

Term of Patrick Limited to Life

2nd Cited for Neimi Murder Confesses Guilt

Denver Patrick, last of the two men scheduled for trial on murder and arson charges connected with the slaying at Wayland of young James Neimi, pleaded guilty to both charges Friday in Boyle circuit court at Danville and was sentenced to life imprisonment for murder and 20 years for arson.

The guilty plea surprised Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen, who had gone to Danville for a pre-trial hearing in preparation for trial of the case later this month. The trial had been moved from the Floyd circuit court to Boyle county after a change of venue had been granted on the grounds that widespread publicity had made it impossible for the defendant to have a fair trial in this county.

The commonwealth's attorney recommended that the two terms run consecutively, but Circuit Judge Henry Pennington, of the Boyle circuit court, pointed out that state law does not permit judges to sentence a defendant to more than one life term in prison and set the two terms to run concurrently.

Patrick will be eligible for parole review in seven years.

So will two others who have pleaded guilty—James M. Noel, Patrick's confederate in the Wayland case, and Elijah Branham Jr., kidnap-slayer of Michael Dwayne Cline. Neither the life term for murder nor the 20-year sentence for arson was marked to run either consecutively or concurrently in the sentencing order for Noel. In the Branham case a 20-year term for robbery and life term for murder were ordered to run consecutively. The life term for kidnapping was not so marked.

Allen referred to the law as creating (See Story No. 2, Page 4)

Truck-Weight Bill by Stumbo Said 'Realistic'

Legislation sponsored by Rep. Greg Stumbo, D-Prestonsburg, would bring coal-truck weight limits more in line with the reality faced by operators in the state's coal-producing counties.

"Current laws dealing with coal truck weight on state highways are outdated," Stumbo said. "But House Bill 92 would eliminate laws that make Eastern Kentucky small-business operators criminals."

The measure would allow a truck driver to purchase a permit from the Department of Transportation which would enable the driver to carry up to 90,000 pounds gross weight on any state or county road and 80,000 pounds on any interstate highways subject to federal regulations that set an 80,000-pound maximum.

The permit would cost the driver one-half of 1 percent of the selling price of the coal being hauled.

The fees collected through permit sales would be distributed to coal and coal-impact counties and be used to maintain the coal-impacted roads.

Stumbo said the bill originated with a task force appointed by the governor to study problems surrounding coal-road transportation—mainly, overweight coal trucks and how to eliminate the problem.

You Win Some, Lose Some, Coal Tax Supporters Find

There was both good news and bad news from Frankfort Monday for those working to maximize coal tax receipts in this county.

The good news was that a House committee approved a bill that would tax unmined coal at the same rate as other property. The bad news was that the same committee also approved a measure that would lessen markedly the amount of coal severance tax returned to this county.

The House Appropriations and Revenue Committee approved House Bill 549, which its supporters say would force large out-of-state corporations owning vast tracts of east Kentucky coal land to bear a fair share of the tax burden here.

Joe Childers, an attorney with the Lexington office of the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund, told the committee that a combination of low assessments and a low tax rate on un-

This Town...That World

Regardless of what you read or saw, there was no flooding in this section of Kentucky this week. The Licking River didn't get into Salyersville.

Only three days—tra-la!—till spring and only 20 days till the baseball season begins. The snail's on the thorn and the lark's on the wing, even if all is not right with the world.

JOY NOT UNALLOYED

Me, I'll take this season of the year above all others: the winter past, or almost so; that feel of life anew, in the air, underfoot, in sight and sound; mornings that have that peculiar glow, and evenings that fade rather than fall into darkness. Besides all that, daylight comes early, we're still on slow time and getting to work on time is no problem. The frog in the flower garden, however, from my point of view, is that daylight saving time is not far ahead, and that will throw me back to where I was before spring came along—with the possibility I'll wind up confused, all over again.

Floyd Widows Lose Supreme Court Case

Gracie Robinson and Juanita Hager lost their case in the nation's highest court last week, in a decision in which as many as 4000 other coal miners' widows are also losers.

The question on which the U.S. Supreme Court ruled last Monday was whether the widows were entitled to permanent health-care coverage under the United Mine Workers' retirement program. The Court said they are not.

Floyd Robinson had been working more than 25 years in mines in this county when he died in 1967; Paul Hager had worked 40 years as a miner here when he died in 1971. Both men were eligible for retirement benefits but were still working at the time of their deaths.

Because they had not retired, their widows were denied permanent health coverage. Widows whose husbands had died after retirement, on the other hand, did get permanent coverage. Attorneys for the two Floyd widows—Mrs. Hager has since remarried; her married name is now

Ad Salesman's Pitch Results in Arrest

When William Josten, erstwhile salesman, made his second call on a Prestonsburg housewife, purportedly to sell advertising in a calendar on behalf of the Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad, she set up an appointment with him.

Before Josten could arrive, she called Fire Chief Tom Blackburn, who, with Police Chief Jim Curtis, set up a listening station in a room adjoining the one where she would talk with the "salesman."

The upshot of the ensuing conversation (See Story No. 3, Page 4)

Fraley—argued in court that the exclusion of the women was arbitrary and unfair.

Trustees of the union retirement fund argued that eligibility requirements for health coverage were worked out in contract negotiations between the UMW and the Bituminous Coal Operators' Association in 1974. Courts should not be permitted to alter a contract worked out in good-faith labor negotiations, they said. The UMW and the AFL-CIO agreed with the coal operators' association on that point.

While the fund trustees won the first round, in U.S. District Court, the Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia last year reversed that decision, in favor of the widows. The exclusion of the two Floyd women was arbitrary, the appeals court ruled, and should not be allowed just because it was the result of collective bargaining.

The Supreme Court last week reversed the appeals court decision, however, arguing that, as long as no federal law has been violated, the courts have no authority to modify the terms of a collective bargaining contract.

The widows were represented in the case by Somerset attorney Larry Sword and John Rosenberg, director of the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund here.

Metts Plan Sets Floyd Jobs at 5

Two short roads and three new bridges represent this county's share of about 564 projects included in an updated five-year state construction program unveiled by Transportation Secretary Frank Metts last week.

Total cost of the road-and-bridge replacement is estimated at $1.5 billion statewide. Cost of the Floyd projects is $4.6 million.

Scheduled for this year are reconstruction of U.S. 23 from Prestonsburg High School to the community college; acquisition of right-of-way and relocation of utilities, in preparation for a new bridge to span the Big Sandy at Allen, and design for a new bridge at Cliff.

A $240,956 contract for rebuilding U.S. 23 between the high school and college was recently awarded to East Kentucky Paving Corp., of Grayson. The project involves construction of a left-turn lane.

Construction of a road to serve the public housing project at Cliff, the Allen bridge, and a bridge over Johns Creek, near German, are set for 1983. Replacement of the Cliff bridge is listed as a 1985 project.

Work on replacing the Tram bridge, listed in last year's edition of the five-year plan, is currently under way. Depending on weather conditions, the project may be completed by June, a worker there said.

Also included in the plan are portions of roads that the administration had previously announced it would build, including large sections of U.S. 23, mostly in Pike and Lawrence counties. The section linking Prestonsburg and Paintsville is not included, however.

A Transportation Department official last week offered little hope that the two-lane Prestonsburg-Paintsville artery would be upgraded in the foreseeable future. As a link in the Appalachian Development Program, that section was rated as "adequate" by federal highway assessors in the 1960's, explained Mark Roberts, an assistant to Secretary Metts. Because of that rating, and especially in view of the current squeeze on Appalachian Regional Commission funds, the state "could not justify using the money on that one stretch," he said.

Metts announced his first five-year road plan last year and said he intends to update it each year that Governor John Y. Brown, Jr. is in office. In a preface to this year's report, he explained that, of the original 469 projects listed last year, 268 are ahead of schedule. Of the remaining 201 projects, he said, all but 14 are on schedule.

Gov. Brown has characterized the plan as part of a continuing effort to remove politics from state road construction.

Judge Delays Action On District 3 Vote

Denying a published report that he decided last Friday to cancel the wet-dry vote scheduled for the county's third magisterial district April 20, Judge-Executive Jerry Lafferty, Jr. insisted this week that the election issue is still undecided and will remain so until he has had an opportunity to confer with the county attorney.

County Attorney Arnold Turner, Jr. was reported to be out of town until Friday.

In the meantime, wet forces here have been organizing for a countywide local-option vote. Fred Bingham, one of the organizers of the Committee to Support Alcoholic Beverages, said this week the group has already collected 1400 signatures of the 2349 needed to petition for a countywide vote on legal liquor sales.

According to state law, a petition for a local-option election must bear the signatures of 25 percent of the number who voted in the last general election. Bingham said his group hopes to gather about 3500 names and to seek a wet-dry election here this summer.

The question of whether to cancel the election already scheduled for the third magisterial district has been raised by complaints that a single-district election could not legally be held in counties that were earlier voted dry—as Floyd was, most recently in 1969. An identical issue is currently under litigation in Magoffin Circuit Court.

Besides Magoffin county's third district, eastern Kentucky is legally dry except for most of Perry county, part of Ashland, and the cities of Cumberland and Mount Sterling.

At a meeting in Martin last week, the Committee to Support Alcoholic Beverages elected as officers Sandy Boyd, of Dana, chairman, Fred Bingham, secretary-treasurer, and Katie Newsome, of Buckingham, publicity officer. The group has set another meeting in the Betsy Layne school auditorium, March 24, at 7:30 p.m.

Dry forces earlier organized and named Huey Darby, Allen insurance man, chairman.

Panel Approves Bill To Limit 'Broadform'

"It's time to help the little people a little bit," Everett Akers, of Finance Hollow, near Martin, told a legislative committee last week. The former state legislator was among a number of Floyd residents in Frankfort to lobby for passage of a bill that would protect surface owners from unwanted strip-mining of coal beneath their land.

After rounding up enough legislators to constitute a quorum of the House Judiciary-Civil Committee late Thursday afternoon, supporters of House Bill 495—the "broadform deed" bill sponsored by Prestonsburg Rep. Gregory Stumbo—were heartened when the panel reported out the measure by an 11-1 margin.

Moreover, the committee removed a provision Stumbo had added this year to make the bill less controversial, restoring the bill approximately to the form it took in 1980, when it was approved overwhelmingly by the House but died in the Senate.

Under the bill, mining of coal purchased under turn-of-the-century broadform deeds would be limited to the mining methods in use when the deeds were signed. Modern strip-mining methods were not generally in use at the time.

The provision added this year by Stumbo but subsequently deleted in committee—Stumbo did not oppose the deletion—would have permitted strip-mining if 75 percent of the affected surface owners consented, as long as non-consenting owners were paid the same royalties and damages paid to consenting owners.

Supporters of the original bill opposed the amendment, arguing that it weakened the bill and amounted to illegal condemnation of the property of the non-consenting owners.

Tom Duncan, president of the Kentucky Coal Association, warned that the bill would disrupt coal production and clog court dockets.

"Common Misconceptions About Nurses"

By KATHY MARTIN

Since the days of "Ben Casey," and "Marcus Welby," to today's "Trapper John M.D.," and many soap opera nurses, we have been exposed to several images of nursing. When we think about the nurse's role portrayed in the media, we see the comic relief nurse, the exploited sexpot, good faithful servant of the all-knowing doctor, mushy soap opera maid, and the hard-nosed martyr, none of which are very flattering. Although I feel the public doesn't completely rely on the media for their image of nursing, I see it influencing people more and more. I remember the first episode of "Trapper John M.D.," when the blonde bombshell nurse "Ripples" assisted Dr. Gates with an emergency tracheostomy. Slightly startled at her performance, the doctor stated, "You're a good nurse," she then fell all over him with gratitude and wiggled away in her high heels. Performances like this one make it very easy for the public to obtain misconceptions regarding nurses.

Although nurses may be considered professional, it is not the same professionalism attributed to doctors, but rather a dedicated role in assisting doctors, and providing compassionate patient care based on their orders.

Surprisingly, I found in a recent survey, performed by "RN" magazine, that doctors hold probably the worst image of nurses. The survey revealed that doctor's estimates of nursing competence are lower than the public's. Only a quarter of the doctors surveyed said that nurses understand diseases and therapy very well, compared to 57 percent of the public. According to the vast majority of the physicians, nurses still function best as an M.D.'s assistant, and need no increase in the amount of authority they hold.

One thing the majority of physicians and consumers do agree on is that more bedside care is needed. With 79 percent of doctors and 50 percent of the public surveyed agreeing with this, it is apparent that their interpretation of the bedside care given is more damaging to the nurse's image than the media.

A recent survey of area high school senior English classes at McDowell and Prestonsburg showed varied opinions of nurses. Although there were students who said nurses were professional, intelligent care-givers, and warm people, the majority felt that nurses were doctor's "maids" or assistants. They believe that a nurse follows doctors around, and administers medications, this being the extent of her professionalism. One quality they suggested that is essential to the nurse's image is "smiling."

When the students were asked what one person displayed the image of a nurse in their eyes, the students had many responses such as: Loretta Switt, Florence Nightingale, and Michael Learned of the TV program "Nurse." A pleasing finding of this survey was that several area nurses were named as the students' image of a good nurse. This brings out an important point, we do have GOOD professional nursing in this area on an individual basis. It isn't the area in which the nurse works, but the nurse herself that is important.

The majority of the girls surveyed feel that they could be nurses, and although most of the boys voted no, their reasoning was unexpected. Instead of thinking that nursing is a feminine profession, they listed reasons such as: lack of ambition, inability to deal with illness and death, and lack of personal strength.

Popular attitudes and assumptions about nurses and their contributions to a patient's welfare can determine to a large extent the future of nursing. Today some opinions held by the public have been derived directly from the image of nursing projected through television, or by the consumer's personal experience with nursing personnel.

