

A STRENGTHENED FLOODWALL... Although disposal of fill is frequently a major problem at construction sites, the tons of boulders, rock and dirt created by site preparation for the installation of a new 750,000-gallon water tank here by the Prestonsburg Utilities Commission has proved a boon for the city. Kay & Kay Contractors, of London, in charge of foundation work for the job, and city officials decided weeks ago that the flood wall here would serve as an ideal repository for the fill, solving the problem of disposition of the construction debris, while, at the same time, strengthening the dike. Bill H. Howard, utilities commission superintendent, said the fill has "probably doubled the strength of the dike." Later, he pointed out, the floodwall will be "dressed up" and sowed with grass.

Church To Found Christian School

Sets Clean-Up Week

Judge-Executive Jerry Lafferty, Jr. this week proclaimed the week of April 5 Floyd County Clean-Up Week. County residents are encouraged to take large items of refuse—such as old stoves and washers—to the county landfill at Garth, or to set them out to be picked up by county or city sanitation crews, that week.

No charge will be levied for use of the landfill during Clean-Up Week, he said.

Academy Start Seen Next Fall, Gathering Told

Anyone looking for a frankly authoritarian, no-nonsense approach to education might well have found what they were looking for at the Water Gap Freewill Baptist Church Sunday afternoon.

Early in the meeting, which drew as many as 150 persons to the congregation's spacious new premises on the Lancer-Water Gap road, Pastor Danny Curry set its tone. "We are not here to debate what we should do," he said, "but to tell you what we intend to do."

What the church group intends to do is to establish the Prestonsburg Christian Academy this fall, as an alternative for those who find the public schools wanting.

It will be a school, it became clear during the meeting, where authority will be clearly defined and accepted without quibble; where the Bible will be the ultimate reference point, even for so-called secular subjects, and where the Bible will be interpreted literally; where the truths imparted will be sharp-edged and untainted by competing opinions.

It will be open to all healthy children whose parents can pay, but conformity will be expected of those who stay. Attendance at the Prestonsburg Christian Academy, it was stressed, will be "a privilege, not a right." The administrator will set Bible-based standards of conduct, dress, cleanliness.

Lodge Superintendent Sees No Drop in Business for '82

Picturesque Jenny Wiley State Park and its showplace May Lodge have withstood travel restrictions in the past because of fuel shortages and high cost, and now with spring opening up a new season no loss in patronage or the number of their visitors is expected this year.

"In fact," said Danny Brown, May Lodge superintendent, this week, "at the present time lodge reservations are as good or better than ever."

This, despite the fact that lodge rates will take a jump, April 1—to $43 for a single room, $52 for a double. Mr. Brown said he expects any loss in business reservations to be offset by the resulting opening of lodge accommodations to more tourists. The higher rates will prevail until November when they will be lowered again.

The tourist season really opens at Jenny Wiley when the surrounding hills break into full leaf, Dewey Lake clears and outdoor recreation beckons visitors. Last year, Brown said, the rush season came in June, not in July and August, as expected.

For the new season several improvements have been made. All two-bedroom vacation cottages have been completely renovated, a new gift shop in the lodge lobby has been completed, as have restrooms off the lobby for the handicapped and an elevator to serve the elderly and handicapped going to and from the lower-floor dining room is scheduled for completion by June 15.

At the Goble Branch campground in the park, water has been made available to each campsite, and rest rooms there have been renovated.

The campground has been one of Mr. Brown's disappointments. Last year, its 126 campsites were only 20 percent occupied.

"This is one of the best campgrounds in the state and is the only one serving the park, except the campground operated by the Corps of Engineers at German, in the headwaters of the lake, but it has never done as well as it should," he admitted. "We expect to advertise it more this year."

Although it has no connection with the Jenny Wiley Trail Association, the Parks Department has extended the hiking trail, built by the Association from South Shore, Ky. to the Goble Branch camping area. The 3½-mile extension brings the trail on to May Lodge.

Police in Search For 4 Suspects In Ivel Robbery

State Police were seeking the identity this week of four men after Miss Zella Mae Tackett, owner of the Eastern Heights Motel at Ivel, was bound and gagged Sunday night and robbed of jewelry and other items valued at several thousand dollars.

The robbery took place around 9:30 p.m. after two men had entered the motel and signed for a room. Shortly afterward, one of the men returned to ask help in getting the heat on in their room. When Miss Tackett accompanied him to the room, another man seized her, threatened her with a knife and told her she would not be harmed if she cooperated with them. The motel owner said the three men in the room bound her arms and legs, using coat-hangers, stripped her fingers of her rings and looted the nearby mobile home in which she lived.

Shaken by the experience, Miss Tackett said Monday morning, "I had read about such things happening but had not thought it would happen to me."

She said the three who came into the motel were white, in their early 20s and were not masked. She did not see a suspected fourth man in the car parked at the foot of the slope between the highway and the motel.

She said that when she heard one of (See Story No. 5, Page 4)

New Foreign Market Gives Coal Small Shot in Arm

The Eastern Kentucky coal business, which is not at its boomiest, got a shot in the arm this week with the announcement from Governor Brown's office that Italy's national utility has agreed to buy 400,000 tons of Kentucky coal in the next nine months.

Art Nicholson, president of the Kentucky Export Resources Authority, which was formed by state government to develop foreign markets, said it is not yet certain which producers will participate in the coal sales but that they will be drawn from the Big Sandy Small Operators Cooperative which provided coal for two test shipments last year. The cooperative is composed of area companies which produce less than 300,000 tons a year.

The price for the coal, not yet set, will depend on the coal market at the time shipments are made.

"The outlook for coal in 1982 is not as bright as it was in 1981, and this order will be a great help in stabilizing the production of coal by the small operators in East Kentucky," said William B. Sturgill, chairman of the export authority and a former state energy secretary.

The market is now in decline because coal stockpiles are large in many European countries and national and international economies are in recession.

At least two additional co-ops will be formed to represent the Kentucky River and Cumberland River valleys, Sturgill said in a press statement.

But Nicholson said it's unlikely any other co-ops will participate in this year's coal shipments to Italy.

Participants in the Big Sandy co-op change frequently, but the group has recently included:

A & A Fuels, B J & T Coal Co., Blackburn Coal, Camp Fork Fuels, Citation Coal Corp., Coal Run Coal Co., Delta Energy Corp., Governor Elkhorn Coal Co., GP Coal, Faith Coal Sales Inc., Kentucky Elkhorn Fuels Inc., Landmark Mining Co. Inc., Primary Energies Corp., Unit Coal Corp., Utilities Coal Inc., Hoopwood Mining, Puma, Shelby Fuel, Omni, Triple T.

McDowell Hospital To Share in Grant

The McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital and five others of the ARH chain will share a $500,000 grant to replace hospital equipment.

The grant, approved by the Appalachian Regional Commission, is earmarked for the replacement of deteriorating or obsolete equipment in the hospitals' laboratories, radiology and intensive care units, says an announcement from the office of Congressman Carl D. Perkins.

Other hospitals to benefit from the grant are at Whitesburg, South Williamson, West Liberty, Harlan and Middlesboro.

Getting 'Out of Hand'?

Panel Asks Less Stress On Net Play in Grades

Grade school basketball in this county is getting out of hand, in the opinion of some school officials, and a committee of principals appointed by Superintendent E. P. Grigsby, Jr. has recently recommended a number of changes designed to reduce the current emphasis on the sport.

If the committee recommendations are adopted by the Board of Education, the number of grade school basketball games would be lessened by a third and the number of teams fielded would likewise be reduced. The county might also see a return to the practice of scheduling a few games during school hours.

While the panel made no recommendations regarding the behavior during games of coaches, players and spectators—another matter of concern to school officials—Grigsby said he will also be taking steps to improve conduct at grade school basketball games.

Grigsby said that, earlier this year, a number of elementary school principals had expressed concern at the length of the basketball season, the late hours at which grade schoolers must sometimes play, and crowded gym schedules, especially at schools—like Betsy Layne and McDowell—where high school and grade school share a campus.

A committee made up of School Athletics Director Denzil Halbert and five grade school principals has recommended that the regular season be reduced for boys' and girls' basketball from 21 to 14 games. Instead of running from November through February, the regular season would begin in September and end before the Christmas vacation.

According to a panel recommendation, all games played in one invitational tournament would count as one game in the regular schedule. If more than one invitational is set, each tournament game would count as a game on the regular calendar. Games played in sectional and county finals tournaments would not count as part of the regular schedule.

Under the schedule recommended by the committee, sectional tournaments would be played the last two weeks in December, the county tournament during the first week of January. Moreover, only winners in each section would advance to the county finals—not, as at present, both winners and runners-up.

One committee recommendation that has proven controversial among the county's grade school principals would eliminate B teams from the regular season. Advocates of the change argue that triple-headers—typically, a single girls' team and A and B boys' teams are fielded—keep youngsters up too late. Especially if they have to travel, young players are sometimes out until after 11 p.m., they point out.

Some principals are opposed to the proposal, however, arguing that the elimination of B teams would deprive fifth- and sixth-graders of valuable play experience. To enable youngsters to be home earlier, play might begin earlier—say, around 5 or 5:30 p.m.—they contend.

According to another committee suggestion, each grade school would be allowed to play one boys' game and one girls' game at home and one away during regular school hours. The all-star football game would also be played during school hours.

Following an attorney-general's opinion that extracurricular activities during school hours must represent a cultural enrichment for students, sports were discontinued during school

Idle Courts Head List of Park Projects

Despite the advent of warm weather, three newly-built racketball courts at Archer Park stood idle this week, while city and state officials argued about who should pay for them.

Initially, half the funding for the $68,500 project was to come from a state grant. Frankfort officials subsequently withheld the money, however, to recoup monies they said the city wrongfully received for construction of the park about 12 years ago.

The racketball courts represent only the most obvious of recent improvements at the park. Recent work there includes rewiring of the senior citizens' center; wiring of the old C and O caboose, which now serves as an office for the park administrator; construction of a permanent concession stand at the ballfield; planting of 42 flowering crab trees at the war memorial; drainage of the women's softball field; repainting of the roller rink; rewiring of the picnic pavilion; and the extension of paved parking areas.

Students from the Prestonsburg Job Corps Center have assisted in many of the projects; the flowering trees were a project of the Prestonsburg Woman's Club; drainage of the softball field was done with the aid of the Soil Conservation Service.

The recent spate of improvements marks the 18-month-old administration of Park Director Myra Walker.

This Town...That World

This is no April Fool joke—whatever you may think of it.

HOW IT BEGAN

The first day of April has been known as April Fool's Day or All Fools' Day since the adoption of the Gregorian calendar. It all began in France. Until the "new" calendar was adopted, the New Year celebration began March 21 and ended April 1. But when this new-fangled calendar had New Year's on January 1 there were some Frenchmen who still stuck with April 1, with the result that they were called April fools. Practical jokes—I think of the one around printing shops which sent the printer's devil a mile or so to buy some striped ink—have plagued the unaware on April 1 ever since.

AND NOW APRIL

Whatever may befall you or me on this All Fools' Day, April is a great month, if not the greatest. It's spring and the winter's past, although the vagaries of the weather may at times be a bit confusing. Life literally leaps up from the ground at your feet. The Latin word for it was "aprilis"—an opening. Older Kentuckians at one time wrote it, "Aprile," and some pronounced it with the accent on the long "i". Call it by whatever name, the sight and sound, the feel and the spirit of the season captivate, and we are all willing prisoners of its spell.

Yet, for all its beauty and bright promise, the month has had its share of tragedy. Three of this country's wars

Pharmacy Footnotes

By HAROLD COOLEY

Burns are classified by degree. A first-degree burn can cause redness, pain and swelling but no blistering. Third-degree burns involve intense pain and destruction to the skin and deeper tissue. Self-treat only a first degree burn or a second-degree burn when there is blistering only over a small area. Your physician or pharmacist can recommend several burn ointments to use after the affected area has been bathed under cold water. Do not use old ointment containers as fingers may have previously introduced bacteria to the ointment.

Getting burned can be a common household accident, and usually can be self-treated. But if you think your burn requires more attention, don't hesitate to ask your pharmacist or consult a doctor. At COOLEY APOTHECARY you'll find everything for your pharmaceutical needs, plus many convalescent items, such as walkers, canes, crutches and bed pans. You'll find us at No. 2 Town Center Bldg. Open Mon.-Fri. from 9-5:30 and Sat. 9-5. 886-8106.

HANDY HINT:

If fatigue develops after even a small burn, call your doctor. It may be a sign of infection.

SPRING MAY TURN a young man's fancy to love, rejuvenate tired blood and generally set things a 'twitter, but it also means grass cutting chores. Even that can be pleasant, though, after a winter of cabin fever, and Wheeler Crisp didn't seem to mind a bit as he cut his yard at Martin this week.

Book Records Ky. Giants

An Ohio woman has written a book about Kentucky giant, Captain Martin Van Buran Bates, a native of Whitesburg, and his Canada-born giant wife, Anna Swan. Captain and Mrs. Bates were both just a shade under eight feet tall.

The book reads like a fairy tale. A giant and his giant-bride travel to Europe where they are married in a ceremony planned by Queen Victoria. The giant couple return to America where they live in a giant-size house with giant-sized furniture. But the facts in Allene Holt Gramly's book are as true as five years of researching and interviewing in the U.S., Canada and England can make them.

Bates was born in 1845 in Whitesburg. He fought for the Confederacy and was made a captain on the battlefield in Virginia. He met his future wife while he was working with a circus in New Jersey and she was with the American Museum in New York City. They eventually settled in Seville, Ohio, where the first annual Giant Festival is planned this July.

