Martin Near Decision On Its Water Supply

2 Options Eyed, Council Favors Using Own Plant

Unless Beaver-Elkhorn engineers can come up with a convincing alternative by March 15, Martin city council will instruct its own consulting engineers to proceed with the renovation of the city water treatment plant there.

In electing to refurbish the Martin plant rather than to buy treated water from the neighboring Beaver-Elkhorn system, the council followed a recommendation of the city's water and sewer commission, over the objections of Mayor Larry B. Hall.

Addressing the council and an audience of about 80 Martin residents Thursday night, Water Commission Chairman Raymond Griffith said the city had waited 14 months—$1.4 million in federal and state funds was committed to the project in January, 1981—without seeing any progress. Unless Beaver-Elkhorn could promptly support its claim that Martin would be better off buying water from that system, the commission "saw no reason to delay further" the renovation of the city water plant, Griffith said.

Martin should continue to negotiate a connection with either the Beaver-Elkhorn or the Prestonsburg system as a backup to the city system, the commissioners recommended.

In a move described by Mayor Hall as "one of the worst wastes of taxpayers' money," the council

Over $1 Million Asked by Youth In School Blast

For injuries allegedly sustained in an explosion last March at Prestonsburg High School Jeffrey Walter (Jeff) Cochran and his parents, Walter J. and Joyce Cochran, filed suit in circuit court here Monday for damages in excess of a million dollars.

The civil action names as defendants Bill Crider, Jr. and Robert Burchett and their parents, Bill Crider, Sr. and Stanley and Madeline Burchett.

The incident at issue is the detonation of explosives in a restroom of the school last March 18, Jeff Cochran, yet a minor, sued through his father. Bill Crider, Jr. and Robert Burchett were also minors at the time of the explosion but have now attained their majority. The suit claims that young Cochran suffered, as a result of the blast, "great and permanent hearing damage" to the extent of "no less than $500,000."

According to the plaintiffs, the parents of Crider or of Burchett had in their possession prior to the explosion certain explosives which were carelessly kept and were left easily accessible to their sons.

The suit, filed by Richard E. Fitzpatrick, of the Lexington law firm of McBrayer, McGinnis and Leslie, asks:

For medical and hospital expenses already incurred by young Cochran's parents, for future medical and hospital expenses they will incur, $10,000; for loss of services of their son, $10,000; for their son, $10,000; for loss of earning power, $250,000; for pain and suffering, $250,000; for punitive damages to the plaintiffs, $500,000.

(A damage suit reflects only one side of the case.)

As TV Rate Boost Asked...

Picture Quality and Ability Of Some To Pay in Question

The quality of the image on the screen and the plight of consumers on fixed incomes were the predominant concerns at a Monday night hearing, when officials of Cablentertainment, Inc. put their case for a rate increase to their Prestonsburg customers.

In return for a hike from $7.50, the current rate, to $10 (with a 10 percent discount for senior citizens), the company proposed to drop a Bristol, Tenn. channel from service here and to add three new channels—WGN (Chicago), Cable News Network, and ESPN, a sports network.

While the choice of channels received some discussion, a number of those present said they thought screen-image quality should be improved before the company raised its rates, and many voiced concern that the poor

This Town...That World

THE REAL REASON

This column wasn't last week, and, although there wasn't any general lamentation, a few wanted to know how-come. Here's why:

Both flesh and spirit were willing, but the mind was weak.

HELP FOR SOME

The so-called "planetary lineup" that causes earthlings to fret about dire portents, the nations not yet at war rattling sabres, interest rates paralyzingly high and budgets almost synonymous with deficits—all that, but there's temporary surcease from worry. A sizeable portion of the population is concerned, for the moment, about the outcome of the basketball tournaments, and that may be a blessing.

HARDY FISHERMAN

Shannon Greer, who doesn't let a bit of cold weather pin him to the fireside, returned home recently from Kentucky Lake with a catch of 90 slab-size crappie. At the same time I was reading in a magazine how to catch bass. But it wasn't always so. Time was when I fared forth in all weathers, stopped from my mission by neither wind nor rain nor phases of the moon nor signs of the zodiac nor any other circumstance. And I always caught something—usually, a cold.

SILENT SPRING?

I still wonder why the peepers failed to peep at our place, those warm days a week or so ago when they were in full cry elsewhere. Were the birds not still around and at their trilling best, we would suspect we might have let some herbicide convert the premises to the deathly silence portrayed by the late Rachel Carson in her "Silent Spring." I'll give them a few days more, and if they fail to report I may call for a Congressional inquiry.

PUZZLING WEATHER RADAR

I sympathize with those who report the weather for television and are so

Right Beaver Landmark Burns

A Right Beaver Creek landmark, the former home of Mrs. Beatrice Collins, of Prestonsburg, and the late Dr. M.M. Collins, was virtually destroyed by fire early Monday night.

Arson is suspected, said Scott Collins, of Prestonsburg, co-owner of the property with his brothers, Brady M. and Astor C. Collins. Arson Investigator Barry McKenzie was at the scene while firemen were yet fighting the blaze.

Fire departments of Martin, Left Beaver and Wayland fought the blaze and succeeded in preventing its spread to nearby houses. The roof of the 14-room, two-story residence was destroyed, and fire, water and smoke damage to the remainder of the building was so severe it is said to be a total loss. The house was tenanted by a man named Chalfant.

There was no estimate of the loss, none of which is covered by insurance. It was the sixth building lost to fire by the Collins family within the last two years, and none was insured.

The residence was built about 45 years ago when construction of KY 80 halved the original home on the site at the northern outskirts of Lackey.

Topmost Widows Seek a Hearing On Mine Blast

Even as coal mines go, the Adkins No. 18 mine at Topmost where eight men lost their lives in an explosion in December was a dangerous workplace, and management there disregarded safety in a push for greater production. So said relatives of some of the dead men in a succession of angry statements before a Congressional subcommittee in Washington last week.

Moreover, some charged that a state enquiry conducted soon after the disaster was inadequate and urged members of the subcommittee to press for a federal probe into the cause of the blast.

Beulah Gibson, whose husband, James, was one of those who died, said he told her he "could not see for the dust" in the mine.

"James told me the men were being pushed by the company for more production," Mrs. Gibson said.

Annis Ashley, widow of Dillard Ashley, said her husband spoke constantly of dangerous conditions in the mine, including the fact that "the men couldn't get enough rock dust"—used in mines to settle the coal dust and prevent explosions.

Conley Says No Legal Question To Be Decided

A complaint filed in circuit court last week, asking the court to declare that a local-option election may not be held in any territory smaller than the whole county, raises no point of law and so requires no adjudication by the court, Judge Hollie Conley said this week.

The complaint was filed by Judge-Executive Jerry Lafferty, Jr., who also asked that County Clerk C. "Ollie" Robinson be directed by the court to void a petition, filed in February, for a local-option election in the third magisterial district. On the basis of that petition, Lafferty last month set April 20 as the date for a wet-dry election there.

In referring the matter to circuit court, Lafferty was reportedly influenced by the argument that, since his is an executive rather than a judicial office, he may not have authority to rescind his own order setting the liquor election.

Nor did he appear willing this week to accept without argument Judge Conley's opinion that responsibility for the election still rested with the judge-executive. Lafferty said Tuesday he intends to meet with the circuit judge in an effort to "work things out."

Even as the two court officials sparred, proponents of the local-option election, apparently acting on the assumption that the third-district election is already doomed, were gathering signatures this week for a petition seeking a countywide election.

Since Floyd county voted dry in 1969, most agree that state law requires that any subsequent local-option election be held countywide.

Newsome Bond Yet at $500,000

After hearing testimony at a preliminary hearing last Wednesday for Ray Newsome, Melvin man accused of raping a 10-year-old girl, District Judge Harold J. Stumbo refused to lower the $500,000 bond asked earlier for the prisoner's release.

On motion of the Public Defender, representing the defendant, a gag rule was imposed forbidding discussion of the case and closing the hearing to the news media.

The $500,000 property bond (or $50,000 cash) is believed to be the largest asked of a Floyd court defendant.

The 25-year-old Newsome was jailed here March 3 by State Detective Danny Stumbo and State Trooper Terry Hall. The rape occurred at a Melvin dwelling which the girl's mother and Newsome were apparently sharing, officers said.

The victim was taken to the McDowell Regional Hospital and later to Our Lady of the Way Hospital, Martin. Her condition was reported early this week as serious, but she is expected to recover.

The heavy bond resulted, it was said, from what was described as "revolting" aspects of the case.

Mother Gets Pen Terms For Assaults on Child

A Floyd Circuit Court jury Monday convicted a Prestonsburg woman of two counts of assaulting her infant daughter two years ago, and recommended that she serve five years in prison on each count.

Olive Ann Meade sobbed as the jury verdict was read in court, and was comforted by attorneys. Members of her family, including her husband, sat impassively toward the rear of the courtroom after the verdict was announced.

The decision, which came after the jury of nine men and three women had deliberated almost two hours, ended a four-day trial and a drama extending back to February 17, 1980, when Billy Joe, one of triplets born 4½ months earlier to Ben and Olive Meade, died, and another of the triplets, Bobbie Jean, was admitted to a Louisville hospital with multiple fractures.

The third triplet was dead at birth. The Meades, then 29 and 27, had recently moved into a ramshackle house across the Big Sandy from the Ball Alley Curve on old US 23, south of here. The couple's four older children were placed in custody of the Department for Human Resources and yet remain in foster care.

Both parents were charged with two counts of assaulting Bobbie Jean, on the basis of medical evidence that the child was injured on two different occasions, probably February 11 and 17, but the charges against Ben Meade were later dismissed.

The infant died in the hospital nearly a year later of hydrocephalus, a severe congenital brain disorder. While gross neglect and pneumonia were listed by the coroner as causes of the other infant's death, an autopsy revealed no fractures and no charges were made in connection with the boy's death.

In presenting the Commonwealth's case Monday, prosecutor Beth Myerscough relied heavily on testimony of Dr. John Algren, director of the pediatric intensive care unit at Norton Children's Hospital in Louisville, who said Bobbie Jean Meade had sustained eight fractures to the skull, ribs and legs. The fact that the child had multiple injuries, sustained on different occasions and without other explanation, suggested she had been physically abused, Algren said.

