

Solid Waste Is Target KSP Probe

A Kentucky State Police special investigations unit, which has been probing alleged irregularities in county finances, has turned its attention to the county's solid waste agency, Bob McAninch, chairman of the agency board, told board members last week.

At the same time, a newly-seated board member had questions of his own about some operations of the financially-troubled agency.

McAninch said police had asked for all the agency's records and a list of all board members since its inception. Investigation of fiscal court transactions, including some involving monies intended for the solid waste agency, is said to have focussed on 1982 records.

"To my knowledge there is nothing any member of this board has to worry about," said McAninch, who nevertheless advised his colleagues to become informed about the legal liability of board members of non-profit corporations.

Magistrate Ed Caudill asked fellow board member John Allen to explain two contracts between the solid waste agency and firms with which Allen is linked, levelled criticism at director David Cooley's treatment of agency employees, and urged the relocation of the solid waste offices from its present rented premises to a vacant office suite in the courthouse annex.

Caudill, who was replaced on the board last January, was reelected last week following the resignation of Elmer Campbell. Other board members, besides McAninch and Allen, are Ned Bush and Otis Johnson.

The contracts that concerned Caudill were a 15-year, $1900-a-month lease on a tract and building at the Garth landfill site and a four-year contract with a computerized billing firm.

The solid waste agency entered the lease agreement with Industrial Rentals, a firm owned by Allen and Adrian Lafferty, in August, 1982. Although he had previously served on it and would later serve again, Allen was not a member of the solid waste board at the time the lease was signed.

The seven-acre tract was said to have been originally offered to state vocational education authorities by retired coal operator B.F. Reed as the site for a mining school and, when that fell through, to the Floyd Board of Education, on the understanding that proceeds from its sale would be used to set up a scholarship fund in memory of Reed's son.

The Board of Education reportedly sold the tract for $25,000 to Industrial Rentals, which then erected a building on the site and leased it to Floyd County Solid Waste, Inc.

County Attorney Arnold Turner, Jr., who was not at last week's meeting of the solid waste board, has questioned whether the board last year knew of the lease arrangement with Industrial Rentals and whether Allen's earlier membership on the board may have given him an improper advantage in setting up the deal.

The solid waste agency's contract with Computer and Utility Services, Inc., a firm with which Allen is also said to have close ties, was entered into in August, 1981—when Allen was a member of the agency board—and has nearly two years to run, said McAninch. The board chairman insisted that both were good contracts and discouraged Caudill from seeking to repudiate them before the county attorney could be questioned as to their propriety.

In response to complaints by Caudill and Johnson that director Cooley had spoken intemperately to agency employees, McAninch suggested that the aggrieved workers bring their complaints before the board. At Caudill's suggestion, the board voted to move from the premises it rents from the Kentucky Motel on South Lake Drive to an office in the courthouse annex, pending an invitation by the fiscal court.

Court Adjourns Without Hearing Appeal For Aid to Solid Waste

Under mounting pressure from bondholders and other creditors, the chairman of the county's solid waste agency was prepared to go before the fiscal court last week with an appeal for help, but he never got his foot in the door.

Bob McAninch had three requests to make of the fiscal court, which met in special session Thursday for the final reading of an ordinance creating a fire protection district at Betsy Layne. A prompt adjournment after the fire district business was done effectively shut him out, however.

The solid waste chief would have asked the county to co-sign a note for $40,000, which he hoped to borrow from the Bank Josephine. He also wanted to talk the magistrates into giving the garbage agency the bulk of some $41,000 remaining in federal grant monies. And he was prepared to discuss moving the

Judge Stumbo Lauds Betsy Layne Plan

Betsy Layne Fire Department has an idea that could be the salvation of the county's rural fire and rescue services, Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo said at a special meeting of the fiscal court Thursday. But Magistrate Kenneth Roberts predicted public opposition to the proposal.

Bob Branham, president of the Betsy Layne Fire Department, said the creation of a fire protection district in that area—which the fiscal court approved Thursday—will mean a special tax can be levied for fire protection there.

Residents of Betsy Layne, Stanville, Harold, Honaker, Ivel and part of Dana may find a fire protection tax added to their next property tax bill, said Branham, who proposes a levy of one dollar for every $1000 of assessed value.

An insurance agent, Branham said homeowners would likely save more on insurance premiums than they would be paying as a result of the new tax. On the 10-class scale by which insurance premiums are fixed, Betsy Layne is already rated as class 8 on account of its volunteer fire department and could possibly be rated class 7 with the creation of the new fire protection district, he said. Communities without fire protection are rated class 10.

Levying a tax for fire protection services means that the cost of providing those services is spread more evenly throughout the community rather than being borne by the "10 to 15 percent" who usually contribute to the fire department, Branham noted. The first 75 homeowners surveyed—whose names appear on the October petition seeking creation of the fire protection district—were enthusiastic about the plan and no objections to it have since been lodged, he added.

"I think most other (volunteer fire districts) will be interested in this," commented Judge-Executive Stumbo. "It could be the salvation of a lot of them."

But Magistrate Roberts demurred. "No matter how much of a benefit it is, a lot of people are not going to look at that if they see a tax added," he said. The District 2 Magistrate abstained from the vote adopting the ordinance that established the new taxing district.

solid waste offices from their rented premises on South Lake Drive into space vacated by the flood plain administrator in the courthouse annex.

Floyd County Solid Waste, Inc. lists $62,000 in outstanding debts and "some (creditors) are getting nervous," said McAninch, who proposed using the bank loan to settle most of the bills. In addition, $195,000 needs to be restored to a reserve account which has been used to meet the agency's bond payments over the past two years. And the agency should be setting aside $15,000 a month toward the next bond payment, which is due May 1, McAninch told members of the solid waste board last week.

The garbage official might also have put some persuasive arguments to the fiscal court had he been given the opportunity. As reluctant as the magistrates might be to bind themselves further in the agency's behalf—the court has already borrowed $202,500 this year to help keep Floyd County Solid Waste afloat—the alternatives might be even more politically distasteful.

For one thing, McAninch said, the agency that issued the $1.5 million in bonds that financed the county's solid waste system is being hard pressed by the insurer of the bonds to force a rate increase on the system's subscribers. Under the insurer's proposal, the monthly pickup fee could jump from $6 to $7.50, an increase Deputy Judge-Executive Morris Isaac made clear the county was anxious to avoid at this time.

If default on the bonds seemed imminent, the bond holders and insurer could also force the issuer, the Kentucky Pollution Abatement Authority, to pay them off by levying a two percent tax on the state's water systems, McAninch warned. "That would open up a political can of worms," he said, "with Floyd fiscal court taking the blame for a tax over the entire state."

(Because of the unreliability of public

Mining Company Denies Fault In Mink Br. Suit

An amended complaint filed in the $3.7 million damages suit stemming from the January, 1982 mining tragedy at Craynor names as defendants the principals of a coal firm originally identified only by its corporate name.

An attorney for Unnie Hall, widow of one of seven miners killed by an explosion in the RFH No. 1 mine on Mink Branch, said he had only recently learned that the Joseph Mining Co.—Hoskinson, in Leslie county, is listed as its mailing address—is owned by Arnold Turner, Sr., Arnold Turner, Jr., Joan Chaffins, Anita Gibson and Donise Turner. All are residents of this county and Arnold Turner, Jr. is Floyd county attorney.

When the firm, which reportedly operates a tippie at McDowell, made no answer to the original complaint, it was held in default in July by Circuit Judge Hollie Conley. The amended complaint, filed in October, elicited a prompt reply, however.

In an answer filed last month by Paintsville attorney J.K. Wells, Joseph Mining Co. denies any responsibility for the death of Ronnie Hall and alleges the miner died as a result of his own negligence.

In any event, the company is protected from prosecution by the statute of limitations since more than a year solid waste systems, neither the fiscal court nor its solid waste arm was able to sell bonds to finance the system here. The Pollution Abatement Authority was persuaded to float the bond issue and lend the proceeds to Floyd County Solid Waste, Inc., on condition that the fiscal court would guarantee payment on the bonds.

To protect itself further, the pollution abatement authority insisted on the maintenance of a reserve account, to be administered by the Winchester Bank, and had the bonds insured by Ambac against default. So secured, the entire bond issue was bought by the Allstate Insurance Co.)

Under terms of the bond agreement, the Pollution Abatement Authority, Ambac, and Allstate all have the theoretical right to force Floyd county and its solid waste agency to raise the revenues needed to pay off the bonds and replenish the reserve account.)

Isaac argued against a rate hike as long as perhaps 30 percent of Floyd households are not on the solid waste system's subscriber list and 40 percent of the households that are listed refuse either to take the service or to pay for it. The deputy judge is head of a task force which is currently trying to locate new subscribers and cut the delinquency rate among those already listed.

Solid waste board member Ned Bush agreed with the county official. "If we can get the whole community to pay, people would not care if it had to be raised," he said. "But I've had plenty of people tell me they will not pay a copper penny more until they're sure everyone else is paying."

Isaac noted that participation in the solid waste system is mandatory. The threat of prosecution by the county attorney has proven effective but searching out candidates for prosecution is time-consuming, he said.

elapsed between Mrs. Hall's appointment as administrator of her late husband's estate and the filing of the amended complaint against Joseph Mining, the lawyer argued.

But principals in the firm have not been damaged by the delay, since they knew all along that they were the intended defendants, argued Michael Fleet Johnson, Mrs. Hall's attorney. Moreover, Arnold Turner, Jr. has been informed of developments in the case since its inception last January, since he represents two of the other defendants, the Joyce Ann Coal Company and the RFH Coal Company, he noted.

In her suit, Mrs. Hall claims the fatal mine blast was caused by negligence on the part of the mine operator, listed on federal records as the RFH Coal Company. Both RFH and its successor, the Joyce Ann Coal Co., have claimed the miners' deaths were due to circumstances beyond the operator's control.

The B.J.L. Coal Co. and the Elk Horn Coal Corp., which is said to have provided RFH with engineering and other services, have denied they exercised any control over operations at the Mink Branch mine, a claim also made now by the Joseph Mining Co.

No trial date has yet been set in the case.

Family Seeks Killers With Reward Offer

A year after the skeletal remains of Zelma Anderson were discovered on an abandoned stripmine at Orkney, members of the dead woman's family announced last week that they are offering a substantial reward for information leading to the conviction of the person or persons who murdered her.

When her badly decomposed body was discovered, three days before Christmas, by two youths foraging for coal, the victim had been missing nearly five months. An autopsy indicated she may have been raped and then kicked to death.

Sarah King, of McDowell, a sister of the dead woman, said last week the family was dissatisfied with the state police investigation headed by Det. Danny Stumbo. "You'd think that after a year they could have found out something," she said. "We don't think they're looking for the people who did it. They seem to be waiting for someone to confess."

