Governor Brown on Swing Thru Coalfields This Week

If Kentucky is "the state that's run like a business," then Monday's visit to Prestonsburg by Gov. John Y. Brown, Jr. and some of his top aides will presumably be charged against the firm's advertising budget. Like a TV commercial, it was prepackaged, and demanded little of its audience.

About 125 persons gathered at a May Lodge reception to hear the governor. Brown arrived almost an hour late and ate hurriedly, flanked by Energy and Agriculture Secretary William B. Sturgill, Transportation Secretary Frank Metts, Human Resources Secretary Grady Stumbo, Manpower Secretary John P. Wells, and John Y. Brown, Sr., the governor's father.

Stumbo on several occasions urged support for the succession amendment, which some thought might be the point of the visit, the third stop on the first day of a "Government to the People" tour that will take the governor to various coalfield counties over a three-day period.

The governor did not refer to the amendment, however, instead boosting Kentucky as the state which, under his administration, has seen more investment in the past nine months than in the previous nine years," is becoming the nation's No. 1 state in synfuel plant construction, is the first state to have signed a trade treaty with a foreign nation, and has moved in two years from 25th to fourth in the list of states to which people are likely to relocate.

He had eliminated waste, to the extent of cutting the state budget by 16 percent, Brown reminded his audience, noting that the Reagan administration might learn a lesson from Kentucky in that regard. He had helped preserve $30 million in Appalachian Regional Commission funds for eastern Kentucky. He had won commitments from the C. & O. and L. & N. railroads to extend rail links in this area. And he promised to encourage development of alternate industries in the mountains, pointing to his wife's support for eastern Kentucky crafts as an "exciting" step in that direction.

Burl Wells Spurlock, Prestonsburg banker and president of the Chamber of Commerce, asked whether Brown could offer any hope for the construction of KY 3 from Inez to Prestonsburg. "No," the governor responded frankly. The proposed highway would cost $75 million to build, road funds were down 30 percent, and he was not about to make empty promises, he said.

The same economic realities applied to US 23, the governor added, as if anticipating a question about the perilous Paintsville-Prestonsburg corridor.

In the circumstances, it appeared unlikely that anyone would press Brown on the prospects of widening US 23 to accommodate turning lanes between the high school and the community college—a project urged for some time by Prestonsburg city officials—even had the opportunity presented itself.

In any event, the chance never materialized. After responding to a question put by Julia May as to whether the high cost of road construction here put eastern Kentucky at a disadvantage—not necessarily, Brown said, since long-term benefits were calculated as well as initial costs—the question period ended.

Brown's May Lodge message essentially could offer any hope for the construc-

Storage Space Added as Booze Transfer Stayed

The sheriff's office added another room of the courthouse for the storage of confiscated alcoholic beverages this week after District Judge Harold J. Stumbo had requested that Sheriff Henry C. Hale delay his proposed transfer of contraband liquors to Alcoholic Beverage Control (ABC) until the charge against defendants in these liquor cases are cleared by the court.

There is no more room in the vault of the sheriff's office, since tax records must be kept there, Sam Hale, brother of the sheriff, explained. To stack beer and whiskey cases in the open office is to invite occasional filching, he added. Hence, the necessity of the additional space.

To the contraband on hand last week were added more than 100 cases of beer and small quantities of whiskey taken in five raids since last Thursday.

The same man, Billy Ray Jarrell, of the Arnett Branch of Middle Creek, was arrested in two of the raids. In the first last Thursday, 33 cases of beer were taken. Deputy Sheriff Harold Johnson confiscated 61 cases of beer when he returned Saturday to Jarrell's premises.

Tenants May Win on Curfew But Lose Cliffside Housing

Operators of Cliffside—a public housing complex at Cliff—will apparently be instructed by the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) to lift a curfew imposed on young tenants there.

The action is expected to come in response to a complaint by attorneys for a family facing eviction from the housing facility this week. As grounds for their eviction, Bill and Jerleen Conway were informed in a July 23 letter from Julia May, director of the Church Housing Association, which administers the facility, that their 15-year-old twin sons had repeatedly violated a curfew requiring that all tenants under 16 be indoors by 9 p.m.

After the Conways questioned the constitutionality of the curfew, they received a second eviction notice which made no reference to curfew violations but cited other grounds for the eviction.

Cliffside officials said the Conways had been warned repeatedly for violations of housing project regulations and that neighbors' complaints of rowdy behavior had brought police to the family's apartment five times in recent months.

In a letter to Stephen Sanders, an Appalachian Research and Defense Fund attorney representing the Conways,

Tipple Owner Would Overturn Order To Close

A case which may have important implications for the regulation of coal tipples in residential areas took another turn recently when Dinco Coal Sales filed a petition seeking to overturn an order which could permanently shut down the company's Dinwood tipple.

An Office of Surface Mining (OSM) inspector cited the company in July for operating the tipple within 300 feet of a number of homes without first obtaining written waivers from the occupants.

OSM inspector Steven R. Cassel ordered the company either to procure the necessary waivers or to dismantle the tipple and reclaim the area by October 19.

A number of nearby residents, some citing respiratory and other ailments, have opposed operation of the tipple, claiming that dust generated there is injurious to their health.

In their application for judicial review of the shutdown order, Dinco officials claim that OSM has no jurisdiction over the tipple, since the right to operate it predates the federal Surface Mining Act of August 3, 1977; that the facility has been operating intermittently since the early 1960s; and that, since coal is not treated at the plant, it is exempt from state permit requirements.

The replacement of the tipple in 1979, Dinco claims, does not abrogate operating rights originally granted to Island Creek Coal Co., subsequently to Welco Mining Co., and, in 1978, to Dinco.

In a reply to the company's petition for review, OSM attorney Charles P. Gault this month denied Dinco's claims. The tipple enjoyed no operating rights at the time the federal Michael M. Powers, of HUD's Louisville office, agreed that the imposition of a curfew "appears improper" and said the housing project administrators had been instructed to lift it.

Miss May said Monday she had not yet received any such instruction.

Whatever the fate of the curfew, the Conways still apparently face eviction October 1. Powers noted last week that, apart from the alleged curfew violations, he understood there existed "numerous other factors which could justify an eviction."

Attorneys for the Conways had no comment this week on whether they would try again to block the eviction.

New Ordinance On TV Control Expected Soon

Technically TV system operators may not raise their rates to customers until the Appellate Court mandate voiding Floyd county's cable television ordinance is issued, but as a practical matter that mandate is certain and the customer is without protection until a new and more legally airtight ordinance is put into effect.

So County Attorney Turner said this week after receiving inquiries relating to the situation. Some of the inquiries were from operators asking if they could raise their rates.

A discussion-type meeting has been proposed, and is expected to be held within the week, for a review of the situation and how to meet it. A new ordinance will be drafted.

Possible reorganization of the county TV Commission may be one of the topics covered at the coming meeting. Pike county has only one individual who, in effect, is the TV commission. His expertise enables him to investigate complaints or requests in person, then to serve as hearing officer and make his recommendations to the fiscal court.

This Town...That World

I suspect that more than one of those old Roman emperors was bananas. Proof: Octavius Augustus used his not inconsiderable influence to have a month like August named for him and left glorious October simply to be known by number (octo).

WITHOUT ERA YET

Come to think of it, the ladies fared better than the men, without benefit of ERA, in the naming of months. Goddesses, for example, drew May (Maie) and June (Juno) while Mars was drawing blustery March and Julius and Augustus were settling for two months that may be more equitable in Rome but in these parts "ain't fittin' for neither man nor beast."

Wonder how the sale of "Curci for Governor" stickers is faring in Lexington, now that Kentucky has managed to lose another game it had won?

WHY THE ROBIN MOVES ON

After watching a robin make a tour of our backyard, the other afternoon, I've decided this bird leaves us for warmer climes every fall not because he is bent, like humans, on travel but because he knows where there's better pickin'. This fellow went the full length of the yard—start, dart, stop, listen—before he found anything to eat. I could almost see the corners of his mouth draw down and hear him growl, "Ain't no worms in this blasted yard," with all the vehemence some fishermen with empty stringers declare there's no fish in that lake.

Met 86-years-young Brad Boyd in the way today. Had an idea of bumming him out of his cane but decided it was too jaunty for the likes of me.

Forest Fire Prospects Said No Better Than Last Season

"It's the same situation as last year, only it could be worse," Carter Conley, of the Division of Forestry, said Tuesday of the imminent forest fire season in this county.

The hills are drier this year after prolonged drought. All the ingredients of destructive blazes are there. The only favorable feature that's apparent, Conley said, is that last year's fires cleared away much undergrowth.

Officially, the fall fire season begins tomorrow (Oct. 1). Conley pointed out that during this period all burning must be done between 4:30 p.m. and midnight. He classes the burning of debris and unattended campfires as the two major causes of forest fires in the state.

The Division of Forestry urges all hunters to be extra careful with their campfires and full cooperation will be appreciated. Conley stressed the late afternoon or evening burning of leaves and debris around private dwellings.

"It is not advisable to do any burning while any type of wind exists and it is illegal to burn within 150 feet of any wooded area or fuel lines leading to woodlands," he said. During the fire season a Division of Forestry airplane will be on patrol to detect fires and illegal burning. "This plane allows us to quickly know if there really is a fire and to spot offenders," he said.

'Cycle Hillclimb Planned In Honor of Slain Youth

Michael Dwayne Cline, the 17-year-old Emma youth who was kidnapped and murdered the night of July 9, excelled in motorcycle hillclimb competition. Having won about 50 climbs, he was becoming established as a top rider ready to join the ranks of the many other Floyd countians who have proven themselves national contenders in the rugged sport over the years.

In the weeks preceding his death, he had worked in his spare time to prepare his machine for a West Virginia hillclimb scheduled for July 12.

Now, as a tribute to young Cline and for the benefit of his parents, James and Edith Cline, and other family members to help defray funeral costs, an American Motorcycle Association hillclimb has been set for Sunday, October 18, at Jenny Wiley State Park.

The climb is being sponsored by the Pioneer Motorcycle Club, the A.M.A.'s district group, and is expected to attract "hill climbers from all over the United States in memory of Mike," according to Ernest Burchett, of Emma, an organizer of the event. "Everyone's more than welcome to ride," he added.

"We're trying to get everybody we can."

All riders must pay an entry fee and have an A.M.A. card, which can be obtained at the climb. Burchett pointed out. He said trophies will be awarded to all riders.

Elisha Branham, Jr., of Prater Creek, who was arrested in Texas, August 26, has confessed to robbing the service station where Cline was working and kidnapping and shooting the Prestonsburg High School student whose body was found in mid-August along the Daniel Boone Parkway, near Hazard.

Slayer of Two In Knott Draws Two-Year Terms

"It is sad that this kind of tragedy had to occur before the court became involved" in the long-standing feud between the Little and Thornsberry families, one of the defense attorneys mused at the end of last week's trial of Raymond Little, who was found guilty of two counts of reckless homicide in the shooting deaths, two years ago, of Estil and Major Thornsberry.

While evidence produced at the trial pointed to an often-violent feud between the families dating as far back as 1958, there had never been a criminal prosecution on either side, defense attorney Gary Johnson noted.

The failure to prosecute reflects a court system that is not responsive to people's needs and explains why some feel driven to resolve their own disputes, Johnson said. "I hope this puts an end to it," he added.

A Pike circuit court jury deliberated for about seven hours before returning a verdict in the murder trial, around noon last Friday. The reckless homicide verdict—the least serious conviction possible in a capital murder case—means that Little could soon be out of jail.

The jury sentenced Little to two years in prison on each count. If Special Judge Reed Anderson decides that the sentences are to be served concurrently, Little could be released immediately, since he has already served two years. Even if the judge rules that the terms are to be served consecutive-

FLOYD COUNTY HEALTH NEWS

By JANE BOND

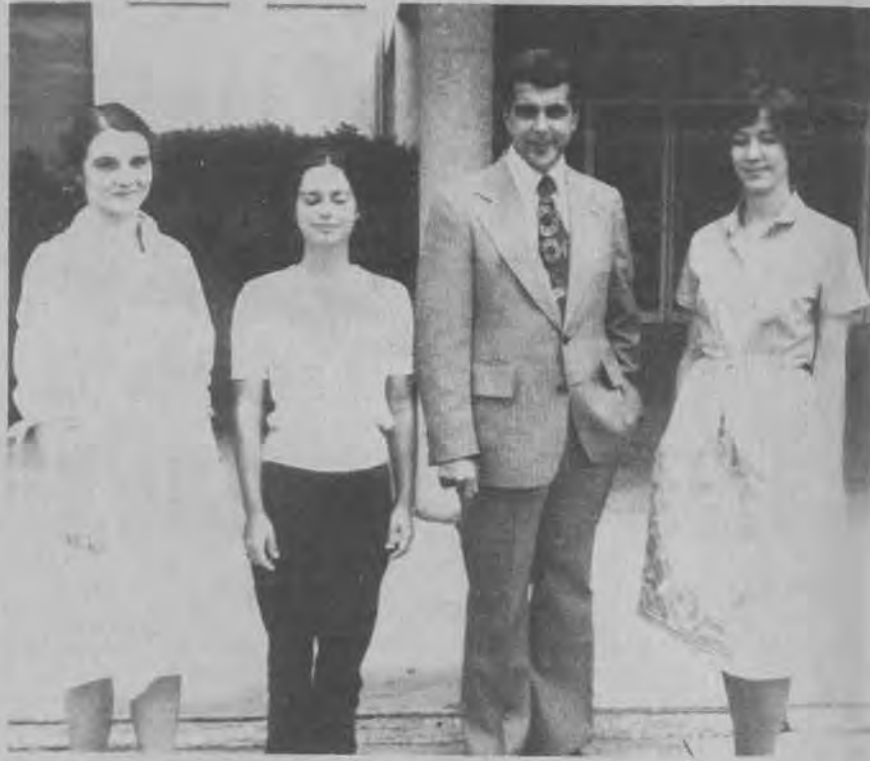

Glaucoma is a disease of the eye which can cause blindness painlessly and silently. One out of every seven blind adults is a victim of glaucoma. This needless blindness can be prevented through early detection and treatment. Persons over 35 are especially urged to be checked for glaucoma since this is the high risk age for the disease. The best defense against glaucoma is to have periodic examinations.

