

MINE RESCUERS proceed cautiously into the darkness of Mayo State Vocational-Technical School's simulated mine at Betsy Layne, Friday morning, in a mine disaster drill which tested the specialized skills of the Martin-based mine rescue team of the state Department of Mines and Minerals.

Responding to a call from Dwayne Hall, instructor at the Mayo facility, that seven miners from a previous shift were missing and an explosion was suspected to have occurred, the rescue unit from Martin soon arrived at the scene and began the meticulous task of equipment preparation for the rescue attempt. Within the mine where various symbols and markers indicated such life-threatening conditions as "bad air," roof problems, water and the like, the six rescue workers, all loaded with breathing apparatus, proceeded with all the care that an actual mine accident might warrant with almost constant testing of roof conditions and frequent checking of methane, carbon dioxide and oxygen levels adding an almost unsettling touch of realism to the exercise. While constant radio contact was maintained with the mouth of the mine, the team members worked their way through a number of hypothetical situations which commonly occur in "real" mine mishaps until each of the seven miner-victims were transported safely to the outside.

Richard A. Watts, supervisor for the Martin District, Department of Mines and Minerals, explained that the rescue team is required to participate in at least one rescue drill per month, at which time they are judged by experienced mine personnel as to the quality and efficiency of their performance. Judges at Friday's exercise included Eddie Akers, Bill Reed, Elmo Green, Archie Justice, Azzie Hall and Arthur Moore.

Members of the rescue team itself participating in the drill at Betsy Layne were Capt. Larry Sexton, Vaughn Watson, Kenneth Meade, Clarence E. Kidd, Leonard Runyon, Bobby Sexton, Billy Combs and David Martin. The Department of Mines and Minerals and Mayo plan to cooperate in future drills which also serve as a learning experience for the 12 students enrolled in the first 16-week session ever at the simulated mine. The facility, which was completed this spring, is one of only four such training areas in the state where students learn the fundamentals of mining, from roof control and ventilation to actual operation of mine machinery.

Clerks' Strike Ends After Court Meeting

His striking deputies wanted a "yes" or "no" on their request for a pay raise, County Clerk Thomas D. Lafferty, Jr. told members of the fiscal court Thursday. The answer they received was not as simple as that—it appeared closer to a "no" than a "yes"—but the clerks went back to work, anyway.

Eight women had walked off the job three days earlier to protest the failure of the fiscal court to grant them a pay increase the week before. At a special meeting of the court Thursday, they said their work stoppage was prompted by the "attitude" of magistrates who had tabled for further study their pay hike request.

While the magistrates appeared more willing to hear the clerks' grievances last week than they had been the week before—and all said the women deserved a raise—the proposal got hung up at two points.

One problem in granting pay increases, explained Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo, was where the money would come from. Another sticking point, said County Attorney Arnold Turner, Jr., is that the county cannot legally raise salaries at this time.

Since they are paid out of the fees they collect, they are not really asking the county for money, the clerks contended. "We're paying into the fiscal court," said Evelyn Goble. "We feel like we're making our own way."

But Stumbo said the clerks collect fees on behalf of the county, that any fees collected in excess of the clerk's office expenses go into county funds, and that all fees anticipated this year have already been assigned in the county budget. The county also contributes to the clerks' social security and retirement benefits, he said.

His own office payroll has been reduced this year from $177,634 to $77,485, the judge-executive pointedly noted.

Even if the court were to authorize a pay raise for the clerks, it would not be effective until next January, said the county attorney. Under a state law designed to prevent candidates from manipulating salaries to win votes in election years, the court is not permitted to alter pay scales between May and December, Turner said.

In May, 1981, when the fiscal court last fixed the number of employees the clerk could hire and the amount he could pay them, 10 fulltime workers were approved at salaries ranging from $500 to $1000 a month. Under the proposed scale, salaries of the 10 would range from $750 to $1150 and the increases would be retroactive to July 1.

Home Looted by Vandals As Holdup Pair Sought

Efforts of Prestonsburg police to identify the two men who robbed at gunpoint Ex-Mayor William O. Goebel, Jr. last Tuesday morning at his home have produced nothing to date, but they have had better luck with the burglary and looting of the Arnold avenue home of Mrs. Ray Howard, almost exactly a week later.

Two juveniles and a third person who at first was booked at the county jail as an adult were arrested early Tuesday morning by State Trooper William Slone and Prestonsburg police.

The three left Mrs. Howard's bedroom a shambles. "What they didn't take they damaged or ruined," a family member said. A log was used to smash a bedroom window at the rear of the home.

Mrs. Howard, who only a few days ago was dismissed from a hospital, was not at home at the time of the break, and members of the family said it may be several days before the loss is fully determined. Taken were cash, jewelry, a television set, a shotgun and various other items.

Of the vandalism it was said pictures were ripped from the walls, a television set was damaged or ruined, as also were other items.

A Bull Creek youth was jailed as an adult after he gave his age as 18. Later, he told officers he was 17 and was transferred to the juvenile detention center where his two alleged accomplices are also held.

The three were arrested at Cliff at about 4:30 a.m. yesterday (Tuesday) after the engineer of a C. & O. train had reported to the State Police barracks at Pikeville that three men, one waving a shotgun, had attempted to stop his train. The state trooper required help as he refrained from striking any of the three when they resisted. During the struggle a window of his cruiser was kicked out.

Chief of Police Dick Campbell said one of the juveniles being held is already under probation.

Campbell said he does not think the men who robbed Goebel are the same two who a week earlier held hostage and robbed Paintsville Mayor James Trimble, his wife, son and daughter. The Federal Bureau of Investigation has joined state and city police in the investigation of the Paintsville robbery, but only city police are involved in the search for those who robbed Ex-Mayor Goebel.

The two who robbed Goebel rifled his safe of about $40,500. The haul in the Paintsville robbery was placed at about $50,000 in cash, jewelry and other items.

Floyd's Hepatitis Rate No Epidemic, Says Health Dept.

Eleven cases of hepatitis have been reported to Floyd health officials in the past two months. The number of cases is "not unusually high," however, and does not add up to an epidemic, noted Health Department Administrator Earl Compton.

By contrast, Knott health officials reported 26 cases in a single week recently and a state epidemiologist has been called in to investigate the outbreak there. Eighty cases have been reported in Knott this year.

Of the cases reported here since July 1, four were in Melvin and one each in Wheelwright, Ligon, Hi Hat, Huesville, Wayland, Estill and Halo.

The small hepatitis virus is usually spread through fecal contamination of water supplies, Compton said.

Robinson Debt Over $400,000; Audit Awaited

County Clerk C. Ollie Robinson owed the state more than $400,000 when he died in February, according to claims of debt filed in circuit court here last week.

County officials were awaiting a state audit this week to see what monies Robinson might also have owed the county.

A claim filed last Tuesday by the state Transportation Cabinet's department of vehicle regulation alleges Robinson's estate owed $288,989.78 in unpaid registration fees and penalties as of July 31.

At the same time, the state Revenue Cabinet filed a claim charging that Robinson owed the state $116,398.31 in delinquent taxes.

The unpaid taxes included $5903 due from 1978, $11,556 for 1979, $24,631 for 1980, $22,955 for 1981, $16,462 for 1982, and $426 for 1983, according to claims unit supervisor Sheila B. Martin. Penalties and interest have also been levied on the debt.

UK Hospital Policy Draws Fire at Meet

It's hard to cut health costs without cutting services. And cuts in services are most likely to affect "the poor, the sick, the unorganized and those without political clout."

That was the gist of many of the comments directed at a legislative panel which met at May Lodge Monday. And, to illustrate their fears about the way things are going, speakers repeatedly singled out the University of Kentucky Hospital for criticism.

The occasion was the tenth meeting of the Subcommittee on Health Care Financing and Cost Containment of the Interim Joint Committee on Health and Welfare, and the attack on UK was not unexpected. In its July 28 meeting in Frankfort, the subcommittee—which is studying the question of paying for health care for the poor—heard from the University of Kentucky as well as from the University of Louisville and the Kentucky Hospital Association.

At that time Frank Butler, UK Hospital director, outlined the hospital's two-year-old policy of turning away poor patients except in emergencies. Treating indigent patients, who numbered 10 percent of total admissions in 1980-'81, "was creating an unbearable financial burden" on the hospital, he explained.

The policy change angered many health care workers in east Kentucky, who cited UK's traditional role as the place to refer poor patients for more sophisticated care than is available in the mountains. In testimony before the subcommittee Monday, Dr. Peter Morris, a pediatrician with the Frontier Nursing Service in Hyden, called the UK policy "morally and ethically deplorable" because it restricts access to health care on the basis of a person's ability to pay for it.

Morris cited several cases of critically ill patients whose admission to UK was either delayed or denied while questions were being resolved about who would pay the bills. One story, of a motorcycle accident victim with a depressed skull fracture, drew gasps of disbelief from the legislators and audience.

"What are we supposed to do, let him die?" Harris said he asked of a neurosurgical resident at the hospital, when it appeared the accident victim carried no insurance. "I guess so," the resident is said to have replied.

This Town...That World

I have neglected the birds, the last week. No food in the feeder. When one bird passed with a scrap of paper in its beak, I was reminded that it was probably circulating a petition.

BREAKING IT GENTLY

Speaking of birds, I think of cats, and that brings to mind the case of the old bachelor who doted on cats. One cat, his own, to be exact. He alone fed and cared for the pet, and when his boss advised him that a trip overseas was necessary he was disturbed.

"But my cat—who will take care of him?"

"I'll see that he is fed and watered, I'll attend to the cat, myself," his employer assured him.

The man made the flight to London, and after a couple of days fell to wondering about his cat. So he called his boss, and to his inquiry was told, "I'm sorry, Bill, but your cat is dead."

The man was desolate. "But why tell me this news so abruptly, so shockingly?" he asked.

"But how could I tell you otherwise?" his boss asked. "You asked me, and I told you."

"You could have broken the news to me gently," the cat-owner advised him. "You could have told me today, for example, that my cat was up on the roof and that you had called the fire department to come, get him down. And then, the next time, you could have told me that they had got the cat down and that, unfortunately, he had passed away."

His boss, agreed that that might have been a better approach to the tragic news. And just then, before hanging up, the other asked.

Penicillin in combatting germs, works to interfere with a germ's ability to maintain its cell walls. Once a germ cell's wall is "cracked", the germ become susceptible to elements in its environment that are poisonous to it. In moderate doses, penicillin destroys the cells capacity to reproduce. At high doses, it can kill the germ cells. The problem arises when certain germs in a colony survive a certain dosage of penicillin. These resistant strains may go on to reproduce even more of this type in the body. To effectively combat germs with penicillin treatments, it is important to carefully follow the doctor's prescription.

It is important to remember when taking any medication, especially an antibiotic, to carefully follow the directions. WHAT OFFICIAL INFORMATION ABOUT ME MIGHT I EVER NEED?

When accurate information is needed to fill out forms and announcements, it is often hard to locate or remember. You need all sorts of information when you marry, buy insurance, apply for credit or a job, and yes, even when death occurs.

It is wise to prepare such a total record now and keep it in a safe place...not in a safety deposit box because they are usually locked until after the funeral, but rather in a locked drawer of your desk. Do, however, inform your spouse of where this information may be found.

Information most often needed includes: 1) full name, address, Social Security number, armed forces serial number, 2) birthdate and place, 3) blood type, 4) employer records, 5) name of father's and mother's birthplace and date, 6) names of organizations and publications to be notified, 7) location of important documents, 8) any special funeral preferences or pre-arrangements, 9) pre-arranged donation of eyes or body organs, 10) names and addresses of all persons to be notified of your death.

A claim against Robinson's estate was filed in May on behalf of the fiscal court after a 1981 audit revealed the clerk owed the court $51,047 in excess fees. In addition, three banks have filed claims totalling $56,668.48.

The unpaid balance on four loans Robinson took out between September, 1977 and January this year amounts to $41,041.81, according to Dallas Calhoun, vice-president of the First Commonwealth Bank here. A special account the former clerk held at the Bank Josephine is overdrawn by $15,057.72, according to Jack R. Wicker, vice-president of the bank.

The Citizens Fidelity Bank and Trust Co. of Louisville has filed a claim for $1568.95, which it claims is due on the late clerk's Mastercard account.

The claims, which total $513,103.57, are addressed to Robinson's younger daughter, Melissa Robinson Tussey, 24, of Richmond, who is the administrator of her father's estate. He is also survived by an older daughter, Sharon Robinson Spradlin, 27, of Prestonsburg.

Robinson died intestate on Feb. 22 at the age of 54. He had served as county clerk for 21 years. In a probate petition filed March 1, Mrs. Tussey put the value of his estate at $75,000-$50,000 in real estate and $25,000 in personal property. He was bonded by the Aetna Casualty and Surety Co. for $50,000.

Although the county clerk's office is audited annually by the state, it was only in recent years that Robinson's records were scrutinized closely, said Carla Robinson Boyd, who worked for him intermittently over a period of 11 years.

