

County To Be Asked For Cliff Road Help

The county will be asked again to help come up with the money needed to acquire right-of-way for the Cliff road.

Alternately, land owned by the city at Cliff might be sold to a group of Prestonsburg businessmen to raise the needed money.

These were among the proposals coming out of a meeting Tuesday of the parties immediately involved in the $1.25 million road project, including city, county, and state officials and representatives of the Prestonsburg Industrial Corporation and the Church Housing Association.

County Attorney Arnold Turner, Jr. and District 1 Magistrate Gerald DeRossett said they would ask the fiscal court to pledge as much as $30,000 to the project, Turner acknowledging that "the city (of Prestonsburg) has been carrying the load alone."

(The county entered an agreement in October, 1977, to help with acquisition of right-of-way for the road but later reneged on the deal—on the advice of County Attorney Turner—since it was unclear how much the acquisition would cost and, in any event, the county had budgeted no money for it.)

Representing the Prestonsburg Industrial Corporation—a group of businessmen with plans for an industrial park there—Burl Wells Spurlock said the group might be willing to buy a city-owned tract which lies adjacent to that owned by the corporation.

Under his proposal the corporation would grant access to the highway across its new property as it has done across its existing property, Spurlock said. Proceeds from the sale could then be used by the city to acquire the remaining right of way, across the Sam George property.

The city-owned property—about 111 hillside acres intended for 40-46 single-family homes—was purchased with federal funds, however, and would have to be used for the benefit of low-to-moderate-income persons, it was said.

Named to Liquor Post Here

With over 100 applications for beer or liquor licenses already in preparation in this county, Prestonsburg attorney Phil Damron—shown here being sworn in as Alcoholic Beverage Control Administrator by Judge-Executive Jerry Lafferty, Jr.—will apparently have his work cut out for him. He will be responsible for seeing that license applicants fill out the application forms properly and meet the basic requirements of a licensee—namely, that they be at least 21, be a resident of Kentucky, and not have been convicted of an alcohol-related offense in the past two years.

Lafferty Cites Loss of Funds, Old Debts Due

No county roads will be paved this fiscal year—that is, before July 1, 1983—Judge-Executive Jerry Lafferty, Jr. told members of the fiscal court audience Friday.

Lafferty said that some patching would be done—the court authorized bids for 500 tons of blacktop for each magisterial district for that purpose—but that the county could not afford more extensive roadwork.

Citizens had earlier complained of bad road conditions on Buffalo Creek, Cow Creek, Corn Fork and Stratton Branch and on Pinhook, at Harold.

Although some $890,000 was budgeted for roads this year, the coal slump has caused a reduction in severance tax receipts (down from $54,000 to $38,000 a month), federal revenue-sharing money is tight, and some of this year's money is needed to retire last year's debts, Lafferty said.

As if to illustrate the point, the court authorized payment of $70,893 to Brandeis Machinery for a grader bought last December by the previous fiscal court.

Despite a recommendation by the state Finance Department that counties hold five percent of their budget in reserve against unforeseen expenses, Floyd has nothing in reserve, Treasurer David D. Allen acknowledges. Nor does the fiscal court increase property tax revenues by the four percent annually which the law permits and state finance authorities recommend.

Knott Operator First Arrested Under New Law

The first raid on an illegal strip-mine site under the new law which became effective only last Thursday was made in Knott county Monday, and state and federal agents confiscated $350,000 worth of mining equipment.

A felony warrant was issued for the arrest of Carl Maxie, 42, of Solomon, Letcher county, owner of the equipment, according to Doug Shoulders, officer in charge of the special investigations branch of the state Bureau of Natural Resources. Special investigators from the U.S. Office of Surface Mining and state police also took part in the raid.

The crackdown under the new law is not expected to affect Floyd county mining operations. Willard Stanley, chief of the state Department of Mines and Minerals, was quoted as saying recently that he knew the locations of all illegal operations and that none is in this or Pike counties.

Equipment seized at the Knott county mine site, near Amburgey, included a bulldozer valued at $200,000 and a $140,000 frontloader.

In all, three sites were visited by investigators. The search continues.

DOG DAZE

It is pleasant to record that, at a time when PLO, the threat of atomic warfare, a recession and other weighty matters concern most of the world, some of us take time to argue about when Dog Days begin and end.

An innocent reference in this column last week to the season may have precipitated the discussion of this weighty matter that has been heard here this week. Since then, we've ducked sessions on the subject at the postoffice and a nearby street corner. And now Ermine Hall leaves a note to say that Dog Days begin either next Sunday or Monday and run the full 40 days till Sept. 5.

If I had my copy of the Old Farmers Almanac, I might have something authoritative to add, but it disappeared when a cleanup effort was made on my desk—further proof that you never know when you'll need some of that clutter and should never throw anything away—and now all I can offer is an excerpt from an encyclopedia that reads like the writer wasn't too exercised about the matter. Says the encyc.

"The ancient Greeks originated the name, 'dog days.' They applied it to the period when the dog star, Sirius, rose (See Story No. 6, Page 4)

$500,000 Bond Asked For Release of Hall

Following an examining trial Thursday, Price Hall, the man accused of slaying Ed Ray "Panhandle" Moore and wounding Moore's two sons in a bloody fray at McDowell June 14, was bound over to the grand jury and his bond set at $500,000.

According to the story pieced together from witness accounts by State Detective Keith Scott, Hall shot repeatedly from his pickup truck at a pickup occupied by the Moores and parked 100 to 150 feet away.

Hall, about 40, and the elder Moore, 53, reportedly had argued earlier and separated, Moore returning home and fetching his two sons, James, 28, and Ricky, 21. When the Moores pulled up in sight of Hall on McDowell's cemetery road, Hall allegedly opened fire on them with a .30 caliber carbine, and the Moores attempted to flee.

Even after the older Moore was struck by gunfire and fell, Det. Scott testified at the hearing, his assailant continued to fire, reloading and switching weapons, now to a .270 caliber high-powered rifle, now to a .12 gauge shotgun.

While the autopsy report was not available at the hearing, Scott said Moore died of multiple gunshot wounds, including five to seven in the head. Judging from the number of spent casings found at the scene, Hall's carbine had been fired no fewer than 34 times, while four shots were fired from the high-powered rifle and three from the shotgun, Scott testified. Several hundred rounds of ammunition were found in Hall's truck, it was said.

Moore's truck was riddled with 22 bullet holes, according to the police officer. No weapons were found on any of the Moores, he said.

According to some witnesses, Scott said, Hall was heard, after firing his last shot at the elder Moore and then pursuing and shooting Ricky Moore, to ask, "Are there any more?"

Hall himself said only, "They were coming at me and I got them first," Scott reported.

Hall's attorney, Public Defender Ned Piliersdorf, said this week it was clear the Moores intended to kill Price.

"This case is totally defensible," he said, adding that he "would not be surprised" if his client is found not guilty.

Hall has been charged with murder in the death of the elder Hall, assault in the wounding of his sons, and wanton endangerment for allegedly shooting into a nearby dwelling. County Attorney Arnold Turner, Jr. will seek indictments against him before the grand jury which next meets the first week in September.

Church Suffers Loss To Thieves But Gains Member During Probe

While a state police officer investigated its loss of between $4000 and $5000 worth of church equipment that was stolen sometime last Thursday the Free Will Baptist Church at Water Gap gained a member.

The officer, Terry Sizemore, was taking fingerprints at the church Friday evening, and members of the church had gathered to clean up whatever disorder remained after the break-in, when a passing woman-motorist stopped to announce that she was en route to Florida and wanted to be baptized.

The pastor, the Rev. Danny Curry, was away on vacation, and the Rev. Jack DeRossett, of Prestonsburg, was called to conduct the service.

"The devil has been at work here, but the Lord also is at work," a member of the congregation commented.

The church was entered by a rear door whose lock was broken. Stolen were the intercom and public address systems, including six microphones.

Identity of the thieves is still being sought.

Hiring of Dog Warden Focus of Controversy

In decades past, news of the hiring of a dog warden would have been considered hardly worthy of comment. Those who held the title were not really expected to do that much and often residents who needed the warden's services found it near impossible to contact him.

Somewhere along the line things changed, to some extent at least, and as many in the county became weary of the sight of malnourished and diseased dogs and cats along the roadsides the duties of warden took on new significance.

With the establishment of a county humane society and later the building of an animal shelter about five years ago, it became realistic, for the first time, to think of effectively carrying out the duties of dog warden.

Those hired as managers of the animal shelter, near here, served as dog wardens, and although chronic budget problems made their effectiveness inconsistent, at least some animals were being picked up, and medically treated, either to be given away or "put to sleep" after a specified time.

For the past six months Floyd county has been without an official dog warden, until recent weeks, that is, when the fiscal court approved the hiring of James H. Lafferty, of Prestonsburg.

News of the hiring of Lafferty, brother of County Judge-Executive Jerry Lafferty, Jr., has not been welcomed by some, especially members of the Floyd County Humane Society who have faced dwindling financial help from both the county and city of Prestonsburg.