Myerscough suggested the defendant was irked by the demands of her

County Rejoins P'burg in Action On Cliff Project

In exchange for a written assurance by Prestonsburg officials that the city would reimburse the county for the costs of condemnation, the Floyd fiscal court voted in a special meeting Friday to join Prestonsburg again in a suit to secure right of way for a proposed access road at Cliff.

In the absence of Magistrate Kenneth Roberts, a motion to re-enter the suit, which seeks to condemn part of the Sam George property, passed virtually without comment.

(Prestonsburg City Council backed by resolution Monday night Mayor Harold Cooley's earlier pledge to indemnify the county for costs of the judgment.)

In other business, the fiscal court appointed Billy Herald, of Prestonsburg, to the board of Floyd County Solid Waste, Inc. Herald replaces Yvonne S. Jones. Named to the board the previous week, Mrs. Jones had since resigned, it was said.

The contract for health insurance for county employees was awarded by the court to the Hatton Insurance Service.

Restraint Asked On Rate Boosts

FRANKFORT, Ky.—Members of the Public Service Commission have issued a statement to Kentucky utility companies calling for "a showing of restraint in seeking rate increases."

PSC members said in light of high unemployment in Kentucky, with many people struggling to pay record heating bills, "this is no time for conducting utility businesses as usual."

Utilities "simply must find ways to cut costs; defer requests for higher rates; and slow the rate increases in utility bills. In undertaking its difficult work the commission is required by statute to balance the needs of companies and consumers. We believe that the utility companies also have a duty to strike a similar balance between their own needs and the financial plight of their customers."

The statement was delivered to the Kentucky Telephone Association in Lexington March 2 by PSC Chairman Marlin M. Volz. Other commission members are Katherine Randall, vice chairman, and Dennis P. Carrigan.

Knott Grand Jury Probe Fails To Locate Child Missing Since Feb. 12

The Knott county grand jury last week joined the search for six-year-old Kelly Holland, who has been missing from his home at Larkslane, on Jones Fork of that county, since Feb. 12, and still there was no trace of his whereabouts as of last Monday morning.

State troopers, Knott county officers, rescue squad members neighbors of the child and his mother, Judy Moore, have searched the nearby streams and the countryside. Neighborhood wells have been plumbed, and neighboring Breathitt county, where the family formerly lived, has been touched by the search. Now, state police indicate they will investigate the possibility that the boy was abducted.

About 10 persons, including the boy's mother, were questioned during the grand jury probe.

Cancer Fund Drive Is Now Under Way

The 1982 fund drive of the Floyd County Chapter, American Cancer Society, is now under way with a goal of $14,000. Mrs. Lida Howard, crusade chairperson said, "With public support and contributions, the American Cancer Society can continue its program of research and education on ways to detect this dread disease."

Mrs. Howard and chapter president, E.L. Bierman said it would be well for everyone to be aware that cancer will strike two out of every three families; cancer is the leading cause of deaths in women, ages 30 to 54; cancer is the second leading cause of death among the U.S. population, and that cancer is often a lingering disease requiring extensive and costly treatment.

Those who wish to join the crusade against cancer may mail their contribution to American Cancer Society, Box 309, University Drive, Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653, or call 886-2338 or 886-8291. Contributions may also be made to your local chapter of the American Cancer Society.

State Looking For Cans Of Contaminated Salmon

Kentucky consumers may be exposed to contaminated salmon that has been recalled by manufacturers, the state Department for Human Resources said.

All canned salmon produced in 1980 and 1981 by NEFCo-Fidalgo Seafoods in Ketchikan, Alaska, is included in the urgent recall.

Human Resources health officials and federal Food and Drug Administration staffers are checking to see if any of the recalled products are now on store shelves.

We're glad you asked!

John C. Hall
Founder
Hall Funeral Home

WHAT IS INVOLVED IN FUNERAL COST?

There are generally four funeral expenses which can be incurred: 1) professional services of a funeral director and his funeral home, including facilities, staff-time, equipment and casket; 2) the cemetery plot and opening of the grave; 3) monument or grave marker; and 4) miscellaneous expense such as flowers, obituaries and extra limousines.

Some of these expenditures are optional. Most of them have a fairly wide range of costs, depending on the family's wishes. You will not find any undue influence exerted for exorbitant funeral costs by funeral directors in this service area. We—and most funeral directors we know—prefer that the funeral expenses be appropriate for each family served. We spend much time with each family to make sure that all arrangements and decisions will best serve their own interests.

We'd be glad to discuss this in complete detail, showing you the ranges in pricing available to you.

South Central Bell President Confident Of Company's Future

In testimony before the House subcommittee on telecommunications in Washington, Wallace R. Bunn, president of South Central Bell Telephone Company, said that he has "full confidence" his company can operate effectively in a divested environment.

Bunn was one of five local telephone operating company presidents appearing before the telecommunications subcommittee on the future of the local telephone company under the terms of the 1982 modification of the 1956 consent decree.

South Central Bell is one of 22 local exchange companies which will be divested by AT&T as a result of the agreement. The company operates exchanges providing telephone service to 6 million customers in the states of Alabama, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi and Tennessee. At present, the company has $10.5 billion in assets, 58,000 employees and last year had revenues of $4 billion.

Commenting on the agreement, Bunn said divestiture is "not a thing I would do from choice. I think as a system we work better than the various parts will after divestiture," he said. "But I recognize that Congress, the courts, the FCC and others have made it pretty clear that the present system will change a great deal. Under those circumstances I believe the consent decree establishes a reasonable arrangement and I think it will work."

Bunn noted that because of effective planning, South Central Bell will be divested in good posture, both financially and organizationally, and that it will operate effectively in a divested environment.

"While our earnings are not at the level we believe they should be," he said, "we have made some progress in improving them. Our service is good by all traditional measurements and as perceived by our customers. In other words, South Central Bell is a strong, healthy telephone company."

"We will have a strong position in a very dynamic market," he said. "The decree gives us a right to charge competitive inter-exchange communications companies for the use of our facilities, subject to commission approval. I anticipate that these access charges will be fixed by regulatory authorities giving significant consideration to the subsidy that long distance provides for local rates. This should assure us of a substantial revenue stream in addition to the charges for local exchange service."

The South Central Bell president said that other revenues will be available through the company's opportunity to participate in newly emerging communications technology.

A Complete US 23 Means The 'Missing Link' Eliminated

We do not agree with those who see Governor Brown's promise to complete certain highway projects as a mere "carrot on a stick" to gain support of his proposed budget. We are naive enough to believe that he will undertake to do just what he says—if the money is available.

But we are concerned about his promise to complete US 23. There is an ambiguity about that word, "complete," that we wish wasn't there.

This highway can be extended on to the Kentucky-Virginia line, all the uncompleted gaps closed, the roadbed surfaced, the paint job done, every item attended to on present construction—and yet US 23 will not be completed.

Not until the so-called "missing link," that miserable stretch of two-lane highway between Prestonsburg and Paintsville, is widened to four lanes to conform with the width of the highway at all other points, all the way from South Shore, Ky. to the state line at Jenkins, will US 23 be complete.

And that's a fact that Governor Brown, state legislators, everybody, including the public, know well. The question that remains then, is this:

Does the governor's promise to complete US 23 mean what it says?

Mrs. Sturgill Seeks Purchase of Bank

Mrs. Eloise Williams Sturgill, wife of William B. Sturgill, of Lexington, has offered $987,000 for the Bank of Loretto in Marion county, where her husband last year bought the Marion National Bank.

Apparently joining the Sturgills in negotiating for the second bank is Bob Martin, president of Marion National. The Sturgills and Martin are former residents of this county.

Because Sturgill owns controlling interest in one bank, he is prohibited by state law from owning stock in another, but the restriction does not apply to his wife.

Directors of the Bank of Loretto have advised stockholders to accept Mrs. Sturgill's offer of book value of the stock, plus 25 percent.

If the purchase is effected, the bank will be merged with Marion National, it was said.

often wrong. But all they can do is to tell it as the Weather Service has told it to them. Yet I cannot forgive that much-touted "weather radar" used by WSAZ-TV. Great splotches appear on the screen, and there may be some of the green in them that suggests rain or snow, and yet it is explained that this is mere ground clutter. If the visual part of the program means nothing and must be orally explained, why bother "D.J." and the rest of us with it?

PREDICTION

March came in like the proverbial lamb. A mild, sunshiny day that had some folks thinking of gardening, others of fishing. Then came the next. Cold, windy. Then more of same, winter having its last fling. There have been a few fair days, but then came perhaps the heaviest snow of this season Saturday night. With such a hodgepodge of weather, some are having trouble fitting up the old adage about "coming in like a lamb and going out like a lion."

It's a bit confusing, I admit, but it's all "crystal clear" to me. March will go out as it always has—as April comes in.

DOT Schedules Road, Span Jobs

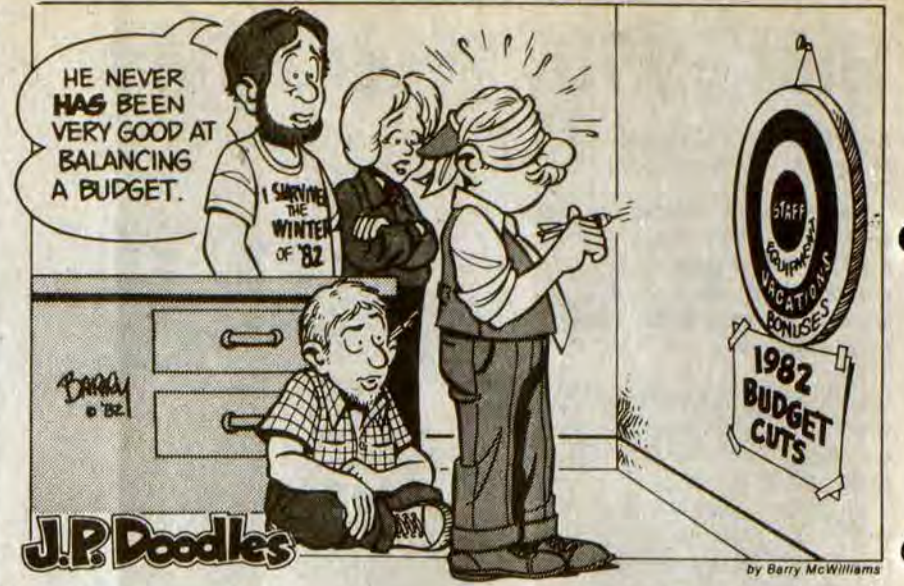

The Kentucky Department of Transportation will accept bids March 26 for four projects in Floyd, Letcher and Pike counties.

