

Gas Firms Score Big Rate Victory

Gas companies—notably, Kentucky West Virginia Gas Co.—won a signal victory last week when the U. S. Supreme Court by a 5-4 vote further deregulated the sale of natural gas.

The Supreme Court decision upholds the overturning by the Fifth U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals of the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission's interpretation of the law, and held that pipeline companies may not be pinned to a "cost-of-service" price on gas they not only carry to market but also produced.

"Essentially," one observer said, "this means that Kentucky West Virginia can sell its gas to its own pipeline and the pipeline would not be held to the former cost-of-service charge, and the transfer from the production division to the transmission division would constitute a first sale."

Although the Prestonsburg Utility Commission saw no immediate price increase threat, the Supreme Court ruling could provide an additional $180,000 in revenues for pipeline companies classed as gas producers and it is expected to drive prices up for some consumers.

"I assume," said Barkley J. Sturgill, attorney for the Prestonsburg Gas Consumers Association, "that this (the opinion by the Supreme Court) removes the last vestige of any state regulatory authority."

The decision means that all of Kentucky West Virginia's production falls into the deregulated classification. It had already had about 3000 of its wells reclassified as Devonian Shale wells, which is a category that sells at a totally unregulated level under the pricing structure established by the gas policy act.

Laura Murrell, chairman of the Kentucky Public Service Commission, said the Supreme Court decision is bad for many Kentucky gas customers.

"What it means," she said, "in the case of Kentucky West Virginia Gas is a doubling of prices. It's very unfortunate." She added that there is a possibility that the federal natural gas law will be overhauled.

Apparently,—the regulations are long, wordy and difficult to understand,—the ruling turns "old gas" from wells drilled before 1973 into the same classification as new gas.

Kentucky West Virginia Gas has been charging the higher, unregulated price since October 1982, when the case went to the Supreme Court on appeal. The firm's customers include the cities of Prestonsburg, Wheelwright, Hazard and Paintsville, and the Mike Little Gas Co. in Melvin, Columbia Gas Transmission Corp., and East Kentucky Utilities in Allen and Middle Creek.

4 Dead in Week Marked Suicides

Four Floyd countians apparently died by their own hands last week, three on one day, last Wednesday, according to Coroner Roger Nelson.

The first to die in the unusual series of apparent suicides was Deborah Calkins, 27, whose death was not discovered till last Friday morning, although she is believed to have died Monday. She was a nutritionist with the U.S. Public Health Service and had been employed since last October by Big Sandy Health Care, Inc.

Others who died:

—Town Hall, 36, retired miner, of a gunshot wound to the chest last Wednesday morning. Hall was on the hillside at the rear of his home on Mink Branch, near Craynor, when the shot was fired, according to Coroner Nelson.

—Sixteen-year-old John Lee Griffith, of a shotgun blast to the head last Wednesday night at the home of an uncle at David. The body was found in the boy's bedroom. Coroner Nelson and State Police Detective Keith Scott, who investigated the death, were told by relatives that young Griffith had been depressed.

—Wendell Cook, 32, nightwatchman for the DKT Coal Co., Pikeville, Wednesday evening at Teaberry of a gunshot wound in his head. He died later at the Pikeville Methodist Hospital.

The body of Miss Calkins was found in the small residence at the rear of the courthouse here where she had resided for several months. Sheriff Henry C. Hale reported that she had run her car into a ditch near the German bridge around 3:30 a.m. Monday and had returned home by taxicab. Associates became concerned about her absence from work, but when the door was found locked and her car missing it was assumed that she had not returned from a trip she was known to have made, a few days earlier.

Friends said she had been depressed

Kin of Victims Held In Slayings of Two

In week-end slayings a Prestonsburg man died at the hands of his brother and another, home for the July 4 holiday, was slain by his father on Prater Creek.

Officers said an argument over their mother's social security checks resulted in the shotgun slaying Friday afternoon of Banner Lewis, Jr., 55, of Town Branch, by his brother, Bennie Lewis, 46, at the home of the latter at Emma.

The following night, Jay Boyd, 32, of Chattanooga, Tenn., was killed by a shotgun blast to the abdomen while he was visiting at the home of his father, Luther Boyd, 67, on Prater Creek, near Dana. His father has been charged with the slaying.

Both of the accused men have been arrested and are in jail here.

Deputy Sheriff Chuck B. Akers, one of the first officers on the scene, said the two disputed checks lay bloodstained on the floor of the Lewis home after the Emma shooting. He quoted Bennie Lewis as saying, "He (his brother) kept telling me how sorry I was...he was on me all the time. I told him to leave..."

Bennie Lewis was lying on the bed in a rear bedroom when his brother returned, officers were told. One shot from a 12-gauge shotgun at short range struck Banner Lewis in the chest. He died shortly afterward.

The accused man and his brother, Andrew, had lived with their mother at Emma until about two weeks ago when she moved to a Prestonsburg housing development.

In the Boyd slaying officers are investigating the possibility that liquor and gambling may have played a part in the tragedy. Luther Boyd, the father, suffered a head wound, but his assailant was not immediately identified. Jay Boyd was shot one time in the abdomen by a charge from a 20-gauge shotgun.

Deputy Sheriff Akers said a shotgun and a rifle in the home were both bloodstained. He said that when he and Deputy Sheriff George Hall arrived about 1:15 a.m. Sunday at the Boyd home, several persons were milling about, outside, apparently near blows. The wounded man was still living when they arrived but died soon afterward, he said.

The murder warrant issued for the father was not served on him till Monday morning by State Police Detective Roger Castle, the same officer who booked him on the preceding day, and Coroner Roger Nelson.

Lewis, an itinerant Pentecostal preacher, was a son of Mary Jane Mollette Lewis, of Prestonsburg, and the late Banner Lewis. He was a retired employee of the Bartley Tree Service. Surviving, besides his mother, are his wife, Roszella Halbert Lewis; one daughter, Mrs. Clarissa Hall, of Banner; three brothers, Woodrow

This Town...That World

Rain Monday, threatening today. If I hear anybody gripe about this weather, so help me, I'll...

THE FINALE

What's nicer than a celestial fireworks display, with rain a-plenty on a parched land to wind up July 4? The answer to that depends on several things—where you were and what you were doing, for example. Those brave souls who for years have gone out to provide the fireworks display here for the delectation, mainly, of the youngsters are a case in point. Monday night they went out, as is their annual wont, daring thunder, lightning and rain to scale a mountainside and set their supply of rockets and bombs going. Besides their discomforts, they went out with the knowledge that already they had been upstaged by nature...From this point of view, I suspect, the situation was, to put it mildly, something less than ideal.

THE SPIRIT OF CANEY

I am indebted to my friends, Avery and Pollyanna Wiley, for a copy of Robert W. Sloane's book, "Boston's Gift to Caney Creek." The author, a "Caney boy" himself, catches in rare fashion the spirit of Alice Lloyd, June Buchanan and those who worked with them, those who went to Caney to learn, and also the unlearned such as Abisha Johnson who caught the gleam and gave of the little they had much to make this heroic adventure in education possible.

Adventists Rally To Build Church Here

"Helping Hands" is the name given by Seventh Day Adventists to a cooperative effort which has now contributed to the erection of 14 churches in the Adventists' Kentucky-Tennessee Conference area.

The most recent project, which saw this church on Middle Creek framed and under roof in two days, brought 75 members of the church from as far away as Georgia and Alabama to volunteer their labor this weekend.

Members of the local church, who have been meeting in the First Presbyterian Church here for the past several years, fed the visitors and housed many of them, said Peggy Ousley. Because smaller congregations do not have the money to do the job alone or hire a contractor, "We help each other out," she said.

The new church will seat 100 worshippers. A lower floor will be used as a fellowship hall and Sunday school and—next year, perhaps—may house a Christian school, Mrs. Ousley said.

Gray, McNally Named by Jury Of U.S. Court

Prestonsburg businessman Charles J. McNally, 52, was one of two men indicted by a federal grand jury last Thursday on conspiracy and mail-fraud charges. The other was James E. Gray, 55, of Frankfort.

Operator of East Kentucky Auto Parts and a member of the Prestonsburg Utilities Commission, McNally is a friend of former state Democratic Chairman Howard "Sonny" Hunt, Jr. and was a state elections official during the administration of Gov. Julian Carroll.

Gray has long been prominent in state Democratic politics and served under Carroll as secretary for public protection and regulation and secretary of the Cabinet. He operates a Frankfort office-supplies firm.

According to the indictment, Gray, McNally and Hunt created a corporation called Seton Investments in 1975 as "a conduit" to receive state insurance-commission kickbacks. At Hunt's direction, the company received $200,000 in payments from the Wombwell Insurance Agency, in Lexington, which wrote the state's workers' compensation policy, the grand jury alleges. The payments were said to have been made between 1976 and 1979.

Seton Investments bought two condominiums, one in Lexington and the other in Juno Beach, Fla., and a late model Ford station wagon for the three

Default Move Seen In City Council Race

The suit filed by Dave Stephens, candidate for Prestonsburg's City Council to challenge the validity of the candidacy of 12 others poses some interesting possibilities, it was indicated this week.

Stephens' suit, filed by Charles K. Belhasen, Paintsville attorney, contends that petitions filed by the 12 with the county clerk do not bear the signatures of 20 qualified voters as required by law, that the authenticity of names and addresses has not been verified by affidavit, that many of the petitions bear signatures of persons who are not registered to vote and some of the signatures are forgeries.

The action was filed May 25, and only three of the candidates named—Bill Ray Collins, Paul Hunt Thompson and George Cecil Brown—have made answer in the 20 days required by law.

Stephens' attorney said Tuesday that he will now ask the court for a default judgment against those who have not answered the suit. These are Frank A. Adams, Maxine S. Bierman, Donald Whitaker, Bobby Watson, Jeffery A. Horn, Gladys Maud Franko, William O. Goebel, III, Bobby Ranier and Donald (Dootney) Horn.

If the default judgment should be granted, that would leave only Eunice Shepherd, incumbent, whose filing was not questioned, and the three who have answered the suit without opposition.

But the three who have filed answers to the suit still will have to stand trial of the case in circuit court on its merits, it is pointed out.

Eight council members are to be elected at the November polls. If the litigation leaves vacancies, Mayor Harold Cooley will appoint.

Hopkins Trial Jury Disagrees

A Pike circuit court jury was unable to reach a verdict last week in the murder trial of Joe Hopkins, 48, formerly of Harold. Hopkins was charged in the shooting death of Gary Dean Keene during a benefit concert at Marlow's Country Palace last January.

Keene, a Shelbiana man who was 31 at the time of his death, was struck three times in the back by bullets from a .38-caliber revolver. Hopkins admitted firing the shots but said he did so in self-defense.

About 500 persons were listening to bluegrass music at the Sunday afternoon concert when, according to several witnesses, Keene approached Hopkins' table, an argument ensued, Keene struck Hopkins with his fist, and Hopkins fired on Keene.

SUMMERTIME NIGHT FISHING

As the sun starts going down and pleasure boaters, water skiers and daytime fishermen head for home, another group of anglers, the night fishermen, are just starting their "day."

Some anchor in a favorite spot, usually off a deep point or a steep, almost vertical bank, light lanterns and fish for white bass and crappie. Others glide quietly, with no lights showing, along the shoreline, casting surface lures into the darkness for largemouth bass.

At dawn, as the rest of the world begins to wake up, these nocturnal anglers are back at the dock, busy with their filleting knives. Chances are they've been more successful than their daytime counterparts and know that fishing at night is worth losing sleep over.

White bass and crappie anglers who use lanterns are in effect attracting an entire food chain around their anchored boat. The light from the lanterns attracts plankton (in the water, these microscopic plants and animals look something like swirling cornmeal). The plankton attract shad and other bait fish, which in turn lure hungry sport fish to the scene.

The fisherman, with several baited lines over the side, waits for this natural process to work itself out. Sometimes almost the entire night will pass with little activity, then the white bass will suddenly move in like a pack of hungry aquatic wolves and fishing will get fast and furious.

Minnows are the favorite bait for this kind of fishing. Anglers experiment with different depths to find out how deep the fish are running. In addition to rods, reels, hooks and bait, about the only other equipment required is extra lantern fuel, warm jackets (it gets chilly on the water at night, even in the middle of summer) and plenty of coffee.

