This Town...That World

July and August are the only months when the heat becomes downright oppressive hereabouts, and already I've found myself remembering them with more pleasure than you'd expect.

IT HELPS

Some months ago we recorded the fact that a certain rubber chicken that looked more like the genuine article than some I've seen in the barnyard was missing from its familiar place where it dangled on a string tight around its neck and tied to a nail overhead. Somebody decided to brighten up the premises by removing the thing.

But-would you believe it?-Now there's a new chicken of the same construction and in the same unhappy pose dangling again from the very same nail.

You don't have to be crazy, as some commentator, or maybe it was a philosopher, in a fit of passion once wrote, to work around a newspaper office, but it helps.

Proceeds from the Prestonsburg Fire Department's annual Halloween "spook house," this year co-sponsored by WPRT Radio, were presented to members of the Prestonsburg City Council at Monday night's council meeting. Three bags of half-dollar coins totalling $1,326 were presented the city for deposit and later use in reopening of the Floyd County Humane Society's animal shelter. An estimated 1,000 persons toured the Halloween attraction during four weekends in October. Red Cross Here May Be Closed After Dec. 31st

The American Red Cross already this year has spent almost half a million dollars to assist disaster victims in the four-county area represented by its Floyd County Chapter-but that chapter will close Dec. 31 for lack of local funding unless it can raise its 1981 quota of $6922 by that date.

So said Judith Price, who doubles as fund drive chairman and as head of the chapter's disaster work, this week after the fund drive in August and a road-block solicitation of funds last Saturday had left the chapter still short of its goal by $1022.

In the area composed of Floyd, Johnson, Martin and Magoffin counties Red Cross flood relief cost $450,000

One Trial Ended Another Started In District Court

Even as he received sentencing Monday for his part in a stolen dynamite pact, Teaberry coal operator Sterling Hamilton, 54, faced trial in U.S. District Court in Pikeville on a charge of obstructing justice.

Noting that he wanted eastern Kentuckians to know that federal explosives laws are "serious business," U.S. District Judge G. Wix Unthank imposed a five-year prison term and a $10,000 fine on Hamilton, who was convicted last month of conspiracy to deal and dealing in explosives without a license and of knowingly receiving stolen explosives.

Hamilton's son, Scotty, 22, convicted of conspiracy in the case, received an 18-month prison term and a $5000 fine. In passing sentence, Judge Unthank was apparently unpersuaded by letters written on Hamilton's behalf by a number of prominent courthouse officials here, including Circuit Judge Hollie Conley, Commonwealth's Attorney James Allen and Sheriff Henry Hale

While his attorney, William Kirkland, of Frankfort, defended him as a respectable coal operator, Hamilton was in 1977 one of the few coal operators ever denied a stripmining permit on account of repeated violations of stripmining laws.

In denying him a permit to mine a site on Mitchell Branch of Mud Creek, then-Secretary Robert Bell, of the state Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, noted that the operator had been cited for more than 100 mining violations between November, 1972 and September, 1977.

Though the mining permit was denied, Hamilton's coal company was again cited by the state less than a year later for mining the Mitchell Branch site.

McDowell Only Area To Back 'Succession'

Perhaps reflecting the endorsement of Sen. Benny Ray Bailey-and despite the opposition of Rep. Gregory Stumbo, its other native son-John Ant (McDowell) was the only one of Floyd county's 44 precincts to give decisive support to the ill-starred "succession" amendment in last week's election.

In that precinct the vote for the amendment, which would have allowed the governor and other constitutional officers to succeed themselves, was 164 to 75.

The amendment was approved by narrow majorities in the Depot (West Prestonsburg) and Auxier precincts but was otherwise soundly defeated here-losing by 3976 to 1809 votes-as it was across the state.

the Democratic primary, carried the district handily with 1700 votes.

In Wheelwright, write-in candidates were elected to the mayor's office and the four city commission spots. While Allen Taylor had filed for mayor and Clark Thornsbury, Halbert Farmer and Jeff Boyd, Jr. had filed for city commission, all were swamped in the voting by write-ins Elmer Ferguson, running for mayor, and Joe Stewart. Dennis Holbrook, Ella Jackson, and Jerry Hamby, the new city commissioners. Conley Holman also polled strongly for commissioner. The tally there:

For mayor, Ferguson 95, Taylor 9; for city commissioner (four to be elected), Stewart 104, Holbrook 96, Jackson 88, Hamby 82, Holman 72, Thornsbury 45, Boyd 42 and Farmer 25. The precinct-by-precinct tally for all county races is printed elsewhere in this issue.

No Paper Yet? There's A Reason

Subscribers to the Times will receive their newspapers a day late this week because postoffices are closed for Veterans' Day, when the Times is normally put in the mail. We regret any inconvenience to our readers, but this is one of those circumstances over which we have no control.

ed at the county jail during the past week, charges against them, and arresting officers:

City Gas Well Decision Made

After consulting a geologist and a veteran driller, the Prestonsburg Utilities Commission decided last week to accept what it had and make no further attempt to increase the volume of gas from the well drilled at Cliff, near here, as an exploratory venture at federal expense.

The decision not to acidize the Big Lime formation in which the natural gas flow was hit, Monday of last week, was reached when it was pointed out to city officials that the lack of porosity of the lime formation in the well is such that a greater gas flow was improbable as the result of acidizing.

A "show" of gas was also struck in the Devonian shale, but it was feared treatment of that formation might be detrimental to the shallower formation where the main gas flow was found. Besides, the shale can be treated later when the lime yield begins to fail.

The city of Prestonsburg barely retained the right to annex the upper right fork of Mays Branch as a result of a referendum of Cliff precinct voters. Three fourths of the voters there would have had to vote against it in order to block the city's annexation plan. Seven voted for the plan and 19 against-one short of the required number.

In view of the strength of the opposition, and of legal challenges to the state's new annexation law yet to be heard by the state supreme court, it is by no means certain that the city will pursue the annexation project at this time.

Write-in candidates made fairly strong showings in magistrates' races in the second and fourth districts but were unable to shake the Democratic nominees. Birchell Duff polled 634 votes and carried two precincts in the second district, which went to incumbent Kenneth Roberts, who polled 1012 votes. In the fourth district, Bob Tackett received 497 write-in-votes, almost half of them cast in the Head of Mud precinct, but Lowell Samons, who upset incumbent Hershel Hamilton in

Inspection Report Says School At Allen 'Structurally Sound'

According to a verbal report by engineers, there is "nothing wrong with the stability" of Allen grade school, Supt. E. P. Grigsby, Jr. said Monday.

Grigsby said Prestonsburg architect George Lee Shannon inspected the building Friday at the request of the board of education after parents of students attending the school expressed during last week's board meeting fears for their safety.

The board also permitted John Reed, an engineer whose two daughters are enrolled at the school, to participate in the inspection. Reed confirmed Shannon's conclusion that the school is structurally sound, Grigsby said.

Grigsby said he had authorized replacement of the ceilings in four classrooms, however, and repair work for bathrooms at the school.

A sizable delegation from the Allen Elementary P.T.O. showed up at the board meeting last Wednesday to complain of plaster they said was threatening to fall from the ceilings of second and third grade classrooms at the school; of shaking light fixtures which some thought suggested structural weakness in the aging building; and of chronically dirty bathrooms.

Mrs. Vetta Jones, whose two sons attend the school, told the board that state health authorities had recently inspected the school and found it in 'hazardous'' condition.

State Bureau of Health Services inspector Dennis C. Gibson, The Times later learned, inspected the school October 22. According to his report, ceiling plaster in the second and third grade classrooms and in the boys' and girls' bathrooms "is in very bad repair and appears ready to fall."

The ceiling plaster "represents a safety hazard to students and teachers" and "should be removed immediately," Gibson concluded.

The inspector also noted that bathroom facilities were inadequate for the school's 400 students.

Pressed by members of the Allen delegation. Grigsby said he was unaware of the health inspector's report and had not previously been told of the ceiling plaster problem. The group took the superintendent to task. however, for implying that Allen Principal Daniel Branson had not passed on its complaints about the condition of the school.

Trial of Noel Is Postponed Till February

The murder trial of James Noel, accused of the arson-murder at Wayland of James T. Neimi, has been postponed from late this month till February.

The continuance was granted after an attorney of the Public Defender's staff had resigned, leaving only a woman attorney to represent the defendant. New to the public advocacy work here, she explained to the court that she needed time to prepare the case, since her colleague had resigned and she is Noel's only legal counsel.

The trial of Denver Patrick, alleged confederate of Noel in a plot to collect insurance by representing that the victim was Noel, will follow that of Noel, Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen said.

Neimi's charred remains were found in a house which had burned at Wayland, and for a time the body was believed to be that of Noel. It was later determined that it was Neimi's and that he had been bludgeoned and left inside the house which later burned.

Officers' Quest For Hall Fails

State Police said Tuesday that Carlos "Bat Hair" Hall, 18-year-old Branham's Creek youth who has been wanted since last Wednesday when he was involved in an altercation near the head of Branham's Creek with State Trooper Joe West, remains a fugitive. West had arrested Homer Hall, driver of a car occupied by three men. as a drunk driver when he saw that another whom he recognized as Carlos Hall had moved behind the wheel The trooper seized the wheel but Hall reportedly turned on the ignition, the car moved forward and West was foreed to loose his grasp as he was threatened with being crushed between his own cruiser and the moving car

John Marvin Johnson, a native of the Left Beaver section of this county, has been working for the past six months on what may be a revolutionary automobile design in these days of high gasoline prices and low gasoline availability. Although a resident of Peru, Indiana for many years, Johnson decided to unveil his creation, The Peru Silver Eagle, in this county, 'because this is my home," he explained.

Brought to Allen Central High School last week, the vehicle was protected by security guards until the official first showing, Sunday at the school.

Following his design completely and built by hand by Johnson from the ground up, the compact car consists of an all-steel body and weighs 1,100 pounds. Because of pending patent apafter the June 6 and July 6 floods this year. The recent explosion near Paintsville cost an additional $8000.

Assistance to Floyd families suffering severe fire losses amounted to approximately $25,000.

In addition to these services, all deaths and illnesses of service personnel must be verified through the Red Cross chapter office here. The chapter also sponsors classes in first-aid and cardio-pulmonary resuscitation (CPR), and this year this work has Defense witnesses Tuesday denied seeing Hamilton flourish the gun and suggested that the dispute between the two men did not, in any event, concern Hamilton's pending civil case but was a dispute over wages. Thompson had earlier worked for Hamilton and had $250 in wages owing to him, it was said.

One Convicted Of Housebreak On Left Beaver

A Floyd circuit court jury late Tues day found a Pike county man guilty of second-degree burglary, and recommended that he serve a five-year pen term.

According to testimony in the case, Glen Alan Keene, 21, of Shelbiana, broke into the home of Ruth Meade, at Hi Hat, March 14 this year, while Mrs. Meade was visiting her brother-in-law, Rush Meade, who lives next door.

Meade said he saw three men drive up to Mrs. Meade's home, two entering the house while the third remained in the car. He took a small pistol and ran toward the house, firing two shots, Meade said.

The men fled, taking with them some jewelry and other items.

Johnny Estep, of Pikeville, accused of entering the house with Keene, is scheduled for trial on a first-degree burglary charge, January 12. John Ford, of Millard, driver of the car, testified for the Commonwealth in the case

The case represented the first trial for both the prosecutor, Assistant Commonwealth's Attorney Jerry Patton, and the defending attorney, Assistant Public Defender Ned Pillarsdorf. Sentencing of Keene has been set for December 4.

WITH A WILL-THERE'S A WAY

If you own anything—a car, house, savings account, anything with monetary value—you should have a will.

With a will, you save your loved ones considerable time and money in the handling of your estate. Further, you are assured that your estate will not be executed by strangers, but by people you know and trust.

How do you make a will? First, see your lawyer. It's not all that expensive for most estate planning. He has the forms, knows the requirements of the state, and probably enough of your personal affairs to help in preparing for future management of your estate.

You may change your will whenever and however you wish. The important thing is to get started and to do it right away.

You may also include provision for funeral arrangements as part of the will. We can provide counseling without obligation, on this aspect of your will, but only this particular aspect.