Mrs. Boyd, who is Robinson's niece, is Democratic candidate for county clerk in the fall election. She described her uncle last week as a softhearted man who ran up deficits by doing favors—such as "lending" truck license tags—for those who prevailed on his generosity.

IRS Computer May Get You

If you are delinquent on your Federal taxes, don't be surprised if you get a call from an Internal Revenue Service representative during the evening or on Saturday.

Beginning September 6, IRS office collection operations for Kentucky will be handled by the new Automated Collection System (ACS) call site at Indianapolis, Indiana.

The system, which will operate from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. weekdays and until noon on Saturdays, will be responsible for collection of delinquent taxes in Indiana, Kentucky, and West Virginia.

ACS integrates computer and telephone technology to control collection accounts, allowing an account representative to contact taxpayers, generate correspondence, and record actions with an almost total elimination of paperwork. Implementation of the Indianapolis site is part of a nationwide phase-in of the system, scheduled for completion in 1984.

Delinquent taxpayers will continue to receive notices from the IRS service center as in the past. If this doesn't resolve the case, it will then go to the ACS site where an account representative will make telephone contact with the taxpayer to resolve the delinquency.

Each account representative has a terminal and a telephone that is connected to the call site computer. The computer sequences the cases in priority order, based on such factors as the type of tax owed and the amount of the delinquency. It dials the taxpayer's phone number, while displaying account information on the representative's display terminal, enabling the representative to discuss the case with the taxpayer without referring to stacks of paperwork. The system can reschedule the case for future callbacks if there is no answer or the line is busy, and it enhances IRS capability to locate taxpayers and their assets.

In a Miami, Fla., targeted enforcement effort during the 1982 fiscal year, the U.S. Department of Labor's Employment Standards Administration uncovered nearly $2 million in minimum wage and overtime violations, according to the department's annual report.

judge-executive's office, the raise would cost the county an additional $3682 a month in pay and benefits.

The clerks accused Al Howell, a representative of the state Local Finance Office, of misleading them by first declaring their request proper and later saying that no pay increase could take effect until the new year. Several pointed out they did not expect to be working in the clerk's office next year because a new clerk is expected to take office in November.

At the fiscal court meeting when the pay raise proposal was first broached, Howell said the proposal was made in proper form and that the magistrates could lawfully vote on it. He did not say at that time that a raise could not take effect until January.

While state and local officials warned earlier that the strike was illegal, and that it could cause the strikers to lose both their jobs and their unemployment benefits, it appeared last week that no action would be taken against them.

Thursday's special session was called by Magistrates Kenneth Roberts, Ed Caudill and Gerald DeRossett.

LETTERS To the Editor

The views expressed here are those of the writer, and not necessarily those of this newspaper. No unsigned contributions will be published.

No Warning on Booze

Every time I open a pack of my favorite cigarettes I notice a warning that cigarettes could be hazardous to my health. The government regulators don't want me to harm myself. Containers of some prescription drugs, as well as some that are non-prescription, warn me not to drive after taking.

But it is a different story when I open a bottle of my favorite booze. Old Grand Dad is there, almost meeting my stare with a smile and seems to be saying, "Go ahead and drink; I won't cause you any trouble, no matter how much you drink."

There is no warning on the whiskey label, although our government keeps telling us how many accidents are caused by drunk drivers, how many murders are caused by alcohol, plus many other alcohol-related crimes.

It would seem they are saying, "We warned you not to kill yourself by smoking, but if a drunk driver hits you, you just had tough luck."

Maybe they should put a label on the bottle showing a drunk being pulled from a wreck which he had caused, or perhaps a drunk with gun in hand, standing over his victim.

It might be a good idea, but we don't want to face that kind of warning—not until the sad result faces ourselves and our own families.

Grateful For Support

I would like to take this opportunity to thank the many people in your county for their support in our efforts on behalf of Dr. Don Branham. Their encouragement has meant much to us as we attempt to promote a better school situation in Martin county.

We have the firm belief that people are behind us in this matter, as evidenced by over 1900 signatures on our petitions backing Dr. Branham. By no means is this effort over, and we are still working diligently on this issue. We are greatly encouraged by the support (both verbal and financial) that we receive from your area. I would like, on behalf of the Citizens for Better Schools, to say again—"Thank you."

A Job Well Done

Most of the time the public takes for granted the presence of the police officers in their community.

Until you are personally involved in a crime committed against yourself, or your property you don't really think of the policeman's day-to-day efforts.

This letter is to commend and thank the Prestonsburg Police Dept., especially Officers Greg Hall and Larry Woods, for their interest and dedicated service in the recovery and return to us of the property that was stolen from our home recently.

Asks for Clarification

In a story appearing in the July 20 edition of the Times, which reported on an incident last October 11 in which Gregory Randall Newsome was fired upon by Tommy Cole, a claim was made that the shooting followed a dispute over Cole's wife. Brenda Newsome has asked the Times to point out that she was no longer Cole's wife at the time of the shooting but was by then married to Newsome.

Bids on franchises for cable television service in several areas of this county were received last Wednesday by the Floyd fiscal court but were not opened at that time and in all probability will not be opened until a hearing is held on a complaint by the Akers Cable System, Inc., of Martin asking the Floyd circuit court restrain the fiscal court from selling and issuing franchises. They marched again Sunday to honor Cpl. Fred Obroff on his return after 27 months a prisoner, then on Monday afternoon here Cpl. Charles Ray Boyd, the first Prestonsburg prisoner of war, was likewise honored. Instead of taking a holiday on Labor Day, approximately 60,000 miners in the Big Sandy and Hazard coal fields have made it known that they are willing to work Labor Day "to help win the war." The disappearance from the Floyd Circuit Court Clerk's office, August 22, of three election contest petitions this week remained a mystery to officials investigating the case. The War Department announced last week that Pvt. Jesse Erskine, 23, of Glo, had been killed in recent fighting in the southwest Pacific. Lieut. Burr P. State Says 12 Floyd Systems In Violation of Water Rules

Twelve water systems in this county are listed by the state Division of Water and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency as persistent violators of federal and state drinking-water regulations.

EPA considers a system to be a persistent violator if it breaks the rules more than three times in a federal fiscal year, which ends Sept. 30.

Most of the Floyd systems in that category at the end of July were named for failure to submit water samples, test results, or operating reports. Three systems were each cited once for a high bacteria count which, because of the potential health threat, is considered a more serious violation.

Cited for coliform bacteria were Prater Elementary School—one of 15 citations against the school since last October; the Weeksbury Water Supply—one of 20 violations there; and the David Water District—one of nine violations.

Also listed were the Allen Water Commission, with nine violations; Auxier Water Co., 4; Martin Water Dept., 9; Prestonsburg Water Co., 11; Sandy Valley Water District, 13; Alpike Mobile Home Park, 19; Melvin Elementary School, 12; Osborne Elementary, 9; and Home Branch Elementary, 13.

UK came under fire again for its failure to tap $1.6 million appropriated near the end of the last legislative session specifically for the care of indigent patients there. In a spirited exchange with Rep. Chris Perkins, of Hindman, UK Hospital Director Butler said the hospital chose not to use the money because "we did not want to get back into being designated, officially or unofficially, as the indigent care facility for eastern Kentucky."

"We are trying to provide our fair share of indigent and Medicaid care in eastern Kentucky and we consider $25 million to be our fair share," Butler said. In 1981-82, UK provided about $25.5 million in unreimbursed care, hospital officials claim.

Although the hospital keeps no records of patients refused admission, Beth Owen, a registered nurse with a group called Kentucky Youth Advocates, claimed that 387 women were refused prenatal care there last year "because they had no money."

On the other hand, Robert L. Johnson, president of Appalachian Regional Hospitals, Inc., said the change in UK policy "had no impact (on east Kentucky) that I can document." Most indigent patients from this area meet the medical criteria for admission to the Lexington hospital, he said.

Johnson made a pitch, uncommon among hospital administrators, for strict planning to prevent unnecessary expansion of medical facilities. But doctors should be controlled as well as hospitals, he said.

Sr. Judith Elder, a social worker at Our Lady of the Way hospital, decried what she described as "the total breakdown of a sense of ambition, pride and respect" brought about by dependence on welfare and urged that poor people be required to pay at least a nominal fee for prescription drugs.

"People ask that we pay for their medicines even while they're holding in their hands pop, cigarettes and potato chips. We don't want to reinforce those patterns," she said.

"You'll have to erase generations," commented Louisville Rep. Gerta Bend, a member of the panel.

Eula Hall, founder of the Mud Creek Clinic, which the legislators toured earlier in the day, argued for more primary care clinics to serve the poor, especially those who do not qualify for Medicaid, cannot afford private insurance, and are unable to pay medical bills out of their own pocket.

Debra Hamilton, of Teaberry, illustrated the plight of those said to be "falling through the cracks in the system." Because her husband has drawn unemployment since being laid off from the mines last December, she is ineligible for Medicaid. But, though she is five months pregnant, the family has no money to pay for her prenatal care, she said.

Sr. Cathryn Wright, a family nurse practitioner at the Mud Creek clinic, urged the legislators to adopt the state health plan recently proposed by Gov. John Y. Brown, with its heavy emphasis on policies that promote healthy living and seek to prevent disease before it arises. Part of the revenue from an unmined minerals tax could be earmarked for health care, she suggested.

John Rosenberg, director of the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund, asked the committee to draft a bill of rights guaranteeing basic health care for every Kentuckian.

Asst. Schools Superintendent Ray Brackett said this week that the school district has employed an inspector since late last year to monitor water supplies in all county schools that are not on city water systems. Jody Fannin, who is operating under a temporary inspector's license, is supposed to take water samples and make timely reports, Brackett said.

A tap-on fee was recently paid to connect the Prater Creek school, at Dana, with the Prater Creek Water District system, the school official noted. (The water district is currently signing up customers for a $1.05 million water distribution system which it hopes to construct next spring. According to the plan, Prater Creek will draw water from the Prestonsburg system at Banner.)

Roger Conn, an official with the state Division of Water, explained this week that, while the presence of any coliform is a violation, it does not indicate a serious problem unless the bacteria show up in repeated samples or are present in large numbers.

Where a water supply is contaminated by sewage, for example, coliform counts in the thousands could be expected, he said. A sample taken at Weeksbury in April yielded a county of 125 (coliform per 100 mls.); the Prater School samples, also taken in April, averaged 14.25; and the David sample, taken in July, numbered three.

Most of the violations here stemmed from failure to submit the water samples on a twice-monthly basis as required by state regulations, Conn said. The Weeksbury system submitted only one water sample in four months and has submitted no operating reports at all this year, he said. The Prestonsburg system was cited for including only eight instead of 10 samples in its reports to the state and for failing to submit an operating report and turbidity sample last October.

Prestonsburg Utilities Superintendent Bill H. Howard said he had never been notified of any violation and believed his office was submitting all required reports. Conn acknowledged that notices of violation may not have been sent out. "If we did not notify them, we're at fault," he said. "But it is still their responsibility to observe the regulations."

Any water supply serving more than three families is required to submit water samples to the state twice a month. Systems serving 25 persons or more for 60 days or more a year are also required to have a certified operator and to submit monthly operating reports.

PROFIT AND LOSS

A dollar may not be worth what it once was, but, according to Tom Kuss, all need not be lost. He tells the story of the fellow who started in business and kept the first dollar he ever made. He went to the 10-cent store and brought a frame—yes, for 10 cents—and that dollar bill hung on the wall in that frame for 20 years. Then the man went broke, and he turned to his first dollar. But it was worth only a dime. So he offered his dime store frame for sale—and, lo! it was now worth a dollar.

YOU'RE GROWING OLD, IF...

If anybody tells you that you're in your "Golden Years," you may be assured it's only another way of saying you're in the "sere and yellow leaf."

The Lexington Herald credits a contributor, Mary Louise Snow, with the following 10 infallible ways to know you're growing older (if anybody needs telling):

1. Your back goes out more than you do.
2. The gleam in your eyes is from the sun hitting your bifocals.
3. Your children begin looking middle-aged.
4. Your knees buckle and your belt won't.
5. The best part of your day is over when the alarm clock goes off.
6. A fortuneteller offers to read your face.
7. Dialing long distance wears you out.
8. You have too much room in the house but not enough in the medicine cabinet.
9. You sink your teeth in a steak and they stay there.
10. And you finally know all the answers—but nobody asks the questions.

Praises Brown Education Program

By RAYMOND BARBER
Supt. of Public Instruction

"A Nation at Risk," the report prepared by the National Commission on Excellence in Education, has generated a new and intense awareness of the status of public education in the United States. Throughout the country, parents and educators are discussing and debating four of the major issues addressed by the report: the improvement of teacher pay, stiffer educational standards, increased financial support of the schools and pupil-teacher ratio.

Kentucky's Governor, John Y. Brown, Jr., went to work on these problems before A Nation at Risk was even published. Under his leadership, the Kentucky Department of Education not only addressed these issues, but initiated other new and innovative educational programs as well. Take a look at what Kentucky is doing in education.

