This Town...That World

With the thermometer crawling back up toward the boiling point, this may not be a timely remark, but I give it as my considered opinion: Anybody who hasn't enjoyed the last few days of blessed relief from the heatstroke has already succumbed to same.

NOW FOR THE OLYMPICS!

People still engage in foot-races, broad jumps and the like, I learn via t.v., but I am surprised to learn that they no longer know the art, or science, of swinging a rock as a springboard for the jump.

This might run into aerodynamics, or kinetic energy, or something, but it really was quite simple. You loaded yourself with a flat rock weighing, say, 20 pounds, toed the mark, began swinging the rock from side to side with both hands, and if your timing was right slammed it to the side, hopefully missing ankles and feet, and as you jumped literally rode the air cushion thus created.

I remember well how it was done and how it added distance to the leap. But I will not accept any invitations to demonstrate.

Lafferty Is Named Trial Commissioner To Succeed Martin

Thomas Lafferty, Sr. was named trial commissioner this week, replacing Ellis Martin, who resigned the position last week.

A trial commissioner assists the district court judge by issuing warrants and setting bonds, especially outside of the judge's regular work hours.

In making the appointment, District Judge Harold Stumbo cited Lafferty's previous experience and the fact that, as a motel operator, "he has to be up all night, anyway."

Lafferty previously served about a year as trial commissioner, resigning in the fall of 1981 when his brother, the late Jerry Lafferty, Jr., ran for county judge-executive. He has also served as a police judge in Prestonsburg.

Stumbo, Patton Agree, But...

Lack of Indemnity Holds Up Plan To Use Prison Labor

District Judge Harold J. Stumbo says that if Workmen's Compensation is provided, he is ready to use the labor of prisoners in the county jail in clearing litter from highway rights-of-way.

The statement was made in response to a letter from Ed Patton, general manager of District 12, Department of Highways, Pikeville, urging a prison labor program.

Patton suggested the program for non-felons, with possibly shorter jail terms offered in return for such work. The Highway Department, which, he said, is unable to employ more workers for litter pick-up, would supply signs and colored vests for the protection of prisoners.

"A program of this type," wrote Patton, "would provide taxpayers visible results for tax dollars spent to house prisoners. In addition, we could all take pride in our litter-free right-of-way."

Judge Stumbo, who had earlier shown his interest in a prisoner labor program, likes Patton's idea. But it's more complicated than the mere issuance of a work order.

"I hope," he wrote the highway manager, "you can see the position I would be placed in if one of the men (a prisoner) got injured out on the highway. If the Commonwealth of Kentucky will assure me that these men are covered by a blanket insurance policy, then I will be glad to cooperate with you."

Stumbo said he had "encouraged" the county to take out Workmen's Compensation on prisoners assigned to work detail but added, "they will not spend money for it."

He said an alternative to such insurance coverage would be to have the General Assembly enact legislation giving each judge immunity from liability if a prisoner is injured. "This," he wrote, "has been done if the state of Virginia and I have long argued that we should follow one of our sister states if that...state has a better system than ours."

2 Die, 1 Wounded In Estill Affray

Two brothers died and a third man was left wounded and in critical condition late Monday afternoon as the result of a gun battle staged at short range inside an Estill home.

Dead at the scene were Walter S. Lazar, 37, at whose residence the shooting took place, and Reginald G. Lazar, 34, also of Estill.

Charles Martin, 39, also a resident of Estill, was shot in his abdomen one time and was listed Monday night after surgery at the McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital as in "critical but stable" condition.

The shooting apparently was confined to two rooms of the house—the living room and the adjacent kitchen. The body of Walter Lazar, who apparently was shot seven times, lay in the kitchen when officers arrived at the scene. His brother, shot one time in his back, lay in the living room.

Meanwhile, Martin, though wounded, had left, driving his own vehicle. He is reported to have driven, unaided, to the hospital.

Investigation of the affray is being headed by State Police Detective Keith Scott. He was joined at the scene by sheriff's deputies, Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen, Coroner Roger Nelson and Wayland police. Time of the shooting was placed at around 4 p.m.

Detective Scott was in Lexington Tuesday while autopsies were being performed on the bodies of the victims and could not be reached for a statement. Other investigators said they had been told trouble had existed between Martin and one of the Lazar brothers for some time.

Mrs. Deborah Lazar, wife of Reginald, was quoted by Coroner Nelson as saying she was at the Walter Lazar home while her husband was working on a vehicle in the yard of the home. When Martin came to the door and knocked, she answered, and was asked if Walter Lazar was at home, according to this information, and when she told Martin that Lazar was inside he said he wanted to speak privately with Lazar and asked her to leave.

She and her children had walked only a short distance outside, she was quoted as saying, when the shooting began. Investigators said they learned that Reginald Lazar had quit work on the vehicle and entered the house after seeing Martin enter.

The finding that the brothers were shot a total of eight times raised the question, "Did Martin have two weapons?" No empty cartridge cases were found on the floor, indicating that an automatic weapon was not used. A revolver holds only six cartridges. It was not learned if Martin had one or more weapons in his possession when he arrived at the hospital.

One revolver of .38-calibre was found beneath the body of Walter Lazar.

Receives D.A.V.'s Top State Award

Hershel Joseph, formerly of Prestonsburg and now serving as National Service Officer for the Paralyzed Veterans of America in Louisville, was presented the Disabled American Veterans organization's highest state award, The Kentucky Outstanding Disabled Veteran of 1982-'83, at the 56th annual convention of the Department of Kentucky Disabled American Veterans Awards Presentations recently. Joseph, a disabled veteran of the Vietnam War, was chosen for this honor from among a state membership of 19,000.

Joseph is the son of Mrs. Corbin Joseph, of Prestonsburg and the late Mr. Joseph.

Husband's Plea For Lower Bail Set for Hearing

Separate indictments were voted by a special grand jury here last Wednesday against the three men jailed as conspirators in the June 20 death of Glenda Sharon Marshall, 35, McDowell High School teacher.

Named in the indictments alleging complicity to commit murder were Clyde Douglas Marshall, 31, of McDowell, husband of the victim; Bobby Gene McGuffey, 30, Lafayette, Tenn., a half-brother of Marshall, and Carl Harold McFarland, 52, of Glasgow, Ky.

Each of the indictments was labelled a capital offense, and conviction could mean the death sentence.

Marshall was charged with "soliciting, aiding, counseling with or planning with Edward Wright, Bobby Gene McGuffey and Carl Harold McFarland the murder of Glenda Sharon Marshall, which was consummated on June 20, 1983, when the said Glenda Sharon Marshall was killed by Edward Wright and Bobby Gene McGuffey, who placed her into her automobile which was set afire and run over Sizemore mountain."

The "soliciting" accusation was omitted from the indictments of McGuffey and McFarland, but McGuffey was named with Edward Wright as having part in the act of murder itself.

Wright was shot and killed July 8 outside the cabinet shop which he and (See Story No. 4, Page 4)

Politics Shape Up for Nov. Test

Supporters of John M. Stumbo will have to campaign this fall after all. That became clear when Ron Frasure was officially selected by the Republican executive committee last week as its candidate for judge-executive. And Frasure's announcement was followed Monday by reports that Stella Mae Lafferty is entering the race as an independent.

It will be Frasure's third bid for the post. He lost by 1207 votes to veteran judge Henry Stumbo in 1977 and trailed Bill Wells by 1739 votes two years later.

Mrs. Lafferty, the widow of former Judge-Executive Jerry Lafferty, Jr., made no secret of the fact that she expected to be named by Gov. John Y. Brown to fill out the unexpired term of her husband, who died May 5. The governor named Barkley J. Sturgill to the post instead, but Sturgill resigned after the Democratic executive committee endorsed John M. Stumbo as the party candidate.

All 14 candidates for Prestonsburg city council will apparently be on the (See Story No. 3, Page 4)

Bus Inspection Sets School Opening Back

Floyd schools will be closed to students at least until Monday, following a state "recommendation" that the school district's 60-bus fleet be inspected and necessary repairs made before the buses roll.

Also at the suggestion of state officials, School Transportation Director Wayne Ratliff has been transferred from the district's central office to the bus garage at Garth, where he has taken over direct control of the maintenance program.

And—although both state and local officials say they did not ask for it—garage supervisor Palmer Martin has handed in his resignation.

The delay in opening the schools—students were scheduled to start back today (Wednesday)—was announced Monday in a brief notice issued by Superintendent E.P. Grigsby, Jr. The notice still lists today as opening day and indicates that teachers are to be at their posts. Monday, Aug. 22, is now listed as the first day for students, however.

Paul Jones, director of the division of pupil transportation in the state Education Department's Bureau of Administration and Finance, led a group of four in an inspection of Floyd school buses on July 5. They were part of an eight-member inspection team which scrutinized various Floyd school departments, July 5 through 15, following allegations of incompetence and neglect directed at Floyd school officials by a citizens group here on June 8.

Jones said his team selected 20 buses at random for close inspection. Two were found to have faulty brakes; the springs were gone on one; and many had damaged seats, leaving sharp metal edges exposed in some cases.

"We recommended that they pull every bus in and go over each one from bumper to bumper," Jones said.

West P'burg Youth Injured In Weekend Shooting Incident

Prestonsburg city police are continuing an investigation into the shooting and wounding of 16-year-old Timothy Caudill, early Saturday morning at West Prestonsburg.

Caudill was struck in the shoulder by a large caliber bullet, according to police, as he walked along the railroad tracks at West Prestonsburg. The victim told police a car occupied by two persons pulled alongside the track and one, a female, jumped out of the vehicle, shouted "There he is," and fired a single round in the youth's direction.

Prestonsburg Police Sgt. Darrell Conley, who along with Officer G. Clark, is conducting the investigation, said Caudill was treated and released from Highlands Regional Medical Center.

Floyd Girl, 'Homecoming Queen'

Shawn Curry, 18, of Bypro, (at left), was crowned America's Homecoming Queen, and Jodi Unruh, 17, Eugene, Ore., was America's Homecoming Princess at America's Homecoming Queen Pageant at the Riviera hotel, Las Vegas, Nevada. Seventy-six representatives from the 50 states competed.

It's a long way from the Wheelwright High School football field to a glittering stage in Las Vegas, Nev., but a Floyd county girl recently made Shawn Renee Curry, 18-year-old daughter of Vernon and Gail Bailey, of Bypro, won the title at the national pageant held July 7-10 at the Riviera Hotel in Las Vegas. Miss Curry, who was Wheelwright High School's 1982 football homecoming queen, represented Kentucky in the competition, having won the title of "Kentucky's Homecoming Queen" in Louisville last March. In Las Vegas she competed with homecoming queens from across the nation in modeling and personal interviews and presented a speech on Kentucky.

Upon capturing the national title, Miss Curry was awarded a crown, roses, a plaque, $5000 in scholarships to both modeling school and the college of her choice and will represent the nation's high schools as their homecoming queen on various trips to Hawaii, California and other states. She also won the pageant's Public Relations award, was guest of honor at a reception and was serenaded at the MGM Grand Hotel by a band playing "Kentucky Rain."

She was sponsored by the Floyd individuals and businesses, the First Commonwealth Bank, Big Sandy Insurance, The Bank Josephine, Carl Hall, Earl Castle's Jewelry, First Guaranty Bank, Hall Funeral Home and State Senator Benny Ray Bailey.

Sexton Draws 3rd Jail Term

Charles Douglas Sexton, 25, pleaded guilty Monday to two counts of complicity to commit burglary, and received a one year jail sentence on each count.

The charges stemmed from break-ins at two Martin businesses, the Rexall Drug Store and Frazier's Restaurant, last February.

Sexton recently received a one-year sentence for receiving stolen property, in connection with the theft of a safe from Druther's Restaurant in Martin. He was arrested on the burglary counts while awaiting trial on the earlier charges.

Circuit Judge Hollie Conley ordered that the two sentences meted out Monday be served concurrently but that they follow the sentence Sexton is already serving.

"I have straightened out since the last time I was in jail. I see how to make it now," Sexton told the judge. But Conley said that, given Sexton's criminal record, he ought to order that the two new terms be served consecutively.

Instead, he accepted the recommendation of David Barber, Sexton's court-appointed attorney, that the sentences be concurrent.

Assault charges against two women and their father—charges stemming from the 1981 strike against Highlands Regional Medical Center—were dismissed in circuit court here last week.

Gwen Calhoun and Geneva Skeans and their father, Henry Calhoun, were accused of beating Helen Smith in the parking lot of the IGA store here, May 1, 1981.

Miss Calhoun and Mrs. Skeans were on strike against the hospital at the time; Mrs. Smith was a non-striking hospital worker.

Mrs. Smith moved with her husband to Bloomington, Indiana, shortly after the alleged attack and indicated strongly that she did not wish to return to prosecute the case, explained Commonwealth's Attorney James Allen.

★ CANCER HOPELINE ★

This question and answer column is provided as a public service by the McDowell Cancer Network. Questions are answered by appropriate specialists associated with the Network and represent some of the inquiries made by callers who use our Hopeline.

The Cancer Hopeline is a toll free consultative telephone service available to any Kentuckian who has a cancer-related problem. Qualified counselors take calls Monday-Friday from 9-5 and return recorded messages the next working day. They do not diagnose cancer, recommend treatment for individual cases, nor dispense money. Counselors do provide consultations with specialists as well as support and understanding. Because of its designation by the National Cancer Institute and Kentucky's Cancer Information Service, the Hopeline has rapid access to the latest cancer information. All matters are treated confidentially. Call the Cancer Hopeline toll free at 1-800-4-CANCER, or write us at 915 South Limestone Street, Lexington, Kentucky 40536.