We welcome your questions and comments-privately or publicly through this column.

Two Knott Countians Indicted After Blast at Littcarr Mine

Larry Seals, of the Littcarr section of Knott county, and Larry Estep, of Hindman, were named by the Knott circuit court grand jury in nine-count indictments in connection with an explosion Oct. 21 at a Littcarr strip mine site which reportedly damaged 12 homes, a grocery store and an automobile.

The blast occurred at a mine that had been ordered closed by state mine officials.

Knott Circuit Clerk Carlos Huff said Seals and Estep are accused of operating a mine with the knowledge that it had been placed under a valid closure order and of eight other violations of blasting laws. The blasting violations include failure to notify either residents or motorists of the impending explosion and failure to take precautionary measures to guard the public within 800 feet of a public highway.

All of the counts, Huff said, are misdemeanors.

Seals and Estep, who were arrested on warrants after the explosion, have posted bond.

The Littcarr site was shut down by the state Department of Mines and Minerals for operating without a permit a few weeks before the explosion. "They try to ignore a closure order because they know they can get by with it in the courts," said Albert Alexander, district supervisor for the state agency.

Illegal, or "wildcat," operations have increased during the last several months with the price of coal, he said.

With spot-market coal now selling for between $35 and $40 a ton, "We're having a time with them (wildcatters)," Alexander said.

"It looks like we're going to have to start working nights and weekends to catch them."

A spokesman for the U.S. Office of Surface Mining in Jackson said most Eastern Kentucky wildcatting appears to be concentrated in Knott and Letcher counties.

"We've got five illegal jobs going now that we're trying to get grand jury indictments for," Alexander said.

(Continued from Page One) Hamilton and his wife, Olga, brought suit against the American Employers Insurance Company in August last year, in an attempt to make the company pay an insurance claim after their house was destroyed by fire.

According to court records in the case, the Hamiltons took out an insurance policy on the house June 9, 1979. Some time after midnight on August 16 that year, while the couple was out of the county, the house burned down. A $179,000 insurance claim was filed

The insurance company refused to honor the claim, however, alleging that the fire had been set deliberately and the extent of loss exaggerated, with the intention of defrauding the company. The Hamiltons then sued the company, this time claiming $153,000 in damages.

The insurance company believed it had witnesses who would testify that they had seen Hamilton loading furniture from the house into a covered truck about a week before the fire. As preparations for the case continued, however it became apparent that at least some of the defense witnesses would testify instead for Hamilton. The case was settled out of court in

Then, for good measure, he added the yarn that so eloquently speaks for Kentucky hospitality. It relates to the time when a newspaper reporter went far back in the hills to find there a picturesque cabin in which lived an elderly citizen, alone.

Sure, he was invited to come in and "set a spell," and to have a bite to eat. But a window pane was missing, and the man from the city quailed before a swarm of flies breaking formation over the kitchen table.

'Set down, set yourself down!" cried the oldtimer. "Flies no problem." and he poured molasses on his bare feet and sat down. Not a fly buzzed about his head or that of his guest.

state engineers "gave the school a clean bill of health" in 1979, Grigsby last week readily agreed to seek another engineering evaluation.

A report by a state survey team presented to the board last February noted that the two-story brick building constructed at Allen in 1940 "has deteriorated badly with age" and is "in poor condition." Restrooms are called 'fair to poor" in the report. All but two of the 11 regular classrooms, the library and the principal's office are described as poor.

lay by the Floyd school district, the state team gave top priority to replacing the Allen school. The Floyd school board subsequently decided on a new middle school in the Prestonsburg area as its next construction project, however.

Following a discussion in executive session, the board expelled a Prestonsburg high school student on the recommendation of Principal Robert May-the student was said to have threatened a bus driver's life-and upheld the action of Garrett Elementary School Principal Ralph O'Quinn in firing two custodians "for insubordination.

The matter of bond was not mentioned at the hearing. Lester Burns, Bevins' attorney, announced, however, that he would file some motions later. One of the motions is expected to ask a psychiatric examination for the defendant.

A recent special grand jury session here named Bevins in murder indictments for the slayings of Michael Halbert, Roger Click, Rufus Hamilton, Jarvey Hamilton and Roger Hatfield at a truck parts store on the outskirts of Allen, Oct. 16. He also was charged with shooting and wounding three others, Ron Bryant, Roy Dale Wright and Anderson Newsome Autopsies showed that the five who were killed were shot 26 times with a 30-calibre weapon.

CAR CARE TIP

You may be able to fight inflation with inflation. To save money, be sure your tires have enough air. An underinflated tire wears out faster than it should and it can affect steering, decrease the load the tire can carry and increase fuel consumption.

First, check the air pressure in all your tires, including the spare-at least once a month. As long as you keep under the maximum tire pressure printed on the sidewall, you can exceed the pressure listed in your owner's manual by about three pounds per square inch and you may get better gas mileage. Check the tires when they're cold for an accurate reading.

Fire Season Nearly Fireless

The weather has not been quite as dry as last fall, to be sure, but forestry officials point to an improvement in attitude and burning practices of local residents as the key to the relativel fire-free conditions recorded during the current "fire season."

By this time last year 50,000 acres of forest land had been destroyed or damaged in Floyd county alone in one of the worst fire seasons on record. This year, according to estimates released by the office of the Eastern Forestry District here, only 150-200 acres have been affected in about 15fires.

The shock of last fall's devastation may have had a sobering effect on many residents whose property was either burned or threatened as forestry officials have recorded few burning violations, this fire season.

In view of this apparent display of responsibility by area residents. Donald Hamm, state director of forestry, expressed his department's appreciation to Floyd county resident "for their cooperation during this time of year.'

Since last Tuesday, three fires were reported in the county, according to forestry public information officer Carter Conley, and all three are believed to be related to the activity of hunters.

Conley reemphasized that moisture levels are still far below normal and urged residents to observe the no burning before 4:30 p.m. law which is in effect through Dec. 15.

anxiously waiting to know if their applications to medical, law and graduate business schools across the country have been accepted. Competition is so keen that the great majority of the 350,000 applicants will not be accepted. Unfortunately, a chance detail may swing the decision the wrong way.

Ronald Schiller, who checked on admission procedures in more than a score of campuses across the country, writes in the November Reader's Digest. "Less than 10 percent of the applicants (constituting about a fifth to one-half of the entering class) will be definitely tagged for admission; 50 to 80 percent will be rejected. Choosing from the remainder who have been relegated to the limbo in between is what gives selectors their worst headaches.

Selection committees are now faced with a group of applicants with similar grades and entrance exam scores. At this point, chance plays a major role in the make-or-break decision. According to Schiller, "Since they are all highly qualified, 'tie-breakers' are looked for-petty details such as an A-minus instead of an A in a science course, a less-than-superlative adjective in a letter of recommendation, a slightly more impressive summer job or extra-

Home Sales Plummet

This country is currently in the midst of a housing depression that surpasses any downturn in recent memory, Dr. Jack Carlson, chief economist and executive vice president of the National Association of Realtors, said.

"In September," Carlson said, "sales of existing single-family homes again dropped, this time to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 2,070,000 units, the lowest level in six and onehalf years and the lowest level on a per capita basis since these statistics have been collected."

The 8.4 percent drop in sales activity in September follows a 10.3 percent decline in August and establishes a new low for the current sales cycle (November, 1978 to the present).

"During the 35 month. existing home sales have fallen from a peak of 4,060,000 units to today's low, a total decline of 48.5 percent," he said.

Carlson noted that this decline represents 2,680,000 unit sales lost for a total dollar volume lost of more than $188 billion.

"This housing depression has reached massive proportions and by every measure is worse than any housing slide since World War II, five and onehalf times worse," he noted.

Carlson said that considering the dismal level of sales activity, home prices have held up well.

He said that in September, the median price of existing homes registered a typical seasonal decline, falling $400 to $67,700. At the current level, he added, the median price is 5.5 percent above the same month a year ago, but 5.5 percent below if adjusting for inflation.

"It is worth noting that price increases are being over-estimated to an unknown extent, because of the widespread use of creative financing," Carlson said. "There is reason to assume that there has been little, if any, price appreciation in singlefamily homes over the past year."

Therefore, he added, if adjustment is made for both consumer inflation and below-market interest rates used in creative financing, median prices may have fallen 10 percent since 12 months ago.

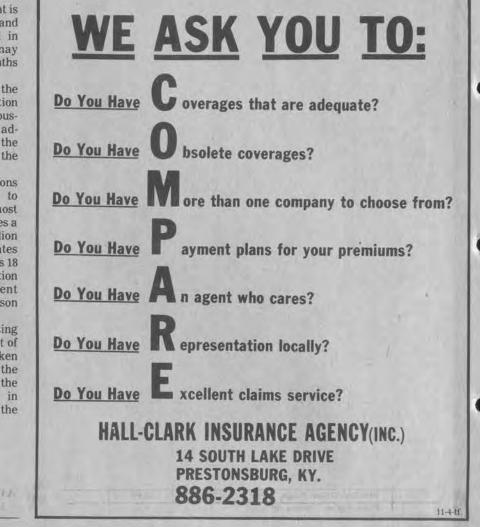

He said that continued neglect of the housing industry by the administration and the apparent "sacrifice the housing industry" attitude of the administration, the Congress and the Federal Reserve is compounding the problems.

"The sad part of this is that millions of people are presently unable to achieve their housing needs. The most recent housing starts figure indicates a construction level below one million units and with mortgage interest rates from financial institutions as high as 18 percent, there is a serious question about the direction the current economic policy is taking," Carlson said.

Carlson said that unless housing shelter, which represents 36 percent of the Gross National Product, is taken into consideration, the decade of the 1980's may be remembered best as the time of the decline of housing in America, a decline sponsored by the federal government.

* Cancer Hopeline

Q. What are some of the examinations to pick up early cancer of the large bowel or conditions that may lead to a large bowel cancer?

A. Initial examinations for early detection of large bowel cancer may consist of digital rectal examinations, proctosigmoidoscopy, and a stool hemocult test.

In dignital rectal examination, the doctor puts his index finger into the rectum to feel if there are any tumors in the rectum. In proctosigmoidoscopy, the interior of the rectum and the colon just above may be looked at. This is usually done with a metal 25 cm long proctoscope (or sigmoidoscope). The hemocult is a test for blood in the stool. Many cancers of the colon and rectum are accessible to early diagnosis by above means, and precancerous growths may also be found. Their removal can prevent cancer. The above examinations should be included in the annual physical checkup of every person over 40 years of age.

If you would like more cancer information, we encourage you to call or write us at the Cancer Hopeline, 915 South Limestone Street, Lexington, KY 40536, or phone our toll-free number 1-800-432-9321. We have pamphlets on colo-rectal cancer as well as material on other types of cancer.

Good health comes from the day-to-day practice of habits that promote health. Health is more than the absence of disease. Health is a state of complete physical, mental and social well-being. Some habits that promote health include a well-balanced diet, good body posture, adequate rest and relaxation and sensible exercise. In addition, good mental attitude, observance of safety measures, regular medical and dental supervision and care, correction of remedial defects and immunization against preventable disease are others.

Tenn. Firm Heavily Fined For Mining In National Forest

Daugherty Surface Mining, Inc., of Oneida, Tennessee, was fined $10,000 by U.S. District Judge Eugene E. Siler, Jr., in U.S. District Court on October 30 for removing coal illegally from National Forest lands. The incident involved the removal of an estimated 11,000 tons of coal from lands on the Daniel Boone National Forest on Anderson Mountain in McCreary county between the period of January 1, 1975 to December 31, 1977

Three men were indicted by a Federal Grand Jury in London on August 19, 1981, after an investigation by the U.S. Forest Service. A guilty plea was entered by the corporation on behalf of the three men; Tom Daugherty and Dale Daugherty of Oneida, Tennessee, and Walter Crabtree of Pine Knot, Kentucky.

The $10,000 fine is one of the largest fines ever handed down by the Eastern District, U.S. District Court.