Gramly, a Mansfield, Ohio resident, was recently in Frankfort to present her book, "The World's Tallest Couple," to Kentucky Historical Society librarian Anne McDonnell.

Book Records Ky. Giants

An Ohio woman has written a book about Kentucky giant, Captain Martin Van Buran Bates, a native of Whitesburg, and his Canada-born giant wife, Anna Swan. Captain and Mrs. Bates were both just a shade under eight feet tall.

The book reads like a fairy tale. A giant and his giant-bride travel to Europe where they are married in a ceremony planned by Queen Victoria. The giant couple return to America where they live in a giant-size house with giant-sized furniture. But the facts in Allene Holt Gramly's book are as true as five years of researching and interviewing in the U.S., Canada and England can make them.

Bates was born in 1845 in Whitesburg. He fought for the Confederacy and was made a captain on the battlefield in Virginia. He met his future wife while he was working with a circus in New Jersey and she was with the American Museum in New York City. They eventually settled in Seville, Ohio, where the first annual Giant Festival is planned this July.

Gramly, a Mansfield, Ohio resident, was recently in Frankfort to present her book, "The World's Tallest Couple," to Kentucky Historical Society librarian Anne McDonnell.

BENEFITS OF MOURNING CUSTOMS

Attending a wake, making a condolence call, offering help to the bereaved—all are two-way acts of care-giving.

These mourning practices directly benefit the bereaved family and one's self. In her book, "Death, the Final Stage of Growth," Dr. Elisabeth Kubler-Ross advises that the purpose of mourning should be to allow for a full outpouring of grief. Mourning becomes the opportunity for the family to re-group after the loss of a member, especially to be able, then, to continue living, loving, working and enjoying one and other.

By getting this outpouring of grief early, we help to prevent pent-up feelings of guilt and regret from blossoming later with psychologically unhealthy repercussions. "Getting it out of your system" as soon as possible is appropriate therapy in most instances, experts agree.

This is one of a series of brief articles we hope will be helpful. You may ask us questions for yourself and of public interest.

Occupied: Prison Cell or Grave?

Not every person who commits a crime and is convicted is an incorrigible, beyond the pale and deserving only of confinement all his days. That is why parole boards are entitled to a place in the penal process.

But it is not, or should not be, the province of the parole board to turn criminals free, mainly to make room in crowded prisons for others or to save states the expense of constructing larger prisons so that all who belong there may be accommodated, justice served and the innocent protected.

Almost every city and county in Kentucky has been shocked by crimes committed by individuals who were free to commit new crimes only because a parole board had decided to set them free.

In Louisville last week a parolee shot to death a black woman who had worked her way up through the ranks to become head teller of a financial institution. Having killed her with a single shot, the gunman turned to fatally wound a bystander, a Delta Air Lines flight superintendent. That done, he critically wounded another man and then turned his gun on himself.

The apparently wanton slaying of these two does not rank, perhaps, among the state's "worst" crimes, violent and needless as it was. But it writes in blood an indictment of the parole system or those who administer it. Consider, if you will:

This slayer, who was identified by police as Kenneth Bailey Miles, Jr., had begun his criminal career in 1971 when he was charged with killing his father. The charge was murder but he wound up pleading guilty to voluntary manslaughter and getting off with a five-year pen term. After he had served only a fraction of his term, he was out on parole.

But the Miles story doesn't end there. On Jan. 30, 1974, not more than three years after he was first sentenced, he was convicted on a second voluntary manslaughter charge. Again he was paroled.

After that, police records show, Miles ventured farther afield—to other states. He was arrested in Los Angeles for bank robbery; for assaulting a peace officer, bank robbery and hostage-taking in San Francisco; for bank robbery in Springfield, Mo., and later for assault on a District of Columbia policeman.

The record as to what happened to him on these out-of-state charges is not clear, but police are quoted as saying that in several cases he was declared mentally incompetent to stand trial.

At any rate, it is clear that nobody took the pains to commit him to a prison for the criminally insane, and the state of Kentucky was keeping no track of this, its parolee, who was on the prowl.

It becomes rather obvious that Kentucky was glad to wash its hands of the man, and that others were not anxious to take him on as a guest. It's a tragic story that can be heard all across the country. Meanwhile, the ordinary citizen faces the gory mess with the sickening feeling that the law is failing everybody except the criminal.

If parole boards are to continue to play God with the safety of law-abiding citizens and turn free multiple murderers, rapists and those obviously criminally insane, let them at least be aware that for every prison cell they empty of such prisoners to spare the state the cost of confining them, room may also be required in a graveyard for their victims.

ness and scholarship. The school will offer a highly-disciplined program that students and their parents will be expected to "adjust to and support."

Responding to questions, Barbara Curry, wife of the pastor, explained that the pastor alone—there will be no governing board—will be in charge. There will be no parent-teacher organization, though parent-teacher conferences will be scheduled regularly. The policy on corporal punishment will give parents a choice—either they will permit the principal or teacher to administer it or they will undertake to "come to the school and spank the child themselves."

Included in a catalog of behavior that will not be tolerated are lying, cheating, stealing, cursing, profanity, griping, disorderly conduct, running and shoving. Tobacco, dope and alcohol are forbidden. No student will speak out in class without permission. Teachers will be addressed with respect.

Art Smith, field representative for the company that will furnish the school's teaching materials, outlined the philosophy behind the texts. History, civics, language arts, science—all will be taught "from a Christian perspective." Absolute truths will replace the murky relativism spawned by "progressive" educators. Moral precepts will foster the discipline required by man's "depraved nature."

There need be no conflict, Smith explained, between "high spiritual and high academic standards."

While the school will be neither supervised nor accredited by the state, students in schools of the type envisaged at Water Gap are generally one-and-a-half years ahead of public school students when measured on standard academic achievement scales, Smith assured a questioner.

The school will offer nursery, kindergarten, and grades one through three the first year, adding a grade or two each year according to demand, organizers said. By the time the first enrollees are ready for high school, the church expects to have a school building to accommodate them.

Tuition has been set at $100 a month for children in grades 1-3. Parents of children in the nursery and kindergarten may choose a half-day schedule, for $24 a week, or a full-day schedule for $38.

For some Floyd parents, the new venture in private education here—the first for mainstream students since Catholics closed their parochial school in Martin over 10 years ago—promises to meet a sorely-felt need. Pre-enrollment figures suggest that the project is eliciting "a good response," Mrs. Curry said this week.

Pete Grigsby, Jr., superintendent of public schools here, said he feels "no qualms" about the opening of a private school in this county. "Because of the Supreme Court ruling, we are unable to include God or religion in the public schools," he said. "I can understand why some people—out of the values they have cherished—would want an alternative. We don't see it as a threat but as a supplement. We can coexist. It is the citizen's choice."

For some at least, the choice is clear. "We set these principles to govern our school, not to be contentious, but to honor our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ," founders of the Prestonsburg Christian Academy write in an introduction to the school's rules and procedures manual.

"We recognize that Christians are to be separated, dedicated people living in a sinful and degenerated world," they explain.

ACCUSTOMED TO SITTING perched on the pilings of docks along some picturesque coastline, this errant seagull, photographed recently at Martin, found the closest thing under the circumstances—the top of a telephone pole. From that vantage point he no doubt surveyed a strange world of ridgetops and narrow valleys with no larger of body to be seen than Beaver Creek. For this bird, tentatively identified as a herring gull, there was but one course of action—head east, fast!

hours several years ago in this county. A state law enacted about that time, which prohibited schools from charging admission for extracurricular functions, also helped spell the end of schooltime sports.

Some principals argue, however, that one or two games could be justified as culturally enriching. Moreover, the prohibition against charging a fee for extracurricular activities was recently repealed by the state legislature.

The principals' committee asked that all elementary coaches be certified teachers, a proposal that Grigsby said would not be practicable. The school administration's prior responsibility is to hire teachers, he said, regardless of whether they have the inclination or ability to coach. Where teachers do not coach, the only alternative is to enlist the aid of coaches from the community, he explained.

One reason the panel requested that coaches be teachers, it was said, was that this would give the Board of Education better control over coaches' conduct at games. Incidents of "un-sportsmanlike" behavior at grade school games are reported to be on the rise here.

Not infrequently, officials are berated and even threatened by angry coaches, players and fans; some referees have abandoned games after losing control of them, and at least one game ended in a "near riot," according to a witness.

Grigsby acknowledged this week that the problem of unruly conduct has "mushroomed" in recent years. Wilbur "Shorty" Jamerson, Wheelwright High School principal, complained in a recent letter to The Times, of an incident he said occurred during a recent district tournament game. But the problem seems to be even more widespread in grade school competition, Grigsby said.

While players' parents are said by some to be the main culprits, Grigsby said that coaches are not always above reproach and, in any event, could exert a moderating effect on the fans by their own example. He plans to schedule a meeting with coaches to discuss the problem, he said.

Hiring better-qualified referees could ameliorate the situation, Grigsby conceded, but grade schools could not bear the expense—as much as $300 per game—of hiring only certified officials, he pointed out.

A committee suggestion that would shift grade school football from fall to spring—the season would run from April 1 to June 1—got a mixed reaction from the principals. Proponents argued that it would eliminate conflict with basketball in the fall. Others note that changing the season would rule out competition with out-of-county teams, however.

The principals' panel was made up of John K. Pitts (Clark School principal), William Hughes (Martin), Ralph O'Quinn (Garrett), Hillard Newman (Harold) and James Mitchell (Maytown), as well as Athletics Director Halbert.

Grigsby said this week he had yet to discuss the committee recommendations with his assistants and would present his own recommendations to the school board at its April or May meeting.

His suggestions will be designed to "put sports in proper perspective," the superintendent said.

her captors say, "Let's get out of here," and heard their apparent departure, she lost no time trying to free herself. This she did within a matter of minutes.

The Pikeville post, Kentucky State Police, said the five diamond rings taken from Miss Tackett's fingers were valued at around $6000. Also reported taken from the trailer were a jewelry box and a police scanner. The motel owner said Monday that she had not completed an inventory of her belongings.

Police have little to work with in their search for the getaway car, except it headed north on US 23 and may have been green, since a green automobile was seen earlier Sunday cruising the highway in that vicinity. Detective Richard Ray is investigating the robbery.

Miss Tackett was uninjured except for bruises received when bound with the heavy wire.

began in April. (It's possible that the month was chosen for this sad business because its weather lent itself to the movement of foot soldiers, cavalry and wagon-drawn water materials, a business which winter's cold, snow and mud forbade.) The American Revolution, the Civil War and the Spanish-American War, all began in April. But let's not forget that the Revolution and the Civil War also ended in April.

In Shakespeare's day, as in this, the month was not all sunshine, yet he wrote, "The April's in her eyes; it is love's spring."

Ah, April!—how great it is to watch the parade of April. Yet I seem to recall that it was even greater to be young at a season when our little world was being young, all over again.

UNDECLARED FILIBUSTER

Mountain legislators didn't plan a conventional filibuster against the bill that was designed to increase the coal severance tax and split it up among all 120 counties of the state, but they had matters arranged so that the same results would be accomplished. They whopped up about 50 amendments to the bill and were prepared to debate each point, which would have been more interesting than reading the telephone directory, as the late Huey Long on occasion did. Especially so, since some of those amendments included such as:

—The state capitol in Frankfort shall be rotated from county to county so as to share the wealth among the counties of the revenue generated by the business and employees of state government.

—The county of Franklin shall be designated as a nuclear waste disposal site.

And this one, a stiff jab at Rep. C.M. Hancock, of Frankfort, who introduced the new severance tax bill, and who is a plumbing contractor:

—Any company which is owned by or employs a member of the Kentucky House of Representatives shall be barred from contracting with any local government for the purpose of construction or plumbing projects.

From this corner the Ayes have it.

THANKS!

Somebody left on this desk Monday a bag of plain cornmeal, straight from the mill. Now, if my wife hasn't let that ready-mix stuff cause her to lose her touch, we'll have my brand of cornbread.

ONE BLADE IS ENOUGH

I'm not 100 percent "old fogey," so "sot in my ways" that all things new are anathema. For example, I no longer tie my ties; the clip-on type may not hang so well, but I use them. I no longer carry Diamond wood-stem matches, or wear galluses. But, man and boy! these newfangled throwaway razors with a double blade—one to hold the beard down till the other can whack it off—have me thinking of a return to the old straight razor without flinching.

For all that, I would say, considering the price of a barbershop haircut such as I require, I would say the safety razor has probably been the greatest economic born to menfolks that has come along in the last 50 years.

At a public meeting in Martin earlier this month, the city council voted to accept the water commission's recommendation that the city proceed with the reconstruction of its own plant unless Beaver-Elkhorn came up with a detailed alternative by March 15.

Haworth and Associates, the city's consultants, requested information regarding the capacity of Beaver-Elkhorn's filtration plant and distribution system, the demand made on the system by its present customers, its plans for accommodating Martin, and how it proposed to finance the expansion.

Replies from Beaver-Elkhorn and its consultants, Kenney Engineers, "have not provided us with the bulk of the information requested," said Philip Boleyn, an engineer with Haworth and Associates.

In addition to the upgrading of the city water plant, efforts are being initiated to negotiate a connection with either the Prestonsburg or Beaver-Elkhorn system as a backup water source, Griffith said.

Two days after the water commission's decision to go ahead with plans to upgrade the Martin system, the Floyd fiscal court voted to recommend that federal funds committed to the water project be spent in improving the Beaver-Elkhorn plant to enable that system to accommodate Martin's needs.