Fishermen at Laurel Lake in Eastern Kentucky use similar techniques but fish with "organic" baits—worms, cheese or whole kernel corn—for rainbow trout. During the summer months, night fishing is by far the most productive way to take trout from Laurel or from other lakes where this species has been stocked.

On lakes with clear water and/or a lot of daytime activity, black bass usually "hole up" during the day. But they become active after dark, move into shallow water and start looking for food. They will readily strike just about anything from top-water lures to plastic worms, although many night fishermen prefer a noisy surface lure, one that is loud enough to allow the bass to home in on it by sound alone. Black is by far the most popular color for night fishing lures.

Experienced fishermen usually like dark nights—the darker the better. Heavy tackle is a must, since it is often necessary to cast toward a shoreline that's barely visible. Jerking lures out of trees and bushes is a regular part of night fishing.

CAN FUNERAL DECISIONS BE MADE WISELY UNDER STRESS?

Not always—which is why we recommend planning your own funeral.

Caught up in grief and stress, some people may be emotionally unable to cope with making funeral arrangements effectively. They may be tempted to proceed with more costly arrangements than they should. It should be noted that the psychological value of the funeral has no relationship to its cost.

Planning such arrangements may eliminate the possibility of such over-spending. Planning can be accomplished in advance of need, in an atmosphere uncharged with the emotionally distressing circumstances of bereavement. For details of planning funerals, call us or stop by for literature.

Big City Hairdresser Comes to Small Town

Gary Cassity, who recently returned from San Francisco, California to practice hairdressing in Lexington, has decided to come to Prestonsburg for those persons who spoke to him about the area of Prestonsburg, Pikeville, Paintsville, and other communities of the Big Sandy. Gary has been convinced to come to Prestonsburg in order to offer his capable talents to care for their varied professional hairdressing needs.

Gary's expertise in hair styling includes all the up-to-date and more modern styles including colors, frosts, and perms—the techniques of today's coifs of society and structural designs of your personal desire. His only concern is to translate your ideas to your needs and preferences to enhance your beauty by refining your most attractive qualities.

Gary Cassity was master designer at Timothy's and Snooty Fox in the days before his education took him to Mexico, Las Vegas, Chicago, and Miami, among other locations here and abroad, to learn from those who develop the best in hairdressing techniques. These are the styles which the fast-paced, modern business person needs and wants.

Hair styling is an art which not everyone has the ability to comprehend or perform. Many people have been told that they would be happy with a hair style only to find the results made them very unhappy. This is disgusting! This will not happen with Gary who says, "The most important objective in my life is to make you the most attractive person you can be. Your preferences in hairstyling are important to me and my chief aim is that you be happy."

Gary will be located at 26A Richmond Plaza in Prestonsburg and will be taking appointments at 886-6736 with 24-hour service in case of emergency needs.

ATTEND CAMP MEETING

Mr. and Mrs. Joe H. Arnett attended the annual family camp meeting of the Kentucky district of the Assemblies of God, June 23-29, at Crestwood, Kentucky. On June 25, they celebrated the birthday of their youngest son, Glenn Philip Arnett, who was there from Washington, D.C., when they joined with him at the home of another son, J.J. Arnett, and family, at their home on the Bardstown road. On June 25 they attended, at the Exposition Center, Kentucky State Fairgrounds, the morning session of the convention of the National Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (VICA). One of the special morning speakers at this event was President Ronald Reagan. The Arnetts' son, Glen Philip Arnett, who is with the White House Communication Agency, placed the Presidential Seal on the podium prior to the President's address, and assisted with the teleprompter during the program. Mr. and Mrs. Arnett were invited back stage, following the program.

CHOIR PLANS TRIP

The Wesley Bell Choir of the First United Methodist Church, under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Frazier, is planning a trip to Savannah, Ga., on Friday of this week. They will participate in the convocation of the American Guild of English Handbell Ringers. This will be an especially interesting trip for them since Savannah was the place where the Rev. John Wesley, founder of the Methodist Church, paid his first visit to America.

VISIT RELATIVES

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Fletcher, of Tucson, Ariz., were here recently, visiting relatives, including Mr. and Mrs. Joe Osborne, of Bevinsville and Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Akers, of Banner. From here, they went to Lexington for a visit with Mrs. Mabel Fletcher, Bill Fletcher and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Conley and daughters, Misses Ruth and Rose Conley, and to Louisville for visits with Mrs. Ruby Osborne, her son, Alvin Osborne, and her daughter, Miss Ruby Joyce Osborne, and with Mr. and Mrs. John Calder, Mrs. Judy Harris and children, and Miss Connie Calder. Mrs. Fletcher will be remembered as the former Miss Estella Ruth Conley, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lennie Conley.

RENDER MUSIC PROGRAM

As part of the pre-Independence Day celebration at the Community United Methodist Church, a musical program was rendered Sunday morning by the quartet composed of Mesdames Nancy Spradlin, Drema Osborn, Cheryl Sexton and Frances Cooley.

Cheese Apportionment Cut

Some Kentuckians accustomed to getting surplus processed cheese which is distributed free to low-income persons may be disappointed this summer. After months of progressively increasing shipments of cheese to Kentucky, the U.S. Department of Agriculture has cut amounts the state receives.

Cabinet for Human Resources officials report that amounts of surplus processed cheese distributed in Kentucky steadily increased from the first shipment of 500,000 pounds in January, 1982 to 3 million pounds distributed in April, this year. In May, USDA responded to complaints that giving away processed cheese was cutting into the commercial market and sent no processed cheese to Kentucky that month. As retail cheese sales decline, USDA must buy more raw cheese, thereby creating greater surpluses.

Kentucky received processed cheese again this month, but only about 1 million pounds. While the amounts of cheese have been cut, the Agriculture Department has allocated a variety of other foods to Kentucky, but in smaller quantities.

"We are getting non-fat dried milk, cornmeal, rice and butter," said Department for Social Insurance Commissioner John Cubine. "But the quantities coming in are too small to distribute in every county every month," he stated. This month, the state received and distributed about 500,000 pounds of butter, 56,000 pounds of cornmeal, 1.2 million pounds of nonfat dried milk and 560,000 pounds of rice.

At least once during the three summer months, each area development district will receive some of each variety of food shipped to the state, according to Cubine. He emphasized that every county may not receive every variety of food, since some shipments to ADDs may be too small to divide between all counties in the districts.

Other states are also receiving less processed cheese. Nationally, the amount of processed cheese distributed has dropped from a high of 60 million pounds last February to the current level of 25 million pounds a month.

Virginia Gas Co. continues to rake in the revenues, and is expected to take in an additional $37 million on an annual basis beginning from this past March. Those revenues could produce an annual increase in earnings of about $2 per share, according to Equitable.

Government lawyers arguing against the pipeline companies' appeal to the Supreme Court, said the decision "will result in the transfer of $2 billion and $3 billion from consumers" to those companies.

But, writing for the court's slender majority, Justice John Paul Stevens said the appeals court "correctly concluded that Congress intended pipeline production to receive first-sale pricing. The commission had no authority to ignore that intention absent a persuasive justification for doing so."

WE, THE ENEMY
Space is one of the more popular words in the language, these days. Everybody wants a piece of it...space to build, space to grow in, enough to turn around in, even illimitable space to ponder.

And yet we are its worst enemy. The space that once was a Bluegrass panorama becomes a subdivision with a dreary sameness of paint and brick and concrete. The mountaintop that swells out toward greater space is shoved aside for the coal that lies beneath.

Even Outer Space is invaded. The nations are busy putting up satellites to spy on one another, weather satellites, communications satellites, all a-clutter. You can easily begin to think of these invaders from Earth as threatening their separate ways among the stars.

More than that, we plan a Space Station out there, some day, for better or worse.

We like our space, we do, but are determined to fill it to our liking. It is almost as if the world was, as they say, spaced out.

And look what I've done with these meanderings to fill space in this paper!

men's use, the indictment charged. In addition to the $200,000 allegedly paid to Seton, McNally received $77,500 indirectly from Wombwell through the Snodgrass Insurance Agency in Allen, the indictment said.

Gray and McNally are each charged with one count of conspiracy and seven counts of mail fraud. If convicted on the conspiracy charge, they could be sentenced to up to five years in jail, fined $10,000 or both. Conviction on each mail-fraud charge carries a maximum five-year jail sentence, $1000 or both.

Hunt is currently serving an indeterminate sentence for contempt, following his refusal to answer questions put by the grand jury. At the conclusion of that sentence, he is scheduled to begin serving a three-year sentence for mail-fraud conspiracy and signing false federal income-tax returns.

Gray and McNally are the eighth and ninth men to be charged in a five-year federal investigation of state government. Of the previous cases developed by the grand jury, Hunt's has been the only case to result in a conviction.

Arraignment in the present case has been scheduled before U.S. District Judge Bernard T. Moynahan, Jr. on August 8.

Kentucky State Police Detective Fred Bailey said Hopkins had apparently been drinking. A coroner's report indicated a blood alcohol level of .17 in Keene's body.

Testifying for the defense last Wednesday, Otis Hall, of Harold, said he had spoken to Keene shortly before the shooting incident, when Keene implied he intended to kill Hopkins.

He went to Hopkins' table and warned him of the threat, Hall said.

After deliberating for more than two hours, the jury declared itself unable to reach a verdict in the case. Circuit Judge Ed Venters declared a mistrial and ordered a new trial set.

Proceeds from the Jan. 9 concert were to help the family of Curly Lambert, well-known local musician, who died last October.

Plans are afoot to restore and refurbish both the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island; the cost will be $230 million. But even before the official fund-raising campaign gets underway, contributions have started coming in. The July Reader's Digest reports that schoolchildren in Bridgeport, Conn., have raised $3600 in dimes and quarters, and other schools are conducting similar drives.

Where To Give Blood

In last week's paper an article announced an area resident's need for blood and urged people to go to the Prestonsburg Hospital to give blood for him. The only facility in our area which takes blood donors is the Central Kentucky Blood Center's Prestonsburg Donor Center which is located on the second floor of the Municipal Building in Prestonsburg.

Some people may get a little confused or possibly upset to be sent to the wrong place to donate. Others try to donate when the donor center is not open. The center is open Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays. For the correct hours or more information, call 886-1557 or check the Yellow Pages.

The center has been operating for three years now. A total of 3,368 pints of blood have been donated in that period. Our job is to maintain a safe and steady blood supply. Thank you very much for your tremendous support to this effort.

In Defense of Reputation

Be it known to all men that Green Bradley, who has been an ordained minister for 56 years in the Old Regular Baptist Church, was falsely accused by some of my family who are living on my possessions with me and my wife.

I went to jail for four hours, more or less, to show what was going on by those who tried to get me put away, they called it, so they could establish ungodly, disgraceful institutions or business in my backyard which I would not allow.

I have been hurt by this in many counties and states and have to defend my reputation. I hope the good Lord will have mercy on their poor souls before they leave this old, sinful world and face Him in judgment.

ELDER GREEN BRADLEY

Would Establish Ministry

In 1963 a 7-year-old boy became a ward of the state and was housed in various institutions until he reached the age of 18 in 1974.

The reason for this placement was due to his adopted mother's death and his adopted father's drinking problem, which led to his abusing the boy.

Hello, my name is Terry E. Phipps and that boy was me.

During my 11 years in institutions I met hundreds of kids who were there for various reasons, some of these reasons being rejection, death, parent drinking problem, abuse, or not being wanted.

These kids suffer from loneliness, as many do not know love, care, understanding or concern.

I knew, for I suffered from this. As the end result, I became extremely rebellious and went to jail several times and spent two years in prison. While in prison I became a Christian.

Now, I have a heartfelt, burning desire to reach out to the kids whose lives are a pattern to what mine was.

Some of my childhood friends from these institutions are now either in prison or dead, or are hardened criminals.

This need not be.

We need to reach out to these kids and give them the love, care, concern, understanding and guidance which they rightfully need and yet are deprived of.

The kids are no different than your own, except for being in a home with no one to reach out to them.

I am presently in the process of establishing a ministry, which will be located either in or around Prestonsburg and will be known as "Rejoice Ministries, Inc."