Perhaps most surprised by the dog warden appointment was Paul Burke, Prestonsburg fireman who has served as manager of the animal shelter for the past six months.

Burke admits that he expected the dog warden's post all along. With a monthly salary through the humane society of $150 a month, the additional $300 per month county dog warden's salary would have made his efforts worthwhile.

Over the past six months, Burke pointed out, "I've sold their dog tags, taken their complaint calls, and I've even gone out on several calls. That's the dog warden's job. I really didn't have the authority."

Burke's application for the post was submitted at the first of the year, as soon as he began work at the shelter, and he said, one member of the fiscal court had assured him he was the logical choice for the job.

"I'm familiar with the shelter facilities, the necessary medical treatment for the animals—and I actually was looking forward to the job," Burke

Martin Housing Has First Option on Site At Stephens Branch

The Martin Housing Authority will get first option to purchase state property at the mouth of Stephens Branch, it was learned this week.

The decision by state Transportation Department officials to offer the 21.49 acre tract to the housing agency for $114,463 means that the agency will be able to proceed with plans to build from 60 to 100 low-income housing units on the site, Director Helen Ison said.

Some $2.7 million in HUD funds has been committed to the project, which originally called for construction of 100 one-, two-, and three-bedroom units. Inflation may mean that fewer units will be built, it was said.

The housing site was created by fill associated with construction of new KY 80.

New Law in Effect...

Up Go District Court Costs

If you are convicted of a traffic offense, your court costs may well exceed any fine that is levied. If you are lodged overnight in the county jail, you will no longer receive a credit against your fine but will be required to pay for your night's accommodation. And if you want to swear out a warrant it will cost you money.

These are among the changes in district court costs which went into effect here last Thursday as a result of laws enacted by the state legislature earlier this year.

Under the new law:

—A "pre-payable" violation, like a speeding ticket, will carry court costs of $32; for a court appearance, the cost will be $37. (Costs were formerly $25.50 in both instances.)

—Drivers who are required to attend the state traffic school or alcoholic driver education program will pay the $37 court cost as well as a $25 school enrollment fee. (These drivers used to pay the enrollment fee only.)

—A person held in jail pending a charge will pay $10 per night. (Previously, a $5 credit was given for a night spent in jail. The new law authorized fiscal courts to charge from $7.50 to $10 for the accommodation. Floyd fiscal court voted last week to charge the maximum.)

—Anyone sentenced to jail or placed on probation will pay a $10 fee to the Crime Victims Compensation Fund.

—In addition, a $10 fee will be due to the sheriff's department or city police department if officers from either department make the arrest.

A first offender arrested by a sheriff's deputy for drunk driving, lodged even for a few hours in the county jail, and sent to ADE school can expect to pay at least $192—the minimum fine of $110, a $37 court appearance fee, a $25 school fee, $10 for time spent in jail, and $10 to the sheriff's department. If placed on probation, add $10 for the crime victims' fund.

Someone arrested for drunkenness and fined the minimum $10 may easily pay an additional $67 in court costs.

A speeding driver fined the $12 minimum and mailing his payment to the court will be liable for $44. If he is sent to state traffic school, his costs could run to $72.

Fraud Warning Sounded After 4 Said Cheated

Homeowners are being warned against the possibility of their being defrauded by a fly-by-night asphalt operation which had cost Pike counties at least $6000 and one Floyd county a lesser sum.

The "ripoffs" came on contracts to blacktop driveways and other areas around homes or businesses. The Floyd county case was similar to those in Pike.

Adult children of an elderly Toler Creek couple came here recently and procured a warrant for the operator, alleging theft by deception, after their parents had paid what they considered an inordinately high price for surfacing work. They told Assistant County Attorney Eric Hall the men drove to their parents' home, told them they had been on a blacktopping job, had some asphalt left over and would do their work at a cheap price.

It wasn't cheap, the old couple was cheated, their children said. (Name of the defendant is not available, since the warrant apparently has not been executed and returned for filing, and Mr. Hall is unable to recall the name.)

In Pike county the name of Dave Dunn was mentioned as the man contracting with homeowners to do this work. One "victim," Lawrence Hess, 78, paid $2600 cash; another, Howard Johnson, paid by $2700 check. Elster Ratliff paid $900 for pothole patching.

In Pike county state police have been investigating reported cases. Nobody has been arrested, however.

Johnson Woman Loses Fight Against Return To Area from Idaho

Lynn Marie Holbrook, 28-year-old Johnson county woman, last week lost her fight against extradition from Idaho to stand trial in the Martin county circuit court for the alleged murder of her husband, William Holbrook, who was a Paintsville policeman at the time of his death.

Mrs. Holbrook, who was represented by Prestonsburg attorney Gary E. Johnson, had claimed she feared she would be killed if returned to Johnson county. After the death of her husband—allegedly by poisoning—she was shot during an altercation with her mother-in-law. She went to the home of her parents in Onaway, Idaho upon leaving the hospital where she was treated.

Last week, a Johnson county deputy sheriff was en route to Paintsville with Mrs. Holbrook after an Idaho Judge had approved her extradition but when he reached Pocatello, Idaho officers

Environment Will Be Classroom Subject

A 25-member Advisory Council for Environmental Education has been selected to guide the environmental instruction in Kentucky schools.

Appointed by Superintendent of Public Instruction Raymond Barber, the group is to promote environmental awareness and help carry out the Department of Education's environmental education program.

The membership of the advisory council consists of representatives from various levels of education, government agencies, industry, and citizen groups involved with environmental education activities.

According to Nancy Theiss with the Department of Education, state law mandates that instruction in all phases of environment be included in the curriculum for grades K-12. The new advisory council will decide how that could be accomplished by using "Guidelines for Environmental Education: the Kentucky Plan" approved by the state Board of Education in January.

WHAT SHOULD A CHILD BE TOLD ABOUT DEATH?

Do you explain Grandpa's death with a fairy tale? Do you say, that God "called him away?" Or do you answer truthfully, and simply, so that the child may relate his grandfather's death to familiar things; flowers, for example, which live, grow, wither and finally die?

We believe the flower example can be understood by the child because it relates to things he's seen and can grasp. "Flowers," you may explain, "don't live a long time but we like them while we have them. Grandpa lived a long time and you and he had many good times together. But, like the flowers, he too, died. We will remember him with love, won't we?"

The child needs to understand that what has happened is a natural course of events—like the seasons and the rising and setting of the sun. He comes closer to his family through such honest involvement, maturing as he finds his own sadness is shared and understood.

Your questions and comments on this and other subjects are welcome—in private or publicly through this column.

Propose Stiffer Penalties For Food Stamp Abuses

Food stamp abusers will get stiffer disqualification penalties under a proposal announced by Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Mary C. Jarratt.

Under the proposal, people found guilty of intentional misrepresentation or fraud will be disqualified from the food stamp program for six months for the first offense, 12 months for the second and permanently if found guilty of a third offense. These penalties would apply to all individuals regardless of whether they are determined guilty at state or local administrative disqualification hearings or in courts of law.

Currently, persons found guilty of fraud at administrative hearings are disqualified for three months, while those found guilty by courts are disqualified for six to 24 months for food stamp abuses.

In the past, states have been reluctant to conduct administrative fraud hearings because they viewed findings of fraud to be under the jurisdiction of the legal system.

The proposal would add the intentional making of false or misleading statements to the offenses for which a person can be disqualified from the food stamp program. Then, states will not have to prove fraud per se, but only intentional misrepresentation by the household. Persons would be disqualified for violations of any state food stamp statute under the proposal announced recently.

"This is one of the many measures we're taking to improve the integrity of the food stamp program and eliminate fraud, waste and abuse," said Jarratt. "These rules should encourage states to actively pursue persons abusing the program by handling more cases of suspected fraud administratively."

The proposal would also change the way states recover overpayments. If a household receives more benefits than it is entitled to as a result of intentional misrepresentation, recovery would be the same as for a fraudulent over-issuance.

Under current procedures, only the disqualified individual is responsible for repaying fraudulent overissuances. With the proposal, the household would be responsible for repaying the over-issuance by agreeing to a reduction in its allotment or making the repayment in cash.

The state agency would also reduce a household's future allotments to collect overpayments due to inadvertent errors by the recipient. These reductions would be limited to 10 percent of the household's allotment or $10 a month, whichever results in faster collection.

In addition, state agencies would be able to turn any claim over to a professional collection agency or take the household to court if it fails to respond to the agency's letter demanding repayment.

Comments on this proposed rule will be accepted until Aug. 20 and will be considered in developing final rules. Send comments to: Thomas O'Connor, family nutrition programs, Food and Nutrition Service, USDA, Alexandria, Va. 22302.

Redistricting—Or One District?

The redistricting of county magisterial districts on the basis of the new federal census, and to conform with the Supreme Court's "one-man, one-vote" mandate, must begin by September, this year, according to state law.