The fiscal court resolution passed without discussion or explanation.

Miss Hunter, Mr. Johnson Wed

Miss Trudy Gaye Hunter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Hunter, of Martin, was united in marriage to Mr. Gary Dale Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Grover Johnson, of Buckingham, on February 6 at 3 p.m. at the Martin United Methodist Church.

The Rev. Terry Reffitt performed the double-ring candlelight ceremony. The altar was enhanced with greenery and spiral brass candelabra holding tall, white tapers, accented with pink roses, maroon roses and greenery. The vows were spoken beneath an arch decorated with pink roses, white orchids and greenery.

Nuptial music was played by Ms. Gina Marshall. Vocal selections including "The Wedding Song," "Endless Love" and "Annie's Song," were sung by Miss Gina Marshall and Etta Kiki Bass. Mrs. Mary Elswick sang "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a traditional chapel-length gown of white alencon lace in an A-line silhouette. The lace formed the front of the high-rise bodice, Queen Anne neckline and points of the long tapered sleeves. The flounce at the hem of the gown formed the chapel train. Miss Hunter wore a matching fingertip veil of alencon lace, beads, sequins and satin bows, and carried a nosegay of pink and maroon roses, white gardenias and greenery.

Miss Debbie Hunter, sister of the bride, and maid of honor, wore a polyester gown of pink and maroon print. She carried a fan with maroon and pink roses.

Mr. Steve Ousley, brother-in-law of the bride, was best man. Ron Hunter and Greg Taylor were ushers. Sam Hughes and Stanual Mullins were taper lighters. Miss Samantha Tackett was flower girl. Trevor Fitch, cousin of the bride, was ringbearer. Lynn Hughes, a niece of the bride, presided at the guest register.

A reception was held in the church annex following the ceremony. Mrs. Joy Ousley and Mrs. Darlene Hughes, sisters of the bride, were hostesses at the reception.

Wedding arrangements were by Formal Affairs, Ltd., and The Blossom Basket.

The couple is residing at Martin.

Child Abuse

Last week began a series of five articles on child abuse, and dealt with its widespread effects. There is growing concern about what individuals can do to help alleviate the suffering. First of all, learn the facts. Following are six common signs to help identify mistreatment.

1. Easiest to recognize are frequent, repeated injuries such as bruises, burns, or fractures, etc. about which the parent seems unconcerned, or gives an unlikely explanation.

2. Neglected appearance: child appears undernourished, and wears inadequate clothing. Child's health care is neglected. He/she is left alone for long periods of time.

3. Children's behavior can be the result of how they are treated at home. Some develop a pattern of bullying and negative behavior, while others withdraw and become extremely shy. These children seem unable to make friends. Many act too young or too old for their age.

4. Parents who are very critical and discipline severely, when expectations are not met, may become abusive.

5. Families that are very isolated, that don't socialize, and that reject friendly contacts may be harbouring serious problems.

6. Venereal disease, torn or bloody underclothing, or promiscuous activity are indications of sexual abuse.

Caution and good sense should be exercised toward a family which is suspected of child abuse. Every parent makes mistakes with their children sometimes, but when negative actions occur often, help is needed to change the situation. The kind of help that is available to these families will be discussed next week in part 3.

Radiation therapy as a treatment for ten types of cancer has a cure rate that equals, and in some cases surpasses, surgical outcomes while preserving intact body and organ function in a conclusion drawn from a study conducted by the American College of Radiology. Yet, says the April Reader's Digest, this treatment's amazing powers remain largely unknown to the general public, and to much of the medical profession.

Holy Week Services To Begin Here Monday
Mrs. Eleanor Robinson, president of the Local Churchwomen, announces that this group, in conjunction with the Prestonsburg Ministerial Association, is sponsoring the annual Holy Week services, beginning Monday, April 5, and continuing throughout the week prior to Easter. These services will be held at the First United Methodist Church at noon on each of these days, and light luncheons will be served following the services. Women of the participating churches will furnish sandwiches, salads, coffee and soft drinks for these meals.

The Rev. Ted Nicholas is pastor of the host church. Messages will be delivered by the Rev. Houghton, pastor of the Seventh Day Adventist Church, Monday, April 5; Monsignor Ralph Beiting, pastor of St. Theodore's Catholic Church, with the St. James Episcopal Church assisting with the program, Tuesday, April 6; the Rev. Dean Pack, pastor of the Irene Cole Memorial (First) Baptist Church, Wednesday, April 7; the Rev. Timothy Jessen, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Maundy Thursday, April 8, and the Rev. Taylor Biggs, pastor of the Community United Methodist Church, on Good Friday, April 9.

The Easter sunrise service will be held at the amphitheatre, Jenny Wiley State Park, at 7 o'clock, on Easter morning, with the Rev. Charles Wilcox, of Hazard, bringing the message. It is emphasized that all churches throughout this area are invited to participate in these services, the theme of which will be, "The Seven Last Words of Christ."

Area Firms Participate In Vocational Ed Co-Op
The word, "co-op," is quite familiar to a lot of people in business and industry in Johnson, Floyd, Magoffin, Pike and Martin, the five counties served by the Big Sandy Vocational Education Programs, Region 11, Paintsville.

This educational co-op program, is a joint effort between business and industry and vocational schools to train vocational students in the attitudes, skills and knowledge necessary to become a useful and productive employee. When a student completes a particular course, a co-op station is located within a business or an industry. The student is placed on the job and works alongside other workers and under the supervision of a company employee. The student receives real, live work experiences that can only be simulated in a shop or classroom. The company takes an active part in the training of a student who may become a fulltime employee upon graduation. The student works and attends school alternately on a 50-50 basis. The rotation schedule may be daily, weekly or monthly.

Following are several major companies as well as individuals participating in the Co-op Program:
Martiki Coal Corp., Island Creek Coal Co., Kentucky-West Virginia Gas Co., First Commonwealth Bank, Elliott Contracting, Brandeis Machinery, Inez Deposit Bank, Mason-Barrows-Feamster Engineering, H and R Block, The Martin Countian, Reed Engineering, Bocoock Engineering, Village Chevy-Olds, Inc.
Others who may have an interest in this program or need more information should contact Jerry May, Co-op Coordinator, Big Sandy Vocational Educational Programs, 313 Third Street, Paintsville, Ky. 41240 or call 789-3115.

Questions Selection Of PHS Cheerleaders

As a parent of a former cheerleader at Prestonsburg High School, I am concerned about how this year's elections are being handled. This year's candidates were only told what skills would be required. Skills requirements were to have been held last night, (Tuesday) and were to have been closed to the parents of prospective cheerleaders. This in itself is odd when you consider two of the sponsors are parents of prospective cheerleaders and they were there.

The faculty of Prestonsburg High School voted last year to select cheerleaders first on the basis of skills required and final selection to be made by student body election. I feel since the faculty decided how the Honn Society, Beta club, cheerleaders, etc. would be chosen it should remain instead of allowing parent/sponsors to do so.

Why all the secrecy? If more than the desired number of candidates have their skill requirements, then why not allow the student body the right to choose. After all, that's who they represent. The student body would probably support and respond more to cheerleaders they elected. You never know, it might even help school spirit!

Start Pest Control With Oil Sprays

Homeowners whose fruit trees and plants were plagued by insects during last year's growing season can get a good start on pest control this year with dormant oil sprays.

The time to apply a dormant oil spray to fruit trees is after the last hard winter weather and before the first bud break, according to Dr. Doug Johnson, Extension entomologist in the University of Kentucky Research and Education Center in Princeton.

Oil sprays, which work by smothering insects, are highly effective when used properly; otherwise they can injure plants and cause more harm than good, Johnson said.

Oil sprays are insecticides which contain petroleum as the principle active ingredient. They are known as dormant oils, Volck oils, summer oils or superior oils. Some can be used safely only when trees and plants are dormant—thus the name—while others can be used when plants are in foliage.

Dormant sprays are very effective in fall or early spring for control of scale insects, aphid eggs, European red mites and eriophyid mites that overwinter on fruit trees and ornamentals, Johnson said. But they are not effective on two-spotted spider mites that hibernate in ground litter.

Johnson recommends using a 70 second oil. That's no magic number, but simply a measure of the viscosity or thickness of the oil. "A lighter oil will be less effective and a heavier one has a greater risk of damaging plants," Johnson said.

Apply dormant oil sprays to fruit trees before buds begin to break, or the phytotoxic effect of the oil will injure newly-opening buds.

"If you miss applying oil sprays when your trees are dormant, you may want to apply a delayed dormant," Johnson said. This spray, which is applied from greentip to early prepink stage, utilizes less oil but requires the addition of a fungicide and an insecticide.

When applying an oil spray, make sure it completely covers the insects overwintering on the tree or plant, Johnson advised. Oil sprays kill primarily by putting a suffocating layer over insects. They kill pests at all stages of development, so timing of the spray to coincide with a vulnerable stage of the pest is not critical. But oil sprays cannot control insects which get on trees or plants after the application.

Homeowners should read product labels carefully, since labels list when a particular oil spray can be used safely and on which trees and plants.

Specific recommendations of chemicals and application rates are listed in publications available at county Extension offices.

Announce New Rules For Fuel Bill Aid

Many Kentuckians making too much money to qualify for winter fuel bill assistance but not enough to pay those bills may get the help they need after all.

Dr. Grady Stumbo, secretary of the Department for Human Resources has announced changes in eligibility guidelines in the Home Energy Assistance Program.

Under the new eligibility guidelines households may qualify for benefits if they have less than $5,000 in liquid resources and have a gross income below 150 percent of the poverty level.

In Kentucky, 150 percent means a yearly income of $12,675 for a family of four.

(Prior guidelines required eligible households to have less than $3,000 in liquid resources and gross income below 100 percent of the poverty level).

Applicants need only to show notice from their utility company that a bill is past due. A cutoff notice from the utility company is not required.

"Because of frequent budget changes in Washington, we did not know until now just how many fuel assistance dollars we had for low-income Kentuckians," said Stumbo. "The amount just kept growing and adjustments had to be made as more money came in. This final allocation gives us a total grant of $25.5 million and an opportunity to help more people at a time when more people need help."

There is enough money remaining in the program to provide energy assistance to approximately 50,000 households. More than 63,000 households have received assistance since Jan. 4.

Stumbo said, "People who barely exceeded former income or resource levels but who are in need just the same may now be eligible. Those now eligible may include many who have been laid off from their jobs and have exhausted their savings and perhaps their unemployment benefits. Laid-off workers represent a growing segment of our population and many of them need financial help for the first time."

Kentuckians may apply for Home Energy Assistance Program benefits at local Bureau for Social Insurance offices beginning March 22 through April 15 or until funds are obligated. Applicants who were disqualified under former guidelines may apply again.

Raids, Burglary Arrests Carried Out Over Week

A weeks long investigation by the Floyd County Sheriff's Department, Kentucky State Police and Martin City Police has effectively "cracked" a juvenile theft ring believed responsible for at least seven break-ins in the Martin area within the past six weeks.

Four juveniles were arrested Friday by State Police Detective Keith Scott, Deputy Sheriff Charlie Parsons and Martin Police Chief Hershell Lester in connection with burglaries or attempted burglaries of Frazier's Restaurant, the IGA Food Store, Gulf service station and residences, all in the Martin vicinity. The four were charged with burglary or entering residences with criminal intent, a spokesman for the Sheriff's Department commented.

Two raids by officers of the Floyd Sheriff's Department on a Jack's Creek mobile home resulted in the arrest of two men on charges of illegal possession of alcoholic beverages for the purpose of sale. Both raids were made within a three-day period.

Phillip Bradley was charged in the first raid, Friday night, while Don Stephens was arrested in the second raid, Sunday night at the trailer which is located near the Floyd-Knott county line. Seized in the action was 138 cases of beer and 60 half-pints of whiskey. Arresting officers included Harold Johnson, Denzil Hunt, Gillis Conn, Green Lawson and George Hall.

Two sixteen-year-old Prestonsburg area girls were returned here this week from Indiana by Floyd County Sheriff Henry Hale and Deputy Sheriff Charles Parsons after their whereabouts was discovered March 27, five days after they were reported missing. The Floyd sheriff's department credited the cooperation of Morgan county (Indiana) authorities and South Central Bell Company with the speedy return of girls who were served with juvenile petitions on charges of runaway.

The Clark Elementary School B-team cheerleaders worked hard and enjoyed a successful year. They received a superior rating at the Prestonsburg High School clinic, and won second place at the Clark Elementary Invitational Tournament. In early February, they competed with eight other schools at the Floyd County Tournament where they won first place.

They are, in front from left, Kay Skeens, Elizabeth Everly, and Shelley Hale. In back are Meri Clark, Tania Shepherd, and Julie Newberry.

Sponsors of the cheerleaders are Mrs. Paula Newberry and Kara Alexander.

Burchett Victim In House Blaze; Father Injured

Johnny E.R. Burchett, 59, died Sunday afternoon in the destruction by fire of his parents' home on Cow Creek, and his 89-year-old father was severely burned in a vain attempt to rescue him.

The father, Ermine Burchett, was feeding his livestock at a nearby barn when the fire broke out. In his frantic efforts to reach his son he was burned over 18 percent of his body, Coroner Roger Nelson said. He was reported Sunday night in stable condition at Highlands Regional Medical Center with second-degree burns. The victim's mother was not at home at the time but returned while the building was yet burning.

