Rendering by architect Randall C. Burchett of the Mountain Christian Academy slated for construction near Martin.

Construction work on Phase I (shown in right portion of accompanying drawing) of the Mountain Christian Academy to be located on KY 80, two miles west of (above) Martin, is expected to be completed by next fall, in time for the opening of classes ranging from pre-school through the first year of high school.

Cost of the overall project is estimated at $1.8 million. With the completion of other phases, the curriculum will include all four years of high school.

Major funding to enable the school to get under way is being provided by the Christian Appalachian Project (CAP), which has been involved in projects designed to help the Appalachian area of Kentucky for more than 20 years. The Rev. Ralph Beiting, Catholic priest serving Floyd and Magoffin counties, is chairman of the CAP board.

Phase I will measure approximately 100 x 100 feet and will include a cafeteria.

An advisory board of Floyd, Magoffin and Johnson county citizens has been named. David Neeley, of Prestonsburg, is chairman; Nancy Hill Howard, Prestonsburg, vice-chairman; Karen Salisbury, Martin, secretary, and Ronnie Jones, Banner, treasurer. Other members of the advisory board are Randy Burchett, Prestonsburg; John Reed and Carl Ankrom, both of Banner; the Rev. Christopher Platt, St. James Episcopal Church, Prestonsburg; Henry Hatkworth, Prestonsburg; the Rev. Timothy Jessen, First Presbyterian Church, Prestonsburg; Clyde O. Burchett, Prestonsburg; Ralph Hodson, Salyersville; Mike Vallez, Paintsville; Dr. William B. Cook, Prestonsburg.

Martin Mayor Scores Report Fund in Danger

The mayor of Martin accused Congressman Carl D. Perkins of trying to stampede him. A spokesman said the congressman only wanted to break the deadlock holding up construction of Martin's water system. In any event, the problem dividing Martin officials apparently moved no closer to resolution this week.

"Because I won't do what the bureaucrats want me to do... they come down and crush you," Mayor Larry B. Hall said last Thursday, according to a report published in the Ashland Daily Independent Friday.

The mayor was referring to the possible loss of a $500,000 Economic Development Administration grant to help rebuild Martin's water system, a threat for which Hall reportedly blamed Perkins.

In telegrams sent Thursday to Hall and Joe McCauley, executive-director of the Big Sandy Area Development District, Perkins warned that EDA "is preparing to pull back the grant" for the water system because of the lawsuit which is blocking action on the project.

The suit, which was filed by the

Curb on Spread Of Taverns Eyed; New Rules OK'd

When Floyd countians voted wet last June, what most of them had in mind were retail package stores, not roadhouses, County Attorney Arnold Turner, Jr. told members of the fiscal court last week.

The magistrates, in turn, authorized Floyd ABC Administrator Denzil Allen to impose a regulation on holders of retail beer licenses that would at least partially curb the growth of taverns in the county.

A public hearing on the proposed regulation has been set for Thursday, Jan. 27, at 3 p.m. in the courthouse annex.

Under the new rule, beer may still be sold by licensed retailers in cans or bottles, by the pitcher or by the glass; and it may be consumed on the premises. But no dancing, live or recorded music, or amusement games will be permitted there.

The single exception provided in the regulation is that recorded—not live—music may be played in restaurants. Nor does the regulation apply in incorporated towns, where alcoholic beverage retailers are subject to the authority of the town councils.

Valuable Mare Killed, 3 Other Horses Wounded

A bizarre incident at Auxier last Thursday evening, in which a horse was fatally shot and three others wounded, was under investigation by state police this week.

Sandy Givens, a young Ohio woman who owned the animal which was killed, a registered Arabian mare valued at more than $3,000, and two others hit by bullets, said the shooting began at about 6 p.m. and was directed at horses standing behind the barn of Lazy Days Farm at Auxier where seven of her horses and others were being stabled. An Auxier resident who was watching the farm while its owner, Bascom Harris, was in Florida, reported hearing what he thought were the reports of firecrackers at about that time, it was said.

Hearing Postponed

A hearing on the proposed rezoning of three Arnold Avenue properties scheduled for Thursday, this week, has been postponed until February 17, at 7 p.m., Prestonsburg City Manager David Evans announced.

Budgeted Road Fund Is Almost Exhausted

If the county government exists mainly to keep the roads in shape, then—just halfway through the fiscal year—its work appears to be almost done.

Not that there are not, here and there, roads in need of a little blacktop or gravel, or grade or drain. But, according to the county treasurer's semi-annual report, almost all the funds set aside in the budget for that purpose have already been spent.

According to the report submitted to the fiscal court last Friday by Treasurer David D. Allen, of the $555,843 set aside this year for roadwork and materials, $514,945 has already been spent. That leaves a scant $40,898 to keep the roads up for the next six months.

Members of the fiscal court, who point out that their responsibilities demand a good deal of out-of-county travel to conferences and workshops, are apparently having a hard time making ends meet on their regular salaries and expense accounts.

Judge-Executive Jerry Lafferty, Jr., who is entitled to $3600 for expenses in addition to his $28,387 salary, has already used up $3585.11 of his expense money. That leaves just $14.89 to see him through the rest of the year.

Fortunately, the judge's auto expenses are taken care of separately. While no specific appropriation for this purpose appears in the budget, $5901.41 has been paid him in mileage allowances during the past six months.

The four magistrates, each of whom is also entitled to $3600 for expenses in addition to his $20,844 salary, get their expenses doled out, like their salaries, in equal monthly allotments of $300 apiece—a total of $7200 since July.

It is nowhere near enough, it seems, to cover their actual costs. Additional reimbursements for the four magistrates' out-of-pocket expenses during the six months amounted to $4141. Charge cards available to the judge, deputy judge, magistrates and personnel officer were used to pay bills amounting to a further $6743 during the same period.

Tire bills that might make an airline executive wince have become routine—a total of $14,161 in a six-month period. Thefts have been a problem, Judge Lafferty explained.

Identified by the judge as bills for

Poston Draws Rape-Abduction Prison Terms

Sherman Ray Poston, last of three men accused of abducting and raping an Auxier girl last May, was convicted in Pike Circuit court last Wednesday and his prison terms could extend over 20 years.

Others accused were Edwin Michael Mullins and Freddie Harold Hunter, who had earlier entered guilty pleas in a plea-bargaining agreement to 10-year sentences on a kidnapping charge.

The jury ruled Poston guilty of four counts of an eight-count indictment alleging rape and kidnapping and recommended a five-year prison term on each. Pike Commonwealth's Attorney John Paul Runyon indicated he would ask Circuit Judge E.N. Venters to order the four terms to run consecutively.

Despite Ohio State Prediction . . .

PCC Enrollment Highest Ever

Enrollment figures released this week by Prestonsburg Community College show that the college has attained its highest enrollment ever. At the close of registration on January 18, 934 students had signed for classes. The previous high was the 906 students that enrolled last semester.

"This increase in enrollment during the spring semester is somewhat of a surprise," noted Dr. Henry A. Campbell, Jr., director of the college. "For the past four or five years, we have had a slight decrease in enrollment for the spring semesters as compared to the preceding fall semester."

In evaluating the reasons for the increase, college officials made several observations. The current state of the economy in Eastern Kentucky is in part given credit for the increase. Many are unemployed, and since the job outlook seems bleak for the immediate future, people are seeking training to improve their chances for employment.

"The outstanding quality of the faculty and staff and its reputation throughout our five county service area also has certainly had an impact on our enrollment," Dr. Campbell said. "Our transfer and two-year technical programs are second to none."

Robert R. Allen, associate director at the college, added that "the dramatic increase in the interest in computer science classes at the college has also had an impact on enrollment." Last semester, for instance, 130 students were enrolled in introductory data processing classes. This semester more than 150 are enrolled in computer science classes. "In order to meet the academic needs of these students, additional computer science classes will be offered this fall," Allen noted. "Also, a computer laboratory is being established at the College which will house approximately 10 mini-computers."

The nursing program, along with engineering, secretarial administration, and management technology, which are already popular among students, are making additional gains in enrollment.

"The consistent annual increases in student enrollment is extremely gratifying in view of the fact that a study by Ohio State University in 1971 predicted the college's enrollment would be gradually decreasing, with an enrollment projection made for this year of 340 students," Campbell said.

The college opened in 1964 with an enrollment of 322.

This Town...That World

Most of us know, and sometimes give tongue to, the line, "Try, try again," but we've left it to the Weather Bureau to prove it's true. At first not succeeding in a prediction of snow, they tried again and again and again till—voilà! it snowed.

THE HOUND DOG SAGA

I didn't start the hound-dog story a couple of weeks back with an idea of making a serial of it but for one reason or another—mainly, because grist for the mill is lacking—it's "to be continued" to "finis" this week.