Police have told her they believe more than one person was responsible for her sister's death, and family members suspect the assailants were local residents, Mrs. King said.

The victim's body was recovered near the mouth of Spewing Camp Branch of Left Beaver Creek, about four miles above McDowell. The family hopes the offer of a reward may entice a member of the tightly-knit community there to come forward with information, Mrs. King said.

Earlier this year the family sought the help of a reputed psychic in an unsuccessful bid to solve the riddle of Miss Anderson's death, her sister said. They have also circulated a petition asking for more detectives to be assigned to the Pikeville state police post, she said.

At the time of her disappearance, Zelma Anderson, a 53-year-old spinster, had not long quit her job as a Lexington hairdresser and returned, depressed and possibly suicidal, to the Floyd community where she grew up. She was worried about job problems, said her brother-in-law, Robert King. But Sarah King attributed her sister's depression to the "change of life."

She was accustomed to the anxieties of urban living—she had worked in many cities and habitually carried in her purse a police whistle and an aerosol spray designed to ward off an attacker—but was quite unsuspecting of the violence that lay in store for her here, family members said.

She had stayed two weeks with her sister, Rose Floyd, in Mrs. Floyd's trailer on KY 122 at Orkney when she made an overnight visit to the home of her brother, Leonard Anderson, at McDowell, returning the next day. It was about two miles between the two places and she liked to walk it—not along the highway, which she feared, but along the railroad tracks.

Witnesses said she returned around 3 p.m., August 2, 1982, but Mrs. Floyd was not yet home from work and the trailer was locked. Miss Anderson apparently decided to walk some more. Her family never saw her alive again.

Using dental and chest X-ray records, state forensic anthropologist Dr. David J. Wolf positively identified the skeletal remains found the following December as those of Miss Anderson. "Context in which body found indicates homicide and possible rape," his report concluded.

Death was caused by blows from a blunt instrument, possibly a boot, to the throat and then to the chest, while the victim was lying down, the pathologist reported. Sexual assault was suggested by the presence of foreign pubic hair, he said.

One of 12 children, Miss Anderson was a graduate of McDowell High School but had spent most of her adult life away from here.

Annexation May Be Among 'Old' Council's Last Acts

Weather permitting, it appears that outgoing city council members will leave Prestonsburg a bigger, if not a better, place than they found it.

As snow blanketed the city late Tuesday afternoon, the eight-member council was scheduled to hold its last meeting for the year, which is also the last meeting for the present council. On the agenda was the annexation of two sections on the city perimeter—one at Lancer, the other on Katy Friend.

A lawyer representing several property owners on Katy Friend indicated they will contest the incorporation of that section, but City Manager David Evans predicted Tuesday that the council would enact the annexation ordinance.

Attorney Greg Stumbo argued that voters had rejected annexation of the Katy Friend tract when the question appeared on the November ballot. City Manager Evans said that votes cast on the annexation question there were invalid, however, because the only persons entitled to vote were residents of the affected area, of whom there are none.

Stumbo represents a group of businessmen said to be planning construction of a Holiday Inn on U.S. 23 near the top of the Katy Friend hill. H.D. Fitzpatrick, Jr., Dr. J.D. Adams, Jack Absher, and Tom G. Dingus, owners of a tract there, hold a liquor license issued in the name of the Prestonsburg Inn.

Formal adoption of the city's new comprehensive plan and zoning ordinances was also expected.

The new city council, which includes the three present council members who ran for re-election, is scheduled to be sworn in next Monday at 7 p.m.

ESP Examined By KET's Nova

In "The Case of ESP," airing Tuesday, January 17, at 8 p.m. on KET, "NOVA" examines the claims for—and against—paranormal phenomena and looks at some startling applications in the fields of archeology, criminology and warfare.

From Victorian parlor games to today's psychic best sellers, the claims for ESP have been dismissed by skeptics as fraudulent nonsense. But in the last 10 years, some scientists have put paranormal phenomena to the laboratory test, claiming astonishing results.

"NOVA" reports on recent findings in telepathy, precognition, psychokinesis (moving objects by remote control) and clairvoyance. At the Stanford Research Institute in California, laser physicists have conducted extensive laboratory studies with psychics, who are able to describe the surroundings of people in unknown locations.

Clairvoyance—or remote viewing—is of particular interest for detective work. "NOVA" looks at Mobius, a consulting service with 10 psychics on the payroll that locates missing persons, helps to solve murders and finds archeological sites by remote viewing. The program also considers the military applications of remote viewing at the Stanford Research Institute, where one government-funded project, SCANATE, tests the ability of psychics to describe army bases, islands and the insides of buildings as no satellite can do.

Questions And Answers

Q—How do I appeal a decision made by one of the VA's rating boards on my disability?
 A—You need only write a letter to the VA office which made the decision stating you disagree with the VA's decision. This will initiate the appeals process and you will then be advised of your appeal rights and actions you must take.

Q—Can anyone get information from the VA about my service-connected disabilities and how much compensation I receive?
 A—Under the Privacy Act of 1974, we can inform anyone how much money you receive from the VA if they provide sufficient identifying information about you. However, we are not allowed to inform anyone where your VA checks go or what your disabilities are without your written permission.

The Eastern Kentucky Mountain football Conference (E.K.M.C.) recently announced winners of its annual grid honors.

E.K.M.C. teams include Wheelwright, Pikeville, Whitesburg, Fleming Neon, Elkhorn City, and Jenkins.

Pikeville, which won the sub-district as well as district titles, recorded a perfect season with a 4-0 record in conference play, and, as expected, the Panthers collected most honors in the E.K.M.C.

Pikeville's Hillard Howard was named conference Coach of the Year, and Paul Kimberlain, 185-lb. tailback, received honors as Player of the Year with 1,600 yards rushing and 24 touchdowns. The Panthers also had more players—nine—named to All-E.K.M.C. teams than any other conference school.

Wheelwright's 170-lb. sophomore halfback David Hall was named to the All-E.K.M.C. Offensive Team and another Wheelwright Trojan, Tim Cole, a 185-lb. senior linebacker, was listed among defensive team members.

claimant work and still be evaluated as unemployable for benefit purposes?
 A—Each claim for unemployability benefits is determined on the basis of the facts in the individual case. The nature and extent of employment and the effects of service-connected disabilities are taken into consideration. Veterans who are rated unemployable and who begin any type of employment should notify the VA at once so that continued eligibility can be reevaluated.

Q—I have a war related injury and my kids are ready to start college. Are they entitled to any help from the VA?
 A—Perhaps. The college-age children of veterans who suffer from permanent and total service-connected disabilities may be entitled to education benefits similar to those granted veterans. The student can use this benefit for college as well as for other types of training, and can make application either through the VA directly or through the Veterans Affairs Office at school.

Q—I now receive 100 percent service-connected disability compensation. My wife and I plan to divorce. Will she be entitled to a portion of my compensation after we are divorced?
 A—No. Her entitlement to all benefits ceases when your divorce is final.

Q—I have a disability claim pending with the Veterans Administration. I have been told to sign a power of attorney. What does that mean?
 A—There are many service organizations who retain accredited representatives to assist in presenting claims before the VA. A power of attorney would authorize one of those organizations to act in your behalf for your claim.

Seek Funds For Floyd Float

The "Collins Queen," built by Betsy Layne High School art students, was a highlight of the parade marking the inauguration of Gov. Martha Layne Collins. The school's jazz band accompanied the float in the parade, in which Floyd county was also represented by the Allen Central High School Marching Band and Rebel mascot.

"It was the most attractive float in the parade," says Laura Feamster, of the mock paddle-wheeler built by Betsy Layne High School art students for the parade in Frankfort which marked the inauguration earlier this month of Martha Layne Collins as governor. "We heard a lot of good comments about it."

But praise, alas, will not pay the bills.

David Hayes, operator of a Betsy Layne trucking firm, donated a tractor-trailer to haul it but other expenses incurred in building the float and sending two Floyd high school bands to Frankfort with it amounted to $2000, Mrs. Feamster said.

So far, a little under $1000 has been raised in contributions from area businesses. Persons wishing to help defray the remaining cost should make checks payable to Betsy Layne High School and mail them to the Inaugural Committee, Mrs. Laura Feamster, P.O. Box 145, Banner, Ky., 41603.

Donors to date include: Betsy Layne High School; Allen Central High School; Hayes, Inc.; Judge-Executive John M. ### When You Register Vehicle, Property Tax Is Due Also

Secretary Gary Gillis of the Kentucky Revenue Cabinet has announced that due to a change in the law, beginning January 1, all Kentucky vehicle owners will pay the property tax on their motor vehicles to the county clerk at the same time they register their vehicles.

License tags will not be issued unless the property taxes on motor vehicles are paid.

"The idea behind this new method of collecting the vehicle tax is to ensure that every vehicle owner pays his or her fair share," said Secretary Gillis.

In prior years, up to 25 percent of the motor vehicle owners in Kentucky have failed to pay property taxes that were due on their motor vehicles.

"Tying the privilege of operating motor vehicles on Kentucky highways to the payment of property taxes," Gillis said, "will essentially eliminate this high delinquency rate."

In addition to the normal registration fees, everyone should be prepared to pay property taxes due on their motor vehicles at the time of registration with the county clerk.

Current projections show that state and local tax jurisdictions in calendar year 1984 can expect to receive an additional $40 million in collections due to this system.

The Revenue Cabinet has begun a publicity campaign to inform Kentucky motor vehicle owners about the upcoming changes.

Gillis said, "A tax and registration notice will be sent to motor vehicle owners approximately one month in advance of their registration month." Approximately 200,000 notices are being mailed now for January registrations. This notice will list the total bill—state, county, school and other tax districts rates will be applied against the vehicle valuation and itemized for the taxpayer. Some counties will accept mail-in registrations—the notice will indicate this with instructions on how to pay the tax and registration fees. Motor vehicle owners should be prepared to pay property taxes to the clerk, even if a notice has not been received.

S.S. Benefits Upped By 3 1/2 Percent

The Social Security checks delivered January 3 will include a 3 1/2 percent automatic cost of living benefit increase, Jim Kelly, Social Security Director for the Big Sandy District, announced this week.

Social Security and Supplemental Security Income (SSI) payments are increased automatically when the cost of living increases 3 percent or more from one year to the next, Kelly said.

More than 31,000 beneficiaries in the Big Sandy District of Floyd, Pike, Johnson, Martin and Magoffin counties will receive an increase, Kelly said.

People who plan to file for Social Security or Supplemental Security Income in 1984 should locate their birth record, marriage record and have other documents available such as W-2 forms for the past 2 years. We are looking forward to assisting people in filing for their Social Security Insurance during the new year, Kelly said.

