Eviction Looms For Two After Court Decision

A Harold firm and a Teaberry resident face eviction for failure to comply with the county solid waste ordinance, following a default judgment granted by Circuit Judge Hollie Conley to Floyd County Solid Waste, Inc. last Friday.

Harold Hydraulics and Bob Hall were the only names remaining this week on a list of 33 who were identified in May as either not using the mandatory garbage collection service or else not paying for the service.

The 33 represented only the first batch of many who would be prosecuted in an effort to enforce the county's solid waste ordinance, County Attorney Arnold Turner, Jr. warned at the time. And Bob McAninch, chairman of the garbage agency board, said this week that more prosecutions could be expected soon.

"If we're not willing to enforce the law, we should resign as commissioners," he said. "We were appointed to do a job and we're going to do it." Most of those taken to court in May have subsequently joined the system, although a few could not be served with legal papers and one man is fighting the court action, it was said.

Session Called To Eye Charge Of Conspiracy

A special grand jury session will be held today (Wednesday) to consider the indictment of three men accused of complicity to murder Glenda Sharon Marshall, 30, McDowell teacher, whose body was found June 20 in a wrecked, fire-gutted car on Sizemore mountain, near Minnie.

If the jury votes indictments against Clyde Douglas Marshall, husband of the victim, his brother, Bobby McGuffey, 30, of Lafayette, Tenn., and Carl Harold McFarland, 52, of Glasgow, the examining trial scheduled for Marshall in district court Thursday morning will not be held.

Extradition of McGuffey from Lafayette, Tenn., where he is being held without bond, has been asked but he had not been returned here as of Tuesday morning.

Marshall and McFarland are being held in separate cells of the county jail here. Although they are within yelling distance, they have not been permitted to converse privately.

Jailer Lawrence Hale said he had not been asked by State Police to deny the two men communication but that he had ruled out private conversations between the two because he "felt it was the right thing to do."

At his arraignment last week Marshall's bond was set by District Judge Harold Stumbo at $1 million on the single charge of complicity to murder. McFarland's bonds total $1 million—$500,000 on complicity to murder and $500,000 as a persistent felon.

Ned Pillersdorf, public defender, has been named to represent Marshall.

State Police have alleged that Mrs. Marshall, McDowell math teacher and mother of two—one, a month-old baby at the time of her death—was killed by a blow to the head and that the auto in which she was a passenger was set afire and turned off the highway into a long plunge over Sizemore mountain.

Case Wins Right Of Jury Hearing In Damage Suit

A Garrett man who sued C. & O. four years ago over the loss of his leg in a railroad accident has finally won the right to have his case heard by a jury.

James Martin Case, 34 at the time of the accident, had his right leg severed below the knee when he was run down by a train around 3 o'clock one morning in 1979. U.S. District Judge G. Wix Unthank, persuaded by C. & O.'s argument that Case contributed to the accident by his own negligence, granted the railroad summary judgment in the case.

But a federal appeals court ruled last week that Case is entitled to a jury trial and remanded the matter to U.S. District Court in Pikeville for trial.

Case was walking along the railroad track which cuts through Garrett when he was struck from behind by a train that was backing up in the same direction he was walking. Described as a "mine shifter," the train was pushing 19 (See Story No. 6, Page 4)

Schools Face Test, Though Now in Black

The Floyd school district ended the fiscal year in the black, but barely, and a deficit is likely next year unless spending is controlled tightly, Treasurer Ray Brackett told members of the Board of Education last Wednesday.

"I felt like a Houdini this year. I'll need to be even more of one next year," Brackett said.

Even after beginning the 1982-'83 year with a healthy $465,760 surplus, the school district ended with a balance of only $31,810.76—not enough to run the school system for a single day.

A shortfall in state revenues, which cost the county $77,050 in anticipated funds, was partly to blame for the narrow margin, but overspending in some departments was also a problem, the treasurer implied.

Despite some pointed questioning by Board Member James A. Duff about low tax support for the schools—only 5.4 percent of the schools' $16 million budget is raised by local property taxes—the board voted to seek only the four percent tax increase permitted by law without a referendum.

Prestonsburg High School will have a new basketball coach and assistant principal, the board naming Jack Stanford to those posts. A Wayland native, Stanford was most recently director of pupil personnel in the Paris Independent School System. Prior to that, he coached basketball at Breathitt County High School.

Stanford replaces Ralph Roberts, who is returning to Cumberland (Harlan County) High School after two years here.

A contract for draining and paving for the McDowell school playground is expected soon. The job is expected to cost about $22,000, of which the school has committed $5000 and the PTO $4000.

State approval will be sought for the purchase from Jim Mayo of a 7.2 acre tract, on which the board intends to erect a middle school. Waiver of a state regulation requiring a certain per-pupil area will be needed for the property, which lies behind the old WPRT studio on South Lake Drive.

A new vocational program is being added this year to the course offerings at Prestonsburg High School. Retailing I and II will teach marketing, inventory control, use of cash registers and other skills needed for persons entering retail sales jobs, it was explained.

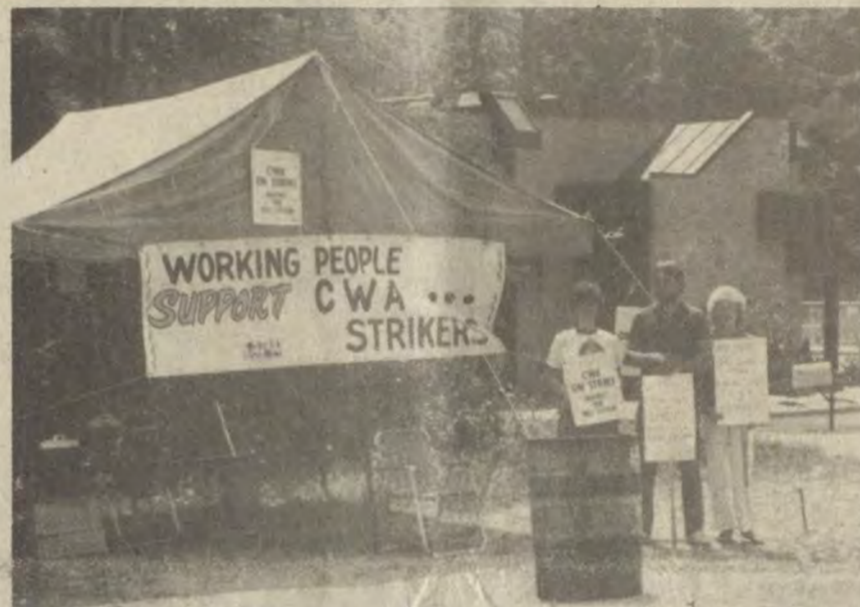

After spirited promotion by representatives of the two firms, the board awarded the contract for school annuals to Josten's over creative grafiks, inc. While Josten's bid price of $31,640 compared favorably with creative grafiks' $33,545 bid, creative grafiks representative Fred Tuttle said his competitor's product did not meet bid specifications.

Competition was also keen for the school photos contract, with Taylor Studios, John Wilson Studios and Paula Ann Goble submitting bids. The contract was tentatively awarded to Taylor Studios, pending confirmation of that firm's bid price, which was much lower than the others.

Contracts were awarded also for contract drivers and custodial supplies. The choice of vendors for food products was delegated as usual to the schools' food service manager, Blanche Dingus.

Resignations were accepted from Dennis King, recently appointed teacher at Prater grade school; Alixe Roberts and Robert Harmon, teachers at Prestonsburg High School; and Mary Beth Johnson, teacher at Maytown. A year's leave of absence was granted to Marilyn Barnes, Betsy Layne grade school teacher.

P'burg To Handle Its Own Zoning, Planning

Prestonsburg will take care of its own planning and zoning, the city council decided Monday in re-establishing a city planning commission.

The decision follows a recent circuit court ruling that the Floyd County Joint Planning Commission—which has included since 1975 the county and its incorporated towns—was never properly established and a fiscal court resolution last week that, even if the joint commission were legal, the county no longer wants to be part of it.

That sat just fine with city council members, who have long felt chagrined that Prestonsburg's zoning plans have had to be submitted to a countywide panel, most of whose members are unfamiliar with the city.

The council adopted an interim zoning ordinance, zoning map and comprehensive plan—a public hearing must be scheduled before they are finally adopted—and named a temporary planning commission to oversee the final adoption process.

Appointed to the panel were William Gordon Francis, attorney, who was named for a two-year term and will serve as commission chairman; Byron Dixon Nunnery, realtor, four years; David Bruce Spradlin, developer, four years; Randall Burchett, architect, three years, and Evelyn "Suzy" Hager, bank officer, one year.

In a redoubled effort to collect delinquent city taxes, the council hired a Paintsville debt-collecting firm, Eastern Kentucky Credit Exchange, Inc. The firm came highly recommended by Highlands Regional Medical Center, which also uses its services. It will keep one third of whatever it collects.

Marshall Davidson, Prestonsburg's present delinquent tax collector, will continue to have first option on the city's bad debts. Of the 25 cents-on-the-dollar levied as a penalty on overdue taxes, the city takes six cents and Davidson 19.

The council bristled at a rate hike announced by Floyd County Solid Waste Inc., which would increase from $1600 to $2200 the monthly fee charged the city for use of the county landfill. Council members said they would approach the solid waste agency board at its next meeting to seek an explanation of the rate increase, which is the second in nine months.

The senior citizens' center at Archer Park will receive $500 a month from the city to employ a maintenance worker. Nancy Webb told the council that services "invaluable" to the area's elderly residents would be lost if the worker were not hired.

On behalf of downtown businesses, Hansel Cooley presented a plan to the (See Story No. 3, Page 4)

This Town...That World

This old friend of mine was feeling "real poorly" the other day. So poorly that when I volunteered to drive him to his doctor's office he piled in without questioning my ability to get us there without undue incident or accident.

THERE OUGHT TO BE A LAW

Cats fell another notch in my esteem last night when two decided to hold a caterwauling convention outside my window. Low growls mounting into a crescendo of wails and yowls and screams would end in an exchange of s-p-p-t's, and then, just when I had decided the meeting had adjourned, the same earsplitting, nerve-wracking routine. But, just when I had steeled myself to the ordeal of rising from bed and taking a look for the family musket, they apparently decided a neighbor needed shaking up and moved on!

Wonder if I could get the city council to enact an ordinance establishing caterwauling hours?

CONFESSION

Since the day Ed Music returned home from the hospital where he underwent heart surgery I have planned visiting him. On one occasion I missed him by five minutes, but I never made the visit. Monday afternoon, I was the one who was visited—by Ed Music. And he came with a gift of pure linn honey—all of which constrains one to confess that I sometimes can be a pretty onery sort of individual.

School Starts Back

Next Wednesday, Aug. 17, will be the first day for Floyd students to return to school following the summer vacation. Teachers will gather in Prestonsburg for an in-service day Monday and will be in the schools Tuesday preparing for the new school year.

All beginning students and others whose immunization records are incomplete should get their shots promptly, school officials said. The immunization series must be begun no later than 30 days after a student enters school, it was said.

FAIR WARNING... Jack Dingus posted this sign, "No Trespassing—Survivors Will Be Prosecuted," after an office in his building off the Mountain Parkway, near the Fitzpatrick Baptist Church, was entered at 2:15 a.m., July 29. Besides, he has employed an armed guard and says the man's presence is supported by four Dobermans and one attack dog. The Royalton Coal Co. occupied the offices broken into, and adding machines, calculators and copying machines were ready to be loaded into a truck when the theft attempt was thwarted. Dingus said a juvenile and two others are implicated. Three other coal companies have offices in the building.

Trial Commissioner Resigns at Age 85

This week will see the last public service to be rendered by Ellis Martin.

He resigned last week the post of trial commissioner in the office of District Judge Harold Stumbo, and the resignation will become effective next Monday.

Prior to his work as trial commissioner, Mr. Martin was magistrate in District 3 of this county.

In a prepared statement he pointed out that he is 85 years old and that he feels further public service could be harmful to his health. The office is often demanding, with his rest at his home here frequently interrupted at night. "Nobody has placed any pressure on me to resign, but I feel this action (his resignation) is best for the public as well as myself," he said.

