space heaters accounted for 228 injuries in 1979.

Home workshops are often located in poorly heated and under-ventilated basement, garage and attic areas. Plugging in a space heater to compensate only leads to life-threatening and property-damaging possibilities. Again, the dangers of sawdust and wood fires reach a critical level.

If your work area is too cool or drafty, think of alternative ways of warming up. If possible, relocate your workshop to another part of your home, or consider adding more insulation. Simplest of all, put on a snug-fitting sweater or sweatshirt. Space heaters and workshops are a dangerous combination.

If you've looked at the surgeon general's warning on cigarettes lately, you know they've been found to be dangerous to your health. The hazards of smoking are even greater in the home workshop. Your concentration on the work at hand makes it more than likely you'll forget the cigarette you lit only a moment ago. The burns on the average smoker's workbench attest to this.

Worse still is the likelihood that the cigarette will drop hot ashes onto nearby combustible materials. There may or may not be best places to smoke, but the home workshop is certainly one of the worst smoking areas.

Why not make your next project the designing, cutting and framing of a brightly painted "NO SMOKING" sign to hang over your workbench? It will be a constant reminder to you, your family and visiting friends that you make fire safety an important element in your workshop area, and will attest to the professional way you approach your work.

You can reduce the possibility of electrical fires by making sure power tool electrical supply cords which terminate in a 3-pin plug (one pin for grounding) are connected to a 3-terminal or grounding type receptacle. And be certain that the electrical outlet box is properly grounded. If necessary, have a qualified, licensed electrician check it out.

Since improperly maintained hot water heaters, furnaces, motors, or poorly functioning electric tools are potential sources for stray sparks, it is essential you monitor their correct operation and maintenance.

If you're not sure of your expertise, have things looked over by a professional. Doing-it-yourself is a good way to cut down on costs, but not if it risks the expense to life and property that carelessness and lack of sufficient know-how can cause.

Fire Extinguisher Recommended

Finally, don't overlook your home workshop's most important tool—an Underwriters Laboratories Inc. Listed fire extinguisher. Extinguishers are labeled A, B, and/or C according to the type of fire they can handle.

Class A fires involve ordinary combustibles such as paper, wood, drapes or upholstery. Class B fires occur with flammable liquids such as fuel oil, gasoline, paint, grease in a frying pan and solvents. Class C fires involve electrical equipment such as appliances, motors, TV sets, power tools and fuse boxes.

An extinguisher marked ABC that will fight all three types of fires is recommended for general home use. Having the appropriate extinguisher near at hand can provide you with a way to stop a fire in time. Equip your workshop with a smoke detector to alert you if a fire begins when you're away in another part of the house.

The startling numbers of injuries in home workshops needn't intimidate you.

To decrease your chances of becoming part of those statistics, just take time to carefully analyze and evaluate your workshop environment and your own working habits. Don't put it off; eliminate your fire and safety hazards now. Make safety your next home workshop project.

There's a big, big difference in our Interest on Checking.

It's called experience.

BANKS HAVE MORE CHECKING EXPERIENCE.

It seems that everybody is offering Interest on Checking—what's commonly referred to as a NOW account. Even places that were previously never permitted to offer checking accounts. Banks, however, have had checking accounts for years, so the switch to Interest on Checking becomes an easy one. Experience makes the transition simple.

Banks are usually more convenient, too. More locations. More drive-in facilities. More expertise in all the services that make it easier to handle all your financial affairs.

WE HAVE MORE INTEREST ON CHECKING EXPERIENCE THAN MOST BANKS.

Even before NOW accounts were officially permitted the first of this year, The Bank Josephine offered an account that was identical when it came to end benefits. Because we've been doing basically the same thing, we have more experience than most other banks. The mechanics aren't new to us. And that translates into less chance for error. A little thing? Not to us. Not when its your money....and your interest.

NOT EVERY BANK PAYS YOU INTEREST ON ALL THE MONEY IN YOUR CHECKING BALANCE.

The biggest benefit of an Interest on Checking Plan, or a NOW Account, is, of course, the interest you earn on the money that's in your checking account—currently 5¼%. But here again The Bank Josephine offers you the advantage. Unlike some banks, we pay interest on all your money—no matter what the balance. And our charges are based on a monthly average balance, instead of the costly minimum balances required by most financial institutions.

WE WANT TO MAKE A CHECKING ACCOUNT MORE THAN JUST A PLACE TO KEEP YOUR MONEY.

Besides our Interest on Checking Plan, we also have our Regular Checking Plan, which gives you checking free of a monthly service charge no matter how many checks you write—and just requires a $300 average balance.

Pick the plan that suits you best. Then drop by any of our convenient locations, and we'll fill in all the details. After all, we have your "best interests" at heart!

31st Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Estill Ousley, of Water Gap, were given a surprise anniversary party by their children Christmas Eve. Those attending were Roy and Charlene Ousley and children, Jennifer, Vicky and Roy Michael; Avery and Jane Goble and Jimmy; John and Ada Combs and John Paul; Chuck and Joan Reynolds and Amy; and Kay Ousley. Other friends and relatives also attended.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that: Crest Coal company, Box 434, Salyersville, Ky., 41465 intends to file an application for the surface disturbance mining of approximately 137 acres located south of Foraker in Magoffin county. The proposed operation is approximately .5 miles southwest of State Route 30's junction with 1397, and located west of Cranes Nest Branch, latitude 37d. 38' 30", longitude 83d. 09' 00". The surface of the area to be mined is owned by: Robert Montgomer, Marvin, Earl, & Norma Craft, Chester Howard, Lester Arnett, Dayton Arnett, James Clemons. A brief description of the kind of mining activity proposed is: Top Removal, Area Method & Contour Strip with Hollow Fills. The application will be filed at the Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement Prestonsburg Area Office, North Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653.

Persons wishing to file written objections and/or request a formal administrative hearing in regard to the above described surface mine should notify the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection within 30 days of the date of this notice. A copy of the newspaper clipping must be attached to the written objection. The objection or request for a hearing will reference application number 077-0083. Such objection or request must be in accordance with KRS 224.081 (2), and must be forwarded to the Director of Permits, Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

2. Notice is hereby provided pursuant to 30 CFR 715.13 (d) (10) and KRS 350 that the proposed post mining land use does not constitute a change from the pre-mining land use. Public comment regarding a proposed change in land use may be submitted to the address listed above.

Social Security Taxes Rise

The social security tax deducted from workers' paychecks will be higher this year than last, Jim Kelly, Social Security district director for the Big Sandy area, said recently. This is due, first of all, Kelly said, to the fact that the tax rate increases from 6.13 percent for 1980 to 6.65 percent for 1981. In addition, the wage base, the maximum amount of annual earnings on which social security taxes are paid, increases to $29,700 for 1981 from $25,900, the 1980 figure. These increases are the result of legislation enacted in 1977 to insure that the Social Security system remains financially stable.

The increases will not be substantial, for most workers, Kelly said. For example, a worker earning about $10,000 in both 1980 and 1981 will pay about $1 more a week in social security taxes. Workers whose earnings amount to about $25,900 for both years will pay about $2.59 more a week in 1981 than in 1980.

Workers earning more than $25,900 in 1981 will see a greater increase in total social security taxes for the year. A worker earning $29,700 or more in both years will pay more in social security tax for 1981 than for 1980.

More information about social security benefits and taxes can be obtained at the Area Social Security Office, located on U. S. 23 between Paintsville and Prestonsburg. The toll-free number is listed in the local telephone directory under "U. S. Government."

Latter Day Saints To Form New Unit

A meeting scheduled January 11 in the chapel across from Our Lady of the Way hospital, Martin at 10 a.m., will organize the Martin, Boldman, Hazard and Paintsville branches of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints into the Martin-Kentucky district.

The area, which is presently under the supervision of the Lexington Stake, will be under the supervision of the Louisville-Kentucky Mission after its organization as a district.

The Lexington Stake presidency, Terrell Lassiter, Roger W. Wells and Paul Nichols, and Mission President Calvin Smoot, and Mrs. Smoot will be present at the meeting to effect the organization and transfer responsibility.

All members of the church from the four designated areas are urged to attend, as well as all friends and interested persons. Elder E. Pete Grigsby, Jr., president of the Martin Branch, is in charge of local arrangements.

Forest on north-facing slopes in Kentucky usually contain yellow poplar, sugar maple, American beech, northern red oak, hickory and white oak trees.

Subscription Rates Per Year

In Floyd County, $8.00

H&R BLOCK TAX TEST

Question No. 4

Medicare 'B' payments made by persons receiving Social Security benefits are deductible.

True  False

For older persons on a fixed income, H&R Block has the right answer to this and other questions regarding special tax credits and deductions for those taxpayers. If you itemize, the answer is TRUE. Because these payments are simply withheld from benefit checks during the year, they are often overlooked at tax time.

Rookie center adjusts to pro ball

New York - In a recent Boston victory vs. Chicago, rookie Kevin McHale failed to block a shot. That might not be news normally, but in the case of the former University of Minnesota standout the failure to block at least one shot in a game is the exception rather than the rule.

McHale, the third choice overall in last June's draft, has at least one blocked shot in 25 of his first 30 pro games and, as a result, he's the only rookie among the League leaders in that category.

But McHale's feat is more remarkable when you consider that he's a part-time player, averaging just 19 minutes per game, while being utilized behind Celtics' forwards Larry Bird and Cedric Maxwell. The Celtics, who have never had a player among the leaders in blocked shots since that became an official League statistic in 1972-73, now have two since center Robert Parrish is third with a 2.93 mark.

Surprising

Teammate Rick Robey has been having a first hand look at McHale's efforts all season. "He's surprising a lot of people," explains Robey. "Not too many people think he can do it, and then he goes out there and snags a couple back, and all of a sudden they change their minds. He's one of the best I've seen as far as being able to go up and get it."

"He's a real good basketball player who's sneaking up on people because they don't believe he can do what he's been doing," says Celtics' president Red Auerbach. "He's certainly the best rookie shot-blocker we've had since Bill Russell. He's fundamentally sound which means he's more than a shot blocker."

Bird is another who admires McHale's style. "He's got great ability to go up, get the shot and keep it in play," says Larry. "As his career goes on I think he's just going to get better and better."

"He's the best rookie I've seen," says Dallas Mavericks coach Dick Motta. "He could start for most teams."

J.R.'s attention to Lucy's future sister-in-law is almost enough to divert his intention to getting Bobby's job as head of Ewing Oil, but he is quick to capitalize on his brother's rash actions, on the first part of a two-part episode, on 'Dallas,' FRIDAY, JANUARY 16 on CBS-TV. Part two will be broadcast Friday, January 23.

Also happening in this episode: Mitch's sister and mother arrive for the upcoming wedding and J.R. takes an immediate interest in the new arrivals, which worries Sue Ellen. Bobby (Patrick Duffy, left) finds himself in a tough position after he enters into an oil drilling agreement which will put the company back on good terms with the cartel, even though he knows that Jock (Jim Davis, right) has already invested its capital in land development.

A moth is not attracted to light, per se. Its nervous system is very sensitive to illumination. So when light strikes one side of the moth, its wing movements are reduced on that side as a reflex reaction.

ANNOUNCES A NEW NAME FOR TOWN & COUNTRY FORD

OWNERSHIP REMAINS THE SAME ONLY A CHANGE IN NAME!!

Please read why:

Just when you were getting used to calling the Ford dealership Town & Country Ford, Lincoln, Mercury, here I go and change it again. Let me explain:

When I purchased the dealership some time ago, it was called B & D Motor Company. I held a meeting with my managers and advertising agent and we all agreed on the new name Town & Country. But since our plans were and are to serve the entire Eastern Kentucky market from our Floyd County location, the actual name was Eastern Kentucky Town & Country Ford, Lincoln, Mercury. However, we simply used the trade name of Town & Country Ford, Lincoln, Mercury.

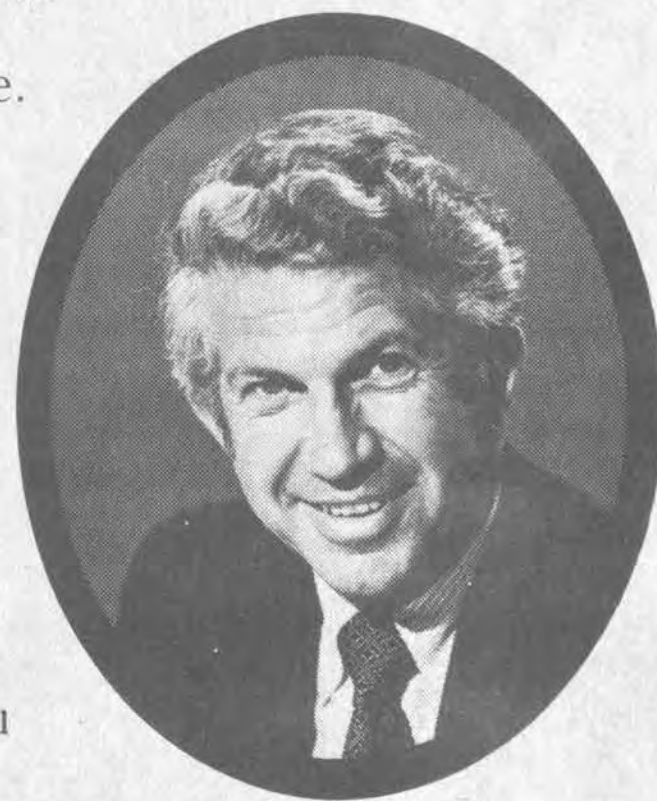

But sometimes mistakes are made. A few months ago I discovered that a Ford dealer in Louisville was also using the name Town & Country Ford. Obviously this had been overlooked when we began to use the name.

So to avoid any confusion and to give our dealership its own identity I'm changing the name from Town & Country Ford, Lincoln, Mercury to Ol' Don Jacobs Ford, Lincoln, Mercury. I'm also adding my name to our Eastern Kentucky Honda dealership. It will now be known as Ol' Don Jacobs Eastern Kentucky Honda.

Now I guess people put their names on their businesses for a lot of different reasons. I've added my name to these two dealerships to let you know that I will be personally directing the activities of each one. I want these two automobile dealerships to be an asset to the Floyd County and Eastern Kentucky area. We are working hard to make them a good place for you to do business and a good place for our employees to work. I am pleased and excited to place my name and reputation on the line to see that they are.

I have great pride in the reputation we have built at Ol' Don Jacobs Oldsmobile/Honda in Lexington. Our customers and friends know that we are fair, honest and interested in the satisfaction of each customer. Ol' Don Jacobs Ford, Lincoln, Mercury and Ol' Don Jacobs Eastern Kentucky Honda will be run the same way. When you visit you'll notice the difference. You'll sense a new attitude of helpfulness and appreciation for your business. Should you have a problem we'll tend to it fast and with a smile. As our customer you're the most important asset we have and we intend to treat you like the very special person you are.

I appreciate your past patronage and am grateful for the opportunity of being a part of this fine community and look forward to providing you with the best automobile service and the most helpful sales staff you'll find anywhere.

Spelling Champion

Fourteen grade-schoolers competed here recently in the annual county spelling bee conducted by the Kentucky Education Association, top honors going to Jeannie Hale (pictured), an 8th-grader at Martin Elementary School.

The 14, all of whom had won spelling bees at their own schools, were competing for a chance to go on to the district-wide competition at Morehead in March, and the statewide spell-off in Louisville, scheduled for April 10.

The daughter of Hershel and Marena Hale, of Martin, Jeannie emerged as winner when Maytown 8th-grader Gwen Hoover tripped on the notorious "ie" in "niece."

Previously eliminated were Amanda Skeens, 8th grade, Bonanza (who misspelled "skis"); Mark Tussey, 8th, Allen ("flower"); Beverly Marstin, 6th, Prater Creek ("neighborhood"); Sherry Johnson, 8th, Prestonsburg ("unwrap"); Mark Frasure, 8th, Harold ("toboggan"); Michele Stephens, 8th, Garrett ("stationery"); Linda Hall, 7th, McDowell ("cities"); Tammy Johnson, 5th, Betsy Layne ("safety"); Claude Martin, 5th, John M. Stumbo ("officer"); Loretta Jarrell, 8th, Home Branch ("hospital"); Michael Rosenberg, 5th, Clark ("receive"); and Beverly DeRossett, 8th, Auxier ("separate").

Old Christmas To Be Observed At State Park Here, Jan. 11

"Some of the most vivid stories and traditions which have lingered in the hills are woven around the centuries-old custom of 'Old Christmas,'" writes Paul Neil Allen, of Floyd county, in the centennial edition of "Wind" Magazine. "This observance, which lives mainly in the memory of older residents of the mountains, finds its origin in the days before the present-day Gregorian calendar was officially accepted by Great Britain, and consequently, the American colonies in 1752.

"Prior to this date," continues Allen, "the older Julian Calendar, adopted in the year 46 B.C., was followed and according to this chronology Christmas Day fell on Jan. 6. Many early American settlers, especially those in the Southern mountains who had sought the refuge of the hills to escape such changes, clung to the older calendar reckoning. Even though the Appalachian people over the years began to conform to the familiar Dec. 25 date, the older Christmas still remained vital in their memories."

New Year 1981 will find mountain people and their friends from all parts of Kentucky and the Tri-State area gathering once again at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Resort Park, to observe Old Christmas. Each year the Sunday nearest the Jan. 6 date is set as the gathering time. This year, Old Christmas at Jenny Wiley falls on Jan. 11. Activities begin at 2 p.m.

"Oh, I do hope lots of people come this year," says Dame Edith Fitzpatrick James, of Prestonsburg. She revived the custom of Old Christmas in the Kentucky Highlands during the Depression years.

During the 1930s Mrs. James was asked to provide a program in a recreation project. She was ill on Dec. 25 and the program was cancelled. She then rescheduled the event for Jan. 6 as an Old Christmas observance.

This Jan. 11 at May Lodge, musicians will play the banjo, fiddle, mandolin, guitar and other instruments to provide traditional carols. Entertainers like Allen, Dave Sizemore and Buddy Ratcliff will enliven the occasion with a number of mountain and Old Kentucky tunes as a bonus. A wassail bowl of mulled cider and a table laden with traditional sweetcakes has been planned by Kathryn and Chalmer Frazier.

"It's like a big old-time play party," adds Mrs. James.

A part of the tradition of Old Christmas on Jan. 6 is that all animals "would kneel in reverence at midnight on Old Christmas and mystically acquire the power of speech. We children would be determined to see these wonders, but naturally we always fell asleep," Mrs. James says.

Airman Johnson Completes Basic Training in Texas

Airman Amos W. Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Johnson, of Teaberry, has been assigned to Keesler Air Force Base, Miss., after completing Air Force basic training at Lackland AFB, Texas.

The airman will now receive specialized instruction in the administration field.

LOWEST U.S. TEMPERATURE

The lowest temperature ever recorded in the U.S., according to the National Wildlife Federation's bimonthly, was minus 79.8 degrees F., at Prospect Creek, Alaska, on January 23, 1971, and the heaviest snowfall was 86 feet at Rainier Paradise Ranger Station during the same winter. That's about as deep as an eight-story building is tall.

Weedman Honored

Detective Don K. Weedman, of Banner, has been awarded the Kentucky State Police Guthrie Crowe Medal for injuries he received while performing his official duties.

The medal was presented by Gov. John Y. Brown Jr. during formal decoration ceremonies held Dec. 18 in Frankfort.

Weedman was wounded Sept. 16 when he and other state police officers were attempting to disarm and take into custody a man who had barricaded himself and his two children in a Pike county house. The man allegedly had shot his wife. While he was trying to pinpoint the man's location in the house, Weedman was shot and severely wounded in the mouth.

A native of Breckinridge in Harrison county, Weedman has been assigned to the Pikeville post since May, 1975. His previous decorations include a citation for bravery in 1978 and three commendations. He was a nominee for Trooper of the Year in 1977.

RECEIVES PARACHUTIST BADGE IN TRAINING

Spec. 4 Danny C. Sizemore, whose wife, Delorse, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ashland Scott, of Route 1, Prestonsburg, recently received a parachutist badge upon completion of the three-week airborne course at the U.S. Army Infantry School, Fort Benning, Georgia.

What is a NOW-checking account? A NOW-checking account is simply a checking account that earns interest.

When will NOW accounts be available? NOW-checking accounts are effective by law December 31, 1980. NOW-checking accounts will be available at United Federal as of January 2, 1981.

Who qualifies? Only individuals, sole proprietorships, or a non-profit corporation qualifies by law to earn interest on their checking accounts.

How to qualify for a NOW-checking account at United Federal? All you have to do is maintain a balance in your NOW-checking account at United Federal of at least $300.00 and we will pay you interest at the annual rate of 5.25% compounded daily. If your account drops below the minimum balance, you will be charged a $5 service charge for that month only and receive no interest.

Why you should have your Now-checking account at United Federal? There are many reasons why, but just to mention a few:

1. A low minimum balance.
2. An itemized monthly statement sent to you.
3. Write as many checks per month as you wish, with no additional charges.
4. We pay the maximum interest rate allowed by law.