On Monday October 5 the Floyd County Health Department is having a glaucoma screening clinic. This clinic is a free service of the health department, and is open to persons of all ages, but those persons age 35 and over are especially urged to take advantage of this service.

A nurse from the health department will be in Martin at the Beaver Valley Clinic from 10:00 until 2:00 on Monday, October 5. She will be offering T.B. skin tests, immunizations, urinalyses, and blood pressures. This clinic is a free service of the health department and the public is welcome.

Family planning services will be in the Wheelwright Branch Office on Friday, October 9 for supply counseling and pregnancy testing. Please call 886-2788 for an appointment.

Body Recovered 10 Hours After Pike Mine Death

The body of a 25-year-old Pike county miner was recovered last Wednesday night about 10 hours after the man had been killed when a mine roof caved in.

Clinard James, Jr., of Powell Creek, had been declared dead by Pike County Deputy Coroner Zeb Hampton at 1:08 p.m., nearly five hours after the accident occurred at the Big Ridge Coal Mine, near Brushy, and rescue teams were called.

The teams recovered the body at 6:20 p.m. after rescuers, including state and federal mine inspectors, had worked through the day.

"He wasn't hard to find. We knew all along where he was," said Capt. Joe Meade, of the Pike County Emergency Rescue Squad, after the body was recovered.

Hampton said James died instantly when the mine roof collapsed.

Meade said James was in a coal scoop beneath 100 to 500 tons of rock and about 600 feet inside the mine opening.

Hampton said the mine operator, Clifford Coleman, escaped unharmed from the cave-in. Coleman and James were "pulling pillars" prior to opening a new section of the mine when the accident occurred, Hampton said.

The mine, in operation since 1977, is located on Bent Mountain near KY 881 about 15 miles east of Pikeville.

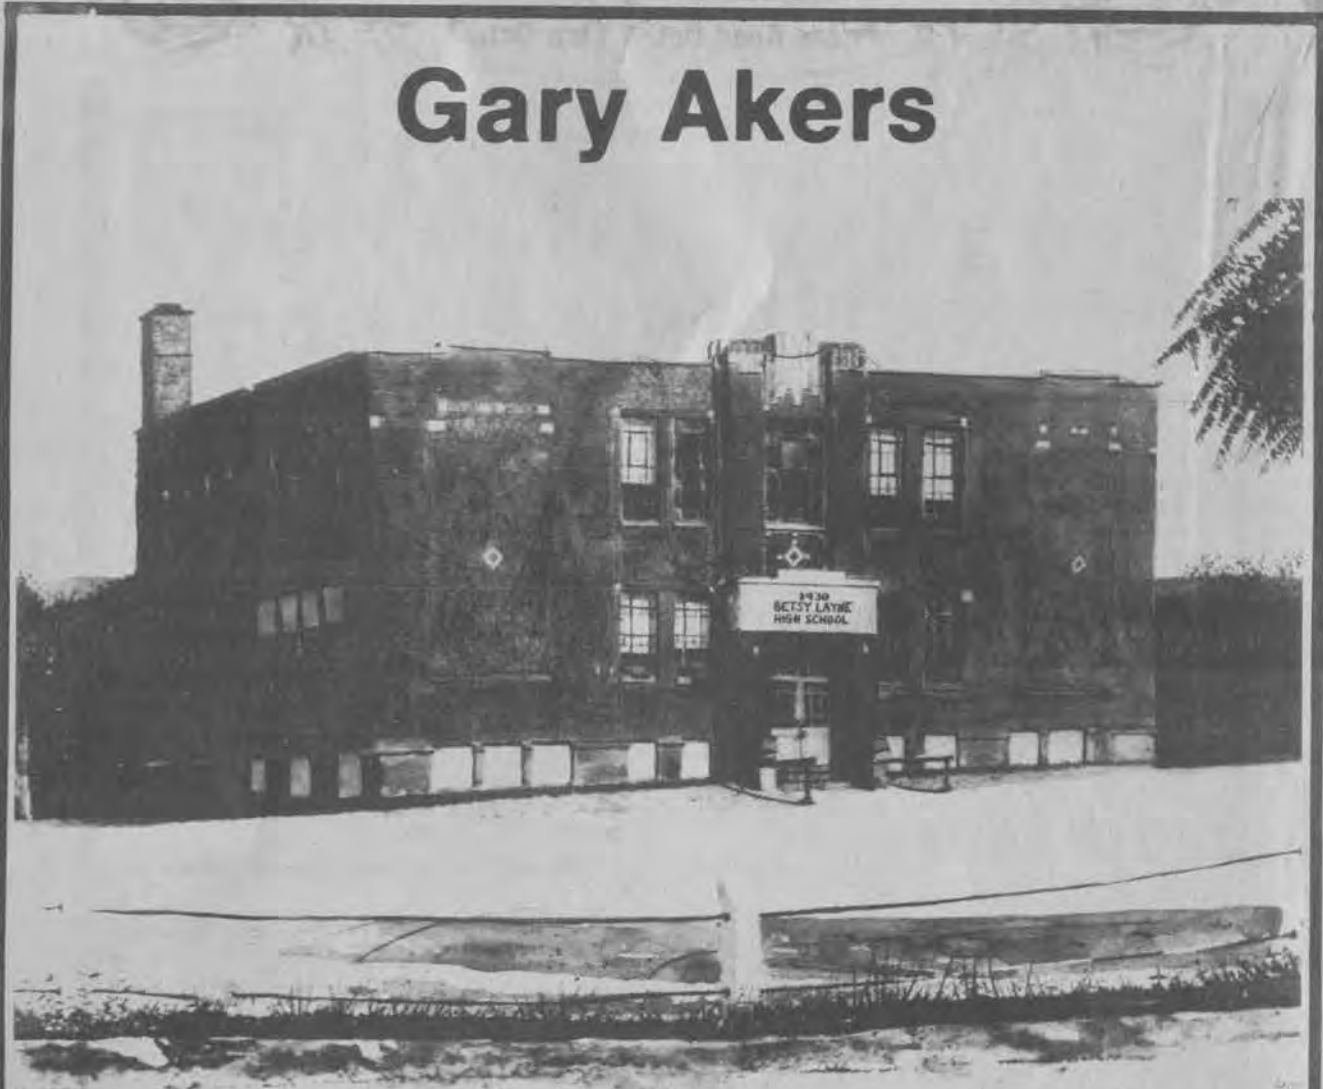

The body was taken to Pikeville Methodist Hospital for examination by Hampton, and later was taken to the Justice Funeral Home in Pikeville. Survivors include his wife, Emma Lou, and one child.

Sweetener May Fill Sugar-Saccharin Gap

A new sugar substitute expected to come on the market in October may offer consumers a sweet alternative to either sugar or saccharin.

Aspartame was approved by the Food and Drug Administration in July as a sweetener for table use and in certain packaged foods. It will join saccharin as the only approved artificial sweetener available to food manufacturers and the public since the FDA banned cyclamate in 1970.

The new sweetener may solve a problem for people who want to cut sugar intake—without giving up sweeteners—but who do not want to use saccharin, said Dr. Darlene Forester, Extension nutritionist in the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

"Aspartame may be an improvement on saccharin in two ways," she said. "Many people don't want to use saccharin because they don't like the taste, or because they're concerned with its cancer-causing potential."

The FDA removed saccharin from its GRAS (generally recognized as safe) list, although the sweetener, labeled with a warning to consumers, has been allowed to remain on the market.

Aspartame is said to have the taste of sugar without the aftertaste of some artificial sweeteners. It is 180 times as sweet as sugar with less than one-tenth the calories. A teaspoon of sugar has 15 calories.

Aspartame will be known as a nutritive sweetener, said Forester, because it provides some calories. But because of its sweetening ability, only a small amount will be needed to sweeten a product.

The new sweetener will be available to consumers in free-flowing and tablet form for use as a table substitute for sugar. Manufacturers will be able to use aspartame as a dry base sweetener for powdered beverages, instant coffee and tea, gelatins, puddings, fillings and dessert toppings and as a flavoring agent in chewing gum.

Aspartame cannot be used for cooking and baking, however, since, unlike saccharin, it breaks down at high temperatures. It also loses its sweetening ability during prolonged contact with liquids.

Aspartame, however, may be used eventually in carbonated soft drinks, the largest use of artificial sweetener. The manufacturer of aspartame, G.D. Searle and Company of Skokie, Ill., plans to seek FDA approval for the future use of aspartame in carbonated beverages.

Aspartame is a synthetic compound composed of two amino acids—aspartic acid and phenylalanine—which also are found in protein foods.

Because it contains phenylalanine, aspartame should not be used by people who have phenylketonuria, or PKU, a rare genetic disorder which prevents proper metabolism of the amino acid.

Aspartame and products containing the sweetener will be labeled with a warning to persons with PKU, said Forester.

Child Support Plan Is Paying Its Way

Aggressive action to locate absent parents and legally force them to support their children is being taken by Department for Human Resources, announced W. Grady Stumbo, department secretary.

In the last year, Kentucky spent $813,171 to run the program with a yearly return of $1.64 for every dollar spent.

From March to June 1981, the return was $1.76 for every dollar spent, continuing the trend of increasing returns.

There has been an increase of 16 percent in absent parents being located and 110 percent increase in support obligations being established in the last year.

"The child support division is more than paying for itself," said Stumbo, "because a stronger emphasis has been placed on collection of existing support obligations and working closer with county officials."

The Kentucky Child Support Enforcement program was initiated in 1975 to secure support payments by locating absent parents and seeking court orders setting the amount of child support to be paid.

DNREP Lists August Mining Permits Here

The division of permits in the state Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection issued 155 mining permits during August.

The number and types of permits issued included 75 original permits, 43 revision permits, 29 amendment permits and eight succession permits.

Of the total issued, 110 were for surface mining operations, 37 for underground mining operations, six for preparation plants and refuse areas and two for haul roads.

Permitting activities for August authorized the disturbance of 5,033.1 new acres of land and resulted in the collection of $222,575 in fees.

Surface mine permits were issued in this county to Homer Short Co., Cline Mitchell, and Mac Mining Co. Underground mine permits were issued to C and H Coal Co., Bailey Mining Co., Bobby Joe Akers DBA Hite Preparation Co., L and H Mining Co. and Little Bit Coal Co.

tially repeated his earlier address late Monday afternoon before a crowded circuit courtroom here. In response to questions from the courthouse audience, the governor or members of his cabinet pledged $76,000 in Department for Human Resources funds to reopen the juvenile detention center as a regional facility, promised to keep the coal severance tax program intact, noted that a special task force was considering ways to finance the maintenance of coal haul roads, and criticized federal cuts in social services.

Governor Brown's Prestonsburg visit followed stops earlier in the day in Morehead and Knott county. He was scheduled Tuesday to visit Pike, Perry and Breathitt counties.

REMEMBER?
Perhaps the greatest loss the fall season has ever suffered was to the blight which, years ago, destroyed the majestic chestnuts. Lost not only were the trees themselves but also the childhood delight of chestnut-hunting on days when the wind frisked through the leaves and there was an actual tang to the air. That was way back when, after all the hunting, you lost your chestnuts, or won more, at what some say was gambling. We called it "hull-gull." Remember?

ly, Little would soon be eligible for parole.

Little, 47, of Dry Creek in Knott county, has been in jail since September 24, 1979, when he shot to death Estil Thornsberry, 53, and Thornsberry's son, Major, 31, both of Kite, in the Knott district courtroom.

The killings occurred after the three men met in a courthouse annex to contest a small claims suit filed by Little, who claimed that the Thornsberys had shot into his pickup, causing damage amounting to $300.

Special Prosecutor James L. Dickinson charged that Little entered the courtroom and shot the Thornsberys in the back. In his testimony, Little said that both Thornsberry men were armed and that he began firing only after he heard a shot fired.

Little's wife, Socie, was also indicted for murder in connection with the incident.

Court Approves Staff, Salaries Asked by Hale

The fiscal court in a special meeting last Friday approved deputies and other employees requested by Sheriff Henry C. Hale and set their salaries but not by unanimous vote.

The court set the pay of a deputy sheriff in each of the county's four magisterial districts at $1,000 a month, set the salary of a chief deputy at $12,500 a year and that of a chief clerk at $17,500, and allowed five part-time employees whose pay was not fixed.

County Judge-Executive Bill Wells and Magistrates Ray Wilcox, Eddie Caudill and Hershel Hamilton voted for the measure. Magistrate Kenneth Roberts, of District 2 opposed it, explaining that his district had never had a deputy during his term of office.