Teacher Pay. Kentucky is constantly striving to upgrade teachers' salaries and professional standards. Kentucky now ranks 4th in the nation in percent increase in teacher salaries. Our state ranks 32nd in teacher salaries which is notable considering that Kentucky ranks 45th in per capita income. Teacher salaries have increased 81% since 1976-1977. The average salary for teachers then was $10,926 compared to today's average of $19,780. Under Governor Brown's leadership, Kentucky was the first state to address the critical shortage of qualified science and math teachers, by creating an incentive loan program—a program that has brought this state considerable national recognition. Kentucky's incentive loan program has become a model for other states.

Stiffer Educational Requirements. On August 3 the Legislative Research Commission approved the Kentucky State Department of Education's recommendation to toughen educational standards. We increased the requirements for graduation from 18 to 20 credits. We are requiring one additional unit in English and math, and we are requiring high school students to take two English, two math and two science courses by the end of the 10th grade. We have mandated that six hours of the school day be devoted to actual instruction and, these requirements will take effect this school year; not two, not three or four years down the road. The Department has established minimum academic standards in basic subject areas for grades 1-12 and will take these to the State Board of Education for their consideration in the very near future. We are taking steps to upgrade the quality of education by demanding more of our students—and we are doing it now.

Increase Financial Support. During one of the most stressful economic periods in our history, we have witnessed an unprecedented decline in corporate sales and severance taxes. During this same time, the Kentucky Department of Education's budget increased by more than a quarter of a billion dollars. This represents a 32.4% budgetary increase during a period in which state government suffered a decline in anticipated revenue and represents 284, 281, 500 new dollars over the 1979-80 base.

There are three sources of funding for schools—federal, state and local. Kentucky State Government provides 64.2% of the Commonwealth's total education budget and ranks 6th nationally in its percentage of state's money allocated for local school use. Compare this ranking with our neighboring states: Indiana—18th, Ohio—24th, Arkansas—22nd, Tennessee—29th, West Virginia—10th and Illinois ranks 37th with 38.1%. Kentucky is 44th in personal income per child of school age, while the per capita state government expenditure for all education ranks 20th in the nation.

Pupil-Teacher Ratio. While Kentucky currently ranks 16th in the nation in pupil-teacher ratio, Governor Brown has implemented a further reduction in pupil-teacher ratio. Since 1981, grades 1-3 have been reduced from 27 to 1 to a ratio of 25 to 1. Additionally, 702 classrooms have been constructed during the Brown administration.

Governor Brown has been one of the strongest advocates of education in the history of the Commonwealth. Throughout his administration, Governor Brown has been a strong supporter of education and has made sure that it did not suffer because of the state of the economy. He gave the Kentucky Department of Education preferential treatment when other agencies experienced major budgetary reductions.

Despite the current economic situation, the Governor has been easy to work with and has always taken the time to listen to the Department of Education's needs and concerns. He continues to share the concern that post-secondary vocational programs are relevant to the job market and that Kentucky students are prepared and qualified for jobs.

Governor Brown has continued to create new and innovative educational programs. One of his outstanding contributions is the Governor's Scholars Program. The Governor provided $150,000 from his planning fund to start this program and obtained matching funds from the private sector. The first Governor's Scholars Program this summer was an extraordinary success. Two hundred and forty-five of Kentucky's brightest students spent five weeks at Centre College. They focused on the theme, "Science, Technology and Kentucky's Future." Among the outstanding guest speakers was Kentucky's only living Nobel Prize winner. As the Lexington Herald Leader commented in a recent editorial: "Kentuckians should keep their eyes on the Scholars Program; it could be the forerunner of a new era in our educational system."

Dropout Prevention has been one of Governor Brown's top priorities and still heads the list. He has advised the Department of Education to double the budget next year for programs aimed at cutting the dropout rate. The Task Force on Dropout Prevention conducted a national survey to identify successful programs. The study resulted in fifteen experimental anti-dropout programs being started across the state last year and more will begin this year. Teachers involved in these programs had many success stories to report at a Success Sharing Conference held in April.

Progress has also made in student academic achievement as measured by the achievement tests given statewide every spring in the third, fifth, seventh and tenth grades. Students scored above national benchmarks in all subjects tested in grades 3, 5 and 7 and are improving to the national benchmarks in grade 10.

While the state and the nation obviously have room for improvement in education, we as educators, parents, businessmen and students, should recognize Governor John Y. Brown's contribution to education.

The fruits of the governor's leadership and dedication to educational enhancement will be felt by Kentucky's society for years to come. Kentuckians can rest assured that Governor Brown and the Department of Education are ahead of the curve on the issue of responding to today's educational needs and establishing a proper foundation for tomorrow.

How Hot Is Lightning? Take This Quick Quiz

When Benjamin Franklin walked into a field with a kite, a string and an iron key, he was lucky he lived to tell what happened.

He was trying to find out everything he could about lightning, and he did, according to this month's issue of Ranger Rick, the children's publication of the National Wildlife Federation. But he realized he could have been killed by the electricity in lightning. In fact, a person who later tried to repeat Franklin's experiment died during that recreation.

Here's a quiz of little-known facts about lightning, taken from Ranger Rick:

1. What type of lightning is most common?
 - a. Lightning that occurs inside a cloud
 - b. Cloud-to-cloud lightning
 - c. Cloud-to-ground lightning
2. How long is a bolt of lightning?
 - a. A few yards (meters)
 - b. 8 miles (13 km)
 - c. 100 miles (160 km)
 - d. Any of the above
3. How hot is a bolt of lightning?
 - a. As hot as boiling water
 - b. As hot as the surface of the sun
 - c. More than twice as hot as the surface of the sun
4. Why do you always see lightning before you hear thunder?
 - a. A lightning bolt makes the air around it very hot, very fast. When the hot air hits the cooler air surrounding it, a booming sound is heard.
 - b. Clouds that are charged with electricity bump together.
6. Does lightning happen when there isn't a thunderstorm?
 - a. Yes
7. Does lightning ever strike the same place more than once?
 - a. Yes
8. If you're outdoors in a thunderstorm, you should NOT
 - a. Seek shelter under a single tree
 - b. Stand in a field or on top of hill
 - c. Keep swimming or boating
 - d. Do any of the above
9. If you're indoors in a thunderstorm, you should NOT
 - a. Stand in the door or near a window
 - b. Take a bath
 - c. Talk on the telephone
 - d. Do any of the above

ANSWERS

2. Lightning flashes with a cloud may be only a few yards long. Lightning between a cloud and the earth may be as much as 8 miles long. Some lightning strokes between one cloud and another may be 100 miles long.
3. c.
4. Light travels much faster than sound. It takes five seconds for sound to travel a single mile (1.6km), but light travels great distances almost instantly. To find the number of miles away from you the lightning is, count the seconds between the flash and the crash—and then divide by five. (Divide the seconds by three to get the number of kilometers.)
5. a.
6. Yes. Thunderclouds cause most lightning, but lightning also happens in snowstorms, sandstorms, tornadoes, over volcanic eruptions, and during nuclear explosions.
7. Yes. For example, lightning strikes the Empire State Building in New York more than a hundred times every year.
8. d. Whatever reaches highest into the air offers lightning a quick and easy path to the ground. So stay away from anything tall, and lie flat on the ground if you are the tallest thing around. Lightning can also travel through water, so make sure you're not in it during a storm.
9. d. The safest place to be is inside a closed car away from trees. Steel-framed buildings with lightning rods are also very safe.

Earns Scholarship

William Michael Skeens of Huntington, W. Va., who will be a first-year student at Marshall University Medical School in Huntington, this fall, was recently awarded a four-year scholarship by the West Virginia State Medical Association. He graduated magna cum laude from Marshall University with a B.S. degree in chemistry. At Marshall University, he was a teacher's aide in chemistry and president of the M.U. Chapter of the American Chemical Society. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Skeens, Jr., of Barboursville, W. Va., and the grandson of Mrs. Dewey Roberts, of Harold, and the late Dewey Roberts.

Summer Record Set August 22

Hot, humid weather in eastern Kentucky caused customers of Kentucky Power Company to demand more electricity Monday, Aug. 22 than at any other time during the summer months of the company's history.

The 905,000 kilowatts demanded by customers for the one-hour period which ended at 2 p.m. was the third such record for Kentucky Power in approximately four weeks, according to C. Richard Lovegrove, public affairs director. Lovegrove said this record demand for electric power indicated an underlying growth in the company's service area, despite a lower industrial consumption of electricity during the present recession.

He explained that prior to this summer the company's summer-peak usage record was 802,000 kilowatts established on July 27, 1981. "That was broken on July 13 when customers demanded a record 822,000 kilowatts. And, even that record only remained intact a few days because on July 21, our customers demanded 876,000 kilowatts of electricity. Then, on Monday, that all-time-high for summer usage was surpassed," Lovegrove said.

The company met the peak demand with no problem. But, Lovegrove reminded customers, "with this kind of record usage, electric bills are going to be higher because people are using more electricity than ever. Air-conditioning units and systems are running more, and people are using other home appliances more because they are staying in out of the heat."

Kentucky Power's all-time record for electricity usage was set December 31, 1981, when customers demanded 984,000 kilowatts.

Tutoring In Basics Is New Program Here

Mountain Comprehensive Care Center of Prestonsburg will be offering private tutoring to students enrolled in the Floyd county schools. Tutoring will be offered to students in grades 1 through 8 from 3:00 to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. Basic subject areas will be taught.

This is the first year for the tutoring program. It will be offered for a semester to see how the response is from the students and the parents in the community. If the response warrants the continuation of the program, it will be continued through the school year and hopefully run throughout the summer months.

All classes will be offered at the center located on 18 South Front Avenue in Prestonsburg. The starting date will be October 3. Students will be served on a first come, first served basis. A waiting list will be kept in case of cancellations.

For more information contact Nell Valentine or Sharon Brosmer at 886-8572.

NOT AS BAD AS IT LOOKS, luckily, as no injuries resulted when a coal truck, carrying about 40 tons of coal, was unable to stop at the intersection of U.S. 23 and the Mountain Parkway approach here last Wednesday, struck a car driven by Thelma Sammons, of Martin, and overturned. The driver, Allan Rowe, of Elliott county, said his brakes failed as he came off the Mountain Parkway bridge.

Young Ky. Farmers Sell Prize Stock

Eleven-year-old Connie Barnett, of Winchester, wants to buy a purebred Simmental heifer to start her own herd. With the $5,000 she just earned, she'll be able to do it.

Chris Montgomery, 16, recently came into a windfall of nearly $3,500. He'll deposit it into his savings account for college. And Chris Higginbotham, 14, plans to invest a welcome $3,680 in a hog breeding operation.

They are young farmers, members of either 4-H or Future Farmers of America. Their earnings—and their plans—were made possible by raising animals selected grand champions in shows during the Kentucky State Fair.

The three were among six young 4-H or FFA exhibitors whose lambs, hogs or steers were named top animals and auctioned in the 4-H and FFA Sale of Champions August 17 at the Kentucky Fair and Exposition Center in Louisville.

Here are the sale results: Connie Bartlett, Clark County 4-H, exhibited the supreme champion market steer, a 1,220-pound Simmental-Chi-Angus, purchased by the Executive Inn of Louisville for $4,100 a pound or $5,002.

Chris Montgomery, McLean County FFA, owned the reserve grand champion market steer. The Executive Inn of Owensboro bought the 1,225-pound Simmental-Chi-Angus for $2.85 a pound for a total of $3,491.25.

Janet Cox, Mercer County FFA, sold her supreme champion market hog, a Hampshire weighing 218 pounds, to Bob Evans Farms for $35 a pound, or $7,630.

Chris Higginbotham, Mercer County 4-H, exhibited a 230-pound Hampshire named reserve grand champion market hog. Gateway Supermarkets of Harrodsburg, Cummins Tractor and Implement Company, Mercer County National Bank and Wallace and Martha Wilkerson bought the animal for $16 a pound, $3,680 total.

Paul Goodlett, Shelby County 4-H, bred and owned the supreme champion market lamb, a 108-pound Hampshire-Suffolk cross. Kentucky Growers Insurance Company of Lexington made the winning bid of $30 a pound, or $3,240.

Kathy Medley, Washington County FFA, exhibited the reserve grand champion market lamb. Executive Inn of Louisville purchased the 121-pound Suffolk Cross for $32 a pound or $3,872.

The sale, in its fourth year, is sponsored by the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, which administers state 4-H programs, the Kentucky Bureau of Vocational Education, responsible for FFA, and the state fair board. It was organized to encourage youngsters to participate in livestock programs and to recognize and reward those who exhibit outstanding animals.

Prices at the sale this year soared well above last year's bids, which fair officials had said reflected the recession. All but one of the 1983 sale prices broke records.

Gov. Brown Proclaims Child Support Week

Gov. John Y. Brown, Jr. has proclaimed the week beginning Aug. 29 as Child Support Awareness Week in Kentucky.

In his child support proclamation, Brown said he wanted to make all Kentucky citizens aware of the problem of children deprived of support because of an absent parent.

"The absent parent who is able to work should pay his child support," said Brown. "When the absent parent doesn't pay, the taxpayer pays through the Aid to Families with Dependent Children Program. That program pays over $100 million in welfare benefits to Kentucky children."

