ON THE PICKET LINE in front of the Hiller Coal Co. preparation plant on Caney Fork of Middle Creek Monday were Sadie Prater (seated), Bertha Prater and Peggy Slone. Kenneth Prater, Jr., organized the picket line after he was fired from the plant last Wednesday. An employee there for the past three months, Prater claimed his firing stemmed from his efforts to unionize the facility. A circuit court order Monday limited to three the number of pickets and a private security firm was patrolling the site.

Court Order Limits Caney Fork Picketing

No more than three pickets may assemble at a time in front of the Hiller Coals Corp. processing plant on Caney Fork of Middle Creek and they may not interfere with the operation of the plant, according to a restraining order handed down by Circuit Judge Hollie Conley Monday morning.

The order came in response to a request by coal company officials, who claimed that Kenneth Prater, Jr., Kenneth Prater, Sr., Charles Johnson and Marvin Johnson had "harassed and threatened" their employees and injured another person, not an employee, who was entering the plant at their request.

The complaint, which was signed by Hiller vice-president Martin H. Hiller, was filed here last Thursday by Martin attorney John David Caudill.

Kenneth Prater, Jr., of Alum Lick of Caney, said he organized a picket line after he was fired from his job at the plant last Wednesday. The company trumped up a charge that he had been "putting sulfur in the coal" but the real reason for his firing was that he had "signed for the union vote," he said.

Prater said that three of the tipples' four "working men" had signed authorization cards, signalling their desire to have a vote at the plant on representation by the UMWA. His boss, whom he identified as Solomon Caudill, Jr., had indicated that anybody voting for union representation would be discharged, he said.

When his employers heard of his signing for the union, they told other workers that "I had slapped them in the face," Prater said.

Solomon Caudill could not be reached Monday. John David Caudill, the firm's attorney, declined comment on the dispute.

Contrary to the company's claim, there were no picket line altercations, said Prater, who explained that he is pastor of the Goodloe Church of God.

"Fourteen was the biggest crowd we got and most of the time it has only been five or seven, though you'd think (from the company's complaint) we got thousands," he said.

Prater, who was not represented by counsel Monday, said he would appeal the court's ruling.

Default Judgement Costs Tipple Operator in Suit

A default judgment was handed down Friday against one of the defendants in a $3.7 million damages suit arising out of last year's mine disaster at Craynor.

Attorneys for Unnie Hall, 21, had asked for the judgment against the Joseph Mining Co., of Hoskinson (Leslie county), operators of a tippel at McDowell.

Mrs. Hall is the widow of Ronnie Hall, one of seven miners killed Jan. 20, 1982, by an explosion in the RFH No. 1 mine on Mink Branch. The blast was caused by negligence on the part of the mine operator, plaintiff claims in suits originally filed in both circuit court here and U.S. District Court in Pikeville.

While the tippel operator made no answer to the charge, four other corporate defendants have denied responsibility for Hall's death. RFH Coal Co., listed on federal records as operator of the fatal mine, and the Joyce Ann Coal Co., a successor to RFH, have claimed the miner's death was due to causes beyond their control.

The BJL Coal Co. and the Elk Horn Coal Corp., which is said to have provided RFH Coal with engineering and other services, have both denied they exercised any control over mining operations at the RFH No. 1 mine.

In another order handed down Friday, Circuit Judge Hollie Conley set aside a previous stay of proceedings. Plaintiffs sought the circuit court stay in May, pending the outcome of an identical suit filed in federal court in Pikeville.

A federal judge dismissed the suit last month, on grounds of lack of jurisdiction. Judge Conley's order means the case is returned to the active court docket here.

Floyd County Communities Win Honors for Improvement

When the Northeast Kentucky Rural Community Development Association handed out awards to communities last Saturday evening in Ashland for improvements made during the preceding 12 months, two Floyd county communities won second-place honors.

Two others, Weeksbury and Abbott Creek, were not in the regular competition, because they had finished first or second in two of the three previous years. Instead, they were placed in a special category, which Weeksbury headed.

Floyd county winners of second-place honors among area communities were Auxier, in the village category, and Cow Creek, in the farm division. Salyersville headed the village group, and Load, Greenup county, the farm category.

Auxier won its second-place spot with fund-raising drives, park activities, a banquet for senior citizens and clothing assistance for nursing home residents.

The Cow Creek club, organized in 1982, was cited for leasing a fire truck, beginning work on a water system, working on a community building, staging a quilting party, giving financial help to a cancer victim and a family rendered homeless by fire, conducting a pesticide education program and erecting signs.

Weeksbury headed the special category with its start of a multi-purpose building and the promotion of religious, sports and social activities in the community.

Little Mud Creek was a finalist in the rural non-farm category. (See Story No. 5, Page 4)

Cole Pleads Guilty To Assault Charge In Melvin Shooting

Tommy Cole, 33, of Melvin, pleaded guilty to a third-degree assault charge in Floyd Circuit Court last week. Sentencing on the charge, which carries a penalty of from one to five years in jail, was set for July 29.

Cole was accused of firing a shotgun at Gregory Randall Newsome, in a dispute involving Cole's wife, last October 11. Newsome, who lived two doors up from Cole, was reportedly sitting on his front porch when he was shot. A three-year-old girl, the daughter of a neighbor, was also hit by a shotgun pellet and wounded slightly.

Originally charged with two counts of first-degree assault, Cole pleaded guilty to one count of third-degree assault in the shooting of Newsome and to a simple misdemeanor count in the shooting of the child.

Assault charges against Woodrow Collins, 64, of Spears Fork at Endicott, were dropped when the complaining witnesses failed to appear in court.

Collins was accused of shooting Elzie Gene Collins, a distant relative, with a shotgun and Arlena Music with an automatic pistol after a night of poker and drinking at Woodrow Collins' home, July 4 last year.

Johns Cr. Hopes May Be Brighter As Plan Unveiled

The prospect of Johns Creek residents getting city water is not as dim as has been suggested, Phil Ward, manager of the Auxier Water Company, insisted this week.

In fact, he told a meeting of residents at the Philadelphia Church of Christ Monday night, work could begin soon on the first section of the project and costs could be much lower than the $1000 per dwelling first estimated.

Moreover, state funding might be available for the venture, said Holly Leach, a water systems specialist with the Big Sandy Area Development District.

This Town...That World

The old adage runs: "Rain on Monday, rain three days that week." As of this date, we have one more day to go.

89 YEARS AGO

A handwritten sheet worked its way up on my desk this week to prove again that things may be missing and yet not lost. This one interests me.

It lists the postoffices in Floyd county in the year 1894 when the population was 11,256. There were 22 of them—Alphoretta, Beaver, Bonanza, Dotson, Dwale, Fed, Galveston, Goodloe, Hueysville, Lackey, Langley, Laynesville, McDowell, Minnie, Needmore, Prestonsburg—and five more. I can locate on the map all but these five, Alliance, Cutch, Defiance, Setzer and Shumla.

Strikes me that Setzer may have been Setser, on Johns Creek, but those others—anybody have any ideas?

Another item on the sheet:

The legendary J.S. Patton was circuit judge at that time. The stories of the judge are many, and some may be apocryphal, but the one that told of his instructions to the grand jury here is probably best remembered.

"If," he was quoted as saying, "you see a young man with a red bandana around his neck and sittin' down there at the side of the road with a banjo in his hands, a-playin' 'Sourwood Mountain,' indict that man. If he hasn't done something, he's just a-fixin' to."

P'burg Village Wins $9,500,000 Financing

Ball Returned to Floyd

Gene Ball, 30-year veteran of the University of Kentucky Cooperative Extension Service, returned July 1 to Floyd county as Extension Agent for Agriculture and Community Development.

Ball's past experience with the Extension Service has covered a period of 17 years in the Big Sandy Area as county extension agent in Pike, Martin and Floyd counties. He served nine years as area extension specialist in Community Development, concentrating his activities in working with the Northeast Kentucky Community Development (See Story No. 2, Page 4)

Plan Anticipates 217,000 Sq. Foot Area for Center

Commonwealth Development Corporation, Crestwood, Ky., announced last week that total construction financing has been approved for Prestonsburg Village, the shopping and office complex being developed on Kentucky Highways 23 and 80 at the junction of the Mountain Parkway, west of downtown Prestonsburg.

Construction financing is being provided by the Chemical Bank of New York. Financial arrangements for the $9,500,000 project have been made by Greer Capital Corporation, New York.

Site preparation for the project is nearing completion, and construction on the 217,000-square-foot community center will begin immediately thereafter. Site work is being performed by TAG Construction, Pikeville.

Architectural-Engineering design for the project is being provided by Endecon, Inc., Crestwood, Kentucky.

Construction and tenant finish will be provided by Century Builder's Associates, Inc., Crestwood, Foundation work will begin next month, it was said.

Completion is scheduled for next year. Commonwealth Leasing Director Richard Bradbury said that Wal-Mart Discount City, Winn-Dixie Food Stores and Begley Drugs have already signed leases as major, anchor tenants. Additional new tenants will be announced soon, he added.

Most Officials Cool To Training Program

A proposal that would require county officials like coroners, sheriffs and jailers to meet state standards of training and competence got a generally cool reception from Floyd officials this week.

Under a draft proposal put last Tuesday to a legislative subcommittee in Frankfort, the constitution would be amended to give the legislature power to set qualifications and training requirements for county officials; to abolish the offices of constable and county surveyor, and either to eliminate the office of coroner or make it appointive rather than elective.

Before it would take effect, the amendment would have to be approved by the 1984 legislature and then by the voters in a general election. It was proposed last Tuesday before the Subcommittee on the Constitutional Structure of County Government, part of the legislative Task Force on Elections and Constitutional Amendments.

Except for a few constitutional requirements and a 1982 legislative provision requiring coroners to take several days' training each year before they can examine bodies, county officials are not required to have any training.

(In general, the state's 1891 constitution requires only that county officials be at least 24 years old and be residents of the state for two years and of the county for one year when elected.)

(County and circuit clerks can be as young as 21 but must have a judge's certification that they can do the job. A county attorney must have been a licensed practicing attorney for two years.)

Floyd County Coroner Roger Nelson said he favors the setting of professional and training standards for coroners but is skeptical about making the office appointive. Whether the appointment was made at the state or local level, "there'd be politics in it any way you go," he said.

Between pressure from families on one side and insurance companies on the other, how good a job is done depends on the integrity of the coroner. "You're sitting on a limb by yourself," he said.

One thing he feels strongly about, if the state is going to come up with more regulations, it should come up with more money. "They're asking more and more from the coroner's office but, if the job's done right, it's going to cost money," Nelson said, adding, "we often have to fight the fiscal court to get what we're entitled to by law."

Sheriff Henry C. Hale, who thinks the state exercises too much control over local law enforcement authorities, is opposed to the legislative proposal.

There are already training programs available for sheriffs and deputies, which they can make use of if they want to, said Hale. "It's up to the voters of the county" to decide if the sheriff is sufficiently competent, he said.

A former legislator himself—he represented the 95th District in the 1948, 1950 and 1952 legislative sessions—Hale said he had always fought for home rule. "We've given too much power to Frankfort now," he said, adding, "Half the members (of the legislature) never study a bill and don't know what they're voting on."

Jailers can earn a $300-a-month expense allowance by taking 40 hours of training a year and most jailers take it, said Floyd Jailer Lawrence Hale. As long as jailers are voluntarily taking the training, he sees no need to make it mandatory, said Hale. By insisting on certain qualifications for the office, "you could keep some good men from being elected," he said.

While Sheriff Hale thinks they are helpful, support for constables appears to be eroding and county surveyors appear to be near extinction. The Kentucky Association of Counties favors abolition of both offices.

Printer Man Dies of Mine Injuries

His chest crushed by a rockfall in a Magoffin county coal mine, Chris Maurice Yates, 23, of Printer, was dead on arrival last Wednesday afternoon at Our Lady of the Way Hospital, Martin.

A scoop operator in an underground mine near Gunlock, Yates had gone into another section of the workings to prepare a blasting shot when he was fatally injured. Two other workmen nearby were uninjured.

Scene of the accident is the MI Coal Company's Mine No. 1, operated by Morris Isaac, deputy Floyd county judge-executive, according to Mines & Minerals Department information.

The victim was a son of Denzil and Josephine Meade Yates, of Printer, and was a member of UMWA Local No. 9845 at Martin. Other survivors include his wife, Beverly Shepherd Yates, and a daughter, Mandy Lou, both of Printer; five brothers, Stephen, Carter and Denzil Yates, Jr., all of Printer, Danny and Timothy Yates, both of Garrett, and six sisters, Gwina Lynn Davis, Ypsilanti, Mich., Connie Sue Mullins, Warsaw, Ind., Nadine Yates, Columbus, O., Helen Isaacs, of Martin, LaDonna Jo Briggs, Prestonsburg, and Pearlene Yates, Printer.

Funeral services were conducted at 1 p.m. Saturday from the Hall Funeral Home chapel by the Rev. Johnny Wheeler, and burial was made in the Meade cemetery at Printer.

THE CHANCES OF plugging in a coffee pot without blowing a fuse will be greatly enhanced as the result of electrical work being done this week in Prestonsburg's main city parking lot. Under the supervision of E.L. Bierman, Jenny Wiley Festival concessions chairman, Charles Piercey, secretary of the Jenny Wiley Shrine Club, operated a trench digger at the lot, preparatory to the laying of new electrical lines there.

Eighteen electrical and two water outlets will be installed at a cost of around $4000, Bierman said. The city of Prestonsburg and area businesses helped defray the cost of the project.

State Police Post 9 To Dedicate Building

The Post's new building is four miles north of Pikeville, on US 23.

No road or written drivers' tests will be given here Thursday afternoon, it was announced.

The auto accident is the single greatest destroyer of youth, the July Reader's Digest reports. While the 16-to-24 age group comprises only 17 percent of the population, it accounted for just about a third of all highway deaths in 1981.

Home gardening may be one of America's biggest industries, the July Reader's Digest discloses. It covers some 1.7 million backyard acres, bearing produce worth an estimated $18 billion last year—more than the value of all of California's crops put together.

Pastor Named Friend Of Handicapped Kids

The Rev. Cohen Campbell, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church at Betsy Layne, was hailed as a valuable friend this week by a group of parents of handicapped children. Judy Stevens, an organizer of the group, which is called Improved Life Expectancy, said Campbell typifies the kind of volunteer on whom the organization depends.

The mother of a blind, multi-handicapped son, Mrs. Stevens said the organization was formed to provide advocacy for handicapped children. The group will arrange for testing and transportation, will help see that handicapped children are properly nourished, can provide for crib beds, walkers, wheelchairs and other equipment in the home—and hopes in the future to establish a diagnostic, residential, training facility here—she said.

The group meets the second Thursday of each month at Mrs. Stevens' home at Betsy Layne at 7 p.m. For information, call 478-5933.

Attempt To Elude Ends In Smashup For Ohio Man

An Ohio man who disregarded the blue lights and siren of a Prestonsburg City Police cruiser, late Thursday night, initiating instead a sluggish effort at escape, was slightly injured when he lost control of his car and smashed into a guardrail a short distance into Johnson county, near the Floyd county line.

Pike county native William Debord, of South Point, O. received minor cuts and a passenger with him, who was pinned in the vehicle for a short time, was hospitalized following the crash which occurred on U.S. 23.

Prestonsburg Police Sgt. Darrell Conley, who attempted to pull the vehicle over in Prestonsburg after receiving a report that the driver might be intoxicated, said Debord "just kept driving."

"He didn't really start driving at a high rate of speed," commented Conley, who said speeds rarely exceeded 50 m.p.h. during the entire "chase."

"He just didn't want to stop." Conley, who reported that the car was "totalled" in the wreck, said Prestonsburg's Squad Six rescue unit responded to the scene as well as P. & B. Ambulance Service.

Sgt. Conley charged Debord with drunk driving, attempt to elude a police officer, and wanton endangerment in the second degree, a charge which stemmed from the injury suffered by Debord's passenger.