Scene of the fire is on a hollow off the Cow Creek road, near the foot of the mountain between Cow Creek and Buffalo Creek. Roy Compton, chief of the Allen Volunteer Fire Department, said he received a call for help at 4:10 p.m. The two-bedroom frame home, however, was enveloped in flames when the fire department reached the scene and could not be saved.

Compton said Burchett burned to death in his bed. Although the origin of the blaze had not been pinpointed, the belief was expressed that it may have been in old-type, gas heaters. Barry McKenzie, arson investigator, Kentucky State Police, investigated the fire. The body was removed to the Floyd Funeral Home by members of the Floyd County Emergency & Rescue Squad.

Besides his parents, Ermine and Ida Clark Burchett, he is survived by two brothers, Robert Lee Burchett, of Emma, and Willie Burchett, of Columbus, O., and by one sister, Mrs. Garnet Ward, also of Columbus.

Funeral rites will be conducted at 2 p.m. today (Wednesday), from the chapel of the Floyd Funeral Home, the Rev. David Garrett officiating, and burial will be made in the family cemetery on Woods Branch of Cow Creek.

Summer Theatre Auditions Slated

Auditions for Summer Season '82 at the Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre will be held Saturday, April 17, at 1 p.m. in the Pike Auditorium of Prestonsburg Community College.

"We have allocated substantially more money for local talent this year," said Managing Director John M. McCann. "We have ten roles we would like to cast at these auditions, so we are hoping for a great turnout."

The theatre's 18th consecutive season opens June 23 with "The Music Man," an All-American musical about a small, sleepy Iowa town and a charming con man who visits with the intention of making bundles on the phony sale of musical instruments. "The Fantasticks," a musical which has been glittering on the New York stage for the past 20 years, is the second show of the season and opens on June 26. A Virginia farm family at the beginning of the Civil War is the setting for the third offering, "Shenandoah," which opens July 7. Rehearsals begin on June 7 and the performance will run nightly, Wednesday through Sunday, at 8:30 p.m. through August 22.

Auditionees should come prepared with a song and a 30-second monologue. An accompanist will be provided. Interviews for both technical and administrative positions will also be held. All roles and positions are salaried. Additional information may be obtained by writing, P.O. Box 22, Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653.

Cheerleading Is A Sport

Dear Sir:

As the sport of cheerleading grows, and I do mean "SPORT", I feel the girls that participate in this area need to feel that they are as much an athlete as anyone else.

If you have ever watched, or worked with them, as I have, you see the effort that it takes to earn the right to participate. Not only do they have to have certain skills, but they must be well liked among their own peers, and also have a pleasing appearance.

It is on this basis that I am concerned as to the way the elections are being handled this year at Prestonsburg High School.

Warns Of 'Swindlers'

We want to inform the public of the things going on in Floyd and surrounding counties concerning the septic tank business. We have been informed by several elderly people that they have been swindled out of lots of money by people claiming to be licensed septic tank cleaners.

These people have been using my company's name, "Hall's Septic Tank Service." They are going door-to-door, soliciting business, especially from the elderly. They are in no way connected to my company. The type of business they are doing is against our policy.

If approached by someone claiming to be a licensed septic tank cleaner, please check their identification and/or credentials. Check the price before agreeing to do business. If you have suspicion, call the health department or my office (377-6561). We will gladly verify the whereabouts of company vehicles and employees.

Democratic Process?

First impressions are important to most people, therefore I would like to share my impression of my first visit to Frankfort as an ordinary citizen expressing my views on legislation.

I realized lobbying was a part of the democratic process, however the extent of big business involvement hit me full force on Tuesday while in Frankfort. Lobbying in a small way made me realize that professional lobbyists do this five days a week, with pay. We average citizens do not have the monies needed to travel to and from Frankfort daily. But big corporations do and, believe me, they use that power.

We, the little people, must rely mainly on phone calls and letters. However, these do not have the power that one-on-one contact has in Frankfort. Therefore essentially we are not represented. My ideas have always been, I voted therefore I am represented. Now I see that, unless I continually make my opinions known to elected officials, that is not so.

I hope against hope that more citizens will visit Frankfort during a legislative session and come back as I did, with more determination to make my opinions known at all levels of government, via the phone and letters. It is my right to be part of this "wonderful democratic?" process by which our laws are made.

Going To The Dogs?

On several occasions, I have heard the expression that our state was going to the dogs but, after reading our current legislature's Coonhound Bill, I am leaning toward the belief that this statement is true.

Our great House Speaker, Bobby Richardson, refuses to even allow a vote on House Bill 549, which would give eastern Kentucky, as well as the rest of the state, millions of dollars of additional revenues so badly needed to maintain our roads and schools. On the other hand, he allows a Coonhound Bill to be voted on and passed to the Senate. Is this our government at work?

To Rep. Clayton Little, who has worked so hard on H.B. 549, I must advise you to change your methods of approaching your fellow legislators: Stop trying to get added revenues for eastern Kentucky through fair taxation bills and start selling coonhounds in Frankfort.

To the other eastern Kentucky legislators and elected officials who are always complaining about a lack of money but never seem to be around to speak up for the welfare of your electorates when a source of revenue is found: may some coonhound in your district mistake you for a fire hydrant!

Says Apology Due Team

Discrimination is a word that we hear very often these days, and with good reason.

A prime example of outright and clear discrimination became apparent to me when I attempted to listen to the girls' state high school basketball tournament on the radio, and discovered that none of the local radio stations were carrying the games. Not even the fact that a Floyd county team was participating in the tournament seemed to make any difference.

I believe that this indifferent attitude toward girls' sports is not confined to the local media, but is perhaps a reflection of the attitude of the public in general.

How insulting and degrading it must be to the young ladies who participate in sports to be treated in this manner simply because they are girls. I am sure that the parents and coaches of these girls can attest to the long hours of practice and hard work expended by these young ladies. Such effort should not be rewarded with a lack of interest and a casual attitude.

I believe that the county which has produced some of the state's finest girl basketball players, owes the Lady Rebs of Allen Central, and all of the other lady athletes in this area, an apology.

Observe Founders' Day

Founders' Day was observed by the Prestonsburg Kiwanians last Thursday when members held a luncheon commemorating this occasion at the home of Mrs. Carolyn Ford. The main table was covered with an imported linen cloth, and had for its centerpiece a bouquet of yellow jonquils, intertwined with greenery, which was flanked on either side by candelabra holding tall yellow candles. Smaller tables were similarly decorated. Favors consisted of gifts from local business firms, and mimeographed copies of the report from the Floyd County Times, of the Prestonsburg Kiwanianne organizational meeting, which took place April 13, 1950. Officers elected at that first meeting were Mrs. William Hugh Smith, president; Mrs. Max Burns, vice-president; Mrs. Paul C. Combs, secretary; and Mrs. I. C. Spotte, treasurer. Named to the board of directors were Mrs. W. W. Burchett, Mrs. R. D. Francis, Mrs. Curtis Clark and Mrs. William Crawford.

Of the charter members, four were honored during Thursday's meeting. They were Mrs. Edna Carol Greenwade, Mrs. Stella Spurlock, Mrs. Lucy Regan and Mrs. Kathryn Frazier.

Following the luncheon, Mrs. Thelma D. Wallen, president, conducted a brief business session. Mrs. Ortha Meece announced that the heart clinic, which this organization helps to sponsor, will be held at the Floyd County Health Department here, April 13-14. Volunteering to assist Mrs. Meece and Mrs. Wallen at the clinic during those two days were Mrs. Myrtle Allen, Mrs. Janet Cottrell, Mrs. Lucy Regan and Mrs. Garnett Fairchild. It was decided that the First United Methodist, the Highland Avenue Free Will and St. Theodore's Catholic churches would be asked to furnish sandwiches and cookies for the clinic this year, with the Kiwanians furnishing coffee, napkins and other items, and the Kiwanis Club furnishing milk.

The club agreed to donate $5 each to the RTF program and the Special Olympics program.

A music program was presented by Miss Elizabeth Frazier and members of the Prestonsburg High School Honor Glee Club. Enjoying the occasion were charter members, Mrs. Stella Spurlock, Mrs. Lucy Regan, Mrs. Kathryn Frazier and Mrs. Edna Carol Greenwade, and other present members, Mesdames Thelma D. Wallen, Garnett Fairchild, Vera Ford, Ortha Meece, Thelma Music, Jane Bond, Myrtle Davis, Docia Woods, Janet Cottrell, and Myrtle Allen, and the hostess, Mrs. Carolyn Ford. The next luncheon-meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Janet Cottrell, April 22.

Mrs. Spurlock has been involved in other phases of banking such as public relations and advertising and has stressed her interest in seeing that the bank participates in the progress of the county.

To keep abreast of current events in banking, Mrs. Spurlock has attended several schools and seminars offered by the American Bankers Association, the Bank Administration Institute, the American Institute of Banking and the Kentucky Bankers Association, to all of which she is a member.

Mrs. Spurlock is currently serving as treasurer of the Floyd county fair board. She is a past president of the Prestonsburg Womens Club and completed a course in real estate conducted by Professional Academic School Systems, Inc.

Release of Trout In Floyd Stream Set for April

Trout will become the newest addition to the local fishery when 800 of the popular gamefish are stocked, for the first time, in a Floyd county stream.

The fish, which will average around 10 inches, will be transported by a state fish & wildlife tank truck from the hatchery near Jamestown, Ky., according to Floyd County Conservation Officer Dalton R. Conley, and released in the tailwaters below Dewey Dam.

The initial stocking will come in April, Conley said, with additional releases of the rainbow trout in May. Late summer and fall stocking will come in August, September and October with a total of 4,000 fish being released by the end of the season, Conley explained.

State stocking of the tailwaters of Fishtrap Reservoir in Pike county has been carried out for several years with good success and it is hoped that the Floyd county stocking program will fare as well. The trout, a cold water species, will not normally spawn in area waters although it is hoped that Johns Creek, below the dam, will provide cool enough temperatures to allow the fish to grow and feed.

Daily limit on trout is six fish of any size.

Offer Nursing Scholar Ships

The Veterans Administration has launched a $4 million scholarship program to help in its efforts to ensure sufficient nursing staff in the nation's largest health care system.

VA Administrator Robert P. Nimmo said the scholarships will go to about 300 qualified nursing students. The scholarships will provide educational benefits on a pay-back-in-service basis.

In return for each year of the scholarship—which provides tuition, educational expenses and a monthly stipend—participants will agree to serve a minimum of two years as a full-time nurse in facilities of the VA's health care system.

The VA operates 172 hospitals and 226 outpatient clinics around the country. It employs some 30,000 nurses.

The initial scholarship will be for one year, with an option to renew or for two years depending on the availability of future appropriations for the program. Applications are now being sought for the school term to begin in the fall of 1982.

Approximately 90 percent will go to undergraduate students, and the balance to masters candidates who already are registered nurses, Nimmo noted.

The Health Professional Scholarship Program, authorized by Congress in 1980, will form a small but vital part of our effort to recruit and retain a quality nursing staff, said VA Chief Medical Director Donald L. Custis, M.D. The system already engages in extensive nurse recruitment, but unique aspects of the new program make it particularly significant, he explained.

Primary consideration will be given to third and fourth year baccalaureate nursing students and masters degree candidates in clinical nursing specialties needed by the VA—gerontology, medical/surgical, adult psychiatric/mental health, and rehabilitation.

Applications for the scholarships and information about the program are available from VA Health Professional Scholarship Program, Office of Academic Affairs, DM&S (14N), 810 Vermont Avenue, N.W., Washington, DC 20420.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that: Tolers Creek Processing, Box 159, Betsy Layne, Kentucky 41605, intends to file an application for the surface disturbance mining of approximately 4.0 acres, located northeast of Grethel in Floyd county. The proposed operation is approximately 1.25 miles northwest of State Route 1426's junction with Sturgill Branch Road, and located west of Toler Creek, latitude 37° 30' 08", longitude 82° 38' 00". The surface area to be mined is owned by: Millard Hamilton. A brief description of the kind of mining activity proposed is: contour strip with hollow fills. The application will be filed at the Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, Prestonsburg Area Office, 431 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky, 41653.

Persons wishing to file written objection and/or request a formal administrative hearing in regard to the above described surface mine should notify the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection within 30 days of the date of this notice. A copy of the newspaper clipping, must be attached to the written objection. The objection or request for a hearing will reference application number 036-0117. Such objection or request must be in accordance with KRS 224.081 (2), and must be forwarded to the Director of Permits, Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

2. Notice is hereby given provided pursuant to 30 CFR 715.13 (d) (10) and KRS 350 that the proposed post mining land use does not constitute a change from the pre-mining land use. Public comment regarding a proposed change in land use may be submitted to the address listed above.

DNREP Asks Help In Finding Old, Dangerous Mine Sites

Residents of Kentucky's coal-mining counties are being asked to help the state Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection locate potentially dangerous abandoned mine sites.

The department's division of abandoned lands last year located and reported hundreds of abandoned mine sites in the commonwealth.

In completing the first part of the department's inventory of abandoned mine sites in Kentucky, interviews were conducted with local residents in the coal-producing counties as well as with employees of state and local agencies.

Even this thorough process may have missed some dangerous abandoned mines due to the large number of mines in Kentucky, state officials said.

"I thank those citizens who helped us compile the initial inventory and urge anyone knowing of potentially dangerous sites mined before Aug. 3, 1977 to let us know the location and background of those sites," said Dave Rosenbaum, division director.

"Locating the sites and determining the extent of problems at each one is the first step toward getting funding to reclaim the potential hazards," he explained.