Branch hill (Route 1248) is the Oldsmobile in which Brenda Lumpkins, of Arkansas Creek and Joe Fitzpatrick, of Royalton were injured, late Sunday afternoon. According to State Trooper Wendell Scott, who investigated the mishap, an eyewitness reported hearing the squeal of tires and looked up to see the vehicle airborn. The car hit in a dry creek bed, nose first, it was reported. Miss Lumpkins, driver of the vehicle, is believed to have suffered internal injuries and was transferred to the University of Kentucky Medical Center, Lexington, following the accident. Fitzpatrick was hospitalized with a compound fracture and lesser injuries.

Beth-Elkhorn Wins

Third Award in Row

Mine No. 25 of the Beth-Elkhorn Corporation, headquartered at Jenkins, has won the Sentinels of Safety Award as the safest underground coal mine in the country. It was the third consecutive year that a Bethlehem Steel Corporation mine has won this award.

Formal dinner ceremonies will be held Saturday at the Elkhorn Country Club, Jenkins, to honor some 190 employees of Mine 25 who worked 332,079 hours in 1980 without a single lost workday injury.

The coveted award was won by Mine No. 108 of Bethlehem's Marion-Barbour Division, headquartered in Bridgeport, W. Va., for 1978 and 1979. That marked the first time in almost two decades that an underground coal mine in the United States won the award in two consecutive years.

Average Johnson Gas Bill To Rise To $91.60

Per Month After Raise The state Public Service Commission has approved a rate increase for the Johnson County Gas Co. to enable the company to pay off a debt it incurred when it reconstructed its system.

The system had line losses as high as 30 percent before the repair work began. It obtained a $1.3 million loan through the federal Economic Development Administration and the state Department of local government in 1980 for the reconstruction.

The rate increase, which was effective Oct. 29, will permit the company to pay interest on the loan and to pay past-due gas bills it owes to its wholesale suppliers, the Kentucky-West Virginia Gas Co. and Columbia Gas of Kentucky, it was explained.

The average monthly bill will be $85.48 compared to the $91.66 proposed by the company. The old bills varied from $38.93 to $63.24, depending on where the customer lived.

Johnson County Gas serves 826 customers in Johnson and Floyd counties.

Legislative Information Open Thru Toll-Free Phone Service

In an effort to encourage citizen participation in the legislature, the Kentucky General Assembly has again established a toll-free legislative information line.

The phone line opened November 1, according to State Representative Greg Stumbo. The number is 1-800-372-7181.

Subscription Rates Per Year

In Floyd County, $8.00 Elsewhere in Kentucky, $10 Outside Kentucky, $12.50

Please note expiration date opposite your name on wrapper or on your copy of The Times. Because of increased mailing costs, notices of subscription expiration are no longer mailed to subscribers.

Interested persons may call for current information on pre-filed bills and legislative activities as the General Assembly members prepare for the 1982 session.

In preparation for the 1982 session the General Assembly has conducted 17 Citizen Speak Out programs throughout the state and held 622 committee meetings, all of which were open to the public.

At the first of October, legislators had pre-filed 106 bills and legislative committees had pre-filed 46 bills, all of which will be introduced when the General Assembly convenes next January 5.

The General Assembly encourages public participation in the legislative process and providing opportunities for the public to be informed about the actions of state government. "The legislative information line is a way the citizen can participate," Stumbo said.

Health Line

By Richard J. Furrey

An estimated 10 million Americans suffer from Diabetes Mellitus and its chronic complications. According to the National Commission on Diabetes, the incidence is increasing so rapidly that diabetes is now the fifth leading cause of death by disease in the United States.

Diabetes Mellitus, or sugar diabetes, is a condition where the body is incapable of converting certain foods into the heat and energy needed for proper functioning. Sugars and starches are processed by normal digestion into a sugar called glucose, which is a fuel for the body. Glucose can be used at once or stored for later use as needed.

A hormone called insulin, secreted by the pancreas, is one of the substances used by the body to regulate that fuel supply by telling body more fuel is needed. When the right amount of insulin is present at the right time, the proper amount of glucose is utilized.

In a diabetic, however, there is an impairment of insulin activity. Either the body doesn't produce enough of the hormone, or the insulin that is available is kept from functioning by other substances in the body. Because of that, the glucose is not used properly; it accumulates in the blood and tissues and overflows into the urine. The causes of this disease are not fully known, but there seems to be an indication that it is inherited.

The early symptoms of diabetes are caused by increased sugar in the blood and urine. Increased amounts of sugar in the kidneys cause the body to excrete extra amounts of water; thus, the untreated diabetic will urinate more often and be thirsty.

Weight loss occurs because glucose isn't being converted to fuel. Other symptoms which are common to diabetes are general weakness, drowsiness, fatique, blurry vision, slow healing cuts and intense itching.

Diabetics with milder adult onset diabetes may have none of these symptoms, or the symptoms may be so vague that they are not recognized as signs of diabetes.

A sure way to determine diabetes is to have regular check-ups that include a glucose tolerance test, which measures the level of glucose in the blood.

The treatment of diabetes varies according to the individual's needs and the extent of the disease. The main concerns in treatment are diet, exercise and the use of artificial sources of insulin when needed.

In the past, the diet prescribed for the diabetic was very rigid; today, however, most diabetics are told that they can eat pretty much the same foods as the rest of the family meat, eggs, fish, dairy and cereal products, vegetables, fruit and fats—cutting down only on sugar and sugar-rich foods.

Overweight diabetics are urged to lose weight because the loss will relieve the abnormalities in sugar metabolism.

Exercise is also important to the diabetic. An increase in physical activity increases the burning of glucose and therefore reduces the amount of medication needed, or increases the need for carbohydrates.

Some diabetics are able to control their conditions through diet and exercise alone, while others must use insulin. Insulin is prepared from an extract of the pancreas of cattle and hogs. It must be used by all juvenile diabetics and many adults in order to maintain normal carbohydrate metabolism.

Since 1957, there have been available some oral preparations for treating adult-onset diabetes, but a recent study indicates that there is doubt about the safety of such drugs, and about their usefulness as a way of controlling diabetes and its complications. In fact, it is the consensus of studies conducted at 12 U.S. medical centers that oral anti-diabetic drugs increase the risk of coronary heart disease more than either insulin and diet therapy or diet alone.

If you would like more information about diabetes, write to the American Diabetes Association, Inc., 600 Fifth Ave., New York, NY 10020 or write to the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation, 23 E. 26 St., New York, NY 10010.

ORDER CLEAN-UP AS WATER HERE IS CONDEMNED

Sanitation Movement Given Teeth by Health Unit Action

FILTER RECOMMENDED

Condemnation of the water supply for Prestonsburg and an order for a general clean-up of the town were made Saturday by M. W. Steele, a director of the Kentucky Board of Health who is spending a few days in Floyd county, and by Grant Rice, director of the Floyd County Health Unit.

As a result, much work has already been done toward cleaning the streets and property of Prestonsburg of refuse, and a greater amount of work is to be done.

Dr. Steele said this week that, in all his travels over Kentucky, he had never visited a town with worse sanitary conditions than those of Prestonsburg.

Olive Hill, Ky., Oct. 29 .- A. J. Stamper, president of the Carter County Commercial Bank, said today that he believed H. G. Hicks, 52, cashier of the bank, whose accounts are about $90,000 short, has the money in his possession. Hicks stated yesterday that he had loaned the money to his friends.

According to President Stamper today, Hicks was bonded at $30,000, but the deficit will probably wipe out the bank's surplus. The depositors will lose nothing, however, and the bank is continuing business.

Hicks, charged with embezzlement, waived examining trial here today and was held to the grand Jury of November 14, under $15,000 bond, which was furnished.

Floyd Magistrate Is Delegate To Meet In Washington, D.C.

Floyd county magistrate Eddie Caudill is one of the delegates from this state who will attend the conclusion of the year-long White House Conference on Aging to be held November 20 to December 4.

Prior to the conference, a documentary, "No Place Like Home," will be aired Monday, November 16, on public television. Helen Hayes reporter hostess for the hour-long program which will be seen at 9 p.m. over most PBS stations.

In her introduction to the program, Miss Hayes, who was 81 in October says, "Aging is an inevitable human problem, and everyone who grows old must struggle with the changes that no one can undo. But aging is also a social problem, because America itself is growing older. In 1900, when I was born, four percent of Americans were over 65. Today, there are more than 11 percent, and by the middle of the next century, 20 percent will be elderly."

Group at Hearing Here Presses Claims for Few Federal Dollars

Since the civil unrest of the 1960's, the notion that potential recipients of federal grant dollars should have a say in how the money is allocated is one that funding agencies have generally honored, at least with lip service.

Hence the proliferation of public hearings designed to solicit "input" from citizens, to "assess local needs" and "set priorities" for funding.

One such hearing held here Monday under the auspices of a group called the Floyd County Rural Development Committee—County Extension Agent John Sparks is chairman of the group—drew about 30 people together to press their claims, or the claims of their constituents, to the shrinking pot of federal grant and loan money.

It was not the first time the area's needs had been listed and "prioritized," Sparks acknowledged. Indeed, a list prepared earlier by Big Sandy Area Development District staffers was circulated at the meeting as a basis for discussion.

But federal money has become much tighter under the Reagan administraed federal funds will be expected to alleviate.

Under "social services," for example, the ADD listed as the area's sole need "increased services to the elderly and handicapped." Monday's meeting—which included representatives from local housing, health and community action agencies, legal services attorneys, development clubs from Auxier and Abbott Creek, and others—quickly expanded the list to include AFDC, Medicaid and legal services recipients, groups hard hit by recent budget cuts.

Under "health," the ADD had listed no needs at all. Monday's hearing listed the need for mental health services, detoxification for alcoholics, hospital care for indigents, increased funding for the local health department and federally-funded clinics, and the restoration of funds for school nurses. And so on, down a list that included housing, economic development, education, transportation, land use planning, environmental protection and energy. Participants were asked to work their list of needs in order of

Cancer Society Elects Officers

Floyd County Cancer Society board members met at the Kentucky Power Company building recently to elect officers for 1982. Valerie Bentley, district chairperson, presided at the meeting. Elected were Ed Bierman, president: Maxine Bierman, vicepresident; Bev Schlissler, secretary; Eva Collins, treasurer; Lida Howard, crusade chairman; Pat Mills, education chairman; Gary Fights, service chairman; Peachie Collins, memorial chairman; Sue Milligan, publicity chairman, and Dr. Larry Leslie, medical adviser. Additional board members are Garnett Fairchild, Mary Sue Crawford and Leonard Grant.

WNET/THIRTEEN, New York, which produced the documentary sent a crew to London, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Minneapolis, and then to Hindman, Knott County for filming. In Hindman, they visited the East Kentucky Health Services Center, Inc., which is recognized nationally as the model program for rural health care, and was the only rural program filmed for the documentary. EKHSC was founded by State Senator Benny Ray Bailey and Secretary of Human Resources Grady Stumbo, both natives of this county.

At the conclusion of the broadcast of "No Place Like Home," public television stations will present special, locally produced panel discussions on the subject of long-term care for the elderly, with emphasis on local problems and solutions. Open telephone lines for viewer participation will be utilized. KET is the public television station in this area.

Prater Completes Basic Training

Airman Jonathan W. Prater, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dockie C. Prater, of Eastern, has completed Air Force basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas.

The airman, who is remaining at Lackland for specialized training in the security police field, studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special instruction in human relations.

Completion of this training earned the individual credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

He is a 1981 graduate of Allen Central High School.

Interest Growing in Healing Powers of Plants

By Thomas Harney

(Smithsonian News Service) The Kenyan medical practitioner examining the wailing baby did not wear a white jacket or a stethoscope. His garments were cowhide and he wore a necklace with an engraved bone talisman to exorcise the evil spirits.

His consulting room in the thatched hut bore no resemblance to a hospital examining room. It was outfitted simply with a cooking hearth, a bed, a few chairs and a table with an array of tins, boxes, bottles and bowls containing herbs

Not that it mattered to the baby's desperate mother. When her child's chronic, debilitating colic failed to respond to treatment at a nearby hospital, she turned to a local herbalist, one of thousands of healers in Africa whose knowledge-passed down orally from generation to generation-of the medicinal properties of local plants equips them to handle medical problems ranging from the simple to the sophisticated

The herbalist questioned the mother closely about the baby's symptoms, went out into the field behind his house and returned a few minutes later with the leaves and roots of a plant.