"I have enjoyed public service, and if I have failed to perform a service requested by some citizens, these citizens should remember that any public official has to follow the law as it is enacted by the General Assembly," he added.

A successor will be named by Judge Stumbo, but the appointment must be approved by the Administrative Office of the Courts.

Tougher Management Seen for Textbooks

The report on Floyd schools by a state accrediting team is acceptable, the Board of Education decided last week—except for an addendum to the report which was sharply critical of textbook management here.

Some claims in the addendum—an April 7 report by John B. Shoemaker, of the State Education Department's textbook utilization division—were false and he has already sent a rebuttal of the claims to State Superintendent of Public Instruction Raymond Barber, explained Assistant Supt. Ron Hager.

Nevertheless, the board adopted a tough textbook management policy which appears to acknowledge at least implicitly the validity of Shoemaker's claim that textbook distribution has been in "disarray" here. And the measures adopted by the board parallel recommendations made by the state official.

Shoemaker's report, which followed an investigation of textbook shortages at McDowell last spring, figured prominently among charges of mismanagement levelled at school officials by the Floyd County Citizens Education Council in June.

Under the policy adopted by the board at its monthly meeting last Wednesday, all textbooks will be numbered, school principals will have to sign for all the books they receive from the school district's central office, and parents will have to sign for the books their children receive.

When a student returns his or her books at the end of the year, a receipt will be given for them. Without it, the student will not be eligible for free textbooks the following year.

If books are lost, damaged or destroyed, the students or their parents will have to pay for them, according to the new policy.

Addressing a criticism heard here last year, the new rules provides that principals report any surplus of books, so that the extra books can be transferred to schools that have shortages.

And yet another question raised by the critics appears to have been settled. The intent of the textbook program, the new policy spells out, "is for each individual pupil to have a full set of appropriate textbooks of current adoption and in good physical condition." (See Story No. 4, Page 4)

Messages To Moms

Ida Porter, of Debord, reads a nursery rhyme to her son Jimmy Dean at Highlands Regional Medical Center. The tray cards were provided by the Jenny Wiley Reading Council.

To encourage 800 new mothers to read with their children...that is why the Jenny Wiley Reading Council created cheerful tray cards that are delivered with obstetric patients' lunches. Through nursery rhymes and pictures, mothers get the message that reading is important.

Teachers and administrators from Floyd and Johnson counties make up the Jenny Wiley Reading Council. The 50 member group has been organized for 12 years. "The Council's goals are to improve the reading ability among people in general and create an interest in reading," said Nadine Hicks, council president. In addition to the messages to HRMC's new moms, the group has sponsored other area programs to motivate reading.

The standard and symbols we use today for graduation attire were set back in 1894 by the Intercollegiate Commission.

WITH A WILL—THERE'S A WAY

If you own anything—a car, house, savings account, anything with monetary value—you should have a will.

With a will, you save your loved ones considerable time and money in the handling of your estate. Further, you are assured that your estate will not be executed by strangers, but by people you know and trust.

How do you make a will? First, see your lawyer. It's not all that expensive for most estate planning. He has the forms, knows the requirements of the state, and probably enough of your personal affairs to help in preparing for future management of your estate.

You may change your will whenever and however you wish. The important thing is to get started and to do it right away.

You may also include provision for funeral arrangements as part of the will. We can provide counseling without obligation, on this aspect of your will, but ONLY this particular aspect.

We welcome your questions and comments—privately or publicly, through this column.

Bank Employees Receive Promotions

Patrick Flanagan

The First Commonwealth Bank of Prestonsburg announces the appointment of Patrick N. Flanagan to the bank's staff. In addition, Odis Gene Bach, Clarence Woods, Jr., Belinda Davis, Carolyn Wilson, and Donald Wright received promotions.

Patrick N. Flanagan has joined the bank as an assistant vice-president as of June 5. He comes to First Commonwealth from the National Cash Register Company where he had been an account executive specializing in financial institutions.

Flanagan, his wife and daughter live near Prestonsburg.

Promotions announced at the July 11, board of directors meeting were:

—Odis Gene Bach to Assistant Vice President, Data Processing. Bach joined the bank in August, 1973 as night shift operator. In 1974, he became dayshift programmer/operator. In 1978, Bach assumed responsibility for the management of the bank's data processing operation as data processing manager.

A 1973 graduate of The Computer Training Center in Huntington, he had special emphasis on programming, accounting, and data processing management. His professional education includes Mountain Study Group classes and completion of Eberhart Bank Marketing's course "Product Knowledge and Cross-Selling."

Bach, a native of Magoffin county, lives with his family near Prestonsburg.

—Clarence Woods, Jr. to assistant vice president, mortgage lending. Woods joined First Commonwealth in June, 1982 as a mortgage lending officer. No Utilities Tax, Please Kentucky has fallen on hard times, and its financial prospects for the next year or so are, to put it mildly, bleak. Meanwhile, the needs that require money will not go away. Former Governor Julian Carroll and the scholarly Edward F. Prichard have made a study of the situation, with an eye to solving the knotty problem of state finances, and have recommended that the 5 per cent utility tax be restored. And we, who admittedly are more expert in the field of criticism than in the matter of state revenues and budgets, veto the suggestion. We see in a restoration of the utility tax the "last straw" situation as thousands of citizens would be bearing an added financial burden each month at a time when the burden is already back-breaking. Most Kentuckians could abide the extra load, but there are those who cannot, and they must be considered.

An increase in the state sales tax, which exempts foodstuffs, might be more acceptable than the utilities tax. And then there is the untapped resource of taxes that could be collected on unmined coal. The farmer pays taxes on his fields that lie fallow, unproductive and unprofitable. Those coal beds that lie fallow, many owned by corporations based outside Kentucky, might ease the load if anybody would dare "bell the cat."

Greeley's Advice, Revised

If Horace Greeley were alive and dishing out advice today, his "Go west, young man" would likely be dropped and supplanted by "Stay home, young man, and get into the utilities business." And that might be the soundest advice he ever gave. What other business can expand its services—lay new lines to new, paying customers—and collect in increased rates the cost of such a sound investment? Or can collect from its customers the cost of a plant that does not yet exist? Or demand, and get, as much as $5 for a product that costs 35 cents? The advantages, young man, are even more. There's exemption from competition through franchises and the prohibitive cost of laying of new lines for competitors, and in some cases there's a nice depletion tax deduction, to boot. Stay home, young man—unless the cost of utilities drives all your customers elsewhere.

Letters to the Editor

The views expressed here are those of the writers, and not necessarily those of this newspaper. No unsigned contributions will be published.

Blames Newspaper

I am a teacher and coach at Wheelwright High School. The only news I see printed in the Floyd County Times is negative news when the topic deals with the Floyd County Board of Education or its schools. I have personally sent materials to the Floyd County Times to be published about Wheelwright Little League basketball, and the annual Wheelwright basketball camp. With these articles, pictures were sent. They, along with the articles were never published. These were supported by the Floyd County Board of Education for the youth of our area. This is a positive thing for our school and school board that is never advertised.

Negative things make the front page and headlines, such as a few weeks ago an article appeared telling how parents did not want Mr. Pack as the principal at Wheelwright High School. This was very embarrassing to me as a resident of Wheelwright, because the article dealt with the view of a very small group of people who do not know the needs of the school. The majority of the residents of the Wheelwright school district welcome a man of Mr. Pack's qualifications and experiences in the administration of schools. The people of the Wheelwright school area will work diligently with Mr. Pack to improve our school and the quality of education it offers.

I know Mr. Pack's job and the School Board's job would be much easier if the newspaper would print positive things about our schools and their employees. Students would also have a better opinion of schools if parents and groups of citizens would stop degrading the schools and their personnel, but make positive remarks when possible. We should all remember, if we only look for negative things, that is all we will find. DANNY C. JOHNSON Wheelwright, Ky.

Heat Wave

Summer brings out the lunacy in man. Consider the fellow laboring in an air-conditioned office. Upon entering a building cooled to a comfortable, say, 68 degrees, he immediately takes off his coat. But when leaving his refrigerated space for the 95 of the humid outside, what does he do? Why, he...puts on his coat. He walks, and sweats, to his parking place—whereupon he takes off his coat, slides into the car, and in shirt sleeves turns the air conditioner on. JOE TUSSEY David, Ky.

(Continued from Page One) SHUMLA, ET AL A few weeks ago this column listed the postoffices in Floyd county in 1894, including five which had me stumped: Shumla, Seter, Cutch, Alliance and Defiance. Had an idea some oldtimer would enlighten us, but no such help came. This week, Robert M. Rennick, of Prestonsburg, coordinator for the Kentucky Place Name Survey, came to the rescue. Wrote Mr. Rennick: "Shumla was on Johns Creek, below Thomas, probably at the mouth of Collins Branch. "Seter was probably at the mouth of Copperas Creek (on Johns Creek). "Alliance was on Mud Creek. Defiance was in the Wheelwright area. "And Cutch may have been in the vicinity of Clark Elementary School at the forks of Middle Creek." When we noted that Allen was not in the list of 1894 postoffices, Mr. Rennick delved into his records and came up with the answer. The postoffice was Mouth of Beaver, established in 1854 and discontinued in 1856. But there's an unexplained time gap in the history of postoffices there. None is listed from 1856 till Allen was established May 16, 1905 with Shadrach Combs as postmaster.

MISSING

Missing from the premises is the big-eared youngster of a rabbit that has been such a welcome visitor this summer. I naturally fear that he has fallen afool of a neighbor's cat, but would be pleased to learn that the rabbit has simply grown older and wiser and deciding that people can't be trusted, either, has taken off for the nearby timber.

In 1936, Victor Hess was awarded the Nobel Prize for his discovery of cosmic radiation, to the study of which he devoted his entire life.

The Forgotten Fifties

I am a widow past fifty years of age, and for several years, now, I have been wondering where do we, as a group, fit in. We are too young to take advantage of any Senior Citizen privileges; yet it seems if we try to get a job, the employers are looking for someone younger. Most of us do not have young children at home any more, so we are not eligible for any government benefits except, maybe, Black Lung survivor checks, which is $304.90 a month—who can live on that amount now-a-days? We might be able to qualify for State Aid if we can prove we are poor enough; which means we cannot own our home or in some cases, a car! If we are not physically or financially able to establish our own businesses, we are just left to sit, worry and pray that we will live to be sixty. By that time we hope that we'll still be able to take early Social Security benefits at a 20% deduction. Some of us have to buy our own insurance and hospitalization which is so expensive we can't afford it. We are not eligible for any medical card until we get to be 68 years old. This seems so unfair to me!

How many employers out there are willing to hire a lady to work after she becomes fifty or past? How many of you have applied for jobs and never heard from the employers? When you check on the job again, you find it has been filled by someone younger. Are we in our fifties just misfits? I would like to know if there are any solutions to these problems that maybe, I'm not aware of. I would like to hear from some of you out there in the same or similar situations. One of the Forgotten Fifties, MRS. BLANCHE VANCE Wheelwright, Ky.

A 'True Teacher'

Perhaps you will print this letter in the human interest section of your newspaper. Aside from my mother, Sherril Frazier, my high school teacher and friend, probably had more influence over my life than any other person. Had not this dedicated teacher, teaching at Martin High School, taken a special interest in me (a shy, backward country boy), my life would not be as fruitful and fulfilling as it is today. Mr. Frazier not only saw the "gleam" in my eye, but sought the same keen hunger for learning in many other students. I visited Mr. Frazier in Martin (Cracker Bottom) this year in June after visiting my mother in Prestonsburg. He had changed very little. He was very proud and honored that "someone he had helped remembered". Twenty-eight years later, he still seeks the "gleam". Let us not wait until our respected friends and loved ones are gone to send laurels. We need to let them know we appreciate them while they're still alive. Sherril Frazier was, and is, truly a "TEACHER." With love, deepest respect and highest regard for teacher and mother. MARTIN OWENS (Class of '55, Martin High School) Winter Haven, Florida

A Volunteer Is A Giver

A volunteer is one who offers, through no selfish motive or personal gain, to help others, and to give of their time and their person to enhance someone else's life. The volunteers of the Meals on Wheels program did just that. Even a few years before the Senior Citizens' Centers were operating feeding sites, this organization was providing nourishment to the most destitute, the disabled, the isolated and the lonely. They cooked the food, packed it, and used their own transportation to deliver it. And as the organization grew, we were glad to see the government add to those services. It is with pride that we list elsewhere in this issue the names in our records of those volunteers who participated in this humanitarian effort. And we thank you for your concern. If your name has been accidentally omitted, please accept our apology. Space limits our listing all the employees, but we are also grateful for their commitment and loyalty. PHIL PRICE P.O. Box 521 Prestonsburg, Ky.