More information about Social Security, Supplemental Security Income and Black Lung can be obtained at the Big Sandy Social Security Office location on U.S. 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville. The telephone number is listed in your local directory under U.S. Government.

Kentucky Jobless Figures Show Increase In November

In November more Kentuckians were working than in October, but an even greater number were looking for jobs, which caused the state's unemployment rate to inch upward by one-tenth of one percent, from 10.2 percent in October to 10.3 percent in November, according to Cabinet for Human Resources figures released today. The comparable national rates were 8.1 percent in November, down from 8.4 percent in October.

up to 2,000 from October but down 11,200 from November a year ago.

In 1982, the state unemployment rate rose from 10.4 percent in October to 10.9 percent in November, as unemployment rose from 177,700 to 183,900, employment dropped from 1,529,700 to 1,510,000, and the labor force decreased from 1,707,400 to 1,693,900.

Blackwell cited employment gains in November in state and local education jobs (1,000), bituminous coal mining (800), transportation, communications and public utilities (700), and manufacturing (300).

He also noted that while Kentucky's labor force is growing, in October 20 states reported shrinking labor forces, possibly because a number of people have exhausted unemployment benefits and given up actively seeking jobs. The labor force includes only non-military persons who currently are employed and unemployed people actively seeking work.

"These figures show continued economic recovery," said state labor market analyst Ed Blackwell. "As employers were hiring more people, the state's total employment for November rose to 1,508,500, an increase of 4,200 over October's 1,504,300. But more people were competing for these new job openings, because the civilian labor force increased by 6,200, from 1,675,000 in October to 1,681,200 in November."

The number of Kentuckians who were unemployed in November was 172,700,

'Song For Dead Warriors' On KET

Michael Smuin's epic work, "A Song for Dead Warriors," is a powerful and controversial ballet that highlights the plight of the American Indian. This "Great Performances" special from the ward-winning "Dance in America" series will air on KET Monday, January 16, at 9 p.m.

The ballet opens with a series of Edward Curtis Photographs and statements from contemporary Indians and spokespersons such as Marlon Brando. Smuin describes the unique ballet as "a series of vignettes which trace the life of an Indian man from his birth to his death, and in doing so, reflects on the contemporary American Indian situation."

The ballet concludes with a brief statement from Smuin concerning his own childhood experiences, growing up in Montana near a large Indian reservation. Smuin describes his long search for an appropriate vehicle to present a ballet about Indians that would somehow demonstrate the disparity between the Indians' past glory and present ignominy.

"A Song for Dead Warriors" is produced by Judy Kinberg. It is presented by the Great Performances Alliance: WNET, New York; KERA, Dallas-Ft. Worth; WQED, San Francisco; SCETV, Columbia S.C.; and WTTW, Chicago.

'Smithsonian World' Premieres On KET

"Smithsonian World," a new magazine that combines the worlds of art, science and the humanities, premieres Wednesday, January 18, at 8 p.m. on KET.

Using the unique resources of the famous, Washington-based Smithsonian Institution, each hour-long program addresses a theme central to the way we perceive our world.

The premiere program, "Time and Light," explores how the sweep of time is measured not just by man but also by plants and animals. The program also looks at how man has used light as an artistic and symbolic tool. Highlights include journeys to the Tower of the Winds Observatory in the Vatican; the multiple-mirror telescope at Mt. Hopkins, Arizona; and a bamboo grove in Puerto Rico.

Future programs take viewers to the Panama Canal, the Hirshhorn Museum of contemporary art and to a small-town factory where space suits are made.

Author and historian David McCullough hosts the seven-part series which airs this winter and spring. "Smithsonian World" is a production of WETA, Washington, D.C., and the Smithsonian Institution.

'Frontline' Looks At Hospital Costs

Hospital costs have been a major political issue for several years. Many Americans, themselves covered by health insurance, assume that Medicare, Medicaid and charity programs provide treatment to everyone, regardless of income. "Frontline's" program "Crisis at General Hospital," airing on KET Monday, January 16, at 8:00 p.m., looks at the way some hospitals, including the new group of for-profit hospitals, are marketing themselves as places to treat the insured or wealthy patient.

"Crisis at General Hospital" interviews several people with life-threatening illnesses who were turned away from the hospital door because they had no money to pay for expensive treatment.

"Frontline" is a production of WGBH, Boston.

DO SURVIVORS OF A SUDDEN-DEATH FEEL THE "STAGES OF DEATH"?

In her book, On Death and Dying, Dr. Elisabeth Kubler-Ross indicates that the acceptance of any death usually goes through these stages: shock and denial; great anger and trying to place blame; then, hopefully, ultimate acceptance of the facts of life-and death.

Dr. Kubler-Ross further states that the survivors of sudden-death victims must go through the same stages of grief as for survivors of those whose death comes slowly.

Reading about and becoming better acquainted with the stages of grief can provide insights for thoughtful contemplation. Reaching a point of understanding how others have had to cope with similar situations can provide strength and consolation at the time of death of a loved one.

We have quite a few books and lists of others which may assist you in coping with your loss of loved ones. We stand ready to help you as best we can. Remember, your needs are our concerns.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of America Kidd, takes this opportunity to thank everyone for their help upon the loss of our loved one. We thank those who sent food and flowers, who prepared the grave, and the Regular Baptist ministers for the comforting words. We deeply appreciate you all. Most of all, we thank God for you good friends who gave so generously. My companion was taken to Highlands Regional Hospital Oct. 8, 1983, staying there until Oct. 28 1983, when the doctors said there was nothing more they could do and said they could do more at Central Baptist Hospital in Lexington, Ky. I want to thank God for our friends and neighbors and brothers and sisters in the church for it would have been impossible for us to have come up with the money to have paid the ambulance and nurse to take her to Lexington. After staying there 50 days and watching her as she slowly went away, God granted me strength to hold her hand and see the last heart beat. Thank God our friends didn't stop there, they opened their hearts and contributed food, flowers, and money to help pay on my companion, America's funeral. I know not how to thank you all. But I want to say, thank God for you all good friends of mine. Seldom is friendship such as thine! How very much I wish to be as helpful as you've been to me. Thank God for you! Someday I hope with you to stand before the throne of God's right hand and say to you at Journey's end, "praise God." You've been to me a friend. Thank God for you. As I close this thank you note, I want to say thank God for Charles and Wanda Spradlin, of 220 Wilson Dawning Rd., Lexington Ky., who was so good to come visit and give us much courage.

Again we say thank you.

Conley Authorized To Make Special Judge Assignments

Four area judges have been selected by Kentucky Chief Justice Robert F. Stephens to exercise his authority to make and administer special judge assignments. Circuit Judge F. Byrd Hogg, 47th Judicial Circuit, has been appointed Chief Regional Administrative Circuit Judge, and Judge Hollie Conley will serve as Vice-Chief Regional Circuit Judge for the Mountain Region.

On the district court level, 32nd Judicial District Judge Edwin D. Rice has been appointed Chief Regional District Judge and Judge Stephen L. Tackett, 33rd Judicial District, will serve as Vice-Chief Regional District Judge for the 22-county Mountain Region.

Appointed December 1 to two-year terms by the Chief Justice, the chief regional judges, both circuit and district, have the authority to assign judges in their regions, whether active or retired, to other courts to expedite disposition of cases where there might be a heavy caseload, or to promptly substitute another judge where the local judge is disqualified, or where there is a temporary vacancy. If judges within the region are not available for cross-assignment, the affected chief regional judge may request assistance from another region.

The Regional Administration Program is an effort on the part of Kentucky's unified court system to equalize the caseload among judges and provide for a more efficient and effective judicial process in all areas of the state.

NEW RULE MAKES TAX SHELTERS LESS ATTRACTIVE

Taxpayers doing some year-end tax planning and considering a tax shelter investment may find that their tax bill is larger than expected, if they have to pay the alternative minimum tax (AMT). A recent change in tax law has included tax shelter write-offs under tax preference items to be considered in calculating AMT.

The alternative minimum tax was originally meant to ensure that everyone would pay federal income taxes, and especially that the very wealthy, who were able to use deductions or other ways to shelter their income, would pay at least some federal taxes.

In figuring AMT one starts with adjusted gross income, subtracts itemized deductions and exemptions, and then adds back what are called tax preference items. The tax preferences include such things as the 60 percent exclusion on capital gains, the $100 dividend exclusion ($200 for married couples filing jointly), or a gain from an incentive stock option plan. After adding back the tax preferences married couples then subtract $40,000 (single people subtract $30,000) and multiply the result by 20 percent. If this amount exceeds your regular tax, you pay the alternative minimum tax.

What has changed with AMT this year is the addition of tax shelter write-offs to the list of tax preference items. This means that under the current alternative minimum tax formula tax shelter write-offs may become taxable. So if a person has invested in a tax shelter and will owe the alternative minimum tax, he may find that his 1983 tax bill will be a lot higher than he expected. The tax shelter write-off now has to be added to adjusted gross income in figuring AMT.

Thus, taxpayers who will owe the alternative minimum tax may need to consider the consequences of a proposed tax shelter investment.

More detailed information about AMT can be obtained by writing the IRS Forms Distribution Center, P.O. Box 636, Florence, Kentucky, 41042 and asking for Publication 909 "Minimum Tax and Alternative Minimum Tax".

If you work in a bar or restaurant, your responsibilities as an employee for reporting tips have not changed. You must report all tips to your employer.

Veterans Must Return Form On Income Data To VA

Veterans drawing pensions from the Veterans Administration are reminded that they should return the Annual Income Questionnaire (AIQ) sent to them by the agency if their pensions are to continue past January 1.

There could be a benefit interruption if the questionnaire is not returned in time to process before the January checks are due. The questionnaires were mailed to all persons receiving a VA pension on November 1. If a pensioner did not receive a questionnaire, they should contact the VA immediately in person or by telephone.

The VA has counselors to help those unable to complete the information. There is a toll-free number listed in the white pages of all telephone directories for the VA. Accredited veterans service organizations will give assistance in this matter also.

Veterans should not delay return of the AIQ even if they do not know the amount of unreimbursed medical expenses paid or expect to pay in 1983. These expenses can be changed at a later date if necessary.

Narman Prater grew one of the biggest turnips seen in many a year on his farm on Abbott Creek. The turnip weighed six pounds and just might be the answer to the problem of world hunger.

The only turnip known to rival the one grown by Mr. Prater was one grown by Jackie Scaif, of Stanville. The picture showing the giant turnip with Mr. Scaif's young daughter standing alongside it is among the many things lost or possibly just misplaced, here.

3.1 Million Lbs. Surplus Food Set For Distribution

Cabinet for Human Resources officials announced last week that 3.1 million pounds of federal surplus food will be distributed in Kentucky in January, including some food processed in Kentucky.