The sheriff's office said all salaries will be paid out of fees collected.

The court accepted the bid of Grayson Coal & Stone Co. of $5.25 per ton for gravel for use on roads, with a discount of 50 cents per ton if gravel supplied is paid for within 30 days. The $32.50-per-ton bid of East Kentucky Paving for blacktop was also accepted. It was the only bid offered on blacktop.

Payment of $4500 for postage stamps to be used in mailing tax bills was approved, and David D. Allen, county treasurer was designated the court's agent to sign and negotiate documents connected with the 601 grant.

The regular court session will be held Oct. 14.

Surface Mining Act was enacted; the company has not established that the plant was operational between 1975 and 1979; and, since coal is crushed as well as loaded at the plant, it is subject to both federal and state regulations, Gault argued.

Moreover, the wooden structure once standing on the site was dismantled not in 1979 but in 1975, Gault said.

If Dinco were permitted to operate the plant pending a final settlement of the complaint, dust from the operation would adversely affect the health of residents and, since the plant lacks proper drainage control, drinking water in the area could be polluted, Gault contended.

Dinco is represented in the case by Prestonsburg attorney Clifford Latta and by David Short, regional director of OSM until his retirement shortly before the present complaint was brought.

Deputy Sheriff Jim Isaacs not only confiscated seven cases of beer and 5 1/2 pints of whiskey in a raid on the premises of Douglas Edward Vanderpool, on Goose Creek, but also brought with him a school "tablet" containing what appeared to be the names of Vanderpool's "charge account" customers, the sheriff said.

Deputy Sheriffs Gillis Conn and Jim Isaacs confiscated 7 1/2 cases of beer from the premises of Bill Crum, of Stephens Branch, Saturday, and 11 bottles of beer, two pints and three fifths of whiskey in a raid on Dean Hunter, of Little Mud Creek.

All but Hunter were arrested and charged with possession for the purpose of sale. Hunter, who fled the approach of the officers, was expected to be arrested Monday.

Two Wounded after Vehicle Rams Store

Two men were shot and slightly wounded at Weeksbury early last Thursday morning after one of the two had driven or occupied a vehicle which left the highway and rammed into the store of the other.

Billy Joe Roop, age about 28, was shot in his arm, and Gary Tackett, about 25, was wounded in the leg. Tackett remained Tuesday-morning in the McDowell Appalachian Hospital but was expected to be released soon, according to State Police.

After the Roop store building was hit by the vehicle, an argument developed between Tommy and Billy Joe Roop, brothers, and Tackett, with the shooting following. State Detective Claude Tackett declined to say who fired the shot, pending a further investigation of the case. No charges have been filed.

Shortly after the shooting, Kenny Tackett, brother of Gary, arrived on the scene and was arrested by State Trooper Terry Hall. Tackett was charged with public intoxication and resisting arrest. He was injured in the altercation with the officer and was treated at a hospital.

Fire Razes Martin Business

The building and contents of Osborne Refrigeration at Martin were destroyed by fire late Monday night.

According to Martin Fire Chief Hershel Lester, it is believed the blaze originated in electrical wiring located near the front of the 15 x 30-ft. wood frame structure. The fire was reported at about 10:30 p.m. and firemen, hampered by repeated explosions of freon gas, were unable to contain the fire.

Carmel Osborne, who had operated the business from the same location for the past 12-15 years, said tools, refrigerators, an air conditioner and an air compressor were destroyed in the blaze.

The property was owned by James "Junior" Osborne, of Martin.

For 12 years the "Patriotic" Red, White, and Blue Day celebration and parade has been hosted by Floyd county residents in the county seat of Prestonsburg.

Some members of our family have participated in the celebration since its beginning. The capacity of their participation has been: directing traffic, band members, cheerleaders, majorette, and a former junior Miss Red, White and Blue contestant. With this in mind many Floyd county families are going to be in trouble. Where will the City Council of Martin put over 800 vehicles? We have understood it to be a fact that Martin has trouble with only 100 vehicles to park in their city. It is not our intention to put down the city of Martin, but this is like moving the Johnson County Apple Festival from Paintsville to Van Lear. There's just not enough room.

Each year this event has got bigger and bigger. We are afraid this will be the last year for the Red, White, and Blue Day celebration.

So, Floyd countians, it is up to us to band together to bring this day back to what it meant in the beginning.

How About A Horse Center In Eastern Kentucky?

(The following is a letter which was originally published in the Lexington Leader. It is reprinted here at the request of Benita J. Riley, U.K. law student, former resident of Wheelwright.)

So once again Lexington will reap the benefits of the mountains—a 50-story coal center will rise on Main Street while the real coal center goes undeveloped—Eastern Kentucky.

I saw the picture of the soon-to-be-gone Phoenix and read of Lexington's newest high-rise while sitting in Hindman, my hometown, and my mountain ire was stirred to the point I had to speak out.

During the five years I was in Lexington attending UK and the College of Law, I watched Lexington become one of the fastest growing cities in the nation, partly because of the coal industry.

It offends me that the very same industry that takes millions of dollars from the hills each year turns around and invests in, and chooses for its headquarters, a Blue Grass site.

Approximately 2,800 jobs will be created upon completion of the center, with $23 million in payroll added to Lexington's tax base and more than $3 million in revenues generated during construction.

It's not that I feel that locating a coal center in Hindman, Prestonsburg, Pikeville, Hazard or some other mountain location would even begin to solve the coal-related problems of this area, but the Lexington location is yet another slap in the face to those of us who live, day to day, with these problems.

We in Eastern Kentucky live with the ravaged hills, hear the coughing of the miners racked with black lung, and it's our fathers and brothers who come home with coal-dust-covered faces. But it's Lexington that continually benefits from our only major industry. We have no corporate headquarters for any big coal companies, no white collar coal centers—but we do have the mines and the tipples and the coal-truck-rutted roads that most Central Kentuckians will never see.

So the industry will erect a shrine to coal in Lexington which will attempt to become Kentucky's coal capital—while those of us to the east wonder if maybe we should build a "horse center" on this end of the Mountain Parkway.

Need Firefighters

In the past few months some articles have appeared in the paper stating that the Fire Dept. serving the Bypro, Melvin, Weeksbury, Jacks Creek, Bevinsville and Wheelwright, Buckingham areas was "The Weeksbury Fire Dept." This is not the case. The organization is known as Southeast Floyd County Volunteer Fire Dept. This misunderstanding has come about because we use the Weeksbury Community Center to hold our regular meetings and other events. Southeast needs the help of all the people of this area to make our program successful.

We would like to invite anyone in the area who is interested in the Fire Dept. to attend our regular meeting on the third Monday of each month at the Weeksbury Community Center. We are also in need of some firefighters who are willing to train and work with our experienced firefighters. These additional firefighters are most needed during the daytime when we are short of manpower.

All of our firefighters are trained through the State Vocational Education Dept. Also, we have eight men trained in first aid, five in basic life support-CPR, and by the end of this year, we will have three E.M.T.'s to serve the people of this area.

More About Dog Killing

As a young resident of Prestonsburg, I was very offended by the action taken by our Police Department, Friday morning, Sept. 18.

I think it should be brought to the attention of the public exactly what happened in Richmond Plaza parking lot.

A "girl" dog was being chased by several male dogs. One of our policemen shot the female dog twice and then left while the poor thing lay there, wagging her tail. In approximately five minutes, he returned, taking two more shots and killed the female dog—which had been doing nothing not intended for her to do by nature.

Not only was that cruel and inhumane treatment but a very dangerous action, considering it took place in the Richmond Plaza parking lot. Businesses were open, people were walking and driving by, and the Irene Cole Baptist Church has a nursery school that plays in the area next to the parking lot. What if they had been out playing when this action happened? What if the bullets had ricocheted, and hit your mother or child? What if it had been your dog?

I can't believe I live in a town that condones inhumane and careless action such as this. I feel that the police chief, mayor and city council are all guilty!

I may not have the answer to our city's dog problems, but slaughtering them in the middle of town is the worst answer.

Why does the Floyd County Fiscal Court refuse to allocate money for a dog pound? Prestonsburg is willing to do its part.

After all, "man's best friend is his dog."

In Praise of Jailer Hale

Your Jailer, Lawrence Hale, is one of the finest men that ever stepped foot on the soil of Floyd county. If the inmates were like the jailer, they wouldn't be where they are today.

Why are the inmates complaining about the commonwealth attorney, the judges and the jailer? They didn't stop the money to provide the inmates with attorneys; their president, Mr. Reagan, did. Why don't they complain to him instead of "The Good Citizens of Floyd County?"

The jailer has given you the best care under the law. It was you (the inmates) who broke the law, not the commonwealth attorney, not the judge, and not the jailer. You committed a crime and you feel that the courts should pat you on the hand and say "you were a naughty boy," then go back out and do the same thing all over again, plus continuing to draw SSI or welfare. You are stealing from the poor and the people who believe in working for what they get and have.

In an experience I myself had back in 1964 or so, I was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Hatfield. I was taken to Wheelwright city jail, where Hatfield then obtained assistance from Deputy Sheriff Engle; I was then transported to Prestonsburg jail. After I was booked I told Jailer Hale I had no cigarettes. Jailer Hale gave Deputy Sheriff Engle money and instructed him to go get me a pack of cigarettes. Hatfield protested and Jailer Hale told him the prisoner was in his care now. The jailer didn't know me from Adam, all I can say is, the jailer treated me very much as a human being. The jailer even told me if I needed anything to let him know.

In later years we became the city of Wheelwright law officers. In our experience with Jailer Hale there were never any problems by lodging anyone in the county jail who violated laws of the commonwealth. Women were taken care of by the jailer's wife; children (minors), a judge was called before such child was turned over to the jailer or parents. If medical attention was needed, the prisoners were referred to the hospital before ever being booked at the jail. All men, women and minors were treated equally with respect. Also at this same time I was arrested as an offender of the law, while city marshal, I was treated like everyone else.

Besides, how can these jail inmates downgrade Jailer Hale? He's the best friend they have while in jail. He probably feeds them better than what those inmates are used to, and better than 90 percent of the nursing homes.

The citizens of Floyd county should praise the Lord that they are blessed with such a man as Jailer Hale who overlooks the offender, and County Attorney Arnold Turner who protects the rights of the offender, keeping them from picking up plastic jugs out of our creeks in Floyd county.

State To Administer 8 Of 9 Block Grants

Gov. John Y. Brown, Jr. announced last week that Kentucky will administer eight of the nine federal block grants recently passed by Congress.

Total spending on these eight block grants could amount to approximately $120 million a year—about 10 percent of $1.2 billion in annual federal funds that state government receives. This represents a decrease of 15-20 percent in the money Kentucky received for these programs last year.

But President Reagan has proposed further budget cuts, which will probably mean even less money for the states in the federal fiscal year that begins Oct. 1.

Gov. Brown and Secretary of Human Resources Grady Stumbo notified the federal government late last week that the state will accept six block grants. These grants, which will be administered by the Department for Human Resources, are: preventive health; maternal and child health services; alcohol, drug abuse, and mental health; social services; community services; and low-income home energy assistance.

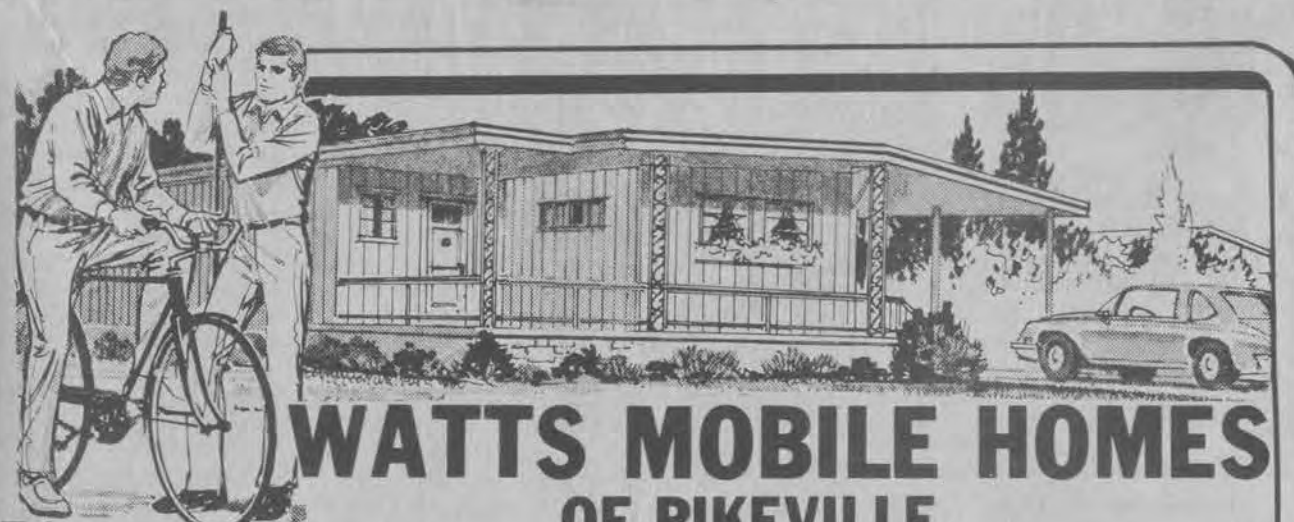

Kentucky also plans to accept the Small Cities Community Development Block Grant and the Education Block Grant, which will be administered by the state's Commerce Cabinet and Department of Education respectively.