The response that an individual patient has to a drug, with a specific dose on a particular schedule of administration, varies. A drug always acts in combination with specific physiology and life patterns to produce individual effects. Not only is the response to a drug different among various individuals, but each individual differs in physiology, chemistry and life pattern under different circumstances. For example, disease or fatigue may change an individual's response to a drug. So it must be said that the action of a particular dose of a specific drug cannot be expected to be exactly the same each time, only similar.

If you're unsure about the side effects of a particular medication, or wonder about its contraindications, don't hesitate to ask us here at COOLEY APOTHECARY. Do Veterans Receive Special Benefits at Time of Death?

Yes, there are certain death benefits for which veterans may be eligible.

These benefits are less substantial than they used to be, but they are still worth investigating as to the amount of eligibility. The regulations may change from time-to-time on Veteran and Social Security benefits so you may wish to check these out with these government agencies or with us.

After October 1, 1981, Veteran death allowances are as follows:

1. A payment of $300 for funeral and burial expenses only for those receiving V.A. compensation or pensions.
2. A $150 plot allowance for eligible veterans not being buried in a national cemetery.
3. A burial allowance of up to $1100 when a veteran dies of a service-connected disability.
4. A grave marker allowance, currently at $59.

Payment for these benefits is not forwarded automatically. Forms must be filled out and application made for them.

We can process these claims for you or will help you contact the V.A. directly. Feel free to ask us about other benefits for which survivors may be entitled.

From Those Who Worked

On July 7, we started laying a water line up Slick Rock for our community to receive city water. Most of the men of our community worked day and night to get this job completed over the week-end, and we can honestly say we worked hard—but we worked together—and it was a good feeling having the community working together for something that will benefit us all. Most of us stayed with this job until it was completed, but a few quit, once the water line got past their house. Now it has come to our attention that while we were working, we were described as ungodly creatures, because some of us were drinking beer and had some foul language. Now, we personally feel that you can't judge or condemn any man unless you have stood in his shoes. We, the men of the community, would like to know why we were judged as ungodly creatures by someone who wasn't even working on the water line. We are proud of our community and we enjoyed working together.

We would also like to give a special thanks to Morris Isaacs for helping us get the equipment and the pipes that were needed for this job.

The Missing Key

From the Oval Office in the White House down to this desk, everybody has got into the act with criticisms and suggestions, all concerned in some degree with the low estate to which public education has fallen. But in all the welter of opinion few have cut as cleanly through to the heart of the matter as did a Prestonsburg girl in a newspaper interview this week.

Mina Howard has an idea that the key to education lies in the desire of the student to learn. And we agree.

That is not to say that desire alone will solve every problem, but without it all the facilities, curricula, higher teacher pay, all the teachers and teaching techniques will be of little value.

The desire to learn, to have an inquiring mind—call it mental curiosity—is a native gift for some. For others it is created and nurtured.

That is where teacher and parent move center stage in the picture, both to serve as the catalyst that gets a young life and mind off center and moving in the right direction.

Unless the teacher is one who has a contagious enthusiasm for the subject matter and can inspire and lead the student to want to learn, all the abilities of that teacher in other areas may be of little value.

And, unless the parents care enough to make an earnest, intelligent effort to direct the child in this direction, the efforts of even the finest teacher may be wasted. Most of the youngster's problems—lack of discipline, dropping out of school, that deadly don't-care attitude—begin, as a rule, at home and wind up for such a neglected student in the dreary intellectual eddy of a schoolroom.

Could it be that the parents need educating? Parent-teacher groups and school boards might well give that some consideration.

Ward said his earlier reckoning of $120,000 as the cost of laying the 4.1 miles of line needed to furnish water to the 100 or more dwellings on Johns Creek presupposed that the whole project needed to be done at one time. If it were done in stages, the cost could be reduced considerably, he said.

Donald "Dootney" Horn, who is developing a flea market there, has pledged $12,000 to the water line construction, Ward said. Two other businesses, the Austin Powder Co. and Rebel Coal Co., and Wayne Mandeville, a local resident, also indicated they would make a contribution to the venture, he said.

The fact that private capital is involved and that jobs could be created—Horn said he is planning a fulltime restaurant and five concession stands on his site—means the project could qualify for state economic development funds, Leach said.

Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo said the county would be willing to make application for the funds, although it is unlikely the application would be reviewed until October.

Ward proposed that the water line project be completed in six sections—the first from the mouth of the creek to the flea market site; second, from the flea market to the Richmond Hill estates; third, from Richmond Hill to a point 300 feet beyond Music Branch; fourth, from that point to the Doug Fleming farm; fifth, from the Fleming property to the Potter and Marshall farms; and sixth, from the Potter and Marshall farms to the Miller property.

If it were done in sections, it could be done for $81,180, Ward estimated. He would not estimate how much the tap-on fee would be or how long it might take to complete the latter sections. While customer fees would be determined by the Public Service Commission, "we're going to keep them very low," Ward insisted.

Some up-creek residents expressed a fear that the project might peter out after the first sections were constructed. But Ward indicated there was no reason to fear the project would not be completed promptly.

QUESTIONS

This rabbit that frequents the premises intrigues the interest. Its behavior breeds a flock of questions.

For example, I can't understand why this, possibly the most timid of all creatures, will set himself placidly down to eat beneath our bird-feeder and never flinch, though birds swoop in from all angles in a flurry of action. But let me step in view, and the rabbit joins the birds in flight. Why? I put the food there for them, in the first place. I chased away the cats that had dark designs on them all, yet I'm cast in the role of the Enemy.

I have known of a patient, gentle soul or two who succeeded in making friends with these wild things, but we ordinary humans don't qualify.

Has Man earned a bad reputation that he can never live down? There are birds and beasts of prey—I hope that rabbit doesn't think a hawk is just another bird—but these kill only to eat while many of us plain folks kill for the joy of killing.

More questions. Have the rabbits and birds labelled Man as the Destroyer? And could it be that they are right?

It has been recorded that on the western plains a prairie dog has been found sharing his hole in the earth with an owl and a rattlesnake. Three absolute unlikes—a rodent that digs into the earth and is a fierce adversary when cornered; a bird of prey, and a creeping, deadly serpent—all rubbing shoulders, so to speak, and peacefully.

But what would happen if a human entered that den?

And another question—what would happen if three humans of varying sizes and colors and temperaments were thrown together in such a shelter?

No, I am not a misanthrope, soured on humankind; at least, I wasn't, the last time I looked. I am simply being reminded that we haven't too much to be proud of, after all.

Praises School System

For some time now I have wanted to speak out in praise of our Floyd county school system. I am the proud mother of five children, all of whom were educated in the Floyd county schools and all of whom have gone on to a college education.

Having little education myself, I long ago realized that my children needed a good education in order to succeed in life.

I feel that the reason my children did well in school was because I always believed in supporting the teachers, principals, board members and superintendent. I never allowed my children to criticize the school and I never jumped on a teacher or principal all the years my children were in school. Instead, I always taught my children to respect and mind their teachers and as I approach my 79th year, I still think it is a good philosophy.

I realize that school affairs are more complex today and I quickly admit that I am no expert on school administration. However, I feel that the problems in the schools can be solved more painlessly by parents, teachers, and school administrators working together rather than against each other.

I have spoken with Dr. Mary A. Hall on several occasions, and I feel that she is genuinely interested in the betterment of our Floyd county schools. I also feel that Mr. Grigsby is doing an outstanding job as superintendent. We need to realize that Mr. Grigsby and our board members are faced with severe cuts in federal money for many of our school programs. This means that they must come up with a program that will provide our children with a quality educational program with less money. Perhaps our gripes should be directed to Mr. Reagan instead of our school officials.

When I read in the newspapers of all the outstanding educational feats our Floyd county children have achieved, I feel really proud. It makes me think that our schools are doing a lot of things right the biggest portion of the time.

I truly feel that with parents, teachers, and all other school personnel working together we can solve our school problems and insure a good education for our most precious hope for the future, our children.

From Those Who Worked

Oh July 7 we started laying a water line up Slick Rock for our community to receive city water. Most of the men of our community worked day and night to get this job completed over the week-end and we can honestly say we worked hard, but we worked together, and it was a good feeling having the community working together for something that will benefit us all. Most of us stayed with this job until it was completed, but a few quit, once the water line got past their house. Now it has come to our attention that while we were working, we were described as ungodly creatures, because some of us were drinking beer and had some foul language. Now, we personally feel that you can't judge or condemn any man unless you have stood in his shoes. We, the men of the community, would like to know why we were judged as ungodly creatures by someone who wasn't even working on the water line. We are proud of our community and we enjoyed working together.

We would also like to give a special thanks to Morris Isaacs for helping us get the equipment and the pipes that was needed for this job.

Snakes Alive!

Just wanted to let the people around Martin know one cause of high water bills. Be sure to check around your water meters for snakes. Last week, while reading the meter, a copperhead was found in the case around the meter—and I'll have you know, it scared the meter so bad it went around so fast my bill ran up three dollars.

Anyway, that was the only reason I could come up with about the increase of my water bill. I had washed one load of clothes, carried some water in a bucket to water four rose bushes I had just set out.

So be sure to check for snakes—and hope and pray no snake will make it to our gas meters. It looks like even the snakes have turned against us.

Thanks Slick Rock Residents

On July 7 the men on Slick Rock began laying a water line up our hollow, which is approximately one mile in length. Every man, with the exception of three or four, pitched in and helped with this. These men worked, day and night, trying to get the ditch dug and the pipe laid. By Sunday night, July 10, it was completed. Several men worked 24 hours before stopping and sleeping four or five hours. Then they would be right back running the back-hoe, in-loader and using shovels.

I'm very proud of these men. Most of the women carried coffee, sandwiches and cold drinks to them. A few of the women and kids helped carry pipe and shoveled dirt. Now, we have city water, but I feel that we have accomplished something more. We can take pride in ourselves and our community for a job well-done.

Since the water line has been laid, the few who didn't work on it have complained because the road is in such bad shape (the water line had to go through the road in places) and because several of the men were drinking beer. Tearing the road up couldn't be helped, it wasn't much to start with, I'm a Christian and I don't believe in drinking beer and getting drunk, but I feel like these men should be praised for their efforts instead of condemned for their bad habits. These same men that were drinking the beer were also working waist deep in mud and in temperatures that were extremely hot. They sure weren't sitting back saying, "Let somebody else do it." We will all benefit from this and if anyone can't find something good to say about the men, the hard work and hours they put in, please don't say anything at all.

Thanks again to all the residents of Slick Rock for a job well-done.

Supports Community Effort

It has been a pleasure for the staff and Board of the Big Sandy Health Care to provide excellent health care to the Mud Creek service area. We hope to keep our close association with the people for many years to come.

The Big Sandy Health Care, Inc. is a non-profit organization governed by a board of directors made up of citizens that give selflessly of their time and efforts, without any compensation other than a desire to help others. The Mud Creek community is to be commended for its untiring effort to build a new modern clinic building. Big Sandy Health Care takes pleasure in being able to support the community's efforts by providing staff, equipment and administrative expertise.

Lauds Music Fest Change

I would like to take this opportunity to thank Mr. Grigsby and the Board of Education for their support of the Floyd County Music Festival.

At one time the Music Festival was only a beauty pageant and a parade. Now, with the backing of the present administration, all county choruses and all county bands have been added. The students attend a three-day clinic in which expert conductors come in to work with them. Their goal is to conquer the music and then present it to the public in a performance that is a rich and cultural experience for the listener as well as the performer.

Anyone that has attended the All-County Music Concert can see and hear how talented our young men and women really are.

Getting out early on the day of the parade was greatly misunderstood. The schools were not allowed to turn out early just for the sake of the parade. Mr. Grigsby gave permission for each school to dismiss 30 minutes early in order to have the regular faculty meeting. Changing the faculty meeting to the day of the parade was the administration's way of giving their continued loyalty and support to the music program in this county. It also kept the students from missing any of their classwork on that day.

Let's pull together to keep building the music program in Floyd county. It's finally going somewhere, so let's give it an extra push to give our children all that we can, because they deserve the very best.

Desire To Learn Is Key To Education, Student Says

(Reprinted by permission from the Lexington Herald-Leader)

Prestonsburg's Mina Howard, 16, is walking proof that—contrary to the impression fostered by some recent studies and reports—not all of today's high school students are intellectual cripples.

The last time Mina received a grade lower than an A was in a freshman physical-education class—she got a B-plus. Her principal academic interests are chemistry and mathematics, not necessarily in that order.

She is a member of the Beta Club, the National Honor Society, the Key Club and the Chess Club. She also sings, swims and plays the piano. She would like to run track, although Prestonsburg High School—where she will be a senior this fall—doesn't have a girl's track team.

Mina, who is the daughter of O.R. (Pete) and Hattie Howard, of Prestonsburg, is one of almost 250 gifted high school students from around Kentucky now attending the new Governor's Scholars Program at Centre College. The program features a five-week course of classes, seminars, lectures and other activities designed to open new vistas in education and encourage excellence in the classroom.

Last week, Mina talked with Herald-Leader reporter Jim Warren about the program, the state of education and what it's like to be a gifted student.

Question: Is being a gifted student a pleasure, or a burden that you have to bear?

Answer: Sometimes in school you do get criticized for it... you answer a question in class and someone says "there she goes again." So you just simply quit answering questions in class and just sit there and listen because some people don't like you for it.

But here, it's different. You can talk about things here that you can't talk about in other places... because the people here are really open-minded and they can listen to you and they don't put you down for the way you feel.

Q: Was there a point in your school career when you realized that you were a gifted student?

A: It never really hit me. I tried harder than a lot of others. A lot of people didn't really care, but I wanted to learn. I guess that was about the only difference.

Q: What are your impressions of the scholars program so far? Is it a good idea?

A: Yes, I think it is a good idea because a lot of kids get held back in classroom situations. The teacher can't spend a lot of time with those who understand beyond those who don't. And it gets boring.

Here you do not get bored. In fact, they completely lost me the first day.

Mina Howard

They really challenge you and you have to think if you're going to learn.

I think that they're teaching us things and going deeper than we would ever have had a chance to go. They're really digging and explaining things that I would never have expected to learn at home.

Q: What has it been like, being surrounded by so many other bright young people?

A: The people are just fascinating, to put it mildly. One of the people here has lived in Germany and Austria and speaks four different languages. It seems like they knew everything.

I was scared to death before I came down here. I felt the other people would be so much more intelligent than I am. But I've learned a whole lot already. It has been an excellent experience for me.

Q: What is the biggest thing that the program has done for you so far?

A: It has made me realize that I'm not the only one. Like at school, I always felt so apart from everything. And I thought, well, I'm going to go through college bored and I'm never going to have anybody to challenge me. I was wrong and I was very glad to know that.

I was never very sociable. I couldn't talk to people at all. But now that I've been down here, they kind of made you meet people. It's made it so much easier to talk to people.

I've really enjoyed this and hearing the other people talk. Just hearing the other kids here has taught me a lot.

Q: What kind of courses are you taking in high school? Are you emphasizing chemistry or math?

A: Both, really. I'm taking every science and math course available.

Q: Science and math have always been your principal interests?

A: Yes, science, I think, because it's constantly changing and there are so many things that are just far out, difficult to understand at times. And math because it works. It's a problem to be solved and I enjoy trying to figure out how to solve it.

NEW ARRIVALS...

AT OUR LADY OF WAY HOSPITAL
A daughter, Crystal Kay, born July 9 to Barbara Ann Martin, Allen; a daughter, Amilea Lynn, born July 11 to Kermit and Darla Paige, Beaver; twin daughters, Hazel and Karen, born July 12 to Maurice and Arinda Collins, Bypro; a daughter, Reba Ann, born July 11 to Robert and Anna Jacobs, Pippa Passes.

Q: Do you think you've received a good education so far?

A: I've had a couple of teachers who have helped me a lot. Specifically, in biology and math. Maybe it's a biased opinion, but I think I have one of the best biology teachers in the state. I also had an excellent math teacher this past year and that helped a lot.

Q: What are your impressions of education in Kentucky generally?

