MOUNTAIN DEW FESTIVAL preparations were under way this week, and while this year's event will involve only Prestonsburg Community College students, the spirit of competition appears high, nonetheless, as evidenced by the practice of these students who seem intent on collecting a few points on the volleyball courts. Festival activities begin Friday night.

'Oakie' Bevins Pleads Guilty

Ten Democrats, 3 Republicans File for Clerk

Ten Democrats and three Republicans had filed by last Friday's deadline for the unexpired term of the late C. "Ollie" Robinson as county clerk and, for the unexpired term of Constable Willie Hale in District 1, eight Democrats were candidates.

Both offices were temporarily rendered vacant by death, and those named to fill the vacancies are to serve only till a successor is elected.

A day after the filing deadline, candidates for the two offices drew for position on the ballot, with these results:

Democrats for County Clerk, in the order they will appear on the May 24 primary ballot: Tom Rose, Sandy Boyd, Bun Montgomery, Columbus "Bud" Slone, Thomas D. Lafferty, Jr., Gary Martin, Carla Robinson Boyd, Jimmy R. Marcum, David Hereford, Dickie Hall.

Republicans for County Clerk—Crystal Spurlock, Sharon Watson Bingham, Elmer H. Ferguson.

Democrats for Constable—Carl Lee Jarrell, Irvin Shepherd, Morgan Joseph, Linzie Hale, Larry D. Goble, (See Story No. 3, Page 4)

'Oakie' Bevins

Defendant Says He Killed Five, Wounded Three

The trial of William "Oakie" Bevins, 71-year-old Printer man, for the murder of five men inside an Allen truck parts store Oct. 16, 1981 and the wounding of three others took a dramatic turn Tuesday morning in Greenup circuit court when defense counsel Lester Burns withdrew Bevins' not-guilty pleas and entered pleas of guilty to all eight counts.

But the slayer's plea, regarded as a move to throw him on the mercy of the court, has not changed the commonwealth's demand for the death penalty, Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen emphasized. In a telephone conversation with The Times shortly after noon Tuesday, Allen said that, despite the guilty plea, testimony will be heard by the trial judge, James A. Atkinson, the case will be argued and Atkinson will pass sentence.

Burns had earlier indicated that Bevins' defense would be based on a plea of insanity or mental disorder resulting in the mass slayings. But after the jury had been empaneled Tuesday morning, and the first witness for the state, Ron Bryant, one of the three men wounded by Bevins, had testified, Burns without warning moved the court to dismiss all the not-guilty pleas and to accept pleas of guilty on all eight counts.

"We made absolutely no concessions or recommendations whatever," Commonwealth's Attorney Allen said in discussing the defense change of tactics.

Allen said that Bryant, the lone witness whose testimony had been heard prior to the Burns motion, "made a strong witness." He quoted Bryant as testifying that two or three weeks prior to the slayings Bevins came to the parts store, posing as a representative of the unemployment

Court Cuts Payroll To Narrow Fund Gap

Thirteen county workers were laid off, one contractor said the county could keep the money it owed him, and the deputy judge-executive agreed to work the next two months without pay. And, as a result, the fiscal court settled a couple of its bigger and older bills.

But even these measures, which were announced during a special session of the fiscal court last Thursday, will apparently only partly bridge the gap between the county's resources and its debts.

Some $95,000 needs to be trimmed from the budget if the county is to end the fiscal year "in the black" as it is required to do by law, state Local Government Advisor Al Howell warned the court before last week's meeting. And, at various points during the meeting, the continuing supervision of the county's finances by Howell and his boss, Local Finance Officer Robert L. Purdom, was apparent.

The termination of the 13 employees, the court noted, was "pursuant to the direction of Al Howell." The payment of a $1869 cleaning supplies bill to Unijax, Inc. was "authorized per telephone call from Al Howell" and a transfer of funds for the same purpose was authorized "per telephone call from Mr. Robert L. Purdom."

But by no means were the state overseers heeded automatically. While 10 road employees were laid off, only one name was struck from the Allen park payroll, which the state officials had singled out for special attention, and so far the judge-executive's administrative staff has been spared.

Dropped from the payroll as from last Friday were Irvin Shepard, Cleveland Tackett, Forrest Tuttle, Jr., Walker T. Coleman, Cecil Rice, Jr., Earlas Hall, Town Newsome, Roy Ousley, Ronnie Horn, Hurley Akers and Henry Burchett, road workers; Michael McCormick, district court coordinator, and Bobby Gene Hughes, park worker.

The terminations are temporary—the 13 will be rehired with the beginning of the new fiscal year in July—and the laid-off workers' fringe benefits, including their health insurance, will be kept up in the meantime, it was said.

R.A. Hayes, president of the Hayes Leasing Company, of Betsy Layne, forgave the county three bills totalling $8954.50, the court was told. The money was said to be due for rock hauled by Hayes to repair a section of road near the head of Little Mud Creek last December.

Deputy Judge-Executive Thomas Lafferty agreed to turn back to the court his salary for the next two months while continuing his normal duties. The deputy-judge is paid $1065 a month.

(Taking $1000 as the average monthly salary of the laid-off workers, the most the county could save from the retrenchment would be $39,000 over the next three months. Savings realized by Hayes' dropping his claims and Lafferty's donating his services bring that figure to around $50,000—little over half the sum Howell said the county would need to trim from its budget.)

County Treasurer David D. Allen acknowledged this week that further cuts will need to be made in the budget.

The court approved payment of a $70,000 bill from the Grayson Stone and Coal Company, a $50,000 claim by Action Petroleum, and $4435 due Hatton and Allen Insurance for workers' compensation premiums.

Floyd School District Low On Money Spent Per Pupil

Among Kentucky's 181 school districts, there is wide disparity in the amount of money spent on each student and also in the ratio of teachers to students, according to a study funded by the Appalachian Regional Commission and distributed here recently.

On both measures, which are commonly used to gauge quality of education, school districts in Appalachian counties rank lower than those in other areas of the state, and the Floyd school district falls near the bottom of the scale.

The study, which was conducted by four researchers at the Appalachian Center of the University of Kentucky, compared Appalachian and non-Appalachian school districts in Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia and West Virginia. It was originally published in March last year.

The top two school districts in Kentucky spent almost twice as much per pupil than did those at the low end of the scale, a disparity which is even wider when instructional costs are considered by themselves.

Appalachian school districts spend about $100 less per pupil each year than do other Kentucky school districts. Instructional costs, which range from $1495 to $539 per pupil, average $823 in Appalachian Kentucky, $904 in the rest of the state.

Floyd county, which reported a per-pupil expenditure of $722, ranked fourth from the bottom on that scale. Only Leslie county, Martin county and Science Hill (Pulaski county) Independent school districts spend less on instruction.

The ratio of students to teachers ranges from 14 students per teacher in Richmond (Madison co.) Independent school district to 26.9 in Science Hill Independent. In this regard, Appalachian districts, where the median is 21.7 students per teacher, do not differ much from non-Appalachian districts, where the median is 20.7.

With 24.6 students per teacher, Floyd is again near the bottom of the scale. Only seven districts—and only one (Martin) of the Big Sandy ADD counties—have a worse pupil-teacher ratio.

Like other Appalachian counties, Floyd ranks high on the percentage of economically-deprived children in its schools and on its dependence on federal funds. On local taxpayer support, it ranks low.

Compared to other Kentucky school districts, where about a quarter of the students are from poor families, over half the pupils in Appalachian schools are listed as economically deprived. The median for Appalachian Kentucky is 51.6 percent; the figure for Floyd is 55.5 percent.

Local tax support, which varies from 57.4 percent in Anchorage (Jefferson co.) and 41.5 percent in Pikeville independent school districts to .9 percent in Whitley county, averages 16.2 percent in other parts of the state, 8.3 percent in Appalachia. Only 4.6 percent of

Martin Residence Guttled by Fire

Firemen were hampered in their attempt to enter the home of Phyllis McKinney at Martin, last Wednesday night, by smoke which billowed from every doorway and window. Fire in the frame structure, which is located next to the Martin Water Works, was first seen by motorists on new KY 80 and reported to the Martin Volunteer Fire Department at around 8:30 p.m. Firemen fought the blaze until around 11 p.m. and were then recalled when the fire rekindled about midnight. One fireman, Norman Napier, received minor burns when the extreme heat within the house caused fire to blow out a window onto the porch where he was standing. The fire is believed to have originated in the rear section of the house and Kentucky State Police are investigating the incident. Mrs. McKinney and her two sons were not at home at the time of the fire.

'Purloined Letter' Claimed In Police Chief Action

A member of Prestonsburg city council has been named in a criminal summons sworn out by the city's chief of police.

Police Chief James Curtis alleges in the district court summons that Council Member Eunice Shepherd, of West Prestonsburg, "divulged information obtained by tampering with private communications."

Curtis said this week that someone stole from his desk at city hall a personal letter written to him by the young woman he married last December. Copies were made of the letter, which Mrs. Shepherd distributed to area news media, the police chief alleged.

As far as he knew, none of the media gave the letter any publicity, he said.

Citing the advice of her attorney, Cassie J. Allen, Mrs. Shepherd declined to comment on Curtis' charge. In a request for information filed last week in district court, however, she asks the police chief to say whether the reasons for his summons are personal or political in nature.

She also asks "whether the alleged acts were within the scope of her duties as a member of the city council" and whether the information said to have been obtained illegally concerned the police chief himself and the young woman who became his wife.

Curtis, 38, who was hired to head the police department here in March, 1982, married Kathy Booth, 16, last December 23 in Virginia. It was his third marriage.

Prior to his appointment here, Curtis was police chief in the small town of Dundee, Florida, where his relationship with the young woman and her family—described as an impoverished white family in a predominantly black neighborhood—became a subject of speculation.

Dundee Town Manager Michael Herr reportedly told Curtis he could resign or be fired. In April, 1982, after just four months as Dundee's police chief, he resigned.

County Clerk Explains Reimbursement on Pool

An item in last week's news-story citing some of the claims made on the fiscal court needs explanation, says County Clerk Thomas D. Lafferty, Jr.

The item was published as it appeared in a list provided by the state Finance Cabinet. It read: "reimbursement and travel expense," and the amount was $1625.96. The news-story stated that "the reimbursement owing to the younger Lafferty is for personal funds he spent on the Allen swimming pool," and that statement was attributed to Al Howell, Local Government adviser.

County Clerk Lafferty points out—and supports his statement with the original charge slips—that only $29.63 of the total listed was spent on the Allen Park pool. The remainder, he said, was spent on travel expenses directly connected with county business.

"I paid this account on the pool to the Thomas Hereford Company after I had been told the account, then about six months old, was still unpaid," Lafferty said. The items paid for were whistles and lanyards.

Prayer Circle Meets,
Honors Mrs. Roberts

The Wesleyan Prayer Circle of the First United Methodist Church met Tuesday, with Mrs. Jane Wallace and Mrs. May K. Roberts as hostesses. Mrs. Rose Glenn, president, presided. She presented Mrs. Carlos Haywood, who gave a history of Methodism in this section, and also of the present First United Methodist Church. She also introduced Mrs. Lack Roberts, the oldest member of the Circle, who is being honored during the Centennial year for her outstanding service to the church. At the age of 13 Mrs. Roberts began playing the church organ, which is said to have been the first one brought up the Big Sandy River by push boat. She played the organ there for 62 years, during which time she was the organist for the famous "Sledge Revival," which lasted six weeks, and was instrumental in starting the present First Baptist Church here. Mrs. Roberts has been an active member of the Eastern Star for 74 years, and was organist there for many years. Mrs. Rose Glenn presented her with an honorary membership pin. Mrs. Roberts' daughter, Mrs. Laura Virginia Collins, gave an informative talk about her mother's achievements.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses to Mrs. Lack Roberts, here, her daughter and granddaughter, Mrs. Laura Virginia Collins, and Miss Judy Collins, of Boco Raton, Florida, Mesdames Gladys Blackburn, Elizabeth Ramey, Mabel Brown, Clara Bradbury, Geneva Carter, Nancy Webb, Inez May Hereford, Josephine Fields, Virginia Jeffries, Ann Scutchfield, Virginia Shivel, Rose Glenn, Mary Jo LaPointe, Vera Ford, Olma Hamilton, Roberta Davidson, Edna Carol Greenwade, Carlos Haywood, Douglas Perry, Fanny Runnels, Pearl Nicholas, Anna May Mellon, Margaret Alley, and a guest, Dr. Beecher Scutchfield.

TOGETHER

RESTORE PRIDE
IN OUR COUNTY

Will you please go to the polls and give me your vote. I promise, as your County Court Clerk, to be honest, efficient and courteous. I will serve the people and will be bossed by no man or special interest groups. As I begin to travel throughout our county, meeting and making new friends and renewing old acquaintances, I am humbled by your warm reception and support. I know, from your comments, that you want people in public office that will put your interest above their own.

As many of you know, I have previously run for County-wide office, losing by three votes for Circuit Court Clerk. If you want to elect a County Court Clerk that you can always be proud of, then I am your candidate. When I am elected Clerk, every dime of your tax money will be disposed of in a manner prescribed by State Law.

The ballot can, and should be the strongest weapon in the hands of free people. It should be an instrument for true democratic government in Floyd County.

Please talk to your friends and neighbors for me, and with your help you can once again have a trusted friend as your County Court Clerk.

GRAND OPENING

Harvey Sloane Campaign Headquarters

Court Street, Prestonsburg, Ky. (Next to Cato's)

SATURDAY, APRIL 9 — 9:00-11:30

Everyone invited to come and meet Kentucky's next Governor, Harvey Sloane.

Sloane on The Issues

— on School Prayer;

I support the right of every child to be able to worship God every day at school...but I do not think that school children should be forced to recite a certain prayer or participate in a specific religious observance. I believe that, at a minimum, a certain time should be set aside each day so a child could then have a moment of silent meditation so that he or she can be responsive to the religious wishes of his or her parents.

— on Retired Teachers;

During the past weeks I have received several inquiries about my plan to permit teachers to retire after 25 years of service without loss of benefits. My opponents are trying to cause fear among retired teachers that this change will reduce benefits. That rumor is not true....Every teacher will not want to retire after 25 years of service, but I believe that the teacher who does decide to leave after 25 years of service should have that option without penalty.

— on Abortion;

I am opposed to abortions. I am pro-life and I support a Constitutional amendment to ban abortion.