Brown and Stumbo decided not to accept the Primary Care Block Grant at this time because the regulations for the grant are too strict and no funds are provided for state administration of the grant.

Health programs under the Primary Care Block Grant will continue to function in Kentucky but will be administered by the federal government instead of the state's Department for Human Resources.

The block grants that Kentucky is accepting consolidate more than 50 categorical programs—which were administered by the federal government—into eight block grants that will be administered by the state. More than 500 federal categorical grants were not consolidated into block grants and will continue to be administered in Kentucky by the federal government. The President and Congress have also cut funding for these categorical grants by about 20 percent.

"Kentucky knows better than Washington how to spend the money in these block grants," Brown said. "But they are not a panacea. They have three major problems. First, there are too few of them. Second, they still have too many federal strings. Third, they generally have too little funding. President Reagan has chosen to cut programs for the needy rather than save money by eliminating waste in government, as we have in Kentucky."

Guided Hikes Set At Natural Bridge

Natural Bridge State Resort Park is taking reservations for its popular Wilderness Adventure program—a series of guided, overnight hikes through scenic Red River Gorge.

For $30, hikers are outfitted with backpacks, sleeping bags and tents, provided with all food and guided through the gorge on an overnight, eight-mile hike. Advance registration is necessary, since only about 12 persons are accepted for each hike. The park must receive the registration for at least 10 days before the scheduled outing.

Hikes are scheduled for Oct. 3-4, Oct. 31-Nov. 1, Nov. 14-15 and Dec. 5-6. A trained Parks Department staff member serves as guide for the hikes. Participants are asked to wear comfortable, suitable clothing and footwear and should bring along rain gear, toilet articles and a flashlight.

No hiking experience or equipment necessary. Further information may be obtained by writing the park naturalist at Natural Bridge in Slade, Ky. 40376. The telephone number is (606) 663-2214.

Bill Keith Banjo Workshop Slated

Bill Keith, one of the great innovators of the five-string banjo, will conduct a two-day workshop this Thursday and Friday, Oct. 1 and 2 at The Fret 'n Fiddle in Huntington, West Virginia.

Keith is known for his contribution toward the development of the chromatic or melodic style of banjo picking and has played with a number of well-known Bluegrass groups, both traditional and progressive.

The objective of the workshop is to help intermediate and advanced players to gain a working knowledge of music theory and applications.

Those interested in attending should bring cassette recorders and banjos. For information regarding enrollment, call The Fret 'n Fiddle, (304) 522-7122. Ask for Joe Dobbs.

Fire Safety Classes Held at HRMC

Highlands employees warmed up to the idea of fire safety last week when they received some first hand training on fighting fires. Classes to review the proper use of fire extinguishers were given to all personnel. Larry Adams, Prestonsburg fire inspector and Paul Chaffins, city fire marshal assisted Sonny Goble, HRMC construction engineer, with the classes. Everyone who participated got the experience of putting out fires in boxes that had been ignited a safe distance from the hospital. Each employee had to choose the correct extinguisher and douse the flames.

As a part of the continuing training program at HRMC, the employees learned that the type of fire determines how the fire should be extinguished. Type A fires include ordinary combustibles such as wood, paper and cloth. A pressurized water extinguisher is the proper way to put out this type of fire. Type B fires are caused by burning liquids such as grease and paint. A carbon dioxide extinguisher nozzle should be pointed at the base of this type of fire to extinguish it, explained the fire fighting experts. Type C fire is of an electrical nature and an ABC extinguisher is best to contain it. This type of extinguisher emits a powder that smothers fire and can be used on all fires. The ABC extinguisher will only contain fires and not extinguish them completely, however.

During the classes, the employees also reviewed the location of fire extinguishers in the hospital. The program emphasized that life safety is the number one priority in preventing and fighting fires everywhere but especially in hospitals.

TV Rate Hike, Stray Animal Problem Viewed by Council

A second opinion will be sought on the advisability of installing "speed bumps" on city streets, moves to reopen the Humane Society animal shelter may receive new impetus, and Prestonsburg cable TV subscribers will be polled on a proposed rate increase as a result of decisions taken by Prestonsburg city council Tuesday night.

The vexed question of speed "bumps" was raised anew by Arnold Avenue residents protesting a recent council decision to remove them. Since the council began taking up the speed deterrents, both the volume and speed of traffic on their street had increased dramatically, the residents complained.

Mayor Harold Cooley explained that, according to the council's reading of an attorney general's opinion on the subject, the city might be liable for injuries or damage caused by the devices. The council agreed, however, to seek another opinion from the attorney general, with respect to speed bumps built according to certain specifications and marked by warning signs.

The recent shooting of a dog in a city parking lot by a police officer drew protest from a group of residents, Bonnie Crisp deprecating the incident as "frightening, inhumane and cruel." Council members explained that a large pack of dogs had posed a serious public threat for some days prior to the incident and defended the shooting as the only practicable option in view of the closing of the county animal shelter and the lack of a dog warden.

Councilman Estill Lee Carter urged the protestors to lend their support to current efforts to reopen the animal shelter.

Ron Beaver, manager of Cablertainment, Inc. approached the council with a proposal to raise TV rates for that company's city subscribers. According to the proposal, the monthly fee would be raised from $7.50 to $9.75 with the addition of two channels—ESPN, an all-sports channel, and WGN (Chicago), an independent network—or to $10.75 with the addition of ESPN, WGN, and Cable News Network, an all-news channel.

The council decided to poll consumers on the proposal.

Train Kills Mrs. Sallie Rice and Granddaughter Wednesday Near Auxier

Mrs. Sallie Rice, 64, one of the best-known women in the Big Sandy valley, and her five-year-old granddaughter, Irlie Jewel Rice, were instantly killed at nine o'clock Wednesday morning near Auxier, this county, when struck by a coal train.

In the death of Mrs. Rice one of the most noble women of this county passed away, and her death is marked by sorrow with hundreds of those who knew her.

Mrs. Rice and the child, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Rice, of East Point, were en route to Auxier when the tragedy occurred. Stepping from the track taken by east-bound trains upon hearing the approach of the east-bound local freight, they were walking along the west-bound track when struck. Though no one witnessed their deaths, it is believed that noise of the local made it impossible for them to hear the approaching coal train and that the fog mantled the train so that it could be seen only at such a short distance that they did not have time to step from the tracks.

Mrs. Rice was well-known here, where she had frequently visited her daughter, Mrs. J. M. Morell. She was a member of the Baptist Church for many years, and had her membership with Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church, of this place.

The child-victim of the accident was the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Rice, of near Auxier, with whom Mrs. Rice made her home.

Funeral services for both Mrs. Rice and the child will be conducted at one o'clock Friday afternoon from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Rice by the Rev. C. H. Nicholls, pastor of Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church, who will be assisted by Rev. L. F. Caudill, of Salyersville, Mrs. Rice's former pastor. Both bodies will be buried in the family cemetery.

Surviving Mrs. Rice are her daughter, Mrs. Morell, of this place, and three sons: Frank Rice, of West Virginia; Roy Rice, of Auxier, and Orban Rice, of Indianapolis, Indiana.

She was a sister to Mrs. W. M. Preston, of Paintsville; Mrs. Sherman Rice, of Riceville; and W. S. Price, of Oil Springs, Johnson county.

JOHNSON WOMAN COMMITS SUICIDE

Mrs. W. B. Skaggs, Minister's Wife, Ends Life October 19

Mrs. W. B. Skaggs, wife of a Baptist minister, of Flat Gap, Johnson county, committed suicide Wednesday, October 19, by jumping into a well, it was reported here this week.

Details of the suicide are lacking. It is believed that she was mentally unbalanced following an illness.

This week's Paintsville Herald reports that, before ending her life Wednesday morning, Mrs. Skaggs had finished work about the house and then disappeared from the house. A search lasting half an hour discovered her in the well.

She is survived by her husband and seven children: Ollie Skaggs, Archie Skaggs, Mrs. Dora E. Brack Skaggs, Mrs. Katherine Young and Blucher Skaggs.

Funeral services were conducted from the Point Pleasant Baptist Church, and burial was made in the family cemetery.

BOND $7,000

Wes Hall, slayer of Jim Roe Mullins, was admitted to bail Wednesday in the sum of $7,000.

Mrs. J. O. Webb, of Garrett, is the guest here of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Richmond.

Van Lear Eleven Victorious In Saturday's Grid Game

After flashing an inspiring attack and a sturdy defense in the first quarter against the Van Lear High School team here Saturday, Prestonsburg High School's eleven suffered a general let-down in aggressiveness and lost 19 to 6.

In the first ten minutes of play, the local team displayed a punch which augured ill for the invaders, but an attack which rose like a typhoon changed into a zephyr.

Receiving the kickoff, Van Lear was held for little return. "Big Rose" rose in his might to stop the ball carrier on a line play, and on a delayed buck Van Lear was thrown for a loss by Tom Marshall. Again Rose broke through for a tackle, and Van Lear punted.

Prestonsburg's first offensive thrust, an end run by Campbell, was held to no gain. Rose crashed off tackle for four yards. Mellon made it first down through the line. Hunley hit the line for eight yards, and a delayed buck by Rose added three for first down. On an end run Mellon fumbled. It was yet Prestonsburg's ball. Then Prestonsburg started an offensive of startling effectiveness. Hunley shot a long pass to Rose for a 30-yard gain. On the next play Hunley made three yards. Rose was held for no gain. Then on a pretty a trick as has graced the gridiron here in many moons Hunley skirted right end as Rose headed into the line, and before the opposition realized what was being pulled off, the Prestonsburg quarterback was within a few yards of the goal. It was a ridiculously easy touchdown. Forward pass for an extra point failed.

In the second quarter Van Lear came back to even up matters. When in a fair way to make some progress down the field, a Van Lear back fumbled, and Rose and Price were over the line and on top of the oval. Rose made seven yards through the line. Campbell fumbled, but it was yet Prestonsburg's ball, and on the next play Campbell made a slight gain through the line. A pass was incomplete. Van Lear took the ball when Prestonsburg failed to punt. Then began the beginning of the end. Twelve yards through the line, then nine. An end run for 18 yards. Then 40 yards on an end run behind fine interference for a touchdown. Pass for extra point was n. g. Score at the end of the half, 6-6.

Early in the third quarter the downriver boys pushed over a second marker, though Prestonsburg contested every inch of the way. Score: Van Lear 12, Prestonsburg 6.

In the next few minutes, shortly after Van Lear kicked off, the tide of events came near to shifting. A pass, Rose to Hunley, was good for 30 yards. Hunley went to the ground. A would-be tackler missed him, and he was ris-

Two Killed by Slatefall in Standard Elkhorn Coal Company Mine at Garrett

JOHN ENDICOTT, PROMINENT MAN, ACCIDENT VICTIM

Falling Timber Snuffs Out Life of Postmaster, Merchant

CRIDER HURT

John W. Endicott, postmaster at Endicott, on Buffalo Creek, about twelve miles from here, was fatally injured Monday afternoon when a joist of a store building upon which he was working fell, crushing his skull. He died six hours later.

A Mr. Crider, who was working with Mr. Endicott, was struck by the timber at the same moment, and it is believed that his back may be broken.

The victim was a wealthy farmer and merchant, and was one of Floyd county's best citizens. He was a devout member of the Baptist Church, and was well-known here, as well as in other parts of this county, as a prominent citizen.

Surviving him are his widow, Mrs. Susan Goble Endicott, a daughter, Mrs. Cain James, and a son, William Endicott. He also leaves three brothers, Mart, Ben and Melvin Endicott.

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday morning, and burial was made in the family cemetery.

SAYS OTHER COUNTIES ARE 'IN SAME BOAT'

Commenting upon The Times' recent editorial, in which the murder orgy was discussed, The Paintsville Herald adds that the non-enforcement of law is not confined only to Floyd county, but that other neighboring counties are likewise afflicted. The Herald's editorial follows:

FLOYD COUNTY'S SHAME

"In a splendid editorial The Floyd County Times in its last week's issue calls attention to the unprecedented number of murders which have occurred in Floyd county within recent months, and in no uncertain terms fixes the blame for this ogre of killing which is sweeping the county. According to the editorial the officers of that county have laid down on the job and the good citizens have made no move to get action toward curbing crime. These citizens are as much to blame as the officers by not taking the matter into their own hands and see to it that justice is meted out to the killer.

"The editorial is headed, 'Our Common Shame,' and it is aptly captioned. The shame of non-enforcement of law is confined not only to the county of Floyd, but to the whole of Eastern Kentucky. Johnson county is not immune. We have entirely too many murder cases on the docket of the Johnson Circuit Court, and all because that laws in the past have been too loosely administered. It is time for good citizens to wake up and do their duty as citizens. Only in this way can we rid ourselves of the killer who has no fear of God or the courts of the land.

"It is gratifying to know that there are those in Floyd county with backbone enough to call attention to the real situation and place the blame for the wave of crime. They recommend the electric chair for murderers, and rightly, too, for this is the only way that murder can be checked in Floyd or any other county.

"The Times editorial is a timely one, and in order that it may be acted upon by the good people of Johnson county, we are reproducing it in full."

