

Ky.-W. Va. Seeks Another Rate Hike

Natural gas users supplied by Kentucky-West Virginia Gas Co., who already saw a rate increase take effect Nov. 1, may face another—which would be retroactive to Nov. 1—if a federal regulatory agency grants the firm's request.

Bill H. Howard, superintendent of Prestonsburg Utilities, which buys gas from Kentucky-West Virginia, said he only learned of the new rate request Friday, when he received a copy of a Nov. 30 letter written to the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC) by an attorney for the wholesale gas supplier.

By that time, Howard said, Prestonsburg customers had already been billed for their November gas. "It is very difficult to collect more for gas already used," he said, "especially when you have already advertised a particular rate."

Prestonsburg customers had already been told to expect an increase Nov. 1—when the local retailer passed on a 59-cent hike by Kentucky-West Virginia in the wholesale price of gas. Now the wholesaler wants to add another 31 cents per thousand cubic feet (MCF) and is in fact charging Prestonsburg Utilities the new rate pending the FERC decision.

If recent history is any guide, the federal agency will approve Kentucky-West Virginia's latest request and the local utility will have no choice but to pass the increase on to consumers, Howard said.

The proposed new wholesale rate of $5.47 per MCF—up from the $5.16 rate which took effect Nov. 1 and a $4.58 rate set on May 1—would represent an 89-cent jump since May. The latest increase alone would add $6.20 to the average customer's monthly bill, Howard said.

While it is forced to pass on rising wholesale costs, Prestonsburg Utilities has not raised rates on its own behalf since 1978—although it may have to do so before long—the superintendent noted.

Attorney Asks Inquest Held In Jail Death

While the autopsy and lab tests done last week on the body of Mary Vinamae Tackett, the 19-year-old woman found hanged in a jail cell here last month, reveal no evidence of foul play, he will still press for a coroner's inquest into her death, said a lawyer representing the dead woman's family.

The autopsy and test findings have been withheld pending the inquest, which Coroner Roger Nelson said will be held when a written copy of the results is available. But Attorney Gary Johnson said he has already been told they point to death by self-caused asphyxiation. Nor was any evidence found of sexual or other abuse prior to death, he said.

Nevertheless, "there are still a lot of questions to be answered and I think the pathologist should come here and answer them himself," Johnson said. Some of the questions, he said, have to do with the significance of some of the reported findings, such as the fact that there was no damage to the larynx and no subcutaneous blood in the neck.

The attorney criticized the handling of the investigation by Commonwealth's Attorney James Allen and state police officers, claiming the probe was not sufficiently aggressive and that its outcome was "foreordained." Referring to a claim by jail inmates that they heard Miss Tackett scream for help before she died, Johnson said police "set out to prove the inmates were lying."

"Whether they heard screams or not is not the point. The point is that their preconceived notions about jail inmates colored the police investigation from the start," he said.

State Det. Don Weedman denied the charge, saying police "made every effort to keep (the investigation) as unbiased as possible" and that Allen had very little to do with it.

In a "news release" that Weedman said was prepared by Allen, investigators reported that polygraph tests, experiments with sound levels and other data indicated that jail inmates lied when they signed a petition claiming to have heard Miss Tackett cry for help.

While Jailer Lawrence Hale identified Clyde Douglas Marshall as chief author of the petition, Marshall's brother last week denied that. "He might have signed it," Carlos Marshall said, "but he didn't start it."

Coroner Nelson said he would make a public statement after the inquest to rebut allegations he described as "plumb outrageous, malicious and unprofessional."

State Police Snare 3 in Gambling Raid

A late-night raid by state police last Thursday on a reputed gambling joint at Beaver resulted in three arrests.

Officers reportedly entered the establishment, an outbuilding on the property of Dester Hamilton, 54, around 10 p.m. in response to citizen complaints. Hamilton was charged with two counts of promoting and two counts of permitting gambling and two counts of selling whiskey without a license.

Also arrested were Earmel Bentley, 56, of Grethel, who was charged with promoting gambling, and Charles Bentley, 32, of Beaver, accused of carrying a concealed, deadly weapon.

According to criminal complaints filed in the case, Hamilton ran poker games on Dec. 1 and 8 and sold half-pints of Kessler whiskey to State Trooper Donnie Jack Phipps on Dec. 1 and 2.

The three men were released on bond from the Floyd county jail Friday. Trial was set for Jan. 4 in district court.

Beer Store Burns Before Shutdown

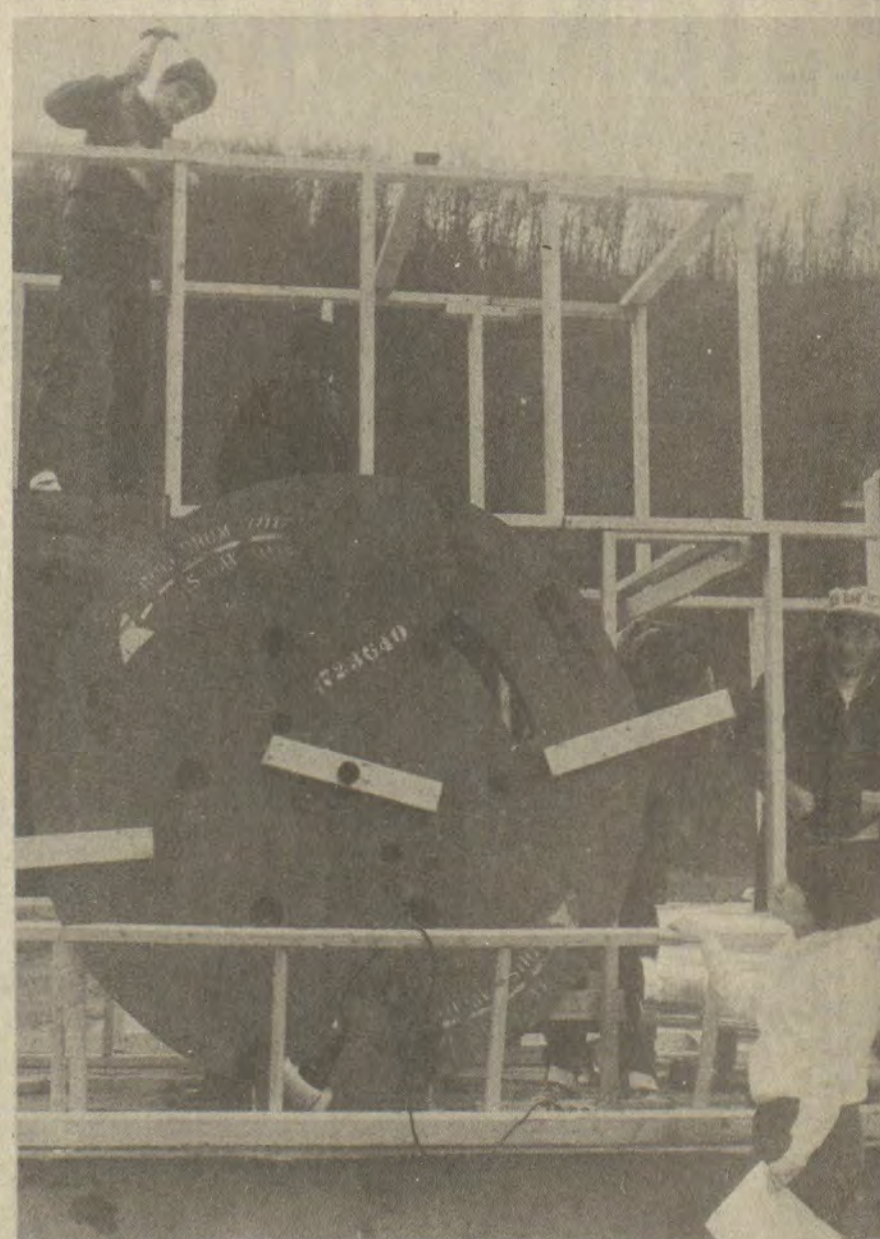

A Harold beer retailer, found guilty this week of selling beer to two juveniles last April, had his license suspended for three days and was fined $150. The question of suspension was already moot by the time the penalty was announced, however, as the business was gutted by fire earlier that day.

Following a Nov. 29 hearing, Floyd Alcoholic Beverage Control Administrator Denzil Allen announced Monday that he found proven charges that Penny Wolfe McKenzie, an employee at P and L Carryout, sold four bottles of Champagne to two 17-year-old girls on April 29. He ordered licensee Lloyd Johnson to suspend operations for 18 days or else to close shop for three days and pay a $150 fine.

Johnson reported that his business was all but destroyed by fire around 3:30 that morning.

A hearing date has yet to be fixed on a complaint alleging disorderly conduct at a Melvin establishment. Assistant County Attorney Janet L. Stumbo asked for the hearing in view of allegations made by Deputy Sheriff Harold Johnson.

In his complaint, Johnson said that (See Story No. 2, Page 4)

BY THE TIME it took its place in Tuesday's Inauguration Day parade, the rude structure on which these Betsy Layne High School students were working last week had been transformed into an elegant paddlewheeler, "The Collins Queen." As well as the Betsy Layne High School Jazz Band, the float bore the slogan, "You've Come A Long Way, Lady"—an appropriately feminist theme, insisted the six male students who worked on it.

To the Betsy Layne school went the honor of sending the only float from this county to join the four-hour parade in Frankfort which marked the installation of Martha Layne Collins as Kentucky's governor.

At work on "The Collins Queen" were Eddie Ratliff, Steve Hamilton, Paul Click, Kenneth Sellards, Rocco Pascarelli and Barry Campbell, students in the special art class taught by Mrs. Lizzie Hamilton, seen here supervising the project.

WITH THE WEATHER as it is, there seems to be little chance of hearkening to distant sleighbells this holiday season, but Floyd countians are combatting the 49-degrees-and-raining doldrums by decorating their homes. One of the more impressive yule displays is this huge Christmas tree-shaped light arrangement which slopes toward the river bank from a Harold residence across the Big Sandy from U.S. 23.

School Board Fears $225,000 Shortfall

The way things are going, the Floyd school district could end the fiscal year with a $225,000 deficit, Treasurer Ray Brackett cautioned members of the Board of Education last week.

Cuts in teaching staff and other economies will be needed if a deficit is to be forestalled and school taxes will have to be increased next year, he said.

It was Brackett's second warning this year that the school system could be in financial trouble. Noting in August that the district ended the 1982-'83 fiscal year with only a marginal surplus, the treasurer said that only strict curbs on spending could ward off a deficit. While savings have been realized this fall in spending on gasoline, bus parts and custodial supplies—budget areas where large overruns drew criticism last year—Brackett said more cuts will have to be made.

The school district employs 35 more teachers than the minimum funded under state law, said the school official, who recommended that teaching positions not be filled as they fall vacant. Some garage and maintenance staff should be laid off, no more purchases should be made except for emergencies, savings must be realized on light and gas bills, and summer and overtime employment for teachers must be held to a minimum, he told the board.

While Floyd employs more teachers than the number funded under the state Minimum Foundation Program, the school district has fewer teachers than state accreditors say are needed, Superintendent E.P. Grigsby, Jr. said later. State officials expect local districts to fund teaching positions over and above those supported by the state. Unless local funding can be obtained, many of the so-called ASIS units—including counselors, librarians, physical education, music and art teachers—will have to go, he said.

The school board voted in October to seek the highest of three tax rates allowed by law but later withdrew the proposal when county tax officials said it would delay the mailing of tax bills. Had the higher rate been approved, the school district would not be facing a deficit threat, Brackett noted.

(The school district will theoretically raise $891,050 in local taxes this year. Had the higher rate—known as the Sub-section 2 Rate—been put to the voters and approved by them, it could have yielded $1,170,889—a difference of $279,849.)

(The Floyd district ended the 1977-'78 school year with a $668,000 deficit, from which it took two years to recover. Surpluses rose steadily—$287,000 in 1980, $382,000 in 1981, $466,000 in 1982—until this year, when the surplus amounted to a meager $31,800.)

Folding tables in use since 1967 in the room that serves as both lunchroom and gymnasium at Prestonsburg Elementary School pose a danger to students and need to be replaced, Principal Thomas Tackett told the board. The tables, which fold up against the walls when they are not in use, sometimes fall; replacing them will cost $18,270, he said.

The board declared the situation an emergency, a declaration that is required before state school officials will permit the Floyd district to spend capital outlay funds to remedy the situation.

Notwithstanding a recommendation by state inspectors that the Floyd school system add 12 new buses and 12 used buses to its fleet next year, the most the district could afford would be eight new and 10 used buses, Treasurer Brackett indicated. The board agreed to purchase that number.