(Continued from Page One) but now living in Pikeville, argued that he was taking his own garbage and dumping it at the stripmine where he worked. But that is itself a violation of state law, the county attorney insisted. Friday's court order, which is expected to be signed by the judge today (Wednesday), will not become final for 30 days. If the two holdouts do not come into compliance in that time, he will recommend that the order be enforced, Turner said. Faster progress might be made in prosecuting delinquents except that the agency's customer records are in some disarray, the county attorney said. "We can't expect real results until the records are straightened out. That is still the No. 1 problem," he said. McAninch said that employee layoffs had slowed the task of bringing the records up to date.

(Continued from Page One) The board adopted a uniform conduct code, covering such areas as discipline, suspension, expulsion and due process. The code makes only minor changes in existing policy, it was said. New grade requirements, to take effect with the 1983-'84 freshman class, were spelled out. Henceforth, a student will need four credits to enter the sophomore year, eight (including two math, two science and two English) for the junior year, and 14 for the senior year. Prestonsburg High School will enforce an experimental attendance policy, according to which pupils will not be allowed to remain enrolled in any class from which they have been absent or for which they have arrived late more than 20 times in one year. The policy includes an elaborate appeals procedure.

Railroad attorneys argued that Case should have looked over his shoulder to see if a train was coming and that he was negligent in failing to do so. That is a matter for a jury to decide, the three judges of the U.S. Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals ruled last week. Case is represented by Prestonsburg attorney Arnold Turner, Jr. C & O is represented by Donald Combs, of Pikeville, and James E. Cleveland, III, of Ashland.

Miss Prater, Mr. Draughn Wed

Miss Shirley Ann Prater, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Prater, of Lexington, and Willis Conley Draughn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Draughn, of Lexington, formerly of Prestonsburg and Garrett, were married August 6 at Centenary United Methodist Church, with the Rev. Howard Coop officiating at the ceremony.

Maid of honor was Tammy Hall, of Salyersville. Matron of honor was Marla Merrick of Lexington. Bridesmaids were Denise Prater, of Oil Springs, Paula Francis and Suzanne Hall, both of Salyersville.

Marrow W. Cox, Jr., of Fairhope, Ala., served Mr. Draughn as best man. Ushers were Robert F. Prater, brother of the bride, and R. Daniel Merrick, both of Lexington, Hollie M. Conley, of New York City, and Huel Scherrer, of Minneapolis, Minnesota.

The flower girls were Ashley Adams, of Rockville, Md., and Leah Warfield, of Gibson City, Illinois. Ringbearer were Josiah Cox, of Morris, Ill., and John Hykes, of Columbus, Ohio.

The reception was held at the church.

The bride is a graduate of Bryan Station High School and the University of Kentucky. She is employed by Kentucky Central Life Company.

The groom is a graduate of Prestonsburg High School and attended the University of Kentucky. He is a broker for Commonwealth Life Insurance Company and a partner in the Draughn Insurance Agency.

After a wedding trip, the couple will live in Lexington.

Kindergarten Registration

Final registration for Prestonsburg Kindergarten will be held Tuesday, Aug. 16, from 9 till 2. For children planning to attend kindergarten, final registration is required. At that time parents will be notified of their children's schedule.

ATTEND CONFERENCE

The Rev. and Mrs. Timothy Jessen attended the New Wilmington Missionary Conference, New Wilmington, Pa., last week. They were mission study leaders and speakers at the conference, attended by about 1000 delegates. They were accompanied to New Wilmington by their children, Ruth and Paul, and Mr. Jessen's mother, Mrs. Eunice Jessen. Before returning to Prestonsburg, they took her to her home in Warwick, New York, remaining for a short visit.

Announce Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hicks, of Mousie, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Zella, to Brian Moore, son of Don and Marie Moore, of Louisa. The wedding will be solemnized at 7 p.m. August 20 at the Smoky Valley Baptist Church on Rt. 32, Louisa.

The custom of open church will be observed, and a reception will follow the ceremony.

Math Workshop

Prestonsburg Community College is presenting a basic math workshop on August 15, 16 for new and prospective students. This workshop will include a review of fractions, decimals, percents, proportions and scientific notations. If you have been concerned about your math skills this is an ideal way to brush-up. For more information, call Continuing Education at 886-3863, ext. 215.

In Two New Books From UK Press...

Control Is Central Issue for Appalachians

APPALACHIA AND AMERICA: Autonomy and Regional Dependence
 Edited by Allen Batteau
 286pp. University Press of Kentucky, $26

WHO OWNS APPALACHIA? Landownership and Its Impact
 By the Appalachian Land Ownership Task Force
 235pp. University Press of Kentucky, $25

It is probably no different living in the south Bronx or on a Navajo reservation, but to be native to eastern Kentucky is to be object of apparently endless fascination on the part of folks elsewhere.

Last year, movie-makers were here for the filming of "Kentucky Woman." In the spring, National Geographic did a spread on the coalfields. There was last week's piece on Mud Creek by NBC's Good Morning America. And now two more books on Appalachia have rolled off the presses at the University of Kentucky.

Do people in southern Florida, upstate New York, or the Rockies get this kind of popular and scholarly attention?

Natives might be simply bemused by all this attention or indifferent to it except that it gives wide currency to images of this region and its people that are frequently wrongheaded. Moreover, since they shape the perceptions of policy-makers, "helpers," the American public, and even Appalachians themselves, distorted images can do a lot of damage.

Appalachia and America both exemplify the continuing outside interest in this area and takes a critical look at it. It is a collection of 15 essays, most of them originally written for a symposium on Appalachian studies conducted by the Southern Anthropological Association in Memphis in 1979.

There are chapters covering such anthropological staples as regional identity, family group organization, religious belief systems, rituals of dependence, and forms of health care.

Charles E. Martin, a history professor at Alice Lloyd College, explains the old custom of papering interior walls with pages from the Sears catalog, the Saturday Evening Post, or the local newspaper. UK sociology professors Dwight B. Billings and Robert Goldman discuss the celebrated 1974 school textbook controversy in Kanawha county, West Virginia. Michigan state social sciences professor Allen Batteau and Phillip Obermiller contribute an introduction to the volume.

The political and economic domination of Appalachia by metropolitan elites and outside control of the region's resources have been well-documented. But, Batteau and Obermiller argue, the coal barons of a previous generation have now been replaced as oppressors by a cadre of professionals—lawyers, bureaucrats in the health, education and welfare agencies, and smooth-talking public relations people working for the big energy corporations.

The professionals are by definition the competent, so this argument runs. So the people they deal with are systematically divested of competence and ability. "The ambivalence that many Appalachians feel toward the values and expectations of well-educated professionals...the antagonism and potential conflicts it implies...will become increasingly important with the continuing development of professional services in this region," the authors predict.

Batteau and Obermiller find grounds for hope in the "reemergence, in varyingly conservative and progressive colorings, of ethnicity and cultural regionalism"—movements like the Moral Majority, La Raza, Black Power, and the American Indian Movement—as tools for resisting the newer forms of domination.

That hope may seem a bit farfetched in an area where "ethnicity and cultural regionalism" take the form of Pike county's Hillbilly Days or Perry county's Black Gold celebration—consciously aping Beverly Hillbillies and Dukes of Hazzard caricatures—and where Floyd's annual folk festival lingers mostly as a last gesture to a bygone era. Nostalgia has its place and self-parody may even be healthy but they are hardly the stuff of resistance movements.

What does make a resistance movement depends, of course, on what one takes as needing to be resisted. It does not appear from these pages that change is itself the enemy.

Traditional modes of rural life will inevitably change under the influence of the complex, specialized and hierarchical forms of social organization found in modern, urban, industrial areas, argues Thomas Plaut, associate professor of sociology at Mars Hill (N.C.) College, in one of the essays included here. Nor, after a generation of highway building and the advent of television, is there any way of insulating the one world from the other.

"There comes a point in this process of change," Plaut explains, "where individuals realize that their interests and opportunities in life are no longer determined by community and kin but by their position in the transcommunity agency that employs them. The truly radical nature of this switch in allegiance from community to organization is most visible in rural areas such as parts of Appalachia, where people with traditional and modern loyalties and self-definitions live, work, and struggle with each other."

Rather, the argument that surfaces in this volume is that Appalachians ought to participate in shaping the changes that affect them.

That will mean, as several authors here note or imply, that natives will need to break out of the definitions laid on them over the years by the mass media and by academics—not least by the kind of theory that attributes to Appalachians a kind of fatalism or some other enervating habit of mind or character.

Anyone who saw Good Morning America's portrait of Mud Creek's Eula Hall last Wednesday will know that the old stereotypes die hard. The grinding poverty and weepy heroics of that piece reflect the New York editors' preconception of what life in eastern Kentucky is like—or what they imagine is best calculated to bring a lump to the throats of their viewers—but any resemblance to the complex reality of the place is coincidental.

The anthropologists represented in this book know better. In his essay on rituals of dependence, Batteau takes behaviors that used to be seen as signs of a "culture of poverty" and redefines them as the first signs of ethnic solidarity. Other authors look more to economic and political structures than to the minds of Appalachians both for the causes of the region's ills and for possible solutions.

Among the more ideological of these analysts, Richard A. Couto takes the health care industry in Appalachia as an example of the exploitation of the area's resources "for the benefit of others and by institutions whose control is far removed from the region." And he looks ahead to a struggle for "greater social control over the means of the production and distribution of health care."

Couto, who as director of the Center for Health Services at Vanderbilt University has been responsible for a number of health care initiatives in Floyd and surrounding counties, may be right. But his remedy will sound to many as, at best, socialized medicine and, at worst, a socialist state.

"It will be enough," he writes, "when the health of Appalachians and all Americans is declared a public responsibility to be met with public means. This will require that the inequities between sectors of American society and regions be redressed by a redistribution of the wealth and resources accumulated in such great disproportions."

A less radical, and so more feasible, strategy is suggested by Patricia D. Beaver's report on the land ownership study recently concluded by the Appalachian Land Ownership Task Force of the Appalachian Alliance. It is this study that is now published as Who Owns Appalachia?

Beaver's praise for the study—she is director of the Center for Appalachian Studies at Appalachian State University in Boone, N.C.—may strike some as overly fulsome or at least premature. If the task force findings are half the threat to established interests as has been suggested, then presumably other scholars are already being funded to poke holes in them. Indeed, in his introduction to Who Owns Appalachia?, Charles C. Geisler summarizes various shortcomings already noted by critics of the study.

But the land ownership research yielded impressive documentation of the thesis that control of much of the land and resources in southern Appalachia is in the hands of distant owners and that this is directly related to losses in tax revenue, destruction of farmland and the stifling of economic development and diversification.

If this turns out to articulate a conviction widely felt by Appalachians, it may yet generate some important legislative changes. In this state, the Kentucky Fair Tax Coalition has already used the study findings to campaign for a new state tax on unmined minerals and to bring local challenges to corporate assessments in several counties, including Floyd.

It is too early to feel sanguine about such strategies—after gaining considerable momentum, the unmined minerals tax proposal was easily derailed by the house leadership in the last Kentucky legislature—but reform of this order is at least possible.

It wouldn't restore to Appalachians control of their own destiny or anything like that. But it might be a step in that direction.