Q. My grandmother is dying of cancer at home among her loved ones. She is content, and she even helps us adults accept things. There are several young children in the family. Is there any book to use in talking with them about what is happening?

A. Our instinct as parents is to protect our children, but as you have suggested, it is better to teach them about death. Check your library for the books discussed below as well as others on the subject. Adult references are Anna Wolf's Helping Your Child to Understand Death, Eda LeShan's Learning to Say Goodbye When a Parent Dies, and The Bookfinder, a two-volume reference is helpful in locating books on many situations confronting children.

Q. How Do I Feel? by Norma Simon, I Have Feelings by Terry Berger, and Feelings by Phoebe and Tris Dunn may be used in discussing the child's experiences and the value of expressing feelings.

Stories about growth and change in nature teach that death is inevitable. Examples are Spring Is a New Beginning by Joan Walsh Anglund, Spring Is Like the Morning by M. Jean Craig, and Alvin Tressell's The Dead Tree. Nana Upstairs by Tomie DePaola is a picture book that describes a boy's warm relationship with his great-grandmother, who dies.

Expression of grief is also important, and books can help. It is recommended that parents read the book first and that the child not be pushed beyond his emotional capabilities at any given time. The Tenth Good Thing About Barney by Judith Viorst, Old Dog by Sarah Abbott, and Arnold Dobrin's Seat! deal with expression of grief. In Jennifer Bartoli's Nonna, Nonna is dead, and her family laugh and cry together as they share memories of her.

Death occurs in many fictional stories. One of the classics is Louisa May Alcott's Little Women. The Big Wave by Pearl Buck tells of Jiya's loss of his parents in a tidal wave and his foster father's wisdom in helping him overcome his bitterness. E.B. White's Charlotte's Web also deals with death and grieving. Walking Away by Elizabeth Winthrop, The Mulberry Music by Doris Orgel, Constance Green's Beat the Turtle Drum, Katherine Rattison's Bridge to Terabithia, and Judy Blume's Tiger

Eyes are also fine books for older children.

Children may cry when reading or discussing these books. Such emotional release is natural, and it will help if an adult comforter says something like "Crying helps sometimes. I cry, too, when I'm sad."

Q. I've heard people say things about cancer that I know aren't true, but I can't prove it. Can you help?

A. In answering calls and letters to the Cancer Hopeline, counselors at the McDowell Cancer Network have learned that there are a great many myths and mistaken ideas about cancer which are generally accepted. One of the main purposes of Hopeline is to provide accurate information, and so this column will be devoted to clarifying two cancer myths.

MYTH: It doesn't hurt, so it can't be cancer.

FACT: If a person waits to be examined until a cancer causes pain, few cancers will be diagnosed in the early stages. Indeed, some cancers are not painful even in the late stages.

Since cancer in the early stages can be painless, it is vital that anyone noticing any bodily change see a physician immediately.

The seven cancer warning signals are: unusual bleeding or discharge, a lump or thickening in the breast or elsewhere, a sore that does not heal, change in bowel or bladder habits, hoarseness or cough, indigestion or difficulty in swallowing, change in the size or color of a wart or mole.

MYTH: Cancer is contagious.

FACT: Cancer, in the usual sense, cannot be caught from another person so there is no need for the relatives and friends of a cancer patient to avoid him/her. Sometimes the husband or wife of a cancer patient avoids intercourse because of fear of infection. Such avoidance of sexual contact or even of touching or breathing the air in the same room with the patient is unnecessary.

In addition, such avoidance isolates the patient and may make him feel guilty of being "unclean" at the very time he needs more love and acceptance, not less.

People believe cancer myths. Most of them are the result of their fear of cancer. Counteract fear with knowledge. Call the Cancer Hopeline toll free at 1-800-4-CANCER. Ask for "Myths and Misconceptions About Cancer" and "Cancer: Every Body's Enemy." The Hopeline hours are from 9-5 weekdays, or write 915 South Limestone Street, Lexington, Ky. 40536.

HELP THE WIDOW THROUGH GRIEF STAGES

The newly widowed (or "widower-ed") progresses through several emotional stages during mourning. If you recognize these as "stages," it may enable you to help her work through her grieving more fully and effectively.

Sorrow is a basic emotional stage of mourning and very common, often accompanied by self-pity and/or feelings of guilt.

Anger is another stage, a resentment against a "cruel world" which has taken one's mate prematurely.

Fears for the future "without him" as companion and breadwinner are not unusual to a new widow.

Anxiety makes her wonder "who will provide for the family" and "how will I manage my finances alone?"

The widow's confidence in her own abilities needs to be strengthened so her entry into the world of reality may be achieved more smoothly. As a widow, if she recognizes these stages as natural and common to all, the social adjusting she does will be easier, faster, more effective.

School Meals Program

A family of five with an annual income of $15,504 qualifies for free pupil meals under the School Lunch Program adopted by the Floyd County Board of Education for the coming school year. And a family of eight could earn as much as $21,606 and still enjoy the same privilege.

The listing of family sizes begins with one individual who would be eligible to free meals with an income of no more than $6,318. A one-member family, it was explained by Blanche Dingus, school lunch-breakfast program supervisor, would be represented by a child not living at home with parents but in an institution. If the income of such a child should exceed that total, he or she would be eligible to meals at reduced prices (40 cents for lunch, 25 cents for breakfast) as long as the total income per year did not exceed $8,991.

The following table lists family sizes and income criteria.

FAMILY SIZE	FREE MEALS if family income is within
1	0 to 6,318
2	0 to 8,502
3	0 to 10,686
4	0 to 12,870
5	0 to 15,054
6	0 to 17,238
7	0 to 19,422
8	0 to 21,606

REDUCED PRICE MEALS if family income is within
1-6,319	to 8,991
2-8,503	to 12,099
3-10,687	to 15,207
4-12,871	to 18,315
5-15,055	to 21,423
6-17,239	to 24,531
7-19,423	to 27,639
8-21,607	to 30,747

FLOYD COUNTY HEALTH NEWS

By JANE BOND
Health Educator

Cervical cancer kills approximately 11,000 women each year, yet cervical cancer can be one of the most curable of all cancers. If the disease is detected in its earliest stages, treatment can begin thus saving many lives.

There is a simple painless test for cervical cancer. This is the pap test. It takes only a few moments of a woman's time and can determine whether cancer cells are present.

The Floyd County Health Department is having a Pap Clinic on Friday August 19, from 8:30 until 11:30 and from 1:00 until 2:00. This clinic is a free service of the Health Department and is open to women of all ages, but those women age 45 and over are especially urged to take advantage of this service since this is the high risk age for the disease.

A nurse from the Health Department will be in Wheelwright at the Library on Monday August 22 from 10:00 until 2:00. She will offer T.B. skin tests, urinalyses, anemia screening, blood pressures, and immunizations. This clinic is a service of the Health Department and the public is welcome.

A "furnace" in a plant? Because skunk cabbages often begin to bloom before the snow melts, the plant produces its own heat when blooming, which melts the snow around it, says National Wildlife's Ranger Rick magazine. This heat also attracts insects chilled on nippy nights, which may pollinate the plant.

LEGAL TERM
In his excellent Courier-Journal column Byron Crawford recently told of a lawyer-friend asking him if he had ever heard attorneys use the phrase, "Dingusing a case."

The story runs to the effect that a fight had taken place in which one of the combatants had bitten off a goodly portion of his adversary's ear. The matter went to court. The attorney for the defendant was named Dingus. And Dingus went in to the business of discrediting the only witness to the altercation.

"Did you actually see the accused bite off the man's ear?"
"No," the witness admitted, "I did not see him bite it off."

The case might have been won if Dingus had stopped there, but he roared back, "Well, what did you see?"

Then came the answer: "I saw him spit it out."

(This anecdote has more than local interest for me. The fight between the two took place in the Floyd county jail, and I was personally acquainted with most of those involved in the case. The man who lost part of his ear was my onetime Salt Lick neighbor, Jasper Moore, and the attorney was my respected friend, former county attorney and state senator, William Dingus, of Prestonsburg.)

Nothing new to report on the wildlife situation this week, except to record the good news that the missing rabbit showed up, hale and hearty, last week in my neighbor's yard. But he hasn't graced our premises again. Maybe the grass is greener over there, or it's a few yards farther from the nearest cat.

The official report of the state inspection team will not be made public, or even released to local school officials, until it has been presented to the state Board of Education this month, it was said.

Grigsby said this week he has no criticism to make of the bus maintenance crew—the garage at Garth employs a staff of 11—and Jones said he could not comment on the garage workers' performance since "I don't know where they had to begin."

"But I will say that not enough has been done," he said, noting that the bulk of the bus maintenance program should be done during the summer school vacation.

"Sometimes we are accused of nit-picking," Jones said, adding, "We don't apologize for that—not when children's safety is involved."

While Grigsby attributed the delay in opening school to the district's "undergoing such tight scrutiny from the state" in the wake of citizen protests, he said he had no objection to the state's attention.

"Any time they can help us better the school system, I welcome it," he said. "We can't always see our own problems. Sometimes an outside entity can be more objective."

Some credit should be given to groups like the Floyd County Citizens Education Council and McDowell Concerned Parents for drawing state attention to the district's problems, Grigsby acknowledged, although he still feels stung by the education council's public allegations of incompetence and neglect.

"My pride was hurt. My character was hurt. They have a right to their opinions but they could have achieved (their objectives) without as much pain," he said this week.

For their part, at least some members of the citizen groups feel that this week's impounding of the buses, like the tighter textbook policy announced two weeks ago, confirms the truth of their charges. "We complained about the buses all last year. We told them there was something wrong with the brakes. We tried to get something done and they ignored us," said Ann Bailey, a member of McDowell Concerned Parents. "Now they are finding out that what we said was true."

Does nature benefit from human pollution? In one case the answer is yes, the August Reader's Digest declares. Gulls that hang around garbage heaps and dumping grounds rear more chicks than those favoring offshore islands, where such a reliable food source is not so readily available.

(August 15, 1973)

A legal battle appears in the offing as the Floyd fiscal court proposes to issue 20-year franchises to operators of community cable television systems in the county. Franklin Circuit Judge Henry Meigs last week issued an injunction restraining the Flatwood Mining Company from stripmining coal at two sites on Toler Creek, this county. Junior Shepherd, 30, of Hueysville, scoop operator for the Beaver Creek Division, National Mines Corp., was instantly killed last Tuesday when the deck of a tractor which he was pushing slid beneath that of another. A Floyd county mining company joined 21 others last week in a U. S. District Court suit filed at Pikeville to challenge the constitutionality of the black lung law's new provisions making them responsible for benefits on claims dating after July 1. By mid-autumn construction of the UMW hospital at McDowell will be under way to provide medical care for United Mine Workers Welfare and Retirement Fund beneficiaries. Thirty-three child desertion cases are set for trial at the term of circuit court which convenes September 7, and this offense appears so often on the docket that three days of the term have been set aside as "Child Desertion Days." Cpl. Charles Ray Boyd, 21, of Prestonsburg, last week became the fourth Floyd countian to be released from Korean prisoner of war camps. Patricia Ann Lafferty, five months old, of Garrett, is Floyd county's second reported polio case this year. With Councilman Walt Hale given some assistance by the city and with free labor and some cash contributions, a playground with swings and seesaws has been installed for West Prestonsburg children. Two touchdown passes thrown by all-state, all-southern John Delmar Hughes, of Prestonsburg, gave the East a 14-13 upset victory over the West, last Saturday night at Lexington. Floyd county's quota of 452 selectees to be called into service next month will complete the scraping of the "barrel" for all the county's single men, married men without children and men who became fathers after Pearl Harbor, it is believed. ### Parent Group Responds

We, as parents of Wheelwright High School students would like to respond to an article in the Floyd County Times on Aug. 10. In this article Mr. Danny Johnson stated that we were a small group that did not know what was best for our school.

Mr. Johnson, we would like to ask:

1. Is it best for our children to attend classes in a building where electrical wiring has been in hazardous condition for approximately five years?

2. Is it best for our children to attend a school where the restrooms are out of order most of the time and present a health hazard to our children?

3. Is it best for our children to eat in lunchrooms where bugs and rats roam?

4. How can our children learn music when there are snakes in the instrument cases?

Mr. Johnson, why is it our school has been broken into so often when your rent, gas and water are being paid by the Floyd County Board of Education for the explicit purpose of overseeing the school? A result of your paid duties is the loss of our T.V. computers and tape recorders.

As for us being a very small group, we would like to inform you that we have 567 people in our group. How many people did you get when you tried to get a group this past summer to fight our support for Mr. Don Daniels? We supported Mr. Daniels because we felt that he would be the best person for our children. The Floyd County Board of Education, instead, gave us Mr. Pack and would tell us nothing about him. Why? We felt that there was no reason to hire out of our area when we had someone here who has proven his ability as a principal.

Mr. Johnson, you said in your article the Floyd County Board of Education supported your basketball camp this summer. What was your total share of funds received? As you know, all of these funds are taxable and should be reported on your 1040 tax form. Of course, you are allowed to deduct the amount you paid the Board of Education for a private business in a public facility. Why is it that our school has so little money spent on it by the Board of Education, yet we see so much, including "blacktopping," being done in other areas of the county? Other areas deserve their school being kept up. So do we.