In order for an abandoned mine site to qualify for reclamation funds, mining at the site must have ended by Aug. 3, 1977, the date the federal Surface Mining Control Act became effective.

Rosenbaum said the problems at most abandoned mine sites are minor ones, with erosion and unsightliness being common.

"Our primary concern is to identify sites that may endanger people and property," he said. "In other words, the danger—whatever it might be—has to be near people, where they live, travel or play."

"Local support for our projects is extremely important. Local residents shouldn't hesitate to report problems because of size or difficulty," Rosenbaum said. "Most types of mine-related problems can be remedied. The important factor is that the problems reported to us present a danger to the health and safety of people or a threat to property."

In the division's first annual funding request, submitted earlier this year to the federal Office of Surface Mining, a wide variety of abandoned mine site problems were proposed for reclamation.

The request contained proposed projects in 14 Eastern and 11 Western Kentucky counties.

Problems listed in the request included landslides, burning refuse, hazardous silt structures, open underground mine drift entries, clogged stream channels, hazardous tippie structures, contaminated well water, open vertical mine shafts and hazardous highwalls adjacent to a road.

Division of abandoned lands officials urge anyone knowing of a potentially dangerous site, mined before Aug. 3, 1977 to write to the Abandoned Mine Land Inventory, Division of Abandoned Lands, 404 Ann Street, Frankfort, Ky. 40601, or call (502) 564-2141.

UNDERGROUND MINERS: Now you have a choice!

Atlas offers 7D, our high-explosive permissible emulsion; as well as Coalites, our permissible dynamites for underground operations.

If you're having temperature problems with water gels, try Atlas 7D, it will perform when the thermometer falls! And, since it's an emulsion containing no nitroglycerin, it won't cause headaches.

Atlas 7D combines the relative safety of an emulsion with the convenient handling of a paper cartridge. It can be gently tamped for excellent borehole coupling and has good water resistance.

Performance? Excellent! One Charleston underground coal mine has reported getting twice the cuts per case with Atlas 7D as they were getting with water gels!

So you now have a choice...even at sub-freezing temperatures: Atlas 7D and Coalites. Use them with Kolmaster caps for reliable underground blasting.

For a test of Atlas 7D, Coalites and Kolmasters in your mine, call:

King Rana of the Mill Pond

Although I am now 87 years of age, I still have many fond memories of my boyhood days when I played with the bullfrogs around the old water mill. I studied them and learned their ways, and I greatly enjoyed their music.

We had an oldtime water mill, which has a dam across the creek for holding a pond of water. The water furnished power to operate the mill, which we used for grinding corn into meal. The mill pond was about 15 feet deep and extended upstream about a thousand feet. It was a small lake of quiet water, so cold and clear it caught a sparkle from sunlight. The pond was fed by a small creek, which had its origin in cool, mountain springs at the head of the valley.

The quiet pond, with its crystal-clear water, was heaven for the bullfrogs, and there was a large family of them living in it. I discovered they had a leader, the largest and perhaps oldest of the clan. I called him "King Rana," as that was the name given him in natural science books. My books also said the bullfrog was the largest frog of North America.

Old King Rana was a whopper! He had his throne on a large sycamore root on the bank above the pond. Late of an evening he would mount his throne and give the signal for the nightly serenade to begin.

King Rana was a huge, olive-green frog with a mouth as wide as a barn door. He had large, gold-rimmed eyes, which stuck out on either side of his head. His hind feet were webbed like a duck's feet, and he could outswim a duck. From his high throne, he could leap ten feet and hit the water with a loud ker-chug. He had leather lungs and he played a big bass fiddle which split the country silence down the middle.

Seated on his throne, old Rana would bellow "jug-o'-rum," and the chorus would get going, with the other frogs joining in. Some had fine voices and played on their tenor banjos. It was one grand symphony of a spring evening. It enlivened the countryside and added zest to the life of the valley. It was a lively chorus that woke up the spring. It called all dormant life to rise and shine.

The mill pond swarmed with pollywogs, the large tadpoles of the bullfrogs. These had long tails and gills for breathing in the water. In due time, they absorb their tails and develop lungs for breathing on land. Bullfrogs are batrachians—tailless amphibians.

I still remember how I kept the ducks shooed away to keep them from devouring the pollywogs.

That has been a long time ago. Recently, I went back for a look at the site of the old mill. I was made sick at heart by what I saw. There wasn't a sign left to show where the old mill had once stood. There was no batrachian choir to enliven the valley. There wasn't a frog, nor a fish, not even a crawdad living in the creek. The once limpid stream was now so muddy I couldn't even see the bed of the creek. The creek was full of mud and silt, which had killed every living creature in it. The stream was as dead as the proverbial doornail.

For several years stripmining for coal had been carried on at the headwaters of the valley. Every time it rained, mud, sand and silt washed down and polluted the stream. Sand gets in the gills of fish and soon makes them raw and bleeding. This dooms the fish to an early death. Bullfrogs cannot live and breed in a muddy stream.

Gypsy Moths Threat to Trees

Last year nearly 13 million acres of trees in the Northeast were defoliated by gypsy moths. Kentuckians should be aware that a gypsy moth problem could be developing in the state, according to Rudy Scheibner, Extension entomologist in the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

"Male moths were trapped at two locations in Lexington last fall," he said. New infestations of gypsy moths appeared in Alabama, Indiana, Minnesota, Ohio and South Carolina last year. The insects are carried out of the infested areas on vehicles, camping gear, lawn furniture and the like.

The caterpillars of the gypsy moths are most destructive to evergreens, but can also feed on broadleaf trees, said Scheibner. This pest can defoliate large amounts of trees each season. The caterpillar, a hairy worm, one and one-half inches long, has red markings, he said. The adult moths have a one-and-one-half inch wing span. The males are a pale tan color and the females are white.

"The female adult gypsy moths are too heavy-bodied to fly," said Scheibner. "Because of this, they are not very adapted for hitchhiking on vehicles, but they sometimes lay their egg masses on lawn furniture, vehicles and such." In this way, the egg masses can be transported great distances. This is how new infestations are started thousands of miles from the quarantined areas in the Northeast.

"The caterpillars that hatch from these eggs may be relatively few in number," said Scheibner, "and may go unnoticed for several years."

It is very important to report any findings of the moths to your county Extension agent for agriculture.

Calendar Ad Buyers May Get Money Back

Those who have paid for ads that were allegedly sold on the representation that the Floyd County Emergency & Rescue Squad would benefit from their sale may get their money back, County Attorney Arnold Turner said Tuesday.

A William Josten, who represented himself as a representative of Silver Shield, a Lexington firm, sold the ads for a calendar, assuring buyers that the Rescue Squad would benefit from the proceeds. Josten was arrested here and charged with theft by deception, two weeks ago. A second warrant was issued later. He claims he acted in the belief that Silver Shield had a contract with the Rescue Squad, and the company head, Sterling Lemaster, denies guilt of intent to misrepresent or defraud.

The Emergency & Rescue Squad had warned the public via newspaper and radio that it had no connection with the calendar advertising promotion.

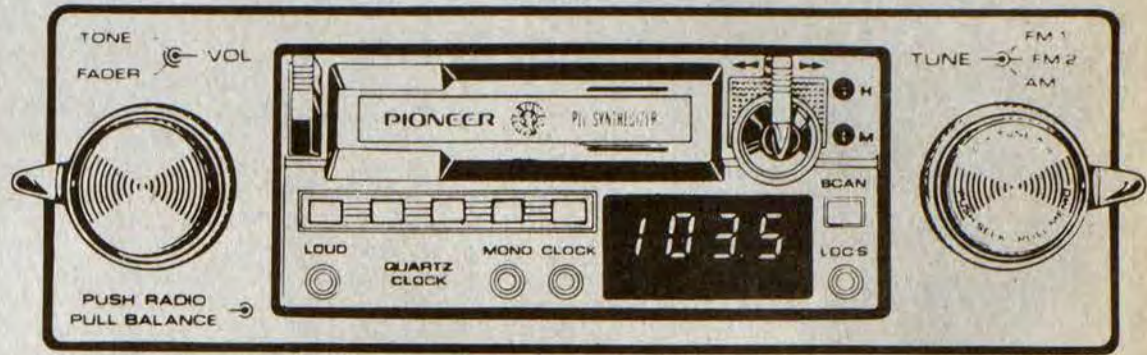

At any rate, Silver Shield agreed here Tuesday to make restitution of monies collected for calendar ads from those who were told the sales would benefit the local group. If that is done, Turner said, the charges will be dismissed.

The county attorney suggests that purchasers of these advertisements call his office (886-9144). Then, upon delivery of a receipt issued by the salesman, refunds will be made.

CONCERNED CITIZENS OF FLOYD COUNTY

YOU DECIDE ABOUT WET OR DRY

DRY (NO) AREA

- Alcohol Abuse
 - Family Problems
 - Injuries
- Illegal Sales
 - Sales to Minors
 - No limit to number of people that sell liquor.
- No Tax Revenue Received.
- Money for alcoholic beverages is spent outside the community.
- People tend to consume alcohol faster for fear it will be confiscated.
- A vote dry does not work. It has not worked for almost 40 years now.

WET (YES) AREA

- Alcohol Abuse
 - Family Problems
 - Injuries
- Legal Sales
 - Sales to adults only
 - 21 Licenses for package liquor sales available in Floyd County.
- Tax revenue is received at different rates in different areas.
- Money spent on alcoholic beverages will stay in the community. In Ashland during Dec., '81, $800,000 were spent in Ashland.
- The chance to attract big business to the area will increase.
- A vote wet does work to control alcohol. It has worked in other areas in Kentucky.

The wet-dry issue can be related to dealing with a rattlesnake. If you had to be around a rattlesnake, would you rather have it out in the open or sneaking around in the bushes?

HRMC Gets Lung Testing Equipment

"Exhale completely, emptying your lungs of air. Good. Now breathe in as deeply as possible." These instructions are given by Pam Inmon, director of respiratory care, as she conducts tests with the new SRL System 82. Ruby Woods, of Prestonsburg, was one of the first patients to benefit from HRMC's new equipment. The tests determine the presence or absence of lung disease.

SRL 82 is the latest in computerized pulmonary function equipment and Highlands Regional Medical Center has it. System 82 provides complete testing for determining the presence or absence of lung disease. These tests were previously done manually by the Respiratory Care staff.

System 82, the first of its kind to be installed in any Kentucky hospital, measures lung volumes and capacities to diagnose various airway diseases. Both inpatients and outpatients with chronic bronchitis, emphysema, asthma and other pulmonary problems will benefit from the newest addition to the respiratory care department.

The equipment consists of three major parts. The breathing valve assembly is directly linked to a computer. After the patient breathes into this apparatus, the test results are immediately displayed on a computer screen. This is followed by a computer printout of the information and a comparative graph.

"The System 82 will give our physicians more complete and faster pulmonary test results," stated Pam Inmon, HRMC director of respiratory care. "We are pleased to offer this efficient and innovative service."

Bell Employee's Invention Solves Weather Problem

A desire to do a job faster and safer has resulted in a new invention and an award for a Johnson county man who is employed by South Central Bell.

John Drewes, of Thelma, supervisor of distribution for Bell in Paintsville, was faced with a problem unique to the mountainous Eastern Kentucky area. In late fall and winter, frost build-up on telephone wire and cable increases the danger of cable-lashing equipment slipping off the cable.

One solution had been to wait until the frost melted off the cable, but this often didn't happen until late afternoon in some valleys and hollows. Another was to throw a rope over the cable and drag it along to scrape off the frost, but still the danger of slippage wasn't eliminated. So Drewes came up with a better idea.

He created a device made up of a mat with stiff fibers, called coir fiber, which loops around the cable and is connected where the ends meet. A rope is attached at the ends and is used to drag the mat along the cable. The coarse fibers remove the frost quickly and more completely, eliminating the danger of slippage. Drewes and his co-workers can now work faster and safer.

In recognition of his invention, Drewes received an award from Bell's Kentucky Employee Suggestion Committee and a letter of thanks from Bell's state vice-president, S. S. Dickson, who wrote Drewes, "You are to be commended for your concern for maximizing productivity in a safe manner."

The Geiger Easter Seal Speech and Hearing Center at Ashland provided services to 1570 persons in 1981.

Growing Child

THE HOUSE WHERE YOU LIVE
As soon as a baby to move, she becomes highly mobile.

Not only will she be moving, she will be exploring—and her movements and her explorations at this point are extremely important to her future learning and development, according to Growing Child, the monthly child development newsletter. The place where you live is where nearly all this moving, exploring and learning will occur.

Your house is, in one sense, a laboratory of child development where one very special baby—your baby—is going to get acquainted with the world while she gets acquainted with herself as one person in that world. It is the place where your baby will conduct thousands of experiments of discovery.

We urge you, right now, to take a careful look at your house. Try to see it as a learning laboratory for your child—and then try to make if the best possible laboratory you can.

A picture-perfect house straight out of a magazine may be gratifying to its adult occupants, but such precise and rigid arrangements (which put restrictions on Baby's movements and explorations) are seldom best for her. Make your house liveable. From your child's point of view, perhaps the best place to start is at the bottom—on the floor.

The floor is one of the most important parts of the place where you live—most important for Baby, that is. As soon as she becomes mobile she should spend a lot of time on the floor. The floor is her school now; it's the place where she will do her moving and have some of her most important early learning. Try this experiment: lie down on the floor yourself and see how your rooms look from your baby's point of view. Lie on your back and look around. You'll be surprised at the different things you see and feel. Is the floor nice and warm, or are there drafts? Roll over on your stomach and take another look. Is there room to move and crawl without tripping over wires and furniture legs, and are there things to look at?