In addition to the state's allotment of processed food from the United States Department of Agriculture's commodity food program, 675,000 pounds of surplus cheese processed in Leitchfield by the Bel-Cheese Company will be given out to eligible low-income Kentuckians. Federal surplus raw cheese is processed by Bel-Cheese under a nine-month contract with the Kentucky Cabinet for Human Resources.

"We worked out a way to process cheese here in the state because more raw cheeses was available than the federal government could process, and we wanted to take advantage of the surplus for Kentucky people who are eligible and need food," said John Cubine, commissioner of the cabinet's Department for Social Insurance.

Kentucky is the first state in the southeast region to process its own federal surplus cheese, and the Leitchfield company says the operation is going well. "This contract has been good for Kentucky and good for Leitchfield," said Bel-Cheese Production Manager J.B. Brown. "We've hired 23 additional people, we're meeting our delivery schedule, and the quality of the cheese is good."

Surplus food distributed in January will include butter, honey, cornmeal and non-fat dried milk, in addition to cheese. The distribution will be managed locally either by the Area Development District or the Community Action Agency.

For us Westerners, the bat is a creature of the moonlight world—a queer, coat-hangerish thing. It's a different matter in the Far East. According to the January Reader's Digest, bats are symbols of good luck in the Orient.

The Salute to the American Flag was led by Mrs. Mae Kendrick, and the national defense program, taken from News Week magazine, "House (Postmortem): Marine Negligence?" was presented by Mrs. Margaret P. Alley.

Mrs. Brackett reported that all members are now eligible to purchase the "Treaty of Paris" and "Yorktown" pins. Two subscriptions for the D.A.R. magazine, taken by Mrs. Norma S. Stepp, and Mrs. Frances Brackett, are to be donated to the Floyd County Library.

In lieu of the exchange of Christmas gifts, members brought to the meeting bath towels, books and magazines, to be sent to the Veteran's Hospital, Lexington.

It was announced that Miss Laura Brackett, a member of the John Graham Chapter, D.A.R., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Brackett, and granddaughter of Mrs. Olga Preston, was one of the 108 artists selected from more than 1,000 whose ceramics work was selected as winners of the "Kentucky Revisited: 1983" exhibition at the State Capitol Gallery, in Frankfort, recently. The Regent presented Mrs. Edith James, a charter member of the John Graham Chapter, chairman of the D.A.R. ### Miss Rice, Mr. Adams Exchange Vows

Miss Betty Kay Rice, daughter of Mrs. Emma Rice, of Prestonsburg, and the late Marvin Rice, became the bride of Mr. Phillip Edwin Adams in a double-ring ceremony solemnized at 4 p.m., Saturday, November 26, at the First Church of God in Mt. Sterling, Ky. The pastor, David M. Hall, officiated at the candlelight ceremony.

Miss Brenda Adams, sister of the groom, presented piano and vocal selections.

The bride, escorted by her brother, Donald Ray Rice, wore a floor-length gown of white sheerganza with Chantilly lace and accented with silk venise motifs. The gown, designed with molded lace bodice and high neckline defined in pearl accented Venice lace, had a Victorian yoke outlined with a deep lace ruffle. The natural waistline was circled with satin ribbon and satin streamers to which were attached cascading silk flowers. The bishop sleeves were accented with a series of lace ruffles, and the full skirt flowed into a chapel-length train, each edged with a lace ruffle. The bride's fingertip veil with fluted pencil edging was held by a Camelot cap of Chantilly lace and pearls, and she carried a cascade of deep burgundy rosebuds and rose and white carnations accented with ivy and baby's breath.

Mrs. Gwendolyn Sue Harmon, of Hueysville, served as matron of honor, and Mr. B. Estill Sorrell, of Mt. Sterling, served as best man.

Mrs. Ollie F. Carpenter, sister of the bride, served at the guest register and distributed rice roses.

Mrs. Alva M. Ousley, sister of the bride, designed and prepared the wedding cake for the reception which immediately followed the ceremony at the church fellowship hall. The reception was organized by the Dorcas group of the First Church of God. Assisting at the reception were members of the Dorcas group.

The bride is employed at BP Coal North America, Inc., Lexington, and Mr. Adams is employed with the U.S. Postal Service in Lexington.

The couple have made their home in rural Clark county.

The following prenuptial parties honored the bridal couple: a miscellaneous shower on November 19 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Harmon with Mrs. Gwendolyn Harmon as hostess, and Mr. and Mrs. Claude Adams entertained with a rehearsal dinner at their home in Mt. Sterling, November 25.

Philip Roth Play Begins 'Playhouse' Season

"The Ghost Writer," a 90-minute adaptation of Philip Roth's 1977 best-selling novel of the same name, begins "American Playhouse's" third season on KET, Tuesday, January 17, at 9 p.m.

The play is based on the first of a trilogy of novels by Roth about a successful Jewish novelist, Nathan Zukerman.

Adapted for "American Playhouse" by Roth and Director Tristram Powell, "The Ghost Writer" is a sensitive portrait of the artist as a young man. The 45-year-old hero of the story, played by Mark Linn-Baker, recalls the time 22 years earlier when he visited an older, world-famous author, Manny Lonoff, played by Sam Wanamaker, whom he discovered in seclusion with two women: his wife of 35 years, a frustrated, bored housewife, played by Paulette Smit, a voluptuous young woman who is madly in love with Manny. It is the story of a young writer trying to discover himself and assess his talent at a difficult period in his life.

Filmed in and around Boston, "The Ghost Writer" was produced by WGBH, Boston, and Malone/Bill in association with the BBC.

MAYTOWN HIGH BECOMES CLASS "A" INSTITUTION

Langley, Ky., Oct. 26 (Spl.)—A letter received from J. B. Holloway states that the Maytown Consolidated High School has been placed on the accredited list alongside of the other A-class high schools of the country. The citizens of this place feel that they have made a great step toward the attainment of an institution where their boys and girls may be properly educated. The citizens, teachers and students have been working hard for this increased rating of the school, and their dream at last has been realized. Everyone agrees with Mr. Boughton that this does not mean that we can cease working, but that we must work harder, so as to show the community that we really deserved this promotion.

CANEY CREEK WINS

The Maytown High School Basketball team was again badly beaten by the Caney Creek College team, this time by a score of 40 to 20. Maytown played better basketball than the score really shows. Mr. Wells, Maytown High coach, remarked that the team played better basketball than at any time this season. Caney Creek deserves any and all of the praise that might be given them, for they have a wonderful team. The fact is, they were all college boys.

DEFEAT MARTIN

The Maytown team went to Martin Thursday and defeated the team there 44 to 4, but the girls lost to Martin, 14 to 3. Both games were easily won by the winners; and the boys game proved on only good practice for Maytown.

TO PLAY BETSY LAYNE

The Betsy Layne boys and girls will play the local boys and girls Saturday afternoon. Play will begin immediately after noon.

SOCIAL ITEMS

Mrs. J. M. Jones and Miss Anna Cunningham were visitors in Pikeville Saturday. Miss Juliette Callihan spent the week-end at her home in Russell, Ky. Rev. O. P. Smith assisted in a meeting at Laynesville church, near Harold, last week, and reports a splendid revival. On Saturday afternoon Mesdames O. P. Smith, G. A. May, and M. G. Halbert accompanied a crowd of children to the woods, where pictures of the group were made.

ENJOY PICNIC

The lovely weather of Sunday afternoon was enjoyed by a number who climbed one of the surrounding hills and had supper in woody fashion. Those included were Mrs. Ben Baker, Mrs. J. H. Allen, Mrs. J. M. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Webb, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. May, Jr., George, Claude and Harriet Allert, Miss Anna Cunningham.

LITERARY SOCIETY MEETS

The Kentuckian Literary Society met Sunday afternoon. This group of splendid boys and girls met to complete their organization, which is now as follows: Ray Stephens, president; Ray Allen, vice-president; Bola Turner, secretary; Gladice Planery, reporter. Colors are blue and white; flower, chrysanthemum. Faculty representatives are Miss Virginia Hemingway and Mrs. Edgar May. Suggestions for a wide variety of programs were given. The program committee decided to meet one night each month and arrange programs for the month following, after which a brief social hour will be indulged in. The society unanimously voted to levy a ten-cent fine against any member failing to serve on the program, and the committee agreed to use every member.

For Friday afternoon a faculty burlesque is being rehearsed, after which the Kentuckians will meet the Columbians in a basketball game.

BOYD REVENUES OFFERED TRAIL

Sterling and Winchester has been surfaced for a large part of its mileage, giving an outlet to Central Kentucky upon this route.

"The river road from Greenup to Portsmouth, with a fine bridge completed and open to traffic crossing the Ohio river at Portsmouth, to the center of Portsmouth, Ohio, is being constructed, leaving Ashland just a 'settlin' like Napoleon upon the Isle of Saint Helena, looking both ways for Sunday.

"To all our plans for the completion of the Mayo Trail, the highway department answers that although they are anxious to see this important road completed, for lack of funds, they could do no more for this road at the present time.

"The Mayo Trail was started nine years ago; most of it has been graded and drained, and it is being washed away by rains, for lack of hard surface. It can be readily likened to a man who would build a house and fail to complete the roof for lack of money, but he would finance the proposition and save his investment by protecting the building with the necessary roof.

"Boyd county pays into the state treasury over six hundred thousand dollars per annum. We propose that the State Highway Commission contract to allocate to the Mayo Trail for the completion of it at once the future revenue from Boyd county, until the cost of this work is liquidated. In that event, the money can be borrowed to finish the Mayo Trail, and save the investment and give to the people the use of this great highway all the year round. It is a legal proposition as well as a moral obligation."

Notice to Teachers

The Eastern Kentucky Educational Association meets in Ashland November 19, 21 and 23, and we are hoping that Floyd county's representation will be 100 per cent of its teachers. You are especially urged to attend this meeting. Time lost in teaching by attending will be given to the teachers.

JOHN STEPHENS, County Superintendent.

Miss Edith Fitzpatrick has not started her classes in music because of illness, but plans to do soon.

JAMES CONN, BETSY LAYNE MAN, VICTIM

Ivel, Ky., Oct. 26 (Spl.)—On Saturday, October 16, James Conn, of Betsy Layne, while riding in a car near the top of the hill in the head of the Martin Scott Branch in Pike county, was killed. His car had gone "dead" and backed over the lower side of the road. When the car left the road it turned over. Mr. Conn jumped from the car, but was caught when he made the leap by a bush and the car. His left side was badly crushed and his left arm broken. He was the son of Alex Conn, and an employe of the Pike-Floyd Coal Company.

He leaves his widow, father, mother, one brother and five sisters. His father and mother live near Brandy Keg, this county.