Placing the plant in a bowl of water, he added some herbal powder and liquid from his arsenal of pharmaceuticals and proceeded to boil up a tea. When the concoction was ready, he recited an incantation to drive off the evil spirits afflicting his patient, then fed the tea to the baby.

Within a few minutes, the baby stopped crying. After continued doses of the tea over the next several days, the cure was complete.

This story is told by Dr. Edward S. Ayensu, a Smithsonian plant biologist who was born and raised in Ghana. In a lifetime of travel across Africa and other continents, Ayensu has seen many such "cures." In West Africa, he once witnessed the rigorous and lengthy religious indoctrination of a tribal healer, which included taking the student into a forest to learn to identify the names, medicinal uses and locations of various trees and shrubs.

'Unfortunately, because many of the traditional healers in Africa, Asia, the Caribbean and other parts of the world claim to employ magic and spiritual forces to aid their herbal cures," Ayensu says, "They have been branded 'witch doctors' and 'voodoo priests' by Westerners and the value of their medicinal remedies questioned, if not dismissed out of hand.'

But this attitude is changing. Fostered by such scientists as Ayensu and Dr. Richard E. Schultes, director of Harvard University's Botanical Museum, interest in herbal medicine is undergoing a renaissance. Scientists, drug companies and public health experts at the World Health Organization are studying the herbalists' methods and analyzing their herbal tests. And WHO has recently initiated a program to promote and encourage traditional medicine throughout the developing world This interest is well founded; Western doctors are coming to realize they have much to learn from reputable herbalists. Studies show that a surprising number of the prescription drugs sold every year in the United States are derived from plants which have long been included in the pharmacopoeia of traditional healers. Two examples:

-Reserpine, a drug used in the treatment of high blood pressure, is extracted from Rauwolfia serpentina, a plant native to Southeast Asia. Hindu healers have used this plant for thousands of years to treat nervous disorders.

-Diosgenin, a drug used as the foundation material in the manufacture of birth control pills, comes from the Mexican yam, a climbing vine that Mexican Indians have used as a general cure-all.

Sadly, the folk pharmacopoeias possessed by many traditional societies are in danger of being lost forever, Schultes and Ayensu warn. with potentially grave consequences. Approximately 20,000 flowering plant species are threatened with extinction because of the cutting and burning of tropical forests and development; as a result, many useful drugs may never be discovered

At the same time, native peoples also are being irrevocably changed through contact with modern civilization, setting in motion a vicious circle: With the arrival of aspirin pills and other Western medicines, herbal remedies often are abandoned and forgotten. In their place, increasingly costly drugs are imported, straining the already fragile economies of these developing nations.

As director of the Smithsonian's Office of Biological Conservation, located at the National Museum of Natural History, and a member of the National Academy of Sciences Board on Science and Technology for International Development, Ayensu has been at the forefront of efforts to prevent what he terms a "tragedy.

Botanical exploration, he says, should be accelerated in the tropics, where the world's most diverse plant communities live. Ayensu himself has been working to identify and publish data on medicinal plants in a systematic manner, information that will be useful to the scientific community and the general public.

Three years ago, he published the first authoritative sourcebook on Medicinal Plants of West Africa, listing the botanical characteristics, names and traditional medicinal uses of 187 species of West African plants. This month, a sequel, Medicinal Plants of the West Indies, was published. (Both volumes are published by Reference Publications Inc., of Algonac, Mich.)

Ayensu's own interest in medicinal plants dates back 20 years to field research trips to Antigua and Dominica. There, he was surprised to learn that many familiar West African medicinal plants had been introduced to the Caribbean by slaves as early as the 1400s. In Dominica, for example, he found the well-known castor oil plant (Ricinus communis), a native of AIrica, whose leaves and roots are used in that nation to treat stomach disorders-and in fact could have been the herb that cured the baby's colic. Avensu believes that the escalating costs of important Western drugs make it imperative for the Caribbean nations and other developing regions of the world to achieve "drug independence.

This cannot happen, however, unless they become familiar with medically valuable plants growing right in their own backyards. A dramatic example is the case of the Madagascar periwinkle (Catharanthus roseus), which flourishes in certain areas of Antigua-and is all but ignored. Long used by traditional healers on other Caribbean islands to treat bronchitis and other ailments, this plant is now the basis of a leading drug for the treatment of leukemia. One pound of the alkaloid vincristine extracted from periwinkles currently sells for $100,000 on the world market.

In the People's Republic of China, he continues, where herbal medicine is employed side-by-side with modern medicine as part of a comprehensive health care program in cities and the countryside, literally all available soil suitable for the growth of the periwinkle plant is under cultivation. "It seems obvious," Ayensu says, "that the complexion of the world's health situation requires that other developing nations follow China's lead. It is just not possible for us to place Western health systems in developing countries before the year 2000. The fact is, healers will be the only health care available in this period in a large part of the developing rural world.

'Plants with valuable medicinal properties must be identified and cultivated in these countries. Healers should be officially encouraged, so that as much professionalism as possible is injected into their work. We must acknowledge the empirical value of the traditional healer.

PCC To Expand Nurse Program

Prestonsburg Community College is proposing an expansion of the Associate Degree Nursing Program (RN) at Pikeville College for the 1982-83 academic year.

A pre-admission conference with Madonna C. Combs, coordinator of the program, was held Tuesday at Pikeville College.

The program is designed primarily for those interested in direct patient care and within two years will prepare the student for general nursing positions in hospitals and other health agencies. After successful completion of the program students will receive the Associate in Applied Science Degree and will be eligible to take the State Board examination for license as a registered nurse.

Dr. Stephen E. Fritz, vice-president for academic affairs, and William R. Little, dean of admissions, represented Pikeville College at the meeting and Madonna C. Combs, John A. Herald, assistant director for student services, and Jr. Henry A. Campbell, director of Prestonsburg Community College, will represent Prestonsburg.

For further information concerning the Associate Degree Nursing Program call the Admissions Office at 432-9332.

In Appreciation

Gary and Joan Caldwell, parents of Stephen Caldwell, and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Haskell Hall and Joyce Caldwell, thank the many friends and relatives who have offered their prayers and support during this trying time after Stephen's injury. We especially thank the teachers and his classmates at the McDowell school where Stephen is an eighth grade student. Cards and letters may be sent him at the U.K. Medical Center, Room 474, Lexington, KY 40536.

Fire Chief Tom Blackburn and Major Paul Chaffins received a plaque on behalf of the Prestonsburg Fire Department from Blood Center representatives recently. The award was in recognition of the fire department's support of the county blood program, of which Chief Blackburn is chairman.

"Firemen are among our best supporters here," said Pat Phillips, Floyd county donor representative, in explaining the award.

He won in the category of 1941-1950 from a field of about 70 other cars. The cars were judged on originality of the equipment. Young Bartley is a senior at Wheelwright High School.

Airlift Of Nuts Will Support Park Wildlife

In the last couple of weeks, Dr. Midkiff has been flying over Jenny Wiley State Park dropping food for wildlife. Over 30,000 hickory nuts, walnuts, chestnuts, chinquapins, pin oak, acorns, holly berries and autumn olive berries have been distributed. These valuable fruits will feed and support a larger population of squirrels, rabbits, ruffed grouse, bobwhite quail, and other wildlife species. Whatever fruits are not eaten may germinate and grow into trees and shrubs improving the natural stand of timber for wildlife.

The fruits were donated by Debbie Hall, Ethel Burke, Todd Harris, Isabelle Stevens, Jo Webb, and Enoch Spears. Dr. Midkiff volunteered his time and airplane for the project.

This project was sponsored by the Dewey Lake Fish and Game Club, the Big Sandy Resource Conservation and Development RC&D Council, and local concerned citizens interested in improving our environment for wildlife.

For more information on the project, contact Bill Pettrey, or Pat Beyler at the Big Sandy RC&D office in Prestonsburg.

KES GOO FINANCIA SENSE

"All Savers Certificates", offering Tax-Free income, are available as of October 1st, 1981 through December 31st. 1982. These certificates have a one year maturity and provide a once-in-a-life-time maximum tax exemption on interest earned up to $1,000 for individuals and $2,000 for married persons filing a joint return.

The interest rate paid on your "All Savers Certificate" is equal to 70% of the average yield on the most recent auction of one-year U.S. Treasury Bills. Important! Unlike Cash Management funds, the interest rate on your "All Savers Certificate" is fixed for a one year term ... and there is no risk because your investment is insured to $1000,000 by the FDIC (Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation).

You can participate in The Bank Josephine's "All Savers Certificate" program for a minimum deposit of $500. However, we strongly suggest you consult with a Bank Josephine advisor to help to determine the benefits of these Tax-Free certificates as it applies to your specific financial position.

Important! "All Savers Certificates" are subject to penalty for early withdrawal just like regular time certificates of deposit.* In addition, any interest earned prior to early withdrawal will be considered taxable income by Federal law.

The Bank Josephine offers no frills, and no gimmicks. We're simply offering a chance, for many of us, to "catch up a little" on inflation.

*You have contracted to keep your funds on deposit for the stated maturity : in the event of early withdrawal, Federal Regulations require that you shall forfeit three montos interest on the amount withdrawn at the nominal rate being paid on the certificate.

Money Market Certificate Conversion to "ALL SAVERS"

If you currently hold a Bank Josephine Money Market Certificate, you can convert it to a Bank Josephine "ALI, SAVERS" with no penalty for early withdrawal. Converting to an "ALL SAVERS" Tax Free certificate could provide improved after tax earnings. Ask your Bank Josephine advisor for a conversion evaluation.

Lead Kiwanis Session Here

Two divisional lieutenant governors of Kiwanis International, both from this county, led a session last Thursday night at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, honoring Frank Snyder (center), governor of the Kentucky-Tennessee district. Ellis Osborne (left), of the East Floyd Club, is lieutenant governor of the territory south of Prestonsburg to Virginia, and Leonard Grant (right), of Prestonsburg, in the same capacity heads Division 16, which extends north to the Ohio river. Some 120 Kiwanians and their wives attended the banquet and honored Mr. Snyder with the presentation of an original painting, delivered by the artist, Russell May, of Prestonsburg.

KET Features Two Comedy Specials

Comedy lovers have a treat in store on November 18 when KET airs two specials beginning with "Making Mash." at 9 p.m., and the "Mark Russell Comedy Special" at 10:30 p.m. Narrated by actress Mary Tyler Moore, "Making Mash" is a 90-minute, behind-the-scenes close-up of the peo-

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Noah Robert creative process that has made Nichols.

I'd like the memory of me to be a happy one. I'd like to leave an afterglow of smiles when life is done. I'd like to leave an echo whispering softly down the ways, of happy times and laughing times and bright and sunny days. I'd like the tears of those who grieve, to dry before the sun of happy ple, actors, writers and producers who together created the outstanding comedy series, "Mash." In "Making Mash." cameras were allowed to film writing and rehearsal sessions.

Interviews with "Mash" star Alan Alda, Mike Farrell (B. J. Hunnicut), Loretta Swit (Major Margaret "Hotlips" Houlihan), Jamie Farr (Corporal Max Klinger) and Harry Morgan (Colonel Sherman Potter) explain the 'Mash" the smash comedy hit of the last 10 years.

Political satirist Mark Russell takes over at 10:30 p.m. with the latest 'Mark Russell Comedy Special.

Because all of Russell's material is taken directly from the news, no one can predict what he will include in his common for material to be added moments before airtime. The audience can always depend on a witty, topical, fun half-hour with Washington's top political satirist.

E. L. Cline and his grandson, John Duston Ramey, celebrated their birthdays together at Mr. Cline's home here Sunday, November 1.

Mr. Cline was born November 1, 1928, and 51 years later, on November 1, 1979, his grandson was born. John Duston is the son of Carolyn and John Ramey, of Prestonsburg, and his grandmothers are Mrs. Bertha Cline and Mrs. Josephine Ramey.