IMPORTANT NEWS FROM BASSETT'S CHAIRMAN OF THE BOARD!
In developing "Bargain Day U.S.A." Bassett Furniture Industries hopes to achieve three primary objectives.
First, to create the largest day of savings in history for America's Homemakers by assisting each participating store to offer important reductions on every item in their selection (not just Bassett products!).
Second, to introduce Bassett's exciting new products to as many consumers as possible in a very short period of time. We feel "Bargain Day U.S.A." with its wide range of appeal should produce the biggest crowds ever at fine stores across America.
Finally, by underwriting and coordinating the largest home furnishings savings event in history, we hope to say a most sincere "Thank you" to the millions of customers, and thousands of retail stores that have made Bassett the world's largest single brand furniture manufacturer. Thank you, and happy shopping . . . from all seven-thousand of us at Bassett Furniture Industries.

MEDICARE
 Medicare is a Federal health insurance program administered by the Health Care Financing Administration. It is for those 65 or older, those with permanent kidney failure, and those with certain other disabilities," says Attorney General Steve Beshear.

Medicare is divided into two parts—hospital insurance and medical insurance. Hospital insurance is paid for through part of the Social Security tax. It helps pay for in-patient hospital care and certain followup care after leaving the hospital. Medical insurance is financed through monthly premiums paid by those who have enrolled for it and from Federal revenues. Medical insurance helps pay for doctor's services and other medical services and items.

In some cases, it is necessary to apply for hospital insurance protection. It is not necessary to retire to be protected at age 65 by hospital insurance. If you plan to continue working, file an application at the Social Security office at least three months before your 65th birthday. If you receive Social Security or railroad retirement, your hospital insurance protection is automatic at age 65.

If you are not eligible for hospital insurance at 65, you can buy it. As of July 1, 1983, the basic premium will be $132 per month for a 12-month period. In order to buy hospital insurance, it is necessary to enroll and pay the monthly premium for medical insurance.

Almost everyone 65 or older and eligible for hospital insurance can enroll for medical insurance. Social Security or Federal work credits are not necessarily. As of July 1, 1983, the basic premium cost is $13.50 per month for a 12-month period.

If you receive Social Security benefits or retirement benefits from railroad retirement, you will be automatically enrolled for medical insurance. In some cases, it is necessary to apply for medical insurance. Additional information can be obtained from the local Social Security office or railroad retirement office.

There is an initial enrollment period of seven months for medical insurance. This period begins three months before the month you first become eligible and ends three months after that month. If you choose not to take medical insurance during the initial enrollment period and later change your mind, a general enrollment period is held January 1 through March 31 of each year. If you enroll during this period, protection will become available the following July and monthly premiums will be 10 percent higher than the basic premium for each 12-month period you could have had medical insurance but chose not to.

Each year, after meeting the annual medical insurance deductible (this figure is $75), medical insurance will pay 80 percent of the approved charges for other services covered. Payments are not based on doctors' or suppliers' current charges. They are based on what is a "reasonable charge" as defined by law. Due to high inflation, the approved charges are often less than the actual charges.

"For your own protection, do not cancel present health insurance until the month actual Medicare coverage begins. And before buying private insurance to supplement Medicare, examine the policy carefully," advises Attorney General Beshear.

Local Social Security Administration offices take Medicare applications, assist in filing claims and provide information. Health insurance related complaints may be filed with the Office of the Attorney General, Consumer Protection Division, 209 St. Clair Street, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601 or by calling the toll-free hotline: 1-800-432-9257.

T.B. SKIN TESTS NOW MANDATORY

Has First Birthday

George Russell Banks, Jr. celebrated his first birthday Wednesday July 13. He was taken to the lake for a cookout and returned home for cake and ice cream. He received many gifts. He is the son of Patricia Kay and George Banks, Sr., of Lackey, and a grandson of Josephine and Harold Prater, of Wayland. His great-grandparents are Ralph and Polly Blankenship, of Wayland, and May Prater and Grover Shepherd, of Huesville.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Chris Yates wishes to thank all who were so kind and considerate during our time of grief. We want to thank those who sent flowers and gifts of love, and especially thank the ministers and the Hall Funeral Home for being so kind. All your kindnesses were greatly appreciated.

New VA Debt Collection Effort

Some 850,000 veterans who have been overpaid for G.I. Bill education benefits will receive letters from the Veterans Administration advising them of new statutes affecting money owed the government.

The mailing to start July 19 is the second in a series of steps taken by VA in response to a Congressional mandate to intensify collection of $954 million owed in some 1.3 million accounts. Amounts owed range from several thousand dollars to as little as five dollars, the lowest amount to be targeted for collection. Some of the accounts are more than 10 years old.

Letters regarding education accounts will be mailed at the rate of 42,000 per day from the Centralized Accounts Receivable Section of VA's St. Paul, Regional Office. Similar letters are scheduled for veterans who owe for overpayments in compensation, pension and loan guaranty defaults.

In the first three months following the first mass collection effort in January, VA received $24 million in payments, almost double the normal amount for that period.

This month's mailing to veterans who have ignored their overdue obligations will advise that interest on their balance will be charged at the annual rate of 15.05 percent.

Legislation enacted in 1980 (P.L. 96-466) authorized interest charges in such cases at the rate used by the Treasury during fiscal year 1982. While the rate is reviewed each year, the initial rate assigned to an account remains unchanged while the debt is outstanding.

Veterans are advised that the interest cost can be avoided by remitting the full amount due within 30 days of the date of the letter. Those unable to repay the full amount are advised to submit a partial payment together with a proposed repayment plan. If no repayment plan is submitted within 30 days of the notice, an administrative fee of 61 cents is added each month in addition to the interest. Those who have established repayment plans will not be charged interest and administrative costs unless the account becomes delinquent.

All repayments are to be made to the Centralized Accounts Receivable Section in St. Paul. A remittance form is provided with each letter. Local VA regional offices can assist in explaining remittance procedures, but all of the delinquent accounts are maintained in St. Paul.

FLOYD COUNTY HEALTH NEWS

By JANE BOND
Health Educator

Cervical Cancer kills approximately 11,000 women each year according to statistics from the American Cancer Society. Many of these 11,000 deaths could have been prevented if the cancer had been detected and treatment begun in the earliest stages.

There is a simple test to determine Cervical Cancer; this is the Pap test. This test is a simple painless test which requires only a few moments of a woman's time.

The Floyd County Health Department is having a Pap clinic on Friday August 19 from 8:30 until 11:30 and from 1:00 until 2:00. This clinic is a free service of the Health Department and is open to women of all ages, but those women age 45 and over are especially urged to take advantage of this service since this is the high risk age for the disease.

A nurse from the Health Department will be in Harold at Ward's Health Food Store on Monday August 15, from 10:00 until 2:00. She will offer T.B. skin test, urinalyses, anemia screening, blood pressures, and immunizations. This clinic is a service of the Health Department and the public is welcome.

Phone Rate Hikes 'Unwarranted'

By STEVEN L. BESHEAR
Attorney-General

Within the past several weeks, several of the largest telephone companies in the state have filed for rate increases which are unprecedented in both their magnitude and complexity. The dollar figures in these requests are quite substantial, with General Telephone requesting an increase of $31.3 million, Continental Telephone requesting $6.6 million and South Central Bell requesting $163.2 million in rate increases. These rate requests are in part a reflection of the tremendous changes that have taken place and are continuing to occur in the telecommunications industry. Perhaps the most visible of these changes involves the impending break-up of the Bell Telephone System and a series of wide-ranging decisions by the Federal Communications Commission.

Kentuckians already reeling from some of the highest telephone costs in the country are understandably concerned about the implications of these record rate increase requests. Since August of 1971, residential one-party monthly phone bills have increased approximately 151% in Bardstown, 135% in Bowling Green, 140% in Cynthiana, 160% in Hopkinsville, 132% in Lexington, 99% in Frankfort, 96% in Hazard and 164% in Pikeville. Now, again, Kentuckians are faced with the possibility of substantially increased telephone costs—with the new proposals possibly tripling rates for some consumers.

Unquestionably, recent events in the telecommunications industry will exert upward pressure on the rates charged for local service. Divestiture and recent decisions by the Federal Communications Commission will result in a number of changes in the industry, generating certain extra costs by the ratepayer. However, these events should not be used to blindly justify enormous and perhaps unnecessary increases in the cost of basic telephone service. My office, in its role as the ratepayers' spokesman before the Public Service Commission, intends to see that this does not occur.

There appears to be a tendency on the part of some to view the magnitude of the rate increases as beyond the control of the local telephone companies because of the factors which I have previously mentioned. While we recognize that a portion of the rate increases sought may indeed be a product of external events, we feel very strongly that rate awards in the full amount sought by the companies are unwarranted.

For decades, national communications policy has been directed at the goal of achieving universal, affordable telephone service. These filings, currently under review by the Public Service Commission, threaten to deny affordable phone service to many Kentuckians. Because of this threat, I feel that any increase in the cost of basic service over and above that absolutely necessary to comply with federal regulatory and court decisions and to provide a fair return to utilities' investors must be denied by the State Commission.

This is not the time for telephone companies to request higher profits for stockholders, faster recovery of capital or more liberal operating expenses. Yet, according to our initial review, it appears that these elements make up a significant part of the rate increases being requested. It disappoints me that the industry has not exercised greater restraint in this situation in order to ease their customers' transition to the new era of telecommunications. On the contrary, they seem to be using divestiture, deregulation and competition as excuses to seek rates far above those that are fair, just and reasonable to the consumer.

There are those who say that flat rate, unlimited local calling is a premium or luxury service and that local measured service is the answer for those who cannot afford the proposed new rates. However, local measured service as it currently exists in Kentucky is no panacea. While a switch to measured service may save many Kentuckians money in the short-run, it also creates revenue shortfalls to the utility and ultimately higher rates. It appears that the companies' ultimate goal is mandatory measured service for all customers, and we think that this will result in even higher telephone rates for Kentuckians. This could be devastating to the elderly, who often rely on the telephone as their primary link to the outside world but who simply may not be able to afford higher telephone rates.

My office has already begun to review the documents related to these rate increase requests and to research the many complicated issues involved. In addition, we have retained the Washington, D.C., consulting firm of J.W. Wilson and Associates to assist us in analyzing the major filings and in preparing testimony on behalf of the rate-payer. Mr. Wilson is a nationally known expert in telecommunications and has testified in many states in opposition to rate increases. We believe that his firm's assistance in providing ratepayer input into the pending cases will be invaluable.

My staff will devote the major portion of its time and resources in the upcoming months to the scrutiny of, and where necessary, opposition to, the filings of South Central Bell, General Telephone and other telephone companies. While I recognize that it would be futile and unreasonable to blindly oppose the winds of change sweeping the telecommunications industry, I am determined to oppose any increases in the cost of basic service beyond those absolutely necessary to preserve the financial viability of the companies involved.

Three-Day Reunion
The Lester and Shupe family reunion was held July 29, 30 and 31 at the Pines recreation center, Jenny Wiley State Park, with members from several states enjoying the three-day event. Fishing, boating, swimming and water-skiing, as well as banquets and "just old-fashion visiting with relatives" featured the get-together.
The door prize was won by Allen Borkowski, of Smithport, North Carolina. Next year's reunion was set for July 20-22.

Fred G. Francis Is Elected To ABA House of Delegates

Fred G. Francis, a partner in the Prestonsburg law firm of Francis, Kazee & Francis, was elected last Wednesday to a three-year term as Kentucky state delegate to the American Bar Association's House of Delegates.
As state delegate, Francis heads a six-member contingent to the House from Kentucky, and is the representative of the nearly 7,400 Kentucky lawyers in the Association. The 380-member House of Delegates meets yearly to set association policy on issues of broad social impact, as well as those of more particular relevance to the legal profession. With nearly 300,000 members, the ABA is the largest voluntary professional association in the world. Francis previously served in the House of Delegates in 1970-'71.
Before his affiliation with his law firm, Francis was a major in the U.S. Army Air Force, serving in the Judge Advocate General Corps, and was Prestonsburg city attorney.
In the ABA, in addition to serving in the House, Francis is a former chairman of the Kentucky Membership Committee. He also has served as chairman of the National Conference of Bar Examiners, and has been active in numerous state organizations. He is a former chairman of the Kentucky Bar House of Delegates and of the Kentucky Board of Bar Examiners. He still is a member of the Board of Bar Examiners, and is a member of the Kentucky Judicial Council. He formerly served on the Special Court of Appeals of Kentucky, and on the Kentucky Legislative Research Commission. He is a member of the Kentucky and Floyd County bar associations, and in 1971 the state bar named him to receive its Outstanding Service Award.