The kids in institutions will be its main concern, although there will be other phases in Rejoice Ministries, Inc.

The phases will be:

- (1) A Christian coffee-house, where local gospel bands, ministers, evangelists, religious organizations and christians can meet for fellowship.
  - (2) A thrift shop, which will have used clothing.
  - (3) A contemporary gospel band, as the Lord gifted me vocally and I intend to use that talent for Him.
  - (4) Jail, prison, hospital and nursing home visitation.
  - (5) Drug and alcohol counseling.
- Friend, I need your involvement, so if you want to become a part of Rejoice Ministries, Inc., then I sure would love to hear from you and have your help. You can address your letters directly to me at the following address: Terry E. Phipps, P.O. Box 35, Wheelwright, Ky. 41669.
- (I am available for speaking engagements upon request.)

Mine Safety Instructor Certification Class

A five day mining instructor certification class will be conducted, July 25 through July 29, at Pikeville College. Upon completion of the course participants will receive a certification as a mine safety instructor through the Mine Safety and Health Administration. The class size will be limited to 20, so preregistration is required. For more information and to preregister, contact Don E. Hall at 432-9362.

While insurance companies have revised their weight-height tables upwards for both men and women—by as much as ten to fifteen pounds in some cases—the fact remains that many Americans are still overweight.

Lost—'A Special Friend'

When Community Meals on Wheels closed its kitchen on June 30 the senior citizens and homebound people of this area lost a special friend.

The concern that Phillip Price showed daily for the recipients of Meals on Wheels will never be equaled by the bureaucrats of Big Sandy ADD.

If only 50 cents was the difference in the price-per-meal bids submitted by Meals on Wheels and Sandy Valley Senior Citizens, then there truly was no difference. Fifty cents could never buy a friend like Phillip Price. Big Sandy ADD would probably not even comprehend the services that Phil has delivered along with the meals for the past ten years. He has been a friend to people who had no other.

In the short time I was privileged to work at Meals on Wheels I saw countless examples of the love Phil Price had for the people who received his meals, I saw the kindness, compassion and sensitivity in his dealings with them.

Can that be bought for $2.33 per meal from Big Sandy ADD?

A Minister Comments

I am writing this letter on the anniversary of American independence, something we celebrated in church services yesterday. But, we celebrated something else—ten years of faithful and dedicated service to the hungry and elderly of our area through Meals on Wheels, which operated out of our facilities. As your readers know, this particular community service has now been ended, though its services will hopefully be rendered by some successor.

It is part of our American democratic system to accept the will of the majority, but it is also our right to speak freely as conscience bids us. We cannot help but wonder why a program conceived as an effort of volunteers to meet community need, carried out by and for local people, must now be eliminated in the name of "cost efficiency" and be replaced by some outside group that has been imposed on us by the wise "planners" of the Area Development District.

Does not Community Meals on Wheels represent precisely what our President has been calling for in these times: support of local agencies who can best understand what local needs are, less government bureaucracy and interference, and participation of churches and other volunteer organizations in getting human services to people in a charitable and compassionate fashion?

One only hopes that "bigger" will mean "better," though we doubt it, and that the dollars "saved" by the death of Meals on Wheels will truly be used to help people and not to build kingdoms of power and influence. For now, we pause to celebrate Meals on Wheels, its staff and director, Phil Price. Like many other good things begun by the church in its ministry, the service it provided has now been "taken over" by others as situations have changed. But we thank God for what it has done in the past for our area and its people, and continue to search as a congregation for new ways to use the commitment within the Christian community to serve others.

TIMOTHY JESSEN, Minister
Presbyterian Church
Prestonsburg

Advisory Board Recommends Science in Early Grades

Elementary school children should receive science instruction in early grades and their teachers should have more on-hands science education experience, according to recommendations recently submitted to state Superintendent of Public Instruction Raymond Barber by the Science Advisory Council.

The 12-member council, which was created in October, 1982 by Barber, has developed four recommendations aimed at improving the quality of science instruction in Kentucky's classrooms.

The advisory group concluded that since teachers are apt to teach in the manner in which they have learned themselves, more hands-on instruction should take place during teaching preparation courses.

The council has therefore recommended that a minimum of 12 semester hours of general studies science be required at the undergraduate level in all programs preparing elementary teachers, and that the required courses include "hands-on" laboratory courses in physics and biology, in addition to three hours each of either chemistry or earth science, and one elective science.

The council noted that most teacher education institutions already require 12 semester hours of general studies science, and that its recommendation would affect the nature and content of courses more than the number of credits required.

According to Frank Howard, science consultant with the state Education Department, this recommendation has been sent to the Council on Teacher Education and Certification for review.

Other recommendations made by the advisory council include establishing 12 regional science resource teachers throughout the state to work directly with instruction and to assist the state science consultant. This, the council concluded, would provide "immediate and knowledgeable support to science programs in individual schools."

Regional resource teachers would be required to have a Master's degree, three years' successful teaching experience, and experience with and knowledge about science programs. In addition, they must be certified in either elementary education with a minimum of 21 semester hours of science or in secondary education with a major in science or area of concentration in science or mathematics.

The council also recommended that the guidelines for local district extended employment provide a category for science teachers, adding that presently good science teachers give their own time for a number of activities that are currently covered under extended employment guidelines.

The council's fourth recommendation to the superintendent called for the state Department of Education to provide a science consultant who exclusively works to provide leadership and coordination of science activities.

The council expressed concern that during the past two years, the department's science consultant has also had other responsibilities, including administering the math and science incentive loan program directed at attracting competent teachers in those shortage areas. While this is also an important responsibility, the council believes that the consultant should work to accomplish tasks directly related to upgrading the quality of science education.

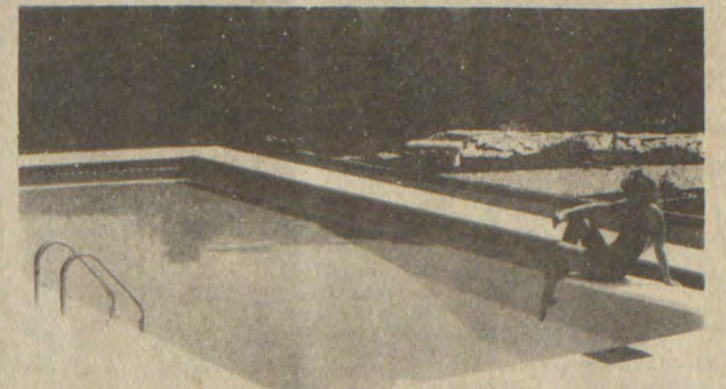

Superintendent Barber has already acted upon this recommendation by reassigning the loan program responsibilities to another department staff member.

In addition to the four recommendations, the council directed its chairwoman Anna Neal, Fayette county's science supervisor, to develop a pilot project in her county's schools which would establish closer ties between science teachers, business and industry. The plan could then be extended to other areas of the state.

The Science Advisory Council represents teachers, industry, science educators academic disciplines of science, and local district administrators. Barber appointed the council in an effort to act on the crisis in mathematics and science education. The council, which has been appointed through 1983, was charged with making a general assessment of science education and with recommending which items should be given priority by the Kentucky Department of Education.

Losing Your Cool? Listen To Mother

Mother's old advice of counting to 10 when you're angry still holds true. In fact, it has solid scientific backing. Dr. Carol Tavris, reporting in the July Reader's Digest, declares that "any emotional arousal will eventually simmer down if you just wait long enough."

Expressing anger is not always crucial to health and happiness. Dr. Leonard Berkowitz of the University of Wisconsin observes that "frequently, when we tell someone off, we stimulate ourselves to continued aggression." This is why a minor annoyance, when expressed in hostile language or behavior, can flare into a major argument.

Tavris warns, however, that "suppressed anger can be 'bad' if, because we do not reveal our feelings, a stressful situation continues; expressed anger can likewise be 'bad' if, in revealing our feelings, we make the stressful situation worse."

Psychologists at the University of California at Irvine have had success with people who have problems with chronic anger by teaching them how to think about their anger.

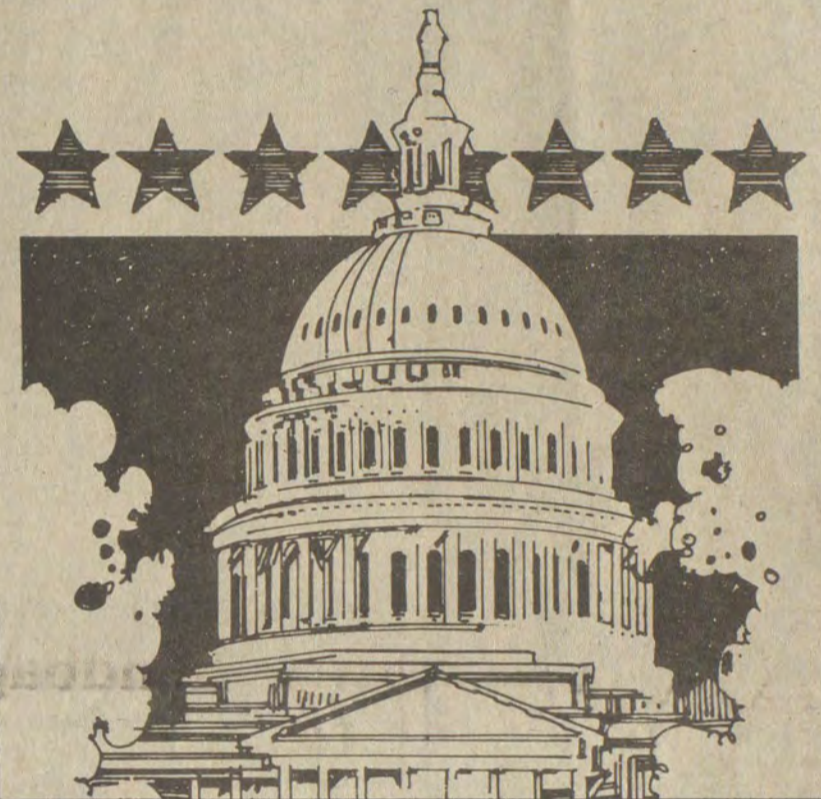

"Thus the decision about whether or not to express anger rests on what you want to communicate and what you hope to accomplish. The moral use of anger requires an awareness of choice and an embrace of reason," Dr. Travis concludes. "For the small indignities of life, the best remedy is almost always a Charlie Chaplin movie. For the larger ones, fight back. And, most important, learn the difference."

Life Member Kiwanian

At its meeting, Thursday, June 23, the Kiwanis Club of Prestonsburg bestowed the honor of "Life Member Status" on Edward C. Music. The award is presented on behalf of the president and the board of trustees of Kiwanis International to those select members who most exemplify and perpetuate the objects and objectives of Kiwanis International.

Kentucky-Tennessee Past Governor "Huck" Francis made the presentation and pointed out that Mr. Music had been a member of the Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club for 35 years. Francis cited Music's "continuous contribution to every Kiwanis project" and said that each project "was entered into with enthusiasm, energy, and most of all an overflowing amount of love for the precepts of Kiwanis and his fellow members."

In addition to his work for Kiwanis, Music has been an active member of the Prestonsburg-Floyd County Chamber of Commerce, on the Board of Trustees of Highlands Regional Medical Center and a participant in dozens of other community oriented organizations and projects.

Music is president of Music-Carter-Hughes Chevrolet-Buick here.

FLOYD COUNTY GIRLS WILL ATTEND OLDER GIRLS' MEET

Delegations from this county will attend an Older Girls' Conference of Eastern Kentucky, under the direction of the local Y. M. C. A., which will board the steamer Chris Green October 14, 15 and 16, it is announced. The steamer will run from Ashland to Charleston, W. Va., and return.

Many important subjects, affecting the welfare and future of the girls, will be discussed during this voyage. The conference theme will be "Scanning the Horizon."

Miss Eliza Peters, registrar of the conference, will be in charge. She will be assisted by Mrs. E. L. Ludwig, who has long been actively interested in this kind of work.

Last year there were 105 on the boat and this was found to be too many because of the limited number of state-rooms. It was decided to reduce the number this year to 100, allowing Ashland a quota of twenty.