Mrs. James Sizemore returned last week from Tulsa, Okla., where she has been visiting her mother, Mrs. G. W. Branham. Mrs. Sizemore has been in Ashland for the past two weeks with her son, George Sizemore, who has been in the Baptist general hospital, recovering from an operation.

Miss Ora Callista Spradlin motored to Lexington last week for Saturday's football game between the University of Kentucky and Washington and Lee. Miss Spradlin is visiting relatives here from Bowling Green.

Mr. and Mrs. Lon S. Moles motored to Lexington Thursday for the State, Washington and Lee football game Saturday. Mrs. Moles will visit her sister, Mrs. W. H. Jones, several days.

F. R. Littleton, C. and O. operator here, has moved here with his family from Salt Lick, Ky.

Malcolm Terry, 21 years old, Knott county man, and Gust E. Johnson, 27, Sweed, of Mankato, Minn., met death Monday night in the Spring Hollow mine of the Standard Elkhorn Coal Company at Garrett, this county, when pinned beneath a heavy slatefall.

The two men were working together, loading coal when a pillar gave way. One of two men who witnessed the tragedy states that Johnson was caught and pinned against a steel rail, his life being crushed out almost instantly. Terry's leg was caught, and it is held probable that his rescue could have been effected, had not a second fall come, covering both men.

Almost two hours were required for rescue workers to remove the bodies from beneath the slate. Johnson's back was broken and his head crushed, while Terry was badly mangled.

Terry was a son of Sibo Terry, of Ball Creek, near Hindman. He is survived by his widow and one child. The other man, who had been at Garrett only about five weeks, also leaves his widow and a child.

G. D. Ryan, local funeral director, went to Garrett Tuesday, and prepared Terry's body for burial. The body was taken to Knott county for interment. The other victim was brought here Tuesday evening. After being prepared for burial by G. D. Ryan, the body was shipped Wednesday morning to Mankato, Minn. Mrs. Johnson and Mr. Ryan accompanying it.

Gas Field Opened In Johnson by Company

Drilling of six wells in the Riceville section of Johnson county by the Louisville Gas and Electric Company has opened a new gas field in that county.

Consistent wells of half a million feet capacity have been drilled there, it is reported, and a gas station has been located on Mill Branch, near Paintsville, to be used in handling gas production from the Jennies Creek section, Johnson county, says the Paintsville Herald, has a vast undeveloped gas territory.

ATTENDANCE AT CHURCH SMALL

Speaker Says Only 400 of 2,000 Persons Here Attend Services

Approximately 1,600 persons failed to attend any church service here Sunday, October 16, the Rev. E. Hampton Barnett, pastor of the M. E. Church, South, stated at Friday evening's meeting of the Kiwanis Club in a discussion of "The Spirituelle of Prestonsburg."

This statement, the speaker said, was based on the assumption that the population of the town is 2,000. From all figures available, he said, only 400 persons attended church services that day.

In an inspiring talk, the Reverend Barnett defined the work which lies ahead in the development of a "spirituelle" here. He pointed out the fact that there would seem to be two definitely defined strata of life in Prestonsburg—an upper stratum, which joins in religious life, and a substratum, which is really composed of various classes, which does not attend church.

In the absence of Prof. T. J. Currey, who had been named to have charge of the program, Dr. John Barbour directed the evening's activities. Commenting briefly upon Rev. Barnett's talk, Dr. Barbour gave his conception of the "spirituelle" of the town. Norman Allen was included on the program, with a short talk on the relation of the newspaper to the spiritual development of its field.

BOYD REVENUES OFFERED TRAIL

Yates Would Turn $600,000 Annually to Road

Frank H. Yates, Ashland real estate man, recently offered a proposal at a meeting of the Ashland Chamber of Commerce to turn the revenues of Boyd county to the completion of the Mayo Trail, and, if the suggestion is carried out, the result will be gratifying to the entire Big Sandy valley.

Mr. Yates' proposal follows: "You are aware of the fact that the road from Pikeville to Williamson, W. Va., is rapidly being surfaced, or contracts being let for its completion as a hard-surfaced road, giving to the traffic from Virginia, and the upper reaches of the Big Sandy valley an outlet to Huntington.

The road from Paintsville to Kermit, W. Va., is being pushed and construction giving the people of the middle section of the Big Sandy valley an outlet to Huntington.

Hyperactivity—May Be Signal Of Nervous Disorder in Child

A child can be said to be "hyperactive" when he or she displays excessive motor activity that is not directed toward meaningful goals, according to Dr. Christa Muckenhausen, a Pikeville neurologist.

The symptom is seen in 75 percent of children afflicted with what neurologists call "minimal brain dysfunction" (MBD), characterized by learning and behavioral disorders linked to abnormalities in the nervous system. Children of normal and even above-average intelligence may suffer from the disorder, Dr. Muckenhausen points out.

Some four percent of children under 12—an average of about one in every classroom—are said to be affected by MBD. The learning disability to which it gives rise refers to a gap between the child's actual academic performance and what the child might be expected to achieve given his or her intellectual capacity.

Among the causes of the dysfunction are lack of sufficient oxygen at birth, premature birth, toxicity in the mother, and a genetic brain defect. Head injuries, meningitis and serious dehydration may also cause the disorder.

Among its most common symptoms are hyperactivity, short attention span, distractibility, impulsiveness, lack of coordination, and speech problems, as well as specific learning problems—for example, in reading, arithmetic, writing and spelling.

A child of normal intelligence who is failing in one or more subjects, one who avoids gym or competitive sports because of coordination problems, or who is easily distracted in the classroom and perhaps disruptive in the playground, may be suffering from MBD.

Emotional problems are also likely to accompany the disorder, since children with MBD tend to be anxious and depressed as a result of repeated failures and inability to relate to their peers. Thumbsucking, nailbiting, head-banging and teeth-grinding may all reflect MBD-related anxiety.

An adverse home environment and overcrowded classrooms may contribute to hyperactivity but are rarely its cause, Dr. Muckenhausen notes.

Inconsistent parental attitudes may also exacerbate the problem, she adds, noting that parents sometimes feel inadequate and angry at first and, later, confused and frustrated. Excessive punishment may produce a sense of guilt in the parent who then compensates with excessive leniency, she explains.

"Early diagnosis is the first step to therapy" for MBD sufferers, Dr. Muckenhausen points out. A child suspected of having the disorder should be evaluated by a child neurologist and psychologist, she advises. Collaboration between parents and teachers will also be needed if the disorder is to be successfully managed, she adds.

The Public Contracts (Walsh-Healy) Act of 1936 established labor standards on government contracts, including minimum wages, overtime compensation, child and convict labor provisions, and health and safety requirements, according to the U.S. Department of Labor's "Important Events in American Labor History."

Miss Rice, Mr. Kinzer Wed

Wedding vows of Miss Charlotte Ann Rice and Mr. Jeffrey Kinzer were solemnized in the Allen United Methodist Church at 7 p.m. Saturday, July 18. The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Buddy Ford.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Rice, of Allen, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Kinzer, also of Allen, Ky.

Selections of wedding music were presented by Mrs. Karen Marcum.

The bride wore a gown of white chiffonella fashioned with a fitted bodice and a Queen Anne neckline. Silkened lace covered the bodice and accented the sleeves and hemline of the gown. The bridal bouquet was of roses and baby's breath.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Karen Little, and bridesmaids were Sherry Kinzer and Renee Kinzer. Flower girls were Janet Rice and Leslie Osborne. Susana and Jerri Lynn Kinzer carried white Bibles, and Branden Kinzer was ring-bearer.

Best man was Jammie Kinzer, brother of the groom, and ushers were Randy Rice, brother of the bride, and Johnny Skeens, of Martin.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church fellowship hall. After the reception, the newlyweds left for a wedding trip to the Smokey Mountains in Tennessee. They are now residing at Allen and both are attending Mayo State Vocational School.

Advisory Committee Studies Kentucky Highway Needs

The newly formed State Highway Advisory Committee held its first meeting in Louisville, Sept. 23, to discuss Kentucky's road needs.

For two hours, 33 members of the committee reviewed current highway revenue sources and the project needs of the state's road system for this decade.

Deputy Transportation Secretary Clair Nichols said that the state's general fund has risen nearly 70 percent during the past five years, but the road fund remains at about the same level as in 1976.

A.R. Romine, assistant state highway engineer for the Kentucky Transportation Department, said that 19 percent of the state-maintained highways have deteriorated to the extent that reduced speeds were required for comfortable travel. The department is responsible for maintaining 25,000 miles of Kentucky roads which carry 83 percent of the total traffic in the Commonwealth.

The committee also learned that 4,500 miles of Kentucky's roads need to be rebuilt because of narrowness, poor alignments and steep grades. "And, 700 miles of roads of the state system are still in gravel. We need to get the people living on these roads out of the dust," Romine said.

Members of the committee agreed that the state road system needs attention. However, they pointed out that the condition of local roads is also worsening. County and municipal road aid programs, designed to assist local governments maintain their road systems, are supported by the state road fund.

The state's toll road system was also discussed by the committee which decided to review their status and operations at a future meeting.

The highway committee was formed by Transportation Secretary Frank Metts to serve in an advisory capacity to review Kentucky's highway needs and determine alternatives for meeting them. "The state road fund is in trouble and with the assistance of this committee, we hope to isolate the problems and suggest possible solutions to the 1982 legislature," Metts said.

The committee is composed of representatives of the highway industry, business community, financial and educational institutions, as well as elected officials, labor leaders and media executives.

The committee's next meeting will be in October.

The Antibiotic Overkill

A bitter irony in an age of medical miracles is the fact that each year a million hospital patients who never before had an infection acquire one after admission. This appears to be due in large part to a tendency toward antibiotic "overkill" on the part of doctors. New forms of bacteria have appeared on the scene that are resistant to conventional antibiotic therapy.

Marc Lappe, writing in the October Reader's Digest, points out that "Antibiotic-resistant organisms are increasingly responsible for hard-to-treat infections of the intestinal tract, lungs, skin and bladder, particularly in children, the old and the infirm. Even in the most modern hospitals, patients sometimes die from previously treatable diseases."

Sir Alexander Fleming, who discovered the antiseptic properties of the penicillium mold, warned of this resistance as early as 1942, but pharmaceutical companies turned out generation after generation of miracle drugs, each more effective than the last. Antibiotics were routinely used as additives to crop sprays, food preservatives and animal feed.

Pointing out that we now know that infection-causing microorganisms do transfer genetic knowledge from one group of organisms to another, enabling bacteria to resist antibiotics, Lappe states: "It seems clear...that excessive and careless use of antibiotics has speeded up this process."

Despite this, "as many as one-third of all hospital patients still receive antibiotic treatment," he continues, in many cases, whether they need it or not.

So far, few countries—Japan, Czechoslovakia and Sweden—have addressed the problem of antibiotic overuse on a national basis. In some countries even the most potent antibiotics can be sold over the counter.

An international approach to the problem appears to be developing. A group of 150 doctors and medical scientists in 25 countries issued a joint statement last August calling for uniform

Active participation by the armed forces of the United States in the Vietnam conflict ended Jan. 27, 1973, with the signing of the cease-fire agreements, but the so-called "Vietnam Era" did not end until May 7, 1975, according to the Veterans Administration.

prescription and distribution of antibiotics in all nations. "Their appeal," Lappe notes, "represents the first international recognition of what appears to be a growing problem, one that must be faced if we are to avoid a premature end to the antibiotic era and confront the specter of germs that will not die."

Q. I've just bought a "vintage" colonial home and am in the process of restoring it to its original beauty. One of the problems I've encountered is the severe mildew which grows on the exterior. I would like to repaint, but am afraid that if I don't remove the mildew it will just eat through the fresh coat. Is there a cleanser designed to remove mildew or a special kind of paint that is mildew-resistant?

A. Congratulations on your new home. Special cleansers should not be necessary to solve your problem. Make a solution of 1/3 cup powdered detergent and 1/2 cup household bleach to a gallon of warm water. Scrub the mildewed siding, then rinse well. Allow it to dry completely. When dry, add an undercoat of paint. If your problem is really persistent, the second coat of paint should be mildew-resistant.

Q. Nearly every day there seems to be another discovery of an ordinary food or product that causes cancer. I'd like to know if alcohol has been added to the list of carcinogens.

A. You may be relieved to know that there is no definite proof that alcohol causes cancer. Certain impurities in some alcoholic beverages are thought to be cancer-causing, but research has not verified these suspicions.

Studies on the effects of alcohol are complicated by the fact that heavy drinkers tend to smoke more than others and are less careful of their overall health. Statistics show that they are more prone to illness than the general population, but it is difficult to isolate the causes.

Q. I overheard someone talking about "drug lag." Can you tell me what this term means?

E.S., Trenton, N.J.
A. The term "drug lag" does not refer to a bizarre side effect or to the amount of time it takes for a drug to work. The phrase was coined by Dr. William Wardell, a British pharmacologist, in 1971. He was referring to the length of time elapsing between the availability of a medicine used in one country and its introduction into this country. The lag can be ten years or even longer.

Q. My car was repossessed and I was furious to learn that the dealer had sold it to a friend of mine at a handsome profit. Is this legal?

E.W., Memphis, Tenn.
A. Notify the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) immediately. Failure to repay surplus profits to consumers is a violation of state law under Section 5 of the FTC Act.