Floyd county's four districts are all out of proportion. District 2, for example, has a population of only 7,508, while District 1 has 17,318, with Districts 3 and 4 in the median range of 11,709 and 12,129, respectively. So it is obvious that a rearrangement of district boundary lines is necessary as a matter of fair representation, not to mention demands of the law.

As important as this is, there is another readjustment that should be made. In the past, gravel and blacktop have been divided equally among the four districts, without regard to the miles of road each district has to receive these surfacing materials. While the fiscal court is about the task of equalizing district populations, it should look into the matter of allocating gravel and blacktop according to the number of miles of road to be improved.

Speaking of redistricting, there is a growing feeling that districts are not needed and that magistrates or commissioners should be elected, countywide. Neighboring Johnson county has for several years had commissioners rather than magistrates, and they are elected, at large.

was the possibility voiced by some that the state Transportation Department, which is committed to construct the road, might withdraw from the project if it is further delayed, or at least that construction, which even now is not scheduled until 1984, might be put off even longer.

The city's credibility with the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development is also at stake, it was noted, since that agency financed construction of a 94-unit housing complex at Cliff on the understanding that the new road would be built to serve it.

About $169,000 has already been spent on the project—almost half of it, some $83,000, in engineering fees—and perhaps $100,000 is yet needed to complete the preparatory work, it is estimated.

The commissioners' original $35,000 estimate of the value of the George property—a somewhat larger tract was subsequently condemned—is on escrow deposit, and some city council members appear confident they can come up with a like amount from city funds—leaving some $30,000 yet to be unearthed.

To offset the expense of supervising a person on probation, the district judge may levy a fee of $100-$200 on misdemeanants, $500-$2500 on felons.

The new law also gives the court authority to order a defendant to make restitution (either in money or unpaid labor) to his victim as a condition of probation. The law on that point was previously unclear.

A judge, trial commissioner, or other officer issuing a warrant of arrest may require the prosecuting witness to post a $25 bond to secure his or her appearance in court—this in addition to a $2 bond filing fee and $10 to have the warrant served by the sheriff. District Judge Harold Stumbo has already entered an order requiring the appearance bond here.

This provision, which is designed to discourage the practice of swearing out a warrant and not following it up in court, raises the question, County Attorney Arnold Turner, Jr. has noted, of whether some may be denied a traditional access to the law through inability to pay.

claimed the prisoner because Supreme Court Justice Donaldson had issued a temporary order cancelling extradition. Later, three of the court's five justices dissolved the order, and the prisoner again was ready to return to Kentucky.

Mrs. Holbrook was returned to the state last Friday and is now undergoing psychiatric tests in a state hospital as a prelude to her trial in the Martin circuit court.

Concerned Citizens

Apathy or action—that is the question. Will you do your part, or sit back and count on others? Webster defines apathy as "lack of feelings, indifference." Action means "the bringing out of." We desire to make our community and county a better place to live.

Dante once said, "The hottest places in Hell are reserved for those who, in a time of great moral crisis, maintain their neutrality."

For this reason a group of citizens, including many area ministers, have formed an organization aimed at monitoring and taking measures where known infractions of moral issues exist. This group will be known as the Concerned Citizens of Floyd County.

This group has adopted five major goals: (1) Unity of the body of Christ, by conducting spiritual meetings in area churches; (2) Supporting our elected officials and law-enforcement officers; (3) To build an awareness of the letter of the law (especially pornography in literature and movies, sale of alcohol and conditions resulting from it such as drunk driving, etc.); (4) Investigate school curriculum; (5) Illegal garbage dumping.

We recognize God as our source of strength and the greatest weapon of all. We therefore call for all Concerned Citizens of Floyd County to come and take a stand.

Our meetings will be the fourth Monday night of each month at 7 p.m. at the Riverview Manor Nursing Home. Please mark it on your calendar.

For further information contact Roy Tincher, chairman, John Woods, treasurer, Mrs. Eleanor Robinson, corresponding secretary, or one of the public relations committee: T.L. Biggs, Ted Nicholas or Wade Martin Hughes.

Ezekiel 22:30: And I sought for a man among them, that should make up the hedge, and stand in the gap before me for the land, that I should not destroy it: but I found none.

Let us pray this verse can never apply to Floyd County. See you July 26, at 7 p.m. at Riverview Manor.

said. "But then they hire someone else and give him the phone number at the shelter."

Humane society members object that at a time when the county has cut its help to the shelter in half—from $6,000 a year to $3,000—the loss of $3,600 in salary to a dog warden with no connection to the shelter indicates further lack of support for the facility which, according to state law, must be maintained by the county.

Long-time humane society member John Burke, Jr. said the dog warden's salary, part of which went to the shelter since the county was utilizing the facility, "helped the shelter manager stay alive."

Without the extra money in the form of the dog warden's salary, Burke said, "it would be tough for any shelter manager to stick with the job." Although the new warden could not be contacted, Tuesday afternoon, County Judge-Executive Lafferty, who said he was not aware that Burke was interested in the job, pointed out that he "always understood the dog warden's job and the shelter to be two different things."

He vowed that the new warden would be "an active dog warden" and will respond to residents' calls. Lafferty also stressed that the county would keep the animal shelter open, "whether there (at the existing site) or somewhere else."

Enforcement Held Key To Fewer July 4 Deaths

Six people died on Kentucky highways during the three-day Fourth of July weekend, a holiday which usually results in a traffic death toll in the teens, said Commissioner Marion D. Campbell of the Kentucky State Police.

There were 18 killed in 1981 and 16 killed in 1980 during the three-day holiday.

Overall, the state's highway death toll has been lower this year than in 1981, said Commissioner Campbell. As of July 1, there were 363 deaths compared to 398 by July 1, 1981.

While no studies have been done to determine exactly why traffic fatalities are down this year, the state police feel increased enforcement must be a major contributor to the lower death rate, said Campbell.

During the Fourth of July weekend, troopers made 303 drunk-driving arrests, said Commissioner Campbell.

This enforcement effort is not just a seasonal, holiday activity, Campbell noted. The state police air and ground patrols are out every day.

Kentucky state troopers have been working overtime to enforce the 55 mph speed limit and to enforce drunk-driving laws. Money for overtime payments to the troopers comes from federal funds administered by the state police's highway safety standards section.

In addition, several city police departments have received money through state police-administered grants for Selective Traffic Enforcement Programs. Cities receiving STEP grants were pinpointed as high-accident areas by a traffic study done by the University of Kentucky.

These special enforcement efforts and routine monitoring of Kentucky highways are aimed at eliminating the twin causes of many highway deaths: speed and drunk-driving, said Campbell.

The state police are also trying to heighten public awareness concerning what individuals can do to increase their chances of surviving an accident, said Commissioner Campbell. For instance, the state police are encouraging use of seat belts and child restraint systems.

with the sun, a period of about 40 days beginning in early July and ending near mid-August."

Oh, well... I am willing to try to live with the season, whenever it comes or ends, as long as some wise guy doesn't get it boiled down to a national holiday and they make it on Monday for one of those accursed long week-ends.

ENGLISH, AS SPOKE OR WRIT

Has the expression, "early on," that appears to be the mark of a "man of distinction," these days, irked you and you've wondered, as I have, how come? Now I learn that its users justify it by pointing out it is as correct as to say, "later on."

There was a time when those who dealt with words referred to a specific date or time by such expressions as "at this juncture," "at that moment," and so on. But then came along President Nixon and his "at this point in time."

Now, if somebody will explain how and why this "you know" got into the picture, especially during television interviews, I'll be obliged but not satisfied. After that, if there's time, they may want to explain why the redundancy of "each and every" and the blithering ignorance of "between you and I."

THE BURNING QUESTION

The courthouse had its own mystery this week. Sometime between last Friday evening and Monday morning, somebody (or bodies) did enter upon and into the law library of the Floyd County Bar Association, on the second floor of said courthouse, and make away with 12 chairs.

Now, this was no ordinary burglary. Whoever took the chairs left in their stead a like number of chairs which may be cleaned up and made as usable as the original dozen.

The commonwealth detective's office is next door to the library, the circuit judge's office is just around the hallway corner on the same floor, the courtroom itself and the circuit clerk's office are on the same floor. But all were closed.

The case gets curiouser and curiouser. How could anybody load up 12 chairs, carry them downstairs and leave with them—and nobody see or hear or be the wiser till the library was opened Monday?

The Bar Association got "burned" in the exchange of chairs, and some of its members, we hear, are "burned up" about the whole "transaction."

Miss Combs, Mr. Prater Wed

Miss Carolyn Samantha Combs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry M. Combs, of Garrett, was united in marriage to Mr. Jonathan Wade Prater, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dockie Prater, of Eastern, on June 4, at 6:00 p.m. at the Missionary Baptist Church in Garrett.

Reverend Mabry Holbrook performed the double-ring candlelight ceremony.