It is apparent that there are many misconceptions regarding nursing, and an effort must be made to change these. Nurses must take a professional pride in their work, performing to the best of their ability, carrying out their responsibilities effectively, and being creative in the care they give. This will also require the public to lay aside their sorted images of nurses, and bring an open mind to the situation, evaluating care given, not the media's idea of that care. If we are to improve our image, we must work with the public and media, educating them to the reality of nursing, not the fantasy. We will start with an article next week dealing with the qualities and role of the registered nurse.

Johnson County Man Convicted Of 2 Slayings

A 21-year-old Johnson county man was convicted last week of the stabbing murders of two men, and in an emotion-charged circuit court session the trial jury recommended for him two life prison terms.

The defendant, Glen Hicks, was charged with the fatal stabbings at Thelma last year of Steven Sharkey and Raymond Holbrook.

Judge W.B. Hazelrigg delayed sentencing after Hicks slammed his fist on the table and cursed when the jury's verdict was polled.

The action apparently set off a chain reaction, causing other family members in the courtroom to sob and yell and Hicks' mother to faint.

Indictments against Hicks charged that he stabbed Sharkey four times while he slept in his trailer at Thelma and then went to Holbrook's home, about 300 yards away, to borrow his truck. When Holbrook refused his request, the state argued, Holbrook was stabbed 17 times.

Commonwealth's Attorney John David Preston said Hicks' motive was revenge because he had been ejected from a party at Sharkey's house a night earlier. He also said Hicks had been drinking and using drugs when he went to see Sharkey the next day.

Although no eyewitnesses or murder weapon were produced, prosecution witnesses placed Hicks near the crime scene on Sept. 12 and said Hicks' blood was found at the scene of the Holbrook slaying.

Spins "Wheel of Fortune"

Three words stood between Nancy Crum and a new car—"southern fried chicken."

The Southern Hills High School junior had already beaten two opponents on the popular TV game show, "Wheel of Fortune," which requires the player to guess a word or phrase with only a few letters revealed on a board, but this particular phrase escaped her and, alas, the new car was not to be hers.

Miss Crum won a hot tub and other prizes on the show during a recent teen week series and Nancy and her mother agreed that the prizes were a lot better than going with what they came with—nothing. Anyway, the pretty teenager's week was going well since she had earlier won the grand prize in a cooking contest in her hometown of Fullerton, California. She received $100 for her "Nancy's Wa-La cake."

Nancy said she was determined to be a contestant on the daytime quiz show since last summer when she became a regular viewer but, she pointed out, guessing the answers at home is a lot easier than doing it in front of a camera. An honor student, she said her practice in front of football crowds as head cheerleader helped her performance on television and her mother suspects that a small frog charm her daughter held for luck may have helped to steady her nerves.

"The scariest part was seeing myself on TV afterwards," Nancy commented. "It didn't look or sound like me."

Nancy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frankie Crum, of Fullerton, and a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Crum, of Betsy Layne.

How would you like to try a sampler plate of duck, five-spice chicken, Chinese barbecued spareribs, snow peas with shrimp, egg rolls and chicken chow mein? Would you believe you could find such cuisine in a hospital? It's true. A mouth-watering Chinese dinner will be served at the Highlands Regional Medical Center cafeteria on Thursday, March 18th from 12:15 p.m.-2:00 p.m. The special dinner is being prepared for the employees, visitors and the public.

The menu will feature an all Chinese food selection and the service will be cafeteria style. Items will be individually priced, but entree samplers can be purchased at a cost of $3.50 for visitors and $2.75 for employees. Salad samplers will also be available.

The foreign dinner has been planned as a treat for employees and to give everyone a chance to try foods of a different culture. "Planning the Chinese meal has been a challenge to our Dietary Department," said Sue Wilkerson, Food Services Supervisor. "We've all had a chance to be creative, and hope everyone enjoys the results."

Highlands hopes to serve special dinners of this type regularly. Mexican and Hawaiian food menus are being planned for the coming months.

"Happy" Deserved It

The election last week of Kentucky's "Happy" Chandler to baseball's Hall of Fame was an honor never more richly deserved by an individual other than by players themselves.

But for Mr. Chandler's courageous flaunting of old standards and as commissioner of baseball permitting the late Jackie Robinson, himself now a Hall of Famer, to play big league baseball, the cruel and unjust color barrier might still exist and scores of black athletes would be playing out their careers in obscure black leagues, denied the honors their skills deserved.

Less publicized but as demanding of "sand in the craw" was Mr. Chandler's support of the players as opposed to the clubowners who employed him in the first place.

We have differed sharply on occasion with "Happy" on political issues, but it is our pleasure to congratulate him and those who have honored him while he is yet living.

Financial Backaches

The cost of utilities—gas, electricity, telephone, water—has risen till the state's Public Service Commission has sounded a warning that the last-straw limit may be near. It has called on utility companies to show restraint in seeking rate increases and, almost at the same time, has ordered electric utilities to slow down the construction of expensive generating plants.

It is encouraging to hear PSC Chairman Martin M. Volz say:

"In undertaking its difficult work the commission is required by statute to balance the needs of companies and consumers. We believe that the utility companies also have a duty to strike a similar balance between their own needs and the financial plight of their customers."

It is a topic that merits much consideration. U.S. NEWS and WORLD REPORT in its current number asks, "Is Inflation's Back Broken for Good?" and accompanies the article with a table showing item-by-item cost changes. Motor fuel, homes, home financing, taxes and insurance, clothing and used cars—all were down at the annual rate reflected by January prices. A half-dozen other items still are above 1981 prices but their upward rise is slacking off. But not home electricity and gas.

According to these figures, based on data supplied by the U.S. Department of Labor, electricity, which last year soared by 15%, will rise to 27.9% this year, and natural gas for homes will be even higher at 33.4%.

Such rates, as we understand the complicated formula, are approved by the Public Service Commission on the basis of the given cost of a new plant or plant addition, with equipment, with the rates set to give a net profit sufficient to attract investors. For electric power, the cost of fuel used in generating electricity also must be considered. In natural gas drilling and transportation expenses are major items.

But how carefully has the PSC looked into these costs, and why do they exist? How much of a new plant should be paid for by increased rates to the consumer when it is a capital investment, made to provide utility services to more paying customers?

It may be an oversimplification of the situation, but we fail to understand why the customers of a grocery store, for example, should be required to pay more for groceries in order to pay the cost incurred by the grocer in building and equipping an addition to his store in order to serve more customers and sell more merchandise at a profit.

If inflation's back is broken, it is a happy circumstance that has escaped the attention of thousands of the elderly and those with limited financial resources—perhaps because they are having back miseries closer home.

Tel-Com Design Work Started

Four Years Old

Chad Michael Justice celebrated his fourth birthday, Thursday, February 25, at his home with members of his family and friends attending.

He is the son of Dallas Justice, of Banner, and Elaine Justice, of Emma. His grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Justice, of the Auxier Road, and Mr. and Mrs. William R. Hall, of Prestonsburg.

Design work has been begun for Tel-Com, Inc., of Harold, on a new 40-channel-capability TV system to serve sections of Floyd and Pike counties as part of an area project that will involve the expenditure, over all, of $6.3 million.

The project is now approximately 20 percent complete, Paul Gearheart, Tel-Com president, said.

The design work under way by CATV Engineering Services Corp., Townsend, Tenn., is on portions of the system to serve Toler Creek, the Big Mud Creek area and Wheelwright in this county and the Wells Addition and Hurricane Creek in Pike. Strand mapping and design for the Middle Creek section of this county will be a part of Phase II of the continuing project, Gearheart said.

The mapping and design work already committed will complete such preliminary work for Floyd county and will add about 1700 customers to the present 4000 already served in the county. When complete, the sprawling 40-channel system will serve about 9000 customers, including 900 in the Matewan area of West Virginia, it was said.

Gearheart said television service, based on 15 channels, is being provided subscribers in three categories, according to their individual desires for coverage and financial ability to pay: 1. Five channel; 2. 12 channels, and 3. all 15 channels, three of which are pay-TV.

Flood control dams in the Big Sandy River watershed saved the valley an estimated $1,466,000 flood damage during late February, the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers said this week... "Surface mining is not a problem at Dewey lake at this time, and the lake is not in bad shape at all," James Lynch, of the Huntington district office, U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, said last Friday. More than a year ago, a Kentucky Parks official reported 60 or more surface mining operations in the Johns Creek (Dewey Lake) watershed... Before a plumber could arrive and repair a gas leak detected earlier in the day, the home of Mrs. Liddie Miller on Highland avenue here "blew up" last Thursday afternoon... Miss Susie Meador, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Meador, of Prestonsburg, won the title of Junior Secretary of 1972 in the state conference of PBS, held recently at Cumberland Falls... ### Twenty Years Ago

(March 15, 1962)

The Small Business Administration office temporarily set up here Monday morning closed at noon Wednesday... Services which otherwise would cost many thousands of dollars were rendered without charge to 31 children at the pediatric clinic held Tuesday at the Floyd County Health Department... The district community development contest has been won by Prestonsburg and the city is one now being considered for state honors... ### Thirty Years Ago

(March 13, 1952)

County Judge Henry Stumbo said this week that recent conferences with Dr. Bruce Underwood, state health commissioner, have convinced him that the only possibility of construction of the proposed and much argued Floyd County War Memorial hospital rests on selection of a site at or near Martin, and he is not certain even agreement on that location will result in the hospital being built... Lexia Potter and Ira Fields, Jr., assumed charge Tuesday of the Grapette Bottling Company plant here which they purchased from Orville Howard, Harlan, and H. K. Howard, of Prestonsburg... Approximately 75 persons were busy this week as volunteer workers soliciting funds from Floyd countians in an all-out drive to reach the county's $8730 Red Cross quota this year, L. B. ### Forty Years Ago

(March 12, 1942)

Prosperity in the Eastern Kentucky coal fields is not around the mythical "corner" but is only a matter of a week or two away, was the opinion expressed here this week by competent observers of trends in the industry... Full operation of the National Youth Administration's machine shop here began Wednesday, with 96 boys at work in three separate experience units... B. F. and A. B. Combs, Prestonsburg attorneys, Wednesday purchased from S. R. Auxier the Auxier hotel property on First avenue here at a reported price of $18,000... Although defeated twice during the regular playing season by the Betsy Layne Bob Cats, the Prestonsburg high school Black Cats are the twice-crowned champions of Floyd county by virtue of tournament victories over the selfsame Bob Cats... An automobile battery complete with two-year guarantee, was advertised this week by Ernest Evans' Western Auto Store here at a price of $5.95... been falling for hours. Sometime in the night, voices of men evacuating neighbors disturbed him, and he leaped from bed to alight in water above his ankles. "Woman!" he yelled to his wife. "That derved commode has run over again."

THE ELECTRONIC AGE

Somewhere in this edition is an item, hopefully with photo, pertaining to the new computer set-up at the county clerk's office to handle automobile licenses. County Clerk C. "Ollie" Robinson is almost as enthusiastic about these newfangled machines as the clerk in another county who advertised in the hometown newspaper, asking motor vehicle owners to come in early for their licenses, because "these computers have slowed us down."

REPEAT THIS—AND DUCK

Here's one which just might put an end to the gentle art of manufacturing puns. It's how to catch a unique duck. Unique up on him. And how do you catch a tame duck? Tame way, of course.

AMONG THE EVACUEES

Poor Joe Hall! The last few days haven't been what you might call halcyon for him. First, he had to watch his Kentucky Wildcats get bombed in the NCAA tournament by Middle Tennessee of the lowly OVC. Then he came here last Friday night to watch Todd May, of Virgie, in the 15th regional and ran into a bomb threat which emptied the gym of Mr. Hall and about 5,000 other less-publicized citizens.

Some still wonder if Coach Hall, in the mood he was in, would have voluntarily budged an inch if he had heard the fuse sizzling.

Until the "mad bombers" feel the full force of the law no school or public gathering is exempt from their madness.

In District Court

Sentenced in district court, following guilty pleas or verdicts this week, were:

Ronnie Neely, Auxier Rd., drunk driving (DUI), criminal mischief, $274.50 fine, 90 days' jail; Claude G. tion was the arrest of Josten on a charge of theft by deception, and subsequent release on $1,000 property bond of which one-tenth is required to be paid for release.

Although the Emergency and Rescue Squad had made public notice both by radio and in this newspaper that it had no connection with any calendar advertising, Josten, 41, of Lexington, said that he was acting in good faith on behalf of a Lexington firm which had employed him. He said his understanding was that the company had a contract with the Emergency and Rescue Squad here.

"an unfortunate situation" which, in effect, leaves the length of one or more life terms a matter for a parole board to decide.

The charges against Patrick coincided with those against his former brother-in-law, Noel. They were based on findings of a state forensic pathologist and a state forensic anthropologist, who reported in January, 1981 on their findings after examination of a charred body found in the Noel home at Wayland after it had burned Oct. 14, 1982. The body was identified as that of Neimi, an 18-year-old youth who was staying at the house with Noel.

At the time of the fire and until State Detective Danny Stumbo, Commonwealth's Attorney Allen and Coroner James J. Carter enlisted help of the pathologist and anthropologist, the body was believed to be that of Noel. Meanwhile, it was found that Noel had taken out a $100,000 insurance policy on his own life, naming Patrick as his beneficiary.

Each of the defendants blamed the other for the killing of Neimi. Noel is now serving his sentence.

The legal restriction which Judge Pennington cited on consecutive life terms means that, regardless of the number of slayings alleged—a case point is the slaying of five persons allegedly by William Okie Bevens at Allen—conviction would, in effect, mean no more than one life term, and that subject to parole, unless the death penalty is imposed.

Allen said the penalty imposed on Noel, Patrick and Branham was the maximum that could have been won by jury trial, other than death.