While I was keeping a one-room school some years ago and faring fine on a top salary of $89 a month, I did a bit of writing in my spare time and increased the old take-home with little checks sent me by The Courier-Journal, The Cincinnati Post and one or two other newspapers for news reports mailed them (I had no telephone) as a "stringer." It was during this time that I did a piece for The Kentucky Foxhunter. It was about hunters who never expected to catch or kill anything; foxhunters to whom the music of the mellow-voiced pack was enough—that, and the magic of the woods, the long ridges and dark

WORKMEN STILL LABORED Tuesday to remove rocks that tumbled from a highwall, spilling onto US 23, at Auxier day before. Boulders that fall periodically from the cliff face make the highway there a potentially perilous stretch, though no injuries were reported as a result of Monday's fall. Drilling into one monolith in an attempt to break it up are Dept. of Highways workers Ardrey Hamilton, left, of Teaberry, and Terry Tackett, of Drift.

Health Effort Loses As 'Patients' Wary

Disabled miners' fear of losing their benefits is a major factor in the failure of a program designed to improve their health, an attorney connected with the program said this week.

The program, authorized about five years ago by an amendment to the federal Coal Mine Health and Safety Act, was designed to teach miners with black lung or other respiratory ailments how to breathe properly.

Money has been budgeted to operate the program in this area since 1979, when Highlands Regional Medical Center was given $420,699 by the federal Department of Health and Human Services to hire outreach workers in a five-county area, buy equipment for clinics, and transport black lung victims to the clinics for lessons in breathing techniques.

In 1981 the breathing project director, who was also an assistant administrator at Highlands, left the program in the wake of charges that he had administered it poorly and had appropriated program funds for his personal use. After two years, the breathing project was still gasping for air.

In November that year the Lexington-based Appalachian Regional Hospital system took over the program, subcontracting for services with its member hospitals at McDowell, Hazard and Williamson and with other agencies and clinics, including Big Sandy Health Care, Kentucky Miners Health Care and Archer Memorial Clinic.

Over a year later the program is still barely alive. Federal officials provided only interim funds to keep the project going last November, insisting that ARH justify certain expenditures and generate more business if it is to receive the $379,316 budgeted for this year.

Hospital system officials replied in December that they wanted to pull out of the program, which is now to be administered, if it survives at all, by the state Department for Human Resources.

"While we agree that the provision of services to additional people in need is a desirable goal," wrote ARH President Robert L. Johnson to federal health officials in Atlanta, "experience indicates that these increases come slowly through community and patient education and are not likely to be achieved quickly."

The fact is, say observers here, that none of the subcontractors in this area has been able to generate much enthusiasm for the program among those it is meant to benefit.

Two health educators hired to run

City To Annex Area; Loses Some Rum Fees

On the strength of the principle spelled out by Councilman Bill Ray Collins that "everyone living off this city...should pay taxes in this city," Prestonsburg City Council voted Monday to annex a tract on the southern perimeter of the city and suggested it might do the same on its northern and western borders.

According to an ordinance that the council voted to have published this week, a rectangular section near the intersection of South Lake Drive and KY 3 at Lancer would be brought within the city limits. The area includes Maloney's store, an adjacent lot on which a shopping complex is being built, Robert's Pizzeria and Jacobs' Gulf Station.

Tracts on both sides of US 23 from the city's existing northern boundary to the Auxier bridge and a section of West Prestonsburg including the Action Petroleum outlet and surrounding properties will be considered for annexation at the next council meeting, it was said.

Already published and awaiting final action is an ordinance which would bring into the city properties on the western side of US 23 at Katy Fried.

Property owners may petition to have an annexation bid put on the ballot, in which case residents of the area affected may vote on the issue.

As they have done in a number of other Kentucky cities, wholesale liquor distributors have refused to pay a fee for doing business here and—as has also been the case in other cities—the city council has backed down rather than press the issue.

According to the city's alcohol control ordinance enacted last August, wholesale beer distributors were each required to pay an annual $400 fee and wholesale liquor dealers were to pay $3000 to operate here. Beer dealers went along with the levy but liquor dealers said they would pay nothing. City Attorney Paul P. Burchett told the council.

Rather than engage in a costly legal battle, the council voted to levy on beer and liquor wholesalers only the $150 annual unloading fee required of all trucks operating within the city.

At the request of Dr. Garland Godsey, Arnold Avenue resident, a hearing on the rezoning of several properties on that street, scheduled for Thursday this week, was continued to February 17, at 7 p.m.

WOMAN'S CLUB NEWS

GFWC/Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club met Monday evening, January 17, in the home of Mrs. Don Hughes, of Garrett, with Mrs. Hughes, program leader. In the absence of the invited speaker, State Senator Benny Ray Bailey, who was to speak on public affairs, Mrs. Hughes spoke instead on "Safety Tips in the Home", giving some very interesting, practical, and simple safety measures.

Mrs. Launice Dunfee gave the devotional, following which the Pledge to the Flag was led by Mrs. Don Hughes.

During a discussion of the annual baking and delivery of cupcakes to the Golden Years Rest Home, Mrs. James E. Martin and Mrs. Hughes volunteered to deliver from Wayland and Garrett, respectively, on Saturday, February 12, with each club member to bake two dozen cupcakes.

It was voted to sponsor one Special Olympics athlete in the Kentucky Special Olympics and the sale of artists' prints was agreed on to raise additional funds for this and various other projects.

The club president, Mrs. Otto Martin, called the members' attention to the GFWC's support of U.S. Savings Bonds as a means of investment and/or savings with the new competitive interest rates making them much more attractive.

Refreshments were served by hostesses, Mrs. Hughes, Mrs. Stanley Bamer, and Mrs. Marcellous Dunfee.

The February meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. James E. Martin, Wayland, with Mrs. Martin program leader on the subject "Crime Reduction" with a state police officer to be the guest speaker.

May I Recommend A Book For You To Read?

In this column we usually answer a question that represents a concern expressed to me. This time we would like to recommend an excellent book by Dr. Elisabeth Kubler-Ross, QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS ON DEATH AND DYING.

This book presents many of the questions which have been asked of Dr. Kubler-Ross by people who have heard her lectures, attended her seminars, or workshops on caring for the dying. The answers found in this book relate mostly to adults.

Death is still a subject all too often avoided in thought and discussion—not because we do not care, but because we feel so helpless and find too many unanswered questions about this final parting. This book can provide a thoughtful and constructive guide.

We have a collection of books on the subject of death-and-dying which might be helpful to you, especially if you have a close friend or relative who has died or is close to death. Please consult us whenever we can serve you.

Where Is the Competition?

Supply-side economics and the philosophy that price ceilings aren't needed because competition will control prices are widely accepted in the name of free enterprise. But, however roseate the aura surrounding them, they are sometimes more myth than reality.

Control by competition was in the thinking of the Congress when it authorized decontrol of prices of "new" natural gas. Besides, the lifting of controls also would spur producers to step up drilling activities and make more gas available. And more gas being available, according to supply-side economics, the price would drop.

The same thinking apparently leads the Reagan administration now to seek removal of controls from other gas, about 40 percent of the total supply, which remains under price ceilings. (Some of that "old" gas is being bought at the well-head from smaller producers for as low as 35 cents per thousand cubic feet.)

But a surplus of the fuel is not driving prices down. Nor is there any competition that will help the consumer. For Columbia Gas Transmission and Kentucky West Virginia Gas, or their affiliates, literally have a corner on the market in a large section of the country, including Eastern Kentucky, and any company that might conceivably have an idea of price-cutting is not even in the ball park.

A thousand or so miles of gas mains aren't going to be closed and new lines laid to accommodate other companies, and new purchase contracts executed, not to mention old contracts cancelled—not overnight, or even in the foreseeable future.

Then where does that leave competition? Who will, or can, compete? Then how will deregulation restore gas prices to the point that the ordinary consumer can afford to pay the bill?

The Congress must take bold, definitive action to control a situation that is the antithesis of every anti-inflation policy that has been considered.

mayor in the state Court of Appeals last summer, stems from a dispute between Hall and members of Martin city council over whether Martin should use its federal funds to augment the Beaver Elkhorn plant and buy water from that system or rebuild Martin's own plant, buying water in the meantime from Prestonsburg.

"It is urgent that the lawsuit be settled immediately," Perkins wired. "If this grant is pulled back I do not believe it will be possible to get it back."

Dave Whalen, a spokesman in Perkins' office, said the congressman was "just trying to get them (Martin officials) to move on this thing."

the program at the Mud Creek Clinic were laid off last June because they didn't see enough patients to justify the expense, said Lois Trusty, comptroller at Big Sandy Health Care, the clinic's parent agency. And three outreach workers for the Pikeville-based Kentucky Miners Health Care will be laid off at the end of this month because they were unable to persuade enough black lung victims to attend the clinics, said Laura Vandergaw, the group's attorney.

The reason for the disabled miners' reluctance to become involved in the program, she said, is fear that it might jeopardize their black lung or Social Security disability benefits.

Especially after the recent reviews of benefit programs which have been ordered by the Reagan Administration, miners are wary of submitting to treatment or taking tests that might indicate an improvement in their condition and lead to a cutoff or reduction in their benefits, Vandergaw explained.