Brown said the state is trying to address the problem through the Cabinet for Human Resources Child Support Enforcement Program which locates absent parents and attempts to collect child support from them.

Corrections

Two errors appeared in the Aug. 17 item relating to the Prestonsburg High School class of 1953 reunion. The person receiving an award for "changing least" was Ava Lee Salyers, not Eva Hicks Allen; and the name of Barbara Hall Boyd was erroneously printed as Barbara Hill Boyd.

FLOYD COUNTY HEALTH NEWS

By JANE BOND

Cervical cancer kills approximately 11,000 women each year, yet cervical cancer can be one of the most curable of all cancers if it is detected in the earliest stages and treatment begun. There is a simple painless test to detect cervical cancer in the early stages. This is the Pap test which takes only a few moments of a woman's time and could save her life.

The Floyd County Health Department is having a Pap clinic on Friday, September 2 and Friday, September 16, 8:30 until 11:30 and from 1 until 2 p.m. These are free services of the Health Department and every woman is urged to take advantage of these clinics. Those women age 45 and over are especially urged to be checked regularly for cervical cancer since this is the high-risk age for the disease.

The Floyd County Health Department will be closed Monday, September 5 in observance of the Labor Day Holiday.

There will be a glaucoma screening clinic at the Health Department on Wednesday September 7. This clinic is open to persons of all ages, but those persons age 40 and over are especially urged to be screened for glaucoma since this is the high risk age for the disease.

Medicaid, Medicare Patients Face Tougher Hospital Admission Rules

Dr. Robert C. Burkhart, president of the Kentucky Peer Review Organization (KPRO), has announced the implementation of a prior authorization program for non-emergency admissions to Kentucky hospitals under the Medicare and Medicaid programs. It is anticipated that prior authorization will affect approximately 20% of all Kentucky hospital admissions. The program will be effective September 1.

The program will require the admitting physician to call the KPRO office in Louisville to secure an authorization number before admitting non-emergency patients. A specially trained registered nurse will review the medical record over the phone and assign the prior authorization number. If the nurse feels the admission may not be necessary, the review will be transferred to a physician on contract with KPRO who will review the record with the admitting physician and make a determination. In no case will the registered nurse be permitted to make an adverse determination. Any potential for an adverse decision will be referred to the KPRO physician-adviser, and the KPRO physician will discuss the case with the patient's physician.

"The primary purpose for implementing this program is to respond to a new methodology of payment, called Diagnosis Related Group (DRG) reimbursement adopted by Medicare," said Dr. Burkhart. "DRG reimbursement provides a flat rate of payment for all days and services provided by the hospital for the patient. Under the new DRG rules, all peer review organizations (there are some 150 across the nation) are required to intensify the process by which they review Medicare admissions."

In addition, the Kentucky Medical Assistance Program, the agency that runs the Medicaid program, mandated that KPRO begin prior authorization for Medicaid patients.

Emergency admissions (defined by KPRO as "severe, life threatening or potentially disabling conditions") will not require prior authorization. The program will also exempt alcoholic, psychiatric, rehabilitation, substance abuse and maternity admissions since these medical problems are generally long-stay admissions and will receive further review in the hospital.

The KPRO physician cannot deny the admission of the patient hospital; if a denial is made, it will have the effect of denying payment for that admission. However, if the patient or the physician is dissatisfied with the KPRO determination, they can appeal the decision initially to a physician committee or further to the Medicare program and federal court.

This type of program has already been implemented in a number of states, including Florida, Minnesota, Maryland, Wisconsin and others, according to Dr. Burkhart.

The goal of KPRO is to handle 95% of these reviews within three to five minutes and to resolve 100% of all reviews within 24 hours. Dr. Burkhart added that the program will work to protect the financial stability of Kentucky hospitals, because the DRG reimbursement system will deny payment to a hospital if an admission is deemed unnecessary.

IT'S FOR THE BIRDS

Although birds and animals evolved on nearly identical time schedules, there are more than twice as many different species of birds, than animals alive today, reports National Wildlife magazine. At last count, there were over 8,700 species of birds, ranging in size from the condor to the tiny hummingbird, compared to 4,000 species of mammals.

New Laser Saves Sight at HRMC

Dr. Michael Minix, chief of ophthalmology services at Highlands Regional Medical Center performs the first Yag laser treatment on 68 year old John Grimm, of Prestonsburg.

In their fight to save sight, Highlands Medical Center has a new weapon. They are using the Yag laser, a highly sophisticated machine that focuses light energy in short, intense pulses at the eye. The Yag laser can help cataract and glaucoma patients to see again, according to Dr. Michael B. Minix, chief of ophthalmology services at Highlands Regional Medical Center.

In the case of cataract surgery, the Yag laser can be used in different procedures. It enables the physician to make tiny, precise cuts into the lens of the eye. It painlessly cuts the front part of the cataract. Sometimes, after cataract surgery, patients require a second operation when the capsular bag which originally held the natural lens grows cloudy. In order to restore vision, an opening is made in this cloudy membrane with the laser. Surgeons can now melt this membrane in minutes instead of a time-consuming operation that involved cutting with a scalpel while looking through a microscope. The Yag laser can melt the membrane on patients who may have received lens implants. Previously, the implant would have had to be removed and then re-implanted.

This laser also can painlessly bore a hole in the iris to treat glaucoma. In glaucoma and cataract cases, the Yag is an alternative to major surgery which lessens the dangers of complications.

"The Yag laser is a revolutionary innovation in cataract surgery," commented Dr. Minix. "Because of its precision, there is practically no risk of damaging the eyes of patients treated with the Yag, and the results are exciting."

There are only four Yag lasers in use in Kentucky and approximately 200 nationwide. The $100,000 instrument was developed by French ophthalmologist Danielle Aron-Rosa in 1978.

41-Unit Housing Site Sought

The Floyd County Housing Authority has received a Housing and Urban Development (HUD) grant of $2,600,000 for the construction of 41 public housing units and is now looking for a three-four-acre site for the project.

Work on the housing complex is tentatively scheduled for next spring, Julia May, executive director for the housing authority, said. She added that the site to be acquired will not be in Prestonsburg, and that the location may not cost more than the HUD-appraised value.

The site, she said, must be on a water system, near a stream which flows the year-around to carry off effluent from a "package" treatment plant, be above the flood plain, reasonably flat and be served by an access road at least 18 feet in width.

Some of the facilities planned will be town houses; others, garden type, or walk-up, apartments.

Meanwhile, Miss May said, final architects' plans for the 68-unit Warco housing project, a joint effort of the Floyd and Prestonsburg housing authorities, have been submitted for approval, and construction is expected this fall or next spring.

UHT MILK AND NUTRITION: NOTHING LOST, LOTS GAINED

America's dairy industry is now offering something old and something new: the wholesome nutrition that milk has always had, combined with a convenience that makes milk ready when you are, wherever you are.

Ultra high-temperature (UHT) milk is real, fresh, fluid Grade A milk which, through a combination of packaging and processing, needs no refrigeration for months. It's milk that has been heated to 280 degrees for just a few seconds and placed in five-layer, aseptic packages. The UHT processing renders the milk commercially sterile, and the aseptic packages seal the milk from light and air, the main causes of milk losing its freshness. No preservatives are added. What's more, this milk is nutritionally equivalent to the milk most people are used to drinking.

There is, however, one change that occurs with UHT processing. Because of the high heat used, there is some expansion of protein molecules which causes the milk to appear whiter and taste richer.

A Wyoming economist estimates acid rain is costing approximately $5 billion a year in damage to forests, soil, crops, buildings, fish and other aquatic life, and drinking water, reports National Wildlife magazine.

Child Fatally Cut In Fall Into Mirror

A 22-month-old Buffalo Creek child died Friday, three hours after he had fallen into a mirror and severed an artery.

The victim, Larry Dean Collins, III, was playing in an unfinished room of the home of his parents, Larry Dean and Kathryn Adkins Collins, when he fell against a bathroom mirror that had been stored in the room with other household items. The mirror broke and glass penetrated his body beneath his right arm, severing the brachial artery, according to Coroner Roger Nelson.

The tot was injured at about 2:30 p.m. He died at 5:30 p.m. at the Highlands Medical Center as the result of what the coroner described as "massive hemorrhaging."

The body was taken to Louisville for an autopsy.

Surviving, besides the parents, are three sisters, Sabrina Collins, Melinda and Jennifer Adkins, all of Endicott; the paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Denver Collins, of Endicott, and the maternal grandmother, Mrs. Martha Adams Adkins, of Galveston.

Funeral services were conducted at 11 a.m. Tuesday from the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Denver Collins by the Revs. Virgil Hunt and Dave Garrett, and burial was made in the family cemetery at Ivel under direction of the Hall Funeral Home.

Market Steer Shows Attract 525 Entries

State 4-H and Future Farmers of America members will compete for top honors at five district steer shows scheduled during September.

"The shows in Hopkinsville, Murray, Owensboro, Elizabethtown and Lexington have attracted a total of 525 entries," said state Agriculture Commissioner Alben W. Barkley II.

"We're pleased with the larger-than-usual turnout this year because it indicates an increased interest among farm youths in these programs. The shows are real learning experiences for these youngsters, showing them the type of beef animal in demand on today's market," he added.

Dr. Robert Garrigus of Middle Tennessee University will conduct the on-foot judging at each location.

How to save a child's life...

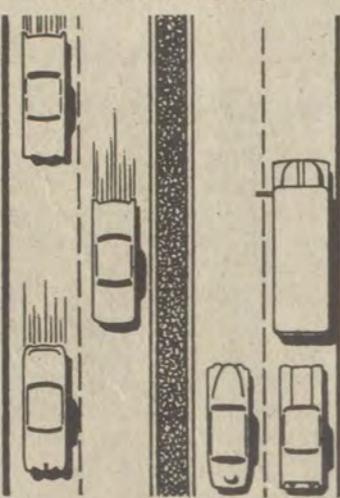

Every school bus is a 'STOP' signal

No Median-
All traffic STOPS

Median Strip-
Traffic moving in bus
direction STOPS

The bright yellow school bus, laden with children going to or from school, is a familiar sight on Kentucky highways.

It travels in the early morning, at midday, during afternoon rush hours, and, all too often, after dark. Whenever it travels, however, you, the motorist, must exercise special caution to protect the lives of its young passengers. A bus loading or unloading children will display a STOP sign and flashing red lights.

If you meet a school bus loading or unloading children on a highway that is not divided by a median, you must stop—no matter which direction you are going—and wait until the bus moves on. On a divided highway, you must only stop if you are going in the same direction as the school bus; if you are across the median going in the opposite direction, you may proceed with caution. A painted area in the middle of the road is not a median and cars going in both directions must stop.

The STOP sign that swings out from the side of the school bus places the safety responsibility squarely on your shoulders. So be careful—the child you save may be your own.

Kentucky Revised Statute 189.370 States:

"Whenever any school bus or church bus used in the transportation of children is stopped upon a highway for the purpose of receiving or discharging passengers, the operator of a vehicle approaching from any direction shall bring his vehicle to a complete stop and shall not start up or attempt to pass until the bus has completed receiving or discharging passengers and has been put into motion; provided, that this stop requirement shall not apply to vehicles proceeding in the opposite direction from a church or school bus which is stopped upon a highway where multi-lane roadways providing for opposite directions of travel are separated by a raised, depressed, mountable or non-mountable median."

ZELIG, from Warner Bros. Written and directed by Woody Allen. Starring Woody Allen, Mia Farrow, Garrett Brown. Rated 'PG' ★ ★ ★ ★

By J.T. YURKO

Everyone should see Woody Allen's "Zelig" at least twice. It's that good.

Leonard Zelig is a man who just wanted to be liked. He only desired to "fit in" with the crowd, but he wanted this so much he managed to become a human chameleon. Literally. If he was surrounded by doctors he began to speak and act like a doctor. When in the midst of fat people he would expand before the eye to large proportions.

The tale is set in the 1920s and '30s, and told documentary-style. Actual footage from the time is interspersed with newly shot footage made to appear as if it were shot many decades ago.

Thus Woody Allen finds himself pictured with prominent people of the time, such as in the photo above, where he is flanked by Calvin Coolidge and Herbert Hoover.

The care and precision that went into these cinematic trips into the past is enjoyable and remarkable. Allen keeps the viewer off-guard. You're never sure when you're looking at actual footage or recreated scenes, expanding the idea of "Dead Men Don't Wear Plaid."

But to Allen this advice is not just a gimmick, it's a working strategy. Just as Zelig, the man, is not always what he appears to be, so also "Zelig," the movie, is not what it appears to be. There's deception and false facades present here.

The film's documentary style also helps present a story that could easily be called a children's primer: The little man who wanted to be liked by everyone so much he became like everyone else.

Topping the whole thing off is Allen's special humor, on display here with clever visual gags as well as some funny one-liners. Come to think of it, you might want to see "Zelig" a third time.

Restaurant Chain Gives To Task Force Group

County Judge/Executive Mitch McConnell, chairman of the Kentucky Task Force on Exploited and Missing Children, today announced a grant of $7,500 to the Task Force by Druthers, Inc. for the purpose of further educating Kentuckians about the problem of exploited and missing children.