Locally, Francis is a past president of the Kiwanis Club, and a former Sunday School superintendent of the Baptist Church. He has been a member of the Civil War Roundtable since 1962.
Francis was licensed to practice law in Kentucky in 1940, the year after he received his law degree from Washington & Lee University in Lexington. He was graduated from Pikeville College in 1934, and also attended the University of Kentucky in 1938.
Francis and his wife, Joyce C., reside here. He has two children, William G. Francis and Malissa F. de Lafosse. His son also is a partner in the Prestonsburg law firm.

"Annie" To End Theatre Season

"Due to the tremendous response to ANNIE, we have had full houses for each performance," said Jenny Wiley Theatre Managing Director John McCann. "In order to give everyone who wants to see the show the opportunity to do so, we have changed the final show of the season, on Sunday, August 21, to a performance of ANNIE."
Persons currently holding tickets or reservations to THE ROBBER BRIDE-GROOM on the 21st should contact the Jenny Wiley Box Office at (606) 886-9274. Reservations made for that performance of THE ROBBER BRIDE-GROOM will be honored for ANNIE, or can be exchanged at no charge for any other performance of THE ROBBER BRIDE-GROOM.

"This has been, by far, the most successful season in the three years I have worked at the theatre—artistically, financially, and attendance-wise," said McCann. "Attendance is nearly 20% over projections, and over 30% over last year's figures. All in all, it's been a tremendous year."
"Good seats are available at this time for the August 21 performance of ANNIE," said Dan Shepherd, Box Office Manager. "However, they are going fast." Good seats are also left for the remaining performances of THE ROBBER BRIDE-GROOM and GREASE. Although all reserved seats for the regularly scheduled productions of ANNIE (and for the Tuesday, August 16 benefit), standing room tickets will be made available, Shephard added. "Up to this point in the season, we have not had to turn away anyone who has come to the theatre. And, with the way the theatre is designed, there is plenty of room on the steps and under the rain shelter for standing-room people to see the show comfortably."
For reservations and information about group and individual tickets, call the box office at (606) 886-9274.

By HAROLD COOLEY

For aching muscles, many people look to a pharmacy's shelves for minty-smelling balms. These substances are known as counterirritants. When spread upon the skin, they cause an expansion of local blood vessels that increases blood flow. This in turn produces a warming effect on the underlying muscles as the blood automatically flows through them in an effort to reach the skin. The increased blood flow provides more oxygen for the muscles. If the cause of muscle pain is a lack of oxygen or a constriction of blood vessels, the counterirritants will generally bring relief. The major constituent of counterirritant analgesics is menthol which stimulates nerves to feel cold yet depresses pain nerves.

With so many different balms and salves on the market these days, you need not suffer from sore and aching muscles. Just ask us here at COOLEY APOTHECARY to suggest something, and you'll be feeling better in no time. And of course, we have a full service prescription center, so that we can take care of all your pharmaceutical needs. You can find us at #2 Town Center Bldg., where we're open Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30; Sat. 9-4. 886-8106.

HANDY HINT:

Menthol is a derivative of peppermint oil.

Record Enrollment Predicted For Fall Semester At P.C.C.

A record enrollment is predicted by Dr. Henry Campbell, director at Prestonsburg Community College, as registration for the fall semester gets under way next Wednesday.

"The number of applications for admissions and applications for financial aid are up approximately 33 percent over this time last year," commented Campbell who credited a "tremendous demand" for computer science courses as the primary reason for increased enrollment. "We have hired one full-time computer science instructor and two part-time instructors to meet the needs of the computer science courses," he said.

Registration will begin next Wednesday, August 17, with an orientation session for all new students and returning sophomores will register the following day. Registration will then continue on August 22 and 23.

The college admissions office stressed that students who have not yet filed an application with the college should do so immediately. "By applying early, students will have less difficulty in registering for classes during the registration period and this also gives college officials an opportunity to make whatever adjustments are required in the class schedule," a P.C.C. spokesman said.

Anyone having any questions concerning the 1983 fall semester class schedule and/or registration may call the admissions office at (606) 886-3863.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Lottie Holbrook would like to express thanks to all who helped during the passing of our loved one. Thanks to all who sent food, flowers, prayers and words of comfort during this time of sorrow; to the ministers for their kind and comforting words and to the Hall Funeral Home for this kind and efficient service.

Police Successful In Theft Arrests, Recovery Of Goods

Thousands of dollars worth of goods stolen in three separate thefts were recovered by Prestonsburg police this week and seven persons have been arrested in connection with the incidents.

Eleven of a total of 24 rare and antique guns stolen in July from the home of Adrian Lafferty on Abbott Creek were recovered Monday after a vehicle check by Prestonsburg Policeman Larry Woods. Prestonsburg Police Chief Dick Campbell said Woods, acting on a tip, investigated a van towing a car which was stopped at a service station here. The guns were found in the trunk of the automobile, Campbell said. The complete gun collection is valued at $21,000, it was said.

Arrested and booked at the county jail on charges of burglary and knowingly receiving stolen property were Basil Branham, 21, of David, Forest Dean Greathouse, 30, his wife, Veda Greathouse, 23, and David Monroe, all of Cleveland, Ohio. The four were reportedly en route to Cleveland when stopped by Officer Woods. Bond for the four was set at $25,000 each for each charge.

Stereo, video and other electronic equipment valued at $1,100 stolen recently from the home of Ray Greer on Abbott Creek was recovered Friday by Prestonsburg Policemen Greg Hall and Larry Woods and three persons were arrested. Charged with knowingly receiving stolen property were James C. Miller, Ancel R. Miller and Joseph Campbell, all of the Abbott section. A warrant has also been issued for an additional suspect in the robbery, Chief Campbell said.

Juvenile petitions have been issued for two Prestonsburg area youths following the robbery, Saturday night of the M. & L. Garage at West Prestonsburg. Prestonsburg Policemen Greg Hall and Stan Fletcher recovered $1,500 in tools the following day which were taken in the incident.

In District Court

Sentenced in district court, following guilty pleas or verdicts, were:

Ted Goble, drunk, $47.50 in fine and court costs; Bobby D. Slone, Prestonsburg, drunk driving, no insurance, $197.50, referred to Alcoholic Driver Education (ADE); Jerry W. Hamilton, Stanville, theft by deception, three counts, 60 days' probation, $97.50, on each count; Richard Allen, Wayland, theft, 30 days' probation, $97.50; Mack H. Lewis, Betsy Layne, carrying concealed weapon, $87.50.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Ted Gibson wishes to thank all who were so kind and considerate during our grief. We want to thank those who sent food and flowers and those who spoke words of comfort. We especially want to thank the Regular Baptist Churches and their ministers, the emergency room staff of Our Lady of the Way Hospital, the P. & B. Ambulance Service and Hall Funeral Home for being so kind and considerate. Your kindness will never be forgotten.

THE FAMILY OF TED GIBSON

Honored on 50th Anniversary

A surprise party at the Romulus, Michigan home of Mr. and Mrs. Glennis McCown marked the 50th Golden Wedding anniversary on July 19 of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis McCown, formerly of Ligon.

Attending were Mr. and Mrs. McCown's seven children—Mrs. Ramona Humphrey, Mr. and Mrs. Beverly McCown, Mrs. Lois Elswick, Mr. and Mrs. Glennis McCown, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis McCown, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Jones and Mr. and Mrs. Paul McCown. Sixteen of their 18 grandchildren and two of their five great-grandchildren were also present to honor them.

Other guests include two of Mrs. McCown's sisters, Mrs. Ralph Littleton, and Mr. Littleton, from Florida, and Mrs. Bruce Stanly, and Mr. Stanly, from Ohio; two of her brothers, Elza and Ellis Pennington, and their wives, all of Ironton; Mr. McCown's niece, Betty Mitchell, and her family, formerly of Ligon, now of Michigan, and nephews, Rodney, Larry, and Danny Pennington, and family. Also present were a group of Mrs. McCown's friends from the Calvary Baptist Church and a close friend of Mr. McCown's, Earl Allen Horn.

Mr. and Mrs. McCown were married July 20, 1933. He is now retired. They were presented with many nice gifts and cards.

Golden Anniversary

Fifty years of marriage,
We celebrate today.
My, ain't it funny,
It seems like yesterday.

They met in the coalfields,
Near a place called Big Mud.
There on the backroads,
They courted and fell in love.

On July 20th
In the year of '33,
In the presence of a Preacher,
Curtis said, Thelma, you belong to me.

They were both from large families,
With 7 kids or more.
And they had 7 of their own,
Running across the floor.

The kids all grew big,
And their needs all grew, too.
But the coal mines could provide,
For only a few.

In '63 they loaded up,
Came to Michigan with just one hope.
To find a job no matter how tough,
To feed the family they loved so much.

Now the kids are grown,
With young of their own.
And we would all like to say,
Happy Golden Anniversary on this Special Day.

Written for Curtis and Thelma McCown
by their son-in-law, Gary Jones.

Liddie Sammons Conn

Mrs. Liddie Sammons Conn, 84, of Martin, died Monday at Our Lady of the Way Hospital following a long illness.

She was preceded in death by her first husband, Johnny Conn. She was born February 7, 1899 and was a daughter of the late Tommy and Ester Carber Sammons, and was a member of the Church of Christ.

Survivors include three sons, Harley Conn, of Printer, Burley and Doug Conn, both of Martin; six daughters Pearl Sammons, Gracie Kilburn, and Mary Conn, all of Martin, Melster Maggard, and Verlie Sammons, both of Wabash, Ind., and May Mann, of Albion, Mich.; two brothers, Howard Sammons, of Chillicothe, O., and Jerry Sammons, of Cast City, Mich.; 47 grandchildren and 56 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be conducted Thursday at 2 p.m. at the Merion Funeral Chapel, the Revs. Ronnie Sammons, and Willie Newell officiating. Burial will be made in the Adkins family cemetery at Arkansas Creek.

Ross (Bud) Cooley

Ross (Bud) Cooley, 53, of Eastern, died Monday at Our Lady of the Way Hospital following a long illness.

He was born December 16, 1929 at Eastern and was a son of Jobie and Myrtle Martin Cooley, of Eastern. An accountant for the Johnson Mining Co., he was a member of D.A.V. Chapter 128 at Garrett, having served with the U.S. Army during the Korean Conflict. He graduated from Morehead State University with an AB degree and served as a member of the Floyd county Board of Education during 1960-1972, representing the third district.

In addition to his parents, he is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ina Abbott Cooley; two sons, Steven Ross and Gregory Wayne Cooley, both of Eastern; a brother, Alben R. Cooley, of Eastern; a sister, Mrs. Audrey Martin, of Lexington, and two grandchildren.

Funeral services will be conducted at 10 a.m. Thursday at the Hall Funeral Home chapel with Regular Baptist ministers officiating. Burial will be made in the Cooley cemetery at Eastern.

'All's Right with the World'...

Pippa Passes Incorporated

Next Monday, Pippa Passes will be an incorporated town, with the oldest—and one of the best-known—of the nation's mayors.

Incorporation of Pippa Passes, home of famed Caney Creek Community Center and Alice Lloyd College, was granted last Friday by order of Circuit Judge John Chris Cornett, himself a Caney alumnus.

According to the incorporation petition filed last month, June Buchanan, friend and longtime associate of Mrs. Alice Lloyd in the founding and development of the Caney Creek educational center, will serve as mayor until a mayor and a council of six are elected in November. A former college official said "Miss June" is 96.

Although incorporation was not endorsed by everybody,—some left outside the corporate limits wanted to be included,—the change was held necessary to cope with the law-enforcement situation there. The state highway winds through the campus, and security guards are without authority to make arrests in cases of reckless driving or other violation.