After a 2½-hour closed session, the expulsion of five Betsy Layne High School students and one McDowell grade school boy was announced. The McDowell stu-

School Construction Is Goal for Grigsby

Construction of new schools—and raising the money to finance it—is now the main item on his agenda, said E.P. "Pete" Grigsby, Jr., who was named last week to a third term as superintendent of Floyd schools.

The appointment, made by unanimous vote of the Board of Education last Wednesday, is for four years, beginning next July. It comes just six months after a citizens' group called for the ouster of both board and superintendent for alleged incompetence and willful neglect.

Few of the 49-year-old Grigsby's critics have been in evidence at recent board meetings, however, and his reappointment last week was greeted with standing applause by many in the audience. For his part, the school official said his time in office "has been a great pleasure and a wonderful experience."

Noting that the state Board of Education recently accredited Floyd schools through 1988 and appeared generally satisfied with the district's attempts to remedy problems uncovered this summer by a state investigative team, Grigsby said, "I feel like we've made progress; we are improving conditions and will continue to improve."

The superintendent acknowledged this week that many of the improvements effected in the fall came at the urging of state officials and may have been "speeded up" as a result of charges pressed in June by the Floyd County Citizens' Education Council. But most of the district's shortcomings had already been pointed out by a state accreditation team that began a survey here last year at the Floyd board's invitation, Grigsby argued.

Although the changes have yet to be reflected in standardized test scores, the superintendent pointed to improvements in curriculum as the main fruit of his two terms in office. His main regret, he said, is that he has been able to do little building of new facilities.

Since he took office, the new Betsy Layne High School is the only facility to have been built. Construction of new schools will be his primary objective over the next four years, Grigsby said. While the Floyd school district is continuing to work with state officials to upgrade test scores, the superintendent said, "I think that new facilities could impact the quality of education as much as anything."

He recently appointed a 30-member task force to look into ways of financing a building program and hopes the panel might make recommendations before the January meeting of the board of education, Grigsby noted. Garrett Elementary School Principal Ralph O'Quinn is listed as chairman of the task force; Bill Arms, East Point farmer and member of the Kentucky Fair Tax Coalition, is vice-chairman; and Doris Stumbo, president of the McDowell PTO and an employee in the school district's administrative offices, is secretary.

Schnellenberger Appears Candidate for USFL Job

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J.—Howard Schnellenberger, coach of fifth-ranked University of Miami, reportedly is one of five men under consideration to coach the New Jersey Generals of the United States Football League.

Jimmy "The Greek" Snyder, an analyst with CBS' "NFL Today" show, said yesterday that Schnellenberger, who played at Kentucky, met with Generals owner Donald Trump. "I think they made a handshake agreement," Snyder said.

"Schnellenberger is one of five coaches being considered," said a source with the Generals. "Nothing has been done."

Snyder also said the National Football League Giants are interested in Schnellenberger, a charge denied by Giants general manager George Young.

HOW CAN I MAKE KNOWN MY FUNERAL PREFERENCES?

Usually your preferences can best be made known by your pre-planning some or all of the funeral service with a funeral director.

If you feel reluctant to give "instructions" to your family, you might make a list of preferences and suggestions covering your wishes. We have simple forms which will help guide you as you fill them out.

After completing the forms which entail no obligation on your part, then advise your family about your preferences and where you will keep the Pre-Plan Form.

We find people have a greater ease of mind once this is done, just as after filling a will or setting up an insurance program. It takes a load off the family later on and it makes sure your preferences will be respected.

There are many choices and options in pre-planning. You would be well-advised to discuss them with your funeral director. We will be glad to explain your options in detail. To help you reach an informed decision, we can also give you some reading material for your study. Stop by or phone for your free copy.

Two Boys Killed When Artillery Shell Explodes

SAN DIEGO—Two boys were killed and a third was seriously injured Saturday when ammunition—left over from a World War II-era firing range—exploded, officials said.

The explosion occurred in a brushy area that once was the site of a Naval and Army firing range, fire department spokesman Denis McNeill said.

Paramedics found two San Diego boys dead at the scene. They were identified as Matthew Smith, 8, and Cory Peake, 8. Cory's brother, Carl, 12, was wounded and is in serious condition.

Two boys who had been nearby but were not injured told authorities the youths had been playing with something that looked like a mortar shell. However authorities thought it also might have been a small cannon shell about six inches long.

McNeill said the shell detonated when one boy hit it on a rock.

Oil burners should be checked for their Combustion Efficiency rating since an improvement of about ten points may save you ten percent on your oil bill.

DIAMONDS

There is a difference in the quality of diamonds.

Are you buying diamond rings at what you think are wholesale or discount prices?

When economic times get tough, a number of predictable things happen. One very unpleasant fact is that too many retailers or so-called retailers or "wholesaler-retailers" take advantage of consumers' genuine desire and/or need for a bargain to cheat them blind. This is politely called deceptive pricing. In fact, it's stealing.

What these so-called discounters are doing is taking very cheap quality diamonds and marking them up two or three times more than what they are worth. Then they put them on sale and usually you pay more than what the ring is worth to begin with.

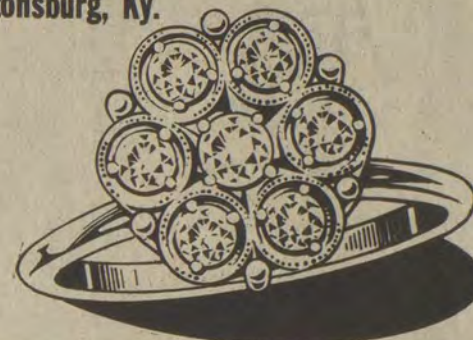

If you want to buy diamonds at a fair price and be told the truth about what you are buying, come to Earl Castle's Jewelry in Prestonsburg, Ky.

UK AG College Given Knott County Farm

The University of Kentucky College of Agriculture has received the gift of a 300-acre farm in southeastern Kentucky.

Albert Stewart, an Appalachian writer, editor and college teacher, gave his mountain farm, located in Knott county, to the college to establish a lasting memorial to his father, William Stewart, and his grandfather, Dr. Jasper Stewart, one of the area's first physicians.

The farm, with 20-some acres of bottomland and the rest in timber, will be used for teaching, research and demonstration activities conducted by the UK ag college in the areas of forestry, wildlife preservation and crop production, said Dr. John Walker, the college's associate dean for development.

Researchers and Cooperative Extension Service specialists will establish demonstration plots there, probably of such things as nut trees and horticultural crops, and will use the timberland to show effective management of timber property, Walker said.

Stewart was honored at a luncheon Wednesday, Dec. 7, at Spindletop Hall, by the UK College of Agriculture.

In recognition of his generous gift, Stewart has been named a University of Kentucky Fellow. UK Fellows are donors who make gifts of cash or property of $10,000 and more. Since 1966, more than 1,000 Fellows together have contributed $24 million in cash and property to the University of Kentucky.

Stewart is the editor of Appalachian Heritage, a quarterly magazine of short stories and poetry about southern Appalachian life and culture. He also has published books of his own poetry. He has a master's degree in English from UK, and has taught at Morehead State University and at Alice Lloyd College.

He will continue to live on the farm, called "Kingdom of Yellow Mountain." The house will be maintained as a historical landmark.

trict includes "some of the oldest buildings in the state." Grigsby said the public will have to be prepared to pay for improvements. "We've been behind a long time," he said, "but in public school systems the bottom line is money. I don't know whether we want to make the sacrifice, as people, which is needed to catch up."

A former McDowell High School basketball coach, Grigsby will continue at his present salary of $40,428. He was first named superintendent in 1976 and is only the second Floyd superintendent to be appointed to a third term. His predecessor, the late Charles Clark, served four terms.

Unmined Coal Dispute Could Halt Building

Construction bids on a 60-unit public housing project at Martin could be held up as the result of a dispute over unmined coal on the site.

Bids for the project are scheduled to be let next Tuesday, but plaintiffs in a suit filed in Floyd Circuit Court last week have asked that the bidding be halted until their complaint is heard.

Henry Layne and Alma Dings, heirs to the Henry M. Dings estate near Dinwood, claim they own the coal under a site which was first taken over by the state Transportation Department for use as a waste area in the construction of new KY 80 and later deeded to the Martin Housing Authority.

The underlying coal was leased in April to Martin coal operator Morris Isaac but construction of the planned housing complex will obstruct any mining operation and damage them in the sum of $3.9 million, plaintiffs claim. The suit was filed in their behalf by Hindman attorney Cordell H. Martin.

(Claims made in lawsuits present only one side of the issue in dispute.)

Another Builder Faces Creditors

Another eastern Kentucky builder faces claims by creditors who have filed suits recently in Floyd Circuit Court.

The bank which put up the money for Pikeville builder Peter Giese to construct a house in the Hamilton Addition at Harold pressed for repayment in a suit filed last month and a lumber company which supplied some of the materials for the project demands payment in a suit filed here last week.

Attorneys for the First National Bank of Pikeville are demanding payment on four notes totalling $56,000 on which they say Giese is in default. Wickes Lumber Co. is pressing a claim for $2438 the company says is owing for building supplies. Giese does business as Peterbilt Construction.

Prestonsburg builder David Bruce Spradlin, owner of Bruncy Enterprises, left this area recently after claims that he was in default on debts totalling $1.1 million. William Tavis Wallen, of East Point, operator of the Wallen Construction Co., filed recently for bankruptcy in U.S. Bankruptcy Court.

COAL COMPANY ENTERTAINS

The J.R.M. Coal Company, Inc., held its first annual Christmas dinner-dance for employees and contractors at the Carriage House Motel in Paintsville, last Friday evening. The party was hosted by Edgar Jones, Gregory Jones and Carson Akers, owners of the company. More than 300 guests attended. Door prizes were donated by Brandeis Machinery and the host company. Music was furnished by the Cliff Rhodes Band.

During the dinner, it was announced that J.R.M. Coal Company will increase production of coal, beginning January 1.

More on Kennedy Visit

Re columnists Linda Neice Lyon and Ron Marstin of November 30 and their opinions as fact. As a native Floyd countian I must take issue with them both.

Sen. Kennedy not only has the right to go and look at how the people are living and check their needs; it's a responsibility. It is standard procedure to send a person on ahead of the party. Reagan and everybody else in Washington does it—except those who spend a few weeks in Acapulco or in the south of France on fact-finding missions and charging it to the taxpayers. This is, of course, to better their understanding of the needs of the people they represent.

Sen. Kennedy's desires to be president: More of the ridiculous. He has only to announce and the nomination is his. It's the same as with Mr. Reagan.

The columnists' attack on the people who were interviewed by Sen. Kennedy: To say they sold, gave away or lost their birthright for talking to a United States Senator is a little beyond the ridiculous. A birthright is the native right or privilege by reason of being born. Do you mean to put these people back in their mother's womb?

The news media: God forbid we should ever be without them. Just think of what we would miss if we didn't have them. We would never have known about "Watergate", or the "White House Plumbers." With them, we would have known about our invasion of Grenada at the same time the rest of the world found out about it. But, more importantly, the right people might not have found out the needs of the people of Floyd county and several other places of our country, had we not had the news media.

If exposing poverty anywhere makes you sick, then you have a real problem. Without the focus of the news media, it would remain a secret from the very people charged with correcting it. Secret poverty is never corrected.

I suffered under too much of that in Floyd county during the so-called great depression. Some still call it "the Hoover Depression." Hoover was, of course, another Republican President.

Many are thankful to Sen. Kennedy, as they were to Congressman Seiberling ten years ago, or any other Congressman or Senator who has ever gone out to find what the needs of the people are. I am also pleased to see by the films that Sen. Kennedy was not looking at a painted picture of how great things were, or what a fine job certain people were doing—but looking at the problems. And if you don't believe there are many problems in Floyd county and many other counties throughout America, then, in my humble opinion, you belong in a mental institution.

It does not slander or degrade our county or anybody in it to show poverty or the needs of the people. It is no longer a sin to be poor. Certainly I am not ashamed of being what I am or ever was. I have been discriminated against in Floyd county for being among the have-nots; in Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois and Pennsylvania, for being from Kentucky. I stood up for what I knew to be right then, just as I am doing now. Nobody has a right to lord over another person for any reason—anywhere. Freedom is the right to be free of fear or injustice while doing anything a person wants to so long as it doesn't harm or take away the rights of another.

It would please me to be able to support President Reagan. I would like to believe he is my President. But he won't tell me what he's doing or why he's doing it—anywhere in the world. I worked for Mr. Carter in 1976. I voted against him in 1980. People are often telling me that Reagan is better than Carter. Maybe so. He's probably better than the Three Stooges, but not very much.