The trial date for Bevens has not been set. Psychiatric examination was ordered for him last week, and a trial date is not expected until the psychiatrist reports his findings.

Hammonds Is Wreck Victim

Jackie Ray Hammonds, 29, of Allen, was killed shortly after midnight Friday when his auto left KY 80 at Water Gap and ramed into roadside signs and guardrails. Ronnie Hatfield, of Prestonsburg, a passenger in the car, escaped almost without injury.

Hammonds, an employee of National Mines at Wayland, died of multiple head and neck injuries. Coroner Roger Nelson pronounced him dead at the scene, near the bridge crossing US 23 at Water Gap.

The coroner said Hammonds lost control of his car and struck traffic island signs. Windshield of the auto was shattered and the driver's vision apparently was blocked. The car then ran off the left side of the roadway, hit a guard rail, then crossed the highway to hit the guard rail on the opposite side, traveling about 250 feet after initial impact.

The victim was a native of Water Gap, the son of Harold Hammonds, of Prestonsburg, and the late Helen Louise Pack Hammonds. Besides his father, survivors include his widow, Vanessa Damron Hammonds, and two children, Jackie Ray, Jr. and Tamera Leigh, all of Allen; six brothers and two sisters, Harold, Jr. and Frankie Hammonds, both of Prestonsburg, Larry Gene Hammonds, Etna Green, Ind., William Lewis, Shawn and Joe Hammonds, all at home, Misses Carla Beth and Darlene Hammonds, both of Prestonsburg.

Funeral rites were conducted at 2 p.m. Monday from the chapel of the Floyd Funeral Home by the Rev. Danny Curry, and burial was made in the Davidson Memorial Gardens at Ivel.

Calling Before Digging May Save Time, Money

Spring is the time to start a garden. But before you begin do yourself and your neighbors a favor and make a phone call.

Floyd county residents digging holes for gardens, fence posts, swimming pools or new house foundations may accidentally cut underground utility lines. And severed lines mean phone service, electric power or other utilities may be out at your house or a number of houses in your neighborhood.

"To prevent interruptions in electric, gas, water or telephone service, diggers should call the Kentucky Underground Utility Protection Center," Art Willett, manager, said. Personnel at the center will locate any underground lines.

"The center has been nicknamed BUD to remind you to call Before U Dig," he said. BUD's toll-free number is 1-800-752-6007.

First Birthday

Celebrating with him were his maternal grandmother, Margie Morrison, and paternal grandmother, Thelma Osborne; aunts Kathlene Butcher, Carole Morrison, Daisy Morrison, and Geraldine Butcher, and cousins Shanna, Jason, Gary and Michael Butcher, Carla and Regina Morrison, Joey and Stevie Fannin and Little Chris Hensley. Also attending were Brenda and Jessie Powers. A Scooby-Doo cake and ice cream were served.

Miss Griffith, Mr. Calhoun Wed

Miss Melissa Griffith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Griffith, of Prestonsburg, was united in marriage to Mr. Timothy Calhoun, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arlen Calhoun, also of Prestonsburg, at 1 p.m., Feb. 13, at the First Assembly of God Church in West Prestonsburg.

The Rev. Bobby J. Spencer performed the double-ring candlelight ceremony. The sanctuary was enhanced with greenery and spiral brass candelabra holding tall, white tapers.

Nuptial music was played by Miss Debbie Snyder, Nell Rose Caudill, Martha Burke, and Mr. David Leslie. Mary Lynn Wright was soloist. Selections included "Longer" and "Theme from Ice Castles."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a victorian chapel-length gown of white chantilly lace. The bodice featured front and back ruffle trimmed sheer yokes and long, fitted lace sleeves. The back of the gown, with row upon row of chantilly lace, formed the chapel train. Miss Griffith wore a matching Chantilly lace fingertip veil and carried a bouquet of white carnations, miniature pink roses and baby's breath.

Miss Susan Key, aunt of the bride was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Bobbie Shepherd, and Miss Sue Calhoun, sister of the groom. All attendants were attired in floor-length gowns of blush rose jersey. A matching cape featured a ruffled embroidered edge.

Mr. Randall Calhoun, brother of the groom, was best man. Groomsmen were Mr. Donald Calhoun, also brother of the groom, and Mr. Keith Mullins. Keith Slone and Greg Slone served as junior ushers.

The flowergirl was Kimberly Calhoun, sister of the groom. Kevin Calhoun, brother of the groom, was ringbearer. Melissa D. Slone, namesake and god-child of the bride, served as train-bearer. Miss Debbie Calhoun served at the guest register.

Mrs. Griffith, mother of the bride, chose a street-length jacket dress of orchid jersey. Mrs. Calhoun, mother of the groom, wore a floor-length gown of lavender jersey with a matching, deep orchid print jacket. Wedding arrangements were made by Formal Affairs, Ltd and Posie Peddler. Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church annex. Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Alma Key, grandmother of the bride, Miss Debbie Calhoun and Miss Maria Mullins.

The couple is residing on Spurlock Creek near here.

None Now Receiving Benefits Affected by Court Rule, Claim

Officials of the United Mine Workers of America and the UMWA Health and Retirement Funds (an operation separate and independent of the Union) last week emphasized that none of the people currently receiving health or pension benefits, or both, will be affected in any way by a March 8 ruling by the U.S. Supreme Court.

The nation's highest court upheld a district court ruling that widows whose 1950s pension-eligible husbands died prior to 1975 are not entitled to lifetime health benefits. As the court of last resort, the Supreme Court overturned a ruling by a court of appeals.

A class action suit had been taken to a district court by two Kentucky widows whose husbands were working miners with sufficient time in the mines to be eligible for a pension when the men died. At the time their husbands died, the 1950 Trust Fund provided a $5,000 death benefit to these widows, plus five years of health care coverage.

At the same time, widows of pensioners who died were entitled to a $2,000 death benefit for their husbands and two years of health care coverage.

During the 1974 UMWA-Bituminous Coal Operators' Association contract negotiations, the union proposed that all widows of active and retired miners be provided lifetime health benefits, but this could not be negotiated into the contract for two reasons.

First, neither the UMWA nor the BCOA could determine how many of those widows would be involved. Second, neither the operators nor the Union could determine how much the benefits would cost the operators.

Still another factor, according to UMWA and Funds officials, was that negotiations were nearing a conclusion as the 1971 UMWA-BCOA contract expired. Neither side wanted an extended strike in the coalfields.

Regarding the Supreme Court decision, both UMWA and Funds officials emphasized, "No one who is currently receiving health and (or) pension benefits from the Funds has anything to worry about."

Growing Child

By LYNN HOLLAND
THE IMPORTANCE OF TALKING TO A BABY
 Growing Child, the monthly child development newsletter, reports that from birth on, an infant vocalizes—makes noise with his voice. (In fact, there is even some evidence that suggests he may do this at times even before he is born.)

The first sounds the baby makes are cries. These are his response to body feelings such as hunger, pain, or other discomfort. At first, when the baby is content, he will sleep most of the time. Soon, though, he will begin to make sounds of contentment.

When parents attend to the different sounds of comfort or discomfort, they are helping establish a communication system which is crude at first but which is very important. The system works like this: one person makes sounds and another person does things in response to those sounds.

The infant's inborn gifts also include a tendency toward listening and responding. Newborns are known to respond to sudden, loud noises by moving their entire bodies at once or by an increase in breathing or heart rate. Biologists think that the infant, like the very young animal, is born to respond to a wide range of sounds which aren't specific.

Very quickly, though, the infant's response becomes more specific to the sounds he hears from his parents. He learns to associate a soothing voice with pleasant situations, a smiling face and loving words. Parents who continually talk to their babies during bathing, feeding, dressing and playing are shaping the child's future communication skills.

If a child doesn't have words to listen to, his language development will be affected. It is obvious that a hearing defect will seriously interfere with a child's language and speech development. It is also important to realize that the absence of tender loving talk from a parent will be almost as serious a handicap. So talk to your baby!

For more information on the social and physical development of children, write to Growing Child, PO Box 620N, Lafayette, IN 47902. Be sure to include child's birthdate when writing.

Insects May Lurk In Stored Foods

Insects are nature's biggest pest, and they always seem to be causing problems for the homeowner. Many homeowners only think of pest problems in their lawns and gardens or the little beasts that run from the refrigerator to the sink, when you turn on the lights at night to get a drink of water. But with warmer weather coming on, they may be finding more insects in their home—in foods.

Insect infestation in stored foods is not uncommon, according to Dr. Doug Johnson, Extension entomologist in the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. "Insect problems in foods should not be ignored because they will not go away."

There seem to be more insect problems in the summer, since eggs hatch when the weather gets warmer, said Sue Burrier, UK Extension foods and nutrition specialist. Insects can be found in most dry products in the kitchen, she said. Cornmeal, flour, oatmeal, crackers and popcorn are a few of the foods in which insects commonly can be found. Dry products should be kept in the refrigerator during the summer months, Burrier said, since this prevents the eggs from hatching.

Prevention is the best method of controlling pests in foods. "Pests can't breed as fast in a clean home."

Avoid spilled and uncovered foods, since these are especially attractive places for infestation to start, he said. Keep foods in sealed containers.

Packaging is often the vehicle that enables insects to get into your food, said Burrier. "Insect eggs can get caught in the folds of packaging on products such as cornmeal. As long as these products are kept in the refrigerator the insects are dormant and will cause no problems. The warmer the area, the more active the insects."

Poorly-packaged dog food or bulk grain products can be paths for insects to enter the home, according to Johnson. "Carefully examine the products before bringing them into your house. Look for insects in the folds of packaging."

Get rid of old boxes, and stacks of magazines and newspapers, since these are good places for insects to reproduce, said Johnson. Preventing insects from entering your home is another good measure. "Insects may fly or crawl in unscreened windows and through spaces under loose-fitting doors."

If you discover an insect problem, Johnson recommends one of the following methods to get rid of the problem. "Heat treatment at 140°F for 30 minutes or cold treatment, 0°F for four days, will kill the insects generally found in grain products such as flour, cornmeal, oatmeal and crackers." Once treated, foods should be stored in a clean container with a tight fitting lid.

Also, clean the area where the food was stored with warm soapy water and put down new shelf paper, Burrier advised. Any products that are heavily infested should be discarded—outside.

Fire Destroys Residence At Garrett

A fire, last Tuesday afternoon at Garrett, destroyed a two-story, frame residence and damaged the Garrett Community Christian Church. The blaze originated in the house, which was owned by Kelly Chaffins, of Ottawa, O., and quickly consumed the structure, it was said. Efforts by fire-fighting squads from Martin, Wayland, Garrett and Maytown were successful in minimizing damage to the church and preventing the potentially dangerous explosion of a large propane tank in front of the church (see photo). Ray Slone, who rented the house, was not hurt in the blaze.

ACS Chapter Aim Is More Than Just Raising Of Funds

Can people help protect themselves against cancer? The American Cancer Society will answer YES during its 1982 educational and fund raising Cancer Crusade beginning April 1.

"We'll be bringing our neighbors and friends in Floyd county life-saving information that will show them how cancer can be beaten," declared Lida Spradlin, 1982 crusade chairperson for the Floyd County Chapter, American Cancer Society.

"Governor Brown and President Reagan have proclaimed April as 'Cancer Control Month', and we will ask that everyone give generously to support programs of cancer research, education and patient services," he/she said.

She pointed out that more than three million Americans are alive today, thanks to advances in the diagnosis and treatment of cancer. Low-dose X-rays can now find breast cancers too small to be felt, and the five year survival rate for early breast cancer has risen to 85 percent. Simple slide tests for hidden blood in the stool help find colon and rectum cancer. The five year survival rate for these cancers is now 71 percent.

"Most lung cancer could be prevented if people would stop smoking," she continued. Better chemotherapy now controls some forms of childhood leukemia, and better radiotherapy means Hodgkin's disease is no longer fatal when treated early.

"When cancer touches one out of every four American families is it any wonder that the Cancer Crusade has a special meaning to people?" Spradlin asked.

"Today we're saving the lives of one of three cancer patients. With our present knowledge and know-how we could save one out of two—if only people were more alert to cancer's seven warning signals and the safeguards against cancer. The emphasis of this year's Cancer Crusade is action. Early detection is the key to improving the cancer picture and it's something everyone can help to bring about."

Mr. and Mrs. E.L. Bierman are president and vice-president, respectively, of the Floyd County Cancer Society Chapter.

RETIRED GROUP MEETS

Jack Freed, president of the Jenny Wiley Chapter, American Association of Retired Persons, called a meeting of the chapter's board of directors Monday, March 8, at the First Presbyterian Church. Chalmer Frazier, program chairman, announced that the speaker for the March 18 meeting, which will convene at the First Presbyterian Church at 1:45 p.m., will be Jimmy Kelly, director of Social Security for the Eastern Kentucky area. His subject is to be "Social Security and Medicare as of this Date, and What the Future Holds for Us." The membership chairman, Fred James, reported that this committee is busy contacting people in different areas of the county, by newspaper, telephone and mail, and that they are planning trips to other sections on behalf of the membership drive. Mr. James stressed the need to contact persons in Pike, Johnson, and Martin counties through the local paper, urging them to become members. New committees selected were Sunshine, Refreshment, Driver Education, Money Market, Education and Literature. The chairmen of these committees will be announced later. Plans were made for the next regular meeting at the same location tomorrow (Thursday) at 1:45 p.m. The next A.A.R.P. board of directors' meeting will be held Monday, April 5, at 2 p.m., at the First Presbyterian Church. Refreshments were served during Monday's meeting to Jack Freed, John R. Baldrige, Delmas Saunders, Fred A. James, Chalmer Frazier, Vivian Fraley and Virginia S. Goble.