The cost to each delegate will be her transportation to and from Ashland, $6 steamer fare, and $1.00 for registration fee.

Delegations are expected from the following towns:

Catlettsburg, Ashland, Olive Hill, Christian Normal Institute, Grayson, Grahn, Hitchens, Soldier, Prestonsburg, Martin, Maytown, Lackey, Prichard, High School, Grayson; Wayland, Auxler, Betsy Layne, Dwale, Greenup, Russell, Fullerton, Raceland, Wurtland, South Portsmouth, Flat Gap, Paintsville, Van Lear, Oil Springs, Louisa, Fleming, Whitesburg, Jenkins, Vanceburg, Tollesboro, Royaltown, Salyersville, Mayslick, Washington, Minerva, Louisburg, Orangeburg, Rectorville, Sardis, Maysville, Belfrey, Praise, McVeigh, Pikeville, Rowan and Halde-man.

Registration of Voters Held Here on Tuesday

Registration of voters was held here Tuesday, in wards 1 and 2 and in Depot precinct.

Registration figures are: Depot, 132; Ward No. 1, 320; Ward No. 2, 173.

By order of the city council in meeting Tuesday night, Saturday, October 8, and Saturday, October 15, were designated as special registration days for those who failed to register Tuesday. Failure to register prohibits the one doing so from voting.

T. J. Herald, of Alvin, was in Prestonsburg Saturday.

PRESTONSBURG LOSES 25-0

In the first four minutes of play the down-river lads placed the pigskin over the goal line for a touchdown. Prestonsburg's kickoff was received by Daniels, who returned the ball 30 yards. Van Lear essayed to skirt Prestonsburg's line on an end run, but Marshall tackled the ball-carrier for no gain. A line plunge also failed to net Van Lear any yardage when Bingham nailed the man with the ball. Then another end run, this time for 10 yards. Then came the touchdown from Daniels' end run.

Shortly after the opening of the second quarter, Prestonsburg opened an aerial attack which worked the ball downfield to within four yards of a touchdown. Then came the break, which happened thusly:

The quarter was opened by a pass, Hunley to Rose, for a 12 yard gain. Rose then went to the starting end of a pass and hunley received it for a gain of 25 yards. Then came the fatal break—a pass, Rose to Hunley, was short. Subsequent plays were of no avail, and the ball went to Van Lear. The half ended with the ball on Van Lear's eight-yard line.

A nice exhibit of heels was produced in the next half when the Van Lear backfield ran wild on end runs to score three touchdowns. Each marker was scored on runs averaging around fifty yards.

The Prestonsburg backfield strove mightily to stem the tide, but the odds were too great. Hunley at quarterback played a game, which, had Prestonsburg been victorious, would have been classed as brilliant. His passing, receiving of passes and defensive work was sparkling. Campbell also plunged the line well, and he and Captain Rose deserve much credit.

In the last quarter Prestonsburg rose to the crushing task of turning the tide back, and barely fell short of at least one touchdown. Holding Van Lear for downs, the local team took the ball. Then Rose shot a pass to Hunley for 50 yards just as the game closed. This combination, Rose to Hunley, or Hunley to Rose is a sweet one when it comes to the aerial attack.

The rout was complete, and the result should be neither surprising nor discouraging, since the local boys had no more than a week's practice before entering the game. Saturday, October 22, will see the same teams in action here, and on that date Prestonsburg's team may wreck some nice furniture by turning the tables on the invaders.

Other games already scheduled are with Paintsville, at Paintsville, October 15, and with Pikeville, at Pikeville, November 5. A game may be arranged with the Prestonsburg High School alumni for Saturday.

GLO

MAN KILLED

On September 25 an altercation arose between a Mr. Gullett and a Mr. Trivett at tipple No. 328 in Wayland and due to imbibing too freely of John Barleycorn, and the result was that Trivett shot and instantly killed Gullett. On the next morning Trivett boarded the train, went to Prestonsburg and surrendered himself to the authorities, so the story goes, claiming self-defense. We have heard it said that this makes the forty-third killing in this county this year, but we have our doubts about this, as this percent seems rather large.

THIEF CAUGHT

Oliver McGuffey, who stands accused of stealing a horse from K. F. Combs two weeks ago, has been captured and is now in the jail at Hindman awaiting grand jury investigation, being unable to furnish bond sufficient to warrant his freedom. The horse has been located in Virginia, but has not yet been recovered by the owner. Due to the necessary preliminaries of ownership establishment.

RIME

The first "rime" of the season was presented two weeks ago—insufficient, however, to damage vegetables to any noticeable extent, but, since that time, we have been passing through a "perspiration provoking period," as the late Dr. Watson once said, and since these weather conditions have drifted back to their regular autumnal degree, and we are now enjoying the most pleasant period of the whole year, as well as the most beautiful.

MINE ACTIVITIES

All the coal operations in this field are running full time with an adequate supply of railroad cars for the daily output which is at present the largest in the history of this district, there being no labor shortage at this time, as all the operations have plenty of labor.

OIL NEWS

The oil well being drilled on the Martin Branch has reached the depth of 1800 feet and on Friday of last week they ran into a fine flow of gas thought to be one of the best strikes of gas in all this section of the country, but just at this particular time the bits were lost and this brought about a "fishing" job with no tools at hand sufficient to grapple the lost "bits." This work of getting the fishing tools together is in progress at this writing and will soon be active in recovering the lost "bits." Just how long this will require remains yet to be seen, but as soon as possible the drilling will proceed to the required depth. When full results are obtained, reports will be made as to the success of the venture, after which another well will be put down on the Salyers Branch, adjacent to our town.

Defense Cost vs. Freedom Lost

I cannot understand why so many people knock or oppose our defense preparedness program, when right under our nose the communists are carrying out their design or purpose to take over our very existence as a free nation. We should be prepared at all speed, whatever the cost, to stop their expansive movements into the western hemisphere and be prepared to defend ourselves in any emergency. I am so very, very thankful that we have a President who believes in a strong defense. As for me, I would rather live on a half a loaf and be free than to live high on the hog and risk losing my freedom. We have a bunch in this country that should have to live in Siberia four or five years to learn the value of freedom, to live in the bleak, cold, depressing land under the Russian whip for five years would really show the glorious value of freedom. If these S. B.'s want to flout freedom and cozy up to the communist, we should deport them to Russia, if the Russians would have such scoundrels or traitors.

I believe these defense knockers would rather spend the taxpayers' money on bums that won't work for a living, on whores to have babies, or hospitals to give abortions to whores that prefer to murder their babies, or to traitors that work to wreck our way of life. They don't seem to want what's right for our country. What has happened to prayer in our schools, and our slogan, "In God We Trust"? There's no control over television bringing their filth into all homes, teaching our children all the evils and corruption they can think up. Our nation will perish unless we reverse our trend of complacency and corruption.

Are we going to sit down and let Russia come and get us, or are we going to prepare and let them stand the consequences? Their goal is to take us. We are the last great bastion of freedom. Once they get us, they know that they have it all. They want our great bread basket and us as slaves to raise it for them. It will be too late to say, "I ain't gonna work," and scream, "I'm on strike." The strike you'll get is a bayonet and you'll jump to the job; yes you'll get overtime, but no extra pay, you'll be lucky if you get something to eat. And these big greedy gut companies that undermine and manipulate, connive and press their way, will dissolve into the ranks of the slaves and the big dollars and big times will be gone forever. The whoop and whooplah, big cars and liquor bars, fast planes and ball games, women and wine and clothes so fine, will all be gone because of our complacency and live it up today attitude, not preparing for the wolf, and freedom slips away, forever gone. Can you put a price on your loss? And just to think we bicker, bitch and complain about spending on defense of our good life, our FREEDOM.

I am inclosing a map that shows the communist snake's encroachment and cunning, subtle way of taking us in. Have we a rubber backbone, are we cowards? If you don't like our country, our way of life, our FREEDOM, why don't you just move out. I believe in matching the Russian might, I do not believe in a nuclear freeze; it would be a give-away to the Russians. The balance of power would be to their favor. Remember, the Russians cannot be trusted, they have definitely proved that over the past 35 years. Their ultimate goal is to take us in, so let's get prepared, whatever the cost. They are working day and night, preparing to come after us; we must work and sacrifice to stop them and kick them out of the western hemisphere. We need to prepare for the safety of our people, underground and other safety measures. You can bet the Russians are dug in. You can bet we are in for a severe struggle. When it is time to vote, vote for one who believes in strong defense. If you are for FREEDOM, tell your congressman and senators to defend it, or get out.

Some say we already have over-kill against the Russians. Well, it seems the Russians don't think so, as they continue their encroachment in the face of some's boasted defense. The Russians' aims and plans are long range, their tactics are subtle and stealthy, with vast resources, armament and manpower without regard to how they would use it.

This writing went out to many large newspapers across the country and several congressmen and senators.

Boy-Hunter Killed in Fall

A hunting trip by two Wheelwright youths last Saturday ended in tragedy when one of the two fell from a cliff variously estimated at 30 to 60 feet high.

Fourteen-year-old Buster Jeffery Isaac was found dead by a search party Saturday night. Coroner Roger Nelson said X-rays disclosed that his neck had been broken.

His hunting companion and cousin, Tony Isaac, 13, suffered minor injuries and was described as "in a state of shock."

The youths left home around noon Saturday, and when they failed to return the Weeksbury-based Southeast Fire Department organized a search party of about 30. The boys were located on the mountain at the head of Garbage Hollow, Wheelwright, around 9 p.m., but rescuers were impeded by rough terrain and darkness and the victim was not removed from the mountain until 2:20 a.m. His cousin was returned earlier to safety.

The victim was a native of Dayton, O., the son of Buster Isaac, of Wheelwright, and Janice Wright Isaac, of Bypro. Besides the parents, survivors include two brothers, Bryan Douglas Isaac and Kenny Joe Jones, both of Bypro, and two sisters, Christy Evelyn Isaac, of Bypro, and Stacy Danielle Isaac, of Wheelwright.

Funeral services were conducted at 10 a.m. today (Wednesday) from Joppa Regular Baptist Church at Melvin, and burial in the Wright cemetery at Wheelwright was directed by the Merion Funeral Chapel.

Conley Returns Ambulance Tiff To Fiscal Court

Circuit Judge Hollie Conley sent back to the Floyd Fiscal Court Friday a dispute over who may operate ambulance services in this county.

The action came on a motion by an attorney for Ezra Branham and William Adams, operators of the newly-organized Respond Ambulance Service, who sought dismissal of a suit brought against them by the long-established P and B Ambulance Service.

P and B, citing a 1982 fiscal court resolution, claim they have an exclusive right to operate a commercial ambulance service in Floyd county. They asked the court to restrain the new firm from doing business here. But Respond attorney J. Logan Griffith argued last week that it would take a fiscal court ordinance, not a simple resolution, to set up an ambulance franchise system. Moreover, the county would be required by law to open the franchise to competitive bids, he said.

Even if last year's fiscal court resolution was held by the court to establish a valid franchise system, nothing in the resolution says the franchise claimed by P and B is exclusive, the attorney noted.

Judge Conley remanded the case to the fiscal court for a determination as to whether the present county administration wishes to establish an ambulance franchise.

In the meantime, his clients are operating legally, Griffith insisted.

There's a lot more to language than meets the eye, the July Reader's Digest affirms. Take that keen-eyed sea dog of a word admiral, for instance. Its direct ancestor wore baggy trousers and a jeweled turban, for the English word admiral descends from the Arabic word amir, meaning "commander."

Change in Rate Brings Refunds

Kentucky-West Virginia Gas Company has refunded $3,237,329.70 to customer firms, including five in Floyd county, it has been announced by Kenneth A. Williams, director of the Office of Pipeline and Producer Regulation.

The biggest refunds went to its parent company, Equitable Gas ($2,399,000) and Columbia Gas Transmission ($737,476.32). Refunds to Floyd utilities were: Prestonsburg Utility Commission, $16,704.37 for Prestonsburg and $224.73 for Emma; Wheelwright Utility Commission, $861.78; East Kentucky Utilities, Allen, $3101.54; East Kentucky Utilities, Middle Creek, $449.01; City of Paintsville, $3300; City of Hazard, $12,591.18.