For more information about NOW-checking accounts, savings accounts, or any other savings and loan service, stop by any of our offices and talk with our staff. We want you to know more about your financial opportunities. The more you know, the more likely you are to have your savings and NOW-checking accounts with us.

Help on Fuel Bills Slated In All Counties of State

Families in need of help with their winter fuel bills are being urged by officials of the Human Resources Department to apply promptly for assistance. So great is the need for assistance in Kentucky, the $24 million available here may be used up very quickly, they say.

(Starting January 5, applications will be taken daily at the Bureau for Social Insurance Office, on North Lake Drive. During January only, applications will also be taken, between 9 and 3:30, at the Archer Senior Citizen's Center on Tuesdays; at the Martin Senior Citizen's Center, on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays; and at the Wheelwright Senior Citizens' Center, on Thursdays.)

"The money allocated to the state by the federal government will help a lot of people, but it's enough to help only about one-third of those who may be eligible," said William L. Huffman, the department's social insurance commissioner. "We encourage those most in need to help with winter heating bills to apply as early as they can."

Eligibility for the program is based on family size and income. A one-person household must have a monthly income of $395 or less to be eligible. A household of two must make less than $550 a month; a three-member household must have a maximum income of $602 per month; a family of four, $653 a month; a five-person household, $704; a family of six or more, $755 maximum monthly income. A household may have no more than $5,000 in liquid resources to be eligible for Home Energy Assistance Program benefits, which vary according to income and fuel type, said Huffman.

"People who meet the income

guidelines do not have to wait until they get behind in their fuel payments and face utility cut-off to apply," he said. "This program is not tied to a crisis situation."

Three percent of the program's funds, or $720,000, has been set aside for emergency assistance and will be available to low-income families facing fuel cut-off after regular program funds are exhausted. Emergency payments of $200 or less will be paid only to households that have not received benefits through the regular program.

"We expect the emergency funds to be used up quickly, too," said Huffman.

Huffman advised people with questions about the program or their eligibility to call the Bureau for Social Insurance office in the counties where they live. A recent news release from Washington gave a Louisville phone number for program information and has led to confusion in some areas of the state, said Huffman.

"There is no need to call long-distance to Louisville or Frankfort to get answers," he said. "However, anyone having a problem reaching the appropriate social insurance office can tell the Department for Human Resources ombudsman using the toll-free number."

The number is 1-800-372-2973.

He said applicants for program benefits can get the fastest service by taking the necessary information to the local Social Insurance office or temporary application site. He recommends taking the most recent heating bill, social security numbers of everyone in the household and proof of the household's income (check stubs, benefit checks, award letters, direct deposit slips, etc.).

People unable to apply in person may have someone apply for them, Huffman said.

Turner Cities Moves For Railway Safety

Kentucky has a long way to go in solving all its rail safety problems, Railroad Commissioner Jimmy Turner said recently, but added that he is proud that so many of these problems have been corrected since he has been in office.

Besides the repair of railroad tracks, the cleaning of debris along the tracks, and the settling of cases pertaining to the removal of station agencies and depot buildings, he pointed out that hazardous conditions at certain railroad crossings have been corrected.

Signal lights have been installed at the intersection of Route 80 and KY 7 at Lackey. The crossing on Route 122, below the McDowell High School, is now in the process of receiving signals. Commissioner Turner, said he is now making arrangements to meet with both railroad and highway authorities in Frankfort to request signal lights at the crossing on new KY 80 at Martin. Turner said he will take with him a petition from citizens of Martin, citing the need for signal lights at the crossing.

Dedication ceremonies for Dr. J. H. Allen Central High School were held between the Allen Central-Wolfe County basketball game, recently. A portrait of Dr. Allen was presented to Allen Central High School principal, J. O. Dingus by Mr. Lowell Martin on behalf of Dr. Allen's children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren.

Mr. Martin talked to the audience about Dr. Allen's history. He was a graduate of the University of Louisville Medical School and was a practicing physician in Floyd county for 61 years. He was a "house call doctor" in the Langley area and was on the staff of the Beaver Valley Hospital at Martin.

Dr. Allen had four children, George, Claude, Peggy Jo, and Harriett. "Doc" Allen was a member of the Board of Education for 33 years. When he retired from the Board of Education his colleagues said he had contributed a tremendous amount to education in the area and had helped a great deal to develop the Floyd county system.

Alaskan "Job Information Kits"

Attorney General Steve Beshear says Kentuckians should be alert to possible misinformation being distributed concerning Alaskan Pipeline construction jobs. Several neighboring states have reported advertisements selling "job information kits" which contain erroneous information concerning job availability.

According to Beshear, advertisements announcing employment positions with the Northwest Alaskan Pipeline Co. have been the most common.

Beshear says the ads are usually intended to sell information that will enable a person to land a "high-paying job." Beshear says persons desiring work on the Alaskan Highway Pipeline Project should not send money for such job information kits.

"If you are asked to pay to apply for the job, be on the alert," says Beshear. Northwest Alaskan Pipeline Co. has published notices stating that the persons advertising the "job information kits" are in no way connected with the company.

Officials of the Northwest Alaskan Pipeline Co. say that under the current schedule hiring for labor positions will not begin until 1982. The company has notified Beshear that hiring will be done through execution contractors, who will be announced at the appropriate time.

Officials of Northwest Alaskan Pipeline stress the fact the legitimate announcements concerning the execution contractors, who will perform field construction and hiring practices, will be made through "The Alaskan Newswire" newsletter publication and press release, and in trade or labor organization journals. Persons seeking pipeline jobs should apply at that time directly to the selected contractors, Beshear says.

Free information concerning employment procedures with the Alaskan pipeline is available from Alaska's Department of Labor. The address is P. O. Box 1149, Juneau, Alaska 99881.

Achievement of Ephraim McDowell Ky. Surgeon, Recreated on KET

Kentucky surgeon Ephraim McDowell did not receive a formal degree in medicine until long after he had achieved surgical advances unknown before his time. He performed the world's first successful abdominal surgery, the removal of an ovarian tumor, in Danville, in 1809. The story of that operation is dramatized in the 90-minute drama, "Ephraim McDowell's Kentucky Ride," Wednesday, January 14 at 9 p.m. on KET.

The program re-creates the actual events surrounding McDowell's treatment of courageous frontierswoman Jane Todd Crawford and stars Paul Guilfoyle as McDowell and Elizabeth Perry as Crawford.

Ephraim McDowell was a skilled surgeon who practiced in the Kentucky frontier during the late 18th and early 19th centuries. His anatomical knowledge gained through study in Europe and his own illegal and secret dissections of cadavers, set him apart from the other doctors of his time. Surgery, at that time, was considered little different from butchery; anesthesia was unknown; and untrained doctors blamed unknown diseases on various "humors" and prescribed treatments that as often as not did more harm than good.

"Ephraim McDowell's Kentucky Ride" re-creates this setting—in which McDowell's success was little short of miraculous. McDowell's patient, Jane Todd Crawford, of Greensburg, was suffering from an ovarian tumor so large that other doctors had diagnosed pregnancy. Having borne five children, the patient protested, though in vain, that she was not expecting a child.

Crawford finally sent for McDowell, who rode sixty miles on horseback to her cabin. When he diagnosed the tumor, she begged him to remove it. McDowell was reluctant to perform such radical surgery; but the courage and insistence of his patient, who traveled to his home for the operation, persuaded him to make the attempt. Her courage and her faith in McDowell's ability were rewarded, and she returned home to live into her 80s—outliving, in fact, both her doctor and her husband.

Following the program, a short discussion segment explores the experience of performing surgery.

"Ephraim McDowell's Kentucky Ride" is presented on KET by WGBH, Boston.

Waste Management Plan To Be Aired

A proposed five-year plan for the management of all types of waste in Kentucky will be presented for public review and comment at meetings in Frankfort, Prestonsburg and Hopkinsville next week.

Jackie Swigart, secretary of the state Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, said the plan outlines methods now used in the treatment, storage, transportation and disposal of waste and recommendations for improved waste services.

The types of waste covered in the plan, which was prepared by the department's division of hazardous material and waste management, are hazardous, non-hazardous, residual waste from pollution-control facilities or industrial processes, and agricultural wastes.

At the meetings, the content of the plan will be described by staff members from the division and the public will be able to present oral or written comments. Additional written comments on the plan, which is available for public inspection at the division's Frankfort and regional offices, will be accepted through Jan. 15.

Division Director Roger Blair said a summary and response to all comments on the plan will be prepared at the end of the public comment period. These comments will be taken into account in preparation of the final plan, which must be submitted to the federal Environmental Protection Agency by Jan. 29, he said.

Department officials said preparation of the five-year plan was required under the 1976 federal Resource Conservation and Recovery Act. They said private citizens, industry representatives and environmental groups should take advantage of the opportunity to voice their opinions and make recommendations on the plan.

The meeting here is set for Jan. 7 at 7 p.m. in the Pike Building at Prestonsburg Community College.

Reynolds Renamed To Advisory Body

W. J. "Bill" Reynolds, of Allen, has been reappointed by Gov. John Y. Brown to the Kentucky Geological Survey Advisory Board.

Also reappointed are J. Edward Parker and David Bayer, both of Lexington, and John G. Donan Sr., of Madisonville. Their terms expire December 1983.

TO THE PEOPLE OF FLOYD COUNTY

I am Roger Webb, and I would like to take this opportunity to announce my candidacy for Sheriff of Floyd County.

My wife Pauline, daughter Elaine, and I live at Emma. I am a former trooper with the Kentucky State Police, and I have worked with the City Police Department of Prestonsburg. I have attended Eastern Kentucky University, working toward a degree in law enforcement. I am presently employed as a sales representative with a Dupont Explosive Distributor.

I am well aware of, and very concerned about, the problems that confront us Floyd Countians. Please let me help make Floyd County a better place in which to live, and the Sheriff's Dept. one we can be proud of.

Of Indian Bill, Kelly's Kettles & Lulbegrud

Fillers can be anything from what goes in pillows or warm comforters for winter beds to stuffing for the holiday bird.

Fillers also can be those prized-by-editors shorties that work wonders in filling out a column in a newspaper or a magazine or a spot on radio. It's also a great conversation piece wherever two or more people gather.

In Owensboro a sassafras tree has grown to more than 100 feet. It is said to be the largest of its kind in the nation. That's a filler.

At Christmas in the Big Sandy area, entire families gathered at boat landings to watch as boxes holding toys and other gifts were unloaded.

In old days families in eastern Kentucky sometimes made day-long hikes into the gorge and canyon country to gather greens for decorating home, church and country school.

Travelers inland used to start in Mason county, and follow the Buffalo Trace that leads south to Alabama. In 1816 the trail became the National Road and was known for a time as Smith's Wagon Road.

Cassius Clay of stately White Hall in Madison County was Kentucky's famous abolitionist.

In 1669 the Ohio River was "discovered" by a group searching for a waterway to the Orient.

Holly, ivy, various kinds of pine and cedar, nuts, popcorn, red grains of corn, cornshucks, dried weeds and flowers, and honeysuckle all have been used for holiday decor. In the Kentucky mountains children saved red corn grains to string like cranberries for tree trimming.

Robert Letcher, governor of Kentucky 1840-44, proclaimed the first state Thanksgiving in 1844.

On Dec. 24, 1862, Morgan's Raiders camped near Glasgow and stopped at a tavern to celebrate the holidays. A patrol of the second Michigan Cavalry USA stopped at the tavern to celebrate also. It wasn't a major battle, but the anticipated celebration never occurred.

On South Broadway in Lexington pioneers set the starting point for the first Kentucky race track in 1780. Rather than the familiar oval, the race path extended one quarter mile.

Spring Fort in Jefferson county was built before 1782.

Theodore O'Hara who wrote a famous poem, "The Bivouac of the Dead," was born in Danville.

Drennon Springs in Henry county was used by Indians as a healing-water source.

William Hardin was called Indian Bill. He was the founder of Hardinsburg and built Hardin's Fort in Breckinridge county in 1780.

The Choctaw Indian Academy in Scott county was established as the first school for sons of Indian chiefs. Future leaders of many tribes received education at the school.

Lulbegrud Creek on the Powell-Clark county line was used as winter camp by Daniel and Squire Boone.

Jeptha's Knob, a cryptovolcanic structure, in Shelby County, is 1,163 feet above sea level.

The Order of Trappist-Cistercians, noted for prayer, labor and silence, was founded in France in 1098 and established in Nelson county in 1848.

Saint Rose Priory in Washington county was founded in 1806.

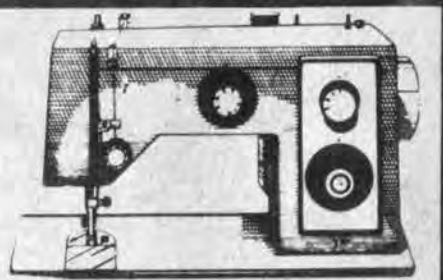

In Lyon county is a "Kelly Kettle," one of many made by William Kelly. In 1851 Kelly discovered the steel manufacturer known as Bessemer. Bessemer, an Englishman, got a patent on the process in 1855 and 1856, but the U.S. awarded rightful patent to Kelly. Kelly's kettles were used throughout the South to make sugar.

January, Blood Donor Month in Kentucky

Governor John Y. Brown has proclaimed January as "Volunteer Blood Donor Month" in Kentucky. The need for voluntarily donated blood exists throughout the year for the health and well-being of all Kentuckians.

The Prestonsburg Station of the Central Kentucky Blood Center depends on willing donors to provide an adequate blood supply for all Floyd countians. All residents of the county are asked to donate blood during National Blood Donor Month on the second floor of the Municipal Building, here, Tuesdays from 10 to 6, Thursdays from noon until 8 and Saturdays, 9 to 5.

Mother Teresa Topic Of KET Special

Love, caring and dedication are all part of "The World of Mother Teresa," a one-hour documentary airing on KET on Monday, January 12 at 10:00 p.m.

Narrated by acclaimed talk show hostess Joyce Davidson Susskind, the documentary profiles the 1979 Nobel Peace Prize winner Mother Teresa of Calcutta and takes a closeup look at Mother Teresa's ministry from such remote Indian villages as Maria Poly to industrial cities as Titagarh. Included in the special is a one-on-one conversation between Mother Teresa and Susskind in which the 70-year-old nun talks candidly about herself and her work.

Mother Teresa, dubbed "the saint of the gutters" and a "benevolent coach," joined the Irish Sisters of Loreto at age 18 and for twenty years taught at a school for affluent Indian girls. Her dream was to leave her comfortable cloister and establish an order of nuns devoted to helping the diseased and dying of India's slums. In 1948 she gained the reluctant permission from the Vatican to follow her dream and in 1950 the Missionaries of charity was formally approved and instituted in Calcutta.

Today the order runs schools, hospitals, youth centers and orphanages in 50 Indian cities and 36 countries around the world, from the Bronx, New York, to New Guinea.

In addition to receiving the Nobel Peace Prize, Mother Teresa was presented with India's highest honor, the Jewel of India, for her tireless and selfless work with the lonely, the sick, the abandoned and the dying.

Written, produced and directed by Emmy award-winner Ann Petrie, "The World of Mother Teresa," is a WQED/Pittsburg preentation.

Hearing May Settle Old-Style Mine Fate

"It will be a safe, neat and clean operation," Thomas Kuss, half-owner and vice-president of the Old Style Mining Company, said at a hearing Tuesday on the company's application for a permit to operate a pony mine on KY 1428 near the Ball Alley curve here.

The hearing, conducted before an officer of the state Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, followed complaints by Prestonsburg city officials that the operation of the mine would be detrimental to the public interest.

Witnesses for the city, including City Manager David Evans, Councilman Tom Rose, and Joyce Everly, who lives near the proposed mine site, argued that a 1978 attempt by Co-Op Mining Company to re-open the deep mine there was unsightly, constituted a public safety hazard, and caused serious traffic congestion.

Albert A. Burchett, an attorney for Old Style Mining, protested that the proposed operation would differ substantially from the former operation, since it involves a different management and method of extraction. Co-Op Mining had sought to mine the site by conventional mechanical methods.

Opponents of the mining proposal argued, however, that Donald L. "Dootney" Horn, as consultant to Co-Op and now president of Old Style Mining, is involved in both projects, and that traffic hazards associated with the previous operation could be expected to continue if the mine is re-opened.

Appearing for Old Style Mining, Horn blamed a contractor for the problems associated with the former attempt to mine at the site. No more earth needs to be removed from a (See Story No. 2, Page 4)

PATCHES OF ICE, clear water, and exposed sand bars along the Big Sandy underscore the unusual dryness of the season, a continuation of similar weather which resulted in devastating fall forest fires and, even earlier, record heat and extended drought during the summer.

Ky. W. Va. Plans Drilling To Cost Over $10 Million

Deregulation of oil and natural gas prices has resulted in an upsurge of drilling for either or both fuels, but little will be done in Floyd county this year, it was indicated this week by industry spokesman.

Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company has budgeted for 1981 perhaps the most pretentious drilling program of the lot, but of the 60-61 wells planned, only one or two will be located in this county.

Columbia Gas has five new wells planned for the year—all in Pike county, none in Floyd, Knott or Johnson.

Inland Gas Company plans most of its new development in the Buckhorn-Quicksand areas of Perry and Breathitt counties. None in Floyd.

Besides its $10,800,000 drilling program, Kentucky West Virginia plans the laying this year of approximately 40 miles of new and replacement lines, a venture which will cost an additional $4.7 million.

This company has eliminated all of its old-style cable drilling rigs and (See Story No. 1, Page 4)

Just to show you that times have changed, and not necessarily for the better, let it go into the record that not a new calendar had been sent us as of Monday morning.

THE VERDICT

This is apropos of nothing, but the story survives. This drunk went into a museum where fish of all stripes and sizes adorned the walls. His bleary gaze finally focused on a particularly large specimen. The brow wrinkled. He struggled for expression, finally set himself and declared:

"The man that caught that fish is a danged liar!"

Staunch Republican though he is, Lenna Moore may have a valid gripe about the decision to require formal attire at that Jan. 20 Event. He's afraid he'll not be able to get his tux out of hock.

Light Docket Faces Circuit Court Session

When circuit court began its new term here Monday morning, its opening was not accompanied by the usual empanelling of a new grand jury. Under the new court schedule the next grand jury will convene Feb. 2.

The court docket is not heavy, and it was further lightened by pleas of guilty by two defendants—one entered last week, the second on opening day of the term. Wendell Hamilton entered guilty pleas last week to two burglary charges, and Monday the same plea was made by Chet Hall, accused in separate counts of stealing an auto and an ambulance. Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen recommended two two-year pen terms to run consecutively for both defendants. Sentence will be passed later by Circuit Judge Hollie Conley.

The only homicide case awaiting trial is that of Frankie Gibson, of Garrett, who is accused of the slaying of his brother, Grover. The arson charge against Tommy Cisco is docketed for later this month.

One circuit court case that was thought disposed of has been returned for a new round of court procedure.

Lakes, Streams Low As Drouth Yet Unbroken

Dewey Lake is holding steady at winter pool, but the Big Sandy river into which it feeds and almost all other lakes and streams in Kentucky are lower than usual as the result of a drought which began in October and continues into the new year.

The Big Sandy "looks like July, except it's frozen over," one observer commented. Its low stage and lack of normal strong current has permitted an early freeze-over.

Herrington Lake is one of the state impoundments hardest hit. Only one dock, Gwinn Island's, has enough water for boat launching.

The lake at Jenkins which served as the water reservoir for the town was so dry a week ago that the town was forced to pipe water from another source.

The last month when the rainfall was normal or above in this county was August when 7.4 inches were recorded by the rain gauge monitored by Tom Westfall at Ivel. September was down to only 3.7 inches. Then only .98 of an inch of rain fell in October. November precipitation was 3.75 inches, and December turned drier with a low 1.37 inches, with neither rain or snow helping the situation.

And the forecast for January—for what is worth—is, less precipitation but colder than normal.

Grants Workshop Slated Here, Jan. 12

The Kentucky Department of Energy will begin workshops this week for persons interested in applying to the federal Appropriate Technology Small Grants Program.

The workshop for the eastern area of the state will be held Jan. 12 in Prestonsburg.

The statewide workshops will assist applicants in preparing their proposals for grants of up to $50,000 for the development or demonstration of innovative energy-saving products and technologies. The federal Department of Energy program is open to individuals, local non-profit organizations and institutions, state and local agencies, Indian tribes, and small businesses.

For more information, call the Department of Energy's Division of Alternate Energy toll-free at (800) 432-9014.

Fireman Seriously Hurt In Fall From Truck

Ricky Davis, of the Prestonsburg Fire Department, was seriously injured last Friday afternoon when he lost his balance and fell from a fire truck onto the pavement of Highland Avenue. He was flown by helicopter from Highlands Medical Center to Cabell-Huntington Hospital, Huntington, W. Va., where he remained unconscious for several days. His condition was reported Tuesday as improved, and, barring complications, his recovery is expected.