— on Education;

"Among the major issues facing Kentucky, education is the field where the governor's influence is the greatest. I am dedicated to excellence in higher education and I know that Kentuckians want to be first in education, just as we are first in coal production, tobacco, horses and basketball."

— on Taxes;

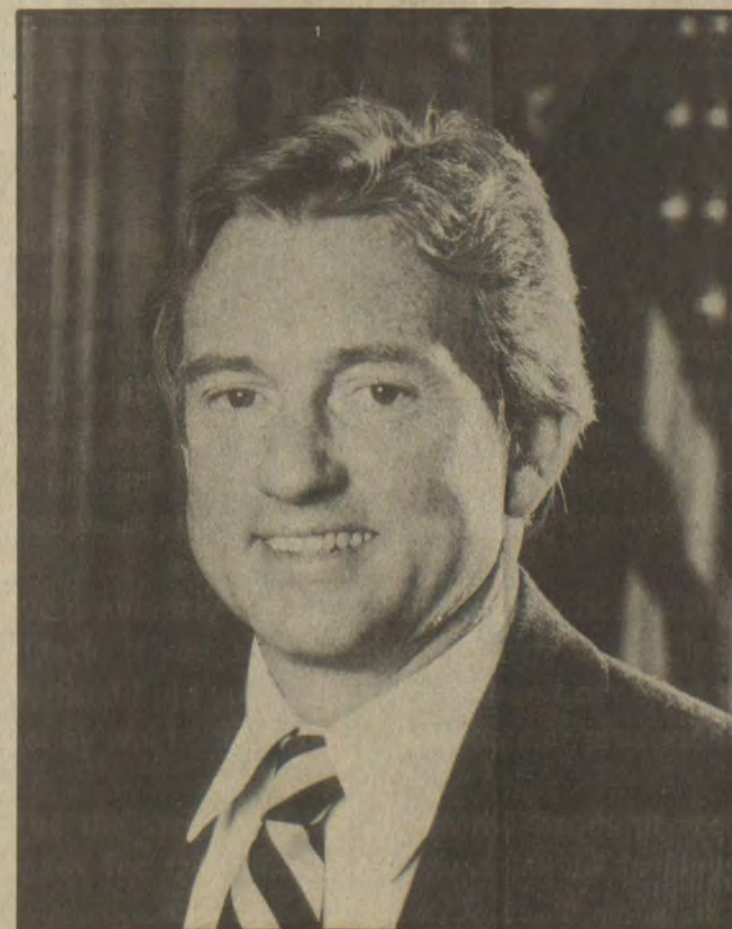

I am philosophically opposed to tax increases. The present tax structure should be sufficient to meet the state's needs, barring some unforeseen economic emergency, or for such things as education.

— on Labor;

My record strongly indicates that during all of my nearly 20 years of public and elective service, I have been a constant friend and advocate of the working men and women of Kentucky — and in fact, all across these United States.

— on Gun Control

I am opposed to gun control. I believe it is the right of the citizens of Kentucky to keep and bear arms.

HE'S READY FOR OUR TOUGHEST JOB!

ALLERGIC MANIFESTATIONS

Allergy is a very significant reason for sickness and disability in this region. Briefly the allergy falls into three (3) categories:

1. Food Allergy
2. Dust and Mold Allergy
3. Pollen Allergy

Following are some of the signs or symptoms which may be caused by allergies. Of course, other medical problems can also cause them:

- | | |
|--|---|
| 1. Chronic or frequent headaches. | 16. Chest pain (majority of them). |
| 2. Dizziness or "swimhead". | 17. Sleep disorders. |
| 3. Seizures. | 18. Restless at night. |
| 4. Blurred Vision. | 19. Hard to awake in A.M. |
| 5. Repeated Colds and Sore Throat. | 20. Depression (quite often). |
| 6. Chronic nasal and sinus problems (stuffy nose, sinus pain). | 21. Continuous Tiredness. |
| 7. Asthma, Chronic Cough and Smothering. | 22. Tension and anxiety. |
| 8. Frequent sneezes. | 23. Eczema. |
| 9. Intermittent hearing loss. | 24. Hives. |
| 10. Frequent nausea and vomiting. | 25. Failure to gain weight. |
| 11. Heartburn. | 26. Dark Circles under the eyes. |
| 12. Constipation. | 27. Pale skin color, or failure to tan in the summer. |
| 13. Calfitis and mucus in bowels. | 28. Motion sickness. |
| 14. Gas problems. | 29. Falling asleep while driving. |
| 15. Lack of appetite. | 30. Tension Headaches. |

INVESTIGATIONS AND TREATMENT

A careful history of the symptoms may usually point towards the presence of allergy in a given patient. Symptoms present year around suspect allergies to food or animals. Symptoms present spring or fall suspect allergies to molds or pollens. Symptoms present only during the summer suspect allergies to pollens or molds. Symptoms present during the winter suspect allergy to house dust.

Why Blame Perkins?

Since Pike county chose to withdraw from the regional airport plan and go it solo with its own airport, it is with poor grace that it now appears critical of Congressman Carl Perkins for the vital part he played in getting federal financing for another airport, the one that was originally planned for the region.

True, the facility near the juncture of Martin, Floyd and Johnson counties that is getting federal funding does not have Pike county in its future, but it could have served that county along with the other three if Pike had had a desire to be a part of the regional air transport program.

As matters stand, Pike county already has its own airport near opening and can't be expected to scratch a venture nearing completion at considerable effort and great expense.

Who is to blame for the oversupply of airports in the region? Not Carl Perkins. He acted for the Floyd-Martin-Johnson group, sure, but only because it is his job to represent all of his district, not merely Pike or any other single county.

The council decision raises a question as to the fate of beer distributors, on whom a $400 levy was imposed by the original ordinance. Following the challenge by the liquor distributors' association and the subsequent lowering of their fee to $150, the beer dealers' fee was likewise lowered. Now that the liquor distributors have been declared exempt, the council may reimpose its original $400 fee on the beer haulers.

Liquor distributors cannot be regulated by the city, according to the attorney-general, because their qualifications are already set by the state. Last week's passage by the council of an ordinance annexing a section on the city's southern perimeter at Lanecer was also rescinded Monday. City Manager David Evans pointed out that, since Joe Weddington and Hazel Rorrer, the two property owners involved, had asked to have the question of annexation put on the ballot, a final council decision on the issue will have to await the outcome of the referendum.

Ernest (Bucky) Collins, Troy Gene Jarrell, Larry H. Shortridge. Both Prestonsburg and Wayland will have city council elections, but because not more than 16 candidates filed in either city their names will not go on the ballot till next November. The time for filing expired, however, last Friday.

In Prestonsburg only three present members of the Council are seeking reelection. These are Eunice Shepherd, Bill Ray Collins and George C. Brown. Others who will be in the November campaign for Council seats here are Frank A. Adams, Donald L. (Dootney) Horn, Dave Stephens, Bobby Watson, Jeffery A. Horn, Donald Whitaker, Paul H. Thompson, Bobby Ranier, William O. Goebel, III, Maxine S. Bierman.

The Council candidates at Wayland are Linda Webb, Bonnie Clark, Connie Martin Combs, Ralph Stephen Banks, Terri Johnson, Mike Froman, Dan Juett, Sam Fraley, Mack Stewarz.

Council candidates run on a non-partisan ballot. They will draw for ballot position later, it was said.

Present Councilmen here who "did not choose to run" again are Paul Phillip Hughes, Estill Lee Carter, Floyd Johnson, Dick Clark and Carolyn Ford.

To Help Viewers Become Critics

"Tuned In," a series designed to help middle school students become critical television viewers, is premiering on KET weeknights at 6 p.m., beginning Monday, April 25.

The series involves the continuing story of four ninth-grade students in a language arts class as they learn about television production and their own television viewing habits. Their experience of producing their own television program helps the students to understand the complexities of television. They evaluate their work and ponder another class' review of their show. The skills that the students develop by producing and evaluating their own production help them to become more alert and selective television viewers.

"Tuned In" is designed to help students develop a variety of reading, writing, speaking and analytical skills. It stresses critical viewing in an attempt to counter the fact that by the time students graduate from high school they will have spent more time watching television than in a classroom. The series is produced by the University of Kentucky.

school district revenue is raised locally in Floyd county.

In non-Appalachian districts, some 70.1 percent of ninth graders complete high school; the median for Appalachian districts is 59.4 percent; the figure for Floyd is 55.3 percent.

The percentage of teachers with Rank II certification (teacher's certificate and master's degree or equivalent) ranges from 85.2 (Murray Independent) to 29.4 (Science Hill), averaging around 61 percent. In Floyd school district, 55.5 percent of teachers have Rank II certification.

Annual salaries for teachers and administrators vary little between Appalachian districts and the rest of the state and Floyd salaries in 1979-'80 were about average—$13,806 for elementary teachers, $14,203 for secondary teachers, $23,174 for administrators.

While acknowledging that questions persist about the interpretation of test scores, the researchers note that, on both the Short Form Test of Academic Abilities (SFTAA) and the Comprehensive Test of Basic Skills (CTBS), more students in Appalachian school districts are ranked below average than is true for the rest of the state and many more Floyd students fall into that category than is the norm even in Appalachia.

On the SFTAA, 15.3 percent of non-Appalachian third graders in Kentucky fell into the below-average category; 21 percent of Appalachian and 31 percent of Floyd third graders were in that category.

The respective figures, in the fifth grade, were 13 percent, 18 percent, and 35 percent; for the seventh grade, 20.5 percent, 28 percent, and 35 percent; for the 10th grade, 25 percent, 29.5 percent, and 37 percent.

On the CTBS, 8 percent of non-Appalachian third graders, 16 percent of Appalachian and 33 percent of Floyd third graders were below average. Perry county scored as poorly as Floyd. Only three school districts in the state—Martin county (38 percent), Clinton county (40 percent) and Lynch Independent (41 percent)—scored worse.

The respective figures, for the fifth grade, were 11 percent, 18 percent, and 34 percent; for the seventh grade, 14 percent, 19 percent, and 32 percent; for the 10th grade, 18 percent, 19.5 percent, and 26 percent.

There is no proof, the researchers note, that standardized tests accurately measure what is actually being taught in the schools. Moreover, since it could be argued that the tests suppose an ability to use middle-class English, their validity in Appalachia appears problematic, they concede.

The study, entitled "Educational Performance in Central Appalachia: Statistical Profiles of Appalachian and Non-Appalachian School Districts," was prepared by Dr. Alan J. DeYoung, Charles Vaughn, James J. O'Brien and Jean A. Brymer under contract with the Appalachian Regional Commission.

Judge-Executive Jerry Lafferty, Jr. said the two larger bills were left over from the previous county administration, a claim that appears to be at least partly justified. According to the creditors, the county owed Grayson Stone and Coal $63,340 and Action Petroleum $18,810 at the end of the Wells administration. Moreover, $44,550 was due East Kentucky Paving and $67,493 to Brandeis Machinery when the county changed hands.

According to an agreement approved by the court, the Prater Creek Stone Company, an affiliate of Hayes Leasing, will deliver at least another 44,000 tons of rock to the Little Mud Creek road from the firm's stripmine on Prater Creek.

Since the coal recovered at the site will now be "incidental to" the quarrying of road materials, the coal company will be able to "avoid permitting problems"—including reclamation costs and bonding requirements normally imposed by the state Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection—it was explained.

The court agreed to take into the county roads system the road leading from U.S. 23 to the new Betsy Layne High School, on condition that the state Department of Highways blacktop the road.

Bids will be advertised for storing, transporting and servicing the county's voting machines, it was decided.

The next regularly scheduled meeting of the fiscal court is set for 10 a.m. Friday, April 15, in the courthouse annex.

Curtis maintained this week that he had been a victim of politics and rumor-mongering. His relationship with the Booth family was that of a "welfare worker" and an investigation by Dundee authorities found nothing improper in his dealings with the family, he said.

He resigned voluntarily and was not under threat of dismissal, the police chief insisted. However, the town manager had instructed him not to keep seeing the Booth family and "I wasn't going to be told who I could or could not visit," he said. "I quit because I didn't want to put up with that type of trash," he said.

The family he was criticized for befriending had multiple problems and the welfare of the younger children—a 13-year-old boy as well as the 15-year-old girl—was of particular concern to him, the police chief said. "I caught hell because I attempted to help people," he said.

Curtis was divorced from his second wife, a Lexington jailer, last August. He has two children, a 15-year-old son, who lives with him here, and a six-year-old daughter.

He and his young wife would "just like to be accepted by the community here," he said this week. "We care about each other. We feel like we're productive members of the community. We intend to pay our own way," he said.

Whicker Killed In Auto Wreck

Twenty-one-year-old McDouglas Whicker, Jr., Martin service station operator, died almost instantly early last Friday morning in the collision of his auto with that of another on old KY 80, near the Allen park.

Coroner Roger Nelson said he died of a broken neck, a crushed chest and brain concussion.

Ronald Caudill, of Allen, driver of the second car involved in the crash, was slightly injured but not hospitalized.

Investigation of the tragedy by State Police showed that Whicker was driving toward Martin when his vehicle crossed the highway and hit the Caudill auto, head-on, shortly after 2 a.m., it was reported. The Martin man's auto then plunged over an embankment and overturned, this report says.

The victim operated the Ashland Oil Service Station at Martin. He was a son of McDouglas and Thomasine Whicker, of Martin, and was a graduate of McDowell High School where he participated in three sports, basketball, baseball and golf.

Surviving, besides his parents, are his widow, Mrs. Rhonda Gail Whicker, and two sisters, Mrs. Anne Flo Risner and Miss Rita Whicker, all of Martin.

Funeral services were conducted at 2 p.m. Sunday from the chapel of the Hall Funeral Home by the Rev. Roger Madden, and burial was made in the Martin cemetery.

Grethel Baptist Church Holds Attendance Drive

The Grethel Baptist Church on Branham's Creek is holding a Sunday School attendance drive which will continue throughout April. Easter Sunday, the choir provided special music, and a picture of all babies present, under three years old, was taken and will be displayed on the church bulletin board. They are Kent Evans, Timothy Evans, Derrick Martin, Brandon Hall, and Bryanna Grace Hamilton.

Each Sunday will have a special designation. The second Sunday will be Pal Sunday; the third, Old-Fashioned Sunday, and the fourth, Whole Family Sunday.

The pastor, Don Crisp, extends a welcome to all to attend.