Bomb Threat Empties Gym

The bomb threat that emptied the Prestonsburg High School fieldhouse last Friday night during the boys' 15th regional tournament was perhaps the year's most dramatic, since it resulted in the evacuation of more than 5000 persons, but it wasn't the only one for the year.

The exact figures are not at hand, but such threats have been received at various schools since the opening of schools last September. Traditionally, they increase with spring weather.

The bomb threat last Friday night was made in a phone call to the Prestonsburg fire department shortly after the Belfry-Johnson Central game began. Among those evacuated was Joe Hall, UK head basketball coach, and coaches or representatives of several other universities and colleges who were taking a look at possible future players, notably Todd May, Virgie High School standout.

Firemen, state troopers and members of the Prestonsburg police department searched the building after it had been emptied. The threat was a hoax. Play was resumed shortly thereafter.

Officers and school officials have been unable to trace the call.

Despite the experience, Supt. of Schools Grigsby said the tournament here was one of the best held in Eastern Kentucky, in point of attendance and gate receipts and the general conduct of the tourney.

"The school, tournament officials, the police and fire departments, all are to be complimented for their handling of this very successful tournament," he said.

Grigsby said if the identity of any person making a school bomb threat is learned the offender will be prosecuted.

D.A.R. CHAPTER MEETS

The John Graham Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, held its regular monthly meeting at 3 p.m., March 9, at the Emma Wells May Cultural Center. The regent, Mrs. Victor Hale, presided. The National Defense program, "A Message from Berlin," was given by Mrs. James B. Goble. Plans were made for the state D.A.R. conference, to be held at the Hilton Inn, Lexington, March 24-26. The leader, Mrs. Carl Horn, presented the speaker, Russell May, of Prestonsburg, Kentucky Heritage artist, who is recognized as an outstanding landscape artist and painter of old homeplaces of Eastern Kentucky. Mr. May was tutored by one of Europe's greatest landscape artists, Gerhard Neswadba, of Vienna, Austria. Following the business session, refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. J. G. Stepp, to a guest, Russell May, and members, Mesdames Vivian Hale, Edith James, Eleanor Horn, Olga Preston, Opal S. May, Virginia S. Goble, Frances Brackett, Mae S. Kendrick and Norma S. Stepp.

Mrs. Frances Pitts, home economist, reminded members that the State Homemakers' meeting would convene at the University of Kentucky in Lexington, March 17-19. Mrs. Pitts asked that members list their preferences for programs to be presented during the local meetings, for the coming year. It was decided that the members are to bring donations for the Ovarian Cancer drive to the next meeting of the club. Miss Alice Harris and Mrs. Mabel Donahoe presented a discussion on "Spring Fashions and Timely Sewing Tips," reporting on the styles, colors and materials being worn this spring, and illustrating their discussion with pictures, patterns, trimmings, and several handmade articles of clothing. Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. Joyce Everley, Mrs. Dorothy Osborne and Mrs. Beatrice Collins, who were assisted by Mrs. Myrtle Allen in serving a dessert course to visitors, Mrs. Margaret Reece and Mrs. Frances Campbell, and members, Mary Sue Moore, Dorothy Stover, Frances Pitts, Docia Woods, Phyllis Herrick, Beckye Short, Otella Smiley, Ruth Francis, Lucy Regan, Pat Necessary, Fannie Runnels, Rebecca Vaughn, Stella Spurlock, Mabel Donahoe, Katherine Stephens, Peg Hewlett, Eleanor Horn, Margaret Alley, Alice Harris, Gladys Blackburn, Hope Whitten, Jane Wallace and Gladys Howard. ## 58% of Students In Floyd Schools Earn Diplomas

Only about 58 percent of those Floyd students who began as high school freshmen four years ago stayed to earn their diplomas last year but some 40 percent of the graduates have gone on to college and another 14.4 percent are in vocational or other schools, Asst. Superintendent Ron Hager told members of the Board of Education last week.

According to Hager, of the 776 freshmen enrolled for the 1977-78 school year, 487 completed four years of high school, 450 receiving diplomas.

Of last year's graduates, 184 are listed as attending college in Kentucky, two are in out-of-state colleges, 67 are in vocational or other schools (such as business, modeling or photography institutes), 14 joined the armed services, 100 have other jobs, 41 are listed as homemakers, and 40 are unemployed.

The board authorized Hager to reapply for a third Kentucky Arts Council grant, which for the past two years has helped fund artists to work with Floyd students and teachers.

Under the Artists in Education program, a potter last year instructed some 2220 students at Betsy Layne and McDowell high schools and Betsy Layne, McDowell, Clark, Allen and Prestonsburg grade schools. Gwen Heffner, a potter financed under this year's grant, has so far worked with students at the Osborne, Stumbo, Auxier and Maytown elementary schools. The county's contribution to the program next year, if the grant is again awarded, is expected to amount to $6000.

A program sponsored by the American Cancer Society to teach decision-making skills to grade school students has been introduced in the schools here, Hager told the board. The program should help prepare pupils for drug-and-alcohol-abuse programs, which are typically geared more to high school students, he said.

One of next year's "in service" days for teachers may be set aside to permit parents to meet with their children's teachers, it was said. A delegation from Prestonsburg grade school had asked the board to consider the proposal.

A 10-foot-high chainlink fence will be erected alongside the playground at Prater Creek grade school, to protect students there from coal falling from passing trucks, the board decided. Dr. J. D. Adams, board member, said he would ask area coal operators to contribute to the cost of the project. The fence had been sought by members of the Prater school P.T.A.

Hired by the board were: Roberta Fugate, Jerry Deskins and Emma Cecil, teachers; Donnie Williams, Carlos Blankenship and Vickie Massey King, certified substitute teachers; James Layne, substitute custodian, and Bobby Akers and Patsy Ann Spears, custodians; Lenora Allen, substitute cook, and Darlene Adkins, cook; Paul Slone and Clinton Little, bus drivers; Douglas Hunter, Rondal Lee Bentley, Nancy M. Bailey, Levi Hamilton, Glen Lewis, Robert Steward, Mary Childers, Charlene Blankenship and Ellis Michael Newsome, substitute bus drivers; Louise Compton, substitute teacher aide; and Mark Stephens, health service driver.

W'wright Clinic Shut, Others Imperilled, by Funding Crisis

Shrinking federal health dollars—which have already resulted in the closing of a clinic at Wheelwright—will need to be made up out of state funds if the problem of providing health care for the needy is not to become even more critical, Human Resources Secretary Dr. Grady Stumbo said last week.

Primary care centers—many of them in rural areas or urban poverty areas where there is a shortage of doctors—now receive money directly from the federal government to finance their operations. Because the federal government may end its primary care grants after the next two years, Stumbo has urged that the state appropriate money for the centers, to be distributed by the Human Resources Department.

Primary care clinics are sometimes staffed by so-called "mid-level" practitioners—nurse-practitioners and physician's assistants—as well as doctors and nurses. They provide basic health care, including X-rays and lab tests, with an emphasis on preventive care and patient education. They also give poor people a place to go for outpatient care besides the more expensive hospital emergency room.

By emphasizing preventive care, they theoretically cut down on hospitalizations by checking illnesses before they become acute, Stumbo said.

Federal health authorities are encouraging the states to assume more responsibility for developing the clinics, offering to help state agencies manage and recruit physicians for them.

Some Kentucky legislators are wary of the proposal, however, fearing that the state will have to pay for deficits at the centers, and a subcommittee of the House Appropriations and Revenue Committee voted recently to delete nearly $4.8 million that Gov. John Y. Brown, Jr. had requested to develop primary care clinics over the next two fiscal years.

Despite a rally last week, organized to garner support for the continuation of the Wheelwright clinic operated by Big Sandy Health Care, Inc., Roger Marshall, director of the agency, said this week there are no plans to reopen the center.

Floyd Residents Help Stymie Proposed Coal Tipple Bill

A bill that would lessen considerably the current restrictions on building coal tipples near family dwellings may have been stymied in a legislative committee by the action of a number of Floyd residents last week.

Residents of Dinwood and West Prestonsburg, who have complained in the past of noise and dust caused by tipples operating in those communities, took their concerns to Prestonsburg Rep. Gregory Stumbo in Frankfort Wednesday, shortly before House Bill 763 was to be considered by the House Natural Resources and Environment Committee.

The bill would mean that coal tipples and preparation plants located more than a mile from the mines from which they draw their coal would be subject to only "minimal" state environmental regulations.

While aspects of the regulations are currently under litigation, federal law provides that tipples and plants cannot be built without the written approval of residents living less than 300 feet away. If the proposed bill became law, and Kentucky assumes primary responsibility for mining law enforcement in this state, many tipples would be virtually unregulated, critics of the bill say.

HB 763, which was introduced by Pikeville Rep. Herbie Deskins with strong support from coal operators, would also "grandfather in" tipples and plants that were built or under construction by August 1 this year. Under current federal law, tipples and plants built since August, 1977 are subject to the law.

The bill would also prevent state officials from closing down for "mere failure to abate a violation" tipples or plants located more than a mile from their coal source.

David Rubinstein, an attorney with the Prestonsburg-based Appalachian Research and Defense Fund, denounced the proposed measure last week as "a Christmas-tree bill" for the coal industry.

While Bill K. Caylor, vice-president of the Kentucky Coal Association, spoke in support of the bill, arguing that it was designed to reduce the number of water quality tests and permits required of tipple and plant operators, Rep. Stumbo and Rep. J. R.

Gray, D-Benton, opposed it. They said such sites could be even more detrimental than stripmines to the health of neighboring residents.

The committee voted 11-2 to send the measure to a subcommittee for further study, a move that appears likely to prevent its passage this legislative session.

Among those lobbying in Frankfort to defeat the bill last week were Dinwood residents Mary Jane Debord, Mac and Loretta Risner, Douglas Moore, and Everett Hunter, and West Prestonsburg resident Houston Stephens.

An administrative law judge, arguing that regulations governing tipples have become so confused it would be unfair to apply the law in this case, ruled last December that a federal agency has no jurisdiction over a tipple operated at Dinwood by Dinco Coal Sales. The decision has been appealed to the federal Office of Surface Mining by attorneys for a number of Dinwood residents opposed to the tipple operation there.

A cessation order issued by state environmental authorities against a tipple operated in West Prestonsburg by C. J. McNally was voided by a Franklin Circuit Court judge several years ago.

Cross-Country Runner

Rick Roberts

Cross-country runner Rick Roberts, now Internal Affairs Officer at the Prestonsburg Job Corps Center, has lost none of his interest in running. In his spare time, he has organized a track team at the Center with the support of Tom Hummer, director there. Although the program is in a trial basis status at this time, Roberts says, "It's looking very promising with the team's strongest distance runner, Darrel Senger, of Erlanger, running 10 miles or more each day with me."

Roberts, who recently competed in the Great Smoky Mountain Marathon in Oak Ridge, Tennessee, placing sixth, also ran in the Louisville Metro Marathon last November with a goal of qualifying for the prestigious Boston Marathon, the nation's oldest race. Roberts' best time was two hours, 55 minutes, just five minutes over the cutoff time of two hours, 50 minutes.

"I didn't make it, but I'll be around for the next attempt," he said.

Roberts, a former cross-country runner for Eastern Kentucky University, last August ran a 30-mile marathon from Paintsville to Prestonsburg and back to help a child suffering from cancer. Later this month, the Houston, Texas native will run in the Cincinnati Heart-Mini-Marathon, a 9.4 mile race. Any marathon race is at least 26.2 miles, and Roberts and Prestonsburg native, Gary Dotson, are said to be the only runners from here who have finished a marathon run.

Declares Storm Awareness Week

"WHEREAS, severe storms occur most frequently during the spring months in Floyd County..." is the opening line of a proclamation signed Monday by County Judge-Executive Jerry Lafferty, Jr. in conjunction with a statewide observance of "Severe Storms Awareness Week."

The line assumed ominous significance this week as Floyd county residents watched creeks rise and heeded weather warnings and "watches" issued by the National Weather Service through Monday and Tuesday and wondered what the remainder of the week might bring.

Designed to promote public awareness of the hazards of severe storms, including tornadoes, floods and lightning storms, the Division of Disaster and Emergency Services of the Department of Military Affairs will work with the National Weather Service to provide information concerning storms and the steps that can be taken to protect lives and property.

During the week most schools, hospitals, police and fire departments as well as private companies will conduct tests of their severe weather procedures and local and state civil defense will test warning sirens and conduct mock disaster drills.

Thursday, March 25, the National Weather Service will initiate a test of the statewide warning system by setting off weather radios and alerting law enforcement and news media. This will occur between 1 and 2 p.m. and is recommended as an ideal time for local schools to test preparedness plans.

Retires After 41 Years Service

Edgar Herald, supervisor of maintenance, retired from Kentucky Hydrocarbon Company, March 1, after 41 years of service with the Equitable Gas System. Mr. Herald joined Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company in November, 1940 and transferred to Kentucky Hydrocarbon Company in December, 1956. He and his wife, Mary Alice, reside on the Spurlock Fork of Middle Creek.

Not The Same

The Mrs. William Henry Helton, of Coon Creek, near Salyersville, is not the Mrs. William Helton who was listed in the Times as being convicted of shoplifting.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Benton Hall wishes to express their appreciation and thanks to all who sent food and flowers during this time of sorrow. Thanks to the ministers for their kind and comforting words and to the Hall Funeral Home for its courteous and efficient service.

SUPPER PLANNED

Film Flams

By NORA P. MARTIN

Now is the time for the "Morning Stretch." We can join the children on the "Great Space Coaster" and become "Lost in Space," where we see "Porky Pig" and "Woody Woodpecker." We can study the "Art of Being Human." After all, "Kids Are People, Too."