In Floyd county, a contract to patch 3.7 miles of KY 1498, the Jacks Creek road, from Frozen Creek road to KY 122, will be let. Also in this county, bids will be taken for a project to clean and paint three bridges:

The bridge over Right Fork of Beaver Creek on KY 80, Allen-Lackey-Hindman road, 6.1 miles from U.S. 23 at Allen; the bridge over main Beaver Creek on KY 80, six miles from U.S. 23 at Allen; the bridge over Right Fork of Beaver Creek on KY 80, 14.7 miles from U.S. 23 at Allen.

In addition, a project will be let to clean and paint four bridges in Letcher and Pike counties.

Bids will be accepted for repairs to the decks of two bridges in Floyd county—the bridge over main Beaver Creek on Old KY 80, six-tenths of a mile from U.S. 23 at Allen, and—the bridge over Right Fork of Beaver Creek on KY 80, 6.1 miles from U.S. 23 at Allen.

unanimously accepted the water commission recommendation. The decision implicitly repudiates a water-purchase contract which the mayor concluded with Beaver-Elkhorn officials several weeks ago.

Supporters of the water-purchase agreement argued that Martin could not produce its own water as cheaply as it could be bought from Beaver-Elkhorn. If Martin would put $350,000 toward upgrading the Beaver-Elkhorn treatment plant at Allen and pay another $20,000 to connect the two systems, the city could purchase water for a low 65 cents per thousand gallons, according to a Beaver-Elkhorn offer.

Beaver-Elkhorn already has a water main running between Allen and the communities it serves on Left and Right Beaver Creeks, it was pointed out. Moreover, the location of the Martin plant makes it vulnerable to flooding, it was argued.

Others contended, however, that neither Beaver-Elkhorn nor its consultant, Kennoy Engineering, has produced data to support the claim that it could provide Martin with a cheap source of water or to show what the city's $350,000 contribution would be used for.

Still unanswered, said Gene Graves—a representative of the Farmers' Home Administration, the federal agency providing most of the money for the project—is the question of "whether Kennoy can or will furnish the information necessary" to make a decision about Martin's water source.

Kennoy was apparently not represented at the meeting and Beaver-Elkhorn representatives declined comment on the controversy.

Those in favor of restoring Martin's system argued that Beaver-Elkhorn has problems supplying water to its existing customers and that a decision to purchase water from that system would leave Martin without any backup supply in the event of a Beaver-Elkhorn failure. Moreover, design improvements would make the Martin system less vulnerable to flooding in the future, they said.

David Derrick, an engineer with Haworth and Associates, the city's consultant, said his firm had recommended that the city's water lines be completely replaced, that a second water storage tank be installed, and that the city's water treatment plant be renovated and possibly expanded.

The pipes will be replaced, regardless of the final decision as to water source, and valves will be installed to enable sections of the system to be isolated in the event of a break, Derrick explained. The installation of a second 200,000-gallon tank will give the city a four-day water supply in case of flood or mechanical failure of the treatment plant, he said.

Tommy Centers, a bolting machine operator in the mine, told his wife Jewelene that "the company did not want him to take the time to set the safety jacks on the bolter because then they couldn't run as much coal," she said.

Bob Smith, a spokesman for Adkins Coal, characterized the testimony as hearsay, and said the company is very concerned with safety. Some miners are anxious for the company to reopen the mine and apparently do not feel that it is an unsafe operation, he said.

The three widows, and relatives of a fourth victim, David Slone, testified before the Education and Labor subcommittee on health and safety, which is holding hearings on the recent series of Appalachian mine disasters. Written statements were also presented from Ora Slone, widow of Bobby Slone, and from Verna Perry, whose two sons, Clarence and Roy, were among the blast victims.

Mrs. Gibson asked members of the subcommittee to recommend that the federal Mine Safety and Health Administration (MSHA) conduct formal hearings on the Adkins disaster. A hearing by the Kentucky Department of Mines and Minerals soon after the explosion was "totally inadequate," she said.

After last week's hearing, the relatives and their attorneys met with MSHA director Ford B. Ford and presented their request for a public hearing in Hindman. Ford is said to be considering the proposal.

Tony Oppgard, an attorney in the Hazard office of the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund, said this week that Congressman Carl D. Perkins and UMWA President Sam Church have also expressed their support for a public hearing.

The Drunken Driver Poll

You and any of your readers can be killed by a drunken driver who is a repeated violator, and under present Kentucky law this driver can be released to drive again the next day while intoxicated.

Kentucky law does not permit the arrest for "drunk driving" unless the officer witnesses the accident. So all the driver has to do is get out from behind the wheel, be arrested for "public intoxication, to wit, auto", be fined $100., and be freed to drive while intoxicated immediately.

Pending legislation would cover this inequity and strengthen penalties for repeated violators. But many of our legislators make their living as defense attorneys and do not want their jobs made more difficult. They will say that "such laws give too much power to police."

That is an excuse, not a reason: in shoplifting, for example, the policeman does not have to witness the theft, but can accept the evidence given by store employees.

Most of our legislators have a conflict of interest in passing this legislation.

Unless people express their views now, their elected representatives need only not act to keep things the way they are, and many will continue to be maimed and killed by drunk drivers who have repeatedly gotten "off the hook," who are free to drive again immediately.

More people are killed by drunk drivers than by murderers, according to the U.S. Controller General: 23,000 yearly. The nine states that have strengthened procedures and penalties for dealing with drunk drivers have seen a substantial drop in automobile fatalities.

You may leave a message with your senator or representative at a toll-free number: 1-800-372-7181.

If you want the carnage to continue, with risk to your own life and that of others, do nothing!

Seeks Information

While working on my family tree, I find several of my families to have lived in the areas of Floyd, Lawrence and Boyd counties. I would appreciate any help in finding information on these families.

The first is Felix Flannery. His mother's name was Mammie—it is not known if Flannery was her maiden name or married name. I am looking for any information about Felix's parents. He later moved to Ceredo, W.Va. He was born in 1860 in Floyd county.

The next family is that of Elvira Crisp. She supposedly had a brother, Felix Crisp (a barber) and a brother, Adam Crisp, from Allen (the town of Cracker, Ky. was also mentioned). She was born around 1873 and she married Felix Flannery. I need any information on her parents and family.

And, lastly, the family of James S. Allen. He married Nancy W. Smith who was born in Kentucky around 1837 or 1838. They had at least four children—Charlotte, Helen, Louisa and Katherine. Charlotte and Louisa were born in Catlettsburg, Ky. I need any information on the parents of James and Nancy. They came to Ceredo, W.Va., sometime between 1866 and 1870.

Thank you for any help you could give me.

Chemical Cleanup Begins In Hardin County

FRANKFORT, KY.—Removal of materials from an illegal chemical dump in Hardin County began this week with money from the federal Environmental Protection Agency's "superfund."

Employees of the Kentucky Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Department will work with EPA personnel to clean up the chemical disposal site. The dump, located at the Old Hardin County Brickyard, was first reported to the department in 1977. It was investigated and found to contain about 3,000 drums containing liquids, sludges and solids.

Emergency funds to clean up the site were first sought by the department in December 1981.

Battle with Bottle Affects Entire Family

By MARY ANN GROSSMANN
(In The Lexington Herald)

Because of his alcoholism Mother is on Valium to relieve stomach pains and nervous headaches. One kid smokes marijuana, another is taking a tranquilizer after being diagnosed as hyperactive.

This is Sharon Wegscheider's description of an alcoholic family, a chemically maintained family that is trying to numb feelings of pain, worthlessness and confusion.

Alcoholism has made this family sick, says Wegscheider, author of a new book, Another Chance: Hope and Health for the Alcoholic Family, (Science and Behavior Books Inc., $12.95).

The book's message is that the family can be made well if it is given help.

Wegscheider said in an interview that her book is the first "that legitimizes the acceptance of the family illness concept (in alcoholism)."

Minnesota, she said, "is one of the few states that recognizes the importance of families being part of the illness and part of the treatment," she said.

Wegscheider, whose father was an alcoholic, is a certified alcoholism specialist, a family therapist and a former staff member at the Johnson Institute in Minneapolis. She is president of ONSITE, a Minneapolis-based organization that provides workshops and consultation for hospitals, treatment programs, industry, the military and other groups concerned with the impact of alcoholism on families.

"Since 1976 I have been directly or indirectly involved with 4,000 dependents (her word for alcoholics) and about 600 families," Wegscheider said. "I spent many early days of my career seeing the effect of alcoholism on wives and kids. Whenever there is any chemical dependency in a family, four or five people are pretty severely affected."

She defines "alcoholic family" as "any family that has a person in it who is addicted to mood-altering substances, whether it's marijuana, alcohol, street drugs or pills."

When a person is addicted to drugs such as alcohol, she explained, there is a repression of his or her feelings, a stifling of those emotional attachments through which family members develop intimacy and confidence.

"The people around the alcoholic are emotionally rejected," Wegscheider said. "How the family responds to this rejection is the family illness. Pretty soon the entire family represses their great pain and (they all) repress their emotions."

So family members stop talking to one another. They watch the alcoholic sink deeper into the disease, but they cannot comfort one another because there is no family communication. Each member suffers alone and shows different characteristics.

"In 10 years of working with alcoholic families, I have watched the same five basic roles being played out in virtually every family," Wegscheider says in her book.

"I have labeled them the Enabler, the Hero, the Scapegoat, the Lost Child and the Mascot. In a small family there may be more than one role for each person; in a large family there may be more than one person for single role.

But in all families all roles are played by someone, and everyone plays a role."