Old Christmas Set Sunday at May Lodge

The observance of "Old Christmas," which has become an annual event in the Prestonsburg area and is included as part of the Kentucky Highlands Folk Festival, will be held Sunday afternoon at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, beginning at 2 o'clock. Traditional string band music and folk dancing by a number of local groups, recitations and refreshments will be featured at this observance which is free to the public.

Belying Slump Reports . . .

New Buildings Going Up

New construction may be slow, and the economy "down," but you can't prove it by driving along U. S. 23 through Prestonsburg.

Four new businesses, three restaurants and a combination self-service filling station-grocery, are in various stages of construction here, easing, to a certain degree, oft-heard concerns that Prestonsburg may be lagging behind its sister Big Sandy county seats of Paintsville and Pikeville in commercial development.

Work on Ashland Petroleum Company's Save Mart Store here, located on the former site of Wise Restaurant, is near complete and the combination grocery-gas station, one of more than 100 in the Save-Mart chain, has begun operation of its gasoline sales. Greg W. Hencye, a native of Ashland, will manage the store which will operate 24 hours a day and employ a staff of 20. General contractor on the job is Pack Construction, of Morehead.

Scheduled to open within the next few weeks on adjoining lots at the mouth of May's Branch are two popular "chain" restaurants, Pizza Hut and Wendy's.

The brick veneer and frame Pizza Hut structure, which includes 2,200 square feet and provides a seating capacity of 110, represents the 14th restaurant for the Lexington Pizza Hut franchise which operates in a number of south-central and eastern counties in the state. Pizza Hut, currently the No. 1 pizza restaurant chain internationally, bought the franchise here five years ago, according to Don Lucas, regional director for Pizza Hut. Lucas said the restaurant should open "toward the end of January," and will create about 30 new jobs. Gene Dukes, Louisville, is general contractor.

Wendy's, popular hamburger and fast food restaurant chain based in Columbus, O., has set an opening date of February 9 for their restaurant here which is being constructed of metal, frame and block by T.M. Construction Company, of Charleston, W. Va. The Wendy's structure has a total of 2,280 square feet of space.

Both restaurants are located on land owned by Art Bolen, of Prestonsburg, it was said.

Would-Be Customers Protest Phone Delay

About the easiest thing to get in David these days is a telephone. Getting it hooked up, however, is another matter.

Up and down Schoolhouse Hollow, residents will display the phones they picked up as they moved into the new subdivision during the past year, some with phone company assurances, they claim, that service would be available in a matter of days. Months have passed and, except for four families hooked up last April, no connections have been made.

"I always thought it was impossible to live without a phone," confessed Annabell Harless, who moved to the area from Town Branch in August. It is possible, she is discovering, although still downright inconvenient. Three phone sets lie idly by as she describes the daily frustrations of trying to keep in touch with her employer and her night-working husband.

Curtis Wallace has a spouse who works nights, too, and a heart condition that makes him fearful he may be stranded without help in an emergency. "I applied for a phone here before I left Pikeville," he said, "and they told me I'd have it in three days. They came by and left me two phones and told me I'd be hooked up in two weeks." It has been six months.

Being available to clients is "an increasing problem" for Mike VanHoose, a building contractor, as it is for Ann Slone, a childbirth educator who lost her phone service when she moved recently the short distance to Schoolhouse Hollow from neighboring Official Hollow. For a number of divorced and single mothers in the area, security is the uppermost concern.

"No one knew we would not be able to get a phone when we moved in here," complains Sharon Lawson. The fact that the Schoolhouse Hollow subdivision was planned well in advance and the utilities given ample notice of housing construction there leaves them with little excuse for the long delay in providing service, a number of residents contend.

Jim Deyarmond, of Rough and Tough, has been waiting for a phone since July, 1976. "Every year they have promised I'd have one by the end of the year," he said.

Thieves 'Clean Out' Clinic Drug Supply

Thieves took an undetermined quantity of drugs from the pharmacy of the Mud Creek Health Project at Craynor in a weekend break.

The theft was discovered by employees reporting for work Monday, and Eula Hall, clinic social director, said it appeared the break-in had occurred earlier that morning.

The intruders gained entry to the building by forcing a rear window, "cleaned the shelves" of the pharmacy, and apparently carried the drugs away in a number of garbage pails which were also missing, according to Mrs. Hall.

Det. Don Weedman, of the state police, is investigating the incident.

Scott Back in Jail Where He Married

The tangled skein that is the life of Richard A. Scott has new knots.

Almost two years ago he was in jail here, charged with the robbery of the Alpike Hotel, near Allen, and while in jail was married to Billie Thomas, 34, whose daughter, Patricia, 16, was at the same time married to his alleged confederate in the robbery, Ralph Keller.

Scott escaped the Kentucky state reformatory while serving a 20-year term for the robbery. Keller committed suicide while being held in Ohio, to be returned here for trial.

Now, Scott is back in jail here, as is another woman who says she is Scott's wife. She was booked as Anna M. Walker.

The two were returned recently to Pikeville where federal court indictments charged them with two kidnapping and two auto theft counts. They had been prisoners in Hartford, Conn. before their recent return to Pike county.

Scott and the Walker woman are charged with kidnapping Angela and Kenneth Diamond at Huntington, W. Va., last Oct. 16 and of taking them to Kimper, Pike county. The second kidnapping count alleges that they abducted Andrea Denise Thacker and Dennis G. Sloane at Jonican Creek, Pike county, the next day and of later releasing them in Wilkes county, North Carolina.

U. S. District Judge G. Wix Unthank set the bail of each at $50,000. They are held here for safekeeping.

Driver of "Runaway" Pickup Arrested

The 1977 Lincoln Continental of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Pelphey is pictured Sunday morning after being hit, broadside, by a pickup truck, the night before as it was parked in the driveway of their home on Mays Branch here. The truck, driven by John M. Jarrell, 18, of Prestonsburg, apparently swerved off the main road leading up the branch, ran through a neighbor's lawn, knocked down a brick planter at the corner of the Pelpheys' home, and plowed into the auto. Jarrell was arrested by Prestonsburg Policemen Woods and Wright and booked at the jail here on a charge of public drunkenness.

Presents Annual Fearless Forecast

Attorney Woodrow Burchett took another long, hard look at the future, and without flinching, delivered his annual fearless forecast for the next 12 months at the meeting of the Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club last week. Although many of his predictions are of the tongue in cheek variety, Mr. Burchett's score for accuracy last year fared better than did that of more famed seers such as Jeanne Dixon.

New Year's Baby at Lady of Way

At 7:35 a.m. on New Year's Day, Amy Hamilton became the first baby born in 1981 at Our Lady of the Way Hospital. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Barry Hamilton, of McDowell, she weighed 8 lbs., 5 oz. at birth.

The Martin hospital celebrated this first birth of the new year by giving the family gifts donated by Martin area merchants, the Blossom Basket, Messer's Department Store, the Federated Clothing Store, June's Dress Shop, and the Lad and Lassie store.

Paintsville NOW To Host Meeting

The Kentucky National Organization For Women will meet in Paintsville on January 11, at the Johnson County Public Library at 2 p.m.

The public is encouraged to attend this State Council Meeting which will be hosted by the local chapter of Big Sandy NOW.

There will be a business meeting, followed by discussion of NOW's public services actions and directives. NOW plans an Equal Rights Amendment Inaugural Watch on January 20, to send a message to the new President and nation—that there is no "E.R." without the "A".

Big Sandy NOW is the first Chapter to be organized in Eastern Kentucky, and we need and welcome new members. There is no discrimination in membership.

ENTERTAIN GUESTS

Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Short entertained a group of their friends at their home here, Friday, January 2. Enjoying the evening with them were Mr. and Mrs. William Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hodson, Mr. and Mrs. Rob [Name], and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Malto.

Register Again For Army Draft

Registration for the military draft entered its second round this week, with all men born in 1962 required to sign up by Saturday. Males born in 1963 and later must register within 30 days of their 18th birthdays.

While there appears to be little inclination in Congress to return to conscription in the near future, some observers note that rising costs and a shrinking population of young men will make it increasingly difficult to maintain an all-volunteer army.

If the draft is again introduced, the law provides for selecting draftees by lottery. The first group subject to such a lottery would be young men turning 20 in the year the draft resumes.

Registration is opposed by President-elect Ronald Reagan and it also faces a Supreme Court challenge because of its failure to include women.

During his campaign, Reagan characterized peacetime registration as an "ill-conceived" move of little military value. He is now under mounting pressure to continue the program, however. The Supreme Court is expected to rule on the constitutionality of the sign-up plan in June or July.

Registrants are required to fill out a card bearing their name, birthdate, social security number, address and phone number. Cards for the purpose are available at post offices. Failure to sign up carries a possible felony conviction with a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a fine of $10,000.

SURPRISE BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mrs. Shirley Halbert, of Lexington, was honored with a surprise birthday party December 20 at the home of her sister, Mrs. Ronnie Chaffins, on the Middle Creek Road. A buffet supper and birthday cake were enjoyed by Shirley Halbert and Jason, of Lexington; Pat and Ronnie Chaffins, Aime Sheryl and Joel Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Anderson Laferty, Mr. and Mrs. James L. Laferty, Leah Ann and Chad Leigh, all of Prestonsburg; Mr. and Mrs. Herman Halbert, of Martin, and Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Laferty, of Sidney.

Mrs. Halbert is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anderson Laferty and the wife of Dr. Dennis H. Halbert.

NOTE OF THANKS

The Auxier Volunteer Fire Department wishes to thank the people and businesses of Auxier and surrounding communities for their generous donations of merchandise, money and time, to our annual Christmas Treat for area children, the elderly and shut-ins of the community. By your help we distributed 350 bags of treats and 40 fruit baskets. Again, we say thanks on behalf of members of the department and recipients of the gifts.

On January 12, sophomore students (students with 30 hours or more) will register from 8:30 a.m. to 12 p.m., and freshman students with last names A through F will register from 12:30 p.m. to 4 p.m. On January 13, freshman students with last names G through M will register from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30

BETSY LAYNE NEWS

A. M. Boyd is still improving at his home where his daughter and husband, Eulevene and Fred Conn, take care of him most of the time, except when the other children come from Ohio to visit.

Mrs. Virginia Campbell is reported as having been very ill from a relapse of the flu. She is better.

Mrs. Ruby Alice Stratton reports that her grandson, Ray Webb, was seriously injured recently while riding a snowmobile. He lives in Louisville.

Irene Gibson, Losa Osborn and Margaret McKenny have been confined to their homes due to flu, but are reported some better.

Among those who attended the wedding of Jamie Syck to Mark Daugherty, Jan. 3, at the Boldman Free Will Baptist Church were Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Davis and Pauline Jones.

Mrs. Kelsa Elliott's Sunday School class at the Betsy Layne United Methodist Church did not exchange gifts at Christmas time but put the money along with money they earned by recycling aluminum cans as a gift for "World Hunger".

Mr. and Mrs. Randy Stone and family, of Toler, visited his grandmother, Era Stone, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Coleman and family, of Louisville, were visiting their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Lynch, last week.

Corene Dye reports that her sister, Marie Dptson, is not doing too well at the Mt. Manor Nursing Home, Prestonsburg. She has undergone surgery to repair a hip fracture suffered in a fall.

Citizens of Betsy Layne remember in prayer the sick and shut-in of the community. Known at this time are A. M. Boyd, Marie Dotson, Mary Green, Arvid Lynch, Margaret Boyd, Maude Colegrove, Fannie Steele, E. W. Hurley, Mae and Lee Cecil, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Hale, Aunt Jane Tackett, Myrtle Howard, Langely Hall, Sarah Jane Keathley, Basil Hamilton, Hattie Hall, Rubin Hall, Edgar Bingham, Sam Lee Crum.

Solid Waste Funding Anxiously Awaited As Jan. 20 Nears

As the Carter Administration enters its final days, county officials await word on the funds requested by the county to help finance its proposed garbage collection and disposal system.

For the record at least, they remain hopeful that the application for $495,000 in Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) funds will be approved. "The indications have been positive," said County Planner Dick Leslie, who predicted this county would be the nation's first recipient of a FmHA grant for a solid waste system. The federal agency usually funds housing and water projects.

In the meantime, the recent granting of tax exempt status to Floyd County Solid Waste Inc., the corporation which will manage the new system, paved the way for the sale of $1.5 million in bonds to finance the system.

HAVE FAMILY DINNER

Atty. and Mrs. Barkley Strugill and family entertained to dinner at their home on Christmas Day his mother, Mrs. Troy B. Sturgill. Spending the holidays with them were their daughters, Misses Patricia, Dorothy and Sarah Sturgill, all of whom are students at the University of Kentucky.

HAVE DINNER GUESTS

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Clark has as dinner guests on Christmas Day Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Stephens and daughters, Cindy and Stephanie, of Lexington, Mr. and Mrs. Joe A. Burchett and children, Kathy, Joe and Jennifer, Mrs. Pauline Burchett and Mrs. Sue Pigg, all of Prestonsburg.

GO TO ATLANTA

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Grant left Tuesday for Atlanta, where they will attend a gift show. From there, Mrs. Grant will go to St. Cloud, Fla., where she will visit with her daughter, Mrs. Paul Henry, Mr. Henry and baby daughter, Jennifer, and Mr. Grant will fly to California to attend a gift show there.

HOME FOR CHRISTMAS

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas LeMaster had with them here during the Christmas season members of their family, Miss Mary Ann LeMaster, a student at the University of Kentucky, Lexington, and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Wingham and children, Amy Elizabeth, and Thomas Matthew, of Tipp City, Ohio.

If every household in the United States lowered its average temperature six degrees over a 24-hour period, more than 570,000 barrels of oil could be saved per day.

Present Key Club Charter

Officers installed, other than Rice, were Gerald Derosssett, vice president; Debbie Ranier, secretary; Ralph Gilliam, treasurer; Sam Huffman, senior representative; Ann Everly, junior representative; B. J. Sturgill, sophomore representative, and John Anderson, freshman representative. H. C. Francis, immediate past governor of the Kentucky-Tennessee District, conducted the installation, and Lt. Governor George Wofford was present.

The Key Club was organized through the efforts of Dr. Rondall Hart, Morehead State University who is district coordinator for Key Clubs; Lenny Grant, president of the Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club; Cliff Ryan, Bobby Harmon, and Bobby Wells, principal of Prestonsburg High School.

Woodrow Burchett, Nostradamus of the local Kiwanis Club, who is batting a much better average than Jean Dixon, once more peered fearlessly into the future and gave forth with his prognostications for the coming year.

New Year's Baby at Highlands Regional

Rachel Ann Blackburn, first baby of the new year at Highlands Regional Medical Center, seems completely relaxed amid the array of gifts which were presented to her and her parents, Patricia and Elbie Blackburn, of Inez. Just like a woman, the 7 lb., 3 oz. babe kept the staff of Highlands Regional waiting until 11 p.m. Friday, January 2, to award the more than $500 worth of gifts which had been donated by merchants from the Prestonsburg, Martin, Paintsville and Pikeville areas.

"I certainly didn't expect this," commented Mrs. Blackburn as she opened the gifts, "since our babe wasn't due until the end of January."

Mr. Blackburn is employed by Wolf Creek Collieries in Martin county, and the new arrival is the Blackburn's second child.

A 1949 amendment to the Fair Labor Standards Act directly prohibited child labor for the first time, according to a publication of the U.S. Department of Labor, "Important Events In American Labor History."

recently purchased its second rotary rig. A rotary, it was said, will within seven days drill a well which would require three months for completion with the cable outfits.

Columbia, in addition to drilling, hopes to replace old lines, one in the Johns Creek-Johnson county area a distance of about two and a half miles.

Columbia and the Department of Energy are reported testing a new technology which, hopefully, will open the tight shale formation in this section, increase its production of oil and perhaps open a wide area of Eastern Kentucky to oil development. If successful, experimental work under way would reopen old shale wells to greater production than ever, it was said.

Oil prices have risen to the point that some independent developers say a five-barrel well is now a "paying proposition."

to be waiting for service, while another three families with two-party lines are said to have requested a private line.

"All we're asking for is a reasonable explanation and a reasonable date," said Budalene Boggs. "We can get neither."

South Central Bell officials reply that the company is caught between rising costs and a regulatory agency that recently denied it almost half the rate increase it sought.

Some unrealistic hopes have been raised by local PhoneCenter employees who promise a quick hookup without realizing that service requests in some areas pose special problems, conceded Art Willett, South Central Bell area manager, this week. Estimates of the time needed to provide service in unserved areas must also allow for variable weather conditions, he cautioned.

While distribution cable is available in Schoolhouse Hollow and on Rough and Tough, additional "feeder" cable needs to be laid between David and the Prestonsburg exchange, company representatives explain.

An official in South Central Bell's Louisville office estimated in November that the job would be completed by April 30 this year. A December estimate by District Manager B. M. Starnes gives June as the anticipated completion date.

In a letter to Dorothy Clark, executive director of the David Community Development Corporation, Starnes noted that the 14 families without phones in the David area are among 2900 other Kentuckians awaiting service.

"We simply don't have the dollars it takes to do all the work needed to answer Kentucky's telephone needs," Starnes wrote. "Only by charging rates that reflect the cost of providing service today, can we get phones to the hundreds of families waiting for service while keeping the quality of telephone service for others."

"No one likes to ask for a rate increase," added Area Manager Willett this week. "We realize it can be a hardship, especially for those on fixed incomes. But it takes money to provide service, and it takes more in the mountains than elsewhere."

It also costs more to provide service out in the county than it does in Prestonsburg, said Willett, in response to complaints that, even when service is available, the charge is considerably higher in David than it is in town. While most customers in the Prestonsburg area can lease their phones at the basic rate of about $8 monthly, an additional mileage charge is levied on out-of-town customers that can raise the monthly charge in David to as much as $21, he explained.

You exercise your freedom of choice when you give to voluntary health and welfare agencies. This is an expression of democracy.

Ten Years Ago

Heavy snow fell in the county last Wednesday with some sections reporting as much as 11 inches accumulation. Prestonsburg is included in the list of six Kentucky communities which, the Kentucky Water Pollution Control Commission last week said, are due for a warning to have secondary sewage treatment plants working by December, 1975. Now it's official—Floyd county's population is 35,889, according to the Census Bureau. Hamp Rollins, of Belfry, formerly of Floyd county, was the 10,000th person to apply for Black Lung benefits at the Pikeville district Social Security office. Born to Mr. and Mrs. James M. Goble, of Prestonsburg, a daughter, Tracy Elizabeth, Dec. 24 at the Prestonsburg General hospital; to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wendell Wells, of Auxier, a daughter, Deidre Renae, Dec. 24 at the Paintsville hospital; to Mr. and Mrs. Ballard Gibson, of Ligon, a son, Dec. 22; to Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Collins, of Melvin, a son, Dec. 22; to Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hicks, of Garrett, a son, Dec. 23; to Mr. and Mrs. Orville Hall, of Grethel, a daughter, Dec. 25. There died: Miss Maxie Hall, 46, last Thursday at her home at Teaberry; Louie Parsons Meade, 89, Dec. 25 at her home at Harold; Mrs. Lula Prater, 39, of Garrett, Dec. 26 at Our Lady of the Way hospital, Martin; Mrs. Betty W. Bailey, 88, of Hippo, Monday at Mountain Manor Nursing Home, here; Colonel H. Harrington, 66, Wednesday at his home at Craynor; Jesse J. Caudill, 74, of Estill, Dec. 27 at Prestonsburg General hospital; Mrs. Wilma Hayes Slone, 59, of Garrett, last Wednesday at McDowell Appalachian Regional hospital; Charlie Hamilton, 56, of Teaberry, Monday at Teaberry; William J. "Bill" Hall, 63, of Prestonsburg, Dec. 25 at Prestonsburg General hospital; Lindsey Spears, 51, of Weeksbury, Dec. 24 at Jenkins; Beckham Blankenship, 67, of Weeksbury, Saturday at MARH; Homer R. Walker, 71, Dec. 27 at his home at Garrett; Aaron Burr Flannery, 89, former Floyd magistrate, Dec. 28 at his home at Martin; Bill Gibson, 67, of Price, Dec. 27 at MARH; Ballard Setser, 77, of Endicott, last Monday at Prestonsburg General hospital; Julie Bell Edwards, 68, of Estill, Dec. 28 at MARH; Daniel Osborne, 79, of East McDowell, Dec. 21 at MARH; Jake Click, 68, of Manton, Dec. 27 at the UK Medical Center, Lexington.