"Popeye," Bullwinkle," and "Zorro" boarded the "Soul Train," because they heard that there would be a "Week-End Special" about "The Partridge Family."

"Tarzan" and "Lone Ranger" were working in the "Victory Garden" when "The Jetsons" stopped by and persuaded them to go with them to the "American Bandstand." They said that "Fat Albert" would be there to discuss "Money Matters."

"Andy Griffith" went "Backstage at the Grand Ol' Opry" and ran into "Porter Waggoner" who said, "You know, here in 'This Old House' you can get a 'General Educational Development,' learn 'Humanities Through Art' and also get a 'Sneak Preview' on the 'Wide World of Sports.'"

"Barbara Mandrell and Sisters" went to "Vegas" to see some "Classic Country" but instead saw "The Hardy Boys" eating "Righteous Apples" and attending "People's Court" with the "Card Sharks."

"Boomer" went to "Mister Rogers' Neighborhood" to see "Those Amazing Animals," and while there saw "All Creatures Great and Small."

"The Saint" and "Benson," who are "Bosom Buddies," went to "The Little House on the Prairie" and while there met "Billy Crystal" who was there to "Welcome Back, Cotter."

"Bret Maverick" was having a "Late Night With David Letterman" discussing "Appalachian Encounters," when "Barbara Walters" came in and told them to "Make Room for Daddy," "MacMillan and Wife" and "Simon and Garfunkel" and that will be all, as "Eight Is Enough."

"Grizzly Adams" and "Suzanne Sommers" were listening to "America's Top 10," but he told her for "Entertainment Tonight" I want to watch "Great Performances" at the "Masterpiece Theater."

"Jacques Cousteau" went to "King's Crossing" and picked up "One of the Boys" and they went to "Woodwright's Workshop" to learn the "Joys of Woodworking," then went on in to watch the women "Quilting."

"Sullivan" turned "Another Page" to study the "Creativity of Bill Moyers." He thought he could get an "Understanding of Human Behavior." While "Checking It Out" at the "Kentucky General Assembly," he decided they could "Make It Count." It would take a "Meeting of the Minds" or they would have to be "Communicating Through Literature."

"Bonnie Lu and Buster" took a "Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea" to try to find some "Super Stars," like they see in the "Hall of Fame," but "Life on Earth" was more interesting to them, so they came back to watch "Bill Francis' Flowers and Gardening" "Just Around the Corner."

"Regis Philbin" thought he was on "Top of the World" when he found "Hunter's Gold" but on the "Nightly Business Report" they told him it was not "Solid Gold." So he decided to get a new "Perspective" and "Focus on Society" and have a fun time at "Ron's Bargain Barn" and stay there in his "Dynasty."

★ CONSUMER ALERT ★

CONSUMER DANGER SIGNALS

"The best protection against consumer fraud is information. Kentucky consumers need to be alert to the pitfalls of the marketplace," says Attorney General Steven L. Beshear. The consumer protection division of the Attorney General's Office provides the following list of danger signals that should make you stop and think before you act:

(1) BAIT AND SWITCH SELLING—Maybe you have inquired about a product advertised at an unbelievably low price, only to have the item degraded by the salesperson or to be told that it is no longer in stock. Once you have been "baited" by the advertisement, the salesperson tries to "switch" you to a more expensive item.

(2) GET RICH QUICK SCHEMES—If you are told that you can make fabulous earnings fast, beware. Do not make any investment until you investigate those earnings' claims to discover if such earnings are realistic.

(3) ORAL GUARANTEES—Sellers are legally bound by what a written contract says and not what a salesperson tells you. Do not accept any oral guarantees. Get everything in writing, and be sure you understand what the guarantee means, what it covers, and how long you are protected.

(4) ORAL ESTIMATES—As with guarantees, get estimates in writing. In addition, get a written assurance that no additional work will be done without your consent. To be safe, obtain several estimates and be suspicious of an unusually low estimate.

(5) GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY—Do not rush into buying something because it is a once-in-a-lifetime, last chance, or golden opportunity to get in on a good thing. You are probably the "last chance" the salesperson has to make the sale. Take your time and do comparative shopping before you buy.

(6) BLANK CONTRACTS AND BLANK CHECKS—Never sign a contract with blank spaces in it. Fill in all blanks with X's, and, of course, never sign a blank check.

(7) YOU HAVE BEEN SPECIALLY SELECTED—If you are told you are getting a "special deal" and that few others have this chance, be skeptical. Ask yourself why someone is offering you such a special bargain.

(8) FREE—Beware of the misleading use of the word "free." Many things are given "free" only if some other purchase is made.

(9) IT IS ONLY A LEGAL FORM—Consumers told to disregard a contract or other materials, because "it's only a legal form," should be especially careful to obtain and closely read a copy of that form. Those "legal forms" may require you to pay more than you intended. Do not be tricked by this tactic.

If you would like this or other consumer information, write to the Office of the Attorney General, Consumer Protection Division, Frankfort, Ky., 40601, or call the toll-free Consumer Hotline 1-800-432-9257.

Attorney General Steven L. Beshear is concerned about the risks posed by home fires. "The possibility of a home fire is a serious threat to your family's safety. More than 6,000 Americans die and over 300,000 are injured by home fires every year. Most injuries and deaths are caused by smoke, however, not flames," says Beshear.

These statistics are not meant to frighten you; they are compiled by the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission to educate consumers. The Consumer Product Safety Commission distributes a free booklet designed to answer your questions about smoke detectors—one of the best preventive measures you can take against home fires.

The booklet answers questions like: How do smoke detectors work? What is the difference between ionization and photo electric detectors? Are house current or battery powered detectors the best for my house? How many detectors do I need for my particular house? Where do I put the detector once I have purchased it? Can I install it myself? The booklet also includes information in the care, testing, and maintenance of the smoke detector. For a free copy of this booklet, write to the United States Consumer Product Safety Commission, Office of Communication, Washington, D. C. 20207.

"Smoke detectors are not the only answer to home fires; you should develop a plan of escape for every member of the household," said Beshear. "You may be confused when you first wake up, so the escape route should be instinctive to each person. Walk through the main escape route several times. Try it in the dark. If a piece of furniture keeps getting in the way, move it to clear the path. Also, plan alternative ways of escape from each room."

Agree on a place to meet outside the house, so you can be sure that everyone is safe. Do not go back into the house for any reason, unless firefighters have assured you that the fire is fully extinguished and the house structure is sound.

Remember, smoke detectors will not protect your property, and they surely will not put the fire out for you, but they will increase your chances of getting up, getting out, and calling the fire department.

The Attorney General's consumer protection division has a series of fact sheets concerning fire safety and smoke detectors. You can write to the division at 209 St. Clair St., Frankfort, Ky. or call the toll-free consumer hotline: 1-800-432-9257.

George Washington was a man far beyond his own time. He foresaw the Civil War but felt prevented from taking a public stand for abolition by his need to hold the nation together. The February Reader's Digest reveals that he did slip some of his own slaves into freedom secretly and, at his death, all his slaves were freed.

PUBLIC NOTICE TO OWNERS OF RENTAL HOUSING

The Floyd County Housing Authority is administering a Section 8 Moderate Rehabilitation Program in Floyd County using funds provided by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Under this program, owners will rehabilitate rental units which are now substandard or have major building systems or components requiring repair or replacement. The cost of this work, which must total at least $1000 per unit, may be financed by a local lending institution, by the owner, or by any other source available to the owner. The agency does not make rehabilitation loans or grants, but will assist owners to obtain financing.

After required rehabilitation work has been completed, the agency and the owner will execute a contract which establishes a rent for the unit(s) that will cover rehabilitation costs, meet monthly operating expenses, and allow a reasonable profit on the owner's investment. For a fifteen year period, the owner will rent the rehabilitated unit(s) to eligible lower income tenants, who will pay approximately 25 percent of their income toward the rent. The agency will pay the remainder of the rent directly to the owner. The initial occupant of a rehabilitated unit may be the owner's present eligible tenant. After rehabilitation the rent (including utilities) cannot exceed the following Maximum Rents:

BEDROOM SIZE
206	244	282	319

The agency's current funds will allow rehabilitation of 35 units of rental housing as follows:

1 BR	2 BR	3 BR	4 BR
8	18	7	2

No unit will be assisted which results in the permanent displacement of current tenant. Proposals from owners will be received by the Housing Authority until further notice. Owners who wish to submit a proposal must obtain an application form from:

Floyd County Housing Authority
Housing Office
Green Acres
Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653
Telephone No. 2717
Office Hours: 8:30-12:00 and 1:00-4:30

Application forms and proposal packets may be requested by phone, mail, or in person. Information and assistance is also available at the above office.

Allen Central Girls Win Spot in State Net Tourney

By C. "OLLIE" ROBINSON and TOMMIE LYNN MAY

The Allen Central Lady Rebels won the 15th Regional crown by beating the Belfry Lady Pirates, 47 to 46, in an overtime and will advance to the Girls Kentucky State Basketball Tournament which begins at Richmond today (Wednesday). The Lady Rebels will play Thursday (tomorrow) at 2:30 p.m. when they will face Marshall County from the First region.

The Knott County Lady Patriots will play tomorrow night at 7:30 against Todd County Central from the Second region. Should Allen Central and Knott County both win, they will face each other on Friday evening.

The hustling play of Jolenda Howard in the fourth quarter and overtime won her a bid for the most valuable player. Although this award isn't usually given, her teammates and supporters got together after the victory parade Sunday, and at the banquet she was given the trophy for the 110 percent which she so rightfully deserved.

Meanwhile, back to the ranch—or ball games. The Lady Pirates got off to a 6-0 lead on goals by Towles, Kathy Spinks and Cindy Stewart. Then Kim Shepherd hit a five-footer and was fouled on the play and made it a three-point play. The Rebels then scored six straight points to lead 9-6. Belfry came back to outscore the Lady Rebels, 15 to 5, and led at the end of the first quarter, 17 to 11, but in the second quarter, Kim Shepherd scored eight points for Allen Central and Belfry led at halftime by only 26-25. In the third quarter, Bucky Hall hit a basket with 3:10 remaining and the Lady Pirates led, 30 to 29. The Lady Rebels missed several opportunities, failing to connect at the foul line.

Jolenda Howard hit a free throw to tie the game at 45-all and put the game in an overtime.

In the overtime, the Lady Pirates got the tip and controlled the ball until one minute and 30 seconds remained. At that point the Lady Rebels stole the ball. Kim Shepherd was fouled, made the first free throw, missed the second, but got the rebound. Kim Shepherd scored three points in the overtime for the Lady Rebels' first trip to the girls' state tournament.

The Kentucky Easter Seal Society owns and operates rehabilitation centers to help people with physical handicapping conditions. Two of the centers are resident camps — Camp Kysoc at Carrollton and Camp Green Shores at McDaniels.

UNDERGROUND MINERS: Now you have a choice!

Atlas offers 7D, our high-explosive permissible emulsion; as well as Coalites, our permissible dynamites for underground operations.

If you're having temperature problems with water gels, try Atlas 7D, it will perform when the thermometer falls! And, since it's an emulsion containing no nitroglycerin, it won't cause headaches.

Atlas 7D combines the relative safety of an emulsion with the convenient handling of a paper cartridge. It can be gently tamped for excellent borehole coupling and has good water resistance.

Performance? Excellent! One Charleston underground coal mine has reported getting twice the cuts per case with Atlas 7D as they were getting with water gels!

So you now have a choice... even at sub-freezing temperatures: Atlas 7D and Coalites. Use them with Kolmaster caps for reliable underground blasting.

For a test of Atlas 7D, Coalites and Kolmasters in your mine, call:

It's Allen Central, Virgie in Title Game

By C. "OLLIE" ROBINSON and TOMMIE LYNN MAY

The Allen Central Rebels and the Virgie Eagles played last night (Tuesday) in the championship game of the 15th regional, and the winner will represent this region in the Kentucky State High School Basketball Tournament scheduled to get under way next Wednesday at Rupp Arena in Lexington. The same teams met last year in the championship game, with Virgie winning.

The regional got under way last Friday night at the Prestonsburg Fieldhouse. In the opener, the Virgie Eagles won over the Betsy Layne Bobcats, 61 to 43. Virgie led at halftime 23 to 22, but it was all Virgie in the second half. Big Todd May led the Eagles with 19 points and had 10 rebounds. Betsy Layne had only two players in double figures—Dwight Newsome with 14 and James Hall with 10. Virgie connected on 15 of 18 shots from the charity line. Betsy Layne had 9 of 11.

In the second game Friday, the Johnson Central Golden Eagles won over the Belfry Pirates, 73 to 70. The Golden Eagles led much of the game by 10 to 12 points but Belfry rallied in the fourth quarter, scoring 29 points while Johnson Central scored 20, but the Eagles were able to hold on and win.

Saturday night in the lower bracket, the Elkhorn City Cougars defeated the Dorton Wildcats, 50 to 38. In a low-scoring first half the Cougars led at halftime, 14 to 11. Buddy Butler led the attack with 17. Marty Cantrell had 13 for the Wildcats. Gary Brewer had 18 points for Dorton from the 57th district.

In the second game of the evening, the Allen Central Rebels faced the Sheldon Clark Cardinals from the 57th district. The Rebels led at halftime, 41 to 32, and won the game, 73 to 64. Bruce Mullins and Tim Lawson each had 18 points while teammate Wally Ridner came up with a big night with 17 points and 11 rebounds. Sheldon Clark was led in scoring by John Kirk with 24.

The Virgie Eagles looked like the state's No. 1 team Monday night when they ripped the Johnson Central Eagles, 85 to 49. Todd May had 20 points and 13 rebounds and blocked 9 shots. Keith Casebolt went scoreless in the first three quarters but scored 14 points in the fourth quarter. Scott Marcum and Tommy Newsome also had 14 points.