The funding will be utilized for a variety of educational purposes including a radio public service announcement and informative brochures which will be available at Druthers Restaurants throughout Kentucky.

In making this announcement Jefferson County Judge McConnell commented that "this contribution by Druthers, Inc. to the Kentucky Task Force on Exploited and Missing Children is an excellent example of involvement of a major corporation in a serious statewide problem."

The Kentucky Task Force on Exploited and Missing Children was formed last year by Judge McConnell to investigate the criminal area of exploited and missing children.

ERRORS IN REPORT

Last week's report of the fair as given in The Times was erroneous in the naming of certain prizewinners, and it was planned this week to make full corrections of all errors and to publish the full list of winners. The absence of the secretary of the fair and our inability to locate the list of prizes makes this, however, impossible. Errors made in last week's report must be blamed upon the list of winners as gathered at the fairgrounds, since The Times published only information gathered from that list.

Four Toll of Gun In Single Day In Floyd

Three Wage Battle

Flanery wheeled to find Joe Ed Osborn's revolver leveled at him. One of the two fired. Then the elder Osborn, veteran of a number of gun battles, jumped into action. A telephone post was between him and Flanery, and he could not find a fair target, but continued to fire, pointing his gun first around one side of the post, then around the other.

"Billy Lou" Osborn, the first to fall, was shot below the eye, through the chest and probably in other parts of the body. He died instantly. His son was shot squarely through the chin, the bullet passing out at the back of the neck, another bullet striking him in the body. Two bullets passed through Flanery's neck and another through the back part of the shoulder, striking the spine and emerging at the other shoulder. The three fell within a few feet of each other.

An operation was performed upon the younger Osborn at the Martin hospital, but he died within a short time.

Shot Flanery's Uncle

An incident which is believed by many to have been contributory to the tragedy was that of last week, when W. L. Osborn shot El Bradley, an uncle of Felix Flanery, through the lung in a revolver duel at Martin.

W. L. Osborn is survived by his widow and 13 children. A brother, El Osborn, and several sisters also survive. The slain officer and his son were buried Monday near Martin.

Family Witnesses Killing

In the tragedy at Johnsonia Jim Roe Mullins was shot and killed in his own home, according to his brother, Steve Mullins, who came to Prestonsburg Monday evening. The shooting was precipitated by Mullins' statement that Hall's brother, Harry, was a "game man." Wes Hall disputed this, and, both men being intoxicated, it is said, the argument waxed warmer. After being struck by Mullins, Hall fired three shots, one passing through the heart. Mullins died within five minutes in the presence of his wife, three children, his mother and a relative, Butler Mullins.

Burial of the victim was made Monday at Johnsonia.

Fourth Man Dead

Felix Flanery died in the Beaver Valley hospital at Martin at 4 o'clock Wednesday morning as the result of wounds sustained in the Martin gun battle Sunday with Chief of Police W. L. Osborn and his son, Joe Ed Osborn. The victim is survived by his mother, Mrs. Hall Flanery, a sister, Mrs. Linville Hagans, and three brothers, Tavis, John and Philip Flanery of Buck's Branch. Burial was made on Buck's Branch.

In giving the report of these tragedies, The Times relies upon reports current here. Such events are always attended by considerable confusion, rendering the task of gathering an account exact in every detail almost impossible. This story is gathered, however, from an eyewitness' version of the affair, and has been told with careful adherence to the report given here.

H. L. Wofford, manager of the Prudential Insurance Company for Eastern Kentucky, Eastern Tennessee, Western Virginia and Western North Carolina, transacted business here Wednesday with H. T. Hill, local agent of that company.

Mrs. C. D. McHone returned Tuesday evening from Pikeville, where she recently submitted to an operation for appendicitis. Mrs. McHone is recovering nicely from the effects of the operation.

Dr. A. E. Higginbotham spent Wednesday in Ashland.

By James Smethurst

Warren Beatty's "Reds," which will appear Sept. 7 on Spotlight, is probably the most ambitious commercial American movie since "Citizen Kane," from which it derives much inspiration. There are many admirable things about "Reds."

First, there is the subject: The story of two American revolutionaries, John Reed and Louise Bryant, presented sympathetically. Reed (played by Beatty) wrote the classic account of the Russian Revolution, "Ten Days that Shook the World" and was a founder of the American Communist Party. Miss Bryant (Diane Keaton), his companion and eventually his wife, was part of the artistic scene in New York's Greenwich Village after the turn of the century and also wrote an interesting account of life in Russia during the revolution.

Whether you find their politics and their lifestyle attractive or not, you have to give Beatty credit for tackling this subject in an honest and fairly unsentimental way.

Another admirable aspect of "Reds" is its structure — it's entertaining, and even romantic, yet also real. Beatty achieves this by breaking up the narrative with the testimony of different "witnesses," contemporaries of the pair.

ESPN's college football coverage, which features the complete 11-game schedules of Notre Dame and UCLA, kicks off Sept. 4 when UCLA meet Georgia.

MTV's "Fast Forward" on Sept. 4 will present concert footage and an interview with U-2, the best Irish rock band since the days of Van Morrison and Them.

Charlsie Cantey is new face on 'The NFL Today'

BRIGHT SPOTS — To Phyllis George, it means friendly company. The kind that doesn't chomp on cigars, or constantly growl about point spreads.

Charlsie Cantey is joining "The NFL Today," CBS-TV's pre-game, halftime and post-game pro football program on Sundays, as a feature reporter.

She joins Brent Musburger, Miss George, Irv Cross and Jimmy "The Greek" Snyder, beginning with the season's premiere, Sept. 4.

This season CBS will conclude its NFL coverage with a live telecast of Super Bowl XVIII on Sunday, Jan. 29, from Tampa Stadium in Tampa, Fla.

Miss Cantey, an expert on horses, was initially hired by CBS to report on thoroughbred racing. She also did CBS feature segments for broadcasts of the National Basketball Association playoffs last spring.

"Charlsie's quick grasp of television reporting techniques and her abilities as an interviewer have enabled us to further her duties at CBS Sports," says Neal Pilson, president of CBS Sports.

He says, "She has great on-air presence and an inquisitive mind which will enhance 'The NFL Today's' consistently top-rated broadcasts."

Ted Shaker, executive

producer of "The NFL Today," says: "Charlsie will help us get to more stories more quickly. She gives us depth and flexibility and is a welcome addition to our staff."

Miss Cantey joined CBS Sports in 1978 to report on the Belmont Stakes.

She has participated in every subsequent CBS thoroughbred racing broadcast, including such races as the Travers Stakes, the Marlboro Cup and the Jockey Club Gold Cup.

Miss Cantey has reported features on horseback from trackside, using the expertise she acquired in her career as an exercise and show ring rider.

She has also been a broadcaster for New York's Off-Track-Betting Corporation (OTB), and ESPN.

Born in Raleigh, N.C., she is a graduate of George Washington University.

Summer soap report: season's hits & misses

By Connie Passalacqua

Who was hot and who was not? As the summer winds down, hindsight proves that, unfortunately, during the last two months most soap operas were not.

Sadly, the summer of 1983 was the most boring in recent soap memory.

Soaps traditionally rev up all their story lines during the summer to catch the attention of teens on school vacation and others at liberty. During the summer of 1980, "General Hospital" took the entire entertainment world by storm with its Luke and Laura on-the-run saga. But this year, no special story line on any of the shows overwhelmingly caught viewer's attention.

"GH," for example, misfired with its Grant Putnam (Brian Patrick Clarke) for-eign power (read: Russian) spy plot, which played on and on almost every single day of the summer.

That's not to say the summer was a total disaster. On "GH," the Luke-Holly-Robert triangle (Tony Geary, Emma Samms, Tristan Rogers) was good not only because of the skill and charm of the actors but because the story line wasn't aired every single day.

Fine work was done on

many shows by individual actors. Terry Lester did an excellent job as "Young & Restless" character Jack Abbott, who become crippled from the waist down from the damage caused by a bullet fired by his wife.

The summer's big success story was the dramatic turnaround of the low-rated "Search for Tomorrow" at the hands of Joanna Lee, its dynamic new producer. The writing has improved considerably and Miss Lee has used the formerly unrecognized talents of such cast members as Lisa Peluso (Wendy McNeil) and Marie Cheatham (Stephanie Wyatt) to better the show. In a remarkably short period this summer, "SFT" became not only watchable again, but fun to watch.

Kreuter To Speak At Health Program

Dr. Marshall Kreuter, nationally recognized health promotion expert, will be the keynote speaker for a Sept. 14 program intended to encourage development of community health promotion activities throughout the state.

The three-hour program, entitled "Blastoff!!! For Health Promotion," will begin at 1 p.m. at Kentucky State University's Bradford Hall Auditorium, Frankfort. It is sponsored by the Advisory Council for Health Services, a 19-member citizens group appointed by Gov. John Y. Brown, Jr. to advise the commissioner of the Department for Health Services, Dr. David Allen.

Allen said the program is a natural progression of the council's support of health promotion principles outlined in the new State Health Plan, which was signed by the governor on Aug. 15.

"The council feels the time is right for an increased focus on staying well," said Allen. "This event is the council's effort to kick off a health promotion campaign that will result in planned local activities."

He said the State Health Plan emphasizes improved health and reduced health care costs through health education, which has been a major focus of the current advisory council.

The goal of the program, Allen said, is to show people what can be done in the community to promote good health, then encourage and assist community leaders and groups to begin wellness activities in their own local areas. "Health promotion doesn't take a lot of money," he said. "It just takes interested people using the resources that are all around them."

The program will include discussions of successful health promotion and education activities and information on how to sponsor such activities. The keynote address by Kreuter will follow opening remarks by Allen and the Health Services Advisory Council chairperson, Dr. Richard Carpenter.

Bassin' Buddies Tourney at Carr Fork

It has been said that the July sun is the fisherman's worst enemy, but the Bassin' Buddies will question that. The August tourney was held on Carr Fork Reservoir and pre-tournament talk was fear of no fish being caught. But the eager fishermen hit the water with high hopes and after eight hours of battling 100-degree temperature and cloudless skies, the results were surprising. Not only were fish caught, but the heaviest string of the year was weighed in and the biggest fish of the year was caught. Most fish weighed were smallmouth, with deep running crankbaits in the crowd and color being the best producer.

First place was taken by the team of Tom Martin and Tee Watkins; second, by Delbert Ison and Gary Hicks, and third by Don Bryson and Fannie Arrowood. The big fish caught by Tom Martin, weighed 5 pounds, 4 ounces.

If you are interested in fishing for smallmouth, give Carr Fork a try. It is one of the few lakes in the area that has smallmouth bass.

Anyone interested in seeing a weigh-in should be at Jenny Wiley boat dock on Saturday, Sept. 10 at 8 p.m. The weedbeds are thick on Dewey this year and it is expected several fish will be weighed in.

The Carr Fork tournament was sponsored by Palmer's Gulf and Ray Howard Furniture, both of Prestonsburg, and Jim's Tire Shop of Langley.

Paintsville Falls to Bobcats

Though all three of the county's high school grid teams played games Friday night, it was undoubtedly Betsy Layne's defeat of Paintsville which dominated the customary sports talk the following morning.

The fact that the traditionally powerful Paintsville Tigers had fallen to Betsy Layne, a school whose football program is still only in the formative stages, surprised many and created a sense of satisfaction among sports fans all over the county.

Even Betsy Layne's new coach, Robert "Hooker" Phillips, was a bit surprised and more than a little pleased at beating Paintsville on their home field, an unusual feat in years past for any team.

"We thought we were fortunate to win," said Phillips, who pointed to Paintsville's mere handful of juniors and seniors and 49 freshman as making the Bobcats' task possible. He said although the Tigers would be "awesome" in two or three years, their relative inexperience created a series of fumbles and mistakes on which Betsy Layne was able to capitalize.

Following a scoreless first half which was characterized as "strictly a defensive contest," a Paintsville fumble in the third quarter caused by a jolting tackle by Bobcat Donahue Hamilton was recovered by Betsy Layne fullback and defensive guard Darwin Kidd who ran the ball 70 yards for the game's first score. Continuing to hold Paintsville scoreless, Betsy Layne scored a second time on a 20-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Greg Frazier to Carlos Reynolds, resulting in the final score, 12-0.

Pointing to the defense as his team's stronger suit, Phillips said the Betsy Layne offense, which gained only 39 yards on the ground and 33 passing, "needed work."

Still, he said, the win helps instill confidence in team members and he predicted that "we'll be a fair team farther along in the season."

The Bobcats, who lost last week to Fleming-Neon, will face Virgie this Friday night at Betsy Layne.

North Floyd County Babe Ruth All Stars

Above is the North Floyd county Babe Ruth League team which was one of four all-star teams entered in district play at Hazard, recently. In district play, the team had a record of two wins, two losses. After defeating Carr Fork, they played a doubleheader, defeating Martin county, but bowing to a tough Johnson county team, 5 to 7. Brian Wallace had two inside home runs and hit eight for nine in the two games.