Utility Cost Here Said Area's Lowest

Despite rising costs, including another threatened increase in the price of natural gas (see related story), Prestonsburg residents still fare better than their counterparts up and down the river when it comes to the cost of utilities, Bill H. Howard, superintendent of Prestonsburg Utilities, pointed out this week.

Prestonsburg customers using 20,000 cubic feet of gas a month—about average for this time of year—would pay $126.30 at current rates. The same gas would cost Paintsville consumers $133.79 and Pikeville consumers $161.14.

(Beyond the city limits, 20 MCF of city gas costs $137.50 in Floyd county, $167.23 in Johnson, and $165.08 in Pike.) Water and sewage rates tell the same story. A Prestonsburg family using 5000 gallons a month would pay $9.05 for the water and $6.34 (70 percent of the water bill) for sewage disposal, for a total of $15.39. The same services would cost $18.79 in Paintsville, $19.39 in Pikeville.

(Outside the city limits, those services would cost $22.10 in Floyd county, $26.33 in Johnson, and $32.99 in Pike.)

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Biddie Prater wishes to thank all who were so kind and considerate during our time of grief. We want to thank those who sent flowers and the neighbors who brought in food. We especially want to thank the Regular Baptist ministers and members for being so kind and also the Hall Funeral Home for its service. All your kindnesses were greatly appreciated.

THE FAMILY

It's Christmas Time Again

Christmas season is here again, as hearts and minds become aglow with the wonderful spirits of warmth and love which abounds everywhere, as little children beam with the thought of goodies and toys and the sparkling, glittering Christmas tree. It is especially happy for those that know God as their saviour; it is even more thrilling to them to observe and celebrate the birthday of Jesus.

I love to see a candle or a light in a window, or even the displays. It tells me of the good spirit that abounds in our land. I would hate terribly to live in a dreary land of gloominess and bondage, where there is no light or hope—i.e., the land of communism.

This year I hope every one will light up, even if it is one candle or light in the window or even a beautiful display if you care to; it signifies love, appreciation, hope and freedom, which, thank God, we have.

I think we should do more so this Christmas, as an awful cloud of destruction hangs over us, which could snuff us out before another Christmas rolls around. Our only hope is through prayer to the All-Loving and Almighty One whose birthday we now glorify and celebrate.

Wishing you a very Merry Christmas and a Most Happy New Year.

Answer to Kennedy

In response to Senator Edward Kennedy, we have poverty all over the world, not just Mud Creek and I think people could help themselves if they wanted to. He criticized the Reagan Administration for cutting the welfare payments. I don't think it's right for people that work to keep up the ones that won't work and as far as the Spruce Pine school, they don't need that school for the buses can go up Little Mud and take the kids out of there to school and that's all left up to the state and county, not the Federal government. As for as the building of the Mud Creek Clinic, the federal government put up the grant to have a new one built. Mr. Kennedy didn't mention that, just mentioned what he thought would hurt the Reagan administration, and to mention riding in Miss Hall's four-wheel drive, he didn't mention who was to blame in the road condition which he knew. The Democrat party runs Kentucky, Frankfort, and the county.

Thank you,

Roadmakers Playing Politics, Is Claim

Jerry DeRossett, who moved back to Floyd county recently after a long absence in Michigan, complained this week that Floyd politics have not changed in the meantime.

The road that serves his home on Lafayette Branch of Bull Creek is a case in point, he says. A county crew spread gravel there Monday, stopping at a point just short of the building contractor's new home and picking up again just beyond his property.

For DeRossett, who says it is well known he backed Ronald Frasure in this November's judge-executive race and who has already announced his intention of running against District 1 Magistrate Gerald DeRossett next year, the reason the gravel truck bypassed his place could not be clearer. "It's obvious," he said. "It's Floyd county politics."

Not at all, replied the magistrate, who is second cousin to his angry constituent. "We're trying to stretch the gravel as far as we can. All I told my truck driver was to put it where it was needed most."

Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo, in Frankfort for Tuesday's inauguration ceremonies, was not available for comment on the charge.

IRS Tax Interest Rate Is Unchanged

The Internal Revenue Service annual interest rate charged on tax underpayments and paid on overpayments will remain at 11 percent.

The rate on the underpayment of individual and corporate estimated taxes will also continue at 11 percent.

Internal Revenue Code section 6621(b) provides for semiannual adjustment of the rate (on January 1 and July 1) based on the average prime interest rate for the six-month periods ending September 30 and March 31, respectively.

Mayo Implements Computer Program

Over $2 million has been spent to outfit multipurpose computer laboratories in Kentucky's eight state vocational-technical schools, Superintendent of Public Instruction, Raymond Barber, has announced.

"For years we have understood the importance of computers in the job market," Barber said. "It is time we provided the computer technology our students need."

Kentucky is the first state to set up computer laboratories throughout their entire state vocational-technical school system.

Mayo State Vocational-Technical School has received twenty-four TRS-80, Model 4 Radio Shack computers and two IBM PC's computers. Classes started this week. All students attending Mayo will complete the computer literacy program as a part of the required curriculum.

Mrs. Deborah Castle, a former business teacher at Mayo, will teach the computer course. Bronelle Skaggs, regional director, and Jesse Conley, principal, feel this updated technology will give Mayo students some advantage when they seek employment after graduation.

The Kentucky Easter Seal Society served 15,506 Kentuckians last year.

Marshall University School of Medicine

By Martin R. Klemperer, M.D.

Acute diarrhea, which is a very common illness in young children, fortunately passes fairly quickly—usually in five days or less.

Most childhood diarrhea is caused by a virus infection and needs only simple home treatment—and patience. When your child has diarrhea, your main goal is to see that he or she gets enough fluid. Since acute diarrhea doesn't last long, don't worry if your child doesn't want food—in fact, solid foods and formula should be stopped. (If you are breast feeding, continue, but give the child extra clear liquids).

Start out by feeding clear liquids only—such as soft drinks, Gatorade, liquid gelatin or Pedialyte, a preparation carried by most drug stores. If you are using a soft drink, pour out a few ounces and let it go flat. For infants less than 3 months old, mix soft drinks with an equal amount of water.

Offer fluids every three to four hours, and at each feeding try to get in about two ounces (¼ cup) for every five pounds your child weighs. Do not give any medications without a doctor's advice.

As the diarrhea lessens, introduce your child's regular formula diluted with an equal amount of water. After a day or two, if the diarrhea is getting better, switch to fullstrength formula. As your child continues to improve, solid foods can be restarted. Begin with foods that are low in fat and sugar—bananas, rice, apples, toast, crackers, and mashed potatoes without butter. If all goes well, gradually increase the assortment of foods until your child is on a regular diet.

How can you tell if your child is doing well? Your big concern is the amount of fluid your child keeps in, not the number of bowel movements. Your child should have tears and a moist mouth and should urinate during the day. If the eyes have no tears or appear sunken, and if the mouth is dry, your child should be seen by a doctor.

It's also wise to see a doctor if your child has blood in the bowel movement, severe abdominal pain, fever over 101° or if the liquid diet brings no improvement.

HEALTH LINE invites your health questions. Although we cannot reply to letters personally, we will answer questions of general interest through this column. Mail them to: HEALTH LINE, Department of Family and Community Health, Marshall University School of Medicine, Huntington, W.V. 25701-5490.

WOMAN'S CLUB NEWS

Members of the GFWC/Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club and their guests from the Drift and Wheelwright Woman's Clubs enjoyed a festive Thanksgiving dinner November 11 at the Quicksand Crafts Center, Vest, Kentucky.

In remarks following the dinner, Mrs. Otto Martin, president of the host club, urged her hearers to remember their nation's beginnings and the fact that the Pilgrim fathers came searching for a place to worship God and found it on the shores of this land in spite of the fact current news media and television programs would indicate that many people seem to have forgotten this nation's Christian heritage.

Mrs. Martin commented that since it was Veteran's Day, she would like to honor a veteran clubwoman. This particular clubwoman had been a member of the Lackey-Garrett-Wayland club since its beginning as a Mothers' Club in 1926 and into federation with the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs in 1934 and is still a member. Mrs. Martin read an original poem in salute to this charter member, Mrs. W.T. Hatcher, of Hindman, better known as "Granny" Hatcher. The matted and framed poem was then presented to Mrs. Hatcher by the club president. Mrs. Hatcher thanked the club and expressed her love for its members. "Granny" at 96 still quilts, which was one of the ways she helped the club to raise funds for many years when she resided in the Wayland vicinity.

The immediate past Seventh District Governor, Miss Ruby Akers, greeted the clubwomen. A tour of the craft center followed, clubwomen viewing the various items on sale and watching a demonstration of weaving by Mrs. Arkie Patton.

Those present were: guests, Mrs. Orbin Childers and Mrs. Beckham Combs, members of the Crafts Center's Board, and Ruby Akers, Doris Lawson, Anna Sue Stumbo, and Celia Little of the Drift club, and Betty Mullins, Margot Faine, and Alma Souleyrette of the Wheelwright club, and "Granny" Hatcher, Avelle C. Wells, Anna Layne, LaFaye Hughes, Blanche Bamer, Louise West, Joyce P. Stevens, Elizabeth M. Duff, Marie C. Mullins, Launice Dunfee, Lula Coburn, Marsella Bradley, Loretta Martin, Maxine P. Martin, and Libby Martin of the Wayland club.

To Distribute HEAP Funds

The Cabinet for Human Resources plans to spend $3,647,410 this winter in Home Energy Assistance Program funds to make weatherization improvements to homes of low-income families, especially the elderly and disabled. Cabinet Secretary Buddy Adams said the funds will be distributed to 22 community action agencies, the Tri-County Council for Senior Citizens, LaGrange, and to Ashland.

The Big Sandy Area Community Action Agency encompassing Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin, Martin, and Pike counties will receive $184,377. The agency serving Bath, Menifee, Montgomery, Morgan and Rowan counties will receive $87,846, and that serving Leslie, Knott, Letcher, Perry counties will receive $136,684.

"The money will be divided among the grant recipients based upon the need of the area each serves compared to statewide need," Adams said. "Last year under this program we served 7,990 people in 2,785 homes at an average cost per home of $1,182. Of the people we served, 22 percent were elderly and 14 percent were handicapped. Nearly half had incomes below $4,000 a year."

Work that may be performed on a home includes caulking, weatherstripping windows and doors, reglazing windows, repairing walls, insulating ceilings, pipes, ducts, walls and under floors, wrapping water heaters and placing skirting around foundations. "The type and amount of work performed is based on the condition of the home," Adams said. "There is a $1,500 limit on assistance to any home, but we are able to make these homes more comfortable and reduce energy costs. In some cases, families may have had to live in one room during the cold months. With this assistance they may be able to at least open another room."

Manpower Services Commissioner Robert E. Spillman, whose department administers the program, said this year an energy audit must be done on a home before any weatherization work is performed. "A Residential Conservation Service audit will show where energy is wasted and how much money can be saved the first year if corrective measures are taken. For example, if there is a great deal of heat loss around windows and doors, the audit will show that as well as how much money will be saved on utility bills if proper weatherstripping is done to stop this loss." Spillman said his department has been working with the state's eight federally regulated utilities and the Tennessee Valley Authority since these utilities will be doing most of the audits. "Some people served under this program are not served by any of these companies," Spillman said. "In those cases, we plan to provide training for the community action agencies' staffs so they can conduct the audits. We hope we will be able to have access to the same computer data the utilities have to determine energy costs and savings. We are working closely with the Kentucky Association of Community Action on this aspect of the program."

Adams said, "These audits will do more than show where energy loss is the greatest and what work needs to be done. They also will give us an indication of how cost-effective the program is."

The HEAP funds are part of the cabinet's grant from the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services. Earlier this year the cabinet received $4.6 million in weatherization funds from the U.S. Department of Energy.

FLOYD COUNTY HEALTH NEWS

By JANE BOND
Health Educator

Cervical cancer kills approximately 11,000 women each year, yet this type cancer can be one of the most curable of all cancers if it is detected early. The Pap test can detect cervical cancer in the earliest stages. The test is a simple painless test which takes only a few moments of a woman's time, and it could save her life.

The Floyd County Health Department is having a Pap clinic on Monday, December 19, from 8:30 until 11:30, and from 1 until 2. This clinic is a free service of the Health Department and is open to women of all ages, but those women age 45 and over are especially urged to take advantage of this service since this is the high risk age for the disease.