The sanctuary was decorated with arched brass candelabra holding lavender and white silk mums and dark purple candles.

Nuptial music was played by Mr. Barry Lind Combs, brother of the bride. Selections included "Bridal Chorus," "Wedding March," "We've Got Tonight," "Lady," "Evergreen," "Through The Years," and "Here I Am."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a traditional floor-length gown of sheerest white chiffon with a high Victorian neckline. Chantilly lace encrusted with sequins and seed pearls formed the front of the neckline. A chantilly lace ruffle hugged the shoulders and encircled the full sleeves. The same lace petaled the back in a yoke effect. The bodice was adorned with a satin bow. The full chiffon skirt with a chapel train was encircled with three layers of chantilly lace.

The Juliet veil with matching lace was adorned with seed pearls and sequins and satin bows on each side. Miniature satin bows covered the entire finger tip length veil.

The bride carried a long cascade of lavender roses accented with sweet peas, and baby's breath draped over the edge with matching lace and ribbon streamers.

All attendants were attired in floor-length gowns of orchid jersey, fashioned with high victorian neck lines.

Mrs. Shirlene Combs, sister-in-law of the bride, of Garrett was matron of honor. She carried a small replica of the bride's bouquet.

The bridesmaids, Kathy Conn and Pamela Prater, carried cream-colored silk roses with plum ribbon and lavender net.

Mr. Shannon Prater, brother of the groom, of Eastern was best man.

The groomsmen were Larry Edward Francis and Paul David Francis, both of Garrett.

The flower girls were Jerri Nicole Combs and Emily Rachelle Combs, nieces of the bride. They wore flower-length dresses and carried a white wicker basket filled with lavender rose petals.

Barry Lind II, of Garrett, nephew of the bride, was ringbearer.

Mrs. Linda Rose Combs of Garrett, sister-in-law of the bride, served at the guest register.

Following the ceremony the reception was at the home of the bride, where a beautifully decorated wedding cake in lavender and white, made by Judy Cochran, of Paintsville was served along with other foods. Assisting at the reception were Mesdames Earlene Hylton, Minnie Boleyn, Muriel Francis, and Myreda Snyder.

For their honeymoon, the couple spent several days enroute to Albuquerque, New Mexico, where the groom is now stationed at Kirtland Air Force Base. The bride is now attending Mile Hi University.

REPUBLICAN WOMEN MEET

The Floyd County Republican Woman's Club met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Bierman, at East Point, last Thursday evening, with the president, Mrs. Duna Combs, presiding. The meeting was opened with the Pledge of Allegiance. The new by-laws were submitted by the club's president, Mrs. Combs. Mrs. Bierman gave a report on the Republican district convention which she attended last month at the Carriage House in Paintsville, and introduced Mrs. Mary May, district governor, from Paintsville, who spoke on topics of interest to the Republican party. Mrs. Richmond said that Carl Perkins, Congressman from this district, would have as his opponent in the upcoming election, Mr. Tom Harnby, editor of the Flemingsburg newspaper, The Democrat, and urged that members of the club work on his behalf. The possibility of getting Mr. Harnby as a speaker for a meeting soon was discussed. Also discussed was the September Republican Woman's Club convention, and the possibility of entering a page in this event. It was decided that the name of the late Mrs. Stanley (Jane) Combs, who was an active member of the club, be submitted to the chairman of Memorial Services for Republican Women. The president presented a list of several activities in which the club might participate. It was decided that the next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Duna Combs, at Maytown, Aug. 17, at 7:30 p.m. Handmade doorprizes were awarded after which refreshments were served by Mrs. Eva Collins to Mrs. Duna Combs and her daughter, Miss Andrea Combs, of Langley, their houseguest, Miss Nicole Verich, of Laona, Wisc.; Mrs. Mary Richmond, Mrs. Rebecca Blair and Mrs. Joan E. Piercey, Paintsville; Mrs. Margaret Collins and Mrs. Docia Woods, Prestonsburg, and the host and hostesses, Mr. and Mrs. Bierman.

VISIT GRANDPARENTS

Suzanne and Michael Donahoe, II, of Flatwoods, spent three weeks here recently with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. James Donahoe and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Miller.

THURSDAY MEETING SET

The Jenny Wiley Festival group of Floyd county will hold its regular meeting at the Municipal Building here tomorrow (Thursday) afternoon at 4 o'clock. Mrs. E. L. Bierman, chairman, urges all board chairmen, members and interested citizens to attend the meeting. The speaker will be James O. Vanhoose, chairman of the Johnson County Apple Festival, Paintsville.

Engagement Announced

Mrs. Glennis Lafferty Thompson and Delmar L. Thompson, both of Sebring, Florida, announce the engagement of their daughter, Sharon Lee, to Donald Everett Polston, of Fort Stewart, Georgia. Mr. Polston is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Polston, of Sebring, Florida.

The bride-elect is a senior at Sebring High School, and Mr. Polston is a 1980 graduate of Sebring High School and is a military police officer in the U.S. Army at Fort Stewart.

Miss Thompson is the granddaughter of Mr. Jesse Lafferty, and the late Zelda Lafferty, of Arkansas Creek, and Mrs. Josephine Thompson, and the late Ballard Thompson, of Martin.

Floyd Added To U.S. 'Labor Surplus' List

The U.S. Department of Labor has added 62 Kentucky cities and counties including Floyd to its list of "labor surplus areas" because of high unemployment. Human Resources Secretary Grady Stumbo announced today.

Previously, only Covington, Louisville and the balance of Jefferson county were designated as labor surplus areas.

By having been designated as a labor surplus area, industries and businesses within these areas are eligible for preference in obtaining federal procurement contracts.

The aim of the U.S. Labor Department is to put a portion of the government's procurement dollars into areas where people are in the most economic need, said Ed Blackwell, Human Resources' chief labor market analyst.

To be included on the current list of labor surplus areas, counties' and cities' average unemployment rate must have been at least 20 percent higher than the national average jobless rate for the two previous years, said Blackwell. All of the 62 Kentucky areas experienced jobless rates of at least 9 percent during that period, he said. The national average for the two years was 7.5 percent.

The period which the areas will carry the labor surplus designation is July 1, 1982 through May 31, 1983.

Inquiries about the labor surplus area classifications should be directed to the U.S. Department of Labor's Employment and Training Administration (TPPL), Room 9304, 601 D. Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20213. The telephone number is (202) 376-6263.

ARH May Replace Old Hazard Facility

Robert L. Johnson, President of Appalachian Regional Hospitals, announced this week the issuance of a certificate of need to replace its present Hazard hospital with a 200-bed regional medical center to be built just outside Hazard.

The center, which could cost approximately $40,000,000, is viewed by Appalachian Regional Hospitals as "an investment in the future of the Kentucky River area." It is planned to provide in excess of 70 new jobs, as well as a number of patient services not presently available in the region. By providing such specialized treatment and latest state-of-the-art technology, ARH says it hopes to enable the people of this area to get the care they need at home.

A Whopper of a Cabbage

This is the time of year when the rewards of all those hot days in the garden, hoein' and weedin', plowin' and pullin', start to show up. George and Mary Jane Brown stopped by the other day with a cabbage specimen, which they grew in their small but productive garden by The Times office, that would make any farmer proud. George is pictured here with the big vegetable.

Seek $3.4 Mill. In Jacobs' Suit

To Open Practice

Don Jacobs Ford, Lincoln, Mercury, Inc., which suspended business recently at its location of the Bull Creek road, near here, has sued the Ford Motor Company and the Ford Credit Company for $3,475,090.70, plus amounts "not yet determined" and storage claims, with interest.

Biggest single claim made in the 10-count suit, prepared by the Prestonsburg law firm of Francis, Kazee and Francis, asks $1,500,000 because, it is alleged, Ford Credit Company caused Jacobs to terminate his contractual relationship with Ford Motor Company, thus becoming barred from selling any Ford vehicles of a Ford dealership.

Claiming that the cancellation of sales and service agreements with Ford Motor Co. was a "proximate result" of acts of Ford Credit, plaintiff sues for an additional $300,000. Jacobs claims that under terms of the agreement Ford was obligated to purchase each undamaged, unused and unsold vehicle of a then-current model as well as parts, tools and service equipment. The suit claims Ford has refused to buy or accept any of the vehicles—the suit lists 40 as their number—and that as a consequence Ford Credit is seeking to repossess them for sale at public auction. Ford Credit has demanded of plaintiff $460,156.86, plus interest, which it claims is due on the vehicles in Jacobs' possession at the time of the agreement termination.

The suit also asks:
—The return of $16,871.49 in financing reserves from Ford Credit.
—The recovery of $73,034.97 for repossession losses incurred by the plaintiff.

—Recovery of $1 million for damage to plaintiff's business reputation.
—Damage of $29,184.24 allegedly caused by Ford's failure to pay account reserves due the plaintiff.
—Damages of $100,000 alleged on the grounds that Ford's failure to purchase or accept unsold vehicles and remove them has prevented plaintiff from leasing or selling its premises.