Although the breathing program is designed to help black lung victims live more easily with their disease rather than to cure it, miners are nonetheless suspicious of the federal bureaucrat's tendency to rely strictly on medical tests to determine their condition, the attorney said.

"What if a miner is ordered to make another pulmonary function test and it turns out to be normal?" she asked. "He still doesn't have a job. He still has a family to support. He still has a mortgage."

"Miners are scared (of the breathing program)," she said. "It's sad but it's understandable."

hollows, the moonlight and dancing oil lanterns, and so on.

Anyway, the editor of the little magazine liked what I wrote, printed it and sent me a note, inviting me to stop by and see him and when I came to Lexington. It developed that he was Bob Breckinridge, managing editor of The Lexington Herald, and I was to come to those sacred precincts if indeed I did come visiting!

But I finally made it, and found the Personage a regular fellow. A big, bluff man of florid complexion, Bob Breckinridge, he of the blueblood Breckinridges, one time soldier of fortune, set the country boy at ease, right off. He began talking hounds, asked how many I owned. That was right up my alley, so to speak, and I may have waxed a bit eloquent while I extolled the merits of this young black-and-tan.

I could have told him that I bought this paragon of the canine breed from Mitchell Chaffins, who lived on Rock Fork, but I knew he wasn't interested in either the former owner of the dog or where he lived. Then Breckinridge turned to me, and said, "I know where Bosco and Garrett and all those little towns are. You see, I was general manager for Elk Horn at Wayland till last year, and I got around, even went foxhunting with the boys."

Then the surprise:

"Fellow named Mitchell Chaffin owned a young hound that ran a fox from Rock Fork, or around Garrett, to Wayland. Came off the hill, feet worn out. I recognized him, put him on the train and brought him back to Mitchell at Garrett."

And so the gap closed. My dog!—known and cared for by the managing editor of The Lexington Herald, long before I had known such a dog existed.

THE LETTER

As a rule, this newspaper does not publish poetry, or verse, but the following gas been missing almost from the day I received it, and it's so painfully true that I break the office rules. Just a line to say I'm living, That I'm not among the dead, Tho I'm getting more forgetful And more mixed up in my head.

For at times I can't remember When I stand below the stair If I must go up for something Or I've just come down from there. And before the fridge so often My poor mind is filled with doubt— Have I just put food away, Or have I come to take it out? And there are times when it is dark And I've curlers on my head, I don't know if I'm retiring Or just getting out of bed.

So should it be my turn to write you, There's no need for getting sore; I may think that I have written And don't want to be a bore. So remember I do love you And I wish that you were here. But now it's nearly mail time So I'll say "Goodbye" now, dear. Here I stand beside the mailbox With my face so very red, Instead of mailing you a letter I have opened it instead.

Poston was adjudged not guilty on four of the eight counts. He was tried as a persistent felony offender and it was alleged that he had a previous felony conviction in the Floyd circuit court on a charge of knowingly receiving stolen property.

Poston testified that he was the driver of the car into which his companions forced the girl. He denied guilt of rape. His alleged accomplices testified for the commonwealth.

The trial was held in the Pike court because the girl escaped her captors at Belfry in that county and offenses cited allegedly occurred in Pike.

Miss Givens, who operated the Jenny Wiley riding stables last summer, was called from her home in Ohio and arrived the following day as police began their investigation of the incident.

"The gate rope had been cut and the horses had been driven into the open," said Miss Givens, who also pointed out that the shots "would have had to have been fired from the hillside."

The Arabian horse, which, she said, was to have been sold in coming days at a price of $2,500, died Friday after having been shot "five or six times." The other two animals, one of which is seriously wounded with a shot in the windpipe, also received multiple wounds, it was reported. Another horse, which did not belong to Miss Givens, was shot in the abdomen.

State Police Detective Keith Scott, who is leading the investigation, said it is believed that more than one weapon was used in the shootings, although proof must await extraction of bullets from the dead animal sometime this week.

Miss Givens, who is offering a $500 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the responsible person or persons, is staying with the wounded animals, day and night, at present, administering antibiotics and other medicines, which, she says, she can't afford.

"I would have just begun to break even if I had sold the mare, but now two of my other horses will be useless for riding," said Miss Givens, who has contracted with the state to operate the riding stables at Levi Jackson State Park for the coming season.

Miss Givens, who said she "could think of no reason anybody would do something like this," said the loss of money represented by the wounded animals and, especially, the loss of the prize mare, was not the worst thing about the incident. "I loved that horse," she said. "There was no sense in her being killed."

To Give Surplus Cheese At 4 Locations, Today

Surplus cheese will again be given to qualifying low-income families today (Wednesday) by the Big Sandy Area Community Action Program.

Priority will be given to the elderly and handicapped to receive the cheese which will be given out the same day as that of application and which may be picked up for one other eligible person if a letter of authorization is presented which is signed by the applicant and shows their name, address, social security number, and gross income for the last month.

tires are a $475 payment to Montgomery Ward in July and payments of $3000 in September, $2404 in October, $3000 in November and $1000 in December to Timco Supply Co., of Salyersville.

Among other gleanings from the county's financial records:

—Of $9000 budgeted to help the senior citizens' centers this year, $8250 had been spent by Dec. 31. The fiscal court voted last week to fund the centers for another three months—$4500 will pay for two part-time bus drivers—the judge-executive vowing that "we'll find the money somewhere."

—The Kentucky Motel, owned by Deputy Judge-Executive Thomas D. Lafferty, is paid $1000 a month for leasing space to Floyd County Solid Waste, Inc. The rental fee is a bargain, Judge Lafferty insists, adding that the county is picking up the tab in order to help out the solid waste agency in difficult times.

—Democracy doesn't come cheap. Just for transporting the voting machines, the county paid the Coal Bit Coal Company $8350 for the primary and $8376 for the general election last year. Some 176 polling booth officials were paid a total of $3690 for their services at the general election.

—The law firm of Damron and Caudill is paid a $500-a-month retainer to supplement the services of the county attorney's office—for which the county pays $13,926 toward the county attorney's salary, $8946 toward his secretary's, and $7896 as its share of the assistant county attorney's salary. The supplementary legal adviser is needed, the judge-executive explained, because County Attorney Arnold Turner, Jr. is "hard to get hold of."

Allen said he had received "a lot of complaints" about taverns with pool tables. Under the new rule, pool tables are outlawed where beer is sold, as are pinball machines and video games.

The alcoholic beverage administrator noted also that his office could act only on written complaints, not phone calls, about unruly behavior at licensed premises. Given a letter of complaint, he will schedule a hearing on the matter. Repeated infractions could result in a license revocation, he said.

In a related action, the fiscal court authorized the drafting of an ordinance that would levy a six percent tax on retail sales of alcoholic beverages in this county.

Magistrate Lowell Samons initially urged a 10 percent tax at the wholesale level, a measure that could generate as much as $2 million a year in revenue, it was said. However, a majority felt that six percent would be more palatable to distributors and that local retailers would be less likely to mount a court challenge than would wholesale distributors.

Under the proposed ordinance, revenues generated by the tax will be split evenly between the fiscal court and the Board of Education. A proposal by Magistrate Kenneth Roberts that the school board be required to spend its share on construction and repair of buildings was not adopted.

County Attorney Turner noted that the proposed tax will stand on shaky legal grounds. While cities are given explicit authorization under state law to impose a tax to cover additional law enforcement expenses, the counties are given so much power, he explained.

A proposal by Johnson County Judge-Executive Frank Johnson that Floyd join Johnson, Martin, Lawrence and Magoffin counties in constructing a regional jail was turned down.

In a letter to the fiscal court here, Johnson stressed the economies of a joint jail venture, noting that "Johnson county is well situated geographically to serve as the site for such a facility." But Floyd Jailor Lawrence Hale warned the court that "it would be the most expensive thing you ever got into."

In other business, the court reimbursed Paul Aiken, of Cow Creek, $264 for gravel he spread on the road there; gave permission to Dave Stephens and the Leslie Oil and Gas Co. to lay a one-inch line across the county road at Slick Rock to the Benedict Chapel; allowed Julia May to widen the road between her property and the Social Security building on the Auxier road; and resolved to consider deeding back to Charlie Warrick, of West Prestonsburg, the approach to the old bridge on KY 114 that abuts his tract. That bridge, and the suspension bridge across the Big Sandy at Knotley Hollow are to be removed, it was said.

Transy Schedules "Keys To Campus"

Not a door will be locked, not that it would matter on Sunday, February 6, when Transylvania University conducts its first "Keys to the Campus" day for prospective students and their parents.

"We are calling it 'Keys to the Campus' day because we want our visitors to look into classrooms and dorm-rooms, laboratories and recital halls to see what life and learning are like at Transylvania University," explained Dr. David G. Brown, president of the university.

While visitors to Transylvania University will be on their own a great portion of the day to explore the campus and talk with faculty members and students, there will be a number of scheduled activities to introduce them to college life.