Twenty Years Ago

The Floyd County Board of Education in its first meeting of the year named a new chairman Tuesday evening and voted a sweeping reorganization of practically all school services. Employment of Commissioners of Property and Buildings of the Floyd County school system, the creation of the commission and the naming of a director of personnel were attacked in circuit court here Tuesday. A committee was named Wednesday by the Prestonsburg Community Development Council to promote a state-operated junior college, and a move was instituted to ask that U. S. 23 and 460 as well as the new road from the Blue Grass to the mountains, be routed through Prestonsburg. Bids on construction of the 40 low-rent housing units planned for Prestonsburg are to be opened August 20. One man was killed and another seriously injured Wednesday morning by a slatefall in the Russell Laven Coal Company near Emma. Robert Maynard Briggs, 34, of Water Gap, was killed, and Henry Robinson, of Dwale, was seriously injured. The Teen-Age Drive-In on Abner Fork, near Melvin, was the scene of this county's lone outburst of Christmas violence as Russell Isaacs, 25, of Bypro, was shot and killed December 23. One man was killed and three others injured when two automobiles collided on Ky. 114 near here, December 28. Instantly killed was Norman Lee, 48, of West Van Lear. The injured are Herbert Deskins, 48, and Winfred Holbrook, 32, both of West Van Lear, and Radford Knox Barnett, 42, of Martin. There died: Mrs. Mary H. Austin, 60, of Guthrie, formerly of Allen, Christmas Eve in a Clarksville hospital; Jonas Slone, 62, former Raven postmaster, at his home there, Sunday; Joe H. Johnson, 61, of Melvin, at a Martin hospital, Wednesday; Mrs. Lillian Keenon, 75, of Prestonsburg, in a hospital here, December 30; Mrs. Emma Hall, 66, of Wheelwright, at the home of a daughter, December 27; Sam Elliott, 69, of Printer, at his home, December 27; Will M. Smith, 94, former Pike county sheriff, December 23 in Winchester.

Thirty Years Ago

Beginning the new year in his new work as Commonwealth's Attorney, Bert T. Combs, Prestonsburg, in a court-opening statement here Tuesday morning listed four offenses on which he will center the fire of prosecution. They were perjury, child desertion, carrying concealed deadly weapons and drunk driving. The new line-up in the Floyd County Board of Education since a fifth member was supplied by appointment was regarded this week as anti-administration as John E. Campbell, the new member, joined Dr. J. H. Allen and James Greene, the original "anti" members, in signing a letter addressed to County Superintendent Palmer L. Hall and asking his resignation from office. A total of 43 Floyd counties are scheduled to leave this month to begin service in the armed forces, it was said this week by Mrs. Gladys S. Allen, clerk of Draft Board 25 here. Coach "Copper" John Campbell's Wayland Wasps swept through the Pikeville Invitational Tournament and defeated the Ashland Tom Cats for their third tourney championship in a row. Born to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Preston, of Allen, a son, Thursday at the Paintsville hospital; to Mr. and Mrs. Caney Owens, of Martin, a son, Dec. 24 at the Beaver Valley hospital. There died: Wootsie Moore, 19, of Price, Monday, as the result of injuries suffered in a coal "bank" slatefall that morning; Chauncey L. Hyden, 59, former Prestonsburg City Councilman, Dec. 22 at his home at West Prestonsburg; Harry Gearheart, 52, of Worthington, formerly of Floyd county, Dec. 15; Mrs. Cynthia Justice Hunter, 25, Dec. 23 at her home at Emma; Oliver Slone, 56, Sunday at his home at Garrett; Harold Osborne, 33, Tuesday at his home at Ivel; Chester Akers, Prestonsburg native, Dec. 23 in the furnace of one of the ovens of the Hellier Coal & Coke Co. which he supervised; Von Moore, 68, Sunday at his home at McDowell; John Menifee Laferty, 89, Dec. 26 at his home at Emma; Dock Click, 84, Saturday at his home on Arkansas Creek; John Walker Spears, 70, Saturday at Paintsville hospital.

"We will try or dismiss." Circuit Judge Henry Stephens, Jr. declared this week in announcing his determination to clean up the criminal docket of the Floyd circuit court at the term beginning next Monday. Opposition to canalization of the Big Sandy river from Catlettsburg to Pikeville was expressed Monday by representatives of four Kentucky railroad employee brotherhoods meeting in Louisville. Jake Nester, 25, of Lick Fork, near here, was shot and killed on the Middle Fork of Quicksand Creek, Knott county, Christmas Day. Shot by a charge fired at close range from a sawed-off shotgun in the hands of a 68-year-old man, Deputy Constable Richard Harrison, of Allen, died in the Beaver Valley hospital, Sunday. In Hindman, which he transformed from a hotbed of feudism to an educational center, Prof. George Clarke died, Christmas Day, at the age of 78. There died: Alex L. Crisp, 93, Tuesday at the home of his son at Allen; Jacob M. Porter, 82, Friday at his home here; Walker French Harris, 21, of Brandy Keg, Dec. 20 in a truck mishap at Eureka; Mrs. Polly Spencer, 87, of Drift, Monday at her home; Mrs. Minerva Sizemore, 74, Dec. 19, at Water Gap; George Fannin, 68, of Johns Creek, Dec. 18 at the Prestonsburg General hospital; Mrs. Rudy Ratliff, 39, of Hueysville, Dec. 22; Mrs. Romba Childers, 79, Saturday at Dwale.

Caudill Says Coal Should Be Responsible

The grip of what Alben Barkley called the "coal combine" is tighter today than it was in 1911 when John Mayo, Johnson N. Camden and Clarence Wayland Watson met at the Sinton Hotel in Cincinnati and decreed the election of James McCreary as governor of Kentucky. At every level and in all agencies the coal industry is served slavishly and obsequiously.

Governor Brown has referred to coal as "the economy" of Kentucky, and appointed a coal operator Secretary of the Department of Energy. His Coal Policy Commission is made up of coal people from beginning to end without any voices from consumers or other groups. He pushes a fantastic synthetic fuels industry to be paid for with public funds—a capitalizing of profits and a socializing of losses. The state taxes coal in the ground at the rate of 1/10 cent per $100 of value—a mere 315th part of the rate levied on houses and farms. The severance tax is 4 1/2% as compared to rates ranging from 12 1/2% to 30% in the western fields, and most of it returns to the coal fields to build and repair coal roads. The coal industry enjoys low taxes, public esteem, political power, and immense profits. The people generally carry all the burdens growing out of ruined roads, silted rivers and lakes, polluted water, inadequate housing, poor schools and low health standards. The Brown Administration appears to be as proud as punch of this situation.

As Bert Combs once said in a speech in New York, Kentucky has been "pillaged" by people whose only motive is profit. For examples, Van Lear Black was one of the wealthiest men of his day but I have found no evidence that he ever gave so much as a single library book to the Johnson county community that bears his name. The library at Morehead State University was named for U.S. Senator Johnson Newlon Camden, Jr., heir to a vast Standard Oil fortune, but I have found nothing to show that he gave a nickel to the college. (Actually it began as a mission school and was financed by donors from outside the state.)

University of Kentucky board chairman William Sturgill has been quoted as stressing the need to get tax funds behind energy research on the campus. This is precisely opposite to what should occur. The vast mineral oligarchy should provide such research funds because it is the coal, oil, gas and railroad interests that stand to reap gigantic profits from increased use of fossil fuels.

Recently Ashland Oil did something unique in Kentucky history: it gave a million dollars to the University of Kentucky and pledged additional annual bequests for support of certain needed educational programs. Every Kentuckian is indebted to Ashland for setting this salutary example.

It is essential to the welfare of Kentucky that the governor and the governing officials of Kentucky's state-supported universities use this example to obtain long over-due funding from other energy giants operating within the state. They include such well-heeled outfits as Kentucky River Coal, Occidental Oil, Gulf Oil, Ford Motor, Neufanz AG (of Lichtenstein), CSX Corporation, Pittston Energy, Kanab Corporation, KyCoGo Corporation, Stearns Coal and Lumber, U.S. Steel, Royal Dutch Shell, National Steel, Koppers Corporation, Columbia Gas, Equitable Gas, Big Sandy corporation, Tennessee Valley Authority, Harvard University, Southern Railway, Diamond Shamrock, International Harvester, Howell Oil Company, and assorted German and Swiss tycoons. In the aggregate they own or hold under long-term lease a couple of million acres of Kentucky, extract more than 150,000,000 tons of coal, 7 million barrels of oil, and 75 million cubic feet of natural gas annually, gross many billions annually in sales revenues, and realize many hundreds of millions as net profits. In the energy-short future they are designing their profits will rise enormously.

It is these energy giants that should finance voluntarily and generously the research programs at the state universities. In decency how could they withhold grants for such tasks as inquiries into better methods of preventing, diagnosing and treating the occupational diseases of coal miners? Their money should support forestry research aimed at getting new and fast-growing stands of native trees on to strip-mined lands. Their money rather than the taxpayers' should pay for shale and coal liquefaction studies. They should finance studies of polluted streams and ways of eliminating acidity of public waters. They should try to learn why (in Grady Stumbo's words) "people line up a hundred and fifty deep to get on Welfare." They ought to finance new ways of educating so that coal-field children can cease to be the butt of jokes because of their sorry elementary and secondary school backgrounds.

In short, these corporate "pillagers" ought to take the lead in financing a new and better era in Kentucky. They should be asked to do it, and if they refuse to respond their anti-social niggardliness should be told to every man, woman and child in the state. So informed, the voters might send to Frankfort a new generation of law makers determined to make those who "pillage" pay.

The continued failure of university officials and state politicians to take these steps will constitute a gross betrayal of public trust. The status quo is intolerable and is leading inexorably toward state bankruptcy, the elimination of one or more universities from the state system, a general downgrading of higher education, and a worsening of traditionally low standards in grade and high schools.

Nearly all the grand old families prominent in the ownership of these companies call themselves philanthropists and proclaim their numerous bequests. They boast of their giant private collections of art. (Armand Hammer of Occidental Oil recently paid 5.1 millions for a work by Leonardo da Vinci, and Paul Mellon of Gulf Oil boasts of a billion dollars worth of art given away). Kentuckians ought to have the official courage to at least ask for some of this largesse. It would be fine, for example, if Armand Hammer would send some of his art to be seen by Kentucky's coal field children, their teachers and parents.

Why should Kentucky be the nation's leading coal producing state if all we get out of it is crippled and dead miners, silted streams and lakes, torn up roads, uprooted forests, and holes in the ground?

Kentucky is a great cow that has been systematically starved while being vigorously milked. It is time that the beast be fed.

SEEKS FRIENDS HERE

My name is John Wayne Lucas, and I am an inmate here at the K.S.R., LaGrange, Ky. I am 35 years old and I am in good health, my race is white and my occupation is welding.

Upon my release from here in July, 1981 I plan to make my home here in Prestonsburg. As I have no family or friends who live there in Prestonsburg, it would make me very happy if I could make some friends through your newspaper. If anyone wishes to write to me I want them to feel free to do so and I will answer all letters.

I am writing concerning a headline in the Floyd County Times, recently, "Spreading Use of Drugs Reported in Schools."

I am certainly glad that someone has awakened to the facts, and is interested in doing something about it. I have noticed for a period of years that dope pushing and bootlegging have been rapidly on the increase.

It has been suggested by some that the public be educated in order to be acquainted with dope and alcohol. This is o.k. to do this but is far from being enough to do very much good. I am a strong believer that in unity there is strength; therefore, the public should all join together and fight against the drug pushers and bootleggers by seeing that they are caught and the law is enforced on each offender to the limit of the law.

There are many ways that we can fight against this thing. First, the parents should each notice our sons and daughters and if we find any of them using drugs or alcohol we should have that boy or girl summoned before the grand jury and make them tell where they got the drugs or alcohol. Of course, there are those who would object to this because it would expose us and degrade our families.

Well, I ask this question; Would it not be better to do this today than to have your son or daughter dead tomorrow because of an overdose of drugs? Remember the old saying, "a stitch in time saves nine."

METHODIST WOMEN MEET

Women of the First United Methodist Church met Monday at 7 p.m. in the church parlor for their monthly meeting. President, Mrs. Elizabeth Ramey, presided, and the meeting was opened with prayer by the pastor, Rev. Ted Nicholas.

After the business session, Mrs. Robert Burchett, program leader, assisted by Mrs. James Carter, presented a program on "Command to Love," with scriptures read from Matthew, Chapter 5 and Luke 10.

Roslyn Burchett, hostess, served refreshments to Rev. Ted Nicholas, Pearl Nicholas, Elizabeth Ramey, Patsy Brown, Rose Glynn, Katherine Stephens, Geneva Carter, Mary Jane Brown. The next meeting will be held February 2.

First Rate First-Aid For Under $10

Today's drugstore shelves house an ever-widening array of first aid products—a far cry from the somewhat makeshift items homemakers had to contend with a generation ago. With doctor's fees rising and self-care becoming a national pastime, consumers are demanding—and getting—medical-quality first aid products identical to those used in hospital emergency departments.

Some of these products, however, were not even available to doctors until a few years ago, so it's not surprising that consumers are sometimes confused about which products belong in the home medicine cabinet, and how to use them effectively. Here's a rundown of the new generation of wound care products, and some tips on technique to help you bandage like a pro.

The first step in first aid for minor wounds is to cleanse thoroughly to wash away infection-promoting dirt and other foreign particles. You'll find many products on the market for cleansing wounds, but the most useful—and the most economical—is a bar of mild soap, with no cosmetic creams or fragrances. Since germs can enter an open wound and cause infection, it's essential to wash your hands thoroughly with this soap, which should be stored separately for this purpose. After washing hands, gently cleanse around the wounded area with the soap, running water and a sterile pad.

Sterile pads are one of the most useful all-around first aid products. More absorbent than gauze pads, they can be used for cleansing wounds, applying creams or ointments, dressing superficial wounds, and applying pressure to stop bleeding. Unlike cotton balls, they are less likely to leave lint behind in the wound, and they're individually wrapped for sterility.

Wound Treaters

Remember the bright red liquid that stained your knees and elbows when you were treated for a cut or scrape? These products have been replaced by non-staining liquids, creams and ointments that eliminate much of the pain associated with cleansing and treating wounds.

The purpose of any wound treatment product is to form a barrier against infection and to keep the wounded area lubricated. Products that discolor the skin may make it hard to tell when the wound is infected, and they can be difficult to wash off without pain to the injured area. Your best bet is a water-soluble first aid cream or a tube of antibiotic ointment. For maximum cleanliness, apply these with a fresh sterile pad, not with your fingers.

First aid cream is also suitable for soothing burns when the skin is not broken, and it is a much better lubricant than butter or cooking grease. Cooking fat of any kind actually does the opposite of what it's supposed to: it can trap heat next to the burn, making it even more painful; and it provides an ideal breeding ground for germs. Butter or grease is almost impossible to wash off without considerable pain to the burned area—don't use it!

Wound Covering

For small cuts and scrapes, you should have a package of adhesive bandages in assorted sizes and shapes. Since so many of these are used, it may be tempting to buy a bargain brand. These may not really be such a bargain, however, since they seldom adhere as well or absorb as readily as national brands, and you'll probably use more in the long run.

For larger injuries, you can now choose between extra-large adhesive bandages, for covering wounds on areas that bend, and adhesive pads that can be attached securely on all four sides on flat areas of the body. Adhesive pads do the job of a gauze pad and adhesive tape in one step, eliminating the need for scissors. The four-sided adhesive helps promote healing by sealing out dirt and germs, while still allowing air to circulate freely.

Both adhesive bandages and adhesive pads are now available with a non-stick pad surface to prevent the scab from being pulled off when the bandage is changed.

Sometimes, you may want a larger dressing for scrapes that cover a wider area. In such cases, you may use a sterile pad, which can be unfolded to double its width.

For more heavily bleeding wounds, you may use an extra-absorbent surgical pad. Surgical pads are quite new for general consumer use, and they're especially effective when you need to bandage a heavily draining or oozing wound. Surgical pads make a safer, neater bandage than a gauze pad folded in many layers, since they have a non-stick coating on the outer layer and an absorbent pad inside that cushions the wound from accidental reinjury. The greater absorbency of surgical pads can also help speed healing by keeping blood and fluids away from the wound, leaving it cleaner and drier.

Tapes

First aid tapes have come a long way from the heavy white adhesive tape that tended to hurt quite a bit upon removal (although they certainly adhered well). Today's first aid tapes have been developed for different skin types and bandaging needs. They're less likely to pull hair off the skin and leave sticky residue. Best of all, the new first aid tapes come in plastic dispensers with built-in cutting edges, doing away with the need for scissors.

Clear first aid tape is almost invisible when applied, and is air-vented to allow skin to breathe. This variety is strong and flexible, even when applied to a part of the body that bends.

Rayon tape is today's all-purpose tape, strong and hypo-allergenic. And paper tape is designed for sensitive skin. Because removal is virtually painless, this tape is ideal for frequently-changed bandages and for babies and young children. Heavy-duty adhesive tape is necessary only for the thickest dressings, or for immobilizing an entire area—splinting a finger, for example.

Rolled gauze is one more product seen everywhere, but not so obvious in its use. Its purpose: holding down a dressing that's hard to bandage with first aid tape, such as an ankle, knee or elbow injury. Rolled gauze has been updated with new material that clings to itself and conforms to body contours, allowing skin to breathe and making a neater bandage.

Once a diagnosis of allergy has been made, it is essential to discover all of the substances causing the allergic reaction. A detailed health history, a thorough study of the patient's environment and allergy testing are the tools commonly used to determine the specific allergen or allergens. Testing for sensitivity by means of skin and mucous membrane tests is effective in most instances. Be aware, however, that it may take a long time to complete the extensive number of tests that need to be made. Fortunately, children sometimes outgrow their allergies and are no longer bothered by symptoms.

If you have an allergy that requires treatment with prescription medication, then come to COOLEY APOTHECARY INC. We can take care of your prescription for you on a regular basis, or demand. IN MEMORY Of Morris Thornsberry

God looked down from heaven Just one year ago, said, "I'm bringing you home, child. 'Cause you're suffering so.

Yes, God surely looked down In that hospital bed And said, "Take my hand, child. You've nothing to dread.

"I'll wipe away that cancer That caused you such pain, Child, don't be afraid, You've a new life to gain.

"You'll have no more pain, Troubles, sorrow, or woe, For you've been a faithful soldier In your life below."

My life is so empty Ever since that sad day God sent His angels To carry you away.

The days are so long, They seem to never end; I'll never be happy Until we're together again.

But I am so thankful God's ways are so dear, For He loaned you to me For fifty-three years.

We had a good life With our children of ten, And I'll relive those memories until we meet again.

Sadly missed by WIFE AND CHILDREN

Miss Skeans, Mr. Martin Wed

The formal candlelight wedding ceremony of Miss Virginia Ann Skeans and Mr. Mack Webb Martin was solemnized October 11 at 6 p.m. at the First Assembly of God Church in Martin by the Rev. Lori Vannucci, pastor of the church.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Rebecca Skeans and the late Sammy Ray Skeans, of Martin. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Martin, of Wayland.

Several musical selections were played before the wedding by the cousin of the bride, Mr. Jerry Bryan Lafferty, II. Following the lighting of three candles, symbolizing the union of the bridal couples lives with Christ, the couple knelt and participated in Holy Communion. Mr. Lafferty then sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Mr. David Skeans, of Ypsilanti, Mich., wore a floor-length gown of white polyester chiffon trimmed with chantilly lace. The gown featured an empire waist style with a square neckline and long sheer sleeves caught at the wrist with a lace cuff. The bodice was lace covered and encrusted with tiny seed pearls. The skirt of the gown featured a front panel of pleats with lace panels that fell into a cathedral-length train. Her matching veil fell from a cap of lace into cathedral length and was lace-edged.

The maid of honor, Miss Renee Vannucci, wore a floor-length gown of burgundy quiana and carried a bouquet of dusty pink and burgundy roses with white baby's breath.

Bridal attendants, Misses Karen Glide and Connie Glide, wore dresses identical to that of the maid of honor, and each carried a bouquet of dusty pink and burgundy roses with white baby's breath.

Mr. Jimmy Martin, of Wayland, brother of the groom, was best man, and ushers were Mr. Dwight Davis, of Inez, and Mr. Frank Skeans, of Wilmore, Ky.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Skeans wore a floor-length gown of deep mauve. Mrs. Martin, mother of the groom, wore a floor-length gown of turquoise.

Immediately following the ceremony, a buffet supper was served by Christian friends under the direction of Mrs. Annette Vannucci. Miss Cathy Glide served as guest registrar and Miss Chanda Spencer, Miss Belinda Branham and Miss Jamie Branham assisted in serving cake and punch.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin now reside at Martin.

Waste Plan Is Aired

A proposed five-year plan for the management of all types of waste material in Kentucky will be presented for public review and comment at the Pike Building at Prestonsburg Community College at 7 p.m. today (Wednesday).

State Natural Resources Secretary Jackie Swigart said the plan outlines methods now used in treating, storing, transporting and disposing of waste, as well as recommendations for improved waste services.

The plan, prepared by the state natural resources department's division of hazardous material and waste management, covers hazardous, non-hazardous, agricultural and residual waste from pollution-controlled facilities or industrial processes.

At the meeting, the content of the plan will be described by staff members from the division. The public will be able to present oral or written comments at the meeting, and can make additional comments to the department until Jan. 15.