Raise your head, from this lying-down position, and look at the objects within reach. Everything down there is fair game for an exploring baby—and any object that you do not want her to grab, taste, bang, drop, throw, or otherwise explore is best put away—or at least up high—for now. This is called "baby-proofing", and it's as necessary for her own safety as for the safety of your prize china doll collection.

After you have taken away all breakable, dangerous or non-touchable items from Baby's reach, turn your thoughts to the kind of common household items you do want her to be able to touch and explore. Early exploration of common objects is extremely important for future learning. Provide many different opportunities for Baby to see, handle, taste, smell, and hear a great variety of things in your house. Don't hem her in by keeping her in the playpen too long. Let her move about on the floor as she will. Help her get acquainted with the fascinating world about her.

For more information on the physical and social development of children up to the age of six, write to Growing Child, P.O. Box 620N, Lafayette, IN 47902. When writing, include child's birthdate. A year's subscription to the Growing Child newsletter is $11.95.

PUBLIC NOTICE TO OWNERS OF RENTAL HOUSING The Floyd County Housing Authority is administering a Section 8 Moderate Rehabilitation Program in Floyd County using funds provided by the Department of Housing and Urban Development. Under this program, owners will rehabilitate rental units which are now substandard or have major building systems or components requiring repair or replacement. The cost of this work, which must total at least $1000 per unit, may be financed by a local lending institution, by the owner, or by any other source available to the owner. The agency does not make rehabilitation loans or grants, but will assist owners to obtain financing. After required rehabilitation work has been completed, the agency and the owner will execute a contract which establishes a rent for the unit(s) that will cover rehabilitation costs, meet monthly operating expenses, and allow a reasonable profit on the owner's investment. For a fifteen year period, the owner will rent the rehabilitated unit(s) to eligible lower income tenants, who will pay approximately 25 percent of their income toward the rent. The agency will pay the remainder of the rent directly to the owner. The initial occupant of a rehabilitated unit may be the owner's present eligible tenant. After rehabilitation the rent(including utilities) cannot exceed the following Maximum Rents:

BEDROOM SIZE
206	244	282	319

The agency's current funds will allow rehabilitation of 35 units of rental housing as follows:

1 BR	2 BR	3 BR	4 BR
8	18	7	2

No unit will be assisted which results in the permanent displacement of current tenant. Proposals from owners will be received by the Housing Authority until further notice. Owners who wish to submit a proposal must obtain an application form from: Floyd County Housing Authority Housing Office Green Acres Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653 Telephone No. 2717 Office Hours: 8:30-12:00 and 1:00-4:30 Application forms and proposal packets may be requested by phone, mail, or in person. ... about your Social Security

By JIM KELLY
Social Security District Director

One of the more frequent questions asked of Social Security personnel is: How is a person's social security number determined? As almost everyone knows, the social security number consists of nine digits in a sequence of 3-2-4 that is, 000-00-0000.

When the Social Security program first started, each state was allotted various series of numbers depending upon the number of people in the state working in social security-covered employment. The series from 700 to 728 was assigned to railroad workers who were originally covered under a separate retirement system.

To date, over 270 million numbers have been issued, and about 10 million new members are assigned each year. Since the digits provide 1 billion combinations, it will not be necessary to revise the system or to reissue old numbers for several generations.

Although the original Social Security Act envisioned use of the number for social security purposes only, all federal agencies now use it for identification. Individuals who file federal income tax returns, for example, are well aware of the importance attached to the social security number by the Internal Revenue Service, as well as by banks and other financial institutions in reporting income.

Despite this widespread and increasing use of the Social Security number for purposes of identification, by both public and private organizations, the millions of Americans who carry social security cards can be assured of one thing: The information contained in social security records remains confidential and may be released only under well-defined circumstances.

Q. I tried to borrow some money from a private financial organization and was told that I would have to provide my Social Security number. Are they permitted to insist on this?

A. Whether or not you provide your number to a private organization is a private matter between you and the organization. You don't have to furnish the number if you don't want to, but neither are they obligated to lend you the money.

Q. A national weekly paper advertised a pamphlet that would provide important Social Security information for a low price. Would you recommend its purchase?

A. Any information you need is available completely free of charge at any Social Security office. Many of these types of advertisements are misleading as well as inaccurate. Save your money and get a free pamphlet.

Mr. Greg Slusher presented Mrs. Bolen's homeroom members with food coupons redeemable at Druther's Restaurant at Martin.

Certificates Of Deposit Are Safe, Says Official

What are the differences between money market certificates of deposit and money market mutual funds?

Many people have wanted to know how the two investments differ following recent proposals before the Kentucky General Assembly. The proposed legislation, covering mutual funds, caused undue concern for a number of Kentuckians who have money market certificates of deposit, according to state Public Protection and Regulation Secretary Tracy Farmer.

"If you have a money market certificate of deposit or are looking into them, be assured that they are sound," said Farmer. "The proposal, which was defeated by the lawmakers, dealt with reserves on money market mutual funds, not money market certificates of deposit."

The secretary pointed out that the names are similar and the interest earned can even be similar, but there are great differences in the two investments.

One of the major distinctions, and certainly the one that caused the most concern according to state Banking Commissioner Morris R. Smith, is that certificates are insured and mutual funds are not.

Because certificates are obtained at banks and at savings and loans, they are like any other deposit. All deposits, up to $100,000, are insured either by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation or the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation.

Money market mutual funds, on the other hand, are obtained through investment firms. As with any investment, a certain amount of risk is involved and no insurance is provided.

The funds are sometimes more attractive than certificates of deposit because, depending on inflation and interest rates, they might pay more. A recent edition of Wall Street Journal showed the six-month treasury bill rate, on which the certificate rate is based, at 13.226 while funds were paying 14.87.

Also, a minimum of $10,000 is required for a certificate and it must remain on deposit for six months. An investor, however, can get in on the funds for under $10,000, sometimes as little as $2,000, and no time constraint is involved.

Yet, with so many economic variables, the funds could have a lower interest rate than certificates of deposit and the funds are not insured.

"Anyone with a money market certificate of deposit should not be anxious," Farmer added. "They are as safe as savings or checking accounts."

For more information on money market certificates of deposit or money market mutual funds, contact the Department of Banking and Securities, 911 Leawood Drive, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

MSU Lab Tests Water Supplies

By ALVIN GRIDER
MSU Student Journalist

The water used by thousands of Eastern Kentuckians goes to college each month.

Samples are sent to Morehead State University's Water Testing Laboratory where tests are conducted for 30 area water systems, including those of Prestonsburg, Hazard, Jenkins, Olive Hill, Sandy Hook, Greenup and Owingsville, according to Dr. Ted Pass, director and professor of biology.

"We also test the University's water and the water here in Morehead," he adds.

Required by law, the tests check for bacteria which may indicate disease-causing organisms in public drinking water supplies.

Although city samples account for the majority of the testing, MSU's state-certified lab also tests water for private sources such as wells or cisterns, for individuals.

Dr. Pass explains the test: "Basically, what we look for are coliforms, bacteria native to mammals' intestinal tracts."

"While the coliforms themselves are relatively harmless, they show whether the water may be contaminated by human or animal wastes," he explains. "So, they are a useful indicator of the possible presence of disease-producing bacteria, such as those causing typhoid fever, dysentery, cholera or hepatitis virus.

Dr. Pass defines the test as a "preventive measure, so a problem doesn't go undetected for too long a period."

The lab does not give advice on how to solve contamination problems.

"We just tell what's there or not there," Dr. Pass says. "The health department will advise what should be added to the water to treat it if there is a problem."

Voluntary health services—of which the Easter Seal Society is just one—have made possible in America the most efficient and far-reaching help to those in need of any nation in the world.

February Jobless Rate Stands At 11.5 Percent

Department for Human Resources figures released March 23 indicate Kentucky's preliminary February unemployment rate was 11.5 percent.

The preliminary February rate represents a slight decline from the state's revised January rate, 11.6 percent. The comparable national unemployment rate for February was 9.6 percent.

Kentucky's civilian labor force during February was 1,593,400, down 19,500 from January and down 50,500 from February 1981. The civilian labor force includes persons currently employed and unemployed persons actively seeking jobs.

According to the department's labor market analysis section, people are dropping out of the labor force because of lack of job opportunities and many people are exhausting their unemployment insurance benefits.

The number of jobless Kentuckians during February was 183,400, according to department statistics. This represents a drop of 3,200 jobless Kentuckians from the all-time high of 186,600 jobless during January. The comparable number of unemployed Kentuckians during February 1981 was 159,000.

The number of employed Kentuckians in February was 1,410,000 down 16,300 from January.

TO THE POINT—Army Col. Leland J. Holland, a former Iranian hostage, spoke with reporters after his recent Founders Day address at Morehead State University. Now assigned to the Pentagon, the career officer told his audience that he never lost faith in God or his country during the 444-day hostage ordeal. He was held in solitary confinement for nearly eight months. MSU celebrated the 60th anniversary of its founding as a state institution of higher education.

Hospice Not A Hospital Group
 Contrary to the impression given by a headline in last week's edition of the Times, Hospice of Big Sandy is not a hospital group.

The organization, which was recently created here, is designed to provide services to dying patients and their families in their home. The group is seeking volunteers and financial support and will next meet at the Floyd County Library, April 12, at 7 p.m.

Officers of the group are: Madonna C. Combs, chairperson; Mary Gray, vice-chairperson; Jenny Bottoms, treasurer; and Annette Cash, secretary. Board members include Bill Bottoms, Dr. William Cook, James W. Cash, Dr. Gan Maddiwar, Mary Anderson, Garnett Fairchild, Linda Wright and Judy Carter. Dr. Cook is the group's medical director and Clara N. Garrett is executive director.

Hindman School Books Green Grass Cloggers
 The Knott County Community Arts Series will present the Green Grass Cloggers, April 6, at 7:30 p.m. in the May Stone Building at the Hindman Settlement School. This is a group of Southern Appalachian dancers and musicians from North Carolina whose unique performances have entertained audiences throughout the U.S. and Canada since 1971. In addition to using traditional figures and steps, the group has added many original dance patterns and steps which have been subsequently adopted by other groups, thus, adding to the tradition.

Outstanding performers in their field, they were chosen to represent American folk dance in a CBS special entitled "Julie Andrews' Invitation to the Dance," starring Rudolph Nuryev and Julie Andrews. They have appeared on many PBS broadcasts, including "Spoleto Festival, USA," "Englishtown Music Hall Series," "The McLain Family Band Festival," and "Horsepens 49." The Cloggers were also filmed while entertaining the athletes at the 1980 Winter Olympic Games.

The Northern Kentucky Easter Seal Center at Covington provided rehabilitation services to 787 children and adults in 1981.

★ CANCER HOPELINE ★

Q. I'm to have an ultrasound test to find out how well radiation is shrinking my cancer. How does ultrasound work, and is it dangerous?

A. Ultrasound, sometimes called sonar, was widely used in World War II to track submarines. Today it is used for many other purposes as well: to clean teeth, age alcohol, prospect for oil, monitor unborn babies, and locate and measure solid tumors like yours.

When the captain of a destroyer wanted to locate a submarine back during the war, he sent bursts of sound through the water around his ship and waited for them to bounce off the target. By analyzing the echoes, he could tell the size and location of the submarine. Medical uses of ultrasound are based on the same principle.

In locating or judging the size of a tumor, the ultrasound technician presses a microphone-like probe called a transducer across the patient's skin. The probe sends out sound waves. When the transducer picks up an echo, it registers a dot on a special screen. The dots complete a picture on the screen. If there is a tumor, the picture is solid; if it is a fluid-filled cyst, the picture is hollow because fluid doesn't reflect ultrasound waves.

At this time, ultrasound cannot indicate whether a particular tumor is cancerous or not, but physicians can tell by looking at an ultrasound picture and comparing it with the patient's past history if a tumor is highly suspicious.

Because it involves only high frequency sound waves, ultrasound is not hazardous. If the examination is of your upper abdomen, you will probably be asked to fast from midnight the night before the test. If your pelvis is to be scanned, you will be asked not to empty your bladder for several hours prior to the examination. During the test, you will lie on an examining table. Mineral oil will be applied to your skin in the area to be examined. This eliminates air gaps that block sound transmissions. No anesthesia is required, and you will feel no pain. The entire ultrasound examination described above takes only a few minutes.

Q. I have skin cancer. My doctor said he was going to do cryosurgery on it and that it involves freezing the cancer. Is that really what he will do? How can it work?

A. Cryosurgery destroys tumors by freezing them with liquid nitrogen. Instead of a scalpel, the surgeon uses a hollow metal probe containing liquid nitrogen. The tip of the probe is inserted into the tumor or applied to its surface until the tumor has frozen solidly to kill the cancer cells.

The surgeon carefully keeps a check on the temperature of the tumor so he will know when it has frozen solidly enough to begin thawing it slowly. The thawing process helps kill the cancer.

College Alumni Seek Largest 'Bear' Family

Pikeville College has enrolled many students since its creation in 1889 when three acres of land were purchased and a four-room brick building to be used for school and church was erected. As the Pikeville Academy, Junior College and Pikeville College, students have been a part of its continuous growth.