"This could very well be the first in-depth visit to a college campus by a prospective student and the first in some time for their parents. If so, they will no doubt have a number of questions about such things as financing a college education or the importance of a liberal arts education and a portion of our program will address those questions," Dr. Brown added.

"Keys to the Campus" day begins at 12:30 p.m. and concludes at 6:00 p.m. For additional information contact the Transylvania University Admissions Office, Lexington, Kentucky 40508.

Shakespeare Comedy Aired Monday on KET

Sir John Falstaff, one of Shakespeare's greatest comic characters, is the focus in a night of comedy on KET. Shakespeare's play, "The Merry Wives of Windsor" aired Monday, January 31 at 9 p.m.

In the play, Falstaff plans to replenish his meager fortune by wooing two well-to-do women at the same time. He sends identical letters professing his love to Mistress Ford and Mistress Page, who compare notes. They decide to cure Falstaff of his mischief and, at the same time, give their husbands a lesson on the evils of jealousy.

A second plot revolves around Mistress Page's daughter. Her father wants her to marry one man, her mother wants her to marry another and she wants to marry yet a third.

The play stars Richard Griffiths, Prunella Scales, Judy Davis, Miranda Foster and Bryan Marshall.

24 Million Veterans Yet Living

Out of the 39 million men and women who have served during wartime in the United States armed forces throughout our 206-year history, three out of five—or 24.3 million—are living today.

One out of eight of these survivors receives monthly Veterans Administration checks in the form of compensation or pension.

There are no veteran survivors of the Civil War, the War of 1812 or the Revolutionary War, but 53 veterans of the 392,000 who originally served in the Spanish-American War were living as of December 31, 1982. All but 12 are over 100 years old and each receives a VA check each month.

World War I's 4.7 million participants are represented today by some 368,000 surviving veterans (one of 13 who served) and nearly two out of five living veterans of World War I are on the VA's compensation or pension rolls.

Sixty-nine percent of the 16.5 million men and women who served in World War II are living today, and they constitute nearly two out of five veteran survivors of all wars as of the end of FY 1982. About one out of seven living World War II veterans is receiving compensation or pension payments from the VA.

Four out of five of the 6.8 million men and women who served during the Korean Conflict are living; only one of 17 living veterans of this conflict is receiving compensation or pension payments.

The Vietnam era involved 9.8 million participants in its eleven-year duration. Nearly nine out of ten are living today either as civilians or active military personnel. Fewer than one of each 15 in civilian life are receiving VA compensation or pension.

FLOYD COUNTY HEALTH NEWS

BY JANE BOND Health Educator

Cervical cancer is one of the most curable of all cancers, yet it kills approximately 11,000 women each year. The reason for these deaths is that the cancers were not detected soon enough. If cervical cancer is found in the earliest stages, and treatment is begun, most will be cured. There is a simple painless test to detect cervical cancer in its early stages; this is the Pap test. Women can protect themselves against cervical cancer by having regular Pap tests; it is especially important for women over age 45 to have regular Pap tests since this is the high risk age for the disease.

The Floyd County Health Department is having a Pap clinic on Friday January 28, from 8:30 until 11:30 and from 1 until 2. This clinic is a free service of the health department and any woman who has not had a Pap test in the past year is urged to take advantage of this service.

Urologist Retains Right To Practise

The state Board of Medical Licensure last week put Dr. Ernest C. Holbrook, Prestonsburg urologist, on three years' probation but declined to revoke his license to practise because of his earlier conviction on a sex offense.

He was found guilty late last year by a Fayette circuit jury of using a 17-year-old Puerto Rican boy in a sexual performance. The jury recommended an 18-month jail term but the trial judge placed him, instead, on three years' probation.

The probation by the medical board runs concurrently with that of the court.

Said Tom Carter, attorney for the board: "The board was very impressed with his (Holbrook's) credentials. The evidence was that he's an excellent physician."

Dr. Holbrook was represented by Chad Perry, Paintsville attorney.

Take a 1982 Tax Break

Our Individual Retirement Account gives you a tax break now, earns a high rate of interest, and provides you with a secure retirement later.

Any working person under the age of 70 1/2 can open an IRA, even if you are already covered by an employer's pension or profit sharing plan. When you open an IRA, you can set aside any amount up to $2,000 annually, or up to $4,000 annually if both you and your spouse work.

The amount you deposit is tax deductible in the year of the deposit, and your deposit including interest earned is tax-deferred. This means that you only pay taxes when the money is withdrawn at retirement, and at that time, you will probably be in a lower tax bracket.

When you do retire, your IRA will provide security for you and your family. Beginning at age 59 1/2, you may withdraw funds from your IRA. By offering you tax savings now and a secure retirement later, an IRA may be the most profitable long-term investment available today.

Opening an IRA is just as easy as opening any other bank account. In planning for 1982 taxes, 1983 taxes or simply a secure retirement consider an IRA. To open your IRA or learn more about this investment option, stop by any of our Bank offices today.

HYPOTHERMIA

Winter is a time of many illnesses and injuries. Cold, icy weather can bring about heart attacks, frostbite and asthma, as well as broken bones due to falls. Staying in cold places for long periods of time can harm anyone, particularly the elderly. Even cool temperatures can trigger accidental hypothermia. Attorney General Steven L. Beshear wants consumers to be aware of this condition.

Hypothermia is a condition marked by an abnormally low internal body temperature, typically 95 degrees F or under. This usually occurs fairly quickly. Elderly persons probably account for half of all victims of accidental hypothermia. The greatest risk is to the relatively small number of aged persons whose temperature regulation is defective. Infants are also at risk as are a few adults.

Elderly persons are more susceptible to hypothermia for a number of reasons. Because of age, their bodies may not adjust readily to changes in temperature, or they may keep their home temperature low because of inability to afford high heating bills. They may also be taking medications that could increase the risk of hypothermia.

There are a number of ways that the elderly can protect themselves from accidental hypothermia. Heat the living and sleeping areas to at least 65 degrees F. To cut costs without reducing temperature, consider heating only one or two rooms of the house. Dress warmly during the day, eat plenty of food and stay as active as possible. Take special care to keep warm in bed by wearing extra clothing and using several blankets. Check with your doctor concerning medication that could affect body temperature control. If living alone, have neighbors check in on you once or twice a day, particularly during severe weather.

Attorney General Beshear warns that the following should be considered possible danger signals indicating that accidental hypothermia could occur:

A change in appearance or behavior during cold weather.

Uncontrollable shivering; lack of shivering, or stiff muscles.

Slow and sometimes irregular heart-beat; slurred speech; or shallow, very slow breathing.

Weak pulse; low blood pressure. Confusion; disorientation, or drowsiness.

Lack of coordination; sluggishness.

If any of these symptoms exist, take the victim's temperature. If it is below 95 degrees F or does not register, call a doctor or an ambulance. While waiting for help to arrive, prevent further heat loss by wrapping the victim in a warm blanket; use hot water bottles, and if the victim is alert, give him/her small quantities of warm food and drink. If nothing else is available, lie next to the victim and use your body heat to keep the victim warm.

If you have a consumer question or complaint, call or write the Attorney General's Office, Consumer Protection Division, 209 St. Clair Street, Frankfort, Kentucky, 40601, or call the toll-free Consumer Hotline: 1-800-432-9257.

Unemployment Insurance May Last Four More Weeks

Federal legislation signed into law Jan. 6 by President Reagan means many jobless Kentuckians will be eligible for an additional four weeks of unemployment insurance benefits. An estimated 40,000 unemployed persons in the state will receive a maximum of four additional weeks of benefits as a result of the bill.

Persons eligible for the additional benefits will be notified by mail, through the Cabinet for Human Resources. In Kentucky, the cabinet's Department for Social Insurance administers the unemployment insurance program.

The federally funded extension is part of the Federal Supplemental Compensation (FSC) program which was started Sept. 12, 1982 and will end March 31, 1983.

Human Resources Secretary Buddy Adams explained that the new four-week extension and two earlier extensions will allow many persons now receiving unemployment insurance benefits to collect benefits for over a year.

Including this latest round of extensions, a total of 53 weeks of insurance benefits can be collected by some people currently unemployed. The extensions are in addition to the 26-week state unemployment insurance program.

IN MEMORIAM

Richard Hicks, at age 10.

In memory of Daisy Sellards McCoy, who passed away January 19, 1982.

One year ago, mom, you left us to be with Jesus and Glen. You left us all with tears in our eyes and a sad and lonely home that will never be the same without you. We know that Jesus loves everyone, Mom, so we know that someday we will be together again in Heaven with you. Then our tears will dry and in our hearts there will be joy, but until then Mom, we love you and miss you.

Sadly missed by husband, Bill and children and grandchildren

Heather Renee Hicks, daughter.

(In loving memory of Richard L. Hicks, who was murdered Jan. 20, 1977.)

As time unfolds another year, Memories keep you always near. Silent thoughts of times together, Are treasures that will last forever.