ACCEPTED BY FRATERNITY

Morris Caudill, son of Mrs. Rose Caudill, formerly of Prestonsburg, now of Lexington, who is a student at the University of Kentucky there, has been accepted into Alpha Lambda Delta honorary fraternity at the University. This organization recognizes outstanding academic achievement, and a qualification for membership is a 3.5 or better point standing. This is the second such honor for young Caudill, who was accepted recently into Phi Eta Sigma honorary fraternity there. The student so honored is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Worland, of Prestonsburg.

Help as much as you can.

Campsites To Open Apr. 29

Campers in eastern Kentucky and western Virginia will find areas open at three Huntington District, Army Corps of Engineers, lakes, beginning April 29, according to Colonel John W. Devens, district engineer.

They are: Upper Twin, Lower Twin, and Cranesnest at John W. Flannagan Reservoir in Dickenson county, Va., five miles from Haysi; two Kentucky sites, German at Dewey Lake, and Grapevine at Fishtrap Lake, in Pike county.

Campers are accepted on a first-come, first-served basis. Camping season is tentatively set to close September 30.

More than 480 million recreation visits were made at U.S. Army Corps of Engineers' lakeside areas in 1982. This compares with 30 million made in 1952 when the Army Engineers first started counting visits.

RAY TURNER FOR STATE SENATOR

"THE HILLBILLIES' CANDIDATE"

Our children are our most valuable asset and the educators of this county play a major role in their lives. The educators are the classroom teachers and, indirectly, the administrators and the Board of Education. We work to provide food, clothing and shelter for our children, we protect them from harm, we love them. But, it is the classroom teacher who spends the day with your child. We entrust our children to teachers we value so little that we pay them a lowly average salary of approximately $14,000 per year!

Teachers are the creators of the future. They create lawyers, dentists, secretaries, welders, mechanics, electricians—the list is endless! Only the Legislature with enacted salary increases and money for classroom supplies can move our teachers into the ranks they deserve.

Help me to help our teachers by casting a vote for Ray Turner in the May primary. It will be a vote for your children. I will work closely with the teachers and school officials to insure that all our classrooms provide a healthy educational atmosphere.

Selecting the Right Auto Service Saves Frustration and Money

If you are like many people, you know little more about your car than how to start and drive it. Yet, at one time or another, all of us are faced with the chore of having a car serviced. The experience can be frustrating and expensive.

It takes effort to select the right automobile service facility, but a careful investigation can save you time and money.

First, it is important to analyze your repair needs. Whether you own a foreign or domestic car, pick a shop that has both the proper equipment and personnel to provide the service your car requires. If your car is still covered under warranty, there may be service restrictions that must be followed, or the warranty may not be honored.

Should you take your car to a dealership, or to an independent garage? If your car needs routine maintenance (oil change, air filter replacement, etc.) an independent station should be able to handle the work. However, if your car requires engine work, transmission service, or something else major, you may benefit from taking the car to a dealership that sells and services the type of automobile you own.

Judging the competence of a service facility is of primary importance before leaving your car for repairs. Tom Woolery of Blue Grass AAA offers these guidelines for selecting a quality service facility:

* Cleanliness—if the shop has a clean, organized appearance then it is more likely to be well run.

* The mechanic, manager, or service representative should be willing to take the time to discuss the problems you are having with your car, and should explain exactly what repairs have been made when the work is done.

* Does the facility maintain previous service records on your car for reference when you bring your car in for future repairs?

* Is the facility willing to give you a written estimate of the repairs and will they agree to consult you if repair costs exceed a certain dollar amount?

* Do they guarantee their work, and if so, what are the limitations?

* If parts are replaced, will the old ones be returned to you?

* If the mechanics are certified by the National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence (NIASE) this means that they have voluntarily taken an examination which tests various areas of automobile repair expertise.

* Is the facility Triple A approved? If it is, certain requirements must be met which the shop has agreed to in a contract with AAA.

* Contact the Better Business Bureau to see if they have any current information on the facility.

* If possible, get the names of some previous customers so that you can contact them and see if they are satisfied with the service they received.

Once you have located a facility that seems to meet your needs, there are steps to follow which will help to insure that your car will be serviced properly.

When you speak to the service representative, tell him what symptoms you have noticed in relation to your car's performance. If the car is making unusual noises, shaking while driving at certain speeds, lacking power, etc. explain this as precisely as possible.

Do not insist that a specific repair must be done, because the problem you describe may be caused by something entirely different than what you suspect. Before you leave your car, have a clear understanding with the facility of what is to be examined, the cost limitations, and a time when you may expect to be able to pick up your car. Always leave a phone number where you can be reached. Never tell a service shop that they may make whatever repairs they feel necessary, and never sign a blank repair order.

If you are unhappy with the work done on your car, complain! But, do not wait. The sooner you convey your dissatisfaction to the facility, the better your chances are of having the problem corrected quickly. If you do not receive satisfaction through a service manager or representative, bring your complaint to the attention of their supervisor. If you are a Triple A member and the facility has Triple A approval, you may register your complaint through the Approved Auto Repair Program representative at the Blue Grass Automobile Club, 233-1111, or toll-free 1-800-432-0996.

'Medea' Airs On KET

The original "Medea" was written by the Greek dramatist Euripides in 431 B.C. The passion and jealousy evoked by conflict between man and woman touch us even today. The Robinson Jeffers adaptation of "Medea" stars Zoe Caldwell in her Tony award-winning title role with Dame Judith Anderson as the Nurse and will air on KET Wednesday, April 20 at 8 p.m.

"Medea" depicts the ultimate revenge of a passionate woman who is cast aside by her ambitious husband, bent on marrying his way to new power and riches. Their two children become the victims of Medea's rage.

Both the 90-minute television adaptation of "Medea" and "Reflections on Medea," conversations with Zoe Caldwell, Dame Judith Anderson and Robert Whitehead, the stage director and producer of the first Jeffers adaptation of "Medea" will air as part of the "Kennedy Center Tonight" series. "Reflections on Medea" will be broadcast Monday, April 18 at 10:30 p.m.

The play is a production of WQED, Pittsburgh.

KET Special Examines American Indian Problems

KET airs a one-hour public TV special focusing on current issues facing American Indians Wednesday, April 27, at 10 p.m.

Entitled "Voices of Native Americans," the program features former NBC correspondent Diane Wildman reporting on the administration's Indian policy with two of the highest ranking native Americans working within the government: Ken Smith, assistant undersecretary of the Bureau of Indian Affairs, and Frank Ducheneaux, counsel of the House Indian Affairs Committee.

The program also includes highlights of two national conferences held in 1982 to discuss native American problems.

Segments from the Aspen Institute conference focus on the conflict between Indian culture and America's European value system. Portions of the first American Indian International Tribunal emphasize Indian claims to treaty violations and Indian opposition to the Indian Land Claims Settlement Act of 1982, which was recently introduced in Congress.

Participating in the conferences were: Russell Means, head of the American Indian Movement; LaDonna Harris, President of Americans for Indian Opportunity; and Jamake High Water, author of "The Primal Mind."

19th Mountain Dew Fest Not Multi-College Event

Following a radically revised format and scaled down considerably, Prestonsburg Community College's annual Mountain Dew Festival will begin Friday night on the college campus.

Although a split schedule, with activities this weekend and again next Thursday and Friday, represents a major change from previous festivals, the main difference in this year's event will be the absence of other community and junior colleges which made Mountain Dew one of the largest and most unique inter-school activities in the state.

The decision to involve only P.C.C. came primarily as a result of economic considerations, according to John Herald, public information head at the college. "Most schools have had budget cuts while the cost of bringing large groups of students to an event like this has steadily increased," Herald commented. "There were some schools willing to send students," he said, "but so few that it hardly made some of the competitions worth holding."

Herald said college officials had considered dropping the festival but opted instead to involve only P.C.C. students. The school will also leave open the possibility of returning to the traditional multi-college event of years past; "if the economic situation improves," Herald commented.

School officials think this year's event will be successful despite the exclusion of other colleges and see certain advantages in scaling down the festival. "While in past years only certain of our students who qualified could participate in the competitions," Herald said, "now large numbers are able to take part." Twenty-five students are signed up for billiards competition, he pointed out as an example, while more than 30 will compete in backgammon.

Festival activities will begin at 7 p.m., Friday with a "Gong Show" in the Pike Auditorium, followed by a casino party at 9 in the Martin Student Center which will involve vying for play money which then may be used to bid at an auction. Herald stressed that the public is invited to attend all Mountain Dew activities.

The annual dance and crowning of the Mountain Dew queen will be held Saturday night. This year's queen will be chosen by a panel of college judges, Herald pointed out.

Indoor sports and other competitions will begin next Thursday evening, April 14 in the Martin Student Center with outdoor events scheduled for most of the following day.

Mixed Reviews Follow Parole Given Holbrook

In her hearing by a state parole board Monday, Lynn Holbrook "finally got what we've been trying to get all along—trial before an unprejudiced jury," said her lawyer, Prestonsburg attorney Gary Johnson.

The former Paintsville resident, who pleaded guilty last year to poisoning her policeman husband, was paroled after serving just nine months of her 20-year sentence.

Harry Rotherger, Jr., parole board chairman, said he was "strongly opposed to her being recommended for parole" and voted against it. He described as "very unusual" the fact that Mrs. Holbrook was given a parole hearing before serving at least a fifth of her sentence—that is, four years.

The board voted 3-2 to grant her parole, after concluding that Holbrook was "a good parole risk...and not a threat to society," Rotherger said.

But Johnson County Commonwealth's Attorney John David Preston called the parole board's decision "unbelievable." "It's hard to believe someone could plead guilty to murder, get 20 years and serve nine months—it's incredible," he said.

Mrs. Holbrook, who claimed her husband repeatedly abused her, admitted lacing with arsenic the soft drink that killed him. But she intended the drink for herself, she said.

William Holbrook, 30, a major in the Paintsville police department, died Dec. 13, 1980, ten days after consuming the drink.

Mrs. Holbrook yet faces a bail-jumping charge, stemming from a period when she was fighting extradition from Idaho.

Social Security...
New Job Applicants
Must Have a Number

Young people in the Big Sandy area who are planning to apply soon for their first summer jobs and who do not have a Social Security number should remember to apply for a number at least two weeks before they will need it, Jim Kelly, Social Security district manager, said recently.

Most employers will not accept applications from people who do not have a Social Security number, so it is a good idea to get a number before looking for a job, Kelly said.

To get a Social Security number, a person must provide proof of date of birth, identity, and U.S. citizenship or immigrant status. Those 18 or over must apply in person.

The best proof of date of birth and citizenship is a public or hospital birth record recorded before age 5 or a religious record of birth or baptism recorded before that age. Foreign-born applicants should provide their immigration or naturalization documents as well.

Identity can be established by such records as driver's license, state identity card, voter's registration, school record, school ID, report card, marriage record, work badge or building pass, labor or fraternal organization record, draft card or military ID, U.S. passport, newspaper birth announcement, adoption record, court order for change of name, church membership or confirmation record, welfare case record, medical or hospital record, vaccination certificate, insurance policy, day care or nursery school record, Boy or Girl Scout membership, or any other document showing identifying data such as physical description, photograph, or signature.

Applications for a Social Security number may be procured at the Big Sandy Area Social Security office, located on U.S. 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville.

DISCRIMINATION OR POLITICAL CONFUSION

In these modern times I was truly surprised to be told that I would never hold the office of County Clerk because I am a WOMAN.

I was told the people of our county would never elect anyone other than a man. I do not agree with this and I am sure you do not either.

Who could be more qualified than me? Who else, other than my late uncle, C. "Ollie" Robinson, would keep the clerk's office open until all business was transacted?

Yes, a woman I am, but a more honest, dependable and efficient clerk, man or woman, you could never elect.

Again, I ask for your support in this important election.

Hospital Program Expanded

Lisa Parlier (left) and Pat Willis, Nursing Education coordinators at Highlands Regional Medical Center, will offer continuing education classes for nurses this year.

Nurses and other licensed personnel have to take continuing education courses (C.E.U.'s) to be relicensed, and Highlands Regional Medical Center has made it as easy as possible for nurses to meet the requirements.

The Kentucky Nurses Association and Kentucky Board of Nursing has granted approval for 21 offerings to all area nurses by the HRMC Nursing Education Department. Twelve courses will be given at no cost to HRMC employees. Another innovation is that C.E.U.'s will be presented on the Medical Center's nursing floors in mini sessions around the nurses' schedules.

"We're taking the programs to the nurses," explained Drema Osborne, Director of Nursing Services, when asked about the changing status of C.E.U.'s. "The approved programs were planned with the educational needs of our staff in mind and will provide appropriate and practical knowledge."

This is the third year that Highlands has offered the board-approved C.E.U. program to all L.P.N.'s and R.N.'s. Previously four programs were held yearly. "We wanted to expand our offerings for the convenience of our nurses, so we prepared five times the usual number of courses and they were all approved," said Pat Willis, nurse administrator for Board-Approved Continuing Education.

Lisa Parlier, Nursing Education coordinator, and Miss Willis have been active in nursing education at HRMC for more than seven years. They give orientation and training to all nursing employees, and teach "inservices"—classes dealing with new equipment and procedures relative to HRMC. The team does nurse recruitment and coordinates Prestonsburg Community College nursing students' clinical rotations. Doctor-referred patient education such as C.P.R. training for the parents of high risk infants is handled by them. They also train personnel in specialty areas such as the premature infant nursery and emergency room. Other work performed by the nursing education duo includes assisting in the development of nursing policies and procedures and coordinating nursing's participation in disaster drills.

Deputy-Judge Files Not-Guilty Pleas; Trial Date Is Set

An attorney for Deputy Judge Thomas Lafferty, Sr., accused of fourth degree assault and harassment in the wake of an alleged altercation with a Courier-Journal reporter March 1, entered a plea of not guilty in district court Tuesday. Trial on the charges was set for June 16.

In another case coming before District Judge Harold Stumbo Tuesday, the charge against the defendant was dismissed for lack of prosecution, but a bench warrant was issued for the complaining witness.

Joyce Anderson, of Hager Hill, in swearing out a warrant charging Debbie Sellors, of Prestonsburg, with terroristic threatening, paid the court cost with a cold check, the court was told. The charge against Sellors was dropped; a warrant was issued for Anderson.

The age of your car might well determine whether you will have to hire your own attorney or be provided with a court-appointed lawyer, two defendants learned Tuesday.