Emergency Asbestos Standard Adopted

Labor Commissioner Thelma Stovall announced that Governor Brown, on the recommendation of the Kentucky Occupational Safety and Health Standards Board, has signed an Executive Order making the Emergency Temporary Standard on Asbestos effective in Kentucky. This new standard which lowers the permissible exposure level from 2 fibers to .5 fibers per cubic centimeter of air (longer than 5 micrometers) over an 8-hour time-weighted average became enforceable upon filing with the Legislative Research Commission on November 29, 1983.

Commissioner Stovall stated that, "the overwhelming evidence indicates that a grave danger exists to the health of employees who are exposed to airborne concentrations of asbestos above the .5 fiber level." She said that she is convinced that both employers and employees in Kentucky are interested in taking appropriate steps to insure proper protection. "The risk to the Commonwealth's working men and women is too great to ignore", added Ms. Stovall.

In addition to the previous requirements relating to asbestos exposure, because of the nature of the emergency, the new standard permits any combination of engineering controls, work practices and personal protective equipment and devices, if the level is between .5 and 2 fibers/cc. The existing standard still requires feasible engineering controls (with respirators acceptable as interim protection) to be implemented when exposures equal or exceed the 2 fiber level.

The emergency temporary standard also requires training for all employees whose exposure is "reasonably expected" to be at or above the permissible exposure limit of .5 fibers per cubic centimeter. Training must begin as soon as possible but no later than 30 days after the effective date. Training must cover respirator fitting and use; asbestos handling; medical information; the relationship between smoking, lung cancer and asbestosis; and a review of the asbestos standard. Also, the existing requirements for warning signs is extended by the emergency temporary standard to exposure levels at or above the .5 fiber level.

Commissioner Stovall stated, "I would like to take this opportunity to reemphasize to Kentucky employers and employees that the emergency standard became effective November 29, and wish to assure them that Occupational Safety and Health Program resources would be devoted toward assisting those who wish to voluntarily comply with the new standard."

Commissioner Stovall further indicated that the program already maintains an on-going effort to train employers and employees regarding the hazards of asbestos exposure as well as continuously monitors through enforcement personnel worksites involved with asbestos-related products. Most recently special emphasis has been given to asbestos removal projects such as those at schools and hospitals.

Some other businesses which may handle asbestos-related products include: brake shops, foundry operations, manufacturers of paint, plastic products, gaskets, and motor vehicle parts, and those manufacturers of specific asbestos products.

Commissioner Stovall suggested that anyone having questions or requiring assistance in voluntarily complying with the regulations should contact: Department of Labor, Division of Education and Training, U.S. 127 South, Frankfort, Kentucky.

Stork Club Flying High At HRMC

Jo Denise and Frederick Griffin, of Wheelwright, toast the birth of their son while enjoying the complimentary Stork Club dinner for new HRMC parents.

An exclusive new club has begun at Highlands Regional Medical Center. It's so exclusive that it normally takes nine months to qualify for membership. The Stork Club has been created by the HRMC Dietary Department as a special treat to all new parents at the Medical Center. Each mother can make reservations for a special candlelight dinner "on the house" at the hospital. The couples are served steak and all the trimmings. The tables are decorated in pink or blue for their baby, and china and crystal add to the elegance.

The Stork Club dinner is designed as a pleasant "date" for the parents. "We are glad to help our couples celebrate their new addition in this way," said Clarence C. Traum, administrator.

Parents who have been treated to the Highlands Regional Stork Club dinners so far have commented that the meals were fantastic and service great.

For Benefits Hearing...

Take Counsel, Lawyer Advises

If you have been turned down for unemployment benefits and have a date set for a hearing on your application, take an attorney along with you.

That is the advice of a legal services lawyer, who says some unemployed workers have the idea they don't need counsel—and that some are being denied benefits as a result.

"It can mean a dramatic change for people who have been working to lose their job and then be denied benefits," said David Rubinstein, directing attorney in the Prestonsburg office of the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund of Kentucky. "Except for food stamps, they can suddenly be left indigent."

The first decision as to whether an unemployed person is entitled to benefits is the so-called "adjusted determination" made by the local office of the Bureau for Social Insurance (BSI). This is done on the basis of interviews with the applicant and his or her former employer to find out how the worker's job was lost—that is, whether he or she quit, was fired, or was laid off.

An applicant who is turned down by BSI can apply within 15 days for a hearing before a Cabinet for Human Resources referee, a courtroom-type procedure in which the applicant and the employer can be represented by an attorney. Whoever loses the decision at that level may appeal to the Unemployment Insurance Commission in Frankfort and a decision of the commission can be further appealed in circuit court.

The critical step in the process, Rubinstein advises, is the referee hearing to which the applicant is entitled when he or she first learns that benefits have been denied. "This is a fairly formal, adversarial hearing, yet the word seems to have gotten out that you don't need a lawyer and people are getting into trouble," he said.

The phrase "crocodile tears" derives from an ancient Greek legend—The giant lizard was believed to attract its victims by loud moaning and then shed tears while it devoured them.

"The way the system works, referees tend to want to support the adjusted determination," Rubinstein said. "It's important that if an applicant has a good case it be developed properly. In most cases I don't think an unrepresented client can do that."

The question of entitlement is not always clear-cut, the attorney pointed out. It may be unclear, for example, whether the worker quit or was fired, but that question is critical as far as benefits are concerned. Someone who is fired generally qualifies for benefits; a worker who quits usually does not.

Workers who are fired on account of misconduct are not entitled to benefits, however; and those who quit are eligible if they resigned for a good cause connected with their jobs. All of these are questions that can be argued more persuasively if the applicant has counsel, Rubinstein contends.

Ky. Farm Bureau Convention Held

Proposals to bolster the tobacco industry dominated resolutions passed by delegates during the final day of the recent 64th Kentucky Farm Bureau convention in Lexington.

The group decided in its annual business session December 10 to commission a major study of several tobacco-related problems, including grower assessments, imports and price supports.

Another resolution asked that the no-net cost aspects of the federal price support program be paid for, in part, from cigarette tax revenues, as an alternative to the current system of assessments on tobacco farmers.

AT&T Divestiture Seminar at PCC

For those looking for information on the court approved reorganization plan for American Telephone and Telegraph, PCC is offering a seminar, Wednesday, December 14, at 7 p.m. in Room 113 of the Pike Technology Building. Those interested in attending should pre-register by calling 886-3863, ext. 215.

This seminar will outline the new AT&T Organization and give a geographical breakdown of the seven regional holding companies. The seminar will give the stock distribution plan with examples of current holdings showing how the holdings will be rearranged with the size of each holding determining the manner in which it will be affected. Estimated valuations of trading levels and earnings projection will be discussed. A divestiture timetable running from December, 1983 through May, 1984 will be presented. The seminar will conclude with a general discussion of AT&T, RHC's and Humpty Dumpty funds. Questions from participants will be encouraged.

Instructor for the seminar is James K. Wead, an account executive with the New York Investment firm of Thomson McKinnon who has 15 years experience as a financial advisor and tax specialist.

If a cat is allowed outdoors, an occasional bath in tepid water is a good idea and one he should get used to. Don't, however, bathe the kittens before they're six months old.

The delegates refused to include an endorsement of the no-net cost program in their policies for 1984. They voted to oppose any increase in the farmer assessment, which this year amounts to a 5-cent-per-pound deduction from tobacco sales receipts. They also asked that the assessment be levied against imported tobacco which is purchased by U.S. tobacco companies.

On a topic of current political interest in the state, the convention refused to go along with a recommendation from the Farm Bureau Resolutions Committee to favor abolition of the lieutenant governor's office and to change two other offices, agriculture commissioner and superintendent of public instruction, from elective to appointive posts.

During lengthy debate on the proposed changes, the farm leaders decided that keeping the three offices as they are outweighed any potential benefits from the change.

Those favoring the change said the appointive route for the agricultural and education posts could result in the selection of officials more knowledgeable in the two fields. Opponents feared taking the decision as to who should fill the jobs out of the hands of the voters.

In other policy action, the delegates voted to:

*Oppose the test release of some rare red wolves in the Land Between the Lakes area of Western Kentucky. Concerns by livestock producers about the introduction of another predator to the state were the major factor.

*Support the establishment of a state fund to reimburse farmers who lose money when livestock or grain markets go bankrupt. A voluntary assessment on farmers who use the facilities would supplement state funds, under the proposal.

*Oppose the construction of the Falmouth Dam in Northern Kentucky.

*Strongly reaffirm their opposition to legalizing multi-bank holding companies. A motion to change the long-standing Farm Bureau position on the issue was rejected overwhelmingly.

Kentucky Farm Bureau's three top officers were re-elected to one-year terms by the delegates. Ray Mackey of Hardin county won a sixth one-year term as president of the organization. W.R. Sprague of Union county remains as first vice president, and Sam Moore of Butler county will continue as second vice president.

Moore beat back a challenge for his seat from John E. Biehn, a KFB director from Pendleton county. The race was a rematch for the seat a year ago.

Four new members were elected to the Farm Bureau Board of Directors. The four are L.A. Schwartz, Hickman county; John Price, Taylor county; Paul Hornback, Shelby county; and Carolyn Hayden, Hardin county.

Going off the board following the convention are Bourke Mantle Jr., of Carlisle county; William R. Sewell, Pulaski county; Bob White, Union county; Lottie Murphy, Scott county; Charles Schnitzler, Lincoln county; and James Stuart, Greenup county.

More Volunteers Needed For Tax Return Aid

Additional volunteers are needed in the Prestonsburg, Jenkins, Pikeville area to help elderly and low income individuals with their tax returns.

If you like working with people and would like to be a volunteer tax return preparer, you may attend an IRS training course to be given in Prestonsburg at the Floyd County Public Library, January 9-13. Volunteers will work at sites in their local areas.

PAINTSVILLE

PAVING ON ROAD BEGUN

Work of paving that part of the Mayo Trail from the Paintsville depot to the Dawkins station began Monday. The Hatfield Construction Company, contractors who paved the road from the west limits of Paintsville to mouth of Mud Lick, have the contract, and expect to have the work completed by December 10. The earth slide midway the "Narrows" will be rendered for the present. The contractors will start work immediately of driving large pipe piling which will be filled with concrete which will render the slip safe. This small section will then be paved.

BARNETT HOME RAZER

Paintsville was visited by a small blaze last Monday when the home of Mrs. Sissy (Lyons) Barnett, was destroyed. The house was situated on the hill in East Paintsville. A small child was playing with the gas which set fire to the house. The fire department had much difficulty in getting a hose to the house, but when they got in action the blaze was soon extinguished. The fire department did fine work. Strangers who witnessed the action of the fire department members declared the boys worked like firemen with years of experience.

A COMMENDABLE ACTION

The Epworth League of the Mayo Memorial Church sensing the danger arising from the crime wave which is slowly fastening its clutches on the county, has passed resolutions condemning crime in general and asks for a more rigid enforcement of the laws at the hands of officials. There is no doubt that the execution of laws in this county have been too lax for the past two years, and the action taken by the young people of this organization should be highly commended by the good people of Johnson county. Similar actions should be taken by the churches and church organizations throughout the land. Hats off to the Epworth Leaguers of the Mayo Memorial Church.

LEASES OIL LANDS

E. J. Evans, who has been spending the past few weeks near Owensboro, Ky., in the new oil field, spent Sunday with Mrs. Evans in Paintsville. He went to Winchester Monday on business, returning Tuesday. Mr. Evans secured a number of valuable leases near the big 500-barrel oil well at that place, which was recently brought in by Geo. Dimick in "wildcat" territory.

VAUGHAN-WHEELER

A pretty autumn marriage was performed at the beautiful country home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Davis near Paintsville Saturday evening at six o'clock, when Miss Dora Vaughan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Vaughan, and Mr. Dona Wheeler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. W. Wheeler, were united in marriage, by Rev. T. B. Ashley of the M. E. Church.

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Enzweiler left last Saturday for their home in Bellevue, Ky. It is with regret that we announce that these popular people have left Paintsville. Mr. Enzweiler has tybeen connected with the Johnson County Gas Company for several years and under his management the city was given excellent service by this company. Mr. and Mrs. Enzweiler have made many friends in Paintsville who will regret that they have left. The companies in which Mr. Enzweiler was interested were sold recently to a new company who will operate them in the future.

SCHOOL VISITS HIGH ROCKS

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Damron and Tolby Bailey, teachers here, together with their eighty students, visited High Rocks Friday. It is a custom followed nearly every year by teachers of this school. The High Rocks, on a hill back of Bosco and standing high above the surrounding country, have many visitors each year. There is an atmosphere of days gone by about the rocks; dates and names chiseled on the surface of the rocks back in the '90's stand out plainly.