The drinker's spouse is the Enabler. For example, she is the one who holds the family together by becoming Supermom. As her husband's drinking worsens, she may have to cope with incredibly painful problems—lying for him to his boss after a binge (until he is fired), trying to keep the alcoholism a secret from relatives, making decisions about finances, being both mother and father to the children.

She is angry, fearful, guilty and she hurts emotionally and physically. When she goes to her doctor with stress-related symptoms, the physician may never associate her problems with alcoholism in the home. Instead, he prescribes a tranquilizer.

The kids, meanwhile, are assuming roles based on when they were born into the family.

The oldest becomes the Hero. Trying to overcome inadequacy and guilt, the child becomes a compulsive overachiever, hoping to bring praise to the family. Heroes, Wegscheider said, often grow up to become Enablers themselves, (as she did), or they become caretakers—nurses, doctors, counselors or clergy.

Middle children may become either Scapegoats or Lost Children.

The Scapegoats use bad behavior to get attention and hide their hurt. They find a peer group of other hurting children and may turn to marijuana or other short-term chemical relief.

The Lost Children are the opposite. They hide their loneliness and confusion by escaping to their rooms. They are shy, solitary and may have weight problems.

The youngest is the Mascot. This child is afraid. Not only does the rest of the family not talk about this unseen thing, but sometimes the child is lied to by family members who say, "there's nothing wrong." So the child turns to clowning to get attention and to bring some laughter into the household. When the clowning gets out of hand; the child may be diagnosed as hyperactive and may be put on a tranquilizer. Ultimately, the Mascot can end up emotionally ill.

It has taken until the past few years for professionals to identify the alcoholic family and find ways to help the members.

"Up until about 10 or 12 years ago there was no family treatments," Wegscheider said. "That started right here in Minneapolis. And in the early days treatment for the family was limited to teaching them how to deal with the alcoholic. Most programs have focused on spouses, (and) giving family members primary care in even more recent—about six or seven years."

"Primary care" means that each family member works separately with the counselor, talking out their feelings about their family and trying to recover feelings of self worth. To do this they work on developing their potential in five areas—emotional, mental, social, spiritual and volitional (making choices).

The ideal situation is for the family to be in primary care while the alcoholic is in treatment. But how does the family get the alcoholic into treatment?

Wegscheider explains in the book about "intervention," a process in which family members, after careful preparation and counseling, confront the alcoholic with the realities of his or her illness. (She stressed in the interview, though, that intervention should never be done without the help of a trained professional.)

When the recovering alcoholic is released from treatment, he or she is reunited with the family and they all enter the after-care period, during which they use their newly restored communication skills to make plans for the future.

"In the treatment setting dependents have a program and the family, which has its own problems, work on themselves," Wegscheider said. "Then we put the family unit back together."

Among professionals who work with alcoholics, she said, "the fastest-growing model for family treatment is the comprehensive approach of Alcoholics Anonymous, group therapy and family therapy."

Wegscheider is especially happy that her book has been distributed to all the state insurance commissioners. She is working with a task force of the National Association of Insurance Commissioners to study ways to have health insurance pay for family treatment.

"Right now insurance will usually pay for the dependent's treatment but not family members."

Will your Social Security benefits provide an adequate retirement income?

One way to plan now for a financially secure retirement is through an Individual Retirement Account (IRA). The new Economic Recovery Tax Act provides you with the unique opportunity of making tax-sheltered contributions toward retirement through an IRA . . . even if you are covered by a company pension plan.

At Commonwealth, we can show you how to start a regular IRA and save up to $2,000 a year.

Spring Fever—It's for Real

When a young man's fancy turns to thoughts of love in the spring, it may be the work of physiological forces in the body, not yearnings of the heart.

At least that's the opinion of biometeorologists, scientists who study how weather affects living things. They say that spring can be one of the most stressful times of the year, according to noted science writer Lowell Ponte in the March Reader's Digest.

"When the hypothalamus (a part of the brain that acts as the body's thermostat) and other organs sense that spring has arrived, the switch from winter to summer metabolism may, for weather-sensitive individuals, begin with a rush," says Ponte.

"Blood acidity may increase; high levels of cholesterol may wash through the veins. Hormones surge through the blood, and can indeed turn a young man's fancy to love."

Changes in weather between late March and April—"when spring fever is raging"—may explain why suicide rates in the United States are highest and why so many more people are admitted to psychiatric hospitals, says Ponte. As he puts it: "some find the stresses of this springtime transition unbearable."

Because of the link between changes in the weather and changes in body chemistry, Ponte says some biometeorologists feel doctors should take weather into account in their practice of medicine.

"Patients have died during heat waves when doctors unwittingly prescribed tranquilizers that blocked the body's ability to cool itself by sweating," he writes.

Ponte also cites a study that found that a safe dose of the heart drug digitalis, taken at sea level under good weather conditions, could become fatal if taken when air pressure is lower—such as during a trip to the mountains or flying on an airplane.

He notes that doctors in West Germany can call a special number each day and receive a "bioprognosis" which advises how the day's weather may affect health. Physicians may be alerted to expect more accidents because of decreased concentration in weather-sensitive people.

Ponte argues that doctors in this country should be taught how weather affects people—a practice in only a few medical schools today.

"The health and comfort of everyone could be enhanced by a better understanding of how our bodies adapt to weather," he says.

Physically handicapped youngsters from all over Kentucky have the time of their lives while attending resident camp sessions at Camp Green Shores, the Easter Seal camp at Rough River.

FAME

By Steve K. Walz

TELE-BLIPS — ABC has two TV movies in various stages of development. Production has already begun on "Rooster," a comedy-drama starring diminutive Paul Williams as a police psychologist whose offbeat methods of casing suspects cost him his job... Louis Gossett and Cicely Tyson recently wrapped up production on "Benny's Place," which was shot on location in Alabama. "Benny's Place" tells the story of an aging man who becomes an overachiever when he sees his career goals threatened... NBC has commissioned a script from Dick Clark Film Productions based on the 1981 Brookfield, Conn. murder case in which 19-year-old Arne Johnson pleaded a defense of demonic possession as his sole reason for stabbing to death a close friend. Casting for the project will be completed shortly.

STARLET — Cynthia Sikes is becoming a familiar face in prime-time TV. She has been seen on CBS's "Falcon Crest," ABC's "Fall Guy" and most recently on NBC's "Flamingo Road," on which she has a recurring role.

film, which also features John Cassavetes and Susan Sarandon, was filmed on location in Greece, Atlantic City and New York City. The plot, although loosely based on Shakespeare's play "The Tempest," has a contemporary setting.

THE BIG TIME — The TV debut of "Capitol," CBS's new daytime serial, will actually take place in prime time — on a one-hour special aired Friday, March 26, prior to "Dallas." The following Monday, "Capitol" will join CBS's regular daytime schedule. "Capitol" will focus on two lovers who yearn to cut through the barriers that have traditionally divided their families. But in a town such as Washington where "Capitol" takes place, they find themselves caught in a web of passion, power and revenge.

Paul Williams plays police shrink.

Cynthia Sikes is on the move.

Robards: the son also rises.

PRIME STOCK — Sam Robards, son of Jason Robards and Lauren Bacall, will make his movie debut in Paul Mazursky's "Tempest," which will be released in the fall. The

Maytown Man Injured In Truck Mishap

A truck driven by Jerry Rowe, of Maytown, came dangerously close to smashing into the gasoline pumps of a Martin service station, Saturday morning, after he apparently lost control of the vehicle while returning from work. Only a support pole for the canopy covering the pumps deflected the truck from a potentially disastrous collision. Rowe was said to have suffered a broken leg in the mishap and was treated at Our Lady of the Way Hospital, Martin.

What is the ugliest animal in the world? The Tasmanian devil, declares the February Reader's Digest. Large male devils stand three feet long and weigh between 20 and 25 pounds. They have broad, batlike ears; small, mean eyes; long, coarse whiskers; a piggish, dripping nose. As ugly as they are, Tasmanians are quite proud of them, largely because of the worldwide fame of the animated devil that appears in Bugs Bunny cartoons.

HRMC Pharmacy Project Receives Grant

Bonnie Grabowski, pharmacy director, receives from Joe Justice, territory manager for Hoffman La-Roche, Inc., a $1500 check from his company. Mrs. Grabowski was awarded the 1981 Roche Hospital Pharmacy Research Grant for outstanding original basic research in hospital pharmacy.

A research project under way at the Highlands Regional Medical Center Pharmacy is made possible by a grant received from Roche Laboratories. Bonnie Grabowski, director of Pharmacy Services at HRMC was one of only 10 grant recipients in the United States. Her proposed study of the "Assessment of a Pharmacy-Based Medication Administration Team" was chosen to receive funds in the highly competitive grant program.

Currently Mrs. Grabowski's project is in the data collection stage. Involved is the gathering of statistics on the number of doses administered by the pharmacy team and relating them to the patient census. The core of the project, a time and motion study of the medication administration team, will be the next step. An evaluation of all of the information will conclude the research this summer.

It is planned that the results of this study will be published in pharmacy-related journals. "We know this research project will help improve our program," said Mrs. Grabowski. "By sharing the information, we hope to assist other hospital practitioners in improving their medication distribution system."

Equipment Aids Local Squads

Martin's Volunteer Fire Department increased their fire-fighting capabilities over the past week with the acquisition of a truck and water tanks, and the Floyd County Emergency & Rescue Squad finished up the conversion of an existing flat-bed truck to a new search and recovery vehicle.

Martin's newly-acquired equipment (pictured above being worked on by Capt. Jimmy Rudder) came by way of donations. Two 1,100-gal. tanks were picked up in Virginia last week, a gift of DOXOL, and the truck came through the Division of Forestry's office here. The equipment increases Martin's mobile water capacity from a mere 500 gallons last year to a respectable 3,250 gallons now. "This equipment could mean the difference in saving a lot of property that otherwise would be destroyed," a spokesman for the department said.

With two flat-bed trucks, the Floyd County Emergency & Rescue Squad decided that one would be more useful as a search and recovery vehicle. With the conversion completed, the squad now can utilize the "new" vehicle strictly for search and rescue (drownings, primarily), while the group's other vehicle can be used for shorter, quick runs such as auto accidents. The converted truck is pictured at right in photo along with the squad's other rescue vehicle.