Totals shown include interest. The refunds represent the difference between billed and revised rates for the months of October and November, 1982.

The refunds were the result, in part, of a motion filed by the Prestonsburg Gas Consumers Association and others for a rehearing of the rate case, Barkley J. Sturgill, attorney for the local group, said. Since that time the rate structure has been tilted in favor of the gas company by a Supreme Court decision, but it is not known if that decision will abrogate the refund order.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Dillard Howard wishes to thank all who were so kind and considerate during our time of grief. We want to thank those who sent flowers and gifts of love. We especially want to thank the Regular Baptist Churches and ministers, the staff of Highlands Regional Medical Center, and the Hall Funeral Home for being so kind. All your kindnesses were greatly appreciated.

THE FAMILY OF DILLARD HOWARD

Joe Louis, a consummate athlete, was a diehard patriot as well. According to the July Reader's Digest, he donated his entire purse from defending his heavyweight title a month after Pearl Harbor to the Navy Relief Fund. Two months later he defended his title again, and gave the proceeds to the Army Relief Society.

Dr. Carl Sagan hosts "Cosmos"

'Who speaks for Earth?'

"Who Speaks for Earth?" is the thirteenth episode of the Peabody Award-winning series "Cosmos," which airs Sunday, July 10 on PBS. (Please check local listings for time.)

In the past, human beings made war on one another, rarely appreciating the near-identity of all cultures and peoples of the Earth. But now the planet is in the midst of a stirring worldwide revolution as it becomes bound up into a single global community, and the prejudices of centuries have begun to wither.

At the same time, humanity's engines of destruction have become able to destroy our civilization and, perhaps, all of human life. Once before, the promise of a great scientific civilization was destroyed by ignorance and fear, when a mob of fanatics razed the great library at Alexandria in the fourth century. As they extinguished the world's chief research institute, they killed the great woman mathematician Hypatia, whose story Dr. Carl Sagan relates within the long-vanished library.

Then, as the "Cosmos" special effects retrace the 15 billion-year journey from the past to the present, Dr. Sagan reminds viewers that our responsibility for our survival is owed not just to ourselves but also to that Cosmos, ancient and vast, from which we spring.

SUPERMAN III, from Warner Bros. Directed by Richard Lester, screenplay by David and Leslie Newman. Starring Christopher Reeve, Richard Pryor, Annette O'Toole. Rated 'PG.' ★ ★

By J.T. YURKO

Putting comedian Richard Pryor in a "Superman" movie seemed like it would be a great idea. As the arch-villain Lex Luthor in the previous "Superman" movies, Gene Hackman played his role with a tongue-in-cheek attitude that ranged from high camp to outright comedy. With Pryor's talents and the usual array of special effects, "Superman III" had the powers to be far beyond that of a normal summer movie.

But it was not to be. This Man of Steel movie is little more than a lightweight contender against other summer blockbusters such as "Return of the Jedi" and "WarGames." The script is weak, the effects are tame and Pryor's ample talents are largely untapped.

"Superman" is a comic book adventure, but the first two movies carefully sidestepped being childish in their approaches. Not so in this film, as even the pre-credit sequence demonstrates. It's pure slapstick, simple-minded mayhem that actually ends with a pie in the face.

David and Leslie Newman return as screenwriters in this episode, but missing from the writing credits is Mario Puzo. Perhaps the heavy hand of the man who wrote "The Godfather" is needed. The story never seems to get off the ground.

As in "WarGames," computers are this movie's villain. But the script calls for Pryor to be a computer genius who matches wits with the Man of Steel. Pryor is too lovable to be a villain, and Robert Vaughn and Annie Ross are too campy to be a threat to anyone over the age of 7.

Together they do manage to build a master mega-computer, and thus give some work to the special effects people, but it comes too late in the film to pose a genuine threat to a happy ending.

Along the way, Superman (as Clark Kent) goes back to his home town of Smallville and gets smitten by the former high-school prom queen, Lana Lang (Annette O'Toole). Has Clark forsaken Lois Lane in favor of Lana? Only an inevitable "Superman IV" will tell.

A striking exhibition of photographs now on display at the Floyd County Library does what too few formal historians have done—namely, focus attention on the lives and contributions of Kentucky women of the past.

Forty fine black-and-white prints dating from 1880 to 1930 capture moments in the lives of mostly ordinary Kentucky women at work, at home, in traditional and some untraditional roles.

The exhibition covers a period in which Kentucky women were entering in significant numbers the workforce outside the home. It was not always a liberation, as some of the photos make clear.

By the turn of the century, 45,000 women worked for long hours and low pay in Kentucky factories, in conditions that were often unhealthy and unsafe. By comparison, the phone operators, store clerks and office workers were lucky. But only by comparison. For the most part, women entering the workforce inherited dead-end and unrewarding jobs.

Women with educations became teachers and librarians, jobs which, though they paid little, offered better working conditions and higher status.

In photographs of the lowly and the well-born, the secretary and the social reformer, traditional quiltmakers and pioneers in the industrial workforce, glimpses of a largely forgotten past are offered in this exhibition, which is touring the state under the auspices of the Department of Libraries.

Families and motherhood, often sentimentalized in the late 19th century, provide the subject for a number of the photos included here. Entitled "A Pictorial View of Kentucky Women: 1880-1930," the exhibition is being funded through a 1979-80 grant of the Kentucky Humanities Council.

The picture above, of women working in a Louisville paint factory, was taken in 1921.

'Grease' Opens at Jenny Wiley

"If you're old enough to remember the 50's, or if you're young enough to be curious, then GREASE is the show for you," says John McCann, managing director of the Jenny Wiley Theatre. GREASE will have its regional premiere tonight (Wednesday) as it rounds out the summer season at Jenny Wiley for 1983.

Through its story of typical high school teenagers, engaged in singing and dancing to the throbbing rock rhythms of the late 50's, GREASE brings alive many aspects of the "Fabulous Fifties" that many people have almost forgotten—Elvis' wriggling, James Dean's brooding, Bill Haley's rocking, Patti Page's waltzing, Johnnie Ray's crying, and everybody else's hula-hooping.

GREASE, the longest-running Broadway show ever, opened on Broadway in 1972, and ran for 3,388 consecutive performances before closing on April 13, 1980. According to the producers, the play, a cast album, touring companies, and the 1978 film starring John Travolta and Olivia Newton-John grossed more than $8 million.

"The season of GREASE, ANNIE, and THE ROBBER BRIDEGROOM is the strongest in the theatre's history in terms of quality, entertainment, and popularity," said McCann. "The three plays are totally different, yet are alike in one important aspect. They all provide great family entertainment through the magic of professionally produced live theatre."

ANNIE, THE ROBBER BRIDE-

MISS WILCOX NAMED TO KCC DEAN'S LIST

The Academic Dean's Office of Kentucky Christian College has announced that Debra Robyn Wilcox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Douglas Wilcox, Sr., of East Point, has been named to the Dean's list for the 1983 spring semester with a grade point average of 3.4 on a 4.0 scale.

GROOM, and GREASE play in rotation each Wednesday through Sunday night until August 21. For reservations and information on group and individual prices, call (606) 886-9274.

Thanks in part to an experimental anti-rejection named cyclosporine, human organ transplants are increasingly successful. According to the June Reader's Digest, some 5000 kidney transplants will be performed this year, with expected two-year survival rates ranging from 65 to 95 percent.

In a meeting Thursday night, June 30, the Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club donated $550 to the Area 11 Kentucky Special Olympics program. The money will go towards sponsoring Lisa Stambaugh and 15 other Special Olympics contestants from this area to go to the 1983 Summer Special Olympic Games in Baton Rouge, La., July 12-18.

Lisa will compete in the gymnastics events since she has won various honors and medals throughout Kentucky.

Special Olympics is an international program of physical fitness, sports training and athletic competition for mentally handicapped children and adults. It is unique in that it accommodates competitors at all ability levels by assigning them to "competition divisions" based on both age and actual performance. Even athletes in the lowest divisions can advance all the way to the international games.

Rob Schissler has pledged the club's continued support in helping the Special Olympics in this area through various fund-raising projects.

Anyone interested in learning more about the local Special Olympics can contact Kim Gardner, area coordinator, at 789-1952, or any Kiwanis member.

Cumberland Lake Camp Nearer Reality

Construction of a 4-H Leadership Development Training Center on Lake Cumberland came a step closer Thursday, June 21, when University of Kentucky President Otis A. Singletary was authorized by the UK Board of Trustees to convey about two acres of land to Friends of Kentucky 4-H, Inc.

The Friends of Kentucky 4-H Inc., a non-profit financial support group for the Kentucky 4-H program, is applying for an Economic Development Administration grant which would, when added to gifts already received, provide for the construction of the Center. Title to the site is essential to receive the EDA grant.

The plot is located on a 320-acre tract in Wayne county which houses a 4-H Camp for more than 300 youngsters in 20 winterized cabins with dining and health facilities, according to L. Coleman White, assistant director of extension for 4-H. The camp was the result of a 20-county fund raising effort in the 1960s.

The new center, which would house volunteer 4-H leaders for throughout Kentucky, would provide lodging for 240 adults, conference rooms, kitchen and dining facilities.

"This is a state-wide endeavor," White said. "The Friends of Kentucky 4-H have done an enormous job," he added.

Women maintaining families are far more likely to be unemployed than are husbands or wives; their average (median) family income is less than half that of married couples, and they are five times as likely to be in poverty, according to "Women at Work: A Chart-book."

PHS Majorettes Win Honors

The Prestonsburg High School majorette corps was honored recently as they were judged the outstanding group in their class at the Smith-Walbridge Camp at Marietta College. The group was presented a plaque and each of the nine girls, who were evaluated each evening on their performance of material taught that day, received blue ribbons for attaining perfect scores. PHS majorettes, are pictured above (front)—Laura Cooley; (second row) from left—Susan Cooley, Cathy Horn and Bonnie Hensley; (third row)—Melanie Webb, Michelle Wilson, Jamie Wallen, Renee Kinzer and Kathy Barnett. Two junior high majorettes, Christy Cooley and Amy Allen, accompanied the group.

The baton twirlers are sponsored by Boots Adams.

Bassin' Buddies Tourney Trail

The Bassin' Buddies June tournament was held on Woods Creek Reservoir in Laurel county. Like most of this spring, a lot of the day was spent fishing in the rain, but the fish didn't seem to mind as everyone caught a lot of small fish. Bass were taken on several different lures, but the winning pattern proved to be crank baits fished in standing timber. First place was taken by Don Bryson and Tee Watkins with 3-lbs. 13-oz., second by Dean Blair and Paul Hagans with 2-lbs. 3 oz., and third by Fannie Arrowood and J. R. Frisby with 1-lb. The biggest fish was caught by Dean Blair.

The tourney was sponsored by Elm Coal Company of Prestonsburg. The Bassin' Buddies June tournament was held on beautiful Laurel Lake, near London, Ky. with the reservoir super clear and at normal pool. Tournament hours were from 7 p.m. to 9 a.m. for this first night tournament of the year. Most bass were taken on plastic worms, and although no big fish were caught, most members weighed in fish. First place went to Paul Hagans and Tee Watkins with 3-lbs. 4 oz., second to Glen Copley and Alan Sublett with 2-lbs. 9 oz., and third place to Dean Blair and Gary Hackworth with 1-lb. Individual trophy was awarded to Paul Hagans for catching the largest bass. The June tourney was sponsored by Greene & Cantrell Construction Company, of Prestonsburg.

Club members, as always, encourage the public to respect the environment and don't pollute.

Hamilton, Blair Sign With Baseball Eagles

Two of the top pitching prospects in the state of Kentucky have signed national letters-of-intent to play under Morehead State baseball skipper Steve Hamilton.

Signing with the Eagles are Bobby Hamilton from Morehead and Willie Blair from Paintsville. Hamilton is the son of the Eagle mentor and is a left-hander. Blair pitched for Mike Collins at Johnson Central and is a right-hander. "Bobby is a control pitcher which is something that we really need," said Hamilton whose 1983 Eagles won the Ohio Valley Conference Tournament championship.

"We expect him to provide us with help immediately."