Judge Cornett reminded residents who would be included in the city limits that they may petition the council. The town limits may be extended later a mile on either side of the college.

Incorporation not only provides Pippa Passes its own police force. It also will make the town eligible for revenue sharing and severance tax benefits, and the latter in a good coal year, it was estimated, could run as high as $50,000.

As mayor, Miss June may also be the nation's most popular. Ninety per cent of her constituents will be college students, and they are aware of what she has meant to Caney Creek over a period of some 65 years.

NOTICE OF INTENT TO MINE FINAL NOTICE Pursuant to Application Number 836-0012

IMPORTANT NEWS FROM BASSETT'S CHAIRMAN OF THE BOARD!

MR. ROBERT SPILMAN
Chairman of the Board
Bassett Furniture Industries

In developing "Bargain Day U.S.A." Bassett Furniture Industries hopes to achieve three primary objectives:
First, to create the largest day of savings in history for America's Homemakers by assisting each participating store to offer important reductions on every item in their selection (not just Bassett products!).
Second, to introduce Bassett's exciting new products to as many consumers as possible in a very short period of time. We feel "Bargain Day U.S.A." with its wide range of appeal should produce the biggest crowds ever at fine stores across America.
Finally, by underwriting and coordinating the largest home furnishings savings event in history, we hope to say a most sincere "Thank you" to the millions of customers, and thousands of retail stores that have made Bassett the world's largest single brand furniture manufacturer. Thank you, and happy shopping . . . from all seven-thousand of us at Bassett Furniture Industries.
Sincerely, Robert Spilman

Named Post F President

Larry Jervis, psychometrist for the Floyd County Board of Education here, was elected last Monday president of Post F, Travelers Protective Association of America. He succeeds Wayne W. Ratliff as head of the 398-member organization in Floyd county. Other officers named were E.B. May, Jr., Prestonsburg, president; H.C. Francis, Prestonsburg, chaplain; Gordon Moore, Prestonsburg, secretary-treasurer. Named to the board of directors were Wayne W. Ratliff, Bobby Wells, C. Douglas Turner, Jackie D. Rice, and Denzil Ray Hall. Committee chairmen selected were: Publicity, James F. Francis; Welfare, Clifford Wright; Safety, John Wayne Stephens; Ritual, Lloyd Wells; Community Service, William James.

Wives are less likely than other women to work year-round full-time; and the presence of children affects the amount of time some wives devote to work outside the home: about 73 percent of wives with no children under 18 worked year-round full-time, compared with 44 percent of those with children, according to a publication of the U.S. Department of Labor.

Kentucky Fishing Report

Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 8—Fishing activity is light across Kentucky as hot, dry weather continues to discourage outdoor activities. The lake-by-lake run-down, as reported by fish and wildlife conservation officers:

PHS Cheerleaders Attend MSU Camp

The Prestonsburg Boys Varsity cheerleaders have returned from Morehead State University where they attended camp under the direction of the Universal Cheerleading Association. The girls attended classes and workshops on gymnastics, cheers, sideline chants, pyramid and partner stunts and other phases of cheerleading.

On the final day at camp the team was chosen as one of the top squads at the camp. Other honors received was a superior ribbon on their pom pom routine. On cheers and sideline evaluation, the girls were awarded one excellent and five superior ribbons, and were also awarded a Spirit Stick to be brought home. The girls earned this award three of the four days there.

A THANK YOU
I would like to take this opportunity to express my deepest gratitude to the 3rd floor nursing staff and the dietary department of Highlands Regional Medical Center and especially to Dr. William Cook for the exceptional care I received during my recent surgical stay at Highlands Regional Medical Center. A special thanks to Brother Bill Campbell for his help and prayer. With deepest thanks, MRS. OMA SPRADLIN

Dog Licenses Due July 1 But Sales Slow, as Usual

Most people remember when it's time to renew their driver's license or to buy the license for the family car. But one licensing date that can pass unnoticed is July 1, when dogs in the state should have new licenses," says state Agriculture Commissioner Alben W. Barkley II. The Agriculture Department's Division of Livestock Sanitation administers the dog licensing program for the state.

In 1954, the General Assembly passed the Kentucky Dog Law. It provides for each county fiscal court to employ a dog warden, for each county to create a dog pound and for each county to sell dog licenses.

According to the law, July 1 is the date to license all dogs six months and older. The license fee is $1.50, and the tag must be worn by the dog at all times.

Any dog without a license can be picked up and impounded by the local dog warden. Any person who does not license his or her dog is subject to a fine of between $5 and $100 or imprisonment for five to 60 days or both a fine and imprisonment.

"Each year it seems fewer and fewer dogs are being licensed," Barkley said. "While we're not sure why this is happening, we are sure the dog population is not declining. There are more and more unlicensed dogs in the state each year."

During the year ending June 31, 1982, the department licensed 79,676 dogs. According to early calculations from livestock sanitation, that figure is expected to drop by more than 12,000 for the year just ended, Barkley said.

"This is a good self-supporting program, but only as good as the counties' enforcement of the law," Barkley explained. "Half of the $1.50 stays in the county where the license is sold. The other 75 cents goes into a fund for Kentuckians who have livestock and poultry damaged by stray dogs."

"The program could be helped greatly by each county strengthening its license sales," he added.

Dog licenses must be purchased in the owner's county of residence.

Tom's Chips Softball Tourney Scheduled

Even though the regular softball season has ended at Archer Park with the past weekend's regional tournament, a good deal of slow-pitch play remains ahead as independent tourneys highlight the late season.

The Tom's Chips Tournament, which has been held for the past four seasons, is set for August 26-28 at Archer Park, according to Carl Hall, a tourney organizer.

Deadline for all teams to enter will be August 25, according to Hall. The tournament will be held, as in years past, at Archer Park.

For further information contact Carl Hall, 886-9461, or any member of the Tom's Chips team.

Softball was developed in 1887 in Chicago and was originally designed as an indoor game.

U.S.A.A. Award Winner

The United States Achievement Academy has announced that Mark Tussey has been named a 1983 award winner in biology. A student at Prestonsburg High School, he was nominated for the award by Jack Crider, biology teacher at the school. Tussey's name will appear in the United States Achievement Academy official year book, published nationally.

Students are recognized by the academy on the recommendation of teachers, coaches, counselors, or other school sponsors. Criteria for selection include academic performance interest and aptitude, leadership qualities, responsibility, among others.

Tussey, a son of Mrs. Marie Tussey, of Allen, and the late Grover Tussey maintained an A average through his sophomore year, and won the school award in biology as well.

Food Stamps Delay Result of Tardiness On Part of Congress

Some 30,000 Kentuckians eligible for food stamps received their August allotments one to two days late as the Department for Social Insurance did not receive authorization for the release of the benefits until late Sunday afternoon, July 31.

Social Insurance Commissioner John Cubine says his office finally got the "go" from the U.S. Department of Agriculture around 4:30 p.m. Sunday to distribute food stamps to recipients in the state. "Even though President Reagan signed the enabling legislation Saturday, we were told not to release any stamps until Agriculture officials put their 'OK' on the proper papers. When we got the word we put the stamps on the first mail trucks about 7 this (Monday) morning," Cubine said.

The delay in receipt of food stamps affected only recipients whose social security numbers end in the numbers "0" and "1". Cubine explained. Only the first mailing cycle was affected, and it was expected that most of those clients would get their stamps by last Wednesday at the latest. "Everyone else who gets their stamps through the mails should receive them on time, and everyone will be receiving 100 percent of their regular allotment," Cubine said.

The last minute authorization for release of the August food stamps occurred because of late Congressional approval of additional appropriations to fund the program through the end of the current federal fiscal year. In Kentucky some 185,000 households are eligible for food stamps at this time.

Family in 12th Reunion

The 12th annual Osborne family reunion was held July 31 at the G.F. Johnson Elementary School on Long Fork, Pike county. After a short business meeting, which included the election of officers and a board of directors for the coming year, dinner was enjoyed.

Ninety-six persons were in attendance at the reunion and the following prizes were awarded: Oldest—Lillie Osborne, 81, of Dorton; youngest—Joshua Hayne Tackett, 7 weeks; largest family present—Iva Hall, of Jonancy; farthest distance traveled—Don Mattingly, of Atlanta, Georgia.

Next year's reunion will be held July 29 at the same location. For information contact Ellis Osborne, president, Banner, Ky. 41603; Randall Osborne, vice-president, Box 46, Myra, Ky. 41549, or Doris Osborne, secretary-treasurer, Box 15, Price, Ky. 41654.

A Well-Kept Secret...

Home Care for the Elderly

Home care for older persons is one of the best-kept secrets in the state—this was the conclusion of 400 Kentuckians attending a Long-Term Care Conference at Kentucky State University last week.

"We have services out there to provide care in the home, but people don't know they exist, much less how to obtain them," said Cabinet for Human Resources Deputy Secretary Joe Smith.

At the two-day Frankfort meeting, health and social services workers and consumers discussed the growing need for long-term care for people who can no longer manage the activities of daily living without assistance.

"Up until four or five years ago, this care was provided only in nursing homes," Smith said.

Relying on nursing homes as the only providers of long-term care was short-sighted, according to State Representative Gerta Bendt, a conference panelist. "It was a quick fix," said Bendt.

According to a needs assessment, most older people did not like this "quick fix". Going to a nursing home for care was the last choice of 94% of older Kentuckians surveyed by the University of Louisville's Urban Studies Center.

National studies support the views of older people that they function better in their own homes. "A two-year study of people who received nursing care at home showed that those who were not severely ill experienced less deterioration than those treated in a nursing home, especially in mental function," said Dr. Sidney Katz, director of the New England Long-Term Care Center at Brown University and conference keynote speaker.

Dr. Katz believes where and how much care a person needs should be decided by how well they can continue to function, not by the names of their illnesses. "Doctors and other caregivers should ask their patients how well they are performing activities of daily living," said Katz. "For instance, if asked about my ability to move around, my answer could range all the way from being able to get out of a burning house by sliding on my rear end, to the ability to use public transportation without assistance. My answers to that and other questions about functioning should dictate my care needs."

The desire of older persons to remain at home and the escalating costs of nursing home care has led Kentucky and other states to establish home care programs. However, according to the long term care conference participants home care services are not yet coordinated, and there is no "road map" for people seeking services.

"The challenge now is to coordinate and manage the services so they are delivered in the proper mix to meet the needs of specific clients," said Peggy Mooney, director of the cabinet's Division of Aging Services. "If I need a bath, a meal, transportation to the doctor, and someone to give me a daily insulin injection, I'm not going to make it at home unless all those services are there when I need them."

Some consumers at the conference also think home care services are not sufficiently funded. In Kentucky nursing home care costs from $12,000 to $19,000 a year," said Barbara Sandford, Institute for Aging chairperson. "We need state and federal action to develop alternatives that will supplement but not supplant the care of family and friends."

Federal action to significantly increase home care funding is not likely, says Jeffery Lewis, a national specialist in health policy and reimbursement who spoke at the conference. "Congress is paralyzed by two conflicting emotions," he said. "Members of Congress want to respond to their constituents' strong wish to live at home, but at the same time they are scared of the cost of home care. Only documentation that home care is cost effective and a groundswell of demand will break this paralysis."

Hensley To Represent 7th Wildlife District

Gov. John Y. Brown Jr. has named Doug Hensley, of Hazard, and Pershing Hayes, Tyner, to serve four-year terms on the state Fish and Wildlife Commission.

Hensley will represent the seventh wildlife district and Hayes, the ninth. Both districts are in Eastern Kentucky.

Hayes, an oil company executive, will be serving his first term. Hayes replaces Danny Coffey, Jamestown, and Hensley replaces Tim Dash, of Jenkins, on the commission.

Commission members are selected by the governor from a list of five names from each district submitted by sportsmen after a special election. The nine-member commission, which meets quarterly in Frankfort, serves as an advisory body to the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. Among its duties are setting season dates and other game and fish regulations and approving the department's budget.

Triple-Amputee Vietnam Vet Elected To Lead Disabled American Veterans

"Just let me die!" whispered the young soldier to his platoon sergeant seconds after a Viet Cong "booby trap" land mine mangled his body.