A jury trial is requested.
(Reports of damage suits reflect only the plaintiff's side of the case.)

Indictment Charges Bank Falsified Loans

A federal grand jury in U.S. district court at Catlettsburg returned a 28-count indictment last Thursday against the First National Bank at Grayson, its president and another of the bank's officials.

The indictment says that the bank, Leo Raymond McGuire, its president and principal shareholder, and loan officer David Lee conspired to hide the true transactions of $6.5 million received from the Kentucky Housing Corporation.

The indictment contains one count of conspiracy and 26 counts of making false entries in books, reports and statements of a bank against McGuire, Lee and the bank. McGuire and Lee are also charged with one count of mail fraud.

According to the indictment, the alleged conspiracy covered a period from about Dec. 8, 1979, to Feb. 16, 1981.

The indictment stems from a nearly two-year investigation by Kentucky State Police and the FBI.

The bank, through a statement issued by Lexington attorney Robert Houlihan Jr., denied that it or any of its officials "were guilty of any wrongdoing."

No arraignment has been set. The maximum penalty upon conviction for the conspiracy count is five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Each of the 26 false statement counts carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $5,000 fine; the maximum penalty for the mail-fraud count is five years in prison and a $1,000 fine.

According to the indictment, the bank did not disburse $6.5 million it had obtained from the housing corporation for low-interest mortgage loans to low-income families within the agreed nine months.

It also said that, while extensions for the loans were obtained, the bank continued to use the state funds for its own purposes by "commingling" them with its own assets.

It charged that fraudulent and fictitious loan applications and files were set up to submit "bogus loan documents" to the housing corporation.

The files, the indictment said, were in the names of friends and relatives of McGuire, bank employees, and employees of companies owned by the bank or associated with bank personnel.

McGuire, a member of a politically influential Carter county family, and Lee also allegedly permitted preparation and execution of various housing-loan documents.

It also said that the bank submitted "false, misleading and untrue loan files and documents to the KHC for the purposes of concealing that a substantial part of the $6.5 million had not been disbursed."

Details on the circumstances surrounding the fatal injuries suffered by Vanderpool were yet unavailable this week although it is believed the victim may have been struck by a vehicle in the incident.

Warrants were issued on the request of the Vanderpool family, it was reported.

Johnson Man's Death Is Ruled Suicide

The gunshot death last Friday night of Kenneth C. Nunnery, 36, of Van Lear, in the lower Johns Creek section of this county was ruled a suicide by investigating officers and Coroner Roger Nelson.

Evidence heard at the scene indicated he was depressed because of a broken home and loss of his job. Nunnery died of a single shot in the region of the heart from a .25-calibre pistol. The incident occurred in the Pea Point section of Johns Creek, below Dewey Dam and about two miles from Van Lear.

The shooting was investigated by State Detective Keith Scott, Deputy Sheriff Tom Blackburn and Coroner Nelson.

The victim's mother, Mrs. Lola Nunnery, resides at Ramage, West Virginia. The body was taken to the Jones & Preston Funeral Home at Paintsville and later sent to the Handley Funeral Home at Danville, West Virginia.

Attend Clinic Fundraiser

This Mud Creek family was among those who gathered to eat a chicken-and-dumpling dinner and listen to some mountain music, Saturday—all part of the effort to raise funds to rebuild the Mud Creek Clinic, destroyed by fire last month.

Donations, including $10,000 contributed by Bishop William A. Hughes, head of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Covington, now total $31,000—still $14,000 short of the amount needed to match a hoped-for Appalachian Regional Commission grant, fund organizers said.

Three Hurt in Pickup Mishap

The wreckage of a Dodge pickup truck rests on its top after running over the hill and plunging over a cliff at Allen, Monday, around midnight. The truck, driven by Michael Dale Wallen, of Allen, apparently spun out of control around a curve on the old dirt and gravel Allen-to-Banner road, crashed about 100 feet down the steep hillside and finally fell approximately 30 feet to the railroad track below. Occupants in the vehicle, Mike Clifton, Ballard Brown and Alan Adkins, all of Allen, were taken to Our Lady of the Way Hospital, Martin, by Allen Policeman Virgil Conn. Wallen received only minor injuries. The Floyd County Emergency & Rescue Squad responded to the mishap and Clifton, who was trapped in the cab of the truck was freed only after rescue workers utilized the "jaws of life" rescue tool.

Miss Wallace, Mr. Montgomery Wed

Pamela Jane Wallace and Hugh Snider Montgomery, Jr. were married July 10 at 5 p.m. at the Southside Baptist Church in Huntsville, Ala., with the Rev. Othar Smith officiating.
 Nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Charlie Crawford, organist, Mr. Jerry Pease, pianist, and Mr. Jim Oaks, soloist.
 The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Gabriel R. Wallace, of Huntsville, Alabama, and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Wallace, of Prestonsburg. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh S. Montgomery, Sr., of Huntsville.
 Given in marriage by her parents and escorted by her father, the bride chose a gown of white chiffonette. Scallops of silk venise touched with pearls and opalescents created the wedding ring-neckline. Her gown had long fitted sleeves of English net with deep cuffs of lace, a bertha collar of French chantilly lace etched the sheer yoke net. Silk venise circled the natural waist of the sculptured bodice above her circular skirt. Motifs of chantilly edged the hem flowering into a semi-cathedral train. Her picture hat was etched in chantilly and silk venise lace and large poofs of silk illusion cascaded to finger tip length. She carried a nosegay of white bridal roses, stephanotis, and baby's breath.
 Miss Lori Meador was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Marian Williams, Miss Rebecca Moore, Miss Diane Pease, and Mrs. Katherine Nevels. They wore formal gowns of pink silk taffeta with natural waistline and spaghetti straps and a deep ruffle edged the long full skirts. White chantilly lace jackets were worn over the dresses. They carried nosegays of pink roses, lavender statice and stardust gyp.
 Flower girl was Crystalle Huskey and ring bearer was Matthew Reed. Candles were lit by Jeff Wallace and Scott Little.
 The groom's father served as best man. Groomsmen were Scott Little, Chris Little, Rob Whitley, and Morris Hornbuckle.
 A reception was held at the Noojin House. The rehearsal party was given by the groom's parents at the Officers Club. After a wedding trip to Florida, the couple will reside in Huntsville.

... about your Social Security

Social Security Director Recommends Direct Deposits

Residents of the Big Sandy area who receive Social Security checks can easily arrange to have them deposited directly into an account at any financial institution, Jim Kelly, Social Security district director for the area, said recently.

Direct deposit can be made to an account in a bank, savings bank, savings and loan association or similar institution, or federal or state chartered credit union.

Having checks deposited directly into an account has several advantages, Kelly said. They include:

- The person does not have to stand in line to cash or deposit the check.
- Money is immediately available if the person is away from home.
- No check cashing problems.
- No chance of a check being stolen.
- To arrange for direct deposit, a person should contact the financial institution and ask for direct deposit form SF-1199. Completing the form only authorizes deposits; it does not authorize withdrawals from an account.

People considering direct deposit should ask the financial institution how it will handle direct deposit and whether there will be any charge for the service.

Once a person has his or her check deposited directly, he or she should continue to notify Social Security of any change in address or other event which may affect receipt of checks. This is important since Social Security needs a person's correct address so that notices can be sent properly.

For information about direct deposit, contact a financial institution or ask at the Big Sandy Area Social Security office, located on U. S. 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville.

Cheever Story To Air On KET

A dramatization of a short story by Pulitzer Prize-winner John Cheever returns to KET on Monday, August 2 at 9 p.m. "The Five Forty-Eight," adapted for television by Terrence McNally, is the second in a trilogy of Cheever short stories airing on KET's "Great Performances" series.

"The Five Forty-Eight" takes its title from a daily commuter train carrying city workers to John Cheever's suburbia. The train setting is symbolic of the transitory nature of life found in many Cheever stories.

In this one-hour play, Laurence Luckinbill stars as a ruthless advertising executive and Mary Beth Hurt plays the obsessed employee whom he seduces and then casts off. She follows him home on the 5:48 commuter train to wreak her revenge, but in typically Cheeveresque style, the story takes a surprise twist before ending.

John Cheever won the 1978 Pulitzer Prize for fiction and the National Book Critics' Circle Award for fiction. The late author also wrote four novels including the 1977 best seller "Falconer."

"Great Performances" is a production of WNET, New York.

The first electric shavers were ready for sale in 1931.

Pharmacy Footnotes

By HAROLD COOLEY

Medicine cabinets in many homes are stuffed with old medicines and remedies. They may be half-used prescriptions or over-the-counter remedies that family members no longer need. For the most part, these medicine remainders are stashed away until a family member contracts an ailment which can be treated by the particular medicine. While this may seem to be a cost-saving practice, it is not advisable. Prescription medicines should be carefully disposed of when the treatment has ended. It is foolhardy to re-use them. Your physician may be using a different treatment or the drug may no longer be potent.