A: It may sound like a cop-out, but I'd say it's mediocre. It's not really good, but it's not really bad either. It's not as intellectually stimulating as it should be.

Q: There seems to be a general impression today that the majority of high school students aren't very well educated. Do you agree with that?

A: As I said earlier, I think some people just don't want to learn. But it's available and if you want to learn it, you'll learn it. I guess I've just always had a desire to want to learn as much as possible.

Q: The general belief is that teachers haven't been doing enough. You seem to be saying it is the students; that if one wants to learn, one can learn.

A: Definitely, I'm not really unhappy with the quality of the teachers. A teacher can only do so much. They can't pound it into you. I've run across a couple who have tried, but it doesn't work.

There has to be a desire there to want to learn. If the desire isn't there, then the student is not going to want to learn.

Q: Why don't some students want to learn?

A: They think that it's... they have more important things to do. They don't want to do homework. They don't want to read books.

Q: What kind of career are you considering?

A: I've thought about going into the medical field and I've thought about going into some field of engineering. It would be between those two.

I would never be a teacher; I can say that for sure. I'm not a patient person and don't feel that I could do the students any good. If a teacher doesn't enjoy teaching he can't teach and I don't feel I would enjoy it.

Q: Where do you plan to attend college?

A: I would like to attend Transylvania because it has a good chemistry department. Otherwise, I might settle for UK. My parents want me to go to school in Kentucky because they want me close for one thing. But if I really felt strongly about going out of state, they would agree with me.

I prefer a smaller school and a more one-to-one relationship between teacher and student. But I'm sure that UK would challenge me. As I said before, you learn as much as you want to learn.

Q: Then you have no doubts about the quality of education you would receive at a Kentucky college?

A: No. Transylvania is an excellent college.

Q: After college, do you plan to stay in Kentucky?

A: I have no idea. It would be impossible to say. It would depend on the career I chose and the jobs available in that career.

If there were more jobs available elsewhere and I felt I could do more good elsewhere, I would go elsewhere. But if I felt I could do good here, I would stay here.

Q: Do you think those kinds of jobs will be available in Kentucky?

A: I certainly hope so, although I also have a desire to see and experience new things. But I would want to return to Eastern Kentucky. I would always go back for at least a while.

Q: Do you have a sense of allegiance to Eastern Kentucky?

A: Yes, I do. It's such a close-knit area. That's special to me.

But I also feel that the way some people have put the area down, even people from that area, is not true. I've read some of the books and essays on Eastern Kentucky and they make it sound like we are all stupid. That bothered me. They make it sound like we're all running around barefoot in overalls.

I'd like to say, "Hey, we're not stupid." There are problems there, but there are problems everywhere else too.

Q: Today's students are pictured as being very practically minded, that they are planning careers that will provide the most income rather than looking for careers that would offer satisfaction. Do you agree?

A: Yes, definitely. It's terrible to say that your first thought is financial security. But the economy is bad and you need a well-paying job and financial security. That's the first thought. And then you look after that for something that you're happy with.

Q: Are large financial rewards important to you?

A: It would be nice. The pursuit of science is something that I would enjoy. But I can truthfully say that if I had to struggle to live, I wouldn't do it.

Q: The scholars program is focusing on the future of Kentucky. Do you feel you have some responsibility for the state's future?

A: I feel like we all have some responsibility for what happens to this state. Because this state has really given us something that no one can take from us. I think we're privileged to be a part of it and that we should try to give something back.

(Editor's Note: The two teachers listed by Miss Howard as outstanding are Jackie Crider, biology instructor, and Ronald Robinson in mathematics.)

Mining Work Experience Worth College Credits

College credits are possible without spending a day in college.

In exchange for mining work experience, you can receive up to 15 semester hours' credit at Pikeville College. This is equivalent to a full-time course load for one semester in the mining technology program.

There is no charge for this credit, no tests to take, no classes to attend. All you need to do is apply for regular admission to Pikeville College, be admitted, and then turn in a work history portfolio. This will report your experience and qualifications. It will outline which mining technology courses you have equivalent skill in, supported by appraisal and recommendation by your work supervisor and copies of any mining certificates you hold.

When your portfolio is approved, you will be granted credit and it will be put on your permanent record at the college.

Several have already taken advantage of this work experience credit, based on actual work experience, on-the-job workshops, mining seminars and mining certification.

Don Hall is coordinating applications for work experience credit. For additional information contact him at 432-9334 at Pikeville College, Ben Ward at 432-9362, or Gary Thrash at 432-9364 at Pikeville College.

Special Examines Plight of Gorilla

The gorilla, largest of the great apes, is quietly disappearing from the wild, but there is a dedicated group of conservationists, scientists, zookeepers and private citizens who are fighting to save this endangered animal. "National Geographic Special: Gorilla," encoring Wednesday, August 10, at 8:00 p.m. on KET, is a film about the people who are devoting their lives to the perpetuation of the gorilla.

Worldwide, only a few hundred mountain gorillas and an estimated 10,000-20,000 lowland gorillas remain. National Geographic cameras traveled to England, Africa, Europe, and in the United States to discover the ongoing conservation efforts.

Among those featured in the hour-long documentary are: John Aspinall, owner of the Howletts Zoo, a wildlife sanctuary for endangered species; Dr. Francine Patterson, a research psychologist who conducts experiments in ape language communication; Dr. Dian Fossey, a research scientist who lived among the mountain gorillas for more than a decade, and Dr. Warren Thomas, Director of the Los Angeles Zoo, who shares thought-provoking information about the plight gorillas face.

The "National Geographic Specials" are produced by the National Geographic Society and WQED, Pittsburgh.

'Evening At Pops' In August Premiere

The popular series "Evening at Pops" returns to KET with new programs in August, Sundays at 7:00 p.m., beginning August 7. Each program will be repeated Saturday at 9:00 p.m.

John Williams and the Boston Pops make bright sounds with the Canadian Brass on KET Sunday, August 7. This classy brass ensemble is classically trained, but they are just as likely to perform Fats Waller as Puccini. The program includes Bach's G-minor Fugue and a 12-minute medley, "Mostly Fats."

Hot-footed Gregory Hines, star of "Eubie" and "Sophisticated Ladies," sings tunes of Irving Berlin and Eubie Blake on August 14. Also on the program, the Pops performs Sousa's "Thunderer March" and the themes from the movies "Arthur" and "Rocky."

You'll find yourself singing along with Peter, Paul and Mary and the Boston Pops on August 21. The legendary 1960's folksingers are reunited on the Symphony Hall stage to sing some of their old hits plus some new tunes.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Curtis Johnson thank their friends and neighbors who helped in any way upon the passing of their loved one. A special thanks to the Rev. Wayne McCarty and the other ministers, and to the Carter Funeral Home for their kind and efficient service.

HOW TO GET A JOB and how to hold onto it were the subjects of a week-long training session conducted by the state employment office here last week. Among other things, the eight students who took the course underwent mock job interviews which were videotaped and played back.

Watching their performance on the video screen last Friday were, from left, Chester Whitten, Sitka, Quilia Hamilton, Teaberry, Donna Thompson, Sitka, and Pam Atkins, Harold. In the foreground is Glenda Hall, counseling supervisor, who is the course instructor.

The special five-day course was conducted by the employment office under contract for the East Kentucky Concentrated Employment Program; shorter courses in employability skills are offered regularly by the jobs agency.

If you have roses, Boston Ivy, beans, grapes, sassafras trees or ornamentals, you could be in for a 4 to 6-week battle with the Japanese beetle.

This insect can be devastating to about 300 species of plants, ranging from roses to poison ivy. The beetles, which are a half-inch long with bronze-colored wing covers, began to emerge in June, and will be most abundant in July, according to Dr. Lee Townsend, Extension entomologist in the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. Some beetles may be found as late as September, he said.

The insect is moving west, and will be seen in increased numbers in Lexington and Louisville this year, Townsend said. "The insect is becoming better established in the Bluegrass area. The beetles appeared here in large numbers for the first time last year, and they'll become more populous here in the next 2-3 years."

Japanese beetles were first found in the United States in 1916 near Riverton, N.J. They were first discovered in Kentucky near Louisville in 1937, but the infestation was small and was eradicated with an insecticide. During the 1950s and early 1960s, beetle populations increased dramatically and spread in the eastern part of Kentucky and in surrounding states. The infestation will continue to move westward across the state, Townsend said.

The beetles usually feed in groups, and prefer plants exposed to direct sunlight, said Townsend. "A single beetle does not eat much; it is group feeding by many beetles that causes the severe damage," he said. "Adults feed on the upper surface of foliage, chewing out tissue between the veins. This gives the leaf a characteristic skeletonized appearance." Infestation spreads as the adults fly in search of food.

Japanese beetle grubs also are harmful, the entomologist said. Grubs feed on the roots of living plants, and can survive in almost any soil. As they chew off grass roots, the grubs weaken the grass's ability to absorb enough water to withstand the stresses of hot, dry weather. As a result, said Townsend, large dead patches 5-20 feet in diameter develop in the grub-infested areas.

"The sod on these dead patches of grass is not well-anchored, and can be rolled back like a carpet to expose the grubs," said Townsend. "If the damage is allowed to develop to this stage, it may be too late to save the turf. Recognizing the problem early can prevent this destruction."

Milky spore disease treatment can be effective on Japanese beetle grubs, Townsend said. "However, at this point in the season, it's likely that most grub problems are not from Japanese beetles, but from white grubs, which are not susceptible to the milky spore disease. Before you decide to use milky spore disease treatment, be sure that you have Japanese beetle grubs."

Individual beetles live about 30-45 days. Their activity is concentrated over 4 to 6 weeks, after which the beetles gradually die off.

"It is not feasible—economically or ecologically—to try to apply insecticides to all areas where beetles are found," cautions Townsend. "Insecticides such as Sevin, Malathion and Marlate are useful in protecting valuable individual plants, but these insecticides have to be applied at least once a week when the beetles are abundant."

Townsend said that many times new beetles will fly in immediately to take the place of those killed by insecticides. "If you have new beetles replacing the ones you just killed, you should cover the plant with netting to protect it from devastation."

Because feeding beetles attract additional beetles, the insects should be eliminated as quickly as possible when they begin to appear, Townsend said. Handpicking is faster and more effective than insecticides in eliminating small numbers of beetles from plants.

You can remove beetles from small plants by shaking the plants early in the morning (about 7 a.m.) when the temperature is low and the beetles are sluggish. The pests can be killed by shaking them into a bucket of soapy water.

Trapping also can be an effective part of an overall Japanese beetle control program, Townsend said. Traps in suburban areas usually attract beetles from the immediate vicinity; in open, rural areas, they may attract beetles from as far as 300 yards away.

"An important point to remember is that not all beetles that come into the range of the trap will be caught," says Townsend. "In densely-infested areas, large numbers of beetles can be captured in traps without any apparent decrease in plant damage. They may fly toward the trap, and then settle on an attractive plant to feed. Remember that the trap will draw in beetles. Don't place traps in gardens or near plants that you want to protect."

You can buy commercial traps that contain a floral or sex odor lure. For additional information and free publications concerning Japanese beetles, white grubs and control methods, contact your county Extension agent for agriculture.

During Summer "Vacation"...

Prestonsburg Student at Work As Prelude to Medical School

Todd Johnson, right, of Prestonsburg, mixes chemicals while laboratory partner Todd McCarty, of Pineville, assists. Both are taking science classes this summer in a special program at Kentucky State University.

One of the most important decisions in a person's life is what to do after graduation from high school.

Todd Johnson, of Prestonsburg, recently graduated fourth in his class from Prestonsburg High School and had already decided that he wanted to go to college and on to medical school.

But he didn't wait until school started in the fall to begin his studies. He is getting a head start on many future medical school applicants by attending a special program at Kentucky State University, Frankfort this summer.

The former National Honor Society member and senior class treasurer is preparing himself for Transylvania University, which he plans to attend this fall, in the seven-week Professional Education Preparation Program (PEPP) at KSU.

PEPP gives students who intend to become doctors and dentists a chance to experience college-level classroom work, visit local health-care facilities, and talk with medical professionals.

PEPP participants must live in one of Kentucky's 74 counties, such as Floyd county, or parts of Louisville or Lexington that are in need of medical professionals, according to Larry Fowler, special programs director with the state Council on Higher Education.

CHE administers and funds PEPP. There is no charge to the students.

The "theory" behind PEPP, according to Fowler, is students, such as Johnson, who are from areas that need doctors and dentists will be more likely than other medical professionals to practice in these counties after graduation, and PEPP gives students a "head start" in college.

Johnson, the 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald C. Johnson, applied for PEPP "to associate with others who share similar interests," he said.

"I felt that the program would give me valuable experience," said Johnson, "and it would give me a more realistic view of what being a doctor would be like, as well as a better understanding of what will actually be required of me."

"This program has given me everything I expected it would," said Johnson. "The program has provided an insight into many courses of study where my background has been limited. It has greatly enhanced my chances of succeeding in the medical field."

In addition to classroom lectures in chemistry, mathematics, biology, physics and anatomy, the 12 PEPP students at KSU are gaining valuable laboratory experience, according to biology professor Dr. George W. Brown, director of PEPP at KSU.

PEPP students conduct chemistry and biology experiments and dissect animals—all under the supervision of KSU professors, Brown said.

Students are learning study habits and are getting a taste of college life through classes, by living in campus dormitories, and through lectures from medical and dental students, Brown said.

Students are also enrolled in PEPP at the universities of Louisville and Kentucky. A total of 65 students were chosen to participate this summer from about 85 applicants.

RETURN FROM VACATION

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hackworth, of David, and Mr. and Mrs. Larry Hackworth, of Chelsea, Michigan returned recently from a visit with their family, Mr. and Mrs. James W. Lyon and family, of Idaho Falls, Idaho.

While there they attended the high school graduation of Kenneth James Lyon, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hackworth, from the Gethsemane Christian High School in Idaho Falls. Mr. Lyon will attend the Pensacola Christian College in Pensacola, Florida this fall.

The visit included a sight-seeing trip to the Yellowstone National Park, Grand Teton National Park, and Jackson Hole, in Wyoming and the Craters of the Moon National Park near Arco, Idaho. They also shopped in Salt Lake City Utah before returning to Chelsea, Michigan where they visited with family and friends.

Miss Ginger Lynn Lyon, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hackworth, returned home with them for a summer visit. She will also visit her paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Lyon and Mr. and Mrs. Phil Lyon, of Isonville. Before returning to Idaho Falls, she will visit her aunt, Miss Lynda C. NOTICE OF READINGS OF HOSPITAL REVENUE BOND ORDINANCE

FIRST READING NOTICE:

The Floyd County Fiscal Court, at its regular meeting commencing at 10:30 a.m. (EDT), July 26, 1983 to be held at the Annex Building Conference Room will consider for first reading, an Ordinance relating to the issuance of hospital revenue bonds. The Ordinance bears a caption substantially in the following form:

AN ORDINANCE RELATING TO THE HOSPITAL REVENUE BONDS PAYABLE FROM LOAN PAYMENTS TO BE MADE BY OUR LADY OF THE WAY HOSPITAL, INC. (THE "CORPORATION") PURSUANT TO THE TERMS OF A LOAN AGREEMENT, DATED AS OF AUGUST 1, 1983 BY AND BETWEEN THE COUNTY OF FLOYD, KENTUCKY (THE "COUNTY") AND THE CORPORATION AND EVIDENCED BY THE CORPORATION'S 1983 SERIES A MASTER NOTE ISSUED PURSUANT TO RELATED SUPPLEMENTAL INDENTURE NO. 8, BY AND BETWEEN THE CORPORATION AND CONTINENTAL ILLINOIS NATIONAL BANK AND TRUST COMPANY OR CHICAGO, AS MASTER TRUSTEE; AUTHORIZING THE ISSUANCE AND SALE TO THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF CINCINNATI (THE "BANK") OF THE COUNTY'S HOSPITAL REVENUE BOND, SERIES 1983 (OUR LADY OF THE WAY, INC. PROJECT) IN THE AMOUNT OF $500,000; AUTHORIZING THE COUNTY TO ENTER INTO AND PERFORM ITS OBLIGATIONS UNDER SAID LOAN AGREEMENT AND A BOND INDENTURE, DATED AS OF AUGUST 1, 1983 BY AND BETWEEN THE COUNTY AND THE BANK; AUTHORIZING THE OFFICERS OF THE COUNTY TO EXECUTE AND DELIVER THE BOND, THE LOAN AGREEMENT, THE BOND INDENTURE AND ALL OTHER DOCUMENTS REQUIRED FOR THE ISSUANCE OF THE BOND; REPEALING ALL ACTION INCONSISTENT WITH THIS ORDINANCE; AND DECLARING AN EMERGENCY.