Blackcats Open Season With Win

By LAURA COOLEY

The Prestonsburg Blackcats got their season off to a successful start, Friday night, by defeating the Engineers of Estill County High School, 6-0, in a game played at Irvine.

A tough defensive battle throughout, the game's only touchdown came in the first quarter when senior quarterback Todd Nairn ran 27 yards for the score. The extra point attempt failed.

Randall Hager, Gordie Ratliff and James Little each recovered Estill County fumbles and Donnie Ray was credited with saving a Blackcat fumble.

Todd Nairn led in rushing with 43 yards in six carries. Chris Hooker picked up 38 yards in 10 carries, John Anderson, eight carries for 30 yards, Bryan Pace, five carries for 25 yards, and Irvin Spears one carry for a 10-yard gain.

Prestonsburg's offense totaled 160, including 10 yards passing, to Estill County's 100.

Defensively, Gordie Ratliff led the 'Cats with a total of 10 tackles and Pace and Hager each collected nine tackles.

The Blackcats will face traditional rival Paintsville, Friday at the athletic field here.

Lexington Angler Wins Bass Tourney on Lake Cumberland

MONTICELLO, Ky.—Deep water and big bass tactics paid off with victory when Johnny Crase fished a Mountain Division contest of the Red Man Tournament Trail on Lake Cumberland.

The event was a night tournament on Cumberland, Aug. 13. Crase, 24, of Lexington, prepared for the competition by practice fishing the reservoir six nights the previous week. The practice paid off in the form of a big fish pattern that brought him first place.

Crase topped the 116-man field with a mere three bass, but they weighed in at 13 pounds, four ounces. His catch included the largest bass of the tournament, a 6-13 largemouth. He collected $1,450 for first place and picked up an additional $452 big bass pot.

The winning pattern for Crase was fishing big, nine-inch Mr. Twister worms—black with chartreuse tails—"way down in 40-50 feet of water. He worked stumpy points in main lake pockets downstream from the Conley Bottom Resort tournament headquarters.

John Hamm, Mt. Vernon, Ky., was runner-up with five bass weighing 12-3, a catch that earned $864. Hamm was also worming points. He fished 7 1/2-inch T's Bass Lures—motor oil-colored before dark and red shad during the night—in 35 feet of water in the Jamestown area.

James Oliver Jr., Mt. Vernon, landed a half-dozen keeper bass weighing 11-13 to score third place and $574 in prize money. He fished 7 1/2-inch, black/chartreuse tail Culpit worms to fool his fish. The structure that yielded Oliver's bass was deep banks and points with fallen trees in the lower end of the lake.

Steve Mowser, Elizabethtown, Ky., was fourth with four bass which tipped the scales at 11-4. He earned $388. Fred Bell, Winchester, Ky., boated a tournament limit of seven bass weighing 9-14 to snare fifth-place money of $232.

A total of 81 of the 116 anglers scored keeper fish. There were 10 limits taken, but those catching limits encountered generally "just keeper" fish. The total payout for the contest was $4,350.

The top 24 anglers in each division will qualify for the Red Man All American Bass Championship Oct. 18-22 on Kentucky Lake and Lake Barkley. This no-entry-fee event will feature a purse including more than $125,000 in cash, 10 Ranger bass boats and, for the big bass award, a 150-hp. Mercury Black Max outboard motor.

★ KENTUCKY AFIELD ★

WATCH OUT FOR BAITED DOVE FIELDS

It's going to be difficult to find a good dove shoot over much of Kentucky when the season opens Sept. 1. This summer's disastrous drought has ruined crops and upset normal farming schedules, so finding concentrations of doves in their normal locations will probably be difficult. So it will pay to be particularly suspicious if you do find large concentrations of doves. The wise hunter will do a little investigating to see just what is attracting the birds and will check carefully for an illegal activity known as "baiting."

Federal baiting laws make it illegal to hunt over a field where wheat, corn, salt or other feed have been placed to attract or entice doves. Even if you don't know a field is baited, you're nevertheless in violation if you hunt there. Federal laws also state that a field remains baited for 10 days after the bait has been removed. It is legal to hunt where grains occur as the result of a valid agricultural operation or as the result of growing and manipulating crops specifically for wildlife.

You may, for example, hunt where wheat has been surface broadcast in planting a cover crop, since this is a common and valid agricultural practice. You may also plant a patch of milo, millet or sunflowers, mow or otherwise manipulate the crop, then legally hunt there.

However you cannot grow a crop, harvest it, then bring it back onto the field. Nor can you hunt over a field where, for example, cracked corn has been scattered, since there's no valid reason for a farmer to sow cracked corn. The hunter who wants to make sure that he's hunting legally can take several steps to detect possible baiting, according to Steve Yontz, director of Law Enforcement for the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

The first thing to look for is a suspiciously heavy concentration of wheat or other cover crop grains, Yontz says. These crops are usually sown at a rate of between 12 and 16 grains per square foot. Anything heavier is suspect because it isn't a valid agricultural operation.

There is also no valid reason for grain to be in piles, so if you encounter heaps of grain in a field, go somewhere else to hunt.

The best way to determine the status of a field where you're planning to hunt, Yontz says, is to ask the landowner what, if anything, he has done to attract doves. If the procedure he describes seems questionable, look for another place to hunt.

Even if you have been invited to a dove shoot, it's a good idea to inquire about baiting, Yontz says, even though it would be a poor host indeed who would subject his invited guests to arrest by baiting a field.

"But it would be an even poorer host," Yontz concludes, "who would evade a direct question about baiting."

HEAT HARD ON HUNTERS

Kentucky's squirrel season didn't get off to a very good start this year, thanks primarily to the extremely hot, dry conditions which prevailed across the commonwealth during the Aug. 20-21 opening weekend.

Fish and wildlife regional supervisors from the state's nine wildlife districts reported that conservation officers in 103 of Kentucky's 120 counties checked 1,484 hunters who had bagged 1,163 squirrels. Only 19 hunters had reached their daily limit of six when they were checked. Last year, officers in 114 counties reported 2,518 hunters with 3,566 squirrels and 124 limits.

Most of the regional supervisors felt that the poor showing this year was directly attributable to the weather. "Most hunters were out of the woods by 8:00 a.m.," one said, "and almost no one hunted during the normally productive late afternoon hours" when temperatures climbed past the 100-degree mark over much of the state.

"The woods were so dry," another commented, "that it was impossible to sneak up on a squirrel. Many hunters reported hearing plenty of squirrels but said they couldn't get close enough for a shot."

All agreed that a good rain and some cooler temperatures would help the situation a great deal. Early season squirrel hunting is never really easy because the squirrels are scattered and the heavy foliage makes it hard to spot them. This year's heat and drought apparently caused a lot of hunters to pass up the opening weekend—and caused many others to wish they had.

Hunters shouldn't give up on squirrel hunting for the season, though. After the leaves start falling and squirrels being concentrating around stands of nut-bearing trees, hunting becomes much more productive and—let us hope—more comfortable.

The next season to open in Kentucky is for doves. What conditions will be like on the Sept. 1 opening day is anybody's guess, but many observers feel that the havoc this year's drought has caused to agricultural lands will make it difficult to find good concentrations of doves, even though there seem to be plenty of birds around.

If this heat does continue, dove hunters will probably appreciate the half-hour extension in shooting hours this year. Hunting used to cease at one-half hour before sunset but this year hunters may continue to shoot doves until sunset.

That extension, coupled with the 11 a.m. starting time (as opposed to noon in years past) was made by the Fish and Wildlife Commission to benefit late-season hunters who don't have very much daylight. But if this hot weather keeps up, early season hunters will probably appreciate the slightly cooler temperatures during that extra half-hour—there's nothing hotter than an open field with no shade, particularly if the doves aren't flying.

More Attend State Fair

Charles Hertzman, president of the Kentucky State Fair Board, has officially released the attendance figures for the 1983 Kentucky State Fair. This year's total receipts paid attendance of 563,799 during the ten days of the Fair, August 11-20.

Last Year's total was 558,168 for the ten days.

The increase of 5,631, according to Fair officials, is a reflection of the slow but steady improvement in the state's economy and the high quality of the fair.

The weather, also always a factor in attendance, was not as ideal as it has been the past two years. Although very comfortable temperatures and humidity existed the first four days, the area experienced a steady increase in blistering heat for the rest of the ten-day Fair.

Criminals Said Favored Over Old and Disabled

Kentucky's nursing homes charge that convicted criminals get nearly three times more daily financial support than the state's elderly, blind and disabled persons on Medicaid.

The state pays $25 a day to support each prison inmate, but the state's portion for the average Medicaid recipient in a nursing home is less than $9 a day.

The nursing homes are taking their case to the public through billboards, radio announcements and newspaper ads. Information meetings for relatives of nursing home patients will be scheduled.

"We believe an informed public will demand greater support for the elderly, not only for quality care nursing homes but also the funding for alternatives, such as home health care. With the aging population we will see in the next few years, we need to plan and fund how we will care for those Kentuckians," said Nancy Versnick, of Madisonville.

Mrs. Versnick is president of the Kentucky Association of Health Care Facilities. She said that her group initiated the campaign but that individual nursing homes are underwriting the information effort in their local communities.

"We have to take care of our own," she said. "Nursing homes are conducting an active 'Quest for Quality' campaign to upgrade care, but homes are severely restricted by inadequate state financial support."

James S. Judy, Executive Vice President of KAHCF, said, "At issue is the recent cutback to Kentucky's nursing homes, despite adequate funding by the legislature. While we dislike the comparison of convicts and nursing home patients, the comparison in priorities is real, particularly in light of the recent transfer of funds from the Cabinet for Human Resources to the Corrections Department."

The Medicaid program generates dollars for the Kentucky economy with the state paying one-third of the cost and the federal government paying two-thirds.

The opening salvo in the information program came this week when a billboard went up in Frankfort.

The billboard is headed with a message: "Your Kentucky Taxes at Work." Underneath is a drawing of a convict with "$25 per day" beside it. Next to it is a picture of an elderly lady with a "$9 per day" caption. Underneath in bold letters are the words, "Ohhh Kentucky."

Nursing home officials hope that public awareness will cause state officials to increase financial support for the elderly. Such support could be increased by administrative action, or the General Assembly could mandate increased support when it meets in 1984.

The U.S. Department of Labor's Employment Standards Administration conducted more than 70,000 investigations and resolved over 46,000 complaints during the 1982 fiscal year, according to the department's annual report.

Winner At Pinehurst

Tony Branham, representing Kentucky Carpet, of Allen, was the winner of the third annual Woody Golf Classic, held August 17-19 at the prestigious Pinehurst, N. C. golf course. Branham's victory was particularly impressive since the 24-year-old Martin resident won the first Pinehurst event two years ago. Last year he did not compete in the tournament.

Branham's play was on two different courses including Course No. 6, regarded by many as the toughest course in the Eastern U.S. His low was 68 with a combined winning total score of 148.

A son of Paul and Pluma Branham, of Allen, he has won two of the three tournaments he has entered this year with a sixth place finish in Hazard's annual golf tournament.

Mr. Branham is married to the former Carmen Crum and he and Mrs. Branham have two children, Mark Anthony and Andrea Cyllinn.

Investigations by the U.S. Department of Labor's Employment Standards Administration disclosed nearly $50 million in minimum wage underpayments during the 1982 fiscal year, according to the department's annual report.

Great Britain's Michael Sangster holds the record for the fastest tennis serve ever recorded. He was clocked at 154 mph in 1963.

According to Figgie International's Fred Perry division, England's Major Walter Clopton is said to be the "father of modern tennis."

Frizzell-West Concert To Highlight Show

A concert by country and western musicians David Frizzell and Shelly West will highlight the first day of events at the 1983 Kentucky Logging Show.

The Logging Show is scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 1, and Sunday, Oct. 2, at Morehead State University's Derrickson Agricultural Complex north of Morehead on KY 377.

Frizzell, brother of the late Lefty Frizzell, has been performing and recording country music since he was a teenager, first with his brother, then as a solo artist, and now as one-half of the Frizzell and West duo.

Frizzell's partner, Shelly West, is a native Tennessean, and the daughter of entertainer Dottie West. She began her career in music in 1977 as part of her mother's country music group, and soon after joined Frizzell.

Frizzell and West have made their mark in country music with songs like "I Just Came Here To Dance," and the 1982 hit "I'm Gonna Hire A Wino (To Decorate Our Home)."

Together, the two have also been awarded numerous music awards and honors, such as being named the "Vocal Duo of the Year" by the Country Music Association two years in a row.

Their concert will begin at 7 p.m., Oct. 1 in the Richardson Arena at MSU's Derrickson Agricultural Complex.

Advance tickets of $10 can be obtained in Morehead or by sending money order or check for $10 plus 50 cents handling to The Kentucky Logging Show, UPO 1150, MSU, Morehead, KY 40351.

Tickets are $12 at the door.

Enrollment Record at PCC For Semester at All-Time High

The enrollment at Prestonsburg Community College broke all existing records of past years during the recent 1983 fall semester registration.

By last Tuesday afternoon, when Miss Dena Patton registered, she became the 923rd person to register and every enrollment since that moment has been a new record.