Every once in a while it is a good idea to clean out your medicine cabinet and discard old or half used medications. There is no sense in re-using them, because they may have lost their potency. At COOLEY APOTHECARY, INC. we have a complete and professional prescription center. We dispense only the very best quality ingredients available. You can find us at #2 Town Center Building. Open Mon.-Fri., 9-5:30 and Sat., 9-5. 886-8106.

HANDY HINT:

In Battle for All-Star Crown

The Prestonsburg Little League All-Stars have been fighting and scratching over the past couple of weeks to keep alive their chances for a shot at the state tournament.

Monday, July 12, the P-burg team suffered a disappointing loss to Paintsville, 10-1 in a game in which Brian Wallace's homer accounted for Prestonsburg's only run.

Two days later, P-burg cashed in on its last chance to stay in the district tournament at Paintsville by defeating Wheelwright, 23-0. The next day (Thursday), the team narrowly defeated Magoffin county, 4-3, which set them up for a contest with a tough Harold-Allen-Prater team, Monday night.

With Ronnie Baldrige pitching, Prestonsburg slipped past their fellow Floyd countians, 4-2.

Tuesday night the team will face Paintsville again and, if they win, will play Paintsville again tonight

(Wednesday). Prestonsburg must beat Paintsville twice since the Johnson county team is undefeated throughout the tournament, it was explained.

Winner of this week's contests will travel to Ashland for regional elimination play.

Coaches of the team are Jerry Cornette and Charles Hackworth.

Funds are still being raised to illuminate the ballfield near Our Lady of the Way Hospital at Martin—and make emergency helicopter landings possible by night—it was announced this week.

Safe Kitchen Play for Toddlers Outlined

KITCHEN PLAY
Do you worry what your toddler is doing while you are busy in the kitchen? Do you feel that you must keep him in a play pen to keep him out of trouble while you are putting away the groceries or washing dishes?

Growing Child, the monthly child development newsletter, suggests arranging things for safe play in the kitchen or involving him in your work.

SAFE KITCHEN PLAY
Be sure that all potentially harmful substances—cleaning compounds, detergents, metal polish, furniture polish, anything your child might swallow—are carefully out of his reach. Knives and other sharp objects should be unreachable, pot handles turned in.

Now just look around your kitchen and you will find any number of safe things for play and learning. A cardboard carton turned on its side makes a house or a cave; on its bottom it can be a car or a boat or just a comfy place to crawl into and count your treasure.

Pots and pans and spoons make wonderful music. A collection of lightweight packages or cans will make Toddler's very own pantry shelf. A round cereal box or empty coffee can rolls almost like a ball. Empty cans with tops and bottoms removed are fun to look through, and small ones fit into or will drop through larger ones.

A salad basket or a small plastic pail will serve to carry treasures from here to there. Empty paper towel or bathroom tissue rollers can be looked through. Measuring cups and spoons fit together and come apart endlessly and in many combinations. Small cardboard boxes make good hiding places for small toys and fit inside larger boxes.

Helping
There are times when the sights and sounds and smells of your cooking operation are very attractive to a toddler, and he is apt to come in just to see what is going on. These are moments when you might wish he were in another room and not underfoot. But instead of saying, "Go away, Mommy's busy", why not take a moment to involve him, in a small way, in what you are doing?

As Toddler hangs around, probably sucking his thumb, take note of what you are doing. Is there any action or part of an action that he can do? If you are opening a can, hoist him up and show him how the handle of the can opener turns, then leave the handle in a position where he can make about half a turn himself by pulling it toward him.

Then set him down, finish opening the can and show him how the lid can be raised to reveal the contents. You might point to the picture on the label, say "Peas", or whatever, then dip out a few peas with a spoon and hold them beside the picture. "See, here are the peas." The significance of the picture as an indicator of the contents will not be lost on him.

Now you can bring the pan down to his eye level and show him how the can's contents are poured into the heating pan. Pouring is and will be a fascinating operation to him, and he might well be shown the pouring anytime he is around. His hand is too small to hold the can, even with your guidance. But you can give him the empty can, with lid safely folded in, and direct him to drop in the garbage sack.

How many jobs should a toddler participate in at one session? He himself will give you that answer. He will stay with you for one or more activities, then seem to lose interest and wander off. But that's so that he can digest what he has experienced. He has to ponder the idea that grownups pour and stir things, and push buttons. You may even see him pouring and stirring with new purposefulness in his self-play not long after he has helped you in the kitchen. There will be times, of course, when you are too rushed to let him join in your activities, and in these cases he must accept the idea that you have nothing for him to do. But on more relaxed occasions the kitchen can serve as a center for new experiences, an interesting place where important things happen, and where he has a chance to learn about the way big-people things are done.

The Growing Child newsletter follows a child's development month-by-month. For more information on the social and physical development of children from birth to six years old, write to Growing Child, PO Box 620N, Lafayette, IN 47902. Include child's birthdate when writing.

Morehead Wet Vote Voided

The failure of the sheriff to post printed notices of the election has apparently voided the Wet victory of last April 24 at Morehead.

The Kentucky Court of Appeals last Friday handed down a decision, annulling the Morehead election. The Rowan county sheriff apparently had published notice of election but failed to post printed notices as required by state law.

Rowan Circuit Court had upheld the election. While acknowledging that the requirements had not been carried out, the lower court said the statute's aim had been fulfilled by the extensive publicity surrounding the local option vote.

But the unanimous decision, written by Judge Kenton Cooper, said:

"The wisdom of particular legislation is solely within the province of the General Assembly.

"When it has seen fit to require a particular form of notice in local option elections, it is not the court's prerogative to completely ignore the requirement upon the ground that another form of notice used is equally as good or better than that designated by the legislature."

A group of ministers and others had filed suit in circuit court after the wet-dry election in which liquor was legalized in Morehead after 38 years.

Dry proponents lost by only 67 votes, with 1,321 favoring liquor sales in the Rowan county seat and 1,254 against.

The Rev. Frank Fultz, a Morehead pastor who was involved in the suit, contended many "wet" votes were cast by Morehead State University students.

The courts focused on a statute which requires the sheriff to advertise the election in two ways—by publishing the election order in newspapers and by posting handbills.

"It was stipulated in the circuit court that, through lack of awareness of his duties under the statute, the sheriff failed to post any handbills," the Court of Appeals said.

"It must be emphasized that this is not a case where the court is required to pass upon the adequacy of the sheriff's attempted performance. This case is one of total failure to perform his duty under the statute."

The appellate judges said that if an official tries to comply with the law, but there is some defect in the method, the defense could be that of "substantial compliance" if it was sufficient to notify voters of the pending election.

"However, where the official makes no effort to comply with the statute, then that failure is fatal," the Court of Appeals said.

It said that to hold an election as valid when there has been a total failure to comply would set a poor precedent and would repeal the power of the General Assembly.

Dry forces had indicated they would not appeal the circuit court's confirmation of the election, but instead might file another suit challenging the constitutionality of holding such an election.

Their contention was that only city residents could vote even though the cost of the election was paid out of county funds.

Fultz said the vote would have been overwhelmingly dry had Rowan Counties been able to cast ballots.

The appellate decision is not effective immediately. A three-week period is allowed for the other side, which includes state alcoholic beverage officials, to seek a rehearing.

Notice—Important

To whom this might concern: I have lived in this county all my life of 68 years, except I worked in Ohio for about two years and in Michigan for Ford Motor Company for four years, from 1953 to 1957, also worked down in Virginia for close to nine years, around Norfolk and Portsmouth from 1966 till April 1 in 1975. In 1974 I contracted some sort of fungus of the lungs, but not t.b. and had to quit work. I was in World War II overseas in North Africa, Algiers, Tunisia and Sicily and came back to England for the invasion of Europe. I crossed the English Channel on H-Hour and D-Day for the invasion of France at Omaha Beach with the First Infantry Division, as that was my division, the Big Red 1 "The Fighting First." I draw a disability from the VA and also Social Security. I have never been on relief or welfare in my life. I have never been a money man but seemed to manage to keep going on my own, for which I am well pleased.

I have had four water wells drilled by James Allen, of Maytown, in the last 35 years, and he has always got me good drinking water, and has never got any salt, and he has never broke me up by going too deep in order to make more money. I have had him to drill wells for other people, and he never got bad or salt water for them. I ask all my friends and relatives, if they like good pure drinking water, and need a well drilled, to please contact James E. Allen, Phone 285-3225, at Maytown, in this county.

Area Scouts Attend Camporee

One hundred thirty-nine Boy Scouts from Floyd, Johnson and Pike counties participated in the 1982 spring camporee at Camp Shawnee near Jenny Wiley State Park Resort Park. The Scouts are members of the Lonesome Pine District, Blue Grass Council. The district includes Martin, Magoffin, Pike, Johnson and Floyd counties.