Frederick Stratton, of Stanville, who was accused by Betty Daniels, also of Stanville, of encouraging her daughter to run away from home, and David Wyatt, of Dwale, facing an indecent exposure charge on the testimony of Deborah Lumpkins, of Allen, both said they were indigent and needed a court-appointed attorney.

Wyatt said he owned only a 1966 Ford; Stratton acknowledged owning a 1975 Pontiac LeMans. Wyatt was assigned a public defender; Stratton was told to hire private counsel.

Trial of Seldon Horn, of Prestonsburg, charged with passing a stationary school bus on the testimony of bus driver James Clevenger, was set for May 18. Charlotte Branham, of Cliff, who was accused by the same driver of an identical violation in February, received a warning but the charge against her was dismissed.

Sentenced, following guilty pleas or verdicts, were:

Vernon Akers, Cliffside, drunk driving, $137.50 in fine and costs, referred to alcoholic driver education (ADE); David R. Reffitt, Hueysville, drunk, $47.50; Randell Webb, West Prestonsburg, drunk driving, $137.50, ADE; Denver Ousley, Jr., Martin, drunk driving, $87.50; Douglas Edward Hurt, Weeksbury, drunk driving, $137.50, ADE; Raymond C. Gilliam, Wheelwright, drunk, $47.50; Shawn P. Keith R. Carter, Harold, drunk driving, $137.50, ADE; Willis R. Akers, Dana, drunk driving, $137.50, ADE; Lee Gannon, Banner, drunk driving, driving on wrong side of road, 30 days' probation, $147.50; John Davis, Prestonsburg, drunk driving, driving on suspended license, reckless driving, $154.50; Kent Stewart, Tram, drunk driving, disorderly conduct, $165.50, ADE; Marion Kilburn, Martin, drunk, 12 days' jail, $47.50; D. C. Carr, Allen, drunk, $47.50; Phillip Akers, Prestonsburg, no registration plates, no eye protection, no license, reckless driving, attempt to elude police, possession of marijuana, drunk driving, 30 days' jail; Edwina Kennard, Salyersville, shoplifting, $147.50; Edward Lee Turner, Cliffside, theft by deception, 10 days, $47.50.

Anna L. Brown, Langley, theft by deception, 10 days, $147.50; Adrian E. Lamartz, Minnie, drunk driving, $150; Dave Mullins, Prestonsburg, hindering prosecution, one year, $547.50; Charles Hammonds, East Point, failure to drive carefully, $137.50; Robert James Lawson, Prestonsburg, violating permit to move mobile home, expired trailer plates, $67.50; Jackie Shell, Prestonsburg, drunk driving, $137.50, ADE; Robert Spurlock, Harold, overweight load, $57.50; Dana T. Spurlock, Prestonsburg, overweight truck, $37.50; Stanley Little, Jr., Pikeville, drunk driving, $137.50, ADE, speeding, $65, expired insurance, $50, reckless driving, $20; Walter Pack, Hager Hill, drunk driving, $147.50, ADE; Walker Slone, Beaver, drunk, 10 days, $57.50.

Candidate Alleges Campaign Mischief

In a criminal complaint filed in district court last week, Larry D. Goble, a candidate for first district constable, accused Leonard Joseph, Jr. of defacing his campaign signs.

Goble said that around 6:30 p.m. March 20 Joseph ordered Isaac and Karen Powers at gunpoint to take down a Goble campaign sign on their Sugarloaf property. After they restored it, Joseph, a sheriff's deputy, returned and took it down himself, Goble said.

He reported the incident to Sheriff Henry C. Hale but to no avail, Goble said.

Host First Special Olympics Event

The pool at Allen Central High School was the scene of this county's first Special Olympics event—a swimming meet—last month. The Special Olympics is designed to provide competition for handicapped athletes in swimming, run-dribble-shoot competition, skiing, gymnastics, art, bowling, track and field, softball, volleyball and basketball.

Floyd was host to 115 swimmers from Martin, Johnson, Magoffin and Floyd counties, which make up the Special Olympics' Area 11. About 15 swimmers, who participated in beginner, intermediate and advanced competition, will be eligible for a state swimming meet at Murray State University in June.

Twenty five Floyd athletes earlier participated in the Special Olympics state basketball tournament. Gymnastics competition is set for April 16 at Johnson Central High School and track and field competition is scheduled for April 23 at Pikeville High School. The public is invited to all events.

Organizers of the Special Olympics here extended thanks to Supt. Pete Grigsby, Jr., Asst. Supt. Ron Hager, Allen Central administrators and maintenance staff, the Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club, Marie Harmon, Marguerite Fannin, Danette Fannin, Zenith Hall, Jr. and local businesses and individuals who contributed to the event.

PTA Joins Alcohol, Drug Abuse Group

The National PTA has joined forces with six other major national organizations to form the National Coalition for the Prevention of Drug and Alcohol Abuse. Mary Ann Leveridge, president of the National PTA, announced today.

The coalition received strong support from First Lady Nancy Reagan at a White House luncheon for coalition representatives on March 21. In addition to the 5.2 million member National PTA, organizations participating in the coalition are: the Association of Junior Leagues, the American Association of School Administrators, Lions International, the National 4-H Council, the Pacific Institute for Research and Evaluation, and the Quest National Center.

The coalition's first major project will be to mobilize communities across the United States to organize town meetings to watch "The Chemical People," a two-part documentary on school-age substance use and abuse to be produced by WQED-TV/Pittsburgh (PBS). Working with WQED and other PBS stations, the coalition will conduct a massive information sharing and "how to" campaign to assist communities with the logistics of organizing the town meetings.

"The Chemical People," featuring Nancy Reagan and several entertainment and sports celebrities, will be broadcast on the Public Broadcasting System in two parts on November 2 and 9. Part 1 will present facts about substance use and abuse. Substances will be shown and their effects discussed. Part 2 will present communities with guidelines on forming grassroots task forces to prevent and fight school-age substance use and abuse.

"Drug abuse among young people is an enormous national problem, but many people refuse to accept the fact that it exists within their own communities and possibly within their own homes," states Leveridge. "The National PTA will activate its own nationwide network of parents, teachers, and students to tackle the problem of drug abuse at the local level. We are particularly concerned because children are getting involved with drugs earlier than ever," she says.

The coalition will continue to provide direction and assistance to local groups for a three to five year period. Programs, to be announced later, will focus on improving communication about drugs and alcohol between family members.

Superintendents To Get Briefing

Russell Below, assistant for curriculum development, Bureau of Instruction, will update area superintendents on accreditation when he addresses the Wednesday, April 13, 1983 meeting of the Eastern Kentucky Educational Development Corporation (EKEDC) Ashland.

Below will speak at 3:00 p.m., at McClure's Restaurant, Ashland, as part of the April 13-14 EKEDC Board meeting. A second session of the Board meeting will be held at 8:30 a.m., Thursday, April 14, also at McClure's Restaurant.

Coal Industry Says ICC Decision Unfair

The Interstate Commerce Commission has incurred the ire of the coal industry by its recent decision to permit railroads to raise their charges for hauling coal.

"The ICC," said Carl Bagge, coal's top lobbyist, "is a wholly owned subsidiary of the Association of American Railroads."

An ICC official dismissed that barb with another: "That's Carl Bagge being Carl Bagge." But to the electrical utilities and coal mines, it was no joke that the railroads could now double their coal-hauling rates in five years.

The general public knows little of the ICC's decisions, but—according to critics—they would:

—Cost Americans more than $4 billion by 1990.

—Cut U.S. coal exports by a fourth.

—Raise the costs of coal-fired electrical plants, meaning high electricity rates for homes, businesses and industries.

Aided by Kentucky's two senators, coal industry representatives are lobbying Capitol Hill to hold down railroad rates. Observers say it is one of coal's major legislative battles this year.

The debate concerns whether the ICC has misused deregulation to favor railroad monopolies over their customers, coal mines and utilities.

Most mines ship coal by rail to utilities for generating electricity. Of those mines, about 85 percent are served by only one rail line—or instance, Louisville & Nashville Railroad in southeast Kentucky.

To protect those "captive" mines, the ICC controlled rail rates for coal—until a month ago. Then it proposed to let railroads raise rates to captive mines by 15 percent a year, plus inflation. And a week later, it decided to let railroads charge whatever they wanted to haul coal to ports for exporting.

Critics said the decisions would hurt the people in the mines, and the folks at home.

The 15 percent decision may squeeze residents who pay for electric lights and heat, particularly if OPEC members cut oil production to bolster sagging prices.

"Bingo," a utility official said. "OPEC pulls the plug on oil, and the railroad ties us to the track."

Coal lobbyists said the ICC's decisions would cripple the industry at a time when a third of the miners are already out of work.

Defending the ICC's decisions, the railroads said they have charged low rates for years, that they need more money to survive, and that they won't set rates that gouge the mines—and cut their own traffic.

Though railroads would have the legal right to double rates in five years, "you would never see rates go that high," said Frank Wilner, director of issue development for the Association of American Railroads.

Bagge, president of the National Coal Association, replied: "That's the 'trust us' theory. Well, I don't trust them."

Tensions of this degree are recent. Until the early 1970s, utilities preferred to buy oil, which was cheaper and cleaner than coal. So the railroads had little coal to ship, and they kept rates low to increase business, said Leslie Selzer, ICC financial analyst.

In 1973, the Arabs shut off the oil spigot, and utilities scrambled for coal. Coal prices soared but rail rates "inched along," constrained by ICC regulations, Selzer said.

Meanwhile, the railroads said they were running out of financial steam, falling short of their capital needs by $4 billion a year.

In 1980, Congress passed the Staggers Act, which let railroads raise their freight rates, under ICC supervision. Coal interests backed the act, saying it freed the railroads while protecting captive mines.

But critics say the ICC has tipped the law in favor of the railroads.

Miss Carpenter is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Carpenter, of Lancer, and Mr. Hall is the son of Wanda and Gary Newsome, of Harold.

The custom of open church will be observed, and all friends and relatives are invited to attend.

Attendance Record Set
 At 1st Christian Church

First Christian Church rejoiced last Sunday because of the tremendous attendance they had. A goal of 75 for Sunday School and 100 for Morning Worship had been set for Easter Sunday, which was thought by many to be a high goal. But the Lord really showed that He is living within and among the Christian's at First Christian. A total of 127 attended Sunday School and 164 participated in the Morning Worship. Excitement filled the walls of the church building as they sang of the glorious resurrection of Jesus Christ. A special Thank You to all who attended. A special greeting awaits you as you enter and meet with others who love their Lord and want others to experience that love which unites all Christian's through His Spirit.

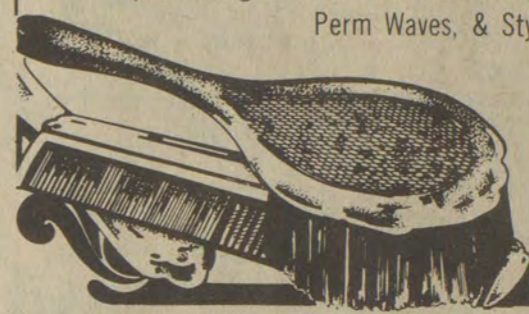

All of those at First Christian truly hope that all of you had a joyous and blessed Easter.

ESPN's College All-Americans

Ralph Sampson of Virginia and Michael Jordan of North Carolina are unanimous first-team selections to ESPN's first annual college basketball All-America teams, presented at the conclusion of the network's "greatest college basketball schedule ever"—164 games during the 1982-83 season.

Tennessee's Dale Ellis, North Carolina's Sam Perkins, Notre Dame's John Paxson and Georgetown's Patrick Ewing round out the first team.

The University of Kentucky did not place a player on either the first or second team or in the "honorable mention" list.

In addition to Ley and Vitale and the ESPN Sports Center staff, the voting panel included: NBA director of scouting Marty Blake; TV play-by-play announcer Jim Thacker; West Coast sportscaster Lynn Shackelford; analyst Bill Rafferty; The Sporting News associate editor Mike Douchant; Five-Star camp director Howie Garfinkel; and Chris Wallace, publisher of the Blue Ribbon College Basketball Yearbook.

The balloting was completed before the start of the NCAA tournament. Following are the complete teams:

First Team
Michael Jordan, North Carolina; Ralph Sampson, Virginia; Dale Ellis, Tennessee; Sam Perkins, North Carolina; John Paxson, Notre Dame; Pat Ewing, Georgetown.

New Tip Income Reporting

Because of many questions that have been raised about the tip income reporting rules of the Tax Equity and Fiscal Responsibility Act of 1982 (TEFRA), the Internal Revenue Service stresses that the allocation of tip income required by the Act is only for reporting purposes.

There has been no change in the law regarding the taxability of tips, nor in the requirement for employers to report their tips to their employees. The law does impose new employer reporting requirements regarding tip income. Included is the new requirement for employers to allocate to their employees the difference between 8 per cent of gross receipts and the total tips reported by the employees to their employer. In no instance does the law require withholding of tax on allocated tip income. Withholding of federal income tax and social security tax is required only on tips reported to the employer and on any base salary. This has been the law for a long time, and there has been no change in the withholding requirements.

IRS reviews in more detail the tip reporting requirements of TEFRA in an attempt to end some of the confusion surrounding this part of the new law, which became effective after December 31, 1982.

—Who Are Affected? The new tip reporting requirements apply to all food and beverage establishments which have more than 10 employees on a business day. This includes tipped and non-tipped personnel, and generally means 10 fulltime employees. However, the rules specify more than 80 employee-hours on a business day to include part-time help and fulltime help.

The regulations do provide a means for establishments with seasonal variations in employment hours to average the employee hours on typical days in the busiest and slowest months to determine if they meet the 80 employee-hour requirement.

All establishments of the same employer are combined for purposes of determining if the employer must comply with the reporting requirements.

—Requirements For The Employer: The first quarter of 1983 is a transitional quarter where no allocation of tip income is required by TEFRA. However, the employer must keep a separate record for this first quarter of gross receipts, charge receipts, charge tips, wages paid and tips reported by each employee. For the subsequent nine months of 1983, the employer must record total gross receipts, charge receipts, total charge tips, tips reported to the employer, names of employees to whom tip income was allocated and the amount of allocation for the year.

Both of these reports, one for the first quarter of 1983 and the second for the remaining nine months of 1983, will be submitted on Form 8027 and must be sent to the IRS by February 28, 1984. Form 8027 is a new form and will not be available until June, 1983.