The negative things, you referred in your article last week are very important to the people. We, "the concerned parents of Wheelwright High School," have in the past kept quiet. The results are quite obvious. Our children are not receiving the education they deserve, and if requiring our board member and our superintendent to be accountable for their decisions, then we will continue to be very negative about our school. Because if a negative attitude will get better facilities, more teachers, more class offering, more teacher aids and a better athletic program, then, yes, we will be very negative.

PAT VICARS, Box 136, Melvin ANNA HUNT, Jacks Creek

The Martin County Show

Bill Moyers' research was evidently as shallow as the viewpoint he expounded on CBS News' Our Times program about Martin county. If Moyers had studied the situation thoroughly rather than assume Homer Marcum is infallible, he might have seen that another tax would not be the savior he claims Martin countians are looking for.

Severance tax was supposed to have provided the solution to Eastern Kentucky's problems. According to Kentucky Department of Revenue figures, Kentucky coal producers paid more than 530 million dollars in severance tax in the past thirty months. Martin county was second only to Pike in total dollars paid. How was that money used to improve the standard of living there? How much of that money is being used for basic services such as sewage treatment plants, educational and recreational facilities, health care and roads for the residents of Martin county?

In addition to severance tax, these same coal producers pay corporation tax, property tax, sales tax, use tax, excise tax, black lung tax and reclamation tax. It is absurd for Bill Moyers to tell us that an unmined minerals tax is going to accomplish what none of the others have.

His Favorite Teacher

During our recent summer reunion at Berea College, we honored author, Harriet Simpson Arnow, and musician, Bradley Kincaid, as Distinguished Alumni.

Over 1,300 alumni and friends were on the campus that weekend and a capacity crowd of 425 was in attendance at our banquet.

Since others seated at the head table spoke about our two honorees, I decided to pay tribute to the thousands of distinguished, but relatively unknown, dedicated teachers—especially one who was in the audience. My remarks for the July 9, 1983 banquet follow:

"Last week I began my 9th year as Director of Alumni Affairs at Berea College. Tonight's banquet is the 17th at which I've spoken.

"At previous banquets, I've made brief remarks about many things such as: Berea's social regulations and how to break them (years ago); sports activities; the "finding" and eating of turkeys, strawberries, fresh milk and eggs; holding hands under the trees (since we could not have cars) and so on. "Tonight, I'd like to pay tribute to the thousands of Bereans who have encouraged young people to attend this wonderful college.

"Each of you can well remember what and/or who led you to Berea.

"And in many cases it was a teacher.

"Our college has been successful in graduating dedicated teachers—knowledgeable, well trained, those who aroused curiosity—but more importantly, those teachers who were interested in their students as individuals. They were warm, loving, and knew whether to pat you on the back, place a hand on your shoulder, or correct you in a positive manner.

"As I mentioned earlier, there have been thousands of Bereans who've guided others to Berea.

"In my case, my family was encouraging, my cousin and her husband, Wonnell Bussey Godsey, '54, and Garland Godsey, '53, were encouraging (they said, "Yes you can have fun at Berea College while working and learning.") My 9th grade civics teacher, Nelvia Lowe Hunt, '52, had told me about Berea, as had alumni Ray and Clara Blackburn Bradbury—and I'm grateful to them.

"I had several excellent teachers at David, Prestonsburg, Berea, U.K. and E.K.U. But the teacher who was most instrumental in my coming to this college is the one I typify as representing the large number of Bereans who have influenced others—and the ones I tried to describe earlier.

"She was the best teacher I ever had. "There are four members of the current Berea faculty whom she taught: (1) our Associate Dean of Academic Affairs, Paul Hager; (2) the Chairman of our P.E. Dept., Joy May Hager; (3) our Director of Admissions, John Cook, and (4) me.

She taught Latin and was our librarian at Prestonsburg High School.

"So, 24 years after graduating from high school I say thanks to all who've influenced young lives, especially my favorite, Miss Linda Stephens, Berea graduate, 1933. Miss Linda, I love you!"

RODNEY C. BUSSEY, Director of Alumni Affairs and Associate Vice President of Development, Berea College

A Smelly Situation

If you see me speeding while going to or from Wheelwright, it's not that I'm trying to break the law. It's because I can't hold my breath any longer.

The sewer system is a disgrace. I think it is high time someone does something about it.

I remember when we had outside toilets and it wasn't half that bad.

I'd like to know why the Health Dept., hasn't done anything about this. I have reported it myself to the Wheelwright Utility Commission and the Floyd County Health Dept. It's no wonder our children are coming down with hepatitis and other diseases. I'd like to ask the people in Wheelwright and the surrounding area to help do away with this problem. Write Carl D. Perkins and let's clean this problem up before it kills us.

MRS. FREEMAN PATRICK Bypro, Ky.

RETURN HOME

Mr. and Mrs. John Rosenberg and children, Michael and Ann, returned Monday after visiting relatives and friends in Columbus and Cincinnati, O., and vacationing at Mammoth Cave.

Secrets of Skeleton Revealed

By THOMAS HARVEY
Smithsonian News Service

When sausage-maker Adolph Luetgert did away with his wife, Louisa, in one of Chicago's most notorious murder cases in 1897, he disposed of her body by dissolving it in a vat filled with a caustic solution containing 375 pounds of potash.

Luetgert might have gotten away with his gruesome crime, had it not been for one George A. Dorsey, a physical anthropologist at the Field Museum of Natural History.

When police searched for Luetgert's missing wife, they found Louisa's ring and four small pieces of bone in the congealed sediment of the vat. At the trial that followed, Luetgert's lawyers based their defense on the argument that there was no corpus delicti; the tiny pieces of bone, they contended, could not be identified and, in fact, might be those of an animal. But Dorsey, an expert witness for the prosecution, had compared the bone pieces with human skeletal collections at his museum, and he authoritatively identified the bits of bone as those of a woman. Luetgert was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Dorsey's appearance at the Luetgert trial is one of the early landmarks in the history of forensic anthropology, a field concerned with the identification for law enforcement agencies of bones known to be, or suspected of being, human.

In the 19th and early-20th centuries, forensic anthropology was a specialty engaged in only occasionally by a few anatomists and physical anthropologists. In the last 50 years, however, it has come into its own as a highly sophisticated scientific discipline with certified practitioners in 19 states and Canada.

During this half-century, the Smithsonian's National Museum of Natural History in Washington, D.C., has established itself as the most active center for forensic anthropology work in the United States—primarily because of its unparalleled collections of human and animal skeletons and its special, albeit informal, relationship with the Federal Bureau of Investigation located only a block away from the museum.

The museum has three resident physical anthropologists who are interested in forensics—Dr. T. Dale Stewart, Dr. J. Lawrence Angel and Dr. Douglas Ubelaker. Spanning three generations, they have more than 70 years of forensic experience among them. With the help of research assistants Stephanie Damadio and Jennifer Kelly, they handle hundreds of forensic cases every year for the FBI and state and local law enforcement agencies.

Outside the offices where the Smithsonian scientists work is a long hallway lined from floor to ceiling with tiers of drawers containing carefully cataloged skulls and bones of more than 30,000 individuals, from modern Americans to ancient Egyptians.

This skeletal collection, the largest in the world, has served for most of this century as a basis for studies comparing ancient and modern peoples, the principal research of concern of Stewart, Angel and Ubelaker. But it has also served as the basis for identifying the skeletal remains of victims of crime.

"These remains can be anything from a complete skeleton to tiny fragments," says Ubelaker, who gets a new case from the FBI crime lab almost every week. He begins an identification by determining if the bones really are human and how much time has elapsed since death.

"I estimate the age of the individual by relating on patterns of tooth development as well as arm and leg bone growth," Ubelaker explains. "The sex of an adult skeleton can usually be determined by looking at the structure of the pelvis. Stature is calculated by measuring arm and leg bones, using formulas derived from documented skeletal materials.

"We look for anything about the individual that might be unique. Especially valuable is evidence of past medical problems. Medical records—X-rays, for example—can sometimes be found and compared to the remains to make a positive identification.

"Finally, we check to see if there are signs of foul play, such as the crushing or breaking of bone, knife marks and damage characteristic of bullets."

Dr. T. Dale Stewart, who at 81 years of age is the dean of the Smithsonian's forensic anthropology, recalls how "we got into this crime business. It was because of our collection and because most medical examiners and coroners had and still have their hands full dealing with flesh-covered remains and haven't time to develop the highly specialized knowledge and techniques needed to analyze and identify skeletal material."

The first Smithsonian scientist to identify bones for the FBI was Stewart's old boss, Ales Hrdlicka, a world-renowned physical anthropologist. When Hrdlicka died in 1943, the FBI began coming to Stewart.

"An agent would drop over to see me once or twice a month with some bones and a list of questions," Stewart remembers. "As it turned out, one of the first lots of bone they brought me—in a cardboard box, as I recall—led to a murder trial."

The bones had been found by laborers cleaning out an abandoned well at a farm near Quantico, Va. Stewart identified the material as bones from a white male, around 28 years of age, about 5 feet 10 inches in height, probably left-handed and with signs of pyorrhea (bone loss around the necks of the teeth).

Some military buttons from the same well led investigators to the Marine Corps base nearby and to the record of an ex-Marine who had been a bootlegger during Prohibition days, 15 years earlier. The man disappeared around that time, and it was believed that he was killed in a hijacking incident. There was a suspect, but in the absence of a corpus delicti no legal action had been taken. Stewart's identification established the corpus delicti, and the suspect was belatedly tried for murder and convicted.

The accuracy of Stewart's skeletal identification was startling. Although he had overestimated the victim's age by two years, Stewart had come within half an inch of his height. On the witness stand, the victim's mother testified that her son was left-handed, and his last dental record as a Marine diagnosed him as having pyorrhea.

"The accuracy of my identification seemed remarkable then," Stewart says. "Today, identification feats of this sort are commonplace. Physical anthropologists who pursue this line of work have more knowledge and better techniques."

Stewart stopped taking on FBI cases when he was appointed director of the National Museum of Natural History in 1962. But in the last decade, as the museum's physical anthropologist emeritus, he has resumed an active interest in forensics.

Drawing on his many years of experience, Stewart has written a highly praised textbook on forensic anthropology, giving valuable advice on every important facet of the field, from how to differentiate between human and animal remains—bear paws look so much like human hands and feet that even trained anatomists have been fooled on occasion—to tips on how to conduct oneself when on the stand as an expert witness in a court trial.

Tracing the history of forensic anthropology in America also has been one of Stewart's main interests in recent years, and he says it has involved as much "sleuthing" as some of his forensic cases. It was Stewart who brought to light the story of George Dorsey and the Luetgert trial.

Dorsey attended Harvard where he came under the influence of Harvard anatomist Thomas Dwight, the first American scientist to begin investigating ways to best estimate stature and sex from skeletal remains. Dwight (1843-1911), known as "the father of American forensic anthropology," held the Parkman professorship of anatomy at Harvard Medical School in the late-19th and early 20th centuries.

By coincidence, George Parkman, a wealthy patron of the Harvard Medical School, was himself a memorable figure in the history of forensic anthropology in America; Parkman, however, is more famous for the grisly way in which he met his death in 1849 than for his philanthropy or research.

Parkman had loaned money to Professor John W. Webster of Harvard. When pressed for payment, Webster invited Parkman to his office after school was out and murdered him. Then, in an effort to prevent the victim's identification, he cut off the head, hands and feet and consigned them to the furnace in his laboratory, disposing of the rest of the body down his privy. Some of the burned bones and other remains were recovered and, at the trial, another Harvard professor, Jeffries Wyman, became one of the first American anatomists to testify in court on the identification of a skeleton. Webster was found guilty and hanged.

In the years since the Webster trial, the methods used by forensic anthropologists have become considerably more sophisticated. But one thing has not changed: Given the right encouragement, skeletons do not hesitate to reveal their secrets.

Local Adventist Members Return From Cayman Isles

Meredith and Walt Snyder, of the Prestonsburg Seventh-Day Adventist Church, returned last week from the Cayman Islands. They were part of a "mission impact" program that involved volunteer young people from Seventh-Day Adventist churches in Kentucky and Tennessee. The Snyders served as chaperones, guidance counselors, and helped direct the mission work. The team of young people conducted a day camp, something like a VBS. The Snyders, both registered nurses also helped conduct a 5-day plan to stop smoking, and a crusade was begun during their time there.

The Cayman Islands are south of Cuba, part of the British West Indies. Walt drew duty as a chauffeur and found driving on the left side of the street a real challenge. The left-handed gear shift was pure frustration. But there was time for play, too—swimming at the beach, walking along the sand, or enjoying a tropical sunset. Both enjoyed the trip very much, and the local church is proud to have been represented by them.

Mr. and Mrs. Regg Perkins, of New Jersey, have been the guests of his grandmother, Mrs. Dee Burchett. They also visited his aunt, Mrs. Ruth Ann Gray, and family.

Jimmy L. Allen and Doug Coburn, of Robinson Creek, were business visitors in Louisville last Tuesday and Wednesday.

Lyman Branham is recuperating at home after spending several days at a Lexington hospital and is much improved.

SOUL INSURANCE
How To Get It Free!