Burial took place on the following Tuesday morning in the Davidson cemetery, near Ivel.

PERSONALS

W. K. Steele, Jr., teacher at Tram, passed the night Monday with his brother, W. D. Steele, of our town.

"Uncle" J. N. Stratton was a business visitor at Allen this week.

C. C. Hughes went to Paintsville to attend court Monday.

ing, with a clear field ahead, when Van Lear's safety man cut across-field and quarter ended with the Black Cats quartered with the Black Cats charging downfield, and the ball lay on the 50-yard line.

An intercepted pass gave the ball to Van Lear early in the final stanza. Then came insult to injury—a beautiful 50-yard run by a Van Lear back for a touchdown. The extra point was added by the aerial route. Van Lear 19, Prestonsburg 6.

Uncorking its most powerful attack, the forward pass, the Rose to Hunley combination added 43 yards to Prestonsburg territory on two plays. Then a fake play and a pass both failed. A delayed buck was not good enough to make needed yardage, and it was Van Lear's ball. The game ended with the

To the Citizens of Prestonsburg:

At the request of divers citizens of the city of Prestonsburg we have decided to offer ourselves as candidates for City Councilmen of our beloved city. In making our announcement we wish to assure the citizens of our town that we have no selfish ends to serve, but have only a sincere desire to make old Prestonsburg a better town day by day.

If you are in favor of a filtered water system, you will vote for us. Prestonsburg should not be backward in this respect. The school board has just completed one of the finest high school buildings in Eastern Kentucky. Do you want to see impure water installed in it? No, you want water in it that keeps our children free from disease. OUR CHIEF PROMISE TO THE CITIZENS OF PRESTONSBURG IS THAT LONG BEFORE OUR TERM OF OFFICE EXPIRES, WE WILL HAVE A FILTERED WATER SYSTEM FOR YOUR HOMES AND YOUR SCHOOL.

Again, in the past there has always been the old question as to whom we will have for town marshal. People have been given to much to voting for men for the city council because they favored "SO AND SO" for town marshal, rather than looking at their qualifications for members of the council. While we agree that Prestonsburg should have a good city marshal, yet we do not believe that that should be the chief issue. We will employ a good marshal, and keep him only so long as he makes a good officer. When you elect councilmen who are running for SO AND SO for marshal, said councilmen will feel that they are under deep obligation to whomsoever is indorsed as marshal, and will feel that they cannot afford to discharge the marshal even though he, after due trial, falls to make a good officer. WE ARE UNDER OBLIGATIONS TO ON ONE, AND WILL TRY WHAT MATERIAL IS AVAILABLE UNTIL WE FIND THE MOST COMPETENT OFFICIAL.

Again, Prestonsburg is deeply in debt, and something must be done without placing too great a burden on the taxpayers, to relieve the situation. We will work out this matter in a businesslike and economical way.

In conclusion, we promise our undivided attention to the giving of an economical and business-like administration to the city.

After we are elected, you will see that we mean just what we say.

Prestonsburg MUST Go Forward!

Yours sincerely,

teams battling in the middle of the field.

"Dig" Rose, though out of the game for the greater part of the first half, was the outstanding player on the field, all things considered. Passing accurately, receiving passes as ably, plugging the line and running good interference, and tearing through the Van Lear forward wall to tackle the ball-toter with deadly precision, he was in the thick of the battle for every minute he was in the game. Hunley at quarter kicked in with his usual game, which is always highly satisfactory, backing the line well, and scoring Prestonsburg's only touchdown. Mellon and Campbell rounded out a backfield which worked well for the greater part of the game. Price substituted for Rose during the second quarter. The line showed much improvement, and, with a bit more weight and experience, should go to mould a good team.

Van Lear outweighed the local boys several pounds to the man, and played good football. Its line was sturdy, and the backfield was no slouch, especially in the matter of end runs.

Subs: Burke, Allen and Hatcopher.

Touchdowns—Auxier 2, Daniels 1, Hunley 1.

HALLOWEEN PARTY

A Halloween party will be given at the Presbyterian Church Monday evening at seven o'clock. Those taking part may come either masked or unmasked. Admission 25 cents.

COMMITTEE

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. May, Mrs. Belle Richmond and Miss Josie Cooley motored Sunday to Salyersville for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Brunk.

Miss Ella Noel White, worthy matron of Adah Chapter No. 24, Order Eastern Star, attended the grand chapter of the order in Lexington this week.

Mrs. M. J. Leete, Miss Edith Fitzpatrick and Miss Welma Burchett motored to Huntington last week to hear Madame Schumann-Heink in her farewell appearance there.

Chemotherapy Is Said Not To Cause Weight Gain

For women who have had modified radical mastectomies, gaining a few pounds could increase the chances of cancer showing up in another part of the body.

"Either obesity at the time of surgery or a weight gain after can be a risk factor for the recurrence of cancer," said Dr. Janet Ramstack, professor of dietetics and director of food services and dietetics programs at Morehead State University.

Most people who have chemotherapy experience a weight loss. But women who have cancer in the breast and lymph nodes under the arms, and have the tumor removed, gain weight while taking chemotherapy.

"When cancer has spread to the lymph nodes, it is assumed there will be a few cancer cells floating around in other places, so the standard treatment is to go ahead and start chemotherapy," Dr. Ramstack explained. "But a person with a local cancer is essentially healthy once the tumor is removed."

The image of a cancer patient, however, is of someone who simply wastes away. Consequently, victims tend to overpamper themselves, eating more than they really need.

Dr. Ramstack studied 30 breast cancer patients for a year following modified radical mastectomies. She did complete nutritional assessments five times throughout the year to determine the cause of the weight gain.

"The women were an average of 30 percent overweight before surgery," said Dr. Ramstack. "While on chemotherapy, they gained an average of 10 pounds."

Their average daily consumption increased from 1,600 to 1,700 calories—approximately 100 calories more than were used during a day.

"This amounts to about a pound a month," she commented. "It doesn't take much to put on this much weight, just an extra brownie or two pats of butter a day."

Of the weight gained, 30 percent was recovery from the cancer and surgery, putting back muscle tissue. The other 70 percent amounted to an unnecessary weight gain.

"Their eating habits changed during the period of my study," Dr. Ramstack said. "Although they ate too much fat in the beginning, the amount of fat consumed increased during the year. They also changed from saturated to unsaturated fats."

Findings of the study indicate that the weight gain was not caused directly by any one particular drug used in chemotherapy. Instead, the gain was caused by an increase in the amount of food consumed.

"A lot of women tend not to want to take the treatment because of the weight gain associated with it," commented Dr. Ramstack. "But this shows that by reducing the number of calories consumed—I recommend 1,200 a day—and beginning a moderate exercise program, women can take chemotherapy without gaining unnecessary weight."

Dr. Ramstack did the research for her doctoral dissertation at Tulane University in New Orleans.

The programs contain tips for any car owner, whether it be a large family car or a sleek and powerful sports car. Road test results are combined with car care tips and previews of new styles from Detroit and international car manufacturers. New products from Ford, GMC, Chrysler and AMC are reviewed and commented on, along with their foreign competitors from Nissan, Toyota and Isuzu.

Hosts John Davis and Joyce Braga are joined by mechanic Patrick Goss in the studio and on location for a discussion of automobiles and a review of letters from viewers concerning persistent car repair problems.

In the first program of the series, "Motorweek" looks at a quartet of mid-sized 4-door hatchbacks through a series of performance and practicality tests to see which one best suits a typical family.

"Motorweek" is produced by the Maryland Center for Public Broadcasting.

KET Profiles Women In The Labor Movement

Layoffs, poverty wages, hazardous conditions and speedups were daily realities for auto workers in the 1930s. Women workers suffered the added burdens of lower wages than men, sexual harassment on the job and the double workload of home and factory.

"With Babies and Banners: Story of the Women's Emergency Brigade," which encores Monday, January 16, at 7 p.m. on KET, profiles the women who fought alongside the men in support of the strike at the General Motors plant in Flint, Michigan.

The women called their organization the Women's Emergency Brigade. When there was an emergency situation—where men needed assistance—one of the five lieutenants would take a brigade of women to aid in the battle. The women organized strike kitchens and day care centers, picket lines and family aid. They were constantly reaching out to new women until the majority of the community stood behind the strike.

This film intertwines rare archival film and conversations with nine women, now in their 60s and 70s, who share their bold experiences of history-in-the-making.

"With Babies and Banners: Story of the Women's Emergency Brigade" was directed by Lorraine Gray and produced by Anne Bohlen, Lyn Goldfarb and Lorraine Gray.

1983 Said An 'Easy' Year In Terms of Forest Fires

Increased aerial detection, intensified fire prevention activities and law enforcement efforts, along with welcome rains, helped keep forest fires in Kentucky fairly small, officials of the Kentucky Division of Forestry reported last week.

"The average size fire fought by local county forest rangers this fall was nine acres in size," said Forestry Director Donald Hamm. "However, considering the rain pattern we had this fall, there were more fires than there should have been," he said.

Hamm said there were 563 fires fought by the Division of Forestry this fall. "Had the drought of this past summer continued, these fires would have burned over a lot more acreage before they were controlled," he noted. "After the drought broke, we had only one bad stretch of fires. From November 5 through 9 we had warm, dry weather and 88 fires burned 984 acres," the director said.

Forestry records show that since January 1, 1983 the division suppressed 1,860 fires that burned approximately 31,000 acres. "In an average year we suppress 2,000 fires, burning 80,000 acres. These figures show how much the wet spring and fall helped us keep down the numbers of acres burned," Hamm said.

The lower than average annual number of fires was attributed to "greater public awareness and cooperation," Hamm said. "Kentucky newspapers, radio and television stations and officials made hundreds of appeals for public help in protecting Kentucky's woodlands. We believe this publicity paid off."

Forest rangers issued nearly 900 citations to people breaking the state's forest laws. Most of the citations were given to people burning trash outdoors without taking necessary precautions to keep the fire under control or burning outdoors in violation of the "4:30 burning law" which is in effect October 1 to December 15 and from March 1 to May 15.

Hamm explained that 1983 forest fires will result in staggering future losses, probably $62 million in timber products alone. "Sixty to seventy-five percent of a tree's commercial value is lost after it's damaged by fire. The tree becomes host to numerous insects and diseases that will gradually stain and decay the wood from within," Hamm said.

"Ask any logger or sawmill man about fire-scarred timber. They will tell you that it causes substantial losses in Kentucky's forest resource value. While there are many variables involved, foresters estimate that the state's loss in future timber related values will be more than $2,000 for each acre of woodland burned," Hamm said.

In addition to timber losses, forest fires result in environmental losses such as damage to wildlife and watersheds, damage to the beauty of the state's woodlands and an increase in soil erosion, Hamm pointed out.