The Bond is in the aggregate principal amount of $500,000, matures on the tenth anniversary of its date of issue, presently anticipated to be August 15, 1983, is repayable in level monthly installments of principal and interest with the balance being due at maturity; may be prepared without penalty at any time upon written notice to the Bank; and bears interest at a rate equal to 1.5% less than the rate of interest to be borne by the most recent auction of two-year Treasury Notes securing on or before the date of delivery of the Bond and the second, fourth, sixth and eighth anniversaries thereof, with such rate being adjusted on said anniversaries. The Bond will be sold by the County to the Bank for $500,000 at private sale, and the proceeds from the sale of the Bond will be lent by the County to the Hospital to refinance outstanding indebtedness of the Hospital and to purchase equipment to be used by the Hospital in the delivery of health care to its patients. The Hospital will issue its 1983 Series A Master Note to the County, which Note shall be secured by a first mortgage lien upon all Real Property of the SCHCS Obligated Group (as defined in Said Note), other than Excluded Property. The Note will provide for payments by the Hospital sufficient in time and amount to pay the principal of and interest on the County's Bond. The County will endorse, without recourse, two Notes to the Bank as security for the Bond and pursuant to said Bond Indenture will assign, as additional security, its rights under said Loan Agreement and to monies in funds established by the Bond Indenture.

The Bond states on its face that it is a limited obligation of the County payable solely from two payments made by the Hospital pursuant to the Note. None of its County's revenues, assets or taxing power is pledged to secure the Bank.

A copy of the full text of the Ordinance is available for public inspection in the Fiscal Court Clerk's Office, Monday through Friday, during regular business hours.

The Floyd County Fiscal Court hereby certifies that the caption and the description following said caption represent a fair and accurate summary of said Ordinance, written in a way to inform the public of its content.

SECOND READING NOTICE:

The Floyd County Fiscal Court, at a special meeting the location, date and time of which will be announced at the meeting at which the Ordinance is given first reading, will consider second reading of said Ordinance and thereupon will consider its passage. The Ordinance is summarized as set forth in the above First Reading Notice. Said summary and the last two paragraphs of the First Reading Notice are hereby incorporated by reference in this Second Reading Notice. This Second Reading Notice also shall be deemed the public notice for any subsequent public readings of the Ordinance.

to the Kentucky Society of CPAs, the most common mistake volunteer fund-raisers make is overestimating what they can raise and underestimating what it will cost to raise it.

In any fund-raising effort, planning and budgeting go hand-in-hand, CPAs say. It is wise to be conservative in your estimates and mindful of the past experience of your group and other groups in similar efforts.

There are no reliable rules to forecast how much of each dollar collected will be consumed by the cost of raising it. Costs vary depending upon public awareness of your cause, and how much volunteer help you will have raising money. The United Way, for instance, one of the country's largest charitable organizations, estimates that 10 cents of every dollar collected goes toward administrative and other fund-raising costs.

But let's say you are serving on a small committee seeking financial aid to restore fine art paintings owned by your community museum. First, decide how much can be raised from individuals, businesses, foundations and government agencies. (Despite cutbacks in government funding, charitable giving last year reached a record $60 billion, with 80 cents of every dollar coming from individuals.)

Remember that as a fund-raiser you have a fiduciary responsibility to handle your group's money in a fiscally-responsible manner. Keep proper records of income and expenses, to disclose how funds are used. Government and foundation grants, as well as many large individual donations, require financial reporting.

You'll need a working capital base for expenses. Never commingle your money with that of the group's, CPAs advise. If you lay out your own money to get things started, you may end up taking a loss. (You might claim that loss as a tax-deductible charitable contribution.)

Avoid paying operating expenses directly out of the proceeds from a fund-raising event, CPAs suggest. A special account, with authorized signatures, should be set up for depositing all proceeds and paying all expenses.

Fund-raising can present legal as well as bookkeeping problems. These can be avoided by taking pains to spend the money raised only on what it was raised for, and nothing beyond that.

Although you may not believe you could raise too much money—it could happen. That's where planning ahead becomes critical.

Let's say your alumni committee is charged with raising $50,000 for a new gym at your community school, then in their zeal the committee actually generates $100,000! What do you do now? You can either refund half the money or spend it all on the gym.

Since neither of those seems realistic or practical, CPAs suggest that you plan for such a contingency by stating in your solicitations that the funds are to be spent for the construction of the gym, with any excess to go towards the group's general purposes. In the case of the alumni group, those purposes could be any of several that would directly benefit the students or the school.

Cash flow is another consideration. If you stage a benefit concert for your local symphony and part of the money raised must be paid in advance to rent the concert hall, then you must plan your fund-raising so that the donations arrive before the concert.

Always be conscious of tax considerations, CPAs advise. If you are soliciting people to join your organization—say the local historical society—you must let them know how much of their contribution is tax-deductible.

You should also be familiar with IRS requirements for non-profit organizations. Be sure your activities do not violate certain prohibitions against lobbying, which could threaten the group's tax-exempt status.

Fund-raising can be as simple as holding a cake sale or as complex as seeking grants for a day-care center. But whatever it is, time spent in setting goals, planning, budgeting, forecasting cash flow, and organizing financial records will pay off with a more successful effort—and probably more money for your cause.

Series For Train Buffs

"Great Railway Journeys of the World," a seven-part series, premieres on KET Sunday, August 14. The programs will air at 8:00 p.m. The first international documentary series set on the world's railways, seven writers present their impressions of their journeys across the U.S., South America, India, Britain, Australia, Africa and Europe.

In the trip across the U.S., Ludovic Kennedy travels some of the most famous lines in American railroad history. He leaves Penn Station by the "Broadway Limited" for Chicago. There, he changes over to the "San Francisco Zephyr," the most historic route of all, which travels over the plains and Rockies to Promontory Point in Utah, where the lines of the Union Pacific and the Central Pacific meet.

Another writer crosses the high Andes mountains, where the railway passengers sometimes need oxygen, and one writer travels across four states in India during a five-day trip. The Zambezi Express in Africa shows the "Blue Train," the most luxurious train in the world, in which gold-tinted windows shield pampered passengers from the glare of the South African sun. In Australia, the train crosses the Nullarbor Plain, where it runs dead straight for 500 miles, the longest straight railway in the world.

"Great Railway Journeys of the World" is a BBC production.

OUR COMMON SHAME

This week The Times publishes a story of shame. A story written in the original with the red blood of murder and carrying with it shame for all Floyd county. A sense of shame as asils us as we spread over these pages the dark record of Floyd county's killers.

It is a feeling which should pervade every Floyd countian worthy of the name. Ours is the degradation of the mark of Cain!

Why? Why is it a matter of country-wide disgrace that three men lie dead as one day's toll of the gun, while two others lie at the point of death and the widows and orphans and all the kindred of these dead mourn? The question echoes back unanswered only from the blankest mind and the most calloused heart.

It is a public shame, because one day's toll is not the sum total of the loss in human life in this county at the hands of the killer, and because we accept these murders almost as indigenous to Floyd county. It is because we are deeply dyed in the sin of omission in failing to do those things which it is our solemn duty to do in protecting the lives of our citizens against murder and the careers of our men against the dark crime of murder.

Human passion is inherent and as old as Adam, and the mightiest of our endeavors cannot insure the race against the act of the killer. Yet there is a way leading from wholesale murder. The situation is no more hopeless than we as men and women are hopeless as upright citizens.

Every man and woman has a task to do. And almost every man and woman in this county has, to date, failed that duty.

Officers of the law are the most obvious offenders against all sense of right, but they are joined in their culpability by the great mass of the people. As a whole, the citizenry of Floyd county is to blame.

Only, the officials of this county have the road blazed for them to follow by their solemn oath to protect the laws of the Commonwealth. These laws are plain—and yet, as they come to mean most for the common good, are as badly overlooked by these "servants of justice" as they are violated by the bootlegger, the moonshiner or the murderer. Officers are, indirectly, guilty of murder, in the degree that they fail to execute those laws which are designed to prevent murder.

Arrests must be made. Then strict administration of justice. Intelligent juries must be procured. The fight must be relentless.

And the inevitable result must be, if murder would be checked in Floyd county, THE CHAIR for some of our murderers.

Citizens of the county must awaken to the challenge offered to their womanhood and manhood. Their support is needed. They must offer aid to the law instead of impediments. They must respond to the call of the courts in the solemn business of meting out justice. Theirs is the duty to start and help carry on a crusade along the whole front against crime.

This is written in the sincere hope that those who read will think; and, thinking, will act. Every man to his post! Away with the slacker! If he be an official, out with him. If he or she be a citizen, cast him or her into the discard. Recruit the forces with soldiers of mettle—but keep up the fight. There is a reward—and that reward is a peaceful people, a county not torn with dissension and filled with murderers and those who mourn their victims, but a county in which we may take pride.

At this time there is a pronounced tendency with all to let the tide of shameful events take their course and go through endless repetition. Officials and citizens alike view it all with an amazing lack of concern, and are all the more to blame.

All are secure for the moment. But—
Nero fiddled while Rome burned. And—
What did Nero amount to?

WHAT MAKES A NEWSPAPER

A mistaken idea with some people is that the newspaper is an individual proposition. If they don't like the editor, they feel they must knock the paper and stand in the way of its success whenever possible. They do not realize that the local paper is just as much a part of the community as the schools, churches or anything else. The newspaper is different from any other business, it is a community affair. It is for service to the people and not for any individual.

You may not like the editor and the editor may not love you any too well—but the paper he is responsible for does just as much for you as the service rendered others. There is nothing personal with it, it is here for a purpose and that purpose is to do what it can in every way and the greater the support of those it undertakes to serve the better service it can render. It takes the people to make a good newspaper and without the help of the people no one can run a successful newspaper. It requires money to operate any kind of business—even the churches and the papers are no exception and for this reason they must have the financial support of the business interest as well as the good will.

Few publishers make more than a comfortable living and scarcely one is reported wealthy from money made in the newspaper business. They deserve to be trusted and to be understood by the people—it is the editor and not the plant that makes a newspaper useful in a community, though a liberal patronage is necessary if the paper is to be a credit to the town.—Ashland Daily Independent.

SAM A. SOLOMON, PEDDLER, IS KILLED

The murder of Sam A. Solomon, well-known pack-peddler to many residents of this county, killed in Blue Grass Hollow, near Hazard, is being investigated, and arrests are expected. Solomon carried considerable money at the time. He was robbed and murdered, it is believed. Solomon was shot through the left leg, and died largely from loss of blood, it is said. He was going into Hazard by a short cut across the mountain from Domino, a nearby mining town.

CLERKS WORK WITHOUT PAY

The law in its new form requires that the clerks figure the tax on the various items, and keep each as a record in their office. They contend this causes much extra work and many of them have hired auditors to do the work, expecting to pay them from their "twelve cents a line," as stated in the bill.

Ben Marshall, secretary of the State Tax Commission, and one of the founders of the bill, said the county clerks were entitled to every cent the law allowed and expressed hope that the ruling would be modified so the clerks could get their claims paid.

"The new system will be worth twice the money it will cost the state as a public record," Marshall said. "It now shows whether the tax on property was paid, whether the property was sold for taxes, and if sold, to whom. It will be invaluable in the future to persons wishing clear titles to land," the secretary added.

"The entire cost to the state would not exceed $25,000," Marshall said, "and in five years the records will be invaluable."

"The new system also gives the county clerk a chance to prove and check his work, while all the systems used in the past have been uncheckable," he added.

PRESIDENT IN ILL HEALTH
President Coolidge's determination to quit the White House at the end of his present term was prompted by the condition of his health more than by consideration of politics, it was learned in Washington Monday.

SCOTT INSANE
A coroner's jury, hastily recruited from Wayfarers in the cheap lodging district in Chicago, decided Monday in an hour that Russell Scott was insane, an issue over which learned lawyers and alienists had fought for three years while the life of Scott, erstwhile Canadian financier who turned robber and killer, hung in the balance. Scott, who hung himself with his belt in his cell in the Cook county jail last Saturday night, committed suicide while insane, the jury decided, thereby giving Scott in death a victory for which he fought three years in life. Five times Scott, who with his brother killed a drug clerk in a holdup, stood in the shadow of the gallows and when he took his life he was awaiting a new sanity hearing.

His body riddled with bullets from machine guns, rifles, shotguns and pistols in the hands of more than 100 police officers, Charles Pinkard, negro, was slain in a barricaded house late Monday after he had shot and probably fatally wounded Deputy Sheriff Sam Williams, of Birmingham, Ala., and seriously wounded eleven other persons and for an hour and a half successfully defied all efforts to dislodge him.

The Gomez Almada rebels have been decisively defeated and routed by Mexican Federal troops in a six-hour battle, and the revolution is ended, it was announced Monday night by the Mexican government.

Within a week of his trial on a criminal conspiracy charge growing out of the lease of Teapot Dome, Harry F. Sinclair lost in the Supreme Court Monday his fight to retain possession of that Naval Reserve in Wyoming.

In ordering the return of the vast petroleum field to the government, the highest court held that "all the facts and circumstances require" a finding that the lease and agreement attending its transfer were "made fraudulently by means of a collusion and conspiracy" between the wealthy oil operator and Albert B. Fall, Secretary of the Interior.

TO ALL MERCHANTS OF FLOYD COUNTY

This is a friendly reminder from Thomas D. Lafferty, Jr., your Floyd County Court Clerk, that all occupational licenses expired June 30.

These licenses may be renewed in the County Clerk's office from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday thru Friday.

Five Generations Represented

Setting Sights On Safety

Many motorcyclists overlook an important piece of their safety wardrobe—eye protection—when they dress to ride.

In order to ride safely, you must be able to see clearly. A bug or small rock flying into your face can distract or injure you. In an automobile, the windshield protects the driver's eyes from wind, rain, and flying bugs or rocks. On a motorcycle a face shield or pair of goggles serves the same function.

The Motorcycle Safety Foundation suggests your face shield or goggles should be:

- Free from scratches and shatterproof (bearing the Z2.1 or VESC 8 standard in the upper right hand corner). Scratches on eye protection are particularly dangerous at night because they reflect the glare of streetlights and oncoming headlights.

- Securely fastened so they won't blow off.

- Constructed to protect the eyes from dirt, bugs, water, and other foreign objects. Regular sunglasses do not provide proper eye protection on a motorcycle.

- Well-ventilated to prevent fogging that can distort vision.

- Equipped with clear lenses if used at night. After dark, tinted lenses can reduce vision significantly.

City Candidates' Status Unclear

The standing of 12 Prestonsburg city council candidates in the November election remained unclear this week. Of those named in a May 20 suit by Dave Stephens, who is also a candidate, four have filed an answer to Stephens' charge that they had not filed properly and one of them has lodged a counterclaim.

George Cecil Brown, Paul Hunt Thompson, William O. Goebel, III, and Bill Ray Collins all claim they have filed petitions with signatures properly verified.

In addition, Brown has filed a suit claiming that Stephens himself failed to have the signatures on his petition properly verified and that his name should be removed from the November ballot.

A motion for dismissal of Stephens' suit by Larry D. Brown, attorney representing George Cecil Brown, was passed over in circuit court Friday pending further negotiations between the parties.

Eight of the defendants in Stephens' suit—Maxine S. Bierman, Frank Allen Adams, Donald Whitaker, Bobby Watson, Jeffrey Horn, Gladys M. Franko, Bobby Ranier, and Donald "Dootney" Horn—have made no answer in the case.