By Town Hall, 5433 Ruby Place, Sarasota, Florida 33581

No doubt you have fire insurance on your home; insurance on your car; insurance on your health. Such forms of insurance are very necessary and they cost you money. But do you have any Soul Insurance? This is the most important insurance you can have, and it is free for the asking. Jesus himself issues the "policy". "For by grace (God's mercy) are ye saved, through faith, (in Jesus); and that not of yourselves: It is the gift of God: Not of works, lest any man should boast." (Ephesians 2: 8-9). God's blessed Son, Jesus, gave his life, and spilled his precious blood on Calvary, to provide Soul Insurance for all who would repent of their sins, and receive Him into their hearts, through faith, trusting Jesus for eternal life. (Romans 5: 8).

Many people died last night. Where did their immortal souls go? The Bible, God's Holy Word, pictures two places — Hell and Heaven. The only way to stay out of Hell and get to Heaven is through Jesus, God's son, and the Soul Insurance he gives to all who repent and believe. "He that believeth on him is not condemned: but he that believeth not is condemned already, because he hath not believed in the name of the only begotten Son of God." (John 3: 18).

For all have sinned and come short of the Glory of God." (Romans 3: 23). There is none righteous, no, not one." (Romans 3: 10) Any God-called preacher should preach often about Hell and the awful punishment in Hell, which burns with fire and brimstone. "Where their worm dieth not, and the fire is not quenched." (Mark 9: 43-48). Moreover, the Soul's Destiny is fixed when death strikes.

Coming back from a trip to Kentucky this summer, I noticed a large sign along the road in Tennessee, which read

If you go to Hell
It's your own fault

"How true that is," I thought.

God does not arbitrarily put a person's soul in Hell. "God sent not His Son into the world to condemn the world, but that the world through him might be saved." (John 3: 17). A person's soul goes to Hell because he will not accept God's love, and his remedy for sin — Jesus Christ, God's Son. A person's soul goes to Hell because he will not repent of his sins, and come to Jesus and receive Him into his heart as his own personal Savior and Lord. "He that believeth not the Son shall not see life, but the wrath of God abideth on him." (John 3: 36). "The unbelieving shall have their part in the lake which burneth with fire and brimstone." (Rev. 21: 8)

Let me add quickly Jesus died and spilled his precious blood at Calvary for sinners. But this does not automatically keep sinners out of Hell or take them to Heaven. I wish preachers would give more emphasis to this point. Jesus only provided the remedy for man's sins by his death on Calvary. There is something for man to do himself before the saving process is completed. Man must seek Jesus and accept Jesus. Man must repent of sin and believe in Jesus. Jesus himself came into Galilee, preaching the Gospel of the Kingdom of God, and saying, "the time is fulfilled, and the Kingdom of God is at hand. Repent ye and believe the Gospel." (Mark 1: 14-15). Jesus does not force any man to accept him. The predestinated choice belongs to man. If a man refuses to receive Jesus, he has already rejected him and is headed toward Hell. Beware! Jesus himself says, "Behold I stand at the door (of your heart) and knock, if any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he with me." (Rev. 3: 20).

You can go to your doctor, and get medicine for your ailments, but if you do not take the medicine, it will do you no good. I can hold out my hand with a twenty-dollar bill in it, meaning to give it to you, but it is not your money until you receive it into your own hand. The choice is yours. Likewise with Jesus. He came to call sinners to repentance, but Jesus' love is effective in a sinner's life, only when the sinner repents of his sins, and receives Jesus into his heart, through faith, as his own personal Savior and Lord. "As many as received him, to them gave he power to become the sons of God," even to them that believe on his name." (John 1: 12).

There is a Hell to shun, and don't you ever forget it. Let's see what the Bible says about Hell. It is a lake of fire. (Rev. 20: 15). Hell is a bottomless pit into which the angel from Heaven will cast that old serpent, the Devil. (Rev. 20: 1-3). Jesus himself speaking in Matthew 25: 41 to those on his left hand who had no soul insurance "Depart from me ye cursed, into everlasting fire, prepared for the Devil and his Angels." Jesus talking in Matthew 13: 41-42 says "the Son of Man shall send forth his Angels, and they shall gather out of his kingdom all things that offend, and them which do iniquity, and shall cast them into a furnace of fire; there shall be wailing and gnashing of teeth."

A most vivid description of Hell is given by Jesus himself: "There was a certain rich man, which was clothed in purple and fine linen, and fared sumptuously every day. And there was a certain beggar named Lazarus which was laid at his gate full of sores, and desiring to be fed with the crumbs from the rich man's table. And it came to pass that the beggar died, and was carried by the angels into Abraham's bosom. (referring to Heaven). The rich man also died and was buried; and in Hell he lifted up his eyes, being in torment, and seeth Abraham afar off and Lazarus in his bosom. And he cried and said, "Father Abraham, have mercy on me, and send Lazarus that he may dip the tip of his finger in water and cool my tongue; for I am tormented in this flame." (Luke 16: 19-31).

Thus you can see the contrast between Lazarus and the Rich Man. Lazarus did not get to Abraham's bosom because he was a Poor Man. But he did get there by believing in God. He had Soul Insurance. The rich man did not go to Hell because he had barrels full of money. He went to Hell because he worshipped his money, and had left God out of his life. He had no Soul Insurance. The rich man is still in torments in Hell, and he will be in Hell forever and forever, Poor Fellow! And millions more are there with him. The Bible says, "for what is a man profited, if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul." (Matthew 16: 26).

There is a Heaven to gain, where all is peace and joy, love and happiness. Only those who have soul insurance will go to Heaven. Jesus speaking in John 3: 16 says, "for God so loved the world that He gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life." Neither is there salvation in any other (except Jesus), for there is none other name under Heaven, given among men, whereby we must be saved." (Acts 4: 12). Jesus himself speaking in John 14: 6 says, "I am the Way, the Truth and the Life; no man cometh to the Father, but by me." Another scripture says, "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved." (Acts 16: 31). Another scripture says, "that whosoever believeth in Him (Jesus) should not perish, but have eternal life." (John 3: 15). First John 5: 11-13 puts it this way, "and this is the record, that God hath given to us eternal life, and this life is in His Son. He that hath the Son hath life, and he that hath not the Son of God hath not life. These things have I written unto you that believe on the name of the Son of God, that ye may know that ye have eternal life, and that ye may believe on the name of the Son of God! God does the saving through His Son Jesus; Man, through faith in Jesus, does the believing in this same Jesus. It is clear from the scriptures, and many more, that God, the Father, intrusted into the hands of Jesus, His blessed Son, all aspects of salvation and complete soul insurance.

You have now heard the Gospel, dear friends, enemies, and sinners. Today is the day of salvation

"behold now is the accepted time; behold now is the day of salvation." (II Corinthians 6: 2) You might not be alive tomorrow. This might be your last chance to get in touch with Jesus, God's Son, "in whom we have redemption through his blood, the forgiveness of sins." (Ephesians 1: 7). "The blood of Jesus Christ, His Son, cleanseth from all sin." (First John 1: 7). Choose you this day whom ye will serve." (Joshua 24: 15).

The Sinner's Prayer. Won't you pray this Sinner's prayer with me, right now, and mean every word of it from the bottom of your heart, and get your soul insurance from Jesus, this very minute? "Lord Jesus, I know that I'm a sinner, and deserve to go to Hell because of my many sins. But I now confess all my sins to you, having been led by the Holy Spirit, and I now repent of all my sins, and ask you to blot them out with the precious blood you spilled for me at Calvary; through faith in you, dear Jesus, I now accept you and receive you into my heart as my Savior and Lord. I believe, dear Jesus, that you are God's Son, that He raised you from the grave on the third day, and that you are alive forevermore up there with the Father in Heaven making intercession for me. I believe that there is none other Savior except you, dear Jesus. And right now, I trust my immortal soul into your hands. Thank you, dear Lord, for saving my soul, and giving me — eternal life, now, and forevermore."

Jesus was listening; he heard your prayer. He has already written your name in his Lamb's Book of Life. God's Holy Spirit has already taken up residence in your body, and there is rejoicing in Heaven because you have repented of your sins and have accepted Jesus as your only Savior and Lord. You are now a new creation; you have been born from above spiritually.

Now Jesus wants you to go further with him: (1) He wants you to be baptized by immersion. Jesus himself was baptized in the Jordan River by John the Baptist. "And straightway coming up out of the water, he saw the Heavens opened, and the Spirit, like a dove descending upon him: And there came a voice from Heaven, saying, Thou art my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased, and immediately the Spirit driveth him into the wilderness." (Mark 1: 9-12). Jesus was already perfect before he was baptized. He was God's Son, without sin, and He needed nothing. But His baptism marked the beginning of his earthly ministry, and gave us an example in humility. His baptism showed a picture of his death, his burial and his resurrection from the grave. Go thou and do likewise!

(2) Jesus wants you to join a church which preaches the fulness of God's word, the Bible: one which preaches Jesus, God's Son, as the pre-eminent Savior and Lord of life, and the only Savior and Lord of Life. If a church does not preach these Bible truths, I would never join it. Jesus is the head of the Church. The Church is the body and bride of Jesus, the body of believers, not the building where the church assembles to hear the word preached and songs of praise sung. Moreover, Jesus wants you to attend his church regularly, and support his church with your money, time, and talents.

(3) Jesus wants you to get glory and fellowship out of you. He wants you to grow in his grace by reading the Bible daily, by praying frequently and witnessing to others, especially sinners; telling them about the precious soul insurance which Jesus gave to you, and gives to all who will receive it. Jesus wants you to love your neighbor and help those in need. Jesus wants you to do his commandments and follow him.

The greatest decision you ever made was to accept Jesus as your Savior and Lord, and to get this Soul Insurance from Jesus, which assures you a home in Heaven — far away from the torments of Hell!

And they all said "Amen."

Tuberculin Skin Test Required of First-Year Pupils Within 12 Months

In an effort to curb a slight but definite increase in the incidence of tuberculosis among Kentucky's children, the Cabinet for Human Resources is requiring tuberculin skin testing within 12 months of school entrance for all first-year school enrollees.

The new regulation, approved by the Legislative Research Commission, took effect on Aug. 3 and will apply to children entering Kentucky public and private schools. A state education official estimates that 57,000 Kentucky children are eligible to enter kindergarten this year. Almost that many are eligible for first grade, but many will not be first-time enrollees because they attended kindergarten last year.

Health Commissioner David Allen, M.D., said TB skin tests have been required for school entrance in Kentucky for a number of years.

School officials are required to report individual test results to local health departments within the first 60 days of the school year. When the number of positive test results at a school equals at least 0.5 percent of the school's total first-year enrollment, skin testing will be required for students in the highest elementary school grade and for tenth graders in the local secondary school. Local health officers can require testing at other grade levels as well when the results indicate there could be an exceptional problem with TB in a school.

Allen said skin testing involves injection of a protein derivative under the skin on the underside of the forearm. The arm is then checked for reaction 48 to 72 hours after the injection.

A positive skin test result could mean the child has been exposed to TB and has been infected, Allen said. In young children the infection is usually in very early stages and not contagious; it generally is treated at home, and isolation of the child is not necessary.

"Early treatment keeps TB infection from becoming an active, communicable disease," Allen said. "Many adult TB patients were exposed to the disease as children and carried dormant infection for years until it became active tuberculosis. Through mandatory testing, we want to locate and eradicate TB before a single case can become a community problem."

TB skin tests are available from private physicians or local health departments.

Ward Hinds, M.D., director of the Health Services Department's Division of Epidemiology, said the state's tuberculosis case rate among children is significantly higher than national rates. Citing 1981 figures from the federal Centers for Disease Control, he said the rate among the state's under-5 population was 9 percent higher than the national rate for that age group; in the 5 to 9 age group, 82 percent higher; among adolescents 10 to 14 years old, 164 percent higher than the national rate.

"The incidence of TB in the 5-14 age group has increased significantly from 1972 to 1982," Hinds said. "The trend in children under 5 is not clearly upward, but it's certainly not downward. In view of the overall decrease of tuberculosis in his county, I find this disturbing."

Wayland Man Sues Bottler for $500,000

Half a million dollars in damages is sought by the father of an infant girl who, he claims, was injured in the eye when a bottle of carbonated drink exploded.

Jerry Fultz, of Wayland, filed suit on behalf of his daughter, Katherine, who was three years old last August when the bottle of Pepsi she was holding is said to have blown apart spontaneously. East Kentucky Beverage Co., bottler of the drink, is named as defendant in the suit, which was filed in circuit court here Friday by Arnold Turner, Jr.

A laboratory analysis indicates that the bottle ruptured either because of a defect in the glass or too much internal pressure, or both, Turner said. The little girl suffered permanent injury to her left eye, the suit alleges.

Jenny Wiley Theatre Announces Procedures for Its Final Week

Within three hours after it was announced, the Sunday, August 21 performance of ANNIE at the Jenny Wiley Theatre was sold out. Even so, said theatre Managing Director John McCann, it is still possible for people who wish to see any of the theatre's offerings in this final week of the season to do so.

"The first thing anyone interested should do is call the box office at 886-9274, to check on the status of the show they wish to attend," McCann said. If all seats for that performance are reserved, there are a couple of options. One is to come in person to the theatre box office and place your name on the waiting list. At 8, the night of the show, unpaid reservations are released to people on the waiting list. The other option is to come to the box office the day of the show and purchase standing room only tickets.