In addition to this reporting requirement the employer must furnish, as usual, Forms W-2 to their employees by January 31. Form W-2 for 1983 will have a separate box for allocated tip income. There is no allocation of tip income in the first quarter, and there is no withholding on allocated tip income.

—How Will Allocation Of Tip Income Work? If employees, as a group, report total tips of at least 8 percent of gross receipts, no tip allocation is required. However, if reported tips are less than 8 per cent of gross receipts, the employer must allocate the difference between 8 per cent of gross receipts and the total reported tips as additional tip income to the employees.

The employees at an establishment must report their tips at least once a month. This is a requirement under present law, and an employer may require these reports more frequently. If the reported tips are less than 8 per cent of gross receipts, the employer will allocate the difference as extra tip

Regional Art Winner

Miss Keesha Dingus, senior at Allen Central High School, won first place in the recent KFWC Regional Art Show. Her drawing was selected out of entries from the Seventh district. She was awarded a blue ribbon and an engraved silver tray.

The exhibit was held at the Carriage House in Paintsville during the regional meeting of the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs. Her entry was sponsored by the Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club. The drawing was entered in competition by Mrs. Caralita O'Quinn, art instructor at Allen Central.

The winner is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lemayne Dingus, of Martin. Also entered in the show was a water color by Dan Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Budge Moore of Garrett, Kentucky and an acrylic painting by Robert Vance, son of Mrs. Margie Goodman of Eastern, Kentucky. Both students received certificates for being selected to represent their area club.

To Paint, Repair Bridges

The state Transportation Cabinet will repair and paint bridges in Floyd, Knott and Letcher counties this year. In Floyd county one bridge, the span over Right Beaver Creek on KY 7, just west of KY 80, will be repaired. Three bridges in Knott and Letcher counties will be painted. They are: Knott county—The bridge over Troublesome Creek on KY 80, Hindman-Lackey Road, in Hindman. Letcher county—The bridges on KY 7, Garner-Jeff Road, over Line Fork near the Perry county line and over North Fork of Kentucky River.

Overlays, a waterproof surfacing, will be applied to the decks of the bridges to protect them from weather and winter salt.

The bridge over Left Fork of Millstone Creek on KY 113, Millstone-Democrat road in Letcher county will be repaired. Repairs will be mainly overlays of waterproof surfacing to protect bridge decks from weather and winter salt.

Bids for the project will be accepted April 22.

Make Your Own Rainwear

You may be hanging up your wool coat or down jacket for the season, but you'll need to don the old raincoat soon to ward off April's showers.

If your raincoat hasn't weathered gracefully and you're looking for a replacement, why not try making your own? With a bit of special handling, an experienced home sewer can construct nylon coats, jackets, pants and ponchos, or even gear like backpacks and totes.

Nylon is one of the most popular outerwear fabrics because it is lightweight, strong and windproof. Besides keeping you dry, nylon rainwear packs easily and compactly.

Nylon is relatively inexpensive, and good-quality fabrics are available to the home sewer. Some are treated to be water repellent, and some fabric lines are even color-coordinated.

If you can sew, you can make a lightweight nylon raincoat of equal quality but at much less cost than its retail counterparts, some selling for as much as $120. A ready-made raincoat may have more detail in the style, but not more protection.

Nylon fabrics for rainwear come in different weights and constructions. All nylon is water repellent to some extent because of its low moisture absorbency. The tighter the fabric is woven, the more water repellent the fabric will be.

Manufacturers often apply finishes to nylon fabrics to increase water repellency. Water repellent finishes make fabrics resistant to wetting but do not alter the appearance or comfort of fabrics, while waterproof finishes seal fabrics so that water and air do not pass through.

With waterproof fabric, the wearer stays dry in rain, but since body moisture cannot evaporate, he or she may feel uncomfortable. There are new fabrics on the market which manufacturers claim are waterproof yet breathable, and these would be well-suited to outerwear for specialized activities like backpacking or mountain climbing when you can expect rain.

The home sewer would need a few special supplies for a nylon outerwear project. These include lightweight, non-woven interfacing; patterns marked suitable for firmly woven fabrics, such as nylon, and a ball-point needle sized according to how dense the fabric is.

Simple styles are best-suited to working with nylon. Make sure a pattern will fit before you sew. Needle holes may remain in nylon fabrics, so you should avoid ripping out and resewing.

Nylon fabrics also require a bit of special handling, such as pinning only in seam allowances, making durable seam finishes, careful topstitching and correct pressing.

And when your new rainwear is ready to wear, keep it clean because surface soil reduces the water repellency of the fabric. After washing or dry cleaning, renew water repellent finishes with specially-designed products available at department and sporting goods stores.

Cheese Supply Short for May

Kentucky will receive at least four kinds of government surplus foods to distribute to low-income people during May.

The Cabinet for Human Resources this week was notified that the U.S. Department of Agriculture will send limited quantities of rice, powdered milk, corn meal and butter to the state. The commodities will be distributed through area development districts following procedures used in the past to distribute processed cheese to the state's indigent population.

Ironically, Kentucky, which has distributed approximately 18 million pounds of commodity cheese during the last 16 months, has received no commitment that cheese will be included in the May shipments. John Cubine, commissioner for the Cabinet's Department for Social Insurance, said that the nation's demand for surplus cheese is exceeding the federal government's ability to process it.

"As needs grow, states are ordering more and more cheese from USDA," said Cubine. "There is plenty of cheese, but it is in raw form, and processing isn't keeping up with demand. USDA can't promise right now how much cheese will be processed by May."

PCC To Share Apr. 18 In Area Blood Program

Prestonsburg Community College will have a vital role to play on Monday, April 18. On that date, students and members of the faculty will have an opportunity to help save lives. It will be PCC's turn to help provide for blood needs in the area.

Blood drives, such as this one scheduled from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., in Room 216 in the Pike Building, are the major source of blood supplied to patients throughout the region serviced by the Central Kentucky Blood Center. The amount of blood on hand on any given day is directly linked to the number of donors who participate in these drives.

The most reliable blood donors today, nationwide, are college students.

Anyone the least bit interested is invited to attend. For more information, call Mazola Salmons at 886-3863, ext. 244.

UNITED MINE WORKERS OF AMERICA ENDORSE SENATOR BENNY RAY BAILEY

STATE SENATOR BENNY RAY BAILEY

"At our meeting on April 14 & 15...you were unanimously endorsed by the United Mine Workers of America...thank you for voting for our bill in the 1980 and 1982 Session and for your hard work against bills that would hurt our people."

Charlie Head, Staff Coordinator UMWA/COMPAC

Senator Benny Ray Bailey has always worked for the working people of Kentucky. In the 1980 and 1982 Session, Senator Bailey led the fight for legislation that had the support of the common, working people. The United Mine Workers know Benny Ray's record of working for them and all working people. That's why they voted to endorse Benny Ray for re-election to the Kentucky State Senate.

Benny Ray knows the needs of working people. He has spent his life here in East Kentucky and knows of the benefits that our working people have won by sticking together for their common good. "Every time the economy goes into recession, there is talk of asking our working people to voluntarily make concessions of the benefits they have earned. However, when the economy is good, there is no voluntary move to have Kentucky workers share in the good times. American people enjoy the highest standard of living in the world. This didn't just happen. Our ancestors worked long and hard to obtain a honest day's pay for an honest day's work for our people. It is important that we strive to protect the economic rights of our people for jobs at wages that allow them to participate fully in all that America has to offer." Benny Ray Bailey works for our people in the Kentucky State Senate. That's why we need to keep him on the job.

Kentucky Fishing Report

Frankfort, Ky., April 4—Continued cold, rainy and windy weather is holding water temperatures at most of Kentucky's large lakes below the 50 degree mark and is discouraging fishermen. The lake-by-lake rundown, as compiled by the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources:

Kentucky: Crappie slow around shoreline brush (around 18 inches deep); in tailwaters, catfish slow; murky, rising, 1½ feet above winter pool and 49 degrees.

Barkley: No activity; murky, rising, 1½ feet above winter pool and 49 degrees.

Barren: Black bass fair casting crank baits and spinner baits off points; white bass and crappie slow bank fishing in upper lake; clear to murky, rising slowly, five feet above winter pool and 47 degrees.

Nolin: No activity; clear, rising, nine feet above winter pool and 50 degrees.

Rough River: Crappie slow over submerged cover; murky to muddy, rising, 3½ feet above winter pool and 49 degrees.

County Volunteers Raise $82,000 For KET

More than $82,000 was raised in the Friends of KET County Call-Out this year volunteers from 70 counties in Kentucky.

The Call-Out was part of KET's Telefund '83, which raised a total of $369,027 to support KET evening and weekend programming.

Boyd and Greenup counties contributed the largest amount, under the leadership of County Coordinator Russ Powell, making them fourth time winners in KET's annual March campaign. However, Garrard county contributed more money per capita than any other county, under the direction of County Coordinator Dr. William Arvin.

The Greeks and Romans used butter largely as a medicine, preferring olive oil as a cooking fat.

CANCER Answerline

Q. Are all chemicals potentially cancer-causing agents?
 A. Probably not, for the term "all chemicals" includes everything from asbestos, which is a carcinogen (cancer-causing agent), to baking soda.

The National Toxicology Program carries on studies of the carcinogenicity of chemicals in our environment and in the workplace. Thus far, final reports have been issued on at least 200 chemicals, including pesticides, drugs, food additives, and natural substances. At the present time, 93 chemicals are on chronic test; that is, they are being tested every year. That total is expected to drop in the future.

Before a chemical is selected for study, scientists carefully weigh the extent to which people are exposed to it, determine the amounts produced and used, and evaluate any preliminary data about its toxicity (poisonous qualities).

Identifying the substances that cause or contribute to more than 100 different types of cancer in humans is complex. One of the problems is time. In some cases, 20, 30, or even 40 years may elapse between exposure to cancer-causing agent and the onset of the disease. After such a time lapse, it is difficult if not impossible to pinpoint the responsible chemical. Many scientists believe that it is the interaction of the agent with other substances that eventually results in the development of cancer.

The action of a carcinogen also may depend on a person's genetic makeup. For example, not all cigarette smokers develop cancer. Many do, but why some heavy smokers do not is still a mystery.

Another problem is that animal models or human cells in vitro (outside the body in an artificial setting such as a test tube) are used in determining whether a substance is carcinogenic. Then the results must be applied to what is known about humans. Other problems center on how large an exposure is necessary to cause cancer and how often a person must be exposed.

For your free copy of "Everything Doesn't Cause Cancer," call the Cancer Hopeline toll free at 1-800-432-9321, or write 915 South Limestone Street, Lexington, KY 40536.

Says Artichoke Farmers Are Due a Refund

A southwestern Minnesota firm which has been working its way through Kentucky selling Jerusalem artichoke seed tubers has been charged with deceptive practices, according to recent news reports.

Agriculture Commissioner Alben W. Barkley II has contacted Minnesota Attorney General Hubert Humphrey III, who brought the action against the firm, AEFS, Inc.

According to the agreement reached between AEFS and Minnesota authorities, Kentucky farmers who purchased the Jerusalem artichoke tubers before March 30 will receive notice that the company will refund their money if they so wish.

Barkley said farmers should review the notice carefully. "We have been monitoring this firm's actions very carefully, he said, "because we were concerned about whether the firm's practices constituted an illegal pyramid scheme."

Among charges brought against the firm were the following:

-The firm had a goal of growing 10 million acres of artichokes in five years, which is considered highly unlikely and unprecedented in agricultural history;

-The firm told growers that 2.5 million acres were being grown in France, when the actual acreage is 20,000; and

-It told growers they could make as much as $36,000 per acre on the crop, when actually the market may cease to exist.

Throughout this week, USA will carry exclusive coverage of the National Hockey League's Stanley Cup playoffs. For those who haven't kept up with the various contenders and who want to know who is favored and how the different teams stack up, USA will also be showing "The Championships: An Inside Look at the Stanley Cup, 1983" at various times throughout the week.

Utilizing a format similar to other programs that USA has produced about the Super Bowl, World Series and Kentucky Derby, the program uses extensive film footage to focus on this year's leading contenders and past champions. The show will be hosted by Gary Green and Al Trautwig, two of the network's regular NHL commentators, who, along with other experts will provide fans with an overview of hockey's premiere event.

MTV's interview series "Fast Forward" debuts Sunday, April 10 with a profile of rock star John Cougar. In addition to interviewing the artist, the program will also include considerable concert footage.

Among the more interesting segments of "Fast Forward" coming up in the near future will be interviews with Lou Reed, Lene Lovich and the English Beat. Reed, who recently released one of his best records, influenced many seminal punk and new wave bands, including the Modern Lovers, Television and Richard Hell and the Voidoids. Miss Lovich is manic and eccentric (at least on record) and the English Beat is just a great band.

Also on MTV, some recent video tapes to take note of include A Flock of Seagulls' "Wishing," Prince's "Little Red Corvette" and Michael Jackson's "Billie Jean."

A great week of movies on Spotlight: "Atlantic City" (April 12) — Louis Malle's ode to American sleaziness. Burt Lancaster does a great job as an aging, two-bit, numbers runner with delusions of past grandeur (like Atlantic City itself) who befriends some refugees from the 1960s (and Moose Jaw, Manitoba) as they try to swindle the mob with fatal results.

Malle seems to be saying that the old corruption and tackiness of Atlantic City is preferable to the new corruption and impersonal tastelessness of the casinos that are taking over the town.

"Mephisto" (April 12) — An outstanding German-Hungarian movie about a German actor who was on the left before Hitler came to power and who later became one of the Third Reich's most famous actors, selling out former friends, lovers and comrades in the process. Appropriately enough, the actor's most noted role was as Mephisto, the devil in Goethe's "Faust." The film is based on a novel by Klaus Mann, son of Nobel Prize-winner Thomas Mann.

"Gallipoli" (April 13) — A beautifully photographed Australian movie about Australians who served in the Allied assault on Turkey's Gallipoli Peninsula during World War II. More than 250,000 people died, many of them Australians and New Zealanders, in this futile attack that never got closer than half a mile from the shore.

ROCK ON

By Ethlie Ann Vare

TRIVIA QUIZ

The answers to the current Rock On trivia quiz are (drum roll, please):

1. The longest No. 1 song on the pop charts was "American Pie" by Don McLean (8:22). The shortest No. 1 song was "Stay" by Maurice Williams and the Zodiacs (.89).
2. The Glimmer Twins is the monicker of Mick Jagger and Keith Richards in their guise as record producers. James Osterburg is the given name of Iggy Pop aka Iggy Stouge. Reginald Dwight is Elton John.