In his senior season with Rowan county, Hamilton compiled an 11-2 record and a 0.55 earned run average. The 6-1 southpaw struck out 98 and walked 22 in 76 and a third innings pitched. Hamilton also started one season on the Vikings basketball team.

Hamilton says Blair may have been a sleeper in regard to some of the other top pitchers in the state.

"I have felt all along that Willie is one of the finest pitchers in the state," added Hamilton. "He has excellent potential."

Blair has an outstanding fastball to go along with a good curve ball.

Martin County Tax Group Loses

The state Board of Tax Appeals last week ordered that its earlier dismissal of the appeal of a Martin county citizens' group challenging the property taxes levied against two coal companies will stand unchanged.

The group, Concerned Citizens of Martin County, Inc., may appeal the case to the Martin circuit court, it was indicated.

The citizens' group is contesting what it claims is undervalued property assessments of 47,869 acres of surface holdings owned by Pocahontas Kentucky Corp. and 6,428 acres owned by Martiki Coal Corp.

The 1982 assessment on the land was about $200 an acre.

Last year the tax-appeal board unanimously rejected a motion by Martiki to dismiss the group's appeal and ordered the coal companies to provide detailed information, including data on underground minerals, to attorneys for the Martin county group.

But earlier this month, the state board reversed itself and dismissed the citizens' appeal, relying mainly on a 1966 Kentucky Court of Appeals decision in a Montgomery County case.

A key part of that decision said that parties in tax appeals should be "formally recognized participants...not merely unhappy people."

Joe Childers, who is associated with the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund of Kentucky, charged that the state Board of Tax Appeals is attempting "to limit the right of citizens to appeal these third-party tax appeals beyond the local board of assessment."

He also contended that state law gives property owners who have listed their property at fair market value the right to challenge other properties that are assessed at less than fair market value.

Blasting Course

The Division of Explosives and Blasting, Department of Mines and Minerals, will conduct a one-month-long course on blasting safety and techniques at the Martin District Office, Coal Building, Martin.

The course is open to anyone wishing to obtain a Kentucky blaster's license as well as licensed blasters desiring to reacquire themselves with blasting techniques and safety regulations.

The course will consist of 30 class hours and will run from July 18 until around August 17. Classes will be held on Monday and Wednesday evenings from 6:00 p.m. until 9:00 p.m. At the last class meeting, the blaster's examination will be given to anyone interested in obtaining a license.

For further information, call 257-8818.

Deer Hunt Deadlines

It's time to start thinking about deer hunting, particularly if you want to hunt on one of the wildlife management areas or federal installations where advance applications are necessary. Some of the application deadlines are right around the corner, so get out your calendar and start drawing big red circles around the deadline dates for your favorite area.

Since random drawings determine who gets to hunt on all these areas, getting an application in early won't necessarily do you any good—the important thing is not to be late.

But at two military posts it doesn't pay to be too early, either. Both Ft. Knox and the Bluegrass Army Depot will reject applications received before specified dates as well as those received after the cut off.

At Ft. Knox, applications for weekend bow hunts will be accepted only between July 16 and July 31, while those wishing to participate in the Nov. 26-27, Dec. 10-11 and Dec. 17-18 gun hunts should apply between Aug. 13 and Aug. 28. Weekday bow hunting during the Oct. 1-30 season will be on a first-come, first-served basis.

Up to five hunters may apply on one letter of application to Ft. Knox. You need to specify what type of hunting (gun or bow) and give the names and addresses of all hunters. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope and a $15 money order, certified check or cashier's check (payable to Treasurer of the United States) for each hunter. Hunting dates will be assigned to those whose applications are drawn. Mail applications to Morale Support Activities, Hunt Control Office, Ft. Knox, Ky. 40121. For additional information, call (502) 623-7311—no collect calls, please.

Although the Bluegrass Army Depot hasn't set its actual hunting dates yet, applications for both bow and gun hunts will be accepted only between Aug. 10 and Sept. 11. Applications must be made on a postcard, with only one name per card (husbands and wives or adults and juveniles wishing to hunt together should staple their cards together and mail them in an envelope). Cards should contain name, address and telephone number of the applicant and specify whether gun or bow hunting is desired. More than one postcard from an individual will disqualify that applicant.

Mail applications to Commander, Lexington-Bluegrass Depot Activity, Attention: Chairman, Wildlife Management Subcommittee, Lexington, Ky. 40511. Successful applicants will be notified of hunting dates and will be billed the $15 post fee.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hamilton, of Beaver, announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Brenda Lee, to Robert Lee Newsome, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Newsome, of Virgie. The marriage will be solemnized at 2 p.m., Saturday, July 9, at the Virgie Baptist Church by the Rev. Howard Pryor. The custom of open church will be observed. The bride-elect is a teacher at McDowell High School and Mr. Newsome is self-employed with the Jet Coal Company. A reception will be held at the church immediately following the ceremony.

Bon Appetit

Some suggestions for healthier eating: Whenever you can, make your own soups and whole-grain breads. They are much more nutritious than canned soups and spongy, store-bought breads. And they taste better, too!

When you fry up food, use a cast iron skillet. It's a good source of readily absorbed iron, which is needed by women and children especially. And don't fry with lard—use vegetable oil, it's better for you, and makes foods taste lighter.

When you cook vegetables, use only a little water, cap the pot tightly, and save the water. Too many vitamins are lost into the air and the water. Use the broth as stock for soup, sauces, or bread dough, to recycle the vitamin-rich water.

Read the labels on the foods you buy! There's a wealth of information now on most food products about what they contain. The ingredients are listed in order of quantity, so the first ingredient is being used in the greatest quantity. Watch out for sugar: it can cause tooth decay, and can aggravate your diabetes or obesity. It's disguised under such names as glucose, sucrose, lactose, fructose, maltose, corn syrup, molasses, honey, and brown sugar. If it's the first ingredient listed, don't buy the product: there's too much sugar in it.

This is the first in a series of articles by the Appalachian Women's Health Network, a group of health providers and consumers.

"Brideshead Revisited" Revisited, July 11

The smash hit series "Brideshead Revisited," an 11-part television adaptation of Evelyn Waugh's classic novel of the same name, encores on KET Mondays at 9 p.m., beginning July 11.

Principal roles in the series are played by Jeremy Irons, who appears as the painter Charles Ryder; Anthony Andrews, who will play Lord Sebastian Flyte, glamorous younger son of the aristocratic Marchmain family; Claire Bloom as Lady Marchmain and Diana Quick as Lady Julia Flyte. Also starring are Laurence Olivier and John Gielgud.

The story begins in 1944 when Ryder, a captain in the British army, arrives at his regiment's new headquarters, in Brideshead, the scene of the golden days of his youth. His return takes him back to his years at Oxford and the beginning of his intense friendship with Lord Sebastian Flyte and the Marchmain family. He watches as Sebastian, after dazzling Oxford's social world, eventually falls from grace and declines into alcoholism. Ryder's obsession with the Marchmain family eventually threatens to destroy him as well. But, reliving his memories in the temporary barracks of Brideshead, he finds himself reconciled to the strange course his life has taken.

"Brideshead Revisited" is a Great Performances presentation and is a production of Granada Television of England in association with WNET/New York and NDR/Hamburg.

How Safe (or Dangerous) Are Kentucky's Bridges?

The tragic Connecticut bridge collapse that left three people dead and others injured has caused concern about the safety of Kentucky's bridges.

Kentucky has 12,533 bridges, one for every 5.6 miles of road. On average, every 13 miles there is a substandard bridge. In all, 42 percent of Kentucky's highway bridges are substandard, according to a 1982 report from the Secretary of Transportation to Congress.

The report shows that 5,339 of Kentucky's 12,533 bridges are substandard, based on a bridge inventory conducted by the state. Kentucky ranks 19th among the 50 states in the number of deficient bridges and 22nd among the states in terms of percentage of deficient bridges.

According to the report, Kentucky has 4,816 bridges eligible to receive federal aid, of which 443 are structurally deficient and 996 are functionally obsolete. Most of these bridges are on the state's major highways and Interstates. The state's current construction plan provides for replacing 387 deficient bridges by 1988.

Of the state's 7,717 bridges off the federal-aid system, 2,700 are structurally deficient and 1,200 are functionally obsolete. This means, on the average, every other bridge on local roads and streets is considered substandard, according to Jack Fish, president of Kentuckians for Better Transportation (KBT).

In spite of the large number of substandard bridges in Kentucky, Kentucky transportation officials say that if posted weight limits are observed, people using Kentucky's bridges are quite safe.

When it is determined that a bridge is structurally deficient it is closed, restricted to lighter traffic, or must be rehabilitated immediately to stay open. (A functionally obsolete bridge is one whose narrow lanes, load carrying capacity, clearance, or approach roadway alignment can no longer safely serve its current traffic load.)

Federal law requires that bridges be inspected at least every two years. If they are substandard because of an inability to carry design weight they must be inspected at least annually.

Kentucky policy with regard to substandard bridges goes even further. Bridges in a "critical condition" are inspected more frequently—perhaps monthly or weekly, depending on judgement at the district level. Bridge inspections by state personnel are made not only on state system bridges, but the same inspection policy extends to city and county bridges.

Kentucky has some bridges that are similar in design to the Connecticut bridge that failed. However, modifications have been made to prevent a section from falling in the event a pin becomes dislodged, according to a state transportation spokesman.

Unlike news accounts of the Connecticut situation, Kentucky transportation officials say public inquiries are followed up immediately. Any public inquiry about the safety of a bridge or highway that goes to the transportation secretary's office is sent immediately to the district general manager to check out. He must respond in writing to the secretary's office within one week.

Aside from the always-present possibility of a tragedy involving a structurally deficient bridge, there are other serious economic costs to the community caused by deficient bridges. Fish noted, "A closed bridge or severely reduced weight limit can cut off essential services, add shipping costs to business and farmers, increase fuel costs to school districts and motorists, and play havoc with the daily routine of any community," he said.

Pharmacy Footnotes

By HAROLD COOLEY

Insect stings can be a serious matter for the estimated one million Americans who, each year, suffer a serious reaction to them. About fifty of these cases result in death. The culprits are hornets, honeybees, yellow jackets and paper wasps. A sting by one of these insects can cause loss of consciousness, a severe drop in blood pressure and respiratory arrest. In general, the quicker the reaction, the more dangerous the sting. Because vaccination against insect stings is such a lengthy process, an immediate injection of adrenaline is usually the best treatment. For susceptible patients, and with a doctor's prescription, an emergency syringe kit and automatic injectors are available.

If you happen to be allergic to insect stings but still want to spend time in the great outdoors, you might want to ask your Doctor to prescribe an emergency syringe kit. If you have some protection with you, it will make being outdoors much more enjoyable. Here at COOLEY APOTHECARY we can fill any prescription for you, and you'll always find friendly, helpful service. Located at #2 Town Center Bldg., where we're open Mon.-Fri., 9-5:30; Sat., 9-5. 886-8106.

Electricity is one of the most convenient and dependable forms of energy we have. But care must be taken when you're around it. If misused, electricity can be dangerous. So please make sure you and your children follow these important safety do's and don'ts.

Read your family these facts of life.

Electricity is one of the most convenient and dependable forms of energy we have. But care must be taken when you're around it, because contact with it can injure or kill. So treat electricity with respect and make sure you follow these safety rules:

- 1. Never go near any fallen lines. If you see a victim of electrical shock, don't touch him if he's still in contact with the wire.
- 2. Don't use electrical yard tools when the ground is wet. And make sure they're double-insulated or properly grounded with a 3-wire plug.
- 3. When using a ladder, make sure it will not come in contact with any power lines.
- 4. Before installing a CB, TV or ham radio antenna, make sure it's at least one and one-half times its total height away from all power lines.
- 5. If you're trimming trees, painting a house, repairing a roof or putting up aluminum siding, make sure you're well clear of overhead power lines.
- 6. Before you do any type of digging, contact your electric company to make sure there are no buried electric cables.

Battered Women—
Why Do They Stay?

"She probably did something to deserve it." "She must like it." "We told her not to marry him, so she made her bed, let her lie in it." "A man's home is his castle and she's his wife so he can beat her if he wants to." These are often the answers to the question of why women stay in a physically abusive marital relationship. Such answers are the result of not understanding the problem of spouse abuse. A more realistic picture shows the abused woman trapped with the extreme emotions of love, terror, and shame plus seemingly unconquerable economic and social barriers.