The teachers spent the day on and about the rocks. After luncheon, pictures were taken from the best vantage points.

LOSE TO MAYTOWN

The following persons visited Maytown Sunday to see a basketball game: George Bailey, Jr., Tolby Bailey, Beecher Allen, Claude and Bert Huff, and Mr. and Mrs. Damron, teachers.

The basketball team of the Maytown Consolidated High School were arrayed against a hastily formed team consisting of players gathered from Bosco, Garrett and Lackey. The "men-of-the-hour" team played well in the first part of the game, but were soon bettered by the Maytown team, who were in better playing condition.

41 AND A NEST EGG!

Evidently, hens of the Salt Lick country are bent on breaking the egg-laying record. Mrs. Martha Sexton, wife of Wm. Sexton, had been ill for awhile and unable to keep track of the hen's nests around her home. Sunday, some of her relatives were visiting her, and climbed into the barn loft looking for hens' nests; and a nest was located containing just 42 eggs!

GIRLS' AUXILIARY IN MASQUERADE

The masquerade given by the Girls' Auxiliary of the Baptist Church, October 21, was a decided success. The basement of the church was beautifully decorated, orange and black predominating. Little princesses, pickaninies and fair ladies, gypsies, knights and pirates bold were well represented.

Prizes were awarded the smaller folks for the best representation of their costume. Bill Dudley McHone was awarded the gentleman's prize as the boldest pirate there, and Ann Allen, representing the Fair Shepherdess, or Little Bo-Peep, received the lady's prize.

Games were indulged in until a late hour, after which refreshments were served.

The Girls' Auxiliary wishes to thank all who helped in any way to make this party a success. Come to our meetings, all girls attending the Baptist Sunday School, ages 10 to 18 years. We are planning great things for this winter.

THE PRESIDENT.

Part of a series of messages from South Central Bell.

What's going to happen to my phone service?

As of January 1, 1984, South Central Bell and other local Bell telephone companies will be separated from AT&T.

After divestiture, there will no longer be a Bell System as we know it today. But South Central Bell will still be your phone company. As part of a holding company called BellSouth, we'll continue to provide dependable service. For your home. And for your business.

Some things won't change.

Although there will be many changes, you'll notice very few unless you choose to change your existing home or business phone service. You'll still call on South Central Bell to order or change a phone line, to ask billing questions, to get local calling options and services and to obtain repair of phone lines. At the time of divestiture you'll still dial long distance calls the same way. And at first, you'll still get a single monthly bill.

Some things will change.

Even though you'll dial calls the same, using the South Central Bell local network, South Central Bell will actually provide only a portion of your in-state long distance service. For other in-state and out-of-state long distance calls you can choose a primary supplier of long distance service from a variety of companies.

As part of the many pricing changes brought about by competition and divestiture, local phone rates are likely to go up, and long distance rates will probably come down.

Phones you currently lease will become the property of AT&T (you'll lease from them) and they will be responsible for repair of those sets.

Responsibility for repair will be split between South Central Bell (for phone line problems) and equipment suppliers (for equipment and set problems).

There will be some changes in the way your monthly phone bill is set up.

Coping with change.

At South Central Bell we're continuing to do everything we can to make these changes as easy as possible for you. And nothing will change the high quality of service you've come to expect from us.

You'll be hearing more about specific changes and what they mean to you in other ads like this—and in your monthly phone bill insert. Meanwhile, if you have questions or want more information, return the coupon below. Or call on us at the Bell Answer Center, toll free 1 800 555-5000, 11 a.m. till midnight EST, Monday through Friday. We're still your phone company.

CALL ON US.

More Idle in October

The unemployment rate went up in 63 Kentucky counties in October as the state rate rose to 10.2 percent from 10.1 percent in September, according to figures released last week by the Cabinet for Human Resources. The county-by-county report showed a drop in the unemployment rate in 46 counties, while it remained unchanged in 11. There were 60 counties reporting rates of 10 percent or higher, compared to 57 in September. Rates ranged from a low of 3.7 percent in Woodford county to a high of 26.7 percent in Letcher county. Greenup county's 26.6 percent rate was second-highest.

Floyd county's stand at 18.9 percent, highest in five-county Big Sandy district. Despite the rise in unemployment, state labor market analyst Ed Blackwell said Kentucky's economy is continuing to improve. "More people are looking for jobs because employers are hiring again," he said. "In October, there were 20,600 more people looking for work, and 16,000 of those found jobs. That pushed our statewide employment over the 1.5 million mark for the first time since November of last year."

The unemployment rate in the Big

Sandy district was 16.6 percent in October, up from 16.5 percent in September. Martin county's 9.6 percent rate was the district's lowest and only single-digit rate. Pike was next high in unemployment to Floyd with 17.8 percent. Johnson had a percentage of 15.3, and Magoffin had 15.5.

The monthly sample of unemployment insurance benefits recipients showed 62.4 percent had worked in mining, 12.6 percent in trade, 8.3 percent in services and 7.8 percent in construction.

YENTL (MGM/UA — PG) ★ Starring Barbra Streisand, Mandy Patinkin, Amy Irving

By J.T. YURKO

Film courses in high school and college invariably discuss the transition that occurs when a novel is made into a film. It might have been a good idea if Barbra Streisand had attended one of these classes before trying to turn an Isaac Bashevis Singer short story into a motion picture. His story, a cute tale with a social message, has become a well-intended but preposterous movie.
Although Miss Streisand has wanted to make the film since she read Singer's story nearly 13 years ago, "Yentl" almost seems like an ethnic version of "Tootsie." Instead of a man dressing up as a woman, Miss Streisand passes herself off as a boy in order to be able to study at a yeshiva.
"Yentl" is set in turn-of-the-century Eastern Europe. Women are forbidden to study the Talmud, the books written by Jewish scholars interpreting the Bible. But Yentl (Miss Streisand), a rabbi's daughter, has secretly been able to learn much. After his death she crops her hair, straps up her chest and heads for school looking like a boy.

What follows is a ludicrous series of events worthy of a Mel Brooks farce. Miss Streisand falls in love. But the man she likes thinks she's a he. He's in love with another she.
Give Miss Streisand credit, however. She has made a decent movie musical, and that alone is an accomplishment. These aren't musical numbers per se; they're musical thought balloons of her emotions and feelings at that particular moment.
The film's photography, period costumes and settings (filmed on location in Czechoslovakia) are first-rate. Miss Streisand is the first woman in movie history to produce, direct, co-write and star in a single movie. Orson Welles she's not, although she has a predilection for sweeping camera dolly and crane shots.

Popcorn Video

By James Smethurst

"The Kids Are Alright," which airs Dec. 18 on MTV could have been one of the greatest rock movies of all time, but instead is mediocre. The film is a documentary of the career of the rock band, the Who, which in its prime was the most exciting live rock band in the world.

Unfortunately, you only get a few brief snatches of the band at its peak. These few moments come during film clips of the band during the 1960s on such TV programs as "Ready, Steady, Go," "The Smothers Brothers" and the legendary BBC "Rolling Stones Circus" special. These clips give you a sense of the power, wit and outrageousness of the Who at its best.

However, most of the movie is taken up by dull, inane interviews with the band members in 1979. These interviews are notable for their pointlessness — it's not easy as you think to say so much and communicate nothing. The rest of the movie consists of concert footage filmed specially for the film.

While some of this footage is entertaining, it must leave younger viewers wondering what all the noise was about in the first place. The movie would have been much better served if the producers had canned the more recent interviews and showed more old concerts and TV shows. Those interested in catching the spirit of the Who and the era they emerged from should watch "Quadrophenia" the next time it comes around.

It's bowl time again. ESPN airs the Holiday Bowl matchup between Brigham Young University and Missouri, live from San Diego on Dec. 23.

USA's "Night Flight" airs Robert Ashley's video opera "The Lessons" on Dec. 23. Viewers who don't care much for opera shouldn't be put off by this video. "The Lessons" has some of the funniest lines that are ever likely to be on television. The music is derived from many sources including pop, classical opera and modern music.

W. Va. tackles Kentucky in Fame Bowl Thursday

HALL OF FAME BOWL — The 1983 Hall of Fame Bowl will feature West Virginia's Mountaineers (8-3) vs. the Wildcats of Kentucky (6-4-1). The game, held at Legion Field in Montgomery, Ala., on Thursday, Dec. 22, will air on Superstation WTBS.
 The Turner Broadcasting System will telecast this year's Hall of Fame Bowl game, and will do so for the next two years.
 The matchup sounds as if it will be as exciting as last year's tilt in which the Air Force Academy defeated Vanderbilt 36-28 before a crowd of 75,408 fans. The large ticket sale ranked the Hall of Fame Bowl No. 5 in 1982 attendance among the 16 NCAA-approved bowls.
 Since the inaugural game in 1977, the Hall of Fame Bowl has featured such top players as Heisman Trophy winner George Rogers, Olympic sprinter and running back Curtis Hickey and placekicker Tony Franklin.
 Featured behind the TBS microphones will be its broadcasting team of Bob Neal and Tim Foley, who have brought the TBS cable fans college action all season. It is their second year together.

Neal is an old-timer as cable broadcasters go, having been with Turner Broadcasting since 1976, when he hosted and produced live sports shows.
 A journalism graduate of Northern Illinois University, Neal did football, basketball and hockey while studying for his masters in journalism at the University of Michigan, then moved on to telecast the University of Miami football games and later became the voice of the Atlanta Falcons.
 Tim Foley, the color man, was one of the Miami Dolphins' "No Name Defense" during the glory days in the 1970s. After playing 11 years as a defensive back, he went into broadcasting.
 While he was a "No Namer" in the pros, he certainly had a name at Purdue University, where he won All-America honors on the field, was named to the academic All-America and selected as the university's outstanding male graduate in 1970.
 Foley got his communications experience handling the color for the University of Miami football games and later doing the pre-season games of the Dolphins.

Sturgill Says Study Uncovers More Coal

Eastern Kentucky is richer in coal reserves than geologists had thought—by some 24 billion tons, says State Energy Secretary William B. Sturgill.

Sturgill, formerly of Prestonsburg, released most recent figures on coal reserves in a speech at Lees College, Jackson, recently.

The new study from which Sturgill quoted shows that Eastern Kentucky has 57 billion tons of coal yet unmined—not the 33 billion officially estimated in 1963.

The study, conducted over the past seven years by the Kentucky Geological Survey, provides the first definitive estimate of mountain coal reserves since 1963, when reserves were placed at slightly over 33 billion tons.

Sturgill said the higher figure improves the state's outlook for coal production and will focus new interest on electric energy production and the development of coal-based synthetic fuels.

"This new, higher resource estimate greatly improves Kentucky's long-term outlook for substantial coal production," Sturgill said.

He predicted that synthetic fuels will be produced in Kentucky by the end of the century.

"We're going to see a tightening up of the oil supply," he said after the speech. "There's more of an awareness today that has to do with energy."

The new reserve numbers "would be recognizable usable" if an unmined-minerals tax were enacted, Sturgill said. Nearly 25,000 coal thickness measurements were made during the $2 million study, one of the largest coal resource projects ever undertaken, he said in a prepared statement.

Release of the new figure came during Sturgill's speech at a symposium titled "The Next Hundred Years: Perceptions of the Future of Eastern Kentucky."

He delivered the keynote presentation along with Grady Stumbo, medical director of the East Kentucky Health Services Center and an unsuccessful gubernatorial candidate, and Al Smith, editor of The Sentinel-Echo in London and former co-director of the Appalachian Regional Commission.

Stumbo said that Eastern Kentucky's problems include an increasingly elderly population, the frustration of "being an area beginning to have high wants... and not prepared to meet those wants," and the loss of Eastern Kentuckians' ability to make their own economic decisions.

The decision-makers now, he said, are government officials and large energy conglomerates with headquarters elsewhere.

He said that Eastern Kentuckians have "a disproportionate leaning on government subsidies." In areas such as Leslie County, for example, as much as one-third of all food sales are paid for with food stamps, Stumbo said.

In government, Eastern Kentuckians "elect too few people who can see the potential within our reach," he said. "We don't join in. We work against each other."

Discussing the fragmentation of Eastern Kentucky's culture due to such influences as improved communications and a dependence of government financial support, Smith said that Eastern Kentuckians are beginning "to rid ourselves of this ridiculous idea of shame, that we are hillbillies and the rest of the world looks down on us."

"You can be educated, you can be sophisticated and you can be effective" without giving up Eastern Kentucky values, he said.