It's been six years now since they took him away. We remember the hour and time of the day. Some have forgot him now that he has gone, But we still love him, no matter how long. We visited his grave on Christmas Day, And we prayed we will be with him in Heaven on Judgement Day.

Sadly missed by his mother and family

Group Urges Rules For Nursing Homes

A citizens' group is urging the adoption of the proposed regulations to implement the Nursing Home Reform Bill.

In a letter to Human Resources Secretary Buddy Adams, the Institute for Aging, an 11-member advisory group to the Cabinet for Human Resources, commended him on the recent changes in the proposed regulations.

"Your efforts to get input from all interested parties has produced significant changes," the letter said.

The Institute strongly endorsed the following two changes:

—Deleting language that would have restricted access to nursing homes by the cabinet's nursing home ombudsman; and

—Inserting language establishing that an appeal of a rating by a nursing home could not interfere with the cabinet's ability to use its present enforcement powers to correct deficiencies.

The Institute for Aging said it is important to get the regulation adopted and gain experience implementing the law before the 1984 session of the Kentucky Legislature.

"While we think the regulations reflect what's in the law, if experience shows they are not adequate to protect the well-being and safety of Kentucky nursing home residents, then we must go back to the 1984 Legislature and strengthen the law as well as the regulations," wrote Barbara Sandford, chairperson of the Institute for Aging.

W-2 Form Must Be With Tax Returns

If you received wages or salary from your employer in 1982, you will receive Form W-2, "Wage and Tax Statement" from your employer. Form W-2 must accompany your individual tax return when it is filed with the Internal Revenue Service. If Form W-2 is missing, the IRS will not process the return, and must correspond with you to request the form before processing may be completed.

If you have a refund coming, and you do not attach Form W-2, or other necessary documents to your tax return, your refund will be delayed. Thus, it is important that you file a complete tax return with all attachments to insure prompt receipt of your refund.

Taxpayers should be aware that it is not sufficient to file a tax return with their own substitute wage and tax information. It's not acceptable to use a year-end pay statement received from an employer as a substitute for Form W-2.

If you have any questions about the requirements for properly filing your tax return you should call the IRS at 584-1361 in Louisville, 255-2333 in Lexington, 628-0055 in Covington, or toll-free 1-800-424-1040 elsewhere in Kentucky.

Booklet Sums Up Open Records Law

The Kentucky Press Association has started a two-pronged program to bring about a better understanding of freedom of information openness in government.

In cooperation with four other state associations, KPA is distributing a 40-page booklet to city, county and school officials explaining the provisions of Kentucky's laws pertaining to legal notices, open meetings and open records.

The book also contains opinions of the state attorney general relative to the laws.

Extensive changes were made by the 1982 General Assembly to legal publication laws.

The booklet was compiled by KPA and is being distributed statewide by the Kentucky Municipal League, Kentucky County Judge Executive Association, Kentucky School Boards Association and Kentucky Association of Counties.

A foreword in the book carries the endorsement of the five associations and encourages members to "use this book as a guide and reference to Kentucky legal publication laws and for laws pertaining to open meetings and open records."

Donald B. Towles, KPA president, said, "This booklet should make the job of the press and the job of Kentucky's officials easier in the long run. Much of the trouble we have had in the past has been the result of newspaper people and elected officials not being certain of what was required under the law."

A second effort by KPA consists of a series of 12 newspaper advertisements explaining freedom of information, legal notices, open meetings, open records and open courts.

The state's newspapers are being asked by KPA to use the ads as a public service.

"One of the reasons we stay in a constant battle to preserve the people's right to know and openness in government is because we have not effectively communicated the need and right of these freedoms," Towles said.

Rev. Dean Pack performed the double-ring, candlelight ceremony. The church was decorated with greenery, white roses and baby's breath. Brass spiral candelabra with tall white tapers and greenery were placed on each side of the altar and at the back of the church.

Nuptial music was played by Mrs. Alice Gray Buchanan, the church organist. Mrs. Phyllis Kalos was soloist. Selections used for the wedding were "One Hand, One Heart," "Song of Ruth," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full-length formal gown of white organza and alencon lace, featuring a softly sculptured Queen Anne neckline, long tapered sleeves, and a natural waistline. A satin bodice was lavishly appliqued with delicate seed pearls. Her princess-style skirt swept to a chapel-length train of heavily beaded panels of satin and organza. The skirt and train were edged by a wide border of lace and pearls.

A lace Juliet headpiece held the bride's fingertip veil of silk illusion edged in matching lace. She carried a bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley surrounding four white orchids.

Mrs. Cheryl Leslie was the matron-of-honor, and Miss Nancy Godsey was the maid-of-honor. Both are sisters of the bride. Their gowns were berry silk taffeta with a fitted bodice, low square neckline and full, above-the-elbow, sleeves. They carried a single long-stem, deep pink rose.

Mr. Darrell Leslie, brother-in-law of the bride, was best man and groomsmen were Bradley Baker, of Owensboro, and Gary Vickers, of Prestonsburg. Junior usher was Jonathan Leslie and ring-bearer was Blake Leslie; both are nephews of the bride.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Paintsville Country Club, where the bride and groom received their guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams will reside in Pikeville. Mrs. Williams teaches in the Pikeville Independent School system, and Mr. Williams is employed by the Milwaukee Brewers Baseball Club.

Block Grant Hearing Scheduled Feb. 18

Kentucky citizens may comment on preliminary plans for allocation and use of funds from six federal block grants at a series of public hearings to be conducted by the state Human Resources Cabinet, Secretary Buddy Adams said.

The block grants are for low-income energy assistance, community services, social services, alcohol and drug abuse and mental health, preventative health and health services and maternal and child health.

Copies of the preliminary plans will be available for public review at the hearings, Adams said. Also, Human Resources' staff will be available to explain the plans and answer questions.

Six hearings are scheduled. Each hearing will be split into a morning session to start at 9 a.m. and an afternoon session to start at 1 p.m. local time. The morning session will concern the low-income energy assistance, community services and social services grants. The afternoon sessions will address alcohol and drug abuse and mental health, preventative health and health services, and maternal and child health grants.

One of the hearings will be at Prestonsburg Community College, Pike Auditorium, Feb. 18.

Artisans Share Their Skills In Community College Courses

The tradition of local artists and crafts people sharing their talent and teaching their skills continues this spring semester at PCC. The art department of the Community Services Program, one of the strongest and most well-received departments by the local community, once again offers a variety of classes in maintaining this tradition.

Photographer Paula Goble will take time from her own studio to teach an eight-week course in Beginning Photography, designed to familiarize beginners with the basics of a 35 mm camera and introduce them to the darkroom. The course will be held on Wednesdays, February 2 - March 23, 7-9 p.m.

Advanced Black and White will follow on March 30 - May 4. Greater technical information will be shared, skills of composition and design sharpened and frequent use of the darkroom stressed.

Judith Carr, with finely developed skills in Knitting and Crocheting, will teach the rudiments of these disciplines to beginners. Techniques and tips for more perfect work will be shared. The course begins February 7 - March 28, 6:30-8:30 p.m.

A well-equipped clay studio is the sight for ceramic classes taught by Gwen Heffner, a potter who exhibits and is recognized statewide. Beginning and Advanced Ceramics start February 1 and 3, respectively, 6:00-8:30 p.m.

Ms. Heffner duals as artist-in-residence in the Floyd county school system and also coordinates the PCC Potter's Guild which remains open for membership. The guild has been formed for potters and sculptors and those interested in pursuing the use of clay as craft or hobby.

The Appalachian tradition of Patchwork and Quilting will be taught by Becky Carr, an experienced and fine quiltmaker. She will teach participants pattern drafting, patchwork cutting and piecing and the art of quilting. The six-week course begins Wednesday, February 2, 6:30-8:30 p.m.

The Art Guild will provide an opportunity for those who draw and paint to gather in an effort to further develop their skills. Tom Whitaker, a widely respected artist and water colorist, coordinates the guild. The guild works to encourage the cultivation and promotion of the arts by participating in the annual Kentucky Highlands Folk Festival and sponsoring various art shows within the area.

Registration for these classes is in the Admissions Office, Room 131 of the Johnson Building, PCC campus. One can register in advance or prior to class time on the evening of the first class. For further information, contact Linda Compton at 886-3863, ext. 215.

Formaldehyde Could Be Topic Of Panel Study

(From The Legislative Record)
A legislative subcommittee looking into the possible adverse health effects of urea formaldehyde may conduct its own scientific study of the substance.

At a recent subcommittee meeting, representatives of the manufactured-housing industry encouraged legislators to conduct such a study because, they said, it has never been medically established that formaldehyde actually causes the symptoms attributed to it.

Members of the subcommittee were told that the state of Texas is currently conducting an independent study on the alleged dangers of formaldehyde.

Jayson M. Berger, testifying in favor of continued use of formaldehyde in building materials, said the substance has been present in the air since the world began. But at some point, someone assumed it caused various symptoms—such as asthma or skin irritation—because it was present and scientifically detectable, he said.