Now, the Alumni Association is conducting a search to find the "Mama and Papa Bear" who have enrolled the most children over this 93-year period. Mama and Papa Bear and all the little cubs will be rewarded during the alumni banquet, May 16. Any person with information that will help in determining the recipient of this award, contact the Harman Alumni House at 432-9241.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

1. In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that: Wheelwright Mining, Box 177, Bypro, Kentucky 41612, intends to file an application for the surface disturbance mining of approximately 4.65 acres located southwest of Weeksbury in Floyd county. The proposed operation is approximately 1.5 miles southwest of State Route 466's junction with Skull Fork Road, and located west of Abe Fork, latitude 37° 17' 38", longitude 82° 43' 22". The surface of the area to be mined is owned by: Leonard Burke. A brief description of the kind of mining activity proposed is: surface disturbance of underground mining. The application will be filed at the Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, Prestonsburg Area Office, 431 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653.

Persons wishing to file written objections and/or request a formal administrative hearing in regard to the above described surface mine should notify the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection within 30 days of the date of this notice. A copy of the newspaper clipping must be attached to the written objection. The objection or request for a hearing will reference application number 036-5185. Such objection or request must be in accordance with KRS 224.081 (2) and must be forwarded to the Director of Permits, Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

2. Notice is hereby provided pursuant to 30 CFR 715.13 (d) (10) and KRS 350 that the proposed post mining land use does not constitute a change from the pre-mining land use; Public comment regarding a proposed change in land use will be submitted to the address listed above.

This freezing-thawing procedure is repeated two or three times to make sure the tumor is completely destroyed.

Within four or five days after cryosurgery, the treated area begins to slough off as the body gets rid of dead cancer cells. A sore, which will heal slowly, remains.

Cryosurgery is used most effectively on tumors which can be easily seen and felt. As in your case, it is used on certain skin cancers as well as head and neck tumors. Research is underway to apply cryosurgery to the treatment of other cancers, particularly those of the pancreas and localized bone tumors.

Have you run across a mystifying word related to cancer or its treatment? Counselors at the Cancer Hopeline can help you. Give them a call toll free at 1-800-432-9321 from 9-9 Monday-Thursday or 9-5 Friday. You may also write us at 915 South Limestone Street, Lexington 40536.

Health Agency Approved, Family Care Home Denied
The Kentucky Certificate of Need and Licensure Board approved 39 proposals affecting health services and facilities across the state.

At the board's meeting March 17, members reviewed 55 applications. Six were disapproved, four were deferred and one application was withdrawn by the applicant. Five applications were approved with stipulations to be met before certificates of need are issued.

All applicants will receive written notification of the board's action. Following a 30-day period allowing for reconsideration requests on the decisions, those applications that were approved will receive certificates of need.

An application by the Floyd County Health Department to establish a home health agency was approved. A bid by Hall Family Home Care, of Beaver, to establish a two-bed family care home was disapproved, because the home was to be located in a mobile home, which is inconsistent with standards.

★ CONSUMER ALERT ★

TAX RETURN
"April 15th is drawing near, but many Kentuckians have yet to prepare their tax returns," says Attorney General Steven L. Beshear. "If you are one of these, you may want help in preparing your return."

Approximately 38% of all taxpayers hire someone else to do their taxes for them. Whether or not you pay for assistance, you are still responsible for making sure your taxes are prepared accurately. The quality and price of tax preparation services can vary greatly. If you decide you need assistance, you should shop around to find the preparer best for you.

Most Americans prepare their own tax returns. However, if you need assistance, the IRS (Internal Revenue Service) may be able to help you. Their free resources include a toll-free hotline, publications and clinics. For more information, call the IRS office in your area. If your tax situation is simple, you can use the short form; the IRS will complete most of the form and compute your taxes for free. In addition, if you are 60 or older, you can get free tax assistance from the National Retired Teachers Association and the American Association of Retired Persons.

If you remain unsure about how to do your own taxes, or have a complex tax situation, you may decide to get professional help. There are several types of tax preparers:

—An enrolled agent is certified by the IRS after having worked five years as an IRS auditor or after passing a government exam. Enrolled agents are authorized to represent you before the IRS.

—A certified public accountant (CPA) has passed a professional qualifying exam. A CPA is also authorized to represent you before the Internal Revenue Service.

—An attorney has passed a bar exam but may not have special tax training. Attorneys are authorized to represent you before the IRS.

—Any other individual described as a tax preparer may have special training or experience. Several preparation firms have extensive training and experience requirements for their staffs.

According to Beshear, "The more complex your tax situation, the more you may need the advice of someone with specialized experience. However, you may be charged more for the advice of these professionals. Many taxpayers, such as retired persons, owners of small businesses, professionals, and people with large amounts of income from sources other than salaries, wages and tips, may especially benefit from using a preparer with specific experience in their area."

When you visit the preparer, expect certain things. A preparer should go through a checklist of deductions to see if any apply to you. A preparer should also sign your return and enter his or her name and social security number or federal identification number.

A preparer should not guarantee you a refund before completing your return; he or she should not suggest you claim non-existent deductions or commit any other improprieties. A preparer should not ask you to sign a blank return or one completed in pencil.

Even though you have hired someone to prepare your return, you are personally liable for any additional tax, interest or penalty, even if you have a written guarantee that the preparer will pay any interest or penalty assessed as a result of his work. Here are some ways to help you get the best possible job done on your returns:

—Read your tax booklet or the more comprehensive Internal Revenue Service publication "Your Federal Income Tax," available free from the IRS Distribution Center in your area.

—Gather and bring to the preparer any information or documents that might apply to your taxes, including last year's return. Remember, too much information is better than too little.

—Make a list of any tax-related questions that occur to you and be ready to ask the preparer about them.

—After your return is prepared, check it to make sure all information is correct.

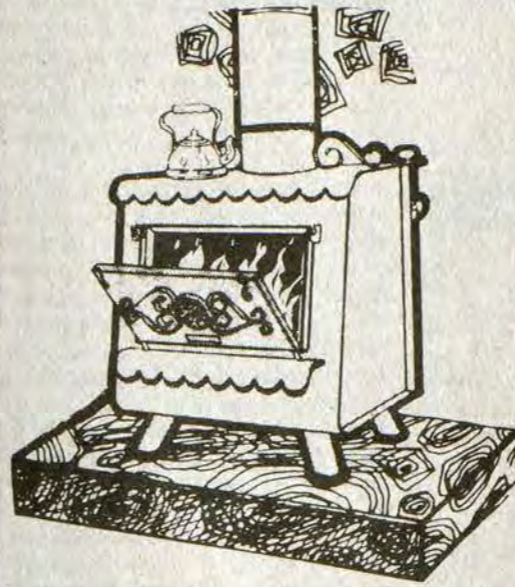

The attorney general's consumer protection division provides a variety of consumer information. The division also mediates consumer complaints. You can write Consumer Protection Division, 209 St. Clair St., Frankfort, Ky. 40601 or call the free consumer hotline: 1-800-432-9257.

Law Will Allow Tipples Built Near Dwellings

According to a bill awaiting the governor's signature, tipples that crush or blend coal and are located at a distance from the mine site may be built in residential areas without the residents' permission.

The tipples would apparently also be largely exempt from regulations governing noise, dust and water quality.

Senate Bill 218 passed by a 67-14 margin Monday, after House members rejected by voice vote an amendment that would have kept the tipples under surface mining regulations.

Residents of West Prestonsburg and Dinwood—who have long complained of tipples in their neighborhoods—earlier this month successfully resisted an effort to advance a similar bill in the House.

PLAN EASTER CANTATA

Everyone is invited to attend-check with the schools for the time of performance on Thursday and Friday.

ALC Phonathon Seeks Watson Memorial Funds

A phonathon, the first of its kind since 1971 and the very first held for Knott county alumni, was conducted March 24 at Alice Lloyd College.

Purpose of the 1982 Spring Phonathon was to solicit donations for the Rilda S. Watson Memorial Scholarship, in memory of a woman who faithfully served Caney Creek Community Center and Alice Lloyd College for more than 50 years.

Six current Alice Lloyd College students worked Wednesday evening, calling approximately 315 alumni. Those students are Brian Akers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Akers, of Betsy Layne; Robin Branham, daughter of Bob and Betty Branham, of Louisa; Michael Fannin, son of Lora Johnson, of Brinkley, Ky.; Brian Gooch, son of Kenneth and Ernestine Gooch, of Millstone; Nancy Huff, daughter of Varsh and Cynthia Huff, of Whitesburg; Josephine Slone, daughter of Ora Slone and the late Bobby Slone, of Topmost.

Knott County alumni responded with contributions averaging $9 each.

Fred Mullinax, director of development, and Sally Denise Slone, alumni affairs director, expressed confidence that the Rilda Watson Memorial Scholarship will be strongly supported by area alumni.

Celebrities and community organizations will participate in the ninth annual National Salute to Hospitalized Veterans on Valentine's Day, February 14, by visiting ward-bound patients in Veterans Administration medical centers nationwide.

Creditors, Soil District Claim, Court Problems

The fiscal court voted last week to repudiate or delay action on four claims totalling about $8500.

South Central Bell says the county owes it $2229 for damage done to phone cables by county road crews in October, 1980 and September, 1981. The court voted not to pay, arguing that it is the phone company's responsibility to bury its cables deep enough that they are not severed in the course of routine road maintenance.

Nor would the magistrates take any action, at least for the time being, on a claim for $4800 presented by Sam Hale, owner of a Blue River tract formerly used by the county to dump garbage. Hale claims the site was not properly reclaimed after the dump was closed and says the county owes him a year's rent on the property.

A long-standing suit against the county by the General Electric Corporation for $900 the company says is due on police radio equipment came no nearer settlement, Judge-Executive Jerry Lafferty, Jr. saying he would need to consult with the county attorney on the claim.

Another bill for radio equipment—the sheriff's department says $600 is owing—was repudiated on grounds that "We're not getting service."

A plea for funds by Jim Carter on behalf of the Soil Conservation District elicited sympathy and a promise by the judge-executive to "try to work (the District) back into the budget."

Carter said federal law requires that the Soil District office be kept open here and that the county help finance it, but that the office has been closed for a month owing to lack of funds. Even the annual banquet at which youngsters are traditionally given awards for soil conservation posters and essays is in jeopardy this year for want of funds, he said.

Carter estimated about $3000 is needed to finance the District—which is an agency of the U.S. Department of Agriculture—for the rest of the fiscal year.

The court authorized District 3 Magistrate Ed Caudill to "do what is necessary" to remove two cars obstructing road crews on Crum Hollow of Arkansas Creek; promised Carl Tuttle, of McDowell, it would provide seating and hook up the rest rooms at the Left Beaver mini-park; offered to maintain ditches in an Auxier subdivision, at the request of a delegation led by Bob Houghton; and accepted a recommendation of commissioners Joe Helton and Malcom Layne to close half a mile of road at the head of Conley Fork of Abbott Creek.

Thomas D. Lafferty, Jr. and Malcom Layne were named to the Floyd County Urban Renewal and Community Development Agency, replacing Larry Leslie and Dick Leslie, who resigned; and Dallas Calhoun was appointed to the Floyd County Housing Authority, filling a vacancy created by the resignation of Cecil Sturgill.

Enjoy Skating Party

Scott Anthony Tackett, son of Herman and Debbie Tackett, of Banner, celebrated his 14th birthday with a skating party at Archer Park, Sunday, March 21. Many friends and relatives were present to enjoy skating and refreshments.

He is the grandson of Junior and Loretta Conn, of Banner, and Logan and Florida Tackett, of Printer.

The first closed shop clause in a labor contract was won in 1805 by the Journeymen Cordwainers in New York City, according to a U.S. Department of Labor publication.

Spring Races Attract Runners from Area

Local long-distance runners have made admirable showings in recent events with Rick Roberts, running coach at the Prestonsburg Job Corps Center, placing third in Saturday's fourth annual Eastern Kentucky University 5000 Meter Run.

Roberts, who had finished 6th, 7th and 7th for the past three years, recorded the third place time at 17:02 running against 89 other contestants in the event. Periodic gusts of wind and freezing temperatures hampered runners throughout the race.

Winning time in the race was that of EKV cross-country runner Mike Johnson at 16:03.

Connie Day, of Prestonsburg, ran a 24:39 in her debut race which is considered a hilly and hard 3.1 miles for a novice.

In an earlier race, Lexington's Run for the Clover, Rick Roberts and Ron Carter, both of Paintsville, and Randy Thomas, of the Prestonsburg Job Corps Center were among the 550 entries.

Roberts finished 13th in the St. Patrick's Day event, Carter, 46th, and Thomas in 201st place. Overall winner was Frank Cornett, 43 years old, of London, Ky. Paula Strack, Lexington native, was the first woman to finish.

Roberts will race next in Huntington, W. Va. and hopes to participate in the Boston Marathon.

W'Wright, McDowell Get Mental Health Clinics

Recently, Mountain Comprehensive Care Center has set up outpost clinics to provide outpatient counseling at Wheelwright and at McDowell. On Wednesdays, a counselor from Mountain Comprehensive Care Center will see clients at the Wheelwright Branch of the Floyd County Health Department. Mental health clients will also be seen at McDowell Hospital on Wednesday afternoons. These outpost clinics keep clients from having to drive 25 to 35 miles to see a counselor at the Prestonsburg offices of Mountain Comprehensive Care Center. Clients would have to come to Prestonsburg only when getting prescriptions or for psychological testing.

Judy Austin, a registered nurse and master's level social worker, will coordinate mental health services at the outpost clinics at Wheelwright and McDowell. For further information and to schedule appointments, the number to call is 886-8572.

The U.S. Department of Labor was created to serve all American workers; its activities touch the lives of virtually every man, woman and child in the United States.