An overnight trip from Camp Shawnee to the back side of Dewey Lake taught the Scouts preparation for backpacking, including how to carry all necessary personal gear, food, water and shelter for two days. Scouts who stayed at Camp Shawnee sharpened their skills by working on awards and merit badges.

Those who participated in the backpacking trip camped on the water's edge at Dewey Lake. The next day they returned to camp and joined the other Scouts for a hike to the German Bridge campground amphitheatre for morning church services.

Surface Mining Seminar Set Here

Prestonsburg will be the site for a seminar designed to familiarize coal operators, engineers and citizens with Kentucky's surface-mining regulatory program.

Sponsored by the Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement of the state Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, the seminar will be held July 27-28 at Prestonsburg Community College.

The seminar is designed to provide an overview of the major differences between the interim program and the permanent program under which Kentucky assumes primary responsibility for surface-mining regulation. Under the interim program, responsibility was shared by the state and federal governments.

Seminar sessions will present information on continuation of interim-mining permits, processing of permanent program applications and enforcement considerations and hearing procedures under the permanent program.

Registration for the seminar will be $50 and will cover all seminar materials and a luncheon. Pre-registration is $40. All pre-registration forms must be submitted two weeks prior to the seminar.

For additional information contact Kathy Mulberry, Office of Program Development, 3rd floor, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Ky. 40601, telephone (502) 564-6940.

Lowe's Complete Material Packages (NOT Pre-Fabs) Can Save You Money

This 800 Sq. Ft. Home Has 2 Bedrooms

$9974

Complete Materials Package From Foundation Plate Up

Here's How

1 Our Convenient Package System Takes The Hassle Out Of Home Building!

Under our program, you furnish the land, labor and foundation. We supply everything else. The lumber, Roofing, Siding, Doors & Windows, Plumbing, Wiring, Light Fixtures, Carpeting, Paint. All for one low price. And you can choose paint colors, wallpaper patterns and other interior finishings.

2 Our price is guaranteed for 90 days. And in today's fluctuating commodities market, that feature alone could save you money. 90 days is usually plenty of time for most homes to be constructed. So once you've picked out your paint, flooring, light fixtures, etc., the price is "locked in."

3 During actual construction, we deliver materials to the site as they are needed—not all at once or in unrelated shipments. This will save construction (and labor) time, and reduces the chance of weather damage & pilferage. Everything is coordinated as much as possible, so worries are as small as possible.

4 Our homes are Energy Efficient. They have fiberglass insulation in the floors, walls and ceilings. Plus features like insulated doors & windows and an attic ventilation system. (Even more efficient home designs are also available.) Your new home will continue to save money long after it's been built.

Explore Health Careers

How often do beginning college students have an opportunity to be directly exposed to the career of their choice? Lees College is currently providing this valuable experience to twenty-one selected recent Kentucky high school graduates interested in the health field. These students are enrolled in Lees' six week Health Careers Summer Program from June 21 through July 30. The College is sponsoring this summer enrichment program in an effort to help eastern Kentucky students become more competitive, as well as to have the opportunity to be admitted to and succeed in medical, dental or pharmacy schools. "These students are receiving first hand experiences that will enable them to make a rational decision about their future early in their college life," explains Dr. Buford Howard, Director of the program, and Professor of Chemistry at Lees. Dr. Howard is providing the students with an introduction to this science. Credit in Chemistry 101 will be earned by those successfully completing the program.

The program participants are being exposed to a variety of health care experiences through the academic activities at the college and the off-campus field trips to health care facilities. Each participant is being given instruction in a structured system of analytical skills by Lees' mathematics instructor Don Brashear. These analytic reasoning activities are to enhance the students' ability to take complete lecture notes, to manage time efficiently, and solve both verbal and mathematical problems. The students are also improving their test taking ability through an intense study of techniques useful in improving performance on standardized tests and teacher made examinations. Mr. Brashear says, "Our hope is that when the course is completed, students will be better able to cope with college level instruction in all course work, but particularly in science classes."

Activities to enhance communicative skills both oral and written are being presented by Judy Lucas, English specialist at Lees. Tutoring and counseling services are being provided by Lees biology instructor Dell Sasser.

In addition to the one-campus studies, the summer program participants are enjoying weekly field trips arranged by Lois Davis, Lees' experimental education coordinator. "Many students have never experienced the realities of the job until after they have been accepted in professional school and decide it's not for them," comments Mrs. Davis. "These field trips expose the student to the medical field ahead of time, similar to on-the-job training."

Prestonsburg area students attending Lees' first Health Careers Summer Program are Richard Lee Dillon, son of Donald and Chiquita Dillon; James Gary Irick, son of Harry and Darnell Irick; and Joseph Wesley Scott, son of James A. and Patsy G. Scott.

Three from Floyd Participating In Med, Dental Student Program

Three 1982 graduates of high schools in Floyd county are among 61 Kentucky high school spring graduates who are participating this summer in a state program designed to assist students from areas with too few doctors or dentists in their pursuit of a career in medicine or dentistry.

Tammy Lynn Maggard and Audreyetta Moore, of Drift, are attending a six-week Professional Education Preparation (PEP) Program basic-skills development workshop at the University of Kentucky in Lexington.

Melanie Jane Elliott, of Hunter, is attending a five-week workshop at the University of Louisville.

Miss Maggard, 17, is a daughter of Sammy and Lynda Maggard; Miss Moore, 18, a daughter of Berta Turner; and Miss Elliott, is the 18-year-old daughter of Richard and Emogene Elliott. They are getting college prep instruction in reading, writing, study-skills improvement and problem-solving and are also attending classes in mathematics and the sciences.

According to Michael Byrne of the Kentucky Council on Higher Education, the state agency that coordinates the PEP Program, all of the instruction is designed to improve the participating students' chances of doing well in their premedical or pre-dental college studies.

Misses Maggard and Moore, who graduated from McDowell High School, both say they plan to go to Pikeville College next fall. Miss Elliott, an Allen Central High School graduate, plans to attend Alice Lloyd College at Pippa Passes.

"We're anxious for the program and the students to succeed," said Byrne. "The students' success will show in (their greeting) a medical or dental degree, and the program's success will show in the students going back to their home areas as new doctors or dentists to practice."

Rudd Opens Branch Here

Michael D. Rudd, vice-president and general manager of Rudd Construction Equipment Co., Inc. this week announced the opening of the firm's new parts and service facility on U. S. 23, at Katy Friend. The new branch is being opened to better serve eastern Kentucky customers with increased parts and service, Rudd said.

The program, which was established by the state legislature, is in its second year.

The basic-skills workshops are the first in a series of activities the Council has planned for participating students. Additional programs and services designed to help them succeed in becoming doctors or dentists will be provided throughout their undergraduate and professional school studies.

The cost to students for attending the workshops is minimal, if nothing. Room, board and all workshop instruction is provided free of charge. Each participating student is also given a "modest" allowance for personal expenses.

High school seniors-to-be who are interested in participating in next summer's basic-skills workshops should contact their school counselor for information and application forms next January or February.

Kentucky Afield

Say "bass" and most fishermen will immediately think of the largemouth. But there are actually nine fish in Kentucky that are commonly called "bass."

These basses are members of two separate families. Technically, the largemouth isn't a bass at all—it's a sunfish, belonging to the same family as the bluegill and crappie.

Also grouped in the sunfish family are Kentucky's other "black basses," the smallmouth bass, Kentucky bass (also called spotted bass) and Coosa Bass. This last species is rare in Kentucky, but good populations do exist in Martin's Fork Lake and in several streams in Eastern Kentucky.

A predominately Southern fish, the Coosa bass is found in Georgia, Alabama and the Upper Cumberland River system in Kentucky, which represents the northernmost part of this fish's range.

Kentucky bass and smallmouth bass are fairly widely distributed in Kentucky. The smallmouth seems to be expanding its range. Within the last couple of years, good sized smallmouth have been taken from Kentucky Lake, where they were rare if non-existent just a few years before. In Central and Western Kentucky, the smallmouth is fairly common in streams.

The rock bass (also called the goggle-eye or redeye) is another "bass" that is actually a member of the extensive sunfish family. Rock bass prefer (naturally enough) rocks and is most abundant in streams with bedrock or boulder bottoms.

Kentucky's other family of basses are members of the sea bass family, which includes such ocean-dwelling species as the grouper. Inland, this family is represented by the native white bass and yellow bass. Most fishermen are familiar with the white bass, but the yellow bass, common primarily in Western Kentucky, is less well-known.