"Although we cannot guarantee that being on the waiting list will get people seats, up to now we have been able to accommodate most people," McCann said. "We would like to remind people who have reservations of two things," said McCann. "Reservations must be picked up by 8 the night of the show or they will be released. Also, we ask that if someone with a reservation discovers that they do not need any or all of their tickets to please let us know, so others can enjoy the performance."

No refunds, regardless of weather, will be made after 8 p.m. the day of the show.

ANNIE plays on Wednesday, August 17, Saturday, August 20 and Sunday, August 21. All seats for ANNIE are reserved at this time. THE ROBBER BRIDEGROOM plays on Thursday, August 18, and GREASE plays on Friday, August 19. Seats are still available for those two productions. For reservations and ticket information, please call the Jenny Wiley Theatre box office at (606) 886-9274.

Tax Reform Group Claims Cases Wrongfully Voided

Suits challenging property assessments in three counties, including Floyd, last summer were wrongfully dismissed by the Kentucky Board of Tax Appeals, a tax reform group charged in a suit filed in Franklin circuit court last Thursday.

The suit was filed by the Kentucky Fair Tax Coalition (KFTC) on behalf of Joe Szakos, of David, several residents of Harlan and Martin counties and a Martin county citizens' organization.

Szakos claimed last year that tax assessments on coal properties belonging to the Elkhorn Coal Company, Joe Trimble, Pocahontas-Kentucky Corporation and Collins Mayo Collieries did not reflect fair market value as required by law.

A KFTC staff member, Szakos recently filed a similar protest against this year's assessments, claiming that property valuations for nine firms—including Matewan Minerals, Elkhorn Coal, Harkins Minerals and Island Creek Coal—were too low. No hearing on the complaint has yet been set by the county court clerk.

Last year's challenges were rejected by boards of assessment appeals in all three counties and, later, the state board of tax appeals let stand the local panels' decisions. The three local boards are named as well as the state board as defendants in the present action.

KFTC attorney Joe F. Childers said the state board's action cast doubt on the rights of citizens to challenge other taxpayers' property tax assessments. In its suit, the group asks the court to affirm the rights of taxpayers to make third-party challenges to property assessments and to order the Kentucky Board of Tax Appeals to hold hearings on the merits of the Floyd, Harlan and Martin county cases.

The implication that a citizens group does not have formal standing in third-party tax appeals came in a brief ruling handed down two months ago by the state's tax appeals board—a ruling in which the board reversed its earlier stance.

Last September the state board turned down a request by Martiki Coal Corp. to dismiss the challenge raised by Concerned Citizens of Martin County. And the board ordered the coal company to provide detailed information—including statistics on coal resources—to the group's lawyers.

But then came personnel changes on the tax panel—and a ruling in favor of Martiki.

Lexington attorney and former board chairman Edward F. Prichard left the board earlier this year and his place was taken by Covington lawyer John J. O'Hara in April. Garland W. Howard, an Owensboro lawyer, became the new chairman.

In June, the board reversed itself on the Martin county appeal, Howard citing a 1966 court case that the board had overlooked earlier. Martiki's motion to dismiss the appeal by Concerned Citizens of Martin County was sustained.

Columbia Plans Rate Cut

The price cut announced last week by Columbia Gas of Kentucky isn't much—but it brings the rate down, not up, for a change.

It will mean a saving to the average residential consumer of 59 cents a month.

The reduction—the third by Columbia since March—was attributed to successful efforts by Columbia and its principal supplier, Columbia Gas Transmission Corp., "to lower costs of gas purchased from producers and from interstate pipelines," the utility said in a statement.

In July, however, the Kentucky Public Service Commission approved a $2.1 million rate increase that will partly offset the savings received by Columbia's 110,000 customers in Eastern and Central Kentucky.

The utility also said that it expects natural gas prices to increase "very little" during the next 12 months.

"Based on the best information available to us now, we see an excellent possibility that our costs of buying gas for our customers will be about level through 1983 and well into 1984," said Columbia District Manager Robert N. Ames.

The new price cut will take effect Sept. 1.

Columbia said it will reduce the cost of 1,000 cubic feet of gas by 5.9 cents. A typical residential customer uses 10,000 cubic feet per month, the utility said, so the savings will be 59 cents a month or $7.08 a year.

The three reductions since March totaled 31.5 cents per 1,000 cubic feet of gas, a savings of $3.15 a month or $37.80 a year for the typical residential customer.

The July rate increase added $1.06 a month or $12.72 a year to customers' costs, which now average $62.59 a month.

Columbia Gas Transmission Co., which supplies gas to 71 utilities in Kentucky and seven other states, announced in December that it would attempt to reduce future increases by limiting prices paid under new contracts with producers.

Columbia also said it would try to negotiate lower prices for gas bought under existing contracts.

Ames said "the moderating trend in gas pricing has arrived, and we believe it will continue to improve, particularly if Congress enacts needed legislation that Columbia has suggested."

"The legislation would help correct pricing and gas-contract problems between gas purchasers, like Columbia Gas Transmission, and gas producers—problems resulting from the provisions of the federal Natural Gas Policy Act of 1978."

The changes proposed by Columbia and others include elimination of "take-or-pay" clauses in some current contracts.

FOR COMMONWEALTH'S ATTORNEY

WILLIAM DINGUS

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE 31st JUDICIAL DISTRICT OF KENTUCKY, COMPOSED OF FLOYD AND KNOTT COUNTIES:

In pressing my candidacy for the Office of Commonwealth's Attorney, I want it understood that I am seeking this position not only for my own interest but that I may be able to serve my country better and be better able to help my friends, and to aid other worthy projects that should be maintained and supported for the common good of our Judicial District.

I was born at the forks of Beaver, near Dinwood, and have lived here in Floyd County, with you all my life. I was raised a farmer boy; know all the trials and troubles incident to the former boy's life; was a school teacher for ten years and know the school teacher's joys and troubles; was in the goods business for ten years at Goodloe, Ky., then moved to Prestonsburg. I was elected twice as Senator of the 33rd Senatorial District of Kentucky. I took a law course and was examined by Judge Lewis and Hazelrig, Judges of the Kentucky Court of Appeals, and admitted to the bar in 1894, and have been in the study and practice of law from that time to the present, thirty-three years. I am a member of the Baptist Church, having joined with the Philadelphia Regular Baptist in 1890, and am a member of the Baptist Church now at Prestonsburg, Ky. I was elected County Attorney of Floyd County, November, 1917, and took the oath of office on January, 1918 and served four years.

This is perhaps the last time I will call on my friends to vote for me and I now hope and believe you will come enthusiastically to my aid and that I will be elected as your Commonwealth's Attorney.

I have spent all my life to and for my country, trying to make it a better place in which to live. Help me, so that I can help you.

I need the office and you need my work in the courts of our district. You help me and I can help you more. I have been in politics heretofore and I never have found so many people for me as there are for me this time.

Good friends, keep the good work going on and I will serve you as Commonwealth's Attorney.

Your obedient servant,

William Dingus

PIKEVILLE

A great throng of people were in Pikeville the last three days of the past week, the occasion being the annual county fair. This event is becoming more popular each year and the people are becoming more enthusiastic about having better exhibits along all lines.

Thursday was devoted to the receiving of entries, and in the evening there was a concert by the Pikeville Band, which added much to the entire fair as the excellent music furnished by them added "pep" to the occasion.

Friday was the biggest day in point of numbers. There were many exhibits in the various departments, such as: Poultry Department, under the supervision of Mr. J. R. Carter; Junior Agricultural Department, Linton Trivette, supervisor; Field and Garden Crop Department, John Miller, Supt.; Live Stock Department, Frank Connolly, Supt.; Home Science Department, Mrs. J. S. Cline, Supt.; Antique Department, Mrs. John Miller, Supt., assisted by Miss Alma Matney and Miss Oia Crutchfield, was under the auspices of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

The "Lure of the antique" was certainly very strong, judging from the throngs that crowded the department. There were so many old things that it was with difficulty that the judges awarded the prizes, since all were so very interesting that they deserved prizes. One of the articles that attracted most attention was a ring worn by Marie Antoinette of France, and is now in the possession of Mrs. S. B. Casebolt.

DOW DAVIS FUNERAL

Dow Davis, who was killed at Drift, was buried Thursday at the old Helvey graveyard on the Burning Fork of Raccoon, the home of his nativity. A great host of sorrowing friends were at the burial, and the funeral sermons were preached by Rev. Hays Maynard, Rev. Berlin McCoy and Rev. Mat Justice, life-long friends of the deceased. The services were at the cemetery.

Relatives from a distance present were: Mr. Allison Davis and Tom Honaker, of Portsmouth, Ohio; Adrian Davis, of Paintsville, and R. M. Davis, of Williamson, W. Va.

Two brothers, Mr. Ballard Honaker, Wes Davis, and Belle Honaker, sister of his, reside in Pikeville. He also leaves a wife and six children to mourn his loss.

CELEBRATE MEMBERSHIP

Pikeville Commandery No. 45 held a very enthusiastic meeting, celebrating its 100 membership on Friday evening, September 30. The Commandery, beginning with 22 members August 28, 1925, now has on its roll 103. The 84 Knights met at the Masonic Hall at 4 p. m. There lines being formed led by John Lewis' community band marched to the First M. E. Church, South, where a selective and bounteous banquet had been prepared and were welcomed by Sir Knight Stephen H. Fields in a well-delivered, instructive and well-pointed address. Norman A. Chrisman responded in a well thought out, tactful and elevating address.

PIKEVILLE LOSES, 5-4

The Fordson Coal Company team of Stone defeated Pikeville in a very exciting 11-inning game by the score of 5-4. The features of the game were the pitching of Cyrus of Pikeville, and Brummitt of Stone. Cyrus struck out no less than twelve, while Brummitt struck out only five. The hitting of Roberts of Pikeville was great; he hit a homer and two singles in five trips to the plate. Thompson made three hits and fielded a great game. Roberts caught a fine game, and C. Caudill was right there at third base. Cornelius and E. Wallace did some excellent fielding for Stone, while D. Wallace and Cornelius led in hitting.—News.

Paper, 91 Years Old, Started to Last Year

The Philadelphia Public Ledger, now one of the best-known newspapers in the United States, began publication with the intention, as expressed in its first editorial, of continuing publication for "at least one year," a copy of the first issue of that paper, now in the possession here of Prof. T. J. Currey, shows.

The Ledger, now in its 92nd year, was, when the first edition appeared March 25, 1836, a four-page, four-column sheet, all hand-set, and minus many of the earmarks of modern journalism. Page one is devoted to advertisements, all of the classified species, and to a lengthy discussion of the poet Burns. At that time, The Ledger announced, its news purveyors consisted of one police reporter and "a collector of news," as the editor quaintly expressed it.

That Congress then gave promise of its present dilatory tactics is attested by the following editorial paragraph from that number of The Ledger: "The congressional news up to this date possesses not the slightest interest—Congress seems determined to fritter away its time, instead of rendering it profitable to the nation—shame on such tardy legislation."

Prevent Poisoning

If your home is like most, your kitchen, laundry room and cleaning closet are full of products which contain poison. These should be kept in a locked cabinet and out of children's reach. Take special care that garden chemicals and workshop poisons such as turpentine and paint thinner are properly stored and labeled and always wash hands immediately after using chemicals.

In case of accidental poisoning, follow the instructions on the label, particularly those which say whether to induce vomiting. Call a doctor, hospital or poison control center immediately.

How big is the world's largest flowering blossom? Would you believe each blossom of a rafflesia (rah-FLEE-zee-uh) flower, that grows in the jungles of Sumatra and Malaya, may be three feet across and weigh up to 25 pounds, reports National Wildlife's Ranger Rick magazine. It takes nine months for the cabbage-like bud to grow into a blossom.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Sharee Lynn Ousley, daughter of Andy and Lisa Ousley, of Prestonsburg, Aug. 9, 1982 - Oct. 20, 1982.

In the cemetery safely sleeping, where the flowers so gently wave, lies the one we loved so dearly, but whom we could not save.

This day brings sad memories of our beloved daughter who is gone to rest in peace, and those who think of her each day are the ones who loved her best.

No one knows the silent heartache, only those who have lost can tell of the grief we bear in silence for the one we loved so well.

What we would give to see her face, to touch her loving hands, to hear her sweet little voice, and to see her sweet little smiles that meant so much to us.

Our hearts still ache with sadness, secret tears will always flow.

What it meant to lose you, no one will ever know. Memories are all we have left now.

Oh, we dearly loved you so, and these happy memories will always be with us until we meet you on that beautiful shore with Jesus.

Loved and sadly missed by MOM AND DAD GRANDPARENTS AND FAMILY

'Dead' Line Charge Fatal to Lineman

A lineman for a contracting firm working on an electric power line near West Prestonsburg was electrocuted in a freak accident late last Wednesday.

The victim, James E. Dyer, 49, of Butler, Ky., had tied two wires together at the top of a pole overlooking the old Middle Creek road, outside West Prestonsburg, and was cutting off a "pig-tail" from the end of the wire when it struck him on his head.

Deputy Coroner Glenn Frazier, of Price, who investigated the tragedy, said he was told all electric power had been cut from the line but that feedback of power from one or more transformers, plus static electricity, was sufficient to produce fatal shock.