At the close of registration on Thursday, August 25, 1113 students had completed registration for the semester. The College expects a final enrollment of approximately 1135. The College opened in 1964 with an enrollment of 324 students.

"The increased enrollment has come about for many reasons," Dr. Campbell, director of the college, said. Probably the biggest reason is the fact that people are attempting to update the skills that are necessary in the positions they currently hold or people are attempting to learn new skills in order to make it easier to find positions in our present economic situation. Part of the increase is due to the fact that students who will be entering their junior year of nursing through Alice Lloyd College and Bellarmine College are taking prerequisite courses."

There is a tremendous interest in computer science and data processing courses, and a great number of students are taking business courses in preparing themselves for a future MBA program, Dr. Campbell said. Classes are filled to overflowing and the parking lot is completely packed.

"We feel," the director said, "that our growth will continue as we continuously expand our programs. We have been very fortunate to add some excellent faculty members to our staff this year and have the promise of additional positions and a new building in the immediate future. Because of the tremendous numbers that have enrolled, the biggest need we have at the college at this time is for additional computer equipment. If the additional computer equipment had been available, another 100 students could have enrolled in the computer science and data processing classes."

The enrollment increase over the fall semester of 1982 is 25%. "While this certainly strains our facilities and capabilities, it gives us the opportunity to provide a variety of services for people in our service area," Campbell added.

Martin County Forms Holmes Safety Group

Representatives of eight area coal companies, the Mine Safety & Health Administration, and the Kentucky Department of Mines & Minerals attended the recent meeting at which the Martin County Holmes Safety Council was organized. The district council will coordinate activities of various local chapters and promote accident prevention efforts in the local mining community.

Officers elected at the meeting were: President, Ed Chafin, director of training, Martin County Coal Corporation; vice-president, Bob Dixon, safety director, Martiki Coal Corp.; secretary/treasurer, Karen Taylor Blackburn, training director, Martiki Coal Corporation. Other officers will be selected at the next regular meeting. John Triplett, Inez attorney, volunteered to serve as legal counsel for the organization.

Following his election as president of the organization Chafin stated, "The goal of our council is to advance accident prevention programs at mines in the Martin county area. Our association does not intend to replace or interfere with existing efforts. We hope to promote a cooperative atmosphere between labor, management and governmental agencies. Only by working together can these groups achieve a reduction in injuries and fatalities in our local mines."

Membership in the Martin County Holmes Safety Council is open to any individual working in the mining industry in this area with an interest in accident prevention. The council's next regular meeting will be at 6 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 14, at the Martin County Coal Corporation Training Center.

Dance Classes

Anyone ages three to adult interested in enrolling in dance classes offered through the Pikeville College Center for Continuing Education still have the opportunity to do so. Ballet, tap, jazz and aerobics will be taught during the fall term. For additional information call 432-5373 or 478-2119.

H&R Block To Offer Tax School In Prestonsburg and Pikeville

Thousands of people are earning money in their spare time as income tax preparers.

H&R Block, the world's largest income tax preparation service, is offering a basic income tax course starting September 6 with evening classes available.

During the 14 week course, students will study all phases of income tax preparation and receive actual experience in preparing individual returns. Experienced Block personnel will teach current laws, theory and application as practiced in Block offices nationwide. There is a classroom lecture on each subject and practice problems at every level. Courses are programmed to teach students increasingly complex tax problems as study progresses. Students will find the course both interesting and challenging.

Anyone may enroll. There are no restrictions or qualifications. Courses are ideally suited for housewives, retired persons, teachers or persons wanting to increase their tax knowledge.

Qualified course graduates may be offered job interviews for positions with Block. Many accept employment with Block because of the flexible hours available. However, Block is under no obligation to offer employment, nor are graduates under any obligation to accept employment with H&R Block.

The modest course fee includes all textbooks, supplies and tax forms necessary for completion of the school. Certificates and 7.5 continuing education units will be awarded upon successful completion of the course.

Registration forms and brochures for the income tax course may be obtained by contacting the H&R Block office at 8B Richmond Plaza, Prestonsburg, telephone 886-3685 or 306 Town Mtn. Road, Pikeville, 437-6375.

Boston's Gift to Caney Creek

(A Book Review)

By ALICE O. MARTIN

"Life...hit's heaven-high and hell-deep and somehow hell seems deeper than heaven is higher in this lonesome valley."

What better quote to describe the desperation that, near the turn of the century, drove an illiterate mountain man through ice-covered creeks seeking the cabin of the "furrin' wimmen"; there to implore them to come to "his valley" and build a school, that his children would live "unlike to the hogs."

And how better to depict the journey of an ailing Bostonian into the Knott county section called Caney Creek, where in answer to that summons and with the promise of fifty acres of land, she began the incredible adventure in education that changed and continues to change the course of so many lives:

"As she zigzagged in the horse-drawn carriage buggy, over rocky creekbed roads, penetrating deeply into the heart of the hills, she became aware of the harshness and ruggedness about her everywhere. Little streams, like white ribbons, slipped in and out of puckered little coves and hollows; scorched and brown where tigerish-mine-stripped areas, crouched in the sun, tense with vitality, yet sullen and dispassionate with age."

And how better could be served the ends of poetic justice than have a native of the area and a product of the school founded by the eastern educator, live to narrate the story of her heroic endeavor, drawing information not only from Newsletters edited by the writer-teacher, but adding to it such knowledge, reflections, and insights that only one reared in the environs of the institution now called Alice Lloyd College could bestow.

For all this and more, we sing the praises of Robert W. Sloane, author of the recently published book, "Alice Lloyd—Boston's Gift to Caney Creek."

In so doing, Mr. Sloane has identified himself not only as a loving disciple of the Purpose Road so clearly outlined in his story, but has established himself as a master of descriptive writing and characterization. His colorful anecdotes are a virtual goldmine for aspiring novelists, one of whom may eventually render a Hollywood production, paralleling or even surpassing "The Corn Is Green." "All that is needed is some romantic interest, and of that, despite the strict segregation of the sexes in former days at the school, there was "aplenty."

To render a Hollywood scenario was not the intention of Robert W. Sloane. The avowed purpose of this writer is "To preserve and pass on to the world a most humanitarian story that clamors to be told, yet defies the telling." Throughout his narration, the author provides an intimate view of the many challenges and hardships the "little wisp of a woman from Boston, Massachusetts," endured as she set about, through education, to help a landlocked people break through the barriers of ignorance and learn to help not only themselves, but to render valuable service to others.

Significant to note is the fact that also, throughout the novel, the mountain people are treated with dignity and respect. Sincerity and sensitivity are evident in the many descriptions so clearly drawn. The organization and structure, while somewhat loose in places, seem well suited to this reminiscent type of writing.

Alice Lloyd Receives Kresge Foundation Grant

Alice Lloyd College recently received a challenge grant of $100,000 from the Kresge Foundation of Troy, Michigan. Alice Lloyd College was one of 133 organizations from 36 states and the District of Columbia receiving awards from new grant commitments totaling $33,025,000.

The initial funds were raised by Alice Lloyd prior to requesting the grant. After reviewing the request, the Kresge Foundation awarded the grant on a challenge basis, requiring the college to raise the remaining funds, thereby insuring the completion of the project.

The Kresge grant was awarded toward the renovation and expansion of the physical education facility which will be named in honor of the late Grady Nutt. According to Alice Lloyd College President Jerry C. Davis, the college is well on its way to raising the remaining funds.

Included in the book as an example of the dramatic impact Alice Lloyd had, not only on the academic but on the social life of the mountain people, is Docia B. Woods' recollections entitled "Christmas at Bonanza." A poignant story within itself, her recorded memories stir a nostalgia for Christmases past and, such being the case, can be recommended as a seasonal reading at Christmas time each year.

Physical aspects of the book are especially inviting. The print is large and clear, and, thank goodness! is on non-gloss paper. A few typographical errors are noted, and a second edition of the book would be improved by labeling of the pictures, though the casual reader might find this of little concern.

In passing judgement we recommend this book as one of the finest to come out of eastern Kentucky. The general public will enjoy it; Alice Lloyd people will love it; folklorists will treasure it.

And, oh yes, elementary teachers will find a literary gem in the old-time rendition of The Three Little Pigs. What a treat to witness the pupils' reaction to this!

We are reluctant to leave our appraisal of "Alice Lloyd—Boston's Gift to Caney Creek" without a final return for some descriptive quotes we think our readers will enjoy:

"Her whitened head wound with scarlet and yellow bandannas, her voluminous green and purple linsey-woolsey skirt sweeping the floor, circling and concealing her six-foot frame, the proud monarch of the mountains. Her gnarled hand was outstretched in greeting to the stranger woman from Boston."

So were met the two protagonists of change.

For Aunt Suzanne, "The Queen of Shee-Bee" on Caney Creek, was not one of the many to alter her ways due to the influence of the "furrin'" woman. She held steadfast to the end her refusal to have windows put in her darkened cabin.

"Ef'n I wuz to hev a winder in my cabin," said Aunt Susanne, "The devil might cum in erlong with the sunlight. I reckon hit will be as hit always wuz."

But the family of Leanner Slone and others like them did change. And the recounting of their stories, along with that of Alice Lloyd, makes fascinating reading for those who delight in inspirational stories with colorful background and vivid detail.

Copies of the book are available locally at the Jenny Wiley State Park Gift Shop, and at the Owens' Music Center in Prestonsburg. Orders may be made direct to the author, Robert W. Sloane, 1028 Celia Lane, Lexington, Ky. 40504, and from The Thoroughbred Press, Lexington 40586. (The price is $9.95 per copy plus $1.50 for handling and mailing.)

Downtime caused by faulty cable can be a real drain on coal mining profits.

Anaconda mining cable helps turn downtime into uptime.

Downtime caused by faulty mining cable can cost $13 a minute in lost coal production alone. So even though mining cable represents a tiny fraction of your total operating expenses, it can have a big effect on your mine's profitability. Anaconda's quality mining cable stands up to the rigorous conditions that can cause so-called bargain cable to fail before its time. Because it's made better, Anaconda cable lasts longer than cheaper cables. Which keeps downtime down and sends productivity and profits up.

To find out more about how Anaconda mining cable helps turn downtime into uptime, call our special toll-free Mining Hotline: (800) 428-5753.

Ten-Year Employee

Twin Scourges . . .

Kudzu, Multiflora Rose

They call kudzu "the mile-a-minute vine," and its wildfire growth has made of it a scourge in Eastern Kentucky. But it has a strong competitor on the area black list.

Multiflora rose, which was introduced to the region as "a living fence" by state and federal agriculturists, is out of control in many places and the job of getting it under control is as discouraging as the losing efforts of those who try to get rid of kudzu.

Kudzu, an import from Japan, was promoted by conservation officials 40 to 50 years ago for erosion control. Wherever a railroad line was laid, the stuff was used to cover the scars made by the deep cuts necessary along hillsides. It was used by the Department of Highways, also, but it soon became unpopular and the road-builders shifted to fescue and crown vetch. Yet the kudzu is still there, and it won't go away, however much it is cut.

Said a Highway Department spokesman: "It will grow up in the trees and choke them out. It is very difficult to control with chemicals. The chemicals that would control kudzu would also kill the trees.

"Traffic will keep it back from the road. It doesn't present any real problems for us except when it gets on traffic signs, and then we spray it and burn it back."

But, he said, "it will go up telephone poles, and I've seen it go across the road on telephone lines."

For Kentucky Power Co., the vines are a problem, said Leon Huffman of the company's Pikeville office.

"We just cut them off. That's the only way we've got right now to get it off the poles and guy wires. They'll just take over the place once they get started."

When kudzu starts up a hill, Huffman said, "it will eventually kill every tree on the mountain."

That is the worry of Wilson Francis, park naturalist at Natural Bridge State Resort Park at Slade in Powell county.

"It won't grow in the shade, so what it has to do is grow up and over the trees," Francis said. "It will take over a tree in a season growth."

Francis said railroads used kudzu just after the turn of the century to control railbed and right-of-way erosion.

"The railroads planted it widely in Eastern Kentucky. Just about anywhere the railroads were, you'll find kudzu."

Natural Bridge park was built by a railroad company in 1895 and operated by it until 1926, when it became a state park, Francis said. Several encroaching banks of kudzu remain, including one that covers an acre.

"Every year we cut on it, but it still gets ahead of us," he said.

Multi flora rose, which originally was planted along fence rows, became what its promoters said it would be—"a living fence." But it didn't stay there; it spread to nearby hillsides, to needed pasture-land.

Its eradication involves the use of a chemical that must be kept out of water supplies.

First Commonwealth Bank of Prestonsburg announces that Odis Gene Bach, assistant vice-president, data processing, has completed 10 years of service as of August 1.

Bach joined the bank in August, 1973 as night shift operator. In 1974, he became dayshift programmer/operator, and in 1978 assumed responsibility for the management of the bank's data processing operation as data processing manager.

A 1973 graduate of The Computer Training Center in Huntington, he had special emphasis on programming, accounting, and data processing management. His professional education includes Mountain Study group classes and completion of Eberhart Bank marketing's course, "Product Knowledge and Cross-Selling."