Beauty Pageant Winner

Kristy Lynn Bishop, of Auxier, was chosen first runner-up in the U.L.H.C. Beauty Pageant held June 4 at the Kimper Elementary School, Pike county.

Kristy competed in the following events: beauty, talent, photogenic and western-wear. She is shown here in the western wear competition.

In addition to claiming the first runner-up trophy, she received three special awards for talent, photogenic and western-wear.

A 12-year-old seventh grade student at Auxier Elementary, she is the daughter of Richard and Thelma Bishop, of Auxier and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ollie P. Wallen, of Water Gap, and Mr. and Mrs. John Bishop, of Paintsville.

Plaque Commends Donors

Harry Alheid, Central Kentucky Blood Center's Donor Resources Manager from Lexington, presented Joy James, (right), donor chairman, an award in appreciation of support by employees from the First Commonwealth Bank. The plaque has a bar for each 100 pints of blood donated. The CKBC Prestonsburg Donor Center held open house on July 12 and July 14 to thank all donors for supporting the Floyd County Blood Program for the past three years. The bank employees have donated 110 pints in that time. Also pictured is Pat Phillips, local donor resources consultant.

"FISHING CAPITAL"

More and more Americans who are hooked on fishing are discovering an angling paradise where the fish are large and plentiful, and the fishing is delightfully scenic.

The area, in West Central Florida, is known for top freshwater fishing that can be enjoyed year-round. Here, the largemouth bass reigns king and scrappy crappies attain three pounds. In 1976, a 15-pound eight ounce "hawg" took Field & Stream's first prize for Florida bass in these waters.

TERRY HALL, pictured above left with his brother, Mike, and three young racing enthusiasts, won the 10-lap heat race and the 20-lap main event for modified class cars at Friday's action at Highlands Raceway Park near Paintsville. The McDowell driver-owner jumped out to an early lead in his Camaro in the main event and held the position until the checkered flag.

Another Left Beaver racer, Jake Miller, who won last week at Highlands in the street class, had to leave this Friday's race with a flat tire after leading the event for several laps. The race was won by a Johnson countian driving car No. U-1. Super modified class winner was 1980 World Champ Charlie Swartz, of Ashland. Second went to the No. 10 racing team of Martin and driver, Paul D. Harris.

REVIEWS

Quarterflash — "Take Another Picture" (Geffen) — Portland's Quarterflash were victims of the Sophomore Syndrome. Their debut album went platinum, but what were they going to do for an encore? For a long time, they did nothing at all, leaving us to wonder if they had shot it all the first time out.

But now comes "Take Another Picture," and it's obvious what they decided. They decided to do the first album all over again.

Adam and the Ants — "Dirk Wears White Sox" (Epic) — Adam has separated from the Ants, actually, but this is a rerelease of a 1979 British LP. Now that "Goody Two Shoes" has brought Antmusic to the attention of the public, someone figured there might be an audience for the stuff that first turned regular folk into Antpeople.

Unfortunately, "Dirk" was done when Ant was but a larva. His later work is far more polished, and if you want early Adam you should step forward at least as far as "Kings of the Wild Frontier."

Rod Stewart — "Body Wishes" (Warner Brothers) — Every few years Rod Stewart writes a song that brings tears to your eyes and, every few years, he puts on a live performance that knocks your socks off. In between, he fulfills contractual obligations by releasing competent, professional, predictable LPs.

This album is nothing to get excited about, but that's OK. Roddy's going on the road this summer with the most spectacular stage show in eons.

"I accept what has happened to me, and maybe I can help someone else so they don't fall into the same traps I fell into," said Johnny Rodriguez between performances at Jamboree USA in Wheeling, W. Va.

"For about three years I didn't take care of myself. There was heavy drinking and drugs. Marijuana and cocaine. One is bad enough, but when you are hooked on both, they destroy you and your voice," he explained.

"My performances on the road suffered because the booze and drugs were slowing me down. Today, I'm having to start all over again because of the things I let myself fall into," he added.

"But I'm healthy now, I feel better than I've ever felt in my life and mentally I'm ready to start working to get this second career where the first one was. I'm fortunate to have a second chance," he added. "So I can't blow this."

Today, Rodriguez looks forward to something other than the night life. "I really enjoy getting up and going out on the golf course, and I'm into breaking horses again. There are a lot of things to do when you're straightened out."

Porter Wagoner was invited into the studios of the Doremus Corp. in Chicago during a recent concert swing through the area. He recorded a country show for airing aboard United Airlines flights.

American Artists Discuss Their Work

"AVA-1: The 1982 Awards in the Visual Arts" will present the top ten winning artists in its first annual competition. The program will air Wednesday, August 10, at 10:30 p.m. on KET.

The late Arthur Godfrey will introduce this documentary which presents the artists, their works and each artist's opinion about his work. For example, Richard Bosman, who depicts scenes often violent in nature, finds influence in detective stories, making the distinction between fictitious and realistic violence. Yet another artist, Michael Luchs, deals with the ancient fear of the blank canvas by building each work around one central, unchanging image of a rabbit in profile.

The Southeastern Center for Contemporary Art in Winston-Salem, N.C., administers the AVA program. The program provides fellowships, traveling exhibitions and other support for ten artists annually, one artist chosen from each of ten areas of the United States.

"AVA-1: The 1982 Awards in the Visual Arts" is distributed by the Public Broadcasting Service.

The group provides parents and their infants an opportunity to share experiences, ideas and feelings, to form friendships, and to provide support for each other.

There will be information available on child development and parenting concerns. Areas of well baby care, role changes and adjustment to parenthood will be topics for possible discussion.

The group will meet on the second floor of St. Theodore Catholic Church located near the Court House in Prestonsburg at 7 p.m. on the last Wednesday of each month. The first meeting will be held on Wednesday, July 27. Childcare facilities will be available.

Other meeting dates for 1983: August 31, September 28, October 26, and November 30.

Home Eye Test For Pre-Schoolers

Surprising to many parents, is that a child thinks everyone sees the way he does. According to the National Society to Prevent Blindness, now in its 75th year, if your child doesn't see well, he or she probably won't complain.

It's up to you to see if your child has normal vision and a simple home eye test may help you find out. It's available free by sending a self-addressed envelope to your State Society to Prevent Blindness or the National Society to Prevent Blindness, 79 Madison Avenue, New York, N. Y. 10016.

It consists of a chart with E's pointing up, down, to the left and to the right—plus instructions. If your child can't see as far as the third line with each eye, you should arrange for a professional eye examination.

Youth, Sister Die In Magoffin Well

A 16-year-old Magoffin county boy and his sister were killed Friday while attempting to clean a hand-dug well.

Coroner Jerry Dunn identified them as George Whitt and Pauline Whitt Perkins, 20.

The incident occurred about 15 miles southwest of Salyersville off KY 134.

The brother and sister, along with Mrs. Perkins' husband, Steve, used a gasoline pump to remove water from the well so that Whitt could be lowered into it, according to the coroner's office.

A rope or chain was tied around his waist and he was advised to keep talking so that everyone would know that he was all right.

After 15 minutes, hearing nothing from the boy, Mr. and Mrs. Perkins attempted to pull him to the surface but the rope or chain had come loose.

Mrs. Perkins volunteered to go after her brother. She was lowered into the well. After several minutes, hearing nothing from his wife, Perkins pulled the chain or rope, and neither his wife nor his brother-in-law was attached. Perkins went for help.

When the Magoffin County Rescue Squad arrived, one worker with a gas mask made the descent and found both bodies in the well in several feet of water.

An autopsy indicated that both deaths were due to carbon monoxide poisoning, Deputy Coroner Luther Dunn said.

Women are on the payrolls of every major industry group but are especially concentrated in the service-producing sector of the economy. Of all employees in the service-producing sector in 1982, half were women; in contrast, women made up a little over one-fourth of the workers in goods-producing industries.

Arithmetic Class

After recess, there was time for a quick break before returning to classes. After a jog "down the path" to the outside house—to the boys' in one direction, or the girls' in another—we lined up at the outside pump to wash away the sweat and grime.

Right there in the handiest place grew the biggest patch of wild soap plants that there was for some distance. Each child would grab just the right amount of leaves to produce a good lather when rubbed briskly with water that flowed from the mouth of the pump. A quick rinse and all traces of the green suds were gone. The law of preservation existed because we took only the amount we needed, leaving plenty for the rest. No one cared much if they were splashed or that the water got slung all over them...unless you were in the process of "growing up", as they said. Then their attitude was... "look at those silly children playing in the water. Don't they have anything better to do?" If there was no one around to pump for you to drink or wash, out of necessity we learned to swing a leg over the pump handle so we could do our own pumping.

After all the noise and confusion ebbed, the routine started all over again with the first and second grades doing their one...two...three's and right on up to one hundred. The rest of us had heard it so many times we would pat our feet as it seemed to have picked up a tune or rhythm.

It was quite common for everyone to be interrupted with an announcement of "I've pulled my tooth!"... "He knocked the scab off my sore knee!"... "She bit my arm!"... If the school room was silent with studying when such a startling statement was made pure pandemonium occurred. Laughter seemed to be catching until the whole house would seem to rock until teacher tapped her ruler on the desk for silence. The class would resume and teacher would start all over again... class dismissed... next class. We used to try to imitate teacher's voice, but, of course, not in her presence.

The next class would always be leaning, as if someone were going to say, "ready, set, go." The one that got in the first position at the recital bench would get to recite first; this was always something special. The next person would usually do the same or a similar lesson and the next until it was very monotonous, but this was the way we learned.

The children living near the school were allowed to walk home for lunch. Actually, it was a run home for lunch because it was unthinkable to leave everyone at school to have such a good time, but the hot country dinner made it all worthwhile. The children who had brought their lunch would then scramble for the bench in the back of the school room to find their own. After much yelling and talking, pushing and shoving, everyone went outside and sat at the place of their choice. There was never any litter, because we threw the food scraps over the fence to the big hogs that belonged to the neighbor across the creek. If the hogs weren't walking around the field close, they soon would be, we knew. The paper scraps were crammed into the pot-bellied stove to start the next fire, whether it was next morning or two weeks from then. If it rained and we ate inside at our own desks for obvious reasons, it was the same. No worries, no cares, no fears seemed to be felt, just the unspoken anticipation of the good life ahead.

Who could want more than this? I'm sure it never crossed any of our minds that some of us might die in war, some in horrible accidents or that others would live so far away that they didn't have time for a glance at the lovely hills from where we all had started. We seemed so close, such a devoted little group that we seemed to be a single person, but soon all were to be separated forever by adulthood.

Some lunches were packed in buckets but most of them were packed in brown paper bags called "pokes." Some had the top folded, some twisted and some were marked with crayons to tell which poke belonged to whom. There was no need to worry about someone stealing your lunch because all anyone had to do was ask and the owner would share right down to the last pod of grapes or pop corn ball.

Since then I have eaten at the Biltmore Restaurant upstate, at the Cock and Bull in Houston and at the Neil House in Columbus, and thoroughly enjoyed them all, but I can truthfully say, beyond shadow of a doubt, that the most appetizing aroma in my lifetime came to me upon removing the lid from a tightly sealed gallon bucket in which my mother had packed my lunch with roasting ears, still warm after she freshly boiled them, a slice of fried pork, greasy, thick and lean, in a split-open home-made biscuit and a few sugar cookies my mother told me she "just threw together" without a recipe. What a treat! The steam from the corn seemed to warm the bread and keep it fresh.

Lunch period was exactly one hour long. There were many ways to enjoy this long play period. "Slap-in-and-slap-out," "Question Box" and "Buzz One, Buzz Two", were among the quieter inside games that we played. Some of the outside games were "Handkerchief," "Marbles" and "Red Rover." Our playground included every class in the whole school, which meant that we had a varying age group. It was wonderful to watch how the larger children looked after the smaller ones. Sometimes even when someone would complete the eighth grade they would return the next school year and sometimes another, just to keep going to school. The school for higher than the eighth grade was five muddy and hazardous miles away. It was called Blaine Normal School and was taught by a Professor Elam, who had lived far away.

The oldest living things are bristlecone pine trees, which scientists believe may have started growing from 4,000 to 5,000 years ago.

- C. Behavior Modification.
- D. Supportive Psychotherapy.
- E. Medication (depending on our judgement and your choice.)

(2) For your first office visit we obtain your complete history on weight, culture, family personality structure.

(3) During your second office visit, the following procedures are performed:

- A. Complete physical examination.
- B. Complete blood tests (to insure no disorders of the liver kidney, thyroid, diabetes, etc.).
- C. Cardiogram and chest x-ray.

After completion of the above test, each patient is given an individualized diet and instructions to follow.

(4) After your second visit you are ready to start your diet. We will then check you after one week and once or twice a week thereafter, depending upon your individual requirements.

(5) You don't need any will power on our program.

(6) On this program most patients don't feel weak, dizzy, tired, starved or sick in any way.

(7) When you are losing weight we try to make you realize how you gained the weight and last but most important: TEACH YOU TO KEEP YOUR WEIGHT WHERE YOU WANT!!!!

Aging Plan Hearing Scheduled July 26

The Department for Social Services will conduct a series of four public hearings this month to receive comments on the Kentucky Aging Plan, a document required by the federal government for funding of supportive and nutrition services under the Older Americans Act of 1965.

Aging Services Director Peggy Mooney said the hearings will be in Lexington, Covington, Bowling Green and Prestonsburg, and she encouraged all citizens interested in services and programs for Kentucky's senior citizens to attend and comment. Copies of the Aging Plan are available at each Area Development District Office and will be placed at each hearing site. Summaries may also be obtained from the Division of Aging Services, Department for Social Services, 275 East Main Street, Frankfort, Ky. 40621.

Programs covered in the Kentucky Aging Plan include nutrition services for the elderly, home delivered meals, transportation, homemaker/health aide, training and education. In-home services through such projects as Preventicare and the Homecare Program are also covered in the Aging Plan. Additional issues such as the nursing home ombudsman, foster grandparents and advocacy assistance programs are addressed in the plan as well.

The Prestonsburg hearings will be held July 26, at 10 a.m., at the Archer Park Senior Citizens Center.

"God's Prison Gang"

"God's Prison Gang," a newly released film featuring Al Capone's getaway driver, the last member of Bonnie and Clyde's gang and two other notorious criminals who have become Christians will be shown at Spurlock Bible Church, Spurlock Fork of Middle Creek, on Sunday July 24. The showing is scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. It will be shown at 7 p.m. the same day at Caney Bible Chapel, on Elm Lick at Risner.

The film, shot behind the walls of New York's Attica prison, is hosted by Art Linkletter. Telling their stories in the 44-minute film are George Meyer, Al Capone's favorite driver; Floyd Hamilton, the last of the Bonnie and Clyde gang; Jerry Graham, the "robber king" of California; and Ted Jefferson, convicted of crimes from drugs and robbery to murder. Also featured is "Chaplain Ray," of the Dallas-based International Prison Ministry.

The Reverend Dan Heintzelman, pastor of Spurlock Bible church, said he hopes all citizens concerned about the problem of rising crime will attend the free screening of the film.

Illegal Mine Crackdown Included East Ky. Raids

One year after being given full police powers by the state legislature to investigate cases of suspected illegal mining, members of the Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet's special investigative unit have released annual figures indicating that their activities have helped to slow the amount of illegal mining taking place in Kentucky.

"During this past year, we have investigated 358 cases, made 42 arrests and confiscated 36 pieces of heavy mining equipment valued at $2.5 million," said Doug Shoulders, chief of the investigative unit.

"These totals are impressive when you realize that we have only 11 officers for the entire state. Nine of our officers are assigned areas which cover more than 1,000 square miles," Shoulders said.

"While we are proud of our totals, the numbers of people arrested and the amount of equipment confiscated doesn't tell the entire story. We feel that our deterrent value is as important to protection of the state's environment as the cases where we actually apprehend wildcaters," he said.