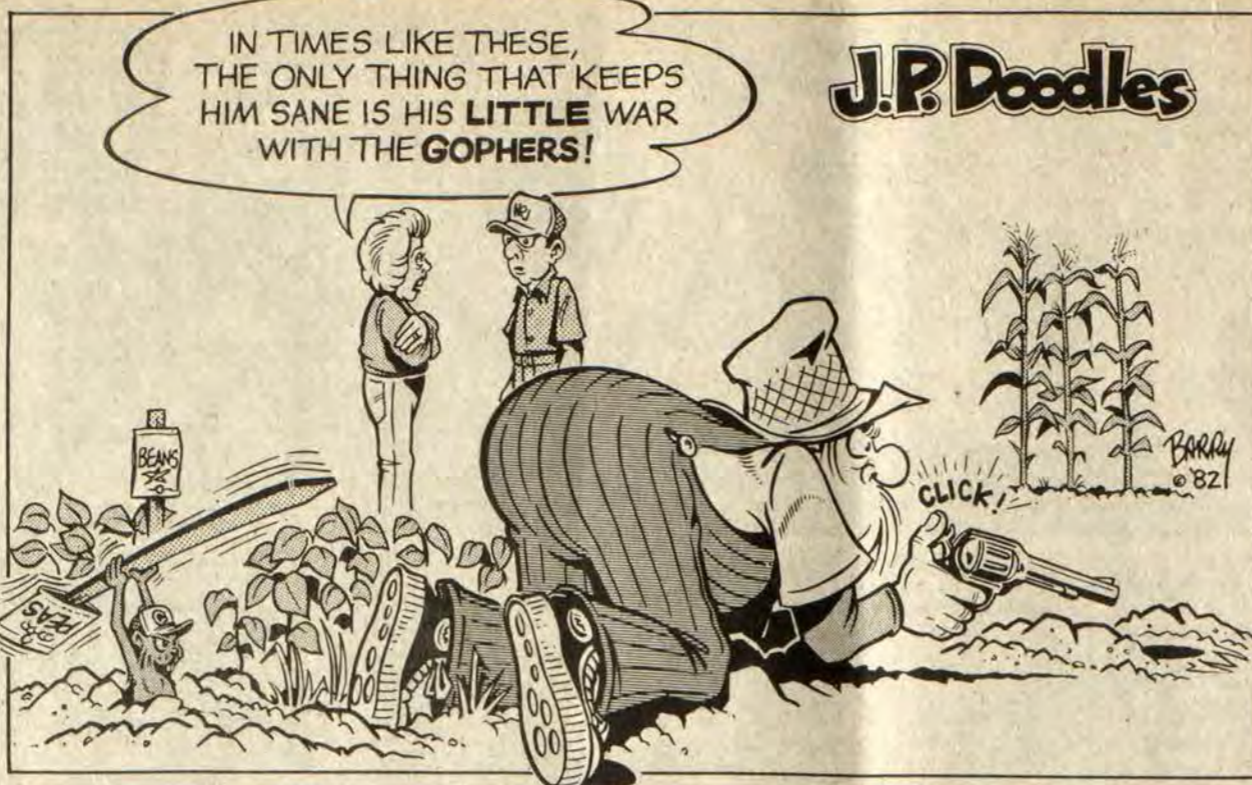

This species looks similar to the white bass, except it doesn't get as large and has a yellowish cast to it. Although it seldom weighs over a pound, many folks prefer the yellow bass to the white bass as an eatin' fish. Yellow bass may be caught using the same tackle and techniques that work on white bass, so many anglers probably aren't aware that the yellow bass they're catching aren't small white bass.

The striped bass (rockfish) is also a number of the sea bass family. Originally a salt-water species, the "striper" has been introduced into several Kentucky lakes, but seems to have "taken" successfully only at Lake Cumberland.

Our latest bass is a cross between the white bass and the striped bass. This fish has been stocked in Herrington and Barren lakes to see if its survival rate is better than the purebred striped bass. Results, particularly at Herrington, so far seem encouraging.

This hybrid grows significantly larger than the white bass. The current world's record is 20 pounds, 6 ounces, but no one knows how large this newly-introduced hybrid will get.

It looks like, with this many different bass in Kentucky, a fisherman should be able to find at least one species willing to cooperate with his angling efforts. So the next time the largemouth in your favorite lake seem to have a collective case of lockjaw, remember that there are other fish in the sea—or more properly, other bass in the lake. A change in tackle and technique could result in a stringer full of one of Kentucky's "other" bass.

Celebrates Birthday

Anthony (Tony) C. Young, son of Kevin and Betty Young, of Garrett, Ind., celebrated his third birthday, June 16 with a party which featured Cookie Monster and Bert & Ernie as themes. He was also treated to a trip to the children's zoo at Franke Park in Ft. Wayne, Indiana.

Tony is the grandson of Anna Howard Shepherd, formerly of Pyramid, now of Martin, and Beatrice and Tony Shepherd, of Avilla, Indiana.

FLOYD COUNTY HEALTH NEWS

By JANE BOND
Health Educator

School health regulations have been changed for the school year beginning August or September 1982. Teachers are no longer required to have an annual T.B. skin test. Teachers being employed for the first time must have a T.B. skin test.

Children entering school in Kentucky for the first time are required to provide proof of having been tested for T.B. They are still required to be immunized against the childhood diseases of measles, rubella, whooping cough (pertussis), diphtheria, and tetanus.

These immunizations and tests are available free of charge at both the Floyd County Health Department office in Prestonsburg on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday from 8 until 4, and from the branch office in Wheelwright, Monday through Friday, 8 until 12 and 1 until 4.

Family Violence Conference Set

The second annual statewide Conference on Family Violence will be held July 29 and 30 at the Ramada Inn on Waller Avenue in Lexington. Sponsored by the Lexington YWCA Spouse Abuse Center, the conference will focus on treatment of the violent family. The guest lecturer will be the Rev. Denis Madden, Ph.D., a clinical psychologist with the University of Maryland's School of Medicine. Workshop topics include therapy for battered women, counseling with children from violent homes, and therapeutic intervention with batterers. Dr. Madden will discuss the psycho-dynamics of family violence and effective treatment techniques for individual, marital and family counseling. Dr. Madden will also offer a special workshop on Friday on pastoral counseling with violent families for the clergy.

According to Travis Fritsch, director of the Lexington YWCA Spouse Abuse Center and conference coordinator, the conference is expected primarily to attract professionals from across the state who deal with violent family members or victims of family violence. "Many of the people who will attend work professionally in fields such as mental health, law enforcement, social work, medicine or health, the church, and others," she said. But, Fritsch added, the conference is also designed to educate the non-professional. "We see the conference as an opportunity to increase general public awareness of the problems of family violence as well," she said.

Fritsch said that one of the expected benefits of the conference will be the increase in resources available to professionals working in family violence across the state. "The conference will serve as a great opportunity to build a network of specially trained people throughout the state who can share their expertise within their own communities," she said.

Other guest speakers include Jessica L. Schikler, executive director of the Kentucky Commission on Women, and Attorney General Steven L. Beshear.

The conference is being partially funded through grants from Jerrico, Inc., Charter Ridge Hospital and the Ramada Inn. Community Education Units can be credited to conference participants.

For more information, contact: Travis Fritsch, Lexington YWCA Spouse Abuse Center, 1060 Cross Keys Road, Lexington, KY 40504, or call (606) 252-5510.

Buckle Tots Up, New Law Says

A legal requirement that babies and young children must be in a child restraint system while traveling in a passenger vehicle is a new idea in Kentucky. The law becomes effective tomorrow (July 15).

A child passenger safety law is also a new idea nationwide. Tennessee passed the first law in 1978.

The new motor vehicle law amends current statutes to require the parent or guardian of a child 40 inches tall or less to transport the child in a child restraint system when the child is a passenger in a motor vehicle, excluding recreational vehicles or trucks with tonnage rating more than a ton.

According to National Safety Council figures, highway accidents kill more children than childhood diseases. In Kentucky during 1981, 26 children under age 4 were killed and 1,271 injured in wrecks. Traffic experts believe the majority of these deaths and injuries could have been avoided if the children had been properly secured in a crash-tested restraint.

A child restraint system is a carrier, car seat, harness or shield which holds a child in his seat during a wreck or sudden stop and cushions the child against shock. The first thing a shopper should look for is a manufacturer's seal guaranteeing that the device has been crash-tested and meets federal standards. A plastic child feeder seat, for example, is for home use and will not protect the child. The restraint should be appropriate to the child's weight and, if possible, tried out in the car before buying.

A crash-tested, federally approved child restraint costs around $35. On sale, the cost can be considerably lower. There are higher price models but the cost difference doesn't relate to safety features but, rather, to appearance or style.

State troopers will be issuing warning citations to motorists when the troopers see a child standing or sitting unrestrained or hanging his or her head out the window of a moving vehicle. No fine is attached to violation of the law, but it is hoped these enforcement efforts will encourage more parents to protect their children from death or injury in car accidents.

D.E.S. Specialist Conducts Class

David Adkinson, training and education specialist with Kentucky Disaster and Emergency Services, is pictured Monday night as he addressed a group of emergency and rescue workers from Floyd and several surrounding counties. The session was first of a two-day seminar on the monitoring, detection and effects of radiation. Aim of the training is to better acquaint local rescue personnel with emergency procedure in the event of nuclear war or possible accidents involving the transportation of nuclear materials.