Bach, a native of Magoffin county, lives with his family near Prestonsburg.

Bridge Repair Set

The state Transportation Cabinet will accept bids Sept. 2 for repairs to the Justell bridge. The one-lane bridge will be closed to traffic for a period of two or three months.

During the period of construction, traffic will be maintained by the use of a detour via KY 1426 to KY 979 and back to U.S. 23. The detour is about four miles long.

Caribbean Fling Set at Highlands

A sure-cure for the summer time blues is a Caribbean Fling. But you don't have to make airline reservations, just reserve a lunch hour on your calendar for Friday, September 2. Highlands Regional Medical Center is featuring exotic Caribbean fare from 11:30 a.m. until 2:00 p.m. for all employees and visitors.

Some items served will be lobster thermidor, baked snapper with Creole sauce, hot stuffed avocados, coconut mango cake and Bermuda cherry pie. All food will be priced individually.

The Caribbean Fling is presented as part of the "Meals Around the World" program. Each month the Highlands Regional Medical Center Dietary Department prepares a foreign food menu so employees and the public can sample foods of different cultures.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of James C. West would thank everyone for their love and support in the loss of our loved one. We thank those who sent floral offerings, Father Beiting and the Sisters for the beautiful services for James and for their prayers at this time, and I thank all my wonderful family for their help at this time.

HOW TO CARE FOR A CHILD'S FEET

When you look at a toddler's feet you may wonder if they are flat because you cannot see a long arch.

When a toddler begins to stand, her feet and ankles are barely ready for weight-bearing, according to Growing Child, the monthly child development newsletter.

A child will look quite flat-footed as she stands holding on to the side rails of her crib or play pen, feet spread apart and often rolled inward at the ankles. But this flat-footed look is somewhat deceiving.

The toddler's bones are still quite soft and her foot and ankle muscles are not yet strong enough to support her arch as she stands. However, she has some natural arch in the form of fat pads which support her arches when she stands. It is these fat pads which make her feet look as though they are flat.

As a toddler walks more and more, the muscles which support her arch grow stronger. Later she will learn to run and jump, first flat-footed and then with the strong push-off and flexibility which only strong arches can provide.

In societies such as ours where shoes are worn, the fat pad under the arch gradually disappears when it is no longer needed and the fully developed arch can be seen by about age five.

It is important to a toddler's motor development as well as to her future comfort that her feet have the best possible chance to grow straight, flexible, and strong.

First walking shoes should have sturdy but flexible soles which are not slick on the bottom. Uppers should be soft and preferably without a back seam. Moccasin type toes without stiffening are best. They should be fitted so that they grip the heel firmly and so that there is plenty of room for the child to wiggle her toes.

A good shoe salesman will make sure there is enough length beyond the child's big toe for you to press down with your finger (about 1 1/2"). Toddlers usually outgrow their shoes before they wear them out. They will need a new pair every two or three months for a while.

The fit of a toddler's socks is as important as the fit of her shoes. Properly fitted shoes are of no help if her socks are too short. Be careful with stretch socks. After you have pulled them over the feet, pull them out at the toes again to relieve any pressure.

Your toddler should also have plenty of opportunity to walk about barefoot so that she experiences the feel of the floor against her feet and learns to grip it with her toes. If floors are chilly, confine her barefoot experiences to crib or playpen.

Good shoes for the toddler are not cheap but they are very important. Take good care of your child's feet and they will serve her well for many years to come.

The Growing Child newsletter follows a child's development month-by-month. For more information about the social and physical development of children (and a free sample newsletter), write to Growing Child, P.O. Box 620N, Lafayette, Indiana 47902. Include child's birthdate when writing.

Father Gets Sons in Business

James B. Burchett, Prestonsburg CPA, has three sons, and he has gone to considerable effort to set them up in business.

First of all, he built a 120x30-foot building at the US 23-KY 80 intersection at Water Gap to house their enterprises. The building is owned by the JDR Development Company—and, incidentally, the name of that firm represents each of the sons, James, David and Richard.

James B., Jr. is the owner of the grocery store and service station in the complex. David has a complete photographic service center in another part of the structure, and Richard has opened a home entertainment center featuring sound systems and satellite dishes for television signal reception, among other items.

And if the business the three sons generate through their individual efforts needs the services of a certified public accountant, the father—member of the firm of Burchett & Bottoms—has his office nearby.

Receives MSU Grant

Morehead State University has announced that Roy Todd Mullins, of McDowell High School, has been awarded a Leadership/Recognition Grant to attend MSU during 1983-84.

The son of Columbia Mullins, of McDowell, he plans to major in art. To be considered for a Leadership/Recognition Grant, an entering freshman must be recommended by a school official on the basis of superior personal attributes.

In 1934, Walter Nillson crossed the United States by unicycle. This unusual journey took 117 days.

Motor Vehicle Sales Records Due Change

When the Floyd County Clerk's office opens next Tuesday, there will be a new way of doing business in at least one respect. For those selling a motor vehicle, it's a whole new ball game as far as filling out information on the vehicle is concerned.

The old bill of sale is being replaced, effective Tuesday, Sept. 6, with the new Application for Title, which will cost the applicant $6. A duplicate of updated registration will cost $2, according to Mark Roberts, of the Department of Transportation, when he spoke Monday with Floyd County Court Clerk Thomas D. Lafferty, Jr.

Mr. Lafferty said applicants will no longer receive their Certificate of Title from the County Clerk's office but will receive it by mail from Frankfort.

More changes are on the way. In January, those paying Vehicle or Tangible tax will do so at the county clerk's office at the time the vehicle is registered.

In District Court

Sentenced in district court, following guilty pleas or verdicts, were:

Elmer Lafferty, Martin, drunk driving, 30 days' jail, $237.50 in fine and court costs; Edgar H. Lowe, Prestonsburg, drunk driving, no insurance, driving on revoked license, 30 days, $337.50 in fine and costs; Ralphie Deboard, Ivel, reckless driving, $137.50; Michael Newsome, Grethel, drunk driving, amended to public intoxication, $47.50.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

Pursuant to Application Number 836-5017

1) In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that: Somerset Coal Company, P.O. Box 10126 Sta. C Charleston, W. Va. 25312 has filed an application for a permit for an underground mining operation. The proposed operation will affect a surface disturbance of 4.14 acres and will underlie an additional 213.90 acres located 1.7 miles southwest of Betsy Layne in Floyd county.

2) The proposed operation is approximately 1.7 miles southwest from U.S. 23's junction with Betsy Layne Branch Road and located adjacent to Betsy Layne Branch. The latitude is 37° 32' 58". The longitude is 82° 39' 27".

3) The proposed operation is located on the Harold U.S.G.S. 7 1/2 minute quadrangle map. The surface area to be disturbed is owned by Watson Heirs & Bailey Heirs. The operation will underlie land owned by Watson Heirs & Bailey Heirs. The operation will affect an area within 100 feet of public road "Betsy Layne Branch Road". The operation will not involve relocation of the public road.

4) The application has been filed for public inspection at the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement's Prestonsburg Regional office, 431 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653. Written comments, objections, or requests for a permit conference must be filed with the Director of the Division of Permits, 6th Floor, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

This is the final advertisement of this application; all comments, objections, or requests for a permit conference must be received within thirty (30) days of today's date.

Apple Fest Signs Up Bluegrass Group

The Kentucky Apple Festival Bluegrass Festival has announced the signing of the Johnson Mountain Boys, one of America's most widely acclaimed musical acts, to appear Saturday, October 1, in Paintsville.

The Bluegrass Festival, now in its second year, is pursuing the most popular bluegrass and bluegrass gospel entertainment groups in the country and several other groups are expected to sign within the next two weeks.

The Bluegrass Festival portion of the Apple Festival is sponsored by the Kentucky Highlands Bluegrass and Old Time Music Association. This year marks the second year for the event, which begins Friday, September 30 and ends Saturday night, with the appearance of the Johnson Mountain Boys, and some of the biggest stars in bluegrass music.

In addition to bluegrass and gospel music, there will be free camping facilities for those who wish to attend the annual Kentucky Apple Festival. Besides camping in the rough, there will be limited electrical hook-ups and other facilities for people with more elaborate campers and motor homes.

As in years past, admission to the Bluegrass Festival includes the privilege of camping at the Festival grounds which are in easy walking distance of other Apple Festival events.

CANCER HOPELINE

Q. When I asked my physician about breast cancer treatment other than a mastectomy, he said that most breast cancer is multicentric, so mastectomy is the preferred treatment. What does this mean?

A. The term multicentric means that the cancer arises from several different areas within the same breast. Research has indicated that while there may be one tumor, even a very small one, there sometimes are other clusters of cancer cells elsewhere in the same breast, cell clusters that are too small to be detected until the breast is removed and the tissue thoroughly examined under a microscope. Thus, in the past, the treatment of choice has generally been mastectomy or removal of the breast rather than just the removal of the lump.

Research is now under way, however, to determine whether removal of the lump with additional radiation treatment before and/or after surgery is equally effective treatment. It is too early to determine yet whether this will prove to be an alternative to mastectomy. If it does, it is probable that it will be useful only when the tumor is very small and the tumor has not spread to the axillary lymph nodes.

The best way for a woman to assure that any breast cancer is found early so that it can be most effectively treated is to practice breast self-examination (BSE) every month. BSE is a simple technique that should be a health habit for every woman. To learn the right way, call the Cancer Hopeline for our free brochures "Questions and Answers About Breast Lumps" or "Breast Exams: What You Should Know." Each one has a detailed explanation of BSE and a convenient tear-out section illustrating each step. It easily fits the inside of most medicine cabinets where it will be handy but out of the way when not needed.

(Women who have had breast surgery should also examine themselves because they are at greater risk than others. Call and ask for "Self-Examination After Breast Cancer Surgery." In addition, a helpful guide is "If You've Had Breast Cancer." Both are free. Send written requests to the Cancer Hopeline at 915 South Limestone Street, Lexington, Ky. 40536.)

Study Projects Encouraging View Of Area's Future

If the world can manage to survive for 27 more years, and if the projections of an independent research organization specializing in economic analysis are accurate, Floyd and most neighboring counties should be in pretty good shape economically by the year 2000.

According to a forecast researched and compiled by the National Planning Association, a Washington, D.C.-based organization, population will continue to climb, the coal business will prosper, and the number of jobs will increase by 60 percent in Eastern Kentucky during the period 1980-2000.

Using such things as computer models and reviews of industry expectations for growth or decline, the forecast shows Floyd county experiencing a 50 percent increase in the number of jobs from 12,600 to 18,900, while the county's population will swell 34.9 percent—from 48,900 to 66,000.

Figures are particularly encouraging from an economic standpoint for Knott county with a projected 70.5 percent increase in the number of jobs from 3,400 in 1980 to 5,800 by 2000. During the same period, Knott county's population will jump 25 percent from a present figure of about 18,000 to 22,500 in the year 2000.

Pike county is expected to continue to grow, with a 33.3 percent growth in population (81,300 to 108,400) and 39.4 percent in jobs (25,100 to 35,000).

Letcher county was one striking exception to the generally rosy picture painted by the research group who projected no increase in jobs although population was shown to climb by a third, to 41,000.

With the predictions of relative prosperity for the area, it is no surprise that the study predicts that the mining industry will rebound and have sustained growth over the next two decades. There will be an increase of 31,580 jobs, or 57.9 percent within the coal industry, according to projections. (Thanks to The Troublesome Creek Times for providing figures outlined by the report.)

Road Work in Perry Viewed As An Excuse For Illegal Mining

State strip-mining inspectors are cracking down on "public road projects" they say are actually covers for illegal strip-mining operations.

Three such ventures in Perry county, where road work coincided with removing coal from a nearby seam, have been shut down within the last six weeks and the state Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement has launched a criminal investigation into the enterprises.

"There's always a cemetery somewhere that needs a road built to it, but the road generally seems to be on a coal seam," said Gary Hall, regional administrator in the Jackson office.

"They can argue that they're building or improving roads, but I don't buy it. To me, it's illegal stripping."

In each of the three Perry county projects, the fiscal court had given its approval to the work. But in no case, the state contends, did the county supply the required 50 percent financing for construction.

Perry County Attorney William Engle, III, said the county was aware that mining coal was an intended part of all three operations.

"But I don't think it was a subterfuge," Engle said. "There was a double benefit because we got work done on public roads that the county couldn't afford to do."

Engle said he was unaware until recently that the state has, since Jan. 18, required such projects to have both fiscal court approval and 50 percent public financing. Otherwise, they do not qualify as public roads.

State inspectors cited U and D Coal Inc. and several individuals—including brothers Albert and Wayne Eagle and Albert Engle's son Albert, Jr.—on July 11 for illegal strip-mining on Lower Second Creek.

On July 29, inspectors cited Annaco, Inc. and Wayne Engle in connection with a site near Little Willard.

And on Aug. 8, inspectors shut down an operation run near Chavies by G and W Construction Co., Inc.

Both U and D and G and W told inspectors they were bringing a road to a nearby cemetery.