In the second game, Allen Central's Rebels probably played their worst first half of the season. They trailed at the end of the half, 30 to 25, but came back, thanks to sophomore Tim Lawson's 26 points, in the second to win over Elkhorn City in an overtime, 68 to 67. The Rebels were leading, 60 to 50, with two minutes left in the game, but the Cougars scored 13 points in the two-minute span while Allen Central could muster only three points and the game ended 63-all. In the overtime, the two teams matched baskets but in the final seconds, Allen Central's Tony Jones was fouled and went to the line with only one second remaining in the overtime. The senior guard missed the first but hit the second shot and the Rebels won their way into the championship game. Tim Lawson's 26 points in the second half and 6 in the first half gave the 5-10 sophomore a total of 32 points. Bruce Mullins controlled the boards and fired in 23 points. Tony Jones had 5, including the winning free throw.

Are You Eligible To Donate Blood?

Central Kentucky Blood Center needs to draw at least 900 pints of blood each week to maintain a safe, adequate blood supply for our 43-county service area. To assure donor and patient safety, a medical history and mini-physical are conducted on all potential donors.

Take a few minutes to help determine your eligibility to donate blood.

If you answer no to the following and meet the physical requirements, you may be eligible to donate blood.

1. Have you ever had hepatitis, yellow jaundice (yellow skin/eyes), a positive test for hepatitis; have you been exposed to a case of hepatitis within the last six months?
2. Are you under age 18 or over age 66?
3. Within the last week, have you had the following: an infectious disease, boils, fever blisters, infected cut or wound, cold, flu, sinus infection, or any symptoms of allergies?
4. Are you now under a doctor's care, are you taking any medications (pills, shots)?
5. Have you recently had any vaccinations or injections?
6. Do you weigh under 110 pounds?

There are other health reasons which might prevent you from donating blood. If you have any questions about these or any "Yes" answers to the six questions above, please check with CKBC: 1-800-432-9528, or Prestonsburg Donor Station in the Municipal Building by calling 886-1557.

The old saying that "spring turns a young man's fancy to thoughts of love" may be based on fact. The March Reader's Digest reports that weather-sensitive people undergo a metabolism change between winter and summer. For many, this change occurs with an explosive rush, hormones surging through the body. Small wonder it's hard to think straight.

Award Honors ACHS Player

When players, coaches and supporters got together, Sunday, for a banquet at Allen Central High School to celebrate the recent victory in the championship game of the 15th Region tournament and the team's first trip to the state tournament, one of the players was singled out for a special honor.

Jalenda Howard, ACHS senior, was presented the team's "110 Percent Award for Excellence" and most would agree the honor was well deserved. Miss Howard, a talented and valuable player in her years at Allen Central, was injured during play as a junior, and torn ligaments in her right leg forced her to walk, for a time, with the aid of crutches.

The nature of her injury severely limited her endurance on the hardwood but her skills remained and, seemingly disregarding the chronic pain associated with ligament damage, she chose to keep playing.

Throughout this year Miss Howard has been used in the "pinch" situations and, although her coaches have been careful to "pull" her from play when they suspected she might be overextending herself, her in-and-out work as a relief player has proved valuable.

Miss Howard is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Howard, of Rock Fork. The trophy presented Miss Howard was sponsored by County Judge-Executive Jerry Lafferty, Jr.

'Butch' Clifton Memorial Tourney Slated Next Month At Archer Park

Prestonsburg Community College's Phi Beta Lambda Chapter will sponsor the second annual "Butch" Clifton Memorial Softball Tournament for men and women teams at Archer Park April 15-18 in memory of Kentucky State Police Trooper Jerome "Butch" Clifton, who was killed in the line of duty in 1980. All proceeds from the tournament will once again be donated to Trooper Island Boys' Camp, the KSP-sponsored youth camp for underprivileged children, in memory of Trooper Clifton.

The drawing for position will be held April 13 at 7 p.m. at the Archer Park men's softball field. Teams will be limited to the first 20 men's and women's teams responding. Entry fees must be received by April 12. (Mail your check to Phi Beta Lambda, c/o Mazola Salmons, Prestonsburg Community College, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653.)

Jackets and trophies will be awarded to the first-place teams and trophies will also be presented to second- and third-place teams as well as a trophy for the most homers.

For further information about the tournament and entry fees, contact either Mazola Salmons at 886-3863, Extension 244; Rhonda Stapleton at 297-3042, or Alma Myers at 478-2332.

Crippling strikes one family in five, according to the Easter Seal Society. The Society, which conducts a year-round program of direct rehabilitation services through its affiliates nationwide, is supported mainly by gifts and contributions.

Deer, Small Game Seasons Set

This fall's deer and small game hunting seasons will remain basically unchanged from last year, according to regulations adopted by the Fish and Wildlife Commission at its quarterly meeting in Frankfort Feb. 28-March 1.

Only two counties, Knox and Lincoln, will be closed to deer hunting, with the gun season scheduled to open Nov. 6 in Kentucky's 118 other counties.

The state will again be divided into deer hunting "zones" with differing closing dates and harvest regulations. A 10-day season (Nov. 6-15) is scheduled for zones one, two and three; in zone four, the season will be five days (through Nov. 10) and in zone five, three days (through Nov. 8).

Zone hunters may take antlered or antlerless deer during all 10 days of the gun season, while in zone two, antlerless deer may be taken only during the last day (Nov. 15). Hunters in zones three, four and five may take only antlered deer.

Archery season for deer will open Oct. 1 and continue through Nov. 4, then resume Nov. 17 and run through Dec. 31 in zones one through five. Crossbows may be used only during the Nov. 20-29 portion of the archery season.

Again this year, bow hunters may take only antlered deer in zones four and five. Antlered or antlerless deer are legal game for archers in zones one, two and three. The season limit remains two deer, provided at least one is taken by bow and arrow. A separate deer permit ($11.50 each) is required for each deer.

The only change in small game seasons is the closing date of rabbit and quail seasons, which was moved to Feb. 28, 1983. Small game and furbearer seasons will continue to open on the traditional third Thursday of November (Nov. 18) with the squirrel season opening set for the equally traditional third Saturday of August (Aug. 21). Bag limits and other regulations remain unchanged from last year.

After adoption by the state Fish and Wildlife Commission, regulations must be approved by a legislative subcommittee, a process which generally takes around two months. Hunting guides for deer and small game will be published after these regulations gain final approval.

Here's a rundown of the counties in Kentucky's six deer hunting zones:

ZONE ONE (Antlered and antlerless deer, Nov. 6-15) Edmonson County south of 728, east of 259 between 728 and 31W and north of 31W. (Remainder of Edmonson County is in Zone Three.)

ZONE TWO (Antlered deer, Nov. 6-14, antlered or antlerless deer, Nov. 15). Counties in this zone are: Breckinridge, Bullitt, Butler, Caldwell, Carroll, Christian, Crittenden, Franklin, Gallatin, Hancock, Henry, Hopkins, Logan, McCracken, Muhlenberg, Ohio, Oldham, Owen, Shelby, Todd, Trimble.

ZONE THREE (Antlered deer only, Nov. 6-15). Counties in this zone are: Adair, Allen, Anderson, Ballard, Baren, Boone, Boyd, Boyle, Bracken, Calloway, Campbell, Carlisle, Carter, Casey, Cumberland, Edmonson, except that portion included in Zone 1, Fulton, Grant, Graves, Grayson, Green, Greenup, Hardin, Harrison, Hart, Henderson, Hickman, Kenton, Larue, Lawrence, Lewis, Livingston, McLean, Marion, Mason, Meade, Mercer, Metcalfe, Monroe, Nelson, Pendleton, Russell, Scott, Spencer, Taylor, Trigg, Union, Warren, Washington and Webster.

ZONE FIVE (Antlered deer only, Nov. 6-8 and for entire archery season). Counties in this zone are: Bell, Bourbon, Clark, Clay, Clinton, Estill, Fayette, Floyd, Garrard, Harlan, Jackson, Jessamine, Johnson, Knott, Laurel, Lee, Leslie, Letcher, Madison, Magoffin, Martin, Montgomery, Owsley, Perry, Pike, Powell, Rockcastle, Simpson, Whitley, Wolfe and Woodford.

Jobless Rate Up To Double Figures Here

Ninety seven of Kentucky's 120 counties had unemployment rates in double figures during January, according to Department for Human Resources statistics released March 5. Ninety nine of the state's counties had rates above the national average for January, 9.4 percent.

The rate for Floyd county stood at 10.7 percent.

The number of jobless Kentuckians reached an all-time high of 184,800 during January causing the state's unemployment rate to reach 11.5 percent of the labor force. Kentucky's December unemployment rate was 10.4 percent.

Department for Human Resources' statistics also indicated that 11 Kentucky counties had unemployment rates above 20.0 percent and two counties had rates exceeding 30.0 percent. The highest unemployment rates in Kentucky were reported in Menifee county, which had 32.1 percent unemployment and Robertson county reporting 30.6 percent. Union county had the state's lowest unemployment rate for January, 4.8 percent.

Eastern Kentucky's unemployment rate rose 13.1 percent during January, the same as the state's south central area. Both areas share the state's highest unemployment for the month.

Within the eastern Kentucky area, 31 of the area's 34 counties had unemployment rates in double figures. Martin county had the area's lowest rate, 5.9 percent.

The department's monthly survey of unemployment insurance benefit recipients indicate that 26.5 percent of the area's jobless were in manufacturing, 20.4 percent in construction and 18.4 percent in mining.

★ EXTENSION SERVICE NEWS ★

By JACK M. FRIAR
County Extension Agent

WHAT TO DO IN MARCH AND APRIL

Garden Flowers: Sow annual flower seeds indoors if you elect to grow your own transplants. Call your U.K. County Extension Agent and ask for a copy of the U.K. publication HO-56, "Starting Plants From Seed At Home," if you wish to have seedling schedules and guidelines in raising your own plants.

When the soil is friable, prepare beds or spots in your flower beds for divisions of autumn-flowering perennials. Old crowns should be dug, divided and replanted.

Check mulched beds for signs of bulb sprouting beneath the mulch. Remove the dressing from those showing 3-4 inches of new growth.

Remove declining flowers from tulips, narcissus and hyacinths to prevent seed formation.

Woody Ornamentals: Check shrubs and trees for winter injury. Do necessary pruning to remove injured branches.

Plant your new trees and shrubs as soon as you purchase them. Once they have leafed out, their survival rate declines.

This is the best time for applying dormant oil sprays for aphid, mite and other insect egg control on woody ornamentals.

Prune rust galls from cedars and junipers.

Lawns: Fertilize bermudagrass or zoysiagrass lawns.

Sharpen lawn mower blades. Mow according to recommended heights: Kentucky Bluegrass—2-2½ inches; Tall Fescue—2-3 inches; Creeping Red Fescue—2-2½ inches; Bermudagrass—½-1 inch; Zoysiagrass—¾-1 inch.

The best mowing frequency depends on how fast the grass is growing. A general rule is to mow often enough so that no more than ½ to ⅓ of the sod leafage is removed at any one mowing. If your grass grows too tall, raise your mowing height—do not cut it all at one time.

Apply pre-emergent crabgrass herbicide to lawns before mid-late April in northern Kentucky and late March to early April in southern Kentucky. Herbicides presently recommended for preemergence crabgrass control in established bluegrass and tall fescue lawns are: benefin (Balan); bensulide (Betasan and Pre San); DCPA (Dacthal); and siduron (Tupersan). These materials are sold in many different formulations under various trade names. Follow closely the directions on the label of the particular product purchased.

For newly seeded lawns, Tupersan is the only product which can be used for preemergence crabgrass control.

Control broadleaf weeds in lawns. Suitable herbicides for home lawns are 2,4-D+ dicamba (Banvel) or 2,4-D+ mecoprop+ dicamba (Spectrum-33 Plus, Trex-San, Trimec).

Vegetables: Plant cool season crops in mid-March if danger of frost is over: cabbage, cauliflower, onions, spinach and lettuce. Broccoli, brussels sprouts and kale should be planted around the end of March.

Sow beets, carrots and parsnip seeds in mid-April.

Seed radishes, spinach, bush beans, sweet corn and English peas toward the end of April.

Fruits: Apply dormant sprays to your trees according to U.K.'s recommendations.

Prune fruit trees and grapes. Remove dead canes from blackberries and raspberries.

'81, Music Theatre's Best Year; Group Preps for New Season

"We had our best year in 1981 and now we're well on our way for 1982," said Ruby G. Clifton, president of the Jenny Wiley Drama Association, last week of the Jenny Wiley Summer Theatre.

The music theatre's summer season 1982 opens with the musical, "The Music Man," June 23 in the Jenny Wiley State Park amphitheatre at 8:30 p.m. "The Music Man is a tremendous show," says returning Managing Director John McCann. "It's going to be the biggest show we've done in a long time, complete with marching bands from area high schools," McCann added.

The longest-running love story on the American stage, "The Fantasticks," will open June 26. "The Fantasticks," which has been running continuously in New York for the past 23 years, was last presented at Jenny Wiley in 1968. This year's production will be staged with a new and interesting twist.

The Civil War and its impact on a Virginia family is the setting for this year's third offering, "Shenandoah." This musical delighted audiences at Jenny Wiley in 1978 and will open on July 7.

Once again the musicals will be presented in the rotating repertory format with all three shows being presented each week through August 22.

In addition to McCann's return as managing director, Maureen Shea will return as artistic director.

"You couldn't ask for a better theatre," says McCann. "We have a wonderful artistic director, a dynamic board of trustees, a beautiful outdoor performance space, and a commitment to providing the finest in musical theatre entertainment and enjoyment for the entire family."