A physical beating doesn't make the love go away. After, and sometimes during, the physical assault, the abuser redeclares his love and assures that it will never happen again. The woman loves this man, wants to believe his promises, and trusts him to change. Unfortunately, this change rarely takes place without professional assistance. This love often subjects the woman to repeated attacks before she decides to get out.

Terror that the abuse will be repeated or spread to family members and friends stops a woman from seeking help. She knows from past experience that if she resists, reports, or attempts to escape that he will track her down and abuse her more severely than before. Experience in working with spouse abuse shows the abuser attacking friends and family members who try to help or may have information on where the abused woman is located. Therefore, she lives with the terror, not wanting to further risk her life and lives of others.

The abused woman is often ridiculed and degraded by the abuser. Coming from someone you love, such comments would destroy the strongest self respect. He tells her she deserves a beating and is responsible for "making him do it." She then feels responsible for the trouble she has created in her marriage and is ashamed to discuss it. The shame causes her to sever contacts with family and friends, thus isolating her from support and help.

If the abused woman conquers her emotional binds, she is faced with even more difficult economic barriers. Most women have few marketable job skills, and therefore find it impossible to secure employment that pays enough to support her and, in most cases, her children. The lives of family and friends will be threatened if she turns to them, so she must face the staggering costs of establishing a new household. Welfare payments only make a dent in the costs. Besides what does she do until the payments begin, especially if she must reestablish residency to escape the threat of abuse. Public housing is so limited that the alternative is almost out of the question. If she is awarded financial support, less than 1% of court awarded child support is received and what does she do while waiting for her first payment?

Social attitudes further bind the woman in an abusive relationship. If the woman was abused as a child or witnessed the abuse of her mother, she may believe that abuse is part of the role of being a wife. Women are often taught they cannot survive without a husband, so in return for his support must endure the physical trauma. The sense of failure and low self respect of most abused women leads them to further believe the social myths that "she deserves it." The social myths are adopted attitudes of most law enforcement officials (court officers, police, etc.), eliminating this possible avenue of help. These attitudes are reflected in the difficulties of getting a warrant for assault served or incarceration of the abuser until trial. Abused women, in turn, reinforce these attitudes by not following through on assault charges out of terror of further abuse, shame of how could they do this to someone they love, or fear of making it on their own.

An abused woman stays because she is trapped. Her emotions of love, terror, and shame binds her. If she leaves, where will she go and how can she survive? The danger of abuse continues unless the family takes steps to seek help.

A shelter for abused women is now available in Hazard, Ky. for women who need immediate help, but more are needed. If you need help or would like to see a shelter in your area, contact Terfie Harris, director of the Mountain Women's Opportunity Center, P.O. Box 119, Hazard, KY 41701 (Telephone (606) 439-1381).

From 1972 to 1982, the number of families maintained by women increased by 57 percent to a total of 9.7 million, compared with a 10-percent increase for other families, according to "Women at Work: A Chartbook," published by the U.S. Department of Labor.

Though Rabies Becoming Rare, Vaccinations Are Still Vital

First the good news: rabies has become a rare disease among Kentucky's pet population. There were only eight laboratory-confirmed cases in dogs during 1982 and only two cases in cats.

The bad news, ironically, is that domestic animal rabies has become so rare that many people don't have their pets vaccinated, then don't suspect the disease when their pets get sick.

The consequence can be that a number of people are exposed to rabies by one animal before the proper diagnosis is made.

Cabinet for Human Resources officials tell of one friendly stray dog that won the affection of people in a Fayette county suburb last year. When he showed signs of illness, the neighbors tried to treat him. A trip to the veterinarian eventually became necessary.

By the time rabies was diagnosed, 27 people had been exposed to it and required post-exposure treatment.

Dr. James Skaggs, a medical epidemiologist for the cabinet's Department for Health Services, said strays aren't the only culprits. One pet dog exposed its owners, their neighbors and several veterinary assistants—19 people in all—to rabies before the disease was diagnosed.

The mistake many people make is to assume that dogs and cats transmit rabies only by biting, he said. Human infection can occur when the rabid animal's saliva comes in contact with any open wound or the membranes in a person's mouth or eyes.

"People are foolish to trust strays or to exclude rabies from the possibilities when their own pets get sick," said Skaggs. "Of course, they are even more foolish not to have their pets vaccinated against rabies."

Typical symptoms of rabies are difficult to describe, he said, because they vary so much from case to case. Skaggs listed some of the early signs that many rabid animals exhibit:

Personality change—Docile animals may become aggressive, for example.

Voice change—The sounds the animal normally makes may alter in pitch.

Mobility change—The animal may have trouble walking or may develop an abnormal gait because of weakness in the rear legs.

Jaw paralysis—In dogs, the lower jaw may hang open. People expose themselves to rabies when they think something is stuck in the dog's throat and reach in with bare fingers to retrieve it.

Skaggs said that while pet animal rabies is more rare than wild animal rabies, the chances of human exposure to the disease is higher because the pets live with people. Unvaccinated pets allowed to roam can contract rabies from infected domestic animals or wild animals like skunks and racoons.

"A nationwide increase in the number of domestic cats with rabies has been linked with an increased in skunks with the disease. Raccoon rabies is epidemic in the nearby states of Virginia and West Virginia," said Skaggs.

During 1982, Kentucky recorded 97 laboratory-confirmed cases of skunk rabies, seven cases in foxes, nine cases in bats and one case of possum rabies. Wild animals are thought to have caused the recorded three cases in cattle and the seven cases in horses.

Because more people are spending time outdoors this time of year, the potential for exposure to wild animals increases. While rabies in the wild is more prevalent in the fall, winter and early spring, the disease does occur in the summer as well. Skaggs advises that people enjoy wild animals from a distance.

Persons who suspect they may have been in contact with a rabid animal, wild or domestic, should capture and confine the animal or kill it without damaging the brain, immediately scrub and cleanse the hands and any open wounds, and contact local public health officials.

Painful kidney stones that once required major surgery now yield to more sophisticated treatment. The May Reader's Digest reports on a new device called the nephroscope, which enables the surgeon to pick out small stones whole. Larger ones are pulverized with high-frequency sound waves and the fragments are then sucked out. The procedure and hospital stay are both shorter than in traditional treatment.

★ CANCER HOPELINE ★

Q. When a woman is found to have breast cancer, why does the surgeon also often remove lymph nodes from her armpit?

A. Because the lymph nodes in the armpit are part of the lymphatic system that circulates fluids throughout the body, removal of cancerous armpit nodes can help contain the spread of the cancer from the original site in the breast.

The lymph nodes act as substations in the body's lymphatic system. This system branches out all over the body like blood vessels. Lymphatic vessels drain fluid that accumulates between the body's cells. These vessels also receive impure fluid from the blood, transport it to the lymph nodes where it is filtered, and then carries it back into the blood.

Lymph nodes produce lymphocytes, one of several kinds of white blood cells which comprise the body's immune system and fight infection. When viruses, bacteria, or any other foreign material, such as dirt in a cut or a cancerous cell, are trapped in the lymph nodes on their way through the lymphatic system, the lymphocytes help destroy them before they can do harm to the body. Swollen lymph glands thus indicate that there is an infection present. Lymph nodes are very important in the diagnosis of cancer. Because they are able to trap cancerous cells that have traveled (metastasized) away from the original site of the cancer, they may succeed in stopping a cancer that is only beginning to spread. This is the reason cancerous armpit nodes are removed during breast cancer surgery. They may also indicate that the cancer already has invaded distant tissues by means of circulation through the lymphatic system.

(If you have any questions about the lymphatic system as it relates to cancer or any cancer-related topic, contact the Hopeline toll free at 1-800-4-CANCER, or write 915 South Limestone Street, Lexington, Ky. 40536.)

Jenny Wiley Theatre Draws Record Crowd

Over 1200 people were in attendance as "Annie" made its regional premiere at the Jenny Wiley Theatre.

"The previous record for an opening night crowd at the theatre was 378," said John McCann, managing director. "Saturday, almost twice that number, 706, saw 'Annie.' It was the first of what will be many capacity crowds this summer."

"The response to the show was very gratifying," McCann added. "To see 700 people rise in a standing ovation is a tremendous feeling."

The "Robber Bridegroom" joins "Annie" in the Jenny Wiley repertory Wednesday, June 29, "Grease" completes the season's slate when it opens Wednesday, July 6. Performances continue each Wednesday through Sunday night through August 21. For reservations, call 886-9274.

National Geographic Specials Return to KET

Some of the most popular "National Geographic Specials" return to public television this summer. The one-hour programs air Wednesdays at 8 p.m. on KET.

On July 13, scientists who are beginning to unlock the secrets of shark behavior, guide us through a compelling documentary, "The Sharks." The program contains extraordinary underwater photography and offers viewers new data on how sharks feed, rest and why they attack.

The giant panda's fight for survival is the subject of the July 20 "National Geographic Special: Save The Panda." The program takes viewers to China to observe the giant panda in the remote Wolong Natural Reserve where studies on this sad-eyed, mysterious and endangered species are being conducted.

The Arctic's largest, most dangerous carnivore is the great white polar bear. "Polar Bear Alert," airing on July 27, shows how residents in the migratory path of the animal prepare to avoid encounters with the bears and how man and beast have learned to coexist in nature.

The specials continue through August with the "Rain Forest," August 3; "Gorilla," August 10; "Born of Fire," August 17; "Australia's Animal Mysteries," August 24; "The Thames," August 31. They are produced by WQED, Pittsburgh.

'Wild America' Encores on KET

Hosted and narrated by naturalist Marty Stouffer, the 10-part "Wild America" series will encore on KET Saturday nights, beginning July 9, at 7 p.m. The programs will be repeated on Thursdays at 8:30 p.m.

The result of ten years of filming by Stouffer, "Wild America" celebrates all the beauty and grandeur of our wild places and creatures. It also tells the everyday story of wildlife—where, when and how to see wild creatures, and how we can live more closely with them.

The focus of "Wild America" goes far beyond being a broad introduction to our native wildlife. It also attempts to clear up many misconceptions and answer some of the unsolved riddles about such species as grizzly bears, wolves and coyotes. Explains Stouffer: "I really wanted to get people thinking and asking questions—not only about why animals do certain things, but also about how we can help them survive to share this world with us."

"Wild America" is produced by Marty Stouffer Productions.

Watching for Warning Signs May Help Prevent a Suicide

By Rose Price
Mountain Comprehensive Care Center

Suicide is a problem that has been with us since recorded time. Some cultures have considered it an honorable solution, but in our modern world it continues to be a devastating occurrence.

For the family of the victim, there is sometimes an attitude of social scorn caused by the religious and cultural taboo against suicide. Families may feel forced to pretend the death was accidental, to hide the truth.

Loved ones often feel guilt and shame for not having given the person enough support and love. There may be financial worries due to the loss of a breadwinner, and young relatives may worry due to fears that suicide may run in the family. These families often need professional counseling and support from friends to deal with the serious emotional and practical crises they experience.

It soon becomes apparent that the act of suicide does something to everyone connected to the victim. Therefore we should be aware of the clues that suicidal people may give. Be alert for these danger signals:

1. Previous attempts may mean the person is a high risk to try again.
  2. Threats are followed by suicide attempts 70% of the time.
  3. Extreme depression, sadness, anxiety, decline in interest in work and people once enjoyed.
  4. Changes in personality or behavior, such as sleeplessness; loss of weight, appetite or sexual drive; tendency to withdraw.
  5. Preparation for death such as making a will, putting affairs in order, giving away personal possessions, acquiring means to commit suicide (gun, etc.).
  6. A sudden lift in spirits can mean a person is relieved because problems will "soon be ended."
- We cannot assume the situation will cure itself. Suicide threats or attempts are almost always a way of asking for help and support.
- If you think someone might be thinking about suicide, there are things you can do:

- Take their feelings seriously and tell them you wish to help.
  - Listen actively and ask concerned questions.
  - Explain that with help she or he can recover and enjoy good times again.
  - Stay close until help is available or the risk has passed.
  - Don't try to shock or challenge by saying, "Go ahead and do it!"
  - Don't analyze the person's motives. "You just feel bad because..."
  - Don't argue or try to reason. "You can't kill yourself because..."
  - Encourage the person to take some positive action such as seeking family or individual therapy, keeping busy with a balanced schedule of work and recreation. A change of scene or activity can make a difference. Being good and tired from vigorous physical exercise helps a person relax, sleep better, look better and have a more positive outlook on life.
- There are many local sources of help in our area such as Mountain Comprehensive Care, Helpline, hospital emergency rooms, mental health professionals in private practice, doctors, ministers, and school counselors.