Division Director Roger Blair said a summary and response to all comments on the plan will be prepared at the end of the public comment period. The comments will be considered in the final preparation of the plan, which must be submitted to the federal Environmental Protection Agency by Jan. 29, he said.

Officials said preparation of the five-year plan was required under the 1976 federal Resource Conservation and Recovery Act.

A meeting on the plan was held in Frankfort Tuesday, and one is planned in Hopkinsville on Friday.

MAGISTRATE, DIST. 4

To my understanding, within the last 60 years District 4 has never re-elected the same Magistrate to office. The late Bro. Dewey Roberts served 24 years in the past 48, being elected every other term. It is my belief that this has greatly affected progress for our district. A man learns his duties and responsibilities reasonably soon, but it takes time to set up projects and get things under way and moving. If we had elected Bro. Dewey Roberts to six consecutive terms instead of six broken terms and let him continue his plans, our district would be in better shape today.

I have served three years and I am still learning and making plans for the future of our district. I believe that the experience that I have acquired in the past three years can benefit our district greatly in the future.

We have over 100 roads to maintain, serving 5000 homes, one high school, several elementary schools and a community that is growing faster than most people realize.

During this campaign I will be listing projects that I have completed and new ones now underway. Some of the projects now in progress will effect the lives of each and every man, woman and child not only in District 4, but all of Floyd County for generations to come.

I have friends who are candidates for Magistrate of District 4. My prayers are with these friends and their families. My intentions will never be to offend them or their families. When this campaign is over I want our friendship to be as strong as the day that we entered the race. We all go into this campaign knowing that there can only be one winner, whether that person be me or another depends on you, the voter. However, my opponents can rest assured that if I do lose, my aid and assistance will always be available. We all must place the benefit of our district at the top of the list.

I am asking you for your vote and support. Re-elect a man for a change and I am sure that you will see projects completed and new ones created that will benefit everyone.

We have had three different County Judge Executives in the past three years, affecting our county greatly, also.

I want to continue the Mud Creek Road and the Tram Bridge projects. During this campaign I will make known to the voters projects like these which I have acquired and supported for our district. I believe that if projects like these are to remain successful that someone with experience must remain behind them.

Our District is growing by leaps and bounds. All of Eastern Kentucky will grow tremendously in the very near future and I truly feel that I can keep District 4 in the running with any other district in the area. I ask you to re-elect an experienced and devoted man to stand up for our district. It is only with your vote in the May primary, 1981 election that I can continue to make our district a more progressive and successful place for us and our children to live.

SPECIAL JUDGES RULING HALTS CIRCUIT JUDGE CASE

Court of Appeals To Rule On Point

Proceedings in the case of C. B. Wheeler vs. A. T. Patrick involving the Republican nomination for Circuit Judge of this district came to a sudden halt in the Floyd Circuit Court last Friday when Judge J. C. Carter, special judge, sustained Judge Patrick's demurrer to the jurisdiction of the court to try the case.

Speaking on the demurrer for Judge Patrick Joseph D. Harkins made the point that the notice of Judge Wheeler was insufficient and void because it called upon the contestee to "answer in the court room" when the only legal place to answer was in the office of the circuit clerk.

Judge Carter deemed the question raised sufficiently doubtful to make advisable for the Court of Appeals to pass upon it, before the parties should proceed further in the case, thereby incurring expense which might be needless, should the Court of Appeals in reviewing the whole case sustain the demurrer.

Accordingly, Judge Wheeler took an immediate appeal and the papers in the case were forwarded to the Clerk of the Court of Appeals last Monday morning.

Under a special provision of the law applying only to election contest cases, it was not necessary to copy the record, and when the original papers were filed in the office of the Clerk of the Court of Appeals, it was immediately docketed and given precedence over all other cases, so that an early decision may be expected.

Judge Carter's ruling in the case was out of court, at least temporarily. Should the higher court reverse Judge Carter, the case will proceed in due course, unless the appeal should be dismissed because of some defect in the appeal itself—always a possibility in hard fought cases.

In the opinion of lawyers a ruling by the court of appeals may be expected within two weeks.

Counter Contest By Patrick Answering Judge Wheeler's petition Judge Patrick on Thursday afternoon filed a counter contest in the suit. As one of the grounds for contesting Judge Wheeler's right to receive the nomination, Judge Patrick claims that Judge Wheeler had not resided within the district for the legal period of two years prior to the day of the primary.

Other grounds alleged are the voting for Wheeler of numerous illegal votes in each and every precinct in the district, numbering at least 200, consisting of votes of minors, non-residents, and persons permitted to vote on the table without first making the legal affidavit of disability, and also numerous votes cast for Wheeler as a result of bribes by Wheeler or by his workers with his knowledge and consent, that in every precinct in the district voters were bribed by Wheeler and by others for him and with his knowledge and consent; that in Precincts Nos. 8 and 25 in Floyd County and Nos. 5, 7 and 12 in Knott County less votes were counted for Patrick than were cast for him and more votes were counted for Wheeler than were cast for him.

Answering the charges contained in Judge Wheeler's petition with reference to the part taken by relatives of Judge Patrick in his race while employed by corporations, Judge Patrick states in his answer that the type writer and stationery used in connection with the activities of these relatives belonged to them and the services rendered were rendered on their own time.

In reference to the returns from the Mouth of Mud Precinct No. 14 Judge Patrick charges that a change was made in the result of the election as certified by the election officers, at some time on Aug. 10, while the vote of the election was being canvassed and tabulated by the County Board of Election Commissioners. The original return from that precinct as certified by the election officers, it is alleged, was that Patrick received 77 votes and that Wheeler received 63 votes, and that when the County Board came to canvass and tabulate the vote from Mouth of Mud it was found that the 63 had been changed to 8 thereby adding 20 votes to the original certified as cast for Wheeler.

After settling the filing of the injunction suit on Aug. 12 and 13, by Patrick against the election officers and the election commissioners to compel the officers to reassemble and recertify the vote, and to restrain the commissioners from canvassing the vote, until the election officers, Judge Patrick alleges that the Commissioners, after being served with the restraining orders in these cases, nevertheless and in contempt and disobedience of said orders, did tabulate and certify to the County Clerk that Wheeler received 83 votes and Patrick 77 votes, and that said tabulation and certification was illegal and void, and that the only legal tabulation and certification by the commissioners of the vote in Precinct 14 was the corrected tabulations and certification subsequently made by the commissioners under compulsion of law, showing that Wheeler received but 63 votes in that precinct.

Judge Patrick asks that the contest of Judge Wheeler be dismissed; that he be adjudged the nominee for Circuit Judge on the Republican ticket; that the ballot boxes of every voting precinct in the district be opened and re-counted and that Judge Wheeler be adjudged ineligible to receive the nomination.

TO THE DEMOCRATS OF FLOYD COUNTY

I wish to thank my many supporters in the recent primary in which I was defeated. You certainly made a game fight.

Our organization was made up mostly of young men and women and many ex-soldiers but you demonstrated that you were able to cope with the old veteran politicians in ever precinct in which we made a fight. But we lost, and regardless of how it happened, I am for the nominee. And I will call your attention to the quotation from my speech at the May term of court "When told that I can no longer ride a big white horse and lead the procession then give me an old musket and I will hobble along in the rear rank, true and obedient soldier and stick to the nominee if he goes to hell." These words are as true today as the day they were first spoken.

The faces of the returns showed the majority of the people were in favor of me waiting a while, so as you soldiers know how we waited in line for mess, waited for our compensation etc. When it comes to waiting we can do it without getting mad, as we are experienced.

So let us show that we can smile on defeat and that our organization still lives. Let's elect the nominee this fall by fighting beside the one who fought us in the primary.

With the best regards for all my supporters and without malice towards those who opposed me.

THREE NEW COUNCILMEN

At a special meeting of the City Council yesterday, Messrs M. J. Lee,

Chick Howard, and John May resigned, and in their stead three were elected to serve during the unexpired term Messrs. W. H. Layne, B. P. Carter and George B. Archer.

The reason assigned for the resignation of the retiring members was that the pressure of their business affairs.

It is probable, however, in the opinion of persons familiar with municipal matters that the changes in the personnel of the Board in the foreground of important developments in the management of the affairs of the city.

NOTICE

The music department of the Prestonsburg High School will be in charge of Miss Gertrude Patrick of Paistonsville, Miss Patrick will teach Piano, Violyn and Voice Culture. Miss Grace Layne is preparing to assist Miss Patrick. Those who wish to study music, will please see Miss Patrick at the school building Monday Sept. 19th.

ASHLAND BOOSTERS TAKE PRESTONSBURG

They came, they saw, they conquered—so may be epitomized the result of the visit of the Ashland Chamber of Commerce Boosters to Prestonsburg yesterday afternoon.

Issuing forth from a ten coach pullman train, one hundred and fifty good fellows, business men, men of affairs, representing the material, mental and moral power of the fair city of Ashland, were met with cordial welcome by Prestonsburg people at the station shortly after one o'clock.

In a short time, mutual greetings and introductions had initiated acquaintanceship that will ripen into lasting friendship, to the mutual advantage of all concerned, if the many cordial expressions of the visitors are to be taken as a criterion.

After selections rendered at the station by the Boosters Brass Band, an aggregation of twenty pieces, the reception committee, band, boosters, and citizens forming in parade in the order named, proceeded to the city park, where the visitors were welcomed by Hon. A. J. May on behalf of the people of Floyd County and the City of Prestonsburg.

In fitting and eloquent terms the speaker gave to the visitors assurance of Floyd County's friendship for Ashland in the development of the marvelous resources of the Big Sandy Valley.

Rev. Paul S. Powell, pastor of the First M. E. Church South, of Ashland responded on behalf of the visitors. In an interesting and graceful speech, Rev. Mr. Powell made his audience feel the genuineness of Ashland's interest in and fellowship with the whole Big Sandy Valley, and emphasized the fact that the men who composed the Ashland delegation represented "moral and spiritual values" in Ashland, no less than its material resources for material accomplishments.

Hon. E. B. Hager, next introduced, made a touching and humorous address, in the spirit of a boy who grown to manhood in a place removed from his native hills, comes back to the scenes of his first loves and his early joys, to renew acquaintance and to tell the folks how proud he is of them and his own country.

A feature of Mr. Hager's speech was his fine tribute to the character of his father—at the moment one of the audience, but seated—whom he referred to as "the best man ever born in Sandy Valley"—calling on him to stand up. The elder Hager did so, and stood in dignity—a distinguished figure—while the throng gazed and applauded.

The frequent rounds of applause that greeted and interrupted the speakers, demonstrated that those assembled there responded to the spirit and sentiment of the occasion. Ashland won entrance, within the portals of Prestonsburg's heart, when the Booster Quartette took the stage and held the people in thrall for half an hour, with sweet songs of an earlier and the present day, such as "When You and I were Young Maggie" and "Blowing Bubbles" and ending with a humorous selection "Old Nick Arnold Had a Farm". When they had done, Prestonsburg had taken Ashland in to its heart of hearts.

Messrs John S. Hager, Harry McIntosh Nelson Weedon and Harry Moore, composing the quartette will be long held in affectionate remembrance by Prestonsburg people to whom music is language of the soul.

Under the direction of Mr. B. F. Forgy, President of the Ashland-Daily Independent Company, the crowd when maneuvered while motion pictures were taken from the stage. Mr. Forgy announced that motion pictures taken here and at other Big Sandy points on the trip would be shown at the Liberty Theatre, and the people, especially the youngsters showed no bashfulness at this prospect.

From the park, at the close of the program there, the guests were escorted to the offices of Harkins and Harkins where they were received by a committee of ladies and Messrs Harkins. Delicious punch and cake, cigars and cigarettes were served and at this point good cheer and good fellowship reached its climax.

The length of the program prevented the visitors from seeing much of the city and there was no time to visit points of interest in and around the city. But they promised to come again next year—stronger than ever—and pledge was made that city of good streets and automobiles accommodations would be waiting for them then.

expressions of appreciation for the manner in which they had been received.

STATE CONVENTION AMERICAN LEGION

Members of Floyd Post 139 and all who take interest in American Legion activities should take occasion to converse with W. S. Wallen about the Third Annual State Convention held in Lexington Sept. 1 and 2.

Mr. Wallen attended as a delegate of Floyd Post and took active part in the work of convention as a member of the Committee on War Risk Insurance and Compensation, and was elected by the convention a member of the Legislative Committee for the ensuing year and delegate for the 10th Congressional District, Annual National Convention to be held at Kansas City Mo., October 31, Nov. 1 and 2.

But it is not concerning his part in the convention proceedings nor of the honors it conferred upon him, that Mr. Wallen talks. His theme is the convention—its personnel, its purposes and the work it is doing for the country in general and for worthy ex-service men in particular.

Mr. Wallen speaks warmly of the pleasure of mingling with the delegates in informal gatherings, where good fellowship and a spirit of patriotism prevailed. He says the comrades that failed to attend the convention missed something, the pleasure and spirit of which they will not realize till they attend some future convention.

In the conventions oratory and proceedings love of country and solicitude for the permanence of American institutions was apparent at every moment of the sessions, said Mr. Wallen.

The convention went on record against narrowness of every character. With the legionaires there is no sectionalism, no religious, political, class or race prejudice. An evidence of this was the unanimous adoption against all associations secret or open, the purpose of which may to array class against class or race against race. The adoption of this resolution was a rebuke to the movement to stir up hostility against the Jews, and a condemnation of the Ku Klux Klan whose activities were considered calculated to cultivate race hatred for the negroes.

That the American Legion is not or selfishly zealous in behalf of the ex-service men as a class, Mr. Wallen states, was plain, not only from public speeches, but from private expressions. Mr. Wallen says the Legion is as solicitous that unworthy ex-service men shall not impose on the bounty of the government, as that every needy ex-soldier shall be assisted.

According to Mr. Wallen, the government is not well supplied with hospitals for men who came out of service suffering from nervous and mental disorders. A bill to appropriate $5,000,000 to supply this need, now

Brown Bag Blues

When the kids come home from school with cramps, diarrhea, vomiting, fever—the tendency is to dismiss it as just “a bug that’s going around.” Or when you miss a couple of days work with the same symptoms, you figure you merely “caught something somewhere.” But the bug you caught—or that caught you—may well have been food poisoning. And you might have sent the bug to school or work in that innocent brown bag lunch.

So not to get caught holding the bag, you should start with scrupulously clean countertops and utensils. Wash them thoroughly with soap and hot water. The same goes for your hands. If you have cuts or sores, use rubber gloves. Also, rinse vacuum bottles with boiling water after each washing.

Making sure food is cooked thoroughly is surely a step toward preventing food poisoning. But if the food is meant to be hot, keep it hot by closing it up tight right away. If it’s meant to be cool, keep it cool. Bacteria will thrive between 45 degrees and 115 degrees.

A vacuum bottle will keep certain kinds of food hot or cold. There is no need to worry about bacteria creeping into the bottle. If the food is poured boiling hot, it is safe.

When making a sandwich, use a fork to place meat, poultry or cheese in the sandwich—not your fingers. Fingers spread bacteria. The lunch-meat should be used within one week after purchase. If kept longer than that, the cold cuts can become contaminated from being opened and handled in the kitchen.

Aside from a sandwich, canned meat and poultry products, opened and eaten immediately, are a good bet (if the can is sealed and not bulged or dented). Dry meats or fully cooked products, like bologna and franks, also keep well. Frozen chicken or turkey is good, too. Virtually any meat or poultry product can be used for lunch—if it’s cooked and handled properly. Fruits and vegetables are not a problem either, as long as they are clean and well scrubbed. Besides bacteria, they may be contaminated with surface residues of pesticides or herbicides. Hard-boiled eggs keep fine too but, by all means, don’t peel them. Nature has designed a sterile package for this excellent protein source that keeps it free of contamination. Leave the shell on until you’re ready to eat the egg.

Bagging it is fine but using lunch boxes is better. Lunch boxes, especially insulated ones, hold the cold much better than paper bags. Plus, a box is easy to keep clean and sanitary. But if you decide to use brown bags, buy them specifically for lunches and use them once—don’t use bags in which you bring home leftover lunches, groceries or other items.

Ideally, lunch should be stored in the refrigerator—if there is one at work or at school. If not, use a freezer gel device, or make one by cleaning out a plastic margarine tub, filling it with water and freezing it. Put it with your lunch to keep it cold until you’re ready to eat. Or you might try freezing certain types of sandwiches, though you will experience some loss of quality.

Frozen sandwiches thaw in time for lunch, and also help keep the rest of the lunch cool until then. One other thing to remember—letting your lunch sit in a warm place (such as the top of a radiator) lets bacteria grow at will. The longer it sits, the greater the potential for problems.

You won’t know for sure if you have had a case of food poisoning, that is, without thorough medical tests. But if you have a severe headache, diarrhea, vomiting, abdominal cramps and fever after eating, there’s a pretty good chance the culprit might be food poisoning. Because the symptoms are similar, “flu” and food poisoning are often mistaken for each other. Food poisoning is rarely fatal, but may affect infants and elderly persons severely. If you have symptoms, ask your doctor about the possibility of food poisoning. The important thing to remember is—why take chances? You can prevent food poisoning.

Additives Explained

 • Lecithin. It’s also an antioxidant, used in chocolate, margarine, and baked goods. This chemical is common in plants and animals, and provides the nutrient choline.

• Mono-and diglycerides. Used in peanut butter, margarine, candy, and baked goods, this is safe but appears mostly in foods high in sugar or fat.

• Polysorbate 60, 65, & 80. Added to baked goods, imitation dairy products, and frozen desserts, they appear to be safe though they’re synthetic.

• Sorbitan monostearate. An emulsifier that keeps oil and water mixed in cakes, icing, and frozen pudding.

The following are considered “uncertain”:

Uncertain
 • Phosphoric acid, phosphates.

Unsafe
 • Brominated vegetable oil (BVO). It’s also a clouding agent in citrus-flavored soft drinks; leaves a residue in body fat. Alternatives do exist.

Ferry in Monroe County One of Last in State

Two hundred years ago most Kentuckians crossed rivers of any size by boat.

In later years when a farmer needed to cross the river with his horse and wagon, he encountered difficulties.

Then the ferry system was devised to solve the problem. The flat-surfaced boat was designed to transport a vehicle, as well as passengers, across the river and deposit them safe and dry on the other side.

Bridges were the next step in the line of progress toward the easiest and most efficient way to cross the river.

With the widespread use of bridges, crossing a river, even one the size of the Ohio River, is something Kentuckians take for granted today.

But for Kentuckians living in eastern Monroe county, time stands still. To get to the county seat of Tompkinsville, residents use a ferry to cross the Cumberland River at Turkey Neck Bend. One of the few ferries left in Kentucky, it is the only one owned and operated by the state.

The ferry is powered by a small tug boat, the Jennie Lou, and is maintained by Department of Transportation employees who work 24 hours a day transporting vehicles across the river free of charge.

Without the ferry, residents could not travel the two sections of KY 214 connected by the ferry and would have to drive 50 miles out of their way to get to Tompkinsville.

“I don’t use the ferry too often,” one resident said. “But it sure comes in handy when you need it. I’m an independent businessman and it saves money to cut corners any way you can.” The 100-mile round trip would cost plenty in gas, he said.

While crossing on the ferry to get to town recently, Cleo Finley, a Monroe county farmer, explained how he helped build the ferry in 1948.

“Six of us with farms across the river donated some money and built this thing so we could get across the river,” he said. They paid a Louisville man $1,500 to build the ferry.

Finley said at that time they charged 40 cents for a car to cross and 60 cents for a two-ton truck. “We gave a man 50 percent to operate it until then Governor Louie Nunn came along and freed it,” he said.

In 1968, when Finley decided to discontinue operating the ferry, the state Department of Transportation bought it for $6,500 and began operating it free of charge to the public.

Signs of age are showing on the ferry

this year and its load limit has been lowered from 17 tons to five tons by the U. S. Coast Guard. The Coast Guard inspects the ferry once a year to make sure it is up to federal standards.

“The brace is broken and the bottom is rusting out,” Strode said. “We can only take two cars at a time now and no big trucks. We’re just waiting for them to bring us a new ferry.”

The Department of Transportation has purchased a ferry from a company in Portsmouth, Ohio. It should be delivered to the site within a month, department officials said.

Even though winter work is hard, Strode likes his job “because I like to talk to people.” In the five minutes it takes to cross over and back on the ferry, neighbors exchange greetings and the latest news with each other and the workers on the ferry.

During the warmer seasons, the job gives him a chance to enjoy the outdoors, Strode said. “I see deer swimming across the river all the time. We almost ran into one once, but he saw us at the last minute and swam the other way.”

Finley said he had hoped the department would replace the ferry with a bridge. But building a bridge at that spot is just not feasible, according to E. V. Hilton, general manager of the highway district in Bowling Green.

With rough terrain and the variation in water level, a very large expensive bridge would have to be built there, Hilton said. The ferry crosses the Cumberland River about 50 miles southwest of Wolfe Creek Dam, which causes the water level to fluctuate greatly.