Sharing the occasion with Mr. Cline and his grandson were family members and friends.

SADLY MISSED BY HIS WIFE, DOLLIE NICHOLS; DAUGHTERS, JEAN SELLARDS AND PATRICIA ELLIS: SONS, ROBERT, JAMES, GLEN, AND ROY NICHOLS, AND 16 GRANDCHILDREN

"Making Mash" is a productive WTTW, Chicago, and the "Mark Russell Comedy Specials" are presented on KET by WNED, Buffalo.

I want to thank all of you who voted for me and those who wanted to vote for me, but couldn't, due to several different circumstances.

There aren't enough words to express my appreciation to all of you who helped in my campaign. You clearly showed that friendship and loyalty were all that mattered at the polls.

I would like everyone to know that my father passed away when I was 12 years old, leaving me the "man of the house" with two younger brothers, an older sister and my mother. I tried for four years to work at odd jobs and to finish my schooling, which was an impossible task, so I left when I was sixteen for Chicago to support my mother and family. I then married at age 22 and had four children, went to night school in Columbus, Ohio, while working to support my wife and children and still helped support my mother until she passed away in 1973.

NOT THE FIRST TIME DID ANYONE TELL ME WHAT TO DO THEN, NOR IS ANYONE TELLING ME WHAT TO DO NOW.

I wanted to run in the primary, but it was "filled-up" with my cousin, Earmal Tackett, my good friend, Leo Roberts, and my neighbor, Hershell Hamilton. I wouldn't have gone against them for anything in the world-that's why I didn't run in the primary. As for anyone "PUTTING ME UP" to running on the write-in, it's simply not true. I just wanted to give my people another chance. Let's put the election behind us and support all our elected officials and our party.

THANK YOU AGAIN,

ROBERT L.(BOB) TACKETT

Let's look forward to the future and stay concerned.

Allen Central and Wheelwright Open Pre-Season Meet Tonight

BY C. "OLLIF" ROBINSON AND TOMMIE LYNN MAY The Floyd County Pre-Season Tournament gets under way tonight (Wednesday) at J.H. Allen Central High School,

In the lid-opener, in the boys' bracket, Allen Central will face Wheelwright. In the girls' bracket, the Rebelettes will face the Wheelwright Lady Trojans. Thursday night in the lower bracket, the McDowell Daredevilettes will face the Prestonsburg Lady Blackcats, and in the boys' division, Prestonsburg will go against McDowell. The Betsy Layne Bobcats drew a bye and will play the winners of Wednesday night's action.

The McDowell Daredevils and Allen Central have already tasted victory. McDowell opened by defeating Feds Creek and last Friday night at McDowell, Allen Central won over the Daredevils, 59 to 57. Bruce Mullins took scoring honors by firing in 23 points. Tim Lawson connected for 14 and Wally Ridner had 10. The Daredevils were led in scoring by Pete Grigsby with 18, and Jimmy Turner and Roger Moore each had 10 points.

Girls varsity basketball got under way last week. The Prestonsburg Lady Blackcats won over Dorton, 59 to 58. McKenzie led the Cats with 23, while Johnson fired in 14 points.

The Betsy Layne Girls' Invitational Tournament opened last Monday night. In the upper bracket Monday night Jenkins defeated Feds Creek and Allen Central downed Phelps. In the lower bracket on Tuesday night, Millard defeated Wheelwright and Whitesburg defeated Betsy Layne.

In the semi-finals Wednesday night Allen Central defeated Jenkins, while Whitesburg defeated Millard. In the championship game Thursday night Whitesburg defeated Allen Central.

In regular season play the Allen Central Rebelettes downed host McDowell Daredevilettes, 67 to 44, Friday night.

Monday night, the McDowell Daredevilettes traveled to Salversville and lost to Magoffin county, 63 to 50. High scorers for McDowell were Brenda Kidd with 16 points, Michelle LaBlane with 12 points, and MaDonna Tackett with 8.

Former McDowell Star With ALC Lady Eagles

MELINDA HOPKINS

Melinda Hopkins, daughter of Blaine and Virginia Hopkins, of Price, is a freshman, at Alice Lloyd College where she is a member of the Lady Eagles basketball team.

The 5-6, 130-pound guard is a graduate of McDowell High School where she averaged 26.8 points and 7 rebounds per game, scoring better than 47% from the field and 86% from the free-throw line. She has won several awards, including field goal percentage, MVP, most rebounds, All-District and All-Conference. She was also a participant in the Kentucky East-West All-Star game.

Coach, Gary Gibson describes her as "an outstanding shooter." A business administration major, Miss Hopkins is successfully making the transition to the college game.

The Lady Eagles will open their season at home, Saturday, at 5:30 p.m. against the Pikeville Lady Bears. Following the women's game, the ALC men's team will begin their season against Campbellsville College as part of a Homecoming doubleheader at the Alice Lloyd College gymnasium.

Disabled Must Report Events That Could Affect SS Status

Those who receive Social Security benefits because they are disabled are required by law to report events that can affect their eligibility. Jim Kelly, Social Security district director for the Big Sandy area, said recently.

A required report can be made by mail or in person, Kelly said. A report must contain the name of the person about whom the report is made, what is being reported, the date it happened, the correct Social Security claim

High School Football Here Dates Back More than 50 Years

Eastern Kentucky would largely be the story of basketball-the little coal towns whose teams won the state tournament, or the poor boys from the hollows who became legends of the hardwood court. But football has also had its place in the mountains. The gridiron tradition in Floyd county, in fact, is more than half a century old.

Although an independent league had played a few rough and tumble seasons in the area in the early years of this century, it was Prestonsburg that first organized a county high school team. Frank Layne, of Prestonsburg, remembers the fall of 1925 when the leam was founded.

"Somewhere along the line it had been decided that Prestonsburg would start a football program," Layne said, "so we started practicing in August to prepare ourselves the best we could."

N.M. (Bud) White, a Prestonsburg resident who had played football at Ohio State, volunteered to coach the boys, most of whom had never even seen a football. "None of us had any kind of background in football, so we just had to work on basics," Layne said. "As coach, Bud White literally taught us everything we knew about the game.

Uniforms consisted of khaki pants and black jerseys (which conformed to the newly-chosen team name, the "Blackcats"). Helmets were of leather and generally without any sort of face guards, and padding was sparse compared to that of today's football gear. When the time arrived for the pioneer Blackcats' momentous first game, the team climbed aboard the train, the means of transport to "away" games in those days, and made the long trip through the hills to Jenkins. Luckily for the "Cats, the Jenkins team was new, too, and after a grueling endurance test, Layne recalls, the single score of the game went to Prestonsburg.

Lucien Laferty, who played on the team a few years later, said he remembers the return of the team following that first game. "The main thing I remember was the game ball with a few drops of blood on it being put on display in the window of Doc (C.L.) Hutsinpiller's drug store," Laferty commented.

Besides Layne, who is now 75 and served as captain of the squad, some of the other members of that original team were Jennings Coyer, Adrian Collins (quarterback), Graham Porter, Bill Rose, Bill May (former state commissioner of agriculture), Darvin Shepherd, Forrest Burchett, John Hunley, Crawford Cline, Lewis Campbell, "Big" John Burchett and Ben Parker.

Other games, all of which were played in daylight (for lack of artificial lighting), included contests against teams like the Van Lear "Bank Mules," Louisa, Pikeville and Paintsville, and Layne thinks Prestonsburg may have won one other game that one of two against Van Lear, the best he can recall. Home games were played in the old Richmond Bottom (present-day site of Music-Carter-Hughes Chevrolet-Buick) and Layne remembers that on "good" days "maybe 75 to 100 people would come out to watch." Although not a member of the team until around 1928 or '29, Joe A. Spradlin, of Prestonsburg, shared some additional recollections of the early days of the sport here. "Teams used formations like the single wing

The story of high school athletics in offense and there were a lot of things like reverses and even triple reverses," Spradlin said. "Hand-offs from the quarterback were just begin ning to be used at that time," he added "and although there was some passing. it was never used as frequently as today.

Equipment was at a premium and Spradlin recalls that often a player coming off the field would have to give his helmet to a replacement coming on. "It was rough then, that's for sure," he said.

Eligibility rules were not too strictly enforced in those days, apparently, and Spradlin remembers one instanc when, at a game played in the area of the present day PHS field, "a couple of boys who must have been 23 or 24 years old hid over on the river bank when we found out the superintendent of schools was at the game."

Eastern Kentucky boys weren't used to getting knocked around on a field and tempers were quick to flare, according to Spradlin. "Somebody would get hit in the normal course of the gam and you could just about count on a fis fight breaking out."

Several years later, the development of Wheelwright and an associated population growth gave birth to the county's second grid team, the Wheelwright Trojans, and in the past few years Betsy Layne has also established a program. Today, the sport is marked by complex strategy, sophisticated equipment, big crowds, cheerleaders and associated fanfare But all that football is in Floyd county today is indebted to those players, who, in ill-fitting uniforms and with sparse protective equipment, played their rugged version of the game on pockmarked fields and before little more than a handful of spectators:

MSU WOMEN'S SOCCER TEAM CLAIMS VICTORIES

Morehead State University's women's soccer team won the Louisville Invitational Tournament this weekend and defeated Eastern Kentucky in a regular season match to go 2-1 on the season.

In the LIT, MSU compiled a 3-0 mark against club teams, winning two games Saturday and another Sunday for MSU's third consecutive LIT title. In collegiate play, MSU was forced into an overtime "shoot-out" to decide the winner againt EKU in Richmond.

Trailing 1-0 at the half, MSU's Karen Brookes tied the game with a secondhalf goal to force a tie breaker. Using a "shool-out" rather than an extra period, MSU won the contest on a goal by forward Jenny Hollabaugh.

The Lady Eagles will be in action again Saturday at Berea and will return home for a rematch against Eastern Kentucky, Wednesday at 2 D.m.

Protection within 30 days of the date of this notice. The written objection must have attached a copy of the newspaper clipping, and reference the above application number. Such objection or request must be in accordance with KRS 224.081 (2), and must be forwarded to the Director of Permits, Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky, 40601.

P'burg Grade Team, Floyd Champs

Prestonsburg Grade School's championship 7th-8th grade football team recently concluded another successful season, compiling a record of six wins, one loss and a tie, and claiming the Floyd county grid championship. The team recorded wins including the following: 22-8 over Clark, 28-8 over Pikeville, 66-24 over Stumbo, 54-30 over Osborne, 44-6 over Martin, and 18-16 in the post-season all-star game in which Prestonsburg players teamed with the best from Clark and Martin to play an all-star team from the southern end of the county.

Prestonsburg's only loss came in a game with Paintsville in which the Johnson countians won 6-0 only after regulation play plus four overtimes! The team tied in one of two games with Pikeville. (Prestonsburg's loss to Paintsville this season represents only the second game in five years in which the 7th and 8th grade squad has been defeated.)

The team was honored at an awards banquet held last Thursday at Western Sizzlin' Steak House here and the following team members received outstanding performance trophies for the past season: Shag Branham, Doug Hyden, John Goble, Bryan Griffith, Greg Shepherd, B.D. Nunnery, Mike Lyons and David Spradlin. Those team members were also named to this year's all-star squad along with Keith Slone, Morris Copley, Frank Green, Rickie Thacker and Ashland Joseph.

Other members who contributed through the past season include Donnie Ray, Jim Frazier, Brian Wallace, Lance Alexander, Todd Miller, Terry Castle, Bob Akers, Jonathan Spradlin, Casey Duncan, Nicolas Dawson, Cris Howard, Lee Boyd and Brett Thomas.

Coaches are John G. Goble, Dixon Nunnery, William O. Goebel, III, and Ashland Joseph.

Commenting on the impressive performance of the team over the past five years, Coach Goble commented: "With some former members of this grade school team already freshmen and sophomores playing high school varsity ball and with these eighth graders coming up, in my opinion we're going to be seeing the best football team Prestonsburg has ever had."

These three whitetail deer were bagged Saturday on the Scott county farm of Marcum Reynolds. The deer dressed out at 100, 125 and 138-lbs. and were taken by Billy Robinson, Robert Barnett and Seldon Horne, all of the Prestonsburg area. Other hunters in the party were Jimmy Joe Reynolds, of Paintsville, Eddie Stone, Prestonsburg, and Mike Short, of Meally.