In a recent ruling on a similar case, FTC Commissioner Paul Rand Dixon ruled against a Portland, Oregon dealership that did not pay back surplus profits from the resale of cars. A surplus is defined as money received in excess of the amount owed by the debtor on the vehicle. The dealer is allowed to keep a reasonable amount to cover his resale expenses.

Commissioner Dixon's decision sustained a January, 1979 ruling by Administrative Law Judge Lewis Parker. The Portland dealership was ordered to properly calculate and repay all future surpluses. The Commission did not order repayment of past surpluses, but did require the dealer to notify all consumers since February 10, 1976 who should have received surplus profits. The Commission reserved the right to request a federal court to order these back payments.

Q. I found your health column explaining when to call a doctor for your child very helpful, but I have one question which must occur to many mothers. When can she return to school? My daughter's head colds drag on for weeks, although she is active within a few days and says she wants to go back to school. I'm afraid that if she's got a runny nose and I send her back to school, she will relapse or infect her classmates.

R.E., Rockland Ma.
A. Children with coughs or runny noses can be contagious for weeks, so this decision must be adjusted to each child and each illness—especially with young children.

A child with a high fever, sore throat, headache, cough, vomiting or diarrhea should be kept at home to rest until he regains enough strength to cope with the pace of school activities. Chances are good that your child will not want to go to school during the acute stages of an illness.

But since most upper respiratory infections are caused by highly contagious viruses, you cannot prevent other children from catching them, even if you keep your daughter at home until all symptoms are gone. Susceptible children will already have been exposed.

Actually, repeated infections build up a child's resistance to specific viruses, so a difficult year is usually followed by fewer illnesses in time. If your daughter seems normally active and her cold symptoms are not severe, send her to school.

Q. Is there a safe way to freeze oysters?

A. Oysters can be frozen either shucked or in the shell, though they often turn pink or red—a result of what the oyster has eaten and the rapid change in the temperature from hot to cold.

The quality is better if oysters are frozen after shucking. Place shucked oysters in a rigid plastic container with juice. Allow 1/2" of space at the top and seal tightly. When stored at 0°F, they will keep for about six months. Remember to label the container with the "expiration" date so you're sure to use them in time. When you're ready to use the oysters, thaw in the refrigerator and use immediately after thawing. Cook as for fresh oysters.

Oysters in the shell should be frozen live in tightly sealed plastic freezer bags. They will keep for about three months at 0°F. Again, remember to label the bags with the date. Thaw in the refrigerator and use immediately after thawing.

You can also freeze breaded or blanched oysters with excellent results. Use airtight containers and keep at 0°F for a maximum of three months. Do not thaw before cooking. Instead, cook directly from the freezer.

Save both time and money by buying a gallon container of oysters.

NEW CORONARY CARE UNIT

The McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital would like to announce the installation of new monitoring equipment in the Coronary Care Unit. Donations solicited by the Development Fund of the Hospital's Board of Governors were used to purchase this equipment in response to discussions regarding the need for facilities and equipment to treat patients in the area with heart conditions. Since McDowell ARH is one of the few facilities in the area equipped with a complete Coronary Care Unit, the Board felt the most up-to-date equipment was desirable. The nursing staff servicing the Coronary Care Unit are specially trained in Coronary Care, therefore only minimal training was required before the equipment was placed in full operation.

Auto Title Bill Is Subject Of County Clerks' Meeting

Governor John Y. Brown Jr. and state transportation officials met with about 20 county clerks at Frankfort recently to discuss the details of his administration's proposed vehicle title bill.

If approved by the 1982 General Assembly, the law will separate title of ownership from the currently combined registration-title process. Kentucky is the only state in the union without a title law.

Brown pointed out that registration is simply permission to operate a particular vehicle on state highways and is renewed annually. "A title document, on the other hand, offers proof of ownership beyond registration. Any vehicle bought, sold or traded in Kentucky would require a title certificate," said.

When a vehicle transaction is made, an application for title would be completed and presented to the county court clerk. Inspectors from the clerk's office inspect the vehicle identification number and odometer reading. The county clerk then provides a copy of the title application to the owner to keep until he receives his title in the mail in about five days.

Information from the title application is entered into a computer in the clerk's office and the application and supporting documents are forwarded to the Transportation Department's Division of Motor Vehicle Licensing. At this point, checks are made for forged documents and a comparison of the vehicle information number with a list of stolen vehicles from across the nation. If no problem are encountered, the title is printed on special antiforgery paper and mailed to the applicant.

Brown said the title legislation would add a $4 fee to registration costs which would enable the program to pay its own way. The additional fee would be split between the county court clerk office and the state, he added.

Brown said that passage of this bill would add an estimated $4 million to $14 million annually in local tax revenue by tightening the collection of property taxes on vehicles through computerization. Other benefits of the proposal listed by the governor include:

- Consumer protection from purchasing stolen vehicles and being a victim of odometer rollbacks.

- Storing title documents in a central location to prevent theft of blank titles.

- A reduction in the amount of paper work in the registration process.

- A birth month registration system will be used which will eliminate long waits at the county court clerks' offices.

The proposal, prefiled by Rep. William Donnemeyer (D-Bellevue), resulted from studies of similar laws in effect in several states. Comments, suggestions and changes were received from county clerks, the Kentucky Automobile Dealers Association, the Kentucky Recyclers Association, financial institutions and law enforcement agencies.

Wins Insurance Award

Darrell L. Patton, of Star Route 1, Prestonsburg, was the top qualifier in the 1981 Summer Sizzler Campaign in New York Life Insurance Company's north central region, which includes Kentucky, Indiana and Illinois, according to General Manager Peter B. Crane, of the Lexington General Office.

Mr. Patton, a New York Life representative in the Prestonsburg area since last May, received the Summer Sizzler Award for leading all the new full-time agents in the region in applied business for the months of July and August.

Is Pikeville College Alumni Director

On October 1, Patricia Ann Fritz, a 1981 summa cum laude graduate of Pikeville College, will become Pikeville College's alumni director. She will replace Sandy Branam, who had resigned to accept that same post at Beaver College in Glenside, Pennsylvania.

Fritz brings several honors with her as she comes into her new position. She won first place in the state leadership conference of Phi Beta Lambda as Ms. Future Business Teacher in February and then went on to place second during the national convention in July. Pharmacy Footnotes

by HAROLD COOLEY

Many customs of our ancestors helped to protect, save and improve human health. The use by our forefathers of natural forces such as sunshine, sleep, rest and invigorating work are good examples. On the other hand, many customs from the early days were built on beliefs in magic or spirits or were based entirely on superstition. Fortunately, with science, medical knowledge has greatly increased and old customs and harmful superstitions have waned. If you question a procedure recommended by a friend or family member, do check with your doctor.

At COOLEY APOTHECARY INC. we are professionals, dealing with all your pharmaceutical needs in a professional manner. That doesn't mean, though, that we sacrifice personal service. People are treated like people, not with push-button indifference. That goes for service in home health aids, convalescent equipment, and prescriptions. We're at 2 Town Center Bldg., Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30; Sat. 9-5. 886-8106.

Tools of the Trade

Repairing, renovating or refurbishing your home or apartment will not only save you a lot of money, it can be a very rewarding experience as well. The success of such ventures depends largely on use of the correct tools. Without them the money you save may not be worth the aggravation and frustration you'll experience.

In equipping yourself with an adequate set of tools, keep in mind a few basic points.

- Buy quality tools. Consider your tools an investment. If you buy quality tools and take proper care of them, they can easily last you a lifetime. Very often the quality of your tools will determine the quality of your work. Remember this doesn't mean you have to buy the most expensive tools in the store. You don't need a hammer that doubles as a cigarette lighter, just one that will do the job and live to tell about it.

- Don't buy tools you don't really need. The most valuable tools are the ones you use the most. For one-time jobs see if you can borrow the necessary tools, or rent them.

- Don't buy a tool you don't know how to use. This is especially true of power tools, which can easily do more harm than good if used improperly. If you know you need a certain tool but are unsure how to use it, ask the salesman for help.

- Don't spend a lot of money on a brand-new tool. See if you can find a used one that suits your needs and is still in good condition. Local newspaper ads and garage sales are among the best places to look for bargains.

For relatively simple home improvements, a few basic tools will be adequate. Here's what you need.

- Screwdrivers—A set of 4-6, including one or two with Phillips heads.

- Hammer—A curved-claw hammer with a convex face, of a weight you are comfortable with.

- A center punch or awl—To make starting holes for screws.

- A nail set—To drive nails below the surface so they can be concealed.

- Steel measuring tape—Preferably with locking and return mechanisms.

- Putty knife—For glazing windows, caulking, smoothing fillers in cracks and holes.

- Saws—A hacksaw for cutting through metal, a keyhole saw to cut or enlarge holes in wood, a crosscut saw for sawing across the grain, a rip saw for sawing with the grain.

- Miter box—For sawing at 45 and 90 degree angles.

- Planes—For smoothing wood, shaving doors.

- Chisels—For grooving and notching jobs; buy 3/8", 3/4" and 1 1/2".

- Utility knife—For cutting just about anything, preferably with retractable blade.

- Combination square—To mark 45 and 90 degree angles; also a depth gauge.

- Wrenches—A pipe wrench for emergency plumbing jobs and at least one adjustable wrench for various jobs.

- Pliers—Preferably with a locking grip.

- Clamps—C-clamps, parallel and bar clamps for holding glued work.

- Push drill—For small holes for starting screws or nails.

- Electric drill—For drilling in harder surfaces, sanding and buffing.

- Files, soldering gun, caulking gun, wire cutter, and level.

To avoid the cost of buying all these tools at once, you can pick them up gradually, as you need them. But it is best to be prepared ahead of time whenever possible.

As your skills and your nerve increases, you may want to experiment with more elaborate tools and begin building rather than simply repairing. This will require a new set of tools, but you will always find your basic hand tools an invaluable asset.

Cats Easily Down Betsy Layne For Third Win; W'wright Loses

By C. "OLLIE" ROBINSON

The Prestonsburg Blackcats won their third game of the season and their third in a row last Friday night at Mullins by defeating the improving Betsy Layne Bobcats, 47 to 28.

In the first football meeting of the two schools, Prestonsburg got off to a good lead in the first half at 20 to 8. Steve Rice put the Cats on the scoreboard on a 10-yard run, scoring his eighth touchdown of the season and his 48th point.

The battling Bobcats of John "Wimpy" Clark, scored their first touchdown on a 40-yard run by James Hall. Phillip Bush ran for the two-point conversion and the score was Prestonsburg 20 and Betsy Layne 8.

Midgette scored the sixth touchdown of the night for the Cats on a 20-yard run. Sturgill's kick was good and the score at halftime was Prestonsburg 41, Betsy Layne 8.

In the second half, Coach Phillip Haywood inserted a complete new unit. The Bobcats came roaring back in the third quarter and scored two touchdowns while holding the Blackcats scoreless.

Prestonsburg's final touchdown came in the fourth quarter. Hooker scoring on a 35-yard pass. Prestonsburg's offensive on this drive was directed by Gordy Ratliff.

Betsy Layne scored in the fourth quarter, when Dwayne Lykins connected with James Hall on a 7-yard pass. The two-point conversion attempt was good on a pass to Phillip Bush.

Jim Allen led the Bobcat defense with 21 tackles. Dwayne Lykins was the offensive leader as he assisted in every score, plus the two-point conversions.

Prestonsburg piled up 350 yards on offense by halftime.

"Gradually, we're making improvement," said Prestonsburg Coach Haywood. "Silly mistakes are still hurting us, but we're becoming a better football team."

Sophomore quarterback Todd Nairn threw for three touchdowns and 129 yards in the first half. Brad Hughes, one of six Blackcats with touchdowns, caught scoring passes of 23 and 63 yards.

"Our defense has been much better in the last three weeks," Haywood said. "The secondary is extremely young and they're getting better. We haven't given up the big plays that we did in the first two games."

In their loss to Cumberland the Wheelwright Trojans scored in the first quarter on a two-yard run by T.D. Little and in the second quarter their second touchdown was on a pass from quarterback Davy Tackett to Robbie Harlow.

... about Your Social Security

Social Security Number is Key

A person's social security number is his or her key to future protection against loss or reduction of income because of retirement, disability, or death, Jim Kelly, Social Security District Director for the Big Sandy Area said recently.

This is because future social security benefits will be based on the record of earnings kept under the number shown on the social security card during a person's working lifetime.

Many people have the same name, but each person has his or her own social security number which singles out that record from some 200 million others.

A person should show his or her social security card to each employer and make sure the employer copies the name and number exactly as shown on the card. This will help avoid any mistakes, as reported earnings are recorded under the correct number.

The stub showing a person's social security number should be kept with other important papers. If a person loses his or her social security card, he or she can then take the stub to any social security office to apply for a new card which will show the old number. Proof of identity is required, however.

A person who changes his or her name should apply for a new card. He or she will need evidence showing both old and new names.

It is against the law to use another person's social security number. It is also against the law to use a social security number obtained by giving false information on the application. Penalties include a fine of up to $1,000, a jail sentence of up to one year, or both.

More information about social security numbers and their use can be obtained at the Big Sandy Social Security Office, located on U.S. 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville. The telephone number is 886-8525.

Social Security Family Protection

People who think about a retirement or disability check when they think about their social security protection may be missing out on the value that social security survivors insurance plays as a base for a worker's financial planning.