The panel was shown a chart which indicated that vapor concentrations of less than three parts per million should not affect most people.

Berger also said that most complaints have only surfaced since the energy pinch prompted people to make their houses air-tight—not allowing any fresh air into the dwelling.

Rep. Bob Heleringer, R-Louisville, said he could not understand why so many studies were being conducted on formaldehyde if there is no serious danger to human health.

Dr. Geoffrey Meadows told the subcommittee that getting an exact reading on small quantities of airborne formaldehyde was nearly impossible.

Dr. Richard Fischer, testifying in favor of the continued use of formaldehyde, said many studies already conducted on the substance have been misinterpreted.

In 14 studies on human beings, there was no evidence of formaldehyde causing cancer, Fischer said.

Crafts Group Fills Johnny Carson Order

By BETH SIEGEL
Early in the fall of 1982, one phone call presented a tremendous challenge to a group of craftswomen in eastern Kentucky. And the David Appalachian Craft Center met the challenge with impressive capability.

The craft center located in David, received a phone order from Johnny Carson of NBC's Tonight show for 400 quilted pillow covers. The crafts group accepted the order in August and worked diligently producing the largest single order the group has yet received.

Delighted with the challenge of Carson's request, all the craftswomen exhibited a great amount of skill and enthusiasm during the course of the project. Shannon Gibson, inventory manager, stated, "I was overwhelmed by the cooperation, ability and efficiency of the craftswomen!"

Carson choose four traditional quilt patterns to be used: Ohio Star, Grandmother's Fan, Pinwheels and Jacob's Ladder. He also requested all 400 pillow covers in shades of blue.

Choosing fabric designs and color combinations to produce the variety necessary for such a large order demanded creativity, skill and effort. Each individual pillow met the high quality standards of the crafts group and bore a tag with the craftswoman's signature.

The 23 craftswomen who worked on the project are: Mary Pineau, Helen Wells, Rosie Reffitt, Barbara Griffith, Susan Howell, Ada Martin, Delissa Howard, Ruth Skeens, Becky Carr, Carolyn Triplett, Anna Hicks, Teddy Bailey, Irene Griffith, Jewell Horn, Kathleen Fitch, Mary Lou Manzardo, Shannon Gibson, Joy Ousley, Maxie Oberg, Ernestine Ward, Elizabeth Baranick, Darcus Howard, and Eva Tussey.

Upon receiving the pillow covers in Studio City, California, Carson's employees described the pillows as the prettiest they had ever seen. Carson presented the pillows as Christmas gifts.

Quilted pillows are just one of the many beautiful hand-crafted items made at David Crafts. And beginning January 17th a 20% discount will be offered on all production crafts at the David Shop. Visitors are always welcome weekdays between 10:00 and 4:00 at the craft center located on Rt. 404, 6 miles off the Mt. Parkway.

BRIEF TOPICS

The Exchange Telegraph in Hongkong announces receipt of a report that 5,000 persons perished when an immense tidal wave and typhoon struck Youngkong, Kwangtung province, 150 miles southwest of Hongkong, on September 10.

Twenty thousand homes were damaged and 400 junks and sampans destroyed, the report said. The total loss is estimated at $1,000,000.

Residents in large cities had 6 per cent more chance of being killed by automobiles during the year ending September 10 than in the previous year, the department of commerce reported Monday.

Auto deaths this year in 77 cities were 6,961 compared with 6,462 last year. Of every 100,000 city population, 21.2 persons were killed in 1927, an increase of 6 per cent.

Camden, N. J., rated highest in danger, with 42.2 killed per 100,000 population.

Auto fatalities in the 77 cities during the four weeks ending September 10 were 525, including the following: Akron, 6; Cincinnati, 18; Cleveland, 18; Columbus, 7.

Choked by a coach whip snake while being locked in a closet as a punishment, the three-year-old daughter of Raymond Gunn is dead in Juliette, Ga., and the parents almost distracted with grief. The child had a terror of dark closets and was always terrified when threatened with such punishment. To teach the child obedience Mrs. Gunn placed her in a closet, and fastened the door.

Screams followed, the child shrieking:

"Something's after me! Something's after me!" and the shriek died away in an inarticulate gurgle. The frightened mother opened the door and found the child limp on the floor, a snake coiled around her neck, with its head in her mouth.

When a physician arrived he found the child dead, her tongue lacerated and swollen to thrice its normal size.

Now that Tex Rickard's dream of the first $3,000,000 fight gate in ring history has faded in the light of financial returns from the Chicago battlefront, the promoter is considering a new record attempt with the third match of the Tunney-Dempsey series.

"Very tired," but happy that the champion's successful defense in Soldier field was the greatest of his own financial triumphs to date, Rickard arrived in New York Monday with his promotional teammate, George F. Getz, nominal head of the fistic extravaganza on the shore of Lake Michigan last Thursday night.

Fight fans, who carried hip pocket flasks to Soldiers Field Thursday night to brace them when chilly autumn winds blew in from Lake Michigan were not molested by federal prohibition agents, it was announced.

The Chicago prohibition office, however, requested South Park Board to permit it to send 56 agents into the arena immediately surrounding the field to prevent any sales of liquor to spectators.

Flight Lieutenant S. N. Webster, of England, in a fragile, spidery craft

Monday won the Schneider cup race for seaplanes.

Tens of thousands of persons occupied the famous Lido, Italy, sands to watch the airmen dart around the triangular fifty kilometer course.

Lieutenant Webster's time was 49 minutes, 20.28 seconds. He averaged 23,433 miles an hour, compared with the record of 24,946 miles an hour established by Major Mario De Bernardi of the Italian royal air force, who won last year.

Columbus's first snow storm of the season Sunday night appeared to have sent its force as the blanket of more than an inch, dropped last night and Monday morning melted and the weather bureau predicted higher temperatures and clearer skies in the next 24 hours.

Gene Tunney, world's heavyweight champion, retained his crown Thursday night in a ten-round battle at Chicago with the ex-champion, Jack Dempsey, by a decision. Tunney was floored for a long count in the seventh round, and Dempsey was knocked out the canvas momentarily in a later round but was up in a flash. Tunney's superb ring generalship and boxing ability wore the challenger down until Dempsey was practically out on his feet at the close of the bout. Dempsey is reported as protesting the decision of the judges, he and his manager claiming that he knocked Tunney out in the seventh round, but the boxing commission declares that nothing will come of the protest, since Tunney won fairly.

PRESS COMMENT

SEPTEMBER BIRDS

The robin and the wren have flown.

And from the woods the jay, And from the treetops calls the crow

Through all the gloomy day.

The robin, it is true, has made his departure—and the bluebirds, purple martins, grackles and many of Kentucky's summer friends—but plenty of bird life remains in the woods and the thickets. The wren has not flown. Indeed, this little fellow is one of the few singers left in the town shrubbery. When the sun shines, early in the morning or at mid-day he may be heard cheerily singing short snatches while he pursues his never-ending task of insect-hunting.

Most of the feathered tribes are silent these days. The moulting season is just over. Even the cardinal whistles only now and then when the sun shines brightest. Sometimes he may be noticed sitting idly for minutes on end, in the swaying top of a weed or bush. There's something in the season that keeps him from his wonted activity.

Even the bluejay is not so noisy, but he's still here, quite as active and full of mischief. Have you ever put nuts out for your bushy-tailed friend, the gray squirrel and caught the bluejay in the act of stealing them? The first to cry "Thief!" he is the biggest thief himself. From the pile of peanuts or hickory nuts scattered about a tree Mr. Jay will carry away every last one and hide them in out-of-the-way places, covering each with several leaves. He seems to know that they are intended for the squirrel, and he's just devilish enough to play dog-in-the-manger about them. The peanuts he might be able to crack himself, but he could do nothing with hickory nuts.

The flicker still scours the lawn for ant hills, but one seldom hears his squawky voice. The red-headed woodpecker often stays here all winter, but about this time of year, farther north, the old folk used to say that young Mr. Woodpecker was going south to get his gray hat painted. The fledgling has a grayish head and neck, but he returns the following spring with a scarlet cap and collar. Sir Redhead is an aggressive fellow and not on friendly terms with other birds, but he is a friend of the timber owner and orchardist. Woodpeckers are the only agents which can successfully cope with insect enemies of tree life, the United States Department of Agriculture says.

But if the open spaces in the parks seem deserted by the birds, the undergrowth is not. The thicket grown hollows or hillsides are fairly alive with warblers, creepers and wrens of various varieties. One of the most noticeable is the active black and white warbler, which is really a creeper, for it runs up and down tree trunks incessantly, searching every cranny and crevice for the minute insect life which is the enemy of vegetable life and consequently of man. The warblers destroy annuals in tens of millions.—Courier-Journal.