"We aren't out in the coal-producing areas of the state to get people on minor infractions of state law, we're there to see that environmental damage due to mining is stopped, to see that coal-mining operations have permits. The permits are necessary to see that coal-extraction is done in such a way that the environment is not devastated," Shoulders said.

In raids conducted in seven Kentucky counties—Clay, Letcher, Knox, Knott, Floyd, Bell and Perry—investigators found that approximately 11,120 tons of untaxed coal had been removed.

"The severance tax and penalty assessment on this tonnage would have amounted to $105,416.38," Shoulders said. "In addition to that revenue loss, many illegal mining operations aren't paying payroll taxes or social security on their employees. With all of these factors considered, illegal mining takes quite a bit out of the general state and federal treasuries."

Shoulders said that interest in the illegal mining operation findings has been expressed by both the Kentucky Department of Revenue and the federal Internal Revenue Service. "There's a ripple effect in this which may save taxpayers money on several fronts," he said.

Equipment found at raided sites included a bulldozer reported stolen in another state. "That was an unexpected bonus of our investigation," said assistant chief John Nagle.

Of the 36 pieces of equipment seized by special investigators, some has been released by local judges while other pieces are being maintained by the state, pending trial of the miners, Nagle said.

Investigative unit members have found that over the past year citizens in the coal-producing regions have increasingly supported the crackdown on illegal mining, Nagle said.

"They have become aware of our aims and of our work. Along with information from field inspectors of the Department for Surface Mining, much of our information is now coming from citizens who are concerned about the destruction and uncontrolled damage to their environment," he explained.

The Natural Resources Cabinet has had a special investigative unit since 1978. Legislation passed by the 1982 Kentucky General Assembly gave the unit additional enforcement powers. Under the year-old law, illegal mining is a Class D felony with penalties of one to five years in prison and fines of up to $10,000, in addition to seizure of equipment.

Soil Erosion is Topic Of 1983 Essay Contest

"Soil Erosion in my Community" will be the subject of the 1983 Conservation Essay Contest and the 1983 Jim Claypool Conservation Poster Contest sponsored by The Courier-Journal and The Louisville Times.

The annual competitions, open to all Kentucky elementary and high school students, may be the largest conservation-oriented contests for school children in the United States. In 1982 more than 41,000 essays were written on "Water Conservation in my Community." More than 51,000 posters were made on the subject.

This will be the 11th year for the poster contest, which is open to students in grades one through six. In it, students are asked to make original posters with the subject of the competition as the theme of the posters. Awards of $175 in U.S. Savings Bonds will be awarded to three state winners by the two Louisville daily newspapers. Winners in 121 Conservation Districts will receive plaques.

In the essay contest, students in grades seven through twelve are asked to write essays of no more than 1,000 words. The top award winners—121 district winners and three state winners—will receive $6,850 in savings bonds from the Louisville newspapers.

Co-sponsors of the contests, along with The Courier-Journal and The Louisville Times, are the Kentucky Association of Conservation Districts and the Kentucky Department of Education. The 1983 competition will begin in September. Detailed information and reference material for the two contests will be sent to principals of all schools in Kentucky at that time.

... about your Social Security

For Medicare Payments...

Itemized Bill Is Required

Many people in the Big Sandy Area face a longer than necessary wait to receive payment under the Medicare medical insurance program because they fail to submit an itemized bill with their request for payment form, Jim Kelly, Social Security District Director for the Big Sandy Area, said recently.

Medical insurance is that part of Medicare that helps pay for doctor bills, outpatient hospital bills, and other items and services not covered by Medicare hospital insurance.

To receive payment under medical insurance, a person generally must submit a request for payment form. The doctor or other supplier completes part of the form or provides an itemized bill to send with the form.

The problem arises, Kelly said, when the bill does not provide a detailed description of the services provided and therefore, a decision cannot be made as to whether they are covered. As a result, the patient must be contacted for more information and payment is delayed.

To prevent this delay, the person should be sure that each bill shows:

- *A description of each service provided;
- *The date the service was provided;
- *The place the service was provided;
- *The charge for each service provided;
- *The doctor or supplier who provided the service; and
- *The person's name and health insurance number, exactly as they are shown on the Medicare card.

It is helpful if the diagnosis is also shown, Kelly said.

More information about claiming Medicare benefits can be found in the Medicare handbook. The people at the Big Sandy Area Social Security office will be glad to answer questions about Medicare. The office is located on U.S. 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville and the telephone number is listed in your local telephone directory.

Tomatoes, Too, Experience Stress

If you're one of those dedicated gardeners who want to grow the perfect tomato, you've probably been thwarted by cracked, funny-shaped, hard-core fruits that show up in the garden from time to time.

You've ruled out insects and diseases as possible causes—so what's left? Chances are, your less-than-perfect plants and fruit fall prey to physiological problems that can be traced back to environmental stresses.

That's according to Dr. Jean English, Extension horticulture specialist in the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, who is headquartered at the UK Robinson Substation at Quicksand.

Here are some common stress-related problems, as well as suggestions from Dr. English on what you can do to reduce them.

FALLING BLOSSOMS

Home gardeners often have a common question: why are the blossoms falling off my tomato plants?

Blossoms usually drop from plants because flowers are not produced or because they are not pollinated or fertilized.

Pollen production and fertilization are optimal when night temperatures are between 59° and 68°F, and when day temperatures are below 90°. When night temperatures are below 59°, the flowers produce less pollen, and the pollen that is produced may not be viable.

When temperatures are high, pollination and fertilization may be inhibited, especially if humidity or moisture is low. Cool springs or hot summers can reduce tomato fruit set, unless the varieties you planted can tolerate temperature extremes.

Besides moderate temperatures, moisture and nitrogen must be adequate for flower and fruit production. Inadequate moisture or nitrogen may hinder growth, and excesses may cause blossoms to drop.

Too little or too much light also can affect flower production. Although it's a rare problem, gardens located very close to street lights or other night lights may receive continuous light and produce fewer flowers. Inadequate light (less than six hours) also will inhibit flowering.

A previous heavy fruit set also can cause subsequent flowers to drop. If the first three clusters of flowers set heavily, you may find that flowers on the fourth cluster tend to drop.

To minimize these problems, provide the most suitable environment possible. Select healthy transplants and grow them in fertile soil. Protect your plants from the cool weather with hot caps or plastic mulch, and moderate the amount of moisture available by mulching.

OUT OF SHARE

In any batch of early tomatoes, you are bound to find some misshapen fruits. Some tomatoes sport zipper streaks, deep puckered scars ("catfacing"), bulges, abnormal points, or hollow insides.

This misshaping is the result of excessively cool, cloudy or humid weather while the fruit was forming.

Under those conditions, the petals of the tomato flower often fail to drop from the developing fruit. Instead, they stick to the skin of the small fruit. As the fruit expands, the flower physically slows skin growth, and pieces of the flower may stretch along the fruit surface, resulting in a zipper appearance. In severe cases, tissues on either side of the zipper bulge.

Pointed or puffy fruits may occur when low temperatures reduce the growth of pollen tubes down toward the ovary (the tomato-to-be). If some pollen tubes do not reach the ovary fast enough, the ovary may be only partially fertilized. Partial fertilization results in uneven hormone production, and uneven hormone production results in misshapen fruits.

The cure? Select varieties that are resistant to catfacing or low temperature stress. Often these are the same varieties that resist high temperatures. Plant protectors, such as hot caps or row covers, can reduce cool weather problems as well.

CRACKED FRUIT

Growth cracks occur when the tomato's skin expands more slowly than the rest of the fruit. Excess water, alternating dry and wet conditions, or temperatures above 90°F can take the blame.

Not only do growth cracks detract from the fruit's appearance, they often provide an opening for disease organisms.

Cracks may extend radially from the stem end down toward the fruit's center, or they may be concentric, travelling around the upper portion of the fruit. Radial cracks are especially prone to disease problems, such as Alternaria rot. Concentric cracks usually are shallower and frequently are healed by corky tissue.

To reduce cracking, try to provide uniform moisture to the plants. Plant in well-drained soil, irrigate when the soil is dry or mulch to reduce evaporation of soil water.

Also, fruits exposed to direct sun crack more than those protected by foliage. If you prune your plants, leave enough foliage to shade the fruit. Some varieties are more resistant to cracking than others. These include Campbell 1327, Jetstar, Springset and Ramapo.

When weather conditions suggest that cracking may become a problem, or if you see a few cracked fruit, pick them as soon as possible. Tomatoes crack more as they ripen on the vine.

A FEW MINOR PROBLEMS

Relax! Many tomato problems are not serious at all; they do not affect the plant's growth or its health.

These problems, said Dr. English, should be no cause for alarm.

—Leaf roll: Some viruses do produce a leaf roll, but this can be a varietal trait that occurs naturally. Excess or inadequate soil moisture and severe pruning also can produce a roll. Mulches will help you moderate soil moisture.

—Sunscaud: This is a yellowish-white area that appears on the side of the fruit facing the sun. A blister, followed by a grayish, papery patch, occurs later. Plants with good foliage cover, such as cage-grown plants, suffer less from sunscald than more exposed plants. Also, some varieties are sunscald resistant.

—Poor coloring: High temperatures can interfere with the normal coloring process of tomatoes.

—Hard cores: This is an inherited characteristic. Grow different varieties to solve the problem.

—Fruits do not taste as sweet as usual: High night temperatures may be responsible for this problem. On hot nights, plants respire actively; sugars that would otherwise move into fruits are diverted to fuel the metabolism of the green plant.

A bright new note for parties is to present a hot dip, set in a chafing dish or on a hot-tray.

Road Surfacing Scheduled Here

The state Transportation Cabinet will resurface 7.7 miles of roads in Floyd county this summer.

The cabinet will resurface six miles of U.S. 23, from the Prestonsburg Community College to the Johnson county line.

The cabinet will also resurface 1.7 miles of KY 3, from KY 1428 to May Lodge Road. The projects are part of the state's 1983 resurfacing program for Floyd county.

In addition, the cabinet will surface the road to the Betsy Layne High School off U.S. 23.

Bids for the projects will be accepted July 22.

Put your mind at ease, automatically.

As the shadows deepen at the end of the day, those dark places in your yard seem to creep closer and closer to the house. Pretty soon you can't see anything at all.

Unless you have an outside Security Light from your electric company.

You can light those dark places and see up to 200 feet away with a Security Light. It illuminates an area of about 11,000 square feet, almost a quarter of an acre, putting the darkness back where it belongs.

The Security Light automatically switches itself on at dusk, giving you protection all night long until dawn when it turns itself off. All the electricity necessary for operation and any maintenance, including replacing burned out bulbs, is covered in just one low monthly charge.

Chicago Roundup Nets Geese foe Kentucky

If you encounter any Canada geese in Ohio or Muhlenberg counties, listen closely and you'll probably hear them honking with a Chicago accent.

Up until a couple of weeks ago, these geese were big-city birds, entertaining themselves by strolling through posh suburban back yards and playing "chicken" with landing aircraft at O'Hare International Airport.

But local residents (not to mention airport officials) thought these geese would be happier and more appreciated somewhere else, so Illinois wildlife officials organized a goose "roundup" to capture and relocate the birds.

Two wildlife biologists with the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources participated in this great goose chase, which netted around 700 birds. The biologists—Randy Hedges, Owensboro, and Vernon Anderson, Murray, along with Jeff Krause of Peabody Coal Company, returned to Kentucky with 215 geese, which were released on Peabody property after having their wings clipped to prevent them from flying back to Chicago.

Hedges hopes these geese will form the nucleus of a resident flock of geese in the area. Portions of Muhlenberg, Ohio and Butler counties will be closed to goose hunting for several years to give these birds and their offspring a chance to get established.

These particular geese belong to a non-migratory subspecies, so their young should imprint on the area where they were hatched and consider it home. The subspecies is commonly referred to as giant Canada geese and the adults can weigh over 20 pounds.

If the results of this experimental program turn out as expected, a six- to eight-county area should eventually have huntable goose populations, Hedges says.

The biggest potential problem Hedges foresees is not a biological one, but rather a people problem. "If folks will support this project and leave the geese alone, we should be able to develop some good goose hunting in an area that has had little opportunity for this sport in the past," he says.

Hedges also wants to remind all potential goose harassers and poachers that these birds, like all waterfowl, are protected by both state and federal laws. Any violations will most likely be prosecuted in federal rather than state courts.

It was possible to capture the geese comparatively easily because they were in the middle of their annual molt, when they shed their feathers and become temporarily incapable of flight. The biologists used a helicopter to herd the geese into a general area, then "walked" them into large capture nets.

"Needless to say, the geese didn't like it," Hedges comments. "They scratched us all pretty badly, and they can strike like a snake at anything that moves." Anyone who's ever been flogged or chased by a barnyard goose can appreciate what it was like trying to corral and capture 700 of these big birds.

But if the geese settle down and start raising families in the nest platforms the Peabody Coal Company is providing, Hedges feels that the effort involved in rounding up the geese and bringing them to Kentucky will be worth it.

★ Cancer Hopeline

Q. My dentist just checked me for oral cancer. He told me he's doing it with all his patients now. The test is quick and it doesn't hurt, but I'm curious. Are all dentists doing this? Also, who gets oral cancer anyway?

A. Many dentists examine their patients for oral cancer, especially those who smoke. While anyone can get cancer of the mouth, users of any kind of tobacco, heavy drinkers, those who do not practice good oral hygiene, those whose lips and skin are excessively exposed to sunlight, those who chronically irritate their mouths with hot foods or drinks, and those who have sharp or rough teeth are most at risk.

The American Cancer Society estimates that there will be 27,100 new cases of mouth cancer in the United States in 1983. While this disease is not a leading type of cancer, it can affect any part of the oral cavity, from lip to tongue to mouth and throat. Oral cancer occurs almost twice as frequently among men than women, and it is most frequent in men over 40.

The warning signs are a sore that bleeds easily and does not heal, a reddish or whitish patch that persists, a lump or thickening, and difficulty in chewing, swallowing, or moving the tongue or jaws. Any of these symptoms should be reported to a physician or dentist.

Oral cancer screening is just one more good reason for having regular dental checkups. In that way, any abnormality can be detected, and if it is cancerous, treatment can begin at an early and curable stage.

For more information about oral cancer, see your dentist, and call the Cancer Hopeline at 1-800-4-CANCER from 9-5 weekdays. Ask for a free copy of "What You Need to Know About Cancer of the Mouth." You may also write to the Hopeline at 915 South Limestone Street, Lexington, Ky. 40536.

Three out of five women maintaining families were in the labor force in 1982; these women had, on average, completed fewer years of school than had wives and were concentrated in lower-skilled, lower-paying jobs, according to "Women at Work: A Chartbook," published by the U.S. Labor Department.

Good News Report

By THOMAS W. PAUKEN
Director, ACTION

This is a story of father and son—Ruperto and Jesse Garcia.

When Jesse was four years old in 1920, his father moved the family from Laredo, Texas, to Fort Worth. There he bought a neighborhood grocery store in Tarrant County, and, right from the start, Jesse accompanied his father on all his business rounds. By the time he was 10, and manning the cash register after school, he knew all there was to know about running a grocery store and a great deal about human nature.

There was in the Garcia family—which was to number 10 children—a sense of giving as a way of life, and, during the depression years, Ruperto supplied food to the hungry at his own expense. Often he would collect money for the destitute or for the family of someone who had died. No one in the area forgot the generosity and aid offered by the Garcias, but as Ruperto was known to say: "When you give, you never lose what you give away; it comes back to you in a hundred ways."

As for Jesse, it seemed he spent most of his free time helping at the Community House. Then, all at once, his responsibilities became far greater. He was 19 when Ruperto died and, as the eldest son, he assumed the leadership of the household for his four brothers and five sisters. He supported them and insisted they all finish high school. Often they referred to him as their second father, but the presence of Ruperto was always close, like when the store was sold and they found a great stack of unpaid bills because the customers were too poor to pay.