Survivors insurance has been payable since the beginning of the social security program. Today about 7.6 million widows and widowers, children, and dependent parents are receiving some $2.1 billion in monthly benefits, about 20 percent of total monthly social security benefits being paid.

Some 95 out of 100 children under 18 and their mothers or fathers may expect to receive survivors benefits if either parent dies. Benefits are payable to the family even if the other parent continues working. The average family benefit currently being paid to a widowed mother with two children is $767 monthly.

Benefits may also be paid based on the deceased worker's earnings to disabled children at any age if they were disabled before age 22, to disabled widows or widowers at age 50-60, and to widows and widowers at age 60. A surviving divorced spouse may qualify for the same type of benefits as does a widow or widower if the marriage lasted 10 years.

Social security studies show that social security survivors insurance payments constitute as much as two-thirds of the family income of 50 percent of families with the youngest child under age 6. The benefits constitute more than 90 percent of the income of 28 percent of these families.

A worker's spouse and children can get social security payments if he or she has earned credit for as little as 1½ years in the 3 years before death. More work may be needed for other potential beneficiaries to qualify. The amount needed depends on the age at which a person dies. However, no worker will need more than 10 years of work under social security for his or her surviving family to become eligible for social security benefits at his or her death.

Survivors protection is also important for people who have not had time to establish a career or build a nest egg of private insurance, savings and investments, or otherwise prepare for the future. It provides a foundation that a worker may build on in meeting the family's need for financial protection against his or her death.

Q. What is the most work you need under social security to qualify for survivors benefits?

A. The amount of credit for work you need for benefits to be payable to your survivors depends on your age at death. The older you are (and the longer you've had time to work under social security), the more work credits you need. But in no case does a worker need more than 10 years of social security work credit for survivors benefits to be payable.

Q. My sister's husband died last week, and she wants to know how long she should wait before she applies for social security benefits for herself and two children.

A. She should apply for benefits as soon as possible. She might want to call her nearest social security office to find out what evidence she would need to apply. And if she has babysitter or transportation problems and can't get to the office, she can apply by phone.

More information about Social Security Family Protection can be obtained at the Big Sandy Area Social Security Office, located on U.S. 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville.

Cardiac Rehab Can Help You

(Editor's Note: This is the final article in the series dealing with the cardiac rehabilitation program at HRMC. It is a program designed to teach heart attack patients and their families to adjust to life after a heart attack.)

You are recovering from a heart attack and your physician recommends the cardiac rehabilitation program at Highlands Regional Medical Center. The first question you ask is why. Why should you spend one hour, three times a week back in the hospital?

Perhaps the best answers come from the patients currently participating in the rehab program.

"I'm learning to take my pulse and what my maximum heart rate should be," says Verlie McDonald, of Hager Hill. "Now I'm aware of how much activity I can safely do."

"I lost 20 pounds and feel a lot more energetic now," says Paul Francis, of Prestonsburg. "But, the best thing is that I hardly ever have chest pains any more."

"I enjoy the group support to help me stick to my goals," says Sally Spears, of Van Lear. "I'm much healthier now and have even quit smoking, after smoking three packs a day for years."

Now you may be interested enough to look in on one session. There is Sally Spears discussing her progress toward the goals she, her nurse and doctor have devised. She receives praise for the achievements and a suggestion to help stop her late-night eating habit.

She joins two other rehab patients with exercises and then onto the bicycles. Their blood pressure and heart rate are constantly monitored. During the rest period, the group members talk about their experiences and problems. There seems to be a feeling of warmth and comradery among the patients.

It sounds like a good program, but you wonder if you can afford it? "Most insurance companies cover the cost of the cardiac rehab program," explains Zina Goble, R.N., supervisor of cardiac rehab. "Also the many county rehabilitation centers finance the program fee if the patient can return to work after the heart attack."

You are convinced that the Highlands cardiac rehab program can help you. Excellent! Your determination is the key to a new healthy lifestyle. Now you need to discuss the details of the program with your physician who can make the referral to join the program. Zina Goble, R.N. or Sherri Dingus, Asst. Director of Nursing Services/Critical Care will answer any of your questions (886-8511 extension 137) and encourage you to achieve your goals. Best of luck and good health to you!

Completing 20 Years' Banking

Patricia Salisbury, assistant vice-president and manager of the Twin Bridge Branch of the First Commonwealth Bank, will complete 20 years of service tomorrow (October 1). She is an original employee of the Twin Bridge Branch, having worked at the Prestonsburg office for three months prior to its opening.

She was appointed manager in 1976 as that branch was becoming a full-service banking center. Since that time, growth of the branch has dictated that the original facility be renovated and expanded.

Miss Salisbury, a 1978 graduate of the Kentucky Bankers Association School of Banking, and a 1981 graduate of the Eberhart Bank Marketing "Cross Selling and Product Knowledge" course. She is 1981-82 treasurer of the Bankers Administration Institute, Eastern Kentucky Area, chapter 544.

Clerks Discuss Vehicle Title Bill

Governor John Y. Brown, Jr. and state transportation officials met with about 20 county clerks at Frankfort recently to discuss the details of his administration's proposed vehicle title bill.

If approved by the 1982 Kentucky General Assembly, the law will separate title of ownership from the currently combined registration-title process. Kentucky is the only state in the union with a title law.

Similar efforts to enact such legislation have met with defeat in 10 previous legislative sessions. Transportation Secretary Frank Metts said, however, that this version of a title bill should be approved by the 1982 legislature.

County court clerks across Kentucky have traditionally opposed title bill proposals because of a preconceived loss of local revenue. Willard Hansford, Pulaski county clerk and president of the County Clerks' Association, said during the meeting that "We're not saying we're against" this title bill proposal, but the clerks have "reservations about certain provisions."

Brown pointed out that registration is simply permission to operate a particular vehicle on state highways and is renewed annually. "A title document, on the other hand, offers proof of ownership beyond registration. Any vehicle bought, sold or traded in Kentucky would require a title certificate," he said.

When a vehicle transaction is made, an application for title would be completed and presented to the county court clerk. Inspectors from the clerk's office inspect the vehicle identification number and odometer reading. The county clerk then provides a copy of the title application to the owner to keep until he receives his title in the mail in about five days.

Information from the title application is entered into a computer in the clerk's office and the application and supporting documents are forwarded to the Transportation Department's Division of Motor Vehicle Licensing. At this point, checks are made for forged documents and a comparison of the vehicle information number with a list of stolen vehicles from across the nation. If no problems are encountered, the title is printed on special anti-forgery paper and mailed to the applicant.

Brown said the title legislation would add a $4 fee to registration costs which would enable the program to pay its own way. The additional fee would be split between the county court clerk office and the state, he added. Passage of this bill would add an estimated $4 million to $14 million annually in local tax revenue by tightening the collection of property taxes on vehicles through computerization, the governor said. Other benefits of the proposal listed by the governor include:

- Consumer protection from purchasing stolen vehicles and being a victim of odometer rollbacks.
- Storing title documents in a central location to prevent theft of blank titles.
- A reduction in the amount of paper work in the registration process.
- A birth month registration system will be used which will eliminate long waits at the county court clerks' offices.

The proposal, prefiled by Rep. William Donnermeyer (D-Bellevue), resulted from studies of similar laws in effect in several states. Comments, suggestions and changes were received from county clerks, the Kentucky Automobile Dealers Association, the Kentucky Recyclers Association, financial institutions and law enforcement agencies.

To Wed October 17

Mr. and Mrs. Otis Kidd, of Honaker, announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Nanette, to Mr. John Melvin Kidd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Kidd, of Harold.

The ceremony will be solemnized at 4 p.m. Saturday, October 17, at the Sammy Clark Branch Free Will Baptist Church by the Rev. Bobby Spencer.

Coal-Mining Museum Founded At David

A meeting was held recently to form the Appalachian Coal-Mining Museum. The museum is housed in a building which is on the property of the Appalachian Craft Center at David, the center of a highly active coal-mining community during the 1940's and '50's.

The museum committee is interested in the loan or donation of items related to the coal industry for display. Items such as a breast auger, a carbide lamp, a carbide lantern, and a pick have been acquired. Photographs, old or new, are also among the desired acquisitions. Any such articles loaned for the purpose of display will be inventoried and catalogued, and credit will be given to the lender.

The museum committee will be meeting Wednesday, October 7, at 7 p.m. at the David Craft Center at David, on Route 404. Anyone interested in attending this meeting may call 886-2377.

Makes Scholarship Contribution

Roger H. Ball, at right, Director of Human Resources at Island Creek Coal Company, of Paintsville, is shown presenting a check to Dr. Henry A. Campbell, Jr., director, and Brenda C. Music, admissions/financial aid officer, at Prestonsburg Community College. The contribution to the college's scholarship fund will be used to provide financial assistance to students majoring in mining engineering. Island Creek Coal Company has been making contributions to the fund for the past six years.

USDA Proposes Revisions For School Food Programs

The U.S. Department of Agriculture is proposing revisions in meal pattern requirements for federally-assisted school food programs to simplify meal requirements and help reduce costs.

"The proposed changes are designed to maintain the nutritional balance of the oldest federal feeding program in the country, while at the same time providing state and local officials more flexibility in controlling costs and simplifying administration," said Mary C. Jarratt, assistant secretary for Food and Consumer Services.

The new meal patterns are designed in part to reduce meal production cost of a school lunch—between 8 and 10 cents—thereby offsetting a portion of the reduction in federal subsidy resulting from the enactment of the Omnibus Reconciliation Act of 1981.

Saving Money and Time Abroad

The dollar is less desirable all over the world since it is no longer backed by gold. Exchange rates fluctuate depending on which day of the week it is, in which country and where the exchange is sought.

For these reasons, it is best to arrive in a foreign country with the currency of that country. Your best bet is foreign traveler's checks, and pocket change will be needed for immediate expenses such as tipping or telephones. Of course, any traveler's checks not used can be converted upon returning home.

If several foreign countries are to be visited and you want to avoid dealing with several currencies, carry traveler's checks in a very strong currency such as the Swiss franc, German mark or Dutch guilder. There tends to be less fluctuation in these money markets.

Many expenses can be taken care of in advance, avoiding an exchange rate fluctuation at a later date. Expenses which might be paid in advance are hotel costs, transportation and tours.

Remember that each transaction of dollars into foreign currency costs money. It is more economical to cash as much money as is possible at one time.

The exchange rates will always be best at a major bank, most of which are open five days a week. It is important to plan weekends with this in mind. Trying to exchange currency on a weekend in a hotel or small shop will very often result in a poor rate of exchange. The shop keeper has no way of knowing what the rate will be after the weekend and must protect him/herself.

Since inflation has caused prices on everything to soar in many European nations, consider places where the American dollar is still eagerly sought: Mexico, Central and South America, and Africa.

More and more middle class people (not just students) are staying outside large cities in hostels and small country inns, which are inexpensive and intimate.

Off-season rates can also make a wide difference in a trip's costs. The "almost-off-season" ("shoulder seasons") offers economical incentives to travel during those months.

The United States Customs Service has recently raised the limits on duty-free purchases from $100 to $300. Each person in a family is entitled to this allowance. The next $600 worth is taxed 10 percent, and after $900, the duty varies according to the type of items bought. Keep in mind the effect of inflation on prices in duty-free shops. Some of the prices may be just as high as they are at home, and no bargain at all!

When reserving seats on a particular air flight, request favorite seats. Many airlines will honor this request. Of course, non-smoking and smoking area seating preferences must be honored by law.

It saves a lot of time to pack so that all luggage can be carried onto the airplane. Taking a hanging suit bag and a carry-on case which can be slid under the seat saves the aggravation of waiting at an airport for luggage which is slow in being unloaded—or is on its way, without you, to another city!

Once in a hotel, put your valuables in the hotel safe. There is a new insurance plan for travelers, Automatic Guest Protection, offered at hotels and motels in 31 states and 3 foreign countries. Guests are automatically covered from check-in to check-out, on or off the premises and regardless of where they go or what they do. A small daily charge is added to the bill and for that charge there is coverage for accidental death, accidental medical and robbery protection. More details are available from Travel Time/Life Association, 11059 East Bethany Drive, Denver, Colorado, 80014.

Hanging On To Your Hotel Room

Have you ever arrived at a hotel late at night with a car full of tired and irritable passengers, only to be told that your reserved room is no longer available?

Although you're wise to arrive in the early afternoon, just after last night's guests have checked out, it's not always possible or desirable. Hotels accept more reservations than they can actually accommodate; they're gambling that some people won't show. If everyone does show, and you find yourself without a room, ask to speak to the manager or assistant manager. Arguing with the desk clerk probably won't get you anywhere, but a manager may be persuaded to let you have one of the rooms usually saved for emergencies.

PCC Club Sponsoring Blood Drive, Oct. 15

The Phi Beta Lambda Club from Prestonsburg Community College is sponsoring a blood drive Thursday, October 15, in Room 216, Pike Building, from 10 a.m. until 7 p.m. A contest is being sponsored by Phi Beta Lambda to see what club on campus can bring in the most donors.

Club members are determined to make this the most successful blood drive ever to be held in Floyd county. They have expressed much interest in a vital need for more people taking the responsibility to provide an on-going and adequate supply of blood to patients who need it to live.

Those who would like to help are asked to attend. The effort is being made in order to help replace what has been used and to have a supply on hand for those who need it.