ALC Slates Homecoming

A variety of special events and the opening of the 1981-1982 Alice Lloyd College varsity basketball season will highlight Saturday's Alice Lloyd College homecoming festivities.

The campus will welcome returning alumni with a busy schedule that includes a luncheon and program featuring speakers and the Voices of Appalachia choir. In addition to the chapter meetings and traditional special awards, there will be a parade on campus featuring floats, music and other demonstrations. Following the pep rally, the Alice Lloyd College Lady Eagles will begin their regular season with a game against Pikeville College. Tip-off for the game will be 5:30 p.m.

The evening's activities will include an induction ceremony for the newest members of Alice Lloyd College's Hall of Fame and the beauty and pageantry of the Queen and King coronation ceremony. At 7:30 p.m. the men's varsity team opens the season with a powerful Campbellsville team that won the district NAIA championship last year.

Miss Rusha Cecil was chosen Oct. 23 as Betsy Layne High School's 1981 Football Homecoming Queen. She is the 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hillard Cecil, of Stanville. Her escort was Ken Tackett, son of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Tackett, of Beaver.

burg High School history that the Cats won a playoff berth.

Johns Creek will bring into the district playoffs the best won-lost record in the school's football history, an impressive 10 and 2.

Although the Blackcats won their district title, Coach Phillip Haywood was not too happy with the team's offense. The defense, he said, pulled them through. Prestonsburg's lone touchdown came in the second quarter on a oneyard run by John Gilliam, and B. J. Sturgill's kick for the extra points was good. The Cats missed two other opportunities to score in the first quarter.

Coach Haywood cited some lineup changes for the Cats because of injuries, but said he didn't want to take anything from Morgan County. Ray Marcum was out of the lineup in Friday night's game and will be out of the Johns Creek game. His replacement was starting tackle Ritchie Schoolcraft.

to our offense this year," Haywood commented. "Especially three seniors we have, John Burchett, Joe Frazier and Ray Marcum have started for two years and played a lot for three."

Prestonsburg's offense is led by halfback Steve Rice, the top ground-gainer and point-producer, but gets a boost from fullback John Gilliam and halfback Robert Midgette, along with quarterback Todd Nairn.

Johns Creek worries Haywood.

"They've beaten Whitesburg, the district favorite, and that tells you something," Haywood said.

Morgan County closed out its season with a 6 and 5 record.

Table Tennis ClubSlates 7th Tourney

The seventh annual Prestonsburg Community College Tennis and Table Tennis Club's Turkey Table Tennis Tournament will be held Friday evening, November 13, and Saturday, November 14, in the Martin Student Center on campus.

There are six double elimination classes ranging from beginners to very advanced levels of ability for singles players. A women's class will be held if enough interest is shown.

First-place winners in each class will receive a trophy and a turkey (donated by local merchants) and second-place winners will receive at trophy.

Players may enter until the drawing time for a given class. Players entering before Friday, November 13, will receive a discount on their entry fees. Questions or entries should be directed to Ken Fuller at Prestonsburg Community College at 886-3863 (day) or 789-6380 (evenings).

ADMINISTRATORS' NOTICE

Approximately 2.3 million veterans, along with 240,000 surviving spouses and about 83,000 children of deceased veterans will receive larger Veterans Administration compensation amounts, beginning this month.

The increase and other improvements in veterans benefits are the result of a law signed by President Reagan October 17.

It provides for an average 11.2 percent increase in VA compensation rates for service disabled veterans, and dependency and indemnity compensation rates for surviving spouses and children of veterans.

VA officials said the increased amounts will not be reflected in the regular November checks, but will be provided by means of supplemental checks to be issued shortly after the first of the month. The full amount of the increase will be included in the single monthly check, beginning in December.

The rate boost means an increase from $54 to $58 per month for a veteran with a disability rated at 10 percent. A veteran with a 50 percent disability will receive $328 a month, up from $291, and a veteran with a 100 percent disability will receive $1,130 a month, up from the current $1,016.

The legislation also increases the annual allowance made to certain veterans whose artificial limbs cause wear on their clothing. It goes from $274 to $305.

VA's assistance allowance toward the purchase of a specially adapted automobile or other eligible vehicle by certain handicapped veterans was increased by the new legislation to $4,400 from $3,800.

VA may now make these payments to certain veterans suffering from service connected ankylosis of one or both knees when specially adapted vehicles are deemed by VA to be necessary in meeting state drivers license requirements.

In another area, the legislation increases to $35,000 the maximum amount of Servicemen's Group Life Insurance and Veterans' Group Life Insurance that may be purchased by eligible veterans.

State Jobless Rate Dips To 6.5 Percent

Kentucky's unemployment rate in September was 6.5 percent compared to 7.1 percent in August. Department for Human Resources officials announced today. The rate for September a year ago was 8.3 percent.

'This was the eighth successive month in which the rate has declined and the first time in the last 21 months that the unemployment rate has been below 7 percent," said Dr. Grady Stumbo, secretary of the Department for Human Resources.

In September, 20 of the state's 120 counties had unemployment rates of 10 percent or higher. Statewide, Menifee county had the highest rate of 19.8 percent, while Woodford county had the

The legislation also permits VA to guarantee, for the first time, graduated-payment home mortgage loans, and it increases to $32,500 the assistance the agency may provide to certain disabled veterans for adapting their residences to, for example, the requirements of wheelchair-bound individuals

VA may furnish a headstone or marker to commemorate veterans whose remains have not been recovered or identified, were buried at sea, were donated to science, or were cremated and the ashes scattered without burial of any portion.

VA officials emphasized that full details of all changes in the compensation regulations and eligibility requirements are available by contacting the nearest VA regional office.

Before the Natural Gas Policy Act was approved by Congress, the Federal Government tightly controlled the price that could be charged by those who locate and drill for natural gas. That kept gas rates down, but the natural gas supply suffered. The low-priced gas was being used faster than producers could afford to replace it. And it wasn't economically feasible for them to drill for deeper, hard-to-get gas.

Now, through phased partial deregulation, an important part of the Policy Act, natural gas prices are being allowed to rise to realistic market levels. So producers in the Appalachian area as well as the Southwest now have the economic incentive to find new natural gas supplies. They can afford to drill into the vast known gas reserves which are deeper in the ground. They can afford to search out new fields and invest in better, more efficient ways of reaching untapped reserves to replace the enormous amount of gas we're using daily That means money, jobs and energy now as well as in the future.

Partial deregulation also means your Columbia Gas bill will be rising, because the cost we must pay for gas is rising. But the energy assurance it represents for the future is priceless

HOME INSULATION BUYING AND SAFETY

Consumers who are looking ahead to winter and its high heating costs are likely to consider adding insulation to their homes. Properly installed insulation can save energy and greatly reduce heating costs.

Attorney General Steven L. Beshear supports the use of home insulation, but wants consumers to be aware of certain facts regarding buying and installing insulation before they invest their money.

The ability of insulation to resist heat flow is known as its "resistance value" The "resistance value" is commonly referred to as the "R" value. The higher the "R" value, the more effective the insulation will be. Remember, the "R" value, not the thickness of the insulation, indicates how well a material insulates. Beshear advises.

"By August 1982 all counties in Kentucky will have energy-saving regulations as part of the building codes," said Beshear "In these codes, bulders will be required to install insulation with an "R" value above a certain number. Currently, the Department for Housing and Urban Development has set suggested minimum standards for Kentucky buildings and homes. These are: R-19 for ceilings, R-11 for outside walls and R-7 for floors. An insulation's "R" value should be printed on the package or container in which it comes.

If excess moisture accumulates in insulation, it can cause wood to rot, plaster to loosen and paint to blister. To prevent this damage, a vapor barrier should be applied at the time the insulation is added.

The vapor barrier may already be on the side of the insulation or it may have to be installed separately. Beshear said. Care must be taken not to tear the vapor barrier during installation, or it will lose its effectiveness, he adds.

When buying insulation, insist on obtaining the specifications for the product in writing and get a warranty for product performance. If you are considering hiring a contractor to install the insulation for you, it is a good idea to check with previous customers of the contractor and ask them if they are satisfied with the service, Beshear says.

If you plan to install the insulation yourself, Beshear adds, you should be aware of these safety tips:

-Since chemicals from insulation may irritate the skin, you should wear

 Wash protective clothing separately. Use gloves while handling the unwashed clothes.

-Keep insulation at least three inches away from any electrical fixture, furnace or other heat producer. Otherwise, fire may result.

- It is very important that insulation does not block attic air vents.

"Insulation can help save energy as well as lower heating costs," Beshear adds. "Selecting the proper insulation for your home and installing it safely can make it an even better buy."

Alcoholism, What Is It?

Alcoholism is defined as a primary, progressive, incurable, and if left untreated a fatal disease. Primary means that until the disease of alcoholism is dealt wih and treated the chances of successful treatment of many other illnesses or problems is jeopardized severly if not completely impossible.

There is an increasing belief in the medical progession that alcoholism may indeed be hereditary. Most alcoholics I've interviewed have admitted to having at least one immediate family member with the disease.

Secondly it is called a progressive disease meaning: the physical degeneration caused by alcohol does not reverse or stop when drinking stops. The rate of impairment may decrease but the basic damage has been done. Progression means that if the alcoholic starts drinking again, even after years of abstinence, they are immediately at the mercy of the alcohol. The alcoholic who drinks again will end up sicker than before and will have greater difficulty stopping again even when they were dry. Therefore, eliminating the cause does not eliminate the sickness.

We have a treatment program here in our community. If you need help give us a call. Age limit 16. Call 606-377-2411 Ext. 136, twenty four hours a day.

Kenton Death Shocks Colleagues

The Floyd County Times

Funeral services for House Speaker William G. Kenton were conducted Sunday at the Immanuel Baptist Church in Lexington. Burial was in the Maysville cemetery in his native Mason county.

Kenton, 40, died at 9:40 a.m. November 5, after lying unconscious for nearly three days at the University of Kentucky Medical Center. He entered the hospital shortly after noon on Monday and underwent 7-1/2 hours of surgery to remove two large blood clots lodged between his heart and lungs.

Leaders of the Kentucky General Assembly, in which the Lexington Democrat served for 10 years, expressed shock and sadness at his death. In a statement Thursday, members of the House leadership summed up the reaction among Kenton's colleagues:

"Bill Kenton died as he lived, a fighter to the very end. On behalf of the House of Representatives, we extend our sympathies and prayers to (his wife) Carolyn, the children and other members of his family. Bill's great intelligence and ability to immediately grasp any situation made him one of the outstanding legislators in Kentucky's history.

"His leadership abilities during the maturing years of the legislative branch of government, fondly referred to as 'the people's branch' by Speaker Kenton, was a dominant factor. It was a great privilege for all who served with Bill and we along with his family and his many friends will always cherish the honor, dignity and 'mpassion with which Bill Kenton touched our lives."

Plan Exercise Class

A second session of women's exercise classes offered at Prestonsburg Community College will be held from Thursday, November 12 through December 17 at 5:30 p.m. in the Martin Student Center, Room 110. The course is designed to improve the feminine figure by introducing exercises which improve muscle tone and endurance of the participant through progressive exercise and proper food suggestions.

Judge-Executive In Knott County Named by Jury

The Knott Circuit Court grand jury indicted Judge-Executive Foster "Tubby" Calhoun and two other county employees last Thursday, on charges connected with the alleged misuse of county road equipment.

Calhoun, who did not run for reelection this year, was charged with misfeasance in office. He was accused of failing to investigate the misuse of county equipment on private property, according to the indictment. Also named in indictments were county road foreman Scott Cornett and county mechanic Floyd Johnson. Both were charged with taking property of more than $100 value that belonged to Knott county According to printed reports, the indictments were sought by Christopher Slone, who unsuccessfully ran as an Independent candidate for judgeexecutive in Tuesday's election.