Dyer was dead at the scene. He was employed by B.G. Richardson, Inc.

The body was taken to the Floyd Funeral Home, then transferred to the Alexandria Funeral Home at Lafayette, Tennessee. Dyer is survived his wife, Linda, and several children.

Social Security

By JIM KELLY Social Security Dist. Director Time To Check Earnings

People in the Big Sandy Area who receive Social Security checks and who also work should take time to check their earnings, Jim Kelly, Social Security District Director for the Big Sandy Area, said recently.

Those who earlier estimated that their 1983 earnings would not exceed the annual limit should check to make sure they have not earned more than they anticipated, Kelly said. The 1983 annual limit is $6,600 for people 65-70 and $4,920 for people under 65 all of 1983. These rules do not apply to people receiving disability as they must report all earnings regardless of the amount, Kelly said.

If a person's annual earnings exceed the limit, $1 in Social Security benefits is withheld for each $2 of earnings above the limit. A person will have to repay any benefits that were incorrectly paid.

If a person finds that he or she is earning more or less than expected, he or she should notify Social Security immediately so that benefits can be adjusted and an overpayment avoided.

If a person's earnings are less than expected, benefits may be restarted if they had been stopped.

More information about the annual earnings test can be obtained at the Big Sandy Area Social Security Office, located on U.S. 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville.

Hatler Johnson, 90, Dies in So. Carolina

Hatler Johnson, native Weeksbury man who became a leader in the insurance field while a resident of Paintsville, died July 30 in Greenville, South Carolina. He was 90.

He and his wife, Beulah, moved to Greenville in 1980 because of failing health, to be near their daughter, Mrs. Helen Condron. Mrs. Johnson died there in 1982. They had lived in Paintsville 56 years.

Before leaving Weeksbury, where two of his seven brothers were killed, victims of violence, he worked as a butcher in a coal company store and served in the U.S. armed forces in France during World War I.

Insurance was his business life, but he also was a force in Eastern Kentucky politics as a rock-ribbed conservative, and his advice was sought by candidates for local, state and congressional offices. He used as his forum weekly radio programs, speaking engagements, and editorials contributed to newspapers.

One of his early causes was encouraging the growing of apples as a long-term help to the economy.

He served on the boards of the Paintsville schools and Alice Lloyd College and was a leader in Kiwanis, Toastmasters and local projects.

Surviving, in addition to his daughter, one granddaughter and three great-grandchildren, all of Greenville, are brothers, Dewey, of Weeksbury, and Cevera, of Phelps.

The saying, "they breed like rabbits" did not come out of thin air. A single female European rabbit, theoretically, could have 16 million descendants in four years, says International Wildlife magazine.

ABSOLUTE AUCTION CHOICE WOODLAND FARM Aug. 27th, 1983—10:30 a.m.

We have been instructed by the owners, Carl Chenoweth and Judy Chenoweth of Springboro, Ohio, to sell this woodland farm located on Gladie Branch of the South Fork of Red River (Rogers Chappel Rd.), being approximately 2 miles East of Bowen, Ky. and 2 miles South of Highway 15. This boundary of land is estimated to have between 60-80 acres, but is being sold and will be conveyed by the boundary and NOT by the acre. This tract of land has one of the finest stands of white oak timber that you will find in this region. Also, other fine quality timber ready to harvest. All mineral rights are intact so far as known and whatever is owned by the Sellers will be conveyed. There is a beautiful home site where an old homestead now stands with a well for water supply. Also, you will find numerous building sites on this property. This property was better known as the Nancy Crabtree farm and other information may be obtained by calling the selling agent.

The owners are selling the property for a division of property rights. We suggest that you inspect this boundary of land, look it over and familiarize yourself with the property lines. The opportunity to buy this kind of land at Auction seldom comes along.

For further information call the selling agent. Terms: 20% deposit; balance on passing of deed. Complete terms and conditions announced at Auction time.

Owners: Carl Chenoweth and Judy Chenoweth
We invite your inspection on this once in a lifetime to own a choice boundary and woodland farm.

In Memoriam

In memory of Steve Lewis on his 17th birthday. Born Aug. 8, 1966 - Died July 8, 1982.

No length of time can heal our grief, Our love for you lies much too deep. No one knows the heartache We try so hard to hide; No one knows how many times We've broken down and cried. There's a time right from the start When loved ones have to part. To us, left broken hearts to gloom, Because we were parted much too soon. You're still very much loved, very much missed, and still very dear to us.

Love

Area Blood Drives Planned

By PAT PHILLIPS

A blood drive is scheduled Monday, Aug. 29 for students and faculty at Prestonsburg Community College, in the Pike Building, Room 216, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. The next day, the mobile crew will be at McDowell ARH to take donors in the hospital library from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Any individual interested in helping to save a life is urged to donate where it is most convenient.

Blood donors are a very rare breed of people. Only 5% of the American public donates for everyone. Everyone believes it is such a worthy cause that surely someone else is donating. Too many of us are depending on that rare, small group of donors.

How does someone become a blood donor? It's easy. Volunteers should be between the ages of 18 and 65 (17 with written parental consent). One should be in good health and never have had hepatitis.

What happens to someone who gives blood? The average adult has about 12 pints of blood and one pint can safely be given without ill effects. Most donors actually feel better after donating and soon return to normal activity just as the body quickly goes to work replacing the blood.

How long does it take? It takes 5 to 10 minutes to donate, but it's a medical procedure which requires records and the mini-medical exam. The entire process takes about 45 minutes.

What's in it for the donor? There's great satisfaction in knowing you may have helped someone get a new chance for life. Your blood donation makes you a hero because you do help save lives. Call Don Damron at McDowell ARH at 377-2411 or Mazola Salmons at 886-3863, ext. 244 to make an appointment to donate.

Highlands Regional Medical Center sponsored a blood drive, August 4. Thanks is extended to all donors and to Billie Goble who serves as blood program chairperson at Highlands. Thirty-eight persons donated.

Johnson Countian Held in Shooting

A 27-year-old Johnson county man was shot last Thursday while in the yard of his mother's home on Lick Fork, five miles southeast of Paintsville.

Gary Lee Roland was shot at about 9 p.m. and taken to Paintsville Hospital. He was treated for a gunshot wound and listed in satisfactory condition.

Walter Fitzpatrick, Jr. 38, also of Johnson county, was lodged in the Johnson county jail and was scheduled to be charged with assault in the second degree.

Fitzpatrick allegedly shot Roland from across the road from Roland's mother's house during an argument.

The following registered to donate: Dana Conley, Clyde Dollarhide, Marshall Osborne, Lynn Weddle, Donna Maynard, Tammy Salisbury, Jennifer Wells, Lisa Parlier, Robin Horn, Edwyna Hale, Virginia Hale, Billie Goble, Steve Roberts, Karen Fyffe, Betsy Lafferty, Kimberly Branham, Lorna Branham, Connie Slone, Freda Fannin, Tim Kretzer, Eunice Hall, Russell Dean, Jerald Stafford, Jennifer Fyffe, Christina Russell, Greg Taylor, Toni Briggs, Rusty Duty, Yveta Reffitt, Damon Delong, Joseph Roberts, Lora Hamilton, Betty Addington, Susan Griffith, Larry Cecil, Mary Hudkins, Sandra Roberts, Ellis Stevens, Ruth Calhoun and Mitsuko Perry. There were ten first time donors.

A special congratulations goes to Russell C. Dean, who has earned a four-gallon key chain. He has donated 32 times and his support has benefited the lives of about 80 patients.

The next blood drive at Highlands will be Wednesday, December 7.

NATIONAL LAMPOON'S VACATION, from Warner Bros. Directed by Harold Ramis, screenplay by John Hughes. Starring Chevy Chase, Christie Brinkley, Beverly D'Angelo, Imogene Coca. Rated 'R' ★

By J.T. YURKO

What's more American than to pack the family into the station wagon and head out across the country for a nice summer vacation. Get away from the rat race and take a leisurely tour of the good ol' US of A.
 It sounds like a fine idea, except if you're a nerd. Chevy Chase is a nerd. He needs a vacation because he's been busy all year developing new food additives. The new car dealer talks him out of a nice sporty little wagon and sells him the ugliest car ever to roll off a Detroit assembly line. He gets lost in the middle of a ghetto, and amid the noise of gun shots and screams, he rolls down the window and asks directions.
 As expected, each little stop in their journey is filled with new pitfalls and potholes. They lose their credit cards, they crack up the car. Along the way they visit their cousins who borrow $500 and in return give them Aunt Edna, complete with mangy dog. Perhaps the two funniest scenes in the film are the deaths of Aunt Edna and (although pet lovers will cringe) the demise of the dog.

This is the kind of film the Automobile Club of America should boycott, while the airlines hope everyone sees it.
 Chevy Chase and Beverly D'Angelo are the Lucy and Ricky of the road, falling prey to much of the same misadventures as befell Lucy and Ricky in Vincente Minnelli's "The Long, Long Trailer." But these are the '80s and the film is entitled "National Lampoon's Vacation," so the jokes are cruder, and the language is ruder. What laughs there are stem from scatology, incest, death and drugs rather than from clever comedic situations.
 Chase is too much the nerd for us to care about him, and so his plight is his own. The gags are but a string of largely unsuccessful, loosely related bits. Chase's acting again consists of his smirky, heavy satire shtick that is sometimes funny and sometimes irritating.
 Super-model Christie Brinkley makes her film debut here. She has little more to do than to look provocative, say a few lines, and then go skinny dipping.

ROCK ON

By Ethlie Ann Vare

WHO'S WHO

Miami Steve Van Zandt (Little Steven of the Disciples of Soul) got kicked out of Disneyland because they didn't like the way he was dressed. He's charging discrimination, and mounting an anti-Mickey Mouse campaign.

U2's Bono Vox learned that overly loyal fans can be a pain in the leg when an ardent female jumped onstage in Massachusetts and chained herself to his ankle. Bono finished his song as roadies hacksawed through the handcuffs.

Capitol Records is searching its vaults for John Lennon rarities to release on an LP. In the meantime, Lennon's former secretary, May Pang, is releasing a tell-all (and probably more than we wanted to hear) book, "Loving John: An Untold Story."

Michael Jackson and Diana Ross will team for a concert at London's Royal Albert Hall, to be telecast worldwide.

Gary Myrick ("Guitar, Talk, Love and Drums") is a talented graphic artist as well as a musician. His concerts feature a slide show of his work, that's so good it distracts from the music.

Mitch Ryder

a Sleeping Dog" (Riva/Polygram) — Ryder, whose Detroit Wheels lit up the '60s with tunes like "Devil with a Blue Dress," was working in relative obscurity until John Cougar resurrected him. His comeback LP is strong, straightforward rock — a nice antidote to a summer of synthesized blips and bleeps. At times the guitar riffs are pure Stones ripoff, but songs like Ryder's duet with Marianne Faithfull ("A Thrill Is a Thrill") give the record an identity.

Joan Jett — "Album" (Blackheart/MCA) — Joan Jett's voice is somewhere between a croak and a screech, and her guitar playing is of the chainsaw variety at best. Yet she has an energy and love of the form that gives her music vitality and freshness. Nothing here is as good as the anthem "I Love Rock 'n' Roll," but "Fake Friends" is catchy and her cover of Sly and the Family Stone's "Everyday People" is a sweet tribute.

INNER TUBE

By Joan Crosby

ROMAN COLLAR TO ROAMIN' THE ARCTIC — Richard Chamberlain, who recently drew raves as the tempted priest in the miniseries "The Thorn Birds," will next be seen on TV as Frederick Cook, the physician-explorer who teamed, at first, and then competed with, Robert Peary, in a race to the North Pole.

Rod Steiger plays Peary in the CBS-TV special, which has completed production in Montreal. No date yet, but the project sounds interesting.

HOLBROOK RETURNS — Hal Holbrook, who starred in the acclaimed but short-lived TV series "The Senator," and who also played Lincoln in "Sandburg's Lincoln," will return to TV after quite an absence. He's cast in "Celebrity," based on the best-selling novel by the late Texas journalist Tommy Thompson. Holbrook plays a district attorney investigating a murder involving three prominent Texans. Already cast are Joseph Bottoms, Michael Beck and Ben Masters.

GRANT-ED — Lee Grant has directed an NBC-TV movie about eight female employees in a small bank, struggling to get equal pay with male employees. The film, shot in Toronto, airs this coming season.

One of the lead roles belongs to Dinah Manoff, who's Miss Grant's daughter and an actress with proven credits. The drama also features Jean Stapleton, formerly Archie Bunker's beloved wife, Edith.

QUOTE — Deborah Raffin says TV offers better roles to actresses her age than do movies: "Opportunities are far better in TV for me — and other young actresses. I'm not saying all TV movies are terrific. I've done my share of fluff, including 'Hell and Highwater' and 'Honeymoon Hotel.' But I have also done exciting things like 'Haywire' and 'Willa.' "

Paintsville Mayor, Family Held at Gunpoint, Robbed

Mayor James Trimble of Paintsville, his wife, son and daughter were held at gunpoint, bound and robbed Monday night of cash, jewelry and other items valued at $100,000.

The Trimble home at the corner of Court and Fifth streets was entered around 10:30 p.m. by two men who had told the Trimbles' son, Mike, that they had run out of gasoline, then pushed past him into the home. Brandishing guns, the two ordered Mayor Trimble to take them to his safe and to open it under threat of death.