Continue Fight For Road Improvement

Little Mud resident Logan Tackett points to section of road where the creek, which formerly ran near the electrical pole (at right in photo), now inundates the roadway.

Residents who make their homes along the hollows and smaller valleys of the county know what it is to live with bad roads. Even before the "coal boom" brought caravans of big trucks rumbling up the branches the roads were bad. The rugged terrain was a big part of the problem, and there never seemed to be enough gravel or red dog to go around. But mining, especially the transportation of coal, has accelerated the deterioration of roadways and residents are finding it increasingly difficult to accept that while a steady flow of mineral wealth rolls past their houses, the means and resources to maintain their road remains out of their reach.

Residents who live about the Trace Branch of Little Mud Creek on the "main" Little Mud road are particularly disturbed and continued this week their fight to see their road improved.

Mud, in places, is said to be two feet deep. Mail can rarely be delivered to the 16 families on the hollow and ambulance service is out of the question. Three coal companies have been operating on the creek and although some help was offered by a strip mine company in the form of a few truckloads of rock, the only consistent work on the road is in the form of a bulldozer which, residents say, cuts the road surface down only to make the route passable for coal trucks. As the road is continually cut down, drainage becomes more and more an insurmountable problem, and the dozer work has compounded the problem by filling up the natural flow of the creek, forcing water onto the road along lengthy stretches.

Pickets stopped coal trucks for about nine days a month ago, and pleas to the county brought little more than statements of sympathetic concern.

A delegation of residents were again asking county help this week. They say the road needs to be built up for adequate drainage, large gravel or stone is needed for a suitable base as well as a coat of finer gravel or red dog and some of the money being hauled out of the creek needs to come back to the road for maintenance.

"It's almost like it doesn't matter that the people who live on the creek can't travel the road," one resident commented. "Just so the coal trucks can."

Girl Scout Cookie Sale Under Way

Members of the Allen Brownie Troop 894 gathered at the office of Judge-Executive Jerry Lafferty, Jr. recently for the proclamation of March 7-13 as Girl Scout Week in this county. The proclamation marks the beginning of the annual Girl Scout Cookie Sale, a major fundraising effort of the Wilderness Road Girl Scout Council.

Persons wishing to buy cookies are asked to call Ada Depoy, Floyd County Cookie Chairman, at 874-9997; Glenna Bradford, 874-2686; Carolyn Ford, 886-3024; Charlene Blankenship, 377-6386; or Barbara Hall, 452-4489.

CARD OF THANKS

We, the family of Edna Mae Martin, wish to thank all of our friends and neighbors who were so helpful upon the death of our loved one. Thanks to those who brought food to the home and church, sent flowers, gave money, helped dig the grave, sat through the night at the church, to the ministers of the Old Beaver Church for their comforting words and their many beautiful songs, and the Hall Funeral Home for its kindness. God bless you all—we'll never forget you.

Respect the Elderly

As a concerned citizen of Floyd County, I was really disturbed at the meeting that took place the 26th day of February in the Floyd Fiscal Court, as I heard the proposed access road to be built at Cliff, Ky. being discussed, and also the court was discussing the price to be paid to an old gentleman for his property there. One concerned citizen and a neighbor of the old gentleman questioned the court as to what price the old gentleman was getting out of his property. I don't feel like this is right. I feel like when I have something to sell, it is none of my neighbors business as to what price I get out of it. And I do believe we should respect the elderly and our neighbors. This good, old gentleman happens to be my father.

Allen Central Wins Both Titles

By C. "OLLIE" ROBINSON and TOMMIE LYNN MAY

Allen Central High School emerged from the 58th district tournament last Saturday night as champions in both the boys' and girls' divisions of play.

The Rebels won the championship game by defeating the Betsy Layne Bobcats, 59 to 58, and the Rebelettes won the girls' title by downing the Betsy Layne Lady Bobcats, 59 to 32.

The championship games were rematches of last year's title games.

Coach Johnny Martin's Rebels won over the Wheelwright Trojans last Thursday night, 69 to 30. The Rebels were led in scoring by sophomore Tim Lawson with 22, and Bruce Mullins had 20 points. David Tackett led the Trojans with 17 points.

Wednesday night, the Prestonsburg Blackcats upset the McDowell Daredevils, 52 to 51. The Cats were trailing, 51 to 50, when Joe Marson hit on an eight-footer with only three seconds remaining in the game. The score had been tied at 44-all by Chris Carter. Coach Ralph Roberts' Cats were led in scoring by Marson with 21 points. The Daredevils were led by Jimmy Dale Turner with 29 points and 9 rebounds. The Daredevils led at halftime, 25 to 18.

The Betsy Layne Bobcats defeated the Prestonsburg Blackcats, 77 to 60, Friday night. James Hall led the Bobcat attack with 20 points. Dwight Newsome and Johnny Little each had 16 points. Sophomore Kelly Cecil led the Blackcat attack with 19 points. Sophomore Todd Nairn had 16 and Joe Marson connected for 14 points.

In the championship game, the Rebels led most of the game and with three minutes left to play were leading by 57 to 50. The Bobcats scored three quick baskets while the Rebels scored one, but the Rebels were able to halt the rally and win. Bruce Mullins had one of his best nights, firing in 32 points and having 14 rebounds to lead the Rebel attack. Sophomore Tim Lawson had 12 points. James Hall led the Bobcat attack with 20 points. Dwight Newsome had 14 points, 12 of these coming in the final quarter.

Fire Hazard Warning

In recent months there has been an ever-increasing number of people buying unvented, portable kerosene heaters. People see the t.v. ads showing a family sitting around a kerosene heater in the family room of their home enjoying a warm evening while at the same time cutting their heating bills considerably. Magazine ads also advertise these kerosene heaters as an alternate heating source for a family home.

If one looked real close you would find in small print in the ads a caution in regard to proper use. The caution should state simply that "kerosene heaters should not be used in the home as an alternate heating source." But they do not.

To bring a kerosene heater into one's home for heat is to bring death and destruction into the home as well. Freestanding, unvented, portable kerosene heaters are deadly when used to heat a home. Numerous fires have already occurred in Kentucky and other states due to these heaters.

The danger of asphyxiation, the storage of kerosene fuel inside homes and in unsafe containers, and refueling hot heaters inside the home are just a few of the reasons of increased life safety hazards concerning these heaters.

The next time you consider using these for an alternate heat source, take a look at your family and home and ask yourself if your fuel savings are worth the risks. The way these heaters are selling in our area, it is just a matter of time before we have our first fire run as a result of this problem. I can hope that there is no loss of life connected with such a fire.

Assistance Offered To Troubled Parents

In the wake of the recent trial of a Prestonsburg woman on charges of child abuse and of a reported increase in the number of cases of child abuse and neglect reported to the Bureau of Social Services, mental health authorities here advise that help is available in the county for parents in difficulty.

Under stress, parents sometimes respond violently to their children's behavior or otherwise find it difficult to cope with the demands made on them, a counselor at the Mountain Comprehensive Care Center said this week.

The Center offers teaching and counseling for parents, with day and night sessions available. Moreover, telephone counseling is offered 24 hours a day. Callers may remain anonymous.

For information, appointments, or counseling, the number to call is 886-8572.

Churches Here Observe World Day of Prayer

World Day of Prayer was observed at the First Baptist Church, Friday, noon, under the leadership of the Local Church Women and the Prestonsburg Ministerial Association. Mrs. Judy Biggs, leader of the program, entitled "The People of God: Gathered for Worship," opened the meeting with prayer and read from Mark: 6:31-34. Leading the responsive readings were Mrs. Biggs, Mrs. Janet Dodson, Mrs. Vera Ford, Mrs. Julia Curtis, Mrs. Becky Short, and Mrs. Carolyn Ford.

Mrs. Fannie Runnels gave the meditation. Her topic was, "Can Prayer Save America?" Mrs. Runnels told the group that the first World Day of Prayer was observed the first Friday in March, 1887, with women from all parts of the world participating. She said that our nation is great because it was founded by persons who feared God and believed in prayer, and added that the answers to America's needs are not to be found in the U.N. nor N.A.T.O., but in our return to the faith of our forefathers.

She answered the question posed in her topic by saying: "Yes, prayer can save America, if we return to faith."

The song leader for the program was Mrs. Garnett Fairchild, who was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Alice Grey Buchanan, in leading the group in singing. Mrs. Elma Jessen, accompanied at the piano by her husband, the Rev. Timothy Jessen, presented an Irish melody.

In charge of ushering and collections were Mrs. Jean Burke, Mrs. Docia Woods, Mrs. Pat Necessary and Mrs. Lucy Regan.

Mrs. Eleanor Robinson, president of the Local Church Women, closed the meeting with a few brief remarks and prayer.

Free Games

For Blood Donors

Pick up a ticket for two free games at the Black Cat Arcade, courtesy of Roger Vanover, when you donate a pint of blood at the Prestonsburg Donor Station in the Municipal Building.

During the month of February, 101 pints of blood were drawn at the station. During 20 months of operation the donor response has been growing well. Area residents gave 649 pints of blood in 1980 and 1,222 pints in 1981. Floyd county patients in the hospitals here and in Lexington have been using over 2,000 units of blood a year for the past five years.

CKBC has set a goal of 1560 units of blood a year for this county or 130 pints a month. When the goal is reached, total coverage is provided to all patients for all blood needs.

February donors were: Ashland Joseph, Tom Ed Music, Aileen Bankemper, Thomas Call, Elaine Hayes, James Hayes, Jon Bryant, Elliouise Branham, Wilda Blevins, Charles Hunt, Monica Nunemaker, Dolly Hunt, Cheryl Hughes, Dennis Muncy, Peggy Kidd, Jackie Robinson, Ronnie Robinson, Marlene VanHoose, James May, Billy Akers, Bradis Burchett, Charles Ward, Rose Arnett, Etta Burchett, Dixie Catterton, Andy Boyd, Bobby Baldrige, Beulah Baldrige, Debra Jarrell, Dewayne Scott, Monroe Jarrell, Gary Osborne, James Catterton, Carla Boyd, Sam Isbel, Timothy Slone, Carlos Little, Della Meadows, Greg Meadows, Kelly Moore, Willie Martin, Thomas Flannery, Benny Combs, Donald Hughes, Douglas Brown, William Rose, Michael Boyd, Gregory Gibson.