“There is not enough traffic at this point to warrant such a bridge,” Hilton said.

About 150 vehicles cross the ferry on an average day, according to transportation employees working on the ferry.

“It stays pretty busy on the ferry during the day, and you need two men to operate it,” said Cornell Guffey, an employee assigned to the ferry. “It only takes one at night and it gets pretty lonesome at times. Work is real bad some nights when it gets 10 below down here.”

Since the river freezes in the winter, the ferry operates year round. “In winter I’ve taken people across and had to push them up the hill when it was icy,” said Leon Strode, another employee.

While people in the area wait for the new ferry to arrive, they depend heavily on the old one. One resident said that without the ferry he could not get his work done. “We farm on both sides of the river so we use it all the time. It’s a necessity.”

School enrollment has dropped more than 770,000 in 1971 to approximately 720,000 in 1979.

Miss Pelphrey, Mr. Spradlin Exchange Vows

Connie Lynn Pelphrey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. Pelphrey, of Prestonsburg, and James Dean Spradlin, son of Roger Spradlin, of Enon, Ohio, and Betty Wagner, of Paintsville, were united in marriage October 18 at the Community United Methodist Church, Prestonsburg, with Paul Leslie Pelphrey, brother of the bride, officiating at the ceremony.

Pre-nuptial music was played by Mrs. Alice Gray Buchanan, organist, and The Lord's Prayer was sung by vocalist Brenda Ward, while the couple knelt in prayer.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a lovely gown of chiffon, silk venise lace and seed pearls. Tiny scattered seed pearls graced the silk venise lace of the sheer yoke and created the Victorian look of the high neckline. A slightly raised waistline and the molded silk lace bodice were also touched with seed pearls. The long and sheer bishop sleeves were sculptured in matching lace trim and the full sunburst pleated chiffon skirt flowed into a longer-than-chapel-length train. The bride wore a two-tiered Juliet cap and fingertip length veil, completely edged with silk venise lace and seed pearls.

Matrons of honor, Teresa Gibson, of Lexington, and Pam Mosier, of Tulsa, Oklahoma, sister of the bride, were attired in a two piece ensemble of seleta chiffon, in a soft rose shade, with a sunburst pleated skirt which fell gracefully from the empire waistline.

Bridal attendants were Judy Minix, of Salyersville, Rhonda Caylor, of Georgetown, Sandy Collins, of Prestonsburg, and Cindy Wolelett, of Louisville. All were attired in gowns identical to that of the matrons of honor, with each carrying a hurricane lamp and lighted candle, with white streamers.

The flower girl, Miss Terri Lynn Houston, cousin of the bride, was dressed in a white sunburst pleated gown, with long sheer sleeves which fell from a raised waistline into a soft full skirt.

The ringbearer was Shawn Heath Ousley, who was dressed in a white tuxedo.

Best man was Myron Reimers, of Tampa, Florida. Groomsmen were Gary Combs, of Paintsville, Dave Hartman, of Omaha, Nebraska, Christ Hutchinson, of Kettering, Ohio, Joey Spradlin, of Lexington, and Dennis Walker, of Auxier.

For her daughters' wedding, Mrs. Pelphrey wore a floor length, two piece chiffon print ensemble of soft beige and pink with spaghetti straps and sunburst pleats falling from the natural waistline. Mrs. Wagner, mother of the groom, chose a floor length gown of pink printed chiffon with a matching cape.

Five Cats on All-Area Squad

Five Prestonsburg High School athletes have been named to the 1980 All-Area Class A-AA football team. The all-star squad was named by The Ashland Daily Independent and coaches of all 10 Class A and AA teams in the area. The selections included top players on both offense and defense.

Blackcat players named "All Area" are:

—Jack Wells, 6-2, 182-pound senior, quarterback; termed "one of the top wishbone quarterbacks in the state."

—Greg Haywood, 6-1, 153-pound senior, offensive end, leading vote-getter at the position, who caught eight touchdown passes from Wells and added two two-point conversions.

—Raymond Gibson, 6-2, 270-pound senior, offensive tackle; biggest player picked, described as "a two-fold threat in running or passing" plays.

—John Burchett, 6-1, 225-pound offensive guard; the only junior selected all-area on offense, picked up the most votes received by an offensive lineman.

—Lonnie May, 5-11, 170-pound senior, defensive end; "speed made up for lack of size, and was an offensive star, too..."

The full roster of both offensive and defensive all-star follows:

Gets College Grant

Mike Setser, 6-2, 230-pound linebacker, offensive guard and place kicker for the Clintwood (Va.) High School Green Wave football team has signed a four-year grant with James Madison University. He earned all-district, all-Region D, all-Southwest Virginia and all-State honors and is also a standout on the baseball and basketball teams, earning all-district honors on both teams as a junior. Setser is an A student and a member of the National Honor Society and plans to study medicine. He is the son of Marvin and Wilma Setser, formerly of Auxier. He is a grandson of James Setser, of Auxier, and Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Howard, of Clintwood, Va.

82% of Vietnam Vets Train Under GI Bill

Eighty-two percent of the 123,000 Vietnam Era veterans who live in Kentucky have taken some form of training under the GI Bill.

Statistics show that 101,660 veterans used their educational benefits and that of those 56,437 attended college.

Veterans have 10 years from the date of discharge to complete training under the GI Bill. Veterans discharged in 1971 have only one more year of training remaining in which they can draw a monthly check to help them defray educational costs.

Training is not restricted to college, since there are programs for on-the-job training and other residential schools providing technical training that may be attended.

Lee Caudill, director of the VA regional office in Louisville, says any veteran who still has time available should consider using the GI Bill for training.

Thanks To Donors

United Federal Savings & Loan, Hall Funeral Home, James Allen, attorney, First Commonwealth Bank, Irene's Grocery, Oval Howard, Bruce Van Hoose, National Mines, Elmer Morrison, fire chief, Elk Horn Coal Co., Frank Martin, First Guaranty Bank, Conley's Ky. Food Store, Walter Henegar, Nick Shepard, Garrett Sundry, and the area Volunteer Fire Dept. for their time.

We appreciate the help of all with making the Christmas treat a success especially to Santa for his time to please the children.

Basketball Near Standstill

C. "OLLIE" ROBINSON and TOMMIE LYNN MAY

Basketball was almost at a standstill in the 58th district last week, with the only game a doubleheader pitting the Betsy Layne Bobcats and the Prestonsburg Blackcats. The Bobcats picked up their eighth win by defeating Prestonsburg, 83 to 52. High scoring for Prestonsburg were Joe Marson with 21 points and Jack Wells with 12. Betsy Layne was led by Dwight Newsome with 20 points and Jimmy Hall with 14.

At halftime of the boys' game, Betsy Layne held its homecoming activities. Miss Breena Reynolds, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Reynolds, of Beaver, was crowned the 1980-81 Homecoming Queen. Members of the court were Sheila Watson, Peggy Frasure, Belinda Robinette, Lisa Meade, Annita Smith, Kathy Roop, Elaine Akers and Melody Conn. They also honored the ball players, cheerleaders, managers, coaches, and principals for the years of 1940, 1950, 1960 and 1970.

The Betsy Layne Lady Cats picked up their 10th win by defeating Prestonsburg girls, 91 to 35. Top scorers for Prestonsburg were Jeanna McKenzie with 19 points and Kerry Johnson with 10. Betsy Layne was led by Sheila Johnson with 21 points and Lela Layne with 15.

New Year Wishes

By KENNY RICE

David Turner looks back on the 1980 portion of this season with warm thoughts. His McDowell Daredevils are the winningest team in the county and one of the hottest clubs in the mountains.

David can't ask for much more than continued fine play from his unit, to avoid a slump and to roll along as the favorite in the 58th district at this stage of the season.

The rest of the county coaches are looking forward, not back, on the season. They are making New Year wishes for improved play from their teams.

Allen Central's John Martin notes that his Rebels are making progress, "showing improvement in just about every game." John has a reputation for district and regional tournament success and AC will improve between now and March if Martin's track record remains intact. Consistency is his and Rebel fans' New Year wish.

Wheelwright's Danny Johnson is searching for a starting five. He lost a key player when Gerald Osborne transferred to Virgie, and the Trojans have not had a set lineup yet. Danny feels he has arrived at a starting combo that will put Wheelwright in the stretch run as a darkhorse. A solid starting unit is his and Trojan fans' New Year wish.

Betsy Layne's William Newsome, Jr. has put together a respectable team of youngsters who can win on any night. That was expected. His Bobcats made run after run at Ashland in the Pikeville Invitational before running out of runs. Even in the loss, Betsy Layne showed they have the gunners to take a shot at a third straight district championship. Time is on their side and Junior has a great tourney record. Tradition upheld is his and Bobcat fans' New Year wish.

Prestonsburg's Ron Robinson has a young team that will get better as the season goes along. Look for a surprise or two between now and March. Ron's Blackcats always pull an upset. With a good looking bunch of freshmen, the future looks bright in Blackcat Country. Seasons to come is Ron's and Blackcat fans' New Year wish.

Here is hoping all these wishes are granted. It will make for another wonderful district tournament.

DID YOU KNOW?

Between 1967 and 1972, Gene Frasure set an amazing mark at Maytown High. With an enrollment of around 200 in grades 9-12, Frasure produced four major college players in a six-year span: Rudy Thacker (Vanderbilt), Mike Tallent, Randy Click and Pat Tallear (George Washington). In 1964 he had another Wildcat go to a major college, Bob Tallent (UK, later George Washington, and still later Tallent became George Washington's coach.)

STILL THE ONE

C. "Ollie" Robinson is in his 28th consecutive year as "the Voice of Eastern Kentucky Sports." Thousands still rely on Ollie's account of the regional sports scene over WDOC-FM. His wit is still crisp and his style unique.

If this is Ollie's 28th year of following sports, how old does that make him? Well, would you believe he started out as a four-year old sportscaster? How about a five-year-old?

Keep up the good work, O.R.

WELCOME BACK

Jim Allen has joined Ollie as the color commentator on WDOC's high school play-by-play coverage. Jim started sportscasting at Morehead State and has been one of the area's most-listened-to radio personalities since returning to Floyd county a decade ago.

Welcome back to sports, Jim.

WISH

I wish "Huck" Francis was the public address announcer for UK football and basketball. He would be a class addition to the state's top athletic program.

GOOD CHOICE

Two of the county's finest golfers, Garry and Larry Brown, are entering professions synonymous with golf. Garry is attending UK Med School and Larry is enrolled at UK's Law School.

QUE PASA?

Former Prestonsburg High cheerleader, Linda Godsey, is now a foreign language instructor at one of PHS' biggest rivals, Pikeville. She is doing an excellent job, as expected.

SPORTS ARE FUNNY

Sports sure are funny. Sometimes they are downright hilarious.

Sports causes everyone at some time in their life to shout, "We're Number One." Sports can evoke cries of "Kill!" and "Crush 'em," and in the next instance have those same folks hugging and shaking hands and wishing each other the best. Sports allows grownups to be kids again and allow kids to emulate grownups.

This year should be full of fun. Happy New Year everyone.

Lost Papers Are No Problem, Says VA

Don't let lost documents prevent you from seeking veterans benefits, the Veterans Administration today reminded veterans and their dependents.

A VA spokesman said, "We have found that some veterans who cannot locate birth or marriage certificates don't apply for benefits because they believe these documents are essential."

VA will accept a certified statement instead of an original birth or marriage certificate when needed to establish eligibility. In the case of a marriage this policy applies only to the first marriage for each partner, and there must be no contradictory information on file at VA.

In years past, VA required formal documentation to support claims for compensation and education benefits for veterans, widows and orphaned children.

Now, however, VA will accept a certified statement regarding the birth of a veteran's child or as proof of age and relationship in disability cases, the spokesman said.

VA urged veterans and their dependents with eligibility questions to contact the nearest VA regional office or a representative of one of the national veterans organizations.

DAV Reminds Veterans Of Job Preference

At present the Job Corps has several openings at the old shoe factory at Lancer. Veterans who need a job should check with the Employment Office at Prestonsburg which will give assistance in finding employment, or come to the D.A.V. meeting at Auxier, Friday, Jan. 9 at 7 p.m.

If just one gallon of gasoline were saved each week for every automobile in the country, approximately 5.6 billion gallons of gasoline would be saved a year.

Brown Reappoints Reynolds To Board

William J. "Bill" Reynolds, of Allen, has been reappointed by Gov. John Y. Brown, Jr., to membership of the Kentucky Geological Survey advisory board. The commission, dated Dec. 24, provides that Reynolds, a former state representative, will serve a term ending Dec. 8, 1983.

In an accompanying letter Governor Brown wrote Reynolds:

"You have rendered a valuable service to this body, and it will continue to make significant progress under the programs you have helped to develop."

ANNUAL CHRISTMAS PARTY

About two hundred people, including the residents and their families, enjoyed their annual Christmas party December 23 at Mountain Manor Nursing Home at Prestonsburg.

All enjoyed a special program and Santa Claus appeared on the scene to help give out gifts to all the residents, and refreshments were served to everyone. All had a very joyful time.

We also want to extend special thanks to everyone who gave donations of money, clothing, fruit and candy. Because of their kindness and thoughtfulness our residents had the best Christmas ever.

We want to invite everyone to come and visit our home when you have the time; we feel that ours is a home of love.

Let's all work together and help our elderly have a more happy and fulfilling life.

Wishing everyone a very happy and healthy New year!

Jerrico Head Offers Employment In Support of Convicted Agents

By HARRY MERRITT
(In The Lexington Herald)

Warren Rosenthal, the chairman of the board of Lexington's Jerrico Inc., says he has "had it" with a judicial system that cares more about the rights of criminals and anarchists than about the law-enforcement officials who protect the public.

So when two former FBI officials were convicted recently of violating the rights of people suspected of having links with the radical Weather Underground, Rosenthal decided to do something about it.

He wrote a letter of support to the former FBI men, Edward S. Miller and W. Mark Felt, and offered either of them a job as director of security for Jerrico, a multimillion-dollar restaurant chain.

"This was my personal reaction to what I think is a miscarriage of justice," Rosenthal said in an interview. "I wanted to let them know there were some people in this country who didn't believe justice was given (by the convictions). I told them I'd be pleased to have either one interview for the job."

Miller, 57, will fly to Lexington next week to discuss the job offer, which Rosenthal said is probably one of several that Miller has received lately. Felt, 67, declined the offer and told Rosenthal that he intends to remain in retirement in Alexandria, Va.

Rosenthal also offered to use his own money to pay either Miller's or Felt's $8,500 fine if either man went to work for Jerrico. Both men turned down the offer. Their fines are being paid through a defense fund raised by other past and present FBI agents.

Law-enforcement officials today don't get the support they need to track down criminals and protect the public, Rosenthal said.

"Whether it's the FBI, the CIA, the Lexington police or the state police, I wonder whether we put them first against the adversaries they're facing," Rosenthal said. "And I wonder whether the individual citizen is being put in a defensive position over that of the adversary."

To illustrate his point, Rosenthal mentioned a New Jersey man who was charged recently with firing a gun at two robbers in his own home. "Now where's it all fit in? You can't protect your own home, and if the police protect you they're often made the scapegoat of the arrest," Rosenthal said.

"Here are two FBI men (Miller and Felt) who were assigned to break the hold of one of the most vicious anarchist groups this country's seen in many a day, and they expect them to play according to the Bill of Rights," Rosenthal said. "Anybody who wants to get into an alley fight according to the Marquis of Queensberry rules is going to get whipped."

Rosenthal said he has "great concern" for the guarantees provided by the Bill of Rights. "But I also have the right of safety of my home. My wife has the right to carry a purse or wear a gold chain around her neck and walk down the street without fear of being robbed."

Rosenthal said the job of security director was in Jerrico's corporate budget for 1980, "but we had been moving very slowly in our choice of a person to head that department."

An increase in armed robberies at the Long John Silver's and Jerry's restaurants owned by Jerrico makes it necessary to fill the position he said. Rosenthal said he was not seeking publicity when he made what he thought was a confidential job offer to Miller and Felt, and he expressed surprise at "the leak of the whole thing" in an article in a Washington newspaper late last month.

Attending was her Granny Ruth Price; Jim Fraley, Sheila, Roland, Mike and Patricia Patrick; her cousins and their parents, Mike Hobson, Steve Price, Danita Wireman, and Robbie Price; her friends and their parents, Eileen Ennis and Blake Price. Many nice gifts were received.

Her grandmothers, Melvina Price and Thelma Fraley, were unable to attend.

Modern Art Studied In New KET Series

Public television takes a look at art as a mirror of social change in a new eight-part series, "The Shock Of The New." The series, written and hosted by Time magazine art critic Robert Hughes, premieres Sunday, January 11 at 8 p.m. on KET.

Hughes, who characterizes "The Shock Of The New" as a "look at ourselves and our century through the lens of art," filmed the series in over a dozen countries, including France, Spain, Italy, Brazil and the United States. It features rare documentary film and filmed interviews with such living and deceased masters as Pollock, le Corbusier, Miro, Dali and Rauschenberg, among others.

Each hour-long program focuses on a different socially-historic period and the prevailing philosophies of that time. The premiere episode, "The Mechanical Paradise," travels back to the late machine age (1870-1914) with its vast array of inventions to see how art reflected the rapidly changing world.

Episode two, "The Powers That Be," explores the great despair and malaise that resulted from World War I and the relationship between Russian constructivism and the 1917 revolution.

Not all modern art protests or tries to reform. In the third presentation of "The Shock Of The New"—"The Landscape of Pleasure"—Hughes examines the experience of pleasure modern art gives, from Impressionism to contemporary art. Included is rare archival footage of Picasso and Matisse at work, as well as interviews with Robert Motherwell and David Hockney.

In part four, "Trouble in Utopia," Hughes looks at architecture from the Bauhaus to the Buckminster Fuller Dome, examining the idea that buildings can improve thought and behavior.

Future episodes focus on surrealism; the works of artists like Van Gogh, Klee, O'Keefe and Munch who did not feel at home in the ordinary world; modern art's relationship with other media; and, the consequences of the modern art movement.

"Unfortunately, epochs of art don't start or end neatly on cue," says Hughes. "Ours is finishing its run now, leaving behind it some of the most challenging, intelligent and beautiful works of art ever made by man, along with a mass of superfluity and rubbish. We're at the end of the modern era. Art no longer acts on us in the same way that it did on our grandparents." "The Shock Of The New" is Hughes' attempt to explain why.

Make Fire Safety a Workbench Project

The danger of hitting your thumb with a hammer is real enough. The U.S. Government calculates that over 47,000 hammer injuries occurred in 1979 alone. Misuse of even so simple a workshop tool as the common screwdriver caused an estimated 13,642 injuries in the same year.

The total amount of accidents, serious enough to require emergency room treatment or hospitalization, resulting from workshop apparatus, tools and attachments in 1979 is estimated to be nearly 297,000.

These startling statistics should remind home handymen that workshop safety can't be taken for granted. Even more frightening are workshop conditions that pose serious risk of fire, threatening not only the workshop area, but your family and home if fire should start and spread.

The safety engineers at Underwriters Laboratories stress that your home workshop should be organized and maintained safely to decrease, as much as possible, the dangers of fire. Not only is a safe workshop necessary to protect you and your family from harm, but a safe, worry-free environment can spare your mind the anxieties that hinder efficient, concentrated, creative work.

Consider your surroundings. Special fire-prevention care must be taken in a small area, like your workshop, where many highly combustible building materials may be present. Fires burn at varying speeds, and with finely divided substances such as wood dust and fine sandings, the possibility of rapid fire is critical.

Deposits of combustible dusts on beams, machinery, floors and other surfaces are more easily ignited than the solid material they cover. When ignited, the result is a flash fire.

Dust Explosions

If the dust is stirred up into a cloud, and there is a source of ignition present, an explosion can occur. Even the simple act of turning on an electric light switch can ignite a cloud of combustible dust or flammable vapor.

Statistics are not available concerning dust explosions in home workshops; however, it is more likely that a home workshop would have a sawdust fire than a sawdust explosion. The difference lies only in degree; the greater the concentration and accumulation of combustible substances, the more possible a rapid fire becomes.

Various means can be employed to reduce the danger of sawdust fires in your work area. These include collection, elimination of ignition sources and proper venting. Good housekeeping (cleaning up sawdust, shavings and woodchips) is essential to prevent workshop fires.

Don't forget that metal dust due to grinding is also capable of catching fire. All fine dust should be cleaned up as soon as possible to reduce the chance of fire.

Home Workshop Safety

With inflation driving up the prices of home improvement and accessories, do-it-yourselfers are turning to their home workshops to make their own improvements, repairs, etc. Carelessness, and being unfamiliar with safety rules, often results in accidents. Underwriters Laboratories Inc. (UL), offers the following suggestions to keep in mind while working in one of the most hazardous areas of the home—the workshop.

- Never wear neck ties, jewelry or loose fitting clothing with baggy sleeves which can be entangled in power tools. A snug-fitting shop apron, safely tied in the back provides good protection against tool moving parts.