Tree Trimming Listed Tonight On Park's Christmas Program

A tree trimming in the Archer Park gymnasium tonight (Wednesday) will be one of various Christmas activities for children sponsored by the Archer Park commission this week.

Each child should bring at least one ornament for the tree trimming, which will begin at 7 p.m., said Myra Walker, park administrator. The Fitzpatrick First Baptist Youth Choir will perform and free refreshments will be provided. Children may visit Stanta's House and Playland in the arts and crafts building from 6 to 8 p.m. on Wednesday, Thursday or Friday. A Christmas Finale, set for 6 p.m. Saturday in the gymnasium, will include a Christmas skit, breaking of the pinata, story of Rudolph, free candy and other attractions.

Assisting park commissioners and staff in the week's activities are the Prestonsburg Junior Woman's Club, Teens Who Care, and area merchants and donors.

Abigail Fillmore, wife of President Millard Fillmore, arranged for the purchase of the first cooking stove in the White House. She also set up the first White House library.

During 75 Years on the Road . . .

School Bus Has Left Mark on the System

By LINDA ST. THOMAS
(Smithsonian News Service)

During its 75 years on the road, the school bus has grown up, changing from black to double-deep orange to bright yellow, from a wood-and-metal truck with hard rubber tires and even harder seats to a sleek, 66-passenger air-conditioned vehicle.

In its early days, it wasn't even a bus, but a motor-powered wagon and, before that, a 12-foot, horse-drawn wooden "kid's hack" with roll-up canvas sides.

The school bus, in turn, has been changing American education ever since 1869, when wagons first transported children from home to school in Quincy, Mass.

It has its own week, National School Bus Safety Week (this year's was Oct. 2-8), and a place of honor at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C., where a vintage 1939 school bus recently joined the National Museum of American History collections.

There are more school buses than any other kind of bus on the road. The 432,813 school buses registered in 1981 were 80 percent of the total number of buses (543,894) in the nation, according to Federal Highway Administration statistics.

In the 1980-1981 school year, 56 percent of the 38 million American public school children took buses, up from 46 percent a decade before. Although enrollment in public schools and the number of schools are dwindling, the percentage of children riding buses is increasing. Among the reasons are neighborhood school closings, caused by declining enrollments and the accompanying consolidation of children in more distant schools; busing to achieve racial equality in schools, and busing to transport children across highways and congested suburban and urban streets.

The Smithsonian's 1939 vehicle is significant, Roger White of the museum's Division of Transportation says, because it is typical of the early all-steel buses with shatterproof glass first introduced in the 1930s. The 36-passenger bus, painted "Omaha" orange (the modern equivalent of the older double-deep) and now restored to running condition, has its original Dodge chassis and body built by Carpenter Body Works Inc., of Mitchell, Ind.

For nine years it was owned by Russell Bishop, a farmer who contracted with the Washington County, Ind., school district to transport children to and from the Martinsburg grade school. In the late 1940s, it was sold to a local grocer, Lester Jones, who used it for 14 years as a peddler's wagon, serving houses for 50 miles around.

Jones converted his bus into a rolling grocery store by removing the seats and adding shelves. Many a farmer-driver of that period would simply replace the body of a bus with a wooden platform when the school year ended to haul hay and other materials all summer. In September, it would, like Cinderella's pumpkin, become a coach once again.

Jones became ill in 1962 and the bus, still loaded with groceries, was relegated to his backyard. There it sat until 1980, when Carpenter Body repurchased the bus and began to restore it before donating it to the Smithsonian. The year-long restoration depended on the memories of the employees who built the original because company records of the 1930s had been destroyed in a fire.

The steel bus, which revolutionized public school transport, came about because school boards and parents began demanding safer vehicles than the wood and later wood-and-metal bus that easily smashed or caught fire in collisions. The manufacturers' response was an all-steel vehicle with sturdier body, emergency doors and, later, hydraulic brakes, spring cushion seats and larger windows for better visibility.

"Of course, school buses, made of whatever materials, had already made their mark on the American educational system," the Smithsonian's White says, beginning with the first day children left their farmhouses and, rather than walking to a one-room school, boarded horse-drawn wagons that took them to a larger school with better facilities.

Logically enough, school transportation originated in Midwestern and New England states where road-building materials such as gravel were plentiful, and, consequently, primary and secondary road systems able to accommodate large vehicles were developed. The first motorized school "truck," a Model T wooden truck with rows of benches inside, was built about 1909. Like earlier school wagons, the factory-made buses had rear doors which the driver opened with a pull cord. Most carried 24 to 30 students, about twice as many as the wagons.

Paved roads and motorized school buses inevitably led to the construction of many consolidated elementary and high schools. By the early 1920s, school districts had their own bus systems, and farm families were proud to send their children to schools with more teachers and better equipment.

At the same time, White points out, school buses were breaking up the sense of community in rural America by taking children away from the small, neighborhood schools.

However, the idea of transporting children from their neighborhood schools became a volatile issue with the introduction of busing to achieve school integration. For years, in some areas buses had been used exclusively to transport white students to white schools. In some southern school districts, buses occasionally were used to perpetuate segregation by transporting black students as far as 50 miles so that they could attend all-black schools.

In 1970, in Charlotte, N.C., and Richmond, Va., after 16 years of slow desegregation following the U.S. Supreme Court's Brown vs. Topeka Board of Education (separate is not equal) decision, court-ordered busing began. Violence, sometimes directed at the bus passengers and the vehicles themselves, broke out in Boston, in Pontiac, Mich., and in other cities around the country.

The demonstrations are as much a part of American history as the buses themselves, and so White set out to collect a "memento" from that turbulent era. He called three companies in Boston with contracts for school bus service in the '70s and found one firm, Auto Bus Inc., that still had some broken windows from the company's 1974 fleet of 56 General Motors' buses. The rear window of one bus, damaged in South Boston by white students protesting the enrollment of blacks at their high school, is now part of the Museum of American History collections.

In the years since the busing controversy peaked, the demand for buses has increased about 19 percent and the buses themselves have changed dramatically. Federal safety standards that went into effect in 1977 required new buses to meet stricter standards in eight areas: emergency exits, interior protection, floor systems, seating, crash worthiness, vehicle operating systems, windows and fuel systems.

The greatest change, says pupil transportation specialist David H. Soule at the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, involves the seats. "They are more heavily padded and taller than public bus seats," Soule says, "and their frames are energy-absorbing so they will bend but not collapse on impact."

Riding to school is safer in these new buses, Soule adds, but there's still work to be done to make it safer in the '80s. "I'd like to see a nationwide school bus stop law and more student-rider and driver-training programs," he says.

Yet riding a school bus is a lot safer than other kinds of road travel. The fatality rate for school buses in 1981, for example, was .4 deaths per 100 million miles, compared with 27.1 for motorcycles, 2.4 for passenger cars and .9 for other buses.

There are some who would say that a school bus is only as good as its driver. Driver error, in fact, has been cited by many states as the major cause of school-bus accidents, accounting in recent years, for 79 percent of school-bus accidents in Iowa to 56 percent in New Mexico to 55 percent in Maryland. Extracurricular activity buses, often driven by substitute drivers unfamiliar with vehicle, routes and regulations, tend to be involved in a disproportionate number of the accidents resulting in deaths, the statistics say. Standards for hiring and training drivers still vary from one state to another, but the driver selection process has come a long way since the 1950s, when untrained farmers and high school students supplemented their income by driving school buses part time.

One driver who took his job very seriously is Paul Boehmer of the Sauk Prairie School District in Wisconsin. He started his first route in 1936 with a 24-seat bus that cost him $2,000, making his final 80-mile run in June 1983 with a $24,000 bus. In his 46 years of school bus driving he never had an accident. While he's looking forward to some well-earned leisure time, Boehmer admits that "missing the children will be the hardest part of my retirement."

Falling Tree Injures Floyd Postal Worker

By KATIE NEWSOME

During the rainstorm and high winds that swept through the area last Tuesday, Mrs. Wanda Carroll, a U.S. postal worker, narrowly escaped serious injury when a tree fell onto her mail van.

Driving her regular mail route, Mrs. Carroll had just entered Wheelwright when the 60-foot tree gave way and fell across the highway, hitting the top back of the van.

"I thought it was an explosion—the noise was so loud and everything shook," Mrs. Carroll said later. "I looked around for fire. I knew I had to get out of the van, but the doors were jammed shut from the impact of the tree. I crawled over the mailbags and got out the back and started to run... I lost consciousness and I can't remember much. I'll always be thankful to the good people that lived across the road and came to help me."

Residents in the area reported seeing the tree fall, called for medical assistance and ran to help the mail carrier. Larry Ray and Miss Brenda Slone stayed with and cared for Mrs. Carroll until the arrival of the Left Beaver Rescue Squad. She was transported to the McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital and treated for a sprained shoulder and several bruises.

A resident of Grethel, Mrs. Carroll returned to work later in the week.

And the mail did get through. Wheelwright Postmistress Elizabeth Wilson stayed with the van until a relief mail carrier came to complete the mail run.

Strong growth in employment is projected during the next decade in such industries as medical care, business services, and professional services, according to new projections published by the Bureau of Labor Statistics in the November Monthly Labor Review.

Farmers Need To Be Better Businessmen

Successful farming is tied to sound financial guidance and information. Many of the problems in farm financial management can be traced to a lack of knowledge and information by farmers and lenders, according to agricultural economist Dr. Don Shurley.

Shurley, a University of Kentucky Extension specialist in farm management, says an examination of farmer and lender roles in credit use is crucial to an understanding of farm management decision-making. "Teamwork between farmer and lender is an essential ingredient necessary for the farm business to profit and grow."

The issue of farmer and lender roles and relationships has received little media attention in the past, primarily due to its obvious sensitivity, said Shurley. "I approach the issue with the feeling that positive interaction between the farmer and lender will be mutually beneficial to both parties."

Even though lenders in general "are not particularly knowledgeable in areas of agricultural production and marketing," Shurley says there is little doubt that lenders have and will continue to play a dominant role in farming.

"Specifically, lenders and lending policies may play a role in the magnitude to which individual businesses succeed or fail," he said, noting that there has been much concern over what degree farmers and lenders are responsible for the outcomes of financial decisions.

Says Shurley, "The ultimate decision belongs to the farmer and the responsibility for the subsequent outcome of a risky decision is his alone." He adds, "This seems plausible, however, only under conditions of perfect knowledge by both parties."

The economist would like to see farmers do more of their own thinking in financial matters and become less dependent on the lender as a financial manager, viewing the lender more as a credit provider and consultant.

"If this is to be accomplished, farmers will need to become better business educated and learn to analyze records for planning purposes rather than simply keeping records for tax purposes or some other superficial reason," suggests Shurley.

Also, when loans are approved on the basis of business solvency rather than liquidity, the consequences or reasoning behind such an approach are not always fully disclosed to the farm borrower, he said. "This leaves the borrower to believe he is in better financial condition than may actually exist."

Since farm businesses rely increasingly on debt financing to acquire operating inputs and capital assets used in production, Shurley says many lenders need to improve their loan evaluation skills and policies as well as their understanding of ag production and marketing.

Shurley says that more knowledgeable farmers and lenders will lead to better farmer-lender relations which ultimately will lead to improved financial management skills and the sound use of credit by farmers. "A farmer needs to know why a lender makes the credit decision he does. Equally important is for the lender to understand the unique business of farming."

In evaluating a loan request, Shurley says the lender should analyze the strong and weak points of the farm business. By knowing which factors are important in loan analysis, farmers can work to improve the weaker areas and help sell the lender on the strong points.

Evaluation of the following factors is basic to the understanding of lending practices, according to the specialist: Managerial capabilities. "The human factor cannot be ignored in analyzing a loan request," said Shurley. A farmer's management ability is an indication of his ability to perform under various economic conditions, he added.

Financial position and progress. The farm business must be reasonably solvent—have a comfortable net worth position. The business should also show net worth growth over the years—growth due to earnings, not asset value appreciation, Shurley said.

Repayment ability. "A profitable business must repay its debts. Debt loans must be in line with the earnings ability of the farm business," he explained.

Purpose of the loan. The objective of any loan should be to increase profit, observed Shurley. A profitable loan should not jeopardize the net worth of the business although temporary cash flow problems may occur, he concluded.

The following related publications, written by Shurley, are available through county agricultural Extension offices: "Debt Repayment, Borrowing Capacity, and Financial Stability," AEC-14; "Working With Your Lender," AEC-17; and "Avoiding Farm Financial Problems," AEC-22.