Forest fires such as the ones experienced by Kentucky this year are the

The Federal government is loaded with data but no information, says a group of corporate executives assigned by President Reagan to search out inefficiency. Their discoveries, according to the January Reader's Digest, include the fact that no one knows how many people are fed by federal programs, what's in inventory or even where that inventory is stored. How can you begin to cut your overhead when you don't know what it is?

Project Aim Is To Lower East Ky Infant Mortality

For many women in four Appalachian Kentucky counties, pregnancy is an uneasy time. Too many of their newborns die. Health statistics show infant death rates there to be at least 50 percent higher than the national average.

The Cabinet for Human Resources and the Appalachian Regional Commission are working together to improve the odds for newborns in Lewis, Clinton, McCreary and Bell counties. The effort means dollars for services to improve the health of mothers and their babies.

The money comes from a $4.5 million Appalachian Regional Commission health care fund. Since Oct. 1 almost $327,000 has been earmarked for prenatal care services in the four Kentucky counties.

*Lewis county—$23,200 to enable the county health department to establish a prenatal program serving 40 women this fiscal year. Matching funds were provided by the Human Resources Cabinet's Department for Health Services.

*Clinton and McCreary counties—$241,223 to the Lake Cumberland District Health Department to expand existing prenatal and maternity services in these two counties. While some prenatal services have been available to residents in the past, state health officials say, the care has not been complete and has not had a significant impact on the infant death rates.

*Bell county—$62,136 to Cumberland Valley District Health Department to expand prenatal and maternity services in this county. The money will make existing services available to 65 more women this fiscal year.

Marvin Miller, manager of the Maternal Services Branch in the Department for Health Services, said recently that the allocations are the result of some "innovative cooperation" between state government and the federal commission.

"People here at the state and local levels are delighted with the commission's cooperation in putting available dollars to work to do the most good," Miller said. "The commission depended on Kentuckians to know what our greatest needs are."

He said the money will provide the kinds of services that can help public health workers identify high-risk pregnancies so that medical care will make healthy births more likely.

"The grants are buying for low-income people the same care that middle-income people buy for themselves," said Miller. "We're getting some of those services at lower cost, so we feel we are stretching the tax dollars as far as possible."

Services included complete physical examinations, laboratory analyses, nutrition counseling, ultrasound images of the unborn child, and prenatal education classes that teach mothers how to take care of themselves and their new babies. Other specialized tests are available when requested by the attending physicians.

In some cases, the health departments pay or arrange for hospital delivery. Follow-up health care is provided after the babies are born.

"These are services that are important in saving babies," said Miller. "Through good prenatal and neonatal care, we can prevent and treat some of the conditions that endanger their lives."

Appalachian Regional Commission representatives have told Miller that Lewis, Clinton, McCreary and Bell counties are eligible to apply for second-year funding of prenatal care projects. All are expected to do so.

Miller's office has filed a pre-application for similar funding to Menifee county, which was added recently to the commission's list of Kentucky counties with infant mortality rates at least 50 percent higher than the nation's average rate.

The oldest tree in the world is over 4,000 years old, says National Wildlife's Ranger Rick magazine. It's the bristlecone pine in California.

Force Bloom For Beauty In Home During Winter

Any one wishing to have shrub and tree blossoms for home beauty can do so simply by following some simple directions according to Gene Ball, Floyd County Extension Agent. Besides having beautiful floral displays or using the flowering branches as a background for arrangements, by selectively removing branches you are pruning your shrubs and trees for better overall growth in the spring, so why not try it. Only a few successes can make it worthwhile.

After the first winter cold spell which is usually before January 1, look over your flowering shrubs and trees and determine which limbs need to be removed. Check the limbs to be sure they are healthy. Trees and shrubs which flower early in the spring form flower buds in the fall before they go dormant. Most flowering shrubs are easily forced; some of the trees are more difficult. Try to find branches with a lot of flower buds.

Cut the branches just above the side bud so no stub is left. Branches 6-10 inches long are best. Place the cut branches in a bucket of warm water. If temperatures are below freezing when you cut the branches, immerse the branches full length in cool water for several hours or overnight. This keeps the buds from bursting prematurely.

The length of time it takes for branches to be forced into blooming depends on the plant itself.

Forsythia, pussy willow, redbud and maple take about 2 weeks to bloom; honeysuckle, flowering quince, peach, cherry, crabapple and pear take about 4 weeks and flowering dogwood takes 5 weeks.

When you bring the branches in the house, recut the stems under water. Peel back some of the bark. If you crush the end of the branches two inches with a hammer or split them several times, the branches should take water faster.

Put the branches in a container which will hold them upright. Add hot water (180°F) no higher than 3 inches on the stems. After 20 or 30 minutes fill the container with water. A diluted solution of water soluble fertilizer may be added to strengthen the opening of the buds. Keep the container in a cool, indirectly lighted place and be sure to keep enough water on the branches.

When the buds show color, remove them from the storage container and arrange them the way you like. Keep the flowers in a cool spot with good light (but not direct sunlight) for long lasting blooms.

Recruitment Under Way

Recruitment of students is now underway with the Bureau for Manpower Services for another training series beginning Jan. 9, 1984, at the Job Training Program in Morehead State University's Appalachian Development Center.

Training is available in phlebotomy (laboratory assistance), food service management, tourism and retail sales and data entry/account clerking. The phlebotomy and data entry training is a six-week program. Food service management, tourism and retail sales training runs four weeks.

Upon graduation, trainees are assisted in finding employment in the area. The training is funded by the TENCO Private Industry Council, in conjunction with the Bureau for Manpower Services.

Interested candidates should apply at the Bureau for Manpower Services in the Trademore Shopping Center.

Mt. Manor Receives 'Superior' Rating

A long-term care facility in Floyd County has been rated "Superior" for individual levels of resident care under Kentucky's nursing home reform legislation. The "Superior" rating was made for the intermediate level of care provided by the Mountain Manor of Prestonsburg. The designation is made by the Cabinet for Human Resources' Division of Licensing and Regulation and is prepared for each long-term care facility in the state during the facility's annual relicensure survey by the cabinet's staff.

Human Resources Secretary Al Austin said, "One section of Kentucky's nursing home reform law allowed for the designation by rating of the individual levels of care, in order for the consuming public to get some idea of the type of service being provided under state regulations."

Levels of resident care not attaining "Superior" status are designated either "Unrated," which indicates that the service is in compliance with at least the minimum standards, or "Conditional Rating," which means that this particular level of care in that facility is in non-compliance with the standards.

Director Sara Pratt of the Licensing and Regulation Division said, "It's important for the public to understand that each separate level of service is rated individually. Many facilities today offer two and sometimes three levels of residential care and each has its own rating." Levels of care at long-term facilities include personal care, intermediate care, intermediate care/mental retardation-developmentally disabled, nursing home and skilled nursing care.

In order to achieve a "Superior" rating, a facility must meet two standards for the level of care involved. "First, it must be in compliance with the minimum standards for licensing in each of 11 areas," said Ms. Pratt. "Then, the facility must exceed those minimum standards, in at least six of 11 areas of its operation." Those 11 areas are administration, nursing service, dietary and nutritional services, life safety codes, physical environment, physical and restorative therapy, social services and activities, drugs and biologicals, medical services, patient rights and record keeping.

Ms. Pratt concluded, "I believe this process provides a real incentive to the long-term care facilities in Kentucky to achieve the highest possible rating. Achievement of the 'Superior' designation for an individual level of care should tell the public something about that facility, just as the other ratings will serve as an indication of the track record as well."

Viral Infections May Be Treated Effectively By New Medications

Thanks to a new family of medications, physicians are able to treat viral infections effectively for the first time.

Viral-induced ailments, such as lower-respiratory infections, influenza, and certain strains of herpes, can be managed, if not conquered, by curtailing the growth of the infecting agent. The substance that does this is called an antiviral.

According to an article appearing in the January Reader's Digest, antibiotics do their job by killing the single-celled bacteria that float around in the bloodstream and cause the infection; antivirals, on the other hand, inhibit the replication of infectious agents in cells invaded by virus. "If this can be done soon enough, before thousands of active viruses are released to subvert other healthy cells, the body's own immune system can then keep the infection under control," medical writer Stanley Englehardt reports.

"Just controlling a viral disease can produce wondrous results for people who are suffering from disabling or life-threatening forms of it," he continues. Cancer and transplant patients, with their immune systems suppressed by chemotherapy, are especially vulnerable to runaway viral infections—most of which can now be controlled by antivirals.

There are five antiviral drugs approved for prescription use in various forms in the U.S., and a sixth is on the horizon.

*Amantadine—effective in preventing flu among high-risk people and in aborting epidemics at schools and military camps, as well as in treating the disease.

*Idoxuridine—first of the ointment antivirals used in treating eye infections that cause corneal scarring and sometimes loss of vision.

*Vidarabine—licensed for treatment against herpes encephalitis and also for herpes zoster (shingles) in immunosuppressed patients.

*Trifluridine—most effective antiviral for treatment of keratitis infections of the eye.

*Acyclovir—can manage and sometimes prevent occurrences of herpes simplex genitalis, a painful disease that affects some 15 to 20 million people in the U.S. It is also being hailed as a breakthrough in antiviral therapy, Englehardt writes. Where most of the other approved drugs carry some potential for side effects—even if they are mild and transient—acyclovir appears to be less toxic for normal cells.

*Ribavirin—not yet authorized by the FDA—appears to manage the respiratory syncytial virus responsible for more than ten percent of the lower-respiratory-tract infections that attack children each winter.

Dr. Martin S. Hirsch, chief of virology at Massachusetts General Hospital, says of the new medications: "In just ten years the outlook for treating viral infections has gone from gloom to optimism. While more work needs to be done, there's no longer any doubt that we've entered the age of antivirals."

Mine Tech Classes At Pikeville College

The mining technology department at Pikeville College has scheduled several classes for the 1984 spring semester. Courses available are Safe Mine Supervision I, Techniques of Mine Supervision, Coal Science Fundamentals, Math for Mining Tech, Mine Operations and Law I, Mine Operations and Law II, Mine Rescue, Mine Maps Graphics, Mine Safety Management, Roof Control, Preparation Plant Technology, Mine Equipment Technology, Mine Operation and Law, Mine Maps and Related Graphics, Mine Electricity, and Coal Analysis. Registration for the spring semester will be held in the Armington Science-Learning Center January 9 from 8:30-11:45 a.m., 12:30-4 p.m. and 5:30-7 p.m.

MINE CERTIFICATION CLASS SLATED AT PIKE COLLEGE

A mining instructor certification class will be conducted at Pikeville College during the second and third weeks of January. Upon completion of the course, students will receive certification as a mine safety instructor through the Mine Safety and Health Administration (MSHA). The class will meet evenings from 6 to 10 p.m. and is limited to 20 students. For additional information and to pre-register contact Don E. Hall at 432-9362.