McAninch Is Speaker At Woman's Club Meet

The Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club met at the home of Mrs. Joyce Stevens of Hueysville, March 22. Mrs. Elizabeth Martin, president, presided.

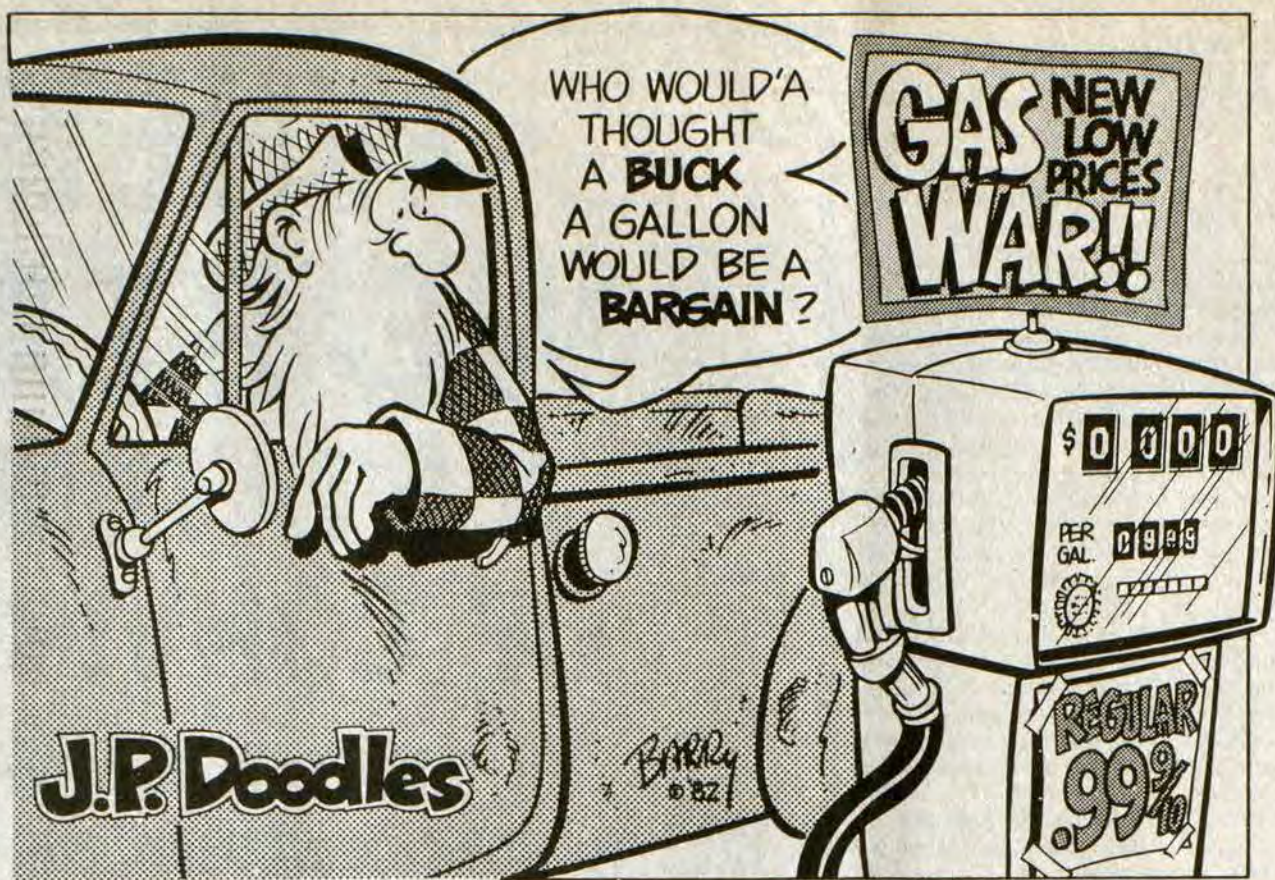

Robert McAninch, political science professor at Prestonsburg Community College, enlightened the membership and guests with a program on International Relations, particularly the U.S. involvement in El Salvador. Mr. McAninch explained that 5% of the people own 70% of the wealth in El Salvador and that would constitute a reason for a revolution in this small country, but as to the reason for the United States to be so financially involved is still uncertain. A question-and-answer session followed.

During the business session Mrs. Martin announced that three pieces of art work by students were entered in the contest at the Seventh district meeting at Hazard. Two of the three were awarded first place (Robert Vance and Patricia Martin). The third entry—(by Ramona Hall) was awarded second place. One essay was entered on the state level by Lois Jean Chaffins. The Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Club sponsored a poetry contest and Patricia Martin is to be presented a merit award.

Mrs. Martin also read a letter concerning volunteerism of the International Woman's Club which consists of the United States, District of Columbia, Puerto Rico and 46 other countries, with a total of 10 million members, 600,000 of whom are in the United States. Over a period of 10 months, 21 states contributed 20 million hours of volunteer service and 22 million dollars for community projects.

The nominating committee announced the election to the offices of vice-president, secretary and treasurer will be held at the April meeting and installation of officers will be at May Lodge in May.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses to the following members and guests: Mrs. Elizabeth Martin, Mrs. Anna Layne, Mrs. Loretta Martin, Mrs. Lula Coburn, Mrs. Launice Dunfee, Mrs. Marie Mullins, Mrs. Phyllis Honshell, Mrs. La Faye Hughes, Mrs. Kathy Layne, Mrs. Barbara Moore and the speaker, Mr. McAninch.

"Operation Oklahoma" in Effect,
East Ky. Construction Delayed

Most people have heard of that Okie from Muskogee—but an Okie from Prestonsburg?

About 60 South Central Bell employees from central and eastern Kentucky loaded into their trucks, vans and cars and headed west Monday for a nine-month stay in Oklahoma. It's a temporary move that will reduce South Central Bell's costs in Kentucky by $4 million in 1982.

Art Willett, Bell manager, said the group is being loaned to Southwestern Bell's Sooner state operations to design and build telephone service facilities there.

"The deregulation of oil and gas has created a business boom in Oklahoma. When business booms, telephone service needs jump, too," Willett said. "In fact, demand is up so sharply that they must borrow workers to keep up."

The Kentucky group headed for Oklahoma includes people to lay out telephone circuits, draw up plans, put up poles and splice cable—an entire construction operation. "They'll operate as an intact unit throughout the Oklahoma City area. All their expenses—salaries, wages, moving costs, apartment rentals—are being paid by Southwestern Bell," Willett said.

Willett said the South Central Bell people were available because of a $3 million reduction in Bell's construction budget for Eastern Kentucky. "This reduced the workload for the construction and engineering crews, and enab-ed us to 'come to the rescue' in Oklahoma," he said.

Willett emphasized that delaying construction projects involves considerable risks and could affect telephone service. "Some people without telephone service have been waiting since 1979 to get a phone. But we had to take steps to reduce expenses. Some hard choices had to be made, and some projects are just going to have to wait until next year. By then, our people will be back and, we hope, the dollars to carry out these needed projects will be available."

Nearly all the group volunteered to go to Oklahoma, and Willett said the project had the support of local Communication Workers of America presidents.

Naturally, there were some mixed emotions about leaving home for such a lengthy spell, but overall, the mood was upbeat.

Besides providing Southwestern Bell with skilled professionals, Willett said the project means big savings for South Central Bell. "In addition to the $3 million reduced from the construction budget, we'll also save another $1 million in maintenance costs," he said. "These days, everyone's finding new ways to tighten the belt, and the phone company is no different."

Camp Green Shores, the Easter Seal resident camp at McDaniels, provided camping opportunities to 727 handicapped Kentuckians in 1981.

State unemployment insurance agencies which operate under direction of the U.S. Department of Labor provide payments for workers temporarily out of work.

Alcoholism...
The Growing Threat

By DEL DYAR
Director, Alcohol/Drug Treatment Unit
McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital

Alcoholism is currently recognized as this nation's third most fatal illness. It falls behind heart disease and cancer as a major destroyer of human life.

A majority of people working in the field of alcoholism treatment express concern that alcoholism and its blood brother, drug addiction, are on the increase in the United States at this time.

My personal opinion is that they are currently at epidemic proportions with no effective prevention or corrective measures in sight.

The major factor allowing this uninterrupted surge is the insidiousness of the disease. It does not become obvious until it is quite advanced, like some forms of cancer, it is present in destruction yet undetected.

There is no doubt that both alcoholism and drug addiction can be diagnosed, identified and treated in their earliest stages.

When one considers some of the data regarding alcoholism and its effects the outcomes are sobering.

In 1975, the U.S. Department of Transportation informed the public that more than 55% of all highway fatalities throughout the United States involved drivers who were under the influence of alcohol.

The same report stated that 85% of those people permanently injured on U.S. highways were crippled by the same cause.

That 58% of those people serving time in U.S. and state penitentiaries were drunk or under a drug influence at the time they committed their crime?

How about this, 35% of those people are unable to remember the crime they committed due to drug or alcohol induced "black-out" or memory loss. Can you imagine yourself spending five years in prison for committing a crime you did not plan and cannot recall carrying out? I know of a man who did, he's alcoholic.

In the area of industry, the lost dollar figures are staggering. Alcoholics produce at a level 20% below the average employee. They lose more time and have more accidents than their fellow workers.

The employer who fails to recognize the threat of alcoholism in his company is losing profit dollars that can never show up on the profit/loss statement.

Many aware industrial organizations in this country are now implementing employee assistance type programs, they work, and when properly administered are life as well as dollar savers. Employee assistance programs have a return ratio of $15 for every $1 spent.

A number of years ago, I installed programs like this in industries in Minnesota, the results can be dramatic.

WHERE WE STAND A STATEMENT OF CONVICTION

We, the undersigned, wish it to be known that without hesitation and with strongest conviction, we stand actively opposed to the selling of alcoholic beverages, legally or illegally, in Floyd and surrounding counties. We also wish it to be known that we strongly support to the best of our ability our city, county and state law enforcement agencies in the carrying out of their duties of insuring that all existing laws pertaining to the selling of alcoholic beverages are upheld and we strongly urge that the courts of our city and county exact the maximum punishment that our law will permit to those who defy and break the laws of our communities.

We also wish it to be known that we stand committed to this resolution now as we are faced with the very real possibility of a local option election in Floyd County and in the future after such option is defeated and when our law enforcement agencies will need more than ever our active support.

To whomever it may concern, let it be known that any effort to legalize the selling of alcoholic beverages will be opposed by our vote and all activities of illegally selling alcoholic beverages will be opposed by our total and vigorous support of our city and county law enforcement agencies as they see that the laws of our community are obeyed.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our beloved husband and father, Crofus Owens, who passed away one year ago, March 27, 1981—Born Dec. 3, 1925.

To some you are forgotten;
To others, just part of the past;
But, to us who loved and lost you,
Your memory will always last.
It's a lonesome house without you,
And sad has been the way,
For life and home are not the same
Since you were called away,
Our hearts still ache with sadness,
Secret tears will always flow.
What it meant to lose you
no one will ever know.
For memories are all we have left now—
Oh, we all dearly love you so.
Sadly missed by his

Woodland Fires Reported in Area Over Past Weekend

The relative quiet of the current fire season, which began March 15, was broken this weekend as scattered forest fires were reported in Floyd county and the five other counties of the eastern forest district.

In this county, six fires were reported. Sunday while four blazes burned Monday, according to Steve Brackett, district forester. Sunday's fires involved little more than 20 acres, Brackett pointed out, while 70 acres were burned in fires at Buckingham, Price, Hippo and Salt Lick, near Hueysville, the following day.

In the district, which also includes Pike, Johnson, Magoffin, Martin and Lawrence counties, a total of 20 fires burned 302 acres on Monday. "That figure looks a lot worse when you consider that the 302 acres burned represents a $604,000 loss to the economy in terms of timber value and erosion damage," Brackett emphasized.

Overall, the district has been fortunate thus far in terms of burned acreage. "We have the best fire season going up to this point since 1972," Brackett commented. He credited a fairly rainy season and increased law enforcement efforts with the reduction in fires.

Debris burning was pointed to as the cause of the recent fires and Brackett noted with some relief that there are no documented cases of woods arson thus far. Four citations have been issued for illegal debris burning—three in Pike county and one in Floyd, he said.

Brackett pointed out that local forestry personnel and firefighters will be able to contain the blazes unless unusually dry conditions persist causing a dramatic increase in fires.

Fires should be reported to the Division of Forestry office here at 886-8562.

Shoddy and needless auto repairs are the nation's no. 1 consumer problem. The April Reader's Digest reports that they cost Americans close to $15 billion annually—$125 a year for every car in the United States.

Cisco Neeley Case Remanded For Trial Here

For a second time, the state Supreme Court has overturned the manslaughter conviction of a Hueysville man and remanded his case to Circuit Court here.

In a 5-1 decision, the justices said testimony of some witnesses in the trial of Cisco Neeley, twice convicted of second degree manslaughter in the February 2, 1977 death of Leleta Howard, was "highly prejudicial."

Four teenage boys riding home from a ballgame on the night of the accident testified that a car, said to have been driven by Neeley, harassed or terrorized them before colliding head-on with a car driven by Mrs. Howard.

Asked why they had not reported the accident to police, each of the witnesses replied that he was afraid of Neeley or his family. That testimony should not have been allowed, the justices said, noting that the character of a person accused of a crime is not a fact in issue during prosecution of the crime.

After his first conviction in Circuit Court here, Neeley was sentenced to eight years in prison. After a second trial and conviction, he received a 10-year sentence.