One of the intruders wore a ski mask.

The other, unmasked, was described as "a wild-eyed man."

The robbery completed and family members' hands and feet taped, the two robbers sat, calmly listening to a police scanner in the home. When they heard police notify the dispatcher at midnight that they were off duty, the two drove away in the Trimbles' car.

The automobile was found Tuesday morning on Little Mud Lick, about four miles outside Paintsville. The robbers have not been located.

"I thought at one point that they were going to kill us all," the younger Trimble told authorities.

KEA To Use Critical Report As Springboard To Reform

A national report that is critical of public education's shortcomings will be used by the Kentucky Education Association (KEA) as the springboard for educational reform in the state.

KEA President Jon Henrikson said the KEA board of directors took that position after devoting most of its monthly meeting to studying and analyzing the report by the National Commission on Excellence in Education.

The commission, appointed by Secretary of Education T.H. Bell, called its report "A Nation at Risk: The Imperative for Educational Reform." Contending that "the educational foundations of our society are presently being eroded by a rising tide of mediocrity that threatens our very future as a Nation and a people," the report has received widespread public attention.

After studying the report, Henrikson said, the KEA Board adopted unanimously a series of motions expressing the 29,000-member association's commitment to educational reform.

"While board members seemed to accept almost all the Commission's specific recommendations, the board directed the KEA Executive Committee to bring to the September board meeting specific concerns about the recommendations of the Commission and other reform groups as well as specific recommendations for a KEA plan for educational excellence in Kentucky," he reported.

Henrikson said the KEA Board also called for a coalition of Kentuckians supporting public education to work for reform recommendations. The coalition could include constitutional officers, legislators, the State Board of Education, the State Department of Education, local school boards, administrators, teachers, parents, students, business, labor, and the general public.

The board, he noted, endorsed the Commission's basic recommendations for (1) strengthening graduation requirements, (2) adopting measurable standards for academic performance and student conduct, (3) devoting available time to teaching of New Basics, (4) improving the preparation of teachers and making teaching a more rewarding and respected profession, and (5) providing fiscal support and stability required to bring about these reforms.

Henrikson said the Commission report is perhaps the best known of the recently released studies on the state of American public education. For that reason the KEA Board concentrated its attention on Commission recommendations. These are being published in the association's newspaper, the KEA News, so that all members may have them.

"We believe the various efforts for education reform support and complement the provisions of the 1984 KEA legislative program," Henrikson said. "Strong legislative support for public schools and teachers must accompany educational reforms in order to achieve excellence in Kentucky public education."

"For many years KEA has taken the lead in efforts to improve our Kentucky schools. We welcome the current public interest in improving education and stand ready to work with other groups and individuals to provide quality education for all of Kentucky's children."

Heavy Truck Owners Must File Tax Form

Owners of most large trucks, truck-tractors, or buses must file an IRS Form 2290, "Federal Use Tax Return on Highway Motor Vehicles," by August 31, 1983.

The tax period for the highway use tax begins July 1, 1983 and ends June 30, 1984. Taxpayers who first used vehicles after July must file Form 2290 by the last day of the month following the month of first taxable use. The return must be filed with the Internal Revenue Service Center for the area in which the taxpayer's principal business, office or agency or legal residence is located.

The highway use tax applies to highway motor vehicles, including single unit trucks weighing 13,000 pounds or more, 2-axled truck-tractors weighing 5,500 pounds or more, 3 or more axled (truck-tractors regardless of weight, trucks of 9,000 or more pounds equipped for use in combinations, and buses with a taxable gross weight of more than 26,000 pounds.

The tax is imposed on those vehicles using any public highway, which includes federal, state, and city roads. Revenue from the tax helps states in financing the Interstate Highway System.

Form 2290 and IRS Publication 349, "Federal Highway Use Tax on Trucks, Truck-Tractors and Buses," can be ordered by writing the IRS at the Forms Distribution, P.O. Box 636, Florence, Kentucky 41042. The publication may also be ordered by calling the IRS toll free at 1-800-424-1040.

11 School Districts Join MSU Program On Math and Reading

Morehead State University President Morris L. Norfleet announced Friday that MSU and at least 11 local school districts in Eastern Kentucky are launching a joint program to improve reading and mathematics skills of students at all grade levels, including college.

"We are forming a new partnership in the quest for quality in education and we are focusing our efforts on two of the most troublesome subject areas in our curricula," Dr. Norfleet told more than 300 teachers at an in-service workshop sponsored by the Carter County Schools.

School districts already committed to the joint endeavor include Bath County, Carter County, Fairview, Fleming County, Greenup County, Lawrence County, Magoffin County, Montgomery County, Pike County, Rowan County and Russell districts. Other districts also have expressed interest, he reported.

"The University will utilize its own faculty and outside consultants to make sure that we have the best advice available," the MSU chief executive said. "We don't have all of the answers yet but we will work with our public school colleagues to find them."

"This new partnership could not have been formed without the total cooperation and encouragement of local superintendents, teachers and instructional supervisors," Dr. Norfleet added.

The annual meeting of the Wells Family Association will begin at 1:30 p.m.; follow at 2. By a genealogical workshop and sharing session. Before cutting down a dying tree on your property, think about this. There are over 80 species of birds that only nest in dead or dying trees, such as red-bellied woodpeckers, screech owls and chickadees, says National Wildlife magazine. In return for supplying them a home, they'll eat many of these pesky insects around your neighborhood, including mosquitoes.

Pharmacy Footnotes

By HAROLD COOLEY

Like many other diseases, epilepsy afflicts people through no fault of their own—four million Americans, in fact. Although epilepsy is a general term that is used for a number of different types of disorders, each usually involves seizures and convulsions. A seizure is a loss of awareness to some degree. A convulsion is some degree of involuntary body motion. In all cases, epilepsy is associated with a faulty firing of nerves in the brain. Today, more than 70% of epileptics can be rendered virtually free of their symptoms by utilizing anticonvulsant drugs as part of their treatment. Quite often, when such treatment is administered early, young patients can actually be cured.

Here at COOLEY APOTHECARY we use only the highest quality ingredients available when filling your prescriptions. We care about the health of you and your family, and so we do everything that we can to explain the use of the medication you're taking, and to answer your questions. You'll also find a wide selection of convalescent items. VISA and Mastercard welcome. Located at #2 Town Center Bldg., where we're open Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30; Sat. 8-4. 886-8106.

HANDY HINT:
The oldest drug used in the treatment of epilepsy is the barbituate phenobarbital.

Consumer Alert

CARDIAC PACEMAKERS

Over 250,000 Americans have implanted cardiac pacemakers that keep the heart beating regularly and at the proper rate. This pacemaker can, for many, mean the difference between a restricted life-style and a normal, active one.

"Last year there were approximately 100,000 implant operations performed in the United States. The majority of these operations involved patients receiving pacemakers for the first time. It is important to be aware of how pacemakers work and potential problems that may come with their use," advises Attorney General Steve Beshear.

A pacemaker sends electrical signals to the heart muscles. It does not cure disease or injury that may cause heart malfunction, but it can maintain the heartbeat during periods of faulty cardiac rhythm.

The type of pacemaker used is determined by the problem in need of correction. "Demand" types, the kind used most often, send electrical signals only when needed. They are able to sense when the heart skips a beat or slows down, and will generate impulses until a normal rhythm is sensed. "Fixed-rate" types stimulate the heart constantly.

All pacemakers consist of the same basic parts: a pulse generator to house the circuitry and battery; a connector to link the pulse generator to the lead which carries electrical energy to the heart; and electrodes at the end of the lead that may be attached directly to the outside of the heart or threaded through a vein and lodged inside the heart.

The useful life of a pacemaker depends on the source of power and the extent to which stimulation of the heart is required. Today, virtually all pacemakers have lithium-alloy batteries with a life expectancy of eight to ten years. Pacemakers are designed to give ample warning when they are losing their charge, which allows for replacement before total failure occurs.

A pacemaker problem that has received much attention is interference from electromagnetic energy. This may come from microwave ovens, power tools, automobile ignition systems, laser checkouts in grocery stores and many other sources. Electromagnetic interference was reported to cause speeding or slowing of pacemakers and to trigger them to start or stop erratically. The use of electronic filters and a metal case to shield the pulse generator have practically eliminated the chances of electromagnetic interference being misinterpreted as a cardiac signal.

Cardiac pacemakers are regulated by the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) under the Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act. If the FDA learns of a safety hazard or violation, various steps can be taken. They may instruct the manufacturer of the pacemaker to notify physicians and patients concerning potential problems or the FDA may issue a recall notice. "It is extremely important for all pacemaker patients to know the manufacturer, model and serial number of the pacemaker they have. This information could be essential in an emergency situation," warns Attorney General Beshear.

Consumers may contact the Office of the Attorney General, Consumer Protection Division, 209 St. Clair Street, Frankfort, Kentucky or call the toll-free Consumer Hotline: 1-800-432-9257.

Most employed women work year round; in 1981, three out of every five employed adult women worked 50 to 52 weeks, according to a publication of the U.S. Department of Labor.

National 'Newshour' Premieres Sept. 5

America's first national hour-long news program broadcast during early evening hours premieres Monday, September 5, on public television. "The MacNeil/Lehrer Newshour," underwritten by a $10 million grant from American Telephone and Telegraph (AT&T) Company, can be seen Monday through Friday at 6:00 p.m. on KET.

Anchored by Robert MacNeil in New York and Jim Lehrer in Washington, the program will offer comprehensive coverage of the day's major news story and in-depth coverage of other important stories. Serving as correspondents for the show are Judy Woodruff in Washington, Charlayne Hunter-Gault in New York and Kwame Holman in Denver.

The format of the "Newshour" will consist of a lead story, covering one of the major news stories of the day with extended interviews. A second story or special report will be presented in a taped magazine-style segment. When time permits, the "Newshour" will have a third story such as a photo essay, a brief interview of profile or other special feature.

The "Newshour," an expanded version of "The MacNeil/Lehrer Report," is an attempt to "give people information they can trust, understand and retain—to help them make sense of these complicated times," says Robert MacNeil.

MacNeil worked for the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, Reuters News Agency, NBC and the BBC before coming to public television.

Co-anchor Jim Lehrer, a former city editor for the Dallas Times-Herald, explains the rationale behind the 60-minute news program. "The proliferation of television news makes us believe that the American public needs a place to go for one hour each evening where the news of the last 24 hours will be pulled together and dealt with in a serious, informative and responsive way."

"The MacNeil/Lehrer Newshour" is a co-production of WNET/New York, WETA/Washington, D.C., and MacNeil-Lehrer-Gannet Productions.

Hot, Dry Weather Hard On Wildlife

The hot, dry weather that's had Kentucky in its grip for over a month now could be having adverse effects on wildlife, according to Jim Durell, an assistant director in the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources' Division of Wildlife.

"This long rainless spell could be devastating to our quail populations if these birds didn't get off a good early hatch," Durell says. During extremely dry periods, quail won't breed or lay eggs, while wet stretches seem to promote quail reproduction, he says.

Deer should not be adversely affected by the weather, since these animals browse on leaves more than they do on grasses. However, some biologists feel that succulent clovers and tender new growth are important to weaning fawns, so there could be a problem here if the drought continues.

But even after the rains come (if they ever do) wildlife could continue to suffer. Many of the natural seed-producing plants upon which wildlife depend to make it through the winter won't produce good crops this year. In addition, because of low farm yields, waste grains and other foods from agricultural operations will also probably be in short supply this fall and winter.

Because pastures aren't growing, cattle are grazing them closer than usual, which could lead to a shortage of ground cover for wildlife this winter, Durell says.

Although our lakes still have plenty of water in them, many creeks are starting to virtually dry up. With hot weather and low flow, oxygen depletion can sometimes cause serious fish kills in streams.

Many farmers are having to make a choice between fish and crops. Usually the crops win and ponds are used for irrigation, being pumped dry or down to levels where fish kills can occur.

There's not much we can do about this except hope for rain. Durell recommends putting out bird baths or other water sources for birds and watering ornamental seed producing trees like dogwoods—if you can spare the water. If we do get some good soaking rains soon, we could still see a late crop of quail and rabbits, according to Durell. But for right now, wildlife biologists, like the rest of us, just have to wait and see what the weather deals us next.

Finally, a reminder to all those squirrel hunters who are going to be out and about on opening day (Aug. 20): The woods are pretty dry, so be careful with matches or cigarettes. Wildlife is having a rough enough time without having forest or grass fires to contend with.

Hazard Mayor, Bailey at Odds Over Site Choice for Hospital

Construction of a 200-bed hospital to replace the present Hazard Appalachian Regional Hospital has hit not one but two snags—one, Mayor Bill Gorman; the other, State Senator Benny Ray Bailey.

Both want to see the hospital built, but they're at odds over its location. Of the situation Lee Mueller writes in The Lexington Herald-Leader: Mayor Gorman, wants the hospital built inside the city limits on a fill site created by the new bypass. He says: "What we've got is a political decision or a socio-business decision and...this is one of the most important decisions, from a medical care standpoint, that will be made in our region in the next half-century."

State Sen. Benny Ray Bailey, D-Hindman, is a member of an eight-county group that favors a reclaimed strip-mine site overlooking the Daniel Boone Parkway—just three miles from Gorman's choice but outside Hazard's corporate limits. He says: "I don't know of anybody who doesn't prefer the parkway site, other than the city of Hazard. Personally I'd like to have it in Knott County, and there's people over in Breathitt County who'd like to have a hospital, too. Our position is that we'd like to have a regional medical center...not another Hazard hospital."