'Figaro' Coming To Lexington, April 1,3

The Kentucky Opera of Louisville will visit Lexington for the first time April 1 and 3 with a production in English of Mozart's "The Marriage of Figaro" at the Lexington Opera House. The announcement was made during a joint Kentucky Opera/Opera of Lexington press conference at Castleton Farm in Lexington this week. Thomson Smillie, general director of the Kentucky Opera, said the two performances are seen as the basis of a "twin-city concert." It is planned that each year at least one production from the Kentucky Opera season will be given in Lexington. In due course it is planned that a production will be rehearsed and premiered at the Lexington Opera House before coming into the Louisville repertory of Kentucky Opera.

This first visit is taking place at the invitation of Opera of Lexington Inc., and has received special funding from Kentucky Arts Commission and the Lexington Opera House Fund. It has received additional underwriting from six sponsors, each of whom have pledged $2,500.

Coincidentally, the visit to Lexington will take place in the month which celebrates the 30th anniversary of the founding of Kentucky Opera. Also, Maestro Moritz Bombard will be conducting his final performances with the opera company he founded in April 1952.

The cast for the production includes some of the most distinguished young American opera singers, all of whom have or are in the process of establishing major New York reputations.

Smillie said, "I am particularly happy that the Lexington Philharmonic Orchestra will play for these performances. Maestro Bombard will be in Lexington on three occasions before the performances to rehearse this fine ensemble, and I feel that the relationship between the Lexington Philharmonic in the pit and a Louisville-based ensemble on stage symbolizes the new association between the two cities."

"I am very proud in my first year as general director that I should have an opportunity to accompany this fine company on a visit to Lexington's splendid Opera House," he concluded. Kentucky Opera paid particular tribute to the encouragement and active financial support given the visit by W.T. Young and the Lexington Opera House Fund, and by Lois Mateus, commissioner for the Department of the Arts.

Tickets for the visit are available from the Lexington Center Ticket Office and prices range from $10 to $25, with boxes of 6 seats selling for $225. The address of the Lexington Center Ticket Office is 432 West Vine St., Lexington, Ky. 40507. For tickets by phone call Carg-A-Tick (606) 233-3535. For mail order or general ticket information call (606) 233-3565 (no reservations).

Further information may be obtained from Shirley Boyd, office (606) 257-3145, and home (606) 272-3183.

Good News Report

By THOMAS W. PAUKEN
Director of ACTION

This is a story about a boy named Andy who had everything going for him. At least, that was the way it seemed. His parents were loving, his two sisters and a brother were nice, and there were no economic problems in his home life. The problems were inside himself. Andy was a fine basketball player, but he didn't think he was much good at anything else or that he could measure up to the rest of the family. He began looking for an escape from an illusion which to him was a hard reality. He thought he'd found it in marijuana. He was in the eighth grade and someone told him smoking pot was harmless, and it made you feel groovy. Those first few times, he recalled, he felt "very free and easy. I thought it was just great, just sitting around and feeling strange."

By the time Andy reached ninth grade, he was getting high on marijuana every morning, and some days he never made it to school. His parents, even though his father was a doctor, had no idea what he was engaged in, and he bragged to his fellow pot smokers how easy it was to fool the family. Lying was a part of his "Mr. Cool" act. Soon thereafter, Andy's life began to go downhill fast. In school his marks were Ds and Fs. Lying, cheating and stealing became routine with him. He sat on the bench during the basketball games, too stoned to play. He got in trouble with the law. The police began picking him up, freaked out. His parents were no longer unaware, but all attempts to reason with him, to point out what he was doing to himself made no impression. He was polluting himself with so many different kinds of drugs, he had lost touch with who or what he was.

It was his parents who acted to save him. One morning they literally dragged him out of bed and took him to the St. Petersburg, Fla. office of a drug treatment center. There, they calmly but firmly made him sign a contract to take the treatment program. Andy refused, and his father told him either he would sign voluntarily or they'd get a court order and force him to take the program. Andy signed, figuring he'd get out of it later. He didn't. Instead, for the next 13 months, the treatment center directed his life.

Except for a small adult staff, the center is run by teenagers like Andy. There are five phases of training, and Andy started at the bottom under guidance around the clock. There was no moving up to phase two until his fellow teenagers, on a higher phase, voted agreement. For Andy, it was a long, difficult climb back to reality, but every hard step of the way he was supported by his family and constantly aided by those who were going through the program too. Andy had always promised himself that once he was released he would return to drugs. Instead, he discovered the meaning of love and trust. He found real friendship, particularly with a girl who was five months ahead of him in the program, and when he walked out of the center, there was no longer any need to return to the old ways. "I feel lucky, very lucky," Andy reflected. "I had parents who cared enough to save me. I'm back on the basketball team and my grades are good again. I have a great girl-friend who understands what I've been through...I have a lot more faith in myself now. I don't need my 'tough guy' act. I know the real me can make it."

And, thanks to things that really count in life, we're sure Andy will make it.

FLOYD COUNTY HEALTH NEWS

By JANE BOND
Health Educator

Cervical cancer is one of the most curable of all cancers, yet 11,000 women die from this cancer each year. The Pap test could have saved some of these women since it detects cancer in its earliest and most curable stages. The Pap test does not hurt and it takes only a few moments of a woman's time. Every woman should protect herself by having regular Pap tests.

The Floyd County Health Department is having a Pap clinic on Friday, March 12, from 8:30 a.m. until 2 p.m. This clinic is a free service of the Health Department and any woman who has not had a Pap test in the past year is urged to take advantage of this service.

A nurse from the Health Department will be at Ward's Health Food Store in Harold next Tuesday from 10 until 2 to offer T.B. skin tests, immunizations, blood pressures, anemia screenings, and urinalyses. The public is welcome.

The West Kentucky Easter Seal Center, at Paducah, provided rehabilitation services to 730 clients and patients from the Western Kentucky area in 1981, 500 of them children.

PARTY HONORS MRS. JOHN EMERICK, OF CHARLESTON

Mrs. Frank H. Layne contributed an especially delightful affair to this week's social calendar when she entertained on Wednesday afternoon from 2 till 8 o'clock with a luncheon-bridge at the lovely home of Mrs. Will H. Layne, honoring her mother, Mrs. John Emerick, of Charleston, W. Va., who has been her pleasant houseguest for several days.

There were nine tables in play. Mrs. C. Y. Ligon won high score, and was awarded a pretty vanity. Mrs. Emerick, the guest of honor, was given a beautiful cream lace boudoir pillow, and Miss Salye Gatewood Ligon, the bride-elect, was also given a lovely prize.

The large dining room table was handsomely dressed in a drawn work table linen and around it were seated fifteen guests who had been invited for luncheon.

The home of Mrs. Layne was very lovely and attractive for the party, and it bore out a very summery idea, with its decorations of many lovely garden flowers of vivid hues. The tables arranged for the luncheon, which was served at 5:30 o'clock, were unusually attractive. A dainty luncheon was served, and was much enjoyed by all present, there being more than fifty guests.

Much of the pleasure which prevailed during the afternoon was due to the genial hospitality offered by the hostess, and her party was pronounced by all a decided success.

Those assisting Mrs. Layne were Mrs. J. C. Hopkins, Mrs. Robert Auxier and Mrs. Everett Sowards, of Pikeville. Invited guests were: Mesdames Geo. P. Archer, Mary D. Allen, Joe May, of Atlanta, Ga., W. P. Mayo, M. J. Leete, H. D. Fitzpatrick, W. S. Harkins, H. H. Fitzpatrick, John Theobald, of Grayson, Ky., Joe M. Davidson, Wm. Golden, F. A. Hopkins, and Misses Edith Fitzpatrick and Maurine Mayo.

Jobless Rate Hits Record High, Jan.

Kentucky's January unemployment rate reached a record high of 11.5 percent of the state's labor force, according to Department for Human Resources statistics released to Feb. 25. The number of jobless Kentuckians also reached a record high, 184,800.

This is the highest number of unemployed since records were begun in 1961.

The 11.5 percent rate for January was 2 percentage points higher than the state's revised December 1981 rate, 9.5 percent.

The unadjusted national rate for January was 9.4 percent. Unadjusted rates do not include seasonal adjustments such as school terms, holidays, weather patterns, etc. Kentucky unemployment figures are not seasonally adjusted.

The total number of jobless Kentuckians increased by 27,200 or 17.3 percent from December. Unemployment was up 23.2 percent among those persons entering the labor force. Joblessness rose 14.1 percent in industries covered by the state unemployment insurance law.

The state's higher unemployment rate reflects the usual seasonal decline in trade employment following Christmas plus declines in agricultural and construction employment, according to department statistics.

Also, Kentucky's labor force estimates for January have been revised to a 1981 benchmark, instead of 1980. This is a major contributing factor to the large unemployment rate increase from December 1981 to January 1982, according to the department's labor market analysis section. A benchmark is a point of reference (either an estimate or a count) from which labor force measurements can be made or on which adjustments are based.

Under the old benchmark, the December 1981 rate was 10.4 percent. The U.S. rate for 1981 was 7.6 while the Kentucky annual average for 1981 was 8.4 percent.

The Little Dove Church of Jesus Christ of Regular Baptist Faith and Order at Honaker, Ky. 41639.

We, the Little Dove members, want to thank everyone who helped to make our goal come true. This little church was established in May, 1910 and never had cushion seats before, and at our regular meeting in October 1981 the subject came up to do some work on the church, to put in new seats and new carpet. By the help of God and our friends, four months later, Feb. 27, 1982 we used the new seats, with all debts paid.

We, the members of this little church want to thank God and our friends for making it possible for us to accomplish our goal. Without help from our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, and our friends, as well as the church members his goal could not have been accomplished. We want to say everyone is welcome at the Little Dove Church, the fourth weekend of each month. This thank you note comes from the Little Dove Church members.

On Historic Register

Adath Jeshurun Temple in Louisville has been listed in the National Register of Historic Places.