Reggie Dwight

ly referred to as a British New Wave band, the Call is actually from Santa Cruz, Calif. They actually resemble the American Talking Heads more than any English band.

"Modern Romans," their second LP, is not an easy or immediately likeable record, but there are rewards waiting for the listener willing to sit through it two or three times.

U2 — "War" (Island) — Certainly the best work yet by these young Northern Irishmen, "War" is likely to bring them an international following. Complex, dense and using intense musicianship to deal with important themes, the record is a maelstrom of sound and fury. Especially recommended are "New Year's Day," the single, and "Sunday Bloody Sunday." Incidentally, the child on the cover is the same wait who appeared, somewhat younger, on the inner sleeve of U2's "Boy" album.

UPDATE

Aspiring rockers have an opportunity to appear in an MTV talent search. "The MTV Basement Tapes" features video clips of unsigned bands and the winner of a popular vote gets an EMI recording contract. For your shot at stardom, send a three-quarter-inch videocassette of a performance to MTV Basement Tapes, 1133 Avenue of the Americas, New York, N.Y. 10036.

Crumbling Himalayas Documented On 'Nova'

The highest peaks in the world, the Himalayas, are crumbling. People are making them crumble, and people are the victims, as NOVA reveals in "The Fragile Mountain," a documentary by Sandra Nichols airing Tuesday, April 19, at 8 p.m. on KET.

In this human disaster program, NOVA introduces you to the hard-working people who live on the unstable slopes of Nepal. Because the people are burning the trees for fuel and their livestock are over-grazing the grass, the land, without roots of trees and grass to hold it together, washes away with monsoon rains.

If people create the problem, people can solve it. NOVA finds some rays of hope, but these signs are regrettably rare. Will enough villagers ever get themselves organized in time to protect their fragile mountainsides? NOVA tries to show some insight to the problems of these people with possible solutions to the growing deterioration.

NOVA is a production of WGBH, Boston.

Scotland Yard Cracks Down On Crime in London District

LONDON—A police task force has arrested about 500 people in the city's King Cross quarter and closed down two brothels in recent weeks in a major operation to clean up a new redlight district, Scotland Yard reported yesterday.

Area Lake Levels Rising

The spring refilling of Dewey Lake and other federally-operated reservoirs in the Big Sandy and Little Sandy river basins of eastern Kentucky and western Virginia has been started by the Army Corps of Engineers' Huntington District.

Dewey, Grayson, Fishtrap, John W. Flannagan and North Fork of Pound are lowered in the fall of each year to provide increased storage space during the normal flood season. All five lakes are being raised to their established summer levels as soon as possible, depending on hydrologic conditions.

New Entrance Planned At Peabody's Union Mine

HENDERSON, Ky.—A new entrance planned for Peabody Coal Co.'s Camp No. 2 mine in Union County will reduce the distance miners travel to their work area, a spokeswoman said.

Spokeswoman Helene Hennelly said the entrance will be built just across the Webster County line from the southwest corner of Henderson County. Construction will begin this summer, she said, after Peabody obtains permits and approvals on the land agreement and gets the land rezoned.

No laid-off workers will be recalled as a result of the construction, she said.

Dewey Lake is being raised five feet to elevation 650.

Grayson Lake, on the Little Sandy River south of Grayson, is being raised eight feet to elevation 645 feet.

The other four lakes are in the Levisa Fork subbasin of the Big Sandy River Basin.

Fishtrap Lake, on Levisa Fork south-east of Pikeville, will rise 32 feet to elevation 757.

John W. Flannagan Lake, on Pound River, near Haysi, Va., is being raised 16 feet to elevation 1396.

North Fork of Pound Lake, near Pound, Va., is being brought up 9.4 feet to elevation 1611.

The lakes are subject to flood control operation at any time.

Sponsored by Martin AmVets Auxiliary, Post 27, the hunt was attended by approximately 200 youngsters.

Giant Devilfish Is Said Peaceful

When it bellyflops into the sea, it sounds like a cannon. It has two "horns" on its head, and a wing-spread of 20 feet.

Despite its nickname as the "devilfish," the manta ray is actually a gentle, peaceful fish and has never been known to attack humans, according to this month's issue of Ranger Rick, the children's publication of the National Wildlife Federation.

The manta ray cruises just beneath the ocean surface, feeding on baby shrimp, small fish and other small sea creatures. It uses its horns, which are actually soft flaps of flesh, to push food into its mouth.

Closely related to the shark, the manta ray and its many cousins are diverse in size, shape and habit.

Although mantas usually swim alone or in pairs, eagle rays often travel in large groups, looking like a flock of strange birds with seven-foot wing spans.

Eating almost anything that swim alone or in pairs, eagle rays often travel in large groups, looking like a flock of strange birds with seven-foot wing spans.

Even less friendly cousins to the manta and eagle rays are the stingray and electric ray. More swimmers and divers are hurt by stingrays than by all other fish combined, including sharks.

A stingray, no matter the size, doesn't look for trouble. But when it is stepped on or bothered in any way, the stingray will lash out with its long tail, injecting a powerful poison that can make a person sicken or even die.

In the daytime, a stingray hides on the ocean bottom under a layer of sand. It covers itself by flapping its "wings" to raise a cloud that settles over its body, covering all but its eyes, breathing holes and stinging tail. Even the brightly colored blue-spotted stingray hides successfully in this fashion.

Electric rays, unlike stingrays, use their weapon to catch food. An electric ray has special muscles that can give off shocks of up to 200 volts, almost twice the power of household current, to stun its victims for easy eating.

All kinds of rays give birth to their young, but a cousin to the ray, the skate, lays eggs. Prongs on these eggs help hold them to seaweed or the sandy ocean bottom while the skates inside grow up.

When fully grown, the skates have no eyelids, but use the thin flap of skin as a built-in sunshade. When the sun is bright, this skin spreads over the skate's eyes, and when the light is dim, it shrinks to allow the skate better vision.

Physics Program Aids Science, Math Teachers

High school science and math teachers now can become certified in one summer to teach physics through a new program at Morehead State University.

"This program was created in response to the shortage of science teachers in the state," said Dr. John Phillely, head of MSU's Department of Physical Sciences. "The shortage is greatest in physics and we are addressing this area first."

Eligibility requirements for the program include current certification to teach biology, chemistry, earth science or math, and an introductory two-semester physics course.

During MSU's two summer sessions this year, students will enroll in four physics classes and two laboratories for a total of 15 semester hours of credit. This, in addition to the introductory physics courses, will meet the requirements for a minor.

Currently, there are few students graduating with physics majors and most of them are finding jobs in industry or going on to graduate school, according to Dr. Phillely.

As an incentive to encourage graduates to teach, loans are available from the Kentucky Department of Education. For each year the graduate teaches physics in a Kentucky high school, one year of the loan is forgiven.

"We are considering a similar program in chemistry for the summer of 1984," said Dr. Phillely. "In part, it will depend on the success of the physics program this year."

The deadline for applying for the summer program in physics is May 1. Additional information is available from Dr. John Phillely, Department of Physical Sciences, MSU, UPO Box 845, Morehead, Ky. 40351.

'Freedom To Speak' Airs History-Makers' Views

"Freedom To Speak," a new public television series dramatizing the widely differing views held by famous Americans which helped shape our history, will premiere on KET Thursday, April 21, at 8:30 p.m. William F. Buckley, Jr., is host and commentator for the 12-part series of half-hour programs.

Based on a book by the late Rollin G. Osterweis, the "Freedom To Speak" topics are as relevant to the 80's as they were when they first surfaced in the country's national life—topics that deal with such concerns as morality and reform, government and the abuse of power, the rights of native Americans, blacks, women, and the United States at war.

Deeply-felt convictions are expressed in the ringing words of Thomas Jefferson, John Kennedy, Patrick Henry, Clarence Darrow, Susan B. Anthony, Martin Luther King, Jr., H.L. Mencken, Barbara Jordan and Eleanor Roosevelt, among many others. A distinguished company of American actors will portray these outspoken leaders, among them Mason Adams, Elizabeth Ashley, Orson Bean, Edward Herrmann, John Houseman, Ken Howard, James Earl Jones, Laurence Luckinbill, Nancy Marchand, Claude Marcus, Leslie Uggams, Sam Waterston and Anthony Zerbe.

The first program in the series, "The American Dream," provides an overview of what some of America's greatest thinkers have believed about the promise of this nation. "I have a dream," said Martin Luther King, Jr., "that one day this nation will rise up and live out the true meaning of its creed...that all men are created equal." But William Lloyd Garrison was ashamed of his country's "unmeaning declaration in praise of liberty and equality" and "hypocritical cant about the unalienable rights of man." Woodrom Wilson dubbed America "the only idealistic nation in the world," but to former slave Frederick Douglass the Independence Day celebration on July 4 was a mockery.

"Are the great principles of political freedom and natural justice extended to us?" Douglass asked. Dorothy Thompson affirmed "our spontaneous reaction to all assaults against human rights...to all crimes against human freedom..."

Appearing in the cast are James Earl Jones as Martin Luther King, Jr. and Frederick Douglass; John Rubinstein as William Lloyd Garrison, and Nancy Marchand as Dorothy Thompson.

"Freedom To Speak" is produced by WQED/Pittsburgh.

JENNY WILEY TOYOTA WANTS TO SHARE THE GOOD NEWS...
4x4 CAR OF THE YEAR!
CONGRATULATIONS TOYOTA!

The winner of Off-Road's first ever "4x4 Car of the Year" is, drum roll, fanfare... Toyota's Tercel station wagon. Though not unique in concept, Subaru, AMC, and Audi beat 'em to the punch, Toyota was able to gather all the valuable experience from the experiences of these makers, and produce a product that, to our eyes looks right, and to our hands, feels exceptional.

What is unique about the Tercel is the freshness and creativity that Toyota has utilized creating its new 4x4. The parts are mostly from the Toyota parts bin, but arranged in a sparkling way. The engine is shared with the Tercel 2WD sedans, and is a smooth, if not overwhelmingly powerful powerplant. The gearbox is a Tercel five-speed unit with an extra-low first gear grafted on. This new six-speed box is smooth and positive in operation, and the extra-low gear does the job when called on.

Handling is an area where the Tercel 4x4 really shines. The suspension (MacPherson coil struts in front, 4-link with lateral track rod, coil springs, and stabilizer bar, rear) is supple, with lots of travel, and though the vehicle leans moderately in hard corners, it feels stable and secure once the groove is set. The Tercel was second only to the Eagle in highway ride comfort.

Inside, the creative approach continues with a rear seat pitched higher than the front buckets to allow rear passengers a better view of the oncoming terrain. The instrument panel is an ergonomic delight, with all controls falling nicely to hand. Fit and finish, inside as well as outside, was beyond reproach and up to the usual Toyota standards, which we've now come to expect.

Taken as an entire package, the Tercel feels as if it was hewn from a single piece of material, giving an admittedly subjective and almost undefinable "just right" feel. The Toyota has set the pace that newcomers to the 4WD "car" market will now have to match, and we feel that it may not be achieved as easily as it sounds.

Kentucky Power Asks $33 Million Increase

Kentucky Power Company filed last Friday with the Kentucky Public Service Commission a request for an increase in its retail electric rates of approximately $33-million.

The increase amounts to about 18-1/2%. It is anticipated that rates would not increase before late September.

The filing was the first for the company since December 29, 1981, a portion of which was granted the company last June.

Power residential customer is paying considerably less for electricity than the national average. For 1982, the average cost per kilowatt-hour for a Kentucky Power residential customer was 4.16 cents. Nationally, the average for 1982 was 6.70 cents.

"The effect of the proposed increase on our average residential customer who uses 1,018 kilowatt-hours per month would be an increase of $9.41 per month," Matthews said.

Robert E. Matthews, president of Kentucky Power, said that a main reason for the requested increase is to provide funds to support a construction program which includes needed generation, transmission and distribution facilities. He said that the increase also was necessary "to meet increasing costs of operations and to allow the company an opportunity to realize a reasonable return on its investment, to be able to meet its long and short term borrowing commitments, and to be able to attract needed additional capital for projects to meet customer demand for electricity. An increase in rates, we trust would also improve our credit ratings, which were recently downgraded."

Matthews said Kentucky Power in late 1982 implemented a major cost reduction program which includes such measures as salary and hiring freezes, reduced maintenance work, and other stringent measures to control costs that are within the company's control. "But, despite this program and previous cost-cutting efforts, our overall costs to provide service have continued to increase."

He said that the average Kentucky

Documentary Examines 'Love Canal' Emergency

"In Our Backyard," a documentary on the first environmental emergency of its kind, Love Canal in Niagara Falls, N.Y., will air on KET Wednesday, April 20, at 10 p.m. The film, a blue ribbon winner at the 1982 American Film Festival, examines the way government officials defined their role in the wake of this disaster, and shows how residents formed their own views and developed strategies, including public protest and use of the media to influence government's response.

"In Our Own Backyard" focuses on the more than 700 families threatened by toxic chemicals dumped into the Love Canal. The residents wanted to be moved at government expense. The program chronicles events that followed from 1978 through 1980. It combines footage of public events and interviews with the participants in those events—citizens of Love Canal, legal and scientific advisors and government officials.

The documentary was produced, directed and edited by Lynn Corcoran, and is a production of the Buffalo Documentary Group.

Prune, Don't Top, Your Trees

Ask an arborist or a landscape specialist the most common mistake made in maintaining property. Chances are the answer will be "Topping trees."

This method of controlling tree growth, also called heading, dehorning, stubbing or lopping in older trees, is not a recommended practice, according to Dr. Winston Dunwell, University of Kentucky College of Agriculture horticulturist located at the Research and Education Center in Princeton.

"Topping destroys a tree's appearance by eliminating its natural form," said the Extension specialist. "During the winter, these topped trees take on a very unnatural appearance, looking more dead than alive. And in the summer, the small tree heads on massive trunks look strange."

Aside from the appearance problem, the horticulturist points out that topped trees have a much higher risk of wind and ice damage than do trees in their natural state.

"This is because the regrowth on a topped tree doesn't develop the strong, continuous wood that normal branches do. Regrowth develops from the outer layers of the tree and is very weak," said Dunwell. He added that many times, the stubs do not develop any regrowth and die.