Caught in the middle, Appalachian Regional Hospitals Inc. must choose between the two proposals during the next few months. The corporation will replace its 148-bed Hazard hospital, whose administrator is Russ D. Sword. He says: "We want to move and make an early decision...there's a lot of people who have strong feelings about this."

Strong feeling and right decisions aside, it is a choice that—until June—neither Sword nor Appalachian Regional Hospitals President Bob Johnson expected to have to make. "We thought we had it planned," Bailey said.

In 1981, state Human Resources Secretary Dr. Grady Stumbo—Bailey's partner in a Knott County health care clinic—persuaded Hazard coal operator Roy Campbell and his wife, Mildred, to donate the 17-acre parkway site for a new regional hospital.

"I think this was a project the governor openly allowed me to push," Stumbo said. A state certificate of need for a 200-bed hospital was issued on May 19, 1982, and on Sept. 8 that year, the property deed was transferred from the eight-county group to Appalachian Regional Hospitals.

A sign beside the parkway entrance to Kentucky Prince Coal Co.'s operations announced that the new hospital would be ready by 1986.

About two months ago, however, Gorman offered the hospital an attractive 19-acre location in Jacklot Hollow, one of two pieces of excess bypass right of way bought by Hazard this year from the state.

The news stunned supporters of the parkway site. In a letter dated July 28, Lexington lawyer Charles C. Mihalek Jr. told hospital directors that his clients, the Campbells, were shocked when they first learned of "this dramatic change of circumstances."

Nevertheless, Sword said in an interview last week that "we have to seriously consider it."

The hospital group's trustees voted on July 29 to authorize Johnson to take title to the Jacklot site, he said.

In its resolution, Sword said, the trustees described the mayor's offer as a "possible site for a new regional hospital" and stipulated that the acquisition occur within 60 days.

Afterward, the trustees will thoroughly analyze each site before selecting one, he said.

An Evening of Music

Join Etta James, Dr. John and Allen Toussaint for a rousing evening of foot-stomping music on "Soundstage Special," airing Monday, September 5 at 10:00 p.m. on KET.

New Orleans is noted for its Dixieland band sound. But native Etta James challenges tradition with her special blend of gospel and the Bayou blues sound. In this "Soundstage Special" she sings her versions of "Sugar on the Floor" and "Amazing Grace."

Dr. John, noted for his music chart climber, "Right Place, Wrong Time," sings another composition and a duet with Ms. James. He goes on to discuss the influence of New Orleans gospel and blues on his versions of rock 'n' roll music.

Rounding out the musical evening is Allen Toussaint. Behind the scenes as a writer of hit songs for Jackson Browne, Boz Scaggs and Bonnie Raitt, Toussaint debuts as a keyboardist on this "Soundstage Special" performing his "What Do You Want the Girl To Do?"

"Soundstage" is produced by WTTW/Chicago.

HILLTOP COAL'S Kathy Isaacs turns in a hit during action in the recent Class "A" women's regional softball tournament at Archer Park. Winner in the tourney was the Amber Stars team, of Inez which beat out Lane's Auto Sales, of Elkhorn City. Both teams took part in the women's state tournament held over the weekend at Corbin.

Fifth Annual Tom's Chips Softball Tourney Scheduled

Even though the regular softball season has ended at Archer Park with the recent regional tournament, a good deal of slow-pitch play remains ahead as independent tourneys highlight the late season.

The Tom's Chips Tournament, which has been held for the past four seasons, is set for August 26-28 at Archer Park, according to Carl Hall, tournament organizer.

Deadline for all teams to enter will be August 25, according to Hall. The tournament will be held, as in years past at Archer Park, Prestonsburg, Ky.

For further information, contact Carl Hall 886-9461, or 874-9117, or any member of the Tom's Chips team.

Pike Cubs To End Season, Tuesday

The Pikeville Cubs will return home Friday to begin their final home stand of the 1983 Appalachian Rookie League Season, with five special attractions planned.

There will be specials for the fans for all five home dates,—including a free day Sunday and two merchants' nights, with approximately 100 gifts being given away to fans in attendance.

The Cubs, who are currently battling for a third or fourth place spot in the Appalachian League, will start their series Friday night against Bristol and the same Bristol team will be in town Saturday night. On Sunday, two games will be played, with the first against first-place Paintsville, and the second against Elizabethton.

The home-stand will continue Monday night against Elizabethton and Tuesday, final night, will see a doubleheader between the Cubs and Elizabethton, with the first game starting at 5:30.

Friday will be observed as Senior Citizens Night, with all fans 60 years and older being admitted free.

Sunday will be Fans Appreciation Day, with everyone being admitted free of charge. However, season ticket holders will still be assured of their reserved seats for these games. The first Sunday tilt will start at 2 p.m.

The final night of the home season—next Tuesday—will see the second Merchants' Night observed, with another drawing for 50 prizes for the fans. Also, members of the Pikeville team and the coaching staff will be recognized between games.

Bible School Is Family Affair

Arts and crafts gave expression to lessons learned in the Catholic Bible School held recently at St. Juliana Church, Martin.

Bible School was a family affair for parishioners of St. Juliana Catholic Church, Martin, and St. Theodore Catholic Church, Prestonsburg, this summer. Even infants and adults had classrooms to which they reported.

The three-and-under crowd were babysat by Christian Appalachian Project volunteers Pat Gallagher and Deanna Daiss.

Preschool through high school students assembled in age appropriate groups for sessions that focused on the Ten Commandments. Their lessons were taught through instruction, music, recreation, and arts and crafts.

Adults attended classes on personal needs and growth as Christians, viewed the filmstrips, "Children in the Church Community" and "Healing Family Hurts", and discussed parish needs and programming.

Some special events further filled the week.

Mothers, daughters and teachers camped overnight on the Daniel Boone houseboat at Dewey Lake after the first class session. On Wednesday afternoon, families enjoyed a houseboat outing prior to classes. The Daniel Boone docked at Arrowhead Point where the children and their parents did some clean-up work before they went swimming, canoeing and water-skiing.

Duna Combs, a Catholic mother and artist, helped the high school students embody their concepts of the commandments in metal toolings. Students made simple drawings on paper which expressed an aspect of the Commandments, then practiced tooling their designs in aluminum before creating their final work in copper.

The completed assemblage was presented to Father Ralph Beiting, pastor of Floyd and Magoffin County Catholic churches, during a potluck picnic which preceded Friday night's outdoor Mass. After the parent-planned Eucharistic worship service, Bible School participants were awarded certificates.

Entertainment concluded the week's activities. Peter Duffy, CFC, and Wesley McGuire performed stunts. "Valley Girls" Elizabeth Everly and Carole Hodson did a skit. Andrea Combs played two-violin solos. The Bible School staff—CONCERN volunteers from Rhode Island, Christian Appalachian Project volunteers, and Brother Peter Duffy, CFC—sang old songs with new lyrics based on experiences of the week.

Nursing Program Helps End Delay

The Pikeville Methodist Hospital opened a neonatal intensive care nursery for sick newborns on July 25, five years after the hospital had been designated by the State Planning Agency to serve Pike, Floyd, Johnson, Martin and Magoffin counties. The delay in providing this new sophisticated health service to the Big Sandy valley resulted from the critical shortage of registered nurses to staff the unit.

The associate degree nursing program at Prestonsburg Community College is helping meet the hospital's need for registered nurses. In fact, the availability of seven graduates from P.C.C.'s program made it possible to open the intensive care nursery. The establishment of an associate degree program in nursing at Pikeville College, beginning next January 1, will provide the registered nurses needed to expand or add new health services on a more timely basis in the future.

NICU physicians and staff care for infants with special problems. Some of these problems are premature infants with respiratory distress syndrome, birth defects, heart diseases, infections, etc. Special equipment such as heart monitors, blood gas monitors, intravenous pumps, respirators and special beds for warming are used on these infants as needed, says Dr. Jerry Taylor.

In some instances, the parents may live several miles from the hospital, since the unit was established to serve a five-county area, and so visiting hours have been relaxed to make it easy for parents to visit.

Sediment Pond Design Defined in Document, Filing Deadline Told

The Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement Aug. 5 released the document, "Design of Sediment Ponds to Meet Effluent Limitations for Suspended and Settleable Solids". The document is being distributed to approximately 500 consulting engineering firms and coal company engineers currently on the Department's technical mailing list.

With its release, applicants with Priority I transitioning permits have until September 6, at 4:30 p.m. to submit the sediment pond designs and compliance information to the Department.

Including the "Kentucky Graphical Method for Sediment Pond Design," which uses graphs, tables, and straightforward calculations to design embankment and excavated sediment ponds which can reasonably be expected to meet the current effluent limitations, the document also describes other acceptable design methods and the information which should be included in the permit application when these methods are used. Should applicants wish to submit another design method, the document also contains procedures to be followed to obtain department approval of the alternate method.

There are fish in Amazon rivers that have developed teeth with molars strong enough to crush hard nuts, says International Wildlife magazine. They come in handy each year when the fish swim into flooded Amazon forests searching for seeds and fruit that drop from trees. Without this important source of food, the fish would probably die from lack of nutrients.

Downtime caused by faulty cable can be a real drain on coal mining profits.

Anaconda mining cable helps turn downtime into uptime.

Downtime caused by faulty mining cable can cost $13 a minute in lost coal production alone. So even though mining cable represents a tiny fraction of your total operating expenses, it can have a big effect on your mine's profitability. Anaconda's quality mining cable stands up to the rigorous conditions that can cause so-called bargain cable to fail before its time. Because it's made better, Anaconda cable lasts longer than cheaper cables. Which keeps downtime down and sends productivity and profits up.

To find out more about how Anaconda mining cable helps turn downtime into uptime, call our special toll-free Mining Hotline: (800) 428-5753.

Kentucky Afield

HUNTING SEASONS AHEAD
It's hard to believe that it's time to start thinking about hunting again, but several seasons are just around the corner.

Kentucky's statewide squirrel season opens Aug. 20 and will run through Oct. 31, with the second phase of the split season set for Nov. 17 through Dec. 31. The daily and possession limits remain at six and 12.

Biologists are predicting higher squirrel populations than last year in Western Kentucky, but numbers should be lower in both the central and eastern regions of the state. These predictions are based on the 1982 mast crop, which was below par except in the west.

The first phase of the dove season will open Sept. 1 and will continue through Oct. 31. The second phase is scheduled for Dec. 3 through Dec. 11.

Dove limits remain at 12 daily and 24 in possession, but there have been changes in the shooting hours, which now extend from 11 a.m. until sunset. In the past, shooting hours for doves have been from noon until one-half hour before sunset.

These longer shooting hours should benefit the late-season hunter, who doesn't have much daylight in December. But hunters should remember that "sunset" isn't necessarily when the sun dips behind the horizon, but is a specific time which changes daily. You'll still have to check the newspaper or other source to find the official sunset time—the one that the conservation officer is using.

Another early hunt is the experimental teal and wood duck season set for Sept. 7 through Sept. 11. This is the final year of this three-year experiment and so far, results have been just as biologists predicted. It things continue as they have, the chances are good that we'll have some kind of early wood duck season in the future.

Since wood ducks are early migrators, the only way to allow Kentucky hunters to harvest native woodies is by an early September season. Teal are migrating through the state then also, so these account for most of the ducks taken.

The daily limit during this early season is four ducks, but only one of these four may be a species other than a teal or wood duck. Hunters must obtain a free permit card before hunting. This card is used to report the number and species of ducks taken this season. Cards are available from conservation officers or by writing the Division of Wildlife, Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, No. 1 Game Farm Road, Frankfort, KY 40601.

Job Corps Students In Fort Knox Stay

Ten Prestonsburg Job Corps students recently traveled to Ft. Knox, Kentucky with their instructor, National Guard Lt. Eric Conn, as part of the Center's M.E.T. (Military Education Training) Program. The Fort Knox visit was the culmination of an intensive eight-week program. Camping, map reading, parade dress, physical exercise were a few of the areas covered in the program.

Lt. Conn, a native of Stanville, organized and directed the program and was pleased with the results of this initial effort. The MET Program was designed as an evening and weekend activity to gain easier acceptance for participants into the military.

Command Changes at Police Post

Capt. Goins

Capt. Johnson

Capt. Gary W. Goins, Kentucky State Police post commander at Pikeville since last January, has been named to become the new post commander at Harlan.

His replacement at Pikeville will be Capt. Charles E. Johnson, currently a headquarters staff officer for the KSP Division of Operations at Frankfort. The change was announced by KSP Commissioner Billy G. Wellman who said that it became effective Aug. 15.

Johnson, 35, formerly served as the post commander at Morehead and as KSP's commander for Internal Affairs. His other assignments also have included service as a detective in Narcotics, Organized Crime and the KSP's Special Investigations Division. A native of Paris, he has been a state policeman since 1970.

Goins, who is returning to Harlan for a second tour of duty as post commander there, was selected for reassignment following the reassignment of the present Harlan post commander to Mayfield.

Wellman said that the Pikeville Post will also be losing Sgt. Robert G. Elliott who is being promoted to lieutenant and reassigned to an investigative position at Mayfield. Elliott has been at the Pikeville Post since 1982.