- Keep work-bench free of litter and floor clear of loose pieces of lumber, nails, etc.

- Store all combustible fluids such as solvents and thinners outdoors or in a low fire probability location. Store oily rags in enclosed metal containers, disposing of them soon and frequently.

- Keep a fully-charged UL, Listed Class B & C or an A,B,C multi-purpose fire extinguisher handy for flammable liquid and electrical fires.

- Keep hands away from moving saw blades, drill bits, router cutters, etc. Use a notched cutter to push wood work pieces the last few inches past the blades of an electric bench saw.

- Never remove the guards from tools—they are there to protect you. Follow the instruction manual for their use.

- Electrical supply cords of all power tools should terminate in a 3-pin grounding plug, which should be connected to a 3-terminal receptacle. Make certain that the ground terminal is really grounded, or have a qualified electrician determine this. When necessary, adapters should be provided for two-pin plugs, and the green-wire pigtail of the adapter securely fastened to the center screw supporting the receptacle box cover. Again, make certain that the receptacle box is properly grounded.

- Wear safety glasses or goggles.

- Look for the UL Listing Mark on all power tools. This indicates that the design of such equipment has been tested, and found to meet recognized safety requirements.

litter. If you're a seasoned handyman or just starting out, you already know work space is frequently at a premium. It is important that you conserve room and not waste what space you have. Therefore, avoid needless clutter.

Make a habit of cleaning your work area frequently in between the stages of your work project. Not only will you find working more pleasant and efficient, you'll also avert the fire and safety risks caused by sawdust, woodchips, shavings, scrap wood and stray nails.

The proper storing of flammable liquids, such as solvents, thinner, gasoline and oils, in low fire probability locations, is an important factor in fire safety. Flammable liquids should be kept in tightly closed metal containers. They should be used only where there is good ventilation, and away from possible ignition sources such as matches, pilot lights, sparks or hot surfaces.

—Monday, January 12, the regularly scheduled Wayland outpost clinic in the basement of the Wayland Methodist Church from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Services available will include immunizations, TB skin tests, urinalyses, and blood pressures.

—Wednesday, January 14, a glaucoma clinic at the Floyd County Health Department from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Any person age 35 and older may attend this clinic to be screened, free.

Project

Keep in mind that the vapors of these liquids are usually heavier than air and can travel a considerable distance along the floor. Oily rags should be stored in a metal container and disposed of as soon as possible to prevent spontaneous ignition.

Ignition Sources

While you're dealing with substances that fuel fires, watch for possible hazardous ignition sources. It is estimated that portable electric space heaters accounted for 228 injuries in 1979.

Home workshops are often located in poorly heated and under-ventilated basement, garage and attic areas. Plugging in a space heater to compensate only leads to life-threatening and property-damaging possibilities. Again, the dangers of sawdust and wood fires reach a critical level.

If your work area is too cool or drafty, think of alternative ways of warming up. If possible, relocate your workshop to another part of your home, or consider adding more insulation. Simplest of all, put on a snug-fitting sweater or sweatshirt. Space heaters and workshops are a dangerous combination.

If you've looked at the surgeon general's warning on cigarettes lately, you know they've been found to be dangerous to your health. The hazards of smoking are even greater in the home workshop. Your concentration on the work at hand makes it more than likely you'll forget the cigarette you lit only a moment ago. The burns on the average smoker's workbench attest to this.

Worse still is the likelihood that the cigarette will drop hot ashes onto nearby combustible materials. There may or may not be best places to smoke, but the home workshop is certainly one of the worst smoking areas.

Why not make your next project the designing, cutting and framing of a brightly painted "NO SMOKING" sign to hang over your workbench? It will be a constant reminder to you, your family and visiting friends that you make fire safety an important element in your workshop area, and will attest to the professional way you approach your work.

You can reduce the possibility of electrical fires by making sure power tool electrical supply cords which terminate in a 3-pin plug (one pin for grounding) are connected to a 3-terminal or grounding type receptacle. And be certain that the electrical outlet box is properly grounded. If necessary, have a qualified, licensed electrician check it out.

Since improperly maintained hot water heaters, furnaces, motors, or poorly functioning electric tools are potential sources for stray sparks, it is essential you monitor their correct operation and maintenance.

If you're not sure of your expertise, have things looked over by a professional. Doing-it-yourself is a good way to cut down on costs, but not if it risks the expense to life and property that carelessness and lack of sufficient know-how can cause.

Fire Extinguisher Recommended

Finally, don't overlook your home workshop's most important tool—an Underwriters Laboratories Inc. Listed fire extinguisher. Extinguishers are labeled A, B, and/or C according to the type of fire they can handle.

Class A fires involve ordinary combustibles such as paper, wood, drapes or upholstery. Class B fires occur with flammable liquids such as fuel oil, gasoline, paint, grease in a frying pan and solvents. Class C fires involve electrical equipment such as appliances, motors, TV sets, power tools and fuse boxes.

An extinguisher marked ABC that will fight all three types of fires is recommended for general home use. Having the appropriate extinguisher near at hand can provide you with a way to stop a fire in time. Equip your workshop with a smoke detector to alert you if a fire begins when you're away in another part of the house.

The startling numbers of injuries in home workshops needn't intimidate you.

To decrease your chances of becoming part of those statistics, just take time to carefully analyze and evaluate your workshop environment and your own working habits. Don't put it off; eliminate your fire and safety hazards now. Make safety your next home workshop project.

There's a big, big difference in our Interest on Checking.

BANKS HAVE MORE CHECKING EXPERIENCE.

It seems that everybody is offering Interest on Checking—what's commonly referred to as a NOW account. Even places that were previously never permitted to offer checking accounts. Banks, however, have had checking accounts for years, so the switch to Interest on Checking becomes an easy one. Experience makes the transition simple.

Banks are usually more convenient, too. More locations. More drive-in facilities. More expertise in all the services that make it easier to handle all your financial affairs.

WE HAVE MORE INTEREST ON CHECKING EXPERIENCE THAN MOST BANKS.

Even before NOW accounts were officially permitted the first of this year, The Bank Josephine offered an account that was identical when it came to end benefits. Because we've been doing basically the same thing, we have more experience than most other banks. The mechanics aren't new to us. And that translates into less chance for error. A little thing? Not to us. Not when its your money....and your interest.

NOT EVERY BANK PAYS YOU INTEREST ON ALL THE MONEY IN YOUR CHECKING BALANCE.

The biggest benefit of an Interest on Checking Plan, or a NOW Account, is, of course, the interest you earn on the money that's in your checking account—currently 5¼%. But here again The Bank Josephine offers you the advantage. Unlike some banks, we pay interest on all your money—no matter what the balance. And our charges are based on a monthly average balance, instead of the costly minimum balances required by most financial institutions.

WE WANT TO MAKE A CHECKING ACCOUNT MORE THAN JUST A PLACE TO KEEP YOUR MONEY.

Besides our Interest on Checking Plan, we also have our Regular Checking Plan, which gives you checking free of a monthly service charge no matter how many checks you write—and just requires a $300 average balance.

Pick the plan that suits you best. Then drop by any of our convenient locations, and we'll fill in all the details. After all, we have your "best interests" at heart!

31st Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Estill Ousley, of Water Gap, were given a surprise anniversary party by their children Christmas Eve. Those attending were Roy and Charlene Ousley and children, Jennifer, Vicky and Roy Michael; Avery and Jane Goble and Jimmy; John and Ada Combs and John Paul; Chuck and Joan Reynolds and Amy; and Kay Ousley. Other friends and relatives also attended.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that: Crest Coal company, Box 434, Salyersville, Ky., 41465 intends to file an application for the surface disturbance mining of approximately 137 acres located south of Foraker in Magoffin county. The proposed operation is approximately .5 miles southwest of State Route 30's junction with 1397, and located west of Cranes Nest Branch, latitude 37d. 38' 30", longitude 83d. 09' 00". The surface of the area to be mined is owned by: Robert Montgomer, Marvin, Earl, & Norma Craft, Chester Howard, Lester Arnett, Dayton Arnett, James Clemons. A brief description of the kind of mining activity proposed is: Top Removal, Area Method & Contour Strip with Hollow Fills. The application will be filed at the Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement Prestonsburg Area Office, North Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653.

Persons wishing to file written objections and/or request a formal administrative hearing in regard to the above described surface mine should notify the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection within 30 days of the date of this notice. A copy of the newspaper clipping must be attached to the written objection. The objection or request for a hearing will reference application number 077-0083. Such objection or request must be in accordance with KRS 224.081 (2), and must be forwarded to the Director of Permits, Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

2. Notice is hereby provided pursuant to 30 CFR 715.13 (d) (10) and KRS 350 that the proposed post mining land use does not constitute a change from the pre-mining land use. Public comment regarding a proposed change in land use may be submitted to the address listed above.

Social Security Taxes Rise

The social security tax deducted from workers' paychecks will be higher this year than last, Jim Kelly, Social Security district director for the Big Sandy area, said recently. This is due, first of all, Kelly said, to the fact that the tax rate increases from 6.13 percent for 1980 to 6.65 percent for 1981. In addition, the wage base, the maximum amount of annual earnings on which social security taxes are paid, increases to $29,700 for 1981 from $25,900, the 1980 figure. These increases are the result of legislation enacted in 1977 to insure that the Social Security system remains financially stable.

The increases will not be substantial, for most workers, Kelly said. For example, a worker earning about $10,000 in both 1980 and 1981 will pay about $1 more a week in social security taxes. Workers whose earnings amount to about $25,900 for both years will pay about $2.59 more a week in 1981 than in 1980.

Workers earning more than $25,900 in 1981 will see a greater increase in total social security taxes for the year. A worker earning $29,700 or more in both years will pay more in social security tax for 1981 than for 1980.

More information about social security benefits and taxes can be obtained at the Area Social Security Office, located on U. S. 23 between Paintsville and Prestonsburg. The toll-free number is listed in the local telephone directory under "U. S. Government."

Latter Day Saints To Form New Unit

A meeting scheduled January 11 in the chapel across from Our Lady of the Way hospital, Martin at 10 a.m., will organize the Martin, Boldman, Hazard and Paintsville branches of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints into the Martin-Kentucky district.

The area, which is presently under the supervision of the Lexington Stake, will be under the supervision of the Louisville-Kentucky Mission after its organization as a district.

The Lexington Stake presidency, Terrell Lassiter, Roger W. Wells and Paul Nichols, and Mission President Calvin Smoot, and Mrs. Smoot will be present at the meeting to effect the organization and transfer responsibility.

All members of the church from the four designated areas are urged to attend, as well as all friends and interested persons. Elder E. Pete Grigsby, Jr., president of the Martin Branch, is in charge of local arrangements.

Forest on north-facing slopes in Kentucky usually contain yellow poplar, sugar maple, American beech, northern red oak, hickory and white oak trees.

Subscription Rates Per Year

In Floyd County, $8.00

H&R BLOCK TAX TEST

Question No. 4

True  False

For older persons on a fixed income, H&R Block has the right answer to this and other questions regarding special tax credits and deductions for those taxpayers. If you itemize, the answer is TRUE. Because these payments are simply withheld from benefit checks during the year, they are often overlooked at tax time.

Rookie center adjusts to pro ball

New York - In a recent Boston victory vs. Chicago, rookie Kevin McHale failed to block a shot. That might not be news normally, but in the case of the former University of Minnesota standout the failure to block at least one shot in a game is the exception rather than the rule.

McHale, the third choice overall in last June's draft, has at least one blocked shot in 25 of his first 30 pro games and, as a result, he's the only rookie among the League leaders in that category.

But McHale's feat is more remarkable when you consider that he's a part-time player, averaging just 19 minutes per game, while being utilized behind Celtics' forwards Larry Bird and Cedric Maxwell. The Celtics, who have never had a player among the leaders in blocked shots since that became an official League statistic in 1972-73, now have two since center Robert Parrish is third with a 2.93 mark.

Surprising

Teammate Rick Robey has been having a first hand look at McHale's efforts all season. "He's surprising a lot of people," explains Robey. "Not too many people think he can do it, and then he goes out there and snags a couple back, and all of a sudden they change their minds. He's one of the best I've seen as far as being able to go up and get it."

"He's a real good basketball player who's sneaking up on people because they don't believe he can do what he's been doing," says Celtics' president Red Auerbach. "He's certainly the best rookie shot-blocker we've had since Bill Russell. He's fundamentally sound which means he's more than a shot blocker."

Bird is another who admires McHale's style. "He's got great ability to go up, get the shot and keep it in play," says Larry. "As his career goes on I think he's just going to get better and better."

"He's the best rookie I've seen," says Dallas Mavericks coach Dick Motta. "He could start for most teams."

J.R.'s attention to Lucy's future sister-in-law is almost enough to divert his intention to getting Bobby's job as head of Ewing Oil, but he is quick to capitalize on his brother's rash actions, on the first part of a two-part episode, on 'Dallas,' FRIDAY, JANUARY 16 on CBS-TV. Part two will be broadcast Friday, January 23.

Also happening in this episode: Mitch's sister and mother arrive for the upcoming wedding and J.R. takes an immediate interest in the new arrivals, which worries Sue Ellen. Bobby (Patrick Duffy, left) finds himself in a tough position after he enters into an oil drilling agreement which will put the company back on good terms with the cartel, even though he knows that Jock (Jim Davis, right) has already invested its capital in land development.

Science Fact

A moth is not attracted to light, per se. Its nervous system is very sensitive to illumination. So when light strikes one side of the moth, its wing movements are reduced on that side as a reflex reaction.

ANNOUNCES A NEW NAME FOR TOWN & COUNTRY FORD

A CHANGE IN NAME!!

Please read why:

Just when you were getting used to calling the Ford dealership Town & Country Ford, Lincoln, Mercury, here I go and change it again. Let me explain:

When I purchased the dealership some time ago, it was called B & D Motor Company. I held a meeting with my managers and advertising agent and we all agreed on the new name Town & Country. But since our plans were and are to serve the entire Eastern Kentucky market from our Floyd County location, the actual name was Eastern Kentucky Town & Country Ford, Lincoln, Mercury. However, we simply used the trade name of Town & Country Ford, Lincoln, Mercury.

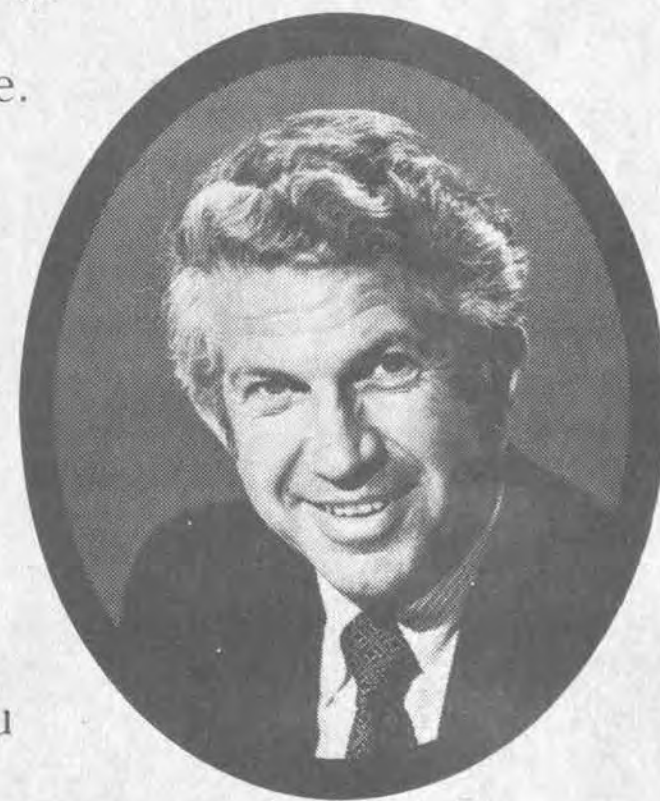

But sometimes mistakes are made. A few months ago I discovered that a Ford dealer in Louisville was also using the name Town & Country Ford. Obviously this had been overlooked when we began to use the name.

So to avoid any confusion and to give our dealership its own identity I'm changing the name from Town & Country Ford, Lincoln, Mercury to Ol' Don Jacobs Ford, Lincoln, Mercury. I'm also adding my name to our Eastern Kentucky Honda dealership. It will now be known as Ol' Don Jacobs Eastern Kentucky Honda.

Now I guess people put their names on their businesses for a lot of different reasons. I've added my name to these two dealerships to let you know that I will be personally directing the activities of each one. I want these two automobile dealerships to be an asset to the Floyd County and Eastern Kentucky area. We are working hard to make them a good place for you to do business and a good place for our employees to work. I am pleased and excited to place my name and reputation on the line to see that they are.

I have great pride in the reputation we have built at Ol' Don Jacobs Oldsmobile/Honda in Lexington. Our customers and friends know that we are fair, honest and interested in the satisfaction of each customer. Ol' Don Jacobs Ford, Lincoln, Mercury and Ol' Don Jacobs Eastern Kentucky Honda will be run the same way. When you visit you'll notice the difference. You'll sense a new attitude of helpfulness and appreciation for your business. Should you have a problem we'll tend to it fast and with a smile. As our customer you're the most important asset we have and we intend to treat you like the very special person you are.

I appreciate your past patronage and am grateful for the opportunity of being a part of this fine community and look forward to providing you with the best automobile service and the most helpful sales staff you'll find anywhere.

Spelling Champion

The 14, all of whom had won spelling bees at their own schools, were competing for a chance to go on to the district-wide competition at Morehead in March, and the statewide spell-off in Louisville, scheduled for April 10.

The daughter of Hershel and Marena Hale, of Martin, Jeannie emerged as winner when Maytown 8th-grader Gwen Hoover tripped on the notorious "ie" in "niece."

Previously eliminated were Amanda Skeens, 8th grade, Bonanza (who misspelled "skis"); Mark Tussey, 8th, Allen ("flower"); Beverly Marstin, 6th, Prater Creek ("neighborhood"); Sherry Johnson, 8th, Prestonsburg ("unwrap"); Mark Frasure, 8th, Harold ("toboggan"); Michele Stephens, 8th, Garrett ("stationery"); Linda Hall, 7th, McDowell ("cities"); Tammy Johnson, 5th, Betsy Layne ("safety"); Claude Martin, 5th, John M. Stumbo ("officer"); Loretta Jarrell, 8th, Home Branch ("hospital"); Michael Rosenberg, 5th, Clark ("receive"); and Beverly DeRossett, 8th, Auxier ("separate").

Old Christmas To Be Observed At State Park Here, Jan. 11

"Some of the most vivid stories and traditions which have lingered in the hills are woven around the centuries-old custom of 'Old Christmas,'" writes Paul Neil Allen, of Floyd county, in the centennial edition of "Wind" Magazine. "This observance, which lives mainly in the memory of older residents of the mountains, finds its origin in the days before the present-day Gregorian calendar was officially accepted by Great Britain, and consequently, the American colonies in 1752.

"Prior to this date," continues Allen, "the older Julian Calendar, adopted in the year 46 B.C., was followed and according to this chronology Christmas Day fell on Jan. 6. Many early American settlers, especially those in the Southern mountains who had sought the refuge of the hills to escape such changes, clung to the older calendar reckoning. Even though the Appalachian people over the years began to conform to the familiar Dec. 25 date, the older Christmas still remained vital in their memories."

New Year 1981 will find mountain people and their friends from all parts of Kentucky and the Tri-State area gathering once again at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Resort Park, to observe Old Christmas. Each year the Sunday nearest the Jan. 6 date is set as the gathering time. This year, Old Christmas at Jenny Wiley falls on Jan. 11. Activities begin at 2 p.m.

"Oh, I do hope lots of people come this year," says Dame Edith Fitzpatrick James, of Prestonsburg. She revived the custom of Old Christmas in the Kentucky Highlands during the Depression years.

During the 1930s Mrs. James was asked to provide a program in a recreation project. She was ill on Dec. 25 and the program was cancelled. She then rescheduled the event for Jan. 6 as an Old Christmas observance.

This Jan. 11 at May Lodge, musicians will play the banjo, fiddle, mandolin, guitar and other instruments to provide traditional carols. Entertainers like Allen, Dave Sizemore and Buddy Ratcliff will enliven the occasion with a number of mountain and Old Kentucky tunes as a bonus. A wassail bowl of mulled cider and a table laden with traditional sweetcakes has been planned by Kathryn and Chalmer Frazier.

"It's like a big old-time play party," adds Mrs. James.

A part of the tradition of Old Christmas on Jan. 6 is that all animals "would kneel in reverence at midnight on Old Christmas and mystically acquire the power of speech. We children would be determined to see these wonders, but naturally we always fell asleep," Mrs. James says.

Airman Johnson Completes Basic Training in Texas

Airman Amos W. Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Johnson, of Teaberry, has been assigned to Keesler Air Force Base, Miss., after completing Air Force basic training at Lackland AFB, Texas.

The airman will now receive specialized instruction in the administration field.