A ONE-ROOM SCHOOL

The one-room school—if not the "little red schoolhouse"—is neither extinct nor innocuous. Franklin county claims the banner one-room school at Harp in the Bald Knob section. It has only seventeen pupils, but it produced two county champions and one state champion last year, the other being runner-up in the state contest. This record is not in athletics, to be sure. It was in scholarship. One girl bested fifth and sixth grade readers from 52 Kentucky schools with two or more teachers. The other all but took the state spelling honors.

Seventeen divided among all the grades is a small number from which to produce champions in graded classifications; but it also offers the teacher an advantage denied instructors of larger groups. The teacher can devote more individual attention to the pupils, estimate their capacities and develop their talents.

Generally speaking, the one-room school is an anachronism. Especially if the enrollment is large, it obviously is better for several teachers than for one to attempt to instruct in all the elementary grades. Yet it will be a long time before all the one-room schools are abandoned; for there are isolated communities which cannot be permanently incorporated in consolidation, and there is no reason to neglect them.

The influence of Harp, in fact, is an evidence that the one-room school can be an opportunity for the little neighborhood it serves. If the neighborhood is responsive to this kind of teaching, appreciates and cultivates the spirit, it can put more into the one-room school and get more out of it than larger communities will ever be able to.

Harp may not qualify as the authentic type of the one-room school; but it certainly cannot be denied its significance as a one-room school.—Courier-Journal.

HUEYSVILLE

PIPE LINE WORK

The large pipe line now being laid from Brush Creek into the Salt Lick country is attracting many "hands" from this vicinity, as well as practically all other parts of the county. Hundreds are working, and it is reported that more workmen are wanted. Men from several different counties of this state are working on this job. The nucleus of the work is now on the Salyers Branch of Salt Lick. Men, going from this place to the work, either go horesback or afoot. The Byllesby Engineering Company, contractors, doing the work for the Louisville Gas and Electric Company, think they can finish the work in a couple of months.

GET FIGHT RESULTS

A large crowd gathered at F. P. Hays' store last Thursday night to hear the result of the Dempsey-Tunney battle, via Mr. Hays' radio. The night being rather cool, the result of each round was plainly picked up. Most sympathy seemed to be for the Manassa Mauler, and most everyone thought he had regained his laurels when the Gold Coast Lion went down in the seventh round, but when Tunney came back and held his title, every one showed a good losing spirit.

CAR TURNS OVER

Vester Jones and Roy Duncan, this place, were out driving Sunday in an old-time Ford, which they had just recently purchased from Pete Horn, of Salt Lick, when they met another car, and not being adept at driving, turned their car over. According to their version, the driver of the car which they met did not offer to go to one side of the road, but kept coming at them. They tried to turn to one side of the road, upsetting their car. Allie Jones and Pete Duncan were also in the car, but none of them were hurt more than slight bruises.

PERSONALS

Mr. Damron, school principal here, and his father-in-law, Robert Huff, both of this place, rode to Licking Sunday to look at a tract of timberland which Mr. Huff had thought of buying. Misses Blanche and Thelma Allen and Joseph Osborne, tractor driver for the Louisville Gas and Electric Company, were out walking Sunday.

Mrs. J. W. Huff, this place, has been very ill, but is some better. It is thought that her condition was caused by sudden cold.

Messrs. Claude and Robert Huff attended a dance at Garrett Saturday night. Beecher Allen was also visiting Garrett.

A. J. Coburn, merchant of this place, suffered a broken arm a few days ago, when a car which he was cranking "kicked" him.

Mr. and Mrs. Damron, teachers, had

Know that the foods you serve are safe

Frigidaire prevents the unseen mold that imperils health

NOT for a minute would you think of risking the health of yourself and family by serving food on which mold appears. But do you realize that mold is often present from ten to twelve hours before it is visible to the naked eye? The microscope reveals that this is true.

The only protection against this unseen danger is to keep perishable foods in a dry atmosphere and in a refrigerating temperature of less than 50°. Frigidaire electric refrigeration meets both these requirements.

With all its advantages, Frigidaire is low in price. It can now be bought for as small a sum as $180 f. o. b. Dayton. And terms are so convenient that it is easily within your family budget. See a demonstration now.

"Making Of Gandhi" Airs Feb. 6 on KET

Richard Attenborough, producer of the film epic "Gandhi," was determined to make his portrayal of the Mahatma's life realistic, so he gathered 300,000 people for the crowd scene at Gandhi's funeral, the most ever assembled for filming. "The Making of Gandhi: Mr. Attenborough and Mr. Gandhi" airs on KET Sunday, February 6, at 7 p.m.

Stars of the film Ben Kingsley (Gandhi), Martin Sheen, Candice Bergen and John Mills join Attenborough as he narrates the program, which compares newsreel footage and still photographs from Gandhi's day to scenes from the film. The stars discuss their experiences during the shooting, which took place almost entirely on location in India over six months. The production budget was an estimated 17 million dollars.

"The Making of Gandhi: Mr. Attenborough and Mr. Gandhi" was acquired from Columbia Pictures for distribution to public television stations by the Interregional Program Service (IPS) produced and directed by Jerry Barraclough.

ROCK ON

By Ethlie Ann Vare

REVIEWS

J. Geils Band — "Showtime" (EMI) — Despite a recently acquired superstar veneer, J. Geils is basically a band of the gin mill and gymnasium. Working a crowd is its forte and the live performance captured on "Showtime" displays the band's essence. From old favorites to big hits to some tasty new material (and allowing for some silly indulgences and ego trips), it's a fine show.

Waitresses — "I Could Rule the World If I Could Only Get the Parts" (Polydor) — What a lot of title for a five-song EP! The Waitresses have to watch out lest they get too clever — it could be their downfall. Otherwise, they are a deliciously entertaining band. "Christmas Wrapping," on this disc, has one of the best melodic hooks of the year — a shame it's seasonal and already dated.

Rose Tattoo — "Scarred for Life" (Mirage) — Before you permanently associate Australia with perky new bands like Men At Work or Split Enz, remember it is also the home of AC/DC. Fellow countrymen Rose Tattoo play similar sledgehammer music.

Rose Tattoo

only without the tongue-in-cheek element that makes the schoolboy terrors bearable. These ugly fellows, led by a 5-foot-2-inch baldheaded singer named "Angry," cover their bodies with — yes — rose tattoos and play a familiar brand of raucous, relentless rock.

TRIVIA QUIZ

Here's a chance to show off your smarts — and win an official Rock On lapel button, to boot (or to wear, as the case may be). Just answer this month's rock trivia questions correctly.

The topic for today is No. 1 Songs.

1. What group has had the most No. 1 hits (4) in the 1980s so far? What group is in second place with three?

2. Who has had the all-time greatest number of No. 1 songs, Elvis Presley or the Beatles?

(Tally based on Billboard's national pop charts.)

Send your best guess to: Rock On, c/o United Feature Syndicate, 200 Park Avenue, New York, NY 10166. Answers will be revealed in Rock On next month, along with the names of some smart people who knew them.

Highlands Adds Lab Tests

A channel expander for the Highlands Regional laboratory's automated clinical analyzer (ACA) has been purchased. This addition doubles the testing capacity of the equipment to 59 tests. The machine enables doctors to get test results much sooner. Within one hour or less, physicians can get the test results they order. Previously, some tests were sent to International Clinical Laboratories in Lexington.

"This equipment is completely automated and very dependable," explained Don Hicks, director of the laboratory. "It's great for the high volume of tests we do."

Ten new tests have been added to the ACA and others will gradually be acquired as the latest tests become available. The levels of gentamycin, a high powered antibiotic, are now being tested on the new equipment. It can be difficult for physicians to estimate the correct medication dosage because everyone's metabolism is different. Patients receiving this drug to combat a bacterial infection must be monitored closely. Tests on the ACA will tell the physician what medication level will do the patient the most good.

HDL cholesterol and other test combinations will be added to provide a cardiac risk profile. These tests screen patients for those having a high risk of heart attack.

Another test on the ACA is a pseudocholinesterase screen. This test is given to patients before surgery to see if they can tolerate the anesthesia necessary during surgery. After reviewing these test results, alternative forms of anesthesia can be arranged prior to the operation, if necessary, so the surgery and recovery is better tolerated by the patient.

Riverview Resident

Sol DeRossett, who has been a patient at Riverview Manor Nursing Home since August 1979, was honored on his 69th birthday, November 9, by residents and staff members who joined him in observing the occasion.

Mr. DeRossett and his sister, Mrs. Elvira Tussey, of Prestonsburg, and other members of his family wish to express their deep appreciation to the staff of Riverview Manor for their loving care.

Biological Study Of Big Sandy Basin Available at MSU

A new biological study of the Big Sandy River basin is available from Morehead State University's Appalachian Development Center.

The study, titled "The Macroinvertebrates of the Big Sandy River Basin, with Special Emphasis on the Levisa Fork Drainage," was completed by Dr. Gerald DeMoss, biology professor at MSU.