Ticket prices for 1982 will be the same as 1981. "We have made every effort to trim budgets, spend wisely, and keep the tickets at an affordable level," said Mrs. Clifton. "Also we are in the middle of a very active fund drive in order to offset the drastic cuts in federal and state funding. The contributions of industries, individuals and businesses are the real reason we are able to keep ticket prices affordable," she added. Tickets are $5 for adults on Wednesday, Thursday and Sunday. Adult admission on Friday and Saturday is $7. Student admission is $3.50 on all nights, and children under the age of six are admitted free. Season tickets, which offer a saving of 30% are available now by writing, Box Office, P.O. Box 22, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653.

Auditions for acting roles and interviews for technical and administrative positions will be held at Pike Auditorium, Prestonsburg Community College, April 17 at 1 p.m. Those appearing for auditions should come prepared with a song and a 30-second monologue. An accompanist will be provided. Those interviewed should have a complete resume.

Additional information about Summer Season '82 is available by calling 886-9274.

Campbell Reports PCC Accreditation

Dr. Henry A. Campbell, Jr., director at Prestonsburg Community College, has announced that the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools reaffirmed accreditation for the college at its annual meeting in December, 1981.

Accreditation is an extremely important achievement because it signifies that the academic credits which a student earns at Prestonsburg Community College are accepted at any other college or university in the country," a representative of PCC said.

The accreditation process, which must be done at 10-year intervals, was begun in the spring of 1979 and continued throughout the 1979-1980 academic year. While every administrator, faculty, and staff member and numerous students participated in the process, the self-study was directed by a steering committee composed of Chairman Laura Weddle, Editor Sandra Robertson and Standards chairmen, Madonna Combs, Phyllis Honshell, Ronnie Chaffins, John D. Sammons, Charles J. Isbell, H. Kenneth Fuller, Robert D. McAninch, Gus M. Kalos and Susan S. Nutter.

The payment of unemployment benefits to workers temporarily out of work are an important revenue source in local communities; payments are made by the state unemployment insurance agencies which operate under direction of the U.S. Department of Labor.

The occasional digestive upset that is a result of an overindulgent meal, or a rough day at work, may be well treated with an antacid. However, there are conditions which should not be confused with indigestion. If you are subject to a single, persistent episode of severe discomfort, sweating, weakness or breathlessness, call your doctor. Heart pain is frequently confused with indigestion especially among middle-aged men. Repeated occurrences of even mild indigestion may suggest a more serious problem. Do not always self-medicate with an antacid. You may be masking a potentially dangerous disorder. Consult your physician.

Many of us suffer occasionally from digestive upsets, but if the symptoms worsen or persist, it is best to consult your doctor, just to be on the safe side. At COOLEY APOTHECARY, INC. you'll find a full service drug center, plus many convalescent items. Remember, as your neighborhood pharmacist, your best interest is our best interest. We're located at No. 2 Town Center Bldg. Open Mon.-Fri. from 9-5:30 and Sat. from 9-5. 886-8106.

Our Fragile Earth

By DR. JERRY HOWELL
Department of Biological and Environmental Sciences
Morehead State University

This article originally appeared in October, 1979. Because there is new evidence that cockroaches are on the increase, it is being reprinted. There are over 3,600 cockroach species in the world. As a group, they may be the earth's hardest animals because they have survived, relatively unchanged, for 300 million years, despite attempts by man and nature to eradicate them.

We have actually encouraged cockroaches because they are very adaptable to human habitations and our rising population has increased the cockroach population. In addition, we have increased cockroach hardness through a process known as natural selection. After pesticide spraying programs, spray survivors, obviously resistant to the chemicals, live to transmit their hardy genes to their offspring, making each generation slightly more resistant than the previous one.

Because cockroaches are important links in the food cycles of many lizards and birds (believe it or not, most cockroaches live outside our houses), it may not be wise to attempt to eradicate them completely. In addition, the side effects of our traditional spraying programs may be environmentally worse than the roaches. Entomologists have also mentioned the possibility that roaches, because of their availability and protein and vitamin B content, will be a future food source.

We are now making rapid advances in pest control methods and one of the safest types involves using man-made or natural hormones. Hormones and other chemical regulators of behavior have been manufactured or synthesized in the laboratory. Because they are very specific (usually one particular hormone controls only one function in one particular organism), hormones can be used to fight pest species through enabling us to trap a particular pest species, preventing it from mating naturally, or causing it to remain in a certain life stage. In the U.S., Japanese beetles, gypsy moths, tobacco budworms, cornear worms, bark beetles, and chiggers are common examples of insects being controlled by non-pesticide chemicals.

A useful hormone, periplanone B, has been isolated from American cockroaches by Dr. C.J. Persoons, a Dutch Entomologist. Working with 75,000 virgin females, Dr. Persoons finally isolated 200 millionths of a gram of the hormone, enough to analyze the compound and permit Dr. W. Clark Still, a Columbia University chemist, to synthesize it almost exactly. The compound is so potent one drop can sexually stimulate about one million tons of male roaches.

Although it is doubtful the hormone will completely eliminate the American roach, it definitely has the potential to drastically reduce its populations. When the compound is released near male roaches, they began a confused mating pattern. If overpowered by the scent, the males attempt to mate with inanimate objects, other males and other insect species. The female roaches are confused by this behavior and many times will not accept the affected males. Thus, because eggs are seldom laid, roach populations decline. Next: integrated pest management.

Is 10-Week Wait For Tax Refund

Kentucky taxpayers who file 1981 state tax returns claiming a refund should wait at least 10 weeks to contact the Kentucky Department of Revenue about their refund, Revenue Commissioner Ron Geary announced.

"Refunds get top priority and are processed as quickly as possible," Geary said.

Taxpayers who file early returns may get refunds in less than 10 weeks, unless the taxpayer made an error of some sort, Geary said.

Persons filing returns after April 1 should wait until after July 1 to contact the department about a refund.

Panelists Discuss Desirable Qualities
A panel of local employers discussed the topic, "Qualities Desired in PCC Graduates," when they presented a workshop at Prestonsburg Community College last month. The workshop was one in a series of monthly programs presented by the Faculty and Staff Development Committee, coordinated by Prof. Laura Weddle.

Appearing on the panel were Jim Kelly, district manager, Social Security Administration; Jim Reed, local office manager, Bureau for Manpower Services; Bill Hall, coordinator of industrial relations, American Standard, Inc.; Wanda Caldwell, vice-president, The Bank Josephine, and Don Nunery, assistant administrator, Highlands Regional Medical Center.

The panel members agreed that, in addition to proficiency in the jobs to which they were hired, such qualities as effective communication skills, loyalty to the organization and dependability were of paramount importance. The faculty was told that in today's stringent job market some employers favor applicants who have demonstrated regular attendance in college classes as an indicator of future stability on the job.

GAS TAX DROPS

Kentucky's gasoline tax rate will drop a half a cent per gallon effective April 1 to June 30, the Revenue Department has announced.

The new rate will be 9.5 cents per gallon, down from the current 10 cent per gallon rate. As a result of the decline, motorists will pay a nickel less for each 10 gallons of gas.

The quarterly rate adjustments are the result of a law passed by the 1980 General Assembly which changed the gas tax from a flat nine cents to 9 percent of the average wholesale price. The new rate reflects declines in the wholesale price.

The rate changes also apply to diesel fuels and liquefied petroleum gas used in motor vehicles.

Owner Defends Adkins Mine

By RON DALEY

Orville Adkins, owner of Adkins Mine No. 18, said that he would probably quit the mining business because of the tragic Topmost mine disaster if it were not for the men that would lose their jobs.

In a telephone interview, Adkins said that his workers were interested in starting back to work, and that he has had offers to lease or buy the mine, but he has not made his mind up about what to do with the mine.

He praised his mines, saying they always received high inspection marks. Pointing out that he worked over 100 men and that only three or four men have not returned to the mine after the mine explosion, he said that this was an indication of the men's confidence in his mines. Adkins owns four mines.

Mr. Adkins said he doubted that a hearing in Hindman would accomplish anything.

He was critical of comments made by some of the widows, "Some of the widows have been brainwashed or something," he stated. "I think their husbands would have taken a different attitude, maybe, than some of them did."

As an example, Adkins said Dillard Ashley left his mines to work for National Mines, only to return and say, "He'd rather work for us than anywhere else he had worked," Adkins said. "He said he would never quit us again."

He described talk that some of the men killed were trying to quit as "hearsay." "That's not so, because we got their brothers, brother-in-laws and cousins back to work for us."

The widows are good people, said Adkins, but some of them have been misinformed, he added.

"The president of our local, he's got his three sons working for me," Adkins commented. "The vice-president of the local, he's got himself and two brothers working for us."

Adkins denied the allegation, made by one widow, that the company had not contacted them and said they sent people to the families. Adkins said he was unable to do more himself because he was recovering from an operation he had had prior to the accident.

Asked for a reaction to the report about the disaster which stated that many safety violations were found, Adkins said, "These reports have to come up with something. We've been working to keep a good, safe mine. It's something that happened there, that I don't know, and that's hard to explain."

When questioned if it was tough for a mine owner to prevent workers from "cutting corners," he said, "It's tough, especially if you are union. It's tough to get rid of men for unsafe practices."

Adkins had critical comments concerning UMWA President Sam Church.

Adkins said in the first news broadcast he heard that Church said, "If it had been a union mine it wouldn't have happened. He didn't know we were union."

"I call them our men because I think we are closer to them than he is," Mr. Adkins said that shooting from the solid can be done safely, but that it depends on the individual.

The U.S. Department of Labor's Mine Safety and Health Administration (MSHA) is responsible for making working conditions in underground and surface mines and related activities as safe and hazard-free as possible.

Blankenship Named Membership Chairman For Floyd Scouting

O. Sam Blankenship has been named as Floyd county finance chairman for the 1982 sustaining membership enrollment in the Lonesome Pine District, Boy Scouts of America.

Blankenship is vice-president and chief financial officer of First Commonwealth Bank. He will coordinate the contacting of selected parents, community organizations and friends of Scouting to provide ongoing financial support for the operation of Scouting in this area. Assisting him in various levels of the SME effort will be Blaine Hall, Harold Cooley, Larry Leslie, Estill Carter, Chalmer Frazier, and others.

While accepting his first position in Scouting, Blankenship has been active in community organizations including past president of Floyd County Chamber of Commerce and part-time instructor at Prestonsburg Community College.

He resides at East Point with his wife, Cathy Jean, and four children.

"The Lonesome Pine District provides program services that are directly related to youth and their Scouting units. These include camping, training, advancement, and new unit organization," Blankenship said. He added that there are presently eight Cub Scout packs or Boy Scout troops in the county serving more than 200 youths.

FIRE REGS IN EFFECT

The spring fire season regulations are in effect until May 15, announced forestry officials with the state Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Department.

"During the fire season it is illegal to have an outdoor fire within 150 feet of a wooded area except between 4:30 p.m. and midnight. Any outdoor burning must be done at this time," said Forestry Director Donald A. Hamm.

Forest fire damage in recent years has been costly to Kentucky, he said. In 1980, about 364,000 wooded acres burned. In 1981, 294,000 acres were burned. Using only current dollar figures, not considering future economic trends, the loss can be estimated at $2,000 for each acre, Hamm said.

Woodland fire reports for 1982 show that even before the fire season began March 1, there had been 226 fires involving about 4,507 acres.

HYPOTHERMIA

Just because winter seems to be slowly withdrawing, don't assume that all the dangers associated with cold weather are leaving with it. The probability of getting into serious—or even fatal—trouble while outdoors in late winter and early spring is as great, if not greater, now than in the dead of winter.

More people will be out fishing, canoeing, or hiking as the days warm. Many of them may not be prepared for sudden changes in the weather. A capsize boat, even on a 70-degree day, may toss a fisherman into 50-degree water, where he can remain conscious for less than half an hour.

Wet clothing (either from a dunking or from a sudden rain) coupled with strong winds can lower the body's internal temperature to dangerous levels, even when air temperatures are in the 50s. Most garment materials (wool is an exception) lose their insulating value when wet and winds increase evaporation, which has an even further cooling effect on the body.

While this lowering of the body's core temperature (called hypothermia) isn't technically the same as "freezing to death," the results can be just as permanent. A drop of only two degrees from the normal 98.6 degrees can bring on the first symptoms of hypothermia—uncontrolled shivering, followed by loss of mental powers, muscular rigidity, unconsciousness and, if internal temperatures drop below 70 degrees, death.

So be particularly alert during cool-weather outings. Watch for, both in yourself and your companions, shiverings, slurred speech, irrational behavior—as if the sufferer were drugged or drunk—and clumsiness.

The treatment for hypothermia is to reverse the body's heat loss. In mild cases, getting the victim into a warm place (a heated building or a sleeping bag with another person) is generally enough.

In severe cases, however, it's important that the head, shoulders, chest, abdomen and groin be warmed first. If the arms and legs are warmed too rapidly, blood is drawn away from the

Liquor Retailers Receive Tax Audit

The state Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control, in cooperation with the Kentucky Department of Revenue, has initiated an audit program that could mean several million dollars in additional revenue to the state, according to Public Protection and Regulation Secretary Tracy Farmer.

"This program was started in October and has already revealed more than $250,000 due the state," Farmer said.

According to Les Cole, supervisor of ABC's eastern district, the $250,000 is the result of audits of several retail outlets in Harlan and Perry counties.

The money comes from taxes on alcoholic beverages sold at retail.

Cole said the audit program began after a five-month investigation of a wholesaler. The inquiry cleared the distributor but indicated that some retailers were not reporting all of their sales.

The department is auditing all retailers in Harlan and Perry counties and is expanding the program into other parts of the state. "We're also doing some (auditing) work in Boone, Kenton and Campbell counties in Northern Kentucky and in Fayette, Clark and Montgomery counties in the central part of the state," Cole said.