"This leaves a dead snag in the tree that could fall, and is, therefore, a hazard," he noted.

Dunwell says that the large cuts associated with topping rarely heal properly. Often, decay and insects enter the tree where these cuts are made and can result in death of the tree, a hollow tree or a less vigorous tree that will be slow to recover from the severe cuts.

"If none of these other problems occur and we look at topping from a purely logical point of view, it becomes apparent that we are damaging our trees by removing leaf area," said Dunwell. He explained that leaves are required to provide food for the tree, "and if reduce the leaf area by 100 percent, we can't expect that tree to make a healthy recovery when most of its energy must be used to replace the lost leaf area."

Dunwell said only the most vigorous trees survive topping, while some die soon after topping and some have their useful life severely reduced.

Isn't there ever a need to reduce tree height? That answer, of course, is yes. "A tree sometimes becomes too large and gets in utility lines, blocks views or grows into buildings," said Dunwell. Some trees also become hazardous because of unhealthy conditions.

In these cases, the horticulturist recommends that thinning-out pruning cuts be made to reduce tree height. "Thinning out can reduce the height and spread of a tree while retaining its shape," he explained. Branches are pruned back to lower laterals that are at least one-third the size (diameter-wise) of the portion removed.

"Size can be maintained most effectively if you prune as a plant begins to reach maximum acceptable size," notes the Extension specialist. "If you delay pruning until the tree is much larger than wanted, pruning will be more difficult, cuts will be harder to hide and slower to callus and renewed growth will be encouraged."

Growth also may be slowed without greatly affecting tree appearance by stopping or reducing nitrogen fertilization and irrigation.

Dunwell says if a tree must be continually topped to keep it out of lines, the most sensible alternative is to remove the tree and plant one elsewhere or plant a smaller tree in the same location.

"We don't expect everybody to get out there and do their own pruning," said Dunwell. "But we would like for people to be informed and know about alternatives to topping."

Additional information on tree care and pruning is available at county Extension offices.

Kindergarten Teacher Attends D.C. Workshop

Barbara Houghton, kindergarten teacher at Prestonsburg Christian Academy, returned last week from a trip to Washington, D.C. There she attended a teachers' workshop where teaching methods, discipline techniques, and new materials were discussed and demonstrated.

"Teaching workshops are often dull, but I really enjoyed this one," she said. They emphasized the principles of Christian education and a back-to-basics approach to reading and math. One really impressive demonstration showed 5th and 6th graders doing long math problems in their heads. Those of us in the audience were trying to keep up, but the kids beat us every time!"

Foreigners Reminded Of Agricultural Land Reporting Requirement

The Agricultural Foreign Investment Disclosure Act of 1978 requires all foreign owners of U.S. agricultural land to report their holdings, acquisitions, dispositions, leases and land use changes to the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

"This reporting requirement is still in effect," Sharon Conley, county executive director, said, "and foreigners who have bought or sold agricultural land in Floyd county are reminded to report the transactions to our office within 90 days."

For reporting purposes, agricultural land is defined as any tract of more than one acre now in agricultural, forestry, or timber production. This includes land in agricultural use when purchased as well as land later converted to agricultural use. Interest means any right, title, or legal share of ownership in agricultural land, such as partnership, trusts, estates, or shares in a corporation that owns agricultural land.

Man-Made Light, Bane of Astronomers

By DANIEL K. BROCIOSUS
Smithsonian News Service

MOUNT HOPKINS, Ariz.—As night falls on this Arizona mountaintop, astronomers using the Multiple Mirror Telescope prepare to look far out into the universe. But as the last light of day fades, the glow of man-made light from nearby communities threatens to overwhelm the faint starlight reaching the world's third-largest telescope.

Astronomy thrives in the dark. Indeed, observatory sites are selected in large measure for dark skies. But increasingly, light pollution from surrounding communities has made the astronomer's job harder.

The Multiple Mirror Telescope Observatory, a joint research facility of the Smithsonian Institution and the University of Arizona, and the Smithsonian's Fred Lawrence Whipple Observatory—both located on Mount Hopkins in the Santa Rita Mountains 40 miles south of Tucson—are two of several observatories competing with the city lights of rapidly growing southern Arizona.

The astronomers' bane comes mainly from street lights and illumination from advertising signs, shopping centers and sports fields. Most of this light escapes upward into the night sky and out into space. However, a tiny fraction is bounced back by the Earth's atmosphere, and this light contaminates the natural light from celestial objects.

"Light pollution has definitely become worse in the Santa Cruz Valley (between Tucson and Mexico) since I began observing here in 1967," Dr. Trevor C. Weekes, a Smithsonian astrophysicist, says.

Adds Whipple director Dr. Frederic H. Chaffee, "With growing frequency, we can't observe faint objects if they are located in the sky above Tucson."

The Whipple and MMT Observatories are not alone in trying to take advantage of the dark, dry skies of southern Arizona. Kitt Peak National Observatory (KPNO)—the world's largest—the University of Arizona's Steward Observatory and others give the sprawling Tucson area the distinction of having the greatest concentration of telescopes in the world.

At these observatories, sophisticated, computer-controlled instruments with new ultrasensitive electronic light detectors can study stars one million times fainter than the human eye can see. Much of the research conducted with these telescopes focuses on the faintest and most distant celestial objects—quasars and galaxies so distant that the light we see today left those objects millions and even billion of years ago. By studying this ancient light, scientists are beginning to unravel the birth, formation and evolution of our universe.

Of course, not all U.S. observatories search for very faint and distant stars and galaxies from mountaintops in the Southwest. Some urban facilities—for example, the Allegheny Observatory in Pittsburgh and the Sproul Observatory at Swarthmore, Pa.—make significant contributions to stellar astronomy because they are observing brighter stars, visible despite city lights. The Smithsonian's Oak Ridge Observatory in Harvard, Mass., and the U.S. Naval Observatory in the heart of Washington, D.C., are among other urban facilities carrying out important, long-term astronomical research programs.

On the other hand, in 1979 Case Western Reserve moved a telescope because of light pollution from the Cleveland area to a more favorable site at the Case Western Reserve Warner & Swasey Observatory on Kitt Peak.

Light pollution is not limited to the United States. The night lights of an open-pit copper mine near Kitt Peak's sister observatory, Cerro Tololo in Chile, pose a hazard to that South American observatory's front-line research.

In recognition of southern Arizona's unique research environment, and urged on by astronomers, the city of Tucson and surrounding Pima County passed two of the world's first lighting-control regulations for the benefit of observatories in 1972. The ordinances were revised in 1981 to reflect changes in lighting technology and advances in astronomy that have made astronomical instruments even more sensitive to light pollution.

Before such light-control ordinances, astronomers had to use their ingenuity to deal with the problems. A greyhound racing track in the Santa Cruz Valley below Whipple Observatory created an especially annoying light source. Astronomers on Mount Hopkins knew exactly when each race started because their instruments would register a surge of energy when the bright infield lights were switched on to mark the beginning of each race.

After some discussion with the track management, a compromise was reached: The track owners bought lamp shields that reflected the light downward—and the Smithsonian staff helped with the installation. Now the astronomers are able to work during the races and track patrons are happier, too, since the light previously wasted upward is directed down on the track, improving the viewing where the action is.

Despite popular belief, light control ordinances do not necessarily mean "turn out that light!" An ordinance could lead to the use of shields like those installed voluntarily at the greyhound track or to regulations favoring low-pressure sodium lamps rather than traditional, glaring blue-white mercury-vapor street lights.

Mercury-vapor lamps produce five or six colors of light spread across the electromagnetic spectrum—the range of radiation, or "light," given off by celestial bodies—and these emissions blot out portions of the starlight under study. For example, much of the "light" produced by mercury lamps is in the invisible ultraviolet band and is thus useless for illumination. But this waste ultraviolet radiation severely handicaps astronomers trying to make starlight measurements in that region of the spectrum.

Sodium-vapor lamps, in contrast, produce only one or two colors of light affecting a much smaller part of the spectrum. Most astronomers are willing to sacrifice this small part of the spectrum to preserve the remainder.

Astronomers like to point out that low-pressure sodium lights are more energy-efficient than mercury lamps. After a long campaign, scientists at Lick Observatory convinced the nearby city of San Jose, Calif., to replace its mercury-vapor streetlights with sodium lamps. Now, as the project nears completion, San Jose is saving more than $1.8 million dollars a year on the municipal utility bill.

Not all such stories have a happy ending. When Mount Wilson Observatory was established outside Pasadena, Calif., at the turn of the century, the small town of Los Angeles produced little light. With the installation of the 100-inch Hooker reflector in 1918, Mount Wilson had the world's largest telescope for more than a generation. Using the 100-inch telescope, astronomers made many important discoveries that literally revolutionized our thinking about the size of our galaxy and the universe.

By the 1940s, light pollution around Los Angeles was already significantly affecting Mount Wilson's astronomical research. In 1942, however, astronomer Walter Baade was able to take advantage of the dark skies resulting from the wartime blackout; his studies of the Andromeda galaxy resulted in a threefold increase in the scale of the universe.

But L.A.'s light and air pollution have taken their toll. "Little extragalactic astronomy is done today at Mount Wilson," Smithsonian

Stumbo, Sloane, Collins, Agree to Forum on KET

The Sloane, Collins and Stumbo campaigns have agreed on details of a live, 90-minute candidates' forum to be carried May 12 by Kentucky Educational Television.

The forum will be the only televised meeting between Louisville Mayor Harvey Sloane, Lt. Gov. Martha Layne Collins and former Human Resources Secretary Grady Stumbo before the May 24 Democratic primary for governor.

KET will make the forum, scheduled for 7:30 p.m. EDT, available to any commercial radio or television station that wants to broadcast it.

The program is one of 10 planned by KET in its "Campaign '83—The Primary" series that will run May 3-19.

Details of the other programs, one of which will feature the major Republican candidates for governor, will be released later, KET producer Donna Moore said.

Ms. Moore said KET had tentatively scheduled the Democratic candidates' forum for May 5, two days before the Kentucky Derby. The date was changed, she said, to avoid conflicts with the candidates' Derby Week obligations and to keep Derby Week events from cutting into KET's audience.

The Democratic candidates will meet before the cameras in KET's Lexington studio, answering questions from three reporters.

Under rules adopted by KET officials and representatives of the three campaigns, each candidate will be allowed two minutes for opening and closing statements.

There will be four rounds of questions by the reporters, with each posing a question to a different candidate in each round. The candidates will have two minutes each for rebuttal.

Candidates will not be permitted to use notes or props in answering the questions.

The three candidates informally agreed last month to participate in the forum.

Newspaper publisher Al Smith, of London, moderator of KET's Comment on Kentucky program, will moderate the program. The reporters will be chosen later.

Vietnam War Play Encores On KET

Tom Cole's critically acclaimed stage play, "Medal of Honor Rag," encores Tuesday, April 19, at 9 p.m.

The 90-minute teleplay, part of the "American Playhouse" series, stars Hector Elizondo and Damien Leake in an emotionally charged story of a Vietnam War hero with problems adjusting to civilian life. The play was based on a 1971 incident in which a black Vietnam veteran, winner of the Congressional Medal of Honor, was shot and killed while holding up a supermarket in his native Detroit.

"Medal of Honor Rag" is an exploration of "survival guilt," a state of anxiety or helplessness that overcomes people when disaster strikes those closest to them, yet leaves them apparently unscathed.

The play's setting is a psychiatric ward in an army hospital where sharp confrontation between a black soldier (Damien Leake) and a psychiatrist (Hector Elizondo) takes place. While trying to uncover the source of the soldier's deep-seated problem, the two men come to the realization that the soldier's Medal of Honor is a sort of ironic albatross for him. It honors him for behaviour he was raised to deplore and constantly reminds him that only inexplicable chance saved him from the bloody fate of his fellow soldiers.

KET Presents Big Band Sound

Vocalist, song-writer and arranger Lorraine Feather heads the "Full Swing" trio vocalists for "Full Swing," on "Soundstage," airing on Saturday, April 23, at 11 p.m. on KET.

Backed by a 13-piece horn section and an array of electronic instruments, "Full Swing" combines the boogie-woogie sound of the 30's and 40's years ago and translate them into contemporary terms." Charlotte Crossley, a former back-up singer with Bette Midler, and Steve March, son of Mel Torme, complete the trio. Highlights of the show include professional dancers and an art deco stage modeled after the nightclubs of the Big Band Era.

"Soundstage" is a production of WTTW, Chicago.

Man-Made Light . . .

astronomer Sallie L. Baliunas says. "The lights of L.A. have definitely affected the type of science we can do."

In an attempt to maintain Arizona as one of the last astronomy preserves in North America, the state's observatories, including Lowell Observatory in Flagstaff, have banded together to work for light control measures statewide. Led by KPNO engineer William T. Robinson Sr., the astronomy lobby has succeeded in obtaining light control ordinances in all of southeastern Arizona. "Not only does this help the existing observatories," Robinson says, "it also protects potential telescope sites like Mount Graham, northeast of Tucson, which is being surveyed as a possible site for a very large optical telescope."

Pushing north toward Phoenix, one of the largest U.S. metropolitan areas, the astronomy lobby hopes to convince the municipal and county authorities there to enact lighting control measures. "Even though Phoenix is more than 100 miles away from Kitt Peak," KPNO astronomer David Crawford notes, "its sky glow at night is visible to the naked eye."

At stake in all these light-pollution-control efforts, astronomers say, is nothing less than the future of world-class, ground-based astronomy.