Veteran's Administration Questions and Answers

Q—My father was a veteran whose grave marker has been damaged by the weather over the years. Is it possible to have it replaced?

A—Yes. Replacement for damaged markers may be requested by writing: Monument Service, Department of Memorial Affairs (42), 810 Vermont Ave., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20420. The cost of the replacement is to be paid by the applicant.

Q—I am entitled to hospital treatment at Veterans Administration hospitals because I am 100 percent disabled from service connected causes. Is there any similar medical care available for my family?

A—Your family may be entitled to the VA's Civilian Health and Medical Program (CHAMPVA). This is a medical benefits plan through which the VA helps to pay for medical care obtained from civilian sources by certain dependents of veterans with permanent and total service connected disabilities. The surviving spouse and children of veterans who died as a result of a service connected disability, or of veterans permanently and totally disabled from service connected disabilities at the time of death are also eligible.

Q—If I don't have a checking account and cash is unsafe to mail, how can I pay on my Veterans Administration education loan without going to the VA personally?

A—Go to your bank or nearest post office and purchase a cashier's check or money order. To ensure proper credit, include your claim number or social security number on your remittance.

Q—Can I enroll in a vocational or trade school under the GI Bill?

A—Yes. You can use your GI Bill education benefits at any approved vocational, technical or trade school.

Q—I'm a Vietnam veteran and have been thinking about visiting one of the Veterans Administration's Vet Centers. Do the centers offer any help for wives of Vietnam veterans?

A—Yes. The Vet Centers will be glad to help any Vietnam veteran, including wives. The centers were designed to help Vietnam Era veterans readjust to society, and often unhappy home lives contribute to the veterans' problems.

Q—Are World War I veterans eligible for Veterans Administration outpatient medical care?

A—Yes. All veterans of World War I are eligible for VA outpatient care for any medical condition.

Q—I am interested in starting my own business. Does the Veterans Administration provide business loans to veterans?

A—No. The VA does not provide business loans for veterans. Such loans may be available through the Small Business Administration. Check the "U.S. Government" section of your local telephone directory for the address of the nearest SBA office.

Q—I am a World War II veteran who let my GI insurance lapse years ago. I recently read that a new bill passed Congress giving veterans like me a dividend on this lapsed insurance. How do I apply?

A—Any story you hear about insurance dividends for lapsed Veterans Administration insurance is only a false rumor that occasionally spreads in different parts of the country. The only insurance dividends currently being paid by the VA are to veterans who were issued participating policies in World War I, World War II and the Korean Conflict, who have maintained the policies in premium paying status.

Q—Is there any time limit for using my certificate of eligibility for a Veterans Administration guaranteed home loan?

A—No. There is no time limit for using your certificate of eligibility for the purchase of a home.

Q—Are Veterans Administration benefits subject to taxation?

A—Almost all veterans benefits are non-taxable. However, there are two exceptions. One is interest paid on accrued GI insurance dividends left on deposit. The other is death settlement proceeds.

Q—I am a widow of a Korean War veteran who died as a result of a service connected disability before using his GI home loan entitlement. Am I eligible for this benefit?

A—Yes. If not currently married, widows of veterans of World War II and later periods who died of service connected causes are eligible for this benefit.

Q—If I encounter legal difficulties while purchasing a home using the GI Bill, will the Veterans Administration pay or provide for any legal assistance I may need?

A—No. The VA does not pay or provide for any legal assistance a veteran may need to deal with troubles encountered in the purchase or construction of a home.

Q—My husband wants to be buried in Arlington National Cemetery. What should he do?

A—This cemetery is under the jurisdiction of the Department of the Army, and burial is limited to specific categories of military personnel and veterans, except in the case of cremated remains to be placed in the columbarium. For details, write to the Superintendent, Arlington National Cemetery, Arlington, Va. 22211.

PUBLIC NOTICE TO OWNERS OF RENTAL HOUSING

The Floyd County Housing Authority is administering a Section 8 Moderate Rehabilitation Program in Floyd County using funds provided by the Department of Housing and Urban Development. Under this program, owners will rehabilitate rental units which are now substandard or have major building systems or components requiring repair or replacement. The cost of this work, which must total at least $1000 per unit, may be financed by a local lending institution, by the owner, or by any other source available to the owner. The agency does not make rehabilitation loans or grants, but will assist owners to obtain financing. After required rehabilitation work has been completed, the agency and the owner will execute a contract which establishes a rent for the unit(s) that will cover rehabilitation costs, meet monthly operating expenses, and allow a reasonable profit on the owner's investment. For a fifteen year period, the owner will rent the rehabilitated unit(s) to eligible lower income tenants, who will pay approximately 25 percent of their income toward the rent. The agency will pay the remainder of the rent directly to the owner. The initial occupant of a rehabilitated unit may be the owner's present eligible tenant. After rehabilitation the rent (including utilities) cannot exceed the following Maximum Rents:

BEDROOM SIZE
1	2	3	4
206	244	282	319

The agency's current funds will allow rehabilitation of 35 units of rental housing as follows:

1 BR	2 BR	3 BR	4 BR
8	18	7	2

No unit will be assisted which results in the permanent displacement of a current tenant. Proposals from owners will be received by the Housing Authority until further notice. Owners who wish to submit a proposal must obtain an application form from:

Money Matters

The Beauty of a Budget

For some people the idea of making out a budget and sticking to it is a frightening prospect and a boring way to spend a couple of hours of spare time.

A carefully planned budget will help you obtain both what you want and what you need, will make you a more careful consumer and thereby save you wasted money. It can even eliminate a lot of the frustration and nervousness of living from week to week, wondering where all your money is going.

The Better Business Bureau suggests you follow these steps in developing your own budget and sticking to it:

- Any budget should involve every member of the family, including children.

- Set realistic goals. Decide what you want and when you want it, including everything from short-range goals (such as the purchase of a car within a year) to long-range goals such as your retirement.

- Once your goals have been set and placed in a specific time frame, you need to figure how much money you have to spread around. Start with your net income after taxes and Social Security and add any other income, including interest on savings accounts, property sale or rental, cash gifts, pension payments, stock dividends, etc. Past income records and cautious estimates of future income should be taken into account.

- Determine how much money you have been spending. If you've kept good records, saving checkbook stubs, bills and receipts, this should be no problem. If you haven't, start now.

First itemize all fixed expenses, including rent or mortgage, installment purchases, transportation, hospitalization plans, and utilities (heating fuel, electricity, water and sewer, telephone). You should estimate an increase in utility costs.

Varying expenses should also be itemized, among them food, recreation, savings, personal expenses, contributions, medical care, home repairs, furniture, insurance policies, gifts, clothing, vacations, organization memberships.

Be sure to total your expenses over at least a 12-month period, in order to minimize the effect of seasonal expenses and get a clear idea of where your money has gone in the past—and where it will be going in the future.

- Now comes the time for comparison. Your budget is balanced if your total expected income is about equal to the total of your fixed and varying expenses plus the amount you need to put away in order to meet your short-term and long-term goals.

If your expected income falls short, you should take a good look at how you have spent your money over the past 12 months and see where you can cut back. Often this is simply a matter of cutting out wasteful or impulsive spending. You may also have to eliminate some conveniences. In some cases it may be wise to spend money now to save money later, as in making your home more energy-efficient to counteract rising energy prices.

Whatever remedies may be necessary, the general idea is to make yourself more aware of how you spend your money, in the hope that you may spend it more wisely in the future.

Westward Ho-Hum

The days of the pioneers are gone, and so is most of the land available back then. Federally-owned land is still sold occasionally, but it is generally no more of a bargain than privately owned land.

Homesteading was stopped everywhere except Alaska in 1976, where it will remain until 1986. Any homesteading of Alaskan land is several years away, though, because public lands must first be appointed among Alaskan natives, the State and various Federal agencies.

The Federal Land Policy and Management Act of 1976 provides that public lands remain with the Federal government unless their sale is in the national interest. The Act specifies that such land be used for purposes that benefit all Americans, such as recreation, livestock grazing, mining and wildlife habitat.

Sales of public lands by the Bureau of Land Management are limited to relatively small tracts of land for which there are no anticipated Federal or local public needs. Almost all of this land is located in Alaska, Arizona, California, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon, Utah and Wyoming.

The land that is sold is sold by public auction through competitive oral and/or sealed bidding at the state offices of the BLM. The land is appraised by the government at fair market value by comparing it to current selling prices of comparable private land in the same area, and the appraised price becomes the floor for any bidding.

For more detailed information, write to your state BLM office or to the U.S. Department of the Interior, Bureau of Land Management, Washington, D.C. 20240

Can You Name These Boxers?

Do you recognize Gene Tunney in one of these photos? Or Harry Greb, who fought Tunney in 1922?

One of these photos shows Jim Jeffries, who fought Tom Sharkey in 1899.

Joe Louis, who is in two of these photos, defeated Jorge Brescia in 1936 and Red Burman in 1941. Can you tell Burman from Brescia?

Jim Jacobs, who collects and preserves old fight films, wants to buy motion pictures of the Greb-Tunney bout, the fight between Jim Jeffries and Tom Sharkey, and the matches in which Louis walloped Red Burman and Jorge Brescia.

The collector of fight films is so eager to purchase these movies that he offers to give a great price and to give the owner back the old film plus a new film made from it plus a tape that can be played on a home video tape recorder.

Jim Jacobs is at 9 East 40th Street, New York, N.Y. 10016.

CAGNEY & LACEY

Loretta Swit stars in "Cagney & Lacey," a special movie presentation about two women police officers who, while dealing with on-the-job sexism, outdistance their male peers by cracking a tough murder case, to be broadcast THURSDAY, OCTOBER 8 on CBS-TV.

Miss Swit portrays Chris Cagney, a single, free-wheeling policewoman, who has a low tolerance for the sexist attitude at the stationhouse. Tyne Daly portrays Mary Beth Lacey, wife, mother and breadwinner, who juggles a career and family. In spite of their different personalities, the women are good friends.

When they are promoted into plain-clothes work, they skirt the usual police procedures to prove they can do more than "john" detail.

PHS Band Wins Awards At W. Va. Competition

The Prestonsburg High School Band attended the South West Virginia Invitational Marching Band Competition last Saturday in Barboursville, W. Va. where 25 bands, divided into three divisions, participated.

Bands were from Southeastern Ohio, Eastern Kentucky and many sections of West Virginia. Facing tough competition, the Prestonsburg group brought home two awards. The flag corps came in first in their division and the majorettes, under the sponsorship of Mrs. James D. Adams, placed third in their division.

The band will leave early Saturday morning to attend another competition in Ashland.

The PHS band is under the direction of Wally Ratliff.

Woman's World

Women On The Way Up

While they're not earning as much as their male counterparts, their numbers are definitely growing. Women are making their way up the corporate ladder.

The advances are not limited to service organizations (where, historically, women have always fared better). Things are changing in male entrenched industries like Bethlehem Steel, Equitable Life and Du Pont, among others, where top management has put out the word to hire women.

In fact, a recent study of women executives by Heidrick and Struggles, a large international executive search firm, found that industrial companies with sales of over $2 billion currently employed the greatest number of women officers—more than either smaller industrial or non-industrial firms.

There are several important factors contributing to this growing phenomenon.

Education. Women currently account for one out of every five M.B.A. candidates in the country. At top American universities, the number is higher. At M.I.T., for example, women comprised 28 percent of last year's (M.B.A.) graduating class. Yale University reported that 38 percent of its most recent incoming M.B.A. candidates were female.

Growing work force. More than three-fifths of all women in this country between the ages of 20 and 64 now hold jobs. This has had a tremendous impact on the country's economy. In fact, it has even changed how the country's economists define unemployment.

Because of the number of women now in the work force, many economists now define full employment at a 5.5 percent unemployment rate, up from the old measure of 4 percent. The higher level of joblessness is tolerated today in part because so many people are at work. Economists reason that if one family member loses a job, there is a better than 50 percent chance that another family member is bringing home a paycheck and is able to take up the slack.

A second income also means that a family's spending power won't dissolve with one partner out of work (although it's harder to carry the family on mom's salary because she still earns less than the average man). Bouyed spending power keeps the economy moving so future recessions will be milder than they otherwise might have been.

And this is only the "predictable" beginning. It's much too soon to tell what other changes will result from women making their way into the workforce.

What's Happening to the ERA?

Time is running out.

Battle weary proponents of the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) have little more than a year left of the three year extension period granted them by Congress. To get the 27th Amendment voted into law, three more states must ratify it.

The ERA has been introduced in Congress every year since 1923. It came close to receiving serious consideration several times, but it was not until 1972 that Congress finally decided to pass the ERA along to each of the 50 states for a vote. By the end of 1978, it became apparent that the necessary number of ratifications would not take place before the initial (1979) deadline expired. In an unprecedented move, Congress extended the deadline for the amendment's acceptance to June 30, 1982.

Holding up general acceptance of the measure is confusion about what effects the ERA will have on day to day life. Many people believe, for example, that the ERA is a mandate for things like shared public rest rooms. (It isn't. Nor does it affect abortion laws.) The fact is, ERA makes no laws. It only assures that men and women will be treated equally under those laws which are already on the books.

Those states who have yet to ratify are Nevada, Utah, Arizona, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Illinois, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Florida, Alabama, Louisiana and Mississippi.

For more information write Common Cause, ERA Desk, 2030 M St., Washington, D.C. 20036.