Most people believe that foods containing cholesterol should be avoided. But this conclusion, declares the January Reader's Digest, ignores the fact that the normal human body needs cholesterol—about 100 milligrams each day—and that if you don't ingest it, the body will produce it anyway.

Medicare Enrollment Period Begins Jan.

People who failed to sign up for the medical insurance part of Medicare or who once had this protection but dropped it will have a chance to get this protection during the 1984 general enrollment period, January through March. Jim Kelly, Social Security District Director for the Big Sandy Area, said recently.

The medical insurance part of Medicare helps pay for doctor bills, outpatient hospital services, and many other medical items and services not covered under hospital insurance.

Protection for people who sign up during the general enrollment period will start July 1, 1984.

Medical insurance is financed by premiums paid by those enrolled and the Federal general revenue. Currently the federal government pays about three-fourths of the cost.

People who sign up during a general enrollment period may pay a higher premium, Kelly said. This is because the premium is increased by 10 percent for each full year a person could have had this protection but did not.

People who have Medicare and need assistance in submitting their Medicare bills should contact the Social Security Office.

More information about Medicare can be obtained at the Big Sandy Social Security Office, located on U.S. 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville. The telephone number is listed in your local directory under U.S. Government.

Protect Poultry Operations From Avian Influenza Virus

Kentucky poultry flocks so far have been spared from the deadly avian influenza that has hit the East, but producers here should still take precautions.

A virus that has become highly pathogenic, avian influenza is wreaking havoc on the poultry industry in Pennsylvania and New Jersey. The U.S. Department of Agriculture said Tuesday that 5.4 million chickens on 121 premises in those states have been killed, with total indemnities of $10 million in connection with avian flu. The disease also has been found in a 12,000-bird turkey flock in Pennsylvania.

"Kentucky hasn't had any outbreaks yet, thank heaven, but that doesn't mean there won't be any. How can you stop a virus?" said Dr. John Tuttle, Extension poultry production specialist in the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Agriculture officials suspect that wild ducks and geese coming down the flyway could be vectors of the virus, Tuttle said. Avian influenza does not affect people, but does affect all types of poultry and game birds.

Avian influenza was found last April in a flock of laying hens in Lancaster, Pa., but mortality of hens in that outbreak ran only two to three percent. Early in the summer, affected flocks

Prepared Childbirth Class Is Scheduled

A prepared childbirth class sponsored by The Big Sandy Family and Childbirth Education Association is scheduled to meet on Tuesday evenings from January 3 through February 7. The purpose of the course is to train husband and wives in techniques of prepared childbirth.

ARRH Auxiliary Holds Annual Christmas Party

The annual Christmas party for the ARRH Auxiliary was held December 17 at the home of Violet Hall, treasurer. Steve Hall, son of the hostess, led the group in a prayer for an understanding of the true meaning of Christmas. Later he took pictures of the activities.

An evening of fun began at the buffet table, where many Christmas delicacies were enjoyed. Afterwards, playing of games and the singing of Christmas carols preceded the exchange of gifts.

Helen Stumbo, president of the auxiliary, presented each member with colorful, handmade lapel ornaments. A new member of the group, Roberta Luxmore, presented everyone with amusing, handmade tree ornaments.

A short business session was held toward the end of the evening in which finishing touches were put on plans to distribute Christmas treats to the McDowell Hospital patients to take place December 23.

The members attending included Anna Moore, Inzie Moore, Brooksie Gayheart, Alma Mosley, Anna Sue Stumbo, Edith Hopkins, Ruby Akers, Celia Little, Christine Stewart, Melva Tackett, Linda Hughes, Kathryn Youmans, Nannie Hall, and the hostess, Violet Hall.

had two to five percent mortality. But in October, mortality in some flocks started running as high as 60-65 percent.

The USDA, after being petitioned by state and federal animal health officials, public health officials and poultry producers groups, implemented an eradication task force and funded it with $12.5 million for payment of indemnities to producers for flocks slaughtered in the eradication program.

The chickens are killed humanely with carbon dioxide and are buried in sanitary landfills, Tuttle said. The Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Resources is monitoring and approving landfill sites. The large number of poultry being killed prompted the governor of Pennsylvania to call out some National Guard units to haul and bury the birds.

There are several strains of avian influenza virus, Tuttle explained. The various diseases these viruses cause have extremely variable incubation periods, ranging from a few hours to a few days and dependent on the dose of the virus, the route of exposure, and the species exposed.

"The signs of the disease are extremely variable and depend on the species affected, the age and sex of the birds, concurrent infections, the infecting virus and environmental factors," said Tuttle.

Reported symptoms include decreased activity, decreased egg production, mild to severe respiratory symptoms, coughing, sneezing, rales, excessive secretion of tears, huddling, ruffled feathers, sinusitis, edema of head and face, cyanosis of unfeathered skin, nervousness, and diarrhea.

No practical, specific treatment is available for avian influenza virus infections, said Tuttle. Amantadine has been used on an experimental basis and has shown some effectiveness, and antibiotic treatment has been employed to reduce the effects of concurrent mycoplasma and bacterial infections, he noted.

Tuttle recommended that Kentuckians who raise poultry or game birds or who hunt take the following precautions:

—Isolate your flock. Allow no visitors on your premises. Allow no poultry hauling trucks, and make sure feed trucks are cleaned before entering your premises.

—Isolate yourself, your family and your employees from sites or possible carriers of the disease. Don't go to poultry shows or cock fights, and stay away from processing plants or produce houses.

—Don't bring birds of any kind onto your premises for the duration of this emergency.

—Don't hunt ducks or geese, or at least don't handle any ducks or geese, wild or tame. They could be carriers of avian influenza.

'83 Deer Tags Valid For Bernheim Hunt

Hunters wishing to participate in an emergency deer hunt on Bernheim Forest should keep their 1983 deer tags, according to officials of the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

Normally, deer tags expire Dec. 31. However, 1983 tags will be valid for the Bernheim hunt, which will take place sometime in early 1984. A 1984 hunting license will be required.

Final plans for this hunt, which is necessary to relieve a serious overpopulation problem on this 10,000-acre refuge in Bullitt and Nelson counties, should be made public within two weeks, fish and wildlife officials say. According to preliminary plans, hunters will be chosen by a random drawing, with application procedures and deadlines to be announced as soon as possible. A deer tag will not be necessary to enter the drawing, and tags for successful applicants who have not previously purchased them will be available before the hunt.

Make Wood-Burning Season Safe

Rising fuel prices have caused many people to install wood-burning stoves and furnaces in their homes. A fire in the hearth—or stove—can warm the body and soul and ease heating bills. But, while you're enjoying your wood stove, take care to use caution in operating it, advises Gene Ball, Floyd County Extension Agent.

With the increase in the number of wood-heat systems in Floyd county homes there also is an increase in potential safety hazards.

"We are seeing woodcutting related accidents, from splinters to serious cuts. And in the home there is always an increased fire risk when you have intense radiant heat near such things as cloth, wood and paint," says Ball.

If you have recently installed a wood burning system you should thoroughly inspect your chimney or flue for creosote buildup. A chimney fire can occur when creosote, which comes from burning wood, ignites. These fires burn at high temperatures and can spread to the roof of other buildings because of the enormous updraft created by the fire.

These high temperatures can also damage the chimney, causing cracks in fire clay linings and in masonry, and can cause metal pipes to warp.

For stoves with metal pipes, tap the pipe with a metal object such as a screwdriver. If you hear a metallic ping, the pipe is clean. A dull thud indicates a clogged pipe.

Caution should be taken in starting wood fires. Never use flammable liquids, especially kerosene or gasoline. A good supply of dry kindling and a little newspaper will start a fire with one match. Only responsible teens and adults should be allowed to start fires. Matches and children can be a hazardous combination.

Check with your stove dealer, insurance agent or fire inspector for distance you need to set your stove from burnable material when installing your wood burning unit and ways to provide an approved heat barrier to protect your home.

Emergency Transportation Group To Aid Those Needing Transplants

News today relating to the transplanting of human organs is basically "good news". Medicine has enjoyed significant advancements and successes in this area, yet, time remains a critical and often limiting factor in the process, both in finding a suitable donor and in transporting the organ to the recipient.

Dowell Division, Dow Chemical U.S.A. joins 38 member companies in the petroleum industry to establish a nationwide emergency air transportation program designed to assist individuals in critical need of organ transplants. Oil Industry Lifesaving Flights (OIL Flights) is the first organized national effort to make corporate or chartered aircraft available for transplant-related purposes.

The pilot program will be launched

January 1, 1984, providing a pool of 45 planes in 17 cities in 11 states from California to Florida and Texas to Illinois. The aircraft, offered on a charitable basis, will be made available to transport organs, donors, recipients or surgical teams who recover organs for numerous transplant centers in the United States.

Dowell is donating to OIL Flights the services of a Grumman Gulfstream I and a Beechcraft King-Air. Dr. H.E. Newby, a medical director, will be Dowell's contact for the program.

"We are pleased to be among the first in industry to be part of such a worthwhile endeavor," said Bernie Butcher, Dowell president. "I'm glad that we are able to respond and to provide assistance, especially to those individuals who don't have the financial resources necessary for this kind of emergency," he stated.

OIL Flights will be administered through a nonprofit foundation of the Greater Houston Council and governed by a board composed of petroleum industry, hospital administration and medical representatives. Serving as chairman is J.B. Coffman, president and chief operating officer of Aminoil Inc., a subsidiary of R.J. Reynolds Industries, Inc.

At a Houston press conference, Coffman said that OIL Flights responds to some very definite needs. "Rapid transportation is the key in transplant cases. Additionally, very few medical insurance programs cover organ transportation expenses," he said. "Also, many of the donors are trauma victims who are from smaller cities where the required type of transport aircraft is now always available," Coffman explained.

Harry Seymour, Dowell's chief pilot, pointed out that an important aspect of the OIL Flights program will be the variety of corporate aircraft available throughout the U.S. "These smaller planes are versatile with a wide range of operations and can access almost any airstrip," Seymour said.

OIL Flights will be directed toward arranging transportation for heart, pancreas and liver transplants which require immediate and rapid transport in an ice-cooled environment without sophisticated instrumentation, according to Coffman. Other common types of transplants such as those for cornea or bone marrow seldom require special transportation and the kidney transplant program is funded by the federal government, he said.

The OIL Flights in Houston will maintain information on the base of operations and characteristics of participating companies' aircraft and will coordinate with the emergency transportation of organs in response to requests from the major transplant centers in the U.S. In the event that corporate aircraft are unavailable or where life support systems are needed, special aircraft will be chartered, funded by cash contributions from member companies.