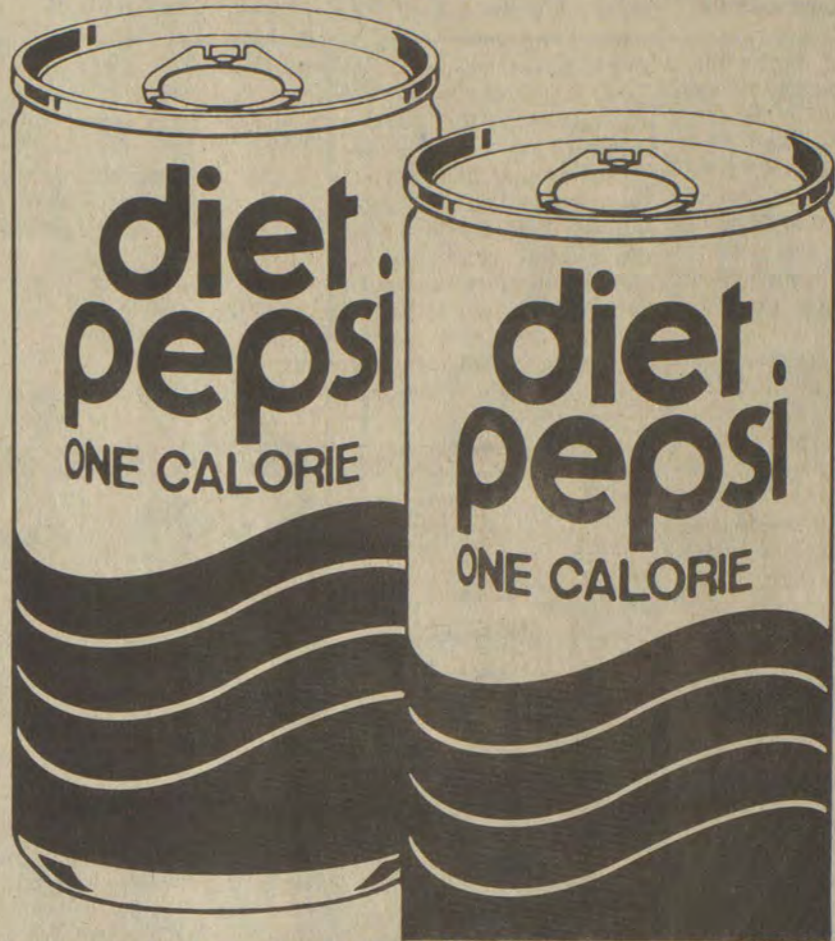

"If man-made light doubles," Smithsonian astronomer David W. Latham says, "it will impair the effectiveness of the big telescopes to the point where we would have to look at a faint galaxy four times longer—or make the telescopes twice as large—to make the same observations as we do now." Not only would this be technologically difficult, but the costs of observing would become astronomical, literally. "The dark night skies of Arizona," Latham concludes, "are worth preserving."

Coal Co. Gift Upgrades College Computer Course

Through a recent donation by United Coal Company, Pikeville College will be able to expand its data processing programs now offered. An IBM System 3 computer, used at United Coal Company's Corporate Office in Bristol, Va., was donated to the college's data processing lab.

The Pikeville College lab program provides a two- and four-year degree program in data processing and a four-year program in computer science. The classes prepare students with job skills in data processing management, as systems analysts or programmers. With the modification of the system, through United's donation, the computers will be capable of expanding more computer languages to the new system.

MSU Workshop To Offer Answers on Development

How can your community attract new industries, businesses, or increase overall economic vitality?

A regional development workshop entitled "Community Revitalization: Efforts Toward Increasing Economic Strength" will discuss these questions at Morehead State University on Wednesday, April 13.

Practitioners in community development, as well as authorities on technical and financial resources will be available for your questions.

The morning program, focusing on community revitalization, will be headed by David Morgan, director, Kentucky Main Street Revitalization Program; Eugene Doren, director, Winchester Main Street Program; Richard Armstrong, director, Mayfield Community Development Program; Douglas A. Loesch, director, Maysville Main Street Program; and Wilburn Pratt, Kentucky assistant superintendent of vocational education.

Keynote speaker for the luncheon will be Gene Hooper, president of the Bank of Putnam county, Cookeville, Tenn.

Discussions focusing on technical and financial resources during the afternoon will be led by David Bratcher, Kentucky Department of Economic Development; Larry Gordon, U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development; Jack Scott, Sr., U.S. Small Business Administration; and Terry Walker, Commonwealth Development Corporation.

All sessions are scheduled in the Ardor Doran University Center from 9 a.m. until 3:30 p.m. and are open to the public.

A registration fee of $10 per person covers sessions, lunch and refreshments.

The program is sponsored by MSU's Appalachian Development Center, U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, U.S. Small Business Administration, and the Gateway, FIVCO and Buffalo Trace Area Development Districts.

Impaired Health Is Subject of Special

We take for granted the freedom afforded the human body; walking stridently without care. But what happens when it becomes unresponsive to the desires of the mind and transforms itself into a shell? "American Playhouse" probes this question with the presentation of "Wings," Tuesday, April 26 at 9 p.m. on KET.

The fictional drama is based on the true story of a woman aviator. In this presentation the character, Emily Stilson, is a daredevil pilot who also is a "wing-walker," spellbinding crowds with different antics.

Suddenly Stilson suffers a stroke leaving her with impaired speech (aphasia) and motor control. She meets a former aphasic therapist who understands the condition and together they begin the long road to recovery. "Wings" examines a debilitating illness from a patient's perspective; the once free-spirited Stilson who's continually frustrated in the beginning stages of her affliction.

"Wings" is produced for "American Playhouse" by KCET/Los Angeles.

The National Association for Hearing and Speech Action (NAHSA) maintains a toll free hot line with information about specific services available for aphasia and stroke victims. Hours of operation are 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Callers will receive a brochure describing stroke and aphasia, as well as a personally geared list of services available in Kentucky.

The number to call is 800-638-8255.

Customers Must Be Told Sulphites Used on Foods

Effective immediately, all Kentucky retail food establishments using sulfites on their foods must advise customers of that fact. The state Cabinet for Human Resources is requiring consumer notification because recent medical findings link sulfiting agents to severe illness in people sensitive to the chemicals.

Sulfiting agents, sometimes called "vegetable fresheners" or "potato whiteners," are used primarily to maintain the fresh appearance of raw foods. Human Resources began notifying food service establishments, retail food markets and food vending machine companies this week by memorandum that such chemicals may be used only if consumers are informed by means of a "conspicuous, easily readable label, sign, placard or menu statement." Those who use the chemical without notice to customers will be considered in violation of state regulation, the memo says.

According to Irving Bell, director of the cabinet's Division of Consumer Health Protection, the state's action follows a recommendation recently issued by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration.

"The FDA has reported that some people sensitive to sulfiting agents, primarily people with asthma, have suffered life-threatening respiratory distress, shock and even coma after eating food treated with sulfites," said Bell. "If people sensitive to sulfites know that foods have been treated with these agents, they can avoid eating them."

Under the new interpretation of state regulations, sulfite-treated foods will be considered safe only if consumers have been informed that such treatments have been used. Bell said local health department inspectors will begin checking immediately, during regular inspections of retail food establishments, to determine compliance with the notification requirement.

Bell said the use of sulfites in meats has been banned in Kentucky since the 1960s because the chemical camouflages meat spoilage and alters the vitamin B content.

Pharmacy Footnotes
 By HAROLD COOLEY

When your doctor prescribes medication, ask him to prescribe generically whenever possible. Your pharmacist can then often suggest the less expensive, generic version. Some drugs are patented and are only available under a single brand name. However, when the patent runs out, other companies may offer less expensive versions. The active ingredients are the same but some added "fillers" may be different which can affect the drug's absorption by the body. Your pharmacist can check the F.D.A.'s Therapeutic Equivalent list to see if the generic version is the equal of the original drug. He can also indicate whether the savings is substantial enough to warrant a generic selection.

At COOLEY APOTHECARY, INC., we welcome any and all questions about the medication that you may be taking. If we can be of help in any way, please don't hesitate to ask us, after all, it's one of the reasons we're here. We're happy to discuss the pros and cons of Generic versus brand drugs available, as they relate to your particular needs. We're small enough to know you and large enough to serve you. Located at #2 Town center Bldg. Open Mon.-Fri., 9-5:30; Sat., 9-4. 886-8166

Used Eyeglasses Wanted

Maytown First Baptist Church is asking churches, civic organizations and others wishing to assist the needy Haitians to collect used eyeglasses to be sent Haiti via the Joe Mobley Crusades in London, Ky., which sends a mission team to Haiti every year. The need there is tremendous, for the small nation is next poorest in the world. Monthly income averages $20.

Team members will identify prescription of each of glasses, then examine the eyes of patients so that correct glasses are provided each. Groups are asked to push this drive during April-May, then send glasses to Rev. Bob Varney, pastor, Maytown First Baptist Church, or call him at 285-5131 and one of the Maytown members will pick up the collection. Stores are being asked to put out boxes with signs about the drive, so customers can leave glasses there.

Homemakers Meet

Members of the Prater Creek Homemakers' Club met March 28 in the school lunchroom, with vice-president Sereda Brown presiding. The lesson, "Appearance Makes a Difference Spring Fashions," was given by agent Frances Pitts, who also showed slides on this subject.

Hostesses Gail Taylor, Marie Conn, Agnes Kidd, Mona Boyd and Nell Samons served members Laura Fearmster, Maggie Conn, Darlene Walker, Mary Samons, Rita Howell, Debbie Tackett, Mary Ellen Nelson, Pauline Akers, Jeannie Nelson, Glenna Childers, Sereda Brown, Belle Jones, Ellen Campbell, Loretta Conn, Charlene Nelson, Jo Akers, Sandra Roberts, Wanda Hall and agent Frances Pitts.

The next meeting will be April 25, at 7 p.m. in the lunchroom. Hostesses will be Mary Ellen Nelson, Rita Howell, Charlene Nelson, Jeannie Nelson and Mary Samons.

Two years before Paul left Pikeville College, he wrote a proposal for funding this program again. When he learned that his program had been funded from the Federal Government, he also learned that his written proposal had rated the highest in the nation. Paul left Pikeville College in 1981 to return to the Floyd Co. School System to be principal of the McDowell Elementary School. It was during this time that he became ill.

Paul worked with the young people in this county and many, many other counties. He was a firm believer that all children or young people should have an education, and in order for them to obtain this, they had to be loved and shown to have self-confidence in themselves. That they had to know they were someone special not just to us but to themselves. If they would believe this and have pride in whatever vocation they wanted to be, they could have pride in themselves and be proud of whatever they do.

Christian School Tots Learn of Undersea Life

Do you know how a starfish eats? Can you recognize an anemone? Can you tell the difference between a univalve and a bivalve? If you have trouble answering these questions, talk to a kindergartener. The kindergartener class at Prestonsburg Christian Academy recently completed a unit on undersea life. The questions above were some of those on their test. Other questions were about oysters, clams, and coral. Also studied were whales, dolphins, and otters. The children showed remarkable knowledge, answering the 30 questions orally. Two of the class, Thomas Ratliff and Michael Houghton, scored 100 percent. Now the children are looking forward to their study of bees, ants, and other insects. Anyone in the community who keeps bees or has an insect collection is encouraged to call 874-2846 before noon on school days about sharing their hobby with the kindergarten class.

TROUT STOCKING

A sure sign of spring in Kentucky is when those big white trucks loaded with rainbow trout start visiting waters across the commonwealth.

Although fisheries crews have been busy since back in January putting trout in some large lakes, the monthly stockings of streams, small lakes and tailwaters don't get underway until April.

The first 1983 stream stocking will begin Monday, April 4. By April 13, all the waters scheduled for stocking will have received trout. A total of 73,000 trout will be stocked during this period.

There are waters across Kentucky where trout can live, but few places where they can successfully reproduce. Therefore, the trout stocking program isn't an attempt to establish self-sustaining populations of these fish, but is rather what biologists term "put and take" stocking.

The fish are raised to catchable size (around 10 to 12 inches) at the federal Wolf Creek Hatchery just below the dam at Lake Cumberland, then released with the expectation that most of them will be caught shortly after stocking.

Although the trout themselves don't cost the state Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources anything, there are costs associated with hauling them from the hatchery. To help defray these expenses, trout fishermen are required to purchase a trout stamp ($3.50) in addition to a valid fishing license.

Actually, you may fish for and even catch trout without a stamp—but you can't keep them. The reason the regulation is written this way is that the fisherman doesn't have any control of what kind of fish grabs his lure or bait, but he can control what he puts on his stringer or in his live well.

Since trout require cold, clear water, not all lakes and streams in Kentucky are suitable for these fish. Before a stream is put on the stocking schedule, biologists check stream flow and temperature throughout the year to make sure the trout that aren't caught will survive the summer.

In some waters, these "hold over" trout grow to impressive sizes. Kentucky's state record rainbow trout, a 14-pound, six-ounce whopper caught below the dam at Lake Cumberland, was once a 10-inch hatchery fish.

Thanks to the trout stocking program, many streams and tailwaters offer fishing opportunities where few would exist otherwise. Cold, relatively infertile streams that won't support good populations of bass, crappie or other warm water fish can provide good trout habitat. Cold-water discharges from many of our larger lakes have destroyed warm-water sport fishing in the tailwaters, so trout are stocked as substitute sport fish.

There is no size limit on rainbow trout. Both the daily and the possession limits are eight fish. The trout stocking program will continue through late fall in some waters, while others will get trout only through June. For a complete list of Kentucky's trout waters and a rundown of the months they are stocked, write the Division of Public Relations, Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, No. 1 Game Farm Road, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

U.S. Steel Plant

U.S. Steel Corp., a leading critic of steel imports, may sell at least part of its huge Fairless Works plant at Philadelphia to Great Britain's state-owned steel company to import semi-finished steel, United Steelworkers union officials said recently. Union officials said they intend to resist any such plan. U.S. Steel officials refused to comment.

Speaks in County

Martha Layne Collins, Democratic gubernatorial candidate, made a series of campaign stops in this county, recently, including Toler Creek, Garrett, and Prestonsburg. In a speech at Toler Creek, Collins stressed her continuing opposition to gun control, saying, "I am, have always been, and will continue to be opposed to gun control."

During her visit to Garrett, the Lt. Governor emphasized her commitment to education in Kentucky pointing to the need to reduce the drop-out rate as well as to upgrade the quality of education in the state.

This was the latest of several visits the Lt. Governor has made to this county, and she said, "It won't be the last."

Unemployed May Draw Idle Insurance Pay

Beginning April 1, unemployed workers in Kentucky may be eligible to draw from 10 to 14 additional weeks of unemployment insurance through the Federal Supplemental Compensation Program extended by Congress last week. This is in addition to the regular benefits for which they qualify.

Congress extended the Federal Supplemental Compensation benefits for six months, or through September 30, 1983. Included in the extension is a provision for "phase-out benefits." Under this provision claimants who have not exhausted their entitlement before next September 30 may be eligible to receive up to 50 percent of their remaining entitlement after that date.

The Division of Unemployment Insurance in the Cabinet for Human Resources estimates that approximately 37,000 unemployed Kentucky workers may be eligible for the latest Federal Supplemental Compensation extension. The division will notify potentially eligible claimants by mail within the next week.