The temple, located at 749-751 South Brook St., was built in 1918. It was nominated for the register for its exceptional design and detailing. Adath Jeshurun (now known as Unity of Louisville) was designed by J.J. Gaffney, who was responsible for several other religious structures in the city including Holy Name, St. James and St. Phillip Neri Roman Catholic churches.

The building reflects the revival of Near Eastern architectural styles with elements of the Byzantine and Islamic styles.

Quiet Day Service Stresses Social Justice

"Open Our Ears, Our Eyes And Our Hearts" was the title of the quiet day service for 1982 presented Monday evening by the United Methodist women of the First United Methodist Church.

The program presented the women's racial justice policy and emphasized the fact that God is the Creator of all mankind, no matter what the color, faith or nationality.

It was pointed out that "in principle, the United States of America has proclaimed equality and justice for all. But in practice this has not always been so."

The leader of the program was Mrs. Raymond Bradbury, with Mrs. Chalmer Frazier as the organist. Others on the program were Mrs. Floyd Brown, Mrs. James Carter, Mrs. Bud Glen, Mrs. Walter Snavely and Mrs. Marshall Davidson.

Following the meeting, refreshments were served by the hostesses. Mrs. Denzil Whitten and Mrs. Jess Stover.

Members present in addition to those on the program and the hostesses were: Mesdames George D. Brown, Paul Messer, Kathryn Stephens, Elizabeth Ramey, William O. Goebel, Woodrow Greenwade, Dick Spurlock, Alna Hamilton, Earl Blackburn, Tom Branham and the Misses Alice Harris, Elsie Stephens and Linda Stephens.

STILL THE "BEST BURGERS IN TOWN"

Orders Slowdown On Construction Of Costly Plants

The state Public Service Commission has just released an order that will greatly affect many Kentucky electricity consumers for years, according to Public Protection and Regulation Secretary Tracy Farmer.

"This order is designed to slow the need for expensive generating plants, one of the main causes of increasing electric rates," Farmer said. "It is the result of a great deal of research and numerous hearings over the past two and a half to three years."

The order is the commission's response to the Public Utility Regulatory Policies Act of 1978, an act passed by Congress as part of the National Energy Act.

The act required all state utility regulatory commissions to consider several ratemaking standards and decide if, when applied to the electric utilities in their respective states, they would promote conservation, utility efficiency, and equitable rates.

The Kentucky commission found that adoption of the standards would promote the purposes of the act.

"The state's largest privately-owned electric utilities will have to start implementing these standards. The process will take several years because the commission wants to be sure there are no economic disruptions and that the standards will be cost-justified," Farmer said.

Utilities involved in the process are Kentucky Power, Kentucky Utilities, Louisville Gas and Electric, and Union Light, Heat and Power.

The new standards are:

- Cost of service: Rates based on the costs needed to provide service.
- Declining block rates: The utilities will have to show that their declining block rates track costs.
- Time-of-Day rates: Rates will be higher during peak usage periods of the day and lower during other periods.
- Seasonal rates: Rates will be higher during peak periods, such as summer when air-conditioning is used.
- Interruptible rates: Service could be discontinued to large users, such as industries, during peak periods but they would pay a special rate.
- Load management techniques: These would be ways to reduce demand during peak periods.

At the same time the commission issued this order, it issued an order rejecting lifeline rates. Lifeline rates are for an initial block of usage of low-income residential electric consumers that would cover essential needs. The rates would be below the cost of service.

The commission said it rejected lifeline rates because benefits would be minimal ($3 to $4 on a $70 or $80 bill), some poor people could actually end up paying more because of high usage, and redistribution of wealth is a social issue that should be addressed by Congress or the General Assembly not the commission.

Employ Older Worker, Proclamation Urges

County Judge-Executive Jerry Lafferty, Jr. last Friday proclaimed the period, March 7-13, Employ the Older Worker Week in this county, to coincide with the week declared nationally by President Reagan to focus public attention on the problems of older workers.

Objective of the week, Judge Lafferty's proclamation explains, is to have each worker judged by employers on the basis of individual ability to do a specific job. "The problem is," the proclamation points out, "despite high job qualifications, many who lose their jobs have great trouble finding new ones, and the search (for jobs) becomes more difficult as they grow older."

Learning to Promenade

A group of folks in the Martin-Maytown area have been learning the patterns of western square dance over the past few months while, at the same time, working off several winter calories. The group comes up with just enough money to pay for a professional caller-instructor to travel from various places and welcomes new members. The sessions are held each Thursday night from 7-9 p.m. and anyone interested can call 285-3363.

1982 Proclaimed 'Year Of Eagle'

Now it's official: Acting on a resolution passed by Congress late in December, President Reagan has proclaimed 1982 as the Bicentennial year of the American Bald Eagle.

The Presidential proclamation also designates June 20, 1982, as National Bald Eagle Day, commemorating the 200th anniversary of the day on which the Continental Congress adopted the eagle as the central figure of the Great Seal of the United States—thus making the big, fierce bird our national symbol.

President Reagan's action culminated an eight-month campaign by the National Wildlife Federation, the nation's largest citizens conservation organization, to obtain official recognition of the bald eagle's role in U.S. history. The bald eagle, once plentiful throughout the country, is now endangered in most of the "lower 48" states, and the NWF hopes the observance will call attention to the plight of the eagle and other endangered species in the U.S. The Endangered Species Act is up for renewal by Congress this year.

Loss of habitat, the reckless use of pesticides, and illegal shooting caused a long decline in the population of the bird, which is found only in North America. Now, figures from NWF's annual midwinter bald eagle survey indicate that the bird may be starting to make a comeback. A total of 13,709 bald eagles was counted in the 48 contiguous states in the NWF "census" of January, 1981, the last year for which figures are available.

"We Care About Eagles" is the theme for this year's National Wildlife Week, to be observed from March 14 through 20. NWF estimates that 15 million school children, teachers and conservationists will participate in the observance.

Woman's World

Natural Cosmetic Creations

Beauty may be in the eyes of the beholder, but sometimes it's only natural to give Mother Nature a helping hand.

In the new paperback, How to Make Your Own Herbal Cosmetics (Keats Publishing), author Liz Sanderson gives you the lowdown on do-it-yourself beauty preparations from suntan oils and wrinkle prevention creams to facial masks and herbal baths.

She also includes a history of cosmetics through the centuries. For example, according to Ms. Sanderson, Titian models used privet leaves to give their tresses a copper glow, henna for red hair color, and chamomile and lemon for bleaches. Tobacco was once the rage among brunettes when it came to concealing gray hair. The ancient Romans used elderberries to give color and shine to dark hair.

Today's woman can also reap the benefits of simple and inexpensive cosmetics by using items from her cabinet or refrigerator. Below, some common ingredients in simple facial masks which can revitalize and tone your complexion:

- Egg yolk and lemon are excellent complexion toners. Take one-half of a lemon and hollow out enough of the inside to hold one egg yolk. Leave yolk in lemon overnight. Cleanse and dry your face thoroughly and then cover your face and neck with a warm towel for a minute or two to open up the pores. Spread the mixture evenly over your face, avoiding the area around the eyes. Leave on for 20 minutes then rinse with warm water.

Another version of the mask consists of beating an egg yolk with fresh yeast and a few drops of sweet almond oil. For very dry, flaky skin, mix a teaspoon of olive oil in with the other ingredients. Remove the mask with warm water—or milk, if the skin is very sensitive.

- Egg whites can be used in astringent face masks. For a very oily skin, beat an egg white stiffly and add a few drops of a herbal infusion or lemon juice to improve the skin tone, or add a teaspoon of honey.

- Fruit masks are lightly astringent and improve the tone and texture of the skin. Strawberry, peach and apricot purees, mixed with whipped cream for a dry skin, egg yolk for oily skin, are among the more common concoctions.

- Cucumbers, which are slightly astringent, and avocados, which are emollient and nourishing to the skin, and spinach boiled gently in milk can all improve a flaky skin. Raw potatoes, beetroot grated and mixed with cream, and strawberries are said to smooth out wrinkles.

- Cornflour, barley meal, oatmeal, and ground almonds can make nourishing and cleansing facial masks when mixed with water to form a paste.

- Yogurt, buttermilk, milk and herbal infusions can all be used in facial compresses. Cut a square of linen somewhat larger than your face and cut holes for your eyes and mouth. Dip this into your liquid and lay over your face for about 20 minutes. Then, rinse thoroughly with soft water.

Estrogen Drugs and Cancer

A new study, supported by funds from the Food and Drug Administration and the National Institutes of Health, has found that the adverse effects of estrogen drugs on women can be reversed if the patient stops taking the drugs.

Many women take estrogen to assuage the severe symptoms of menopause, known as "hot flashes." While the discomforts of menopause may be lessened as a result of the drug, women taking it increase their chances of developing cancer of the lining of the uterus. In fact, the study estimates that women who have taken the drug for more than five years have ten to thirty times greater risk of developing uterine cancer. Only one tenth of the women who do not use the drug for extended periods of time get uterine cancer. The study reports that when consumption of estrogen declined by 28 percent between 1975-77, the incidence of uterine cancer also declined—by 27 percent.

Women should heed the warnings on the patient package inserts included with each prescription of estrogen drugs. The inserts advise women to take the drugs only when needed to treat "hot flashes" during menopause and then, only for the shortest possible time in the lowest possible dosage. Women should not take the drug to relieve simple nervousness and depression or to make the skin softer after menopause.

U.S. Court Finds Dams Subject To Water Pollution Regulations

A federal judge in Washington, D.C., has ruled that the Environmental Protection Agency must enforce stricter pollution standards for the nation's man-made dams—a decision that environmentalists say could go a long way toward cleaning up the nation's waterways.

Ruling on a suit filed by the National Wildlife Federation in 1979, District Court Judge Joyce Hens Green concluded that the EPA had violated the Clean Water Act by refusing to regulate dams as "point" sources of pollution. Though the Act never specifically addressed dam-created pollution, wrote Green in a 35-page opinion, "the highly ambitious purpose of the Clean Water Act is to restore and maintain the integrity of the nation's waters."

"Since the Clean Water Act cannot achieve its goals without attacking all pollution sources," she wrote, "dams cannot simply be ignored."