Dowell is a division of Dow Chemical U.S.A. and provides various services to the oil and gas industry as well as mining and industrial cleaning services. Dowell is headquartered in Houston.

'Hill St.' director recalls Conrad

By Joan Crosby

Michael Conrad

Arthur Alan Seidelman directed one of the last "Hill Street Blues" episodes to feature Michael Conrad. Conrad, who played Sgt. Phil Esterhaus, died of cancer in November.
"His courage was amazing," Seidelman says. "He was in the hospital and he would leave it one day a week to come to work. The producers were also wonderful in working it so that he could shoot only one day a week. They added a year to his life by keeping him working."
"He never missed a work call and he never admitted defeat. After our day of work he told me he was sorry we didn't have more to do together and then he added, 'but we will the next time.'"
Seidelman, who has won Emmys for producing, writing and directing TV movies and specials, was reluctant to direct episodic TV because he says, "it's usually impossible for a director to contribute anything original."
But he made an exception with "Hill Street" and another Steven Bochco show, "Bay City Blues," the now-canceled series about a minor-league baseball team.

Working on series as different as "Hill Street" and "Bay City" meant that Seidelman had to alter his technique for each.
"With 'Hill Street,' you have to respect what the actors have created while they have been on the series and then, as a director, try to shed some new light on an already polished diamond.
"With 'Bay City,' a new show with many young actors, the director has to get involved with forming the characters. The first one I directed was the fourth show they shot and the basis of the characters were still being formed."

SPORTS PROBE

Many fans question Cosell, but not his 'SportsBeat'

Howard Cosell

SOMEBODY LIKES HIM — Lord knows Howard Cosell has many detractors.
But as everyone interested in sports knows, his Emmy Award-winning "ABC SportsBeat," seen every Saturday, is one of the best of its kind. It is the only TV network show devoted entirely to sports journalism.
"SportsBeat" won an Emmy in 1981 in the "Special Classification of Outstanding Program" and in the 1982-83 season for "Special Classification of Outstanding Achievement: Sports Journalism."
The 30-minute show, which premiered on Aug. 30, 1981, was viewed monthly that year and became a weekly feature in 1982. It has just been renewed for another year.
Cosell's "tell it like it is" style is combined with telling it "where the action is" since the New York-based crew has traveled to such locations as Ireland, Mexico, Israel, England and Monte Carlo pursuing major sports stories.
Some of the key issues covered in "SportBeat's" two-year run have been the state of professional boxing; the Al Davis-NFL court case; sports' drug-abuse problems; strikes in pro sports, and the use of steroids by Olympic athletes.

While Cosell, who doubles as the show's host and producer, interviews many heavies on the program such as Bowie Kuhn, George Steinbrenner, Larry Holmes and Pete Rozelle, he doesn't overlook sports' lighter side.
"SportsBeat" has also done features on Darryl Dawkins' challenging the NBA's device to prevent him shattering another backboard, and a satirical tribute to Fernando Valenzuela.

In 1947, the Motion Picture Academy made a special award to a foreign-language film, selecting one of the finest films ever made, Vittorio De Sica's "Shoe Shine." This Italian film, semi-documentary in nature, told of the tragedies of war's aftermath. With passion and deep understanding of his countrymen's problems, De Sica pictured a group of street children working in the black market, being used by gangsters, and being sent to prison.

Unlike later "new-realism" film efforts, De Sica avoided bitterness and editorialism in this production. Rather, he used the film medium as an objective reporter's eye, seeing and telling all. "Shoe Shine" ushered in a new world of filmmaking, one populated by real people confronting real problems.

Question: In 1971, De Sica directed another Oscar-winning film, starring Dominique Sanda, which focused on the anti-Semitic movement in pre-World War II Italy. Can you name this film?

Answer: "The Garden of the Finzi-Continis"

Looking back at '83

By Andy Noble

1983 will be remembered as the year of Mr. T, "M*A*S*H" and the miniseries.

"The A-Team" was the surprise series hit of the year, which some critics said was excessively violent. The NBC show about four mercenaries, a combination of "The Dirty Dozen," "Mission: Impossible" and Saturday morning cartoons, made a superstar of Mr. T, a gruff, gold-laden former bodyguard.

When "M*A*S*H" left the air in February after 11 seasons, its two-and-a-half-hour finale became the highest-rated show in TV history. The 4077th may have folded its tents, but fans of the CBS series weren't abandoned. A sequel, "AfterMASH," was one of the fall season's few new successes.

As the quality and longevity of series diminished, miniseries became more important to the networks. ABC's "Winds of War" and "Thorn Birds" were among the most successful. NBC's "Princess Daisy," based on Judith Krantz's potboiler, was high-gloss fantasy.

Not all specials were escapist. ABC's TV movie "The Day After," a graphic account of a nuclear war's effects on the residents of Lawrence, Kan., was among the most controversial events in TV history — and a ratings success.

Many of the new fall series merely recycled old plots — ghosts ("Jennifer Slept Here"), talking animals ("Mr. Smith"), genies ("Just Our Luck") — and landed at the bottom of the ratings heap.

One new show based on an old idea, however, was successful — Aaron Spelling's adaptation of "Hotel," Arthur Hailey's book and film. "Dynasty," another Spelling property, continued to draw big ratings. Archrivals Krystle (Linda Evans) and Alexis (Joan Collins) began the season trapped in a burning cabin — but both survived to face a new season of scheming.

More wholesome activities occurred on "Cheers," where Sam (Ted Danson) and Diane (Shelley Long) finally became lovers, although some say this development has drained some of the series' suspense. "Cheers" was a classic example of a slow-starting show being supported by the network until its popularity increased. Many series weren't as lucky and were given the hook after only a few episodes. Who recalls "Condo," "Foot in the Door" or "At Ease"?

Trying to keep viewers, the networks introduced several limited-run series during the summer, usually a time for reruns. All were failures except NBC's "Buffalo Bill," starring Dabney Coleman as a crabby, arrogant talk-show host. After a fall hiatus, it returned in December.

Scholars Program Seeks Teacher

The Governor's Scholars Program is seeking outstanding high school and college teachers to serve as faculty for the 1984 summer enrichment program for Kentucky's top high school juniors, Lillian Press, director of the program, announced today.

The five week program which is now in its second year, will be held on two college campuses with up to 300 students on each campus. It will be conducted at Eastern Kentucky University, Richmond, from June 30 to August 2, and at Centre College, Danville, from July 1 to August 3. Students completing their junior year of high school by this summer are eligible for the program.

Recruitment letters with information for teachers have been mailed to high school principals and superintendents and to college and university academic officials.

"We're seeking gifted teachers with a broad range of interests," Ms. Press said. "They must be ready to take part in a living and learning situation with students, which takes place on weekends as well as in the classroom. Last year's faculty members were very enthusiastic about the benefits of the program, not only for the students, but for their own professional growth."

"The great success of last summer's program encouraged the Board of Directors to extend the opportunity to more than twice as many qualified high school juniors in 1984," she said.

There will be from 25-30 new openings for teachers in the 1984 summer program in subject areas of astronomy, biology, mathematics, physical sciences (includes physics), geology, literature, history, function of language (includes foreign language), fine arts and aesthetics, cultural anthropology, political economy and computer science.

Last year's faculty was drawn equally from Kentucky high schools—private and public—and from the state's colleges and universities.

The program is a partnership of education, business and government and was created to recognize and promote excellence in Kentucky education. Last year 245 of Kentucky's high school juniors were the first Governor's Scholars at Centre College. Student application information will be mailed in January to Kentucky schools.

Those interested in applying for teachers' positions should immediately contact their principals, academic deans or directors who have application request forms, or they should write the Director, Governor's Scholars Program, State Capitol, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601. If teachers do not have an application request form, they should include the subjects they teach along with return address and phone numbers in their letters to the director.

COURIERS, UNLIMITED, one of America's foremost touring contemporary Christian music ministries, will perform in concert at the First United Methodist Church, Sunday, January 1, at 11 a.m.

Appearances at some of the country's major Jesus festivals, youth conventions, high school and college concerts and numerous appearances in churches throughout the U.S. have served to establish the Couriers, Unlimited as one of the foremost touring ministries in the contemporary Christian music field today.

Whatever the setting—church, high school, college, festival or community auditorium—the Couriers, Unlimited consistently demonstrate the quality of reaching out and meeting the needs of their audience through their music. The public is cordially invited to share this musical experience.

Berea Research To Reserve Early School Records

BEREA, KY—The letter, addressed to the director of a mountain school, was handwritten and brief.

"I would like to enter your school. I am in the 8th grade and I want to come and make the school my home. I will bring a pig with me and some potatoes."

The reply from the school was equally brief and to-the-point. "One could hardly refuse an appeal like yours. It looks like an effort to do your best toward getting an education. So I am going to tell you to bring your pig and come on."

The year was 1927 and the Eastern Kentucky youngster's letter was representative of the educational desires of many mountain children and their families during that period, according to Berea College's Mary Zimmeth who has been directing a two-year project to preserve records of The Settlement Schools of Appalachia.

During the early part of the 20th Century, when public schools in the mountains were sparse, the private boarding schools were founded, not only to provide education to area children but also to discover and develop services that would benefit nearby communities, and often, the region.

Some were founded by churches and others by educated and affluent women such as Katherine Pettit of Lexington and May Stone of Louisville who, in 1902, began the Hindman Settlement School in Knott county, Ms. Zimmeth added.

"But the improvements in roads and public education which began in the 1940's have caused many of the mountain schools to modify or in some cases, abandon their original mission. The tradition of the original schools and their importance in educational history was in danger of being lost."

In 1981, Berea College, which has maintained a long and supportive relationship with these private mountain schools, received a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities to establish a research project to preserve and microfilm records of 10 settlement institutions in Kentucky and North Carolina.

The project's work involved locating and bringing to Berea all available records and documents, then sorting, organizing and deciding which were of archival value and finally, having materials microfilmed. Original materials are being returned to the schools, and guidebooks have been prepared for the microfilm collection at Hutchins Library on the Berea campus.

Institutions participating in the project included Annville Institute, Hazel Green Academy, Henderson Settlement, Oneida Baptist Institute, Pine Mountain Settlement School, Red Bird Mission, Hindman Settlement School and Buckhorn Children's Center in Kentucky; the John C. Campbell Folk School and Hinton Rural Life Center in North Carolina.

"It's a wonderful collection of information on mountain families who attended these schools and a local, as well as regional, history," Ms. Zimmeth said, adding that the materials also are important for their information on cultural history, education and moral values in the mountains.

In addition to being available from the Special Collections Department of Hutchins Library, the microfilms also will be offered for interlibrary loans across the nation.