Unwilling to listen to such talk, the sergeant ordered Dennis A. Joyner to stop wishing for death, telling him he had much to live for. "Right then," the Vietnam combat vet says today, "my whole attitude turned around. I wanted to be a winner—to overcome any obstacle life put in my way."

After losing both legs and an arm, the Apollo, Pa., man found life's obstacles steep, but he came out a winner. Last week, his fellow-members of the three-quarter-million-member Disabled American Veterans (DAV) chose him to lead their organization through the coming year. The election took place at the DAV's national convention in Los Angeles.

Joyner fears his year at the DAV's helm will be one of the most difficult years in the history of veterans' affairs. "A full decade has passed since the signing of the Paris Peace Accords ended the Vietnam War," he commented. "And so many have forgotten that veterans' benefits are part of the cost of war, that our country has a moral obligation to those who spilled their blood or lost their health while defending us."

"Combine that forgetfulness with the demand for reduced government spending," he continued, "and you've got a real problem for veterans, particularly disabled vets."

Joyner has served the DAV well at the national, state, and local levels. He was elected to several DAV national vice command offices prior to attaining the office of national commander. At the state level, he served as the DAV Department of Pennsylvania second and third junior vice commanders, and he was commander and chapter service officer of DAV Chapter 36 in his hometown of Vandergrift, Pa. In 1977, the triple amputee was selected as the DAV's national Outstanding Disabled Veteran of the Year.

In addition to serving the DAV, the combat veteran is active in civic and church activities. He is a member of the VFW, AMVETS, and American Legion and was appointed to serve on the Pennsylvania Vietnam Hericide Commission by Pennsylvania Governor Richard L. Thornburgh.

Joyner served four years as the Westmoreland County Juvenile Service Center accountant and was fiscal manager for the Westmoreland County Courts in Greensburg, Pa. In 1979 he was appointed Westmoreland County court administrator, responsible for administration of the eight-judge court system and all court-related offices.

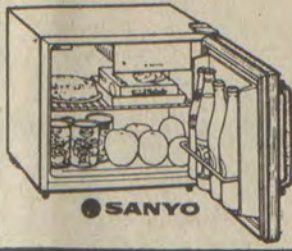

Joyner lives in Apollo, Pa., with his wife, Donna. He is the father of two young sons, Dennis, Jr., and Paul.

"Dare To Be Great" Banned In Kentucky

According to Attorney General Steven L. Beshear, in 1972, the Office of the Attorney General, Division of Consumer Protection, filed a lawsuit against Glenn W. Turner Enterprises and the self-motivational program, Dare-To-Be-Great. A lengthy trial was held in Fayette Circuit Court, Lexington, resulting in Turner being enjoined from operating the Dare-To-Be-Great program within the Commonwealth. The Court also ordered that monies be paid to the Division of Consumer Protection for distribution to consumers who had invested in the program and for whom a refund had been approved by the Court.

Due to the outdated addresses and telephone numbers, the Division of Consumer Protection has been trying for several months to locate consumers eligible for the Court approved funds. The Division is asking those individuals who invested in the Dare-To-Be-Great program prior to December 20, 1972, and who believe their names may be on the Court approved list, to contact the Division of Consumer Protection at (502) 564-2200 by August 23, 1983. Those individuals who have been in contact with the Division since May 20, 1982, need not call.

Bradbury Is Named To College Board

Three new trustees—Raymond Bradbury, Jr., Ballard W. Cassady and Herman L. Dotson—have been named to the Board at Pikeville College, and three are returning after a leave of absence.

Raymond Bradbury, of Prestonsburg, is president of Martin County Coal Corporation. He graduated from Berea College Academy in 1946 and received a B.S.E.M. degree from West Virginia University in 1950. Bradbury then served in the United States Air Force from 1951-1954 as an officer and aerial navigator and as a navigation instructor.

Bradbury is director and past president of the Big Sandy-Elkhorn Coal Mining Institute, director of Kentucky Coal Association, director of Mining and Reclamation Council of America, member of Governor Brown's Coal Policy Council, member of the six-man Big Sandy Regional Airport Board, and a trustee member of Highland Regional Medical Center's governing board. He is also a member of the First United Methodist Church in Prestonsburg and chairman of the Administrative Board.

Bradbury and his wife, Clara, have a son, Philip Neal, and a daughter, Barbara Heslin.

Ballard W. Cassady, M.D., of Pikeville, a staff surgeon at Pikeville Methodist Hospital, is a 1940 graduate of the Pikeville College Academy and was awarded an M.D. degree from the University of Louisville Medical School in 1946.

Cassady is past president of the Kentucky Medical Association, the Kentucky Chapter of American College of Surgeons, and the Kentucky Surgical Society, chairman of the Board of the Kentucky Medical Insurance Company, member of the Board of the Kentucky Physicians Financial Service-Federal Credit Union, member of the Board of the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce, member of the Board of the First National Bank and the First National Company, member of the Board of the Kentucky Blue Cross and Blue Shield, chairman of the Board of Sandy Valley Explosive Company and a member of AMA, KMA, and the Pike County Medical Association. He is also a member of the First Christian Church of Pikeville.

Cassady is married to the former Ann Thompson. They have four children, Josephine C. Smith, Morehead; Cynthia C. Venables, Denton, Texas; Ballard W. Cassady, Jr., and Ben T. Cassady, both of Pikeville.

Herman G. Dotson, of Pikeville, attorney at law, graduated with an AB degree from the University of Kentucky in 1938 and an LLB and JD degree from the University of Kentucky School of Law in 1939. He served in the United States Military service from 1941-1946. Dotson was assigned the first three years as Military Police Officer in California, served one year as a captain in the 71st Division, and in combat in Germany and Austria in 1945, and served one year as a prosecutor in Military Government in Germany in the Nurnberg area from 1945-1946.

Ends Recruit Training

Seaman Apprentice John E. Duff, son of Harold E. Duff of Hippo, has completed recruit training at the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Illinois. During the eight-week training cycle, trainees studied general military subjects designed to prepare them for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 basic occupational fields.

In the early 1960s, about half the women in the U.S. were keeping house full-time while 37 percent were in the labor force; by 1982, these proportions were reversed—53 percent of women are working or looking for work, while 35 percent were keeping house, according to a publication of the U.S. Labor Department.

Dotson practiced law in Pikeville from 1940-1941 and from 1946 through the present. He served as Master Commissioner of the Pike Circuit Court, 1952-1958; President, Pike County Bar Association, 1955; Assistant Commonwealth Attorney, Pike County, 1966; Hearing Officer, Workman's Compensation Commission, 1967-1969; member, House of Delegates, Kentucky Bar Association, 1970-1983, and member, Client's Security Fund, Kentucky Bar Association, 1975-1983.

Dotson is a present member of the Urban Renewal and Community Development Agency for the city of Pikeville, since 1968, and the present chairman from 1971-1983; and a member of the Board of Directors of the Methodist Hospital.

Returning to the Board of Trustees after a leave of absence are: Eugene M. Bane, managing partner, Flanary Coal & Land Company and Bane Mining Company; Juanita H. Ford, Chairman of the Board/CED, Triton Seafood, Inc.; and George F. Walker, Investments, Coal Land Management.

First Birthday

A Smurf birthday party was given for Desirae Anjelica Tackett, Saturday, July 16. She is the daughter of Namon and Irene Tackett, of Craynor. Her maternal grandparents are Edna and Narvin Hall, of Craynor, and her paternal grandparents are Phyllis Jean Tackett, of Harold, and the late Asa Tackett.

She received many nice gifts and cards from her uncles, aunts, cousins, and friends. Guests included her sister Tina, Paulene Tackett, Denise and B.J. McKinney, Don and Joyce Daugherty, Scott Hamilton, Amon and Penny Tackett, Timmy Tackett, Pauletta Hall, Delorse and Leon Chad, Stewart, Russell Hall, Romalou, Jelinda, Rozalyn Hamilton, Elizabeth Nancy McKinney, Renee and Bradly Salisbury, Gelinda and Anitra Stumbo, Richie Wright, Tiffany, Brad, Bill, Jamie Hunt, Benji and Brook Mahan, Gloria and Carmel Ray Tackett, Kevin Hamilton.

The cake was made and designed by Gelinda Stumbo. The photograph was taken by Cosetta Newsome.

Presence of Arsenic Detected in Stream

Martin county residents have been warned to avoid Big Elk Creek because tests show the presence of arsenic. The poison situation came to light after dead opossums and raccoons were found during a routine inspection of a nearby legal dump.

Samples in and around the dump showed the presence of chromium and arsenic, according to John L. Bailey, of Prestonsburg, environmentalist with the Martin County Health Department. Creek water also contained the chemicals.

The samples were taken June 17, but not until last week did the state notify Bailey, who then visited 20 households to warn residents to keep their children and animals out of the creek.

Bailey said he couldn't assess the seriousness of the situation, but "saw minnows and other aquatic life in the stream...Drinking the water one time wouldn't be fatal, but continued usage could be harmful."

Alex Barber, director of the Division of Waste Management in the Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet, said the dump has been receiving liquids in violation of solid-waste regulations. He said the amount of arsenic in the stream is "enough that we are concerned."

Bailey said the source of the chemicals has not been determined, although officials suspect a septic tank cleaner may have put the waste there. Martin County Judge/Executive John Callahan said he plans to close the dump, and has posted a night watchman there. Bailey said Callahan has talked to a local mining company about taking garbage to a nearby strip mine and covering it.

Bailey said costs of cleaning up the site are likely more than the county can afford.

Growing Child

LEARNING TO CLASSIFY

"What's this?"
"What's that?"

When children ask these questions, they are in the process of learning how to classify things—to distinguish how objects are alike and how they are different.

We are always classifying things, grouping things. We classify things all day, every day, automatically. Children start learning this skill early in life, according to Growing Child, the monthly child development newsletter.

Who cares? We all do. Because we have to. Because we can't live without being able to tell the difference between aspirin and arsenic.

It's classification that tells a child how to think about the world, where to look for a crayon, what part of a catalog will have a picture of a doll. It tells a child she can expect to find bears in the animal crackers and jelly next to the peanut butter on the shelf.

Most important, classification skill will show a child how to create order out of chaos, how to cope confidently with unknowns in the future when parents will not be around to give answers.

It looks simple, but classification isn't as easy as apple pie. For example, in the supermarket, soft drinks are arranged on shelves by brand, flavor (lime, orange, cherry), by size (quarts, pints), by number (six-packs, eight-packs), and by type of container (can, bottle).

How does a child learn to classify things? You help her. Almost every minute of the day, she hears and sees you using the idea of same and different that underlies all classifications.

The Growing Child newsletter follows a child's development month-by-month. For more information and a free sample newsletter, write to Growing Child, P.O. Box 620N, Lafayette, Indiana 47902. Include child's birthdate when writing.

Wedding Plans Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Ben J. Spradlin, of Martin, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Spears, of Betsy Layne, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their children, Lisa Anne and Jeffery Len.

Miss Spradlin is a graduate of J.H. Allen Central High School and Prestonsburg Community College, majoring in English.

Mr. Spears is a graduate of Betsy Layne High School and Prestonsburg Community College, majoring in electrical engineering.

The couple will reside in Lexington where they will attend the University of Kentucky.

Their vows will be exchanged Saturday, August 13, at 7 p.m. at the Martin First Baptist Church. The gracious custom of open church will be observed and everyone is invited.

Phone rates are increasing. It's your right to know why.

Increases in local phone rates are urgently needed. Because phone service is vital to all Kentuckians, we feel you have every right to know why.

How big an increase are we proposing? The average Kentuckian's total home phone bill* would go up 45 percent, from $36.21 to $52.53 a month. Taking advantage of discounted service options could greatly reduce the difference between old and new rates.

Looked at another way, our request would set rates for premium flat rate home phone service, unlimited local calling, at $35.53 a month—just $1.17 a day. Other discounted options could make home service available for as little as $12.53 a month or just 41¢ a day.

Why raise rates?

It's hard to give a quick explanation, because the reasons are complicated. Here are the facts in a nutshell.