In 1939, Jesse married his childhood sweetheart, Mercedes. Both worked, he with the Swift Company and she with the Federal Aeronautics Administration. They organized clubs for the neighborhood children who would come to their home for fun and games. Later, Mercedes was one of five Tarrant County recipients to receive a grant with which she earned her Master's degree at Texas Christian University. Since then she has taught Spanish and English at Tarrant County Junior College.

Jesse's schooling had had to take a back seat while he worked to support the family, but in 1976, following major hip surgery for arthritis, he went back to school at Tarrant County Junior College. He not only took a half dozen courses, but also became the volunteer coordinator for the "Senior Educational Experience." In November, 1980, Jesse was asked by ACTION's Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) Director, Pat Mohler, to join the Campaneros (Buddies) Task Force that she had established several years earlier with Spanish speaking volunteers at the Peter Smith Hospital. Jesse became coordinator of 40 volunteers. Today they number 100, primarily home-bound Hispanics in their 70s and 80s. Most of them do not speak English. They sew and grow plants for the hospitals, assemble pins for United Way and work with a self-help group—Organization of United Hispanic Volunteers.

The major reason for the on-going success of this program is Jesse who maintains that his acceptance comes from having been Ruperto Garcia's boy. With the oldsters the saying goes, "If he's Ruperto's boy, he's okay in my book."

The fact is that Jesse is A-okay in everyone's book—like father, like son.

FLOYD COUNTY HEALTH NEWS

By JANE BOND
Health Educator

Cervical cancer kills approximately 11,000 women in the United States each year; yet this type of cancer is one of the most curable of all cancers if it is detected and treatment begun in the early stages. Several of these 11,000 deaths could be prevented if the disease had been detected in its earliest stages. The Pap test is a simple painless way to be checked for cervical cancer, and women are urged to have regular Pap tests; those women age 45 and over are especially urged to have yearly Pap tests, since this is the high risk age for cervical cancer.

The Health Department is having a Pap clinic on Friday, July 22, from 8:30 a.m. till 2 p.m.

A nurse from the Health Department will be in Wheelwright Monday from 10 until 2 at the Wheelwright Library. She will offer T.B. skin tests, urinalyses, anemia screening, blood pressures, and immunizations.

There will be a glaucoma clinic at the Health Department on Wednesday, July 27. This clinic is open to persons of all ages, but those people age 45 and over are especially urged to take advantage of this free service, since this is the high risk age for the disease.

Children entering school in Kentucky for the first time must be adequately immunized against the childhood diseases, diphtheria, pertussis (whooping cough), tetanus, polio, and measles. They must also show proof of having had a T.B. skin test. These immunizations are available, free of charge, at the Floyd County Health Department. There is a $3 charge for a T.B. skin test. The immunizations are given Monday, Wednesday, and Friday.

When Harvard College was founded in 1636 it was surrounded by a tall stockade to keep out prowling wolves.

A Nation At Risk

"A Nation at Risk," the report of the President's National Commission on Excellence in Education, has focused considerable attention on the educational system. The following is a summary of the recommendations of the Commission:

CONTENT—that state and local high school graduation requirements be strengthened and that, at a minimum, all students seeking a diploma be required to lay the foundations in the Five New Basics by taking the following curriculum during their 4 years of high school: (a) 4 years of English; (b) 3 years of mathematics; (c) 3 years of science; (d) 3 years of social studies; and (e) one-half year of computer science. For the college-bound, 2 years of foreign language in high school are strongly recommended in addition to those taken earlier.

STANDARDS AND EXPECTATIONS—that schools, colleges, and universities adopt more rigorous and measurable standards, and higher expectations, for academic performance and student conduct, and that 4-year colleges and universities raise their requirements for admission. This will help students do their best educationally with challenging materials in an environment that supports learning and authentic accomplishment.

TIME—that significantly more time be devoted to learning the New Basics. This will require more effective use of the existing school day, a longer school day, or a lengthened school year.

TEACHING—Persons preparing to teach should be required to meet high educational standards, to demonstrate an aptitude for teaching, and to demonstrate competence in an academic discipline. Colleges and universities offering teacher preparation programs should be judged by how well their graduates meet these criteria.

Salaries for the teaching profession should be increased and should be professionally competitive, market-sensitive, and performance-based. Salary, promotion, tenure, and retention decisions should be tied to an effective evaluation system that includes peer review so that superior teachers can be rewarded, average ones encouraged, and poor ones either improved or terminated.

School Boards should adopt an 11-month contract for teachers. This would ensure time for curriculum and professional development, programs for students with special needs, and a more adequate level of teacher compensation.

School boards, administrators, and teachers should cooperate to develop career ladders for teachers that distinguish among the beginning instructor, the experienced teacher, and the master teacher.

Substantial nonschool personnel resources should be employed to help solve the immediate problem of the shortage of mathematics and science teachers. Qualified individuals including recent graduates with mathematics and science degrees, graduate students, and industrial and retired scientists could, with appropriate preparation, immediately begin teaching in these fields. A number of our leading science centers have the capacity to begin educating and retraining teachers immediately. Other areas of critical teacher need, such as English, must also be addressed.

Incentives, such as grants and loans, should be made available to attract outstanding students to the teaching profession, particularly in those areas of critical shortage.

Master teachers should be involved in designing teacher preparation programs and in supervising teachers during their probationary years.

LEADERSHIP AND FISCAL SUPPORT—that citizens across the nation hold educators and elected officials responsible for providing the leadership necessary to achieve these reforms, and that citizens provide the fiscal support and stability required to bring about the reforms.

Tinted Windows Banned In NY

If your car or truck has darkly tinted or reflectorized windows, don't plan to take it on a trip to New York.

In 1982, New York passed a law prohibiting use of the dark tint or reflectorized materials on vehicle windows. Kentucky motorists in New York whose cars or trucks have tinted glass are subject to a fine. The charges will be dismissed only after the tinting or reflectorized material is removed and the windows conform to New York state standards.

Persons with a sun-related disability can get an exemption to the law.

Country Music Benefit

There will be a country music benefit featuring "Rosewood" with Yvonne Jordan Rowe and Kathy Rodgers at the Johnson Central Fieldhouse Friday, July 22, at 8 p.m. Proceeds will help to establish at HOSPICE for the care of terminally ill patients and their families in this area. This benefit is being sponsored by HOSPICE of Big Sandy, Inc., a non-profit organization. All children 14 and under will be admitted free when accompanied by parent or guardian. Tickets are on sale at the following locations: Burchett & Bottoms, C.P.A., Cooley's Apothecary, Francis Stores, Herrin-Johnson Drug, Fountain Korner Drug, and Clyde Burchett Jewelers.

TELLING CHILDREN ABOUT DEATH

All children are faced with death sometime.

It might be a bug or a bird on the sidewalk, a family pet, or a loved person. In any case, it is important to help children understand about death and deal with the feelings of loss it brings, according to Growing Child, the monthly child development newsletter.

Most children want to talk about death. Parents should recognize this as healthy.

All too often parents tend to ignore, dismiss or fail to respond adequately to their children's questions regarding death. Inadequate or faulty answers may create emotional confusion and future problems. For example, if a child is told that God took away a loved one because that person was so precious, the child may wish to die himself. Or the child may feel unloved because God did not choose to take him. Here are some guidelines for telling children about death.

*Tell the truth by explaining at a level the child will understand. This allows children to cope with their feelings, fears, emotions.

*Answer a question with a question when you aren't quite sure what the child wants to know. For example, when you get a question like "What will happen to me if you die?" you can counter with, "What do you think will happen?" This permits children to amplify their concerns and express whatever anxieties are present.

*Use your knowledge of nature to talk about the cycle involving life and death. Gardening and animal care both offer opportunities to observe and discuss quite naturally the issues of growth, sickness, aging, accidents, death.

*Allow children to openly mourn the loss of a pet, and don't attempt to ease the loss by quickly replacing the pet. Such a gesture suggests that life is cheap and pets or people can be replaced easily and casually.

In the case of a child who loses a parent or grandparent, there are other guidelines:

*The remaining parent or close relatives must provide an atmosphere where it is permissible for the child to mourn openly. The suppression of feelings is not healthy.

*Do not exclude children from the funeral ceremony or visit to the cemetery. Because children are not well-informed about death, they are unable to accept the finality of their loss unless they have concrete experiences. However painful it is to the child and remaining parent, it is essential that the child realize that the dead parent is not going to return. Explaining beforehand what will happen at the funeral and cemetery will make the experience less frightening.

*Keep the memories of the dead parent alive with pictures and other mementos. They serve as a source of comfort to the child.

*Explain the cause of death to the child at the level he will understand. It is possible that children who are deprived of this information may believe that they were responsible, that when they were angry or naughty, they brought about the parent's death.

FDA Approval No Safety Guarantee

Most people do not realize what it means when a drug or a medical device is designated as "safe" by the US Food and Drug Administration (FDA). The FDA labels a drug as safe, based on data of the known risks of the drug and its benefits. Data used by the FDA is provided by the manufacturers of the drug. This data is not checked by the FDA unless there is reason to suspect that the information is inaccurate. Thus, the FDA does not guarantee the safety of any drug—not even those drugs which the FDA has officially approved as safe.

For this reason, it is important for you, as a consumer, to find out as much about a drug as possible. Don't hesitate to ask your doctor or pharmacist about:

—When to take the medicine. Some drugs should be taken on a full stomach, some on an empty stomach, some in the morning, some before bed.

—When not to take the medicine. Some drugs don't mix with alcohol or other drugs you may be taking.

What side affects the drug may cause. Medicines may cause a variety of reactions. Not all people will have the same side effects but everyone should be aware of what the possible side affects may be.

You owe it to yourself (and if pregnant, you owe it to your baby) to learn as much as possible about the drugs you take!

In conjunction with the Pike fiscal court and the state Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, the Chamber will remove unsightly junk vehicles from public and private property at no charge. Anyone interested in having a junk car removed from their property should contact the Chamber at 432-5504.

Nature Trails... By RUFUS REED

The Wood Thrush

The wood thrush is a leading member of that famous family of song birds, the Thrush Family. In this family we find the Gay-Checked Thrush, the Seoainson Thrush and the Hermit Thrush, which some regard as the greatest songster of the bird kingdom.

A brief description of the wood thrush brown back, polkadot breast, reddish crown, dark eyes, ring around eyes; size, about two-thirds that of a robin.

The nature and disposition of the wood thrush is directly opposite that of the hermit thrush. The wood thrush likes to sing and nest in trees near man's premises and often visits the yard. The hermit thrush is so shy, he hides from people and refuses to sing when people are around.

My partner in Nature Study, Bob, and I were once studying the wood thrush, which was walking about on the ground. Bob said, "that bird likes people. I'm going to talk to it and see how close it will come to us." So he began coaxing the thrush to come closer; it listened closely to Bob's voice and came within eight feet of where we were standing. Then Bob asked the thrush a question, which caused me to laugh and frighten it away. Bob asked, "Wood thrush, how's Bro. Castro doing down in Cuba?" (The wood thrush often goes to Cuba to spend the winter.)

The oldtimers greatly admired this thrush and they named it the way its song sounded to them. They called it "the chadeeling."

My father always listened for its first song about the 20th of April and when heard that song, he'd say! "Boys, I heard the chadeeling singing, this morning. It's time to plant our corn."

The wood thrush's song is clear, ringing and flutelike. This bird is the waker-up of Spring. You'll notice, about the middle of April, when everything is trying to burst out and grow, there often comes a sudden cold snap. Then the flowers droop their heads, birds get too cold to sing and spring goes into a lull. But it warms up in a few days, and here comes the wood thrush, back from Cuba!

That bird perches on the top of a high tree and sends his powerful waking up song far across hill and valley. The flowers, perk up their heads, the animals come out of their dens, and spring soon gets going full blast.

The first spring song of the wood thrush wakes up the spring and brings it to new life.

I must say a few words about its renowned cousin the hermit thrush, which is perhaps the best songster ever heard. John Burroughs, the naturalist, was determined to hear the song of the hermit thrush so he stalked it one whole day as it flew about. As dusk drew on, the hermit thrush began to sing. It was near the top of a high mountain and Burroughs later wrote: "The song of the hermit thrush was like a choir of angels coming down from heaven to sing on the mountains."

College and Cancer Network To Lead Area Hospice Program

Prestonsburg Community College and the Ephraim McDowell Cancer Network will soon begin the first Hospice Program in Eastern Kentucky.

The program will be piloted in Floyd and Johnson counties this fall and extended to the rest of the Big Sandy region later. Volunteers are needed to help with the hospice.

Volunteer training will begin August 30 and will include six sessions on topics such as the hospice concept, the team approach, perceptions of death, communications and counseling, family dynamics, ethical and legal issues, and grief and bereavement. Free training will be offered from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. each Tuesday evening, August 30-October 4.

The session on pain management will be held Sept. 27. The speaker will be Dr. Rigor, of Louisville, who has worked closely with the Anderson Cancer Center.

(For more information call Continuing Education at 886-3863.)

Rabies and Wildlife

Mention rabies and most folks immediately think of a "mad" dog. Although dogs are most closely associated with this dread disease, almost any animal can contract rabies and transmit it to man.

There's a "reservoir" of rabies among wildlife populations, which sometimes reaches epidemic proportions, particularly during the summer months.

Because of this constant threat of rabies among wild animals, it's important that any pets which might have contact with wildlife be vaccinated and that children be instructed to leave wild animals strictly alone.

A rabid animal often does not exhibit the fear of humans that is normal with most wild creatures and will often allow itself to be picked up. In some cases, children (or even adults) have taken rabid animals home, thinking they are lost pets.

Television programs which depict wild animals as cuddly, friendly creatures don't help the situation any, since they can foster false ideas about wildlife in children's minds.

Skunks are responsible for most outbreaks of rabies in the wild, according to wildlife biologists with the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. Foxes are probably the second most serious threat. As populations of these two species increase, so do the chances of rabies outbreaks.

Skunks can apparently carry and transmit the rabies virus for six months or longer without showing any symptoms of the disease. This means that even a "deodorized" skunk obtained from a legal source after a quarantine period could still suddenly contract rabies. To compound this problem, immunization of skunks isn't very effective. All in all, the risk of rabies would seem to outweigh any advantages of skunks as pets.

Any animal which is acting sick or suspicious should be reported immediately to the proper authorities—either the county health department, the sheriff's office or a fish and wildlife conservation officer.

And remember that a rabid animal doesn't necessarily have to bite you to give you the disease, since the rabies virus can enter your body through any open wound. Since the virus is carried in the infected animal's saliva, a bite is the most common means of transmittal.

Anyone bitten by a suspected rabid animal (or any animal, for that matter) or even coming in close contact with one should see a physician immediately. If at all possible, try to capture or kill any

The first balloon flight occurred in 1782, when Jacques and Joseph Montgolfier of Annonay, France, sent up a small smoke filled balloon.

NOTICE AS TO INTENDED PASSAGE AND SUMMARY OF ORDINANCE

Notice is hereby given that the Fiscal Court of Floyd County, Kentucky, at a meeting to be held at 10:00 A.M., local time, on Aug. 2, 1983, at the regular meeting place of the Fiscal Court at the Courthouse in Prestonsburg, Kentucky will give second reading to and consider for passage and enactment (following first reading on an earlier date) an Ordinance relating to the approval by the County of the execution of an (Inter-Local) Cooperation Agreement between said County and approximately 22 other Counties (the number of which Counties may be supplemented or reduced), providing for the joint issuance by said Counties of Bonds entitled "Combined Counties of Kentucky Residential Mortgage Revenue Bonds", in 1983; designating the County of Clark, Kentucky, as the "Authorized County" to act on behalf of this County, together with all other Counties constituting the "Combined Counties of Kentucky" in the issuance of said Bonds; and authorizing and approving the plan of financing whereby such "Authorized County" will; will, pursuant to said Inter-Local Cooperation Act, authorize, advertise for sale, accept the successful bid, issue, sell, and deliver such Bonds, provided the interest rate, price, and certain other provisions comply with the parameters specified in said Inter-Local Cooperation Agreement.