New In-Home Care Funded For Area

Big Sandy Area Development District has recently contracted with CHR for funds from the Health Care Financial Administration, funded by Medicaid dollars, for a new pilot demonstration program entitled Preventacare.

Big Sandy Area Development District is based in Prestonsburg, and serves five counties encompassing Johnson, Martin, Magoffin, Floyd, and Pike. Preventacare has two main functions. First is to train Aid to Families with Dependent Children recipients as homemaker/home health aides. Second is to provide homemaker/home health aide services to those elderly and disabled individuals who would otherwise require institutionalization due to impairment, if these services were not available.

The Preventacare project proposes to train 500 AFDC recipients statewide over a three-year period beginning January 1, to subsidize their employment for 12 months. These aides will serve approximately 5,000 clients during the same three year period.

Some of the services that the aides will be providing are meal preparation, getting in/out of bed, dressing, light housework, laundry, shopping, and taking medicine. Clients who would be eligible for these services must not be able to do these tasks by themselves. Eligibility requirements do not hinge on age or income levels.

The training and employment of the aides is voluntary. To be eligible, potential trainees must have been AFDC recipients for the previous 90 days and not employed as aides during that time.

Aides that have been chosen for the initial training session began December 12 at Mayo State Vocational School. Training will last for seven weeks. The training period is followed by a year of subsidized full-time employment, during which Medicaid coverage continues, wages levels comparable to those received by non-project aides are paid and work-related support services are provided.

Since Preventacare is a demonstration project, 50% of all eligible recipients will receive the benefits. This enables the Commonwealth of Kentucky to compare the two different groups at the end of the study, thus determining if the project should become permanent.

Kentucky has identified the need to expand its community-based in-home services to meet the needs of its citizens. The results of this demonstration project will provide the data to show the degree to which the delivery of this care is successful and cost effective.

For more information about Preventacare, or to make a referral contact Margaret Pelfrey, Preventacare Assessor, Big Sandy ADD, Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653, 886-9402.

It is said to be a sign of good luck to find a white button.

Blast at Ice Cream Plant Sparks Blaze in Houston

HOUSTON—An explosion at an ice cream warehouse yesterday morning sent a stinging cloud of ammonia over part of downtown Houston and sparked a two-alarm fire at the warehouse, officials said.

The 9:07 a.m. explosion came soon after authorities received word that ammonia was leaking at the Borden's Ice Cream warehouse. The blast blew holes in the brick walls and broke windows in some nearby buildings. Fire spread throughout the warehouse and was still smoldering three hours later.

Ed Hauck, a district fire chief, said 16 firefighters were headed toward the door when "...the whole building blew out. If we'd been a minute later, it would have blown everybody that went in to bits."

A strong easterly breeze blew the cloud from the warehouse over a freeway, but there appeared to be no danger, officials said.

Since 1923 Kentuckians have been helped through the rehabilitation services of the Kentucky Easter Seal Society. In 1983 over 15,500 Kentuckians were served by Easter Seals.

Lawrence Sheriff Indicted

By LEE MUELLER
(In The Lexington-Herald)

LOUISA—Lawrence County Sheriff Leonard Adams, Jr. was named yesterday (Friday), in a 43-count grand jury indictment stemming from an October state audit report.

Adams was charged with 15 counts of theft by failure to make required disposition of about $94,000 worth of tax money collected by the sheriff's office, a Class D felony.

The same indictments were also cited to charge him with 15 counts of first-degree official misconduct, a misdemeanor, and 13 counts of commingling public and private funds.

Penalties for the latter charge include removal from office.

Adams, 42, pleaded not guilty to the charges in an arraignment before Lawrence Circuit Judge W.B. Hazelrigg yesterday afternoon.

Hazelrigg, who is retiring, said the new judge, Stephen Frazier, probably would set a trial date for Adams on Jan. 13.

"I cannot give you a statement on this," said Adams, leaving through the 19-page indictment in his office. "It sounds more like civil charges than anything, if this is true."

Nevertheless, the charges did not come as a surprise, Adams said. He said Lawrence Judge-Executive Ray Williams had told him three times he could either resign or be indicted.

But Williams said Adams "over-stated" the case a little.

Lawrence Fiscal Court gave the sheriff 30 days to repay the $94,085 that auditors said he owed the state in taxes as of Sept. 30, Williams said, which Adams has not done. The sheriff still owes $48,000 plus interest and penalties, Williams said.

And until Adams' tax liabilities are resolved, he said, the state won't permit the sheriff to collect the county's $1 million in property taxes—about $250,000 of which goes into fiscal court's coffers.

"He didn't give us any choice," said Williams, but he stresses it was a private citizen, not fiscal court, who brought the grand jury into the picture.

Williams said the two state officials who testified before the grand jury were summoned by an unemployed "county workhand."

Mine Operators Must Submit Pond Designs
All coal-mine operators having Priority III and IV transitioning permits must submit sediment pond designs and related compliance data to state Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement regional offices on or before December 19, Natural Resources Secretary Jackie Swigart announced last Thursday.
Regional offices of the state department are located in Grayson, Jackson, London, Madisonville, Middlesboro, Pikeville, and Prestonsburg, Swigart said.
Priority III and IV permits are identified by code numbers which begin with the letters C, D and L, M and N. These permits also have code numbers which end in the letters X, N or P. "This submission date doesn't apply to mining operators who have already submitted the required designs and compliance data," Swigart explained.
"Pond designs and compliance data must be submitted in accordance with those methods approved by the department," she cautioned. She advised mine operators to "review the department's Technical Reclamation Memorandum, Number 13 for a description of approved methods, available in the regional offices."
"All other information and data required in Priority III and IV transitioning permit applications must also be completed and submitted to the regional offices on or before December 19, if this information has not already been submitted," Swigart said.
Failure to submit the required information could result in the cessation of active mining operations or the denial of future comprehensive mining permits, state permitting officials said.
Mine operators who are receiving assistance from the state's Small Operators' Assistance Program must submit geological and water data prepared by approved state contractors as well as pond designs and compliance data within ten working days after the approved reports have been provided to operators by the Small Operators Assistance Program.
For information on the December 19 submission date, contact the nearest office of the Kentucky Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement's Division of Field Services, or the Frankfort offices of the Division of Permits on the 6th Floor of the Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Ky. 40601, telephone (502) 564-2320.

Except for criminal charges, the indictment nearly mirrored an Oct. 18 audit report by state auditor James B. Graham to Gov. John Y. Brown Jr. The grand jury and the sheriff:

—Unlawfully commingled public and private funds on Feb. 25, 1982 by depositing a check on the sheriff's tax account payable to the People's Security Bank in the amount of $6,000, some of which was used for repayment of a personal note "and then deposited in the sheriff's personal account."

—Unlawfully commingled public and private funds on Jan. 11, 1982 "by borrowing $5,000 in his official capacity as sheriff from People's Security Bank of Louisa, depositing $4,000 in the official account and taking the remaining $1,000 in cash."

—Committed official misconduct when on July, 1982, "he knowingly committed an act relating to his office which constituted an unauthorized exercise of his official function" by using $10,696 in state advancement payments to pay off personal loans and interest.

The indictment charges Adams committed theft by failure to make required disposition of property:

—In 1982 when he paid himself $28,387 when, because of a shortage in his account, he was not entitled to any salary that year.

—When he paid himself $2,200 on Oct. 30, 1982 in addition to the $28,387.

—When he paid himself a salary of $13,913 between Jan. 1, 1983, and Sept. 30 although, because of the shortage in his accounts, he was entitled to receive only $1,87.

—And when he paid former Sheriff David Compton $2,000 on April 17 this year from the tax account in repayment of a personal loan.

Seniors Get Deed to Center

By KATIE NEWSOME

After five years of operation, the Wheelwright Senior Citizens have a free and clear title to their Center building.

In September, 1979 Kentucky Housing Corporation bought the building occupied by the Seniors from Mountain Investment Corp. Last month KHC conveyed title of the property to the Wheelwright Senior Citizens.

The Center first opened its doors to serve the elderly on March 14, 1978. The organization is funded through the federal Older Americans Act and is operated under the supervision of the Sandy Valley Senior Citizens. Financial support for some Center personnel is provided by the Floyd County Fiscal Court and the Community Action Program.

The Seniors have easy access to stores, post office, restaurants, and medical facilities. An average of 25-30 Seniors visit and use the services of the Center daily.

The Wheelwright Center serves the upper Left Beaver Creek area and their bus will pick up any Senior who wants to participate in any of the activities or visit the Center. The bus has scheduled runs to Weeksbury, Melvin, Bypro, Wheelwright, Bevinville, Halo, Buckingham, Hi Hat, Price and Ligon.

Before the Center was established at Wheelwright, many of the Seniors were transported to, and used the services of, the Prestonsburg and Martin Centers. Anyone interested in the Program should contact the Center nearest them: Wheelwright, Mrs. Lois Curry, director, 452-2179; Martin, Mrs. Dee Burchett, director, 285-9573; Prestonsburg, Mrs. Patsy Evans, director, 886-6855.

A Christmas Card To My Friends

I want to tell you why I can't mail cards to my friends. My brother, Kelly Clemons, is real sick with cancer and I spend all my spare time helping take care of him in Beathitt county. So this is my greeting to you all.

Christmas wishes across the miles; being close is not a matter of miles but of the mind. How easily thoughts cross the miles between those close at heart, realizing when you care in truth you are not far apart. Just a little note to say I care and to say hello. Just little things perhaps; and yet, as seasons come and go, how enriched our lives become simply to discover joy is there just waiting for those who reach out to each other. God bless you all, a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year.

FIRING THE BALL for the Betsy Layne Lady Bobcats in Thursday night's game against Wheelwright, is Chris Gross (No. 25). The Lady Trojans beat out Betsy Layne and were eliminated from last week's pre-season tournament only after an exciting championship game against tourney winner Allen Central.

New Bass Size Limit For Two State Lakes

Bass fishermen at both Kentucky and Barkley lakes will be observing a new and certainly different—size limit sometime next year.

At its Dec. 5 meeting, the Fish and Wildlife Commission approved a regulation calling for a "14-1" bass size limit on both Kentucky and Barkley lakes. Under the provisions of the regulation, the minimum size limit would be 14 inches, but a fisherman would be allowed to keep one fish under the minimum size.

It will take at least one month, and possibly longer, for this proposed regulation to become law.

The commission's action came as a response to a public hearing on a proposed increase of the bass size limit on Kentucky Lake to 15 inches. The majority of those commenting on this proposed change felt that both Barkley and Kentucky lakes should be included in any size limit change, and many felt that a straight 15 inch limit was too restrictive.

The "14-1" limit was proposed by First District Commissioner Sol Fritz, who said that this system will allow the youngster catching his first fish to keep it, even if it is an undersized bass.

This limit, Fritz said, would also allow for some harvest of smallmouth and Kentucky bass. These two species grow slower than largemouth bass, and biologists maintained that a 15-inch limit would virtually preclude the harvest of smallmouth and Kentucky bass.

Fritz also said that he felt there was not enough public support for a "slot" limit on these lakes. The Division of Fisheries had originally recommended a 12-15 inch slot limit for Kentucky Lake.

Under this slot limit, anglers would have been allowed to keep bass up to 12 inches and those over 15 inches but would be required to return all bass between 12 and 15 inches.

MSU Plans Summer Arts Celebration

Experience the arts during a two-week family vacation in the beautiful Daniel Boone National Forest. Be part of the first Academy of Arts Summer Celebration at Morehead State University.

"The celebration is for everyone—all ages, levels of ability and interest—who wants to experience the arts," said Milford Kuhn, executive director of the Celebration and associate professor of music at MSU. "Whether you want to study with, observe or listen to artists, there will be something for you."

The celebration is an outgrowth of the Academy of Performing Arts, which has brought courses and private instruction at reasonable prices to Eastern Kentucky during the past few months.

During the celebration, scheduled July 8-20, there will be concerts, recitals, art exhibits and demonstrations, theatrical productions and workshops, as well as private and group arts instruction.

"But participants won't be locked into just the celebration activities," explains Kuhn. "While here, they can participate in other things happening on campus, like the other computer, NCAA youth sports, or other camps."

The entire family can stay in one of MSU's residence halls at inexpensive rates, or camp in the Forest or at nearby Cave Run Lake.

The celebration will be produced by artists who are MSU faculty members.

For a complete list of courses and activities available, as well as registration information, contact Kuhn at MSU, UPB 1368, Morehead, Ky. 40351.

Allen Central, Betsy Layne In Pre-Season Win

By LAURA COOLEY

The Floyd County Pre-Season Tournament was held here this past weekend with the boys championship claimed by Betsy Layne and the girls championship won by Allen Central.