FLOYD COUNTY HEALTH NEWS By JANE BOND

Health Educator Glaucoma is the second leading cause of adult blindness in the United States. Almost one out of every seven blind adults is a victim of glaucoma. This disease strikes slowly and painlessly, generally showing no symptoms, and persons over 35 are considered high-risk for the disease since it rarely shows up sooner.

The best way to be protected against glaucoma is to be screened regularly for the disease. The Floyd County Health Department is having a glaucoma screening clinic Monday, November 16. This clinic is open to persons of all ages but those persons age 35 and over are especially urged to take advantage of this free service of the Health Department.

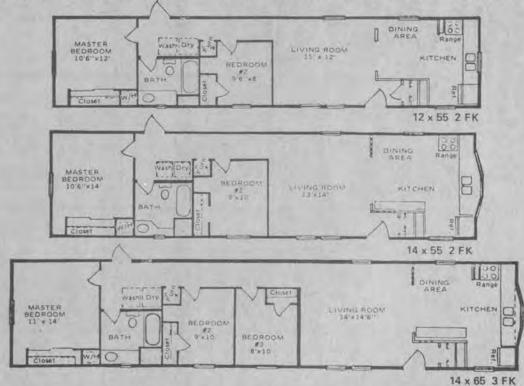

A nurse from the health department will be in the Wheelwright branch office of the health department on Monday, November 16, from 10 until 2. She will be offering T.B. skin test, immunizations, blood pressures and urinalyses. This clinic is a free service of the health department and the public is welcome.

There will be no nursing services offered at the health department on Wednesday afternoon due to a special clinic being held at the health department.

Floyd County Family Planning will be held in Wheelwright at the branch office of the health department, Friday, November 13, for supply visits and pregnancy tests. It is well known that at certain levels, lead is highly toxic, but there is evidence that it may have more harmful effects at lower levels than previously believed, according to the Office of Public Awareness of the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

Lead enters the human body principally through food and water inges-

Officials Seek Out Kids With Handicapps

Parents—did you know that many children who are born with or acquire a physical and/or mental condition which handicaps their normal growth and development, may be helped or completely corrected if their parents recognize the problem early and seek help?

That's what officials at the Bureau of Education for Exceptional Children (BEEC) in Frankfort say, as they begin November and the annual childfind month.

According to Harry P. Brown, Director of the educational consortium known as the Eastern Kentucky Educational Development Corporation (EKEDC) of Ashland, who coordinates four programs involving 23 school districts for handicapped education services, October was to have been the month for emphasis on child-find, however, a busy fall schedule has pushed this activity into November.

"Actually we have found with our handicapped projects that child-find is really a continuous process." Brown said, "from the time a parent or teacher suspects a handicapping problem, throughout the time when a child is referred for and receives the entire testing, evaluation and placement process."

Additionally, Brown said that his organization has data supporting the figure of 10 percent of the child population having some kind of handicap and therefore in need of some type of specialized service.

"That's one reason why the Bureau of Education for Exceptional Children has designated November as child-find month, with the theme of "What Is The Worse Thing That Can Happen To A Handicapped Child? Nothing!", Brown said.

"Additionally, we are assisting the distribution of a brochure that should help parents in better and earlier identification and possible treatment of those early warning problems."

Under Brown's direction, EKEDC coordinates two Diagnostic Service Centers in the Big Sandy area which involve the following 10 school districts: Pike, Morgan, Magoffin and Floyd tion and inhalation. From there it is absorbed into the bloodstream and distributed to body tissues. Lead accumulates in the human body throughout life, to a large extent immobilized in bony tissue, but significant amounts can be found in blood and soft tissues.

on the blood forming, nervous and kidney systems, but may also harm the reproductive, digestive, hepatic (liver), and cardiovascular systems. Exposure to very high lead levels may have fatal or severe consequences, causing such maladies as brain disease, colic, palsy and anemia.

Young children, aged one to five, are very sensitive to lead poisoning. Of the approximately 20 million U. S. children in that age group, 12 million live in urban areas and five million live in cities where lead exposure is highest. In addition to the sometimes fatal consequences of lead poisioning, in low concentrations lead can affect children by damaging the nervous system even without obvious symptoms.

The greatest source of airborne lead (90 percent), despite yearly reductions in levels permitted by EPA, is still the automobile. However, since EPA regulations went into effect, lead levels in urban children have been reduced. Another source is from industrial plants, such as smelters. Reducing lead emissions from the 72 U. S. smelters will be accomplished on a case-by-case basis, much the same as it will be in the workplace.

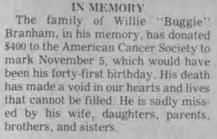

There are other sources of environmental lead. It is found in paint, inks, the water supply, pesticides and food. In cooperation with other agencies, EPA, through regulations authorized by Congress in various pieces of legislation, has moved to limit lead in drinking water, pesticides, and other sources.

In October, 1978, seven years after criteria had been set for six other air pollutant categories, EPA put a lead standard into effect. EPA's phasedown of lead in gasoline was complete in 1980 and the regulations are expected to lower human lead levels even more. Next: industry and air pollution.

Piano Seniors Attend Carnegie Hall Recital

Prof. David Pocock of the Pikeville College Department of Music accompanied four of his piano majors, Carolyn Click, of Garrett, Shelvy Riffe, of Betsy Layne, Marcia Adkins, of Pikeville, and Kelli Coleman, of Chattaroy, W. Va. to New York City October 30-November 1 to attend a piano recital in Carnegie Recital Hall.

The concert was given by Matti Raekallio, a Finnish pianist and friend of Professor Pocock. The Pikeville group had the opportunity to meet the pianist the day before the concert, and was invited to a reception for him backstage at Carnegie Hall following the recital.

The next activity the piano department will be participating in is a workshop-clinic, headed by Mr. Pocock and hosted by Pikeville College. It will be held Saturday, December 5 at the college.

Getting What You're Entitled To

Many consumer complaints about Cauto dealers are based on warranty service, so shoppers should take steps before and after their purchase to make sure they know and get what they are entitled to. Among such steps

• Buy from a dealer with a good reputation for honoring warranty commitments. Many friends and associates will have had good or bad experiences to tell about.

· Live up to what the warranty requires of the owner-servicing at specified intervals, for example, or use of recommended products.

· If warranty repairs are needed but the dealer balks or doesn't perform satisfactorily, complain first to the car manufacturer's regional official listed in the owner's manual. If this fails, send a certified letter to the manufacturer's headquarters. Keep good records of all correspondence and conversations.

. If the problem still is unresolved, seek help from the Better Business Bureau.

Warranties are the consumer's best chance at satisfaction if an auto is defective. They serve best as a backup to the consumer who makes a wise purchase from a reputable dealer, and who examines the car carefully before driving it away.

Great Grapefruit Savings

Part of the secret of saving money on your food budget is making one item do the work of two or more, and making a cheap item replace those expensive specialty items.

If your family drinks grapefruit juice, for example, you don't need to buy barbecuc sauce-just add grapefruit juice to some melted butter and use it to baste chicken, beef, lamb or pork.

Here are some other ideas using grapefruit juice:

· Substitute for water when making flavored gelatins

· Substitute for lemon juice or vinegar in salad dressings and marinades

· Sprinkle on cubed or sliced fruits to keep them fresh and prevent. browning

· Add to sauces and casseroles

· Add to frostings, cake fillings party punches to cut and sweetness

· Use instead of lemon in fruit punches and other beverages

 Freeze to make "ice" cubes that won't dilute drinks

(with or without liquor)

· Perk up hot or iced tea (instead of using lemon),

· Greate a tolky tropical drink with equal parts pineapple juice

CLOSE ENCOUNTERS OF THE THIRD KIND

Richard Dreyfuss is driven by a force he does not understand to build a model of a mountain that seems to exist only in his fevered imagination-but the mountain proves to be the very real key to a cosmic mystery in "Close En-counters of the Third Kind," the network premiere of Steven Spielberg's classic film airing on "The ABC Sunday Night Movie," SUN-DAY, NOVEMBER 15.

"Close Encounters" was one of the biggest box-office success stories in cinematic history. It also made Mr. Spielberg very famous.

GENERAL HOSPITAL

Elizabeth Taylor, the international screen star, portrays a rich, powerful widow during five guest appearances on "General Hospital," ABC-TV's toprated daytime soap opera in programs airing MONDAY, NOVEMBER 16, Tuesday, November 17 and Thursday, November 19.

Miss Taylor, in her role as Helena Cassadine who was married to the dastardly Mikkos Cassadine, plays several scenes opposite the irrepressible Luke Spencer (Anthony Geary).

Miss Taylor has taken time during her national tour as the leading lady in the stage production of "The Little Foxes" to appear in "General Hospital." She is donating her fee for her daytime television performances to charity.

MAGNUM, P.I.

When her wealthy American husband is kidnapped and held for an exorbitant ransom, a beautiful Japanese woman seeks Magnum's help, on "Magnum, P.I.," THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 19 on CBS-TV. Filmed entirely on locations in Hawaii, the series, now in its second season, stars Tom Selleck (pictured) in the title role.

Dick Williams, a friend of Magnum since their hell-raising days in the Navy, has married Mitsue, much against the wishes of her autocratic and traditional father, Nishimoto. With the family's fish-packing business as a base, Dick has turned it into a hugely successful conglomerate. When the ransom is paid and Dick is not return-ed, Magnum sets out to find him and the trail leads to murder, and strange Oriental rituals.

CHECK LISTINGS FOR EXACT TIME.

About The House

Posters Decorate Profitably If you're looking for a way to cover that persistent crack in the bathroom wall, or a new way to brighten up a bar, family room or den, posters from another era are the perfect answer at an affordable price. The odd-shaped entrance hall, an office that needs a bright touch—or for that matter, any room in the house—can provide space for good poster art.

There are vintage posters to fit everyone's budget; and because so many of them are fairly large, they often become the focal point of a room, creating a very specific mood or environment. Unlike good prints or original art (which have skyrocketed in price), a fine poster can still be bought for as little as $50 or $100, although there's really no limit. Some go for upwards of $50,000.

Vintage posters have come into their own and are considered a "hot collectible" on today's market. The ad art from a bygone era first appealed to contemporary agency art directors, who began hunting down old posters with which to decorate their offices.

Posters, especially those from the turn of the century, have a very direct appeal. Like all poster art from any age, they were created for a specific purpose.

The street poster, mounted on walls and kiosks, was the single most effective tool in letting the public know about a forthcoming theatrical event, musical entertainment or art exhibition. Posters sold all kinds of products, from patent medicines to soaps, and from cigarette papers to bicycles. They tell much about the times in which they were created.

Poster art was spectacularly popular during the Art Nouveau period and remained so for the next few decades, right up until World War II. Then television took over.

Art Deco posters that are finding so much favor now once touted travel via the great railroads or steamship companies. They supply an element of nostalgia for a more leisurely era.

The appeal of the poster is simple: bold art, decorative images, wonderful color. Original lithographs commissioned by the foremost artists of their time are still cherished by the hundreds of thousands of today's collectors who seek them out for fun something is realiy worth the price or not.

Looking for old posters can be part of the fun of decorating with them. The twice yearly New York Poster & Postcard Show is an ideal place to browse, buy or barter. Experts are on hand with free advice and reference books can be purchased. If poster collecting or decorating is a new avenue of expression, the shows are a chance to see all kinds of vintage posters under one roof.

You never know just how valuable a favorite old poster may become. At a recent auction, some of the posters that brought in thousands of dollars were worth only a few hundred less than ten years ago!

College Names Cheerleaders

"The key to enjoying a vintage poster," says John Bowen, a private collector and gallery owner, "is to buy something you like...something you really want to live with and have in your home. You don't need a frame or any special setting—posters were never meant to be framed.

"The point is," he says "when you buy something you like, chances are it will appeal to the next person. This is what creates a market, especially when you're dealing with items that are becoming increasingly scarce. You can buy a poster today for $150, hold on to it for a year or two, and more than likely it'll be worth two or three times that amount when you're ready to redecorate."

What To Look For

John Bowen was asked for a primer on vintage posters. The following are some of his suggestions:

• Personal appeal. Never buy a poster just because you think its value may increase. You're going to live with it and it must please you.