Good News Report

By THOMAS W. PAUKEN Director of ACTION

You can't measure the heart of a community by its numbers. You have to know what they stand for to do that.

Take Jim Butler, Jr. Twelve years ago, as the president of the local Rotary Club, he proposed that Camilla become involved in developing a facility for the mentally retarded. A hospital administrator, he knew that the county had such a need and he thought, with the right kind of planning, it could be done.

From the inception of the idea for the center, Williamson was anxious to find a way to maintain it without the need of federal and state funds. His belief was "we should be able to care for our people without the need of someone else's tax dollar."

Call it Williamson's way of using sports for an important community project, which offers its own kind of uniqueness. Of the center's 100 residents, 75 are adults, and they are trained and working adults.

Recently, Eddie Williamson was named citizen of the year by the Camilla Chamber of Commerce. He insists that his volunteer accomplishments have been a group effort, which is perfectly true, but all Camilla knows is it has been an effort developed and sustained by his giving of himself.

Pest Control Help Could Have Saved Miss Muffet's Tuffet

It was bad enough that Little Miss Muffet had to turn her tuffet over to a spider, but imagine her embarrassment when the story turned up on the front page of every child's book of nursery rhymes.

A few simple lessons in modern pest control techniques could have spared poor Miss Muffet a great deal of humiliation not to mention her tuffet.

If you are fortunate enough not to have been bothered by some type of household pest, consider yourself truly lucky. The National Pest Control Association reports that spiders are just one of the common pests that we face. Others include flies, common ants, cockroaches and mice.

If any of these critters were to be recognized for outstanding accomplishments, cockroaches would certainly win for their ability to survive for over 350 million years despite human efforts to control them. They can even feed on paper or dirty clothes. Logically, one of their favorite places to hide in the home is in the kitchen, especially under or behind appliances and in cracks and crevices. No room is immune, however, if its construction or furnishings provide shelter.

While it is essential that food scraps not be left out to tempt the varmints, even the neatest of housekeepers can be bothered by cockroaches. They often are carried inside in grocery bags or soda cartons and are likely to wander in through open doors or windows. Once there, they multiply rapidly.

There are ways to deal with them, though. Several varieties of pesticides may be purchased for use in the home. If you choose one of these, follow the directions on the label carefully. You may find, however, that the most thorough way to rid your house of these pests and attack them where they hide is to seek the help of a pest control professional.

When choosing a company, select one that is a member of the national, state or local pest control association. As association members, these established businesses have access to the latest technical information on chemicals, pests and treatment techniques.

The National Pest Control Association (NPCA) offers these tips for pest-proofing your home:

- Get rid of trash daily or at least get it out of your house.
- Clean up crumbs and spills immediately.
- Don't leave dirty dishes or leftovers on the counter overnight.
- Store food in tightly closed containers.
- Carefully inspect incoming grocery bags and soft-drink containers.
- Keep your pets insect-free.

VETERANS RECOGNIZED

During services at the Community United Methodist Church last Sunday, there was a recognition service for war veterans in attendance. In charge of the service was the pastor, the Rev. T.L. Biggs, who himself is a veteran. Others recognized were Phillip Tucker, Donald Goble, Bill May, Vincel Cooley, Benton Worsley, Joe Weddington and Eddie Ward.

ENTERTAIN GUESTS

Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Allen, of Mays Branch, had as their overnight guest last weekend his brother, Alonzo Allen, and Mrs. Allen, of Milan, Indiana. On Sunday, the Allens were visited by two of their aunts, Mrs. Susie Slone, of Pippa Passes, and Mrs. Maudie Sparkman, of Red Fox, Knott county.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe B. Steele, of Pikeville, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Debra Lynne, to Mr. Scott Earl Holbrook, son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Holbrook, of Pikeville.

The bride-elect is a 1978 graduate of Mullins High School, a 1981 graduate of Morehead State University and is presently in her third year at the University of Kentucky College of Dentistry. She is a member of Kappa Delta sorority.

Mr. Holbrook is a 1977 graduate of Mullins High School, a 1979 graduate of Mayo State Vocational School and a 1982 graduate of Eastern Kentucky University. He is a member of Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity and is employed by Muzak Communication Systems of Lexington.

The wedding will take place at two o'clock in the afternoon July 30 at Immanuel Baptist Church, Mullins Addition. The gracious custom of open church will be observed.

CARD OF THANKS

I would like to express my thanks and appreciation through your paper to everyone who gave aid and assistance during the sickness and upon the death of my brother, Clark Jones, May 31. I am the only one of the family left now, and my husband join together in thanking the McDowell hospital, the Hall Brothers Funeral Home, The Little Rosa Regular Baptist Church, everyone that brought or sent food and flowers, the Martin Branch Free Will Baptist Church, and everyone who expressed sympathy. May God add his love to your souls.

Man In Need of Blood

Attention friends of Donald Ray Howell, of McDowell who had open heart surgery in Lexington:

I would like to ask all of my friends in Floyd county to help Donald Ray Howell. He needs blood to help pay back all the blood he used at Lexington. He is still in Lexington, and is a little better. He almost lost his life but is starting to recover. He has used a lot of blood and has to repay it. Anyone wanting to give blood for him can go to Prestonsburg Hospital, and give it. His family will make sure that they get it at Lexington. He has helped a lot of people, coached the Little League, and helped out anyone who needed it. So let's show him and his family we care a lot about him.

Thank you.

Researchers Using Color Coded Lobsters

You can tell a dog by his tag, but a Massachusetts scientist knows his lobsters by their colors.

John Hughes' experiment on Martha's Vineyard produces red, blue, striped, and even calico-colored lobsters in an attempt to learn how lobsters can become more plentiful, according to Ranger Rick, the monthly children's publication of the National Wildlife Federation.

Scientists at the Massachusetts Lobster Hatchery and Research Station have been studying normal, plain brown lobsters for years—in laboratories, and in the wild.

The traditional way of keeping track of wild animals is to tag them, but that doesn't work with lobsters, who shed their shells and grow new ones. Tags would be left with the discarded shells.

To study wild lobsters, something different had to be done. Knowing that fishermen occasionally caught lobsters with unusual shell colors, Hughes asked the fishermen to bring these " freaks of nature " to his laboratory.

He mated the oddly colored lobsters and produced even odder, more colorful offspring. Hughes soon had a laboratory of brightly hued lobsters. Best of all, when the lobsters shed their shells, they grew new shells of exactly the same color. He had created color-coded lobsters.

In June of 1981, the first of thousands of inch-long baby lobsters were freed along the Massachusetts coast.

The fishermen who catch these colorful creatures will report their finds to Hughes, who will then document how far the lobsters traveled, how much they've grown, and the kind of sea bottom they prefer.

It's too soon to know whether Hughes' experiment will help address problems of depleted lobster populations. Much else needs to be done, such as cleaning up ocean pollution.

But in the meantime, Hughes is trying to help lobsters become plentiful again—and hoping he'll succeed with flying colors.

Car Operating Costs, 23.8 Cents Per Mile

A 1983 American-made car, driven 15,000 miles per year and owned four years costs an average of 23.8 cents a mile, according to the 1983 edition of "Your Driving Costs," published by AAA.

The pamphlet divides expenses for owning and operating an automobile into variable and fixed costs, according to the Blue Grass Automobile Club-AAA.

Variable costs are directly related to the number of miles driven. They include: gas and oil, 6.13 cents per mile; routine maintenance, 0.98 cents; and tires, 0.69 cents, totaling 7.80 cents per mile.

Fixed costs include: insurance (comprehensive, collision, property damage and liability) $470 per year; license, registration fees and taxes, $97; depreciation, $1,298, and finance charges, $529. Totalling $2,394, fixed costs generally are one-time annual expenses not materially affected by the number of miles driven.

Combining the variable and fixed costs reveals the total annual cost of owning and operating a car. Driving 15,000 miles per year, the motorist would pay $1,170 in variable costs (15,000 times 7.80 cents), plus $2,394 in fixed costs. (These figures do not include expenses for parts, accessories, repairs and other service station items.)

The AAA cost figures represent a composite national average for three 1983 Chevrolet models (a four-cylinder Chevette, a six-cylinder Malibu, and a six-cylinder Impala) driven 15,000 miles per year and retained in service for four years.

On the basis of driving 15,000 miles per year, the cost of owning and operating each of these cars would be: Chevette, 20.6 cents per mile; Malibu, 25.1 cents; and Impala, 25.9 cents.

The AAA report is based on information supplied by Runzheimer and Company, Rochester, Wisconsin, an international management consulting firm that specializes in measuring living costs, including transportation.

Single copies of the 1983 edition of "Your Driving Costs" are available from the Blue Grass Automobile Club, Automobile Travel Department, P.O. Box 1581, Lexington, KY 40592.

Major initiatives undertaken in fiscal year 1982 by the U.S. Department of Labor's Mine Safety and Health Administration (MSHA) included: to reduce adversarial relations between labor and management over safety and health in mining community; to eliminate needless regulatory burdens, and to encourage positive efforts by industry and labor to protect miners' safety and health.

Scaling And Prophylaxis

Q. My dentist has scheduled me for scaling and prophylaxis. What does this mean, and what is the value of it.

A. Scaling is the removal of the rock-like calculus or tartar that builds up on the teeth when plaque accumulates. It is difficult to remove and so requires the special tools and techniques of a dentist or dental hygienist.

Prophylaxis is the cleaning and polishing that follows the scaling process. This helps to prevent plaque formation. If the build-up of plaque/tartar has extended below the gum tissue, then the dentist must curette (clean out) the affected areas prior to prophylaxis. Frequency of scaling, curettage and prophylaxis depends on individual patient needs.

(A contribution from dentists of the area.)

Kentucky Power Would Pay More on One Plant While Delaying Another

Although under heavy criticism already from Kentucky coal producers because it is part-owner in a generating plant that will burn western coal, the Kentucky Power Company last week asked for the right to pay more for its share of the plant.

At the same time, Kentucky Power officials told the state Public Service Commission that a delay in building the facility's second generating unit at Rockport, Ind.—a unit which is expected to burn Kentucky coal—is in the best interests of its Kentucky customers.

So the second unit, originally scheduled to start operation in 1986, may be delayed until 1989.

Kentucky Power, which is based in Ashland and serves 141,000 customers in 22 Eastern Kentucky counties, asked the commission to lift a $312 million cap imposed when the utility was granted the right to charge customers for its investment in the Rockport plant.

Over objections from the Kentucky attorney general, the commission allowed Kentucky Power to pay for 15 percent of the cost up to $312 million, of constructing the plant.

The attorney general's office argued that Kentucky Power already has adequate generating capacity for its customers without having to force ratepayers to bear the burden of new construction.

Kentucky Power officials said their 15 percent share is already expected to reach at least $324 million, and may increase further as construction progresses.

If Kentucky Power were to charge those costs to shareholders instead of ratepayers, its ability to both raise capital and finance debt could be impaired, officials said.

The Kentucky Independent Coal Producers Association attempted unsuccessfully to intervene in the hearing, which was limited to the subject of the cap on Rockport expenditures and the delay of the second unit.

Ken Hart, secretary-treasurer of the association, said his group would likely return when the company begins its general rate hearing July 26. The association intends to argue against Kentucky Power's participation in any part of a plant that burns coal from western states.

"This is a hell of a time to be turning our backs on Kentucky coal," Hart said. "The ultimate paradox is that Eastern Kentucky coal producers would be subsidizing through a rate increase the use of western U.S. coal."

Over 157,000 in-patients and almost a million out-patients receive medical care at Salvation Army hospitals and clinics.