Said Ordinance specifically approves the proposed Cooperation Agreement among all of the Counties, approves the establishment of a Single Family Mortgage Purchase Program, ordained in said Ordinance, and declares that such Program is reasonably necessary to carry out a proper governmental function, viz., the facilitation of the construction and purchase of new housing and the purchase of existing housing, through the issuance of the proposed revenue bonds to finance residential mortgage loans. Said Ordinance and the Cooperation Agreement approved therein sets out provisions whereby Floyd County, Johnson County, and Pike County will have the deferred right to participate in the financing of residential mortgages through the application of funds derived from the proceeds of such Bonds. A copy of the Cooperation Agreement is attached to said Ordinance.

The full text of the Ordinance (and the aforementioned Cooperation Agreement, together with certain related exhibits) is and will be on file from and after the date of publication of this Notice in the Office of the undersigned Clerk, in said County Courthouse where same is and will be available for public inspection.

Court Officials Are Flushed Out

A sewer line blockage caused evacuation of the county courthouse Friday. A courthouse maintenance worker said the blockage originated in the top-floor jailhouse, where an inmate or inmates were believed to have flushed articles of clothing and bed ticking down a commode. The resulting overflow caused sewage to leak into the offices of the circuit judge and circuit court clerk.

The Republican Women of Floyd county met at the home of the president, Mrs. Duna Combs, at Maytown last Thursday evening. Mrs. Mary Richmond, of Paintsville, who serves as governor of the seventh district, announced that the district Republican Woman's Club meeting will be held at Greenbo Lake State Resort Park, Greenup, July 23, beginning at 9:30 a.m. Mrs. Richmond added that a Republican family picnic will be held at Perryville, August 13; a board meeting will be conducted by the Kentucky Federation of Republican Women at the Highland House in Paintsville, Sept. 10, with Jim Bunning, Republican candidate for governor, and members of the entire Republican ticket scheduled to be present, and that on October 5-6 the National Republican Woman's Club will convene at the Galt House in Louisville. On the opening day of this Convention, the Republican women of the 7th District will be in charge of hospitality. Mrs. Richmond urged all members to attend these events. Those who may wish to go to the national convention in Louisville are asked to call 789-3797 during the daytime, or 886-1562 after that time.

The selection of officers for the forthcoming club year was held, with the following being installed:

P.R. Wins Honors For HRMC

The Highlands Regional Medical Center public relations department was three for three in awards this year given by the Kentucky Society of Hospital Public Relations. It was also the third year in a row the department has won awards, which are presented at the society's annual banquet.

Amy Conn, public information officer, accepted the awards on behalf of the P.R. Department which includes Russell Dean, assistant administrator, and Diana Crum, administrative secretary.

Radio commercials featuring some members of the hospital family and patients were chosen for first place honors as the best radio spots produced by a Kentucky hospital with 200 beds or less. They were run on local radio stations during November.

A second place plaque was presented for "Celebration," the groundbreaking and 10th anniversary P.R. project during November and December. This involved first aid cards, a newspaper supplement and other activities.

Vital Signs, the hospital's newsletter, was judged the third best hospital newsletter in Kentucky. It has won awards for the last two years.

Sixth Century Celtic Design Part of the Art of Quilting

The women sit with their heads bent over the table, their hands busy with the needle and thread as they patiently sew together the tiny pieces of fabric.

The scene is a beginning patchwork class, part of the Kentucky Heritage Quilt Society (KHQS) Symposium held during the recent Appalachian Celebration at Morehead State University.

The symposium was a mixture of the past and present, while young women learning to make patterns their grandmothers had made and veteran quiltmakers learning the newest techniques.

One of the workshops taught was Celtic design, a technique that dates back to the sixth century.

"Celtic designing flourished as Christianity spread in Ireland and England," explains Starr Kaiser of Louisville, who taught the workshop. "It was used to decorate the gospel books."

To make a Celtic quilt, thin strips of print fabric are folded and hemmed, then applied in a geometric pattern on a square of solid color fabric. Only 12 squares are needed to make a full-size quilt, so it does not take long to complete the top.

Although Celtic design is centuries old, it is new to today's quilters. Dalphene Parks of Fredericksburg, Va., began quilting as a little girl but had not done Celtic work before taking the workshop.

"Patchwork is my first love," Parks says, "But I wanted to learn something new while I was here."

Parks has more than two dozen completed quilts and four in various stages of completion, all traditional patchwork. "Quilting is a way for me to relax," she says. "I can come home from a day of teaching drivers' education and be mad at the world, then go to my sewing room and calm right down."

Lisa Scarborough of Georgetown, incoming president of KHQS, taught a workshop in stained glass applique, a technique used for making quilted window hangings.

To do stained glass quilting, a design is cut out and placed on a piece of white fabric, then black bias tape is sewn around the edges of the design.

"When the piece is framed and hung in a window, the sun shines through the pattern and creates the same effect that you get with stained glass," explains Scarborough.

To Scarborough, quilting is more than a way to make covers for beds.

"It's a way for women to express themselves, whether they have little or unlimited artistic talent," she says. "I used to paint, but I was always frustrated because it never came out like I pictured it. But quilting is so satisfying because it always looks just like I want it to."

Quilting six hours each day, Scarborough does original applique designs. One of her quilts, "Oxford, England," was featured in the Kentucky Quilt Calendar. It was inspired by the medieval castle look of Oxford College, where she spent six months with her husband.

"This quilt is my interpretation of my experience there," she says. "It is a good example of how the ancient art of quilting is being used in new ways."

LOWE'S

Low Prices Are Just The Beginning

It May Be Cheaper To Build Than To Buy

Lowe's Complete Material Packages (NOT Pre-Fabs) Can Save You Money

Here's How

Our Convenient Package System Takes The Hassle Out Of Home Building!

1 Under our program, you furnish the land, labor and foundation. We supply everything else. The lumber, Roofing, Siding, Doors & Windows, Plumbing, Wiring, Light Fixtures, Carpeting, Paint. All for one low price. And you can choose paint colors, wallpaper patterns and other interior finishings.

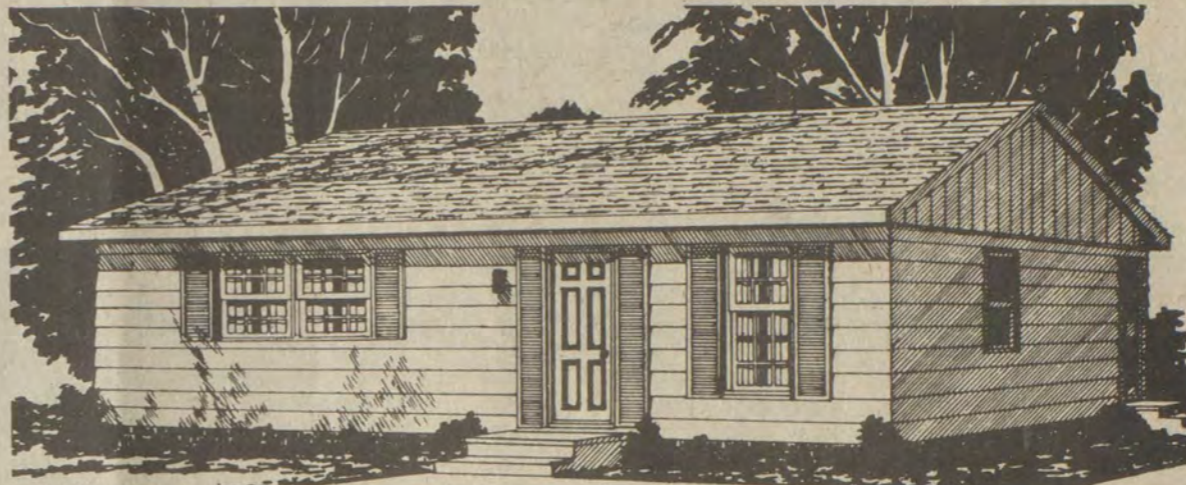

2 Our price is guaranteed for 90 days. And in today's fluctuating commodities market, that feature alone could save you money. 90 days is usually plenty of time for most homes to be constructed. So once you've picked out your paint, flooring, light fixtures, etc., the price is "locked in."

3 During actual construction, we deliver materials to the site as they are needed—not all at once or in unrelated shipments. This will save construction (and labor) time, and reduces the chance of weather damage & pilferage. Everything is coordinated as much as possible, so worries are as small as possible.

4 Our homes are Energy Efficient. They have fiberglass insulation in the floors, walls and ceilings. Plus features like insulated doors & windows and an attic ventilation system. (Even more efficient home designs are also available.) Your new home will continue to save money long after it's been built.

5 We have a trained specialist to guide you through the entire homebuilding process. He'll help you choose the right floor plan for your needs. He'll suggest lenders & reputable builders, and oversee the materials portion of your home's construction from start to finish. In other words, he'll be on your side.

Perkins Keynotes Open House

Congressman Perkins is presented John Paul Francis art print by Singer Corp. official Gene Baker.
The Prestonsburg Job Corps Center recently celebrated an open house to help salute National Job Corps Month and Congressman Carl D. Perkins delivered the keynote address to the nearly 100 assembled guests.
Perkins, a longtime friend of Job Corps, expressed his appreciation of the center's accomplishments and pledged his continued support of Job Corps and particularly the Prestonsburg center.
Congressman Perkins, who also cited the center's performance here and contributions to Prestonsburg and Floyd county, was joined by State Senator Benny Ray Bailey, Prestonsburg City Attorney Paul Burchett, Hubert Halbert, representing U.S. Senator Dee Huddleston, and other friends of the center.
The center here, now in its third year of operation, joined with 107 other centers nationwide to help emphasize the various accomplishments of Job Corps—primarily the fact that nearly 44,000 Job Corps students continue to achieve and find employment where there was no such opportunity before Job Corps.
Gene Baker, executive director of Singer Career Systems, Southeast Region, of Atlanta, Ga., presented Congressman Perkins with a print, "My Mother's Roses" by John Paul Francis, electronics instructor at the Prestonsburg center.

Jenny Wiley Theatre Expects 250,000th at Tonight's Show

A milestone in the cultural and entertainment history of Eastern Kentucky will be tonight (Wednesday) as the 250,000th person attends a production at the Jenny Wiley Theatre.
"After 19 years of continuous production, it is a great step for the theatre," said William G. Francis, president of the board of trustees of the Jenny Wiley Drama Association.
Prior to the performance, a special presentation of a lifetime pass to the theatre for the 250,000th playgoer and his or her immediate family will be made. In addition, a prize package of gift certificates provided by Cox's of Prestonsburg, the Francis Stores, B F Casual Shop, Castle's Jewelry, Clyde B. Burchett, Jeweler and Watchmaker, the Peggy Lou Shop of Prestonsburg; and Allen's Florist will be awarded to the lucky audience member.
"The arrival of our 250,000th patron completes the beginning of a new era at the theatre," said Managing Director John McCann. "It started with the completion of $61,000 worth of renovations to the theatre and the acquisition of the rights to ANNIE, and has continued with attendance setting a new record here, and is now complete with the 250,000th playgoer," he added.
THE ROBBER BRIDEGROOM, a fun-filled romp through a bluegrass tall tale, will be the Wednesday evening attraction. THE ROBBER BRIDEGROOM is the 51st play produced in 19 years by Eastern Kentucky's only professional repertory theatre. These 51 plays range from the 1940's show, ANYTHING GOES, to ANNIE and include such classics as SOUTH PACIFIC, THE SOUND OF MUSIC, HELLO DOLLY, OKLAHOMA!, FIDDLER ON THE ROOF, and this year's GREASE.
The current season runs each Wednesday through Sunday night until August 21 with all plays now in the repertory, including ANNIE, the award-winning family musical based on the Little Orphan Annie comic strip; GREASE, the smash about the fifties that is the longest-running play in the history of the Broadway stage; and THE ROBBER BRIDEGROOM, the bluegrass musical full of down-home fun. Parents may find some of the themes and language in THE ROBBER BRIDEGROOM offensive for younger children.
"Our calculations have narrowed down the arrival of the lucky 250,000th playgoer to July 27," said McCann. "Each member of the audience that evening has an equal chance of winning." For reservations and information about group and individual tickets, call (606) 886-9274.

Although the labor force participation rates for men continue to exceed those for women, the gap has narrowed considerably. Men were 2 1/2 times as likely as women to be in the labor force in 1950 but are only 1 1/2 times as likely today, according to "Women at Work: A Chart-book."

PCC In National Project

The American Association of Community and Junior Colleges has announced that Prestonsburg Community College has been selected to participate in a national demonstration project designed to strengthen the skills of volunteers serving as board members of nonprofit organizations.
PCC is one of 100 colleges across the United States that will participate.
The "Building Better Boards for Community Organizations" project, with financial assistance from the W.K. Kellogg Foundation, was initially piloted by seven community colleges serving as demonstration centers. The project's progress was guided by a national advisory committee headed by Mrs. Terrel Bell. A variety of board development services—including courses on such topics as fundraising and financial management, legal liabilities of boardsmanship, board/staff relations, board recruitment, and conducting effective meetings—were implemented and evaluated. Additional colleges were then recruited and selected to replicate the demonstration centers' services and to design additional programs to meet individual community needs.
As a participating college, PCC will convene a community advisory committee, conduct a board development needs assessment, and offer several programs for volunteer board members.
Robert McAninch has been designated as project coordinator for the "Building Better Boards" program at Prestonsburg Community College.

Amphitheatre Seating Permanent in Section

The Jenny Wiley Drama Association, with the help of 70 interested citizens, organizations and the Department of State Parks, has completed the work of permanent seating in the entire bottom section of the Jenny Wiley Amphitheatre. Names of donors will be affixed to each seat towards which they contributed.

Beginning as of this date, the Jenny Wiley Drama Association will make an attempt to secure donors for 104 seats at $50 per seat to add two more rows for the 1984 productions. The donations must be collected before spring so that the seats can be ordered, received and installed before the first production gets under way.

Interested people and organizations who want to continue to enhance the theatre by providing such permanent seating may make $50 contributions. These contributions should be made payable to the Jenny Wiley Drama Association and sent to Jenny Wiley Drama Association, P.O. Box 22, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653. Details concerning this seating can be obtained from Dr. Henry A. Campbell at Prestonsburg Community College, Mrs. Leah Hale at the Martin County Board of Education, or Miss Linda Williams at the Citizens Bank of Pikeville.

"Although we are attempting to secure only two rows or 104 seats, we would be delighted to add additional rows if enough people are interested in helping," John McCann, managing director, said.

Next summer's schedule is being discussed and may be announced before the end of this season.

Gift Will Aid Children's Clinic

The clinic uses computers to aid the mentally handicapped.

Power Demand Hits New Peak

Customers of Kentucky Power Company demanded more electricity during the one-hour period ending at 4 p.m. last Wednesday than during any other one-hour summer period in the company's history.

Robert E. Matthews, president of the company, said that the summer record was due mainly to the very hot and humid weather experienced throughout the company's 20-county eastern Kentucky service area. "And it came, despite the fact that some coal operations were still shut down due to miners' vacation and economic circumstances," he added. He also said that there is a some possibility that even higher peaks could be set later in the week.

The one-hour peak demand was 822,000 kilowatts, exceeding the previous high summer of 802,000 kilowatts on July 27, 1981 (the company's all-time peaks are set in the winter, with 984,000 kilowatts the all-time high).

Matthews said that the new peak is important for customers to know about because some groups have recently stated that the company's electrical load is not growing and the company has no need for additional generating facilities.

"I might point out that yesterday's peak is 7,000 kilowatts higher than what we had forecast as our summer peak for 1984, and 42,000 kilowatts above what we had forecast for this summer."

Auxier Club Wins Award

The Auxier Community Development Club received second place in the Village category at the North Eastern Kentucky Rural Community Development Association annual award banquet at Ashland, July 16.

Those from the club attending were: Howard and Eula Ferguson, Paul and Sue Wells, Delano and Nancy Goble, Harley and Wilma Sturgill, and Clara Harris.

The next meeting is scheduled for July 25 at 7 p.m. at the Auxier school lunchroom. Everyone is welcome.