Retailers have an option. If an audit reveals that the retailer owes money, then either the tax must be paid or the license will be revoked. Several licenses have been revoked far, according to Cole.

"The department will eventually be auditing statewide," Farmer said. "This is a program that shows solid results and is here to stay."

The Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control, one of 13 agencies of the Public Protection Cabinet, is located at 123 Walnut St., Frankfort, Ky. 40601. The phone number is (502) 564-4850.

39th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Adams, of the Middle Creek Road, celebrated their 39th wedding anniversary March 1 with a surprise dinner given at the home of their son, Paul Adams, and his wife, also of the Middle Creek Road. The cake was baked and decorated for the occasion by their daughter-in-law, Charalotta Adams, of David. Family members enjoying the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Donny Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Baldridge and children, Steve and Kim, Mr. and Mrs. Danny Adams and their niece, Terry Lynn Dotson, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Adams and son, Frank Davis, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Adams and grandson, Terry Adams, Jr., all of the Middle Creek Road, and Mr. and Mrs. Larry Adams and children, Amy and Jeannie, of the David Road.

History Of Horn Chapel Methodist Church

The Horn Chapel Methodist Church was organized in 1902 by a group of old settlers in the community. The land was given by J. W. and Emma Hatcher to the Methodist Episcopal Church and Trustees which were Martin Bayes, Edward Horn, James Wells, Will Vaughan, Johnce Osborne and Samuel Spradlin. Neighbors and friends all pitched in and built a church of rough lumber, board floor, and the ladies papered the walls. Oil lamps and lanterns were used at night services.

This was the day of the circuit rider, when the preacher rode horseback from one church to another. Many people crossed the Big Sandy river by boat to get to church; others walked or rode horses. The first pastor was Perry Oliver Adkins, of Auxier. Then came James H. Howes, who pastored at East Point, Auxier and Horn's Chapel. Members of the church then were James and Belle Wells, Isadore and Alice Horn, Johnce and Sis Osborne, Wade and Harriet Hobson, Sal and Lizzie Bingham, George and Nellie Crum, John and Easter Branham, Grover and Addie Bayes, Jim and Easter Horn, Elmer and Lula Burchett, Buren and Cynthia Vaughan, Martin and Kathryn Bayes, Kedro Vaughan and Sidney Harmon.

In 1932, this church was torn down and church and Sunday school were held in the Spradlin Branch School house for years. Many preachers held revivals, and all denominations used the school house for their services. In 1947, a revival was held and several people were converted. New hope and faith were born to rebuild Horn Chapel Church. Rev. James Roarke, who was pastor, worked very hard and solicited donations. Others that were instrumental in rebuilding were Will Bingham, Alex Bingham, Jim Crager, Albert Collins, Carl Bingham, Bill Wills, and Woodrow Branham.

The church stands today as a monument to the faithful Christians that have sacrificed to keep the church alive in this community. This church has served as a training station for six preachers to go out and pastor other churches.

Help for Parents of Seriously-Ill Child

The diagnosis that your child has a life-threatening illness is a staggering blow. The illness has landed without warning and for no comprehensible reason.

Yet your ability to cope as a parent is essential, since your sick child may have years of valuable life ahead. A child with a serious illness continues to develop and achieve, and is entitled to as healthy an environment as possible.

To help parents of children who have a catastrophic illness such as cystic fibrosis, cancer or congenital heart disease, the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation has recently published a revised edition of "Emotional Aspects of Life-Threatening Illness in Children: A Handbook for Parents," according to Robert J. Beall, Ph.D., National Director of the Foundation.

"The handbook makes it possible for the reader to share the research and experience of psychologists, psychiatrists, social workers, physicians, nurses, other parents and the children themselves," said Beall.

"While each family and each child within a family are unique, parents of seriously ill children share many common experiences and feelings, as do the young patients and their brothers and sisters. Each member of the family may need help with accepting the fact that a child's span of life may be limited."

The book is divided into two sections, the first dealing with emotions experienced by the parents. Feelings of confusion, denial, fear, anger, guilt and hope are not uncommon, say the authors, John J. Spinetta, Ph.D., and Patricia Deasy-Spinetta, M.A., M.S., of the California State University at San Diego, who explore ways in which others have coped with these conflicting stresses.

Also in this section devoted to the emotional impact on parents is an in-depth discussion of the demands created by the usually unprecedented situation and sources of support and assistance to help meet those demands.

Part Two of the book is titled "You and Your Children," and deals with what the healthy child knows about death and what the seriously ill child knows about the illness and its treatment. The authors contend that children believe in parent power. The parent who leaves openings for the sick and the well children in the family to voice their concerns can build a bridge to last a lifetime.

Professionals who work with families of children who have life-threatening illnesses often observe that parents develop an ability to adjust which permits them to meet the threat to their happiness and function very effectively. Parents who were shocked and overwhelmed by the diagnosis came to discover strengths they never dreamed they possessed.

This book is intended to help parents discover those strengths and suggests many emotional-energy-saving ways to cope with such problems as well-meaning relatives, schooling, resolving disagreements, adjusting to hospitalizations, discipline, maintaining a normal home life and avoiding undue strain on a marriage.

"As medicine gets better, more and more children with life-threatening illnesses are living into adulthood," says Dr. Ivan Harwood, one of the editors, and director of the University of California Cystic Fibrosis Center at San Diego.

"Along with the ordinary challenges of young adult life come problems related to their disease. These concerns require the continuing understanding and support of their peers, parents, physicians and extended health care team members to help them learn to live peacefully with the obstacles to a full and mature adult life.

"Today many young adults with serious illness are succeeding in overcoming these obstacles, and in pursuing life despite the illness. They have a lot to teach the younger ones coming up behind them," Harwood said.

"Emotional Aspects of Life-Threatening Illness in Children" is available through the local chapter of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation located at: 1951 Bishop Lane, Suite 208, Louisville, KY 40218.

If you or someone you know are involved in the complex problems created by the catastrophic illness of a child, help is at hand with this sensible and sensitive booklet.

The Cystic Fibrosis Foundation receives no government funds and is supported by contributions from the public to carry out programs of patient care, public and professional education, and basic biomedical research.

"We Never Sleep"

—The Early Pinkertons

By MICHELLE IROFF

Smithsonian News Service

One was an opium addict; another walked with a swinging gait. A blue anchor on the forearm distinguished a third. And a single gold tooth on the lower left of the jaw was the trademark of one named Sophie.

Though their looks and "calling cards" were quite different, the characters in this rogues' gallery had one trait in common: Outlaws all, they were pursued and foiled by Pinkerton's National Detective Agency.

As a young man in Scotland during the tumultuous Industrial Revolution, Allan Pinkerton, who would found the agency, was considered a rogue, an enemy of established society. He was among the more radical adherents of the reformist Chartist movement and advocated violence, if necessary, to democratize Parliament. A warrant was soon issued for his arrest and in 1843 Allan Pinkerton wisely headed for the shores of America.

Upon arrival, Pinkerton apparently forgot his unconventional past and quickly established himself as a manufacturer of barrels in Dundee, Ill. This innocuous profession led to the flowering of his hidden investigative instincts.

One day, while collecting staves for his cooper trade on an uninhabited island in a nearby river, Pinkerton discovered the remains of a suspicious fire. Convinced something strange was going on, he returned late one night with the county sheriff to spy figures there silhouetted in the dark. They turned out to be coin counterfeiters; the barrel manufacturer's keen eye and alert mind had done them in.

Thus began Pinkerton's nearly 40 years of checkmating shady capers. He died in 1884, but his sons, Robert and William, who had begun working with the agency as teenagers, kept the business growing.

In the wake of his Dundee successes, "I suddenly found myself called upon from every quarter to undertake matters requiring detective skill," Pinkerton recalled years later. And in 1848, he readily accepted when the sheriff of Cook County asked him to come to Chicago to serve as deputy. A year later, he was appointed Chicago's first full time detective. But Pinkerton's talents seemed to demand an arena of operation larger yet. In 1850, he gave up his job on the city force to establish his own private agency.

One of the first of its kind in the country, the new enterprise thrived from the start. In 1856, having signed lucrative contracts to protect the property of several Midwestern railroads and with requests for his services growing daily, he wrote back to a friend in Dundee: "I am overwhelmed with business."

Today, Pinkerton's, Inc., headquartered in New York City, with a staff of 36,000 people scattered around the world, provides security and investigative services on a private contract basis. As in the past, agents often make citizen's arrests, holding suspects in custody until the authorities arrive.

Interest in the agency also lives on. Thus, the Smithsonian's National Portrait Gallery recently staged an exhibition, entitled "We Never Sleep: The First Fifty Years of the Pinkertons." The exhibit, put together by historians Frederick S. Voss and James G. Barber, presented the history of what perhaps was the nation's first national—if unofficial—police force.

When Allan Pinkerton began his professional career, local police forces were often corrupt, usually understaffed and less than efficient. They had neither the resources nor the will to pursue criminals outside their assigned districts. What's more, the Western frontier was wide open. The Pinkertons, ready and willing, stepped into the gap, pursued criminals otherwise forgotten and gathered material on nefarious activities across the country, becoming a national clearinghouse of sorts on illegal activities.

They were also doggedly patient. Take the case of Max Shinburn, skilled bank robber of the Eastern seaboard.

By the time he turned 30 in 1870, Shinburn had become an expert safe-cracker, even devising a set of tools specifically for opening safes. But the Pinkertons and the police relentlessly trailed Shinburn, so he moved to Belgium, establishing himself there as a respectable, prosperous silk entrepreneur—and self-proclaimed nobleman.

Shinburn's attempts at the straight life soon failed, however. His investments turned sour, and he returned to his old lifestyle and to the states. The Pinkertons had him arrested for theft in New York and, after serving time, the ex-convict wound up poor and alone. But William Pinkerton did not forget him. Pinkerton asked Shinburn to describe some of his techniques and Shinburn obliged with an intricate and carefully planned diagram on the art of safe-cracking.

The Pinkertons were even sought out by crooks in trouble. Such a man was Adam Worth, whose career was studded with diamond heists, forgery opera-

Observes 98th Birthday

Mrs. Mollie Patrick, who has resided at Mountain Manor Nursing Home for seven years observed her 98th birthday January 14, when she was honored with two parties, one given by her family and one by the staff of Mountain Manor.

When asked to what she attributed her long life, Mrs. Patrick said, "Hard work and trying to be good to everyone."

Mrs. Patrick, formerly of Salyersville, who has lived at Mountain Manor longer than any of its other residents, has two children, a son in Salyersville, and a daughter in New York.

Missing Guns Found

Two guns stolen four years ago from the home of Ronald Ousley, near Printer, were found March 7 by children playing in the hills on Buckeye Fork of Middle Creek, Sheriff Henry Hale reported. One of the guns, a "Buffalo" rifle, was valued at $1,000 or more. The other, was a Winchester shotgun. A third weapon stolen at the time was found, shortly after the break into the home, by Sam Hale who at that time was commonwealth detective.

The two weapons found recently were in poor condition but were claimed by the owner. The burglary followed the escape of seven prisoners from the county jail here, and some of the escapees were charged with the offense.

Transit Authority Told Funding Out This Year

Federal funding cuts have claimed another victim—the proposed county-wide public transit system.

The Floyd Transit Authority, which had developed plans for a regular bus system to bring residents in outlying sections to the county's major population centers, was told by officials of the state Department of Transportation last week that the state will not fund any new transportation projects this year on account of the federal budget cuts.

The county's application for funding to operate the bus system will remain on file in the event that funds subsequently become available, it was said.

ATTENTION ALL FLOYD COUNTY CITIZENS

Printed below is a petition for a legal local option election in Floyd County. There are spaces provided for signatures on each petition. All you have to do is sign in ink the petition, and get your friends and neighbors to sign the petition. Mail the signed petition complete with P.O. address and date (whether there is one signature or twenty-four) to the address listed below.

PETITION FOR LOCAL OPTION ELECTION

We, the undersigned, being constitutionally-qualified voters of Floyd County, Kentucky, with said County being a territory, as defined by KRS 242.010(5), do hereby petition for a local option election, pursuant to KRS 242.020.

Table with 3 columns: Name of Voter, Post Office Address, Date Signed. 24 numbered rows.

CONCERNED CITIZENS OF FLOYD COUNTY

We would like to make a plea to all Floyd Countians to consider carefully their decision on the issue of alcoholic beverage control. The issue is not whether Floyd County will be wet or dry, the issue is WHETHER OR NOT WE WANT TO CONTROL THE SALE OF ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGES.

The fact is that illegal alcoholic beverages abound in the county and cannot be voted out. The past has proven that a vote, dry, does not make the county dry, it simply provides a base for the illegal sale of alcoholic beverages. Do we as concerned citizens want this to continue?

If the sale of alcoholic beverages were legalized people under the age of 21 would not be able to obtain them easily. Under the present situation anyone of any age can obtain alcoholic beverages, no matter what their age.

There are some people that say, "If alcoholic beverages are legalized it will be right in front of our young people for them to see." We say, "Would you rather have them see it or be able to buy it and drink it?"

The question of there being a bar on every corner is simply unfounded. The number of licenses to sell package liquor is based on the population of the county. In this county there would be 21 licenses available for issue. Liquor by the drink would have to be voted on in a completely separate election, and only the city of Prestonsburg would be able to hold such an election.

Let's control our own economic growth and take advantage of the $450 million business of the sale of package liquor in Kentucky. It's time we get some of this money instead of contributing to other areas.

We must be careful not to let our emotions and snap decisions control our views on this subject. Please for the sake of our community let us stay together and make a stand to control the sale of alcoholic beverages and the progress of Floyd County.

THE COMMITTEE FOR ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGE CONTROL. P.O. Box 952. Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653 Ph. 886-1683. Fred C. Bingham Treas.