1. Competition is here to stay in the telecommunications industry. While that means lower prices for many services, it also means higher rates for local phone lines. Before competition, all local telephone companies, including South Central Bell, were allowed to use profits from long distance service and phone equipment rental to offset—subsidize—the cost of local phone service. Nationwide, 40 cents of every dollar of long distance revenue goes to subsidize local phone service. Today, this and other subsidies amount to well over $100 million in Kentucky. There's already a lot of evidence that competition in long distance and equipment will lower prices. That's good for long distance users and people buying telephones. But it means less subsidy to help pay the way for local phone service. Before long, the subsidies will be almost totally gone. The unavoidable result is that local phone rates must go up, and local service must pay much more of its own way.

2. All industries are using new technology to save money, and the telephone business is no exception. But rapid advances in technology, and the changing needs of customers, mean equipment becomes obsolete faster. We need to account for the rapid changes in technology through faster depreciation rates. We will reinvest the dollars this generates in new equipment, so Kentucky homes and businesses can enjoy the benefits of new cost-saving technology sooner. Faster depreciation rates mean higher rates now, but in the long run they will help stabilize local rates by cutting the total investment customers help pay for.

3. By any measure, service in Kentucky is good, as good as anywhere. But the demands placed on the telecommunications network are constantly increasing: Kentuckians make well over 9 million calls a day, and the number is growing; more people and businesses have phone service than ever, and that number is growing too. It costs a lot—over $450 million in 1982—to meet all your communications needs. Beyond that, some of the toughest competition these days is between cities and states vying for the jobs provided by high-tech, Information Age businesses. The local telecommunications network—in any size town—is one of the keys in attracting such companies, and that means a boost to the whole economy. An up-to-date network is also important in preparing Kentuckians young and old to do the jobs that need to be done in the Information Age. We need to keep upgrading and improving our network to make sure that Kentuckians—at home and on the job—can share in the benefits of the Information Age with the rest of our nation.

4. Some say we could solve our problem by simply cutting back our operations in Kentucky, and being more efficient. They're wrong. We'll match our efficiency and productivity with anybody's. We've cut our work force by 24 percent since 1980, and still increased productivity every year. And service has never been better.

This rate request isn't brought about by inefficient operations, and it isn't needed to shore up sagging service quality. It's needed to replace the financial subsidies lost through deregulation; to recognize the true expense of depreciation in a technologically driven and increasingly competitive industry; and to cover the higher costs of providing, maintaining, improving and expanding Kentucky's telecommunications network.

There's an awful lot of work to do in Kentucky, and we must be financially healthy to do it. That's what this rate case is all about.

What's in this for you?

No increase is popular, whether it's for phone service or a loaf of bread. But once we get our prices in line with our costs, and fix the imbalances caused by 50 years of subsidy, the Information Age promises great things for all Kentuckians.

- Widespread competition, which means lower prices for many services and products, like long distance calls and telephone sets.
- Options like Measured Service (a discounted local phone service), to help you control your phone bill.
- A healthy telecommunications network that's ready to serve all comers and put Kentucky at the front of this country's Information Age explosion.

The Information Age is here, and a head start goes to the places with strong telecommunications networks. We think Kentucky can be one of those places.

Before you stop reading, consider:

Every state in the U.S., and every local telephone company, is facing the music—local phone rates must go up. Kentuckians must decide how important it is to stay in tune.

As we said earlier, it's hard to give a quick explanation of so many complicated issues. We'll be glad to give you more details. Just fill out the coupon below and send it to us.

The Alarm (IRS) — This five-song EP introduces a young band from Wales who can best be described as the Byrds crossed with the Clash. Using acoustic guitars as their weapons and socio-political outrage as their shield, they bring feeling and sincerity to their simple songs. Promising.

Fun Boy Three — "Waiting" (Chrysalis) — The Fun Boys are what remains of Britain's ska masters, the Specials. They no longer play upbeat ska music, but weave percussion and commentary into a dark fabric that would be as entertaining as detention were it not for producer David Byrne's (Talking Heads) deft touch. If you wonder why anyone would want to do a dub version of "Our Lips Are Sealed," it's because FB3 vocalist Terry Hall co-wrote the song with the Go-Go's Jane Wiedlin.

Hayley Mills stars in "The Flame Trees of Thika"

'Flame Trees of Thika'

Is it a coincidence or possibly history repeating itself? Whatever, there's a striking similarity between the British settlers in Africa depicted in Elspeth Huxley's "The Flame Trees of Thika" and American settlers who opened this country's Western frontier.

Adapted from Ms. Huxley's memoir of her own childhood in pre-World War I Africa, a seven-part dramatization of "The Flame Trees of Thika" encores on Mobil Masterpiece Theatre on PBS beginning Sunday evening, Aug. 14. (Please check local listings for time.)

It's the story of the Grant family — Robin (David Robb), his wife, Tilly (Hayley Mills) and their daughter Elspeth (14-year-old Holly Aird) — who leave their secure London home to become coffee planters in the almost-unexplored region south of Nairobi in what's now Kenya.

If their experiences on the African frontier seem familiar, it's because they closely resemble experiences of American homesteaders in the unsettled Old West. In Africa, the Grant family encountered wildlife and tribes in this country who were similar to the Masai and Kikuyu tribes. American settlers plodded their way westward in covered wagons, as did the Grants while traveling to Thika in a battered old wagon drawn by oxen and led by an African guide.

August—"Child Find" Month

August has been designated as "Child Find" month in Kentucky by Raymond Barber, superintendent of public instruction.

The purpose of Child Find, according to Barber, is to identify and locate any handicapped child who is not attending school, or a child who is attending school but not receiving the proper education. Barber stated that many special services may be available to such children, once found, through the Department of Education's Bureau of Education for Exceptional Children and the local school districts.

Child Find is a cooperative effort conducted by the State Department of Education, local school districts, other agencies serving handicapped children, and various parent groups.

Barber encouraged public support for Child Find. "Every child deserves an opportunity to learn—to be independent of others; Child Find can give them that chance," he said.

Besides identifying handicapped children in need of special services, the Child Find project is designed to make citizens more aware of services available to handicapped children in the public schools. He emphasized that an estimated one out of every ten students has some type of handicapping condition requiring special educational services.

Parents, relatives and concerned citizens who know of unserved handicapped youngsters are urged by Barber to refer them to local school districts. Information being sought includes the child's name, age, suspected handicap, and parents' address and phone number.

Handicaps to be identified include retardation, hearing and speech impairments, visual problems, emotional problems, orthopedic and health impairments, multi-handicaps and learning

Cancer Hopeline

Q. I think I have cancer because I have had some unusual bleeding. Could it be something else? I'm terrified. What should I do?

A. You are right; that unusual bleeding is one of the seven warning signs of cancer. (The others are a nagging cough or hoarseness, change in a wart or mole, persistent indigestion or difficulty swallowing, a lump or thickening in the breast or elsewhere, change in bowel or bladder habits, or a sore that does not heal in two weeks.) These signs may indicate cancer, or they may mean something else. The only way to find out is to see a physician. Don't put it off.

Learn the facts and start dealing with them. Knowing instead of wondering takes away much of the fear. If it's nothing serious, you will be relieved; if it is cancer, you can do several positive things:

—Once you have seen a physician, get as much information as possible so you can make the best decisions.

—Make sure you have the right physician for your kind of cancer. Ask questions and do not hesitate to seek a second opinion if you feel you should do so. It is often advantageous to have your condition evaluated by more than one expert.

—Insist on hearing all the alternatives before beginning treatment. Insufficient information may limit your options at the start.

—Take an active role with the physician in planning your fight against cancer so you can live your life the way you want to.

—Make notes and have a family member with you when discussing your case with the physician. Later you can talk it over.

—Don't deny cancer or leave everything to the doctors. Learn as much as you can about what is happening to you. Denial closes out the facts. Knowing the facts facilitates hope.

—Remember that the doctor will work with you to control the cancer. If one treatment fails, there are others available.

—Without doubt, the most difficult times are diagnosis and early treatment. It takes a lot of adjusting before you are ready to mobilize all your resources to face and plan the future. Expect some depression and anxiety, and do things you enjoy to overcome these feelings. Share your thoughts and allow others to help you cope. The support of family and friends is a powerful aid in the fight against cancer.

Counselors at the Cancer Hopeline can help you survey the alternatives when making difficult decisions about cancer. Call toll free 1-800-4-CANCER weekdays from 9-5, or write us at 915 South Limestone, Lexington, Ky. 40536.

COOL CAR CARE COSTS

For hot weather, don't change your radiator thermostat. In today's cars, it's calibrated to keep things running at most efficient temperatures year-round.

Check your oil every third gas fill-up, and change as recommended, to help keep dirt from building up. Also contributing to peak performance and less maintenance, a modern detergent gasoline works to keep your carburetor clean.

You don't "save" by using plain water in your radiator; keep it full of water mixed 50 percent with a good "anti-freeze" year round; it fights rust, and you need it for your air-conditioner, too. Change your coolant every two years.

Vacuum or brush accumulated insects off your radiator to let cooling air through.

For safety and best gas mileage, keep tires at recommended pressures, and check them when your car's been standing in the shade a couple of hours.

And park in the shade whenever you can. Your car's exterior, like yours, stays healthier out of the hot sun.

They Also Suffer . . .

Trees, Plants Hit by Drouth

More than gardens and farm crops are suffering from lack of rain and an over-supply of heat.

Drought conditions persisting for the last couple of months have taken a toll on trees and other plants as well as lawns.

The injury being inflicted now can continue to cause problems for trees and shrubs in years to come, according to Dr. Robert E. McNeil, Extension specialist in nursery crops, University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

McNeil says the problems may show up as slow plant decline or as infestations of insects or diseases.

"New plantings are suffering more than normal, mostly because of lack of expanded root systems," McNeil said. He explained that because of spring rains, many plants were not planted until late, and these plants were not able to establish themselves well enough before the dry weather arrived this summer.

"This condition will establish 1983 as a year of more plant loss with newly planted items than occurs in most years," the specialist said.

He added that loss is also occurring with 1981 and 1982 planted stock which still tends not to be large enough to have root systems to support them during severe droughts in upper soil levels. Large trees may not be suffering as much if their root systems are into soils of lower depths where water is available, according to McNeil.

The specialist reported that trees and shrubs native to moist areas, but which are now located in drier commercial and residential landscape sites, are showing the most injury.

The shallow-rooted Burning Bush has either died or is showing full foliage color. Maples, such as Sugar and Red, also are browning out in foliage as they are drying. Leaves turning black are due to rapid water loss on days with high evaporation rates, according to McNeil.

Other plants, such as Willows, Birch, Tulip Tree and Sycamore are defoliating yellow leaves, notes the specialist.

McNeil says that damage of trees such as Canadian Hemlock is not easily noticed because they will die from lack of water without the leaves changing color. "Once this stage is reached, touching the plant will cause all the needles to fall off. When this happens, the tree is dead with little warning," he said.

Certain sites are showing more plant losses than normal, according to McNeil. During 1983, north side landscapes, which tend to need less attention than those on the south or west side, are suffering from lack of water as much as other segments of the landscape, he said.

In commercial or industrial areas where trees are planted in small islands surrounded by larger areas of asphalt or concrete, tree losses are higher than normal. Trees in open space of at least the minimum recommended size of 14 feet by 14 feet may be in much better condition, reports McNeil.

While plants which are defoliated or have brown leaves may be beyond saving, trees and shrubs just beginning to show symptoms need water to remain healthy, advises the specialist.

Has 87th Birthday

Mrs. Rosa Hall celebrated her 87th birthday July 11 at her home at Galveston.

Present for the occasion were four of her nine children, Marie Hall, Louise Spears, Elmer and Hubert Hall. Grandchildren present included Evelyn Brewer, Betty Hamilton, Connie Hamilton and Debbie Bailey; great-grandchildren were Lora and Stacy Brewer, Jason and Julie Hall and Bryanne Hamilton. Also present was her daughter-in-law Lou Ellen Hall, her granddaughter-in-law Frona Hall and her grandson-in-law Eddie Bailey. Cake and ice cream was served. She received many nice gifts.