NWF's Vice President for Resource Conservation, Patrick A. Parenteau, applauded the decision as a "significant step toward the restoration and maintenance of acceptable water quality throughout the nation."

"In many parts of the country, such as the Southeast and Northwest," he said, "water quality standards simply cannot be achieved unless dams, especially large hydro dams, are regulated as 'point' source polluters."

The designation of dams as "point" sources will require that they be subject to the same permit system that regulates traditional point sources, such as industrial facilities and sewage treatment plants. The EPA, according to Green's opinion, will have to establish standards for the quality of water that flows through dams and will have to require any polluting dams to obtain federal permits.

The NWF suit claimed that the construction and operation of large dams often led to water quality problems, massive fish kills and other adverse impacts on aquatic life. Dams were often responsible for significant changes in the water that flowed through them, said the NWF, such as decreases in dissolved oxygen, nitrogen supersaturation, increases in dissolved metals and sediment, and variations in temperature.

Although the EPA did not quarrel with the NWF's contention that dams can cause serious water pollution problems, it argued that such changes did not result from a "discharge of pollutants," and thus were not within the jurisdiction of the agency's permitting system.

Green rejected this notion, concluding that a failure to include dams in the permit system would violate the

State Library Moving

Moving is always difficult but the state library staff is facing a monumental task.

During the next two months, Libraries and Archives Department staff members and moving crews will be shifting thousands of items from the department's old Berry Hill location in Frankfort to its new building across town.

They will be moving over 100,000 cubic feet of public records; nearly 120,000 books; 45,000 government documents; 3,500 films; more than 150,000 talking books, cassettes and Braille books; 15,000 reels of microfilm; and more than 700 periodical titles (some going back to 1850).

The new library building is located on East-West Connector in Frankfort. The road has recently been renamed Coffee Tree Road. The building has 145,000 square feet of space which will allow consolidation of staff, materials and equipment now in five buildings at three Frankfort sites.

The new facility at 300 Coffee Tree Road should be open to the public in April. The formal opening will be later in the year.

Fred Waring Special Is Scheduled On KET

It's music to the ears when "The Fred Waring Show" airs on KET, Friday, March 12 at 9 p.m. The two-hour special features Fred Waring and the Young Pennsylvanians in concert—a thoroughly entertaining evening from Waring and his talented young singers whose musical range runs from contemporary tunes to the classics. The songs on the program are songs of today: American pop tunes, movie themes, Broadway tunes and country ballads.

Known for his popular choral music, Waring has introduced more new songs to the world than any other song leader, at the request of such composers as Irving Berlin, Hoagy Carmichael, Richard Rodgers and Jerome Kern.

Taped before a live audience at the Hershey Theatre, in Hershey, Pa., "The Fred Waring Show," is a WNET production.

Ky. Humane Assns. Offer 'Write-Line'

The year-old Humane Associations of Kentucky has announced the establishment of an information and reporting center for animal humane affairs for the Commonwealth of Kentucky. The purpose of the 'Write-Line' is to provide a responsible and responsive source for communications concerning animal welfare.

PUBLIC NOTICE TO OWNERS OF RENTAL HOUSING

The Floyd County Housing Authority is administering a Section 8 Moderate Rehabilitation Program in Floyd County using funds provided by the Department of Housing and Urban Development. Under this program, owners will rehabilitate rental units which are now substandard or have major building systems or components requiring repair or replacement. The cost of this work, which must total at least $1000 per unit, may be financed by a local lending institution, by the owner, or by any other source available to the owner. The agency does not make rehabilitation loans or grants, but will assist owners to obtain financing. After required rehabilitation work has been completed, the agency and the owner will execute a contract which establishes a rent for the unit(s) that will cover rehabilitation costs, meet monthly operating expenses, and allow a reasonable profit on the owner's investment. For a fifteen year period, the owner will rent the rehabilitated unit(s) to eligible lower income tenants, who will pay approximately 25 percent of their income toward the rent. The agency will pay the remainder of the rent directly to the owner. The initial occupant of a rehabilitated unit may be the owner's present eligible tenant. After rehabilitation the rent (including utilities) cannot exceed the following Maximum Rents:

BEDROOM SIZE
206	244	282	319

The agency's current funds will allow rehabilitation of 35 units of rental housing as follows:

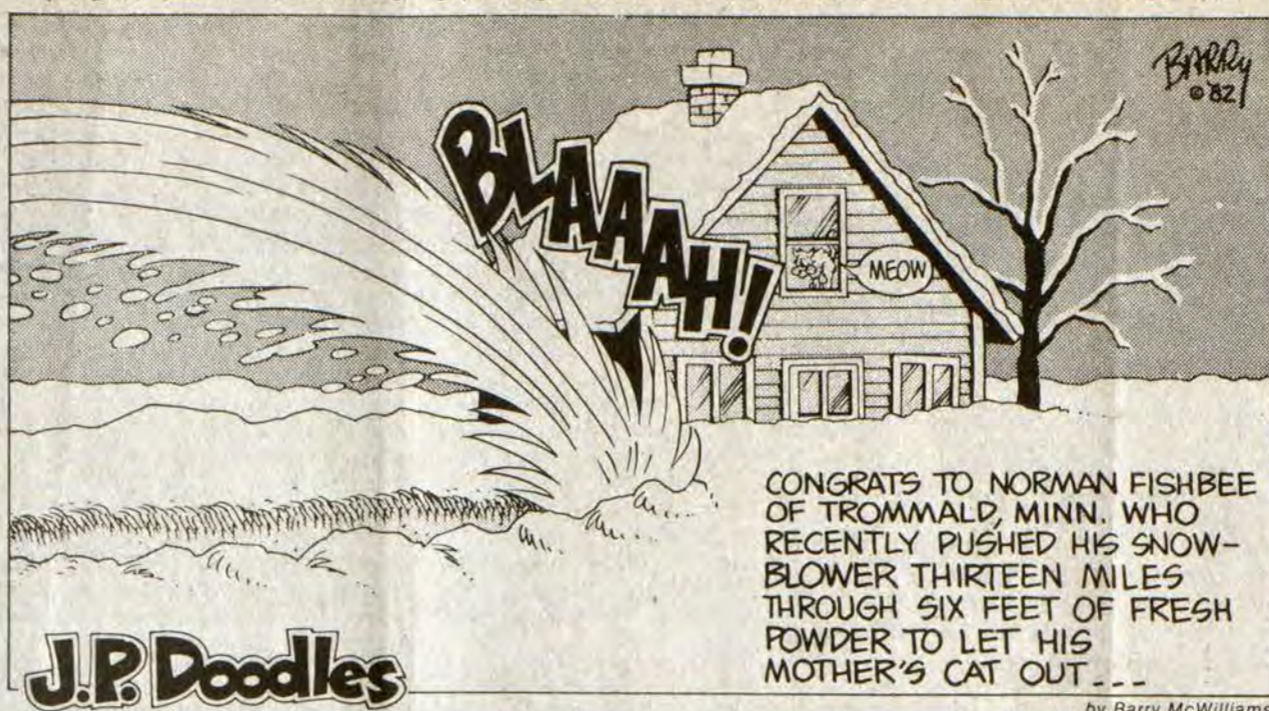

1 BR	2 BR	3 BR	4 BR
8	18	7	2

No unit will be assisted which results in the permanent displacement of current tenant. Proposals from owners will be received by the Housing Authority until further notice. Owners who wish to submit a proposal must obtain an application form from:

Mine Safety Group Makes Suggestions

The Kentucky Review Commission on Deep Mine Safety presented its recommendations to Gov. John Y. Brown, Jr. at a meeting held at the Capitol on Monday, March 1.

The commission, composed of miners, operators, legislators and state and federal officials, was organized in late January after a series of fatal accidents caused questions to be raised about safety practices in Kentucky mines.

At that time, the members were given a month to study conditions in the mines and to suggest any changes necessary to improve health and safety standards. The one-month deadline was assigned to give the 1982 General Assembly sufficient time to review any revisions requiring legislative approval.

The findings, based on statewide public hearings held by the commission's three subcommittees, focus on the blasting practice of solid shooting, current mining laws and present state programs designed to enhance mine safety. The subsequent recommendations include submission and approval of a blasting plan from coal operators and the creation of a "SWAT team" to monitor and discourage illegal mining.

Tracy Farmer, secretary of the Public Protection and Regulation Cabinet, and Willard Stanley, Mines and Minerals Department commissioner, served as ex-officio members of the commission and coordinated the efforts over the past weeks. Both were pleased with the report and felt the recommendations, if implemented, would encourage greater awareness and safety.

"While no regulation, now or in the future, guarantees the elimination of fatalities in coal mining, the commission's suggestions heighten awareness of the need for more cautious practices and reinforce a pattern of safer practices," Farmer said.

"The rash of recent accidents has reminded us that coal is of the utmost importance to the well-being of the commonwealth and its citizens. However, most important, is the health and safety of the miners because the people are Kentucky's most valuable resource."

Stanley praised the combined efforts of the committee and reiterated his belief that the recommendations would significantly improve the safety of Kentucky mines.

"I am heartened by each member's tireless commitment over the past month. One very crucial fact that came out of the public hearings is that operators, miners and officials are of a single mind: that safety is the most vital element in coal mining," Stanley said. "I feel confident that the ideas urged by the committee go a long way in assuring a safer environment for our coal miners."

Highlights of the committee's report include:

Coal mine operators must submit detailed plans with the state before being permitted to shoot from the solid.

Mine inspections must be completed by state officials before blasting plans can be approved and solid shooting begun.

If inspections reveal serious violations, the mine can be closed for two days with the first citation. If violations are observed a second time, the mine can be closed for five days. Additional violations can lead to cancellation of permits.

Drill operators should be properly certified and state inspectors properly trained in storage and handling of explosives and detailed technical standards for blasting procedures.

A SWAT team, composed of mine inspectors and state troopers, should be established to control illegal mining operations as a deterrent to such activities. All equipment found in mines not licensed by the state would be confiscated and sold by sealed bid with proceeds added to the Department of Mines and Minerals budget.

Additional years of experience and training will be required for the certification of miners, mine foremen and mine inspectors.

Existing safety laws and regulations will be more rigidly enforced.

The right of a miner to refuse to operate unsafe equipment will be protected.