Weedman Honored

Detective Don K. Weedman, of Banner, has been awarded the Kentucky State Police Guthrie Crowe Medal for injuries he received while performing his official duties.

The medal was presented by Gov. John Y. Brown Jr. during formal decoration ceremonies held Dec. 18 in Frankfort.

Weedman was wounded Sept. 16 when he and other state police officers were attempting to disarm and take into custody a man who had barricaded himself and his two children in a Pike county house. The man allegedly had shot his wife. While he was trying to pinpoint the man's location in the house, Weedman was shot and severely wounded in the mouth.

A native of Breckinridge in Harrison county, Weedman has been assigned to the Pikeville post since May, 1975. His previous decorations include a citation for bravery in 1978 and three commendations. He was a nominee for Trooper of the Year in 1977.

RECEIVES PARACHUTIST BADGE IN TRAINING

United Federal Savings & Loan Association explains the NOW account.

What you should know about our NOW-checking account, available January 2, 1981

Recently, we have been informing you about how NOW-checking accounts will work. Now we will inform you how NOW-checking will work at United Federal Savings and Loan Association. This way you may compare it to where you're currently doing your checking. We are sure if you compare, you will be a regular United Federal customer just like many of your friends.

What is a NOW-checking account? A NOW-checking account is simply a checking account that earns interest.

When will NOW accounts be available? NOW-checking accounts are effective by law December 31, 1980. NOW-checking accounts will be available at United Federal as of January 2, 1981.

Who qualifies? Only individuals, sole proprietorships, or a non-profit corporation qualifies by law to earn interest on their checking accounts.

How to qualify for a NOW-checking account at United Federal? All you have to do is maintain a balance in your NOW-checking account at United Federal of at least $300.00 and we will pay you interest at the annual rate of 5.25% compounded daily. If your account drops below the minimum balance, you will be charged a $5 service charge for that month only and receive no interest.

Why you should have your Now-checking account at United Federal? There are many reasons why, but just to mention a few:

1. A low minimum balance.
2. An itemized monthly statement sent to you.
3. Write as many checks per month as you wish, with no additional charges.
4. We pay the maximum interest rate allowed by law.

For more information about NOW-checking accounts, savings accounts, or any other savings and loan service, stop by any of our offices and talk with our staff. We want you to know more about your financial opportunities. The more you know, the more likely you are to have your savings and NOW-checking accounts with us.

Tracing Your Family Tree?

Not all family trees prove to be as earth shaking as Alex Haley's "Roots," but researching family histories can be an interesting hobby that adds a perspective of the past. However, some people may be intimidated by the idea that researching their family tree is a complex procedure. The Kentucky Historical Society Library has a multitude of resources which can facilitate research for the novice family genealogist. The society offers a free "genealogical packet" to persons interested in researching their family tree. The packet includes a simple-to-fill-out chart that spans six generations making recording family data easy. The packet also includes a list of sources available at the society's library that are free and available to the public and a list of tips that can help guide the researcher. Among the sources available at the library are:

- Tax lists by county. The 1970 and 1800 tax list have been published as the "First Census of Kentucky" and the "Second Census of Kentucky" respectively.
  - U.S. Census, Kentucky 1810-1880, on microfilm.
  - Indexed rosters of Kentucky soldiers in the War of 1812, Civil War, Mexican War, Spanish-American War and World War I.
  - Family files, which include data arranged by family name.
  - Kentucky county and state histories, some with biographical sections.
  - Some church records.
  - Kentucky Confederate Pensions, available on film.
  - Some Bible records by family name.
  - Abstracts of wills, marriages, deeds, pensions and cemetery records, by county.
  - A large collection of historical and genealogical periodicals.
  - Kentucky vital statistics, births, marriages, deaths (1852-1861), filed by county on microfilm.
- According to Linda Anderson, an assistant librarian at the Kentucky Historical Society, three part-time and eight full-time persons work at the library to help guide persons researching their family history. "We don't do the actual research for people, but we help them locate the records they need," Anderson said. Anderson suggested the beginning researcher "do his homework" before going to the library for records. "We try to impress upon people to go to the family first," Anderson said, "particularly an older member for a little history of the family and maybe some family records from a family Bible."

Almost any old document from a family member can be a key for the researcher, Anderson said. "Old letters and old pictures are helpful," she noted. "Be sure and get some identifications of the persons in each photograph." Other research that can be done before visiting the library includes getting dates from tombstones in family graveyards, checking church baptismal records, wills, marriage licenses and deeds and family Bibles.

Anderson said family stories and "legends" should be recorded along with other data when researching a family history. "It's very important to keep these stories, because they are not the sort of things that are recorded in history books. They are what make each family unique," she added. She said the longer one puts off doing a family tree, the more one loses. "People wait until they are 70 or 80 before they begin their family history and by then a lot of their older relatives who could have helped them have died." Although a hobby for some, researching a family history can have a different goal. "Some do it for medical reasons," Anderson explained. "There are certain diseases that are transmitted genetically and people research records for a pattern of a family disease."

Anderson also said the library keeps a list of persons who will research your family's history for a professional fee. Persons interested in obtaining a free "genealogical packet" from the Kentucky Historical Society should write to: Kentucky Historical Society, Old Capitol Annex, Box H, Frankfort, Ky. 40601. A list of professional family researchers can be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Kentucky Historical Society at the same address. The Kentucky Historical Society Library is open seven days a week to the public from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The library is closed New Year's Day, Easter, Thanksgiving and Christmas.

To Wed January 10

Mrs. Jenny Lee Hicks, of Leburn, is announcing the forthcoming marriage of her daughter, Miss Sandra D. Hall, to Mr. Danny Laferty, of Prestonsburg, at 2 p.m. Saturday, January 10, at the Montgomery Baptist Church at Carrie, Ky. The ceremony will be solemnized by the Rev. Archie Everage.

Miss Hall is the daughter of Mrs. Hicks and Mr. Carlos Hall, of Dry Creek, Ky. Her grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Luther Johnson, of Jack's Creek, and Mr. and Mrs. Dow Hall, of Dry Creek. Mr. Hicks is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Laferty, of Hindman, and is the grandson of the late Ezra Laferty, of Hippo, and the late Mr. and Mrs. John Pratt, of Garrett.

The gracious custom of open church will be observed and all friends and relatives of the families are invited to attend.

Help on Fuel Bills Slated In All Counties of State

Families in need of help with their winter fuel bills are being urged by officials of the Human Resources Department to apply promptly for assistance. So great is the need for assistance in Kentucky, the $24 million available here may be used up very quickly, they say.

(Starting January 5, applications will be taken daily at the Bureau for Social Insurance Office, on North Lake Drive. During January only, applications will also be taken, between 9 and 3:30, at the Archer Senior Citizen's Center on Tuesdays; at the Martin Senior Citizen's Center, on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays; and at the Wheelwright Senior Citizens' Center, on Thursdays.)

"The money allocated to the state by the federal government will help a lot of people, but it's enough to help only about one-third of those who may be eligible," said William L. Huffman, the department's social insurance commissioner. "We encourage those most in need to help with winter heating bills to apply as early as they can."

Eligibility for the program is based on family size and income. A one-person household must have a monthly income of $395 or less to be eligible. A household of two must make less than $550 a month; a three-member household must have a maximum income of $602 per month; a family of four, $653 a month; a five-person household, $704; a family of six or more, $755 maximum monthly income. A household may have no more than $5,000 in liquid resources to be eligible for Home Energy Assistance Program benefits, which vary according to income and fuel type, said Huffman.

guidelines do not have to wait until they get behind in their fuel payments and face utility cut-off to apply," he said. "This program is not tied to a crisis situation."

Three percent of the program's funds, or $720,000, has been set aside for emergency assistance and will be available to low-income families facing fuel cut-off after regular program funds are exhausted. Emergency payments of $200 or less will be paid only to households that have not received benefits through the regular program.

"We expect the emergency funds to be used up quickly, too," said Huffman.

Huffman advised people with questions about the program or their eligibility to call the Bureau for Social Insurance office in the counties where they live. A recent news release from Washington gave a Louisville phone number for program information and has led to confusion in some areas of the state, said Huffman.

"There is no need to call long-distance to Louisville or Frankfort to get answers," he said. "However, anyone having a problem reaching the appropriate social insurance office can tell the Department for Human Resources ombudsman using the toll-free number."

The number is 1-800-372-2973.

He said applicants for program benefits can get the fastest service by taking the necessary information to the local Social Insurance office or temporary application site. He recommends taking the most recent heating bill, social security numbers of everyone in the household and proof of the household's income (check stubs, benefit checks, award letters, direct deposit slips, etc.).

People unable to apply in person may have someone apply for them, Huffman said.

Turner Cities Moves For Railway Safety

Kentucky has a long way to go in solving all its rail safety problems, Railroad Commissioner Jimmy Turner said recently, but added that he is proud that so many of these problems have been corrected since he has been in office.

Besides the repair of railroad tracks, the cleaning of debris along the tracks, and the settling of cases pertaining to the removal of station agencies and depot buildings, he pointed out that hazardous conditions at certain railroad crossings have been corrected.

Signal lights have been installed at the intersection of Route 80 and KY 7 at Lackey. The crossing on Route 122, below the McDowell High School, is now in the process of receiving signals. Commissioner Turner, said he is now making arrangements to meet with both railroad and highway authorities in Frankfort to request signal lights at the crossing on new KY 80 at Martin. Turner said he will take with him a petition from citizens of Martin, citing the need for signal lights at the crossing.

Dedication ceremonies for Dr. J. H. Allen Central High School were held between the Allen Central-Wolfe County basketball game, recently. A portrait of Dr. Allen was presented to Allen Central High School principal, J. O. Dingus by Mr. Lowell Martin on behalf of Dr. Allen's children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren.

Mr. Martin talked to the audience about Dr. Allen's history. He was a graduate of the University of Louisville Medical School and was a practicing physician in Floyd county for 61 years. He was a "house call doctor" in the Langley area and was on the staff of the Beaver Valley Hospital at Martin.

Dr. Allen had four children, George, Claude, Peggy Jo, and Harriett. "Doc" Allen was a member of the Board of Education for 33 years. When he retired from the Board of Education his colleagues said he had contributed a tremendous amount to education in the area and had helped a great deal to develop the Floyd county system.

Alaskan "Job Information Kits"

Attorney General Steve Beshear says Kentuckians should be alert to possible misinformation being distributed concerning Alaskan Pipeline construction jobs. Several neighboring states have reported advertisements selling "job information kits" which contain erroneous information concerning job availability.

According to Beshear, advertisements announcing employment positions with the Northwest Alaskan Pipeline Co. have been the most common.

Beshear says the ads are usually intended to sell information that will enable a person to land a "high-paying job." Beshear says persons desiring work on the Alaskan Highway Pipeline Project should not send money for such job information kits.

"If you are asked to pay to apply for the job, be on the alert," says Beshear. Northwest Alaskan Pipeline Co. has published notices stating that the persons advertising the "job information kits" are in no way connected with the company.

Officials of the Northwest Alaskan Pipeline Co. say that under the current schedule hiring for labor positions will not begin until 1982. The company has notified Beshear that hiring will be done through execution contractors, who will be announced at the appropriate time.

Officials of Northwest Alaskan Pipeline stress the fact the legitimate announcements concerning the execution contractors, who will perform field construction and hiring practices, will be made through "The Alaskan Newswire" newsletter publication and press release, and in trade or labor organization journals. Persons seeking pipeline jobs should apply at that time directly to the selected contractors, Beshear says.

Free information concerning employment procedures with the Alaskan pipeline is available from Alaska's Department of Labor. The address is P. O. Box 1149, Juneau, Alaska 99881.

Achievement of Ephraim McDowell Ky. Surgeon, Recreated on KET

Kentucky surgeon Ephraim McDowell did not receive a formal degree in medicine until long after he had achieved surgical advances unknown before his time. He performed the world's first successful abdominal surgery, the removal of an ovarian tumor, in Danville, in 1809. The story of that operation is dramatized in the 90-minute drama, "Ephraim McDowell's Kentucky Ride," Wednesday, January 14 at 9 p.m. on KET.

The program re-creates the actual events surrounding McDowell's treatment of courageous frontierswoman Jane Todd Crawford and stars Paul Guilfoyle as McDowell and Elizabeth Perry as Crawford.

Ephraim McDowell was a skilled surgeon who practiced in the Kentucky frontier during the late 18th and early 19th centuries. His anatomical knowledge gained through study in Europe and his own illegal and secret dissections of cadavers, set him apart from the other doctors of his time. Surgery, at that time, was considered little different from butchery; anesthesia was unknown; and untrained doctors blamed unknown diseases on various "humors" and prescribed treatments that as often as not did more harm than good.

"Ephraim McDowell's Kentucky Ride" re-creates this setting—in which McDowell's success was little short of miraculous. McDowell's patient, Jane Todd Crawford, of Greensburg, was suffering from an ovarian tumor so large that other doctors had diagnosed pregnancy. Having borne five children, the patient protested, though in vain, that she was not expecting a child.

Crawford finally sent for McDowell, who rode sixty miles on horseback to her cabin. When he diagnosed the tumor, she begged him to remove it. McDowell was reluctant to perform such radical surgery; but the courage and insistence of his patient, who traveled to his home for the operation, persuaded him to make the attempt. Her courage and her faith in McDowell's ability were rewarded, and she returned home to live into her 80s—outliving, in fact, both her doctor and her husband.

Following the program, a short discussion segment explores the experience of performing surgery.

"Ephraim McDowell's Kentucky Ride" is presented on KET by WGBH, Boston.

Waste Management Plan To Be Aired

A proposed five-year plan for the management of all types of waste in Kentucky will be presented for public review and comment at meetings in Frankfort, Prestonsburg and Hopkinsville next week.

Jackie Swigart, secretary of the state Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, said the plan outlines methods now used in the treatment, storage, transportation and disposal of waste and recommendations for improved waste services.

The types of waste covered in the plan, which was prepared by the department's division of hazardous material and waste management, are hazardous, non-hazardous, residual waste from pollution-control facilities or industrial processes, and agricultural wastes.

At the meetings, the content of the plan will be described by staff members from the division and the public will be able to present oral or written comments. Additional written comments on the plan, which is available for public inspection at the division's Frankfort and regional offices, will be accepted through Jan. 15.

Division Director Roger Blair said a summary and response to all comments on the plan will be prepared at the end of the public comment period. These comments will be taken into account in preparation of the final plan, which must be submitted to the federal Environmental Protection Agency by Jan. 29, he said.

Department officials said preparation of the five-year plan was required under the 1976 federal Resource Conservation and Recovery Act. They said private citizens, industry representatives and environmental groups should take advantage of the opportunity to voice their opinions and make recommendations on the plan.

The meeting here is set for Jan. 7 at 7 p.m. in the Pike Building at Prestonsburg Community College.

Reynolds Renamed To Advisory Body

W. J. "Bill" Reynolds, of Allen, has been reappointed by Gov. John Y. Brown to the Kentucky Geological Survey Advisory Board.

Also reappointed are J. Edward Parker and David Bayer, both of Lexington, and John G. Donan Sr., of Madisonville. Their terms expire December 1983.

TO THE PEOPLE OF FLOYD COUNTY

I am Roger Webb, and I would like to take this opportunity to announce my candidacy for Sheriff of Floyd County.

My wife Pauline, daughter Elaine, and I live at Emma. I am a former trooper with the Kentucky State Police, and I have worked with the City Police Department of Prestonsburg. I have attended Eastern Kentucky University, working toward a degree in law enforcement. I am presently employed as a sales representative with a Dupont Explosive Distributor.

I am well aware of, and very concerned about, the problems that confront us Floyd Countians. Please let me help make Floyd County a better place in which to live, and the Sheriff's Dept. one we can be proud of.

Of Indian Bill, Kelly's Kettles & Lulbegrud

Fillers can be anything from what goes in pillows or warm comforters for winter beds to stuffing for the holiday bird.

Fillers also can be those prized-by-editors shorties that work wonders in filling out a column in a newspaper or a magazine or a spot on radio. It's also a great conversation piece wherever two or more people gather.

In Owensboro a sassafras tree has grown to more than 100 feet. It is said to be the largest of its kind in the nation. That's a filler.

At Christmas in the Big Sandy area, entire families gathered at boat landings to watch as boxes holding toys and other gifts were unloaded.

In old days families in eastern Kentucky sometimes made day-long hikes into the gorge and canyon country to gather greens for decorating home, church and country school.

Travelers inland used to start in Mason county, and follow the Buffalo Trace that leads south to Alabama. In 1816 the trail became the National Road and was known for a time as Smith's Wagon Road.

Cassius Clay of stately White Hall in Madison County was Kentucky's famous abolitionist.

In 1669 the Ohio River was "discovered" by a group searching for a waterway to the Orient.

Holly, ivy, various kinds of pine and cedar, nuts, popcorn, red grains of corn, cornshucks, dried weeds and flowers, and honeysuckle all have been used for holiday decor. In the Kentucky mountains children saved red corn grains to string like cranberries for tree trimming.

Robert Letcher, governor of Kentucky 1840-44, proclaimed the first state Thanksgiving in 1844.

On Dec. 24, 1862, Morgan's Raiders camped near Glasgow and stopped at a tavern to celebrate the holidays. A patrol of the second Michigan Cavalry USA stopped at the tavern to celebrate also. It wasn't a major battle, but the anticipated celebration never occurred.

On South Broadway in Lexington pioneers set the starting point for the first Kentucky race track in 1780. Rather than the familiar oval, the race path extended one quarter mile.

Spring Fort in Jefferson county was built before 1782.

Theodore O'Hara who wrote a famous poem, "The Bivouac of the Dead," was born in Danville.

Drennon Springs in Henry county was used by Indians as a healing-water source.

William Hardin was called Indian Bill. He was the founder of Hardinsburg and built Hardin's Fort in Breckinridge county in 1780.

The Choctaw Indian Academy in Scott county was established as the first school for sons of Indian chiefs. Future leaders of many tribes received education at the school.

Lulbegrud Creek on the Powell-Clark county line was used as winter camp by Daniel and Squire Boone.

Jeptha's Knob, a cryptovolcanic structure, in Shelby County, is 1,163 feet above sea level.

The Order of Trappist-Cistercians, noted for prayer, labor and silence, was founded in France in 1098 and established in Nelson county in 1848.

Saint Rose Priory in Washington county was founded in 1806.

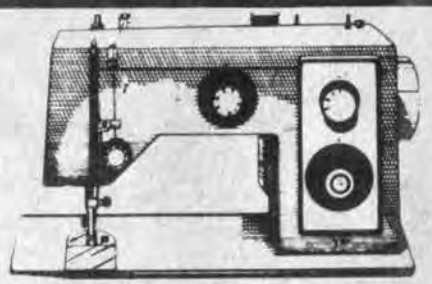

In Lyon county is a "Kelly Kettle," one of many made by William Kelly. In 1851 Kelly discovered the steel manufacturer known as Bessemer. Bessemer, an Englishman, got a patent on the process in 1855 and 1856, but the U.S. awarded rightful patent to Kelly. Kelly's kettles were used throughout the South to make sugar.

January, Blood Donor Month In Kentucky

Governor John Y. Brown has proclaimed January as "Volunteer Blood Donor Month" in Kentucky. The need for voluntarily donated blood exists throughout the year for the health and well-being of all Kentuckians.

The Prestonsburg Station of the Central Kentucky Blood Center depends on willing donors to provide an adequate blood supply for all Floyd countians. All residents of the county are asked to donate blood during National Blood Donor Month on the second floor of the Municipal Building, here, Tuesdays from 10 to 6, Thursdays from noon until 8 and Saturdays, 9 to 5.

Mother Teresa Topic OF KET Special

Love, caring and dedication are all part of "The World of Mother Teresa," a one-hour documentary airing on KET on Monday, January 12 at 10:00 p.m.

Narrated by acclaimed talk show hostess Joyce Davidson Susskind, the documentary profiles the 1979 Nobel Peace Prize winner Mother Teresa of Calcutta and takes a closeup look at Mother Teresa's ministry from such remote Indian villages as Maria Poly to industrial cities as Titagarh. Included in the special is a one-on-one conversation between Mother Teresa and Susskind in which the 70-year-old nun talks candidly about herself and her work.

Mother Teresa, dubbed "the saint of the gutters" and a "benevolent coach," joined the Irish Sisters of Loreto at age 18 and for twenty years taught at a school for affluent Indian girls. Her dream was to leave her comfortable cloister and establish an order of nuns devoted to helping the diseased and dying of India's slums. In 1948 she gained the reluctant permission from the Vatican to follow her dream and in 1950 the Missionaries of charity was formally approved and instituted in Calcutta.

Today the order runs schools, hospitals, youth centers and orphanages in 50 Indian cities and 36 countries around the world, from the Bronx, New York, to New Guinea.

In addition to receiving the Nobel Peace Prize, Mother Teresa was presented with India's highest honor, the Jewel of India, for her tireless and selfless work with the lonely, the sick, the abandoned and the dying.