In girls action Friday night, the Allen Central Lady Rebs defeated the Prestonsburg Lady Cats by the score of 61-58. Both teams were excellent, but the Lady Cats had foul trouble in the second half and lost their edge over the Rebs.

In boys action, the Prestonsburg Blackcats defeated the Allen Central Rebels by the score of 76-63. It was a relatively easy game for the Cats and both teams were in good form.

In the championship games, the Allen Central Lady Rebs defeated the Wheelwright Lady Trojans by the score of 53-47. Both teams played tough, and stayed within points of each other throughout, but in the end the Lady Rebs came out on top.

Without a doubt the most exciting game of the tourney was the boys championship game between the Prestonsburg Blackcats and the Betsy Layne Bobcats. Tensions were high throughout the game and the final outcome of the game was decided in the last seconds of the game.

With 5 seconds left on the clock, Jeff Campbell was fouled and made both shots, making the score 56-55, Bobcats ahead. Seconds later, the Cats had the ball, but missed the shot and the Bobcats won 56-55.

In the trophy ceremonies after each game, Mia Jones of Wheelwright received the individual free throw trophy and the Wheelwright trojans won the team free throw trophy. The Prestonsburg girls varsity won the cheerleading trophy.

In the boys' presentation, Todd Nairn of Prestonsburg won the individual free throw trophy and Prestonsburg won the team free throw trophy. Prestonsburg also won the cheerleading trophy.

Allen Grade Football Team, Floyd County Champs

Unmined-Minerals Tax Could Net State Millions

(From The Legislative Record)

A proposed tax on unmined minerals would net the state millions of dollars in additional revenue over the next biennium, a legislative panel heard recently.

The unmined-minerals tax was one of several revenue "enhancements" looked at by the Interim Joint Committee on Appropriations and Revenue, which is seeking to cope with further projected shortfalls in the state budget.

A committee staff report said that at the current property-tax rate, an unmined-minerals tax could yield $17.3 million yearly in new state revenues. Counties could get another $14.1 million and local school districts $14.7 million annually from the tax.

The estimated assessed value of unmined coal in Kentucky is $8.2 billion.

The report outlined several methods for administering the tax which is currently imposed by several surrounding states, including coal-rich West Virginia.

A "billion-dollar shopping list" of other ideas to replenish the state's coffers includes slight increases in cigarette and coal severance taxes; a new surtax on personal and corporate incomes; and changes in sales and use taxes to raise rates and/or disallow current exemptions for food, utilities, prescription drugs, farm machinery, and certain other items.

The ideas were proposed as the panel heard there may not be enough money to keep the next state budget balanced.

State Budget Director Merle Hackbart stopped short of saying the state would start the next biennium in the red, but indicated that new spending certainly wouldn't be possible under current revenue constraints.

Community Methodist 30th Anniversary

The Community Methodist Church recently observed its 30th anniversary with Homecoming service at which Dr. Harold W. Dorsey, Lexington District Superintendent and former Pastor of the First United Methodist Church, here, was guest speaker. Groundbreaking for the church was held in May, 1949, and the first service in the church was held in January, 1950.

CHURCHWOMEN MEET

In a sense, the meeting held by the Local Churchwomen at the Mary and W.J. May Memorial parlor of the First United Methodist Church, last Friday morning was an anniversary celebration—for it was one year ago, this December, that plans for the food pantry made by members of this group, in cooperation with those of the Prestonsburg Ministerial Association, first got under way. The greater part of Friday's meeting was devoted to the discussion of the progress of this endeavor.

Headquarters for this project are at the Senior Citizens' Center, and the title, "Loaves and Fishes Food Pantry" has been chosen. Recipients, other than in cases of emergency, are to be referred for help by the local churches, or other organizations.

With Mrs. Vera Ford, first vice president, presiding in the absence of Mrs. Eva Collins, president, it was announced that several personal and church donations had been made for this cause, and it was stressed that more food and money will be needed. A refrigerator (new or used) would be welcomed for perishable foods.

Credit was given to Mrs. Carolyn Ford, for the "Advent" articles that have recently been published in the Floyd County Times.

Present to hear the "good tidings" about the year's work toward the establishment of a food pantry for the poor and needy of this area, were Mesdames Vera Ford, Garnett Fairchild, Docia Woods, Eleanor Robinson, Mabel Brown, Lucy Regan, and Elma Jessen. The Rev. Timothy Jessen, president of the Prestonsburg Ministerial Association, was a guest. Refreshments were served by the host church.

Sgt. Amburgy Receives Medal

Sergeant First Class Charles Amburgy, a Maytown native, was honored recently after serving as an instructor in the areas of oral communications, personnel administration and personnel management while assigned to the Academy of Health Sciences, Fort Sam Houston, Texas. Photo shows him being presented the Meritorious Service Medal. The citation reads, in part: "His primary concern was for the students and he spent numerous hours counseling and tutoring while presenting quality lectures in nineteen subject areas. His exemplary performance reflects great credit upon himself, the Academy and the United States Army." Sgt. Amburgy is currently assigned to the Readiness Group Atlanta, Fort Gillem, Georgia where he has the task of assisting Army Reserve units in the state of Georgia. He is a grandson of Mrs. Sarah Allen, of Langley (Maytown), and the late U.S. Allen.

31-Year-Old Gives Birth To Quints In Connecticut

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—A woman who had used fertility drugs gave birth to quintuplets Saturday at Yale-New Haven Hospital, where doctors said the children were "vigorous and active at birth."

The infants—three boys and two girls—ranged in weight from 1 pound, 10 ounces, to 1 pound, 15 ounces. They were in guarded condition.

The mother, 31-year-old Diane Kirchner of Branford, was in good condition after the delivery by Caesarean section.

Conservation News

A wide selection of film and color slide presentations are available through the Floyd County Conservation District. These films and slides deal with the conservation of natural resources. The district conservationist, Clark Allison, will be glad to give presentations on conservation topics during both day and evening hours. Schools, civic groups, and churches are encouraged to take advantage of this service.

The local conservation district believes that good stewardship of our natural resources, especially soil and water, is vital for the future of our nation and our world. The availability of clean water and fertile soil is necessary to keep the standard of living we have. However, the citizens of the United States have not always used soil and water resources wisely. Since white man first came to the New World it is estimated that we have lost up to one third of our top soil through erosion.

Today an estimated 320 acres of farmland per hour is being converted to roads, houses, parking lots and other non agricultural uses. The erosion and conversion of farmland may one day make the energy crisis look small in comparison. Floyd County residents should also be concerned about water quality. Water pollution from sediment, chemicals, and sewage directly affects the cost of treatment that is reflected in our water bills. Sediment flows into our reservoirs and shortens the productive life of flood structures such as Dewey Lake.

We are all paying a price, both now and in the future, for the misuse of our soil and water resources. This is an issue that all should be informed about. Call now to set up a presentation for your group in the near future. The local district phone is 886-3128.

Happy 2nd Anniversary, Eddie and Recilla. Love, Dad, Mom, and Ritchie

Clean Garden Tools Before Winter Storage

Gardeners may be relieved that it's time to put away their tools for the year. But don't just set your tools in the garage, basement or pump house. Before putting your tools away it is a good time to get them in readiness for next Spring. A few simple steps will eliminate a lot of unhappiness when you begin to use these same tools again.

Replace all broken or cracked handles on hoes, rakes, spades, etc.

Sharpen all tools to readiness for use. Use a file and follow the original shape of the edge. Most hoes and spades are sharpened on both sides and should be filed on both sides. If your pruning knife or shears are on one side only, make sure to sharpen only that side.

Remove all dirt and rust before storage.

Treat bare wood handles or handles on which the original finish has worn off with linseed oil.

Roto-tillers and lawnmowers require routine maintenance in the winter. Follow manufacturer's instructions for storage. However, if you have lost your instruction sheets you should drain the gas out of the tank, start the motor and let it run until all the gasoline has emptied from the carburetor. Remove the spark plug. Place a few drops of light weight oil inside the piston cylinder, and replace the plug. Now is also a good time to sharpen the tines of the tiller and the blade of the lawnmower. New spark-plugs may be added when you begin spring use of mowers and tillers.

Drain all water from hoses before you take them inside and don't forget to turn off all outside water faucets. Drain outside pipes and insulate for winter.

Nat'l Forests Share Receipts With States

Forty states and Puerto Rico have received a total of more than $193 million as their share of national forest receipts for fiscal year 1983 according to a recent announcement by Assistant Secretary of Agriculture John B. Crowell, Jr.

The payments represent 25 percent of the revenues collected by the Forest Service from timber sales, grazing, recreation, mineral and other land uses on the 191 million acres of national forest system land. Credits made to timber purchasers for building roads and funds collected and used by the Forest Service to improve timber sale areas are included. Total national forest receipts for fiscal year 1983 were $771 million.

By law, 25 percent of these revenues are returned annually to the states in which national forests are located. The funds are to be used for schools and roads.

Forest Supervisor Richard H. Wengert, Daniel Boone National Forest, Winchester, has announced that Kentucky's share of the revenues amounted to $294,946.43. In Kentucky, the Daniel Boone National Forest contains about 672,000 acres located in 21 eastern Kentucky counties. The Jefferson National Forest, most of which is located in Virginia, has 961 acres in Letcher and Pike counties.

The payment to counties in but one of many benefits derived from the presence of national forests. Such additional benefits include: Forest Service roads and trails, recreational developments, aesthetics, watershed protection, wildlife, employment of local residents; and fire protection on the federal lands indirectly protecting the adjacent private land.

Advent Candle Number Four

The Candle of Love

This Candle speaks for itself.

Love—The most beautiful work in the English language. Taken from context, "Love suffers long and is kind." What greater joy can we have this Advent Season than the joy of knowing that in spite of all our shortcomings, God loves us.

What greater hope for our future than the knowledge that God gave his only Son, out of love for us. Can you imagine this only Son—I have an only Son—do you? Could we sacrifice them to show our love for God.

How great it would be if the next contagious disease discovered by science was that of love—love for our neighbors both near and far.

Hello Friends & Neighbors:

Thanks to you, we're rapidly approaching our goal of becoming the number 1 Datsun dealer in our region which includes dealers from Ohio, Kentucky and West Virginia.

Since assuming control in August of 1983, we've risen from dead last to number 3 in the region in less than 5 months with your help. Business has increased 700% to 800% per month because you took advantage of our low prices, generous trade-in allowances, on the spot low bank rate financing (buy today and drive it home immediately), lowest possible leasing rates, an excellent service and parts department, and of course, Datsun quality, workmanship and integrity.

At times, because your response was so great to those things, there was a shortage of new cars and trucks.

Now, because of our record sales pace, Pike - Floyd Motors has been allocated extra 1984 cars and trucks for our biggest sale ever!

You could shop Lexington, Louisville, Cincinnati or Columbus, but no one, absolutely no one has our selection and I personally vow that no one will beat our price! Now is the opportune time for you to save as never before!

We at Pike - Floyd Motors full well understand that you work long and hard hours for your dollars and want only the best possible buy at the lowest price. You bet that we respect that.

Thank you for the privilege of letting us serve you and also for placing your trust in us.

Your friend & neighbor,
Claude Maynard

Alice Lloyd and Bellarmine Announce Plans for Nurse Degree

Two of Kentucky's independent colleges, Alice Lloyd, of Pippa Passes, and Bellarmine, of Louisville, officially announced last week a unique venture to expand nursing education in southeastern Kentucky.

Bellarmine will begin offering its Bachelor of Science in Nursing (BSN) degree program on the Alice Lloyd College campus, beginning in January, 1984. Faculty members from the Lansing School of Nursing at Bellarmine will travel to Pippa Passes to conduct the professional nursing classes at various times throughout the academic year. The general education, elective, and support courses will be taught by Alice Lloyd College faculty members. Clinical experiences will be arranged at health care facilities in the southeastern Kentucky region. All students accepted into the program will already be practicing registered nurses with either an associate degree from a community college or a diploma from a hospital-based school of nursing.

Formal announcement of the project was made jointly by Dr. Jerry C. Davis, president of Alice Lloyd College, and Dr. Eugene V. Petrik, president of Bellarmine College, at a press conference.

Registered nurses interested in applying for admission to this program should contact either Ann E. Kleine-Kracht, dean of the Lansing School of Nursing at Bellarmine College, or Dr. Wallace Campbell, academic vice president at Alice Lloyd College.

On New Year's Day, 1907, Theodore Roosevelt shook hands with 8,513 people.