 Check the quality of the paper. Is it made of linen? Is the poster torn? Will it need repair? Posters on linen backs can be remounted and restored to almost mint condition. A torn poster can often be restored and should not be discarded, especially if it's by an artist whose work is in demand.

• Does the message have a special meaning for you? Does it key in to a particular interest or hobby? A sports minded person may enjoy bicycle posters or those touting a boxing match. A gourmet or connoisseur of fine wine may enjoy a poster selling spirits (such as the famed Alphonse Mucha images for Moet and Chandon champagne).

• Do you want to build a room around a poster, surrounding it with antiques or other vintage items, or do you want it to stand on its owa? Posters work well, no matter what your decorating esthetic.

• A reputable dealer can be a source of information and sound advice to help you find what you're looking for and to tell you if

SCIENCE FICTION OR SCIENCE? It could be a creature featured in the latest horror movie. But in reality it's nothing more than a South American fire ant dramatizing the increasingly smaller size of one of the Bell System's sophisticated memory devices. According to Art Willett, local manager for South Central Bell, the memory, despite its size, contains about 152,000 tiny components, such as transistors, and stores 64,000 bits of information, it's used in a number of Bell's communications products.

Brown, Italians Sign Trade Pact

Gov. John Y. Brown, Jr. and officials of the Italian government will sign a trade agreement on Kentucky agricultural products Nov. 20, completing the second phase of an agreement signed earlier this year in Rome. Italian government officials will arrive Nov. 20 to conclude the second phase of the Kentucky-Italian trade agreement, Gov. John Y. Brown, Jr. announced today. This second part of the agreement signed last February in Rome covers agriculture, agribusiness and other business and industrial development, Brown said, adding that it holds good potential for Kentucky farmers to enter the Italian market. He noted that Italy today must import 87 percent of all foods.

Energy and Agriculture Secretary Bill Sturgill, who has arranged the Nov. 20 meeting through the Kentucky Council on Agriculture, said the Italian delegation will be headed by Claudio Signorile, minister for the South of Italy.

"The Ministry of the South of Italy is in charge of economic and commercial development for all of Italy south of Rome," Sturgill said. "It has about $20 billion available to assist in such development during the next five years."

Brown said the latest Italian delegation's visit means that agricultural, economic and commercial relations between Kentucky and Italy will be strengthened, especially in non-coal areas.

The first part of the trade pact, the sale of Kentucky coal to Italy, has already been launched with the first shipment of some 47,000 tons of steam coal for Italian utilities. Other coal orders are under negotiation/

Several of the new areas to be covered in the second phase of the agreement include the direct purchases of some Kentucky farm products. "The development of South Italy's agriculture is of the highest priority in the minister's five-year plan for economic development in the region," Sturgill said. Along that line, Sturgill added that Signorile has a special interest in establishing permanent relations between Kentucky and Italian universities There also will be discussions about possible cooperation in non-agriculture industrial and business joint ventures that would mutually benefit the economies of Kentucky and the South of Italy.

Ky. Arts Council Seeks Folklorist

The Kentucky Arts Council and the Kentucky Department of Library and Archives are seeking a folklorist to coordinate a Folk Arts in Rural Libraries Project, set to occur in two regions of the state during 1982.

The coordinator will spend six months in each region identifying folk artists, organizing workshops, demonstrations and performances by these artists, and documenting the project. The library, a natural cultural center in rural Kentucky, will serve as the coordinator's base.

In addition to a master's degree in folklore or ethnomusicology, candidates should have experience in planning community-based programs, strong administrative and organizational skills, and the ability to work effectively with people on the community level.

Applicants should submit a letter detailing their interest in the program, their resume and the names, addresses and telephone numbers of three references to: Folk Arts in Rural Libraries Project, Kentucky Arts Council, 302 Wilkinson St., Frankfort, Ky. 40601, Deadline for applications is Dec. 1.

A panel representing folklorists, librarians and the Arts Council will screen applicants and choose the regions in December. Selected applicants will be invited for personal interviews.

For more information, contact the Kentucky Arts Council at the above address or phone (502) 564-3757.

PUBLIC NOTICE TO OWNERS OF RENTAL HOUSING

The Floyd County Housing Authority is administering a Section 8 Moderate Rehabilitation Program in Floyd County using funds provided by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Under this program, owners will rehabilitate rental units which are now substandard or have major building systems or components requiring repair or replacement. The cost of this work, which must total at least $1000 per unit,may be financed by a local lending institution, by the owner, or by any other source available to the owner. The agency does not make rehabilitation loans or grants, but will assist owners to obtain financing.

After required rehabilitation work has been completed, the agency and the owner will execute a contract which establishes a rent for the unit(s) that will cover rehabilitation costs, meet monthly operating expenses, and allow a reasonable profit on the owner's investment. For a fifteen year period, the owner will rent the rehabilitated unit(s) to eligible lower income tenants, who will pay approximately 25 percent of their income toward the rent, the agency will pay the remainder of the rent directly to the owner. The initial occupant of a rehabilitated unit may be the owner's present eligible tenant.

After rehabilitation the rent(including utilities) cannot exceed the following Maximum Rents:

1	BEDRO	DM SIZE
1	2	3	4
206	244	282	319

The agency's current funds will allow rehabilitation of 35 units of rental housing as follows:

BR	2 BR	3 BR	4 BR
8	18	7	2

No unit will be assisted which results in the permanent displacement of a current tenant

Proposals from owners will be received by the Housing Authority until further notice.

Owners who wish to submit a proposal must obtain an application form from:

Floyd County Housing Authority Housing Office Green Acres Prestonsburg: Ky. 41653 Telephone No. 886-2717

Office Hours: 8:30-12:00 and 1:00-4:30 Application forms and proposal packets may be requested by phone, mail, or in person. Information and assistance is also available at the phone office.

Program Stresses Reading

Prestonsburg Elementary School had its first Reading Is Fundamental program of this school year October 19-23 in the library. Promotion activities included a program presented by the band director, Wallace Ratliff, and a choral ensemble, under the direction of Elizabeth Lynn Frazier. The grade school band played several selections, and the ensemble sang "Happy Days" and presented a skit about reading. The hit of the show was "The Fonz," played by Randy Meade, who treated some of the classes to impersonations of many well-known people.

Books were distributed to about 725 children, who also received book markers and a special treat.

This was the first of three RIF distributions to be presented at Prestonsburg Elementary School this year.

charge small, emerging businesses rates 1 to 5 percentage points higher than the rate levied on larger customers. Lending policies vary from bank to bank, of course, but most loan officers will insist that you put up at least 50 percent of the start-up money yourself. In general, you'll probably find that creditors prefer to put their money into going businesses with proven ability to make money and repay debt.

Small Business Loans of 200,000 or more) turns you down, you may qualify for an SBA loan.

The SBA has nearly 20 separate loan programs to help small businesses. Direct loans from the SBA are rare because of limited federal funding. For firms that can't get conventional loans the government may lend up to $150,000 to get a new business off the ground.

A more readily available loan is the SBA Guaranteed Loan. Under this program your bank lends you the money but the federal government will reimburse the bank for up to 90 percent of your loan should you default. The interest rate may be lower than on a conventional loan and you may have more time to pay it off. The maximum for this type of loan is $500,000.

There are also SBA Participation Loans in which the bank puts up 25 percent and the SBA puts up the rest. For members of minority groups the SBA will lend up to $50,000 with as little as 20 percent equity through its Economic Opportunity Loan program.

If the bank and the SBA both refuse you a loan you can turn to one of the SBA's Small Business Investment Corporations (SBIC). These are private firms, licensed by the federal government, whose sole business is lending to small business. The SBA makes special loans to the SBICs and they in turn make equity capital and long-term credit available to small businesses. For these purposes, a small business is described by the government as one with a net worth under $4.5 million or assets under $9 million and average after-tax earnings of less than $450,000.

ed playhouse. Wherever people played, he worked. Irving Berlin, Jerome Kern and George Gershwin all got their start as pluggers.

Until World War I, the largest concentration of music publishing houses in the world was on both sides of a single New York block—28th Street between 5th Avenue and Broadway. This was Tin Pan Alley.

Or so it came to be called around 1903, popularized by one Monroe H Rosenfeld, song-writer, journalist, bon vivant and connoisseur of promising ponies. One historic day, the story goes, instead of visiting the racetrack, Rosenfeld went to see Harry Von Tilzer, the most prolific tunesmith of the time. Rosenfeld needed a title for an article he had written about the popular music business. Not one to waste time, Von Tilser, who wrote three songs a day, began to play his special piano, which had strips of newspaper woven through its strings. The result was a tinny sound. "There's my name," exclaimed Rosenfeld. "Your Kindler and Collins sounds exactly like a Tin Pan. I'll call my article Tin Pan Alley

Tin Pan Alley. The words have a harsh sound, and indeed, tough scraps were fought in the Alley. Pluggers competed fiercely, enticing performers with cash and gifts to get their songs before the public. Al Jolson once received a race horse for performing a number. The conventional Alley wisdom was that if Jolson sang your song, it would be a hit. Most often it was.

Al Jolson was a STAR. He was full of inventiveness and enthusiasm. His famous bended-knee delivery was the result of an ingrown toenail. During a performance one night, he got down on one knee to relieve the pressure from the offending toe and spontaneously threw out his arms as if to embrace the audience. They loved it. He kept it in the act.

Jolson put over George Gershwin's first hit, "Swanee," in 1919, after 70 musicians and 60 chorus girls dancing in the dark with electric lights on their shoes failed to sell it.

A magnetic performer, it seemed, could sell almost any song. A bananasplit of music from Handel's "Hallelujah Chorus" and three other songs was a flop until Eddie Cantor brought down the house in 1923 with "Yes, We Have No Bananas."

Far from the lights of Broadway, America was singing on its own. By the turn of the century, mass-produced pianos had brought music into even the most modest parlor. In 1902, a great popular composer's career began on this note.

Young Jerome Kern was sent to New York by his businessman father to buy two pianos. He bought 200. Papa Kern decided that, as a businessman, young Jerome would make an excellent musician. "Showboat" and a raft of other Kern hits proved that father knew best. As the pianos in America multiplied, the sheet music sales soared. Home, mother, romance and every current public passion as well were grist for the musical mills. There was certainly no lack of material. Five wonders of the modern world—the telephone, phonograph, automobile, radio and talking pictures—were developed and came into use in the dynamic halfcentury between 1876 and 1926.

"Hello Central, Give Me Heaven," one of the first telephone songs, published in 1901, was a heart-wrenching ballad based on a newspaper account of a little girl who tried to call her dead mother in heaven via the telephone operator, a tough test for the new technology.

The American public, enchanted with flying heroes and the idea of air travel, made "Come, Josephine, In My Flying Machine" a big hit in 1910. More than 100 songs were written in honor of Charles Lindbergh's New York to Paris flight of May 1927, but only one (in Yiddish) was written for Charles Levine who, fortified by 10 chicken sandwiches on toasted rye and two bottles of chicken soup, followed Lindbergh with a 4,100-mile flight across the Atlantic two weeks later. He missed his destination, Berlin, by only*110 miles.

In 1928, Tin Pan Alley composers sang a hymn to the sexy new Ford. "Henry's Made a Lady out of Lizzie" reminded the public that the "Tin Lizzie"—which you could get, said Mr. Ford, in any color as long as the color was black—had come a long way, baby.

Popular songs in America, as in any land, chronicle events of national significance and express personal and communal emotion. They are a gift at times of celebration.

No wonder, then, that the Smithsonian Institution, the world's largest museum complex, fills its halls throughout the year with the sound of music. This year, during the National Air and Space Museum's Fifth Anniversary Celebration, a concert featured some Tin Pan Alley gifts. The Smithsonian's Division of Performing Arts discovered a galaxy of songs which used cosmic beauties as stage props. The Division's research revealed that, from the 1920's through the 1960's, that gold-silver-blue-polkadotcrazy-marshmallow-old-devil-paper moon was the clear popularity winner for celestial song titles. Made of paper though it was, that Tin Pan Alley moon shone brightly for a long time.

The Alley has ceased to exist as a particular New York street. The music business is still in New York, but also thrives in Los Angeles, Nashville, Detroit and other cities.