"I would call it a checklist of the invertebrate biota of the Big Sandy River," explained Dr. DeMoss. "It would primarily be of interest to aquatic biologists, faculty members, invertebrate zoologists and anyone doing research in this area."

During the research, which was originally done from the U.S. Corps of Engineers in Huntington, W. Va., no rare, endangered or threatened species was found, according to Dr. DeMoss.

The study includes a list of organisms and where they were found.

Copies of the study are available, free of charge, from the Appalachian Development Center, Morehead State University, Morehead, KY 40351.

Parenting Skills Class To Begin Feb. 15 at PCC
 STEP is an acronym for Systematic Training for Effective Parenting, or Sometimes it's Tough to be an Even-Tempered Parent. It's tough when our children seem to defy us, or they act up in front of other people. It's tough when we keep making mistakes, and we feel at our wit's end.
 STEP Parenting is a course designed to help parents become confident in guiding their children to be more responsible. This is accomplished through group discussion, audio-visual aids, and reading.
 The nine-week course begins the evening of February 15 at Prestonsburg Community College. Other courses can be arranged as requested. For more information, please contact Rose Price or Nell Valentine at Mountain Comprehensive Care Center, 886-8572, or toll-free 1-800-422-1060 between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

Plant Historic Tree at Maytown School

Through the combined efforts of Superintendent of Schools Pete Grigsby, Jr., Mrs. Marcella Bailey, founder of Red, White and Blue Day, and Gary Frazier, principal of Maytown Elementary School, and Stan Lemaster, founder of the Historic Trees program, a ginkgo tree was planted on the Maytown school grounds, recently.

The ginkgo, which is native to Asia, came from the grounds of Ashland, the home of Kentucky statesman Henry Clay in Lexington. The tree was planted in conjunction with Maytown teachers informing students about Henry Clay and his role in American history.

The "Historic Tree" program is the creation of Stan Lemaster, an amateur historian and computer systems specialist for General Electric in Louisville. Lemaster searches nationwide to find trees of historical significance. From these historic trees he obtains seeds or cuttings which he plants and nurtures until they are suitably large to transplant. Lemaster then offers the trees to public organizations free of charge to plant on their grounds. To date, Lemaster has planted over 30 offspring of famous trees in various states.

"We feel fortunate to have the opportunity to participate in this worthwhile project," stated Principal Gary Frazier, who added that he hopes to plant additional trees in the near future.

PRIDE IN EAST KENTUCKY

"Sen. Benny Ray Bailey 'was' voted the outstanding freshman legislator . . . The normal sentiment to be expressed would be congratulations to these legislators for their honors. But thanks seem more appropriate—thanks for their hard work and thanks to the people of their districts for electing outstanding men."

EDITORIAL, LEXINGTON HERALD-LEADER
APRIL 11, 1980.

In 1916, Alice Geddes Lloyd came to East Kentucky, met the people, and proclaimed "The leaders are here in East Kentucky." Mrs. Lloyd recognized what our people have known all along. The people right here in East Kentucky have the leadership abilities necessary to work on and solve their own problems. Benny Ray Bailey graduated from Alice Loyd College and, throughout his life, has demonstrated the unique leadership abilities that are inherent in our people here in East Kentucky.

In 1979, the people of Senatorial District 29 elected Benny Ray as their State Senator. In the 1980 Session of the General Assembly, the Capitol Press Corps voted Benny Ray the "Outstanding Freshman Senator" for his work for the people of East Kentucky. During the past three years, Benny Ray has worked hard to see that our people are adequately represented in all matters of state government. Benny Ray's work in the State Senate is something all of us can be proud of. As Senator Walter D. Huddleston said in an April, 1980, letter to Benny Ray, "You displayed leadership at a time when it was crucially needed, and I join with the people of Kentucky in thanking you for the contributions you are making to the people of the Commonwealth."

In these difficult economic times, East Kentucky needs proven leaders in the General Assembly. Benny Ray Bailey will continue to aggressively pursue the interests of our area in the General Assembly. He provides leadership that we cannot afford to lose.

Reorganized Health Council Is Called "More Responsive"

Changes in federal health-planning policies and a move to make Kentucky's health planning process more responsive to local needs have realigned the Statewide Health Coordinating Council.

Gov. John Y. Brown Jr. outlined the changes in an executive order that also renamed the advisory group the State Health Planning Council. The council remains attached to the Human Resources Cabinet, the agency responsible for the state's health programs, according to Secretary Buddy Adams.

"Basically, the reorganization builds in a mechanism for addressing local health and consumer concerns at the policy-making level," Adams said. The council will be establishing local health planning agencies, possibly in each of the 15 area development districts, by Feb. 1. "Since 1977, health planning has been done on a regional level, with three health systems agencies serving the entire state," he said. "More localized agencies are necessary for the council to get local feedback," Adams added.

Of the three health systems agencies serving Kentucky, both Kentucky Health Systems Agency East and Health Planning and Resource Development Association of the Central Ohio River Valley phased out in July 1982 because of changes in federal health-planning legislation. The Kentucky Health Systems Agency West is expected to cease operation by mid-1983.

Adams said local health planning agencies will be instrumental in advising the State Health Planning Council of changes proposed in health services delivery and if they are in line with statewide and regional priorities.

Perhaps the most important task facing the new council is preparing a three-year state health plan, scheduled to be sent to the governor for review this July. After July 1986, Adams said the state health plans will concur with the state's biennium and will be prepared every two years.

The long-range planning process replaces state plans that were prepared each year by the former council. "One plan would hardly be completed before another plan was begun, and there was no time to see which parts of a plan were effective," Adams said. "The change will allow the state health plan to be a health policy document to provide consistent health services statewide," he said.

In the coming months, the council will examine a number of issues that health plan will address. One area the council will explore is what health services, including medical, psychiatric and long-term care, are needed to promote the well-being of Kentucky residents.

The plan will also list the state's health care facilities, personnel and major medical equipment required to meet public health needs, as well as any additional health facilities or services needed to best serve the population.

The reorganization order also reduced the number of council members from 31 to 23. Fifteen of those members will be chosen from nominations submitted by the local planning agencies. Of the 23 council members, 16 are consumers, six are health care providers and a representative of the state's Veterans Administration is included as a non-voting member.

When the State Health Planning Council was reorganized in December, Gov. Brown appointed these new members: Robert Browning, Somerset; Bill Hournigan, Bowling Green; Bill Jones, Owensboro; Robert Mack Jones, Hopkinsville; and Charles Mihalek, Lexington.

These members of the former Statewide Health Coordinating Council have been appointed to terms on the new council: Lois Baker, Whitesburg; Kenneth Clawson, Richmond; Carl Cooper, Bedford; Rediford Damron, Pikeville; Virginia Fisk, Florence; Roscoe Kelley, Somerset; James Leadingham and William Lovin, both of Ashland; Robert H. Loeb and Wade Mountz, both of Louisville; Robert O. Miller, Murray; Donald C. Robinson, Corbin; John Rowan, Lexington; John David Seay, Bardstown; Ann Stanchian, Williamstown; and Nelle Weller, Elizabethtown. Helen Sligar, Louisville, was appointed chairperson and Father Bertin Glennon, Manchester, is the vice-chairperson.

Unemployment Insurance Subject to Federal Tax

Kentucky's Division of Unemployment Insurance reminds persons filing federal tax forms that unemployment insurance benefits paid in 1982 may be subject to federal income tax.

Under the federal law, a single person will be taxed if income, including benefits, is greater than $12,000 a year. Married persons filing a joint income tax return may be taxed if the combined income, including benefits, is greater than $18,000. If a married person files a separate income tax return, all benefits may be taxable.

For tax purposes, unemployment compensation includes all unemployment insurance benefits and trade adjustment allowances.

Before the end of January, the division will send every person who received benefits in 1982 a form, namely Statement for Recipients of Unemployment Compensation Payments, stating the total dollars paid. Claimants of 1982, who have not received this form by the second week in February should contact their local unemployment insurance office. The division is required by law to report to the Internal Revenue Service unemployment payments which total $10 or more in a calendar year.

Any questions regarding filing federal tax returns should be directed to the IRS. Louisville area residents may phone 584-1361; Northern Kentucky residents, 628-0055; and Lexington residents, 255-2333. The toll-free number for outstate residents is 1-800-424-1040. Individuals residing in other states can obtain a toll-free number for their area by referring to their federal tax package or the telephone directory for Federal Tax Information listed under Internal Revenue Service.

Oddities On Film

With its webbed feet, duck bill and fur coat, the platypus is an odd-looking animal that exists only in Australia. A National Geographic special, "Australia's Animal Mysteries," explores the life of this fascinating creature Wednesday, February 9, at 8 p.m.

Along with the platypus, the program includes a kangaroo birth, a cuddly koala bear and the plight of the parma wallabies. These small-scale cousins of the kangaroo were close to extinction until Australian entrepreneur Peter Pigott came to their rescue and created a wildlife reserve on his private estate.

"Australia's Animal Mysteries" is produced by the National Geographic Society and WQED/Pittsburgh.
